B52 Fleet Returns To Pound North Viets

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers returned to the air war over North Vietnam today for the first time in more than four years and hit targets around the big coastal city of Vinh, 145 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone. It was the deepest penetration of North Vietnam ever made by America's biggest warplanes.

Meanwhile, South Vietnam's commander on the northern front said his forces had crushed the spearhead of the 12-day-old Communist offensive across the DMZ and turned the tide of battle.

A senior U.S. officer in the northern front area said that as a result of the latest battles the enemy "has kind of shot his wad" in the north. He said the North Vietnamese probably only have 50-60 tanks left in Quang Tri Province. The South Vietnamese claim to have destroyed 100 tanks in the area since the offensive began.

But there was no letup in the enemy attack north of Saigon and the South Vietnamese command ordered another 20,000 troops into the battle for An Loc, 60 miles north of the Capital.

Official sources said the use of the eight-jet B52s over North Vietnam for the first time since Nov. 27, 1967, was a show of force by President Nixon.

The U.S. Command gave no details of the B52 operations, saying in a communique: "In response to the Communist invasion of South Vietnam through the demilitarized zone, U.S. air and naval operations continue south of, in and north of the DMZ. These operations include naval gunfire, tactical aircraft and B52s throughout the battlefield area."

The command said it now considers North Vietnam part of the battlefield area.

Other official sources said that because overcast skies for the third day curtailed raids by the smaller fighter-bombers over the North, the high-altitude B52s which fly above the weather and bomb by radar were sent to hit rear bases at Vinh and supply routes leading south along Highway 1 to the DMZ.

When the B52s last flew over North Vietnam in 1966-67, their deepest penetration was the Mu Gia pass region, on the western border about 70 miles above the DMZ.

Radio Hanoi reported that a "huge wave" of U.S. planes began attacking Vinh about 3 a.m. and claimed North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U.S. jet-fighter-bombers.

The U.S. Command announced only one plane loss, an F4 Phantom which it said was shot down while escorting other bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos. The command said the two crewmen were rescued with minor injuries.

Second Air Piracy Try Foiled

Copycat Hijacking Unsuccessful

By DAVID BRISCOE
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The FBI turned over to a U.S. magistrate today $499,970, a parachute and a pistol which it said was taken from the "premises" of a man charged with $500,000 extortion-parachute hijacking of a jetliner Friday night.

The Utah man is one of two persons held in separate hijack-extortion-parachute schemes occurring in the western United States two days apart. Arrests have been made in both cases.

A cardboard box containing the money, parachute and gun was turned over to Magistrate A. M. Ferro in Salt Lake City as evidence from search warrants. It was described as taken from "the premises of Richard Floyd McCoy Jr."

FBI agents spent most of Sunday searching in and around McCoy's Provo house, and were seen taking out a large cardboard box and two black suitcases. But the FBI had declined comment on whether the money was recovered.

McCoy, 29, a Vietnam veteran and amateur skydiver, was arrested at the house without incident early Sunday. He was charged with air piracy in the hijack of a United Air Lines jet Friday over Colorado.

In the second hijack attempt, a man identified as Stanley Harlan Speck, 31, of San Francisco, was captured less than an hour after a Pacific Southwest Airlines Boeing 727 was ordered by a would-be hijacker to set down at Lindbergh Field in San Diego, Calif. The hijacker made ransom and parachute demands similar to those used two days earlier in the case in which McCoy was charged.

Speck was nabbed by federal agents as he stepped off the plane, and authorities said he was unarmed. He was booked for investigation of air piracy and interfering with a flight crew.

Sunday's attempted hijacking was the eighth involving parachutes in just under five months. The only parachute-skyjacking in which there have been no arrests was one involving a man known as D.B. Cooper, still sought after bailing out over Eastern Washington with $200,000 he got from Northwest Airlines.

The Sunday night hijack attempt of the Pacific Southwest plane by a man who wanted to go to Miami began during a 500-mile flight from Oakland to San Diego. The plane had 92 persons aboard. The hijacker threatened to blow up the jet with a hand grenade, officials reported.

The FBI said that pilot Arthur Steck told the hijacker that he needed flight maps to go to Florida.

After landing Steck said he or the hijacker would have to leave the plane to get the charts. The 86 passengers, meanwhile, were allowed to deplane.

The hijacker stepped halfway down the ramp to get the maps and was seized by two FBI agents dressed as mechanics.

The aircraft was the same model as the United craft seized Friday night by a pistol-wielding man and diverted to San Francisco. There the passengers were released in exchange for $500,000 and two parachutes. Then he took off and bailed out over Utah.

The Boeing 727 is one of the few large passenger jets that can be safely bailed out of because of its rear exit.

In Salt Lake City, FBI agents were holding two suitcases and a large cardboard box in connection with the arrest of McCoy and Friday's hijacking. The contents were not disclosed.

The complaint against McCoy said the FBI was led to him by a highway patrolman, Robert Van Ieperen.

Ieperen knew McCoy, according to the complaint, and heard him talk about the possibility of hijacking an airplane.

Ground Broken For New Church Building Sunday

GROUNDBREAKING . . . at the site of the new Memorial Baptist Church took place Sunday morning. Taking part in the ceremonies were (L-R) Gene Prescott, finance committee chairman; Ott Alford, chairman of the Board of Deacons; Phil Carroll, building and planning committee chairman; and the Rev. Norman Bennett Jr., pastor. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Memorial Baptist Church, to be located on a ten-acre site just east of Dellwood Subdivision on the 264 Bypass, were held Sunday morning.

Services began at the present church on Greene Street and the pastor and congregation traveled by motorcade to the new site for the groundbreaking around 11:30 a.m.

Following brief services at the site of the new sanctuary and educational building, D. J. Whichard Jr., trustee, offered a brief outline of the history of the church and Ott Alford, chairman of the Board of Deacons, made remarks concerning the proposed building and the future of the church.

Participating in the groundbreaking were the Rev. C. Norman Bennett Jr., pastor; Phil Carroll, chairman of the building and planning committee; Alford; Gene Prescott, chairman of the finance committee; and Calton Cozart, Mrs. Ruth Garner, R. B. Lee, Herman Phelps and Whichard, trustees. Each turned a shovel of dirt at the proposed site.

Construction is expected to start immediately with completion scheduled within 14 months.

Byrnes Dies At Age 92

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — James F. Byrnes, who quit school at the age of 14 to help support his widowed mother and later became a Congressman, a U.S. Supreme Court justice, U.S. Secretary of State, and Governor of South Carolina, died Sunday in his Columbia home after a long illness.

He was 92.

Byrnes, who once said he had "been fortunate that it has fallen to my lot to serve my country ... for half a century," reportedly had been in a coma for the past few days.

His physician said, "The poor old man was 92 and he had been suffering from failing health for the past few years."

Byrnes' body will lie in state in the rotunda of the South Carolina Statehouse Tuesday and Wednesday. The funeral service will be held at the Trinity Episcopal Church in Columbia.

Byrnes, who often in his twilight years strolled the streets of the capitol city of Columbia with his hat cocked rakishly over one eye, remained to the en an opponent of court-ordered school desegregation saying, the U.S. Supreme Court "did not interpret the Constitution. The court amended it."

But it was Byrnes, who at 71 when most men would have looked with pleasure at retirement, ran for governor of South Carolina to push through a state ale tax to finance separate but equal schools for blacks and whites.

He won over three opponents, getting about 72 per cent of the vote, and instituted his tax and his school plan.

Clothing Stored Burned Out On Saturday Night

A midnight fire Saturday destroyed a downtown-Greenville clothing store and caused moderate smoke damage to other near-by business establishments.

Fire Department officials said extensive damage was done to the Shrunken Head at 121 East Fifth St. by a blaze reported at 11:50 p.m. They noted that the cause of the fire and its point of origin have not been determined.

A Greenville police officer, checking a parking lot about a block away, saw smoke coming from the rear of the building and reported the fire by radio from his patrol car. He said when he arrived at the front of the store, the glass windows blew out and fire shot from the building.

The store was completely engulfed in flames by the time fire-fighting units arrived from the city's central station three blocks away.

Firemen reported that moderate smoke damage was done to the Book Barn — a book store on Fifth Street adjacent to the Shrunken Head — and to the 420 Club at 420 Cotanche St. — a billiard parlor at the rear of the retail clothing store.

Some smoke also entered the former Leder Brothers department store — also adjacent to the Shrunken Head — but little damage was reported. Most of the merchandise in Leder Brothers' building had been removed following a "going out of business" sale.

Six Pitt Students Set For Governor's School

One student from North Pitt High School, one from D. H. Conley High School and four from Rose High School in Greenville have been named to attend the Governor's School of North Carolina this summer.

This year, girls almost made a clean sweep of the selections, with only one boy from among the six students.

From D. H. Conley High School, Dee Ann Braxton has been chosen. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Braxton of Route 1, Winterville, Dee Ann is a member of Pitt County Honor Society, the science club, glee club and plays second violin in the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra.

Phyllis Robin McKee, a student at North Pitt High School, is the daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. R. F. McKee. A member of Pitt County Honor Society, Phyllis is also a member of FHA, the French Club, and studies piano. She is a member of the United Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Rose High School students selected for Governor's School are:

Lyle Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Barlow. Voted best boy student academically in the ninth grade, Lyle has twice been a winner in an annual state wide essay contest, and is a member of the French, Math, Science, and Ecology Clubs. He is an editor of the school's literary magazine, and takes part in the math enrichment program at East Carolina University.

Sharon Hodge is a First Class Girl Scout, and a member of the French Club and Council for Christ. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James D. Hodge, she played in the 1972 All-State Band, Eastern District. In addition to music, Sharon works in art, crafts, and sewing.

Rebecca Jones, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ray L. Jones, is a Senior Girl Scout and a First Class Girl Scout. She is a member of Birodanjles Singing Group, was most outstanding girl student academically in the ninth grade, and is a member of the National Honor Society, the French Club and the Science-Ecology Club.

Elizabeth (Betty) Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft Moseley, was a Junior Varsity cheerleader, a member of the Annual Staff in the 9th and 10th grades, a member of the youth Fellowship at First Presbyterian Church and was a member of the French Club in the 10th grade. Betty is also a Girl Scout Cadette.

The Governor's School of North Carolina, which the six Pitt County high school students will be attending along with almost 400 other high school students from across North Carolina, is a seven week residential program.

Students will be attending the school on campus of Salem College in Winston-Salem.

Each students will be working

Grocery Store Entered, Robbed

Investigation of a week-end break-in at Walter Loftin's Grocery on Rt. 1, Ayden is continuing by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the incident, reported Sunday around 11:30 a.m., occurred sometime Saturday night and resulted in the theft of approximately $40 worth of groceries, beer, and other merchandise.

Sheriff Tyson said that no signs of forcible entry were found. Entrance was gained, he added, through the front door.

Power Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launch team fed electrical power to a Saturn 5 rocket today to start the lengthy countdown for Apollo 16, man's fifth expedition to the surface of the moon.

The countdown clock began ticking at 8:30 a.m. EST, aiming for a liftoff of the giant rocket at 12:54 p.m. Sunday.

The clock read 104 hours, 30 minutes as it started. It will be halted at several planned points for launch crew rest periods and catchup time for any item that might fall behind schedule.

Gubernatorial Candidates' Wives Visit Here During The Weekend

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Woman's Editor

The campaign trail in Greenville and Pitt County was covered during the weekend by three wives of candidates running for the office of governor of North Carolina.

Mrs. Jim Gardner and Mrs. Pat Tarylor were guests at this year's Charity Ball Friday night while Mrs. Hargove "Skipper" Bowles made appearances in the area Saturday. The Taylors also spent Saturday here.

Mrs. Bowles

As wife of Democratic candidate, Mrs. Bowles said, "My main job is helping and supporting Skipper in anyway possible.

"I find all phases of campaigning exciting and I have really enjoyed traveling in the state, meeting people and finding out more about the state."

"I have my own campaign schedule as does Skipper and our daughters. I think my role is telling people what kind of man Skipper is, substituting for him if necessary and learning facts about the state and reporting back to him what people's problems are in the various sections and what they are interested in so that hopefully later we will be able to help them.

"My traveling companion, Mrs. Bernard Hanula, adds to the enjoyment of campaigning," she stated.

The Bowles have four children, three of whom are married. "Hargrove and Jo Lynne and their daughters, Kelly, five, and Army, four, attend various rallies. Erskine and his wife, Crandall, are working in the Raleigh headquarters.

"Our daughter, Holly, is married to John Geil, who is a second year law student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where our other daughter, Martha, is a sophomore. John works in the campaign headquarters in his spare time as well as planning the campaign routes of Holly and Martha," she commented.

"Our daughters are traveling four days a week in a small compact bus. They have visited or will visit all 100 counties in the state and they wear large campaign buttons saying 'Please vote for my daddy'," Mrs. Bowles remarked.

"I think I am more of an Indian chief. I have headed and helped with many volunteer activites in Greensobro. I guess I could say my main interest statewide would be children. I am especially interested in the School for the Deaf at Morganton, Children's Home Society and helping retarded children in anyway possible," she concluded.

A native of Gastonia, Mrs. Bowles lived there and in Durham prior to her marriage and attended Converse and Sweetbriar Colleges. Now residing in Greensboro, she is a member of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Gardner

In discussing her feeling on campaigning, Mrs. Gardner, wife of the Republican office seekr, said, "I have enjoyed meeting people from across the state — I think some of our closest friends have been made through campaigning and this has meant the most to me.

"I leave the issues of the campaign up to Jim and will not be discussing the issues at all."

Mrs. Gardner's plans for the next few weeks will be spending three to four days per week attending coffee hours, teas, luncheons, receptions and rallies.

"At the various functions, I enjoy talking to people, but I leave the speech-making to Jim. Whenever we are away from home overnight, we keep in close touch with our children, Beth, 13, Terry, nine, and Chris, age six.

"The children are adjusted to the idea of daddy being on the campaign trail. Sundays are reserved as our family day at home. The children are now busy passing out bumber stickers at school," she added.

"Whenever possible I like to be with small groups of people because it gives me the opportunity to talk to them personally and to get to know them better as compared to larger groups," Mrs. Gardner noted.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are life long residents of Rocky Mount. She is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College, Raleigh, and received her degree in sociology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Gardner is active in the St. Andrews Episcopal Church and is immediate past president of the Churchwomen.

Of her hobbies, she said, "I enjoy painting when I have time and have done some needlework, but would like to do more. I also enjoy playing tennis.

"My time is filled — running my household, taking care of our children, which comes first, and campaigning."

Mrs. Taylor

Visiting different counties and towns "speaking to people," attending Democratic rallies, receptions, luncheons and teas on behalf of her husband's campaing are some of Mrs. Taylor's activities.

"The thing that interest me most in campaigning is getting to meet people in all sections of the state that we would not meet if we were not campaigning. The thing that bothers me the most is having just enough time for a handshake and saying hello and not being able to know the people personally," said Mrs. Taylor.

"I have my opinions on various issues, but his is Pat's campaign and I feel that he is the one to speak for himself," she added.

The Taylors are the parents of three children, Beth, 15, Hoyt, 12, and Lockhart, age nine. "The children are very interested in seeing their daddy elected — they understand we have to be away from home and that it is almost being gone full time. We do, however, try to spend Sundays as a family.

"The only thing about being away from home is leaving Beth, who has just gotten her learner's driving permit. She wants to drive, but cannot unless she is with her father or me. Mothers with 15-year-old daughters will certainly understand this.

Both Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Taylor are life long residents of Wadesboro and attend public school there. Mrs. Taylor attended Converse College, where she was a music major and graduated from Syracuse University with a degree in music.

In describing her hobbies, she remarked, "My children first of all and then golf, bridge, and pool. For years, I was organist and choir director at the First United Methodist Church, Wadesboro, where we are members.

Interested in various phases of the arts, Mrs. Taylor particularly admires the East Carolina School of Music and says "she would some day like to visit the school."

The Taylor household also includes a pet beagle — Snoopy — "who likes the whitest chair and sofest bed in the house."

Special Program Set For Tuesday

Feeding the infant will be the topic of discussion at the Agricultural Extension Office Tuesday, April 11, at 9:30 a.m. according to Mrs. Evelyn L. Spangler, associate home economics extension agent.

Mrs. Mary Ann Denny, nutritionist with the N.C. State Board of Health, will discuss basic nutrition of the infant and demonstrate home preparation of infant foods.

The Extension Office is located on the corner of Third and Greene Streets (beside Planters National Bank). Mothers of infants and future mothers are invited to attend this non-commerical, informational meeting.

Luncheon Set For Tuesday

The Welcome Wagon Club of Greenville will meet at the Woman's Club Tuesday for a luncheon and election of officers for the coming year.

Speaker for the program will be Robert Cramer of the geography department of East Carolina University. The topic of his lecture will be "Through N. C. with Slides."

The club is planning a "Spring Fling" dinner-dance on Friday, April 14, at the Candlewick Inn. Anyone interested in attending may contact Mrs. John Huber, 756-1269, for reservations.

What can a consumer do if not satisfied with the performance of a fabric? First, she should be certain the instructions for care and handling of the fabric have been followed. If she still is not satisfied, complaints should be directed to the manager of the store — not the sales person. The garment or fabric should be brought along for evidence.

Collier-Vignetti Vows Exchanged On Sunday

The chapel of St. James United Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Karen Larette Vignetti and William Henry Collier III on Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. Gerald Peterson.

Parents of the couple are Col. and Mrs. John L. Vignetti of Orlando, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Willian Henry Collier Jr. of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Francis Cain, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown styled in sheerganza and Venise lace featuring a demi-bell silhouette enhanced by bishop sleeves and a high neckline yoke of pin stripe sheer. The hemline flounce was made of the same stripe sheer and the chapel train was trimmed in Venise lace.

She wore a white horsehair braid garden hat banded and trimmed in Venise lace threaded with white satin robbon. A formal length white illusion streamer completed the hat. The bride carried a bouquet of white bridal roses trimmed with pink carnations and tied with white bridal satin.

Miss Lynn Vignetti of Cocoa Beach, Fla., was maid of honor. She wore a gown styled in powder pink sheerganza featuring an empire waistline and short puff sleeves trimmed with white Venise lace and a softly fathered flounce at the hemline. She wore a matching pink garden hat and carried a bouquet of white daisied trimmed with pink carnations.

William H. Collier Jr. of Greenville was best man.

After a wedding trip to New York City, the couple will reside in Greenville.

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY COLLIER III

The bride and bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University with business degrees. The bride is departmental secretary for the Scinece Education Department at East Carolina University.

The bridegroom is manager-buyer for Fashion Fabrics, Greenville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at 1607 Longwood Dr.

Looking Like His Mother Bothers Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Patty in Tacoma, the 25-year-old who looks like a teen-ager, has prompted me to write my first Dear Abby letter.

My problem is the reverse. I look much older than I am, but to make matters worse, my husband looks much younger than he is. John and I are both the same age, but I am constantly mistaken for his mother.

Don't tell me to touch up my hair because John says he likes gray hair. [His mother was prematurely gray.] And I know I am overweight, but John says he likes me this way, and he keers pushing the food at me. I would like to wear more youthful and stylish clothes, but they don't come in my size. Believe me, Abby, I don't enjoy looking like my husband's mother, so what should I do?

FORTY-TWO AND LOOKS LIKE 60

DEAR FORTY-TWO: You may not enjoy looking like your husband's mother, but apparently your husband enjoys it. If you really want to look younger, announce that you are going on a diet. Then, with your doctor's help, go on one. And wash that gray out of your hair! Your husband may like the new you better. And if he doesn't you'll be stuck with a lovely figure and a dye job which doesn't last very long, anyway.

DEAR ABBY: Much has been said about thoughtless, stingy, selfish people who impose their hard-of-hearing problem on others by refusing to wear a hearing aid.

But there are cases [I am one] where no hearing aid can be of any help. I am not guessing. I have been to the best audiologists in the world, and they agree that the hearing aid that can help me with my kind of deafness has not yet been made.

So what do I do when I cup my ear and strain to hear until I am nearly exhausted, and people look at me as tho to say, "I'll give this cheap dumb-cluck who's deaf and won't wear a hearing aid a hard time and I'll refuse to speak up?"

HARD OF HEARING

DEAR HARD: Say, "I am hard of hearing. And if there were a hearing aid made to help my kind of deafness, I'd be wearing one, so if you have something to say to me, please speak up and let me hear it."

DEAR ABBY: How does one introduce stepparents gracefully? My parents are divorced, and they are both married again to wonderful people. Using the term, "stepmother" or "stepfather" seems so unfeeling.

I love my parents very much, and I truly love their new mates, but introductions are so awkward for me. Can you help?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Why not simply introduce them as "my parents?"

DEAR ABBY: This is concerning the young lady whose newly divorced father objected to her calling him "Dad" because he didn't want to give away his age.

The daughter should have readily replied, "Of course I'll not call you 'Dad,' if you can come up with some other way of letting people know I am not dating a man old enough to be my father." Cooperatively yours,

CAROL IN CAMBRIDGE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

New Officers Are Named

New officers for the Lector Book Club are: Mrs. Herbert Fallowfield president; Mrs. James Alley, vice president; Mrs. Hugh Winslow, treasurer; Mrs. James Clark, secretary; and Miss Libba Wilson, librarian.

The officers were announced at the club's meeting at the home of Mrs. Howard Waldrop. Luncheon was served to the members and guests, Mrs. Ed Waldrop, Mrs. Horton Roundtree, Mrs. Joseph Waldrop, and Mrs. Lee West.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Dr. Ralph Rives of the ECU faculty, whose subject was. "The Soldier and His Morale During World Wars I and II."

He cited several entertainers who gave of themsevles and their talents freely. He said that the most outstanding of them was Bob Hope, who continues to give of himself.

A Positive Board Of Elections

There are probably some Pitt County residents who planned to register for the forthcoming primaries and dind't do so before the registration books closed Friday.

But for those who are not registered, the blame must be placed somewhere other than at the feet of the Pitt Board of elections. The Board of Elections this year went far beyond what has been done in the past to make it convenient for new voters to get their names on the registration books.

Even in the case of University students who are temporary residents in this county, whose registration was denied by the local board, the local board was acting under instructions from the State Board of Elections, and its decision has been upheld by a temporary order from a federal district judge.

The Pitt County Board of Elections is to be commended for the special efforts it made in recent months to add new voters to the local registration books. Instead of just sitting back and waiting for potential new voters to come register, the Board of Elections adopted several new innovations to encourage new voters to register.

In addition to maintaining books open at the Board's office, and having registrars in local precincts at various times, the Board made special efforts to reach groups in which registration appeared low. This was particularly true among black residents of the county where special registrars were assigned the task of seeking out voters. The Board of Elections arranged to have registrars available at convenient times in a number of convenient locations in an effort to encourage more potential voters to register.

There are some citizens, obviously, who have taken exception to the special effort to attract new voters that the Board of Elections has made this year. It is our feeling, however, that the Board of Elections deserves a special thanks from all citizens of the county for its efforts in recent months.

It is the responsibility of the County Board of Elections not only to supervise balloting, but to see that each citizen who meets the eligibility qualifications is extended the right of participating in elections. The first step in that direction is getting one's name on the registration books.

There are too many placed in North Carolina where local boards of election take a passive attitude in this respect. That is no longer the case in Pitt County because of the positive, energetic, and even aggressive effort the local Board of Elections has put forth to get new voters registered this year.

All of Pitt County will benefit from the positive, progressive attitude taken this year its Board of Elections.

A Partner In Clean Water

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH, N.C. — The state will become the essential third partner in assuring clean water for the future if voters approve a $150 million bond issue on May 6.

Local resources are unequal to the task. Federal funds available are limited where there is no state participation.

Bond proceeds, once the issue is passed, will implement the local-federal-state partnership which can go a long ways to meeting pressing needs for water supply and sewage treatment facilities.

North Carolina already has accepted the principle of state responsibility for clean water. The 1971 General Assembly appropriated $4½ million for state grants to local governments. Realizing this was only a drop in the bucket, the lawmakers also authorized the bond referendum.

Bond proponents are optimistic. They see no concerted opposition at this stage, and they count on concern for the environment to serve as a rallying point for bond support.

Local Governments Active

The North Carolina League of Municipalities and the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners are active in encouraging their members to join in bond promotion efforts.

"All of us have asked the question: 'What can I do about the environment and pollution?'" said Leigh Wilson, executive director of the league.

"The simple answer is: 'Vote for the clean water bonds.'"

The bond proposal may well be the most economical step ever taken by North Carolinians, Wilson said. "These bonds will cost the state approximately 10 cents per person per week for five years and will be paid for from the general revenues of the state which will not require any increase in state or local taxes," he explained.

North Carolina has been engaged in a program to clean up water pollution since 1951. As it strengthened standards to improve water quality, the gap widened between needs and local government resources.

$697 Million Needed

Estimates prepared last year by the state department of water and air resources and the state board of health indicated that $697 million would be required over the next five years for water supply and pollution control facilities.

The $150 million in bonds can be the seed money for meeting those needs.

In the past, federal grants have been limited to one-third of the cost of projects. Local governments have been strapped to come up with the remaining two-thirds.

Federal authorities have agreed that if the state could provide matching grants up to one-fourth of the project cost, they would increase the federal share to as much as 55 per cent. Local governments would supply the remaining 20 per cent, which is within their reach, Wilson said.

Here is a summary of clean water bond facts.

Summary of Facts

The $150 million total will be allocated as follows: $75 million for water pollution control, $70 million for water supply systems, and $5 million to a contigency account of which not more than $1½ million can be used for administrative costs.

The water pollution control portion will be divided this way: $25 million to the 100 counties on the basis of population; $50 million as needed statewide to match federal grants to local governmental units for sewage treatment projects.

The water supply allocation breaks down to $50 million to the 100 counties on the basis of population, and $20 million for statewide allocation to aid local governmental units in financing construction, improvement or expansion of needed public water supply projects.

One-fifth of the $150 million will be allocated each year during a five-year period, beginning next July 1.

In most cases the total grants in each proposal cannot exceed 25 per cent of the total costs, and projects must receive other matching funds (federal and local). Additional 5 per cent grants are allowed in certain cases but only with approval of the Advisory Budget Commission.

A priority system based on public necessity will direct the allocation of grants to local units based on: eligibility, for federal grants, compatability with state and regional programs, fiscal responsibility, and need. The State Board of Health will administer water supply system grants, and the board of water and air resources will have charge of waste water treatment or collection system grants.

Chaos Shaping Up For Demos

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The collision course to chaos at Miama Beach mapped by Sen. George McGovern's stunning triump in Wisconsin becomes inescapable when judged by the remarks of a powerful lieutenant of Mayor Richard J. Daley's Chicago organization as the returns came over television late Tuesday night.

Viewing the jubilant McGovern celebration, the Daley Democrat snapped: "This McGovern's going to have all those woolly-headed around him, he might as well forget about the support of our kind of people."

But in truth, even if his eager young men visited the barber, McGovern would not melt the icy opposition of party regulars. Our telephone checks Wednesday with dozens of them showed that McGovern's astonishing appeal among Wisconsin's blue-collar workers had done nothing to make him more palatable. Rather, the regulars feel stopping McGovern at Miami Beach is holy cause.

Thus looms a collision course which would become bloodier still by future McGovern wins. But the regulars now have no single clear alternative. The decline of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie continues unchecked. Sen. Hubert Humphrey's so-so performance in Wisconsin underlines misgivings about him among the regulars and the means of actually nominating Sen. Edward Kennedy are shrouded in ambiguity.

Opposition from the regulars, deriving partly from McGovern's leftish ideology and partly from his anti-organization insurgency, seems immutable. "I think the nomination of George McGovern would mean the end of the Democratic party we have known," one highly respected party leader told us, adding he would not campaign for him. In the hierarchy of the AFL-CIO, McGovern is viewed as a menace with no less emotionalism.

Consequently, a great many regulars are now talking "anybody but McGovern," wiping out past enmities. A case in point is Daley's Chicago organization, which has long resented Humphrey's failure as 1968 nominee to stand with Daley when attacked by the left. On any list of Presidential possibilities, Humphrey has been close to last in Chicago.

In the wake of Wisconsin, however, the mood has changed. Muskie's incredible fourth-place finish in the Polish neighborhoods of Milwaukee's Southside made an indelible impact. With Kennedy repeatedly relaying word to Daley that he is not available, and it boils down to Humphrey or McGovern, whom would Daley pick? Humphrey, without a doubt.

Yet, Daley and many other party leaders would vastly prefer a Kennedy draft. Consider Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, a moderate who cannot countenance McGovern. Hearnes endorsed Muskie last Oct. 7, and he'll stick with him. But if Muskie drops out, intimates say Hearnes would much prefer Kennedy to Humphrey, even though Kennedy's ideology is scarcely distinguishhable from McGovern's.

In a private conservation just two weeks ago, Kennedy convinced one important Midwestern Democrat that he would not run under any conditions. Even if that resolve breaks down in the

Strength For Today

DON'T LOSE HOPE

What about the young people today? Are they a group of lawless, infuriated persons bent on mischief?

Not at all. Those of us who have had the opportunity to observe life over a number of decades are convinced that the young people today are for the most part citizens of which we should be proud. There is a small percentage of young people today bent on violence and unhesitating in the way they break the law. These can be handled from the legal standpoint. The overwhelming majority of young people are, however, set on the side of right. They differ from former generations in that they speak out frankly whatever is on their minds. They are against injustice, unnecessary military strife, the poor examples set by many adults day after day.

Habit-forming drugs have now come into darken the picture of modern life. The law can do many things against "pushers," and should, but the whole problem needs to be explained to young people, and they are willing to listen. But they will do a lot of talking back — and more power to them. We need to listen attentively and perhaps change our order of life fundamentally.

Youth has always been thought of as the hope of the world. That has been true in the past and it is true today. Let us join forces with that overwhelming majority of young people who are set on doing the right thing and seeing that others do it also.

Who Will Help Plotkin?

WASHINGTON — My friend Plotkin, who has a candy store in Hollis, N.Y., called me excitedly the other day and say, "The government just hit me for $1,230 in back taxes, as well as a $240 penalty. This is outrageous because they told me at the time I could deduct several business expenses that they have now disallowed."

"Now don't get upset, Plotkin. I'm sure we can work something out. Why don't you fly down on your private plane and..."

"Private plane? What the hell are you talking about?"

"If you have a private plane, it makes it a lot easier to get senators and congressmen to listen to your story."

"You know I don't have a private plane, wise guy."

"All right, all right. I'll tell you what you do. Have your lobbyist get in touch with some of the boys at the Justice Department."

"What lobbist? I haven't got a lobbyist. What kind of candy store do you think I've got."

"It's pretty hard to get much done down here without a lobbyist. Let me think. Wait a minute. I've got an idea. Call Peter Flanigan at the White House. He can probably fix things for you."

"Who is Peter Flanigan?"

"He's in charge of helping businessmen who get into difficulty with the government."

"Why wouldnhe help me?"

"Because of your contribution to the Republican National Commitee."

"I didn't make any contribution to the Republican National Committee."

"Well then, how do you expect to get any help from the White House?"

"Who said I expected help from the White House?"

"Of course, it's not too late to make a contribution to the Republican National Committee," I said.

"How much would I have to give?" Plotkin asked.

"It doesn't make any difference. What about $400,000?"

"Come on, will you knock it off. Fifteen hundred dollars is a lot of money to me, and I called you because I though you could help me."

"I'm trying to help, Plotkin, but there are certain ways of doing things down here, and no one likes to deviate from them. Have you thought of seeing acting Atty. Gen. Kleindienst?"

"Why? Could he help me?"

"He could, but he wouldn't because that would be a conflict of interest."

"You know I'm not going to get to see Kleindienst," Plotkin said.

"Probably not. Say, why don't you go down to the Kentucky Derby and talk it

Other Editors Say Year Of The Loon

(Greensboro Daily News)

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien announced the other day the Democrats will conduct a milliondollar telethon to raise campaign funds the day before the party's national convention begins in Miami Beach July 9.

If the Democrats really hope to raise any money, maybe they should notify the party's corps of presidential candidates to cool it on the road in the meantime. The candidates have been putting on a series of road shows in the preference primaries that seems more likely to draw horse laughs and rotten tomatoes from the lectorate than campaign contributions. The main act consists of the candidates stabbing one another in the back while leaping on and off Governor George Wallace's busing machine.

As a sideshow act, some of them go in heavily for impersonation. Sen. Henry Jackson has yet to get the hang of impersonating Mr. Wallace, but he's still trying. Mr. Wallace himself is impersonating Sen. Fred Harris, who suffered rupture of the pocketbook and fell out a few weeks ago — didn't even have the price of bus fare. Out in California, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles is impersonating the state's favorite son candidate, although he's having trouble collecting enough signatures to get his name on the ballot.

From another sector of the front, the Democratic Party is under fire from the National Organization of Women(NOW), a women's lib organization. NOW has charged the Democrats with using sexist, anti-intellectual standards for hiring convention hostesses. Specifically, the NOW complaint is that the Democrats are more interested in beauty queen types than in brainy, politically knowledgeable women.

NOW's charges are off the mark and irrelevant to boot. Democrats as a class are no more interested in sex than anybody else. As for intellectuals, male or female, a typical Democrat can take them or leave them alone. What really turns a Democrat on is incestuous mayhem, the opportunity to make a basket case out of a fellow Democrat.

The Chinese have designated 1972 as the Year of the Rat. Republican Sen. Hugh Scott, galled by Decmocratic attempts to expose his party's alleged intimate relations with ITT, says it's the Year of Jackassery. But it begins to appear that this year's crop of Democratic presidential aspirants is more likely to make 1972 go down in history as the Year of the Loon.

Rough It In Luxury

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Remember when all you had to do to go camping was throw a couple of bedrolls into the back of the pickup truck, toss some canned beans and tomatoes on top of them and take off into the wilderness?

Well, organizations promoting recreational vehicles are dead set on changing that—putting a little glamour and comfort into the great outdoors.

Rough it?

Forget it.

One outfit held its annual show here a few weeks ago. If you think the bedroll-campfire bit is popular today, you should have seen the would-be outdoorsmen pouring into the acres-sized hall to see the latest in nifty camping.

About 20,000 adults paid a buck and a half each in 2½ days just for the privilege of window shopping—and often buying on the spot.

What is available these days?

You can start with a single enclosed bunk attached behind the cab of a pickup. After that come trailer types or those sitting in pickup trucks.

And from there you can go up to a 28-foot self-propelled job. Depending on its luxury, a camp vehicle can cost as much as $22,000 and sleep six persons in bunks—and a dozen more on the floor if they believe in togetherness.

One of the first things a noncamper must learn is that a "recreational vehicle" is not a "mobile home." A mobile home is to be moved only rarely and then only with a professional driver.

Yet you can roar around the country 365 days a year at the wheel of a recreational vehicle or towing one.

The ingenuity of man is not demonstrated at its best in wiring a pinball table or designing a space capsule. Its ultimate is the recreational vehicle.

Into these the makers have placed sinks, cookstoves, ovens, lounges, beds, showers, bathtubs, toilets, dinettes, and lounge chairs for the driver if it is a self-propelled item.

Also, refrigerators, sundecks, wardrobe closets, carpets, garbage disposals, popup TV aerials, built-in vacuum cleaners, water heats, water purifier.

Not all the vehicles have all the frills but each has the basics for independent living. Each has different extras.

One salesman at the show told a questioner that he usually drives his recreational vehicle at 100 miles an hour.

A couple of minutes later another salesman called the questioner aside and said, "Don't believe all that stuff about 100 miles an hour. He was putting you on. Most people drive at 55 or 60."

"Even at 55 miles an hour," he was asked, "how do you keep all the things in here from rattling around and falling to the floor?"

"Well," he admitted, "you use a lot of unbreakable dishes. Not many people fit these out with imported porcelain, you know.

"And they use their ingenuity. When they need to brace something in the refrigerator, they can use styrofoam."

The New Wave Of Confidence

By ELMER ROESSNER

Despite the wave of strikes and threats of more and despite the continuing rise in the cost of living, another surge of optimism is sweeping through the economy.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York in its Monthly Review says, "The economic data that have become available during the past few weeks suggest a continuation of the recent modest improvement in the uneven recovery from the 1969-70 recession."

A "very good expansion of the economy this year" is projected by Economic Prospects, a quarterly report published by Commerical Credit Co., of Baltimore.

"Consumers are taking a more optimistic view of current business and employment conditions, but they are not showing any increased willingness to spend," says the Conference Board after a survey of 10,000 families across the country.

"Business is definitely on the upswing," Industry Week magazine stated. "The rise hasn't been spectacular but it has been steady and enjoyed by virtually all industry. Manufacturers look for continued improvement during the rest of the year and indicate the second quarter could be especially strong."

Cleveland Trust's Business Bulletin says, "Business confidence is now recovering rapidly. Short-term interest rates have started to climb again ... Only the renewed decline of the dollar abroad and the five month plateau of retail sales prevents the business picture from being nearly uniformly bullish."

Of the score of bank letters, analysts' forecasts and other predictions that come across this desk, not one in the past week has been bearish. They all could be wrong, of course.

The Nixon Administration has, as of today, done nothing to lower the cost of living, although Treasury Secretary John Connally, after a conference with eight supermarket chains, said they would hold the line on prices and predicted no further rises. And several organizations have rushed out statements explaining that the cost of living wasn't so very high after all. Food costs, they pointed out, take a smaller percentage of disposable income than at any time in the past.

That's one way to solve the problem: If you can't bring food prices down, convince the public they are not up!

Here's a clue to how the line will hold: Last week on the New York Mercantile exchange May boneless frozen beef futures rose to $71.50 per 100 pounds. Imported boneless frozen beef is chiefly used for hamburger. The May price indicates that speculators expect that hamburger will set a record in May, unless the butcher adds some cheaper domestic suet.

Chairman Grayson of the Price Commission has announced that industries that have increased prices too rapidly will be given "seclective treatment to reduce their rate of price increases.

Arnold X, Moscowitz, A Dean Witter economist, points out that from November, 1971, to February, 1972, wholesale lumber prices rose 20 per cent; leather, 14.6 per cent; transportation equipment, 10.5 per cent; textile products and apparel 8.3 per cent; metal products, 5.7 per cent; fuel, 5 per cent; machinery and equipment, 4.2 per cent; pulp and paper, 3.7 per cent.

Those are pretty big targets for rollbacks.

Evans-Novak . .

excitement of Miami Beach, there is some question whether the McGovern delegates would move even to Ted Kennedy — particularly if other McGovern primary triumps follow.

Such future triumphs depend on wether McGovern can continue his remarkable success in breaking into the blue-collar vote against the recommendations of union leaders. In one blue-collar precinct after another, he ran ahead of union-backed Humphrey and Muskie.

So the fate of the Domocratic party rests partly on McGovern's success in working-class districts of Massachusetts where he faces Muskie April 25. Another clearcut triumph would badly undermine arguments by party regulars that he is a hothouse liberal, whose appeal is limited to suburbs and campus.

In fact, Wisconsin produced some evidence to the contrary. Humphrey's third-place finish was based on no small part on heavy support from Negroes and old friends along the Minnesota border. In working-class precincts where the union leadership was supporting him, Humphrey ran poorly.

But even stronger evidence of McGovern's appeal and Humphrey's weakness among the white workingmen will not change the view of many party leaders that he is the Barry Goldwater of the left whose nomination would be a Democratic calamity camparable to the Republican debacle of 1964. Wisconsin only stiffened the lines of the battle.

Commented the questioner, "I guess that would be all right, because you can't get a lot of junk in here anyway."

"Don't you believe it," he said. "We got one of these used ones on a trade-in the other day and had to unload it.

over with John Mitchell?"

"I've got a candy store to run. I can't go to the Kentucky Derby."

"Where would Dita Beard be today if she thought the way you did?" I asked.

"Please be serious. What can I do?"

"You might sell your stock before the public finds out what a mess you're in."

"I don't have any stock. I own the candy store by myself."

"That's a pity. Most corporation executive usually make a buck on thier mistakes by selling their stock before the word gets out."

"Then you're not going to help me?"

"I would if I could, Plotkin. But no one down here is going to talk to anyone who hasn't made a political contribution, doesn't have a private plane or a lobbyist or can't find time to go to the Kentucky Derby."

The Great Wall of China is a natural result of the age-old Chinese belief in walls for protection.

Student Union Revenue Bonds Go To Wachovia

Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and their associates have purchased the entire $1,790,000 of available East Carolina University Student Union Revenue Bonds offered for sale Thursday by the ECU Board of Trustees.

Net interest cost on the bonds is 5.2623 per cent.

ECU Vice President and Business manager Clifton Moore said the revenue bonds amounted to considerably less than the originally anticipated sum of $2,945,000.

He attributed the reduction to a large accumulation of funds from student activity fees, lower than expected construction and installation bids, and a federal assistance grant.

After authorization by the 1969 General Assembly, ECU officials increased student activity fees $12 per quarter and $6 per summer session beginning with the 1969-70 academic year.

Funds accumulating from the student activity fee increase have been held in trust pending the beginning of construction. Moore noted that next year's student activity fees at ECU will be reduced $4 per quarter and $2 per summer session.

Another revenue source is an interest subsidy up to $59,100 per year granted to ECU by the U.S. Office of Housing and Urban Development.

Accepted bids for the new ECU student union building totaled $2,820,000. Construction is scheduled to begin within 30 days.

Shaw U. Is 'Healthier'

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. J. Archie Hargraves, president of Shaw University, says the school was "drowning" in financial trouble a few months ago, but "we are now treading water."

"Financially we are about to turn the corner," Hargraves said Saturday after being inaugurated as Shaw's ninth president. He has served as president for eight months.

He said the staff had been cut from 118 to 88 and the faculty to a basic core of 50.

"We have tried to make our faculty and staff as lean as a razor back hog," Hargraves said.

"I intend to be a salty president and not a sweet one," he told the audience. "I don't intend to use bandaids or to stick hypos into the carcass of this university. My aim is to exercise the radical surgery ... to cut out and cast out in order to induce this university to die to those things which already make it dead."

Hargraves formerly was an associate professor at the Chicago Theological Seminary.

Set Recreation MeetingAgenda

The Greenville Recreation Commission will be taking up four agenda items at its monthly meeting for April on Wednesday.

Meeting at 8:00 p.m. in the T.V. room at Elm Street Gym, the commission will first consider the county use of Greenville facilities under old business.

Under new business, topics facing the commission are: presentation by a group interested in an amateur boxing association; a request by the Senior Babe Ruth League for waiver of fee for use of Guy Smith Stadium; and a request for exception to the rule concerning use of the Recreation Police Club for a dance.

Writers Club

The first April meeting of the Greenville Writer's Club will be at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Betty Casey, 204 Lewis Street.

Persons interested in creative writing are welcome to attend the meetings, held every two weeks. Manuscripts of all types of writing except poetry are read and discussed at the meetings

Store Burned . .

Book Barn owner Jack Edwards said "not much" damage resulted to merchandise in his store. He noted "very little discoloring" resulted to his stock from the smoke. There was "very little visual damage", only "penetration of smoke odor" he commented.

Edwards praised efforts by Greenville firemen that quickly brought the fire under control.

He said firemen "did a tremendous job ... not only on the burning building, but did an excellent job of quickly removing smoke fumes from our building."

He indicated that quick action by firefighters prevented heavier damages to adjoining businesses from occuring.

No estimate of damage to the Shrunken Head building or stock was available this morning.

According to records on file in the Pitt County Tax Supervisors office, the value of the building was listed as $3,980.

Tax officials said no listing of the store's inventory has been made for tax purposes this year, and indicated a letter to the store owner was mailed last week reminding him that filing of the inventory is past due.

Furman Ace Shackled Pirates For 4-3 Win Sunday

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

John Katona, one of the Southern Conference's outstanding pitchers, shackled East Carolina Sunday afternoon as the Furman Paladins gained a 4-3 decision over the Pirates.

But it was Pirate mistakes that led to three of the four Paladin runs. And only a last inning three-run homer by Troy Eason allowed the Bucs to get on the boards.

Katona allowed only two hits during the first eight innings of play. One was a second inning drag bunt by Larry Walters that he just beat out. The other was a solid single through the middle, also by Walters, in the seventh.

The other two hits included a drage bunt past the mound in the ninth, and Eason's homer, which sparked controversy.

The ball, moving down the right field line curved to land over the fence, but in foul territory. Umpire Malcolm Sykes ruled it a fair ball as it went past the foul pole, thus a home run. Furman argued that it had been foul when it went out of the park, but to no avail.

The game was strictly a pitching duel until the sixth inning when the Pirates committeed their only error. It led to two unearned runs.

Furman got a man into scoring position with two out when Don Leege got a single off a dribbler down the third base line in the first inning. He moved on to second on a passed ball, but stayed there.

East Carolina also threatened in the first. Ralph Lamm walked with one down and moved down on a wild pitch, but also waited out the rest of the frame at second.

In the bottom of the second, the Pirates threatened again. Walters got the first hit off Katona, a bunt, and was sacrificed to second by Mike Bradshaw, but again could not be moved around.

Furman offered another threat in the third. Katona walked and Mark Bonn moved him up with a sacrifice. That was the last threat by either team until the sixth, when the Paladins scored.

With one away in that inning, Leege hit a grounder to short. Bradshaw's throw to first, however, was high and Leege reached safely. Then, with two away, Billy Boyd connected with a round-tripper to left, pushing over both of the first two Paladin runs, both of which were unearned.

The seventh saw another run come across for the Paladins. John Little walked and moved up on a passed ball. After two outs, Bonn lefted a soft single to center, scoring Little from second, with another unearned run.

The lone earned run for Furman came in the eighth frame. And that came in the form of a lead-off home run by Leege who slapped the ball out almost down the left field line.

Furman went on to put two more in scoring position as Peyton Barton was hit by a pitch, moved up on a infield out, and took third on Mike Kaufman's single to right. But starter Tommy Toms was pulled at that point and Dave LaRussa struck out the next two, ending the inning.

The Pirates got off another threat in the seventh. With one out, Walters got the second hit off Katona, Eason followed with a walk, but the next two batters went down swinging to end it.

Finally in the ninth, the Bucs put it together, but still fell one run short. Walker reached on a bunt and Mike Aldridge walked. With one away, Eason hit his three-rum homer, but the rally died right there. Katona struck out the next two batters, bringing his total to 10 for the game, ending any Pirate hopes.

While the loss was only the first in Southern Conference play for the Bucs, it left them with an 0-1 mark and put them in serious trouble in their quest for another even-year title.

Furman's record jumped to 5-1, and the Bucs are in the position of having to beat them twice in Greenville, S.C. should the two go unbeaten against the rest of the league.

The Pirates were scheduled to host The Citadel in a pair of games this afternoon, then they take on William & Mary in a single game Wednesday. Davidson pays a visit on Saturday for another doubleheader.

VMI Out Front After Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If only for a day, Virginia Military Institute's Keydets have taken the lead in the Southern Conference baseball race.

The Keydets moved to the top of the standings Sunday in their league debut with a 3-0 victory over Davidson's Wildcats behind the seven-hit pitching of sophomore left-hander John Pate.

While VMI was taking over the lead at 1-0, Furman's defending co-champion Paladins were upping their league mark to 5-1 with a 4-3 triumph over East Carolina's Pirates, who also were making their initial start in conference play.

Sunday doubleheader at Williamsburg, Va., resulted in a split with The Citadel's Bulldogs—who shared the title last year with Furman—beating William and Mary 3-1 in the eight-inning opener but bowing to the Indians in the nightcap 5-0.

Appalachian State's Mountaineers, not eligible in the league race this season, aaw their over-all record drop to 4-4 in a 10-3 defeat at Western Carolina, which scored five runs in the sixth inning and four more in the seventh.

Trailing VMI and Furman as a result of the heavy Sunday schedule are The Citadel at 3-3, William and Mary at 1-2, Davidson at 1-4 and East Carolina at 0-1.

Richmond's Spiders were to make their league debut today at home in a doubleheader against Davidson. Two other scheduled twin bills had The Citadel at East Carolina and VMI at William and Mary.

Doubles by Vern Beitzel and Stan Crane put VMI in front of Davidson in the fourth inning, and the Keydets added two runs in the seventh on a walk, two hits and two errors. Louis Dowdy had two hits for VMI, Jack Willits and Greg Sikes three each for Davidson.

Billy Boyd hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning and Don Leege a solo shot in the eighth that proved decisive for Furman. The Paladins' John Katona blanked East Carolina on two hits until the ninth, when Troy Eason homered following a single and a walk.

Three singles loaded the bases with one out in the top of the eighth inning for The Citadel in the first game at William and Mary, and the Bulldogs got two runs out of it on Ronnie Terry's sacrifice fly and a double steal with winning pitcher Rusty Booth scoring.

Freshman right-hander John Mileson blanked the Bulldogs in the second game on six hits and doubled home the Indians' first run in the second inning.

Golf Tourney Still Receiving Applications

NEW BERN — Entries for the WCTI-TV Eastern North Carolina Tournament of Champions continue to be received by tournament officials, according to Bob Bolyard, Vice President and General Manager of WCTI-TV, and George Smith, Club Pro of Carolina Pines. The 36-hole two-day event will be held on May 20-21 at the Carolina Pines Country Club in Havelock.

The tournament, believed to be the only one of its kind in the state, will feature club champions of all golf and country clubs in the WCTI-TV's viewing area. There will be both a mens and ladies division. Some clubs that have already indicated they will participate are the host club, Carolina Pines; Brook Valley Country Club Greenville; Southern Wayne Country Club, Goldsboro; Cherry Point Golf Club, Marine Air Station; Roanoke Rapids Country Club, Williamston; and Plymouth Country Club, Plymouth.

Duke Unveils 3 Potential Stars

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke can expect big things next football season from running back Steve Jones and sophomore quarterback Mark Johnson if their work in spring practice is any indication.

Jones scored three touchdowns Saturday to lead the first team Blue squad to a 44-8 victory over the Whites in Duke's intrasquad game. Johnson, who guided the Blues, completed 12 of 18 passes for 183 yards.

Jones gained 104 yards in 17 carries and scored on runs of 5, 2 and 11 yards. He piled up 88 yards in the first half as the Blues built up an 18-0 lead.

Willie Shoemaker won five straight races last year with MacArthur Park, then a 2-year-old racing in California.

Trio In Running For New Coach Of Deac Cagers

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest University says a trio of successful coaches are in the running to become successor to departed basketball Coach Jack McCloskey.

A spokesman for the Deacons says Wake has talked to Terry Holland of Davidson, Charles Moir of Roanoke and Carl Tracey of Marshall, and it hopes to pick one of the three for the job by midweek.

Holland has won three straight Southern Conference regular season championships. Tracey led the Thundering Herd to its best season ever this year, finishing 12th in the AP poll and gaining an NCAA tournament berth. Moir led the Maroons to the NCAA college division championship.

McCloskey resigned recently to becomg coach of the Portland team in the National Basketball Association.

Duke's Chance To Extend Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Enos Slaughter's Duke baseball team has a chance to lengthen its Atlantic Coast Conference lead this week with three league games, all against teams in the conference's lower echelon.

The Blue Devils host Wake Forest Wednesday, then travel to Virginia for a doubleheader Saturday. The Deacons have yet to win a conference game, and Virginia is in fifth place with a 1-2 league record.

Clemson, meanwhile, will look to improve its second place 4-1 mark in a doubleheader with N.C. State on the Tigers' field Saturday. Clemson's only other action this week is a single game with Georgia Tuesday.

The Tigers had a successful weekend, winning three games. They swept a doubleheader from Wake Forest Saturday, 2-0 and 4-3. Their pitching, provided by Rusty Gearhart, held up Sunday for a 1-0 win over Georgia Tech in 11 innings.

North Carolina, meanwhile, was improving its record at the expense of Virginia Sunday. The Tar Heels exploded for eight runs in the third inning and trampled the Cavaliers, 8-1. Frank Gianiny scattered three hits in claiming the victory.

Maryland, after splitting a doubleheader with UNC Saturday, concluded its trip to Tobacco Road on an upbeat, by bopping N.C. State 8-3. Duke edged North Carolina-Wilmington 3-2 on a bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning.

This week's schedule for ACC teams:

Masters' Champ Nicklaus Now Aims At U.S. Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, savoring his fourth Masters golf title, is not prepared to regard it as the first leg of a potential grand slam.

"It is silly to talk about it at this stage," the man with the golden golfing touch said late Sunday as he fingered the threads of a size 42-long green jacket that symbolized a cautious three-stroke victory in the year's first major golf spectacle.

"You can't lump all four of the big tournaments together and think realistically of winning them in one year. If I should win at Pebble Beach and then at Muirfield, then you might talk about a grand slam.

"But not now—the odds are too great against it."

The 32-year-old Nicklaus acknowledged that he planned now to concentrate on winning the U.S. Open in June at Pebble Beach, Calif., and, if successful there, move on to the British Open at Muirfield in July.

The PGA Championship at the giant Oakland Hills course in Detroit completes the big four of major championships which no man has won in a single year. The Las Vegas odds against such a sweep are 4,095-1.

"Sure, it's on my mind—I can't avoid it," Jack confessed. "I like the four courses on which the tournaments are played. But, right now, I'd like to just sit back and savor this Masters victory."

In winning the 1972 masters, leading every round, Nickalus boosted the number of his major golf titles to 12, one less than Bob Jones' record 13, and sent his season and all-time money winnings soaring to new heights, more than $130,000 for the year and in excess of $1,500,000 for his career.

He triggered new accolades from the entire golf world.

"He's in a class all by himself," said Lee Trevino, 1971 player of the year.

"There is Jack Nicklaus and there are the rest of us—he's in a different sphere," said Charles Coody, the outgoing Masters king.

"He's the greatest golfer in the world,"—said Tom Weiskopf.

"He's not only the best golfer—he's a lot smarter than the rest of us," added Bruce Crampton.

Brains and patience—not just sheer power—were principal ingredients in Nicklaus' four rounds of 68-71-73-74—286 over the massive, hilly and subtle Augusta National course with its par 72.

Although 15 shots over the record 271 he set in 1965, Jack was the only player in the star-studded international field to break par and he finished three strokes better than his closest pursuers—Weiskopf, Bob Mitchell and Crampton, who tied at 289.

Failing to solve Augusta's subtle treacheries, the sensational Jim Jamieson, the fat, bargain-basement pro from Moline, Ill., blew to a 77 for 290 and silver-haired Paul Harney, 42-year-old father of six from Worcester, Mass., who started the last day just three back of the leader, had an 81 for 296.

Another giant of the game caught up in Sunday's swirling winds and concrete-hard greens was Arnold Palmer, the only other player besides Nicklaus to win four Masters. He shot the worst round in his 18-year love affair with Augusta—an 81—and finished at an even 300.

By contrast, Trevino, after three erratic and contentious rounds, settled down to an even par 72 and also finished at 300.

"I'll be back in 1973," the Mexican-American, who had boycotted the tournament for two years, promised.

This brilliant spring spectacle staged in a Georgia flower bed finished on a dull and negative note with Nicklaus, by his own admission, playing cautiously to avoid bogeys and other contenders failing to mount a serious challenge.

"My main consideration was to win the tournament," Nicklaus said afterward. "Nobody made a run at me. Nobody was doing anything out there. So I decided to be patient and stick to a game plan.

"I said if I got by 10, 11 and 12 one over par (which he did with a bogey at the par three 12th), I felt I had a good chance to take it if I didn't pull some dumb mistake.

"If someone had pressed me, it would have been different. I would have been forced to throw the ball at the hole. Maybe I could have won that way, maybe not. As it was, I could be conservative."

Nicklaus said he got a lift when he sank a tricky putt at the 16th and felt fully confident after ramming in an 11-footer for his par at No. 17.

"When I stood over the ball, I knew I was going to make that putt," he said.

He had a five-stroke lead over the faltering field with eight holes to play but saw his advantage shrink with bogeys at the 11th and 15th, where he three-putted.

"Every day we play golf courses the members play them—with watered-down soft greens that enable you to shoot at the pin," Nicklaus said. "But in the Masters and other major tournaments, the greens are hard and fast. It's a different game."

Nicklaus joined his rivals in agreeing that the tournament's main winner was the cantankerous Augusta course, which the late Bob Jones once said was like a capricious woman.

"You have to pet her and cajole her," Jones said. "If you try to slap her around, she'll snap back at you."

Baseball Talks Change Scene For Mediation

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

With President Nixon keeping an eye on the situation and buoyed by the first progress in months, talks aimed at settling the 10-day-old baseball strike moved from New York to Washington today, where both sides were to meet with a federal mediator.

But even should the dispute, which centers around the amount the major league club owners will contribute to the players' pension fund and which has delayed the opening of the season, be settled, a new stumbling block loomed over whether the players would be entitled to full salaries.

At one point Sunday night, today's on again-off again meeting with J. Curtis Counts, head of the Federal Mediation Service, seemed off at the request of the owners after they made what spokesman John Gaherin called their "first money offer to the pension plan."

Gaherin did not disclose the amount of the offer.

Today's meeting was back on again after Counts, a former UCLA baseball captain, received a call from the President urging that he do everything he can to get the strike settled.

A spokesman for Counts said the President told Counts he was "very interested in seeing the dispute settled so they can get the season started." The baseball season was to have started last Wednesday.

Scheduled to attend today's meeting were Counts; Robert Kennedy of the Federal Mediation Service's New York office; Gaherin and Marvin Miller, executive director of the striking Major League Baseball Players Association.

After submitting the owners' new pension offer, Gaherin expressed optimism that the strike might soon be over.

"I hope we're approaching the end," he said.

Asked about the possibility of a settlement today—he and Miller at one point were scheduled to meet in New York—he replied: "I hope so. I feel we picked up momentum. Based on where we've been, I'd say we made substantial progress."

But Miller called the new money "a token offer," adding:

"Mr. Gaherin is aware of its inadequacies. There is nothing in writing and I have a lot of unanswered questions. I'm hopeful that movement means there will be further progress and I'll do anything I reasonably can to produce a settlement. But on the basis of what I know so far, I can't be optimistic."

Meanwhile, a new issue of disagreement threatened to arise as owners stood firm on docking the players their daily salaries while the strike lasts. The baseball season is based on 182 days rather than 162 games and through Sunday, each player had lost 5-182nds of his salary, according to the owners.

Allison Makes Strong Finish

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., says he was "running almost as strong at the finish as when I started," and he had 29 drivers well behind him in the 12th annual Southeastern 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race to prove it.

Allison, the leading money winner on the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing circuit this season, was four laps in front of runner-up Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., after leading for 458 of the 500 laps of Sunday's race at Bristol International Speedway.

It was the second straight Winston Cup series victory for Allison, who averaged 92.826 miles per hour in his Junior Johnson-prepared 1972 Chevrolet before a record crowd here of 34,700.

Allison had started on the pole but relinquished the lead after 26 laps to Coo Coo Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., driving a 1971 Chevrolet. When he regained it, he swapped the frontrunning spot several times with Isaac — driving a 1972 Dodge — and Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

But the Alabama driver took over the lead for good on the 187th lap and never was in trouble again in a race in which there were just two caution flags for a total of 25 laps.

"The car handled beautifully all day and I stayed out of trouble, being away from the spinouts that occurred during the afternoon," said Allison.

"Isaac drove real well all day and passed me on two different occasions, and Richard Petty was strong through the middle of the race," Allison added.

Petty, who had installed power steering in his red and blue 1972 Plymouth because of the .533-mile track's high-banked turns, experienced trouble late in the race and wound up third, nine laps back.

A late entry, Leroy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., was eight laps behind Petty in a 1971 Ford, while Cecil Gordon of Horseshoe, N.C., was fifth in a 1970 Mercury and Marlin sixth.

The victory was worth $6,825 for Allison, while Isaac won $3,850 and Petty $2,725.

FBI Quizes Brockington

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune reported in today's editions that star Green Bay Packer running back John Brockington is being questioned in connection with a nationwide luxury auto theft ring.

In a copyright story, the Tribune reported that authorities questioned the National Football League's 1971 Rookie of the Year after he allegedly purchased a $10,000 stolen car for $2,200.

Brockington said he didn't know the car was stolen.

Brockington was questioned by FBI officials in Columbus, Ohio, the newspaper said, and told authorities he was offered the car over the telephone by a man he identified as George Moon, 28, of Chicago.

Police said Moon was arrested Jan. 31 on charges of driving a stolen car. The Tribune said police found slips of paper in Moon's pockets that were apparently orders for stolen cars, including one slip with Brockington's name on it.

Brockington said he received the car after an exchange of money and car keys at his Green Bay, Wis., apartment. The car was later identified as one stolen in Chicago last December.

In The News

If She Loses

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—"It seems like every time I lose, I get in the news," complained women's tennis great Billie Jean King in her latest hour of defeat.

The 28-year-old pro from Palm-Aire, Fla., lost in the championship match of the $18,000 Virginia Slims International Tennis Tournament at Jacksonville's Deerwood Club Sunday.

The new King-killer was unseeded Marie Neumannova of Czechoslovakia, who scored her first major tennis victory by knocking off top-seeded Mrs. King in straight sets 6-4, 6-3.

"It was a great day for tennis but a lousy one for Billie Jean King," said Mrs. King after the upset. "It was extremely windy but I usually play well in the wind. She just played far superior and deserved to win."

Lead Driver Of The Year Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — A. J. Foyt, Marion Andretti and Bobby Unser ran 1-2-3 in the first of four ballots for the 1972 driver of the year award to be given by Martini and Rossi.

Following the stock car, sports car and championship car drivers came the stock car trio of Bobby Allison, Richard Petty and Bobby Isaac.

The sticker prices of the imports have increased. But Mercury Comet's price has stayed about the same.
Mercury designed Comet to be the better small car. We didn't design it to be in the same price class as the little imports. It just turned out that way, thanks to recent monetary developments and cost increases. Now the sticker prices of the imports listed above have increased by at least $170 since January 1971. But Mercury Comet is within $15 of its sticker price at that time.
Mercury Comet's longer wheelbase gives a solid, smooth, comfortable ride.
Comet is a lot more automobile than the imports listed. It has a longer wheelbase, greater length, wider stance and bigger tires. So you get an amazingly smooth and comfortable ride, solid road-holding, and remarkable stability in Comet. You get a ride Mercury is proud to call its own.
Mercury Comet's bigger engine has six cylinders, not just four.
Comet's standard six-cylinder engine operates economically, yet packs up to 73.4 more cubic inches. Optional engines available include 200 and 250 cu. in. Sixes or a 302 cu. in. V-8.
Look at all the convenience and luxury features that are standard on Mercury Comet.
The Comet has an expensive look outside and in. On the outside you get a bold, handsome grille, wheel lip moldings, heavy bumpers and dual body paint stripes. Inside you'll find deep, 100% nylon carpeting, armrests front and back, foam-padded front seat cushion, deluxe steering wheel and a lighted front ashtray. All standard equipment.
Comet is built to Lincoln-Mercury's high standards.
Comet has a thick, hefty drive shaft. The doors are made of heavy gauge steel. In fact, Comet is crafted with the same high-quality steel and acrylic enamel as the highest priced Lincoln-Mercury cars. When we call it "the better small car," it's not just a slogan. It's a fact. And with the new small-car price picture, Comet's the car to see. And drive. And own.

The Worry Clinic

Vanity Remains All Our Lives

At age 94, you might think a woman would not be so vain about her cosmetic appearance. But notice how socially conscious my mother still is, despite the fact she forgets names and misplaces her eye glasses and false teeth!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-546: Jennie Crane, aged 94, is my mother.

When my wife and I are at our summer home in Indiana, we often take her out to the local restaurant.

"Hello, Mom," I thus phoned her recently, "how would you like to go to the restaurant with us for a bite to eat?"

"Oh, you know me," she replied, "for I am always ready to eat away from home!"

"Well, we'll be over about 6 o'clock to pick you up," I told her.

And when we arrived, she was still not quite ready.

"How does my hair look?" she anxiously inquired and I reassured her that it was quite O.K.

"Do you think this dress is all right?" she added.

Then she fumbled around in her jewel box for a necklace of green beads and tried to fasten them around her throat.

She is always partial to green beads and green scarfs, as well as dresses of that color.

For she had dark, mahogany red hair until recent years when it has become rather gray.

But her initial fondness for green still persists.

So she always praises my automobile because it is of a green hue.

When she couldn't get the necklace fastened, she finally asked me to help.

Usually, I make no offer to assist her, since it is better for elderly people to do their own work.

This enhances their ego and also keeps their joints in action!

As my mother got out of the car, the wind loosened a lock of her hair.

She expressed chagrin.

"Oh, I must look a sight!" she added.

This may have been partially a bid for a compliment from me, for older folks often "fish" for praise.

But the reason I have mentioned my mother's concern about her looks, is primarily to show that women often retain their feminine vanity till death.

At the age of 94, you might wonder what difference it would make whether my mother wore beads or left them off.

But she still wishes to put up an impressive looking "front," which shows she is still socially oriented, though she may forget names and misplace her glasses, as well as her false teeth.

Do you readers think men or women are more vain about their appearance?

Which sex pays more attention to newspaper ads about clothing, cosmetics and the latest styles?

Which carries rouge, lipstick and a pocket mirror?

Which (except for the feminized hippie males) stresses beads and other juvenile barbarian ornaments?

Which wears many rings, plus bracelets, jeweled pins, etc.?

Which more slavishly follows bizarre fashions, even to the extent of looking elephantine in hot pants or a bikini?

Which spends more money on a fancy hairdo, nail polish, manicure, perfume and scented bath lotions?

Is it any wonder women abhor football and baseball TV shows?

Send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

South Atlantic States Favored

ATLANTA (UPI) —A recently released survey by the American Automobile Association (AAA), shows that the nine South Atlantic states were the number one travel destination of its 14 million members in 1970.

Georgia, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina and Florida reigstered 19 per cent of all vacation trips in 1970, AAA says. These states also ranked as the favorite vacation destinations in 1963, the year of the last similar survey.

U.S. Investors Said 'Welcome'

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta, Canada, is telling American oil men that his province welcomes foreign capital and promises fair treatment of the oil industry.

The provincial premier also promised that oil men would get a chance to argue the pros and cons before any more environmental controls were imposed.

On product prices, Lougeed said: "In renegotiating new royalty rates this spring, everyone will have a chance to state his case and the basis of any new rate will be a fair return to all parties involved."

Germans Build Mammoth Forge

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UPI) — Damag Hydraulic GMBH has announced plans to build a 150 thousand-ton forge manipulator for National Forge of Erie, Ohio.

The giant machine, which will be the second largest manipulator built by Demag, will have an operating pressure of 2,430 pounds per square inch, will be able to handle work up to 75 inches in diameter and move it at the rate of 115 feet a minute, a company statement said.

It said the manipulator will have an overall length of 44½ feet and will take approximately one year to build.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(Copyright c 1972, by the Chicago Tribune)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ86 ♡9753 ♢KQJ82
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have already indicated possession of a good hand by bidding two clubs and following up with a bid of two spades. Yet partner was unable to take any drastic action, indicating that he has a minimum hand with length in hearts. It appears, therefore, that there cannot be a sound play for game. Discretion calls for a pass, for without a heart in your hand it would be highly unsound to try three no trump, especially without a diamond stopper.

Q. 2—As South vulnerable, you hold:
♠A ♡J2 ♢KJ54 ♣AKJ1093
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♢	2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—A cue bid of three spades is clearly indicated. If partner now shows heart control and you check for aces and find that he has two, you will have a reasonable grand slam bid in diamonds. In the circumstances, he should have a good diamond suit, and there should be no difficulty in setting up the clubs for any necessary discards.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠9765 ♡AJ942 ♢K10 ♣Q2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Your hand is worth about 12 points in support of partner's spade call. Therefore, a raise to two would be grossly inadequate. A call to be considered is two hearts, with the intention of raising spades on the next round. Unfortunately, however, if you bid two hearts there may be no next round, for in view of your pass partner might not carry on. Our choice is three spades, which is not forcing after a previous pass by you.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠Q4 ♡Q10 ♢K976 ♣AJ972
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♣	Dble.	2 ♡	Dble.
Pass	Pass	Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—From your holding and the bidding, it is probable that dummy will come down with practically nothing in high cards, be short in clubs, and have two or three hearts. To eliminate club ruffs in dummy, you must attack with trumps, and the best time is right now. Lead a heart.

Q. 5—You are South, vulnerable, and hold:
♠J ♡KQ1063 ♢A74 ♣QJ92
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♢	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—In view of the fact that partner made a vulnerable overcall, you ought not to abandon hope for game without one more try. The suggested call is two no trump. If partner does not then contract for game you may relax in the knowledge that you have done your full duty.

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K96 ♡Q1043 ♢AJ42 ♣95
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Dble.	Rdbl.	2 ♢
Pass	3 ♣	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Inasmuch as you have already shown an above average hand by redoubling, it is enough for you now to bid just three hearts. Only if partner has an absolute rock bottom minimum should he decline to go on.

Q. 7 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A3 ♡AKJ1072 ♢83 ♣542
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♢	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts — despite the very fine texture of your heart suit a jump to three hearts would not be in order. The hand is not strong enough to sustain such a call. It is true that a mere rebid of two hearts represents an underbid of the values held, but there is a reasonably good chance that partner will bid again, inasmuch as he designated at least an average hand by his two diamond response.

Q. 8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠4 ♡AK1063 ♢AQ4 ♣Q632
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South

What do you bid?

A.—Even tho you possess a sound opening bid in the minimum range, this is not the type of hand on which to make a takeout double, chiefly because of your lack of preparation for handling spade rebids by partner. Bid one heart. If partner does not take some free action you will not have missed a game.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time to look at both sides of whatever question arises and then to sleep on it before coming to any definite conclusion which you can do much better tomorrow. You now would be wise to engage in aiding close companions with their problems. Also, take care of own personal problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Making right preparations now for what is very important in your life, particularly where intimate affairs are concerned, is wise. Listen to the voice of your conscience before acting.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handling those matters that will benefit both you and friends is best today. Engage in group affairs that can be most helpful. Enjoy harmony at home with kin tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day to attend to business matters and show your fine talents to those who can help you to advance more quickly. Show others that you are concerned about their welfare. Be generous.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now obtain information needed to round out your knowledge so that you can pull ahead in your line of endeavor. Take the time to study new avenues of expression in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keeping promises you have made can now wipe the slate clean so that you can make greater progress in the future. Strive for greater harmony with mate. Kindness is the key.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Associates seem to be thinking in a radically different way from you, so study the situation and come to a perfect understanding. Then be more cooperative. Be careful in travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Planning to make your surroundings more charming and delightful is time well spent now. Add to wardrobe only those items that are really necessary. Throw away unwanted clutter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Engaging in recreations that are not expensive is fine. The money saved will come in handy in the days ahead. Look into a new activity that appeals to you. Study all the angles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Little annoyances may arise at home but you can bring them quickly under control, so don't lose your temper. Avoid one who talks too much. Evening is fine for relaxation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle all routine affairs in a relaxed way. Schedule your time wisely. New ideas you have need more work on the details before you put them in operation. Don't forget to shop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You need to get down to more practical affairs now even though you are idealistic by nature. Prove to associates that you wish to cooperate with them. Read and relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Dress in good taste, then make contacts with interesting people. Stop feeling so sorry for yourself. If you count your blessings you will realize you have a lot to be thankful for.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people full of sensitivity, which is fine, provided you teach to use this quality in the proper manner, otherwise your progeny will never become the sturdy individual that others can depend upon. Direct the education along philanthropic, psychological and humanitarian lines.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

A Faster Swing Around Curves

NEW YORK (UPI) —The TurboTrain operated by AMTRAK (The National Railroad Passenger Corporation) between New York and Boston has a pendulous suspension system which causes it to bank inward against curves as opposed to the outward thrust of conventional trains.

The unique system suspends the train from the top of its cars above the center of gravity on A-Fram assembly — enabling the Turbo to round curves 30 to 40 per cent faster than regular trains.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou

North Carolina beef farmers enjoyed a banner marketing season in the state-sponsored fall sales. Feeder calf prices were among the highest ever recorded and yearling steer prices set a record.

Nearly $6.5 million worth of Tar Heel beef was auctioned off in the 21 feeder calf and 11 yearling steer sales. The feeder calves averaged $35.38 per hundredweight. Steers on one feeder sale at Statesville average $39. Heifers in all sales averaged $31.97.

The yearling steer average was $33.15, an all-time high, according to J. S. Buchanan, extension livestock specialist at North Carolina State University.

The good prices reflected a strong demand for the high quality cattle. Out-of-state buyers bought heavily, shipping the Tar Heel beef animals to points as distant as Texas, Nebraska and Iowa. Florida, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana feeders were active buyers, as well as others closer to the state.

Quality continued to improve, Buchanan said. Eight of the eleven yearling sales had a higher percentage of cattle grading "choice" and "good" than a year ago. Over half of the feeder calf sales had a larger percentage in the top grades.

The feeder calves averaged 449 pounds. Some 22,633 were sold for an average price per head of $158.73. Prices a year ago were $32 per hundredweight and $147.29 per head. Weights were heavier the previous year at 460 pounds.

The average yearling price was up sharply from last year's $29.32 per hundred weight.

Buchanan pointed to the difference in price by grade to emphasize the higher returns earned from good, fast-growing calves. On the feeder calf sales, for example, steers grading "good" and better brought their owners an average of $22.59 more per head than those grading "medium." There was an even wider spread between "common" grade steers and the top grades. Some of this difference reflects price per pound and much of it reflects difference in weights.

There was a $28.32 per head spread between "good" and better yearling steers and those in the "medium" grade. There was a gaping $54.41 per head difference between the top grades and "common" grades.

Although only about 10 percent of North Carolina's feeder cattle production is sold through these demonstrational sales, prices paid on the sales strongly influence the market for all cattle sold in the state.

CLEAN SWEEP: Governor Robert W. Scott has declared May as "Clean Sweep" month in North Carolina. During this month, organizations and individuals will be giving special attention to cleaning up their communities. Mrs. J. T. Manning, Jr. Greenville, has been named as the Governor's Beautification Coordinator for Pitt County. She will be giving leadership to a committee that will plan activities for Pitt County.

GARDENS: Many of you already have gardens growing, but if you don't the time is right to get started. You don't need a lot of space either. Fresh tomatoes, squash, greens and pole beans can be grown on most lots. The mini-garden can provide fun as well as food.

Extension's Garden Manual is a complete guide for the home gardner. It covers subjects from site selection through common garden problems. You can get a copy by calling 758-1196 or drop by 203 W. Third Street in Greenville.

LAWNS: While visiting Farmville last week, I saw several people working hard on their lawns (getting ready for the Centennial nō doubt). Then, Alex Allen III wanted to know what kind of grass he could plant that would be easy to get started, would stay green all year long, get by with one fertilizing and wouldn't need to be cut during tobacco harvesting. Sorry Alex, there's no such grass.

In good Extension form, I told him about Carolina Lawns, a bulletin that describes the plant that comes closest to his specifications. It also points out how it should be planted, fertilized, cut, and cared for. Your copy is available at the Agricultural Extension Office. It can help you do your part in making North Carolina more beautiful.

NEW EDUCATION TV CHANNEL: Hal Reynolds, Extension TV Editor, sends word that Channel 25, the newest of the UNC Educational television stations, will begin operating on Sunday May 7. The Channel 25 transmitter is located at Farmville. Pitt County should receive an excellent signal. (Channel 2 can be viewed by some who have a direction antenna, but the signal is often weak).

Extension producers NOW which will be shown at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and 4:30 p.m. each Sunday. NOW covers topis as varied as how to put in a zipper, beekeeping, tooth decay, and a trip on a fishing trawler off the North Carolina coast. Channel 25 promises to be an exciting new educational resource for this area of the State.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

It is very important that the use of certain persistent insecticides be avoided for 1972. DDT and TDE have been banned for use on flue-cured tobacco. However, we are fortunate to have insecticides available that will give satisfactory control for most insects that normally damage tobacco crop.

Flea beetles can be controlled with Disyston, Guthion, Azodrin, and Lannate. Disyston is a systemic insecticide which is disked into the soil prior to transplanting. The other insecticides listed can be applied as a spray on the foliage of the plant.

Budworms can be controlled by applying Secin, Lannate, Azodrin or Thurocide with a powder sprayer. They can also be effectively controlled by using a corn meal bait containing either Dylox or Thurocide.

Sevinmol, Lannate, Azodrin, and Thurocide can be used effectively to control hornworms.

The cabbage looper can be controlled with Lannate and Thurocide.

All of the insecticides that are suggested do not have any harmful residue that will affect the flavor of the smoke and they do not have harmful residue in the mainstream smoke of the cigarettes.

Regardless of which insecticide you use, be sure to read all instructions on the label. Be sure to observe any precautions as to safety in application.

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (AP) — Leroy Sanchez, 26-year-old education major at Highlands University, is an elected member of the Las Vegas City Council.

Figuring Out A $100 Billion Pile

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you've ever wondered just how much a billion dollars is, try asking yourself how much is $100 billion.

C.I.T. Financial Corporation, which has financed that amount of business in the past 20 years, figured it out that 100 billion dollars in dollar bills would (a) reach to the moon and back 20 times, or (b) pay the cost of all new home construction started in the United States during the past three years.

If you're not home-owning happy or moon-minded, $100 billion would (c) provide $480 in cash for every man, woman and child in the United States, according to the company.

Puerto Rico Is A Big Customer

SAN JUAN (UPI)—Puerto Rico bought more than $9.2 billion worth of goods from the mainland United States in 1971, according to the Puerto Rico Planning Board. On a per capita basis, the Island's residents buy more from the United States than does Canada, the biggest customer of the United States.

No Action On Pipeline Front

NEW YORK (UPI)—Not one major pipeline project is presently under way in the United States, according to a research report by Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes, investment banking and brokerage house. This is in sharp contrast with 1968, the all-time peak year for Free World pipeline construction, when 27,180 miles of new construction was reported, the Hornblower report says, noting that the situation has been deteriorating ever since.

A banner year for pipeline projects is expected in 1973, the report estimates, due to the substantial backlog built up by construction delays in the United States, the Arctic, Europe, and the Middle East.

Selective Age In Food-Buying

NEW YORK (UPI)—The most nutritious-conscious consumers in the United States are the 18-29 year olds, according to a nationwide research study conducted for Hoffmann-La Roche Inc. The study revealed that 85 per cent of this age group believed vitamins should be added to foods.

Almost 25 per cent volunteered to examine food labels for vitamin content—a big jump from the 9 per cent figure found in a similar study last year.

More marketable tobacco

more profit for you...

with Lannate

Test results and grower experience show dramatic proof that LANNATE gives you more of what you buy an insecticide for:

- More hole-free tobacco.
- Near perfect control of key tobacco insects budworm, hornworm, flea beetle, aphids, cabbage looper.
- Combination contact/stomach action—LANNATE knocks 'em off their feet and gets 'em while they eat!
- Low use-cost per acre. One two-pound can of 90% active LANNATE covers 4 to 8 acres.
- It's easy to use, completely soluble. And it's easy on sprayers and tobacco because it contains no abrasives or solvents.
- The hit-and-run killer—after LANNATE has done its job, it breaks down into harmless materials.

That's why LANNATE is the No.1 insecticide for quality tobacco!

As LANNATE is a highly toxic chemical and protective equipment is required, read and follow label instructions and warnings carefully.
