GAVE THANKS FOR LIFE — The parents of Tami Hogan, 9, of Sacramento who died Thursday of leukemia thought she was unaware she was dying.

The day after her death the fourth grader's parents found this "thanks for life" poem in her school work folder. (AP Wirephoto)

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Tami Hogan was a bright 9-year-old who always showed her parents her school work. Except one item.

It was a crayon illustrated poem called "Thank you for life" that she wrote herself. It said:

"Thank you Lord for letting me be alive today,
"I like to try to help in many ways,
"Thank you for my family,
"We do live quite happily,
"We always play together,
"Oh! Thank you for the sunshine weather,
"It's just wonderful to be alive!"

Tami's father, Gary, a lieutenant with the suburban Carmichael fire department, said he and his wife found the poem the day after his little girl died last Thursday of leukemia.

"My wife looked in a folder, and there was this poem right on top. We'd never seen it before. I wonder if she planned it that way."

Her father said he found out in December 1970 that Tami had the deadly disease.

"We never told her that she had leukemia because we always hoped she'd become well again," Hogan said. "We just told her it was an infection."

"She was reserved, shy and thoughtful. She was always concerned about everybody else, even at the last. The day she died she asked her mother how she—her mother—was doing."

Tami's teacher, Sister Mary Carton of Our Lady of the Assumption School, said the little girl knew something was wrong. "She said once she wished she could have just one day when she didn't feel sick."

Tami's grandmother, Mrs. Robert Mead, said the youngster "could put herself in your place. She knew more than what you thought she knew about life."

North Viet Invaders Said Badly Battered

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces today claimed major successes on two fronts of the North Vietnamese offensive, including destruction of an entire enemy tank battalion by U.S. B52 bombers below the demilitarized zone and the killing of more than 500 enemy troops on the northern front.

On the southern front north of Saigon, an American general claimed that the North Vietnamese who swept down Highway 13 had been badly battered and "are on the run to Cambodia."

Delayed reports said the tank battalion was wiped out Sunday in one of the most successful B52 strikes of the war. The reports said waves of the giant Stratofortresses destroyed 27 tanks and three artillery pieces and killed 100 North Vietnamese.

The target area was five miles northwest of Dong Ha and seven miles below the DMZ. The reports said South Vietnamese officials confirmed the destruction.

Nearly 60 more B52 strikes were flown today across South Vietnam and the big bombers dropped about 1,800 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations threatening the provincial capitals of Quang Tri and Hue in the northernmost provinces. Kontum City in the central highlands and An Loc north of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese command claimed that infantry, artillery and air strikes killed another 442 North Vietnamese troops in 10 battles along the approaches to Quang Tri and Hue, which are said to be key objectives of the Communists' 13-day-old offensive. One fight was within a half mile of Quang Tri, which is 19 miles below the DMZ and nine miles below the government's northernmost defense line. Hue is 35 miles southeast of Quang Tri.

A battalion of several hundred U.S. troops from the 196th Infantry Brigade was moved today from the Da Nang area to Phu Bai, eight miles south of Hue, to strengthen U.S. security forces already there. Although the 196th is one of the two U.S. ground combat units left in Vietnam, informed sources said the role of the troops was not to help out the South Vietnamese but to augment a company of other 196th Brigade soldiers who are responsible for the protection of an American communications unit and other facilities there.

Eight U.S. destroyers and the cruiser Oklahoma City, the 7th Fleet's flagship, bombarded enemy troop, tank, artillery and mortar positions 10 to 18 miles north of Quang Tri.

In the Saigon area, a lone Viet Cong sapper slipped into a South Vietnamese ammunition dump eight miles east of the capital before dawn and set off an explosive charge.

Maj. Gen. James F. Hollingsworth, senior U.S. adviser in the Saigon region, said lead elements of a 20,000-man government relief column would reach An Loc, the threatened provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon on Highway 13, by Wednesday.

Cast Iron Sewer Pipes 'Required'

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A resolution establishing cast iron sewer pipe as the only acceptable materials to be used in construction of outside sewer lines for private property in Greenville was passed unanimously by the City Council at its continuation session Monday night.

With this action, the resolution will now be submitted to the North Carolina State Building Code Council for its consideration, and if adopted by the state council, the resolution will become the law of Greenville for restricting outside sewer pipes to cast iron materials.

City Manager Harry Hagerty told councilmen "this is one of the hottest issues in North Carolina."

Building inspector J. Woodrow Wilson showed council members a section of fiber pipe, taken from a Greenville residence, that had collapsed from the bottom. Wilson outlined the chemical reactions that cause the collapse and deterioration of this type of pipe. He said it was not only in older houses, but in newer houses in higher priced residential areas that the problems were being reported.

"Charlotte," Wilson commented, "was the first North Carolina city to adopt a resolution requiring the use of cast iron. Since then, Salisbury, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Goldsboro and Albemarle, to my knowledge, have passed similar ordinances."

Wilson said the Attorney General of North Carolina was now involved in investigating the problem which is a statewide one.

The public hearing on abandonment of portions of Mill, Factory Center, Cross and Wade Street was tabled until the next meeting to secure additional information.

Other matters considered by the council and action taken were: approval for payment of the $3,000 appropriation set aside in the 1971-72 budget for the Greenville Art Center; a waiver of privilege license to the Greenville Jaycees for the Clyde Beatty Circus to appear in Greenville on April 21; approval of street improvement petitions for portions of Van Dyke Street, East Gum Road and North Pitt Street, all in Meadowbrook; and approval of no-parking regulations for Tenth Street from Dickinson Avenue to U.S. 264 By-pass and U.S. 264 By-pass from a point 200 feet east of Elm Street to U.S. 264 Business (Tenth Street).

responsibility for coordinating design and construction of the city's portion of construction work involved in the Central Business District Project.

"As executive agency," Hagerty remarked, "the office of the City Engineer will coordinate with the Redevelopment Commission Office and other agencies involved in the construction phase of the project."

In a report on the status of the Greenville Foundation, City Attorney David Reid said that after "being gipped by the colonel" (City Manager Harry Hagerty), he had in March submitted the big volume of forms required by the Internal Revenue Department. Recently, the department had sent another group of additional forms to be completed, which Reid reported he was now in the process of completing.

Reid is scheduled to make another report on the status of the foundation after he has received a reaction report from the Internal Revenue Department.

Plans For New Office Building Approved At Commission Meet

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Plans for a proposed office building on the northeast corner of Fourth and Cotanche Streets received approval from the Redevelopment Commission Monday night.

Commissioners approved, subject to staff and attorney review, a proposal by John E. (Jack) Stoughton to construct an office complex on the site that would house his offices and also those of several tenants.

Appearing before the commission, Stoughton reported that the structure would have approximately 3,400 square feet of space. Parking requirements would be more than met, he said, as plans called for several more than the minimum of ten spaces he would have to include.

Col. A. E. Dubber, executive director, noted that the commission had planned to acquire the property but it is now felt that it will not be necessary. Dubber pointed out that the commission will need severances on two sides of the property for street improvements but a not-to-be-acquired agreement is unnecessary.

Stoughton said that he hopes to start building within two weeks and have the structure complete within six months.

In other business, CBD project manager Lawrence Holt said that another piece of property has been acquired on Evans Street south of Eighth Street and an option to purchase property adjacent to land owned by Wilkerson Funeral Home had been received. He noted, also, that the commission has an option on property at the corner of Fifth and Greene Street owned by British Petroleum Corp.

Holt said that the CBD imp-

Tax Indictment Faces Lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., was charged with evading more than $100,000 in income taxes, perjury and conspiracy by a federal grand jury, the Justice Department announced today.

Gallagher, a seven-term congressman from Bayonne, N.J., was accused of evading taxes on more than $186,000 of personal income over a two-year period. He was also charged with assisting two unindicted coconspirators of evading taxes on an additional $326,000.

The seven-count indictment was returned by a federal grand jury Friday in U.S. District Court in Newark and was unsealed.

During the years 1960 to 1967, the indictment charged, Gallagher hid his income by purchasing bonds under fictitious names, purchases which totaled more than $495,000 for himself and more than $326,000 for the coconspirators from 1966 on.

The specific counts charged Gallagher with:

—Two counts of attempted tax evasion during the years 1966 and 1967 through preparation of false and fraudulent joint returns.

—Conspiracy to evade taxes owed by two unindicted coconspirators, former Jersey City Mayor Thomas J. Whelan and former Jersey City City Council President Thomas M. Flaherty.

—Four counts of perjury for allegedly lying to the grand jury.

Both Flaherty and Whelan are serving 15-year sentences at Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary after being convicted last July on charges arising out of a plot to extort contractors doing business with Jersey City.

The two counts of tax evasion charged that Gallagher in 1966 listed his taxable income as $32,917, with a tax of $9,045, while his actual taxable income was $159,258, with a tax of $83,090.

The second count accused Gallagher of listing his 1967 taxable income as $19,133, with a tax of $4,137, while his actual taxable income was $78,241, with a tax of $32,320.

Two resolutions relating to the Central Business District Project were approved by the council.

The first is one that modifies details of the construction of Reade Loop between Fifth and Cotanche Street. Prior to the modified plan, the construction of the street would have resulted in an expensive retaining wall for the women's dormitory that would have been closely adjacent to the street.

The modified plan calls for moving the street 28 more feet distant from the building, which eliminates the need for the retaining wall. The City Manager pointed out that state officials heartily endorsed the modification.

These officials had been insisting on a massive wall to protect the foundation of the building as well as insurance in perpetuity in the amount of half a million dollars.

The second resolution names the Office of the City Engineer as the agency charged with

Apollo Crew Is Checked

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts underwent their final major physical examination today while technicians corrected a small gas leak in the spaceship they are to ride to the moon Sunday.

A team of doctors began a four-hour examination of John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II to determine their fitness for flight and to gather baseline data for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

At the launch pad, a crew changed a flexible line that had been the source of a slow leak of nitrogen gas in a science equipment bay in the command ship.

The problem, described as minor, had no effect on the countdown, which continued smoothly toward the planned liftoff time of 12:54 p.m. Sunday.

Mattingly can recall a similar physical examination nearly two years ago when it was discovered he had been exposed to German measles.

Incorporation Date Settled

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

By resolution, the date of March 19, 1774 has been established as the "charter" or "incorporation" date of the City of Greenville.

That date was adopted by the City Council Monday night after hearing City Attorney David Reid present a record of findings of the history of Greenville. Reid, noting that several versions existed, cited the official records on file in the N.C. Department of Archives and History.

The Colonial Assembly in 1771 authorized Richard Evans to lay out 100 acres for a town to be called Martinsborough. Before this could be accomplished, Richard Evans died and his widow Susanna Evans sold and deeded land in July 1772 as town lots.

On March 19, 1774, the Colonial Assembly ratified action which had taken place prior to that date, and authorized the removal of the county court, prison and stocks to Martinsborough.

Reid told councilmen that in his opinion the council could accept either the July, 1772 or the March, 1774 date as a valid one, as the choice of dates was a matter of interpretation.

Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath introduced the idea of a charter or incorporation date as being a more specific definition than a founding date. Councilmen favored this concept as the record is more detailed and specific on action taken by the Colonial Assembly on the March 1774 date.

Following adoption of the resolution, Mayor S. Eugene West appointed Councilmen Dr. Frank Fuller and William Dansey as a committee to begin planning for a 1974 bicentennial celebration.

Food Stamp Fraud Investigations Revealed Underway In County

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
County officials have confirmed that a series of investigations are underway in Pitt into alleged incidents of fraud involving the distribution and receipt of food stamps in the county.

No warrants have been issued in any of the cases under investigation, however.

One case allegedly involves a county Department of Social Service employee while other cases deal with alleged recipient fraud.

An official of the state Department of Social Services said Monday that the investigations are under way.

John H. Kerr, chief of the department's food assistance section said, "We know that there's an irregularity." And he said, "there is a county employe involved," but noted, "we've been asked not to comment on it at this time."

The investigations are being conducted by Joseph Choo an investigator for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's inspector general's office and members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Officials indicated that the case involving the county employe would be handled in Federal Court while other cases would be handled in the State courts.

Assistant District Solicitor Tom Haigwood confirmed that warrants are being prepared charging an estimated $20,000 worth of food stamps were obtained fraudulently by persons in the county. He said these cases may involve as many as a dozen warrants.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that 15 to 20 individuals may be involved in the cases — including the recipient fraud allegations and the case involving the county employe.

The case involving the Social Service worker, Tyson said, may also involve other individuals.

Miss Dorothy Bolton, director of the county Department of Social Service said she would not comment on the investigations until warrants had been issued in the cases but confirmed that one employee of her department has been temporarily suspended until the investigations are complete.

She said as much as $25,000 worth of stamps may be connected with the case allegedly involving her department's employe.

Haigwood said he hopes warrants will be served in the state court cases this week.

Choo, who declined to comment on the investigations, indicated he had no idea when federal warrants would be issued.

Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners said the board requested the investigations after it learned "something was going on in the program."

County Commissioners for some months have been attempting to gain state approval for hiring a Social Service Eligibility Auditor to keep tabs on the eligibility of persons who receive the coupons. Approval for such a position by the State Personnel Board was forthcoming just three weeks ago.

Pitt was apparently the first county in the state to seek such a position.

An auditor of this type would hopefully prevent fraudulent use of Social Service Department programs.

Farmville Centennial Ladies' Day Has Its Highlights

FORMAL GARDENS . . . were a lovely setting for Farmville belles in their centennial attire yesterday afternoon.

A QUILT TOP . . . is displayed by several members of the Century Belles chapter, which will donate the finished quilt to the Centennial Corporation for auctioning Wednesday at 4 p.m.

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — A quilting bee, needlework, homemade butter, biscuits, and jam, fashions of the last 100 years, and a lovely garden in bloom were some of the items enjoyed by many Farmville belles during yesterday's Ladies' Day of Centennial Week.

A Homemaker's Fair at the Farmville Art Center was made interesting by exhibits of fine needlework and also by displays of old apparel and household items. The walls of one room were lined with examples of needlepoint, crochet, bargallo, applique, cross stitch, crewel and other embroidery, most the work of Farmville and Mountain women. In the center of the room, seated in antique chairs, different women plied different kinds of handwork. In the same room, Mrs. Perry Harper made up buttermilk biscuits, while Mrs. Henry Smith churned butter by hand. The biscuits and butter were served with homemade preserves and jellies and fresh brewed coffee.

In the next room, the Century Belles Chapter worked on a patchwork quilt that will be auctioned tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m. downtown.

In the third room were displayed old books, old clothing, pictures, dolls and other interesting items loaned by local families. Frilly underwear, a tiny doll given a long-departed ancestor by her school teacher, an envelope addressed to Dongola, a post office no longer extant but once located just outside Farmville — these were just some of the items.

A luncheon at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall was sold out. The highlight was a fashion show in which local belles wore authentic dresses from the 1870's to the present. From bell skirts to bustles to the straight look of the 20's and 30's to the shoulder pads of the 50's all the looks were shown. There were wedding dresses, a nurse's uniform and a Girl Scout uniform included also.

A garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Monk followed the luncheon. Guests were served on the patio in view of the Monks' formal gardens resplendent with the colors of spring.

Also Pioneer Day Yesterday was also a day to honor the town's pioneers — persons who have lived here for more than 50 years.

These people enjoyed a luncheon at the First Christian Church and then toured their town by bus. Miss Tabitha DeVisonti won an essay contest based on her remembrances of Farmville years ago. Miss Bettie Joyner was voted the wearer of the best pioneer's costume.

Attend Program On Drug Usage

Miss Jean Owens and John Stallings, director of nursing and pharmacist respectively at Pitt Memorial Hospital, attended last Wednesday a program entitled "Moderizing Drug Usage Systems."

Sponsored jointly by the UNC School of Pharmacy, the N.C. Hospital Association, and the N.C. Society of Hospital Pharmacists, the seminar was designed to help make hospital administrators, nursing administrators, hospital pharmacists, and hospital medical staffs more aware of the many innovations which have been recently introduced in hospital drug distribution systems and the new roles which have resulted from these innovations. Stallings said.

Water Treatment Operators Held Meeting In Greenville

The Southeastern Waste Water Treatment Operators Association held their semi-monthly meeting in Greenville Friday.

Pitt Technical Institute and Greenville Utilities Commission jointly sponsored the meeting which began with a tour of the new construction at the Greenville Waste Water Treatment Plant. Following the tour, the group had dinner at the Three Steers Restaurant.

Presiding over the meeting was Nathan Scott, Greenville Utilities Commission and Vice Chairman of the Association. Guest speaker was A. C. Turnage, Water Quality Division Regional Engineer from the Water and Air Resources Division Eastern Region office located in Greenville.

Turnage discussed the importance of the plant operator, comparing him to the front-line Infantry in the battle to save environmental water resources. He also discussed the importance of the Clean Water Bond Issue which will be up for vote by citizens of North Carolina on May 6 of this year.

Dean Painter, recently designated Chairman of the air and Water Resources Technology Department at Pitt Technical Institute, notified the group that the State Board of Education had approved a two-year Air and Water Technician program, subject to approval of the local Board of Trustees, to begin in September of this year. He also stated that plans were being formulated for another program to provide training for waste water plant and water plant operators.

According to Painter, "The program will probably be offered one or two afternoons or evenings per week to help operators upgrade their certification."

Nat'l Action Week For Foster Children

President Nixon has proclaimed this week as National Action for Foster Children Week.

In a Presidential proclamation, Pres. Nixon urged national, state and local officials, voluntary agencies and private groups to give special attention during this week "to the needs of foster children."

The President stressed in his proclamation that "many more foster parents are needed for the children in our society who, for whatever reason, cannot remain in their own homes."

Across North Carolina, county departments of social services are providing care to 5,000 foster children every day. These children are all ages from newborn to 21 years.

Nearly 2,400 North Carolina families are volunteering use of their homes for care of these foster children.

"Overpopulation, weakened kinship ties, psychological isolation, the generation gap, unemployment and poverty are a few of the crises faced by families and children," states Clifton M. Craig, North Carolina Commissioner of Social Services. "As long as such conditions exist, the need for foster homes will grow," Craig concluded.

Every county department of social services provides foster care services. These services need community understanding and support as well as families who are willing and able to work with social services departments and the tasks of foster parenthood.

Persons interested in becoming foster parents are urged to contact their local department of social services for information on how they can help meet this community need.

Illustrated Program Presented By Yancey

Edwin Yancey, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, presented a program illustrated by slides "Keeping N.C. Liveable" to the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville Wednesday night.

Debbie Gardner also presented a mini program on the proposed "Walk for Development" project to be held April 29.

The new members were introduced and welcomed into the club.

Junior Day for Districts 12-16 met in Rocky Mount on April 5 with Mrs. Stuart Savage, Mrs. William Fuqua Jr. and Mrs. Phil Nordan attending from Greenville.

The North Carolina Federation of Women's Club convention will be held in Greensboro May 2-5. Mrs. Fuqua, Mrs. Nordan and Mrs. Savage expect to be in attendance for this meeting.

Committee reports were given by: Mrs. James Hudson, Home Life Department; Mrs. Frank Freuler, Education; Mrs. Nordan, International Affairs, announcing plans for a bake sale which was held Friday and Saturday with proceeds going to Project Concern;

Mrs. Charles Coggins, Public Affairs, who said her committee would visit the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center Saturday; Mrs. Bobby Swinson, Fine Arts; and Mrs. Herman King, Conservation.

Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, chairman of the forthcoming Antique Show and Sale, announced plans are underway for the show and sale to be held Oct. 11-12.

It was announced that an Easter party was given at Caswell Center Austin A with Mrs. Hudson and Mrs. Savage representing the club. Easter refreshments were served and favors were given to the girls.

The next meeting of the club will be held May 10 due to the NCFWC Convention being held on May 3.

No Campaign By Muskie In N.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Carolina coordinator for Edmund Muskie says the Maine senator won't come to North Carolina to campaign for the May presidential primary.

Muskie's decision Monday leaves only Terry Sanford, George Wallace and Rep. Shirley Chisholm active on the Democratic presidential ballot for the May 6 primary.

Hall said, "It was a very hard decision because of Gov. (Bob) Scott's support and the strengths we have consistently shown in the polls in North Carolina." He said Muskie still hopes to win some of the 64 Tar Heel delegates to the Democratic National Convention in July, perhaps their second ballot votes.

Tickets Offered For Home Tour

Tickets for the Greenville Home Tour for the benefit of the Greenville Art Center are now on sale at three locations in Greenville. Mrs. James Cheatham III, co-chairman of the tour announces.

In addition to the Art Center, tickets can be purchased at Brody's, Pitt Plaza or from Lautares Jewelers in downtown Greenville.

Tickets, priced at $5.00 each, cover the tour of seven homes in Greenville, as well as a treat to tea at the Art Center and a tour of the permanent collection of the center to be on view for this occasion.

The tour begins at 1:00 p.m. Thursday and will continue until six p.m. The beginning point is the home of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins on East Fifth Street.

Bethel News

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogerson entertained at a buffet luncheon at their home Sunday. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Burton Jr. and children, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rogerson and family, Billy Wayne, Jerry Lynn and Mr. and Mrs. Ebron Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Burton and Mrs. A. J. Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. George Willford and family from Maryland are guests of her father, M. T. Whitehurst, and son, Joe.

Mrs. Beatrice Edmondson's recent dinners guests were Mrs. Ruby Finch of Greenville, Mrs. Abe Gray and son, Jeff, of Robersonville, Mrs. Jarvis Edgerton and son from Kenly and Mrs. A. J. Crane.

Mrs. Evorah Bowers of Greenville was a recent dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cullifer.

Wife Wants A Bigger Diamond

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married 28 years ago, he gave me the smallest diamond I had ever seen. I was glad to get any sized diamond at the time, but as the years passed, my husband became more prosperous and I kept hoping he would replace it with a larger one. He never did.

On my 25th wedding anniversary I gave him a fine piece of jewelry which I saved for out of my household allowance. He gave me 25 roses!

Soon after, I lost the diamond out of my little ring. My husband promised to buy me another one, but he didn't. If we passed a jewelry store, I'd stop to look in the window, but my husband would walk away.

Last Christmas my husband put a tiny box under the tree. When I opened it I found my old ring with the tiny diamond replaced! I tried to put it on my finger, but I had gained some weight and it wouldn't fit. I put it back in the box and it hasn't been out since.

What do I do? Go to work and earn enough money to buy myself a nice diamond ring? Make my little ring larger and wear it?

My husband could well afford to buy me a bigger diamond and I feel so shabby and insecure in the presence of my friends who have such lovely jewelry. FIFTY

DEAR FIFTY: Face it. Your husband is not likely to buy you a bigger diamond unless you ask him to. If it's that important to you and he can afford it, ask him. Besides, diamonds are not only a girl's best friend, they're also a good investment!

DEAR ABBY: My wife has presented me with a problem and I want your opinion before I make a decision on the matter.

We have two children [both girls] and I want a son. My wife has said that two children are all she wants, then she went ahead and had one of those intra-uterine devices installed without my knowledge. She surprised me with the information several months later.

The reason I am upset is actually because she did it without my knowledge. I am thinking of leaving her, but am not sure that is the correct solution to this problem. What is your opinion? ANGRY

DEAR ANGRY: Your wife did inform you of her decision NOT to have any more children. Her method of preventing further pregnancies seems to me a personal matter, since it's her body. If you are thinking of "leaving her" for this reason, think harder. There must be a better reason.

Fayetteville, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bullock of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Bullock of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. David Bullock of Winterville and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bullock of Kinston. The couple has 12 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Approximately 200 friends and relatives celebrated the occasion.

D. J. Whichard, Sr. Gives Program

David J. Whichard Sr. was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club held Friday afternoon.

Whichard gave a brief history of Greenville, from the "good old days, which were not so good," he said, "up to the present progressive city."

He traced the progress of the churches, transportation and education.

Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, vice president, conducted the meeting and introduced Rex Voorhees, of the Greenville Utilities Commission, who gave facts on the "Clean Water Bonds."

North Carolina, he said, cannot expect to enjoy adequate supplies of clean water in the future unless the people approve the $150 million Clean Water Bonds. This bond issue will not increase local or state taxes.

The Woman's Club will sponsor a bridge tournament on Wednesday, April 19, at the club house, with two sessions of bridge. The first session will begin at 2 p.m. followed by another session at eight o'clock. Persons desiring to play are asked to purchase tickets from club members.

Mrs. L. A. Stroud will give the program at the next meeting of the Fine Arts Department at the club building. Mrs. George Clapp will be hostess to the Home Life Department April 18. Miss Elsie Seago will give the program.

Mrs. Dink James reported on the Authors Luncheon to be held April 29 at 1 p.m. at the club building. Mrs. Bernedette Hoyle of Raleigh will be the guest speaker. Members were urged

Bride-Elect Entertained On Thursday

Miss Rebecca Forrest, whose marriage to Ellis Atkinson will take place April 15, was honored at a linen shower Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Clapp Jr.

Upon arrival, Miss Forrest was presented a corsage of white carnations.

Greeting the guests were Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. William A. Pollard, who presented them to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Richard R. Forrest.

The tea table, covered with an imported white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with an arrangement of pink snapdragons, white maunt. Hood daffodils and yellow iris, flanked by a three branch silver candelabra with pink candles. Mrs. Troy Rouse poured punch and the cake was served by Mrs. Clapp.

A color scheme of pink, green, white and yellow was carried out in refreshments and in all flowers throughout the house.

Following the opening of gifts, Mrs. Rouse, president of the Inglis Fletcher Book Club, presented Miss Forrest with a silver tray, a gift from the club of which her mother is a member.

Invited guests were Mrs. James B. Goddard III of Cleveland, Ohio, sister of the bride-to-be, relatives, friends, and members of the Inglis Fletcher Book Club.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Rouse, Mrs. Sylvester Green, Mrs. R. E. Laughter, and Mrs. Michael Martin.

to get their tickets for the luncheon. Mrs. Polly Dail was welcomed as a new member.

Community Colleges Fill Role

An interesting development insofar as North Carolina's growing community college and technical institute system is concerned is the fact that students are transferring from the four year colleges, as well as to them.

The Department of Community Colleges reported that for the fall quarter of 1971-72, 1,341 students who had previously attended public or private four-year institutions transferred to one of the state's 15 community colleges or to a technical institute.

Bob Anderson, director of the College Transfer Division of the Department of Community Colleges said there were several reasons for this movement.

Many students should have started in the community college system in the first place. Perhaps they did not, Anderson says, because they lacked knowledge concerning the institutions or they or their parents considered four year institutions more prestigious.

Cost is another reason for such transfers, since the two year institutions cost far less than the colleges and universities with four year programs.

We suspect also that those who transfer from four year to two year institutions often find the four year schools simply do not offer the specific programs that are of interest to them. Once they become aware of this they often find that the two year institutions do have what they are seeking.

The two year institutions were created to fill a void in education beyond high school. They are generally thought of as offering programs to students who do not wish to go on to college or who have not fully decided on seeking college degrees.

We see also, however, that they furnish training for young people who do go on to four year institutions and decide that degree programs are not for them, or that the type training they want is not to be found in degree programs.

This is another plus for the community college system.

Soaring Employment Is Very Welcome Report

An encouraging sign in the steady stream of statistics on the economy is the news that employment is up.

The government reported that employment rose 620,000 to 81.2 million during March. It was the largest gain in nearly five years. The number of jobless edged down despite the fact that the unemployment rate rose slightly due to seasonal factors.

It appears that the employment picture is improving and that is good news.

The Raid On Muskie Bank

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—While

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie is in Chicago last week pleading with his discouraged money men not to lose heart, Sen. Hubert Humphrey's top fundraiser was preparing his second raid in three weeks on vital Muskie money sources in New York City.

Eugene Wyman, the Beverly Hills lawyer who is one of the Democratic party's most prodigious fundraisers, will check into Manhattan's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel this week to woo fat cats publicly committed to Muskie but privately coming to the conclusion that only Humphrey can stop Sen. George McGovern.

This is the second phase of an operation begun two weeks ago when Wyman traveled across the continent on a clandestine mission. Working out of the New York home of a former college friend, Wyman sought out money men strong for Humphrey in 1968 but backing Muskie in 1972.

He hit pay dirt, including some who had been Muskie's leading fund-raisers. A few told Wyman they endorsed Muskie only because they assumed Humphrey would not run. Others expressed discouragement over Muskie's fourth-place in Florida.

Wyman collected between $50,000 and $100,000 in cold barrelhead cash from the Muskie men—and something else: commitments for more generous contributions if Humphrey finished ahead of Muskie in Wisconsin. Wyman now returns to New York to pick up those commitments.

He would be getting still more money had Humphrey actually won the Wisconsin primary instead of his so-so third place. Nevertheless, the Democratic fat cats, liberal on social and foreign policy questions, are worried by what they consider McGovern's anti-capitalist fiscal positions and may contribute to Humphrey as the best way to stop McGovernism before it's too late.

Secretary Rush

President Nixon has confided to aides that his old law professor, Deputy Defense Secretary Kenneth Rush, is now first choice to succeed Melvin R. Laird as Secretary of Defense in a second Nixon administration.

That tentative decision drastically narrows the options for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who badly wants to join a new Nixon administration. Rockefeller's preference is, Secretary of State, but Rockefeller hints he might settle for Defense.

Making Rush Defense Secretary would also be a blow to Elliot Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), whose second-term aspirations now center on the Defense Department.

Rush has a long leg up on Laird's job. Mr. Nixon gives him top credits, as U.S. ambassador to West Germany, for steering the Berlin talks to a successful conclusion last year. As the President's 27-year-old law professor at Duke University in 1936, he has a personal relationship with Mr. Nixon that transcends Rockefeller's and Richardson's.

A footnote: Laird is keeping one option open: to succeed Richardson as HEW Secretary, the only executive branch job Laird has ever coveted.

Strength For Today

THAT DEFINITE PATTERN

The life of Christ gives us a picture and relates a miraculous series of events which we may well ponder. Wouldn't it have been better to have had the Messiah a resplendent figure standing above the world and shocking us all to attention? Not at all. It was much better to have had the Christian revelation begin with the birth of a baby in the stable wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in a manger. It was much better also that a teenage boy should have listened and asked questions of the religious leaders of his time. It was better that death came to this Holy One followed by resurrection and a triumphal march through the centuries. The Lord has arranged things after a definite pattern and we had better let it go at that and be satisfied. The more we try to use our Christian faith the more will we see its value. The higher we reach in our search for knowledge and light the better will we find life to be. Wouldn't it be great if the affairs of life the world over were put in our hands? No. It would be such a mistake and tragedy that it would probably take the world centuries to get over it.

A noted scholar recently announced that he was going to lecture on the subject "What's going to happen to God?" We think the answer to that query can only be given by God Himself and with us left out of the picture. We can be ridiculous when we put ourselves at the center of things and ask foolish questions.

The Cause Of Justice

What in the world has happened to Stewart and White? The two swinging members of the U.S. Supreme Court seem to have swung awry this term. They are taking our criminal law back to the never-never land of the Warren years.

Potter Stewart has served on the Court since 1958, Byron R. White since 1962. Over most of this period they have functioned as middlemen between the shifting conservative and liberal blocs. In the field of criminal law, they generally have demonstrated sound common sense.

But the Court has delivered itself this term of four turkeys, all of them hatched by 5-2 votes. In each of the cases, Stewart and White joined the doctrinaire liberals — William O. Douglas,

William J. Brennan, and Thurgood Marshall. The effect, in each case, was to benefit an obviously guilty defendant, and to make the burden on law enforcement needlessly greater.

The most recent of these judicial miscarriages came on March 23, when the Court voided a Georgia curse-and-abuse statute as unconstitutional on its face. The ruling, to borrow Chief Justice Warren Burger's dissenting description, was "bizarre." Justice Harry Blackmun, who also dissented, took a long breath and summed up the facts and the holding this way:

"It seems strange indeed that in this day a man may say to a police officer, who is attempting to restore access to a public building, 'White son of a bitch, I'll kill you' and 'You son of a bitch, I'll choke you to death,' and say to an accompanying officer, 'You son of a bitch, if you ever put your hands on me again, I'll cut you all to pieces,' and yet constitutionally cannot be prosecuted and convicted under a state statute which makes it a misdemeanor to 'use to or of another, and in his presence, opprobrious words or abusive language, tending to cause a breach of the peace...' This, however, is precisely what the Court pronounces as the law today."

The majority's objection to the Georgia law was that the statute failed to define the offense precisely. That was the same objection raised by the same five justices to a portion of the Federal gun control law in a case decided back in December. In a dazzling exhibition of pedantry at its worst, the majority went searching for ambiguity until it found some. The effect was to weaken, if not to destroy, a statute prohibiting the possession or transportation of a firearm by a convicted felon.

On January 11, in U.S. v. Tucker and on March 22 in Loper v. Beto, Stewart and White again joined the soft-hearted three in decisions that made a travesty of justice. The two cases dealt with the retroactive effects of the Court's 1963 opinion in the landmark Gideon case, establishing a defendant's absolute right to counsel.

This is what happened. Tucker was convicted in 1953 of armed bank robbery. Under-cross-examination he freely acknowledged three prior convictions, in 1938, 1946, and 1950. The evidence against him was overwhelming. A jury found him guilty and the judge gave him 25 years. But it now appears that because Tucker was not represented by counsel in the

Small Town Carny

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE Associated Press Writer JONESBORO, Ga. (AP) — It came at night, the ragged little carnival, setting up its assortment of pasteboard and cloth sideshow fronts, patched tents and ancient rides in a weeded vacant lot next door to a shopping center.

The dirt in front of the ticket booth was sprayed a bilious green to give the semblance of turf.

By dawn, the job done, two dozen battered-looking souls who worked the carnival snoozed in trailers, beneath trucks or in a few small tents, awaiting the day's business.

It would be a two-day stand, part of the carnival's endless and dusty passage through small Southern towns ignored by the bigger shows with their slick chrome, plastic booths, modern lights and vulcanized weiners. The bigger carnivals played the large county fairs, leaving the rest for the others forlornly criss-crossing the land.

The little carnival in the empty lot had made no effort to present a veneer of civility. Up front were a creaking merry-go-round and a couple of other rides suitable for the kids. Toward the back were a girly show, a peep show, a freak show.

The freak show barker was a baldish, wizened little man named Billy who stood on tiptoes in his sweaty khakis and made his pitch with the aid of a loudspeaker.

"What we got in here," said Billy, in what he must have imagined was the tone affected by carnival barkers, "is this unbelievable collection—a baby with one head and two bodies, sights you'll want to tell your friends about ... I tell you what, mom and dad, you pay and the kid for free."

Billy found few takers, for the 30 or 40 persons wandering about the carnival seemed to have come not to see the shows or play the games of chance, but to ogle the people who

New Help In Fighting Pollution

By ELMER ROESSNER

Two unrelated developments may do much to assist the struggles to save the ecology. A University of Wisconsin professor and an assistant have developed a method of removing mercury from waste gases, water or sludge. Dynallectron Corp. has developed an inexpensive technique for removing sulfur from the heaviest fuel oils.

Prof. Thomas W. Chapman and assistant Reinaldo have devised a method by which gases or liquids containing mercury are acidified in liquid and then exposed to a series of chemicals. The mercury passes through a series of solutions, each containing less liquid until it becomes so concentrated it can be recovered by electrical methods.

Meanwhile, Union Carbide Corp. has also announced that it has a new system that can remove mercury from gas streams. Union Carbide's

"PuraSiv Hg" technology is a cyclic absorption process that traps and recovers mercury in elemental form. Unlike some other technologies, no salts or chemicals are used and there is no secondary pollution problem. The value of the mercury recovered is said to balance the cost of the system.

Mercury removal techniques will help chlorine producers and others meet the proposed federal mercury air-emission standard of five pounds per day per plant.

The removal of sulfur from fuel oil is highly important because high-sulfur oils pollute the air to such an extent that they are prohibited in many places and in many uses.

The Dynallectron process is claimed to produce 0.3 per cent sulfur fuel from either Middle East, South American or North American high-sulfur oils. Axel Johnson, vice president of Dynallectron's subsidiary, Hydrocarbon Research, Inc., told the National Petroleum Refiners Association that the new process would open or expand markets for crude oils with high metal content and/or ash-forming compounds from Iran, Venezuela and California, which cannot be processed economically by other technologies. It will also lead, he said, to the erection of desulfurization plants in many parts of the world.

Meanwhile, Occidental Petroleum Corp. has demonstrated at its research center at La Verne, Calif., a process that converts municipal solid wastes, such as garbage and trash, into a synthetic low-sulfur oil and other salable products. Results of pilot plant operation are said to produce a barrel of oil worth up to $4 from one ton of municipal solid waste.

Do-It Yourself Vehicle Is Taxable, IRS Rules

One transportation company from time to time takes an old tractor and disassembles it, then takes certain components, such as the rear axle, rear suspension system, wheels, tires, engine, transmission, air cleaner, fifth wheel and fuel tanks and adds them to a "glider kit." A glider kit consists of a cab, fenders, dash instruments, wiring, steering wheel, steering gear, seats, chassis frame, front axle and copper tubing for the brake system. So the company has a new vehicle.

"Aha!" says the Internal Revenue Service, "Tax, please!" The new vehicle is subject to the manufacturer's tax, says Rev. Rul. 71-584.

Slides Program For Art Center

A program of showings of color slides from around the world has been announced for the Greenville Art Center by Director Mrs. Edith Walker with the initial showing to take place on Saturday beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Francis Neel, faculty member of the ECU School of Art, will begin his weekly series on Saturday with an introductory show featuring a few slides from many different countries. In following weeks, Neel plans to concentrate each week on a different country or area.

"These are slides I took last summer on an education group tour," the artist-teacher commented. "It was a world tour that lasted a couple of months and took us into many fascinating places."

He said the tour began in Hawaii, with visits in Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, Hong King, Thailand, Nepal, and India in the Far East and Southeast Asia."

After that phase, Neel and the group he traveled with spent time in the Middle East and the Mediterranean area, with stops in Iraq, Iran, Kuwait, Lebanon, Egypt, Cyprus, Greece, and Italy before making the return trip to the U.S.

"I'll be showing mostly slides dealing with architect and peoples," Neel explained. "In fact, that will be the general theme, one of Architect and Peoples of Other Lands."

The viewings are open to anyone of any age, and no admission is being charged. "I'll be delighted to have people bring children," Neel said, "and I believe the slides will appeal to them as well as to adults." He noted he plans to keep the narrative brief and simple and plans to show slides each session for about 45 minutes, and at most no more than an hour.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your mind is alert and active but you are well advised not to concentrate on important plans. Instead, use this energy to start winding up interesting but not vital arrangements. Tomorrow you will be able to put in motion interesting new plans that you can handle well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can engage in those pleasurable activities you like today and derive much happiness from them. Make sure you are with friends and avoid arguments. Go to bed early tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to concentrate on personal affairs that could make your life more harmonious and happy. You can solve annoying problems now. Make sure you control your temper and all is fine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to be with good friends today, and this is fine, but keep a cheerful manner. Make sure you are not extravagant in any way. Make this a pleasant and happy day. Relax at home tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take no risks in handling vocational activities for best results. Improve your credit by paying important bills quickly instead of stalling. Think along right lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are interested in new activities, take the time to study all details. Find those for which you are best suited and wait at least until tomorrow before taking action on them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be afraid to study new systems that could increase your production at work. Loved one may be in a bad mood in the morning, but by evening all changes for the better. Have patience.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make it a point to listen carefully to suggestions of an associate or you may be the loser when benefits are handed out. Be sure to handle an outside duty well. Think logically and all is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas on how to be more efficient at work, so follow through on them. You can make much progress in this area. Talk the future over with co-workers and gain their confidence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Recreation is fine today, provided you are not extravagant or spend your time with the wrong people. A hobby you have could prove most enjoyable now. Plan future activities tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A promise to a close tie must be kept if you are to have the harmony you want with this important person in your life. Entertain at home tonight. Show that you are a delightful person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can make great progress in your intellectual endeavors, be it writing, or whatever. Change your approach with co-workers and get greater cooperation from them. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to be more prosperous, but in your efforts make sure you do so ethically. Obtain advice from clever persons in business. Enthusiasm is the keynote. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people with many fine ideas, but needs to be taught early to study them well before putting them in operation. Your progeny has an excellent mind, so prepare now for higher education. Also, teach early to complete whatever has been started. Sports are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Set 4th Concert Of Chamber Music

The fourth in a series of faculty chamber music programs will be presented by the East Carolina University Chamber Music group on Sunday at 4:15 p.m.

The concert will take place in the Music Recital Hall of the Fletcher Music Building, located on campus adjacent to East Tenth Street.

This fourth of a continuing series to bring chamber music to area residents will open with a Baroque work for trumpet and organ, to be performed by Allen Cox and E. Robert Irwin.

A performance of two short impressionistic pieces for woodwind quintet by composer Guy Ropartz will feature Nancy Neidlinger, flute; Eugene Isabelle, oboe; David Wright, clarinet; James Parnell, horn; and Beverley Ervin, bassoon.

The third selection on the program will be a trio sonata for oboe and continuo to be played by Eugene Isabelle with Ellen Reithmaier and Linda Fryman assisting.

For the final selection, the featured work will be Brahms' "Trio, Opus 114" for clarinet, cello and piano. Pianist Andrew Krause will join Linda Fryman, cello, and David Wright, clarinet, in this work, considered one of Brahms' outstanding compositions for small ensemble.

The fifth and final program of the chamber music series will be heard May 7 at 4:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall. David Wright, program coordinator, notes an interesting program with selections to include the Webern "Opus 22 Quartet" for violin, clarinet, tenor saxophone and piano; and a composition by the Argentine composer Ginastera for sixteen percussion, two pianos and voice will also be featured on that program.

Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

ECU Received Over $130,000

East Carolina University received a total of $130,442 during March, 1972 from federal and state agencies.

Among the largest grants were two community service awards given to the ECU Division of Continuing Education by the N.C. Board of Higher Education.

One of these was a $27,386 grant for the Division's Cooperative Community Drug Education, Action, Evaluation Project, and the other, amounting to $29,996, was earmarked for the Moyewood Neighborhood Community Service Program.

Other sizable grants were awarded to the ECU Schools of Education, Medicine, Music and Nursing, and the Departments of Chemistry and Mathematics.

The remaining funds were given to finance projects in the areas of art, biology, business education, geography, geology, health and physical education, library science, Romance languages, and sociology and anthropology.

The U.S. Office of Education was the chief federal supporter, granting a number of ECU's applications for funds Part A, Title VI of the Higher Education Act.

The Muskie men were bitter over Lucey's forecast three days before the primary of a statewide McGovern victory. Although McGovern would have won anyway, the Muskie camp regards the Lucey forecast as an unfriendly self-fulfilling prophecy that hurt Muskie.

Moreover, they feel the forecast reneged a Lucey pledge of neutrality—a view strongly held by David Carley, the Inland Steel executive who was Muskie's statewide chairman. Carley, once a bitter political rival of Lucey but more recently his ally (he's a Lucey appointee on the University Board of Regents) was outraged when he heard Lucey's eleventh-hour prediction. Oddly, it was widely assumed in Wisconsin that Muskie was Lucey's secret choice.

Accordingly, some Muskie supporters, perhaps unfairly, hold a conspiratorial theory: Lucey wanted to ingratiate himself with McGovern and thus become one of McGovern's Wisconsin at-large delegates to the national convention.

McGovern's Wisconsin operatives are suspicious about that. They worry that Lucey, and important figure in the Kennedy political apparatus the past decade, would really be looking to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy at Miami Beach if any opportunity opened up.

The Loper case was cut from the same flimsy cloth. Loper was convicted in Texas in 1947 of the statutory rape of his 8-year-old stepdaughter. In an effort to impeach his credibility, the prosecution questioned the defendant on his prior criminal record. Loper freely admitted four prior felony convictions between 1931 and 1940. He was found guilty and sentenced to 50 years in prison. But because it is not clear today whether he had counsel when he was tried for burglary 41 years ago, the judgment of 1947 must now be set aside.

Chief Justice Burger, acidly dissenting, said the majority's decision in the Loper case "does violence to common sense." Of course it does. It does violence to the whole cause of justice, and it leaves the high court looking silly. This we expect of Douglas, Brennan, and Marshall. No theory is so bubbleheaded that they cannot find substance in it. But it is a keen disappointment to observe that we are getting nothing better from Stewart and White.

"Bunch of hicks," she said sourly, adjusting her turban.

The girl with her nodded in understanding. The girly show was not running that day because the carnival had been brought to town by a group trying to raise money for a civic project and the sight of bumping and grinding 45-year-old strippers had, apparently, been judged a bit excessive.

Back near the front gate, a sunburned carnival worker was trying to placate an unhappy child, whose mother glowered nearby. "Listen, she told me there'd be a brass ring to catch and I don't see it," whined the child.

The carnival worker said it was a different kind of merry-go-round, that there was no brass ring.

Elmhurst Arts Program Set For PTA Meet

"The Arts at Elmhurst" is the theme of the program sponsored by the Elmhurst School P-TA on Thursday 8:00 p.m. in Elmhurst School auditorium.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grade choruses will sing several compositions. The Band Ensemble and String Instrument groups will also perform. One of the highlights of the evening will be a school-wide art exhibition. Each student will have his creative work on display. Demonstrations of art activities will be given.

Following the business meeting during which new officers will be elected a reception honoring Mrs. O. E. Dowd, retiring first grade teacher, will be held in the school library.

This program will be the final P-TA meeting of the year. Parents are urged to attend.

At any one of our Greenville offices, for that matter. Just stop by any time during office hours and ask for the loan manager. You'll find yourself talking to someone who thinks a loan manager's main job is to see you get a loan. Without having to answer a bunch of pointless questions. Or wait around while he runs things through committees.

He can give you fast action because he makes the decision. And if you're wondering what that decision is most likely to be, consider this: Wachovia makes more loans than any other financial institution in North Carolina. So if you have a problem that money would solve, drop by any Wachovia Bank office. One of the people listed below will be waiting with your solution.

Chargers Nipped By South Lenoir

DEEP RUN — South Lenoir captured the first two places in the two-mile run, then finished second in the mile relay to just beat out Ayden-Grifton High School in a tri-meet yesterday at the South Lenoir track.

South Lenoir finished with 70½ points, while Ayden-Grifton was just a hair behind with 69. North Lenoir finished a distant third with 18½.

Ayden-Grifton's Jesse Brown was a triple winner in the meet, capturing the high jump, and both hurdles events. South Lenoir's Tyndall was a double winner, gaining the long jump and the 100-yard dash.

Overall, South Lenoir won only six events, while Ayden-Grifton won nine, including both relays, but South Lenoir's greater depth proved the difference.

Summary:

Long jump: Tyndall (SL) 20-3; W. Chapman (AG) 20-2; Taylor (SL) 19-7½; Pearce (AG) 18-9.

Shot put: Croom (SL) 41-1½; Edwards (AG) 40-10¼; Stroud (SL) 37-4¼; Jarman (SL) 36-10.

High jump: Brown (AG) 6-0; Herring (NL) 5-10; Ham (SL) 5-6; Barnett (SL) 5-0.

120 high hurdles: Brown (AG) :17.8; Barnett (SL) :20.45; Russ (NL) :20.5.

Conley Downs Eastern Wayne

NEW HOPE — D. H. Conley put together a victory in a three-way track meet held at Eastern Wayne High School yesterday.

Conley collected 72 points in the meet to edge out host Eastern Wayne, which finished with 60. C. B. Aycock was third with 27 points.

Dalton Nichols of Conley was the meets only double winner. He took first place in the long jump and in the 440-yard dash.

The Vikings took first place in seven events, while Eastern Wayne won five and Aycock took two. One event, the 100-yard dash was a tie between Conley

Babe Ruth Has Tryout Dates

Tryouts for Babe Ruth baseball teams begin today at 6 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Tuesday's and Wednesday's tryouts are for 13-year-olds, while Thursday's are for 14 and 15-year-olds.

Boys that did not pre-register can do so at the tryouts by bringing a parent and a birth certificate (if they did not participate in Greenville Little Leagues). Each candidate must furnish his own shoes and glove.

Greene Central Wins Meet With S. Wayne

SNOW HILL — Greene Central won eight of 14 events from Southern Wayne and split the other one to win an Eastern Carolina Conference track meet yesterday, 79-48.

Southern Wayne took first in only six events, tying the Rams for another, but it wasn't good enough. The Rams also added points with depth to make up addition ground.

Jerome Sheppard of Greene Central was the only multiple winner, taking three events. He won both hurdles events and the high jump. Cobb of Southern Wayne laid a partial claim to being a double winner, taking the 100 and tying for first place in the 220.

The Rams also set two new school records in the meet. Ralph Lanier set a new mark in the shot put with a heave of 46 feet, 4½ inches. Stevie Williamson set a new record in the pole vault, jumping 11 feet six inches.

North Pitt In Loss To S. Nash

SPRING HOPE — Southern Nash High School downed North Pitt, 73-54 yesterday in a dual track meet held at the Firebird oval.

North Pitt, handicapped by not having its entire unit present for the meet, suffered both in wins and in overall depth, and it meant the difference.

Southern Nash captured first place in nine events, leaving six for North Pitt.

The East Carolina University Pirates may have committed suicide yesterday.

This is the year of the "Even-Year Omen," but it looks like the rest of the Southern Conference doesn't believe it. Yesterday, The Citadel handed East Carolina two defeats both by 3-2 scores, and it put any Pirate hopes of a title in serious jeopardy.

And it wasn't so much The Citadel's doing as it was East Carolina's. The Pirates gave up four unearned runs to the Bulldogs, two in each game. Accordingly, only one of the four Pirate runs was unearned, and it should have carried them through.

But it didn't and now the Bucs stand 0-3, mired in last place in the conference, a spot they thought they'd never be. Their overall record falls off to 7-6, and they have a four-game losing streak to carry into their next outing, a conference meeting with William & Mary at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Ever since 1964, the Pirates have made the NCAA Regionals in all even-numbered years. This year, however, with the three early losses, all at home, the chances of their winning the conference title and making their accustomed trip seem distant at this point of the year.

In both games, the Pirates held the lead, only to lose it.

The Bucs offered a threat in the first inning of the opener when Ralph Lamm reached on an error and moved up on an out.

Then, in the second, the Pirates pushed into the lead with a run. Larry Walters opened up with a walk and moved down on Troy Eason's ground-out. Mike Bradshaw then laced a single to center, scoring Walters for the 1-0 lead.

The Bucs had another opportunity in the second as Matt Walker reached on an infield hit, and stole second, only to die there.

The Citadel, kept from threatening by Bill Godwin through the first three innings, came up with all three of their runs in the fourth. Ron Sanders singled to right, but was caught at second on Steve Arrington's fielder's choice. Chuck Cordell reached on an error, and Paul Plunkett walked, loading the bases. Joe Davis cracked a single to center, scoring both Arrington and Cordell, while Plunkett moved on to third. Charles Thompson's sacrifice fly brought Plunkett across, and gave Citadel a 3-1 lead, one that held.

The Bucs cut it to 3-2 in the fourth with their final run. Troy Eason singled to right and Bradshaw got a double down the right field line. Nick McMahon walked to load them up and a walk to Ron Staggs brought in Eason with the final run.

The Citadel also had a threat in the fifth, but the Bucs got out of it without damage, and offered one more threat of their own in the seventh.

With two outs, Lamm singled off the pitcher's glove and Walker reached on an error. But pinchhitter Lin Spears popped up, giving the Bulldogs the win.

The second game was just as bad for the Bucs. They scored early with a run in the first. Bradshaw led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. With two outs, Mike Aldridge singled to center, scoring him or a 1-0 lead.

The Pirates threatened in the fourth when Aldridge and Eason singled, but the next three went

Swimmers Do Well

CHARLOTTE — Seven Greenville swimmers gained honors during the N.C. Junior Olympics Short Course meet held in Charlotte this past weekend.

A total of 12 locals entered the events, which drew over 800 swimmers from across the state.

Local finishers included: Mack Stocks, Don McGlohon, John and Kevin Richards, fourth in the 10 and under boys medley relay in 2:32.1; and ninth in the freestyle relay in 2:18.1.

Sheila Collie, Eleanor Tobin, third in the 10 and under girls medley in 2:43.2 and fifth in the freestyle relay in 2:28.2.

Cathy Collie, Renee Tobin, third in the 11-12 girls medley relay in 2:19.0 and sixth in the freestyle relay in 2:04.4.

Don McGlohon, ninth in the 10 and under boys breaststroke in :44.1; fourth in the butterfly in :36.0; and seventh in the individual medley in 1:23.4.

John Richards, sixth in the 10 and under boys breaststroke in :37.6; and 10th in the 200-yard freestyle in 2:46.9.

Denise Tobin, third in the 10 and under girls breaststroke in :39.9; third in the butterfly in :36.1; and fourth in the individual medley in 1:24.

Renee Tobin, first in the 11-12 girls butterfly in :32.1; third in the individual medley in 2:39.0; and seventh in the 100-yard freestyle in 1:08.

Lance Timmons, fifth in the 11-12 boys backstroke in 1:16.

Ellen Bond, eighth in the 13-14 girls 100 yard breaststroke in 1:24.7.

Barbara Bond, sixth in the 13-14 girls 200-yard backstroke in 2:57.9.

down in order to end it.

The Citadel, which put a man on second in the second tied it up in the fifth. Ron Sanders led off with a single, and a sacrifice moved him up. Joe Davis then singled to center, scoring Sanders for a 1-1 tie.

East Carolina moved back ahead, however, getting a run in the bottom of the inning, their only unearned run of the day. With two outs, McMahon reached on an error and Lamm doubled to left, scoring him for a 2-1 lead. Aldridge was walked to set up force, and he was the last Pirate to reach base during the day. They went down in order after that.

The Citadel, however, came up with two more unearned runs in the sixth, to win it and take the complete affair. Charles Hughes led off with a single, and Ron Terry, trying to sacrifice, reached on an error. Steve Fischel then reached on a bunt, loading the bases. The Pirates got a double play off Plunkett, however, leaving runners on second and third. Sanders, however, followed with a single to right, scoring both Terry and Fischel, and that was it.

Nets Accomplish Part Of Dream

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets accomplished their impossible dream—or at least part one of it—Monday night.

Rick Barry had a premonition about it.

"Before I left the house tonight," Barry said after the game. "I told my wife Pam I'd be thrilled to have a lousy game if we win."

Barry had a lousy game—and the Nets won.

Although scoring star Barry netted only 15 points, the Nets defeated the mighty Kentucky Colonels 101-96. The victory gave the Nets a 4-2 triumph in their American Basketball Association Eastern Division semifinal best-of-seven playoff series.

The Nets now go to Richmond, Va., for the first game of the division finals against the Virginia Squires Thursday night.

The Colonels now go back to Kentucky, wondering what happened.

The Colonels were supposed to win this series. They had set an ABA record with 68 regular season victories, they had rookie of the year and most valuable player Artis Gilmore at center, they had record-setting Dan Issel to lead the scoring, they had the home court advantage....

What's more, the Nets were going into the series without Bill Melchioni, their top backcourtman, who broke his hand in the final week of the regular season.

So, naturally, the Nets won.

They won by not folding when Kentucky put on the pressure. Like Monday night, when New York jumped off to a 57-48 half-time lead. Then Cincy Powell scored 12 points in the third period for Kentucky, and New York's lead was down to 80-76 at the start of the final period.

A basket by Les Hunter with 10:44 to play cut it to 80-78, and it was time for the Nets to fold. But instead, they reeled off nine straight points to open it to 89-78.

Kentucky closed to 99-96 with 53 seconds to play, then regained possession, but guard Louie Dampier missed a three-point attempt with 17 seconds to go. Two free throws by New York's Ollie Taylor with three seconds on the clock closed out the scoring.

Rookie John Roche led the Nets with 32 points. Gilmore scored 24 points and grabbed 18 rebounds for the Colonels.

The Nets now meet Virginia, which advanced to the Eastern Division finals by sweeping the Floridians in four straight. In the Western Division, Utah will meet the winner of Thursday night's game between Denver and Indiana at Indianapolis. That series is tied 3-3.

In the National Basketball Association, the New York Knicks hold a 3-2 lead over Baltimore and will try to wrap up their Eastern Conference semifinal series this afternoon in New York. The winner of that series will go on to meet Boston in the Eastern finals.

In the NBA Western Conference, Milwaukee holds a 1-0 lead over Los Angeles.

Back For Game

Former East Carolina great Dave Alexander, who became the first Pirate to rush for over 1,000 yards in a season, will be back this weekend to take part in the first annual Varsity-Alumni game. The contest, the wrapup of spring practice for the returning members of the Pirate football team, will pit them against members of former units, with the basis of the alumni the 23 graduating seniors. The game will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. Tickets are now on sale.

Richmond Takes Southern Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Richmond's Spiders have replaced Virginia Military's Keydets in first place in the Southern Conference baseball race—but Furman's defending champion Paladins still are holding tight to the No. 2 spot.

The Spiders made their league debut Monday and promptly took over the lead with a doubleheader sweep of Davidson's Wildcats, 5-4 and 8-6.

The Keydets, meanwhile, were dropping 12-1 and 5-4 decision to William and Mary's Indians. Still another Monday twin bill saw The Citadel's Bulldogs, who shared the title last year with Furman, get back into contention with a pair of 3-2 victories over East Carolina's Pirates.

As a result of the three doubleheaders, Richmond is 2-0, Furman 5-1, The Citadel 5-3, William & Mary 3-2, VMI 1-2, Davidson 1-6 and East Carolina 0-3.

William & Mary has a Wednesday date for a single game at East Carolina, and three more doubleheaders are on tap Saturday that could answer a lot of questions—Davidson at East Carolina, Richmond at The Citadel and Furman at VMI.

Reggie Dunnivant and Roger Hatcher each had four hits in seven times at bat in Richmond's sweep of the Wildcats. Dunnivant had three hits and scored the winning run in the first game, in which Hatcher had two hits and drove in two runs. Hatcher had two more hits and two more RBIs in the nightcap.

Left-hander Scott Kramer pitched a five-hitter, and William & Mary scored four runs in the fifth inning and seven in the sixth to break open its first game with VMI as Mike Gratton, Jeff Steckroth and Bob Wallace each drove in two runs.

VMI right-hander Vern Beitzel allowed just two hits in the second game, but a walk, sacrifice and two wild pitches gave the Indians the winning run in the seventh. The Indians had scored four times in the fifth on two walks, an error, Steckroth's two-run single, another error and an infield out.

Martin Will Have A Lot More In His Pockets After Signing Pact

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — When he first got the word that he was the top pick in the National Basketball Association draft, LaRue Martin had about $10 in his pocket.

The chances are good that the 6-foot-10 Loyola of Chicago center will have quite a bit more by the time he's finished bargaining with the Portland Trail Blazers.

"What money I get now will be up to Mr. Morse," Martin said Monday, referring to his representative, attorney Arthur Morse of Chicago.

Martin, a relatively obscure name among the available college players when selected in the annual NBA draft Monday, will hopefully be a household word when the Trail Blazers finish polishing him.

The club considered him the best center in America, based primarily on his rebounding abilities. Among his gaudier accomplishments with a losing team, Martin collected more than 1,000 rebounds in three years—about 16 a game.

"And that average," pointed out a Portland spokesman, "would rank him in the NBA's Top Ten."

The Trail Blazers, as well as several other NBA clubs, were particularly sold on the wiry, Martin after he outplayed All-Americans Bill Walton of UCLA and Jim Chones of Marquette on successive nights. "I never thought this would happen to me," was Martin's reaction to his lofty No. 1 status.

Martin, who has already received a money offer from the Dallas Chaparrals of the rival American Basketball Association, a team which drafted him earlier this year, said his pro signing would be up to his representative.

However, he did say that the Trail Blazers' offer "exceeds substantially the Dallas offer." Martin, whose talents were underpublicized on three straight losing teams at Loyola, was among the lesser-known names of those chosen in the first round.

One of the most heralded was Bob McAdoo, North Carolina's quick big man who left school a year early as a hardship case. He was chosen No. 2 in the draft by the Buffalo Braves, even though he is under contract to the Virginia Squires of the ABA.

Before the 17 NBA teams began to make their choices known on a telephone hookup through Commissioner Walter Kennedy's office in New York, the commissioner told them, "I think some of you fellows ought to know that McAdoo has signed with Virginia ... the ABA just announced it."

But it didn't deter Buffalo. The Braves, obviously ready to go to war with Virginia to get their hands on the Tar Heels' 6-9 player, didn't hesitate a second on the phone.

Dwight Davis, Houston's 6-7 forward was next to go. He was taken by the Cleveland Cavaliers, dismissing a warning from one scout that he doesn't know basketball.

The Cavaliers, who picked Notre Dame guard Austin Carr last year as the country's No. 1 choice, were impressed with Davis' raw talents. He's been compared favorably to another former Houston star, Elvin Hayes.

The rest of the clubs, with the exception of four who lost first-round picks because they took hardship cases earlier, then raced through their choices and finished the first round in less than five minutes. All told, 154 players were taken in 10 rounds and the whole thing took one hour, 40 minutes.

Corky Calhoun, a 6-7 combination guard-forward, was the fourth player taken as Phoenix selected in that spot as the result of a trade with Houston.

The Philadelphia 76ers, in need of backcourt help, then drafted the first pure guard of the lot in Fred Boyd of Oregon State and Milwaukee, hungry for forwards, latched onto Russell Lee of Marshall. Bud Stallworth, a 6-5 guard at Kansas, went to Seattle in the first round and the New York Knicks then acquired forward Tom Riker of South Carolina. Detroit grabbed center-forward Bob Nash of Hawaii and Boston took guard Paul Westphal of Southern California before the next two teams went for established ABA players to dramatize the scarcity of pro material in this year's draft. Chicago picked Ralph Simpson of Denver and Milwaukee, whose earlier choice was the result of a trade, picked up Julius Erving of Virginia. Both left schools early to join the pros as hardship cases and they became eligible for the NBA because their classes graduate this year.

Travis Grant, the college division scoring king from Kentucky State who was the last selection in round one, gave Los Angeles another terrific shooter to go with Jerry West and company.

126er HITS 300 COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you are a woman bowler with a 126 average and have never bowled 225, think how Mrs. Bernita Cade of Mahomet, Ill., feels after bowling a 300 game.

Those were the facts reported to the Women's International Bowling Congress after Mrs. Cade, a 29-year-old mother of three, rolled a house ball to a perfect game last December.

Players Meet On New Offer

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's player representatives were to meet today to discuss a new money offer in the pension dispute that has caused the sport's first general strike and delayed the opening of the season almost a week.

Meanwhile, a split developed in the ranks of the once-adamant owners over the issue of back pay to players for days lost to the strike, which the head of the striking Major League Baseball Players Association called "a terrible, terrible roadblock" to a settlement.

"We really didn't make any progress of a sufficient sort to be optimistic," Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, said following a day which began with Miller and John Gaherin, the owners' representative, meeting in Washington with J. Curtis Counts, head of the Federal Mediation Service, and ended with the owners making their new money offer.

"There are only two issues," Miller said, "one dealing with the pension problem, which is subject to compromise. But the other issue is a terrible, terrible roadblock."

That issue boils down to this: Should the players be paid their full salaries if they still play a full 162-game schedule or should they be docked proportionately for each day they have refused to play?

"The players are on strike, they've lost pay and that's it," said Miller. "They accept that. If the owners want to pick up the schedule from here, there's no issue."

"TRYING TO BITE OFF . . . more than I could chew", or "A Glutton for punishment", or "My eyes were bigger than my stomach" might be appropriate phrases to describe the fish involved in the accompanying photo. George Rhem of Greenville holds two small bass he and Kermit Tyson found Saturday in a farm pond at Ballards Cross Roads. The larger bass (about 10 inches long) at right, apparently tried making a bass dinner out of the smaller fish (8 1/4 inches long), but with fatal results. Rhem said attempts at pulling the fish apart met with no success. (Reflector Staff Photo) complete this phase of the project. The executive director said that the Southside Project Advisory Committee, headed by chairman Ernest Adams, has been appointed and includes 11 representatives of the area.

Laughinghouse asserted that Southside is a crucial project for the local commission and a good job must be accomplished in the area if further rehabilitation projects are to have any chance of approval here.

A federal grand jury in Pittsburgh is expected to hear pleas for an indictment against at least one of those persons later this week, sources said.

School Bond Vote Slated

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners at their April meeting on Monday approved a school bond sale referendum for an amount of $4.5 million.

For the referendum a tentative date of July 11 has been established.

In another financial matter the commissioners set May 22 at 8:00 p.m. as the time for a public hearing on the adoption of a one cent sales tax.

The welfare budget presented to the commissioners was tentatively approved subject to further review and final approval at a later date.

Two other matters came before the commissioners both before the referendum was tentatively approved. One was the paving of Cochran Street in Robersonville which runs in front of the East End School in Robersonville. The other was a resolution authoring: "Clean Sweep" a county wide clean up project of old cars and other debris.

Student Leaders Charge Registration 'Hindered'

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Student body presidents from half of North Carolina's public universities have charged that the state Board of Elections and Elections Director Alex Brock "hindered and obstructed" student voter registration efforts.

The student leaders voiced their "strong disapproval and disappointment" with 5'e officials for their "lack of a sincere effort" to register young voters in a resolution that was made public Monday.

The resolution was passed at a meeting Saturday at North Carolina State University. The statement said that "North Carolina's rate of student registration is far below the national rate."

It also said that the state courts have maintained "unreasonable ambiguity in the matter of student registration." The student leaders expressed the hope that the "atmosphere of the administration of voter registration will be improved in future registration of student citizens." Early estimates from a dozen of the state's 100 counties indicate that an additional quarter of a million voters of all ages could be counted when local boards report to the state Board of Elections next week.

More than 700,000 young voters have become eligible since 1968 either by turning 21 or because of the amendment lowering the voting age to 18. As of December the state had 1,958, 053 registered voters. Registration books closed Friday.

Students approving the resolution were Fayetteville State, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina State, North Carolina School of the Arts, UNC AT Greensboro, Appalachian State and East Carolina. A representative of Elizabeth City State students also approved the statement.

The group called a conference of student presidents and campus newspaper editors from the 16 public universities for June 9-11 on the ECU campus.

Five Oscar Awards Won By Slam-Bang Modern Thriller

By GENE HANDSAKER Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The French Connection," a slam-bang modern thriller about New York police chasing narcotics smugglers, has won the Oscar race with five Academy awards including best picture of the year.

The star of the film, Gene Hackman, won the best actor award. William Friedkin, the film's director, received the best director Oscar.

Jane Fonda won the gold-plated statuette for best actress as the class, cynical call girl of "Klute."

Honors for supporting players in Monday night's 44th annual movie academy presentations went to Ben Johnson and Cloris Leachman of "The Last Picture Show."

Johnson played the pool hall-movie house-caped proprietor and central citizen of a small, dusty Texas town. Miss Leachman portrayed the sex-starved, unfaithful wife of the high school football coach.

Named the best foreign-language film was Vittorio De Sica's "The Garden of the Finzi Continis," a story of a rich Jewish family in wartime Italy.

Isaac Hayes won the best song award for his "Theme from Shaft."

The emotional peak for a finely-spangled audience of 2,900 in the Music Center Pavilion came with the appearance of white-haired Charlie Chaplin to receive an honorary Oscar and a standing, roaring ovation.

"Words are so futile, so feeble," he said in a halting, shallow voice after acknowledging the long ovation with waves, smiles, thrown kisses and slight bows.

"I can only say thank you for the honor of inviting me here. You're wonderful, sweet people."

Master of ceremonies Jack Lemmon handed him a Chaplinesque cane and bowler, the hat falling off his head as Chaplin did a comic gesture with it. The comedian's wife Oona and stars of the show gathered around him as the orchestra played a Chaplin song, "Smile."

Academy President Daniel Taradash had introduced the longtime self-exile from Hollywood to receive, six days short of his 83rd birthday, the award for "the incalculable effect he has had in making motion pictures the art form of this century."

Chaplin appeared onstage after a showing of clips from his films—Chaplin the "Little Tramp" sleeping in the lap of a ceremoniously unveiled statue, using the referee as his shield in a boxing match, eating his boiled shoe in "The Gold Rush."

Among leading contenders for Oscars, "Fiddler on the Roof" won three—for cinematography, sound and scoring. "Nicholas and Alexandra" won for costume design, art direction and set decoration.

The five awards for "The French Connection" included two for Ernest Tidyman's adaptation and Jerry Greenberg's editing.

The other writing award went to Paddy Chayefsky for his original script of "The Hospital."

The show was telecast to 39 countries including, by NBC estimate, 75 million U.S. viewers. Union difficulties that could have interfered with telecasting were averted in the last hours.

LBJ Wants To Go Home

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, recovering from a heart attack he suffered last Friday, continues to pressure his doctors to let him return to Texas.

Dr. Richard S. Crampton, head of the University of Virginia Hospital cardiac care unit, issued two brief statements Monday saying Johnson was improving and was in good spirits.

The former president was stricken while visiting the nearby home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb.

Although Johnson said he was anxious to be transferred to a hospital in Texas, Dr. John Willis Hurst, the heart specialist on the case, indicated it would be some time before the former president could be moved.

Hurst left Sunday for his home in Atlanta but indicated Johnson would not be moved until he returns to examine him.

Johnson slept late Monday, then spent the day visiting with his wife, Lady Bird, and daughter, Linda Robb, in his hospital room.

VOTE FOR & ELECT BILL WHITEHURST DISTRICT COURT JUDGE

- 10 years Experience with N.C. Highway Patrol
- 4 years experience as Justice of the Peace
- 1 1/2 years experience as Magistrate

Carteret, Craven, Pamlico and Pitt Counties

I would like to take this opportunity to let you, the people of this District know that I am not a lawyer, but that I do have 16 years experience both in law enforcement and in the various functions of our courts. I have been on both sides of the fence, by this I mean I have testified as a witness in many court cases, having been a member of the N.C. State Highway Patrol for 10 years. On the other hand, as a Justice of the Peace and magistrate in Pitt County for 6 years, I have also tried many cases, both civil and criminal. I have held Probable Cause Hearings in felony cases, set bonds, and carried out many other functions of the court.

The laxness of some of the Judges in applying fair and impartial judgments is becoming a known fact to our general public and I feel this is one of our largest pitfalls in the court system today. In other Districts of our state, there are Judges who are not lawyers that are doing a good job. They have a general knowledge of our laws, and having that, along with applying good common sense are rendering fair and just decision.

I do not have any plans for any revisions of the present court system, as I feel the system is a good one if administered in the proper manner. The General Statutes of North Carolina provide minimum and maximum penalties for the various violations of the laws, and if elected I pledge to you now, that I will do everything in my power to see that everyone is given fair and just treatment to the best of my ability.

Your vote and support on May 6 will be greatly appreciated.
