Bombing Pause For Hanoi To Reconsider

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — President Nixon has suspended U.S. air attacks on the Hanoi-Haiphong area to see if North Vietnam backs off from its general offensive in South Vietnam, U.S. military sources reported today.

The thrust of the American air war returned to the South, and U.S. pilots flew more than 1,000 strikes there Monday and today.

Following Sunday's heavy raids on targets around Hanoi and Haiphong, Nixon ordered all air action suspended above the 20th parallel of latitude, 60 miles south of Hanoi, the Saigon sources said.

However, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today in Washington there is "no substance" to the report of attacks being suspended north of the 20th parallel. He said air strikes were continuing in North Vietnam, but did not specify how deep the raids were.

The Saigon informants said only a handful of strikes were flown Monday and today north of the demilitarized zone and all of these were below the 19th parallel, 120 miles south of Hanoi.

"The President is deliberately holding off after Sunday's strikes in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas to see what North Vietnam is going to do," said one source. "But further bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong has not been ruled out. It depends on what North Vietnam does."

The sources said the raids on Hanoi and Haiphong were political in nature, intended as a warning to Hanoi to pull back its offensive in South Vietnam.

"When you knock a guy down," said one source, "you don't want to stomp on him. Nixon apparently wants to wait and see whether he is going to get up and continue to fight or walk away."

Military sources said there were no signs of any enemy withdrawals from the battlefields to which political significance could be attached.

The South Vietnamese command meanwhile claimed that nearly 700 North Vietnamese troops were killed in battles on three fronts Monday with heavy U.S. air support.

Sources claimed that this fighting resulted from actions initiated by the South Vietnamese.

Officers reported earlier that a new threat was developing north of Saigon, with North Vietnamese troops trying to move toward the key South Vietnamese base at Lai Khe, 30 miles north of the capital.

North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks said Monday that if the United States stopped the bombing of the North and resumed the regularly weekly meetings of the presently suspended talks, North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho would return to Paris for more secret negotiations with the Americans.

ON 'WAR FOOTING'

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam reported today the entire nation is on a war footing and it called on its people to heed a government order to step up their determination to defeat the United States.

Offer To North Vietnam By Fulbright Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which has voted to stop all funds for U.S. combat activities in Indochina, called on Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird today to answer questions about American air attacks deep in North Vietnam.

Laird also was invited to a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee prior to the Foreign Relations Committee meeting.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers defended the U.S. bombing around Hanoi and Haiphong in testimony before the Foreign Relations panel Monday. He was backed up later with a White House statement that President Nixon will "take whatever action is necessary to thwart this invasion" of South Vietnam by North Vietnamese troops.

"There are only two announcements about what we are going to do," Rogers said. "We are not going to reintroduce American ground-combat troops and we are not going to introduce nuclear weapons into North or South Vietnam," Rogers said. But he added that there will be no resumption of the Paris peace talks until Hanoi troops are turned back or withdraw from the South.

"We can't turn tail now and leave our friend and ally alone," he said.

After Rogers's testimony, the committee passed by a 9-1 vote a resolution that all money supporting U.S. combat forces in Indochina be halted Dec. 31 if Hanoi releases American prisoners of war. Sen. J.W. Fulbright, the committee chairman, said he expects the Senate to act on the proposal next week.

The measure, proposed by Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, would not affect continued supplies and money for the South Vietnamese.

The single vote against the resolution was cast by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., who said, "I have voted against accepting North Vietnamese terms. All they would have to do is back up behind the DMZ again."

Apollo Keeps Course

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II, with help from Mission Control, quickly overcame a guidance system problem that temporarily locked the Apollo 16 command ship in one position today. The spacemen hurtled on, meanwhile toward a Wednesday rendezvous with the moon.

Officials said the source of the problem was a mystery. They were not certain whether it would recur and experts studied data to learn the exact cause.

As Mattingly was taking star sightings on the planet Jupiter to align the spaceship, a red warning light flashed in the cabin.

Something had happened to the guidance and navigation system, preventing the spaceship from moving left or right.

"I don't know what happened," Mattingly, the command module pilot, radioed. "I was down looking at the optics and all of a sudden I just saw a warning light and I got no attitude (position) and a gimbal lock light ... It looks like the platform might be frozen."

He referred to the inertial guidance system platform.

There was no danger to the astronauts. The command ship has a backup guidance system that would get them home if the primary system failed. If there were a primary failure, the moon landing would be canceled.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson told Congress today the commission is considering putting price controls on food products.

And, he reported, the commission is also considering a major change in the Nixon administration's price-control strategy.

"Concentrating Price Commission manpower on the largest firms ... while decontrolling large portions of the economy."

In testimony prepared for the Joint Economic Committee, Grayson did not comment further on what specific conditions would cause the new policy moves to be implemented. Nor did he indicate when decisions on them might be made.

Grayson cited possible extension of controls to food and the tightening of existing food-price controls in a list of several policy changes he said are under current analysis and evaluation.

Raw farm products currently are free of controls and Price Commission policies allow producers and grocers to pass along to shoppers any price increases, plus customary mark-ups. But processed foods are under controls which the commission could tighten.

Grayson's comments came a day after he said current controls are beginning to bite into price increases. He said in an interview Monday that a decision on tighter controls might not be made for months, if ever, and that he was willing to cast his vote in favor of stricter profit-margin controls if inflation figures showed they were needed.

In his prepared testimony, Grayson said the wage-price controls are slowly reducing inflation toward the target level of 2 to 3 percent by the end of this year "without impeding the recovery of our ailing national economy to prosperity and full employment."

Those two points drew criticism from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., committee chairman, who said after studying the record of the last six months, he can come to no other conclusion than that Grayson and the commission have "struck out" as inflation fighters. Grayson disagreed. He said the Price Commission has lived up to its presidential mandate. And he asserted that "the economy in April 1972 remains free, dynamic, growing and productive."

Burning Ban

The North Carolina Forestry Service this morning announced a ban on all outdoor burning permits in Pitt County. Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal, said the Forestry Service had announced the ban due to hazardous conditions resulting from dry weather and the incidence of spring winds. Persons are also asked to exercise extreme caution in burning garbage out of doors around homes, suggesting someone attend such fires at all time.

The ban on outdoor burning permits will be lifted as soon as the hazardous conditions no longer exist.

Earlier Openings For Tobacco Sales Urged At Session Here

Eastern Tobacco Belt farmers attending a public hearing before the Committee on the Tobacco Advisory Board here Monday were almost unanimous in requesting help in securing earlier market openings.

Over 200 farmers attended and some 25 of them went forward to publicly voice their grievances over marketing procedures, especially opening dates, in the large Eastern belt.

The seven-member committee, charged with the responsibility of hearing public testimony as part of a Legislative Research Commission study to determine whether an advisory board should be created to provide assistance to the loose leaf industry in the state, met April 10 in Whiteville in the first of a series of hearings.

According to committee chairman, Sen. Thomas Strickland of Goldsboro, a third hearing has been tentatively scheduled for May 15th in Durham and will possibly combine the Middle and Old Belts.

One after another, farmers from as far northwest as Halifax County and as far west as Sampson and Pender Counties went forward to express their dissatisfaction with having to wait for late Eastern Belt openings after their crops were ready for market.

Runway Encroachment Opposed By Authority

The Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority went on record last night as opposing the encroachment of the widening of Highway 11-13 on the main runway of the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

The group requested that the Highway Commission pay further attention to the possibility of taking land on the other side of the highway to accomplish the widening.

A proposed budget for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, is being prepared for submission to city and county for approval.

The installation of approach light on Runway 1-19, the main one, was approved. The authority agreed to investigate the cost of installing of night taxi light. Priority should be given to seeking a solution to resurfacing and strengthening of runways and to building a maintenance hangar, they agreed.

Jim Little Jr. appeared requesting that consideration be given to installing additional weather instruments. The Authority agreed.

Harry Hagerty reported that the city has been able to eliminate several trees that were obstructions to the flight path, an action recommended by the Federal Aviation Authority.

ROBERSONVILLE

Centennial Celebrations here are shaping up to be a spectacular of personalities, with Mrs. Patricia (Pat) Nixon, wife of the President, scheduled to open the 100th birthday event at 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday.

Donny Hardison, chairman of the Centennial Committee, revealed plans for Mrs. Nixon's appearance and later, on Saturday, visits by other well-known Americans.

On that date, the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, the Honorable Earl Butz, is due in Robersonville, as are movie actor John Payne and U.S. Senator Edward Gurney of Florida. Payne was a prominent male lead of the late 30's and the 40's, in movie musicals with such feminine stars as Alice Faye and Betty Grable.

The Robersonville Centennial is scheduled to last for a week, with the festivities expected to bring in many visitors from throughout eastern North Carolina.

Originally, the calendar of events were scheduled to begin on Thursday. The last minute change moving the inauguration of the event up one day to Wednesday is the result of Mrs. Nixon's coming on that day.

Main events scheduled for the week are:

—Thursday, April 20 — Old Fashioned Bargain Days with stores featuring outstanding bargains.

—Friday, April 22 — The second bargain day, with a Centennial Ball beginning at 9:00 p.m. and lasting until 1:00 a.m. Saturday, The Centennial Queen and her court will be recognized at this event.

—Saturday, April 22 — Homecoming Day, to begin with ringing of church bells, and the sounding of sirens.

Official opening ceremonies will be at 11:00 a.m. All major candidates for office in North Carolina have been invited to attend. Luncheon at 12:20, following by the Centennial parade. The featured speaker at 11:00 a.m. will be Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz. The historical pageant, "Parade of Years" will be presented at 8:00 p.m. at the local high school field. More than 100 people are involved in the cast.

—Sunday, April 23 — Religious Heritage Day. An old fashioned hymn sing will be held in the afternoon, and a second showing of the pageant will take place Sunday at 8:00 p.m.

—Monday, April 24 — Merchants and Industry Day, featuring tours of plants and demonstrations of farm equipment. Guest speaker at 11:00 a.m. will be N.C. Secretary of Agriculture Jim Graham.

—Tuesday, April 25 — Ladies Day, focusing on displays of knitting, crochet, paintings, ceramics, baked goods, etc. A luncheon will be held at 12:00 noon, with a tea party at 3:00 p.m. The third showing of the pageant will be at 8:00 p.m.

—Wednesday, April 26 — Brotherhood Day. Activities will include a checkers contest, a nail-driving contest, spinning rod, golf-chipping and horseshoe contests. Final judging of Brothers of the Brush (for beards) takes place at 4:30 p.m., with the final showing of the pageant at 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Chum-kon Kim, a retired Major General of the Army of the Republic of Korea, will have good reasons to remember his three days in Greenville.

On Saturday, April 15, the 49th birthday of the trim, athletic former general who could easily pass for 20 years younger, Dr. Kim arrived in Greenville, remaining until Monday afternoon.

"I've had a very warm reception here," he commented at one point in an interview, "both from the people and the lovely weather." He expressed his pleasure at finding so many flowers in bloom in Greenville.

This awareness of beauty might seem something of a surprise in a man who has actively devoted his adult life to the military and later to the realm of political affairs.

But Dr. Kim is a man of many accomplishments in many fields. One of the things he is noted for in Korea is his interest and expertise in the art, antiques and particularly the ceramics of Korea's Yi Dynasty, which encompasses a 500-year period up until the early years of this century.

"I have managed to acquire a good collection of Yi Dynasty ceramics," he acknowledged. Marksmanship is another field (Continued on page A-7)

Rep. Edith Green To Address ECU Grads At Commencement

Nearly 2,000 East Carolina University students will receive degrees at ECU's 63rd commencement ceremony May 28.

Commencement speaker will be Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.), author of the Higher Education Acts of 1965 and 1968 and the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963.

She was personally invited to speak at the ECU graduation by Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president, at a White House conference on higher education last fall.

Rep. Green, a member of Congress since 1954, has been instrumental in several congressional acts involving equal pay for equal work, aid for the handicapped and mentally ill, arms control and disarmament, national health insurance and other domestic reforms.

She has served on the U. S. Commission to UNESCO, the President's Commission on the Status of Women, and the House Education and Labor Committee, in which she chaired a special subcommittee on education.

The recipient of numerous citations and awards for service and achievement, Rep. Green has also received 23 honorary doctoral degrees from American universities.

Dr. Jenkins noted that he was "Exceedingly impressed" by Rep. Green's "knowledge, astuteness and thoroughness in matters concerning higher education."

"We are indeed fortunate that she has accepted our invitation to come to Greenville. She is the type of person whom our students should hear," he said.

Of students scheduled to receive graduate and undergraduate degrees from ECU this spring, the largest number are in the areas of education, business and management, and social sciences.

Other general degree areas, in descending order of number of graduates are:

fine and applied arts, psychology, letters, home economics, mathematics, health professions, public affairs and services, biological sciences, foreign languages, physical sciences and library science.

Has Letter From Nixon

Robert C. Jackson, Rt. 5, Greenville, an ECU senior, recently received a letter signed by President Nixon in reply to a letter Jackson wrote.

Jackson, a history major, said he wrote to the president expressing his appreciation for the visit to Mainland China.

"Some of the most thoughtful letters that cross my desk come from young Americans, and I was particularly pleased to hear from you," President Nixon replied.

"I have great faith in our nation's young people, and your letter confirms that faith. Your devotion to our country, your concern for the future, and your determination to be a vital part of that future convince me that the spirit that built America still lives. Keep up the good work."

Jackson is an Air Force veteran.

Challenging Expulsion

CHARLOTTE (AP) — With the help of Legal Aid Society attorneys, four Charlotte students are suing to challenge the authority of the school system to expel them.

The two boys and two girls, all 14 or 15 years old, were expelled from junior and senior high schools this year for offenses ranging from cutting gym classes to verbally threatening teachers.

Their appeals for reinstatement were denied by the Board of Education.

The students, in their suit filed in U. S. District Court, say their problems stem from mental, emotional, or physical handicaps. They say expulsion denied them their right to equal opportunity in education.

The suit seeks to strike down state laws that allow schools to expel students, and to require the schools to provide facilities for students whose problems make it unlikely that they will benefit from the normal curriculum.

The North Carolina Association for Retarded Children has said it is planning to file a similar suit.

Jaycees Giving Circus Tickets

Some 200 tickets to the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus, which is being sponsored here Friday by the Greenville Jaycees, are being given away by the Jaycees.

Institutions receiving the free tickets are the Greenville Boys' Club, Operation Sunshine, The East Carolina Sheltered Workshop, the Salvation Army, the Moyewood Day Care Center, and Bonner's Lane Day Care Center.

Important Services Of Medical Centers Often Unnoticed By The Public

By DR. WALLACE R. WOOLLES
Dean, School of Medicine

Most critics of the health care delivery system in this country aim their verbal attacks mainly at the academic medical centers or at large, prestigious public or private hospitals.

Perhaps because such institutions are highly organized, extremely complex and are sensitive to the needs of the public, they are most vulnerable of all social institutions.

Each such verbal attack has been effectively countered by the medical center with fact and truth, or the deficiency or shortcoming pointed out has been acknowledged and corrected.

In the midst of such tumult many little known, but extremely important, services rendered by medical centers go unnoticed. One such service is the involvement of the nation's medical schools in providing health services to prisons or prison systems.

In a recent study, fifty-two percent of all medical schools report that they provide medical service to some kind of prison system: either Federal, State or a local detention center which may include city or county jails or juvenile centers of various kinds.

The services provided to these prison systems represent a broad spectrum of medical services and not just care for emergency traumatic injuries. They include general medical and surgical care and psychiatric services, along with social rehabilitation services for drug addiction and alcoholism.

These services are provided to inmates on both an out-patient and an in-patient basis.

It is not just one or two people on a medical school faculty who are involved, but all schools providing such services report that faculty, residents and interns, and students participate in these services. When it is realized that these physicians and students utilize the complete range of service and expertise provided by para-medical professionals in the medical center, it is clear that all the expertise of modern medicine is available to these inmates.

Of the schools not providing such service, over half of these reported a willingness to do so but would need some additional source of funding.

It is comforting to know that a significant percentage of American medical schools have been making, or are willing to make, a major contribution in the delivery of medical care to the country's prison system. In these times of a large and growing interest in a serious reform of the nation's penal system, at all levels of government, the nation's medical schools stand ready to help.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime can be quite an ordinary day with some possibly confused thoughts and ideas which it will be wise for you to rise above, but then tonight finds an electric attitude surrounding you and you will be able to express whatever interests you the most so even if it's daytime business, get it organized tonight.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you do not irk those at home in a.m., and then the evening can be a pleasurable and interesting one there. Get ideas well organized. Forget that serious side of your nature and dwell on the lighthearted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Out of that rut early. Enjoy whatever appeals to you most with a congenial friend. Later handle that correspondence with care and brightness, as is your custom. Don't get involved in something unpleasant.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Once you have handled business matters wisely, get out to places and be with the people who appeal to you or can be amusing. Make that telephone call that is important to your wellbeing. Time is money, so use it well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can converse confidentially with others, but don't divulge some important point as yet to anyone. Forget that dull work and take advantage of an opportunity to enjoy recreation you like. Dress well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It's fine to go out with one you admire, but first be sure to take care of important work ahead of you. Accept an invitation extended to you for some evening social. Dress according to the situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Others who are working out some project with you require the benefit of your fine judgment as well as more labor on your part. Give it. Friends can be annoying during day when you are busy but tonight are a boon to your lagging spirit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An out-of-towner comes through with the right answers to present enigmas you have now. Handle those outside affairs, though; they may be a little harder than you thought. Plan your time well early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can take care of that responsibility early that will bring in more benefits, frees your time for the evening's pleasure. Listen to what new contacts have to say. You can gain much through their ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can rely on a good assistant or associate to give you the advice you need to become more successful and happy, so be sure to show your gratitude. Your responsibilities seem difficult to handle, but changing your attitude makes them easy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have been taking all the favors and good work of a close tie for granted, so now is the time to change all that. More cooperation and consideration for a good association is also important. Take it easy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you run through all that work ahead of you quickly and well, you free time you want for recreation you like. Save more time for mate who is feeling neglected and rightly so, most likely. Do more practical thinking, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A close tie can now give you the added support you need for some project that is important to you. Once your work is done well during day, you can have a most delightful evening. Avoid one who downgrades you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those rather strange persons who will really enjoy having a great deal of work to do but will complain to high heaven while doing it, which without doubt is nothing but letting off steam. It is best to teach early to consider the feelings of others and adopt a more philosophical attitude. An ideal chart for the teacher, the nurse, the accountant, especially, male or female.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Will Select Seniors Day

The month of May has again been proclaimed by Governor Robert W. Scott as Senior Citizens Month.

In a memorandum to mayors of North Carolina, J. Eddie Brown, Executive Director of the North Carolina Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging, notes the Governor is also asking County Commissioners to designate a week during the month as Senior Citizens week in their particular county.

Brown asks that mayors of towns designate a day during the week proclaimed by the County Commissioners as Senior Citizens Day in their municipality.

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West has said he is in accord with the idea. At a later date, a Senior Citizens Day in Greenville will be proclaimed by Mayor West.

Nab Skyjacker After Landing

By PENNIE SUE THURMAN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A hijacker who demanded half a million dollars and a flight to the Bahamas after commandeering a jetliner over Florida displayed no outward characteristics to tip off officials that he might be a threat, according to Delta Air Lines.

"We would have to psychoanalyze someone to know why they might make a threat like he made," said Gene Stewart, Delta's chief security officer, from the airline's Atlanta, Ga., office.

"The airlines are following religiously the requirements that the U.S. government has laid down or what they called the preboard screening of passengers," Stewart added.

A man identified by the FBI as William H. Greene III, 30, of Berea, Ohio, was captured without incident Monday less than an hour after the Convair 440 landed at a remote section of O'Hare International Airport.

Greene was scheduled to appear before a U.S. magistrate today. The FBI said Greene would be charged with air piracy, which could carry the death sentence upon conviction.

The plane, Flight 952, was carrying 91 persons. It was en route from Miami to Chicago with only one scheduled stop, in Palm Beach, Fla.

Greene was described by the FBI as a "drifter" who recently worked as a film editor in Universal City, Calif.

Pilot Carl Leming, 49, of Atlanta, said he learned of the extortion-hijack attempt about a third of the way to Chicago when a stewardess gave him a note written by the hijacker.

Leming said the note demanded that the plane fly to Chicago, that $500,000 be made available there and that the plane then take off for Nassau.

The FBI said no gun was found although the hijacker indicated in his note that he carried a weapon.

Father Spillane Entertained Thursday Night

The members of the Woman's Club and the parishioners of St. Peter's Catholic Church helped celebrate Father Maurice Spillane's 30th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood with a "surprise dinner" held at the Candlewick Inn Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dorney escorted Father Spillane to the dinner.

Seated at the main table, which was decorated with an arrangement of daisies, were the newly-elected officers for the year: Mrs. Dot Trotta, president, with her husband, Frank; Mrs. Gert Cunningham, vice president, with her husband, Kevin; Mrs. Doris Kirk, secretary, and her husband, Bill, and Miss Pat Grosso, treasurer.

The Sisters of St. Raphael's School also attended the celebration.

Helpful Criticism Better Than Slow Death

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-M. V. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the daughter who didn't know how to tell her dear, sweet old mother that she had a very offensive body odor prompts this letter, and I welcome the opportunity to write it.

My own mother, age 67, was immaculate about her person, but suddenly several of us noticed a very strong, offensive body odor about her; no one wanted to tell her for fear of hurting her feelings.

Finally, a young cousin who was a registered nurse urged me to get my mother to a doctor at once. My mother had not seen a doctor for years. I finally had to tell her why I wanted her to go in order to get her there.

A physical examination disclosed that my mother had advanced cancer of the female organs. She had surgery, but it was too late to save her, because she had let it go too long. The odor was the only clue. She had had no pain whatsoever.

Abby, please urge your readers to have checkups periodically, and where a persistent body odor exists to tell the person! (Many aging people lose their sense of smell.)

If I had read this letter in your column two years ago, my mother might be alive today. FAITHFUL READER

DEAR READER: Many others wrote offering the same valuable information. Thank you for writing!

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with you, but I couldn't go along with your advice to DANNY'S GIRL. (She said Danny wore his hair down to his shoulders, was slight and had very delicate features, so he was mistaken for a girl a lot. She suggested that Danny cut his hair, but he said he didn't want to. He did, however say he would listen to some other suggestions.)

You said, "Tell him to grow a mustache!" Well, that wouldn't work. He would look like a girl with a mustache.

If a guy wants to emasculate himself (figuratively) by wearing a feminine coiffure, he should be prepared to accept the consequences. LIKES MEN WHO LOOK LIKE MEN

DEAR LIKES: I received many interesting suggestions for Danny. Among them were: 1. Go topless. 2. Go bottomless.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the benefit of all those poor guys who feel rejected if a girl doesn't kiss them on the first date. I used to be like that.

I met a girl a few months ago, and I asked her out. We had a great time, but when I tried to kiss her goodnight, she said, "Don't rush it." I felt like an idiot. I figured she didn't like me, so I didn't call her for a long time. Then I got to thinking that maybe it was to her credit that she didn't jump at the chance to kiss a guy she'd only known a few hours.

Additional Safeguard In Bill

The Senate has passed a bill by a vote of 68-16 to limit the president's power to commit U. S. troops in undeclared wars.

The bill must now go to the House of Representatives where its passage is uncertain.

Under the Seante bill the president could use the armed forces for a period not to exceed 30 days and only to repel an attack on U. S. territory or our armed forces, to forstall the imminent threat of attack, or to rescue Americans endangered on foreign soil or ships at sea.

Beyond the 30 days, approval of Congress would be necessary. The only exception would be if Congress was physically unable to meet, or the president certified it was necessary to protect

No 'Next Step' After Governor

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Being governor of North Carolina is the only political goal for Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr., a businessman who believes state government needs business management.

"After that, I'm saying flat out that I'll never be a candidate again. I won't run for or accept appointment to the U.S. Senate or any other office," he said.

Absence of ambition will help him be a better governor, Bowles explained. "I can devote full time to the job without looking further down the road," he said.

The glimmering beacon which has led him onward through a dozen years in Tar Heel Democratic politics as a campaigner, a state official and a legislator glows brighter than ever these days.

An upbeat and confident mood pervades the Bowles camp as the May 6 primary draws near. There's the feeling that the campaign, starting behind, now has drawn into challenging position with Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, the pacemaker for the nomination.

Ready For The Voting

"If he saw our latest poll, it might scare his mule," said Bowles. "I'm ready for the election tomorrow."

A civic and business leader in Greensboro, Bowles go into the mainstream of state politics when Terry Sanford was governor. The two roomed together one summer at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and formed a lasting friendship.

Bowles served as Sanford's Conservation and Development director, later won election to the House and then the Senate from Guilford County. Four years ago he toyed with the idea of running for statewide office, but dropped his sights for another Senate term.

"Money management" is his campaign theme. Better use of fiscal resources can expand vocational education programs and meet other needs without any increase in taxes, Bowles has said repeatedly.

Questions And Answers

The following question-and-answer exchange, drawn from a recent interview gives Bowles' views on a variety of subjects.

Q: There has been a lot of discussion about the high cost of running for office. How much are you spending?

A: I'm not sure, yet. My main opponent began with the publicity from three years as lieutenant governor. I had to use television early to become known. It cost an awful lot of money.

It's impossible for a candidate to keep up with costs day-by-day. When my report of contributions and expenses is filed, it will show exactly what has been received and spent.

One thing, the Internal Revenue Service investigation has slowed down contributions seriously. I've put more of my money in than I ever thought I would.

Q: You have broad business interests, in banking and other fields. How would you avoid a conflict of interest as governor?

Business Connections Severed

A: I have resigned from every board of directors I served on. I have no official connection whatever with any bank or other business. After the November election, I will have a certified public accountant list all the holdings of mine and my wife's. I'm going to be as open as I can.

Q: You have said members of Gov. Bob Scott's administration are working for your opponent. Do you think the Governor himself is directly involved?

A: Of course, the Governor has talked to people. Of course, he's told them he's for Pat Taylor. His three top men as far as politics is concerned—Ben Royce, Wiley Earp and Fred Mills—are very openly working hard for Pat Taylor.

It's a natural thing. I'm not angry about it. It is a handicap to me for the administration to be supporting another candidate.

Q: Would you comment on rumors of a deal in the gubernatorial race involving the possibility of a U.S. Senate appointment?

A: I have not even discussed any appointment, and I won't. I have not promised anybody anything.

Q: Has there been discrimination against women and blacks in state appointments?

A: There's no question about it. No, I would not appoint 52 per cent women, 25 per cent blacks, nor 2 percent Eskimos. I won't play a numbers game. I will appoint capable women and blacks. Intelligence and capability does not follow lines of sex or race.

disengaging troops.

The bill would not apply to the present Vietnam conflict.

There have been constitutional questions raised by opponents who see the bill as an abridgement of the president's power as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. However, we can see that such a law would be another safeguard against this country's entering an unwise war. Certainly the country should never attempt to wage another war when our people are not totally committed to the effort. Congress would be a position to determine the grassroot feelings in the event of a crisis which could lead to war.

East-West Highway Is Gradually Shaping Up

It still may be a long time before residents along U. S. 264 ride all the way to Raleigh in a dual lane limited access road; however some progress is being made.

The Highway Commission planning board has approved a corridor from Zebulon to I-95 at Wilson for construction of a limited access roadway.

Construction is at least a year away and even then it is planned that only two lanes will be constructed with the other two lanes to be added later. It is also still 40 miles from Greenville to the new route.

Some progress is being made though, and it gives hope that we may eventually see an adequate east-west highway through our area.

Staving Off A Defeat In Pa.

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The degree to which Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's chances for the Presidential nomination have reduced themselves to the strengths and weaknesses of Gov. Milton J. Shapp are symbolized by the thousands of state employees who coughed up $100 each to hear Muskie last Tuesday night.

Most of those attending Muskie's "gala" at a cavernous state exhibition hall here came to hear Shapp's patronage machine cracked the whip. Through such levies on some 60,000 state patronage employees, Shapp is wholly financing Muskie's campaign for the April 25 Pennsylvania primary. And besides being Muskie's fund-raiser, the governor is strategist-in-chief and de facto campaign manager. Indeed, without Milt Shapp, there would be no Muskie campaign at all in Pennsylvania.

Even with Shapp, prospects are bleak. It is widely agreed that Muskie today would lose to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, both in the popularity contest and in number of delegates. So, Muskie relies entirely on Shapp and his allies, Philadelphia's regular Democratic organization, to save him.

The situation, drenched with irony, epitomizes the national Muskie riches-to-rags story. A state neglected and a governor scoffed at as a political eccentric by Muskie's top lieutenants are now his only possible salvation. A Pennsylvania defeat, coupled with a loss to Sen. George McGovern in Massachusetts the same day, would seem the end for Muskie.

In the old frontrunning days, Muskie expected Pennsylvania to fall effortlessly under pressure of early primary victories. "Muskie's people thought the governor was just a little schnook," one Shapp intimate told us. As recently as three weeks ago, Muskie campaign professionals brought in from out of state had made no real preparations. Labor leaders, haughtily ignored by the Muskie campaign last winter, were putting together a respectable organization for Humphrey.

Shapp, having leaped onto the Muskie bandwagon in January, now saw his own position in the viper's nest of Pennsylvania Democratic politics undermined by a Muskie defeat. After getting Muskie to virtually abandon Massachusetts and concentrate on Pennsylvania, Shapp filled the void here during the last month.

His patronage chiefs issued county Democratic chairmen ticket quotas for a series of fund-raising galas, ordering them to concentrate on state highway department employees who owe their jobs to the party in power. The goal: $2000,000 for the Muskie campaign.

On the evening of April 7 at the governor's mansion, county chairmen and state department heads were given marching orders by Shapp's political lieutenants: the governor wanted a 100 per cent effort behind Muskie. Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline added that if Muskie is saved in Pennsylvania and becomes President, he would always look here with special favor.

In the week since then, Shapp and his key political aids, Richard Doran, have taken over the campaign's day-to-day details, even down to the content of Muskie's speeches. With no time for handshaking and no money for television commercials, Shapp has Muskie concentrating on stirring up party workers to get out the vote.

But Muskie is also beneficiary of the enemies made by Shapp in a decade-long ride from obscurity to power. Nor has Shapp fully recovered from the impact of a state tax increase (though the governor's fortuitous postponement of tax day from April 15 to May 15 may lessen the impact on primary

Strength For Today

ON OUR WAY

The Twentieth Century. What an age in which to live. A dangerous age, for if someone presses the wrong button we may find our planet whirled into space or the whole of our population poisoned with noxious gases. Science in the past century has obliterated many diseases. Some of us can remember that pest houses were maintained to take care of people suffering from smallpox. Many years ago typhoid fever was a scourge. Today when it occurs in a few places in the Western Hemisphere certain persons in authority are well aware that they are in trouble up to their neckties. Typhoid fever today is extremely rare. It is not only a disease but a crime. Some community has failed to do what it should do for safety and public welfare. Recently a bus filled with middle-aged physicians made a considerable long trip to see a case of typhoid fever. They had read about it in their medical books but they had never seen it. A certain oldster never loses the opportunity to tell of the typhoid fever epidemic which occurred in a community of about twenty-five thousand inhabitants. There were 215 cases of typhoid fever in this one community and fifteen persons died.

Almost two hundred years before that the venerated Father of our Country contracted smallpox and was said by his contemporaries to have pockmarks in a day when pockmarks were common.

Juvenile Crime Record

One of our town's most professorial liberals, a fellow who ordinarily has the answers to everything, threw up his hands the other day on the matter of juvenile crime. He couldn't explain it, and for once he was fresh out of solutions. But he was pretty certain that conservatives had nothing to offer either.

Perhaps not—not if answers are sought in terms of instant social solutions or politically palatable laws. But the dimensions of this problem are appalling, and when we ponder the punk kid with the smoking pistol, something better is required than the liberals' limp excuses. There is more to this than poor food and poor housing.

Between 1960 and 1970, arrests of persons under 18 more than doubled, from 517,000 to 1,105,000. More than half of the serious crimes committed each year are committed by persons under 25. One-third of all robberies, 52 percent of the burglaries and 56 percent of auto thefts are attributed to youths 15, 16 and 17 years old. No other society in the world matches our wretched record of juvenile crime.

What can be done about it? A conservative might respond by suggesting a sobering re-examination of certain patterns and institutions that have fallen into slow decline.

One of these, plainly, is the concept of family. We have come a long way—and not an especially pleasant way—from the time of family solidarity and family responsibility. Divorce courts function as efficiently as airline counters, trading in the unused portions of a ticket. Scorned by the zealots of women's lib, the role of motherhood increasingly is seen as a kind of bit part, to be played by women who can't make it in the big time. The elderly fare no better. Like ancient Eskimos, we tend to put our aged parents on an ice floe: Off to Medicare and Sunset Manor. And we seldom ask what all this does to a child.

A free society is one thing; a permissive society is something else entirely. Many of our educational theorists seem not to know the difference. Under their Taxes like inflation, go up and up. Legislatures in 21 of the 41 states holding sessions this year have or will consider tax increase proposals totaling $7 billion annually, with the bulk of this in many states to be allocated for financing of public schools.

So the beleaguered taxpayer can prepare himself for more bad news. Perhaps he feels that the time is fast approaching when he would prefer to keep the taxes withheld and just give the government his take-home pay.

Actually, the continued trend in tax increases is not surprising, once you study the record. In the 10 years 1962-72, total government tax receipts — federal, state and local — increased by 77.5 per cent per American household, according to Tax Foundation, Inc.

What may be surprising, however, is the fact that the politicians are going for more revenue loot in this, an election year. The usual recipe is to promise goodies during an election year, then raise taxes the next year to pay for them.

Formal proposals for new state taxes seem most likely to be considered this year in California, New Jersey and New York. Last year 30 states adopted new and increased taxes expected to yield a record $5 billion annually.

Legislatures in 15 states have or will consider a variety of major tax proposals. Three states without a broad — based personal income tax were to consider its adoption. Eight states will consider increasing yields from their personal income taxes and eight from corporation income taxes.

Proposals in at least a dozen states would boost revenue from sales and use taxes. Drivers may be paying an increase in gasoline taxes in 11 states. Smokers in 11 states face the probability of cigarette tax hikes, some as much as 50 to 100 per cent.

During that 1962-72 period when total government tax receipts — at all levels of government — increased by 77.5 per cent, total government spending at the same time increased by 93 per cent on a per-household basis. That, too, should be a surprise to no one.

The Babel Of Dissident Voices

By ELMER ROESSNER

The third United Nations Conference on Trade and Development is in the early days of its five-week long meetings — the United States is not the only target for brickbats.

The meeting is basically an encounter session in which 96 less developed nations are telling the dozen or so industrial, wealthy countries what's wrong with trade, economic assistance, tariffs, preferences and what have you. Because the U.S. is the most industrialized of all and the biggest market, it garners the most criticism and vilification. But a number of nasty things are also being said about the French, Germans, Japanese, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, the International Money Fund, and the Common Market.

The complaints are many but boil down to two general theories.

The first is that the international money system is designed and controlled by the big powers for their own benefit and to the detriment of less developed countries.

The second is that in-

ternational trade conditions favor the industrialized countries and discriminate against countries supplying raw materials.

Under these broad headings are such issues as a bigger voice for the LDCs in monetary reform, special drawing rights for poorer countries, preferential treatment for LDC exports of manufactured goods, multilateralization of economic development assistance, and foreign interference in domestic matters. These are just a few of the topics covered in 32 working papers being considered by the meeting.

Although the less developed countries have some valid points (and some not so valid) few practical changes are likely to result.

The 96 nations range from the large and partly industrialized, such as Mexico and Brazil, down to the small and completely impoverished, such as Lesotho, Chad and Burundi. Some are Communist and others socialist. Some are totalitarian and others are democratic.

The more sophisticated among the group are interested in markets for the electrical equipment, appliances, boxcars and oil products they produce. The least fortunate would be happy if they could sell a few more emaciated cattle or some produce to their slightly less poor neighbors.

Traffic Jam's Pattern

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A recent study showed the Chicago driver sits in traffic jams longer than motorists of any other city.

Besides the usual reason—repairs, accidents and bad weather—there are a number of phenomena that exist with increasing irritation on all expressways.

They include the gaper's block. This phenomenon occurs with frustrating frequency in Chicago. It usually occurs when the driver is already late for work or dinner but the lanes are open and traffic is zipping right along.

Suddenly, the lines begin to slow. The weather is perfect, the motorist reasons, and the road repairs were completed last year. It must be a bad accident or a temporary delay.

A half-hour and a quarter-mile later, the motorist reaches a point where two cars with nicked fenders are parked on the apron. A police car is behind them and the blue light is attracting gapers.

Sometimes, there is nothing. A quick glance at the traffic piling up in the other direction lets the driver know that the fender-bender occurred in the opposite lanes.

Then there is the crawling cop.

The crawling cop usually drives in the center lane at 45 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Only bold motorists positive their speedometers are accurate dare pass the patrol. For everyone who passes, three hesitate. Before long the lanes are backed up and somewhere a mile back, some driver is wondering how the traffic can be so bad at 10 p.m.

Finally, the crawling cop slips into an exit ramp and those bringing up the rear at 30 miles an hour never know why they were a half-hour late getting home.

Finally, there is the exact-change toll booth dilemma.

Moscow Visit Still On Despite Vietnam Activities

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What has been happening lately in Vietnam could have been enough to wash out President Nixon's visit to Moscow. It hasn't—yet.

The Kremlin and the Nixon Administration alike have good reasons for wanting the Moscow summit to take place as scheduled.

But in each capital there must be a point where prospective benefits from such a meeting become too costly. That point is close now. It wouldn't take much to bring about collapse of plans for the Moscow visit.

The Russians, probably to their dismay, find themselves now on the receiving end of the same kind of finger-pointing they directed at the Chinese Communists when President Nixon was headed for Peking in mid-February.

Moscow had done its best to make Peking uncomfortable.

Among other things it eagerly sponsored a big rally in France under the name of World Assembly for Peace and Independence of the Indochinese Peoples as Nixon was about to meet with the Chinese leaders. The object was painfully obvious. The U.S. ambassador to the Paris Vietnam talks canceled the session that week in protest against what he called "a horde of Communist-controlled agitators."

The Chinese leaders declined to be embarrassed. Meanwhile, an expected offensive of the North Vietnamese timed to the Peking summit failed to materialize. The buildup had been detectable enough. Why did the North Vietnamese hold off? Was it more important for Hanoi to hoard those forces for a more important time? Did Hanoi perhaps feel that the Moscow summit had much more meaning for North Vietnam's future?

Whatever the reason, Hanoi chose to wait. Now, according to U.S. military men, it has enough wherewithal to keep the current offensive going for a couple of months, or long enough to embarrass the Kremlin around May 22, the scheduled opening date of the Nixon summit.

Thus, whether by design or otherwise, Hanoi has made it hot for Moscow. If the summit should take place on schedule, it would lay Moscow open to what, from the Communist viewpoint, would be more serious accusations than those leveled at Peking in February. Moscow would be host to Nixon on a time when the "fraternal" Communist regime in Hanoi was under an attack from the Americans much more direct and heavy than anything that took place in February. After all, the Americans have resumed bombing in the areas of Hanoi and Haiphong and, by Russian account, Soviet ships in Haiphong Harbor have been hit.

The Russians have been advertising their "realistic, businesslike approach" to the Nixon summit. Would that approach be so realistic that the Russians would choose to ignore the propaganda setback inherent in such a summit at such time?

That depends upon what Moscow hopes to get out of it and whether those gains outweigh prospective losses. Moscow wants a lot of things: increased trade with the United States, eased tensions in Europe to permit greater attention to problems in Asia and elsewhere, access to Western technology and possibly some sort of agreement on limiting expensive strategic arms. Moscow seems to want to invest more in its troublesome domestic economy.

At what point, too would the U.S. side feel the circumstances no longer permitted a presidential trip to Moscow?

For the Nixon administration there is a good deal of importance in the public relations clout of such a journey in an election year, to say nothing of the major importance to the United States and the world of a possible accord on limiting weapons of mass destruction.

But such a summit could hardly be held, for example, if North Vietnam's offensive produced something that would seem to the world clearly a major military victory for Hanoi. The victory would be attributable of course, to Soviet military hardware.

What is going on now, evidently, is a progressive tightening of tension in Soviet-American relations and nobody can say just when or where the snapping point might be.

Male Near 55 In Peak Years

CHICAGO (UPI)—If you're a male nearing 55 you may be just getting ripe for a presidential victory.

Successful candidates for the presidency, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, most frequently are nominated when between 55 and 59 years of age.

Moreover, peak years of service of prime ministers of England and presidents of other republics is most frequently at this same four-year age span.

Birds Vanish Due Chemicals

MANILA (UPI) — Chemical pollution apparently has forced birds to fly away from the vast banana plantations in southern Philippines, in the province of Davao del Norte.

Many wild game hunters have complained after expeditions to some forests within the banana communities that wildlife, especially birds, have vanished because of lethal effects of chemicals used by plantation companies in disinfecting banana trees.

There is first of all the feeling of worthlessness that overwhelms the driver who pulls up to the exact change booth and discovers he has no exact change. This leads to his sheepish appearance in front of a line of glowing chrome grills as he walks across to the manned booths.

Secondly, there is the driver who didn't know he was heading for the exact change booth and makes a sudden 90-degree sweep across six lanes.

The most mind-boggling of the toll booth dilemmas is the driver who lets his child fling the change from the back window. Invariably he winds up crawling under the car looking for the dimes that didn't hit the basket.

Environmental Role Reviewed

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Resources Secretary Charles W. Bradshaw Jr. sees the possibility of the state becoming "the environmental model for the rest of the Southeast and most states of this nation."

In a talk to a Raleigh civic club Monday, Bradshaw discussed environmental regulations adopted in recent years and told of steps industries have taken to clean up pollution.

"During the last three years," he said, "Industry in North Carolina has announced plans to spend nearly $150 million for pollution protection equipment. Approximately 3,000 companies have submitted their plans on how they will clean up air emissions to within federal and state standards by 1975.

"All of North Carolina's largest paper producers, which previously were major water polluters, have installed new equipment or are upgrading older equipment to come within water quality standards," Bradshaw added.

But problems still remain, he said, pointing out that the water and air quality divisions in his Department of Natural and Economic Resources have a 50 per cent manpower shortage.

He said the next General Assembly should provide funds for manpower to enforce environmental legislation.

Bradshaw said his department also had problems with industries which delayed environmental protection plans "until the last moment" and then wonder why they are "delayed by government and environmentalists."

In addition, he said, there are problems with "some environmentalists who believe a desirable end is stopping progress, rather than controlling it."

mushy tutelage, we have raised two generations of children to suppose that discipline is cruel, that obedience is a sometime thing. It once was expected of the schools that teachers would seek to indoctrinate their charges, especially in the primary grades, with old-fashioned virtues: Honesty, thrift, neatness, excellence. They indoctrinate them in traffic safety now.

What has become of the church? Our leading ministers, it often appears, are obsessed with ministering to Mozambique. Such institutions as the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts are making a comeback. But for many years they surrendered to the mockery of pseudo-sophisticates who found them just too square for words.

A conservative, searching for legislative answers, would urge a fresh look at laws that govern child labor and fix a minimum wage. This is not to suggest a return to the days of Dickens, to the sweat shop and the garment loft. But it is to suggest that thousands of boys might stay out of trouble if they learned the discipline of honest work at 12 or 13. The present minimum wage laws, coupled with needlessly protective restrictions, leave active and healthy youngsters with little to do but hang around.

Our courts cry out for re-examination also. One hesitates to generalize, but the FBI figures offer mute testimony that something is sadly wrong. The system is not working. Fewer than 1 percent of the juvenile offenders taken into custody wind up in criminal courts. It is fine to temper justice with mercy, but excessive leniency is bad all around.

What lies ahead? The melancholy prospect is that crime in America will get worse before it gets better. Permissive tides keep rolling in: they eat at the shores of moral values. The Congress is not likely to lower the minimum wage for youngsters, but to increase the rate across the board. Until we make up our minds to get back to fundamental principles, we can look ahead to more young punks who sneer at a sick society, unwilling to be healed.

day, April 25).

Humphrey also pushes hard the theme of his fighting the Shapp machine. "You may have to give your money to Shapp and Muskie, but you can give your heart and your vote to Hubert Humphrey," says a card passed out by the Humphrey campaign.

Furthermore, the Democratic organization has competing concerns April 25. Peter Camiel, Philadelphia city Democratic chairman, may be the state's most enthusiastic Muskie man. But he also has to defeat insurgent candidates for party committeeman, state legislator and Congressman to maintain power. Shapp's attention in Pittsburgh is distracted by a battle for county Democratic chairman vital to his interests.

Humphrey's labor backers have no such divided attention. With little public surge here for either candidate, this vital primary (which may well eliminate the loser) depends on a test of strength: the labor barons vs. Gov. Shapp's political muscle. That is a prospect Muskie's national campaign managers did not imagine in their worst nightmares only weeks ago.

in which he has excelled. In 1958, he was pistol champion in the Third Asian Olympics held in Tokyo. Although an Army man, Dr. Kim learned to fly, and was licensed as a pilot in 1956.

He is also very much a family man. He and his wife, Yun Gung Lee, have two sons, Sung Chul and Kun Chul, and three daughters, Ok Hee, Nan Hee and Chi Hee. "They range in age from 10 to 20 years," he stated.

"I wanted to make a point to include a countryside visit in my itinerary," Dr. Kim observed, "and I'm very happy that I could get to a smaller town." He said it would please him immensely to have time to see more of the countryside, but his schedule in the U.S. and Europe is a pressing one. His Greenville visit ended with a luncheon hosted by Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president.

As a participant in the International Visitor Program of the U.S. Department of State, Dr. Kim is spending about ten days in the U.S. of his 29 day tour.

Asked about U.S. officials he has met or will meet on the American leg of his tour, Dr. Kim said he had already met with the Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian-Pacific Affairs and also with the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for East Asian-Pacific Affairs.

"From Washington I will visit Bonn as a guest of the Federal Republic of Germany." In between the official Washington and Bonn visits he will have time "to visit London and elsewhere."

A graduate of the Korean Military Academy in 1946, he has since received several degrees, including the Ph.D. in Political Science this year.

After being commissioned a Korean Army Officer in 1946, Dr. Kim remained in the Army for 16 years, rising rapidly to the rank of major general before his retirement.

In his service years the first important position he held was that of Commanding General of the 9th Infantry Division. That was in 1952, before he was 30 years old. He continued to move up, and by 1959 had become Director, Joint Chief of Staff, ROK Armed Forces.

Appointed to the post of Deputy Minister of National Defense in 1961, he also served as Senior Representative of the ROK Government to the Military Armistice Commission in 1961.

The former general holds the Taeguk Order of Distinguished Merit (his country's highest order) as well as 12 other honors from the ROK Government. In addition he has been awarded the U.S. Silver Star and three other American medals; and in 1971 was awarded Honorary Consul of the Republic of Costa Rica.

Dr. Jung Gun Kim, a professor of Political Science at East Carolina University and host to Dr. Kim and his escort-interpreter, Kibon Han, noted "Dr. Chum-Kom Kim is very well known in Korea as the foremost authority in security and related problems."

The retired general explained that his time is now focused mainly on political affairs. He is founder and director of Kim Chum-kon Institute of Security and International Relations, which has been an active institute since 1969. In addition, Dr. Chum-kon Kim is a professor of Political Science, College of Politics and Economics, Kyunghee University.

In response to his thoughts on the possibility of the reunification of Korea in the future, Dr. Kim said "I see no possibility of this within the next ten years. My reasons for this statement are that there are ideological differences and the political structure of each is unacceptable to the other."

He pointed out other difficulties involved. These include unwillingness of the North Korean government to make compromises; and insufficient information to properly assess the thinking and attitudes of the majority of the North Koreans.

"North Korea," Dr. Kim said, "is a closed country, isolated from the outside world. It's difficult to know what's going on. The people there are fed the sort of information the government wants them to have."

This is Dr. Kim's first visit to America. Earlier travels have taken him to countries of Northeast and Southeast Asia. "I was in Vietnam in 1962," he explained, "as a member of a Goodwill Mission."

He pointed out that "the White Horse Division, which I commanded at one time, was the unit the Korean Government committed to Vietnam in 1965."

As a former general officer and now as a valued authority in the political field, Dr. Kim will be basically concerned on this two continent trip with defense and strategic policy planning, especially for the Pacific area. He will visit major academic centers, research institutes, government offices and defense installations. On this trip, he will also be actively involved in meeting and talking to political scientists and specialists in international relations; as well as studying political primaries, attitudes of students, agricultural life and industrial centers, and the life of Asian minorities.

But in the midst of all this whirlwind of official talks and meetings, one feels that Dr. Kim's trip to Greenville is for him something like an affair of the heart, something he will long remember as a pleasant interlude when spring was in full glory in eastern North Carolina.

Pitt County Fire Marshal has reported several fires in the county recently, including one four alarm house fire outside Grifton.

On April 14, at 6:22 p.m., the Grifton Fire Department responded to a fire at the Patricia Moore home at Forest Acres near Grifton. The fire was put out without appreciable damage to the home.

At 10:03 p.m. on April 15, the Winterville Fire Department answered an alarm for an auto fire at Worthington's Cross Roads. An automobile belonging to Lee Dickson, Jr., was a total loss at approximately $1,000.

Spread Of Big Fire Is Halted

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Weary firefighters succeeded early today in establishing control lines and halting the spread of a fire that has consumed about 17,000 acres of timberland near Jacksonville and taken the life of one man.

Tom Hegele of the North Carolina Forest Service said there was still the danger that morning winds could fan the flames out of control again.

He said more than 200 men were battling the blaze, including 80 Marines from Camp Lejeune brought in to begin mopping up the northern sector of the fire.

He reported Monday night that the winds had calmed considerably after dark but earlier they had been "pretty rough, 12 to 15 miles per hour, gusting up to 25 miles per hour and shifting several times causing the fire to change direction."

The fire in the Hoffman Forest about 15 miles north of Jacksonville was discovered Sunday afternoon. By that night it had destroyed an estimated 5,000 acres of woodland. That had increased, to 10,000 acres Monday morning and to 17,000 acres Monday night. About 150 men have been fighting the fire, including Forest Service personnel from as far away as Asheville. They have been assisted by men and equipment from three paper companies, the Camp Lejeune Marines, and about 20 forestry students from Wayne Technical Institute in Goldsboro.

One of the firefighters, James Melville Jones, 32, of Maysville was killed early Monday when his truck was surrounded by fire. Jones, who was an employee of Albermarle Paper Co., is survived by his wife and three children.

Win Release Recipient Of Of Poor Pair Nat'l Award

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A lawyer for the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union has won the release of two men by citing a 1971 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that to make a poor man go to jail where an affluent man could buy his freedom violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

The high court suggested that other arrangements be made to allow the poor to pay their fines.

The two had been sent to prison for 20 days because they were unable to pay fines and courts costs totaling $40 for each on conviction of public drunkenness.

The CLU lawyer, John F. Morrow, argued that the handling of the case by Judge Buford T. Henderson of state District Court conflicted with the high court ruling.

Superior Court Judge James W. Long ordered the men released Monday. He gave them 60 days to pay their $40.

They had been arrested over the Easter weekend two weeks ago, and sentenced to District Court a few days later.

Pianist Tardif In Recital On Sunday

Pianist Paul Tardif will appear in a faculty recital of piano music on Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Fletcher Building, School of Music on campus at East Carolina University.

Now in his first year on the ECU faculty, Tardif has gained a notable reputation as a young concert pianist. He has performed with numerous orchestras, including in the U.S., the Kansas City Philharmonic, the Rochester, Eastmen-Rochester orchestras, at Carnegie Recital Hall and at the Aspen Music Festival, among others, Tardif has also played in concerts in Canada and in Austrian and German cities.

Critics on papers such as "The Washington Post," "The Democrat and Chronicle" of Rochester, N. Y., Heidelberg's "Rhein-Neckar Zeitung" and Salzburg's "Salzburger Nachrichten" have praised the clarity, expressiveness and technique displayed by Tardif in concert.

For his Sunday program here, he has chosen Beethoven's "Sonata in D Minor;" Alben Berg's "Sonata, Opus 1;" five etudes by A. Scriabine; five pieces for piano by George Crumb, and Maurice Ravel's "Gaspard de la Nuit."

For the three sections comprising the Ravel selections—"Ondine," "Le Gibet" and "Scarbo"—the poetry recitation will be given by James Rees, professor in the Drama and Speech Department, ECU. The English versions of the poems are translations by the English author, Christopher Fry.

Tardif notes the Crumb selections "are interesting in that they involve techniques of playing inside the piano on the strings, with strings being plucked and strummed."

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend. Seating for the recital is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Winston-Salem Tour By Taylor

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor was to bring his gubernatorial campaign to Winston-Salem today.

The candidate for the Democratic nomination appeared first at a breakfast sponsored by Forsyth County supporters. Afterwards, he went on a hand-shaking tour of a shopping center, then addressed the Winston-Salem Rotary Club at Benton Convention Center.

In the afternoon he toured the Integon Inc. home office and had a talk session with college students at Wake Forest University. Students from Wake Forest, Salem College, Winston-Salem State University and the North Carolina School of the Arts attended.

Taylor spent all day Monday in his Raleigh headquarters preparing position papers and speeches, answering letters and conferring with staff members. His only public action was to strongly deny that the recent addition of a former leader of the Political Action Committee on Education, Jerry Paschall, to his campaign staff was connected with a PACE endorsement of his campaign.

Taylor's Democratic opponent, Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles said Saturday that he had not received the PACE endorsement because Paschall was a Taylor supporter and Taylor had hired him on his campaign staff.

Taylor said Monday that Paschall had resigned from the PACE steering committee before the endorsement. Paschall, who resigned two weeks ago as superintendent of Goldsboro city schools, served as president of the North Carolina Association of Educators, in 1970-71. PACE is the political arm of the NCAE.

Marshall Combs Suing Hawks For A Million Applicants For Coaching Post

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP) — Jim Hartbarger, head basketball coach at Western Carolina University, confirmed Monday that he had been at Huntington, W. Va., the day before to be interviewed for the coaching position at Marshall University.

He also said that John Lotz, assistant at North Carolina, had been interviewed.

The post became vacant when Carl Tacy accepted the coaching job at Wake Forest University last week. Marshall, 23-4 under Tacy last season, was ranked 12th nationally, and won a place in the NCAA playoffs.

Joe McMullen, athletic director at Marshall, told the Asheville, N.C., Citizen in a telephone interview Monday that seven candidates had been interviewed, and the choice will be narrowed down to one today. He is expected to announce the new coach Wednesday, the first day for high school athletes to sign national letters of intent.

The Citizen quoted Hartbarger as saying in an interview that he would not consider the Marshall position unless McMullen modified his offer.

Marshall reportedly is offering a one-year contract at $15,000 a year, with benefits to include radio and television shows valued at $2,800 a year. Marshall also reportedly wants to retain its present assistant coaches.

Hartbarger guided Western Carolina to a berth this season in the championship tournament of the NAIA, the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics.

Tar Heels And Deacs Meeting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wake Forest and North Carolina are the only Atlantic Coast Conference baseball teams with a chance to make up any ground today on leading Maryland.

And if they do it will only be at the expense of each other. They meet in a twilight doubleheader, each game seven innings.

Other ACC teams play outside foes today. The schedule was Maryland home to George Washington, Clemson at Georgia, Duke at Davidson, and North Carolina State home to East Carolina.

The outcome of the Wake Forest at North Carolina doubleheader won't hurt Maryland much.

The Maryland Terrapins, who have won the last two titles, each in a playoff with Clemson, are 5-1 in the league, while North Carolina is 7-5 and Wake Forest is 0-6.

Duke at 3-1 and Clemson at 6-2 are tied for second. Then comes North Carolina, followed by Virginia 2-3, north Carolina state 2-7, and Wake Forest.

ACC teams were idle Monday.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden was selected Monday night as coach of the year by the All-American Basketball Coaches Clinic at a banquet hosted by Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and John Bayer, coach of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Wooden, whose Bruins have won the last six NCAA titles and eight of the last nine, will have the use of a new car for the next 12 months. Nine others were under consideration for the honor. They were:

Jerry Tarkanian, Long Beach State; Dean Smith, North Carolina; Al McGuire, Marquette; Bill Gibson, Virginia; Denny Crum, Louisville; Chuck Daly, Penn.; Lefty Driesell, Maryland; Bill Musselman, Minnesota; Carl Tacy, Marshall.

The clinic will conclude Wednesday after Tuesday night's East-West all-star game pitting 6-10 LaRue Martin of Loyola-Chicago against Marquette's Jim Chones. Martin was the first pick in the recent National Basketball Association draft. Chones has already signed with New York's Nets of the ABA.

Furman Beats Off Spider Challenge In Double Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Furman's defending co-champion Paladins have beaten off the latest effort by their most serious challenger to dislodge them from the Southern Conference baseball lead.

The Paladins dropped briefly to second place Monday when they dropped a 1-0, eight-inning decision to Richmond's Spiders in the first game of a doubleheader, but Furman regained the lead with a 5-4 victory in the nightcap.

Another Monday twin bill saw William and Mary and Virginia Military Institute split, the Keydets taking the opener 2-1 and the Indians the second game 3-2 with two of the pitchers also getting into the hitting act for the two teams.

The Furman-Richmond split left the Paladins in first place with an 8-2 conference record to the Spiders' 4-2 mark. The Citadel's Bulldogs are third at 6-4 and W&M remained tied for fourth with East Carolina, the Indians with a 4-4 mark and the Pirates at 3-3.

Reggie Dunnivant's homer leading off the bottom of the eighth inning broke up a scoreless pitching duel in the first game between the Spiders' Roger Hatcher and the Paladins' Todd Brenizer.

After allowing a hit in each of the first two innings, Hatcher allowed no hits and only three baserunners the rest of the way.

Richmond built a 4-2 lead in the first five innings of the nightcap against Furman pitching ace John Katona, but the Paladins pulled out the victory and saved first place with three runs in the sixth.

Don Leege's sacrifice fly got home the winning run following two hits, two walks and a passed ball.

VMI's John Pate tried to pitch both games for the Keydets and won the opener with a six-hit effort in which he drove in both VMI runs, with a single in the second inning and a double in the fourth. The only run off him was unearned.

After giving up a run in the third inning of the second game, Pate was relieved when he walked the first two batters in the fifth. William and Mary pitcher John Mileson then slammed a triple to get both runners home. The two runs proved decisive when the Keydets got to Mileson for two runs of their own in the fifth.

Provisional member Appalachian State, which isn't eligible for the title this year, dropped a 10-1 decision at South Carolina.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks and Los Angeles Lakers have each won the games they really had to win.

But tonight's match at the forum is a MUST game for both. The teams are tied 2-2 in the best-of-7 series for the National Basketball Association's Western Conference championship.

The nationally televised game starts at 10 p.m., EST. The Forum is a 17,500-seat sellout and, with Los Angeles blacked out for home television, five sites will carry closed-circuit telecast.

In Monday night's only pro basketball action, Utah moved out to a 2-0 lead in their West Division final series against Indiana by whipping the Pacers 117-109.

Willie Wise poured in 30 points for the Stars, including 11 in the third quarter, when Utah turned a one-point half-time deficit into a nine point lead. Zelmo Beaty, playing despite a broken finger, scored 23 points and hauled down 25 rebounds for the Stars.

George McGinnis led Indiana with 28 points, 21 of them in the

Two Claim Bob McAdoo

BUFFALO (AP) — It may take a courtroom battle to decide whether Robert McAdoo is a Squire or a Brave.

The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association announced Monday McAdoo had signed for them a "multi-year contract."

At the same time, Arnold Gardner, a lawyer for the Braves, said the club had filed in federal court an action designed to free McAdoo from a pact he made earlier with the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association.

McAdoo was the Braves' No. 1 draft pick in the recent NBA draft, even though ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph told the club McAdoo was Squire property.

Gardner said the Braves' suit contends that Virginia's contract with the 20-year-old McAdoo was "technically defective because he was a minor at the time the contract was signed."

Gardner said the club also is arguing that the player was subjected to "undue influence" when he met with Squires officials.

McAdoo has sent a letter to Squires' owner Earl Foreman "disaffirming" the ABA club's contract, Gardner added.

second half.

The third game of the series will be played Wednesday night at Anderson, Ind.

The other ABA playoff series, between Virginia and the New York Nets for the East Division title, does not resume until April 24. The Squires hold a 2-0 edge.

In the NBA Eastern Conference finals, the New York Knicks hold a 2-0 edge over Boston. Game No. 3 will be played Wednesday night in Boston, and the Celtics need that one to climb back into contention.

Recapping the Bucks-Lakers series:

The Bucks blasted the Lakers in the Forum, 93-72, in the first game, but Los Angeles came back to win a thriller 135-134, also at the Forum.

Los Angeles went to Milwaukee needing at least a split of the two games there to maintain any home-court advantage. The Lakers won the third game, 108-105.

Then came Sunday's fourth contest, which Milwaukee needed to win or face a 1-3 deficit in the series. The Bucks won in a walk, 114-88.

Service Credits For Students

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—Utica College students now may obtain up to one-fourth of the academic credits needed for a bachelor's degree by successfully completing competency examinations of applicable military service courses as a result of a new plan.

Advanced high school students and currently enrolled students are eligible to take the exam. The plan, by the way, follows a national trend in liberalizing credit for previously-acquired competency.

Cards Survive The Incredible To Top Philadelphia

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Would you believe the St. Louis Cardinals could win a game in which Lou Brock was picked off in successive innings for the first time in his career, in which Joe Torre was forced out by an injury and in the opposing pitcher belted a home run?

though he probably has to pinch himself to fully realize that he picked up his first major league victory since April 13, 1970.

Monday's hard-earned triumph, 5-4 over Philadelphia, was the Cardinals' first of the young season after two one-run setbacks. Elsewhere on an abbreviated major league baseball schedule, Houston whipped

San Francisco 7-2, Los Angeles trounced Atlanta 8-3, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 4-0 and Cleveland zeroed Boston 4-0.

Santorini, the fifth St. Louis pitcher, came on in the ninth inning with the bases loaded, one out and the Cards nursing a 5-3 lead. He got a bad break when first baseman Donn Clendenon dropped pinch hitter Roger Freed's pop foul but the 24-year-old right-hander recovered to strike out Freed.

Larry Bowa's sharp single made the score 5-4 and left the bases jammed but Santorini retired Tim McCarver on a grounder to second for the final out. Santorini had a 1-8 record with San Diego in 1970, was 0-4 with the Padres and Cards last year and was tagged with the loss in the 1972 opener on Saturday.

"It's been a long time," sighed Santorini, but the victory was doubly sweet—his family came down from Union, N.J., and it was his father's birthday.

Brock, the Cards' inimitable base-stealer, was embarrassed in the first and second innings by Woodie Fryman, who picked him off both times. And Clendenon, in addition to his potentially damaging error, was run down trying to score from first base on a single by Jose Cruz in the first inning.

The Cards prevailed, despite all that adversity plus Fryman's second career home run, when Ed Crosby, Torre's replacement, greeted reliever Joe Hoerner with a leadoff single in the top of the ninth and Ted Simmons doubled him home with the tie-breaker. Simmons eventually scored what proved to be the winning run on Dal Maxvill's sacrifice fly.

Torre aggravated a strained muscle in his lower back suffered in Sunday's game against Montreal.

A funny thing happened to the San Francisco Giants on their way to a repeat of their early 1971 runaway. After trimming Houston twice and grabbing a 2-0 lead Monday night on pitcher John Cumberland's fifth-inning single, they faltered and lost.

Doug Rader tied the score for the Astros in their half of the inning with a two-run homer and they took the lead in the sixth on run-scoring singles by Lee May and Bob Watson. May singled another run across before Rader cracked a two-run triple.

Two-run homers by Willie Davis and Manny Mota powered Los Angeles over Atlanta, which is having the pitching problems most experts predicted. Davis drove in a third run with an infield hit and Bill Singer, facing live hitters for the first time since March 12, hurled four perfect innings. He was bothered only by Darrell Evans' homer.

Brooks Robinson and winning pitcher Dave McNally rapped run-scoring doubles as Baltimore broke a scoreless game with three runs in the seventh and downed the Yankees. McNally, bidding for his fifth 20-game season, tossed a four-hitter.

Paul Blair opened the seventh with a single off Fritz Peterson and scored on Robinson's double as right fielder Rusty Torres fell down. McNally doubled the second run across and scored himself on Don Buford's single.

Milt Wilcox fired a two-hitter and Tom McCraw greeted reliever Bill Lee with a three-run homer in Cleveland's win over Boston. Wilcox, obtained from Cincinnati in an off-season trade, was locked in a scoreless battle with Ray Culp when Alex Johnson and Graig Nettles singled with two out in the eighth inning. Lee came in to face McCraw—lefty vs. lefty, you know—and McCraw pulled a 1-2 pitch just inside the right field foul pole.

Finn Again Boston Marathon Winner

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Olavi Suomalainen, an engineering student in Helsinki, returned the Boston A.A. Marathon championship to Finland today in extending foreign domination of the 76-year-old distance run for a handful of prizes and a bowl of beef stew.

The 25-year-old Suomalainen, moving up to the marathon distance for the first time, surprised a starting field of 1,081 by winning the 26-mile, 385-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston test Monday in 2 hours, 15 minutes, 39 seconds.

His 18-second victory over the fast-closing Victor Manuel Mora of Colombia was Finland's first in 10 years. It also marked the 24th triumph by a foreigner since World War II.

the only breaks in the string being Johnny Kelley's victory in 1957 and Abrose Burfoot's triumph four years ago.

Suomalainen, normally a 25-kilometer runner, charged into the lead with less than five miles to go and had enough to withstand Mora's belated challenge to win by slightly more than 100 yards.

Former Connecticut track star John Vitale set the early pace before Mexico's Jacinto Sabinal passed him after 14 miles.

Then came the hills, a couple of small ones and then famed "Heartbreak," leading up to Boston College.

Suomalainen caught up to the Mexican at the fifth checkpoint just below the college and 21.6 miles from the start. Then he gradually built his advantage as Sabinal faded and finished third in 2:16:10.

Mexico's Alfred Penazola and Pablo Garrido, each running in the BAA for the third time, finished fourth and fifth in 2:18:46 and 2:19:50, respectively. Bruce Mortensen of Rochester, N.Y., was the first American finisher, placing sixth in 2:19:59. Jeff Galloway of Tallahassee, Fla., was right behind in 2:20:33, followed by Colombia's Alvaro Mejia, the 1968 winner in 2:18:45.

Bowing to Women's Lib for the first time, the BAA conducted a special marathon for women. Nina Kuscik, a 33-year-old mother of two from Huntington, N.Y., topped a field of nine in 3:08:58, a time which would have been good for 391st place among the men. Elaine Pedersen of San Francisco was second in 3:20:35, and Kathy Miller of Syracuse, N.Y., third in 3:29:50.

Compensation Test In Court

DETROIT (AP) — A question of whether or not the death last October of Detroit Lions' flanker Chuck Hughes was connected with his job as a pro football player may force his widow to go to court to collect workman's compensation.

A pretrial examination is set for May 5 before a compensation referee in Detroit on the matter.

The compensation petition filed by the widow, Mrs. Sharon Hughes, contends that her husband died on the job. She is seeking compensation which could reach as high as $90,000 if she elects to take weekly payments until her two-year-old son, Brandon Shane Hughes, reaches 21.

Hughes collapsed on the field at Tiger Stadium last Oct. 24 during a National Football League game against the Chicago Bears. He was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital more than an hour later, although doctors said for all practical purposes he died on the field of a heart attack caused by hardening of the arteries.

But the Hartford Insurance Group, which is the Lions' comprehensive insurance carrier, says Hughes' death didn't have anything to do with football.

Granatelli Entry Is Set

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Andy Granatelli's entry in the Indianapolis 500 this year will be a standard STP Lola driven by Art Pollard, it has been announced.

Granatelli admitted Monday he had thoughts of prepping the revolutionary rotary Wankel engine for the Indy test but said "rule changes which we expected would liberalize the Wankel rotary engine size ... instead slashed the size just as was done with the turbines."

As a result, the Granatelli participation at Indy will be slight as he and brother Vince prepare a 29.9-inch turbine car for the California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway later this year.

Of the STP Ford-powered Indy car, Granatelli said there would be no time for advance testing and said it would be "almost a miracle if we qualified it during the first qualifying weekend of May 13-14."

Laver Rated No. 1 Seed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Rod Laver was the No. 1 seed, but Chicago's Marty Riessen had the hot hand going into today's first round of the $50,000 NCNB Tennis Classic.

Riessen concluded an eventful week in Quebec Sunday with a victory over Laver in the finals of that World Championship Tennis tour event, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5. To reach the finals, he disposed of Ken Rosewall and Arthur Ashe.

Sixteen first round singles matches were scheduled for today. Featured matches included Tom Okker vs. Tony Roche, Rosewall vs. Bob Carmichael, and Charles Pasarell vs. Cliff Richey. It was to be Richey's first appearance in a WCT tournament since signing a six-figure contract with the troupe controlled by Lamar Hunt.

The matches will conclude Sunday at the Julian Clarke Tennis Stadium in suburban Charlotte. North Carolina National Bank is the sponsor.

Braulio Baeza is the regular jockey for Numbered Account, the Ogden Phipps filly that won eight of her 10 races last year.

The USGA will sponsor the Amateur Public Links championship at Flanders, N.J., in 1973.

Plans Super Tennis Play

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The director of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills the past two years has designed a plan that would include the 32 contract professionals of Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis (WCT) in this year's Open.

Bill Talbert, in Nashville for a tennis clinic, suggested essentially two separate but concurrent tournaments leading to a "Super Match" at the finish.

Last year a dispute over scheduling, corporate guarantees for tournament participation and the type of tennis ball to be used at Wimbledon caused the International Lawn Tennis Federation to ban all WCT players from its tournaments beginning this year.

"There would be two separate tournaments," Talbert said, "and the WCT player would be participating in an event like all the rest on their tour. I'd put up the same purse and use whatever type ball they wanted."

"Hopefully we could have the finals of each tournament on Saturday. Then, on Sunday, perhaps the two winners would play in a kind of Super Bowl."

Contender's Role Eyed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One down and two to go for heavyweight Jerry Quarry as he attempts to fight his way back to the top contender's post of boxing.

The Bellflower Bomber used a devastating left hook to pound Argentina's Eduardo Corletti into submission in less than one round Monday night.

The end came at 2:58 of the first stanza when Corletti, weighing 202, slipped to the canvas for the second time.

The first knockdown also came from a left-right combination that rocked the visitor and provided Quarry with victory No. 42 against five defeats and four draws. He weighed in, however, at an overweight 203½.

His next fight will be May 9 in London against Larry Middleton and then he has a June 26 Las Vegas date with Muhammad Ali.

Corletti, 32-10-5, was counted out without numbers when Dick Young stopped the scheduled 10-round affair with two seconds left, just as the former South American champ was hitting the deck. The bell rang. Corletti arose and wandered about the ring until he was told the fight was over.

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE — Umpire Chris Pelekoudas gets caught in the middle as San Francisco's Dave Kingman begins to run down Houston Astros' Jimmy Wynn. Wynn was trying to get to third during fourth period action but couldn't make it, so he tried to get back to second but was caught and tagged in the rundown. (AP Wirephoto)

Great Nicklaus Year Shapes Up

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

When Jack Nicklaus won the Masters he remarked that he hoped to savor the victory for a while. He had every right to lick his chops for it was his fourth Masters conquest. He would wait a spell before thinking about the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach in California. But back in January the Blond Bomber was thinking about this year's Open set for June 15-18.

When the year began, Nicklaus was about to turn 32—his age, not his nine-hole score—and he had reason to have the Open on his mind at that time. After all, he had just won the Bing Crosby tournament which has so many hackers and pros that it is played over three courses. In his two rounds at Pebble Beach, Nicklaus shot 71-73, which is rather good in winter after a layoff at his Florida home.

"I didn't exactly tear Pebble Beach apart," Nicklaus said after beating Johnny Miller in a playoff. "It's going to take better scores here than those to win the U.S. Open. But conditions make the course so tough. They (conditions) change all the time."

The USGA, which runs the Open, also changes courses and PB figures to be rougher in the rough and faster on the greens. Nicklaus only hopes the course will love him in June as it did in January.

Big Jack wants to play the "Grand Slam" events one at a time and it's the only way to play them, even though he has won 12 major tournaments and is the only golfer with two wins in each of the four "Slam" events—U.S. Open, British Open, PGA and Masters.

After the U.S. Open, there's the British Open July 12-15 at Muirfield, Scotland, and then the PGA at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 3-6. People say Nicklaus' game is well-suited to these courses. His game is suited for any place golf is played because he has all the shots. And when the year is over Nicklaus figures to have reached or passed Bob Jones' record of 13 major victories. Not only that but he figures to set a new money winning record of more than $250,000 for one year. His 1972 cash register for the PGA tour has shown $134,473 in less than four months.

Jack won his first of two British Opens at Muirfield in 1966 with a 282 score and his second at St. Andrews in 1970. He likes Scottish courses so much that in the last four big ones played in Scotland he has been in a position to win them all. The British permit the Scotch to have their Open every other year. In 1964, Nicklaus was second to Tony Lema at St. Andrews and in 1968 he was second to Gary Player at Carnoustie.

As for the PGA at Oakland Hills, Nicklaus might have won the 1961 U.S. Open there but for a first round 75. He was a 21-year-old amateur and an Ohio State undergraduate with a second the year before to Arnie Palmer in the Open at Cherry Hills in Denver. But at Oakland Hills, Nicklaus shot 69-70-70 for his final three rounds. He not only led the amateurs with a 284 total but was only three strokes off winner Gene Littler's score.

There's a big tournament—the Philadelphia Classic at Whitemarsh—the week before the Open and Nicklaus, while he finished third in it last August, might skip it this time to see what changes, if any, will be made for the Open at Pebble Beach. This is the next big one he is eyeing and that means practice at the scene, especially since a victory at Pebble Beach may be tougher to achieve than one at Muirfield or Oakland Hills.

Nicklaus needs the Open to make this a memorable year for him, one that could be compared with the Bob Jones Grand Slam of 1930.

The 1973 USGA Amateur golf championship will be held at Inverness in Toledo, Aug. 29-Sept. 1.

The Worry Clinic
Humor Helps
To Make Points

Joel was surprised when I told his church congregation that Jesus employed humor in His sermons. But there are degrees of humor, ranging from slapstick "pie-in-the-face" episodes, to the O. Henry witty climax. See samples below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE.
Ph.D., M.D.
Case T-553: Joel T., aged 26, teaches high school English

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I heard your address last Sunday in my hometown church. 'And I was quite interested in your statement that Jesus employed humor in his sermons.' 'Since I contribute short articles occasionally to magazines. I wonder if you'd outline some more advice about the psychology of jokes and witticisms."

Christ's Hyperbole
Joel referred to the fact I mentioned Christ's use of hyperbole to startle his audiences and make them smile.

Hyperbole is not merely the usual stretching of the truth, which a fisherman might do regarding the length of his fish. Instead, hyperbole is extravagant exaggeration to the point of the ridiculous.

So Jesus warned his audience against criticizing the mote (speck) in their brother's eye but ignoring the beam (joist or sawlog) in their own eye.

Again, he told them they were guilty of straining at gnats while they routinely swallowed camels!

Humor is of various degrees of complexity so speakers must adapt it to the I.Q. of their listeners.

Thus, children can't appreciate Chesterfieldian wit nor even the play on words as indicated by a "pun."

"Baseball," said a genial clergyman recently, "was first mentioned in the opening verse of Genesis."

When his congregation raised their eyebrows in disbelief, the pastor opened the Bible and read the first line, which states, "In the beginning (big inning)."

This same play on words (punning) was illustrated by another preacher who announced:

"It wasn't the apple in the tree that caused the trouble in the Garden of Eden but the pear (pair) on the ground."

Children (and adults of lower I.Q.) prefer slapstick comedy, which means humorous situations with a great deal of visual elements.

Thus, the Saturday matinee old-time movies would convulse the child audiences by having an actor struck in the face with a custard pie.

Or with seeing a mischievous boy place a tack on the teacher's chair.

Another type of humor involves the sudden, unexpected ending, like the O. Henry short story climax.

When a Tennessee mountaineer, aged 98, announced he was marrying and 18-year-old girl, his preacher tactfully tried to dissuade him.

"Silas," warned the preacher, "marriage is physically rather strenuous on the couple, especially during honeymoon. So have you fully considered all the possible consequences?"

The old mountaineer nodded assent and replied:

"Well, if she dies, she dies!" Readers's Digest recently paid my daughter-in-law, Arlene, for describing a family dinner party at our home where five of their kiddies and several other cousins were present.

George, age 3, was upstairs when his sister Becky rushed down to tell us George had Opening lead: Deuce of ♠. Lew Mathe of Los Angeles has long been considered one of the United States top players, often having represented our country in International Championships. Mathe's outstanding declarer play is exemplified by today's hand wherein he overcame an extremely adverse distributional break to land a six no trump contract that was an odds on favorite to succeed when the dummy was originally spread.

West opened the deuce of hearts and North's king won the first trick. If diamonds divided three-two, South observed that he would be in position to claim his contract. When the deuce of diamonds was led to the king at trick two, however, West showed out, discarding the five of spades.

Declarer's assured trick total was now reduced to 10—three clubs, three diamonds, three hearts, and one spade. To succeed, it appears that he must find the king of spades in the West hand as well as a three-three division in clubs.

There is the further possibility of a squeeze in the black suits, for if West's opening lead is to be believed, he has—at most—four hearts and therefore, nine cards in the black suits. The latter must consist of either five spades and four clubs, or six spades and three clubs, judging from West's discard of the five of spades on the first diamond.

A small spade was led at trick three and the ace was played from dummy. This was a safety play to protect against East's holding a singleton king. When the latter followed suit with the nine, the closed hand was reentered with the ace of diamonds as West parted with the seven of hearts.

Another spade was led and West chose to play the eight. The queen was put up from dummy—winning the trick as East sluffed a heart. Inasmuch as the burden of protecting the black suits rested with West and no tricks had yet been lost, South chose to rectify the count by conceding a diamond to East.

The four of diamonds was deliberately led away from the queen and East was in with the nine, as West gave up the eight of hearts. A heart was returned to South's queen, West followed suit with the ten and North sluffed a diamond. A club was led to the ace and the queen of diamonds was cashed on which South parted with the seven of spades and West with the jack.

A small club to declarer's king was followed by the ace of hearts which placed West squarely in a vice. The latter was down to the king of spades and the jack-eight of clubs. If he sluffed his high spade, it would establish declarer's ten. If he surrendered a club, however, North's ace would drop the jack and then the five of clubs becomes established to score the 12th trick. West gracefully tabled his cards, conceding defeat.

Observe that if South does not concede the diamond trick to East, it leaves West with an extra card in his hand and a safe discard when the ace of hearts is led. It would not have availed the latter to put up the king of spades when that suit was led the second time, for by so doing, he would have rectified the count himself. North's queen of spades becomes established as the 11th trick and after the queen of spades and the queen of diamonds are cashed, the closed hand is reentered with the king of clubs to play the ace and queen of hearts. The last heart squeezes West in the black suits.

"ALL YOU NEED IS A BEAUTIFUL BODY AND THE ABILITY TO SAY YES."
—Group W Network
"It must be stressed that the 'couple' are not caricatures and that they and their exploded dream have been exposed with compassion and tenderness. Anna Gael, the curvaceous blonde beauty who has literally been exposed in 'Therese and Isabelle' is revealed here as a sensitive type... all too human." —A. Heller, N.Y. Times
★★★ "A Love Story French style! Scenes as natural as photographed and edited tastefully." —Ann Guarino, N.Y. Daily News
"A 'Young Couple' is not an imitation of 'Love Story' nor is it a cheap exploitation. It stands on its own as a neat, tight movie. Money is the name of the game and all you need to play, is a beautiful body and the ability to say yes. 'A Young Couple' is a surprisingly tasteful look at the haves and the have-nots of the international jet-sets beautiful and not so beautiful people." —Group W Network

Tobacco . . .

from Rt. 3, Kenley said that the "high cost of producing tobacco, continued price-cost freeze, and profit margins have forced tobacco production" to a situation where a great amount of cash is required to operate. "The required use of hired labor, mechanical harvesting, the increased use of bulk curing and loose leaf sales makes tobacco ready for marketing at an earlier date," Williamson contended. He said that farmers in the belt are forced to sell on the markets that open earlier, noting that they are "encouraged to do so by warehousemen in the early opening markets."

The farmer charged that there is not enough selling time allotted on eastern markets and situations caused by the delays in selling and costs of hauling to Border Belt markets have "place hardships" on area farmers.

Eastern Belt markets were allotted some 363 million pounds in 1971, the committee pointed out, but total sales amounted to only 322 million.

Ralph Brake of Rt. 1, Battleboro said that he is against hauling tobacco to distant markets. Farmers on those markets "seem a little bit unfriendly when my truck gets ahead of them," he said, "even when prior arrangements have been made."

Brake said that he lost four sheets of tobacco while selling in Georgia. Some of the out-of-belt sales have been satisfactory, he added, but all were necessary because of the need for money, the space in his pack house and for the total sheets of tobacco.

Bruce Flye of Battleboro asserted that tobacco is the "single commodity that has no readily available market." He said that earlier market openings in the area belt would be the answer to problems in the east.

"Eastern Belt farmers have as much ready as the farmers below us," Charlie Cannon of Halifax commented. "If we could sell here when we need to, the farmers here and there (Border) wouldn't have the problems of getting on the floor."

"We've got a marketing committee made up of all segments of this industry. They are informed and experienced. They can work out these problems. I believe the time is approaching when these problems of marketing times and schedules will be faced up and solved by the committee. I certainly don't think we need another board of some kind to muddy the water," Cannon contended.

W. A. Allen of Farmville, saying that "tobacco has more than its share of problems," said that there is no way of giving more selling time of one belt without taking it from another and it would be "unfair to expect any group to do this."

Willis Boney of Wallace said that he would like to see some adjustments made where "everybody would be known to warehousemen and young people could get their tobacco sold too."

Farmville farmer Jimmy Joyner said that he has sold tobacco all the way from Florida to Virginia and has "seen it under almost every imaginable condition you can name," but he "can't imagine any other commodity being disposed of in the haphazard way that tobacco is disposed of today."

He charged that we have "an antiquated marketing system" today and it is "just not the way it should be done but we are doing it that way and it's the best we can, evidently, right now."

A CONTRIBUTION . . . to help purchase a rescue squad truck for Bethel was made recently by Wachovia Bank and Trust Company. Bank official

Another Donation For Rescue Truck

BETHEL — The Bethel Rescue Squad is continuing its drive to raise matching funds to purchase a new rescue truck.

A recent contribution to help in this was the presentation of a check by Wachovia Bank and Trust Company in the amount of $500. The check was presented to rescue squad members Eldon Coltrain and Frederick Tetterton by Alvis Mewborn on behalf of Wachovia.

While the new rescue truck has not yet been purchased, bids have been received and are being taken into consideration. Squad Captain Sammy Carson stated that the financial goal has not yet been reached and that additional contributions are necessary. "Our concern is that we receive the best equipment necessary to meet the medical needs of our community," the squad captain stated.

Interested persons wishing to assist in the program are asked to mail their contributions to the Bethel Rescue Squad, Bethel, N.C.

"Any amount will be appreciated," Carson noted, "and every donation will help make this a reality come true."

Bicycle Safety Talk Wednesday

"The Values of Teaching Children Bicycle Safety" will be discussed on WNCN-TV's "Carolina Today" Wednesday morning.

In conjunction with Bike Safety Week, being sponsored by the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville, Optimist Carl Knott and Chief of Police Glenn Cannon will appear on the program.

Grand Opening Set For Wednesday

Roses Completes Expansion Of Pitt Store

Roses officials are putting the finishing touches on the company's renovated and enlarged Pitt Plaza facilities in preparation for Wednesday's grand opening activities.

Henry Kearney, store manager, said that building expansions initiated last August that more than doubled the store space, have been completed as well as interior renovations throughout the original section of the business.

Kearney reported that construction of the new section increased square footage of the overall store from approximately 20,000 square feet to over 45,000. In excess of 25,000 items will be available.

Among the features of the new Roses, according to the manager, are extensive expansions of many of the departments in the store and the addition of La Terrace, a "shop within the store" that offers the "better quality ladies wear and jewelry" and related items. "La Terrace," Kearney noted, "is a feature of many of the newer Roses stores."

Sporting goods, music and photo departments have been enlarged and now offer more selections for the convenience of the Greenville shopper, the manager continued. Also, a fully stocked pet section has been included in the new addition.

"Approximately one-fourth of the store is now carpeted," Kearney noted, while pointing out that the other floor areas have been Re-tiled.

A modern, fully equipped cafeteria, capable of handling in excess of 80 people at a time, has been installed and replaces a smaller eating facility that was included under the old format.

Kearney reminded shoppers that a new rear entrance has been added at Roses and four cash registers will be in operation to handle customers who wish to utilize the convenient, rear area parking. The four new registers, he said, give the store a total of nine front and rear check-out centers in addition to registers located in various departments throughout the store.

The opening of the new addition at Roses resulted in the hiring of 30 new employees, it was noted, and the store now boasts a staff of approximately 100.

Kearney said that the size of the Greenville store compares favorably with Roses centers in many of the larger cities of the state.

"We are proud to be located in Greenville and I think it should be pointed out that the patronage of our fine customers was the reason for the enlargement of the store in order to better serve these customers," the manager added.

Kearney, a native of Franklinton, joined the Roses organization ten years ago in Ahsokie. He was transferred to Roanoke, Va. and worked there before moving to the Roses store in Smithfield.

From Smithfield, the manager was transferred to the Evans Street store here and later in Winston-Salem and Columbia, S.C. before returning to Greenville in March of 1971 to assume managerial duties here.

Kearney is married to the former Faye Ellington of Franklinton and they have three children: Kathy, 12; Alisa, ten; and Sharon, six. The Kearneys reside at 107 Camelia Lane and attend Trinity Baptist Church.

Working under the manager will be five assistants, H. F. Martin is senior assistant and he is joined by T. D. Joyner, M. C. Rackley, G. D. List, and James E. Kennedy.

Mayor S. Eugene West and other city officials are expected to take part in ribbon cutting activities at Roses Wednesday morning at 9:30.

P. H. Rose Built Corporation On Solid Foundation; Began In 1915

To have a better understanding of the Rose Corporation and its growth, one must first know about the solid foundation this company was built on. This foundation was started by the late Paul H. Rose. If anyone was ever destined to become a merchant, it was Paul H. Rose. During his boyhood days in Jackson and Seaboard, North Carolina, he cut lightwood splinters, bundled and sold them. His mother also contributed by baking cookies for him to sell. Having proven to be a successful businessman, Mr. Rose, at the formal age of twelve, acquired his first store. The store was a large piano crate which was placed in a doctor's office at the close of each day's business. One of the specialties offered at the store was a drink made of vinegar and soda.

Mr. Paul Rose had become a well known retailer in the community by the time he was a teenager. It was during this period of his life when he started a mail order business by advertising in the Home Folks Magazine. This venture was successful in the beginning; however, it later failed because of a hair straightener he advertised. It seems this product straightened the hair; however, it first removed the hair from the head. A Federal Food and Drug agent paid Mr. Rose a visit and his mail order business was dissolved.

Not many people of this time were interested in education since the opportunities were limited. Mr. Rose; however, attended business school in Norfolk, Virginia and learned to be a stenographer.

After his schooling, Mr. Rose opened his first real store in Littleton. His capital was very limited; yet, he did have a store which was a great improvement over a piano crate. He ordered empty shoe boxes to help fill the space on the shelves. He would buy remnants of material and wrap it around a piece of cardboard to give the appearance of a full bolt of cloth.

Mr. P. H. Rose proved to be a great sales promoter by staging a popular girl contest to feature candy in his Littleton store. Votes were placed on the basis of the amount of candy one bought. He sold more candy than Littleton had ever seen. This attracted the attention of the candy manufacturer, who called him to New York and gave him all the southeastern states including Texas in which to sell their line.

As a candy salesman, Mr. Rose soon established quite a record. He found he had a considerable amount of time between trains, so he visited local variety stores and discussed merchandising problems with the Managers. He analyzed these problems and soon organized merchants of different towns into a wholesale buyer's association in order to buy merchandise at cheaper rates.

Being the head of a buyers group and having the store in Littleton to run required almost twenty-four hours a day. Mr. Rose finally decided to abandon the buying organization and to open a chain of his own. He and two other men formed a partnership known as the United 5 and 10 cent Stores and opened a unit in Charlotte and Henderson. One of the partners failed to pay his share; therefore, the young, struggling business did not have sufficient capital to survive. Mr. Rose found himself financially embarrassed, and his business reputation was at stake. He borrowed $500.00, bought the Henderson Unit and took over the management. Merchandise was purchased for the store on a C.O.D. basis and would stay at the railroad station until enough money could be accumulated to pay the bill.

J. E. KENNEDY

The Henderson Store was a success from the very start in 1915 when Mr. Rose took over. By 1916 another store was opened in Oxford. In 1917, store number three at Louisburg and store number four at Roxboro were opened. By 1920 there were seven stores with net assets of $30,000. By the end of 1925, ten years after starting, the stores numbered twenty-six.

In May, 1927 the Rose Company was incorporated and offered to the public both common and cumulative preferred stock. In 1935, the preferred stock was called and since that time only common stock has been offered. The results of the 1927 incorporation was $110,000 additional working capital which was used for expansion.

The Rose Corporation had grown to forty-five stores by 1929, and sales had reached well over a million and a quarter dollars per year. The P. H. Rose Building was constructed in 1929 to house the offices of the corporation. By the end of 1934, there were seventy-three stores in operation and sales had reached three and a half million dollars per year.

The Great Depression hit the country during the early 1930's and most mercantile establishments considered themselves lucky to be in business. Rose's; however, showed a steady increase in sales and expansion. During 1935, fourteen new stores were opened and the first company warehouse, 100 x 200 feet was built in Henderson. The warehouse became known as Rose Merchandise Company. At the end of 1935 the company had in operation 87 stores in five states. Sales that year exceeded four and a third million dollars. By the end of 1943 there were 122 stores with assets of $2,600,000. The authorized capital of the corporation was increased to $2,500,000 in 1944 and two years later a buying office was opened in New York.

L. H. Harvin, Jr. Pres.

Mr. Harvin began his career with the Rose Company in 1939, actively participating in such phases of the company's operation as stockboy, floorman, assistant buyer and Merchandise Manager of Rose Merchandise Company in 1943. He became a Director of the Rose Company in 1944 and was elected Secretary in 1946. He was elected Executive Vice-President and General Manager of the Paul H. Rose Corporation in 1944 and remained in this capacity until 1953.

In 1953 he became Vice-President of Rose's Stores, Inc. and was elected Treasurer of the Corporation in 1954. He was elected Executive Vice-President in 1956 and at the same time retained his position as Treasurer. In 1963 he became President.

Mr. Harvin is a native of Manning, S.C. where he attended public school. He has a BS degree in Electrical Engineering from Clemson University and has a Masters Degree in Business Administration from Harvard. Harvin has received the Distinguished Service Award, the highest honor awarded by the Alumni Association of Clemson University.

Harvin's reputation as a civic and church leader is widely known. Harvin serves on the governing boards of three North Carolina colleges: Peace, St. Andrews Presbyterian and Kittrell. He also serves on the boards of directors of Carolina Power & Light Co., Durham Life Insurance Co., Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N. A. Jewel Box Stores and Citizens Bank & Trust Co.

It has been stated that the rapid growth of Rose's has been achieved since 1963 through the capable and dedicated leadership of its progressive President.
