All In The Circus Tradition

A DOZEN CLOWNS... garbed in colorful costumes that have become the symbol of the long succession of comics who have stirred the imagination and emotions of generations, are among the many star attractions when the circus comes to town today. Sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees for the benefit of the Greenville-Pitt County Boys' Club, the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus, the world's largest under canvas show, is a varied world of entertainment with more than 150 performers from 16 countries. An extensive menagerie of animals will join the human performers in bringing more than 20 acts to Greenville in two performances, one at 4:00 p.m. this afternoon and a second at 8:00 p.m. tonight.

Orion's Team Steps Out On Lunar Surface

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. stepped on the lunar surface today to begin man's first exploration in the mountains of the moon.

The astronauts, who almost had their landing aborted Thursday, were in good spirits after receiving word this morning that they could make all three planned moon walks.

For the first time, the first steps of an astronaut team on the moon were not televised to earth because of a problem with an antenna on the lunar ship Orion.

One of Duke's first assignments was to set up a portable antenna so that TV could be transmitted.

During the seven-hour excursion, Young and Duke planned to set up a nuclear-powered science station and to drive their battery-powered moon car across an undulating plain to inspect two craters named Spook and Flag for evidence of volcanic activity and other lunar secrets.

Mission Control told Young and Duke before they retired Thursday night that one of their moon walks might have to be canceled and their time on the surface shortened because of a late landing that resulted from an engine problem in the command ship Casper.

After a night of study, Mission Control determined there was enough water and power aboard the lunar craft Orion to support the full stay on the moon of 73 hours.

After rejoining the command ship the astronauts had planned an extra two days conducting experiments in lunar orbit. The new flight plan calls for them to eliminate one of those days and to fire back toward earth Monday night instead of Tuesday. Splashdown in the Pacific will be Thursday, a day early.

On awakening Young and

Duke today, capsule communicator Tony England announced: "If you guys are all for it and everything we're still going to crowd in three EVAs (extra-vehicular activity)."

"What do you mean are we all for it?" replied Young. "Let's do all three of 'em."

Duke reported both men had slept soundly during their first night on the moon and that he had taken a sleeping tablet to help him rest.

"John had 7½ hours good sleep" he said. "I had a second and slept 6½ to 7 hours. Real good."

Living Cost Climb Eases; Earnings Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in living costs eased last month and workers' average earnings showed the largest March increase in seven years, the government said today.

The Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family spending rose two-tenths of one per cent, less than half the February increase, including a marked slowing of grocery prices from the month before, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The bureau said that on a seasonally adjusted basis—figuring the usually expected March increase—there was no change in living costs for the first month in more than five years.

The report said living costs were 3.5 per cent above a year ago compared with a 4.1 per cent annual rate of increase in the six months before President Nixon imposed the wage-price freeze.

The March increase brought the index to 124.0 of its 1967 base of 100, meaning it took $12.40 last month for every $10 worth of living costs five years ago.

In other major categories, housing costs rose two-tenths of one per cent; clothing, five-tenths; transportation, one-tenth; medical care, three-tenths; and recreation, two-tenths, the bureau said.

Average weekly earnings of nearly 50 million rank-and-file workers rose $1.09 to $131.73 per week and were $8.08 or 6.5 per cent above a year earlier.

After allowing for the rise in living costs, the bureau said, the average paycheck was seven-tenths of one per cent up for the month and 2.9 per cent above a year ago.

"This increase from a year ago was the largest over-the-year gain reported for any March since 1965," the report said.

The report said most of the rise in living costs in March was due to higher property taxes and higher prices for clothing, eggs, beef, veal and restaurant meals. Prices were lower for vegetables, pork and mortgage interest.

"Pork prices declined for the first time since October, 1971. Beef and veal prices continued to rise but the increase was less than in recent months," it said.

"Prices of fresh vegetables, particularly lettuce and tomatoes, declined sharply instead of rising as they usually do in March, and fresh fruit prices rose much less than usual," it added.

However, the bureau said, the over-all one-tenth of one per cent rise for groceries compared with a usual slight decline in March and restaurant meals were up four-tenths of one per cent

Board Of Governors Tours ECU

Med School Plans Emphasized

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Board of Governors of the North Carolina University System visited East Carolina University yesterday. Most of the 32 men and women toured the medical school facilities and all were told about the medical school and many other programs of the University.

Dr. Edwin Monroe explained why it is felt that a two-year medical school is needed here as soon as possible. Some $14 million is being spent in the next biennium to give probably 40 students the first year of their medical education, he said. If a two-year program were instituted, the same facilities could be used and much federal money could be obtained to develop a longer and more useful program. As a one-year school, ECU's medical program is considered an offspring of the parent, University of North Carolina Medical School. As a two-year school, it would be an entity, being eligible for accreditation on its own merit and eligible for federal funds, Dr. Monroe said.

Overall, ECU now spends $1,298 for educating each student, Dr. Jenkins said. Its rate of utilization of facilities is the best in the state, he said.

There are 622 faculty members, 65 per cent of whom have obtained doctorates or other terminal degrees in their fields of teaching. The value of the physical plant is estimated at $50 million.

Defeat Antiwar Resolutions

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The student legislature at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Thursday night defeated two antiwar resolutions.

Opponents of the measures argued that it was not the business of the student legislature to vote on U.S. foreign policy.

By a vote of 19-11 the group refused to consider a resolution saying the student legislature "wholeheartedly endorses the strike called for Friday and urges... the student body to boycott classes."

It refused by an 18-12 vote to consider a measure deploring the increased bombing in North Vietnam and calling for "immediate withdrawal of all United States land, sea and air forces from Indochina."

BOARD OF GOVERNORS... members Victor Bryant and Mrs. Howard Holderness (left and center) talk to Dr. Leo Jenkins during yesterday's visit to ECU by the Board.

East Carolina's aim, he said, is to educate the broad mass of people to meet a broad range of social problems. He named several new and outstanding programs, including a correctional sciences training program, the only one of its kind from Maryland to Florida; a marine sciences center at Manteo, and an ECU studies at a center in Bonne, Germany, a workshop theater, and a continuing education program that has grown to 14,300 students a year.

"Besides the two-year medical program, the big thing we will be asking the legislature for this year is a dramatic arts building," Jenkins said. The request to remodel the Wahl-Coates school building for this purpose was turned down by the last legislature.

After the presentation and a question and answer period with various department heads and tours of various places of interest on campus, the Board of Governors had lunch at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins.

Rose High School Quiet After Thursday Fighting

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

All was quiet on the school front at Rose High School this morning after two early morning disruptions on Wednesday and Thursday.

About a dozen parents, some local ministers, and police were on hand in the hallways this morning at school take in time. Students reported to their homes and a few minutes later made the first change of classes without incident.

Principal Robert Allgood and Associate Principal Clarence Gray were busy this morning in individual conferences with students and parents. Most of the conferences related to students involved in one way or another in the Wednesday and Thursday incidents.

"We've been encouraged," Allgood stated, "as after these talks parents in all cases have told their children to follow the rules of the school and to be in class. In other words, they are telling their children to do what they should do."

Allgood also pointed out that the recent disturbances were not based on previous grievances. "There were no issues prior to 8:55 Wednesday morning," they should do." Allgood commented. "The only issues now are ones that developed since then, occasioned by our efforts to get students to class where they should have been in the first place."

Third Year Of Insurance Loss

DURHAM (AP) — North Carolina Blue Cross and Blue Shield reported today that it lost $6 million on its operations last year.

John Alexander McHahon, Blue Cross-Blue Shield president, said it was the third successive year the firms has lost money despite rates increases and operating economies. The losses have totaled $13 million.

McHahon cited rising costs of health care and increased use of benefits by subscribers as the main reasons for the losses.

Bowles Says He'll Back Med School Expansion If Data Supports Claim

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles says that he will endorse an expansion of East Carolina University's one-year medical program if a study of figures given him by ECU president Dr. Leo Jenkins prove that it would be the most "economical way for the taxpayers to turn out physicians in North Carolina."

Bowles, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, stopped short of an immediate pledge to support a two-year program, adding that his study should be completed "in a few days" and he would be able to say then, "yes, I think I'm going to recommend it or no, I'm not."

The Greensboro senator said that he talked with Jenkins some weeks ago and "at the time, Dr. Jenkins told me that he had figures that would prove conclusively" that the addition of a second year to the medical school would be the most feasible way, economically, to turn out new doctors.

"I fit can be done more economically here, then that's where it ought to be," Bowles said this morning in an interview here. He added that he told Dr. Jenkins that if the figures prove to be correct, "then of course I would be for it."

The candidate noted that if the figures are accurate and "I have no reason to assume that this wouldn't be true," he would recommend to the Board of Governors that they "take a good hard look at this, an unbiased look and I think they will do that..." He said that if Jenkins' figures are correct, he believes that "you will end up with a recommendation from them (Board) to the General Assembly that it be funded."

Bowles emphasized that he did not feel a governor should go over the Board's head and go to the Legislature and fight for any new program for any school if they did not recommend such a program. "I believe we should give the 32-man board a chance to run this show now."

The candidate, who planned to be in Greenville until later this afternoon meeting with area friends and supporters, said that he would feel the same way about the recently-discussed law school for East Carolina, pointing out that if it would be in the best interest of the entire state, and if there is a need for it, he would be for it.

In order to raise the state's per capita income, an issue he has campaigned heavily on, Bowles said that first, "we need to do something about the tourist business," to promote tourism in a state that he contended is second only to Florida on this seaboard.

"Let's spend another half-million dollars a year to promote tourism in this state," he said, asserting that it would bring in enough extra tourist dollars and taxes to the state to "more than take care of any expenditure we would make."

Also, the farm economy should be improved as part of the overall effort to adjust per capita income, Bowles continued. "A governor can do a lot for the farm economy," he said.

Sale Of Whiting Furniture Will Benefit Girls Clubs Of America

BY FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI)—The history behind a current landmark auction of American antiques points up how recently less than 50 years ago—serious collecting in this field became a widespread passion.

The sale of Mrs. Giles Whiting's furniture at New York's Parke-Bernet Galleries, spread over a two-week period in April, disperses one of the last truly great collections still in private hands. Proceeds from the sale of 763 items will benefit the Girls Clubs of America under the terms of Mrs. Whiting's will.

Steadily increasing prices in recent years and the acquisition of the best examples by museums have put big collections of American antiques beyond the reach of all but the most determined millionaires. Mrs. Whiting got much of hers together in the 1920s when Duncan Phyfe (1790-1847) chairs could be bought from unsuspecting farm folk for $25 and often less. They now sell for $500 to $1,000 each.

The Whiting sale is the most important since the auction of Newport, R.I., attorney Cornelius Moore's 172-item collection for $398,370 last October. A Queen Anne mahogany lowboy attributed to Newport's 18th Century Goddard-Townsend family of cabinet makers fetched $35,000 and a pair of chairs of the same period (1725-50) were knocked down for $23,000.

In 1929, Mrs. Whiting and leading fellow collectors including Henry F. duPont, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. Francis Garvan, Mrs. Amory L. Haskell and Andrew Varick Stout organized the nation's first major American antiques show in New York. It was widely publicized and helped establish the American antique as an object worthy of collection for its beauty, not just a quaint relic of the past.

Since then, hundreds of thousands of Americans have surrendered to the lure of Americana. The field is so overcollected that "antiques" of the 1930s and 1940s are big items on a market that now ranges from Pilgrim chests to Betty Boop ashtrays.

Regional Cookery: Maids Of Honor

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you're interested in regional cookery, a dessert called Maids of Honor may appeal to you. These delicious little tarts come from Southern cuisine and their antecedent is a British recipe said to have been favored by King Henry VIII.

The following recipe for Maids of Honor was inspired by one in a delightful cookbook called "Maryland's Way, The Hammond-Harwood House Cook Book." Hammond-Harwood House is in Annapolis and has been designated a National Historic Landmark.

over bottom and sides (up to top) of each cup.

Mix together strawberry preserves and chopped nuts. Spoon 2 teaspoonfuls of mixture into each tart shell.

Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until pastry is browned—about 15 minutes. Let stand on wire rack about 2 minutes, then lift each tart from cup by inserting tip of a small knife at outside edge of tart and lifting slightly so tart can be removed with fingers. Cool on rack. Serve plain or topped with a little whipped cream.

Makes about 2 dozen.

Note: Tarts are best eaten the same day they are made. Store at room temperature covered lightly with wax paper.

Take Choice Of Advice

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS)—Rik Wagtmans and his sister Gerda whose birthdays fall during the same week, had a joint party as usual this year "in order not to waste any money."

Rik was celebrating his 90th birthday, and Gerda was up to her 95th. The male Wagtmans offered this recipe for a long, happy life: "Women, women, lots of women, God bless them."

Gerda had a different formula for the ladies: "Don't mess around with men more than necessary. They are unhealthy and take years off your life."

Go With Husband, Never Looking Back

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: If after years of hard work, your husband finally had an opportunity to do what he has always wanted to do: to run his own business and be his own boss, it meant that you would have to leave your lifelong friends and part of your family, and your lovely, comfortable home and move to another state where you knew no one and would have to practically start all over again, that would you do?

WONDERING: Are you kidding? I would go with him and never look back. And I have done it three times!

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a wife who had a message for her husband's mistress. Please be fair and give me equal time, Abby. I have a message for that wife.

Dear Wife: You say, "Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays."

Are you kidding? He goes to his office for a few hours on Sunday so I can meet him there. Or else we talk for hours on the phone.

You say, "Never call him at home." We have that worked out, too. I ring once and hang up. Then he goes immediately to his place of business and I get in touch with him there.

You say, "Don't ever expect him to take you out in public."

Who needs the public? We are private people.

You say, "You can't depend on him in time of personal crisis."

You are so right, but neither can you, as he is hardly ever home.

You say, "Don't believe him when he says his wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and she hasn't slept with him for 10 years."

He never said that. YOU did!

You say, "Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him, even if she catches him. She knows that you are not his first and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her status, financial security and retirement income because of you. However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate and find another married man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and hasn't slept with him for 10 years."

I really pity you. What good is all that status when all your friends know that your husband is in love with another woman?

DEAR ABBY: Two of my girl friends and I were talking about our problems when my mother walked in and heard us. She said, "Why don't you write to Dear Abby about it?" So here goes:

We are sophomores in high school and our problem is students who smoke in the lavatories.

I suffer from bronchial asthma and my two friends have allergies, and those school lavatories are so filled with smoke by the end of the day, we can't even go in there. Abby, we are not exaggerating!

Sure, we have a "No Smoking" rule in our school, but the principal and most of the teachers smoke themselves, so they don't push it. [But they have their own smoking room.]

Don't you think we have the right to ask for smoke-free lavatories? Please, tell them.

People with no respiratory problems take breathing for granted. BONNIE, MARY & LINDA: BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR BONNIE, LINDA AND MARY: All right, I've told them. [Ever think of getting up a petition?]

DEAR ABBY: I read that letter in your column from "Irked Salesperson" who said, "Nothing irks me more than to approach a prospective customer with, 'May I please help you?' and have her say, 'No thanks. I'm just looking.' And then she promptly walks away."

Well, I would like to tell you what irks ME! To go into a store, wanting to buy something and not having much time to waste, and not being able to find anyone to wait on me!

Foul-Weather Friends Appeal

LYON, France (WNS)—Marie Mirailles, 50, and Jacqueline Savajano, 40, were the best friends in the world as long as they kept losing the "tierce," the French pari-mutuel version of the Daily Double in which winners must pick the first three horses in a race. Then their ticket won $5,000, and the ladies went to court. Mme. Mirailles' complaint: "I don't know how to write, so the ticket was always in Jacqueline's name. Now Jacqueline refuses to pay me." The case is on its third appeal.

Time Of Hope In Cancer War

The American Cancer Society is hoping, as do we all, that this generation will see a cure for cancer. They have a lot going for this hope.

For one thing, the government is putting more money than ever into the necessary research; for another, the American public is manifesting its own interest by an increasing awareness and increasing contributions to their local Cancer Society crusades.

There's still another basis for hope: science knows more about cancer today than last year; and last year's new knowledge was still another step over and above that of the preceding year.

Even so, the facts of cancer are chilling enough for every family. The dread disease will again strike one out of every four persons. More of those so afflicted will survive today who would not have survived five years ago or ten years ago.

The reasons are not hard to understand.

Our increasing awareness inevitably means a greater chance the victim will get early diagnosis and early treatment. That, the American Cancer Society tells us, is more than half the battle. And, modern treatment techniques have contributed heavily to the fact that 1.5 million people today have been cured of cancer.

The ACS last year gave $22.6 million for cancer research. That's where the real hope lies. And the people gave that money, in quarters, 50-cent pieces and dollars, for just that purpose. They also provided enough money for community cancer education programs and for a minimal amount of patient needs.

Each April the call of the Cancer Crusade is heard across the land, and it is not to be ignored.

Believe it, the volunteers who work for such causes are serving you and your family; not themselves. Heaven may have its own rewards for the thousands of individuals who give their time and work to save lives; but down here, their biggest reward is going to be the ultimate success that still hangs just below the horizon.

Demoralized At Cherry Hospital

By BRYAN HAISLIP
GOLDSBORO, N.C.—The aftermath of investigations disclosing shortcomings at Cherry Hospital has left a depleted and demoralized medical staff at the state's eastern mental institution.

"We can't give adequate medical care to patients at Cherry today because there are not enough doctors to do the job," said Joe Byrd of there, we don't want it to happen here," he added.

Investigations at Cherry and other state mental hospitals were carried out by the State Bureau of Investigation, a unit of the justice department under Morgan. Some were initiated at the request of Byrd as mental health board chairman, the attorney general said.

Not All Bad
Despite the public impression, Morgan asserted, "everything at Cherry has not been condemned."

What's good needs recognition along with the bad, Byrd added.

Over the past six years, patient population at Cherry has been reduced from 2,500 to 1,500, he said. "Good service has been rendered to a lot of people," he declared.

Areas where Cherry excels include its geriatrics program for the aged, its adolescent program for young people, and its rehabilitation services, Byrd said.

Staff Is Depleted
The critical point is medical staff. Cherry has an authorized strength of 26 doctors. At present, it has 14 and three of those have indicated they will leave at the end of the month. "That simply is not enough to go around," Byrd said.

Not only psychiatrists, but also general practice doctors are needed to provide medical care for the patients, he said.

The stigma left by the investigation makes it hard to recruit physicians, and has lowered the morale of those still on the staff, Byrd noted.

To relieve the situation, he reported, Dr. Eugene Hargrove, state mental health commissioner, and Dr. James Osberg, eastern regional commissioner, each will begin to spend one day a week at Cherry. He said they will see and treat patients, not just confer with the staff.

Byrd appealed for eastern physicians to help with recruitment efforts and to give their own time, voluntary or for pay, to assist the Cherry staff. "We have the funds to pay them, if we can find doctors who will come in for one day a week or some other basis," he explained.

The mental health crisis could have a silver lining in the east, Byrd concluded. He said it could lend support for a proposed medical school at East Carolina University in Greenville as a source for physician manpower.

Hasn't Worked Out As The Promoters Planned

Both Gov. Scott and gubernatorial candidate Skipper Bowles have both begun to wonder about the wisdom of the presidential primary in North Carolina.

Scott raised questions this week and Bowles in Charlotte said he agreed that the state might be better off with the presidential primary along with the state races.

The presidential primary has not worked out as many had hoped and we expect that the General Assembly will take a new look at it when it meets next year.

An Ultimatum To San Diego

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Bluffing or not, political agents of President Nixon this week are issuing an ultimatum to San Diego: become more cooperative or, even at this late date, we shall move the 1972 Republican National Convention to another city.

The Nixon men carefully avoid public statements. But private negotiations in San Diego indicate their patience is gone. Specifically at issue is whether the San Diego Arena can be ready by the Aug. 21 convention opening. Beyond that, Mr. Nixon's agents are fed up with what they regard as price-gouging obstructionism and lethargy in San Diego.

These sentiments are voiced on a level considerably higher in the Republican hierarchy than state Sen. Robert Knowles of Wisconsin, the convention coordinator. Indeed, Knowles' memorandum suggesting a possible new convention city was leaked to the press last week by high Republican officials without his knowledge.

That habitually secretive Nixon men would purposely expose dirty linen testifies to the seriousness of the situation. Unless they get satisfaction this week from the hitherto intractable Arena owners, they warn immediate steps will be taken toward a new convention site—most likely Miami Beach, where the Democrats meet in July, although a third, unnamed city is under consideration.

Some knowledgeable Republican sources view all this as an elaborate bluff, contending the point of no return has been passed and not even Miami Beach could supply hotel space now.

Even so, an eleventh hour transfer would be welcomed by many Republican politicians, who now feel San Diego is linked—irrevocably, if unfairly—to the ITT affair. Nor would there be objections from Republican National Committee members who had San Diego rammed down their throats by the White house.

One reason for their objections was the expense to the party in getting San Diego ready for the convention. The figure has now climbed to an undisclosed $2.5 million, compared with $800,000 for 1968. The Arena construction costs alone, $87,000 in 1968, now are at $854,000. Ever since San Diego was selected, the Nixon men feel, contractors and union leaders have been trying to milk the Republican party for every last cent.

Besides, the President's agents are uneasy over possible union picket lines around three big non-union hotels—the Town and Country, the Bahia and the Catamaran. The party must choose between the embarrassment of Republican delegates crossing picket lines or sending off hundreds of them to commute from Los Angeles hotels.

But consideration of a new site did not really begin until Dick Herman, Republican national committeeman from Nebraska and vice chairman of the convention's arrangements committee, received a March 29 letter

Strength For Today

STREAM OF LIFE

The Apostle Paul in his Epistle to the Galatians (Chapter 5:22-24) gives a listing of what he called "the fruit of the Spirit." He declares that this fruit is "love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law... If we live in the spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Let us not be desirous of vain-glory, provoking one another, envying one another."

Jesus was a disappointment to his generation, so much so, in fact, that in their raging they cried out for his crucifixion and dragged him to the cross. They were looking for a deliverer, but their conception of a deliverer was materialistic and earthbound. The contemporaries of Jesus were practically united in their hope that a leader would rise up and enable the Jewish people to throw off the political bondage of Rome. When Jesus declared that his kingdom was an unseen spiritual, everlasting kingdom, his generation was not prepared for this. Only a little group of men Jesus had gathered about him whom he called disciples, or learners, was faithful to him to the end.

Christ came to give his people spiritual freedom. His contemporaries, however, wanted political freedom, but in the end they had to accept bondage.

The most important time in our lives is the moment through which we are now passing. There have perhaps been great crises in our lives, but most of our days are routine. The stream of our lives flows placidly day after day.

TAKES A GOOD SHOT TO GET OUT OF THE ROUGH

Nobody Lies In Justice

WASHINGTON — A 10-year-old boy named Virgil has just written me a letter.

He says, "Dear Sir, I notice in the newspapers that several Justice Department attorneys have testified in the ITT case. Sometimes one Justice attorney says one thing and then another Justice attorney says another. Suppose they're lying? Who prosecutes the prosecutors?"

Dear Virgil, Yours is a very pertinent question which really doesn't deserve an answer. To assume that someone in the Justice Department would tell an untruth makes you no better than a Berrigan brother.

A Justice Department attorney takes an oath that he will never tell a lie — on a Bible. This Bible belongs to the attorney general, who has taken an oath on a Bible that belongs to the chief justice of the Supreme Court, who has taken an oath on a Bible that belongs to the President of the United States. You can readily see the trouble a Justice Department attorney would be in if he perjured himself on that many Bibles.

What you are confusing is perjury and loss of memory. Several of the Justice Department attorneys have suffered from an inability to remember facts pertinent to the ITT investigation. This is understandable when you realize that most Justice Department attorneys are trained to ask questions, but are very rarely called upon to answer them.

If you spent all your life asking, "where were you on the night of Feb. 12, 1961?" you would be in a heck of a jam if someone suddenly asked you that question.

It is for this reason that under our system Justice Department attorneys in congressional hearings are permitted to "correct" their testimony and "refresh" their memories.

The fact that a Justice Department attorney says one thing in the morning does not preclude him from saying the opposite in the afternoon. And just because one Justice Department says one thing and another Justice Department attorney says another thing does not mean either one of them is lying. It just means they're getting at the truth from opposite directions.

Let me give you an example. Justice Department attorney Wishbone tells a Senate committee that he's never talked to anyone in the Zigzag Monopoly Company. He goes home that night and his wife reminds him that his brother-in-law is president of the Zigzag Monopoly Company. So he goes back to the committee and says he's just remembered that his brother-in-law is president of the company, but he hasn't seen him in 10 years.

Then he takes a recess break and his secretary tells

Other Editors Say Outreach To Space

(Christian Science Monitor)

Vice-President Agnew is right. Technicians launch an Apollo moon rocket with a smoothness that seems almost casual. Sunday's brilliant performance again shows how skilled they have become. It tempts us to believe that, as spacemen, this generation has already arrived.

How salutary then for the U.S. National Academy of Sciences to point out we have scarcely tottered beyond earth's threshold. As a recent report of the NASA space science board explains, we have yet to fathom the challenge space flight presents to man himself.

American and Russian exploits have proved the worth of our hardware. But they merely raise questions as to the physical and mental fitness for space of human beings. The board calls these questions "formidable." It says only major research in what amounts to self-knowledge can fit us for more than brief forays across the space frontier. The body's response to long-term space conditions remains unknown. Hazards of deep-space cosmic rays are not yet proved.

What intrigues us most is that the board insists on the need for mental self-knowledge and control. To successfully undertake long space missions, men must make togetherness work in confined quarters. They must learn what home and habitability really are and express these in seemingly deprived environments.

And most significantly, the board notes, men must learn to recognize when their thinking is manipulated by the fantasies of a brain challenged by feelings of isolation and boredom. They must learn to master such manipulations. They must keep a clear view of reality to make space flight work, the board says.

These requirements for outreach to the universe sound like a basis for more harmonious living on Space Ship Earth. Perhaps this is space flight's larger challenge: to expand our range even a little way into the cosmos requires us to transcend human shortcomings through deeper self-knowledge. This should help us solve a more abundant life on earth as well.

Little Effect From Dropouts

By ELMER ROESSNER

The "hidden unemployed" have often been blamed for the slow response of employment rates to business trends. The "dropouts" are those who cannot find a job or aren't looking because they think no job is available for them.

The estimated number of the hidden unemployed in high unemployment years has ranged from 386,000 to 1.2 million, depending on who is doing the estimating. However, a new study in the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland's "Economic Commentary" indicates that the hidden unemployed are considerably fewer. It also appears to be a fairly stable group, only little affected by, and little affecting, unemployment rates.

The study is based on U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics figures. It shows that in the three years beginning 1967 — during which time the unemployment rate was below four per cent — the number of discouraged workers totaled 732,000, 667,000 and 574,000. In 1970 the unemployment rate went up to 4.9 per cent but there were a mere 638,000 dropouts. And when unemployment rose to 5.9 per cent the following year there were still only 774,000 hidden unemployed.

Quarterly totals were far

more significant. These showed dropouts' interest in getting a job to be highly seasonal. In each of the five years studied, the lowest number of hidden unemployed occurred in the second and fourth quarters.

In the high employment year of 1967, for example, there were 628,000 discouraged workers in the second quarter and 694,000 in the fourth quarter compared with 767,000 in the first quarter and 840,000 in the third. In the high unemployment year of 1971 there were 685,000 discouraged workers in the second quarter and 742,000 in the fourth compared with 807,000 in the first and 863,000 in the third.

The Cleveland Reserve Bank study indicates the high level for the July-August-September third quarter can probably be attributed to students who want to work during the summer but don't find anything. And though the study didn't say so, the high first-quarter level is most likely due to seasonal workers going off the job after the Christmas rush.

The study's conclusion is that the swing in hidden unemployment between good and bad years is not likely to reach 200,000 with the work force at its present level. If this number had remained in the work force in 1971 and had been counted as unemployed, rather than as dropouts, the total unemployment rate would only have been 0.3 per cent higher than the actual 5.9 per cent.

Kites Of The Times

By MICHAEL C. SINCLAIR

Associated Press Writer ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Locking backward into my childhood becomes more and more difficult as I grow older, as it does for most of us.

But there are those fleeting moments when a familiar sight or sound or smell transports me to yesteryear with a feeling of exhilaration I seldom experience these days.

Such was the case on a recent warm spring afternoon as gusty winds sang down the trees around our house and the clothes on a neighbor's backyard line cracked whiplike in the breezes.

I was looking for some greenish hint of the season among the matted brown grass when from the vacant lot down the street there appeared silhouetted against the fluffy white clouds some brightly colored objects soaring high into the air.

In the few brief moments it took my memory to recall the image of a small boy standing in an open field tugging on a thin white string that trailed off into the sky, my two young sons also noticed the airborne objects.

Off to the corner variety store, where I discovered that the kite—once a 15-cent toy—has changed considerably.

No longer are they made of tissue thin paper and brittle wooden sticks. Today, thanks to modern science, a trash-bag-thick film of gaudy plastic is stretched over a frame of pencil-thick plastic rods.

Gone too is the cotton string that often proved no match for the stiff April winds. In its place are balls of stranded nylon twine with labels proudly declaring the product's superior tensile strength.

Most alarming was the inflationary impact on my childhood toy. Once you could buy many afternoons of entertain-

Organization of a post of Veterans of Foreign Wars was under way in Greenville today and is expected to be completed within the near future, it was announced by W. B. Dupree, who is in charge of organization plans. This is the first time organization of a post of this kind was ever attempted in this immediate section of the state.

The 51st day of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping mystery today saw Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the police still working behind a screen of secrecy from which there came no indication that the return of Charles, Jr. is any nearer.

Yesterday's Stars in baseball were:

Babe Ruth of the Yankees whose towering homerun and timely single helped beat the Athletics;

Bill Terry of the Giants who hit two homeruns for the second successive day.

Omissions Corrected

An article in the Thursday, April 13 Daily Reflector about promotions at Wachovia Bank and Trust Company here had information omitted about Leland R. Moore, Jr. newly elected trust officer and Sarah B. McLawhorn, new banking officer.

The paragraphs on Moore and Mrs. McLawhorn should have read:

Moore joined Wachovia in 1969 as Master Charge merchant representative in Greenville. In 1971 he was promoted to estate consultant in the trust department. He is a native of Madison, and a 1964 graduate of Catawba College in Salisbury. He is a member of the Optimist Club, treasurer of the Pitt County Mental Health Association and campaign director of the Pitt County March of Dimes. He and his wife, Bonnie, are members of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church.

Mrs. McLawhorn joined Wachovia in 1956 in Greenville as a bookkeeper. She was promoted to head bookkeeper in 1965, advancing to operations coordinator in January of 1972. A native of Caswell County, she is a 1954 graduate of East Carolina University. She and her husband, Charles, have two children and are members of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Class In Arts And Crafts To Be Started

Pitt Technical Institute will begin an arts and crafts class at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

This meeting will be for the purpose of determining the amount of interest teachers have in various crafts and activities.

This particular course will include a number of arts and crafts that teachers will find useful in working with children on any level ranging from kindergarten to grade six.

Various arts and crafts items that will be discussed, demonstrated and made will mostly involve supplies and materials that one can easily obtain at no cost or very small cost.

There is no charge for the class. Interested persons may contact Pitt Tech for further information.

Buchwald . . .

So he goes back to the committee and says he would like to correct the record; he did see his brother-in-law but they never really talked business. That night his brother-in-law calls him and says he's in trouble with the IRS because he's put Wishbone down for 20 business lunches.

So Wishbone goes back to the committee the next day and says he talked business with his brother-in-law, but he did nothing to affect Zigzag's Monopoly Company's case.

That, Virgil, is not called perjury — it's called amnesia.

I can assure you that your question about who prosecutes the prosecutors has no validity in Washington. There is no reason to prosecute anyone in the ITT case because everyone is telling the truth; and if you keep writing troublemaking letters like this, I won't be surprised if, when you grow a little older, someone down here doesn't start tapping your phone.

'Earth Day' Is Marked By Beautifying Campus

EARTH WEEK . . . A Farmville World (Photo by Margie Barnette). History class plants a dogwood tree.

FARMVILLE — Earth Week has been observed by Farmville Central students April 17-21.

Classes have been going outside all week for the purpose of beautifying the school campus. All students were encouraged to ride their bicycles to school Friday to give an awareness of the pollution problem. Friday afternoon was devoted to cleaning up the main roads leading into Farmville.

Afterwards, a cook-out is being held for all participating students at J. Y. Monk Park. Food is being donated by the City Council. Students began raising money by getting parents, friends, and merchants to fill out pledge cards. Many groups and individuals have given money, which totaled $144.10 Wednesday. The Farmville Chamber of Commerce gave $25, and several clubs in Farmville have indicated they will also be making a donation. Dogwoods, rebuds, and other plants have been given to the school by interested citizens.

Much of the money will be spent buying azaleas to be placed on a slope in front of the school. Five hundred pine trees have also been ordered, and these will be placed all around the school. Honeysuckle obtained from the woods behind the school is being planted on banks around the school to prevent erosion. It is hoped that the garden clubs in Farmville will landscape and provide plants for the inner courtyard.

Although much work is being done this week, students are planning to continue the project until the Farmville Central campus is completely landscaped.

from San Diego contractor Stoddard Martin. In response to Herman's query, Martin estimated $220,000 to ready the Arena in four weeks, but then added:

"We must caution you that even if the above money is available to do this work, we will still have a most difficult time trying to supply and keep enough manpower to do the job and be complete in time for the convention to open. We cannot guarantee completion in four weeks."

To obtain access to the Arena to begin work June 1 (as requested by contractor Martin) would cost the Republicans up to $3,500 a day, an additional $150,000. But cost is secondary. The Arena is booked for June and July, and its owners are refusing to let the Republicans have access then for any price.

That is the background behind Knowles' March 30 memorandum to Herman suggesting another site. "Perhaps our preparations have proceeded too far to pull out of San Diego at this time" Knowles wrote. "Certainly we couldn't pull out without a few headaches and perhaps some law suits. However, . . . a large number of people in the city of San Diego would heave a sigh of relief if we announced that due to unsolvable physical problems we were required to move the convention site."

Before any such announcement, Mr. Nixon's agents are delivering their ultimatum to the Arena owners.

Wade Campaigns In Pitt Area

Louis M. Wade, a candidate for secretary of state, campaigned here yesterday.

Wade is president of Southern Coach Company. He was first president of the Raleigh Jaycees, is a former president of the Apex Lions Club, and was first president of the Fuquay Chamber of Commerce. He has been president and director of the N.C. Bus Association and is immediate past chairman of the Southeastern Bus Traffic Association.

A lifelong resident of North Carolina, he attended N.C. State University and Duke University.

Record Profits By Conglomerate

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — R. J. Reynolds Industries has announced record profits of $57 million for the first quarter of this year, up 8.2 per cent over the first three months of 1971. Net earnings equalled $1.28 a common share, up nine cents. The conglomerate is the parent company of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

DADDY! look at the pencil!

It was his first trip to Washington. He was only six. Everything had to be analyzed by the standards of a first-grader!

Tell him it's the Washington Monument . . . he still thinks of it as "The Pencil." Time for his parents to learn a lesson:

Suppose he had never seen a pencil. What would it have meant to him then? Probably nothing!

A child needs standards by which to measure all he encounters. The standards may be simple—but he uses them. With them he associates the things he wants to remember.

The Church provides your child with simple religious standards. He still needs your help to grasp the truth he must master. But the standards you and he learn at Church are the foundation of his character . . . the inspiration of your own. In his terms: the pencil with which tomorrow is written.

Long Senate Kleindienst Hearing Is All But Ended

By TOM SEPPY Q
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has all but ended its investigation into the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general. The after-effects may prove more noteworthy than the seven weeks of hearings. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said the hearings were precedent-setting because the last witness to testify Thursday was Peter M. Flanigan, a senior adviser to President Nixon.

Ervin said it now will be easier for the Senate to obtain testimony from White House aides about conversations they had with persons other than the President and his assistants. Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., predicted the committee will submit a favorable report next Thursday to Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield on the Kleindienst nomination, and that the Senate will confirm him. The committee already has voted to recommend approval of the nomination.

"The hearings have shown there has not been one scintilla of evidence that Kleindienst did anything wrong," said Eastland. Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said he plans to introduce legislation reforming antitrust procedures in an effort to give the public a better understanding of Justice Department handling of out-of-court settlements and the lobbying of business interests with government officials. It seems likely that Democrats will use much of the information gained during the 21 days of hearings to bolster their contentions in the current presidential campaign that the Republican party favors big business.

The hearings were begun March 2 at Kleindienst's request. Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson had published a memo, purportedly written by an International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. lobbyist, linking the out-of-court settlement of three antitrust suits against ITT with the conglomerate's financial underwriting of part of San Diego's bid to obtain this summer's Republican National Convention.

The committee later voted to expand the investigation to include Life magazine's allegations that the Justice Department attempted to obstruct justice in San Diego in cases involving political contributions to Nixon by some of his political friends.

Kleindienst, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard McLaren, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, and other Justice Department and ITT officials denied any wrongdoing. Flanigan, 48, denied Thursday that he was involved in the settlement of the billion-dollar suits, although he conceded he hired an outside financial consultant for the Justice Department and gave him an ITT memorandum which presented the company's position in a favorable light. Flanigan refused to answer any questions outside the narrow limitations set by the committee and accepted by the White House.

He answered questions regarding his hiring of Richard Ramsden, the New York financial consultant, said he had no knowledge of how San Diego was chosen as the GOP convention site, and gave information pertaining to two meetings at which ITT officials were present. The limited scope of the questioning was set after the White House first refused to let Flanigan testify. The administration relented after several senior senators said they would attempt to block the Kleindienst nomination if Flanigan did not appear. The committee's liberal senators attempted, after the Thursday morning session, to get more answers. But the panel voted down, 9 to 5, a four-point proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to ask Flanigan about his contacts with other ITT and Justice Department officials, his knowledge of ITT complaints about antitrust policy and his role in the formulation and revision of antitrust policy which affected the outcome of the ITT cases.

The committee agreed, 8 to 4, to send two written questions to the White House concerning Flanigan's contacts with ITT and Justice Department officials. Eastland said if the White House accepts the questions, Flanigan will reply to them in writing.

Lenin Library Requests A Book

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Library recently filled an interlibrary loan request from the Lenin State Library of the U.S.S.R. in Moscow for the book "Sex and Your Heart" by Myron Brenton.

The request was the first received by the state library from the Soviet Union, said librarian Doris Foure.

The book, dealing with sex and heart disease, was sent to the Russian capital by air mail.

Saved Deep Inside Enemy Lines

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — An allied commando team snatched two U.S. airmen from the middle of a North Vietnamese invasion force, but the operation cost the lives of seven other Americans and used giant B52 bombers as decoys, U.S. sources disclosed today.

Despite a broken arm, a sprained back, lack of food and water and 53 years of age, Lt. Col. Icael E. Hambleton managed for 11 days to evade North Vietnamese troops swarming across the demilitarized zone and sometimes coming within a few feet of him.

Hambleton was a navigator aboard an EB66, a modified bomber being used to jam North Vietnamese radar sites. The plane was hit by a missile April 2 just above the DMZ and Hambleton bailed out, landing just on the South Vietnamese side of the border. The other five men aboard the plane are listed as missing.

The other man rescued, Lt. Mark N. Clark of Los Angeles, was shot down April 3 in an OV10 spotter plane while participating in the search for Hambleton. Clark's copilot is missing and presumed dead.

A Super Jolly Green Giant helicopter was shot down April 6 during the search for the missing men, and all six of its crewmen were killed. Clark was rescued April 11 and Hambleton two days later, but meanwhile two other planes not connected with the search were shot down in the same area and their four crewmen were missing. The U.S. Command would not allow disclosure of the rescue of Hambleton and Clark until today, after the search for those four men was abandoned.

Both Clark and Hambleton were snatched from behind enemy lines in the Dong Ha area just below the DMZ by a volunteer team of South Vietnamese commandos led by U.S. Navy Lt. Tom Norris.

team used secret techniques which they were not at liberty to disclose. But they reported that Hambleton was taken out by sampan and floated downriver until the South Vietnamese lines were reached.

Norris said Hambleton used a pocket radio and continued to call in air strikes against enemy forces despite his injuries and weakened condition.

When the commando team reached him at midnight, he could not walk and was barely able to crawl to a nearby stream to wash his face.

Norris said the team was spotted by three North Vietnamese but managed to evade them. The Vietnamese members of the patrol said they made an all night sampan ride through enemy lines within sight of North Vietnamese tanks and troops to reach Hambleton.

The commando team and Hambleton made it back to a South Vietnamese tank unit just after dawn. He was flown to a hospital in Da Nang.

"Hambleton was surrounded by enemy forces during most of his ordeal," said one officer. "The search and rescue forces made repeated efforts to extract the men with no success. One problem was that they were caught in the North Vietnamese invasion across the DMZ. The enemy was passing through the area and it couldn't have been worse. Many times the enemy search teams were within five feet."

The B52s made several raids in efforts to divert North Vietnamese troops away from the two downed airmen. It was the first time the eight-engine Stratofortresses were reported used in a rescue effort.

Officers said that in addition to the B52s, fighter-bombers and the biggest gunship the U.S. Air Force has, the four-engine, computerized AC130, flew constant cover for the operation.

Hambleton is a native of Rossville, Ill. His wife lives in Tucson, Ariz.

Greenville Native Heads Leadership School In Summer

J. Bryce Cummings, former principal of Lillington High School in Lillington, has been selected to head the six-week Leadership School being sponsored this summer by the Department of Public Instruction and the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation.

A native of Greenville, Cummings received the AB in Geography and the MA in Educational Administration from East Carolina University. He served for two years as assistant principal of Lillington High School for two years. Cummings will receive the Ed.D. in Educational Administration from Duke University in May.

During the summer, the students will learn to develop programs and activities to involve students, teachers, and others in the community in resolving them.

"We hope the program will be an on-going one," says Cummings, "because we have built into it the requirement that each participant must outline a community project during his six weeks at Mars Hill College. He will then implement it during the next year within his own community with the guidance of a teacher-adviser," Cummings noted.

Cummings is married to the former Jane Willis, also of Greenville. The couple has one son now three years old.

Library Week Being Observed At School

The E. B. Aycock Junior High School has been commemorating Library Week this week in a program to encourage each student to achieve the peak of his potential as a student and a citizen.

Mrs. Beatrice C. Maye and Mrs. Sarah Rogerson, media specialists in the Aycock Media Center, note the use of a flexible Media Center, such as the one at the junior high school, fosters development in programs and individual learning.

The key to the operation, the two point out, is "accessibility."

Must Cut Hair For City Hall

MANILA (UPI)—A town executive has issued a directive requiring residents to cut short their long hair and moustaches before transacting business at city hall.

Mayor Jose Velarde of Pili, some 195 miles southeast of Manila, issued the verdict. Residents say they will question the legality of the mayor's order.

Scholarships To 'College-Bound'

The Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority is presenting a "Miss College Bound Contest" featuring the Elizabeth City State University Dance Group at the Moyewood Center.

Eighteen senior girls are competing for scholarships. Thirteen are from Rose High, one from Ayden-Grifton, one from D. H. Conley, one from North Pitt, and one from Farmville Central.

Three scholarships will be presented as well as an award for each contestant. Utah became a state Jan. 4, 1896.

According to Cummings, the purpose of the Leadership School program is to develop potential leadership abilities in the 100 high school students from across the state selected to participate. The youths will receive scholarships to attend the school at Mars Hill College in Mars Hill, Jun 11-July 12. Cummings noted that winners will be notified by May 3.

The basic "subject matter" of the leadership laboratory will be the identification and analysis of specific problems and concerns facing young people today. According to Cummings once the problems have been identified, VEPCO Rate Hike Plea Hearing Continues In Va.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — More testimony was scheduled today in Virginia Electric & Power Co's $79.3 million rate hike request after opening day statements that ranged all the way from the utility needing all the money to it needing nothing.

George D. Gibson, Vepeco's general counsel, opened the proceedings Thursday before the State Corporation Commission by describing his client as a company beset by rising fuel prices and declining profits.

"The future of the company's service in Virginia hangs on the decision in this case," he said. "We are now at the fork of the road."

Gibson also argued that there is nothing unusual in the company's request for a fuel adjustment clause that would permit Vepeco to pass along automatically to consumers any increases in the price of fuel.

He said the proposed rate hike and the fuel adjustment clause are justified if the company is to attract the $1.4 billion new investment capital it requires for a $2 billion capital expansion by the end of 1975 to meet increased demands for electric power.

After Gibson finished his statement, the opening attack on the rate boost request got into full swing.

Lt. Gov. Henry E. Howell Jr., Atty. Gen. Andrew P. Miller and SCC general counsel Richard Rogers Jr. led a list of opponents who served notice Vepeco would have to be more convincing to justify its requested return of 9.52 per cent.

State Sen. Clive L. DuVal of Fairfax contended an increase of about $20 million "and no more" should be the SCC's decision instead of granting the entire $79.3 million which he said would add about $4 a month to the $15 electric bill of the small homeowner.

Howell, a bitter fighter with Vepeco over its rates and with the SCC for its decisions, told the commission it must break "the vicious cycle" of utilities promoting the use of additional electric power and coming back for rate increases to help finance any construction to generate more.

Howell said he felt the Vepeco case constituted "a challenge to the commission as now constituted"—a reference to new commissioners Junie L. Bradshaw and Preston C. Shannon sitting with veteran chairman Ralph T. Catterall. Miller challenged the rates Vepeco charges in North Carolina and West Virginia and its negotiated rates with federal, state and municipal governments.

"I felt that any increase granted in this case should be conditioned upon the company requesting at least a comparable rate of return in the states of North Carolina and West Virginia," he said.

The attorney general said the $79.3 million represented a 26 per cent increase in rates and that the 9.52 per cent rate of return wasn't needed.

"An 8.38 per cent rate of return was granted Vepeco by this commission in its last full scale rate case and subsequently affirmed by the Virginia Supreme Court," he said. "There is no basis for increasing this rate of return one iota."

The $22.3 million existing temporary rate increase referred to by Miller is based on a surcharge on electric bills and is included in the over-all general rate increase.

Rogers said while the SCC staff has opposed the fuel clause concept in the past, the position has changed and the idea is being endorsed for Vepeco.

However, Rogers said by giving the company a fuel clause the commission will remove the greatest cost burden management has to face.

In exchange for granting the fuel clause, Rogers said the commission should award the company a "more modest rate of return" than is being requested.

Reads Paper At Denver Meeting

Dr. David Knox of the East Carolina University Department of Sociology and Anthropology read a paper at the first annual Rocky Mountain Conference on Behavior Modification in Denver, Colorado, last week.

His paper was entitled "Behavior Modification Applied to Sexual Problems in Marriage," and takes the view that such problems can be solved only by the full cooperation of both partners, without recourse to the belief that one partner is inadequate.

Dr. Knox used a similar approach to more general problem areas in marriage in his book "Marriage Happiness: A Behavioral Approach to Counseling," which was published last year.

Truman Board Plans Meeting

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Several members of the administration of former President Harry S. Truman will gather Saturday for the 15th annual meeting of the board of directors of the Harry S. Truman Library Institute of National and International Affairs.

Participants will include Earl Warren, former U.S. chief justice; former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder.

There will be a panel discussion of research projects funded by the institute including studies of civil rights and foreign aid during the Truman years.

Beautification Backers Calling For Clean Sweep

"Let's have a clean sweep in May" was the project discussed at the meeting of the Pitt County Beautification Committee Tuesday afternoon. They were not talking about politics, but about cleaning up Pitt County.

Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr., county coordinator for the Governor's Beautification Committee, explained that the committee has designated May as "Clean Sweep" month for the entire state of North Carolina.

The Pitt County committee is seeking the support and help of all organizations, churches, schools, clubs, businesses, local government and individuals, in an attempt to clean up and maintain the beauty of the county.

"Beautification is everybody's business," Mrs. Manning said. "No individual or group working alone can do the job."

Ed Yancey, Pitt County Agricultural Extension chairman, led the group in discussing problem areas and projects that could be promoted to help beautify the county.

They include: —encourage each community to make a survey to see what their needs are; then work on projects that will correct these needs. It was suggested that the communities focus on removing junk cars and disposing of dilapidated buildings.

—encourage each school in the county to participate in the "clean sweep" campaign.

—encourage each family to survey their own home grounds and correct any problem areas that exist. He placed special emphasis on garbage disposal.

—urge all groups participating to take before and after pictures of the projects.

the county were present at the meeting.

Any organizational group meeting during the month of May is asked to have a program on "clean sweep" according to Mrs. Manning.

She explained there are a number of films available and that it might be possible to have a member of the committee speak at the meetings.

For further information, interested persons should contact the Pitt County Extension office, 758-1196.

Term Paper Ads No Longer Taken

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Advertisements from firms which market prepared term papers are no longer being accepted by the Western Herald, the student newspaper at Western Michigan University.

"There comes a time when one must decide what constitutes honesty and what doesn't," editor Will Snyder of Wyoming, Mich., explained.

"We have come to the conclusion that for one to buy a term paper from a mercenary and hand it in as honest work is a breach of honesty, and we have decided against further publication of term paper company advertisements."

Creech, Post Buc Captains

East Carolina University football coach Sonny Randle announced today that Jimmy Creech and Jim Post, both seniors, have been elected Pirate co-captains for the 1972 grid season.

Creech, a Wilmington native, is a two-year starter at center. He is rated by the coaches as one of the most determined players on the squad. A pre-med major, he was named the Outstanding Player on the freshman squad in 1969.

Post transferred to East Carolina two seasons ago from Kansas State University where he started as a sophomore. After sitting out a year, the River Vale, N.J. linebacker claimed a starting slot with the Pirates.

The two were selected by their teammates in a closed ballot following the completion of spring drills which were capped with a 35-0 win over a formidable alumni team in the first annual Varsity-Alumni Game last Saturday.

"I could not be more pleased with the selection," Randle said in making the announcement. "Creech and Post both have great attitudes and both possess all the qualities of true leaders."

East Carolina opens its 1972 football season against Virginia Military Academy on September 9.

Ayden-Grifton Downs S. Nash

SPRING HOPE—Ayden-Grifton High School bounced back from its stinging defeat by Greene Central Wednesday night to dump Southern Nash yesterday, 11-6.

The victory boosted the Charger record to 10-2 in the Eastern Carolina Conference and kept them hot on the heels of the Greene Central nine. The Chargers are 10-4 overall.

Southern Nash pushed out into the lead in the game in the first inning, getting a run. Steve Bryant singled and moved up on an out. Tom Winstead walked and a double by Robert Bissett brought in Bryant for a 1-0 lead.

But the Chargers, intent on staying close to first place, came roaring back with six big runs in the second to move ahead to stay. Tom Craft led off with a walk and Johnny Willis also drew a pass to first. They advanced on an out and scored when Horace Gripp banged out a hit, giving the Chargers a 2-1 advantage.

Mike Tripp walked and Ken Gleaton did too, loading the bases. Doug Phillips singled, scoring both Tripps, and a double by Dale Manning scored Cleaton and Phillips for the 6-1 margin.

Ayden-Grifton added three more in the third. The first came on a lead-off homer by Craft. Willis then singled and Greg Nelson got a hit. Mike Tripp walked to load the bases and Cleaton reached when his infield grounder was played to home when Willis scored on an error. Manning followed with a walk, forcing in Nelson with the ninth A-G run.

Two more crossed in the fifth. Horace Tripp reached on an error and Cleaton single. Manning then reached on an error, which allowed both Tripp and Cleaton to score.

Southern Nash scored two in the bottom of the second, one in the third, and then came up with two on a home run by Winstead in the fifth inning.

The Chargers play host to North Pitt on Tuesday in their next outing.

Pirates Sign Long Is. Star

Charles Alan Edwards, considered by many to be the best basketball player ever to come out of Long Island, has inked a four-year grant with Southern Conference Champions East Carolina University.

The 6-2 Greenport, N.Y. guard became the all-time Long Island scoring champion this past year, amassing a prep varsity total of 2,050 points. This total surpassed Art Heyman's standing mark by some 90 points. On the year, Edwards averaged 31 points, 23 rebounds and 12 assists per contest.

He was named to the Newsday All-Long Island Team, the All-Long Island Press team and the New York Daily News All-Long Island Team.

Greenport Senior High coach Richard Manwaring calls Edwards, "the best player I have ever coached and probably the best ever in Suffolk County."

"He is leader in student affairs and respected by both classmates and faculty members," the coach added. Edwards received a citation from the City of Greenport for doing more than anyone to bring credit to the city in 1971.

Edwards also excelled in football, baseball and track at Greenport. He was an All-League flanker, league batting champion, and area cross-country standout.

East Carolina coach Tom Quinn expressed extreme pleasure with Edwards' decision to come South. "Alan is a blue-chipper in all respects," Quinn asserted. "He is a fine student, an excellent leader, and good enough in basketball to become the first All-American player in basketball at East Carolina University."

Richey Rallies To Down England's Cox

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Cliff Richey says he isn't a one-surface tennis player any more, but admits he still prefers clay.

And in a $50,000 tournament involving the touring pros of the World Championship Tennis troupe, on clay courts of the Old Providence Racquet and Swim Club, he rallied Wednesday to eliminate British left-hander Mark Cox 1-6, 6-3, 6-1 in a quarterfinals match.

Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., in his first tournament as a contract pro, didn't win his service until the first game of the second set. Then he was broken again to trail 1-6, 1-2.

"It looked for a while like I was going to lose 6-1, 6-1," he said. "I had a bad start and Cox was playing well. He hit nine or 10 forehands for winners and the points kept slipping by."

"But sometimes it's hard to keep playing that kind of tennis for two sets. After the first set I felt like I was starting fresh again. I new I had to play better or he had to cool off."

Richey evened the second set at 2-2 when Cox missed a volley, and then grabbed the momentum in the match.

One other singles quarterfinals was played Thursday in the NCNB tournament sponsored by the North Carolina National Bank, fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa defeating Bill Bowrey of Australia, 6-2, 6-2.

Drysdale said he liked the weather in Charlotte, in the 80s under blue skies. "If I could I'd like to take this weather all around the world with me," he said.

He added: "Today is the first day here I really felt confident on this (clay) surface. I think I'm playing well."

In one of Saturday's semifinals matches Drysdale will play Richey.

The other semifinalists will come from the winners of today's two third-round or quarterfinals matches.

Fitness Tops For New Coach

SEATTLE (AP) — Tom Nissalke, newly appointed coach of the Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association, has a three-step theory: Physical fitness leads to good defense which means winning.

"And winning is all I care about," Nissalke said Thursday at a news conference called to announce he had signed a multi-year contract with Seattle. Terms of the pact were not announced.

Nissalke, 37, was named American Basketball Association Coach of the Year after leading the Dallas Chaparrals to a playoff spot in his first head-coaching job.

Defense was a major factor in the Dallas rise. The Chaps were last in defense the previous year but led the league in defense the past season. And before defense there was conditioning.

"I'm a firm believer in physical fitness," said Nissalke, who likes to run about 25 miles a week during the summer.

"There's no reason if a player wants to why he can't play until he's 38 or 40."

Nissalke, who served as an assistant to Larry Costello of the Milwaukee Bucks before going to Dallas, said it made no difference to him whether he was connected with the NBA or the ABA.

"I think there'll be a merger or consolidation within a year or two, anyway," he said.

Nissalke succeeds Lenny Wilkens, who relinquished his coaching duties but will continue playing.

Rampant Runners Win; Harris Sets New Mark

Rose High School outbattled New Bern and Goldsboro in a three-way track meet here yesterday, with Mike Harris setting a new school record in the 100-yard dash.

The Rampants finished the meet with 76½ points, well ahead of runner-up New Bern, which finished with 46½. Goldsboro was right behind them with 36.

Harris set his mark in a sprint, breaking the tape in the time of 9.8 seconds, his fastest of the year. His previous best had been :9.9.

Rose High's Matthew Clark and Al Hunter were the only double winners during the day. Clark won both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 180-yard low hurdles. Hunter took the discus and the 220-yard dash.

Overall, Rose won eight events, while New Bern took four and Goldsboro won three.

Summary:

Shot put: Riddle (G) 49-10; Clark (R) 47-5½; Harris (R) 46-2½; Pittman (NB) 44-11.

Long jump: Harvey (NB) 22-5¼; Moore (R) 21-3¼; Ford (G) 19-3¼; Hill (NB) 19-3¼.

Knicks Have To Keep It Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — New York struck out on Boston's fast ball, and if the Knicks want to stay in the game they're going to have to go slow.

Player-philosopher Bill Bradley was analyzing the sticky status of the National Basketball Association semifinal series which the Celtics could tie tonight if the Knicks fall into their trap again.

The Knicks, who took command of the best-of-seven series 2-0 by setting their own pace, lost game No. 3 because they ran to the Celtics' rhythm.

"They were able to up the tempo of the game," said Bradley. "We were able to keep up with them in the third quarter.

Jack's Putting Holds Him Back

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Hubert Green walked up to the ninth green at the long, tough La Costa Country Club golf course clapping his hands about a short iron shot that left him a four-foot putt for a birdie.

"Well, I was pretty proud of the shot and I thought it deserved to be applauded," he said with an Alabama drawl.

Green combined enough of those good shots with his strange putting style Thursday to share the first-round lead with Gardner Dickinson in the $165,000 Tournament of Champions.

Dickinson, 44, and Green, 25, fired four-under-par 68s for a two-stroke advantage over defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and Jerry Heard.

Nicklaus hit all 18 greens but needed 35 putts to stay among the leaders in this elite field of 26 players who have scored regular tour victories in the last 12 months.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino had their troubles with the deep, clinging rough that makes this one of the most demanding courses on the pro tour.

Trevino never really got it going. He finished with a string of four consecutive fives on his card for 75. Palmer, who shot a 74, had the makings of a decent round until he bogeyed the 17th from the rough, the took a double bogey six on the 18th when he almost lost his tee shot in the foot-high grass.

Someone asked Green, a tour sophomore who hasn't played well since winning the Houston Champions International last year, if he were talking to himself on the course.

"I'll talk to anybody, he quipped. "The only thing is, when I'm playing there's nobody out there to watch me and nobody to talk to."

Green uses an unorthodox putting style, crouching far over, his feet well spread and his hands about four inches apart on the club.

But he needed only 27 putts.

Three-Way Fight For Staley Pole

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — A three-way battle for the pole position for the Gwyn Staley 400 stock car race was in prospect today among Bobby Allison, Bobby Isaac and perennial winner Richard Petty.

The first eight spots in a 30-car lineup for Sunday's $33,100 short-track battle were to be decided in time trials beginning at 2 p.m., at picturesque North Wilkesboro Speedway, a five-eighths of a mile oval nestled in the Blue Ridge foothills.

Isaac, the 1970 Grand National champion of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, had won five straight pole positions at Wilkesboro before Charlie Glotzbach came along last fall to set a new course record of 107.558 miles per hour in Junior Johnson's Chevrolet. Isaac, however, was busy setting a bunch of new land speed marks at Bonneville, Utah, at the time and couldn't defend his laurels.

Allison has Johnson's hot Chevy this year and in eight races has wheeled it to five front row positions and two triumphs.

Johnson, though, has installed a 366 cubic inch engine for the Gwyn Staley—the race honors a local driver killed at the track several years ago—and observers say the gold and white machine may not have the blazing speed required to sit on the pole. Petty, seldom a pole contender when it might jeopardize his setting up for the race itself, admits he can "drive North Wilkesboro blindfolded."

The 34-year-old Plymouth superstar, stock car racing's all-time money and events winner, has captured seven races at the five-eighths of a mile oval.

Allison, Petty and the Dodge-driving Isaac currently are the three top money winners in the Winston Cup Grand National standings, Allison with $56,665, Petty with $55,145 and Isaac with $43,250.

The three together have won five of the eight early season races. A. J. Foyt captured two before leaving the circuit. David Pearson, who is not entered in the Gwyn Staley, won last Sunday's Rebel 400.

The remaining 22 spots in the lineup will be filled Saturday.

Pirates, Dodgers And Giants Pick Up Wins

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Pittsburgh Pirates needed a hand in the ninth inning, and settled for Dave Giusti's palm.

"I went to the palm ball and it worked," Pittsburgh's top reliever said after bailing the Pirates out a late jam to preserve a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night.

Giusti reached back for his Sunday pitch after the Cubs had scored two runs with none out and had a man on second.

He coaxed Art Shamsky to foul out, then got Rick Monday and Bill North on strikeouts.

"I figured they had never seen the palm ball," said Giusti, referring to National League newcomers Monday and North. "I used them on Monday to set him up and struck him out on a fastball. Then I used the palm ball all the way with North."

The hot Los Angeles Dodgers walloped the Atlanta Braves 11-1 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 2-1 in the National League's other games Thursday.

The Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 1-0 in the American League's only game. Rain washed out the game between Milwaukee and New York.

Pittsburgh took a comfortable 7-3 lead into the ninth inning on the combined pitching efforts of Dock Ellis and Luke Walker. But Walker issued free passes to the first two batters in the last inning and then gave up a two-run double to Don Kessinger.

Giusti replaced Walker at this juncture and squirmed out of hot water.

Manny Sanguillen drove in two early runs for the Pirates and they scored three more runs in a seventh-inning rally highlighted by Willie Stargell's first home run of the season. Ron Santo crashed a two-run homer for Chicago in the sixth.

The Dodgers continued their assault on Atlanta's beleaguered pitching staff, scoring six runs in the second inning on seven straight singles. A total of 18 hits in Thursday night's game at Atlanta Stadium gave the Dodgers 50 for their four-game sweep of the Braves. They scored 26 runs.

Bobby Bonds singled home the second of two San Francisco runs in the fifth inning and the Giants held on to beat San Diego. Sam McDowell pitched the first five innings for the Giants and gained his second National League victory with relief help from Jim Barr and Jerry Johnson.

Losers Steve Arlin had a no-hitter going until Chris Speier opened the fifth inning with an infield hit to trigger the Giants' two-run rally.

Paul Blair's fourth-inning homer, one of only two Baltimore hits, provided the winning margin as Pat Dobson hurled the Orioles past Detroit.

"I can't pitch any better," said Dobson, who threw 63 strikes and 29 balls.

U.S. Can Catch Up In 5 Years

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The sponge paddle, superb condition and dedication make the Chinese the best table tennis players in the world; but Uncle Sam can bridge the gap in five years, a three-time American champion predicted today.

"I think this visit by the Chinese to this country after our visit to Mainland China will set off a new wave of table tennis enthusiasm in this country," said Bernard Bukiet, 52, of New York, one of the United States' top players for the last two decades.

"You must remember there are more than 3 million registered players in Communist China and we have a couple of thousand but only about 25 world class competitors. "In China, all the kids dream of becoming table tennis champions. As soon as they get in school, they are handed rackets and are exposed to the very best coaching. "I would say that China could field four or five teams as good as that now touring the United States."

The Chinese defeated a U.S. team before a crowd of 8,500 at Nassau County's new Coliseum Thursday afternoon, the fifth one-sided victory since the tour started in Detroit a week ago.

The United States' only victory was scored by 30-year-old Errol Resek of Jamaica, N.Y., who beat Ch'en Pao-Ching in an exciting, slam bang match 22-20, 16-21, 21-14.

It was the fourth win for an American in 27 matches. Other victories had been scored by Dal-joon Lee, Korean-born U.S. champion; Dell Sweeris of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Wendy Hicks of Santa Barbara, Calif., 19-year-old U.S. women's champion.

Bukiet, who came to the United States from Poland 30 year ago, said Chinese ping pongers train for the sport as rigorously as a boxer preparing for a championship fight.

"They strengthen their legs and arms with calisthenics, do road work and practice hours at a time," the veteran said. "Until recently table tennis have been little more than a parlor game in the United States.

Classic Running

Preliminaries for the American Classic Track Meet will be held Saturday morning at the East Carolina University track, Greenville Coach Clem Williams announced.

The time trials will select four youths in each category to participate in the finals, which will be held on Saturday, April 29. The winners of that meet go into the area program, to be held in May.

Six through nine-year-olds are requested to report at 9:30 a.m., while 10 through 12-year-olds, are to come at 10:45 a.m.

Wilson In Net Victory

Wilson High School swept a match from the Rose High School tennis team yesterday, winning 9-0.

The Rampants failed to win a single set from the Titans, who won the match handily.

A Review

Happy Play For Spring Season

To use an old phrase that needs to be brought out on memorable occasions, "A Star Was Born" Wednesday in McGinnis Auditorium as John Paschal sang, danced, acted and mimicked to perfection the wonderful role of Snoopy in "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown."

Edgar Loessin could not have selected a happier play for the April days of spring, and of the plays I have seen directed by ECU's veteran director, this shows his finest touch.

It would be easy to say this is such a good play that it would not be easy to bungle it in any way, but that would not begin to account for the liting intoxication that marked every minute of this absolutely enjoyable production.

Each of the six cast members—all drama students at East Carolina, performed their roles in a manner that clearly indicated they loved every word, every gesture, every movement given them.

Judy Townsend's Lucy is a splendid interpretation of universal nagging woman in a voice that could almost crack plaster. Charles Crutchfield, playing Charlie Brown, identifies with every nuance, even to being off-key when one feels he shouldn't be. Babyish looking, slender Chris Jones made that blanket and Linus come alive.

Schroeder, philosophic Beethoven fanatic, is a contrast in softness to Lucy's metallic brashness. It would be hard to imagine a better Schroeder than Rick Price. And little rope skipping Patty had her champion in Robin McDaniel's playful performance.

To get back for a moment to John Paschal's Snoopy—and in this performance one can't help being drawn back—his dance for the "Supertime" number has to be seen to be believed. He is all suppleness and marvelous spongy slow-motion one moment, and super razzle-dazzle the next. (If ever an ECU production called for an encore, this is it.)

And if ever a big bouquet was due a choreographer, Mavis Ray deserves one for all the lovely numbers in this show, including the incomparable direction she gave to Linus' "My Blanket and Me."

Robert Williams has once more scored a direct hit with bold, colorful cubes and simple backdrops. Andrew Gillfillan's lighting and Robert Joyner's costuming combined with Williams' simplified scenery create an atmosphere like a child's world of bright new lollipops.

Annette Hambrick, Nancy Neidlinger, Martin Smith, John Floyd and Ken Soute under the direction of Barry Shank, were with it every moment in providing the infectious, bubbly music for this show.

The 19th of April was a stellar day for eastern North Carolina—the dedication of Stanley House in New Bern and the opening of Robersonville's centennial celebration with a gracious First Lady presiding at both events; and the opening night of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" at McGinnis.

The nicest thing about it all is that in the case of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," those who missed the opening night excitement still have three more opportunities not to miss it—tonight and Saturday night; and a matinee today at 2:15 p.m. with all tickets at 1.00. (Evening performances are $2.00)

Maybe someone might persuade Mayor S. Eugene West to issue a proclamation cancelling all political and other official activities until next week and declaring the rest of the week a "Charlie Brown Half-Week"

The 69th Annual meeting of the North Carolina Academy of Science will be held today and Saturday on the campus of East Carolina University. Meeting in conjunction with the Academy are the North Carolina Entomological Society and the North Carolina Psychological Association.

The sessions opened this morning with registration in the lobby of the ECU Biology Building and a General Session at 10:30 a.m. when two symposia were featured, "Allied Health Sciences," and "Meteorological Research and Education in North Carolina." National,

Named Member Of Nat'l Board

Dr. Floyd E. Mattheis, professor and chairman of the East Carolina University Department of Science Education, has been elected member-at-large of the official board of a national organization.

Dr. Mattheis was chosen to hold office at the annual convention of the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) in New York last week.

The world's largest organization for the improvement of science education at all levels, NSTA represents classroom science teachers, college professors, science supervisors and others interested in the advancement of science teaching.

Thousands Pay Final Tribute

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Probably the largest crowd ever to attend a funeral in Asheville turned out Thursday at services for Alfred Baird, a black policeman who was shot to death while on duty last Saturday night.

Over 3,000 persons filed by the open casket before the funeral and more than 2,000 remained for the services.

Those attending included U.S. Senator B. Everett Jordan, and representatives of police forces across the state in addition to most of the Asheville police force.

Observers said the crowd was larger than the one that attended the funeral of novelist Thomas Wolfe back in 1938.

LEWISVILLE, TEXAS — Ralph W. Johnson, a Greenville, N. C. native was elected to the Lewisville City Council last week.

Johnson has served as Jaycee president here.

He graduated from J. H. Rose High School and East Carolina University. He was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Johnson of Greenville.

Academy at which college students from all across the state will present papers on their research work. Following will be business meetings of both the N.C. Academy and the Collegiate Academy.

A banquet in the South Dining Hall this evening will be the setting for the presentation of awards for the most meritorious papers presented at the 1971 meeting. An invited address will be given by Paul Traina, Chief, Water Programs Office, Environmental Protection Agency, Research Triangle.

Academy section meetings will be held Saturday morning. Papers will be presented in the following specialized areas: Biochemistry and Physiology, Botany, Chemistry, Entomology, Geoscience, Mathematics, Physics, and Zoology.

The public is invited to attend any of the sessions of the Academy. Locations of activities may be obtained at the lobby of the Biology Building.

An open house is being held today 1-5 p.m.; Saturday 8-noon, and Sunday 1-5 p.m. The new Science Complex will be open and classrooms research and teaching laboratories, and other facilities will be on display. The public is particularly invited to the campus on Sunday. This is the first time a general open house has been held at the Science Complex.

Officers of the Academy are

Dr. Frederick S. Barkalow, NCSU, president; Dr. Terry W. Johnson, Duke University, vice-president; Dr. Joseph G. Boyette, ECU, secretary, and Dr. John Haesloop, Pfeiffer

College, treasurer. Dr. J. William Byrd, ECU, is the president-elect.

Opening Nixon HQ Saturday

U.S. Senator Edward Gurney of Florida and actor John Payne will be on hand here Saturday for the dedication of the Nixon Eastern North Carolina Campaign Headquarters.

According to Dixie (Dick) Greene, Pitt County Republican chairman, ceremonies at the Nixon office, located at 318 Tenth Street, will be held around 4 p.m. Saturday.

Saturday night from 8-10, Sen. Gurney and Payne will be honored at a reception at the American Legion Building here. Greene pointed out that the general public is invited and welcome to attend both the headquarters dedication and reception.

The county chairman said that the Greenville headquarters will be a district office for President Nixon's reelection campaign effort and will serve the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts stretching from the South Carolina line—on up through North Carolina to the Virginia line.

Greene noted that the office will be fully staffed "within very short period of time" with as many as eight or nine full time employees.

Frank Everett of Robersonville is coordinator of the Eastern North Carolina campaign to reelect President Nixon.

Fore Re-Elected To Ass'n Post

At the Annual Meeting of the North Carolina Diabetes Association held recently in Winston Salem, Dr. William W. Fore, a Greenville physician, was re-elected Vice President of the Association.

Dr. Fore has a special interest in diabetes and was instrumental in recruiting a registered nurse, Mrs. Laurel Holloman, to serve as diabetes teaching nurse for the Greenville area. He has also been responsible for organizing a day camp for diabetic children jointly with East Carolina University. Also through Dr. Fore's interest in and efforts, the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the Association was formed and is now officially affiliated with the State Association. Mr. Malcolm Maxwell of Greenville is President of the chapter.

She watched "Lullaby of Broadway" on the late, late show, was tops in her hometown dancing classes, got rave reviews in a college musical and even won a beauty contest. Now she's come to New York stagestruck.

Her name is Tanya Simpson and she's sure it will be up in lights one day. But at present 21-year-old Tanya's fortune is still undecided. She takes classes in dancing and singing. She goes doggedly to endless auditions and waits with the crowds of other aspirants for a turn to show her paces to the director who's seen so many come and go and has almost stopped seeing them now. She did find summer work. Now there's a promise of an audition with a top Broadway producer. Meanwhile she takes temporary office work to pay for the rent and the groceries and the classes. "At one time I said I'd give myself two years and then go back to Mississippi . . . But now I couldn't leave . . . I may fail but at least I can say I tried."

The Worry Clinic Extra 43 Lbs. Can Scare Men

Howard has changed from a good-natured mate into a family "bear cat" who growls and criticizes. But that is due to one of the two semi-castrating influences that are zooming our American divorce rate. Take heed!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
Case T-557: Howard R., aged 38, has upset his family.

"Dr. Crane," his wife began, "we used to be a very happy family. But now Howard is as grouchy as a bear most of the time!"
"He yells at the children and gowls at me over very trivial things."
"And he now demands twin beds.

"For he says he doesn't love me any more."
"He is so caustic and critical of my housekeeping, too, that I am in tears almost every night."
"But this isn't the way he used to be, even up to a year or so ago. What is wrong?"

Howard's Confession
When a man is irritable at himself, he tries to pass the buck and blame somebody else.
This is a standard technique of husbands.
Sometimes the wife is entirely innocent of any significant faults, but her husband will still be sarcastic and hypercritical, anyway.

Many men thus keep on with their nagging till their frustrated wives break into tears.
"But why should Howard feel inferior?" you may inquire.
Well, his original weight of 165 pounds on his wedding day, has now zoomed to 208.

So that extra 43 pounds of blubber he carries all day long, has fatigued him unduly.
After a hectic day at the office, he is thus so tired at night that he has lost most of his libido.

Here's how to revive a man's libido:
(1) Wives, if you are so plump you create the "motherly" instead of "siren" image, then die!
(2) And aggressively stress more cheesecake in the boudoir, even if you radically cut down on the roast beef in the dining room.
(3) Husbands, if you lop off your excess blubber, you will also feel and act more kittenish, for you'll then have more surplus energy to generate romancing.
(4) Cut out tobacco, too, since it seems to kill your erotic hunger much as it also curbs your gastric hunger at the dinner table.
So send for the diet booklet

And this reduction in their erotic prowess scares men until they may soon throw themselves into a complete platonic state.
But they never want their wives to realize that lack of boudoir romancing is due to their own inability.
Thus, they universally hit upon the ruse of criticizing the wife, even about trivial faults, just to keep her on the defensive.
For if they can thus make their wife indulge in self-analysis and wonder what is wrong with HER, she is not likely to suspect what is wrong with HIM!
This is a neat psychological trick that impotent husbands often devise.
So the way to restore Howard to his former good-natured, happy personality, is to banish the basic cause of his platonic

In today's hand, taken from a recent team-of-four match, one East, in uncovering the only possible defense to defeat South's four spade contract, posed a difficult problem for his partner. West read the situation correctly, however, and came up with the play that led to a profitable swing for his team.
At both tables, the five of hearts was opened and East's queen won the first trick as declarer followed with the three. One East continued with the king of hearts and when the two missing cards in the suit—the seven and the three—appeared, he played the ace to prevent South from taking a discard. The latter countered by ruffing with the king of spades, leading a small trump to the ace and then playing the established jack of hearts and discarding his singleton eight of diamonds.
West trumped with the queen of spades but that was

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: During today and tonight contact as many influential friends as possible and get their support and backing for whatever plans you have that are important to you. Through them you can make your greatest advance and progress in the days ahead. You can gain greatly also by the health treatments you now take.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can put creative ideas to work satisfactorily in a.m., but then relegate the remainder of day and evening to getting pressing duties out of the way. Fix your wardrobe better for the days, months ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) See what you can do early to please family before you step out for pleasure with congenials. Buy new articles you need for your home. Take kin out to dinner, or other entertainment in p.m., and give them more pleasure, too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An early start at shopping, visiting, keeping appointments makes this a most productive and happy day for you. You have been making new arrangements that need completion, so get at that, too. Forget about being extravagant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan just how to add to present income in a.m., then get into the tasks that make your life more worthwhile, interesting. Find the new gadgets that will be helpful in daily operations. Avoid gossip.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get appearance improved in a.m., then off to the amusements that appeal to you. Later handle money and property matters. Being content with small pleasures is wise now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Gain the support of others in whatever is of a confidential nature, then out to fun, pleasure activities with persons you like. Plan the future more wisely with the advice and suggestions of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Going out early with good pals for the sports or other activities that are mutually enjoyable and helpful is wise. Make this a happy and worthwhile day. Spend p.m. at home with family. Think constructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Getting that civic or other kind of important work behind you early leaves time for sports and fun with friends later in the day. Meet interesting new people and make your life more enjoyable. Be careful in traffic tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have excellent ideas that need to be put in operation early in the day

Attend Two-Day Seminar In Raleigh

The office personnel of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association (PCA) have returned from Raleigh, where they participated in a two day Seminar for PCA and Federal Land Bank Association office personnel, according to F. L. Little, Jr., president of the PCA. The Seminar was sponsored by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank (FICB) of Columbia, S. C. and the Federal Land Bank (FLB) of Clumbia, in cooperation with Mrs. Marjorie Shure, a lecturer and fashion consultant of Atlanta, Ga. The Seminar was attended by Miss. Inez Whitman, Mrs. Maude Emma Runquist, Mrs. Barbara B. Harris, Mrs. Peggy H. Sugg, and Mrs. Christine T. Letchworth. In addition to Mrs. Shure, seminar instructors included FICB and FLB officers as follows: R. A. Darr, president, FICB-FLB (Columbia and before you have to sit down to everyday routine or work that is rather monotonous. Correspondence is best handled at night.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of important responsibilities early so you still have time for looking into new ventures, making new contacts later. Come to a better understanding with mate. Know what is expected of you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can sit down with an associate and talk over that new plan early in the day so you have free time later for the personal, romantic side of life. All promises to others should be kept with great care.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get those chores at home done early. Then you can devote the rest of the day to more important tasks, as well as enjoyment of cultural matters. Don't give one who likes arguments a chance to start one, or you can regret it later on.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very clever young people with great ideas who will need proper encouragement for good work done early in life in order to be able to fulfill the great promise in this chart later. This can lead to big fame, provided the education is adequate, since the main ideas here can then be put on a most practical basis, from which will come true success.

Raleigh only); Frank L. Barton, vice president and secretary, FLB; John L. Marshall, vice president and secretary, FICB; W. M. Harding, vice president, FLB and James E. Wilson, vice president, FICB-FLB.

Topics presented during the seminar included goals, objectives and future of farm credit; working effectively together; PCA and FLB credit operations and a presentation by Mrs. Shure on "You At Your Best" with emphasis on personal development, fashion, grooming and being more effective in your work.

The Credit Bank and the Land Bank provide leadership, supervision, and agricultural loan funds for PCAs and FLBAs combined had outstanding loans totalling $1.6 billion to 89,000 farmers, growers, and ranchers throughout the four state area. The Pitt-Greene PCA has outstanding loans totalling $13 million to 1,008 farmers, growers and ranchers throughout its area of service.

Cancer Contract Given Institute

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — The Salk Institute was awarded a $400,000 one-year contract today by the National Cancer Institute to study how the human body can be protected from cancer.

Institute officials said four projects are planned under the contract, including one aimed at development of a "chemical vaccine" against tumors. Another project will deal with how tumor cells might be modified to stimulate natural defenses against cancer, they said.
