SAIGON (AP) — Spear-headed by tanks, a North Vietnamese division smashed the northern defenses of a key provincial capital city in the central highlands today and drove South Vietnamese forces as far back as 15 miles. New air and sea battles erupted deep inside North Vietnam, in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Gulf of Siam.

The highlands defense line of Tan Canh and Dak To 25 miles north of the capital, Kontum City, crumbled under the enemy onslaught and a new line was being formed 10 miles north of the capital. Kontum City is said to be the ultimate objective in the 26-day-old North Vietnamese offensive.

provincial capital. North Vietnamese forces launched a heavy shelling attack Sunday morning on An Loc and assaulted it on the ground from four directions, field reports stated.

Spokesmen for the South Vietnamese 2nd Military Corps at Pleiku claimed, however, that government forces still controlled the complex.

The United States sent its big B52 bombers to within 80 miles of Hanoi to attack supply depots, railroads, highways and marshalling yards at the big coastal city of Thanh Hoa.

For the first time in the war, one of the giant bombers was reported hit over the North, by fragments from a surface-to-air missile, but it returned safely to Da Nang with 30 holes in its fuselage and a ruptured fuel tank. There were no casualties among the six crewmen.

Another American plane, an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber, was shot down near Dong Hoi, 45 miles above the demilitarized zone, and the two crewmen were pulled from the Tonkin Gulf by a Navy helicopter.

Two U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers were hit by shore fire. No casualties were reported.

Nine Americans were wounded and three buildings were damaged by a 13-round rocket barrage against the Da Nang Air Base, the biggest in South Vietnam from which raids are flown against North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese attack in the highlands developed shortly after midnight when the tank column rolled down Highway 14, which connects Pleiku, Kontum, Dak To and Tan Canh.

Official reports reaching Saigon said Tan Canh village and the 22nd Division Compound were under North Vietnamese control and the tactical operations center had been destroyed by shellfire.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16's explorers fire out of lunar orbit tonight to start the long journey home with a treasure ship of rocks that scientists believe will prove the moon long ago was wracked by volcanoes.

The major finds came Sunday, on the third moon drive that almost was canceled because Mission Control felt the astronauts might be tired and pressed for time as a result of their late landing Thursday night.

They return with 245 pounds of materials which represent perhaps the oldest and most significant samples yet collected on the lunar surface. Locked inside are secrets of how the moon was born more than four billion years ago.

Geologists are certain that John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly got everything they sought during man's fifth moon landing mission, primarily the volcanic evidence.

The astronauts trigger the command ship Casper's big engine at 9:16 p.m. tonight to begin the 66-hour, 240,000-mile voyage back to earth. Splash-down is scheduled Thursday in the Pacific Ocean.

The spacemen were awakened this morning after an eight-hour rest to begin the task of moving their hoard of rocks, soil and movie and still film from the lunar module to the command ship.

Later today, the lunar ship will be jettisoned to crash on the moon to activate a seismic device left there by Young and Duke.

The three astronauts were reunited Sunday night after Young and Duke blasted off the moon in the cabin section of the lunar ship Orion and skillfully maneuvered it to a linkup two hours later with Mattingly in Casper.

"What a ride! What a ride!" Duke shouted as Orion blasted away from the mountainous Descartes plateau at 8:36 p.m., EST ending a 71-hour surface expedition during which the moonmen set records for the amount of rocks collected, time on the surface and speed traveled by their classy moon buggy.

The two ships maneuvered around one another as Mattingly took pictures of the effects of the liftoff on Orion's thin skin, then they gingerly moved together nose-to-nose.

"I believe we got everything we went for," said Dr. Tony England, a scientist-astronaut who was capsule communicator during much of the flight.

"It was an outstanding success—really crowning achievement for the Apollo 16 crew," said flight controller Pete Franks.

The main goal was to find volcanic evidence as they drove their moon car over the Descartes plateau and on and around Stone Mountain. Experts here believe that evidence is tucked away in the carefully documented sample bags the astronauts are bringing home.

They base this on extremely clear television pictures relayed to Mission Control and the expert descriptions of the moon walkers as they examined hundreds of rocks, including boulders the size of buildings on their third and final excursion Sunday.

The result, scientists here said, is a mission that will contribute just as much to lunar science as the Apollo 15 flight test last summer.

After setting up a science station and exploring the Cayley Plains Friday, the astronauts drove halfway up 1,600-foot Stone Mountain Saturday in their quest for volcanic remnants and ancient lunar rocks.

But they made the most significant discoveries Sunday. After two robust, happy-go-lucky but thoroughly professional excursions by the moonmen, officials gave the go-ahead for a shortened exploration Sunday, cutting it from seven to five hours.

The excursion brought their total on-the-surface time to 20 hours 14 minutes, nearly two hours longer than Apollo 15's record.

The astronauts drove 3.3 miles to North Ray crater and found its rim littered with huge boulders that towered as much as 50 feet above them.

They were business-like as they described the stark surroundings, collected carefully documented samples, chipped pieces off the boulders, pounded core tubes deep into the surface and made scientific readings.

Duke peered over the rim of the 600-foot-deep canyon, said he couldn't see the bottom, and remarked "Man is that ever a hole in the ground!"

They zipped down one hill in their battery-powered moon buggy and shouted with excitement.

"We just set a new world speed record," Young announced. "Seventeen kilometers (almost 11 miles an hour) on the moon."

"Let's not set anymore," cautioned Mission Control.

Young, the Apollo 16 commander, frequently warned Duke, who fell several times during two earlier excursions, to watch his step.

The spacemen leaped about in what Young said was an abbreviated "lunar Olympics" to show earthlings how high they could bounce in the one-sixth gravity field.

They paid tribute to the lunar rover before leaving.

Refunds And Rollbacks In Price Field

NEW YORK (AP) — The Price Commission will order hundreds of millions of dollars in price rollbacks and customer refunds in the next few weeks, its chairman announced today.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the reason is that the commission's limit on profit margins in beginning to take hold as a second line of defense against inflation.

Grayson, speaking of the matter publicly for the first time in remarks for the annual meeting of The Associated Press, said he hopes the announcement will help rally public opinion behind controls.

"In a very few words I would like to inform you that beginning late last week, the Price Commission inaugurated a series of major actions which will result in hundreds of millions of dollars of price reductions, which will roll back current prices of some of the country's largest companies to their base-price levels."

Meanwhile, Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, told automobile manufacturers not to expect approval of large price increases.

In a speech prepared for the Economic Club of Detroit, Rumsfeld said steel companies' hold-the-price-line pledge "is a significant step in the effort to reduce inflation, a step which should be reflected in the prices of 1973 model cars ...

Grayson explained that the rollbacks and customer refunds will result from orders based on a Commission ruling that has attracted little public notice.

This rule, in addition to the commission's basic dictate that any price hikes must be justified by cost increases, says that price increases cannot be so large as to raise the profit portion of each sales dollar above the average for the best two of the past three years.

Grayson said now that large companies—those with more than $50 million in yearly sales—are beginning to file required quarterly reports, this profit-margin rule is starting to have effect.

Recently, the Price Commission ordered two firms to roll back prices because of inflated profits. Grayson has said that based on first reports, perhaps 10 per cent of America's large businesses would be required to roll back prices for this reason. His announcement today that the rollbacks would amount to hundreds of millions was his first such statement.

He noted that in past months the commission has been accused by its critics of being ineffective or pro-business.

"As what I've outlined here today may indicate, we are not pro-business," he said. "Nor are we anti-business, either. We're simply, and implacably, anti-inflation."

Taylor Avers 'No Trades' In His Campaign

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor said today that he has not made "any kind of trade with anybody" or "even discussed the matter of appointments with anybody, much less the U.S. Senate" when asked to qualify a remark attributed to him that he would name a successor to Sen. Everet Jordan if he (Jordan) were to resign.

Speaking to students this morning in front of the East Carolina University Union, Taylor said that he would "withdraw from this campaign before I would make a trade for political purposes on the appointment of a United States Senator, as important as that is to the state of North Carolina."

"Several of the candidates have said that Gov. Scott is supporting me in this campaign. Well, I hope he is but if he is, he hasn't told me so and I haven't asked him for his support," the Democratic gubernatorial candidate remarked.

Historically in North Carolina, Taylor continued, "it is thought that if the incumbent governor is supporting someone, that person generally loses the election. North Carolinians have been suspicious of their governors ever since Gov. Tryon was governor some 200 years ago." He noted that "we are the only state in the union that doesn't let the governor have the veto power" and allow only one term in office.

"But there is really nothing to what you read about Gov. Scott supporting me," the lieutenant governor asserted. "I have worked closely with him since he has been governor but I got along well with Gov. Moore, Gov. Sanford and Gov. Hodges too."

Fielding a variety of questions from the student audience Taylor said that "I don't think anybody wants any more taxes. We have in North Carolina a straight six percent corporate income tax. All corporations pay six per cent on their profits after deductions are allowed," he noted.

"We have individual income taxes that run from three to seven per cent. I'm not running on any platform of putting anymore taxes on the people of North Carolina. I'd hope that we wouldn't have to. But if we do

Reflector Photographer Earns Prize In Contest

A photograph by Daily Reflector staff photographer Tommy Forrest won second place in a division of the Southern Photographer of the Year contest held in Chapel Hill last week during the 23rd Southern Short Course in News Photography.

The photographer — a high-contrast reproduction of a bicycle rider — was second place winner in the Category "X" division. Pictures entered in Category "X" are photographs that do not naturally fall into other set categories. Many are experimental or abstract photographs.

First place winner in Category "X" — one of 12 categories divisions of the competition — was Nick Arroyo of the Palm Beach (Fla.) Post-Times.

Top prize winner of the competition was 22-year-old

Martin Rogers of the News and Observer, Raleigh, who took the title of Southern Photographer of the Year with the best portfolio pictures. Many of the pictures in Rogers' entry were done while on assignment for The National Geographic Magazine where he will begin full-time duties as a staff photographer in May.

Gene Furr of The Concord Tribune was named photographer of the year among newspapers with a circulation of 20,000 or less.

Forrest, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Tom Forrest of Greenville has worked for the Reflector for several years. In 1968 he won a third place award for a feature photo entered in the North Carolina Press Association contest.

He took an honorable mention and a third place in the same contest for feature picture entries in 1970 and in 1971 placed second in spot news and third in feature picture competition.

Week Of Public Meetings, Hearings

The 1972-1973 budget of the Greenville City Schools, a gathering together of political candidates, and regular city business are all in the forefront in Greenville this week in a series of public hearings and meetings.

Tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the new Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, the Greenville City School Board will conduct a public hearing meeting in which members of the public will be given an opportunity to ask questions and offer suggestions concerning the city school budget for the coming year.

All interested members of the public are invited to attend. Copies of extracts of the budget are still available for pre-study. These can be picked up from the city school office on West Fifth Street.

On Tuesday night, both the education and the political arena will have top billing as the school board meets to consider adopting the budget in their regular April meeting at the board room of the city school office.

Also at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, the biggest event of the year for the League of Women Voters, their "Public Forum" for the public to meet all the candidates, will be held in the District Court Room of the Pitt County Courthouse.

At this meeting, candidates of both parties for local state and federal offices will be on hand. About 22 of the total of 31 candidates are expected to be able to attend. Each candidate will be given a brief time to speak, with a question and answer period to follow. Mrs. Terry Shank will moderate the forum.

On Wednesday night, at City Hall, a Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission will convene at 8:00 p.m. to consider one item of business. Following the joint meeting, the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission will meet to consider seven items on business on their agenda.

The Greenville Board of Adjustments has a rather heavy schedule of agenda items on Thursday night when they meet at 7:30 p.m. to take up one old item of business and six items of new business.

Church Women Set For Annual Meet

The 74th annual meeting of the Women of the Church, Albemarle Presbytery will be held at the First Presbyterian Church here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Registration will begin at 5:45 on Tuesday followed by a fellowship dinner. The evening session begins at 7:15. The Rev. Charles M. Jones will speak at this session on the theme for the meeting "God Rules". He is the former pastor of the Community Church, Chapel Hill.

Registration on Wednesday will begin at 9:30 and will be followed by a business session and worship service.

Mrs. Lou S. Posey of Kinston, President of the Women of the Church, Albemarle Presbytery, will preside at all sessions. Also participating will be the Rev. Warren Nance of Edenton, chairman of Presbytery's Committee on Women's Work; Mrs. Max R. Joyner and a choral reading group; the Rev. Thomas M. David, executive secretary, Albemarle Presbytery; Mrs. Bruce Koonce, Mrs. Clarence Stasavich, all of Greenville; Mrs. George Edwards of Snow Hill; Mrs. Colon McLean of Washington and from Rocky Mount Mrs. S. D. Fuller, Mrs. Donald Batts and Mrs. Marvin Gurganus.

There will be special music Tuesday night by soloist, Miss June Lane, of the ECU School of Music. Ken Woodard will be the organist. On Wednesday, a group of students from the ECU School of Music will render special music. They will be under the direction of Brett Watson.

Mrs. James B. Borden of Kinston will present the 1972 Birthday Objective. This is an offering given to selected projects each year by the Women of the Church. Since 1922, $7,267,876 has been given through the Birthday Objective.

Special guests of this meeting will be Mrs. Walter S. Stone of Stoneville, President of the Women of the Church of the Synod of North Carolina Mrs. E. W. Fishburne of Greensboro, Synodical secretary and the Rev. John Miller campus chaplain.

The Rev. Louise H. Farrior professor of Bible at Peace College, Raleigh, will administer the Celebration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper on Wednesday morning. The Elements will be distributed by women in Albemarle Presbytery who are elders in their local churches.

Local committee chairmen for the two-day session are: Mrs. Stasavich, credentials; Mrs. Koonce, hospitality; Mrs. Fred Webb, flowers; Mrs. Brooks Beddingfield, transportation; Mrs. W. E. Rosevear and Mrs. H. H. Bryant, food; Mrs. Robert Deyton, serving;

Mrs. Bill Byrd, nursery; Mrs. Floyd Dunn, circle coordinator; Mrs. Thomas M. Davis, Communion; Mrs. Dink James, music; and Mrs. Joe Taylor; pages.

Mrs. Earl Trevathan, president of the Women of the Church of Greenville, the Rev. Richard R. Gammon, minister, and Mrs. John Grier, chairman of the meeting, extend a welcome to the 51 churches of Albemarle Presbytery to attend.

Local Pastor Awarded Doctorate At Shaw U.

The Rev. Willie Lewis Jones, pastor of the Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity Degree in ceremonies at Shaw University in Raleigh, yesterday.

A native of Ayden, the Rev. Jones has served a number of pastorates in the Pitt County area over the years, and has been pastor at Mt. Calvary for the past 16 years. In addition to his church in Greenville and serving as pastor of the St. Johns Free Will Baptist Church in Kinston, Dr. Jones is employed by the Greenville Redevelopment Commission as Neighborhood Organizer.

Known by many in his congregations as "Boy" Jones, the local pastor began preaching 38 years ago in Ayden, where he graduated from high school. He received an AB degree from Shaw University in 1945 and a BD degree from the Kingly School of Religion in Australia, Oregon.

He is married to the former Rosalie Moore of Bethel and the couple has three children.

The honorary doctorate presented to the Mt. Calvary pastor yesterday said a minister of the Gospel should possess some basic traits. "he should be a man of integrity keeping his soul pure...he should be a man of intellect seeking fertility of the mind...he should be a man of industry working and acting in the service of God...and...a man of interest showing concern for the welfare of others."

The certificate continued, "the ideal becomes the real in Willie Lewis Jones. He possesses in abundance those basic traits which make for a successful ministry. More importantly, he has dedicated these admirable characteristics to Christ and Humanity."

Because of this dedication, the presentation continued, "he has left his impact on the denomination which he has served so well, the United American Free Will Baptist Church and on the communities in which he has lived. This man's dedication is typical of the spirit that permeates this institution. A man of integrity, intellect, industry and interest..."

Aussie Beer For Duke And Young

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Four cartons of western Australian beer are on their way to Houston for the Apollo 16 astronauts.

The gift follows a conversation Saturday in which moon walkers Charles Duke and John Young joked about having a "cold Swan."

The conversation apparently puzzled some listeners, but Swan Brewery's public relations man explained that some of the astronauts had been to the Carnarvon satellite station near Perth and they remembered the local beer.

Newspapers Set Pace In Ads

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspapers far out-distanced television as the nation's largest advertising medium in 1971, the American Newspaper Publishers Association states in an annual report.

The nation's 1,749 daily and 590 Sunday papers sold $6.2 billion worth of advertising compared to television's $3.5 billion, the ANPA report said.

Scientists Hail Apollo 16 Work

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists are acclaiming Apollo 16's mission to the Descartes highlands where the astronauts collected rocks believed formed by the fiery volcanoes that shaped the early moon.

"We have little doubt they've looked at examples of the early volcanic processes that formed the highlands," said Dr. William Muehlberger, head of the Apollo 16 geology investigation team.

Moreover, man now has a fourth nuclear-powered geophysics station on the moon returning satisfactory data about moonquakes and the lunar magnetic field.

The major blight upon the mission achieving it's scientific goals occurred, however, when John W. Young stumbled while erecting the station and tore loose a cable to the heat flow experiment. The experiment, critical to learning about heat still in the lunar interior, couldn't be repaired.

"If it hadn't been for the heat flow cable breaking, we'd have a perfect mission even though we had to cut the third EVA (moonwalk) short," said Dr. Fred Herz, a Manned Spacecraft Center geologist who helped train Young and Charles M. Duke.

Apollo 16 went to the lunar highlands because they were believed to be much older than the flat lunar maria or seas that are filled with volcanic flows. Tantalizing bits of quite old lunar rocks had been found in the maria, apparently thrown there from the highlands.

The Descartes Mountains, two of which Young and Duke visited during their lunar exploration, are believed to have formed by lava upwelling from within the moon.

At about the same time, or perhaps slightly later, a great storm of meteorites pelted the moon. They created sheets of finely ground up lunar material that flowed across the moon, perhaps at speeds of several hundred miles an hour. The

Expects Police Leave School

Rose High School principal Robert Alligood reported late this morning that all had been quiet at the school during the day.

Following tension and fights at the school last week, the senior high principal decided to have police on hand for the opening of school today.

Alligood noted police will be moved out as soon as there is an assurance conditions no longer warrant having them on hand as a safeguard.

The two days of disturbances last week resulted in the arrest of seven students, three on Wednesday and four on Thursday. All seven were male students.

Spring Activities Begin Friday

NEW OFFICERS—The ladies of the Greenville Golf and Country Club have named officers for this year, pictured, left to right, Mrs. Pat Dayson, golf secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Cliff Edwards, president, Mrs. John Warner, vice president, Mrs. Jack Bircher, golf chairman, and Mrs. Conner Merritt, social secretary-treasurer.

The group began their spring activities Friday with a coffee hour honoring new members. Other planned events for ladies day on Fridays includes bridge, golf, the Pitt County Ladies Golf Association playoffs at Brook Valley Friday, April 28, and the grand opening of the Greenville Golf and Country Club on May 6.

Most Food Poisoning Cases That Occur Annually Are Result Of Mishandling

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—In this age of consumerism, we talk of food poisoning as if the government and industry alone were responsible for the safety of America's food supply.

Yet most of the millions of cases that occur annually result from mishandling on the home front or en route there.

At the same point was in fact made recently when the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced for the first time the amounts of mold and other "natural" filth its standards permit in food sold to the public.

The FDA's Foods Bureau director, Dr. Virgil O. Wodicka, said home processed foods, given the same tests as publicly marketed foods would "do no better" in contamination standards.

Really Sick
Although the fatality rate from food poisoning is low, in the words of one physician, some affected feel so sick temporarily they wish they were dead.

Records at the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC), Atlanta, show steadily declining fatality figures from bacterial poisoning in the past decade. They dropped from 56 deaths in 1960 to 10 in 1968, the most recent year for which figures are available. During the same period, deaths from botulism declined from 56 in 1960 to 10 in 1968.

A spokesman for the federal agency said botulism is the major single cause of deaths from food-borne diseases in the United States. It is the rarest type of food poisoning in the country and the deadliest—caused by a spor-forming bacteria that produces a toxin. It is more likely to occur in home canned products than in commercial ones because the latter are subject to more stringent safety measures. Botulism also can occur in low-acid foods held too long under refrigeration or not refrigerated properly.

1971: 2 Deaths
Two deaths from botulism occurred in the United States last year. One was caused by commercially canned vichyssoise, a soup that is served cold. The death precipitated a nationwide search for 6,444 remaining cans of the soup, eventual recall of all the canner's production and the company's bankruptcy.

Statistics, however, don't begin to tell the full story. Only a tiny fraction of all food poisoning cases is serious enough to be reported to health authorities. Statistics

The NCDC said that 23,448 persons became ill in 366 outbreaks of various types of food-borne disease in 1970 the most recent year for which it had statistics.

In a telephone interview, Dr. Matthew Loewenstein, chief of the center's enteric disease section, said these figures probably represented fewer than 10 per cent of the cases that actually occur. Loewenstein said 42 of the outbreaks were in single homes and most of the remaining 185 probably

Bridge Winners Are Announced

Winners in the Wednesday Afternoon Duplicate Bridge game played at the Elks Club were:

North-South: Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Mrs. Robert Barnhill, first; Mrs. M. H. Bynum and Mrs. Etta Bloom, second; Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts and Mrs. Lacy Harrell, third.

East-West: Mrs. L. D. Harris and Mrs. William Parvin, first; David Proctor and Shakti Routh, second; Mrs. Gordon Peterson and Mrs. George Martin, third.

Wednesday morning winners were: Mrs. John Richards and Mrs. W. N. Dawson, first; Mrs. Vito Ragazzo and Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr., second; Mrs. W. J. Shaw and Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, third.

Friday night winners included: Mrs. L. D. Harris and Mrs. Clifton Toler, first; David Proctor and Claude Goodman, second; Mrs. Irvin Adler and Lewis Newsome, third; Mr. and Mrs. Norman McCaskill, fourth.

Saturday afternoon winners were North-South: Mrs. J.D. Lewis and Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, first; Mrs. J. M. Horton and Mrs. Wesley Webb, second; Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Mrs. Robert Barnhill, third; Kim Goodman and Carl Bailey, fourth.

East-West: Graham Davis and Claude Goodman, first; J. D. McArthur and Pat McArthur, second; Mrs. Irvin Adler and Lewis Newsome, third; Steve Callihan and George Fuller Jr., fourth.

Winners in a special charity game held at the Moose Lodge Tuesday night were: Claude Goodman and David Proctor, first; Steve Callihan and George Fuller Jr., second; Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Lewis Newsome, third; Mrs. Eli Bloom and Mrs. Gail McClelland, fourth; Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts and Graham Davis, fifth.

also happened at home, although no information was given about their origin.

He added that millions of cases escape official notice because they are small and they may even be blamed by the victims on factors other than food contamination.

He said staphylococcus bacteria are the most common form of food poisoning, but that an estimated 2 million cases of salmonellosis alone occur annually. A large percentage of the latter are caused by food but the disease also can be spread from person to person. Pet turtles are thought to cause about 15 per cent of the cases. Loewenstein said salmonellosis is the most serious of the three most common types of food poisoning, but the food-borne variety of it is also one of the most easily avoided. Proper cooking kills the germs that cause the infection, and prompt, proper refrigeration protects against reinfection.

Third Type
The third common type of food-borne disease is clostridium perfringens. It also is

Swedish Dessert Features Applesauce And Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
We've discovered a lovely dessert—an applesauce pan cake torte—from Swedish cuisine. But we've taken a liberty with it, all in the interest of making it easy.

In the original recipe the cake layers were baked in cast-iron skillets. In the recipe that follows the cake layers are baked in 8-inch pie plates.

The filling for this torte uses canned applesauce cooked with brown sugar and cardamom to a good spreading consistency; a great use of a favorite pantry shelf food because this apple filling contrasts beautifully with the light, spongy and buttery layers of cake.

LAGGTARTA
(Swedish Pan Cake Torte)
1 can (16 ounces) applesauce
¼ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cardamom

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter, melted
Whipped cream
Grease four 8-inch pie plates and line bottoms with wax paper.

In a 1-or 1½-quart saucepan stir together the applesauce, brown sugar and cardamom. Bring to a boil and simmer, stirring often, until sauce is a spreading consistency—about 15 minutes. (It will measure about 1½ cups.) Set aside to cool.

On wax paper sift together the flour and baking powder.

In small bowl of electric mixer, at high speed, beat together the eggs and granulated sugar until thickened and lemon color. Fold in flour mixture, then melted butter.

Turn batter into the prepared pie plates. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until lightly browned on top—6 to 8 minutes. Invert on wire racks and remove paper. Cool.

Spread applesauce mixture over 3 of the layers, stacking one on top of the other. Top with remaining layer. Shortly before serving spread top with whipped cream sweetened to taste and flavored with vanilla.

Makes 8 servings.
Note: Cake layers may be baked two at a time if only two pie plates are available. If dessert is stored in the refrigerator, bring to room temperature before topping with whipped cream and serving.

Abby Pops The Recipe Question

DEAR ABBY: About that male cook who "took pride" in his cooking and refused to divulge his recipes: Some of the worst cooks I've known were men who "took pride" in their cooking.

I don't claim to be a good cook, but I am probably the best corn popper in the state of Michigan. Admittedly, my prowess is not divinely inspired, but is the conglomeration of instructions from a local 65-year-old lady and a former national champion grower of corn.

I have taught many people how to make delicious popcorn, and I derive as much pleasure out of their enjoyment of it as I do my own.

BILL IN COLDWATER

DEAR BILL: All right, you pop the corn and I'll pop the question: How about that recipe?

DEAR ABBY: You blew it when you stated that good cooks should share their recipes.

I happen to be the world's best dancer, salesman and amateur chef. And Abby, my love, no one, but NO ONE gets my recipe for spaghetti! [They also beg me for my recipe for sweet and sour sauce, and many others, but my spaghetti sauce is out of this world, and everybody who tastes it wants to know my secret.]

Thus far I have given it to no one. I'm not selfish. I like to cook, and I like to treat my guests to something they can't get anywhere else. Sorry about that.

BOB IN LONG BEACH

DEAR BOB: You may be the world's best dancer and amateur chef, but you blew it when you said you were the world's best salesman. My husband is! P. S.: I'll put my mother in law's sweet and sour sauce against yours any day, but Bob, old boy, about that spaghetti recipe: Are you willing to negotiate?

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter about recipes? I used to share mine, too, but no more. Here's why:

A few years ago I dreamed up a recipe of my own and it made such a big hit, my friends asked me for it, so I gave it to them.

Well, one fine day I saw that one of those "friends" had submitted MY recipe in a contest, taking full credit for having created it, and she won $25 for it!

When I spoke to her about it, she said when I gave it to her I forfeited all right to it.

In a more recent instance, a hairdresser asked me how I kept my skin so nice. When I told her it was my own formula, she wormed it out of me with a plea that she had "problems" with her skin and really had to know.

Double-Laning Clearly Needed

Two things impressed us on a trip to the Pitt-Greenville Airport Wednesday afternoon.

Coming across from Greene Street on the Airport Road, we found the intersection of that road and U.S. 13-N.C. 11 extremely congested. A steady stream of vehicles passed by the intersection so that considerable time was involved in making it across the intersection and on to the airport on the other side.

Our conclusion from this is that the dual laning of U.S. 13 from Third Street to the Stokes Highway is a badly needed project. The sooner the work can get underway the better off we will all be. The project is needed to handle the steadily increasing traffic generated by industries locating in North Greenville.

On the other hand our trip to the airport was prompted by the fact that Mrs. Richard Nixon had arrived there in a jet. She had left the local airport by auto for a trip to Robersonville and the Centennial celebration there and she was soon to return

Primary Sees 2nd Thoughts

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C.—Second thoughts on North Carolina's first presidential primary are troubling some of the state's Democratic politicians.

They are worried that it will roll party waters without really giving rank and file Tar Heel voters any significant in-put for the nomination.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Even before the trial run there is talk that the next legislature will look again at the presidential primary, to revise it or scrap it altogether.

Any move for repeal would get a fight from Sen. Thomas Strickland of Wayne, a leader in enactment of primary machinery by the 1971 session.

Maybe it isn't working out perfectly, he said, but at least it's an improvement over the backroom decision-making of the past. The voters will have a voice for the first time, he noted, limited as it may be.

Politicians Complaining
"The ones complaining are politicians," Strickland observed. "They didn't like the idea to begin with. I haven't had anybody come up to me on the street and say they don't want to vote for the presidential candidates."

Hardly anything about the primary is turning out as it was pictured when the legislature adopted the concept.

Back then, advocates said a presidential primary would bring major candidates to campaign in North Carolina and make the state a bellwether for the race.

Instead, the May 6 balloting now takes on the shape of a test for one of the things it was calculated to avoid — a favorite son candidacy to tie up the state's votes at the Democratic National convention at least through the first ballot.

Sanford Changed Picture
The entry of Terry Sanford, Duke University president, a former governor, was the big factor altering the primary picture. In deference to his bid, Sen.

George McGovern of North Dakota and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota decided to stay out of the state. Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington are on the ballot, but won't be active in campaigning.

The two others on the ticket are Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the black Congresswoman from Brooklyn.

What had been billed as a main event involving principal contenders now appears likely to become a bout between Sanford and Wallace. Although the outcome will be noted at the national convention, its effect may be minimal on who finally gets the nomination.

The primary results are binding only for the first ballot at the convention. At the moment, it appears unlikely a nominee can be selected with only one round of voting.

Delegate Selection The Key
Therefore, the process of delegate selection remains where the action is for the state's weight at the convention.

The Sanford drive challenges the political influence of Gov. Bob Scott, staked out for Muskie long before the legislature decided to go the presidential primary route.

Scott supported the legislation for a primary, but he recently indicated some misgivings. "So many other states now have them and the candidates have to stretch themselves so thin, I feel the primaries have become less meaningful," he explained.

There also is a tendency for the public to become confused by primary results and lose sight of the more important matter of pledged delegates, Scott said. For example, setbacks in primaries have created the impression that Muskie is slipping when actually he remains the leader in delegate strength, Scott said.

Whether he'd favor doing away with the primary, Scott replied to a question, is a judgment he will make after seeing how the first one goes.

One change he would support, Scott added, would be to shift the presidential primary away from the date for the state primaries.

to Pitt-Greenville Airport where the big jet would take off for the return trip to the nation's capital.

It is clear that our local airport facilities were considered safe and adequate enough for the First Lady's plane to land and take off without concern.

Thus the dual laning of the highway is essential to Greenville's development and at the same time, the preservation of the airport is also essential to area development and progress.

Yet there is some conflict between the two. The Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority this week went on record as opposing the encroachment of the highway on the main runway of the airport.

After watching the First Lady's jet take off on this run way headed directly toward the busy highway, we can concur in the Authority's concern.

We would hope that somehow the dual lane highway in this area can be redesigned so that it will have minimal effect on the runways, and we would also hope that this can be done without delaying the project.

Perhaps a curb and guttered five lane roadway to the airport entrance would serve the purpose. From there it could be expanded to a divided road as it is now planned. Somehow we feel an adequate multi-laned highway can be designed in this area which will not encroach on the airport. The idea deserves all the consideration we can give it.

Sen. Muskie's Last Hurrah?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEWCASTLE, Pa. — Sen. Edmund Muskie's surprisingly harsh campaign rhetoric in his uphill battle for pivotal Pennsylvania in Tuesday's primary was the inevitable result of his fourth-place finish in Wisconsin, but it runs the high risk of making him an Edmund-come-lately "me too" candidate.

Stealing a leaf from the bestselling anti-establishment rhetoric of Sen. George McGovern and Gov. George Wallace, Muskie on Tuesday evening here denounced one corporate giant after another as tax-dodgers who have "turned their backs on this nation." He castigated the Justice Department as "the department of politics" and wondered whether President Nixon "has forgotten that he is the President of a country, not the president of a corporation."

Although the words came from Muskie's mouth, and were well-received by the largest political dinner in the history of Lawrence desperation.

Thus, the Senator's denunciation of establishment America — seizing the theme that McGovern on the left and Wallace on the right have exploited so successfully — marked a sea-change in the Muskie campaign, just as Muskie's decisive losses in Florida and Wisconsin turned him from frontrunner to underdog.

But is Ed Muskie credible as an anti-establishment candidate? Surely, if the searing attack here had come from McGovern, the audience would have been yelling with glee — or, had it come from Wallace, stamping its feet on the floor in ecstasy.

As it was, Muskie was interrupted several times with spontaneous but scarcely defying applause. But as one shrewd politician told us: "The transformation of Ed Muskie from the quiet and steady New England Yankee into ripsnorting populist doesn't quite ring true." Moreover, he said, McGovern and Wallace articulate in simple words what is bothering the voters, but Muskie's "New England aloofness" sets him apart from and, fairly or not, slightly above the voters.

Rhetoric aside, Muskie's swing through western Pennsylvania showed other pronounced changes in fundamental strategy. In contrast to his performance in Wisconsin, for example, Muskie here is doing far more to cash in on his ethnic background and his Catholic religion. The decision to exploit these political assets resulted not only from his poor performance in south Milwaukee's Polish wards but also from a poll showing that less than 50 per cent of Wisconsin voters were aware that he is Catholic or Polish.

Judging from the large throngs that turned out to hear him in the heavily ethnic cities of Altoona and Johnstown, and in the center of Pittsburgh's Polish precincts (where Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., warmed up the crowd), Muskie should do better with hyphenated Americans here.

But it is late. Muskie's image as a Presidential candidate asking little more from the voter than his "trust" was molded many months ago. The easy but false assumption in those earlier days, that he would have the nomination locked up after the Wisconsin primary, led to inexcusable errors which are now coming home to roost here.

These include at least two occasions when he rejected the most ardent appeals of his western Pennsylvania managers to make appearances in Pittsburgh: first, for the AFL-CIO state convention in late February, at which Sen. Hubert Humphrey, his chief opponent next Tuesday, poliocticed for hours; and second, for the big Allegheny County political gala dinner two weeks ago.

Both should have been command performances, but Muskie was trapped by other commitments based on his early strategy to contest each of the first eight Presidential primaries.

It is too late to correct such errors. It may also be too late

BUT STILL A POTHOLE HERE AND THERE!

By ART BUCHWALD

In 'Godfather' Terms

WASHINGTON — People are very confused about what we are doing in Vietnam. I believe the simplest way to explain it is to try to think in terms of "The Godfather."

A few weeks ago Don Riccardo, the godfather, was sitting behind his desk at his closely guarded house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. when his consigliere, Henrico, came in and kissed his hand.

Godfather, the Hanoichese family has just invaded the territory of the Saigonetti family.

"Basta," the godfather said. "I told the Hanoicheses to stay out of the Saigonetti territory or there would be all-out war."

"Yes, Godfather. I think we have to go the mattresses."

"I want a meeting of our sub-capos in an hour," the godfather said.

An hour later the godfather sat at the conference table. He said, "The Hanoichese family has just violated an agreement we had about attacking the Saigonetti family. What do we do?"

"Godfather, we been backing the Saigonetti family for 10 years now. We give 'em weapons, we give 'em men, we give 'em know-how we give 'em everything. I say we can't do no more. Why should we go to the mattresses again?"

A second sub-capo replied angrily, "That's a lot of linguini. We got to smash the Hanoicheses once and for all.

We let them get away with this and our family will be the laughingstock of the world."

"He's right," a lieutenant said. "If the Hanoichese mob don't want peace, we are going to make them get down on their knees and beg for it. I say we put out the contract now."

"Wait a minute. Not so fast," another sub-capo said. "If we blast the Hanoichese territory we going to have to deal with the Kremlinchichos. Now the godfather has a meeting with the Kremlinchichos family in May. What's going to happen to the meeting?"

The lieutenant said, "Everyone knows the Kremlinchichos family is supplying the Hanoicheses with guns. We got to get the message to them that we're not going to sit around and let them walk all over us."

"Now wait a minute. Are we ready to go to war with the Kremlinchichos family?"

"We ain't going to war with them. They know that all we're doing is protecting the Saigonetti family."

"Godfather," another sub-capo said, "there's a lot of unrest in our family over our commitment to the Saigonettis. Our boys have been bumped off and captured by the Hanoicheses. And nothing's changed. Many people in the family say we should get the hell out. If the Saigonettis can't defend themselves, we can't help them any more."

A tough lieutenant said, "I say we go all-out. Give us the word, Godfather, and we'll hit them with everything."

Everyone looked at the godfather. He sipped a glass of wine. "Everyone knows I'm for peace. But everyone also knows I don't like to be pushed around. Now the godfather elections are coming up in November, and if I do something it could hurt my chances of being godfather again. But if I do nothing it could hurt my chances even more. Now I warned the Hanoicheses not to hurt my

Other Editors Say To Fuel Inflation

(Wilson Times)

A United States House vote is expected the last week of this month, or the first week in May, on a proposal to raise the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2 per hour — a 25 per cent increase at a time when the federal Pay Board's standard is 5.5 per cent.

Principal beneficiaries of the proposed increase would be some 35 million workers covered under the minimum wage law before 1966, but another group covered in 1966 at lower rates also would receive proportionate boosts.

In addition, the bill — H.R. 7130 — would extend coverage of the minimum wage law, and its overtime pay requirements, to millions of other workers, including employees of agricultural processing plants, transit systems, hotels and motels, and domestic workers in households.

Enactment of H.R. 7130 is a major objective of the AFL-CIO in this session of Congress and the bill has won the support of congressmen beholden to organized labor or who see an opportunity to score some election-year points with affected workers.

Ironically, some of the loudest congressional critics of the present system of price controls are among prime backers of a higher minimum wage. Supporters of the measure also include representatives who regularly decry high unemployment.

Since there is no way to repel the law of economics, a higher minimum wage and expanded coverage would hike wage costs substantially and seriously cripple efforts to hold down inflation and stimulate job creation.

If the minimum is increased, wages above the minimum also would have to be raised in order to maintain differentials between various levels of work.

Should the Price Commission allow compensating price increases, inflation would be fueled. Another likely result: more unemployment, as employers would lay off workers to control rising costs.

Spring Is For Chefs

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The ice is in the martini, the coal is in the grill. It's barbecue time again.

The American male is ready to flee again to the great summer pastime of cooking outdoors, and the average man's joy in this pursuit has little to do with the taste of charcoal broiled meat.

When a husband adjourns to the backyard to light and guard the fire, it is probably the only chance he will get all summer to look at the crabgrass and dandelions without being told to pick them.

When the sparks fly from the grill, a father can righteously demand that the little children be kept inside—the only time he can venture outdoors without a band of followers, some of whom inevitably need their diapers changed.

The pleasure of inhaling the scent of a sizzling steak is nothing compared with the one-upmanship gained over the wife who for a few minutes is pleased that she doesn't have to dirty the broiler again or heat up the kitchen. She may be so pleased that she even makes a fresh drink for the cook, a rare occurrence.

The cunning male communing with nature in the backyard must be careful, however, not to confuse the act of barbecuing with the purpose.

The trend to kettle cookers, hibachis, wagon grills and gas barbecues can signal the end of freedom. The male who wants to stand on the patio and watch the televised baseball game through the glass door will have a simple round grill, unshielded from wind or rain.

This insures his presence for every moment of the cooking process:

"I better not leave it alone, the wind's a little strong."

"Of course I'd rather talk to you but if I don't watch the grill the kids might sneak out and burn themselves."

"I'd lower the volume on the TV but I can't hear it from out here and you know I don't want to get your steak done too well again."

There is an inherent problem in mixing martinis with the ritual of the barbecue. In fact, the amount of Martinis mixed is inversely proportional to the quality of the dinner.

The cunning practitioner again knows the shrewdness of offering to cook hotdogs or roasts.

Public Forum

To the editor:

There have been recent incidences of persons unknown throwing small kittens from their cars out onto the highways and streets in Greenville. There are state laws for such actions that carry $50 fines. There are humane ways to dispose of unwanted animals but this type individual does not even seem to be human. Let us alert ourselves to put a stop to this monstrous action by identification and following through by application of law enforcement.

Strength For Today

RELIGION IS NORMAL
"Yes, I believe in religion," says the up-and-coming go-getter. "I believe religion is good for everybody in the community. We would be overrun with crime if it were not for the churches. Religion improves real estate values. No one would want to live in a community made up wholly of atheists."

Now all this is true, but it is a poor statement of the value of religion to human life. Religion was never intended to be a means to an end. Religion is an end in itself. God calls men to Him that He may have fellowship with them. The salvation of their souls is a by-product of something vastly greater and more significant, namely, friendship with the living God.

Religious people are usually prosperous. A religious life is more often than not a life characterized by physical good health. Religion when it is real, makes people very happy. But to seek after religion in order to have prosperity or health or happiness is to make a ridiculous and tragic mistake.

Religion, let us repeat, is an end in itself. Religion is the normal condition in which the human soul finds its most complete satisfaction and fulfillment. "Righteousness" is the word by which we describe the normal behavior of a healthy spiritual being.

Religion is natural. Spiritual indifference, agnosticism and atheism are abnormal conditions — illnesses of the soul.

Nonferrous Metal Prices Next

By ELMER ROESSNER
Nonferrous metals apparently are coming out of their depressed state and prices will probably edge higher in the coming months. But profits, generally poor, may not do so well.

Copper, lead, and zinc have already posted some price increases. Nickel might also rise. And aluminum has gone up here and there. The main impetus is producers' rising costs, but some strengthening of demand is also apparent.

Inflation has affected operating costs, including equipment and supplies, fuel and power, and transportation. Increasingly stringent antipollution requirements are forcing expensive plant modifications and driving up the cost of new facilities. Labor, too, will be pressing for pay hikes.

Finally, companies with overseas operations will be feeling more pressure. Outright seizures as in Chilean copper mining aren't the only, or even the main, danger. Many governments are insisting on a bigger piece of the action both in earnings and in operating decisions.

ELMER ROESSNER

If demand for nonferrous metals improves only moderately, then profits won't benefit very much. The higher prices will only stretch as far as covering increased costs.

If, on the other hand, the economy expands substantially, then high prices increases would be feasible and profits would also improve.

Here are other look-aheads in business:

American walnut exports will probably set new records this crop year due to lower production in most producing areas abroad. The walnut crop was smaller in France, India, Iran and Turkey, with Italy the only major producer to show an increase. Heir total exports are expected to be down five per cent while U.S. shipments should almost double to 18,000 tons. The same situation prevails for almonds with U.S. sales abroad rising as production of the major producers in Europe and the Middle East declines.

More taxpayers will be hearing from the Internal Revenue Service this year. The tax men are implementing a new screening program that could find errors in up to a million returns. Of course, don't expect to hear from the IRS if the error is in their favor.

Lobster prices are exceptionally high but should start coming down soon. Cold weather has kept the lobsters and lobstermen in hiding but warmer weather should bring both out and improve the supply. The same is true of shrimp. In the long run, however, shrimp and lobster prices will be higher as demand rises but the basic supply remains virtually unchanged.

Grains will be in plentiful supply with the possible exception of the Russians who had a bad year and are dickering for substantial purchases. Stocks in the leading producing countries are 12 per cent over a year ago with barely and rice up 25 per cent; corn up 23 per cent; and oats up 3 per cent. Wheat was off a moderate three per cent. Soybeans are also in good supply with record output — for the seventh straight year — at almost 1.6 billion bushels.

Thai Military Effort Disappoints Americans

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite years of U.S. aid and advice, Thailand's army has disappointed American military officials by its performance in a major test against Communist-led insurgents.

An analysis of an operation by 12,000 Thai troops against an estimated 600 rebels in north-central Thailand concluded that government forces exhibited lack of aggressiveness and poor training.

In addition, Thai commanders were criticized for using their troops in big, unwieldy formations and for inadequate use of combat intelligence.

As a result, Thai military leaders were said to have decided that new tactics and methods will have to be developed.

Thailand long has been regarded by U.S. defense officials as important to the anti-Communist position in Southeast Asia.

It has become more important to U.S. strategy in recent years because most of the Air Force B52 bombers and fighters-bombers flown against the enemy in North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia operate from bases in Thailand. Most of the 34,000 American military men in Thailand are involved in the air war.

In the past five years, the United States has provided about $500 million in military aid to improve and modernize the Thai armed forces. About 525 U.S. advisers and trainers, including Green Berets, are working with the Thai forces.

The American advisers are under orders to stay out of any fighting between Thai units and insurgents inside Thailand, U.S. officials say.

Starting in late January, the Thai command sent an army division, five artillery battalions and warplanes against insurgents holed up in a mountain stronghold in the vicinity of Phitsanulok.

According to U.S. estimates, government forces suffered more than 70 killed and 270 wounded in the weeks-long operation. The insurgents, described in U.S. reports as Communist-led hill tribesmen, lost at least seven killed.

U.S. and Thai officials for years have been concerned that the insurgents in Thailand's northeast and north-central regions, adjoining Laos, would become a major threat if the Indochina war went against the anti-Communist side.

The war has come closer to Thailand's borders in the last two years with the outbreak of fighting in Cambodia and North Vietnamese advances in northern and southern Laos.

Hanoi has warned Thailand in recent months to stop supporting Laotian government forces, a move apparently aimed at pressing Bangkok to pull back an estimated 5,000 Thai troops fighting with the Royal Lao army.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 25, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your daytime is excellent for coordinating your efforts toward cooperative goals with those you have known for a considerable period of time. But the evening is not good for anything that is of a risky nature, or for listening to unreliable persons who are trying to get you to do what they want.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Day hours are best for contacting individuals who can help you advance in some way, but the evening is taboo for such. Shop around for articles you need in the days ahead. Treat mate with more kindness for best results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Planning for more money in the future is wise during the day, but take care you do not overspend for pleasure in p.m. Look into new avenues of expression for which you are suited. A more cooperative attitude toward co-workers is good.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can enjoy dining and other pleasures with one you like and make this a mutually happy day. Plan just how to improve your present existence best. Stop playing games with mate or you get into trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Focus attention on home and family and do some delightful entertaining there in p.m. Add the bric-a-brac, articles that add to its charm, comfort. Pay those bills without further delay.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Sit down with associates and talk over how to have more future profits and how to gain more goodwill from customers. A letter may reach you that opens new doors of opportunity to you. Take care of it quickly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you follow advice experts give you, you know how best to handle financial and other matters well. Set up a new budget that meets the present needs. Stop being so old-fashioned in daily operations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are in a most charming mood now and can do much to please your regular allies who are rather depressed. Attend that social affair where your presence will be appreciated, valued. Have fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Secret affairs need to be handled in such a way that you are satisfied, so collect all the information you can which will help you. Better preparation can make daily duties more successful. Stop being so antagonistic toward others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you plan how to be more helpful to good friends, you can get along harmoniously with them in the future. Accept invitation to a party in p.m. that will make it possible for you to rub elbows with charming people and make them your friends. Grow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many career matters that need immediate and wise attention; take care of them first of all today. Get credit affairs handled early. Showing you are exact makes a fine impression on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) New ideas are swimming around in your head and if you contact people who can be helpful with them, you can make big headway soon. Study brochures, manuscripts, periodicals, etc., also. A more enthusiastic manner is wise now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your intuition is working fine today, so be sure to rely on it more than you have in the past and get right results when dealing with others. Doing something tonight that is thoughtful will make mate happier.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those gifted young people who will quickly understand what others have in mind and this combined with the unusual charm of this nature can make for a happy and successful life, since communicating with others will come easy. An ideal chart for the super salesperson, the beautician, the artist, and particularly the stage and the movies. Wise discipline needed early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Scott's Mother Dies In Durham

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. W. Kerr Scott, who saw both her husband and a son serve as governor of North Carolina, died in Duke Hospital Sunday night of pneumonia only a week shy of her 75th birthday.

Gov. Bob Scott and his wife, Jessie Raie, had visited her bedside a short time before death came at 7 p.m. She had entered the hospital April 12 and had been critically ill several days.

A daughter, Mrs. Alfred Lowdermilk of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, was with her when she died.

Mrs. Scott, affectionately known as Miss Mary, was quiet and shy and remained much in the background during her husband's long and colorful political career.

Her husband served as governor of North Carolina from 1949 to 1952 and later as U.S. senator, an office he was holding when he died in 1958. For several years he was North Carolina agriculture commissioner.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

National, state and local leaders joined in mourning her death. Former Gov. Terry Sanford, now president of Duke University, said Mrs. Scott "was in her own right one of North Carolina's great citizens and she remained a tremendous influence for the best that is in us. When her husband was governor and when he was running for the Senate, she was a supporter of the highest principles. She would permit no compromise with those principles."

Sanford, Democratic presidential candidate, said Kerr Scott "relied heavily on her advice and credited her with the appointment of the late Dr. Frank Graham to the U.S. Senate."

Sanford added, "I valued her love and friendship as I have few others."

A native of Hawfields in Alamance County, Mrs. Scott was active in the Presbyterian Church and the State Grange and was a charter member of the first 4-H Club in North Carolina.

She and her late husband grew up about a mile apart and were childhood sweethearts.

After her marriage to Scott in 1919, some referred to her and the big farm on which she and her husband settled as "Mary, Queen of Scott's land."

A former teacher, Mrs. Scott served at one time or another in positions ranging from circle chairman to president of the auxiliary, president of the state Synodical, and a trustee of Flora MacDonald College.

In addition to Gov. Scott and Mrs. Lowdermilk, she is survived by a son, Osborne W.; two sisters, Mrs. I. C. Crawford and Agnes White of High Point; six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Ayden-Grifton SCHOOL NOTES

By SUE HASELEY and ANNE DENSON

The Student Government Association of Ayden-Grifton High School will sponsor a folk-rock-soul festival early in May. Interested groups and individuals may participate. Auditions will be held at the end of this month.

The math and science clubs visited the Kinston DuPont Plant Thursday.

Final payments on the annuals and club pages have been paid.

The Ayden-Grifton baseball team beat D. H. Conley 5-2 on Tuesday. This was their last ball game.

The drama club attended the matinee performance of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" last Thursday.

The advance biology classes planted 20 bushes and shrubs across the front of the school building Friday. This project is part of an ecology program by the biology classes.

Students who wish to run for a Student Government Association office should have gotten a petition to run by today. A total of 120 signatures must be on the petition for it to be valid.

Bizzell And Cleetwood Return From Meeting

John Bizzell, board member of the Greenville School Board, and Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the city schools, have returned to Greenville after attending a four day Convention of the National School Boards Association held in San Francisco.

The two local representatives made the trip on a chartered plane with 145 other North Carolina board members and staff personnel, and were part of a total of 17,000 present from all across the nation.

Among national figures attending as participants and guest speakers were Elliott Richardson, U.S. Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare; Clarence Mitchell, Director of the Washington Bureau of NAACP.

A large number of panel presentations were made on the currents of change in school financing and in other fields of interest in schools and school trends throughout the U.S.

One of the first back to business as usual affairs facing the superintendent and the school board was a special board meeting of the Greenville board on Thursday night for the annual review-appraisal of professional personnel. This is yearly meeting held in April in which the school board reviews and makes a personal analysis of the performance record of each teacher in the school system.

Club Plans Trip To Williamsburg

The Elm Street Senior Citizens Club met at the Greenville Recreation Center Thursday.

The Rev. Henry Lofquist, vice president, presided at the meeting. The devotion was given by the Rev. Adrian Brown.

Mrs. Sarah Ashton announced that final plans have been completed for the trip to Williamsburg, Va., on Thursday.

Mrs. Eleanor Scheipers discussed the state convention to be held in Jacksonville May 4-5.

The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon on May 18.

Educational Day Marked

"Educational Day" was observed in Seventh Day Adventist Churches throughout the world Sabbath Day, Saturday, in commemoration of the centennial of Adventist education.

Gerald Rickaby, principal of the Greenville Church School, Brookhaven, was the speaker at the 11 a.m. service. He reminded the congregation that over the years, Seventh Day Adventists have shown an abundant faith in education, acting on it by sacrificing to build, maintain, and operate church schools.

The first S. D. A. school was started June 3, 1872, in Battle Creek, Mich., with 12 students.

In mid-1970 around the world, there are 4,164 elementary schools, 394 academies, and 72 colleges. There were at that time 16,206 teachers and a total enrollment of 368,912 students, including those in pre-

Mercury Comet is wider, roomier, heftier and has a bigger engine than VW, Toyota, Datsun or Opel.

So how come the price is about the same?

	PRICE	WHEELBASE (INCHES)	OVERALL LENGTH (IN.)	CURB WEIGHT (LBS.)	FRONT TREAD (IN.)	ENGINE (CU. IN.)

The sticker prices of the imports have increased. But Mercury Comet's price has stayed about the same.

Mercury designed Comet to be the better small car. We didn't design it to be in the same price class as the little imports. It just turned out that way, thanks to recent monetary developments and cost increases. Now the sticker prices of the imports listed above have increased by at least $170 since January 1971. But Mercury Comet is within $15 of its sticker price at that time.

Mercury Comet's longer wheelbase gives a solid, smooth, comfortable ride.

Comet is a lot more automobile than the imports listed. It has a longer wheelbase, greater length, wider stance and bigger tires. So you get an amazingly smooth and comfortable ride, solid road-holding, and remarkable stability in Comet. You get a ride Mercury is proud to call its own.

Mercury Comet's bigger engine has six cylinders, not just four.

Comet's standard six-cylinder engine operates economically, yet packs up to 73.4 more cubic inches. Optional engines available include 200 and 250 cu. in. Sixes or a 302 cu. in. V-8.

Look at all the convenience and luxury features that are standard on Mercury Comet.

The Comet has an expensive look outside and in. On the outside you get a bold, handsome grille, wheel lip moldings, heavy bumpers and dual body paint stripes. Inside you'll find deep, 100% nylon carpeting, armrests front and back, foam-padded front seat cushion, deluxe steering wheel and a lighted front ashtray. All standard equipment.

Comet is built to Lincoln-Mercury's high standards.

Comet has a thick, hefty drive shaft. The doors are made of heavy-gauge steel. In fact, Comet is crafted with the same high-quality steel and acrylic enamel as the highest priced Lincoln-Mercury cars. When we call it "the better small car," it's not just a slogan. It's a fact. And with the new small-car price picture, Comet's the car to see. And drive. And own.

Mercury. Better ideas make better cars. At the sign of the cat.

Free Transit Assuming Greater Appeal

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—With automobile traffic producing a gradual paralysis in major American cities, urban planners are mulling over the idea of providing free mass transit.

Simply put, the backers of the concept hope to cut the use of automobiles by offering city and suburban dwellers fare-less bus or train rides.

Free mass transit already has moved out of the idea stage. In Rome, the city government conducted a nine-day free travel experiment earlier this year, and now is putting it into effect.

One of Rome's two bus systems reported it carried 48 per cent more passengers in the free-travel period. The ridership jumped from 1,059,163 to 1,569,947. The other company reported it carried an additional 400,000 persons a day, an increase of 44 per cent.

In the United States, Los Angeles, and Washington, D.C. have seriously discussed the idea. And, in a report to Congress earlier this year the Department of Transportation recommended that Congress consider the idea of subsidizing a limited free-mass transit program to see if the theory is practical.

A Free Expense?
But wouldn't the cost be outrageously high for U.S. cities, many of them already strapped for money to provide adequate transit service?

No, claim free-transit advocates. The end result would be directly opposite, they say. Their argument goes like this:

1. If mass transit were free, and used by persons who formerly used automobiles, there would be a significant change in city life. For example, land used in city-center areas for parking could be converted to bigger tax revenue producers for the city governments.

2. The fewer automobiles in cities, the less air pollution—over 50 per cent of which has been blamed on the automobile. Tied directly to air pollution is the damage it causes to health and the property of city dwellers, an expense seldom calculated, the proponents argue.

3. Another subtractable item would be a decline in the cost of services needed to handle auto traffic: fewer traffic policemen would be needed and there would be less cost for medical services required to cope with accident victims.

4. Free transit would provide access to jobs in the suburbs by ghetto residents and inner city poor. Many privately owned bus companies now operate only in areas which can produce a profit through high ridership. If free transit enabled unemployed city residents to find jobs, their new income would flow back to the city in terms of taxes. Increased employment also would cut a city's costs for social services needed by the unemployed, including welfare payments.

5. Switching the emphasis to free mass transit would curtail highway building in urban areas, and prevent dislocation of city dwellers, many of whom have to be rehoused at city expense.

Other Side of Token
But not everyone agrees free transit would work.

Opponents claim that it would not accomplish its main goal—relieving traffic congestion. They claim:

—It would only benefit those who already use the system, and the poor.

—It would not be enough of an incentive to make the automobile owner leave his car in the garage.

—Many of the present public transit riders can actually afford to pay more for a ride than they now do in many areas.

Since the end of World War II, mass transit systems in major cities have been on a downhill grade. Between 1950 and 1969, about 300 transit companies have abandoned operation. Income from mass transit dropped from a 1945 profit total of $149 million to a deficit in 1971 of $400 million.

As the deficits increased, little money was spent to modernize the systems. This only increased the decline as equipment grew older and less attractive to commuters.

Some help is on the way. The federal government has allocated $1 billion in mass transit aid for fiscal 1973, a 65 per cent increase over the year ending June 30.

Since 1969, the Transportation Department's urban mass transit administration has helped buy 8,000 new buses and 885 commuter railroad cars to ease city congestion.

But the size of the job is indicated by New York Mayor John V. Lindsay. New York alone will need $5 billion to refurbish its subway system, he estimates.

Records Set By Apollo 16

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16 starts home today with a record of successes and one failure.

Here's a capsule summary of the accomplishments in man's fifth moon landing:

Finding of rocks believed formed by the volcanoes which shaped the early moon.

Most rocks gathered on moon — A total 245 pounds, or 30 pounds more than the first three moon landings combined and 76 pounds more than Apollo 15.

Longest total hours exploring the moon's surface—20 hours, 14 minutes—and longest single excursion—moon drive II which lasted 7 hours, 23 minutes.

Fastest lunar speed on wheels—11 miles per hour in the rover during the third excursion.

First landing in the moon's highlands. The other landings were in maria, or plains, areas of the moon.

Largest single rock collected on the moon. The astronauts are bringing home a small boulder weighing 40 pounds.

Largest lunar crater ever visited, North Ray, three-quarters of a mile wide and 600 feet deep.

First major lunar surface experiment to fail. A power cord to the heat flow experiment was broken, ruining the device, while it was being deployed.

Plans Census Of Eagles In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — John Smith, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department non-game biologist, plans to count the bald eagles and ospreys left in Texas.

He will have some help. He has mailed 900 letters and questionnaires to field personnel and 6,000 to conservation organizations such as the National Audubon Society.

Reflector Writer's Story Is Recognized

Reflector staff writer Mrs. Blanche Hardee has had one of her articles designated "Story of the Month" by the North Carolina division of the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

The article, entitled "Stream Channelization Efforts

Discussed by Experts at Conference" dealt with a seminar on stream channelization held at East Carolina University in early March. The conference came during continuing area controversy over a precedent-making court case on whether the Chicoc Creek channelization project should be allowed to continue.

Mrs. Hardee, who has worked with The Daily Reflector since 1963, is a Pactolus resident, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harris, Jr. She and her husband, Wilbur, are active members of Tranter's Creek Church of Christ.

Seek End Fish Exploitation

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The United States believes that nations must exercise greater control over the fish stocks off their coasts to prevent exploitation of ocean resources, says a top official of the Commerce Department.

Dr. Robert M. White, administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in the Commerce Department, outlined the problems of fish exploitation in a lecture Sunday at the New Bedford Whaling Museum.

The problem of stopping exploitation of the fish stocks will not be solved, he said, as long as fish stocks beyond the 12-mile national territorial limit remain "common property" subject to exploitation by anybody and everybody.

Lindsay Wants Payless Leaves To Meet Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has requested authority to impose payless two-week furloughs on 280,000 municipal employees, as a "last resort" for closing the city's projected budget gap without "massive layoffs."

Lindsay said Sunday the involuntary furloughs were "the only course left us by the inaction of the City Council and State Legislature" regarding city fiscal needs.

The mayor has been seeking $400 million in new city borrowing power along with $227 million in new state aid from the legislature and $141 million in new local taxes from the council, to help balance a proposed $9.8 billion expense budget for the 1972-1973 fiscal year.

Lindsay said the two-week staggered furloughs would save the city approximately $110 million.

have to put on some more taxes, then I think we ought to take a look at the whole structure of taxation and decide where it would be more equitable to put it," he told the students.

On other issues, Taylor said he would hope that there is some hope of raising the per capita income in the state but he cautioned that there "is no quick, easy way to do it." He said that technical institutes that have been training people in skilled occupations will "do a whole lot in the next five or ten years to raise per capita income in this state."

The candidate said that "somewhere between the actual cost" of out-of-state college tuition and "what we are charging, we could charge too much" but he was not prepared to say whether it is too high at this time.

Taylor assured the audience that he does not have any ties with industry that he feels would affect any of his decisions as governor. "I haven't made any commitments to any industry or had any of them to contribute to my campaign to such an extent that I would be under any obligation to them," he emphasized.

He said that he basically believes in making registration and voting as easy as possible as "long as you can do so without jeopardizing the fairness of an election."

He reminded that the absentee ballot was put into effect in the primary last year and the primary date moved back from Tuesday to Saturday to make it easier for the students to vote. Taylor would not comment on what a student called "undue harassment" by State Elections executive secretary Alex Brock to prevent students from registering.

Blind, But He Sorts Silver

CHICAGO (AP) — Barry Brooks still is bucking the line despite blindness.

Brooks was a promising young football player in 1959 when he received an injury that led to blindness.

But misfortune hasn't deterred him from leading a normal family life.

Along with John McDonald, another blind man, Brooks daily sorts silverware in a 706-room motor hotel where he has been employed since 1967.

He is looking forward to the day when he can return to school.

'Obscurity' Ended By Big Playoff

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif.
(AP) — "The invisible man came through," chortled Bobby Mitchell.

The obscure Mitchell, who had complained earlier in the week that sports writers "seem to think I'm invisible—nobody ever writes about me," had just beaten pro golf's most feared competitor in a sudden-death playoff for the title in the prestigious Tournament of Champions.

The 29-year-old Mitchell rolled in a 20-foot putt on the first extra hole Sunday and beat heavily favored Jack Nicklaus for only his second victory in a pro career that dates back to the time he was a youth of 15 in Danville, Va.

"It's a great feeling," exclaimed Mitchell, who collected $33,000 from the total purse of $165,000. "It was a wonderful feeling when I won at Cleveland last year (his first tour triumph). But this was even better because I beat all the champs."

The Tournament of Champions is restricted to players who scored regular pro tour victories in the last 12 months. The awesome Nicklaus, who took the Masters and two other titles already this season, was a 4-1 favorite to successfully defend his title here.

But the odds went for nothing when Nicklaus pulled his tee shot on the par three 14th—the first playoff hole—into the deep rough and chipped six feet past.

Mitchell put his tee shot in the green below the pin and made the putt.

"I didn't really expect to make it," he admitted. "I was just trying to get it close."

Mitchell shot a final round 70 on the long, tough La Costa Country Club course and tied Nicklaus with a 72 hole total of 280.

Lee Trevino was third with a 72—282. Australian Bruce Crampton, Homero Blancas, Jerry Heard and Dave Hill tied at 284. Hill and Heard matched 72s, Crampton took a 71 and Blancas closed with the day's best round, a 67.

Nicklaus started the day with a two stroke lead and lost it on the fifth hole when he put his tee shot in a brook, reached the green in three and three-putted for a double bogey six. That put him in a tie with Mitchell. Mitchell then took the lead with a birdie on the eighth, stroking a sand wedge to five feet. He lost it with a bogey from a trap on the 14th, but got it back again on the next hole, hitting a beautiful iron shot to five feet.

He lost it again on the 17th, when he made a three-putt bogey, missing the second from two feet.

GANGWAY — New York Knickerbockers' Bill Bradley (24), drives around Boston Celtics' Dave Cowens, in their National Basketball Association semifinals playoff Sunday afternoon at Boston Garden. New York won, 111 to 103, to win best-of-seven series by 4-1.

Knicks Wouldn't Panic And That's The Story

By HARRY EISENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — "We didn't panic," explained New York Knick forward Dave DeBusschere, "and that was the ball game."

Not only was it the ball game, but it also was the series.

The Knicks moved into the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs Sunday after overcoming a 14-0 deficit and defeating the Boston Celtics 111-103, taking the Eastern Conference championship 4-1.

The Knicks will open the best-of-seven title series in Los Angeles Wednesday against the Western Conference champion Lakers.

"We had patience," said DeBusschere, who led the balanced New York attack with 24 points while grabbing 11 rebounds. "A lesser team at that point might have panicked. We pecked away, came back, and before you knew it we were within four or five points. Once we get there, we're back in the game."

The Celtics roared off to a 14-0 lead with 3:34 gone and looked like they were about to run the Knicks out of Boston Garden. New York did not get on the scoreboard until 3:45 when Bill Bradley scored on a lay-up. The Knicks fought back, however, thanks mostly to eight points by Jerry Lucas, and trailed only 27-23 at the end of the quarter.

"We just couldn't seem to get off the ground," said New York coach Red Holzman.

The Knicks, who played all but the first 1:46 of the second period without DeBusschere, who picked up his third personal foul, tied the game at 34-34 with 7:38 remaining in the half.

Weekend Of Rain Bolsters Paladins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
As far as Furman's Paladins are concerned, it can rain out the rest of the baseball season and they'll wind up with the Southern Conference championship they shared last season with The Citadel.

The past weekend was a complete washout as far as conference teams were concerned. Rain wiped out Furman-Davidson and Richmond-William and Mary doubleheaders Saturday, and East Carolina's single game at Virginia Military was postponed Sunday because of wet grounds.

With all the inaction, Furman was left on top of the standings at 8-2, followed by Richmond at 4-2, East Carolina at 5-3, The Citadel at 7-5, William and Mary at 4-4, VMI at 3-8 and Davidson at 1-8.

East Carolina was scheduled to try again today at VMI, while the Richmond-William and Mary twin bill has been reset for Tuesday.

Today's game offered East Carolina a chance to tie Richmond for second place. The Pirates have been the hottest team in the league of late, winning their last five conference starts after losing the first three.

The last two victories in that streak were over VMI last Friday night when the Pirates mauled the Keydets 14-0 and 5-0 in a doubleheader in which Tommy Toms pitched a six-hitter in the opener and Bill Godwin a one-hitter in the night-cap.

Bulls Sold

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association have been sold to the operator of the San Diego Sports Arena, but the team will remain in Chicago for at least three years, it was reported today.

The San Diego Union said the buyer was Canadian millionaire Peter Graham.

"Yes I have made the purchase," Graham told the newspaper from his home in Vancouver, B.C. "If you want it confirmed, I'm confirming it. It was me and me alone—a one-man group."

Another weekend casualty was The Citadel's scheduled game at Appalachian State, the league's newest member which isn't eligible for the championship this year.

A crucial doubleheader is scheduled Wednesday with Richmond at East Carolina with either team, if it can sweep, in position to take over second place and make a run at Furman.

Three doubleheaders Saturday also should shake up the standings quite a bit as Davidson goes to The Citadel, VMI to Richmond and East Carolina to Furman.

Giants Blew Four-Run Lead In Ninth To Houston

FALLING FOR THE PLAY—Chicago White Sox outfielder Jay Johnstone dives, misses, and watches the ball shoot away in action against the Kansas City Royals in Chicago Sunday. The hit, by

Kansas City outfielder Amos Otis, set up a scoring play which brought Otis in for a run later in the inning. Chicago won the contest, 3-2. (AP Wirephoto)

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"I'll take a four-run lead entering the ninth inning anytime," San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox said.
The Giants had it Sunday—a 7-3 edge over Houston with three outs to go. But they couldn't get those final three before the Astros got 10 runs.
"I'm not surprised by all the runs Houston is scoring," Fox said after the Astros' 13-7 triumph. "They're the most improved club in the league... We scored seven runs so it's up to our pitchers to hold 'em."
In Sunday's over National League action, the New York Mets swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and 7-6 in 12 innings; St. Louis handed Montreal its first defeat 6-1; San Diego edged Los Angeles 2-1, and, in a pair of 11-inning games, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 5-4 and Atlanta overhauled Cincinnati 4-3.

Lee May highlighted the Astros' rally with a three-run homer that put Houston ahead 8-7. "That's more hits than I get in a week," he said of the eight-hit, ninth-inning against three San Francisco hurlers.
Successive home runs in the fifth inning by Cleon Jones and Jim Fregosi carried the Mets to their opening-game triumph, and Jim Beauchamp's pinch single drove in the winning run in the extra-inning nightcap.
The Expos, the only undefeated club in the majors going into their game, were stopped by Scipio Spinks.
The tall right-hander scattered five Montreal hits while his St. Louis batterymate, Ted Simmons, gave him all the runs he needed with a two-run single in the first inning.
Clay Kirby went the route for the Padres, scattering six hits to end the Dodgers' six-game winning streak. Derrel Thomas gave him the winning run with a tie-breaking bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the eighth inning.

Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski's fielding lapse helped Pittsburgh go ahead; then he beat the Pirates with his bat.
In the top of the ninth, with the Phils leading 3-2, Luzinski misplayed Richie Hebner's fly ball to left field, allowing it to drop for a double that enabled Pittsburgh to score a pair of runs.
But in the bottom of the ninth, he atoned for his misplay, unloading a towering homer that tied the score 4-4.

And in the 11th, he slammed a triple, then raced home with the winning run on pinch-hitter Tommy Hutton's two-out single.
In Atlanta, the Braves also gave, then took back, allowing the Reds to score a pair of runs in the top of the 11th, then charging back for three in the bottom of the inning.
Hank Aaron's second homer of the season and 641st of his career brought the Braves an eighth-inning 1-1 tie and Darrell Evans' solo shot with two out in the 11th started them back toward victory.
Mike Lum's single, Jim Breazeale's run-scoring pinch-double and Felix Millan's single finished off Cincinnati.

Jim Ryun On Comeback Trail Wins Glenn Cunningham Mile

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The track world had reason to wonder today whether world record holder Jim Ryun once more is the Jim Ryun of old.
Ryun, hitting a comeback trail he hopes will lead to an Olympic Gold Medal, outran a classy field Saturday to win the Glenn Cunningham Mile in the Kansas Relays in 3 minutes 57.1 seconds.
Ryun, now with 29 competitive sub-four-minute miles to his credit, was asked about his Olympic preparation timetable after the race and replied:

"I feel like I'm making some progress. A time of 3:57 is right on pace for the Olympic Trials."
If Ryun, who emerged from retirement of some 18 months little more than a year ago, makes the Olympic Trials, he will compete in the 1,500 meters in which he holds the world record. He also has the world's best times ever in the mile and the one-half mile.
Ryun doesn't know right now when he will run again. He said he plans to sit down with Bob Timmons, the Kansas track coach under whom Ryun is training, and work out a schedule.

Ryun, admittedly bothered by the delay in the race's start, was pleased that he was able to respond to the brief challenge of Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Track Club on the last lap which Ryun ran in 53.8.
"I didn't particularly feel good in the race at all," Ryun said. "On the final lap, I began to move and I felt good then. If I could have done 3:55, it would have been great. I thought I'd run faster."
Ryun dropped behind a couple of times before streaking ahead by six yards coming into the stretch and held that advantage the rest of the way.

"Yes, 3:57 is right on pace for the Olympic Trials. ..." Ryun observed.
LACROSS VICTORY
LIVERPOL, England, (AP) — Dick Crawshaw strode to what he claimed was a world record non-stop walking championship Sunday—230.9 miles in 67 hours, five minutes.
The 54-year-old Crawshaw, topped the old European record of 201.13 miles after plodding round the motorcycle track for 56 hours.

Sport Briefs

TONE, England (AP) — Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, whose car experienced steering problems while braking, held off a serious challenge from Jean Pierre Beltoise of France and won the Daily Express International Formula I auto race Sunday.
Fittipaldi finished just three seconds in front of Beltoise as he covered the 40 laps of 117 miles in 23 minutes, 42.7 seconds. His average speed was 131.19 miles per hour.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Betty Burfeindt of Caanan, N.Y., finished with a three-round total of 212, four under par, to win the Ladies Professional Golf Association Birmingham Centennial Classic by two strokes Sunday.
Her first pro victory earned her $4,500. She had rounds of 71, 70 and 71 on the par-72 Spring Valley Country Club Course.
A Nashville, Tenn., golfer, Murie Breer, finished second and won $3,400.
BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Larry Young, an Olympic medal winner in Mexico City in 1968, says he may double in the 20-kilometer walk as well as his specialty, the 50-kilometer, in the Games in Munich, Germany this summer.
Young, who says he needs speed work, finished first Sunday in the National Amateur Athletic Union Senior 20-kilometer event at C. W. Post College. His time was 1 hour, 32 minutes, 43.1 seconds. He was almost 200 yards in front of Ron Daniel of the New York Athletic club, who finished second.
SIGN LONDONER
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis soccer stars announced Sunday they have signed John Sewell of the English Football League. Sewell, 31, played right back and was captain of the Crystal Palace team of London.

STEEL AGAINST POLYSTEEL
Here's the Custom Power Cushion Polysteel tire you've seen on TV, matched against dozens of vicious hardened-steel drill bits and the Goodyear Polysteel tire won!

POLYSTEEL

CUSTOM POWER CUSHION TIRE

Here's steel cord belt strength with polyester cord smoothness, in a great long-wearing tire.
Goodyear builds it with two belts of steel cord for long-lasting resistance to impact and penetration. (You wouldn't run over steel drill bits the way we did here — but the demonstration illustrates how tough the steel belts really are.)

Then Goodyear makes the long mileage easy to take, with a flexible, polyester cord body to soak up the shocks.
The brute strength of steel. The road-softening smoothness of polyester. Both in this superb new tire.

The service system of tomorrow. Built into every new Volkswagen today.

Imagine owning a car that can tell you how it feels. When Volkswagen dealerships start to receive their computers later this year, you'll be able to drive in, have your 1972 Volkswagen plugged into the computer, and get it straight from your car what's right or wrong.
How does it work?

Every 1972 Volkswagen has a network of sensors and check points built into critical areas like the engine and electrical system. These sensors work like nerves.

When they're attached to the computer by a simple socket in the back of the car, the sensors relay the condition of vital areas.

In the time it takes a mechanic to collect his tools, the computer checks things like front wheel alignment, engine compression, and battery voltage.

And gives you the results in plain English. The computer will be at Volkswagen dealers starting later this year, so you can come in and let our brain take the load off yours.

War Heats Up In S. Viet Central Highlands

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
PLEIKU, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's rolling, unpopulated central highlands used to be a war theater where neither side tried very hard to win, an "economy of force" war in military terms. Until Sunday night.

Then 20 North Vietnamese tanks roared in along a dirt road from Laos. Heavy artillery guns opened up from hidden mountain positions. A South Vietnamese division headquarters was engulfed and overrun.

Americans and South Vietnamese in Pleiku, the highlands capital, have for weeks been forecasting that the major drive of the current general offensive would come here.

"The enemy actions at Quang Tri and An Loc are limited. He wants Kontum, Pleiku and Binh Dinh provinces and will try for them soon," argued the senior American adviser for the region, John Paul Vann.

Saigon was slow to get the message. Government forces have always been extremely thin in the highlands. In Kontum Province the two regiments of the 22nd Infantry Division had been beefed up earlier in the year with a division of airborne troops. But when the Communist offensive began across the demilitarized zone three weeks ago, President Nguyen Van Thieu tried to take the airborne from the highlands and send them north.

"We fought like hell to keep them here," one senior American said. "Saigon was not interested in us. They thought it was the same war up here, the economy of force war, and that the enemy objectives were limited."

It took the loss of the coastal district of Hoai An, and three fire bases on "Rocket Ridge" above Kontum last week, to get Saigon's joint general staff really interested in what was happening.

The air over Pleiku got thick with generals in helicopters. U.S. Air Force transports swarmed through the skies with supplies, recalling the huge American buildup in the highlands in 1966-67.

But American military advisers in the Kontum area say it's all too late and too little.

"We will just have to get used to the idea of losing a lot more territory," commented an American major wounded early last week. "The other side obviously means business, and there is little we can or will do about it."

Hanoi has amassed a powerful force in Kontum, twice as big as anything sent there in the past, according to American intelligence assessments.

Two full North Vietnamese infantry divisions, the 2nd and the 320th, are aimed at the Dak To valley, Highway 14 and Kontum, assisted by two independent regiments of infantrymen, an artillery regiment and a sapper regiment.

This means 15,000 men backed by tanks and heavy artillery threatening Kontum.

The Hanoi battle plan goes far beyond Kontum. Senior Americans have expressed amazement at its boldness. It apparently calls for isolating the cities in the highlands by cutting the highway arteries, then taking the airstrips under direct fire. The ultimate aim seems to be to defeat Saigon on the highlands battlefield and capture major cities.

Step One was to take the An Khe pass and cut Route 19 between the coastal supply bases and Pleiku and Kontum. North Vietnamese forces did that two weeks ago and have not budged from the pass. Americans believe the enemy will soon cut the secondary route to the highlands, Highway 21 from Nha Trang.

Step Two is to slice up the region some more, cutting Highway 14 between Pleiku and Kontum cities, and Highway 1 between Qui Nhon and the northern districts of Binh Dinh Province, which is the most densely-populated province in the country with one million people.

Step Three is to start battering the regular Saigon forces in the region. Bruising preliminary battles have already cut several infantry and airborne battalions to pieces.

The Kontum battlefield is getting all the attention. But Americans in coastal Binh Dinh see a major enemy effort against the population there. Hoai An district and its 32,000 people were lost last week. Nearby Hoai Nhon District seems destined next, with vulnerable Tam Quan District following.

"This means 200,000 people lost, and to think that two months ago we thought the war here was won," said a senior American in Qui Nhon.

The pessimistic outlook for Binh Dinh is based on the imbalance of the sides, tipped in favor of the North Vietnamese. Senior Americans believe the only hope for the highlands and the coastal region in the long run is the proven inability of Hanoi to long sustain military drives.

However, two important factors could change this picture radically. The performances of Saigon's regular forces in the region have been spotty at best. There have been frequent reports of infantry battalions fleeing in panic. At Hoai An District the defenders threw away their weapons and changed into civilian clothes. A panic among the remaining forces in Kontum could bring disaster.

The second factor is the endurance of the North Vietnamese. Hanoi has been preparing this drive for at least two years.

Broadway Shows By Newcomers Capture Top Tony Award Honors

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Sticks and Bones" and "Two Gentlemen of Verona," Broadway shows written by newcomers, swept top honors for an exciting finale to the 26th annual Tony Awards ceremony before a star-studded audience.

The top drama was "Sticks and Bones," written by 31-year-old Vietnam veteran David Rabe. "Two Gentlemen," written by John Guare and Mel Shapiro, was named the best musical.

The top acting awards for musical performance presented during Sunday night's ceremony went to Alexis Smith of "Follies" and Phil Silvers, who arrived just two weeks ago in a revival of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Cliff Gorman of "Lenny" and Sada Thompson of "Twigs" garnered the top drama acting prizes.

Supporting musical awards went to Larry Blyden, also in "Forum," and to Linda Hopkins, who appeared in "Inner City," which closed three months ago.

In the drama supporting categories the winners were Vincent Gardenia of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" and Elizabeth Wilson of "Sticks and Bones."

"Sticks and Bones" is the story of a blinded soldier returning home from the war to his family. "Two Gentlemen" is a lighthearted romp through the Shakespeare comedy. It moves to rock and Latin American beats and blues type jazz. Guare and Shapiro shared a Tony for their book.

The honors for the two shows were a double victory for the lively theatrical organization headed by Joseph Papp. He originally produced both shows—off Broadway.

"Follies," a musical that opened a year ago but was eligible for consideration now under Tony deadline regulations, won seven silver medallions in the 18 competitive categories, the most for a single production.

By coincidence the ceremonies took place on the 408th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. His posthumous assist to 1972 creativity was the only overseas tinge amid all the presentations. For the first time in many years all the awards were won by Americans.

Tony recipients in other competitive categories were: musical score, Stephen Sondheim, "Follies;" musical director, Harold Prince and Michael Bennett, jointly, "Follies;" choreographer, Bennett, "Follies;" play director, Mike Nichols, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue;" Three other "Follies" awards were to Boris Aronson, scenic design; Florence Klotz, costumes; and Tharon Musser, lighting.

Special awards for distinguished accomplishment through long careers were presented to musical star Ethel Merman and composer Richard Rodgers, both of whom participated in quick-tempo reprises of conspicuous triumphs. Harold Prince got a medallion citation on behalf of "Fiddler on the Roof," which on June 17 becomes the longest running show in Broadway history. Also honored was the Theater Guild-American Theater Society which supervises subscription bookings for shows on tour.

FBI Leads Area Session

ROCKY MOUNT — A conference for area law enforcement officials dealing with attacks on law enforcement and related urban crime problems will be conducted by the federal Bureau of Investigation here Wednesday according to Robert M. Murphy, Special Agent in Charge of the Charlotte FBI office.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the conferences to be held in every state, will inform local and state law enforcement authorities concerning attacks on police, incendiary and bombing activities, thefts of firearms, and other terrorist acts of violence.

According to Hoover, many robberies and thefts of firearms and explosives are committed by revolutionaries to support their terrorist activities.

"Only by keeping informed on the current tactics of these extremist forces can law enforcement expect to cope with them," the FBI director explained.

The Rocky Mount conference will be attended by law enforcement personnel, prosecutors and members of the judiciary. Leading law enforcement officials will participate in panel discussions.

City Named For Old Plantation

VALDOSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The city of Valdosta is named after the plantation of former Georgia Gov. George M. Troupe, which was known in 1860 as "Val d'Aosta." The town was first created in 1859 in Lowndes County to meet the first railroad in the area, but had to be moved four miles when the railroad missed the city by that distance.

Three Injured From Collision

Three persons were reported injured in a 9 p.m. Saturday collision on Charles Street, 300 feet South of the Southview Drive intersection.

Police reported cars driven by Anne Cahill Woodard, 17 of 2206 S. Charles St. and John Allen Tucker, 17 of Route 9, Greenville, were involved in the collision and that both drivers and a passenger in the Woodard vehicle were injured.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the Woodard car and $300 to the Tucker vehicle.

Tucker was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Ned Cottle is a farmer but he talks like a chain store operator. In a sense, he's that too.

Cottle is applying the supermarket-chain store concept to fruit and vegetable marketing on the farm, and it's having a terrific impact on his success as a farmer, according to Woody Upchurch, agricultural information specialist at N. C. State University.

He grows strawberries — about 30 acres of them — at Faison, Goldsboro and Jacksonville, for a customer-harvest trade. He plans to expand his chain this year to New Bern and other eastern North Carolina areas.

In addition, he will grow two crops of southern peas in the Jacksonville area this summer. These, too, will be picked by the customer.

"It's the best way to market these kinds of crops," said Cottle, who also grows some 200 acres of corn and soybeans at his home farm near Faison. "I don't believe I would ever try to grow strawberries on a large scale under any other marketing system."

Cottle is one of a growing number of North Carolina farmers who have turned to customer-harvest fruit and vegetable production in recent years. Virtually every population center of any size has such plantings, but there doesn't seem to be enough.

Cottle has gone a step further than most growers and is developing a chain of what he calls "U-pick" fields at carefully selected and well managed locations.

"Ned is taking a good idea and developing it to its full potential," commented Frank Baker, Wayne County agricultural extension agent who has worked closely with Cottle on production problems. "He pays attention to the little details that mean so much to the success of U-pick operations."

Cottle's comments reflected what Baker spoke about.

"Location is of prime importance," he said. "The customers have got to be able to find the field easily." And, just like a supermarket owner, Cottle looks for a place with plenty of parking.

Customer comfort is another detail that doesn't escape Cottle. This means keeping the field clear of weeds, keeping the area attractive and making the customers feel welcomed.

Unlike some customer-harvest operators, Cottle believes in inviting the whole family, including the children. And he doesn't mind revealing his motive. "The more members of the family come, the more strawberries they'll pick," he commented. "Sure, they'll eat about a pint apiece, but I would expect to lose that many if I hired pickers."

Cottle plants and cultivates all of his strawberries but hires a manager at each site to handle marketing. The manager usually hires one or two others to help with the crowds.

And the customers do come in crowds. On a recent Sunday, Cottle estimated some 600 people came to pick strawberries at his Jacksonville site.

Some come strictly to get strawberries. For others, it's a family outing. And for a few urban types, it's a new experience.

"We get people in here who think strawberries grow on trees," Cottle said. "They take pictures of their children picking berries and send them back to grandma. And we get customers of all ages. I talked with an 84 year-old woman at Jacksonville the other day who picked 32 quarts of strawberries and said she enjoyed every minute of it."

Farm Scene

By SAMUEL J. WEEKS

According to an estimate made by the Extension Entomologist at North Carolina State University, cost of tobacco insect control (including nematodes) plus the cost of application, amounted to approximately three times the total loss caused by insects. Tobacco growers can reduce these costs by conducting a successful tobacco insect management program on their respective farms. Such programs can be conducted with little effort, time or cost merely by incorporating various control methods into an overall program.

A successful tobacco insect pest management system is based on three steps: (1) use of insecticides only as needed based on insect population counts, (2) an effective job of chemical sucker control, and (3) destruction of stalks immediately after harvest.

A pilot program on tobacco insect management was conducted in three areas of the state in 1971. Each of these areas was located in the different tobacco producing belts. Approximately 12,000 acres of the state in 1971. Each of these areas was located in the different tobacco producing belts. Approximately 12,000 acres of tobacco were involved in the three areas. Approximately 40 "scouts" were employed in the project to check tobacco fields weekly for injurious and beneficial insects. Weekly reports were made to growers indicating if their fields warranted an insecticide application or not.

Based on the 1971 pilot program it is evident that many advantages can be gained by following an insect pest management program on tobacco. Some of the advantages are (1) the number of insecticide applications can be reduced without a loss of either yield or price, increasing net profits by lowering production costs; (2) using only recommended insecticides as needed insecticide residues can be reduced, assuring continued market acceptability by domestic and foreign buyers; (3) hazards to applicators, growers and field workers by insecticides can be reduced; (4) by using fewer applications of less persistent insecticides, environmental contamination can be reduced; (5) by using insecticides only as needed when pest populations build up, fewer beneficial insects are killed.

It is suggested that there should be five or more budworms on 50 plants to justify insecticide application. Also, there should be five hornworms one inch or longer on 50 plants to merit insecticide use.

Saleslady Is 'Too Good'

DENVER, Colo. (UPI)—Elda L. Morrow is a traveling saleslady but no one makes jokes about her. She's too good. Miss Morrow is a classified directory saleswoman for Mountain Bell Telephone Company in Denver, the only woman sales representative in the company.

"It's just fantastic," she says about her job. "I like the job because it is like having your own business and you make of it what you put into it."

"I guess I like it also because of the variety since there's always someone new to see." Her track record since taking the job is as impressive as her enthusiasm. Miss Morrow's accounts already have shown an increase over last year.

"It just comes naturally," Miss Morrow says, "because I like to talk to people." She also says one of the tricks in selling is to "believe in what you do. If you believe it, the customer believes it."

"In a salesman's job, you have to be able to bounce back and you can't let the setbacks keep you down."

Miss Morrow started with Mountain Bell, a subsidiary of American Telephone & Telegraph, in Phoenix, Ariz., and later moved to directory telephone sales before coming to Denver as a sales training supervisor. When a chance arose for the traveling sales job, she grabbed it.

"I haven't had any real problems, but sometimes customers are surprised to see a directory saleswoman," Miss Morrow says. As far as the fellows I work with, they've been great to me. In fact, some of the other salesmen are my greatest boosters."

HONORED PEST

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (UPI)—What is reportedly the world's only monument to an insect is located on the town square here. The huge boll weevil monument is a tribute to the area's switch from the insect-plagued cotton economy to a more diversified industrial way of life.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

Tobacco mosaic is one of our oldest known diseases. It is caused by a highly contagious virus. The virus is spread by contact and has been known to live in cured and stored tobacco for 50 years. Mosaic often originates in the plant bed and is caused by the mosaic virus in manufactured tobacco coming in contact with the young tobacco seedlings. Once the infested plant is transplanted in the field, it is easy to spread the disease to other plants by contact. Losses caused by this disease vary to some extent between seasons, but little progress has been made in reducing losses during the past 25 years.

Considerable research has been done on the use of plain, ordinary milk for the control of mosaic of tobacco. It has been found that the use of milk in any form at transplanting time will greatly reduce losses. Two types of treatment have been used: (1) Spraying. This consists of spraying the plant bed 24 hours before pulling the plants with five gallons of whole or skim milk, or five pounds of dried skim milk mixed with five gallons of water, applied to 100 square yards of bed. (2) Dipping. This consists of dipping the hands about every 20 minutes in whole or skim milk, or a mixture of one pound of dried skim milk to one gallon of water. The hands are dipped during pulling and transplanting in the field.

In experiments conducted to test the effect of milk in controlling this disease, hands of workers handling tobacco plants were contaminated with the mosaic virus. Plots of tobacco were planted where treatment was not used, where the plants were sprayed, where the hands were dipped, and where spray and dip were used. At the Whiteville Station, the spray treatment produced 446 pounds more tobacco per acre and sold for $326 per acre more than the tobacco grown in the untreated check plot. The dip treatment was more effective than the spray.

More marketable tobacco

more profit for you...

with Lannate

Test results and grower experience show dramatic proof that LANNATE gives you more of what you buy an insecticide for:

■ More hole-free tobacco.

■ Near perfect control of key tobacco insects budworm, hornworm, flea beetle, aphids, cabbage looper.

■ The hit-and-run killer—after LANNATE has done its job, it breaks down into harmless materials.

■ Combination contact/stomach action—LANNATE knocks 'em off their feet and gets 'em while they eat!

■ Low use-cost per acre. One two-pound can of 90% active LANNATE covers 4 to 8 acres.

■ It's easy to use, completely soluble. And it's easy on sprayers and tobacco because it contains no abrasives or solvents.

That's why LANNATE is the No. 1 insecticide for quality tobacco!

As LANNATE is a highly toxic chemical and protective equipment is required. Read and follow label instructions and warnings carefully.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠105 ♠AK963 ♠A75 ♠J32

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 Pass 3 Pass

3 Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. In this case nothing is to be gained by showing the anemic five-card heart suit, and it might easily elude partner into taking more aggressive action than is warranted.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠712 ♠852 ♠97432 ♠K6

What is your response?

A.—While it is our practice to stretch a point to keep alive an opening bid of one club, we do not feel justified in such action in this particular hand with only one king and no distributional advantages. A pass is therefore clearly indicated.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AJ104 ♠AJ ♠QJ105 ♠KJ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 Pass 1 Pass

3 Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A rebid of one spade is our clear choice. The hand contains only 17 points in high cards and is therefore two points short of the requirements for a jump to two no trump. On hands of this type we find that it is superior strategy to open with one no trump in the first place.

Q. 8—As South, you hold:

♠K62 ♠AQ9753 ♠K742

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 Pass 1 Pass

5 Pass 6 Pass

Pass Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—The slam double convention should not apply to this case for it is very clear that East is sacrificing against your bid of five hearts because he cannot stand his partner's double. As the bidding has developed it is reasonable to suppose that West, the dummy, has a good spade suit, so that the king of spades is trapped. There is a great likelihood that East is void of hearts and the recommended lead, therefore, is the two of diamonds. It would be very surprising if partner did not have the ace of that suit.

Q. 4—You are South, vulnerable, and you hold:

♠K6 ♠1094 ♠AK982 ♠KQ5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 Pass 3 Pass

3 Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This is to enable partner to contract for three no trump if he has a heart stopper. Do not fall into the error of bidding four diamonds, for a contract of 11 tricks might be out of reach.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

Wrong Notions About Health

NEW YORK (UPI)—When it comes to health, most Americans know a lot less than they think they know, says the Health Insurance Institute. Among the wrong notions held by most Americans are: a steady diet of red meat can cause high blood pressure; the primary cause of diabetes is eating too much sugar; rapid pulse, fatigue, low blood pressure are warning signs of a possible stroke. All these statements are false.

Newborn fish do not have scales; they grow out later from under the skin.

Consumption Up Of Fruit Juice

SYDNEY (UPI)—The Census Bureau reports that the introduction of canned citrus drinks has boosted Australia's consumption of citrus fruits from around 24 pounds in 1939 to more than 39 pounds today. But Australians are eating less fresh fruits and vegetables than ever before, turning more to canned and frozen fruits and vegetables.

More Protein In Early Hay

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Hay cut at an early stage of growth has a higher protein content than that harvested at a mature stage, according to pasture specialists at Texas A&M University. The experts say harvesting young plants means lower yield per cutting, but that the total yields per year, in many cases, are just as high as if the crop had been allowed to grow tall.

Group Rate For Abortions

Weekly Plane Full But Never Popular

By MARLYN SCHWARTZ
Dallas News Writer
Written for Associated Press
DALLAS (AP) — There's a special group fare flight that leaves Dallas every Saturday for Los Angeles. It's always full but never popular.

To qualify for the group rate you have to need an abortion. "Do you know what it's like having to face something like 'his'?" said Carol D., a Dallas school teacher in her mid 20s who was one of the women who made the 24-hour trip on a recent weekend.

"They tell you it's safe and legal in New York or California but it's still an operation and you still have to face it alone. That's the worst part, being alone. How many husbands or friends can afford an extra $120 to go along and hold your hand?"

The "group" trip is sponsored by Problem Pregnancy Information Services which has telephone answering services in Dallas and Houston.

They offer a "package" deal—plane, transportation, doctor, motel, hospital and counseling—all at a reduced rate of $346.

Miss D. arrived at the Dallas airport with just a small overnight bag which she carried with her on the plane.

The "group" was flying on a regularly scheduled airliner and the waiting room was full.

Tom Grant, who was among the Los Angeles "welcoming committee," could have easily been a tour director meeting a group about to embark on a tour of California.

He and a girl named Candy quickly checked to make sure that no one was missing and divided the arrivals into groups of 15.

About 70 women from Dallas and Houston were in for the weekend.

They were for the most part in their early 20s. The youngest was 15 and accompanied by an older sister. There were three women over 40. One husband, one boy friend and one mother made the trip. Forty per cent were married.

"There will be a counseling session at 7 tonight," said Grant. "We'll go over tomorrow's procedure step by step. We'll also be given a brief talk on birth control. You might find it informative."

For some reason, the remark broke the ice. The women began to laugh and look to each other for reassurances.

The counseling session lasted for about an hour. The atmosphere was somewhat reminiscent of a sorority rush orientation.

"I think the worst part of all," said a 23-year-old, "was keeping this from my two younger sisters. My parents know and are being wonderful. But I'm their big sister. I'm supposed to set a good example."

"You ought to tell them," said the sister of the 15-year-old. "I had an abortion four years ago, illegally, in New Mexico. Afterwards I told my mother we were going to have to start telling the younger girls about birth control. She was shocked and avoided the subject. So look who I'm here with."

"I've got three children I'm crazy about," said one. "But my husband and I just can't afford to have another child, mentally or financially. It almost tore us apart to make this decision. But there was no other choice."

For most it was a long night. Miss D. packed her bag and took everything with her because she would be leaving the hospital to go directly to the airport.

The women met in the motel lobby which by 5 a.m. was quite full. Everyone seemed a bit quiet and some a little pale. The hospital was small, about 22 beds, and privately owned by several doctors. The only procedures being done there on Sunday were abortions.

The women had been told they would receive a mild anesthetic that would put them to sleep for about an hour.

One doctor would be operating on the approximately 40 patients in this particular group.

One by one, the girls were carted into the hall and then into the operating room. The doctor spent about three minutes for each procedure, waiting a few minutes and starting on another. It was run with mechanical precision.

The assembly line aspect caused anger among some of the women.

Grant noted that some of the girls working with the service are there because of a personal experience.

"I was pregnant when I was 19 and living in Florida," said one. "My family doctor told me he could arrange an abortion for $700. I was sent to a restaurant where I was blindfolded and taken to a house. It was horrible. And still after all that, I was still pregnant. I had the baby and put it up for adoption. I don't want anyone else to ever have to go through that."

About an hour after the first operation, the first girl was brought back to her room from the recovery room. She was awake and saying that she was glad it was over.

The PPIS people visited each room to ward off any post-operative depression. They also announced breakfast would be served shortly.

When the food did arrive, the women were touched to find a fresh, long-stemmed carnation on each tray.

"I know this is going to affect me for the rest of my life," said Miss D. "I don't feel anything right now except relief. But it's the kind of thing that hits you later, and you never quite forget. You can walk away from the hospital, but you can't walk away from that."

She arose, put on her clothes and prepared to go home.

N.C. Traffic Claimed 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North Carolina Highway Patrol reported 12 deaths on Tar Heel roads over the weekend. The number brought the toll for the year to 516, an increase of seven over a year ago.

Seven of the victims were in collisions. They were identified as: Samuel L. Lewis, 20, of Tarboro, who died in a head-on collision near Rocky Mount that injured three others; Susan A. McKinnon, 26, of Rocky Mount and Nathaniel Durant, 40, of Elm City, whose car hit a tractor-trailer on U.S. 301 near Sharnburg; Charles Hegepeth, 46, and Moses Williams, 60, both of Enfield, whose car turned into the path of another vehicle at an intersection near their home; Charles Pinnix, 25, of Mebane, who died in a two-car wreck near Haw River on N.C. 49; and William M. Triplett of Lenoir, 61, who died in a three-car accident on N.C. 16 south of Newton.

The patrol said four persons died in single car accidents, when their cars overturned or struck and obstacle. They were identified as Aubrey Thompson, 20, of Concord; Ruth B. Jones, whose car ran off N.C. 211 in Hoke County; John C. Royal of Clinton, 44, whose car hit a tree near Salem; and Thomas N. Ellington, 23, of Henderson, whose car flipped back and forth on 185 near Norlina before crushing him.

One pedestrian, Rufus Horne, 20, was killed when a car struck him on U.S. 220 near his home in Greensboro.

Three Democrat Events Slated In Greenville

Hugh Winslow, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, announced that three events have been scheduled in Greenville during May and June.

Winslow said that the Biennial Pitt County Convention will be held at the Courthouse here on May 27, beginning at 2 p.m. On June 10, a Saturday, the First Congressional District Convention will convene at 1 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The committee chairman reported also that biennial precinct meetings will be held in each precinct at the polling place of each precinct on Tuesday, May 9, at 8 p.m. Precinct committees, delegates and alternates will be elected at these meetings, he pointed out.

The first Boy Scout troop in America was organized in Pawhuska, Okla., in 1909.

Two Honored By Coastal Council

Two Greenville women were honored at the spring meeting of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, held Wednesday in Marston Pavilion at Camp Lejeune.

Mrs. James Smith was presented the highest award in adult recognition, the Thanks Badge, for the 10 years she served as a troop leader, trainer, board member, and 1969 and 1972 delegate to the national conventions.

As chairman of the Council Camp Committee for the past three years, Mrs. Smith has served to procure new property and to direct the equipping and renovation of existing facilities. The recently completed construction and improvements to the buildings and grounds at Camp Hardee were under her personal supervision.

Mrs. Smith was also named an alternate delegate to the national council meeting to be held in Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Gail Jones, also of Greenville, received a certificate of appreciation for her years of service as a troop leader, neighborhood service team member, council volunteer training coordinator, and her work with Girl Scouts in national and international "Wider Opportunities."

Pennsylvania Primary Campaign Winds Up Today

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie aimed television appeals at the state's major cities while Sens. George McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey went directly to the people in today's campaign windup for Tuesday's Pennsylvania Democratic presidential primary.

Many observers place Humphrey ahead in the preference poll, but Muskie's backers say the support of Gov. Milton J. Shapp and Philadelphia Democratic Chairman Peter J. Camiel will enable them to elect a majority of delegates.

McGovern, meanwhile, was buoyed by a new poll, showing him running ahead for Tuesday's Massachusetts primary, so the South Dakota senator spent today concentrating on votes in Pennsylvania.

He planned to blitz the state with stops at Philadelphia, West Chester, Chester, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Altoona and Allentown, then end the day in Boston.

Humphrey also planned a heavy round of personal campaigning by scheduling a helicopter tour of economically depressed southwestern Pennsylvania. The Minnesota senator predicted he would score a major victory in Pennsylvania.

Muskie of Maine centered his campaign stops in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and counted heavily on a tough, new television speech accusing President Nixon of "closed door deals" and tax giveaways. He demanded his rivals join his call for a 90-day freeze on food prices and executive salaries.

Pennsylvania Democrats will choose among Humphrey, Muskie, McGovern, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington in a nonbinding preference contest. They will also elect 137 of the state's 183 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Massachusetts will pick all of its 102 delegates Tuesday. The difference is that the delegates the voters pick will have to vote on the first convention ballot for the candidate who carries their district, or, in the case of at-large delegates, the state.

With McGovern planning only a wrapup stop in Boston, the only one of the 11 Democrats on the Massachusetts ballot spending all today in the state was Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas.

Mills planned to attend a rally in industrial Lowell after charging Sunday that President Nixon has turned a robust economy into a stagnant one by economic "ineptitude."

McGovern, who won the endorsement Sunday of the liberal Americans for Democratic Action, cautioned his Massachusetts supporters against paying too much attention to a new poll by the Boston Globe.

The poll published Sunday gave McGovern 43 per cent, Muskie 19 per cent, almost a complete reversal of a poll published Feb. 13. The latest poll was a continuation of a trend registered in a sampling a week earlier that gave McGovern 38 per cent and Muskie 27 per cent.

Speaking to a Knights of Columbus breakfast in Medford, near Boston, McGovern said he hopes to show that his appeal has spread from the suburbs and campuses to working class areas.

Muskie, abruptly canceling a last-minute campaign trip to be Massachusetts where some of his supporters are privately conceding defeat, received enthusiastic receptions in Polish-American parts of northeastern Pennsylvania before returning to Philadelphia for appearances at Polish, Jewish and black gatherings.

Muskie's television speech, taped Saturday morning, was carried in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Sunday night and was scheduled for showing, in part or in full, on some two dozen stations in all major Pennsylvania cities today.

The Maine Democrat said a vote for him Tuesday would be a vote to freeze food prices, change America and reform taxes.

"This is the first round in the fight to move President Nixon out of the White House," Muskie said. "This is the first round in our fight for economic justice."

Humphrey's victory prediction came in an appearance Sunday on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation," broadcast from Pittsburgh.

"I'm going to win this one," the Minnesota senator predicted. But he hedged on his chances of taking a majority of the 137 delegates, saying, "I think we can get a plurality." McGovern has predicted he will win a majority of the 239 delegates to be picked in the two states Tuesday.

Humphrey said he would back McGovern or any other

"good Democrat" chosen to head the party's ticket. He said he does not consider Wallace to be a card-carrying Democrat.

Wallace spent Saturday in Pennsylvania, addressing more than 5,000 in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena in his only major appearance in the state. Jackson has not campaign here, preferring to get a head start on the May 2 Ohio primary.

Plan Coffee House Night

A Christian Coffee House Night, at the Music Factory on East 14th Street, has been set for Saturday, April 29, at 7:30 p.m.

This event is being offered to the Greenville community and Pitt County area by a group of East Carolina University students, Greenville ministers and concerned laymen interested in youth.

Ricky Mills, district director of Campus Crusade for Christ, will be in attendance to meet with and talk to young people. Mills, a graduate of the University of Georgia where he played on the varsity basketball team, has traveled across the United States of America, the Orient, and South America as a member of semi-pro basketball teams. He spent one year on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley. He now works with university students on campuses throughout North Carolina.

A spokesman for the sponsoring committee declared that if this initial service receives a "hearty response," an effort will be made to provide a continuation of this "coffee house" ministry for young people at a future date.

Raleigh Hotel Sold To Group

RALEIGH (AP) — The sale of the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh for $1,320,000 to a group headed by Durham attorney Robinson Everett is expected to be completed May 1.

"It is the realization of a longtime dream to be involved in the purchase of the Sir Walter," Everett said. It is now owned by First Federal Savings and Loan Co.

Everett said the group plans to continue renovations started by First Federal, which obtained the hotel from Kidd Brewer last August.

"The Sir Walter has always been the keystone to Raleigh's convention business and we plan to follow this tradition," he added.

World's Fair Books Closed

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven years after the 1964-65 New York World's Fair ended the books finally have been closed.

Robert Moses, president of the fair corporation, said the bondholders would get back 62.4 cents on the dollar.

The Great Wall of China was built to keep out wild Tartar horsemen.
