Air Armada Failing Turn Red Tide Back

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked within six miles of Hue today after seizing a fire base north of the old imperial capital. Other enemy forces captured the last South Vietnamese stronghold in the northern part of coastal Binh Dinh Province.

A massive U.S. air armada of Air Force, Navy and Marine planes made hundreds of strikes against North Vietnamese positions in South Vietnam, but again showed no immediate signs of turning the tide.

In the heaviest raids in more than four years, U.S. fighter-bombers flew 618 strikes in all four military regions of South Vietnam, about two-thirds of them in the northernmost provinces of Quang Tri and Thua Thien in efforts to forestall an attack on Hue.

Following the debacle in Quang Tri, Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander in the northernmost military region 1, is being replaced.

Vietnamese marines abandoned Fire Base Nancy about 22 miles north of Hue Tuesday after a tank battle. The marines fell back to the My Chang River line, the main defensive position about 20-25 miles north of Hue.

One-quarter of Hue's 200,000 population already has fled, fearing a repeat of the 1968 Tet offensive slaughter in which Communist troops seized and held most of the city for about a month and executed more than 3,000 residents.

Landing Zone English, on the central coast, crumbled after two days of savage attacks that destroyed its artillery and ammunition and inflicted heavy casualties on the South Vietnamese defenders. The several hundred remaining Saigon troops and their families withdrew under the cover of darkness and marched to the coast to ships that carried them to the provincial capital, Qui Nhon.

The fall of English, a regimental command post, completed a sweep of the province by the North Vietnamese. They took three district towns earlier. It left the North Vietnamese in control of 200,000 people, one-fifth of the population of Binh Dinh, gave them a rich rice harvest for their forces, and established a springboard for further thrusts either to the north or south.

Not Everyone To Get Same Ballots

With 5,294 new voters registered in Pitt County since January 1, Saturday's primary election should bring out a good number of the 31,606 individuals registered to vote.

Elections officials — noting that of the total 27,119 are registered Democrats; 3,883 are registered Republicans; 343 are registered Independents; 36 registered American Party affiliates and 225 list no party affiliation — said there might be some confusion over who receives what ballots when they visit the polls.

In order to prevent some of the confusion that could arise, spokesmen for the Board of Elections have outlined which ballots are available to various party registrants.

Registered Democrats can receive only Democratic ballots, ballots for election of Board of Education members and Clean Water and Zoo

Bond ballots, while registered Republicans can receive only Republican ballots, Board of Education ballots and Clean Water and Zoo bond voting slips.

Independents will receive only the Clean Water and Zoo Bond ballots and Board of Education ballots while persons registered as American Party members will receive only the American Gubernatorial ballot, the Clean Water and Zoo ballot and the Board of Education ballot.

Persons registered with no party affiliation can declare a party affiliation on election day and receive ballots for that party. However, if they choose to remain unaffiliated, they can only receive the Clean Water and Zoo ballot and the ballot for election of Board of Education members.

Registered 17-year-olds can receive ballots according to party affiliation but cannot receive Clean Water and Zoo ballots or ballots for election of Board of Education members.

Review School Budget

The Pitt County Board of Education, at a special budget review session last night, gave tentative approval to a $10,601,281.90 current expense budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year along with a proposed $9,057,750 budget for capital outlay items.

The total current expense budget includes all local, state and federal funds, and is some $1,169,834.20, more than current expense budget of $9,432,447.70.

Of the total current expense budget, $1,134,879.15 represents county money. The other $2,031,043.39 will come from state and federal funds.

The new budget shows an increase of $378,522.76 in county money.

According to Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, the increase includes $136,000 for 17 teaching positions being lost in state allotments; $50,000 in maintenance for numerous repairs; $50,000 in maintenance for numerous repairs; $12,000 for health care insurance for county employees; $54,000 for elementary library technicians; as well as matching portions of occupational positions and increases in retirement and social security.

The overall county budget shows an increase of $654,712.56, with $280,000 of this coming from state and federal funds for additional occupational positions, Project SEED, the Migrant Program and ESAP.

Major items in the proposed current expense list are $6,322,896.71 are for instructional services (county's portion is $437,649.95); $319,224.39 for general control ($86,620.45 coming from local funds); total operation of plant is $447,144.92; $290,613.35 for maintenance of plant; $160,489.76 for fixed charges, including health insurance, rents, workers compensation, retirement and social security.

Rescuers Know 24 Dead From Fire In Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — At least 24 miners died in the nation's richest silver mine after fire swept through minshafts more than half a mile underground, authorities said today.

Shoshone County Sheriff Lou Gardner said 19 bodies were being brought to the surface in addition to the five which mine officials said were removed from the murky shafts Tuesday.

More than 100 men escaped. Families and co-workers of miners reported missing huddled over warming stoves on the surface while rescue crews sealed off shafts they had checked but found empty.

First reports said 77 miners were unaccounted for. It was not immediately clear whether the death toll of 24 cited by the sheriff included some of the 77 missing miners.

About 100 rescue personnel were charting areas sealed behind bulkheads to keep flames from spreading into new portions of the mine. The rescuers also were working their way into other smoke-filled shafts as they tried to locate the missing miners.

Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said in Boise that state authorities will seek as soon as possible to determine the cause of what he said may be Idaho's worst mine disaster.

Seven Wounded In North Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Seven persons were wounded by gunfire in Northern Ireland today, authorities reported.

Two men were shot through the knees in Londonderry. This is a form of punishment meted out by the Irish Republican Army to those who betray it.

A 13-year-old boy was hit in the arm as gunmen and soldiers exchanged fire in the New Lodge area of Belfast, and a 14-year-old youth was shot in the back when gunmen fired at a British patrol near the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy housing project. A third youth also was hit, but details were not available.

Army headquarters said the guerrillas were responsible, and that two soldiers had been wounded by snipers in Londonderry.

Elected

GRIFTON — Incumbent John Coward and newcomers Joe Bass and Oakley Reynolds were elected members of the Board of Commissioners here yesterday in the local municipal election.

Coward took 214 votes with Bass receiving 169 and Reynolds polling 148.

The three winners won over a half-dozen other candidates seeking election to the three seats up for election in yesterday's balloting.

Unsuccessful candidates and their votes included: Catherine Condon, 109; Mildred Mitchell, 83; Roger Johnson, 94; Paul Lovitt, 38; Saddle Potter, 37 and Edward Owens, 36.

Bass and Reynolds replace Ed Bright and Jim Hudson on the board. Hudson and Bright did not seek re-election to their seats as commissioners.

Pitt School Board Bars Transfer By Subdivision

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education yesterday denied a request to release the Pinewood Subdivision from the county school district so that the area could be annexed into the Greenville school district.

A group of land owners appeared before the board at their April meeting seeking release so they could be annexed into the Greenville district.

Approval for the annexation had already been received from the Greenville Board of Education.

There are about 25 children in the area now in school, including city, county and private. The children involved are preschool, elementary and junior high school age.

The subdivision is located within the city limits of Greenville.

Carroll Hampton, a resident of the subdivision, who is in favor of the annexation, said it seemed that the majority of the people in the subdivision had signed the petition approving annexation, they had been accepted by the city schools, they paid city taxes, and wanted to be in the city school system.

Hampton said, based on past actions of the board, that he did not understand their action yesterday.

Kenneth Dews, Richard Worsley and Robert Stokes were appointed to study the annexation after the appearance of the owners at the last meeting.

Dews told the board, that after much study on the matter, he felt the board should at this time deny the petition and concede that it is negotiable in the future.

"I am concerned about the total loss of students in the county," Dews told the board. "I see grave problems in the future. Our schools are losing both students and faculty."

"As the petitions come from the various areas in the county, it becomes important for us to maintain students and faculty for the facilities we have provided for them," Dews pointed out.

Dews said the board has to hold the line somewhere and that a definite border must be maintained.

After much discussion on the request, the board of education adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, it is desired to insure the best possible education for all students in Pitt County, the petition to release Pinewood Subdivision from the Winterville district and the Pitt County Administrative Unit, resulting in loss of students and ad valorem tax base is hereby denied.

"Further for the same reason, the previous policy adopted by the board of January 24, 1966, regarding changes in the district lines is hereby amended to deny annexation to the Greenville city school district of any territory which is not within the area formed by U.S. 264 bypass on the south intersecting N.C. 11 and U.S. 264 bypass and U.S. 264 business on north intersecting N.C. 11 and U.S. 264 bypass.

"Further it is the express opinion of this board that the only permanent solution to the problem of changing school lines is a merger of all the schools in Pitt County into one school district and the board does hereby declare its intention to work toward this end."

The board adopted recommendations on Junior High athletics that are approved by the principals in the county schools.

The recommendations were presented to the board in March by Joby Griffin, chairman of the Farmville Advisory Council, who told the board that a situation existed in junior high athletics that needed to be changed.

The following recommendations were approved yesterday:

—that any student who reaches age 15 before Oct. 15 of the school year be declared ineligible for seventh and eighth grade athletics;

—that the student who is not eligible for seventh and eighth grade games, (the 15 and 16 year olds) be allowed to play in the games that are scheduled with seventh, eighth, and ninth grade students, as long as that student is eligible otherwise;

—that the date of birth will be supplied to the county office on proper eligibility forms. If the age of a student is questioned, a birth certificate will be made available.

It was also suggested that the board write to the Athletic (Continued On Page A-12)

Hubert Edges Wallace In Indiana; Narrowing Lead In Ohio Primary

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, a slim victor over Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in the Indiana Democratic primary, clung to a narrowing lead over Sen. George S. McGovern in Ohio today as the tightest 1972 primary headed toward a photo finish.

Returns from Cuyahoga County—Cleveland, where a massive primary day snarl complicated both the balloting and the counting, began to cut into the already thin Humphrey lead for the state's 38 at-large delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

In addition, the Cuyahoga County balloting faced a possible court challenge.

Even if Humphrey's statewide lead held up, McGovern was running strongly enough around the state to win a significant share of the 153 Ohio delegates.

At midmorning, with the bulk of the Cuyahoga vote yet to be tabulated and only one-third of the Hamilton County—Cincinnati—vote counted before weary election officials went home until tonight, Humphrey led for 80 delegates, including a 13,500-vote margin for the at-large delegates, McGovern for was a major issue. Humphrey fought off the Alabaman's best Northern showing ever to win 54 of the state's 76 convention delegates.

Wallace, however, picked up 22 delegates as he polled 42 per cent of the vote to 46 per cent for Humphrey and 12 per cent for Muskie.

The Alabama governor was also on his way to a home-state rout of anti-Wallace party loyalists who control the state's Democratic machinery. His backers won 10 races and led in 12 of 19 other Alabama primary contests.

In the Alabama Senate primaries, veteran Sen. John J. Sparkman led a six-candidate Democratic field while former Postmaster General Winton W. Bount led a field of four Republican hopefuls.

In the day's fourth primary, in the District of Columbia, a slate of delegates committed to Walter E. Fauntroy, the capital's elected representative in Congress, led an uncommitted slate by a 2-1 margin in a contest shunned by the presidential contenders.

President Nixon's backers swept through the four Republican primaries with little opposition. In Indiana, Wallace himself went on in Cuyahoga County."

Aides for presidential contender George McGovern pressed without success Tuesday night to get Battisti to open court, in hopes of securing an order impounding paper ballots from the Democratic presidential primary and have them counted under federal jurisdiction.

Brown said early today that a member of McGovern's staff—whom he didn't identify—threatened to sue him for allowing the Hamilton County (Cincinnati) Board of Elections to interrupt its vote counting because workers were tired.

Brown said he had permitted the board to quit counting at 6 a.m. on the promise they would resume counting at 6 p.m.

Ohio Primary Marked By Sloppy Planning And Court Action

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sloppy planning and an historic federal court ruling rolling back voting hours in Cleveland and throughout Cuyahoga County scrambled the Ohio primary election.

"I am pretty damned mad about it," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey on learning that some automatic voting machines were not programmed, had not been delivered or were inoperative because keys to activate them had not been distributed to booth workers.

"You can't get votes if there are no votes."

Within hours after the polls opened at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday it became evident to election board officials that a lot of people hadn't done their homework.

Some machines delivered to polling places still bore the names of the candidates who ran in Cleveland's mayoral election last fall.

It was not unusual to find candidates' names dropped from ballots, and in at least one case a Republican candidate found her name on the Democratic ballot opposing a man who had no opposition.

With voters in a rage, U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti ordered the polls to remain open until 11:59 p.m. Battisti himself had been turned away from the polls earlier in the day, but returned later to cast his ballot.

Battisti's ruling came on a motion filed by John M. Coyne, mayor of suburban Brooklyn, on behalf of Humphrey.

The exact number of polling places experiencing difficulties was not known, but estimates by election board officials put the number at about 130. There are 1,788 polling places in the county, which was completely automated for the first time for Tuesday's election.

In Columbus, Gov. John J. Gilligan labeled the foul-up "inexcusable" and suggested that Secretary of State Ted Brown should retire from office.

Brown replied, "I don't think the governor knows what the hell

Her Tamarind Workshop Revived Jeanette Rankin, At 91, Is Out Stumping Art Of Lithography In U.S.

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI)—Ask a layman to name a half dozen famous women artists of the past 200 years and he'll draw a blank. Only a professional or a dedicated art lover will come up with Vigee-Lebrun, Bonheur, Morisot, Cassatt, Kollwitz, and O'Keeffe.

"It's because of rank discrimination against women artists by the public, the art establishment, and the press," said June Wayne, the Los Angeles artist who almost single-handedly revived the art of lithography in this country through her Tamarind Workshop. "It was true in the past and it's true now."

Miss Wayne has had 21 solo exhibitions, won 31 awards, and has works in 45 collections including New York's Museum of Modern Art and the Art Institute of Chicago. Her tapestry designs are woven by Aubusson in France.

So why should she complain of discrimination, even if "Who's Who in America" chooses to ignore her?

Many Sense Despair
"I am one of the few women strong enough to take my career in my own hands," she said on a visit here for her 22nd one-woman exhibition at the Gimpel & Weitzenhoffer Gallery. "Women artists must band together if they are to get attention equal to that given men. Many women have such a sense of personal failure and even despair about their careers that they feel there is no use in trying."

Miss Wayne has no objection to demonstrations outside museums, such as one staged recently at the Museum of Modern Art (MOMA) by 300 members of the Women in the Arts organization. They carried signs reading "MOMA loves Papa" and demanded that all museums mount major shows of women artists, give them major publicity, and provide "the same dignity and status as that of men."

Nor is she opposed to women segregating themselves by organizing group shows with labels such as "Seven Women artists" and "Women Who Paint," although she would not participate in one.

"I won't criticize any means women artists use to gain attention for their work but I have my own methods of exposing the situation," Miss Wayne said. "One of them is a survey of newspapers and art magazines that reveals a shocking bias in coverage of women artists."

Surveys Coverage
She was aided in her study by two Tamarind staff members. The survey covered the 1970-71 period, and Miss Wayne pointed out that as bad as coverage for women was, it was much better than usual because of a major retrospective exhibition of 84-year-old Georgia O'Keeffe's abstract paintings in New York. The study, to be published this month, provides the following statistics:

—The New York Times, virtually the only newspaper in the nation which publishes news of artists in addition to critical reviews, devoted 18 per cent of its reviews to women artists.

—Art in America, a leading magazine, gave only 8 per cent of its coverage to women; another magazine, Art News, 4 per cent.

—The San Francisco Chronicle and the Los Angeles Times, runners-up to the New York Times for art coverage, gave women 14 and 16 per cent of their reviews respectively. —Time magazine and Newsweek, generally praised for their art pages, gave only 10.3 and 3.5 per cent of their coverage respectively to women.

—Television neglected coverage of both men and women artists almost completely.

No one knows for sure how many professional women artists there are in the United States, but slightly more than half the enrollment in professional schools and college and university art departments is made up of women. It is virtually impossible, Miss Wayne said, to obtain reliable information from dealers as to how many women artists are represented by their galleries.

Museums Cited
Information reflecting the extent of discrimination is more easily obtainable from museums because their collections and exhibitions are a matter of record.

The Museum of Modern Art, leading showcase for contemporary painters, has given 293 one-artist shows since its founding in 1929, of which only 27 (9 per cent) were women artists. In its permanent collection of paintings and sculpture, only 93 (10 per cent) of the 1,080 artists represented are women.

Another barometer, the Whit-

By JEAN CALDWELL
AMHERST, Mass. (WNS)—Jeanette Rankin has been too busy to take time to grow old.

The world is too exciting and the issues too important for her to sit back and — heaven forbid — let Goerge do it.

So at 91 Jeannette Rankin is out stumping.

Peace is the number-one issue, she says. After that comes election reform and getting women organized.

In deference to her years she has a light schedule — only three weeks of speaking last month and three weeks this month.

There was an economics class at Amherst College, a coffee hour at Smith College, a speech at Hampshire College and another speech at the University of Massachusetts, then off to New York for the Dick Cavett show and a big peace rally there. Scattered in between are other TV and radio appearances.

She can't recall what turned her against war. Whatever, she voted against entering World War I and she was the only member of Congress to do so. She also voted against entering World War II and led the Jeannette Rankin Women's Brigade for Peace in 1968. Today, she is passing out buttons reading, "Governments Make War."

Social Worker
She began as a social worker, but says she learned more from her job than she did in college. She soon realized that if she was really going to help orphans, the government had to get into the act.

She started working to win the vote for women.

She arranged for pro-women's suffrage plaques to be scattered around meeting halls where politicians were to speak. She organized precinct meetings. When women in her native Montana finally got the right to vote, she turned her attention to the national scene.

The way to persuade Congress to approve Universal suffrage, she decided, was to send a woman to Congress. "If would make it difficult for men to say in a body where women did vote that the women in their home states were not smart enough to vote."

She became that first U.S. congresswoman.

To see her standing up to lecture at Amhurst, shaking a finger vigorously to make a point; listening intently to a student who is young enough to be her great-grandchild ask a question at Smith leaves one only to wonder what kind of woman she was once and what a woman she is now.

Direct Vote
She is on the stump for a direct vote for President and for multiple-member congressional districts. She gets in a good word for Shirley Chisholm's campaign for President. And she says, "Killing young men never settled any dispute."

She can reminisce. Students like her accounts of the early battle for the vote; her reasons for voting against two world wars; her advice on building effective political organizations ("work in the precincts").

But is clear her thoughts are now with the past.

What comes through strong with Jeannette Rankin is her concern about shaping tomorrow.

She urges the women in her audiences not to be concerned about their personal comfort and happiness but about how they can best contribute to society.

She tosses in an anecdote for encouragement. Her own entry into politics was marked by disaster, she says. She was just beginning to work for women's suffrage in Montana and was sent to a small town. "I worked for a week trying to get a meeting. When it was called, eight people were there."

She was so humiliated by the turnout she could not even talk about it, she recalls. But she kept plugging and so on Montana's women had the vote. "That's the way it is, working with people. You can't see the results you hope for, so you think it's a failure."

Although she is very much a feminist, she is no man-hater. She believes any system which traps women traps men as well. She likes to compare the relationship between men and women to the relationship between a person's hands. They can work separately at times; together at times. But tie one behind your back, and the remaining one will lose its effectiveness.

She watches her audience intently while she speaks. Then she breaks off with a laugh and says: "It's very dangerous to let me start talking. I always forget to tell you to interrupt to ask questions." Later — after parrying questions from young men and women whose grandparents were children when she first began her public life — she walked up an Amherst hillside with her host. She was asked how she thought the class went. "They listened!" she says, and her face glowed.

Today — 61 years after she made her first speech to the Montana Legislature and just two months short of her 92nd birthday — people are still listening to Jeannette Rankin.

Marriage Announced

MRS. JAMES WILLIAMS MOORE . . . is the former Linda Darnell Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Ward of Rt. 1, Fountain, whose marriage to Mr. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Harris of Rt. 1, Fountain, took place April 20.

ney Museum of American Art's recent 40th Contemporary American Painting Annual, selected by the curatorial staff, did slightly better by women, displaying the work of 30 (23 per cent) in a show of 132 artists. However, the museum's coming exhibition schedule through early 1973 lists only one one-woman show, the spatial paintings of 77-year-old Alma W. Thomas.

"Museums are essentially in the entertainment business," Miss Wayne said. "They are not open to a wide diversity of art but only to a few artists who are said to be avant-garde and therefore fashionable. These are the artists promoted by dealers, collected by museum trustees, displayed by the museums, courted by the curators, and praised by the critics. It's a very corrupt circle and it affects men artists just as well as women.

"I think it is obvious that the men simply surrendered to this over-all discrimination long ago. Women, with their primary complaint of sex discrimination, are banding together, raising their voices. Maybe they can change the system."

Paint spills on floors can be removed by applying cooking or salad oil. Oil loosens the paint, which then can be scraped off.

'Odd' Couple Has Neighbors Suspicious

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Charles Scribner's Sons, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: About four months ago, the house across the street was sold to a "father and son"—or so we thought. We later learned it was an older man about 50 and a young fellow about 24.

This was a respectable neighborhood before this "odd couple" moved in. They have all sorts of strange looking company. Men who look like women, and women who look like men, blacks, whites, Indians, and yesterday I even saw two nuns go in there.

They must be running some sort of business, or a club. There are motorcycles, expensive sports cars, and even bicycles parked in front and on the lawn. They keep their shades drawn so you can't see what's going on inside but they must be up to no good, or why the secrecy?

We called the police department and they asked if we wanted to press charges! They said unless the neighbors were breaking some law there was nothing they could do.

Abby, these weirdos are wrecking our property values! How can we improve the quality of this once-respectable neighborhood?

UP IN ARMS
DEAR UP: You could move.

DEAR ABBY: Eleven years ago I severed all relations with my parents, sisters and brothers, and left home. I came to New York, over a thousand miles away from my old home town.

I am married now and have two kids, ages seven and five. They keep asking me where their grandparents [my parents] are.

I don't know where they are, and frankly, I don't care if I ever see them again, but I don't want to tell my kids that. I also don't want to lie and tell my children that my parents are dead.

What should I tell them? I can't put it off much longer.
RUNAWAY

DEAR RUNAWAY: Tell them that you last saw your parents in — [whatever town you left them in]. However, it's not necessary to tell your children how you feel about your parents.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column because it's nice to know that some people have problems that make mine seem minor.

The other day, one touched a sensitive nerve. I am referring to the lady who complained because her husband ignored her and watched sports on television.

Where does she get the nerve to complain about a thing like that? At least her husband is home to come to bed.

Abby, I'm a Navy wife, and like all Navy wives, I'm a "part-time widow." My husband is gone at least six months out of the year. I'm not complaining. We chose this life, and it's been fairly good to us.

I don't particularly enjoy watching sports on TV, but when my husband is home, if that's what he wants to do I sit at his feet and knit or crochet for our kids. I don't waste our precious time together doing housework. I don't nag or complain if he's messy. When he leaves the house, I straighten things up.

I'm not saying our marriage is perfect. We have our fights, but we've placed a higher value on our time together because we have so little.

Please remind these complaining women to enjoy their husbands now, for tomorrow they may not be here.
NAVY WIFE: NORFOLK, VA.

DEAR WIFE: You've done it, very well. Thanks for writing.

Tourist Driver Was Free Soul

VERSAILLES, France (WNS) — The two Candian girls were overjoyed to be picked up by a tourist bus driver by George de Sadler, who explained that his job was to show France to young tourists at no cost. The tour included Abberville, Argentan, Boulogne and Rouen before the driver was arrested at La Fleche for having stolen the bus. "I stole a truck in Lyon first, but that didn't attract the ladies," he told police.

State Zoo Worth The Money

We have found a few people who feel that the proposed North Carolina zoo is a luxury and thus they have doubts about the $2 million bond issue which will come up for a vote May 6.

Generally those with doubts can see the value of a zoo and particularly an open type zoo being planned for the 1,300-acre site on Purgatory Mountain near Asheboro. Still, they question whether the money should be spent when North Carolina has other needs.

The Daily Reflector feels that this will be money well spent for North Carolina. Almost all of us recognize that zoos have educational and recreational value for children and adults. When we visit large cities which can support zoos, they are one facility that most of us place on our agendas.

The fact that most zoos are found in large cities is the key to why the State of North Carolina should be in the zoo business, as it is through its Zoological Authority.

North Carolina is not a state of North Carolina should be in the zoo business, as it is through its Zoological Authority.

North Carolina is not a state of large cities. We have some metropolitan areas — many of which are growing far too rapidly — but basically our five million population is dispersed throughout rural and relatively small urban areas.

Most of us like it this way. We have escaped many of the problems of air and water pollution and overcrowdedness that plague the metropolises. There is much talk now about road and development spending that would encourage even development throughout the state.

While there are great advantages to this, there are a few disadvantages. The major one is that we do not have metropolitan areas which can afford such things as zoos or live theatre or opera or great museums of art.

If we are going to continue as a state without large cities, then it falls upon the state to develop these things. North Carolina should encourage summer theatres and develop its museum of art. Such things can put culture within the reach of all of us while we still retain the benefits dispersed living.

For that reason we are wholeheartedly in favor of the development of the Purgatory Mountain zoo. It will greatly benefit all North Carolinians and we recommend that voters cast their ballots in favor of the $2 million bond issue for this project.

A Catalyst In 200th Birthday

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina may point the way for the nation to observe its 200th birthday.

The state's plans for the bicentennial celebration, based on a process of goal-setting, has brought to light a similar approach within the national commission.

It looks as though the Tar Heel program could be the catalyst to give the sense of commissions and others concerned with bicentennial planning.

National Commission Attention
It caught the attention of Erik Jonsson, a member of the national commission and chairman of its Horizons 76 committee. He asked Gibbs for copies to distribute to the commission's executive committee.

"I hardly see how they could be other than enthusiastic," said Jonsson, who was mayor of Dallas when that Texas city engaged in a pioneering goal-setting effort.

Soon after Jonsson received the North Carolina plan, the national commission brought out a similar proposal which had lain under wraps more than a year. Drafted by Jonsson's committee and titled "Call for Achievement," it had been approved by the national commission in May, 1971, but never made public or circulated to the state commissions.

"I believe the concepts embraced in Call for Achievement are analogous to those that all of you in North Carolina have expressed," Jonsson wrote to Gibbs, "and while we have failed thus far to secure the minimal funding to foster the program at the level we consider appropriate still we are not discouraged and indeed are still trying."

Boston Meeting Scheduled
The national commission meets in Boston in mid-May. At that time, it may give some indication whether it will follow the Tar Heel lead on the kind of bicentennial observance to pursue.

To date, the national commission has encountered criticism in and out of Congress for a lack of relevance and imagination in its approach to honoring the nation's anniversary.

Its major proposal thus far is for a chain of state bicentennial parks. It contemplates the creation in each of the 50 states of a park as the center for celebrations and a lasting commemoration after the event.

How North Carolina will respond to the idea will be determined after a meeting of officials of state agencies affected, said Gibbs. The proposed park would involve up to $25 million, he noted.

"Our commission felt a project of that size was too large for it to endorse or reject without consulting other agencies," he explained.

Political Day Runs 18 Hours

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — The closing week of the primary campaign in North Carolina finds the candidates going 18 hours a day, hoping that something they do in the final minutes will bring victory on Saturday.

State Elections Board Secretary Alex Brock predicts that 1 million people will vote in the Democratic primary and some 300,000 in the Republican primary.

He also looks for about 100,000 18 to 21-year-olds to vote on Saturday.

The campaigns have been expensive, exhaustive, not totally enlightening and entirely too long.

The State has been covered with billboards that urge you to Send Them A Message. Choose North Carolina over Alabama, put 17 Years Experience to Work For You, or to remind you that It's Our Future We're Talking About.

TV spots are everywhere, produced by some expensive dudes out of New York City. "I leave myself no loopholes," Skipper Bowles says. "No new taxes."

Pat Taylor walks around Wadesboro as boys play basketball in the background. "One of those young boys might grow up to be a Larry Miller or a Charlie Scott," Taylor says, "but I'm worried about the drug problem in North Carolina."

Nick Galifianakis hugs a lady's neck and then sits down to play checkers with an old man in front of a country store. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, 75 years old, goes bounding up the steps of the nation's Capitol.

Jum Hunt says, "If you believe as I do that North Carolina can do better..." Roy Sowers walks around a ranch in his cowboy hat. Mrs. Margaret Harper takes a walk on a pier. Johnny Walker bounces onto the set to do everything but tap dance.

You're supposed to be able to fight your way through all of this Fifth Avenue baloney and make an intelligent decision on Saturday.

It's hard to get a handle on this primary. A month ago most of the political observers I talked with felt Pat Taylor had an overwhelming lead in the Democratic gubernatorial primary. Now most of these same people think the race is extremely close between Taylor and Bowles, with Wilbur Hobby and Reginald Hawkins expected to get a sizeable vote themselves.

As one reporter who has tried to cover the campaign, it seems obvious to me that Taylor and Bowles will have to meet in a runoff for the nomination.

The Republican gubernatorial primary is also hard to gauge. Most people I talk with seem to think Jim Gardner is ahead, but that Jim Holshouse has closed rather fast in the past two weeks.

Galifianakis has gone at an endless pace in an effort to overtake Sen. Jordan, in a race that I believe has become very, very close.

In the Republican race for the U.S. Senate, Bill Booe and Jimmy Johnson have been trying to grab headlines, while Jesse Helms, apparently confident of victory, has stayed in the background.

I've seen so many polls since February that it's unbelievable. One thing is certain. Some of the pollsters are going to fall flat on their face. Just about every candidate can produce a poll that shows victory is virtually a sure thing.

On May 6, the voters get a chance to speak. Never before has so much money and image-building been used to influence their decision. It should mean a record turnout at the polls.

And, unless I'm mistaken, an upset or two.

Recall Of The 'Muskie'

WASHINGTON — Presidential Motos announced last week that it was recalling the "Muskie," once considered the hottest model on the road.

In a terse statement announcing the recall, Presidential Motors said, "Engineering difficulties and lack of consumer acceptance have forced us to recall the 'Muskie.'"

The story behind the rise and fall of the "Muskie" is one of the great stories of automobile history. It was originally developed by such great presidential designers as Averil Harriman, Clark Clifford, Sol Linowitz, Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania and John Gilligan of Ohio. They wanted a quiet model that would hold the middle of the road, had the confidence of the people and was safe at any speed.

From a design point of view, it had to appeal to the little man, but at the same time it had to look like a

ART BUCHWALD

Lincoln. After working at their drawing boards for two years, they came up with the "Muskie," a name they were sure would have consumer appeal.

Before investing money in the model, the manufacturer took surveys all over the country. They discovered that, compared to other models that would be offered in 1972, the "Muskie" was leading 2 to 1. At one point, it was rated more popular than the "Nixon," and Presidential Motors was sure it had a winner on its hands.

The advertising money was cut back, and the people working on the "Muskie" campaign were taken off slary.

Investors started backing off. The consumer began taking interest in another smaller model called a "McGovern," which had been built in the back room of a garage in South Dakota.

The next disaster took place in Wisconsin when, after a slow start, the "Muskie" ran out of gas. The final trials came in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Presidential Motors decided that if it couldn't sell the "Muskie" there, they couldn't sell it anywhere.

Alive After Stroke

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — At least one in every 100 living Americans has had a stroke and survived.

I joined this growing two million-plus group a little over six weeks ago.

The one question everyone asks a stroke victim is, "What did it feel like?" Well, in my case, it didn't feel like anything. Nothing.

I'm afraid it wasn't dramatic at all. There was no premonition or warning of any kind. I felt no lightning bolt of pain. Or even a twinge. No confusion. No fainting or falling down. No outcry. No paralysis or numbness.

But when the phone rang on my desk late in the afternoon of March 16, I noticed as I answered it that my voice suddenly was slurring. Having been a hypochondriac since shortly before birth, my mind instantly jumped to the right conclusion: I had had a slight stroke ... and might be in the grip of a continuing one.

"How many martinis did you have at lunch?" my friend remarked. "You sound like you had four."

"None," I told him truthfully. "You know I've been on a temperance binge since the first of the year."

After hanging up, I went out to the office washroom mirror and studied my face. I found I could wrinkle my brows and move both eyes freely. No pain. No feeling of weakness or numbness or lack of coordination in hands, legs or feet. There did seem to be a slight downward turn at the left corner of my mouth, but hardly enough to dent the winning charm of my manly dimple.

I went home and decided not to do anything until morning, which could have been a deadly decision but wasn't. When I awoke, the bathroom mirror confirmed the definite turnaround at the corner of my mouth, and a short rendition aloud of the Gettysburg Address sounded like Abraham Lincoln full of martinis. But it was no worse. The stroke was over.

After going to the office and writing my daily column, I reported to the company nurse, and doctor who found my blood pressure was still in the gasket-blowing range—180 over 140. It should have been 130 or 140 over 80.

Three hours later, I was in a hospital next to the room in which a famous movie star several years before had been treated successfully for his occupational ailment—delirium tremens.

I spent the afternoon drawing up a new will and spent the evening—without the knowledge or consent of my doctor—drinking Irish whisky with several grieving friends. They had gathered there largely, I believe, in the hope that since it was St. Patrick's Day, I would

Other Editors Say Now On Trial

(Washington Daily News)

Reorganizing state government in North Carolina is no easy task, and from the outset, if we are honest about it all, we must realize that some mistake are bound to be made.

But again and with all the fervor at our command, we repeat that state government reorganization's success or failure will depend in large measure upon the people who are directly responsible for the various departments.

A poor system with good executives running it will work better than the finest system in the world with weak executives running it.

If today as we look at the real beginning of state government reorganization, if the moves being made are to be politically motivated, then we shall be in trouble.

Reorganization was conceived to make state government more efficient. If it causes state government to be more expensive, more cumbersome, and less responsive to the people, then it will prove to be a grave mistake.

Some mistakes have already been made, but actually the success or failure of reorganization cannot yet be measured. The present governor will have too little time in office to make the determination. The real burden will fall upon the next governor. His four years in office and his ability as an administrator will very likely tell the true story.

The next legislature is going to be looking for sharp, crisp, and clear recommendations from department heads and not political excuses and politics as usual. If the recommendations are not clear-cut and not made for the sole purpose of improving government, then it will be better than no recommendations be made.

Those who might have the desire to play politics as usual should not be in high positions, and it is our opinion that the next legislature is going to be very demanding along this line.

If government itself is to be used to pay political debts rather than striving for greater efficiency, and if the next chief executive of North Carolina, whomever he might be, is not sufficiently imbued with the idea of service to his people, then government will go backward instead of forward.

Reorganization is only as good as the fellows dealing with it. The idea is good, but the human element will tell the story.

Quote Work Pattern Concepts Shift

"People do not lack strength; they lack will." — Victor Hugo.

Strength For Today

A BASIC TRUTH
There is a very arresting statement in the first chapter of the Gospel of John: "In Him was life." This means that in Jesus was life. If the writer of this Gospel had said that in Jesus was power of wisdom or perfect goodness, the statement would not be nearly so arresting as it is. But it says that in Jesus is life.

The Gospel of John from that point on continues to show that there is a reality in the universe which it terms "life," and this "life" is characterized by unlimited power, a perfect sense of peace and joy indescribable. When diseased and afflicted people came in contact with Jesus they were healed of their diseases. Those who listened to Him were enlightened. But those who made real contact with Him through faith received from Him something that the fourth Gospel calls "life." It is as if this life which resided in Jesus was a contagion which men "caught" under certain circumstances. And when they did catch this life they were forthwith equipped to become citizens of an eternal spiritual empire.

The conception of life which runs through the Gospel of John is very marvelous. In fact, it is the basic teaching of the New Testament. Many people try to interpret the teaching of Jesus purely from the ethical standpoint. But then this statement confronts them. "In Him was life."
By Earl Douglas

By ELMER ROESSNER
One popular labor fad — the four-day week — may not get very far. But the lesser-publicized movement to de-emphasize assembly-line production could bring substantial changes in industry.

Business and industry actually are moving very slowly toward a four-day week. A Bureau of National Affairs poll showed that 93 per cent of firms have not changed their work weeks, and only 17 per cent have considered the idea.

Of those that had changed, more than four-fifths were nonunion, and more than four-fifths had less than 1,000 employees.

Trying to pacify unrest among workers, especially younger workers, with a four-day week is missing the point, management consultant Roy W. Walters told a recent American Management Association Workshop.

If workers are unmotivated, uninterested in a job, or find no creative growth in it, then a shorter work week won't solve anything, Walters said. If it would, the next logical step hours a day of it will be unbearable. A more realistic approach, according to Walters, is not further concentration of assembly-line work, but elimination of it where possible and adoption of team-production methods. Under this system, semiautonomous groups of workers assemble and install complete units themselves.

Volvo has done this experimentally in manufacturing muffler exhaust assemblies. SAAB plans to introduce a similar plan. Motorola has tested the team approach in manufacturing portable radios, resulting in increased productivity and high employee morale.

BUBBLING POLLUTION OUT OF WASTE WATER
More than 600 air pipes planted in a 32.7-acre reservoir will bubble a ton of air an hour and reoxygenate 24.5 million gallons of waste water a day. The idea is similar to bubbling water through a fish tank, but on a gigantic scale.

The huge "pipe organ" is being installed at a Georgia Pacific bleach kraft pulp mill in Louisiana. It augments other antipollution equipment such as an electronic air cleaner with 99.5 per cent efficiency and a water clarifying system that will provide low sulphur waste solids for steam generation.

BUILDING ESTIMATE IS REVISED UPWARDS
The forecast for construction contracting in 1972 has been revised upwards by $2 billion. This estimate by F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill brings the new total to $85 billion, seven per cent above last year's $79.6 billion.
The value of nonresidential buildings is now put at $27.6 billion, a rise of eight per cent; residential buildings, $36.3 billion, a four per cent gain; and nonbuilding construction, $21.0 billion, a 10 per cent hike.

 surely reward them by making an immortal deathbed utterance. I made several, as a matter of fact, but nobody bothered to take notes.
 I awoke with my first hangover of 1972, one I am beginning to suspect will be the last one of my life.
 There followed 15 days of complete bed rest during which they tested everything except my I.Q.—an oversight—and took enough blood from me to give Dracula a bubble bath. Heart action okay. No diabetes. No gold stars for the liver, but blood pressure going steadily down, down, down.
 Then, I had a few weeks of recuperation, which is a medical word for loafing. Last week I made a mistake.
 I went to the boss and bragged that I was the only one on his staff at the moment with medical proof that he had a normal brain. This was because an encephalogram of my head taken the day before showed no rocks but only explainable routine waves.
 "I didn't know we had a brain like that left in the organization," acknowledged the boss. "Do you think it would hurt it if we put it back to work for a change?"

 So, one stroke and a little more than six weeks later, here I am back at the typewriter.
 A few words of counsel:
 For nearly 20 years I have had high blood pressure and carried up to 40 pounds too much weight, the equivalent of lugging around three bowling balls day and night. But I stupidly resisted the doctors' plea to do anything about either.
 Now my blood pressure is normal and I have taken off 25 pounds with 15 yet to go.
 "You have had your warning," my doctor said. "How long you live now depends pretty much on whether you learned your lesson."
 The same is probably true of most of the 30 million Americans who are overweight and the 20 million who have high blood pressure, of whom 10 million are unaware they have.
 Living on a sensible diet and taking two pills a day doesn't seem like too high a price to pay for doubling or tripling your chances for a longer life. An even more immediate reward: You feel better right away and have more energy with which to enjoy life.

 Try it—you'll like it, or I'll give you your money back.

 Once the sales figures came in—from those two states, Presidential Motors had no choice but to recall the model. STANTON, Mo. (UPI) — Guides at Meramec Caverns on Route 66 here say school children who tour the cave are more fascinated by the fact that it served as a hideout for Jesse James and his gang during the 1870s than that it served as a stop on the Underground Railroad during the Civil War.

Miami Beach Council Is Divided On GOP Meet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sharply divided, the Miami Beach City Council meets today to decide whether it should bid for the Republican National Convention now slated for San Diego.
 In the background are fears that the city's police force would be inadequate to handle security for the GOP meeting Aug. 21-24.
 A poll of members of the City Council late Tuesday showed two in favor of bidding for the GOP meeting, one firmly against, three conditionally against and one undecided.

 The Republican National Committee meets in Washington Friday and Saturday to determine whether the party's convention should be moved to Miami Beach from San Diego, where the Republicans have encountered financial and space problems.
 Doubts have been expressed that renovation of San Diego's Sports Arena could be completed in time to serve as the site for the GOP convention.
 Miami Beach has a normal uniformed police force of 250 and Gov. Reubin Askew plans to ask his cabinet to approve the loan of 400 state troopers and conservation officers to the city, both for the GOP meeting and the Democratic National Convention here July 10-14.
 "I'm holding out for 500 or 1,000 or more" uniformed police, said City Manager Clifford O'Key. "The number of law enforcement people we have here or being assigned here is insufficient to do the job which we are being asked to do."

Triplets, Twins Seek Offices
 TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — To students at Fickett Junior High School, it seems that they are seeing the same faces over and over and over in campaigning for next week's student body elections.
 Twelve-year-old triplets Jennifer, Jeanne and Jayne Reichert are running for three student body offices, and two of them are being challenged by 13-year-old twins Scott and Brian Grant.
 Jennifer and Scott are running for school vice president, and Jayne and Brian are running for treasurer. Jeanne is running for secretary against a nontwin or triplet.

O'Key said he would oppose the GOP convention unless an agreement could be reached for "an improved level of law enforcement officers for on-the-street, round-the-clock duty."
 "I want back-up people in case something happens, too," said Mayor Chuck Hall, "but I don't believe in an armed camp. I want to know if we need them we can get them."
 Miami Beach officials had told Askew they needed at least 5,000 police on hand to control the some 250,000 persons who city officials estimated would flock to the Republican and Democratic conventions.
 The Miami Beach Tourist Development Association has promised the GOP $100,000 for a move to south Florida. Askew

Martin Board Refuses Join In Roanoke River Plan

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners at their May meeting on Monday declined to participate in a proposal to make a six and one half mile cut to straighten the Roanoke River and agreed to consider a plan to update the county jail to meet certain standards.

For some time, state and federal agencies have been contemplating various plans to cut bends out of the winding Roanoke River. The plan declined Monday by the Commissioners was one that would involve a major six and one half mile cut. Commissioners feel the expense of a project this ambitious would be excessive. They reached a consensus to leave the general course of the river as it is, but agreed to think of participating in a project to widen the channel and make minor adjustments to some bends.

Dr. E. M. Hunt, president of RELIGIOUS SALES WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Christian literature sales by Seventh-day Adventists totaled over $48 million in 1971, the churches headquarters says.

Martin Technical Institute, appearing on behalf of the institute, requested the commissioners to consider the matter of a one million dollar bond issue to be voted on at the time of the general election in November.

On a request concerning an Adult Mentally Retarded Day Care Program at Martin Tech, the commissioners endorsed the institute's plans for such a program.

New Chairman Of State Group

Puul W. Haggard of the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics was elected chairman of the Mathematics Section of the North Carolina Academy of Sciences at the Academy's meeting on the ECU campus Friday.

Mathematics Section secretary is N. Edward Wooton of Chowan College.

Commissioners also gave favorable indication to a $5,000 request presented by the East Carolina Workshop, although no official action was taken at the meeting.

Rep. Chisholm Here Thursday

Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, Democratic candidate for President, will be here Thursday evening.

Mrs. Chisholm is scheduled to speak at the East Carolina University School of Nursing Auditorium at 10 p.m. At 11 p.m., she will be honored by a reception at the Educational Building of Cornerstone Baptist Church. Sponsors of the event are the J. E. Tillett Gospel Chorus and the Community Gospel Chorus. The public is invited to meet Mrs. Chisholm at this reception, according to the Rev. William B. Moore, pastor of Cornerstone.

Approval of an earlier proposal to install a sewer line from Williamston to Martin Technical Institute was not unanimous, with one commissioner abstaining on the basis of rising costs. The estimated cost of the project has gone up $10,000 since the first plans were made.

In agreeing to consider recommendations to update the county jail, commissioners took under advisement recommendations made by a state inspection team. Their recommendations include the use of fire repellent mattresses, fire extinguishers in addition to those on hand, screens for certain windows, and fold down bunks welded in a manner to prevent ease in ripping them out.

Commissioners set another meeting date for Wednesday, May 10 at 8:00 p.m. to consider provisions of a proposed FHA grant. The grant is in connection with plans to establish a solid waste disposal system for Martin County.

Reads Paper At Regional Meet

Wendell Gene Wilson, senior history major at East Carolina University, read a paper before the annual regional conference of Phi Alpha Theta at Wake Forest University last week.

Wilson's paper was entitled "U. S. Involvement in Columbia, Jan. 1885—June 1885." Also appearing on the program were students from UNC-Greensboro, Appalachian State and Wake Forest Universities and Guilford College.

The ECU delegation to the conference included several student members of ECU's Lambda Eta chapter. President is Robert Kepner and faculty advisor is Dr. Fred Ragan of the ECU Department of History.

State Auto Inspection Plans Termed A Necessary Program

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — State auto inspection programs have not been proven to substantially reduce accidents, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says.

But, said NHTSA Administrator Douglas W. Toms, state programs are necessary and, if run right, can keep unsafe vehicles off the road.

"We feel that some kind of a vehicle inspection program, or some kind of a state-operated program to take the unsafe vehicles off the road is desirable—part of balanced system," Toms said in a statement March 14 to the House Appropriations subcommittee. It was released today.

"We have not pushed hard for a compulsory program," Toms said. "Rather, we have tried to let the states experiment to find ways that the obviously unsafe and polluting vehicles could be taken off the road without forcing everybody into an absolute periodic inspection."

"There are no data," he said, "showing the vehicle inspection programs in themselves have brought about any substantive reductions in accidents."

Deputy Administrator Charles H. Hartman said: "The real culprits are steering and suspension systems, brakes and tires rather than ... a lot of things that are being checked such as windshield wipers and horns and other things which are easy to check but may have little, if any relevance to the accident-producing situation."

Toms also said there is clear evidence that the number of auto fatalities increases as the nation's standard of living rises.

"There is no question but deaths are related to the eco-

One Slip-Up In Campaign Gift

nomics of the country," he said. "One of the major reasons that we had a good decrease in 1970 is the fact that with the reduced economics and some reduction in travel, there was some reduction in drinking, and this in addition to the safety programs brought about a 1,100 decrease in highway fatalities."

Toms said he thinks the goal of cutting highway fatalities in half by 1980 from the approximate 55,000 in 1970 can be met, but he added: "I think we are going to have to apply massive resources."

U.S. Expects Hue Will Be Scene Of Major Battle

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — North

Vietnam's drive below the demilitarized zone is expected to climax at Hue in the next week or 10 days and the South Vietnamese will be hard put to hold the ancient city, according to U.S. officials.

Small groups of North Vietnamese troops already are moving toward firebases Birmingham and King just outside Hue and other, larger elements are reported preparing for attack, the sources said.

One military expert said elements of Hanoi's 304th Division are moving south to join other units along a very good road but it will probably be up to 10 days before they are ready to drive on Hue.

The officials said a "plus for the enemy is that there is no defensible area between Quang Tri and Hue." The Perfume River, which he said would make a good defensive line, is south of the city.

"There is a real danger Hue could fall," one source said.

On the other hand, the officials said, the North Vietnamese have taken a "pounding from U.S. air raids." "They've obviously been hurt," one source said, adding that thousands of wounded enemy troops have been seen being evacuated north.

There has been maximum use of American air power, a military source said, "and the strikes have been effective." He added that the weather is expected to be good for the future, which is a plus for the Southern forces.

In discussing Monday's loss of Quang Tri city, the first provincial capital to fall to Hanoi's troops, officials said there have been conflicting intelligence reports.

First, it was said South Vietnamese forces surrendered in large numbers and left behind 30 pieces of artillery and 17 tanks that had to be destroyed by tactical air strikes.

Another report, however, ascribed the disintegration of troop units to commanders ordering their forces to break up and attempt to infiltrate enemy lines. This report, the officials said, also disputed that any major equipment had to be left and destroyed.

At this point, "we don't know which one to believe," a military source said.

In sizing up the expected battle for Hue, the officials said there is a stand-off as far as available forces are concerned.

The South Vietnamese 1st Division, one of Saigon's best, has not been committed in previous fighting, "and wisely so," one American source said.

He also stated the South Vietnamese have a marine brigade available as well as airborne units and some "fairly decent" regional forces.

On Hanoi's side, the officials said, the 304th probably will be used, although it has been involved in heavy fighting, and will be joined by the 325th North Vietnamese Division.

This unit, like the South Vietnamese 1st, has not been committed and is sitting on the other side of the DMZ, the last of Hanoi's regular divisions still in the North.

However, an official said, the 325th has been hit hard by air raids and its ability remains a questionable factor.

But the key problem and the one that most distresses U.S. experts is the lack of defensible ground to Hue's north and west.

Although officials say privately they are concerned about Hue and South Vietnam's over-all ability to keep up its defenses, the public stance is more optimistic.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers Tuesday praised what he said was the courageous performance of Saigon's troops.

And State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray added at his regular briefing with newsmen that, while the North Vietnamese are expected to capture one or more provincial capitals, the Southerners will win some battles as well.

He said it still is too early to say that President Nixon's Vietnamization program is either a failure or a success.

Class Of 1922 Meets May 19

The Greenville High School of 1922 will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its graduation with a reunion dinner on May 19 at the Candlewick Inn, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Reid Perkins and J. Howard Moye, co-chairmen of the Arrangements Committee for the occasion.

Edwin Wilkerson will serve as Toastmaster. Mrs. Walter Harrington is in charge of decorations, and Mrs. Bruce E. Palmer in charge of music. The spouses of class members will accompany their mates. Special guests will be the Class Sponsor, Dr. Herbert Hadley, and his wife.

Thirty-five were graduated in 1922. Since then seven have passed away and two cannot be located — Annie Mae Edwards and Lillian Baker. Of the remaining 26 only two have indicated they cannot attend, both due to health reason. Thirteen of the 26 have been life-long residents of Greenville. The others are coming from as far away as Tallahassee, Fla. and Rochester, N.Y.

Several of the 1922 class' high school teachers are being invited to attend the dinner. Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, who taught the class history, has already accepted to be at the dinner. Howard Moye and Virginia King Perkins who have done most of the corresponding and telephoning said they have found enthusiasm for the reunion from every classmate reached.

Expected Higher Rates, But—

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Mayor Roy Webber expected higher rates to finance the city's multimillion-dollar sewage treatment plant improvements, was still astounded by the first water bill he received after the work.

"My secretary said she didn't know we had to pay for the plant by ourselves," the mayor said of the $4,600 bill he received for his flower shop and home.

The problem was traced to a billing error by the city's computer.

Already Getting Conscience Cash

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — James Golden, regional program manager for taxpayers services in the Internal Revenue Service, says the agency already is receiving "conscience money," that is sent in by anonymous taxpayers who believe they cheated on their income tax returns.

Golden said that five $100 bills fell out of one envelope received with no return address. It also contained an unsigned letter which read:

"I cheated on my income tax return and I can't sleep at night. P.S. If I still can't sleep, I'll send you $500 more."

Pitt Technical Institute has received a United States flag which has been flown over the Nation's Capitol, courtesy of Senator B. Everett Jordan.

C. W. Everett, Jr., chairman of the Pitt County committee for reelection of Jordan, made the presentation of the flag to Dr. William E. Fulford, Jr., president of Pitt Tech.

"In behalf of Senator Jordan," said Everett, "I am proud to have this opportunity to present this flag to one of the finest technical Institutes in North Carolina." "I hope you will display it proudly, for the Stars and Stripes stand for the land, the people, the government, and the ideals of the United States, no matter when or where it is displayed."

Receiving the flag on behalf of Pitt Tech, President Fulford stated, "We are honored to receive this flag. Owning a United States flag and displaying it properly are marks of patriotism and respect. Pitt Technical Institute is proud to be a part of this country's rich heritage, and we look forward to displaying the flag as an outward symbol of our patriotism and respect," said Fulford.

With a gift of $2,000 from Miss Jesse Rountree Moye, who stated that she would be pleased if part of the money were used to purchase a flag pole, Pitt Tech is planning for the erection of a flag pole in the near future.

Admiral Peary reached the North Pole April 6, 1909.

THE TRUTH ABOUT GALIFIANAKIS VS. JORDAN AND NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURE

QUESTION: Between Feb. 1965 and 1970, when the Common Market threat to North Carolina tobacco exports developed, how many pieces of legislation affecting tobacco did B. Everett Jordan introduce in the U.S. Senate?
ANSWER: None

QUESTION: During those same years, when tobacco was threatened by anti-smoking forces, what legislation involving tobacco did B. Everett Jordan introduce in the U.S. Senate?
ANSWER: None.

QUESTION: Between 1963, when Mr. Jordan says he first became aware of the potential threat to American tobacco by the Common Market, and the end of 1971, when that threat had blossomed into a full-scale crisis, did Mr. Jordan call Senate hearings to investigate the situation and seek solutions?
ANSWER: No

QUESTION: When did Mr. Jordan finally call hearings?
ANSWER: In February of this year—during the middle of his campaign for re-election.

QUESTION: Mr. Jordan says he has a lot of seniority. Did the fact that he ranks 32 out of 100 senators help him when he finally decided to hold tobacco export hearings?

ANSWER: No. Mr. Jordan had to get permission from a freshman senator, Lawton Chiles of Florida, chairman of the agricultural export subcommittee, to convene the hearings.
QUESTION: What has CONGRESSMAN NICK GALIFIANAKIS done for North Carolina tobacco?

ANSWER: During his freshman year in 1967 CONGRESSMAN GALIFIANAKIS joined SENATOR SAM ERVIN in a national press conference in which they called for less speculation and more scientific research on the subject of tobacco and health. Galifianakis followed this up by introducing a resolution calling for creation of a Scientific Commission on Smoking and Health. And throughout the '60s GALIFIANAKIS consistently voted for legislation favorable to North Carolina tobacco. A d in 1971 GALIFIANAKIS introduced a resolution urging the President to protect American tobacco exports Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor conceded Monday it would be difficult to initiate any new major state programs during the next four years without some form of additional tax revenues.

Speaking at the East Carolina University Campus, Taylor said, "Basically, I think we could operate state government at the present level with the present tax structure. . . but if we are to start any major new programs we likely would have to find additional sources of revenue."

Arm-Waving Robot Is Traffic Director

By KRISTIN GOFF
Associated Press Writer
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — His co-workers and creators call him "Silent Sam." But to highway safety experts, he's one of the best friends a motorist ever had.

"Sam" is a man-sized, flag-waving robot more and more motorists are beginning to see along the nation's highway construction projects.

"It's amazing the reactions you get to Sam," says Neal McCloskey, a construction supervisor who has worked with the robot for two years in the Baltimore and Washington, D.C., area.

"Lots of people roll down their windows and yell at him. A few even stop for conversations. And many even get a kick out of cursing it," McCloskey said.

Despite the odd reactions, safety experts are pleased that Sam is catching the attention of motorists. Its New York manufacturers quote tests which show that drivers see the robot from nearly three-quarters of a mile away.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed manikin, dressed in blue work clothes, stands atop a red-striped pedestal which boosts it to a height of 7½-feet. A battery-powered mechanical arm swings a red warning flag in a constant 10-foot arc.

Road Signs To Bolinas Removed

By JEANNINE YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer
BOLINAS, Calif. (AP) — This windswept village on the Bolinas Lagoon would like the rest of the world to think it has disappeared. Road signs telling motorists where Bolinas is hiding and how to get there have been removed.

Dozens of signs have been chopped down during the night. County officials erect new ones and these too are eliminated.

"Eliminated is a kind word," fretted road superintendent Henry W. Miller. "What they do is take a chain saw and hack them off." He complained at least 20 signs costing $25-$50 each have disappeared in the last half-year.

ROBOT FLAGMAN — "Silent Sam," a mechanical flagman, keeps watch over a highway construction project near Baltimore, Md. Safety experts say the robot is saving lives, money and man-hours.

"I guess they don't want anybody to know where it is," Miller said.

"The people in this town want to feel it's a town, not a tourist trap," declared Dan Deevy Jr., manager of the only grocery store. "Taking down the signs is one solution. And it works."

On weekends and summer days, the main street of Bolinas is cramped with camera-clicking tourists riding bumper-to-bumper amid weatherbeaten pastel cottages. Homemade signs point out "Smiley's," the saloon; "Scowley's," a restaurant; and "Snarley's," a delicatessen open Sundays only.

Bolinas is nestled in heavily wooded coastal foothills about 20 miles north of San Francisco's Golden Gate and just south of the bay, where Sir Francis Drake crashed his ship Golden Hind in 1579 after he missed the Golden Gate in heavy fog.

Residents include retired folks and young families who like the quiet and the nearby sea.

In short, Bolinas is isolated, but isolated in picturesque territory just perfect for a Sunday drive.

"We close on Sundays because of the tourists," says Deevy. "They dirty the place up and they only buy potato chips and little things."

At Smiley's Saloon, manager Mary Jenkins says patrons and most residents believe fellow residents are tearing down the signs. She and Deevy say this method of "fighting crowds works pretty well."

"People come in and say they've been looking for the town for hours," says Miss Jenkins. She said some motorists go all the way to Point Reyes, about 20 miles north, before they realize they missed the turnout.

Fraternity Will Solicit

A collection drive by members of the Kappa Alpha Order of East Carolina University will take place on Friday and Saturday in Greenville.

The fraternity members will be making an on-street solicitation at three major points in Greenville from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Friday and again from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. on Saturday.

This year, the national Kappa Alpha project is for assistance to the Christian Appalachian Project. All across the country, chapters of the fraternity will seek contributions to help underwrite work being carried out in this project.

In Greenville, fraternity members taking part in the solicitation will wear Kappa Alpha jerseys and have white arm bands. They have been given permission to be on-street at three locations — Greene and Fourteenth Streets; West End Circle; and Five Points.

Peter West, service chairman of Kappa Alpha Order at ECU, is in overall charge of the project.

As usual in solicitations of this nature, the City of Greenville accepts no liability for accidents caused directly or indirectly by this solicitation campaign.

Association requesting that rules for junior high students be written up.
The board approved a program by East Carolina University.
Dr. John Horne, admissions officer at ECU has been working with county school personnel on the possibility of setting up a program whereby some of the county seniors would be able to take college level work at the same time they continue their senior year in high school.

Such a program is being conducted at Western Carolina University, the University of North Carolina at Asheville and several other schools in the state.
Some points to be considered in adoption of such a program are:

- a student must be enrolled as a full time student at the school and must be taking four subjects;
- he must be in his senior year and have a junior SAT score of 1,000 or better;
- he must fall in the top quarter of his class;
- he must have the recommendation of the faculty at the high school in the area that he is considering college level work;
- he must limit his college work to the following areas: English, mathematics, biology, and foreign language;
- he must pass the regular placement exams given by ECU to entering freshmen;
- he may be allowed to enroll in either the night classes or in afternoon classes but must attend high school for at least four periods.

BETHEL — Funeral services for John Linwood Gurganus Sr., 84, who died Tuesday, will be held from the Bethel United Methodist Church Thursday at 4 p.m. by Dr. Robert F. McKee. Burial will follow in the Bethel Cemetery.
Mr. Gurganus was a Martin County native, son of the late William A. and Hannah Bell Peel Gurganus. He had lived in Bethel since 1912, where he was a retired farmer and livestock dealer and was a member of the Bethel United Methodist Church, which he served on the Official Board for several years, the Bethel Masonic Lodge No. 589, Scottish Rite Bodies Sudan Temple, and the Bethel Rotary Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bernice House Gurganus; a son, John L. Gurganus Jr. of Bethel; a daughter, Mrs. James Claude Williamson Jr. of Raleigh; a sister, Mrs. Lewis Ayers of Bethel; a brother, W. S. Gurganus of Williamston; three half brothers, G. Alton Gurganus of Chesapeake, Va., and Spencer Gurganus; a half sister, Mrs. Minnie Weaver of Robertsonville; five grandchildren. Masonic rites will be accorded at the grave.

Worthington
Mr. Frank Worthington Jr. of New York City died as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night while enroute to his home. He was the brother of Mrs. Kadarias Adams of Greenville. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

GRIMESLAND — Mrs. Laura J. Edwards, 78, of Rt. 1, Grimesland, died Tuesday at noon in the Beaufort County Hospital following critical illness of five weeks.
Funeral services will be held in the chapel of Paul Funeral Home in Washington Thursday at 2:30 p.m., conducted by Mrs. Blanche Pollard and the Rev. Paul Jackson. Burial will follow in the Oakdale Cemetery.
She is survived by two sons, Lathel Edwards of Savannah, Ga., and Darrell Edwards of Land of Lakes, Fla.; three daughters, Mrs. Roy Tunstall of Aurora, Mrs. Edith Elks of Greenville and Mrs. Evelyn Elks of Grimesland; 23 grandchildren; two great grand children; one half brother, Riley Norman of Beaufort.

May Fellowship Day, sponsored by Church Women United here in Greenville, will be held Friday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church beginning at 12 noon.
Mrs. Ann Murdock, juvenile probation officer with the Department of Social Services, will be the guest speaker for the annual meeting.

Women planning to attend this year are reminded of the program for migrant workers and the following articles may be carried to the meeting:
Money to buy supplies; health kits containing soap, wash cloth, comb, tooth paste, tooth brush, etc.; sewing kits containing pins, needles, thread, buttons, snaps, zippers, tape measures, scissors, etc.
The articles may also be carried to the home of Mrs. A. L. Henry.
Persons attending are invited to bring a covered dish and join the fellowship luncheon.

Water Problems Come Before Farmville Board

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Willard Dean, director of the Pitt County FHA office, told commissioners here last night that funds are obligated by his agency to buy bonds at five per cent interest for water improvements.
Town Manager Carl Beaman said he would check with the Local Government Commission today about whether the town may place distribution lines outside the town using bond money. If not, Dean agreed to work with residents of an area near the Collins and Aikman Plant to form a non-profit water association so they may install lines and buy their water wholesale from Farmville. Many residents of the area have had to haul all their families' drinking water from town for some time.

The Board honored a request by Carl Venters that he be removed from the position of the town's liaison with the Mideast Economic Development Commission. Joe Joyner was named to replace him, if he will accept.
Members of the Farmville School Advisory Council and Farmville Central Principal Russ Cotton appeared commenting on recent lack of cooperation between the town and the schools. Several rumors apparently were dispelled by this talk, including that the schools' gymnasium may not be used for town recreation and that the football field was ruined by the use of it for the Centennial pageant. The Advisory Council's spokesman, Joby Griffin, said the school people could not understand Coach D. L. Scott Jr.'s not being rehired as a recreation director this year.

The Board approved the advancing of $75 to the County Board of Commissioners for use in informing the voters about the Clean Water Bond Issue to be voted, on Saturday. They also adopted a resolution endorsing the Bond Issue.
Clarification on contractor's obligations and privileges concerning disposal of debris at the town dump was made following questions by local contractor, Jack Flarrior. Any contractor may freely dump material accumulated from construction in town and may do so with a permit and $5 per load for materials outside of town, he was told.
Flarrior suggested that the town follow Greenville and Wilson's example in allowing contractors for construction jobs within the one mile radius that requires building permits also use the waste disposal facilities. His suggestion was made a town ordinance.
The town manager was asked to contact the widow of Marilyn Jones, telling her that the town's offer of $600 for property needed for the improvement of Barrett Street will be withdrawn and condemnation proceedings will begin if she and her daughter have not accepted or rejected the offer by May 10. The town has offered the Jones heirs $200 more than the appraised value plus free curbing and guttering in front of the property for the right of way.
The Commissioners agreed to offer the B. F. Lewis heirs $1,000 per acre for land on the Stanstonsburg Road for use as a town cemetery.
Parking on one side of Cotton Street from Main to Walnut was prohibited.
The Commissioners approved a map presented by Fire Chief H. P. Norman showing a revised fire district. Norman will submit the map for approval by the Insurance Commissioner's office.

Walkathon Project Had Its Highlights

First reports on Saturday's 25 mile walkathon, the "Walk for Development of Greenville" program of the international walking project of "Freedom from Hunger" reveals some interesting highlights.

From the beginning point at Ficklen Stadium, a total of 164 people started out for the 25-mile wind-about march. More than half this number, 91, completed the 25 miles route that took them into Brook Valley, back into Greenville, across the Tar River to Meadowbrook, back across the river into Moyewood, then back into the heart of Greenville with the finishing line at the Baptist Student Center.
Bob Clyde, Chaplain of the Baptist Student Center and coordinator of the day long walk, provided a first rundown of some individual accomplishments. These include:
—ECU freshman John Miles has the distinction of completing the 25 mile course as a runner. Five others attempted the run, making part of the trip successfully. These were Bruce Shepard, David Higgs, Allen Kayler, Devaux Oliver and Mike Golding.
—The oldest and youngest to complete the walk were the Rev. Roy Turnage, 55 and Stewart Long, 8.
—The highest rate per mile pledged to a walker was that of $10.20 per mile pledged to Rev. Norman Bennett.
—The longest record for a barefoot walker; 12.5 miles established by Jennifer Schaul. Clyde said all involved in planning and arranging the walk were very delighted with the results which exceeded expectations.
"I do wish to remind walkers to report to their sponsors at the earliest possible moment to collect and turn in their pledges," he commented, "as our final tally date is May 12." Clyde said he will make a report on the total collected at that time.

The Board approved the advancing of $75 to the County Board of Commissioners for use in informing the voters about the Clean Water Bond Issue to be voted, on Saturday. They also adopted a resolution endorsing the Bond Issue.

Former Judge Is Elected New Ayden Mayor

AYDEN — Larry Davis, former judge of the Ayden Recorders Court, was elected mayor in the municipal election held here yesterday.
Davis, running unopposed for the office, received 555 votes. Ross Persinger, who has served several terms of mayor her and who chose not to seek reelection, received 89 write-in votes.
Incumbent commissioners J. D. Allen of the second ward and J. J. Brown of the fourth ward were re-elected to their seats. Allen polled 437 voted while Brown took 507 votes.
Allen was opposed by R. E. Roberson in his bid for reelection while Brown ran unopposed.
Roberson received 230 votes in his bid to unseat Allen.
Three French balloonists set an altitude record of 28,000 feet on April 15, 1875, says National Geographic.

The Fountain community agreed to do the necessary repair work to the school if the county would furnish the materials.
However, the board expressed doubt as to whether or not they could spend money for repairs on a school facility that was no longer being utilized for classes.
After some discussion on the request, the board agreed to advertise the building for sale.
Wachovia Bank and Trust Company of Bethel was named yesterday to handle the Title I funds for the new budget year.
J. L. Keeter, assistant superintendent of county schools, explained a number of changes in the Title I program as dictated by state and federal guidelines.
According to the guidelines, any general aid to the school program will be questioned; Title I supervisors must supervise only programs operated by Title I funds; the readiness program operated by Title I in the past will be discontinued; and the audiovisual bus that is operated by Title I should provide services for Title I students only.

Picnic For Blind And Visually Handicapped
The Greenville Jaycees have invited the blind and visually handicapped citizens of Pitt County and their immediate families to a spring picnic Sunday at Elm Street Park.
Baxter Pewell and Ted Gartman of the local Jaycee chapter said that the picnic will be held from 2:30 to 5 p.m. A barbecue and fried chicken meal will be served at 4 p.m., they reported.
The Jaycees noted that all blind and visually handicapped citizens in the county should have been contacted by telephone or postcard. Cards should be returned to the Jaycees by mail.
Questions concerning the picnic should be directed to Mrs. Robbie Payne at the Pitt Social Services Department, it was pointed out.
There were 779 local and long distance telephone calls for each man, woman and child in the United States in 1970.

Things You Should Know About TERRY SANFORD

- ★ AS A LAD
Terry Sanford pulled suckers and barned tobacco from sun to sun, and later worked his way through college.
- ★ AS A YOUNG MAN
At the time of World War II, Terry Sanford was an FBI Agent and deferred from the draft. He gave up this deferment and volunteered for military duty as a private in the paratroopers. He fought in 5 offenses including the "Battle of the Bulge", and awarded the Purple Heart.
- ★ AS A PUBLIC SERVANT
Terry Sanford became Governor of North Carolina but never lost touch with the "little man". He was concerned about the welfare of his fellowman and sought ways to provide aid. Under his administration, legislation was passed establishing a system of Technical Institutes in North Carolina. Wilson Eases Past Rampants By 1-0

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor

How do you lead off two innings with triples and still fail to score? Rose High School Coach Dave Holton is probably still asking himself that question today after his Rampants did just that yesterday and still lost to

Wilson, 1-0. Wilson, by winning, stayed hot on the heels of league leading Rocky Mount, and at the same time, just about eliminated any hope the Rampants might have of winning the title. The lost left Rose with a 2-4 record in the league. They have four games remaining, including two more dates this week. They travel to

Kinston for a 3 p.m. game Thursday, then go to Goldsboro on Friday for a 4 p.m. contest. Wilson's Jerry Hobgood hurled the victory, and except for the two triples, and a single, handcuffed the Rampants the rest of the way. He scored perfect control, failing to walk a single batter, while he struck out

Wilson meanwhile, kept the pressure on the Rampants, going down in order only once. Despite this, they got only three hits, and none of them figured in the scoring. Wilson's first threat came in the first inning with Doug Dickens got a one out single. Billy Davis walked, but a double play got the Rampants out of the inning. The Titans again threatened in the second. Hobgood singled to deep short and Keith Stutts walked. Billy Rogers reached on an unsuccessful fielder's choice, loading the bases, but another double play got Rose out of the jam again. Ricky Bass singled and stole second in the fourth inning but couldn't come any further. Then in the fifth, Wilson struck for the game's only run. Rodgers was hit by a pitch and took second on a passed ball. Will Flowers walked and Jay Morris sacrificed them up a base. Holton then put in an odd formation to guard against the squeeze, and it payed off. He brought in third baseman Randy McKinney to about 15 feet from the plate. Second baseman John Barwick did the same thing on the first base line. Shortstop Bill Lee moved over toward third while firstbaseman Derek Dunn moved over toward second. Right-fielder Robbie Cox came in to play the center of the infield, while the other two outfielders shifted to the middle of the playing area. As it happened, the batter, Dickens didn't bunt, but hit a chopper to McKinney, who faked Rodgers back, then threw to first in time for the play. Had he been playing at regular depth, he would have had only one play, to first, and the run would have scored. But fate was not to let the Rampants get out of the jam. On the next play, Dennis Wilkerson's grounder to third was errored, and Rodgers scored anyway, and that was all Wilson needed. They did offer one more threat, when Jay Morris and Dickens both walked in the seventh. Rose got only three chances and none of them paid off. Stanley Cobb opened the second with a triple. Four times, he crossed the plate on attempted squeeze plays the rest of the inning, but each time the ball went foul. Finally, Hobgood struck out the side, standing Cobb at third. In the fourth, Barwick singled and stole second, but a linedrive doubleplay caught him there. Then, in the fifth, McKinney opened with a triple. After one batter failed on the bunt and struck out, the next missed altogether, and McKinney was cut down sliding home.

Farmville Central Rolls Up 9-0 Victory Over Ayden-Grifton

By CHIP LAMBETH Reflector Sports Writer

AYDEN — Farmville Central's Jaguars stopped the Ayden-Grifton Chargers' charge cold last night 9-0 on a 3-hit effort by FC's Bobby Daniels who went the distance for the winners.

In getting the win, Daniels fanned six Charger batters while walking four. Until the third, only one A-G batter reached base and that came on a walk. Doug Phillips got the first hit for the Chargers in the next frame, a line shot to center, and for the next three innings that looked like that was to be all the hitting for Ayden-Grifton.

But the Chargers came up with twice that many in the last inning as they loaded the bases putting a man on third for the first time of the night. The Jags closed the door right there and had the shut-out.

The Jaguars, meanwhile, were taking command at the outset. They cracked out ten hits and committed only a pair of errors. Farmville Central got all the runs it needed in the second as they jumped out to a 4-0 lead. With one down, Chuck Finklea singled to center and moved to second on Ed Wells' walk. Barry Johnson slapped a hit into center to drive in Finklea with the first score. Wells went to second on the play. Haywood Joyner got a hit to score Wells. The ball got away from the fielder and both Johnson and Joyner came around to score. The rally ended there as the next batter grounded out.

Farmville Central added another run in the third on a hit by Phil Lewis who advanced on an error as he tried to steal second base. That let him go to third. Ben Joyner grounded back to the pitcher but Lewis came in to score on the throw to first.

In the bottom of the frame, the Chargers came up with their first hit, Phillips' one-out single. He was left stranded at first. The Jaguars were not through yet and pushed over two more in the top of the fourth. Daniels reached on an error as his fly to left was dropped. Wells singled him across. Wells went to second as the relay trying to nail Daniels was errored. Cloyce Wilson got a hit putting runners on first and third. Wilson headed for second on the next pitch but the A-G catcher threw the ball over the outstretched glove of the infielder and Wells came in to score. Another insurance run came across in the sixth as Finklea singled, moved around on a walk and a fielder's choice and scored on a hit by Joyner. A-G put two men on in their half of the sixth on a pair of walks but could not bring them around. They did threaten to break the ice in the last of the seventh. Lynn Thomas and Ronnie Eason both got hits and after an out, Tony Koonce walked. But the next two batters were set down and it was over. Finklea and Joyner had two hits for the Jags. Farmville is now 8-6 while Ayden-Grifton is 10-5.

Bear Grass Nips Jamesville, 6-4

JAMESVILLE — Bear Grass High School collected its first win against Martin County Conference opposition yesterday, 6-4 at the expense of winless Jamesville.

Bear Grass moved into the lead in the third inning, pushing over three runs. Keith Wynn singled and Keith Williams walked. Bryan Bowen then cracked a three-run homer for a 3-0 lead.

It lasted only a short time, however, as Jamesville came back in the bottom of the inning to take the lead, scoring four runs. Bucky Dickerson walked and Steve McCombs singled. Kevin Holiday then doubled, driving in both Dickerson and McCombs. Gurkin Martin walked and Albert Perry got a hit to score Holiday with the tying run. Eric Martin then reached on an error, scoring Gurkin Martin with the go-ahead run. Bear Grass put on a rally in the fifth inning, coming up with three runs to move ahead again, this time for good. Williams walked and Charles Mobley also walked. Eddie Wynn singled in Williams, and Evans got a hit to score Mobley. Roberson walked and Harrison was hit by a pitch, scoring Wynne to make it 6-4. McCombs, Holiday and Gurkin Martin each had two hits for Jamesville. No one had more than one for Bear Grass.

Bear Grass 003 030 0-6 7 1, Jamesville 004 000 0-4 8 0. Williams and Bowen; Ange, Dickerson (5), Perry (5) and Holiday.

North Pitt In Loss To Aycock

PIKEVILLE — Charles B. Aycock kept in the race for the Eastern Carolina Conference title with a 5-2 victory over North Pitt's Panthers yesterday.

Aycock pushed into the lead in the game with a run in the first inning. David Pittman singled and stole second. He scored when Richard Lancaster singled.

In the second, the Falcons added another run, that coming on a home run by Warren Finch. The third saw two more Aycock runs score, making it 4-0. Danny Kirby doubled and Terry Durham brought him home with another double. Terry McFatter then got a single, scoring Durham.

The final Aycock run came in the sixth, making it 5-0. North Pitt avoided a shutout with a pair of runs in the seventh inning. Linwood Brown walked and William Little singled. John Grimes then doubled to drive in both runners. N. Pitt 000 000 2-2 6 3, Aycock 112 001 x-5 9 1. Harrell, Grimes (6) and Price; Gpover and McFatter.

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Jim Stanley of the University of Richmond and Eddie Pinnix of East Carolina shared the lead with one-over-par 73s going into today's final round of the Southern Conference golf tournament.

Rusty Boyd of Davidson was next with a 74 and he was followed by teammate Bob Reni with a 75. The Citadel held the team lead at 386 on the best five scores of its seven-man team over the 6,900-yard par 72 Quail Ridge Golf Club course. Davidson was second with 391 and defending champion East Carolina was next at 394.

Furman and Richmond were tied at 395 in the team race, followed by William and Mary at 398 and VMI at 427. A new individual champion was assured in today's final round of the 36-hole tournament. Last year's champion, Lynwood Edwards of East Carolina, has graduated.

Richmond In Sweep Of Pair

Richmond's Spiders swept a doubleheader from Virginia Military Institute yesterday to move closer to the Southern Conference baseball title.

They won the opener, 13-5, and took the second, 7-3, for the sweep, running their record to 9-3. They have four games left, double-headers with William and Mary on Thursday and Friday.

For East Carolina to have a chance, Richmond must at least split the four games, losing two and winning two.

Aycock Dumps Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT — E. B. Aycock Junior High School rolled to a 7-4 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday, but it took a late rally to accomplish it.

Rocky Mount had taken a 4-0 lead in the second inning, bunching all their scoring on five Aycock errors. Isreal McNeill reached on an error as did Billy Woolard. Joe Bean singled, scoring McNeill. Bill Wilson reached on a fielder's choice that cut down Woolard at third. Randy Roberson reached on the third error of the inning, and Dean came home on a ground out. Earl Lawrence reached on another error, scoring Wilson, and Roberson scored when Dean Bradshaw was safe on the fifth miscue. Aycock struggled back, scoring single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to cut it to 4-3. The fourth inning saw Ron Hunt triple, then score when Macon Moye grounded out. In the fifth, Mike Brewington doubled and scored on David Dixon's single. Hunt doubled in the sixth, and came home on a hit by William Carraway. Then, in the seventh, the Phantoms came up with four runs to wrap it up. Kevin Walker singled and Grif Garner walked. Kirk Keys singled and Hunt walked to bring in Walker. Moye sacrificed in Garner and Carraway doubled to score Keys and Hunt. Aycock is now 6-3 on the year. Keys, Hunt, Carraway and Brewington each had two hits for the Phantoms. Aycock 000 111 4-7 11 5, Rocky M. 040 000 0-4 5 0. Manning and Brewington; Barton, Bradshaw (6) and McNeill, Hayden (6).

Does He Or Doesn't He? Only Perry's Manager Knows For Sure To Tiger Cubs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Does pitcher Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians use his hair to put "stuff" on the ball? Only his manager knows for sure.

Manager Ted Williams, who's pretty sure. "I think he doctors the ball up every now and then."

Whatever Perry was doing with the ball was way over the Rangers' heads Tuesday night. He allowed just four hits and had 12 strikeouts before leaving in the eighth inning as Cleveland took a 4-2 decision. An exasperated Williams was still trying to wash that man right out of his hair after the game.

Perry, the former San Francisco star who came to Cleveland during the winter for Sam McDowell, pitched a powerhouse game before weakening in the eighth with two outs. Relief pitcher Steve Mingori came in to put out the Ranger fire.

Williamston — The Williamston "B" team rolled to a 10-9 victory over Oak City High School yesterday.

Williamston Rolls To Win

SCOTLAND NECK — The Williamston Tigers roared to a 9-0 victory over Scotland Neck yesterday, holding on to first place in the Albemarle Conference.

In the third, one more came in. Dwight Ange walked, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Vann Andrews walked and stole second. An error on the play let Ange in for a 3-0 lead.

Another came across in the fourth. Rogerson singled and stole second. He also moved to third on a wild pitch, scoring on Gary Whitehurst's double.

Williamston added one more in the sixth and four in the seventh.

when Eddie Rogerson reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Cherry. A balk then brought in Raiford.

The Williamston hurling staff combined to limit Scotland Neck to just two hits. Mike Bundy started the game, going three innings. He allowed no hits, walked none and struck out six. Mike Weaver, who hurled the next three, allowed one hit, struck out five and walked one. Dean Harrell went the final inning, allowing one hit, two walks while fanning one.

Williamston gained the lead in the second, scoring twice. Rock Cherry reached on an error and stole second. An error on that play let him go to third. Jimmy Raiford walked and moved up the eighth as Cleveland took a 4-2 decision. An exasperated Williams was still trying to wash that man right out of his hair after the game.

"It's the first time I've seen him," said Williams. "I kept hollering to the umpires about him going to his hair. I don't know what you have to do to get them to go out and look at it."

Perry, who's heard such distress signals from National League opponents before his off-season trade to the American this season, firmly insists that he never uses that greasy kid stuff.

"I heard Williams hollering at the umpire but it didn't bother me," said Perry.

In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Chicago White Sox 3-0; the New York Yankees defeated the California Angels 5-0 and the Kansas City Royals downed the Detroit Tigers 6-3. Rain washed out Minnesota at Milwaukee and cold postponed Oakland at Boston.

Perry was helped to his third American League victory by Ray Fosse, who capped a three-run Cleveland rally in the sixth inning with a two-run double.

But Williamston came back with four runs in the bottom of the inning to gain the lead, 4-1. George Brown singled and Phil Selby got a hit. Leslie Hardison singled, scoring Brown. Keith Biggs doubled in both Selby and Hardison, and after an out, Mike Bryant sacrificed in Biggs.

Four more Tiger Cubs runs crossed in the second. Paul Scott opened the inning with a homer. Al Griffin then walked and Brown singled. Selby reached on an error, scoring Griffin and Biggs singled in both Brown and Selby.

The final two Williamston runs came in the third. Griffin walked and stole second. Brown and Hardison both singled, with the last hit bringing in both runs, making it 10-1.

Oak City struggled back, scoring one in the fifth, two in the sixth and four in the seventh, but they couldn't quite close the

Greene Central Holds Its Lead

NEW HOPE — Greene Central rolled to a 10-3 victory over Eastern Wayne after getting off to a slow start last night. The victory kept the Rams safely in first place in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Eastern Wayne, however, threatened to help C. B. Aycock in its quest of overtaking the Rams, moving out to a 3-0 lead in the first two innings.

They pushed over one run in the first. Gary Davis singled and after advancing on an out, scored when Ray Taylor reached on an error.

Then, in the second, two more Warrior runs came in. Ron Chadwick singled and moved up on a sacrifice. Thomas Long tripled to bring him in, and a hit by Davis brought in Long.

Greene Central finally got things going in the third, and came up with three runs to tie it up. Donald Taylor singled and Richard Holloman got a hit. Mike Perry singled, bringing in Taylor. Bob Scott then singled to drive in both Holloman and Perry.

It stayed that way until the fifth when the Rams broke it open with six big runs. Larry Stancil singled and Robert Ivey got a hit. Both moved up on a sacrifice, and Stevie Williamson walked, loading the bases. Scott singled in Stancil and Billy Williamson singled in Ivey and Stevie Williamson. Danny Whitley was hit by a pitch and Elwood Grant reached when his sacrifice fly was dropped, scoring Scott. Taylor and Ivey both drew walks, scoring Billy Williamson and Whitley with the next two runs.

The Rams added one more in the seventh for their 10 run total. Taylor, Holloman, Perry, Scott and Billy Williamson each had two hits for the Rams, who are now 13-1 in the league.

Church Teams Begin Action

Three more Church Softball League teams joined in the action last night, as Presbyterian, Meadowbrook and Black Jack picked up victories.

Presbyterian downed St. Gabriel, 18-0, while Meadowbrook beat Belvoir, 28-1, and Black Jack ripped Oakmont, 24-10.

In the first game, Presbyterian pushed over five runs in the first inning to take the lead for good. Boyd Lee reached on an error and scored on Gene Hudson's double. Don Owen tripled, but was put out at home after Hudson scored. Bill Glidewell reached on a fielder's choice and Spencer Gaylor doubled. John Jackson reached on an error, scoring Glidewell, and Brooks Beddingfield singled to score Gaylor. Woody Crumpler doubled, scoring Jackson with the fifth run.

Presbyterian added three more in the second, one in the fourth on Hudson's homer; two more in the fifth and seven in the sixth.

Hudson led the hitting with four, while Lee and Crumpler each had three.

In the second game, Meadowbrook pushed over nine in the first frame for the lead. Linwood Owens walked and Carl Powell doubled. John Huber brought both in with a triple and Bobby Harris tripled to score Huber. Gordon Bunting singled in Harris and he scored on Wayne Nelson's triple, who scored on an error himself. Victor Wade tripled and Bucky Roebuck walked. Carson Heath tripled in both runners and scored on Dwight Foster's sacrifice.

Presbyterian added five in the second, one in the fourth on Bunting's homer; and then got 13 in the fifth including a homer by Foster. The lone Belvoir run came in the sixth.

Bunting led the Meadowbrook hitting with four, while Foster, Owens, Powell, Huber, Wade and Heath each had three. Ronnie Carawan had three for Belvoir.

In the final game, Black Jack took the lead in the first, scoring twice, they added one in the second, but Oakmont came up with two in the bottom of the second to cut the lead to 3-2.

Then, in the third, Black Jack exploded for 10 runs to take the lead for good. J. T. Mills walked and scored on Randy Dixon's double. Billy Elks walked and Roy McCarter and George Holland both singled. C. Mills reached on an error and Bill Carson singled. Steve Peele and Hugh Hardee got singled and Phillip Smith doubled. Mills reached on an error and Dixon hit into a fielder's choice scoring Smith with the final run.

Black Jack added eight more in the fourth with Peele homering, then got three more in the fifth. Oakmont added two in the third and six in the fifth.

Hardee led Black Jack with four, while Peele, Holland, C. Mills and Carson each had three. Fin Johnson and Danny Singleton led the Oakmont hitting with three each.

Ladies League Opens Season

The Little Mint, Beltone and Azalea Mobile Homes opened the ladies Softball League season last night with big wins. Azalea downed Three Steers, 22-2; Belton ripped Piggly-Wiggly, 26-3; and Little Mint blitzed Coca-Cola, 25-0.

In the opening game, the Little Mint got all it needed in the first inning of play. Darlene Briley singled and scored on Carol Manuel's double. Linda Tripp singled to bring in Manuel for a 2-0 lead.

The Little Mint then added three in the second, 14 in the third including homers by Tripp and Pat Kilpatrick, one in the fifth and five in the seventh.

Darlene Briley led the Little Mint hitting with six, while Bobbie Jones had four, and Manuel, Tripp, Sandra Kelly and Wanda Oakley had three each.

In the second game, Beltone came up with 11 runs in the first inning to put their contest out of reach. Georgia Potter singled and Joyce Sawyer homered. Cynthia Averett followed with another homer and Sandy Barnhill singled. Cathy Anthony doubled and Peggy Morris singled. Debra Pfile reached on an error and Dona Hardy singled. Nancy Tripp singled and Potter and Sawyer both got hits. Barnhill doubled, finishing off the scoring.

They went on to add two in the second, five in the third, with Averett homering again, four in the fourth with Potter homering, and four in the fifth, as Averett and Anthony homering. All three Piggly Wiggly runs came in the third. Potter and Morris each had five hits, Sawyer, Averett and Anthony had four, while Barnhill had three for Beltone.

Azalea pushed over six in the first inning of its game, also setting the tempo. Becky Beland reached on an error and Noel Robbins singled. Mary Lou Rouse reached on an error and Faye Everett doubled. Gloria Lassiter, Betty Owens, and Jan Hicks each singled, closing out the hitting.

Azalea went on to add three in the second and 13 in the fourth. Three Steers picked up both of its runs in the third.

Conley Downs North Lenoir

HOLLYWOOD — D. H. Conley High School spotted North Lenoir's Hawks a 1-0 lead, then came back to take a 4-1 victory yesterday in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball contest.

North Lenoir leaped into the lead in the first inning, getting what was to be their only run. Sullivan walked and Tripp reached on a base hit. Both runners moved up on a passed ball and Sullivan came in to score on an infield out.

It stayed that way until the third inning, when Conley exploded for four runs and the win. Randy Adams singled and moved up on a passed ball. Willie Streeter then singled to bring him in with the tying run. Bryant Hines got a hit and a passed ball let him and Streeter advance.

Clenell Streeter reached on an error, allowing Willie Streeter to score with the go-ahead run. Stacey Evans followed with a single, scoring Hines, and Streeter then stole third. Kevin Little singled, scoring Streeter with the fourth Viking run.

Adams, Willie Streeter and Hines finished the game with two hits each.

The Vikings are now 4-10 in the league.

And they can't understand how
A&P can sell an A&P Brand for less than the top quality national brand... without sacrificing quality.

They overlook three eye-openers:

1. Aside from being the world's largest food retailer, A&P is also one of the largest food processors.
2. Even with products we don't process ourselves, we buy directly from the producer and eliminate many middlemen costs.
3. Every item which bears the A&P name is as good as or better than... comparable national brands.

That last point is rigid policy from which we never deviate and is easy for you to prove without risking a nickel.

Just try a shopping-cart full of A&P Brands, now, while the big sale is on.

If you're not satisfied, we'll give you back every last nickel.

HOROSCOPE
 from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's activities can be utilized wisely by putting yourself in an enthusiastic frame of mind. Let this continue in outside affairs, especially when meeting individuals in positions of authority, the government, civic, or whatever vocational activities you encounter.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact those persons who can be most helpful in backing your pet project and get desired results quickly. Engage in civic work that brings you the prestige you want. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have a plan to work out which can be best accomplished with the aid of persons with practical ideas. Make good use of them. Avoid the limelight tonight. Rest is more important.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You must put big plans aside temporarily while you clear up accumulated obligations that are vital. Following this have fun with the one you love tonight. Show that you have poise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listening to the views of an associate clears up the misunderstanding between you. Something comes up to pave the way for greater success for you. Take advantage of it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) With all that work ahead of you, enthusiasm is necessary to put it resolutely behind you and clear the slate for big things ahead. Rest and restore your energies in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Accept an invitation to pleasure extended to you, since you can put off unimportant chores to another time. Others see you in a favorable light now, so make the most of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Give your attention to home affairs now that are most important. You have to prepare better before you become involved in a public matter that interests you. Show that you have ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Have the right answers for others and get ahead faster. Show associates that you appreciate them. Make everything around you more perfect. Avoid unnecessary clutter. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Obtain facts and figures that will help you come to a better understanding with associates. Go to a business expert for the data you need. Use tact with these persons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't waste time in going after a personal advancement that you want and get the right results. Those who are devoted to you can be most helpful. Put more joy into your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You need to study all the factors of a new plan if you are to be successful with it. Do some secret angling. Find a new way to assist those who come to you for help.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get in touch with individuals who are eager to see you get fine benefits therefrom. Something of a social nature is fine in the evening. Show that you are capable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those very wise young people who comprehends what bigwigs expect. Give the finest education that will help your progeny make the most of modern systems and trends, since there is likely to be much of the old-fashioned in this nature. Prepare now for his or her education so there will be no lack later on.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Set Conference On 'Learning Centers'

A Learning Centers Conference for eastern North Carolina teachers and school administrators will be held at East Carolina University June 14 and 15.

The conference is sponsored by the ECU School of Education and Science Research Associates, Inc. in cooperation with the Greenville City Schools.

Velma B. Saire, Director of Curriculum for the McKeesport, Pa. Model School, will be conference leader. She is an experienced teacher, administrator and consultant with an extensive background in organizing and operating school learning center. Dr. Frank Arwood, chairman of elementary education at ECU, said all school systems in the ECU area should be represented at the conference on one of the two meeting days.

Demonstration of the modern learning center will take place at Greenville's Wahl-Coates Elementary School, the laboratory school for the ECU School of Education.

Interested educators may address their inquiries or requests for further information to Dr. Arwood at the Department of Elementary Education, School of Education, ECU, Greenville.

Body Of J. Edgar Hoover In The Capitol Rotunda

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI for nearly 48 years, goes on public view today in the Capitol Rotunda amid expectations that the passing of the man will mean the passing of an era.

There seems little doubt that no matter whom President Nixon names to replace the 77-year-old bachelor, found dead in his home early Tuesday, there will be changes in the nation's top investigative body which Hoover ruled with an iron hand and molded in his own image.

A memorial service was scheduled at the Rotunda at 11 a.m. today, with a eulogy by Chief Justice Warren Burger. The body will lie in state until 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

President Nixon will deliver the eulogy at the funeral service at the National Presbyterian Church, the one Hoover attended, at 11 a.m. Thursday. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery in the nation's capital, Hoover's lifelong home. His only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Hoover, whose body was found beside his bed, died of natural causes. His death was attributed to "hypertensive cardiovascular disease"—an ailment linked to high blood pressure—although the immediate cause might have been a heart attack.

Clyde A. Tolson, 72, Hoover's longtime friend and No. 2 man in the bureau, was named immediately to take charge. Nixon was to name an acting director today, most likely a Justice Department attorney but not Hoover's permanent successor.

Nixon, speaking at the White House Tuesday, said every American owes Hoover "a great debt for building the FBI into the finest law-enforcement organization in the entire world."

The President ordered flags at all public buildings and installations lowered to half-staff.

Tribute to Hoover, who served eight presidents and 16

J. EDGAR HOOVER

attorneys general, poured in from friend and foe after his death. Most praised him as a man of honor, courage, integrity and love of country.

"No individual in the history of this nation contributed more to the great causes of liberty under law and Americanism," said Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said bootleggers, bank robbers, saboteurs and draft-card burners disliked Hoover "for the qualities that endeared him to all other Americans, his total dedication to principle and his complete incorruptibility."

Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. who reportedly was a subject of intense FBI surveillance in the 1960s, said the bureau under Hoover had compiled files of "lies and sordid material." She urged Congress to make sure "that never again shall one individual be in a position to wrongfully intimidate a nation and its leadership."

Hoover was, to a nation of growing boys and girls, the smart and incorruptible cop who chased down bank robbers and mad-dog kidnapers. But he also was much more: the American watchdog who ferreted out the un-Americans, from Nazi spies and Communist sympathizers to Black Power extremists and New Left bomb throwers.

As a public administrator, Hoover built the FBI from a small bureau in the Justice Department, withered by scandal in the 1920s, to an awesome machine of 8,600 special agents across the land with 81 million sets of fingerprints on file in Washington.

Hoover stirred patriotism and even devotion from many Americans. Toward the end, however, he was the target of criticism, in and out of the government.

In his last public appearances before the House and Senate appropriations committees, which rarely if ever cut his budget proposals, he said:

"I have a philosophy. You are honored by your friends and you are distinguished by your enemies. I have been distinguished."

Hoover never recommended publicly a successor but said he would prefer the replacement be someone who had come up through the ranks of the bureau.

It was understood, however, that Hoover's permanent replacement is more likely to come from outside the FBI ranks as the administration moves to assert more control over the bureau's operations than has been possible during Hoover's tenure.

There is much speculation on whom Nixon will recommend but the White House refused Tuesday to say anything on the subject.

Among those mentioned unofficially:

—W. Mark Felt, 58, promoted by Hoover last September from a virtually unknown job to the No. 3 man in the bureau.

—Myles W. Ambrose, 45, former Customs Bureau chief who is now a special assistant to the attorney general, heading Nixon's campaign to rid the nation's streets of heroin pushers.

—John E. Ingersoll, 42, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, with a background in law enforcement.

—Robert C. Mardian, 48, who resigned last week as head of the Justice Department's Internal Security Division to join a former attorney general, John N. Mitchell, in Nixon's re-election campaign.

—Eugene T. Rossides, 44, assistant secretary of the Treasury in charge of enforcement. He first served at Treasury in the Eisenhower years.

Math Profs At Annual Session

Dr. Katharine W. Hodgkin and Dr. Katye O. Sowell of the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics were in Chicago last week, attending the annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

They conducted a workshop for junior high school teachers on "Polygrams and other Tangram-type Puzzles," and attended a special conference on mathematics education.

Dr. Hodgkin is director of elementary mathematics education at ECU, and Dr. Sowell is director of secondary mathematics education.

Hospital Seeks Suitable Name

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (UPI) — Traverse City State Hospital is seeking a new name to fit a new image — one that does not contain the words "hospital" or "clinic."

Always prominent for its care of the mentally ill, the hospital in the past 15 years has become even more well known in the area of teaching and research associated with mental health.

Shades Of Yesteryear! Campaigning On A Train

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Shades of yesteryear: Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in Saturday's primary, went campaigning by train today.

He set out from Reidsville in a 300-passenger Southern Railway chartered train. He was to make short speeches at stops in Greensboro, High Point, Thomasville, Lexington, Salisbury, Kannapolis, Concord, Charlotte, Belmont and Gastonia.

One of Taylor's rivals, Dr. Reginald Hawkins, joined presidential aspirant Shirley Chisholm, a fellow black who began a three-day tour of North Carolina today. They began the day in Asheville, and were to stop in Charlotte, Thomasville, High Point, Winston-Salem and Durham.

Elsewhere with Democratic gubernatorial candidates:

Wilbur Hobby, state president of the AFL-CIO, said the Democratic party will lose votes if it tries to shut out any candidate. "Our party is big enough for Wilbur Hobby, George Wallace and Terry Sanford, and any attempts to freeze out any of us will mean the loss of many votes of blue collar workers, dirt farmers and young people," Hobby declared. He was to be in New Bern and Kinston today.

Skipper Bowles says he is still winning, but he acknowledges Taylor's strength. "It's hard to be the lead horse for six or eight months," Bowles said, "and find out someone's coming up on your blind side." He was to be in New Bern, Henderson, Oxford, Durham and Chapel Hill today.

A Republican candidate for governor, Jim Gardner, says his children are attending private school because of forced busing to achieve integration. The Rocky Mount businessman said, "I'm against forced busing because it hurts quality education."

His opponent, Jim Holschouer, was to hold news conferences in Winston-Salem, Gastonia and Charlotte today, and tour Randolph County this evening.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, who is 75 and had major surgery last year, said again he is running for a full six years, and expects to be elected and serve the full term. His opponent for the Democratic nomination, Rep. Nick Galifianakis, continued a final swing through the Piedmont with handshaking tours in Forsyth and Alamance counties today, and a news conference in Winston-Salem.

Sen. Jackson Drops Active Campaigning

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, whose strong personal presidential campaign in Ohio failed to ignite voter support, has dropped out of active primary election campaigning.

But he said he was not releasing his delegates.

"A lot can happen between now and Miami," Jackson said Tuesday night, looking ahead to the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

The Washington senator had made a strong bid for Ohio's primary, but finished fourth in a field of five Democrats.

Jackson said that he had to work with a radio-television and newspaper advertising budget of $22,000 in Ohio. He had said earlier that his entire state campaign budget was less than $50,000.

"I had indicated earlier I would not carry on a campaign involving deficit financing," Jackson told newsmen and a small gathering of supporters. Because of limited campaign funds, "it is my decision not to go into any more of the primary campaigns because it will not be possible ... without deficit financing."

Jackson continues on the ballot in Oregon, Nebraska and Michigan, which have mandatory primaries. He is also on the California ballot.

"I will continue in the campaign. I am staying with it," Jackson said.

On Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, collectors and non-collectors who enjoy the sight of gleaming gold and silver coins, crisp (or wilted) paper money, and historic notes of exchange, will have an opportunity to see a large numismatic exhibition at Moose Lodge on the occasion of the Third Annual Coin Show.

George Fleming, president of the Pitt Coin Club, a non-profit hobby organization, says "having the exhibit at the Moose Lodge should make it easy for everyone to see it. Nearly everyone in the area knows the location of the Greenville Moose Lodge, on U.S. 264 just west of the Memorial Drive intersection.

This year, a group of prize collections from out of town will be on view for the two day show. Among top attractions listed by Fleming are the collection of U.S. gold coins owned by George Crocker of Sumter, South Carolina, winner of many tokens, both those of the U.S. and of foreign countries. Dues are 50 cents to join and 50 cents each time a member attends a meeting. Meetings are held on the second Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Wachovia Bank, in the third floor conference room.

At the show on Saturday and Sunday, several coin dealers will have displays of coins, paper money, medals and collector supplies and are ready to buy,

Nuclear Fleet Now 'Feasible'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A nuclear powered U.S. merchant marine fleet is technically feasible, highly desirable and economically possible right now, according to a nuclear expert.

Dr. Paul Reinker, vice president of Babcock and Wilcox, made that statement in testimony before the Merchant Marine subcommittee of the House Committee on Marine and Fisheries.

Babcock and Wilcox designed and fabricated the nuclear fuel and steam generating plant for the first commercial nuclear vessel, the N.S. Savannah.

Texas was struck by 2,066 tornadoes from 1953 through 1971.

Demonstration Permit Issued

Greenville police officials said today that a permit has been issued for a group demonstration at the Pitt County Court House from 12 noon until 2:30 p.m. tomorrow to protest United States aid and participation in the Vietnam war.

According to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon, the application for the permit was signed by Miss Holly Brenner of Fletcher Dorm. The permit calls for participation of between 80 and 450 persons.

When North responded with one no trump to South's opening one spade bid, the latter had enough to insist on a game since he held 20 points in high cards. The jump shift to three diamonds was forcing and North took this opportunity to show his hearts suit. Altho South has only two hearts—the ace, king may be looked on as adequate support for a suit shown independently by partner after the latter has failed to take a preference between spades and diamonds. Four hearts is a sounder contract than four spades.

When South rebid his spades, North carried on to game in that suit.

West opened the ace of clubs and when his partner gave him a strong come-on by dropping the ten, he continued with the jack. East overtook with the queen and continued with the king which South ruffed with the nine of spades.

A diamond was led to the ace and a spade was returned. East followed with the deuce and declarer finessed the ten—which held. Inasmuch as dummy lacked a second entry, South continued with the ace and queen of spades in an attempt to split out the suit. West showed out on the third round and East was in with the king. A fourth club forced out declarer's remaining trump.

South played the ace and king of hearts and proceeded to run the diamonds. East ruffed the third round and cashed his long club to set the contract by two tricks.

Declarer can cope with a four-two trump break as long as East holds the long spades. All that is required at trick four when South gains the lead is to play the queen of spades from his hand. If East releases the king, he cannot play a fourth round of clubs because North retains the eight of spades as protection against the force.

If East ducks the queen of spades, South crosses over to the ace of diamonds, leads a spade from dummy and then finesse the ten after East plays a small trump. When the ten holds, declarer cashes the ace and then proceeds to cash out his side winners. East may ruff in with the king whenever he wishes, but South retains the jack of spades to regain the lead and take the remaining tricks. He loses only the two clubs and one trump on the deal.

Faculty Chamber Music Program Slated May 7

An array of 19th and 20th century works will comprise the May faculty chamber music program at ECU. Scheduled for May 7 at 4:30 in the School of Music Recital Hall, the program will feature three compositions of vastly differing styles.

The first, the Brahms' opus 114 Trio, will be performed by clarinetist David Wright, cellist Linda Fryman, and pianist Ellen Reithmaier.

The Webern opus 22 Quartet, composed in 1930, follows. Unusual in its scoring (written for violin, clarinet, tenor saxophone and piano) and in marked contrast to the Brahms compositionally, its performance will offer local concert goers a rare opportunity to hear a work in this style in live performance. Faculty members Rodney Schmidt, violin, David Wright, clarinet, James Houlik, saxophone, and Paul Tardif, piano, will appear in the Webern.

The program will close with Alberto Ginastera's Cantata Para America Magica (Cantata for Magic America). Commissioned by the Fromm Foundation and composed in 1960, the cantata is written on ancient pre-Columbian texts, and is scored for dramatic soprano and a percussion orchestra of 16 members. Soprano Jackie Rausch will be soloist. Winner of several contests, including state and regional MTN and NATS competitions, and the district Metropolitan Opera auditions, Miss Rausch is

No-Grazing Set On Set-Aside Acreage

The "no grazing" period for set-aside acreage on farms participating in the 1972 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs began Monday and will continue for five months, ending Sept. 30.

Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, explained that a condition for participating in the voluntary farm programs is that set-aside acreage may not be grazed during five principal months of the growing season. Farmers may not set aside acreage to be harvested except for designated alternate oilseed crops and emergency hay.

The alternate crop exception to the non-cropping requirement is for those farmers who have signed up to use set-aside acreage for growing non-

a student in the ECU School of Music. She will be joined in the Ginastera by the ECU Percussion Ensemble and pianists Ellen Reithmaier and Gregory Kosteck. Harold Jones will conduct.

surplus, non-price-supported oilseed crops and in return accept a reduction in set-aside payments.

Crops approved for this purpose include safflower, mustard seed, sunflowers, crumbe, castor beans, guar, sesame, and plantago ovata.

The emergency haying exception for set-aside acreage requires a farmer first to apply at the county ASCS Office before harvesting the hay.

If his application is approved, the hay must be stored for use in event of future emergency of such nature that it be officially declared an emergency by the Administrator of ASCS, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Farmers may secure information on the emergency hay storage provision and apply for haying privileges at the County ASCS Office," Evans said.

Pakistan Agrees To Build Airline

KARACHI (UPI) — Pakistan will equip and train the Libyan airline, according to an agreement signed recently by the two countries.

Under the agreement, Pakistan International Airlines will provide on a two-year lease two Fokker F-27 planes and about 70 personnel drawn mainly from PIA's engineering, flight operations accounts, sales and traffic department.

PIA will also provide ground engineers and maintenance and overhaul support.

Alabama is divided into 67 counties.

Sidewalk Art Show In Kinston May 6 And 7

The annual Spring Sidewalk Art Show for Kinston has been announced for Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7 at Vernon Park Mall. Hours for the show have not been listed.

All North Carolina amateur, professional and student artists of grades 11 and 12 and above are eligible to exhibit their work. A total of ten purchase awards have been made available, including those given by Wachovia Bank, First Citizens Bank and Trust Company, Bank of North Carolina, Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, Mutual Savings and Loan Association, and Textile Knit-One.

The top prize is $150 for the Best in Show Awards, with three awards to be given to professional artists — $125 for oil, acrylic or mixed media; $100 for watercolor or pastel; and $75 for graphic or drawing.

In the amateur division, prizes will be $50 for oil, acrylic or mixed media; $50 for watercolor or pastel; and $25 for graphic or drawing.

Also, $100 purchase award will be given for any media depicting life or scenes in Kinston or Lenoir County; and the $100 children's award may be divided into two or more awards at the discretion of the judges.

(Information available does not provide further details on entry media and graphics; Homer Ball of Goldsboro for photography; and Elaine Reed for sculpture, of Raleigh for pottery and photography and pottery and sculpture. Further information may be obtained from the Kinston Art Center, 108 1/2 W. Caswell Street, Kinston, 28501, or by phone 527-2517.

The Worry Clinic A Basic Secret Of Motivating

Clarence has learned a basic secret of motivating people! Lacking it, many good men lose their sweethearts. And talented husbands often end in divorce because a lesser suitor knows this vital rule of sales psychology. Scrapbook this case!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D. Case T-567: Clarence J., aged 26, is a hardware salesman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I studied Business Administration in college.

"So I took several practical courses including one headed Applied Psychology where your textbook was employed.

California, or Canada, the Bahamas and even Europe, which could quickly be reached by those trains or planes!

One of my "Sales Psychology" students boasted in class about having sold an Evanston society woman a swanky new Cadillac.

"Dr. Crane," he exclaimed, "I told her all about the engine and its horsepower, etc., and she bought right away!" But that was just dumb luck!

For when I met her a few days later at a dinner party and casually commented on her new Cadillac, she told me she bought it because the color of its upholstery matched her new dress!

My student thus failed to stress what was the chief motivating factor in the mind of his prospect.

In effect, he thus focussed on the "augers" instead of the "holes."

This same error also explains why many romances go sour and other lesser men even win engaged girls away from their fiancés.

For on every human breast at birth is engraved this invisible tattoo: "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

Too often, however, the male pats himself on the back excessively and toots his own horn, instead of tooting the girl's horn!

Along comes a less handsome guy, who then compliments her by asking for advice and leaning upon her for aid.

So she feels far more important by thus being essential to the future success of the fellow who needs her!

Many wealthy men also lose their wives by overly indulging them as "show off" adornments of their swanky homes, whereas the women want to be a vital partner in their husbands' success.

So send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and use it to sell the "holes."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Campaigning In A Motor Home

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — State Sen. Oscar Alagoos says he will travel to all 27 counties of Arkansas.

"I can't afford an airplane to get around in, so the motor home headquarters seemed the most reasonable idea," Alagoos said Tuesday.

He said four or five of his volunteer workers would travel with him in the motor home which sleeps eight. Alagoos said he had leased it for a month for $328, plus insurance, gasoline and oil.

NUBBIN GUESS WHAT! PIERRE IS GIVING ME ETIQUETTE LESSONS. GOOD!

WHAT WAS YOUR FIRST LESSON?

HE TOLD ME NOT TO COME NEAR HIM FOR A WEEK!

But that was "selling 'em the augers" when they should have stressed the "holes."

Smoking's End Like A Funeral

By BILL STOCKTON AP Science Writer DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It was like a funeral that day in New Canaan, Conn., when the housewife therapy groups had to stop smoking.

After helping them kick the habit, their psychiatrist concluded the inability to cope with the grief of losing a dear friend—the cigarette—is one reason so many smokers can't quit.

"The depression was so pervasive in each group that the day the subjects were to stop smoking, they all looked as if they were attending a funeral," Dr. John S. Tamerin of the Silver Hill Foundation in New Canaan says in a paper prepared for delivery today before the American Psychiatric Association.

Tamerin, director of research at the foundation's private psychiatric hospital, told the psychiatrists about working with 16 women divided into three therapy groups. They met each day for two weeks, reducing smoking gradually the first three days and stopping the fourth day.

As the noncigarette days wore on, the women acted much like mourners at a funeral, comforting one another through their tears, he said. "A transient period of grief with considerable tearfulness appeared as an almost routine clinical accompaniment of the

Kentucky Is Experimenting With Court Procedure

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "Ten dollars or 10 days," the judge snaps.

The tableau is repeated time after time, day after day in lower courts—usually referred to as police courts—in almost every major city in the nation.

The charges usually are very minor: public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, breach of the peace. The legal guilt of the accused is seldom in doubt.

So police court judges, overworked by huge dockets, grind through their day's work. "Are you guilty?" "Yes." "Ten dollars or 10 days. Next case."

It doesn't have to be this way, Judge James G. Amato contends. And he is out to prove it.

"A lot of these people aren't criminals and you shouldn't have to treat their cases like criminal cases," he said.

"If you do, a lot of the time the punishment just puts them farther in the hole, makes it that much harder for them to straighten themselves out," he added.

"For some, even a small fine or a couple of days in jail can ruin their lives. A man can lose his job over it. Or the fine might be the grocery money for the week," Amato said.

Instead, Amato proposes dividing his municipal court into several categories for better efficiency and to separate criminal types from noncriminal ones.

"There is a lot of difference between a man who burglarizes a home or robs a liquor store and one who just succumbs to everyday pressures and gets drunk or raises a disturbance at home," Amato said.

With a $24,267 grant from the Kentucky Crime Commission—about 75 per cent of it federal funds—the experiment has begun in Lexington, Kentucky's second largest city with slightly over 100,000 population.

"The whole idea of this thing is to get these people some professional help, to try to keep them from coming before the court over and over with the same problems," Amato said.

To do this, Lexington's municipal court has made three major changes:

- Established a division for domestic relations complaints.
- These are mostly the fights between husband and wife, the neighborhood dispute over fence lines and things like that," Amato said.

—Hired Linda Glasgow as a full-time probation officer. Her job, she said, "is a hodgepodge of various things I'm asked to do by the court or by friends or relatives of defendants."

—The Comprehensive Care Center has a psychologist in attendance at all sessions of both domestic relations and criminal divisions of municipal court.

Sit in on a session with them and see how it works:

"John and Mary Smith" appear in court, John charged with disorderly conduct on a warrant obtained by his ex-wife, Mary.

Judge: "Okay, Mrs. Smith, tell me what happened here."

Mrs. Smith: "Well, I couldn't stand his being home all the time after he lost his job and I got a divorce. He's been coming to see me from time to time, but the other day he refused to leave so I called the police and had him arrested."

Judge: "Was he drinking?"

Mrs. Smith: "No, he never drinks."

Judge: "Do you want him put in jail?"

Mrs. Smith (wringing hands): "No, I don't think that would help at all. He would lose the new job he's gotten and..."

Judge: "Let's stop right there. I think Dr. Jordan might be able to help you people. If you'd just step across the hall and have a talk with him."

Dr. Ernest Jordan, a representative of the Comprehensive Care Center, leads the couple to a private room near the court. There, he sits with them for a quiet, private talk.

In minutes, he learns that the divorce has all but broken the spirit of Smith, who hopes that his ex-wife will take him back. Mrs. Smith, too, is drastically upset.

Dr. Jordan consults with the judge and proposes a solution. The husband is given a 30-day suspended jail sentence, which he doesn't have to serve if he agrees to seek help.

The wife, too, is convinced she must have professional help—and fast. Both agree to consult psychiatrists within the next few days and the case is closed.

"We could put a fellow like this in jail or fine him," Amato commented, "but what good would that do? He still would have been frustrated and his ex-wife would have kept her problems."

"Jail or a fine and he'd just have been right back here in court the first day he was out," he added.

In another case, the charge was drunkenness and the defendant asked for probation. "I have a wife and children at home and I have a good job. I want to take care of them," he told the judge.

Mrs. Glasgow talked with him only a few minutes, then suggested the probation be granted. It was.

The result has been a clearing of the police court docket that allows the judges to give more time to individual cases.

"More important than that," the judge said, "is that defendants get a better shake. They're entitled to that," Amato said.

Violence Is On Upswing In Sweden

By BJORN PETERSON
STOCKHOLM (UPI) — One night recently crippled 53-year-old Bror E. Brinketun was limping home through the deserted streets of southern Stockholm when suddenly two youths emerged from the darkness and confronted him.

They kicked away his cane and even as he fell began to rifle his pockets. They made off with his entire pension allowance of 570 kroner ($114).

Brinketun, pensioned after his right foot was amputated, was another victim of the growing violence in the Swedish capital.

"I don't dare go out after dark any longer," he said.

"Stockholm is just another Chicago. I know because I have been to Chicago several times as a seaman."

Official statistics show that violent crime has risen 13 per cent since 1965; there were 16 murders and 2,916 assaults in the capital in 1971. By comparison, Copenhagen in Denmark, Scandinavia's largest city with 1.5 million population, had 10 murders last year while Oslo in Norway, a city of 500,000, had three.

The greatest increase, however, has been in so-called minor crimes, and older persons are the chief victims. "The criminals hang around looking for quick money for drugs, cigarettes or whatever," Torander said, "and they find it easier to rob old or disabled people. The risk is greater to these people than to younger ones."

And Stockholm suffers, too, from the "don't interfere" syndrome that exists in so many cities. A 22-year-old man was stabbed to death last year in full view of hundreds of shoppers when he got into an argument with another man who claimed he had pushed him.

"No one intervened," police Commander Hans Fredlund said. "People don't, usually. They fear being attacked themselves."

Standard Glass In Wine-Tasting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wine drinkers may like to know that a committee of the International Organization for Standardization (IOS) has reached agreement on the shape of a standard wine-tasting glass. Authorities lean to the elongated egg shape. The tulip shape was voted down as less suited to rapid, accurate appraisal of bouquet.

Point Proved With A Camera

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — Milkman Ron Mason took his camera along after having been booked for driving on the wrong side of the road.

In court he produced pictures of garbage trucks and even a motorcycle cop all on the wrong side of the road in the early hours.

Case dismissed.

Eighteen per cent of all families in the United States own trucks, says the National Automobile Club.

Scientists Suspect 10th Planet

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — "Intolerable errors" in the predicted timetable of Halley's Comet have led a University of California scientific team to believe a 10th planet may be circling the sun beyond Pluto—outermost known planet in the solar system.

Three computer scientists at the University's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory said Friday their prediction of the planet's existence is based on mathematical calculations related to the orbit of the mysterious Comet.

The team, led by Joseph L. Brady, named the proposed body "Planet X." According to the scientists, the planet would be 300 times more massive than earth and about six billion miles from the sun—far beyond the orbit of Pluto. The earth is 93 million miles from the sun. The planet would take 512 years to make a single revolution around the sun, and its orbit would be sharply tilted from the plane in which the other nine planets revolve, the scientists said.

Brady said he came up with the "Planet X" theory after studying unexplained orbital deviations of Halley's Comet. He said he concluded the deviations could be caused by the gravitational action of "Planet X."

The scientist said past predictions of the arrival of Halley's Comet near earth have repeatedly been wrong by several days.

"Errors like those are intolerable and they demanded an explanation," Brady said. "They couldn't be satisfactorily explained by the turmoil in the gases of the comet's tail as it approached the sun, but they fit precisely into a gravitational picture of the solar system that included a tenth planet."

The findings of the team will be published in Monday's edition of the Journal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

Brady said the prediction of new planets based on mathematical calculations was not new. He said Neptune's location was predicted in a similar way in 1846, as was Pluto's in this century.

He added he hoped his prediction would encourage astronomers with powerful telescopes to look for the planet, but he admitted the hunt would be like searching for a needle

John Henry Is Popular Fellow

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — John Henry, the folklore "steel drivin' man," is a popular fellow in West Virginia history and even more so at state liquor stores.

At least 18,350 residents have placed orders for a $14 bourbon whiskey decanters cast in Henry's image. The state says the bottles eventually will be worth up to $50, with or without the contents.

One Year To Live; He Knows His Time Is Up

By RICHARD KISONAK
LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — I am scheduled to die this year.

For several months a mysterious, fatal disease, the name of which I can barely pronounce, has quietly and determinedly been waging a heli-sh war on my muscular system. It will continue to do this, the doctor says, until I am paralyzed—and die.

I found out about it on a raw, windy day last November. Since then my life has been a whole new ball game, and I don't know how I am going to react when it is obvious that my time is up.

It is a very rare disease called amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, and it results in degeneration and hardening of portions of the spinal cord. In time this brings on extreme weakness and, finally, paralysis and death.

Many years ago the same disease took the life of Lou Gehrig, the famous New York Yankee slugger. It is often called Lou Gehrig's Disease. The medical profession doesn't know what causes it.

I have agreed to put my feelings down on paper because of the possibility that what I have to say might be of some help in the future to somebody else. My message, for what it is worth, is that I have been able to adjust mentally to a point where I am able to cope so far with this awful thing that is pulling me down. Things aren't the same any more, of course, but at the same time my life is more beautiful and meaningful than ever before.

For almost 19 years I was a newsman for The Lewiston Daily Sun. The first signs that something was terribly wrong showed up about the middle of last year. I was losing weight, and also I began having a small speech problem. There was a slight sturring of some words when I spoke. At first it didn't concern me too much, as I figured it was caused by my dentures. I had the dentures realigned—but the speech problem grew steadily worse. A throat examination turned up nothing wrong there.

Summer went and autumn came and things were no better. Because of the speech problem, I was intentionally avoiding people.

By now there was a slight twitching of my tongue. Following a thorough examination, a specialist I went to see smiled and said he could find nothing wrong with me physically. He was 90 per cent certain, he added, that my speech and tongue problem was caused by an emotional thing. "Are you happy with your work? Do you have a problem at home with your wife or kids?"

Negative on both counts, I insisted. He insisted that all my signs were normal but that, if I wished, he'd arrange for me to be examined by a Portland specialist in neurology. Make an appointment, I said, and I went home wondering if I were beginning to lose some marbles upstairs.

The appointment was on Nov. 11 last year, the traditional Armistice Day observance. The doctor was very late. Later I was to wish that he hadn't shown up at all.

I remember that visit vividly.

We were in a side room and the doctor, a bland look masking his features, signalled that the examination was over. He said, "Get dressed, then get your wife." They were the last words he would speak to me.

Moments later Beverly and I sat before him side by side on hard chairs, waiting. The doctor, a young man with finely chiseled features and burning eyes, fingered a paper on his desk for what seemed like an eternity.

Then he turned to Beverly and said, "Your husband has a fatal disease.

"It is called amyotrophic lateral sclerosis," the doctor was saying, his eyes glued on a paperweight on his desk. "It also is known as Lou Gehrig's Disease."

The room was spinning crazily and my chest was on the verge of exploding. My arms were numb. My legs were rubber. In my head, the pounding intensified.

"I believe in being frank," the doctor was telling Beverly. I looked at her. All over her face were the etchings of shock. Beverly was staring at the doctor, and her eyes were unbelieving.

"There is no cure," the doctor was saying. "There is no medication for it."

My heart was pounding madly, as I tried to digest what had happened. I couldn't believe it was happening to me. Say you are joking, doctor. Please say it isn't so. Please!

"He has all the symptoms," the doctor said to Beverly.

I managed to untangle the knots in my throat. I muttered, "Gawwd damn."

The doctor was explaining that it isn't a contagious disease. And it isn't a hereditary disease, he went on, in an apparent move to take some of the sting out of it for my wife and family. Beverly came across with the question that I didn't dare ask. How long did I have to live? The doctor answered quickly, bluntly.

"One year—if he's lucky."

Somewhere a siren was wailing. It was in another world. I got up, walked sluggishly to the inside wall in the doctor's office and slammed my fist hard against it.

Don't bother running to other doctors, hoping for another diagnosis, the doctor was telling my wife. It would be a waste of time and money; I should go home and enjoy what time I have left. I had an urge to walk over to his desk and break his nose with my fist.

We told the children the same night. Our kids are Richard Jr., 17, and Janis, 15, both students at Lewiston High School, and Wayne, 11, a fifth grader at Martel School. We called them to the kitchen before supper and told them what the doctor had said. When we'd finished, they cried.

Wayne rubbed his eyes with his left hand and complained, "But this only happens on television!"

Four days later, at Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston, special tests confirmed the diagnosis. Confirmation was no surprise. Already I was beginning to adjust. A year if I'm lucky, the Portland doctor had said. If it was only nine months, that still gave me time to get in a bunch of living!

At home a couple days later, a friend dropped by and asked, "How does it feel to be told you are dying?"

The first nights bring nightmares. In my dreams I die in weird, color-splashed ways. I attend my own funeral—twice. In the morning I immediately am reminded that I am dying. I am unable at first to read the obituary page in the morning newspaper.

Next are the leg cramps, another symptom of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. Periodically they have me bolting out of bed in the middle of the night.

I made up my mind to live one day at a time, enjoying life to the fullest, and soon I was doing just that. A wonderful, understanding wife and children make it possible. We don't mention the disease much any more and life around the house has returned to near normal. The major difference, on the surface, is that I'm no longer working.

Christmas was our best ever. Lots of laughing, meeting friends, good food, gifts. That night I had a good cry when the kids were in bed and I was alone. It was my last Christmas with my family. I cried hard, and I am not ashamed to say so.

There is one thing I am going to try very hard to do. I hope I can hold my head high when it happens and handle it like a man. I'm going to try like hell.

Long Dryness In Mid-America Brings Dust Clouds

Art Center Will Be 'Hospitality' Topic

The Greenville Art Center is the feature subject on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" on WITN-TV, Channel 7, on Sunday beginning at 11:00 a.m.

For this Art Center special, Miss Currie had much of the footage filmed at the Art Center where the East Carolina University Graduate Student art Show is now on view.

Appearing with the "Hospitality" hostess at the center are Mrs. Edith Walker, Director of the Art Center; Mrs. Betty Fore, current president of the Board of Directors of East Carolina Art Society, the organization that operates the Art Center; and William Holly, Chairman of the Art Education Department of the School of Art at East Carolina University, a member of the Art Society's Board of Directors, and also a sculptor painter.

The final portion of the Art Center show, was filmed in the Washington studio, with Miss Currie interviewing Marvin K. Blount, Sr., president of the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation that has been established to provide funds for purchase of art for the center; and Jerry Raynor, art editor of the Daily Reflector.

Driving Against Street Vendors

MANILA (UPI)—Manila police arrested and fined some 500 vendors during a recent drive against sidewalk obstructions.

Police Chief Gerardo G. Tamayo says the targets of the campaign are vendors who have been occupying sidewalks along

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — The winds which whip down the plain in the nation's midsection shake the wheat and ripple the waters of range ponds where cattle gather to drink.

But the quality of wheat in many places is not good this year. The cracked and muddy sides of the ponds mark the failing water supply.

The situation so far is not so bad as last year because of above normal rainfall last autumn, says Bill Curry, Oklahoma state climatologist. "That put a lot of subsoil moisture in the ground."

That pretty much is the situation throughout the south-central portion of the country—the land of wheat and cattle—from Nebraska to Texas, New Mexico and Colorado. Only Missouri reports sufficient rain.

There are many who think Manila's busy streets and obstructing vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

the mid-America dryness is becoming an unhappy but natural way of life, and that something can be done about it.

A drought "has been going on for 20 years," said Alan Haws of the Oklahoma Water Resources Board. "It became more acute the past three or four years."

An even more ominous report came from Dr. Walter O. Roberts, head of the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, Colo. He said he agreed with a prediction that the Great Plains region may be facing one of the worst droughts of the 20th century, a drought beginning this spring and continuing through 1976.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and Republican colleagues have introduced legislation to authorize a $35 million, four-year demonstration rainmaking project over the Plains states. An eight-county project of aerial cloud seeding, headquartered here, is set to begin soon over southwest Oklahoma under a $225,000 contract awarded by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

In most of the area precipitation the first four months of the year has ranged from 5 to 50 per cent below normal. The constant wind and abnormally hot temperatures in the early spring combined to dry the top soil and now the wind and heat are sapping the moisture banked in the subsoil from the fall's heavy rain.

Already, towering clouds of dust have darkened the skies in some areas. Wheat has been turned under by farmers who hope enough rain will fall to let them plant a crop of cotton.

Throughout Texas, farmers and agricultural agents predict millions of dollars worth of crops will be lost unless substantial rains come, and come quickly.

In Oklahoma where the 1971 drought cut wheat production to 69 million bushels, the experts are predicting 70 million to 80 million bushels this year, if good rains come.

There have been rains this week in parts of dry mid-America. In southwestern Oklahoma, where the top soil had been blowing, rainfall ranged from a half-inch to as much as five inches.

"It wasn't in time to save some of the wheat, that which has already been turned under or is being grazed," one Oklahoma farmer said. "The wheat was too far along to help a great deal. It may fill out a bit."

Another said the effects of the rain were spotty. "Where it fell it did some good, but where the fronts didn't move there wasn't any rain. It was great for the grasslands, but the row croppers have the chore now of rebuilding the land because the rains washed out the ditches."

At Lawton, Okla., where Irving P. Krick and Associates of Palm Springs, Calif., has a $27,000 contract to increase rainfall over the city's watershed, about three inches of rain was recorded.

In Texas, agricultural officialists said the recent rains came too late to help the wheat.

In both states, the officials said the surface moisture was raised, and that would enable farmers to plant cotton and their row crops. Now the farmers are hoping there won't be a repetition of last year, when rains moistened the ground enough to permit planting and then it turned dry again around the seeds.

George Cregg, chief of the National Weather Service office in Albuquerque, said the dryness in New Mexico has been aggravated by the warm temperatures of late February and March. Soil moisture has been depleted, he said, so "when the wind blows...it raised more top-soil than is customary."

In Texas, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said the spring drought had cost farmers and ranchers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

About 20 residents of Marysville in south central Oklahoma joined together one sunny day in a "pray for rain" community prayer meeting.

Youth And Adult Rally On Friday
 AYDEN — A youth and adult Christian rally will be conducted at the Community Baptist Church here Friday at 7:30 p.m.
 A gospel film will be shown during the rally.
 The church members and pastor Stanley E. Wingard extend an invitation to the public to attend.

Warns Of Risk In Meat Imports
 LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, warns that recent federal efforts to increase foreign meat imports may pose a health hazard to American consumers.
 "In Michigan, we have full-time sanitation inspection of slaughtering," he said in a statement. "Yet some foreign countries have extremely primitive meat laws and sanitation is questionable."

Motorists Will Get Protection
 MANILA (UPI)—Military authorities say mobile teams will be fielded to different parts of central and northern Luzon to arrest policemen or organized groups selling fiesta stickers or molesting motorists during summer holidays.
 Summer is fiesta time in many parts of the Philippines, and during this season policemen of some towns and other organized groups make it open season on motorists.

Best Way for a Boy to Learn the Rules of the Game — The Facts of Economic Life!

● YOUR newspaper carrier is one young man who is learning the all-important facts of modern economic life early in his career — something too few boys are doing today!

BY serving a newspaper route he's getting a good idea of what makes the free enterprise system work. He's running a small business of his own — and profiting by it! Learning the value of money by earning his own! How to deal with people and satisfy them with service! How to keep accurate records, collect accounts and pay bills promptly! How to accept responsibility and get things done on time! How to make his route profits and savings grow faster, by persistent sales effort!

ALL of which is excellent training for success in whatever line of work he may enter when he's ready! Does YOUR school-age son have a newspaper route? It's by far the best way for a boy to start stepping ahead—today more than ever!

See If There's a Route Open — where your son may enjoy the many major advantages of being a carrier-salesman. Ask our Circulation Department.

Open Sunday 12:30 til 7:00 P.M.
