

Runoff Chances Pondered By Candidates

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Sharp splits in voting have paved the way for runoffs in North Carolina's Democratic and Republican gubernatorial primaries.

Rocky Mount businessman Jim Gardner carried 71 counties as he fell just shy of the required 50.1 per cent of the total vote in his battle with state Rep. Jim Holshouser of Boone.

per" Bowles pressed the surge he mounted late in the campaign to head a six-man field. Bowles also stopped short of nomination as he polled 45 per cent of the vote against 37 per cent for his major opponent, Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor.

Holshouser and Taylor were reported considering runoffs. In a statement Sunday, Holshouser said he was awaiting the official canvass of votes but, in the event he ran second, was serving notice he would seek a second primary with Gardner.

"I have already started calling our supporters letting them know that we're going to be moving right back onto the campaign trail," Holshouser said.

"There is no question that we will win the primary now. The momentum has been moving our way and we definitely have got it going now," he continued.

Taylor's campaign manager, Lindsay Warren Jr. of Goldsboro, said an analytical study of Saturday's voting would continue today.

In the Democratic primary Bowles had 361,764 votes, or 45.51 per cent with 2,232 precincts reported. Taylor had 298,395 and 37.54 per cent. Rounding out the Democratic field, labor leader Wilbur Hobby had 58,148 votes, black Charlotte dentist Dr. Reginald Hawkins had 64,924, Gene Leggett of Harker's Island received 6,907 and Zeb V. K. Dickson 4,635.

Pitt Voters Generally Followed Statewide Trend

With the counting of ballots in Pitt County completed, unofficial returns give George Wallace a hefty local lead over Terry Sanford in the Democratic presidential primary.

received 4,341 votes in Pitt County. Mrs. Shirley Chisholm, came in third with 1,277 votes.

On the Republican side, President Nixon received 1,441 votes in Pitt County. For state offices Republican Gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner had support from 1,107 voters.

Howard 808 votes in the congressional primary. Skipper Bowles, in the North Carolina Democratic gubernatorial race, had an impressive lead, receiving 6,106 votes, while Pat Taylor's total stood at 4,942.

Early in the returns, Nick Galifianakis began to show an edge over incumbent Senator B. Everett Jordan. The final unofficial returns give Galifianakis 6,638 Pitt County votes, with Jordan running a fairly close second with 5,967 votes.

The race for lieutenant governor in the Democratic fold had Jim Hunt far out in front of his opponents. Hunt's 6,126 votes nearly doubled the total for four other Democratic candidates.

Two state offices, those of Commissioner of Insurance and Commissioner of Labor, with six and five candidates respectively, resulted in E. Russell Secrest and W. C. (Billy) Creel taking top place, with Secrest getting 2,589 votes and Creel 4,924.

The command also said only tactical fighter-bombers took part in the raids and that there were no B52 strategic bombers used. It did not say how many planes were involved, but it was learned that at least two carriers are in the Tonkin Gulf, with about 150 planes available.

Surprise In Hunt Margin

RALEIGH (AP) — The big vote piled up by Wilson attorney Jim Hunt in his bid for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor of North Carolina was one of the surprises of Saturday's primary.

Ingram of Asheboro 139,884, George Belk of Greensboro 120,557, George Cherry of Raleigh 96,835, Johnny Clark of Morganton 65,854 and Cecil Duncan of Charlotte 34,064.

State School Superintendent Craig Phillips scored an easy victory over John H. O'Connell of Raleigh, a former employee of Phillips' department. With returns from 2,042 precincts, Phillips had 379,844 to 182,000 for O'Connell.

Secretary of State Thad Eure piled up 421,568 votes to 191,164 for Democratic challenger Louis M. Wade, a Durham bus executive. The returns were from 2,076 precincts.

In the Democratic state treasurer's race, with 2,083 precincts reporting, incumbent Edwin Gill had 446,429 to 131,190 for Jack Jurney of Rt. 4, Durham.

The Republican nomination for lieutenant governor was won by John A. Walker, North Wilkesboro businessman. With 2,169 precincts reporting, Walker received 91,367 to 49,903 for state Sen. Norman Joyner of Statesville.

L. W. (Bud) Douglas of Maiden defeated C. Edley Hutchins of Black Mountain for the Republican nomination for insurance commissioner, 65,039 to 51,874. The returns were from 2,060 precincts.

W. C. "Billy" Creel, a state Department of Labor safety expert, received nearly 47 per cent of the vote in the six-man race for labor commissioner. His closest rival, John Brooks of Raleigh, captured 22 per cent.

With 2,058 of 2,255 precincts reporting, Creel received 265,484 votes, Brooks 124,965, John S. Blanton of Raleigh 63,705, Robert C. Folger of Dobson 51,880, John B. Wardell of High Point 37,461 and Phillip Ellen of Southern Pines 25,949.

Russell Secrest of Cary, a former employee of the state Department of Insurance, held a slight lead in the six-man race for insurance commissioner.

With 2,085 precincts reporting, Secrest had 139,957, John

Nominations For House Seats Retained By Bundy And Rountree

The Democratic nominations for the two seats allotted Pitt and Greene Counties in the State House of Representatives belong to incumbents H. Horton Rountree and Sam D. Bundy following their Saturday primary victories.

in Pitt, Bundy, a former Farmville educator, received an unofficial total of 9,025 votes to lead the three-man race with Rountree totaling 6,494 and I. Bruce Koonce, a first-time candidate, receiving 3,085. Both Rountree and Koonce are from Greenville.

Greene County voters gave Bundy 2,240 votes while Rountree trailed with 1,416. Koonce picked up only 717 and fell far behind in the two county totals.

Unofficially, Pitt-Greene totals were: Bundy, 11,265; Rountree, 7,950; and Koonce, 3,802.

Incumbent Register of Deeds, Mrs. Elvira T. Allred won easily in her quest for reelection to the post she has held for ten years.

Incumbent member of the Pitt County Board of Education, James R. Jones was the victor, receiving 7,363 votes to 3,977 for his opponent, Edward C. Carter.

The Bethel-Bevoir seat on the Board of Education was won by William Earl House as he defeated Mrs. Willie Mae Carney 8,489 to 2,848.

Jordan Talking Runoff Effort

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Nick Galifianakis, who stumped the state in a face-to-face campaign, has forced Sen. B. Everett Jordan, the 14-year congressional veteran, into a June 3 runoff election for North Carolina's Democratic senatorial nomination.

Galifianakis said he had "always believed that the voters of North Carolina want to break the pattern of gubernatorial appointment of U.S. Senators." He said Saturday's voting "will provide a great boost to my candidacy for the future."

Wheeler Enjoys Impressive Win

Third Judicial District voters in Pitt, Craven, Carteret and Pamlico Counties gave incumbent District Judge Robert D. Wheeler Jr. of Grifton an impressive victory in Saturday's primary.

Whitehurst garnered 334 votes in his hometown. As expected, Grifton voted heavily for Wheeler and he posted a 430 to 138 margin over Whitehurst while Wooten ran third with 109.

Princess Grace Says She's 'Europeanized'

By CINDY ABAMS
MONTE CARLO (WNS) —
"For a happy marriage the man must be the head of the household," said Her Serene Highness Princess Grace serenely. "My husband's European. He's used to the European way where a man is the undisputed ruler of the house. His word is law and, despite occasional problems, I accept that. Of course, I admit I try a little lobbying now and then!"

More beautiful than ever, Grace Kelly, formerly of Philadelphia, Hollywood and now Monaco, shared some girl talk with me. About husband Rainier the Third, she said, "I'm married to a European 15 years. I've had to adapt to his way of life, his way of doing things, so possibly I've become somewhat Europeanized. Naturally, being married to a Prince, a Head of State, is quite different from life with another European. Our life is dictated by protocol and obligations."

And can palace life be "homey"? Can you prop your feet up on the coffee table? "We have our private apartments in the Palace which we've done over in a modern way and I've introduced American ways and customs into our household but THAT we've tried telling the children shouldn't be done no matter where they live," chuckled Monaco's First Lady. Children To counterbalance her Europeanization, I asked about plans to Americanize her son and daughter. Crossing her ankles, she leaned forward and said, "They come to the United States very often. Our eldest 15-year-old Caroline (pronounced Caroleen), spent the last three summers in America and our son Albert — he's 13 — the last two. Summer camps will Americanize them quickly, but their early education will be in Europe. The French schooling is a better system. They're kept busier. They have no time for mischief. The American child is out at three p.m. Ours remain in school until five. Their days are all filled so there's no free time for boredom or wondering what to do or exploring the new permissive society."

There is no denying her age since magazines awhile back announced her fortieth birthday. Nonetheless, the years have touched her with a feather. The hair only slightly less blonde, the figure only slightly less svelte than in her salad days ("If you can figure out how to figure out the diet problem let me know"). The face stays the same: cool, composed, beautiful, almost no cosmetics. Her wardrobe is equally simple, with minimal furberlows. "Elegant" describes her.

Pocket Money We discussed her children some more. "I don't give them a lot of pocket money, not even as much as their friends have. I was brought up frugally so I see to they don't throw money around. Keeping them from getting spoiled is a problem. People love to do for them and given them things. I try to avoid it. I hold back many of their gifts. I encourage people to donate things to the libraries named for our children instead of giving them toys and presents. Perhaps we've been successful in keeping them unspoiled because people say our children are refreshing, that they have kept their enthusiasm for things."

"There's alot of pressure on them in school. They're never allowed to forget who they are. Some insist they get better marks because they're the Prince's children. I want them treated as other children but the teachers as well as their friends show the difference. They're always told they must set examples because they are who they are. They're good students, though, so they don't have too much trouble."

"Caroline is a strong girl with a definite mind of her own. She's considerably stronger than I was at her age... No, I wouldn't want her to be a movie star anymore than my mother wanted it for me. It's hard work and I'm glad she's not about to select that career. She's already bilingual in English and French and now studies German and Spanish. She will be totally conversant in four languages. Probably she'll choose some lifework that takes in this study."

Dungarees The Princess coughed discreetly, pardoned herself, smoothed her skirt and went on: "We have a good rapport. We argue a little about makeup and hem lengths. If it's a close family evening with just personal friends, I Monaco. And these breaks needed for my husband and me to communicate. At home we almost always communicate via secretary. When do catch him it's to say there's such and such's dinner or so and so party. Then we go and sit across a table with many people. It's only on vacations that I really get to see him."

And can two Serene Highnesses ever have a nice juicy argument like us (Continued on page 7)

He Never Promised You A Rose Garden

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has one brother and one sister. The brother married a very rich girl and he has no money worries. The sister married a professional man who does very well, and they are also on easy street. They both have lovely large homes, help in the house, etc. My husband is barely making it.

Twelve years ago my father in law lost his wife and didn't want to live alone. The others couldn't take Grandpa because they traveled too much, etc., so he came to live with us.

We gave up our bedroom and moved into a dinky guest room so Grandpa could have the best. For 12 years this selfish, complaining, demanding old man lived with us. Two years ago he suffered a stroke and I had to care for him 24 hours a day, bathing, feeding, everything! He could have afforded to go to a nursing home because he had money socked away and plenty, but he wouldn't hear of it.

I put up with his cursing, complaining and demanding, and so did my children. All the while, he never gave us one penny for his keep! Well, Grandpa died two weeks ago, and his will read:

"All my children shall share and share alike."

Would you care to comment? A COUPLE OF CHUMPS

DEAR CHUMPS: It seems inequitable, to put it delicately, but I'm reminded of an old Yiddish saying, "If you come for the inheritance you might have to pay for the funeral."

DEAR ABBY: This is an open letter to my mother: Dear Mom: If you should ever suspect me of taking drugs, please invade my privacy because I know that you always want the best for me.

I always tell you not to worry about me but I suppose that it is silly of me to say this, because if you should cease to worry about my welfare you will cease to love me.

I pray that I will never do anything to hurt you or Dad in any way. I also pray that I will never do anything to hurt myself but if I do, and you should find out, I know that you will do everything in your power to try to stop me, and I will love you for it. YOUR 16-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: I appreciated your letter, and while I know that many will agree with you, some will not.

Please read on for another 16-year-old's point of view:

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely furious with you! What do you mean saying that you thought parents had the "right" to search their children's drawers and closets and go to all lengths necessary to find out whether their children were involved with drugs?

I am 16, and it is my "right" as a citizen to do what I want with my body. And if I want to take drugs my parents have no business spying on me to find out whether I am or not.

I have always thought you were reasonably fair minded, but not any more. And it won't do you any good to retract your statement because I am thru reading your column.

Time-Factor Is Still Problem

Admittedly there are numerous complicated problems involved in finding a workable plan that will allow earlier selling time for tobacco markets in the Eastern, Old and Middle Belts. Nevertheless, it is a problem which needs to be resolved and the Flue-Curried Tobacco Marketing Committee this year should come up with some program even if it is only on a trial basis.

In recent years the percentage of North Carolina tobacco sold on the early Georgia-Florida markets had increased steadily. With changes in tobacco farming in recent years, and with changes in marketing, most North Carolina growers have tobacco ready to sell before markets in their immediate areas are open. Anxious to market their leaf for economic reasons, they have taken increasing amounts each year to the more southern markets which have earlier openings.

It has posed problems not only for the markets in the Eastern, Old and Middle Belts, but it has posed problems as well for the Georgia-Florida markets and for the farmers themselves who face the added expense of transporting their tobacco hundreds of miles to market.

Obviously the processing capacity of purchasing companies is limited. Just as obviously, they cannot be expected to handle more tobacco from any area than their capacity will allow. On the other hand, there should be some method by which limited marketing could be permitted in the Eastern, Middle and Old Belts earlier than their traditional opening dates without throwing the whole marketing structure into chaos.

It must be recognized that the problem is one for the industry as a whole, not just for one state, or one segment of the industry. The proper place to resolve the problem is in the industry-wide marketing committee and not on an individual state basis or by one segment of the industry — growers, warehousemen or purchasing companies — arbitrarily making its own decisions.

Experience of a few years ago pointed up clearly that orderly marketing of tobacco crops is essential if the growers are to receive the best possible prices for their tobacco. When marketing conditions become chaotic all segments of the industry suffer, and particularly so with the growers.

The time has arrived for carefully planned experiments with limited earlier openings on the more northern belts of the tobacco region. We trust the industry-wide marketing committee will develop and institute an experimental plan for the 1972 tobacco selling season.

Everybody Has Reform Ideas

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH, N. C. — Like the gaudy streetwalker, the North Carolina General Assembly is the object of every reformer's zeal.

Good citizens criticize her. Those who love her want to change her. Last year, a national study rated her 47th among her sisters in the 50 states.

The old girl really isn't all that bad and, besides, she's mending her ways. Legislative capability will be enhanced for the 1973 session, confirmed Clyde Ball, state legislative services officer.

Lawmakers will have at their services additional secretarial and clerical assistance, an expanded research staff, and a new fiscal research division. Taken together, he said, it will mean that legislators will be able to function more effectively and be more responsive to the folks back home.

Among those who know legislatures best — staff officials and legislators themselves across the nation — North Carolina is accorded recognition and respect, Ball said.

Not At The Bottom

"We are not regarded as the bottom of the pile, by any means," he said, emphatically. "In discussions on the legislative process and how to improve it, our contributions are solicited and listened to."

In the National Legislative Conference, Ball serves on the committee on improvement and modernization and as chairman of a subcommittee on data processing equipment. "We are keeping abreast of the best of current thinking, and we are contributing to it," he explained.

While legislative reform recently has become a popular topic, taken up by candidates and others, modernization has been going on all the while. From session to session, changes have been made to bring the machinery up to date.

A vehicle for change is the Legislative Services Commission, created in 1969.

Improvements Ahead

The commission meets Wednesday (May 10) to consider proposals for the session which convenes next January. It will act on reports from subcommittees dealing with secretarial and clerical staff and with the installation of electronic voting equipment.

A guest at the meeting will be Larry Margolis, executive director of the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures. This foundation-supported group conducted the evaluation study which last year gave bad marks to the Tar Heel legislature.

Representatives of the National Association of Legislative Leaders, a unit of the Council of State Governments, also will be present.

Ideas on legislative staffing will be a topic for discussion. Inadequate staff was one of the shortcomings cited in the study which ranked the North Carolina legislature as 47th in the nation.

Behind In Staffing

Ball acknowledges that this state lags behind most others in the staff provided for lawmakers, both for research capability and office assistance. At the same time, he noted, other resources such as the Institute of Government help meet the needs.

Maryland gives each legislator an office and secretary year-round in his home district. The Tar Heel solon gets a cubicle in the State Legislative Building in Raleigh, but even during the session he can't always get a secretary when he wants one. After the session, he's on his own.

More secretaries will be on hand next session, but it may not reach to one-to-one ratio advocated by many legislators.

Two research assistants will be hired by July, to get oriented in advance of the session. The fiscal research division already is gearing up for initial action in 1973.

Staff growth must come gradually, as the legislature learns to use it effectively, Ball insisted.

Meanwhile, the reform movement—looking to annual sessions, continuity of committees and leadership, and other innovations—will go on. It may get impetus from the report of a study commission, set up in 1969, which is due to report to the '73 session.

McGovern Dips In HHH Ranks

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Two months ago, Howard M. Metzbaum, a leading aspirant for the 1974 Democratic Senatorial nomination in Ohio, pointedly sought out Frank King, Ohio's AFL-CIO chief, to say that although the "loved" Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, he would have to stay scrupulously neutral in the Ohio Presidential primary election.

Thus King was not only stunned but furious when Metzbaum broke that pledge and gave Sen. George McGovern a ringing endorsement last Sunday at a United Jewish Appeal rally in Cleveland. Adding insult to injury, Humphrey himself was on the speakers' platform when Metzbaum threw his arm around McGovern.

Quite apart from the affront to Humphrey and King (who was Humphrey's virtual campaign manager in last Tuesday's Ohio primary), that last-minute endorsement boldly underlined an important political fact: the ambitious Metzbaum went for broke on his assumption that total alienation of Ohio's powerful labor hierarchy and Humphrey himself was a price worth paying to get McGovern's backing for his 1974 Senate campaign.

Whether or not Metzbaum's bet will pay off in the end, McGovern's performance in the all-important blue-collar working-class wards of Ohio was impressive. In the 6th Ward of the steel-and-labor town of Lorain, overwhelmingly working-class, Humphrey edged out McGovern by only the bare margin of 961 to 828.

That ward is adjacent to the big U.S. Steel plant in South Lorain. In one Lorain precinct after another, McGovern and Humphrey were neck-and-neck, with McGovern edging out Humphrey in both the city and Lorain County.

Likewise, in the rubber works city of Akron and surrounding Summit County, all projections in the still-incompleted vote-count (as this was written) show McGovern squeezing out a larger vote than labor-backed Humphrey, a fact that "stonished" Frank King.

Accordingly, McGovern demonstrated an appeal among rank-and-file workmen and women in the Midwest heartland state of Ohio that the shrewdest Ohio Democratic politicians did not think possible. The "McGovern Phenomenon," with its oil-and-water blend of populism and far-out positions on pot, abortion and draft-dodger amnesty, has far from run its course. That is an obvious truth despite the fact that McGovern conducted a full-scale campaign here which outspent and out-organized Humphrey.

For Humphrey, however, there were mitigating circumstances. In Lorain County, for example, Humphrey never showed up to campaign despite many promises. He stayed out to avoid affronting the regular Democratic organization, committed almost wholly to the non-active candidacy for Sen. Edmund Muskie (who polled just over 10 per cent of the county's total vote).

McGovern, under no such restraints with his anti-establishment crusade, had youthful workers in every precinct and toured the county preaching his pungent appeal for voters "fed up" with contemporary American life to vote for him.

That McGovern appeal, moreover, was immeasurably strengthened in Ohio by the absence of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama on the ballot. In Summit County, for example, a private poll taken by the Democratic organization in every precinct in the county showed that the overwhelmingly strongest Democratic ticket against President Nixon would be McGovern-Wallace or Wallace-McGovern, either way.

That same extraordinary appeal of McGovern and-or Wallace now confronts Humphrey with a deadly whipsaw challenge nest

Strength For Today

WHAT IS YOUR UNIVERSE LIKE?

There was a news story recently of how in a western city a gang of teenage boys, armed with fire irons, had gone through the city smashing everything they could lay hands on and injuring a number of pedestrians. When asked why they had done this their reply was, "We're just mad at the world, that's all."

The psychiatrist may have all sorts of explanations for this grotesque phenomenon. The present writer, who lays no claim whatsoever to psychiatric knowledge and even less to wisdom in general, would venture the belief that these youngsters were suffering from a lack of home discipline. Not because they had not been sufficient held down but because they had not been given that sense of security which every disciplined child possesses and which undisciplined children almost invariably lack.

For the object of parental discipline is not the keep children out of mischief but to give them a sense of inner cohesion and security which will stand in good stead through life. The child that is never corrected and made to tow the mark grows up without knowing that life is undergirded by certain moral and spiritual principles which never budge an inch for individual, nation or race. Without this knowledge anyone—young or old—is liable to go berserk. With this knowledge children, and later men and women, are sustained by a sense of the stability of the universe.

Smile, Darn You, Smile

WASHINGTON — No one talks about it, but there are definite medical hazards involved in running for the Presidency of the United States. One that is increasingly a problem has to do with a candidate's face. Anyone who has been following the Democratic primaries on television knows that every presidential hopeful always has a smile on his face. What people don't know is that these smiles are frozen there and the longer the primaries go on, the less chance the candidates have of wiping them away.

A plastic surgeon named Cooke told me, "Most of the candidates running for the Presidency have been smiling steadily for five months. By the time they get to Miami they will have smiled for eight months. The muscles controlling these smiles have hardened them into place. I fear that by the time Election Day comes we could wind up with a President with a permanent stupid grin on his face."

"I don't know," I said. "Everybody likes to see a happy President." "It's all right to have a happy President," Cooke said. "But what happens when he attends the funeral of another head of state?" "Suppose he has to go on television and tell the people the cost of living has gone up 25 per cent, and unemployment has reached a new high. He'd look pretty silly doing that with a smile."

"I never thought of that!" "What happens when he meets with the Russians to discuss disarmament and is grinning all the time? Do you think they could take him seriously?" "They might think he's nuts," I said hopefully, "and out of fear give in on something."

"It's too big a gamble to take. I can't believe anyone would have confidence in a President who is smiling all the time," Cooke said. "Wait a minute," I said. "We've had presidential candidates in the past who smiled continuously, but their faces went back to normal after the election."

"That was before television," Cooke said. "TV has forced the candidates to maintain permanent grins. We saw what happened to Muskie in New Hampshire when he stopped smiling and sobbed. People thought he was shaken up. All he was trying to do was relax his smile muscles for a few minutes. But because of what happened to Muskie, no candidate dares stop smiling now. It would be Political suicide."

"Isn't there some way plastic surgeons could do away with the frozen grin after is over?" "It's very difficult. It requires uncreasing the mouth as well as reshaping the face muscles. We've tried cheek transplants but everyone comes out looking like former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell."

Cooke said, "I am not only concerned about the man who is elected President, but I am also worried about the losers. 'What will people think of a man who ran for the highest office of this land, lost in a bitter fight and is shown smiling helplessly into the '70s and '80s?'"

"A lot of his financial backers would be pretty sore," I said. "We must accept the fact that a politician's smile is a physical affliction," Cooke said, "and I hope that after the primaries, when he is shown with his frozen grin, people will not have the bad taste to laugh at him."

"Well, what is it you want in a woman besides poverty, or venerable one?" "First of all, a sense of humor."

"Why?" "Because I'm tired of laughing at and by myself. No one needs anyone else to cry with. But fun is only half-fun when it's alone."

"What else do you insist on?" "That she have amnesia." "Why, for heaven's sake?" "So she'd forget my faults and also be unable to recall and remind me of her first husband's many virtues."

"Any other requirements?" "Yes, I'd want her to know how to sew a button on right side up. I'd want her to enjoy people and love books. I'd want her to sing like Julie Andrews, look as sweet as Helen Hayes, and to be able to cook as well as James Beard."

"What age would you want a second wife to be?" "Oh, young enough to enjoy it but old enough to know better." "If you don't mind me saying so, Hal, you're awful picky and choosy."

"Well, if a fellow can't pick, why should he choose to remarry at all? A second marriage isn't like going to a hospital, where you have to take whatever nurse is on floor duty." The sweet young thing thought for a moment, then said: "I can think of only one woman who would make a perfect wife for you."

Who's that?" I asked. "Lady Luck," she said.

Others Decide For You

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the woes of a widower is the number of sweet young things who try to get him to remarry, if only so he'll have someone to wake him up when it's time to take his medicine.

The trouble is they have the idea that if they throw any widower together with any widow or fading divorcee, the two will happily melt and merge as if they had no more personality than a couple of drops of water. They forget that people at any age are still individual people, not crutches looking for a mate.

Here is a typical conversation I had the other day with one of these ambitious young match-makers:

"I can't understand why you didn't go crazy for my aunt. You have so much in common. After all, her first husband had the gout, too—just like you." "She's too rich."

"What a ridiculous thing—to regard a woman's wealth as a handicap. Why?" "It isn't that it's a handicap. It's because her wealth is a club. I never knew a rich woman who married a poor man who could refrain from using her money to beat to death the only thing in himself he had pride in—his character. I'm too old and proud and wise to marry a bank account."

"Well, what is it you want in a woman besides poverty, or venerable one?" "First of all, a sense of humor."

"Why?" "Because I'm tired of laughing at and by myself. No one needs anyone else to cry with. But fun is only half-fun when it's alone."

"What else do you insist on?" "That she have amnesia." "Why, for heaven's sake?" "So she'd forget my faults and also be unable to recall and remind me of her first husband's many virtues."

"Any other requirements?" "Yes, I'd want her to know how to sew a button on right side up. I'd want her to enjoy people and love books. I'd want her to sing like Julie Andrews, look as sweet as Helen Hayes, and to be able to cook as well as James Beard."

The sweet young thing thought for a moment, then said: "I can think of only one woman who would make a perfect wife for you."

Who's that?" I asked. "Lady Luck," she said.

See what I mean? Everybody has a right to pick a widower's second wife except himself.

Other Editors Say It Isn't Producing

(Henderson Dispatch)

Amtrak is an agency established by Congress in the hope of improving what is left of railroad passenger service, but senators are becoming disillusioned and are moving in with hammer and tongs. Salary of the head of the agency has been cut from $125,000 a year to $60,000, which should have been sufficient to begin with. Passenger service was described by one senator as "mediocre to wretched," and Amtrak was ordered to assume more responsibility for its trains.

Smaller communities throughout the nation have, in most instances, been deprived of rail passenger service. Many persons who have always preferred rail travel no longer have it, and travelers are forced to use buses or the higher-priced plane service. Many are moving about in private cars, whether they like it or not, while others are not enthused over other forms of transportation available. The trains just aren't there any more for those who prefer them.

It has been our feeling all along that many passenger trains were cut off by the railroads because the Post Office Department took the mail business away from them, with the result that passengers were left high and dry and the mails have been slowed.

Rail management has apparently favored its freight carriers at the expense of former passenger business. Under the circumstances, that may have been economically advisable for them, and at least some of the major carriers are making satisfactory profits in handling the freight services.

What Amtrak can do that it hasn't done we wouldn't know. But senators think there is a lag in management somewhere along the line, and are moving in an attempt to remedy the situation. Meantime, some cities and towns would like to have their rail passenger service revived. It is just possible that with comfortable equipment and convenient schedules this might be both possible and profitable.

The Market And The Elections

By LOU SCHNEIDER
NEW YORK, (NANA) — Somehow, conversation always gets around to: How does the stock market behave during and after a presidential election year? For that data one must read a paper written by John Magill, Jr., researcher-vice president who heads the investment advisory section of the First National Bank of Chicago.

In the six presidential election years from 1946 to 1970, the market was up every time.

On each of the three occasions since World War II when a Democrat was elected president, stock market prices advanced the following year. On each of the three occasions when a Republican was elected, the market declined the following year. Here is a longer-term look on market behavior in and after presidential election years, based on Magill's finding:

On December 31, 1940—the year Democrat Roosevelt was re-elected—the market was at 121 Dow-Jones Industrial Average. Four years later, it was 16 per cent higher. When Roosevelt was again re-elected in 1944, there was another 16½ per cent price advance by 1948.

Democrat Thuman's second term showed a 65 per cent gain. Eisenhower's term, from 1952 to 1956, came through with a 71 per cent gain in the Dow Average, and another 23 per cent in his 1956-60 second term.

This was followed by the Kennedy-Johnson 42 per cent Dow Average increase during 1960-64, and an eight per cent Dow Average increase over Johnson's 1964-68 reign.

Richard Nixon had the luck of greeting 1969 New Year's with the Dow at 944. Thus, if the consistent presidential 30-year plus pattern is to be held, the Dow must at least get up to 945 to achieve a 1.8 per cent gain. Well, it hit 950.18 on March 6, 1972.

Focusing on the lowest gain of the four-year cycles—Johnson's eight per cent in his full term—the Nixon term 1969-73 advance should carry to a Dow 1,020. This is based on stock market history repeating itself.

Market behavior prediction for 1972, into 1973 and for three years afterward—based on history:

- (1) Dow Average should be above 945 by the close of 1972 with the possibility of it climbing over the 1,000 mark.
- (2) Assuming a Republican presidential victory, the Dow Average will point downward in 1973, but upward if a Democrat wins.
- (3) In keeping fully consistent with history, a Republican victory will see a 1973 Dow Average decline of about 10.7 per cent.
- (4) For the long termers who can patiently maintain four-year visions, 1973 will be a year to buy on declines because, if history repeats, there is an almost guarantee of a profit before the end of 1976.

Tuesday: in West Virginia against Wallace and in Nebraska against McGovern. The threat to Humphrey is serious in both states, with McGovern planning five full days of campaigning in his next-door state of Nebraska and Wallace riding high among the alienated poor whites in the hollows of West Virginia.

Moreover, while the headlines are preoccupied with gaudier news of the Presidential primaries, McGovern's homemade political machine of youth and housewives, now sensing possible victory at Miami Beach, is operating full-speed in the relative quiet of such unlikely non-primary states as Louisiana and Texas, planning to flood party caucuses and steal away with large blocs of delegates.

The go-for-broke bet of Ohio's Metzbaum may prove to be worth the risk.

Task Force Meeting On Sickle Cell Anemia

A task force of community representatives has begun meeting at the Pitt County Community Health Department to establish an identification and control program for sickle cell anemia.

This project to combat a dreaded hereditary blood disease afflicting over 600,000 black people in this county is being supported by several local groups, including the Junior Woman's Club, the Student Nurses' Association, and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity at East Carolina University; students from Pitt County Schools, Pitt Technical Institute, and Community Health Department personnel.

The group hopes eventually to administer a simple blood test to all black children in Pitt County between the ages of six months and 16 years in order to assure those who have the sickle cell trait a chance for improved medical care and for genetic counseling.

According to figures released by the New York Foundation for Research and Education in Sickle Cell Disease, 25 million black Americans, one out of 10 carries the sickle cell trait. The chief danger of the trait lies in its being passed down from generation to generation. If two people with sickle cell trait marry and have perhaps four children, it is possible that at least one child will contract a severe form of the disease. In sickle cell anemia, hemoglobin, the substance which gives blood its red color, is abnormal in that the sickle-shaped cells do not slip easily through capillaries and small veins and circulation is impaired. This condition is incurable at present, but research holds hope of a cure within the near future.

The local group plans to begin a pilot testing program in Moyewood, Kearney Park, Sadie Sautler School, and Meadowbrook some time in May and will welcome the support of any interested person or group. Funds are badly needed to help finance the project. Anyone interested in obtaining further information should contact Tony Harris or Mrs. Earnestine Hasselrig of the Pitt County Community Health Department, 752-4141.

Anyone wishing to have the sickle cell test at present may get it at the Community Health Department.

Recreation Weekend Highway Topic Next Toll Counted At 14

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters will hold unit meetings Tuesday and Wednesday on public recreation. Mrs. Wallace Woolles, chairman of the league committee studying recreation, will present the programs.

The LWV recreation committee recently visited Goldsboro, Kinston, and Wilson to learn how some other communities in this area provide recreational opportunities. Some of the topics to be discussed are cooperation between municipal recreation programs and their respective counties, methods of financing, and factors affecting community participation.

The schedule for these unit meetings is as follows: Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ernest Marshall, 1001 E. Third Street; Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Guy McClanahan at 209 York Road; and Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C. Webber, 610 S. Elm Street.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

By The Associated Press
North Carolina traffic accidents killed 14 persons during the weekend, pushing the highway toll to 588 deaths thus far this year. In the comparable period last year, traffic accidents had killed 568 persons.

Two of the weekend accidents took two lives each. In one, two Rockingham high school girls were killed when their car was struck by a train at a city crossing. The victims were Shirley Jean Edwards and Faye Gillium, both 17.

Two persons also were killed in a collision on U.S. 64 two miles east of Robersonville, in Martin County. The victims were identified as Cecil Alfred Johnson, 19, of Federalburg, Md., and Timothy R. Harris, 21, of Rt. 4, Bloomington, Ind.

One of the last reported accidents occurred Sunday morning in Johnston County. The victim, Donald Gilmer Brown, 25, of Winston-Salem, was killed when his car ran off U.S. 70 in Clayton and overturned after hitting a sign post.

The Highway Patrol blamed high speed in the deaths of Larry Preston Hocutt, 25, of Elizabeth City, and James McKinley Walker, 24, of Rt. 1, Watha, in Pender County. Hocutt was killed in a wreck near Camden, and Walker was killed when his car wrecked south of Burgaw.

Elsewhere in the eastern part of the state, Edward Junior Blackmon, 39, of Bunn Level, was killed in a wreck near Littleton; Judith Stein Williams, 28, of Landover, Md., was killed in a wreck on Interstate 95 near the Johnston County community of Micro; and Rolphe Harrison Wallace, 18, of Rt. 1, Plymouth, was killed in a wreck north of Pantego.

In Wilkes County, a head-on collision on a rural road took the life of Freddie Bruce Minton, 35, of Rt. 2, Moravian Falls. General Wayne Owens, 32, of

Rt. 3, Liberty, was killed, the Highway Patrol said, when his car wrecked as he was being pursued by a Liberty police car. Pedestrian victims were Eddie Reed, 15, killed in Greensboro, and Senora Hughes Williams, 44, killed in Kings Mountain.

Eerie Calm In Menaced Saigon

By PETER ARNETT
and
HORST FAAS

Associated Press Writers
SAIGON (AP) — An eerie calm prevails in the bustling villages and market towns around Saigon.

Extensive visits to the half dozen provinces surrounding the South Vietnamese capital indicate it is not an immediate target.

But for the first time in several years the North Vietnamese Army—the NVA—has almost free rein over the Cambodian provinces to the west and the unpopulated jungles to the North that have been the traditional staging areas for attacks on Saigon.

The enemy's intentions are just not known. All is guess work. Since the big reduction in American forces, there has been a great setback in the gathering of intelligence.

Whatever the timetable, American advisers and South Vietnamese officials in the protective belt of provinces around Saigon feel confident they can ring the alarm bells when the enemy makes his move.

While the militia forces seem well geared to alert Saigon a massive infiltration attempt, they are no match for regular North Vietnamese infantry and sophisticated weaponry. The enthusiasm of the militiamen is new, but their little outposts look like relics of the days long ago when the local Viet Cong fought with homemade shot-guns and punji stakes.

The big question mark in case of a conventional attack on Saigon is whether the government has the reserves available and the ability to commit them immediately.

"At the time of the Tet offensive (in 1968) we had 49 American infantry battalions available to rescue Saigon," said an American adviser. "Now they're all gone."

At this very moment, almost all national reserve troops—the airborne and marine divisions—are committed to the northern battlefields. Many of them are taking crippling casualties.

Some of the troops always stationed around Saigon are tied up in the stalemated siege of An Loc, 60 miles north of the capital. Holding out in An Loc is being presented as a victory for the South Vietnamese Army. But some American observers fear that this grinding action has sidelined the divisions that may some day soon be needed in Saigon.

The weak spots in Saigon's defenses are obvious to the Americans who have been here repeatedly over the years and look beyond the last village outposts that are now the outer defenses of the capital.

One colonel who fought as a captain 10 years ago along the Saigon River has walked over this same battleground numerous times since then.

"I just flew over a couple of bunkers that we tried to blow up on New Year's night 1966," he said. "When I was back with the U.S. 1st Division we bulldozed the place. I just saw the bunkers right back in the same spot, but the trouble is no friendlies ever go near them now."

He put his hand on the map, pointing to a 15-mile-wide swath of unpopulated, scrubby terrain between the Michelin rubber plantation and the district town of Ben Cat.

"I just can't understand what the South Vietnamese are doing. The NVA can march abreast in columns and sing on their way to Saigon, and we wouldn't even know it until they run into the villagers. We should be fighting them up here and not among the people."

Like most other American officers, he feels that a great mistake is being made in not patrolling and searching the hinterlands of the war zones.

All the advantages that were gained by the American invasion of Cambodia in 1970 were lost when the last of the Saigon troops were thrown out of eastern Cambodia two weeks ago. Now, by not patrolling in depth, the South Vietnamese have yielded the Communists old war zone sanctuaries. District chiefs have been ordered to prepare for conventional warfare, a North Vietnamese invasion rather than hit-and-run guerrilla actions. Some troops are being trained to use antitank weapons. Plans have been drawn up to mass the Popular Force platoons and Regional Force companies into larger military formations under a central command.

What upsets many Vietnamese, especially military officers, more than the potential enemy threat from the nearby jungles and Cambodia is the continuously bad news from the northern fronts.

No panic is noticeable. The annual Route One bicycle race was held last week over what was left of the highway.

And does Her Serene Highness holler in French or English?
Another genteel laugh, then, "As I always speak to my husband in English, we always have our family disputes in English."

Avoid Washing Before Storing

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Cherries should not be washed before storing, according to food and nutrition specialists at Texas A & M University.

The experts say fresh cherries should be refrigerated unwashed and with stems until they are actually prepared for eating. The fruit is very perishable and should be eaten within two days.

Grow Calluses Making Twine

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI)—Traditional Samoan houses and boats are elaborately constructed without pegs or nails.

Sinnott, a twine made by craftsmen by rubbing coconut fibers against their thighs, is used in construction. The craftsmen develop large calluses on their thighs in preparing the twine.

Running Out Of Taxpayers

NEW YORK (AP) — Assemblyman Andrew Stein of Manhattan says New York City is running out of taxpayers.

The ratio of taxpayers employed here by private enterprise to the number of welfare recipients is now 2.6 to 1, he said Sunday, in contrast to a ratio in 1960 of 9.7 private-sector taxpayers to each person on welfare.

"Simply put, we're running out of taxpayers," the Democratic state legislator said. "If we are to avoid fiscal self-destruction," he added, "the restoration of our tax base clearly merits top priority."

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina's hog markets today were generally steady with instances of 25 to 75 cents higher. Tops of 23.50-24.25 Whiteville; 23.25-23.75 Rocky Mount; 22.75-23.75 Wilson, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Lumberton; 22.25-23.50 Tarboro; 22.00-23.00 Siler City, Denton; 22.25-22.75 Bethel; 24.50 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg;

23.75 Mt. Olive; 23.00 Salisbury, Greensboro.
Hens
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hens: Market steady today, supplies fully adequate, demand fair. Too few light type sales to release prices. Heavies, at farm, 13 to 14 cents per pound; f.o.b plants 16 to 16½ cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were lower over a broad range in today's stock market in as-low trading.

Brokers said the situation in Vietnam was the cause of uncertainty. Declines outnumbered gainers on the New York Stock Exchange about 24 to 1.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.38 to 933.85.

In the absence of buyer interest, the market was under selling pressure, in the blue-chip sector especially.

In the news background was a White House spokesman's refusal to comment on reports of new bombings in Hoeh Vietnam. He referred all questions to the Defense Department. Some analysts said the market was marking time until the battlefield news from Vietnam could be interpreted.

Auto stocks were lower; some issues were off fractionally.

Airlines, oils and chemicals were among the losers. In the steels, electronics, and metals most issues were down.

Prices also were softer on the American Stock Exchange in light trading.

Arrest 3 On Drug Counts

Three persons were arrested early this morning in Bell Arthur by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department on felony charges of possession of narcotic drugs. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested Sandra Chapin Frank, 21, who listed a 332 S. Dawn Road, Hunting, N.Y. address, on a narcotics possession charge around 12:15 a.m. Bond was set at $500.

Also arrested were John Howell Stox, 24, Box 515 Bell Arthur on two counts of possession of narcotic drugs, and James William Mealey, 21, Box 515, Bell Arthur, on three narcotics possession counts. Mealey also listed a Willow Street, Annapolis, Md. address. Bond was set at $3,000 each for Stox and Mealey, the sheriff reported. A hearing for all three has been scheduled for May 22 in District Court here.

Sheriff Tyson said that deputies confiscated a quantity of hashish, marijuana and cocaine in the early morning raid.

Crum Missing Aboard Yacht

HONG KONG (AP) — William J. Crum, American millionaire supplier of slot machines to U.S. installations in Vietnam, was reported missing today with four guest aboard his yacht.

A search was for the 53-foot ketch Nostramo, which has not been since it left its anchorage Saturday for a short sail.

Crum was named in U.S. Senate hearings last year as "the money king of Vietnam" because of his lucrative sales to military clubs. He is the son of an American pilot on the Yangtze River, born in China and educated in California.

Pirates Bow To Appalachian In Final Road Game

BOONE — East Carolina University's Pirates finished their road season for the 1972 year yesterday, bowing to new Southern Conference member Appalachian, 3-1.

Two of the Mountaineer runs were unearned, as the Bucs committed two errors in the game. Appalachian played flawless ball on defense.

The game, however, did not affect the conference standings, since Appalachian is not eligible for this year's title. The Bucs finished in second place in the league, following an 11-15 victory over Davidson on Saturday.

East Carolina grabbed the early lead in the game, but couldn't hold onto it as the Mountaineers came back to tie them up in the fourth inning. Then they pushed over single runs in the seventh and eighth to wrap it up.

East Carolina had a chance in the first to score, but a double play wiped out it. Mike Bradshaw led off with a single and Jimmy Paige walked. Ralph Lamm grounded back to the mound, and Bradshaw was cut down at third. The double play came on the next batter, ending the frame.

The third saw the Bucs finally get their run, but it proved to be the only one they would get. Ronnie Leggett walked and Tommy Toms reached on a single to third. He was cut down going to second on a double play, however as Leggett moved on to third. Paige singled to third, but Leggett was unable to come in. The two tried to work the double steal, but Paige was caught in a rundown as Leggett came in safely with the run.

The Bucs had only one more man to reach second. Toms walked in the fifth and stole second, but with two outs, the Bucs failed to get anything going. After that, they were retired in order the rest of the way.

Appalachian tried to get something going in the first, but good defense by the Pirates stopped it. Dermont Clark led off with a single and moved up on Rocky Pittman's hit to right. Clark tried to stretch his lead and make third, but Larry Walters threw him out to halt the rally.

The Mountaineers tied it up with a run in the fourth inning. Lannie Brockmier led off with a single but was cut down on Pittman's fielder's choice. He also went down when Bob Gentry grounded to short. The relay to first for the possible doubleplay was thrown away, however, and Gentry moved on to second. Gay Israel then singled, scoring Gentry with the tying run.

After being held in check for the next two innings, the Mounties came up with a run in the seventh to move ahead. Gentry walked and Israel sacrificed him up. Cliff Powers then singled to left, scoring Gentry for a 2-1 lead.

The Mountaineers added another run to their total in the eighth. With two away, Clark reached on an error. He then scored on Brockmier's single to center, making it 3-1.

The two teams are scheduled to make a return date in Greenville this week. The game is set for Sunday, but Coach Earl Smith said it might possibly be scheduled for another day this week.

Wilt Can Smile Over Lakers' Victory

DeBUSSCHERE CONGRATULATES WILT — Dave DeBusschere of the New York Knicks reaches out to congratulate Wilt Chamberlain in the Los Angeles Lakers' dressing room Sunday night after the Lakers won the NBA basketball cham-

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain's scowl could scare a bear, but he wore a smile of satisfaction when he said, "I think that winning this title should make life a little easier for me."

The 7-foot 1-inch captain of the Los Angeles Lakers relaxed today in his $1.5 million home and the easier life to which he referred reflected acceptance as a team player.

He blocked shots, scored 24 points and hauled down 29 rebounds despite a painfully injured right wrist as the Lakers snuffed off years of frustration Sunday with a 114-100 victory over the New York Knicks.

That gave the Lakers their first NBA championship since they came to Los Angeles in 1960 and their first since 1954 when they made Minneapolis their home. The margin in games was 4-1, four straight since losing the opener.

For Chamberlain, this was a big moment. He has been criticized during his 12-year NBA career and accused of not getting along with his coaches or fellow players.

As the Lakers won a record 33-in-a-row and total of 69 during the regular season, there was no such criticism. None came as they beat Chicago and defending champ Milwaukee in playoff games.

The 35-year-old basketball millionaire was named the Most Valuable Player. And it wasn't until late that it became evident he had sufficiently recovered from the sprained wrist suffered last Friday night in New York. He wore a protector usually worn by defensive linemen in pro football.

Los Angeles jumped out to a 10-0 lead and then found themselves 53-50 at the half. Their third quarter made the difference.

Leading 75-74, Happy Hairston sank a basket and then Wilt added a pair, sandwiched around a shot by Walt Frazier which he blocked. The Lakers had built a seven-point lead.

The Knicks made one more run but it fell short and in the fourth period, the Lakers pulled away.

Mountaineers Prove Spoilers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond has clinched the Southern Conference baseball championship, but the Spiders and the other teams that battled them down to the wire may be happy Appalachian State's Mountaineers aren't eligible for the title in their first season in the league.

The Mountaineers are just below the break-even point at 9-10 against all opposition, but a 3-1 victory Sunday over East Carolina's Pirates was their fourth in five starts against league opponents.

Not only that, but the Mountaineers have four games in the next week against conference foes—one each with East Carolina and William and Mary and a doubleheader with the champion Spiders.

Virginia Military's Keydets, who finished ahead of only Davidson in the league race, wound up their season Sunday by dropping both ends of a doubleheader in which they went 17 innings before getting their only run.

With Berky Cundiff pitching a two-hitter, Virginia Tech's Gobblers nipped the Keydets 2-0 in the nine-inning opener, and Washington and Lee's Rod Ferrandino stopped them on four hits in the nine-inning second game as the Generals won 2-1.

The Keydets' only run came on a ninth inning homer by Vern Beitzel in the ninth inning of the nightcap, a make-up of a rained-out game last week. The two defeats left VMI with a 6-19 over-all record.

Dave Wisbauer's single broke a scoreless tie in the first game in the seventh inning, and Tech got its second run in the eighth on Mike Dixon's triple and Billy Tanner's single. Tech is now 13-9.

Washington and Lee, now 6-8, got both its runs in the first inning with two out on a walk, Ellie Gutshall's triple and Dave Traylor's single. Ferrandino had blanked VMI on three hits until then.

It was rather meaningless since Richmond had swept six games in four days last week to finish 13-3 in the conference race, but East Carolina nailed down second at 11-5 with an 11-5 romp Saturday over Davidson, which closed out at 2-10 in league play.

Furman's Paladins, who wound up third at 9-5, ran their over-all record to 17-10-1 by sweeping a doubleheader from Georgia State, 11-4 and 8-3, but William and Mary dropped a 4-3 decision to the Newport News Apprentice School.

190 MPH In Test Run

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—

Gary Bettenhausen, a second-generation race driver, has posted the second 190 mile an hour speed of the season at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., driving a McLaren-O'fenhauser hit one lap at 190.233 m.p.h. and another at 190.315 Sunday at the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Bettenhausen was one of 24 drivers practicing for the two weekends of qualifications leading to the 500-mile race May 27.

His father, the late Tony Bettenhausen, spent 15 years racing here.

Earlier this spring, Bobby Unser zipped 190.8 m.p.h. in tire tests.

Peter Revson hold the official track record, 179.354, set last year.

The 10 mile qualifications will be run May 13, 14, 20 and 21.

Tune-Up Victory For Tennis Bid

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —

John Newcombe of Australia has tuned up for Tuesday's finals of the $100,000 World Championship of Tennis tour at Dallas by winning the $50,000 Alan King tennis classic here.

Newcombe defeated Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, to collect $10,000 prize money Sunday. Drysdale won second place and $5,000.

The world's eight top money winners, including Newcombe and Drysdale, will take part in the Dallas finale. Twenty tournaments preceded the final contest.

ONE ROYAL ROOKIE

KANSAS CITY (AP) —

The Kansas City Royals opened the baseball season with right handed pitcher Monty Montgomery, 25, as their only rookie.

Monty, a 6-foot-3 native of Alameda, N.C., divided most of 1971 with Omaha and Elmira. He won his only three decisions with the Royals last fall.

Pearson Wins In 'Wild' 500

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Bobby Isaac, as cool-headed as any driver around, ignored an official black flag in the Winston 500 Sunday and made a sizeable profit out of one of the wildest stock car races in years.

Isaac, 37, who quit school in the sixth grade to go racing, was leading a bumper-to-bumper duel on the lightning fast Alabama International Speedway with five laps to go when the black flag was displayed as the nose of his Dodge crossed the starter's line.

Officials of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing had detected the cap on his fuel tank dangling awkwardly as he raced around the 2.66-mile oval, and they displayed the traditional black flag ordering him to his pit for consultation.

Isaac, at the time, was leading the pack by about two car lengths over eventual winner David Pearson in a Mercury. Isaac ignored the flagman and went blithely on. Two laps from the finish, however, he ran up behind a slower car on the high-speed front stretch and was crowded against the wall. He bounced off and continued racing, but Pearson took advantage of the momentary lapse to drive by and go on to triumph by 4.9 seconds. Isaac was fined $1,500 for ignoring the black flag, but was allowed to keep his second-place winnings of $13,895. Had he gone to his pit as directed, the best he could have done would have been fourth place for a payoff of $6,095—a loss of $7,800.

Pearson, a three-time NASCAR champion, earned $23,745 for his second victory since taking over the Wood Brothers Mercury from A. J. Foyt a month ago. He needed 3 hours, 53 minutes and 15 seconds to complete the 188 laps for an average speed of 134.400 miles per hour.

The race was slowed seven times by caution flags, and the race was stopped twice for a total of 30 minutes when light rain fell on portions of the course.

Even so, it was a hotly contested affair from the start and a record 71,400 spectators loved it. Pearson led 14 times for 59 laps, Isaac nine times for 57 circuits.

Allison and Marlin, both of whom had their Chevrolets in front at times early in the race, were sidelined by mechanical troubles.

Baker, whose racer faded slightly toward the end, managed to hang on for a third-place finish. Lorenzen, star of the NASCAR circuit in the 1960s, came in fourth in a Ford, while Petty was fifth in a Dodge, a full lap off the pace. Petty, who lost his chance to win when he had to stop to replace a flat tire with 15 miles to go, will receive a $10,000 bonus that goes to the driver leading the championship point standings after the first quarter of the season.

Allison and Petty had trailed James Hylton of Inman, S.C., in the standings going into Sunday's race. But Hylton, who needed a finish of 10th or better, wrecked on the 112th lap. And when Allison also departed early, Petty edged into the point lead to collect the bonus.

HIGH FLYING CHAMPION — Len Duncan, of Lansdale, Pa., an eight-time midget racing champion, flies through the air after striking an outside guard rail during the feature event for the ARDC midget racing cars at Flemington.

Brewers Break Drought By Win Over Angels

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Milwaukee's drought finally ended but Milt Wilcox is looking forward to many more scoreless innings.

The Brewers, shutout victims in three straight games, cracked the goose egg barrier Sunday after 30 innings en route to a 5-2 victory over the California Angels.

Wilcox, meanwhile, is in the enviable position of battling Gaylor Perry for honors as Cleveland's top right-hander. Wilt fired a three-hitter at the Chicago White Sox for a 3-0 victory as the Indian pitching staff extended its own scoreless inning string to 26.

In Sunday's other games, Mike Lolich became the American League's first five-game winner as Detroit tipped Texas 7-4, Oakland upended the New York Yankees 7-5, Minnesota belted Boston 8-4 and Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-4.

With a 10-7 record, the Indians are tied with Baltimore for second in the American League East, a scant half-game back of the Tigers.

Wilcox and Perry are most responsible for the Tribe's success. Each has a 4-2 record. And Wilcox, with his third successive victory and second shutout, has a solid 0.93 earned run average.

The Brewers, who had scored just 19 runs in their 13 previous games, had slumped to a team batting average of .159 before breaking out against California.

Billy Conigliaro collected a double and a two-run homer, the latter a tie-breaking shot in the sixth.

Lolich struggled for his fifth victory and fifth complete game in six starts. He gave up 11 Texas hits, but nine of them went for extra bases. It was almost a repeat of his previous victory when he permitted 10 Kansas City safeties.

"As long as they're all singles, I'm all right," Lolich shrugged.

Len Randel had driven in all the runs that gave the Rangers a 3-2 lead before Bill Freehan's two-run single triggered a five-run fifth inning for the Tigers.

The Yanks pounced on Denny McLain for a 5-0 lead after three innings with Ron Blomberg driving in four of them with a homer and a double.

But the A's retaliated as Dave Duncan clobbered a three-run homer in the fourth, then Oakland parlayed four New York errors into a four-run fifth with Mike Epstein delivering the key hit, a two-run single that put the A's on top.

The Twins, retaining their 1½-game West lead, reeled off their fifth straight and 12th in 13 games. They battered Boston with 14 hits including a two-run single by Harmon Killebrew and a two-run double by Rod Carew.

Pitcher Pat Dobson capped a decisive three-run rally in the sixth with a run-scoring single that gave the Orioles a 5-1 lead, then needed Eddie Watt's ninth-inning relief help as the Royals cut the gap to a run on Ed Kirkpatrick's two-run homer.

Williamston Gains Tennis Title Win In Jamesville For Paladin

JAMESVILLE — Williamston's "B" team racked up a 13-5 victory over Jamesville here yesterday.

Jamesville broke the ice first in the first with a lone run. Dickerson led off with a hit and moved up on a ground out. A hit by Gerkin Martin brought in Dickerson.

Williamston came back to tie it up in the second as Mike Bryant walked and went to second on a hit by Ricky Rogers. George Brown got a hit also to drive in Bryant.

Then in the top of the fourth, Williamston exploded for ten runs which proved to be all they needed. Brown led off with a hit and Phil Selby reached on an error. Leslie Hardison singled to load the bases. A hit by Keith Riggs scored Brown and a walk to Al Griffing forced in Selby. Rogers was safe on an error that let Hardison score. Paul Scott singled to drive in Riggs and Griffing.

Danny Whitehurst was hit by a pitch to reload the bases. Mike Bryant blooped out a hit to bring in both Rogers and Scott and Griffing also got a hit to score Whitehurst. Scott bot his second hit of the game to drive in Bryant and Driffling.

Williamston added two more in the fifth and Jamesville pushed over two in the bottom of the fifth and one in each of the sixth and seventh innings. Scott had three hits for Williamston while Brown and Griffing each had two. Martin and Perry had two apiece for Jamesville.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Furman's Paladins, winning six of the nine singles and doubles titles, has dethroned Davidson's Wildcats as Southern Conference tennis champion.

The Paladins wound up the three-day meet which ended Saturday with 23 points to 16 for host William and Mary, 15 for Davidson, 4 for Richmond, 2 each for East Carolina and The Citadel and 1 for Virginia Military Institute.

Favored Ford Robinette of William and Mary was upset in the No. 1 singles final by David Weaver of Davidson, 4-6, 7-6, 6-4.

The No. 1 doubles title went to Furman's Howard Hunt and Dudley Reynolds with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Robinette and Harry Cross of William and Mary.

Other singles winners were Dave Ellison of Furman, No. 2; Dave Holly of Furman, No. 3; Reynolds, No. 4; Gary Bressler of Davidson, No. 5; and Robert Hatfield of Furman, No. 6.

Set Records For Penn At Meet

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Greg Fredericks set meet records of 4:00.4 in the mile and 1:50.4 for the half-mile to lead Penn State to the team title in the eighth annual Big Four track meet over the weekend.

The final team standings Saturday showed Penn State with 81 points, Pitt 78, West Virginia 17 and Syracuse 7.

Take Lead In Bowling Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Streak 'N Shake of Indianapolis, Ind., took charge of first place Sunday in the team event of the Women's International Bowling Congress Tournament with a score of 2,715. The Indiana team replaced Titan Electric of Indianapolis, which had 2,679.

Arlene Hebert of Steak 'N Shake had a high series of 582. Other divisions had no major changes.

Qualifies For Olympic Walk

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Larry Young of Kansas City has qualified for the Olympic Trials in the 20 and 50-kilometer race walk by setting an American record in the 20-kilometer walk Sunday. Young was timed in one hour, 30 minutes, 9.9 seconds.

He was a bronze medalist in the 1968 Olympics. This year's Olympic Trials will be held in Oregon in July.

Went On To Win Stock Feature

LIBERTY, Ind. (AP) — Floyd Gilbert of Lockland, Ohio, set a one-lap record Saturday night and went on to capture the 25-lap late model stock car feature at the Whitewater Valley Speedway here.

Gilbert set a lap mark of 17.540 seconds, breaking his own record of 18.222 on the three-eighths of a mile banked dirt track.

CANTERBURY IS HOST

CLEVELAND (AP) — Canterbury Golf Club will be the scene of National Golf Day's round of champions on Tuesday, May 30. Jack Nicklaus, 1971 PGA champion, will face Lee Trevino, 1971 U.S. Open champion, while LPGA champion Kathy Whitworth plays Women's Open winner Jo Anne Carner.

Their scores will be targets for thousands of amateur golfers who take part at their home courses in the annual charity event.

Fergie Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs has been a 20-game winner the last five seasons.

The service system of tomorrow. Built into every new Volkswagen today.

Imagine owning a car that can tell you how it feels. When Volkswagen dealerships start to receive their computers later this year, you'll be able to drive in, have your 1972 Volkswagen plugged into the computer, and get it straight from your car what's right or wrong.

How does it work? Every 1972 Volkswagen has a network of sensors and check points built into critical areas like the engine and electrical system. These sensors work like nerves.

When they're attached to the computer by a simple socket in the back of the car, the sensors relay the condition of vital areas.

In the time it takes a mechanic to collect his tools, the computer checks things like front wheel alignment, engine compression, and battery voltage.

And gives you the results in plain English. The computer will be at Volkswagen dealers starting later this year, so you can come in and let our brain take the load off yours.

Simple Rules For Insomniacs

Homer is a victim of what we call "urinary insomnia." For he sleeps like a log till his bladder demands that he visit the bathroom. If he can restrain that bladder to hold 8 ounces instead of 4 ounces, he can last till morning without waking!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-570: Homer T., aged 61, has a widespread problem. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I have insomnia!"

"For I waken about the middle of the night and then can't go back to sleep."

"So I have become a sleeping pill addict and I don't like to feel enslaved by such drugs. "But what else can I do to get a full night's rest?"

Urinary Insomnia

The reason Homer wakens before 2 A.M. is to go to the bathroom.

For millions of people develop this habit of voiding urine in the middle of the night. "This is often due to mild inflammation of the bladder, or especially the prostate in men. Plus the fact that urine is excessively acid and thus burns till they waken.

And another contributing factor is their heavy ingestion of liquid at their evening meal, especially caffeine drinks like coffee, tea or the cola beverages. Once a person is awakened, he may then begin to think of tomorrow's problems and further stimulate his brain till he can't go back to sleep readily. So the answer to much of the insomnia in older folks is to solve their urinary problem!

Ordinarily, your urinary bladder could easily hold 8 ounces of fluid without making you feel an urgent need to void. In fact, when men have an enlarged prostate gland that blocks the outlet of the bladder, we physicians may find that there is half a gallon or more of urine therein.

So don't fret about overly stretching your bladder!

Yet many men and women let their urinary bladder make them rush to the bathroom when it has only half a glass (4 ounces) of urine. To avoid this very common urinary insomnia, therefore, follow these rules:

- (1) Reduce your liquid intake after 6 P.M. so your bladder will not receive as much urine from your kidneys.
- (2) "Sweeten" the urine to stop the acid burn thereof, as by taking a little baking soda or antacid tablet before bedtime.
- (3) During the daytime, force your bladder to develop a new habit of stretching till it can hold 8 ounces instead of 4 ounces. To do this, drinking freely prior to 6 P.M.

But when you feel the urge to empty the bladder, grit your teeth and make it let out a notch. The first time you have this contest with your bladder, you may feel as if you can't win, for the bladder is obstinate and would rather force you to empty it on 4 ounces than to stretch itself and hold 8 ounces.

But once you win, it will stretch and you will then feel comfortable for a couple of hours before it again insists on being emptied.

This same contest with your urinary bladder is helpful for young people of dating age, who are embarrassed by needing to visit the rest rooms at theaters during the show.

And if you still wake up to urinate at 2 A.M., then read the Bible or educational magazines like Reader's Digest till you again fall asleep.

Obesity also compresses the bladder, so send for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

A "thumping" sound from a car tire often indicates excessive underinflation, says the National Automobile Club.

 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass Pass
 Dble. Pass ?
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Three spades. An effort should be made to reach game, and a mere return to two spades or a call of three diamonds will sound forced to partner, and he may be reluctant to take further action. A jump bid cannot be considered drastic in light of your failure to bid freely on the previous round.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠Q107 ♥QJ9874 ♦5 ♣532
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
 2 NT Pass 3 ♥ Pass
 3 NT Pass ?
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Hearts, it must be with this hand, and you must, therefore dutifully continue to four. This does not show any additional values, for you bid each time at the lowest level that it was possible for you to do so.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
 3 ♥ Pass ?
 What do you bid now?
 A.—We would be willing to assume at this time that your major suits were solid and consequently are concerned primarily with the number of aces. We would, therefore, bid four no trump (Blackwood) and, if partner showed two aces, we would risk a grand slam in spades.

Sanford Says He'll Carry On, Though Chances Hurt

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) —
Former North Carolina Gov.
Terry Sanford says his primary election loss to the George C.

Wallace "phenomenon" has set back his presidential chances but that he will campaign right up to the Democratic nominating convention in July.
The 54-year-old Duke University president said he has no regrets about getting into his state's first presidential primary against Wallace—a primary that ended with a solid Wallace victory and shattered hopes of hundreds of the state's college students who spearheaded Sanford's effort from the start.

"I think that we are so much better off than we would have been had we not been in" the race, Sanford said in a Sunday night telephone interview from his home in Durham.

Earlier, in a formal statement, Sanford said of his campaign: "We didn't test the wind and bend with it, but we stood straight for human dignity and stood firm for opening opportunities for all people, including little school children. That is a winning spirit, regardless of the tough realities that are a part of translating American ideals into political victory."

Sanford finished with 37 percent of the vote to over 50 percent for Wallace. The rest of the vote was split among Rep.
Shirley Chisholm of New York,
8 per cent, Sen. Edmund S.
Muskie of Maine, 4 per cent and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, 1 per cent.

Sanford said Sunday night he intends to continue a campaign effort but he said it will be a few days before he decides how extensive an effort to make. He said he definitely will campaign for the June 3 New Jersey contest, the only other primary he entered.

The New Jersey contest could benefit him in the form of publicity and a demonstration of his ability to get votes outside of his home area.

He said his delegate-hunting effort in nonprimary states is continuing and by July 10 when the Miami Beach convention opens, "I'll have more" than the 27 he won in North Carolina. "There's no doubt we'll have more" than 27.

Wallace collected 37 convention votes here. North Carolina delegate votes will be cast on the first ballot in accordance with the primary results—but the delegates are free to vote their preferences on any subsequent ballots.

Sanford, who painted Wallace during the campaign as a negative and divisive political force, said he doubts the Alabama
governor will suffer any upsets any time soon. "I think it's a kind of phenomenon that has to run its course," Sanford said.
"I don't know how long it takes."

"I obviously don't have the answer" to what it will take to stop Wallace, Sanford said. His comments were made in the context of primary elections in which Wallace is otherwise expected to do well. In that category are the May 16 Maryland and Michigan primaries.

"I just think Wallace has a tremendous following" in North Carolina, Sanford said. "Why that following voted for him is subject to many" interpretations. "I'm not faulting someone who voted for him."

The unofficial vote totals, with 2,243 of 22,255 precincts reporting:

Democratic: Wallace,
408,785; Sanford, 304,387; Chisholm, 61,359; Muskie, 30,593 and Jackson, 9,323.

Republican: President Nixon,
156,655, 95 per cent; and Rep.
Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California, 8,773, 5 per cent.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Marlon Brando has been granted custody of his 13-year-old son, Christian.

Superior court Judge Laurence Rittenband's ruling Friday ended a two-month court battle between Brando and his former wife, actress Anna Kash-fi. They were divorced 12 years ago and Miss Kashfi was granted custody at that time.

Compensation Award Eases Life Of Shoshones

By WARREN WINTRODE
Associated Press Writer
FORT WASHAKIE, Wyo. (AP) — Half covered by snow, the purple-hued Wind River Range of the Rocky Mountains rises majestically above the three-room frame home of Harrison Shoyo.

Shoyo, 45, was born near these mountains and probably will die here.

Nine members of his family live in the house, which lies on 20 acres of land near the base of the mountains. Temperatures frequently plunge below zero during the cold Wyoming winters, and Shoyo says his house isn't well insulated.

Shoyo is a full-blooded member of the Eastern Band of Shoshone Indians who live on the Wind River Reservation. Until recently he was in no position even to think about needed repairs to his dwelling. Shoyo's income amounted to the $50 each he, his wife and their three school-age children received in monthly tribal payments, plus the modest income he earns as a repair-maintenance employe for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

That all changed Jan. 21 when the family's monthly tribal check amounted to more than $1,200.

The windfall reflected the first of 12 payments the Wind River Shoshones will receive as their $6,545,000 share of a $15.7 million additional compensation award for 38 million acres taken from three Shoshone tribes by the federal government in 1868-69.

There were 2,128 enrolled Wind River Shoshones in January, and each is scheduled to receive $2,400 during a one-year period. That is in addition to their regular monthly payments of $50 each as a share of oil and gas royalties the tribe receives from the nine fields being worked on the reservation.

For the Shoyos, the land-payment claims mean $12,000 by next Jan. 1. Then the payments stop.

The land-payment checks represent more money than many tribal members ever before have received at one time. More importantly, the money represents a chance to get ahead.

The Shoshones, who share the reservation in west-central Wyoming with the northern band of Arapahoes, reside mainly in the Fort Washakie area.

John Tidzump, another Shoshone who lives on the reservation with his wife and three grandchildren, said he would use his first land-payment check to pay bills. "But the next payment we'll try to save," he said.

Clyde Hobbs, BIA reservation supervisor for the past 10½ years, said he didn't notice a great deal of difference when Shoshones received their first land-payment checks.

Hobbs said 25 Shoshones left their funds with the BIA to draw interest, while banks in the nearby non-reservation community of Lander reported tribal members opened nearly 50 new checking and savings accounts in the first week after receiving the checks.

Although many Shoshones purchased a wide variety of consumer goods, including appliances and autos, businesses in Lander reported no major increase in sales.

The long-awaited payments finally became a reality Dec. 22 when President Nixon signed into law a bill authorizing the claims to the Wind River Shoshones, the Shoshone-Bannocks of Idaho and the Northwestern Shoshones in Utah.

The three tribes had been bickering for more than three years about the funds, which were approved in 1968 by the Indian Claims Commission. The tribes were awarded some $1.5 million for the lands in 1868, but filed claims for additional compensation shortly after World War II.

The Wind River Shoshones will distribute 85 per cent of their $6,545,000 to tribal members with the other 15 per cent going to the six-member Tribal Business Council for use in Interior Department-approved projects. The 85-15 per cent ratio is the same used for distribution of other tribal funds.

"Of course, the people were very happy to finally receive the payments," said Larry Murray, a Business Council member. "Some of the older ones had felt it wouldn't happen until they were dead."

The Business Council will receive approximately $1 million as its share of the claims payments and will use $750,000 of that to establish a tribal-run loan program.

The Shoshone Business Council also will use part of its funds for a land-purchase program. Individual tribal members owning heirship land sometimes sell the property, which then is held in trust by the BIA. The tribe then can purchase the land and lease it back to individual Shoshones for farming or ranching.

Murray said educational opportunities for young reservation Indians are improving, "although the drop-out rate is still high."

The two tribes now budget $75,000-$80,000 per year for college scholarships.

"I've seen the tribes take more and more interest in education," said Hobbs. He said latest figures showed 83 members of the two tribes were enrolled in college and another 30 in vocational schools.

"This is three times as many as when I came here," he said. But the opportunities for college graduates are extremely limited on the reservation, and many who obtain degrees don't return.

Hobbs said of the 5,058 enrolled members of the two tribes, about 1,000 don't live on the reservation. However, they still receive tribal payments and are sharing in the land-claim funds.

Other than agriculture, the opportunities on the reservation are few.

"There is no money to build large plants on the reservation," Murray said. "In the year I've been on the council there was only one serious attempt to attract an industry, and that fell through."

The reservation also is rich in natural resources and has unexploited reserves of coal, gypsum and phosphate.

Reveal Plan Was To Shift Power Balance

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist diplomats were told following the 1962 Cuban missile crisis that the Soviet Union deployed missiles on the Caribbean island in an effort to change the world balance of power, says a former Hungarian diplomat. Janos Radvanyi, who defected to the United States in 1967, attributes the claim to Anastas Mikoyan, top troubleshooter for the late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. In a forthcoming book entitled "Hungary and the Superpowers," Radvanyi quotes Mikoyan as saying in November 1962 that "the missile deployment was aimed at defending Castro on the one hand, and, on the other, at achieving a definite shift in the power relationship between the socialist and capitalist world." "Almost in a flash I grasped for the first time the ultimate goal of the Soviet Union," Radvanyi says. "I realized that the purpose of the extremely dangerous Soviet missile deployment was to upset the balance of power."

Radvanyi said Mikoyan also reported briefly on a visit he had with President John F. Kennedy the day before he spoke with the diplomats. Mikoyan said "Kennedy had given him a firm guarantee that the U.S. Jupiter bases in Turkey would soon be dismantled," Radvanyi says. Kennedy established a naval barricade around Cuba in October 1962 after it was discovered that medium-range Soviet missiles were being installed on the island.

The missiles were removed the following month after a tense confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union over the issue. The Soviet missiles reportedly were removed in return for a U.S. promise to remove the Jupiter missiles from Turkey near the Soviet border.

Eighteen per cent of all families in the United States own trucks, says the National Automobile Club.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day and evening for you to be an extrovert and put in motion that new plan of action that can bring you some desire vitally important to your future. Forget that urge to sit around and feel sorry for yourself. Do something constructive, pioneering in its nature. Use your best intelligence.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Now is the time to make plans that bring you the greatest amount of success in whatever sphere of action most suits you. Take exercise that improves circulation and makes you feel fine. Think.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Aim through serious effort for that goal that brings you success. Be sure your facts and figures are correct. You have a hunch that is pecking away at you. Follow it and all is fine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can express yourself well now in personal relationships, so do just that. Being sociable to the nth degree is the best way to get ahead. Generosity and charm do the trick.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan to see those bigwigs who can assist in making your outside projects more successful and get backing. Those in public office can be quite impressed with you. Talk that fine plan over with them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy with correspondence so you know the views of those who count regarding your finest projects. Get arrangements made for that trip that is both necessary and vital to your welfare. Show you are on the proverbial ball.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busily occupied making collections and paying bills that improve your credit and give you a chance to breathe more easily. Come to a better understanding with an attachment so the relationship takes on more meaning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Find out what it is that partners expect of you and you can establish far better relations with them in the future. Be more willing to be of assistance to them. The evening favors pleasure at social gatherings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) With all that work staring you in the face, get started and plow through it methodically instead of getting frustrated over it. Plan a new wardrobe that will make your appearance attractive. Get it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have spare time for being with congenials at the amusements you mutually enjoy. There are new and fascinating hobbies for you to explore. Make this a most interesting day, p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make your home as attractive as you possibly can and please both outsiders and kin. Do more entertaining than in the past and derive pleasure, favors from it. Think constructively, happily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find the right method for putting in operation those excellent ideas you have and see to it that associates comprehend them. Take those short trips to collect the information you need and the backing you want. Be more economy minded.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Think along more practical financial lines where regular routines are concerned today, and make better deals. Don't forget to shop, run errands that are important. Keep that vital appointment on time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will be a born pioneer and one interested in whatever is modern and unknown, and for this reason can be a decided success in life provided you teach early to complete whatever is started. The nature is practical, and others will find it difficult to fool your clever youngster. Ethical and religious teaching is necessary as early as possible. Send to right schools. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Senators Return From Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott have returned to Washington from a three-week trip to mainland China.

Neither Mansfield, the Senate's Democratic leader, nor his Republican counterpart would discuss details of the visit pending a meeting today or Tuesday with President Nixon.

But Mansfield did say he was encouraged by what he heard during eight hours of meetings he and Scott had with Premier Chou En-Lai.

Mansfield, of Montana, and Pennsylvania Scott also said on their return Sunday night that they met for a total of five hours with other high Chinese officials.

Son Of Alvin York Is Slain

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP) — Holt said York had been a constable — with the same powers as a deputy sheriff in the youngest son of World War I hero Sgt. Alvin York, has been killed along with his prisoner in what officers say was an apparent face-to-face shootout.

York, 38, was found dead next to his car early Sunday. Near him was the body of Willy Gibson, 29, of Albany, Ky. York had been shot once in the face with a derringer, officers said, and Gibson was shot twice in the right arm and once in the chest with a .38-caliber pistol.

Fentress County Sheriff G. B. Hold Jr. said York had investigated a traffic accident in which Gibson had been involved. York was apparently taking Gibson to the sheriff's office when the shooting occurred, Holt said.

The car was found, its engine still running, and its lights on, on U. S. 127 North about four miles north of Jamestown.

"Apparently there was some trouble while they were climbing the mountain," Hold said. "They both got out of the car and went around to the right side. Exactly what happened no one will ever know."

Warned To File Profit Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several North Carolina firms have been warned by the Price Commission to file quarterly reports on profits or face possible fines or orders to reduce prices.

The Tar Heel companies were among 400 major firms the Price Commission sent warning telegrams to over the weekend. All of the firms have an annual business volume of $100 million or more.

The North Carolina companies are:

- Imperial Tobacco Co., Wilson;
- Ruddick Corp., Charlotte;
- American Credit Corp., Charlotte;
- Belk Brothers Inc., Charlotte;
- Crech Construction Co., Raleigh;
- and J.A. Jones Construction Co., Charlotte.

Senators Return From Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott have returned to Washington from a three-week trip to mainland China.

Neither Mansfield, the Senate's Democratic leader, nor his Republican counterpart would discuss details of the visit pending a meeting today or Tuesday with President Nixon.

But Mansfield did say he was encouraged by what he heard during eight hours of meetings he and Scott had with Premier Chou En-Lai.

Mansfield, of Montana, and Pennsylvania Scott also said on their return Sunday night that they met for a total of five hours with other high Chinese officials.

A Big Beef

EAST FRIENDSHIP, Md. (AP) — Maryland state troopers are hunting cattle rustlers who made off with 41 steers from the Baltimore Livestock Exchange.

Troopers also were told to look for "a very large truck."

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wechovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The dare-devil crop duster is doing more than dusting crops these days - he's planting them, too.

Aerial seeding is catching on in North Carolina, largely because it's cheaper and it apparently works.

According to Woody Upchurch, agricultural information specialist at N. C. State University, an estimated 5,000 acres of small grain - wheat, rye, oats and barley - were seeded by airplane and helicopter in the state last fall. Most of the seed were flown on over standing crops, primarily soybeans.

"Farmers I've talked to or heard from this year seem to be very much pleased with the results they are getting," commented S. J. Hodges, Agronomy Specialist with the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service. Hodges pointed out that the wet fall favored aerial seeding in standing crops, since high moisture is needed to promote good germination.

The grain seed are usually flown on in early fall in beans, corn, peanuts, cotton or other crops just prior to harvest. However, aerial seeding isn't limited to application on standing crops. It's just as effective on prepared seedbeds.

Leaves from standing crops fall to the ground and cover the seed, acting as a mulch and holding in moisture and promoting germination. By the time the fall-harvested crop is gathered, the farmer will have a vigorous stand of grain.

Rowe McNeely, Rowan County extension chairman, said fall seeding was held up five to six weeks in that area due to wet soils. Some Rowan farmers, like Carl Hall, Jr., Basil Rape and Wilson Brown, beat the weather by hiring 135 acres of grain seeded by a commercial aerial applicator.

The Rowan County farmers paid $2.40 per acre for seeding. This cost would have been much greater with conventional methods.

Interest was so high in aerial planting that there weren't enough planes and copters to get the jobs done on time. Richard Roberts and Douglas Crabtree of Orange County's St. Mary's community had to wait three weeks and make 17 long distance calls before they finally succeeded in booking seeding time with an aerial applicator.

Extension specialist Hodges added a note of caution for farmers who may want to move too rapidly to overseeding.

"This was a nearly ideal year for overseeding," he said, "because we had very good moisture conditions. In a dry year, the grain may not germinate as well." It might be best if growers adopt this practice on a trial basis and give it a thorough test under different conditions.

But right now, aerial seeding looks like a coming thing in planting small grain.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

Some farmers will soon be through transplanting their tobacco crop and will begin cultivating. Most farmers usually apply their fertilizer topdressing at the first cultivation.

In recent years the use of nitrate of soda as a topdressing has been on the increase. The use of nitrate of soda as topdressing for tobacco is a good practice provided the amount used does not build up the total amount of nitrogen too high. The total amount of nitrogen used should not exceed the amount required for the proper growth and development of the tobacco plant.

The information obtained from soil tests can be very helpful in determining the rate and analysis of fertilizer to use on a specific field for tobacco production. Observations that you have made when different rates of plant nutrients were used on a specific field are also important.

Before applying topdressing either in the form of nitrate of soda, 15-0-14, 15-0-15, 12-0-15, 13-0-44, or 8-0-24, first determine the amount of nitrogen that has been applied in the form of preplant fertilizer such as 4-8-12, 5-10-15, or 3-9-9. For example, if you want to apply a total of 64 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre where 1200 pounds of 4-8-12 fertilizer has already been applied per acre, you would need only to apply 100 pounds of nitrate of soda, or 200 pounds of 8-0-24 as a topdressing. In some fields it might also be advisable to topdress with sulfate of potash-magnesia, especially where tobacco is being grown following peanuts.

War boom

MOBILE, Ala (UPI)—Few cities in America were more affected by World War II than Mobile.

During the war years, this port city's population jumped from 78,720 to 129,009 due to an increase in foreign trade and a boom in shipbuilding. Mobile's shipyards built 196 ships in that period.

The amount and form of organic matter, texture of the soil, and depth of soil to the subsoil are important characteristics influencing the quantity of nitrogen required for best tobacco production. Most tobacco soils in Pitt County need 55 to 70 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Fields with high organic matter may require less than 55 pounds of N.

When tobacco is grown on sandy soil with less water-holding capacity, more total nitrogen will be required. The rates suggested above only include the amount of nitrogen needed to mature the crop. These rates will not take care of nitrogen that is often leached by excess rainfall. If nitrogen is lost by leaching, additional nitrogen should be applied to replace this loss.

Soils differ in their productive capacity and in their fertility level. When determining the amount of nitrogen to use, careful attention should be given to the physical and chemical characteristics of the soil.

Farm Scene

By EDWIN L. YANCEY

Recently, while visiting my neighbor, Joe Goodson, he wanted to know, "what's causing the big swellings with all this orange powder on my pine trees?" It was Fusiform rust, a common fungus disease of the loblolly and slash pine. (I had just pruned a few infected limbs from some of the young pines in my own yard.)

The spores of Fusiform on the pine (the orange powder) will not infect other pines directly, but must have an intermediate host the oak tree serves this purpose. The oak is not severely affected, but the disease is easily recognized by brown hair-like structures on the underside of the leaf. The spores from the oak leaf will infect young pines.

This disease will not kill the pine (except in the seedling stage) but weakens it so that ice and wind causes it to break easily. It may stress it enough to cause bark beetles or other diseases to attack the tree. The recommendation usually made when the rust is on the trunk of a yard tree is, "cut it down and replace it with a healthy tree." In a forest, let the trees grow until they reach pulpwood size and then cut them out. If the disease is on a limb (at least 12 inches from the trunk) cut the limb and dispose of it. (The cut should be painted with a tree wound protector).

Needle-Cast of Pines: Another problem that causes a lot of concern this time each spring is Needle-Cast. The needles of the pine turn brown and drop off earlier than normal. Other diseases can also show similar symptoms, but as new growth is coming on the tree, and there is no evidence of insects, there is no cause for alarm.

Gypsy Moth: An all-out effort is being readied to locate and contain the Gypsy moth if it gets into North Carolina this summer. The public will be the chief source of information in controlling the pest according to Dr. M. H. Farrier, Forest Entomologist at North Carolina State University.

The larvae of the Gypsy moth does the damage because of its habit as a heavy feeder that will eat more than 200 species of trees. It emerges between May 10 and June 20 and is easily recognized by very distinctive markings. There are five pairs of blue spots and six pairs of red spots located along its back. No other caterpillar has the exact markings of the Gypsy moth.

Any person suspecting this insect moth is urged to contact the Agricultural Extension office.

Eases Language Barrier Problem

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The language barrier for Spanish and Polish-speaking persons in Illinois has been penetrated with an assist from Secretary of State John W. Lewis.

Lewis is enabling driver-license examinations to be taken in Spanish and Polish. Interpreters are stationed at key examination centers in several cities, including Chicago.

The applicant also has the option of taking the written road-sign tests in his own language.

Healthy Heart Needs 8 Watts

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — When the human heart operates at 100 per cent efficiency it requires eight watts of power, reports the Arizona Heart Institute. The report also said an artificial heart requires 32 watts of power and would be no more than 25 per cent efficient as a healthy human heart.

One problem to solve in the development of an artificial heart is how to dissipate the heat generated by 32 watts of power.

Eggs of the great horned owls are round rather than oval like those of most other owls.

More marketable tobacco

more profit for you...

with Lannate

Test results and grower experience show dramatic proof that LANNATE gives you more of what you buy an insecticide for:

- More hole-free tobacco.
- Near perfect control of key tobacco insects budworm, hornworm, flea beetle, aphids, cabbage looper.
- Combination contact/stomach action—LANNATE knocks 'em off their feet and gets 'em while they eat!
- Low use-cost per acre. One two-pound can of 90% active LANNATE covers 4 to 8 acres.
- It's easy to use, completely soluble. And it's easy on sprayers and tobacco because it contains no abrasives or solvents.
- The hit-and-run killer—after LANNATE has done its job, it breaks down into harmless materials.

That's why LANNATE is the No. 1 insecticide for quality tobacco!

As LANNATE is a highly toxic chemical and protective equipment is required, read and follow label instructions and warnings carefully.
