'Serious Consequences' Seen By Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today sharply denounced President Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese ports as "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security."

But the official statement distributed by the government news agency Tass stopped short of calling for a postponement or cancellation of a summit conference of Nixon and Soviet leaders, scheduled to begin May 22 in Moscow. "The only real way of settlement of the Vietnamese problem is to respect the Vietnamese people's right to decide their destiny themselves without any interference and pressure from outside," the statement said. "If the United States is really ready to do so, it should return to the table of negotiations in Paris."

The Soviet government resolutely insists that the U.S. steps to block the coast and disrupt ground communications of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam be canceled without delay, that acts of U.S. aggression against the DRV be ended, that the right to freedom of international navigation and trade be respected. The Soviet government expresses the hope that this point of view is shared by the governments and peoples of all peace-loving states.

"The Soviet people, loyal as they are to the principles of Socialist internationalism, associates itself with the struggle of the heroic Vietnamese people. The Soviet people has been giving and will continue to give the Vietnamese people the necessary support."

As for the Soviet Union's discontinuing its arming of North Vietnam, the statement declared: "The Soviet people, loyal as they are to the principles of Socialist internationalism, associated themselves with the struggle of the heroic Vietnamese people. The Soviet people have been giving, and will continue to give, the Vietnamese people the necessary support."

The statement did not spell out how the Soviet Union would deal with the mines sown in Vietnamese harbors. There was no suggestion in the statement of any postponement or cancellation of the planned summit conference of Nixon with Soviet leaders in Moscow beginning May 22.

Nixon met meanwhile with two ranking Soviet officials—a surprise session seen as a sign his North Vietnamese moves will not wreck the summit.

The White House described the meeting between Soviet Minister of Foreign Trade Nikolai Patolichev, and Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, with Nixon and three of his top aides as a "courtesy call."

In Saigon, the U.S. 7th Fleet announced that several freighters, including at least one under a Soviet flag, left Haiphong harbor before the deadline set by Nixon for safe passage through the mined entrance.

House Foreign Affairs Committee Democrats, in an unprecedented move, registered formal opposition to administration policy.

Tract Purchased By Commissioners

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday purchased one tract of land, disapproved the price asked for a second parcel and agreed to include funds for a solid waste disposal program in budget requests for the 1971-1972 fiscal year to be reviewed by the board in the next few months.

Dissatisfied by the commissioners was a $5,000 per acre price for a 30-acre tract of land East of Hooker Road. The site has tentatively been selected by the Greenville Board of Education as the site for a new junior high school.

Although commissioners have no say-so as to where the school is to be located, under state law they must approve the amount paid for any site.

The board's action was taken after chairman Charles Gaskins reported that several appraisals of the site were less than the $5,000 price asked by the owners of the tract.

Appraisals by local realtor D. G. Nichols and by Associated Surveys of Greensboro — the firm revaluing property in the county for tax purposes — set the value of the proposed site at $4,000 per acre. Another local appraiser, A. B. Stallworth of Home Insurance and Realty set no value for the property but in a letter to the board indicated the $5,000 price was "excessive in value."

Stallworth, indicated there is a 38-acre tract of land in the same vicinity available at $3,500 per acre.

A firm which appraised the tract for the city school board reported the value of the 30 acres as $135,000 or $4,500 per acre.

County attorney W. W. Speight told commissioners that according to law, a joint meeting should be held between commissioners and the city board of education to review the proposal. He indicated each board would have one vote, either for or against the purchase.

If a tie developed, Speight said, the Clerk of Superior Court would be required to review the proposal and break the tie.

Speight noted that the board defeated by the superior court clerk's decision could then appeal to Pitt County Superior Court for relief.

"As I see it," Gaskins said, "we are to rule on whether it's worth the money."

After disapproving the price, commissioners tentatively scheduled the joint meeting for 5 p.m. on May 16.

Commissioners approved the purchase of 2½ acres of land by the county.

The property, costing $10,000, is located near the 100 acre site purchased last year for the new county hospital.

Following action on the two land purchase proposals, commissioners discussed various plans for developing a solid waste disposal program for the county.

The county already has under lease a site at Littlefield, between Ayden and Grifton and owns a site North of the Tar river near the Pitt-Greenville airport that may be developed as sanitary landfills.

Plans presented to commissioners by a study committee included variations which ranged from one sanitary land fill to four disposal sites. Some of the proposals also called for

Toe-Stomper

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)

Two college coeds have put the finger on a man accused of stomping on thier toes.

George Mitchell was sentenced to three consecutive terms of 11 months, 29 days, after being charged with assault and battery for stomping on the feet of Liz Alsobrook, 18, of Peabody College, and Alexis Fitzbaugh, 19, of Vanderbilt University.

Authorities said Mitchell has an 11-year record of police complaints that he stomped on women's toes—or for variety he dropped books or bags of cement on them.

Police said he apparently pulled the stunts to facilitate purse snatching.

Five Sentenced In Food-Stamp Charges Here

Five of the persons charged recently with misrepresentation of Food Stamp eligibility were handed suspended sentences, fined and ordered to make restitution payments to the county Department of Social Services Wednesday in District Court.

Two other cases involving false representation in the use of a Medicaid card were tried before Judge J. W. H. Roberts and suspended sentences and fines were given.

Mrs. Olive Nichols of 604 W. Church Street, Farmville, was given six months, suspended and ordered to pay court costs and $122 to the Social Services department. Mrs. Nichols, who was put on a three and a half year probation period, appealed her case to Superior Court.

William Mewborn of Rt. 1, Box 101-A, Grifton, who was also charged with eligibility misrepresentation, was given a six months suspended sentence, fined $100 and costs, and ordered to pay the Social Services Department $851. He was put on five years probation.

Henry Lee Rosenboro of Rt. 1, Box 398, Grifton, was handed a six months suspended sentence, fined $100 and costs, and ordered to pay $312 restitution to Social Services.

William Roach of Rt. 3, Box 424, Greenville, also received a six months suspended sentence on his misrepresentation charge and was fined $100 and costs. Roach, who was given a three and a half year probation, was ordered by Judge Roberts to pay $460 to Social Services.

Kermit Suggs, Rt. 1, Box 270, Ayden, received a six months suspended sentence, fined $100 and costs and ordered to pay $1,851.75 to the Department of Social Services. Probation was set at three and a half years.

Charged with false representation in the use of a Medicaid card, Mrs. Louise Battle Jenkins of 1009 W. Sixth Street, Greenville, and Miss Judy Elaine Ward of 904 W. Third Street, were found guilty yesterday and given six months suspended sentences. They were also fined $250 each and court costs and placed on five years probation by Judge Roberts.

Three other cases involving false eligibility were continued until the May 24 session of District Court. They involved Mrs. Sadie Chapman of 1924-B, Norcott Circle, Greenville; Mrs. Lucille Crandall of Rt. 3, Box 526, Washington; and Elijah Harris of Rt. 2, Farmville.

Complaining Because City Tax Rate Set At Zero

PRINEVILLE, Ore. (AP) — Citizens are so unhappy that city property taxes have been set at zero for next year that a City Council committee is looking for projects that would require expenditures—and a tax.

The Budget Committee rejected a proposed $1.7 million budget and scheduled a hearing on the new plan for next week. A hearing Monday night brought numerous complaints about the elimination of the property tax and City Hall has received about 50 similar telephoned complaints since then, City Administrator Jim Watson said. City taxes in this central Oregon town of 4,100 were $1.35 per $1,000 property value this year, making taxes on a $20,000 home $27.

The vast bulk of the town's operation budget is covered by fines, forfeited bail, license and franchise fees and income from the City of Prineville Railway.

The 13-mile city-owned railroad, which handles short lumber and produce hauls, is expected to add some $150,000 to the city coffers next fiscal year—a bit more than usual—and no taxes are needed.

When word of the zero tax levy got out, people began complaining to City Hall. "Man, you're crazy not to put taxes on."

declared one caller.

"The city should collect something ... and put it to good use," suggested another.

"This isn't new," Watson says, "We've had years before when we didn't have to levy a tax, but the people kind of regretted it afterwards. They felt we should have collected something and used it to do some good, to build a public swimming pool or something."

'Several' Ships Leave Haiphong

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Several freighters, including at least one flying the Soviet flag, pulled out of Haiphong harbor before the deadline set by President Nixon for safe passage through the mined entrance, the U.S. 7th Fleet announced today.

The mines dropped by U.S. planes Tuesday across the entrance to Haiphong and six other North Vietnamese ports armed themselves at 7 p.m. Saigon time—7 a.m. EDT. They now can be expected to explode when ships pass over or near them.

Intense U.S. air and naval bombardment continued against military targets in North Vietnam for the third successive day. The 7th Fleet said the most powerful cruiser-destroyer force assembled in the western Pacific since World War II was ranging up and down the coast hitting within four miles of Haiphong.

Informants said U.S. fighter-bombers flew 300 strikes against the Hanoi-Haiphong military complex and other areas of North Vietnam Wednesday, and pilots reported shooting down 10 MIG interceptors, the biggest one-day bag of the war.

Another 200 air strikes were flown against North Vietnam today, the sources said.

Navy Lt. Randy Cunningham of Shelbina, Mo., pilot of an F4 Phantom from the carrier Constellation, and his copilot Lt. (jg) William Driscoll of Framingham, Mass., shot down three of the MIGs, raising their total kills to five since Jan. 19 and qualifying them as the first aces of the Vietnam war.

Their plane was hit by an anti-aircraft missile after they downed their third MIG, but Cunningham nursed the crippled Phantom out to the Tonkin Gulf where they bailed out. A helicopter rescued them.

It was one of three U.S. planes that the American command reported shot down Wednesday over North Vietnam. Two Air Force Phantoms were downed by cannon fire from a MIG19, and the four crewmen were missing.

Hanoi claimed 16 American planes were shot down and said many pilots were taken prisoner.

The U.S. Command also reported an A37 jet shot down in South Vietnam today while supporting South Vietnamese troops under siege at An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. The two crewmen were missing.

In the ground war, North Vietnamese tanks and infantrymen assaulted An Loc from four sides after a 7,000-round bombardment, and the fighting was reported still raging at dusk. Several tanks smashed their way into the provincial capital, which has been under siege since April 7.

More Bodies

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Rescue crews probing the burned-out Sunshine silver mine have discovered 11 more bodies. But fear of smoke and gas and lack of communications has slowed efforts to go deeper in search of 33 missing men.

The 11 victims raised to 58 the number of known dead from the fire that swept through the mine nine days ago. Four of the latest victims were found Wednesday night at the 3,400-foot level. The other seven were discovered early today at 3,700 feet.

The South Vietnamese command said 10 of the enemy's medium tanks were destroyed and one was captured. The South Vietnamese reported 10 enemy soldiers surrendered, including the commander of a regiment.

In the central highlands, the Ben Het border camp came under heavy shelling and ground assaults for the third consecutive night Wednesday. Field reports said an unknown number of enemy tanks led the attack, but U.S. and South Vietnamese gunship aircraft were called in, and the tanks pulled back. Firefighters were reported still going on at dawn.

Other ranger positions and outposts in the area north and west of Kontum were hit by mortar and rocket attacks.

The 7th Fleet said the targets of its cruisers and destroyers included North Vietnamese coastal defense batteries and other military positions on the Don Son peninsula four miles from Haiphong.

Spokesmen said none of the merchant ships seen leaving Haiphong harbor was fired on.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told a news conference in Washington Wednesday that at least one Soviet ship heading for Haiphong changed course and others may have done the same. But he made no mention of the departure of any of the 36 ships reported in Haiphong when the harbor entrance was mined.

Military spokesmen said 27 of these ships were from Communist nations. Four of the other ships were British and five were from Somalia.

Gardner Rebuffs Drop-Out Rumor

RALEIGH (AP) — Jim Gardner today denied as "completely false" a published report that he was considering dropping out of the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, leaving the nomination to Jim Holshouser.

Instead, said Gardner, if there is a second primary for the GOP nomination, "we are going right after Mr. Holshouser and I intend to win the second primary."

Gardner pointed out that unofficial election returns show that he is so close to having a majority of the votes cast in

Saturday's voting that "nobody yet knows where there will be a second primary."

That, said the Rocky Mount businessman, is the reason that he had maintained a silence since the Saturday election.

The Greensboro Daily News had said that Gardner, who had confidently predicted a big win in the primary, was so dejected by the closeness of the vote that he was considering withdrawing from the race.

"This report is absolutely false," Gardner told the Associated Press when asked for comment.

Prejudice Is Caused By Ignorance

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Have you a solution to this problem? Our brother married this lovely girl who happens to be of a different race.

She is intelligent and respectable. The problem is our parents refuse to meet her. It has been two years now and we, the younger generation of the family, are getting fed up.

We know that our parents are prejudiced because of their own upbringing, but how can they judge her without even meeting her?

What can we do? There are six of us. THE KLAN

DEAR KLAN: Prejudice is caused by ignorance. The only cure for ignorance is education. There is nothing you can do for those who refuse to learn. Don't fight it; it's their loss.

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column about a couple who announced on their 25th wedding anniversary that they were being divorced. The writer asked, "Can anybody top this?"

Well, I can:

A Chicago couple was being honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. After the dinner, the golden wedding couple were appropriately toasted, then the bride of 50 years stood up and said, "Herman and I have had 50 years of marriage. It hasn't always been a bed of roses. In fact, it has been rougher than most of you know. I liked Palm Springs, Herman liked Miami. [We always went to Miami.] I liked Canasta, Herman liked the horse races. [We went to the races.] I wanted to travel and see the world. Herman thought one trip [to Miami] a year was plenty, so we never went anywhere else.

We've raised our children and they are raising theirs. We have done our duty, but what I am getting at is this: Please don't be surprised if you hear that we are calling this partnership quits."

Some thought Mamma had a little bit too much champagne. Maybe she did. But three months later Herman went to Miami and she went to Palm Springs, and they now have a legal separation. TRUE STORY IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: I've never felt compelled to write to you before, but the letter from the mother who heartily disapproved when her husband announced to their children that he had SOLD his class notebooks evokes this response.

There is a vast difference between selling notes and selling exam papers. As a student and graduate of two colleges, I fail to find anything immoral about selling or buying notes. I didn't sell mine only because I didn't think of it. I GAVE them away.

If the student who buys notes, uses them to his detriment, depending upon the second hand notes solely, and not paying attention in class to take his own notes, then that is his misfortune. But buying notes or reviewing notes of one who may have been more proficient at note-taking as an additional resource should not be frowned upon by student, teacher, parent, or Abby. EDUCATION MAJOR

DEAR MAJOR: You could be right since one goes to school to LEARN, and if he in fact learns, he has achieved his objective. But some teachers may take a dim view of students who, instead of taking their own notes, borrow [or buy] notes of others. I say, a student who has this in mind should ask his teacher how he feels about it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ASKING:" "Age" is not a factor in adoption. Many people have adopted one who is NOT a minor.

Thrifty Casserole Uses Cabbage

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
A group of women in Louisville, Ky., has put together an interesting and unusual compilation of recipes called "The Farmington Cookbook" for the benefit of Farmington, a historic house near Louisville, that has been restored and opened to the public.

The first part of the cookbook is called "Freewheeling in the Kitchen" because it sets forth certain general patterns on which cooking is based and simplifies food preparation by using shortcuts where possible. In the second part of the cookbook, called "Distinction in the Kitchen," many recipes have been simplified but no shortcut ingredients or methods are used unless they make no difference in the final product.

This Cabbage Casserole was adapted from "The Farmington Cookbook" and we found it economical and especially delicious. When we offered it at our house we accompanied it with a two-rib roast of beef. Both the casserole and the meat made four to six servings.

KENTUCKY CABBAGE CASSEROLE

1 small head green cabbage, about 1 pound
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 cup boiling water

CABBAGE CASSEROLE — It's made the quick way and is delicious to serve with roast beef and other meats.

1/4 teaspoon salt
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup, undiluted
1-3rd cup milk
4 teaspoons American-style soy sauce
1 tablespoon minced onion
Generous dash of tabasco sauce
2 tablespoons butter

1/2 cup finely crushed round buttery crackers
Knife-shred cabbage coarsely to make 4 cups packed down.
Into a large saucpan turn the cabbage, celery, water and salt; cover and boil 5 minutes; drain well.

In a 1 1/2 quart round glass casserole (7 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil whisk together the soup, milk, soy sauce, onion and tabasco; add drained cabbage and celery and mix well. In a small skillet melt the butter; mix in cracker crumbs. Sprinkle over cabbage mixture. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until bubbly-hot and topping is browned—about 40 minutes.
Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Psychologist Gives Tips To Woman Behind Successful Man

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Don't be jealous of your husband's expense-account meals and conventions at resort hotels. Don't telephone him at the office unnecessarily. Don't nag him to hire a homely secretary—you should want the most efficient help for him, even if she's a knockout.

Those are a few tips for wives who hope to be the woman-behind-a-successful-man. They're from industrial psychologist Irwin L. Rodman. He says the kind of woman a man marries plays a significant role in where he's going in life.

"It's the interchange of relationships between the two which is important," says Rodman.

Neutral Wife
"A neutral wife—the kind who is disinterested or self-sufficient, may not even know what her husband does all day. She says, 'I never ask Harry what it is he does.' That kind of wife may not be much of a deterrent to her husband. He does what he does because he can do it. On the other hand, he may want her to take an interest in his work.

"A dependent wife can't stand pressure and needs her husband at her call. She'll interrupt him at business if the kids have a temperature and all hell breaks loose when he travels.

"A man with this kind of wife has to manage both his home and his business, and this detracts from both efforts. This may not be a problem if he's a nine-to-five, but there may be opportunities he can't accept because of his wife.

"An overly ambitious woman can be destructive if her husband doesn't have the ability or the inclination to do what she wants him to do. It's unfair to demand anything he's incapable of giving, and it can destroy the marriage."

Optimum Wife
Rodman says the optimum wife is the "supportive wife."

"She is as responsible for her husband's success as he is," he said. "Her attitude is, 'I love you and I have faith in you. We will make whatever sacrifices are necessary.'"

"A woman needs to recognize the fact there may be times when he is going to live the good life, staying in hotels and eating at fine restaurants, while she's home with the kids.

"He may be dealing with women who are attractive. She's got to have faith in him—she's the gal he married, and if she continues to serve his needs, there's no reason to be anxious about it."

The author of "The Executive Jungle," a layman's guide to industrial psychology, Rodman has been a personnel consultant for 20 years, helping firms decide who to hire, who to fire, who to promote and who to transfer.

He lists some tips on how a woman can help her husband succeed in business (by really trying):

—Encourage him to the extent of his capabilities.

—Listen even if you have no advice to offer.

—Encourage him to the extent of his capabilities.

—Listen even if you have no advice to offer.

Faster Counting Can Be Had

It is time once again for the county commissioners to consider the purchase of voting machines for Pitt County precincts.

Martin County this year joined the growing list of North Carolina counties which are using the machines and certainly there is no reason why the neighboring county of Pitt should not be using them, too.

Most of the metropolitan counties of our state have been using the machines for years and their use is obvious as the returns come in on elections night. Those counties with the machines complete their work and report the results far sooner than Pitt County does.

This is no criticism of the poll holders whose responsibility it is to count the ballots. On primary night last week the Pitt poll holders did a fine job of getting the ballots counted and reporting the totals to The Daily Reflector office. It is only a question of speeding up the tallying process and making the long election days easier for those dedicated citizens who man the polls.

The rapidity with which the voting totals are reported becomes more important each year. This year News Election Service, which handles the totals for television networks and the two major wire services, was pushing hard for early returns. There was an interest throughout the nation in how North Carolina voted in the presidential primary and there was interest in the state in the other races.

Voting machines that can be depended upon to be accurate are not inexpensive, it is true. However, Pitt County has a large number of precincts and voting is heavy in several of them. We feel that the investment the county makes in acquiring voting machines would be money well spent.

Voters Prefer Stick To Norm

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Tar Heel voters showed little inclination to depart from the norm in primary races for seats in the 1973 General Assembly.

While a handful of incumbent Senators and Representatives lost bids for nomination, for the most part experience appeared to carry the day at the polls.

Women, youth and blacks among the candidates — representing elements newly Scotland.

Twelve members of the '71 House are unopposed in the general election. Another 67 will be running in the fall.

Mrs. Odom, one of two women in the last session, was among seven women eliminated in the primaries. Another was Mrs. Alfreda Webb of Guilford, a black who had been appointed to a vacated House seat.

Mrs. John B. Chase of Wayne, the matriarch of feminine legislators, had a close call but won Democratic nomination for a sixth term.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Wilkie of Henderson, widow of a legislator, won Republican nomination to the Senate in the 27th District.

Other Women Winners

Other women winners, all for the House, included: Democrats — Mrs. Patricia Stanford of Orange and Mrs. Lura Talley of Cumberland; Mrs. Ruth Turner Semaschki, Henderson; GOP — Mary Jeanne Fones and Margaret P. Keesee, Guilford; Marilyn R. Bissell and Carolyn Mathis, Mecklenburg.

Eight other women candidates unopposed in the primary, will be on the fall ballot.

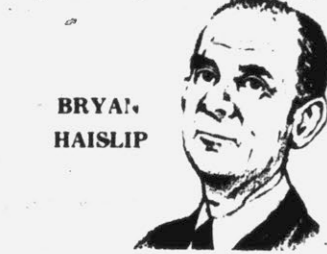

Running for the Senate are Mrs. Nancy Collidge of Cumberland and Alice H. Johnson of Wake, both Republicans; and Mrs. Mary V. Jones of Randolph, American Party.

Running for the House are: Eleanor Butler of Burke, Democrat; Iris Shelley Etheridge of Chowan, Sara Bailey Moore of Columbus, and Frances T. Tomlin of Cabarrus, Republicans; and Mrs. Zora B. Hays of Buncombe, American Party.

Five blacks will be on the general election ticket. Two of them lack GOP opposition and thus are assured of their seats. They are Joy J. Johnson of Robeson, one of two incumbent blacks, and H. M. Michaux, Jr. of Durham.

Henry E. Frye of Guilford, the other incumbent, also won nomination for a new term. Kelly O. P. Goodwin of Forsyth is a Democratic nominee for the House, and Alexander Barnes of Durham is on the GOP ticket for the Senate.

In addition to Mrs. Webb, black candidates who lost in the primary included John H. Winters of Wake for the Senate and A. J. Turner of Wake for the House. Winters is a Democrat, and Turner is a Republican.

active on the political scene — had tough going. Victories in some areas were offset by defeats elsewhere.

Fifteen women were entered in contests for legislative seats. Eight won and seven were defeated. Eight blacks were running; five were nominated and two were eliminated. A couple of under-21 candidates failed to make it.

The outcome pointed to the conclusion that, in North Carolina at least, the middle-age white male continues to be the general choice for legislative chores.

General Election Battles

The Democratic and Republican primaries set up general election battles for 24 of 50 Senate seats, and 84 of 120 places in the House. The difference represents those seats unchallenged by the GOP, an indication of Democratic dominance in many areas.

Results of primaries further reduced the number of '71 Senators returning for the '73 session. As matters now stand, at least half of the Senate next time will be fresh faces although many have service.

Incumbents who lost, all Democrats, were Sens. Ashley B. Futrell of Beaufort, Norris C. Reed, Jr. of Craven, Henry M. Milgrom of Nash, and F. O'Neil Jones of Anson.

Thirteen Senators already are assured of return, lacking general election opposition. Another 13 incumbents are on the fall ballot.

Three House Incumbents Lost

In House races, three incumbents who failed for nomination were Reps. J. Ernest Paschall of Wilson, Neill L. McFadyen of Hoke, and Mary Horne Odom of

Funds For An Exciting New Program At ECU

East Carolina University has received a grant of $295,000 to fund an exciting new program.

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced the grant from the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. It could make ECU a national center for training of occupational alcoholic consultants.

The program is the first of its kind in the nation and it gives the School of Allied Health an opportunity to innovate and develop new methods in this important field.

'Mean Part' Is Still To Come

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — The first leg of the North Carolina primary is over, but the mean part, the kind that divides parties and usually gets down to some bitter namecalling, is still to come.

Such runoffs are usually the exclusive property of the Democrats in North Carolina — but this year the most hotly contested of them all might be in the ranks of the Republican Party.

Unless we miss our guess, the runoff for Governor in the Republican Party between Jim Gardner and Jim Holshouser will be exciting, close, and filled with personal remarks.

Gardner chose to play the role of statesman in the first primary. He felt he would win big and hardly called Holshouser's name. Instead, Gardner leveled his blasts at Democrat Pat Taylor, whom Gardner felt would be his position in November.

The Rocky Mount businessman was hit by surprises from all flanks. Taylor ran a distant second to Skipper Bowles and in the Republican battle, Holshouser came within an eyelash of finishing first.

What will happen in the runoff and who will have the psychological advantage?

Gardner will turn his attention to Holshouser now and forget about Pat Taylor's brochure. He will have to fight to hold his slim lead and he knows it.

Holshouser, meanwhile, would seem to have the psychological advantage. He believes that he lost some votes — a great many votes — in the first primary because Republicans didn't think he could run a close race against Gardner.

Now that he has demonstrated that he has considerable strength, Holshouser believes these votes will switch to his column in the runoff. Some of the big-name Republicans who support Holshouser, such as Congressman Charles Jonas of Lincoln, will probably be much more active for their man in the runoff than they were in the first primary.

Holshouser will continue to shuck away at Gardner, claiming Gardner can't win in November, pointing to his absentee record in Congress, and refreshing the public's memory about Gardner's flip-flop on President Nixon.

In the event of a runoff in the Democratic gubernatorial race, Skipper Bowles will continue to hammer away at his pledge not to raise taxes, which is undoubtedly the key issue in his campaign. Bowles will continue with his television campaign and he feels confident the blacks and young people who voted for Wilbur Hobby and Reginald Hawkins in the first primary, will feel more at home with him than with Taylor.

Taylor, on the other hand, will have to junk his low-key, trust me approach to the campaign. He will attack Bowles on the tax issue and point to the large sums of money Bowles has spent on television during the campaign.

But there is a fact of life about politics and that is television is vitally important. Maybe it shouldn't be but it is. And it's also a fact that Vowles is very good on television while Taylor isn't at his best before the camera.

A runoff between Bowles and Taylor will probably get very personal.

As for the race for the U. S. Senate nomination, Sen. B. Everett Jordan has already said that he plans to be much more aggressive in the runoff than he was in the primary. Sen. Jordan will also try to make better use of the last-minute endorsement he received from Sen. Sam Ervin, who continues to

NOT A VERY BRIGHT PICTURE!

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Overwhelmed By Safety?

Industrial safety is one of those things, politically speaking, that no prudent politician can oppose and every prudent politician must support. It stands in a class with clean air, clean water, pure food, and non-flammable nighties for little girls.

Thus it was, seventeen months ago, that the Senate voted 83-3 and the House 309-60 for the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. The act went into effect April 28, 1971. American employers and employees now have been struggling with its provisions for a little more than a year. It will be another year before even tentative conclusions can be drawn on the law's effectiveness.

Meanwhile, the verdict seems to be mixed. There is some reason to believe that the law's impact is like the little boy's book report on a 600-page volume dealing with penguins: "This book told me more about penguins than I really wanted to know." With its sweeping and detailed regulations, the act of 1970 may have imposed upon industry more safety than they are required.

One hesitates to venture such a judgment. The figures (excluding mining casualties, which are compiled separately and are covered by another law) offer a sobering picture of conditions in need of correction: In 1970, some 14,500 persons died and 2.2 million suffered disabling injuries in industrial accidents. An estimated 250 million man-days of work were lost. Beyond dispute, many employers have been negligent, and many workers have been careless. By and large, safety laws of the individual States appear not to have been doing an effective job.

Granted all that, an impression is growing that the 1970 act is developing, just as its critics have protested all along, into a lawyer's dream and an engineer's nightmare. In their eager-beaver zeal to make an impressive splash, safety inspectors from the Department of Labor have made more than 22,000 inspections in their first nine months of enforcement. They have recommended penalties in a startling 40 percent of their investigations—penalties adding up to nearly $1.5 million in fines.

If the penalties were imposed only for serious infractions of safety rules, employer protests would have a hollow ring. But in thousands of instances, it appears, elaborate citations are drawn up for the most trivial offenses: An electric extension cord is not precisely secure, a hardhat is not precisely the approved weight, a toilet seat is not exactly so many inches off the floor, an appropriate receptacle has not been provided for used paper cups at the water container.

Employers complain that the system leaves them virtually at the mercy of two groups—their own workers, and the Labor Department inspectors. Under the law, the burden of maintaining safe conditions falls entirely upon management; if an inspector finds a laborer bareheaded, when he should be wearing a hardhat, the employer is penalized—even though he may have pleaded repeatedly with his workers to observe the rule. In most instances, the recommended fines are more in the nature of harassment than punishment—$25 to $100; it costs an employer less to pay them than to fight them.

Small employers are protesting bitterly, with apparent justice, at the burden of record-keeping demanded by the act. Statistics to the bureaucrat are like cud to the cow. It is understandable that the Department of Labor wants to feed its computer a sll kinds of lovely figures. But the forms are demanding; the records are tedious; and compliance takes endless time.

Admittedly, accidents cost money; but so does safety. Last week the U.S. Chamber of Commerce heard from a manufacturer of earth-moving machines. Between 1969 and 1975, some 350,000 such machines will have been built. Under the law, each must carry $2,000 in new rollover protection. That represents an added cost of $700 million which must be

Words That Weary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a restaurant waiter gets tired of hearing when he presents the bill:

"Why put it in front of me? Do I look like I've got a kind face?"

"Can we borrow two pencils from you? The girls have decided we're all going dutch, and it'll take a little figuring. After all, there are 12 of us."

"But you're a married man, Ronald. If you keep taking me to these expensive lunches, you won't be able to buy your kids new shoes this summer."

"I asked you for the bill, Giuseppe, not the Italian first World War debt."

"Nobody tips us. Why should we tip him?"

"Here, Jim, you go over it. I know it's too large but I've checked it twice and can't find anything wrong."

"Sorry, George, you'll have to throw in another buck to make it come out even. Aren't you the one who insisted on having a special shot of sherry in your mock turtle?"

"Frankly, if I were doing it, I'd leave him only 10 per cent, instead of 15 per cent. After all, he was pretty snooty, and he didn't tell us there was a special on chicken au gratin today."

"Why should a guy use a gun to hold up a bank when he can get this kind of money out of us with only a pencil?"

"In the old days they served better food than this at a saloon free lunch counter. Remember?"

"I admit it's my turn to pick up the check, fellows, but honest I did leave my wallet at home in my other pants this morning."

"Let's do it systematically. I'll go around the table. I was the roast beef. You sure you were the club sandwich, Ed? I'm sure I distinctly heard you order a minute steak rare."

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL

May 11, 1932

At a bi-partisan White House breakfast with members of the new Senate economy committee, President Hoover today set a new money-saving program under way in the Senate along the same lines as that riddled by the House. The drive is especially aimed at a goal of saving $300,000,000 or more through reduced appropriations and governmental consolidations.

The Rotary Club has started a movement for reopening of the swimming pool in the eastern section of the city during the summer months, believing it will render just as much service to the children of the city as it did last year.

Bathing beach censors for Detroit have announced they will be liberal in judging beach costumery this summer but have yet to rule on "cut-out" bathing garments which passed on unofficial review.

To The Editor:

East Carolina University should be granted the request for a full two-year Medical School on the simple basis of giving this particular area a full potential. There is a two-year Pre-Medical course, including basic sciences-required before admission to the Medical School.

To start without a full two-year curriculum could reduce a student from East Carolina University to a presumed status of sub-medicoirity. This fact alone would tinge this institution with a psychological trauma in comparative student facilities, so necessary for the best that is now required in every area of the Medical Arts.

There is no doubt that it is State Politics and Medical politics that is holding up on this request. There is no doubt of the need for this Medical School at East Carolina University in Greenville, North Carolina.

Any familiarity with the requirements in Registration and Education in any field of the Medical Arts, will automatically show and prove the necessity of not breaking this line of training into any smaller component. It just does not make sense.

This is not the time to re-hash this absolutely essential need for a Medical School in Eastern North Carolina; it is the precise time to get on with it without further delay. After all, this is only a half way mark in all inclusions, at best. What this area needs and will eventually get is a full Medical Department. You can bet your Green Stamps, it shall come.

Strength For Today

WE WAIT TOO LONG

Jesus said to His disciples on one occasion, "Say not ye, there are yet four months and then cometh the harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest."

"Yet four months!" The disciples wanted to put off doing something that needed to be done immediately. They were reflecting that disposition so persistent in the heart of man to wait too long to be helpful. Yet four months, they said, and we will go out and gather souls into the granary of God. Jesus insisted that the harvest was ready to be taken right then. Your failing and mine is that we want to put off until tomorrow certain spiritual tasks and duties which we ought to do today. We will help some good cause at a later day but not now. We will right some wrong we have done when the time is more opportune than just now. We will give more generously to the church four months from now, or four years from now, when money gets a little more plentiful. We will control some evil and promote some good in our heart after we have satisfied ourselves with a little more indulgence. We will say the word of apology and ask to be forgiven after our tempers have cooled down.

Don't put off until you have to face in eternity the decisions which ought to be made at this very instant.

'Suppressed' Insurance Facts

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A little mimeographed booklet that reveals long suppressed facts that some consider scandalous and others just shocking is becoming one of the most talked about publications of the year.

It's "A Shopper's Guide to Life Insurance." And it's publisher is the Pennsylvania Insurance Department.

Interest in the guide is growing spontaneously from ordinary consumers who for the first time want to see insurers rated on the relative price of their policies, with all the confusion wiped away. They learn, for example, that prices vary as much as 170 per cent. They learn that a 20-year-old male might pay $2.24 or $6.10 per thousand of straight life coverage, depending upon the company.

"We know that as the public gets the facts it will shop more intelligently for insurance," says Dr. Herbert Denenberg, the commissioner, a 42-year-old former professor, a whirlwind who feels he has the people on his side and is making American government work.

Many insurers have been angered by the report, which can be used anywhere in the country.

"If the companies are promoting junk and garbage, we'll tell the people," Denenberg says, adding: "This will force the insurance companies to lower premiums and improve service."

Are they promoting junk? "Not the whole industry, but it is a common technique to design policies to fool the public," he replies. "The character of the insurance business is to deliberately design policies that can't be compared."

Typically, he maintains, a prospective purchaser is told to first consult an agent. But that agent, Denenberg says, is usually committed to selling the policies of his employer only.

The result, he continues, is an effort by both company and agent to camouflage prices, thus denying the purchase the opportunity for comparison shopping.

What does the industry think of this? "The reaction is predictable," says Denenberg. "Those who look good think the report is brilliant. Others think it isn't so brilliant."

Said the spokesman for a company that ranked near the middle in the listings: "We concede he is brilliant, that he generally knows what he is talking about. But he has so many ideas and he is so smart that sometimes he goes off half-cocked in trying to do things he believes should be done."

Connally Declares Tax Reform Bill Coming Up

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may send Congress a sweeping tax-reform bill this year, including possible consideration of a value-added tax, says Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Connally told a small group of newsmen Wednesday that if the President decides to send up tax-reform legislation, it will be a "basic, fundamental" proposal rather than loophole-closing ideas currently pending on Capitol Hill. The secretary doubted that a major tax-reform bill could be passed during a campaign year. "I would question the basic wisdom of trying to write a tax-reform bill between the conventions and the election," he said.

"He may well send some proposals to the hill," Connally said of Nixon, emphasizing that he wasn't speaking for the President. He added the list could include a value-added tax idea, "major simplification" of the tax structure, and a proposal on property taxes.

In recent times, it has taken major tax-reform bills at least a year, and usually longer to go through Congress.

Connally said he views the value-added tax as a "tax of substitution." The administration is studying the tax as a substitute for the local property tax as the financial prop for schools, but has made no formal proposal.

The value-added tax is a levy on the value added to goods at each level of production. It is praised by its supporters as easy to collect and administer, but criticized by detractors as a national sales tax striking the poor the hardest.

Connally said he will recommend that the administration consider cutting the fat out of the budget before it attempts to embark on major tax reform.

But if there is a presidential tax-reform proposal, "he's not going to limit it to a few isolated cases that have political porridge in them."

A few weeks ago, Connally heavily criticized tax-reform bills on Capitol Hill, saying that passage of any this year could dampen economic recovery and precipitate another monetary crisis.

But the secretary, Nixon's chief economic spokesman, was optimistic about the economy, saying there is an "excellent chance" that the unemployment rate will fall to the projected 5-per-cent estimate at the end of the year.

Connally said there's a chance that wage-price controls can be ended by March or April of 1973, but he made it clear that the criteria for removal of controls is whether they are doing the job—slowing the rate of inflation and reducing inflationary pressures in the economy.

HEW Grant Is Awarded ECU

A grant of $20,000 has been awarded to the East Carolina University School of Education from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to continue a training program for personnel in speech program and audiology.

Dr. W. Garrett Hume of the ECU Department of Speech, Language and Auditory Pathology said the grant is the third given by HEW's Bureau of Education of the Handicapped for support of ECU's speech and hearing program.

In addition to academic uses, the funds will provide increased services to the community through ECU's Speech and Hearing Clinic.

First Night Federal Grants Behind Bars Total $445,642

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Charlotte man with a record of 58 arrests has spent his first night behind bars Wednesday.

Joseph Biggerstaff, 34, told the judge he thought he would be a good citizen when he got out. He will serve a five-year sentence for mail fraud, which will run at the same time as a three-year term for conspiracy to hijack a truckload of cigarettes.

Another man, Gerald Biggers, was convicted of participating in the same crimes Biggers was sentenced for. He had a record of 22 arrests and no time in jail, and received the same sentences.

Biggerstaff, who carries 440 lbs. on a 6-foot-4 frame, had a record which included many arrests for traffic offenses or charges which were later dropped.

"If I ever stand before this court again," he told U.S. District Court Judge Wilson Warlick, "just shoot the book at me."

A total of $445,642 was granted to East Carolina University from federal sources during April.

Sources of the granted funds were the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, the U.S. Office of Education, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The largest grant originates from the NIAAA which gave ECU $295,000 to establish a comprehensive nationwide training program to combat alcoholism in industry.

A group of three grants from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration were given to the ECU Departments of Biology and Geology and the Division of Continuing Education.

These funds, totaling $72,050, make possible the extended budgeting of a series of cooperative marine science

Local Lawmen Find Marijuana

John Hartley Beaty, 21, of 804A Johnson St. was arrested Tuesday afternoon on charges of possession with intent to distribute marijuana following a search of his residence by State Bureau of Investigation agents, members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and Greenville Police Department officers Monday.

Officials said officers found two pounds of marijuana in the Beaty home during the search. They said Beaty was not at home at the time of the search but turned himself in to officers Tuesday.

Beaty, a Gastonia native, is an East Carolina University student, according to law enforcement spokesmen.

He was placed under a $1,000 bond pending a hearing in District Court May 22.

Thousands Of Demonstrators Tangle With Police

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thousands of antiwar demonstrators clashed with police on streets and campuses in the second consecutive day of protests against the U.S. mining of harbors in North Vietnam. Two companies of National Guardsmen were ordered to patrol at the University of Minnesota.

Boyle Talks In Murder Probe

By DAVID M. THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle has testified before a federal grand jury that to the best of his knowledge a special union fund which the government claims figured in a murder payoff was used only for legitimate purposes, a UMW attorney reports. "When the murders first occurred, Mr. Boyle denied any association with the murders," UMW General Counsel Edward L. Carey said Wednesday. "He denied it every time the issue has been presented to him, and he denied it today, just as he did in the past."

Sees Utility Prices Rising

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A member of the North Carolina Utilities Commission says he would not be surprised to see the price of electricity double, and natural gas and petroleum products triple within five years.

"Utility prices, particularly those in the energy field are headed for the moon," said Hugh A. Wells in a talk Wednesday to the North Carolina Consumer Council.

He said he believes energy industry executives "have pretty well made up their minds that if the people... are going to expect and demand abundant energy, they are going to have to pay a dear price for it."

He told the group utility executives "say business is so good that they must build new facilities, all of which takes money. To get the money, they must have higher rates."

Wells advocated a crash program comparable to the Manhattan Project or the space program to develop new and more energy sources.

He said "regulatory agencies act only in the sense that they react to what the utilities do, and it is exactly in this framework that you, the consumers, are getting lost in the shuffle."

He called the utility industry's reasons for rate increases "debatable."

As the grand jury continued its investigation into the slayings of UMW insurgent Joseph M. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and their daughter, a source close to the case said the government apparently is unable to pinpoint who made the payoff.

"Everybody seems to be kind of groping around, looking for a handle," the source said after Boyle appeared before the grand jury at its invitation. "There are a few good leads, and it's very possible some of these will pan out in the next couple of days or weeks."

"But of all the agencies investigating this, I don't think anybody has found the key yet. If somebody did have it, they'd have moved by now."

Boyle testified for more than an hour and Carey said later at a news conference that the UMW chief had again disavowed any knowledge of the killings.

Chief Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague charged last week that he had reason to believe Boyle helped set up a special UMW research and information fund to finance the murders.

But Carey said Boyle told the grand jury the fund was used to the best of his knowledge only for legitimate union organizing purposes.

The attorney added that National Labor Relations Board reports showed that the fund, which totaled $19,970, was spent for union organizing work in the UMW's District 19.

Protests over President Nixon's mining decision reached into the Capitol in Washington and out across the country.

Arrests ran into the hundreds Wednesday as police used nightsticks, tear gas and horses to break up protests. Both demonstrators and police were injured.

The disorders were the most serious since the May 1970 protests over the U.S. invasion of Cambodia, when colleges and universities throughout the country were shut down.

The Massachusetts Senate voted 36 to 1 to condemn the mining "in the strongest possible terms."

Six Democratic governors joined in a telegram urging Nixon "to reverse this grave and dangerous policy decision."

Observance By Hospitals

This is National Hospital Week.

The observance, sponsored annually by the American Hospital Association, is being participated in by more than 7,000 hospitals throughout the nation. Jack W. Richardson, administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital, explained that National Hospital Week traditionally is observed during the week that includes Florence Nightingale's birthday in recognition of her pioneer work in hospital care. "But hospital have changed radically since her time, they were little more than shelters for the hopelessly ill," he said. "Today they are complex arrangements of services for both the sick and the well."

This year's theme is "We Want You... In the Picture of Health," emphasizing the hospital's role in keeping people healthy as well as caring for and getting them well. National statistics show that for every patient admitted to a hospital bed during the past year, about six persons received care in a hospital outpatient department, Richardson said.

of Pennsylvania, John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Wendell R. Anderson of Minnesota signed the telegram.

Anderson ordered two companies of National Guardsmen to the University of Minnesota campus at Minneapolis to patrol the army and a nearby U.S. Air Force recruiting office that were targets of protesters on Wednesday.

Five policemen and 30 demonstrators were injured and 30 arrests reported when police used tear gas to control crowds ranging up to an estimated 2,000 persons. Some faculty members charged police with brutality in the action.

More than 250 policemen used tear gas and nightsticks to disperse some 3,000 protesters at the University of Florida in Gainesville Wednesday night. A highway patrol riot vehicle, called "The Monster," drove into one crowd of 500 persons spewing tear gas.

Police arrested about 200 persons, and newsmen witnessed several beatings of demonstrators. One television camera crew had its film taken by police after shooting a beating

Learning Driver In Fatal Wreck

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A 53-year-old East Spencer man, Robert M. Rucker, was killed Wednesday when a car driven by his 17-year-old daughter crashed near Lexington.

The state Highway Patrol said Margaret Rucker, who has a learner's license to drive, was hospitalized with a compound leg fracture. Her brother Raymond was hurt but not seriously.

The patrol said the car hit a tree beside U.S. 52 after going out of control on a sharp curve.

to block Interstate 80. In Carbondale, Ill., several thousand persons clashed with riot-equipped police during a night of window breaking and protests that focused on the Vietnamese Study Center at Southern Illinois University. An 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was imposed.

An estimated 4,000 to 5,000 Michigan State University students ignored a peace plea from the university president, Clifton R. Wharton, and reoccupied East Lansing's busiest street Wednesday.

Some came equipped with gas masks. Tuesday night police used tear gas to break up a sit-in at the same location but no action was taken against the students as of early today.

Amherst College President John William Ward, 49, was given a standing ovation by 600 students and faculty at the Massachusetts school when he said he planned to "join in an act of passive civil disobedience" at nearby Westover Air Force Base to protest the mining. "The mines are laid and for the next few days we wait. God knows, I hope Nixon is right. God knows, I hope it works. Not for his sake, not even for the sake of the United States, but for the sake of all those I have never seen. For mankind's sake," Ward said.

In Washington, House Speaker Carl Albert closed the visitors galleries for three hours as 300 students chanted antiwar slogans on the steps of the Capitol.

At the University of Wisconsin in Madison protest leaders began the evening with a rally calling for new tactics—the 3,000 protesters were to split into groups of two or three to confuse police.

Police fired tear gas and pepper gas as the rally broke up and the demonstrators began hit-and-run forays, breaking windows in 50 buildings, starting a few small fires and attempting to barricade some streets.

There were 14 arrests and two injuries reported. Police arrested five persons during a night of scattered violence by about 700 persons who roamed in small groups through the student community of Isla Vista near the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Demonstrators pushed a burning trash container into the front door of a Bank of America branch for the second consecutive night but an outside sprinkler system again foiled the attempt to fire the building.

Police counted 27 arrests in the third day of rioting at Berkeley, including five who were part of a group that tried

IRA Claims It Tortured Girl As Spy

BELFAST (AP) — The Official wing of the Irish Republican Army said today it abducted a 15-year-old Roman Catholic girl from her home, moved her secretly from place to place for five days, beat her at regular intervals, tore her hair out by the roots and tarred and feathered her because she was a spy for Scotland Yard.

The guerrillas said that in return for money and drugs she gave information which led to the arrest of several IRA men, and that her punishment would have been more severe if she had been older.

"We would like to inform residents of the need for this action and why it was so lenient," the Officials said in a written statement. "This person was a member of a spy ring operating in this town."

The girl was taken from her home Friday night. She was tarred and feathered in front of some 200 persons Wednesday and soldiers found her lying beside a lamppost, unable to walk.

Meanwhile, British troops and Irish guerrillas fought a gun battle in Londonderry, early today. The soldiers claimed to have hit four raiders in clashes which flared for more than three hours. There were no army casualties.

The fighting was at the military command post on the edge of "Free Derry," where 35,000 Roman Catholics live behind barricades under the rule of the IRA.

The outpost has been a target for frequent attacks over the past three nights.

Several other minor shootings were reported in Londonderry and Belfast during the night.

At Dungiven, in County Tyrone, an electricity transformer was blown up and set on fire.

On Wednesday, 50 pounds of gelignite and a fire wrecked Northern Ireland's biggest department store—the four-story Cooperative on York Street, Belfast's main shopping thoroughfare.

Twenty-five people were injured by flying glass and debris as the bomb gouged out the center of the store. No one was seriously hurt.

Firemen did not tackle the blaze which followed the explosion because an anonymous telephone caller warned that another bomb was inside.

ARMED PATROL — Armed teenage members of the official Irish Republic Army patrol the Upper Falls area of Belfast in a landrover which was hijacked two weeks ago from a council worker. Since then the truck has been used by the IRA in Belfast and Londonderry. When this picture was made in Belfast yesterday, the words "Mobile Patrol—Official IRA" were painted in nine-inch-high letters on the side of the vehicle." (AP Wirephoto)

Offers Frisbees To Keep Peace

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Dade County school board chairman, William Lehman, has proposed a plan which he said would keep young visitors too busy to demonstrate during the national political conventions in Miami Beach this summer.

"I think if you gave out 10,000 Frisbees to them every day, that should keep them busy and they'll never think about demonstrating," Lehman told a meeting of the Greater Miami coalition during a discussion of ways to prevent trouble during the Democratic convention in July and the Republican conclave in August.

Farmer certification is the essential step preceding set-aside payments to producers participating in the 1972 set-aside programs for corn, grain sorghum, barley, wheat and cotton, according to Stacy J. Evans, executive director of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

He urged farmers who have questions about certification to call or come in to their county office.

"It is important that a farmer knows exactly what he is certifying before he signs his name," Evans said.

Final certification date this year is June 20 for Pitt County, but certification may be made as soon as a farmer has his program crops planted and knows he is in compliance with the programs.

As soon as the producer certifies, the local ASCS office begins processing the data for payment which will be made soon after July 1.

"While it speeds payments to get certifications in early, producers should also remember that mistakes can be costly. Once certification is made, no acreage adjustments can be made," Evans said.

"A farmer has to be in compliance with program regulations when he certifies. That is why we are urging producers to call or come in now if they are not sure about what is required for certification."

When a producer certifies, he reports exactly what acreage he has in set-aside land and what acreage he has in the program crops he signed up for.

He also certifies he has complied with all program regulations and will continue to comply throughout the year.

An error in certification can result in loss of some or all of the set-aside payment.

Builds Six-Foot Icecream Sundae

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — "Come and get it!" was the cry for ice cream eaters at Millikin University campus.

Bill Heyer, the university's dining service manager, decided to break the monotony of final exam studies Wednesday by building a 6-foot ice cream sundae on the campus.

"What better way to keep them cool," he said. "We used a round table and an oval, plastic wading pool as the base. We piled up 120 gallons of ice cream, 2 gallons of chopped nuts, poured on 3 gallons of chocolate syrup and topped it off with 15 quarters of whipped cream."

"I put a big red apple on top instead of a cherry."

"Then I yelled: 'Come and get it!' and got out of the way."

Propose Hike In Welfare Funds

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — A proposed budget for 1973-1975 calls for an increase of $201.2 million in state funds for welfare in North Carolina, including a hike of $94.6 million in Medicaid costs.

The budget, approved Wednesday by the Board of Social Services, calls for the state to take over the counties' share of welfare administration aid cases. A similar proposal was turned down by the 1971 General Assembly.

The proposed budget would raise the state's welfare spending for the next biennium from a current $589.5 million to $777.4 million. The federal government would provide nearly $532.3 million.

The counties would be required to pay $16.1-million for the biennium, a decline of $23.6 million from the current budget.

The proposed budget calls for several new programs, including day care services for the elderly and the establishment of six district offices across the state to coordinate welfare programs.

In other action, the board approved across the board cuts in payments to doctors, dentists and health providers in the Medicaid program. The action was taken to stave off an anticipated program deficit of $5.3 million by July, 1973.

It would reduce from 90 to 80 per cent of the actual cost of medical services for Medicaid recipients.

Dr. Edgar Beddingfield of Wilson, a board member, said the cuts "will lead to disenchantment in the medical profession. If the state cuts the fees, it will increase the group of doctors that don't participate in Medicaid and push more patients on the good guys that do."

The board was told that one reason for the anticipated deficit is a greater number of Medicaid claims than expected, plus additional costs of processing the unexpected claims.

Pickle Packers Try Diplomacy

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Three Arab pickle and pepper packers have gone kosher.

It all started when the Safie Brothers Farm Pickle Co. near Mount Clemens decided to turn out a line of kosher pickles and peppers named "King David."

The three brothers—George, Charles and Louis—needed a rabbi to make it kosher. Rabbi Jack Goldman of nearby Oak Park said he would be happy to oblige, and Wednesday the three Arab brothers and the rabbi celebrated the birthday of the new pickle.

"We've heard so much about Ping-Pong diplomacy," Rabbi Goldman said, "we thought we'd try a little pickle diplomacy."

Post Reward In Hunting Vandals

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A $500 reward has been posted by the Gwinnett County Commission for information leading to the arrest of vandals who drained the county's water supply of a million gallons of water.

Police reported that 27 fire hydrants were opened last weekend in the northwest section of the county.

O.P. Ackerman, general manager of the county's water system, said the system was left with a dangerously low supply.

WHO Assembly Ousting Taiwan

GENEVA, (AP) — The World Health Organizations annual assembly voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to recognize Communist China as the rightful representative of China.

A resolution, which automatically ousted Taiwan from the 133-nation organization, was approved by 76 to 15 with 27 countries abstaining.

The United States voted against the resolution. Its chief delegate, M.K. Duval, said that while participation of Communist China was welcomed, the United States was opposed to any action suggesting exclusion of Nationalist China.

Profit Plan For Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Treasury stands to make nearly $600 million in profits by selling collectors versions of Eisenhower silver dollars at $3 to $10.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally brought up the subject Wednesday at a session of the Senate Appropriations Committee and said: "The profit we're making on sales of the Eisenhower dollar is just unconscionable, that's the truth."

Connally didn't have the exact figures on the profits but the U.S. mint did.

A spokesman said the Treasury profit last year on sales of $10 "proof" dollars and $3 uncirculated dollars was exactly $40,411,669.14 with the profit for both types of coins averaging $3.89.

Multiplied by the 150 million dollars—each containing 40 percent silver—that the Mint is authorized by Congress to make and sell, the total potential profit is $597.5 million.

And a mint spokesman said the profit margin probably will rise as initial production costs go down.

"We're selling all of them we can make," he said. "We're limited only by our production capacity."

"As a matter of fact, our profits should be more than $3.89 on each coin, the spokesman said. "I figure that profit margin will either stand firm or go up. It won't go down."

The profit from the 3,858,626 proof coins sold at $10 each and the 6,542,354 uncirculated coins sold at $3 each went into the Treasury's general fund.

In addition to that, the mint shipped 196 million of the ordinary cupro-nickel Eisenhower dollars to the banks. The cost of the metal in each of those one-dollar coins is just six cents.

Home-School Officers Named For Next Term

James Hernan was elected president of the St. Raphael's Home-School Association last night at the final meeting of the school year.

Other officers chosen for the 1972-73 term are: Mrs. Irene Hanifer, vice president; Mrs. Mary Dillard Mills, secretary; and Mrs. Nelda Hedges, treasurer.

Hernan served as vice president during his past year and Mrs. Hanifer as secretary. Outgoing officers of the board are treasurer Ervin Evans and president Mrs. Nancy Dominick.

The room attendance trophy was won by the sixth and seventh grades.

A musical program, in French, was presented by sixth and seventh graders trained by Miss Marguerite La Coste and Mrs. Hattie Pignani.

Commissioners

(Continued from page 1) locating dumpable containers — ranging in size from six to 40 cubic yards — at points throughout the county to be picked up by a service truck and taken to the landfill.

Estimated initial outlay for the proposals ranged as high as $362,000 — including capital outlay for such items as landfill sites themselves, tractors to cover the waste, mobile compactor units and containers; and annual operating costs for the men and equipment to run the program.

The study committee, however, proposed that the board begin by opening the Littlefield landfill site and study its operation before moving to an expanded waste disposal program.

Under the committee proposal — to be reviewed by commissioners when they begin looking at the coming year's budget — the county would establish one or two landfill sites where county residents could deposit trash and garbage.

Such a limited program, if two sites were opened the first year, could cost an estimated $115,700, including the purchase of tractors to cover the solid waste daily, construction of gatekeeper's shacks at the sites, and operating expenditures such as salaries and maintenance costs.

The Rams came back with one in the bottom of the frame. Robert Ivey walked and stole second. He gained third on an infield out and scored when Bob Scott reached on an error.

Greene Central tied it up in the second with another run. Donnie Taylor reached on an error and was sacrificed to second. Johnson helped his cause with a double, scoring Taylor.

The victory left the Chargers with a 12-6 record in the league play, and a 12-8 overall mark.

Aycok offered only one real threat in the game, in the sixth inning. In that, Durham singled and McFatter walked. Glover then reached on an error, loading the bases. The next batter lifted a fly to center, caught by Doug Phillips. He then fired a perfect strike to home, doubling up Durham who tried to score after the catch.

Ayden-Grifton moved ahead for good in the third, scoring all of their runs. Phillips led off with a single and Ken Cleaton reached on an error. Tom Craft singled, loading them up. Manning then slammed a triple, driving in all three baserunners.

East Carolina Signs Laurinburg Standout

East Carolina University basketball coach Tom Quinn announced today that Kenneth Edmonds, cage standout at Laurinburg Institute in Laurinburg had inked a four year grant-in-aid with the Pirates. Edmonds led his prep team with an average of 23.2 points per game and, according to Laurinburg coach Frank McDuffie, "contributed even more with his leadership abilities than with his scoring." Aside from his talents on the hardwood, Edmonds has demonstrated other attributes which make him an ideal recruit. The 6-1 guard leads his class academically and holds several key positions in student organizations. Quinn expressed pleasure at the signing and commented, "Edmonds is a very fine basketball player and an excellent student. He has a natural feel for the game that is rare among youngsters his age."

"We are extremely pleased," the Pirate coach added, "To have signed him and we are confident that he will be a credit to East Carolina both on the court and off."

Coach McDuffie also seemed pleased with Edmonds' choice. "Kenneth was recruited by several major universities in North Carolina and the Southeast," the coach asserted. "East Carolina was the only one where he felt comfortable and felt that he would really like."

Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Edmonds of Chapel Hill. Mr. Edmonds is principal of Gray Culbreth School in Chapel Hill and Mrs. Edmonds is a counselor at the University of North Carolina and publisher of the Carolina Times, a Durham newspaper.

Huey's, Four Seasons In Lead

Huey's and Four Seasons moved into possession of first place in the City League last night with their second victories. They are the lone unbeaten left now.

In last night's action, Huey's beat Burger King, 8-3, while Hardee's downed Greenville Utilities, 6-5; Harbin's nipped Fieldcrest, 9-8, and Four Seasons beat Parker's, 10-7.

Four Seasons and Huey's are now 2-0. They are followed by Parker's, Harbin's, Fieldcrest and Hardee's, all 1-1. Burger King and GUCo are both 1-2, while the Jaycees and Shirley's are 0-1.

Contest Set Here

Louisburg Junior College and The College of The Albemarle will meet in a baseball game Sunday at 3 p.m. in Harrington Field to decide the winner of the Cavalier-Tar Heel Conference.

The two teams finished the regular season tied for the title. The winner will advance to the Southeastern Junior College Regionals.

more in the fourth, putting Parker's back ahead, 4-2, but Four Seasons came up with four in the fifth to move ahead, 6-4. Vincent and John Childers each homered in the frame.

In the sixth, Four Seasons added three more, all they needed to win. Billy Moye singled and Charles Allen got a hit. Roy Carawan doubled and Ronald Vincent tripled to score him for a 9-4 lead.

Four Seasons added one in the seventh, while Parker's got two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Carawan and Ronald Vincent each had three hits for Four Seasons.

In the second game, Harbin's pushed over two in the first, then added four in the third after Ron Hunter hit a three-run homer for Fieldcrest in the third. Harbin's added two more in the fifth, but a homer by Mike Phillips in the seventh sparked Fieldcrest to tie it at 8-8.

Harbin's got the winning run in the eighth. Bill Byrd reached on a fielder's choice, Tom Jamieson walked and Kim Harbin doubled to drive in Byrd with the game-ending run.

In the final Evans Park game, GUCo got two in the third to take the initial lead. Hardee's came up with five in the sixth, however, to take the lead with T. Aldridge homering. GUCo tied it up, with three in the seventh.

It all ended quickly, however, as J. Sugg homered in the seventh for Hardee's.

In the lone Guy Smith game, Huey's took the lead in the second with two runs, including a homer by Grimsley. They then gained the winning runs in the third when they scored three more. Woodard reached on an error and Draffin singled. Williams singled and Grimsley tripled. That made it 5-0, and Burger King couldn't overcome that.

Bullets Fall To Bear Grass

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School closed out its Martin County Conference play yesterday with a 7-0 victory over Jamesville.

The win left the Bears with a 2-4 league record and a 6-8 overall mark. They have one game remaining, Friday against the Williamston "B" team.

Keith Williams hurled the victory, limiting Jamesville to just three hits. He struck out six and walked one.

Bear Grass got on the scoreboard in the second inning. Ernie Winn led off with a single and Randy Evans walked. Russell Roberson singled, loading the bases and a walk to Ricky Harrison forced in Winn. Williams helped his own cause with a single scoring Evans and Roberson. Bryan Bowen then singled in Harrison for a 4-0 lead.

The Bears came up with four more in the third. Winn singled and Evans reached on an error. Roberson singled to score Winn and Mike Holiday's hit scored Evans. Keith Winn then reached on an error, scoring Roberson with the Bears' seventh run.

Ernie Winn led the Bear Grass hitting with three, while Roberson had two.

Tigers Are Knocked Off

PLYMOUTH — Plymouth High School handed Williamston a 3-1 defeat Tuesday, severely injuring Williamston's chances of winning the Albemarle Conference baseball title.

The loss dropped the Tigers to 10-2 in the league, behind Northampton. A Northampton victory over Plymouth on Friday would wrap up the title for them.

Lucas, who hurled the victory for Plymouth, allowed only one hit by the Tigers as he struck out eight and walked six while going the distance. Williamston's two hurlers, Joe Roberson and Mike Bundy gave up just three hits between them, but that was enough.

Plymouth got all three of its runs in the fourth inning. Styons reached on an error, stole second and gained third on a wild pitch. Brabble walked and White reached on a fielder's choice as Styons scored. Hassell walked and Morris singled to score Brabble. A sacrifice fly by Lucas scored White for the third run.

The Tigers got their run in the sixth. Mike Weaver singled and stole second. He scored when Rock Cherry reached on a fielder's choice.

Robersonville Downs Tigers

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville High School won its 12th straight game yesterday, taking a 4-3 victory over Williamston High School.

Robersonville opened the scoring in the first inning, pushing over one. Ricky Brown singled and Loyal Corey walked. Matt Wilson then reached on an error, scoring Brown.

Williamston came back in the second to tie it up with a run. Vann Rogerson walked and Joe Roberson singled. Gary Whitehurst walked, loading the bases. Keith Brown also drew a walk, forcing in Rogerson with the tying run.

In the top of the third, Williamston scored again, moving into a 2-1 lead. Mike Weaver singled and came around when Eddie Rogerson tripled.

Robersonville came right back with two in their half of the frame to slip back ahead, 3-2. Corey walked and Wilson singled. An error on his ball allowed Corey to score, and moved Wilson to third. Summey Mobley then grounded out, and Wilson came home on the throw to first.

In the sixth, Robersonville got what proved to be the winning run. Wilson walked and stole second. A wild pitch moved him to third and he scored on Larry Jackson's double.

Williamston tried to rally in the seventh, but got only one run. Mike Bundy singled and stole second. The ball got through and Bundy came the rest of the way on the error to score.

Robersonville, within one game of clinching another State Playoff berth, is now 13-1 overall.

Perry Brothers Hurl Win For Teams

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim and Gaylord Perry have got it together. Now if they could only get together ...

Baseball's pitching brothers did their thing Wednesday, Gaylord tossing a five-hitter to carry Cleveland to a 7-2 victory over Kansas City that vaulted the Indians into first place for the first time in four years, then Jim hurling eight shutout innings at night en route to Minnesota's 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

In the other American League games, Baltimore squeezed by Texas 1-0, the Chicago White Sox defeated Detroit 7-0, Milwaukee blanked Oakland 4-0 and California topped Boston 5-1.

The last time the Indians were in first was back on April 10, 1968—and that was on Opening Day and slightly tainted by the fact that four other teams shared the top spot with them.

Today they're there on their own, half a game ahead of Baltimore and Detroit in the AL East. Are the Indians for real? Is it time to take them seriously?

"The time to get excited, I mean really excited," Gaylord said after chalking up his fifth victory, "is after we hit a slump. Then let's see how quickly we can fight our way out of it and see what happens to our confidence."

The Tribe has notched eight victories in nine games and Gaylord has a streak of his own with three straight triumphs and an earned run average that has dipped to 2.02.

"Everybody's working and hustling their butts off," he said. "These kids really want to win."

They won against the Royals on the strength of Alex Johnson's three-run homer, his third of the year.

Harmon Killebrew's second homer of the season and 517th of his career—moving him within four of sixth-place Ted Williams on the all-time home run list—was what gave Jim Perry and the Twins their victory over the Yanks.

Jim scattered nine hits and needed ninth-inning relief help before notching his third victory and enabling Minnesota to open its AL West lead over Oakland to 1½ games.

"I threw about 10 more pitches than I normally do" in a full nine innings, Jim said. "I didn't walk anybody but I sure had a lot of three-ball counts and it seems the innings were longer.

"But we've got good men who can come in behind you. The odds are with you in that type of situation."

Is he looking forward to pitching against brother Gaylord one of these days?

Jim noted he's never done it before except in spring training—Gaylord was with San Francisco of the National League before being traded to

Cleveland before this season—then added:

"I don't think the managers would shuffle the pitching rotation to get us against each other. But I think it would be good for both of us and good for baseball, especially if both of us pitched a good game."

They'll have to wait about a month before getting the chance. The Indians and Twins meet for the first time this season June 9 in Cleveland.

Texas fireballer Pete Broberg tossed eight innings of one-hit ball but gave up a ninth-inning single and two walks, then catcher Ken Suarez threw a double-play ball away to break the scoreless tie and give Dave McNally and the Orioles the victory.

Tom Bradley twirled a four-hitter for the White Sox, who erupted for three runs in the sixth inning against Phil Mee-ler, making his major league debut, to down the Tigers.

Ken Brett checked Oakland on three hits and Billy Conigliaro smacked his third homer of the year, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, to lead the Brewers to victory and snap the A's winning skein at five games.

Nolan Ryan and Eddie Fisher teamed for a three-hitter for the Angels with Ryan pitching 4 1-3 innings of perfect ball before allowing two hits and retiring with a pulled groin muscle.

East Carolina University's golf team successfully defended its Southern Conference title last week, gaining the crown for the third time in the past four years. In addition, Eddie Pinnix brought the Pirates their first individual championship as he led the field

NCNB Rolls To 13-0 Victory

North Carolina National Bank rolled to a 13-0 victory over College View last night in the Babe Ruth League, taking over possession of first place.

The win left NCNB with a 3-0 record, a half-game ahead of Pepsi-Cola, which holds 2-0 mark. They are followed by Planters Bank, 1-1; College View, 1-2; and Home Builders and Carolina Dairy, both 0-2.

Kelly Heath, who already has a no-hitter to his credit, tossed a two-hitter at College View. He struck out seven and walked five. Both hits were picked up by Conner Merritt.

NCNB got all the runs they needed in the second inning, scoring two. George Martin walked and Jack Jenkins did also. Joey Cherry became the third walk, loading the bases, and Jeff Smith reached on an error, scoring both Martin and Jenkins for a 2-0 lead.

They came back with two more in the third. Donnie Haddock singled and stole second. Margin reached on an error, scoring Haddock, but Martin was cut down at second on Jenkins' infield grounder. Jenkins moved up on a wild pitch, scoring on Robert Bellesheim's triple.

From the 4-0 lead, NCNB went on to score four more in the fourth, one in the fifth and four in the sixth.

Haddock led the hitting, getting three for NCNB. College View 000 000 0-0 2 11 NCNB 022 414 x-13 7 0

Conley Slips By South Wayne

DUDLEY — D. H. Conley finished up its 1972 baseball season with a 2-0 victory over Southern Wayne High School yesterday.

Bryan Hines hurled the shutout victory for the Vikings. He allowed four hits, struck out six and walked four.

Southern Wayne offered only one threat during the game. One Saint reached on a walk, advanced on a single and a stolen base and then tried to steal home, but was thrown out.

Conley got both of his runs in the second inning. Bryan Hines led off with a single and Steve Evans walked. Clennell Streeter singled, scoring Hines, and an error on the relay brought in Evans for the 2-0 lead.

The Vikings closed the season with a 6-12 Eastern Carolina Conference record.

In the Idle American Division, Meadowbrook leads at 3-0, with Presbyterian at 2-0. Christian is 1-0, followed by St. James, 1-1; Belvoir and St. Gabriel, both 0-3.

Oakmont pushed over two runs in the first to take the lead, but Immanuel countered those with two of their own. Oakmont then picked up three in the second, only to fall behind when Immanuel scored four in their half of the frame. Immanuel then added another in the third to lead 7-5.

Oakmont came up with five in the fourth to move ahead, 10-7, and then added two in the sixth to make it 12-7.

Immanuel rallied in the bottom of the inning, scoring enough to win. Oscar Rumley, singled and Willard Davis got a hit. Dick Evans doubled and Charles Camp tripled them in.

Jim Harris reached on an error and Jimmy Mullen was safe on a fielder's choice. Sid Carraway reached on an error and C. B. Cranford was safe on another miscue. James Smith singled and Rumley reached on an error, bringing in Cranford with the 15th Immanuel run, and that ended it.

Prisons-Without-Bars Are Designed By Architect

By JOSEPH P. MANGUNO
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Architect Sidney Folse believes that "it is not man's nature to be caged." For that reason his firm designs—and promotes—prisons without bars.

The growing national concern over treatment of prisoners in the United States, underscored by bloody riots such as have torn Attica, Soledad, San Quentin and other prisons throughout the country, is bringing an increasing number of states around to Folse's way of thinking.

Currently, three facilities designed by Folse's firm, Curtis and Davis of New Orleans, are attracting particular attention. They are the Middlesex House of Corrections in Massachusetts, the Illinois State Penitentiary at Vienna, and the Cheshire (Conn.) Central Correction Community. They are among the newest prison facilities seeking to provide some dignity to the inmates' confined life, but in all the firm has designed 28 penal institutions in 17 states since 1952, representing a total public investment of $225 million.

Dignity Stressed
"Human dignity" is the factor stressed by the New Orleans firm in its design of correctional facilities.

"We try to provide them (inmates) with facilities where they can live, work, study and worship to a degree that can seldom be achieved in the traditional jail or prison," Folse said in an interview.

"The end result is that the inmate is totally rehabilitated to a degree where he can return to free society as an active, self-sufficient and productive citizen."

The latest Curtis and Davis project, the prison at Vienna, Ill., is being billed as the first institution of its kind in the century and "an important first step to curbing widespread series of riots and unrest currently sweeping the American penal system."

The $12 million facility, located near the community of Vienna, represents a challenge to notions that prisons should be built far from urban areas.

The approach emphasizes the location of prisons near cities and towns.
"With the location of facilities near densely populated areas, teachers can come out and educate prisoners, doctors can visit and assist in their free time, welfare workers are more readily available for counseling—making it much cheaper in the long run," Folse said.

Normal Life Sought
The Vienna facility, and a few others like it, are what Folse calls "synthetic communities" in which the inmates lead almost normal lives.

"Each inmate occupies his own tastefully decorated private quarters, complete with personal door key," the architect said. "Rooms are located in a two-story walk-up building of the duplex type to avoid the institutional look. Varying architectural styles are employed and the buildings are widely spaced along gracefully curving streets surrounding a central town square.

"Each room is equipped with a desk, a bed and private facilities. Within the town square are libraries, a movie theater, a gymnasium and canteen. When completed, the Vienna facility will house adult men, women and male youths in three separate but connecting wings with visiting privileges between inhabitants of any two wings."

Some prison authorities think the new features of Vienna go too far in "coddling" criminals.

"One of the toughest problems we've come up against," Folse said, "is the increasing skepticism among prison authorities about our brand of correctional facility."

Lack of Bars Questioned

One of the chief objections is that in most of the Curtis and Davis prisons, the steel bars are absent.

Local Student in Special Studies

ROCKY MOUNT — A Greenville student, James Arthur Gardner, is enrolled in a special North Carolina Wesleyan May Term independent studies project—the Alcoholic Center in Greenville.

The May Term at Wesleyan, the concluding four-week term of the academic year, is devoted to concentrated study in a single subject.

This special project is one of approximately 135 student-designed individual and group study projects highlighting the first May Term under the new Three-Track Curriculum.

Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gardner Sr. and is a transfer business major at N.C. Wesleyan.

Baboon Sharing His Jail Cell

GALLATIN, Tenn. (AP) — Robin Curley pleaded with Judge John Hamilton not to put him in jail because his best friend, a pet baboon, would be homeless.

Now Curley and his baboon, Sarah share a cell in the Sumner County jail.

Curley charged with receiving and concealing a prized Tennessee walking horse, was jailed after he was unable to post $6,500 bond.

"I was going to leave her at my mother's house," Curley, 31, said of his 60-pound pet. "But I drove out of the driveway and she started running after me in the rain, dragging her chain and a heavy weight."

head off escapes without the use of bars," Folse said.

"Once you remove the bars, it is much easier to convince an inmate he is not an animal and that he can be re-oriented to fit into society."

The success of the barless jail depends on a screening process which selects only those inmates likely to respond favorably to the restriction-free atmosphere of the correction center.

"Those selected prisoners are given a sense of responsibility and freedom, within set limits, to reform themselves," Folse said. "This feeling of responsibility is re-enforced by the realization that should he or she blow the opportunity for self-reform, it's back to the old style prison with bars."

"Our experiences with these types of facilities have thus far proved successful beyond our wildest expectations. Of course we have a certain number of walkaways every year. But that's going to happen as long as there exists a limited area to which a human being is confined, for it is not man's nature to be caged."

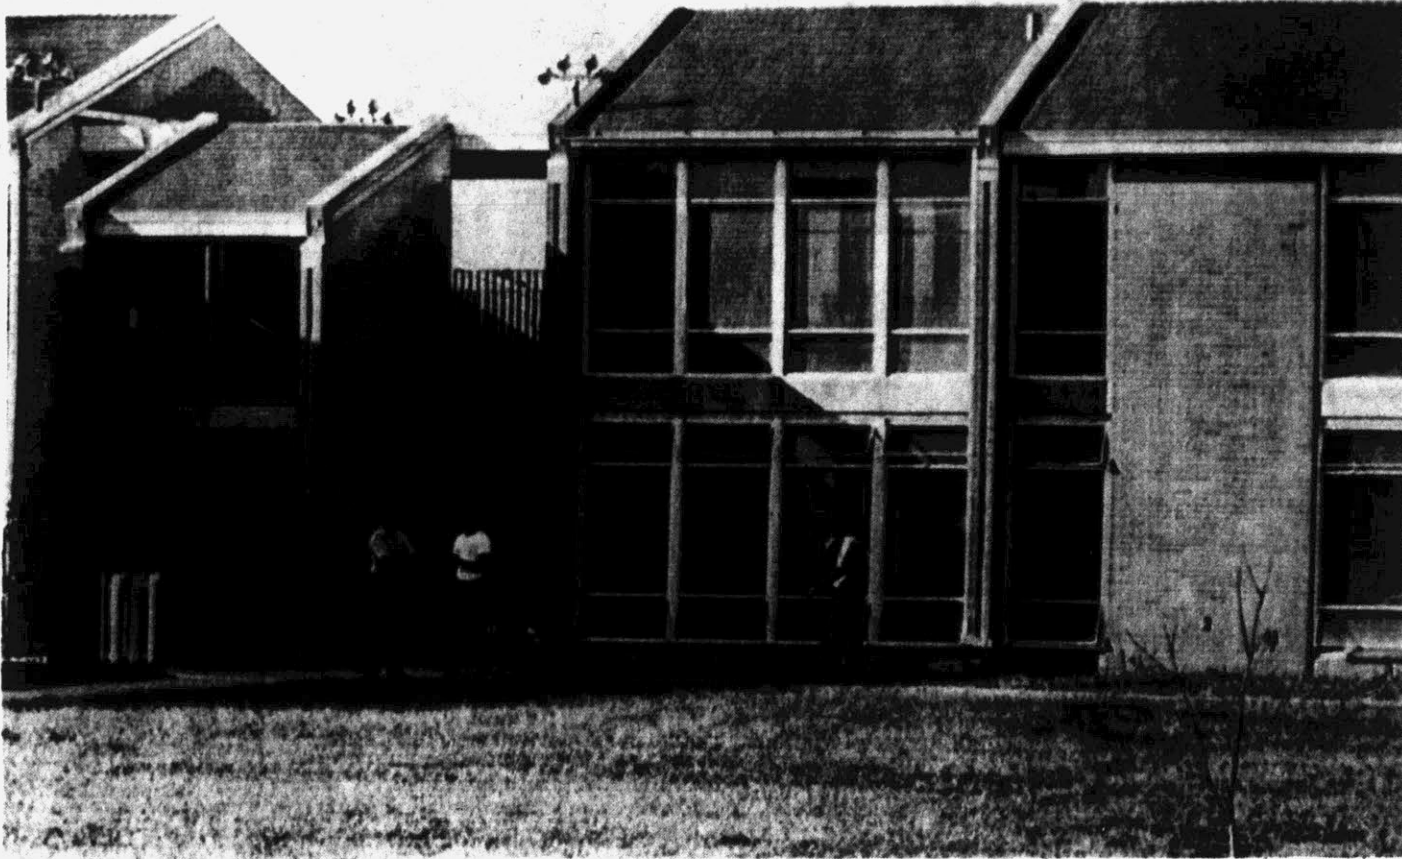

Re-Elected To Psi-Chi Post

Dr. William F. Grossnickle, professor of psychology at East Carolina University, has been re-elected to the office of southeastern vice president of Psi Chi honor society in psychology.

As a re-elected official of the national organization, Dr. Grossnickle will serve a second two-year term.

Good News: No Gnus Shortage

CHICAGO (UPI)—News note: No shortage of gnus. Herds of those large African antelopes which have delighted generations of crossword puzzle addicts and punsters are, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, in reasonable abundance from Zululand to Kenya.

ARCHITECT SIDNEY FOLSE believes "It is not man's nature to be caged." For that reason, his firm designs and promotes prisons without bars. The newest of these facilities is the Illinois State Penitentiary. (UPI Telephoto)

No Room For The Poor In Jakarta, Avers Governor

By ISA ISMAIL
JAKARTA (UPI)—In this capital city of Indonesia there is, officially, no room for the poor.
 "I do not want this city to become another Calcutta," says the tough Jakarta governor, Marine Lt. Gen. Ali Sadikin.
 Two years ago Sadikin declared Jakarta a "closed city" for jobless migrants who have been forced from their rural Java villages by overpopulation and modernized farm methods that have left them without work.
 In 1969, the year before Sadikin officially put the capital off limits to the nation's poor, more than 50,000 new migrants entered the city. During 1971 the number of migrants dropped to 16,885.
Proof of Job Necessary
 Under Sadikin's ruling, Jakarta will accept only new migrants who can offer proof of employment and are able to post a bond with city officials of double the amount of their transportation back home.
 In the wake of the country gaining independence from the Dutch in 1948, Jakarta, formerly known as Batavia, more than quadrupled in size to its present population of 4.5 million. Those two decades of uncontrolled growth were years of economic turmoil for Indonesia.
 While the late President Sukarno was studding his appalling capital city with multi-million dollar monuments, his countrymen were pouring in to set up housekeeping in cardboard shantytowns that sprouted along the railway lines and in the swamps around the city. Hundreds of them even moved into the sewer systems beneath the streets.
 Sadikin, who won the Mag-saysay Foundation award two years ago for the "miracles" he has worked on a dying city, began moving to rehabilitate Jakarta in 1967. At that time about 15 per cent of the city's homes were supplied with electricity and fewer than that had running water.
 Last year in a major campaign to instill some order in Jakarta's traffic and to rid himself of a seasonal migration of upwards of 200,000 poor people, Sadikin announced a program to phase out the three-wheel bicycle taxis—"betjaks"—which were the prime means of transport for people and goods in the city.

 Sadikin declared the central section of the city off limits to betjak taxis between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. daily, and he has since expanded the off limit zone.
 At the time the ban went into effect, Jakarta had 120,000 betjaks—each machine providing employment for two men pedalling in shifts. The number of betjak drivers was estimated as high as 250,000 at times—and their earnings helped support nearly one million wives and children.

 Most of the betjak drivers are moonlighting farmers from the Javanese countryside—men accustomed for years to planting their rice crops and then going into the city to work until harvest time. Their meager earnings of perhaps 50 cents a day provide the only cash their farm families see and make it possible for a large family to survive on a very small farm.

 Modern Vehicles Now
 Since the crackdown on the betjaks—whose role is being taken over by modern city buses and small three-wheel motorized taxis—an estimated 20,000 betjak machines have been taken out of service. And hard times have come to the survivors who are forced to compete for fares on the outskirts of town.

 The betjak drivers are in an angry mood. Last month some 3,000 drivers paralyzed traffic in Jakarta's busy Chinatown district in a violent demonstration that saw them attacking passenger buses, parked cars and passing motorists. More than 175 betjak drivers were arrested before police could bring the situation under control.

 Asked what the government might do to defuse the situation, a municipal spokesman commented, "What are you suggesting we do? Arrest them all and create more tension? No, we're not doing anything drastic. We are just hoping that the betjak drivers will eventually realize they must do something else."

 Sadikin's war on poverty in the city seems only to have begun. The pressures forcing the poor to migrate to his city—Java is one of the most densely populated regions of the world—are outside his control.

 "To those who are hungry in the countryside even the garbage piles of the city look attractive," a government spokesman conceded. So the pressures on Jakarta are likely to continue for some time to come.

Geographical Society Meets
 About sixty persons attended the meeting of the North Carolina Geographical Society last weekend at Beech Mountain.
 It was the second meeting of the organization, since its initiation by the East Carolina University Department of Geography last year in Southern Pines.
 In addition to a business session and a Friday evening banquet addressed by Appalachian State University President Herbert Wey, the members heard speakers on the N. C. mountain area and took several field trips.
 Dr. Robert Cramer, chairman of the ECU geography faculty, heads the steering committee for the Society. Attending from ECU were Dr. Cramer, Dr. Richard A. Stephenson, Dr. Charles F. Gritzner, Dr. Ennis L. Chestang, Dr. Ralph Birchard and Vernon Smith.

Women Invade Intercollegiate Athletics At ECU

INTER COLLEGIATE COMPETITORS . . . Jill Miller and Pam Tedder, female coxswains for the East Carolina University crew team follow as the boys carry the racing shell to shore.

COXSWAIN TEDDER . . . in the shell and coach Al Hearne in the power boat shout instructions to crew during practice on the Tar River.

BACK ON SHORE . . . a warm spring sun and cool river breeze feels good to Jill Miller after a practice run on the river in a shell.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Women have invaded the world of inter-collegiate athletics—generally thought of more as a man's field—at East Carolina University.

Sophomore Jill Miller and senior Pam Tedder, both from Winston-Salem, have joined the school's crew team as coxswains.

Miss Miller is the veteran. She has been with the crew since last October, while Miss Tedder has only two months service steering the racing shells and shouting encouragement to the crew.

"They listen to me and row their hearts out," said Miss Miller.

Miss Miller met coach Al Hearne last fall. "He asked me to come out and I did."

Now, Miss Miller emphasizes, "I love it. I really do. I really enjoy sports and doing stuff outside. I think crew is a beautiful sport...the most beautiful sport of all." However, she noted, "I'm prejudice."

"In a way," the 20-year-old home economics student says, it's better being a girl coxswain, "because it's my job to give them instructions. They get mad at me but being a girl, it helps. They treat me like a girl but do what I tell them as coxswain."

"I don't think it's bad at all."

A coxswain's duties? Miss Miller explained, "As they are rowing in practice, I tell them their mistakes . . . encourage them..."

During races, Miss Miller calls out "the strokes per minute that they are doing...what position they are in the race...when to sprint and where they are in the race in comparison with other teams. If one team does something bad, I tell them.

"They can't look around and see for themselves during a race. All they do is row."

"They listen to me and row their hearts out. 'It's up to me to tell them what is happening...where they are...and to steer the boat, of course."

Coxswains Miller and Tedder and the other crew members were holding their final practice sessions of the year this week, preparing for the Dads Vail year.

races, in Philadelphia this weekend "...the national championship of the Eastern Coast..." Miss Miller explained.

Three dozen teams are entered in the Dads Vail races this

"We hope to be in the top 10 finishers," Miss Miller said. "We feel it's the best crew we have ever had." Three years ago the ECU crew took sixth place in the championship competition.

Talked Pets At Meeting

Mrs. Margaret Burke of Columbia, who is associated with Friends and Animals Inc., spoke to the Pitt County Humane Society Monday night.

A former Massachusetts resident, Mrs. Burke organized and sponsored a state wide animal adoption service in that state. She discussed the problems of pet overpopulation and told how the public can use the animal spaying fund provided by Friends of Animals Inc. to help prevent overpopulation. Only through the spaying or neutering of pets not to be used for breeding purposes can the suffering and deaths of unwanted and abandoned animals be prevented, Mrs. Burke said. She said Friends of Animals is seeking a volunteer representative in the Pitt County area.

Also discussed was the need for acquiring copies of local, state, and federal laws concerning the treatment, care, selling of animals in order to educate the Humane Society members and the public. It was suggested that a representative contact the Attorney General's office and a local attorney for this information.

May Is Senior Citizen Month

This week has been proclaimed "Hire the Older Worker Week" and the month of May has been designated as "Senior Citizens Month."

Governor Robert W. Scott and Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West have both signed proclamations recognizing the two observances.

The purposes of the observances is to take time out to inform the public of the attributes of hiring an older worker.

According to the local Employment Security Commission, there are 2,800 people seeking work. Of these, 904 are 40 years of age or older.

A breakdown of the occupations of the older workers include: 25 professional, technical and managerial work; 52 clerical and sales work; and 225 machine trades, benchwork, and service jobs.

The remaining occupations include farm work, processing and miscellaneous.

Mayor West has been named honorary chairman of the 1972 Senior Citizens Committee and Lloyd Noe, manager of the Employment Security Commission is acting chairman. Committee members include: Walter Tucker, Department of Veteran Affairs; Mrs. Delores Cayton, Department of Social Services; David G. Kibler, Commission for the Blind; Mrs. Johnetta Spillman, director, Governor's Council on the Aging for Pitt County; Rev. Adrian Brown, vice-president of the Senior Citizens Club; Kendrick Taylor, Audrey Andrews, Bill Batchelor and Fran Churchill, ESC office.

In his proclamation, Gov. Scott state that "the senior citizens of North Carolina continue to contribute to our state's growth, development and leadership, serving yet to help meet in their own way the expanding needs of a growing people."

Determine Beer Is Big Offender

BONN (UPI)—Beer is the No. 1 offender in drunken driving cases in Germany, according to studies made between 1968 and 1971 by universities in three cities.

The studies, conducted by the Universities of Hamburg, Frankfurt and Mainz, showed beer responsible for about half the cases. When drunk with liquor or wine, beer was blamed for 75 per cent of drunkenness behind the wheel, the universities said.

Seize Heroin In Winston-Salem

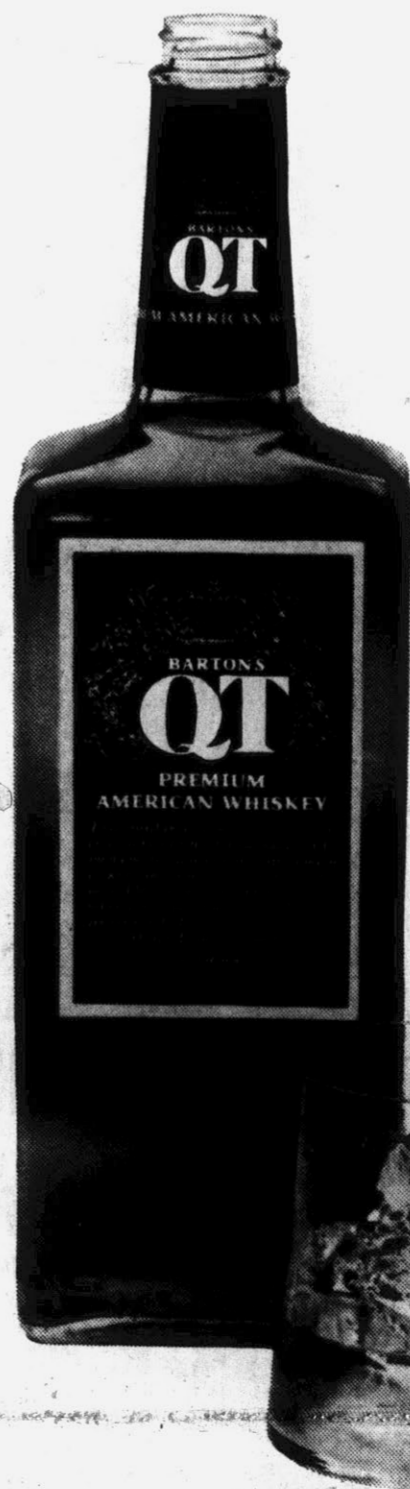

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Narcotics agents said they dug up $30,000 worth of heroin in a Winston-Salem yard Wednesday.

No arrests have been made, officers said.

The drug was buried six to 12 inches underground. Agents said they also found syringes and other paraphernalia with the heroin.

Compare the taste you've known and loved with the new smoothness of Barton's QT.

$4.80 Fifth.
$3.00 Pint.

If you happen to think all American whiskeys are pretty much the same, you're in for a pleasant surprise.

Because new Barton's QT is unlike any whiskey ever produced in this country.

It's similar in character to the other popular American whiskeys, but lighter and milder than any whiskey you've ever tasted.

Barton's QT is the American whiskey that's literally made to taste smoother. Its secret is being distilled at a higher proof, and then stored in seasoned oak casks.

What you get is the mellow, full-bodied flavor of American whiskey, with the new smoothness of the Quiet Taste.

And once you make the comparison, you'll see.

The Quiet Taste is as smooth as you can get.

Witch May Ask For Relief From Court

DENVER, Colo. (UPI)—Religious persecution of witches is still such an issue in Colorado that witches may seek relief in the courts, according to a spokesman for the sect.

Robert Artison, who has been a witch for 14 years and teaches witchcraft at Denver Free University, said the witches' target is a state law making the practice of witchcraft a misdemeanor.

"We think that we can get it declared unconstitutional," he said. "Witchcraft is a religion and prosecution of someone for his religious beliefs is illegal." The only thing holding up a court challenge is the fact that no witches have been arrested in Colorado, Artison said.

"Witchcraft is a simple, folksy type of religion," said the teacher, who claims to have studied to be a Roman Catholic priest. "We have been given a bad name through the centuries. Most people think we're evil."

Artison said, however, that the guidelines of behavior that witches adhere to call for returning good for evil three times over and require the practice of love, and trust.

According to Artison, who says the name is an alias, a large part of witchcraft is magic, which he described as the belief "that miracles happen."

His classes include lectures on spells, potions and incense as well as the basics of being a witch. Artison said students who decide after the course ends that they want to become initiated into a coven—the name for a group of witches—face a tough test.

Artison said the prospective witches must submit an application, in the form of a painting, or an essay, to the board of directors of Denver's covens.

"We make it hard for students to continue because we want them to be serious about witchcraft," he said. "Witchcraft is a lifelong commitment. We don't want psychopaths or people who are seeking to cause pain and injury."

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Poor judgment is apt to be yours during the daytime. While there is a great deal of activity in conversation and business, many mistakes are possible without double checking of all agreements. The evening finds increased vitality and the ability to make clever plans and put them in action.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) You have to make sure you know all the true facts and figures if you are to whittle that project down to a workable level. If not properly prepared, you could lose a great deal. Take it easy tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consider well the role of others in some joint project, or you could try to be selfish and lose your very shirt. Do whatever will improve your image, charm. It need not be expensive, but should be well thought out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can now collect needed data and do whatever will help you expand in the near future. Find the shortest and "best" road to your particular goals. Handle that secret matter with true wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan exactly how to have far better relations with everyone, particularly your friends. You have to do the work yourself to gain your finest personal aims. Happiness is yours for the making.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) An excellent day to get in touch with bigwigs who can be of real help to you. This will enable you to gain your career goals much faster. Get that important bill paid and build up your credit. Relax in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some new project in mind, and would do well to discuss it first with experts and gain their views. You are tempted to criticize, but it is best not to. Listen and learn is the keynote.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It behooves you to carry through meticulously with any agreements you have made with others and not try to get out of promises made. Strive for more happiness with mate. Avoid one who wants to mess up your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Taking a greater interest in what expectations associates have and discussing questionable points is wise. Control your temper—and all is fine. Many situations arise that show you what your true position is with the public in general.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are eager to get into all that work ahead of you and should do just that early in a.m. Take a little time for exercise or whatever else will make you feel better. Think out how to please family more, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make and keep appointments that will add to your enjoyment without spending too much money. A more devoted attitude toward the one you love is wise right now. Do not risk an estrangement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Think more about the situation at home and concentrate on how to eliminate any friction existing there now. You can easily get at all those small, household repairs. Have an enthusiastic attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able now to use more up-to-date methods at your regular duties and get better results. Add comforts to your home. Out to the right sources where you can get the facts you need at this time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who seems to put a dollar sign in front of everything from earliest childhood, so be sure to give the spiritual and ethical training necessary while young to combine this trait with idealism. Then this becomes not only a successful, but a happy child and much of value can be accomplished during the lifetime. Some sports are necessary early to build up the rather frail body here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Chevelle and Impala. We've packed them for your vacation.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe and Impala Sport Sedan.

There are certain things no family should start out on vacation without.

Things that will help make your trip more enjoyable and less worrisome. We've packed many such things into our Chevelles and Impalas, the two most popular cars in their fields.

Chevelle: The most popular intermediate.

Impala: The most popular full-size car year after year.

"Talking" seat belts. Traveling around, getting in and out of the car a lot, it's easy to forget about buckling up. Consequently, every new Impala and Chevelle has a front seat belt reminder system that speaks up if you try to start out before buckling.

A buzzer buzzes and a light flashes to make sure you get the message. And that's just one of many protective features now being built into these cars.

Feel their muscles. Out on the road, it's reassuring to realize you're riding in a car that's well built.

What you get with an Impala or Chevelle is a body that's an all-welded steel superstructure, painstakingly put together. In other words, a Body by Fisher.

You get a sturdy steel guard beam in every door for added protection in case of side impact.

You get a steel cargo guard that walls off the passenger compartment from the trunk and helps keep everything in its place.

You get double steel panels in the doors, in the hood, in the deck lid.

Up inside the fenders: inner fenders to protect against corrosion and kicked-up stones.

What you get, in both of these popular cars, is a lot of built-in strength and durability.

Good things to have along as you travel.

Let's talk comfort. Another reason why Chevelle and Impala are the top cars in their fields is their comfort.

Impala is one of the roomiest cars around. And Chevelle, though slightly smaller, gives you room for six. Plus plenty of baggage.

But comfort is more than just room. So at all four wheels we've put big coil springs to gentle up your ride.

And between the body and the frame we've placed a network of little rubber cushions to help keep things quiet inside.

There's even more. Here are a few more items you'll be taking along this summer if you travel in a new Impala or Chevelle:

A tough acrylic lacquer finish.

A battery with its terminals on the side so corrosion can't build up.

An engine that operates efficiently on no-lead, low-lead, or regular fuel.

Why, on Impala, you even get power steering, power disc brakes and Turbo Hydra-matic transmission—all standard.

A beautiful choice. We suggest you stop by your Chevrolet dealer's soon, to take a close look at the 1972 Chevelle or Impala.

It's nice to know that whichever way you go, you'll be getting a whole lot of car.

Packed with the right features. Packed with good old American value. Have a good trip.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

N.C. Agricultural Prospects Hopeful

By BILL WALKER
Associated Press Writer

North Carolina agriculture officials and crop and livestock experts say that despite a cut-back in income from the state's No. 1 crop, tobacco, in the next five years, the overall outlook for farming is promising.

"I can't help but be optimistic. Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said. "We will have some bright spots and we'll have increased production in (other) crops and livestock," he said.

Census figures show that in 1969—the latest available—there were 119,386 farms in the state, with 35,000 of them being worked for 200 days or more a year. Another 63,800 were operated up to 200 days.

The average size of a farm in North Carolina then was 107 acres, compared to 83 acres 10 years earlier. But in the 1959-69 period the number of farms acreage dropped from 190,000 to 119,000.

Statistics from the 1970 Federal-state crop reporting service show tobacco accounted for almost 36 per cent of total farm cash receipts. "In terms of percentage, we anticipate a drop," said Dr. Paul Harvey, crop sciences department head at North Carolina State University's School of Agriculture and Life Sciences. Harvey said despite the percentage drop, forecasters hope the income from tobacco will remain fairly steady through lower operating costs and use of higher analysis, or better fertilizer.

In 1970 North Carolina farmers produced 797,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco valued at a record $571 million. The Tar Heel state currently ranks first in flue-cured tobacco production.

Harvey said developments in tobacco growing and harvesting over the next five years will probably center on increased mechanization. "We expect tobacco operations to become bigger and the field operation to become increasingly mechanized because of the scarcity of labor," he said.

Contrasted with an expected decline in tobacco income is the growth of the state's poultry industry. Dr. Robert Cook, who heads the poultry science department at N.C. State said, "We've seen a steady growth in the state's poultry industry for the past several years. It should be up about 13 per cent during this year."

The poultry industry includes the egg market, broilers and turkeys. Over 307,000,000 broilers were grown in the state in 1970. Turkeys and egg production show gains also, according to Cook.

"We're talking about a total income of about $370 million this current year in poultry," Cook said.

The state accounts for 10 per cent of the broiler production in the United States, ranks fourth in the number of farm chickens raised and second in gross income from farm chicken production.

Gross income from turkeys during 1970 was $38 million. "Over the next few years," Cook said, "the poultry industry is going to become more industrialized. The trend is moving toward something like a food industry." The operation he mentions would involve a hatchery, feed mill and processing plant.

Beef and dairy cattle and swine production should also rank as increasingly large North Carolina farm money-makers during the seventies.

N.C. State animal science department head Dr. I. D. Porterfield said a 25 per cent increase in income from beef cattle over the next five years can be expected. "We are estimating that we will have about a $100 million increase from beef by 1976," Porterfield said. Gross income from cattle and calves in 1970 was $65,334,000 or almost double the 1960 total.

Porterfield said dairy farmers can expect about a 20 per cent increase in income from the sale of milk over the next five years. "I see a total income from the sale of milk of $112 million in five years," Porterfield noted. Milk production cash receipts in 1970 were $95,930,000, more than double the cash returns of 1960. Porterfield said, "We expect the number of cows for milking (187,000 in 1970) to decrease slowly over the next few years." He said dairymen should be milking about 170,000 cows five years from now.

But Porterfield noted that milk production should be up 1,500 pounds per cow by 1976. The average cow in 1970 produced 8,048 pounds of milk.

Hog production, like beef and milk cow figures, is expected to rise steadily over the next five years.

"We've got a gross income of roughly $150 million now," Porterfield said, "and we look for this to be around $210 or $212 million in the next five years." He said the number of hogs marketed should increase from 2.9 million to 4.2 million. "With these increases we've got to make the swine business more profitable," Porterfield said. "The trend has been to larger swine operations," Porterfield noted. "It is not uncommon for a man to be feeding 15,000 to 20,000 head of hogs."

beef cattle is a secondary enterprise.

Expanding production is predicted for North Carolina horticultural crops over the next five years. Included in this area are fruits, vegetables, ornamental horticulture and nurseries.

Dr. Clive Donoho, head of horticultural science at N.C. State's School of Agriculture, said North Carolina can expect to remain the top sweet potato state over the next five years. Income from sweet potatoes in 1970 was $15.9 million. "We can expect some increase in total production," Donoho said. "The big change is in the area of machinery, in handling the crop, grading, packaging and marketing."

Other developing horticultural crops will be blueberries, peppers, tomatoes and cabbage. Fruit crops have also become a sizeable industry. Apples are grown commercially in 31 counties. Farm income from this crop was $13.2 million in 1970.

Graham indicated a top concern of the state Department of Agriculture over the next five years would be the condition of state, national and international markets.

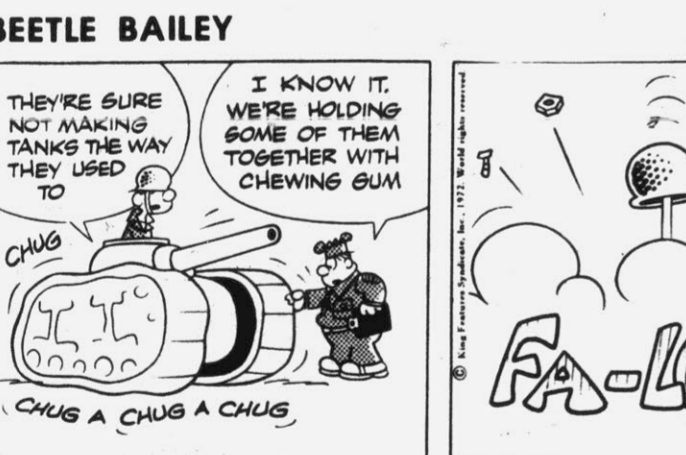

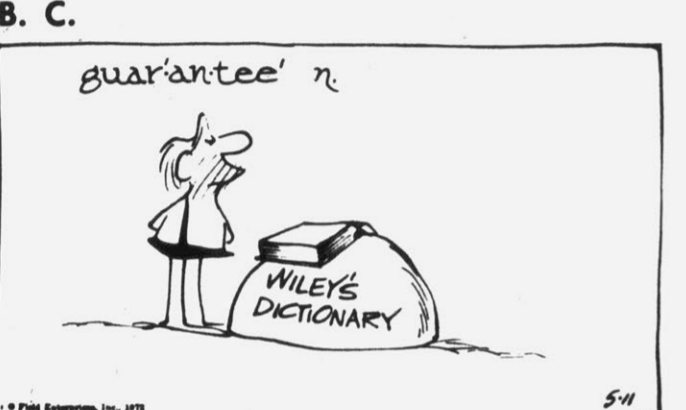

Perhaps the single most important concern of crop experts during the next five years and even the decade will be the status of tobacco production.

The North Carolina Extension Service foresees a decline in the amount of money farmers will receive for their flue-cured tobacco crop—from $569,983,000 in 1970 to $528,460,249 in 1976. This is a decline of 7.3 per cent.
