

On Eve Of Moscow Journey

Arms Control Pact Said Virtually Ready

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As administration sources report a U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms-control accord virtually ready for announcement, President Nixon is moving into a final round of conferences prior to departure Saturday for his Moscow summit talks.

An unusual secret session with the Soviet ambassador to the United States preceded Nixon's planned meeting today with congressional leaders and with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, just back from a Far East tour that included a Vietnam visit.

Accompanied by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin flew by helicopter in the wee hours Thursday to the secluded Camp David, Md., retreat where Nixon had been since Tuesday preparing for his talks beginning Monday with Soviet leaders. Dobrynin and Nixon conferred for about an hour on Thursday, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in disclosing the trip after Dobrynin and Kissinger flew back to Washington.

Ziegler wouldn't divulge what was discussed, but the mountaintop conference was believed to have included the movement toward an agreement to check the missile race.

Administration sources said they anticipate a strategic-arms control accord will be ready for announcement during Nixon's eight-day Soviet visit. The President flies Saturday to Salzburg, Austria, where he will rest until Monday when he travels on to Moscow. He has scheduled brief stops in Iran and Poland en route back to the United States.

Administration sources said agreement has been reached in principle on a first-step arms-control pact. They added that U.S. and Soviet negotiators are working at an intensive pace in Helsinki with a goal—barring any last-minute snags—of completing drafts in time for the Moscow summit.

The proposed accord is said to be in two parts. One is a treaty which would limit U.S. and Soviet antiballistic missiles. The second is an interim agreement which would put ceilings on land-and submarine-launched missiles. The United States and the Soviet Union joined Thursday in ratifying an international treaty barring emplacement of nuclear weapons on sea beds outside the 12-mile territorial limits.

Ratification by the sponsoring powers—the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain—brought to 30 the number of nations which have approved the treaty, and the ceremonies held Thursday in Washington, Moscow and London placed the pact into force.

At the State Department ceremony, Secretary of State William P. Rogers represented the United States and joked with Dobrynin, who was just back from Camp David.

At one point, Dobrynin said, "I have some other treaties to sign."

"Later, later," Rogers responded.

Besides arms limits, Nixon's talks in Moscow with Communist party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other Soviet leaders are likely to range over the sources of East-West conflict or tension—Vietnam, the Middle East and Europe.

Also high on the agenda are trade and economic issues, including the Soviet Union's World War II lend-lease debt to the United States and the Soviets' quest for U.S. credits and investment to bolster their economy.

In addition, sources with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration say preliminary meetings with the Soviet Union on joint space ventures have been successful, and that Nixon may make an announcement in Moscow about such cooperation.

As Nixon's departure date neared, there were growing signs that the talks could produce breakthroughs on trade and economic subjects.

Two MIGs Shot Down Near Hanoi

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Two Navy F4 Phantoms from the carrier Midway shot down two MIG19 interceptors Thursday 35 miles northeast of Hanoi, the U.S. Command announced today.

The North Vietnamese jets came up from the Kep Air Base to challenge U.S. bombers attacking the northeast railway between Hanoi and China. The Phantoms were escorting the bombers.

U.S. planes flew about 250 strikes against targets in North Vietnam Thursday and another 250 today, informed American sources said.

Pilots reported flying through heavy fire from anti-aircraft missile and artillery batteries. Radio Hanoi claimed five American jets were shot down Thursday, but the U.S. Command's announcement made no mention of any losses.

North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam's central highlands attacked the outer defenses of Kontum today, but claymore mines and U.S. bombers and gunships drove them back in disarray, field reports said.

At least 41 North Vietnamese were killed, according to initial reports. There was no word of South Vietnamese losses.

The attack was launched before dawn, and the fighting ended by midmorning. First reports indicated the assault was a probe—similar to one last Sunday—rather than a drive to capture the provincial capital.

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese troops resumed their artillery and rocket attacks Thursday against An Loc, the besieged provincial capital north of Saigon.

Only mortar shells had been fired at An Loc Wednesday night, giving rise to speculation that the North Vietnamese there might be running low on artillery shells and rockets. But the bombardment picked up during the day.

Field reports said 20 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 100 were wounded, while 25 enemy were killed in scattered ground fighting.

The South Vietnamese relief column that has been moving up Highway 13 for weeks was reported still within 2½ miles of An Loc.

Field reports from the northern front below the demilitarized zone said 300 North Vietnamese troops were spotted in the open Thursday about seven miles southwest of the citadel in Hue. All available artillery was directed against them, and South Vietnamese bombers also were called in to attack.

U.S. military sources disclosed that the air and naval buildup to counter the North Vietnamese offensive continued with the arrival at Bien Hoa Air Base, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, of between 30 and 40 A4 attack planes forming two Marine squadrons.

Senate End-The-War Talk Sees A Slowdown On Eve Of Nixon Trip

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With Republicans saying even to discuss such an issue now would hamper President Nixon's upcoming Moscow summit and encourage the North Vietnamese, the Senate has lapsed into a slowdown on an end-the-war amendment.

Senate doves, convinced their amendment to cut off appropriations for U.S. combat involvement in Indochina has been diluted beyond hope, would like to try something else.

They are eyeing a new amendment of Sen. Mike Mansfield calling for withdrawal of U.S.

troops from Vietnam by Aug. 31 and a cut off of funds at that time. All U.S. combat involvement in Indochina would end with return of POWs and the calling of a cease-fire.

Meanwhile, the original amendment of Sens. Clifford Case, R-N.J., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, still sits before the Senate. Not a word has been said about it in two days.

At one point, assistant Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said: "There has not been one paragraph, one sentence, one word, one consonant, one vowel, spoken on either side of the aisle."

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, GOP leader, predicts no more votes on Case-Church until next week.

In order to get to the Mansfield amendment, there would have to be several votes on amendments to it, including one to kill it. A move also could be made to table it.

Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan, assistant Republican leader, has a modification pending to insert the President's provision calling for return of POWs into Case-Church.

A vote of 47 to 43 Tuesday put the President's wording on a cease-fire into the amendment, so weakening it, Church said, that he would vote against it.

Taylor Charges Bowles 'Vague' On Med School

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor charged today that his Democratic opponent in the gubernatorial race, Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles has been vague in stating his positions on key issues, especially the medical school situation here.

Taylor, who ran second to Bowles in the May 6 primary, told newsmen and supporters here today that his opponent failed to follow up on a statement made in Greenville several weeks ago that he would make his position clear on the East Carolina University medical school before the first primary.

"During the first primary campaign," the candidate continued, "I came to Eastern North Carolina and said that I supported the expansion of the medical school...and when elected I would recommend such an expansion to the Board of Governors of High Education."

The university got the medical school during his presiding tenure over the House of Representatives and the Senate, Taylor noted, and "I saw to it that the proposal got fair treatment in the Legislature."

"What position has my opponent...taken," he added. "To begin with he opposed the medical school at East Carolina when he was in the Legislature. They would not even have a medical school if his advice had been followed."

Taylor related that at Bowles' first news conference after the primary he (Bowles) was asked about the medical school statement made here and he said that he would leave the decision up to the Board of Governors with no recommendation from him.

"It all adds up to the fact that he has never given any support to the medical school and in my opinion does not intend to do so now," he said.

Taylor said that he "looked into the matter very carefully and concluded that a one year medical school makes no sense at all and is tremendously expensive per pupil per year and I favored its immediate expansion to two years."

The candidate charged that Bowles is "trying to buy this election and buy the governor's office. While I don't fault him for this, I also do not intend to let him do it."

BLAST DAMAGE — Investigators confer in a corridor of the Pentagon early today near the spot where an explosion occurred in a restroom. (AP Wirephoto)

Pentagon Restroom Site Of Antiwar Bomb's Blast

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bomb exploded in a restroom at the Pentagon early today, blew out two interior walls and sent tons of water from broken pipes gushing through offices and a shopping concourse.

An antiwar organization claimed responsibility for the blast.

Few workers were in the area at the time and officials said this prevented injuries.

Police aided by a dog specially trained to sniff out explosives continued an exhaustive search of the sprawling military headquarters complex even as the Pentagon's 28,000 employes showed up for work six hours later. No more bombs were found.

The fourth-floor women's washroom was demolished—fixtures were shattered, the ceiling caved in and a 2½-foot hole blasted through the floor.

Most of the damage from the blast was confined to the bathroom area.

Despite the problems, Brig. Gen. Daniel James said, "it's business as usual today." James is the deputy assistant secretary of Defense for public affairs.

The restroom is located on the Pentagon's E-ring, the outermost of five rings, in the five-sided building.

FBI agents sifted through the rubble, looking for clues and James said that until the investigation is completed they were not "prepared to say what type of explosive device" was used.

The explosion came six hours before stringent security provisions, requiring inspection of all packages and briefcases brought into the Pentagon, the world's largest office building, were to have gone into effect because of planned antiwar demonstrations in Washington.

The Defense Department said the scene, in a nonrestricted area, is two full city blocks away from the office of Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. in the building that covers more than 30 acres.

Master Sgt. Jack Pickrell was one of 10 persons working in the Air Force message center 300 feet down the corridor at the time of the blast.

"You could smell the powder," he said, indicating the blast was caused by some type of explosive powder. He said dust in the corridor was so thick he had trouble finding the restroom to see if anyone was inside. No one was.

"You could actually feel the building shake," said Capt. William F. Kelly, also working in the message center. "As soon as it went off, people in the message center rushed into the hall and saw what looked like a big fog bank coming down the corridor."

At 1:05 a.m., five minutes after the blast, a caller identifying himself as "The Weatherman," told the New York Post: "We have just bombed the office of the secretary of the Air Force in the Pentagon."

A note found in a pay-phone booth near the Post building in New York said the blast was in retaliation to U.S. bombing in Vietnam.

Similar telephone calls went to The New York Times and radio station WBCN-FM in Boston.

An organization known as the "Weather Underground" claimed responsibility for the March 1, 1971, U.S. Capitol bombing that caused $200,000 in damages. Most of the Capitol damage was in an ornate restroom.

'Sit-Down' In White House By 5 Tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five demonstrators who entered the White House as tourists staged a sit-down protest in the Blue Room today and were arrested.

The Secret Service said the five were admonished to leave the executive mansion and when they refused were arrested on unlawful entry charges.

The five identified themselves as members of the militant Jewish Defense League, a Secret Service spokesman said.

They offered no resistance when arrested by officers of the Executive Protection Service which guards the White House.

The Blue Room was not damaged during the incident, the spokesman said.

The demonstration came one day before President Nixon

Chased

Isaac Bruce Jones, 19, of Route 5, Elizabeth City was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, careless and reckless driving and failing to stop for a blue light following a chase here last night that began on the East Carolina University campus.

Police said Jones, an ECU freshman, almost ran down a campus policeman when officers attempted to stop his car on College Hill Drive about 1:50 a.m. Officers fired at the car but were still unable to stop the auto.

A chase followed and Jones was arrested by city and campus officers at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Sherwood Drive.

Jones was placed in jail under $700 bond.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sponsors have called off the city's annual Armed Forces Day Parade, scheduled for Saturday, for fear of a violent confrontation with militant antiwar demonstrators.

$25,000 Grant To ECU Search For Excellence

The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem has awarded a grant of $25,000 to East Carolina University, for a university-related search for and analysis of "pockets of excellence" adaptable to the needs of Eastern North Carolina.

Announcement of the grant was made by Smith Bagley of Winston-Salem, president of the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation Inc. by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU president.

"I am very grateful for the opportunities thus afforded. I am very hopeful that we will find many things of value which can be utilized to the benefit of our people in this region. "We want to discover ideas and adaptable programs and initiate them here in North Carolina. We hope to involve the most knowledgeable people available to assist in this search."

In the grant proposal, Dr. Jenkins said "there is now a general recognition both on the part of the political and economic leadership of the state that something must be done to awaken 'the sleeping giant' of Eastern North Carolina."

"That is not to say that Eastern North Carolina is unique. There are other underdeveloped regions in the United States and indeed in the world, that have shown a capability to develop solutions for developmental problems. They have examined their problems, assessed and harnessed their resources, and developed programs to meet their needs. These regions might well serve as action models for North Carolina."

The proposal for which the grant has been awarded includes a survey of areas similar to Eastern North Carolina, but where advances have been made in achieving solutions to problems such as economic diversification, health care, recreation, general cultural development, transportation and international trade.

This, Dr. Jenkins said, "would be an in-depth search for and analysis of 'pockets of excellence,' and a determination of whether their solutions could be exported and adapted to the Eastern North Carolina region.

"In brief, the fundamental aim would be find and then determine how other regions similarly circumstances have met and solved their problems in these six areas."

After the in-depth survey and study, a composite report will be compiled. Subsequently several one-day conferences will be held at East Carolina University involving individuals and groups directly interested in each of six designated areas. The meetings would be assisted by expert consultants, Jenkins said.

Queen Elizabeth 2 Apparent Target Of Bomb Hoax

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The Queen Elizabeth 2 and her 2,350 passengers and crew members steamed on across the Atlantic toward Europe today, apparently safe despite a bomb threat demanding $350,000 ransom.

British Army bomb disposal experts parachuted to the British liner in mid-Atlantic Thursday, did not find the six bombs which an anonymous telephone caller in New York said had been planted aboard.

The bomb threat appeared to be a hoax, although the president of the Cunard Lines' American subsidiary, Richard Patton, said: "The danger is not over, but lessened."

"I never really believed that there were any bombs on board," Patton added, "but we will continue to take every precaution."

The 65,000-ton pride of Britain's merchant fleet is due in Cherbourg on Saturday and in Southampton Sunday morning. Most of her 1,500 passengers are vacationing Americans.

The caller to Cunard's New York office had warned the bombs would be set off by two men on board unless the ransom was paid. He said the bombers were a terminal cancer patient and an ex-convict and both were willing to die to carry out the threat.

Cunard assembled the money in small bills and stored it at a bank near the line's office on Fifth Avenue. But a second call promised by the extortionist to give payment instructions never came.

The caller, who Cunard said spoke with an American accent, telephoned his threat Wednesday afternoon. The QE2 had left New York Monday and was halfway home.

Cunard spokesmen said they had received many false bomb threats before. But this time the caller gave technical details of the ship that aroused concern. By noon Thursday, the line and authorities on both sides of the Atlantic decided the threat must be treated seriously.

The line said the ship's watertight doors were slammed shut as soon as the bomb threat became known aboard ship. The doors seal off the watertight compartments in which the ship is divided to limit damage. Experts said it would take major bomb damage to at least two compartments to endanger the ship.

"However, with any bomb there is clearly a risk of fire," said one Ministry of Defense official.

The ministry put four bomb disposal experts and their equipment aboard a Royal Air Force transport and sent them out to parachute down to the ship. Another RAF plane went along as a mobile communication station.

As the crew began searching the huge ship and her many cabins and compartments, the QE2's 60-year-old skipper, Capt. William J. Law, announced the bomb threat to passengers over the intercom, and the vessel's powerful propellers stopped churning about 3:30 p.m. She was then about 500 miles northwest of the Azores.

"There was no panic," passenger Sterling Hixson of Bountiful, Utah, told the Salt Lake City Tribune in a ship-to-shore telephone call. "It was very quiet. Some people mentioned the Titanic."

"The captain had the ship orchestra entertaining us and announced that ransom money had been collected and would be paid."

"The captain told us over the intercom that other ships in the area were maneuvering in case the bomb threat was real and not a hoax."

A lifeboat drill was held and the ship's medical personnel discreetly scanned the passengers for anyone showing signs of being in the last stages of cancer.

The RAF plane flew over shortly after 6 p.m. and parachuted the bomb experts and their equipment, and the liner lowered a launch to fish them out of the sea.

Once aboard, the bomb experts took over direction of the search. By 7:30 p.m., the luxury liner had resumed her course for France while the search continued.

The main problem that faced the bomb hunters was the sheer size and complexity of the $72 million ship. It is one of the largest passenger vessels ever built—13 decks high, 963 feet long with miles of corridors, a three restaurants, two night clubs and four dance floors.

movie theater, a casino, two bars, nine cocktail bars.

Brandt Treaties Voted Approval

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer
BONN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's nonaggression treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland cleared the upper house of the West German Parliament today without objection, completing their parliamentary ratification 21 months after the first pact was signed in Moscow.

The end of the hazardous ratification process promised to improve the climate for President Nixon's visit to Moscow next week, opened the door to implementation of the agreements easing East German restrictions on West Berlin, and paved the way for Brandt to seek better relations with other members of the Soviet Bloc.

The treaties are the keystones of the Ostpolitik, or Eastern Policy, for which Brandt won the 1971 Nobel Peace Prize. Twenty-seven years after World War II, they recognize Germany's territorial losses to Poland and the Soviet Union.

They were approved Wednesday in the Bundestag, or lower house, after weeks of maneuvering and on-again-off-again negotiations between Brandt and Rainer Barzel, leader of the opposition Christian Democrats. After formulation of a bipartisan declaration that the treaties do not constitute a barrier to the reunification some day of East and West Germany, most of the Christian Democrats abstained on the Bundestag vote.

The Christian Democrats control the upper house 21-20 and could have blocked the treaties there. But again they abstained when the 20 government members voted against objections to the pacts.

Charged With Suicide Attempt

Greenville police last night charged Joe Kelly Wilson, 40, of 707 East Third St. with attempted suicide after the man allegedly took an overdose of what were identified as sleeping pills.

Wilson was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital about 11:30 p.m. for treatment. Relatives told police investigators Wilson had taken a "handful" of Vistaril tablets about 10 p.m. They said Wilson had apparently attempted suicide a month ago by cutting his wrist.

The warrant, for which bond was set at $200 was not served pending the outcome of Wilson's condition.

Three Injured In Car Collision

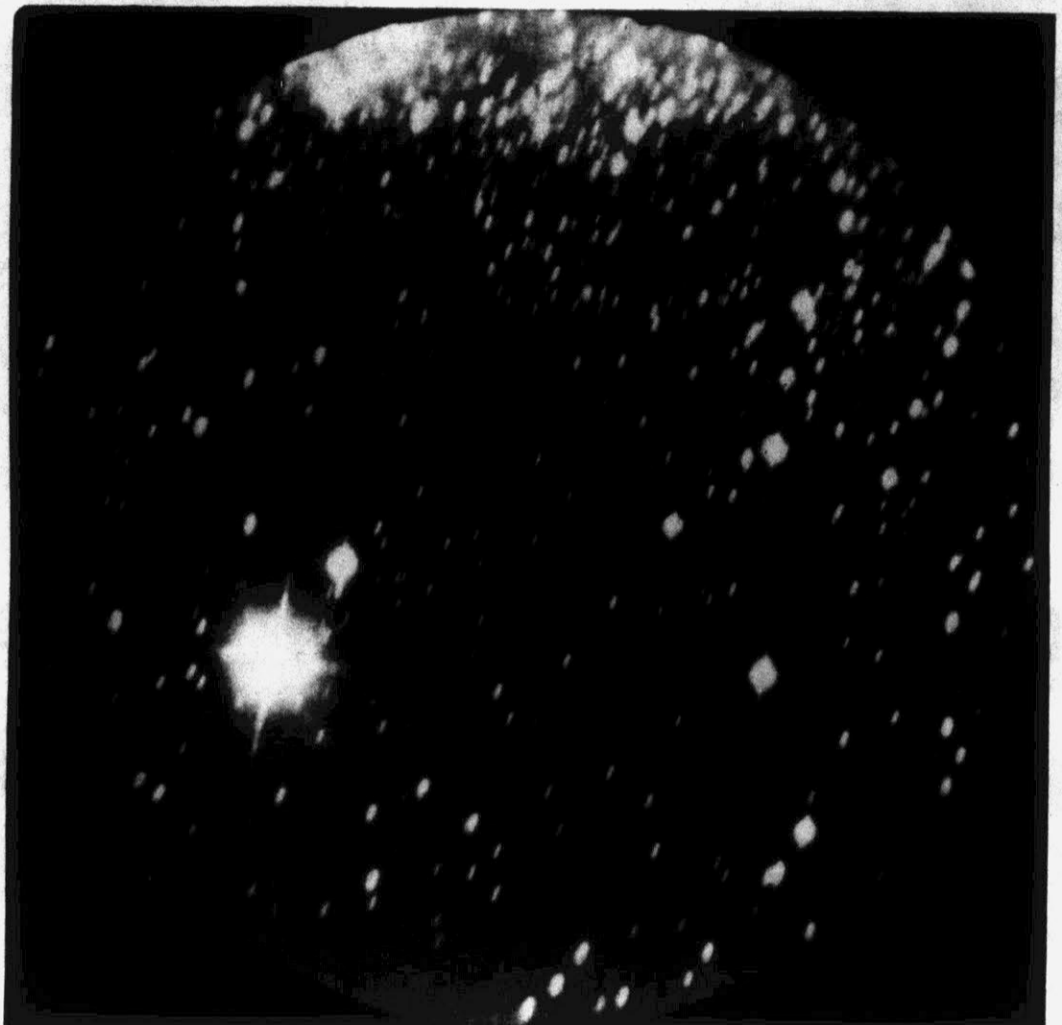

Three persons were reported injured in a 5:50 p.m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of Fifth and Elm Streets.

Police identified drivers of the two cars involved in the wreck as Karen Annette Price, 16, of 1114 Ragsdale Rd. and Tryhenea Lane Baker, Route 1, Tyner.

Investigators reported both drivers and a passenger in the Price vehicle were injured. Damage was estimated at $200 to the Price car and about $400 to the Baker auto.

Mrs. Baker was charged with failing to stop for a stop light.

Pearls Used For Evening Fashions

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Oscar de la Renta's cheeks were polka-dotted with well-wisher's lipstick kisses Wednesday after his fall collection showing.

"The important thing about the 1972 silhouette will be its volume. Not bulk, but looseness controlled," said Oscar, bringing out a number of full, un-sashed chemise smock dresses in flowered satin chiffons.

"I have four dresses from the evening I have to steal!" said a smiling tanned Christina Ford after the show.

His colorful caftans had volume, too. One billowed out to show a huge sequined butterfly, the theme of the collection, which is priced at $225 to $3,500.

"The color and style are out of this world," she said. The cardigan sweater, which was strong in his Something and Boutique collections, was treated with glitter stripes today. It matched sweater vests and long pleated skirts.

"I bought Françoise a model of a butterfly in diamonds this year in Italy, and I had it copied," said Oscar.

His day clothes included red, green and blue plaid coats—the chemise in gray flannel—and the monotone look done best in a beige quilted jacket, sweater and suede pants.

The collection, especially for evening, was a bright melange of color and pattern.

At Geoffrey Beene, however, the clothes took on a quieter, more sculptured look.

The strongest shape in this strong collection was the harness jumper. It's worn with white-ribbed sweaters and head-hugging caps.

"I was very interested in the sweater look, showing the sweater to the maximum degree," said Beene following the show.

He took this new jumper idea straight through—from gray flannel jumpuits to silk surrah evening dresses.

The harness pattern is stitched onto jackets—and traced over the bodice of a white silk surrah evening dress.

More Beene ideas:
—Bright solid pinks and greens—and cheerful wool gingham.

"I've never used such bright colors. However, it's time for light clothes," says Beene.

—Coats with very full backs and no buttons.

—The return of the afternoon dress, in basic black. "It's been a long time since that type of dress has been around," says Beene.

He and de la Renta used a lot of pearls with their evening styles.

Opti-Mrs. Plan Forthcoming Activities

The planning of summer activities highlighted the meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Charles R. Ross.

A summer cookout was planned by the group to be held in early July for members and their husbands. It was also decided to sponsor a forthcoming project for Operation Sunshine.

Reports of service hours of members included a story hour on Mondays at Operation Sunshine, tutoring and other community services.

The forthcoming Optimist Convention scheduled for late August to be held in Raleigh was discussed. A meeting of Opti-Mrs. Clubs from across the state will be held in conjunction with the Optimist Convention. The local club's scrapbook will be entered in state competition at the event.

Plans were formed to hold scrapbook work sessions during the coming months.

Mrs. Ross, president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Joe Johnson will be hostess for the June meeting and the July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Trotman.

Mrs. Miller Gives Program

Mrs. John Miller presented the program at the meeting of the Home Life Department of the Woman's Club held at her home, in Grimesland, Tuesday.

She told of her experiences while living on the Greek Island Rhodes, Liberia, West Africa, and the Philippines. Her main thought was "learning to use what you have wherever you are."

Mrs. J. E. Ricks, chairman, presided at the meeting and read a poem "Welcome." Reports on the following reports were given: Sidewalk Art Show; bridge tournament; and articles sent to the adopted patient at Cherry Hospital, Goldsboro.

Mrs. Mary Cole was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Jack Kearney of New Bern was a visitor for the meeting.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Malta Bachelor, Mrs. Paul Davenport Sr., Mrs. Milam Johnson, Mrs. Vance Perkins and Mrs. C. M. Respass.

Birth

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John K. Forbes, 1900 S. Charles St., a son, Richard Land, on May 10, 1972, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Cameron Payne, bride-elect, was honored by Mrs. Leo Jenkins with a kitchen shower Wednesday evening.

Miss Payne, daughter of Mrs. Martha West Payne of Greensboro, will marry John David Bain of Goldsboro in August.

Upon arrival, the honoree was presented a carnation corsage by the hostess.

Pink and white spring flowers were used throughout the house. Featured arrangement was an old-fashioned bouquet of iris, snapdragons and daisies which was the focal point of the dining table.

The miniature bridal couple used on the Jenkinses' wedding cake set the nuptial motif of the buffet.

Mrs. Jenkins was assisted by Miss Penny Taylor, who poured punch.

Special guests was Mrs. Annie Roberts, housemother of Chi Omega sorority.

In a buttered 2-quart round glass casserole (8 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil arrange in layers half the yams, apples, sugar, salt and mace; arrange remaining half of these ingredients in the same way; dot with butter. Bake, covered, in a preheated 350-degree oven until the apples are tender—about 50 minutes. Baste with

Habit Harmless; Just Muddle Through

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a fascination for mud! I think it's because when he was a little boy his mother never let him get dirty. He said she used to run after him with a damp wash cloth about 20 times a day to be sure his hands were clean.

Anyway, I didn't know anything about the way he liked to play in the mud until after I married him. He sometimes goes in the back yard and turns on the garden hose to make a lot of mud, then he gets right down in it and rolls around in it until he's covered with mud from head to toe. He gets a real satisfaction out of it, Abby. He yells for me to come and look, and he always leaves his muddy clothes in the yard for me to pick up and cart to the washer.

How can I break him of this weird habit? Otherwise, he is perfectly normal.

DEAR BEWILDERED: Why should you? It's harmless. Your mudder is finally getting back at mother.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, and old enough to know my own mind, but my mother is driving me crazy. I went with a guy named Allen for two years, but it just didn't work out between us. He was a nice kid, but he just wasn't for me.

My mother always liked Allen, and she compares every boy I've gone with since him.

Right now I am practically engaged to Gerry, and my mother still asks me why I stopped going with a nice boy like Allen. She keeps saying things like, "Why don't you ask Allen over sometime, maybe you two can pick up where you left off."

Abby, I don't feel anything for Allen, and I'm sure he doesn't feel anything for me, but I can't seem to get that thru my mother's head!

To make matters worse, my mother calls Gerry, "Allen." Oh, brother!
UP A WALL

DEAR UP: Your mother still obviously has a soft spot in her heart for Allen. In time she will get over him, just as you have. Be patient.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old male, and I am going bald fast. There is hair on my pillow, hair all over the floor, and every time I wash my hair or comb or brush it, it comes out in gobs.

My father went bald at a very early age so I am not surprised.

My problem is my parents. They say I am losing my hair because I wear it too long. They insist that it's falling out because it is heavy and it's being pulled down by its own weight, and if I cut it short (crew cut) it wouldn't fall out. This sounds idiotic to me. I figure it's just hereditary. My parents won't believe me, but they'll believe you. What's the answer, Abby?
GOING BALD IN LAKEWOOD

DEAR GOING: You're right. It is hereditary. You won't have it longer, if you wear it shorter.

DEAR ABBY: I'm another man who reads your column faithfully, but never thought I'd be writing to you.

I am a dairy farmer and noticed that you said when a heifer and a bull were born twins, in slightly less than 15 per cent of the cases, the heifer was a freemartin and therefore can not reproduce.

Your definition of a freemartin was correct, but your percentage was wrong. Approximately 93 per cent of heifers born twin to a bull are freemartins.

IN DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

Disaster For Segment Of Pitt

The fierce tornado which struck Bell Arthur and the Red Oak area along U.S. 264 Monday night proved to be a disaster for the relatively small area involved.

The new Red Oak Christian Church was nearly destroyed by the mighty winds. A number of houses had their sides torn out and quite a few mobile homes were destroyed by the vicious winds.

Automobiles were picked up and carried some distance as the swirling winds moved through the area. People living in the path of the storm were stunned as it moved with awesome force through the area ripping tops from some houses and mobile homes and tearing away shingles from others.

Those in the area quickly gathered their wits about them, however, and there were reports of neighbors rescuing people trapped in the debris.

For Red Oak Christian Church members it was a particularly disheartening blow. The church had recently completed its new sanctuary and services were held April 27. Dedication was scheduled for Sunday.

Seldom has a tornado in this area been as devastating as this one was, for the area which it covered. It was a miracle that there were no deaths or more serious injuries as the result of the storm.

Knowing the people of these communities, however, we have every confidence that the wrecked homes will soon hear the ringing of hammers and saws as the dwellings and buildings are restored to their original conditions.

This devastating tornado was a major blow to the people of the areas involved, but lives were spared; the rebuilding will be easier because of this.

Many Eyes Will Be On John Connally's Role

The career of John B. Connally will be watched very closely in the months ahead.

A Texas Democrat, he joined President Nixon's cabinet as secretary of the treasurer and was considered a key man on the presidential team. Yet, this week he surprised everyone by resigning.

Connally apparently left the cabinet on good terms with the president and there was speculation that he might be the vice presidential candidate on the Republican ticket.

Will he or won't he? Only time will tell.

Noose Tightens On N. Vietnam

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Although President Nixon's order to mine the ports of North Vietnam is more than ten days old, there is still no sign that Communist China is rushing work troops to North Vietnam to protect vital rail links—a Chinese omission that fits perfectly the Nixon plan to choke off Communist war supplies.

To the contrary, the relatively mild Chinese reaction to the President's blockade-by-mines of North Vietnamese ports strongly hints that Peking is not at all eager to repeat rail-repair assistance it gave North Vietnam during the height of U.S. bombing in the late 1960s.

During that last extended period of major U.S. bombing of the two major rail lines connecting North Vietnam and China, 40,000 to 50,000 Chinese work troops were assigned one job: quick repair of American bombing damage. That mission not only helped keep open rail supply lines but also gave Peking political leverage in Hanoi to match Moscow's rising influence.

Relations between Hanoi and Peking have steadily deteriorated since those troops went home in late 1968, reaching bottom with President Nixon's spectacular trip to Peking, which the Hanoi politburo regarded as an act of betrayal.

Hard prediction of China's long-range reaction to the American blockade of its Communist ally's ports would be folly this soon. Nevertheless, there is reason to believe Peking's present leadership does not wish to become any more involved with the Vietnam war than the minimum necessary to prevent an open break with Hanoi.

Because of this, Hanoi may have severe difficulty making up by overland transport from China the calamitous loss of war shipping into North Vietnamese ports. Hanoi's war machine, fueled about 15 per cent from China, is likely to find it difficult to keep even that relatively low level of supplies flowing by rail and truck route from China.

Thus, the noose around Hanoi is now perceptibly and inexorably tightening. Experts here estimate that, with Haiphong's port facilities able to unload a maximum of between 30,000 and 40,000 tons of war supplies per day, the first two weeks or so of the blockade will cost Hanoi close to half a million tons.

Quite apart from the deadly psychological blow that the supply cutoff must be causing Hanoi, its military significance is even more important. Commanders in the field at the hottest points of contact with the South Vietnamese army—Hue, Kontum and An Loc—now must begin to think about husbanding what heretofore had been a fairly constant stream of incoming supplies. No matter how much stockpile is available near these three main battlefronts, closing the logistics tap means an eventual end to assured resupply.

That transforms current military operations. The South Vietnamese position around the provincial capital of Kontum is extremely precarious today, but, as of this writing, the Communists appear to be still holding back the long predicted attack. Likewise, although some military experts have been convinced that Hue could be taken when the Communists were willing to make the sacrifice, the assault still has not been launched so far. The reason: understandable caution about jumping headlong into the unknown suddenly created by the choking off of new supplies.

An Adventure Into Wildness

By BRYAN HAISLIP

DURHAM, N. C. — A walk after a spring rain along the Eno River is a wet adventure into wildness.

Flowers nature keeps for herself are blooming: yellow lady slippers, trillium and fairy's wand. A pair of cardinals flash in the laurel. The woods, damp and hushed, throb with awakening life.

"You feel the renewal," said George Pyne, stopping where the Eno rushed along, turned into a young, yellow tiger by the showers.

"This is what man must comes about.

Symbol of Crisis

For Pyne and many others, the Eno has come to symbolize the crisis of the environment. In spite of surrounding urban growth, he said, the river remains unspoiled for most of its length from north of Hillsborough to east of Durham.

This makes it a heritage worth protecting from encroaching development and uses which would degrade its scenic qualities, he argued.

"The Eno River valley is rich in history. The name comes from the Enock Indians, who fished and hunted here. The river was important to early settlers," Pyne explained.

Its distinction is a range of plant life not commonly found outside the mountains.

Pyne has photographed the rare wild flowers of the Eno, given slide lectures before many groups, and conducted weekend tours throughout the year.

Spring Along the Eno Every season has its beauty, he said, but spring is special.

We went to see for ourselves.

George and Mary Pyne guided us on a walk along the Eno one afternoon when the undergrowth dripped after rain. Mary Allen, Teresa, Zesely and I joined Jim Nicholson of Durham and children, Eric and Buffy, for the hike.

"Why save the Eno?" Pyne pondered the question at the edge of the rolling stream.

"I think it has to do with the spirit. 'I've seen young and old come out here and walk along the river. They go away more at ease with themselves. That's worth saving for the next generation.'"

Spring's juvenescence is a time of discovery along the Eno. Life stirs underfoot and overhead. Ferns unfurl delicately, and trees begin to put out the leaves that will make a summer canopy.

Our discovery was a wild pink dogwood.

It stood at a bend in the trail, holding its last blossoms. The fading light showed an unmistakable flush to the petals.

"That's something I've never seen before," Teresa said quietly.

None of us had. We took the memory with us, a souvenir of spring where the Eno River flows wild and free.

keep in touch with, or he becomes lost in the crowds and concrete of the city."

Pyne, an architect by profession, is a naturalist by inclination and a preservationist by mission. He is a leader among a bond of Durham citizens determined to save the Eno as a wild waterway in an urban setting.

A state park along a 20-mile stretch of the river is the dream of the Association for the Preservation of the Eno River Valley. In that way the association feels, the unique botany and history of the river can be held in trust for future generations.

Park Plan Endorsed

The park concept won the endorsement of the State Board of Conservation and Development recently. Dr. Margaret Nygard, president of the local association, said the action would clear the way for the Nature Conservancy to continue acquiring land in the area. The Conservancy is a national organization involved in natural preservation.

The city of Durham also has acquired acreage along the river, some purchases dating back to World War I. A portion of the land is marked for a city park. There is hope the remainder will provide a "green belt" for the city.

The association to save the Eno has rallied to prevent what it sees as the possibility that Durham will look to the river as a municipal water supply. Officials have insisted such a plan is in the distant future, if it ever

Wallace's Alternatives

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — George C. Wallace's momentum might carry him through the remaining Democratic presidential primaries with the help of volunteer stand-in speakers. But carrying on a third-party campaign involving more intense activity might be too much for the wounded candidate.

The Alabama governor, paralyzed from the waist down, at least temporarily, has 323 delegates committed to support him at the Democratic National Convention, not nearly enough to win the nomination but more than enough, he has said, to keep any other candidate from winning on the first ballot.

Wallace might use his delegates to attempt to influence the writing of the party platform; and he has not ruled out a try for the vice presidential nomination.

Or, if he feels that he is mistreated at the convention, he might make another third-party try as he did in 1968 when he won five states.

Victories this year in five presidential primaries and second places in three others demonstrate he is a threat. But he was shot down in Laurel, Md., Monday at a campaign rally and now is in a Silver Spring hospital.

Mickey Grittin, a campaign coordinator, says Wallace could get on the ballot as a third-party candidate again in nearly every state "if we put all our effort into it, if we really tried."

"We could make it in most of the others," Griffin added, "But we'd have to work."

Wallace's staff is ready for a third-party try, but one spokesman said, "We haven't discussed that in six months."

Griffin says Wallace's American Independent Party has automatic ballot position in 17 states simply because the party won recognition four years ago. In "10 or 12" others "we could get on the ballot just by going through the motions," he added.

But due to Wallace's condition following Monday's shooting, his organization already has recognized that raising campaign funds now could be difficult. Aides have

Other Editors Say Should Go Slow

(The Raleigh Times)

It isn't surprising that Dr. Leo Jenkins is planning to ask the new university governing board for a two-year medical school for East Carolina University. Dr. Jenkins, ECU's energetic president, has never hesitated to make requests, and in recent weeks ECU has been talking about a law school, too.

But, it would be much too early for the university governing board to get seriously into whether there should be a two-year medical school at East Carolina. This battle has been fought in the legislature, and the last General Assembly wisely turned it down. Instead, the Assembly went the route of seeking to provide more physicians by expanding the three successful four-year schools already in operation, at Chapel Hill, Duke and Bowman Gray. The 1971 Assembly provided for one-year medical training at East Carolina and at N. C. State, with graduates from those schools to seek admission to the four-year schools, after meeting certain qualifications. The Assembly also took other steps to make it possible for the four-year schools to enlarge their enrollments. Before the new university governing board gets into any two-year program at East Carolina, or anywhere else, it should wait to see how the one-year program works and how the expansion of the established schools works. If these expanded programs do provide more physicians, as they are expected to do, it would seem unwise to spend scarce education dollars in a two-year facility at East Carolina.

The university governing board is just getting started on its tremendous job of coordinating all state higher education. It would be unfortunate if the governors went to the 1973 legislature with an expansive program for a two-year medical school. The governors would run the risk of getting involved in a dispute, something which they should avoid if at all possible before they become firmly established in the state's educational appropriation picture.

The governing board's first real test will come in its dealings with the 1973 Assembly. The board was created to help the legislature resist the temptation to dabble too much in higher education, and the legislators should be willing to give the board an opportunity to show that it can indeed operate all of higher education efficiently and fairly. For this reason, if for no other, the board should be doubly sure that all of its requests to the Assembly are solidly based.

Strength For Today Commission Of Stockbrokers

By CHARLES J. ELIA

Q. I'm a stockbroker. One of my customers showed me a column you did recently on brokerage commissions. However, I think it would be fair if you gave the total commission picture so that customers won't feel the brokers are taking advantage of them. My customer thinks I've overcharged her. As you know, the calculations for more than 100 shares of stock are different from the 100-share order. I think your readers would appreciate the full commission story.

A. And I'm happy to be able to give it to them, considering the increased confusion among investors over the new, more complex commission structure.

As you may recall, the column you mention dealt with a question from an investor who gave his broker an order for 84 shares of stock — an odd-lot. The new commission formula was explained explicitly on that order and on a 100-share, or round lot, it was indeed incomplete. So, let me fill in the holes.

In an order for stock trading above $1 a share, the total amount of money involved in the trade is the real key. But the formula for the single 100-share order does differ from an order in the same stock involving more than one round lot.

On a 100-share order, the formula works this way: Where the money involved is over $100 but under $800, the minimum commission is two per cent $6.40; $800 to under $2,500, it is 1.3 per cent plus $12; above $2,500 it is 0.9 per cent plus $22.

For odd lots of less than 100 shares, the same formula is used but $2 is deducted at the end.

Where multiple round lots are involved — and this should help get you straight with that quarrelsome customer — the formula on money involved in the whole order works this way: $100 to under $2,500, the commission is 1.3 per cent plus $12; $2,500 but under $20,000, it's 0.9 per cent plus $22; $20,000 but under $30,000, it is 0.6 per cent plus $33; $30,000 to $30,000, it is 0.4 per cent plus $142. In addition, the broker gets $6 per round lot for the first 10th round lot in the order and $4 per round lot on all those above 10.

To cite an example on multiple round-lot orders: 2,000 shares (or 20 round lots) of a $40 stock. Money involved is $80,000, or $320; plus $142; plus $6 for each of the first 10 round lots, or $60; plus $4 for each round lot over the first 10, or $40.

Advice From A Pro

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Dear

Poor Man's Philosopher:

Man, you've got it made, man. I really dig you, man. You're the greatest, you know. How can a cat like me get into your racket? In other words, man, how can I light my fuse? Since you have a squeeze on the poor man's market, maybe I could start as a rich man's philosopher. Right on?

Sincerely, Joe the Juice.

Dear Joe the Juice: If I translate your quaint guttersnipe argot aright, young man, you are trying to express a desire to become a philosopher.

Well, welcome to the great mansion of philosophy, son. Anyone may enter there, although I feel I should warn you that it is not a playing field for juvenile delinquents.

Your ambition is praiseworthy, but you also need certain tools if you are to succeed as a philosopher. These tools are an understanding eye, a seeing heart, a thinking brain, and a language with which to tell others what you have found out. For philosophy is but a game of find and tell in the arena of a vaster kindergarten. Philosophy is but the gossip of eternity.

I hope it is not your idea that a philosopher is an elderly, dirty, hairy, carrot-nibbling toothless hermit dwelling on a lonely mountain peak and endlessly shaking his head at the follies of his fellows.

No, indeed. The philosopher is just as likely to be a street corner debater like Socrates or a wandering teacher like Jesus. Both of them moved in the midst of men. Philosophy isn't standoffish, but sociable.

While this is an age of specialization, I do not think you need to concentrate your talents and become merely a rich man's philosopher. Rich men use vanity and money as their chief crutches in this world. They usually turn to the consolations of philosophy only when sick or dying.

And now, my young friend, Joe the Juice, since every trade has its secrets, I think I should impart a few tips on how to become a philosopher.

First of all, never hurry. Since life itself is a long emergency, always take your time. Anything you can do in a hurry, any place you can get to in a hurry, is not worth doing or worth getting to. No one lands in heaven with a single running broadjump.

Second, never interrupt a woman. She may be planning something worthwhile for your benefit. Interruptions only confuse her.

Thirdly, never clutter up your mind with useless knowledge. Have nothing to do with machinery, except the supreme one—your brain. Other machines are for slaves, not philosophers.

Fourthly, it is customary in the trade for an apprentice phi-

THAT DOES IT

What makes a good home? Love, respect for the opinions and personalities of others, lots of laughter, religious faith, adherence to high ideals, fairness to everyone, no partisanship, mutual trust.

Every good home is a school. Dad, Mother and the kids are educating one another and being educated themselves. Parents have usually either headed their children toward happiness and success or done precisely the opposite. College degrees and advanced degrees of every kind are "fringe benefits." Life is usually established for good or evil before a youngster is out of teen age. Educational processes go on through life.

The education that one has received in the home usually determines whether one's success in later life will be distinguished, mediocre or non-existent. The great preacher Harry Emerson Fosdick used to tell with delight how his father as he left the house one day said: "Tell Harry he can cut the grass today if he wants to." And then he added: "And tell him he had better want to."

What a rough and tumble existence we live on this planet. But there is nothing new about this. Adam and Eve had the same trouble over Cain and Abel.

But would you like to go back to the "good old days"? Here's a deep and dark secret—they never existed. One of the best ways to be happy is to get well in mind the fact that passing decades do not change human life as much as we may think.

The time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is where circumstances have put us. The way to be happy is to live life to its full.

U.S. And Russia Agreement On Joint Space Flight Said Near

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are ready to sign an agreement on a joint manned space flight during President Nixon's visit to Moscow next week, space agency sources say.

In addition, there are reports the Russians have solved the problem which killed three cosmonauts last year and are ready to launch their second Salyut space station, possibly while Nixon is in the Soviet Union.

U.S. space sources say several preliminary meetings with Soviet experts on the joint space venture have been very successful and that barring political changes, both sides are ready to announce a go-ahead. The mission is expected to take place in June 1975 with three American astronauts scheduled to fly a modified Apollo spaceship to a linkup with a manned Salyut station in earth orbit.

For two days, the astronauts and three cosmonauts would remain in space together, working in both spaceships. Then the Americans would separate and fly an earth orbit mission of about 11 days, surveying earth's resources. The cosmonauts would remain aboard their station for an indefinite period.

At least three U.S. astronauts are taking Russian language lessons in the event they are tagged for the historic flight. They are Thomas P. Stafford, veteran of three space trips; John L. Swigert, who has flown once; and Donald K. Slayton, one of the original seven astronauts, who until recently was grounded by a heart murmur.

Russia's first Salyut mission was launched April 19, 1971, and was joined in orbit five days later by three Soyuz 10 cosmonauts. They had trouble stabilizing the pressure between the two vehicles and returned to earth.

Engineers worked out a solution and on June 6, the three-man Soyuz 11 crew was launched to rendezvous with the same station. They remained in space a record 24 days, but died during their return to earth because of a defect in the spacecraft hatch.

Space agency sources say reports from Moscow indicate the Soyuz 12 crew will be composed of only two cosmonauts and they will wear pressurized space suits, which U.S. experts said would have saved the Soyuz 11 cosmonauts.

Woman FBI Agent Is Possible; Rough Job, Applicants Warned

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Female G-man? FBI employees in a dozen cities can't understand why a woman would apply to be a special agent and some special agents wouldn't want their daughters to be one.

But since Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III reversed the late J. Edgar Hoover's rigid policy against hiring women for crime investigation, hundreds of women have inquired about becoming special agents, a spot check showed. The telephone check of 12 field offices and a visit to bureau headquarters here turned up polite, cordial responses from employees asked for information about obtaining a job as female special agent.

But typical of comments was this from an agent in New York who declined to give his name: "The job isn't for a woman. There's a lot of danger involved. She'll have the same duties as men. No pampering. Now really, would you want to see your daughter packing a .38 revolver?"

A secretary at FBI headquarters, who said she's received more than 100 queries since the men-only policy was changed, said few women meet the 5-foot-7 height requirement and so far only one has applied. "Before the change," she said, "I thought I'd like to be an agent. It cried 'discrimination, discrimination.' But now that it's a possibility, I've changed my mind. Those jobs can be pretty rough."

A San Francisco agent said some of his colleagues fear women agents will make their work more dangerous. "For instance," he said, "when you take someone with you on an arrest, he's the guy who may save your life. If a fellow is with a 120-pound girl, he'd have to do most of the job. Fellows aren't too enthusiastic about making an arrest with a girl with them."

In Dallas, a woman who said she's been with the FBI for 30 years said: "It isn't glamorous like they show you on TV. You're on call 24 hours a day. You're expected to work two hours a day overtime. You have to have an unblemished record. That means none of your relatives can have been arrested."

"But I'd be happy to send you an application if you're still interested."

FBI employees stress that women agents will be granted no special privileges. At an intensive 14-week training course, they must qualify with revolver, shotgun and rifle, meet stiff pull-up, sit-up and push-up requirements and run two miles in 17 minutes.

Applicants must be graduates of law school or accounting majors in college who have had one year experience in their profession. Otherwise, they must have a college degree and three years professional working experience.

Currently, 3,000 qualified men are on the waiting list.

'Morning After' Pill Is Sought

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI)—Morning-after or after-the-fact birth control is in its first phase of research under direction of scientists at the University of North Carolina.

The clinical research involves use of chemicals called prostaglandins as menstrual regulators. It is hoped by physicians conducting the studies that a safe birth control pill used only once a month will result. They aim to demonstrate that prostaglandins are superior to the daily estrogen pill and other birth control methods.

(Continued from page 4) are being deliberately held up until Mr. Nixon leaves Washington this weekend for the Moscow summit, when they would have maximum political effect on both the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Hanoi may also be playing the long shot that Moscow will threaten a military response to Mr. Nixon's port closures after the West German parliament has ratified the Bonn-Moscow and Bonn-Warsaw treaties, now scheduled for final action by the end of this week.

But supporters of these contingencies are in a minority. Far more likely, Hanoi is reassessing a military position that has brought its future war-making potential into serious questions and a political position that has denied it the all-out support it needs from Peking and Moscow. Whatever the future holds then the noose around Hanoi may at long last be tightening precisely as Mr. Nixon hoped it would.

Moscow Spruces Up For Visitor

MOSCOW (AP) — "Nixon should be made an honorary citizen of Moscow. He's done more for this town than anyone else in a long time."

This Muscovite quip reflects a popular view that much of the refurbishing, resurfacing and sprucing up of Moscow is being done for the benefit of the American President, who is due here Monday on a visit.

The improvements are part of the general Moscow city plan and were not conceived for the Nixon visit. But they may have been speeded up for the occasion to make the best possible impression on the U.S. visitors. Many jmscovites are convinced all civil work done recently is connected with the Nixon visit.

Some of the changes verge on the spectacular, judging by normal Moscow standards.

The old Rumyantsev Palace, original home of the Lenin library, was painted gleaming white in record time.

A row of old houses between the Rumyantsev Palace and the Kremlin's Borovitsky Gate was demolished, and in the short time since the snows have gone the site has been landscaped with trees and bushes and lawn. Nixon would use the Borovitsky Gate to reach his quarters in the Kremlin.

On jvernadsky Prospekt, a broad highway cutting through new districts in the southern part of the city, the roadway has been widened, repaired and resurfaced. Street work, long overdue, was being pushed at high speed with crews working day and night.

Nixon is expected to do little sightseeing around Moscow. He has been here three times before and has seen most of the monuments. He and his Soviet hosts have stressed this.

Helicopter Helped Officers Are Voted Capture 4 Suspects At Conley School

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Three brothers and a fourth young man, all from Sumter, S.C., were spotted from a police helicopter and arrested Thursday after a farmer was shot in what officers said was an attempt to steal his car.

Despite being hit once in the arm and once in the leg by shots from a .22 caliber pistol, the farmer, James Ball, 59, was able to get to a house in the neighborhood to summon help. He was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital at Warrenton in north-central North Carolina, near the Virginia line.

Deputy Sheriff Dorsey Capps identified those arrested as Eddie Taylor, 23; Willie James Taylor, 20; Raymond Taylor, 17; and Sidney Singleton, 19. Capps said each had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and attempted robbery with a dangerous weapon.

"We will also be using 2,000 control traps in the seven areas of the state where the moth was found last year," Graham added.

Those areas were in Robeson, McDowell, Dare, Vance, Pitt, Northampton and Lee counties. Graham said the trapping program is vital for the future of North Carolina's woodlands. "I have seen the havoc the gypsy moth has caused in some of the northeastern states," Graham said. "I am sure we are faced with the same grim prospect of defoliated woodlands unless we can control the pest as he moves into the state."

Graham pointed out that the control program is a cooperative effort of the state and federal agriculture departments and the forest service.

which is in Oine community several miles west of Warrenton.

Capps said he believed they were headed for a northern city.

Traffic Change On Two City Streets

The traffic flow in Eighth and Ninth Streets, East of Cotanche Street, has been changed, according to Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

The former one-way streets, Cannon said, have been made open to two-way traffic due to the abandonment of parts of several streets in the area.

Streets and alleys in the area that have been abandoned — by action of the city council — include:

Accentuates The Alcohol Effect

RUTGERS, N. J. (UPI) — Does smoking help one to keep equilibrium or further lose it when done in combination with drinking alcoholic beverages? The question has been investigated at Rutgers University Center of Alcohol Studies.

Results showed that nicotine accentuated the detrimental effect of alcohol on coordination. Before the investigation, the researcher had thought that nicotine might improve the performance of a person impaired by alcohol.

Glenda Denton has been elected president of the student Council Association at D. H. Conley High School for the 1972-73 school year. A rising senior, Miss Denton is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. J. D. Everett of Red Oak Subdivision. The new president has served as SCA secretary, an office helper and has been on the basketball team at Conley. Other officers elected this week include: Gwendolyn Suggs, vice president; Pam McLawhorn, secretary; Phyllis Mobley, treasurer; and Diane Cayton, interclub chairman.

The new officers were installed during special ceremonies Wednesday. They will begin their terms of office in September.

NON-WHITE RESIDENTS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Area's 33 "developing communities" — rapidly growing towns with a population of under 100,000 — had 3 per cent non-white residents in 1970, according to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Gypsy Moth Drive Begun

RALEIGH (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham kicked off a campaign Thursday to keep track of the movement of gypsy moths in North Carolina this summer.

Graham did this by placing a gypsy moth trap on the grounds of the State Capitol.

"This trap is one of 5,000 survey traps being placed all across the state," Graham said. "Our objective is to place one for every nine square miles of forestland in the state."

"We will also be using 2,000 control traps in the seven areas of the state where the moth was found last year," Graham added.

Those areas were in Robeson, McDowell, Dare, Vance, Pitt, Northampton and Lee counties. Graham said the trapping program is vital for the future of North Carolina's woodlands. "I have seen the havoc the gypsy moth has caused in some of the northeastern states," Graham said. "I am sure we are faced with the same grim prospect of defoliated woodlands unless we can control the pest as he moves into the state."

Graham pointed out that the control program is a cooperative effort of the state and federal agriculture departments and the forest service.

One Hurt In Plane Crash

SHELBY, N. C. (AP) — A plane crashed while trying to land at the Shelby Airport Thursday night, but only one of the three aboard was injured.

He was Robert Johnson of Lincolnton, N. C., who was treated at a hospital.

He and the other two men aboard, who are from Atlanta, are employees of the McBurney Stoker and Equipment Co. of Atlanta. They had been on a business trip to Towanda, Pa. The plane, en route to Atlanta, was to stop in Shelby to let Johnson off so he could spend the weekend at home.

The pilot, L. A. Johnson, reported that the two engines quit while he was making an approach for a landing. Also aboard was Gary B. Dehoff.

Joe Rose, an airport employe, said the plane glided over the landing strip and came down in a field about two miles away, tearing off one wing as it crashed into a tree. He said the plane was further damaged as it came to rest in a grove of trees.

Class Kindness As Therapy, Too

BALTIMORE, MD. (UPI) — Some kindness, food and a dash of medical attention helps reduce the compulsion of homeless alcoholics to drink, reports the periodical "Maryland's Health."

Those ingredients are part of the care program served up by the East End Hotel, a Baltimore shelter for homeless alcoholics. Some of the homeless alcoholics, among the most unlikely to recover, have been motivated to sobriety by such therapy.

HIS FEET ARE ON THE GROUND!

This man can see for many miles, but he's not up in the clouds; his feet are on the ground!

The Church gives man stability too—a broader vision. It lifts up his eyes to see God and the eternal values of love, truth, justice and service which God inspires. It gives him a divine perspective from which to view his job, his family, his country—his life!

But the Church always keeps that man's feet on the ground! It accepts him for what he is—regardless of the clothes he wears or the job he holds. It looks evil in the face and sees it for what it is—a devilish cancer which only God can cure. It keeps a man's feet on the ground while it lifts up his eyes to see beyond the horizon.

And this is what the Church can do for you! It can give you greater vision. But it's not up in the clouds. It keeps your feet on the ground!

Dedication Of Church Sanctuary On Sunday

Dedication of the J. A. Speight Sanctuary of Saint Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church, east of Greenville on U. S. Highway 264 (east of the city limits) will be held Sunday, with prominent church officials leading the special services.

Bishop J. Floyd Williams, Greenville native now the general superintendent of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, Franklin Springs, Ga., will preach the dedicatory sermon Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Rev. J. Doner Lee, North Carolina Conference Superintendent, Falcon, N. C., will preach the morning sermon at 11 o'clock and will aid Bishop Williams in the dedicatory rites on Sunday afternoon.

Also assisting in the dedication services, which were set especially for Pentecost Sunday, will be the St. Paul church pastor, the Rev. R. H. Bradford, and various lay officials of the church.

An outdoor luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. Invitations have been issued to former pastors and members of the church, members of the congregation, and friends to participate in the day's services.

St. Paul P. H. Church was organized in 1907 by the late Rev. A. H. Butler, and later the first church edifice was constructed under the leadership of the first pastor, the late Rev. J. B. Williams, father of the current top administrative officials of the denomination, Bishop J. Floyd Williams. The Rev. Mr. Butler was then superintendent of the North Carolina Convention of the denomination.

When the St. Paul P. H. Church erected its J. B. Williams Memorial Education Building on the church site, it was used for congregational meetings and worship services.

The membership of this church had building plans under consideration for several years, and about a year ago construction was begun on the sanctuary, named in honor of J. A. Speight for his long years of service as a lay official of the church. His contribution of more than $20,000 was an initial gift toward financing of the sanctuary.

The present church plant is augmented by a Fellowship Hall and a modern parsonage on the site of the church property.

Mayor Is Cited For 'Job Fair'

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West received a citation Thursday night from the Veterans of Foreign Wars for his efforts in promoting veterans employment.

In a citation signed by Ernest S. Hubbard, Department Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, and William C. Cox, Department Adjutant, the mayor was recognized for his "outstanding service to the veterans of North Carolina in the area of employment by appointing a mayor's committee and supporting a job fair or other promotional events to focus the employer's attention on the veterans' employment needs."

Elmer Meeks, commander of V.F.W. Post 7032 of Greenville, said that West cited especially

Police Checking On Tape Thefts

Greenville police officers today are investigating the theft of 200 tapes from a car parked at an all-night restaurant at the intersection of Tenth and Co-tanche Streets here today.

The theft reportedly occurred between 1:30 and 2:30 a.m., Chief Glenn Cannon said, and was reported at 3:05 a.m.

Police said the tapes, valued at $400, were reported taken from a car owned by Bobby Ray Downs of Route 5, Greenville.

for his work in promoting and endorsing the successful Jobs for Veterans Fair held last December at the National Guard Armory here.

Meeks, who presented the citation during the V.F.W. Post's officer installation meeting, noted that West was invited to attend the V.F.W. Convention in Greensboro in June but after he indicated that he would not be able to attend, the citation presentation was scheduled for last night. The commander pointed out that the Veterans of Foreign Wars represents some 33,000 men in North Carolina and is interested in working with veterans in any way it is needed.

Two Injured In Collision

Robert Hall Williams, 69 of Roanoke Rapids — the driver of a car — and David Earl Hines, 20 of 1915A Norcott Cir. — operator of a truck — were reported injured when the vehicles collided about 3:50 p.m. yesterday about four miles West of Greenville on the Stantonburg Road.

Highway Patrolman G. L. Swanson said the Hines truck was headed East when the vehicle went out of control and slid broadside in the road and collided with the west-bound Williams car.

Williams was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital in serious condition while Hines was treated for his injuries and released.

Damage to the Williams vehicle was set at $1,500 while damage to the truck was placed at $2,000.

Investigation of the collision is continuing.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices climbed sharply today, following through on the momentum of Thursday's rally. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 6.40 at 957.63. On Thursday, the Dow gained over 10 points. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 3 to 1.

Analysts said Thursday's upswing after three days of drifting offered investors some encouragement and served as a technical base for further gains.

The forthcoming Moscow summit meeting also bolstered investor morale, they added. Elsewhere in the news background, the government revised upward its figures for first-quarter Gross National Product and revised downward its estimate of the annual rate of inflation during that period.

Oils, airlines, metals, chemicals, aircrafts, electronics and motors were up. Steels were off, while mail order-retail, utilities and rails were mixed.

Cut UN Money
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a $13.2-million cut in the United States' payment to the United Nations. The cut, if upheld by the Senate and approved by President Nixon, means the United States will pay only 25 per cent of the total operating costs of the U.N. during the year beginning July 1. The U.S. amount for the current fiscal year is 31.5 per cent of the world body's budget.
In approving the measure by voice vote Thursday, the House ignored a last-minute plea by Secretary of State William P. Rogers to restore the funds.
Nixon sought about $60.1 million for the U.N. The House bill cuts that amount to $46.9 million.
Just before the House acted, Rogers issued a statement saying a unilateral cut would violate international obligations and could cause the United Nations to run out of money by October. The United States, he added, would "bear the onus" for such an occurrence.

Riva Ridge Isn't Scaring Off The Opposition For Preakness

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Horse trainers are a resilient lot. Like the bettors, they never give up hope of scoring an upset victory.

Riva Ridge, being hailed as the first Triple Crown winner since 1948 and already described in "super horse" terms, hasn't scared the opposition in Saturday's 97th running of the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

The Kentucky Derby winner and stablemate Upper Case are rated even-money in the pre-race odds, and conceivably could leave the gate as an overwhelming 3-5 choice.

Still, seven rivals will oppose the Meadow Stable entry, and trainer Del Carroll of Bee Bee explains why:

"Riva Ridge was probably the easiest Derby winner I've seen, and I have a lot of respect for him. But most horses get beat sooner or later, and you don't know if you don't try. That's what makes horse racing."

Carroll concedes, however, that Riva Ridge "isn't likely to get beat at equal weights right now."

Each starter in the 1 3/16-mile Preakness will tote 126 pounds and if all nine go the post at 5:40 p.m. EDT, the winner will receive $137,300 of the $189,000 gross purse. The race will be televised from 5-6 p.m., and carried on radio, 5:15-5:45 p.m., both on CBS.

Upper Case, with Ray Broussard up, will break from the No. 2 post while Ron Turcotte will take Riva Ridge from the third slot. Inside both, on the rail, will be Joseph R. Straus' No Le Hace, the Derby runner-up, and jockey Phil Rubbicco.

Although the small field should cause no trouble for anyone, trainer Homer Pardue was happy over No Le Hace's rare pole position. The colt broke from the No. 17 post in the Kentucky Derby and won the Arkansas Derby after starting from Gate No. 12.

"At least we won't have to lose as much ground coming over," Pardue said.

The remaining entries and their jockeys, in post position order beginning with No. 4, include William and Joseph Stavola's Freetex, Chuck Baltazar; Rokeby Stable's Key To The Mint, Braulio Baeza; John D. Marsh's Eager Exchange, Eddie Maple; Dr. Hassi Shina's Hassi's Image, James Moseley; Sally M. Gibson's Festive Mood, Carlos Jimenez; and William S. Farish III's Bee Bee, Eldon Nelson.

Indiana Rallies From 20 Down To Nip Nets

By STEVE HERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Lou Carnesseca was not surprised the Indiana Pacers were able to come from 20 points down to nip his New York Nets, 100-99—just disappointed.

"If you've been coaching 20 years, you learn to expect anything," Carnesseca said quietly in the Nets' dressing room after the game Thursday night.

The victory gave Indiana a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven American Basketball Association championship series. The sixth game will be nationally televised from New York Saturday.

The Nets coach said the only time he knows he's won a game is "when I walk in the dressing room after it's over. I've been there too many times."

Carnesseca had good reason to feel optimistic most of the evening. New York grabbed a 16-13 lead in the first quarter, then outscored the Pacers 17-2.

Indiana scored the first five points of the second quarter and seemed to pick up momentum. But the Nets' Rick Barry scored a basket and three free throws and center Billy Paultz added another basket to give New York its biggest lead—40-20 with 8:40 left in the first half.

"We lost our poise in the first half," Pacer coach Bob Leonard said. "We were playing like a group of kids."

The Pacer "kids" matured rapidly at the start of the third quarter, led by 5-foot-10 guard Billy Keller.

Keller hit three straight 3-point goals as Indiana outscored the Nets 17-4 in the first four minutes of the third quarter. Another basket by Keller and two by Roger Brown tied the game at 60-all for the first time since 2-2.

After that, it was nip-and-tuck the rest of the game, with the two teams trading leads down to the last minute.

Barry hit two free throws with 27 seconds left to give the Nets a four-point bulge, 99-95.

Houston Wins Opener In Crucial Series With Los Angeles By 4-3

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Can you have a crucial baseball series in May?

The Los Angeles Dodgers and Houston Astros—pre-season picks to fight it out in the National League's West Division this season—certainly think so.

The Dodgers and Astros opened an important, if you don't believe crucial, four-game set in Los Angeles Thursday night and even this early in the season, there was an air of tension to the game.

Houston finally won it 4-3 in 11 innings on Tommy Helms' squeeze bunt. But there was plenty of drama before that happened.

First there was LA's Don Sutton working on a one-hitter into the ninth and leading 2-0. Sutton, looking for his sixth straight victory, surrendered a leadoff single to Jim Wynn and walked Bob Watson with one out. Then, with two out, Doug Rader crashed a three-run homer to turn the game around.

The drama belonged to the Dodgers next and old pro Frank Robinson, who had singled home a run earlier, came through with a two-out double in the bottom of the ninth, sending the game into extra innings.

Jim Ray, 7-0, escaped a two-out, two-out spot in the 10th before the Astros broke through for the winning run in the 11th. Lee May reached on Bill Grabarkewitz' error and pinch runner Bobby Fenwick came around on a hit by Watson, a walk to Rader, and Helms' bunt.

Red-hot Cincinnati, which doesn't buy the theory of a two-team race in the NL West, won its eighth straight, whipping reeling San Francisco 8-5. It was the seventh consecutive loss for the Giants.

In other National League games, the streaking New York

Mets topped Montreal 2-1 and Chicago downed slumping St. Louis 6-4. In the only American League action, Detroit whipped Boston 7-2 and California topped Oakland 4-3 in 12 innings.

The victory—their fifth straight—moved Houston one full game ahead of Los Angeles in the West race.

Hal McRae delivered his first two hits this season—a single and double that drove in four runs for the Reds. Cincinnati tagged Sam McDowell with his first NL loss after five victories.

Bobby Bonds drilled a three-run homer for the Giants, last year's West Division champions, now 11 games off the pace.

The Mets, who've won seven straight and 21 of 28 this season, got the only runs they needed in the first inning against Montreal when Willie Mays opened with a walk and Ted Martinez tripled. Mays up-set catcher John Boccabella on the play at the plate and the ball got away for an error, enabling Martinez to score the deciding run.

Jim McAndrew earned the victory, working the first six innings with relief ace Tug McGraw nailing it down.

Don Kessinger drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Ken Rudolph's key triple delivered two more as the Cubs knocked off the reeling Cardinals.

It was the eighth straight loss for St. Louis.

Syd O'Brien opened the 12th inning with a double and came on to score the winning run on a two-out single by Mickey Rivers as California topped Oakland.

O'Brien, who came in the game as a pinch runner in the seventh following Ken McMullen's double, had scored the tying run in that inning on a pinch single by John Stephenson.

Bert Campaneris homered for the A's.

Joe Coleman spun a three-hitter and Detroit defeated Boston with homers by Norm Cash and Tony Taylor pacing the attack.

One of the three hits off Coleman, 6-2, was a solo homer by Reggie Smith.

Palmer Loses Watch; Takes Triple Bogey

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Arnold Palmer lost a wristwatch. Billy Maxwell found the fairways. And a flock of the touring pros were looking for the shortest way home.

That was the situation after one day's play in the $175,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open Golf Classic as more than a half dozen players pulled out of the first round and the diminutive Maxwell, a notoriously short—but accurate—hitter, moved into a share of the lead. Palmer, meanwhile, became so flustered when he discovered he'd lost a $1,200 wristwatch somewhere on the course that he took a triple bogey seven and had to rally to salvage a 71 and remain in contention.

The 5-foot-6 Maxwell, who hasn't won in the last decade while courses got longer and his fellow pros stronger, missed only two fairways on the long, demanding Colonial Country Club course, and posted a three-under-par 69.

He was tied at that figure with Gibby Gilbert and Hubert Green going into Friday's second round in the chase for a $35,000 first prize—about three times the amount Maxwell won all season last year.

Trevino, who used a victory in this tournament a year ago as a springboard to his designation as athlete of the year, rallied strongly on the tough back nine for a 70. He was tied at that figure with former Masters champion Charles Coody.

Palmer was one of 14 tied at 71. Some of others included Doug Sanders, Deane Beman, Dave Stockton, Don January and J.C. Snead.

He lost the watch, Palmer said, somewhere between the 10th tee—where he started play—and the 12th green.

"Then I got to thinking about it," he said, and promptly hit one out of bounds and made triple bogey seven on the next hole. He got it back to par by the time he was playing his 17th hole—and got a break there.

He hit an eight iron out of the rough there and the ball skipped into the crowd. Trying to get out the way, a boy accidentally knocked the ball back on the green, the ball coming to rest two feet from the cup. Palmer called for a ruling and was allowed to putt from the point where the ball came to rest. He made it for a birdie and was one under par.

Jack Nicklaus, ailing from the flu, withdrew before play started on the warm, sunny, breezy day. Another seven followed suit during the course of play on the 7,195 yard, par 72 layout that has water on nine holes and deep, deep trouble off the fairways.

Keeping it in the fairways is the key. Maxwell, a 42-year-old veteran who scored the last of his eight victories 10 years ago, did just that. He bogeyed the only two times he missed the fairways but made five birdies—all but one after hitting irons inside of six feet.

Reminded that he won this title almost 15 years ago, little Billy grinned wryly.

"It'd be nice to do it again," he said. "It's for sure I need the money as bad now as I did then."

One Bettenhausen May Be Out Of Indy Hopes

By BLUYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

Rookie Merle Bettenhausen's hopes of joining his brother in the line-up for the million dollar Indianapolis 500 may have ended Thursday in a frightening crash at the Speedway.

Bettenhausen, 27, of Tinley Park, Ill., miraculously escaped injury, but the Grant King turbocharged Offenhauser he was driving was demolished only 48 hours before the final round of qualifying for the May 27 race.

"Something got loose," the stocky Bettenhausen said. "All of a sudden I was sideways and couldn't hold it."

"Now I am not sure there is another ride available. Particularly at this late date and for a rookie. There are more drivers here than cars."

Bettenhausen's car, one of several "Kingfish" machines King built in his Indianapolis shop, got sideways for 460 feet coming out of the fourth turn, smashed the inside guard rail twice, then skidded another 420 feet before stopping.

It was not far from the area in the north end of the 2.50 mile oval where car driven by Jim Malloy and Art Pollard crashed earlier this month. Pollard, 45, suffered a broken leg and Malloy succumbed to massive injuries Thursday.

Ironically, it also was near the spot on the track where his father, Tony Bettenhausen, was killed in a practice crash in May 1961. The elder Bettenhausen had raced 13 times at Indianapolis, but had never won.

King said he has a "backup" car in his stable, but probably won't decide until late today whether he'll allow Bettenhausen to drive it.

Bettenhausen had passed his rookie test with flying colors Wednesday. He is the second son of the late Tony.

Gary Bettenhausen, 30, oldest of the late driver's three sons, qualified for the line-up last Sunday when 12 drivers dodged rain showers to assure themselves of one of the 33 spots.

Injuries Take Malloy's Life

By MIKE HARRIS

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Less than a week ago, race driver Jim Malloy said, "It doesn't take guts to drive a race car at 190-plus miles per hour. It (the car) feels absolutely stable at that speed, more so than the car I had last year which I had to push to its limits just to get in the lineup."

Now, the 36-year-old veteran is dead. He died in Methodist Hospital here Thursday, five days after suffering massive injuries in a crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during practice for last Sunday's qualifying session.

Malloy, the father of three, never regained consciousness.

Work for the May 27 Indianapolis 500-mile race continued unabated Thursday despite the sadness over the tragic death, the first at the Speedway since Mike Spence of the British Lotus Team died in a practice crash in 1968.

But there were reactions from the men Malloy worked with and against. All felt the racing world has lost a tremendous driving talent and a gentleman.

Dan Gurney, who was the driver of the car that Malloy drove to fourth place here last May, said, "Jim was one of the sweetest guys I've ever known. He was personable, easy going, and a joy to work with in a business where minds and opinions clash frequently."

Grant King, Indianapolis car builder and owner, was the man who brought Malloy to the Speedway in his rookie year, 1967. King said, "I gave him a job so he could eat, and I gave him a ride so he could get his career going."

"He was as nice a guy as I ever worked with," King added, "and I knew he had the potential to become a great driver."

Memorial services for Malloy will be held today at 8 p.m. at Conkle Funeral Home in Indianapolis. Speedway officials said the body would be flown to Malloy's hometown of Denver, Colo., Saturday morning, with funeral arrangements there incomplete.

Malloy, who would have been 37 Tuesday, leaves behind a son, Jim, 14, and two daughters, Cheryl, 11, and Pat, 8.

Referee Okays Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — The sale of the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division champions, the Boston Celtics, was partially cleared Thursday by a federal bankruptcy referee.

Trans National Communications, which bought the Celtics from P. Ballentine and Sons three years ago for $250,000 cash and over $4 million in promissory notes, had filed for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Because it is bankrupt, Trans National cannot pay an approximate $2.6 million in unpaid notes to the brewery. But the sale of the Celtics to the partnership of Harold Lipton and Irving H. Levin for $3.7 million would enable the firm to pay its remaining debt to Ballentine, and retain approximately $1.1 million.

Sale of the team must be approved ultimately by the NBA Board of Governors, and should the transaction take place, Levin would add ownership of the Celtics to his interests in the National Football League San Diego Chargers and Western Hockey League San Diego Gulls.

Unhappy Over Less

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Commissioner Joby Hawn says he understands some members of the Carolinas Conference are dissatisfied with the reduction of football and basketball scholarships approved by presidents of the nine schools.

The reduction, plus scheduling of play on the 7,195 yard, par 72 layout that has water on nine holes and deep, deep trouble off the fairways.

Under the president's proposal each school would be allowed 24 football scholarships, a reduction of two, and eight basketball scholarships, a reduction of one.

Athletic directors and coaches will hold informal discussions tonight. The official conference sessions for them and faculty athletic chairman will be held Saturday morning and afternoon.

The conference also is expected to discuss a recent ruling that all schools participating in football, basketball and baseball must play all other conference members at least once each season. At present, six schools have football teams and seven have baseball teams.

Senior Ruth League Opens

The Senior Babe Ruth League, which includes boys 16 through 19, opens play Saturday night at two locations.

The league features six teams, five of them in Pitt County and the other one in Kinston.

Three of the teams will operate out of Greenville. These include Moore-King-Sullivan, Taff Office Equipment and the Greenville Fire Fighters. They are coached by Bob Dash, Bill Clifton and Bill Waits, respectively.

Ayden's entrant into the league is sponsored by that town's Little Mint, and is coached by Jack Hodge. Farmville's team, coached by Ronald Vincent, is sponsored by Big Value Discount.

The Kinston team will be coached by Carl Beaman.

Saturday's schedule calls for two games, one in Ayden and one in Greenville. The Ayden game pits Moore-King-Sullivan against Little Mint.

In Greenville, Taff Office will meet Kinston. Game time for that one, in Guy Smith stadium is 8 p.m.

Four more games will be played during the first week of the season. The Fire Fighters meet Big Value Discount in Greenville on Tuesday, while Kinston entertains Little Mint on Wednesday.

The week will wind up Thursday, with Big Value entertaining Moore-King-Sullivan and the Fire Fighters hosting Taff Office.

The season continues through July 13.

Tennis Tourney Nears Its End

The Greenville Tennis Club's Men's Championship will come to an end Saturday with the two top-seeded players meeting for the second straight year for the title.

Oddly enough, last week, Ron Hignite and Wes Hankins, the two, teamed together to wind the doubles event.

In the doubles, Bowdre and Wilkins won downed Al Win and Howard Powell, 6-3, 6-4, to move into the finals. Winn and Powell had upset the fourth seeded team earlier in the tournament.

The top-seeded duo of Hignite and Hankins gained the finals by Bill Still and Norm Rosenfeld, 6-1, 6-3.

Then, in the finals, Hignite and Hankins rallied after dropping the first set, 6-3, to the Winns, and came on to take the title, 6-1, 6-3, for the second year in a row.

Hignite gained the finals by downing Gil Davis, 6-3, 6-3, in the singles, while Hankins downed Wilkins Winns, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1 in a three and a half-hour match.

The finals will be played Saturday at 11 a.m. at the East Carolina University courts beside Minges Coliseum. The public is invited to watch the match.

Wife Says Scrappy Wallace Will Accept Challenge

By REX THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP)—In his wife's eyes, George C. Wallace is a scrappy who may walk again just because his doctors tell him there isn't much chance of it, but who "doesn't need a pair of legs to use his mind or speak out and say the things people want to hear." "The thing about George," said Cornelia Wallace, "is that he must have a challenge and what God has given him is the challenge of his life." "Already he has begun to meet it, Mrs. Wallace told The Associated Press in an interview. And if the final verdict from his doctors is a probable lifetime of paralysis, she said, "he will take that as a challenge to show them they're wrong." The 52-year-old Alabama governor, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, was shot down in an assassination attempt at Laurel, Md., on the eve of Maryland's presidential primary. He won that election Tuesday and the Michigan primary the same day. But a .38-caliber pistol bullet which struck his spine left him, temporarily at least, without the use of his legs. The operation to remove that bullet will probably come in a week to 10 days, doctors said Thursday, but it will be at least two or three months before Wallace is able to get around much.

Dr. James Galbraith, University of Alabama neurosurgeon on the medical team, said Wallace was "resting well and feeling a little better" Thursday. Wallace volunteers opened an office in Holy Cross Hospital where he is being cared for to handle the deluge of mail and flowers. The bouquets, however, became so numerous that they asked area florists not to deliver any more.

Arthur Herman Bremer, 21, who is accused of shooting Wallace, remains under tight security at the Baltimore County Jail in Towson, Md. Bremer is charged with four counts of assault with intent to kill and is being held under $200,000 bond. Mrs. Wallace, 33, who was married to the governor two weeks before his inauguration in January 1971, said she feels her husband's fierce determination will help him overcome his disability. But if he doesn't, she said, "his voice is not stilled and he can continue to carry a message 'to the people who want to have a voice in government.'"

Wallace's campaign leaders have spoken of the possibility that his wife may pinch hit for him as a stand-in speaker at some political rallies. She said she will do that "if he wants me to." "If they do," she said, "they might as well go ahead and concede to Richard Nixon. The Democrats can't win without George Wallace on the ticket."

Takes Over GOP Chairmanship

RALEIGH (AP)—The vice chairman of the North Carolina Republican Party, Grace Rohrer of Winston-Salem, has assumed the chairmanship. She announced a policy of strict neutrality in the runoff primary race between Jim Gardner and Jim Holshouser for the GOP nomination for governor. In taking over the reins of the GOP state headquarters Thursday, Mrs. Rohrer said she would hold the position until Frank Rouse returns to the chairmanship or the state executive committee replaces him.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1972

ICARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day that brings varied and changing conditions. If you take in stride unexpected delays and look to the new and the untried, you have some very interesting situations in which you will benefit. Steer clear of taking unnecessary risks. Be formal.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Concentrate on doing those things you have neglected to do in the past and you get ahead much faster now. Contact higher-ups and gain their goodwill. An ally fails to keep a promise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You need a new approach in current activities and then you get far better results, be it in business or personal life. Be careful not to make any financial mistakes. Be alert.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to use a more modern system for handling responsibilities if you want to get better results. Your methods are now antiquated, so forget them. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Meet with associates and talk over the best means for getting business matters to run more smoothly. Don't permit an insignificant person to bother you. Be poised.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are now able to handle a problem properly and get the right answer so that you gain the cooperation of co-workers for greater prosperity ahead. Show appreciation to one who has been helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can now engage in a new kind of entertainment you have always longed for. Taking any risks where your credit is concerned could be very dangerous now. Have fun tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A situation comes up at home that needs family discussion before it can be ironed out properly to the satisfaction of everyone concerned. Not a good day to make business plans.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Talk over a new plan with business experts and then with an associate before putting it in operation. Don't rely too much at this time on the advice of well-meaning friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use your own good hunches and make big strides where important affairs are concerned. Know just where you are headed. Avoid an associate who is acting erratically at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have good judgment now and can contact others for cooperation in a plan you have, so don't wait on the advice of others. Don't neglect to handle important correspondence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to meet certain responsibilities that require the aid of influential persons before going ahead with a plan you have in mind. Go out with mate tonight and have a delightful time.

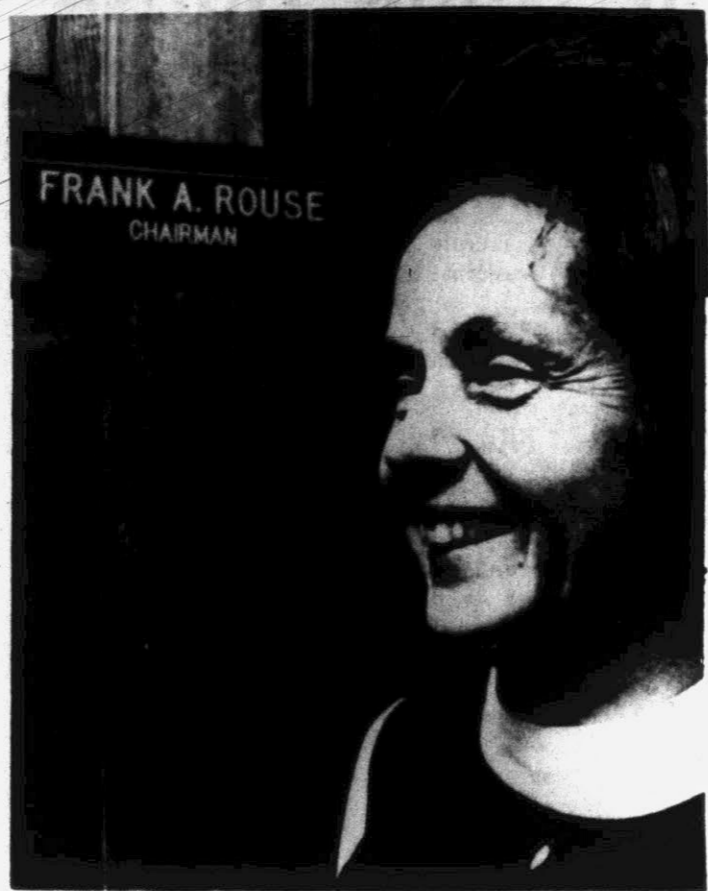

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to analyze with friends just where you are headed and come to a better understanding. Attend the social tonight and make a big impression. Show that you have poise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be one of those clever young people who can be most successful in life because of the ability to be precise at work plus the perseverance and pride in doing a job extremely well. Teach early to concentrate on important factors and not to get bogged down with too many details. Religious training is a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

into the night Wednesday by party leaders expressing concern over Rouse's breach of the traditional neutrality of party leaders during a primary campaign.

"The shock and resentment felt over this incident is understandable," she said. "However, this is not the time for recriminations and bitterness. It is a time for leadership."

Will Celebrate Founders' Day

The Free Will Baptist Children's Home at Middlesex will celebrate 52 years of child care service with Founders' Day on Saturday, May 20. Services will begin at 10:30 A.M. featuring the Reverend Clarence F. Bowen, president of the North Carolina State Convention of Original Free Will Baptists, as guest speaker. Reverend Bowen is also pastor of the First Free Will Baptist Church in Wilson. Several staff members will also participate in the program. A picnic style lunch will be served on the grounds at 12 o'clock. The Children's Home invites all Free Will Baptists and its alumni and friends to attend.

"It is very clear under the state plan of organization that the chairman has no power to take a leave of absence or to replace himself. If he absents himself from his duties then the chain of command goes to the vice chairman..."

"On the basis of this I taking over the chairmanship until such time as Mr. Rouse returns to his duties or until the state executive committee convenes to replace him. As of this announcement I will be in charge of all party business," she stated.

Mrs. Rohrer said she was "besieged" by telephone calls

Talking Point

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Fire Chief Charles Chestnut had to leave a City Council meeting because of a fire call. On his return to the Tuesday night meeting, the soot-smearing chief requested the addition of two firemen and several pieces of equipment. His request was granted.

Peddlers In Area Again Camperships Awarded Six

A state-wide program to inform the public of deaf peddling groups in eastern North Carolina has begun. According to R.M. Manning, district supervisor of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Department of Public Instruction, there has been a concentration of deaf peddling groups in the area recently.

"These groups prey on the sympathetic public in order to earn a tax-free living without working," Manning said. "They are an embarrassment to the thousands of deaf people who earn a livelihood fairly," he added. "They are fraudulently representing themselves as disabled people who have no means of help or training through state programs."

Manning said the public is being made aware of the problem so that they may stop giving financial assistance to the peddlers.

Grifton—Six Grifton Girl Scouts have been awarded camperships to cover two weeks of summer residence camp at Camp Pretty Pond near Southport.

The Grifton girls who received camperships include: Cora Spivey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Spivey; Susan Howes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howes; Barbara Ann Garris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Garris; Brenda Baker and Gigi Warren, foster daughter of Mrs. Louise McCotter.

Campership money awarded by the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina comes from the United Fund. The participants will learn swimming, boating, nature study, camp craft skills, badge work and have the opportunity to meet other scouts in the 26-county council.

Sponsor Bicycle Safety Program

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor a safety program Sunday afternoon from two to five o'clock.

The Lit-A-Bike program will be held in the Winn-Dixie parking lot, 10th Street.

The program is being held to provide a reflector strip for bicycles for safe riding at night. All persons, who have bikes, are urged to come to the parking lot and receive the free reflector strip.

Actually, she said the primaries in Maryland and Michigan were the last campaigns in which the governor had planned to do much speaking, although he is on the ballot in New Mexico, Oregon and Rhode Island.

Of the Democratic convention beginning July 10, Mrs. Wallace said: "I wouldn't think that they would ignore a man like my husband who has received more popular votes in the primaries than any other candidate."

"If they do," she said, "they might as well go ahead and concede to Richard Nixon. The Democrats can't win without George Wallace on the ticket."

Cadets Urged To Build 'More Peaceful World'

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, urged ECU's Air Force ROTC cadets to contribute to "the making of a better, safer, more peaceful world for all" at the annual Pass-in-Review ceremony on the campus Tuesday.

In a brief address before the cadets and several Air Force officials, Dr. Jenkins praised ECU's AFROTC Detachment 600 for its service projects, such as March of Dimes and Red Cross blood campaigns and fund-raising drives for underprivileged children.

"We need officers who see the power of military force applied to civic actions and humanitarian efforts, who can wage peace as effectively as they engage in combat," said Dr. Jenkins.

"We need leaders who respect tradition, but who are not afraid to question it."

Seventeen cadets received special recognition for outstanding academic and ROTC records.

Names, awards, parents' names and hometown addresses of the award recipients include: GREENE COUNTY, Farmville — James Benjamin Lewis Jr., Armed Forces Communication and Electronics Assoc. Award, son of James B. Lewis, Route 1.

'Pragmatic Pastor' In Demand

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
Associated Press Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — O. Bruce Miller, 39, onetime failure who as an alcoholic was fired from a managerial job, will be ordained a minister of the American Lutheran Church this month.

Miller is an American Indian, native of the Stockbridge-Munsee band of Mohicans and grew up on a reservation near Shawano, Wis.

He'll take full-time church work as minister to his own people in South Minneapolis, a job he has worked at part time while going through Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul and providing for his family of six.

Miller is the kind of minister in demand as a bridge to the minorities. But he exemplifies another type of pastor that is increasingly in demand—the pragmatic man who has wrestled with life, not merely studied books.

Asked about his early life, Miller replied, "You might say I came from royalty. My dad was chief of the tribe. And my oldest brother was chief after him."

He was one of a family of eight boys and two girls. He quit high school and began working for a brother-in-law in land surveying and civil engineering at the age of 15. He married when 20 and worked several years in the Chicago area with a floor-finishing firm.

After three years in the military he returned to the flooring business in Chicago in 1964, and was made city sales manager, first with one firm and then another.

He says he had started drinking at the age of 15 and had become an alcoholic by the time he held responsible jobs.

"I was really at the bottom of the barrel," he recalls. "But I gave my heart to God. I didn't go through any man-made program to break the jinx."

Miller says it happened when a minister from Hauge Lutheran Church, Chicago, visited him at a hospital while he had an ulcer problem.

"He got us interested in sending our children to Sunday school," Miller recalls. "I was quite hostile toward the church, but after a while my wife and I went to church, too."

Miller worked briefly at driving a truck. Then he and his wife went to Arizona. "I decided I had to preach the Gospel to Indians," he said. By 1970, he decided he needed seminary training. Luther Seminary admitted him in the 1969-70 school year.

"I think in most cases those of us who go to the seminary later in life have an advantage over those who come fresh from college," says Miller, "especially if we've had experience in the Christian ministry. We know something about disappointments and victories and defeats, a little bit about what's going on out there."

Nixon Heavily Backed In White House Mail

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration spokesman says the White House is inviting all senators to drop by and read what their constituents have been telling President Nixon about Vietnam.

More often than not, the White House keeps silent about incoming letters and telegrams concerning current issues. But it seems eager to crow a bit about public reaction to Nixon's May 8 speech in which he announced the mining of North Vietnamese ports.

Kenneth W. Clawson, the administration's deputy director of communications, volunteered that Nixon's chief lobbyist, Clark MacGregor, began writing all senators Thursday to offer a pro-con breakdown of the response the White House has received from their constituents.

The first 20 senators to whom MacGregor sent letters included the two widely regarded as principal contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination: George McGovern of South Dakota and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Clawson said a White House mail-room count showed a 1,200-to-250 breakdown in support of Nixon from Minnesota and a 115-to-6 count from South Dakota.

Both McGovern and Humphrey have been critical of Nixon's latest moves.

Clawson said MacGregor invited the senators to inspect the letters and telegrams Nixon has received from voters in their states. MacGregor's letter to the senators, as quoted by Clawson in response to an inquiry, included no such invitation.

Asked about this, Clawson replied, "If they ask to inspect it (the mail), they will be permitted to."

Clawson said MacGregor wrote the senators:

"There has been much interest in the response of the American people to the President's May 8 statement announcing the steps he is taking to bring hostilities to an end in Vietnam. Knowing your own constituent mail has been very heavy on this subject, I thought you would be interested as well in correspondence to the President from people of your state."

Queen Meets Duke Of Windsor

PARIS (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has spent 45 minutes conferring with her uncle, the Duke of Windsor, and the former American socialite he abdicated the throne of England to marry, Wallis Simpson.

The duke was suffering from fatigue and was unable to greet the queen, her husband Prince Philip and her son Prince Charles at the door, or to see them off at the duke's home outside Paris on Thursday.

It was believed only the second time that the queen had met the duchess, who married as King Edward VIII in 1936.

Resources, was the keynote speaker.

Also participating in the ceremonies were: John Church Jr., Greene County's director of economic development; Rev. H. T. Waites; Mayor Melvin Oliver; Carl T. Hickes Sr.; Claude Wade; William P. Johnson Jr., executive vice present of the Goshen plant in Indiana.

Court Clerk Suspended

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Maurice Braswell has ordered the suspension of Marion B. Person as Cumberland County Clerk of Court.

The suspension of Person, who has been clerk here for nearly 10 years, came after Solicitor Jack A. Thompson filed a petition with chief District Court Judge Derb S. Carter alleging that Person and his staff had settled cases without the knowledge of the solicitor's office.

The petition said in part that Person "committed recurring and numerous acts which constituted the willful and habitual neglect and refusal to perform the duties of his office, willful misconduct and maladministration in office and corruption . . ."

The petition alleged 15 specific cases where Thompson contended Person allegedly had sued his influence as clerk to alter, destroy or fix judgments in cases docketed for trial in the Cumberland district or superior court.

Trade Seminar Interests 25 Foreign Firms

RALEIGH (AP) — A seminar in Dusseldorf, Germany this week resulted in 25 foreign companies "looking seriously" at possible industrial sites in North Carolina, state resources secretary Charles W. Bradshaw said Thursday.

Bradshaw told of the development in a telegram from Dusseldorf. He and four other officials of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources are on a trade mission to Europe arranged by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

"There are approximately 25 companies we consider excellent prospects as a result of the seminar," Bradshaw said. Representatives of more than 125 European companies attended the seminar.

Both Drivers In Wreck Charged

Charges were brought against both drivers involved in an 11:45 p.m. mishap here at the intersection of Tenth and Anderson Streets yesterday.

Officers said Richard Lynn Spencer, 19, of Route 2, Trinity was charged with having an expired vehicle inspection sticker while Donald Leonard White, 20, of Route 5, was charged with no operators license and failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Damage was estimated by police at $300 to the Spencer vehicle and $200 to the White car.

Fire Possibly Due Lightning

Heavy damage resulted to a wood-frame dwelling near the Salvation Army Citadel on Dickinson Avenue about 5:30 p.m. Greenville Fire officers reported.

Firemen said the fire started in the area of a bathroom, possibly after the home was struck by lightning.

Matrimony Has False Notions

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Consider Lester's sexual dilemma. Subconsciously, he is really worried about the possible reduction in boudoir "cheese" if he marries this cultured girl. Use this case to demolish many false notions about matrimony!

Case T-583: Lester G., aged 24, has a marriage problem. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I have a good position with an engineering firm.

"And also am in love with a wonderful woman, who has the same background and interests as I.

"But she is 29, so my mother thinks the age gap is too great for happiness.

"As both a psychiatrist and practical psychologist, what is your opinion?"

Kisses Are Ageless

After you pass the age of 21, the most vital factors in making a happy marriage are compatibility and mutual interests. If you close your eyes, you can't detect a 5-year or even a 10-year age difference in your sweetheart's kisses!

Besides, women don't age as fast as was true in the 19th century, for modern labor saving devices and cosmetic aids let a 40-year-old woman look as young as a 30-year-old in past generations!

In Abraham Lincoln's time, women also died earlier, for they often had 8 to 12 children and suffered from many contagious diseases, such as typhoid and tuberculosis, which are now almost extinct.

At present the average American wives barely average 3 children per family!

Vaccination, inoculation, pure water and packaged groceries have protected women till their average longevity now runs to 75 years!

Meanwhile, the American male dies at about 68 years, so American women outlive their husbands by about 7 years.

As a result, it has been urged that young men routinely pick sweethearts who are several years their senior.

Then those wives will not spend as many years in lonely widowhood!

Besides, many young men who have earned their own money all throughout childhood and have thus gained a more mature outlook, will become irritated by the frivolous behavior of the usual girl of their own age.

For these socially and financially more competent young men prefer women of greater poise and business judgment.

Sometimes, too, a man who has been coddled too long by his own doting mamma, thus is "fixated" on an older type of woman and thus may crave a wife who is 10 to 20 years his senior.

"But Dr. Crane," Lester asked, "what about our sexual compatibility after she passes

Both men and women retain their sexual nature as long as they live, even if they attain the age of 100.

For sexual appetite, like gastric appetite, has no cutoff date!

Both may dwindle slightly with advancing years but as long as a person enjoys food in the dining room, he should also relish erotic calories in the boudoir.

Holding 20 high card points and a nearly solid suit, South was fractionally short of the requirements for a two no trump opening, so he bid one diamond. When West overcalled with one spade and the next two players passed, South reopened the bidding with a double.

North's holding was so weak that he did not wish to offer the slightest encouragement to partner, so he made the cheapest call possible by bidding two clubs. South, however, had so much in reserve that he felt impelled to make some effort to reach game and he offered every inducement to proceed by re-bidding two no trump. This was an invitation that North was obliged to decline.

West opened the king of spades and when this held, he continued the suit. South held off the ace until the third round as East followed each time. In order to land eight tricks, it appeared that South must score all five of his diamonds, inasmuch as he could count on only one trick in each of the other suits.

The odds favored taking a finesse against the queen of diamonds, but unless West held the ace of clubs, there was no assured entry to dummy. In order to improve his chances slightly, declarer led the king of clubs from his hand at trick four. West played the deuce, North the four and East put up the ace and shifted to the deuce of hearts.

Declarer played the ace of hearts and tested the diamonds by cashing the ace—which brought forth only small cards. He was about to lead a club to the queen, when he paused to ask himself why East had made access to the dummy so easy. Unless the latter held a blank ace of clubs, it would have been simple to hold off for at least one round. The prospect of West's having five clubs as well as five spades, appeared remote.

There was another possibility that suggested itself, however. If East held the queen of diamonds—where it was fessible—he would have exerted every effort to deny declarer access to the North hand by holding off on the ace of clubs. If he held only small diamonds, however, there would be a positive inducement to release his club control, so that dummy's queen of clubs would prove an entry to take a diamond finesse.

So reasoning, declarer changed his mind and instead of leading a club, he played the king of diamonds from his hand. When West's queen dropped, South's successful diagnosis was rewarded as he ran the diamond suit and then crossed over to the queen of clubs to score his eighth trick.
