Hanoi Train Yard Left In Shambles By Bombing Raid

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers raided one of North Vietnam's biggest railroad yards Monday, leaving the yards on the outskirts of Haiphong engulfed in explosions and flames, and wrecked 16 bridges across the country, the U.S. Command announced today. One Marine A6 jet from the carrier Coral Sea was shot down, but the two fliers nursed it out to sea, and a helicopter pulled them out of the water.

The strikes against the Uong Bi railroad yard 10 miles northeast of the port city were the first there in the stepped up bombing of North Vietnam which began April 6.

The yard reportedly serviced North Vietnam's entire railroad system, including the northwest and northeast lines to China.

Meanwhile, a task force of three cruisers and two destroyers ranged up and down the coast, shelling targets from 10 miles north of the demilitarized zone to within 29 miles of Haiphong.

The U.S. Command reported that American pilots flew more than 250 strikes across North Vietnam during the 24-hour period ending at 5 P.M. Monday.

In the ground war, there were reports of the first withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam since they started their big offensive two months ago.

U.S. military sources said elements of two North Vietnamese divisions had pulled back into Cambodia from An Loc, the besieged provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. Both were reported badly battered by B52 bomb strikes.

The enemy pressure on An Loc itself has eased, but North Vietnamese forces have intensified shelling along Highway 13 south of the devastated town and are keeping a relief column from getting through.

Field reports said the enemy gunners on Monday slammed 2,400 rocket and mortar shells into three South Vietnamese positions along the highway two to 10 miles south of An Loc. Twenty South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 109 wounded.

Elsewhere, fighting broke out for the first time in several weeks in southernmost Cambodia, just across the border from the western Mekong Delta in South Vietnam. South Vietnamese rangers spearheaded by an armored column clashed with North Vietnamese forces while on a drive to block infiltration into the delta.

In the central highlands, South Vietnamese troops fought for a sixth day against North Vietnamese forces in the southern and northern sectors of Kontum. Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported the North Vietnamese appeared to have backed off on the northwestern side of the provincial capital.

The U.S. Command an Army OH6 observation helicopter was shot down six miles northwest of Kontum and the two crewmen were missing.

Reason For Shootings In Raleigh Still A Mystery

SNIPER'S VICTIM — Aid and comfort is given this man felled by a rifle bullet fired Monday into a shopping center crowd at Raleigh. (AP Wirephoto)

RALEIGH (AP) —"We may never establish a motive for it or a reason at all."

Raleigh Detective Maj. E.C. Duke made this comment today as he reported officers were still working on the case of a sniper who killed three persons and wounded eight others in a Raleigh shopping center Monday before fatally shooting himself.

Police said U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, who was campaigning in the shopping center at the time apparently was not the target of the gunman, 22-year-old Harvey Glenn McLeod. Police said McLeod had no way of knowing Jordan would be present since his visit was not announced in advance.

Jordan's press aid, Wes Hayden, was one of those wounded and was reported in serious condition at Wake Memorial Hospital.

Meanwhile, the young gunman's mother, Mrs. Willie McLeod, told newsmen she was aware that he had been nervous and depressed lately and that she had considered seeing a doctor for him.

"My sister told me he was sick," she said. "She told me I should see a doctor, but I didn't know he was that sick. . ."

"I don't have a bit more idea than you why he did it," said the youth's father, Willie McLeod.

"What's done is done. You might as well laugh as cry," said the father.

Hundreds of holiday shoppers were at North Hills Shopping Center in the northern part of Raleigh when a succession of shots rang out shortly after noon.

U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., seeking renomination in Saturday's runoff primary, was on a handshaking visit to the center. He was not injured, but his press secretary, Wes Hayden, was shot in the back. Hayden was reported in serious condition.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Jackie Wharton, 47, of Raleigh; James G. Henry, 31, of Woodstock, Va., shot while driving his car which jammed into another vehicle; and Melvin O. Harrison, 23, of New Bern.

McLeod's body was found in a pool of blood between two cars on the parking lot in front of the large shopping center. The new semiautomatic .22 rifle he had purchased two hours earlier for $54.95 was near his head.

HARVEY McLEOD

He had closed his savings account at a bank shortly before buying the rifle and ammunition at a hardware store.

The shooting followed by two weeks the wounding of Alabama Gov. George Wallace at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

Police Chief Robert Goodwin said McLeod "just broke out his gun and started shooting, first one way and then another. We don't know why he was there."

McLeod, described as a "cooperative and obedient" student in school, was married and worked as a janitor at Broughton High School in Raleigh. He graduated in 1969.

"Something must have snapped," said J.E. Burke, an assistant principal at former Ligon Senior High where McLeod was a student.

Young McLeod's mother said he used to have "blackouts" but he had not had any in several years.

Police Capt. C.H. Haswell said he felt that because so many people were shot the gunman wasn't trying to hit Jordan.

Those wounded, in addition to

Nixons Fly On To Iran For Overnight Visit And Talks With Shah

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN (AP) — President Nixon arrived in Iran's capital today for an overnight visit and talks with the Shah on regional and world matters.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were greeted at Tehran's Mehrabad Airport by the 52-year-old monarch and Empress Farah after a flight from Kiev, the Nixons' last stop in the Soviet Union following a week of summit talks between the President and Kremlin leaders.

Massive security precautions were taken against attacks by urban guerrillas and other dissident Iranians who were told by Baghdad broadcasts to disrupt the visit.

Among the topics expected to be discussed during the five hours of talks between the two leaders were the future of the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf area, which holds 60 per cent of the world's known oil reserves.

The Shah would like to see the United States and Soviet Union agree to let Iran act as the policeman of the area without big power interference. Failing that, the Shah was expected to seek assurance of undiminished U.S. support. The Soviet government's recent friendship treaties with India and the hostile regime in neighboring Iraq have increased Iran's sense of isolation, and it is suspicious of Moscow's intentions in the Gulf.

Wearing a gray suit, white shirt and blue and gray tie, the President looked tired but smiled as he said goodbye at the Kiev airport to President Alexander Lyashko of the Ukraine and other officials.

The weather was clear and balmy as the President and Mrs. Nixon boarded Air Force One after an overnight stop in Kiev, the capital of the Soviet Ukraine.

"It's such a lovely day, I'd like to stay another week," Nixon told Lyashko's wife and Mrs. Vladimir Scherbitasky, wife of the Ukrainian Communist party chief, as they prepared to leave for the airport.

"Why not?" Mrs. Lyashko replied.

"We'll get fired," said Mrs. Nixon with a smile.

The President commented: "I think I'd get in a little trouble at home if I didn't go."

A few hours after the arrival in Kiev, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen that Nixon and the Soviet leaders reached no secret agreements on Vietnam or any other controversial questions.

"This is not the way these things happen," the President's assistant for national security affairs said.

Sen. Jordan Here With SBI Escort

Jordan interrupted his campaign schedule Monday afternoon after having been only about 100 feet from the spot where 11 persons were shot down by a berserk gunman Monday noon at Raleigh shopping center.

His press aide, Wes Hayden, was one of eight injured in the shooting. Three persons were killed before the gunman shot himself.

In remarks prepared for a Greenville press conference, Jordan charged that his Democratic runoff opponent, Rep. Nick Galifianakis, "has not sponsored a single piece of legislation since coming to Congress relating to tobacco production, manufacturing, or marketing."

Galifianakis, who carried most of the eastern urban areas in the May 6 primary, has frequently charged that Jordan has done little to help Tar Heel tobacco farmers.

Jordan also said Galianakis had a record "just as blank on other farm legislation, rural electrificationl soil conservation and water shed development.

The senator took credit for sponsoring or cosponsoring 44 pieces of legislation during his 14 years in the Senate.

"These are things that no freshman senator can do for you — particularly one with no agricultural background knowledge, or even demonstrated interest in farm problems except as campaign issue."

"I have an SBI agent with me now," U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan told newsmen and a group of supporters on hand for a news conference at the Holiday Inn here late this morning.

Jordan made the announcement while commenting on a shooting tragedy in Raleigh yesterday that left four persons dead and eight wounded.

The senator was campaigning at the North Hills shopping center at the time of the shooting but investigators and Jordan himself said the incident was not related to his campaign.

Jordan said, "I never thought anybody wanted to shoot me...I don't think that man was intending to shoot me..."

The candidate noted that SBI agents have been assigned to all major candidates in the state now.

The senator noted he would not support gun control legislation that would take weapons out of the hands of persons who use them for protection of their homes. He said, "I know of no way that you could ever keep firearms out of the hands of criminals... if they wanted one," adding, "I would be opposed to a control law that would confiscate peoples guns from their homes."

Four Daughters Wed In One Day

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP) — One church, four daughters, two wedding ceremonies, 300 guests, 20 cases of champagne and more food than the father of the brides can estimate. Put them together and you have a wedding day in the life of the N.J. Mrzlak family.

Mrzlak walked down the aisle of St. Bonaventure Roman Catholic church four times Monday, each time giving the hand of a daughter in marriage.

The brides were among the Mrzlaks' 11 children, ranging in age from 13 to 29. The size of the family figured in the girls' decision to be married on the same day.

"It was the most exciting day of my life, to say the least," Mrzlak said at a reception following the final ceremony in which daughters Paulette, 20, and Betty, 23, were married.

In an earlier ceremony daughters Maxine, 26, and Carol, 21, took wedding vows.

"Polly wanted to get married earlier, but we talked them out of that, and asked them to wait until they graduated from college," Mrs. Mrzlak said. Polly graduated this month.

"Then there was a debate on who should be married first, as Carol chose the same weekend. They talked about putting them two weeks apart.

"But a fiscal situation loomed, which wedding for their brothers and sisters, scattered from Texas to California, to attend."

Maxine decided to be married in July, but then moved it up May 29, with the other two, Mrs. Mrzlak said.

"Betty heard the three were going to be married the same day and they decided to make it a foursome," she explained.

Mrzlak, a real estate insurman, was exuberant. "It was just perfect. The weather, the guests, the ceremony, we just couldn't have asked for a more perfect day."

Predicts First M.D.'s By 1982

KINSTON—Dr. Wallace R. Wooles, dean of the East Carolina University Medical School, predicted in a speech here Friday afternoon that "We will graduate our first student with an M. D. no later than 1982."

Dr. Wooles told the Kinston Kiwanis Club, "There is no question in my mind and the minds of most people that I talk to around the state the decision has been made to build a second state medical school and that it's going to be at ECU. The only question...to be resolved is the rate at which it's going to go."

Economic factors as well as the medical needs in Eastern North Carolina make expansion of the present program into a full four-year medical school necessary, he said. "When you hear one of our political candidates say to you the program as it now exists is prohibitively expensive, he is absolutely right. It is twice as expensive as the national average right now."

He noted the average cost per student per year in 39 medical schools in the nation is $16,000, while the average cost under ECU's one year program is $33,800.

"It really isn't a very efficient type of program economically. That's why we are working so hard trying to develop this as rapidly as we can."

If the present program is expanded to two years, the average cost would be $18,000 per student, he estimated. With a four-full-years program, the cost would rise somewhat and then level off.

The present facilities can accomodate double the current number of students, he pointed out.

Rider On Kite Falls To Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I think we have a problem," the public address announcer said as Robert Kennedy of Escondido, Calif., plummeted from the sky.

Thousands of spectators at Transpo 72, the international transportation exposition, watched Monday as the 26-year-old kite flier fell to his death.

A member of the Australian Birdman Team, Kennedy was killed when he lost control of his kite at an altitude of about 500 feet. He was being pulled into the air at the time by a speeding automobile.

"He was in a steep climb when all of a sudden a gust of wind hit him or something," said Jack Wallace, 31, of Leesburg, Va., who witnessed the accident.

"His feet suddenly flipped over the kite and he landed back on top of it. He yelled, 'Oh, no,' and you could see him kicking and fighting as the kite wrapped around him. As it folded up, he fell straight to the ground, just like a stone."

Kennedy landed in a grassy area at the north end of the runway, away from the spectators' stand but within view of thousands.

A public address announcer was promoting Kennedy's daring when the kite collapsed.

Bremer Enters Plea Of Innocent

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer pleaded innocent today to state charges in connection with the shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace and the wounding of three other persons.

Bremer was taken from Baltimore County Jail before dawn and brought under heavy guard to the Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

Bremer had pleaded innocent to federal charges last Wednesday.

The 21-year old Milwaukee man was indicted last Tuesday on six counts for each of the four persons injured. He was charged with attempted murder, assault and battery, assault with intent to murder, assault with intent to maim and two violations of state gun control laws.

The injured, in addition to Wallace, were Alabama State Trooper Capt. E.C. Dothard, Secret Service agent Nicholas Zarvos, and Dora Thompson, a Wallace campaign worker from Alabama.

The shootings took place at a Wallace campaign rally at a Laurel, Md. shopping center May 15.

Wallace remains hospitalized in a Silver Spring, Md., hospital, where doctors say his condition is slowly improving.

Soviet Newspapers Play Up Summit Agreements

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's major newspapers published the text today of the statement of principles to guide American-Soviet relations signed Monday by President Nixon and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Most papers front-paged photographs of the signing in the Kremlin.

The government daily, Izvestia, normally an afternoon newspaper, skipped Monday's edition in order to come out this morning with coverage of the signing and of Nixon's departure from Moscow.

"Reports of the Soviet-American summit agreements are the major items of the press, radio and television all over the world," the Communist party daily, Pravda, said above a roundup of world press comment on the just-concluded summit talks.

"These agreements are in the interests of universal peace and security, the interests of all peoples."

Typical headlines were: "An Example of Political Realism," "Good Prospects for Consolidation of Peace," "In the Interests of the Peoples of the World." The controlled press gave no lengthy analysis of the agreements and their expected results but it continued its heavy coverage of the Nixon visit.

In an effort to show that the summit agreements "are supported by the entire Soviet people," Pravda and other newspapers published "letters that Soviet people are sending to the editorial offices in ardent approval of the Soviet-American talks."

"In the name of all the workers of our plant I want to say thank you to our native Communist party," said a typical letter in the orchestrated chorus, this one signed by M. Shevtsov, party secretary at the Karachardovsky Mechanical Plant in Moscow.

Izvestia also carried the text of the agreement on the limitation of strategic arms, published by most other papers over the weekend. And it carried a brief report from New York that U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in compliance with the agreement, had ordered a halt to construction of an antiballistic missile base in Montana.

Hayden, were listed as Mrs. Ralph Moody of Raleigh, wife of a deputy state attorney general, facial wound; Carol Lynn Sutton, 3, of Cary, thigh wound; Mrs. Jessie B. West, about 60, of Raleigh, critical condition with head wound; Carol Ann Homavac, 20, of Raleigh, left shoulder wound; Terri Sue Henry, 6, of Cary, general injuries; David E. Waby, 30, of Raleigh, and Leroy Honeycutt, 29, of Raleigh.

A spokesman at Wake Memorial Hospital said Honeycutt was treated for a grazed wound on the arm and released.

Police Chief Goodwin said McLeod had a police record which included two assaults with a deadly weapon. Maj. E.C. Duke said McLeod was arrested Sunday on a charge of falsely reporting the theft of an automobile. He was released under $200 bond.

Young Harrison was in front of Ivey's department store when the gunman shot him in the right side. He opened the front door, staggered in and collapsed before horrified shoppers. He was dead on arrival at Wake Memorial Hospital.

Bruce Bland of Raleigh, a witness to the shooting, said the gunman was "aiming at anything that moved." Another witness, C.B. Barrett of Wilson, said the man "stayed between two cars the whole time. I was trying to keep an eye on him. I didn't want him to run up on me and get me. He was shooting at anything that came by."

Warren King, a reporter for The Charlotte Observer, said Jordan and others in his party had just gone inside the mall when the shooting began. Jordan had just shaken hands with some woman seated at a circular bench in the foyer of the entrance.

King said Jordan was pushed into an optician's office where he remained about 30 minutes. He later went to the hospital where Hayden was taken.

Two clerks at Thorne's Hardware Store said McLeod came in Monday morning and asked, "May I see some .22s?"

Frank Snipes and Rosa Bland said the man didn't act disturbed or upset while in the store. Miss Rand said she knew McLeod when both were students at Washington Elementary School in Raleigh.

Snipes said McLeod had to answer four or five questions on a firearms form, one of which was: "Have you ever been convicted of a charge resulting in at least a one-year jail term?" He answered no to that and other questions on whether he had a police record.

McLeod's mother said he had a blackout at school one day "and the teacher called me. I told her he had them at home. They wanted to make all kinds of tests at Duke Hospital, but I didn't want them to mess with his brain, so I didn't sign."

McLeod married after graduation and the couple had one child who died shortly after birth.

A school official said McLeod had participated in extra-curricular activities, including track and basketball, and had been a student council representative. His school record was termed spotless.

Bill Hooker, assistant principal at Broughton High, said he was "really impressed" with the job McLeod did at the school. He cleaned the classrooms and halls from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. on school days.

"I really am shocked to hear this," Hooker said when he larned of the shootings. "He was so personable and friendly." He added McLeod was "a little withdrawn, quiet."

Gardner Visits Here Tomorrow

Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner will be in Greenville Wednesday morning for a press conference and meeting with local supporters.

According to Gardner's Pitt campaign officials, the Rocky Mount businessman will be at the Tar River Estates clubroom at 9 a.m. and will remain until 9:45.

Gardner edged his GOP opponent, Jim Holshouser of Boone, in the May 6 primary but failed to gain a majority and faces a runoff primary this Saturday.

Campaign workers noted that the public is invited to meet Gardner at the clubroom, located on the north extension of Elm Street.

Gardner Asserts Press Biggest Danger In U. S.

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial hopeful Jim Gardner urged North Carolinians today to work for more effective communication and understanding among themselves.

"Let North Carolina be a leader, as we stand on the brink of anarchy, in showing that we can work together," Gardner told a breakfast gathering of supporters in Statesville.

Gardner noted racial violence that has occurred in Concord, the sniper killing of three persons and wounding of eight others yesterday at a Raleigh shopping center, and continuing problems between blacks and whites in general.

"In my administration, we're going to open the door," Gardner said.

"If each community will start today realizing how close we are to losing communication and start working to correct it, then we are going to have a great state," he said.

Gardner renewed his attack on North Carolina newspapers today as he did Monday in Wilkesboro and Asheville, accusing the news media of distorting facts.

"The press is the most dangerous thing facing us in this nation today because they are the shapers of opinion," he said in Asheville.

Gardner told a newsman that the Asheville Citizen "in my opinion is the worst newspaper in North Carolina.

"Another newspaper equally as bad as the Asheville Citizen is the Raleigh News and Observer," Gardner said.

He accused the newspapers of "distorting everything Jim Gardner says, all for the purpose of defeating Jim Gardner."

In Wilkesboro, John Walker, the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, joined Gardner in the attacks on the news media.

Walker accused the media, including wire services, of providing "over information" on events occurring in the nation. He said the "onslaught of the media creating turmoil is . . . causing us to believe we have lost the American dream."

Advises Shift Lobby Target

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the nation's biggest union of public workers urged leaders of his 550,000-member organization today to switch their lobbying emphasis from the states to Congress in an effort to win a national labor law covering state, county and city employes.

"The big crap game is now in the nation's capital," said Jerry Wurf, head of the AFL-CIO American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

Wurf told some 1,500 delegates to the union's convention that membership in public employe unions is growing by leaps and bounds despite state laws that frequently discourage unions and sometimes send their leaders to jail for striking.

"All the laws being passed in all the states are lousy," Wurf said.

Some states have eased their laws against unions as a result of union pressure, "but the best law in these United States is an unfair law, tilted in favor of employers," he said.

"The only way we will get justice is when we get a national law," he said. "State laws still give the upper hand to the employer."

The union has been lobbying in Congress for a bill that would require states and their political subdivisions to recognize and bargain with unions.

Wurf said his union also insists on the right to strike, but would be willing to experiment with voluntary arbitration.

He said the question of how to resolve deadlocked disputes has been the biggest problem in seeking new laws.

"An interesting thing has happened. Labor has traditionally opposed compulsory arbitration," Wurf said. "I have news for you. The bosses we work for are scared to death of it ... They have seen third-party neutrals grant some extremely fair and reasonable settlements."

He said American unions representing public employes have fewer legal rights than labor groups in all other non-communist nations. Federal laws on bargaining rights, minimum wage and other provisions do not cover state, county and city workers.

Despite the absence of this legal backing, his union has more than doubled in membership in 10 years, he said.

One of his union's officials, Howard Benedict, was jailed in an Illinois labor dispute several months ago, Wurf said, and while he was in jail, "he organized all the officers in the jail."

Star Pinned On Defender

KONTUM, Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu flew into Kontum under fire today to pin a star on the field commander defending the provincial capital in the central highlands.

Thieu came in a light observation helicopter that flew in at rooftop level and put down at the 23rd Division headquarters a few hundred yards from North Vietnamese positions.

Several rounds of artillery landed in the compound just before the president arrived and during his 25-minute stay.

Thieu came to promote Col. Ly Tong Ba to brigadier general. He commands the 23rd Division, which has been fighting inside Kontum since the city's defenses were breached last Thursday.

It was understood that one reason for Thieu's visit was to encourage Ba to take more aggressive action to rout the enemy forces holding on in the northern and southeastern sectors of the city. One source said the promotion would also make clear Ba's authority over other colonels working with him.

Ba was surprised by Thieu's arrival and by his spot promotion. Aides had to hurry around to find him as the helicopter approached.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern are heading into their second campaign confrontation in pivotal California still debating the issues of the first—welfare and the war.

Humphrey slapped at McGovern welfare proposals, McGovern at Humphrey's record on Vietnam policy as the two Democratic senators prepared to face each other in a nationally televised appearance tonight.

And Minnesota's Humphrey sought to revive and take over a familiar issue by challenging McGovern to disclose how much money he is spending on the California presidential primary campaign.

There was irony in that, since it was McGovern who first made public his over-all campaign finances, and turned the topic into a major issue at the start of the primary season. That was in New Hampshire, when he was rated at best a long shot in the race.

Now it is McGovern versus Humphrey, head to head, for 271 Democratic presidential nominating votes in the California primary a week away.

Their campaign tone since Sunday night, when they appeared together in a national television interview, indicated the dispute might become even more heated as they met again.

The television appearances, billed as debates but actually joint interviews broadcast by the national television networks, have become centerpieces in the California campaign.

Humphrey planned two campaign appearances in Los Angeles today, then set aside time to prepare for the television appearance. McGovern scheduled a news conference on conversion of the economy to a peacetime basis and cleared his schedule to rest and get ready for the second round.

It will be broadcast on the National Braodcasting Co. program "Meet the Press," for an hour beginning at 9:30 p.m. EDT. The final McGovern-Humphrey matchup is scheduled Sunday, on the American Braodcasting Co.

Humphrey raised the finance question in Sacramento Monday, saying that "the selling of a president ought not to become a habit in this country."

The former vice president said his California primary campaign had cost $299,000 through May 22. That partial accounting did not cover the period after costly radio and television commercials began.

A McGovern spokesman, Kirby Jones, said the primary campaign budget for the South Dakota senator is $1.25 million.

Humphrey is known to be facing a financial squeeze in his California campaign, and McGovern is certain to outspend him by a wide margin.

In San Diego Monday, McGovern said Humphrey is a former defender of U.S war policy in Vietnam who "now goes across this land posing as a convert to peace, and I don't intend to let him get away with it."

Humphrey, in Fresno, renewed his critique of McGovern's position on welfare. He said he favors a public service job program that would cost $6 billion and put one million unemployed people to work within a month.

"I'd rather put a million people to work at a cost of $6 billion than put 104 million people on welfare at a cost of $27 billion," Humphrey said.

McGovern has said he doesn't favor the latter plan, either, having introduced such a plan in the Senate only as a courtesy to the National Welfare Rights Organization.

McGovern instead has proposed an income supplement program that would provide flat payments of perhaps $1,000 a year to all Americans. Humphrey has assailed that, too. What it would cost is still in dispute.

As Humphrey addressed about 2,000 people in Citrus Heights, a Sacramento suburb, a man carrying a rifle was arrested nearby. The sheriff's office said the incident was not related to the Humphrey appearance, and that the man was questioned and released, although the rifle was held "for safekeeping."

Cadillac For Soviet Boss

DETROIT (AP) — Cadillac says practically every optional item it offers was included on the car that President Nixon presented to Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Extras on the black, front-wheel-drive Eldorado included an AM-FM stereo radio, tape deck, tinted glass and a special air horn.

"About the only item added specifically for overseas was a kilo speedometer, rather than the regular-type speedometer found in American cars," a Cadillac spokesman said.

He said the car came off the assembly line May 16 and had no special safety equiment such as bullet-proof glass or armor plate.

Cadillac, a division of General Motors, confirmed Monday that it donated the $9,600 car for presentation to Brezhnev.

The Russian leader, a car buff, has in his personal collection such Western autos as a Rolls Royce limousine, a Citroen-Maserati and a Renault 16.

The first message by telegraph was sent May 24, 1844.

Couple Exchanges Vows Sunday

On Sunday at four o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Marsha Joan Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jerome Perkins of Stokes, and Derrell Gene Hemby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levin Derrell Hemby, were united in marriage in the First Christian Church of Greenville.

The Rev. Al Edwards of Raleigh officiated.

Nuptial music and the traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Gail Crisp, organist, of Stokes. Miss Claudia Barnhill of Stokes sang "Morning Has Broken" and "The Prayer Song"

The church was decorated with all brass wedding accessories. The altar was flanked by pyramidal candelabra with bouquets of white mums, pink snapdragons and pom pons. In the choir loft was a background of tall standards of green woodwardia and spiral candelabra. Centering the altar was a decorated profile prie,dieu where the vows were exchanged and the bride and bridegroom knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a wedding gown of silk organza, fashioned with a high neckline, bishop sleeves and empire bodice accented with peaul d'ange lace, A-line skirt with deep flounce edged in lace and a chapel train bordered in peau' d' ange lace.

A bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to a matching headpiece. The bride carried a semi-cascade of phalaenopsis, English ivy and orchids tied with a white satin bow.

Mrs. Thomas G. Murdough Jr. of Aurora, Ohio, and Mrs. William Harvey Whitehurst of Stokes, sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor.

They were attired in floor length gowns of voille, fashioned with high necklines, bishop sleeves and empire bodices of white accented with floral print. The A-line skirts were of floral print in striped design. Their white profile hats were ornamented with bands of azalea pink ribbon and tulle with streamers.

They carried white baskets filled with pink, lavendar and fuchsia summer flowers with baby's breath tied with azalea pink bows with hem length streamers.

Miss Mary Anne Schulken of Whiteville, Mrs. Ann Hemby of Greenville, and Miss Matilda Barnhill of Stokes were bridesmaids. Their dresses were designed after the honor attendants' and they also carried baskets.

Donny Hemby, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Thomas Murdough Jr. of Aurora, Ohio, William Harvey Whitehurst of Stokes brothers-in-law of the bride, Jamie Barnhill and John Richard Barnhill.

Mrs. Perkins, mother of the bride, wore a mansford ensemble in dusty rose with white lace coat, matching accesories and a bridal pink rose corsage. Mrs. Hemby, mother of the bridegroom, chose a jade green polyester satin with ruffle trim and matching accesories. Her corsage was white cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. George B. Roebuck, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. L. O. Hemby, Mrs. Hubert Mozingo, grandmothers of the bridegroom wore cymbidium orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Meredith College, Raleigh, and the bridegroom is an instructor at Pitt Technical Institute.

Immediately after the wedding, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth garlanded with improved smilax and centered with an arrangement of a variety of colors designed in a silver candelabra.

The bride's table held the decorated wedding cake, toast glasses and decorated knife.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Roebuck presided at the register in the church vestibule. Mrs. Gray Harrison of Williamston greeted guests and introduced them to the receiving line.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Gray. Others assisting were Miss Linda Lee, Mrs. Page Watson, Mrs. Ann Posey, Mrs. Clovis Ann Bowen, and Mrs. Connie H. Alcott.

After a wedding trip to western North Carolina, the couple will be at home in Greenville.

On Sunday, Mrs. Marvin Barnhill entertained at a wedding honoring the Hemby-Psrkins wedding party and out-of-town guest at her home in Stokes.

A color scheme of pink and white was used in the decorations.

Centering the bride's table was a silver bowl arrangement of pink snapdragons and shasto daisies. Similar miniature arrangements were used on the auxiliary tables. Twenty guests attended the occasion.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Derrell Hemby, parents of the bridegroom, entertained at a rehearsal party at the Holiday Inn.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cutwork cloth over yellow satin and centered with a white floral arrangement, flanked with candelabras holding yellow tapers.

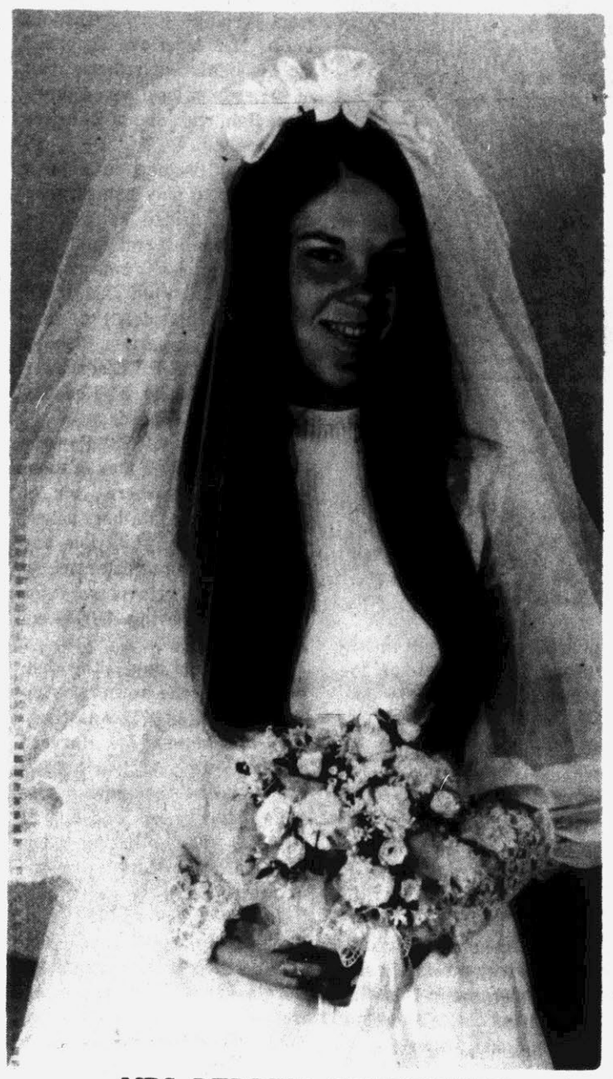

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of yellow roses.

On Saturday, Mrs. Jewell Whitehurst entertained at a buffet luncheon honoring her sister, Miss Marsha Perkins.

The honoree was presented a sweetheart rose corsage upon arrival.

The brife's table featured a centerpiece of mixed roses. The guests' tables were also centered with roses in silver bud vases.

A three-course luncheon was served.

Confident Of Eastern Votes?

There is a theory which pops up in the analysis of North Carolina politics from time-to-time about the so-called Piedmont base.

As the theory goes, there may at some time be enough votes in the Piedmont so that a candidate for state office might expect to get elected there. There would presumably be no need to court voters in the east and west sections of North Carolina.

We do not put much faith in the theory and we doubt that those who run for state-wide office would see anything to it either. Every candidate obviously needs every vote he can get.

We had to re-examine the theory in view of some rather strange statements by Hargrove Bowles, candidate of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Mr. Bowles, on a television news show, was explaining to easterners why it was implausible to dual lane U. S. 17, the busy north-south highway which runs through the state via Wilmington and then southward. Cost too much, was the gist of Mr. Bowles explanation. (Imagine for one moment the political carnage which would result if Mr. Bowles attempted to explain that one of those super highways around Greensboro cost too much.)

Earlier last week Mr. Bowles discussed the health care problems of the state. It is true that he said nothing negative about the ECU efforts to develop a medical school, which in our opinion offers the only hope for alleviating the rural and small city physician shortage. He simply ignored them.

Instead his statement embraced some of the establishment strategy which has been aimed at choking off the development of the ECU medical school.

The Charlotte Observer in its news report saw the Bowles statement like this:

"It is a complicated, multi-stage effort that would bypass the efforts of men like Dr. Leo Jenkins president of East Carolina University, who has argued that the building of a medical school on his Greenville campus would help solve the medical problems of rural areas."

The thought that Mr. Bowles, or any other state candidate, would write off eastern votes leaves us incredulous, and we do not feel this is the case.

The only other theory we have is that perhaps Mr. Bowles feels the vote he received in the east is safe and that his coolness to eastern needs might be appealing to waivering voters in some Piedmont cities.

Vows Preserve N.C. Integrity

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH, N.C. — Preserving the integrity of the results of North Carolina's presidential primary is pledged by State Democratic Chairman John T. Church.

Every effort within the power of the party will be made, Church said, to assure that first ballot votes for a presidential nominee at the

BRYAN HAISLIP

Democratic National Convention are cast for the primary winners.

That means 37 votes for Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and 27 votes for Terry Sanford, Duke University president and former governor.

"No other presidential candidate is entitled to any first ballot votes whatsoever from the North Carolina delegation," said Church, Henderson businessman and state senator.

He said he spoke out in response to rumors that a move may be afoot in the selection of convention delegates to ignore the mandate of the primary and garner support for other candidates. Such a development, he cautioned, would be a "tragedy" which would "do irreparable harm to our party."

Any Democrat in the running as a delegate who cannot honor the commitment ought to stand aside, the party chief declared.

Anti-Wallace Move Seen

Some Wallace supporters have claimed that forces favorable to Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota are trying to nail down delegate strength and wipe out the Alabama governor's primary gains.

In reply to questions, Church said he doesn't know whether that is actually happening. "All I know is rumors I have heard and what I've read in the papers," he answered.

The chairman called on all Democratic candidates and state officials to join in the effort to keep inviolate the preference expressed by voters. He has urged Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien to exert strong leadership on the issue.

"I have also written to all Democratic presidential candiates who did not win first ballot votes in North Carolina, calling upon them to urge their supporters to honor the requirements of state law, not only in North Carolina, but in other states as well," he added.

Selection Process In Action

The machinery is rolling for selection of the Tar Heel Delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Miami.

County conventions last weekend followed precinct meetings. Congressional district conventions are set for June 10, and the state convention will be held in Raleigh on June 20.

Seventy-five per cent of the delegates will be chosen at the Congressional district gatherings. The slate will be completed at the state convention.

New party rules require a balance of women, young people and blacks in the convention delegation, we well as in all areas of leadership. Church said he has reminded county chairmen of the rules, and strict adherence is expected for both the letter and the spirit.

The 1971 General Assembly established the presidential primary with the blessings of both Democratic and Republican parties. It was designed to give citizens a voice in the process of selecting nominees to head the ticket.

First Ballot Binding

The law binds delegates to the primary results only for the first ballot; after that, they're on their own.

The hitch is a procedural rule of the Democratic National Convention which abrogates state law. It provides that upon the challenge of one member a delegation must be polled with each delegate casting his vote as he pleases without regard to any state law, party rule, or previous instructions.

"This means that North Carolina and all other states with binding presidential primaries may find their delegations not adhering to state law, but voting their own personal preferences," Church explained.

The only remedy is moral suasion to impress upon delegates their obligation to follow the dictates of the primary.

North Carolina's first experience with a presidential primary has had its ups and downs. As a state senator, Church voted against the idea. "I do not regret my vote. I do not think the expectations raised have been realized," he observed.

That personal opinion aside, he said, as Democratic chairman he will fulfill his duty to see that the intent of the law is carried out.

Utterly Unlike Past Contests

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Feisty and flushed with his double primary victory in Rhode Island and Oregon, Sen. George McGovern arrived in California last Wednesday to find a primary campaign here utterly unlike anything experienced earlier on his amazing climb toward the Democratic Presidential nomination.

At a luncheon sponsored by the Sacramento Press Club, questions from the floor zeroed in on his policy positions (including one implying that McGovern's meat-axe defense cuts would expose the nation to another Pearl Harbor). That will be his steady diet until primary day, June 6, in the vital showdown against Sen. Hubert Humphrey. In two weeks, Humphrey has managed to focus the campaign on McGovern's radical policy positions.

That means McGovern, though the clear favorite to win here, is in danger of being pushed onto the defensive. What's more, the danger is accelerated by McGovern's reflexive agreement to the three televised "debates" demanded by Humphrey — giving Humphrey the vehicle, at least in theory, for victory.

That scarcely seemed possible only two weeks ago. Superbly organized and lavishly financed, McGovern's California campaign was filling neighborhood with precinct workers and flooding television and radio with professionally flawless, ideologically bland commercials. The Humphrey campaign seemed dormant. Although polls were inconclusive, the state's politicians eyed McGovern's momentum and predicted his win.

At that point, two hard-boiled Humphreyites — William Connell, Humphrey's former top aide, and Eugene Wyman, his chief fund-raiser — met in Los Angeles. They agreed that California shaped up as another issueless beauty contest where fresh-face McGovern would swamp old-face Humphrey.

Consequently, a memorandum written by Wyman and Connell argued that Humphrey was a certain loser unless he — and he alone — stripped bare McGovern's extreme positions, particularly on defense spending cuts. Considering shortages of time and money, they continued, McGovern's positions could be exposed effectively only through debates over free television time.

The result: Humphrey's hard line anti-McGovern statement and challenge for debates when he opened his California campaign in Los Angeles May 18. To the Humphrey camp's amazement and some McGovern men's consternation, McGovern accepted immediately. On May 19, negotiators for both candidates lunched at Perino's Restaurant in Los Angeles with Humphrey agents prepared for hours of bargaining. Instead, McGovern's representatives agreed to Humphrey's maximum terms at once.

To haggle over details McGovern felt, would violate his campaign's tone. But beyond that, McGovern advisers believe Humphrey's attack inserts a stridency that voters of 1972 will reject. Such confidence smothered the McGovern camp minority view to accept only one debate the last Sunday before the primary.

But even the most confident McGovern lieutenants concede a danger: facing Humphrey's assault, McGovern should not be forced onto the defensive. And that is precisely what happened when McGovern arrived in the West a week

Verdict For Federalism?

Back in the autumn, when Mr. Nixon nominated Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the U.S. Supreme Court, some of us who had known Powell for many years undertook to compliment the President on his choice. On reading the Court's jury trial opinions of May 22, it seems possible that our gratitude was not sufficiently expressed at the time. So, again: Thank you, Mr. President, for Mr. Justice Powell.

The Virginia jurist delivered himself in the two test cases of an opinion so firmly reasoned, and so faithful to the spirit of the Constitution, that it may stand as a model of what is meant by "judicial restraint" and "strict construction." In doing so, he raised a new and old standard of jurisprudence: In construing the Constitution, it is the "intendment" that counts.

The two cases, one from Louisiana, the other from Oregon, raised the same question: Does the Fourteenth Amendment prohibit the States from authorizing less-than-unanmious verdicts in their won jury trails? Five members of the Court agreed: No, it does not.

It was Powell's concurring opinion that tipped the balance. In his own spare and methodical prose (he is not much of a phrase-maker), Powell carefully laid down the distinction that our whole plan of government makes between the power of the Federal government on the one hand, and the power of the States on the other. He was driven irresistibly to conclude that the Constitution requires unanimous verdicts in Federal trials, but that no such requirement applies to jury verdicts within the States.

Such a conclusion accords precisely with the dual nature of our government. It is what federalism is all about. Constitutionally speaking, as the Fourteenth Amendment itself makes clear in its opening sentence, we do not live in one nation. We are at once citizens of the United States, and also citizens of the States wherein we reside. One body of law applies in the first instance, another body of law in the second. The most grievous offense of the liberal activists who have dominated the Court in recent years is that they have systematically blurred this distinction. They have treated the Fourteenth Amendment of 1868 as a vast and insatiable blotter, soaking up everything that had gone before.

Powell's opinion of May 22 implicitly rejects the blotter theory. To accept this notion, he wrote, is to derogate "principles of federalism which are basic to our system." In attempting to impose national uniformity, even for the highest motives, "the Court has embarked upon a course of constitutional interpretation which deprives the States of freedom to experiment with adjudicatory procedures different from the Federal model."

In the test cases, the Court was concerned with a robber named Johnson and with three men named Apodaca, Cooper and Madden, who had been convicted, respectively, of assault with a deadly weapon, burglary and grand larceny. If they had been tried by juries in Federal Courts, on Federal charges, the verdicts would have demamded unanimity. But

Other Editors Say On To Something

(Wall Street Journal)

Vice President Spiro Agnew recently turned his searchlight on the yearbooks of two well - known encyclopedias, and found them biased in a leftward direction.

As evidence, he offered the following contrasting treatment in Collier's yearbook 1970-71 of President Nixon and radical lawyer William Kunstler.

The article on President Nixon, for example, asserts that the President characterized "young protesters" as "bumbs" when in fact his characterization was specifically aimed at those protesters who were blowing up buildings.

The general tone is evident when it says: "Richard Nixon is President of the United States, but he is above all a politician, and when an election is in the offing he shows where his interests lie."

The article on Mr. Kunstler says: "The American legal system has given rise over the years to a remarkable breed of courtroom lawyer — the sharp, resourceful, selfless defense attorney who often at risk of reputation and pocketbook will take up unpopular causes, defend unpopular individuals and, in folklore at least, emerge triumphant.

"One of the most remarkable of this breed is William Moses Kunstler, who fights with conviction for causes that he feels are relevant to social and political justice in America."

Mr. Agnew's complaint about encyclopedia bias was largely passed over, no doubt, because, most editors honestly felt that it wasn't newsworthy, that the vice president was harping on a familiar theme.

Yearbook bias is not in itself a burning issue, of course, but the vice president is charging something more important, a general tendency to confuse scholarly dispassion with ideological zeal.

No doubt it's well and good to ignore the vice president when he's repetitive and to jump on him when he's wrong or overly harsh.

But examples like the Collier's comparison make it hard to avoid the conclusion that despite it all, he's on to something.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
May 30 1932

With the American flag at half mast from flagpoles along the principal business streets, Greenville today joined the rest of the nation in observance of national Memorial Day. Although banks and the post office were closed, businesses continued as usual and there were no exercises celebrating the occasion. Members of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion visited the graves of departed veterans in the county yesterday afternoon and placed flowers on the last resting places of the dead heroes.

This is the season of typhoid fever and health authories today urged Pitt County people to take every safegard against the illness. The department of health is of the opinion that the fever can he held in check throughout the summer if citizens will pay attention to the water they drink, sanitation and vaccination.

Strength For Today

THE INVISIBLE ARM

Pastor Oucken, a Baptist preacher in Germany who knew much persecution in his day, was once told by the burgomaster of Hamburg that he would be driven from the city and from the country if he continued his preaching and his religious work. The burgomaster raised one finger, "Do you see that finger?" he asked. "Well, so long as that finger can move I will pursue you and put you down." "Yes," replied Pastor Oucken, "I see your finger, but I also see an Arm which you do not see, and so long as that Arm is stretched out you cannot put me down."

"The eternal God is our refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." This is the faith of all who believe in the invisible powers by which we are sustained in the midst of trouble. How could parents get through the tragedies of war if they did not believe in the invisible arms? How would we confront the injustices of life if we did not believe that behind these injustices and through them is working a power which will right all things at last and bring peace to our hearts? Brave men have been able to stand torture and persecution because they could see what their stupid opponents could not see, namely, the Arm raised high in their vindication.

Let us believe in the Arm as this simple pastor did so long ago. Life is sometimes hard to take, but we can be equal to its every circumstance since we know that we are neither alone nor unsupported.

Unions' Power Concerns Many

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey conducted for an organization representing a cross-section of American industry shows 55 per cent of the general public believes labor unions have grown too powerful and 68 per cent believe recent strikes and labor troubles "have seriously hurt the country."

Opinion Research Corp., Princeton, N.J., has been making the surveys annually since December 1966 for the Labor Law Study Committee, which was formed to study the effect of labor laws on collective bargaining and to recommend changes it feels are necessary.

The latest survey was made between Nov. 15 and Dec. 6 last year. It consisted of 2,003 interviews among the adult population.

On the subject "Unions today have grown too powerful I would like to see their power reduced," in addition to the general public's 55 per cent approval of the statement, 24 per cent said union power is about right, 14 per cent said unions are not strong enough and 7 per cent had no opinion.

By age groups, the "too powerful" vote was 50 per cent among those 18 to 29 years; 56 per cent among those 30 to 39 years; 57 per cent among the 40-49 group; 60 per cent among the 50-59 group, and 56 per cent among those over 60. Among union members themselves, 41 per cent said unions have too much power. For members of [illegible] the figure was 50 per cent and for nonunion families it was 60 per cent.

On the question "In your opinion, have recent strikes and labor trouble seriously hurt the country as a whole, or haven't they had that much effect?" the general public's 68 per cent vote saying "seriously hurt" was accompanied by 20 per cent who said they had not had that much effect and 12 per cent without an opinion.

The 68 per cent figure represented an increase of 12 per cent since the 1967 survey and a 4 per cent increase since 1970.

On the question of government intervention in strikes, 65 per cent of the general public in the poll favored intervention, compared to 57 per cent a year earlier. Twenty-three per cent were against intervention and 12 per cent had no opinion. Among union members 53 per cent favored intervention, compared with 50 per cent in 1970.

McGovern personally (and absurdly) attacked Beverly Hills lawyer Wyman, accusing him of a desire to continue tax loopholes. Why, asked his aides, had McGovern so departed from his campaign style? He was angry at the Wyman-directed campaign, McGovern replied, adding he would not do it again.

Indeed, when he opened his campaign at the Sacramento luncheon Wednesday, McGovern was consciuosly trying to stay on the offensive. Without mentioning Humphrey's name, he declared the people are "tired of candidates who promise the moon in every program without telling us where the money is coming from" and "don't want a repetition in 1972 of what we had in 1968."

Nevertheless, for the first time, McGovern was forced to explain basic positions. He denounced the implications of the Pearl Harbor question as "outrageously incorrect," then wound up explaining that he, too, advocates strong national defense even though he does propose a numbing cut of more than $30 billion. Tough and self-confident though his voice was, the content was indeniably defensive.

Putting McGovern on the defensive may not soil his fresh-face image in the debates, much less save Humphrey in California. "It will take a miracle," admits a top Humphrey supporter. If nothing else, however, Humphrey in California has finally made McGovern publicly defend his far-out positions which long ago won him impassioned support from the Democratic party's left fringe.

Women To Join Police Academy

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Police Academy will end 67 years as an all-male institution in July when 14 women join the class of 135 cadets graduating from the school after six months training.

"They lugged and fired service revolvers, threw each other around in self-defense class and took criminal law courses like the rest of us," a male cadet said.

Of the 15 women originally selected, one has dropped out. They were chosen from more than 150 applicants on the basis of age, height, physical fitness, and education.

Most of the police force of Washington, D.C., appointed by members of Congress, are graduate students working toward advanced degrees.

Nobody Is Ahead Now: Taylor

By JAY HENSLEY
For THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor put on his anappy new red jacket Monday night and went into Cumberland County, where he explained a political philosophy he adopted after he came in second in the May 6 Democratic primary for governor.

Taylor told supporters at a nine-county rally in Fayetteville that it was mostly his fault that Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles piled up a 62,000-vote lead. But nobody is ahead now in Saturday's runoff, he said.

"We are just even in this campaign. There is not a vote been case unless it's an absentee ballot. We are even with the board," Taylor told his cheering audience in the armory. "And we are not behind," he insisted, "but we are going to have to get every vote we can find. We are going to have to scratch for them, and dig for them, and get in the bushes and go find them and get them to come out and vote Saturday."

Taylor added that Bowles got more publicity out of 30-second television spots in the first primary than all of Taylor's lengthy speeches on education, highways and mental health.

"So I decided I was going to have to change some things. First thing I changed was, I got me a red coat. And I decided everybody was going to see a new Taylor," he said.

Taylor explained his new tax proposal. He said he would rework the tax structure to exempt from state income taxes the 675,000 North Carolinians who earn less than $100 a week. And if new taxes are needed, he would put the burden on corporate incomes and invididuals earning $20,000 a year and over.

He said every tax levied by the state in the past dozen years has hit the average family the hardest. He named the sales tax on food, the cigarette, soft drink and gasoline taxes and the 1969 increase in the cost of license tags for motor vehicles.

"I hope we won't have any more taxes, and I'll do my dead level best to see that we don't," Taylor said.

Taylor spent this morning at his headquarters in Raleigh. He was to appear on a Winston-Salem television program this afternoon and answered questions telephoned in to him.

Johnson was tried in Louisana, where the State constitution requires only "a jury of twelve, nine of whom must concur to render a that except in cases of first-degree murder, "ten members of the jury may render a verdict of guilty or not guilty."

To nullify these provisions of the State constitutions of Louisiana and Oregon, the Court would have been compelled to hold that the Fourteenth Amendment was intended to prohibit any such variations from the Federal rule. It strains credulity, Powell wrote, to suppose any such thing. He voted to affirm the convictions.

Does this mean that the Court majority regards the Louisiana and Oregon system as wise? No, indeed, Justice Harry Blackmun went out of the way to record his own personal distaste for a less-than-unanimous rule. The decisions of May 22 mean simply, and admirably, that Burger, White, Blackmun, Powell and Rehnquist, in these significant cases, are unwilling to read more into the Fourteenth than the Fourteenth was intended to mean. Four of these five jurists were named to the Court by Richard Nixon, which is one reason, among others, that many conservatives will be happy to have the President safely back home in the White House.

Wallace Continues Slow Improvement

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace is improving slowly, his doctors say, and has his choice of the hospital menu.

The Alabama chief executive's abdominal wound, doctors attending Wallace said in a daily medical briefing Monday, shows less drainage of abscess daily.

They said the governor's condition continued to improve slowly and gradually.

Charles Snider, Wallace's national campaign officer, said he and the governor's son, George Jr., 20, would go to appeal for votes in the California and New Mexico primaries.

Snider quoted Wallace as saying the governor wishes that Americans will quickly forget that he has been shot.

Following a 45-minute meeting with the governor, Snider said Wallace reiterated his intention to be at the Democratic National Convention in Miami in July. He said doctors assured him that the Alabama chief executive would be able to attend the convention in five weeks.

Although Wallace has indicated he is totally committed to securing the Democratic presidential nomination, Snider said, he did not flatly rule out a third-party candidacy if Wallace is not the Democrats' choice in Miami. Snider said the third-party decision would be left up to Wallace completely.

Besides Snider, the governor also was visited by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, brother of two assassinated politicians.

North Carolina can't afford an investment in the past.

Let's send Nick to the Senate. It's our future.

When Congressman Nick Galifianakis announced his intention to run for the United States Senate, he offered a profound reason why we should elect him to this important position.

"The fundamental issue in the 1972 election," he said, " is which among us is better equipped to move forward with our people during these rapidly changing times, for twentieth century problems must be met with twentieth century solutions."

Nick Galifianakis is a young man seasoned by 12 years of experience in Congress and the State Legislature. His leadership looks to the future, not the past.

His 75-year old opponent has asked for "just one more term" because of his seniority. But North Carolina can't afford an investment in the past.

If we're serious about wanting seniority in the U.S. Senate, we must make an investment now in leadership that can solve our problems today and in the years ahead.

We must elect Nick Galifianakis to the U.S. Senate.

LET'S SEND NICK TO THE SENATE

NATO Advised Avoid 'Disadvantage'

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt told the 15 NATO foreign ministers today that any agreement with the Russians to reduce troops in Europe "should not bring any military disadvantage for either side."

Brandt welcomed the results of President Nixon's visit to Moscow, saying that the "elimination of confrontation and, as President Nixon put it, turning confrontation to cooperation, can but have favorable effects for us all and therefore for the alliance."

The West German chancellor addressed the opening of the annual two-day spring meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's foreign ministers. Earlier in the day, Secretary of State William P. Rogers met with Brandt and told him of Nixon's mission to Moscow, including his agreement with the Russians that the European security conference which Moscow has been urging should be divided into separate conferences on East-West cooperation and on troop reductions.

Brandt told the NATO ministers that a "security conference should serve to explore the paths of cooperation between East and West and in doing so should not ignore the military aspects." But he warned that any reduction of troops "should meet the requirement of the alliance's undiminished security, should not bring any military disadvantage for either side, and should thereby help to reduce the dangers of confrontation. Thus in both projects the concepts of security and detente are linked together."

It was not clear from this whether Brandt felt both cooperation and troop reductions should be handled at a single conference or separate meetings.

It remained to be seen whether the other Atlantic allies would accept the U.S. position favoring parallel European conferences—a big one concentrating on cooperation and a smaller one dealing with troop reductions and other military issues.

Rogers reported on the Moscow talks to Washington's three principal European allies Monday night at the four-power dinner traditionally held on the eve of the NATO meeting to discuss German problems.

U.S. officials said the secretary received a warm response from Foreign Ministers Walter Scheel of West Germany, Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain and Maurice Schumann of France. But informed sources said Schumann indicated the French government has not relaxed its opposition to any talks on troop reductions.

The Nixon administration feels that talks to achieve a balanced, mutual reduction of Communist and Western forces in Central Europe should be attended only by nations most directly affected—those members of NATO and the Warsaw Pact whose forces are confronting each other in that area.

The Americans feel the European conference on cooperation should be attended by all the European nations, plus the United States and Canada or some 35 nations.

There is general agreement within NATO that a carefully planned European security conference is desirable, but there are differences over what such a conference should discuss. Some of Washington's allies, notably the West Germans, have favored including troop reduction on the agenda of the all-European conference.

Rogers told newsmen the United States is prepared to begin preparations this fall for a Europe-wide conference in 1973.

U.S. officials said the American view is that preparations for negotiations on troop cuts should begin about the same time.

Concord Quiet After Violence

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — Three hundred National Guardsmen and a curfew restored quiet to this textile city of 20,000 Monday night after a weekend of racial violence, police reported.

They said there had been a dozen arrests, about evenly divided between blacks and whites, for violation of the 8:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew, but no recurrence of fires or major rock and bottle-throwing.

The arrests were in all sections of the city, and not confined to Negro sections.

Concord is 25 miles northeast of Charlotte.

Mayor Alfred Brown and Police Chief E. R. McKay said the disturbances apparently resulted from the wounding of a black man by a white grocer Saturday afternoon after they had argued in the store in a black neighborhood.

That store and three other groceries have since been burned. Police said one was looted.

McKay said 51 persons had been arrested Sunday night and early Monday, almost all for curfew violations. A handful were charged with inciting to riot or drunken driving.

The commander of the National Guard, Maj. Ferd Davis, met with black community leaders Monday afternoon in an effort to ease tension.

Black and white residents said Concord had no history of racial turmoil, and that jobs in the textile mills are readily available to blacks.

Change Policies In Loans To Farmers

F. L. Little, Jr., President of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association, today announced changes in policies governing the associations lending practices to farmers, growers and ranchers.

The changes were made possible by the recent implementation of the Farm Credit Act of 1971, Little said.

The Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association will continue to have flexibility to serve short and intermediate-term needs, with maturities not to exceed seven years.

Now, rural residence loans can be made to non-farmers with maturies not to exceed seven years.

In Seclusion Duchess Is

LONDON (AP)—Buckingham Palace announced today that because of strain caused by the death of the Duke of Windsor, the duchess will not trltto England with her husband's body Wednesday.

The palace said "she has been advised by her doctor not to travel at the present time,"

But the widow is expected to fly to London Friday, the announcement added. Meantime, she remains in seclusion in her Paris mansion, refusing to receive any of hundreds of callers.

The duchess, 75, is the former American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson. The duke gave up the throne in 1936 to marry her.

Saturday's Trooping the Color in honor of Queen Elizabeth's official birthday will go on as usual. But the monarch has ordered a special tribute by the Household Troops in which the duke served.

Before the queen rides out on the parade ground here, there will be a roll of drums and a minute's silence. Pipers will play a lament.

The Duchess of Windsor has expressed pleasure over the ceremony, but is unlikely to attend it, the palace said. She may watch it on television.

Offers Pay Debate Cost

RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor offered today to pay for a televised debate with his opponent for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination for governor, Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles.

Taylor, speaking at a news conference in Raleigh, challenged Bowles to debate vocational education and taxes.

Taylor said his opponent in Saturday's runoff primary has proposed a vocational education program that would endanger the educational structure of the state.

"What this proposal really means is that a lot of bright children of working people, black people, blue-collar people and even middle - class families will get an inferior education and have no chance to go to college or pursue academic education," Taylor said.

"It would condemn them during their school years to a class system, with no hope of ever breaking out of it," Taylor said.

Cell Block Held By Prisoners

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) - Prisoners seized control of a second-floor cell block today at Passaic County Jail and took four hostages, among them the warden, prison officials reported.

Officials said the inmates took over the 110-man wing following a melee in which guard Joseph Bozzoli was stabbed in the stomach. He was listed in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

A jail spokesman said Warden Jack DeYoung, an unidentified nurse and two guards who were involved in the scuffle in which Bozzoli was stabbed were being held as hostages.

The trouble erupted, the spokesman said, when Bozzoli and the two guards were escorting three prisoners to an elevator to take them to another section of the three-story jail. As the group was entering an elevator, Bozzoli was stabbed.

The prisoners then fled back to the cell block, forcing the two other guards to accompany them. Bozzoli escaped by managing to get into the elevator.

Pepsi Defeats Elks Team, 7-3

Pepsi-Cola knocked the Elks out of a share of first place in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday with a 7-3 victory.

The loss left the Elks with a 3-2 record, while Pepsi is now 2-1.

Pepsi started the scoring in the second inning. Steve McClanahan singled and took second on a passed ball. He scored third. Mark Shank walked and also moved up on a passed ball. David Daniel walked, loading the bases. MacDonald Avery then doubled to drive in McClanahan and Shank for a 2-0 lead.

The Elks came right back with three runs in the top of the third to take the lead. William Sneed walked and took second on a wild pitch. Mack Stocks walked and Jarvis Campbell singled in Sneed and Stocks. Campbell moved to third on passed balls and Jimmy Lee sacrificed him in.

Pepsi came right back to regain the lead with three runs in the bottom of the third. Danny Carmon walked and McClanahan singled. Tim Eubanks reached on an error, scoring Carmon. Shank singled, driving in McClanahan. A wild pitch then brought in Eubanks for a 5-3 lead.

The final two came in the fourth. Michael Shank doubled and stole third. Carmon was hit by a pitch and John Coffman singled. McClanahan then singled in both Shank and Carmon.

McClanahan was the only hitter with more than one, getting three to pace Pepsi. The Elks got only two hits off Coffman.

Tournament Prize Is Problem For Sandra

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Writer

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Sandra Palmer was confronted with a peasant problem today as a result of her record-breaking 10-stroke victory Monday in the Titleholders Golf tournament.

In addition to a check for $3,000, green jacket and an eight-inch replica of the huge champion's crown, she won a year's use of a foreign sports coupe. Therein lies Sandra's problem. She is on the staff of an American car manufacturer.

She was giving some thought to a solution today as she headed for the next tournament opening Friday in Baltimore.

The tiny Texas finished with a cozy one-over-par 72 on the 6,500 yard Pine Needles Country Club course after earlier rounds of 71-68-72. She broke by four shots the tournament record set seven years ago by Kathy Whitworth at Augusta, Ga., original home of the Titleholders.

Her 10-stroke margin was the biggest on the pro tour this year and in sharp contrast to her two previous triumps last year, both on the final hole, one with an eagle, the other with a birdie. She led all the way as she fought off one challenger after another. Her lead mounted from one stroke the first day to three the second, five the third and finally ten.

When it was all over she said, "I can't believe I played that kind of golf on this course. I was very nervous after not sleeping well Sunday night. I didn't control myself as well and was generally more tense. I was swinging faster, but I was able to slow down on the putting green."

Mickey Wright, closing with 77, and Judy Rankin, with 76, tied for second at 293, each winning $2,032.

Defending champion Kathy Whitworth, whose 70 was the best fourth round score, and Marlene Hagge, who finished with 73, tied for fourth at 295 to win $1,337 each.

Marilynn Smith, tied for second with Miss Wright starting the round, skidded to 80 after a 42 front nine and finished sixth at 296 to win $1,000 of the $20,000 jackpot.

The tournament appears to have found a new, permanent home at the Pine Needles Club operated by Warren Bell and his wife, the former Peggy Kirk.

After 27 years at Augusta, it was suspended for five years until its revival this week.

Total attendance was about 6,000, a bit below expectations, after two days of bad weather. But the Bells are enthusiastic over their initial venture and are negotiating for television coverage a year from now to provide added impetus and national exposure.

Senior Rick Smedley of Narberth, Pa., is captain of Penn State's lacrosse team.

Unser Nervous About Moving Into Second

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "It's kind of bad to take somebody's place," Al Unser said. "I don't feel like we belong up here in second place."

Nobody took Mark Donohue's place. He won the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race. But Unser, who finished third in the running, wound up second after original runner-up Jerry Grant was bumped down to 12th for illegal refueling.

Donohue, a 35-year-old engineering graduate from Brown University, captured the 56th edition of the Memorial Weekend classic Saturday and took home a cool $218,767.90 for it.

Gary Bettenhausen, of Tinley Park, Ill., led for 126 of the 200 laps. But with only 18 of them remaining, ignition troubles knocked him out of the race, leaving Grant in front.

And just six laps later, Grant, of Seattle, scooted into the pits for quick repairs on a vibrating right front wheel—and Donohue had the lead.

He held it for the remaining 12 laps—30 miles—to win with a record average speed of 162.962 miles an hour. He also turned the fastest single lap at 187.539.

Al Unser, who failed in his bid to win his third straight Indy, was third when the cars crossed the finish line and Joe Leonard was fourth.

But after speedway officials upheld a protest by Unser's chief mechanic, George Bignotti, Grant was bounced out of the top 10, boosting the other finishers up a notch. The officials said Grant improperly took fuel from teammate Bobby Under's tank during that final pit stop.

The infraction cost Grant more than just the No. 2 spot. While Al Unser took home $95,257.89 for second place and Leonard received $58,797.89, Grant wound up with $23,852.85—a loss of some $72,000 for the penalty.

There was auto racing in places other than Indianapolis over the Memorial Day weekend, too.

At Charlotte, N.C., Buddy Baker drove his red Dodge to a one-mile victory Sunday in the World 600 stock car race, averaging 142.255 mile per hour and earning $21,975.

Bobby Allison gunning for his third consecutive victory in the race, had his Chevrolet 100 yards in front of Baker with just 50 miles to go when his right rear tire flattened.

Charlie Glotzbach finished third in a Dodge, more than 12 miles back. Benny Parsons was fourth and LeeRoy Yarbrough fifth, both in Mercurys.

Also Sunday, three-times Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt was hospitalized with first and second degree burns suffered during a pit stop in a 100-lap United States Auto Club dirt-track event at Du Quoin, Ill.

The mishap occurred when Foyt jerked a gas hose loose, spilling on his back and over the cockpit of his car. Foyt jumped from the car, his clothing ablaze. He was hospitalized and listed in "good" condition Monday night, but will have to undergo ankle surgery.

Dickens Hurls Greenville Win

Greenville's semi-pro baseball team gained a 4-0 victory over Robersonville Sunday.

Byron Dickens tossed a three-hitter in the shutout. He allowed one in the first inning, then held Robersonville hitless until the eighth when they got their second. The third came in the ninth inning.

Robersonville did manage to threaten four times. In the first, the hit and a walk put a runner into scoring position. Another got to second on two errors in the second.

In the eighth and ninth, Robersonville got off its best threats, putting men on third in both. A hit, and error and a fielder's choice nearly put a man across in the eight. Two errors and a single got them trouble in the ninth, but again Greenville halted the threat.

It was a scoreless deadlock until the fifth inning when Greenville finally scored. They had threatened in the first on two walks, in the second on a single, a walk and a wild pitch, and in the third on two walks. The fourth also saw a threat on an error, a fielder's choice and a base-loading walk.

The fifth saw the go-ahead run come, however. That came on a home run by Tommy Jordan.

Greenville got the other three in the sixth. Dickens singled and Ken Beaman reached on a fielder's choice. Grant Jarman got a hit, loading them up. Charles Meeks then doubled to drive in all three runners.

Bucs Sweep Pair From Phillies; Take Aim On First Place In East

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Express is picking up steam after moving through Philadelphia. Conductor Bill Virdon now has his crew making tracks for New York.

"I've never seen a ballclub swing the bats like they do," Manager Frank Lucchesi said after Virdon's locomotive Pirates whistled by his Phillies 7-3 and 4-2 Monday.

The sweep gave Pittsburgh 13 victories in the last 15 games and cut into the lead of the front-running New York Mets in the National League East. Despite beating St. Louis 7-6, the Mets' margin dropped to 3½ games.

Pittsburgh's latest victories were fashioned typically—by a non-stop hitting attack.

Pittsburgh's part-timers are just as hard on the opposition as the regulars. Rennie Stennett and Jose Pagan, a pair of utilitymen, played major roles Monday.

In the other National League games Monday, the Houston Astros lost to the Cincinnati Reds 8-3 and had their West lead trimmed to a mere half-game over Los Angeles while the Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 5-2. The Chicago Cubs downed the Montreal Expos 5-2 and the Atlanta Braves nipped the San Diego Padres 2-1 in other action.

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Boston Red Sox 11-3; the New York Yankees took a pair from the Detroit Tigers 5-1 and 4-2; the Oakland A's beat the Texas Rangers twice 4-1 and 7-1, the Baltimore Orioles topped the Cleveland Indians 6-1 and the Chicago White Sox defeated California 5-4 in the first game of a twin bill and the Angels won the second game 3-2 in 10 innings. Rain washed out Kansas City at Minnesota.

Pittsburgh's first-game attack was led by Pagan, a 36-year-old third baseman who is usually used against left-handed pitchers. He had a home run, two doubles and a single in four at-bats, knocked in two runs and scored twice. Then Stennett, subbing for Dave Cash at second base, was the second-game hero with three hits, an RBI and a run scored.

Ken Boswell belted a game-tying, three-run homer and Tommie Agee raced home from third on catcher Ted Simmons' passed ball to lift New York over St. Louis. The Cardinals had scored three runs off the Mets' ace reliver, Tug McGraw, to take a short-lived 6-3 lead in the last of the eighth.

But the Cardinal relief staff fell apart in the ninth as Jerry Grote opened the rally with a single and went to second on Bud Harrelson's one-out walk. Boswell then struck his first homer of the season to tie the game.

Bobby Tolan scored the deciding run on a rundown play in the seventh inning and Cincinnati added four more runs in the ninth to hand fading Houston its third straight loss.

After Tolan came home from third to give the Reds a 4-3 advantage, they put the game out of Houston's reach with their ninth-inning rally keyed by Joe Hague's three-run homer.

Steve Garvey, Jim Lefebvre and Frank Robinson crashed home runs and Don Sutton won his 10th straight victory over two seasons in the Los Angeles' victory.

Sutton, who won his seventh game this year, was touched for a run in the first inning and another in the eighth before being lifted in the ninth when he gave up a single and walk to the first two batters. Jim Brewer came in to get the next three batters and preserve Sutton's triumph.

Held hitless for five innings, Chicago jumped on Carl Morton for five runs in the sixth and went on to a 5-2 victory over Montreal. Morton was coming off a one-hit victory over Philadelphia last Wednesday and ran his string of hitless innings to 11 before the Cubs knocked him out.

Dusty Baker delivered a run-scoring single in the ninth inning, providing Atlanta with a comeback triumph over San Diego. Baker's hit with the bases loaded spoiled a fine pitching job by San Diego's Bill Greif, who had allowed only three hits before being tagged for two singles opening the ninth. He was relieved by Mike Corkins, who eventually gave up the winning runs.

Baltimore Finishes Sweep Of Indians; Climbs Into East's 1st

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'd hate to think where we'd be without Don Baylor, Terry Crowley and Bobby Grich," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver mused.

One thing for sure—the Orioles wouldn't be leading the American League East today.

Cleveland ambled into Baltimore four games ago, leading the division. But after running headlong into the Orioles' kiddie corps and their quartet of 20-game winners, the Indians crawled out of town in third, 1½ games off the pace.

Baylor, Grich and right-hander Pat Dobson did the damage Monday night in leading the Orioles to a 6-1 triumph for a series sweep.

In other American League games, the New York Yankees took a pair from Detroit 5-1 and 4-2, Oakland whipped Texas twice 4-1 and 7-1, the Chicago White Sox beat California 5-4 before the Angels won the 10-inning second game 3-2, Milwaukee shelled Boston 11-3 and Kansas City's game at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, the New York Mets defeated St. Louis 7-6, the Chicago Cubs beat Montreal 5-2, Atlanta nipped San Diego 2-1, Cincinnati pummeled Houston 8-3, Los Angeles downed San Francisco 5-2 and Pittsburgh took two from Philadelphia 7-3 and 4-2.

Dobson tossed a five-hitter as the Indians managed just 19 hits and four runs in the four games. Crowley had an off night at the plate but Baylor and Grich continued their hot performances with a run-batted-in apiece while Merv Rettenmund singled, doubled and tripled and scored twice.

The Orioles got all the runs they needed against Dick Tidrow in the first inning Monday night as Baylor singled to left to score Rettenmund, then came home himself as Boog Powell singled. Grich doubled Rettenmund home in a two-run fifth.

A relief pitcher here, a pinch-hitter there—that was how the Yanks swept Detroit.

Successive pinch doubles by Ron Swoboda and Rusty Torres, the latter a two-run shot, turned the nightcap around for the Yankees after Steve Kline had outdueled eight-game winner Mickey Lolich in the opener.

In the first game, successive sacrifice flies by Swoboda and Hal Lanier, a couple of replacements in the lineup, gave New York a 2-0 lead in the seventh and it ballooned to 5-0 in the eighth on three walks, Felipe Alou's fly ball and Torres' double.

"I think we can win the Western Division," Oakland Manager Dick Williams said after the A's twin triumphs over Texas. "We had it all today—pitching and hitting."

The A's had it all in the seventh inning of the opener, scoring all their runs as Joe Rudi drilled a leadoff homer and George Hendrick followed with a three-run game-winning shot.

And they had all they needed in first inning of the finale, scoring five runs, three of them on Mike Epstein's homer. Reggie Jackson also homered for Oakland in the seventh. The sweep extended the A's winning streak to five games.

Like Oakland's first game, the White Sox won their opener with a late-inning home run blitz. Chicago's came in the eighth when they wiped out California's 4-1 lead on Pat Kelly's leadoff homer and Bill Melton's three-run shot.

Brewers Welcome New Manager In

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The brightest ray of sunshine in Milwaukee County Stadium is Del Crandall, whom the Milwaukee Brewers have selected as a replacement for field manager Dave Bristol.

Crandall, 42, called up from a managerial post in Evansville, Ind., checked in Monday while his new club was avenging a weekend of defeat with an 11-3 victory in Boston against the Red Sox.

Club president Allan H. Selig rousted Bristol out of bed Sunday with a pre-dawn announcement that he was being fired, but denied general manager Frank Lane had applied the pressure.

Lane's 10-player winter trade with the Red Sox had not put the Brewers in the winning column, and they had slumped to the American League's worst record.

Bristol displayed surprise at the announcement he received in Boston, but denied he had any grudges.

Crandall, a former all-star catcher, left the Milwaukee Braves in 1963 and has been manager of the Evansville minor-league club for more than a year.

In contrast to Bristol's ironfist attitude toward exhausting drills and clubhouse training rules, Crandall radiated bliss as he checked in Monday.

"If I have any conviction about managing," he said, "it is that baseball should be fun; fun for the players and fun for the fans."

Lunn Didn't Think Of Win

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Soft-spoken Californian Bob Lunn departed for another stop on the PGA tour with a 16-month winless drought broken, and Jack Nicklaus didn't think his Atlanta Classic downfall would affect his preparation for the United States Open.

"I really didn't think about winning the tournament until the 18th hole when I made that last putt," said Lunn, who had won only $7,300 this year before pocketing the $26,000 first prize in the $130,000 Atlanta tournament.

It was Lunn's first victory since his January, 1971 triumph at Los Angeles. It also was his second Atlanta title; he won this tournament in 1968.

Lunn started the final round Sunday in a deadlock for the lead with Gary Player, while Nicklaus, who had a course record 64 Friday, was only three shots back.

Player drew even when Lunn bogeyed the 14th, but the South African fell one shot back when he bogeyed at 15.

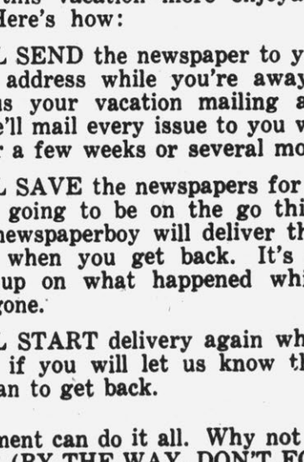

Lunn was standing in the 18th fairway watching as Player sank a 12-foot birdie putt, forcing the big Californian to par the final hole to avoid a tie.

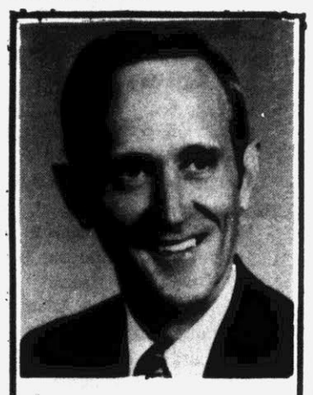

Lunn sent his approach only six feet from the pin and made it for a birdie that gave him a 69 for a 275 total over the par 72, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Meanwhile, Nicklaus had skied to a 75 in the third round and went to a fat 76 on the final day.

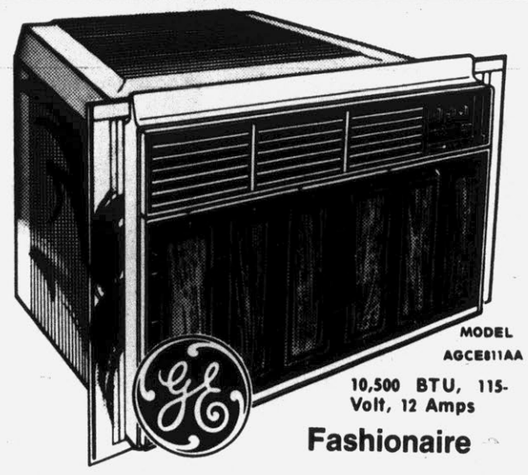

Player was second with a 277 total, followed by Lou Graham at 278, Homero Blancas and Dave Hill at 279, and Gay Brewer at 280.

The Worry Clinic

An Emotional Recoil Follows

Rev. Mark wonders about the effect of crass sexual movies and pornography. Notice what Dr. Dodge at Yale told us graduate students in psychology about "emotional recoil." This was what drove England to John Wesley and saved London from the fate of Sodom!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-590: Mark, J., agec 28, is a clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "What will be the ultimate effect of the modern heavy stress on smut and pornography?

"Will we head into such a degenerate condition that our great American Republic will decay from within?

"Or will God destroy such cities as New York and Paris as was done to Sodom and Gomorrah?"

Emotional Recoil

My professor in graduate school at Yale was Dr. Raymond Dodge.

He stressed what he termed the phenomenon of "emotional recoil."

And modern movies are showing that effect already.

For people are growing nauseated by the crude salaciousness of raw sex, depicted on the screen with very little plot.

Basically, human beings have a craving for nobility.

They respond to true love, which involves lofty idealism, as well as courage and often self-sacrifice.

"The Sound of Music" has thus become an all-time money-maker for the movies, but it involves neither nudes nor salaciousness nor a "leg show."

"The King and I" has likewise proved a perennial success.

Many theatres are now reporting they can't attract enough customers to make a profit on the crass sexual pronography of American and foreign movies.

Curiosity and morbid prurient interest attracted the large crowds originally.

But most theater patrons prefer to come away from a show with a feeling of some spiritual exhilaration.

To reduce human beings to the sexual level of the hog lot, does not produce this constructive emotional "fringe benefit" which was notable in "The Sound of Music" or "The King and I."

And the usual male viewer prefers strong plots that involve action and conflict, as in the John Wayne scenarios.

One reason, too, why sports and especially football, have preempted prime TV time is also the revulsion against those prurient and sexually suggestive films.

"Dr. Crane," Mark inquired, "then why did the sex movies ever become so popular at the start?"

Well, the advent of television put a great strain on the movie theaters, for when the whole family could stay at home and witness a Class "A" movie on their own TV set, they felt why spend $5 or $10 to go out for a show?

The movie houses then tried to attract the couples of dating age, plus the curious teen-agers who wanted some information regarding sex.

So they went "whole hog" in trying to outbid their rivals with erotic movies.

Thus, they lost perspective and even became subject to legal censoring by local police bodies.

Dr. Dodge's stress on "emotional recoil" even holds true of the dining room menu, too.

For too much ingestion protein will soon produce a great hunger for desserts (sugar and starches.)

The ancient Hebrews showed similar recoil when sent to them, they gorged on meat until they finally became nauseated thereby, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1972.

Claim Bible Is Aiding Addicts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Bible is helping youths in New Zealand kick the narcotics habit, says the American Bible Society.

Hundreds of copies of the Society's New Testament in Today's English Version, "Good News for Modern Man", have been shipped to Teen Haven, a drug rehabilitation center for young addicts in Waikato, New Zealand and are "in constant use" in therapy there, the Society said.

The center's director, the Rev. David Brett, regards the New Testament as an essential tool in the program, the Society said, and quoted him:

"Without the Word of God we might as well pack up and go home."

The United States Precision Team captured its second consecutive National Knock-out Team Championship in Cincinnati last March when they won the Vanderbilt title. Their triumph also made it three out of four, since they first achieved prominence by winning the Spingold Event in the summer of 1970, repeating that victory again last year.

The team consists of Steve Altman, Eugene Neiger, Alan Sontag, Joel Stuart and Peter Weichsel of New York City and Thomas Smith, Greenwich, Conn. and range in age from 25 to 34. In the final match of their first Spingold victory, the Precision group defeated the Dallas Aces, fresh from their first World Championship. The Aces repeated their World triumph in Taipei a year ago and did not play against the Precision Team again until this year's Vanderbilt when the youngsters eliminated them in the semi-final round.

In the finals the Altman team won a hard fought battle against Paul Swanson, Morgantown, W. Va., Paul Blair, Tulsa, Okla., Fred Hamilton, Berkely, Mich., and Howard Perlman, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.—who had themselves upset several better known opponents to reach the last round.

Today's hand netted a substantial swing for Precision in the finals. At the table where the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram, Alan Sontag sat West and Steve Altman, East — for the Precision Team.

South opened the bidding with one diamond and Sontag made a takeout double, holding sound support for all unbid suits. North's jump raise to three diamonds was preemptive [with a good hand, he would have redoubled]. Altman had 10 points and, with two five card suits and counting on a good fit with partner, he jumped directly to game in spades, the higher ranking suit.

South was leary of defensive prospects and he proceeded to five diamonds which West doubled. Altman was reluctant to defend for what at best figured to be a negligible profit and he showed his second suit by bidding five hearts. West took a preference back to spades.

North might have been better advised to double five spades inasmuch as he held some defensive values in the form of the ace of clubs and the queen of spades. Had he done so, North and South could have scored two spade tricks, one diamond, and one club for a 300 profit on the deal. When North passed instead, South was reluctant to defend and, reasoning that a sacrifice rated to be inexpensive, he proceeded to six diamonds which West doubled.

If North had held the lone ace of clubs, there would have been no way to defeat the slam, but after West opened a heart and East cashed his ace, there was no way to prevent the defense from scoring the setting trick in clubs and a 100 point profit on the deal.

When the hand was replayed at the other table, Peter Weichsel was seated South for the Precision Team and also opened the bidding with one diamond. West doubled and North, Tom Stuart, jumped to three diamonds. Instead of bidding one of his suits, East chose to make a cue bid of four diamonds which was designed to force partner to pick one of the majors himself.

Weichsel decided to put his opponent to a high level guess and, over East's call he carried on to five diamonds. West was leary of scoring 11 tricks on the deal and assuming that South was taking a sacrifice, he doubled for penalties. Everyone passed, but there was no way to defeat declarer. South drew trump in one round and ruffed two clubs in dummy, conceding only the two losers in hearts and clubs.

The profit for five diamonds doubled was 550 points which added to the 100 profit scored by Precision at the other table gave them a gross net of 650 or 12 International Match Points which was slightly more than half of the 23 I. M. P. margin by which they won the match.

DEAR ABBY: An unfaithful wife who had been caught in the act, wrote in part: "What's with men anyway? Are understanding, compassion and forgiveness qualities that only women possess? If you know of one man who'd be willing to sit down with an erring wife, discuss the problem, forgive her and suggest they start over, please nominate him for sainthood."

Well, my husband qualifies. He caught me in the act, not once, but three times [with the same man] and each time he forgave me, and now we have a stronger marriage than ever. MARRIED TO A SAINT

DEAR ABBY: I don't know whether this qualifies me for sainthood or not, but I did catch my wife with another man, and I forgave her. All she said in her defense was, "Well, now we're even."

She was right. NOMINEE IN TAMPA

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to nominate my husband for sainthood. After nearly 20 years of marriage I fell in love with another man [also married]. The other man's wife found out about it and raised such a stink that my husband gave up a thriving professional practice to move as far away as possible from that little community.

The other woman divorced her husband, but my husband stood by me. I am trying to make it up to him by being the best possible wife in every way. My man is one in a million. FORGIVEN IN WINONA

DEAR ABBY: So, women want men who are "understanding, compassionate and forgiving?" Well, I was married for 26 years. Then my wife left me saying, "I simply can't stand a man who is so understanding, compassionate and forgiving."

We've been divorced for five years, and since then I have treated women like dirt and they love it! EX-SAINT

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a saint with a triple halo. He not only forgave me, but at a great financial sacrifice he secured psychological counseling for me. Even as I write this I am struggling to keep from making a phone call to let "the other man" know that my husband will be out of town and I'll be available.

Counseling is expensive, but when I look at my beautiful family I realize it's worth holding my marriage together for. Besides, believe it or not, no woman ever had a better husband. STILL FIGHTING IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: The saint you are searching for is living in Houston. I was the unfaithful wife. He caught me with his best friend but he didn't get mad and try to kill anybody. He calmly walked away and came back the next day to talk things over. This wonderful man was big enough to say, "Maybe it's partly my fault. If I had paid you more attention you wouldn't need anybody else."

We both decided that we'd try to make a go of our marriage. This happened 31 years ago, and God willing, we will celebrate our 50th this June. HAPPY IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: If you are looking for a saint, look no further. I am married to him.

This man was a fighting Marine whose wife gave birth to a baby in his absence that couldn't possibly have been his. He forgave her, raised that boy as if he were his own and he never once mentioned it again. HIS WIFE

She was chief marshal at Ayden High School last year. Miss Jeffries has served as an assistant Brownie scout leader this year. She enjoys sewing, cooking, tennis playing, letter-writing, and traveling.

Last year she served on the Student Coucil. In addition, she was representative for John T. Hoggard in Wilmington's Walk for Mankind. As a varsity cheerleader and a player on both the girls basketball team and tennis team, she has contributed her share of school spirit. For two years, Miss Little has served on the annual staff. Some previous clubs she has been active in include Pep Club, School Spirit Club, Future Homemakers of America of which she was secretary her sophomore year, Glee Club, and Future Teachers of America.

She was Lt. Governor Of Civinettes last year in Wilmington. Lastly, through her high scholastic average, she has earned a place in the Beta Club and the National Honor Society, and has been chosen marshal at graduation for two consecutive years.

Miss Little will attend the University of North Carolina at Greensboro next fall. She plans to earn her Bachelor of Science and Masters degree in mathematics, and hopes to teach mathematics on the college level.

Miss Smith plans to attend Kittrell College in the fall where she will major in sociology.

During her senior year at Ayden-Grifton, Miss Smith has been a library assistant, has served as secretary of the Senior Class and the National Honor Society and copy editor for the school newspaper, "The Stampede."

The summer school program for elementary, secondary and driver training for the summer has been announced by Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools.

Details for each of the three levels have been given. These are:

—Elementary — The program will be held at the new Wahl-Coates Elementary School. At all levels, the elementary program will run for a six week period beginning Wednesday, June 7.

For the elementary program, classes will be conducted in kindergarden through grade six, with an average class size of 20 students. The new Wahl-Coates School is being used in cooperation with East Carolina University.

With the exception of a number of tuition grants funded by ESEA Title I funds, the program will be supported by the School of Education, ECU in cooperation with the Greenville City Schools.

Parents interested in enrolling their children in the summer program should contact their child's teacher or principal for enrollment details and for making a tuition grant application.

—Secondary — Arrangements for secondary school program call for a time span beginning June 8 and continuing through July 21 on a schedule that will permit students to attend class five hours daily Monday through Friday for the six week period.

This will enable students to acquire 150 hours where units of credit are involved. Class time will be from 8:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and from 10:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

Cost of the full-course program is $40. For students taking a half-unit block (or two and one half hour time period) the tuition fee is $25. Only students of grades seven and eight may enroll in half-unit courses.

— Junior High School summer program is chiefly a remedial program. Courses available are in two blocks — English - Language Arts-Social Studies; and Science-Math. Enrichment opportunities will also be provided if there is an advance registration demand for courses for this purpose.

— Senior High School courses will be of the same general scope and sequence as courses of the regular school year. All basic courses for which there is sufficient registration will be offered as new work or for the removal of deficiencies.

This will enable students to remove deficiences of the regular school year and permit students who wish to do so to retire units during the summer course, thus giving them a greater opportunity for electives in the coming school year.

Students from outside Greenville are welcome to attend on a tutition-paying basis. In such instances each student must assume responsibility for obtaining approval of his adminstrative unit and confirming arrangements with his school concerning the recognition and acceptance of any units earned.

— Driver Training and Safety Education — Although driver education is available during the regular school year at Aycock Junior High and Rose High, most students take driver training as a summer program.

The 1972 program begins on June 7 and will be open to students regularly enrolled in grades nine through twelve who are 14 and one-half years old but not older than 18 years.

The program consists of 36 hours of in-class instruction and 18 hours of in-car instruction. Of the latter, six hours will involve individual behind-the-wheel training.

Students who have already completed the classroom portion of the program will be contacted by their instructor for scheduling of the in-car instruction portion.

Students who have registered for the entire course will report to Rose High School at 8:00 a.m. on June 8.

Insofar as possible, the administration will schedule student driver training so that it will not interfere with summer school, jobs, or vacation.

'Hurricane Season' Due

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hurricane season officially begins Thursday and the relatively mild seasons of 1970 and 1971 have prompted federal agencies to urge Atlantic and Gulf coast residents to be extra cautious this year.

The swirling storms that smash inland from off the sea have taken an average of 107 lives and caused an average $142 million in property damage annually from 1915 through 1970, according to U.S. Commerce Department figures.

The Commerce Department and the National Weather Service have declared next month "Mobile Home Tie Down Month" since mobile homes are particularly vulnerable target for the 75-plus mile an hour winds.

Available for the first time this season will be storm evacuation maps prepared by the federal National Ocean Survey. The maps will show areas likely to be inundated by storm tides and the best routes for evacuation inland.

Maps are being prepared for several areas of the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, including the coast from Savannah to Charleston.

Reveals Marxist Has A Crucifix

NEW YORK (AP) — Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende Gossens, has a large wooden crucifix in the living room of his home, United Methodist Bishop Raimundo A. Valenzuela of Chile, reported on a visit here.

"I could see that the crucifix had great meaning for him," the bishop said, quoting Allende as saying:

"'The closer the churches are to God, the closer they will be to my government'."

Church Projects Need Builders

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Carpenters and other workers are being recruited by the Assemblies of God here to help build new churches in Mexico, Chile, Ecuador and Panama.

Besides carpenters, the church wants block layers, cement finishers, plumbers, painters and electricians to volunteer for a minimum of two weeks' labor on missions building projects.

Warns Sex Can Lose Its Fun

NEW YORK (AP) — If Americans continue to insist on treating sex as the most important force in a person's life, they will eventually take all the fun out of it, says a prominent Roman Catholic theologian.

The Rev. Eugene C. Kennedy, writing in Redbook magazine, says the "sex-is-everything myth" that prevails in our society is responsible for the high divorce rate and most "sexual hangups." He added:

"If we continue as we have to misrepresent sex, ultimately we will destroy its potential richness and dilute its significance. ... It will not even be, if the grim-faced generation so ardent in its pursuit gives us any evidence, much fun any more."

Bed Of Poppies To Be Uprooted

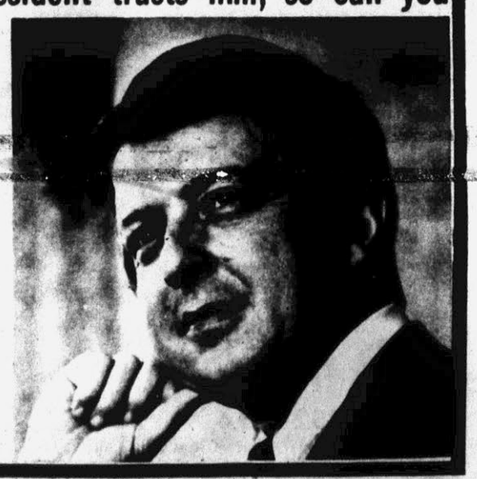

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A man who had been growing pretty, pink poppies in front of his house for years was surprised when police told him Monday they were going to uproot his flower bed.

Police had analyzed some of the poppies and found they were of the type morphine is made from.

JIM HOLSHOUSER...The President trusts him, so can you

Jim Holshouser was the first Republican State Chairman in the South to endorse Richard Nixon for the presidency in 1968. Jim Holshouser organized the Nixon [illegible] North Carolina at the Republican National Convention in 1968, while his primary opponent led the revolt to Gov. Reagan. Jim Holshouser set up the Nixon for President campaign in North Carolina in 1968. It was the first successful presidential campaign in the Tar Heel state in over 40 years. President Nixon appointed Jim Holshouser to the coveted American Revolution Bi-Centennial Commission in 1969. President Nixon trusts Jim Holshouser, so can you! Vote Holshouser on June 3.

Paid For By Committee For Holshouser

If you're sitting there with a problem a loan would solve, there's somebody at our office you ought to talk to.

Come on in any time during office hours and ask for the man who makes the loans. You'll find yourself talking to someone who thinks his main job is to make loans. Without asking a bunch of pointless questions. Or giving you the runaround while he runs things through committees.

He can give you fast service because he's the man who makes the decisions. And time is always important, especially when you're facing a tax deadline.

So if a loan will help, stop by any of the Wachovia Bank offices listed below and ask for the man who makes the loans. You could make a friend and lose a problem.
