

McGovern Is Winner In California

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Sen. George McGovern captured the crucial California primary today to cap a four-primary sweep that takes him a long way toward winning the Democratic presidential nomination.

Though the race turned out to be closer than expected, the South Dakota senator won a clear victory over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in their battle for California's 271 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Along with victories in New Jersey, New Mexico and his native South Dakota, the triumph vaulted McGovern's delegate total past the 900 mark in his drive to reach the 1,509 needed to capture his party's presidential nomination.

Humphrey, however, appeared to have done well enough in California to stay in the race and encourage those Democratic party leaders and labor chiefs who have been cool to the McGovern candidacy.

Even before it became clear that Humphrey's margin in populous Los Angeles County would be insufficient to overcome the hefty McGovern majorities in the northern part of the state and in San Diego, McGovern was claiming victory, and saying it means he'll win the Democratic nomination.

With over half of the vote counted, McGovern had 47 per cent, Humphrey had 38 per cent.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a write-in entry, ran third with 5 per cent, but his true total was unlikely to be known for several days.

Will Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to rule on the way all states except Hawaii finance their public schools.

Acting on an appeal by Texas, the court said it would review next term a ruling by a three-judge federal court in San Antonio that the current property tax system disadvantages the poor and is unconstitutional.

Thirty states lined up with Texas in seeking review. But four of their governors backed the district court.

Eventually, the case may rival in importance the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education suit that led to the desegregation of schools in Southern and border states.

In every state except Hawaii, public-school financing is based to a large degree on the local property tax. Though the states and federal government provide additional funds, the kind of education a child receives is related directly to the tax revenue from property in his district.

Board Says 'No' To School Land Price

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Board of Education voted yes, but the Board of County Commissioners said no yesterday as votes were cast on the question of whether to spend $150,000 for a 30-acre tract of land to be used as the location of a new junior high school for the city school system.

Commissioners and members of the city school board met last month to discuss the purchase price for the 30-acre site — $5,000 per acre — located between Hooker Road and Evans Street. The property, adjacent to the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and across a proposed street from the city's new 25-acre park has been under consideration for some time.

The Board of Education selected the site.

County Commissioners, however, who must approve the purchase price — not the location — have voiced concern that the $150,000 price tag for the property is too high.

Appraisals made by several firms have indicated the $5,000 per acre price is high. Two appraisers set the value of the property at $4,000 per acre while a third, giving no per-acre price said the $5,000 was "excessive in value."

The school board's own appraiser reported the property value at 135,000 or $4,500 per acre.

A joint committee was named as a result of the meeting to meet with property owners Guy and Plato Evans in an effort to have the price of the property reduced.

At the outset of yesterday's meeting, Charles Gaskins, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners told those present the joint committee had been "unable to get an decrease in the price of the land."

He then said, "As chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, I'm going to cast the one vote this board has for disapproval of the cost of the land."

John Bizzell, vice-chairman of the school board said, "We cast out vote to proceed to buy the property."

As he had done earlier, county attorney W. W. Speight said that in light of the tie vote, the matter would go before Clerk of Court H. L. Lewis for review. He said Lewis would break the tie, then the board defeated by the clerk's decision could appeal to Superior Court for relief.

A decision by Lewis is expected no later than June 13.

Commissioners and school board members scheduled a meeting for 7:30 Monday night to review the city schools budget requests for the 1972-1973 fiscal year.

Winterville's Budget OK'd

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville town board last night gave tentative approval to a $269,650 proposed budget for the 1972-1973 fiscal year, and set the tax rate at $1.25 per $100 valuation.

The tentative budget is some $26,550 more than the budget for the current fiscal year while the $1.25 per $100 valuation tax rate remains the same.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said the largest increase in the proposed budget is in the area of street improvements.

Final adoption of the budget has been scheduled for the July meeting of the board. The budget will be available for inspection at the town hall for the next 30 days.

The board scheduled a public hearing for June 19 at 8 p.m. on the question of adopting an ordinance establishing the one-mile extra-territorial boundaries for the municipality.

The extra-territorial boundaries are being established in order to give the municipal planning board planning and zoning power for one-mile outside the municipal limits.

In other action Monday night, the board approved the firm of Worsley, Farley and Prescott of Greenville to audit the town's books for the 1972-1973 fiscal year; approved the annual certification of firemen for the Firemen's Pension Fund; appointed Elwood Nobles as municipal representative and board member E. C. Hines as governmental representative on the Mid-East Economic Development Commission; gave Mayor Walter Dail authority to move to revoke a building permit issued to Carolina Model Homes for a dwelling on Blount Street; and approved attendance by Waste Water Treatment plant operator Randy Eastwood at a training course at Wayne Community College in Goldsboro.

2-1 Ratio

LOS ANGELES (AP)

The bitterly debated Environmental Initiative which would have put strict anti-pollution controls into effect in California was beaten at the polls after a fierce opposition campaign led by business and labor.

An opponent of the measure, ballot Proposition 9, said today however, that the issue could spur business groups into better environmental protections. Backers of the measure said they didn't really lose and vowed to try again.

Incomplete returns in Tuesday's primary showed the measure losing by a ratio of 2-1.

The initiative would have banned DDT and related longlasting pesticides from California, removed lead from gasoline by July 1, 1976, outlawed offshore oil and gas drilling and put a five-year moratorium on construction of nuclear power plants in the nation's most populous state.

The controversial measure rated high in the opinion polls earlier this year as sponsors called it the environment's best chance.

Price Of Gold Sharply Jumps

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold jumped nearly $2 to a new peak of $64 an ounce at the opening of Europe's free bullion markets today, and the U.S. dollar weakened on most foreign exchanges.

Dealers said the big jump was due in part to the shortage of metal offered for sale which drove the price up more than $2 Tuesday. But there was also evidence that speculators were in the market, believing the price would go still higher.

Farmville Blue Laws Erased At Board Meet

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—Farmville's blue laws were rescinded last night by local commissioners. The town will abide by state law on Sunday selling.

The Commissioners took this action after a request by Bill Ippock of Greenville that he be allowed to keep open a convenience store he is opening here soon except during church hours. The commissioners agreed, saying they did not want a tax-paying Farmville merchant penalized by having potential customers drive just outside the city limits to make Sunday purchases.

Cedric Davis told the commissioners of a discrepancy in a 1927 and a 1918 map of property on South Main street where Lee's Warehouse burned last year. The present owners bought the land in 1927 thinking their purchase included the 20-foot-wide alley. Davis said he would bring a petition from the owners to the town planning board and the commissioners to have the alley withdrawn from dedication.

The Commissioners discussed the much-delayed paving of Barrett Street and asked the town administrator to let Barrus Construction Company know today that if the project is not begun in the next week they will get someone else to do the job. An ordinance was enacted prohibiting the keeping of any kind of livestock in town. Owners of livestock already here will be made to comply with previous rules of sanitation and no new animals like horses, cows, goats, sheep, and poultry may be brought in.

An ordinance defining the Molotov cocktail and prohibiting the possession or transportation of such a weapon was adopted. Leroy Bass, Joe Joyner, and Jim Hockaday were named to the Board of Elections for the next election only.

The Board agreed to go ahead with a project to provide water for a residential area across from the Collins and Aikman plant here, where many residents have been having to haul in all drinking water for several months. Some $4,000 could have been saved by waiting until funds from an EDA grant for water improvements is allocated, but the commissioners agreed that the urgency of the situation warrants the additional expenditure and that it can be made up in double tap-in fees for these out-of-town residents.

The Commissioners agreed to meet this morning to formally apply for the right to hold an election on whether to issue bonds of $150,000 for water improvements. The request had to be presented to town clerk Andy Martin before the commissioners could act on it. The election may be held 40 days after the application is approved.

The Board agreed to extend the billing period for water and lights for "reliable residents" who are out of town through a billing period and who let the town know of their absence. There have been cases of the town's turning off electricity for failure to pay in residents' absence and much damage being done to frozen food. The matter will be left up to Town Administrator Carl Beaman.

The town is holding firm on its offer of $1,000 an acre for approximately 30 acres of land on the Stantonburg Road near here for a town cemetery.

Shortened List Of Pitt Delegates Is Submitted

A shortened list of delegates and alternates to the State and Congressional District Conventions and then submitted earlier from Pitt County has been sent to the State Democratic Executive for certification.

Henry Oglesby of Grifton, Pitt Democratic chairman, reported that he was notified following submission of the first list that one seat per vote at the conventions will be provided and that seating is not adequate to handle that 65 delegates and 51 alternates selected from Pitt on May 27.

The county lists exceeded the allotted number of 43 because several precincts split up their votes into halves and thirds among more than one representative.

Oglesby said that delegates to the district convention are: Robert Jones Jr., J. J. Brown, James Williams, Charles McLawhorn, Harold Watson, Ella Morgan, Mark Owens, Granville Grant, Harold Rose, Mrs. Jean Williams, Mrs. Lloyd Wiggins, Alonza Price, Walter B. Jones, Leroy Redden, Robert D. Rouse Jr., John B. Lewis Jr., Mrs. Mary Johnson and Miss Jane Darden.

Also selected delegates are: Pattie Leary, Rufus Hardee, Elvy Forrest, Willis Tripp, Mrs. Bruce Hemby, Jack Spain, David Reid, Rev. Charles

Mulholland, C. W. Everett Sr., B. B. Felder, William B. Moore, H. Horton Rountree, A. A. Fahrner, Kenneth Dews, and Miss Rosa Lee Barrett.

Others are: Vernon White, Joan Bowen, Miss Janice Hardison, Charles O'H. Little, Clarence Gray, Don DeMyer, Mrs. Marilyn Steele, Artemis Kares, Mildren McGrath and Mrs. Beverly Reid.

The list of delegates to the state convention is the same with the addition of Miss Jan Wylie, John T. Williams, Linda Medlin, Richard McLawhorn and Tom Long, and the deletion of DeMyer, Mrs. Steele, Kares, Mrs. McGrath, and Mrs. Reid.

Rouse Denies Resigning GOP Chairmanship; Is Discussing Future Role

RALEIGH (AP) — State Republican Chairman Frank Rouse, denying reports he had resigned, met in Winston-Salem today with national GOP officials to discuss his future role in Tar Heel politics and the upcoming national convention.

Rouse, who took a leave of absence three weeks ago to work for defeated gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner, told the Raleigh Times in a telephone interview that his resignation had been requested by gubernatorial nominee Jim Holshouser.

"I haven't resigned," Rouse said.

Asked if he would resign, Rouse said: "No comment. I don't want to discuss this matter further. I will answer questions at a news conference. He declined to state when a news conference would be held.

A Holshouser aide, Tenney Deane, said in a statement released in Charlotte early today that Holshouser had "accepted the publicly offered" resignation of Rouse, a Kinston contractor. Deane said Holshouser had offered Rouse another party job.

Rouse said today he was not offered another job. "He doesn't have anything to offer," Rouse said.

William T. Graham of Winston-Salem, one of two persons who opposed Rouse for the GOP chairmanship last fall, said Rouse and Tom Evans of the national Republican Committee were meeting with other GOP leaders at Winston-Salem's Smith-Reynolds Airport today.

"I think they're meeting to try to save Rouse's job," Graham said. "If Evans says we ought to keep Rouse in the interest of party unity, we'll take him to the mat."

Rouse said, in announcing his leave of absence, that he was doing so on the advice of Evans. Rouse originally said he had decided to resign so he could work for Gardner, who lost the nomination in Saturday's runoff by 1,564 votes.

Holshouser said early Sunday he expected Rouse would be replaced as party chairman.

Rouse's action created a stir in the state party. Chairmen traditionally remain neutral in primary elections.

Big North Viet Railroad Yard Wrecked By Bombs

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Jets wrecked a big North Vietnamese railroad marshalling yard and highway bridge less than 25 miles from the Chinese border, military spokesmen reported today.

The raid Tuesday was the closest to North Vietnam's northern frontier since the full-scale bombing campaign was resumed on April 6.

The bridge 10 miles southwest of Lang Son was knocked out with "smart" bombs guided to the target by laser light rays, the spokesmen said.

Another flight of Air Force Phantoms dropping laser bombs attacked the Bag Giang power plant 25 miles northeast of Hanoi for the second time in a week. The raid June 1 damaged the plant and its support buildings, spokesmen said, while the strikes Tuesday scored direct hits on the generator buildings and plant. But cloud cover prevented determination of the extent of damage, the spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command said U.S. pilots flew more than 270 strikes across North Vietnam

Tuesday and destroyed or damaged five other bridges and 61 supply water craft.

Pilots from the carrier Saratoga reported destroying the east span of the Yen Lap railroad bridge 29 miles southeast of Hanoi and said they set fire to the Tieu Giao petroleum storage area 30 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital.

In South Vietnam, meanwhile, North Vietnamese forces made a series of attacks northwest of Saigon.

Colonial Crafts Exhibit

Lady Judge Changes Her Attire From Blue Jeans

SALIDA, Colo. (UPI)—Holly Leewaye likes to wear blue jeans and T-shirts, but she doesn't do it often any more. She doesn't think it's fitting attire for a judge.

She's been this Rocky Mountain town's municipal judge since April, and was as surprised as many of the townfolk when she got the post.

First of all, there aren't many female judges around. Secondly, there aren't many—if any—as young. She's only 20.

Mrs. Leewaye, who graduated from the local high school less than two years ago, asked the city council for the job last March when the previous judge retired.

She met all the requirements—she had a high school degree and was a registered voter—but she wasn't sure the city council would accept the idea of a young woman as municipal judge.

She had tried college but didn't like that. She left Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo after a month because "all they were doing was putting out educated idiots."

Despite her fears, Mrs. Leewaye made the trip to city hall and submitted her application "to see how it would go."

When the council met last April to decide on a new judge, the vote was split 3-3. Half the council voted for Mrs. Leewaye. The other half cast ballots for an older candidate, a man.

Mayor Ed Touber cast the ballot to break the tie. He voted for Mrs. Leewaye. "I just about died," she said.

Mrs. Leewaye's only previous work experience was as a reporter for the local newspaper, the Salida Mountain Mail, but that didn't stop her from digging right into her new job—which involves mostly traffic cases.

She thought the job should be more than a collector of parking tickets so one of her first accomplishments was to install a parking ticket collection box in the window of her office. That frees her for other duties.

The trouble has been there really isn't much for a part-time municipal judge to do in this community of nearly 5,000. "It's been pretty interesting so far, but I do wish things would move a little bit faster," she said.

Mrs. Leewaye, a native of Colorado Springs who married in November, 1970, shortly after she gave up college, said she has had to change her lifestyle somewhat.

She has given up the blue jeans and T-shirts for more conservative clothing since becoming judge.

"I've got to do a good job since everybody is looking at me to see whether or not I blow it," Mrs. Leewaye added.

Mayor Touber said he has had no reason to regret the way he voted. "Mrs. Leewaye is doing a fine job and will gain more experience as she goes along," he said.

According To Amy Vanderbilt: Conventions Are Still Needed

By PEACE MOFFAT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Many people think anything goes now, but this is not so. There is a need for certain conventions. And no matter what changes occur in the world, the human need for appreciation goes on."

So says Amy Vanderbilt, whose word is law in American etiquette, but who is so determined not to let etiquette lag behind the changing times that she has revised her monumental work on the subject, combining the traditional customs with the new ones.

In the bright office of her 100-year-old brownstone home here, Miss Vanderbilt discussed the recently published "Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette." A warm, unpretentious woman, she makes etiquette sound as though it can—and should—be a part of one's everyday life.

"I feel there's more honesty now in social interchange, and this is good," she says. "But I think the danger is that we'll go too much the other way."

Miss Vanderbilt says she is constantly astounded at the points of etiquette people aren't aware of. "Etiquette used to be part of social folklore—things everybody was just supposed to know," she says. "But now people have to be taught—whether at their mother's knee, through observation, or painful experiences. And it isn't just a matter of kindness and consideration either. All the kindness in the world will not get you through the eating of an artichoke."

Among the common mistakes people make, this expert points out, are improper table manners—such as picking up with the fingers chicken cooked in sauce, or forgetting to wipe one's mouth before sipping a glass of wine; typing a signature on a letter instead of writing it out; women using an incorrect signature; failing to reply to kindness or a gift as promptly as possible; and thinking that widows do not use their late husband's name.

Miss Vanderbilt says 50 per cent of the questions she receives in the mail deal with weddings. "It's a time of great emotional involvement," she points out, "and people who have never thought about etiquette before do then."

While in favor of some changes in weddings, Miss Vanderbilt says she has been cautioning young people against forgetting all the conventions. "I have been getting mail from young people who were married in some fanciful fashion, and who feel cheated and want a wedding in church now," she observes. "I have to say to them that from a social viewpoint you really can't do it."

Miss Vanderbilt calls huge weddings "awful" and she has been inveighing lately against huge showers. "Showers should be for a few intimate friends," she points out, adding that there is more interest now in having joint showers for the bride and groom. "Brides are no longer isolated from the groom," she says, "and besides, they're probably living together anyway."

The author says attitudes towards entertainment have changed too. "I don't like to see things done slap-dash," she says, "but with a lack of household help, you don't have to entertain in kind any more. More and more people are having buffets, using student help or caterers."

Miss Vanderbilt says she does all she can to keep up-to-date—pointing out that having children herself, it is difficult to be rigid.

"For instance," she says, "it is acceptable now for young people of opposite sexes to travel together." But she has words of caution for a couple who live together without the benefit of a marriage license, and decide to have a child. "They're running counter to tradition, and eventually will come to the point where they have to come to terms with it. This will be at some point where legality is involved—such as the child entering school."

And in her book, she notes that young people who engage in premarital sex have a responsibility not to bring unwanted children into the world.

To keep up with her subject, Miss Vanderbilt says she reads all she can—including articles in the medical and psychiatric field. "I have great files on VD and group sex," she says laughing. "Nothing surprises me, and nothing shocks me."

Decorating Class Has A Bonus: Students Get Tips

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Raymond Boorstein of Great Neck, L.I., might sometimes be suspicious that the women who enroll in his class in interior design concepts are trying to get their homes decorated free. The possibility of this decorating bonus no doubt does motivate some to enroll in his class, which is a part of the Manhattan Adult Education Program.

"But I tell them all that only nine homes of students will have a chance to be decorated, and we still have a waiting list for the course," Boorstein says, happily.

The idea of the student's decorating tour to each other's homes is in the interest of practical experience. Nine lucky students with different decorating needs get to have their homes discussed, disarranged and rearranged during the 10-hour course. Some become skeptical that their decorating acumen is being challenged, but most are willing to accept the diagnosis of students and professor.

Decorating problems are pretty general so the entire class profits in some way from each home. There are living rooms with too little wall space, new homes that do not accommodate furniture bought for a previous larger home, small bedrooms that must be made functional, and color coordination problems.

Students have carte blanche when they are at a home. Each takes her turn moving about anything in the room, and at one home a piano may have been moved at least four times.

There is a lesson in just about every move made, good or bad, Boorstein comments. A student may move a couch to the middle of a room where it is all wrong because of its size, another may arrange all upholstered pieces on one side of a room and all wooden pieces on the other, another imbalanced idea. When all the students have done their decorating thing in a room, Boorstein shows why something will not work and how a plan might be improved.

"In trying to put rooms together students often neglect to consider the physical characteristics, and may suggest standard solutions, such as putting a couch with two chairs on a long wall. There are more functional and decorative solutions to such a problem, although there aren't any rules that can't be broken," he says.

Boorstein chooses the students homes on the basis of the variety of decorating problems available. Houses with little furniture cannot be used for good illustrations. And he likes

Homemaker's Haven

By Evelyn Spangler
Pitt Home Agent

I have a friend who says she keeps her dishwasher use-care booklet and guarantee next to her marriage manual and certificate! I wouldn't say I value a dishwasher quite that much, but they certainly are a dream come true for many homemakers—men and women, married or single.

A dishwasher can save the average homemaker about one hour a day, 300 hours a year, or more than 45 free 8-hour working days annually. (At 50 cents an hour for your time, the dishwasher could be paid for in two years!)

Even though you may have had your dishwasher for years, it's still wise to occasionally reread your use-care booklet. It will actually be more meaningful to you now than it was when you first got your dishwasher. Here are a few reminders:

Hot Water Setting: 140 degrees — 160 degrees
Detergent: Soft water — ½ dispenser
Hard water — full dispenser

Dinnerware: To preserve patterns, dishware containing acid foods (salad dressings, vinegar, lemon, etc.) or salty foods (gravies, sauces, butter, etc.) should be rinsed off and washed as soon after use as possible.

Stainless steel: Brighten occasionally by cleaning with a non-abrasive powdered cleanser.

Aluminum: Avoid contact with undissolved detergent. For discoloration, use a non-abrasive powdered cleanser. To brighten in the dishwasher (after regular cycle), fill dispenser with cream of tartar, use WASH cycle only, remove, and polish with soap-filled steel wool pads. Badly tarnished—also use PRE-WASH. (Do not put colored aluminum ware or ice cube trays in dishwasher. The color will gradually fade and the wax coating on the tray will be quickly washed off).

Plasticware: Place on top shelf away from heating element.

Glassware: Etching may be caused by the use of excess detergent with soft water or with pre-rinsed dishes.

ROACH CONTROL

Boric acid powder—slow-acting, but persistent. Fill mustard or ketchup squeeze-type containers. Force liberal amounts into all hidden nesting areas.

variety of furniture—antiques, junk, commercial pieces.

Women are usually confused by colors and how to use them or how to use color to reflect their personalities, the decorator observes. Some subdued types may need a conservative decorating team, but others may need the lift that can be acquired with red or yellow. Primary colors are better than pale greens for children's bedrooms.

'Dropout Wife' Article Brings About Changes In Life Of Wanda Adams

By PAUL ANDERSON
SEATTLE (UPI)—Life isn't quite the same for Wanda Adams these days now that millions of people have seen her face on the cover of a national magazine and read the intimate details of the breakup of her 14-year marriage.

"DROPOUT WIFE—A Striking Current Phenomenon," was the headline on the cover of the March 17 issue of Life. Inside, the feature article told how Wanda, the mother of three, had "walked out on her family to begin a new life of her own."

Wanda Adams, 35, now lives with her 10-year-old daughter, Susan, and another woman in a large, dilapidated house across the street from a park. Her husband, Don, and their two sons, Christopher, 7, and Patrick, 6, still live in the family home.

Privacy A Commodity
"It really has changed my life. There's no question about that," she said of the magazine article and subsequent stories in newspapers and on radio and television. "It's really hard to have any private life at all. I feel that now I have to make an effort to live the way I want to live. I get so many requests and offers to do things."

One of the most interesting aspects of the reaction to Wanda Adams' personal story has been the lack of reaction from leaders or members of the women's liberation movement.

"I haven't heard anything from anybody in the movement," she said. "I guess part of it is that you just don't hear from people who support you. I've heard from lots of people who aren't necessarily in the movement. But I haven't heard from feminists."

Although she has enjoyed the opportunity to reach such a large audience with her views, the "Dropout Wife" said she now realizes the drawbacks of fame and can understand what celebrities mean when they talk about a lack of privacy.

"Sometimes when I go into a store to buy something I'll notice that the checker or clerk will go off and point me out to someone else. It doesn't always happen but I feel people are looking at me. People sometimes just come up to me and start talking."

Strangers Ask Advice
"The other thing is that I get telephone calls from people who have read the article. They think they know me from reading that article because it was personal. But they don't seem to remember that I don't know them."

"So they will just come out with all of this very personal stuff and then I'll have to say, 'Whoa, I really don't know you and I can't give you advice on all this.'"

"Another thing is that I get so much hate mail and obscene phone calls that you get to the point where you're afraid to open the mail or afraid to open the door. People just come to the house. Not necessarily people who are against you but people who just want to see who you are. It's been really weird."

Reaction to the article has taken many forms, including a petition drive to have her fired from her job as family life instructor at North Seattle Community College.

Partly because of the controversy, she said she was considering leaving her job of training day care workers when the government contract financing the program expires in the fall.

She said she might accept an offer to go on a lecture tour and to use the proceeds from the lectures to open her own school or day care center.

Emotional Exhaustion
"The biggest problem for me right now is that I'm just feeling inundated with everything," she said. "It's been too much. I've had too many negative comments and people asking for things, even just my time. Everybody has got just so much within them. You can just give and give and give until there is nothing left of you."

"So my biggest concern right now is trying to preserve my own head."

"All of a sudden I've become an expert on something. I've become some kind of an expert on something and I'm not even sure what it is. Marriage or what's happening to marriage—I guess that's it. And women's liberation. I'm suddenly an expert on that, too."

"It's kind of a heavy thing to find yourself in, especially when you really don't want it. Because, I certainly am not an expert. I'm not even sure what an expert is, or who is one."

The story told how Wanda Adams had become increasingly frustrated with the conventional woman's role in marriage to the point of finally moving into her own home and starting a new life. It was, to some eyes, embarrassingly frank.

"Would I do it all again? Yes. I think I would do it again," she answered. (Long pause) "Well, I really don't know if I would. It's hard to say. I really just don't know."

'Sex Pot' At 50 Livens The Office

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I work in a labor union office which employs six women and even more men.

My problem is one of the women who works here. She is past 50, weighs about 140 pounds and not much over five feet tall. She insists upon wearing her skirts so short, they barely cover the essentials.

Outside of the fact that mini skirts are no longer fashionable, I think going around like that in a business office is out of line. Others have mentioned that longer skirts are now "in," but she doesn't take the hint.

This same woman keeps on her desk a coffee mug with "SEX POT" painted across it.

I would appreciate your comments, as I am one of the other women who works here.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: If there are no guidelines as to proper dress in your office, perhaps there ought to be. That 50-year-old "sex pot" sounds like the office character. Wouldn't the place be dull without her?

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor gave my daughter a wedding present that has caused a real stir. It's a used broken toaster. She explained that her husband had bought her a new one and she wanted my daughter to have her old one which "wouldn't take much to put it in good working order." [And this right after my daughter had given this neighbor a lovely new baby gift.]

We are wondering if we should acknowledge this used, broken toaster with a used thank you note. Or should we just ignore it?

WONDERING IN DEL RIO, TEXAS

DEAR WONDERING: Your daughter should acknowledge the toaster with an unused thank-you note. [And if she can't use it, the GOODWILL can.]

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "WONDERING" about allowing her 10-year-old daughter and 7-year-old son to sleep in the same room reeked of Victorianism.

Yes, there is a generation gap, and it's between you and less hysterical parents who realize that the surest way to lead children into clandestine experimentation is to keep the sexes separated and watch them like hawks so there is no dirty playing around.

[Signed] "Parents of an 11-year-old girl and a 7-year-old boy who are still sleeping in the same room. Tak, tak!"

DEAR PARENTS: I replied that I hoped that children who were old enough to be curious about the opposite sex would ask their parents questions and receive satisfying answers. Further, that ALL children will do a certain amount of exploring and experimenting when they get the chance, but I wouldn't bed them down together past the age of 5. It still goes. [P.S. If it's possible for an 11-year-old girl to sleep apart from her brother, I recommend it.]

DEAR ABBY: For your information, the word "Reverend" is not a title, it is an adjective. And as such, the article "the" should always precede it, followed by the man's Christian name or his initials, then his surname, i. e. "The Reverend John Jones" or "The Reverend Mr. Jones." Reverend is used just as "Honorable" is. One would never say to the mayor, "Hello, Honorable."

Some clergymen are ignorant of proper grammar and refer to themselves as "Reverend Jones." This is a deplorable vulgarity.

Sincerely,
ANON: TERRE HAUTE, IND.

More N.C. Politicking Ahead

Three races in Saturday's second primary election furnished interesting results.

The Republican campaign for the gubernatorial nomination was bruising and may leave scars that will be difficult to conceal.

Few would have thought a few months ago that Jim Holshouser would eventually beat out Jim Gardner for the Republican gubernatorial nomination; yet when the final totals came in that was the way it was.

Jim Gardner had been one of the bright spots in Republican politics for some time. He had toppled the mighty Harold Cooley for a seat in Congress. Then four years ago he challenged Bob Scott for governor and ran well. But here in the second primary was Gardner edged out by Holshouser.

Skipper Bowles was far behind when the campaigning began on the Democratic side of the slate. However, he presented a new image to the Democratic voters and made frequent television appearances, steadily making himself known. Pat Taylor had run on his 17 years experience in state government. This was not enough to gain him victory in the first primary and a new image in the second primary failed to change the picture. Bowles was the victor.

The victory of Nick Galifianakis over Sen. B. Everett Jordan was another indication of the restlessness of the voters. Galifianakis ran as the youth candidate challenging the aged. It was enough to give him easy victories in both the first and second primaries.

It is well to remember that the election is not over in North Carolina. In years gone by the ones who would occupy high office were generally settled in the Democratic primary; however it is obvious the Republican party has come along and they will be conducting a serious campaign between now and November.

Galifianakis will be opposed by Jesse Helms, a television commentator with wide appeal. Bowles opponent, Jim Holshouser has gained respect in the Legislature and he has shown that he can be a vote getter.

The Republican gubernatorial campaign was bruising, which shows that the GOP is taking its politics seriously in this state. At the same time some of those bruises remain and it will take an effort by the winners to heal them.

As for the Democrats no burning issues seemed to arise in the senatorial and the gubernatorial races. The New York Times called both races bland. The races were carried out in gentlemanly fashion so it should be less difficult to get the opposing factions together.

There is definitely more politicking ahead for Tar Heels as the campaigns now head for the general election in November.

Both 'Losers' In Final Race

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Skipper Bowles and Jim Holshouser are not very much alike but they share at least two things in common — they won races the experts said they would lose and they covet the same job.

When it comes to political upsets, Holshouser's win over Republican Jim Gardner has to rank as the hit of the year. Most people who dabble in politics had awarded the race to Gardner months ago.

Holshouser didn't see it that way. He had been running for Governor for several years and had quietly done a beautiful job of lining up support.

Gardner people made a mistake early in the campaign. They looked at the way Gardner had crushed John Stickley in the Republican gubernatorial primary in 1968 and figured Holshouser would be just about as easy.

But the reasoning was faulty. Stickley, while a capable man, didn't know the ABCs of politics. Holshouser is well versed on the subject. Gardner played it cool during the first primary, because his pollster was predicting a healthy victory. Holshouser stayed on the attack.

And during the runoff, Gardner campaigned from day one like he was behind. Holshouser then played the role as statesman.

Holshouser went into the gubernatorial campaign with an image problem. Even though most people conceded that he discussed issues intelligently and understood state government quite well, he was too "boyish" looking to win a primary for Governor.

By defeating the toughest opponent his party could offer, Holshouser has laid that problem to rest. He is his party's number one horse and people now know that he can win a state-wide race.

Skipper Bowles had a different problem and pollsters refer to it as "voter identification." People across the state didn't know Bowles from the Battleship North Carolina. Bowles had to correct that problem with a massive and expensive TV campaign but the opposition still didn't take him seriously.

Pat Taylor's poll, for a long, long time, showed him with an overwhelming lead over Bowles in the Democratic chase for Governor. The Taylor poll was encouraging in every way. It said Bob Morgan supporters favored Taylor over Bowles. It said a high percentage of Tar Heel voters liked and respected Gov. Scott.

Bowles' pollster was a dude out of Michigan by the name of Walter DeVries. Bowles lived by what the man said. Early polls showed Robert Morgan leading in the Governor's race, with Taylor second and Bowles a not very healthy third. Morgan got out of the picture and Bowles' stock began to rise.

About two weeks before the May 6 primary, the momentum in the campaign had clearly switched to Bowles. The Taylor people knew it. It was felt that Bowles' pledge not to raise taxes had caught on in a big way. Also, voters were looking for new faces and Bowles offered that.

After Bowles won the first primary, Taylor came out swinging for round two. He disassociated himself from Gov. Scott. He made tax proposals of his own. He said Bowles was being driven by a huge political machine. And Taylor won the endorsements of Reginald Hawkins and Wilbur Hobby, who were defeated in the first primary.

Bowles became itchy. He wanted to fight. But his experts told him to cool it. A DeVries poll that came back the Monday before the runoff showed Bowles with 45 per cent of the vote, Taylor with 28 and the rest undecided.

Bowles followed his game plan almost to the letter and won.

Not many years ago, a Democrat in Bowles' position could be assured of winning the election. But not now.

Holshouser—and the Bowles people know this—has an excellent chance of winning in November.

Tar Heel Democrats are quietly worried about what the national picture will do to state politics in November. Suppose the Democrats run George McGovern against Richard Nixon for President? Would Nixon win a sweeping victory in North Carolina? What effect would the national ticket have on the Governor's race?

Holshouser will start off the underdog but that seems to be a plus rather than a minus in present day politics. It appears that Holshouser vs. Bowles is going to be most interesting.

Nixon Hurts In California

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
LOS ANGELES

President Nixon's key supporters here, newly concerned about carrying his home state, are confronting a long-deferred problem: how to shunt aside Gov. Ronald Reagan in the California Presidential campaign without offending him and his followers.

Reagan has been indispensable to the President in smothering anti-Nixon stirrings among right-wing Republicans. But his general popularity is so low that Nixon operatives here have not changed their view he reported eight months ago, that the governor should lie low in California this autumn. Thus, they would prefer Reagan to campaign mostly in the South, Southwest and Midwest, where he remains a Republican folk hero.

The trouble is that nobody has bothered to tell Reagan. When we mentioned to Reagan that some Republicans would rather have him out of the state, he seemed genuinely shocked. "I never heard that," the governor said. "Who wants me out?"

While acknowledging that he would travel elsewhere occasionally, Reagan added with emphasis he would be much in evidence in California campaigning for Mr. Nixon.

What makes Reagan's role so critical is that California does not match the general Republican euphoria. Secret Republican polls give Mr. Nixon only a bare edge here today at the peak of his popularity, and realistic Republicans expect a close race.

The reasons are many. To begin with, Mr. Nixon has never been personally popular in his home state. Defense and aerospace layoffs have hurt him. California Democrats have registered over 1 million additional voters. A statewide vote on legalizing marijuana provides an extra voting incentive for anti-Nixon youth.

Moreover, Republican politicians have been uneasy spectators at the dramatic McGovern-Humphrey Democratic Presidential primary, gaining new respect for Sen. George McGovern as a shrewd and skillful campaigner with a California grass roots tide rising for him. Nobody in the Nixon operation here any longer thinks McGovern is a pushover.

Mr. Nixon's California campaign against the conservative protest candidacy of Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio, his only opponent in Tuesday's Republican primary, has been quiescent; no television or radio commercials have been purchased. Rather, the campaign has quietly concentrated on keeping the California right loyal to the President.

It has been almost completely successful. San Francisco banker Leland Kaiser, a 1968 Nixon money-raiser, is the only major defector to Ashbrook. For example, Joseph Crosby, a long-time supporter of conservative causes, not only backs Mr. Nixon but resided from the United Republicans of California (UROC), a rightist organization, when it endorsed Ashbrook.

Not so many conservative Republicans would have stayed loyal to Mr. Nixon were it not for Reagan's intrepid defense of the President's diplomatic initiatives in the Communist world. Similarly, the White House counts on the governor to mobilize the Republican right, the party's most prolific source of both funds and volunteers, for the general election. But some moderate Republicans feel Reagan and Lyn Nofziger, the governor's former press secretary and now operating head of the California Nixon campaign, expend too much effort on the right. The moderates contend that in a Nixon-McGovern the horrible alternative.

Actually, apprehension by moderates that Nofziger would freeze them out of the Nixon campaign has proved unfounded. For instance, Nofziger selected Assemblyman William Bagley, an aggressive liberal Republican, to represent Mr. Nixon in a joint appearance with Ashbrook. The com-

No Dividend From Peace

WASHINGTON — The day after President Nixon gave his report to Congress on his trip to the Soviet Union, I went over to see my friend Hannibal Stone, president of the Association for a Permanent Military-Industrial Complex.

Because the President has announced agreement on the freeze of nuclear weapons with the Soviets, I expected Hannibal to be depressed. Instead, I found him euphoric.

"Hannibal," I said, "How can you be smiling when President Nixon and the Russians are talking about disarmament? Surely this is a blow to the Military-Industrial Complex and all it stands for."

"Wrong," Hannibal said, handing me a cigar. "This is the best thing that could happen to us."

"I don't understand," I said, as he lit my cigar with a Minuteman missile cigarette lighter.

"Russia and the United States have agreed to limit anti-ballistic missiles. They have also agreed to freeze land-based and submarine-based intercontinental missiles at the level now in operation. If it works, they may come to new agreements to limit arms production on other weapons now being made. This means we will have to work twice as hard to develop new weapons that aren't covered by the arms agreements."

"You mean we're not going to save any money by the signing of the arms treaty?"

"Au contraire," Hannibal said. "We will have to spend more money now for defense than ever before."

"Dammit, Hannibal," I said. "I was hoping for a peace dividend."

"Forget the peace dividend," Hannibal said. "In order for the Joint Chiefs of Staff to assure us that we have adequate protection in spite of the arms accord, we're going to have to spend at least another $20 billion in new weaponry — stuff that hasn't even been dreamed of yet."

I knew the President's speech was too good to be true.

"You must remember," Hannibal said, "the Military-Industrial Complex makes very little money once it is in full production on a weapon. By then everyone knows exactly what the weapon is going to cost, and we can't monkey around with the figures."

"But when we're asked to develop a new weapon, no one can put a price tag on it, and the longer it doesn't work the more money we can ask for to develop it."

"Give me a contract for a weapon no one understands, and I'll give you twice the profits that I would on a weapon that has proved itself in the field."

"Gosh darn, Hannibal," I said. "I thought one of the reasons the President went to Moscow was to cut down on the spiraling inflation and wasteful money both countries were spending on weapons."

"Maybe he did," Hannibal said. "But the fact is that at this very moment members of the Soviet military-industrial complex are at their drafting boards working on new weapons which are not part of the accords. We can't let the Russians get ahead of us on these weapons" or we will lose the military edge to the other superpower."

"But you don't even know

Mixed College Impact

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — My two teen-agers are home from their first year at college, neither much the worse from their initial exposure to the throes of higher education.

Each has gained something from the experience, but on the whole I would say that Lady Dottie, our 14-year-old cat, benefited more than my daughter Tracy Ann, who will be 19 this month.

They were both students at Windham, a small coed college idyllically situated in the green hills of Putney, Vt.

To a middle-aged adult such as myself, who got a little lost sometimes while attending a large Midwestern state university, Windham is the post card image of what a small modern, progressive college should look like.

In its pleasant atmosphere Lady Dottie flourished mightily. Although she cut every class and set a perfect nonattendance record, I would say she learned more than any other freshman at the place this year.

She left our apartment home last September a shy and socially awkward overweight maiden.

She has returned an accomplished woman of the world, completely at home in drawing room, field or forest. Roaming the Vermont woodlands has given her a new confidence in herself. She is thin and beautiful and imperious—and somewhat annoyed at being forced to return to the tame indoor city life of her youth.

"I guess that Lady Dottie got more out of college than I did," Tracy said. "She's hardly afraid of anything anymore. She's popular with the students, she has fought and whipped two dogs, and made friends with two more. She likes it up there."

But Lady Dottie didn't go to hell as a result of the freedoms that modern colleges now allow. She never learned to smoke a reefer, and she turned an ever deaf ear to the mid-night invitations of Vermont's Rotarians of the 57th district will meet in annual convention in Greenville next May. It was revealed at the regular meeting of the local club last night. The convention will bring to the city between five hundred to one thousand delegates from all sections of the district and it was indicated that between three hundred to four hundred rooms would be required to take care of them.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners, meeting in regular monthly session at the court house here yesterday, agreed to furnish lighting accommodations for the union services to be held on the court house lawn each Sunday night during the summer.

Security Salesmen Peak Early

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A popular although dying myth about the securities salesman is that he is at least middle-aged, matured by experience and infused with the wisdom that only years can provide.

Now a survey by the New York Stock Exchange destroys what is left of the myth. It shows that salesmen peak between the ages of 31 and 35, generally after only nine years' experience. After that it's a toboggan slide.

Many investors will say that the statistics merely confirm what they already knew. The gunslingers, the glamour boys of the spectacular and speculative 1960s were mainly young men, they say, and to a great extent this is true.

Nevertheless, neither Wall Street nor any other money institution likes to promote the image of untested youth. Youth is frivolous, age is responsible. Youth is sincere but it is wisdom that wins in the money game.

The study involved a sampling from the 50,950 registered representatives approved by the NYSE to sell securities. Only those who sell at the retail level were measured; institutional salesmen were excluded.

Median gross production, or income earned for the firm, was $35,200 for salesmen in the age 22 to 26 category. It rose to $44,600 among salesmen aged 27 to 30 and reached a high of $71,100 between ages 31 and 35.

After that the slide was swift: From ages 36 to 39, median production was $52,100, falling to $51,600 in the 40 to 49 category, and to $39,200 in the 50 and over grouping.

While methods of paying commissions vary from one firm to another, the net income to the salesman who grosses $50,000 might be about $15,000 or so. And to earn this he might have to sell $5 million of listed stocks.

The researchers declined to offer any official explanation for the early peaking, but did offer a few suggestions, the most interesting being that by the late '30s many brokers are less hungry, more content and tend to coast.

Another suggestion is that middle-aged men often embark on second careers as securities salesmen. Having succeeded in earlier endeavors, and having established themselves financially, they seek the excitement, respectability and freedom of the securities business. And they, too, coast.

The role of this latter factor is likely to diminish in years to come as the comfortable, clublike atmosphere becomes a thing of the past. Brokerage houses are tightening their hiring practices and seeking greater production.

And that leaves little room for the man of wisdom who years earlier learned that there's more to life than money.

Congress Pressure Eased By Richmond Reversal

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Reversal of the Richmond school-busing case by the U.S. Court of Appeals is expected to ease the pressure on Congress for enactment of court-curbing legislation aimed at halting massive busing.

It also boosts chances for House passage Thursday of anti-busing amendments that are under attack from Southerners as being too weak to stop the extensive busing called for in the Richmond plan.

Of Tuesday's court decision, Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., a chief sponsor of the 221.3-billion education bill to which the busing amendments are attached, said: "It couldn't have come at a better time. This will really help."

The 4th Circuit Court of Appeals held that Dist. Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. had no authority to order consolidation of Richmond's 64-percent black schools and those in adjoining Henrico and Chesterfield counties, where 90 per cent of the pupils are white.

Merhige's order would have created a single 700-square-mile school district in which 78,000 of the 104,000 pupils would have been bused. The order was a key factor in stirring antibusing fervor in Congress.

The appellate court, in a 5-1 decision, said it could find no invidious discrimination in the way Richmond public schools are operated.

Without such a finding, the court said, a judge cannot compel a state "to restructure its internal government" as a means of achieving racial balance.

The chairman of the Richmond School Board, which filed the suit leading to Merhige's consolidation order last Jan. 10, said Tuesday's ruling will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The Justice Department and officials in Henrico and Chesterfield counties hailed the appellate court's decision.

In the view of Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Rep. William M. McCulloch, the senior Republican member, the circuit court ruling should quiet the clamor in Congress for a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing and for permanent curbs on court-ordered busing requested by President Nixon.

The 4th Circuit Court ruling, if upheld by the Supreme Court, would appear to block any desegregation plan that requires moving children across school district or city boundaries. In Detroit, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Stephen J. Roth held that such a plan was the only way the constitutional rights of black pupils could be upheld. Roth is still working on a final plan but the Supreme Court already has been asked to review his findings.

moon-influenced amorous tomcats. She remains as chaste as the day she left the veterinarian's hospital years ago, and that's about as chaste as a cat can get.

As to my other teen-ager—Tracy Ann—college has had a rather mixed impact so far.

"I didn't learn as much from books as I did from the people there," she said. "The first semester I found it difficult to get adjusted to life in a dormitory. Whenever you wanted to study or just be alone, there were always a dozen people in your room."

Things got better the second semester, but Tracy's grades were more dismal than heartening. Now, like thousands of other restless students, her age, she says she would like to take a year off before going back to college "so I can find myself."

"I'd like either just to roam around Europe or get a day job here and take acting lessons at night. I still don't know whether I want to be a veterinarian or an actress."

She is lucky to have a summer mailroom job that pays her $96 a week, $19 more than her father earned as a night city editor in New York in 1942.

"Don't try to fly before you have learned how to walk well," I caution her. The thought of her becoming a dropout chills my heart.

If Papa has his way—but he rarely does—come September both my teen-agers will go back to college, paw in hand, hand in paw.

what those weapons are," I protested.

"All the more reason to spend money developing our weapons. I would say that the President's nuclear arms accord is actually a breakthrough for us."

"Now we can come up with any wild idea and Congress will have to buy it. We can say that if we don't have this weapon, the Russians may have one that is much more devastating. The Soviet military-industrial complex is probably going to use the same play with their people."

I said, "President Eisenhower warned me about people like you."

Hannibal chuckled and slapped me on the shoulder. "don't let it get you down. It's only money. Here, take the Minuteman missile cigarette lighter with you. Consider it a peace dividend from me."

plaint now is that Nofziger is neglecting non-conservative voters needed to win.

In fact, Nofziger's organizational plans are geared to Democratic voters, including Mexicans and even blacks. But here the Reagan problem intrudes. Mr. Nixon's chances with Democrats would be undercut by a publicly prominent effort here from the governor, whose popularity never has recovered from the revelation that he paid no state income tax and his tax reform deadlock with the legislature.

But there is no sign John Mitchell, the President's national campaign manager, has ever mentioned this subject to Reagan. Indeed, how could he ask the governor, a proud man who denies any severe popularity slump to stay out of his own state? The answer may conceivably decide who carries a state that Mr. Nixon might need for reelection.

Carolina Hands Bucs 4-1 Loss In Opener

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The 1972 Collegiate Summer League opened its season last night, and defending champion North Carolina brought its bats along to prove that last year was no fluke.

The Tar Heels pounded the Pirates of East Carolina for 14 hits and came away with a 4-1 victory over the Bucs.

Mike Merritt of the Tar Heels limited the Bucs to only three scattered hits, and the lone run was an unearned one.

Bill Godwin absorbed the loss, going three and two-thirds innings. He was tagged for nine hits and all four runs. Two of them were unearned, however.

Russ Smith, a transfer from Louisburg, and a Greenville native, came on in relief, going the rest of the way. He scattered five hits, and although he got in trouble a couple of times, the Tar Heels did not score against him.

The Pirates went hitless through the first three innings, and offered only four threats the entire game. Only one of the four paid off.

Carolina started the action in the first inning, failing to score, but giving a hint of what was to come. They banged out three hits and only a double play helped the Pirates out of it.

In the second, however, they pushed over their first two runs, all they really needed. With one away, Ron Merritt reached on an error. He went down at second, however, on Don Davis' infield grounder. Davis moved up on a wild pitch and Mike Merritt singled to center, scoring Davis. Russell Miller then cracked a double down the left field line, and when the ball got away from left-fielder Troy Eason, Merritt came around to score what proved to be the winning run.

The Tar Heels added another run in the third. With two away, Mickey Hickerson doubled to left. Tom Kennedy followed with a single off Godwin's glove that rolled behind second before it could be retrieved, and Hickerson, off at the crack of the bat, scored all the way from second on the play.

The final Carolina run came in the fourth. Davis led off with a single to first and moved up when the ball was thrown away in the late attempt to get him. Mike Merritt sacrificed him to third and he came home on a wild pitch. Godwin was then tagged for a double by Bobby Guthrie and a walk to Pete Franklin before Smith came on to retire the side with a strikeout.

Carolina's next threat came in the sixth, when Merritt reached on an error and Guthrie got the first hit off Smith, but it died there.

In the seventh, they threatened again. Hickerson singled and Randy McNeil walked to put a man in scoring position. In the eighth, Smith got into trouble when Merritt got an infield single and two others were walked to load the bases with two out. But Smith struck out the final batter to stop that threat. Once more, in the ninth, Carolina put two on, on two singles, but the Pirates also snuffed that one out.

Meanwhile, the Bucs were having little success themselves. Ron Staggs walked in the second, took second on a wild pitch and got to third on Troy Eason's ground out, only to die there.

The lone Buc run came in the fifth. Staggs led off with a double to left and moved to third when Ron Leggett reached on an error. Smith also was safe on an error as Staggs came in with the score.

The only other threats came in the sixth and eighth. In the sixth Jimmy Paige reached on an error and moved on to second on another. In the eighth, Smith walked and Ralph Lamm singled, but they got no further.

The Bucs are at home again tonight in Harrington Field, playing host to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, last year's runner-up in the league, and the co-favorite with Carolina this season. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Following the game, the Bucs go on the road, facing Campbell on Friday and Louisville on Saturday. They return home Tuesday to meet Appalachian.

Siebert Tosses Four-Hitter At White Sox; Indians Fall Again

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sonny Siebert doesn't like to think about what he's doing on the mound—and he didn't give the Chicago White Sox much time to think about it, either.

Boston's big right-hander whizzed past Chicago's heavy-hitting line-up Tuesday night in less than two hours—one minute less, to be precise—spinning a four-hitter in the Red Sox' 2-0 victory.

In the rest of the American league, Minnesota edged Baltimore 5-4 in 15 innings, Texas tripped the New York Yankees 6-3, Oakland beat Cleveland 7-2, Kansas City defeated Milwaukee 4-2 and Detroit beat California 8-6 in the first game of a twilight doubleheader before the Angels won the second game 4-0.

In the National League, Houston beat Philadelphia 4-3, Los Angeles blanked the Chicago Cubs 5-0, the New York Mets edged Cincinnati 3-2, St. Louis turned back San Francisco 5-3, Atlanta slipped by Montreal 3-2 and, for the second straight night, Pittsburgh's game at San Diego was rained out.

"I started working faster last year," said Siebert, a 16-game winner in 1971 for the third time in eight major league seasons. "I'm more aggressive that way and the fielders play better ball."

"Also, I'm not doing too much thinking when I work fast. I'm not kidding," Sonny smiled, "but when I start thinking, I can get into trouble."

He had no trouble with the White Sox. His manager, Eddie Kasko, called it "his best game of the season."

Siebert and veteran knuckleballer Wilbur Wood dueled through five scoreless innings before singles by Doug Griffin and Tommy Harper and a double by Luis Aparicio produced Boston's two runs. It enabled Siebert to chalk up his fifth victory in seven decisions.

With just three outs to go in Baltimore, it appeared the Orioles were a sure bet to snap their four-game losing streak. But Jim Palmer, tossing a six-hitter and staked to a three-run lead, couldn't hold it as the Twins tied it 4-4 on Eric Soderholm's two-run homer and singles by Rick Dempsey, Steve Braun and Danny Thompson.

They won it in the 15th on Rod Carew's single, a walk and Steve Brye's single.

Don Mincher, pinch-hitter for winning pitcher Dick Bosman, capped Texas' three-run up-rising in the sixth inning with a two-run single that led to the Yankees' downfall.

Bosman was working on a one-hitter when Rangers' Manager Ted Williams decided to make the switch. "I was surprised Ted pulled me when I felt as strong as I did," Bosman said.

"Mincher made him look like a genius. I felt good and had it really going," he added. "I've never been pulled on a one-hitter before."

The A's shoved across six runs in the final two innings to beat the Indians—but Vida Blue wasn't around to enjoy the gift. He left in the sixth inning trailing by a run.

Joe Rudi doubled home one run and Sal Bando singled for another in the eighth, then Reggie Jackson's three-run homer, his 12th of the year, capped Oakland's four-run eighth.

Kansas City, held to just two hits—including Paul Schaal's run-scoring triple—in the first five innings, woke up to beat left-hander Ken Brett in the sixth on Lou Piniella's two-run single which followed hits by Fred Patek and Amos Otis.

Detroit staked Mickey Lolich to a six-run lead after just two innings of the opening game but the Tigers' left-hander had to be bailed out by reliever Chuck Seelback before recording his ninth victory.

Ed Brinkman clouted a three-run homer and Aurelio Rodriguez added a two-run shot but Lolich was reached for nine hits—including homers by Andy Kosco, Leroy Stapton and Bob Oliver.

In the second game, the Angels' Clyde Wright tossed a four-hitter to raise his record to 5-2.

Fire Fighters Fall To Union

Moore-King-Sullivan gained a 5-3 victory over the Greenville Fire Fighters last night in the Senior Babe Ruth League.

The victory evened the Union 76ers record for the season at 2-2, while the Fire Fighters fell off to 0-3.

The Fire Fighters took the initial lead, however, pushing over a run in the second inning. Bryan Hines reached on an error and Al Salisbury walked. Paul Carr then singled to drive in Hines for a 1-0 lead.

They upped the margin to 2-0 with another run in the third. William Carraway walked and took second on an error. A wild pitch moved him to third and another error brought him on in home.

Moore-King-Sullivan came up with two runs in the fourth inning, however, and tied it up. Steve Fuchs walked and took second on a balk. Wayne Bailey also walked, and Rick Boles singled to drive in Fuchs. An error on the relay allowed Bailey to come across with the tying run.

Then, in the fifth, Union 76 came up with three more runs to take a 5-2 lead. Steve Evans singled and Herb Wilkerson walked. Both moved up on a passed ball, and another scored Evans. Fuchs walked and stole second. John Grimes also walked, loading the bases. Bailey followed with a single, driving in Wilkerson. Another walk, by Boles, brought in Fuchs with the fifth 76er run.

The Fire Fighters came up with one more in the sixth, but couldn't really get a rally going. Hines walked, took second on a wild pitch and stole third. He scored on Carr's ground-out.

Each team got only three hits, with no one having more than one.

Fans Don't Help; Phillies Lose Again

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Thank God I don't have a radio show this season," says Manager Frank Lucchesi of the Philadelphia Phillies. "What would I say?"
Indeed, what can you say when your team has lost 19 of 20 games.
The inept Phillies lost again, this time to the Houston Astros

4-3 Tuesday night, and left their patient manager speechless. Well, practically speechless.
"You'll never see a white flag ... I'll never surrender," said the happy-go-lucky Lucchesi who must be laughing on the outside, but crying on the inside.
The Philadelphia management attempted to help out their woeful wasters by trying to put on a hex before the game at Veterans Stadium.

They had a "Turn-Around Night", asking the crowd to take the seventh-inning stretch in the third inning, introduced the players last name first, sang "Goodnight Sweetheart" at the beginning of the game, played the National Anthem earlier than usual and made the ushers wear their caps backwards and their identification badges on their backs.

It didn't help because they didn't take into account pitcher Dave Roberts' two-run homer and a fine relief performance by Houston's Fred Gladding in the ninth.

In the National League's other games, the New York Mets turned back the Cincinnati Reds 3-2; the Atlanta Braves beat the Montreal Expos 3-2; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-0. Rain washed out Pittsburgh at San Diego.

Tommie Agee knocked in the winning run with a seventh-inning single as New York halted Cincinnati's seven-game winning streak. Tug McGraw preserved the one-run lead for Jim McAndrew's fifth victory and the reliever's ninth save of the year.

Johnny Bench continued his torrid home-run hitting—spanking No. 14 of the year to give the Reds a short-lived 2-0 lead in the fourth.
Atlanta scored three runs in the third inning, two on a home run by Darrell Evans, to beat Montreal.

Jaycees Nip Coke By 9-8

The Jaycees knocked Coca-Cola out of a share of first place in the North State Little League with a 9-8 victory yesterday.

The victory tied the two teams with 4-3 records, a game behind the leading Optimists.

Coke pushed over three runs in the first. Ronnie Chapman walked and Gary Chapman reached on a fielder's choice. Mark Berbert walked to load the bases, but Jerome Ross hit into a fielder's choice. It scored Ronnie Chapman, but got Berbert at second. Joe Downing then doubled to drive in both Gary Chapman and Ross.

In the second, Coke came up with another run. Gary Chapman singled and took second on a passed ball. He was sacrificed to second and scored on a passed ball.

The Jaycees rallied for three runs in the third. Joe Matheis was hit by a pitch and John Winstead walked and Charles McLawhorn singled. Bill Collier singled in Matheis and Winstead, and Danny Boyd got a hit to score McLawhorn; cutting the lead to 4-3.

In the top of the fourth, the Jaycees came up with three to take a 6-4 lead. Winstead doubled and McLawhorn got a hit, scoring Winstead. McLawhorn moved up on a passed ball, and Collier singled him in. Collier moved up on Boyd's single and a balk moved both up. Lance Worthington then singled in Collier with the final run.

Coke came up with two in the fourth to tie it, but the Jaycees went back out by one in the fifth. They then scored two more in the sixth to wrap it up. Worthington singled to open the sixth and Greg Guthrie was hit by a pitch. Monte Burroughs walked and Marion Crisp singled in Worthington. Winstead reached on an error, scoring Guthrie with what proved to be the winning run.

Coke tried to rally, scoring two in the bottom of the sixth, but they fell one short.

McLawhorn and Collier each had three hits, while Boyd and Worthington had two each for the Jaycees, Gary Chapman had two to lead Coke.

Exchange Bumps Graniteers, 8-2

The Exchange surprised the Graniteers, 8-2, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League, keeping the Graniteers from moving back into a share of first place.

The loss knocked the Graniteers to a 5-2 record, a game out of first. The Exchange is now 3-4.

The Exchange pushed over two runs in the first inning to take the lead. Cliff Fearington was hit by a pitch and Joel Hargett singled. Bobby Boseman followed with a double driving in Fearington, and a single by Al Shackleford scored Hargett for a 2-0 lead.

Then, in the fifth, they broke the game open with five more runs to take a 7-0 lead. Fearington singled and Hargett reached on an error. Boseman reached on a fielder's choice and Shackleford singled to score Fearington. Rodney Swain singled in Hargett and Eric Deal walked to bring in Boseman. Allen Clark also walked, scoring Shackleford, and Swain came in when John Cleetwood singled. The Graniteers finally broke the ice with a run in the bottom of the fifth. Chris Moye reached on a three-base error and he scored on Mike Moye's sacrifice fly.

The Exchange added another run in the sixth. Fearington singled and Hargett got a hit. An outfield fly advanced Fearington to third and he scored on a wild pitch.

The other Graniteer run came in the sixth. Sam Hardy walked, moved up on a passed ball and a wild pitch and Wayne Stokes walked. Micah Dixon reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Hardy.

Fearington, Hargett and Shackleford led the Exchange with two hits each. Cleetwood, in hurling the win, limited the Graniteers to just three hits.

Mixed Reaction From Fellow Pros For Janie

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — How do members of a closely knit organization, such as the Ladies Professional Golf Association, react to a $5 million suit filed by one of their own?

With mixed emotions, as far as a field of more than 80 is concerned while readying for the start of the $50,000 Eve LPGA championship Thursday at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Janie Blaylock, playing on a court-ordered "pass" while awaiting a hearing on her whopping suit, feels she's "really on the hot seat" but the LPGA seems to be handling the hot potato.

The LPGA, in a surprise move last week, suspended the 26-year-old former New England champion from Portsmouth, N.H. for alleged "unethical practices."

The pretty blonde countered with a walloping punch, filing the $5 million suit and winning a temporary federal court injunction Friday permitting her to play before home fans.

Miss Blaylock, the second-leading money winner on the tour this year, met up with her rivals during nine-hole practice sessions Monday and Tuesday.

What was the reaction?

"It hasn't been too bad, no rougher than I expected," Janie, a former school teacher, said after her second abbreviated tour of the Pleasant Valley course.

"Of course I have many good friends on the tour," she added. "Some of the girls have been very gracious under the circumstance. Others not so gracious."

Miss Blaylock was the chief attraction during the warmups. She was interviewed by a flock of sportswriters and radio and television sportscasters—several times almost within earshot of Cynthia Sullivan, president of the LPGA executive board which handed down the suspension.

Miss Sullivan, a tour veteran, virtually was ignored. She and other members of the LPGA have been directed by legal counsel not to discuss the case publicly. Miss Blaylock is under similar orders from her battery of lawyers.

"All I want to do is play," Janie said when a writer noted in jest that she could probably buy the LPGA tour for $5 million.

"The mental strain is as much as any I've ever encountered," she said. "There's a great deal of pressure, but I think I am calming down a little. As long as I can concentrate on the golf course, I'll be alright. Hopefully I'll be able to think only of golf."

Grace Captures Another Victory

St. James, Mt. Pleasant and Grace gained victories in the Church Softball League last night. St. James downed Maranatha, 13-6, Mt. Pleasant blitzed First Presbyterian, 13-0, and Grace beat First Christian, 13-7.

Presbyterian is now 3-3, St. James, 3-4, and Christian, 2-6, while Grace is 7-2, Mt. Pleasant is 3-4, and Maranatha is 0-6.

In the opener, Maranatha took the lead in the second inning, but St. James came back in the third to score four and take the lead. They added two more in the fifth, but Maranatha came up with four in the bottom of the fifth, including a homer by Leroy Ross, to cut the lead to 6-5.

Then, in the sixth, St. James picked up four more to put it out of reach. Tony Brown reached on a fielder's choice and Bill Shaw walked. Guy Howell singled and Joe Brown tripled them in. J. J. Harris reached on a double, scoring Brown with the 10th St. James run.

St. James added three more in the seventh, while Maranatha got one more in the seventh.

In the second game, Mt. Pleasant pushed over four in the first, and that was all they needed. B. Bullock singled and H. Barnes tripled. W. Wallace doubled and B. Teel reached on a fielder's choice. T. Doughtie and G. Roper both singled to score Teel with the fourth run.

From there, Mt. Pleasant added four more in the second, three in the fourth and two in the sixth. Presbyterian got only two hits off Bullock.

Grace took the lead in the first inning of the final game, with three runs in the frame, including a homer by S. Pugh. Christian came up with two in the top of the third, but Grace countered that with two of their own. Christian then scored four times in the fourth to take a 6-5 lead.

But in the fifth, Grace exploded for eight runs to take the victory.

R. Coggins led off with a homer and B. Peede singled. D. Hudson tripled and D. Hardee doubled. Pugh and K. Smith also doubled and R. Jones tripled. D. Randlett singled and E. Halloman got a double scoring the final Grace run.

Christian got one more run, in the seventh.

Little Mint Rolling Along

The Little Mint continued to roll along in the Ladies Softball League last night, crushing Coca-Cola, 14-2, for its eighth straight win. In the other games, Belton beat Piggly-Wiggly, 14-6, and Azalea nipped Three Steers, 16-15.

In the opener, Little Mint pushed over two in the first inning to take the lead. Carol Manuel reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Laura Kilpatrick's double. Errors allowed her to come the rest of the way and score the second run. Little Mint then clinched the win in the second on a homer by Bobbie Jones.

Then went on to add six in the third, including a homer by Manuel, two in the fourth, one in the fifth as Jones homered, and two in the sixth. Coke got both of its runs in the fourth.

Piggly-Wiggly gained the lead in the first inning, but Belton took it in the second with two runs. They padded that with two in the third, then put the game on ice with five in the fourth.

In the fourth, Julie Gurganus singled and Georgia Potter reached on a fielder's choice. Joyce Sawyer and Vickie Davenport both singled, as did Sandy Barnhill. Debra Pfile, Cathy Anthony, both reaching on fielder's choices, and Peggy Morris, safe on an error, brought Barnhill around with the fifth run of the inning. That made it 9-1.

Belton added five more in the fifth to finish off the scoring. Piggly-Wiggly got four in the sixth and one in the seventh.

In the final game, Three Steers pushed over a run in the first, but Azalea came up with five in its half of the frame. Three Steers got another in the second and scored six in the third. Azalea got five in the bottom of the third, but a grant slam homer by Beth Harrington in the fourth put Three Steers ahead, 12-10. They scored again in the fifth, and twice more in the sixth.

Azalea got one in the fifth on a homer by Teresa Drewery and then added five in the sixth to win it. Becky Belonde led off with a homer, and Sandra Baker singled. Betty Owens also got a hit as did Drewery. Mary Lou Rouse doubled and scored the winning run on Noel Robbins' double to end the game.

Oregon Junior Top Choice Of Padres

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers stepped into the better's box today to grab off the No. 1 pick in the secondary phase of baseball's free agent draft after the San Diego

Padres gave unknown Dave Roberts his first push toward a major league career.

Roberts, a junior third baseman at the University of Oregon, was made the No. 1 pick in the regular phase as the draft began Tuesday, becoming only the second collegian in the 15-year history of the selection process to be tabbed a No. 1 choice.

The other collegian selected No. 1 was outfielder Rick Monday, drafted out of Arizona State by the Oakland A's in 1965 and now a regular with the Chicago Cubs.

Roberts offers impressive credentials in his bid for a major league berth, including a .410 batting average at Oregon and a homer and two singles in five at-bats in an exhibition game against the Philadelphia Phillies' Eugene, Ore., farm club.

Despite the fact he's a junior, he is ready to begin starting up the ladder.

The Padres announced Tuesday night that they had signed Roberts at his home in Corvallis, Ore. Terms of the contract were not announced.

The Padres said Roberts would be in a San Diego uniform for their two-night double-header at home against the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Any players drafted in the regular phase who do not sign go back into the pool and can be drafted again the following year. It is players previously drafted who did not sign who will be up for grabs in today's secondary phase.

Two players who came out of last year's secondary phase are pitchers Pete Broberg of Texas and Burt Hooton of the Chicago Cubs, who earlier this season pitched a no-hitter.

The order of draft following

Los Angeles was: Cleveland, New York Mets, Texas, San Diego, California, Houston, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Montreal, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Oakland.

New Teams Are Getting Players

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — Armed with 21 players carrying fancy price tags of nearly $300,000 apiece, General Managers Bill Torrey of the New York Islanders and Cliff Fletcher of the Atlanta Flames still were shopping around for help today as the National Hockey League meetings continued.

And there were indications that help was on the way from the 14 other NHL clubs as "thank you" for expansion draft considerations shown by the Islanders and Flames.

Immediately following Tuesday's expansion draft, for example, NHL President Clarence Campbell announced that Minnesota was "transferring" defenseman Bob Paradise to Atlanta and left wing Gordon LaBrosse to New York. The moves reportedly were paybacks to the Flames and Islanders for passing on goalie Gilles Gilbert and forward Charlie Burns in the draft and selecting other players instead.

Montreal may owe a few favors and one of them could be goalie Denis DeJordy, who was exposed but passed over by the expansion teams. Three of the first six players selected came out of the Montreal organization.

Atlanta opened the draft of goalies by picking Phil Myre from the Canadiens and New York followed by going for Gerry Desjardins of Chicago. Atlanta's second goalie pick was rookie Dan Bouchard, who played for Boston's American Hockey League farm club last year. Then the Islanders selected Bill Smith from Los Angeles' Springfield AHL farm team.

New York had the first regular player selection and chose defenseman Bart Crashley from Montreal. That enabled the Canadiens to add Bob Murdoch to their protected list and Montreal may owe something—like maybe DeJordy—to the Islanders for that favor.

Atlanta's first regular round selection was another Montreal defense prospect, Kerry Ketter. That allowed the Canadiens to escape without losing another promising defender, Dale Hoganson, and could mean another favor owed by Montreal General Manager Sam Pollock.

The best known player drafted—forward Ed Westfall of Boston—went to New York in the third round. Westfall, a left winger and penalty killer, scored 18 goals last year for the Stanley Cup champion Bruins.

Both New York and Atlanta set up direct confrontations with the New York Raiders of the rival World Hockey Association. Torrey chose forward Norm Ferguson as his 17th player and Fletcher grabbed defenseman Bill Speer in the inter-league draft from the minors. Both players have signed contracts with the Raiders.

Sports Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Naugatuck High School lost its chance Tuesday to tie the national winning-streak record in interscholastic baseball with a 4-2 defeat at the hands of Shelton High.

Naugatuck had won 64 straight baseball games since 1970. The national record is 65 consecutive victories won by Waxahachie High of Texas between 1925 and 1927.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Six regulars from the 1956 Cincinnati Reds baseball team will play in an Old Timers game against the 1961 New York Yankees at Riverfront Stadium June 17.

Reds' former regulars slated to play include catcher Ed Bailey, shortstop Roy McMillan, first baseman Ted Kluszewski, centerfielder Gus Bell, right-fielder Wally Post and third baseman Ray Jaconski.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University, one of eight teams headed for the College World Series this weekend, is the No. 1 squad in the final poll released Tuesday by Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

The Sun Devils, with a 60-4 record, finished with 491 of a possible 500 points in the poll, two ahead of second-place Mississippi, 27-14.

Southern California, 40-12, finished third with 488 points and Oklahoma, 32-15, was fourth at 483.

In the college division, defending national champion Florida Southern retained the No. 1 ranking which it has held all season.

BUFFALO (AP) — Walt Patulski, the National Football League's number one draft pick, signed a multiyear contract with Buffalo Bills Tuesday for an undisclosed sum.

Now, with contract negotiations concluded, the thoughts of the star defensive end from Notre Dame can turn to marriage and politics.

The 6-foot-6, 266-pound player is getting married Saturday, honeymooning in Hawaii and going to the Democratic national convention as a delegate next month.

Awaiting Indy Word

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Dan Gurney and Jerry Grant awaited word from the U.S. Auto Club today on their appeal of what in effect was a $72,000 fine for illegal refueling during the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Car owner Gurney did not deny that Grant's pit crew violated race rules by pumping fuel from teammate Bobby Unser's pit tank into Grant's car. But he complained the penalty was too severe.

Grant finished second May 27 but was penalized 10 places after a protest was allowed.

Chief Steward Harlan Fenger ruled the last 12 laps Grant ran were illegal and should not have been scored. This dropped him to 12th in the final standings, with the difference in prize money between second and 12th places about $72,000.

A USAC panel heard the appeal Tuesday during a two-hour session.

A decision is expected late today or Thursday.

CATCHERS ARE PILOTS
NEW YORK (AP) — Many former major league catchers are managing minor league teams this season. They include:

Del Crandall with Evansville, Sherm Lollar with Iowa and Del Wilber with Denver in the American Association; Andy Seminick with Eugene, Ore., in the Pacific Coast League; Clint Courtney with Savannah in the Southern League and Norm Sherry with Shreveport, La., in the Texas League.

The Worry Clinic

How Much Is Spent On Food?

At Hong Kong, escaping Red China refugees told my son Philip last fall that they had to spend 100 percent of their income for just enough food to keep alive! Test your wits on the problem below. Patriotic Americans must never shut up!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-503: Charles Shade is an Indiana banker in the little town near which we have our summer farm home.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "how do you like this Doane's NEWSLETTER that banks now make available to farmers?"

"It is a goodwill gesture on our part and alerts the farmers to price trends, plus other helpful information."

Capitalism

Communism
In the issue which Charles gave me, I saw some very shocking data.

For the California Beef Council had prepared a graphic chart to show the per cent of a worker's income spent for food, in various leading nations.

Remember, too, that is a good index of the superiority of a nation's type of government and economic system!

Below I'll list the nations (in jumbled order) with the figures at the right which show the percentage of income spent for food.

Test your wits by trying to match each country with its correct percentage.

The figures directly opposite each nation are not the correct ones for that country, so think carefully:

West Germany — 50 percent
England — 40 percent
U.S.A. — 38 percent
Russia — 31 percent
Japan — 28 percent
Italy — 26 percent
France — 16.5 percent

At the end of this column, I'll list the countries with their proper percentages!

You high schoolers, plus business luncheon clubs and women's organizations, may use this test to help refute the criticisms that Uncle Sam is receiving from thoughtless citizens.

Meanwhile, I'll mention another interesting comment that pertains not alone to farmers but also to pet owners in the city.

For Cargill, Inc., at Elk River, Minnesota, contrasted ordinary straw bedding on concrete floors for pigs, versus bare concrete floors with overhead heaters.

The temperature ranged from 26 degrees below zero to 46 above.

The oats straw bedding was 6 to 8 inches thick. Which method proved better?

Well, the old-fashioned straw bedding, without overhead heaters, was superior! Overhead heaters didn't pay!

The pigs gained rapidly and were more comfortable on straw.

Those on the bare concrete, despite overhead heaters, suffered from lung congestion, sore legs, ulcers and tailbiting.

And 20 percent of them died! Maybe our pioneer ancestors were thus smart to use their straw bed ticks (mattresses) instead of our impervious modern mattresses with fancy electric blankets!

Now look at the correct matching of nations with the percentage of income required for food:

West Germany — 28 percent
England — 26 percent

U.S.A. — 16.5 percent
Russia — 50 percent

Japan — 40 percent
Italy — 38 percent

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, June 7, 1972—13
France — 31 percent
So send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus we cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1972.

The Public Health Service reports a survey shows that 68 per cent of American adults drink alcoholic beverages.

Opening lead: Six of ♠ Today's hand presents an interesting problem in lead control. A nimble performance was required of South to develop nine tricks without letting East in prematurely to make a damaging return thru declarer's spade holding before the latter was in position to take charge of the proceedings.

The auction was routine and West opened the six of spades against South's three no trump contract. North's queen won the first trick. Declarer was assured of winning four diamonds and two spades. The club suit will produce four more, provided that it responds according to expectation. The problem arises with a four-one division and South directed his efforts to cope with this possibility.

A small club was led from dummy at trick two. Declarer did not mind losing this trick to the ace in West's hand, for the latter cannot return a spade without giving his opponent a third trick in the suit. Observe that East cannot put up the ace of clubs without establishing the entire suit. When he played the eight, South covered with the queen to win the trick.

Declarer now had seven tricks in, but it was not safe to continue clubs from his hand, for if West showed out, there would not be time to establish the suit before the ace of spades was dislodged. Dummy was reentered with the queen of diamonds to make another play thru East.

This time a small heart was led and the queen was put up by South. West was in with the ace and promptly exited with the deuce. Once more, it was necessary to keep East out until the preliminary washing was completed so the king of hearts was played from dummy. With the eighth trick now in, it was safe to lead the king of clubs. East played the ace, on which his partner showed out. A spade was returned and South played the jack with complete assurance. West won with the king, but even if he had a heart to return, the defense could take no more than one spade, two hearts, and one club. South—on the other hand—was safely home with nine tricks, two spades, one heart, four diamonds, and two clubs.

Write-In Hit By Chairman

RALEIGH (AP) — A move to mount a write-in campaign aimed at electing Jim Gardner governor was denounced Tuesday by state Republican Chairman Frank Rouse.

"The primary is over," Rouse said in an interview. "This write-in serves no useful purpose."

Earl Cox of Raleigh, communications director for Gardner in his unsuccessful bid for the Republican nomination for governor, said he and former Gardner aide Ed Rawl of Greenville would head the write-in drive.

"Gardner does not know about it," said Cox. "He is on vacation on the Intracoastal Waterway."

So Gardner could not be reached for comment. Neither could Jim Holshouser, who won the GOP nomination last Saturday by defeating Gardner by 1,564 votes, or Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, the Democratic nominee for governor. Both were reported on vacation.

State law apparently forbids Gardner from actively mounting a write-in campaign, but Cox said it would be operated independently of Gardner.

"Jim Gardner will not participate in any way whatsoever," Cox said. "This move is independent of Jim Gardner. If he says no, he still cannot stop it."

Cox said the campaign would be based on the successful write-in drive waged by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., when he ran as a Democrat in 1954.

"We are concerned about the lack of votes in the last primary," Cox said. "We do not feel this is the voice of the people speaking."

"Consequently, with the vote-getting capacity of Mr. Gardner, with both Republicans and primarily with Democrats, we feel such a write-in campaign would serve the people of North Carolina and help elect Jim Gardner in November," Cox stated.

He said there "will be none of high paid staff members in the campaign. We will be putting the main emphasis on people being involved."

Winterville . . .

Action was deferred on a request to rezone the Ed Fleming property on Boyd Street from residential to commercial until more information can be obtained.

And the board approved ordering new municipal, auto license plates bearing the slogan "A Friendly Community."

The board also accepted a report on the proposed county sanitary landfill.

The municipalities of Ayden, Winterville and Grifton, as well as other county residents will be using the Littlefield site.

First year cost to Winterville will be about $1,500.

Ball Appointed To Committee

Dr. John Ball, chairman of the East Carolina University Department of Social Work and Correctional Services, has been appointed by Governor Robert Scott to serve on his Advisory Committee on Youth Development.

The committee will consider various aspects of North Carolina's juvenile justice system and will make recommendations to Gov. Scott regarding the recent reports of the state Bar Association's North Carolina Penal System Study Committee.

Ayden Native Dr. H.G. Jolly Died In Kinston

KINSTON — Dr. Horton Gray Jolly died accidentally as a result of an overdose of medicine, Lenoir County Medical Examiner Dr. J. L. Phillips ruled yesterday.

An autopsy was performed Monday by Dr. S. W. Nye at Lenoir Memorial Hospital after Dr. Jolly's body was found in his apartment that day by an unidentified person who apparently went to find out why he did not appear at his office.

Jolly, an Ayden native, was to be anesthesiologist at the new Lenoir Memorial Hospital and had moved his practice from Forsyth Memorial Hospital in Winston Salem about three months ago. He had not yet moved his wife and two sons.

Dr. Phillips declined to say what kind of medicine caused the death, pending the analysis of body fluids by the State Medical Examiner's office.

River Gives Up Coal To Be Marketed

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer
ALLEN, Ky. (AP)—For David May, pollution pays. He sells it by the carload.

May operates the Mare Creek Sand Co., so his business involves removing sand from the Big Sandy River upstream from this small Eastern Kentucky community.

But he gets a lot more than sand.

"I'd guess that on the average we get about 30 tons of coal a day and on a good day it could run as much as 100 tons," May said. That coal is sold to steam generating plants.

The device May uses to separate sand from finely ground coal also dumps into a separate pile anything that comes in a chunk—such as beer and soft drink cans, rocks, bottles and lumps of coal.

"We used to throw all of that away, but we found a company up in Connecticut that wanted to buy the lumps of coal so we hired two men to shovel it up and put it in 25-pound bags," May said.

Every two weeks, the men produce about 3,500 bags of coal.

Where does the coal come from? "I'd really like to know that myself," May said. Hundreds of small mines operate upstream from May's company. Presumably the coal is just spilled into the river a little at a time.

"You can tell that it has come from different places," May said, displaying small pieces, some of which had been ground into perfectly round balls and others that were jagged.

One indication of how far some of the coal could have traveled in the river comes from the trash pile. There, May often finds golf balls and the nearest course is 15 miles upstream.

He also finds false teeth, eye glasses and an occasional snake.

"But it's a funny thing, we've never taken in that first fish," he said. "I kinds thought we'd catch some, but we never have."

Most likely, fish are frightened away from May's barge that plies the river by an agitator that stirs up the silt on the river bottom before water is pumped to the separating device on shore.

Then, too, his suction pipe is only six inches in diameter and doesn't generate enough power to land a fish who wants to get out of the way until the barge passes.

Ralph Pickard, executive director of the Kentucky Water Pollution Authority, said operations like May's do cause some minor pollution, "but the good that is done far outweighs the bad."

"There is some temporary pollution caused by stirring up the silt on the bottom of the river, but that disappears and the removal of the coal and other pollution is more lasting," he said.

May has been operating in the same place for 13 years. The barge moves only about 1,000 feet up and down the river, swaying from one side of the stream to the other.

By the time it has completed a trip upstream, enough silt has drifted into the area so that it can go back to the beginning and start all over again, May said.

"The coal we get isn't a good grade and it is wet, of course," May said. But current market prices indicate he should be getting $5-6 a ton for it.

And that's just a sideline in the sand business.

West Germans Opine Doctors Most Respected

ILLEREICHEN, Germany (UPI)—Doctors are respected more than any other profession, a poll taken among 2,087 West German shows.

The poll, conducted by the Wickert Institute, revealed 31 per cent of persons 18 years of age or older asked, believe doctors receive more respect than other professions.

Company managers took second place with 7 per cent, followed by ministers with 5 per cent and lawyers with 4 per cent.

Civil servants, judges, teachers and technicians each received 3 per cent.

Other professions noted were computer programmers, who received 2 per cent of the vote, and politicians, 1 per cent.

Meador Returns

To Show Biz

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vaughn Meador, whose "First Family" record album was a hit a decade ago, has quit his Jefferson County government job and says he's returning to show business.

Meador says he plans to get some music together and prepare a routine for local night spots.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to put into active operation in a down-to-earth fashion all those practical and interesting ideas you had the past two days for the future. Study your financial arrangements also and plan a wise and intelligent use of your money.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to contact the most influential persons you know and get the information and advice you want. Study both assets and liabilities well and know how you are fixed, what you can do in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy improving your health and appearance early, then make plans for whatever you want to do the most. Joining in group affairs is fine. Show you have an open mind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make the right plans for the future in both personal and business life, and do this in the quiet of your study. Take a little time for assisting those who are in difficulty. Don't be extravagant, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Contact those you like and find congenial. Be very sociable today and tonight. You can easily gain some cherished aims now. Enjoy the hobbies you like the best and be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan what you want where civic, career, or credit matters are concerned and prepare yourself well for success in them. Contact that higher-up who has the information you require. Avoid strife of all kinds.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to look into new outlets and projects and to get out of that little rut you have made for yourself. Get the statistics and information you need. Contact an expert who can be most helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you are exact in carrying out any promises you have made. Get the best results. Try to please mate in whatever is expected of you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find the best method to get a partner to go along with some fine plan you have in mind now, and it can prove to be very successful. You can convert an opponent to your way of thinking, also. Take it easy in p.m. Rest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It is important to cooperate more with co-workers and increase production today. Forget about going off on any tangents. Taking health treatments during spare time is wise. Become a more dynamic person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A fine day to do whatever you most want to do and to show others your outstanding organizing ability and excellent creativity. Get ahead faster. Strive for more goodwill and devotion from others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make your home the center of your worthwhile activity today and be of aid to those who mean the most to you. Do some entertaining at home in p.m. Inspire others more in this way and you will be a happier person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Being more conscientious at handling routine affairs is important now, as well as paying particular attention to details. Once your work is done, have a good time with congenials. Don't monopolize the conversation, however.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very careful young people who likes to mull things over almost too much and thus be apt to miss the bus, so give a good diet to speed up the thinking process. Then make sure the education is one that is finely balanced between the practical and the idealistic, and this will become a most successful and happy person, with a long and satisfying life. Do not neglect the religious studies.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Big Ben's Tower Space Shuttle Slowly Leaning Missions Eyed

LONDON (AP) — Labor M.P. Marcus Liptons fears that the Leaning Tower of Pisa will soon have a rival in London's Big Ben clock tower.

Lipton fears the 113-year-old, 326-feet-high clock tower at the Houses of Parliament slowly is leaning to the northwest and one day may come crashing down.

Experts at the Department of the Environment, which looks after such things, say the world-famed clock with the world-famed chimes is settling and leaning but should be standing many years from now.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The space shuttle, next step in space exploration after next year's Skylab program, has a number of primary missions. They include:

- Delivery of unmanned payloads to orbit.
- Repair or retrieval of satellites.
- Adjustment of a payload's orbit by use of a space tug.
- Manned experiments or operations in space.

Connecticut is the southernmost New England state.

Eight Greenville Teachers Retired At End Of Term

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Eight Greenville City Schools teachers have closed their teacher's notebooks at the end of the school year just ended, and are turning a new leaf as they move into the life of retirement.

The eight, all women, have together put in a total of three centuries and a dozen extra years in teaching — averaging 39 years each, with two having 34 years of service, two with 42 years, and the others registering in at 39, 40, and 41 years.

The eight and a brief resume of their background and teaching careers are given below:

—Mrs. Dorothy Brown, a native of Southampton County in Virginia is the holder of an M.A. degree from East Carolina University. Completing 34 years in classrooms, Mrs. Brown spent the early part of her career in Pitt County Schools, 1928-39, the school year 1941-42, and again from 1961-66, before moving to Greenville City Schools in 1966. She remained with the Greenville schools from 1966 until her retirement this week. Mrs. Brown is married to George Brown and has one child.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Norman Dowd, wife of O. E. Dowd, is a

Pitt County native with the M.A. degree from East Carolina University. In 42 years of teaching, 22 of these have been spent in the Greenville Schools.

Other places where she has taught include the Ft. Bragg Dependent School for seven years, with three of those as supervisor; Carteret and Hoke County Schools, and city schools of Wilson and Fayetteville. The Dowds have one child.

—Mrs. Mae Joyner Gates is another Pitt County native, from Farmville. She was educated at Queens College in Charlotte and at East Carolina University. A veteran of a total of 39 years in teaching, 30 years of that time has been in the Greenville Schools with time out for four years in Aurora, three in Greensboro, and one each in Pitt County and Lumberton.

—Mrs. Fannie Alston Jackson, from Louisburg, N.C. has rounded out four decades of teaching, with the years 1931-45 spent in Pitt County Schools, and the period 1945 until this month in the Greenville City Schools. The wife of George Jackson, the Jacksons are the parents of two children. Mrs. Jackson attended A and T College, Shaw University, Elizabeth City State Teachers College and East Carolina University.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Williams Johnson, a native Tar Heel from Raleigh, is the wife of John C. Johnson. She has an unbroken stretch of 40 years with the Greenville City Schools. Mrs. Johnson was educated at St. Augustine, Shaw University and

Another Kind Of Problem For Educated Populace

Teachers . .

East Carolina University. In her 40 years of classroom service, she specialized in teaching in two grades, grades four and six.

—Mrs. Evelyn P. Norris, native of the little town of Whitakers, is the widow of the late Mr. Frank Norris. The mother of one child, Mrs. Norris holds the record among this year's retirees for length of service in Greenville, an unbroken stretch of 42 years spent in teaching second and third grade students. Mrs. Norris received her education at Brick Jr. College, Shaw University, N.C. College Extension, East Carolina University and Elizabeth City Teacher's College.

—Mrs. Herma Taylor Stancill, one of two non-native North Carolinians among the eight

MRS. ELIZABETH DOWD retiring teachers, is a native of Wolfe City Texas. The mother of two children, Mrs. Stancill is a widow. She holds the M.A. degree, and received her

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Ralph Maughan, a 45-year-old cabbie, was driving down a narrow road bordered education at East Texas State College, Peabody and East Carolina University. In addition to 30 years teaching in Greenville, Mrs. Stancill also taught in Charleston, Corsicana and Commerce, Texas and Johnson City, Tennessee, for a total of four years and three months.

—Miss Lela Brown Stancill, a Pitt County native, has split her 41 years of teaching between Pitt County Schools and Greenville City Schools with 26 years in Greenville beginning in 1946. Educated at East Carolina University and Columbia University, Miss Stancill was a teacher in grades four, five and six and for nine years was a school principal.

by fields of 2-foot stalks of sugar cane and saw a group of older persons cutting cane and a group of youngsters in neat school uniforms returning from classes.

"Kids today have all the changes, and it's good that way," he said.

The two groups—the children and the farm workers—represent much that is Barbadian society, and what Maughan saw was a sketch of the past and future of the 166-square-mile island nation in the Caribbean, about 250 miles north of Venezuela.

Throw in some tourists and light industry and the picture would be nearly complete.

However, with its industry, tourism, and educational systems growing at the same time—and at varying paces—monkeywrenches are popping up in the machinery. Ironically, the main monkeywrench is the literacy rate, frequently considered a measure of development in a young nation.

In Barbados, with 250,000 people one of the most densely populated nations in the world, 98 per cent of the residents are literate. More than a quarter of the population are students and a fourth of the national budget goes to education.

The island's free school system has produced a large group of persons prepared and educated for work—but the work isn't available. Unemployment is at least at 10 per cent.

Some youths who cannot find jobs continue their education and learn the hotel trades so they can wait on tables or tend bar for the tourists. In 1970 13,000 persons were employed in tourist-related fields.

While the high literacy rate and the upgrading of skills that has accompanied it have contributed to the problems of finding workers for certain low skill jobs, they also have helped industry fill other positions.

"The mere fact of being able to read and write doesn't in itself create job opportunities, but we have benefitted from being a literate society," said Philip Greaves, the minister of housing, lands, labor and national insurance. The benefits, he said, were in the reduced training time it takes to teach a worker who can read and comprehend instructions telling him how to operate a machine.

The jobs they can be trained for are primarily in light industry. Barbados has about 80 small factories—light aluminum products, umbrellas, clothing and biscuits, to name a few which have been recently established.

Literacy has been an asset in another island program—birth control. A poster on a bus warns: "Accidents can happen. Let the Family Planning Association check your brakes." The analogy is not apparently effective.

The birth rate has declined over the past 10 years, from nearly 35 births for every 1,000 citizens in 1960, to about 25 per 1,000 in 1970.

But the population is still growing, with the death rate remaining steady.

Barbados' problems, like those of most developing nations, have been complicated by a "brain drain," with students leaving the island to complete their higher education in the United States and England—as have the two children of Prime Minister Errol W. Barrow. Others look for jobs off the island.

As on most islands in the Caribbean, the American influence is strong. The Barbados Hilton and Holiday Inn are recent additions and sunbathers have only to walk a few yards from one of the most popular beaches to lunch on Kentucky Fried Chicken offered in the familiar red and white cardboard box.

Yet while the American presence is being felt, the orientation is still very much British.

While blacks, who make up nearly 90 per cent of the population, are moving into lower and middle level management positions most bank tellers, for example, are black—and blacks are predominant in nearly all government positions, including those at the top, the leading manufacturers and investors are white and frequently foreign.

Barbados has other problems similar to those of undeveloped and developed countries alike, such as a housing shortage and high prices. Plus its own unique one: trying to match an educated population with the jobs and skills that are needed by society.
