At N.C. Demo Convention

Wallace Forces Blocked From Offering Delegates

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Shouting, hissing delegates to North Carolina's Democratic convention Tuesday shut out followers of Alabama Gov. George Wallace in their attempt to nominate national delegates favoring his presidential bid.

A vote of delegates in the closing minutes of the seven-hour convention shut off nominations for the party's 14 at-large delegates to the Miami Beach convention, leaving Wallace supporter Joe R. Brown of Greensboro with his proposed slate still in hand.

The action brought an angry outburst from Brown, who shouted to convention chairman Charles Winberry: "You lied to me. The Democratic party is going to suffer."

Brown's try came seconds after the delegates voted to suspend rules adopted earlier and declare nominated the slate of 14 persons recommended by a committee headed by party chairman John Church.

The suspended rule would have allowed Brown to submit his own slate of nominees.

A scattering of boos came up from the convention floor when Brown, who had been waiting for several minutes to get Winberry's recognition, shouted into the microphone set for the 6th District delegation.

His was the last of a series of loud outcries during the day as delegates fought repeatedly over parliamentary procedures, amendments to the party platform and finally the national convention delegates.

Added to their confusion was a prior commitment by officials of Dorton Arena to turn over the State Fairgrounds building to professional wrestlers Tuesday night.

Workmen entered the convention floor while the last roll call vote was being counted, chasing delegates from the 9th, 10th and 11th Districts to the sidelines so they could begin removing more than 2,500 folding chairs from the floor.

A record number of blacks and young people attended the convention which adopted amendments from the floor to a proposed platform that greatly extended provisions dealing with labor and human relations.

The amendments include:

—To extend minimum wage laws to cover household and farm laborers, including migrants.

—To create a state fair employment practices commission with strong officers.

—To condemn all persecution of black leaders by law enforcement officers.

—To guarantee blacks one of two Democratic seats on county boards of election in counties where Democrats are in a majority, and blacks make up 25 per cent of the population.

Wallace won 37 first-ballot convention votes from North Carolina by leading the May 6 presidential primary. The other 27 votes are committed to Duke University President Terry Sanford, who ran second to Wallace.

Brown said before the convention that Wallace supporters had been blocked from their appropriate representation at most levels.

Forty-eight of the 64 national convention delegates were nominated earlier at district meetings. The state convention named Irwin Belk and Mary Winfield, the party's national committee members, as delegates.

At-large delegates named by the convention include Mickey Hanula, Wake County; Mrs. Frank Forsyth, Forsyth County; Lee Wing, Durham; Martha McKay, Orange; Betty McCain, Wilson; Becky Hannah, Cabarrus; Jeannette Council, Cumberland; Dolly Burton, Onslow; Mrs. Carl Loftin, Buncombe; Velma Jackson, Forsyth; Mrs. Luther Hodges, Wake; David Reid, Pitt; Wilbur Hobby, Durham, and John Wheeler Durham.

State Sen. Clyde Norton of McDowell County and Joyce Watts, 25, a black Charlotte housewife, were named presidential electors at-large.

The delegates met Tuesday night and named to the national committee Mrs. Gladys Bullard of Raleigh and Dr. Eugene Posten, president of Gardner-Webb College at Boiling Springs. They were recommended by Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, Democratic gubernatorial nominee. Gov. Bob Scott was named chairman of the delegation to the convention in Miami.

Food Prices Decline, But Living Cost Index Soars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices dropped last month but substantial increases for clothing and transportation contributed to the largest rise in overall living costs in three months, the government reported today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family spending, rose three-tenths of one per cent in May to 124.7.

This means it cost $12.47 in May on the average for every $10 worth of goods and services in the base period five years ago.

The report said, however, that price increases in the past six months of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls climbed at an annual rate of 3.5 per cent, down from 4 per cent in the six months prior to the beginning of federal controls.

The bureau also reported that average wages of some 50 million rank and file workers rose two cents per hour and 74 cents per week to $133.21 and continued to outpace inflation.

It said the average wage was up $7.72, or 6.2 per cent, per week over the past year and after deduction for the 3.2 per cent rise in living costs, purchasing power was up $3.35 or 2.8 per cent per week.

However, the report added that the largest part of the rise in purchasing power was due to lower income taxes.

The price report said grocery costs, which usually show no change in May, declined two-tenths of 1 per cent. The largest drop was a decline of nine-tenths of 1 per cent for meats, poultry and fish.

Grant Okayed

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today the approval of grant funds totaling $798,092 for the Greenville Redevelopment Commission by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Jones said that the Central Business District urban renewal project will receive $700,512 and the Newton project will get an allocation of $97,580.

Commission chairman Billy Laughinghouse said this morning that both of the items involve approval by HUD of an amendment of plans already in progress for the two projects to provide for additional costs of relocation brought about by the Uniform Relocation Law that went in to effect January 1 of last year.

Laughinghouse said that HUD agreed to pay the additional cost of relocations set forth by passage of the law and the commission submitted a request for the additional funds.

Congressman Jones reported that, to date, HUD has obligated a total of $6,211,695 for the CBD and Newtown projects.

Seven New Doctors Are Welcomed To Hospital By Board Of Trustees

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Seven new doctors were welcomed to the staff of Pitt Memorial Hospital last night when the Hospital Board of Trustees granted them privileges to practice there.

The new physicians are Dr. Jim Carter, minor privileges in general and thoracic surgery; Dr. David H. Riddick, minor privileges in internal medicine and hematology; Dr. Larry Mumford, minor privileges in pediatrics; Dr. Quentin A. Mewborn, minor privileges in family medicine; Dr. R. H. Stewart, courtesy privileges in dermatology, and Dr. William H. Waugh, consulting privileges in internal medicine.

All will begin practice here at various time during the summer. Dr. Stewart is filling in for Dr. Billy Jones at times and Dr. Waugh is a member of the faculty of the East Carolina School of Medicine.

Rick Van Benthuysen, a physician's assistant who has been working in obstetrics and gynecology here recently, was also granted privileges just for the meeting minutes, though he is no longer here.

Chief of Staff Dr. Earl Trevathan reported that the staff and Kenneth Dews, as a representative of the trustees, had met with Dr. Glenn Fordham of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine to discuss the possibility of participating in a physician education program here. The matter was turned over to the liaison committee formed last month to come up with a proposal, he said.

Reprisal Raid

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli air and ground forces entered Lebanon in a reprisal raid today and captured senior Syrian and Lebanese army officers, the Israeli command announced.

The raid occurred about 12 hours after the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine claimed responsibility for two attacks on the border Tuesday. Four Israelis, two of them soldiers, were wounded. The Popular Front previously had claimed responsibility for the Tel Aviv airport massacre May 30 in which 26 persons were killed.

Israeli warplanes and artillery pounded Arab guerrilla camps in the eastern corner of the Lebanese-Israeli border, a spokesman said.

The Israeli raiders captured three colonels and two lieutenant colonels of the Syrian armed forces and a Lebanese captain, the state radio reported.

Witnesses in southern Lebanon reported Israeli planes raided three villages, killing and wounding an unknown number of people.

McGovern Wins Large Majority Of New York Delegates In Primary

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern captured a massive majority of New York's 278 delegates, winning the last 1972 primary by a margin that brought him within 200 votes of a first ballot victory at next month's Democratic National Convention.

Long before most votes were tallied, McGovern told cheering supporters in a New York hotel ballroom Tuesday night that the victory seemed likely to be "beyond our wildest expectations" and added, "I'm convinced now that we will win the nomination in Miami Beach."

The results hours later bore out his optimism. Nearly complete totals early today showed McGovern had won 220 delegates and led for six more. Two were in doubt. His over-all New York total seemed likely to surpass 250 of the state's 278 delegates, well above his predicted target of 200.

The smashing McGovern victory overshadowed a series of hotly fought Democratic congressional races, highlighted by the Brooklyn contest in which 30-year-old Elizabeth Holtzman unseated 84-year-old Rep. Emanuel Celler, the dean of the House and long-time chairman of its Judiciary Committee.

Another woman, the flamboyant Rep. Bella Abzug, lost her House seat to Rep. William F. Ryan in a district combined by reapportionment. Rep. Jonathan Bingham defeated Rep. James Scheuer in a similarly merged district.

Most of the 78 Republican delegates picked Tuesday support President Nixon.

The Democratic presidential primary results, a contest in which voters chose delegates without any ballot listing of presidential candidates, were a setback to Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, who are trying to block McGovern's nomination.

Humphrey had hoped for election of many uncommitted delegates, Muskie for some of his own supporters.

August Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of men to be drafted in August has been set at 8,900 from lottery numbers through No. 75, Selective Service officials announced.

Acting draft director Byron Pepitone said Tuesday the draft will not reach beyond No. 100 this year, and a spokesman said it probably will hover around 75. The callup ceiling was No. 50 for July.

Those to be August inductees will receive their notices starting July 3. At the same time, pre-induction examinations have been scheduled for prime draft candidates through No. 100.

The August callup will bring the total drafted in 1972 to 31,100, over half the 50,000 ceiling set by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Blood Quota Is Topped At Burroughs Wellcome

A one-day bloodmobile visit at the Burroughs Wellcome plant here Tuesday resulted in the collection of 167 units, exceeding the set plant quota, according to blood chairman Douglas Morgan.

Morgan said that the bloodmobile's first visit to the pharmaceutical plant "was real pleasant and successful" and a "fine example for them to set in the community."

In addition to the units collected, Morgan added, there were 43 persons rejected for a total of 210 who turned out to give. "Many of them gave during their lunch hour," he added.

The chairman noted that plant manager Harry Leslie was the first in line yesterday morning and gave the first pint of blood. Morgan commended visit coordinators Bill Sneed and Tom Hanifer at Burroughs Wellcome for their efforts and also plant nurse, Mrs. Elizabeth Briley. The Greenville Service League was also on hand for valuable assistance, he said.

Morgan reported that the plant visit was the last for Pitt County in this fiscal year and the county's overall showing "fell a little short of the annual quota. But we did make a good showing at Burroughs Wellcome yesterday and that was a great help."

The plant visit will be arranged on an annual basis, Morgan said, and will be organized next year around this time.

The first visit of the new fiscal year to the county will be on July 7 at the Moose Lodge from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Examining The Problem

JUMPED TRACKS—Seaboard Coast Line Railroad (workmen) attempt to lift two cars that derailed here yesterday, back onto the tracks. Seaboard official J.S. Wilkes, trainmaster from Rocky Mount said that the train was switching cars along the tracks at the intersection of 14th and Railroad Streets when the north end of one car derailed, causing the south end of the other car to derail. Wilkes said that no damage resulted and workmen had the intersection clear in a matter of minutes. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Antidote Rushed Here By SHP

The promptness with which an antidote was brought from Durham by the North Carolina Highway Patrol is credited with saving the lives of two Pitt County children over the weekend.

Dr. Ben Shappley cited the Patrol for relaying a supply of Deferoxamine from the Duke Medical Center Poison Control unit Saturday evening. He called for the antidote to an overdose of iron to treat two boys, one and a half and three years old, who were brought in by the Ayden Rescue Squad after having taken a quantity of their mother's iron supplement tablets.

One child was unconscious from shock and acidosis, Dr. Shappley said, and the other was quite ill, also. The physician administered all of the antidote he had on hand immediately, he said, but needed more to effect recovery. One child is now doing fine and the other should soon be released from the hospital, Dr. Shappley said. He declined to release names of the children.

In addition to praising the Highway Patrol, Dr. Shappley warned about the danger of iron supplements taken in large amounts. Eight or nine of the tablets can be fatal to a small child if an antidote is not promptly administered, he said. The dosage that can be lethal depends on body weight, of course.

Miss Loretta Hardison Weds Sunday Afternoon

MRS. LUTHER DAWSON BAILEY

WILLIAMSTON—Miss Loretta Estelle Hardison and Luther Dawson Bailey pledged their wedding vows at 4:00 Sunday afternoon in the Fairview Christian Church here. Lemuel Hardison, brother of the bride and minister of the Tranters Creek Church of Christ, Washington, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Hardison of Rt. 1, Williamston. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Seth Bailey of Bear Grass... Miss Susan Lilley presented a program of wedding music prior to the ceremony. Mrs. J.R. Williams accompanied Mrs. Wayne Manning who sang "O Promise Me" and "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Church decorations featured a massive arrangement of pink and white gladioli flanked by seven branched candelabra entwined with ivy and with twin baskets of gladioli identical to the central arrangement. The piano was centered with an arrangement of gladioli banked with magnolia, and the entire base of the platform was banked with magnolia. Completing the setting was a white satin kneeling bench entwined with ivy and tied with large white bows with white gladioli, and backed by a three branched candelabra holding the tapers which the bride and bridegroom used in the ceremony.

As the bride was being escorted to the altar by her father, she presented a single long-stemmed rose to her mother.

The bride wore a formal gown of white satin peau de soie which she designed and created. The bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline edged with lace appliques and accented with a cameo pendant which the bride wore as her only jewelry. The back of the gathered skirt featured a deep pleat at the waistline which formed the chapel length train. Streamers fell from a large satin bow at the waist and extended the length of the train. Lace appliques accented the skirt front and bordered the train. Satin bridal buttons adorned the back of the dress and the cuffs of the full lace bishop sleeves.

The bride's bouffant veil was designed and given to her by Miss Louise Latham of Fayetteville. The elbow length veil of imported silk illusion fell in tiers from a Camelot headpiece. She carried a Georgianna orchid of a bridal Bible showered with streamers and fern.

Mrs. Clarence T. Woolard of Greenville attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of blue floral embossed voile featuring a tucked empire bodice and band collar. Her picture hat of blue was banded with blue velvet ribbon and bow with streamers extending from the back. She carried a single blue tinted long-stemned mum with ribbon to match that on her headpiece.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Larry Hardison, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Paul Mobley, and Miss Nadine Williams. Their pink gowns and headpieces were styled identically to the matron of honor Miss Marcia Corbin of Richmond, Va., niece of the bridegroom, Miss Cynthia Tyre, Miss Susan Lilley, and Miss Brenda Lilley were honorary bridesmaids and were dressed like the attendants except in lavendar.

Miss Laurie Corbin of Richmond, Va., niece of the bridegroom, scattered flower petals from a white basket in the path of the bride. She was dressed as the attendants in a formal length gown of white voile embossed with pink, blue, and lavendar flowers. Her headpiece was a miniature of the bride's.

Steven Ray Hardison, of Washington, nephew of the bride, seved as ring bearer.

Mrs. Bailey attended his son as best man. Larry Hardison, brother of the bride, A. D. Bailey, brother of the bridegroom, and Clarence Woolard, brother-in-law of the bride, served as ushers.

Miss Kathy Griffin served at the bride's register in the church foyer. She wore a green floral formal length gown accented with a white pom pon corsage.

Mrs. Lemuel Hardison of Washington, sister -in-law of the bride, directed the wedding. She wore a pink formal length gown accented with a white pom pon corsage.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Hardison, wore a deep rose poylester knit dress with matching accessories. She was peresented a white carnation corsage to complement her attire.

Mrs. Bailey mother of the bridegroom, chose a knit dress of baby pink with matching accessories. She was presented a white carnation corsage by the bridegroom.

After the pledging of the traditional vows, the bride quoted to her husband the vows of Ruth. Following the giving and receiving of rings the bride and bridegroom each lifted a lighted taper and together lighted a single candle.

The bride dressed for the wedding trip in a pastel yellow knit dress adorned by the orchid lifted from her Bible.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Jamesville High School and is enrolled for fall term at Beaufort Technical Institute to train for medical laboratory technician. The bridegroom is a 1970 graduate of Bear Grass High School and is currently employed by J.A. Hackney and Sons, Washington.

After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in Washington.

After-Rehearsal Party

Immediately following the Bailey-Hardison rehearsal the bride and bridegroom were honored at a cake cutting at the home of the bride's parents.

The event was hosted by Mrs. Dallas Rodgers and Mrs. Levie Dixon of Washington.

Upon arrival, guests were greeted and invited to register in the bride's book by Mrs. Don Tenney of Raleigh.

The bride chose for the occasion, a white knit dress and was presented a pink pom pon corsage by the hostesses.

The bridal table was laid with pink linen and centered with an arrangement of pink and white gladioli flanked by burning white tapers.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slices of cake, Mrs. A.D. Bailey, sister-in-law of the bridegroom served cake and Mrs. Shirley Corbin, sister of the bridegroom poured punch.

The couple remembered their wedding party with gifts during the evening.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Gay of Rt. 2, Farmville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynn, to Kenneth Edward Hobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy L. Hobbs of Snow Hill. The wedding will take place July 9.

Family Used Police Whistle Camping

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: In this morning's paper there was another story about a child who was lost in the mountains while camping with his family. Why does this tragedy have to occur every year?

I would like to pass on a suggestion which we have used in years gone by because we, too, were a camping family.

Each of us was equipped with a police whistle, which we wore around our necks. If one of us lost his direction or became separated from the others, he could just give a long toot to let us know where to look for him. Children being children, there was a lot of miscellaneous tooting at first, but after the novelty wore off, our whistles became as important to our camping trips as sleeping bags.

Hopefully others can benefit from this idea.

EX CAMPER

DEAR EX: I'm sure many campers are aware of the toot method, but it doesn't hurt to remind those who don't. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: "On the Verge" complained because his wife was "frigid." He described himself as "6 feet 2, well-built, head full of premature gray hair," etc.

Then "Sleeping Alone in Virginia" came back with the perfect rebut. She said, "There are no cold women—only clumsy men."

I am a man in my middle 50s, and I am far from good looking. In fact, I'm a little heavy, not very tall, and you might even call me homely, but I have been with plenty of women, and I have yet to find one that's frigid.

I am not saying this to brag, but once I was with a woman I had no trouble seeing her again. It's my opinion that if a woman is "frigid," it's because the man is selfish, impatient, inconsiderate or just plain stupid.

DOING ALL RIGHT

DEAR DOING: You are living proof of what I have always contended. The ear is the most important organ in love-making. If a woman hears the right things from her lover, almost everything else is incidental. And you certainly say the right things, Mister.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me how to handle a problem that really upsets me.

My husband [I'll call him Dick] is a wonderful person, but when we go to visit my parents he walks in the door, says "Hello," and then he sits down and doesn't say anything else the rest of the time we are there.

My poor father tries so hard to make conversation with Dick, but he can't get a word out of him.

Dick has always been quiet, but this is inexcusable. He says he thinks the world of my parents, so what can I do?

HURT WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If he "thinks the world" of your parents, it's time he broke the sound barrier. For openers, suggest that he say something about the subject that interests both of them. Sports? Politics? Current events? Books? Entertainment? The person who sits in company like a wart on a pickle is making a statement. It's either, "I have nothing to say," or, "You aren't worth talking to."

DEAR ABBY: I have heard of a new father passing out cigars to celebrate the birth of a baby, but what do you think of a grandmother passing out cigars for a new grandchild? This really happened. In fact, she has done it twice already. Is it proper?

WONDERING IN WELLSBORO, PA.

DEAR WONDERING: I wouldn't criticize anyone for giving away anything in the spirit of joy and generosity.

DEAR ABBY: A mailman offered the following information in your column: "If someone receives something thru the mails which he did not order and does not want, all he has to do is write, 'Refused. Return to Sender' on it and drop it in the mail. If he has opened it, he should simply tape it shut, and return it in the aforementioned manner."

This is only partially correct. Anything sent thru the mail which has been opened by the addressee, cannot be re-entered into the mail without being properly re-addressed and new postage affixed.

Please correct that mailman's original statement. He should have known better. INFORMED IN PHOENIX

DEAR INFORMED: I should have, too. But it's been a long time since I've played "post office."

Prints Growing In Popularity

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Vacation-bound art lovers, who browse galleries for inexpensive works, will find that more art is available for every pocketbook now that prints are being accepted as art.

With the fading popularity of the psychedelic poster, even though prized varieties command big prices, good prints have moved into vacant spots on art-laden walls.

Well-known galleries are hanging original prints, costing less than $100, alongside paintings, drawings and watercolors worth thousands of dollars. And many prints of the well-known contemporary artists are in the under-$200 bracket.

Original prints—woodcuts, etchings, lithographs—are numbered and signed by artists to keep the output limited.

"Up until now people have been worried whether prints are art," points out Ivan Jankovsky, vice-president of Nabis Fine Arts, a group that provides original prints to galleries.

"But the now-idea in art," he continued, "is to buy the artistic expression you like. Why turn down something you like because you don't recognize the name of the artist."

There are prints to please all art tastes—master prints of great modern artists, new contemporary artists, old masters, pop, realist and whatever. And multiples—a kind of graphics technique in three-dimensional art that can be produced by machine may be the newest art trend, he comments.

One problem, however, is art terminology, Jankovsky points out. It confuses people. Many do not know how an original print is different from a reproduction.

An original print is a master image the artist has put on plate, stone or wood block for the purpose of creating a print, he explains. It was approved by the artist and produced in limited quantities which he signs with an edition number. An artist's signature on the print's work greatly enhances the work and sets it apart from inexpensive copies that he signed on stone before they are reproduced photographically.

People often ask why one Picasso or Miro print costs more than another, and why the poster of one artist costs more than another.

"If Picasso signed the work on stone before the painting was printed, it has less value because one cannot tell how many prints were run off. But if he signed the picture on the outside, the edition is probably limited to 50 or so. ..."

Some classifications of art are:

A reproduction is a copy of an original work of art. It is transferred to a plate or stone by photographic means and reproductions are run off. These vary in quality and price depending on the degree of care used in copying the original.

A copy of a painting is one that an artist has copied from an original.

Original prints may be lithographs, engravings, serigraphs, etchings, woodcuts.

A lithograph is more like drawing or painting as the artist makes his design on a smooth surface.

Engraving is a process that leaves ink in the furrows of a design made by an artist on a soft metal.

Etchings are made by artists drawing images on plates with a needle-like instrument.

Woodcuts are artists' impressions on hard wood. Linoleum also is used but the line may not be as fine as the woodcut.

Serigraphs are artists' designs that have been guided through silk fabric so that the color goes to the paper beneath it.

PickAPatsy: Awards For Animals

By AP Newsfeatures

Pick a Patsy—any Patsy—one like Frith or Zorro, Ott or even Pax.

What's a Patsy? It's the Performing Animal Top Star of the Year—one animal, like Frith the goose, or Zorro the raccoon, who gave the best performance in a single television performance, television series or a feature motion picture.

The Patsy awards have been presented for the past 21 years—to such famous animals as Lassie, of the TV series, Cat, in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," and Pascal, the raccoon in the movie "Pascal."

But while these awards are fun, there's a serious purpose behind them too. That is to honor the trainers and handlers behind those performances—the men and women who not only help their animals "act" but who also must adhere to the standards of the American Humane Association regarding humane animal treatment.

The Hollywood arm of the national AHA came into being in 1940. Prior to that time animal handling in film production was subject to no regulations whatsoever.

The public and various humane groups complained in vain until 1939, when a film, "Jesse James," was made. In it, a horse was deliberately run off a cliff for the sake of realism and died as a result. The story was big news, and Hollywood started listening to the AHA.

According to Harold Melniker, director of the Hollywood office of the AHA, seeing that animals are better cared for in the movie industry has been an uphill battle. For instance, many of the westerns used the "running W," a system of wires used to trip a horse at full gallop for spectacular falls. "When the horse comes to the end of the wire his feet are pulled out from under him. He crashes head over heels, nose-first," Melniker explains.

To try and stop the use of the "running W" and other procedures such as excessive yanking of reins, spurring and even deliberately killing animals, the Motion Picture Code adopted the provision that the AHA was to be consulted when animal action was planned and was to be invited to have an inspector on duty during filming.

The American Humane Association invites you to vote for the Performing Animal Top Star of the Year, in the 22nd annual Patsy Awards. Each year these awards pay tribute to the best animal performances in a single television show, television series and feature motion picture. To be eligible all nominees must be handled in accordance with the AHA standards regarding humane animal treatment.

You and your family now have a chance to help your favorite animal performer win this award. Vote now, by checking one animal actor's name in each category. Then mail your ballot to:

Area Is Growing Retail Market

The 1970 Census of Housing for Pitt County shows that our area is increasing as a retail market.

The Census figures released by the Bureau of Census, show that there were 22,874 housing units in the county in 1970. Some 19,636 of these had television sets, 9,929 had air conditioning, 14,716 had washing machines, 3,868 had clothes dryers and 1,905 had diswashers.

There were 73,900 people in the county in 1970 with an average of 3.3 persons per household.

It is interesting to note the increase in new housing units in recent years. The report showed a total of 11,299 housing units were built prior to 1949. During the 1950s 4,498 were constructed, 2,436 were built during 1960-64 and 4,467 were built during the five years preceding the census.

Some 19,560 housing units had complete kitchen facilities and 17,023 had complete bathrooms.

The figures show that there has been a good increase in construction of housing units here and the new homes apparently are equipped with more conveniences.

We expect that this trend has continued during the two years since the census was taken. It is not a spectacular growth; however, it is the steady, healthy growth which our area needs.

Wiretapping Requires Closest Supervision

The Supreme Court's rulling against the administration's wiretapping of suspected subversives is a good one.

The court delivered an 8-0 opinion against such wiretapping without court permission.

Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr. described telephone taps and listening devices as "constitutionally sensitive."

We agree. Wiretapping, if used at all, should be under the closest supervision of the courts. It is an invasion of privacy and a threat to freedom of speech.

N.C. Scraping Barrel Bottom

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina is scrapping the bottom of the barrel for funds to pay legal counsel for indigents just when the U.S. Supreme Court has expanded the right to legal representation at state expense.

How to meet the dollar dilemma has court officials in a quandary. They are debating alternatives which could include, as a last resort, a special session of the legislature.

"We are doing a lot of talking and thinking," said Frank W. Bullock Jr., assistant director of the administrative office of the courts.

The current fiscal year's budget is "down to the final dollars and pennies," Bullock reported. The impact of the new court decision makes uncertain how far the appropriation for the coming fiscal year can be stretched.

"We will have to find emergency money from some source, or ask lawyers to contribute their services," Bullock said.

Particular attention will be given the subject this week at the annual conferences of court officials. Superior Court judges meet in Myrtle Beach, S.C., solicitors at Wilmington, and district court judges at Pinehurst.

Boost For Public Defender

The crisis has created fresh support for the public defender system now used in two judicial districts. Experience there indicates it can accomplish savings over court assignement of legal counsel for indigents.

Wider use of the public defender is a long range solution which would require legislative action, Bullock noted. The immediate problem is sufficient funds for operation under the new guidelines until the '73 session convenses next January.

Unless emergency funding can be arranged, a special session might be the final alternative.

The import of the recent Supreme Court decision is that counsel must be provided upon request for any defendant facing a charge which could lead to a prison sentence.

Impact On Expenditures

"It could have a tremendous impact on the expenditures of the state," said Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

What the cost will be is conjecture at this point. North Carolina already spends close to $2 million per year for assigned counsel. The increased demand could mean half as much again.

The public defender system may well be the means to control the cost, Morgan agreed.

"I guess I do, reluctantly," he replied to the question whether he favors expansion of the public defender system beyond the present two judicial districts. It has operated approximately two years on a pilot basis in the 12th (Cumberland and Hoke counties) and 18th (Guilford) districts

"I was not an advocate of the public defender approach in the beginning. I have to concede I was wrong in that it has worked well where it has been tried," Morgan said. "I've heard nothing but praise for it."

No Loss of Quality

His initial concern, Morgan explained, was that the quality of representation for defendants might be less than that given by assigned counse. That does not appear to have been the case, he added.

Wallace Harrelson, Guilford public defender, said experience there has proven the approach is "the most efficient and economical method of providing counsel to indigents."

For the year 1970, he said, the cost of the Guilford public defender office was half that of the assigned counsel system used the year before and twice as many cases were handled.

Harrelson compared expenditures for indigent counsel in Guilford with those in Mecklenburg, still under the assigned counsel plan. In the last fiscal year, the Guilford cost was $80,845 while the Mecklenburg expenditures ran to $175,000.

While the public defender system has obvious advantages in urgan districts, Morgan said, it would not transplant well to rural areas where fewer cases are handled. For example, in districts where assigned counsel costs are less than $20,000 per year, he said, it would be impossible to set up a full-time public defender office and staff for that amount.

McGovern Has N.Y. Troubles

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — On his way to a virtually unopposed romp in The New York Democratic primary, Sen. George McGovern stumbled badly in the Herculean task of harnessing wary party regulars to his own militant forces in the coming battle against President Nixon.

Not even battle-seasoned New Yorkers, much less an outlander from South Dakota, can play the cannibal politics of this city without suffering wounds. But McGovern got the worst of two worlds: doubt by the regulars whether he can control his own forces sufficiently to win New York; disappointment bordering on disillusion by McGovernites over the Senator's consorting with the hated regulars.

Once again, as in his unsuccessful interview with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, McGovern has shown less than a deft hand in trying to broaden his base. But in New York he also had trouble controlling his own political apparatus.

This became clear June 12 when McGovern's New York operation, headed by 20-year-old Ed Rogoff, scheduled a rally in front of Brooklyn Borough Hall without informing the Brooklyn regulars—including Meade Esposito, the county leader. What's more, to introduce McGovern the local McGovern operation invited Allard K. Lowenstein, national president of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), who is battling the organization to unseat Rep. John J. Rooney in the Democratic primary.

Esposito was outraged that McGovern did not invite him to a rally down the street from Brooklyn Democratic headquarters. Less than three weeks earlier, Esposito and Bronx regular Democratic leader Pat Cunningham flew to San Francisco—at their own expense and McGovern's request—to formally endorse McGovern. Here in New York, Cunningham found himself in the same boat as Esposito. He received a last-minute invitation to attend a Bronx rally that night arranged by Cunningham's reform enemies.

These were no accidents. Youthful McGovern leaders deeply resented the Senator's overtures to the regulars to broaden his national base beyond college campus and affluent suburbs. Although the Brooklyn and Bronx organizations are patronage-starved shadows of their former glory and their ability to influence general elections is debatable, Esposito and Cunningham were intended to reassure party regulars everywhere that the McGovern candidacy transcends insurgency.

Consequently, shortly after the rally, McGovern hastily telephoned Esposito. Unable to contact him at his local Democratic club, he reached him at home that night and profusely apologized. He then invited Esposito and Cunningham for lunch two days later.

At that lunch June 14, in McGovern's Biltmore suite, the regulars complained McGovern is being exploited by the reformers in aligning him with insurgent candidates for Congress and legislature. At their urging, McGovern issued a carefully-worded statement indicating neutrality in such races.

But the basic problem is infinitely more complex. Esposito is still angered by campaign literature for insurgent candidates stressing the link with McGovern. Such literature reflects the intertwining of McGovern's and insurgent campaigns. To separate the Lowenstein and MGovern campaigns in Brooklyn's 17th Congressional District would be like unscrambling eggs.

The Biltmore luncheon dealt with substance as well as form. Today, the regulars told McGovern, he stands to lose this state to Mr. Nixon. To avoid this, they recommended the Democratic national platform moderate his stands on amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers and his $1,000-for-everybody welfare plan and make hard law-and-order recommendations against crime.

McGovern made no commitments, but the mere discussion of such non-radical politics would have brought goose pimples to his devoted New York activists. Indeed, many were deeply

Strength For Today

WHAT IS COWARD ICE?

A college boy came to a visiting preacher one day evidently much excited and asked that he might have a word of counsel with him at the close of a service. The minister saw that the boy was under intense emotional strain. The boy showed the minister a letter from a girl he was in love with back home which contained this arresting sentence: "I think you are a coward, and I think I ought to tell you."

This was the background of the scene. Both the boy and the girl came from refined and respectable homes where their ways of life were definitely built on decency and religious faith. The boy had joined a fraternity, started to drink, dipped into other forms of indulgence, and had come to the place where he did not have very much of an idea of what was right or wrong beyond his own personal desires. The girl back home got wind of this and she wrote him saying "I think you are a coward and I think I ought to tell you."

If you know some young person who is starting to compromise, will you tell him for me that he is an awful fool, that he is throwing happiness away with both hands, and that he can never know what the real satisfactions of life are until he does an about-face and never again looks back on the old way of life? The Bible does not say fight youthful lusts, but says, "Flee youthful lusts." Jesus never contended with the devil; he turned his back on him.

Kennedy For Conductor

WASHINGTON — No matter how you slice it, when people start talking about the Democratic convention, Teddy Kennedy's name invariably comes up. Last week it was reported that he said he would take the vice-presidential spot if it meant the difference between victory and defeat for the Democratic Party. Then he spent the next day denying he was a vice-presidential candidate.

The one option that Teddy Kennedy still has left open is his availability as conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra. It is no secret that Kennedy has been seriously considered for the leadership of the National Symphony, and it is rumored that if there is a deadlock at the next meeting of the National Symphony Board in July, Kennedy could be the compromise candidate.

I went to see Sen. Kennedy on Capitol Hill to discuss it with him. He seemed very relaxed as he tilted back in his leather chair.

"Senator, are you running for conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra?"

He shook his head. "I have no interest in running for the National Symphony at this time."

"When you say this time,

ART BUCHWALD

does that mean you might consider it later?"

"I have said on many occasions that I am very happy in the Senate and I have no musical ambitions."

"Does this mean you wouldn't even consider being first violinist with the orchestra?"

"No one has discussed the first violinist job with me, so I believe the question is hypothetical."

"Sen. Kennedy, there are some people in Washington who say you are the only person who can bring the National Symphony together."

"I don't subscribe to that. I think we have many fine people who could lead the National Symphony and I am prepared to support the candidate whom the board nominates."

"I know you have said this many times, Senator, but members of your staff and friends have said that while you would not openly seek the position as conductor, there is always a possibility that you could change your mind."

"My staff and friends are not speaking for me."

"Could you possibly conceive of any conditions where you would accept a draft as conductor or run for first violinist with the orchestra?"

"I would not exclude the possibilities. If I believed my

The decision of the International Federation of Airline Pilots to have its 50,000 pilots refuse to fly, which had been scheduled to begin today, has one similarity to a ordinary strike: the inconvenience to the people served by the airlines.

There the similarity ends. The goal of the strike by the airline pilots in not self-centered; no material gain is sought. The stakes are higher: the lives and safety of thousands of air passengers and their property. Too, the strike is only temporary, called in order to dramatize the plea of the pilots for better airport safeguards against hijackers and extortionists.

We feel that most passengers and the public in general will support the motives of the airline pilots as they seek to bring some sanity and safety back to the business of aerial transportation.

In simple terms, the airline pilots association is calling a 24-hour grounding of all commercial planes in order to protest the failure of the United Nations to act effectively against international hijackings and extortion crimes.

If the pilots had simply studied the past performance—or rather, the lack of it—of the United Nations, they would have found that their hopes for action in the world body were ill-fated.

Solutions of the worldwide hijack problem must, therefore, be sought elsewhere. Even so, the airline pilots' position deserves the simpathy of all, for the flight cessation was forced because of the lack of effective international measures to stem the tide of unlawful interference with civil aviation and constitutes a strong expression of deep concern and solidarity on the part of the world's aviation community.

It seems passing strange that the governments of the world have not been able to cope with this 20th-century piracy of a kind that threatens helpless people in mid-air. What is needed, of course, is tough laws. Hanging the hijackers and aerial extortionists would be a giant step to stop this vicious type of crime.

Another giant step would be to boycott all Communist countries which refuse to cooperate in an international movement to eradicate hijackers. When Red police states like Algeria and Cuba give asylum to hijackers, then the international eviation community should simply mark them off the list of stops. The considerable inconvenience resulting from such a boycott would cause the Red bosses to reconsider.

A Job To Be Enjoyed

By WES COOK
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Mom, don't worry about the sharks, I don't. The moray eels really scare me though."

That's how the letters began. The writer was our son, Bob, whose interest is marine biology. He wanted experience and the chance to follow his interests "where the action is."

So he bought a used laundry truck and converted it to a mobile home—of sorts—and four days after his 21st birthday he set off for Marineland of Florida, the nation's pioneer oceanarium about 15-miles south of St. Augustine.

Two weeks after his arrival he was given a tryout as a "hard-hat diver," feeding and working under 12 to 20 feet of water with some of the nearly 3,000 specimens of marine life on exhibit.

Opened in 1938, Marineland is dedicated to study and research in marine biology. It also offers the public a unique experience in its educational and entertaining exhibits.

Bob wrote: "The first few weeks I was upset about the nurse sharks, which are like hungry puppy dogs crowding to get food. Everyone said they were harmless, but my mind said that anything that could swallow a 10-inch fish whole could also do a good job on my hand."

Other letters that followed contained these gems to quiet parental concern:

"Work isn't going bad at all. I don't mind getting bit. It's my fault anyway if I do..."

"I walked a shark today, about a 7-footer. It had been caught at sea by the collecting ship and was exhausted. You have to 'walk' them in the water, a sort of artificial respiration to force oxygen-bearing water through their gills until they revive...."

"I've been nipped by nurse sharks, tugged on by huge sea turtles and climbed over by morays, but those porpises have pushed, pulled, and knocked me down and bitten me and I still like them best. I have been bitten so many times this week that I feel like a pin cushion...."

Rumors Fuel Gold Price Climb

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold is in the news again. Amid rumors that vastly important international decisions are imminent, the price of the yellow metal is spurting.

One of the rumors concerns an alleged highest-level secret agreement with Russia under which the United States would raise the price of monetary gold from $38 to as much as $140 an ounce, to be accompanied by a Treasury Department shakeup.

There appears to be no tangible substance to the rumors—nothing that anyone has said or done, no official statements. But gold does odd things to man, and man does odd things with gold.

What gives man this gold complex?

It is beautiful. It is rare. It is pure. It is inert and never deteriorates. It is found all over the world but in such tiny quantities that maybe only 100,000 tons have ever been mined.

It is so malleable that an ounce can be pounded in a 100-foot-square sheet, and because of this and other attributes it is acceptable and desirable.

It is desired in increasing amounts by the electronics and other industries, and so as a commodity whose market responds to supply and demand its price has risen to as high as $68 an ounce.

And because it is acceptable everywhere it has been foundation of international trade, where it is used as the backing for currency.

But gold itself is just too heavy to move about. Instead, governments have devised a system of paper money and assigned to it values in terms of gold. The United States is curator of that value, which is fixed at $38 for monetary purposes.

Until last year a foreign nation could redeem its dollars in gold, but then the United States ended convertibility, and since then nobody seems to be sure just what role gold will play in the future.

It is this interim of indecision that gives rise to the rumors, because everyone knows that a new international agreement must be reached if trade is to thrive. But will gold play a role?

The United States has argued for demonetization of gold, but there appears to be dissent within its ranks. Nations such as Russia and South Africa, which are big producers, naturally want the ties retained.

If gold is to remain as backing for currencies, then there is widespread feeling that the price would have to be higher than $38 an ounce. But if it were raised, wouldn't Communist Russia be showered by a windfall?

That was one obstacle to raising the price, but doubts about whether it still exists are fueling the rumors. President Nixon and Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev got along very well, and some analysts believe that the old deterrent no longer exists.

Adding to the speculation is the sudden resignation of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who advocated a cut in gold's role.

If gold remains as currency backing, then it is clear that man has more faith in the metal than trust in his fellow man. That decision would say, in effect, that paper money backed by a promise is not to be trusted.

North Viets Try Bring Supplies Ashore By Barges

Skyjacking 'Condemned' By UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council unanimously condemned acts against air traffic safety Tuesday night and urged all governments to take effective measures against air pirates.

Council President Lazar Mojsov of Yugoslavia announced the declaration worked out in private consultations of the 15-member body. The council acted after the partial halt of world air transport Monday by pilots demanding international action against hijackers. Traffic returned to normal Tuesday.

The declaration is not as strong as the United States desired, U.S. Ambassador George Bush said. But he welcomed it, as well as plans by the International Civil Aviation Organization—ICAO—to call for sanctions against countries that shelter hijackers.

Mojsov acknowledged that the declaration itself could not end hijacking, but he expressed hope that the unanimity of the council would strengthen the hands of governments to act.

The declaration urged all governments to expand international cooperation to insure maximum safety and reliability of air traffic and to "take appropriate measures within their jurisdiction to deter and prevent" air piracy and "to deal with those who commit such acts."

Israel's U.N. ambassador, Yosef Tekoah, said the test of the resolution would be the reaction of the Arab governments and whether they curb such Arab terrorist organizations as the guerrilla group that sponsored the Tel Aviv airport massacre on May 30.

The ICAO in Montreal, a U.N. specialized agency with 124 member countries, ordered its legal committee to draft a convention obliging its members to take sanctions against nations that shelter or fail to punish hijackers. But reports from Montreal said it would be difficult to get agreement on sanctions from countries that had resisted taking up the question, including the Arab states, the Soviet Union and France.

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam is trying to circumvent the mining of its harbors and rivers by unloading supplies from Chinese ships anchored offshore and bringing them inland aboard barges, U.S. military sources said today.

The sources said the effort has been under way for about 10 days and has had only limited success, primarily because U.S. Navy planes have destroyed many of the barges and receiving points on shore.

"It is not a maximum effort," one source said. However, it is the first reported attempt by the North Vietnamese to bring in supplies in volume since the mining May 9.

The unloading operations have been under way at two coastal islands, one off Haiphong and the other 250 miles to the south near Vinh, the sources said. They said a total of four ships, all of Chinese registry and of trawler size or larger, have been identified.

The Chinese ships have not been attacked and will not be, the sources reported, since U.S. officials said when the ports were mined that there would be no other type of attack on non-Vietnamese ships.

Overcast skies reduced the number of U.S. strikes against North Vietnam to about 230 Tuesday, the U.S. Command said, and most of them were in the southern part of the country. But Navy fighter-bombers got through the overcast to attack two storage depots 27 and 30 miles northwest of Haiphong. Pilots reported two large secondary explosions.

Raids on antiaircraft equipment in the southern part of North Vietnam continued for the sixth day, and pilots reported destroying or damaging 46 surface-to-air missiles, 20 canisters, and one transporter. Nearly 400 pieces of SAM equipment have been reported knocked out in the six days of raids.

In the ground war, South Vietnamese marines fought North Vietnamese tanks and troops for the second day in a round-the-clock battle along the Street Without Joy below the demilitarized zone. The government force claimed 413 of their enemies killed and 14 tanks destroyed.

South Vietnamese losses were 40 dead and 104 wounded, spokesmen reported.

U.S. air and Naval forces gave massive support to the marines, including more than 60 strike by B52 bombers, 100 strikes by fighter-bombers and offshore gunfire from eight destroyers.

Stage Stars To Get Film Roles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ted Neeley and Carl Anderson, stars of the Broadway rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar," will have their stage roles in the movie version when production begins in Jerusalem on Aug. 20, according to Universal Studios.

The studio reported Tuesday that Neeley will play Jesus and Anderson will appear as Judas in the film, which Norman Jewison is directing and coproducing.

Jewison and Melvyn Bragg adapted the film script from the rock opera by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice.

Speech In S.C. By Mrs. Wallace

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The wife of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Mrs. Cornelia Wallace, was scheduled to speak to a joint session of the South Carolina Legislature today at 12 noon.

Mrs. Wallace is substituting for her husband, who was to address the legislature in May before he was shot.

Gov. Wallace was to have been the first to speak under a legislative invitation issued to all "recognized" presidential candidates.

Despite our concern about the unknown—at least for us—that he walks with daily in those tanks, we were happy and proud of his attitude when he wrote recently:

"What would make you change your mind?"

"Well, if, for example, the subscription series for 1973 did not sell out, or if I felt Lawrence Welk was going to get the job, I would then have to re-evaluate my stand."

"I notice you have a lot of musical scores on your desk, Senator. Can we infer anything from that?"

"No. I happen to like to read musical scores when I'm not working on new legislation."

I was about to ask another question when Sen. Kennedy's secretary buzzed him on the intercom. She said, "Leonard Bernstein is on the phone."

disappointed that the meeting took place and shocked that McGovern did not endorse Lowenstein, his ally in many ventures in the past four years.

Hence the limitations of McGovern's campaign apparatus. Its skilled organizing talents, compared with feckless New York efforts for Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie have wrapped up around 220 of 278 New York delegates. McGovern slates unopposed in five Congressional distiricts and faced token opposition in

But that same organization now blocks McGovern's efforts toward reconciliation. Esposito sees November victory—even in Brooklyn—depending on the white middle class worried about school busing and street crime and wants Wilbur Mills as McGovern's running mate. Abrams Known As A Soldier's Soldier

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — "A soldier's soldier," says a colleague of the man President Nixon has nominated to be the new Army chief of staff.

With baggy pants, crumpled uniform and a cigar in his mouth, slouching Gen. Creighton W. Abrams conjures up the image of a veteran first sergeant. But listening to classical music is his nightly relaxation, and the military men who work with him say he is a very human person, very much concerned with people, their welfare and their safety.

"He is slow and deliberate in speech," says one officer. "When agitated he does use some strong language, but not foul. He tends to pound the table. But it passes quickly.

"When he is angered at people, he will go out of his way to put them down gently and not indulge in personal abuse. He reacts to the situation rather than the person who causes it. When the time comes to fix the blame or tell some one he screwed up, he does it in as gentle a manner as possible."

As commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam for the past four years, Abrams has been responsible for the job of turning over the ground war to the South Vietnamese and has presided over the reduction of U.S. forces from a peak of 543,000 in April 1969 to less than 60,000 today.

In one of his rare moments of speaking on the record, he once told this reporter that it took a "herculean effort" to keep American troops as alert as they needed to be during the phaseout.

Many in Saigon say Abrams deserved a better war, one that had the support of the entire American public.

Last September, in a rare revelation, Abrams told visiting Sen. George McGovern that his five troublesome problems among his troops in Vietnam were drugs, racism, antiwar feeling, morale and tension between the GIs and the South Vietnamese.

He will still be confronted with these problems as chief of staff, but on a wider scale.

"Just remember this," he once said, "the higher you get up the greasy pole, the more your tail shows."

Abrams was born in Springfield, Mass., 58 years ago, the son of a railroad man. Called Tootsie by his family, he was a 4H Club boy who raised chickens and calves.

He was graduated from West Point in 1936, a classmate of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the man he succeeded in Vietnam and will now succeed as chief of staff. The class yearbook described Abrams as "the loudest, happiest, fightin-est man" on the football team. He played guard.

He met his wife, Julia, a Vassar girl, by subbing for an ailing friend on a date. They have six children, and two of their sons, Creighton III and John, served with the Army in Vietnam.

Club To Conduct First Aid Drive

Beginning Monday, the newly formed Kiwanis Club of Greenville-University City, will conduct a "First Aid Safety Campaign" here with Jesse Laughinghouse serving as chairman.

The club announced that members of the group will visit every business in the community to present First Aid Kits that comply with the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) relating to first aid and medical supplies.

The kits will be supplied by Johhnson & Johnson, the world's largest manufacturer of surgical dressings, it was reported. All proceeds from the campaign will be charitable causes.

Leslie H. Ganer, president of the newly formed club, said that "We hope our club can alert our entire community to the importance of being prepared to give accident injury prompt first aid."

He noted that in addition to large kits that comply with the new OSHA laws, the club will also be selling small kits for home and sporting use.

"Every homeowner, especially those who work as an amateur with hand or power tools, owes it to himself and his family to make a first aid kit a part of his household equipment," Garner added. "With first aid supplies right in the home, there will be no temptation to risk infection by neglecting what may appear to be only a minor hurt."

Garner noted also that most of the boating organizations are requiring that their members have a first aid kit on their boats and marine kits designed for boating use will be available from the club.

He said that the marine kit is made out of plastic to resist water and includes the resusitube airway as an aid for administering artifical respiration.

Garner reported that all information regarding the purchase of the kits will appear in an ad in the Daily Reflector on Sunday.

Since the organizational meeting on May 8, the membership in the Kiwanis Club of Greenville-University City, has increased from 25 to 41, Garner said, pointing out that the club anticipates having over 50 members by charter night which will be July 14.

German Beauty Is 'Miss Europe'

LISBON (AP) — Monika Sarp, the 24-year-old blue-eyed Miss Germany, was named Miss Europe of 1972 at a gala pageant which ended early today.

An international panel voted Miss Sarp the prettiest girl among five finalists and the original field of two dozen contestants from Western Europe, Yugoslavia, Greece, Cyprus and Turkey.

As the audience was entering the Estoril casino ballroom in evening attire, a small group of students stood outside protesting the "extravagance" of the affair.

One banner proclaimed, "down with vanity, down with exhibitionism."

Garrett Named Member Of College Board

D.D. Garrett of Greenville was notified this week that he has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees for Lomax-Hannon Junior College in Greenville, Ala.

Garrett was notified by the Rev. James E. Cook, board secretary, of his election to the governing body of the AME Zion Church related junior college.

Cook, in his letter to Garrett, informed him that there will be an official meeting of the board on June 30.

Garrett, who operates D.D. Garrett Insurance Agency on Albemarle Avenue here, is a graduate of North Carolina Central University in Durham.

Sklar Named To Fill Post At Jr. High

Toby M. Sklar, 27, has been named to replace Gene Baker as assistant principal of Aycock Junior High School.

Baker has resigned in order to become headmaster of Pace Academy.

An East Carolina University graduate with a B.S. degree in elementary education, Sklar will complete his graduate degree at ECU this summer. He did his internship at Aycock Junior High, working as a reading teacher and as director of the school's Learning Center, after having begun teaching in the Greenville School System at Eppes High School.

A graduate of Long Branch High School in Long Branch, N.J., he and his wife, the former Joanne Tofani, have a son, Mark.

Along with Baker's resignation, the Greenville City School Board Monday night accepted those of Vernell Woodard and Aaron F. Wilder, both teachers at Rose High School.

Teachers retained include Susan Aldridge and Paula Dudley, both for kindergarten, and Margaret F. Morgan, Myrna C. Caldwell, Hal W. Pierce, Bertha E. Elks, Nannie C. Brewington, Sarah S. Allen, James D. Gorst, Wray D. Shelton, and Wanda R. Wentz.

Storied Mustang At Last Given Chance To Survive

Editor's Note—The storied mustang of the West has for years fought a losing fight against his worst enemy—man. Now, a group of conservationists have returned to the tough little horse a portion of his once limitless range. It might mean the salvation not only of a species but a symbol.

By GARRY J. MOES
Associated Press Writer

BARCLAY, Nev. (AP) — Spring in the high desert of southern Nevada, amidst the heady fragrance of junipers, is a time of rebirth for the wild mustangs which have been given a refuge here.

To ensure that such rebirth continues, a nationwide group of conservationists recently dedicated a vast range to the unique little horses which are becoming symbols of all that is natural and free.

The occasion was the opening of a 44,000-acre ranch in Nevada's Clover Valley by National Mustang Association Inc., a worldwide organization whose sole purpose is the preservation of the mustangs which once roamed the American west by the millions and now number fewer than 10,000.

"Freedom is our most precious heritage and that's why we cherish the mustang," said the Rev. John Fox, Birmingham, Ala., who spoke at dedicatory ceremonies in front of an old adobe and clapboard church near the entrance to the ranch.

"We are here today to extend freedom to the mustangs and to set aside a place where those who love them may find retreat and peace of mind," he said. "This ranch is a tribute to those who made it possible and to the mustang who could not be subdued except by death."

That form of subjugation has become a stark reality for the mustangs. Three years ago some 17,000 of them ranged throughout the West. Last year best estimates put their number at 9,700, according to one mustanger who attended the festivities at Barclay.

While they have fallen victim to many natural enemies such as cougars, wolves, coyotes and the harsh elements, their alarming demise in recent years is laid by their supporters at the feet of cattlemen who claim the little horses are not paying their way and compete with their cattle for the scarce grasses which dot the desert floor.

Mustangs, until recent federal law was enacted to protect them, were hunted by helicopters and planes, "rim-rocked," that is, stampeded off cliffs, stalked by ranchers and professional hunters and their meat sold as pet food for handsome profits.

Active mustang traps can still be seen on the mustang ranges here and elsewhere. The traps are simple corrals cleverly rigged with trip wires by which the horses are tricked into capturing themselves.

"Our purpose in setting up this ranch is to provide the habitat for the horses where they can roam, unmolested and without competition for the available grass," says C. Tom Holland, the 64-year-old veteran cowboy who is president of the association.

Ranch manager Bob Williams, a rugged cowboy who enjoys Beethoven and tosses off a Latin phrase on occasion, echoes Holland's delight over the recent interest in preservation of the mustang.

"For the first time in history, people have become concerned enough about an animal to donate money for land to preserve it," says Williams, who lives with his young wife Sue in an old ranchhouse without electricity or running water.

Located 25 miles from the nearest telephone and more than 160 miles northeast of Las Vegas, the nearest large city, the ranch is something out of a boy's dream.

It is a place where "the hands" ride horses as part of their daily routine, where cowboys fix their breakfast over an open fire at daybreak and ride off down a dusty road into the sunset.

The highlight of any visit to the ranch is a ride into the remote canyons and flats where the mustangs roam.

It is easy to be disappointed, however. The mustang is an elusive and crafty animal.

Kent Gregerson, 42, of Salt Lake City, a former cowboy and now highway designer and an executive of the Mustang Association, says the organization hopes to preserve the horses so that scientists may more closely study the unique animals and their way of life.

"Wild horses and mustangs have a scholarly value as well as an aesthetic value," says Gregerson, who says he has started a book about the little horses. "Of course, the higher echelon of education don't want no cowboy to come along an tell 'em something they don't know. We'll just take a back seat if we have to so they can make their studies on their own."

Gregerson and other members of the association contend the mustang is a native species on the North American continent and not a descendent of horses which escaped from Spanish explorers such as Cortez and Coronado.

"There's a big difference between wild horses and mustangs," he drawls. "The barb mustang cannot be duplicated. There's a difference in their very bone structure."

Williams believes only private efforts of groups such as the association will save the mustangs.

Giraffes sleep only a few hours at night —usually with their heads held erect.

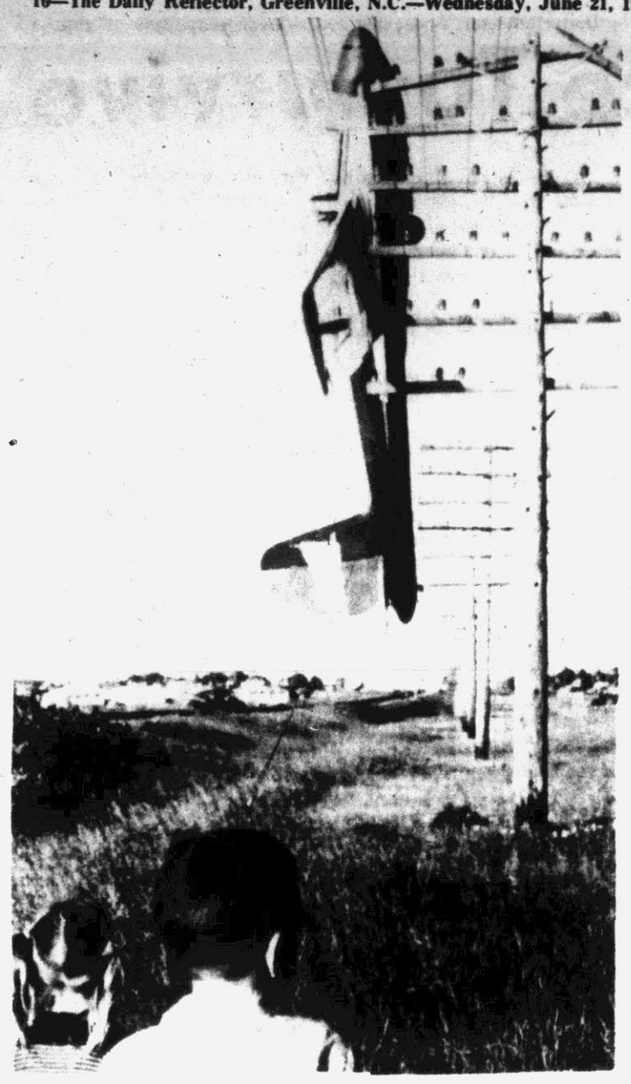
Nixon Pressured For News Conference



RIGHT SIDE UP—At least the picture is right side up. This glider piloted by Michael Gropp, 18, of Regina, Sask., was forced down by high winds and got entangled on telegraph wires. Gropp escaped without injurey. (CP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has not held a full-scale news conference with live television and radio coverage in more than a year, and he is getting increasing pressure from the media to hold one.

Almost daily lately, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has been questioned by reporters on when Nixon will hold a news conference.

"There's no date or time set," Ziegler said Monday when asked if Nixon might hold a news conference this week.

That has been a stock answer since Nixon's last meeting with reporters at an impromptu session in his oval office March 24.

His most recent live TV-radio news conference was June 1, 1971.

A monthly report by the Washington News Committee of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association takes note of the lack of news conferences and says that "the outlook for the rest of 1972 is rather bleak."

In its report for the month of May, the committee says:

"It might be thought that in a presidential election year, a leading candidate—even an incumbent—would feel a need and a responsibility to present himself for questioning by the press on his views, actions and record ...

"This has not been the case to any great degree so far this year, and if the statements of Mr. Nixon's political managers and advisers are any indication, he is unlikely to submit to much questioning between now and the November election."

The APME is an organization of editors representing newspaper members of The Associated Press.

In its latest report, the Washington News Committee said that "the absence of press conferences or questioning during May did not deprive Mr. Nixon of the opportunity to get his message across to the public under circumstances of his own choosing. In fact, he dominated the news even while ignoring the press questions."

The report noted that, under a new policy, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger was available to newsmen on an on-the-record basis. "The information from Dr. Kissinger was extraordinarily thorough and helpful," the report said.

Nixon has steadily cut down the number of meetings with reporters since he came to the White House in 1969.

That year was his record, a total of 11 sessions, close to the one-a-month schedule his aides had promised. Eight were in the East Room with live TV-radio coverage and three were called without advance notice in his oval office, with no live broadcasts permitted.

Last week, Nixon's top domestic adviser, John Ehrlichman, said Nixon didn't think much of the presidential news conference because reporters' questions were "flabby and dumb."

News media spokesmen contend Nixon's failure to appear before reporters leaves unanswered many current questions of prime importance, especially in an election year.

Two Injured In Two Collisions Here Tuesday

Two persons were reported injured and an estimated $950 property damage reported in two collisions investigated here yesterday.

An estimated $700 damage resulted to a car driven by Joe Nathan Dixon of Route 1, Winterville, police reported, when the vehicle struck a utility pole about 2:40 p.m. at the intersection of Charles Street and Greenville Boulevard.

No charges were made and no injuries were reported in that mishap.

Gordon Lee Cornwell, 23, of New Bern was charged with no operators license following investigation of a 1 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene and Moore Streets.

Officers reported the Cornwell car collided with a vehicle driven by Catherine Susan Elliott, 23, of Falls Church, Va., causing an estimated $100 damage to the Cornwell car and about $150 damage to the Elliott auto.

Miss Elliott and a passenger in her vehicle were reported injured.

PRESIDENTIAL PHOTO—Rare informal portrait of President Nixon and his daughter, Julie Eisenhower, appears in the July issue of Ladies Home Journal. "We have never exactly been a family of photophiles", the young Mrs. Eisenhower stated in the Journal. She said her father never took any pictures of her. (AP Wirephoto)

Police Uncover 'Pot' Supply

A 22-year-old man was charged early today with possessing marijuana with intent to distribute following a raid on his 1303 South Greene Street home.

Ronnie Daniel Freeman was arrested, according to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon, when a quantity of marijuana was found on him when he returned home as Greenville police officers were searching his residents.

Chief Cannon said Freeman allegedly had in his possession a one-pound "brick" of marijuana as well as a plastic bag containing 10 grams of "grass" and three marijuana cigarettes.

Freeman was placed under a $5,000 bond.

First To Get Certificate

W. Malvia Harris Jr. of Washington is the first student to receive the evening computer program certificate from Pitt Technical Institute.

Harris, having completed 495 hours of instruction in computer technology, has been taking at least one course each quarter for the last two years. He attended class two nights each week.

With his training in computer technology, programming computers in order to achieve results desired by the programmer, he is now qualified as a computer programmer.

Harris is currently employed by the Beaufort County Board of Education.

A former graduate of Pitt Tech's auto mechanic vocational program, Harris graduated from Washington High School and attended Atlantic Christian College for one year.

He is married to the former Patricia Nance of Washington and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Harris Jr. of Washington.

Terry Sanford Still In Wings

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford says that despite a "damn embarrassing" loss to Gov. George Wallace in his home state presidential primary, he still stands in the wings as a stand-by in case the Democratic convention becomes deadlocked.

The 54-year-old Duke University president said Tuesday that he has never been a candidate for president "in the real sense of the word," but says he offers an "alternative appeal to all segments of the party better than any other person."

Sanford was in Atlanta to meet with party officials and convention delegates.

But Sanford said that under no circumstances would he allow his name to be considered as a vice presidential candidate.

"No I won't," he said. "Politics are flexible, but I'm not."

He said that despite his defeat by Wallace, he would still support the Alabama governor for president if he were to take the Democratic nomination.

"I'll support the nominee regardless of who he is," he said. "That means George Wallace, Hubert Humphrey or even George McGovern."

He said that if McGovern gets the first ballot nomination "there's nothing I can do to stop him or hurt him or help him. If he doesn't, then that's where I offer myself as a candidate."

Sanford predicted that by convention time he will have close to 100 delegates commitments from Idaho, Louisiana, South Carolina, Virginia and "other points, north south, east and west."

DEATH ROW

MANILA (UPI) —Death row in the Philippines' National Penitentiary in nearby Muntinlupa had 512 convicts as of May 15, 1972. These convicts face execution by electric chair.

Some Young Delegates To Stay At Campsites

By ANN HELLMUTH
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some of the young delegates to the Democratic National Convention are going to stay in the outdoor campsites of convention protesters rather than in the plush hotels of Miami Beach.

"We're receiving lots of inquiries from young delegates about campsites," said Jeff Nightbyrd, spokesman for the Youth International party—Yippies. "Most of the kids are delegates bound to Sen. George McGovern."

Nightbyrd said the delegates planned to take part in convention activities organized by the Yippies and other groups, including the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

Nightbyrd said the first contingent of nondelegates arrived this week.

"There are about 1,000 kids here already and the numbers will grow daily," he said. "At the moment they are crashing with other people in cheap hotels and apartments."

Nightbyrd, whose group has called off plans for any confrontation during the Democratic convention, said thousands of nondelegates were still expected here for the gathering which begins July 10.

"We don't want any trouble," he said. "But we have lots of things planned."

The Yippies say they will kick off their convention activities with a "feast" the night before the Democratic conclave.

"This will be for young people, old people, delegates and nondelegates," Nightbyrd said. "We will follow this with a day of cultural awareness—street theater—to protest the war."

He said plans call for the Yippies to hire planes and write messages in the sky "getting the message across to the convention."

A decision on whether nondelegates will get campsites isn't expected until June 28 when the City Council conducts a regular meeting.

But City Manager Clifford O'Key said Tuesday that he has completed his report for the council, that he favors supplying space for the visitors and that he may request a special meeting to resolve the matter. State and local groups have urged early council action to avoid confusion when nondelegates begin seeking campsites.

Good Profits In Tax Differences

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The difference between a 21 cents a pack tax on cigarettes in Connecticut and a two cent tax in North Carolina is highly profitable bootlegging, says an industry spokesman.

In fact, the best efforts of the Tax Department and the police have been unable to stem the influx of illegal cigarettes, said Monny Levy of Bridgeport, president of the Connecticut Association of Tobacco Distributors.

"They're organized businessmen," he said of the so-called "butt-leggers." "They go around with an order pad and take your order. Then they come back a few days later and deliver the cigarettes."

Levy told the legislature's Finance Committee Tuesday that the state's highest-in-the-nation cigarette tax has driven two Connecticut tobacco distributors out of business.

"We can't fight back," Levy said. "So we go down the drain." The two distributors who were driven out of business weren't identified, but witnesses said they were in New London and Stamford.

Levy and other spokesmen for the tobacco wholesalers said most of the "butt-leggers" buy cigarettes by the truckload in North Carolina and bring them up to Connecticut for sale.

Henry Smernoff, treasurer of the New Haven Tobacco Co., said that the minimum price per carton in the southern state is $2.30 while the minimum price in Connecticut is $4.80 per carton. He said a tractor-trailer truck can carry as many as 60,000 cartons — a gross profit of about $150,000 per trip.

The tobacco distributors asked for a cut in the cigarette tax to 12 to 14 cents a pack.

Baptists Adopt 3-Year Goal

BOILING SPRINGS, N. C. (AP) — A 10 per cent increase in baptisms is the goal of a three-year program presented to the General Board of the Baptist State Convention Tuesday night.

The program was presented by Tom M. Freeman of Dunn, convention president. It also proposes for the three-year period a 10 per cent increase in Sunday School enrollment and gifts to the Cooperative Program and associational missions.

The board planned to adjourn today after receiving reports from eight committees.

Add Two To Agnes' Toll

OKEECHOBEE, Fla. (AP) — Two more deaths blamed on tornadoes spawned by the Hurricane Agnes were reported today raising the death toll from the storm to 20.

The body of 16-year-old Paul Albert Peachy was discovered Tuesday in a canal near the Treasure Island Trailer Park ravaged by a tornado Monday. The youth was reported missing after the twister flattened dozens of homes, killed four other persons here and injured 37, authorities said.

A sheriff's office spokesman said one of the injured victims, Edward Hodges, 78, died early today at a West Palm Beach hospital.

The storm was blamed for 12 deaths in Cuba and two other deaths in Florida.

BANK ROBBED

RAEFORD, N.C. (AP)—A drive-in branch of the Bank of Raeford was robbed by a lone gunman shortly after it opened today. The amount of money taken was not immediately determined.

Hospital . . .

Mrs. Frances Thorne Bennett, director of in-service education, told the Trustees that the ultimate aim of in-service education is better patient care. The three main divisions are orientation for new employees, on-the-job training, and staff development. New RNs and LPNs have two days of training in this hospital's ways, she said, and attendants and aides have one, after which they work on the floors with a "buddy." On-the-job training is handled by Pitt Technical Institute, with Mrs. Ann Tunstall teaching courses for aides, ward clerks, and other personnel. Staff development includes lectures, demonstrations, and other sharing of knowledge about any procedure that is warranted as helpful to any group of employees, she said.

More ministers registered for special patient visiting privileges were approved, bringing the list to 140.

Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson reported that a meeting had been held with Congressman Walter B. Jones, Sen. Vernon White, and Rep. Horton Rountree to familiarize them with the hospital's building program. Since the meeting, Richardson said he has had communication from Congressman Jones reporting that the House Appropriations Committee has approved $112 million in Hill-Burton funds.

Hospital representatives will meet with those of the Duke Endowment to review the building program next month, he said.

The idea of setting up a gifts committed to communicate with any individual or family that may be interested in making a gift or endowment to the hospital building or equipment was discussed. Chairman Woodrow Wooten said he has had numerous calls from persons interested in making contributions or setting up memorials to the hospital. He reminded that such gifts are tax deductible. No action was taken on the committee suggestion.

A letter from Falkland native, Harvey D. Bradshaw, was read. He cited the hospital for the fine care his mother, Mrs. Velma Grant Moore, received up until her death a few weeks ago, praising in particular the nurses and aides on the fourth floor who cared for her and certain persons at the desk and in the admissions office who had been helpful and friendly.

Richardson said that the indigent care requirement of the federal government for hospitals that have used Hill-Burton Funds has not been pushed, but that every effort is now being made to identify all charity care given here with this requirement in mind. Pitt Memorial does plenty, he indicated.

Trustee Kenneth Dews reminded members that any trustee is welcome to go by the finance office and review hospital finance with Buck Sitterson. He feels each trustee needs a thorough understanding of such matters.

Recognition was made of former Hospital Administrator C. D. Ward's receipt of a 20 Years' Service Award from and Life Membership in the N. C. Hospital Association. Trustee William Francis Tyson was recognized for being named Pitt County Conservation Farmer of the Year.

July 4 Plans Shaping Up

Plans for an old fashioned July 4th celebration sponsored by the City of Greenville and the Greenville Jaycees are well underway, according to Don Parrott, publicity chairman.

Parrott reported that the location for all planned events will be the Town Common area in Shore Drive along First Street.

New events which have been added to the schedule, he said, include an antique car show, fishing contest, karate show, art show, hog calling, a fire department display and a cake sale by the Greenville Jay-C-Ettes. Prizes will be awarded in each event, he added.

Parrott said that the main attraction of the evening will be a fireworks display arranged by Ed Rawl from 9-10 p.m. "We plan to provide good wholesome activities and entertainment for the entire community," he asserted.

"The Fourth of July is one of the chief legal holidays of the United States," Parrott said, "commenorating the formal adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress. As we relax and enjoy the holiday, it is worth a moment's reflection to consider the reason for our celebration."

GRASS BRICK ... A one-pound "brick" of marijuana, pipes used to smoke the "grass and several marijuana cigarettes were confiscated during a raid on a 1303 South Greene St. home early this morning. Police arrested Ronnie Daniel Freeman, 22 on charges of possessing the illegal weed. (Reflector Staff Photo)

New Chief Of Police Named

WINTERVILLE — W. C. Haislip has been appointed Chief of Police here, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles.

In making the announcement for the town board, Nobles said Haislip would begin working part time beginning Saturday and would begin full-time duties July 1.

The 43-year-old Haislip, according to Nobles, was born in Halifax County and raised at Kennedy Memorial Home in Kinston.

The new chief joined the U.S. Air Force that same year and retired in 1966. Nobles said all Haislip's military career centered around military police activities.

In addition, Nobles explained, Haislip worked with the Belhaven Police Department after his discharge and before coming to Pitt County as an employee of the Health Department's Environmental Health (sanitation) Division about two years ago.

Haislip, a resident of Winterville for about two years, is a member of the Greenville Moose Lodge, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the Baptist Children's Home Alumni Association.

Bones Checked By Sound Waves

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The tones of your bones may mean the last of your cast.

Two orthopedic surgeons at the University of Wisconsin are using sound waves to test bone strength and lessen the time some patients will spend in casts.

"People with fractures are often immobilized longer than necessary since physicians have no accurate way to judge bone strength," said Dr. John M. Jurist, one of the surgeons.

Jurist said he and Dr. Edmund Markey Jr. measure dimensions of a bone with X-rays, then gauge the frequency of its vibrations after hitting it with sound waves.

Red Sox Turn Manager's Hair Gray

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Eddie Kasko had any hair on the top of his head, it would certainly be gray by now. That's what managing the Boston Red Sox can do to you.

Take, for example, this past week. The Red Sox played eight baseball games and scored a total of 54 runs which averages out to almost seven per game. That's pretty good. They won three of the eight games and that's pretty bad.

The Boston bats went to sleep Tuesday night and the Sox came out on the short end of a 5-2 score against Texas. That's the same Texas team the Sox beat 12-0 the night before.

"Twelve runs one day, two the next," said Kasko. "What can you say? That's the way the game goes. At least that's the way it's been going for us."

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 7-3 and 3-1, New York trimmed Kansas City 4-2, Milwaukee downed Chicago 7-1, Baltimore defeated California 4-1 and Oakland nipped Detroit 3-2 in 11 innings.

Boston's loss to Texas was all the more bitter because two of the Ranger runs came on a homer by Dalton Jones, who used to play for the Red Sox. Always a utilityman at Boston and Detroit, Jones has found regular work in Texas.

Jones' two-run homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning and Don Mincher, who had driven in Texas' first run, singled home two more in the seventh for the Rangers.

Rich Hand, Paul Lindblad and Horacio Pina allowed five hits between them with Hand picking up the victory to even his record at 4-4 and Pina nailing it down with his ninth save of the season.

Cleveland took it on the chin twice from Minnesota Tuesday night with Jim Kaat and Dick Woodson both hurling complete games for the Twins.

In the opener, home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Eric Soderholm in the fourth inning produced four runs and Kaat coasted to his eighth victory of the season. Killebrew connected with the bases empty and then Soderholm unloaded a three-run shot. Kaat allowed only six hits—half of them in the first inning when Cleveland nicked him for two quick runs.

Woodson also allowed just six hits and got all the scoring he needed in the second inning when Cesar Tovar delivered a two-run single and Danny Thompson singled a third run home.

John Lowenstein's ninth inning homer spoiled the shutout.

Sparky Lyle chalked up his 14th save of the season and the Yankees won their fifth straight, beating Kansas City. Bobby Murcer drove in three runs for New York, two of them with a sixth-inning homer.

Lyle's 14 saves in one-third of the season are two more than the entire Yankee relief corps managed all of last year.

Milwaukee beat Chicago's Wilbur Wood for the first time in almost two years, belting the White Sox as Jim Lonborg won his fourth game.

The Brewers hadn't whipped Wood since July 7, 1970 and the White Sox knuckleballer had a career 10-1 log against them before Tuesday night. Ron Theobald and Dave May led the Brewer attack with three hits apiece while Lonborg allowed nine.

Jim Palmer pitched Baltimore past California, firing a six-hitter for his seventh straight victory and ninth of the season.

Palmer also ignited the Orioles' three-run winning rally in the seventh inning with a single.

Palmer has not lost since May 11 and the Orioles have won 10 of the last 12 games.

Baltimore's victory, combined with Detroit's 11-inning loss at Oakland, moved the Orioles into a first place tie with the Tigers at the top of the American Lague's East Division.

Joe Rudi's leadoff homer in the 11th gave the A's their victory over the Tigers after Bert Campaneris had tied the game with a clutch single in the eighth. George Hendrick had a third inning homer for Oakland.

Norm Cash hit his 14th homer and Al Kaline his first of the season for Detroit.

Greenville

Three eagles were scored during the last week at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. All three came on the 520-yard, par five, 18th hole. They were shot by Paul Grady, Dorsett Ward and Don Mattox.

Two women recently fired their best nine-hole rounds. Nancy Monroe had a 41, for her best score, while Mrs. Reed Hooper carded a 43, her best.

Ayden

The Ayden Golf and Country Club completed its championship tournament this weekend, as father met son for the title.

In the championship flight, son Brooks Barwick came out on top, beating dad Boyce Barwick. In the first flight, Lindsay Hardee beat Lloyd Eichorn. Neal Hugh downed Mack Roebuck in the second flight.

The third flight winner was Royce Jordan, who beat Jack Collins. In the fourth flight, Reid Joyner downed Smiley Brown.

Beverly Chapman won the ladies title, beating Joyce Stroud. In the first flight, Peggy Sawyer beat Jackie Baker.

A Mixed Scotch Foursome is planned for the club this Sunday.

Brook Valley

Joe Lamotte picked up a eagle two on the par four third hole at Brook Valley. He was playing with pro Harold Thomas, Bill Parks and Phil Lynn. Parks had a 39 on the front side for his best round.

Louis Gaylord had a 52-39 for his best score while playing with John Lewis, Dr. A. M. Mumford and Joe Lacoste.

Frank Goins had his best 18-hole score, a 78, which included two out-of-bounds on the back side.

Bill Snead had his first eagle, getting it on the 17th hole. He was playing with Enoc Reed and Chip Pennington.

Al Davis had his best front nine score, a 35, while playing with Jack Paramore.

Dick Stephenson carded a 39 for his best nine hole score, and then had an 83 for the round for his best 18.

Rozelle's Role Under Argument

By DAVE NORD
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Testimony continues today on charges by the National Football League Players Association that NFL owners have failed to bargain on player fines and artificial turf.

In opening testimony Tuesday, attorneys for the two sides clashed over the role of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and a spokesman for the players accused owners of violating their contract with players by refusing to bargain on the two issues.

The hearings are being held by the Minneapolis office of the National Labor Relations Board. Trial examiner Melvin Welles of Washington, D.C., indicated testimony might continue through the week and said a judgment wasn't likely until late July.

In opening statements, NFL attorney Theodore Kheel said owners are willing to bargain on the issues but that Rozelle's status as final arbitrator has been agreed upon.

Eugene Keating, counsel for the players association, contended that the commissioner is not an impartial arbitrator.

That was echoed by Edward R. Garvey, director of the players association.

"I have never heard anything more ridiculous in my life," he told the trial examiner. The commissioner is the "agent" of the owners, he said, not an impartial arbitrator.

Garvey said the real issue is the scope of a four-year collective bargaining agreement in effect since Feb. 1, 1970.

Garvey claims the players would not have agreed to the contract had they not been assured by Marshall Leahy, then general counsel for the owners' NFL Management Council, that the agreement provided for continued bargaining on working conditions.

The owners claim the issues of fines and safety on artificial turf are not covered by the contract as proper subjects for bargaining.

Garvey said he has been unable to get owners of the NFL clubs to cooperate on a study of injuries on artificial playing surfaces.

He also complained about a "new rule" providing for automatic $200 fines against any player who leaves his bench to join in a fight. He said the rule was announced without consulting the players' association.

The owners contend the fine announcement was not a new rule. Kheel said the commissioner always had had the power to levy fines.

R. C. Defeats Lions By 9-6

R.C. Cola nipped the Lions, 9-6, in a rain-shortened Little League game yesterday.

The victory tied the two teams for third place in the league with 5-6 records.

R.C. pushed into the lead in the first inning, scoring four runs. Bill Tugwell was hit by a pitch and Doug Selby walked. With two outs, Joe Shoe also walked, loading the bases. Bryant Morton then capped the inning with a grand-slam homer.

The Lions came back to score one run in the bottom of the frame. Marty Worthington walked and took second on a passed ball. He was sacrificed to third by Ray Kilpatrick and scored on Freager Sanders' single.

R.C. came back with one in the second, making it 5-1. Reggie Selby was hit by a pitch and Leon Hardee walked. Doug Selby was also hit and a passed ball scored Reggie with the fifth run.

The Lions came roaring back int the bottom of the second to score four and tie it up. Peter Pace walked and was sacrificed up. Jessie Baker also walked and both moved up on a passed ball. Worthington walked to load the bases and Mike Adams singled in both Pace and Paker. Passed balls then allowed both Worthington and Adams to score, making it 5-5.

R.C. came back with three in the third to take the lead again, 8-5. Shoe doubled and stole third. Morton singled him in and stole second. He scored on Stuart Flanagan's double and Reggie Selby walked. Hardee also walked to load them up, and Doug Selby reached in a fielder's choice, scoring Flanagan.

The final run came in the fourth. Shoe singled and Morton doubled. A passed ball brought Shoe over for a 9-5 lead.

The Lions scored one more in the bottom of the fourth. Adams walked as did Kilpatrick. Sanders also walked to load them up and Mike Williams sacrificed Adams across with the last run.

Morton led the R.C. hitting with three, while Shoe had two. No one had more than one for the Lions.

Neal Back In School

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Fred "Curly" Neal of the Harlem Globetrotters has returned to Johnson C. Smith University after an eight-year absence to complete work for his degree in physical education. He's in summer school and says it was difficult at first, but he has adjusted.

The shaven-headed basketball player, who is from Greensboro, N. C., says that when he was at the university in the early 1960s, "if an opportunity for an athlete came along, he would forego his education for a quick buck.

"This scene has changed for young athletes. College curriculums and athletic programs stress academic values now. As a result, average players, as well as the superstars, receive their degrees within the required time."

Games Are Rained Out

Rain washed out all of the baseball and softball activity in the area last night.

The East Carolina University-Louisburg game, set for last night, has been rescheduled for Monday night at Harrington Field. An American Legion game with Ahoskie, also set for Monday night, may be played as part of a doubleheader.

The Pirates are also home Friday night against the University of North Carolina, game time 7:30 p.m. It will be Parkers's Bar-B-Cue Night at the game. Free tickets for the contest are available all week from Parker's.

In the Greenville Little League, the Elks-Integon game in the Tar Heel League was rained out and will be played Friday at 4 p.m. as part of a double-header.

Also rained out were three games in the Church Softball League, three games in the Ladies Softball League and two games in the Senior Babe Ruth League.

Claims Media Over Critical

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, closing in fast on baseball's exclusive 3,000-hit club, claims the news media are overly critical of Latin American players.

"Some of the ball players may be afraid to talk, but I am not," the Pittsburgh Pirate rightfielder and native of Puerto Rico declared recently.

"A few years ago the writers used to say that I was a good hitter, but not that good," he said. "And it is just like that with all the Latin players. The writers always come up with that 'but.'"

Clemente, a .318 lifetime hitter, added that his image as one of baseball's leading hypochondriacs—an image he flatly refutes—can be traced to disagreements with writers.

"I don't keep my mouth shut when they said things that were not right," he said. "so they wrote sarcastic things about me thinking I was hurt all the time and not wanting to play."

The truth, according to Clemente, is that he never has asked to be scratched from a lineup.

"If the manager wants me to play, I play, no matter whether I am hurt or not." he said. "Once I was playing with a bad bruise on my leg, and I heard a television announcer talking about how I babied myself too much."

Clemente, who this week became Pittsburgh's all-time runs batted in leader with 1,275, needs 53 more hits to become the first Latin and the 11th player ever to reach 3,000.

"I don't have to worry about what the writers say about me any more because the fans have seen me play and they know the truth," Clemente said. "The writers cannot fool the fans."

He added, however, that he was concerned for the many young Latins in the majors.

Nearly Unfair To Fairly

Montreal's Ron Fairly walked in the second inning of a game with Cincinnati Tuesday night, and, moments later, nearly met disaster. Reds pitcher Jim McGlothlin snapped a throw to first baseman Tony Perez, but ump Tom Gorman, not shown, ruled Fairly back in time. The Expos won, 7-2. (AP Wirephoto)

Suns Forced To Trade Paul Silas

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Silas, the rugged forward who helped turn the Phoenix Suns from big losers into consistent winners, has been traded to the Boston Celtics.

Suns general manager Jerry Colangelo said Tuesday the Suns were forced to trade Silas to Boston in exchange to National Basketball Association rights to Charlie Scott, the American Basketball Association's leading scorer last season.

General manager Red Auerbach of the Celtics said he would accept only Silas in exchange for the rights.

Scott, who played most of last season with the ABA Virginia Squires, suddenly signed with Phoenix during the closing weeks of the season. The Squires subsequently filed suit against the Suns in an attempt to get Scott back, but the two teams reached an out-of-court settlement last week which left Scott with the Suns.

However, Boston had first rights to Scott if hejoined the NBA.

"Paul Silas belongs to us now," said Auerbach. "When Phoenix reached its settlement with Virginia, Phoenix owed us Silas and no one but Silas. They must deliver him to us, and he will make us a much better team next year."

Sources close to the Suns said Colangelo had been trying to talk the Celtics into accepting someone other than Silas as payment for Scott.

"Silas won't be a member of the Celtics until I assign his contract to Boston," Colangelo said, "but Red has obviously closed all the doors. He is being very specific and very emphatic on what he wants.

"The only way Silas could have remained with the Suns after the Scott settlement was if Red changed his mind," Colangelo added.

"At least I can start making some definite plans now," Silas said. "I feel we will have an excellent club in Boston and I will be able to help out.

"I had three good years in Phoenix, and the move from Atlanta benefited me, but you've got to move along. When I heard about the trade originally, I was down. I felt I had a good year and felt the possibility of a trade was remote.

"But then I looked at it realistically, and knew that to get Charlie, Phoenix would have to give up somebody, and I was the logical choice. It's time to make a move, and I have no regrets."

Colangelo had reservations, but appeared to favor the trade.

"To get something, you must give something, and I feel that Scott, at 23, will be a superstar for the next 10 years, barring injuries. Charlie will change our whole stype of play, and I feel confident we can overcome Paul's loss immediately."

May Guides Astros Into First Place As Cincinnati Is Beaten

By EARL GERHEIM
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I don't care what I swing at as long as it's a strike," explained Lee May of the Houston Astros.

"I get into trouble when I start swinging at bad pitches."

May connected with a good toss and slammed a two-run homer in the fifth inning Tuesday night as the Astros defeated the New York Mets 7-4 and assumed first place in the National League West. The triumph nosed Houston one-half game ahead of Cincinnati, which lost to Montreal 7-2.

Houston jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the third, added four more in the fifth on May's blast, a double by Tommy Helms and a single by Roger Metzger and then weathered a late New York rally for the victory.

In other National League action, St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4, and Chicago swamped San Francisco 15-8. The Los Angeles at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Atlanta games were rained out.

Montreal's Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey clouted homers as the Expos kept the Reds from maintaining their lead in the NL West. Cincinnati took a short-lived 1-0 lead in the first, ending a 17-inning scoring drought. The Reds have been limited to five runs in their last five outings.

The Expos broke the contest open in the fifth when they pushed across two runs and chased starter Jim McGlothlin.

Randy Hundley, aided by some advice from Joe Pepitone, laced a grand slam homer as the Cubs erupted for a seven-run first inning en route to recording the most NL runs this season.

"Earlier this season I was leaning and bending over the plate. But Peptone told me I used to stand up but now I'm bending over the plate. So I started to straighten up," Hundley said.

Chicago also exploded for five runs in the fourth in posting their seventh consecutive triumph behind solid relief work by rookie Rick Reuschel.

A 1970 draftee from Western Illinois University, Reuschel took the mound from Burt Hooten to start the fourth with Chicago ahead only 7-6. He tamed the Giants on five hits and surrendered two runs.

Lou Brock sprinted home with the winning Cardinal run in the 10th inning after second baseman Derrell Thomas fumbled Joe Torre's grounder.

Padres Manager Don Zimmer positioned Thomas 20 feet into the outfield in an attempt to force Torre to hit into a double play with two on.

"I said that if we were ever going to get Torre out this was the time," Zimmer said. "We made him hit into an out and we didn't catch the ball."

Rookie Jerry Morales had tied it for San Diego in the eighth with a two-run homer.

Training Site Okay, Coach Says

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Criticism of Champaign as the training site for the United States Women's Olympic squad is unfounded, says team coach Neil Jackson.

Miss Jackson, a professor at the University of Illinois, Tuesday replied to charges by Olympians Olga Connolly and Martha Watson that Champaign's weather would interfere with training.

The training camp is scheduled for Aug. 3-17, but Mrs. Connolly and Miss Watson said they would not participate in the camp if it reamins in Champaign.

Miss Watson said in California that Miss Jackson wanted to have the camp at Champaign so she could continue to draw pay as a professor while working with the team.

"I'm not even working this summer," said Miss Jackson. "I think they should have talked to me first before making remarks like that in public."

Miss Jackson said, "The decision to hold the camp here was made by the U.S. Women's Olympic Committee. The committee knew the facilities here and knew they were similar to those at Munich."

Miss Watson was quoted as saying the temperature in Champaign during the summer is "usually around 90 degrees and the humidity is 80 per cent."

Miss Watson and Mrs. Connolly said nearly 40 top women track and field athletes have signed their petition requesting a change in the training site.

Miss Jackson added, "The last time I can remember Miss Watson being here was at the Olympic Show Meet last June. It was probably the hottest day of the year and we had a shower midway through. However, the track was fine after the rain. Then, as they were leaving. we had tornado warnings, so that is probably what bothered them."

Miss Jackson said there is little cause for concern since such weather is not typical. She also said it would be difficult to change the location now.

Sports Briefs

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —Two Memphis firms are underwriting the printing of 5,000 bumper stickers welcoming new Pros basketball owner Charles O. Finley to town. Printed on the stickers: "You're A Good Man, Charlie O."

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association announced the signing of four rookies for the 1972-73 season.

General Manager Richie Guerin said that Larry Strozier of Morehouse, Billy Pleas of Detroit, James Green of Paine College and George Allen of Texas Southern had signed contracts.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tom amateur choice Wayne Merrick signed a two-year contract Tuesday with the St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League.

Terms of the contract for Merrick whose 96 points for Ottawa of the Ontario Hockey Association last season included 39 goals, were not disclosed.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — For the first time in its 66year history a British yacht has won the Newport to Bermuda ocean race.

Noryema, a 48-foot white Class C sloop, won the coveted deep water sailing classic on corrected time Tuesday night.

Her elapsed time for the 635 miles from Newport, R.I., was three days, 18 hours, 43 minutes, 37 seconds. Her corrected winning time was 3 days, 2:34:58.

This compared to the corrected time of three days, 3:20:25 for Robon, a 61-foot Class A sloop from Newport Beach, Calif., the first to finish of the record starting fleet of 178.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Racing Board Tuesday revoked for five years the license of jockey Lane Suire of Erath, La., one of the nation's leading riders.

Suire allegedly used a whip with an electrical device to prod a mount.

Alexander MacArthur, chairman of the racing board, said revocation of a license "is reciprocal and Suire cannot ride elsewhere in the country."

Suire, 24, had ridden 83 winners in 478 mounts through April. He was not present at the board's meeting and has been under suspension by Hawthorne race track stewards since May 19.

ZWOLLE, La. (AP) — Jim Welch of Amelia, La., recorded a catch of 87 pounds, 6½ ounces Saturday to capture the $5,000 first place prize in the National Open Bass Tournament.

Dr. Jim Hebert of Sulphur, La., got $500 for the biggest bass which weighed 7 pounds, 1½ ounces.

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The traditional Harvard-Yale crew race reportedly soon may become history—and it might be the best for the willing, but outclassed host Elis.

Harvard's heavyweight oarsmen provided Coach Harry Parker a 10th consecutive victory Saturday in Defeating Yale by five lengths over the five-mile course on the Thames River.

Lucchesi Laughing

ATLANTA (AP) — Frank Lucchesi laughingly dismisses rumors that he will be replaced as manager of the slump-ridden Philadelphia Phillies.

A story in a Philadelphia paper Tuesday said that General Manager Paul Owens was traveling with the Phillies looking for a reason why the club has lost 26 of its last 31 games and is mired in last place in the National League East with a 20-36 record.

"I didn't read it," Lucchesi said today, "but I'm laughing about it. I heard about it but I'm not paying any attention to it. Yeah, Paul is along, but he's just watching the club. I don't like to hear those things though. Nobody does."

"Call it an exploratory trip," Owens said. "It's no secret I'm not satisfied. It's getting worse and worse. I intend to find out the reason—my own way."

Owens said he'll finish the trip, which continues with tonight's game against Atlanta, a series in Montreal and Chicago and returns home June 28.

"I'll know by then," Owens declared.

Yunick Hopes Engine Works

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Smokey Yunick, who calls his lair in Daytona Beach, Fla., "the best damn garage in town," unveiled his Oriente Express Tuesday, and may have opened a new era in championship auto racing.

Yunick's hybrid, a basic Eagle from Dan Gurney's shops, mounts a stock block Chevrolet engine equipped with twin turbochargers similar to those used on the Ford and Offenhauser engines of Indianapolis fame.

There is an even bigger difference, however. Yunick says his engine costs about $6,000. The Ford and Offy powerplants retail at about $32,000.

If the Chevrolet proves itself competitive in the July 2 Scheafer 500 at Pocono International Raceway, Yunick may wind up with more orders than he could fill.

Stock block engines have been tried in Indianapolis-type cars several times in recent years, but without the exotic turbochargers that have become standard equipment on Ford and Offy machines.

David Hobbs, a veteran British driver who also is familiar with oval tracks, will handle Yunick's Oriente Express when the 33-car field for the Schaefer 500 qualifies this weekend.

Hobbs took several laps in the car during Tuesday's first full day of practice. But minor problems, mostly with the engine's plumbing, kept him from reaching fast speeds.

Meanwhile, six drivers, led by Bobby Unser, recorded unofficial lap speeds above Pocono's standard of 172.967 miles per hour set by Mark Donohue in winning the pole position last year.

Unser, the Indianapolis pole sitter, was clocked at 185.299 m.p.h. Gordon Johncock, driving a team Gulf-McLaren, posted 182.518, while 1972 Indy winner Donohue and Mario Andretti each were caught at 180-plus.

Al Unser and Joe Leonard, who with Andretti form Parnelli Jones' Viceroy team, ran in excess of 173, as did Wally Dallenbach in Andy Granatelli's STP Lola.

Crampton May Be Man To Beat

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — With Jack Nicklaus absent for a rest, Australian Bruce Crampton may be the man to beat in the 69th Western Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton's problem this year has been just that—he's been getting beat.

But not by much.

When he came out of the pack to take second behind Nicklaus in last week's U.S. Open Championship at Pebble Beach, Calif., it marked the 10th time this season he had finished seventh or higher—easily one of the most remarkable records on the tour.

He hasn't won, but has had a good chance of taking at least a half dozen tour titles. His money winnings for the season is just short of $100,000.

"Most players set goals for themselves, like win a tournament and $100,000 for the season," he said. "It appears I'll get the $100,000 but I'm having trouble winning."

Crampton, now 36 and in his 16th season on the American tour, is the defending champion in this old event that gets under way Thursday on the 6,800-yard, par 72 Sunset Ridge Country Club course in Chicago's North Shore suburban area.

Nicklaus, who announced he wouldn't play again until the British Open, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player are among the absentees in the 144-man field that includes most of the other major players in the game.

Crampton, who made this his 10th career title whe he won on a different course a year ago, rates as the favorite in the $150,000 event that offers $30,000 to the winner.

Lee Trevino, who had figured to share the favorite's role with Crampton, was forced to withdraw. Trevino was still weary from a recent bout with pneumonia that hampered his defense of the National Open championship last week.

Some other leading contenders include Californians George Archer and Jerry Heard, each winner of two titles and more than $100,000 this season, Tom Weiskopf, former champion Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Bobby Nichols, who usually plays extremely well in this tournament.

1975 OPEN IS SET

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1975 U.S. Open golf championship will be played on the No. 3 course of the Medinah Country Club in Medinah, Ill.

NCAA Golf Gets Going

CAPE CORAL, Fla. First-round action begins today in the 75th renewal of the National Collegiate Golf Championships.

Some 85 colleges and universities have sent entries, with 35 schools seeking the team championship. The field will be cut to 15 teams and the low 60 individuals after 36 holes of the 72-hole medal-play event.

Texas won the crown last year, and Longhorn Ben Crenshaw took the individual title. Both will be seeking a repeat.

The biggest challengers to Texas for the championship this year will be Florida, Wake Forest, Oklahoma State and Brigham Young. But Houston, winner of 12 of the last 16 NCAA tourneys, also is considered tough enough to finish up front.

McGovern's Problem Today: How To Unite Demos

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. George McGovern has spent 18 months figuring out how to defeat rival Democrats. He has. Now, as he seeks to clinch White House nomination, his problem is to unite them.

McGovern's 10th victory in 23 presidential primaries left him "convinced now that we will win the nomination in Miami Beach."

The South Dakota senator has some more convincing to do now.

He needs to persuade his challengers, and leaders of his party, that he can be a winner against President Nixon.

He needs to convince the party and the voters that he is not a radical, as his opponents assert.

And he must make sure that his own followers don't upset that effort.

Celebrating his sweeping victory in the New York primary, which pushed him to within about 200 votes of the presidential nomination, McGovern spoke in the conciliatory terms of a candidate who seeks and needs unity if the prizes he has won so far are to count in the main event, the campaign against President Nixon.

"Because we do represent a new coalition of political forces in this country there are some who have expressed fears about us," he said. "They have nothing to be alarmed about. We want harmony and justice, not bitterness and special privilege . . ."

But the bitterness is there. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, seeking to battle from far behind in his quest for a second White House nomination, has said McGovern proposals on such issues as $1,000 income supplement payments to supplant welfare, a $32 billion cut in defense spending, and an overhaul of the tax system are so unpopular as to point to defeat for the Democratic ticket.

He said at one point that a McGovern ticket, with those proposals intact, could spell electoral disaster.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, trying to revive his tattered campaign, said he found party leaders "deeply concerned that they cannot sell his positions."

McGovern said a report quoting George Meany as saying he would bet on a Nixon victory if the South Dakota senator is the Democratic nominee indicates the AFL-CIO president is "out of touch with current feelings in the country."

"The labor movement is in a sad way if it's looking at Nixon, and I can't believe its leadership will take the rank and file into Nixon's camp," he said.

But that kind of talk from candidates and labor leaders is indicative of the problems McGovern faces as he seeks to pry loose the delegates he needs to guarantee nomination, and at the same time unite the party.

He will have to operate on a thin line between inflexibility, which could harden the line of his party critics, and compromises that could lead some of his backers to complain of a return to politics as usual.

McGovern's own supporters are part of the problem. The vast majority of his delegates will be at a national convention for the first time. There are those in the McGovern organization who fear demands for hard-line planks in the party platform, perhaps for the legalization of marijuana and abortion. Humphrey has raised both those topics in his criticism of McGovern, who has said he favors neither.

It will take firm leadership, from McGovern and his campaign managers, to keep the delegates in control. Gary Hart, the campaign director, said he is convinced the delegates aligned with McGovern will heed the precepts of political pragmatism when the time comes, and do what is best for the man they want nominated and elected.

McGovern's strategists believe they have a key ally in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as they seek the nomination and the party unity it will take to make it meaningful.

As they view it, Kennedy is seeking to give their candidate a subtle boost toward clinching the nomination by keeping open the long-odds prospect that he might accept second place on the ticket.

These politicians do not believe Kennedy wants the vice presidential nomination, but they think there are circumstances under which he might accept it.

Kennedy has said he cannot foresee the circumstances, but would not exclude the possibility of joining McGovern on the ticket if that appeared the only way the Democrats could win.

McGovern sources said Kennedy made his original statement about the vice presidency largely because of Muskie's effort to revive his own candidacy. They maintain that Kennedy believes McGovern will be the nominee, and that efforts to stop him now can only be divisive.

And they say the kind of situation in which Kennedy might take the vice presidency would arise should the leaders of organized labor threaten to walk out or sit out the campaign.

As they tell it, Kennedy might then go on the ticket to bring labor back.

They do not expect such a defection.

What they expect is a situation in which a McGovern ticket would have the support of skeptical labor leaders, simply because they oppose President Nixon more.

$50,000 Award For 'Remarks'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Douglas, the television host and producer, has been awarded $50,000 by a Superior Court jury because of remarks made by his former business partner, S. Roger Janis.

Douglas' contended in a $1.4 million slander suit that he had difficulty raising money for other productions after Janis told associates that Douglas had "taken" $100,000 out of a travel series, "America," which he had produced.

The jury returned the verdict Tuesday after a five-day trial.

Wife Is Suing Andy Griffith

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Andy Griffith, 46, has been sued for divorce by his wife of 23 years, Barbara, 45.

The Griffiths were college classmates at the University of North Carolina and were married Aug. 26, 1949, according to Mrs. Griffith's petition, which was filed Tuesday. They separated last October.

The couple has a 14-year-old son, Sam, and a 12-year-old daughter, Dixie.

Congressional Husbands Play Role Of Their Choice

Editor's Note—Look behind some of the Congressional women and you'll find a man: their husbands. Some stay home and mind the hearth; some manage the missus' campaign; and one, at least, at the mention of politics turns over and goes to sleep.

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. John Francis Mink was sitting in a Taiwan cafe leafing through the China Post when he spotted an interesting looking editorial.

"I started skimming it and two names jumped out at me," he recalled. "So I phoned Washington to find out what was going on."

The names were those of his wife, Rep. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, and Dr. Edgar Berman, a member of the Democratic National Committee's policy council.

Mrs. Mink had demanded Berman resign from the committee after he contended that women were unsuited for leadership positions because the menstrual cycle and menopause made them less stable emotionally than men. Berman eventually resigned.

The gist of the editorial, said Mink was that "no Chinese man would ever get into such a situation."

Mink is in a situation many American men might not want to get into. He is one of seven men whose wives are members of Congress.

The seven have little else in common. They include a geologist, a high school principal, a lawyer, an investment counsellor, a stockbroker, an investigator and a retired logger. Mink is the geologist.

"Ever since Patsy and I have been together, we've been together in politics," said Mink, who is his wife's campaign manager. "We matured together in politics."

Mink is a "haole"—the Hawaiian word for Caucasian—from Jim Thorpe, Pa., who met his Hawaiian-born wife of Japanese ancestry at the University of Chicago.

Mink, who has a Ph.D. and specializes in hydrology, quit his job with the Honolulu Board of Water Supply when his wife was elected to Congress in 1964.

As a partner of Earth Sciences, Inc., a Washington-based firm, Mink travels the world studying water resources.

"We lead one of the quietest lives of any couple in Washington," said Mink. "We don't get involved in the social world unless it relates to the state of Hawaii.

"Politics and my own work have been so exciting we've never felt the need to find something else. We just like to take long drives or go off for weekends together."

Unlike Mink, Dr. Thomas A. Grasso, principal of Sunset Ridge Middle School in East Hartford, Conn., and husband of Rep. Ella Grasso, D-Conn., doesn't live in the Capital and seldom visits it.

"I can't enjoy the luxury of politics," he said jokingly. "I have to work. To enjoy politics, one has to have an aptitude for and enjoy meeting people. It's her whole life."

His wife spends four days a week in Washington and three days with her family in Windsor Locks, Conn. "It isn't a hardship," said her husband, "I'm used to it after 20 years."

Mrs. Grasso's political career began in 1953 when she was elected to the state House of Representatives. She was Connecticut secretary of state for 12 years and co-chairman of the Resolutions Committee at the 1964 and 1968 Democratic national conventions.

Hicks Griffiths, husband of Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., said he was attracted to his future wife when both were attending the University of Missouri because he liked to argue with her.

"I think we got married so we could continue to argue politics," he said.

The newlyweds entered University of Michigan Law School together, but when they found themselves entertaining the class by arguing conflicting opinions, they decided to take their courses separately.

After graduation they formed a law partnership with G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, and they've been a team ever since. Griffiths became state chairman of the Democratic Party, building an organization that made Williams governor.

He persuaded his wife to run for the state legislature, where she served two terms, and in 1954 convinced her to run for Congress.

"Martha has the limelight, and I love it," he said. "When Martha decided to run for Congress, I put all my political moxie into managing the campaign."

Said Mrs. Griffiths: "Soapy and I were the happy extroverts and ran around shaking hands. But my husband knew how to get things done."

The Griffiths have no children. She spends Monday through Thursday in Washington, flies to Michigan Friday and spends Saturday in her office meeting with constituents. He runs the law office in Detroit. Sundays the Griffiths spend on their farm in Macomb County, Ill.

John Heckler, husband of Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., owns an investment counselling business in Boston. He also is his wife's campaign manager.

"I make the policy decisions, but he is the organization man who runs a tight ship," said Mrs. Heckler, who was elected to Congress in 1966.

She was attending Albertus Magnus College in New Haven, Conn., when she began dating Heckler.

They were married after college, and Mrs. Heckler went to Boston College Law School, where she was graduated second in the class. Heckler was at the helm when his wife won a post as town meeting representative in Wellesley, the fashionable Boston suburb where they live, and when she was elected to the Executive Council that advises the governor.

The Hecklers, who divide their time between a suburban Virginia house and their Wellesley home, have three children—Belinda, 15, Alison, 13, and John Jr., 12.

Martin Abzug, stockbroker novelist and husband of Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said politics leaves him cold. When his wife decided to run for Congress, "I thought it would be a wasted effort," he said. When his wife, who comes home on weekends, tries to talk to him about issues, "I go to bed."

The Abzugs met when he was going into the Army and she was a college girl on vacation in Florida.

"Bella comes on strong, but she's not domineering. She's very generous and very sensitive," he has said. "The best I can describe is, she's hard on the outside and soft on the inside."

After graduating from Columbia Law School, Mrs. Abzug went to Mississippi in 1950 to defend a black man subsequently convicted of raping a white woman. Several months pregnant at the time, she was threatened with lynching but refused to leave.

"She's got a lot of guts, that woman, more guts than the whole damn Army," said her husband.

Peanuts Are Real Gold In Goober City

By P. BRADLEY SMITH

PORTALES, N.M. (UPI) — College students in Portales call the town "Goober City," but to the residents it is pure gold.

Portales is the center for an agricultural area that produces most of the Valencia peanuts — the kind sold in the hull in bags at baseball games —distributed in the United States.

It is this distinction that has earned Portales its nickname among students at Eastern New Mexico University. But it also earns the residents of Portales Valley more than $1 million a year.

Most of the peanuts sold in the hull in the United States are of the Valencia variety, according to Floyd McAlister, president of the Portales Valley Peanut Growers Association.

Some other varieties —such as the Virginia peanuts —are sold in the hull, "but they don't have the taste that our peanuts do. There's just no peanut that matches the taste of Valencia peanuts," McAlister says.

Between 90 and 95 per cent of the total Valencia peanut crop is grown in New Mexico and about 95 per cent of that is grown in Roosevelt County, of which Portales is the county seat, he says.

McAlister is not sure how Valencia peanuts —with a cream-colored hull and red skin —got started in the Portales Valley, but he says "they produce very well here in this particular type of soil."

Oddly, most of the Valencia peanuts grown near Portales go back to the big peanut-growing areas of the Southeast and command a good price.

"This is something that a lot of people are not aware of," McAlister says, "but the biggest percentage of our peanuts are actually sold in the Southeast. We're not really in competition because most of their peanuts are not for the in-the-hull trade. They grow some Spanish peanuts and Virginia runner peanuts, which are sold in the hull, but they aren't as good as Valencia peanuts."

McAlister thinks the farmers can sell twice as many peanuts if the government allowed them more acreage. Last year the New Mexico allotment was 5,200 acres. This year the association is seeking another 5,500 acres.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture bases its allotments on supply and demand. The association argues that if Valencia peanuts can demand a higher price than other varieties, there must be a higher demand.

Narcolepsy Under Study

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The young Palo Alto ballplayer started for first base, suddenly staggered and fell to the ground —in a deep sleep.

A movie camera recorded the incident for Dr. William C. Dement, director of the Sleep Disorders Clinic at Stanford. The young player is one of his patients.

Dement, a psychiatrist, and colleagues are turning up new evidence which explodes myths about a rare form of sleeping sickness called narcolepsy.

Narcolepsy has been recognized in medicine for at least a century. But for a long time it was considered a psychosomatic illness.

Now, evidence indicates it may have a completely organic base. And the disorder may run in families.

For narcoleptics, to fight uncontrollable fits of sleepiness could result in disabling paralysis that will keep them awake in "sheer hell." The paralysis frequently is triggered when a narcoleptic becomes violently angry or elated.

Dement and his colleagues are collecting data on brain waves, muscle contractions and eye movements in their search for causes.

Use of stimulants to block sleepiness have met with mixed results.

Dement said at this point it's probably better to let a narcoleptic sleep off the problem.

Freeway Signs To Aid Traffic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Flashing, scoreboard-like signs will go into operation soon on the Santa Monica Freeway in an effort to speed traffic flow by warning motorists of tieups and other road problems ahead.

A recent demonstration of the advisory sign system showed warnings such as "right lanes blocked two miles ahead" and "congestion two miles ahead."

The signs, 8-by-30 feet with letters 18 inches high, can flash different messages.

In case of an accident which could tie up traffic, the signs might read: "Accident ahead—take next off-ramp."

Thirty-five signs are to be installed along the freeway, beginning in August. The project is scheduled for completion by early October.

TOURIST PROJECT

MANILA (UPI) —City engineers are studying a project to convert downtown Plaza Miranda into a tourist center. Under the plan, multicolored booths will be set up to sell local products.

Work Turns A Boy Into Man

Contrast Wendell with boys on the "allowance" plan who don't work for their spending mone! Which type gains more "horse sense?" And votes more intellignetly? Which will be FOR the "establishment" instead of against it? Parents, urge your children to carry a newspaper route!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-512: Wendell Hill, aged 10, is the son of a Free Methodist clergyman whose pulpit I recently occupied.

Afterwards, Rev. Hill and has gracious wife invited Mrs. Crane and me to a delicious dinner in their home.

"Dr. Crane," Rev. Hill began, "Wendell is a newspaper carrier."

His beaming mother added: "And he won a big turkey during the holidays for gaining 6 new subscribers!"

Mrs. Crane and I congratulated Wendell.

"How many customers do you have on your route?" I asked.

"There are now 48," Wendell replied, "and I earn $5 per week."

Then his mother gave us an extra bit of information.

"Our church is trying to raise money for a new building," she added, "since our present sanctuary is almost 100 years old and inadequate.

"So my husband has urged parishioners to make personal sacrifices in order to get our first $60,000.

"Wendell pledged $1 per week, but recently decided that he wasn't making any real sacrifice by contributing only $1.

"So now he gives $2 each week out of his $5 earnings."

Again I expressed my praise for his devotion to the church.

"I suppose you do your own collecting on Saturday?" I added.

"Yes," Wendell answered, "but I may start on Thursday and Friday because people aren't always home on Saturday."

His dad shook his head with a rueful grin and said:

"Sometimes Wendell has difficulty getting his money from occasional subscribers but even this is an educational experience!"

"Wendell," I began, "there are 3 parts to our famous American economic system.

"One is 'Production,' involving the raising of farm crops or making of shoes or automobiles, etc.

"The 2nd is 'Merchandising,' which involves, advertising, selling, packaging of goods, plus their delivery.

"The 3rd phase is 'Credit,' and includes bank cashiers, accountants, bookkeepers, and all those who take in the money for the goods or services that have been produced.

"But the usual worker in the 'Production' phase does not try to merchandise what he produces nor collect.

"And the 'Merchandiser' may also be restricted just to advertising or selling, but have no experience at collecting and balancing his books to see if there is any 'net' profit after he pays for his goods.

"You newspaper carriers are thus the ONLY large group of boys in America who gain all 3 views of our economic system.

"For you buy your papers at wholesale; then merchandise them and try to win new subscribers.

"Finally, you collect and thus find out what your 'net' income amounts to.

"So you newspaper boys (and girls) gain the very best type of economic training in America!

"Would that all state legislators and members of our U.S. Congress had also spent at least one year as a newspaper carrier!

"Then they'd not waste our taxes as profligately as now is true!"

Circulation Managers thus deserve a double salute for training 1,000,000 boys every year in our "free enterprise" system.

Newspaper carriers make more intelligent voters; better husbands, and more patriotic citizens. They gain "horse sense" and are not Prodigal Sons!

They are FOR the "establishment"; not against it!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1972.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♡

When you are about to put something over on the opposition prompt action is clearly indicated, for the slightest delay presents the other fellow with an opportunity to think things over. An apt illustration of a successful flim-flam is offered today where South became the declarer at three no trump.

Altho South is technically within the limits of a one no trump opening bid, he has 18 points plus an establishable five card suit and we are inclined to go along with his decision to revalue his holding upward by opening with one club and then jumping to two no trump on the next round. North held ample values to carry on to game.

West opened the five of hearts, and when dummy's ten held the first trick South felt safe in assuming that West had the king. Declarer could count two tricks each in spades, hearts, and diamonds. Three more were available in clubs—provided they could be developed in time.

The problem on the deal was that if South came back to the king of spades to lead the jack of clubs thru West, and the finesse lost to the queen in East's hand—the latter would return a heart thru the ace-queen. West would capture South's queen with the king and then clear the suit. If West had the ace of clubs and started originally with five hearts, the defense could take three hearts and two clubs before declarer had his nine in.

Since he had no objection to losing a trick to West, who could not continue the attack in hearts without surrendering another trick, declarer led a small club from the dummy at trick two. East had no conception of what was about to transpire and he followed promptly with a small club. South played the jack and West—who had no desire to surrender his side entry—played the six. The ten of clubs was returned, West followed with the seven, and declarer put up North's king to snare East's queen.

Another club dislodged the ace and assured South of 10 tricks on the deal—four clubs and two in each of the other suits. If East had put up the queen of clubs when that suit was led from dummy, he would have been in position to clear South's last heart stopper while West retained the ace of clubs to cash out the setting trick. We would be among the last to charge East with an error on the deal—altho South might, perhaps, have been expected to cash dummy's king of clubs first if he had the ace in his hand.

Likes Class In Gardening

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Melvin A. Kulbick, a graduate student in political science and Michael G. Duffy, a graduate student in physics agree with Masayoshi Kuwata, a graduate student in fuel science that a garden course offered by the Pennsylvania State University is relaxing — and economical.

The university, for a fee of $3.25 for the summer, has made available 30-60 foot plots now sprouting peas, lettuce, cucumbers or whatever the student gardener prefers to grow.

Kulbick, of Baltimore, said gardening "is really a nice change for someone who grew up in the city."

"When you have two kids and live on $60 a week, the things you grow come in handy," said Mrs. Duffy of McLean, Va.

The Duffys rent a food locker and plant enough vegetables to last an entire year. They have planted corn, peas, lettuce, tomatoes and peanuts in their two plots.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuwata, natives of Japan, are trying to grow American squash and cantalopes as well as other crops.

"We are doing this for enjoyment and recreation," Mrs. Kuwata said. "We must save money, too."

Big Child Care Program Approved By Senators

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After trying to make it more acceptable to President Nixon, the Senate has approved a $2.95-billion bill that would provide the biggest federal child-day-care program in history.

Once vetoed by Nixon, the bill now goes to the House which has shown little inclination to act on it again. And some Republicans say the massive day-care provisions may cause still another presidential veto.

But sponsors said the lopsided 73-12 tally in the Senate Tuesday should give the measure impetus. They point to the bill's wide array of support from women's-liberation, church, union, child-welfare, education and civil-rights groups.

Its backers estimate in its first full year of operation the bill would double the present total of children in day-care centers.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chief sponsor, said that, since millions of mothers must work, small children often are left alone because no arrangements can be made for their care.

Foes of the bill argue that it would help break up families and deprive young children of a mother's care.

The measure would provide free day care for children of working parents whose income is less than $4,320 a year. Those with incomes between $4,320 and $7,000 would pay part of the cost, while well-off families could use the day-care centers by paying the full cost.

Mondale emphasized that the bill provides for a child-development program going well beyond just day care.

There would be such preschool services as Head Start, prenatal services, in-the-home tutoring, and child-development classes for parents and prospective parents.

The bill authorizes $150 million to start the program in fiscal 1973, $1.2 billion in 1974, and $1.6 billion for 1975.

Sponsors emphasized the rate was well below the $2-billion, one-year funding in the vetoed bill.

The bill would permit such groups as school systems and churches in towns of 25,000 population and up to sponsor the programs.

This would make a potential of 2,000 sponsors. The vetoed bill had a floor of 5,000 population for the size of the towns involved. This would have permitted 7,000 sponsors, another feature to which Nixon strongly objected.

Probe Break-In And Robbery

Chief Glenn Cannon said thieves broke open the front door and took five tape players valued at about $500 from the store.

The incident was reported at 12:45 a.m.

Sounds Call For 'The Concerned'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Charles "Bud" Wilkinson, the former Oklahoma football coach, has issued a call for "one million Americans who have a concern about crime in this country and who want to do something" about it.

Wilkinson, vice chairman of the National Council on Crime and Deliquency and chairman of its citizens action program, said Tuesday, "It's our hope and also our belief that you the professionals will welcome these people and will use these citizens who honestly desire to do something about crime."

Wilkinson, speaking to 1,500 persons at the National Institute on Crime and Delinquency, said the NCCD would conduct a campaign to recruit the one million volunteers by 1977.

No Charges In Traffic Mishap

No charges were placed in a 1:45 a.m. mishap today that injured two persons.

Police reported a car driven by Harry Mills Wilson, 21, of 1212 Charles St. collided with a fire hydrant at the intersection of Dickinson and Manhatten Avenues, causing an estimated $300 damage to the car and about $25 damage to the hydrant.

Wilson and a passenger in the vehicle were reported injured.

Various Classes Were Held At Youth Nutrition Day Camp

The second Youth Nutrition Day Camp program was held last Tuesday-Friday with 67 of the enrolled 70 youth attending.

The camp was sponsored by the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service under the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program and leadership of Miss Addie R. Gore, home economics extension agent.

The camping program was designed to give some depth training to youth of low income families in foods nutrition, health and related areas. During the week the following classes and activities were held: classes in meal planning, each of the four food group; dental care; household insects and pests; food preparation; table setting; and crafts.

Activities included dance contest, talent show, softball games, relays and other sports activities and a walking tour of the Greenville Airport.

Assisting in the week's classes were the Extension Program Aides, Mrs. Lillie Claxton; Mrs. Allie Washington; Mrs. Mildred Williams; and Mrs. Martha Dawson; Miss Alice Hobbs, extension trainee, Mrs. Evelyn Spangler, associate home economics extension agent; Mrs. Mary Denny and Dr. Von Moore, both of State Board of Health and R. H. Hillamon, N. C. State University, Raleigh.

Volunteers assisting in the camp program were: Miss Floretta Casey; John C. Johnson; and Miss Essie Wiggins, Greenville; Mrs. Gertude McCoy; Albert Williams; and Mrs. Helen Johnson, Simpson; Mrs. J.J. Brown and Miss Julie Brown, Ayden; and Ermond Lee Bryant, Winterville.

Upon the close of camp, volunteers and the following youth received camping certificates: Ayden and Winterville communities: Valerie Moore; Gregory Moore; and Ronnie Morris; Grimesland community: Athelene Jackson; Donnie Jackson; Terry Morris; and Ronnie Morris; Grimesland community; Georgia Wilson; Norman Wilson; and Larry Wilson;

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to ferret out whatever information you need to be more successful, or aware of what goes on where it particularly concerns you. Also your emotional force can be directed toward gaining the objectives that are important to you and your future. Show strength and determination.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your hunches are working accurately and can be very helpful in getting others to cooperate with you where your most important plans are concerned. Come to a far better understanding with mate in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch with good friends and allies who can be helpful to you where career affairs are concerned. A public plan that is important to you can be discussed at length. Reach the right decision.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) you have much work to do and you find that co-workers are most cooperative, more so than they have been for some time. Get much accomplished. Do whatever will improve your vitality later on in the day. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are in the mood for summer fun, which is fine, so get congenials to go along with you to the recreations you enjoy. You are warm and affectionate and others will appreciate you more. Pay bills first.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your surroundings and see what should be done so they will be more comfortable and attractive. Make them more streamlined so you need not work so hard there in the future. Think.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Perfecting routines during day is wise and then you have plenty of time left for being with good friends at whatever pleases you the most. Handle correspondence well. Take care of that transportation problem now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get busy making those improvements to your property that will add to its value and comfort. Plan to cut down on expenses also and have a bigger reserve. Being good to kin is fine, but take care you are not a doormat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keeping occupied doing important work during day frees time for that recreation you want in p.m. with fine friends. Outline your plans for the future to them and gain their ideas, cooperation. Have fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You know early what your true aims are and how to go after them successfully now. Attend to those personal duties also. Show you have your feet on the ground and your head where it should be.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can rely on that good and influential friend for the assistance you need to get your cherished aims that seem difficult to you right now. Make sure you know just what it is you want, though. Think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Bringing your talents to the attention of bigwigs now gains you the support you want for your aims. Get busy handling that credit matter that has been bothering you. Avoid that person who wants to gossip all the time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can now plan that trip that means so much to you, so get busy early and make accommodations, etc. Show you are open-minded and you get along better with others. Forget that negative attitude of the past.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . he or she will be one of those persons that few will be able to stop from going ahead with ideas and projects in mind, since there is good judgment and force of will here which will lead to success. Fine chart for whatever work requires understanding all the major factors first, and then working out the small details. Sports are a must here and so is the teaching of good ethics early in life. A fine family member.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

PORTABLE-EASILY INSTALLED IN YOUR BARN WITH A MINIMUM OF WORK

EVEN DISTRIBUTION OF AIR MEANS NO COLD SPOTS

COMPLETELY ADJUSTABLE FOR BOTH HEIGHT AND LENGTH

THE NO-SWET™ DEHUMIDIFIER

FOR COLORING

COLORS OVER RIPE . . . UNDER RIPE . . . RIPE . . . TOBACCO—EVENLY IN THE SAME BARN thanks to the patented air diffuser that circulates air from four different levels keeping ripe or over ripe leaves in good condition until greener leaves are ready for curing heat.

Although over ripe or ripe leaves color first, the NO-SWET™ DEHUMIDIFIER circulates the air so thoroughly they remain in good condition, no sponging, until the greener leaves are ready for higher heat.

FOR CURING

Fresh air is forced into the barn, then the patented diffuser spreads it evenly throughout the barn in thin layers. This forces the dry heated air evenly through the tobacco—eliminating sweating.

The NO-SWET™ DEHUMIDIFIER allows the farmer to cure mixed tobacco, over ripe, under ripe and greener leaves in the same barn.

It cures with less trash and little fear of sponging which is caused by steam from other drying tobacco.

ADVANCES CURING TIME FROM ONE TO ONE AND A HALF DAYS FASTER • BRINGS TOBACCO TO ORDER ONE TO TWO DAYS FASTER • CAN BE USED TO COOL YOUR BARN DURING HANGING. This secondary use makes the hanging process cooler and easier.

THIS INSURES TOP TOBACCO—TOP PRICES AT AUCTION
PORTABLE . . . CAN BE MOVED FROM BARN TO BARN

THE NO-SWET™ DEHUMIDIFIER WILL PAY FOR ITSELF SEVERAL TIMES OVER DURING ANY NORMAL CURING SEASON AND IN MANY INSTANCES WILL PAY FOR ITSELF THE VERY FIRST TIME IT IS USED. AT THE LOW PRICE OF $ 225.00
