By FRANK CORMIER

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon issued a broadcast invitation to the world today to visit the United States on its 200th birthday in 1976.

his oceanside home here. Among those he conferred with were Henry A. Kissinger, assistant for national security affairs, and John D. Ehrlichman, domestic policy aide.

find Mr. Nixon's attitude toward the blatant act of political espionage against the Democratic party to be cavalier and cynical.

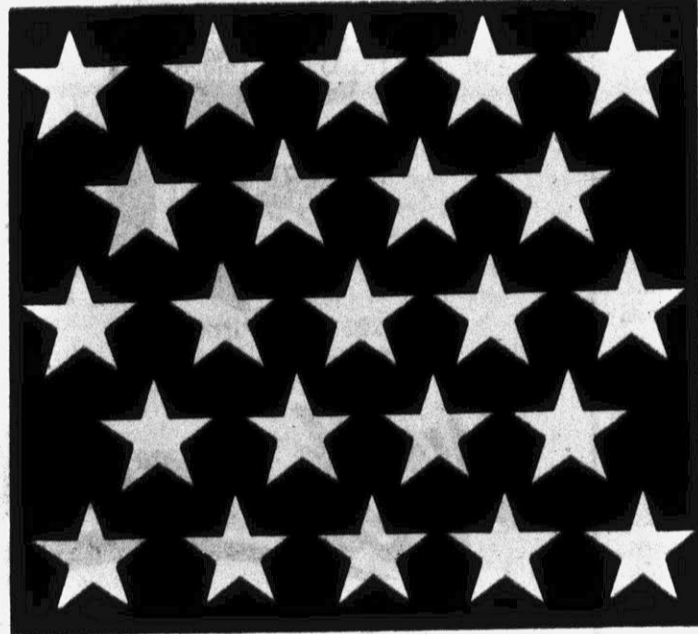

Noting that America has been peopled by immigrants from many lands, the President said it is time to say to the world's nations: "You helped to make us what we are. Come and see what wonders your countrymen have worked in this new country of ours. Come and let us say thank you. Come and join in our celebration of a proud past. Come and share our dreams of a brighter future."

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers drove to the southwestern edge of Quang Tri City today in a lightning assault against North Vietnamese troops manning defensive strongpoints, military sources said.

"The enemy appears to be pulling back, but we're encountering resistance from nearly every tree line, every village," said an American adviser, Capt. Gail Furrow, 32, of Urbana, Ohio.

Credentials Cases Court-Bound

By MARGARET GENTRY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Parallel efforts to upset the California and Illinois decisions of the Democratic Credentials Committee moved toward a federal appeals court today.

Attorneys fighting the committee decisions said they would appeal U.S. Dist. Court Judge George L. Hart's ruling Monday that the judiciary should not get involved in the debate.

Anticipating the appeals, Hart told the lawyers that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia had agreed to hear arguments today, despite the holiday.

Hart's decision came in these cases: —The move by Sen. George McGovern's camp to overturn the Credentials Committee vote stripping him of more than 150 California delegates.

Powder-Puffers To Fly Friday

SAN CARLOS, Calif. (AP) — Some 184 women pilots are preparing their 97 light planes for the start Friday of the 1972 Powder Puff Derby.

Ten of the women will be flying solo; the rest will make the trip in two-member teams.

'Joy Killing'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three young men were arrested early today in the slaying of a 4-year-old girl, termed by one policeman a "joy killing."

The child was playing in her front yard when she was hit by a shotgun blast fired from a car.

The men were booked for investigation of murder in the apparently motiveless slaying of Joyce Ann Huff of Hawaiian Gardens on Sunday.

They were identified as Donald Paul Antel, 21, Michael Ramirez, 18, and Oscar Hernandez, 22, all from suburban Norwalk. None offered resistance, deputies said.

Solid Waste-Disposal Site Plans Reviewed

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday reviewed proposed operational plans for the Littlefield solid waste disposal site.

According to the plan presented by county planner Phillip Michaels, the Littlefield site is designed to serve the residents of Ayden, Winterville, Grifton and Swift Creek Townships.

The landfill will be open six days a week—from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. during the months daylight savings time is in effect, and from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. during other months of the year — and will accept all solid wastes except automobile hulks, chemicals or explosives.

Additional Social Security Benefits Wanted By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security recipients may gain more new benefits, in addition to the 20 per cent payments increase that goes into effect in September.

Dr. Arthur Flemming, a special White House consultant on aging, said President Nixon wants legislation to give widows and widowers of Social Security beneficiaries full pension payment.

At present, they receive payments of 82 1/2 per cent of the amount due the deceased spouse.

Flemming said Nixon also wants to grant guaranteed incomes of $150 a month for individuals and $200 a month for couples. Further, he would liberalize present law to permit persons on Social Security to

TRANSFERRED

JESSUP, Md. (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer, charged with the shooting of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, has been transferred from the Baltimore County Jail to Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital for a court-ordered mental examination.

The operational plan must receive approval from state regulatory agencies before the site is placed in operation.

Commissioners tabled action on a request to approve the boundaries for extraterritorial jurisdiction for the City of Greenville until the County Planning Board can review the proposal and make a recommendation.

Two Koreas Agree To Unification Talk

SEOUL (AP) — South and North Korea announced to their surprised citizens today they have agreed in high-level secret meetings to set up machinery to work for unification of the long-divided peninsula.

Simultaneous announcements in Seoul, the South Korean capital, and Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, said a new accord provides for a telephone hotline between the two cities to prevent accidental war and for a joint political committee to open exchanges in many fields and to promote unification of North and South through peaceful means without outside interference.

The two governments also agreed to refrain from armed provocations and from slandering or defaming each other and to avoid accidental military incidents.

The agreements were reached at meetings in Pyongyang, May 25 and Seoul, May 29-June 1.

It was the first such contact reported between North and South Korea since before the 1950-53 Korean War that took 2 million lives, including 54,246 Americans fighting for the South. The three-year conflict ended in an armistice July 28, 1953, and the two

Bowen-Taylor Vows Said In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Jackie Carol Taylor became the bride of Ronnie Lee Bowen in a candlelight ceremony Saturday at 8:00 p.m. in the Rountree Christian Church.

The Rev. James Baswell officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James O. Taylor of Ayden and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Bowen of Winterville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Mitzi Corbett, organist, and Miss Debbie Harris, soloist, who sang "A Portrait of My Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with a fifteen branch candelabra and wedding palms. A standing basket of white summer flowers was placed on either side of the altar, where the couple knelt for their vows on a gold and white prie-dieu.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length crepe gown designed with a bodice of re-embroidered lace. The gown was designed with a sweetheart neckline and scalloped angel sleeves. The hemline of the skirt was of scalloped re-embroidered lace. Her gown was made by Mrs. Pat MacDermott of Ayden.

She wore a formal length veil of re-embroidered lace scalloped around the edges with a pearl headpiece. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white pixie carnations and lily-of-the-valley tied with streamers of satin and tulle.

Miss Susie Suggs of Ayden was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of green dotted swiss designed with an empire waistline and sweetheart neckline with short tucked sleeves. She carried a colonial nosegay of mixed miniature summer flowers with multicolored satin streamers edged in gypsophilia tinted pastel green.

Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Pierce and Miss Diane Suggs, both of Ayden. They wore pink and yellow dresses identical to that of the honor attendant. Their bouquets were also identical to that of the honor attendant.

Russell Butler, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Pat Tripp and Bud Suggs, both of Ayden.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Taylor chose a purple double knit dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a blue suit of bonded knit with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Bernice Cannon of Ayden. Miss Patricia Whaley presided at the guest register.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden Grifton High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden High School and is currently employed by Empire Brush Co.

After a wedding trip to Topsail Beach, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Ayden.

After-Rehearsal Party
The Bowen-Taylor wedding party was honored at an after-rehearsal party Friday night.

After the bridal couple cut the first traditional slice of cake from the three tiered wedding cake, Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bride, served cake and Mrs. Bernice Cannon poured punch. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth centered with a white bridal doll arrangement.

Honesty Is Best Policy In Applying For A New Job

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I wish I could have answered "DISCOURAGED" who couldn't get a job because nobody wanted to hire a person who had no experience.

I'd have told him that sometimes we have to lie to get what we want.

When I was 17, I was bright, capable and eager to work. I could accurately type 60 words per minute. But I couldn't get a job because I was inexperienced. I pounded the pavement without success for three weeks, then I gave the employers what they wanted, a whopping lie about my "previous positions." I was hired immediately.

I was very upset about lying, but if I hadn't lied I never would have landed a job.

I know you don't encourage lying, but honesty doesn't always pay off in a dishonest world. NO REGRETS

DEAR NO: Sorry, I don't buy your philosophy. Most employers check out applicants, and had yours done so, you'd have wound up with egg on your face, which could have hatched into plenty of trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for saying if a teen-ager is old enough to work, he's old enough to ask for his own job.

I once operated a placement service, and you wouldn't believe the number of pushy mothers who did all the talking, punched and nudged their embarrassed children who weren't allowed to open their mouths during the job interview.

Also papa and mama should not get into the act at all. They shouldn't call the employment agencies to find out if junior got the job, and if not, why not.

The best teen-aged employes are the ones whose parents are never heard from. MARIETTA, GA.

DEAR MARIETTA: Thanks for a timely reminder to well-meaning parents.

DEAR ABBY: When I was fresh out of high school, I also couldn't get a job because they wanted only experienced people, so I finally told one employer, "If I were experienced, how much would this job pay?"

He told me. Then I said, "Let me work for nothing for one week. If you decide to keep me, pay me for the week. If you don't want to keep me, you owe me nothing." It worked. AMBITIOUS

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't afford to go to college, so I applied for a selling job with a large company I had always admired.

The personnel manager said, "Sorry, we're hiring only men who have had some sales experience."

I looked him straight in the eye and replied, "How can you expect a man [I was all of 16] to have experience if no one will hire him?"

The manager said, "You're right. I'll give you a chance, but you have to start at the bottom as a trainee." I did.

That was 16 years ago and I'm still with the company. Last year they had a sales contest and first prize was a trip to Hawaii for the winner and his wife. Guess who won! Yours truly. STILL SELLING

DEAR ABBY: Re lack of experience—no chance of being hired: An excellent source of experience is volunteer work. Hospitals, churches, and any number of charitable organizations need volunteers. No money, of course, but they pay off in self-esteem, a sense of accomplishment, and experience.

Even if the paying job requires skills other than the volunteer job, one can still get a recommendation for cooperation, diligence, punctuality and ambition, which most employers consider equally as important as skills.

Self-Taught Cook Had Trouble Breaking Barrier In Hometown

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gender is a bigger career handicap than color for Velma James, the black executive chef at a restaurant on Manhattan's East Side.

In an interview, Mrs. James said she found that out as a young woman trying to break into the restaurant world in her native New Orleans.

"They had nothing but men chefs, old men, who were recognized as great chefs," she said. "I could cook as well as they could, or better. I figured I had to be better, being a woman and black."

Today, Mrs. James is not only head chef of an all-male kitchen staff, but she's also a partner in the Grenadier restaurant. Her co-owners, both white, include Edna Ford, for whom Mrs. James catered business parties during her early years in New York. She had come here after the breakup of her marriage.

As a largely self-taught cook, she finds it a disadvantage to have a lot of men working for her.

"They resent a woman boss," she said. "Men resent it when you call them to help lift pots."

"You need a lot of stamina, patience and strength. Yesterday, I was here 11 hours. Today, maybe I'll be here between nine and 10 hours. I do all the ordering and oversee the cooking."

The regular menu is largely Continental, with many specials you won't find in a cookbook.

Mrs. James likes to improvise, and one of her most popular improvisations she named for her family. Chicken Maurice has a layer of stuffing between the skin and the flesh. The stuffing consists of ground breast of chicken, mushrooms, onions, eggs, bread crumbs and herbs.

Mrs. James said she sometimes is inspired by cookbooks when she has time to read the ones people give her. She cooked veal with chanterelles, sour cream and wine after studying a book on mushrooms. Chanterelles are yellow mushrooms with a distinctive aroma.

Best with Vegetables
She is at her most inventive with fresh vegetables. She cooks carrots with orange juice, and bite-size wedges of unpeeled orange, seasoned with a bit of ground ginger and brown sugar. Cauliflower is sometimes served with bread crumb and caraway seed topping. Fresh grapes in season may appear as a vegetable with a very thin wine or cream sauce and chopped fresh parsley.

Mrs. James said she learned the basics of good nutrition in the dietary department of a well-known New Orleans hospital. She went to work there as a young woman after a stint as salad girl and a substitute for male chefs convinced her she'd never get ahead in male-dominated New Orleans restaurant kitchens.

Although she cooks international favorites, she still enjoys Southern cooking, especially some creole dishes her mother use to prepare. They include jambalaya, gumbo and red kidney beans boiled with herbs, ham hocks and fat back. Jambalaya is a spicy rice main dish and gumbo is a thick stew which usually contains okra.

"I still have a sister in New Orleans, who sends live crabs, shrimp and creole cream cheese, all packed in dry ice. And a customer once brought me file and crab boil."

Soul food expert
File—pronounced fee'-lay—is an herb made from powdered sassafras leaves that is traditional in gumbo. Crab oil is a spicy hot herb mixture used in water for cooking crabs.

During five years as a restaurant operator in suburban Great Neck, she cooked soul food dishes including greens, black-eyed peas and crackling corn bread.

"People think soul food is cheap food but it isn't," she added. "Spareribs cost a fortune. I remember when tripe cost 19 cents a pound. Now it's 95 cents."

Her childhood memories of home cooking sound more like haute cuisine than soul food.

She grew up during the depression when millions stood in bread lines for food handouts. But Mrs. James said her family ate well because her mother was an excellent cook and her grandfather grew vegetables, raised pigs and chickens and even hunted pheasant and wild duck for family dinners.

Variations of the artist's loose-fitting smock are showing up as topping for pants. Designers finish off the costume with tasselled or plain ropes of jewelry hanging almost to the waist and with big, "door knocker" earrings.

Clear Way To Try Ellsberg

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense efforts to prevent the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo in the Pentagon Papers case have failed and the way is clear for proceedings to begin next Monday.

U.S. District Court Judge William M. Byrne Jr. denied on Monday the defendants' request to dismiss espionage, conspiracy and theft charges on grounds that the government singled out Ellsberg and Russo because of their antiwar views. But Byrne ordered the government to give him any records, letters or memos of telephone calls concerning the reasons for prosecuting the former Rand Corp. researchers.

"This matter will be reopened on my own motion," he cautioned, if that material shows evidence of selective prosecution.

The defense had argued that the FBI began investigating Ellsberg at least nine months before he leaked the classified, Pentagon-commissioned documents on the Vietnam war to newsmen. The lawyers did not contend that the FBI discovered what Ellsberg was doing. But they said selective, discriminatory prosecution was proved by the fact that the government did not move against Ellsberg until after he espoused his antiwar views on national television.

Ellsberg has admitted leaking the documents that began appearing in the press on June 13, 1971. Ellsberg, 41, was indicted June 25, two days after his television appearance.

Plan Oyster Transplant

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A converted ferry boat that the state's Division of Commercial and Sports Fisheries will use in rebuilding the state's oyster industry was dedicated Monday.

The division will use the 110-foot craft to transport up to 10,000 bushels of oyster shells at a time for planting along the coast.

The state used federal funds to purchase the $47,000 boat along with a front end loader and trailer. The federal aid was requested last year after hurricane Ginger seriously damaged the state's oyster crop.

"This will be the first time North Carolina has truly been in the oyster rehabilitation business," said Dr. Thomas Linton, commissioner of commercial and sports fisheries.

"In the past, because of lack of equipment, we have made feeble efforts, but now we're ready."

"With this vessel we will be able to work on oyster rehabilitation during the full year," he said. "We will be planting during the season about half the year and stockpiling at the planting sites the other half."

PTI Sewing Seminar Set

Pitt Technical Institute will conduct a 15-hour Sewing Seminar in room 4 beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 12.

Adults will need no equipment, materials, or supplies. Each person should already know basic sewing skills and sewing terminology.

Instruction will consist of lecture, demonstration, and discussion. Areas that will be presented and discussed are basic sewing fundamentals, materials, patterns, tailoring, pressing techniques, use of trims, and other skills.

Cost for seminar is $1.50, and all interested persons should attend the first meeting at 7 p.m. next Wednesday evening.

For further information, visit Pitt Technical Institute room 113 or telephone 756-3130.

Area Students On Dean's List

GOLDSBORO — Five Greenville and Ayden Students were named to the Dean's List at Wayne Community College. For the spring quarter.

Those who qualified for the list and their various classes of work include:

Alfred P. Tetterton, watchmaking, Greenville; Roy Clinton James, livestock and poultry, Greenville; Diane Brown, dental assisting, Ayden; Linda King, dental hygiene, Greenville.

William F. May of Greenville, a transfer student, was also named to the Dean's List.

New Student Union Will Be Open To Handicapped

The new Student Union building at East Carolina University, now under construction, will be virtually "barrier-free" for physically handicapped students.

Normal construction design produces numerous barriers for persons who are blind or deaf, or who are confined to wheelchairs. Barrier-free construction design eliminates these obstacles and enables handicapped individuals to have easy and independent access to facilities within a building.

The ECU Student Union's north entrance is at grade level, so that no steps are needed. The main doors, and a number of inside doors, are to be about three feet wide, to allow passage to wheelchairs.

Keyed elevators with ample door width will give access to all floors in the building. Wall telephones and water coolers on each floor are to be mounted at a level suitable for use by the handicapped.

Special toilet facilities on each floor will be installed, equipped with lavatory niches, mirrors, soap dispensers and handrails designed for independent use by persons in wheelchairs.

Three-dimensional identification signs will be used on doors opening from the corridors, so that blind persons can feel and read.

Miss Norma Lewis and Miss Brenda J. Rogerson have qualified for the Honor Roll at Beaufort County Technical Institute in Washington.

To make the Honor Roll at the Institute, a student must make a grade average from 3.00 to 3.49 with no grade lower than a C.

Counted 16 Pitt Fires

During the month of June, a total of 22 alarms were answered by the 18 rural Fire Departments in Pitt County.

In making the monthly report, Pitt County Fire Marshal noted that the 22 alarms involved only 16 fires, as six of the occurrences incorporated mutual aids, where one station goes to the aid of another for a particular fire.

House fires, totaling 11 in number, accounted for the major portion of the total. Other fires reported were two buildings, one automobile fire, one grass fire, the six mutual aid fires, and one false alarm.

An estimated total of $175,000 was lost in the 16 fires which involved property totaling $253,900. Property valued at $77,000 was also adjacent to and exposed to the fires, with the value of property saved by the 18 departments estimated at a value of $155,900.

For June, the Fire Department at Stokes has the busiest month of the stations, taking part in four fire fighting efforts.

Cheerleaders To Attend Session

The cheerleaders of North Pitt High School will attend a workshop July 30-Aug. 2 at North Carolina Wesleyan College, Rocky Mount.

The participants will undergo extensive training in gymnastics, crowd control, new yells, jumps and use of the mini-tramp. They will also conduct a pep rally and participate in a talent show.

The cheerleaders participating are: Patricia Roebuck, Patricia Everette, Donna Gonzalez, Hope Tripp, Teresa Hathaway, Judy Carmack, Edna Howard, Bernita Johnson, Barbara Carney and Mary Heath.

Clifton Moore, Vice-President for Business Affairs at ECU, said these plans for barrier-free construction are designed to conform to regulations set by the Property Control and Construction Division of the state Department of Administration.

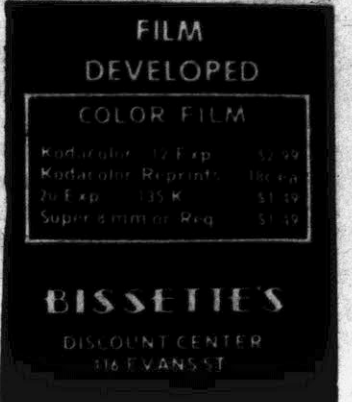

He said additional features are under consideration, including a ramp for handicapped access to the bowling land level, which is situated four steps below course, and blinking lights connected to fire alarm bells or paging systems so deaf persons can be alerted.

Today is the United States' Independence Day. Along with being a holiday and a time for picnics and fireworks, perhaps we should just stop to consider the good things about our nation. Sure we have problems today, just as we had problems when the country was founded. Still we live in a great country which provides well for most of its citizens.

Surcharge On Our Tax Levy

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, NC. — Exemptions place a surcharge on the property tax burden for Tar Heel citizens. By the amount which exemptions reduce the tax base, they raise the levy which falls on owners of taxable property.

An expert on North Carolina taxations suggests the time is ripe for a searching inquiry into the subject, with an open mind on whether property, but the same statutes plainly excuse owners of exempt property from having to list it," he explained. There is not even a requirement that exemption be requested.

"It is expensive to find and value property, and — even though counties and municipalities bemoan the loss of revenue from exemption — little local effort has been made to gather data to demonstrate that loss, and local authorities are often lax in administering exemption statutes."

Without arguing for or against specific exemptions, it is beyond debate that they increase the burden on taxable property. "It is often argued that exclusions and exemptions, in an ultimate sense, constitute governmental grants or subsidies to the owning organizations, business firms, or agencies," Lewis pointed out. "Most of us are familiar with the exemptions granted property used for religious, educational, and charitable purposes; we have to expect churches, schools, and hospitals to be free from taxation. With some cynicism, we accept the fact that various fraternal lodges and veterans' clubs pay no property taxes. Some Unfamiliar Exemptions

"Other legislatively authorized exemptions and exclusions, however, are less familiar; for example those granted (a) all cotton so long as it is subject to 'transit privileges' under Interstate Commerce Commission tariffs; (b) all farm products held by the original producer for a year following that in which grown; (c) all property stored in this state while awaiting shipment to a foreign country; and (d) the property of private utility companies used to provide sewer service to residential and 'outlying' areas.

"Some may be surprised to learn that banks pay no local tax on their personal property — whether or not it is employed in traditional banking enterprises — although they do pay on their real estate."

The resolution which created the study commission gave it the duty to review the field and recommend to the '73 legislature "a statement of public policy to guide the future exercise of discretion by the General Assembly."

To do the job thoroughly, Lewis said, both sides of the issue must be examined.

"Whenever any persuasive voice is raised in favor of granting tax favors to any type or class of property, the ordinary citizen (especially the small homeowner) must think for himself and should ask his legislators to think long and hard before acting," he concluded.

It is a country which was founded on sacrifice and our forefathers gave us a heritage of freedom that is unequalled in most of the world.

"Be Americans, George Washington told us. "Let there be no sectionalism, no North, South, East or West. You are all dependent one on another and should be one in union: In one word, be a nation: be Americans and be true to yourselves."

There has, of course, been sectionalism in our country but we are today one nation and self-governed. We have our differences but in overcoming them we become stronger.

Booker T. Washington said, "I have learned that success is to be measured not so much by the position one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed."

It is that way with nations, too. America has been built through its stresses. Meeting our problems and resolving our differences will continue to make us strong.

In addition to being Independence Day this is also Honor America Day.

"A day to Honor America is a great idea," former President Harry S. Truman once said. "It's time somebody did something like this for America."

Harry Truman always had a way of saying what most of us felt in simple, straightforward terms.

It is, indeed, time we honored our own great nation.

An Anti-Busing Alliance Forms

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A secret meeting on Capitol Hill between White House aides and influential Southern Democratic Congressmen has charted new strategy to revive anti-busing legislation this summer — to the immense political benefit of Richard M. Nixon.

On the surface, the move to force a House vote on busing is on wholly Southern Democratic origin. But in reality, the Southerners have collaborated in an anti-busing alliance with the White House, reflecting President Nixon's desire to exploit what he regards as the most politically explosive domestic issue.

In the midst of his Moscow summit, Mr. Nixon reported back to the White House that he feared his total opposition against racial school busing was being blurred. Since his return, he has made clear his disagreement with the minority of White House aides who feel no need to press the issue. With Gov. George C. Wallace apparently out of the national political picture, Mr. Nixon feels the busing issue might start fading unless he acts.

That was the situation last Tuesday when Rep. William Colmer of Mississippi, chairman of the House Rules Committee, passed word to the White House that he was ready to move. He planned to seek a Rules Committee vote to force an anti-busing Constitutional amendment out of the House Judiciary Committee and onto the House floor.

Fearful that Colmer could not find a simple majority on the Rules Committee—much less a two-thirds majority on the House floor—White House emissaries asked Colmer for a meeting to discuss alternative strategy.

That session was held Wednesday in Colmer's office in the Capitol. Present were two shrewd conservative Democrats, Reps. Joe Waggoner of Louisiana and Omar Bursleson of Texas. Representing the President were Richard Cook, Mr. Nixon's chief House lobbyist, Ed Morgan, top White House aide on all school desegregation matters, and Ken Clawson, the Administration's deputy propaganda chief.

Bursleson and Waggoner backed up the White House aides in telling Colmer the Constitutional amendment approach looked impossible.

Instead, they suggested a plan the Southerners have been cool to? Mr. Nixon's bill for a moratorium on court-ordered busing, which does not help Southern school districts where busing already has been imposed.

As a result, this scenario was worked out:

Colmer would write a letter—and make it public—to Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, asking him to pass out either the Constitutional amendment, the moratorium or both. When Celler predictably refuses, Colmer would call the Rules Committee into session to force the moratorium bill onto the floor. Colmer believes he has the necessary eight votes on his 15-member committee for that.

To win Southern support, the bill would provide for reopening busing plans previously ordered by the courts. Moreover, it would contain a provision for a quick court test of its constitutionality. Such a proposal almost surely would pass the House.

If the Senate went along, the courts might declare the moratorium unconstitutional by early September. That would open the way for Mr. Nixon to endorse a Constitutional amendment, as many aides and Southerners have been urging, for Congressional action late this year or early next. That strategy keeps the President out front opposing a most unpopular integration device while the Democratic National Convention is getting ready to endorse it.

A Falstaffian Question

"What is honor?" asked Falstaff. And he went on, in a famous passage, to spell out his cynical answer.

"What is honor? A word. What is that word, honor? Air. A trim reckoning! Who hath it? He that died 'o' Wednesday. Doth he feel it? No. Doth he hear it? No. It is insensible then? Yea, to the dead. But will it not live with the living? No. Why? Detraction will not suffer it. Therefore I'll none of it: Honor is a mere scutcheon; and so ends my catechism."

Over the past year, four incidents have come along that prompt reflection upon this word, honor; or more precisely, upon the erosion of what once was a precious value, a man's word of honor.

There was the matter of Daniel Ellsberg, who had given his word not to reveal the Pentagon Papers; and revealed them. There was the matter of a highly placed national security officer, close to the White House, who had given his word not to reveal the minutes of a meeting on India-Pakistan; and revealed them. There was the matter of General John Lavelle, who had given his word that he would obey the orders of his commander in chief, and disobeyed them. And there is the matter of Victor L. Marchetti, who had given his word not to write about information he'd gleaned at the CIA; and wrote anyhow.

The incidents vary in importance, but as Hugh Sidey of Time-Life has suggested, they are linked by a common theme. In each case, the individual found justification for his conduct in his own assessment of a value higher than his pledged word. In the case of the Pentagon Papers and the Anderson Papers, it was "the people's right to know." In the matter of the unauthorized air strikes, General Lavelle felt he was fulfilling a soldier's duty to punish the enemy. Marchetti, former Special Assistant to the Deputy Director of CIA, asserts that his First Amendment right of free press is superior to his own pledged word.

Much has been written of the first three incidents. The Marchetti case dates from Oct. 3, 1965, when Marchetti's application was accepted for employment by the Central Intelligence Agency. On that day, as a condition of coming aboard, he signed an oath: "I do solemnly swear that I will never divulge, publish or reveal either by word, conduct, or by any other means, any classified information, intelligence or knowledge except in the performance of my official duties and in accordance with the laws of the United States, unless specifically authorized in writing, in each case, by the Director of Central Intelligence or his authorized representatives."

"I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion."

Marchetti resigned on Sept. 2, 1969. On that date he signed a second secrecy oath, in which he again pledged his word that he would "never

Other Editors Say Gov. And Cabinet

(Burlington Times-News)

Gov. Bob Scott's meeting yesterday with his cabinet did not initiate with itself a massive new movement in state administration.

It was, as the governor properly described it, an "historic occasion." It was the first time a governor has been able to meet, "with the heads of the major departments of state government" and where he could "look them eyeball-to-eyeball and discuss the problems of state government."

Essentially, it means that the system for functions of state operations now are actually beginning as a result of the reorganizational plan which gradually has moved through stages to the point that departmental secretaries have been appointed and are recognized for the roles they fill.

The cabinet meeting was far different from what the governor was able to do before reorganization was authorized by the 1969 General Assembly, then endorsed by the people, and leading to approval by the 1971 legislature. Before reorganization, the governor had more than 300 different departments, commissions, boards, agencies, councils and individuals reporting directly to him. He had no possible way then to hold a "cabinet" meeting.

The meeting yesterday permitted the governor to establish some goals he wants to meet in the final stages of his administration. More than anything else, however it was the start of what must become a more businesslike government for the state. That was the purpose of reorganization. The governor and his cabinet now and in the future will be held responsible for making it work and prove the wisdom of the decision over the loose administrative lineup of the past.

A Nice Dallas Affair

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The temperature was in the 90s, the sun was enough to blister granite and the humidity could drown a dryland Texan.

It was not a time to leave an air-conditioned home and go downtown to stand around and watch people on a Saturday.

It turned out to be worth the effort and discomfort, and it's too bad that all those people who believe the world is going to hell in a handbasket weren't there to see it.

It was the last day of Expto 72, that Crusade for Christ affair that brought thousands of young people to Dallas from all over the world.

The final event was a day-long session of music called the Jesus Music Festival. The scene was a complex of expressways easily blocked off on a Saturday.

Someone had hammered together a large stage, and the concrete and grass-covered open places, sloped gently, creating a natural amphitheater.

Official estimates placed the crowd at 150,000 to 200,000. That was at any given moment.

Hundreds always were arriving and other leaving, like ocean waves coming and going, and probably twice the listed figures were there at one time or another.

It wasn't the mere massiveness of the crowd that was impressive, remarkable as it was. It was the young people.

They sat around in groups on the grass or the concrete, talking with each other, letting the music from the performers on the stage pour over them.

The core of this crowd had been in Dallas six days but gave no evidence of fatigue or discomfort. The young people were still smiling, relaxed, with a sort of inner calm.

Almost shocking to a long-time city resident was the numerous occasions when some pretty young chick would walk past, smile, and say "hello."

The first time or two this happened, I was so shocked I couldn't respond, then I got into the spirit of this fellowship and smiled and helloed along with the best.

A person attending the music festival and not wearing an Expto tag was fair game immediately for the young people who wanted to tell persons about Christ.

They were not aggressive, however. A pair would walk up and smile and ask something like, "do you know Christ?"

No matter the answer, the young people would present a piece of literature and offer to answer questions. A few words and they would drift on.

Oh, there were some troubles. But considering everything, the whole affair went beautifully.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

Strength For Today

SINS OF MIND AND SPIRIT
Bible readers have often observed that in his teachings Jesus had very little to say about the sins of the flesh. He did say that the lustful desire was equivalent to adultery and that anger could very quickly burgeon into murder. What he did say about the sins of the flesh was searching and fundamental.

But it is true that for the most part he spoke not about the sins of the flesh but about the sins of the mind and spirit. He warned men for the most part against avarice, pride, jealousy, self-righteousness, selfishness and lack of love. The appalling thing about these sins is that so often they are mistaken for virtues. The man of energy and enterprise, admired by everyone who knows him, may be dying spiritually of avarice. The man who beats his breast and speaks confidently about his devotion of righteousness may be hiding from himself and trying to hide from the world the fact that he possesses almost no righteousness at all.

Guard against the sins of the spirit and mind. Often they so resemble virtues that one actually mistakes them and comes to regard them as virtues. Mushrooms and toadstools look almost exactly alike, but toadstools are poisonous. Likewise the sins of the mind and spirit often look like qualities God loves to see growing in the human heart, but they may be put there by the hand of Satan to deceive and ruin us.

Fun Creates Better Producers

By JOHN HENRY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you could take a break from your office work to swim, tend a garden, or just reflect, you'd probably also do more work, a motivational research expert says.

Ernest Dichter, president of the Motivational Research Institute of Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., says, "Once people realize they can have fun at their job, they'll be better producers."

Dichter, who serves as a consultant to corporations, blames part of what he says is the alienation of office workers toward their jobs on the design of the offices themselves. "We used to build offices and then try to fit people into them," he says.

The research executive predicts the office building of the future will be much like a home or apartment. "I don't see anything wrong with a boss dictating to his secretary on a balcony or having a place on the roof or on the grounds where an employe can plant radishes in his free time," he says.

Dichter proposes that office building designs include a "thinking tower," a sort of "womb" into which frazzled executives can retreat. The tower, which would be separate from the main office space, might have a couch, bar, television set, or dictation equipment, but no telephone or clock, he says. "In most offices today there's no place where an executive can withdraw," Dichter says. The permanently sealed windows of modern buildings need be no deterrent to installing flower boxes outside offices, says Dichter, who proposed that employes water the boxes from inside by a tube that would go through the window.

He feels the ideal location for an office building is a campus setting in the country or suburbs, where both trees and parking space is in abundance. "There's no reason for people to work in city offices," Dichter says. For those who must remain in urban skyscrapers, life could be made more pleasant if swimming pools and gardens were put on office building roofs, he says.

Even a big building can be designed in a way that preserves its human scale, says Dichter. "You can divide the building into three sections and paint them in different colors."

At least some of Dichter's visions will be transformed into reality in an office park development in Levittown, L.I., N.Y., in which he was involved as a consultant. The 28-acre complex, now under construction, will include a swimming pool, a roof garden, and offices with terraces.

Dichter's own headquarters for the past 20 years have been a 26-room fieldstone mansion perched on the top of a hill overlooking the Hudson River. When he wants to take a break from his work, he can visit a "thinking tower" adjacent to his office, stroll through an orchard located on the building grounds, or take a swim in the institute's pool.

The Knopf contract was the last straw. The CIA went to court and on May 19 obtained a permanent injunction against Marchetti, requiring him to submit whatever he writes about the CIA to the CIA—requiring him, in effect, to keep his word.

Ellsberg is being tried under an espionage statute, but the statute is defective and he probably will be acquitted. Lavelle may yet face court martial proceedings. Marchetti is now subject to contempt charges if he breaks the injunction. Government is making its cumbersome response. But it ought not to be necessary to resort to these measures—not unless Falstaff was right: not unless, in our own time, honor has become a mere scutcheon, no more than a word, no more than air.

The presentation, made by Kiwanis Club president Les Garner to Boys' Club Board of Directors president Austin Britt, took place shortly after noon at the regular weekly meeting of Kiwanis of Greenville-University City held at Holiday Inn.

Doyle Hayes, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Finance Committee, said the two kits were for use at the Boys' Club building on Skinner street and on the traveling bus used by the Boys' Club.

"This contribution of the kits is in line with the major goals of Kiwanis," Hayes commented, "as we are working to support youth through established youth programs."

Dollar Nears Low Limits
LONDON (AP)—The dollar neared its lowest permitted level on European money markets today, triggering intervention by the West German central bank. The pound sterling continued its downward slide.

The pound was close to the $2.40 base that was predicted after sterling was floated 10 days ago.

The dollar, weakened by the sterling crisis, continued to trail the pound downward and opened in Frankfurt at 3.15 marks. This was a slight rally over Monday night's close of 3.1497, but only intervention by the central bank shored it up then.

The bank began buying up dollars again today to maintain it at the lower mandatory intervention level and head off panic selling. But reports of the market situation in Frankfurt touched off a flurry of last-minute selling in Tokyo, and the Bank of Japan had to buy $70-$80 million during the last 10 minutes of trading.

In Paris, the dollar was near floor level at 5.0065 francs, down from Monday's 5.0015 close. But there was no sign the Bank of France was planning to step in to support the currency.

The dollar weakened in Zurich to 3.75 Swiss francs, down from 3.7530. The Swiss national bank intervened Monday to keep the currency hovering above floor level, but there was no immediate sign it planned to step in again today.

The dollar also weakened in Brussels, falling from Monday's close of 43.81 francs to 43.80 despite a brief rally when the market opened.

The Belgian national bank supported the dollar Monday with some cautious buying, but there was no sign yet it planned to do so again today.

Fischer In Iceland For World Chess Challenge

By STEPHENS BROENING
 Associated Press Writer
REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Ending his holdout which threatened to wreck the world chess championship series,

American grandmaster Bobby Fischer arrived in Iceland today about 10 hours before he was scheduled to meet Soviet titleholder Boris Spassky for their first game.

The 29-year-old American challenger flew from New York after accepting London banker James D. Slater's offer to match the $125,000 purse put up by the Icelandic Chess Federation. Now the winner of the 24-game match will get $156,250 and the loser $93,750.

Each will also get 30 per cent of the $250,000 paid for the TV and movie rights to the match, or $75,000 each.

The match, which could last two months, had been scheduled to start Sunday afternoon, but Fischer stayed in New York, demanding a 30 per cent cut of the gate receipts.

The International Chess Federation postponed the first game 48 hours and told Fischer he had to be in Reykjavik by noon today or forfeit the match. He arrived about five hours before the deadline.

A stewardess on the plane said Fischer appeared calm during the flight of 4 hours and 40 minutes from New York but slept for only a few minutes at a time.

Another passenger on the flight, Benjamin Rauschkolb of Long Beach, N.Y., angrily reported that his wife was told at the last minute she couldn't board the plane and he learned later she was bumped to make room for Fischer.

"He's causing an awful lot of trouble, isn't he?" said Rauschkolb.

GMC Recalls Vega Models

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. has announced its third major recall in three months for its subcompact Vega, notifying owners of about 500,000 Vegas to return them to dealers for replacement of possibly defective rear axles which could separate from the car.

The recall announced by GM's Chevrolet Division Monday said 59 complaints had been received from owners of 1971 and 1972 models and 15 of these concerned incidents in which an axle and one rear wheel had dropped off.

"Two of these cases involved minor body damages to the vehicles," a GM spokesman said. However, he added, "No injuries have been reported."

The 500,000 Vegas represent virtually the entire production of the Chevrolet subcompact.

Dealers will inspect and replace without charge the rear axle shafts that may be defective, GM said.

The first Vega recall, announced in April, involved 130,000 of the 1972 models which were called back over a carburetor defect that GM said could cause the cars to catch fire.

In May, GM recalled 350,000 Vegas, both 1971 and 1972 models, because of a faulty carburetor bracket that GM said might cause the throttle to stick open.

Convicts Offer Exchange Places With POWs

RAIFORD, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Defense Department has turned down a request by 10 Florida State Prison inmates to change places with American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

"I am sorry this reply cannot be more favorable," wrote Maj. Gen. Leo E. Benade in a letter to inmate Michael E. Stoudt, 31, of Atlanta. "Your readiness to serve our nation in the Armed Forces is gratifying."

The general said the convicts, most of them serving lengthy sentences for crimes ranging from forgery to murder, could not be accepted for enlistment or induction because they were "persons who have been convicted of certain crimes."

Oscar Jefferson, 45, of Waycross, Ga., said the prisoners hoped to do something for their country in exchange for an assurance they would be released from their sentence at the end of the war.

Convention Prices Eyed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service is joining three agencies in a campaign to make sure prices of food and lodging stay within reasonable limits during the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

IRS spokesman Holger Euringer said hotel and motel operators have been sent warnings that they may not charge higher winter rates.

Meanwhile, the Florida Hotel and Restaurant Commission, the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority and the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce have announced they are setting up special phone lines to receive complaints of price gouging.

When the Republicans held their convention here in 1968, hot dogs reportedly sold for $1.75.

When the Democrats convene next Monday, a hot dog will cost 35 cents inside Convention Hall.

One Injured In Auto Collision

William Adolph Pollard of Rt. 5, Greenville, was charged by police with failure to see that his intended movement could be made in safety following a traffic accident Monday morning.

According to police, Pollard's vehicle collided with a vehicle being driven by Robert James Haubenreiser of Charlotte. Haubenreiser was injured in the accident, suffering lacerations to the head.

July Inductees May Still Join Naval Reserve

P.O.I.C. Jerry Schirk of the Naval Reserve Facility in Washington, announced that new directives allow enlistment in the Naval Reserve to young men who have already received their July induction notices.

Schirk said that under new rules recently announced by the Selective Service, he is now able to offer enlistment in the Reserve to men up to ten days before they must report for induction.

Previously, the petty officer pointed out, men who had received their induction notices were ineligible for enlistments in reserve programs.

Enlistments in the Naval Reserve are effected for two year periods, he said. Qualified applicants can be guaranteed formal school (vocational) training.

Got Fine Present

CLEVELAND (AP) — David Graham stood on the tee at the Tanglewood Country Club and suddenly realized he hadn't gotten his wife Maurreen, a birthday present. So he won the $30,000 first prize in the $150,000 Cleveland Open Golf Championship as a present for her.

The 26-year-old Australian from Sydney talked about it Monday after he sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie on the second hole of a sudden death playoff to beat Bruce Devlin, his close friend and fellow Aussie. They had tied at 278 for the regulation 72 holes.

Stargell's Homer Wins For Pirates

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The game," a baseball philosopher once decided, "isn't over till the last man is out."

Don't the Pittsburgh Pirates know it.

The Pirates rode Willie Stargell's ninth-inning homer to a 3-2 victory over Chicago Monday night, opening their lead in baseball's National League East Division to 1½ games over the idle New York Mets, who were rained out of a doubleheader at Montreal.

In other National League games Monday, streaking St. Louis tripped Cincinnati 4-2, but the Reds maintained their half-game lead in the West when Atlanta outslugged pursuing Houston 13-9. Philadelphia knocked off San Francisco 4-2 in the only other game.

In the American League, Baltimore moved into a first place tie with Detroit in the East Division, walloping the Tigers 15-3. Boston whipped Minnesota 8-2. Texas edged Kansas City 2-1 and Oakland blanked California 5-0.

Burt Hooton was leading 2-1 and working on a three-hitter when Vic Davallio opened the Pittsburgh ninth with a bunt single. Hooton got Roberto Clemente, whose ninth-inning homer had turned a game around for the Pirates Saturday. But Stargell slugged his 15th of the year to give Pittsburgh another victory.

"It was just another typical Pirate finish," said Stargell. It was the eighth victory in 10 meetings for the Pirates against Chicago and left the Cubs 6½ games back of Pittsburgh.

Long after Stargell's homer ended it, Hooton sat in the Cub dressing room, staring blankly into space.

"He hit a good pitch, a good pitch," Hooton muttered.

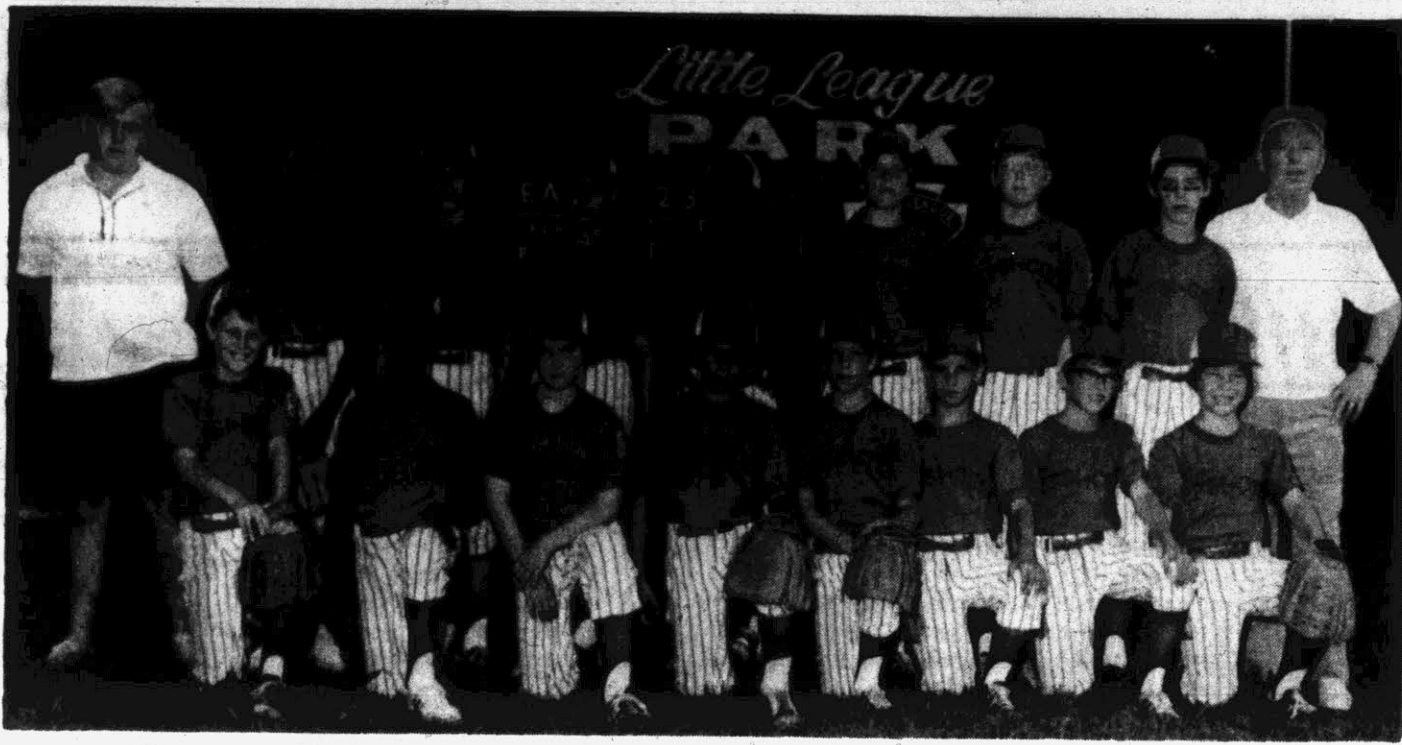

St. Louis ran its winning streak to seven games by knocking off Cincinnati as Rick Wise hurled a seven-hitter and slugged a two-run homer.

The victory was the 14th in the last 15 starts for the Cardinals, now virtually tied with Chicago for third place in the East division.

Cincinnati remained atop the West as Atlanta knocked off Houston. Hank Aaron's 656th career homer—a three-run shot—highlighted a five-run Braves' burst in the seventh inning.

The homer was Aaron's 17th this season and left him 58 short of Babe Ruth's all-time record.

Philadelphia enjoyed a strange victory over San Francisco, bunching all five of its hits for four runs before a batter was retired. Steve Carlton rode the early cushion to his 10th victory, allowing just six hits, two of them solo homers by Dave Kingman.

Orioles Shell Detroit For 15-3 Victory; Pull Into Tie For 1st

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who's in first? Well, the Orioles are in Baltimore and the Tigers are in Detroit.

Monday night they were both in Detroit, and that was too bad for the Tigers, who suffered an embarrassing 15-3 drubbing before 50,835 spectators and a national television audience. The two rivals are in a dead tie for first place in baseball's American League East.

Elsewhere, Oakland blanked California 5-0, Boston trounced Minnesota 8-2 and Texas edged Kansas City 2-1. Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 3, Chicago Cubs 2; St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 2; Atlanta 13, Houston 9; Philadelphia 4, San Francisco 2.

Pitcher Suspended

OPELIKA, Ala. (AP) — A Savannah Braves pitcher, Pablo Torrealba, has been suspended from Southern League play for the rest of the year as a result of an incident two weeks ago.

During a Knoxville game last month, Torrealba chased the umpire with a bat and hit him across the back. Torrealba was angered when the umpire called him out on strikes.

"He's anti-Latins," the pitcher said at the time. "He called me bad names."

Southern League President Bill Hitchcock said Torrealba was suspended and fined $50. The umpire, Fred Spenn, was reprimanded and fined $50 for "his use of abusive language."

Braves manager Clint Courtney also was reprimanded by the league "for his conduct and actions...and failure to restrain player Torrealba," Hitchcock said in a prepared statement.

Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs has a 10-year contract.

Smith Feeling Little Inspired

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Stan Smith, favorite to win the men's crown in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships, confessed to feeling "kind of inspired" today as he shaped up for a vital match against a star from the Soviet Union.

The 25-year-old U.S. Army corporal faced Russia's Alexander Metreveli for a place in the semifinals of the 86th All-England Tournament.

Teenager Jim Connors was the only other American left with a chance for the most coveted title in world tennis. And his opponent was also a man from behind the Iron Curtain, second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania.

Smith, who lost to Australia's John Newcombe in the Wimbledon final last year, said he regretted that Newcombe and other stars of World Championship Tennis were barred from the 1972 championships.

"I know a lot of the best men are not here this time," Smith said. "But I got to the final last year when they were. And I still rate being Wimbledon champion the greatest honor a player can have."

Smith's progress to the last eight was not without its moments of anxiety. He dropped a set against both Sandy Mayer of Woodmere, N.Y., and Ian Fletcher of Australia.

Summing up his feelings about what could happen over the next four days, the U.S. No. 1 from Pasadena, Calif., said, "Winning Forest Hills last year was my greatest achievement in tennis. But if I now win Wimbledon, that will top it."

Connors, the unseeded 19-year-old from Belleville, Ill., has a difficult task against Nastase. The Romanian is favored by many veteran tennis watchers to take the title to a Communist country for the first time.

The other quarter-final matches pit Onny Parun of New Zealand against Jan Kodes, the fifth-seeded Czech, and Australia's powerful Colin Dibley against Manuel Orantes of Spain, the third seed.

In the women's division 17-year-old Chris Evert was through to a long-awaited semifinal against defending champion Evonne Googlagong of Australia.

In the other women's semifinal to be played Wednesday, Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the No. 2 seed, takes on her old friend and rival, Rosie Casals of San Francisco.

MEADOWLANDS, Pa. (AP) — Super Bowk, the favorite, driven by Stanley Dancer won the $18,550 Speedy County Trot at the Meadows Monday night in a 2:014-5 mile. Spartan Hanover finished second, 2½ lengths back.

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Alex Orban of New York City has won his fourth straight national sabre title and a berth on the U.S. Olympic team.

The 21-year-old car salesman defended his title Monday night in the National Fencing Championships at Bentley College. He won four of his five matches in the finals.

Gimondo Takes Revere Victory

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bald, 41-year-old Vince Gimondo, who became a race driver at an age others think of retirement, gained his second victory of the year in the Paul Revere 250-miler early today.

Gimondo, a Porsche dealer at Orlando, Fla., who has raced only five years, drove a Camaro that outlasted the machines of Bobby Allison, H. B. Bailey, Tiny Lund, Buck Baker and Jim Paschal—all regulars on the Grand American circuit.

"I couldn't get the money together to race until I was almost 37," Gimondo said as he and his pretty blonde wife celebrated with a bottle of cold duck wine.

The winner set a record speed of 104.293 miles an hour, beating the mark of 103.330 Baker set a year ago.

Bailey, the 45-year-old Houston veteran who races as a hobby, gave Gimondo his stiffest battle, and the pair treated a crowd of 19,600 to a pulsating duel for several laps of the 3.81-mile road course at Daytona International Speedway.

On the outer high banked part of the course, Bailey's Firebird was a little faster. On the infield turns, Gimondo had a slight edge.

Once they bore down on a hairpin turn side by side, hockeying for position, so fast they couldn't make it.

"I knew if he went beside me on the inside, he would end up on the outside," Gimondo said. "I had to hit the brakes or hit him, so I took the brakes."

Volunteer Time To Operate Free Medical Facility

By STEPHEN MORROW PITTSBURGH (UPI)—John "Spike" Pfahler doesn't look like the sort of man you expect to be helping run a medical facility.

His brown hair curls over his collar. He almost always wears faded blue jeans. He's a college dropout. His favorite place in the world is a bar in Amsterdam where the intoxicants come in hot pipes, not cold glasses. Before he started his present work, he was employed in the draft resistance movement.

Now Pfahler puts in a 60-hour week in the basement of the East End Christian Church as medical coordinator of the Pittsburgh Free Clinic. The four nights a week that medicine is practiced here, the main room looks like a large, low key party of college students and a few mod professors.

Under posters urging peace, about 40 persons in their late teens and early 20s, in long hair, dungarees, work shirts, head bands and shawls, sit on dilapidated couches in the waiting area talking animatedly in small groups.

In four immediately adjacent consulting rooms, two gynecologists and two general practitioners examine patients. Between each pair of consulting rooms is a "prep room" where the next patients strips, attended by a nurse.

Three young women in dungarees bustle about a well-equipped medical lab, at the same tasks they perform in starched whites as hospital technicians by day. Further removed are the small rooms where troubled young men and women see psychological counselors.

All Volunteer Time All of these highly trained individuals are volunteers. Each clinic night, another half-dozen volunteers serve as patient greeters and organizers, to maintain the relaxed atmosphere of the waiting area.

The physicians range from older men with children the same age as the patients, to young interns. The counselors include Ph.D.s—in clinical psychology, full professors, psychiatric social workers and college guidance counselors. Asked why they work at the free clinic, they sound like volunteers anywhere—they like the work, they think it's important and they like the people.

Since the Free Clinic was opened in September, 1970, by a group of physicians concerned about untreated medical problems rampant among the city's youth, approximately 15,000 persons have come for free help or treatment.

About half the patients suffer from sexual problems. Forty per cent sought testing or treatment for venereal disease. The rest had "general medical problems."

Pfahler was recruited for his job because he spent four years as a Navy operating room technician.

"The first free clinic was founded in the Haight-Ashbury section of San Francisco in 1967," he said. "There are now about 200 free clinics across the country. All of them began because of the same need—in existing institutions, health services are not given or are not humanely offered to people who look like hippies, to minorities, or to people on welfare."

The Free Clinic here draws many dropouts. Guitarist Les Soucie, who has sung for his supper on the streets of Chicago, New York, Detroit and Cleveland as "Les More-or-Less," said: "This town takes better care of its freaks than any other. The free clinic is fabulous."

The clinic also treats thousands of college students, away from home, unable to find private doctors, and put off by emergency rooms.

"Some of the kids come because its free, some because its at night, some because they feel nobody's making any money off them and some because they've had bad experiences elsewhere," says Dr. Louis Meyers, a prominent gynecologist who helped found the clinic.

No Moral Overtones Adolescents with sexual problems come to the clinic to find "medical treatment without moral overtones," another medical man said.

"The young people don't want counseling that their behavior is improper," he said. "When you're suffering from an inherently painful or disturbing venereal disease and someone lays on you the sins of your behavior, it's really more than you can bear." According to a pretty blonde nurse, this group includes "every week about 20 teen-age girls living with their parents (who) come into the clinic afraid they're pregnant. About half of them are."

To deal with the most common problems—V.D., pregnancy out of wedlock and birth control, the clinic organizes special teams. The pregnancy team presents the alternatives and usually at some point, when the girl wishes, her parents are brought into the discussion.

JOHN "SPIKE" PFAHLER is medical coordinator of the Pittsburgh Free Clinic. He organizes the work of about 250 volunteers, including 50 physicians. (UPI Telephoto)

Patients Calmed "The V.D. counselors try to calm the patients, who are usually quite upset by having a venereal disease," Pfahler said. "We try to persuade them to bring in their contacts and thus stem the tide. Drug problems we turn over to two excellent programs in the city." Dr. Bernard Yadoff, a professor who heads the clinic's counseling service at the clinic, said: "With drugs, V.D., any type of destructive behavior, our approach is to ask: Do you see what you are doing to yourself? Don't you think you are worth more than that?"

The clinic spent $23,000 on its first 10,000 patients, up to the end of 1971.

The Worry Clinic Another Point Of Difference

Herman asks about some interesting sex differences between males and females. Note that abdominal temperature tends to sterilize the male sex glands but doesn't hurt the ovaries! And be on guard against the kinked intestine in hernias!

"But what is a rupture, anyway, and why do men get them so much oftener than women?"

Sex Differences
During the early months of pregnancy, both boy babies and girls have their gonads (testicles and ovaries) up inside the trunk of the body and against the back wall thereof.
But the girl's ovaries remain there even after her birth. Before a boy is born, however, his testicles usually move downward to the forward wall of the abdomen.
And a small hole forms on each side, to the testicles then descend into the scrotum, where they remain after birth.
But those two openings (holes) in the abdominal wall remain permanent weak spots, so if the boy lifts a heavy object, he may force a loop of intestine to bludge outward.

Such a situation is called a rupture (hernia). It may be on one side only, or can be a double hernia.

But hernias can also occur in an old surgical scar on the abdominal wall of women, as well as men.

If the bulging is not very much, you may be able to hold the intestines in place by a girdle or truss or even by pushing them back via your fingers.
But the chief danger in a large hernia is what can occur after a loop of bowel may bludge through the hole.
If it then "kinks" (like a garden hose which you may bend back on itself till you stop the flow of water), then this kinking may stop its blood supply, much like a tourniquet.

That former protruding loop of intestine then may die and if it is finally pulled back inside the abdomen, it may split and spill its contents, thus causing peritonitis, much like the rupture of an acutely inflamed appendix.

A truss is simply a pad, held tightly over the bludge of the abdominal wall, to prevent a loop of intestine from being pushed outside the abdomen.

"Cryptorchism" sometimes occurs in male children and refers to the fact one or both of the testicles may remain in the abdomen.

Surgery is often indicated to bring the affected gonad outside, for cancer seems more likely in such an undescended testicle.
And the extra heat of the body tends to sterilize the sperm of such undescended testicles.

Although the ovaries remain fertile while still retained within the woman's abdomen, the extra heat inside the body seems to kill the vigor of the male testicles.

This is a very interesting sex difference that results from merely a few degrees altered temperature.

Surgery is the usual treatment for a bulging hernia, but the main danger is a kinked loop of intestine, so keep it pushed inside!

Heroin Found In Early-Hour Raid

Clifton Earl Wooten Jr., 28, of 1307 Fairfax Ave. was charged with possession of heroin following an early morning raid Sunday on his home.

Officers charged Wooten after heroin allegedly was found in the pocket of trousers he was wearing, Chief Glenn Cannon noted.

More heroin was found under the front steps of his dwelling during the 5:55 a.m. raid, the chief noted.

Pitt County ABC officers and Sheriff's Deputies participated with local police in the search.

Opening lead: King of ♣ Giorgio Belladonna, one of the original members of Italy's renowned Blue Team, has long been regarded as one of the world's top bridge players. An example of his superb declarer technique is presented today in a hand taken from a past European Championship team event.

As declarer at four spades, there were several options available to him on how to plan his campaign. Without benefit of a peek at the East-West holdings, it may appear that success on the deal hinges on making the right guess. Belladonna evolved a line of play that was bound to succeed no matter how the adverse cards were distributed.

clarer has no quick reentry to dummy to obtain club sluffs. Similarly if he plays a club to the ace and returns the queen thru East, even if the latter holds the king and covers forcing South to ruff, there is no sure way of getting to dummy. As the cards lay, the latter line of play will succeed, if declarer follows by leading a small spade away from his hand. West is obliged to put up the king and now when he returns a heart, South can afford to play a small heart from dummy, for even if the defense wins both the queen and ace of that suit, they are limited to three tricks.

Without looking at his opponent's cards, Belladonna found a way to cinch his contract against any distribution. He merely crossed over to the ace of clubs at trick two and returned the five of hearts. East followed with the four and South put up the jack. West was in with the queen and made the most effective return of a heart to partner's ace. East led back a spade and declarer put up the ace, so that he could ruff out his third heart with the jack of spades. He lost two hearts and one spade. If East holds both the ace and queen of hearts, he must put up the queen when that suit is led from dummy to prevent declarer from scoring a trick with the jack. By so doing, South's jack will ultimately score the fulfilling trick, for it becomes the master card in the suit after dummy's king dislodges the ace.

Belladonna did not object to losing the first trick to West for there is no way that the latter can lead trumps without losing his side's spade trick. Whatever he returns, declarer has obtained the unit of time needed to lead a second heart and establish the ruffing position while he still has control of the trump suit.

Going Broke No Longer Unique Story

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two years ago, Irish emigrant Joseph Ridge thought the American dream had come true. Working overtime, he earned almost $15,000 a year. He was up to date on all his loan payments and his company was negotiating a new wage contract.

Then came a strike and the Phase I wage freeze and suddenly he and his family of eight children and his wife Mary, were on welfare. The Ridges fell further and further behind on the payments. Finally, the seven-month strike ended, but so did the overtime. And Joe Ridge became one of about 180,000 persons each year who declare individual bankruptcy. Although they are the least publicized bankrupts, the "Joe Ridges" are typical.

Research by the Brookings Institution in Washington shows the average individual bankrupt to be a blue collar worker, about 40 years old, earning about $130 a week, married 12 years with two children and carrying an average debt of about $5,000. If he had not been in business previously, he owes the money to 12 creditors.

David Stanley, director of the research project, said the average bankrupt could have gone along making his payments if some crisis had not occurred—loss of overtime pay, birth of an extra child, medical bills or divorce.

Joe Ridge—not his real name but a real person who appeared in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in New York recently—fits into this category.

He emigrated from Ireland 17 years ago and began working for New York Telephone Co. immediately in an unskilled job as a frameman, connecting underground wires with equipment in the central office.

When Ridge, 43, filed bankruptcy, he owed $5,130 to two finance companies, a bank charge card, a department store and a mail order catalogue firm. Another $200 owed to his employer is deducted from his salary at the rate of $10 each week and was not declared.

The Ridges did not go broke on high living. They live in a $112-a-month rundown, three-bedroom apartment that is furnished with hand-me-downs from neighbors.

The five girls, ages 14 to 6, share one bedroom, sleeping on a twin bed and its trundle. Three boys share another room.

On the day of their court appearance, Mary and Joseph appear with their Legal Aid lawyer.

The judge is Roy A. Babitt, a veteran of more than seven years as a bankruptcy referee. He claims he can easily spot a fraud. Babitt questions Joe gently with standard questions.

Do you own a car? Do you have a stamp or coin collection? Why did your income drop $4,000? Do you have a bank account? How do you pay your bills? Are you due for an income tax refund?

Babitt notices the Legal Aid lawyer had not exempted Ridge's pension fund from his assets and admonishes the attorney for the oversight. Then he asks Mary the same questions.

In 30 days, if no creditor has contested, the Ridges' debts are cancelled. An estimated $2 billion in debts are discharged this way each year.

In open and shut cases like the Ridges, Babitt does not bother to appoint a trustee—usually a lawyer known to the court—to double check for assets. Other referees appoint a trustee in every case. It would be the trustee's job to report these assets at another court session and administer their distribution to creditors. Sometimes the assets are so small they are abandoned to the debtor.

Some debts are never dischargeable—taxes, alimony, child support, fines, debts incurred fraudulently or those resulting from intentional injuries to persons or property.

The Ridges did have one other alternative under the bankruptcy law, filing a wage earner's plan in which a court-appointed trustee administers, for a fee, an extended payment or partial payment plan. About 30,000 people in the United States file these plans each year. But it is out of the question for the Ridges. Without overtime, Joe has only earned $1,800 so far this year and the prospects for higher wages don't look good.

"These are not bad people," reflects Babitt of bankrupts generally. "Oh, you get dead-beats sure, but you also get the fellow who has huge medical bills and a mongoloid child and then his wife gets sick."

Babitt says he believes bankruptcy is a form of rehabilitation for the honest bankrupt.

Other people, including some poverty workers, have taken a more militant stand. One Washington civil rights worker has suggested the best way for the poor to divide up the wealth a little more evenly is to run up large bills, then declare bankruptcy.

In fact, at hearings of the Commission on the Revision of the Bankruptcy law, a lawyer testified he was finding cases of people running up bills, then filing bankruptcy.

According to law, if this could be proved, the debts would not be dischargeable. However, Judge Babitt pointed out it virtually is impossible to prove.

"He can go out and buy TV sets and bedroom sets to his heart's content," said Babitt. "His creditors may be gulled but they have been gulled by their own lack of business prudence ... We recognize the frailties of people but the only brake and I mean b-r-a-k-e is that if he does, he'd better not do it for another six years and he'd better come back honestly."

Jan Slavicek, co-author of "The Layman's Guide to Bankruptcy," says he believes bankruptcy is a check against unscrupulous merchants who load up a customer with merchandise he can't afford. He estimates there probably are 20 million people in the United States who ought to declare bankruptcy.

Slavicek said he believes more people would declare bankruptcy if they only realized it was a civil, not criminal, proceeding.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning brings you a chance to benefit through something that is very practical in its nature, but from late morning and through tonight you need to be very careful to avoid any display of temper, or getting upset by some startling and annoying conditions that arise to test your patience, abilities.

ARIES (Mar. 1 to Apr. 19) Carry through with whatever you have in mind during a.m., but be prepared for some possible unexpected events. Don't make a mistake in judgment. Don't reach any important decisions until tomorrow.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to break up existing conditions in a fit of temper, but you would regret it later on, so keep cool, calm and collected. Get at whatever is the root of the trouble and clear it up instead. Think logically.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't jump into that new activity now, but keep working on the plans for it, or you could get yourself into deep debt. You resent what others are doing, so get at the cause of the matter. Forget temper tantrums.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you obey every regulation that applies to you, or you could get into real trouble today or tonight. Don't slough off where paying bills is concerned, or you ruin your credit. Show you are practical.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Involvement in some civic matter can be very important to you and others now, but don't come to any definite decisions until tomorrow. Diplomatically state your disapproval of the actions of others. Bend them to your right way of thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You had better continue with work at hand, and not take on more responsibilities that could be more difficult. Avoid a new contact who could be greedy. Show loyalty to allies who are tried and true.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There are time limits to making payments on debts, so arrange for meeting such deadlines now, and keep your credit unimpaired. Some strange situation with mate should be most carefully handled. Think cleverly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Both you and an associate are in a rather bad humor, so make sure you handle him or her with kid gloves. A smile will do much to ease the situation. An irritating situation arises, but better wait until tomorrow to handle it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of rushing out to be with a possible charmer, make sure you get important work done instead. Don't get into any trouble. Some health treatment could be very helpful now. Don't wait for a tooth to decay beyond repair before acting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Going out for amusement is fine provided you do not spend so much it really hurts. Show more affection for mate and smile more and there is harmony restored quickly. Avoid one who has an eye on your belongings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If a family tie starts an argument, do not turn it into a battle royal, otherwise this could lead to something really serious. Have a more streamlined system operating at home, too. Don't forget to pay those bills.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to drive with utmost care now or you get into trouble. Even walking or other forms of motion should be controlled. There may be some delays in trying to get much accomplished today, so take them in your stride. They are for the best.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has too much energy and doesn't know exactly where to use it, so be sure to supervise both study and play while young and all is fine. Give right religious training, also, which will stop this child from arguing and fighting with others unnecessarily. Teach the handling of money at an early age, otherwise it will be spent very fast for the wrong things.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WHAT'S MAGIC ABOUT these DAYS?

What's so special about the first week in July? Some savings institutions pay interest only once every three months . . . and that's when many people with savings accounts will want to look closely at the several high-yield interest plans at Bank of North Carolina, N. A.

For example, BNC is the only bank or savings association in this area paying 5 1/2% interest on time deposits of as little as $100. So bring your savings to Bank of North Carolina, N. A. right now. We'll both be glad you did!
