$10.2 Million Is Asked Today For Projects At ECU

East Carolina University today asked the state's Advisory Budget Commission to approve and include in the 1973-75 biennial budget nearly $10.2 million for capital improvements on ECU's Greenville campus.

The Advisory Budget Commission, which drafts biennial recommendations for the governor and the General Assembly, is making a tour of all of the state's public institutions for inspections and to hear requests. It makes such a statewide tour each summer prior to a session of the legislature. Final budget recommendations to the lawmakers are announced in the governor's budget message to the lawmakers.

Meeting with Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU chancellor, and other ECU officials in Dr. Jenkins' office, the Budget Commission received these high priority requests: —To construct a Humanities Building (Art School) $2.1 million. A previous legislature appropriated $2 million for this project, according to C. G. Moore, Vice President for Business Affairs.

—To renovate the former Wahl-Coates School located on the nearby McGinnis Auditorium, home of the East Carolina Summer Theatre, $1.4 million.

—For an addition to the central campus heating plant, needed in order to phase out the old heating plant already partially replaced and eliminate problems of smoke, $1.8 million.

—For land acquisition to permit expansion of the present campus $1.25 million.

—For renovation and improvements to the older portion of the Joyner Library in order to make the entire facility more operational, $700,000.

The total of ECU's capital improvements requests was $10,184,500 which Moore described as "modest."

Members of the Advisory Budget Commission are Thomas J. White of Kinston, chairman; Sen. Ralph H. Scott, Haw River; Rep. Dwight Quinn, Kannapolis; Rep. Kenneth Royall, Durham; Sen. John J. Burney, Wilmington; and Sen. John T. Henley, Hope Mills.

Israel Guardedly Hopeful Over Ouster Of Russians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt's decision to oust Soviet military advisers and to take over military installations the Russians have been manning in Egypt aroused guarded optimism among some Israelis today that it might lessen prospects of war in the near future. Others thought it might remove a restraining influence.

The Egyptian move announced Tuesday also raised questions about Cairo's future relations with the Kremlin.

There was no official Israeli comment. One source said the government was waiting to see if the Russians really withdrew.

Israeli newspapers described Egypt's action both as "daring" and "dangerous." The Jerusalem Post said the Soviet withdrawal could clear the way for Egypt to undertake "some kind of military adventure," but Cairo could not think in terms of major war without active Soviet assistance.

Silence was the initial reaction of the Soviet government to the action by a government in which it has invested billions of dollars. But some diplomats in Cairo speculated that the Kremlin and not Sadat was responsible for the withdrawal as the result of a secret agreement during President Nixon's visit to Moscow.

Announcing that his own soldiers will replace Soviet advisers and experts, Sadat said the Russians had let him down by not delivering arms promised in 1971 for confrontation with Israel.

The president also indicated friction over Soviet attempts to restrict the use of arms supplied Egypt. He said he had rejected such attempts and made clear on a visit to Moscow in April that Egypt would not tolerate dictation of its military policies.

Sadat said the Russian ouster

"does not touch in any way the essence of Soviet-Egyptian friendship" but it is necessary, he declared, to set "a new style for the coming stage of our friendship."

Even before Sadat's speech, an exodus of Russian officers from Egypt was visible, causing diplomats and officials in Cairo to buzz with speculation.

The president said the withdrawal order became effective Monday but he did not make clear how many Soviets were involved. Informants in Cairo estimated the number at 10,000 to 20,000.

The order did not apply to another 10,000 to 15,000 Russian civilian advisers on engineering and industrial projects, and the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said it would not affect instructors to the Egyptian armed forces who train the Egyptians to use the equipment Moscow supplies.

HARVEST — Pitt County Sheriff's deputies K.R. Evans (left) and David Garrison pull marijuana that was found near the Tar River east of Greenville yesterday. The illegal plants were termed by officers as very weak and spindly. The officers said that each one of the plants would bring $20. Approximately 151 stalks were confiscated with value estimated at $3020. The Greenville Police Department also participated in the raid. A marijuana plant grows in a tall slender stalk, with the leaves extending from the stalk. There are usually three to five leaves in a group (see photo at right), dark green in top and light green on bottom, with jagged edges. If anyone discovers marijuana plants growing in this area, they should contact the Pitt County Sheriff or the Chief of Police in Greenville. (Reflector Photos by Tommy Forrest)

Some Hoped-For School Improvements Deferred

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

In action deleting an amount of $156,000 from the capital outlay budget top priority list to help close the gap created by the loss of $206,000 in anticipated funds from the now defunct 20 cents Greenville District levy, a number of hoped for improvements will now be held in abeyance.

"Originally, the $156,000 was scheduled in the budget for a new administrative building," Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools stated. "However, in the budget proposals submitted to the county Commissioners, the $156,000 item had been changed from. Plans for a new administrative building to general capital improvements in an undesignated category."

Dr. Cleetwood explained that the school board's adopted budget had scratched the $156,000 for a building in favor of other priorities with the Citizens Advisory Committee being invited to help recommend priority capital improvements.

"The budget placed before the commissioners in April did list as undesignated the $156,000," he noted, "however, by the time of final action the Commissioners did have an itemization of capital outlay requests which reflected the Citizens Advisory Committee recommendations."

Dr. Cleetwood said that the implication that the school board acted to delete $156,000 earmarked for an administrative building, while understandable in light of original proposals, misrepresented the actual intention for use of the $156,000 which had changed during budget discussions from an administrative building to a number of other improvements based on the Advisory Committee recommendations and school board member study and recommendations.

Among items on the addendum sheet of the Greenville District Capital Outlay budget request for 1972-73, the itemized expenditure proposal shows: (The total for this category amounted to $206,000).

—Additions and improvements to existing sites, $49,300. (This included additional land for Sadie Sautter, $45,000).

—Alterations and additions to buildings, $32,950. (In this amount, some of the specific items listed were air conditioning of J.H. Rose Library, $6,000; engineering specifications for air conditioning Sadie Sautter and Eastern schools, $5,000; replace wooden windows Third Street School, $5,000; and roofing at Rose High, $5,000).

—Heating, $16,500 (With $8,000 for a new boiler at South Greenville as a major item).

—Plumbing, $2,000.

—Electrical, $15,800 ($15,000 of this was itemized for fluorescent lights at Elmhurst, Rose High and Third Street).

—Instructional Apparatus, $38,850 (to include intercoms for Elmhurst, Eastern, and Third Street $10,000; walk-in freezers for Rose and Elmhurst, $5,000; and audio-visual equipment for all schools, $5,000).

—Library Books, $8,600 (for all schools).

Boy Is Fatality

AYDEN — A six-year-old boy was killed near here Tuesday morning when he apparently ran from behind a parked car into the path of an oncoming vehicle.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey identified the victim as Howard Franklin Walls Jr. of Rt. 2, Box 134, Grifton.

Harvey said that the youth apparently ran from behind a car belonging to his mother as it was parked along Rural Paved Road 1113, the old Snow Hill highway, about a mile and a half west of Ayden.

The Coroner attributed death to head injuries and reported that young Walls was dead on arrival at the office of an Ayden physician. Harvey, who said the death was ruled accidental, added that the accident occurred around 11:30 a.m.

Highway Patrolman S. F. Padgett, who investigated the accident, said that the driver of the car involved was identified as Andrew Odom of Rt. 1, Box 370, Ayden. Odom was not injured. Investigation of the accident is continuing, Trooper Padgett said.

Huge Public Works Bill Expected To Win Approval Of House Today

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5 billion budget-busting, job-making public works bill was expected to be approved by the House today despite administration opposition.

Sponsors of the measure, led by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., claimed enough votes to send the bill to the Senate and to override a veto if it should be forthcoming.

"This goes beyond politics," said Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee which approved the bill by vote of 19 to 4.

The bill would authorize the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to make up to $5 billion in grants to states and local governments for basic public works and facilities such as sewage treatment plants. The grants could be for the entire amount of the projects in some cases.

Actual funds would have to be provided in a separate appropriation measure.

The grants would be available to all communities.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., cited statistics indicating that for every $1 million of public funds invested in such local projects, 100 jobs would be created. At that rate, the $5 billion program would generate 500,000 construction jobs and, Albert estimated, up to 500,000 other positions created by the stimulus to local economies.

The Banking Committee estimated that the entire $5 billion to finance sewer, water and other facilities will be committed for expenditure by the end of 1972, and all of the money will have been spent by June 30, 1974.

Citing current unemployment statistics, Albert criticized the Nixon administration for having "no foreseeable job-producing initiative and showing no evidence of concern for the problem."

Walking Rated Second Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next to the automobile, the most popular way for Americans to get to work is walking, the Census Bureau reports.

The Bureau said Tuesday that 5.7 million persons reported on Census Day in 1970 that they regularly walked to work.

The Bureau said 59.7 million said they drove or rode in a car to their jobs, while another 4.2 million reported riding buses or streetcars, 1.8 million rode subways or elevated commuter trains, 502,000 used the railroads and 296,000 took cabs.

Another 2.7 million people worked at home, the Bureau said.

Secret Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's security affairs aide, was holding secret Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kissinger, who flew to Paris Tuesday, was meeting with Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy, North Vietnamese negotiators.

Ziegler said Kissinger would return to Washington late Wednesday.

Until Ziegler talked to newsmen today there had been a veil of secrecy over Kissinger's whereabouts.

Kissinger did not return to Washington with President Nixon from the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., Tuesday.

Budget Adopted For Winterville

WINTERVILLE — The Board of Aldermen here has adopted a budget, totaling $269,650, for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The budget shows an increase of $26,550 over last year's budget figure.

The present tax rate of $1.25 per $100 valuation will be maintained for the new fiscal year.

Income for the year will come mainly from the following items: one-cent county sales tax, $15,000; Powell Bill, $16,800; tax levy, $31,000; electrical charges, $145,000; and water and sewer, $43,000.

Major expenditures for the coming year are: electric power purchased, $90,000; water distribution, $20,000; electric distribution, $20,000; and street department, $30,299.

According to budget figures, water and sewer taps have been increased slightly. Water taps have been increased from $90 to $100 and sewer has been increased from $75 per tap to $90. Rates outside the town limits will be doubled.

A small increase in building permits has also been approved. In other business, the board approved an ordinance establishing extraterritorial jurisdiction boundaries for the town of Winterville.

The ordinance, revised by the 1971 General Assembly of North Carolina, was changed to give authority to municipalities to adopt, administer and enforce zoning and subdivision regulation ordinances, building and minimum housing standards codes and other related measures.

Records System Evaluation Given Hospital Board

By TOM FOREMAN, JR.
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Memorial Hospital's Board of Trustees Tuesday night approved changes in the Medical Staff by-laws and heard a report on nursing staff requirements by the head of the nursing department.

Miss Trula Bennett and Miss Gail Cherry presented an evaluation of the operations of the medical records department. Miss Bennett said that the medical records department employs 14 full-time and three part time people and that they all work with different sections of the medical staff. "Everything that happens to a patient from the time he enters the hospital until the time he leaves is kept on file," she added.

Miss Bennett also stated that the doctors can now dictate information to nursing stations all around the hospital. It was added that the present dictation equipment at the hospital is valued at nearly $17,000, and that the price will probably increase with the construction of the new hospital. She added that records are made available on request from the medical staff, insurance companies with the patients' permission, or to doctors. Records have been filed going back to 1967, but microfilm records are kept all the way back to the hospital's opening back in January of 1951. Miss Bennett also said that the medical records department reserves the right to withhold information on patients if a doctor has failed to keep up with his own records, or keep those records up to date.

Miss Cherry, a representative of the East Carolina University medical records program, stated that ECU was one of only 27 schools that offer degrees in medical recording.

She said that students are offered a Bachelor of Science degree in medical records administration. After obtaining the degree, a student must then take the Medical Register exam in Winston-Salem. Then he must take a National Register Exam before entering upon a career in medical records.

Miss Cherry expressed the hope that some day the

The Churchill Squelch Isn't For Everybody

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The late Winston Churchill had the perfect squelch for idiots who approached him with, "I'll bet you don't remember me, do you?" Churchill would look them squarely in the eye and ask, "Why SHOULD I?" FRANK IN WESTMINSTER, CAL.

DEAR FRANK: Sir Winston could probably get away with it, but I wouldn't recommend it for the ordinary Joe. He might promptly get something to remember the "idiot" by.

DEAR ABBY: I have had a problem bottled up inside of me for the last two years and I am so ashamed of it, I just have to tell someone.

I just HATE babies! I don't know why, but I want to hurt them. Isn't that ridiculous? I want to overcome this terrible fault, but I can't.

I kept a neighbor's baby today and abused her so badly I was disgusted with myself. I hit her and pinched her, and knocked her around, and just let her cry. I didn't want to feed her either. She's not the only baby I have treated this way. Afterwards I feel so bad, I just sit and cry.

Abby, what's wrong with me? Could it be that someone treated me that way once when I was a baby? If so, I can't remember.

I have a six-year-old child of my own and I swear to you when she was small I never mistreated her once. So why am I this way to other people's babies?

I am so afraid that as a punishment God will take my precious child away from me. Please help me, Abby. I am a 28-year-old, healthy, educated married woman.

TREMBLING

DEAR TREMBLING: You need to talk this problem out with a professional counselor. The fact that you recognize the problem and are seeking a solution, proves that you are a good person. Talk to your doctor about it, and he will recommend the proper counseling for you. And in the meantime, please stay away from babies! God bless and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a friend who accepted an expensive wedding present, then wrote to say, "The wedding has been called off for the time being," because I had some second thoughts—but the gift you gave me looks great in my apartment! And since I'm still dating the guy, we might still get married later."

She closed with, "I don't know what the etiquette books say in cases like this, but if you know, please tell me."

PUZZLED IN N. Y.

DEAR PUZZLED: Tell her the etiquette books say that when the wedding has been called off, the wedding gifts should be returned.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning "A COUPLE OF CHUMPS" who had made a home for an aged and ailing parent for many years while their brothers and sisters who were better able financially contributed nothing, and looked out the window. The old gentleman didn't pay one red cent for his keep, altho he had plenty of money. Finally, when he died and his will was read it was, "Share and share alike."

Please advise the "Chumps" that they need not be chumps. If they promptly submit a bill for the old gentleman's care, they will be fully reimbursed out of his estate.

This is exactly what happened to me, and after I was reimbursed for keeping my invalid father for seven years, there was practically nothing left for the brothers and sisters who also looked out the window. NO CHUMP

Butcher Wants Affair Publicized

ROME, Italy (WNS) — Mario Dall'Aglio, a butcher, has asked the courts to give him a "cuckold's certificate." "I want to post it in my shop so that the whole world will know that my beautiful brunette wife is betraying me by having a love affair with another man," he explained. Avia, his wife, replied that she left her husband four months ago and that he has laid siege to the lawyer's apartment where she is living. The court has ordered the butcher to pay Avia $100 a week in alimony.

Food Allergies Growing Sometimes Can Be Fatal

By DOROTHY BROWN
Women's News Service

The death of a 10-year-old Boston boy in April from an allergy to peanuts was a rare occurrence, say food allergists. But no one knows how rare.

Neither of the two most prestigious organizations dealing with allergy (the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, and the American Academy of Allergy) keep statistics on the number of people with food allergies or the number who die from them. The nearest estimate of the problem came from Dr. Lloyd Crawford, chairman of the American Academy of Allergy's food allergy committee.

"The incidence of death from food allergies is rare, but it does occur," said Dr. Crawford, an allergist at the University of Tennessee.

"About two years ago, a group at Cook County hospital in Chicago reported about 12 cases in one year of patients who almost died of food allergies," said Dr. Crawford. He added that, "Had they been on a fishing trip, they might have died. But they were rushed to the hospital and saved."

Not Always Identified

Dr. Harold I. Lecks, an allergist at Philadelphia's Children's Hospital, said that death from a food allergy is not always correctly identified.

"Children who appear to have choked on food may have died of an allergic reaction that caused their tongue to swell," said Dr. Lecks. "And there's some meager evidence to support milk allergy as a cause of crib death."

According to Dr. Crawford, about two percent of all children have food allergies which some of them lose as they grow older. The "big three in allergy" are milk, eggs and cereal grains, he said. These are followed closely by fish and nuts, lentils (including peanuts which are not a nut) and the nightshades (tomatoes and potatoes).

Those who are seriously allergic react by wheezing, by a difficult in breathing, and by a swelling of the mouth, tongue and lips that can end in asphyxiation.

Although most people can identify the egg, tomato or potato to which they are allergic, the identification problem becomes more difficult with processed foods.

For Instance

Take the peanut. According to a list put out by Children's Hospital, peanuts or peanut oil may be found in salad oils that are labeled only "vegetable oil," in oleomargarine, and occasionally even in milk. (Cows that are fed peanut oil cake pass on peanut protein in their milk.)

"Food labeling is a field that's been grossly neglected," said Jeanne Devers, consumer affairs specialist for the Food and Drug Administration.

Although the Federal Government requires that the ingredients in many foods be labeled — particularly foods containing meat or poultry — other products like cheese, peanut butter, mayonnaise and catsup do not have to be labeled as long as they comply with general standards set by the government.

For instance, for a product to be labeled "ice cream" it must contain a minimum of 10 percent butterfat and 20 percent milk solids. After that, the law allows a host of other ingredients (none of which must be labeled), including 13 different kinds of sweeteners, a variety of food colors and flavors, vegetable gums, thickeners, stabilizers and eggs.

So 10-year-old Michael Grzybinski of Boston, allergic to peanuts, ate the unlabeled ice cream containing peanuts and died.

"Foods that are adulterated and not identified are hazardous to many people," said Dr. Lecks. "You can't desensitize or immunize people against food allergies the way you can for hay fever."

In 1967 it was reported in the Journal of Asthma Review that the number of allergic children had increased over the previous 20 to 25 years. One reason, states the article, is the proliferation of synthetic products — new plastics, synthetic detergents, new cosmetics, food additives and artificial food colors.

According to Ralph Nader, nearly two-thirds of all chemicals now placed in foods do not appear on the labels.

And an industry as large as the wine and liquor industry, for years under the control of the Internal Revenue Service, does not come under the scrutiny of the FDA until an impurity has been found.

"I've never seen ingredients listed on a beer can," said Miss Devers of the FDA.

CRISP WAFER COOKIES

These are very thin, brittle and lacelike.

1/4 cup corn syrup

1/4 cup butter

1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar 1/2 cup unsifted flour

1/2 cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts

Into a 1-quart saucepan turn the corn syrup, butter and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring several times; remove from heat at once. Add the flour and stir until blended; stir in the walnuts. Drop level teaspoons of the mixture, 3 inches apart, onto a greased and floured large cookie sheet—no more than 6 to a sheet. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until cookie batter spreads and browns—8 to 10 minutes. Let cookies set partly, about 30 seconds, then remove at once with a wide spatula to wire rack to cool. If cookies harden before you remove them, soften them in the oven. With a pastry brush brush off any pan coating adhering to them. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Makes about 3 dozen.

Didn't Want His Wife To Know

PARIS (WNS) — Police wondered if they had come upon a major criminal when they discovered eleven bank accounts opened with false papers and false signatures in the name of Louis Labe, assistant mayor of Romainville. When they captured the culprit, they learned that the man was only a faithless husband trying to hid his savings from his wife so that he could spend them on his mistress. Judge Duval fined the 50-year-old Frenchman $420 and put him on good behavior for one year.

Get-Tough Policy Has Its Risk

One has to wonder if a new get-tough policy is not now the thinking among authorities who have to deal with those who hijack commercial aircraft. Recently huge bonds have been set for those accused of attempting to hold airliners for ransom. A hijacker was killed in Vietnam and a dramatic shootout occurred in San Francisco with two alleged hijackers killed.

This new method of handling hijackings may represent a change from past policies under which every effort was made to give the hijackers what they asked.

Certainly it is a difficult decision to make as to whether to confront a desperate, and perhaps insane man who is holding a giant airliner and its passengers hostage. Perhaps, however, the very desperation of the situation is enough to warrant the decision to handle the matter while the plane is still on the ground. Obviously anyone who would take over an airliner at gunpoint cares little for the safety of the passengers. Thus there is no guarantee that he will not do something when the aircraft is in the air which could bring the plane and all its passengers crashing to a fiery death.

It is clear to us that the best way to prevent hijackings is to screen passengers and baggage before they ever board the plane. If this fails, however, it appears that authorities will have to take strong measures before the planes ever take off.

Getting tough with the hijackers while the plane is still on the ground carries with it some risk of injury to some of the passengers. Waiting until the plane has taken off carries the risk of all the passengers and crew losing their lives. It is a rough decision to have to make and, of course every situation will be different. However, when the risks are weighed it makes some sense to us to attempt to handle the situation on the ground before the hijacker ever has a chance to get the plane airborne.

No Concession To 81 Years

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — You have to grow old, but you don't have to get old. "There's a helluva difference," said Carl Goerch.

At 81, he's an exuberant apostle for a youthful mental attitude and the superior attributes of North Carolina.

New York born, Goerch came to his adopted state when the 20th century was barely a dozen years old. As a newspaperman, magazine publisher, author and speaker, he's been preaching its virtues ever since.

"I've been in all 50 states, and I wouldn't want to live in any other one," he declared. "We're wonderfully blessed with a variable climate, magnificent scenery from coast to mountains, and the friendliest people you'll find anywhere."

Goerch has a face unlined and timeless as Buddha, brightened by an expression far more alert and expectant. He always has a grin ready to greet an old friend, and a laugh for a funny story.

No Slowing Down
He keeps a schedule that makes no concession to his age. He writes regularly for The State magazine, which he founded in 1933 and sold to other owners several years ago. He's in demand as an after dinner speaker, making eight or ten appearances weekly across the state and hitting the national circuit with frequency.

Although he gave up flying his own plane last year after 40 years, he still does his own driving.

Life in the eighth decade is a good time if you follow the rules, he reported. His counsel is to concentrate on the good things and overlook the little imperfections. "I've never been happier than in the last 10 years of my life," he said.

"The number of years a person lives has very little to do with his age. Age depends entirely on mental attitude. As long as you think young, you will stay young."

He illustrated how attitude can change the outlook.

Late Afternoon Music
"One fine September afternoon a number of years ago we were visiting friends in Chapel Hill. As he sat on the porch, in an atmosphere wonderfully serene and calm, the Morehead Tower chimes began to play.

"I've never heard more beautiful music!" I exclaimed.

"Oh," said our hostess, "the bells are not properly adjusted. If you listen closely, you can hear the false notes. There! Did you catch it?"

"Soon I, too, was listening for the false notes. The afternoon was spoiled."

Heritage blessed Goerch with stamina and a sound physical constitution. "I've never been sick a day in my life. My mother said I never had measles, mumps, and the other childhood diseases. I always feel good," he said. He has some special precepts once you've passed 70. "You shouldn't try to follow these, but I live by them," he cautioned.

Giving Age A Glow
The Goerch guide to glow in the golden years:

1. "Have a drink whenever you want one."
2. "Never exercise. Don't waste your energy jogging around the block, but save it for something worthwhile."
3. "Don't get a physical check-up as long as you're feeling good. The doctor is sure to tell you something is wrong, and make you give up something you enjoy."
4. "Eat whatever you want, and as much as you please."

The departure of friends is a shadow in the twilight years. Goerch accepts that philosophically, and turns to the crossword puzzle before the obituary column in the daily newspaper.

"Yes, I miss those friends who have died. But that's to be expected. It will come to all of us," he said.

Last month his wife, Mrs. Sybil Goerch, died after a brief illness with a malignancy. He responded to condolences with a typically buoyant spirit.

"Look how much I have to be thankful for," he said. "We had 55 years of happy married life. How many people can say that? Very few."

"She was spared a lingering agony. I'm grateful for that too."

Flying in the sunshine the sky is bright blue, the clouds fleecy white, and the earth below friendly and smiling, he reminded. Through dark glasses, the picture becomes gloomy and foreboding.

"But what has changed? Only my point of view. The way we look at things make all the difference in the world between sunshine and shadow." Carl Goerch, at 81, still walks on the sunny side of the street.

Old Dream Of N.C. Oil Continues Hold Allure

An old dream stays alive in North Carolina with oil companies still drilling for potential new sources of oil and natural gas.

So far little has been found but many experts believe it is there.

Tar Heels have seen the discovery of oil create wealth in other states and there has always been an interest in discovering oil here. That interest is now somewhat dulled due to the new concern over oil spills, but never the less it is still here.

Someday the explorers may tap the energy source which many believe to be under the coastal waters of North Carolina. If they do, it will mean new income — and new problems — for our state.

Public Warned Polls Are Used

By JOHN KILGO
CHARLOTTE — Political polls have become a powerful campaign weapon — and voters and the news media should be careful that poll results they're asked to swallow are the real thing. That's the opinion of Dr. Schley R. Lyons, head of the department of political science at UNC-Charlotte, and a noted authority on polls and polling techniques.

"Some polls are used to measure public opinion," Dr. Lyons told me in an interview, "while some are used to develop public opinion. There's no doubt that polls are used more than ever in political campaigns. They are an instrument in campaigning."

Dr. Lyons' office in the political science building on the UNC-Charlotte campus is lined with books on poll-taking. He has also published his own works on the subject.

In the recently-completed primaries in North Carolina, voters and newsmen were fed a high-fat diet of political poll results.

"You must remember," Dr. Lyons said, "that polls can serve as a tremendous psychological weapon for a candidate. If a candidate can produce a poll that shows him with a commanding lead, it gives him a big boost psychologically. It helps create a bandwagon effect for the candidate who looks good in the poll."

The best proof of this, Dr. Lyons says, is that you don't see candidates releasing polls that show them getting clobbered.

Dr. Lyons isn't saying that politicians are less honest than they were, say, 20 years ago. As a matter of fact, he thinks politicians generally might be much more honest.

There is the possibility, however, that polling — which has now been exacted to the point that it's a science — keeps voters from hearing enough ideas that originate from the candidate.

For instance, it is now possible to poll on a daily basis, whereby a candidate for state office can tell what the issues are NOW in Burlington or Smithfield or Wilmington. And when the candidate visits one of those areas, he might be sorely tempted to say what his poll tells him the voters want to hear.

"It could be almost like a psychiatrist who has his patient on the couch," Dr. Lyons says, "using the Rogerian approach, saying yes, yes to the patient's problems. This could be bad. It could keep the voters from ever finding out what the candidate really thinks."

How can we keep from being thrown a ringer? Dr. Lyons says four questions should be asked of people who release political polls for public consumption:

1. The size of the sample?
2. How was the sample drawn?
3. What was the non-response rate?
4. And what was the socio-

Strength For Today

LIFE OUT OF DEATH

Jesus, in his sojourn on the earth, set forth many seemingly strange doctrines. On one occasion he said, "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abides alone; but if it die, it brings forth much fruit."

Now as a fact of agriculture this is true beyond all possibility of argument. The grain (or as the King James Version has it, the "corn") of wheat falls into the ground and dies, and as a result produces a wheat stalk with a head containing many grains of wheat. And from this simple fact of the growing world Jesus deduced a spiritual principle. "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

In other words, said Jesus, the only way you can be fruitful in the spiritual world is the way a seed is fruitful in the physical world. You must die. Not dying the death which will result in your burial, but dying that inner death of selfishness and egotism in order that you may experience the wonderful and resurrected life which comes to those who have yielded their wills and their souls in obedience to God.

We are spiritual beings. This makes life very difficult for us, because a conflict goes on continually between the flesh and the spirit. But it also makes life glorious. Out of struggle—yea, out of death—come life.

The G. McGovern Tapes

TOP SECRET

Memo to C. White House
From H. Miami, Florida

I bugged the McGovern headquarters as per your instructions. Sorry for tardiness of transcript of tapes, but they were typed by Cuban refugees who planned Bay of Pigs operation.

Here in a nutshell is what we found out by listening in to his Doral Hotel suite.

Despite denials, McGovern is still a stalking horse for Teddy Kennedy. The plan is for McGovern to campaign until November. Then, if he wins the election, he will ask Kennedy to be sworn in as President in his place. The McGovern strategists figure this is the only way Kennedy will accept the Presidency in 1972.

In exchange for bowing out as President, McGovern is going to be rewarded by being made secretary of agriculture. This will help him with his electorate in South Dakota. The Kennedy people have agreed to this in principle.

The tapes also indicate that the reason the McGovern strategists selected Tom Eagleton as the vice presidential candidate is that the American people are ready for a calm Administration after the excitement of Nixon's last four years.

They feel the people will buy the steady plodding manner of McGovern and Eagleton after living with the swinging glamorous Nixons. This is a direct quote from the tapes by McGovern's top advisers.

"The people are fed up with style. We have to admit Nixon has charisma, but Americans want something more."

Who could stand again the agony of falling in puppy love with a series of snooty little red-haired girls in grammar school? Not me.

Who would want to go through the mumps, chicken pox, and measles again? Not me.

Who would want to spend hours as a child staring into a mirror and wondering who you were and what you were and why you were, and trying to decide whether Santa Claus, the devil and God were really real or only adult fictions? Not me.

Who would want to go through the suicidal ordeal of adolescence and acne again? Not me.

Right. They're tired of reading about those wild bowling parties at Camp David and those raucous prayer breakfasts at the White House.

"You can say that again. They're sick of all the stories about Pat Nixon's clothes and her hairdresser."

"Not to mention David and Julie's high jinks in the Navy."

"Let's offer them a candidate—two candidates who may not set the world on fire like the Nixons do, but at least have substance."

The rest of the tape is blurred.

The bugging also revealed that the McGovern people plan to make the big issue of the campaign non-union lettuce. They're going to claim Agnew has eaten 3,456 salads at fund-raising dinners since he's been Vice President and not one of the leaves had a union label on it.

There were some serious brainstorming sessions on how McGovern was going to end the war in Vietnam. The plan is to announce just before November that if the Democrats are elected to the White House the President will promote Colonel Harlan Sanders of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame to general and (Continued on page 5)

By GWYN COGHILL
July 19, 1932

All manufacturing plants in High Point, except for two or three, were closed today, throwing approximately 6,000 men out of work, as a strike spread from a walkout of hosiery workers there yesterday. It was estimated that one hundred plants were idle.

Babe Ruth today faced the prospect of relinquishing his home-run title to Jimmie Foxx without a struggle. Even before his right leg collapsed while going after a fly ball yesterday, it was extremely doubtful the old war horse could catch his youthful adversary. He was twelve homers behind the Athletic baseball club star but was still hoping. Foxx is a full month ahead of Ruth's 1927 record now and has every chance of eclipsing the Babe's mark of sixty homers.

New Sewing Deputy Charged In Seminar Set Move To Air Facts

Pitt Technical Institute will conduct a 15-hour sewing seminar in room four beginning tonight at 7 o'clock. The group will meet each Wednesday night from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Adults will need no equipment, materials or supplies. Each person should already know basic sewing skills and sewing terminology.

Instruction will consist of lecture, demonstration and discussion. Areas that will be presented and discussed are basic sewing, fundamentals, materials, patterns, tailoring, pressing techniques, use of trim, and others.

A similar sewing seminar will begin Thursday at 2 p.m. This group will meet each Thursday from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. The same instruction as the above course will be offered.

For further information, interested persons may call or visit the institute.

Also the tapes revealed it was no accident that McGovern and Eagleton made their acceptance speeches in Miami Beach at 3 o'clock in the morning.

This was part of McGovern strategy to put a coalition of minorities together to win the election. The only minority McGovern hadn't won over to his side were people who can't sleep at night.

By going on all three networks at 3 o'clock Friday morning the McGovern forces sewed up the insomniac vote. Nobody else ever paid any attention to insomniacs before and they could easily swing the election.

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP) — Authorities say they have charged a deputy with manslaughter so the facts in a fatal shooting can be brought out in court.

Marshall Sisk, a Lincoln County deputy for seven years, was charged Tuesday in the death July 4 of Randy Ray Abernathy, 20, in the Lincoln County Jail.

Abernathy, an inmate of the Dallas Prison Camp in Gaston County, was on home leave over the holiday when he got into an argument with another man. He was charged in Lincoln County with assault with a deadly with intent to kill.

Sheriff Harven Crouse of Lincoln County said that before Abernathy was booked, he got into an argument with arresting officers in a corridor of the jail, punched Sisk, and was trying to punch him again when Sisk pulled out his revolver, which discharged accidentally.

Crouse said Sisk told him he intended to strike the man on the temple with the gun.

Dr. Lyons says to get a poll in North Carolina that has a 95 per cent "confidence" level, the pollster must complete 384 successful interviews. At this level, the poll results could still vary plus or minus five per cent.

If a poll with a 99 per cent "confidence" level is taken in a state the size of North Carolina, studies show that 9,423 successful interviews must be taken.

Most politicians have their pollsters poll by telephone. It is cheaper this way and much quicker.

But there are problems, according to Dr. Lyons. Some people don't have telephones. Some have unlisted numbers. And the non-response rate is high, because many people aren't at home.

"If you poll 700 people, you're lucky to get 350 responses," Dr. Lyons says, "and there's no way to project what the non-respondents would have said. And this is usually the group that ends up swinging the election."

Author Leo Bogart has just written a book, "Silent Politics," which deals with the polling process. On chapter is devoted to the mass media and how they are used in reporting poll results.

Dr. Lyons agrees that the media is used by politicians in this respect, "but not because they want to be used," he adds.

He believes that good polls provide us with a constant flow of information that can be invaluable.

But he adds: "People should be careful in reading poll results that are announced or leaked to the media. It could be that someone has thrown them a ringer."

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces battled their way toward the walled Citadel in the heart of Quang Tri City today and reported 163 North Vietnamese killed in house-to-house fighting Tuesday.

One government paratrooper unit was reported 100 yards from the southeastern corner of the 19th century fortress, and another was closing in from the northeast side.

SPANISH SOURCE

ALTA, Utah (UPI)—This winter resort, one of America's popular ski areas, gets its name from the Spanish meaning "high". The altitude here reaches 9,500 feet.

Initial reports said the North Vietnamese killed five government soldiers and wounded 20 in the fighting Tuesday.

The U.S. Command said three American Phantom jets bombed a South Vietnamese position six miles southeast of Quang Tri City by mistake, killing one government soldier and wounding 16. It was the third such U.S. bombing mistake reported in two days and the fourth in two weeks near Quang Tri. A total of 11 South Vietnamese killed and 51 wounded have been reported. Field officers blame the close-quarter fighting, the often confused maneuvering of South Vietnamese units and the presence of hundreds of U.S. planes in the air while almost all ground units are calling for support.

The U.S. Command also reported one of its Cobra helicopter gunships was shot down Tuesday 14 miles southeast of Quang Tri but said the crewmen were rescued.

The Viet Cong radio claimed today that 21 U.S. warplanes have been shot down in the Quang Tri area since July 1 and "many pilots" have been captured. The U.S. Command has reported that the loss of two planes and six helicopters in the province in that period, with four of the crewmen missing.

U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom pilots escorting bombers raiding North Vietnam reported downing another MIG21 in a dogfight Tuesday west of Hanoi.

Hanoi claimed three American planes were shot down during Tuesday's raids, but the only losses announced by the U.S. Command were a Navy A7 13 miles northeast of Vinh on Monday night and a Navy A4 40 miles southwest of Hanoi on Tuesday.

The biggest strike was against the Nguyen Khe military base, nine miles north of Hanoi.

U.S. spokesmen said American planes flew more than 320 strikes against North Vietnam on Tuesday, and the pilots wrecked warehouses, cut runways and taxiways at MIG bases, dropped bridges, and left fuel depots exploding and in flames.

The biggest strike was against the Nguyen Khe military base, nine miles north of Hanoi.

Seeking Women For Nat'l Guard

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina National Guard, which has been all male, is seeking permission to recruit women.

Adj. Gen. Ferd Davis said Tuesday the Department of the Army and the National Guard Bureau have been asked for permission to recruit female nurses for the medical corps.

Davis told a press conference black membership in the Guard is at an all-time high of 218, compared to 60 two years ago. He said the Guard is trying to recruit more blacks into its program.

Urges Preserving N.C. Undeveloped Beach Areas

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's assistant secretary of natural and economic resources says undeveloped beach areas along the Tar Heel coast "should be wisely developed to preserve their natural value and amenity."

Dr. Arthur W. Cooper said Tuesday "such natural areas represent a scarce and valuable resource."

Therefore, he said, the state should not participate in beach erosion projects in such areas "where future unwise development disrupted natural processes."

Cooper made his remarks in a talk prepared for a conference on "Prudent Building on North Carolina's Barrier Islands" sponsored by his department.

He said the state should meet existing commitments for projects along the New Hanover and Brunswick County beaches.

For other already developed coastal areas, Cooper said, the state is considering a policy for some form of protection. It would not include hurricane protection, and would be done on a cost-sharing basis with local government.

Local governments, he said, would be required "to impose land use controls in the beach area to prevent unwise development and to provide sufficient public access to the beach."

Cooper said hurricanes, erosion caused by long-shore currents and the rising level of the sea cannot be permanently controlled by man.

"Damage from hurricanes, has exceeded one billion dollars in North Carolina during this century," Cooper stated. "Although future storms cannot be prevented, steps can and must be taken to reduce the damages incurred."

He added, "If natural processes cannot be controlled in the long run, it would be unwise for the state to commit present and future taxpayers to expensive hurricane protection and beach erosion control projects."

"What is required," Cooper said, "is a new perspective on the problems associated with development and beach erosion along the coast."

He told the conference the state is now formulating technically sound guidelines for development of the Outer Banks.

Mother Claims Unwilling Child

WANTAGH, N.Y. (AP) — Nine-year-old Adrienne Schoenowitz shed frightened tears as she was reunited with her natural mother and separated from the foster parents who had cared for her since infancy.

"I don't want to go! I don't want to go!" the girl in pig-tails wailed Tuesday as she got into her mother's car after a wrenching goodbye to her foster parents, William and Beatrice Cahn.

It was the end of a year-long court struggle between the Cahns, who had brought up Adrianne, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schoenowitz of Brooklyn, both reformed drug addicts, over custody of the child.

As the car pulled away, Mrs. Cahn wept uncontrollably: "Oh my baby! I can't stand it! What am I going to do with her room? It's like a nightmare — is it happening to me?"

The exchange was sealed Monday when Judge Stanley H. Fuld, chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, refused to stay lower court decisions ordering Adrienne returned to her natural parents.

The anguished scene of the child clinging to Mrs. Cahn and a group of 20 sympathetic neighbors gathered on the lawn of the Long Island home took its toll on Mrs. Schoenowitz.

"I can't stand seeing her (Adrianne) so unhappy. This is a terrible thing all around. But what am I supposed to do — say here, here's my daughter, I'll forget all about her? What am I fighting to get my life in order for?" she said.

Clifford Irving Finds Publisher

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Clifford Irving has found a publisher for his book telling all about the Howard Hughes autobiography scandal.

Grove Press in late September will publish in paperback at $1.95 per copy "Clifford Irving: What REALLY Happened."

By then Irving will be serving a 2½-year prison term imposed for his role in connection with the autobiography, which was exposed as a hoax.

Reports in publishing circles indicated that Irving, his wife Edith and researcher Richard Suskind — who also were convicted in the plot — will get nothing like the six-figure advance they had demanded for the Irving story.

Instead, it is understood the authors will get a "negligible" advance, but will share in the profits, if any, at a much higher rate than the usual 10 to 15 per cent.

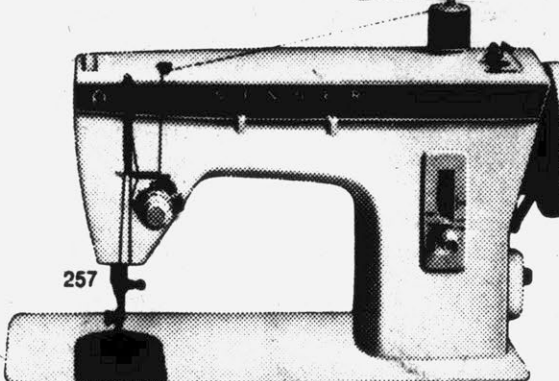

Society Honors Lauren Bacall

CHICAGO (AP) — Lauren Bacall, star of the stage musical "Applause," has been named Chicago's Actress of the Year by the Sarah Siddons Society, an organization of theatergoers and drama patrons.

Miss Bacall, who appeared with the traveling company of "Applause" in Chicago for four weeks in January, will be honored at the society's gala in the fall.

examination for the medical register student would be held on the ECU campus.

Students who pursue a career in medical records, she said, take two years of liberal arts and basic sciences, and two years in medical records and associated courses.

Dr. Earl Trevathan presented to the board eight new physicians who would be working in the area. The new doctors introduced were: Dr. James Walter Carter, surgery; Dr. David H. Riddick, internal medicine and hematology; Dr. Alfred H. Woodworth, family medicine; Dr. Larry Mumford, pediatrics; Dr. Auentin A. Mewborn, family medicine; Dr. R.H. Stewart, dermatology; Dr. Ray Evans, psychiatry; and Dr.

Louis P. Moore, psychiatry.

Dr. Trevathan also announced the appointment of Dr. Herbert Hadley to the head of the Department of Family Practice.

Dr. Trevathan presented a report from the medical staff concerning a change in the by-laws of the staff. Some of the changes included the procedure of election of board members and the enlargement of the executive committee to 12 or 13 members. Another change proposed was a change of courtesy privileges towards doctors who have a limited practice, or are impaired due to age or illness.

Miss Jean Owens, head of nursing at Pitt Memorial Hospital, reporting on a recent study done in April revealed the apportionment of nurses in proportion to the levels of illnesses in patients. Miss Owens stated that 50 per cent of the patient care covers about eight hours of the working day. She also said that the reduction of errands being run by nurses has resulted in the establishment of a messenger service system and more time for patients. It was also disclosed in the study that nurses make up about 40 to 45 per cent of the payroll.

The survey was conducted by the Carolina Hospital Improvement Program (CHIP).

In other business, the board recognized the service of Rick Gilstrap, who has been administrative assistant for one year. Gilstrap reported that overtime pay had reached a two-year low in the budget report.

Exposure Changes Vocational Training Attitudes

Does direct exposure and involvement in vocational education change high school students' attitudes and conceptions of vocational training? The answer is "definitely

Airline Reply To Hair Suit

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Piedmont Aviation Inc. of Winston-Salem has filed an answer in U.S. District Court, denying it wrongfully dismissed a flight attendant who refused to cut her hair to comply with a company regulation.

The air line also asked in its reply Tuesday that the suit be dismissed. The suit was filed against Piedmont and the Airline Pilots Association International by Alice Susan Ellis of Salem, Va.

Miss Ellis seeks awards totaling $21,541.88 as back pay and damage to her earning capacity, and reinstatement in her former job with seniority rights. She said she was fired July 25, 1970, after serving as a flight attendant since Nov. 10, 1966.

Her suit also was directed against the pilots union on the contention that it failed to give her proper assistance in the dispute with the company. The union has until Aug. 11 to file its answer.

Piedmont said its regulations required that flight attendants not allow their hair to fall below the uniform collar.

The company also denied the former employee's claim that it permitted longer hair if covered by a short wig.

yes," according to the rising seniors of Pitt County who participated in the four-week High School Research Project at Pitt Technical Institute recently.

The Research Project, the only one of its kind in North Carolina and approved by the State Board of Education, included two groups of students from the five high schools in Pitt County.

The students became a part of Pitt Tech's curriculum classes, and were active participants in the learning activities of various classes, the same as the regular PTI students.

"Becoming a part of vocational education for four weeks surely has changed our opinions," the students said.

Carl Turnage, a Farmville Central High School student remarked, "I had no idea what 'vocational education' meant, other than maybe agriculture or masonry. I learned that vocational training included a lot more than those two fields. Being exposed to computer technology really opened my eyes as to potential job opportunities."

"We thought a technical institute was for those students who did not want to go to college," Ellen Heath and Linda Corey of North Pitt High School reported. They feel the vocational courses "allow one to learn about the areas he desires to enter without having to take all the extras."

Even though Miss Heath still plans to go to college, she said that as a result of her experience in the PTI Computer Technology curriculum, she may plan to pursue this field in college.

Having been to classes in Commercial Art, Miss Corey feels that exposure to vocational technology training helps a person to determine his true occupational interests.

Rather than seeing vocational education as a field for those who "played around" in school, Tony Tyson of Farmville Central, sees it as "getting an early start toward a job, starting with information you need immediately." He plans to use his knowledge of photography, learned in the Commercial Art curriculum, in school activities during the coming year.

D.H. Conley High School student, Bob Hines, who viewed vocational-technical training as primarily carpentry and masonry before attending Pitt Tech, now says, "It's much broader than I thought; for those individuals who could not afford financially to go to college and or didn't want to go, they can, after vocational training, earn as much in many instances as the four-year college graduates."

To Wandra Elks of J.H. Rose High School, "Vocational education had a connotation of 'hard work' while college meant 'easy work'. Since Pitt Tech is the only technical institute she has ever visited, she had never thought of it being a 'school' but rather a place to take 'self-improvement' courses for non-credit. Miss Elks now thinks vocational-technical training could be important stepping stones prior to going to college. "It gives one a chance to do some in-depth study of potential occupational fields, prior to determining their college program of study."

Even though a large percentage of the students in the research project plan to attend college, they felt that the exposure to the different vocational-technical subjects has been beneficial to them.

Many of the students now see the different specialty areas, such as business education, computer technology, electronics, or commercial art, as broad fields that offer many different opportunities.

During the latter part of the Research Project, several high school principals and guidance counselors visited Pitt Tech.

Russ Cotten, Farmville Central High School principal, made this observation: "From the comments I have heard from out students, their exposure to vocational technology education has been very rewarding to them. They have been quite excited and enthusiastic about what they have learned and their experiences."

"Some of the things they have learned will be used next year during their senior year of school. Just how much change in attitudes and ideas of vocational education these students have had cannot really be determined at this time," said Ed Warren, PTI project coordinator.

"To what extent the students' minds were changed regarding taking vocational training will not be known until this group of students graduate from high school and select their post-high school educational training," Warren commented.

"We will conduct follow-up reports at that time to determine the impact of the vocational exposure," Warren said.

Limitation On Some Vehicles

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Motorcycles, dune buggies and other land recreational vehicles have been banned from all but improved roads in New Mexico State Parks.

The State Park and Recreation Commission adopted the regulation Tuesday. It also requires the vehicles to be "properly muffled" and prohibits their use at night.

State parks Director Richard Mutz said there have been several serious accidents involving such recreational vehicles, in addition to incidents of annoyed park visitors.

'Once Upon A Mattress' Is Enhanced By Its Cast

A Review

Shortly after the curtain rose on Monday evening's opening performance of "Once Upon A Mattress," the entire East Carolina Summer Theatre cast was suddenly "powerless" and a shocked audience was plunged into darkness.

Happily, as last night's performance amply demonstrated, the reason for Monday evening's blackout was electrical, not theatrical. An untimely electrical storm caused a disruption in the university's power system, forcing a premature curtain on opening night.

But when the curtain rose again last night, a little ball of lightning named Minnie Gordon Gaster electrified the audience with her portrayal of Princess Winnifred. As the fairy-tale princess whose sleepless night won her the hand of Prince Dauntless, Miss Gaster was an effervescent delight from her first swimming of the castle moat to her final leap into the arms of her prince.

Like a tireless jack-in-the-box, Miss Gaster nimbly cavorts with a sprightly sense of timing. What she lacks in grace, she more than makes up for in tomboyish and puckish charm. And though she is slightly built, her singing voice has all the husky power of an umpire calling strikes. Her rip-roaring delivery of songs like "The Swamps of Home" and "Happily Ever After" are matched by mercurial facial expressions which reflect every nuance of the lyrics.

Despite the fact Mary Rodgers' score does not abound in memorable tunes, Minnie Gaster's renditions of the princess' songs impart a vitality which makes them seem more substantial than they really are. Last night she was ably assisted in this magic by excellent choral and orchestral support under Barry Shank's superb direction. Princess Winnifred's antics are skillfully foiled by Sally-Jane Helt who, as Queen Aggravain, adds further lustre to an already brilliant reputation with local audiences. She dominates and manipulates her mute husband and acquiescent son with complete authority until their unanticipated revolt brings about a role reversal, after which she finds herself speechless, leaving the king with the last word.

Mark Ramsey's King Sextimus, played entirely in pantomime until the denouement, is a marvel of adroit non-verbal communication. Gregory Zittel as the Wizard casts an enchanting spell over the Summer Theatre audience, which last night welcomed him back with affectionate applause.

The Minstrel, as performed by Ray Noch, makes a strong opening impression in setting the stage for the show to follow, and his clear and musical voice

DOMINEERING MAMA AND DETERMINED PRINCESS. . provides a lyrical touch. John Stevenson (Sir Harry) and Patsy Johnson (Lady Larken) are competent in their supporting roles. Shawn Nelson's Jester was an impish and sprightly comic enhancement.

The season is rapidly establishing itself as a vintage one for the East Carolina Summer Theatre, which can be attributed to Ed Loessin's masterful direction. Eastern North Carolina audiences have come to expect a high degree of professionalism from his productions, and "Once Upon A Mattress" does not disappoint. Though backstage jitters contributed to a number of minor technical errors on opening night, the overall directorial control of this sparkling comedy was secure.

Robert T. Williams' sets and Richard Lyle's choreography give just the right visual and animated framework. "Once Upon A Mattress" is a show not to be missed, and since no extra performances have been scheduled, this reviewer recommends that all those who enjoy good musical comedy reserve their seats now for the remaining performances.

Divorce Judge Takes Divorcee As First Wife

LONDON (AP) — Judge Frederick McIntyre of the divorce court dissolved 18 broken marriages before lunch Tuesday, then took the afternoon off to get married to a divorcee.

"He must know the pitfalls to dodge by now," said the cheerful bride, a 54-year-old social worker named Marjorie Bowman who was divorced several years ago.

The judge is 67, and it's his first marriage.

"I never married before," he said, "because at first I felt I was too young. And before I knew it I was middle-aged."

"We'd known each other for about 10 days when I said to her, 'You look after old people. I'm an old person — how about looking after me?'"

"She burst into tears and said yes."

Again Raise Power Failure Delayed Show's Opening Night

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — The possibility of a merger of the Teamsters and Longshoremen's unions surfaced again when it was learned that their leaders were meeting here secretly.

A Seattle longshore source, who asked not to be identified, said the meeting Tuesday was the first of several "exploratory talks" on a possible merger.

He said the Vancouver meeting involves top officials of the Western Conference of Teamsters and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, including President Harry Bridges.

"They are talking merger," he said. "That's all they're going to talk about."

He said there would probably be many more meetings before any kind of merger could be set up.

The source also said the meeting is expected to last through most of the week.

"Whatever they do there will have to be brought back and discussed with the rank-and-file members," he said. And he said there was no chance of any public announcements until next week.

A merger between the two unions first was proposed last summer by Bridges during the ILWU strike.

For the first time in its history, the East Carolina University Summer Theater had to cancel a performance. On Monday night, opening night of this summer's second musical, "Once Upon A Mattress," a 40 minute power failure necessitated closing the curtain and postponing opening night until Tuesday.

"The audience was very understanding," Mike Hardy, Production Manager for the Summer Theater commented. "They cheerfully took tickets to other nights."

On the question of adding an additional performance to make up for the one cancelled, Hardy said, "We would like very much to, but it's impossible because of rehearsal schedules for '1776' which opens Monday night."

"It's a pity this happened," Hardy added, "and in a sense

it's a rather heavy blow to us, but fortunately it looks like we're well on our way to the most successful summer ever."

Hardy revealed that "Fiddler On the Roof," the theater's opening show, "surpassed in attendance all previous shows, including 'Hello Dolly!'" It was a sell-out every performance except opening night, which was almost a full house.

ECU theater's loss was part of a pattern of power failure in the vicinity and extending into the southern part of Pitt County.

Greenville Utilities Commission Assistant Director Malcolm (Mack) Green explained what happened. "A very big bolt hit a main transmission line and burned transmission wire and insulator," he stated. "This resulted in no power or very low current for the entire ECU area and also the southern part of the county."

Greene said power was out for about 40 minutes in the area, which included both sides of Highway 43 down to the Craven County line.

"It's unusual," he stated, "to have damage this extensive from an electrical storm. We have installed shield wire, arresters and other devices to prevent this type of damage, but evidently a very large bolt struck under the shield wire or was so massive the shield wire could not divert it."

On the same night, lightning struck two other places but without causing serious or prolonged loss of power failure.

Pays $13 Fine For A Friend

VILLAVICENCIO, Colombia (AP) — Robert Kennedy Jr. has paid a $13 fine for a friend who got in dutch for playing rock music on a cathedral pipe organ, police say.

"The boy had the alternative of a 30-day arrest or a $13 fine," police said of Michael Parkinson, 17, who came to Colombia two weeks ago with young Kennedy on a South American tour.

Witnesses reported Parkinson went into the local cathedral during Mass on Monday and without authorization started to play rock music on the pipe organ.

McGovern Can't Escape Politics In S.D. Vacation

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, 50 years old today, can't get away from politics on his South Dakota vacation. He isn't really trying to, either.

In less than two days of what had been billed as a complete rest, the South Dakota senator has made two campaign-style appearances among friendly Black Hills constituents and a visit to famed Mt. Rushmore national monument nearby, where he mingled with tourists from throughout the nation.

McGovern, wearing an open-necked shirt, an ascot and a suede outdoors jacket, had hardly stepped out of his car at Mt. Rushmore when he was confronted by newsmen with microphones, cameras and a round of questions.

He will try to confine his birthday, which Gov. Richard Kneip has proclaimed "George McGovern Day" in South Dakota, to relaxation. The only activities listed on his schedule are a horseback ride in the morning and a birthday party tonight featuring a barbecued buffalo.

Mrs. McGovern will not be on hand. Press secretary Richard Dougherty said she is undergoing some physical tests and won't arrive until Friday. Dougherty also told reporters the two top managers for McGovern's successful drive for the nomination, Gary Hart and Frank Mankiewicz, are due at his Sylvan Lake Lodge retreat Friday. He added that a trip by McGovern on Sunday to Sioux Falls is being converted into a full day of campaigning. After appearing on the CBS radio-TV interview program "Face the Nation," to be conducted live at station KELO, McGovern will pay visits to Mitchell, his boyhood home, and the state capital at Pierre. After another week of political planning here, McGovern is to return to Washington in time to start campaigning in early August. The first of his nationwide series of appearances will be in smaller towns and cities usually bypassed by presidential candidates in search of major media markets. First, he seemed intent on securing his home state. Most observers have counted him a likely winner in South Dakota. But a Republican who introduced the senator in glowing terms Tuesday to a group of 200 persons in the little town of Hill City said he expects President Nixon to carry the state again. However, John J. Gerken, who managed the Senate campaign of McGovern's 1968 opponent, Archie L. Gubbrud, warned Republican leaders in Washington against underestimating the Democratic nominee. "He's one of the sharpest politicians we've seen in the country," Gerken told reporters. McGovern sounded one of his major campaign themes, calling for "a new spirit of reconciliation across the land" and saying, "If ever there was a time we needed to build a bridge across troubled waters, it is today."

Earlier, after posing on the observation deck below the granite images of Presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt at Mt. Rushmore, the senator signed about 100 autographs, bought a $140 silver and turquoise bracelet and got some campaign advice from a 73-year-old Oglala Sioux Indian, Benjamin Black Elk.

The only known political phone call received at McGovern's retreat Tuesday was from Norval Reece, a top aide to Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, suggesting an early McGovern visit to that state for a Democratic unity meeting. While Reece apparently didn't mention it, one reason for his suggestion was Tuesday's announcement, long expected by Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo, a Democrat, that he will do all he can to defeat McGovern and will support President Nixon.

Want Jurisdiction Over Sale Of Wine

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Alcoholic Control Boards proposed Tuesday that jurisdiction over wine sales be returned to county and municipal ABC boards.

Bart Burgwyn of Jackson, outgoing president, said members also voted in favor of making retailers pay five cents for each bottle of wine they sell. ABC stores now have to pay the five-cent levy for each bottle of liquor or wine, to aid in financing alcoholic rehabilitation work.

The recommendations will be presented to a legislative commission which is studying the sale and use of intoxicating beverages and the enforcement of state liquor laws.

Jurisdiction over wine sales was taken from local ABC boards by the General Assembly in 1971 when the alcoholic control laws were revised.

William Leloudis of Burlington was elected association president. Other officers are Dr. L. C. Holshouser of Rowan County, vice president, and Russell Clark of Tarboro, secretary-treasurer.

New directors are Charles Knox of Charlotte, Harold Sumner of Gastonia, William Davis of Morganton, Dr. Holshouser, Van Fleming of Pitt County

Okay Sealing Of 727 Exit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has granted the airlines permission to seal the rear exits of Boeing 727, Douglas DC9 and British BAC111 jet transports to frustrate hijackers.

Three airlines — Trans World, American and Braniff — already have sealed such exits on 727s to prevent their use in flight.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said Tuesday that closing of the exits was part of a series of government-industry efforts to thwart hijackers through improved ground and flight security.

He said the action is a temporary measure pending final action on FAA proposal to require modification of rear exits so that they can be opened from the inside when the plane is on the ground, but not when it is taking off or is in flight.

FAA Administrator John Shaffer said six hijackers have used rear stairway exits to parachute from 727s and DC9s.

The 727, DC9 and BAC111 are the only airline jets with rear exits. Some 1,000 such planes are in service.

A spokesman for American Airlines, which sealed the doors on its fleet of 100 Boeing 727s, said the rear exit is the only way a hijacker could parachute. "If he jumped from the side door, he'd be swept into the engine," the spokesman said.

Newsman Quits To Help Bowles

RALEIGH (AP) — Roy Parker Jr., chief Capitol correspondent for The (Raleigh) News and Observer, has resigned to join the staff of Democratic gubernatorial nominee Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles.

Parker said Tuesday he will begin work about Aug. 7 as a speech writer and policy developer.

A native of Ahoskie, Parker, 42, joined The News and Observer in 1957 as a reporter and was the newspaper's Washington correspondent from 1963 to 1971, when he returned to Raleigh as chief Capitol correspondent.

Truck Shuttle Helping North Vietnamese

By FRED HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese apparently have cut a small path through the U.S. air and naval barrier by running a truck shuttle to the Chinese border.

Pentagon sources estimate the North Vietnamese receive between 10 per cent and 20 per cent of the 220,000 tons of supplies they formerly received from the outside.

The main routes of the truck shuttle run roughly parallel to the often-severed main rail lines connecting Hanoi with southeast China.

Freight trains from China reportedly unload at Dong Dang, a North Vietnamese town so close to the border that U.S. war planes avoid bombing it.

At Dong Dang, North Vietnamese trucks pick up the war supplies and drive back along roads leading to the battlefield in the South.

An Air Force general, trying to convey the difficulties in shutting off this kind of traffic entirely, described the road network as "like the veins on the back of your hands."

Despite a heavy concentration of surface to air missiles in this region, Pentagon officials claim more than 30 important bridges have been disabled there.

This has paralyzed train movements inside North Vietnam, but the North Vietnamese have managed to keep some trucks rolling by improvising pontoon bridges and ferries. Most of the trucks drive at night.

Senate OKs Vietnam Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an amendment to designate $70 million in foreign-aid funds to help refugees and civilian casualties in South Vietnam.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chief sponsor of the amendment, said that more than one million people have become refugees and there have been up to 80,000 civilian casualties since April 1, following the Communist offensive.

The Massachusetts Democrat said "the human tragedy in that battered country is greater than at any time since the war began."

Kennedy said his amendment, passed 75-7 by the Senate on Tuesday, would not add to the total appropriations authorized by the foreign aid measure, but would specify that $70 million in supporting assistance be used for humanitarian relief.

The floor manager of the bill, Sen. John Sparkman, said the Agency for International Development had told him the $70 million was about what would have been used anyway.

The Senate also approved by a voice vote another amendment by Kennedy urging President Nixon to immediately start planning for post-war relief and rehabilitation of all Indochina.

Police Round Up Young Suspects

MOULTREE, Ga. (AP) — Police say they have rounded up seven persons thought to be involved in a series of burglaries totaling $173 from a bakery warehouse.

No formal charges were placed. Instead, those arrested were released to the custody of their parents.

Police said Tuesday they were not sure what to do about the $173, which none of the suspects — ages 4 to 9 — had on them.

The ingenious North Vietnamese are said to be putting flanged wheels on some of their trucks so these vehicles can ride train rails and transport cargo between breaks blasted by U.S. bombs.

Intelligence analysts were unable to say specifically what kind of supplies are coming into North Vietnam from China but there have been recent reports of new types of Chinese weapons appearing on the battlefields in South Vietnam.

Despite persistent reports that China has sent engineer troops or laborers into North Vietnam to repair shattered railroads and shattered bridges, military authorities deny there is any hard evidence of this.

McGovern Gets Union Support

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although AFL-CIO President George Meany wasn't accepting calls from the Democratic vice presidential nominee, some labor leaders held out hope today that the full effect of Meany's unhappiness with the party's presidential ticket could be averted.

The 35-man AFL-CIO executive council met to decide whether to endorse Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and his running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri.

One measure suggested by some labor leaders provided that the federation make no endorsement of a presidential candidate for the first time in its 17-year history, instead leaving it up to each of the 117 member unions to decide whether to endorse a ticket.

The AFL-CIO always has backed Democratic presidential candidates in the past but Meany is very unhappy with the choice of McGovern.

Eagleton said Tuesday he had been unable to reach Meany on the telephone though he tried for two days. However, he said he talked with nine other labor leaders and received encouragement or outright endorsements from officials of the Machinists Union, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the State, County and Municipal Employees Union and the International Association of Meat Cutters.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union, met with Eagleton Tuesday and said he would work for the Democratic ticket and expected the union to endorse it. Woodcock at one time was under consideration for the spot Eagleton has on the ticket.

Eagleton said he will make no further contacts with other union officials because he doesn't want to leave the impression he is "intermeddling in union affairs."

The 2 million-member Teamsters Union, which has not been a part of the AFL-CIO since 1957, has endorsed President Nixon.

ROCK-THROWING

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — The Vance County Sheriff's Department today was investigating a chain of rock-throwing incidents on Interstate 85 outside Henderson shortly before midnight that resulted in several hundred dollars damage to four vehicles.

Greenville Boys Club and all proceeds will be channeled to the Boys Club.

Appearing on stage at Memorial Gymnasium on the East Carolina University campus, show time is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Some of the features this year include "Wilson's Parading Canines," costumed after the fashion of some of America's favorite characters; "Jeanette & Pierre," a duo from the French Polynes; "The Incomparable Bradbury," billed as America's "Master of Mystical Magical Nonsense"; and "The Eastwoods," performing acrobats on the teeterboard.

In addition, "The Great Hanson," who builds pyramids with glass tumblers, and "Chona" on the tight wire are part of the 90-minute show.

Dixon said that arrangements with various hospitals, homes, and institutions in the area are being made to bring children from those facilities with tickets donated by area businessmen.

Norwegian Oil Heavy Damage Slick Is From In Auto Mishap Battle Cruiser

AYDEN — Approximately $2,500 damage was done in a Tuesday afternoon accident on N.C. 11 near here.

According to Patrolman G.L. Swanson, a vehicle being operated by Mrs. Kathleen Aimar of Rt. 2, Grifton pulled into the path of a car being operated by Susan L. Gardner of Rt. 2, Greenville.

Damage to the Gardner auto was $1,500, while damage to the Aimar car was $1,000. Both women were treated and released after being taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Aimar, Ptl. Swanson said, was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen killed two more men in Belfast Tuesday night, but the level of fighting in Northern Ireland eased to scattered skirmishes. An IRA leader said the guerrilla command wants to "shift to using political persuasion."

The peace overture came from David O'Connell, the second in command of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing. He told the Dublin Evening Herald that his group had put out feelers to restore the cease-fire that collapsed 10 days ago. He said young IRA commanders in Londonderry were backing the peace moves.

One of those killed during the night was a British soldier, the 100th to die in Ulster's three years of religious warfare. A sniper cut him down at an army post in a Catholic area.

The other man to die was a factory watchman found riddled by bullets. They raised the death toll in Northern Ireland

Norwegian Oil Heavy Damage Slick Is From In Auto Mishap Battle Cruiser

OSLO (AP) — Oil pollution today threatened the scenic fiord seaway to the Norwegian capital.

Some beaches and small piers have already been polluted by an oil slick several miles long which experts believe came from the German battle cruiser Bluecher, sunk 32 years ago.

The wreck lies at a depth of 270 feet near Drobak, at the narrowest part of the fiord where it is only 300 yards across.

A 20-man team went to the area today with oil booms in an effort to prevent the oil spreading.

The 18,000-ton warship was sunk with about 1,800 tons of fuel oil aboard, and experts had warned that the salt water would eventually corrode the fuel tanks and release the destructive load.

Tuesday Saw Three Traffic Accidents

Three Tuesday accidents caused an estimated $1,750 damage to motor vehicles and only minor damage to one house.

The first of the three mishaps occurred at the intersection of Chestnut Street and Memorial Drive at 8:15 a.m. Police reported that a car being operated by Robert Earl Foreman, 20, of Rt. 1, Greenville collided with a car operated by Henry Lee Manning of Rt. 6, Greenville.

Damage to the Foreman auto was $600 while damage to the Manning auto was $300.

Police charged Foreman with failure to reduce speed and Manning with failure to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Police also charged Lonnie Gilbert, 19, of Riverfront Apartments in Greenville with careless and reckless driving and no operators license after the car he was driving allegedly swerved to both sides of 14th Street, skidded into a driveway and struck a house at 211 West 14th Street.

The car Gilbert was driving was owned by John Morris Blick of Greensboro. Damage to the car was estimated at $300.

The accident occurred at 3:55 p.m.

Randolph Ennitt of 308 Tyson Street was charged by police with careless and reckless driving in an accident at the intersection of West Third and Vance Streets. The accident occurred at 9:05 p.m.

Ennitt's vehicle allegedly collided with a car operated by Booker T. Vines, of Rt. 4, Greenville. One passenger in the Vines car, Michael Tyrone Vines, one year, was treated for injuries and released from Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Damage to the Vines auto was $300 while damage to the Ennitt car was $250.

Monsoon Rains Batter Large Philippine Area

MANILA (AP) — Monsoon rains continued to batter the northern Philippines today, where eight provinces are already flooded and hundreds of towns and villages are isolated.

"This is the worst and most extensive flood in Luzon since 1960, when the central Luzon area was under water for two months," said Mrs. Loreto Paras Sult, secretary-general of the Philippine Red Cross.

Unofficial reports put the death toll in two weeks of storms at about 70, and government officials estimated property damage at more than $150 million.

At least 367,000 persons have been affected by the floods, and many more are believed homeless or facing hunger or disease, Mrs. Paras Sult said.

Influenza has been reported in many areas.

The Philippine news agency said 50,000 families were threatened with famine in Pampanga Province just north of Manila. Nearly all of Pampanga was under water, in some places five feet deep.

The Greater London area supports 163 weekly newspapers, nting those which circulate nationally.

Pirates Win 4-3; Still On Top

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

Bill Godwin saw his string of 18 consecutive scoreless innings against the Mountaineers of Appalachian State broken last night but still walked away with a win to keep the Pirates on top of the Summer Collegiate Baseball League.

UNC, who was a game behind the Bucs before the contest having beaten them Monday 4-1, was to have played Campbell last night. A loss by the Tar Heels would put the Pirates out by two games.

Godwin went the distance for ECU fanning five and walking two. He scattered six hits. The Mountaineers called on two hurlers, Jeff Creason started and had to be relieved in the seventh with one out. John Mozenski finished the game for ASU but could not help his team take the lead.

Mike Ramsey knocked Godwin's first pitch into left for a hit. He could not come around.

Appalachian did break the ice first as they got a run in the third. The Bucs tied it up in the fourth and went ahead in the fifth getting two. Another ECU run came in in the seventh. That proved to be enough as the Mountaineers pushed over one in the top of the ninth.

East Carolina went to work in the second loading them up but could not quite bring a man in. Larry Walters got his fourth hit in two games to open the inning and Ron Staggs followed with another hit. John Narron was intentionally walked to create a force play but Creason got a strike-out and a pop-up to end the rally.

ASU's first batter in the third, Creason singled to center and moved to third on a hit by Mike Ramsey. Mack Clark lofted a fly ball to left to let Creason score. East Carolina knotted the score, 1-1, in the fourth as Staggs smashed a double center. A walk to Troy Eason put two men on and both advanced on a wild pitch. Ron Leggett hit a slow roller to third that was bobbled. Staggs came in as the throw was nailing Leggett at first.

After Godwin set the Mountaineers down in order in the fifth, the Bucs forged ahead on a pair of tallies. Mike Bradshaw singled to left and was sacrificed up by Jimmy Paige. Walters drew a free pass and Staggs third hit of the night brought in Bradshaw with the go-ahead run. Troy Eason hit a grounder to the first baseman's right. Evans Crocker, covering on the play, overthrew Creason who came over to make the play and Eason was safe. Walters meanwhile, had moved around third. Narron laced a base hit into right scoring Walters easily.

Appalachian could not do anything in the sixth. Paige robbed Ramsey of a sure double. The Pirates got a hit from Bradshaw but he was thrown out trying to steal second. Then in the seventh ASU cut the lead to one, 3-2.

Bob Gentry walked and scored on Steve Anspaugh's rifled double into rightcenter. The Pirates moved back out by two in the bottom of the frame as Ralph Lamm blasted a triple into right. Monzinski came on to pitch and his fourth throw got away from catcher Gentry letting Lamm score standing up.

Mack Clark reached for Appalachian in the seventh as his pop-up to shallow center was dropped as Leggett tried to pull it down over his shoulder. Clark moved to second but Godwin got the next batter to fly out leaving Clark stranded.

Godwin slapped a two-out single in the East Carolina eighth but failed to score.

The Mountaineers pushed over their final run in the ninth. Anspaugh singled an Crocker walked. A hit by Larry Brockmeier drove in Anspaugh but Brockmeier was caught off second. As the Buc infielders moved in to make the kill, Crocker broke for home. Walters made the tag on Crocker and that let the air out of the ASU rally. Godwin fanned the next batter to get the Pirates' 17th win against 8 defeats.

Ramsey led the Appalachian attack with a pair of hits. Bradshaw rapped out three in five trips and Staggs had a perfect night, going three-for-three.

The Pirates travel back to Chapel Hill tonight for a game against the Tar Heels. If UNC won last night over the Camels of Campbell it could be quite a show-down. The Bucs will return home Friday night to host the Hurricanes of UNC-Wilmington at 7:30 in Harrington Field.

Two More Teams Knocked Out Of Sr. Ruth Tourney

Parkway and South Buncombe packed it up and went home yesterday having been eliminated from the Senior Babe Ruth State Tournament last night.

S. Buncombe beat Parkway to send them on their way in a game that had been postponed from the fourth inning Monday. Rain halted play as Parkway was coming to bat. The score at that point was tied at 2 all.

After finishing off Parkway 5-3, Coastal Carolina finished off South Buncombe 2-0. Clark Griffith remained the only unbeaten team as they edged Smokey Mountain 4-2. Clark Griffith will meet the winner of the Smokey Mountain-Coastal Carolina contest (scheduled for 3:00 p.m.) in what may be the championship game. The winner of the 3:00 game will have to meet Clark Griffith at 8 o'clock for what may be the championship game. Should Clark Griffith lose, another game will be necessary to decide the tournament winner. That will be played Thursday at 11 a.m.

South Buncombe had taken the lead against Parkway Monday night in the third with a run. Parkway came back in the bottom of the frame to push over a pair of runs to take the lead. South Buncombe tied it up in the top of the next inning and then the rains came and stopped play. When the game resumed Parkway came to bat but failed to score.

Parkway did take the lead in the fifth as Tommy Smith walked and came around on singles by Don Holder and John Ledbetter.

S. Buncombe rallied for three in the sixth getting the lead back and the win. Rick Houghton and Randy Rogers walked and Bobby Rickman got a hit to drive in Houghton. The ball got by the center-fielder and Rogers galloped around to score. Rickman moved to second and scored on a single and J. D. Hinson.

Hinson had two hits for S. Buncombe and Barry Cook had two for Parkway.

Clark Griffith got all they needed as they went to work in the fifth getting a run. Dean Hyatt walked and moved up on an infield hit by Joel Lattimore.

Steve Tucker slammed a double to score Hyatt.

Clark added another in the fifth as Hyatt slammed a homer.

Two more Clark Griffith runs came across in the sixth. Two walks, to Charles Reed and Earl Armstrong, put two on and error on Mike Smith's grounder let Reed come around. Walks to Hyatt and Ron King forced Armstrong in with the fourth run.

Smokey Mountain threatened in the first and second innings as they got a base hit in each inning but could not bring the runners across. They finally put two runs on the boards in the fourth as a double by Jerry Cagle put a man in scoring position. Bergin Tatham walked and a misplayed fielder's choice let Cagle score. After Van Smith walked, Billie Dehart slapped a long fly to center to sacrifice Tatham over.

Coastal Carolina then dispatched S. Buncombe getting their runs in the fourth inning. John Bullard walked and Frank Floyd was struck by a pitch. Sammy Carter singled to center driving in Bullard and Floyd after both had moved up on a ground out.

Coastal won the game on three hits with one coming at the right time. S. Buncombe had one more hit, four.

Nine Named To NL Staff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — striking out 10. He started the 1970 game but was not involved in the decision. Manager Danny Murtaugh of the National League All-Star team has named nine pitchers to next Tuesday's game, including Steve Blass, who pitched Murtaugh's Pittsburgh Pirates to victory in the seventh game of last year's World Series.

Besides Blass, who has a 10-3 record this year, Murtaugh named league percentage leader Gary Nolan of Cincinnati and major league strikeout leader Steve Carlton of Philadelphia among seven right-handers and two left-handers on the staff for the game in Atlanta.

One pitcher who didn't get named was Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, last year's Cy Young Award winner and a 12-game winner this year.

The other six pitchers on the team are right-handers Tom Seaver of New York, Bill Stoneman of Montreal, Don Sutton of Los Angeles, Clay Carroll of Cincinnati and Bob Gibson of St. Louis and left-hander Tug McGraw of New York.

Murtaugh, who retired because of health problems after last season, picked only three pitchers with previous All-Star experience—Carlton, Seaver and Gibson.

Gibson, who has won his last 10 decisions this season, has pitched in five All-Star games with no won-lost record. He's given up 10 hits and four runs in nine innings.

Seaver, named to the team in each of his six major league seasons, has pitched in three games, yielding no runs and three hits in six innings and

Arlin Misses No-Hit Game In Ninth Inning

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Arlin, the San Diego pitcher who is a dentist in the offseason, was offered a non-dental instrument by Manager Don Zimmer, who thought he had cost his right-handed star a no-hitter.

"Here," said Zimmer, handing Arlin a razor blade and pointing to his own throat, "make it quick."

Arlin pitched 8 2-3 innings of no-hit baseball Tuesday night before giving up two hits in the ninth inning. The Padres beat Philadelphia 5-1 but the loss of the no-hitter was a letdown for the 26-year-old pitcher, his manager and teammates.

Phillies' infielder Denny Doyle stroked a single over the head of third baseman Dave Roberts to break up Arlin's bid. The pitcher was unnerved and balked, then gave up another hit to Tom Hutton, which scored a run.

"I messed it up," said Zimmer. "I had Roberts playing in. If he plays back, he fields the ball. I messed it up."

In other National League games, San Francisco blanked Montreal 3-0, Houston thumped St. Louis 11-3, Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 4-2, Chicago edged Cincinnati 2-1 and Los Angeles trimmed New York 2-1.

In the American League, it was Baltimore 2, Texas 1 in 15 innings; Detroit 4, Chicago 3 in 11; New York 6, Minnesota 0; Boston 4, California 1. Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Cleveland, 6-5 and 11-8. Oakland won the first game of their pair with Milwaukee 4-0 but the Brewers won the nightcap 7-4.

Arlin got plenty of offensive help from Nate Colbert, who drove in three runs with a double and his 21st homer of the season. He also got an outstanding defensive play from second baseman Derrel Thomas, who stopped Doyle's grounder in the hole in the sixth and threw to first while sitting on the ground.

San Francisco left-hander Ron Bryant's four-hit pitching gave him his fifth straight victory and brought his record to 8-4. He struck out four Montreal players and walked just two. Rookie Garry Maddox backed Bryant with a two-run homer, his seventh of the season. The Giants' final run came when, with a man on third, Expo starter and loser Balor Moore, 1-4, balked.

Cesar Cedeno and Lee May each drove home two runs with homers and Jim Wynn added a pair with a double for Houston. Ted Simmons' three-run double had given St. Louis a 3-2 lead before Cedeno laced his inside-the-park circuit. Two infield errors and a passed ball helped the Astros rally for four runs in the eighth.

Atlanta used a Ralph Garr double, an error and an infield out to come from behind Pittsburgh. The Braves increased their margin to 4-1 in the seventh on Earl Williams' 14th homer and the Pirates added a run on two singles and a sacrifice fly by Al Oliver.

Billy Williams stroked his 21st homer to give the Chicago Cubs the winning run in their 10-inning battle with Cincinnati. Ferguson Jenkins gave up Tony Perez' 15th homer and was in trouble often but managed to record his 12th victory. Ron Santo drove home the Cubs' first run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly.

Frank Robinson ended a 10-inning battle in Los Angeles with his 11th homer. The All-Star outfielder's blast came with two outs and landed in the left-field bullpen. New York scored an unearned run in the first and the Dodgers came back in the fourth with an unearned run of their own to send the game into a deadlock.

UNC Wins

Carolina won a 6-2 contest from the Camels of Campbell College last night to remain hot on the heels of East Carolina's Pirates.

UNC is now 16-9 while ECU is a game in front at 17-8.

The two teams will meet tonight in Chapel Hill. Should the Pirates win, they will have a two game margin over the Tar Heels.

St. Gabriel's Takes Win

St. Gabriel's beat 1st Christian last night in the only game in the American division Church League tournament, 7-5.

Christian jumped into the lead in the first with four runs. St. Gabriel came back to get three in the top of the second. They pushed over four in the fifth to take the win. Ward walked and scored on a double by Lopex. Another two-bagger, by Doug McReynolds, scored Lopez and a hit by Colorado drive Moore slapped a double to bring in Colorado.

St. Gabriel will next meet powerhouse Meadowbrook, the regular season winners tonight.

Immanuel, Trinity Drop Tournament Games

Immanuel and Trinity suffered first round losses last night in the National Church Division tournament.

Immanuel lost to Mt. Pleasant 12-2 and Oakmont beat Trinity 13-8.

Mt. Pleasant broke into the lead in the first with a pair of runs. They pushed over the winner in the fifth. Immanuel had tied it up in the fourth as L.G. Catlett reached on a fielder's choice and Bert Aycock walked. Both scored on a hit by Kenny Raper.

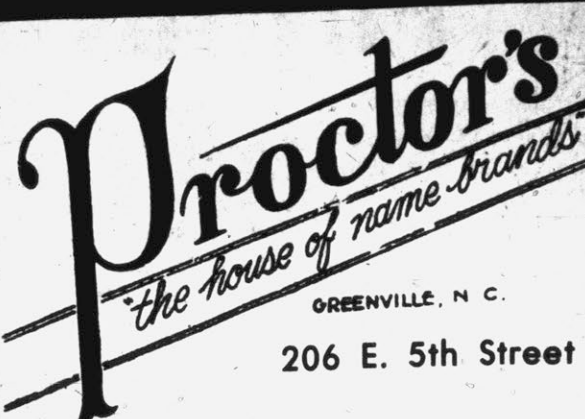

Mt. Pleasant then took the lead and the game. G. Raper doubled and H. Burners singled him in. Wallace doubled to drive in Burners and a double by Worthington scored Wallace. A hit by Bullock scored Worthington.

Mt. Pleasant added five more in the sixth.

Trinity took the lead in the first on two runs. Oakmont put one up on the scoreboard in the bottom of the frame. Trinity built their lead to 5-1 in the second with three runs. Again, Oakmont countered with two of their own. Trinity continued to roll along adding two more in the fourth and one in the fifth, a homer by Jim Adams, but could not hold down a sixth inning. Oakmont rally that tied it up.

The winning run came across for Oakmont in the seventh as Carraway doubled and scored on Grace tonight and Mt. Pleasant takes on regular season champs Oakmont will advance to play Black Jack.

American League Has Pretty Good Outfield

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now, about the American League's starting outfield in next Tuesday's All Star baseball game. The names are Carl Yastrzemski, Bobby Murcer and Reggie Jackson—three pretty good ones.

Now, about the top three batters in the American League today. The names are outfielders Richie Scheinblum, Lou Piniella and Amos Otis—and Kansas City thinks they're three pretty good ones too.

Cleveland will agree today after absorbing a 6-5, 11-8 doubleheader sweep from the Royals Tuesday night with the three KC outfielders playing key offensive roles.

Piniella led the attack with six hits in the doubleheader including a homer. He drove in five runs and scored two. Otis scored twice in each game and Scheinblum drove in one run in the opener and scored two in the nightcap.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, New York blanked Minnesota 6-0, Boston trimmed California 4-1, Baltimore nipped Texas 2-1 in 15 innings, Detroit edged Chicago 4-3 in 11 innings and Oakland split a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning the first game 4-0 but losing the second 7-4.

In the National League, San Diego's Steve Arlin came with in one pitch of a no-hitter but settled for a two-hitter and a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia. Chicago topped Cincinnati 2-1 in 10 innings, Atlanta stopped Pittsburgh 4-2, Houston walloped St. Louis 11-3, San Francisco shut out Montreal 3-0 and Los Angeles topped New York 2-1 in 10 innings.

Scheinblum still leads the AL hitters with a .328 average but Piniella's big night left him just three percentage points behind at .325. Otis is No. 3 with .311.

Kansas City collected 25 hits in the doubleheader, running through five Cleveland pitchers in the first game and four in the nightcap.

Piniella's second double of the opener scored Kansas City's winning run in the eighth inning of the first game. Scheinblum opened the eighth with a walk and John Mayberry singled pinch runner Steve Hovley to third before Piniella delivered his hit.

In the second game, Piniella completed his six-hit night with a single and homer as the Royals finished the sweep.

The Yankees busted out of a four-game losing streak with three homers powering Steve Kline's six-hit victory over Minnesota.

Thurman Munson had a two-run shot and Ron Blomberg connected with two on in the third inning, giving Kline, 9-4, a comfortable five-run lead. Murcer hit his 11th of the year in the eighth for New York.

Sonny Siebert won his first game in a month, pitching Boston past California and Nolan Ryan with a four-hitter. Siebert had not won since June 19.

Boston bunched three runs in the second inning with hits by Rico Petrocelli, Danny Cater and Tommy Harper keying the rally. That was enough for Siebert, 8-5, to best Ryan, 11-7.

Catfish Hunter's five-hitter gave Oakland its first-game victory over Milwaukee. Reggie Jackson drove in two runs for the A's with his 18th homer and a double.

But the Brewers salvaged the split as Jim Lonborg survived a pair of homers by Mike Epstein to record his eighth victory of the season with last-out help from Frank Linzy.

Milwaukee bunched three runs in the first inning and three more in the sixth to make Lonborg's job easy.

Detroit remained one game in front of Baltimore in the AL East as both clubs won. The Tigers went 11 innings to beat Chicago for their ninth victory in the last 10 games while Baltimore went 15 to nip Texas for the Orioles' sixth straight triumph.

Joe Coleman held Chicago without a hit for six innings but the White Sox broke that up on Dick Allen's leadoff triple in the seventh, a ball misjudged by center fielder Mickey Stanley.

The Sox knocked Coleman out in the eighth, tying the score at 3-3 and it stayed that way until the 11th. Then Stanley tripled with one out and came home on Ed Brinkman's sacrifice fly for the deciding run.

Brooks Robinson was the Orioles' hero in Texas, delivering a single to deliver Bobby Grich with Baltimore's winning run in the 15th inning against the Rangers. Grich had doubled.

The first National League baseball game was played April 22, 1876 at Philadelphia. Boston won 6-5.

Winners Move Up

The Little Mint and Beltone advanced in the winner's bracket of the Ladies Softball League Tournament last night while Three Steers remained alive with a victory in the loser's bracket.

Little Mint dropped Piggly-Wiggly 8-4. Beltone turned back Coca-Cola 5-4, and Three Steers eliminated Azalea from further competition by winning 14-4.

Seven runs in the first two innings were too much for Piggly-Wiggly to overcome last night as Little Mint turned back a sixth-inning, four-run rally to gain the win.

After jumping out to a two-run lead in the first inning, Little Mint came back with five in the second to nail down the victory. Hits by Darlene Briley, Wanda Oakley, Cheyenne Kelly and Laura Kilpatrick accounted for two runs in the second while a fielder's choice, a triple by Carol Manuel and a ground out accounted for three more.

Piggly Wiggly did all its scoring in the sixth with four and Little Mint added one more in the fourth.

Beltone scored two in the fifth inning to take a 5-1 lead and Coke fell one short with a three-run sixth-inning rally. Beltone wrapped up the game on a double by Joyce Sawyer and two-run homer by Cynthia Averett.

Three-Steers did its scoring in bunches last night and gained the win with a four-run outburst in the fourth inning. After taking a 4-2 lead in the third inning, Three-Steers pushed across four in the fourth to seal the win. A walk to Cissie Owens and hits by Sylvia Jefferson and Judy Dunn brought in two runs. Singles by Beth Harrington and Sandy Hardee brought in another run and Tink Grenwell's double scored the fourth run of the inning. Ten more were added by Three Steers while Azalea got two more runs for the 14-4 total.

Thursday night, Little Mint meets Beltone while Piggly Wiggly takes on Three Steers in a loser's bracket match.

Safe At The Plate

Atlanta Braves' pitcher Ron Reed slides safely at home plate ahead of the throw to Pirates' catcher Manny Sanguillen during the fifth inning in Pittsburgh last night. Play came with Reed at third when

Earl Williams hit a grounder to Jose Pagan at third, who bobbled the bouncer for an error, The Braves won 4-2. (AP Wirephoto)

Ali Expects Tough Fight

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, keeping his normal pre-fight blarney under wraps, says he expects tonight's heavyweight bout against Al "Blue" Lewis to be a tough one.

"I'm not taking Al Lewis cheaply," Ali said, "This boy is big and strong, make no mistake about that."

Ali was still trying to shake off a heavy cold which forced him to cut short his final preparation.

Lewis, of Detroit, vowed he was "going to finish Ali."

"I'm as big as he is," said Lewis. "I'm stronger than he is, and I'm fast too. He had better not drop his hands and start fooling with me."

The fight is scheduled for 3:45 p.m., EDT, and promoters are hoping for a crowd of 40,000 in open-air Croke Stadium.

Big time boxing comes to the Emerald Isle rarely and hardly anyone expected this fight would actually take place until Ali stepped onto the tarmac at Dublin Airport.

Since then, ripples of excitement have spread around the country.

Pundits have had to scratch their heads hard to come up with a comparable boxing occasion. Most settled for St. Patrick's Day in 1923. That was when Battling Siki, the world light heavyweight champion from French West Africa, laid his title on the line here and lost it to Mike McTigue.

Ben Schwartzwalder is heading for his 24th season as Syracuse University football coach.

Forced Hiring Plan Continues To Face Obstacles

By ROLAND DRAUGHON
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—
"You can't call me 'boy'—then tell me you mean 'apprentice boy'."

Those are the words of an angry, young black man.
He's Nate Brown, a 27-year-old plumber's apprentice who has worked more than three years under the federal government's Philadelphia Plan.

The Philadelphia Plan was set up in 1969 to integrate white-only building trade unions.

Since that time, the number of blacks integrated into the unions is either exceptional or deplorable, depending on whom you talk to.

Blacks worked 13.4 per cent of all federal construction in Philadelphia's five-county area in 1971, according to a report from the U.S. Labor Department. That exceeded last year's goal of a 9.8 per cent average.

So statistically the model integration project is not just a success, but it's ahead of schedule.

But blacks and civil rights organizations say the statistics mask what has really happened.

Blacks worked 165,802 man-hours out of 1,233,378 total man-

Oddities Among The Early Cars

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—
Among the early cars was the Octoauto, an eight-wheeled vehicle.

The National Automobile Club said other early curiosities included the four-wheel Auto-cycle, which had wheels in the middle on each side as well as at the front and rear.

hours worked last year, the federal report said.

A normal work year for tradesmen is between 1,700 and 1-900 man-hours, according to the General Building Contractors Association.

In 1969 the city Human Relations Commission found 85 blacks out of more than 9,000 men in five of the building trade unions.

Thus, 88 black tradesmen, only three more than found in 1969, working an average of 1-900 manhours each, would post more hours than the 165,802 cited by the Labor Department for blacks last year.

Figures on the number of blacks in the unions are not available, the department said.
And the number is a well-kept secret among the unions. There are currently "eight or nine" blacks in Elevator Constructors Local No. 5, said Robert Williams, local manager.

Williams refused, however, to give a reporter their names and phone numbers. "Our members don't like for us to give out that information," he said.

The federal report covered 126 projects valued at $554.9 million. Only one craft—the steamfitters—failed to meet its minimum goal for 1971.

British Divorce Rated Doubled

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's divorce rate more than doubled in the 1960's according to the Registrar General's office.

Statistics indicate that a teenager is about twice as likely to get divorced than people who marry older, and a girl in her teens has the best chance of staying married if she picks a man aged 34 or older.

Minority steamfitters worked only 18,010 of the 184,007 total manhours worked, or about 10 per cent instead of the 11-15 per cent set for that craft.

The forced-hiring project was

Borgnine's 4th Wife Is Costly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernest Borgnine's fourth wife has received a divorce and the 55-year-old actor signed an agreement to divide community property estimated at $600,000.

Donna Ann Borgnine, 39, will receive 10 per cent of his gross income for the next five years, half the proceeds from the sale of their $225,000 Beverly Hills home, an eighth of the income from reruns of Borgnine's television series "McHale's Navy" and $500 a month child support for the Borgnines' two children.

federal imposed on the five-county area after the commission reported that minorities represented, in some cases, as little as .5 per cent of an individual union's membership in a city 34 per cent black.

Six trades here were tagged "critically" lacking minority representation: ironworkers, electricians, plumbers, sheet-metal workers, steamfitters and elevator constructors.

The Philadelphia Plan requires that contractors on federal projects exceeding $500,000 guarantee that minorities perform a graduated percentage of the total labor.

The project has been under fire from contractors and unions since it began. Now blacks attack it as an empty gesture on the part of the federal government.

Contractors argued it violated the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Hiring percentages were called "quotas"—prohibited in the act.

The U.S. Supreme Court turned down an appeal last October from a group of contractors contesting a lower court ruling upholding the plan's legality.

The high court ruling should have pushed the project forward. It didn't.

What the forced hiring has accomplished and where the project is headed continues to be the subject of a running dispute among blacks, unions, contractors and federal officials.

Officials of the six critical trade locals generally don't like to discuss the project. When it is discussed, the hiring percentages are attacked.

"It's the best piece of union-busting material that has come out since Taft-Hartley," said Williams of the elevator constructors.

"We don't think a man should have the right to work because of the color of his skin," Williams said. "We don't think unqualified workers should be hired over qualified workers.

And that's what's happening in the Philadelphia Plan."

"These people are not really accepted on the jobs," Williams added, referring to blacks hired through the project. "When we take them and train them, then they're accepted, but not if they're jammed (forced on the unions)."

Blacks charge that because of lax federal enforcement, the project has increased neither the number of blacks in the unions nor the number actually put to work.

Contractors and unions have sidestepped plan guidelines, blacks charge, by not admitting many of their race into the unions and instead taking a few blacks and "working them to death" in order to fulfill man-hour requirements.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to make sure of all your facts and figures now, for there is likely to be some misunderstanding with others. This applies also to using the wrong word that could give an impression different from what you intend. Search for errors in bookkeeping, and look to others' viewpoints.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Showing devotion to the one you love and doing your utmost to help him or her is your best bet today. A little time spent going over your bills and handling them properly is wise. Don't add to present expenses.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk that new deal over with associates and reach right conclusions. Showing more devotion to your good friends brings fine results now. Evening is excellent for social matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget other activities and busy yourself with duties at hand and get them behind you quickly, well. Free more future time. Take the right treatments that will give you the added strength you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Since there is nothing really important to do in p.m., get out and have the fun you want. Handle routine work early. Delve into hobbies you like during free time, also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of basic matters in your life so you have a feeling of security and sureness. Do those small chores at home that are necessary. Evening is fine for rest and relaxation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talking over some plan with associates during a.m. can bring excellent results now. Show you are most cooperative. Get that writing, reading and studying done that is of importance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Financial affairs should be first on your mind this morning and you can handle them well. Show you have good common sense. Get sound advice from a business expert about some liability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to complete any personal affairs you have started and can be very effective at them. Take the treatments that improve health. Getting together with congenials for fun in p.m. is fine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to plan the future better and can do so with the help of those who can give you the right advice. You have a good hunch about some fascinating situation not yet in evidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact friends socially you have not seen in a long time and good things can come of this. Accepting invitations to group activities is wise. Dress your best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Gaining the backing of a higher-up where some public matter is concerned is quite easy today, especially in a.m. Pay bills and improve credit. Avoid one who argues.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can extend your outlets far beyond their present limits if you have to travel to gain the cooperation of others. Listening to the suggestions of clever people will be most helpful to you. Avoid one who argues.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people with a mind few can change once a decision is reached, so be sure while young to give the finest principles and tenets for directing the life; then your child can be a success instead of a failure. Teach early to cooperate with others, as there is a desire to make a great deal of money during the lifetime. Send to the finest college you can afford.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Artist's Garden Is Like A Nightmare

By DAVID SPURR
LESKOVAC, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Visiting Bogosav Zivkovic's garden is like walking through a nightmare.

A creature half dog, half fish stares through the fence. A hollow-chested witch scatters demons to the wind. A snake is changing itself into a tree.

"I did not invent them. They are all from my dreams," said the white-haired painter and sculptor as he motioned to the bizarre stone and wood carvings that decorate his backyard in this tiny village in the Serbian hills behind Belgrade.

Zivkovic, 52, is a leading representative of Yugoslavia's "naive" school of artists who paint and carve in a primitive style whose roots can be traced back hundreds of years in the Balkan hill country. He has transformed Leskovac into an important art center.

Realism Shunned
The naive style traditionally shuns too much detail or realism, and usually depicts scenes from peasant life, from the bloody history of the Balkans, or from the artist's imagination.

Zivkovic's memory provides ample material from his nightmares. As a guerrilla member of Marshall Tito's Communist Partisans during World War II, he was captured and tortured in Leskovac by Chetniks (Royalists), the rival guerrilla group which collaborated with the Germans.

After the war, Zivkovic went back to herding sheep and hogs for a while, and worked for a time as a clerk in a local government office.

"Then one day, I simply decided to put down what I had seen in my dreams," Zivkovic said. That was in 1957, when he was 37. Since then Zivkovic has turned a good part of the entire village of Leskovac into a naive artist's colony.

Zivkovic's youngest student is Milenko Zivkovic, 22. "I'm a farmer from down the road—not related to the Zivkovics of Leskovac," said the dark-haired youth.

Milenko displayed an elaborate carving hung on the wall that described in detail the entire process of distilling slivovitz—Yugoslav plum brandy.

Another student, Ivan Popovic, showed a carving of a frightened looking woman with devils flying out of her body. "This is called 'Woman Without a Heart,'" Popovic said.

Artists Money Wise
Along with Kovacica in Vojvodina province north of Belgrade, Leskovac has become a major center for naive artists in Yugoslavia, who aren't all that naive when it comes down to dollars and dinars.

The most commercial primitive artists do a booming business every summer with western European vacationers on the Adriatic coast, government tourism officials said. One U.S. diplomat in Belgrade complained of being shown nothing but color slides when he visited an artist's studio. The idea was to choose a painting from among the slides projected on the wall, and the artist would then sit down to paint an identical work.

An average sized work by Zivkovic, who has exhibited everywhere from Vienna to Chattanooga, Tenn., runs easily into the hundreds of dollars.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's first underground nuclear explosion was set off in Nevada Sept. 19, 1957.

Musical Special

On WNCT Radio

WNCT Radio in Greenville will broadcast the widely acclaimed 50-hour documentary "The History of Rock & Roll" each Sunday for 10 weeks beginning July 23 from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Over 12,000 man-hours of work in research, writing and production are said involved in the presentation.

In addition to playing contributions by the pop and rock greats, the "History" includes a number of interviews with legendary performers, living and dead.

Taped copies of this radio milestone have been donated to the Library of Congress, Lincoln Center, the Music Libraries of Juilliard, Harvard and other leading centers.

The Civil War began April 12, 1861 with the bombardment by Confederates of Fort Sumter.

Another Law On

Record Piracy

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia has a new law making it illegal to manufacture, distribute or sell wholesale any recording with knowledge that the sounds have been transferred to the recording without consent of the owner.
This brings to 10 the number of states which have anti-piracy laws. The others are New York, California, Arizona, Arkansas, Tennessee, Florida, Texas, Washington and Pennsylvania.
The Federal Copyright Amendment which became law last Oct. 15 only grants copyright protection to recordings issued after Feb. 15, 1972. Pirated records from recordings issued before that have to be protected under state laws.

Mobile Medical Van Helps Doctors In House Calls

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—It's become an accepted fact of life that most doctors don't—or hardly ever will—make house calls.

And that means, according to one health care expert, that patients who become ill or get sicker during the night or weekend either go to a hospital emergency room or just ignore the problem until morning.

"Frankly, many times it doesn't matter if the problem is put off, because a lot of things get better by themselves," says Dr. Gary London, 35, director of health services of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) from 1967 to 1970.

"Other problems get worse when they are ignored, but going to an emergency room sometimes can be overtreatment. Patients do quite often require attention in their homes."

Back in 1965, when London, like a lot of other young residents, was supplementing his income by moonlighting in emergency rooms, he realized there was a need for more doctors to make house calls.

Source Of Extra Money

He reasoned that those same residents who were willing to work in the emergency rooms during undesirable hours could make house calls, and that there might be a cadre of other doctors—semi-retired or just building up a practice—who might want to make extra money by working nights.

The result is a service called "Physicians on Call" (POC), operating nights, weekends and holidays in the Los Angeles area, and taking the emergency calls for some 150 physician-subscribers.

The doctors pay $150 a month for the privilege of having their answering services turn over to Physicians on Call queries for patients who express a desire to talk to the doctor right away.

The patient is billed directly if a house call is needed, but there is no charge if a telephone consultation is sufficient.

From 6 p.m. to 6 a.m., a paramedic sits on the switchboard in POC's Century City highrise headquarters. He takes down the patient's name, address and symptoms, and then turns the call over to a doctor in a nearby room.

The physician, who can make $10,000 or $15,000 extra a year by working two nights a week, discusses the problem with the patient. He determines whether the patient needs reassurance, medication, a house call, or should be advised to go to the nearest emergency room.

If a house call is recommended, and desired by the patient, a mobile van is radio-dispatched to the patient's home. The van, which cruises the area awaiting calls, is equipped with such sophisticated medical facilities as electrocardiograph machines and equipment for testing blood.

Basic $25 Price

A house call costs the patient $25, but the price goes up if an injection or special treatment is needed.

Riding in the van are a paramedic-driver, who is sometimes a foreign doctor not yet licensed in California, and another licensed physician.

POC fields about 1,500 calls a month for its physician-subscribers, and makes nine or ten house calls a night. Ninety-five per cent of the calls come in before midnight, but the five per cent in the wee hours more frequently are true emergencies.

On a recent evening the physician on telephone duty—a young father of two in the second year of a psychiatry residency at a nearby veteran's hospital—prescribed medication for a four-year-old suffering from dry heaves.

Next he answered a call from a young man with a suspected case of poison oak. The physician sent the van out to confirm the diagnosis before prescribing treatment and the call was completed in less than an hour.

After consultation with the patient's own doctor, a 44-year-old heart patient who reported he was urinating blood was hospitalized, and a 49-year-old man with a strep throat was advised the discomfort he was feeling was nothing out of the ordinary and the medication he had already begun would soon take effect.

The mobile van was sent to the home of a patient suffering an apparent hypertensive crisis.

The previous evening the service had received two calls from patients suffering from heart attacks and the doctor in the mobile unit had saved one of the life of one of the callers.

"What we are trying to do," London said, "is to provide an intermediary emergency service. We want to keep patients in contact with doctors on a 24-hour basis."

May Be Losing Tax Deduction German Might Be British King

NEW YORK (UPI)—If every year in the spring cleaning time you toss out "junk," you may be throwing out a tax deduction or two. If you give the things to a recognized charity you're entitled to a charitable deduction, the size depending on the fair market value of the property at the time it is donated. Ask for a written appraisal from the charity to be on firm ground, suggests Prentice-Hall, publisher of tax information.

HANNOVER, Germany (UPI)—If the British royal succession barred the throne to princesses, as was common in some kingdoms, the present sovereign would be 57-year-old German Duke Ernest August of Brunswick instead of Elizabeth II.

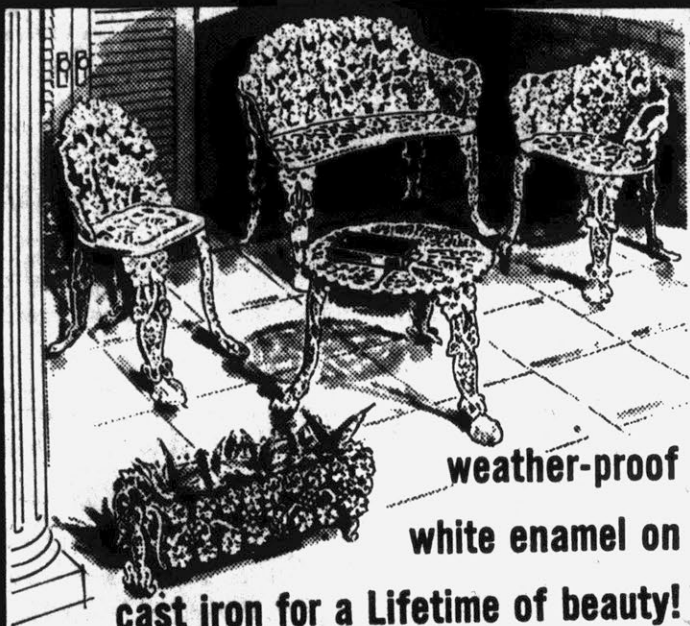

The Dukes of Brunswick were the Kings of Hannover prior to Bismarck's confederation of Germany in 1866.

They Laughed At Idea Of The Nashville Brass

By NANCE SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Trumpeter Danny Davis, affable leader of the Nashville Brass, worked only one day of his life outside the music business—as a stock boy in a store.

"I ran my fanny off," he laughs, "and decided that was for the birds."

Davis, who is about as country as pheasant under glass, many years and many jobs in the music business later, recalled that one day as easily as if it were yesterday.

The innovator of his group's unique sound—combining horns with a Nashville rhythm section—is a man who took a long time getting ready for what he achieved in a short while.

His eight-year idea of putting horns in country music got to be a joke. "You're nuts," he says recording company officials told him. "Country people hate horns and pope people hate country songs."

"Back in the days when I used to come to Nashville to produce records for artists, I'd go back to New York with what I thought was a dynamic idea," he said. "I went to the president of MGM and I told him, 'Give me $3,000 worth of budget and I'll bring you back an album I guarantee will sell.'"

"I told him I wanted to take country songs, a bluegrass banjo and a legitimate brass section and combine them and call them country brass." The head of the firm—and everybody else—laughed, Davis said.

After leaving MGM, where he was a top flight producer for artists such as Connie Francis, Davis began working with RCA.

"The first thing I did was tell them about my idea ... and they laughed and gave me the same ole excuses," he said. "So it lay in the back of my mind all of that time."

After he moved to Nashville in January 1968 as executive assistant to Chet Atkins, head of RCA's Nashville operations, Davis told him about his idea. He recalled the master guitarist telling him, "It's sensational, go do it."

In August of that year, the Nashville Brass was organized. Now four years later, the group has won award after award, recorded hit after hit, played for audiences from state fairs to symphony halls.

"I can't describe the feeling on stage when the whole show is working and you know you've got the complete attention of the audience and that they're with you—that's euphoric."

"It's like a shock wave that comes out from the audience and you feel it," Davis beams while making sweeping gestures with his hands.

"I do exactly the same show no matter who the audience is. We played the New York State Fair in Syracuse and broke all existing records and we did exactly the same show in Birmingham."

Davis believes that the spontaneity of the Nashville

Brass sound in person is its key to winning all kinds of audiences.

"It doesn't matter what you do as long as you have that enthusiasm on stage. The Brass sound is a happy one, a fun sounding thing with a whole barrel full of amateur enthusiasm surrounding it."

The vivacious Massachusetts native says he gives the eight members of the group a pep talk before each show.

"I say, 'Look, what the audience gets from us is that we're obviously having a ball on stage enjoying it and you gotta stay in that frame of mind because if you can't project that you're having fun, you're not going to reach those people out there.'"

But being leader of the Brass is not the only hat Davis wears. He's one of the most successful record producers around. He produces a diverse group—ranging from gospel singer George Beverly Shea to country artist Diana Trask to a hard rock singer from Canada.

"I have a reason for that," Davis said, "I feel that a really good producer is one who tries to keep his finger on all segments of music."

"By thinking upon gospel music for example, it opens up new channels of thought to me—things that I adapt to the Brass field."

"I want to stay in all fields of the music business and I think that has a little bit to do with the fact that the in-person performance of the Brass is so successful."

Davis, grinning that grin he usually wears, conceded after a lot of thought that if he had ever gone into any other field, it probably would have been politics or public relations.

He says he finds politics fascinating, but declines comment on specifics of the subject.

Harold Robbins Became Bicycle Theft Plague Hits West Writer After A 'Dare'

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Looking back down a trail marked by nearly 100 million copies of his novels sold, Harold Robbins remarks with a smile that he became a writer because of a dare.

The 56-year-old Robbins, 30 then, and vice president of budget and planning at a film studio, recalls that, "I complained about the price paid for a novel that I didn't think could be made into a good movie and said I could write a a better book than that."

"I was challenged to do so, and I did. I had an idea, and I worked on it for a year, and I had my first novel, 'Never Love A Stranger.'"

"I was lucky. The book was published when I was 32, and it sold. In fact, it's still the biggest selling book I've ever written, although 'A Stone for Danny Fisher' is pretty close behind."

Robbins, a casually-clad, relaxed man, says he continued to work at the studio while turning out other novels—"The Dream Mercants," "Never Leave Me"—but eventually decided to write fulltime because "even though I had a great job I got tired of going to the office. Also, I'd made enough from my books to become independent."

Robbins, whose latest novel is "The Betsy", has published 11 novels over the years. He says that "as of the end of 1971 they'd sold 93 million copies of my books. Sometime in July or August of this year someone will buy the 100 millionth copy. Even though I've never had a book club, my books still average between 115,000 and 150,000 in hard bound sales."

To what does he attribute the success of his novels? Says Robbins, "I don't know. Really I don't."

"They even do well in other countries also—they've been translated into 37 languages—and I don't know why they sell so well because basically they are American stories. It's peculiar."

LEAPFROG
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Communications bounced off satellites are enabling undeveloped nations to "leap frog" over such costly techniques as cable laying and message relay towers, according to aerospace industry spokesmen.

Won't Fill Out A Questionnaire

SARATOGA, Calif. (AP) — Marshall S. Hall says there are reasons why he won't fill out a questionnaire he received about his eligibility for jury duty.

First of all, he's hardly eligible. He's presiding judge of Santa Clara County Superior Court.

Jury Commissioner Paul Steeling explained that Hall's name had been picked with several thousand others by a computer, at random.

But Hall said that if he filled out the questionnaire he'd probably get a summons and a pamphlet explaining jury duty.

"I'd be ashamed to read it," he said. "I wrote it a number of years ago."

There also was a workshop on economic survival. A newsletter for older women is called Prime Time. It is edited by Marjory Collins of Brooklyn, N.Y., a conference participant.

HAZARDOUS HOME
NEW YORK (UPI) — It's safer at work than it is at home. The Health Insurance Institute says so, basing the statement on an analysis of National Safety Council data. Last year there were 2.2 million disabling on-the-job injuries — compared with 3.1 million disabling injuries off the job, many in the home.

Bank of America, world's largest, says it would take three Los Angeles-sized cities to house the persons it serves in California alone.

theft was a minor problem. Thieves generally had transportation, not money, in mind. But in 1971 an estimated 400,000 to 500,000 bikes valued at up to $30 million were stolen. In some areas of the state the increase since 1969 has been 300 per cent.

Caution Against Over-Exposure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two of every three Americans are exposed to one or more x-ray examinations annually. The federal government is conducting a campaign to make sure that these persons don't get more exposure than necessary. The main concern: the danger to health posed by too much radiation. Some authorities feel many persons receive more x-rays than they should.

Adopt In-State

Tuition Slash
CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — In a departure from the trend to increase college and university tuitions, the New Hampshire Board of Trustees has voted to decrease in-state tuition by five per cent at the state colleges and the University of New Hampshire.

The trustees were able to effect the reduction because the New Hampshire legislature, meeting in special session, granted the public institutions a supplementary budget of $405,000.

The figures aren't exact—and that's part of the problem. There is no statewide bike licensing or listing of stolen bicycles.

One advantage for the thief: the stakes are not as high as in other kinds of theft. One official says this has attracted drug addicts to the business: "If an addict breaks into a house and steals a television set, that's a felony. Bike theft is a misdemeanor."

Still another advantage: Authorities have a hard time proving a bike is stolen. And another: there is a ready market and thieves try to fill a demand rate that often exceeds the supply.

"I stole 300 bikes," one former thief anonymously told a Los Angeles Times reporter recently. "On my best night I stole 15. They were easy to steal and easy to sell. I took orders and always ran about 10 behind. Everybody who gave me orders knew it was a rip-off."

The 24-year-old thief, who holds a University of California degree in history, said he would pick out a bike he wanted, cut the lock or chain with bolt cutters, ride it away, stash it in a bush and pick it up later.

Most of his customers, he said, were "upper middle-class students, pretty straight kids." He said he also sold to secretaries, teaching assistants and a coach.

Officials say a 10-speed bike

Seal Rear Exits On Big Trijets

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines says it has permanently sealed the rear exit doors on all 72 of its trijet Boeing 727 passenger planes in an effort to discourage hijack attempts.

The Boeing 727 has been involved in a number of hijackings by sky pirates demanding ransom and parachutes. The rear exit can be used as an escape hatch by a parachutist with relative safety.

TWA announced the alteration of the rear doors Monday. "They're sealed for good and there is no way anyone can get out that way," an airline spokesman added.

that cost $100 to $500 new, can be had for about $72 "hot."

Very few stolen bikes are recovered. In Los Angeles County, where 51,000 were stolen last year, fewer than one in seven turned up.

There are proposals in the state legislature to slow the thieves. One would introduce mandatory statewide bike licensing and record keeping.

Police say they catch few thieves except juveniles, and many of those remain free on probation if convicted.

Will Represent Farmville School

Mrs. Julia Satterfield of Farmville will represent Farmville Central High School in a special workshop July 24-27 for selected advisers and members of Future Homemakers of America.

The session will be held on the campus of East Carolina University, Home Economics building.

The theme for the conference will be "Let's Make Tomorrow Together", exploring ways and means to develop better leadership within the organization.

The Worry Clinic Common Sense For Lazy People

Amy's tragedy could have been avoided if high schoolers were exposed to a semester of "Medical Horse Sense." Hundreds die annually because laymen are kept in ignorance of the simple 60-second medical technique that could have saved Amy!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-538: Amy G., aged 11 months, died en route to the hospital.

"She had a bad cold," her mother tearfully explained. "So I gave her an aspirin tablet.

"But she choked on it and turned purple.

"I called the fire department, who took her to the hospital in an ambulance, but she died on the way.

"Oh, Dr. Crane, I feel as if I had killed my own child. How can I ever get over this awful remorse?"

We must gain solace by realizing that even when we do the best we know how, the batting averages occasionally go against us.

A baseball manager in the 9th inning, with the bases loaded, could win the game if the pinch hitter he sends to the plate will make a base hit.

So the manager will lift the pitcher (usually a poor batter) and try to insert a .300 hitter. Alas, even that .300 hitter misses 2 times out of 3! So he probably fails to score a run. And that pitcher just MIGHT have slugged a home run. But the manager obviously must play the batting averages, for we human beings are not omniscient.

Same goes with being a good parent. Even when we do the best we know how, things sometimes foul up our plans for our children.

A drunken driver may thus smash into a school bus and kill 6 or 8 innocent kiddies. Good parents should also read this and other educational newspaper features to alert themselves to many specific dangers in their homes.

Several times I have warned you against taking a whole aspirin tablet into your mouth! Instead, pulverize the tablet first!

For a whole tablet may occasionally produce choking, as in Amy's tragic example.

But it also may land on a raw spot of the stomach wall and then erode into a blood vessel. This is one of the reasons for a perforating ulcer that causes blood to spurt into the stomach. Besides, aspirin is medically NOT the remedy for "flu" or the common colds!

"But, Dr. Crane," you may exclaim, "don't the TV commercials urge the use of aspirin and other aspirin compounds to reduce fever?"

Yes, but that is a sad medical error, for fever is your body's great ally! Unless it approaches 105 degrees Fahrenheit, be grateful for the fever and don't try to lower it by artificial means.

For fever speeds up the development of your white blood corpuscles, which are the "medics" floating around in your blood. Meanwhile, fever slows down the rate of multiplication of germs!

So fever aids your defensive forces and hampers the invading enemy!

Aspirin reduces pain, but pain is usually not severe in "flu" and a hot water bottle can speed up your recovery faster than aspirin!

High schools thus need to have a semester course on "Medical Horse Sense."

Then, as in Amy's crisis, laymen in 60 seconds could open the windpipe and restore breathing to the hundreds who choke to death every year on meat, buttons, and even aspirin tablets!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1972.

South accurately diagnosed West's intentions in defending against the former's four spade contract and evolved effective counter-measures to overcome the threat.

West opened the jack of diamonds, which had all the appearances of being a singleton. South won the trick in his hand with king and paused to assess his prospects. If he took an immediate spade finesse and it lost, a diamond return by East would probably be ruffed. West would presumably exit in either spades or hearts, and now the fate of the contract hinges on the location of the ace of clubs. If West holds that card, then

South can expect to lose two club tricks, which spells defeat for him on the deal.

He can lead the queen of spades and play North's ace if West fails to cover. A second round of spades will dislodge the king. But if East holds that card and West has the third trump, then South is no better off than before. There is a way to improve his chances, and that is by trying to strip out all means of safe exit for West—in the event that the play proceeds unfavorably.

At trick two, declarer led over to the king of hearts, cashed the ace, and then ruffed the third round. Next came the queen of spades. When West played the six, South put up the ace and continued with another spade. East was in with the king, on which West dropped the three. By echoing in trumps, he was indicating to partner that he had another spade left. The diamond return was ruffed by West as expected; however, he was now placed in an unprofitable position.

West has only hearts and clubs left in his hand. If he returns a heart, South can ruff in his hand while he discards a club from dummy. North is left with only one loser—in clubs. West cashed the ace of clubs instead, but this established declarer's king. In all, the latter lost one spade, one club, and one diamond ruff.

Army's Mail Is 26 Years Late

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Army set out in 1946 to let the homefolks know that Pvt. Alvin L. Finkowitz, 18, of Los Angeles had completed basic anti-aircraft artillery training and had qualified as a rifle sharpshooter.

The publicity release from Ft. Bliss, Tex., arrived Monday at The Los Angeles Times.

In the meantime, Pvt. Finkowitz has changed his name to Fink, has risen to vice president of U.S. Consumer Products Co., has married and has two daughters and two grand-children.

The news material was marked "for immediate release" and postmarked Aug. 13, 1946. Neither postal nor Army officials could explain the delay in delivery.

Policy Role Intrigues Connally

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would like to play a leading role in international economic policy if he returns to public life in a second Nixon administration, some of his associates say.

"There's no question about it. He's fascinated by the whole area of international economics. He has definite ideas about it and would like to put his stamp on U.S. policy," said one associate.

That means, according to these sources, that Connally would probably prefer the job of secretary of state over vice president.

They say the former Texas governor is too restless and dynamic to be vice president, wanting instead to take on a more challenging task if he returns to Washington.

Although Connally has said he doesn't think he'll be offered the secretary of state post if Nixon is re-elected, he has never ruled out the possibility that he would take it if offered.

Connally developed a strong interest in international economics soon after Nixon stunned the nation by naming him treasury secretary in late 1970.

He was instrumental in the first devaluation of the dollar since 1934, spoke bluntly to U.S. allies of a new day in economic relations in which America would have to look more after its own interests, and negotiated a new system of currency exchange rates.

But Connally felt the job was unfinished, his associates said, particularly since many trade barriers to American products remained in foreign countries.

And, then, there is still the uncompleted job of structuring a new world monetary system.

Connally's associates around the Treasury department say the Texas Democrat would love to tackle the bureaucracy at the State Department and put his own imprint on policy there.

They view things from this perspective: Relations between countries are expected in the future to be more economic than military, yet the State Department has failed to adapt to this reality.

Connally, in fact, bruised some feelings at the State Department when, as treasury secretary, he openly suggested that the United States was ill equipped to meet an international economic crisis such as the one that struck in 1971.

Buttressing the belief that Connally may want the State Department was his recent around-the-world trip for President Nixon. He visited 17 nations.

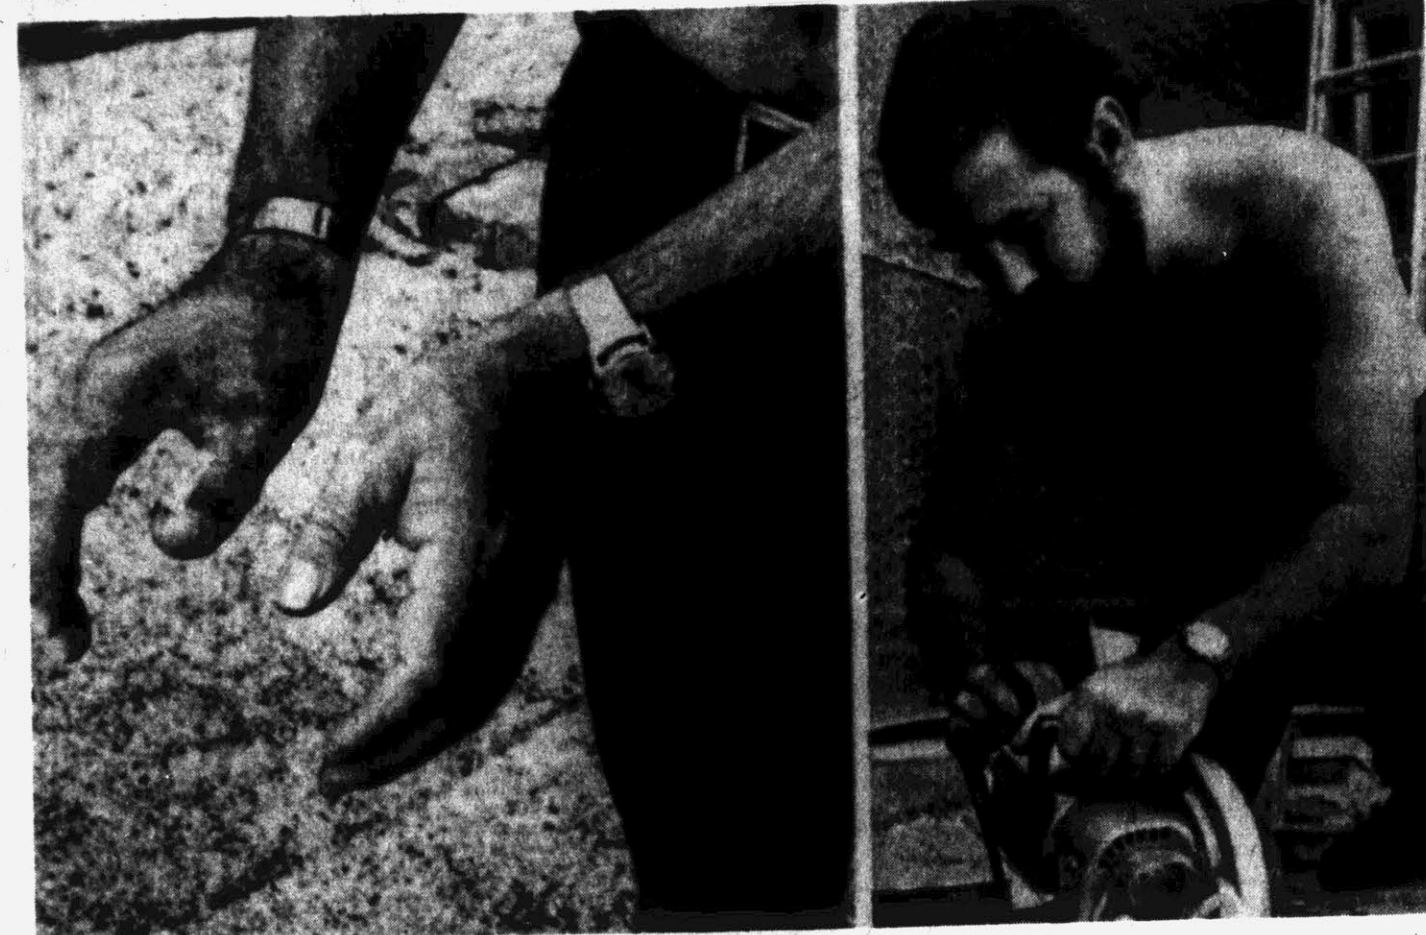

"The theme of the trip was economic," said one official.

Connally stressed one idea in his visit. He said the United States could no longer continue the kind of massive aid to countries that it did after World War II. It is time for other nations to recognize this reality, he said.

Two-Year Study Of N.C. Airports Set

RALEIGH (AP) — A two-year study is being undertaken by the North Carolina Planning Division in an attempt to determine future needs and trends in civil aviation in the Tar Heel state.

State planning officials said Tuesday they have received assurance of a $500,000 federal grant to finance the project.

During the study, airports at Charlotte, Greensboro-High Point and Raleigh-Durham will be analyzed by regional planning commissions in their areas.

State transportation planner William J. Cameron said the study will produce an "investment guideline" for airports needed in the future.

He added in an interview that there will be some hard feelings in the years to come because "a lot of difficult decisions will have to be made regarding future airport location and construction."

Cameron said the "poor to fair" air service in eastern North Carolina stems in part from a scattered population and small cities of about the same size 30 to 40 miles apart.

"Thinking ahead," he added, "what we may need are one or two regional airports in the eastern part of the state."
