Border Belt Leaf Prices Run Above Early Estimates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Flue-cured tobacco auctions opened on North Carolina's eight Border Belt markets today with buyers scrambling to get good quality leaf that was selling five to six cents above support levels. Marketing specialist John Cyrus of the state Department of Agriculture predicted first day prices would average $77 to $78. Early sales in most markets were running well above that figure, but the over-all average could not be determined until all sales were completed. In late morning the Federal-State Market News Service said the estimated average on a few selected markets was $80-$83. The top price being paid by company buyers was $87. Receipts by the Stabilization Corp., which administers the tobacco support program, were estimated to be 7 to 10 per cent.

All markets had their quotas filled for opening sales. In Lumberton state Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham watched the opening and called it a victory for the grower. "I'm tickled to death to see farmers getting such high prices. Farmers deserve all they can get out of their crop," Graham said. Other markets opening today were Fayetteville, Fairmont, Fair Bluff, Chadbourne, Clarkton, Tabor City and Whiteville. State agricultural specialists said most of the crop remained in the fields, but good offerings were reported at all markets for the first-day sales. Opening prices averaged $74.32 last year. Marketing analysts predicted higher payouts for 1972 because of an increase in the subsidy support levels.

The support was increased from $69.40 to $72.70 for the 1972 auction season. This marks the first time that North Carolina markets have opened so early in the flue-cured season. Auctions also started today in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. The early start was recommended by the industrywide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee as a possible means of eliminating congestion on the southern markets. In the past, much of the early tobacco has been trucked from North Carolina to the Georgia-Florida markets by growers seeking higher prices or avoiding the risk of storing their leaf until local markets opened. Limited sales will begin Aug. 8 on the big North Carolina Eastern Belt, the largest in the flue-cured tobacco area.

Aid Authorization Bill Killed In Senate Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting for the first time to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, the Senate has killed the military-foreign-aid bill to which the pullout provision was attached. In the last of 10 votes that stretched into late Monday night, the $1.785-billion aid authorization was defeated 48 to 42. By a 50-45 margin, senators voted to cut off funds for U.S. combat operations in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia in four months, provided American war prisoners were released.

Twenty-eight Democrats and 14 Republicans voted for the measure; 19 Democrats and 29 Republicans opposed it. Left with nothing for the moment, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., saw the voting as a gesture. "The impact was that the Senate voted for it," Fulbright told newsmen. "Do you think anybody thought it (the cutoff) would get by the House, or the White House? For whatever it is worth, the Senate has expressed its view."

Fulbright, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and several others voted for the cutoff, but against the bill. One of these, Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., said, "I've traditionally been an opponent of foreign aid. I don't believe in spending that kind of money." Republican Leader Hugh Scott had predicted a presidential veto for the bill if it contained the pullout amendment.

After a series of votes on the end-the-war amendments the result was to cut off money for all U.S. combat operations in Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia—but not Thailand—within four months, if Hanoi returned its American prisoners. Originally, the bill contained a section by Mansfield which would have withdrawn all troops from Vietnam by Aug. 31, and all forces from Indochina once a cease-fire and a prisoner exchange were agreed to by Hanoi. The Senate replaced the Mansfield provision with one proposed by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., in turn, Cooper's was amended by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass. Cooper's amendment would simply have cut off all combat money in the three countries within four months. Brooke's amendment, containing the prisoner proviso, was approved 62 to 33. With this in the package, Cooper's amendment carried 50 to 45.

South Viets Battle Way Inside Quang Tri Citadel

By DENNIS NEEDLE
Associated Press Writer
QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — About 400 South Vietnamese paratroopers fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today through withering North Vietnamese fire. Despite official claims in Saigon that the paratroopers had won control of the Citadel and the recapture of Quang Tri City was completed, fighting raged in the 19th century fortress through late afternoon. "Not all of the Citadel is occupied yet," an army spokesman in Quang Tri said.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Dang Bo, told newsmen: "I think many North Vietnamese were killed. I do not think any escaped. I hope that perhaps tomorrow you will be able to attend a flag-raising ceremony in the Citadel." The Citadel was the last bastion of resistance in the devastated provincial capital which the North Vietnamese had occupied on May 1. An army communique said the first paratroopers entered the Citadel at 10:20 a.m. Field officers said napalm strikes by the South Vietnamese air force preceded the advance through two openings in the 40-foot walls that U.S.

planes had blasted two weeks ago with laser-guided bombs. Shells burst all around the Citadel as South Vietnamese artillery blazed away, and the North Vietnamese replied with their 122mm and 130mm guns. A pall of thick, black smoke hung over most of the city, which was in ruins. Most of the North Vietnamese defenders of Quang Tri had retreated into the Citadel to make a stand there, but no reliable estimate was available of how many of Hanoi's troops were inside the massive walls. Quang Tri, the capital of South Vietnam's northernmost province, was the first provincial capital ever captured by the Communist forces, and its loss was a major psychological setback to the Saigon government. The counteroffensive to recapture it began on June 28, when a task force of paratroopers and marines crossed the My Chanh River 15 miles southeast of Quang Tri City.

Health Dept. X-Ray Is Repaired, Serves Again

The X-ray machine at the Pitt County Health Department — out of service for a number of months because of difficulties in having it repaired — is back in operation "making large negatives of persons with positive skin tests for the diagnosis of TB," according to county health director Dr. Robert D. May. Dr. May made the announcement yesterday after x-raying Charles Gaskins, chairman of the board of County Commissioners to prove the machine operates safely. Repairs to the machine cost about $1,000. According to the health director, the x-ray machine will be in operation each morning to do only negatives of persons in cases where positive skin tests reactions have been observed. Dr. May said tuberculin skin testing is considered more effective than x-ray in screening for possible tuberculosis. Where skin tests are positive, however, the patient is given an x-ray examination, he explained, emphasizing that the x-ray machine at the health department is used only for diagnosis of TB. Dr. May and Gaskins took the opportunity yesterday to announce that the county Board of Health and Commissioners have requested the Center for Communicable Disease Control in Atlanta for advice and recommendations for a program for control and eradication of tuberculosis in Pitt County. According to Gaskins, it is hoped that federal funding of the Backers of the end-the-war amendment have vowed to renew the fight. Their next effort will be to attach the amendment to the Defense Department procurement bill now being debated. In past months the Senate has gone on record several times against continuation of the war, but never has either house voted to cut off money for the fighting. The aid bill was defeated by an unusual coalition of conservatives and liberals.

Offers Briefing

MOORESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott offered today to provide extensive briefings on state government to both of the candidates to succeed him, "to enable them to campaign on issues and facts, rather than assumptions." Scott, speaking to local government officials in Mooresville, said he would arrange for Democratic Skipper Bowles and Republican Jim Holshouser to meet together or separately with him and with professional staff personnel. "This will be a factual briefing, based on cold, hard statistics and projections for the future, from career state government officials," Scott said. He said he was interested in assuring that the issues debated in the campaign this fall be "legitimate" and that "the transition from my administration to the next be a smooth transition." An aide to Scott, David Murray, said the information in the briefings would be a matter of public record, but he said that the governor's offer would make it easier for the candidates to compile the necessary data.

Call Meeting

A special call meeting of the Greenville Recreation Commission has been scheduled for Thursday at 8:00 p.m. On that date, members will meet in the upstairs in the TV room of Elm Street Gymnasium. The purpose of the meeting, according to Recreation Department Director Boyd Lee, is to discuss the commission's feelings and stand on a proposal made by City Councilman William Dansey for three swimming pools proposed for construction in Greenville. Interested members of the public are always welcome at these commission meetings.

LSD Arrests

A Route 2, Farmville man, James William Sumrell, was in Pitt County Jail today charged with two counts of distributing a controlled substance (LSD) to a Greenville teenager. According to Greenville police chief Glenn Cannon, warrants under which Sumrell was arrested charged him with selling LSD to Wayne Nichols, 16 of 108 Fairlane Rd. on two occasions—first on July 13 and again on July 21—in violation of state law. Bond in the cases was placed at $7,000 each, Chief Cannon said. Nichols himself was released from jail yesterday under $2,500 bond after being arrested on similar charges. Chief Cannon explained that Nichols had been arrested on charges of distributing a controlled substance—again LSD—to a minor after he allegedly allowed a 15-year-old local girl to have some of the hallucinogenic drug.

Hope Abandoned For 9 Miners; Shaft Sealed

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
BLACKSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — Massive slabs of steel-reinforced concrete have sealed the fire-ravaged, explosion-torn Blacksville No. 1 mine and the fate of nine miners who were trapped inside on Saturday night. Workers raced through the night to complete the seals against the possibility of further explosions deep inside the burning, gas-filled mine on the West Virginia-Pennsylvania border. Rescue operations for the trapped men ended abruptly Monday after three small explosions sent about 50 rescue workers scurrying for the mine's lone entrance shaft. Officials of Consolidation Coal Co., owner of the mine, said a hole drilled into the mine 650 feet below the surface was completed and they expected to take measurements of poisonous methane gas inside. Consolidation spokesmen said three slabs of steel and concrete were used to seal the main shaft, an air shaft and a production shaft of the mine. John Corcoran, Consolidation president, told newsmen Monday the sealing operation began immediately after a "minor explosion" in an area of the mine where a fire has raged since Saturday night. A spokesman said later there actually were three quick explosions — two small "pops" and then a larger blast. Officials had noted increasing levels of methane gas inside the mine Monday afternoon and said they were in the process of deciding whether to remove rescue teams when the explosions occurred. "Nobody had to tell us to get out," said Harry Myers, rescue shift foreman at the time of the explosions. Officials said they immediately cleared the area around the mine of all persons, including families of some of the victims who had maintained a nearly two-day vigil. The sealing operation began immediately, Corcoran said. He said the result of the explosions "would indicate quite clearly that there is no further opportunity for rescue operations."

Further Pullout

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced a phaseout today of the last American combat forces in the Saigon region as part of a cut of more than 3,000 men. The command announced Monday that U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam was reduced by another 700 men last week to 46,500. Only one U.S. infantry battalion remains in Vietnam, a remnant of the 196th Brigade which was deactivated last month. This battalion is in the Da Nang area. President Nixon has ordered U.S. troop strength in Vietnam cut to 39,000 men by Sept. 1. But meanwhile about 100,000 U.S. servicemen are fighting the war from bases in Thailand and Guam and from ships of the 7th Fleet off the coast of Vietnam.

Will Demolish Hotel Hickory

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — The eight-story, 102-room Hotel Hickory will be demolished at 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The 44-year-old structure, tallest in Hickory, will be felled by implosion to collapse its inner walls. First National Bank of Catawba County, owner of the building, plans a six-story downtown main office building on the site.

Pay To Stay

SALINE, Mich. (AP) — If you want to watch your friendly auto mechanic at work on your car here, you'll have to pay more for the privilege. Mechanics in this town west of Detroit apparently would rather work alone: They have posted a sign informing customers the rate for labor is $9 an hour. If you want to watch, however, it's $12 an hour. If you want to help, it's $15 an hour. If you want to supervise, it'll cost you $20 an hour.

U.S. Warns UN Sec.-General To Watch Tongue

By GEORGE BRIA
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has sharply warned U. N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim against spreading reports of U. S. bombings of dikes in North Vietnam. Waldheim, while saying he could not verify the reports, replied that he thought "it was his duty to speak out on the devastating consequences which might result" from either intentional or unintentional bombing of the flood control system along the Red River in North Vietnam. A storm between the United States and Waldheim blew up Monday after the secretary general told a news conference he had "private unofficial" reports via Hanoi of the bombing of the dikes. He appealed to the United States to stop.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers protested in Washington and sent Ambassador George Bush to put the U.S. position personally to Waldheim. After his one-hour meeting with Waldheim, Bush told reporters he was convinced the secretary-general did not want to give credibility to what Bush called a massive North Vietnamese propaganda campaign. Waldheim told the news conference: "Through private unofficial channels ... we were informed that the dikes are being bombed, and we were informed also that even in cases where the dikes are not directly bombed, the nearby bombing causes cracking of the dams and that in this way the result is the same as if the dikes were bombed directly." The secretary-general said he did not know whether the bombing was intentional, and he admitted, "This is Hanoi information." But he added: "If these allegations are correct, it would lead to disaster in the area because it would mean that the whole plain would be flooded and thousands and thousands of people would die." Rogers said in a statement that Waldheim's information "concerning alleged deliberate bombing to damage the dikes in North Vietnam is false — as the President stated in his June 29 press conference." He said he had asked Bush to inform the secretary-general that "these allegations are part of a carefully planned campaign by the North Vietnamese and their supporters to give worldwide circulation to this falsehood." After his conference with Waldheim, Bush told newsmen the secretary-general meant to say that if the dikes were being bombed, "it ought to stop."

1776 A Great Year, Superb Show

AMERICA'S FIRST CONGRESS . . . struggles to bring a resolution of independence into existence in "1776" the musical currently playing at McGinnis on campus at East Carolina University. A full audience on opening night gave the performers and the play an

The East Carolina University Summer Theater is in the enviable position this week of having a winning combination in a superbly written play with a large cast that consistently turns in exhilarating performances. "1776" has a fair share of first-rate music, certainly enough to justify classing it as a musical, but the strength of the play lies in the excellent book by Peter Stone. "1776" is the sacred bones of history made living flesh in a tightly written script in which the strong and weak points of America's first revolutionaries come to light as these men struggle to create an infant nation.

Very likely this production of "1776" will set something of a record at the Summer Theater for the sheer number of excellent performances, individual and ensemble.

Albert Gordon sets the pace with a powerful performance as John Adams. In his dedication to the idea of independence for the colonies, Adams has to fight the apathy of the southern states, the heat and flies of summertime Philadelphia, the doubts of even his staunchest supporters, and strong bonds of sympathy for maintaining ties with the mother country.

John Sneden's superlative performance as the aging, witty, bawdy, gout suffering Benjamin Franklin is one that would be difficult to surpass. Franklin emerges in "1776" as the most colorful of America's first Congressional body.

Pennsylvania's John Dickinson, the major proponent for maintaining ties with England, is another instance of the actor rising to the challenge of a fine role. Gregory Zittel as Dickinson justifies his reputation as a talented, versatile actor.

enthusiastic reception. Robert Williams' scenery and Brooks-Van Horn's costumes are important factors in this fine production. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest).

The roll-call of excellence in performances continues down the line—Bob Ketter as Thomas Jefferson, a man of genius but few words; Mark Ramsey, the rum-imbibing Rhode Islander; Rick Price in the role of Caesar Rodney, Delaware's delegate fighting a fatal disease; John Stevenson, gifted with a fine singing voice in the important role of South Carolina's Edward Rutledge—in short, there's not a single member of this cast who does not contribute in full measure to keeping "1776" a spirited, entirely believable story of the men destined to guide America into existence.

And though the emphasis of "1776" is in the spoken word, the music forms an integral part of the play. Barry Shank has perhaps never before had a finer response from his musicians than that given last night in a score that ranges from delicate minuets to Fourth of July boom-booms.

There's some captivating moments musically—"The Lees of Old Virginia" which begins with A. D. Armstrong as Richard Henry Lee in a routine strongly reminiscent of Al Jolson and then builds up to a rollicking Andrew Sisters type number with John Adams and Benjamin Franklin joining in; the lovely "Cool, Cool Considerate Men", a sparkling minuet song and dance number led by Gregory Zittel; and David Pyron's haunting song of the common soldier dying in battle, "Momma Look Sharp" is unforgettable.

On every count—acting, story, music, humor, history, staging, directing—"1776" is dynamic theater. The Summer Theater can be justifiably proud of this production—I strongly recommend taking it in. It may be a long time before anything else so totally satisfying comes on stage at McGinnis again. —Jerry Raynor

Will Share In State Officers Of Guyana Studies

Charles Langley, son of Mrs. Zenora Langley, and a graduate of J.H. Rose High School in 1969, will begin an extensive five-week field research in the small newly-independent South African country of Guyana. The country was formerly known as British Guiana. Langley will begin the research tour in August.

This research is jointly sponsored by the Black Studies and Caribbean Studies Department at the City College of New York. The research will concentrate on Guyana's various social, political, and economical problems as a developing Third World country.

Having already completed the month-long orientation session, Langley and 34 fellow students will arrive in Guyana on August 2. The first two weeks will be spent at the University of Guyana where morning lectures of Guyanese history and political development will be given. The student will engage in volunteer community projects in the evenings. The remainder of the stay will be spent living with Guyanese families and doing independent field research.

Carifesta, an annual international Latin American cultural festival will be held in Guyana this summer. National dance groups, artists, and musicians from the Caribbean, Central and South America will be representing their respective countries. Langley and the team will be representing the United States by conveying the Afro-American experience through song, dance, and poetry.

Langley is doing his undergraduate independent major in Third World Studies at Hobart College, Geneva, N.Y.

"Let's Make Tomorrow Together" is the theme of a leadership conference involving 400 chapter officers, advisors and members of the Future Homemakers of America, now in progress at the East Carolina University School of Home Economics.

State FHA Advisor Hazel Tripp is directing the conference, which is composed of various workshop sessions and discussions on good leadership. FHA's national meeting ended last week in Los Angeles.

Dr. Miriam Moore, dean of the ECU School of Home Economics, said this is the first time state FHA officers have ever met on the ECU campus. "FHA is commonly misunderstood and underestimated by the general public," she said, "probably because it is generally thought to be merely another high school club."

However, she noted, FHA is one of the largest youth organizations in the nation, with membership open to both girls and boys. Its aim is to prepare its members for improved family life, and one way this goal is manifested is that members begin now, trying to contribute more to their own family's well-being and harmony.

The conference will close Thursday, with an address by State Representative Sam Bundy.

Homeless Boy Is Given Refuge

HUNTERSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A homeless 13-year-old boy from Boone, N.C., has found a place to live.

Andy Broyhill was taken to the Boy's Home of North Carolina in Huntersville Monday. Chief District Judge Ray Braswell of Watauga County, in a Monday hearing, granted temporary custody of the boy to the Watauga County Department of Social Services. The department turned the youth over to the Boy's Home.

Authorities said the boy had been shuttled back and forth between his grandparents, his mother and stepfather in recent months. Last week, he was found sleeping under a bush in Boone with no place to go.

Advisory Group Meets Aug. 3

The advisory council of the Ayden-Grifton High School will meet Thursday, Aug. 3, in the administrative office conference room at 8 p.m.

Parents who volunteered their efforts to organize a parent-faculty-student association will be asked to meet with the council to discuss preliminary plans for such an association.

The association is an outgrowth of the meeting between concerned parents and the advisory council held during the month of May.

Annual Falcon Camp Meeting Will Begin Much Of New York Power Restored In

FALCON — The Falcon Camp Meeting, one of the oldest on the Atlantic Seaboard, opens its 73rd annual session here on July 27 to continue through August 6, announces its manager, The Rev. J. Doner Lee, of Falcon.

This year the camp meeting services will be conducted in a completely renovated and air-conditioned auditorium, with no obstructing objects between pew and pulpit, says the Rev. Mr. Lee.

Camp meeting preachers this year will be Bishop J. Floyd Williams, general superintendent of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, Franklin Springs, Ga., and the Rev. Gilbert L. Dean, superintendent of the Mid-Atlantic Conference, Ellicott City, Md.

Long known for its choirs and congregational singing, the plans for the 1972 Falcon camp meeting feature the Rev. Wiley T. Clark as choir director, Mrs. Annie H. Randall, organist, and Mrs. Phyllis Harrell as pianist.

Three connectional societies of the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church will hold their annual conventions on the opening days of the camp meeting. They are the Woman's Auxiliary on July 27, with Mrs. Carl F. Isaac, WA general president, Franklin Springs, Ga., presiding; the N.C. Conference Sunday School Convention on July 28, the Rev. Wiley T. Clark, Conference Director of Christian Education, Falcon, presiding; the N.C. Conference Lifeliners (Youth Department) Convention on July 29, with the Rev. Leon O. Stewart, assistant general superintendent, P.H. Church, Franklin Springs, Ga., presiding.

Special features of the camp meeting services beginning with Sunday, July 30, include Youth Services conducted daily at 2:30 p.m. by Mrs. Ada Lee Thurman, Fayetteville; Falcon Childrens Home musical presentation, July 30, at 3:00 p.m. under direction of the Rev. W. Eddie Morris, superintendent; morning lectures by Bishop Williams at 9:45 a.m.; evangelistic sermons by the Rev. Mr. Dean and Bishop Williams, in alternation, at the evening services beginning at 7:45 p.m.; and a memorial service honoring deceased members of the Falcon Camp Meeting Association on Thursday, August 3 at 3 p.m.

The 62nd annual conference sessions of the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church begin on Friday, August 4, at 8:30 a.m. to continue through Sunday afternoon, August 6 at 3:45 p.m. with Bishop Williams, who is a native of Greenville, N.C. and a member of the North Carolina Conference, presiding over the conference sessions.

Among the principal items of business will be the announcement of ministerial appointments to the more than 150 pastoral charges for the biennium of 1972-1974.

NEW YORK (AP) — The power went back on early today for most of the estimated 500,000 residents of Brooklyn and Queens who had been without electricity for up to 16 hours after seven feeder cables burned out.

The other good news was a forecast by the National Weather Service of a "definite break" in the marathon of sizzling 90-degree weather that has withered city dwellers and strained power delivery to the limit.

The restoration of power to most of Brooklyn and Queens marked the end of the second widespread power blackout due to failing Consolidated Edison Co. feeder lines since the current heat wave began 10 days ago.

The latest power loss, which began Monday morning, caused Aqueduct Race Track to shut down for the day and allowed about 40 million gallons of raw sewage to flow through the powerless Jamaica sewage treatment plant and into Jamaica Bay.

Natural Mother Loses Bid To Regain Child

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Family Court Judge Michael DeCiantis has ruled against the request of a 6-year-old girl's natural mother to be given custody of the child.

In a ruling made public Monday, the judge allowed the unidentified girl's foster parents to adopt her. DeCiantis criticized both the natural mother and the state Child Welfare Services for a lack of interest in and attention for the girl.

The judge ruled that to take the child from the parents with whom she has lived for more than 5½ years "would be a shock worse than kidnapping. Nothing would be more cruel."

DeCiantis added that the foster parents through the years have shown themselves to be devoted to the child, giving her all the care and attention of natural parents.

Planning & Zoning Session Wednesday

The agendas of the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission, and the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission for the July meeting on Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m. will each deal with three items.

For the joint meeting, the first of the two to be held, old business will consist of two rezoning reports from a committee; the first on the John F. Moyer property and the second on the J. T. Manning, Jr. property.

Under new business, the joint board will take up the matter of rezoning of property on the south side of U.S. 264 bypass west, that of Mrs. J. T. Manning Sr.

Following the joint meeting, the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission will consider two items under old business. One is a resolution of appreciation; the other a committee report on rezoning of properties on East Tenth Street.

The Greenville Commission's new business item is a request for rezoning of the Hugh C. Winslow property on Hooker Road.

No Charges In Traffic Mishap

No charges were placed following investigation of a mishap yesterday involving a car and bicycle.

Officers reported a car driven by Wanda Elaine Diggs, 17, of Route 9, Greenville and a bicycle operated by Joseph Edward Peszko, 12, of 201 Berkshire Rd. collided about 7:30 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 170 feet West of the Charles St. intersection causing about $1 damage to the car and $5 damage to the bicycle.

Peszko was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries he received.

Local Delegates Attend Pilot International Convention

PILOT PRESIDENTS. Mrs. Ruby Fields of Greenville, left, is pictured with Miss Elizabeth Brown during the 51st International Convention held in San Francisco, Calif., last week.

Two members of the Pilot Club of Greenville attended the International Convention held July 16-20 in San Francisco, Calif.

Mrs. Ruby Fields, president of the Greenville club, was the official delegate. Accompanying her was Mrs. Sue Smith, District Six safety chairman.

Miss Elizabeth Brown, of Des Moines, Iowa, is the newly installed president of Pilot Club International, one of the five classified service organizations for professional and executive women.

Installation of the 1972-73 officers concluded the 51st convention at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Miss Brown succeeds Mrs. Frances Keever of Kannapolis as head of the organization.

One of the convention highlights was the presentation of the Handicapped Professional Woman of the Year. This award is co-sponsored by Pilot International and the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. Dr. Donna Mae Berry of Buena Park, Calif., was the recipient of the third annual award.

In addition to hundreds of community projects in areas where clubs are located, Pilots join in supporting national and international projects. Presently Pilot International works with highway traffic safety, CARE, Inc., National Foundation—March of Dimes, Meals for Millions, Project HOPE, and Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

It was announced that Pilot International would continue to provide homes for earthquake victims in Peru.

Miss Brown will emphasize one of the basic principles of Pilot International, civic service, with her theme for 1972-73—"Leaders in Service—The World Is Yours."

She also announced that the 52nd International Convention will be held in Boston, Mass., July 15-19, 1973.

1 cup apricot puree
1 cup fresh strawberry puree
1 cup Concord grape drink
1 cup sugar
3/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 egg whites
1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped
For the apricot puree, use fresh or canned apricots that have been peeled and pitted. Puree fruits by using a blender or food mill. Combine grape drink, 1/2 cup of the sugar and the corn syrup in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and cool. Blend fruit purees into cooled grape mixture. Add lemon juice and rind. Pour into ice cube trays and freeze until mushy. Scrape into a cold bowl and beat until smooth. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually blend in remaining 1/2 cup sugar and beat to a soft meringue. Fold into fruit mixture; fold in whipped cream. Refreeze until firm. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Recent Ceremony

FARMVILLE — The wedding of Georgia Barnhill Payne of Greenville and Louis Skinner Willoughby Jr. was solemnized here last Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. B.S. Davenport of LaGrange officiating.

The home of the bridegroom's parents Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby, was the setting for the vows spoken before a background of yellow and white gladioli gracing the mantel and two seven branch floor candelabra entwined with ferns with white cathedral tapers lighted by the father of the bridegroom.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Charles Umstead of Vanceboro; and Mr. Barnhill, was attired in a long dress fashioned with a white skirt complemented with a yellow and white dotted swiss blouse with full sleeves. Her bridal bouquet was a white orchid with yellow centered daisies.

Marshall Payne, son of the bride, served as ring bearer.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. they will be at home in Greenville.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Farmville high school, is attending Lenoir Community College, Kinston. The bride is employed at J. H. Hudson Construction Co., Greenville.

Cure For Baldness? Go Soak Your Head

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A young man signed "Going Bald in Lakewood" wrote that he was losing his hair. You told him that early baldness was hereditary, and there was nothing he could do about it.

Well, I, too, came from a family of bald-headed men, but when I married in 1907, my wife noticed that I was starting to lose my hair, so she told me to soak my head in a strong salt water solution every time I washed my hair and it would stop my hair from falling out. Well, I did as she said, and I never lost any hair after that.

I was born Jan. 22, 1883, which makes me past 89 years old. I kept that wife for over 50 years and I use a salt water rinse faithfully to this day, and still have a full head of hair. THE REV. D. E. FINLEY Jonesburg, Mo.

DEAR REVEREND FINLEY: Congratulations on both counts. Whether you kept your hair because of your wife, or kept that wife because of your hair is anybody's guess, but the salt water rinse is news to me. I have heard of wives telling their husbands to go soak their heads. But in SALT water?

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that an ex-convict is barred from holding public office. Is that true? Also, does he lose his right to vote?

I was convicted of a felony, and served my time. That was nine years ago. I am straight now, and nothing in this world could make me break the law again.

Thank you in advance for any information you can give me. WONDERING IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR WONDERING: Thru the prompt and courteous cooperation of your very able senator, Edward W. Brooke, I have learned that the conviction of a felony in Massachusetts does not thereafter bar one from holding public office or voting.

However, an individual convicted of corrupt practices (or bribery) with regard to elections is barred from voting and holding public office for three years.

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you published that letter from a bride of four months who had never had sex. Usually people are too ashamed to talk about it, so they keep it to themselves.

I had the same experience, only I was a virgin for nearly five years! I was young and naive at the time and kept thinking it was my fault for not being able to turn my husband on.

By the time I realized that he could be to blame, I had such an inferiority complex I didn't care if I lived or died.

I went to my parish priest and he said, "Pray to God and everything will be all right."

Then I went to my Bishop. He said, "Threaten to leave him and maybe he will shape up. If he doesn't, you have grounds for an annulment in the Catholic church."

I went to a doctor. He said, "Insist that your husband seek professional help—medical and psychological. If he refuses, leave him."

That's what I did. [He refused to get help so I left him.]

Tell that virgin bride of four months to do what I did—only not to wait so long. MARRIED AND HAPPY NOW

DEAR MARRIED: Your tale isn't as unique as most people think.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 6700, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Thoughts On Beating The Heat

With the heat wave on us, local citizens might want to keep in mind some of the old fashioned remedies for beating the heat during sleeping hours that were resorted to long before the days of air conditioning.

Generations of pre-electric people put a lot of faith in the belief that certain sounds had a very definite tonic effect in making one feel it really wasn't quite as hot as the thermometer indicated.

A gentle tinkle, for instance, worked wonders with the imagination. Wind-bells of thin strips of metal or glass suspended on string, hanging under the eaves of a house or from a porch, would catch any tiny breeze. The resultant musical sounds, light and clear, conveyed coolness to the imagination.

Since wind-bells are not in common use today, it might be possible to substitute a glass full of ice cubes to put by the bedside. A person awakened from sleep by night heat and humidity would only need to shake the glass for a few tinkles and be lulled back to sleep by visions of icebergs floating south.

Swishing sounds were also favored. The rustle and sigh of a branch of weeping willow, bamboo or long leaf pine were believed to summon a feeling of refreshment. The problem here of course is that not everyone has a willow, a bamboo or long leaf pine growing outside the bedroom window. It might be that a bunch of plastic strips placed before a fan could be the answer as a modern substitute.

In the Southern U.S., there's an old belief that half a watermelon, with a good amount of the moist pink meat left in it, placed beside the bed, is a sure way to guarantee a night of cool sleep. It seems there was something about vapors arising from the cut melon that combatted the steamy air of a hot night. The melon also has the advantage of lending a nice fragrance to a room.

There are other remedies, many of them. But there's also a limit on the size of most bedrooms, so there is little reason to go into these.

On second thought, it might be simpler to struggle out of bed, turn the air conditioner or fan a few degrees lower, and hope that along about 2:00 a.m. you don't wake up in a pool of perspiration to find out that a power shortage has made the most effective of all beating the heat remedies utterly useless.

How To Boost Voter Turnout

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — North Carolina could increase by at least 20 per cent the turn-out of voters for primary elections.

The way to do it, said Executive Secretary Alex Brock of the State Board of Elections, is to move the primary absentee ballot was used well, with a minimum of difficulty, Brock said. Saturday Primary Traditional

The traditional Saturday primary, at variance with the general election date of Tuesday, has its roots in the state's agricultural past. It suited the convenience of farmers who could get to town on the weekend without breaking their work routine.

Proponents for Tuesday argue that the present population mix no longer gives a preference to Saturday. They cite the consistently larger vote in general elections, plus the advantage of uniformity, in favor of the shift.

On the recommendation of the state board of elections, the '71 General Assembly at its regular session made the change.

Then, when the lawmakers came back to Raleigh in October for the adjourned session on higher education restructure, they returned the date for this year's primary only to Saturday.

At the same time, they authorized the use of primary absentee ballots on a one-time basis. Both moves were designed to facilitate voting by newly-enfranchised 18-21-year olds.

More Debate in '73 Debate on both scores likely will resume in the '73 session. Blacks and labor oppose the Tuesday primary, on the ground that it handicaps working people and the poor in getting to the polls. The primary absentee ballot still rouses apprehension and opposition among those who recall scandals which led to its abolishment 30 years ago.

Safeguards can prevent repetition, Brock assured. "After careful analysis of experience in this primary, we are prepared to say that if the General Assembly wishes to continue the primary absentee ballot, we can administer it with a minimum of difficulty," he said.

The critical point is the actual handling of ballots, getting them in the hands of voters and back to the local board of elections, he said. This step in the process should be by mail, to avoid the possibility of solicitation and mis-use of absentees, he added.

This spring, application and approval for absentees also had to be by mail. Brock suggested a modification to permit this to be done in person. This would ease complaints, he explained, and retain adequate safeguards against fraud.

For comparative purposes, Brock noted that some 7,450 civilian absentees were cast in the 1970 general election. A presidential year always stimulates a greater turn-out. In 1968, for example, 18,245 civilians voted by absentee ballot.

The figures show the

'Unauthorized' Staff Letter

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A telegram from Sen. George McGovern apologizing for an "unauthorized and ill-advised" letter sent to the National Association of Retail Grocers (NARG) over McGovern's signature is raising fresh questions about the Democratic Presidential nominee's control over his own staff.

The telegram, dated June 23, started with this forthright apology:

"The letter you received from my office under date of June 1 was unauthorized and ill-advised. I very much regret the concern it caused."

That "regret" is understandable, in view of the offensive language in the June 1 letter to Frank D. Register, executive director of NARG. Replying to Register's complaint about McGovern's support of the lettuce boycott, the letter scolded Register: "You should know, Mr. Register, that I have competent legal advice and you need not worry about me on that score."

McGovern obviously never read that language, and much more in the same vein, when he routinely signed the June 1 letter. But when NARG circulated it to 40 state grocer associations, representing 45,000 concerns with 110,000 independent grocery stores, complaints came pouring in.

That led to the complete reversal from hawkish to dovish line in the June 23 telegram. Praising independent grocers, McGovern called them "one of the last remaining bastions of private enterprise" and said the Federal government should "encourage" their economic stability.

Who composed the original letter, with its hints that retail grocers were guilty of "monopoly meat and other commodity pricing practices," is a secret locked in the files. But critics of McGovern's free-wheeling staff, including some of his staunchest party supporters, see an unhappy similarity in the case of the grocers and the much more important case of Lawrence F. O'Brien, who was eased out as Democratic national chairman by fast McGovern-staff footwork over McGovern's private wishes and best interest.

The Jewish Troubles A post-convention meeting of Jewish delegates called by Sen. George McGovern's forces partially backfired when a top adviser, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, suggested that anti-McGovern Jewish Democrats are worried more about tax loopholes than Israel.

About 100 national convention delegates met at the Doral Hotel with two of McGovern's leading Jewish supporters: Howard Samuels, a 1974 aspirant for governor of New York, and Cleveland millionaire Howard Metzbaum, 1970 Ohio Democratic Senatorial nominee.

But the star attraction was Ribicoff. In brief remarks, he offended non-McGovern delegates by claiming that Jewish opposition to McGovern stems from apprehension not about his Israel position but about his tax reform.

Ribicoff said McGovern was not anti-Israel but needed to be "educated" on the subject. In fact, Ribicoff went on, President Nixon had to go through the same educational process and did not become pro-Israel until 1971. Furthermore, Ribicoff warned that Mr. Nixon is a political manipulator trying to corner the Jewish vote.

After Ribicoff left, McGovern's Jewish delegates showed continuing concern about how well McGovern would run among Jews. Several noted widespread publicity about the courageous but politically dangerous anti-Zionist record of Rick Stearns, McGovern's top delegate collector, and urged his ouster.

McGovern On Defense

Back in mid-February, Senator George McGovern released his comprehensive recommendations in the field of national security. Titled "Toward a More Secure America: An Alternative National Defense Posture," the document ran to 56 single-spaced pages. It seemed to be a thorough, definitive piece of work.

McGovern himself was pleased with it. Speaking to reporters in New Hampshire, he commented upon the time and labor that had gone into the paper, but he emphasized that the statement was more than a staff job. He himself had gone over the specific recommendations with great care; these proposals were his own best estimates of what the United States would need for defense.

The statement got fair coverage on release. The wire services gave it a good ride. A few lead editorials dwelled on points pro and con. But not to put too fine a point upon it, McGovern didn't matter then. Everyone knew he had no chance of winning the Democratic nomination. Back in February, it wasn't all that important what George McGovern thought about missiles, planes and submarines.

It is important now — far more important than what the Senator thinks about welfare reform or the oil depletion allowance. When it comes to legislative matters, a President proposes and the Congress disposes. But once he puts on his hat as commander-in-chief, a President has plenary powers. Thus, when Candidate McGovern recommends that 170,000 troops be brought home from Europe, he is recommending something that President McGovern could accomplish with a stroke of his pen.

Very well. The Nixon administration, speaking through Defense Secretary Laird, now has published a devastating reply to the McGovern proposals. That word, "devastating," is a garlic word: It has to be sparingly used. Here it applies. Point by point, line by line, Laird exposes the naivete, the inexperience, and among other things the incompetent arithmetic of the man who seeks the White House. By the time Laird is done with his analysis, McGovern's "alternative posture" is slumping badly. It will not stand up.

The Senator's friends and foes will disagree, of course, on the matter of naivete. McGovern's approach is to reckon the intentions of the Soviet Union. He finds these benign. He is therefore not so troubled by the Russians' capabilities. Neither is he much concerned about the diplomatic impact of some of the steps he proposes, such as the massive NATO withdrawal — but set all these speculative and subjective matters to one side.

As Laird's analysis makes clear, McGovern cannot even get the figures straight on his own proposals. The McGovern budget for Fiscal '75 would limit defense spending to $54.8 billion. Of this, $20.9 billion would go for "equipment, supplies and services." But through inadvertence, McGovern forgot to allow for such necessities as ship and aircraft fuel, spare parts, medical supplies, and the overhaul of ships; he grossly underestimated military payroll costs. The error amounted to a whopping $10 billion.

McGovern's idea as to aircraft carriers is to cut their number from 16 to six. This, he supposes, would permit him to keep three carriers constantly on duty, two in the Atlantic, one in the Western Pacific. But this is

Clues As To Sexes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Can you still tell the sexes apart?

At first glance? If you can, you're a marvel. More people are finding it more difficult in more cases.

About half the people over 30 today can't tell easily the sex of about a third of the people they meet who are under 30. In many cases they are still mystified after they follow a doubtful glance with two long stares. Well, here are a few helpful hints:

If it works as an attendant in a men's room, it is a him. If it works as an attendant in a powder room, it is a her.

Does it sing aloud in the bathroom? Probably it's a guy. Does it hum while sitting at a dressing table and studying its face? It's a gal.

If, when asked at a cocktail party whether it wants another drink, it replies, "Yeah, another belt won't hurt me," put it down as a fellow. If it smiles dimly and says as it holds out its glass, "Well, just a teentys-twenty bit this time," put it down as another thirsty dame with hollow legs.

You say it warms its hands by putting them in its pockets? It has to be a boy. You say it warms its hands by thrusting them under its arms and hunching its shoulders? It has to be a girl.

Does it hate to write a check for under $25. That's a man. Does it like to write checks for three 8-cent stamps and a 79-cent bottle of hand lotion? That's a woman.

Does it assume a hedgehog defense and make menacing hisses if you say something slighting about the women's liberation movement? Beyond doubt it's another embattled femme. If it immediately loses interest or wants to change the subject when you mention the women's liberation movement, beyond doubt it's another cowed male.

A direct actionist can settle his uncertainty most quickly by simply walking up to a strange person and asking simply, "Hey, what sex are you—if any?" If he gets punched in the jaw, it's a man; if he gets slapped in the face, it's a woman.

40 Years Ago Today

By Gwyn Coghill
July 25, 1932

Scuffling broke out and night sticks swung at Fifteenth and New York Avenue today as police turned back the radical wing of the bonus marchers a block from the White House. After the group had been denied permission to turn down Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the Treasury, they crossed to the other side and attempted to march toward the White House.

Members of the division highway patrol, headed by Lt. Lester Jones, left yesterday for duty in the High Point strike zone. The ten members of the patrol operating in this immediate part of the state were mobilized for duty within a short time after the order was received and sped away on their mission of maintaining order along the highways around High Point.

To the editor: In today's "enlightened" times when people are acquiring more individual rights of freedom and modern commodities make life easier than ever before, isn't it amazing how often the animal's rights and comforts are overlooked by man.

I am speaking specifically of an elephant which recently has been an attraction at a local shopping center. Aside from the debated moral question of removing this animal from its home in the wild, it has suffered other discomforts. It has been forced to carry children all day upon its back and is left to sleep in the parking lot at night. While some heartless clod makes money from this creature's discomfort, certain Greenville merchants endorse this action as being good for business.

I am making my feelings heard in hope that other compassionate citizens of Greenville will too, and the merchants of this fine city will cease to tolerate the abuse of animals as a business promotion. Only when all people everywhere stand up for the abused animal will our society be a truly enlightened one.

Strength For Today

WHAT IS LENGTH OF LIFE?

A college student died in our community recently at a very great age.

What a silly statement! How could a young man have died at a great age? Because he lived a full and meaningful life in a few years. He was instantly killed in an automobile accident, but all over the campus men remarked about the fine witness of his Christian character. Believer and unbeliever, devout and indifferent—all agreed that here was a man who had lived well, to the benefit of his fellows and to the glory of God.

So it sometimes happens that when young people die they are very old and also that when some old people die they are very young. People sometimes die at seventeen after having lived a long life, and others die at seventy and are scarcely yet born.

Here on this earth of ours we must have certain standards of measurement. We call them inches, feet, miles, minutes, days, years. But these measurements have to do only with this world and nothing whatsoever to do with the vast unseen. There the moment is as a thousand years and a thousand years, a moment.

How old was the student who met accidental and sudden death? Probably twenty, but one who had lived a long life to the glory of God.

Good News For Economic Front

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The second quarter economic statistics constitute good news, the kind of news the Nixon people had long promised, the kind of news that doesn't need to be disguised by claims of "we are greatly encouraged."

Output was up, inflation was tempered, there were indications that the jobless problem was easing, consumers were spending with more enthusiasm and less fear.

The nation's output of goods and services rose 8.9 per cent for the April-May-June period, and that's the real thing. It isn't watered with inflation.

The consumer price index rose only two-tenths of one per cent in June, which is a figure acceptable at any time but surprising at this time. And the jobless rate in June fell to 5.5 per cent, not good but trending in the right direction.

Automobile sales are strong, and the big Detroit manufacturers, aided by government, seem to be recapturing some of the market lost to imports. Homebuilding is strong, too, and that means the furniture and appliance makers are happy.

Happy, too, are the Republicans, whose leaders were losing credibility as, month after month, they felt compelled to claim that all was well when the public knew otherwise.

Now consumers have demonstrated their willingness to take a chance; they are convinced something is happening in the economy that invites their presence, and they are willing to spend rather than conserve.

And so the savings rate dropped in the second quarter to 6.6 per cent after remaining above 8 per cent for a year. It doesn't mean that caution has been abandoned, but it does indicate fear has subsided.

But now where do we go? Is this the peak of Nixon prosperity? A good many independent and business economists feel it might be close to it, but they can't say for sure. They have to wait for the figures.

And that is the intriguing situation that seems to be developing: The next quarterly figures will be filling the newspapers and airwaves just a couple of weeks before the November elections.

Based on comparison with the previous year, there is no doubt that the figures will show a sounder economy, but that comparison will be with a period in which the economy reached a three-year low.

Of greater significance will be the trend in the third quarter from that of the second, and perceptive consumers and voters will be quick to note any change.

Whether the October reports will detract from the President's strength is debatable now, but the prospects for 1973 are adding up already to a somewhat less vigorous economy.

Lost 180 Lbs. From Dieting

JOANNA SHAW (right), of Waltham, and Lee Allen of Randolph, Mass. get together in a former dress of Mrs. Shaw (Size 52) after they lost a total of 225 pounds between them. (AP Wirephoto)

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Joanna Shaw is tying her own shoes these days, which would hardly be news unless you know she once weighed 337 pounds but now is 180 pounds slimmer.

Eight and one-half months ago Mrs. Shaw didn't get too far from home. Getting in and out of public transportation was extremely difficult. Sitting behind the wheel of a car was impossible.

It wasn't until her bathroom scales broke under her 300 pounds that she entered St. Elizabeth's Hospital for endocrine tests. They showed her problem wasn't glandular. So Mrs. Shaw began dieting.

She tried a grapefruit diet, a high protein diet with meat and cheese only, a water diet, a low carbohydrates diet. Nothing worked.

She said she finally turned to the Diet Workshop in Waltham "because it was only a block away and I could walk there." With the help of diet counselors and a controlled, balanced diet, her weight began to come down—13 pounds in the first week.

"When the weight started going, I got hooked and had to keep with it," she said.

Now she's doing many things this summer she never did before—like wearing shorts, roller skating and, of course, tying her own shoes. Now she can join her three children in enjoying life.

Before she started dieting, Mrs. Shaw said, a "normal" breakfast would consist of six eggs, a half pound of bacon and a dozen biscuits.

LBJ Is Back In Hospital Rivals Agree On Renovation Idea

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who suffered a major heart attack in April, has been flown to the Army's Brooke General Hospital again after suffering chest pains.

The hospital reported late Monday night that Johnson was "comfortable, in excellent spirits, and his general condition is quite satisfactory."

Johnson, accompanied by wife Lady Bird, flew here earlier Monday night in a private plane based at his LBJ Ranch, about 60 miles north of San Antonio.

A spokesman said the former president had been scheduled for a routine checkup today as a followup to his April 7 heart attack, his first since a massive attack in 1955.

On Monday evening, however, the spokesman said, "he developed some chest pains and nausea" and was admitted for observation.

"It may be several days before any definite conclusions may be drawn about the nature of his present illness," the hospital said.

It said there had been no irregularities in heart rhythm or blood pressure.

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina gubernatorial candidates Skipper Bowles and Jim Holshouser feel the state should seriously consider renovating the governor's mansion instead of building a new home.

"The more I think about it, the less I approve of spending a lot of tax dollars to build a new home for the governor," Bowles said in a statement released by his campaign office.

The Democratic nominee suggested that the State Property Control office survey the cost of renovating the 40-room Victorian mansion built in 1889.

Republican Holshouser reacted to Bowles' statement by calling for the legislative study commission to investigate the costs of renovating the old mansion.

"We were told during the last session of the General Assembly that renovation of the present governor's mansion was not feasible," Holshouser told a newsmen in response to questions.

But, Holshouser said, a "cost analysis" should be made to look into the renovation angle.

He added, "The taxpayers don't want their hard earned dollars wasted on whims and novelties, and this must be avoided."

Bowles said, "I believe we will find that it will make sense to do some renovating rather than build another fine home."

"Unless we find it is absolutely necessary," Bowles stated, "I just can't go along with spending tax money on another home for the governor when that same tax dollar is needed for our schools, mental institutions, prisons and hundreds of other programs."

Congressional colleagues that (1) he has no horns and (2) he will not take them down to defeat on Nov. 7. Later that same day, McGovern will lunch with all Democratic Senators.

The idea of giving the Democratic Presidential nominee closed-door exposure before his erstwhile peers, according to House Democratic leaders, has no precedent. McGovern himself became concerned about the "McGovern drag" during the Miami Beach convention when Congressional Democrats began expressing fears that, with the South Dakota Senator leading the ticket, they might lose their seats. In certain cases, that fear has produced panicky forecasts of a Republican takeover of Congress.

The Democratic caucus chairman, Rep. Olin Teague of Texas, apparently had fears of his own. Independent of McGovern, Teague wrote outgoing Democratic national chairman Lawrence O'Brien suggesting that McGovern make his case to House Democrats.

A footnote: McGovern may be questioned hard on the two policies most disturbing to Democrats: his military-foreign policy and his welfare-tax programs.

not how aircraft carriers work. As Laird methodically demonstrates, when realistic consideration is given to maintenance, overhaul, training time and fleet exercises, President McGovern would wind up with two carriers, not three, actually on patrol.

The McGovern "posture" would convert the National Guard to a national peacekeeping force; but the costs of such a conversion do not figure in the McGovern budget. The Senator would close 500 bases in a single year; he would close 48 storage depots and three shipyards. The out-of-pocket costs, let alone the economic impact, seem not to have impressed him. The list of oversights, underestimates, and plain errors could be much extended.

I have said before, and say again, that McGovern's statement makes some excellent points. The military budget is indeed fat; it ought to be trimmed to a lean sufficiency. But McGovern's plan, on realistic examination, is not skillful trimming; it is rough butchery instead.

Mileage To Be On Cars

RALEIGH (AP) — Effective next Jan. 1, all cars inspected under North Carolina's mechanical inspection program will have the mileage recorded on the windshield sticker.

State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joe W. Garrett said Monday the purpose is to let the purchaser of a car know the mileage at the time the car was inspected.

Garrett and Gov. Bob Scott signed a new regulation which gives it the effect of law.

Garrett noted that at present when a car is inspected the mileage showing on the odometer is recorded on the receipt.

A spokesman in the state mechanical inspection division said "We've received a lot of calls and correspondence" recently from persons wanting to determine the actual mileage on cars at the time they purchased them.

A Raleigh newspaper, The News and Observer, ran a series of stories recently in which they interviewed persons who had purchased cars that were found to have incorrect mileage showing on them.

THE FIVE MEMBERS OF WHITE WITCH ... scheduled to appear in a free concert on the Mall at East Carolina University Wednesday from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

'White Witch' Quintet Giving ECU Mall Concert Wednesday

"To bring good where there once was evil, to bring love where there was once hate; to bring wisdom where there once was ignorance; this is the power of White Witch."

The quote above is the idea expressed behind the formation of "White Witch," a quintet of musicians that came together in January 1971.

On Wednesday, from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m., the members of "White Witch" will appear in a free concert on the Mall at East Carolina University, under the sponsorship of the ECU Student Government Association.

Members of "White Witch" are Ronn Goedert, lead vocals and percussion; Buddy Richardson, lead guitar and vocals; Beau Fisher, bass; Buddy Pendergrass, keyboards and vocals; Bobby Shea, drums and vocals.

"White Witch" spans the musical spectrum from hard rock to blues to ballads to jazz. Theirs has been called music "difficult to categorize" as they do spin music in many current mediums of musical expression.

The "White Witch" concert, one of SGA's summertime sponsored musical events, is open to interested members of the general public.

Judge Fined On Speeding Count

RALEIGH (AP) — Superior Court Judge Sammie L. Chess Jr. of High Point received a suspended 10-day jail sentence and was fined $10 and costs Monday on a speeding charge.

Chess entered a plea of no contest through Raleigh attorney George Greene in Wake Superior Court. He was charged last February with going 70 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone on U. S. 70 near the Wake-Durham county line.

Greene said Judge Chess could not attend his trial because he was holding court in Alamance County.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices gave up some of their sharp early edge but remained solidly ahead today in moderate trading.

Some investors appeared to be taking profits on the substantial gains of the past two sessions.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 5.87 to 941.23.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, advances led declines by nearly 2 to 1.

Most stock categories were higher, but airlines were mixed with UAL Inc., up 5/8 to 39 3/4; Pan Am, down 1/4 at 14 1/2; Eastern, off 3/4 at 26 1/4 and American, up 1/4 to 34 1/2.

General Motors, up 1/2 to 75 1/4, was the most actively traded issue on 1,272,000 shares including a block of 99,900 shares at 75.

Jersey Standard was trading down 2 1/2 at 75 1/2.

Anaconda, which reported sharp gains in second-quarter and first-half net, was up 1/2 at 18 3/4.

Kawecky Beryl, up 1 1/2 to 11 1/2, showed the largest percentage increase of Big Board stocks in early trading, while Florida Steel, down 3 1/2 to 33 3/4, was the biggest loser on a percentage basis.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks was up .19 to 59.68 at 11 a.m., while the price-change index on the American Stock Exchange was ahead .06 at 27.00.

about four out of the 60 being positive. In addition, Dr. May explained, other skin tests are given to persons who have been in close contact with a individual who has TB.

He said in the last six months, 20 cases of tuberculosis have been reported in the county. Figuring on the national average, the health official said each person has had at least four close contacts. He said about a fourth of those 8; individuals, on the average, would have positive TB skin tests.

Where is TB most prevalent and who is most affected in Pitt? According to Dr. May, 50 per cent of the tuberculosis in Pitt is centered in the urban areas of Greenville, Farmville and Ayden while the remaining 50 per cent is spread throughout the county in rural areas.

The ratio of black TB cases to white is three to one, Dr. May said, while the black to white population ratio is one to two. The male to female TB ratio is two to one while the population male to female ratio in Pitt is about .9 to 1, Dr. May pointed out.

Although there have been scattered accounts of tobacco damage due to weekend hail in the county, most of the damage was apparently localized in the northern section of Pitt, it was reported today.

Pitt County extension chairman Ed Yancey said this morning he understood that some farmers in the Bethel area sustained hail damage with a few receiving severe blows.

Yancey reported, however, that his office had not received reports of hail damage and an inspection of "most of the middle part" of the county revealed very little storm effects other than heavy rain in some areas.

"I have heard that some farmers were hit fairly hard but from our own observations I would say that the damage was localized," the chairman continued. "It certainly appears that the hail was not general throughout the county," he said, but adding that there was a report of minor damage in the Winterville area.

Endorse 3 Swim Pools For City

Members of Greenville's Human Relations Council at a recent meeting took action to endorse City Councilman's proposal for three swimming pools in Greenville.

Following a discussion on Dansey's proposal at the last City Council in which he stumped for action to construct three pools in three separate locations, Human Relations Council members passed a resolution of unanimous endorsement.

"This project will add much to the city's recreational facilities and contribute to the physical and social adjustment of the youth in our community," Jesse Harris, Director of the Human Relations Council stated.

East Carolina University Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich pointed out that three pools, as proposed, conveniently located at various places in the city, would provide much better facilities than one large pool.

Human Relations Council chairman Tommy Payne observed that public swimming facilities are urgently needed in Greenville. He also stated that several neighboring cities have had good summer swimming programs for several years.

"These proposed pools," Payne said, "will provide our Greenville young people another outstanding recreational facility."

Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner reported that 14 fires have occurred in the Pitt County area in the last week. Eight of those 14 fires were tobacco barn fires, and all but one of the barns were a total loss, with a value of $2,500 per barn. Fires reported for the period are:

July 19 — Bell Arthur Fire Department responded to a call at 1:31 p.m. on the G. R. Gurganus farm. Minor damage was reported to the tobacco barn.

July 21 — Gardnersville Fire Department responded to a woods fire near Stokestown at 5:01 a.m.

July 22 — Grifton Fire Department responded to a call at 2:57 a.m. Minor damage was reported to a house.

Staton House Fire Department responded to a tobacco barn fire at the C. D. Corbett farm at 9:20 a.m. The barn was a total loss.

Falkland and Fountain Fire Departments fought a house fire at Dupree's Crossroads at 11:50 p.m. The house was a total loss.

July 23 — Farmville Fire Department reported to a tobacco barn fire at the Arch Flanagan farm at 4:00 a.m. The barn was a total loss.

Gardnersville Fire Department responded to a call at the Heber Haddock farm at 1:58 p.m. with the barn a total loss.

Farmville Fire Department sent firemen to a car fire on Highway 258 south at 3:45 p.m. The car was a total loss.

Bethel Fire Department responded to a tobacco barn fire on the Garland McLoy farm near Bethel at 6:07 p.m. The barn was a total loss.

July 25 — Farmville Fire Department responded to a tobacco barn fire on the Blaney Strickland farm on Highway 264-A, east of Farmville at 12:22 a.m. The barn was a total loss.

Grimesland Fire Department responded to a tobacco barn fire on the William Blount farm on Highway 264 near Grimesland.

Durocher Resigns As Cub Manager

By RICHARD SALTUS Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Leo Durocher, who took over the down-trodden Chicago Cubs in 1966 and made them pennant contenders a year later, has "stepped aside" as manager.

National League East, 10 games out of first.
The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that Wrigley had summoned Durocher to his apartment Monday night for a top-secret meeting, the second such summit conference in nine months.
The newspaper said a Cubs source predicted, "Leo is going to have to do a tremendous selling job to keep from getting fired."
Lockman, former New York Giants first baseman under Durocher, denied that the Cubs are suffering from morale problems.

"Of course, I haven't been too close to the team in my position this year," he added in an interview today, his 46th birthday.
He said he was had put to diagnose the team's ineffectiveness.
"You have to remember that Pittsburgh and St. Louis have been playing exceptionally well," he said.
Lockman, Holland and other Cubs staff were in Atlanta for tonight's All-Star game, in which Cub shortstop Don Kessinger is starting for the National League.

managed the Tacoma Cubs of the Pacific Coast League. The Cubs won the PCL championship in 1969 and he picked up his second Manager of the Year award.
In 1970 he was appointed supervisor of player development — a minor league job — and two years later he was appointed assistant to the vice president.
Lockman claimed to have no knowledge of players' discontent with Durocher's managing, although such strife was apparent last year.
However, Holland quoted Wrigley as saying, "If there has been any friction between Leo and the players this year, then Leo's decision will allow this players in the remainder of the season to find out for themselves if they are pennant contenders."

Team Up For PGA Team Crown

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Harry Toscano of New Castle, Pa., and Jim Weighers, a former Western Amateur champion, have combined their talents to take first place honors in the final qualifier for the National PGA Team Golf Championship.

Seventy other teams finished the round at 68.
Forty-five of the 64 teams in the tourney made the event without qualifying.
Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are the National PGA defending team champions.

Durocher had dropped from sight and was unavailable for comment.
No big player changes are anticipated, said Lockman, and managing policies are not expected to be drastically revamped.
"The first thing I'll do is to get together with the coaching staff and evaluate the club. We have good, solid personnel down the line and I think we have a good chance of contending for the division pennant," he said.
Lockman spent 15 years as a player in the majors, coming up in 1945 and retiring after the 1959 season with Baltimore and Cincinnati. He played under Durocher when he managed New York for 7½ years in the late 40s and early 50s.
When Bobby Thompson's ninth-inning home run took the 1951 Giants into the World Series over the Brooklyn Dodgers, Lockman was one of the baserunners who crossed the plate.

Lockman's first assignment after joining the Cubs' organization in 1964 was to manage Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League. He guided the team to a first-place tie and was named Manager of the Year in the league.

Louisburg College, after knocking on the door for seven innings finally went through and scored three runs and beating the East Carolina Pirates 3-1.
Louisburg had put men on in every inning but two. Twice ECU double plays kept them from scoring. They left a total of five on base. The Bucs left seven.
The Pirates were having their troubles also. After pushing over a run in the first they moved men in scoring position several times only to have them left on the basepaths.

Mike Edwards was credited with the win. In the seven and one-third innings he was on the hill, he fanned two, walked four and gave up five hits. Jerry Taylor came on in the bottom of the eighth with the East Carolina bases loaded. He saved the win for Louisburg.
Bill Godwin took the loss for the Pirates striking out three and walking one.

East Carolina broke into the lead in the first. With one out, Jimmy Paige hit a slow roller to second that he beat out for a hit. Ralph Lamm also singled and Larry Walters slapped a single back through the box to drive in Paige.
Louisburg offered a mild threat in the top of the second putting two men on. Lin Ethridge singled to shallow third and Sherwood Driver got a hit to right. The next batter lined to Ron Staggs at first. Staggs turned and fired to second nailing Ethridge who had started for third.

Louisburg's Edwards got a hit to open the third but he was cut, down in a tailor-made double play.
The Bucs put a man in scoring position in the third as Paige singled but was forced at second by Lamm. Walters walked but a ground out ended the frame.

Greenville Country Club Picks New Pro, G.D. Fulp

Greenville Golf and Country Club has picked a new pro to replace the late Boyd Huff.
Gordon David Fulp, from Pinehurst has been chosen to be the new pro at the Country Club. He is married to the former Pell Pickett of Spartanburg, South Carolina. Fulp is 28 years old and graduated from Jacksonville High School and Atlantic Christian College of Wilson, where he earned a B.S. in Business Administration.

Gordon Fulp

Fulp attended the PGA Business School II in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida and the PGA Business School II of Dallas, Texas. He has been Assistant Pro at the Country Club of North Carolina for a total of three years.
When Fulp was 15, he won the City Championship of Jacksonville. He was also Jacksonville Junior Champion for three years and member and captain of his high school golf team. He was runner-up in the Champion Highland State Tourney in 1962 held in Fayetteville.
He attended ACC on a golf scholarship where he was captain of the team in his junior year.
While in the military, he served in the Naval Reserve in Italy, he was runner-up in the All Americans in Italy Golf Championship which was held in Rome in 1969.

Dan Wooten, chairman of the selection committee, said, "We feel very fortunate in getting him. He comes to us highly recommended." Wooten also added that, "We feel that he will be a great promoter of golf as well as being an asset to the community."
Club President, Reed Hooper, stated, "We know that he will help the club a great deal. He has a lot of enthusiasm and great ideas. He will continue the tradition of great pros at Greenville Country Club."
Fulp will begin work on August 1st.

Ron Leggett singled in the fourth but failed to come around. Mike Bradshaw looped an opposite field hit to right and was sacrificed up. Walters walked but a pop up got the Hurricanes out of the inning.
Then in the top of the eighth, Louisburg came up with three runs to take the lead. Edwards reached on an error after a strike out and was promptly picked off by Godwin. Then things began popping. Glenn Card got a single and advanced to third on a hit by Mike Wilkerson. Wayne Ellington singled to score Hatcher with the tying run and Wayne Pyrtle reached on an error that let Wilkerson and Ellington score.
The Pirates came back in the bottom of the frame loading the bases. Walters walked for the seventh time in his last twelve plate appearances. Staggs laced a hit into right and Russ Smith singled up the middle. The next two batters flied out to end the frame.
The bases were loaded again in the ninth. Tommy Tomms led off with a hit and Bradshaw singled. Two men went down before Walters singled but another fly ended the game.
Card had two hits for the Hurricanes while Bradshaw, Paige and Walters each had a pair for ECU.

Baseball Is Too Clean For Bribe

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson believes the reported bribe attempt of pitcher Wayne Simpson in Pittsburgh Saturday was a prank, that baseball is too clean for real fixers.
"This whole thing shows there's nothing cleaner than baseball," Anderson insisted Monday.
Simpson, who pitched against the Pirates Saturday, said he received a telephone call from someone identifying himself as "Louie," who offered him $2,000. Simpson said he was told to let Bob Robertson homer in the sixth inning. The Reds won 6-3.
"It didn't even phase him," said Anderson of Simpson.
"He called me right away. That's the way we do it. We check these things out, and that shows other people not to fool around because we're going to report it whether you're joking or not joking."

Anderson said "Sure I think it was" a prank. "The only thing is, as long as you report everything it's OK. That's what is so strong about baseball."
Simpson said that after the call, he was surprised when Robertson was the first batter up in the sixth inning as the caller predicted. He hit a long ball but was thrown out trying to run to second.
"I thought about it in that inning," Simpson said, adding that catcher Johnny Bench also had received a telephone call, presumably from the same man.

lockey brought home two winners at Liberty Bell race track here Monday, one owned by her father and the other owned by her uncle.
Her father, trainer Pete Maxwell, stood in the winner's circle with Mary Maxine, while Roulette Boy, owned by her uncle, A.D. Maxwell, beat the pack later in the card.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Raiders signed center Bobby Sheehan to a multi-year World Hockey Association contract Monday.
The 5-foot-8, 160 pound Sheehan, a native of Weymouth, Mass., scored 20 goals and added 26 assists for 46 points while appearing in all 78 games for the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League last season.

LUNENBURG, N.S. (AP) — Kathi Anne II, owned and skippered by David Stevens of Lunenburg, Monday won the first race of a best-of-3 competition in the international schooner races, completing the 17.5-mile course in 4 hours and 4 minutes.
Outward Bound, the U.S. entry, owned and skippered by Milton Craig of Dedham, Mass., was left far behind.
The two vessels will race again Wednesday, and a third race, if necessary, will be held Friday. The event is part of the 36th annual Nova Scotia fisheries exhibition being held here.

Maybe Darwin Is Vida Blue With A Bat

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Bobby Darwin, the American League's new slugging sensation with the Minnesota Twins, is being mentioned in the same breath with Babe Ruth and Stan Musial and part of his story happened by accident.

Ten years ago he was regarded as a standout pitcher and the Los Angeles Angels, now California Angels, gave him a $40,000 bonus to sign. It didn't work out and after three years in the minors the Baltimore Orioles picked him up for their Elmira, N.Y., farm team. His best year came in his seventh season. It was 1968 when he had a 10-6 record and 112 strikeouts in 163 innings for Elmira. That fall he took a job on a tow truck and one of the Los Angeles calls he answered involved a two-car accident. Al Campanis, Dodger vice president, was one of those involved. Campanis remembered the name Darwin and when he saw it two months later at the winter meeting he drafted the pitcher. In 1969 Darwin lost six games without winning one for Spokane, a Dodger farm.

The $40,000 bonus was written off to experience by the Angels, but Rigney, now Minnesota's pilot, remembered the six-foot-two pitcher with the level swing.

Darwin turned 29 last Feb. 16 and the reason he is being mentioned with names such as Babe Ruth and Stan Musial is that both were pitchers before becoming outfielders and slug-

Nance Traded To Eagles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was time for me to move on," said fullback Jim Nance, who will now have to see if the theories of the Philadelphia Eagles jibe with his own.

Nance, who had theoretical and money problems with the New England Patriots of the National Football League, was dealt by the Pats to the Eagles Monday.

It was also a day that saw Joe Namath state flatly he wouldn't play in exhibition games until he has signed a contract with the New York Jets. And the way the negotiations are going, it might be some time before Joe sees action.

Barnes and Walt Sweeney checked into the San Diego Chargers' base after fines of $1,050 each—$150 a day for seven days—were levied against them for missing the first week of preseason drills. Both are unsigned.

Veteran defensive linemen Ben Davidson and Tom Keating appeared at the Oakland Raiders' camp after finishing up some personal affairs, quarterback Terry Hanratty joined the Pittsburgh Steelers after finishing National Guard duty and rookie Terry Beasley returned to the San Francisco 49ers after missing eight days of workouts with a pulled hamstring muscle.

The Detroit Lions received permission from sponsors of the College All-Star game to keep their No. 1 draft choice, defensive end Herb Orris of Colorado out of the game in order to rest an ankle injury. Defensive lineman Walt Patulski of Notre Dame and the Buffalo Bills was also lifted from the All-Star roster after hurting his knee in a workout.

The Washington Redskins lost offensive tackle Jim Snowden for at least half of the coming season because of a torn knee ligament.

Nance, told by the Patriots Sunday night he no longer was needed, was traded to the Eagles in exchange for an undisclosed 1973 draft choice.

Aside from the fact that he didn't want to take a cut on his estimated $80,000 salary, Nance had said earlier that there were differences between himself and the team's playing system that led him to believe it was "time to go."

Nance, 29, gained 1,458 yards for the Patriots in 1966, setting an American Football League record. He had slumped to 468 yards last season.

"I can go 1,000 yards again in a season," Nance stated, "but I have to get the ball to do it. I haven't been getting the ball here, so I think it's time to go."

With or without Namath, the Jets open their preseason schedule against the San Francisco 49ers in Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 5. Namath is demanding a record contract—estimated at $250,000 a year—and the team's front office is balking. Namath, meanwhile, worked out Monday with the team and moved well on the legs that have bothered him throughout his eight-year pro career.

Elsewhere, Roman Gabriel did some light jogging and throwing in the Los Angeles Rams' camp on Monday—exactly one week after the quarterback underwent emergency surgery following the collapse of a lung.

In the Cleveland Browns' training camp at Hiram, Ohio, wide receiver Milt Morin was fined $150 for leaving the team without permission for about seven hours Sunday. Morin, also unsigned, reportedly is upset with the progress of negotiations with the Browns.

Church Tourney To Go Into Final Round Soon

Oakmont and St. James advanced into the championship bracket of their respective divisions last night in Church League Tournament play. Oakmont outslugged Grace, 11-8 in the second game of the tournament twinbill, while St. James whipped St. Gabriel, 17-7 in the first game.

Trailing 2-1 going into the bottom of the second, St. James erupted for ten runs, and an eventual victory. Gary Howell reached on a single, but was forced at second. Bill Potter reached first on that force play. James Brown singled, and Joe Brown followed with a base hit. Jim Rich then drove home all three men with a triple to right field. Joe Babb singled, scoring Rich. J.J. Harris unloaded a double to center to drive home

Rich with another tally. R.T. Harvey and Dave Cook rapped successive singles to score Harris, and Al Nichols rapped a double to left to bring home two more runs. Then with two out, on a fly ball by Howell, Potter lashed a double to drive Nichols in with the ninth run. The tenth run scored when James Brown singled and Joe Brown doubled to drive in Potter.

St. James added four more in the fourth and two more runs in the fifth. St. Gabriel scored three in the top of the second and two in the third.

In game two, Oakmont forged ahead in the bottom of fifth, scoring one run. With the score tied 8-8, Phil Martin doubled to center field, and scored on a single by William Rogers. Oakmont then added two more runs to ice the cake.

St. James will now meet Meadowbrook in the American Division for that title Wednesday night, while Black Jack faces Oakmont in the National Division championship Thursday night.

months to help analyze our situation and help in future planning."

In Chicago, Wrigley issued a statement praising Durocher's work during the years he has been in charge of field operations of the club.

"When we asked Leo to join the Cubs in 1965, I said we wanted him because he would take charge," Wrigley said. "He has done that and succeeded as we expected he would. After just one year, Leo managed a contending team every season, and this is why he always has had 100 per cent support from me."

But the club owner added that the Cubs as a whole had not been playing up to potential. "If there has been any friction between Leo and the players this year, then Leo's decision will allow the players to find out for themselves if they can win."

Wrigley said he was particularly glad that Lockman had agreed to act as manager through the end of the current season.

"Whitey is the best man in the Cubs' organization for the job of replacing Durocher," Wrigley added. "He will have ample opportunity during the remaining games to look at both the older and new players in the major leagues and the promising talent he has been developing in our minor league operation."

While the talkative Gibson spoke his mind, Palmer remained a silent starter on the eve of the midsummer classic. Palmer was absent from the press conference, but Earl Weaver, his manager at Baltimore and the boss of the American League team, had enough to say for both.

Gibson Does Not Want To Start All-Star Game

By KEN RAPPOPORT

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Gibson reluctantly throws the first pitch tonight in the 43rd All-Star baseball game, claiming all the while: "I didn't want to start."

The St. Louis Cardinal right-hander, less than overjoyed about his assignment for the National League, faces Jim Palmer of the American League at Atlanta Stadium.

"If I had my druthers, I wouldn't start this All-Star Game," said Gibson, the hottest pitcher in baseball with 11 straight victories. "I'd much rather just pitch one inning—and leave. An All-Star assignment might be an honor, but it's hard work, too."

The Worry Clinic Surgery Should Be Last Resort

Flora is a jittery patient, wondering if she will soon develop cancer. For X-ray showed a few stones in her gall bladder. At least 40 percent of surgery is unnecessary (see below) so mix a lot of "horse sense" with the glib of advice of young medics!

Case U-544: Flora B., aged 42, is now neurotic. "Dr. Crane," she spoke fearfully, "I had a general medical checkup recently. "And the chest X-ray showed that my gall bladder had some stones in it. "So the young physician suggested I have my gall bladder removed. "When I replied it hadn't bothered me, he said the stones might lead to cancer. "So now I am in a quandary and don't know what to do! "What would you do if you were in my position?"

Use "Horse Sense" How many physicians do you readers ever hear about who have their gall bladders removed?

It is unusual for a physician to submit to the same surgery that he routinely urges upon his patients! Why?

Because 40 percent to 60 percent of modern surgery is NOT necessary!

Dr. Walter Alvarez, astute former internist at Mayo Clinic, surveyed 385 patients who had undergone appendectomies. Yet in 225 of them (58 percent) the surgery was entirely unwarranted!

Travel cruises have provided an opportunity for bridge buffs to combine their favorite past time with tours all over the world for some years now. A rapid acceleration in interest has led Travel With Goren of New York City to expand its schedule in coming months which will include jaunts to Canada (August), the Orient (November), the South Seas (November), West Indies, Panama Canal and South America (January) and Around the World (January).

The guiding hand behind these activities is my long time associate and teammate, Harold Ogust, president of the corporation. Today's hand provides a demonstration of Mr. Ogust's flawless declarer technique which assured him of nine tricks in his three no trump contract.

Holding 12 high card points and a nearly solid five card suit, North had the values to proceed directly to three no trump over his partner's rebid, but with a singleton, he chose to make a game forcing jump to three diamonds. If South gave a delayed preference for hearts, it was North's intention to carry on to game in that suit. When the former merely returned to three no trump, North abided by partner's decision.

West opened the jack of spades and dummy's king won the first trick. Mr. Ogust studied the combined holdings carefully and then made the key play of the deal. At trick two, he led the three of hearts from the North hand. East put up the nine to win a very cheap trick and returned a spade which South won with the ace.

A second heart was led and this time the jack was played from dummy. East was in again with the ace and the spade back was taken by the queen. The North hand was entered with the king of diamonds and the king and queen of hearts picked up the outstanding cards in that suit to establish dummy's five for the fulfilling trick. In all declarer took three spades, three hearts, two diamonds, and one club.

If Ogust had led the king of hearts at trick two, East can prevent successful establishment of the suit by ducking and then winning the continuation with the ace. Declarer's only remaining entry to dummy is the king of diamonds and when the hearts do not divide evenly, there is no way to get back to the North hand once the suit is cleared. The five of hearts becomes inaccessible and South falls one trick short.

Altho declarer's apparent extravagance would have cost a trick if hearts divided evenly, the odds do not favor such a contingency and in any case 30 points was a cheap investment to assure success against adverse distribution.

Special Bill To Fit Wilbur Mills

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Any aspirations Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., might have for the presidency or vice presidency apparently won't jeopardize his House seat.

A special Arkansas law, approved this year especially for Mills, provides that any Arkansan who seeks the presidency or vice presidency also shall be eligible to seek any office in Arkansas.

The legislation whisked through the Arkansas General Assembly under the fanciful appellation, "Wilbur Bill."

Mills is unopposed for re-election to the House.

Migrant Laborer's Lot Is Slowly Improving

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The migrant's lot in North Carolina is improving. Still, it is far short of the goal of most men of a happy home, clean sheets and a bank account.

It's a life of variety — change of scenery, new work every three or four weeks, new friends.

It's also a life of instability — crowded off-times inadequate housing, low wages and medical care that at best is spotty.

Nevertheless, new faces enter the migrant stream each year, replacing the few who yielded to influence from social and religious groups to seek "permanent" employment.

"It's a life I've always wanted," according to 18-year-old Mary Lee Neal, an unmarried mother of two who made the northward trek this year, for the first time, from Bunnell, Fla.

ONE OF THE BEST — This is the kitchen of a migrant labor camp in Johnston County, N.C. The group brought their own freezer to this camp, which state officials say is one of the best in the area. (AP Wirephoto)

Miss Neal, with her children of 4 months and 15 months, has been working on a farm in Johnston County. Her stepfather, Jack Walker, is a crew leader for a labor camp that includes 10 men, three women and two children.

Other workers will be added later in the season at the camp, a cinder-block building of eight rooms and one kitchen.

It's one of the best in Johnston County, possibly in the state, according to state and local agricultural and health officials.

The Walker crew brought their own freezer. The camp owner supplied a refrigerator, a gas range, hot and cold running water for the kitchen and two enclosed, outdoor showers and three outdoor privies.

It more than meets standards set by North Carolina.

Newer camps usually fall into the structural category of the one headed by Walker, but many still are housed in ramshackle, once abandoned farm houses where only cursory attempts have been made to comply with the state standards.

Under North Carolina law a migrant camp is any project involving 10 or more workers. That does not include nonworking individuals. A permit is required for such camps — nothing is required by the state for lodging for fewer than 10 workers, although growers are expected to meet minimum health standards.

Federal standards are more stringent, labeling any lodging housing one or more workers as a labor camp. Workers placed by the State Employment Security Commission are covered by the federal guidelines as well as the requirement that their camp be licensed by the state.

A state health officer and the director of a privately funded project to help migrants disagree about enforcement of regulations.

The chief of the state Board of Health's Sanitation Division, John Andrews, says "the camps are reasonably well-maintained."

The crew leader, who may never return, generally displays little interest.

Shipes says the Migrant Project of the North Carolina Council of Churches has the found the grower-crew leader system is responsible for the housing problem.

He said in an interview that "reports sometimes come in about migrants — tearing up housing."

"Maybe this is true, but this is the only way the laborer can react to the problem," Shipes said. "I don't think the migrant is to blame."

"I think it is far better that the General Assembly adopted standards which, though they may be minimal, are practical to enforce and are being enforced reasonably well. It is far better that that happened than for the status quo to continue."

The director of the North Carolina Council of Churches' Migrant Project, William Shipes, wonders about the plight of workers who are not under federal jurisdiction or who are not in camps in of 10 or more people.

"If a grower brings in one person he should provide adequate housing and be required to meet standards," Shipes said. "When you start heading out, you've got problems."

"About the only thing you can enforce is that they must have a toilet, and that's the only law. I think any law should be measurable."

Shipes said he has been some improvement since 1965, but "this has been done through persuasion primarily. I think we are now at the place where laws are needed."

The laws are available, through the 1970 federal Occupational Safety and Health Act, which would extend federal migrant guidelines to all workers. A lack of funds has held up its implementation but are now expected to be applied at the state level by sometime in 1973.

State law specifies that a migrant is entitled to 20 square feet of living space. Federal law specifies 50 square feet.

State law also requires in the camps of more than 10 workers that there be a water outlet no more than 200 feet away from the housing, a toilet for each 20 persons, and a shower for each 15 migrants.

Federal laws requires such things as screens over all doors and windows and heaters.

Some counties, such as Green and Lenoir, have gone beyond state law and have adopted local ordinances forcing camp owners to comply with the federal standards regardless of the number of workers.

But some growers, especially in the eastern counties and in the Hendersonville area, bypass the standards by using the smaller facility for scattered groups of migrants.

They contract individually with crew leaders, avoiding the restrictions.

State law places responsibility on the grower for complying with the sanitation standards, such as providing screens on kitchen and dining areas.

But the crew leader is responsible for maintaining the agricultural labor camp in a sanitary condition.

The dual responsibility often leaves enforcement officers again a stone wall in trying to force improvements. Growers say they must only provide the necessary equipment and services, and that the crew leader must see that the camp is maintained.

State officials estimate that perhaps half of the 675 registered housing units in North Carolina meet federal standards.

Enforcement of the state regulations is handled by the state Board of Health's Sanitation Division, although permits are issued through county health boards.

Some counties reinspect camps as often as every other week. Others let it go for longer periods. The permit, by state law, is valid for one year unless revoked because of violations.

Transportation Deaths Decline For Sixth Year

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation accidents killed 58,452 persons last year—526 more than in 1970—but the death rate declined for the sixth consecutive year, the Transportation Department reported today.

A department study said the number of deaths in train accidents and highway grade-crossing accidents declined, but the number of deaths increased in every other category of travel.

Motor-vehicles accidents, not including those at highway-grade crossings, accounted for the vast majority of fatalities—50,949, just 19 more than in 1970, the report said.

But, when the increasing volume of traffic is considered, the fatality rates were down.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said the motor-vehicle death rate has declined continuously since 1966, and the fatality rate also has decreased for accidents involving motorcycles, grade crossings, and train service.

"The highway death rate per 100 million vehicle miles now stands at 4.70, compared to 5.70 in 1966," Volpe said.

"The rate decline is encouraging, and I think we can trace it to our efforts to improve vehicles, roads, signaling, and driver education," he said.

Following motor vehicle accidents, motorcycle deaths were in second place, 2,695 compared with 2,430 in 1970.

Boating accidents claimed 1,582 lives, an increase of 164. Accidents involving merchant vessels killed 243, an increase of 65.

Deaths on highway grade crossings, including pedestrians killed by trains, numbered 1,356, a decline of 84. Train accidents killed 102, twenty-eight fewer than in 1970.

Airline crashes last year claimed 203 lives, 57 more than in 1970. Accidents in general aviation—private, sport, agricultural and business flying—resulted in 1,322 deaths, 68 more than in 1970.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A white deposit on a Martian crater photographed by orbiting Mariner 9 may be ice, scientists say.

The white ring near the North Pole of the planet could very well be frozen water and, if so, could add important weight to the theory that water is locked into ice deposits at the planet's poles and perhaps elsewhere, researchers said Monday.

The existence of water in significant amounts, either now or in the past, is considered necessary for the existence of life.

It is now spring in Mars' northern hemisphere and the frozen carbon dioxide cap is evaporating, scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said. The photo taken June 23 by the orbiting Mariner space probe shows the cap has receded from the crater etched in white.

"The frost-rimmed crater lies outside the cap in an area where the carbon dioxide ice has been vaporized by the spring sun," the scientists explained.

"That the crater is still frosted indicates a possible deposit of water ice, as higher temperatures are required to vaporize water ice than carbon dioxide ice."

Earlier pictures taken of the south pole lead experts to conclude that the south pole of Mars is covered by a permanent water ice cap.

5 Hearings On Thursday

Five items are listed on the agenda of the Greenville Board of Adjustments for the board's regular monthly meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

All five of the agenda items are public hearings.

The first listed is a request for variance by Pitt Marine and Paint Center to enclose a covered entrance to Harris Supermarket located at 2612 East Tenth Street.

Next in line is a special use permit and variance request by Charles V. Wilkerson to move a duplex apartment from 115 East Eighth Street to 200 East Eighth Street. This will be followed by the hearing on the request for special use by Walter Williams to construct a service station at the northwest corner of Greenville Boulevard and Fourteenth Street.

The fourth request, one for a special use permit, is by Mrs. Al Davis, to construct a kin-

TAKING OFF? HAVE FUN!

WE HOPE you'll have a great time on your vacation. We'd be happy to help make this vacation more enjoyable for you. Here's how:

WE'LL SEND the newspaper to your vacation address while you're away. Just give us your vacation mailing address, and we'll mail every issue to you whether it's for a few weeks or several months.

WE'LL SAVE the newspapers for you, if you've going to be on the go this year. Your newspaperboy will deliver the back copies when you get back. It's fun to catch up on what happened while you were gone.

WE'LL START delivery again when you return if you will let us know the date you plan to get back.

ONE CALL to our Circulation Department can do it all. Why not call us as soon as your vacation plans are set? (BY THE WAY, DON'T FORGET TO PAY YOUR NEWSPAPERBOY BEFORE YOU LEAVE. HE'LL APPRECIATE IT.)

THE WORLD'S NEWEST BANK:

NCNB's new East End Office is located at 1908 East Greenville Blvd., near the Washington Highway intersection.

Come to the Grand Opening this Friday, and we'll try to make you a millionaire for the day.

Three lucky people will become millionaires for a day at the Grand Opening of NCNB's new East End Office this Friday.

You could be one of the winners of a full day's interest on $1,000,000!

Just stop by our East End Office, 1908 East Greenville Blvd. near the Washington Highway intersection, between 9:00 and 5:00 on Friday, and register for the "Millionaire for a Day" drawing. (You must be 18 or over to be eligible. Winners' names will be drawn at the end of the day on Friday; you need not be present to win.)

Tour the world's newest bank

Tour our beautiful new building —and see how we've combined complete banking services under one roof for your convenience.

We can show you what Full Service Banking really means. Checking and savings accounts. Custom Credit. Safe deposit boxes. Personal and commercial loans. BankAmericard®, the world's most accepted credit card.

There's plenty of parking—and even a drive-in window and night depository, for your convenience.

We'll be serving refreshments to everyone during our Grand Opening celebration, too. So come be our guest at the world's newest bank—NCNB's Greenville East End Office—this Friday!
