IRA Strongholds Invaded By British Troops, Armor

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops and armor occupied barricaded strongholds of the Irish Republican Army early today and encountered almost no resistance. But the IRA struck back later with bombs that killed at least six civilians.

Striking at 4 a.m., 13,000 British soldiers smashed down IRA barricades with tanks converted to bulldozers and took possession of Catholic areas of Londonderry, Belfast, Lurgan, Armagh, Portadown, Coalisland and Dungannon.

By noon, reports were coming in of bombings in Londonderry and other towns.

In Claudy, 12 miles southeast of Londonderry, six persons were killed when bombs planted in three cars exploded in the main street.

Army officers believed most of the IRA gunmen had gone underground in the countryside or fled across the border to the Irish Republic.

Three hours after the troops breached the first barricades, William Whitelaw, the British administrator for Northern Ireland, announced: "The British army are now in occupation and control throughout Northern Ireland."

An army spokesman said the troops suffered no casualties but shot four gunmen during the night. The bodies of two men were brought to a Londonderry hospital.

It was the biggest military offensive in the three years of religious warfare in Northern Ireland.

The Catholics stayed inside their homes as the troops entered the "Free Derry" enclaves in Londonderry for the first time in more than a year. But after dawn they began to come out.

Children taunted the soldiers with cries of "Pigs!" "English bastards," and "Leave us alone."

Outside a church, a crowd of women who had attended Mass shouted at a convoy roaring past: "We'll rise again and you'll know about it."

Whitelaw said the purpose of the operation was to open up the areas previously closed to British security forces, "to enable the security forces to move freely through all areas and so protect the whole community."

The troops also went into the "no go" areas Protestant militants had established in Belfast in protest against the IRA barricades. But there the members of the Protestant Ulster Defense Association began pulling down their roadblocks as soon as the troops appeared.

The army's main target was "Free Derry"—the Bogside and Creggan districts of Londonderry, ringed by concrete and iron barricades, where the IRA has held unchallenged military sway for more than a year.

At 4 a.m., 1,500 troops with armored cars and tanks equipped as bulldozers thrust into the Bogside and began tearing down barricades.

The soldiers, their faces blackened and in full combat gear, met only slight resistance as the "Free Derry siren" sounded an invasion alert.

The army said it shot one gunman and a gasoline bomber but found no bodies.

The assault had been expected since late Sunday when Whitelaw announced the army was poised for "substantial activity" and warned civilians to keep off the streets.

The IRA in Londonderry was outnumbered 50 to 1 by the troops and had not been expected to fight back. The army's progress into the guerrilla citadel was impeded only briefly by mines and gelignite booby traps on the streets.

Eagleton To Fight Ouster From Ticket

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the new party leadership urging him to pull out, Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton says he'll take his fight for staying on the ticket to George McGovern tonight.

Whether he stays on will be a joint decision, the Missouri senator said Sunday, and if presidential candidate McGovern should ask him to get off "I can't prejudice what I would do."

Eagleton said he will present his case to McGovern at a meeting tonight—without being pig-headed, he said—but was not at all sure a decision would result from the meeting.

The Missouri senator's future on the ticket has been in question since last Tuesday when he disclosed that he had undergone psychiatric treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for mental depression.

McGovern told newsmen early Sunday "I really don't know at this point whether he's a plus or a minus" in the campaign against President Nixon but said "we might very well decide that the thing to do is for him to stay on."

Democratic National Chairman Jean Westwood and Vice Chairman Basil A. Paterson, interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday, urged Eagleton to drop out.

"It would be the noble thing for Tom Eagleton to step down," Mrs. Westwood said.

She said discussion of Eagleton's medical background is eclipsing an airing of real campaign issues.

Mrs. Westwood and Paterson were selected for their jobs by McGovern but both said on the television interview that they were urging Eagleton to withdraw on their own and had not consulted McGovern.

McGovern met at his home for 5½ hours late Sunday with Mrs. Westwood and several key members of his staff, including political director Frank Mankiewicz, campaign manager Gary Hart, and fund-raiser Henry Kimelman.

Hart confirmed the group had discussed Eagleton's future but would not elaborate.

Eagleton, appearing on "Face the Nation" on CBS, said he considers himself not an encumbrance but an asset to the ticket.

He said he demonstrated his ability last week by winning such "disenchanted" party leaders as California fund-raiser Gene Wyman and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto over to supporting the McGovern-Eagleton ticket.

One of Eagleton's questioners on "Face the Nation" was columnist Jack Anderson who publicly apologized on the program for reporting without documentary proof that Eagleton had been arrested several times for drunken driving.

But Anderson said he could not in good conscience retract the story because he has not been able to contact an unnamed person who is said to have photostats of the alleged arrest citations.

B52 And 2 Phantoms Lost In Southeast Asian War

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. B52 bomber crashed Sunday night during a thunderstorm in northeast Thailand, and two Air Force F4 Phantoms went down off the coast of North Vietnam after running out of fuel, the U.S. Command announced today.

The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok said five of the six B52 crewmen were killed. It said the sixth man was picked up by a rescue helicopter today.

The command in Saigon said the four Phantom crewmen also were rescued.

The cause of the B52 crash was not known. The plane was on its way to a bombing attack in Vietnam, and the 30 tons of bombs aboard exploded in the crash, creating a huge fireball, sources in Bangkok said. But an embassy spokesman said there were no known civilian casualties or damage to property.

It was the second B52 crash in Thailand since the big bomber was first stationed there in 1967.

North Vietnam claimed that two Air Force Phantoms were shot down over Hanoi on Sunday, and two of the crewmen were captured. It did not identify the Americans but said one of them was wounded in his left leg and his temple.

The U.S. Command reported no losses in the Hanoi region. It said one of the Phantoms that crashed in the Tonkin Gulf ran out of fuel while maneuvering to avoid a MIG jet, while the second F4 that crashed had failed — for reasons not known to the command — to rendezvous with its refueling tanker.

The command reported also that American jets hit North Vietnam's Red River delta again Sunday, but it denied charges by Hanoi that flood control facilities were attacked deliberately on Saturday.

In Sunday's raids, North Vietnam claimed that American planes bombed a populated area six miles from the center of Hanoi and residential areas in Haiphong and its outskirts.

U.S. spokesmen in Saigon, queried about the Hanoi allegations of bombing dikes, said they had nothing to add to statements by President Nixon last week and an intelligence study of North Vietnam's dike system released by the U.S. State Department.

Nixon said it has never been the policy of the United States to bomb the dikes and would not be in the future. The State Department said intelligence reports showed conclusively that there had been no intentional bombing of the dikes but that a few of them sustained minor damage from stray bombs directed at nearby military targets.

U.S. Air Force Phantoms escorted bombers on strikes against the northeast railroad between Hanoi and China on Saturday shot down two MIG21 interceptors in a dogfight 35 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital, the U.S. Command said.

Architect Of European Unity Dies In Brussels

BRUSSELS (AP) — Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian Socialist leader and one of the architects of European unity and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, died early today at the age of 73, it was officially announced.

Death was attributed to a kidney deficiency.

Spaak had been vacationing in the Azores and became ill on Saturday. The U.S. Air Force flew him to Brussels.

Spaak was known as "Mr. Europe" for his work for European unity and also played a leading part at the founding meeting of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945. He became the first president of the U.N. General Assembly in 1946 and in 1970 came out of retirement to attend the 25th anniversary meeting of the world organization in New York.

When he retired from public life at the age of 67 in 1966, the Belgian statesman had been premier twice and foreign minister six times.

He interrupted his political career in Belgium in 1957 to serve as secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He held the post for five years.

A power in Europe for 34 years, Spaak once said: "I was told that I look like Churchill and speak English like Charles Boyer. Of course, I would rather speak English like Churchill and look like Charles Boyer."

He spent his life fighting nationalism, which he considered an evil that had divided Europe for centuries. He was also a big man physically, carrying 230 pounds on a 6-foot frame.

Spaak was a principal founder of the European Common Market and over the years continued to predict a united Europe despite traditional hostility, fear and the policies of the late President Charles de Gaulle.

During World War I, Spaak spent two years in a German prison camp. After the war, he plunged into law studies, finishing a five-year course in 2½ years.

A Socialist, he became the youngest premier in Belgian history in 1938, when he was 39. Spaak was born into a family of celebrities. His mother was Belgium's first woman senator and his father was a well known lawyer, poet and playwright.

His first wife, Marguerite Maley, the daughter of a wealthy industrialist, died in 1964 after 42 years of marriage. They had three children. He remarried in 1965.

Fiery Train

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Its crew unaware that one of the cars had become a torch, a freight train rolled through five communities touching off fires that burned brush, a house and a railroad laborer's carm

The 10-mile-long trail of blazes was finally stopped when firemen flagged down the train at an intersection here and extinguished the freight car blaze.

The flaming car was first reported Sunday as it passed through Irwindale and Duarte. Sparks flying from the car set off seven brush fires along the railroad right of way.

More brush fires were started in Monrovia.

An unoccupied house in Arcadia was set afire as the flaming car passed along the track nearby. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Most of the brush fires touched off by the freight car were quickly controlled, fire officials said.

Blue Angel Wrecks

KINSTON, N. C. (AP) — After flying missions in the Vietnam war without a scratch, the commander of the Navy's Blue Angels got banged up Sunday while ejecting during a crash landing at an air show.

Lt. Cmdr. Donald Bentley of Seattle, Wash. was bringing his F-4 Phantom jet in for a landing when he felt the plane drift to left at Stallings Field at Kinston.

Witnesses said they saw a puff of smoke as the plane touched down and the plane's left wing dipped down.

Bentley said he tried to take off again, but that the plane veered onto grass and began plowing up dirt. He said he ejected when the plane sped toward an unoccupied Air Force pickup truck.

The parachute was fully open when he came to rest on the airstrip.

Bentley was taken to a Kinston hospital where he was treated for a broken toe and scraped knees. His legs struck the cockpit when he ejected.

Bentley and the other Blue Angels flew to their home base in Pensacola, Fla. later Sunday. "At least this wasn't my last ride," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Five armed men in business suits and moustaches called at the posh Plaza Hotel early today, herded 20 employees and guests into a back room and rifled 15 to 20 safe deposit boxes.

Police said they had no immediate estimate of the haul.

A similar robbery at the exclusive Hotel Pierre last New Year's weekend netted an estimated $1 million to $4 million in gems — most of which have not been recovered.

In today's heist, the bandit team pulled up at the Plaza, located on Fifth Avenue at the southern edge of Central Park, about 4 a.m. They rifled the boxes and drove off an hour later in a tan station wagon.

Edner Smith, a bellman at the Plaza, said he was standing at his post in the lobby when a tall, heavy-set man with a moustache, dressed in a suit and carrying a suitcase, walked up to him.

Posh New York Hotel Is Robbed By 5 Armed Men

Smith said he asked the man if he wanted a room.

"No," the man said, "this is a holdup."

"Then he showed me his gun," Smith related.

Jimmy Conway, an elevator operator with the Plaza for 44 years, said the men locked him along with other employees and guests in a back room while they rifled the boxes.

"They were real nice about it," Conway said. "They saw my gray hair and told me to sit down. They didn't even handcuff me."

One inadvertent witness was taxi driver William Leins, who was standing by his cab when he noticed the five men get out of their car and go inside.

Leins said he noticed the men had left a bottle of liquor in the back seat and, assuming the men were checking in, went inside to tell the night manager that they had forgotten it.

When he walked in, he said, one of the men turned him around, put a gun in his back and directed him to the office where the others were held.

He said that when the men left, they told the employees to wait five minutes before calling police.

"We gave them 10 minutes," Leins said. "We gave them all the time they wanted."

Jack Craver, general manager of the Plaza, said there were about 125 safe deposit boxes in the rear of the offices but he did not know the number that were opened.

Soviet Navy Boasts Of Its Sub-Killing Prowess

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet navy can detect and destroy an enemy vessel anywhere in the world, its commander said Sunday.

If war were to break out, foreign submarines would not be able to repel the Red fleets, Adm. Sergei Gorshkov said in a Soviet Navy Day article in Pravda. Gorshkov said Russia's atomic-powered submarines, "armed 2 carrying ships and planes, are capable of destroying an enemy in any region of the world's oceans."

They can "detect and utterly destroy any submarine in all weather conditions," he asserted.

Gorshkov did not name the United States but many of his statements implied a Soviet challenge to the U.S. Navy.

The Soviet Pacific, Baltic, Arctic and Black Sea fleets contain more than 400 submarines, 95 of them atomic-powered, while the U.S. Navy has 101 nuclear-powered subs and 36 of the conventional type. However, Western experts say the U.S. Navy plans to build only 11 more this year and next, while the Soviets are turning out an atomic sub every five weeks.

N.C. Seed Tests Find Violations

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — State seed testers found 540 violations of North Carolina's laws during routine tests made in the past year, Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham said today.

Graham told the North Carolina Seedsmen's Association that his department's inspectors tested more than 26,000 samples of seed for germination and parity.

"We will find ways to reduce the number of violations even more," he said.

Kite's Rider Falls To Death

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Don R. Helms, 36, of Rte. 4 Charlotte fell 300 feet to his death Sunday when a kite he was riding on began spinning around and plunged to the ground.

Helms was rehearsing his act at the Shuffletown dragstrip. His Kite was on the end of a 1,000-foot line being towed by a car. He had made another flight over the drag strip 30 minutes earlier without incident.

Drag strip owner Tom Ferrell said a gust of wind might have caused the 36-foot kite to twist and begin spinning.

Hospital Care Cost Up Sharply Says '71 Study

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Hospital Association reports that the cost of one day's care for a hospital patient increased 13.9 per cent in 1971.

The cost was $92.31, the AHA reported Sunday in its annual survey of the 7,097 registered hospitals in the United States.

The 1970 average was $81.01, which was an increase of 15.7 per cent over 1969.

Total expenses for community hospitals rose 14.5 per cent during 1971, compared with 17.7 per cent in 1970. Payroll expenses were up 14.3 per cent in 1971 compared with 16.4 per cent in 1970.

The AHA noted that the wage-price freeze and Phase II of the President's Economic Stabilization Program did not have a significant effect on the 1971 figures because the association's statistical survey period ended Sept. 1.

Outpatient visits rose 18 million to 200 million, an increase of 10.1 per cent, the hospitals reported.

Emergency visits rose 10.5 per cent in community hospitals, and clinic outpatient visits were up 9.3 per cent, while referred outpatient visits rose 14 per cent.

Cooper's Droop Alert Undeters British Birds

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
LONDON (AP) — Cooper's droop holds no peril for the bountiful braless birds of Britain.

"Cooper's what?" demanded dancer Fiona Pennaman when informed a recent journal of the American Medical Association had warned that girls going without a bra risk "development of pendulous breasts caused by stretching of the fibrous tissue attaching the breast to the chest."

Once lengthened by gravity, the consultants submitted, "these fibrous connections, Cooper's suspensory ligaments, do not resume youthful dimensions and no amount of exercise will restore pristine mammary profile."

"This Cooper must be a nit or a twit," scoffed Miss Pennaman, projecting a pectoral profile to delight the eye of a Rubens. "Going about without a bra is far more comfortable than being trussed up like a Yorkshire ham."

Dispatched in the interests of pectoral pathology to Wimbledon, Chelsea, Knightsbridge and other areas of impending pendulosity, this reporter, lately returned from Vietnam, approached the whole subject of Cooper's droop with the caution one reserves for a minefield.

Choosing the interview subjects from a crowded field calls for keen powers of observation, fore and aft. And a wary regard for belligerent boyfriends. In addition to an impeccable pectoral profile, there must also be clear evidence of what the doctors call "lack of mammary support," usually detectable by the absence of a bra strap.

There was the singular case of Londoner Pat Adams who, proud as a bartender who didn't drink, sold bras at Escalade, the fashionable Knightsbridge shop, without wearing one.

"But I always wear one when skiing," she confided. Most of the unbuttoned interviewees were relieved at the medical journal's conclusions that "the whole affair is one of appearance rather than health." At worst, the perils of pendulosity, if realized, would leave one looking like members of certain African tribes where bras were burned before the dawn of history.

Few of the girls approached had dispensed with their bras in the spirit of liberation or rebellion.

"The flat look is in, isn't it, dearie?" suggested fashion model Maureen Madden of Brisbane, Australia, whose contour presented a well-rounded argument to the contrary.

Oddly enough, the only real hostility to the survey developed in the Kings Road of Chelsea, the no-bra capital of the Western world. In tow behind an enormous Great Dane came a prodigiously pendulous specimen.

My approach was discreet, scholarly.

"Madame... the Journal of the American Medical Association has warned that your not wearing a bra can lead to, ahem, pendulosity..."

"Bloody cheek," she bel- lowed. "I am wearing a bra."

The dog was still growling and the woman howling for a constable, when the researcher abruptly concluded his inquiries by disappearing into a crowded boutique.

"May I be of some assistance?" asked a nodular nymph in a see-through halter dress.

"No, no, no. Just looking."

Exchange Of News Agreed

PEKING (AP) — An agreement was reached Sunday on the exchange of news and photos between the Associated Press and Hsinhua, China's news and photo agency.

The exchange agreement between the two news services marked the first time in 22 years that an American news organization had established a regular news and photo channel with China's People's Republic.

Direct news links ended in December 1949 with the departure of the last Associated Press correspondent, Fred Hampson.

The agreement provides both radio and mail exchanges.

The agreement was reached in negotiations between top Hsinhua officials and Wes Gallagher, president, and Paul Miller, chairman of the Associated Press, over a period of several days. The Associated Press party of five has been in Peking and other cities as the guest of Hsinhua.

Senate Majority Hope Is Seen For Republicans

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Republicans have an outside chance to capture the Senate majority next fall but no hopes in the House, according to the Ripon Society, a progressive GOP organization based here.

A national survey, reported in the July issue of the Ripon Forum, said President Nixon has a commanding lead for re-election and is a clear favorite to win in 35 states.

The report noted, however, "the President has always run well in the summer ... and done considerably worse in November."

It said the President's chances are subject to the "charisma of the McGovern crusade into the Promised land, anticipated Democratic voter registration drive, the progress of the war and the economy, voter reaction to the President's stand on school busing and the proven ability of Nixon campaign organizations to reduce commanding leads."

The survey report said the GOP has chances of picking up Senate seats in New Mexico, Rhode Island, Oklahoma and North Carolina, and an outside chance in Georgia and Alabama. But the report said there may be GOP Senate losses in Idaho, Maine and South Dakota. A net gain of three Senators would still leave the Republicans on the short side, 52-48.

The survey indicated little hope for change in the House, with the Republicans picking up three seats at best to leave the Democrats a 252-183 advantage.

The report said Republicans have good chances to take Democrat-held governor's seats in Missouri, North Carolina, Rhode Island and North Dakota, but GOP incumbents in Delaware, Washington and Illinois may be defeated for re-election.

Babies Available For Adoption Food For Backpacking: How To Pick, Pack And Cook It

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Every time I read a letter in your column from parents complaining because of a problem with a child I could scream! I would give my right arm to have their problem.

I am 23, married, and have been to several doctors dealing with sterility problems, and I have been told I am sterile. We want to adopt a child, but there is a long waiting list of at least three years.

People who have "problems" with their children should thank God every day of their lives that they are able to have children—no matter what kind of problems they have with them. They are blessed and don't even appreciate it. I envy them their problems with their children, and I couldn't mean it more sincerely.

HEARTBROKEN FOR REAL

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Apparently you want to adopt a newborn, American, Caucasian baby, which is not easy to come by. Babies of mixed parentage are available. Also Korean babies. Also children in orphanages, some of them handicapped. If you are sincere, and consider "problems" a blessing, you need not remain childless.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a man whose house is cluttered with pictures of himself? He has them in every room, framed and on the walls, and sitting around in expensive frames on every end table, and even on the window sills.

This man is now fat and bald, and most of these pictures were taken long ago when he was young and handsome and had lots of hair and a trim physique. Nobody would recognize him as the same person.

What is wrong with him?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Nothing need be "wrong" with him. Maybe he just enjoys seeing himself as others SAW him.

DEAR ABBY: Is it improper to put a return address on a card of sympathy?

A friend of mine said this should never be done.

HURON, S. DAKOTA

DEAR HURON: Your friend is mistaken. All mail should have a return address. And my sympathy goes to those frustrated postmasters and mail handlers who find millions of pieces of mail undeliverable because of insufficient, incorrect or illegible addresses, and NO return address.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for "Going Crazy," the wife of a man who always starts projects, but never finishes anything.

I have a solution for your problem. When your husband starts a project—painting, papering, building a patio, putting in a garden, or whatever, and then loses interest and abandons it, that's your cue to go right to work and start to "finish" it for him.

He will come running to show you how incompetent you are, quickly pointing out that you are doing it all wrong. Then he will proceed to take over the job and "show" you how an expert does it.

Just keep telling him how smart he is, and continue to marvel at his expertise. And before you know it, the job will be finished.

Sleeping Teacher Causes Mass Exit

HERBAYUM, Netherlands (WNS) — Thirty mothers kept their children home from school here to protest the fact that Trinus Riemersma, their teacher, keeps falling asleep during classes. "Once he snored so loudly that students couldn't write their compositions," reported one lady. "They couldn't wake him so they left the classroom." School principal Harm Dijkstra explained, "Trinus suffers from headaches that tire him quickly. But he's an excellent teacher, and I don't want to lose him."

Americans have rediscovered their feet. More and more families are abandoning the luxuries of civilization and substituting legs for wheels, muscles for motors and pine needles for spring mattresses.

"Almost overnight, walking has become a national sport," says Rich Boggs, national sales manager, Himalayan backpacks. "Ten years ago, only a few thousand people had tried backpacking. By the end of this summer, nearly 20 million Americans will have put a pack on their back and walked back into wooded terrain for a day or a weekend."

If you're ready to try it with your family, here are some tips from Boggs on how to get ready for the trip.

First, remember you will be carrying your complete kitchen on your back. Therefore, everything you take along must be calculated to the last ounce.

Manufacturers have already done a lot of the work. A wide selection of pre-packaged dehydrated and freeze-dried food is available and, one the trial, you simply add water.

If you'd rather plan your own menus, packaged soups, instant potatoes, powdered breakfast drinks spaghetti, dehydrated vegetables and dried fruits make good camping fare. Fig bars and chocolate carry well for snacks.

When all your food is purchased, remove it from the cans and boxes, and determine how many times each food will be served on the trip. Then, make up a small plastic sandwich bag containing the amount of each food you need for one meal. Put seasonings and flavoring together. For instance, put sugar and powdered cream in with coffee. Knot each plastic bag low, close to the food. For long hikes, cut the top of the bag off above the knot to conserve space.

After all the individual items are ready, take all the small plastic bags for one meal and put them in a larger plastic bag. Label it for the appropriate meal, such as, "Lunch, Tuesday." Later when you pack, put the items for the last day of your trip in the very bottom of your pack. Your first meal goes on top.

Mark your drinking cup with lines on the outside showing 1/2, 2-3 and full measuring cup marks so that you can use it for adding water to your powdered food. (Red nail polish is a good way to do this.) Take along a small notebook — which can double as a hiking diary — in which you list the amount of water to be added to each food.

To keep cooking utensils to a minimum, use a set of two nesting aluminum pots. A tin plate, cup and combination spoon-fork for each person one all you need for eating, with the help of a pocket knife. Pack an ample supply of wooden matches in a waterproof plastic container. An asbestos-type gove is also convenient.

While you're planning your load, don't forget a few items for the kids. The adult yearn to "get away from it all" may not be shared by your children. If you want to take the younger set along, include a few snacks for them. You should also plan activities children will enjoy. Pre-trip shopping and packing might include selecting a pocket-sized nature book.

You should also collect small games and surprise bags for the junior members to open very so often during rest stops on the hike. You can make a tic-tac-toe cover for a sleeping pillow by stitching on game lins. On the inside, attach a pocket and fill it with felt X's and O's.

VEPCO Must Prove The Need

Virginia Electric and Power Co. has filed for a $2.5 million rate increase in annual revenues with the N. C. Utilities Commission.

The new rates, according to the company, would provide a return on investment similar to that approved by the Virginia Commission last month. That decision provides a return on investment of 8.56 percent.

There is also a request for a fossil fuel adjustment clause such as has been approved in Virginia and West Virginia. This would provide for a monthly increase or decrease in bills to reflect cost of fossil fuel per kilowatt hour.

The rate increase would affect areas of Northeastern North Carolina, including Bethel, Williamston and other communities.

Hopefully the increase request will be opposed vigorously by the affected areas of North Carolina.

'X' Factor In 1972 Election

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Youth is the "X" factor in the equation for the '72 general election.

Boosters for Sen. George McGovern as the Democratic nominee count on the under-30 age group as a major component for the campaign to capture the White House.

President Nixon's team shows equal confidence that young people, among the blue collar crowd if not on college would involve youth in Government. One-third of his White House staff is under 30. He said he would wind down the war in Vietnam, and he has done so.

When Nixon took office, the chances were one-in-seven for a young man to be drafted; last year it was down to one-in-17, and today it is even lower, Brubaker contended.

Accomplishments will be more persuasive than promises in winning young voters, he predicted.

On the negative side, Brubaker acknowledged that Nixon has an Establishment image that might turn off some young people. He thought that would be a factor among college students more than with the working young.

In any case, he said, polls have shown Nixon has a favorable rating with many young voters, on and off campus.

Nixon Visits Forest
President Nixon will campaign in North Carolina as a part of the general election drive, Brubaker said.

Rallies for young people will forsake the traditional format and mix it up with rock music, he reported. A registration effort will be an important aspect of the youth campaign, he added.

Young people in the Democratic party were prominent in McGovern's capture of the nomination. Supporters of the South Dakota feel he offers the kind of change that attracts young activists.

A massive registration effort has been identified as a key element in McGovern strategy, in North Carolina and across the nation.

Getting voters registered is one thing; getting them to vote is another.

Experience in the Tar Heel primary this spring showed how far apart they can be. Although registration was up some 220,000, the total vote in the primary was not much greater than four years ago.

The clear implication was that many who registered didn't go out to vote.

There's a fertile field for voter registration among older adults as well as the young. The state board of elections estimates that the 2 million registered Tar Heels represents perhaps 55 per cent of the eligible electorate.

Of the 1,250,000 or more unregistered citizens of all ages, around 60 to 70 per cent fall in the under-30 category. They are the target group for political forces seeking to tap the youth potential.

Citing The Record
"Look at the record," urged Brubaker, a 25-year-old who served as chairman of this year's Republican State Convention. "He said he

It is a fact of modern life that electric rates are going to continue to rise, but each time a power company requests a rate increase it should have to demonstrate in detail that the increase is absolutely essential to a healthy operation.

This particular increase will not affect Greenville and Winterville and Ayden which purchase power from Vepco directly. Greenville buys power wholesale from Vepco. However, it is a foregone conclusion that requests for similar increase in wholesale rates will be filed with the Federal Power Commission.

Greenville and the other cities which have banded together in the Electricities organization will be opposing this rate increase before the federal agency. It is certain, however, that there will be some increase in the wholesale rate which will be passed on to local consumers.

Local users will have an interest in how the case before the N. C. Utilities Commission turns out since Greenville Utilities adopts the same schedule as Vepco. If this is done after the new rate is allowed, the new Vepco schedules will be applicable here.

Cost of power is going up for a number of reasons, but consumers and their representatives must fight every step to the way before the regulatory agencies to hold the increases to the minimum.

Vietnam Peace Hopes Rising

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Muted optimism at the highest levels here about a Vietnam settlement is based on the hard conviction that a massive Communist offensive against Hue, expected soon, will be crushed before October, paving the way for final negotiations before the election.

There are, moreover, reliable signals that Hanoi is at last seriously interested in a negotiated settlement. Key advisers of President Nixon note the absence of the usual propaganda hoopla from Hanoi or its top-level negotiating team in Paris.

Thus, settlement hopes are a product of altered conditions both on the battlefield and at Paris.

Hanoi's new offensive, expected by mid-August, will be the one major Communist military effort aimed at salvaging something from the wreckage of last spring's countryside offensive.

Backed by elements of up to eight divisions, it appears aimed at the ancient imperial capital of Hue. Experts here expect either a direct assault on Hue or a drive east to the sea between Quang Tri and Hue, cutting the vital Highway 1 artery — the famed "street without joy" — between those two provincial capitals.

To mount this offensive after the horrible chewing up of Communist forces since the attack across the demilitarized zone four months ago, Hanoi is believed to have scraped the bottom of its manpower barrel.

Moreover, the attacking forces will be facing South Vietnamese troops with higher morale than last spring — a result of their success containing the big offensive. The strong feeling within the Administration is that the offensive will fail at an enormous sacrifice of blood and equipment to Hanoi.

Even so, there would be little hope for any subsequent breakthrough at the Paris talks were it not for the subtle changes there. In the past, sure signs that Hanoi was not truly interested in negotiations were propaganda leaks to sympathetic Western journalist and cozy chats with anti-war American politicians, all pretending that Hanoi would settle if only Mr. Nixon would bargain in good faith.

For example, Sen. George McGovern said last September he had received positive assurances in private talks with Hanoi's negotiators that withdrawal of all U.S. troops from South Vietnam would automatically lead to release of the U. S. prisoners of war. But while its agents soft-talked the American doves, Hanoi's real goal never changed: displacement of President Nguyen Van Thieu by coalition government.

Since the start of the new phase in the Paris talks, both the government in Hanoi and its politburo member in Paris, Le Duc Tho, have floated not a single word of beguiling propaganda to a single American newsmen or politician — despite innumerable opportunities.

As of this writing, Le Duc Tho has refused to grant any significant interviews at all. A propaganda fog surrounded Henry Kissinger and Tho in their last, brief round of Paris peace talks May 2 — when Tho went to Paris only under heavy Soviet pressure. Now, however, the chief Communist negotiator is exhibiting signs of serious purpose.

But translating that serious purpose into successful negotiations won't happen unless Hanoi's assault on Hue fails. That would put Hanoi under extreme pressure to move the Paris talks into higher gear, for these reasons:

1. Neither China nor the Soviet Union has helped Hanoi much since President Nixon quarantined Haiphong and began his devastating bombing campaign. Disregarding an ardent "appeal" form Hanoi July 14 (the anniversary of 1954 Geneva agreements dividing Vietnam), Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's low-key reply offered only moral support.

2. Assuming the politburo reads the political news from (Continued on page 5)

Grass-Roots Movement

WASHINGTON — In a direct challenge to the "Democratic for Nixon" a new political organization has been incorporated in Washington this week with the unlikely name of "Democrats for McGovern."

The chairman, Partridge Wankleman, opened the storefront headquarters last Thursday on Pennsylvania Avenue, just three blocks from the White House. We went to a cocktail party celebrating the festivities and had a few moments with Wankleman.

"This is a grass-roots movement," he explained. "There are many Democrats who are fed up with Nixon, and we want to welcome them into our party."

"That's a good idea," I said. "but according to the polls, there aren't too many Democrats who have indicated they would vote for McGovern."

"The polls could be wrong," Wankleman said. "There are some Democrats who want to vote for McGovern, but at this stage, they're not willing to speak up. We hope that by starting this organization we can make it possible for them to work for our candidate. We're not asking them to stop being Democrats."

"All we're asking is that they search their consciences and vote for the best man, even if the best man is George McGovern."

"That's pretty hard for a Democrat to do," I said. "We're optimistic. As a matter of fact, we've already signed up three Democratic senators and four Democratic governors and that's only the beginning. Our people are now working on Democratic congressmen. I wouldn't be surprised if at least half of them didn't come out for the McGovern ticket."

"That's a good start," I admitted. "I suppose you won't go after people like Mayor Daley or George Meany?"

"We will, eventually. But at the moment, we'd rather attract Democrats who are on the fence and could go one way or another. We want those who will work for McGovern even if it's against their philosophy."

Wankleman said the "Democrats for McGovern" were printing buttons, bumper stickers and posters. They were also seeking testimonials from well-known people associated with the Democratic Party in the past. Money seemed to be the big hitch.

"We can find Democrats for McGovern, but we can't seem to find many who will support him financially."

"How do you find them?" I asked.

"We're working from Democratic Party lists. We send out mailings to the Democrats, asking if they would be interested in supporting our candidate. It's amazing how many we've heard from. Last week, out of 1 million letters, we received 1,678 affirmative replies."

"That should give the Republicans something to think about," I said.

"I believe one of the reasons for the success of the organization," Wankleman said, "is we promise them that even if they support McGovern, they can still vote the straight Democratic ticket for other races. This has reassured many Democrats who might otherwise think they were turncoats."

Other Editors Say A Fantasy World

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

In his first time out on a national news show since accepting the number two spot with George McGovern, Sen. Thomas Eagleton had to use a lot of footwork to keep a little day-light between his position on the issues and those of his running mate.

Did he favor giving everybody in the U.S. $1,000 a year and raising the taxes of everybody earning more than $12,000 a year, as McGovern had advocated?

He was asked this on "Face the Nation," a television weekly program.

"Well," he replied, "that program is being reworked and redefined and reprocessed by Sen. McGovern at this present time," and then he said he was, along with the $1,000-for-everybody scheme.

How about defense? Did he believe, as does McGovern that the defense budget should be cut $30 billion?

Eagleton ducked that one, explaining that he had not taken the "long-range prospective three-year look" that McGovern has, but he does feel defense should be cut "in the neighborhood of $8-10 billion in fiscal 1973."

Eagleton has also gone out of the way to say that he does not agree with McGovern's controversial statement that he would "beg" to get American prisoners of war back from North Vietnam. The Missouri Democrat says he would like the word "implore" better.

The wife of one prisoner of war, Joy Jeffrey, whose pilot husband was shot down in December of 1965, told The National Observer: "I think McGovern's living in a fantasy world if he thinks he can beg for the prisoner's release and get it."

"They've been begged for; they've been begged for by me. There were tears in my eyes in Paris, but we got no feeling from them at all."

"I think everybody wants out, including me, including the President. But I think the President feels the same way I do—that if he leaves the prisoners of war behind, this situation could drag on indefinitely."

"I'd have no hope of every seeing my husband again if we withdrew all our troops and left the prisoners behind in hopes of negotiating their release later."

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For nearly five years wholesale and retail prices rose in tandem, with the former rather accurately forecasting the latter by a month or more.

Now they're heading off on different courses. The rate of increase for wholesale prices has been rising while that for consumer prices is falling. Not the prices themselves, but the percentage of increase.

The latest figures for wholesale prices show about a 4 per cent rise. Consumer prices, meanwhile, are rising at only a very small rate—two-tenths of one per cent in June and less than 3 per cent higher than a year ago.

As a result, there is considerable curiosity and some dismay among those who review economic statistics. It hardly makes sense, they say, for retailers to stabilize prices while their costs—wholesale prices—are rising.

Is the middleman absorbing increased costs rather than passing them on? It's unlikely; you don't do things like that and remain in business. Maybe the retailer is responsible? The price freeze?

The most plausible explanation now circulating is this: The Consumer Price Index measures actual prices at which goods and services are sold in retail markets. Government shoppers, just like housewives, go up and down the store aisles checking the prices.

The Wholesale Price Index, however, measures list prices, which actually are the maximum prices at which goods are sold. List prices are

Strength For Today

THROUGH THE NEEDLE'S EYE

Jesus once said that it was easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. His disciples were astounded at his saying, and no wonder. They asked, in complete bewilderment, "Who then can be saved?"

With his divine penetration Jesus was able to perceive that money is one of the great factors destroying moral character. This does not mean that poor people are all virtuous and that high moral qualities are never found among the rich. Some of the finest people in every nation are wealthy people. Possession of adequate financial means can be a real blessing to a person if the person sets himself to make it so. But by and large through the centuries money, the desire for money and the means taken to get it have probably ruined more souls than any other factor in this wicked world.

The Biblical ideal is not poverty. The Biblical ideal is stewardship. A steward is a person who administers the property and affairs of someone else. Behind the doctrine of stewardship is the conviction that all we have comes from God and belongs to Him and is to be administered to his glory. Millionaires can be as saintly as paupers, although they seldom are, and paupers can be as materialistic and avaricious as millionaires. Every factor in life is testing us to see whether or not we are worthy to live eternally in fellowship with God. Money is one of the great tests of character. It has been called the acid test. THE GURMOBILE — Dr. Henry Gurr, a physicist, checks out his two-wheeled contraption before a trial run on the Jackson, S.C. drag strip. At right, he puts the craft through its paces. (AP Wirephoto)

Experimental Car With Two Wheels Is Tested

By CARL LANGLEY
The Augusta Herald
JACKSON, S.C. (AP) — Henry Gurr's gray contraption sat poised like a gaunt wingless bird in the shimmering heat of the Jackson Drag Strip, its nose tilted upwards as if to escape the odor of hot asphalt.

Despite the July swelter, it was time for another test run for Dr. Gurr, who is still working out the kinks in a fascinating two-wheeled automobile that he feels might have some practical use in the future.

Also at the strip with Gurr to watch the demonstration of his vehicle were two curious highway patrolmen.

One, it turned out, had spied Gurr pulling the contraption, as Gurr's neighbors call it, through Jackson, and followed him to the drag strip.

While Gurr went about the business of positioning the vehicle for its run down the strip, the patrolman was getting in a hurried call to a buddy, urging him to get on out to the drag strip.

"You'd better hurry, he's about ready to run this thing, and you've got to see it," the patrolman implored over the radio. His buddy showed up within minutes.

Gurr has been performing this ritual at the Jackson strip a number of times lately, ferreting out the weak points in his experimental automobile and working on refinements. A grade of Case Institute of Technology and physicist at the nearby Savannah River Plant, Gurr came up with the idea for his two-wheeled automobile five years ago. Since then, little else has occupied his free time.

"I started out to see if it would be practical," he remarked. "I thought it would be a very pleasant type of vehicle to drive."

Gurr said the concept of a two-wheeled automobile is not new, that one was tried as long ago as 1917. And he said a California company has been working on one in recent years.

But, Gurr added, these were very small automobiles and in one case, it amounted to not much more than a bicycle with a body on it. Gurr's car weighs more than 4,000 pounds. Before pulling on his crash helmet for the first run, Gurr remarked that a basic rule in science is that once you come up with an idea, you proceed immediately to the testing stage. The thought, he said, turned him pale.

Climbing into the driver's seat and tying down his safety belt, Gurr revved the engine and headed down the strip to check the steering and braking mechanisms. As the car slowly picked up speed, it tilted right and left, bouncing along on the stabilizers. These are hung on each side at the rear and are made of boat trailer wheels.

Pronouncing the steering and braking in good condition, Gurr returned to the starting line, wheeled the car around and pointed the nose up the strip. Sitting there, the vehicle looked like a jet fighter minus wings. The nose of the 1955 Chrysler body has been chopped off and a radiator installed in the tubular nose.

The two main sheels are centered under the body, one at the front and one at the rear. Attached to the right side of the rear wheel is a large boxlike device that contains the drive mechanism as well as the hydraulic system that lifts and powers the stabilizers. The steering is handled by a T-shaped iron bar that sits between the driver's legs.

A wave of the hand sent Gurr on his way and off the machine bounded down the strip. The speedometer inched up to 10, 15, 20, 25 miles per hour and the tiny stabilizers began lifting from the strip. The machine was hurtling along to an occasional squeal as the stabilizers dipped onto the asphalt.

As the speed increased, it was evident that the car was achieving better balance and soon it was zipping along well enough to allow complete retraction of the stabilizers. Gurr pointed out later, that, like a bicycle, the faster the speed, the greater degree of balance.

Nearing the end of the run, the stabilizers were lowered, and as the brakes were applied, the machine lurched left and right, wheels squealing as they kept the car from toppling over. He made his turn and came back down the strip on a second run that produced the same effect as the first.

Since he began his test runs two years ago, Gurr has sent his machine up and down the strip about 90 times without a major calamity, although it did

Twice Feel High Winds

RALEIGH (AP) — Sudden thunderstorms and high winds struck Wake County twice during the weekend, causing minor property damage, uprooting trees and downing power lines.

The National Weather Service said neither storm was a tornado as some residents in the affected areas thought.

A rain squall and winds hit the center of Raleigh, principally the Hayes Barton area, Sunday, knocking trees and power lines down across residential streets.

One man was reported struck by lightning just as the rain began. Police said the man, whom they did not identify, was walking with an umbrella when the bolt hit a tree above him then traveled down to his umbrella, jolting him badly.

The man was admitted to Rex Hospital for observation. Saturday night a thunderstorm and winds up to 50 miles per hour hit Wake County, causing minor property damage north of Raleigh.

More than an inch of rain fell in about two hours, touching off local flooding in some sections of Raleigh. The Weather Service said hailstones one-half to one inch in diameter battered a section of the county between Raleigh and the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

Sheriff's deputies reported winds ripped the roof from an abandoned motel four miles north of Raleigh on U. S. 1.

'Voluntary Segregation' Barred In Marine Corps

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., the Marine commandant, has ordered an end to "voluntary segregation" practices which have grown up in the corps.

"No racial segregation is to be permitted in the barracks or other living areas," Cushman said in a letter to all Marine generals and commanding officers.

"This includes voluntary segregation which extends beyond a reasonable request by a few friends to bunk together."

Marine sources explained that some unit commanders have allowed black and white servicemen to separate into racial groups living in different parts of their barracks.

As a result, the sources said, racial polarization has deepened and on occasion black and white factions have squared off against each other.

"Violence by Marines both on and off base must be stopped," the Marine commandant said. "The responsibility of leadership makes it mandatory that every effort be made to prevent acts of violence."

At the same time, Cushman called on his commanders to be "tough, aggressive, and demanding in eliminating racially segregated bars, liberty 'hang-outs,' restaurants, etc." by placing them out of bounds to Marines.

The commandant emphasized that a unit leader's future in the Corps may well be influenced by how he performs in assuring equal treatment and opportunity for subordinates.

SORRY, LONDON

LONDON (UPI) — Europe's busiest airport, London's Heathrow, would rank 44th among U. S. airports. Heathrow handles about the same number of landings and takeoffs annually as the Salt Lake City airport.

Effective immediately, Cushman directed, "fitness reports will include a statement of the officer's or staff noncommissioned officer's contribution and leadership in human relations."

In the same letter, he ordered a series of actions designed to eliminate grounds for complaint by blacks and other Marines alleging discriminatory treatment.

"Quotas for transfer will be filled in such manner that all will share equally with respect to the individual Marine's ability, personal desires and desirability of the assignment," Cushman wrote.

Also, Cushman said that punishments and work details handed out to individual Marines will be made public at daily formations.

This publicity appears aimed at minimizing the possibility that certain Marines will be picked on by vindictive or prejudiced commanders.

Wedding Staged Atop Mountain

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — More than 400 persons witnessed a wedding Sunday at the summit of Mt. Adams after completing the seventh annual mass ascent of the 12,307-foot peak, a spokesman for the climbers said.

The Rev. Ronald Leder of Sunnyside, Wash., officiated at the ceremony in which Jennie Tablott, 23, of Virginia, was married to Barry Reed, 22, of Yakima.

Climbers began the ascent at 2 a.m. Sunday and reached the summit about noon. The climb was led by Omé Daiber, 64, of Bothell, Wash., a veteran Northwest mountaineer. The oldest person to make the ascent was 74-year-old Ross Messer of Naches, Wash.

"Where did you get your idea for the 'Democrats for McGovern'?"
"Strangely enough, from the Republicans. When they started 'Democrats for Nixon' it occurred to us that some Democrats deserved another choice. So we organized the Democrats for McGovern, to give them a place to go."
"Will you have storefronts like this all over America?" I asked.
"We hope to. This is the race to the finish, and if we can prove that even Democrats will vote for McGovern then perhaps the independents might go along with us."

Some Untruths Apparent In Nuclear Plant Safety

NUCLEAR PLANT—This is Duke Power's nuclear generating plant at Oconee, S.C. The three-reactor facility is expected to be fully operational in 1975, with two of the reactors becoming operational next year. (AP Wirephoto)

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP)—Some one is not telling the truth in the debate over the safety of nuclear-powered electric generators.

Power companies in the Carolinas—Duke Power, Carolina Power and Light Co. and South Carolina Electric and Gas Co.—say the nuclear reactors are the safest and most pollution-free means of meeting the rising regional demand for electric power.

But, as fast as the utilities apply for licenses to build their nuclear generators, a small, shrill and loosely organized band of environmentalists are saying that the nuclear stations are loaded with unacceptable risks.

The first commercial generator to go operational in the Carolinas is the CP&L plant at Hartsville, S.C. Three more nuclear plants are under construction in the Carolinas, and several more are ready to be moved off the drawing boards.

The generators and the reactors that run them are getting larger—Duke's Oconee, S.C.

plant will be the largest commercial reactor in the country until it is surpassed by even bigger reactors now under construction. And, the sites of the power stations are getting closer to the major population centers they are intended to serve.

Both of these facts alarm a Charlotte research chemist named Jesse Riley. He is one of the leaders of the opposition to nuclear reactors.

Riley's arguments, simply stated, is that engineering tolerances sufficient for safety in smaller reactors are not being updated as the reactors get larger. And, as the danger of an accident increases, he says, the reactors are being placed close enough to cities to cause major catastrophes.

Lee's reaction, again simply stated, is that the gauntlet of licensing agencies which Duke Power Co. must run insures that the reactors will be safe. He says his company has the technical expertise and the opposition is either ignorant or misinformed.

The two meet frequently in hearings before various licensing agencies, presenting their arguments. Riley's side has been able in many instances to delay the utilities' plans and to modify them. But the power companies have never been told that they cannot build their reactors.

For the layman, the arguments for and against nuclear power quickly become tangled in a welter of "facts" technical terms, hypothetical propositions, and conflicting statements.

Riley, for example, says the bolts used to hold the lid on the reactor buildings are not strong enough. If the temperature inside the reactor ever increased from a normal 600 degrees to 700 degrees, he says, the pressure inside would blow the lid off—with catastrophic consequences.

He also questions the validity of safety standards for radiation, and for nuclear fuel waste disposal.

Lee refused to discuss the bolts in detail, saying the question was in litigation. As a general refutation, he cites the safety record of the industry to date. To pass licensing requirements, he says, the utilities must prove their reactor safety systems would work "even if three impossible things happened at the same time—a power loss, an earthquake, and a crack in the reactor." The chances of even one of them happening is negligible, Lee says. He calls the nuclear opposition "frightened and ignorant."

The stakes in the battle are high. Lee says Duke has $700 million irretrievably invested in its nuclear program. He warns that a decision to abandon nuclear power would force people to get along with far less electricity than they now use.

The environmentalists say they would be glad to get by with less electricity if it averted the environmental threat they see from nuclear power.

Compile Data On Co-Shoppers

NEW YORK (UPI)—A study of "The Working Woman," done for the Bureau of Advertising, shows that one out of three married shoppers (31 per cent of the working wives and 33 per cent of the fulltime housewives) take the husband along when they shop for food. Husbands from lower income households are more likely to accompany their wives to the supermarket than those from higher income families.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You find there is a decided conflict between ideas and intellectual outlets, and it is necessary that you do try to harmonize the two different systems by scheduling your hours to give you a chance to build up both avenues of expression rightly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) That monetary plan you have cannot work out successfully if you do not get the support of a backer who also has the necessary expertise. You would only work yourself literally to death otherwise. Retire early in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Those of the female gender are most helpful in a.m. and p.m., but males are apt to be most demanding, so be guided accordingly. Show higher-ups that finances are not uppermost in your mind. Get bills paid early.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Run over accounting records and you find you can make new investment, or find ways to economize. Follow through with advice given you by experts. Being with intellectuals later in the day is fine.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid one who has nothing but money on his or her mind and enjoy the company of good friends you like. You are able to gain that idealistic aim today, if you work at it wisely. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you in any way irk a bigwig who is most important to your way of life, you will certainly regret it later on. Get busy on personal matters that are vital and keep out of trouble. Pay that bill instead of arguing about it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have fine ideas for advancing, so set up the right new policy quickly for future living, but do not irk a good adviser. Plan that new trip also. Forget those things you can do nothing about.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Let a good pal guide you on just how to have more pleasant relations with others, but avoid a highfalutin financier who has an eye on your assets. Not a good day for business, but fine for social, cultural matters. Be more sure of yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what a partner has to say and cooperate with his ideas, instead of following an irascible bigwig today. Bigwigs have conflicting ideas, so keep neutral now and all is fine for you. Grow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine new ideas that require only openmindedness to derive many benefits from them, plus good hard work. Plan those changes that are necessary, and also handle transportation matters well. Change your diet, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Fine day for enjoying amusements during spare time; forget going to that adviser who is too busy today. You have specialized talents that should be put to work now. These can lead to excellent benefits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to understand what it is that your associates expect of you, and you find you come to a far better understanding. Don't bring up little frustrations at home that can start a big argument. Show you have poise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be active at shopping, keeping appointments and getting everything operating much more efficiently now. Do not irk that co-worker who is already in a bad mood. Evening is fine for whatever is of a social nature.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who likes to please others, but is also of a very practical turn of mind, so be sure you understand your child and do not try to change him or her to suit your own ideas, or the fine promise here will be lost. Slant the education along lines that will place your youngster in the limelight, whether on the stage, in political circles, on the lecture platform, or whatever. Encourage your son, daughter.

Bremer Trial Starting Today

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—The trial of 21-year-old Arthur Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, opens with jury selection today in Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

A plea of innocent by reason of insanity has been entered on behalf of Bremer, who faces 17 counts in connection with the volley of shots that struck Wallace and three others at a political rally May 15.

Bremer, a former school janitor and hotel busboy from Milwaukee, faces 12 charges of allegedly using a .38-caliber pistol in the wounding of Wallace, Secret Service Agent Nicholas Zarvos, Alabama State Police Capt. E.C. Dothard and Dora Thompson, a Wallace campaign worker from Hyattsville, Md. The jury under Judge Ralph

W. Powers will also consider five charges alleging Bremer violated Maryland's handgun control law at the time of the incident at a shopping center in Laurel.

Bremer's court-appointed attorney, Benjamin Lipsitz of Baltimore, is expected to try to convince the jury that Bremer was legally insane at the time of the shootings.

The trial was first scheduled to open July 12, but was postponed to allow Lipsitz additional time to prepare a defense.

The defendant also faces federal charges of shooting Wallace and Zarvos, but the trail in U.S. District Court in Baltimore has been postponed indefinitely.

Bremer, who was arrested seconds after the shooting, has undergone federal-and state-ordered psychiatric examinations.

Six Dead In N.C. Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four pedestrians were among the six people the North Carolina highway patrol reported killed in weekend traffic accidents today.

The deaths raised the toll for the year to 1,041, an increase of 68 over the figure at this date last year.

Roger Nicholson, 39 and Dolan F. Davis, 34, were killed as they walked along a street near their homes in Winston-Salem by a swerving car. Mary M. Jeffress of Rt. 1, Franklinton, 17, was killed by a hit-and-run driver on a rural road near her home.

Debra M. Crowder, 5, was struck by a car as she walked along an unlighted road near her home in Charlotte.

Norman A. James, 20, of Greenville, died when his car ran off U. S. 64 near Bethel. Haywood J. Melvin, 23, of Elizabethtown was a passenger in a car that was hit by another vehicle on N. C. 53 near Cedar Creek.

Bonds Voted By Winston-Salem

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Voters in Winston-Salem have approved a $7.6 million bond issue which includes a municipal takeover of the city's current bus system.

By an approximately three to one margin, the more than 9,000 voters authorized the bus takeover, tax authority to support the system and expanded public parking facilities.

Winston-Salem is now served by the Safe Bus Co., owner and operated by Hampton Haith, a local businessman.

Eagleton Remembered As Intense In Undertakings

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Tom Eagleton was so intense at work he wound up in the hospital and so intense at socializing he wound up in the rumor mill.

As the always-ebullient center of attention at parties, friends say, he simply exhibited the same characteristics off the job that marked his political campaigning and his work.

But in Missouri, a state of many staunch, dry religious fundamentalists, the combination of hearty joke-telling and a drink in hand can be stiffly viewed by some as drunkenness.

Add the hazy explanations that surrounded hospitalizations in 1960, 1964 and 1966, and the result became rumors of an Eagleton drinking problem. The hospitalizations were for nervous exhaustion, but Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton didn't say so until after Sen. George McGovern picked him this month as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Now, after whisperings of a drinking problem in past Missouri campaigns, the twin questions of drink and health have erupted in the fledgling Eagleton campaign.

To this point, and in the face of scores of interviews by newsmen and extensive checks of public records, no document nor eyewitness account of any drunken behavior by Eagleton has surfaced.

Past Missouri associates say the Eagleton intensity at work and on the campaign trail manifested itself in long hours, breakneck pace, rapid decision-making and esprit de corps. They say they saw no effect in his work of the nervous exhaustion for which he was hospitalized.

One source told columnist Jack Anderson he had seen copies four years ago of traffic records charging Eagleton with drunken driving. But no such records have been located.

Contrary to such an account, people who knew Eagleton over the years all say firmly, and with a consistency of detail that adds to their credibility, that they never saw him drunk and that he has no drinking problem. Eagleton has steadfastly denied any such problem.

John H. Denman, who was an assistant attorney general under Eagleton though a Republican, said that Eagleton "has—and I hate to use the word—charisma. When he comes in, he dominates a party. He cracks jokes; he likes to needle the people he likes best. You see somebody that dynamic and maybe you assume he drinks."

Denman, now an oil association executive, said "I've never seen him out of control. I don't believe there's any drinking problem whatsoever."

James C. Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state, campaigned alongside Eagleton all through the 1960s. He said that on the campaign trail, "I never saw Tom take more than one drink."

Scott O. Wright, a Columbia, Mo., attorney and longtime friend of Eagleton, said "I can definitely say he doesn't have a drinking problem. But he's wound up a lot tighter than the ordinary person. That's just his nature—he's really cranked up."

Eagleton himself, announcing last week that he had been hospitalized three times for nervous exhaustion, characterized himself as "an intense, hard-driving person, and as a younger man I must say I drove myself too far ... I still push pretty hard but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years."

Eagleton's intensity was always evident to his friends and associates.

Observed Wright: "Until his mind gets really occupied, if he's just sitting around, he can't throw his leg over the chair and relax. His mind is churning all the time."

Kirkpatrick, the secretary of state, said Eagleton "has a terrible amount of nervous energy. I've seen him time and time again on the podium perspire until his shirt was soaking."

He said Eagleton would frequently dry his hands with a handkerchief and that his hands would occasionally tremble slightly when he held a speech text.

"But since he's been a senator he appears to have lost that; he seems more relaxed," said Kirkpatrick.

Yet even Saturday, when he returned to Missouri, Eagleton's face dripped perspiration and his hands shook slightly as he held a microphone.

Robert D. Kingsland, who operates the senator's Jefferson City office, speaks of the Eagleton intensity but said "I've noticed he has mellowed."

"He's a more tolerant guy," said Kingsland. "When people do something to him, he's more philosophical. In the past, you could tell something hurt even if he didn't say anything."

Obviously hurt by the Anderson charge, which he labeled a damnable lie, Eagleton, within 48 hours, was getting off one-line jokes about the matter.

Kingsland recalled him "generally beating everybody to the office, frequently he ate at his desk, he just throws himself into any job he's done."

On the campaign trail, Eagleton usually worked his most tortuous hours, up to 20 a day.

Kingsland recalled one example from the 1960 campaign: "He flew into St. Louis at 4:30 one afternoon after a day of campaigning to meet with the grand jury on a delicate case. Right after that we went to a hotel and had a sandwich and milk."

"Then we went to a rally where, and I think it was a surprise to him, he turned out to be the M.C., introducing all the candidates. It lasted until past 11. Then we had a couple of beers and he went home about midnight."

"And then he was up at 5 a.m. starting again."

The tireless drive was not only at the physical level, but also for advancement. Eagleton has never reached the end of a term in office without already having been elected to a higher job.

He was nurtured for politics by his father, Mark D. Eagleton, a St. Louis lawyer and politician who lost his bid for mayor. Political tabletalk, visits to conventions and speeches were a staple in the Eagleton upbringing.

Kirkpatrick, an older man, sees some of Eagleton's intensity arising this way: "As the youngest circuit attorney in the state (age 27) and then the youngest attorney general (31) and then the youngest lieutenant governor (35), he had to prove himself. It was a cross to bear. He had to prove he was qualified and mature."

The Eagleton hospitalizations seem to have been known in Missouri political circles, but in only a generalized way that left room for the drying-out stories to grow.

Tales about driving and drinking swirled about during the 1968 U.S. Senate campaign. Primary opponents Sen. Edward V. Long and True Davis both heard them and so did general election foe Rep. Thom- ignored them—but Davis turned four years later.

as B. Curtis. All claimed they out to be Anderson's source Now, with the hospitalization and drinking questions on the the background, Eagleton and they mean for Democratic par- table instead of just lurking in McGovern must decide what ty chances in 1972.

Tax Notices Are Mailed

WINTERVILLE — Town officials today mailed out some 841 property tax notices to Winterville taxpayers.

According to town clerk Elwood Nobles, the tax bills, figured on a rate of $1.25 per $100 valuation were based on property valuations set at $2,718,544.

The bills are payable at the Winterville Town Office, according to Nobles, who emphasized that if the tax is paid during the month of August a two per cent discount will be allowed. No discount will be allowed, the town official emphasized if the bill is paid after the last day of August.

The tax bills must be paid before January 1, 1973 to avoid a two per cent penalty that will be added beginning January 1.

The tax bills, Nobles said, including penalties and dog tax, should bring in about $34,000.

Woman Postmaster Denies Token Role

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — The postmaster here says women should do what they want to do. And that's one reason 25-year-old Dorothea Nicole Woolsey is the postmaster.

"There is a growing need in the postal service for people, and that includes women, with imagination and business experience — the need is just too great to allow discrimination," said Miss Woolsey, a supporter of women's liberation and acting postmaster in this city of 100,000 residents.

"I believe that women, like all people, should be free to pursue whatever career they want — if that means being a housewife, that's an important career too," Miss Woolsey added.

"But I like the career I chose."

Although she's had the job since her predecessor retired three months ago, Miss Woolsey finds people still complain, "I don't want to talk to the postmaster's secretary. I want the postmaster."

"Some people are a bit surprised, like that woman who came to complain," the postmaster conceded. "But that's only natural."

A total of eight barn fires and two house fires were reported by Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner for the past five days.

Joyner reported that a tobacco barn on the Leslie Peaden farm near Belvoir sustained $2000 damage. The Belvoir Fire Department answered the call at 12:50 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Also on Sunday, Joyner stated, a tobacco barn on the Floyd Harris farm near Falkland was completely destroyed by fire at 6:38 p.m. Sunday.

On Wednesday, fire departments from Farmville and Fountain arrived on the scene of a house fire on the Lang farm at 11:15 p.m. The barn was a total loss.

Coastal Watch Via Satellite

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers said today it will use a recently launched satellite to keep track with the movement of sand on North Carolina's coast.

The project will be among seven experiments the engineers plan in the United States using the Earth Resources Technology Satellite launched in California early last week.

All of the projects are designed to test the feasibility of using the satellite for acquisition of data on earth resources.

The North Carolina study will involve sand movement from Rich's Inlet to Cape Fear.

It was during the 8th inning and Houston Astro Doug Radar was coming home with a full head of steam. Radar hit San Diego Padre Fred Kendall hard (L) and Kendall went down dropping the ball (top R) and grimacing in pain (bottom R). Umpire Stan Landis called interference on the play and a five minute rhabarb ensued. Radar was called out with the tying run. The game went on none the less for 14 innings with the Padres winning 10-7 and it still being the first game of a twin-bill. (AP Wirephoto)

Zarley, Hiskey Break Palmer-Nicklaus Team Play Domination

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — "Great—just absolutely great," Kermit Zarley replied when asked how it felt for him and partner Babe Hiskey to break the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus domination of the Professional Golfers Association National Team Championship.

have won again if they teed up." The longshot partners, close friends since their college days at the University of Houston a decade ago, forged a better-ball score of 66, five under par, in the final round to score an easy victory Sunday. Their 262 total was 22 strokes under par on the 7,045-yard Laurel Valley Golf Club, Palmer's home course where he and Nicklaus had combined to win the two previous team crowns. Nicklaus withdrew this year because of a badly infected finger. Palmer tapped obscure Jack Lewis, 25, as a last-minute replacement and they were never a factor. They had to rally for a final-round 70 and were a distant 13 strokes back at 275. Hiskey and Zarley moved into a share of the lead after 36 holes, took sole control at the end of the third round and weren't headed as they strolled in with a relatively unexciting triumph.

Jones, a pair of 25-year-olds, made the only major challenge in the final round that began in drizzling rain and finished in cool and cloudy weather. They combined for an eight-under-par 63 and took second alone at 265. Gibby Gilbert and Lanny Wadkins, just one stroke off the pace going into the final 18 holes, couldn't get anything going. They finished with a 69 and third at 266. Tommy Aaron and former Masters champion Charles Coody were next with a 64—267.

'Pepsi Night' At Harrington

East Carolina will be hosting the Tar Heels of UNC-Chapel Hill tonight at Harrington Field at 7:30. The game was postponed from Friday night due to rain. The game is also "Pepsi Night". All fans attending the game will receive a free Pepsi at the gate and those who have tickets will be eligible for prizes. Tickets may be picked up at the Pepsi-Cola bottling plant on Dickinson Ave. or at a number of Greenville merchants. Something else special about tonight's contest is that the Pirates will be unvailing their first new uniforms since 1963. They are made of the new knit material and Coach Earl Smith called them "eye poppers." The Heels and the Bucs will also be battling it out for the right to host the second and third rounds of this year's playoffs. The two teams are currently tied for first place in the Summer Collegiate Baseball League. The winner will be in sole possession of first place as the final week of the regular season gets underway.

Livingston Will Be Backup Man

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Mike Livingston may have moved the Kansas City Chiefs to a 23-17 Hall of Fame victory over the New York Giants, but he still will have to be satisfied with the role of substitute. Livingston, a backup man for the National Football League Chiefs' Len Dawson, ran 39 yards for one touchdown and passed seven yards for a second. His efforts sparked the Chiefs to a come-from-behind triumph over the NFL Giants Saturday.

Fran Tarkenton at the Giants' helm, managed 106 aerial yards on 10 of 18. The ex-Atlanta Falcon passed three yards to Charlie Evans for a touchdown, too. Jan Stenerud booted field goals of 37, 43 and 14 yards for Kansas City. Norman Snead, who came to the Giants from Minnesota in the Tarkenton trade, played the second half and rifled a 28-yard scoring pass to Joe Morrison. Pete Gogolak booted a 21-yard field goal to complete the New York scoring.

And, despite a so-so performance by Randy Johnson, he also seems firmly entrenched in his quarterbacking job with the Giants. "Dawson's still the regular despite Mike Livingston's performance," Kansas City coach Hank Stram said after the game. His words were echoed by Giants mentor Alex Webster who said "Johnson still is our No. 1 quarterback" after the first meeting of the teams this season. Dawson managed only 97 passing yards on 8 of 15 and couldn't move the Chiefs with any consistency in the first half. They trailed the Giants 10-6 at halftime. Johnson, expected to replace

Prior to the game, Lamar Hunt, Ollie Matson, Gino Marchetti and Clarence (Ace) Parker were inducted into the Hall of Fame in a ceremony that raised the hall's immortals to 74.

Pirates Dump Phillies To Stay On Top Of NL East

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Pittsburgh Pirates wouldn't mind having a little fun but the San Diego Padres would just like a little rest. The Pirates scored all their runs in the last two innings Sunday to rout Philadelphia 7-1 and maintain their National League East lead at seven games over the New York Mets, who shaded Montreal 3-1. "If we continue to get the pitching, we're going to have a lot of fun in the second half," said Richie Hebner, who hit a tie-breaking three-run homer as the Pirates scored four times in the eighth inning. Meanwhile, the Padres, who went 17 innings Saturday evening to defeat Cincinnati, split an extra-inning doubleheader with Houston, winning the opener 10-7 in 14 innings but dropping the nightcap 4-3 in 10. Elsewhere, the Reds blanked San Francisco 4-0 before losing the second game 6-1 in 10 innings, Atlanta took two from Los Angeles 14-4 and 5-4 and the Chicago Cubs swept St. Louis 4-0 and 5-4.

In the American League, Detroit beat Boston 7-2 after losing the first game 4-3, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 5-0, Texas won a pair from Oakland 2-1 and 4-2, Minnesota edged the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Cleveland took two from Milwaukee 3-2 and 6-1 and California topped Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings. Pittsburgh's Bruce Kison and Philadelphia's Barry Lersch were locked in a scoreless duel until the Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the seventh on Greg Luzinski's triple and a single by Willie Montanez.

pitcher Mike Caldwell, whose throw to the plate forced Doug Rader. But Rader knocked down catcher Fred Kendall and umpire Stan Landes called it interference and ruled Alou out at first for a double play. "The man caught the ball and he was making a play to first base and Rader whacked him," Landes said. "He said in his own words he felt he had the right to hit him. He deliberately hits him with his arm and that's interference."

Pre-Season Ball Steps Up Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The real shakedown period starts in pro football this week as the pre-season exhibition schedule goes into high gear. A total of 12 exhibitions are listed for the weekend following the official opening last Friday when the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys whipped the College All-Stars 20-7 in Chicago and the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the New York

Giants 23-17 in the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio, Saturday. Three of the 12 games this week are slated for Friday night with Baltimore vs. Washington at Tampa, Fla., Buffalo vs. St. Louis at Buffalo, N.Y. and Los Angeles vs. Cleveland at Los Angeles. Eight games are listed for Saturday, starting with an afternoon game at South Bend, Ind. between Kansas City and Chicago. The other Saturday games, all after dark, list Green Bay vs. Cincinnati at Green Bay, Dallas vs. Houston at Dallas, Detroit vs. Miami at Detroit, Oakland vs. New England at Oakland, New York Jets vs. San Francisco at Jacksonville, Fla., Pittsburgh vs. the New York Giants at Pittsburgh and San Diego vs. Atlanta at San Diego. Rounding out the schedule is an Aug. 7, Monday night game, with New Orleans at Philadelphia.

Canipe Wins Amateur

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — "I ran into a man who could play this golf course, and he played it beautifully," said Heyward Sullivan, after he had been thrashed Sunday in the finals of the Carolina Amateur golf championship. For five rounds, Sullivan had demonstrated that on his home course he could play as well as almost anyone. The man who played it better Sunday was David Canipe, 18, of Fayetteville, N.C., who ended the match on the 32nd hole, winning 6 and 4. Canipe, with the innocence of youth, was not impressed with the fact that Sullivan held the course record on the 6,800-yard, par 72 Chanticleer course at the Greenville Country Club, home links for the 34-year-old Greenville jeweler. The rising sophomore at the University of Georgia toured the course in two under par 70 Sunday morning and held a three-hole edge at lunch. He started another surge at the turn on the second round, making birdies at 28th, 30th and 32nd holes. The last one clinched the victory. Canipe said it was the biggest tournament he had ever won.

Gene Washington, Clint Jones and Charlie West, three veteran Minnesota players who said last week they would not sign unless each was satisfied, came to terms Sunday with the Vikings. "I think we may have had a little misunderstanding," said Jones, a running back. "We didn't want to sign a package deal, one contract for the three of us. Once we cleared this problem up, it was just a matter of working out the contracts." Washington is a wide receiver and West a safety. Elsewhere on Sunday, quarterback Roman Gabriel took part in light workouts with the Los Angeles Rams for the first time since he suffered a collapsed lung several weeks ago and quarterback Jim Hart of St. Louis learned he had a slight shoulder separation that will sideline him for three to six weeks.

U.S. Has Smallest Diving Entry

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States today had its smallest women's entry in history and a strong men's squad featuring iron-man Mike Finnegan headed for the diving competition in the Munich Olympics starting Aug. 26. "We may be small, but this is the toughest all-around diving squad we've ever had," said Hobie Billingsley of Indiana University, the Olympic men's diving coach. "The trouble is, both our guys and gals are going to face just about the toughest foreign competition."

The U.S. diving team, normally composed of six men and six women for the Olympic springboard and platform events, will send only five men and three women to Munich. A three-day final trials session ended Sunday at Oakton Pool in suburban Park Ridge with the threesome of Janet Ely, 18, Albuquerque, N.M., Cindy Potter, 21, of Houston, Tex., and Olympian Micki King, 28, a captain in the U.S. Air Force, sweeping all three Olympic berths in both the women's 3-meter springboard and 10-meter platform. Finneran, 23, former Ohio State star and now a Columbus, Ohio, insurance man, also will double for the men at Munich after capturing the No. 2 Olympic berths in both the springboard and platform. The other four masculine delegates headed for Munich and their first Olympic tries are Dick Rydze, 22, ex-Michigan ace who is now a medical SYBIL SEEKS CHANGE OLD WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Sybil Griffin, who toured the Ladies Professional Golf Association for eight years, says its time the United States Golf Association changed its format for the U.S. Women's Open championship. Ladies teaching pro at Old Westbury Golf and Country Club, the 46-year-old Miss Griffin said her application for this year's Open was rejected because she did not play four rounds in the event in either of the last two years. "That's ridiculous," said Miss Griffin, in view of the fact that in 10 Women's Opens I've always played well. I was fourth in 1969 then had back surgery in 1970."

Stengel Celebrates 82nd Birthday In Home Town

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — "I was born July 30, 1890, in Kansas City, Mo.," said Casey Stengel. That date made him 82 when he observed his birthday at his home here Sunday. It also represented one of the shortest complete, absolutely coherent sentences Charles Dillon Stengel, a baseball Hall of Famer, has ever uttered. Casey said he was aware that some baseball record books list him as having been born in 1889. Dates other than July 30 are also listed. In typical Stengel fashion, however, he has an explanation for the seeming confusion, and if anyone can confuse the confusing, Casey is the man. "When I was a young man of fine locks," began Casey, elaborately palming back his ice-white locks. "I used to look at the schedule. . . . He meant the baseball schedule, of course. "In those days we'd hit a town for three or four days, and if my birthday was approaching, I'd see that it was observed in one of several cities. "Once in Kansas City, they baked a big cake which was so big they had to haul it to the ballpark in a truck. Now things weren't doing so good in Kansas City so they offered everybody a piece of cake if they'd come into the ballpark." Stengel didn't identify the year but it must have been in the late 1920s when he was finishing his playing career in the old American Association following his legendary years in the National League. "Then there was the time," Casey continued with barely a pause for breath, "I was managing Milwaukee for Bill Veck. He was out somewhere in the islands during the war and I told him if I had another pitcher I could win the pennant for him. "So there was my birthday, or thereabouts, and out comes a truck onto the playing field, and sure enough, there was this immense cake, only it wasn't a real cake because out of it steps the new pitcher, who was from, I think, Puerto Rico or someplace." The Stengels, Casey and his bride of 47 years, Edna, have three "birthday dates" on their calendar. One was a small family party at the Robin Hood Inn, Saturday night. Next, by invitation of American League president Joe Cronin, they'll be honored guests at the Baseball Hall of Fame celebration at Cooperstown, N.Y. Aug. 6-7. Finally they'll be feted at an Old Timers' dinner and game in San Diego Aug. 17-18 by Casey's old friend, Buzze Bavasi, president of the Padres.

ROBERSONVILLE — Greenville's Semi-Pros inched past Robersonville yesterday 3-1. All of the Greenville runs came in the first inning. Harry Wilson singled to lead off the frame and Al Gurganus reached on an error. Grant Jarman brought them both across with a home run. The only Robersonville run was scored in the sixth as Rogers singled and moved up on a hit by Rawls. Leggett singled to drive in Rogers. Wilson had three hits for Greenville and Rogers had three for Robersonville while Rawls had two. Greenville 300 000 000—3 6 0 Robersonville 000 001 000—1 6 3

Perfect Game

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP) — Lynchburg (Va.) Twins pitcher Jim Hughes credited luck Sunday after pitching a perfect game against Rocky Mount of the Class A Carolina League. Hughes got five strikeouts against the 21 batters he faced in the seven-inning first game of a doubleheader. The Twins won both, 3-0 and 3-1. Hughes may have credited luck, but he had only one close call. That was in the fifth inning, but a running catch by centerfielder Jack Maloof took care of that threat. It was Hughes' first no-hitter. His record for the year is now 8-9.

Wood Blames Mound For His Not Getting No. 17

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Wilbur Wood was having trouble getting used to the Minnesota mound. But Tom Hilgendorf was delighted with the way he found the one in Cleveland.

"It took me quite a time to get adjusted to the mound," Wood, Chicago's knuckleballing veteran, said Sunday after trying—and failing—to become one of the winningest pitchers in the American League. "It's no lower or no higher than any other mound, but it's flat, it doesn't drop off at all." What did drop, though, was one of Wood's less successful pitches.

It dropped into the left field pavilion, 351 feet away from home plate, the end result of a Harmon Killebrew home run in the sixth inning that powered the Minnesota Twins to a 1-0 victory over the White Sox.

Hilgendorf, getting his first major league start as a new member of the Cleveland pitching staff, said he knew good times were ahead when he ambled out to the bullpen for some pregame warming up.

"I can tell just by walking out there," he said. "If the mound looks a long way away—then look out. But today it seemed close and I knew it was okay."

It was more than just okay. Hilgendorf hurled a six-inning, striking out seven Milwaukee batters as the Indians beat the Brewers 6-1 to sweep a doubleheader. Cleveland had taken the opener 3-2.

In other American League games, Texas took two from Oakland, 2-1 and 4-2, Boston split a pair with Detroit, winning 4-3 before the Tigers took the second game 7-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 5-0 and California defeated Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs swept St. Louis 4-0 and 5-4, Atlanta took two from Los Angeles 14-4 and 5-4, San Francisco and Cincinnati split the Reds winning 4-0 before the Giants took the 10-inning nightcap 6-1, San Diego and Houston also split with the Padres taking the 14-inning opener 10-7 before the Astros won the second game 4-3 in 10, Pittsburgh blitzed Philadelphia 7-1 and the New York Mets beat Montreal 3-1.

Wood wound up with his 11th loss instead of the 17th victory that would have tied him with Detroit's Mickey Lolich and Cleveland's Gaylord Perry as the winningest pitchers in the majors.

Killebrew's 18th homer of the year was also the 533rd of his career, moving him within one of fifth-place Jimmy Foxx on the all-time list.

Hilgendorf, who'd spent 1969-70 with St. Louis, where he worked 27 innings in 29 games, all in relief, to post an 0-4 record, said: "I knew I could do it if I ever got the chance."

He got it just three weeks after Cleveland purchased his contract from the Kansas City organization.

Jerry Moses drove in two runs for Cleveland in the nightcap and the Brewers contributed to their own downfall with four errors in the game.

In the opener, Tom McCraw homered in the bottom of the ninth to tie it. Then Rick Auerbach's bobble of Ray Fosse's two-out grounder, let in the winning run.

Dave Nelson was a one-man gang for the Rangers, figuring in every run they scored against Oakland.

In the opener, he scored a first-inning run, then delivered the tie-breaking winner with a ninth-inning double. And in the finale, he scored twice and knocked in two more runs, one of them with a seventh-inning single that produced the margin of victory.

Gates Brown delivered a tie-breaking fifth-inning home run, then contributed a sacrifice fly to a four-run sixth that powered the Tigers past Boston in their nightcap.

Brown had also homered in the opener but it was John Kennedy's tie-breaking single in the sixth inning that gave the Red Sox their victory.

Mike Cuellar tamed the Yanks on just three singles and got all the help he needed from Boog Powell, who clouted a two-run homer in the first inning. Brooks Robinson also singled home a pair of runs for the Orioles, who cut Detroit's East Division lead to one game.

Bob Oliver, formerly of the Royals, gave his old teammates a shock when he led off the 11th inning for the Angels with his 13th homer, a game-winning blast over the center field fence.

Leonard, McCluskey Win Penn Races

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
MT. POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Joe Leonard a grandfather from San Jose, Calif., and his old pro buddy Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., won auto races in Pennsylvania during the weekend.

For McCluskey, it was an easy victory in the Pennsylvania 500 for stock cars Sunday. For Leonard, it required a bit of waiting to be sure that he had captured the $83,530 first place check for Saturday's Schaefer 500 at Pocono International Raceway.

He didn't know for sure until Sunday morning, after timers and scorers had rifled through their lap cards more than a dozen times.

McCluskey, 37, completed his chore more than four laps ahead of second place Butch Hartman of North Zanesville, Ohio. He was paid $10,000 for his second straight triumph on the United States Auto Club stock circuit and his third of the season.

Leonard, also 37, drove one of Parnelli Jones' Viceroy Specials at an average speed of 154.781 miles per hour — McCluskey's average in the stock car race was 127.035 m.p.h. — to cross the finish line by 25 seconds ahead of Johnny Rutherford of Ft. Worth, Tex.

All probably would have ended well, had not Rutherford been listed on the electronic scoreboard earlier as the leader, when Leonard actually was in front of the field.

The pace car driven by ex-Indianapolis winner Sam Hanks had gone on the track and picked up Rutherford as the leader, the occasion being a yellow light situation brought on when Jimmy Caruthers of Anaheim, Calif., crashed into the third turn wall, escaping with minor burns and contusions.

Five laps later, however, the pace car suddenly dropped off to second place and picked up Leonard as the leader, but the scoreboard disagreed, flashing Al Unser's No. 4 in the top spot.

Later, however, Leonard was announced as the unofficial winner, pending a recheck of the score cards. Unser, officials said, had been penalized a lap for passing Rutherford under the yellow.

Thus, Sunday morning, the official rundown gave Rutherford second place, worth $44,380, and Unser third, for a payoff of $28,845.

In other results on Sunday, Jackie Ickx of Belgium won the German Grand Prix at Adenau, Canadian Eppie Wietzes won the L&M 5000 Continental Grand Prix at Brainerd, Minn., and Lee Kunzman took the United States Auto Club sprint race at Winchester, Ind.

Ickx drove his Ferrari 312 B2 to a 40-second victory over teammate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland in the German Grand Prix at an average speed of 116.63 miles per hour for the 198.6 miles.

Wietzes, of Thornhill, Ont., took over-all honors in the Continental at Donnybrook Raceway in Brainerd by finishing third in his Lola in the first 99-mile heat and second in the second heat. Jerry Hansen of Bloomington, Minn., was second in the over-all tabulation.

Bobby Isaac, driving a Dodge, scored a wire-to-wire victory in the Buddy Shuman Memorial 300 at the Hickory, N.C., Motor Speedway. Cale Yarborough, driving a Ford, was second.

Party Reform Plans Could Affect GOP Unity Glow

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republicans glow with unity as their 1972 national convention approaches but there is a possibility of some skirmishing over party reforms that may cause a few ripples of discontent.

There is no likelihood the GOP meeting opening at Miami Beach Aug. 21 will go through the anguish caused by the Democratic reforms set in motion at that party's 1968 convention.

Any sign of a row could be quelled by a simple signal from President Nixon, now set to be nominated for a second term by acclamation.

In any event, the Republican reform proposals are more modest than those enforced by the Democrats and would not apply until the 1976 convention since party rules governing selection of delegates are adopted four years in advance. The 1968 GOP convention did adopt one new rule to require that participation in the selection of delegates through primaries and caucuses "shall in no way be abridged for reasons of race, religion, color or national origin."

No Delegate Challenges
In contrast to the challenges levelled against more than 1,100 delegates certified to this month's Democratic convention, Republican national headquarters has not yet received a challenge to a single GOP delegate.

In fact, the last major Republican seating contest was in 1952 when Dwight D. Eisenhower defeated Sen.

Robert A. Taft of Ohio in a battle for control of the Texas and Georgia delegations and went on to win the nomination. Another 1968 move called for establishment of a committee by the Republican National Committee to study national convention rules, relations between the national party and the state parties and other GOP affiliates, and the anti-discrimination rule.

A 16-member Delegate and Organization (DO) Committee was set up with Mrs. Rosemary Ginn of Missouri as chairman. It met in closed session and submitted two reports to the national committee, the second at Denver a year ago. It also sent questionnaires to party leaders around the country.

Its first report came out foursquare against national primaries to nominate presidential candidates.

The second recommended that each state try to give equal representation to men and women and select young delegates under 25 "in numerical equity" to their voting strength in the state. (The Democrats set the age bracket at 18 to 30.)

Minority Problem
The GOP group ran into more trouble than the Democrats, however, in trying to write language to assure a share of delegates for blacks, nationality groups and other minorities.

Many Republicans said party office should be earned through work for the party and not allotted on the basis of age, sex, race or national origin.

The GOP committee also recommended:

—Further curtailment of time allowed for speeches placing candidates in nomination and a five-minute limit on combined nominating and seconding speeches for "favorite son" candidates.

—Prohibiting demonstrations for candidates who do not have "substantial delegate support."
—Enlargement of the four convention standing committees to give each state four members—one man, one woman, one under 25 and one representative of a minority group.

The committee holds its next meeting at Miami Beach Aug. 15. Its proposals will go to the national committee's and the convention's committees on for whatever action they wish.

Warn of Disillusionment
Republican reform proposals have drawn some scornful comments even from Republicans, particularly the liberal GOP gadfly, the Ripon Society. In a June 15 publication, the society said the party will shrink if the Miami Beach convention fails to tell the voters that it wants grass roots participation and will respond. Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California sounded off July 18 with suggestions resembling some of the more stringent Democratic reforms. He never responded to an invitation to testify before the DO committee, however.

The DO committee has described its assignment as carrying out the GOP's "open-door policy."

Democrats have sneered at the committee's work, noting that the 3,194 Democrats finally seated this year included:

Blacks 15.5 per cent (5.5 in 1968) women 40 per cent (13 in 1968), under 30 years 21.4 (only 4 delegates, a fraction of 1 per cent in 1968). The Democratic breakdown also included 157 "Latinos", 27 Indians, 17 Orientals and two Eskimos.

Percentages at the 1968 Republican convention were reported at 1 per cent black, 17 per cent women and 1 per cent under 30.

No Unit Rules
Republican leaders retort that they started ahead of the Democrats. They say all state GOP parties have written rules, that they never enforced the unit rule retained by the Democrats until 1968 and that they hold their number of delegates to a limit less likely to create disorder.

The Republicans will have 2,692 delegates and alternates this year compared with 5,000 for the Democrats.

Republicans also can remind that it was a former Republican president — Eisenhower — who told a 1965 national committee meeting, "Let's reform the national convention." It was then that a special committee was appointed to submit recommendations to the 1968 convention arrangements committee.

Eisenhower later wrote that he did not want to strip the conventions of their drama but merely make them more orderly. He also confessed to a television interviewer in 1968 that he did not know why his supporters were cheering so loudly in his hotel suite in 1952. Watching on television, he was not aware that he had won the presidential nomination.

American Party Begins Drafting Its Platform

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Party's platform committee meets tonight to start drafting, among other things, a specific proposal to halt school busing.

William Shearer of La Mesa, Calif., cochairman of the committee, said he is not sure yet whether the final proposal will call for a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing or a federal law achieving the same goal.

He said Alabama Gov. George Wallace has endorsed the constitutional route, yet also has said an amendment takes a long time.

"And of course if you try a federal statute you're not sure it will work," he said.

Another key proposal before the platform committee will be the election of U. S. Supreme Court Justices.

Shearer said this "periodic confrontation with voters" is necessary to "oust those who run roughshod" over the constitution.

The cochairman also indicated he would try to insert a "negative stand" against President Nixon's attempt to improve relations with Red China and Soviet Russia — on the ground it is premature while those countries aid North Vietnam.

The platform and credentials committees will meet for the next three days. The American Party convention starts Thursday and ends Saturday night.

About 2,000 delegates and alternates from 45 states are expected to attend the proceedings in Freedom Hall on the State Fairgrounds a few miles south of downtown Louisville.

Wallace's announcement he would not head a third party ticket in November left the delegates with the option of trying to draft him or turning to other prospects.

The American Party was formed in 1969 from groups which supported the Alabama governor's presidential bid in 1968.

Some insiders said a draft appears unlikely and that U. S. Rep. John Schmitz of California, defeated for renomination last month in a Republican primary, has the inside track for the nomination Friday.

Schmitz, from Santa Ana in Orange County, is a member of the John Birch Society. He is a 41-year-old former Marine pilot.

Schmitz' congressional office at Washington said he would attend at least part of the convention.

Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, another presidential prospect, is scheduled to address delegates Friday.

The 56-year-old former governor is a conservative Democrat who shares many of Wallace's views.

Actively campaigning is Richard Kay, a Cleveland attorney who helped defend Lt. William Calley.

Wallace might try campaigning

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace may campaign for some Democrats this year — if he is physically able — without endorsing the party's presidential ticket, an aide says.

The aide, who refused to be quoted by name, said Sunday that Wallace hopes to do some limited stumping for congressional, state and local party candidates in Alabama and possibly in some other Southern states.

Wallace issued a statement Saturday saying that he will not participate in "any extensive campaign activity in the immediate future." But he added that he will ask his doctors for periodic evaluations of his physical condition "throughout this political year."

Chess Game Postponed

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — World champion Boris Spassky took a rest from the international chess title game Sunday, pleading a cold. The ninth game with American Bobby Fischer now is scheduled to be played Tuesday.

The Russians asked for a postponement half an hour before the noon deadline and delivered a medical certificate to referee Lothar Schmid. Three such postponements are allowed each player in the 24-game series.

"It was not unexpected," said Fred Cramer, Fischer's representative. "That's what the Russians normally do when their man is below par and is losing rapidly."

The Russian titleholder has been playing poorly and not showing his usual self-confidence. He is down 3-5 in the match and has won only one game in play while Fischer has taken four.

The Russians said they did not know whether a further two-day postponement would be asked for Tuesday.

"Spassky is not so well," said Prof. Nikolai Krogius, one of the champion's seconds.

Jane Fonda Will 'Shelve' Acting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda, back from a two-week visit to North Vietnam, says she plans to shelve her acting career until after the presidential election in November.

Miss Fonda told newsmen greeting her Sunday she would be working with the California-based Indochina Peace Campaign, a group which plans to promote the Vietnam war as a major election issue.

The antiwar activist said she was allowed to visit American prisoners of war during her visit.

"I looked carefully in their eyes and they were not glazed," she said, emphasizing that she did not think they were brainwashed. "They said, 'As long as Nixon is in office, we are going to be in here for a very long time.'"

Noted Hostess Is Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Perle Mesta, well known Washington hostess, was reported in satisfactory condition at Sibley Hospital today where she is being treated for a broken hip.

She injured the hip in a fall down some stairs at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lewis Ellis, on Friday.

The Washington Star quoted Mrs. Mesta as saying she would be recovered in time to travel to Oregon in two weeks for a campaign appearance on behalf of Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

"Don't worry. I'll be there. I want to make sure that good-looking man is re-elected," she said.

Doing Their Own Thin

Fat is out and thin is in. These pictures were taken at one of a growing number of specialized summer retreats: weight reduction camps for youngsters. Juvenile obesity has reached epidemic proportions, according to medical and nutritional experts. And a lot of concerned parents have tried just about everything else—crash diets, starvation techniques, rewards and punishments and visits to child psychiatrists—without success. The battle the camps wage is to make campers stop doing something they do only too well, over-eating. Their approach is simple and straightforward, based on good eating habits, plenty of exercise and the building of self-confidence. As a rule they are opposed to fad diets, pills and medicine for losing weight. "Slim down" camps can't guarantee results, but in fact most say there are very few campers who fail to lose some weight. And, of course, these camps are different in a further aspect from most other kinds of camps. They count their real successes by the number of campers who never return.

Photographed by Steve Starr.

Plenty of exercise—tackling those spare tires turns out to be great fun after all!

A camp counselor keeps track of the inches ...

... while a class on the grass pinches them off.

First find your waist... then sway gracefully back from it.

Real food... but control over size of portion is not left to campers' self control.

It's the big event of the week at the "slim down" camp: weigh-in day.

The 'Awful Dr. Crane' Plaintiff

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Ellen says the younger wives root for this column. But the women past 45 may often exclaim, "That awful Dr. Crane. He is at fault because our husbands chase around with other girls!" Look in your mirror and you'll see the REAL culprit!

Case T-565: Ellen D., aged 28, has a sex puzzle.
"Dr. Crane," she smilingly began, "at our University Women's Club, we often debate your columns."

"And I find that young wives, say under the age of 35 to 40, usually back you 100 per cent. But women of 45 or above are often critical and charge that you encourage husbands to run around with other women.

"But I have never yet seen you urge husbands to be unfaithful to their wives!"

"Instead, it seems to us younger women that you keep showing stodgy older wives how to PREVENT such threats to their homes."

"So why do the older wives more often pick on you?"

Sex Self-Defense
Despite what many older wives say, you readers will never find a single case where I have urged husbands to desert their wives.

Instead, I often describe husbands who are about ready to develop an affair, so I instruct their fat, stodgy mates in how to prevent it.

For the aim of this clinical column in practical psychology and psychiatry is the PREVENT divorce, school dropouts and unhappiness.

This "Worry Clinic" exposes the common worries of the human race and then shows you how to solve them successfully.

It prevents divorce, delinquency, promiscuity, drug addiction, stuttering, excessive timidity and even insanity!
Those older wives who attack me, are merely using the "ad hominem" fallacy in logic.
"That awful Dr. Crane," they often state, "I can't imagine why our newspaper runs his column!"

Others angrily add:
"He ALWAYS sides with our husbands! And gives them an excuse to have an affair with another woman."

As a matter of fact, it is you stodgy wives, who waddle like a walrus as you jiggle down the street, who are driving your husbands into clandestine affairs!

Why pick on me?
If your waistline now equals your bust line, that makes you look like a good, old motherly soul.

So you don't suggest romantic notions to your placid husband. Because I candidly explain how you look and also clearly outline the husband's usual attitude, that is to wake you up to the rotic Sword of Damocles that precariously hangs over your double chins!

If you fat, lazy wives were honest with yourselves, you would be grateful to me for explaining why your marriages are now in danger.

And you'd thank me for showing you how to serve more cheesecake in the boudoir, as by regaining your slender figure, using diaphanous nighties, plus perfume and more seductive aggressiveness.

But you prefer to lazily drift along in the status quo, despite the fact it may soon bring you into the divorce court!

And then you wail: "That awful Dr. Crane did it!"
Look in the mirror and you'll see who really broke up your marriage!

Instead, it was that unromantic, female hippo in his bedroom, who even repulsed his final desperate attempts to revive the courtship moods that you put into the refrigerator 15 or 20 years ago!

"Oh, act your age, Herbert," you sleepily repulse his advances, and then add "Roll over and go to sleep."

Send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS
Q. 1—As South vulnerable, you hold:
♠10 6 5 ♥J 8 5 4 3 ♦K J 4 ♣A 10

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♠ Dble. Pass ?
What do you bid?
A.—Three hearts. This is really a very fine hand facing a takeout double and, unless you so indicate via the jump response, partner is apt to drop you and a sure game may be missed.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠6 4 3 ♥Q J 8 7 5 4 ♦3 2 ♣8 7
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass Pass Dble. 2 ♦ Dble. ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. The partner does not figure to have much of a fit for your suit when he bids spades and diamonds, even a small doubleton or a singleton honor could make this the best contract since his hand should prove to be a good dummy for you. Furthermore, if he does not like hearts, you are prepared to hear him rebid spades.

Q. 3—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A Q 8 3 ♥K 9 3 ♦K J 9 ♣Q 8 2
Your right hand opponent opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you bid?
A.—Pass. You are not quite strong enough to make a takeout double which, in this spot, shows the strength of a one no trump opener. In fact, any action at this point would be most indiscreet and could lead to serious difficulties if West has the balance of the remaining high cards, by no means remote prospect.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♦ ?

What do you bid now?

Disney Invading European Arena

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next Friday Disney on Parade makes its first invasion of Europe, and the show's backers have every confidence that it will duplicate its conquest of the arena market in North America and Australia.

Next month Disney on Parade will be appearing in three major world cities: London, New York and Mexico City. The expected gross from the three troupes in those cities: $3 million.

The London premiere Friday marks another phase of an amazing success story. Ringling Bros.-Barnum and Bailey Circus has been in business over a century. The ice-skating shows have been playing the country for three decades or more. Within three years, Disney on Parade has achieved the same kind of acceptance and is earning comparable sums at the box offices.

Disney on Parade is a partnership between NBC, which produces and operates the show, and the Disney company, which maintains creative control. Disney was at first reluctant to go along. It did so at ened veteran of the arena business, having traveled with the ice shows—"name any American city and I can tell you the size and layout of the stadium." Now he's learning about arenas elsewhere in the world.

He expects Disney on Parade to continue to grow. Ultimately there may be six editions, each to have a two-year run. Two would tour North America, two in Europe, one in the Far East and one in South America.

The show themes borrow from the Disney cartoons. Sidney was asked if Disney on Parade might some day run out of material.
"I don't think so," he said. "There is enough in the Disney archives for 10 shows, and we can make variations of each one by revising. Besides, we have a new audience every three years."

"The first couple of dates were difficult," explains Jack Sidney, the man who books Disney on Parade around the world. "There were union problems, and the whole show was too heavy."
"But once we got to Pittsburgh, everything fell into place."
Sidney, 58, is a battle-hard-

The Regional approach to planning and development of government service is an idea with growing importance for North Carolina's people. It is of special interest to Pitt County because of the emphasis being placed on Rural Development.

covers 2987 square miles and has a population of 175 thousand people.

Very important reasons for developing the planning regions were to insure that state and federal funds will not be used to provide duplicating or overlapping services and to secure greater effectiveness from local funds through encouraging local governments to cooperate on programs of mutual interest. Economic development, health care, education, law enforcement and water and sewage plans are among those being developed to guide the region's development.

Other members are appointed from each county representing a broad range of social, economic, ethnic, and geographic interests. (Each county has a total of 15 Commission members including elected officials.)

In each region a lead-regional organization (in Region Q it is the Mid-East Commission) will be designated. This organization has the responsibility for reviewing plans for local or regional projects which involve state or federal funds to determine if such projects are consistent with the plans and goals of the entire region.

To implement the regional program each region is organized with a board of directors and a permanent staff to carry out the planning and coordinating function. In Region Q the Mid-East Commission is the agency designated for this role. The by-laws of the Mid-East Commission require that fifty-one percent of the Commission's membership be elected officials representing the member municipalities and

The expenditure of public funds can and will have an effect on where development takes place. The Multi-County Planning Region is established as a tool for decision making about such expenditures. It will have an impact on the people of Pitt County.

If you want more information about Regionalism or the Mid-East Commission, call or write the Agricultural Extension Service in Greenville.

It's an arrangement apparently favored by farmers who are looking for larger production units but who are unable to bear the cost of ownership.

defeated in attempts to cultivate the rich but difficult soil. Even now, a pioneering spirit is required of those who are finally succeeding. Men like Al Hubers and Garritt Boerema are examples.

Hubers moved from Iowa 12 years ago to clear and farm 1,040 acres of the rugged blackland. He came east because the opportunity to expand was severely limited back home. Boerema, who came to America 21 years ago from Holland, settled in the area after several years of employment at various jobs. A dairy family, the Boeremas were recognized nationally last year as "Farm Family of the Year."

During the fifties and early sixties, many of the major drainage canals were dug, mainly by the Lake Phelps Land Company, making this land accessible for agricultural development.

The newly accessible land has been acquired by farmers from many parts of the country as well as by farmers in eastern North Carolina. Once acquired, very little of the land has changed hands.

Corporate developers are also working in this swampy region, which until now has yielded hardly anything but scrub brush, pond pine and frequent forest and land fires. The corporations are big enough to bear the cost of ownership and clearing but too big perhaps for the personal kind of management that makes grain farming profitable.

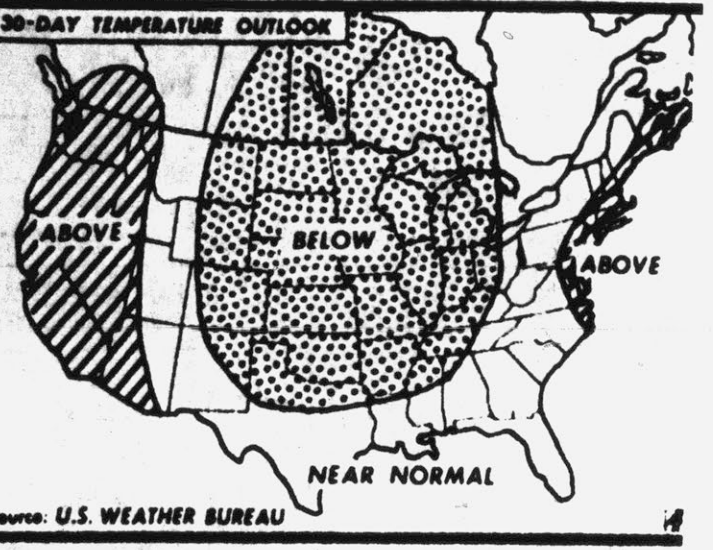

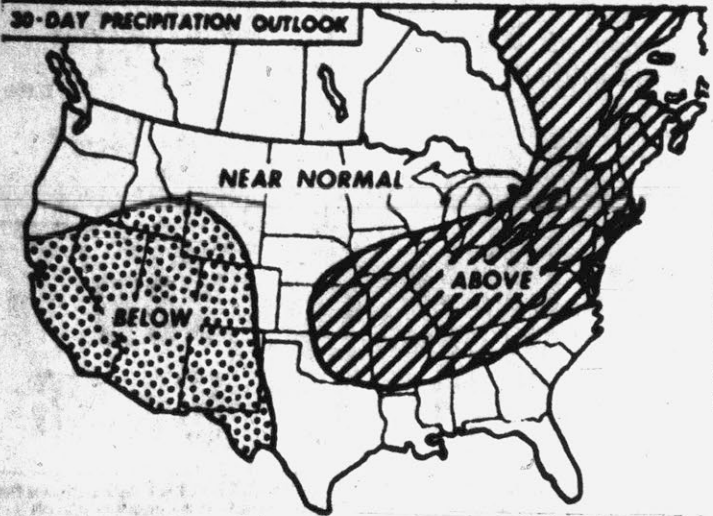

The result is, much of the land coming into production is being rented or leased by individuals. The owners share in the returns on a percentage basis, providing an incentive for both the landlord and tenant to put into the operation those things necessary for big crop yields.

The soil itself is black with organic matter. The organic content can often be as high as 70 to 95 percent. This layer of organic soil may be very shallow or very deep; it may be underlain by a heavy clay subsoil or by sand. Each of these factors affects the manner in which the land must be farmed.

"There isn't any doubt that much of this land has the potential to grow 200-bushel corn," said Steve Barnes, N. C. State University soil specialist. The opportunities with soybeans and wheat are real good also, and the commercial production of a large number of horticultural crops is another possibility.

Individual farms in the area range in size from 200 to 25,000 acres. Rows are straight as an arrow and a half mile or more long, ideally suited for the most efficient use of big machinery. Labor doesn't have to be a problem. One man can tend 400 to 500 acres essentially alone.

The area has many things going for it plus the fact that the amount of available agricultural land nationally is shrinking. So despite its peculiar problems, it is not surprising that this area is finally being opened up in a big way.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Large parcels of North Carolina's tidewater blacklands are being drained and put under the plow in one of the most concentrated land development efforts in the history of the state.

An estimated 150,000 acres have been cleared and devoted primarily to grain and soybean farming since the mid-1950's, according to Woody Upchurch, agricultural information specialist at North Carolina State University. The potential is about one and a half million acres lying largely between the Albemarle and Pamlico sounds in Washington, Beaufort, Tyrrell and Hyde counties.

There is a touch of irony in the fact that this is in the same area where English colonists first attempted to settle the new World. They were thwarted, possibly in part by the land itself, just as others who have followed them have been

Tobacco TIPS

By EDWIN L. YANCEY

Dr. Charles Pugh, Extension Economist at N.C. State University, recently analyzed 24 tobacco farms which were participants in the North Carolina Farm Business Records Program in 1971. While Dr. Pugh cautions that these farms are not necessarily representative of all farms, the information may provide a point of comparison for an individual tobacco grower.

On the 24 farms analyzed, tobacco provided 47 percent of the total ordinary income. It ranged from a low of 13 percent to a high of 96 percent of total income. The farms averaged $75,128 in ordinary farm income, and $61,323 in ordinary expenses. So net income over expenses average $13,805. When depreciation of equipment and buildings is accounted for, however, the net income was $5,959. (This represents the return to unpaid family labor, owned investment and management.)

Analyzing the tobacco enterprise alone, Dr. Pugh found that for each $1 in tobacco sales the farmer had 72.2 cents in expenses and depreciation. Of this, 16.8 cents went for hired labor, 4.8 cents for curing fuel and utilities, 5.8 cents fertilizer, 5.1 cents supplies, 9.5 cents rent, 9.9 cents depreciation and 20.3 cents all others.

Fourteen of the record keepers reported pounds of tobacco sold. They were analyzed on a cost per pound basis. Hired labor accounted for 12.8 cents of the cost per pound of leaf. Fertilizer costs were 4 cents, rent 5 cents, curing and fuel 2.8 cents, interest 2.9 cents, depreciation 7.2 cents and all others 13.5 cents for a total cost per pound of 48.2 cents.

The information presented is an average of farms managed under widely differing conditions. Pitt County farmers can get this kind of information on an individual basis by participating in the North Carolina Farm Business Records Program. This is a computerized farm business analysis system which is available to all farmers at a very nominal cost. For more information, contact the Agricultural Extension Service in Greenville.

A TREE THIS SIZE — Mrs. Virginia Piper shows newsmen the diameter of the tree she was chained to in northern Minn. (AP Wirephoto)

Kidnap Victim Feared For Life After Chaining

By GENE LAHAMMER
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Virginia Piper, the attractive socialite whose husband paid $1 million ransom to free her from kidnapers, dug at the ground with her bare hands while trying to free herself from a tree to which she had been chained in a forest.

"I wasn't actually in fear of my life until they left me on Friday," Mrs. Piper said. "Then I thought 'I'm chained to a tree here and they'll find me in November.'"

Mrs. Piper, who discussed the kidnaping at a news conference Sunday, said she then began digging in hopes of uprooting the six-inch-thick tree. "I thought that the only way I could ever get out was to uproot the tree and fell it and lug the tree out to the highway. At least it kept me busy. I figured that by the end of the week, I would be able to dump that tree," she added.

The 49-year-old victim had some degree of mobility since the chain, which was strung around the tree from hand to hand, had a three-foot leeway.

Mrs. Piper recalled a bit of humor after she was found by FBI agents, who went to the scene after receiving an anonymous tip. The agents unlocked her handcuffs, but could not free her from the chain. So four agents bent the small tree to the ground and she was able to slip the chain over it.

"This is terribly funny, really—four of them jumped on the tree and swung it back and forth and got it down," Mrs. Piper said.

The kidnapers have not been caught.

Mrs. Piper's husband is Harry C. Piper, 54, board chairman of the investment and brokerage firm of Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, Inc.

Piper told newsmen Sunday that the $1 million ransom in $20 bills that he delivered late Friday night was so heavy "that I could just barely lift it." The money reportedly weighed 115 pounds.

Mrs. Piper's ordeal began

Thursday when two men burst into the fashionable Piper home in suburban Orono. Both wore black nylon masks over their heads and each had two pistols. Mrs. Piper said the kidnapers put tape over her eyes, threw a pillow case over her head and ordered her to lie down in the back seat of a car while they drove her to wilderness area near Duluth, about 140 miles north of here.

The FBI, which has 100 agents working on the case, said it would have no comment on whether a third man was involved.

Mrs. Piper said she was not threatened or harmed and did not fear for her life until she was abandoned in the darkness of the forest Friday night.

The kidnapers left her "some pop, a few pieces of cheese and some soggy bread."

She was found about 12 hours later.

A bull caribou sheds his antlers in the winter and the cow sheds hers in the spring.

Farm Land Values Generally Up

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press-Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says farmland values have increased since 1967 from 73 per cent in Georgia to 5 per cent in Arizona.

USDA's Economic Research Service says value increases were most rapid since 1967 in the Northeast and Southeast and least rapid in the Northern Plains and Pacific regions.

In the Western States, value of irrigated land changed little, but dry farming land and grazing land values moved up strongly.

ERS says that although the index of farm real estate values per acre measures the change in the average value of land in farms, changes in market values are influenced by nonfarm factors as well as by changes in farm earnings.

In general, it says, the most rapid increase in value appears in states experiencing rapid shifts in land use and population density. Rates of increase appear to be slower in the more agriculturally oriented areas.

Farm real estate values increased 8 per cent during the year ending March 1, 1972, with the average value of farm real estate per acre at $217, or $14 above a year earlier. ERS says real estate reporters expect the strong increases in value to continue through 1972 with many believing that prices of irrigated land will increase 5 per cent or more.

Georgia, with the highest percentage of increase at 72 per cent, was followed by New Jersey at 63 per cent, Pennsylvania at 57 per cent, and South Carolina at 53 per cent.

Here's the index of increases: Northeast: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, all at 51 per cent; New York 48, New Jersey 63, Pennsylvania 57, Delaware 37 and Maryland 45.

Lake states: Michigan 37, Wisconsin 49 and Minnesota 29. Corn Belt: Ohio 28, Indiana 29, Illinois 12, Iowa 24 and Missouri 42.

Northern Plains: North Dakota 25, South Dakota 15, Nebraska 27 and Kansas 8.

Appalachian: Virginia 43, West Virginia 42, North Carolina 32, Kentucky 34 and Tennessee 44.

Southeast: Georgia 73, South Carolina 53, Florida 36 and Alabama 46.

Delta states: Mississippi 46, Arkansas 44 and Louisiana 44.

Southern Plains: Oklahoma

37 and Texas 36. Mountain: Montana 24, Wyoming 31, Idaho 24, Colorado 22, New Mexico 16, Arizona 5, Utah 18 and Nevada 18.

Pacific: Washington 24, Oregon 26 and California 15.

ERS does not collect farm-real-estate data in Hawaii and Alaska.

Rare Stamp Value Grows

LONDON (AP) — One of the rarest stamps in the world, the 1856 British Guiana one-cent black on magenta, is now worth 120,000 pounds or about $288,000 at current exchange rates, philatelic dealer Stanley Gibbons estimated today.

The stamp, discovered in 1873, was bought in 1970 at auction in New York City by Erwin Wynberg for 116,000 pounds—then $280,000.

It is the only specimen of this stamp known to exist. There are a few other stamps with only a single specimen left, but the British Guiana rarity is the most famous of these.

The new price estimate appears in the 1973 edition of Stanley Gibbons' British Commonwealth Catalogue, which lists many other rare stamps and some remarkable increases in price.

For instance, the Canadian 12 penny woodblock of 1851, priced at 3,000 pounds or $8,400 in 1963, has nearly trebled in value to 9,000 pounds or about $21,600 at current rates.

The two penny blue Mauritius of 1847, catalogued at 22,000 pounds last year—then $52,800—has jumped to a value of 27,000 pounds—$61,800 now.

Sen. Ellender's Funeral Today

HOUMA, La. (AP) — President and Mrs. Nixon lead a Washington delegation to this small South Louisiana town today for the funeral of veteran Democratic Sen. Allen Ellender.

Accompanying Nixon were the next three men in line for the presidency: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Senate President pro tem James O. Eastland, D-Miss.; and House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla.

Also among the party were the Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. George McGovern, and his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton; Sen. Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa.; and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

In addition to Air Force One and Two, three other large military aircraft were scheduled to transport the Washington delegation, which also included generals and members of the staff of the Senate Agriculture and Appropriations committees.

Ellender, president pro tem of the Senate until his death at 81 in Washington last Thursday, was chairman of the Appropriations Committee and a member of the Agriculture Committee.

The Houma airport was too small to handle the large aircraft, forcing the President, vice president and the congressional delegation to land at Alvin Callender Field, a U.S. Naval Air Station south of New Orleans, and transfer to helicopters for the 50-mile trip to Houma.

Hanging Tree Was Uprooted

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (AP) — One of Tombstone's two famous hanging trees has been toppled. Police said the tree, where many bad men are said to have met their end, was felled when a sanitary worker backed his garbage truck up under a limb and uprooted it.

Officials said the worker, whom they declined to identify, had his first and last day on the job rolled into one.

Officials said that within hours town merchants gathered about the tree salvaging parts to be sold to tourists.

The tree was one of two cottonwoods, both about 30 inches in diameter.

No Injuries From Quake

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A major earthquake which rocked southeast Alaska caused no serious damage and no injuries were reported.

The quake Sunday registered 7.3 on the Richter scale, according to the National Earthquake Center in Boulder, Colo. It was the strongest earth tremor recorded in Alaska since a temblor seven years ago in the Aleutian Islands.

The earthquake which devastated Anchorage in 1965 registered 8.5 on the Richter scale.

In Sitka, a seaside community of 5,000 persons about 100 miles south of Juneau, officials said buildings swayed and cars bounced on city streets, but no serious damage or injuries were reported. Lesser tremors were felt in Ketchikan to the south and in Juneau.

"It's amazing Sitka didn't get heavy damage," a spokesman for the Boulder observatory said.

A tsunami, or tidal wave warning, was issued at 5:45 p.m. EDT for a 1,200-mile section of the Alaskan coastline, but was canceled 30 minutes later, after it was determined that a sea wave had not been generated.

Ranks Of Women Workers Grow

NEW YORK (UPI)—More half of all American women between the ages of 18 and 64 work at jobs outside the home. Between 1960 and 1970 the number of working women grew from 23 million to more than 31 million—a 35 per cent gain. During the same period the number of men working grew by only 10 per cent.

Wide Use For Labor-Inducers

AUGUSTA, Mich. (UPI)—Prostaglandins have been administered experimentally to induce labor at term in about 5,000 women throughout the world with successful results in a high percentage of cases, scientists meeting here were told recently.

The report on the prostaglandins was made at a meeting attended by 60 scientists from 16 countries. Prostaglandins—a 14-member family of fatty acids found in tiny amounts in most tissues of the body—are expected to have a wide range of medical applications. These range from regulating fertility to inducing labor and therapeutic abortion.
