Shriver Joins Demo Ticket; Lines Drawn

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a prime-time unity show, the Democrats have handed their vice-presidential nomination to Sargent Shriver and cheered the ticket's opening swings at President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.
"I'm not embarrassed to be George McGovern's seventh choice for vice president," Shriver said Tuesday after the Democratic National Committee added him to the ticket. "We Democrats may be short of money. We're not short of talent. Think of the comparison and then you can pity poor Mr. Nixon—his first and only choice was Spiro Agnew."
The Democrats loved it.
"If we have used valuable time in the selection of a vice-presidential nominee," McGovern said, "the nation must wish the Republicans had made their choice with greater care."
And thus the lines were drawn again, this time with McGovern teamed with Shriver in place of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, who withdrew last week after disclosing that he had undergone shock treatment for mental depression in the 1960s.
McGovern and Shriver were to try and sustain the momentum at a unity luncheon today with members of the Democratic National Committee, which winds up its extraordinary three-day meeting today with some ordinary business.

In addition, Latin and women's caucuses were to meet separately with McGovern to air grievances that they—and their favorite issues—aren't being represented in his campaign.
In the balloting, Shriver was given 2,936 of the committee's authorized 3,016 votes.
It appeared he might be elected unanimously. But then, Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes cast his state's 73 votes for Eagleton, and Oregon cast four of its 74 votes for maverick Democrat Wayne Morse who is trying for a Senate comeback. Guam had nobody present and its three votes weren't counted.
Shriver, 56, former director of the Peace Corps and of the anti-poverty program, a former ambassador to France, and a Kennedy in-law, outlined the Democratic campaign in accepting the nomination:
"We intend to go out and ask of our young people not just to protest against inadequate schools but to teach children; not just to complain about the quality of law enforcement, but to enlist in our overburdened police forces and to join the staffs of prisons; not just to make speeches about the Third World, but to serve abroad in a revived Peace Corps; not just to talk about love, but to work with the retarded, the elderly, the lonely, the ill, the blind, and millions of hungry children on this planet.
"This is what America at its best has been," he said. "That is what we will be again."

Okay Contracts For New School

WILLIAMSTON — General contracts for the building of Williamston's new high school were approved Monday by the Martin County Board of Education.
D. G. Manning of Williamston was successful low bidder for the general contract with a bid that amounted to $1,572,685, which included an alternate roofing bid of $33,500. The board approved the bid less the alternate for a total of $1,539,185.
In connection with the bid, the board also took action to request officially the state bond money of $715,000 due the county from the 1963 State School Bond.
In other actions, the board voted to employ the firm of Skinner and Lamb of Wilson to finish up architectural plans for the Williamston High School and to prepare plans for the Jamesville Elementary School and the Williamston Primary School.

For architectural plans for the West High School to be located near Robersonville, the board voted to meet with Leslie Boney of Wilmington to work on plans; and also to meet with Owen Smith of Raleigh for plans on the Robersonville Primary School.
Taylor Kooce, director of the Martin County Occupational Education program, presented a resolution for long-range plans for occupational education in the county. The board will study the proposal and consider it in depth at future meetings.
Contracts for 26 new school employees were approved; and Jack Butler, director of the

$85.92 Opening Day Average On Greenville Tobacco Mart

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Tobacco Market, opening Tuesday on a limited poundage schedule, got off to a rousing start by posting an overall average of $85.92, a mark that bettered last season's record breaker by over $8.
With Greenville and six other Eastern Belt markets opening some two weeks ahead of the other ten markets, poundage allocations were smaller than normal opening day figures but prices did not reflect the modified tempo of the season opener.

With one warehouseman reporting that all but one bundle on his floor sold for $86 and that single pile brought $87 per hundred pounds, prices were generally in the $85 to $86 range throughout the local market.
Greenville warehouses sold 513,710 pounds of tobacco Tuesday for $441,369. The $85.92 average was $8.78 above the 1971 quote of $77.14 which set records for opening day averages here last year.

The belt average of $85.85 also set a record, topping pre-season predictions by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Last year's opening average was $77.29. The seven markets sold 2,822,510 pounds overall Tuesday for $2,423,103.
Greenville's total poundage ranked behind Wilson as the neighboring markets sold 514,302 pounds. The Smithfield average topped the belt with $86.62 while Greenville's $85.92 was third behind Smithfield and Wilson.
The sales supervisor for the local Tobacco Board of Trade, J. N. Bryan, commented this morning that "everything looked good" at opening sales. He contended that "lugs and primers have never sold better here."

Bryan said that the farmers he talked with yesterday all "seemed very well pleased with their sales," noting also that a big portion of the leaf brought prices of around $86 per hundred.
Stabilization receipts yesterday, according to the Market News Service in Wilson, accounted for only a fraction of the total belt poundage. The news service reported that receipts totaled only one-tenth of one per cent of the gross sales, or 2,714 pounds.

Receipts last year were down significantly from the 1970 figures as Stabilization received only 3.45 per cent of the gross sales of 21,800 pounds. Low receipts had been predicted for this year.
Greenville began its second day of operations this morning with two sets of buyers on hand. The seven markets participating in the early opening have a combined total of 11 sets of buyers and will operate on the limited schedule until Aug. 22 when the full 17-market belt swings into full gear.

The following tabulation, compiled by the Marketing News Service, shows the opening day results of the seven markets.

Farmville	249,558	$213,632	$85.60
Goldsboro	276,244	237,013	85.80

Tumultuous Protest Day

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST (AP) — Gunfire, explosions and massive street demonstrations gave Northern Ireland a tumultuous day of Roman Catholic protest today against the British internment policy.
Buses were hijacked in Belfast and the border town of Newry. A gang of youths stopped a freight train outside Lurgan and bombarded it with gasoline grenades.
British troops said they shot two guerrilla gunmen in the capital, and three soldiers were slightly wounded.
Several thousand Catholics took to the streets of Belfast at 4 a.m., the hour when the British Army a year ago today began rounding up men suspected of being activists of the Irish Republican Army.

In the year since, more than 700 men were interned without trial, but the roundups did not stop the IRA. Nearly 300 are still held, and the British released 47 more Tuesday. But the Catholics demand freedom for all and the end of the internment law.
Bombs and shots were heard in the Ballymurphy, New Lodge and Andersonstown districts of Belfast. The army said troops fired at and hit a gunman in Andersonstown, but the crowd dragged him away.
A mob tried to storm a police and army post in the Springfield Road, and a machinegun burst sprayed its sandbag emplacements. The rioters tried to ram the sandbags with a crane, but the troops drove them off with rubber bullets.

Hagerty Resigns

City Manager Harry Hagerty has submitted a letter of resignation to Mayor S. Eugene West.
In a letter dated August 7, received by Mayor West today, Hagerty states, "For reasons of my personal health and well-being, I request retirement from my duties as City Manager effective this date."
In announcing receipt of the request, Mayor West said the request would be brought before the City Council meeting on Thursday night.
"I regret losing him, he's a good man," the mayor commented. "It is my feeling that for a town the size of Greenville and as active as we are, we will have to exercise great care to get a qualified person to replace Hagerty."
Hagerty, a retired Army officer, has been Greenville's City Manager for a little over ten years. He accepted the position on July 16, 1972.

Rangers Replace Militia

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese rangers have replaced government militiamen badly mauled in a series of ambushes only 17 miles east of Saigon. Officers in the field said 58 of the militiamen were killed and 55 wounded in the fighting Monday and Tuesday.
The Rangers, moving on foot and by helicopters, were maneuvering to get behind the estimated 250 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the Binh Song rubber plantation east of Highway 15.
The enemy forces ambushed a platoon of South Vietnamese militiamen on a patrol Monday along a dirt road between the village of Binh Son and Long Thanh. The North Vietnamese, armed with mines, mortars, and rocket grenades, then cut into the militiamen who were poured in to reinforce the patrol.
The fighting tapered off by Tuesday night, but the enemy forces held its position despite U.S. and South Vietnamese bombing, officers said.
Officers said it was the biggest action in Long Thanh district in two years, and the first time during that period that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had stayed and fought. Previous enemy attacks were by platoon-size forces on a hit-and-run basis, the officers said.
In Cambodia, Cambodian forces still holding part of the town of Kompong Trabek, 85 miles west of Saigon, drove back a north Vietnamese tank and infantry assault after withstanding a 500-round rocket and mortar barrage.

Foreign Military Aid And End-War Mandate Near House Showdown

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressures heightened on both sides today as the House moved toward a vote on an end-the-war mandate coupled to a foreign-military-aid bill.

Neither side was predicting whether the antiwar amendment would survive, although both friends and foes conceded the House could echo the Senate and vote down the entire bill. Again, the lineup was too close to predict.
"I think the foreign-aid bill is

Embarrassment Won't Go Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $25,000 mystery check which was deposited in the bank account of a man accused of burglary at the Democratic party headquarters has added to "a growing source of embarrassment" for many Republicans, The Washington Post said today.
The Post said Maurice Stans, the finance chairman for President Nixon's re-election campaign, has acknowledged receiving the check, but said it was exchanged for $25,000 cash and he didn't know what happened to the check after that.
Stans said the cash was deposited in the Nixon campaign treasury.
However, the Post said the General Accounting Office, which is auditing the Nixon campaign books, has found no evidence that the $25,000 was reported as a contribution by the Nixon campaign organization, or that the money was expended for campaign purposes.
Failure to report either contributions or expenditures after April 7 is considered a violation of the new federal elections law. Stans, a former secretary of Commerce, reportedly received the check on April 11 from Kenneth W. Dahlberg, the Midwest finance chairman for the Nixon campaign.

The cashier's check, drawn on a bank in Boca Raton, Fla., was made out to Dahlberg, who said it represented various campaign contributions.
The Post said the check ended up in the account of Bernard L. Barker, one of five men charged with burglary in connection with the break-in and suspected bugging attempt of Democratic party headquarters here on June 17.
Stans is reported to have told federal agents that he turned the check over to campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr., and it next went to G. Gordon Liddy, finance counsel of the campaign. Liddy, Stans said, then exchanged the check with someone else for $25,000 cash.

Eastern Belt's Tobacco Prices Average $85.85

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Opening sales on the Eastern Belt for flue-cured tobacco Tuesday gave farmers a record average of $85.85 per hundred pounds, the Federal-State Market News Service reported.
Seven of the 17 markets on the belt opened for the season on the earliest date in history. The remaining markets will open Aug. 21.

$85.60 Opening

FARMVILLE — Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Tobacco Board of Trade in Farmville, reported a record-breaking opening day for the Farmville market as sales averaged $85.60 per hundred pounds.
Williams, noting that last year's opener brought a $77.34 average and broke all previous records, said that much of the leaf yesterday sold in the $85 to $86 per hundred range with the top bringing $87.
Most of the volume of 249,558 pounds Tuesday, which sold for $213,632, consisted of primings and lugs, the supervisor reported, with very few piles of non-descript tobacco on the floor.
He added, however, that the Farmville market was faced with a larger per cent of carry-over tobacco from last year than had been anticipated by local warehousemen.
Stabilization, Williams continued, "did not receive a single pile of tobacco yesterday and that must be a record here."
Jim Graham, the state's agriculture commissioner, also was at Greenville and said the early opening of the belt will slow the flow of North Carolina tobacco to Georgia and Florida markets.

Japanese Plan To Bomb New York City Disclosed

By ROBERT LIU
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old airman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.
Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.
It was Aug. 9, 1945 — 27 years ago today — and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing World War II. An atomic bomb annihilated Hiroshima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagasaki on Aug. 9.
Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission — a one-way suicidal flight — grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo when he was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.
"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:
Three long-range KI77s, twin-engine planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted. They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator-navigator.

Five years earlier, a KI77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.
To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,500 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.
Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.
Takahashi, now a bank executive in Tokyo, says the military planners selected New York rather than Washington or another city because it was America's largest city and also because the jet stream could take planes there more easily.

"But," says Takahashi, "I'm happy the war ended before the mission could begin. I didn't even have time to be transferred to another base, and I never got to meet any of the others who were selected for the mission."
The Japanese Defense Agency says the war destroyed many important military documents, and it has nothing in its archives on the mission. But it says it has heard it mentioned and some Japanese military leaders may well have planned it secretly.

1942 Mortar Board Members Meet Again In '72

By JOY STILLEY

AP Newsfeatures Writer HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The summer of '42. There we were, 10 newly-minted girl graduates, gathered in the college cafeteria at Norman, Okla., drinking a farewell cup of coffee.

The summer of '72. Here we are again, the same 10 but mothers and even grandmothers now, gathered in a private club at Houston, Tex., drinking a champagne toast.

We're toasting 30 years of togetherness. Though we've been far apart geographically in that time, we have a closer relationship today than when we were members of Mortar Board during our senior year at the University of Oklahoma.

We're bound together by an ever-changing packet of letters that has made its rounds across the country unceasingly since that long ago day when, saying goodby and talking about how much we'd miss our weekly meetings, we decided to keep in touch.

So this is not the usual reunion, with questions about husbands and children. We know all about that, because all the chapters of our post-college lives—marriages, births, job changes, travels and on into the marriages and births in the second generation—have been chronicled in three decades of a round-robin letter. But actually being together again is an emotional experience.

Now Alice Wallace, from Golden, Colo., is proposing a toast. She was Alice Dodge when she was president of the Owl and Triangle chapter of the national honorary organization in 1941-42, tall and slender with long blonde hair. Her hair is shorter and darker now, but she is as slender as ever.

"Remember how we used to sit on the floor during our meetings? Wonder if I could do it now."

"Do you remember the sloppy Joe sweaters we used to wear buttoned down the back over white shirts, with little peter pan collars sticking out? Who says the layered look is new."

"The silk stockings we wore were so expensive I had a little kit to fix runs with."

"But mostly we wore anklets with saddle oxfords," contributes Elizabeth Almquist Tuthill of Tulsa, Okla.

"Remember the day we got tapped?"

Mortar Boards are selected at the end of their junior year by the outgoing group on the basis of leadership, service and scholarship. Wearing academic caps and gowns, the seniors appear in the classroom of the chosen girl, walk solemnly up to her seat, tap her on the shoulder and pin a gold tassel on her. The honor is to a coed roughly what winning an Oscar is to a film star and the annual tapping day is nervously awaited by many a hopeful girl.

"Of all the exciting things that happened in college what I remember most is Mortar Board tapping," reminisces Helen Wolk of Minneapolis, who was Helen Slesnick on that fateful day. "The door opens and all those people come in and you wonder who it's going to be."

"I was in home ec class," recalls Greta Carter Blanton of Laurel, Md., who is now a Justice Department program assistant in Washington, D.C.

"Everybody stood up and clapped and the professor dismissed class."

"I couldn't imagine what all those girls in caps and gowns were doing there."

As for me, I had cut my journalism class and was in the Union cafeteria having a cup of coffee with a classmate, who is now my husband, when the black-garbed girls found me.

Six others married University of Oklahoma alumni. And four of our sons attended OU. Though six of our own group are Phi Beta Kappas and two have masters degrees, our children—16 boys and 10 girls ranging in age from 15 to 29—have outdistanced us academically. Seventeen have bachelors degrees; seven are in college now; one is entering college next fall and the remaining one, still in high school, plans to attend college. There's one MD, three with masters degrees; one working on a PhD; one studying nursing and one attending dental school.

The former Doris Jo Morrisette, who became Mrs. Lynn Howard the day she took her last final at the end of her junior year, has both the oldest and the youngest child in our group. She teaches business courses in a Scottsdale, Ariz., high school and is president of the Valley of the Sun Mortar Board alumnae chapter.

"The day we were tapped I never dreamed it was going to be a lifetime thing," says Vera May Shirley, whose maiden name was Scheig. Her husband, a chemical engineer, recently resigned a top job with a Texas-based firm to return to school. Vera May is working as a secretary at the University of Tulsa while he prepares to teach in junior college.

There are five Eagle Scouts among the Mortar Board offspring, including all three sons of Betty Bailey Hall of Houston, the only one of us who doesn't have a daughter.

Somebody has brought the program from our commencement day exercises and suddenly there is a burst of laughter. "Oh, I was looking for Lillian Handley, no wonder I couldn't find my name on the list," says the former Lillian Tarlton who, now a Houston resident, finally locates her name under the Ts.

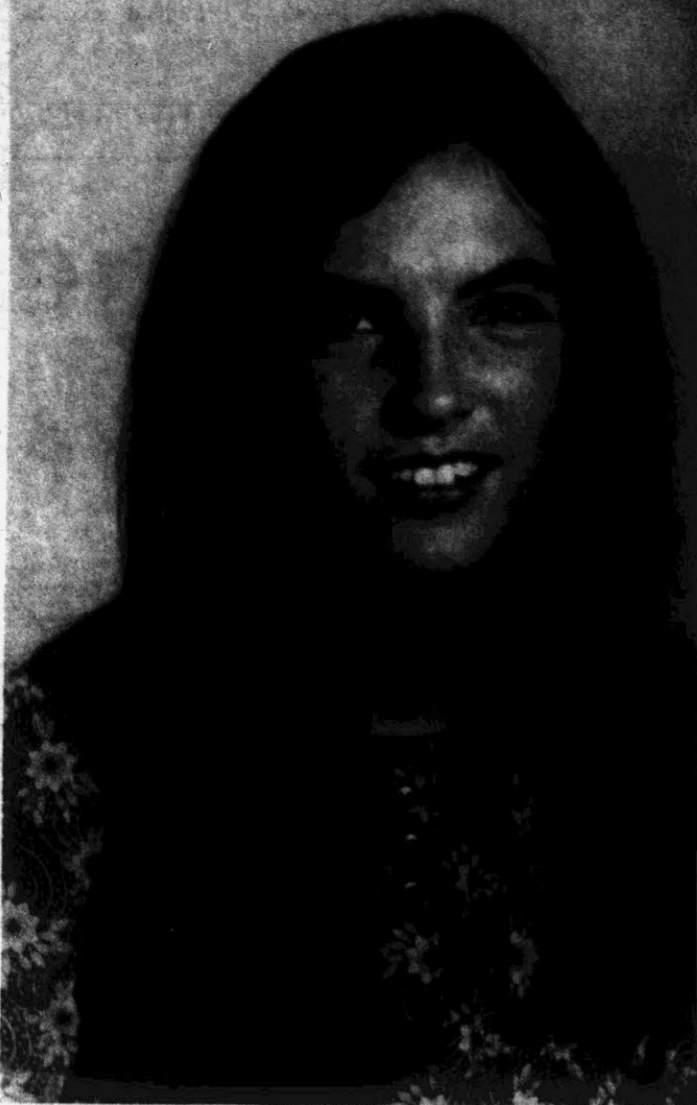

"We've lived in eight different cities," recalls Katie Clark Sponenberg, a corporate tax accountant who recently moved to Houston from California. "We were taking a trip, showing our kids where their father and mother were brought up and one of our sons said, 'Where on earth are we going to show our kids where we grew up?'"

Our husbands—penologist, archeologist, geologist, journalist, lawyer, insurance consultant—ant and four engineers—have learned that on the day the mailman brings that big round robin there is an invisible do-not-disturb sign up while we spend a happy hour reading the nine new letters before adding our own.

"Oh, dear," moans Alice. "I have the robin now. What on earth is there left to say in my letter this time?"

She'll have to think of something, because we'll all be eagerly awaiting its next round.

Homemaker's Haven

By Miss Addie Gore

Pitt Home Agent

Recently I have had several telephone calls concerning refreezing foods. I thought I would share with you what Miss Nita Orr, Extension Specialist in Frozen Foods, Raleigh has to say about the subject.

REFREEZE?

You see "do not refreeze" on packages of frozen food, yet you know that much frozen food thaws and is refrozen — confusing, isn't it?

It depends on what you mean by "all right" and it depends, also, on "what" food you ask about.

Under certain circumstances and conditions you can refreeze some food and it will be "all right" to eat. You can repeat the process, and it will still be all right to eat — if by "all right" you mean safe — or that it will not make you sick. Remember I said, "Under certain circumstances and conditions."

Food you refreeze is never the superb quality of frozen food you hold at 0 degrees F. Even food that rises to temperatures between 0 degrees F. and the thawing temperature do not hold their original quality. Sometimes we have to forget the ideal, though, and "make do" with what we have in certain circumstances. You know that . . . we still honor the old saw, "Circumstances alter cases" because we know that circumstances still alter cases. And in your case, it may be you find your frozen food thawed. You immediately ask, "Should I refreeze it?"

Here is where some "ifs" come in. If your food has ice crystals in it, it is safe to refreeze. It may be even if there are no ice crystals, but that is a "maybe." If you can determine whether the food is 40 degrees F. or colder — has not been any warmer than 40 degrees F. — and has not been that too long (not too long would mean approximately the length of time you would keep the food safely in a household refrigerator), then it can probably be safely refrozen.

"Probably" is a weasel word. (To be definite you need the complete history of the food.) Here another if comes in. If the food was clean and then cleanly handled before it was frozen, it will stand more abuse temperature-wise than dirty or carelessly handled food will. Take chicken, for instance, or beef or pork — carelessly handled (as undesirable as that is), if the freezing is done quickly and the temperature never rises above 0 degrees F. — it is thawed promptly and put to cook immediately, it will likely give no trouble. But if it thaws it may not be safe to refreeze it, though had it been clean and carefully handled in the first place, it would be safe to refreeze it.

So unless you are sure of the circumstances and conditions, and unless the food still has ice in it, there is no fool-proof way to tell whether or not it is safe to refreeze the food. The admonition of "When in doubt throw it out" is wise. Most people agree that as perishable as fish and shellfish are, it is better not to refreeze them.

The simple fact is that if food stays thawed long enough to spoil, you shouldn't refreeze it. If it is clean to begin with and handled right it does not spoil as quickly as otherwise and can stand more temperature abuse.

Is it all right to refreeze food? Yes, it's safe under certain circumstances and conditions, but almost always it lowers the quality.

continue their education after high school. That point is made in a report in the journal, "American Education."

The community school makes it easier for a number of obvious reasons, including: no room and board charges. The student lives at home.

A porous texture distinguishes this not-too-sweet cake.

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
3 eggs
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream
9 squares (1/2 of a 4-ounce package) sweet cooking chocolate, finely grated
1-3rd cup finely grated walnuts

Line bottom of a 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan with wax paper; grease paper. On another sheet of wax paper sift together flour, baking powder and baking soda. In medium mixing bowl beat eggs until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in sugar, then vanilla, until thick and ivory color; beat in sour cream. Gradually fold in flour mixture. Turn half the batter into prepared pan; sprinkle with chocolate mixed with walnuts; add remaining batter. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—1 hour. Place cake in pan on wire rack and let stand 10 minutes; with a small spatula loosen edges; turn out on rack; remove paper; with another rack turn right side up. Cool completely.

NOTE: Use a hand-operated rotary nut grater for grating chocolate and nuts.

Before buying an air conditioning unit check to see if special wiring is needed. This depends on specifications of the unit, appliances and lights already on the circuit, and electric codes.

Keep Maid And Let Friend Go

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago the day lady who came to do my laundry once a week told me she had to quit working. I tried to find a replacement for her, but no luck.

Out of the blue, the laundress of one of my friends phoned to tell me she had a free day and would love to work for me. I grabbed her!

Yesterday I received a call from this friend whose laundress is now working for me. She said she was disappointed to learn that I had hired "her" maid without first consulting her. She said had I consulted her she would not let me have her because it is a bad policy for friends to share a maid. (She uses this maid twice a week.)

I cannot understand my friend's attitude. Did I commit a crime by hiring this woman? She called me. I didn't call her.

Should I now let the maid go to satisfy my friend? And what kind of a "friend" would rather have her maid work for a stranger than for me?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: She doesn't "own" the maid, neither has she a voice in where the maid shall or shall not work. If you must make a choice, keep the maid and let the friend go.

DEAR ABBY: One night not long ago I picked up the telephone to make a call, and my younger brother (I'll call him Irving) was talking to a friend. The first thing I heard him say was, "Guess what I stole today!"

I was stunned and heard a little more which I don't want to repeat. I quickly hung up. I am really stuck now. I'm afraid to tell our parents because they are the type who hit first and ask questions later. But I don't want my little brother, who is only 11 to start out on a life of crime. Help me, Abby.

IRVING'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Tell Irving what you heard accidentally. Then urge him to return whatever he has stolen to its rightful owner. Explain that shoplifting is a crime, punishable by law.

DEAR ABBY: Some people I know very well called up the relatives of a deceased person to whom some gifts were given and asked for their gifts back.

Those presents were sent out at Christmastime and the person died three months later. Should the presents be returned or not?

F. S.

DEAR F. S.: The gifts become a part of the estate left by the deceased and need not be returned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO RAT FINK" IN ALBANY, N. Y.: If you don't want to give the doctor a list of those with whom you have been intimate, at least be big enough to promptly inform each one personally. Wouldn't you want to know as soon as possible in order to seek early treatment? Venereal disease is relatively easy to cure in the early stages, but it can be disastrous if it's unchecked. Make all those calls today!

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Wrap, Tie, Pin For An Instant Dress

INSTANT PUT-TOGETHER — An inventive New York designer, Lee Roscoe, has come up with a unique concept for fashion-conscious women who like variety in their wardrobes, but can't afford couture clothes. Dubbed the Trevira Instant Dress, it consists of packaged lengths of polyester fabric that can be tied, wrapped and pinned into a variety of looks. An admirer of the classic look in women's wear, Miss Roscoe says her inspiration for the instant dress came from a combination of classical Greek and Renaissance women's clothes. Above, Miss Roscoe herself demonstrates the steps — tie, wrap and pin for an instant outfit.

25-Year-Old Author Writes Novel, Slated To Be Film

By PEACE MOFFAT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Goldsmith Gilbert is a remarkable young woman who, at age 25, has already written a novel that is slated to become a film, but who also has learned at her young age what it's like to be next door to death.

In her publicist's office this petite young woman, whose face becomes prettier the longer she talks — talked a lot — about growing up under the shadow of her famous great aunt, author Edna Ferber, about her aborted acting career, about her bout with spinal meningitis and about writing her book, "Umbrella Steps."

"I was raised here—within the boundaries of East 90th Street, where my parents lived, and East 50th Street, where my orthodontist had his office," she begins. "It was just like a small town."

Looking indeed like a small-town girl in blue slacks and a blue overblouse, with a red bandanna covering her hair, Miss Gilbert continued. "I went to Dalton, a progressive school on 89th Street. I had to cross that one street, and that was my sole responsibility."

When the time came to apply to college, Miss Gilbert says she was determined instead to have an acting career—determined, that is, until her counselor told her she was such a "free spirit" she was not really "college material." "That was when I decided I would go to college," Miss Gilbert recalls—a stubborn gleam still in her eye.

But there were problems. Her first choice was Carnegie Tech because of its drama department, but during her audition there she "threw up." She then settled on Boston University, where she lasted only one year without incident.

Scarcely one simply to sit back and feel sorry for herself, Miss Gilbert says she "sneaked over" to the theater at Harvard and was accepted for a role there. All went well until she was photographed during the one scene in which she was clad in little more than a brassiere. Although assured the picture would not be released, she says it appeared on the cover of the "Harvard Crimson," an incident which did not help her university career.

JULIE GOLDSMITH GILBERT

"They told me I could stay there, but that I would have no privileges, could never go out, no nothing, so I walked out." Miss Gilbert calls her parents "professional liberals" and says they were not horrified by the abrupt end of her college career; however, she says her return to New York was difficult.

"Those were the days when you didn't just do your own thing," she explains. "I was half my parents' and half my own person. With people my age, there was no set way to do anything. Instead of experiencing great highs or great lows, we were strung out on what was to become of us."

Professional acting training took up the next three years of Miss Gilbert's life—during which she had a few roles, mostly in children's theater. Now she says of acting, "It's a terrible profession."

Instead of continuing in that field, she turned to writing, and completed a novel "Umbrella Steps," after she moved to California. "I moved there to make it rough on myself in order to survive," she says. "I wanted to get away from my microcosm of friends, the charge accounts under my father's name—all of that. That was the make it or break it time, and I had to do it. Otherwise I would have been a hot-house cripple."

She returned to New York with her book, after some difficulty found a publisher, and then—developed meningitis. "I was in a coma for 70 hours," she relates calmly. "Everybody had given up on me, but I didn't know I was slated to die." She was in the hospital over a month, and says it has taken her more than a year to recover fully.

Now, Miss Gilbert wants to continue writing. And although while Miss Ferber was alive Miss Gilbert was planning on acting, rather than writing, she says the two of them got along well. "When we were close, she was getting to be a cantankerous old lady," Miss Gilbert says. "But the juices just flowed between us, and we got along well. When she died, I felt an incredible loss."

Miss Ferber's ambitious great-niece says she recently finished writing a play, called "Good for You," and that she is at work on another novel. "I never thought I could do anything before I was at least 25," she says with a slow smile. "But now, I'd like to get two books under my belt before I'm 26."

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Patsy An Nobles, bride-elect, was honored at a floating miscellaneous shower, Friday night.

The shower was held at the home of Mrs. Hilda L. Avery. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Bonnie Avery, Mrs. Lucille Avery, Mrs. Lurlene McLawhorn, Mrs. Betty Lou Baker and Mrs. Lila Nobles.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Bonnie Avery, Miss Nobles, Mrs. Mae Nobles, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Ann Chappell, mother of the bridegroom-elect. The honoree was remembered with a corsage of white mums and the mothers were presented corsages of yellow carnations. Miss Nobles received a gift of silver from the hostesses.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a bouquet of yellow snapdragons and mums with greenery. Mrs. Agnes Strickland, sister of the honoree, poured punch and Mrs. Lou Tugwell served cake squares. Good-byes were said by Mrs. Hilda Avery, who presided at the guest register.

Our new catalog, and what the other catalogs hope you never find out about us.

Long before consumerism was invented, we've had a thing about highest quality at lowest prices.

It's the only way we've operated since James Cash Penney opened his first Golden Rule Store back in 1902. But giving you a bigger dollar's worth isn't the only reason there are now almost seventeen hundred JCPenney stores. Or why we've suddenly become America's fastest growing catalog.

What really sets us apart is people. Experts with years of experience who make the decisions on each of the hundred thousand things we offer. Even the slightest doubt about any item is enough to get it shipped to our Test Center. There the standards are so tough some of the big name national brands would have trouble getting an O.K.

Everything you'd expect in a great catalog is in our catalog. Furniture, drapery, bedding, fashions—including hard-to-find extra sizes. But you'll also discover a lot of things you didn't expect. A home gymnasium. A complete wine making kit. An outdoor waterfall. A fisherman's depth finder. An electric organ. Pages of creative crafts. And much more.

And, of course, you can use your JCPenney Charge on any order. If you don't have one, take a few moments to fill out an application when you pick up your free catalog.

Once your order is received, we really go to work. We check and double check to make sure you get exactly what you want, and that it gets to you the way you want it.

Fashions, for instance, are never packed in advance. We keep them on hangers until the very last minute. Then we rush them right out to you.

What's more, all of our items are fully described. We try to anticipate everything you could possibly want to know. About the product. The price. The guarantee. Having our new Fall/Winter Catalog is like having a great store at your fingertips. And all you have to do to order is pick up your telephone.

So, now that you've found out what the other catalogs hoped you wouldn't, why not go a step further. Order something from our catalog. Preferably, something you'd normally order from another catalog. That way, you'll find out fast whether we're as good as we say. Our new Fall/Winter edition is just off the presses. Your free copy is waiting for you now at our Catalog Center.

Your new Fall/Winter Catalog is here now! It's free for the asking at our Catalog Center.

Ominous Hospitalization Data

None of us can take any hope from recent revelations that hospital care cost are up sharply. The American Hospital Association reported that the cost of a day's care has increased 13.9 percent in 1971. The AHA said its survey of 7,097 hospitals showed the cost now is $92.31 compared to $81.01 in 1970. The 1970 cost have showed a 15.7 percent increase over the 1969. The report also showed that everything else was going up for hospitals. Total expenses for community hospitals rose 14.5 percent during 1971.

Payroll expenses were up 14.3 percent and the wage-price freeze seemed to have little effect on the increases. The statistics of rising hospital cost are rather remote — until they are brought forcefully home to us through a hospital visit. The rapidly rising cost of hospitalization is ominous for anyone who faces a stay in a hospital — and that means practically all of us somewhere through life. A family of moderate income can simply be wiped out by a prolonged hospital visit and it is a problem that is going to become of more concern in our society.

Demo Factions Remain Visible

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — Are North Carolina Democrats getting back together for the fall campaign? Two months after the second primary, the impression remains that the troops are dispersed. Each candidate seems intent on his own show, and no clarion call has been given for ticket unity. The prospect of unhealed factionalism lingering from the spring infighting bothers Hugh Morton, who almost ran for governor himself and kept in the thick of politics as a Democratic county chairman and a delegate to the National Convention. Only the Republicans can gain, he cautioned, if a rift something about curbing the high cost of political campaigns. Number One Project "I'm going to make it my number one civic project for the next two or three years, or however long it takes to do it," he promised. Right now, running for office is so expensive it leaves only two alternatives, Morton asserted. "Either we go out and find the richest man in the state as the candidate for governor, or else we have somebody so beholden to special interests he can't represent the people once he gets elected," he said. "Neither one is good enough."

remains between supporters of Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles and Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, the principals in the race for the nomination as governor. Bowles upset the odds by winning it in the two-primary battle. "I'm a little disappointed that Skipper didn't promptly try to bring all factions together," said Morton. "That phase of it seems to have been sort of shrugged off." Morton, a Wilmington and Linville man of means with a keen interest in state affairs, said he wrote his assurance of support to Bowles immediately after the primary. The reply was a form letter of thanks, he said.

Unity Offer Ignored Morton said he offered to host a unity dinner for Bowles and Taylor campaign leaders in western counties at Grandfather Mountain, his resort facility, but no response was forthcoming. Reports have come to him, Morton said, that some Democrats are taking a lackadaisical attitude as the general election approaches. "The Republicans are taking advantage of it, too," he added.

Morton revved up for the governor's race, but cut his engine at the filing deadline last March. He had lined up an extensive campaign organization throughout the state, and spent $100,000 of his own money. He got out of it, he said, because he could see he would be out-spent at the critical stages of the race. The experience left him with a mission — to try to do

Glamor Is Fading But Program Worthwhile

A contract has been awarded to North American Rockwell Corp. for $26 billion to build a Space Shuttle orbiter vehicle. The vehicle will jet into orbit as rockets do now and then return to earth and land. The was much rejoicing at North American Rockwell over the contract, but there was no great groundswell of public enthusiasm. Space travel is not so glamorous as it once was, but it is worthwhile that we keep our efforts going. And if we are going to continue, the space shuttle should reduce the costs of the program.

Syphilis Study Issues Ignored

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years ago an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service questioned the morality of a federal syphilis study in Alabama. The result was an internal inquiry and an official decision to take no action.

Peter Buxtun, who worked in the venereal-disease branch of the PHS in San Francisco, said in an interview that he raised the issue in 1966. In 1969 he was told the experiment had been reviewed and that nothing could be done for the participants in the Tuskegee Study.

The Tuskegee Study is a 40-year experiment conducted in Macon County, Ala., by the Public Health Service to determine the effects of untreated syphilis. Some 400 black men suffering from the disease in 1932 were enrolled in the experiment and never received any treatment for the disease. At least seven died as a direct result of untreated syphilis.

Even after World War II, when penicillin was known to be an effective cure for syphilis and the drug was readily available, it was denied participants in the experiment.

What remains of the Tuskegee Study now, and when Buxtun first started asking questions about it, is in the hands of the PHS Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. Buxtun has since left the PHS and recently graduated from law school. He gave copies of letters he wrote to CDC and CDC's responses to The Associated Press.

He said when he first heard about the study, he asked CDC for whatever reports had been done on it. "On reading them I became very concerned because it seemed that the volunteers were not fully informed as to what they had volunteered for and as to what exactly was going to be happening to them," Buxtun said of the participants in the study. "Nobody apparently had concerned themselves with moral or legal issues involved."

In the spring of 1967, Buxtun said, CDC flew him to Atlanta where he met with four PHS people, including Dr. William J. Brown, then in charge of the venereal-disease branch at CDC. "The meeting resulted in a standoff," Buxtun said. "They decided I wasn't a madman as they had originally thought and they began thinking in terms of a review of the test. In 1969, as a result of the review, the decision was made not to treat any of the participants." Brown wrote Buxtun a letter outlining that decision. In the letter, Brown said the decision was made on the basis of the age of the participants in the study.

Because massive penicillin therapy, the treatment for syphilis, can cause serious side effects and because it was believed the syphilitic condition of the survivors of the Tuskegee Study was dormant, there would be no treatment, Brown said in a letter.

In a telephone interview from his home in Atlanta, Brown, who now is retired, confirmed the main points of Buxtun's story. But he declined to comment on any moral questions concerning the study as a whole or the decision not to administer penicillin to participants in the experiment in the 1940s. "I wasn't even around then," he said. "But I do know why we made the decision we did in 1968 and 1969. When a person has had syphilis as long as the men we were dealing with at that time and the disease has caused no serious side effects, the chances are excellent that it never will."

Opinions In Brief

Strength For Today

BASIC TO CHRISTIAN FAITH
We have fallen into the habit in the Christian church of speaking about the resurrection only during the East season.

A reading of both the New Testament and the Christian literature which followed during the next two centuries clearly indicates that the doctrine of the resurrection of Jesus Christ was primary among believers and occupied their greatest attention. And the reason for this is easy to understand.

Today we largely regard Christ's resurrection as an assurance of the existence of life after death. This, of course, is one of the teachings of the resurrection. But it is not the principal teaching. The principal teaching is that in the resurrection God demonstrated to Christian believers that Jesus Christ had never left the world. During his sojourn in the flesh his presence had been limited to a few people in a small area. Now, released from death and triumphant over it, his spiritual presence was available to everybody in every age and under every circumstance.

Let us get back to the basic teaching of the Christian religion. It is this: Jesus Christ has never left the world. His presence is in our midst precisely as it was two thousand years ago, only, indeed, more personal and influential.

"Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world" (Matthew 28:20).

HARD TO GET GOING!

One Taker For The Job

WASHINGTON — It seems that last week Sen. George McGovern offered everyone the Vice Presidency. I became aware of this last Thursday when the taxi driver who takes me to work was late. "I'm sorry I was delayed. I just took George McGovern to his Senate office and he asked me to run with him on the Democratic ticket." "He did?" "Yeah. But he was pretty honest about it. He said he had asked Sens. Kennedy, Ribicoff and Humphrey; Gov. Lucey of Wisconsin, Mayor Lindsay of New York, State Sen. Kalowitz of New Mexico, Alderman Hummer of Primrose, Vt., City Councilman Rigley of Sam Hill, Idaho, Justice of the Peace Dumbottom of Long Fence, Montana, and 16 notary publics in Detroit. They all turned him down." "What did you say when he asked you?" I inquired. "I told McGovern that ordinarily I would have been flattered, but I had heard through the grapevine that he had already offered the spot to his dry cleaner on MacArthur Blvd. I said I thought I should have been asked first." "How did you know that for sure?" "Because the checkout man at the A&P near McGovern's home told me he had been asked before the dry cleaner." "Why didn't the A&P checkout man accept the Vice Presidency?"

"He's fooling around with a customer, the wife of someone high in government, and he's afraid it would come out." "It probably would" I agreed. "Do you know of anyone else the senator has talked to?" "I know he asked the manager of the Esso gasoline station on Massachusetts Ave. But the manager said he didn't want to give up his job because he was expecting a promotion to a much larger station on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway." "It must be discouraging for the candidate to have so many people turn him down. He didn't ask his gardener, did he?" "No, he wants to keep his gardener," the taxi driver said, "but he did ask his dentist."

Other Editors Say Important Choice

IMPORTANT CHOICE (Rocky Mount Telegram)
Winners in next fall's elections at the presidential and congressional levels will find themselves confronted with proposals and issues involving fundamental changes in the American economic and political system. They will have to help decide, for example, how far the government is to pursue a course toward total domination of the health care system. Is there to be an all-out compulsory national health insurance program or will the nation's lawmakers see fit to preserve the framework of the private practice of medicine and the principle of free choice for doctor and patient alike?

In order to clarify its position on the health care issue, the medical profession — through the American Medical Association — is presenting a statement of its views on medical care in the form of an advertisement in the official programs of both the Republican and Democratic national conventions. The statement is typical of the strong support which physicians give to constructive change in the medical system of the U.S.

It reveals that the medical profession is on record in favor of government support for expansion of medical schools. Doctors favor increased financial aid to medical students, expanded nurse training programs, physician assistant programs, clean air legislation and finally a national health insurance program "which preserves a physician's freedom to practice as he thinks best, provides for the patient's freedom to seek the type of plan he prefers, and relies on private rather than government administration." The medical profession has proposed a plan that would remove economic barriers between the poor and mainstream medical care and would insure everyone against catastrophic medical costs. It is doubtful if any group of private citizens, has gone farther than have doctors in accepting — or proposing — basic alterations in their way of life and livelihood in an attempt to meet the needs of the people.

Loudmouth Harry. Are you the guy?" "How's that again, chief? You'll have to run that order by me once more. I didn't get it the first time." "He'd dock his own mother an hour's pay if she were two minutes late." "Is this really my paycheck, Harry, or something you planned to give to the poor?" "He's so cheap that after he gets to knowing you better, he'll start borrowing a sandwich from you every day for his lunch."

"I don't know why everybody is always picking on you, Loudmouth. It could have been a lot worse. What if, for example, they'd given us a boss with brains?" "Don't worry too much about Harry. Ever since he got his store teeth, his bark has been worse than his bite."

"How about it, Loudmouth? Do you put another bar of soap in the shower room, or do you want a strike on your hands?" "If there is anything in the factory you want to steal, just put it in a wheelbarrow and wheel it out the gates. You'll never get caught. As long as you're pushing a wheelbarrow, Harry thinks you are working."

"Harry started as an executive trainee 30 years ago, but he never managed to get out of basic training." "Harry, when you tell me something you want me to do, should I kneel and say thank you, or is it all right if I just throw you a salute?" "Hey, Harry, wake up—it's quitting time!"

Charlie Phillips of Greensboro, governor of the 57th District of Rotary, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the local club last night. Peace Prize For Nixon Pushed

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon for the Nobel Peace Prize?

A proposal now being circulated is gathering thousands of signatures toward that end, and may be included in a petition sent to the prize committee in Oslo, Norway.

Even if it isn't, the solicitation of signatures is causing quite a flap in business and financial circles, where the proposal was first circulated by the magazine "Finance."

Finance's publisher, Elizabeth MacDonald Manning, claims that in about one month after her proposal was made in the issue published

July 5 she has received 3,486 concurring messages and just 29 dissents.

Many of the responses are from prominent government and business officials, and some are accompanied by fervid statements.

Among signatures claimed so far are G. Keith Funston, Olin Corp. chairman, Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve chairman, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C.

But those dissents! Some might best remain unpublished, the kindest of them being, "You've got to be kidding," and the more sophisticated being constructed of words like "an unparalleled efrontery." Some suggested that Mrs. Manning, who once was a public relations executive and who has a reputation for imagination and innovation, has self-interest at heart, a thought she dismisses as too petty to consider.

Mrs. Manning, whose magazine is widely circulated among U.S. and foreign diplomats, bankers, finance officers, government officials and money managers, claims the motivation is sincere. "He is building a lasting peace," she states.

"What the world has witnessed this year was the sudden conversion of an idealistic vision of peace into a more realistic version of working together instead of fighting wars," she wrote in her proposal.

She explained later that in her view the President is carefully evolving a strategy of peace that ties the world into a trading whole in which each nation will benefit and each will have a stake in keeping the peace.

By implication, she suggests that American businessmen, having so much to offer, can only benefit, as will the entire American economy through the opening of markets and the introduction of new goods.

Her peace prize proposal was first published in the June issue but since then has been reproduced widely. Another copy was published recently as an ad in the Wall Street Journal.

No-Fault Plan Is Shelved By Senate

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent back to committee a bill to establish a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, apparently killing any chance of congressional action this year.

"Everybody knows what this motion is all about," Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., manager of the bill, told the Senate. "It buries the bill, simple as that."

By a 49-46 vote Tuesday night the Senate approved a motion by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Nebr., to send the Commerce Committee measure to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Marlow Cook, R-Ky., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., argued that objectionable provisions and serious constitutional questions about the bill deserve study by the lawyers on Judiciary.

But, Magnuson countered, the 17 lawyers on Commerce are just as able as the 17 on Judiciary.

"This is a real blow at the American consumer," Magnuson said. "It affects every American home." The insurance-lobby pressure, he added, "must have been strong."

"Everyone was giving me this pious explanation: 'I'm for no fault, but ...'" Magnuson continued. "We'll have it back on the floor again in January."

The insurance industry was divided on the measure, with the biggest car insurer, State Farm, neutral. Such insurers as Aetna and Nationwide favor no-fault; Allstate and Travelers are opposed.

A large segment of the trial-lawyers' profession is against the concept.

The bill would do away with most court suits arising from traffic accidents and would require companies to promptly and automatically pay claims within limits of $25,000 each for medical and rehabilitation expenses and $85,000 for lost wages.

The industry collects $14 billion annually in premiums and pays out $7 billion. Seriously injured victims recover only an estimated 16 per cent of their actual losses through court actions, according to a Transportation Department study.

Ten states have adopted no-fault-type plans, but only Florida and Massachusetts have laws which approached the federal goals in the bill. Massachusetts drivers in two years have had a 42-per-cent reduction in bodily injury premiums.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing set of conditions now exists. If you want to get the best out of today's planetary vibrations, be sure to remain charming, magnetic and accept nothing at face value. Giving others the benefit of the doubt places you far ahead of whatever unfavorable aspects may develop.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are undecided whether to carry through with tasks ahead of you or engage in a new activity, but the former is right for you. Study correspondence, but don't let the hidden meaning elude you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have an unexpected opportunity for recreation, so seize it, since present obligations can be handled better later on. Your intuition is not particularly good now, so don't follow it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Remain neutral in an argument between one at home and an outsider since you are not sure what it's all about. Keep busy at own tasks. Evening is best for conferring with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do your work as quickly and efficiently as you can, and then go after whatever interests you the most. A co-worker is acting strangely, but make no comment. A smile can help.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are unable to comprehend monetary matters well now, so postpone handling them until they are explained more clearly to you. Show more affection for mate, who also wants more of your time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time to become reconciled with yourself so that unfavorable conditions around you do not perturb you. Politeness is the answer now, since others are highly sensitive, especially tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have private anxieties that require calm thinking instead of fretting and fuming, which make matters worse. Keep an important appointment you have set up. Good results follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are now able to get together with a clever pal who can help you obtain the right results. Engage in personal affairs of importance and forget the monetary for the time being.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't permit a higher-up to deter you from carrying through with certain arrangements you want to make. Work objectively and safeguard your reputation. Show affection to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to attend an important activity, so do just that instead of waiting on those who like to waste your time. Forget a personal worry. Time will take care of it nicely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Once your work is done, be sure to see friends whose experience has been similar to yours and gain the answer to your problem. A group activity tonight brings excellent results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listening to what an associate has to suggest is wise before you step out to the civic activities that are ahead of you. An associate and a higher-up have an altercation, but you keep neutral.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to learn about everything but may find it hard to get visionary ideas down to a workable level. Teach to adhere to the main principles of logic and perseverance. Then your fine progeny can become a real success in the world and a good influence on others. A genuine leader in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Exciting Things Are Happening At . . .

Long-Range Goals Cited

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says North Carolina's government is "trying to plan ahead, to think ahead and to enlarge" the vision on long range goals.

Scott said Tuesday that when he became governor he was surprised to find that state government had no long range goals.

"We had some short range goals," he told his Council on State Goals and Policies and local leaders from Piedmont counties. "We tried to solve our problems as we went along, but we weren't anticipating problems that are going to come up 25 years from now."

He added, "This is what we're trying to do now."

The Burlington meeting was the last of a series of regional sessions held by the council with local leaders. Previous meetings were in Warsaw, Hendersonville, Mooresville and Williamston.

The last ten years were very smooth.

Burroughs Wellcome Drug Rushed To Save Baby

MERCY MISSION — Through the efforts of many people, David Ruggeri is now a healthy nine month old child. Shown with him is his mother, Mrs. Joyce Ruggeri.

A five month old child, critically ill in a Springfield, Massachusetts hospital, received life saving drugs from Burroughs Wellcome Co. last week through the cooperative efforts of B. W. Co. personnel, an airborne freight company, a city Police department, the N. C. State Highway Patrol, and an airlines company.

An urgent call from the child's physician reached Dr. William Colvin, Medical Director at Burroughs Wellcome, after normal closing hours. The plea for help set in motion a human drama involving many players — each one to play an important part in getting the needed drugs to a point 650 miles distant . . . and, in time to save the life of one small child.

The baby was in critical condition due to a deranged electrolyte and fluid balance in addition to an exceedingly and dangerously high serum uric acid level. The drug requested was Allopurinol injection — a new drug currently under clinical investigation and not yet available to the general medical profession.

Harry Leslie, Plant Manager of the B. W. Co. production plant in Greenville, quickly got together the necessary Company personnel to locate and package the material. The Airborne Freight Corp. with offices in Greenville agreed to handle the shipment via air cargo. Because the last Eastern flight to New York carrying such cargo was scheduled to leave RDU at 8:50 p.m., time was of the essence. An urgent call to Glenn Gray of Eastern Airlines resulted in a short delay of the scheduled flight until the material could be transported there from Greenville — a distance of over 100 miles. Lt. J. R. Tripp of the Greenville City Police quickly got in touch with Lt. Carl Gilchrist of the State Highway Patrol who sent a Trooper to carry the package to RDU. In record time the packet was safely aboard the departing Eastern plane and landed at LaGuardia Airport where it was picked up and taxied to the Springfield hospital pharmacy. Shortly thereafter the drug was administered to the child.

Truly a real life drama, the happy conclusion to the story was the word today from the child's doctor that he now expects a satisfactory discharge of the patient from the hospital even though the child still requires further intensive care for complete recovery.

Sees Outlawing Of Cheap Guns

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray said Tuesday he believes Congress will completely outlaw all cheap handguns, or so-called "Saturday night specials."

Gray who was visiting the Charlotte FBI office, told reporters he thinks the ban will cover possession, importation, manufacture and assembly of such weapons.

But the FBI chief said the prime responsibility for gun control lies with the states and that a bill defeated this week in the Senate on gun registration would have been "destructive to our federal system."

Jordan, Ervin With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both North Carolina senators, Democrats Sam Ervin and B. Everett Jordan, voted in the majority Tuesday as the Senate defeated a proposal to require registration of all handguns and licensing of their owners.

The proposal was defeated, 75-16.

Final Senate Vote Set On Sale Of Handguns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to a final vote late today on a bill that would ban the sale of handguns not suitable for sporting purposes.

One major amendment planned by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., would exempt dealers from the sales ban with the result that only manufacturers and importers would be prohibited from selling the guns.

Hruska's amendment also would require disapproval by the Secretary of the Treasury of individual models of guns before they would be illegal.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's chief sponsor, said Hruska's changes would seriously weaken the enforcement provisions in the bill. He called Hruska's amendment a key test, and said he didn't know what the outcome would be.

Bayh has emphasized that the bill is aimed chiefly at cheap, easily concealable handguns used by criminals, but Hruska contends it also would exclude the sale of many high-quality weapons that he says "millions of Americans want for self-protection."

Hruska said a nightmare of enforcement would be created by trying to hold 160,000 licensed dealers "responsible for correctly interpreting and applying the highly technical and complex standards."

The ban should be applied at the initial distribution level, Hruska said.

Bayh objected this would leave dealers free to dispose of present stocks. Under his bill, dealers who turned in their supplies would be compensated by the government.

The Senate voted 71 to 21 Tuesday to eliminate a 1968 requirement for record-keeping on the sale of all rimfire 22-caliber ammunition.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., who offered the amendment, said the record-keeping had driven many merchants out of business and caused inconveniences to sportsmen.

By a 75-16 vote the Senate rejected an amendment of Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., to require the registration of all handguns and the licensing of handgun owners.

Adopted by an 84-11 vote was an amendment by Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., making the carrying of a gun in the commission of a crime a separate felony.

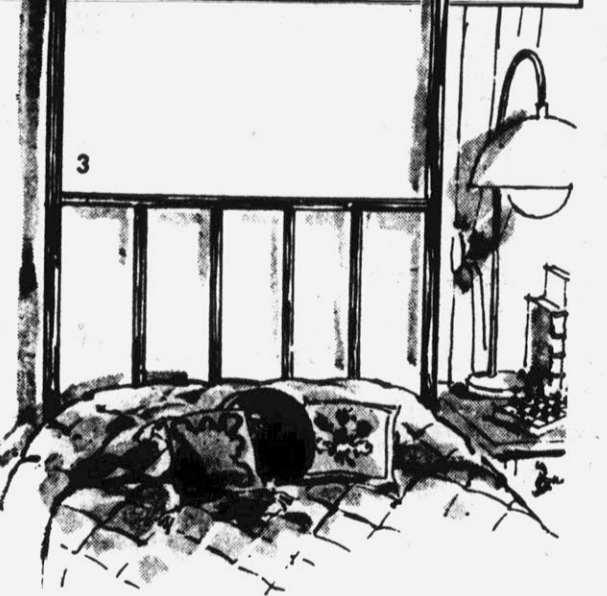

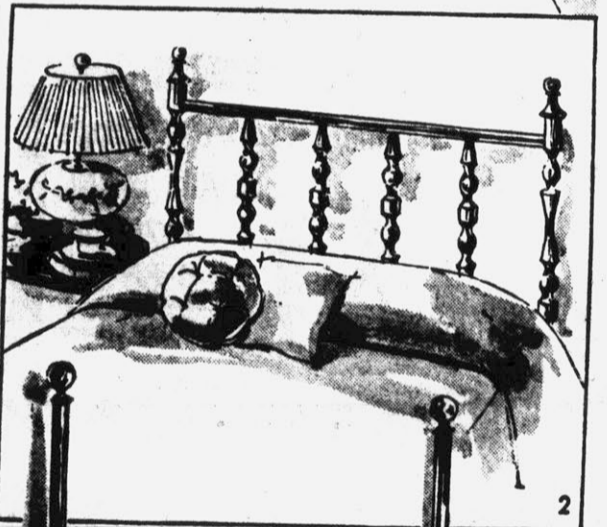

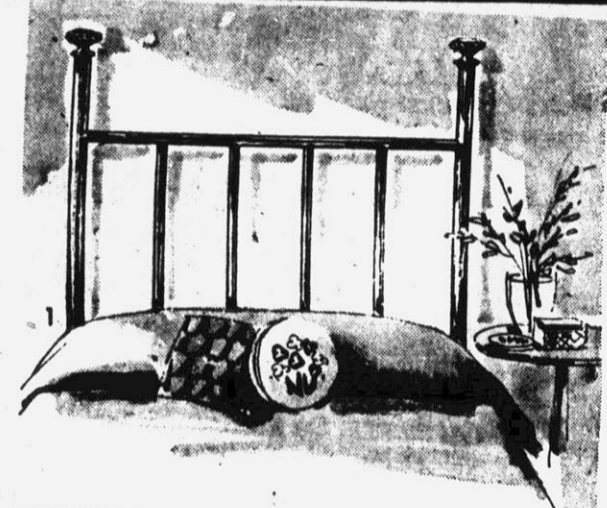

YDC CANDIDATE

RALEIGH (AP) — Tom Barringer, Raleigh attorney and former president of the Wake County Young Democratic Club, has announced he will be a candidate for president of the North Carolina YDC.

Approve Funds To Police Club

WILLIAMSTON — Approval for the town of Williamston to make a contribution of twelve and one-half percent of the operation fund for the Williamston Police Club was given by members of the Williamston Town Board at their monthly meeting on Monday.

The federal government is granting 75 percent of the total $21,425 annual budget. County Commissioners will be asked to contribute the remaining twelve and one half percent needed to complete the fund.

Fire Chief K. W. Thrower, who submitted his resignation as fire chief, has agreed to remain on in that capacity until the town board can find a replacement. Thrower had asked to resign effective August 7. At the meeting, Thrower also introduced to the board members, two new members of the department, Wayne Hopkins and Murray Holloman.

An ordinance condemning several houses as unfit for human habitation was approved. The property owners will now have to meet minimum standards through improvements or have the buildings demolished.

A public hearing was set for August 24 for a request to rezone property on U.S. 64-13 West. Rezoning from industrial to R-8 residential is being sought to allow construction of a church at the site.

A resolution to remove parking meters from Main and Washington Streets has been taken under advisement. Before taking further action, the board will canvass merchants on the two streets to get their reaction to the proposed removal.

Plan New Phase In Smoking War

By RODNEY PINDER Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — The British government is launching a new campaign against cigarettes with the chief target the smoker who can't kick the habit.

The Secretary for Social Services, Sir Keith Joseph, said Tuesday the government will publish tables twice a year grading cigarette brands according to their tar and nicotine content.

The campaign, which will start next year, represents a slight tactical change in the government's battle against tobacco addiction. Up to now, the main idea has been to stop people from starting to smoke.

Television advertising of cigarettes has already been banned, and all brands of British cigarettes carry the printed warning that "smoking can damage your health." So do all newspaper and magazine advertisements for cigarettes.

Joseph told the House of Commons a scientific team had found that while tar was the ingredient in cigarettes most likely to do harm, nicotine was probably conducive to heart disease.

He said smokers who can't quit will be advised to: smoke a brand with a lower tar yield, smoke fewer cigarettes, take fewer drags, not inhale, leave a longer butt, and take the cigarette out of the mouth between drags.

Manufacturers may also be asked to print tar yield on the packs, Joseph said.

He said cigarette manufacturers also had agreed to television networks blacking out advertisements in sports arenas before they can be picked up by cameras covering play. For the benefit of people in the stands, the billboards will carry health warnings, and so will movie theater advertisements.

Manufacturers have pledged to see that promotional offers are directed only at adult smokers. More effort and money will be pumped into health education programs to combat smoking and the search for tobacco substitutes will be stepped up, Joseph added.

The Department of Health estimated there would be 8,000 fewer deaths among Britain's 53 million people if smoking is reduced 20 per cent by 1981.

New Production By Puppet Unit

The East Branch Library Summer Puppet Theater, which had a capacity crowd for previous performances, this afternoon gave a new production as East Branch Library.

Charlie and Ded Hayek, Tina Longnecker, Stephen Johnson and Robin O'Neil, the four members of the puppet theater, presented four miniature plays—"Chicken Little," "The Little Red Hen," "The Three Pigs," and "Goldilocks and the Three Bears." Performances were held at 2:30 and again at 3:30 p.m.

Charlie Hayek wrote the script for the "Goldilocks" play. Rachelle Longnecker and Julie Yongue assisted in making scenery and in preparing posters.

Boys Clubs' Observance

Members of the Boy's Club of Greenville and Pitt County, Inc. will join members of hundreds of other Boys' Clubs from Hawaii to Maine on Thursday, in observing the 98th anniversary of Herbert Hoover's birth.

Raymond W. Williams, Interim Executive Director, explained that the late President's birthday has special significance for Boys' Club members.

"Mrs. Hoover served as board chairman of the Boys' Clubs and Club members increased more than four times," said Williams.

"On his birthday Boys' Club members always sent him cards and homemade gifts, which he greatly enjoyed. Now, with our movement grown to some 985 Boys' Clubs and almost a million members, we like to remember his birthday and all the good things he did for Boys' Clubs."

Williams said Boys' Club members here will mark President Hoover's birthday by a minute of silent prayer, having a boy read aloud Mr. Hoover's "What Is a Boy?" essay, and reciting The Boys' Club pledge in his honor.

Mizell To Offer Bus Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — An amendment to a school busing bill will be offered next week by Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C.

Mizell said Tuesday he will propose that the part of the bill which would prohibit the reopening of school desegregation cases be deleted. Otherwise, Mizell said, he is pleased with the legislation, which would sharply curb court powers to order busing.

TRIO Will Give Friday Program GRIFTON — The Gleaners Trio will present a program at the Grifton Free Will Baptist Church here Friday at 8 p.m.

Map Protests At GOP Meet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Protest leaders are trying to recruit demonstrators for the Republican National Convention with an illustrated guidebook calling for "nonviolent civil disobedience" and warning participants to be prepared for mass arrests.

"The Manual for the Republican Convention" distributed Tuesday by five protest groups said the goal of demonstrations during the Aug. 21-23 GOP convention "is to isolate and defeat Richard Milhous Nixon."

The tabloid-size pamphlet urged protesters to avoid property damage and disruption of Miami Beach's senior citizen community.

"We will not provoke or attack police, National Guard or our brothers who are GIs," it added.

But the 24-page manual laid out a step-by-step plan for "occupying" the streets surrounding Miami Beach Convention Hall on the night President Nixon is expected to give his nomination acceptance speech.

"Four more years of Nixon will be accepted on the inside of the convention hall, while outside troops ring the perimeter and thousands of us resist and say NO!" the manual said.

Using aerial photos to illustrate, the guidebook mapped out four sites where demonstrators should congregate during the convention. It speculated on which areas police were likely to permit protesters to gather and the sites where arrests were likely.

"While the prime political purpose in coming to the GOP Convention is not necessarily to get arrested, the possibility of mass arrest does exist," the manual said.

The manual advised would-be demonstrators to keep identification and about $10 in cash in their wallets and know an address in Miami in case they are arrested.

It advised "brothers and sisters under 18" to avoid arrest because they would probably be sent home by juvenile authorities.

Neither police nor protest leaders are making predictions on the number of demonstrators expected.

Ft. Branch Citizen Board Is Selected

WILLIAMSTON — A commission of citizens for a Fort Branch Commission was named by the Martin County Commissioners Monday.

Named to the Fort Branch Commission were Henry B. Winslow, Roy Bland, W. O. Peele, Jr., Mrs. Catherine Harrell, A. C. Bailey, John W. Lilley, Rufus A. Coltrain, Stephen Wolfe, and Irvin L. Smith. These members will have the task of working with state and other officials in formulating possible plans for preservation and restoration of the historic Civil War site on the Roanoke River near Hamilton.

In other matters, county commissioners set August 21 as a special meeting date to consider a request for a public referendum of one million dollars in bond money for the Martin Technical Institute. The request for a referendum was made by the institute's president, Dr. E. M. Hunt. The Union Camp Corporation of Franklin, Virginia, was high bidder for the timber on the site of the proposed Martin County Solid Waste Disposal facility. The site comprises about 30 acres.

Two board appointments were made. One was that of Mrs. Lula Brown to replace Mrs. Ella Mae Ormond on the Board of Social Services; the other was the appointment of Wesley Williams to replace Spencer Hill on the Pollution and Abatement Authority.

AL Managers Are Almost As Confusing As East Division Race

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The managers of the contending teams in the American League East are almost as confusing as the race itself. "This has to be the best for us since 1964," said New York's Ralph Houk after the third-place Yankees beat pace-setting Detroit 4-2 Tuesday and climbed within three games of the top. "We're only two back in the loss column and our guys think they can win the pennant."

"We'll beat them the next three games and they'll be right back where they belong," snapped Detroit's Billy Martin. "As far as I'm concerned it's between Baltimore, Boston and us—and Baltimore is the one we have to worry about."

"We have the best pitching day in and day out," commented Baltimore's Earl Weaver after the Orioles downed Milwaukee by a similar 4-2 score, "and if we get some hitting at all it should be ours."

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's sank slowly in the West and had their lead chopped to two games over Chicago following a 4-3 loss to Kansas City. Manager Dick Williams growled "No comment" for the second consecutive night when queried about a skid that has seen his club drop three in a row and six of its last seven starts.

Elsewhere, the White Sox held off California 4-3, Boston defeated Cleveland 4-1 and Minnesota nosed out Texas 6-5 in 10 innings.

In the National League, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 2-1 in 19 innings, Atlanta whipped Houston 8-4, Pittsburgh shaded Philadelphia 4-2, St. Louis nipped the New York Mets 6-5, the Chicago Cubs beat Montreal 6-5 and San Francisco took two from San Diego 15-4 and 7-3.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich failed for the second time to become baseball's first 19-game winner when the Yankees broke a 2-2 tie with two unearned runs in the eighth inning following Lolich's bobble of Roy White's bunt.

Celerino Sanchez drove in the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly and White, who homered in the fourth, scored on Ron Swoboda's second run-scoring single.

Boog Powell drove in all Baltimore's runs with a single and a three-run homer and Pat Dobson blanked the Brewers until the eighth when Dave May lashed a two-run single. Powell, who has raised his batting average from .159 on June 28 to .233, had a perfect 4-for-4 game.

"They haven't really been pitching around me," the first baseman said of his lengthy slump. "As a matter of fact, they've been waiting for me to get up there."

Oakland's Williams, who spewed profanities in the clubhouse after Monday night's loss, was in a sour mood again after Kansas City's Fred Patek delivered a tie-breaking two-out single in the ninth inning.

"No interviews," he snarled at one writer. "I've got nothing to say. Get out. I saw what you wrote today."

The writer replied softly, "Do you want to see it again tomorrow?"

and Williams cooled off long enough to warn, "I pity the club we come out of it against."

Although Patek's hit drove in the winning run, the Royals got a gift tally in the third when second baseman Tim Cullen lost Paul Schaal's one-out bases-loaded pop fly in the eighth and it fell untouched. Schaal was out on the infield fly rule but Richie Scheinblum raced home from third base when the ball dropped.

Jay Johnstone homered for Chicago's first run against California but the White Sox scored two decisive tallies in a weird eighth inning on an apparent inning-ending double play.

With the bases loaded, Carlos May grounded to second baseman Sandy Alomar, who flipped to Leo Cardenas. The shortstop completed the relay to first baseman Bob Oliver. But umpire Merle Anthony ruled that Cardenas missed second base and Buddy Bradford scored on the play. Pat Kelly then streaked home from second base when Oliver rolled the ball back to the mound, thinking the side had been retired.

Doug Griffin's tie-breaking single triggered a three-run rally in the eighth inning that carried Boston over Cleveland behind Marty Pattin's five-hit pitching. Carl Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli drove in Boston's other eighth-inning runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

Pinch hitter Dan Monzon's bases-loaded two-out single in the 10th lifted the Twins past Texas and to within six games of Oakland in the AL West. Ted Ford's two-out homer in the ninth for the Rangers sent the contest into overtime. Danny Thompson homered for Minnesota.

Tobin Paces Swimmers-Again

WINSTON-SALEM — Over 900 swimmers from all over the state participated in the North Carolina AAU Long Course Swimming and Diving Championships held here over the weekend. Denise Tobin, top competitor in her age group from Greenville, once again returned home with the trophy for the most points scored. This is the second trophy she has received in as many weeks.

Denise swam the following races in these times: IM: 3:07 first place; 100 free: 1:20.2, fourth place; fly: :41.9, third place; 50 free: :36.4, fifth place; breaststroke: :45.3, second place; and backstroke: :41.8, first place.

This makes Miss Tobin one of the top five swimmers in North Carolina for her age group. Lance Timmons, in the 11-12 age group, placed fourth in the 100 yard backstroke with a time of 1:22.5, making him fourth best in the state. He also swam the following times for these races:

100 freestyle, 1:13.3; 50 freestyle, 32.4; 100 breaststroke, 1:36.2.

His team also finished second in the medley relay, and he placed third in the freestyle.

Other participants included: Tom Johnson (11-12), 100 free, 1:34.5 and 100 breast, 1:45.6; David Johnson (9-10), 50 free, 44.1; and breast, 53.3; and back, 50.9.

In the 9-10 girls age group three girls swam the following events: Eleanor Tobin, 50 free, 43.7; 100 free, 1:39.2; IM, 3:51.3; Sheila Collie, 50 free, 39.9; 100 free, 1:32.7; back, 47.9; IM, 3:57; Amy Lawler, back, 47.7; fly, 50.2; and IM, 3:48.4.

The medley relay team consisting of Denise Tobin, Amy Lawler and Sheila Collie placed third with a time of 3:02. The same free relay team placed fifth with a time of 2:44.5.

Sandra Randle, in the 11-12 age group, swam the 100 breast stroke in a time of 1:52.2 and the 100 fly in 1:57.5.

CHAPEL HILL — East Carolina was eliminated from the Summer Collegiate Baseball League Tournament here last night as Carolina eased past the Bucs 1-0. The Pirates had suffered a 1-0 loss in the first round of play.

Louisburg, which had beaten ECU Monday night, lost to UNC-Wilmington by 4-1. Wilmington upset the regular season top finisher UNC Monday night in Chapel Hill.

After a cold first inning the Tar Heels went on the boards. They had set the Pirates down in order twice. Jack Leachman singled and moved to second as Mickey Hickerson reached on an error. Russ Niller got a base hit to load the sacs but a double play on Rick Danerman's attempted sacrifice caught Leachman. After Davis walked, McNeil singled to deep short driving in Hickerson with what proved to be the only run of the game.

In the third, East Carolina put a man on as Rick McMahon singled but could not come around. Carolina loaded the bases again in the fourth as Hickerson singled and Niller was safe on an error. Davis walked loading them up but McNeil hit into a force that got Hickerson as he tried to score. Russ Smith reached on a walk for ECU in the top of the fifth but was cut down as he tried to go to third on the error on John Narron's grounder.

Carolina got four more runners on in the bottom of the frame. Kennedy singled but was forced at second by Leachman. Hickerson singled putting Leachman on second but another force got Hickerson at second.

The only other runner for the Pirates got on in the eighth as Narron singled to right. He was thrown out at second as McMahon grounded to the pitcher.

Carolina's only other threat came in the eighth, also, as Niller was safe on an error and moved around to third on a hit by Davis but could not score.

Carolina will play Louisburg tonight at 6:30 to determine which team will be the next eliminated. The winner will face Wilmington in a second game.

Namath Claims He Is Ready For '72 Season

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What it comes down to for the New York Jets—as it seems to every season—is Joe Namath.

Two years ago, Namath was knocked out of action by a broken wrist in the season's fourth game. His streak of regular-season inactivity ran to 19 games when, in the opening exhibition contest last year, he damaged ligaments in his left knee.

But he returned to the field in explosive fashion, coming off the bench to complete 11 of 27 passes for 258 yards, including touchdowns of 57, 20 and 22 yards against San Francisco in the Jets 10th game of the 1971 National Football League season.

Now he says his chronically weak knees are fine and he's ready to play full time. If Namath avoids injury, the Jets believe the spirit that he arouses on the field will give them the momentum they need for a run at the Super Bowl.

But what Namath needs, of course, is men to throw to—and that's where the Jets could be hurting.

As of now, their starting wide receivers are Don Maynard and Eddie Bell.

Maynard, a 13-year veteran, holds the all-time pro record for receiving yardage with 11,306 yards.

Bell, starting his third season, is exceptionally fast, but his problem is size—or lack of it. He's only 5-foot-10, 163 pounds. His ability to withstand the rigors of a full season without getting, as one teammate put it, "broken in half," is questionable.

The Jets thought they'd solved their receiving problems when they made Jerome Barkum their No. 1 draft choice. But the 6-3, 215-pounder from Jackson State hasn't joined the team and is holding out for more money.

So if either Maynard or Bell are sidelined, it would leave the receiving jobs to untested players.

And if Namath is hurt again, it would be up to Bob Davis, a scrambling, roll-out quarterback who started seven games last season, to carry the load.

The Jets already are hurting at tight end, where Rich Caster may miss as much as six weeks with torn ligaments. Gary Arthur, a three-year veteran, is the tentative starter.

Running backs? "We've got more of them than we know what to do with," says Coach Weeb Ewbank. Emerson Boozer and John Riggins are the top two, and Matt Snell, virtually idle with injuries the past two years, is healthy again.

The offensive line is one of the Jets' strongest points, with center John Schmitt, guards Randy Rasmussen and Dave Herman and tackles Bob Svihus and Winston Hill.

The defense, too, is solid — providing it can avoid the injuries that hit nine of the 11 starters last year.

At the ends will be Gerry Philbin and Mark Lomas, with John Little and John Elliott at the tackles. The veteran line-backing trio is Ralph Baker, Al Atkinson and Larry Grantham, who have been playing together for seven years.

But the secondary, comprised of cornerbacks John Dockery and Earle Thomas and safeties Gus Hollomon and W.K. Hicks, needs more consistency.

Steve O'Neal remains the punter, despite his 38.8-yard average last year. Bobby Howfield is the No. 1 place-kicker, although he connected on only eight of 19 field goal attempts in 1971. Grant Guthrie and rookie Richard Ciemny are challenging for his job.

The Jets haven't had a winning record the past two seasons, but with a healthy Namath, they believe this is the season that will once again make them a club to fear.

Mathews Gets First Brave Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I had the old at 'em pitch tonight," Denny McLain grinned—and because of it, Eddie Mathews had his best night as manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"That at 'em pitch—it's the best pitch in baseball. All you do is throw it at 'em and let 'em hit it 'cause it's the quickest out."

For seven innings, Denny had 'em baffled at the plate, giving Houston one measly hit. Then the Astros caught up with McLain, putting together six more hits for four runs in the final two innings.

But it was much too late. Atlanta had erupted for five runs in the first inning alone and breezed to an 8-4 triumph that gave Mathews his first victory at the helm—and in his home debut at that.

In other National League games, Cincinnati outlasted Los Angeles 2-1 in 19 innings—the longest game in the league this season—Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 4-2, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 6-5. St. Louis edged the New York Mets 6-5 and San Francisco swept a two-night doubleheader from San Diego 15-4 and 7-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees beat Detroit 4-2, Boston turned back Cleveland 4-1, Baltimore topped Milwaukee 4-2, Kansas City slipped past Oakland 4-3, the Chicago White Sox held off California 4-3 and, in 10 innings, Minnesota tripped Texas 6-5.

Tuesday night's triumph for Mathews was quite a switch from Monday night, when the Braves were clobbered 9-1 in Cincinnati only hours after he'd replaced the fired Luman Harris.

"The big difference," Eddie explained, "was that everybody on the team was a little more relaxed and feeling a little better. I know I was."

A two-run wild pitch by Don Wilson followed by Dusty Baker's two-run homer did the heavy first-inning damage and Earl Williams homered in the second.

Los Angeles Manager Walter Alton was stoical after his marathon loss to the Reds that dumped the Dodgers, third in the West, a full 10 games back of Cincinnati.

"By simple deduction," he said, "we have to win 10 more than them to tie them and one more than that if we're gonna beat 'em out. I'd say we were in about the same position we were a year ago—or maybe a little worse off." In fact, the Dodgers were only 4½ games back of San Francisco a year ago before falling one game short of catching the Giants.

Although the Reds struck out 22 times to tie the league record for an extra-inning game, they got the hits when they needed them in the 19th inning—Denis Menke's double and Joe Hague's pinch-single for the winning run.

Willie Stargell unlimbered his muscles again for the Pirates, bashing his 27th homer of the season and fifth in four games. The three-run shot raised his league-leading run-batted-in total to 89. But he shrugged off his sudden splurge.

"We don't have the type of ball club that has to depend on any one individual," Willie said. "You have to give a lot of credit to the guys who bat in the leadoff spots. It seems like there are always men on first and second when you come to the plate. That gives players like me the opportunity to drive in runs."

Two-run homers by Jim Hickman and Billy Williams led the Cubs' attack against Montreal. Ferguson Jenkins also kicked in with a solo shot as he recorded his 15th victory of the year.

Luis Melendez cracked his fourth homer, a two-run shot off reliever Ray Sadecki, to catapult the Cardinals past the Mets, who dropped 9½ games back of the Pirates in the East. It was also Melendez' first homer since June 24—when he tagged Sadecki for a grand-slammer.

The Giants had their biggest one-game run splurge of the season and their biggest inning in their opener against the Padres, pouring across eight runs in the fourth inning to wipe out a 4-4 tie. Two-run singles by Willie McCovey and Frank Reberger and a two-run double by Dave Kingman highlighted the outburst.

They made it a sweep with a four-run fifth inning in the nightcap, Ed Goodson capping the rally with a three-run homer after Chris Speier had snapped a 2-2 tie with a single.

Jones Named Coach

SAN DIEGO (AP) — K.C. Jones, who achieved fame as a player with the Boston Celtics, seeks it now as a coach with the American Basketball Association's new San Diego Conquistadors.

Alex Groza, another former player once involved in a scandal and who has been business manager and assistant to the president of the ABA's Kentucky Colonels, is general manager of the fledgling club.

The appointment of Jones and Groza was announced Tuesday by Conquistadors owner Leonard Bloom.

The ABA will hold an expansion draft Thursday so the Conquistadors can stock their roster, drawing two players from each of the other nine teams in the league. Each team will freeze six players initially and a seventh after the first round.

Jones, 40, played for eight years in the Celtics back court and spent last year as an assistant to Bill Sharman of the Los Angeles Lakers, who won the National Basketball Association championship.

Office Of Education Pushing Bilingual Education

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Imagine your shock if you reported to a new job and a supervisor gave instruction in a foreign language.

For five million youngsters with limited or no command of English a similar experience is familiar. They troop into American classrooms to learn reading, writing and arithmetic, but they often don't understand the teacher and the culture is strange.

The toll in discouraged pupils and eventual dropouts is tremendous. It is estimated that Spanish-speaking Americans, the nation's second largest minority group, average nationally only eight years of schooling.

To alleviate the situation, the federal government is spending about $35 million a year to develop bilingual programs designed to overcome the language handicap and keep the children in school.

The U.S. Office of Education has 213 bilingual projects in about 30 states serving about 100,000 children speaking 19 languages other than English.

The current effort mainly is devoted to Spanish-speaking youngsters. The United States has an estimated 15 million Spanish-speaking residents, more than any other nation with the exceptions of Spain, Mexico, Argentina and Colombia.

The second largest group with a language barrier to learning in U.S. schools is the American Indian, according to Dick Goulet, program director for bilingual education in the Office of Education.

Goulet said the federal bilingual programs, now in their fourth year, "generally are a great success, especially in the spinoffs of community involvement, universities developing new programs and the passage of new legislation."

Plants Respond To A Polygraph

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Agricultural researchers wired a polygraph to some petunias and found the plants responding to emotional situations.

The lie detector showed that the petunias appreciated being watered, worried when a dog approached, "fainted" when violence threatened their growth and showed sympathy when harm came to nearby foliage. The California Farm Bureau concluded that gardeners with "green thumbs" probably develop an emotional relationship with their plants.

He said Massachusetts a law and Pennsylvania, Texas, New York and California have guidelines that require schools to provide bilingual education where a certain percentage of students speak a first language other than English.

An example of bilingual education: A Spanish-speaking youngster upon entering school is taught in his native tongue and gradually introduced to English in his reading, arithmetic and science classes.

Goulet said that the Spanish Curriculum Center in Miami, Fla., is developing a complete bilingual curriculum, reading, math, science and social science, for grades one through three.

Thus far, the federal effort has been directed at the elementary school level although a few high school programs have been started in port-of-entry cities such as Philadelphia and New York, according to Goulet.

In all of its experiments, Goulet said, the teachers involved must be bilingual and, where possible, have the same ethnic background as the pupils.

One problem facing educators

More Turning To Education

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 61.1 million persons between the ages of 3 and 34 were enrolled in school or college in the United States in the fall of 1971. The number enrolled either parttime or full time represented 56 per cent of the population of that age group and indicated a 12 per cent increase in the 54.7 per cent enrolled in October 1965.

in the bilingual field is that many of the youngsters come from poor social and economic backgrounds and have inadequate academic preparation in their native language.

New York City has 22 bilingual projects but the Fleischmann Commission reported that only 4,000 children are being reached with such programs although the city has 135,000 Spanish-speaking youngsters who are severely limited in ability to speak English.

Believe Death Reverses Life

SOKARNOPURA, West Irian (UPI)—The Asmat people of New Guinea believe that death reverses the life they have known on earth.

In the spirit world, sand replaces mud and dark skin becomes white. When the Asmat first saw Europeans, they thought they were ancestors returning to visit them.

"It is no wonder that Puerto Rican children are scoring poorly on standardized tests, dropping out of school at an extraordinary rate (52 per cent between 10th and 12th grades), failing to take advantage of post-secondary school opportunities and finding it very difficult to compete in the job market," the commission said.

Chicago is reaching 12,000 of its 45,000 foreign-language speaking children through one or another bilingual project. Dr. James Moffat, an assistant superintendent in the Chicago system, says "our problem is finding teachers who are bicultural as well as bilingual."

Almost all educators stress a need to maintain a student's heritage and culture as he is introduced to English and to the pattern of American culture.

"Our society has taken its toll of kids by depriving them of their self image," said Michael Quinn, of the Chicago system. "A child has to stand tall before he can learn his reading, writing and arithmetic."

Sea Gypsies Are Changing Ways

MANILA (UPI)—The Bajao of Sulu, southern Philippines, sea gypsies who traditionally have lived in houseboats, are beginning to settle permanently on land.

Some 50 Bajao families have petitioned the government for a settlement site on Omapuy island where they can build houses and live permanently. A foundation is planning to teach them agrarian skills.

Started Out From Nowhere To Seek Fame, He's Going Home

By BRUCE MUNN
 UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Thirty-three years ago a young man named Stanley D. Ho started out from Nowhere to seek fame and fortune in the world.

And now Dr. Ho, a year from retirement as a ranking officer in the U. N. Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, is going back to Nowhere to see again his now 80-year-old mother whom he hasn't seen since he left home.

More than that, he is bringing with him his wife and nine of their 10 children, aged 2 to 20. "I am actually going back to Nowhere," Ho said. "My home town where my mother still lives is called Wu Shih and literally, Wu Shih means 'Nowhere.' It is a three-hour train ride from Shanghai."

Since he left China, then ruled by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government, it has come under Communist rule. But Ho, who lives in Tarrytown, N.Y., had no difficulty obtaining the consent of the Chinese Communists to his return.

Nationalists Welcomed
 Soon after his arrival here, Peking's ambassador Huang Hua made it clear to the hundred or so Chinese Nationalists at the United Nations that they would be welcome to return to their family homes on the mainland, with no strings attached, even though their U.N. jobs came through the Nationalist government and they carried Taiwan passports.

When Ho applied for his papers, the Chinese frankly were taken by surprise. They were prepared for Mr. and Mrs. Ho, but the nine children —their eldest daughter will remain in New York this summer—created a good deal of extra paper work.

Chinese family ties are strong. Ho makes no secret of his eagerness to see his aged mother, but he also wants to pay homage for himself and his family to the graves of his ancestors, a rite sacred to all Chinese, and to teach his offspring something of their heritage.

Among other places, he wants to take them to the gardens named for Marco Polo at Soochow, a horticultural masterpiece laid out by his great grandparents.

"I want to go to Peking, too," Ho said in an interview just before the family's departure. "All Chinese have a particular tie to Peking, regardless of politics."

Like so many Chinese who remain in New York this summer—created a good deal of extra paper work.

Attended Princeton
 From Wu Shih, Ho went to the Baptist College in Shanghai, then came to the United States for graduate studies at Princeton University. He picked Princeton, he said, "because there were no Chinese there and there would not be a chance to gang up with my countrymen alone."

During World War II he was in service, flying the Burma "hump"—he calls it the worst piece of geography in the world—with gold for Chiang's forces at Chungking. When he returned to the United States after the war he applied for and got, a U.N. job.

"I told them I just needed a job for a few weeks," Ho said. The few weeks became 26 years.

It is estimated that not more than five of the half-hundred Chinese U.N. employees due for home leave this year actually talked only of visiting Hong Kong may slip quietly across the mainland. It is speculated, however, that some who have

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, August 9, 1972—17

Classifying Herbs Used As Medicine

By JIMMY F. KEMP
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—If someone offers you a little tanus root for what ails you, don't just laugh it off.

Herbs—or folk medicine—are used all over the world to treat ills from diabetes to indigestion. And through herbal medicine appears to be disappearing, it still forms a distinct medical subculture that varies from ethnic group to ethnic group.

Using plants and parts of plants to treat disease has attracted the attention of Dr. Clarissa Kimber, a Texas A&M University researcher who is studying and classifying herbs found along the U.S.-Mexican border on the basis of their medicinal use.

"A great many women use plant remedies before going to a doctor," Dr. Kimber says. "Some women have told me that if they have gone to a doctor without quick relief, they turn to herbal medicine."

Folk Remedy Expert
So far, Dr. Kimber has classified more than 400 specific herb medicines made up of their whole plants or stems, flowers, fruit, bark or roots.

She has concentrated her efforts on plants that grow along the border in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Technically, Dr. Kimber is a plant geographer, and one of her main interests is how folk remedies are transmitted from one area to another.

Distant Origins
"Like many cultural items, folk medicines can be shown to have origins quite far away from their scene of present use," Dr. Kimber says. "To see the castor bean growing so commonly in Texas, you would never know it is a native African plant."

The oil of the castor bean, one of the most common folk remedies, is used by many American families as a laxative and lubricant.

Some of the more common plants utilized in making herb remedies along the U.S.-Mexico border include native ones such as purple sage, cud weed, estafiate and sunflower seeds.

The most common plants—the castor bean, pirl peppers, peppermint, rosemary, and basil—were imported to the New World during the Spanish conquest of Mexico.

Along the border, the ailing seeking a herb remedy visit curanderos, or folk curers, who tell them what to take for their particular complaint.

Curandero Cures
"Most curanderos practice clandestinely," Dr. Kimber says, because their prescriptions are tantamount to practicing medicine without a license.

Many other persons visit herb shops, which are legal, and buy the different plants available without inquiring into their specific uses. They find out later that eating papaya fruit is one treatment for indigestion.

Additional remedies in the Mexican-American pharmacopoeia include a tea of zendo leaves for kidneys and respiratory organs, a tea of laurel leaves to help start the flow during menstruation, and a brew from twigs and bark of retama for diabetes.

Favor Romantic Disposition

PRAGUE (AP) — Even after a quarter of a century of government-sponsored women's liberation, Czech men want their wives to be good cooks and get along with their mothers-in-law, a youth magazine inquiry revealed.

The men expect their women to work but not on a job that would absorb all her energies and they prefer to be the main breadwinners. They don't like to see their womenfolk smoke but they are all prepared to help with the housework. They like to see their wives well-dressed and there is no premium on a university education.

Finally, a romantic disposition is highly appreciated.

Songwriter Prefers His Own Style

By NANCY SHIPLEY Associated Press Writer NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Anderson quietly stopped wearing rhinestone-studded suits on stage two years ago and now he has partially given up his on-stage crutch—his guitar.

"I've always wanted to let go of it and take the hand mike and do some things," laughed the 34-year-old singer-songwriter. "I don't mean a whole show, but I mean to be able to get out from behind that thing—and I couldn't do it."

"It was like getting a baby off his bottle."

"I feel a lot closer to the audience now because I've got that mike," he said.

The lanky, personable artist, who stars in his own syndicated television show, said, "I can't go out and sing to people or sing at them. I have to go out and kind of visit with them."

The country music hitmaker said he'd love "to have a record that everybody would accept like a 'Rose Garden,' but I don't see changing me to do that."

"If I'm accepted for what I'm doing, then that's fine and if not, I'm perfectly happy where I am."

He had a top-five pop record in 1963 called "Still," but he said it didn't lead to anything other than establishing him in the country field. "That's what I was really trying to do at the time."

Anderson, who considers songwriting his hobby, has had some 500 songs published and admitted, "I only finish about one of every three songs I start."

"One of the things I've learned over the years is to tell the difference between something good and something bad a lot quicker. And if I'm writing something and it's not really getting off the ground, I've learned now to take it, put it aside and go on to something else," he said.

But he often goes back to those unfinished songs—sometimes as long as three years later.

The award-winning composer says it's taken him only 20 minutes to write some of his songs, 30 of which have won him BMI awards. That's more than any other country songwriter.

Anderson, whose soft style of singing has often been described as whispering, said, "I know I'm not a great singer. I know what my limitations are. I have a style that I've been able to develop over the years that may be a bit different."

"People either like my singing a lot or not at all," added the entertainer. "I guess when you realize this, you get a little sensitive to it. I try not to be, but deep down I am."

Anderson, who calls Georgia home, recently signed a new MCA-Decca Records contract guaranteeing him dramatic television roles and motion picture title songs as well as a recording outlet.

The 10-year pact was the first one of its kind ever negotiated in country music, according to an official of MCA-Decca.

"I did my first acting part last winter on 'Alias Smith and Jones.' They've since called me for a 'Nigh Gallery' show and for an 'Ironside' show, but I couldn't go because of previous commitments," Anderson said.

Those previous commitments included his television show, which is seen in over 120 cities.

The one thing Anderson would like to do that he hasn't already done is to host a talk show on TV revolving around country music.

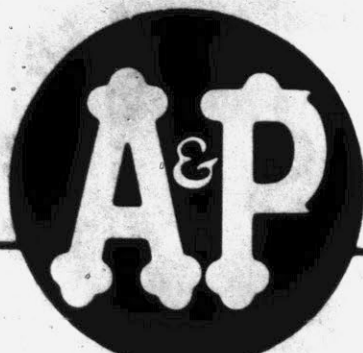

Anderson, who has a degree in journalism from the University of Georgia, said, "I love to interview."

Sixty-Day Test For Steam Bus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An experimental steam-powered bus beginning Monday will carry city bus passengers here as part of a 60-day test.

The bus was built by Reno, Nev., inventor William Lear under a $2.3-million grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation to the California Assembly. The legislature contracted for three experimental buses.

Lear's steam bus power system weighs about 900 pounds less than the conventional diesel engine and is expected to be much quieter and less polluting than city buses now in use.

Explanation Of Smoker Cough

Art wants to know why smokers experience a bout of coughing just when they get up. Then a second attack occurs next morning when they get up. Why? Note the medical answers below. And beware of the sexual emaciating effect of cigarettes! They reduce the male libido!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case R-552; Art J., aged 31, is worried.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am a heavy cigarette smoker. And I realize that this inflames or irritates one's windpipe and lungs.

"But why do I have such a bout of coughing just when I get out of bed in the morning and also for the first 10 minutes after I retire at night?"

"Why shouldn't I cough all day long?"

"But I don't cough much except just when I go to bed or arise in the morning."

Postural Coughing
Cigarette smoke irritates the windpipe and bronchial tubes, plus the lungs.

And you laymen know that irritation produces blisters on your palms if you wield an ax or hoe.

Well, similar fluid thickens the normal moist lining of the windpipe and bronchial tubes of a smoker.

This becomes evenly distributed or "painted" all over the lining during the day.

But when a smoker changes posture and lies down, the windpipe now becomes a horizontal tube.

Immediately, therefore, the fluid on the top side begins to peel away and form drops. These tend to hang down from the top of the windpipe wall, much as the stalactites from the roof of Mammoth Cave.

But as they peel off, they tickle the cells that line the windpipe. And that is doubly true because those cells have tiny hairs (cilia) which are pulled by the mucus when it peels off into hanging drops.

Thus, the smoker experiences a heavy fit of coughing for maybe 10 or 15 minutes when he lies down.

But after that, the fluid remains quiet until he again makes a quick postural shift next morning.

As he then jumps out of bed, he changes his windpipe from a horizontal tube into a vertical pipe.

Now those drops that were hanging from the top of the horizontal windpipe again fall back against the wall.

This tickles the cilia and causes a second bout of heavy coughing.

But in maybe 15 minutes, the fluid shift is finished so the smoker doesn't cough again till bedtime.

Another disadvantage of this heavier fluid lining in the smoker's chest, is the fact that the oxygen transfer in the lungs is then hampered.

For gases take more time to filter through a thick layer of fluid versus a thinner layer.

This also explains in part why smokers can't run as well as non-smokers without getting short of breath.

The very act of smoking a cigarette also zooms the heart rate by as much as 20 beats per minute, thus wearing out the heart faster.

And this accelerated pulse rate may continue for 20 minutes after the cigarette has been finished.

Other disadvantages of tobacco are its damage to the coronary arteries, plus its emaciating sexual effect, for smokers, lose much of their libido!

So send for my booklet "Facts About Alcohol and Tobacco," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

When North's opening one no trump bid was doubled by East who held equivalent values himself (17 high card points and a five card suit), South was confronted with a problem.
Direct action with his distributional holding appeared to be indicated and yet a two heart call was apt to sound like a mere rescue attempt and partner could hardly be expected to visualize the playing strength that South actually held. Mentally transporting the deuce of diamonds over to his heart suit, he finally decided to make the call he would have made with six hearts and four diamonds—four hearts. Although this was an unorthodox action on a five card suit, he was reluctant to consign the hand to a part score and chose to gamble that his partner would produce fitting values in the red suits.

If West had opened a club, declarer's defeat would have become assured, for after East cashes two tricks in that suit, his side must still score a diamond as well as a heart. No blame is to be placed on West for leading his singleton diamond, holding three trumps, for there was good reason to hope for a ruff or two if East held a top control in either red suit.
North's king of diamonds won the first trick and a heart was led. South covered East's jack of hearts with the queen and cashed the ace next, dropping the king. West's established ten was permitted to remain at large while declarer went about his chores.
A spade was led to the ace and a small spade was continued, as East's queen was ruffed in the closed hand. A diamond was led and since it would not have availed West to trump in, inasmuch as he would be ruffing his partner's trick in that suit, he chose instead to discard a club. The ace of diamonds was played from dummy and another spade lead fetched East's king and South trumped with the eight of hearts.
A third diamond was led and East was permitted to win the trick with the queen as West shed another club. Inasmuch as East had only clubs left, his forced return of the ace established North's king for the game fulfilling trick. Diamonds were now led until West ruffed in with the ten of hearts. South had the rest, losing one trick each in hearts, diamonds, and clubs.

Many Chinese in Taiwan speak exceptionally good English. But despite this handicap the island's sign painters and printers have manfully pushed ahead with important contributions to the destruction of the English language.

They seem to work on the theory that if you've got 10 or 20 thousand characters in your language, you really can't be too bothered by a language that
