

Swim Pool Issue In Referendum Package

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
In one of the longest, most dramatic City Council meetings in several years, a capacity crowd of spectators witnessed on Thursday night approval of a plan that will take the issue of swimming pools to the public in a referendum on September 30. Those who stayed beyond the first two hours spent discussing swimming pools heard the council turn back the portion of amendments to the city zoning ordinance pertaining to commercial outlets in apartment complexes. The smaller group of spectators who maintained a past midnight vigil heard a young man report on the wrecking of a subdivision street; and during the final discussion of the evening, an unscheduled one requested by a group of young people, a university student was arrested at the order of Mayor W. Eugene West.

In the midst of the five hour long round of excitement, it was realized after the meeting had adjourned that the Council had completely overlooked taking up the matter of considering City Manager Harry Hagerty's request to resign.

The two hour session on Councilman William Dansey's proposal to seek public support for a recreation program to encompass swimming pools opened with the reading of a letter dated August 10 from Sidney Carraway, Chairman of the Greenville Recreation Commission.

In the letter, commission members noted they "felt that the proper procedure had not been followed in making this proposal. We feel very strongly that everything should be brought to the attention of the Recreation Commission before being presented to the City Council."

After registering this complaint, the commission members went on to state that "we must at all times consider a total program approach. We must never stray from this approach when considering a new undertaking....We are not against pools, but against the concept of a tax for pools only. Since Councilman Dansey's proposal, we have discussed our concerns with him and have come up with a major capital improvement tax that we feel would benefit all concerned."

Within this concept, the Recreation Commission went on record by noting it "would endorse putting to the people a vote for a tax with the purpose of constructing major recreation facilities for the total program. The construction of a swimming pool would be given the top priority."

The next document relative to the referendum was a proposal submitted by Councilman Dansey, one slightly modified from Dansey's original proposal. In this he recommended a package deal to extend for a ten year period from 1973 to 1983, to be funded with a four cent per $100 valuation tax increase.

This increase would pave the way for construction of a first pool for the Evans Park property on Hooker Road in 1973 at a total cost of $150,000 ($75,000 from city funds and $75,000 from federal funds); a second pool in 1976 at a cost of $60,000 (with half of the funding from federal sources); and the third pool in 1981, also at $60,000 with $30,000 of this amount coming from federal funds.

In addition, a portion of the money provided by the four cent per $100 valuation tax increase would also be used for capital improvement funds for recreation facilities other than pools and funds required for operation and maintenance of the pools. The schedule drawn up by Dansey shows the non-pool amount realized from the increase would begin with an amount of $8,800 in 1976, $6,000 and $6,900 respectively in 1977 and 1978; jumping to $52,700 in 1979; $28,300 for 1980; $6,800 for 1981; and $21,900 and $24,000 for the final two years, 1982 and 1983.

After the document was read and explained, members of the City Council discussed aspects of the proposal for about half an hour before opening the floor to comments.

Mayor West, expressing full support for the idea of swimming pools within a total recreation program, took a stand for caution before approving the package plan. "I'm not questioning the fact we need pools, I only want to know where I'm going before I start," he stated. Later he declared "It is our obligation to study this proposal, to get all the facts and figures before we act. It is our responsibility that the overall picture be looked into before we jump."

Councilman Percy Cox throughout the discussion stumped for seeking an amount larger than the four cents in the referendum. He suggested the possibility of six or eight cents, saying he believed voters would, if given the facts for the overall needs of the city's recreation program, vote for that amount as quickly as they would for the four cents being proposed.

"To me," Cox said at one point, "the question is whether the proposal is sufficient to cover recreation needs, that is what we need to get across."

Cox and other council members had explained, in reply to several questions, that the proposal, as worded, did not serve as a substitute for the annual funds appropriated by the City Council for recreation operations, but that it was a supplement to the annual funds and would be earmarked only for recreation capital improvement funds.

When Mayor West opened the discussion to the public for comments, it soon became apparent that sentiment was strongly in favor of a proposal to put the subject of swimming pools before the public for a vote.

Dr. Herbert Hadley, vice-chairman to the Greenville Recreation Commission, noted that as a private citizen he endorsed the concept. "I feel this illustrious group (the City Council) can come up with a solution that will benefit all our citizens."

Don Brady, president of the Greenville Jaycees, remarked that the Jaycees had met earlier Thursday evening and that he was speaking on their behalf. "We see the need for it," he said, "and stand ready to do whatever leg work is necessary."

Maurence Lee Kirwan, a young resident of Crestline Boulevard in Belvedere Sub-division Thursday night waited for nearly four hours to make a report to City Council members on extensive damages to Crestline Boulevard.

Noting that the damage has been caused by heavy trucks using the street as an access road to development work being carried out by Hoover Taft, Kirwan said, "it's a case of negligence on the part of the sub-contractor, Hoke Grading Contractor. They are disregarding our safety. The road is almost impassable. Mr. Taft and the main contractor, Barrus, say there is nothing they can do."

"We don't pay taxes to have sub-contractors mess up our roads," he remarked.

Mayor West said he had already had Holliday and Cannon (City Engineer C. A. Holliday and Police Chief Glenn Cannon) check this out. "We've put officers on patrol, with instructions to warn them the first time and haul them in the second time."

The mayor said it would be "expensive to fix the damages. But we have Barrus as a recourse. He is doing construction for us (the city). If we have to do it, we can deduct the damages."

Holliday said that Gentry Mills had talked to Hoke two weeks earlier. Mayo Allen, Superintendent of Public Works, said he also had talked to Hoke, on Thursday and Hoke had said when he got through he would repair the damage.

Councilman Percy Cox raised the question of getting an ordinance as a safeguard against developments such as this. "We can get suggested loadings to consider for an ordinance," Holliday said. "There's nothing in our ordinances now that prohibits any size load on any of our streets."

The city engineer also commented that streets like Crestline are "collector streets. There should be nothing heavier than two axle trucks using such streets, with a load limit for each axle."

Kirwan passed around several photographs of the street. The photographs show cracked

Prices remained high on the Greenville tobacco market Thursday as the average here once again reflected an increase over record-breaking opening day figures.

The local warehouses sold 509,422 pounds yesterday for $442,157, an average of $86.80. Thursday's average was five cents higher than Wednesday's quote of $86.75.

The Greenville market topped the other six markets operating on the Eastern Belt in poundage but was below Wilson's top average of $86.91. Rocky Mount had the lowest average yesterday with $85.71 and was the only market to dip below the $86 per hundred pounds mark.

The belt, which is operating with seven markets on a limited basis until Aug. 22 when the other ten markets open, posted an average of $86.58 Thursday, topping the previous days figure of $86.37. The belt sold 2,758,020

House Rejects Directive For Indochina Withdrawal

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has given President Nixon a victory and almost ensured a new struggle with the Senate by rejecting a directive to pull all U.S. forces out of the Indochina war by Oct. 1.

Thursday's 228-178 vote was the closest direct House vote ever on ending the war, but the margin was far wider than either backers or opponents had predicted.

After striking out the war directive, the House passed a $2.1-billion foreign-military-aid bill, 221 to 172, and sent it to the Senate.

There it faces the danger of getting the same treatment the Senate gave its own military-assistance bill: approval of a rider cutting off money for the war in four months and then defeat of the whole bill.

The fight then would turn to keeping military aid alive on an interim basis pending official revival later.

The House rejected the Oct. 1 pullout directive after Nixon backers contended it would disrupt his efforts to negotiate peace—and his critics argued that only Congress can make him negotiate a prompt pullout.

No one, including Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chief author of the directive to withdraw U.S. forces from Indochina by Oct. 1 in return for release of American prisoners and a limited cease-fire, contended it would force America out of the war.

But Hamilton argued it would impose realistic terms on the President for bargaining America out of the war. He said Nixon's own May 8 offer of U.S. withdrawal four months after a full Indochina case-fire is unrealistic and could not be accepted by Hanoi.

Speaker Carl Albert, Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and 75 other Democrats joined 151 Republicans in rejecting the war-pullout directive; 23 Republicans and 155 Democrats supported it.

Defeat was assured when war-policy critics split, with some joining Nixon's backers in defeating an effort to change the pullout deadline to Dec. 31. That vote was 384 to 109.

The previous closest direct vote was the 238-163 House rejection last November of a measure to cut off war funds by this past July 1.

House antiwar forces mustered 175 and 193 votes on procedural motions interpreted as being against the war last year, but they were not direct yes-or-no tests.

Teacher Pay Boost Request Approved By Education Board

GREENSBORO (AP) — The state Board of Education approved a two-year budget request of $1.75 billion Thursday, including $62.6 million dollars to pay teachers for a 10th month of work.

The board action came at a Greensboro meeting in which it approved requests of more than half a million dollars above the amount it is getting for the current biennium. The financial proposals must go to the Advisory Budget Commission, then be reviewed by the incoming governor before being acted upon by the General Assembly next year.

The board's total budget is $1,767,497,151, including an increase of $39.4 million in operating expenses. It is asking for program improvements totaling $513,634,448.

The Board of Education prepares budget requests for both the public school system and the state's community colleges.

In setting priorities for new programs, it set a 10-month year for teachers first, saying such a step would cost $62,671,927 in the coming two years.

Its other new programs would include expansion of occupational education in stages from kindergarten through grade 12, expanding kindergarten to enroll 9,407 more children, put an additional 22,300 pupils on school buses, replace all school buses that are more than 12 years old, and hire teachers for exceptional children.

Last U.S. Unit Is Phased Out

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The last U.S. combat infantrymen in Vietnam prepared to go home today, and for Ronald Wegerle it was none too soon.

"Things weren't going too good," said the 21-year-old sergeant from Wichita, Kan. "It was the same thing over and over. The men were getting tired and morale was getting bad."

"We kept going out in the bush, and the feeling was we weren't accomplishing much. It seemed useless. All we'd do was walk. We'd be out several days, and we didn't seem to need to be out there at all."

The news spread into the field during the past week that the 3rd Battalion, 21st Infantry, was being phased out. The last 240 men were flown back to Da Nang on Thursday to turn in their equipment and pack their bags.

The U.S. Command made the announcement today, officially ending the 7½-year U.S. ground combat role in Vietnam.

At peak strength in April there were 112 U.S. maneuver battalions as part of a 543,000-man force. By Sept. 1, the U.S. force will be cut to 39,000 men in Vietnam — advisers, logistics personnel, air crewmen and other technicians — and another 100,000 Air Force, Navy and Marine personnel fighting the war from air bases in Thailand and Guam and from 7th Fleet ships off the coast of Vietnam.

Wegerle said "everybody watched where they were walking" after his Delta Company learned it was leaving combat for good.

Allegations Of Police Harrassment Are Promised Investigation

By JERRY RAYNOR

Shortly past midnight, after the City Council had dealt with one or two non-scheduled agenda items, James Boswell, who identified himself as a campus minister at East Carolina University, asked to speak to the City Council. Saying he wished to make a statement on alleged police harassment and treatment of students and young people, Boswell remarked: "The things I refer to may be questionable in fact, but it is not questionable that the feeling of the students is that there is a marked increase in police arrests in students quarters and houses. In a few of the cases nothing was found. John Doe warrants have been used."

Boswell cited Jarvis Street as an area when it is felt "there is a marked step-up in police going into houses, increased attempts simply to harass."

"Recently," he continued, "a number of students are being arrested on sidewalks. One student claims he was arrested last night just talking to a friend."

The young minister also mentioned that he understood the Tiki and the Rathskeller had been closed due to fire hazards. "These are the two places most frequented by students," he commented.

(City Fire Department officials say that only the Tiki was closed for one night, Wednesday. The Rathskeller has not been closed).

He said "tonight two students have been arrested on the street in what appears to be unlawful arrest. The reason for this, I'm not sure."

"As a result," he concluded, "resentment is building up. I have heard the students will attempt to retaliate lawfully, legally."

"There must be some reason for closing the two parlors," Mayor S. Eugene West replied.

"There may be good legal reasons, I don't know," Boswell said.

Mayor West explained that inspectors made regular inspections of all facilities. "If they don't meet standards, there are no alternatives but to close them. But generally," the mayor noted, "they are given a chance to correct any deficiencies. Our intention is certainly not to harass."

Police Chief Glenn Cannon observed that "Tiki was closed for fire hazards. I'm not familiar with the details. The fire inspector came by, got some of my boys to assist. I understand he had talked to the manager on numerous occasions, but that the manager had completely ignored it.

"As for arrests on the streets," Cannon commented, "there is no harassment because of long hair. We have had any number of complaints of people being unable to walk down Cotanche and Fifth Streets because of people sitting on the street. We have an ordinance to cover it, and we have started enforcing it."

George Holmes, a university student, said "I was arrested tonight when I stepped outside Tiki. A police car came up. I hadn't said a word, they said 'get in the car, you're unlawfully congregating after being told several times not to.'"

"There's a lot of talk about blowing a pig," Holmes added.

July Weather Gave Utilities A 'Rough Month'

July, with its high temperature, wind, rain and lightning, gave the Greenville Utilities Commission and its customers one of the roughest months in a long while, according to Malcolm Green, assistant director of GUCO.

Using the degree day method of determining the amount of heat experienced, Green said, July was 72 per cent hotter than June and 12 per cent hotter than July of last year.

The hot month, Green noted, sent many customers indoors to "cool it" beneath their air conditioners, causing the system-wide electrical consumption to increase 26 per cent over June and the demand to reach a new peak that was 14 per cent higher than last year.

"We were prepared for the hot spell," Green said. "Our crews have spent much of their time during the spring changing transformers and power lines in order to have the capacity to meet the high summer demand. Our greatest concern during hot spells is the availability of electricity from our supplier and the load on transmission

And Green noted, "If it's not the heat, it's the humidity."

The GUCO weather station recorded 7.13 inches of rainfall for July; twice the amount that fell in June.

The rain and wind, Green explained, brought an unusual amount of lightning, which caused five transmission line failures, including major damage to a main plant transformer.

"Transmission line failures from lightning," according to Green, "generally occur only once every two years or so, but the lightning was more intense and the storms occurred with greater frequency than is usual even for July."

Green said since most of August — another hot month — is still ahead of us, "the commission would like to remind its customers to keep their air conditioners in good working order."

Air conditioners, he emphasized, are the largest cause of high electric bills and dirty filters are the biggest contributing factor.

Hair Accessories

HAIR FASHION — Throughout the ages, women have used a wide variety of accessories — from delicate combs to feathers — to adorn their hair. Shown here, are examples of those accessories, from the 15th century onwards. It Was The Name That Fooled Him

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — John Parker, 18, of Los Angeles had Claude Riviere, one year younger, as his Belgian pen pal all during his high-school years to help him with his French. Now that he has graduated, he has come to Brussels on vacation to meet his pen pal. What a surprise: Claude turns out to be a girl, not a boy. "I always thought Claude was a boy's name, but here it's both male and female," said John. "The worst of it is that I wrote to Claude asking him — her — to make a hitch-hiking tour of Europe with me. No wonder she said she'd have to ask her parents for permission."

Unwanted Wolf Keeps Baying At The Door

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 43-year-old childless widow. I own my own home.

A few months ago I was shopping for paint at a large hardware store and the salesman was very charming and helpful. I was obviously a woman alone, so the salesman asked if he could come by and see how much work my house needed. He said he had been a priest, but left the church, got married, and was now separated from his wife. He came to see me several times, always after work — never on a weekend.

I called information, got his phone number and called his house. A woman answered. Of course it was his wife. I told him not to come by any more as I didn't appreciate his lying to me. He said he didn't appreciate my checking up on him, but he continued to stop by my house after work.

I would like to break off this relationship, but he is persistent. Should I just not answer the door? Or should I arrange to be away when he comes here?

LOVELY BUT BETRAYED

DEAR LONELY: There is something worse than loneliness, and if you allow yourself to become involved further with this man you will find out what it is. TELL him you don't want to see him any more. And if he shows up anyway, don't let him in.

DEAR ABBY: A relative of mine personally installed an extension telephone in his home with neither the assistance nor knowledge of the telephone company. This means he is paying nothing for the extension, while those who have extensions installed by the telephone company must pay an additional charge every month. I say this is plain old dishonesty. My husband says anything is honest if you can get away with it.

What do you think, Abby? Please print your answer as my husband reads your column and thinks you know everything. Thanks.

ON THE UP AND UP

DEAR ON: If one performs a dishonest act, it is still a dishonest act whether he's caught or not.

DEAR ABBY: I recently found out, quite by accident, that the man I am planning to marry soon is a widower. I love him, and the fact that he has been married before does not disturb me, but his failure to mention it to me does.

Should I bring it up? Or should I leave well enough alone?

THE SECOND MRS.

DEAR SECOND: Since his failure to mention his previous marriage disturbs you, it's sufficient reason for bringing it up. Do so. And soon.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 7-year-old son Billy. He is very jealous of other children. At his own birthday party he saw another child playing with one of his toys and became so infuriated that he tore it from the child's hands and ran to his room with it.

On a more recent occasion, I sent Billy to a neighbor child's birthday party with a gift. I later learned that Billy told the child that we couldn't afford to buy him a present, and Billy kept the present for himself.

Thinking such extreme jealousy is not normal, I mentioned it to my husband. He said Billy will outgrow it. WILL he? What do you think?

CONCERNED MOM

DEAR MOM: A 7-year-old should be willing to share. Consult your pediatrician. Billy may need some early counseling.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER IN LOUISVILLE": Tell your husband that you are no swinger and you didn't marry him to play musical beds. If he thinks "swinging" with a variety of different partners can "save" a marriage, he's mistaken. I can't think of anything that could kill it quicker.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Song Has A Burning Effect

BOURNEMOUTH, England (WNS) — Paul Hammond, a 20-year-old disc jockey, was master of ceremonies for the dance at Winston's Club here but was fired midway in his performance. "When I played a record entitled 'Burn Your Bras, Girls,' I suggested for a giggle that ladies in favor of Women's Lib do just that," he said. Nine girls on the dance floor promptly ripped off their bras, borrowed cigarette lighters from their male partners and set them aflame. Club manager David Lever, who fired Hammond, said, "I'm not against Women's Lib, but burning bras could set this place on serious fire."

Perk Up Low Cost Food By Using Unusual Tablecloths

AP Newsfeatures

Both indoor and outdoor picnic tablecloths are the "in" thing with hostesses these days. With entertaining emphasis on low-cost picnic foods served on an unusual table cover.

For that matter, some people are serving hot dogs and beans indoors on heirloom china and some are taking the easy-does-it route with paper service all the way, but, no matter, the table cloth is the eye catcher.

One young woman uses inexpensive paisley bed throws. Another uses handmade quilt of her grandmother's which she protects with placemats. And in some circles, animal themes are the going thing — zebra or tiger-marked fabrics stitched on the sewing machine. Even bed-sheets are being used with a dual purpose — on the table in summer and in the linen closet next fall. Fishnet over a solid-colored cloth has made a comeback, and there are deep-colored throw-away cloths that are heavy enough to stay on the table with high winds blowing.

Vinyl, a good weatherproof cover, may be enhanced with appliques, using a method of HELPING THE BUDGET — You can get along with low-cost picnic food for company if the tablecloth is an eye-catcher. These appliques were made by bonding the motif to the cloth with a thermoplastic bonding agent.

bonding the fabric without stitching. Other cloths may be used in this manner, but vinyl or oilcloth provide easy-care convenience.

One woman uses a pale yellow vinyl with cloth backing on a rectangular picnic table. The border of the cloth is applied with fruit designs — apples, watermelons, grapes — in red, hot pink, and purple colored vinyls bought in small quantities. A child's coloring book provided the fruit patterns.

Appliques were bonded with the material (Stitch Witchery) that resembles netting but is really a network of thermoplastic fibers that fuse fabric to fabric when it is activated with a steam iron.

After cutting appliques and bonding fabric in the same design, she steam presses the design for 10 seconds to the fabric on wool heat using a paper towel as a pressing cloth. If the applique doesn't bond securely, it may be pressed for an additional 10 seconds after a few minutes of cooling. The cloth then is turned over and steamed on its back which should insure a permanently affixed cut-out.

Using stylized motifs provides amateurs with a lot of leeway in achieving design goals. Other party motifs might include a border of red apples on a white cloth or big colored balloons on a pink cloth.

Ideas for seasonal cloths might include these:

Fall — Autumn leaves on a rust-colored or yellow cloth, a row of ducks, big orange pumpkins on a black cloth.

Winter — Snowmen, snowballs, Christmas trees (green on red). Spring — Birds or trees or seashells.

DO-IT-YOURSELFERS

Considering the fact that home-sewn garments cost 50 to 60 per cent less than ready-to-wear cloths, it is easy to see why home sewing is becoming more popular. Miss Dunlap says.

Mystery Plagues Republicans

The Republican party is having difficulty explaining where a $25,000 mystery check went astray.

The Washington Post revealed that the check was deposited in the bank account of a man accused of burglary at the Democratic Party headquarters.

The Post quoted Maurice Stans, finance chairman for the president's re-election campaign, as acknowledging receipt of the check. He claimed the check was exchanged for cash and the money put in the campaign treasury.

According to The Post story the check went through several hands before it was exchanged by someone for cash.

The story broke during the height of the Democratic Party problems with its vice presidential nominee. Now, however, it is beginning to prove embarrassing to the Republicans.

It shows us, once again that campaign funds should be handled properly and completely above board if the political parties and their candidates want to avoid suspicion.

Campaign contributions should be reported publicly and there should be clear limits on what is to be spent for campaigns so that the temptation to handle money on the sly can be avoided.

If anyone is going to set the example for above board handling of political funds, it should be representatives of the man who occupies the White House.

An Old Stigma Of Dark Ages City Manager Hagerty Is Leaving His Mark

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — A stigma from the Dark Ages still attaches to the victims of mental illness.

A society that calls itself humane no longer condones flogging of the mentally ill, though it may impose punishment in subtler forms.

The refusal to accept as "normal" the person who has received treatment reflects a public attitude that is a the birth of the large institutions.

Treatment Concept Emerges

Then came the age of treatment. The medical model looked at the emotionally and mentally disturbed as any other sick person — a cast for a broken leg, psychology and drug therapy for the mentally ill.

We're supposed to be beyond that. The social model of psychiatry defines the patient not as sick but as one who doesn't fit into society.

Q: What difference does this make in treatment?

A: It tends to move therapy outside the institution. The mental hospital setting is asocial. The institution becomes a society in itself. The patient is discharged to live in a far different world outside. In many cases, it is the environment which is involved in his illness.

Q: Is mental health in our state moving in this direction?

A: North Carolina is very much in the forefront with its community mental health program. The idea of going to a hospital can be frightening for a person who needs treatment. Today that is not really necessary. He can get help locally while living at home. Therapy is less disruptive.

Ten years ago this program did not exist. Some states do not have anything like it.

Public Attitude Important

Q: How does the public attitude on mental illness within a community relate to the success of treatment?

A: It is an important factor. The family needs to be educated to deal with the patient as he works out his problems. The acceptance or rejection he encounters in the community can determine how well he will fit again into society.

It's important that the public be more aware of help they can get. If they trust the system and think they will get help, it is easier for them to look for treatment.

Q: Is the present controversy over mental health care in the state harmful to the system?

A: The fact that there is controversy can be a very health sign. It's excellent for people to be interested, concerned and willing to participate. The worst thing is when the public says, "Go away and leave us in peace. Don't upset our orderly life."

There are states which have conditions far worse than ours, and their citizens do not seem concerned at all. Ours is a decent, progressive state. It can be counted on to do what is necessary.

throw-back to the past, said Dr. Peter Witt, director of research for the State mental health department.

From the professional point of view, he added, that is the discouraging aspect of the dropping of Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri as the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

"Psychiatrists say patients already are very reluctant to come for treatment because they feel a stigma may be attached. Now, in the Eagleton affair, we are openly saying, 'Yes, it can ruin you for life,'" he observed.

"It is really undermining all the efforts that are made to make people look for help in maintaining mental health."

Struggling Alone

The end result can be that many people will try to thrash out problems to large for them to cope with alone, knowing they will not be forgiven for seeking treatment. "Some of them can come to great damage," Dr. Witt said. "It's really terrible, when you think about it."

Dr. Witt, whose office is at Dorothea Dix State Hospital here, discussed attitudes towards mental illness and current directions in treatment in the following interview.

Question: How far have we come in the way we regard mental illness?

Answer: A very long way, no doubt about it. We still have a long way to go, of course.

Originally, mental disease was thought of as a curse of the gods. The victim had done something wrong and must be punished for it. They were whipped and locked up.

The next stage was to get rid of them, put them where they wouldn't be seen. This was

Underlining A Staff Problem

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The politically lethal relationship between Sen. George McGovern and his campaign staff was pointed up in a candid remark to McGovern by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie last Thursday night at Muskie's home in suburban Bethesda, Md.

McGovern had just offered Muskie the Vice Presidential nomination. In the frank conversation that followed, Muskie noted a certain hostility toward him by McGovern's staff that would have to be resolved before he could go on the ticket.

Serious concern by a prospective Vice President about attitudes of the prospective President's staff is not without precedent. But in this case Muskie's concern was deep and emotional.

Worse yet, the matter came up between these two old Senate colleagues only at the eleventh hour of a deep crisis within the Democratic party.

The exchange at Muskie's home, furthermore, fits neatly into the two-week melodrama from which McGovern has just emerged. It suggests that McGovern, far more a loner than generally realized, has still not seized control of the unguided missile that is his campaign staff. Even if the fumbling search for a Vice President is completely forgotten, that fact may well plague McGovern's uphill struggle against Richard M. Nixon.

By Monday evening, July 31, when he forced Sen. Thomas Eagleton off the ticket, McGovern was disenchanted with his high-powered, independent-minded staff. He avoided them studiously, turning instead to the wise old pals of the Senate. Their advice: unite the party, preferably with Sen. Hubert Humphrey or, as second choice, Muskie.

On the Senate floor Tuesday, McGovern approached Muskie for the first time since shaking hands on the national convention rostrum July 13. McGovern's message: I'm swamped with things to do right now, but I'm not going to make a decision on Vice President without consulting you.

Through Wednesday and most Thursday, McGovern said not another word to Muskie. As we have reported, McGovern was then wooing Humphrey, and that critical period passed without communication between McGovern and Muskie.

McGovern's staffers cut off from their candidate, could not believe he was really serious about Humphrey. But they regarded Muskie with deadly seriousness and deep animosity. To McGovern's staffers, Muskie's refusal to endorse McGovern after his June 6 California primary victory had guaranteed more than two months of unrelieved tribulation.

Reflecting staff attitudes, McGovern fund-raiser Miles Rubin told leftist campaign contributors Aug. 1: Don't worry, it won't be Muskie. Other top-level staffers—Frank Mankiewicz, chief fund-raiser Henry Kimelman, Frederick G. Dutton—were beating the drums for R. Sargent Shriver instead of Muskie.

When McGovern finally made his offer to Muskie Thursday night, Muskie was understandably less than enthusiastic. Besides worrying about McGovern staffers, Muskie sought clearance for a wholly independent campaign for Vice President—and, to his surprise, got it.

While Muskie flew to Maine to consult his wife, Jane, Friday afternoon, Muskie and McGovern staffers conferred in Washington on procedural details of the independent Muskie campaign. Mutual hostility between the two staffs brimmed over, a fact duly reported to Muskie in Maine.

On Friday night, while Muskie was making up his mind, there came a strange telephone call from Mankiewicz. Mankiewicz had

SOCRATES ON EDUCATION

Here are some great words which Socrates uttered centuries ago on the subject of education. In a day when we are talking and thinking so much about education they have in them a quality of wisdom which we may well ponder.

"Whom then do I call educated?" asks Socrates. "First, those who control circumstances instead of being mastered by them; those who meet all occasions manfully and act in accordance with intelligent thinking; those who are honorable in all dealings, who treat good-naturedly persons and things that are disagreeable; and further more those who keep their pleasures under control and are not overcome by misfortune. Finally, those who are not spoiled by success."

One marvels at times over the wisdom that came out of antiquity. This man Socrates had very little in the way of background. To be sure, he lived in an age characterized by the emergence of great thinkers, but neither he nor his comrades had the vast background of information which you and I enjoy. Yet he, and many who were associated with him, had the capacity to pierce into the very center of truth and to reveal it to others.

We have no books today, no committee reports, which discuss education so wisely or plumb the depths of the truth more deeply.

What Are Friends For?

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that Jack Anderson was not all alone during the greatest crisis of his career, when he falsely accused Sen. Thomas Eagleton of being cited for traffic violations while under the influence of.

I have just received the tapes of the first call Anderson received after the story broke that he had no proof to back up the charges. It was from his old friend, ITT lobbyist Dita Beard.

"Jack," she said, "I just wanted you to know that everyone here at ITT is rooting for you."

"It's nice of you to call," Jack said. "You know, it was all a terrible mistake."

"Of course, it was a terrible mistake. I was saying to Hal Geneen yesterday, 'Hal, I can't believe Jack would knowingly do something like this. He must have been under great pressure.' Hal agreed and said, 'It broke my heart when I read about it. I didn't sleep a wink all night.'"

"Geneen said that?" Anderson asked.

"I give you my word. He told me to call you and say that everyone in the ITT organization, including the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., is hoping you'll come out of this okay. He didn't talk to Atty. Gen. Kleindienst, but he is sure he feels the same way."

"Gosh, that's really nice of all of you."

"What are friends for? Hal wants to know if you'd like the company plane to go away for a while."

"No, I'm going to stay here in Washington and keep apologizing."

"What about a good hospital in Denver where you could rest up?"

"I'll take the name, but I doubt if I'll need it."

"Would you like to go to San Diego and stay at one of our new Sheraton hotels?"

"It would be nice, but I'd better stay here for the moment."

"Well, could we lend you our paper shredder? You might want to destroy the photostats of Eagleton's drunk-driving tickets."

"There are no photostats of Eagleton's tickets," Anderson said dully.

"No photostats? Everyone here said there had to be photostats or you wouldn't have gone with the story," Dita said.

"It wasn't my fault," Anderson said. "I had this source, a former high official in Missouri, and he told me he had seen them, and I was afraid of being scooped because I knew a lot of reporters were on the same story. So I broke it."

"Well, that makes sense," Dita said. "Anyone would have done the same thing in your shoes. By the way, could you use some shoes? ITT makes nice shoes."

"I don't need anything, Dita. Your call is enough as far as I'm concerned."

Life's Little Quirks

By HALE BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — If we can put men on the moon, why can't we:

Get to work on time?

Keep weeds out of the garden without having to stoop over?

Avoid having that one for the road?

Catch a taxicab on a rainy day?

Build a better mousetrap without having the world make a beaten path to our door?

Grow hair on a bald head?

Put buttons on a shirt so firmly they'll never come off?

Make a zipper that won't stick — or slide when it shouldn't?

Understand our teen-agers?

Keep mice out of fuse boxes?

Keep squirrels from nesting in the chimney?

Have a wife built like our neighbor's — the one that looks so well in a bikini?

Have a son who is driven by a goal greater than wrapping the family car around a telephone pole?

Draw successfully to fill an inside straight in a poker game?

Put unerringly more than four feet?

Save at least a little money?

Acquire an allergy to laziness?

Develop the kind of impressive personality that makes a racehorse run harder when we bet on him?

Play tennis after 40 without feeling everyone else on the courts is watching us and laughing?

Return Manhattan Island to the Indians and get our money back?

Forty Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
August 11, 1932

The public hearing of charges of official misconduct upon which the removal of J. J. (Jimmy) Walker was demanded, opened today before New York Governor Roosevelt. Walker is the mayor of New York City. Only a select few of the public, largely state officials and employees, gained admission to the red draped "hall of the governor."

The famous German police dog actor, Rin Tin Tin, is dead after more than thirteen years in the films. No estimate was available on the lifetime earnings of the remarkable canine, but the total is believed to be around $300,000.

Playing at the State Theatre tonight is "Two Second" starring Edward G. Robinson.

Tax-Exempt Bond Funds Booming

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — While the mutual fund industry seeks to repair a rift in public confidence that caused cash-ins to exceed sales by more than $950 million in the first six months of 1972, a related industry is booming.

Sales of tax-exempt bond funds, whose portfolios are made up of the debt securities issued by towns, public authorities, school districts and the like, grew in the same period by close to $500 million to a total of $1.75 billion.

The interest earned on such bonds is tax free, which means that a bond advertised as yielding 6 per cent provides as much income to a couple with taxable income of $25,000 as other securities yielding 9.38 per cent.

Since such funds are far more conservative than many mutual funds, whose portfolios are made up mainly of corporate stocks and which sometimes fluctuate widely, their growth suggests that investors may be turning more conservative.

If that is so, it seems that some of them were propelled along that course by the excesses and failures of mutual funds, many of which claimed to offer but failed to deliver price stability and safety.

Tax exempts offer both. In fact, says Frank P. Wendt, president of John Nuveen & Co., which claims to have founded the first such fund 10 years ago, a tax-exempt fund can almost guarantee stability and safety—and profit.

True, says Wendt, bonds do involve risk. They fluctuate in price as they become more or less sought after. But, whereas a stock price might fluctuate 10 per cent in half a day, it might take half a year for similar change in a bond.

"People are becoming more sophisticated," Wendt says. He feels they are becoming more aware of the tax tables and that they are becoming disenchanted with sudden price changes in other professionally managed portfolios.

There's no question that the tax laws provide the tax exempts with their most desirable feature, and no seller of either individual bonds or of bond funds is without a handy table that gives the equivalent yield an investor would have to earn from taxable securities. And as you rise on the income scale those equivalents become rather extraordinary.

A couple filing a joint return with $10,000 taxable income can earn the equivalent of 7.69 per cent on a tax-exempt bond that yields 6 per cent.

And a wealthy couple reporting taxable income of just a little under $100,000 would earn a hefty 15 per cent because of their 60 per cent tax bracket.

Understandably, the prop under such bonds and funds is the tax break, and from time to time it is suggested that the prop be eliminated. But that eventuality seems unlikely.

Most people involved with tax exempts believe it would take an act of Congress to remove the exemption, and even the suggestion of such a bill could set off a fiery inter-governmental conflict.

Municipalities and others rely on the exemption to help them attract funds for essential projects. As it is, many of these governmental units feel strained for funds, and they are not only interested in keeping what advantages they have but are seeking more.

been ambivalent. Muskie staffers viewed him as particularly hostile for peddling anti-Muskie tidbits to the press all year. But during the Eagleton crisis, Mankiewicz privately commented that Muskie was the obvious catalyst to unify the party—spotlessly clean, very nearly neuter.

Yet, Mankiewicz's Friday night call seemed calculated to offend Ed Muskie. Mankiewicz served up two cold red herrings—charges that Muskie had helped pollute a Maine stream with a sugar-beet mill and the duck-hunter Muskie once violated state game laws. Both are widely known and widely disregarded by the Washington press. Yet Mankiewicz asked Muskie if he had anything to add to the known facts.

Did McGovern know of this call? "Probably," Mankiewicz told us later.

Friends are certain the negative decision by Muskie and his wife was influenced by such visible McGovern staff hostility. In fact, Shriver may bring more to the ticket than Humphrey or Muskie. But the way the deed was done suggests McGovern still has not become the master of his own campaign.

"Geneen's been getting a lot of calls from the press asking what he thinks of Anderson now and you know what he's been saying? He's been saying that his opinion of you is the same as it was before the Eagleton story."

"That's what I call a pal," Anderson said.
"Would you like to go to the Kentucky Derby next year, when this whole thing blows over?" Dita asked.
"It sounds good," Anderson said. "Let me think about it."
"The thing to remember, Jack, is that these things are forgotten in no time. It may be a big story today, but tomorrow people will be wrapping fish in it. Don't get discouraged, and keep in mind that the entire IIT group, including those companies the Justice Department is unfairly forcing us to divest, is behind you 1,000 percent."
"I don't know what to say," Anderson said, sobbing.
"Don't say anything, Jack. It's the least we can do after all you've done for us."

The warrant for Holmes' arrest was signed by Police Chief Glenn Cannon on charges of indignity to a police officer. Holmes was placed under $50 bond.

Deegan said that "nobody bothered people at the Buccaneer, they're only after the freaks. There's hostility on both sides."

The mayor then asked Police Chief Cannon to meet Friday with these young people and with the Human Relations Council members. "If anyone is overstepping bounds, we'll straighten him out. If he is right, we'll back him," the mayor commented.

Big, New Shopping Center At Washington To Open Saturday

WASHINGTON — The Mall at Washington Square will open here tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. with mayor Max Roebuck receiving a gold hatchet from W. R. Roberson Jr., president of the developing company, Washington Shopping Center Inc.

The mall, it was announced, contains, 18,350 square feet and cost over $300,000. In development for eight years, the facility is fully enclosed and air conditioned and contains its own system, sprinkler system, public address system, and background music.

Other features of the mall, the company reported, include a burglar alarm system and terrazo floors patterned and designed by the architects for the complete center, McGee and Scovill of Raleigh.

Landscaping, including live plants and a water fountain has also been incorporated on the interior as well as exterior and parking lot planting.

The entire center, it was pointed out, is colonial in design with a Williamsburg type canopy featured over exterior covered walks. Antique brick and buff colored mortar are used on the exterior. The cupola on the main entrance will be floodlighted.

Existing tenants opening into the mall include Roses with 40,500 square feet, Peoples Drug Store, with 15,000 square feet, Pasquale's with 1,728 square feet and the newest tenant, Buckman's with 6,196 square feet. Other tenants already open include Winn-Dixie, Fabrice, Washington Laundry and Cleaners, Washington Square Barber Shop, Colony Room Restaurant, Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., and First Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

The mall will be available for public use such as club displays, office.

choirs, art shows, bake sales and other community and regional activities. Reservations and arrangements should be made through Edith Duke, executive secretary at the Washington Square Merchants Association office.

Value-Added Tax Plan Not Dead

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility of proposing a national value-added tax has been pushed to a back burner by President Nixon's administration—but the burner apparently hasn't been turned off. In an interview with The Associated Press, Treasury Undersecretary Edwin S. Cohen emphasized that nothing he said should be taken to mean a decision has been made or is imminent on proposing the levy, a form of national sales tax. Cohen, regarded at Treasury as a high-level expert and adviser, said the final word on any major tax proposal would be Nixon's.

Congress is expected to begin a major tax review next year. Democrats are pledged to loop-hole-closing, the administration has said it wants to simplify the revenue code—and if huge deficits continue, more tax money may have to be raised somehow.

Cohen said, "VAT will be an option available at some time or other for several things."

The administration has spoken of value-added as a possible means of providing federal financing for education and thus relieving state and local property taxes now used for this purpose.

Difficulties developed, however, in devising ways to be sure that such federal contributions would be used to moderate the property taxes levied by the states and thousands of local jurisdictions.

The White House referred the matter to the Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Relations, which is not expected to send its recommendations to Nixon until after the November election.

The issue is already deep in presidential politics. The Democratic platform adopted last month accuses the administration of shifting tax burdens to the average wage-earner and says of value-added: "We oppose this price-raising unfair tax in any form."

In its pure form, the levy is a tax added at each stage in the production and sale of goods and services. At each successive sale from raw material to final consumer product the seller remits the tax, after subtracting the tax he paid on the product as it reached him, and adds it to his selling price. In the end, the consumer pays the tax.

But Cohen said there are ways to mitigate effects on the consumer, including an income-tax credit based on family size. "It is not quite fair to denounce VAT as regressive," he said, arguing that it could be made a "proportional" tax by the credit device or possibly by setting different rates on necessities and luxuries, as is done in some European countries.

It's Happening In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — It's happening even in Latin America, where the men have always worn the uniforms and the women have pressed them. Within two years, the Venezuelan army will have seven senior sergeants. What will saying "my wife is a sergeant" do to the Latin "machismo," or male pride? "If a man truly loves, it is not important to him that his wife is a soldier or a sergeant," said Maria Perdomo, one of the young women who has set out to prove it.

A CLUSTER OF YOUNG QUESTIONERS... crowd around Miss Alice Keene (nearly hidden behind the second lad from the left). Boys Club Craft Work On Display Next Week

Craft work by young boys from the Greenville-Pitt County Boys' Club of America will go on display the first of next week at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Miss Alice Keene, a rising senior at East Carolina University, who has been working with the young lads this summer in their creative efforts, says "they are excited about having their handiwork on view to the public."

"We've had any number of projects," Miss Keene, a native of Four Oaks stated. "These have included making puppet shows, popsicle stick constructions, plaques of the American flag, and some drawings."

In their workroom at the E.B. Aycock Junior High School gymnasium, the young boys worked diligently on finishing up the crafts to go on display at the library. Occasionally one of the younger ones would tire of the concentration required of painting or sanding and would wander off to play a quick game of pool at one of the miniature pool tables. Another lad would step in, take his place in the detailed work.

And at any given time, there was always a cluster around Miss Keene, asking for advice or seeking encouragement.

"It's been a good summer for us in the crafts program," she commented. "About 40 to 50 boys on an average have been taking part each day." The Aycock program has been held at the school during much of the summer for five days each week, beginning at 1:00 p.m. and ending at 4:30 p.m. daily.

The public is encouraged to take note of the display of the craft items next week in the reading room of Sheppard Memorial Library.

Cerebral Palsy Team Shapes Up Says Rights Not Involved

A number of business and civic leaders have been appointed to head committees and area leadership positions for United Cerebral Palsy's annual "Happiness Is Helping" campaign, it has been announced today by Mrs. Jane D. Davis, Pitt County Chairman.

"One of the inspiring things is the fact that each member who was asked to serve on these committees and areas indicated their immediate willingness to serve and said they would give all the necessary time to make this drive the most successful ever," Mrs. Davis said.

Those appointed to committee chairmanships include: Tommy Payne, Publicity; Mrs. Lois Hecker, Residential Committee; Mrs. Jeannette Cox, Commerce and Industry; Mrs. Beulah Mebane, Special Events; and Robert Thurber, Appeal Letters and Special Gifts, William A. Ross Jr. of the North Carolina National Bank will serve as Treasurer.

"That these people are willing to take time out from their busy schedules to help the cerebral palsied of our area is a tangible indication of their deep concern," Mrs. Davis said. "I am certain their enthusiastic response to our cause will be matched by the public when United Cerebral Palsy's 'Happiness Is Helping' volunteers call at their homes."

Others appointed to assist in the county wide drive are: John Walsh, Tag Day; John Fletcher, Honorary; Jamie Norville, Belvoir-Falkland Area Leader; Frances Young, Bethel Area Leaders; and Frances Edwards, Simpson Area Leader.

National Park A 'Death Cell'

ZERNEZ, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland's national park in the Engadine has become a huge death cell for 1,000 red deer awaiting mass execution.

The deer, half the total stock in the mountainous national park near the Italian border, are to be driven from the preserve Sept. 1-26 into neighboring zones where they will be shot under official supervision.

This was ordered following complaints that the deer caused grave danger to vegetation inside and outside the park. Farmers reported they had to chase deer from alpine pastures before leading their cows up for the summer season. Grazing grounds for other game inside the park, including chamois and wild goats, also suffered seriously.

The nine park wardens have denounced the proposed shooting as a massacre.

California had 67 hunting accidents in 1971, the fewest in the state's history.

Infant Scalded And Drowned In A Shallow Tub

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A mother who left her 14-month-old son and a 3-year-old daughter alone in a bathtub returned from a five-minute trip to a neighbor's Thursday to find the boy scalded and drowned.

Forsyth County medical examiner Dr. George Podgorny said the death was accidental.

He said Gerald Joe Michael Collins would have died from second-degree burns if he had not drowned. Collins was the son of Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Collins, 20, of Winston-Salem.

She told police she left the children in a shallow tub of lukewarm water, with the faucets off, to lend a bottle of perfume to a neighbor. She said when she returned she found the girl out of the tub, crying and water running into the tub.

She called an ambulance, which took the boy to a hospital. But he was declared dead on arrival.

Tiki Club Reopened After Compliance With Regulations

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Tiki Club, a Cotanche Street night spot closed by Greenville Fire Department Fire Prevention Bureau inspectors Wednesday night reopened last night in compliance with the city's fire code.

Fire Inspector Jimmy Smith said the Tiki was closed about 10 p.m. because the "isle ways were blocked, the building overcrowded ... and the back door was latched ..." all violations of the city fire code. Smith hastened to add, however, "There are other places in the city that have the same problem and as fast as we can get to them, we're going to cure it ... take the same action."

All places have been warned, the inspector explained, and violators of the fire code will be closed.

The Tiki situation Smith said, was "determined to be a dangerous and hazardous condition" and the building was ordered closed for the night.

If a place for public assembly is closed once and violations are found a second time, "we'll try to close them permanently," Smith said.

"We don't want anybody to get trapped in one of these buildings during a fire. If they are trapped, they are going to die ... burn up."

He emphasized the fire code, which regulates the number of persons who can occupy a place for public assembly, requires exit ways to be of proper width and marked, the building condition to meet state and local codes, exit doors not to be latched, and the building not overcrowded.

He noted that capacity of a place of public assembly is limited to one person for each 15 square feet of floor space for establishments with movable seating and one person for each seven square feet for places with fixed seating.

Smith explained that the danger of chairs and tables turning over in exit-ways is the basis for the larger floor space required per person in places with movable seating.

Smith emphasized too, that persons parking their cars in public alleys — day or night — are in violation of the city fire code and may return to find their cars missing.

The inspector said the Fire Department will order cars towed away — beginning immediately — if found obstructing public alleys.

Smith explained that cars parked in public alleys hinder the movement of fire equipment in alleys and are in violation of the fire code.

SUNDAY SERVICES
Evangelist Beryl Smith will be at People's Bible Church Sunday for morning and evening services.
The public is invited to attend.

Two reappointments to boards of commissions were made at the August meeting of the City Council on Thursday night.

The first was the reappointment of Lloyd Mills to a second term on the Greenville Board of Adjustments. This reappointment had been overlooked during the July meeting.

Council members later elected Mayor S. Eugene West as Greenville's representative to the Mid-East Commission. This action took place during certification of appointment and participation in the commission, which also carries approval of Greenville's contribution of $1,500 in membership fees.

The fee last year was $581. City Planner Dillon Watson, however, pointed out in effect that the fee has been more than $1,100 last year as a separate fee of some $600 had been paid for police participation. This year's $1,500 fee includes both city and police participation.

One of declarer's basic techniques at no trump play is the holdup. The problem often hinges on just when to seize the initiative away from the defenders. South held off one round too long in today's hand and presented his opponent with an opportunity to come up with a sparkling play to upset declarer's three no trump contract.

West opened the seven of hearts and East put up the queen which South permitted to hold the trick. The deuce of hearts was returned and declarer played the ten, losing to West's jack. The five of hearts was led next to clear the suit, on which East discarded the king of clubs. Altho this play may appear to be somewhat sensational, it was not only well chosen but, from a purely practical consideration, had nothing to lose.

Observe that if declarer has all the missing club honors, East's king must fall prey to repeated finesse. If West has a holding in the suit consisting of as little as three cards headed by the jack, then East's unblocking play will promote an entry to his partner's good hearts.

If West has a higher honor in clubs, he holds a sure stopper in the suit on his own.

South was temporarily pleased at the appearance of the club king, for it assured him of eight top tricks—three spades, one heart, two diamonds, and two clubs. When he cashed the ace and queen of clubs and East showed out on the second round, declarer's pleasure proved to be short lived, inasmuch as he was unable to establish a ninth trick in that suit without letting West in and the latter still retained two hearts with which to set the contract.

Declarer tried his last shot in the form of a double finesse in diamonds. A small diamond was led and West's nine was covered by the ten in the hope that the latter held both the queen and jack. When East turned up with the jack of diamonds, south conceded defeat.

Declarer should have taken off the second heart. There was no point in holding up again, for if hearts are divided four-three, the defenders can take only three tricks in that suit. It is only a five-two break in the suit that South need concern himself about—in which case the problem is to prevent West from regaining the lead.

After the ace of hearts is played at trick two, dummy is entered with the ace of spades to lead a club. East presumably follows with the four and declarer finesesses the queen. When this play succeeds, the North hand is reentered with the king of diamonds to play another club. When East's king appears, he is permitted to hold this trick. Even if he has a heart to return, West will cash two more tricks to complete his side's book, but when South regains the lead, the ace of clubs drops the jack and the long club is established for his ninth trick.

Girl Drowns At Pool Party

CHOCOWINITY — A pool party being held to celebrate the winning of a softball league championship turned into tragedy here yesterday when a 14-year-old Williamston girl drowned.

Beaufort County Coroner Junious Woolard said Patricia Clemmons of Williamston drowned in the Lemon Tree Inn here where the pool party was being held about 10:15 a.m.

According to Woolard, three girls — all members of the softball team — were apparently wading in the shallow end of the pool and waded off into deep water. The two other girls and a woman coach who dove into the water to aid them were rescued by bystanders.

The Clemmons girl, however, drowned before she could be reached.

The girl's death was ruled accidental.

I'm Serious!

Maybe you like smiling babies? Sorry to disappoint you, but I've got a lot on my mind.

There's something wrong in America . . . and I'm the chap who is getting hurt!

Our Constitution says that no one can be denied the right to worship God. I'm an American! According to the Constitution I have the right to learn about God, to hear the Bible Stories, to be taught the Christian Way of Life.

But here's the hitch. While the Government can't deny me the right to attend church school and church—MY PARENTS CAN. They can rob me of my most sacred right just by neglecting my spiritual needs.

Did you know that about half the children in America are growing up without religious training? And yet there's a church in every village!

Yes sir, I'm serious! Instead of talking about it, we ought to do something! And we ought to start Sunday!

Kirwan said residents of the area were deeply concerned about the situation, particularly the safety of children. He mentioned his small son had fallen on one of the ragged places and had been skinned and bloodied from the fall.

As a matter for the record, Holliday submitted to the Council a report he had prepared, "This report is in compliance with what I found in my investigation," he said. "I present it to be filed as part of the permanent records of my investigation."

Two other matters concerning safety in Greenville streets were brought to the council's attention. Councilman John Taylor said he was very much concerned about the intersection at West Third and Tyson Streets, the scene of an accident recently in which a young cyclist was thrown through the windshield of a car. "This has been a dangerous intersection for some time," he stated, and requested that the Traffic Division investigate and determine what can be done. Councilman Clarence Gray also called on the Traffic Division to look into the situation at 14th and Fleming Street, which he says is a dangerous intersection.

Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins that encouraged the City Council to take favorable action on the proposed referendum.

Men, women, young people, blacks and whites, all voiced their support. One resident of North Greenville expressed opposition, not to having pools, but to having to raise taxes. Two or three, saying they favored the idea, expressed reservations about the validity of figures presented by Dansey and noted their agreement with Mayor West in seeking a more in-depth study from experts before taking a final step of approval.

Confusion also existed over the wording of Dansey's original motion for approval, a lengthy, rather complicated one.

Dr. Frank Fuller objected to the motion, saying it could be interpreted as providing for the three pools, but "nothing else. I feel clarification of this is an extremely important point."

Dansey then made a second motion, asking that the entire report be adopted, to be implemented according to the schedule attached to the report, and that a public referendum be scheduled as proposed.

This motion carried with the exception of opposition by Cox. "I am opposed on the grounds that the proposal was not made through the proper channels," and that the four cents is not enough to give the total amount needed," Cox explained in casting the lone opposition vote.

After the proposal had been adopted, Dansey offered two supplementary motions that were approved. The first deals with the wording to be used on the purpose of the referendum, one setting forth a four cent per $100 valuation tax increase for the construction of swimming pools and other recreation capital improvements.

The second supplementary motion was to set up a board of elections for the referendum, a requirement under state law before elections can be held. The names of five persons were offered in nominations for the elections board—Bruce Koonce, John Bell, Rev. William B. Moore, Mrs. Myra Kane and Mrs. Sally Broderick. The three elected from the five nominees are Mrs. Kane, Rev. Moore and Koonce.

City Attorney David E. Reid Jr. was instructed to prepare the necessary advertisement needed to meet the legal requirements to place the matter before the citizens of Greenville in a referendum.

A seven part added section in proposed amendments to City Zoning Ordinance 322 that would have provided authority for the establishments of convenience commercial uses in multi-family complexes was turned down by the City Council Thursday night.

In deleting the section, the one numbered Section 39-97-A, council members directed sending the section back to Planning and Zoning for further consideration.

Discussion on adoption of amendments to the ordinance, a public hearing, resulted in an objection on the part of Robert W. Leith of Warren Street. Leith cited earlier efforts of Councilman William E. Dansey to place a commercial shopping outlet in the Tar River Estates as an example in saying that passage of the amendment would now give Dansey authority to place a convenience shopping center there after it had twice been turned down by the Council.

Attorney David Reid expressed an opinion that the amendment, as worded, would give blanket authority for any housing complex meeting the 72 unit requirement to open a convenience commercial without resorting to the Board of Adjustments. Reid also noted in his opinion the amendment could be used retroactively.

Council member Dr. Frank Fuller noted that Leith was correct in saying that the intent in requesting an amendment was to provide a means to incorporate commercial outlet plans in new apartment complexes being developed.

The planning and Zoning Board is being asked in drafting a new amendment to give consideration to additional provisions that would insure that the intent of the original request was met.

All other sections of the proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance were approved. A great majority dealt with minor changes in wording, such as inclusion of churches as a permitted rather than a special use in a number of zoning areas; the definition of spaces between principal and accessory structures; and similar changes.

In one other public hearing, approval was given Wheless and Moore, Inc. for rezoning of property facing Cotanche Street at Ninth Street from office and institutional to downtown commercial fringe zoning.

Bids on gasoline supplies for the City of Greenville resulted in W. L. Allen Gulf Oil Corporation being awarded the contract. Allen's low bid was 16.147 per gallon for Gulf No-Knox gasoline. A bid for a new car for the Public Works Department went to Phelps Chevrolet. The successful bid was $3,380 for a 1972 Chevrolet.

Two franchises were renewed, one for the Raleigh City Coach Lines, Inc. to operate a bus service at East Carolina University and another to Mrs. Anna O. Garris to register motor vehicles and issue license plates, to include city plates, for which she receives a fee of 11 cents for each plate.

Public hearings were set for September 7 for a number of rezoning requests — those of John F. Moye, W. E. Dansey, property on East Tenth Street, Hugh C. Winslow, and Mrs. J. T. Manning Sr.

A request for release from a taxi franchise by William Frank Moore (signed by his son Jerry Moore due to his father's illness) and the assigning of the same franchise to Walter B. Swindell were both approved.

A request by Mrs. Queenie Evans for renewal of a mobile home permit at 1806 South Greene Street was approved for an additional year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to make election day a national holiday, starting on Nov. 7 this year and continuing every two years thereafter.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who introduced the proposal Thursday, said giving workers the day off would make it easier for them to vote.

The proposal now goes to a conference with the House.

Walton Getting His Best Chance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rookie quarterback John Walton is getting his best chance in four years to make the Los Angeles Rams varsity.

The 24-year-old from Elizabeth City, N.C., is one of the few blacks who have had the opportunity to play the key position in the pros.

It's possible he'll play for the Rams in Saturday night's exhibition game against Dallas, but he'll have to improve on his showing of last Friday night.

The Rams beat Cleveland, 13-3, which pleased the 6-foot-2, 190-pounder. Individually, however, he said, "Just put it down in the minus category."

He completed only two of 11 passes and threw two interceptions in his first start. He's a rookie because he has yet to play in a regular season National Football League game.

"I wish he had a better night," said Coach Tommy Prothro of the Rams. "He handled the club well but I didn't like those interceptions."

Walton became the starting quarterback after the No. 1 man, Roman Gabriel, suffered a collapsed lung, and last year's No. 2, Jerry Rhyme, was burned in a fire at his home.

Last year against Oakland in the preseason a shoulder separation hurt Walton's effort to make the club.

After signing as a free agent in 1969, Walton was farmed out to Indianapolis where he became the Continental League's most valuable player. He's been on the Rams' reserve squad and the past two seasons.

"I'll always wonder what would have happened last year if I hadn't got hurt," Walton said.

Walton, who teaches geography in junior high school during the off-season, is one of three blacks seeking regular quarterback jobs in the pros this year. The others are Karl Douglas, Baltimore, and Joe Gilliam, Pittsburgh.

"I don't know why there haven't been more black quarterbacks in pro ball," said Walton. "You'd have to get together with all the coaches. They know more about it."

The Rams quarterback coach said race isn't a factor.

"Attitudes are different today than they were 15 years ago," said Dick Vermiel. "It might have made a difference in the past but I'm sure it doesn't now."

"I think John thinks of himself as a quarterback, not a black quarterback," Vermiel said.

It Wouldn't Stretch

Change In Attitude Helped Weaver's Golf

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — DeWitt Weaver, slump-ridden and struggling since scoring his first tour victory a year ago, said a complete change in attitude helped him into the first-round lead in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

Thursday he shot an eight-under-par 64 for the 18-hole lead in this tournament with a $50,000 first prize.

"Last week I hit the ball better than I have any other time in my life. But I shot 293 because I putted like an idiot," he said.

He put together his career-best round to move past Jack Nicklaus and pro rookie Steve Melnyk, tied just one stroke back with seven-under-par 65s on the 6,700 yard Westchester Country Club course, Thursday.

Big Labron Harris and Dwight Nevil, a one-time Dallas fireman, followed at 66 with Australian Bruce Devlin, Bob Murphy and Wayne Yates, now in Atlanta club pro, next at 67.

While the mild, sunny weather and relatively short course combined to produce some extremely low scores, a couple of the game's outstanding stars had their problems.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer put three sixes on his card en route to a 73 and South African Gary Player, who won the PGA National championship last week, could manage only a par 72. British Open title-holder Lee Trevino isn't competing.

The Senate has passed a resolution that Sept. 23 be designated as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

Bears Use Free Kick To Pull Off Victory

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Refusing to accept a tie, the Chicago Bears used a seldom used rule Thursday night to pave the way for a seven-yard field goal by Mac Percival and a 20-17 exhibition football victory over the Houston Oilers.

Larry Rowden, Chicago linebacker, covered a free kick at the Houston one to enable Percival to kick the winning three-pointer with just three seconds to play.

Confused Oilers defenders made no attempt to cover the free ball and their new head coach, Bill Peterson, immediately accepted the blame.

"It was our fault," Peterson said. "We simply had not discussed the free kick situation."

The weird ending had its start when Chicago made a fair catch of a punt with 25 seconds to play.

Under both pro and collegiate rules, a team receiving a fair catch has several options, including the free kick, for placing the ball in play. But on a free kick the ball becomes a free ball, meaning any player on the field can claim it by covering it.

Percival made the free kick while using a tee at the Bears' 40. Had the ball gone above the uprights, Percival would have had a 60-yard field goal. Had Rowden covered it in the end zone instead of on the one he would have had a touchdown.

Linzey Cole was among the Oilers who stood in the end zone and watched Rowden cover the ball.

"Someone—I don't know who—kept yelling, 'Don't touch the ball! Don't touch the ball!'" Cole said after the game.

Officials To Meet

Football coaches and their players aren't the only ones getting ready for this fall's high school football season.

The men who officiate at the games will be attending sessions during August to sharpen their technique and to learn the new rules and rule changes.

One of the sessions, sponsored by the North Carolina Athletic Officials Association, will be held at Minges Coliseum on Tuesday, from 7:30 until 9:30.

A film "Football Today" will be shown at the clinics to demonstrate the new rules going into effect this fall, according to Ray Rhodes, Coordinator, School Athletics and Activities, State Department of Public Instruction.

The clinics will be followed by the NCAOA football exam which will be held nationally September 18. All NCAOA officials must take either the supervised national official examination or an emergency exam later date. Officials must take the supervised exam one time out of each two year period or be automatically rated as a class four official at the end of the second year.

Tommy Helms, who played for Cincinnati last year, provided a big hit in Houston's victory Thursday night. His two-run triple capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that broke a 6-6 tie.

Realignment On Agenda

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Major league baseball's bigwigs began to wrestle today with the question of possible realignment of the American and National leagues.

Nobody knows exactly how much support or opposition there is on the proposal.

A committee, named during the summer baseball meetings which ended Thursday, hopes to find out and will spend the next four months studying the issue. It consists of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Presidents Joe Cronin of the AL and Charles "Chub" Feeney of the NL.

The committee will report back to the owners at the winter meetings in December in Hawaii.

The two proposals call for splitting the leagues into either three eight-club leagues or four six-club leagues.

Owner Jerold Hoffberger of the Baltimore Orioles, presidents William Bartholomay of the Atlanta Braves and Calvin Griffith of the Minnesota Twins and general manager Dick O'Connell of the Boston Red Sox lean toward some sort of regrouping.

Opposition has been expressed by Joe Brown, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Spec Richardson, general manager of the Houston Astros.

Beneath this soft and warm exterior, there lies a heart of plastic.

So far, it's only a valve. Eight-year-old Janet Hernandez has one.

It may not be long before a whole working heart will be made out of plastic. Men in plastics research at Union Carbide are working on the almost impossible job of designing plastics compatible with the body.

Their most crucial job is making an ultra-thin polypropylene fabric for lining the inside of the heart. A fabric coated with parylene that will allow human tissue to grow into and around it to keep blood from clotting.

A plastic heart isn't the only part of the body we're working on. Maybe someday there will be a little plastic in all of us. Right now, we've got you surrounded by our plastics. We were in plastics before most people knew the word. We make more plastics than anyone else. We haven't scratched the surface yet.

Why is a great big company like Union Carbide so concerned about a little bit of plastic for the body?

Because. Beneath our corporate exterior, there beats a heart.

Patriots Hoping For Continued Improvement

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots, who regained respectability with the arrival of Jim Plunkett and a new stadium in 1971, hope for continued improvement this year with the ultimate goal the National Football League's Super Bowl.

"We are totally committed to winning," Coach John Mazur said.

With Plunkett directing every play at quarterback, the Patriots shook the role of doormat with six victories last season, the most by the club in five years.

Plunkett, former Stanford All-American, made the big jump to the pros with ease and earned rookie of the year honors in the American Conference. He completed 158 of 328 passes for 2,158 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Figuring that Plunkett has improved 100 per cent in reading defenses, the Patriots plan to open their attack to capitalize on his mobility and throwing arm. The running backs will be sent out more often on pass patterns, with emphasis on speed and good hands.

Carl Garrett, a veteran who gained 784 yards on the ground last year, is assured of one backfield berth. The other is up for grabs with the trade of veteran fullback Jim Nance to Philadelphia.

Little Randy Vataha, who was a big surprise as he caught 51 passes for nine touchdowns as a rookie in 1971, again figures to be Plunkett's favorite target as a wide receiver. The two starred together at Stanford, but Vataha was considered too small for the pros until the Patriots gave him a chance at the suggestion of Plunkett.

Veterans Hubie Bryant and Reggie Rucker and rookie Tom Reynolds, New England's top draft choice from San Diego State, are waging a stiff battle in training camp for the other wide receiver berth. General Manager Upton Bell calls Reynolds "a potential superstar."

The Patriots feel they finally have filled one problem spot in recently acquiring veteran tight end Bob Windsor from the San Francisco 49ers for a No. 1 draft pick in 1974.

The offensive line is set with veteran center Jon Morris in the middle for guards Len St. Jean and Halvor Hagen and tackles Mike Montler and Tom Neville.

Defense could be the Patriots' biggest weakness. In compiling a 6-8 record last year, New England was outscored 237-190 and surrendered more than 3,000 yards to opponents.

With veteran linebackers Steve Kiner and Ed Weisacosky gone, the pressure will be on the front four—ends Julius Adams and rookie Jim White, and tackles Dave Rowe and Rick Cash or Dennis Wirgowski.

Jim Cheyinsky and EJ Flanagan are the only experienced linebackers, both playing the middle. Rookies Ken Price and Dick Blanchard are top contenders for outside linebacker jobs.

The defensive backs include John Outlaw, Larry Carwell, Rick Harris and Clarence Scott, all tested veterans, and rookie Ron Bolton of Norfolk State.

Carlen Sets Strict Rules For Players

Editors Note: "Morality Fats," they've called him. But Jim Carlen's got rules and a vigorous recruiting program and desire to bring Texas Tech its first Southwest Conference football championship. Carlen touches on the controversy in his system in this third and final part of a series on SWC recruiting.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — "In some ways," a Houston writer observed, "Jim Carlen reminds one of the late Vince Lombardi, perhaps the greatest disciplinarian in football history."

"You can't honestly knock his idealistic approach, and you have to admire his guts for speaking out."

Carlen, entering his third year as football coach at Texas Tech, has shown no reluctance to speak his mind.

But aside from a confrontation last year with Tech fans, his vigorous, personalized recruiting program coupled with a hard set of rules attracted the most attention.

When his unbending guidelines were announced, a campus underground newspaper promptly labeled him "Morality Fats."

And, says Carlen, "I think a lot of recruiters from other schools have used it against us very openly and viciously."

On the other hand, he continues, when other coaches find a kid who favors such rules, they will sell those rules as if they were their own.

In the competitive arena of schoolboy recruiting, such matters are more than delicate.

"I don't want to have any foolish rules," Carlen said in an interview. "We have rules we think are basic."

"The rule most discussed against us is our church rule. 'I've never said a boy had to go to any church... I just think a youngster needs faith. I think it's one thing a lot of young people are missing right now."

"But if a kid tells me he's an atheist and his folks go along with it, I don't ever say another word."

"We advocate not drinking alcohol, taking drugs, smoking cigarettes—12 months a year. 'We have mandatory class attendance until a boy's a senior.'"

The rules' appeal to parents has been a positive recruiting tool, he said.

"I visit every home of every football player so I can meet the family," Carlen said. "And I give them our rules, which I guess are a little more stern than most rules. But most homes have tougher rules than we have. We just try to continue on."

Carlen approved SWC elimination of lavish entertainment of prospects, which "got really out of hand."

The high recruiting drama in the SWC comes in February on the eve of the first signing day.

Carlen confers by telephone through the night with his coaches at strategic areas around the state.

"If a coach says he needs me in his particular area, then I work it out with a private plane to get there ... but you can't be everywhere at 8 a.m., which is signing time."

ACC Will Appeal 800

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference has decided to appeal U.S. district judge's ruling which struck down its requirement that students score at least 800 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test to be eligible for intercollegiate athletics.

Faculty athletic representatives of the seven ACC schools decided during a telephone hookup Thursday to appeal to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

District Judge Robert Hemphill held in Columbia, S.C., Monday that the 800 rule denies athletes equal protection of the law since other students are not required to achieve that score. His ruling and order in the class action brought by two Clemson University students means that the schools cannot withhold grants-in-aid from athletes who fail to make the 800 cutoff.

In addition to the 800 score, the ACC has adhered to the requirement of the National College Athletic Association (NCAA) that athletes have at least a 1.4 projected grade average of a possible 4.0.

After 17 Frames, Still Deadlocked

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — After a long night's journey into today, the Chicago White Sox and Oakland A's settled nothing in the American League West race.

"I don't care how long the game lasts, as long as we win," said weary Sox Manager Chuck Tanner after the battle for first place that began Thursday night and was suspended early today at 3-3 after 17 innings.

"It will be sudden death," A's Manager Dick Williams said, looking ahead to the 18th inning, which will start tonight and be followed by the second game of the crucial series.

Elsewhere, Detroit remained one-half game ahead of Baltimore in the AL East despite a 1-0 loss to New York—the third-place Yankees are only two back—when Baltimore suffered a similar 1-0 setback at the hands of Milwaukee. California downed Minnesota 3-1 in the only other contest.

National League scores: Los Angeles 6, Cincinnati 2; Houston 9, Atlanta 6; Chicago 8, Montreal 0.

Pat Kelly put the Sox ahead 3-2 in the top of the 13th, leading off with a triple and scoring later on Bob Locker's wild pitch.

But the A's Angel Mangual, guilty of two throwing errors during Chicago's two-run second inning, hit a one-out double in the bottom of the 13th and scored on pinch hitter Gene Tenace's two-out single off Steve Kealey.

Both managers virtually depleted their supply of pitchers in the first 17 innings of the game, with Williams using eight and Tanner six. The A's used 21 of their available 23 players, all except pitchers Vida Blue and Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

Gary Waslewski was the seventh and last pitcher for Oakland Thursday night—John Odom played as a pinch runner—and Williams said he would probably be on the mound when the game resumed.

Hunter was scheduled to start for the A's in tonight's regularly scheduled game.

Tanner said Stan Bahnsen, originally scheduled to start Saturday, would be his 18th inning pitcher tonight.

Dave Lemonds will start the regular game.

Dick Allen of the White Sox will be the first batter up in the 18th tonight.

Allen is leading the league in home runs and runs batted in. The struggling Tigers suffered their sixth 1-0 defeat of the season when the Yankees pushed across a fourth-inning run against Joe Coleman on Bobby Murcer's double, an infield out and Johnny Callison's two-out infield hit and held on behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Kline and Sparky Lyle, who posted his 26th save.

Rookie Gary Ryerson scattered 10 hits and George Scott singled home a sixth-inning run as Milwaukee nipped Baltimore and ended the Orioles' four-game winning streak.

California's Rudy May tied the club record by striking out 16 Minnesota batters and the Angels snapped a 1-1 tie on successive second-inning homers by Andy Kosco and Ken McMullen off Ray Corbin to beat the Twins. Rick Renick homered for Minnesota.

May struck out the side in the first inning and fanned at least one man in every inning. He got Minnesota clean-up hitter Bobby Darwin four times.

Meanwhile, Gastonia starting pitcher gave up the winning runs in the three-run fifth as he walked three straight batters, forcing in a run, then two errors let the other runs in.

Richmond County centerfielder Paul Faulk was the only player to get more than one hit, as he slashed a single and a double in four trips.

Richmond Wins 1st

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Richmond County opened its quest for its first-ever North Carolina American Legion baseball title with an 8-1 victory over Gastonia Thursday night.

The second game of the best-of-seven series will be at Gastonia Friday night.

Richmond County lefthander Mike Hopkins scattered four hits and struck out 10 in running his record to 10-0. He walked only two batters.

Meanwhile, Gastonia starting pitcher gave up the winning runs in the three-run fifth as he walked three straight batters, forcing in a run, then two errors let the other runs in.

Richmond County centerfielder Paul Faulk was the only player to get more than one hit, as he slashed a single and a double in four trips.

Are Skirts Too Long?

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Happiness for 345 high-strung American athletes headed for the Olympics in Munich is more than winning medals. It's feeling comfortable—in this age of anything goes—in the confines of the official U.S. Olympic team dress uniform.

Some of the 106 women—the youngest is 14 years old—reportedly are complaining that their skirts are too long. Some of the 239 men for the first time will be forsaking knit pull-overs for the privilege of tugging at dress shirt collars and ties.

During the parade of nations on opening day Aug. 26, the girls will be marching behind the American flag in red blazers, white skirts, navy and white polka-dot shirts and white Gucci-type moccasins. The men, the oldest is 47, will be decked out in white blazers, red flared slacks, navy shirts, tricolor striped ties and white loafers.

"The biggest problem we'll have," said Barbara Seegers, in charge of clothing the women's team, "is if the girls try to roll up the waistbands of their skirts."

"We've been cutting them three to five inches above the knee—depending on how good their legs are. We can't make them any shorter because we have to have a decent proportion of skirt beneath the blazer."

Practice Rounds Help Armstrong

DENVER, N.C. (AP) — In the 10 days before the Winston-Salem Professional Golfers Association Section Tournament, Carroll Armstrong, pro from the Myers Park Country Club in Charlotte, could have been mistaken as the pro at the Westport Golf Club in Denver, where the $12,000 tournament is being played.

He drove up the 20 miles from Charlotte and practiced daily in an attempt to learn the deceptive par-71, 6,833-yard layout and to straighten out his game.

He vowed that if he did decide to compete, he would have whipped his sick game into shape and be "playing in the last group the last day."

He has done just that, and he tees off today in the final two-some as a co-leader.

He shot par 71 Thursday to go with his opening 68 for a 36-hole total of 139. He remained as one of the three leaders going into the last round of the 54-hole tournament. The winner will get $2,200.

Odell Massey of Burlington also matched par, although he said he had a miserable round, and added it to his opening 68 for a share of the lead.

Dave Robinson of Chapel Hill added a 69 to his 70 and became the third co-leader. He replaced Roger Watson of Cary near Raleigh, who had 40 on his front nine Thursday, struggled in with 75 for an aggregate of 115, and fell to a tie for ninth place.

There is also a three-way tie at 140, a stroke behind the co-leaders. It is among touring pro Brad Anderson of Charlotte, the 1970 Carolina PGA winner; Gene Thompson of Salisbury, winner of last month's Carolina Open, who had a 67 Thursday, best score of the tournament, and Bob Bruno, director of golf at the Pinehurst Country Club. Their rounds are Anderson 69-71; Thompson 73-67; Bruno 71-69.

SMALL BIG TRIPLE

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — The trotters in Roosevelt Raceway's annual international race ran just the way the public supported them in the betting.

Howard Beissinger drove Speedy Crown to a sixth straight victory, Joe O'Brien finished second with Fresh Yankee and George Sholtz came home third with Flower Child. The result in the one-two-three big triple brought a $13.60 return for $2—lowest triple of the season in the east.

Plan Expansion Of Greene Plant

SNOW HILL — Officials of J.P. Stevens and Co. announced an immediate expansion of the Greene County plant that will more than double the present production capacity.

The company reported that the expansion, in excess of $1 million, will involve construction of a 45,000 square foot warehouse and an enlargement of the drapery fabrication operations.

E.H. Fuller, general manager of the Roanoke Rapids Group of Steven Domestic and Allied Products Division, said the addition of the warehouse space will enable the Greene facility to be used entirely for manufacturing and increase employment at maximum production from 285 to 400.

The building, he said, would be of fabricated metal construction and would provide for high density storage with 28 foot clearance. The new structure will be built alongside the present plant. Improved parking facilities are also included in the expansions, he added. Daniel Construction Co. is contractor for the project and completion is expected by Dec. 1, Fuller asserted.

The general manager reported that payroll at the plant has grown to $1.5 million annually and is expected to increase to $2.5 million with the new addition.

Famous Villa Is Being Restored

PALERMO, Italy (UPI)—The Villa Palagonia at Bagheria here, famous for its "monsters," statues of gnomes, dwarfs, animals and giants, is scheduled for restoration. The villa was built in the early part of the 18th century by architect Tommaso Mario Napoli. Restoration, which also would include creation of direct road links between Palagonia and the other famous villas of Bagheria, will cost an estimated $3.5 million.

The oldest public building in California is the Old Customs House in Monterey, in 1846 the scene of the first raising of the American flag over the Western Territory.

The general manager reported that payroll at the plant has grown to $1.5 million annually and is expected to increase to $2.5 million with the new addition.

PAST AND PRESENT: the herdman, his camel grazing within sight of oil refinery burning off surplus gas.

Ancient Persia—modern Iran: a fascinating mix of past and present. The monarchy celebrated a 2,500th birthday last year but civilization's beginnings in the area go back into pre-history. Now, with unrivaled zest, Iran is catapulting herself into the modern world. Money to pay for progress and revolutionary social change flows from the Persian Gulf oilfields: Iran has enormous reserves, is the largest producer in the Middle East and the fourth largest in the world. The country has always been a crossroads of history, a bridge between Asia, the Mediterranean and Europe, Islamic since the 7th century. Two thirds of the 30 million population still inhabit rural areas and include nomadic tribesmen whose lives wander along traditional paths. But more and more the rest of the country's transformation into a 20th century industrialized state is reaching all levels of the population, and the changes are going wide as well as deep.

Photographed by Horst Faas.

Columns still stand proudly above ruins of ancient Persepolis, once a capital.

Modern Turkoman rides the new way...

Roads are being widened, but there's still plenty of traditional traffic.

Iran's new industrial landscape is formed of refineries like this one at Abadan.

Truck parks and trucks replace caravans and camels along old trade routes.

A new town grows in the desert to house workers at the Aryamehr steel mill.

... young Iranian boys ride the old way.

Nomad tribesmen camp for a few days while their herds graze near a stream.

The Worry Clinic Chickenhearts A Real Threat

Readers, how would you vote if Russia gave that "Red or Dead" ultimatum to President Nixon? God disdains cowards! So when Moses was confronted by a chickenhearted majority, God forced those cowards to spend 40 years in the Wilderness till they died off.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case S-566: Rev. Benjamin recently invited me to occupy his pulpit.

"Dr. Crane," he said at dinner following the service, "I used to be a Navy Chaplain.

"So I have been greatly disturbed by the gradual breakdown of our morals and even our patriotic stamina.

"For instance, one of our foremost military leaders says it is quite likely that Russia may deliver an ultimatum within the next 5 years.

"And it will be a demand for our immediate total surrender or else the Communists will threaten to release missiles now focussed on our major industrial cities.

"Well, Dr. Crane, it isn't their bombs that I really worry about. "Instead, it is the reaction of our American city dwellers if that crisis should occur!

"Since in 8 of the 12 colleges where youth were recently surveyed on this question, they meekly urged total surrender without our firing a shot in our own defense, is that to be construed as the attitude of all our urban centers, too?

"Would they then put so much instant pressure on Congress of the 'Better Red than Dead' variety, that our Republic would be finished?"

Red Or Dead?
This popular slogan, linked especially with New York City, suggests its urban residents would actually vote for "Red" vs. "Dead."

But that illustrates the "Either-Or" fallacy in logic. Most Americans would neither be forced to become Red or Dead!

We would, instead, be alive and free Americans, despite Russia's bombs!

When Hitler likewise threatened to invade England, you remember the courageous reply by Winston Churchill.

He said the British would fight invaders every inch of the way with every lethal object they could find.

Despite the predicted annihilation of London via the superior German Air Force, London survived!

People soon adjusted to the bombing and went on about their business, much as usual.

It is this invincible spirit that can far offset all propaganda about the terrible danger of a Third World War.

Even if Russia hit a number of our largest urban centers, we'd have her major cities wiped out meanwhile.

Suppose Communistic bombing killed or wounded even 50 million Americans!

That would still leave us 150 million able bodied survivors!

Communists relish using what we call the "scare psychology," which is the typical strategy of bluffers.
When Khrushchev thus got intoxicated with his own boasting and threatening with bombing from Cuba, you may recall how quickly John F. Kennedy cut him down to size.
For President Kennedy warned that we'd not bother about the arms of an octopus but would blast the body thereof, namely, Moscow!
Khrushchev then was demoted and sent into oblivion!
So it isn't Russia we need fear but chickenhearted Americans at home who would rather be slaves than free men!

Spaying Program Is Sponsored In Pitt

A spaying program for cats and dogs in Pitt County has been sponsored by Friends of Animals, Inc. of New York City through its voluntary representative, Miss Evelyn Beasley of Greenville.

A charter member of the Pitt County Humane Society, Miss Beasley will serve as a contact person in this project to assist in controlling overbreeding of pets that become homeless and add to the burden of control of stray animals in the city and county. Friends of Animals Inc. subsidizes this program by giving financial assistance to animal owners who need help in having their pets altered or spayed. The basic purpose of the program is to reduce the rising surplus of unwanted puppies and kittens, said to amount to 25 million stray animals in this country.

"It is everyone's humane duty to assist in this program," Miss Beasley said.
All persons interested in either helping with the program or using it to have one of their own pets spayed should contact Miss Beasley by mail at 2414 Umstead Avenue, Greenville. Instructions and applications will be sent by return mail or she will contact anyone who sends a postcard with his telephone number on it.
