

GOP Intensifies Its McGovern Criticism

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Preliminaries for next week's Republican convention are turning into a forum for attacks on Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and mark the opening stages in the battle for control of the GOP in 1976.

A floor fight over the shape of the 1976 convention was assured Thursday when the Republican National Committee approved a delegate allotment plan supported by GOP leaders and party conservatives that favors the smaller, more solid Republican states.

Party moderates, claiming states likely to back Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for the 1967 Republican presidential nomination favor the plan, hope to reverse the action at next week's convention. Even if they fail, the plan is sure to be challenged in the federal courts.

The final public session of the Platform Committee produced a sharp attack by William Ruckelshaus, the Nixon administration's environmental chief, on McGovern's antipollution proposals.

Other Republicans fired a steady barrage of criticism at the Democratic nominee for sending former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger to determine whether the North Vietnamese still planned to hold all U.S. prisoners until the Vietnam war ends.

"His meddling is reckless," declared Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado. "Shocking and an absolute outrage," said Michigan's Sen. Robert P. Griffin.

Their criticism and a White House statement that the Salinger mission could jeopardize the peace talks were countered quickly by the campaigning McGovern.

In Racine, Wis., the South Dakota senator said that hopes for any serious peace talks are being jeopardized by what he termed "a highly publicized global junket" by national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger on the eve of the GOP convention.

The major unfinished business of convention preliminaries was drafting a platform for Republicans to run on this fall.

First installments due out today were to deal with military and foreign policy and were expected to praise Nixon's winding-down of the Vietnam war and to pledge a cease-fire in Indochina once all U.S. prisoners are freed.

Rep. Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts, a member of a subcommittee working on a women's rights plank, said, "there wasn't even much discussion" of a proposal to urging repeal of laws against abortion.

The abortion issue still could be raised on the floor next Tuesday by any delegate, but it would take the majority of six delegations to force a roll-call on that or any issue.

Sufficient votes do seem available to force a roll-call vote on the reapportionment plan. Opponents of the plan approved on a voice vote by the national committee are mostly from large, urban states. They see a better chance of overturning it in the full convention than in the committee where

House OKs Anti-Busing Bill Beyond Nixon Wish

WASHINGTON (AP) — Going even beyond President Nixon's request, the House has voted to ban cross-town busing and to allow the new curbs applied to old court orders for desegregation.

Concluding a 12-hour session early today, the House passed the antibusing bill by a 282-102 vote. The measure now goes to the Senate, where it may die in inaction.

The bill would:

- Prohibit busing except as the last resort for desegregation. Even as a last resort, a child could not be bused farther than the second-closest school to his home.
- Permit school districts already under desegregation orders to petition a court to reopen the case and modify the orders to meet the new restrictions. Most such orders involve Southern schools.

Atty. Gen. Richard H. Kleindienst has said all desegregation orders could be reconsidered—not just those involving busing.

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., who proposed a similar reopener clause, said it could result in reconsideration of orders dating back to the landmark 1954 Supreme Court decision that struck down "separate-but-equal" facilities for blacks and whites.

Nixon's original proposal would have allowed cross-town busing—that is, busing past the two closest schools—of junior- and high-school students if nothing else could bring about desegregation.

It carried the clause allowing extension of the new curbs to old cases. But that provision had been removed by the House Education Committee.

Nixon's backers said the House ban against cross-town busing threatens Supreme Court invalidation of the entire bill—if it gets through the Senate.

But Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., author of the amendment that wrote both the cross-town-busing ban and the reopener clauses into the bill, scoffed at assertions that she had made it unconstitutional.

No Hints About Kissinger Talks

TOKYO (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Tokyo tonight after two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon. There was no hint of what they had told each other.

The presidential adviser will discuss with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and Foreign Minister Ohira Saturday the U.S.-Japanese summit meeting scheduled later this month in Honolulu. Then he will fly home to report to President Nixon at Camp David.

Brief statements issued by the U.S. Embassy and by Thieu's office said the nearly six hours of talks had dealt with the "general situation" in Vietnam and the peace negotiations in Paris.

If there were any significant disagreements between Kissinger and the South Vietnamese, they were not revealed by the statements, even though they were issued separately. But the total time consumed by the secrecy-cloaked talks heightened speculation that new peace proposals had been carefully explored during the two days of meetings.

of marijuana with intent to distribute. Her bond was set at $5,000 while bond for the other seven defendants was placed at $2,500.

Hearing of the cases was set for September 11 in District Court.

SBI agents held warrants for Eatmon and Barnes. Eatmon, whose bond in the Wilson cases was set at $30,000, was charged with possession and distribution of LSD and marijuana, while Barnes, whose bond was placed at $20,000 was charged with possession and sale of marijuana in Wilson.

In addition to the marijuana, heroin and other drugs, officers found cookers and syringes used to "shoot" heroin in the house.

ECU Receives $20,000 From NSF To Purchase Planetarium Equipment

A grant of $20,000 has been awarded the East Carolina University Department of Science Education by the National Science Foundation to assist in equipping ECU's proposed planetarium.

The grant to ECU is earmarked for the purchase of scientific equipment needed to improve undergraduate instruction.

The planetarium is to be constructed on the ECU campus when all the necessary funds are raised, according to Dr. Floyd Mattheis, chairman of science education at ECU.

The planetarium project was initiated at ECU in March, 1970, when the American Credit Corporation of Charlotte donated $100,000. Since then, various awards and private donations from alumni and local business concerns have been collected in order to reach the total of $300,000 needed to construct the planetarium.

NSF awarded ECU one of the largest single scientific equipment grants given this year. In a project proposal submitted to NSF by Dr. Mattheis, the proposed planetarium was cited as "an asset to the entire community" as well as a focal point for astronomy classes at ECU.

The basic plan includes purchase of a 16-inch telescope and planetarium to improve the present curriculum in the areas of astronomy and space science. An auxiliary problem involves having a building to install instructional equipment.

The telescope will be used as a focal point for the laboratory activities in astronomy. Students will have small telescopes to use for these courses, but the larger telescope will be used to make observations and measurements that cannot be made with the smaller instruments. The large telescope will also be used as a demonstration instrument.

Memorial Gifts Build Resources Of Boys Club

By JERRY RAYNOR

Substantial assistance in the form of memorial funds has been received within recent months by the Boys' Club of Greenville-Pitt County.

Early this spring, memorial gifts in the amount of approximately $400 were on hand, earmarked to help make annual payments on the building, the former West Greenville Presbyterian Church on Skinner Street.

Following the accidental death on June 17 of executive director David Wilcox, Greenville citizens and firms contributed $2,422 to a David Wilcox Memorial Fund. Other memorial gifts were also received as memoriums to Judson H. Blount, Sr., Boyd Huff and M. Moye Dail, bringing the total to $2,725.

Within recent weeks, Mrs. Judy Wilcox of Raleigh, former wife of the late director, has made significant contributions to the David Wilcox Memorial Fund.

Mrs. Wilcox a few weeks ago contributed $2,000 to the fund, and on Thursday presented a check for $8,000 to Austin Britt, president of the Boys' Club. In addition to the $10,000 contribution, Mrs. Wilcox has also pledged $1,000 annually to the memorial fund for the next three years.

"We are deeply grateful to Judy for the concern she has shown for the work being carried out in the Boys' Club," Britt stated. "Her generous gifts and those of others have made it possible for the club to be in a position to see the way to retire the outstanding balance of payments due on the building."

Britt said the memorial funds are invested in interest bearing certificates to be used to retire the yearly notes due for the next two years.

Britt, also noted that when

Anticipate Arrests Of 'Demonstrators'

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Convention protesters plan to greet the Republican party next week with marches, sit-ins and civil disobedience — some of which is designed to end in arrests.

Everything is supposed to be nonviolent, but police and protest organizers are concerned that things could get out of hand. At least one group says flatly it is not interested in civil disobedience and will adopt more forceful tactics.

"No one thinks we are going to stop the convention," said Marty Feinwider of the Miami Conventions Coalition. "But we will register our protest to Richard Nixon and all he stands for by our willingness to be arrested in large numbers."

Police say they expect about 3,500 protesters to be on hand when the GOP convenes Monday. About 3,000 demonstrators assembled last month during the Democratic National Convention.

Arrayed against the protesters will be 1,150 policemen, 2,500 Army and Marine troops, 3,000 National Guardsmen and 2,000 Secret Service, FBI and military intelligence agents.

Some ground rules for the street action have been laid out in meetings between police and the Conventions Coalition, an umbrella organization set up to coordinate the protests. The rules say there will be no assaults on police, no destruction of property and no demonstrations in the residential area near Convention Hall where many of the city's older-citizens live.

"They say they are going to be nonviolent, and I believe it of most of the leaders and most of the people," said Police Chief Rocky Pomerance in an interview. "But mixed in with them are always a couple of crazies, the same kind of people who start trouble at rock concerts."

Keeping things nonviolent, even in a mass arrests situation, is a major concern of protest organizers.

"We don't want the issues, Nixon and the war, eclipsed by what we do," said Yippie leader Jeff Nightbyrd. "We are willing to put our bodies on the line, but violence would only shift the focus off what we are really trying to do."

Miss Wendy Karen Cox Is Bride

OLD FORD — Miss Wendy Karen Cox and William Steven Woolard were united in marriage Saturday, at two o'clock in the afternoon in Old Ford Church of Christ. The pastor, Jack Mays, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Milton Cox of Washington, and Mrs. Henry Stewart Woolard and the late Mr. Woolard, also of this city.

Before the bride entered the church, organist, Mrs. Joyce Harris, played a program of wedding music. Timothy Hutchinson was trumpeter. Soloist, Mrs. Linda Hutchinson, sang "One Hand, One Heart" and the "Lord's Prayer" as benediction.

Church decorations featured white tapers in a single spiral candelabra which flanked twin baskets of white gladioli and mums. A kneeling bench placed near the altar was arranged with fern and palms. White satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a formal gown of imported silkened candlelight organza designed by Priscilla of Boston. The gown featured a portrait neckline, short puffed sleeves, an empire waistline and A-line skirt. Re-embroidered alencon lace appliques on English net marked the front of the gown and was featured on the bodice and sleeves. The bottom of the skirt was fashioned with a row of matching embroidery which ended in a scalloped hemline, and a cathedral train was fastened at the waistline with a large bow encrusted with bridal pearls.

The bride's three tiered veil of silk illusion was attached to a Camelot headpiece of re-embroidered alencon candlelight lace enhanced on one side with three tiny pink rosebuds and candlelight streamers. She carried a nosegay of white roses with pink gypsophelia and white satin streamers tied with love knots.

Miss Becky Adams of Washington attended the bride as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Wanda Cox of Washington, Miss Gail Gladson of Greenville, Miss Terre James of Leesburg, Fla., all cousins of the bride, and Miss Janet Woolard of Washington.

The honor attendant wore a Priscilla of Boston gown of imported silkened orchid organza fashioned with a portrait neckline, doll sleeves and empire waistline. The A-line skirt featured a deep flounced hemline trimmed with a floral braid in shades of pink and orchid. A matching picture hat accented with an orchid tulle train attached to the brim with a pink rosebud complimented her outfit. She carried a colonial nosegay of purple pom poms with gypsophelia and purple streamers tied with love knots.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Milton Cox, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception at the Holiday Inn of Washington immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cox introduced the receiving line, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cronin invited guests to sign the bride's book which was placed on a table and accented with a single candelabra and the bridal bouquet. A formal portrait of the bride was also featured on the table.

The bride's table was covered with a nylon organza lace cloth over a pink floor length organza skirt, featuring pink ribbon along the edge of the table and pink bows at the corners. A five tiered wedding cake centered the table. Twin silver candelabra holding mixed flowers surrounded by burning tapers flanked the wedding cake.

Cake was served to the guests by Mrs. Ennis James and Mrs. Jasper Gladson. Mrs. Steve Libick and Mrs. Joseph Hodges, Jr. poured punch.

Assisting throughout the reception area were: Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cox; Mr. and Mrs. David Cox; Mrs. Clifton Toler, Sr.; and Marian and Elizabeth Woolard; Corrine Cutler; and Chris Hamilton.

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
1 cup corn flake crumbs
1/2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon tabasco
1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk

Wash and dry the chicken. In a pie plate mix together the corn flake crumbs, salt and paprika. In another pie plate stir together the mustard, vinegar, Worcestershire and tabasco; stir in evaporated milk. Line a jelly-roll pan (15 by 10 by 1 inch) with foil. Dip chicken pieces in evaporated milk mixture, then roll at once in seasoned crumbs. Place chicken, skin side up, on prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until tender—about 1 hour. No need to cover or turn chicken while it is baking. Makes 4 servings.

A Tax Against Public Interest

Raleigh-Durham Airport Authority has joined a growing number of commercial airports which has approved a boarding tax for use of the airport. The Authority voted to impose a $2 tax effective Sept. 1.

Wherever this tax has been tried it has proven controversial and an attempt is now being made in Congress to prohibit such airport taxes for the next 18 months.

No doubt Airport Authorities in all areas which operate facilities for commercial aircraft are greatly tempted to impose such a tax as an easy way to finance improvements.

It should be remembered however, that citizens in the airport areas are already paying taxes for airport improvements and citizens who come from outside the areas are also paying through the vast federal grants which are made for airport construction.

The argument is usually heard that property owners in the counties which own the airports are having to pay for the improvements which are used by people from other areas. It should be noted that a good commercial airport is a great asset in community development.

In Raleigh-Durham's case a service is being furnished to many people in the east in exchange for their visits to the area and the money they spend while there. Raleigh may as well consider a riding tax on visitors who use municipal streets as to tax them for boarding aircraft at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

These airport boarding taxes are not in the public interest. Local authorities should resist imposing them and Congress should enact legislation which would prohibit them.

New Thinking In Corrections

By BYRAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Troubled young people and young people in trouble need a chance to make it in the community where they live.

They need someone to listen to them, someone to guide them, and someone to give them understanding and love, said James M. Paige, state youth development commissioner.

"You don't solve a problem by physically removing the person from the place where the problem is... When he classroom time, and less on farm work.

No Bad Boys and Girls "My philosophy is that we don't have any bad boys and girls," said Paige. "We have boys and girls who need a chance."

The key is a well-ground rapport between youth and adults, he said. It is gained through listening, flexibility, and a positive attitude, he added.

"Young people want you to take a stand. They want you to correct them when they need it. They want to know you love them."

What the training schools cannot achieve needs to be clearly seen, but it's erroneous to call them a failure or expect all of them to be closed, Paige said.

"They have done an adequate job with the facilities they had. Much good work has been done by many dedicated staff members. There are many good programs in the department," he said.

Population Trend Down While the community-based approach would reduce training school population, some of them will remain for the hostile, aggressive group who would be disruptive in the community, Paige pointed out.

The trend already is down. The system was budgeted for 2,141 inmates this fiscal year; this month, the figure is 1,368.

Three broad areas are envisioned in the community-based concept. Paige described them as half-way houses, foster homes, and youth service bureaus. The first two would meet the needs of those without a suitable home environment.

The half-way house would be residential, geared to those old enough to be on their own. Counseling and guidance services would be available. If still in school, they would go to community public schools.

Foster homes would be provided for those under 12, to give them surrogate parents for the formative years.

The youth service bureau would serve young people living at home, directing them to agencies and sources of help within the community.

The youth service bureau would serve young people living at home, directing them to agencies and sources of help within the community.

The youth development department needs legislation to involve it in pre-delinquent and after care programs, Paige noted. At present, it must accept and can only accept those adjudicated delinquent by the courts.

Some Tar Heel cities have made a start with community-based youth programs. The advantages must be extended statewide, Paige said, to leave out none simply because he is from a poor or rural county.

A Progressive Vote In Farmville Bond Vote

Farmville has taken a progressive step in approving $150,000 in bonds for water system improvements. With federal and state grants the bonds will provide $388,300 in work, including two new wells and a half million gallon storage tank.

The improvements are expected to handle the water needs of Farmville for the next ten years.

Maintaining an adequate water supply is essential to a growing community. Farmville citizens have shown they recognize this need by overwhelmingly approving the water system improvement bonds.

Move To Shape GOP's Course

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MIAMI BEACH — The shrouded attempt by the Nixon White House to shape the Republican course in the post-Nixon years was exposed Monday night when Rep. Jack Kemp, a freshman conservative from upstate New York, suddenly and surprisingly appeared at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

His appearance was surprising because he had cancelled out that day as a pro-reform witness before the Republican rules committee, pleading the press of duties in Washington. It was sudden because Kemp had planned to be in Washington that night playing in the annual Congressional baseball game.

Instead, Kemp was summoned, along with Sen. John Tower of Texas, from Washington to Miami Beach to be briefed on a new allocation formula for delegates to the 1976 convention which would benefit the conservative South and West and hurt the liberal Northeast. That plan had been secretly drafted Monday by conservative state party leaders, with covert help from Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew's staff (and President Nixon's own operatives as interested observers). It was unveiled the next morning by Tower and Kemp as "the Miami compromise."

The selection of a New Yorker as a co-sponsor attempted to undercut a rival allocation scheme backed by the New York Republican party. Moreover, Kemp is on intimate terms with the White House and particularly Herbert Klein, the Nixon administration's propaganda chief.

Thus, Kemp's sudden intervention was a signal from the White House that it favors the conservative delegation formula but does not yet openly support it.

Preoccupation here over 1976 stems from heavy Republican confidence regarding 1972 and Agnew's probable bid for the Presidential succession. It was first thought the struggle here would center on McGovern-style delegate reforms attempting to pack the 1976 convention with anti-Agnew blacks and youths.

When it became clear Republicans would never swallow a McGovernite quota system, the focus turned to the new delegate allocation formula for 1976 required by Federal court order. A formula devised by party leaders from New York, Michigan, Minnesota and Rhode Island would make the 1976 convention larger and more liberal than any in the party's history.

Accordingly, Agnew's lieutenants were deeply involved in preparing, as an alternative, the Tower-Kemp plan.

But the fight transcends Agnew. One conservative state chairman vigorously pushing the Tower-Kemp formula told us he does not consider Agnew electable in 1976 and would prefer somebody else. Nevertheless, he bitterly opposes any leftward shift in the power balance.

That is not far from private views by Nixon campaign advisers. They fear any

Hurts Rent-A-Gun Plan

WASHINGTON — The Senate passed a new gun-control bill last week, which some observers consider worse than no bill at all. Any serious attempt at handgun registration was gutted, and Senate gun-lovers even managed to repeal a 1968 gun law controlling the purchase of .22 ammunition.

After the Senate got finished with its work on the gun-control bill, I received a telephone call from my friend

Bromley Hurts who told me he had a business proposition to discuss with me. I met him for lunch at a pistol range in Maryland.

"I think I've got a fantastic idea," he said. "I want to start a new business called 'Hurts Rent-A-Gun.'"

"What on earth for?" I asked. "There are a lot of people in this country who only use a handgun once or twice a year, and they don't want to go to all the expense of buying one. So we'll rent them a gun for a day or two. By leasing a firearm from us, they won't have to tie up all their money."

"That makes sense," I admitted.

"Say a guy is away from home on a trip, and he doesn't want to carry his own gun with him. He can rent a gun from us and then return it when he's finished with his business."

"You could set up rent-a-gun counters at gas stations," I said excitedly.

"And we could have stores in town where someone could rent a gun to settle a bet," Hurts said.

"A lot of people would want to rent a gun for a domestic quarrel," I said.

"Right. Say a jealous husband suspects there is someone at home with his wife. He rents a pistol from us and tries to catch them in the act. If he discovers his wife is alone, he isn't out the $80 it would have cost him to buy a gun."

"Don't forget about kids who want to play Russian roulette. They could pool their allowances and rent a gun for a couple of hours," I said.

"Our market surveys indicate," Hurts said, "that there are also a lot of kids who claim their parents don't listen to them. If they could rent a gun, they feel they could arrive at an understanding with their folks in no time."

"There's no end to the business," I said. "How would you charge for Hurts Rent-A-Gun?"

Other Editors Say Japanese Success

(Jacksonville Daily News)

True or false? Japan has made spectacular inroads into the U.S. and other markets because: Labor is cheap; Japanese manufacturers "dump" their products at low prices; the Japanese copy foreign products; productivity is high, and the Japanese are obsessed with selling abroad.

If you answered "true" to all these points, you scored zero, says Business Europe, a weekly news publication of Business International Corp., a New York-based research, publishing and advisory organization.

Labor. According to BI research, direct labor rates in most Japanese industries are on a par with those in most Western European countries and are advancing more rapidly. Many countries have lower wages than Japan.

Dumping. Isolated instances have occurred, but this cannot account for Japanese success in world markets.

Exports. Next to the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A., Japanese export constitute a lower percentage of Gross National Product (less than 10 per cent in 1971) than any other industrially advanced country.

Copying. Japan has sought to gain maximum advantage in licensing abroad, but so has everybody else.

Productivity. While gaining faster than in Europe, in overall terms Japanese productivity is lower than the level of Western European countries.

So what accounts for Japan's success? For one thing, high-quality products aimed at quality-conscious consumers, says Business International.

Toyota cars, for example, are selling in Europe at substantially higher prices than equivalent European models. Radios, TV sets, cameras and watches are also listed among higher-priced quality Japanese products.

Other factors include strong achievement motivation on the part of Japanese workers, strict quality control and on-time delivery.

An understanding of these things, says Business International, "must be the root of any purposeful, positive response to the Japanese challenge."

A Big Career Looms

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There is some gossip that Jimmy Caan may be slated by Hollywood for a buildup as a new male sex symbol.

"That would be nice, wouldn't it?" said the 6-foot strawberry blond actor, then added mockingly: "But I'd have to start eating more Vitamin E and get more colorful underwear."

Whether or not he becomes another Clark Gable, Caan — after a hit role in television and then one in the movies — is on the springboard to a big film career. He won wide critical favor with his portrayal of a football hero in the ABC television picture, "Brian's Song," and also as Sonny Corleone, the fiery elder son of Marlon

HAL BOYLE

Brando in the smash financial success, "The Godfather."

Jimmy was slated early in life to become a businessman like his father, a Bronx meat dealer. To please his parents, he studied economics and business management at Michigan State and Hofstra College before he decided he had to follow his own high school dream of becoming an actor.

"I think acting is an art form and I like to treat it that way," he says. "I try not to take myself too seriously, but I take acting very seriously."

Caan made his Broadway debut in "Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole," a drama in which he understudied five roles.

Caan thinks life should be a mixture of laughter and achievement. His philosophy is that of the old Persian poet who wrote, "Unborn yesterday, dead tomorrow, why fret about them if today be sweet?"

He believes his best virtue is that, "I treat everybody with respect, and I don't go out of my way to hurt anybody."

"My worst fault is that I don't want anyone to dislike me. So I bend over backward to please bastards, and this can get you in a trap."

Here are Jimmy's likes: "Friends more than anything

Smashing of the atoms of lead; second heaviest metal; with the new high power German X-ray tube was described in detail today by two young scientists: Arno Brasch and Fritz Lange; who said they believe they are close to solution of the long sought secret of the constitution of the matter itself.

After a vacation of slightly over two weeks; county court resumed regular weekly session in Greenville this morning. A docket composed of forty cases or more was to be considered and the session was expected to consume the entire day and part of tomorrow.

Playing at the State Theatre tonight is Constance Bennett in "Son of Oklahoma".

Strength For Today

THE OLD AND THE NEW

On a square, brick building in a midwestern town these words are built into the outside wall: A.J. Smith, 1881, Livery Stable. On the first floor of the building were two stores, one selling TV sets and the other high-priced automobiles.

Eighteen hundred and eighty-one to nineteen hundred and seventy-two—from a livery stable to a building engaged in the sale and distribution of the most modern types of merchandise. The masthead of the old days was still prominently displayed, but so was the adaptation to new conditions and demands as set forth in the two modern stores on the first floor.

Happy life consists in the capacity to accommodate one's self to anew conditions and circumstances. Too much adaptation and one has compromise; too little, and one has stagnation and death. Anyone who would have persisted in the livery stable business and harness-making and trying to sell in the face of the growing demand for automobiles would have been foolish indeed. Anyone who would have thrown up his hands and given up before the onrush of modern modes would have been even more foolish. Yet thousands of people who plunged into the automobile business in the early days went broke.

The right thing at the right time. Balance does it. A.J. Smith, whoever he was; taught his descendants how to turn livery stables into modern; well-equipped stores.

Greater Demand For The Dollar

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — International economists say the tremendous strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets over the past two days indicates that funds from overseas are pouring into the United States.

"This could be the most important week of the year for the dollar," said William Wolman, vice president and economist for Argus Research. "I think the dollars are coming back and the higher prices for the dollar are proof everybody is buying."

However, the greater demand for the dollar overseas is not all good news for the United States. It could lead to higher interest rates on short-term loans.

European reports on dollar sales volume Wednesday ranged from "massive" in Germany to "very strong" in London.

The gain in the dollar price meant that other currencies went down. The most notable loss was in the German mark. It closed at 31.35 cents, down from 31.395 in the previous day. The pound, up a little, was the only major currency to gain more than the dollar. The French franc sank to its lowest figure in eight months.

Why is the dollar coming back this way? Money men say that three factors are interacting to drive up the European quotations for dollars. —Henry Kissinger's latest trip to Southeast Asia, which some interpret as indicating that peace is nearer.

—The improved figures on the U.S. balance of payments, announced earlier in the week.

—Inflation is growing more rapidly in Europe than in the United States.

Inflation overseas means that the dollar is now a better investment than some domestic currencies, so capital is being put into dollars as a hedge.

The reason that an inflow of dollars may result in higher interest rates for Americans is one of those paradoxical features of international finance. What happens is this: The U.S. government has been financing some of its expenses by borrowing, in effect, from foreign central banks which have a dollar surplus. They have bought treasury bills, short-term IOUs, with their dollars.

Now, with their dollars being bought by overseas investors and sent to the United States, these banks will not be buying the treasury bills. That means the U.S. government will have to sell bills to U.S. citizens and institutions. To do this, it will have to raise interest rates to compete with private borrowers. This rise in rates will cause a corresponding rise in rates charged to these private borrowers.

In other words, the government will compete for the U.S. investment dollar, and competition will result in the higher interest levels.

Priest Goes To Bat For Office Secretaries

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: To recap an interesting letter in the Cleveland Plain Dealer: A receptionist in a large business office failed to recognize a valued customer because he wasn't dressed as he usually was, so her boss chastised her, causing her to spend the weekend in bed with a migraine.

Console the poor lady! Nuns who wear Sears dresses or "contemporary pastels" must now produce identification when they request "Discounts to religious" while shopping. Clergymen who insist on walking about in casual mufti cannot complain when they're herded like hoi polloi; they also must produce identification for "clergy discounts."

The moral is: If the customer is so valued and esteemed, but dresses in a manner not associated with his august presence, he should be prepared to identify himself and not expect hardworking secretaries to discern his invisible "Roman collar."

Gen. Montgomery, and every general since Napoleon, wore a peculiar noggin-piece to avoid being accidentally shot by one of his own men, as was Stonewall Jackson, and more recently an Israeli general.

Accidents, as befell the poor secretary, do happen. Most understanding persons smile thru the discomfiture of not being instantly recognized. Bob Hope does. Sincerely,
FATHER LIEDERBACH, CLEVELAND

DEAR FATHER: Bob Hope's most readily identifying feature is as instantly recognized as a general's noggin-piece. Everyone "nose" Hope.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago my 18-year-old daughter moved out of the house, announcing that she was taking a job and renting a room.

At that time her 14-year-old sister moved into her room, after working for three days to clean it up.

Two weeks later the 18-year-old came home and demanded her own room back, so naturally she got it.

Now the 14-year-old is heartbroken. Who was right?

MOTHER OF BOTH

DEAR MOTHER: Not the 18-year-old. Why did she "naturally" get it? In the interest of fair play, you should not have permitted the younger girl to be moved out.

"There would be hourly rates, day rates and weekly rates, plus 10 cents for each bullet fired. Our guns would be the latest models, and we would guarantee clean barrels and the latest safety devices. If a gun malfunctions through no fault of the user, we will give him another gun absolutely free."

"For many Americans it's a dream come true," I said. "We've also made it possible for people to return the gun in another town. For example, if you rent the gun in Chicago and want to use it in Salt Lake City, you can drop it off there at no extra charge."

"Why didn't you start this before?"

"We wanted to see what happened with the gun-control legislation. We were pretty sure the Senate and the White House would not do anything about strong gun control, especially during an election year. But we didn't want to invest a lot of money until we were certain they would all chicken out."

"I'd like the franchise for Washington's National Airport," I said.

"You've got it. It's a great location," Hurts said. "You'll make a fortune in hijackings alone."

delegate formula leading to nomination of a liberal who could provoke a disastrous third-party bid by conservative Republicans. At this writing, Nixon campaign aide Harry Flemming is only a very sympathetic observer. But Mr. Nixon might yet decisively and openly endorse the Towe-Kemp formula.

Barring such intervention, the battle over the party's future will go to the convention floor. Without such intervention this week, the party's old ideological animosities surfaced for the first time since 1968.

Even Mr. Nixon's new alliance with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York was shaken a little. Rockefeller's state chairman, Charles T. Lanigan, was put out by Kemp's use by Nixon-Agnew forces. When Lanigan objected to calling the Tower-Kemp formula "the Miami compromise," Tower replied that name was suggested by Kemp, a former pro football quarterback. "He's known to be clever at the hidden ball play," an unsmiling Lanigan replied.

Maneuverings for 1976 multiplied. Republican national committeewoman Cecil Harden of Indiana, a member of the rules subcommittee considering delegate allocations, was inclined to the Tower-Kemp formula. She promptly was urged by Indiana national committeeman Keith Bulen to oppose it. The reason: Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, a 1976 dark horse possibility, would benefit from a larger, more liberal convention.

Such maneuverings are possible because the Nixon intervention has been indirect. What's more, Mr. Nixon seems to care less about all this than his political aides. These aides were privately denigrating a McGovern-style commission to consider future delegate reforms. Less than 24 hours later, the President endorsed a Congressional group's reform package containing just such a commission. That's not the message from the White House the President's men here were trying to convey.

Fischer, Spassky Play To Draw In 15th Game

REYKJAVIK, Iceland. (AP)—The 15th game of the world chess championship between challenger Bobby Fischer and champion Boris Spassky ended in a draw today, less than 30 seconds after it resumed. The two had played through 40 moves Thursday.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky resume their 15th game in the world championship today with one expert predicting a draw and another saying Fischer had the upper hand.

Leading in the match 8½-5½, Fischer needs only four more points to win the title, and Spassky needs another seven to keep it. A win counts a full point and a draw counts a half. Grandmaster Isaac Kasdan, analyzing the 24-game match for The Associated Press, said when the 15th game was adjourned after 40 moves that it seemed "likely to result in a draw."

Yugoslav Grandmaster Svetozar Gligoric commented: "Fischer has a draw whenever he wants. But he has a strong initiative at the moment."

Spassky, playing the white pieces, opened by advancing the king's pawn two squares, and Fischer went into the Sicilian defense. But this time he avoided the poisoned pawn variation for which Spassky found an answer in the 11th game.

On the 12th move the American castled, moving his king to relative safety. Spassky captured his knight, and Fischer deliberated 25 minutes, then took Spassky's bishop.

In the final series of moves, Spassky's king was threatened constantly.

Spassky made his 40th move with less than five minutes left on his clock. Each player has 2½ hours for his first 40 moves and an hour for every 16 moves after that.

Meanwhile, filmmaker Chester Fox filed a $1.75 million suit against Fischer in New York, charging that Fischer broke a contract when he refused to permit cameras at the match. Fischer said at the outset of the match that the cameras bothered him.

Ass'n Supports Odometer Law

RALEIGH (AP)—Support for a new state odometer law aimed at protecting dealers and the public from those who falsify mileage on automobiles has been voiced by the North Carolina Independent Automobile Dealer's Association.

The association's executive director, Ray Abernathy, wrote Gov. Bob Scott in a letter dated Aug. 14 that its executive committee would "be pleased to see a reasonable odometer law which would protect the interests of the dealers and the public from those who falsify mileage on automobiles introduced to and passed by the next General Assembly."

Smimilar letters went to Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and Joe W. Garrett, state commissioner of motor vehicles.

An Old Enemy Is Reunion Guest

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (AP)—The Japanese admiral and the American admiral are shaking hands, instead of fists, today over lunch 30 years later.

The two wartime enemies buried the hatchet and the Samurai sword, figuratively, at a reunion of the old Pat Wing Four Airbales which will go on until Sunday at Oak Harbor Naval Air Station.

Vice Admiral Hiroichi Samejima came at the invitation of retired U.S. Adm. James Russell. The party also includes 165 American squadron veterans.

On June 3, 1942, Lt. Samejima led a Japanese bomber squadron against Dutch Harbor in Alaska's Aleutian Islands. Russell was the commanding officer of the VP42 squadron of the Patrol Wing Four at Dutch Harbor.

Now, 30 years later, Samejima is the "Favorite Former Enemy" guest of Russell at the American reunion.

Russell explained that he met

Samejima about 1955 through a gift of some books from a Japanese acquaintance.

"The note in the books said the bearer was Commander Samejima, who led the bombers that hit Dutch Harbor," Russell recalls. "And I looked up, and there the fellow was standing in front of me."

They went to lunch several days later, Russell said, and soon their wives had met and their families had become friends.

Are there any feelings of bitterness left over from World War II?

"Well, I got plenty mad when I saw the corpse of one of my crewmen lying in the water, but no, there's no bitterness," Russell says, adding that almost all the reuniting squadron members approved of inviting Samejima.

GET UP... AND GO

Does the alarm clock get you up? No, it merely tells you it's time to get up. Whether you get out of bed is a matter of discipline.

Church bells don't bring anyone to church. They simply remind Christians where we ought to be on a Sunday morning. The rest is a matter of discipline.

Such discipline, whether it calls you to work or to worship, is fundamentally a trait of your own character. It begins with earnestness, it is strengthened by habit, it is directed toward any responsibility or opportunity which you value.

The value a person puts upon God and his own soul usually determines whether he worships each Sunday, or now and then. Put another way: the man who knows what worship and inspiration can mean in his life never is hesitant to get up and go.

And, of course, discipline has special meaning for a Christian: those who lived and worked with Christ were DISCIPLES.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices took an upward trend on the stock market today after three days of faltering. Trading was moderate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.32 to 964.71 and gaining issues on the New York Stock Exchange topped losers by about 3 and 2.

In the fourth day of the confrontation between the government and the major auto makers over price increases, motor stocks firmed after earlier losses.

American Motors and Ford were unchanged, the former at 9 3/4 and the latter at 65 3/4, but Chrysler was up 3/4 to 31 1/4 and General Motors rose 1/2 to 75 1/2.

Higher earnings gave an impetus to two farm machinery stocks. International Harvester gained 3/4 to 35 1/4 and Deere & Co. gained 1/2 to 73.

Franklin Mint was pushed into first place among the Big Board's most active issues on the strength of a block of 348,000 shares at 36, off 3 3/4.

Sears went into second place with a block of 316,900 shares at 105, off 5 3/4. Sears reported higher earnings, but its rate of gain disappointed some analysts.

On the American Stock Exchange the volume leader was STP Corp., up 1 to 22. Technical Tape also was active, up 1/4 to 3 3/4 after forecasting gains in third quarter earnings.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks was ahead 15 to 61.44 at 11 a.m.

Report Said Against 4-Year Med School

RALEIGH (AP) — A subcommittee of the North Carolina Joint Conference for Medical Care is preparing a report which recommends against setting up a four-year medical school at East Carolina University, the Raleigh News and Observer said Friday.

Dr. Ed Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs at ECU, said these conclusions run counter to the wishes of "most of the people of North Carolina."

East Carolina now is asking the University of North Carolina Board of Governors to expand ECU's one-year medical program to two years by September 1974 with an eye on a four-year school in the future.

In Greenville today, Dr. Monroe said, "I think most of the people of North Carolina will disagree with this report wholeheartedly. This so called preliminary report originates from the heads of the three medical centers in the state in an area of the state where the doctor to population ratio is about one to 450 people; whereas in Eastern North Carolina it is about one to 1,800.

"If they don't need all of the doctors they have up there, we will be glad for some of them to come down here."

"Suppose," Dr. Monroe mused, "you had three banks or television stations serving the entire state and you asked them if you needed more, what do you think their answer would be?"

Dr. Monroe also cited a major national study by Dr. Cheves Smyth which concluded that it seemed to be cheaper to start new medical schools rather than expand old ones.

Plane Seized By Hijacker

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A gunman who arrived at the airport riding a bicycle hijacked a United Air Lines 727 jetliner at the Reno International Airport early today and ordered it to Vancouver, B.C., authorities said.

The man, reportedly armed with an Army-type carbine, boarded the plane just before it was due to take off on a flight to San Francisco and ordered the passengers and three stewardesses off, a United spokesman said. Three crew members were kept aboard the three-engine plane.

The spokesman said 52 passengers were scheduled for the flight, No. 877, but he was not certain about the actual number on board.

Jerry Harris, chief controller at Reno International Airport, said the plane left Reno at 9:51 a.m. EDT, after the man ordered the crew to fly to Vancouver.

"As far as we know, he hasn't asked for money," the United spokesman said.

He said the man arrived at the plane riding a bicycle and did not have a ticket.

A police spokesman said Elford Coker, 25, of Kings Mountain, N.C., was captured by a group of citizens who recognized him.

A Superior Court judge declared Coker an outlaw Tuesday at the request of Kings Mountain Police Chief Thomas McDevitt.

$86.80 Day On Farmville Leaf Market

FARMVILLE — The Farmville tobacco market yesterday averaged $86.80 when 247,624 pounds of tobacco was sold for $214,937.90.

Yesterday's average was nine cents higher than the average on the same sales day last year.

"Prices on the Farmville market remained steady yesterday," stated Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market. "The volume of sales continued to consist of practically the same grades with a slight increase of nondescript grades."

Top price paid for any grade remained at 87 cents per pound. Approximately 95 percent of all grades brought 86 and 87 cents per pound.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 1,742,506 pounds of leaf for $1,506,247, giving a season average of $86.44 per hundred pounds, as compared with last year's average for the first seven sales days of $77.18.

To date, no tobacco has gone to stabilization in the Farmville market.

Bank Robberies May Surpass 1971's Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There were a record 42 bank robberies in North Carolina last year. That record will be surpassed this year at the present rate. There have been 28 so far, including three Thursday, at Greensboro, Charlotte and Elkin.

The first came shortly after 9 a. m. at the Mount Hope Church branch of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., just east of Greensboro on —85. It netted two men less than $10,000, a bank spokesman said.

Less than an hour later, three men robbed a branch of North Carolina National Bank on Charlotte's west side of $19,750. Then shortly before 1 p. m. a man took an undetermined amount of money from a branch of Northwestern Bank at the Wilkes County line in Elkin.

Protest Convoy Awaited In N.C.

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ft. Bragg and civilian authorities are expecting 50 to 100 cars of Vietnam veterans to arrive in the area late today for an overnight stop en route to the Republican convention at Miami Beach.

One group of 30 cars with more than 100 protesters spent the night at Camp Springs, Md., near Washington. Police say they have been told another caravan from the Midwest, originating in Detroit, joined them there for the trip south.

An open forum is planned at the GI Center, an offpost coffeehouse at Spring Lake, adjacent to Ft. Bragg, tonight, the center said. There the veterans would meet with soldiers and others interested to talk about the war, veterans' unemployment and the drug problems of veterans.

Former Board Member Honored

Mrs. Robert Kittrell, until June 30 a member of the Greenville City School board, was honored on Thursday night for the public service she performed on Thursday night for the public service she performed during her tenure on the board.

A large number of men and women turned out to express their personal thanks to Mrs. Kittrell at a community reception held at Arlington Street Baptist Church.

The Southwest Greenville Community Association sponsored the event, which began at 10:00 p.m. and lasted until approximately 10:00 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stallings were host and hostess.

"We wanted to do something to show our appreciation to Mrs. Kittrell for the outstanding services she gave our community and the city as a school board member," Stallings commented. "This is something many residents of the area have expressed an interest in doing."

Among those coming by, in addition to friends and neighbors, were Mayor S. Eugene West, City Schools Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, members of the City Council and the school board, and teachers. As a momento to mark the occasion, Stallings presented Mrs. Kittrell an inscribed silver tray on behalf of the citizens of southwest Greenville.

Gardner For J.J. Bonner

J. Jordan Bonner, Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives from the First Congressional District says he has received the endorsement of Jim Gardner, an unsuccessful candidate for the G. O. P. nomination as governor in the state's primary election.

Bonner faces incumbent Democrat Walter B. Jones of Farmville for the U. S. House seat in the November general election.

Bonner said, "Mr. Jones is working against the people of this district by supporting Sen. McGovern and the National Democratic Party. He has consistently voted against every bill labeled 'Nixon' and has voted for every increase in spending by the National Democratic Party."

In doing so, Bonner charged the incumbent "has voted against bringing more money to local levels for such needed projects as roads and sewage and water systems."

Bonner said if elected, he would have two in-district offices as well as a roving office scheduled in each county once each month to make the Congressional office more accessible to the people of the district.

Carlton Captures 20th Victory As Reds Fall

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a birthday present Steve Carlton had been saving for three weeks. And when he presented it to his wife, she had to share it with 53,376 other delighted onlookers.

"I was very happy I could give it to her," the Philadelphia Phillies' left-hander said Thursday night after winning his 20th game of the baseball season, the first National League pitcher to reach that plateau.

For awhile, it appeared he'd have trouble getting it. Then the Phillies unlimbered their muscles and, battering three Cincinnati hurlers for 16 hits, ripped up the Reds 9-4, providing Carlton with his 15th consecutive victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets edged Atlanta 2-1. Houston destroyed Montreal 17-5. The Chicago Cubs nipped San Francisco 2-1. San Diego clipped St. Louis 3-2 and Los Angeles whipped Pittsburgh 4-2.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox beat Baltimore 6-1. California defeated Cleveland 4-2. Boston topped Texas 4-3 and Detroit split a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning the opener 12-2 before the Twins took the 10-inning nightcap 7-6. The New York Yankees, Kansas City, Oakland and Milwaukee were idle.

It was about three weeks ago, just after Steve had won his 15th game of the year and 10th in a row, that Beverly glanced at the Phillies' schedule and figured he'd be going for No. 20 on Aug. 17.

"That's my birthday," she told her husband, "and that's what I want. Your 20th victory." It was a tough order.

"I haven't beaten them since 1967," Carlton said of the Reds. "You have to stay on top of that lineup ... You never can relax."

And for awhile, it looked like Cincinnati's streak against him would continue. After Deron Johnson gave him a lead with a two-run homer, the Reds jumped him for three runs in the third on Dave Concepcion's single. Bill Plummer's double, Pete Rose's single and Joe Morgan's double.

But Don Money's sacrifice fly and Willie Montanez' two-run homer in the fifth gave him a 5-3 edge and the Phils built on it with two more runs apiece in the sixth and seventh innings.

"We want Steve! We want Steve!" the fans chanted—and he obliged by returning momentarily to the field to acknowledge their ovation. "It felt great. I want to thank the fans. It was touching. Nothing like it ever happened to me before."

Carlton became the first player in 21 years to win 20 games with a last-place club.

Now a lot of people are wondering if Carlton can do a few things neither he nor anyone else has done in a long time.

The first goal is 19 straight victories, a feat unattained since Rube Marquard of the New York Giants set the modern major league record in 1912.

Then he'll be trying to become the National League's winningest pitcher since 1952, when the Phils' Robin Roberts posted a 28-7 record.

And finally, he'll be shooting for that magic 30 victories. Denny McLain did it for Detroit in 1968 but it hasn't happened in the National League since 1917 when Grover Cleveland Alexander did it for—you guessed it, the Phils.

But one step at a time, if you please. "I can't say I can shut 30 games out of my mind," Carlton admitted. "But my goal is 25."

Ed Kranepool broke a tie with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly and Tug McGraw came out of the Mets' bullpen to preserve Tom Seaver's 14th victory, shutting off a ninth-inning rally after the Braves had put runners on second and third with one out.

Lee May drove in four runs with a pair of homers and Doug Rader and Cesar Cedeno each added a solo shot to lead the Astros' 20-hit assault against six Montreal pitchers—or, more precisely, five pitchers and a shortstop.

Montreal Manager Gene Mauch wound up using Hector Torres for the final two outs after Joe Gilbert had been manhandled for eight hits and seven runs in 1 1-3 innings.

"I'd used all the pitchers I was going to use and Gilbert couldn't get the outs," Mauch explained—and Astros Manager Harry Walker voiced some understanding. "I would have done the same thing under the same circumstances," he said. "Why bring in a starter who probably needs the rest?"

Jose Cardenal's two-run homer in the third inning carried the Cubs past the Giants, Nate Colbert drove in two runs, one of them with his 34th homer of the year, to lead the Padres past the Cardinals and Wes Parker belted a tie-breaking triple in the sixth inning, then scored on Bobby Valentine's squeeze bunt to send the Dodgers past the Pirates.

Brakefield: Unhappy Welcome

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

The Southern Conference welcomed Appalachian State University into its full membership this fall, but Head Football Coach Jim Brakefield may have the feeling that he's not really wanted—at least not as a championship threat.

Brakefield expressed surprise when the conference handed Appalachian the South Carolina game on its schedule to count as a conference game. The Mountaineers do not play the five required S.C. games, having only four on their schedule. The conference did agree to allow the Mountaineers to be eligible however, and then picked their South Carolina game as the fifth "conference" contest.

"I was quite surprised when they picked South Carolina," Brakefield said. "There are four or five other teams on our schedule as good as a lot of the Southern Conference teams. I know South Carolina will be heavily favored, so even if we won all four of our regular games, we still won't have much of a chance at the title."

Perhaps this was one of the reasons South Carolina was picked—so as not to have the newcomer win on its first time around. ECU athletic Director Clarence Stasavich, a member of the committee which picked South Carolina, said the former ACC school was picked because it was the only other major college team on the Appalachian schedule, and therefore the only logical choice.

Brakefield doesn't see things getting any better either. "We don't have five conference games on our schedule for the next four or five years at this time." And unless they get that fifth game, they may have to take a tough fifth team each year.

Brakefield feels that his Mountaineers will be a relatively green team. "We have five offensive and six defensive starters back," he said. "So 11 of the 22 will be new players. We'll be starting about five sophomores, and this could create some problems. Some of the new starters will be last year's back up players, fortunately."

Overall, he hates the team about average in experience.

"We're small in size," he adds. "Last year we were the smallest in the world. We're larger now, but we're still small. We have adequate speed, and we'll emphasize this. In fact, we don't want slow boys. We recruit speed and we feel this is important if we are to win."

Brakefield also looks to a stronger passing game by his Mounties. "We were a poor passing team last year. (Appalachian hit on only 79 of 193 passes for just over 400 yards with 12 interceptions.) But we should be better both in passing and in receiving."

But Appalachian will still be a running team. "We run our offense out of the Y and we'll run first. Most of our passing will be off play-action and this will add to our offense."

The Mountaineers were a running team last year, totaling 2,678 yards on the ground. Gone however is leading rusher Clayton Deskins who ran for 950 yards and 12 touchdowns last year. Tim Cokely, the number two rusher, with 449 yards is back. He scored 30 points last year. "He's a good running back," Brakefield said. "We have five or six others, but we're unsure who'll be back there with him. Tommy Bacote is the most likely choice."

At the quarterback position, Steve Loflin, a junior, will probably get the nod. "He throws and runs pretty well," the coach said. "We don't have the depth at quarterback we'd like to have, and he'll probably have the job."

At fullback, Tommy Harris, a rising sophomore, looks run. "As the season goes along, he could become a great fullback a lot, so he'll see a lot of action."

Richard Agle, the split end, is probably one of the fastest men on the team. "He ran a 9.8 hundred last spring in track, and he can catch the ball well. We have four or five real fine receivers we can go with however."

While the line is basically sound, Brakefield admits that the starting guard and tackle will probably have no varsity experience.

On defense, the Mountaineers run a five-four defense. And Brakefield feels he has one of the best tackles in the state in 6-3, 223-pound Ron Reynolds, a junior. Another standout on defense is Eddie Biggs, a 6-3, 226-pound defensive end.

"We have good linebackers, and good depth here too. Our secondary will have two experienced players, but they will be backed by newcomers. We're larger in the secondary than last year, and Curtis Wilder is one of the fastest men around in the backfield."

Brakefield felt that he had a good defensive team last year, holding opponents to only 1,471 total yards in 11 games. "We may be even better this year," he added.

If the defense holds up as it did last year when the Mountaineers had a 7-3-1 record, including a tie with Furman and a 35-10 win over Davidson, they could be a threat to the title despite South Carolina.

The Appalachian schedule: Sept. 9, at Western Kentucky; Sept. 16, The Citadel; Sept. 23, at East Carolina; Sept. 30, Furman; Oct. 7 Davidson at Charlotte; Oct. 14, at South Carolina; Oct. 21, at Lenoir Rhyne; Oct. 28, East Tennessee; Nov. 4, Florence State; Nov. 11, Eastern Kentucky; Nov. 18, at Western Carolina.

Bengals Should Be Better Team

By JOHN W. CHACE
CINCINNATI (AP) —

The Cincinnati Bengals, boasting the most depth in their five-year history and a defense upgraded by the draft, should better their 1971 performance.

"We shouldn't have to sneak up on teams to beat them this year," Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown says of his team, which slumped to a 4-10 mark last season. "We think we are going to be very competitive."

The Bengals, who won the American Football Conference Central Division title in 1970, dropped six games last year by four points or less and the defense took much of the blame.

But in the draft, they picked three players who stand a strong chance of starting. They are defensive end Sherman White, safety Tommy Casanova, and linebacker Jim LeClair. Fourth-round draft selection Bernard Jackson, a cornerback, should also see plenty of action.

Regarding over-all depth on both offense and defense, veteran linebacker Al Beauchamp, who is battling to retain his starting spot, said, "We're solid. We can play different people and have the same effort."

The Bengals have back five runners they used pretty much interchangeably last season—Essex Johnson, Fred Willis, Jess Phillips, Paul Robinson and Doug Dressler.

At quarterback, second-year man Ken Anderson of Augustana College in Illinois is giving veteran Virgil Carter a strong challenge for the starting role.

"He is no longer the raw kid you saw last year," Brown said about Anderson, who recently helped lead the Bengals over the powerful Detroit Lions in an exhibition game. "The one who moves us the most effectively is going to carry the brunt of the load."

Anderson took over as a starter last year after Carter was injured. Then Anderson got hurt and the Bengals even used Dave Lewis, the NFL's leading punter the last two years although he played quarterback at Stanford a few years ago.

"We are at the mercy of the quarterback as just about every team is," Brown said. "Whether the quarterbacks stay healthy and whether any other key players are hurt will have a considerable bearing on how we do."

The Bengals' weakness seems to be in the pass receiving department. They had trouble last year with running backs dropping passes, and this year, none of the receivers has seemed to warm up.

"None of our receivers to date has caught the ball like we had hoped," Brown said.

In the offensive line, the Bengals have Pat Matson and Rufus Mayes who both enjoyed good years in 1971.

Sprints Best Hope For Medal

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — America's women track stars have in the past been considered also-rans by international standards.

With the possible exception of the sprints, American women have lagged the rest of the world in track and field. In 1968 at Mexico City, the only medals won by American women came in the 100, 200, 800, 400-meter relay and 1,600-meter relay.

The same events appear the strong suits this time around.

Madeline Manning Jackson, winner of the 800 gold medal four years ago, is back. Her winning time at high-altitude Mexico City was 2:00.9 and her best time this year is 2:01.2.

Wyomia Tyus, two-time gold medal winner in the 100, has retired and the American banner in the sprint will be carried this year by Barbara Ferrell, Irish Davis and Mattline Rander. Miss Ferrell has done 11.2 this year but three European Women have equalled the world mark of 11.0 already.

America's 400-meter entrant, Kathy Hammond, has run 52.2 but Monika Zert of East Germany has done 51.0 and is the heavy favorite.

Miss Hammond and Mrs. Jackson, however, will be the main artillery on the U.S. 1,600-meter relay team, the girls recently set a world record of 3:33.9 in the mile relay and appear ready to win the gold in that event this year.

Francie Larrieu has run a swift 4:10.4 for 1,500 meters and could give new world record-holder Ludmilla Bragina a test.

Miss Bargina, Russia's 29-year-old veteran, ran 4:06.9 six weeks ago to boost herself into international prominence.

Patty Johnson's 12.9 time for the 100-meter hurdles is four tenths of a second off the global mark of 12.5 set this year by Annelie Ehrhardt of East Germany and tied by Pam Ryon of Australia.

Martha Watson, with an American record-equalling 21-6 this year, carries U.S. hopes in the long jump. Best mark in the world this year is 22-0 3/4 by Heide Rosendahl of West Germany.

Most American women refuse to build their bodies up to the standards of weight throwers. Thus few Americans are competitive with Europeans in the shot put, discus or javelin.

Olga Connolly may be the only exception.

The 1956 Olympic discus gold medal winner for Czechoslovakia is 39, the oldest U.S. track and field competitor. However, her best 1972 throw of 193-3 makes her a definite threat to most in the world with the exception of world record holder Faine Melnik of Russia, who has done 219-0 this season.

WOOW To Air Pirates

Radio Station WOOW in Greenville will carry the East Carolina football games this fall, station manager Danny Jacobson announced today.

WOOW will take a feed of the games through the originating station, WITN-AM and FM. Dick Jones, sports director of WITN-TV will handle the play-by-play this year.

All eleven of the Pirate games, both home and away, will be carried on the network, Jacobson said.

The Pirates open the season on September 9 in Lexington, Virginia, facing Virginia Military Institute.

Boat Races Scheduled

WASHINGTON — Whichard's Beach, near Washington, will be the site of the National Marathon Outboard Championships Saturday and Sunday, starting at 1:30 p.m. each day.

Saturday, the first of the two three-hour marathon races gets underway, involving four classes of boats. Sunday, another three-hour race will be held for five other classes.

A purse of $5,000 awaits winners, plus $1,500 worth of trophies.

Saturday's races involve craft falling under the three family classes and the one sports class. Individual prizes will be awarded to the top three finishers in each class. Sunday, the classes include one sports class, and four unlimited classes. As in Saturday's races, prizes will be awarded to the top three finishers in each class.

Reggie Smith Still Is The Silent Hero

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Reggie Smith is making noise—with his bat, if nothing else.

The Boston outfielder continued to play the role of the strong, silent hero with a three-run homer Thursday night that helped the Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 4-3.

"I don't care what he does as long as he keeps hitting," says Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, referring to his uncommunicative star.

Smith wound up a torrid, three-game series in Arlington, Tex. with eight hits in 13 at-bats, including four homers, and 10 RBI. But he refused to talk to reporters, as he has since the Red Sox came into town Tuesday. While Smith shut communications off between him and the press, the Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox played to the sound of silence Thursday. Only 655 paid customers showed up in Baltimore to watch the White Sox beat the Orioles 6-1 and throw both American League baseball races into a real traffic jam.

The White Sox inched to within a half-game of the Oakland A's in the West while the Orioles' lead dropped to the same margin in the East.

Closing ground on the Orioles were the Detroit Tigers, who split a two-night doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins. The Tigers won the opener 12-2 and the Twins the second game, 7-6 in 10 innings. The third-place New York Yankees, idle Thursday, moved within 1½ games of the top, while Boston lopped off a game to three behind the Orioles. Fifth-place Cleveland, also in contention, remained eight games behind after losing to the California Angels 4-2.

Thursday's National League results: Atlanta 2, New York 1; Chicago 2, San Francisco 1; Philadelphia 9, Cincinnati 4; Houston 17, Montreal 5; San Diego 3, St. Louis 2 and Los Angeles 4, Pittsburgh 2.

Texas had a 3-1 lead before Smith ripped a three-run homer off Mike Paul in the eighth. Smith's towering shot into the left-center field stands gave starter Marty Pattin his 11th victory in 22 decisions.

Luis Alvarado and Pat Kelly each drove in two runs in the sixth inning to power Chicago past Baltimore, which lost its third straight.

In addition to his two-run single in the sixth, Alvarado doubled to set up a run-scoring single by pitcher Dave Lemons in the second. Lemons, given seventh-inning relief help by Cy Acosta, won the decision over Baltimore's Pat Dobson.

The attendance at Memorial Stadium was the lowest in the Orioles' history. The previous low came on Sept. 27, 1965, when Baltimore hosted the old Kansas City Athletics.

Detroit won its opener by scoring seven runs in the second-inning. Gates Brown and Jim Northrup delivered two-run singles in the rally off Jim Perry. The Tigers tied the second game with four runs in the ninth, only to lose it on Rich Reese's sacrifice fly in the 10th.

Lee Stanton hit two homers and Bob Oliver hit one to account for all the California scoring as the Angels stopped the Indians. Andy Messersmith won his third game and first one since May 6.

He was signed as a free agent, having played out his option with the Bears last season. However, the Cowboys sent the Bears tackle Bob Asher, one of their second-year men, and Bill Line, a rookie defensive lineman. In addition the Cowboys gave the Bears a second round future draft choice.

In another Thursday development the Patriots asked waivers on Ara Person, a tight end, to make room on their roster for linebacker John Huard.

Hylton Feels It's Time He Was Considered Among Top Drivers

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — After eight years of playing supporting roles, James Hylton agrees that it is time the oddsmakers started giving him equal billing with the other leading men of stock car racing.

Not only that, he expects to be seen—with new strawberry red and grape blue colors for his cars—and to be heard from in future Grand National races of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Hylton, who celebrates his 38th birthday August 26, shocked the sports' top runners by coming from his usual mid-pack starting position to win the rich Talladega 500 in Alabama two weeks ago.

It was the Inman, S.C. driver's first major triumph and the $25,340 first-place check more than doubled his biggest previous payoff—$11,025 for a third place finish in the Daytona 500.

Never a strong qualifier, Hylton was a candidate for one of the 24 positions open in the first round of time trials today to pick a 40-car starting field for Sunday's $84,375 Yankee 400 at Michigan International Speedway.

The pole position was expected to go as usual to either Bobby Isaac, Bobby Allison, Richard Petty or David Pearson. These are the "musclemen" of NASCAR who together have captured the pole for every event of 250 miles or longer this season and won 15 of the 21 races.

These four—Isaac in a Dodge, Allison in a Chevrolet, Petty in a Plymouth and Pearson in a Mercury—were shooting at Pete Hamilton's stock car qualifying record of 161.909 miles per hour, set for last year's Yankee 400.

Hylton, usually a first-day qualifier when 10 or more spots are open, but always a few miles per hour off the pole winner's speed, said Thursday he'd be satisfied with a start somewhere in the third or fourth row.

"What I'm looking forward to is Sunday, when we'll be going 400 miles," Hylton said. "That's when the money is on the line. I want to be around at the finish; I have never been one to wash myself out in qualifying."

The Yankee 400 will be a new milestone for Hylton, who served several years as a top mechanic for former drivers Ned Jarrett and Dick Hutcherson before starting driving in 1964.

He will team up with Cale Yarborough to form NASCAR's newest driver combo, expected to be one of the strongest in the park next year. Yarborough, a stockily-built former football lineman from Timmonsville, S.C., banked almost $500,000 in prize money before leaving NASCAR at the start of 1971 to drive Indianapolis-type cars. Hylton will own the cars with full backing from a Southern soft drink sponsor (Pop Cola). And to emphasize the importance of the sponsor, the Hylton and Yarborough Mercurys will present their gawdy "new look" for the first time in Sunday's race.

Hylton's machine has been repainted a basic poppy red, with white numbers and blue trim while Yarborough's will be a basic Roman red with blue trim and white numbers. "Mine is a strawberry and grape color," Yarborough grinned. "You know, like the strawberry and grape soda pop."

Reaves Getting His Acid Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rookie quarterback John Reaves of the Philadelphia Eagles faces an acid test against the Washington Redskins tonight as another weekend of exhibition pro football gets under way.

Reaves impressed in his first start last weekend against the New England Patriots. The Eagles' No. 1 draft choice from the University of Florida, Reaves led Philadelphia to a 29-20 victory. He completed eight of 11 passes for 89 yards, two of them for touchdowns.

He will be facing a more experienced team in the unbeaten Redskins. Washington routed the Denver Broncos 41-0 last week paced by veteran signal callers Bill Kilmer and Sonny Jurgensen.

In addition to Philadelphia at Washington, Minnesota plays at Buffalo in another NFL exhibition tonight.

Fran Tarkenton, traded during the off-season by the New York Giants, will start at quarterback for the Vikings in his second game for Minnesota. He played his first game for his old team last week and led the Vikings to a 24-14 triumph over San Diego.

Seven more preseason games are scheduled for Saturday. Three more are listed for Sunday and one for Monday night, making it a 13-game weekend program with all 26 NFL clubs in action.

Oakland at Los Angeles in a nationally televised game, (NBC-TV) headlines the Saturday card. In the other six Saturday games, San Francisco is at San Diego, Miami at Cincinnati, Denver at St. Louis, Green Bay at Houston, Pittsburgh at Atlanta and Dallas at New Orleans.

On Sunday the New York Giants tangle with the New York Jets at New Haven, Conn., Cleveland battles Detroit at Ann Arbor and the Chicago Bears go against New England at Foxboro, Mass. The Monday night game his Baltimore pitted

Putting Helps Schlee To Lead

By BOB GREEN

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — John Schlee had a share of the lead going into today's second round in the $200,000 USI Golf Classic because he went against his wife's wishes.

"I went back to putting cross-handed," the lanky, graying veteran said after cutting five strokes off par with 67 in Thursday's first round, giving him a tie for the top spot with Tommy Aaron.

"I had been putting cross-handed some during the winter and spring, but I'd shift from conventional to cross-handed while I was on the course," the 33-year-old Schlee said.

"My wife told me to do it one way or the other. I don't think she could stand the suspense of waiting to find out which way I was going to put," he said.

"So I started putting conventionally all the way. Last week I played real good, hit the ball real good, but didn't make a single putt. I figured I had to do something. So this week I started putting everything inside of 12 feet cross-handed."

It staked him to a five-under-par round on the 7,212 yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course and share of the lead in the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Schlee, who has yet to win in eight years on the tour, and Aaron were one stroke in front New Zealand lefty Bob Charles, Rik Massengale, Tom Ulozas and rookie Marty Bohlen, tied at 68.

The group at 69 included defending title-holder Dave Stockton, Australian Bruce Devlin, veteran Bob Rosburg, Steve Melynk, Hubert Green, Mike Hill, Hale Irwin and Mike Reasor.

Lee Trevino, still weak from a recent bout with a virus, had a triple bogey seven enroute to a 74 and must improve in the second round if he is to survive the cut for the final 36 holes.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of five titles and some $240,000 this season, Arnold Palmer, South African Gary Player and George Archer—twice a playoff winner over Aaron—are not competing in this event that now has taken the name of the sponsoring United States Industries.

Dreaded Test Limits Foreign Doctors Serving U.S.

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — At the University of California medical center one recent morning, Gary Fitzgerald, 24, presented himself for admission at a guarded door.

The woman there compared his face with a file photograph and passed him into the room. Next came Francisco Levin, 66. In all, several dozen men and women from perhaps a dozen countries filed into three lecture halls.

They silently took every other seat, nervous tension etched on their faces as they waited to begin a gruelling day plodding through a hated and feared medical examination, the examination of the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates.

Each was hoping to score a passing 75 and earn what for the foreign doctor has become literally a ticket of admission to the American medical system—whether for just advanced training or state licensure.

For Gary Fitzgerald, an American citizen who grew up in San Bernardino, Calif., it was his first experience with the test. For Francisco Levin, 40 years a physician who fled Castro's Cuba in 1969, it was the fifth.

That both men sweated over the same difficult test is testimony to the breadth of the foreign doctor problem, one of the most lingering, baffling issues facing American medicine.

The main difficulty is that the United States needs the foreign-trained doctor because American medical schools aren't turning out enough doctors. In 1970, for example, 3,016 or one-third of the newly licensed physicians received their basic medical education abroad.

No one wants to be treated by a licensed physician who received a substandard medical education.

To prevent this, a complex system has evolved that now involves the legislature and medical licensing board of every state, the U.S. State Department, the American Medical Association, American Hospital Association, Association of American Medical Colleges and the Federation of State Medical Boards.

"It's complicated. There's no doubt about it. It's hard for me to keep abreast, and that's my job," said Louise Ball, an administrative official at the University of Southern California who spends half her time helping that school's foreign doctors wander through the bureaucratic maze.

Focus of the regulatory system has become the Educational Council for Foreign Medical Graduates—ECFMG—and its test, formed in 1958 by several involved medical groups. The system has been so tightened that a foreign doctor must pass the ECFMG to obtain a visa, gain admission to a hospital training program and, in most states, take further examinations to be licensed.

For several years, the ECFMG failure rate has hovered at 61 per cent. In 1970, almost 30,000 people took the test at nearly 200 centers around the world. Only 11,916 passed.

Only recently did a passing score become necessary to obtain a visa. Before that, thousands of foreign doctors came to the United States without passing the test, hoping to receive training or licensure without it. But they couldn't. Nor could they pass the test, despite repeated tries.

So many still remain, forced to work as medical technicians, morgue attendants, surgical technicians or whatever each state's laws allow. Many have left medicine.

Groups of foreign doctors, young and old, here and abroad, have sprung up who say the ECFMG is unfair, that it is barring qualified physicians badly needed in the United States. They're demanding a change, a reduction in the accompanying red tape.

Francisco Levin isn't so angry as bewildered. He has taken the test five times. Once he was a respected Cuban pediatrician with a handsome home, automobiles and a yacht. Now, as a Cuban refugee, his wife works in a shoe factory, he receives welfare checks and they live in an old apartment in a rundown section of Hollywood.

Even if he passes the test, at 66 Levin has little hope of gaining admission to a hospital internship, which would be necessary in California and many other states before he could take further examinations for licensure.

Solutions?

Most medical authorities agree that some type screening test always will be necessary, considering the diversity of medical education standards around the world.

But what could streamline the procedure and reduce allegations of discrimination, doctors have suggested, would be a standard test applied to both United States and foreign medical graduates.

Taken by the U.S. graduate, it would be a licensure test. Taken by the foreign graduate, it would admit him to the United States and a training program which, if he finished it satisfactorily, would lead to licensing. In addition, they say, special training programs should be available to those who fail the test. They would allow the failing doctor to come to the United States and take a one-year "medical clerkship" to prepare for the test.

Mandatory Student Fee For Newspapers Backed

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina System contended in a brief filed with the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday that its campuses have the right to collect mandatory fees from students to support student newspapers.

The university governing board also contended that it "is entitled to a degree of control over student activities, including student publications when such control is exercised for proper purposes."

The governors filed their "friend of the court" brief in a case arising from North Carolina Central University.

President Albert Whiting of N.C. Central suspended student fee support of the Campus Echo, the student newspaper, after the paper published what he considered anti-white articles and a decision by student editors not to accept advertising by white businesses.

The student editor, Johnnie E. Joyner, and the student government president, Harvey Lee White, brought suit to continue the support of the paper.

U.S. District Judge Eugene Gordan ruled that a state university may not "impose any censorship, any orthodoxy, upon" its students or their newspapers. He also said that public funds cannot be used for a publication that violates the 14th amendment guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

In its brief the university said that, contrary to Gordan's findings, "formal recognition and financial support of a student organization by the university does not alone make that organization an agent of the university."

It also said, "the interest of the university lies in not being held legally responsible for the conduct of student groups with which the university does not have an agency relationship.

The university also asked for a clarification of the language of Gordan's rulings on the imposition of orthodoxies.

"This language could have implications for the classroom inasmuch as the university function by definition involves at least some identification of and exposure of students to 'orthodoxies,'" the brief said.

The university asked for a modification of the "drastic ruling" that neither Whiting nor his successors "may ever again support a student newspaper" on the NCCU campus.

Bowles Joins Foes Of New Amendment

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles today joined the chorus of those opposing an amendment to the state constitution which would have the effect of keeping youths between 18 and 21 from holding public office.

The amendment was approved by the General Assembly for the purpose of lowering the voting age to 18, but the youngsters have already won that right under an amendment to the federal constitution.

So the main effect of the amendment, to be voted on in the November general election, would be to continue at 21 the age for holding public office in North Carolina.

"That probably violates the U.S. Constitution anyway," said Bowles as he said he opposed the proposed amendment.

"I favor wider participation by young people and hope the next General Assembly will reenact, in improved form, the absentee ballot law which assures an orderly way for students to participate in elections," Bowles said in a statement prepared in answer to an inquiry from Eugene Price, editor of the Goldsboro News Argus.

Bowles said he supports amendments which would allow the removal of judges from office for cause and require the retirement of judges at a specified age.

"I support the amendment to limit incorporation of new cities and towns so that growth and development in North Carolina are orderly and healthy," Bowles added.

He said he is as "proud as a new father" about the Environmental Bill of Rights amendment which he sponsored and said it will "provide the constitutional backbone for our growing body of strong environmental laws."

Cigarettes Suit Filed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The fourth in a series of suits aimed at halting federal law violations in the mail order cigarette shipping business in eastern North Carolina was filed Thursday by U.S. Atty. Warren Coolidge.

A complaint was filed in U.S. District Court in Raleigh against Norris Lee Eason doing business as the C. and J. Supply Co. of Wilson.

The suit asked for a preliminary injunction against any further violations of the federal Jenkins Act which requires cigarette mail order houses to furnish lists of their customers to tax authorities in the states to which cigarettes are shipped.

The complaint contended that Eason shipped cigarettes into New York, New Jersey and other states without supplying the proper records to tax officials in those states.

A hearing was set for Sept. 1 before U.S. District Judge Frank T. Dupree.

U.S. Casualties In Heavy Da Nang Rocket Attack

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces rained scores of rockets on Da Nang and Chu Lai today, killing or wounding 22 Americans and 72 Vietnamese and destroying or damaging 16 U.S. and South Vietnamese aircraft, allied military spokesmen announced.

It was the worst rocket attack this year on Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, spokesman said.

One American airman was killed and 21 American airmen and Army personnel were wounded at the Da Nang Air Base.

Field reports said 10 100-pound rockets killed 27 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 24 when they landed in a densely populated village just outside the base.

Thirty-three other rockets hit the base before dawn in two barrages about three hours apart. The only South Vietnamese military casualty was a wounded airman.

Nine buildings used by the Americans also were damaged lightly, the U.S. Command said.

The last remaining U.S. combat infantry battalion in Vietnam had been patrolling the Da Nang area to keep rocket attacks away from the base and the city. But it was deactivated a week ago, ending the U.S. ground combat role in Vietnam.

At Chu Lai, 50 miles south of Da Nang, two dozen rockets landed in a South Vietnamese military installation and a residential area, the Saigon command said. It reported one Vietnamese civilian and one serviceman killed and 13 civilians and five servicemen wounded.

The U.S. Command also announced that an American adviser was killed Thursday night during a North Vietnamese artillery attack on South Vietnamese positions 10 miles south of Quang Tri City, on the northern front.

The Saigon command reported that South Vietnamese artillery destroyed three North Vietnamese tanks south of Quang Tri early today, and 52 North Vietnamese were killed and 20 of their weapons captured in a fight on the western flanks of Hue. South Vietnamese losses were four men killed and four wounded, the command said.

Tobacco Tax Growth Underlined In Talk

WINTERVILLE — H. W. Anderson, secretary-treasurer of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, addressed the Winterville Ruritan Club Tuesday night. His subject dealt with the mounting taxes on tobacco at all levels of government.

The speaker labeled much of this taxation as an attempt on the part of many states and the Federal government to prohibit the use of tobacco for health reasons.

Anderson noted that tobacco is grown in 90 of North Carolina's counties and in 25 states. North Carolina leads the nation with a crop valued at $575 million. Total farm production of tobacco is valued at $1.4 billion.

The speaker produced figures which show that North Carolina tobacco consumers paid taxes at all levels in 1971 of $95 million. His charts showed that federal, state and local tobacco taxes totaled $4.9 billion last year. Finally, he estimated that 50 percent of the retail cost of cigarettes is consumed by taxation.

Anderson's speech was illustrated by Tommy Bunn, assistant to John Cyrus, North Carolina Tobacco marketing specialist. Anderson and Bunn were both introduced by Senator Vernon White.

Secretary H. D. Weaver introduced Jack Cullifer as a new member. He was welcomed into the club by president Sammy Hodges.

N.C. Firemen Elect Officers

ASHEVILLE (AP) — James F. Baggett, chief of the Roanoke Rapids Fire Department, is the new president of the North Carolina Firemen's Association.

Also named during the 85th annual conference, which wound up Thursday, were Salisbury chief Fred Shipton, first vice president; Forest City chief Robert Harrell, second vice president; and Curtis Flanagan of Farmville, re-elected secretary.

The North Carolina Firemen of the Year award was presented posthumously to Joseph T. Jenkins of Salisbury, who died of injuries received while rescuing a fire victim on July 8, 1971.

Hog Cholera For Nash County

RALEIGH (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has ordered a quarantine on the movement of hogs in parts of Nash and Edgecombe counties following an outbreak of dreaded hog cholera in Nash County.

The quarantine bans all farm-to-farm or farm-to-market movement of swine in the quarantine areas except the movement of hogs to slaughter houses.

GMC Accedes To Price Plea

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has become the first automaker to bow to White House pressure and decrease a price-hike request for 1973 models now pending before the Price Commission.

GM announced Thursday it would roll back its original request for an increase by $31, from an average of $90 a car to an average of $59 per car.

Earlier, both Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. said they would not decrease their requests for an added $110 and $150 respectively.

Ford Motor Co. said Thursday it had asked for more time to study a request by Director Donald Rumsfeld of the Cost of Living Council that automakers withdraw their requests for price hikes on 1973 models.

Rumsfeld, who had requested a response by 5 p.m. Thursday, granted the delay, Ford said. The company has an original price hike request of $92 before the Price Commission.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg wrote Rumsfeld that the company now proposes to boost prices by only the amount of added manufacturing costs "related entirely to government mandated changes in emissions, bumpers and other safety equipment."

There was no immediate comment from federal officials.

than a score of F4 and A7 jets destroyed most of the town of Thai Binh, 50 miles southeast of Hanoi, and that many civilians were killed or wounded.

The U.S. Navy said jets from the carrier Oriskany attacked the Thai Binh army barracks, which a spokesman said was three-quarters of a mile southeast of the town, according to U.S. maps.

Hanoi said a Japanese television team was present in Thai Binh at the time, but it was not identified further.

Air Force F4 Phantoms

struck 45 miles south of the Chinese border, beaming 2,000-pound laser bombs onto the Cao Hung railroad bridge on the northeast rail line to China. The Air Force said one of the bridge's five spans was destroyed and another span and a pier were damaged.

Hanoi claimed that its forces shot down five American planes Thursday, raising to 14 the number it has claimed in the past three days. The U.S. Command admitted the loss of only one, a Navy F4 Phantom which it said a surface-to-air missile brought down 12 miles northwest of Haiphong Thursday. The Command said the two fliers are missing.

It was the 77th American plane which the U.S. Command has reported lost in the North since the resumption of full-scale bombing 4½ months ago.

The seminar, the 26th annual such gathering at the South Carolina campus, was attended by 250 persons from six states and the District of Columbia.

It dealt with environmental problems peculiar to North Carolina and the adjoining southern states.

THE STRAIGHT-UP MARTINI DRINKER. AN ENDANGERED SPECIES.

It would be a shame for America to lose its last few devoted martini purists. We should all do what we can to save them.

That's why Canada Dry makes gin and vodka especially for this vanishing breed. Gin and vodka with the dry smoothness that a straight-up martini demands.

And remember, if they're good enough to please the Straight-Up Man they must be good enough to survive on the rocks.

We're doing our bit. Do yours.

Take a Straight-Up Martini Drinker to lunch.

Noting that the Democrats had few businessman delegates to their national convention last month and few kind words for business in their platform, Booth said: "Business is the new minority."

Representatives at the meeting, held at ECU, agreed to draw up a brief outline of the proposed study and immediately discuss it with representatives of the Council on Environmental Quality.

The proposal will call for the study to begin immediately of Chicod Creek and be expanded to Little Contentnea and Swift Creek as soon as possible.

The study will also call for the assembling of basic data on the environmental effects of these three channelization projects and the environmental costs and benefits of such projects.

The proposed study has already been adopted by the Mid-East RC&D Council as a project measure and has been endorsed by Dr. Leo Jenkins,

Hope Pig Has Winning Ways

KOUTS, Ind. (AP)—Porcine ambassadors are not unknown in the annals of international diplomacy, but the most memorable may be a grand champion hog named Lucky.

Lucky will be traveling to the Soviet Union in September as a personal gift to Premier Alexei Kosygin from hog raisers in Indiana and Illinois.

They hope the 215-pound pig's winning ways will promote the sale of U.S. hogs to the Soviets.

How does title insurance help protect my home investment?
 Answer: It places the assets of a corporation behind the title of your home. If attacked, the title will be defended without cost to you, and if the title or any part of it should be defective, you will be reimbursed up to the face amount of your policy, for any financial loss incurred.

Winter Cover Crop Helpful

Winter cover crops are very popular as a conservation practice on North Carolina farms, according to Stacy Evans, Pitt County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In 1971, over 21,000 acres of winter cover crops were seeded with cost-sharing under REAP. Evans said that an even greater acreage is needed to fill the conservation needs of Pitt County. There are large acreages planted annually to row crops in the County. This cropland needs protection against wind and water erosion during the winter months. Winter cover crops offer an opportunity for farmers to protect their land and derive other benefits at the same time. These cover crops can reduce plant diseases, improve the texture of the soil, and offer many other benefits.

According to Evans, winter cover crops can be grazed consistently with good management. He said that if cover crops are properly fertilized and managed, they will add a great deal of grazing. Many livestock farmers can stretch feed supplies a great deal by using winter cover crops for supplementary grazing.

Evans urged farmers to study their conservation needs, and if cover crops are needed, they should file a request for cost-sharing with their local ASCS office. Local ASCS offices are now taking requests for all conservation practices that will be carried out this fall under the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance Program.

Some Farmers Now Receiving Payments

Pitt County farmers who have reported completion of approved conservation practices under the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) are now receiving their cost-share payments, according to Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The County ASC Committee has been given authority to begin making the payments earned to date.

The payments represent the federal government's share of the cost of carrying out approved soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation measures and pollution-abatement practices. Farmers participating in REAP bear the remainder of the cost of such practices which often benefit the entire community.

REAP cost-share payments are designed to encourage farmers to carry out enduring conservation and pollution-abatement practices that they could not—or would not—carry out without cost-sharing assistance.

Evans stated that the County ASCS Offices are issuing and mailing sight drafts to farmers who are due a cost-share payment. He also urged those who have completed approved practices but have not reported completion that the County ASCS Office to do soon.

Surplus Said Being Stolen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smugglers are ripping off Uncle Sam to the tune of millions of dollars worth of contraband military surplus, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff has concluded after three days of Senate hearings.

The Connecticut Democrat demanded Thursday that the government tighten controls over surplus military goods intended to be sold or given to friendly nations or to be scrapped.

"The American government has abdicated its duty to guard and dispose of its own surplus property," Ribicoff said. "It is one of the most disgraceful derelictions of duty in the post-war period."

Ribicoff blamed law enforcement for the recent theft of 34 one-ton Nike Ajax antiaircraft rockets from a U.S. surplus depot in West Germany.

Ribicoff added, "Wholesale lots of weapons and their component parts have been smuggled out of American war-surplus depots in working condition."

American officials, he said, "now admit that they do not know what has become of much of the weapons of war declared excess to the needs of our military."

The highest price ever paid for a horse of any breed at auction was $510,000 paid by Canadian lumber tycoon Frank McMahon for a brother of Majestic Prince in 1970.

Opening lead: King of ♠

When South responded with one heart to North's opening bid of one club, the latter was tempted to offer an immediate raise, but with only 13 high card points and three trumps, he decided that he was too close to a bare minimum. He was reluctant to say one no trump with a worthless doubleton in spades, so he chose to rebid his club suit.

When South bid two no trump next, North took time out to show his three card trump support by bidding three hearts. Once apprised of the suit fit, South carried on to four hearts.

West opened the king of spades which was permitted to hold the first trick. Since South's two no trump rebid apparently marked the latter with the ace of spades, there appeared to be no future in continuing the suit. Fearing that a diamond switch might surrender a trick, West shifted to the six of clubs.

Declarer observed that he was off three top tricks—one spade, one club, and at least one heart (even if that suit divided favorably). Altho a potential finessing position was available in diamonds, he preferred to save that as a last resort since it might be possible to establish dummy's clubs for a discard. In order to obtain the maximum leverage from his holding in the suit, he played the three of clubs from the North hand at trick two which gave East an opportunity to win a cheap trick by putting up the nine of clubs, on which South followed with the five.

Altho East was in position to give his partner a club ruff, it appeared that little would be gained in the process, since East lacked a reentry card to repeat the lead. He chose instead to make a play for West by shifting to the nine of diamonds. South put up the king from his hand in order to preserve dummy's ace, which he wished to save as an entry in developing the clubs.

A heart was led to the ace and a small one returned to the king as both opponents followed. When the ten and queen appeared, South allowed the jack to remain outstanding while he went about his chores. A club was led next and since West could not gain by ruffing, he discarded a spade. The ace of clubs was played from dummy and the jack was returned. East covered with the queen of clubs and South ruffed with the four of hearts. West discarded a diamond.

The ace of spades was cashed, followed by a spade ruff with the seven of hearts. The ten of clubs was put thru next, covered by the king and trumped with the five as West discarded another spade. A diamond was led to the ace and the now established seven of clubs was led. East followed with the four and declarer was able to dispose of the jack of diamonds. West finally ruffed in with the jack of hearts, but when he returned the queen of diamonds, South scored the last trick with the eight of hearts.

Observe that if declarer puts in dummy's ten of clubs when West shifts at trick two, he cannot subsequently establish his long card in that suit. In order to obtain full effectiveness from his eight of clubs he must either play the three from the North hand initially or else the ace of clubs followed by a small one the next round.
