

The Pilot Walked Away

PILOT SURVIVES CRASH — A crop duster pilot walked away from his burned plane yesterday after it crashed in a wooded area near Whitakers, 18 miles west of Tarboro. Michael Joseph Albaugh, of Rt. 3, Tarboro sustained major burns. Witnesses said that Albaugh walked through a cornfield and parts of a woods before reaching help. He was transported to

Rocky Mount hospital by a neighbor. Mrs. Gladys Parker said she saw the craft go straight up and then come down spinning and on fire. She said the craft fell in the woods where it burned. Albaugh was admitted to Rocky Mount Hospital with burns and possible internal injuries. (Reflector Staff Photo)

McGovern Says He Would Offer Thieu 'Sanctuary'

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu should be offered political asylum in the United States if he feels endangered by a postwar settlement, Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern said today.

"General Thieu has been our man in Saigon," McGovern said. "We put him there. He may not represent the ideals of democracy, but he's our man."

"If he and some of his friends feel endangered by a postwar settlement, I think we ought to welcome him here," the South Dakota senator said following an appearance on the NBC "Today" show.

Two weeks ago, in an interview with newsmen in Milwaukee, McGovern had said he expected Thieu and his colleagues would flee Saigon into exile should a Communist-dominated government take over South Vietnam.

"I would expect Gen. Thieu and his cohorts to leave very quickly," he said in that interview. "My guess is that they would leave if I won the election and that there would be an exodus of the top generals and political figures out of the country and that emerging behind that would be (a) coalition that would be willing to deal with Hanoi."

McGovern's remarks today came as he prepared for appearances for later in the day where he planned to charge that the Nixon administration is virtually abandoning Jews in Russia and Israel while overlooking their needs in the United States.

Taking the offensive on an issue that has been something of a plague to McGovern for several months, the South Dakota senator said Nixon "has been silent in the face of the continued persecution of Soviet Jews."

As for Israel, McGovern said, "the administration's objective ... is not to insure the security of Israel but to expel the Russians from the Middle East."

"Once that objective is achieved," McGovern said in a speech to the New York Board of Rabbis, "Mr. Nixon will again pressure Israel to withdraw without the basic guarantees of safety that only direct negotiation can insure."

McGovern repeated his intention of standing by Israel if he becomes president. He attempted to dispel, as he has in past appearances before Jewish groups, a belief among some Jews that his plans to cut the U.S. defense budget by over $80 billion per year would jeopardize Israel's security.

But for the first time in any recent McGovern speech to a Jewish group, the senator dwelled heavily on domestic issues, including crime in the streets, poverty and old age security.

"It does no good to have a decent job if you do not feel safe in your own hallway or your own elevator," McGovern said. "In New York City this year there will be 2,000 murders. And these will be just part of the steady increase in crime in America since my opponent promised to return the nation to law and order."

McGovern also called attention to the 80,000 Jews in New York City who he said live below the poverty line.

"They have not benefited from anti-poverty programs as much as others in New York, either because they are ineligible or because they are discouraged from applying," he said.

Nixon Welcomes Japan's Tanaka In Hawaii Tonight

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon will welcome Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to Hawaii tonight for summit talks he hopes will strengthen prospects for peace in the Pacific.

Nixon scheduled a full morning of work at the Western White House here before taking off from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station for Honolulu's Hickam Field.

While on the island of Oahu, Nixon will spend most of his time with Tanaka. But he will hold a Vietnam conference Thursday with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, and will set aside some time for trying to win friends and influence voters.

A campaign-style welcome was readied for him at Hickam, and he planned to mingle with Hawaii's business and civic leaders at a reception given by Clare Boothe Luce, who served as ambassador to Italy during the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. Nixon will also do some goodwill hopping, flying to Hilo on the island of Hawaii Thursday to visit volunteer service projects and be entertained at a luau.

Vietnam and politics dominated a 39-minute news conference Nixon held Tuesday outside his San Clemente home. Some of the highlights:

—Bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of its harbors will continue until there is substantial progress toward a settlement of the war. Neither activity will be halted "as an election eve tactic."

—Of the controversial bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters, he said: "We want the air cleared. We want it cleared as soon as possible." Anyone in government or in his campaign who declined to cooperate with investigators will be fired.

—The President, in seeking a second term, is bidding for "a clear mandate for what I have called change that works." He said he wants to forge a "new majority" embracing Democrats as well as Republicans.

—Nixon will spend most of the next six weeks in Washington, making only occasional one-day campaign trips. But he will step up the tempo in the final three weeks of the campaign, stumping hard and covering the whole country.

Nixon said he and Tanaka will discuss "initiatives towards the People's Republic of China and towards the Soviet Union." But he placed greater emphasis on economic problems.

Noting that Japan enjoys a tidy surplus in trade with the United States, he said, "I believe that out of this meeting will come some progress in trying to reduce that unfavorable balance."

the battle for the Que Son Valley, but there was no indication that the North Vietnamese who control most of it were pulling out.

A series of small shelling attacks was reported in the Saigon region. Highway 1 about 25 miles east of the capital was reopened after the Viet Cong blocked traffic with dirt barricades that were booby-trapped.

Government militiamen reported heavy fighting 35 miles northwest of Saigon, with the South Vietnamese reporting 42 enemy and 11 militiamen killed and 22 militiamen wounded.

With this latest development, however, Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood admitted "this will obviously require serious cutbacks." At the time, the superintendent cannot predict how and where the cutbacks will come.

The school board is now faced with the necessity of again giving the approved budget serious study in an effort to find items that can be cut back to take up the gap created by receipt of a far lesser amount than had been anticipated through ESAP assistance.

It had been hoped that approval of the requested $43,000 from the ESAP source would make it possible to carry the present planned school program through January 31.

Word has been received that the amount approved for the 1973-74 ESAP project for the Greenville City Schools is $15,960, versus a little more than $43,000 requested in the proposal submitted by the city schools.

In earlier budget action, the school board had approved the final budget for current expenses that reflected a total cut of over $70,000 from initial budget estimates. This was in addition to deficit spending represented by the board's action in carrying forward some of unencumbered funds.

Further Cutbacks Set For Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources expect the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam to fall to about 25,000 men by Dec. 1, some 2,000 fewer than President Nixon's goal for that date.

These sources also predicted Tuesday that the number of troops staying behind will fall to about 20,000 before leveling out to a minimum force.

The President announced Tuesday the latest troop reduction, from about 29,000 at present to 27,000 by Dec. 1. He refused to say whether additional withdrawals would follow.

However, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the 27,000 will not be the minimum force expected to remain in Vietnam pending a war settlement, meaning another withdrawal is likely.

The President said Tuesday, as he has said before, that some U.S. troops will remain in Vietnam while "there is one prisoner of war in Vietnam or missing in action not accounted for."

The latest troop withdrawal is the 12th under a policy followed by Nixon since shortly after he entered the White House in 1969 when U.S. troops in South Vietnam totaled 543,400.

Laird, who returned Tuesday from a conference with Nixon at the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., said U.S. servicemen remaining in South Vietnam will carry out logistics, air, intelligence and advisory assignments.

The U.S. advisors will be the last to leave. There were hints at the Pentagon that their number will be reduced in the next withdrawal stage.

Government forces have given up all fixed bases along the 15-mile stretch of Highway 13 between Chon Thanh and An Loc, a stretch where they had been stalled in costly fighting since early May.

The sources said the North Vietnamese forces now appear to be trying to move south toward Saigon on courses paralleling the highway. Some officials believe this is part of a new offensive effort that, according to captured documents, is being readied for the immediate Saigon area next month.

President Nguyen Van Thieu predicted such an effort in a speech Aug. 1, saying the Communists would put pressure on Saigon before the U.S. election in an effort to create economic crisis and political unrest in the capital.

The first session consisted of exchanges of greetings, confirmation of the agenda and pledges to negotiate in a spirit of reconciliation. The South Koreans were to attend cultural performances and sightsee before returning to Seoul Saturday. But the schedule calls for no working sessions until the North Koreans come to Seoul in two weeks, on Sept. 13.

In their speeches, both sides stressed their common background and aspirations rather than the ideological gap between the Communist North and the South, an ally of the United States.

The streets of Pyongyang were clean and uncongested even during the morning rush hours and the general public appeared quite indifferent to the talks, South Korean newsmen reported from the North Korean capital.

Most of the violations occurred in 1971 when "bootleg tobacco," or that portion of a grower's production in excess of allotted quotas, was sold for below-market prices and then certified as having been grown on another farm.

The newspaper said both farmers and warehousemen were involved.

A USDA spokesman, who was not identified said the investigation by the department's Office of the Inspector General would continue, the newspaper reported.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said he knew nothing about the USDA investigation. "These are serious charges. I just hope they have their facts right," he said.

The newspaper quoted the USDA spokesman as saying violators would be prosecuted on charges of false certification and conspiracy.

Conviction could bring imprisonment of up to five years and fines of up to $10,000, plus monetary penalties based on quota regulations and reduction in acreage allotments and marketing quotas of growers for one year.

SEOUL (AP) — North and South Korean Red Cross officials expressed hope for early reunification of the divided peninsula during the opening ceremonial session in Pyongyang today of negotiations to end the separation of millions of families.

U.S. Command Reveals 94 Airmen Lost Since Red Offensive Started

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 94 American airmen have been lost in North Vietnam since the start of the Communist offensive last March 30 that was met by sharp escalation of the U.S. air war against the North.

The toll increased to 94 with the delayed announcement that three F-4s and two F-4 Phantoms were lost last Saturday and Sunday. One man, Marine 1st Lt. Darrel Borders, 33, of Herrin, Ill., was rescued.

A total of 84 American jets have been downed in North Vietnam since March 30, the U.S. Command said.

Hanoi Radio has announced the names of more than 90 of the fliers who it said were captured. Borders' F-4 was shot down by a North Vietnamese MIG Saturday near the Laotian border 92 miles southwest of Hanoi. He was picked up despite a hail of fire that damaged two rescue helicopters.

The other Phantom, a Navy plane, was downed Sunday by a surface-to-air missile 24 miles northwest of Thanh Hoa.

The U.S. Command also announced that three American advisers were among those wounded Tuesday when North Vietnamese gunners fired a total of 1,300 artillery and mortar shells into government positions in and around Quang Tri.

More than 100 miles to the south of Quang Tri, fighting appeared to have tapered off in the battle for the Que Son Valley, but there was no indication that the North Vietnamese who control most of it were pulling out.

Select Belhaven To Get Award

RALEIGH (AP) — The town of Belhaven in Beaufort County has been selected as the 63rd community to receive the North Carolina Governor's Award.

Gov. Bob Scott will present the award to the town in a ceremony at Belhaven on Sept. 8.

The North Carolina Governor's Award was started in 1970 in an effort to promote economic development in smaller rural communities of the state.

3,000 Hogs To Be Destroyed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A task force of veterinarians and animal inspectors plan to destroy 3,000 hogs in Warren County today to help curb an outbreak of hog cholera.

The outbreak of the highly contagious disease, which occurs only in swine, has so far affected three states.

An estimated 29,000 hogs in Kentucky have been infected with or exposed to the disease. More than 1,800 hogs have been exterminated already, state Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler said Tuesday.

The newspaper reported that, according to the USDA spokesman, tobacco purchased at below-market prices was marketed on quota cards issued for other farms or was concealed in a manner which appeared illegal.

Another $1 Million Day On Greenville Leaf Mart

The Greenville Tobacco market yesterday led the other markets in the Eastern Belt with the number of pounds of tobacco sold.

The Greenville market sold 1,354,886 pounds of leaf for $1,199,352, giving an average of $88.53 per hundred pounds. Greenville's average yesterday was much higher than Monday's average of $87.37 per hundred pounds.

The highest average was obtained on the Wilson Market. The market averaged $88.93 per hundred pounds when 1,191,191 pounds of tobacco went for $1,069,364.

The lowest average on the Eastern Belt was received on the Clinton market which had an average of $87.69 per hundred pounds.

Stabilization receipts on the Eastern Belt yesterday totaled 900 pounds.

The Kinston market averaged $88.36 per hundred pounds while the average on the Rocky Mount market was $88.41.

The Eastern Belt averaged $88.48 per hundred pounds yesterday when 8,346,462 pounds of leaf were sold for $7,296,804.

A total of 68,970,032 pounds of tobacco has been sold on the Eastern Belt for a season average of $87.23 per hundred pounds.

Prices on the Farmville tobacco market yesterday were stronger than on any previous sale day this season.

Leaf and cutter grades brought as high as 90 cents a pound. Several growers averaged 90 cents a pound for the entire sale. Offerings were mostly primings, lugs and leaf grades.

The percentage of nondescript grades showed a slight increase. Volume of sales has been heavy since opening day, but it was somewhat lighter this week due to cuts in selling time.

Yesterday 473,579 pounds were sold for $419,316.70, for an average of $88.54 per hundred pounds. To date, the local market has sold 4,672,324 pounds for $4,073,324, averaging $87.14 per hundred pounds.

Smoking Dangerous 'Reach To Recovery' Program Has Helped Thousands To Nonsmokers

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Charlene Tilton-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a hired companion to an 88-year-old invalid woman. She is very wealthy and lives in a luxurious mobile home with every convenience you could imagine. I occupy the back bedroom of her mobile home. I am well paid, but here's my problem:

This lady smokes constantly and has frequently fallen asleep with a lit cigaret between her fingers.

I work from 6 a. m. until 10 p. m. caring for her, and I need my rest, but I'm afraid to go to sleep because she gets up during the night, lights a cigaret and falls asleep.

This lady is friendly with the manager of the trailer court, who knows about her smoking, but does nothing about it. Her doctor also knows because I have told him. He also has done nothing.

Abby, I am so afraid that one night she will set fire to this mobile home. What can be done? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You must persuade the lady that for her own safety she must either turn in her matches at bedtime or hire a companion for the night shift. And for heaven's sake, implore her doctor and the manager of the court to take some action!

DEAR ABBY: I am in my early 20s and have been married for five years. Neither my husband nor I want children. We do not like children, and we do not need them. Ever since we have been married, all I have heard from the community is "When are you going to have children?" I am so sick and tired of hearing this asinine and rude question that I could scream. I am beginning to feel as tho I should have been a salmon — a simple creature that lives only to spawn and then die. That is the way most people seem to regard young married women.

Well, I have news for them! I am perfectly happy with my life as it is. I have no desire or "urge" to have children. I have a good job that makes me feel needed and useful. I feel as tho I am doing my part for mankind in earning my own support and doing a much needed job. And if those nosy people think that I'm missing the "joy" of supporting children, just let them look at my tax bills. I'm busy enough supporting children of those people who don't have enough sense to use birth control. I don't need any more bills.

I'm no dope — I have a good mind, and I contribute as much to the working force as any man, and I think that if that is enough for my satisfaction, it should satisfy the old biddies in the community.

So, please, Dear Abby, tell these rude and insensitive people to stop trying to make a girl feel useless unless she has a dozen kids trailing behind her. I am as useful and feminine as any mother (more than most) and I intend to stay that way. The doldrums of childraising are not for me. Give me a challenging and rewarding business career any day! SIGNED: SMART — NOT SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SMART: You've already told 'em. But good!

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Reach is the most important word, because a woman must not only reach physically in exercising but she must reach out to family and friends."

So says attractive, vibrant Terese Lasser, whose "Reach to Recovery" program helped thousands of women who have undergone surgery for breast cancer.

Wearing a well-fitting pink dress with a colorful scarf and using sweeping gestures to emphasize her points, Mrs. Lasser talks with ease and frankness about the aftermath of her own mastectomy in 1952.

"I started asking questions and unfortunately there weren't any answers," she recalls. No answers to practical questions, such as what kind of physical therapy to start, where to get a breast form and when, how and if she could return to an active life.

And no answers to even more pressing emotional questions, such as her relationship with her husband and how to regain her confidence as a woman.

"I sat down at the typewriter and poured out what I felt inside of me, my personal experience," she recalls. "You know you're still living, but what kind of a life? I thought if I'm going through all this there must be other women who are doing the same thing."

"Then I started finding out what exercises would help me the most, how to cope with the problems of dress and wardrobe adjustment and where to shop for an artificial breast form—I didn't even know they were called prostheses."

The knowledge thus gained was incorporated into her "Reach for Recovery Manual," a guide given free to mastectomy patients. The first printing was financed by her husband, the late J. K. Lasser, author of "Your Income Tax" and other books.

Now Mrs. Lasser has written a book, "Reach to Recovery."

FAMILY REUNION

The family of Joseph and Mary Ward Lang will have their annual reunion at Sunset Park in Rocky Mount at Shelter C, Sunday Sept. 3, 1972 from 12:00 noon to 4:00 p.m. Relatives and friends are invited to come and bring picnic lunch. Paperware, forks, tea and ice will be furnished.

in collaboration with William Kendall Clarke. It tells the story of her one-woman campaign to aid other mastectomees. The Reach to Recovery Program was integrated three years ago into the American Cancer Society.

A Reach to Recovery Volunteer, who has herself undergone a mastectomy and had extensive training, visits a patient at her attending surgeon's invitation. The visitor will be perfectly groomed, will be wearing a clinging dress and will find an excuse to pull down a window shade or reach for something to show that her movement is unhampered.

She brings along a kit that includes a coated rope and rubber ball for exercises, a temporary breast form, a reference list of sources for prostheses, the manual and other brochures. She shows the patient how to do exercises—and talks.

"They hang on to every word you say—they don't want you to go," declares Mrs. Lasser. "Our volunteers are marvelous. Their brush with cancer has made them realize life is so wonderful and they want to repay their good fortune."

Mrs. Lasser, who is known as "Ted," admits to a deep faith of her own. "I don't need a church or anything over my head. But I feel the Lord chose me as an instrument—otherwise how could I have the energy to do what I'm doing?" asks the woman who traveled 150,000 miles last year telling her story, speaking to professional groups, helping to train volunteers and reassuring mastectomees that they can resume their former way of life.

"Anything a woman did before, with rare exceptions, she is able to do as well if not better," she insists. "And that includes being a wife and mother and friend, as well as indulging in all activities."

"As soon as she's fitted properly, nobody will know she has had the operation," Mrs. Lasser adds.

"But I personally have found that if you speak of it easily and casually everyone will accept it."

"Men don't marry centerfold women," she goes on. "They marry women for other reasons. But the man needs to reassure a woman and pamper her with love."

Mrs. Lasser has received numerous honors and awards, but she considers her greatest reward is "to see a woman's face when I leave her, especially the woman who didn't want to see me in the first place and than can't bear to have me leave."

Is Kennedy In The Background?

Somewhere behind the McGovern-Shriver strategy for the Democratic campaign, there must be a Kennedy strategy for future political plans. The choice of Sargent Shriver for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, and his acceptance of the nomination, obviously did not come about without careful consideration by the McGovern strategists and the Kennedy strategists as well.

Feels Politics Like Skydiving

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Skydiving and a political campaign have in common the exercise of discipline, pulse-pounding excitement, and an unpredictable landing. They are activities indulged in by choice. Only a particular kind of person gets kicks from jumping out of an airplane, or jumping into a hot race for office.

Lance Brisson has done both, considering himself lucky for the chance. He's made six jumps as a skydiver. He survived his political baptism as press secretary to Congressman Nick Galifianakis in the primary which captured the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

minute impression. Then you're forgotten, unless there's the substance that makes you interesting as a person in your own right. Stranger In Home Town He knows the geography of Hollywood and Beverly Hills, but its glamour life style is as foreign to young Brisson as it is to the average movie fan. "It's not my world," he said. "To be honest, it's a fantasy world. I find the contrast a little strong after being among real people involved in real problems."

He read newspapers and news magazines avidly as a boy. That led logically to his choice for a career. He went the classic route from copy boy to reporter. At 20, he was the youngest writer on the staff of the Los Angeles Times. He moved to television and spent three years with a Los Angeles ABC-affiliate station. He contributed to magazines as a free lance writer.

A Congressional Fellowship awarded by the American Political Science Association took him to Washington and the meeting with Galifianakis, the Representative from North Carolina's Fourth District. Seeing The Other Side When the Congressman started tuning up to run for the Senate, Brisson seized the opportunity to see a campaign from the other side of the reporter's pad and pencil. He resigned the fellowship and joined Galifianakis full time. The spring primary was not only Brisson's initial plunge into politics; it also gave him an introduction to the South.

"What I knew about the South was lines on the map and the picture drawn by the national media," he said. Neither was sufficient to prevent an element of cultural shock at sudden and deep involvement in the politics of an Old Confederacy state. He quickly learned that a drawl is no clue to mental alacrity. "Behind those slow tongues are some fast minds, at least in politics," Brisson said. "I'd say political judgment here is as fine, if not finer, as anywhere in the country."

He's seen master campaigners in action, among them the Kennedys and the California politicians. He'd put Galifianakis against any of them. "As a personal campaigner, the Congressman has no equal. I've been with him on the tobacco markets and in the shopping centers. People in all walks of life react well to him," Brisson related. That appeal, supported by the campaign staff, will be fundamental to the drive for the Senate seat, he added.

ruled out of his future political plans a spot on the national Democratic ticket? Is Shriver to be a stand-in for Sen. Kennedy in the 1972 elections, looking toward the 1976 nominations when Sen. Kennedy may be a candidate which could "revitalize" the party if the McGovern-Shriver ticket is swamped under by Republican votes this fall?

How closely does Shriver's nomination tie the future of the McGovern and Kennedy factions of the Democratic party? Under any circumstances, it is a logical assumption that even if the McGovern-Shriver ticket does not win in November, Sen. McGovern will seek the nomination again in 1976. It has been the pattern in the Democratic party even in defeat. Adlai Stevenson fell before the Eisenhower onslaught in 1952 and was the party's nominee again in 1956. Hubert Humphrey's defeat by President Nixon four years ago did not prevent him making a strong bid for the party's nomination again this year.

Come 1976, would the fact that Sen. McGovern chose Sen. Edward Kennedy's brother-in-law as a running mate in this year prevent Sen. Kennedy from trying to snatch the nomination from McGovern? If such an intra-party fight developed, would Sargent Shriver side with Sen. McGovern, or with Sen. Kennedy? Assuming the other alternative—a McGovern-Shriver victory this November—it must be a foregone conclusion that the winning ticket would not be abandoned by the Democratic party in 1976. It would be McGovern-Shriver again that year. And should Shriver serve two terms as vice president, it would hardly be likely that the party would turn elsewhere for a nominee in 1980 when McGovern would be ineligible to seek re-election. It would be a ticket headed by Shriver, and there would be no room for another "Kennedy".

Obviously Shriver would not have accepted McGovern's selection as a running mate this year over serious Kennedy objections. Certainly McGovern would not have selected Shriver without assurances he would not turn against him in favor of another nominee in the future. Observations of political experts notwithstanding, perhaps Sen. Edward Kennedy is firmly resolved his future political plans do not involve seeking a presidential nomination.

Strategist Of Counterattack

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Despite fears that overkill reaction to Sen. George McGovern's political attacks could unwittingly help reunite the shattered Democratic party, President Nixon has ordered immediate counterattacks under command of Charles Colson, a senior White House aide expert in political propaganda techniques.

Colson and selected other Presidential aides — speechwriter Patrick Buchanan, media experts John Scall and Kenneth Clawson and occasionally White House major domo H. R. (Bob) Haldeman — orchestrate the counterattacks in daily, early-morning meetings at the White House.

However, their overall control has broken down almost immediately. The attack on Ramsey Clark's visit to Hanoi by John Mitchell, formerly Mr. Nixon's campaign manager and still his intimate adviser, was not in Colson's scenario for handling Clark's escapades. The Colson group, feeling most Americans were infuriated by Clark's statements in Hanoi with no need for White House prompting, had planned a low-key response. Consequently, the White House operatives were angered when Mitchell — on his own — bombarded Clark. Mr. Nixon wants the Colson group to control totally the political response, all Republicans staying mute until marching orders come from the White House. Mitchell's unprompted blast against Clark shows the difficulties of running such a delicate operation. The most successful orchestration so far by Colson's group was the modulated response to Sargent Shriver's charge that Mr. Nixon "blew" an alleged chance for Vietnam peace in January 1969.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, obeying Mr. Nixon's insistence that he keep a low profile, handled Shriver's charge gingerly — passing it off as the blunder of an "inexperienced" politician. Colson assigned the role of heavy in knocking down Shriver not to a "bad guy" Agnew but to a "good guy": Secretary of State William P. Rogers. But even this successful stage-managing troubled many Republican leaders at the Miami Beach convention, who fear overkill could drive millions of disaffected Democrats into McGovern's arms. Their view: let headlines and television screens tell the story. The President and the Colson group reject that theory, for two reasons: first, to maintain party morale at the grass roots, hard counterattack is essential; second, and more important, ever wilder swings by McGovern and Shriver are expected by the White House, and Mr. Nixon wants the Colson group's techniques to be ready for them.

The TV Pilot In Miami

WASHINGTON — It is not generally known, but last week's Republican National Convention was a pilot for a weekly TV series titled "One Man's Party," scheduled to premiere this fall. Network officials decided to try out the show this summer to see how it would be received. A meeting was held in New York yesterday between the network executives and the packagers of the program, who were hoping the option would be picked up for another 29 weeks.

One of the Republican officials asked, "Well, what do you think?" A TV network vice president said, "It was an interesting pilot. It didn't get the ratings we thought it would..." "But what about the show itself? It was beautiful, huh?" another Republican packager pressed. "It had color," another TV network man said, "God knows it had color. But I'm not sure it would make a weekly series."

"Why not?" a third Republican packager asked. "It had music, excitement, stars and the American flag. What more do you want?" "It had all that," a TV executive said, "but it just didn't seem to have the suspense we were hoping it would." "What do you mean it didn't have the suspense?" a Republican packager demanded. "How about after Nixon was nominated, when the rope got caught and we didn't know if the balloons would drop from the ceiling of the convention hall or not?"

Another Republican packager said angrily, "Don't tell us we didn't have suspense. What about the roll call vote for President Nixon, when New Mexico cast one ballot in favor of Pete McCloskey?" "And how about when they were voting for the Vice President and David Brinkley?"

"What do you mean it didn't have the suspense?" a Republican packager demanded. "How about after Nixon was nominated, when the rope got caught and we didn't know if the balloons would drop from the ceiling of the convention hall or not?"

got a vote to prevent Agnew from winning unanimously? That was a cliffhanger." "That's true," a TV executive said, "but it didn't have enough things like that. Frankly, gentlemen, we don't see the Republican National Convention as a weekly series."

"What are you sore at?" a Republican packager asked. "Is it because our spontaneous demonstrations ran three minutes overtime? We'll tighten it up next week. We'll make damn sure Gerry Ford sticks to the schedule."

"We have no objections to the show technically," a TV executive said. "It was the slickest TV program ever put on the air. No one flubbed a line. Everyone stuck to the script. It was perfect." "Too perfect," another TV vice president said. "There wasn't one dissenting voice, one bit of conflict, one slice of drama. And worst of all, you didn't even have any laughs."

"Now wait a minute," a Republican man said. "We don't put on those kinds of shows. We're a family production company. Anyone could have watched the Republican National Convention show without fear of being offended." "But nobody watched it!" a TV man screamed. "Learning Spanish at Home" got a higher rating than your show."

"You don't even know what we've got planned for the series," the Republican said. "In the next installment John Wayne loses his credentials, and the usher bars him from entering. It's only when he runs into Ronald Reagan at the door

HAL BOYLE
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Neither the prospect of heaven nor the terrors of hell greatly concern my mother, who will be 85 years old next month and still has the keenest mind on her block.

She tides herself against the onset of eternity by going about the daily small tasks of living — as usual. In fact, "living — as usual" wouldn't be a bad summary of the life of quiet distinction Margaret Gavaghan Boyle has led since she landed on American shores at 17, fresh from a farm in County Mayo, Ireland.

"I've never done a bad thing in this world, so why should I fret about anything that might happen in the next world, if there is one?" she asked. "Anyway, I doubt if there will be anything worse — or much better, for that matter — than what I've already seen. Everybody gets a good taste of both heaven and hell on earth."

It takes a person of inordinate vanity or innocent and unselfconscious grace to say that in nearly 85 years of human life she never did a really bad thing. In Mrs. Margaret Boyle's case, it isn't vanity. It's a simple statement of truth, to which anyone who knows her would testify.

I have become increasingly aware over the years of what a privilege it is to have such a profound and artless a philosopher for a mother. The two or three visits I make her each year are my pilgrimages to mecca. I hold her almost as much in awe as I do in love.

Wisdom doesn't need a trumpet or a vast amphitheater. My mother has always been an oracle of the living room, her audience her family. Self-educated by thought and observation, her windows to the world have been the windows of her home and her daily newspaper, The Kansas City Star and Times.

She still lives, as she has for more than a quarter of a century, with my sister Dolores and her husband, Don Newton, a paint contractor who has been to her more like a son than a brother.

Strength For Today

IT CAN BE CURED
Have you ever run into a series of circumstances which opened up to you the experience of hurt feelings? If you have, you may have been in some doubt as to whether you should laugh or become angry or weep. People with thin cuticle can cause more trouble in the world than typhoid carriers. There are some folks who have an absolutely perverse genius for keeping families, offices, fraternities, sororities and shops stirred up because their feelings are hurt. "Dear me, I am so sensitive. I am just crushed when people slight me, or fail to take me into consideration, or pass me by, or fail to invite me to their party. Dear, dear."

No End To Britain's Problems

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — British business is only months away from its best chance for booming profits since World War II: entry into the European Common Market. But the immediate outlook remains grim. Britain's present home market of 55 million people will be replaced by 300 million Europeans in the expanded 10-nation community. By some forecasts here, removal of the tariff walls will boost British trade by over $700 million a year, more than enough to meet higher food prices and other costs of joining Europe. But entry is a double-edged sword. European members will be free to outsell the British here if they can. Under the present tariff system their sales to Britain are already 30 per cent higher than British sales to the Common Market countries. Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government won office in June 1970 promising to put the economy right. It still has a long way to go. For British businesses, strikes remain a crucial problem. The country lost more than 13 million man-days of work last year because of stoppages, a record since the 1926 general strike. Heath made a controversial strike-control law his top priority in domestic legislation, despite total opposition from the trade unions. The law, enacted early this year, failed to prevent crippling strikes and may have aggravated them. Meanwhile, industrial troubles and trade losses forced Britain to let the pound float in international currency markets since June, outside fixed exchange rates. The government refuses to name a date for restabilizing the pound. This could help in the common market because the cheaper pound reduces British export prices. The British press tended to blame the float on foreign speculators losing confidence in Britain. Foreigners have lost faith in this country before, during the dark days of the blitz for example, and been proven wrong. The more important question is whether the British are losing confidence in themselves to solve a series of implacable problems, including strikes and the trouble in northern Ireland, among others!

"It's high time I moved into an old folks' home," she says. "There you can just lie down in bed and people come and wait on you until you die."
"No Mama, you'd be dead in less than two weeks if you ever went into an old folks' home," a member of the family objects.

"Less than a week probably," agrees Mother placidly. "But that might be better for everybody."

Then she listens willingly as everyone assures her that she is still the keystone of the family, and that without her it simply would disintegrate and drift apart.

"I'm simply wearing out all over, just like the old one shay," she said. "Now I simply live for each day as it comes."

Actually, Mother is in no hurry to be gone. Her curiosity is as sharp as ever, she can still stomp out to the kitchen on a cane and get the evening meal started, and she enjoys the neighborhood gossip and her morning battle to keep her fiercely protective dog, Prince, from consuming the postman. Her blood pressure and a mild case of diabetes are under control, her rheumatism — she thinks it more dignified to call it arthritis now — no worse than 20 years ago.

She still pities young people because she thinks it is harder for them to feel secure now than it was for her when she was a young mother raising five children in a strange and sometime terrifying land. But a touch of acerbity is creeping into her attitude toward the human race as a whole.

"People are all getting chronic today," she volunteered the other day.

"What do you mean by chronic, Mother?"

"Well, the more they get, the more they want," said Mama, "and the more they get what they want, the more dissatisfied they are with it."

"That's what I call being chronic."

Evans-Novak . . .

Former Postmaster General Winton (Red) Blount has been handed a secret weapon that could win him a seat from Alabama in the U.S. Senate against veteran Democratic Sen. John J. Sparkman — and possibly bring Republican control of the Senate for the first time in 20 years.

The weapon: a decision by John Cashin, head of the predominantly black National Democratic Party of Alabama (NDPA) to instruct Alabama blacks to vote for the McGovern-Shriver ticket on the NDPA line, not the regular Democratic party line (which has a separate slate of electors).

Cashin's decision could swing 100,000 or more black voters to the NDPA voting column — which includes John LeFlore, a longtime black leader in Mobile, as candidate for the Senate. The cost to Sparkman of losing that many votes to LeFlore could be victory by Blount, who now trails Sparkman by at least 12 percentage points.

Cashin's decision is ironic for the national Democratic party's top priority fight to keep Senate control because it stems directly from Sen. McGovern's decision not to waste time or money in Alabama. The word that McGovern managers will bypass the Deep South and concede it to President Nixon convinced Cashin there was no need to worry about dividing votes between McGovern-Shriver electors on the regular Democratic line and electors on the NDPA line; after all, McGovern concedes he can't win the state under any conditions.

So, Cashin passed word to his black organization: Vote for McGovern-Shriver on the NDPA line, guaranteeing a big vote for LeFlore that could change the balance of power in Washington for the next two years.

Power Plant Hearing Due

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Centralina Council of Governments will hold a public hearing tonight on Duke Power Co. plans to build a $542 million nuclear power plant 17 miles north of Charlotte on Lake Norman.

The council, with 29 delegates, is composed of local government representatives from Mecklenburg, Union, Gaston, Lincoln, Iredell, Rowan, Cabarrus and Stanly counties. It serves as a regional planning board.

Delegates will hear arguments for and against the nuclear plant before voting on whether they support the power company's plans.

Dr. Milton Edlund, Virginia Tech physicist, will act as the council's neutral technical adviser, explaining factual issues involved in operating nuclear power plants.

Duke Power will be represented by William S. Lee III, senior vice president in charge of construction and engineering.

Opponents of the McGuire plant will be represented by Jesse Riley, a research chemist at Celanese Corp. in Charlotte and a member of the Carolina Environmental Study Group. The study group has intervened against the plant in hearings before an Atomic Safety and Licensing Board.

Three representatives from the Environmental Protection Agency will report the findings of the agency's review of reports by the utility and the Atomic Energy Commission, dealing with the McGuire plant's environmental impact.

Experiment In Cooperatives

MANILA (UPI)—About 668 cooperatives have been organized in the Greater Manila area to begin implementing the administration program to bring down the prices of basic commodities. Under the program, the cooperatives will service the requirements of consumers in both government and private offices.

Fla. Promoter Arrested Today

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Glenn W. Turner, 37-year-old millionaire and founder of a giant corporate empire, was arrested at 3:30 a.m. EDT today as he stepped from his private jet at Sanford Airport, Seminole County deputies said.

The Orlando businessman, who built Glenn W. Turner Enterprises into one of the nation's most controversial conglomerates, was served with two warrants issued in Pinellas County, deputies said.

The warrants charged that Turner violated the Uniform Sales and Securities Law, said Seminole County Deputy Russ Corley.

Turner was taken to the county jail here, and he immediately posted $20,000 bond and was released, Corley reported.

Deputies made the predawn arrest when Turner climbed from his Lear-Jet at a private hangar at the local airport, according to Corley.

The deputy said Orange County authorities carried the Pinellas County felony warrants here to be served on Turner.

Last Tuesday law officers from Pinellas and Orange Counties sealed off the main Turner headquarters in Orlando, the Orange County seat, and seized records belonging to a Turner subsidiary, Dare To Be Great, Inc. A Pinellas County circuit judge ruled a week later that the documents had been taken lawfully. Turner, who owns the Turner Enterprises holding company, had protested the confiscation.

A lawyer representing the 70-firm conglomerate, Theodore Koskoff, charged that hundreds of employees were "imprisoned" in the Turner building for several hours while Pinellas County assistant state attorneys and Orange County deputies guarded doors and took files.

Turner had challenged the right of a state attorney's office to seize records in an investigation in which no indictments or arrest warrants had been issued. Pinellas County State Attorney Richard Egan said last week that the investigation was being carried on solely by authorities in that county.

Turner Enterprises and a subsidiary, Dare To Be Great, Inc., faced legal action Tuesday in Ohio and Oklahoma. Under Ohio's new sales law, a temporary restraining order was issued against the two firms and Turner himself, in Common Pleas Court in Cleveland. In Oklahoma City, Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry and Security Commissioner William Fisher asked the Oklahoma secretary of state to oust the two Turner firms.

Fisher said Oklahoma law provides for ouster of any corporation that fails to submit books or records for examination by state officials on request.

Fisher said he has subpoenaed records but "to date neither company has complied with this request."

Turner's firms have been involved in legal disputes in many states where some of the Turner marketing practices have been challenged. The young business executive, who stepped down several months ago as board chairman of Turner Enterprises but held onto 100 per cent of the stock, claimed he was persecuted in a nationwide plot aimed at putting him out of business.

Legal actions have been initiated in 42 states in relation to Turner firms. Most allege deceptive selling in the big Turner money-makers: Koscot Interplanetary, Inc., a cosmetics firm, and Dare To Be Great, a self-confidence course.

Federal complaints are pending before the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission.

Turner himself faces charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud in Michigan and Florida.

Ulster Requests Emergency Fund

BELFAST (AP) — Businessmen in Northern Ireland asked the British government today for $24½ million worth of emergency assistance to keep open amid the bombs and shooting.

An appeal from the Belfast Chamber of Trade on behalf of firms in the capital, Londonderry and Newry said the money was vital to keep establishments suffering constant damage from going under.

Even as the plea was issued, a powerful bomb blast tore apart a garage in North Belfast. Another massive explosion wrecked a tobacco warehouse Tuesday.

Weakening the economy of Protestant-dominated Ulster is among the aims of the Irish Republican Army in its campaign to force the province under the rule of the Roman Catholic republic to the south.

Unless the British government helps out, said the Chamber of Trade "we are about to give the terrorists a massive victory — the collapse and closing down of well-established Ulster businesses." It said trade in the center of the cities had dropped 35 per cent during the three years of violence that has cost at least 542 lives.

In Australia, the Sydney Evening Sun reported that the IRA is trying to recruit Australians as snipers and bomb-makers in Northern Ireland. The newspaper said one Sydney explosives expert was offered an advance of $2,400, free passage to Ireland and $600 "a hit" to make bombs. He refused, the Sun added.

Sentence Lawyer On Tax Charge

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP) — Henry Boshamer, 40-year-old Morehead City attorney, a member of the State Ports Authority, pleaded guilty Tuesday to failure to file a federal income tax return for 1967.

U. S. District Judge John J. Larkins sentenced the former legislator to two years probation and fined him $1,000. He was given a suspended prison sentence of one year.

The Internal Revenue Service said Boshamer had an income of $18,067 in 1967.

the Floridians, James B. Erwin and Robert Herrin, on Aug. 9, 1971.

The defendants were sentenced Tuesday.

Erwin and Herrin had picked them up on a road near Charlotte. Erwin testified the men took his car after letting him out at a service station near Charlotte and firing at him. Herrin said he was let out a short distance away and also was shot at. The car was found half an hour later in Charlotte, badly damaged by fire.

McGovern Ditches His Earlier Economic Programs

By EDMOND Le BRENTON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—George McGovern, ditching the much-disputed idea of a $1,000 "demogrant" for everyone and saying he would like a conservative Southerner to head the Treasury in his administration, appeared today to have reinforced his bid to moderate in the Democratic party and the electorate at large.

The Democratic presidential candidate's new proposals, delivered in a tight-packed speech Tuesday to the New York Society of Security Analysts, met an understandably mixed reaction.

Such tough tax elements as a proposal to end the favorable treatment of capital gains went over, as one analyst put it, like a lead balloon. But a number of McGovern's Wall Street audience were intrigued by his surprise announcement that, if he were elected, he would offer the Treasury secretaryship to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mills is regarded on Capitol Hill as a pragmatist but essentially a conservative. Reached at his home in Kensett, Ark., he did not reject out of hand the possibility of serving in a McGovern administration.

"If he's elected and actually offered it to me, I'd have to think about it," Mills said.

Arthur M. Moren Jr., investment officer for the Chemical Bank of New York, commented that McGovern's tax proposals had not won much support on Wall Street but that the mention of Mills was received enthusiastically because there is "great respect for Mills in the financial community."

Dropping the idea of welfare reform through a $1,000 a person allocation that would be recouped in taxes on the affluent and comfortable, McGovern outlined a plan not unlike President Nixon's, but with a bigger family income base — $4,000 for four persons instead of $2,400. Details were left vague, with the explanation they still were to be worked on.

Other elements of the program McGovern outlined were: —A $22 billion tax reform package, to be phased in by 1975. Beside taxation of capital gains at regular rates and at the owner's death, it includes a federal subsidy to induce states and cities to discontinue issuance of bonds with tax exempt interest, elimination of the present petroleum depletion allowance and one-year drilling chargeoff, repeal of speeded up depreciation, special real estate writeoffs, favorable treatment of income earned by foreign and export subsidiaries, nonfarmers' agricultural tax shelters along with, ultimately, some tightening of the investment credit.

—Also proposed, though not as an immediate revenue increase, was a new system of estate and gift taxes with rates, like those of the income tax, based on an individual's receipts rather than the size of the estate.

—Reduction of the top-bracket tax rate from 70 per cent to 48 per cent.

—A $15 billion federal contribution to the cost of local schools, to relieve the property tax.

—A $10 billion federal contract program to stimulate the private sector and a $6 billion plan to create public service jobs for a million unemployed.

—Extension and liberalization of Social Security benefits, with financing from Treasury general funds, to reduce welfare rolls by 3 million.

McGovern said the added costs of his program would be more than covered by a $22 billion tax pickup he envisaged for 1975, plus $30 billion savings he expected to make by then in the defense budget.

In presenting his new tax projects, McGovern appeared sensitive to criticism of his earlier proposals as bearing heavily not only on the rich, but on incomes as low as $12,000 or $15,000.

He emphasized his belief that if his present program went into effect, "no American whose income comes from wages and salaries would pay one penny more in taxes than he does now."

Moreover, he said, because his reforms are aimed at specific preferences, much ordinary investment income and inheritance would be unaffected.

Comment on McGovern's new emphases to some extent followed party lines. Economist Pierre Rinfret, a Nixon adviser, said, "It is obvious that the senator realizes the horrible mistakes of his earlier economic proposals."

But Prof. Paul Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a McGovern supporter, said the candidate "has come to concrete terms with what is important and what is unimportant... His tax package is much more feasible than it was before."

Holshouser Day Set Sept. 9

BOONE, N.C. (AP)—Wau-tauga County's commission has proclaimed Sept. 9 as "Jim Holshouser Day" to coincide with the formal kickoff of the Boone attorney's campaign for governor.

Holshouser will launch the campaign with a rally in Boone.

Commission Chairman Perry Greene, in declaring Sept. 9 a day for Holshouser, said it was "only fitting that we should pay tribute to this favorite son who has done so much for our country and for North Carolina."

His Kite-Flying Is No Kid Stuff

By PAUL ANDERSON
SEATTLE (UPI)—Kite flying isn't kid stuff to David Checkley.

A successful architect who retired a few years ago, Checkley now devotes his time to the production of highly sophisticated grownup kites costing up to $20 each.

Checkley introduced his new breed of superkites at a Seattle department store just before last Christmas and all 15 prototypes, made on his wife's sewing machine, were snapped up immediately.

Figuring there was a potential market for such kites, the 54-year-old grandfather began limited marketing of four types of kites, made of lightweight, polyester-covered, high-count nylon fabric.

Two of the models are known by their Buck Rogers-sounding (but technically correct) names, the Maneuverable Tethered Airframe and the Jalbert Parafall. The other two models are the Winged Box Kite and the Allison Flexible Kite.

Psychological Considerations
"Man has always envied the birds and wanted to fly," Checkley said. "Also, Marshall McLuhan says nostalgia is a great motivating force and I guess that's so. All of us want to get back to the simple things."

After sending out samples of his four kites to such prestigious stores as Neiman-Marcus, Abercrombie and Fitch and Marshall Field, Checkley was swamped with orders.

Operating as The Kite Factory, he utilizes mostly local suppliers and hires handicapped workers for assembly.

To test and re-evaluate his products, Checkley does most of his kite flying near his home on a hill in Seattle. But for serious kite testing, he heads for the San Juan Islands, located just off the Washington State coast on the Canadian border.

"The best kite flying spot in the state is at Cattle Point on San Juan Island," he contends.

Started as Boy
Checkley was a kite flier as a boy and said his interest in kites was rekindled about 15 years ago when he was living in Connecticut.

He said he frequently visited Martha's Vineyard, Mass., where kite flying in the salt breezes was a popular sport with home-designed kites.

"Kite flying is a little like fly fishing and sailing," he said. "It's a chance to match your wits against the elements—to get a kite up with almost no wind is a real challenge. It's also a very peaceful pastime."

While living in New Caanan, Conn., Checkley met an inventor, on whose design the Maneuverable Tethered Airframe kite is based, and became hooked on working with new types of kites.

Lawmen Destroy Marijuana Crop

MONROE, N. C. (AP)—Union County sheriff's deputies burned in the county dump today 4,000 pounds of marijuana they uprooted Tuesday in a field 10 miles northeast of Monroe.

Sheriff Frank Fowler said more than 9,000 plants were uprooted on the property of Donald Ray Baucom, 33, the operator of a fish camp.

The sheriff said that Baucom had been charged with manufacturing marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale, and would be given a hearing Sept. 12 in state District Court.

Bald Eagle Was Accident Victim

RALEIGH (AP)—A bald eagle that died Monday apparently was the victim of a collision and not a gunshot.

Dr. T. B. Ryan, a state veterinarian, said there was no evidence that the eagle had been shot. He speculated that the eagle had collided with a small plane or a car before it was found by a wildlife protector in Chatham County.

Ryan said the eagle's body would be sent to a federal laboratory in Maryland for more study.

Airline To Inspect Bags

NEW YORK (AP)—Within a few days, passengers boarding all Trans World Airlines and American Airlines flights will have to surrender their hand luggage for inspection.

The two carriers announced Tuesday that they planned to search all baggage carried aboard their flights in an effort to prevent hijackings.

It is a new policy for American, which previously conducted only spot checks, and an extension of TWA's past policy of inspecting hand luggage on international flights.

George A. Warde, president of American Airlines, said inspecting hand luggage at all of the 45 airports served by the company would cost an extra $2.5 million a year. TWA put no price tag on the added expense.

"I think it's clear there were some people this summer who did not travel because of the (hijacking) problem," said Walter J. Rauscher, executive vice president for passenger marketing at American Airlines.

BAN ON FOREIGN BIRDS—Bert R. Slocum, a Miami (Fla.) importer of birds or prey, holds a hooded Merlin Falcon from India. Slocum contends that the recent ban on importation of foreign birds threatens America's native falcon population because "falconers aren't going to quit just because they can't get the imported birds, they'll just start capturing native birds." Slocum said the U.S.D.A. placed a ban on all imported birds because it feared they could bring diseases that would endanger chicken flocks. (AP Wirephoto)

MOBILE MUSEUM — The mobile Museum of History, now traveling around North Carolina, is currently showing an exhibit called "A Whole New World, 1880-1910." (AP Wirephoto)

Mobile Museum Touring N.C. As State Project

By H. G. Jones
 Director N.C. Dept. of Archives and History
 RALEIGH (AP) — Don't be surprised to see a museum on wheels coming down the highway or possibly parked at a school or shopping center in your neighborhood soon.

The unique "Mobile Museum of History" is operated as a satellite of the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh and is administered by the Office of Archives and History. Since 1963 it has been traveling to schools and other public places across the state, attempting to tell a small part of North Carolina's story.

The mobile museum was established through the joint efforts of the state; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., which made an initial grant of $35,000; the Chevrolet Division of General Motors, which provided the first tractor (since replaced by the state) to pull the museum van; and the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Commission, under whose auspices the initial exhibit, "The First Hundred Years in North Carolina," was installed.

Subsequent exhibits have been "North Carolina and the Civil War," "Rural Life in Early North Carolina, 1820-1860," and "A Whole New World, 1880-1910," which is currently on display.

"A Whole New World" illustrates the changes that affected the lives of average North Carolinians at the turn of the century with the coming of the industrial revolution and the mail order catalog offering a wide variety of mass-produced goods in rural areas for the first time.

The exhibit was made possible by a financial grant from the Sears Roebuck Foundation, and it consists primarily of household artifacts available through catalogs in the late Victorian period. These are displayed alongside reproductions of old catalog pages on which they were advertised. A continuing slide program with pictures and music from the Gay '90s augments the exhibits in addition to explanatory remarks from mobile museum curator John Powell.

For further information about the North Carolina Mobile Museum of History, its availability and scheduling, write to the North Carolina Museum of History, 109 East Jones St., Raleigh 27611.

Two Wrecks On Tuesday

More than $1,900 property damage was estimated by officers in two mishaps investigated in Greenville yesterday.

Heaviest damage reported resulted from a 6:30 a.m. mishap on Memorial Drive near the Clark Street intersection and involved cars driven by Bettye Carter James of 306 Greenfield Blvd. and Billy Saunders Stokes, 24, of Route 2, Robersonville.

Police, who estimated damage to the vehicles at $800 each, charged Stokes with exceeding a safe speed.

No charges were made in a 1:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road that involved cars operated by Janice Marie Drake, 17, of 114 East Redman Ave. and Carol Sparrow Clark, 23, of Route 5, Greenville.

Damage to the Drake vehicle was placed at $15 while damage to the Clark auto was estimated at $350.

FEARFUL PASSENGERS — Passengers of a bus crouch together during fighting along Route 4 in the northern Mekong Delta, near Cai Lay, Vietnam. North Vietnamese attacked a government outpost and a bridge cutting the vital road which links Saigon to the rice-rich region. Traffic jammed up on both sides of the fighting and frightened passengers sought refuge between and under vehicles. (AP Wirephoto)

New 'Capital' For Murders

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Wilmington has replaced Charlotte as North Carolina's murder capital.

The FBI Uniform Crime Reports say that in 1971 the Wilmington Metropolitan Statistical Area, which is New Hanover and Brunswick counties, had 21.8 murders and nonnegligent manslaughters per 100,000 population. The Charlotte statistical area, which is Mecklenburg and Union counties, had 17.6.

In the Charlotte area, with a population of 421,000, there were 73 murders and nonnegligent manslaughters. In the Wilmington area, population 110,000, there were 24.

BUYS ESCAPE
 MANILA (UPI) — A 32-year-old escaped murderer from the southern Philippines' Davao penal colony, following his arrest told authorities he bribed a prison trustee with 20 pesos ($3.30 to allow his escape.)

the upswing or not. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.36 to 859.08. Advances opened up a 550-to-585 lead over declines on the Big Board, in fairly slow trading.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was up .20 to 80.94.

In today's rally, the Dow industrials were regaining some of the ground lost in a plummet of nearly 18 points last Thursday, when Chase Manhattan Bank announced an increase in its prime rate to 5 1/2 per cent. The market dropped again Tuesday morning when other banks followed suit but rallied after McGovern's midday speech.

Following a block trade of 200,000 shares, Phillips Petroleum was the Big Board's most-active issue, up 3/4 to 35 1/4. Curtiss-Wright, which gained 3 Tuesday on news that General Motors expected to offer the Wankel rotary engine in some cars in about two years, was up 3 1/4 more points today to 52. The company owns North American rights to the Wankel.

Named Director Of Growth Bd.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Tennessee university president has been appointed executive Director of the fledgling Southern Growth Policies Board which is setting up shop in North Carolina's Research Triangle.

The appointment of Dr. William L. Bowden, president of Southwestern University at Memphis, Tenn., was announced Tuesday by Dr. Thad Beyle, an associate professor of political science at the University of North Carolina who is serving as advisor to the board.

Dr. Bowden is expected to resign his university post to take the new position by the first of the year.

The board, now operating out of temporary quarters at Duke University, was set up last year to provide "thoughtful planning" for the future growth of 10 southern states, Beyle said.

Larger Airport Fees Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly published study on air traffic congestion has recommended that airports charge higher airplane landing fees and that airlines charge higher ticket prices for flights during the busier hours of the day.

Ross D. Eckert, assistant professor of economics at the University of Southern California, made the recommendations in a 63-page study on airport congestion and at a news conference Tuesday. The study was published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

Eckert said airport landing fees now in existence vary with the weight of the aircraft but not with the time of the flight. These fees, he said, tend to make the costs of runway use lowest for aircraft most likely to contribute to congestion—the smaller, slower propeller-driven private and business aircraft.

He said the most common method of rationing scarce goods and services in the United States is through price, with the goods going to the buyer who will pay the most. But this method, he said, is used little for airports.

"The first come, first served method," he said, "tends to generate high levels of congestion. It is not efficient ... we should charge higher prices for airport use during popular hours and less during the off-hours, like the telephone company does."

A spokesman for the Airport Operators Council said a changing scale of landing fees would be difficult to negotiate because circumstances differ greatly from airport to airport and from airline to airline.

Eckert said the airlines have experimented only to a meager degree in offering lower fares in slack periods. Some night coach flights, mainly around Miami and other Southern cities, offer reductions of 20 to 35 per cent he said.

Oil Spills Kill Herring Larvae

SEATTLE (AP) — Experts at the University of Washington say crude oil being spilled from a tanker destroys herring larvae, cuts back the size of those that survive and is bad for those who like "kippers" or "bismarcks" for breakfast. The findings came from a study after a recent spill at Cherry Point, Wash., where the larvae, floating passively near the surface, were submerged in oil.

Luau Awaits First Lady

HONOLULU (AP) — A Hawaiian luau will cap a whirlwind trip to Hawaii Island by Pat Nixon on Thursday while her husband confers with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

The first lady will spend about seven hours on the state's largest island, located about 200 miles southwest of Honolulu. A traditional Hawaiian welcome is planned at Hilo airport, and Hawaii County Mayor Shunichi Kimura has declared a two-hour holiday so county employes can turn out to greet Mrs. Nixon.

She will visit an Easter seal rehabilitation center and a senior citizens' housing project in Hilo before moving on to an elementary school, where Hawaiian homestead residents will show how they are working to preserve the Hawaiian language and culture.

Girls dressed in traditional Japanese kimonos will greet Mrs. Nixon at a new tea house in Liliuokalani Gardens Park, and tea will be served.

After the luau, Mrs. Nixon will return to Hickam Air Force Base, near Honolulu, in the presidential plane. A helicopter will take her back to the Kuliama hotel, on Oahu's north shore, where she and the President will stay.

Predicts Fewer In First Grade

RALEIGH (AP) — A prominent educator says he expects first grade enrollment in North Carolina's public schools to be down again this year.

Dr. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Educators, says a study of available data indicates the number of first graders to be down about 4,900 from last year.

He says fewer births, out-migration and growth of private schools is the cause.

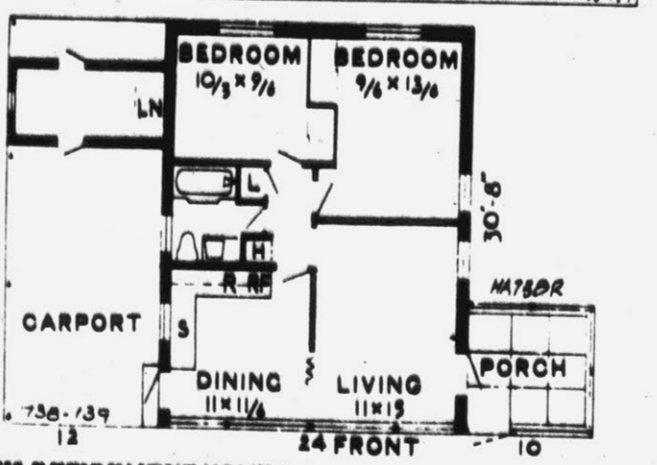

He noted that first grade enrollment dropped an average of 2,650 each of the past three years.

Tanaka Adviser Favors Less Reliance On U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Masayoshi Ohira, the man chiefly responsible for Japan's foreign policy, calls the United States "a heaven-sent friend," but says Japan can no longer one-sidedly depend on it politically, militarily and economically.

The 62-year-old foreign minister will be at Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's side in the two-day summit talks with President Nixon in Hawaii. Tanaka regards himself as primarily an expert on domestic problems, and he leans heavily on Ohira.

ESAP Sum Sharply Cut

An Emergency School Assistance Program (ESAP) continuation grant of $127,440 has been allocated to Pitt County Schools according to John Taylor, ESAP administrator.

The funds, a $71,000 cut from what was requested, are designated to continue the work started by the major $336,000 ESAP grant a year ago. The present funds are intended for use until January 31, 1973, when Pitt County Schools will again be eligible to apply for a larger ESAP grant.

The first priority of the ESAP "mini-grant" is the retention of staff positions in the school system which were originated by the first ESAP grant. The $127,400 will be used to keep three elementary music teachers, two elementary guidance counselors, 18 elementary library aides, four high school student activity directors, eight general high school aides, an administrative public relations coordinator, and other supportive personnel.

The Emergency School Assistance Program is concerned with six general areas of activity, including special community programs, special pupil personnel services, special curriculum revisions, teacher preparation, student-to-student programs and special comprehensive planning.

Eagles Must Mature Quickly To Repeat As Tobacco Belt Champion

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor (One of a series) ROBERSONVILLE — About the only thing Robersonville High School can do for an encore is to win them all in 1972. Last year, the Golden Eagles lost their opening game to Williamston, then proceeded to win the next 12 in a row, giving them the 1971 Class A football championship for North Carolina. The only improvement they could make would be to win Friday against Williamston and record a perfect record in the remaining games on the schedule. There are, however, only six starters back on this year's team, which has five other lettermen. The returning starters include Harvey Whichard, a defensive end; Tom Coppage, a linebacker; Tim Roberson, a linebacker and offensive guard; Joe Paul Edmondson, a linebacker and flanker; Matt Wilson, the quarterback; and Ricky Brown, a defensive safety and split end. "Our experience is at a minimum," Coach Noland Respass said. "Our offense should be slow coming around, but we looked good passing in our scrimmage game. The defense also looks good at this time." Respass feels that he has good speed on the team, and that the quickness is excellent. "We have real good speed in the backfield." The team, however, will be smaller than last year. "James Wallace, a 215-pound tackle, is the only one even close to 200 we have. He's going to be a good player for us," the coach added. "We did hit good in our scrimmage," he said, "so this makes me feel good." Offensively, Respass said that the ground game has been disappointing thus far. "We've had trouble getting enough people to practice. We have two new running backs, Sammy Gray and Keith White, and we don't have any depth. We're going to have to find us some more backs." The passing game, however, looks like it might be a strong point for the Eagles. "Wilson is an excellent passer," Respass said. "And we have three good receivers in Brown (split end), Whichard (tight end) and Edmondson (flanker). We're also experimenting with the triple option but we may stick with the pro set because of Wilson's throwing ability. He's a good runner, too. He's probably our best back." The line, however, is a question mark. There is a new center in Doug Warren. Leon Wilson has moved in from the center spot to a tackle position, while Roberson returns at a guard position. Ronnie Meeks will handle the other guard spot, with James Matthewson at the other tackle position. "If they come through we'll have a darn good team," Respass said. "But the experience has got to come quickly, and we've got to find some depth." Defensively, Respass feels that the Eagles will be strong. "We could be better than we were last year on defense," he said. "We have three linebackers who have played together in Edmondson, Coppage and Roberson. They'll be the three we depend on." Respass will play Whichard and Jeffrey Carson at the ends, with several fighting for the interior positions. These include Tony Purvis, the leading candidate for the nose guard job; Russell Clark, Leon Wilson, Eddie Halslip and James Wilson. In the secondary, White, Loyal Corey and possibly Wilson will join Brown. "The line play may be a little ahead of the backfield at this time," Respass said in summing up the defense. As far as kicking is concerned, Wilson will handle the punting duties, and Respass feels he has a good one in him. "But as far as kicking off and extra points are concerned, we're still looking. We may do a lot of running for PAT's." Respass considers Aurora as the team to beat in the Tobacco Belt loop. "They lost only four seniors, so they've got a lot of experience back," he said. "But I think we'll be right in their fighting. It just depends on how fast our experience comes along. We have to mature fast."

Tiant Could Carry Bosox

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer When the Boston Red Sox won their last pennant in 1967, Jose Santiago was the pitcher who brought them through an exciting stretch run. Meet Mr. Excitement of 1972—Luis Tiant. "I think that he's as good as any right-hander in the American League right now," said Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner after Tiant pitched a 3-0 beauty against his White Sox Tuesday night. Tiant, 24, recorded his third straight shutout and fifth straight victory with a five-hitter—an impressive performance reminiscent of Santiago's spectacular finish in '67 when he won eight games in a row. All five of Tiant's last starts have been complete games. He's allowed just five earned runs, 21 hits and six walks while striking out 37 batters in that time. Tiant's latest triumph kept the Red Sox three games behind the leaders in the tinging American League East race. The Baltimore Orioles trounced the Minnesota Twins 9-4 and pulled into a first-place tie with Detroit after the Tigers lost 3-1 to the California Angels. The American League West race was no less uncertain after Tuesday night's action. Chicago's loss dropped the White Sox into second place and the Oakland A's took over the top spot by a half-game after beating the Cleveland Indians 1-0. The New York Yankees beat the Texas Rangers 7-6 in 11 innings in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second, 7-4, and the Kansas City Royals defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 6-4 in other American League action. In the National League, it was Chicago 2, Los Angeles 1; Pittsburgh 5, San Diego 3; Montreal 4, Atlanta 3; New York 3, Cincinnati 0; Houston 2, Philadelphia 1 and San Francisco 3, St. Louis 0. Tiant was tough Tuesday night after his teammates gave him a two-run working margin in the first inning. Reggie Smith's double drove in one run and Carlton Fisk knocked in another with a single.

High School football opens this Friday night, with a number of games throughout the area. On tap are six contests, including one Eastern Carolina Conference meeting, between Southern Wayne and D.H. Conley. The Saints are one of the pre-season favorites, and they'll get a test early from the young Vikings of Conley. Other games find Williamston meeting tradition rival Robersonville, Farmville Central entertaining Rose, Ayden-Grifton hosting Weldon, North Pitt traveling to West Craven, and Greene Central at home to Saratoga Central. Two coaches in the area will be getting their baptism in these opening games, Ayden-Grifton's Mike Overton and Conley's Ken Treadway. "With any first game, you have mistakes," Overton said, speaking of the Charger opening, "if we can avoid these, we'll do all right." The Chargers go into the game in good physical condition. Weldon, a 3-A school from the Albemarle Conference, has a good defense, so the game might end up being a low-scoring affair, since the Chargers also pride themselves on their defense. "They're using a new offense, the wishbone," Overton said of the Tornadoes. "They're still learning it, but they like to build their game around their half-back, Ruffin. Overall, however, they're not very experienced." Treadway, meanwhile, has what he calls a "doosie of an opener" with Southern Wayne. "Southern has a good back in Ken Mac, who's transferred in from Japan. He's got good size and speed. They've also got Phil Platt back there, who is also big and fast. Their junior varsity team last year was unbeaten. Overall they're young, but they've got good size and that backfield is just fantastic." Treadway's problems so far have been depth and inexperience in the offensive line. "We've got to come along fast, or we're going to have some awfully rough sledding for a while," he said. Farmville Central opens against 4-A Rose High School, a team they defeated last year in a surprising start. This year, however, Jaguar Coach Gene Brewer isn't looking for a repeat performance, mainly because of Rose's experience and Farmville Central's lack of it. "They will be pretty strong," he said of the Rampanis. "They have a good nucleus back and they have some outstanding backs. We're going to have to contain them if we're to beat them again." Meanwhile, he counts his own team as relatively inexperienced. "We are a team primarily of juniors and sophomores. We have a lot of boys who need experience. Our season will depend on how soon they come around and how much they want to play." North Pitt goes into its second season of varsity play traveling to West Craven. The Panthers are coming into the season after losing their first nine last year and then getting a victory in the final game of the year. "We've come along fairly well so far," Coach Danny Wilmer said. "But we've got a lot of work to do yet. The biggest thing is to get our players up and excited. A victory could go a long way toward making this the turning point in our building program." West Craven is a school much like North Pitt, although there is some football background. They are newly consolidated, in their second year. One of the two schools that merged had football, bringing in some background, but at this time last year, there was very little experience to build with, so it was almost like starting over. "They should be along the same level with us. We understand they have a good quarterback and a good running back, but we look for a real tough game. It's a perfect opening game for us—we're both on the same level of competition." Greene Central, rated by many as the favorite in the Eastern Carolina loop, opens against non-conference Saratoga Central. It's their first meeting in football, but there is a rivalry already there. "They're bigger up front than we are," Coach Stewart Smith said. "They're real quick and well-coached. They always like to beat us in anything, and this game will be no exception." Smith said he told his players that they had everything to lose in this one, and only a victory to gain. "We need to win our first three real bad. After that, we could be rolling." Robersonville, in hosting Williamston, will get one of its toughest tests of the year. The Golden Eagles are rated as dark horses in the Tobacco Belt Conference, which they won last year, and went on to take the State Class A Championship. Robersonville has won 12 straight games since last losing and that loss was to Williamston last year, so there is a revenge motive in the game as well as a winning streak to preserve. Williamston, meanwhile, is the favorite to win the Albemarle Conference title this year. The Tigers have plenty of experience and will be out to win this one, a traditional rivalry within the county. All games will be at 6 p.m.

Third Gold Medal Is Claimed By Spitz

By BOB JOHNSON

Associated Press Sports Editor
MUNICH (AP) — "I'm afraid of everybody," said a smiling Mark Spitz.

The handsome Californian has nothing to fear tonight. It's not until Thursday night that he goes after the fourth of what he hopes will be an incredible seven gold medals.

But starting next week, the United States may have plenty to fear—mainly the thought of an Olympic swimming team without Mark Spitz.

The 22-year-old Indiana University dental student racked up his third world record in garnering his third gold of these 20th Summer Games Tuesday, slashing his way to victory in the men's 200-meter freestyle.

Then he told a television interviewer that, whether or not he achieves his seven-gold goal, these Games will probably be his last international competition.

"I have no plans for swimming any more at all, really," Spitz said. "I won't have the time. I'll swim until Monday."

The bronzed, mustachioed Spitz sliced through the water in the 200 freestyle in 1:52.78, unleashing a torpedo-like final lap to shatter his own world mark of 1:53.50 as well as the Olympic standard of 1:55.29 formerly owned by fourth-place finisher Mark Wenden of Australia.

Winning the silver was UCLA student Steve Genter of Lakewood, Calif. Werner Lampe of West Germany was third.

Spitz, of course, won't be the only American to do well. The United States already owns 15 medals—five gold, six silver and four bronze. That's six more than runner-up East Germany, and eight ahead of the Soviet Union.

One of those golds went Tuesday to a California high school student—the Golden State really seems to be living up to its nickname here—in what has to be one of the biggest upsets of the Games thus far.

Sandra Neilson, a giggly, dimpled lass from El Monte, Calif., wrecked Australian wizard Shane Gould's bid for four personal golds by winning the women's 100-meter freestyle in an Olympic-record 58.59—less than a tenth of a second off Miss Gould's world mark.

"I'm just so excited now I feel great," the 16-year-old Miss Neilson bubbled. "I just wanted to get out there and win it. When I got out there I knew I could do it."

But how, she was asked, did she feel about beating the favored Aussie, who had to settle for third behind Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif.

"She's a girl—just like us," Miss Neilson said of Miss Gould.

Australia's Beverly Whitfield beat out Dana Schoenfeld of Anaheim, Calif., for the gold in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, winning in an Olympic-record 2:41.72, and sensational East German Roland Matthes broke the Games' record by winning the men's 100-meter backstroke in 56.58, followed by Mike Stamm of San Diego and Jerry Murphy of Hinsdale, Ill.

For Miss Schoenfeld, it was a delightful climax to a remarkable comeback. Failing to even qualify for the 1968 Olympics, she gave up training for three years, then decided to take another shot at a spot on the team.

The American basketball team, now unbeaten in 58 Olympic games, raised its record to 3-0 with a 67-48 victory over Cuba, a decision that avenged the Yanks' loss to that Caribbean country in last year's Pan-American Games. Tonight the U.S. squad goes against Brazil, also unbeaten in three Group A games.

Defense did it for the Yanks against Cuba, which managed only one basket in 17 shots from the floor as the U.S. team built a 13-3 lead in the first nine minutes and made it 33-21 by the half.

Cuban scoring star Pedro Chappé finished with just four points in the contest and Jim Brewer of the University of Minnesota, who'd been assigned to stop him calmly observed: "Defense is what I enjoy playing most."

There was nothing for Reggie Jones to enjoy. The Marine lance corporal from Newark, N.J., after apparently thrashing Valeri Tregubov in their light middleweight bout, lost a judges' split decision to the bloodied Russian, sparking a near-riot in the boxing stadium.

"There was a big blur. I closed my eyes," Jones said of the moment of decision, when 5,000 fans screamed their disapproval and hurled garbage at the ring. "I knew this was no dream. I knew I wasn't gonna get a medal. And there was no sense to start anything, to get mad."

In other competition Tuesday, America's water polo team blitzed Canada 8-1 for its third straight triumph.

With just two days left in Group A preliminary matches, the Yanks seem certain to qualify for the finals. Bruce Bradley of Long Beach, Calif., a 1968 Olympics veteran, scored two goals to raise his three-game total to seven.

In featherweight weightlifting, Bulgaria's Norair Nurikyan won the gold with an Olympic-record total lift of 887.35 pounds.

Japan won the gold in men's team gymnastics, continuing its string of victories begun in the 1960 Games, the Soviet Union won a gold in the 100-kilometer—62-mile—cycling and Italy's Angelo Scalzone won the trapshooting gold with a world-record score of 199.

Pressure Won't Get Spitz This Olympics

(Editor's note: Debbie Meyer swam to three individual gold medals tv become the heroine of the U.S. Olympic team in Mexico City four years ago. Now, at age 20, she has retired from swimming and is working for The Associated Press at the 1972 Games. Here, she looks at pressure on superstar athletes.)

By DEBBIE MEYER
1968 Triple Gold Medalist
MUNICH (AP) — Mark Spitz crumbled under the pressure in the 1968 Olympic Games. I watched it happen and the sight wasn't pretty. At the 1972 games at Munich, it is obviously a whole new ballgame.

After what he's taken in the four-year interlude, Spitz deserves all the golden pleasure he can derive from the Munich Olympics. I think he will do the impossible ... win seven gold medals.

To an amateur athlete, especially a swimmer, an Olympic gold is the promised land. My three from 1968 are in a bank safe deposit vault in Sacramento, Calif.

It was five years ago when I first began swimming in regular meets with Mark Spitz. He was grown tremendously since then, both as a contestant and as a man.

He was 18 and immature at Mexico City, he predicted five gold medals and then buckled under the pressure. There's nothing more vulnerable in the press than a pundit who fails to back up his word. Now, at age 22, Mark is more mature. He obviously has decided to keep his mouth shut on predictions. And, all he's doing is producing one of the greatest athletic efforts in history.

Since I was fortunate enough to be in the Olympic spotlight in 1968, I can sympathize with Spitz. I couldn't sleep because of the phone calls ... the knocks at my door. I was bugged every time I walked down the street.

Getting your required rest becomes impossible. There's someone every few minutes asking for "just one more interview" or "just one more picture." Your privacy goes out of the window.

It's a series of putting on that little fake smile for the news cameras when you're dead tired and need to rest for the next event. But, I tried to handle it since I know news writers have a job to do.

Maybe some people enjoy being singled—being labeled as a "superstar." Not me. I like being just plain, old Debbie Meyer with normal friends and normal activities.

I believe Mark Spitz, the Mark I know, is much the same. He's a great guy with his real friends. But, when outsiders come around, the spotlight immediately hits him and that somewhat bugs Mark. Spitz has changed plenty since Mexico. He is probably the greatest swimmer in the world's history. He now has control of his mind as well as his body.

There was never a person so God-blessed with swimming ability. He was great even with a lot of goofing off in practice. But, even with all these physical pluses, Mark Spitz proved in 1968 that you will be a failure if your head's not perking on all circuits.

Suzy Leads Revolution

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MUNICH (AP) — Suzy's back, and revolution is boiling again in the Olympic Village.

"More power to the individual athlete"—that's the theme song of statuesque, blonde Suzanne Chaffee as she whisks from the village to the venues, from the Hofbrauhaus to the Marienplatz with her arm-load of petitions calling for a new day in sports.

"I have had our five-point plan translated into six languages—Spanish, French, German, Italian, Swedish and Russian—" said the 25-year-old New York model and former Olympic skier. "Before the end of the Games, we will have contacted every Olympic athlete in the games."

Suzy, along with Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, is co-executive director of the newly formed World Sports Foundation, the goal of which is "to provide realistic, humane and enforceable rules for amateur athletes."

The plan does not call for open competition.

The foundation is campaigning to raise funds help puts its ideas into motion—and Miss Chaffee herself has spent $10,000 of her personal funds and neglected her profitable career as a model and designer to pursue the cause.

Suzy is contacting representatives of each athletic delegation and tacking up a multi-lingual paper which says in large, black type: "The Petition for Munich."

The athletes are urged to sign an endorsement to the following principles:

1. Right to determine extent of training period.
2. Expense money, broken time payments and insurance coverage provided by Olympic committees and sports associations.

3. Scholarships and financial assistance while fulfilling educational requirements. Remuneration for coaching, other jobs in sports.

4. Pay for television, public appearances, plus endorsements of commercial products with portions going to help needy athletes.

5. National and international federations and Olympic organizations must give voice to competing or retired athletes.

"We will select a representative from each country," said Suzy, who began her campaign in the Winter Games at Sapporo, Japan.

"These representatives will meet with Lord Killanin, the new president of the International Olympic Committee to present its aims Sept. 9"

Suspension, Fine Given To Thomas

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Coach Harland Svare of the San Diego Chargers is finished playing the role of "Mr. Nice Guy."

Svare announced Tuesday that Duane Thomas, the talented but mysterious running back the Chargers acquired from Dallas, was being suspended and was subject to a fine of a $150 per day for not reporting to the National Football League team Monday.

"Duane Thomas was told to report to training camp by 6 o'clock Monday," said Svare. "He failed to report. He is suspended without compensation. He will be fined $150 each day he is absent."

San Diego gave up sophomore running back Mike Montgomery and second-year wide receiver Billy Parks to get Thomas. Both players had outstanding rookie seasons for the Chargers but Svare, who has said Thomas is the best running back in the NFL since Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, gave up permanent rights to them. Now, after a full month of training camp, Thomas has not practiced.

"I said at the time of the trade for Duane that it was a gamble, a roll of the dice," said the Chargers' coach. "Whatever the outcome, I'm not going to look back."

Today was cutting day for the NFL teams. Each squad was to be reduced to 49 players plus rookies who played in the College All-Star Game. Another five players must be pared from each team by next Tuesday and, of course, the teams must reduce to a 40-player roster for their regular season openers.

Among the veterans put on waivers were running backs Woody Campbell and Mike Richardson by the Houston Oilers; tight end Ray Ogden and running back Bill Tucker by the Chicago Bears and defensive tackle Greg Lens by the Buffalo Bills.

Several players were placed on the injured-waiver list including linebacker Ike Kelley (knee) of Philadelphia, wide receiver Eldridge Dickey (shoulder) of Kansas City, safety Sandy Durko (knee) and quarterback Greg Cook (arm) of Cincinnati and defensive tackle Bill Staley (knee) of Chicago.

Giants' Barr Hurls Second Gem In A Row

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
National League batters have had their ups and downs lately with San Francisco's Jim Barr ... up they come and down they go.

The 24-year-old right-hander, who pitched a two-hitter against Pittsburgh last week for his first major league shut-out and retired the last 21 batters, mowed down the first 20 St. Louis hitters Tuesday night before Bernie Carbo broke the spell with a clean double and finished with a three-hit 3-0 victory over the Cardinals.

The string of 41 consecutive outs broke the major league baseball mark of 38 set by Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix in 1959, 36 of those coming in his memorable 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves.

Other National League scores: New York Mets 3, Cincinnati 0; Houston 2, Philadelphia 1; Chicago Cubs 2, Los Angeles 1; Pittsburgh 5, San Diego 3; Montreal 4, Atlanta 3.

In the American League, California downed Detroit 3-1, Baltimore whopped Minnesota 4-0, Oakland and Cleveland 1-0, and the Chicago White Sox 3-0, the New York Yankees nipped Texas 7-6 in their 11-inning opener but dropped the nightcap 7-4 and Kansas City shaded Milwaukee 6-4.

Barr, who made 24 relief appearances before getting a start this season, "has earned full-time status as a starter," according to Giants Manager Charlie Fox.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound University of Southern California grad made only 94 pitches in blanking St. Louis.

Reggie Cleveland of the Cards matched Barr's scoreless hurling until the ninth when Dave Kingman, drove in all three runs with a bases-loaded double following an error by third baseman Dwain Anderson, a hit batsman, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Dave Rader.

Houston made it two in a row under Leo Durocher's leadership when Lee M greeted Philadelphia reliever Mac Scarce with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning. Cesar Cedeño homered in the sixth for Houston's first run and Oscar Gamble tied it in the seventh with a pinch single.

The Astros picked up a game on Cincinnati, which played dead against New York's Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw, and trail the Reds by 7½ games in the NL West.

Games Officials Draw Criticism

By JOHN VINOCUR
MUNICH (AP) — Justice is sometimes a day late at the Olympics.

The bad referees are generally excluded from further chances at scorecard lynchings, but it is no solace to the athletes who suffer through their incapacities or prejudice.

The wrestling judge who eliminated U.S. heavyweight Chris Taylor from competition on Sunday will not be allowed to officiate again at this Olympics. Now American boxing officials are saying the governing body of referees will be looking hard at the men who handed defeat to U.S. light middleweight boxer Reggie Jones on Tuesday when he seemed to have been a clear victor over Valery Tregubov of the Soviet Union.

They will not be disciplined, but quietly excluded from further assignments—if sanctions occur.

The officiating in basketball is terrible, according to U.S. Coach Hank Iba, and the Ugandan soccer team protested a loss it said was due to a bad referee.

The reason is unequal pay and standards for officials around the world. One basketball referee said he got paid $1.10 a game at home and a Korean boxing official forgot how to count in English on a knockdown and lost track of how long the man had been down. Politics plays a role. The officiating assignments are generally made so that men from neutral countries decide the winners in competition between athletes from opposing blocs.

But there are serious slips. A Yugoslav judge was the only man to vote for the Russian in his fight against Jones before the Olympic no-tie rule forced two other judges to change their vote.

The Jones decision, which led to a 15-minute demonstration and near bottle-throwing riot in the Olympic Boxing Palace, was described as "a disgrace and a scandal" by former world middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti, now an Italian broadcaster.

"Justice is never present every minute," Benvenuti said, "but you know at this Olympics that some judges are watching two things. First how a man performs, then the color of his skin—black or white."

For Jones, there was only the demented anger of the crowd to comfort him. "This wasn't the first time or the last somebody got a bad rap," he said. "The only difference was this time it was me."

Farmville Area
The following buses will serve the Farmville Elementary Schools attendance area (grades 1-8) Bus 152, 150, 78, 112, 49, 147, 135, 47, 5, 29, 24, 97, 40, 6, 75.

The following buses will serve the Falkland Elementary School attendance area (grades 1-6) and will transport seventh and eighth grade students in the Falkland area to Farmville Junior High: Bus No. 88, 107, 100, 114, 137, 69, 63.

Parents living in rural areas are encouraged to allow their students to ride the bus the first day transportation is provided for their students. This is most important for first and second graders.

If mothers carry their children to school the first morning and allow them to ride home that afternoon most younger children won't know which bus to take.

All buses will have a poster in front right hand windshield indicating whether it is a high school express bus or an elementary bus.

Transportation will be provided for students living within the city limits of Farmville provided they meet at one of the following pickup points: Elementary students can catch buses at Sam D. Bundy School, at Farmville Jr. High and at H. B. Sugg School for transportation to other elementary schools in town. Assignment to particular buses will be made by the elementary principals. Town students who desire bus transportation to other elementary schools should be at either Sam D. Bundy School, Farmville Jr. High or H. B. Sugg School by 8:00 a.m.

Transportation will also be provided for town high school students who wish bus transportation to Farmville Central High School. Meeting places for high school students will be at Sam D. Bundy, School, Farmville Jr. High and H. B. Sugg School.

Only the following buses will transport high school students meeting at H. B. Sugg School directly to Farmville Central: Buses No. 40, 135, 6, 24, and 97. They can catch only these buses listed to ride to Farmville Central and should be ready to meet the bus by 8:00 a.m. starting Thursday, August 31.

The following buses will transport high school students meeting at Farmville Junior High directly to Farmville Central: Buses 5, 29, 47 and 147.

High School students meeting at Farmville Junior High are to wait for their buses at the bus loading zone on Horne Avenue.

They can catch only these buses listed to ride to Farmville Central and should be ready to meet the bus by 8:00 a.m. starting Thursday, August 31.

The following bus will transport high school students at Sam D. Bundy School directly to Farmville Central: Bus 150.

They can catch only bus No. 150 to ride to Farmville Central and should be ready to meet the bus by 8:00 a.m. starting Thursday, August 31.

All high school students are reminded to be sure and report promptly by 9:00 a.m. on their orientation day. Attendance is most important, even though no bus transportation will be provided.

Students must have paid their 1971-72 school fees and settled all past financial debts with their schools before they are eligible to enroll for the 1972-73 school year.

Plan Course In Writing

A creative writing course during September and October will be offered by the Greenville Recreation Department, provided there is sufficient interest expressed to justify setting up the course.

Enrollment is currently being accepted for the projected course, which is to be taught by Mrs. Betty Casey, who taught a similar course earlier this year.

The course will consist of 24 hours and will feature fiction, family history, and article writing. Poetry will also be included if a qualified lecturer can be lined up for a poetry portion of the course.

Sessions will be divided between instruction in the techniques of writing, how to get it published, and discussion of material submitted voluntarily by class members.

Both morning and evening classes will be arranged if there is enough interest to support two classes.

Anyone interested is welcome, whether an experienced writer or a beginner.

For further information or to register, telephone 752-2355. A small fee will be charged for the course.

Postal Holiday

Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills reminded today the Greenville Post Office and the East Carolina University Station will close Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 4.

Mills said normal Saturday delivery will be made, but on Monday there will be no deliveries except for Special Delivery within the city. No window service will be provided, but lock box service will be provided.

City-wide collection of arterial boxes (boxes with stars near top) will be made Monday beginning at 2:00 p.m. All outgoing mail will be dispatched as usual until 6:00 p.m.

Foot Problems For 8,000,000

BOSTON (UPI)—A government survey reports that corns and calluses are the second most prevalent chronic condition of the body's muscular-skeletal system.

Podiatrists attending the 60th annual meeting recently of the American Podiatry Association also learned that impairments of the hips and lower extremities rank in third place, behind arthritis and corns and calluses. The findings were issued by the statistical division of the Health Education and Welfare Department. It said approximately eight million persons are afflicted with the corn-callus problem.

Same Impact In Briefer Lecture

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—It may come as a blow to professors with a flair for oratory, but it's possible to reduce a standard 55 minute lecture to about 7 1/2 minutes and achieve the same impact on the student, reports the Instructional Research Center at Michigan State University.

The center is experimenting with a means of electronically compressing the lecture by removing certain vowels, consonants and hesitations. Studies have shown that students using the "compressed speech" method have the same recall as they do after hearing the regular lecture.

Battle Of Yorktown Commemoration Advocated

By ED ROGERS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—When the nation starts its big bicentennial celebration four years from now, Virginia history buffs argue the Battle of Yorktown site should be a center of attention.

In the 1781 battle, Gen. Washington and his French ally, Gen. Lafayette, overwhelmed British troops led by Lord Cornwallis. The victory made a reality of the independence that had been declared in 1776.

"What I want to highlight is, if that moment had not taken place we wouldn't be having a bicentennial," says Dorothy Bottom, executive editor of the Times Herald and Daily Press of Newport News, Va.

One way to appreciate her idea of "highlighting" that surrender scene of 191 years ago is to enter a brick building standing in a city park in Atlanta—the site of another battle—and mount a huge, stage-lit center platform.

World's Largest Painting
 All around you—north, south, east and west, from horizon to horizon and at even your very feet—the famed Battle of Atlanta rages in silent pantomime as it did in 1864, late in the Civil War.

So faithful is it to historical reality that if the building walls evaporated you would see red hills coinciding with the pictured scene.

What you really see is a painting on canvas, claimed to be the world's largest, that reaches upward 50 feet. It is formed into a cylinder that is 400 feet around. The platform you stand on is inside this cylinder, or "Cyclorama."

In the foreground, below the platform level, three dimensional figurines of Union and Confederate soldiers and mock-up landscape merge into the painting so cleverly the eye cannot locate the dividing point. Cyclorama enthusiasts claim modern zoom cameras, wide angle projections and other modern devices do not equal Cycloramas in creating breathtaking illusions of three dimensional reality.

Wants Yorktown Cyclorama
 Another Cyclorama depicting a Civil War scene is at the National Park on the site of the Battle of Gettysburg in Pennsylvania, but there is yet no Cyclorama depicting a revolutionary war scene.

Mrs. Bottom, who has wanted a Cyclorama for Yorktown ever since she saw the one in Atlanta several years ago, believes the bicentennial celebration offers an ideal opportunity.

The National Park Service

has restored the battle site and surrender field and for several million dollars more could top off this attraction with a new Cyclorama, Mrs. Bottom says.

Parks Director George B. Hartzog Jr. has said in his correspondence on the subject that "some sort of three dimensional presentation should be included before we are completed ... but we hope that it will be a part of the Yorktown story and not a major attraction in its own right."

Now or Almost Never
 Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., whose district "embraces Newport News and Yorktown, is working with Mrs. Bottom on the project.

Downing has been a Cyclorama enthusiast since he saw one at the site of the Battle of Waterloo during a trip to Europe. He said it "would be the most dramatic way of showing citizens of this country what actually happened at the Battle of Yorktown."

Downing apparently also shares Mrs. Bottom's belief that it is now or almost never.

"In my opinion, the government can afford to do this and unless we press for it in connection with the bicentennial we more than likely would have to wait another 50 years," he wrote Mrs. Bottom.

Artists Needed
 But at the moment Parks Service spokesmen talk about the obstacles. Time is short. "Where are the artists?" one said. "You don't just take a Cyclorama off the shelf."

Downing believes the Parks Service could finance it out of existing revenue without congressional approval if it wants to. He said his next move may be to try to interest the Bicentennial Commission in taking action.

Downing and Mrs. Bottom believe they can easily round up a team of artists to do the work.

Vows Early Indictment

RHINELANDER, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst says the Justice Department intends to obtain a pre-election indictment involving the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

The attorney general described the break-in and electronic bugging of the Democratic headquarters in Washington as "a stupid incident."

"The Justice Department investigation will be completed and there will be an indictment prior to the election and possibly as early as September," Kleindienst told newsmen on Tuesday.

"The FBI has left no stone unturned, and a special grand jury is being given complete documentation from every witness who's been contacted," he said.

The attorney general was here to address the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police Association.

Hiking Price Of School Lunches

CHARLOTTE (AP)—School lunches will cost a nickel more in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County schools.

The new price schedule adopted by the school board Tuesday night is elementary schools 35 cents, junior and senior high schools 40 cents, adult school employees 50 cents, and visitors 60 cents.

It's the first raise in six years, and was caused by increased costs.

Gov. Wallace Is Leaving Center

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An aide to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says doctors at Spain Rehabilitation Center plan to release Wallace "no later than Thursday."

Wallace's press secretary, Billy Joe Camp, said Wallace plans to return immediately to the state capital, Montgomery, then attend the Southern Governors' Conference at Hilton Head, S.C., next week.

Wallace has been undergoing treatment at Spain for paralysis suffered when he was wounded in an assassination attempt during a political rally at Laurel, Md., May 15.

Africa Sees New Breed Of Militant Missionaries

EDITOR'S NOTE—Black or white, there is a new man of God at work in Africa. He stands at the pulpit, but his aim is against the oppression or prejudice of government. Militant and political, he has become the conscience of the emerging black nations, one legacy of the white men who brought Christianity to the continent.

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—The white missionary came to Africa to bring Christianity and medical care to the poor benighted heathen. He unwittingly left a spiritual inheritance that he may not have foreseen.

Today, there is a new man of the cloth, white or black, a militant whose goals are missionary in terms of freedom, human rights and independence.

They preach political protest from the pulpit. They challenge bureaucracy, and criticize governments. They defy those in power, and the powerful don't like it. Two white cabinet ministers in Salisbury condemned "political priests" for fighting the independence settlement between England and Rhodesia.

Bishop Abel T. Muzorewa of the United Methodist Church, who rallied black opposition to block the deal, responded by calling the officials "preacher politicians."

The black bishop increasingly is under pressure from white authorities.

Elsewhere there are black clergymen who oppose black politicians and in South Africa white clerics who criticize the white government.

Religion often is overlooked as a factor in post-colonial Africa. But churches influence literature adherents and command enormous respect. In one-party states the church is sometimes the only nationally organized body which can effectively challenge government.

Joseph Cardinal Malulu did not object at first when President Joseph Mobutu of Congo (Kinshasa) changed his name to Mobutu Sese Seko and the country's name to Zaire. But the cardinal took exception when the president demanded all his fellow countrymen drop their Christian names in a "return to authenticity."

The Roman Catholic leader soon found himself without an arch-episcopal residence and his church facing official interference on grounds it was a "subversive" organization. This church-state skirmish was not unique. Roman Catholic Archbishop Raymond Tebimbo of Conakry was sentenced to hard labor by Guinean authorities last year. In the Cameroons, Bishop Albert Ndongmo had his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Kenya clashed with the National Christian Council over a government measure to impose capital punishment for armed robbery. The government had its way, but the council demonstrated its intention to act on matters of conscience.

The Anglican Dean of Johannesburg was convicted of violating the Terrorism Act last year. He appealed and was acquitted in March and fled the country that same day.

Many of the estimated 180 people deported from South Africa and South West Africa in the last 18 months were churchmen, outspoken in their criticism of apartheid.

The Catholic White Fathers pulled out of Mozambique after deciding that Portugal was using the church, with them as accomplices, to consolidate its control of the territory.

Rhodesia's Bishop Muzorewa seeks political change. Besides his religious duties he heads the African National Council (ANC) which demands black majority rule for Rhodesia.

"You know, I can understand that certain whites must think of me as a rabid, antiwhite nationalist," he said. "But I don't hate whites."

The bishop denies he wants all white settlers ousted from the country. Those who "feel that they cannot live under a black government or work with Africans, they should be financially compensated and repatriated if that is what they want."

Nor does he demand forced integration.

Moonflight Souvenirs

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Some of the most prized possessions of astronauts, engineers and technicians working on the Apollo lunar landing project are moonflight souvenirs.

In addition to small flags, coins, envelopes and jewelry taken to the moon, lunar pilots bring back pieces of the moon landing craft itself for distribution to friends, colleagues and some of the workers who helped make the mission a success.

"The crew doesn't have very many ways to thank people for the extra efforts," explained scientist-astronaut Anthony W. England who quit the astronaut corps Aug. 14.

"One way a crew has been able to thank the people has been to rip souvenirs out of the spacecraft before the LM (lunar module) goes in to crash on the moon. They'll strip it down of all the loose parts and things and carry them home, chop them up and give a guy a piece of a net out of the inside of a LM or a light bulb or something.

"I think it's a pretty nice thing," said England, who served as mission scientist for Apollo 16.

Need Early Care In Heart Attack

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Advanced Coronary Treatment Foundation says the importance of providing early emergency treatment to reduce mortality rates resulting from "heart attacks" was underlined when former President Johnson suffered a myocardial infarction.

Credit for his recovery was attributed largely to a mobile coronary unit sent from the University of Virginia. However, there are only about a dozen cities in the nation that maintain such units.

Would Ignore The Difference

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Women executives do not need—and should not want—special consideration in handling their jobs, says a University of Michigan researcher.

B. Susan Bishop, of the university's Bureau of Industrial Relations, says that most differences in executive performance between men and women are not due to sex. "Any differences...are related to personal and individual style," she says.

eventual save in mind, now bid four spades to lay the groundwork in case his partner did not hold suitable defensive values.

South showed his own suit by bidding five clubs and after West passed, Forquet carried on to six clubs, holding a good fit and several second round controls. East and South passed and now the final decision was up to West. As can be seen by an examination of the hands, an excellent sacrifice is available on the deal. If West persists to six diamonds, North and South can be limited to three tricks—two hearts and one diamond—on the deal, for a modest loss of 300 points. His decision to defend was apparently based on the belief that South had both the ace and king of clubs. If this had been the case, West might expect to take one spade and one club against South's slam.

In competitive situations such as this, it usually pays to give partner one bid on the deal and in the present case, West was gambling a great deal on his assumption. If North's bid of six clubs is based on a high club honor, then West's queen is trapped and the potential swing on the deal can be substantial. Bidding six diamonds is merely taking out insurance when the issue is somewhat in doubt.

Against the six club contract, West opened the ace of spades and continued with the king in his hand and the only problem on the deal was the location of the queen of clubs. East's bidding clearly marked him for length in both diamonds and spades. Garozzo accordingly cashed the ace of clubs. When East showed out, it was routine to finesse dummy's jack on the next round and then the king of clubs which picked up West's queen. South claimed the balance, announcing his intentions by ruffing out his remaining spade in dummy.

The score for the vulnerable slam was 1,370 points. At the other table, the Americans also bid the club slam with the North-South cards, but Italy saved at six diamonds and also East gave up a trick in spades on the deal in order to assure retaining control of the hand, the total loss was a mere 500 points and the net swing to the Italians was 870 points.

The Worry Clinic FDA Thinking Raises Doubts

Prof. Russell wonders why the FDA often reverses itself regarding our foods and beverages. Could it be due to political pressure? Or scientific jealousy? Or dislike of simple remedies that would eliminate the need for expensive NEW drugs?

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case U-573: Prof. Russell B., aged 32, is a college biologist. "Dr. Crane," he protested, "what is wrong with the Food and Drug Administration?" "For it keeps changing its tune so often, the public can no longer believe its statements!"

"A few years ago, just before Thanksgiving, it vetoed cranberry sales and thus bankrupted many cranberry growers. "Then it suddenly reversed itself, saying we could figuratively have eaten a carload with no ill effects. "Later, it attacked the use of cyclamates and then backed off. "And confiscated millions of pounds of fish, saying they had absorbed mercury, but again reneged."

"You were also attacked for suggesting the possible value of the Ocean's 44 trace chemicals to combat those deficiency ailments attributed to some chemical lack. "Now it has backed up again and is even lauding your trace chemicals!"

"But even some other supposed scientists also seem to be motivated by politics more than by the true scientific spirit. "For example, my brother is head of the Health Education Department in a big west coast university.

"When I suggested your biochemical theme that the ocean's trace chemicals MIGHT prove of great medical value, he pooh-poohed the idea. "Yet, after 3 physicians couldn't stop my wife's excruciating pain, despite two abdominal operations, the sea water eliminated all her pain within 72 hours. "Many of my friends have also cited remarkable improvement in neuritis and arthritis ailments, just by taking some sea water daily. "So why do the supposed protectors of our public health seem so hostile to simple, common sense remedies?"

Self-Preservation
Scientific egotism may help explain this hostility to "home remedies."

Young Glass 'Crusader'

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI)—Bruce Reid, an 11-year-old entrepreneur with a love of animals, is involved in a one-boy glass recycling crusade here.

Bruce's venture began with a mutt named Penny of dubious ancestry.

More than a year ago, Bruce, his sister Nancy and Mrs. William Reid, their mother, made a trip to the humane society shelter. They found a new addition to the family in Penny, and something else too.

"I saw all of the dogs there without homes, and I wanted to volunteer and help out but I wasn't old enough," Bruce said. "We had studied recycling in school, and I knew I could raise money. I decided I would sell all of the bottles I could and donate the money to the shelter."

Every day Bruce collects bottles and sorts them by color. He turns them in to a member company of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute which recycles the used bottles into new glass containers and pays Bruce a penny a pound in the process.

On his last haul, Bruce, who weighs 85 pounds, lugged 141 pounds of bottles to the reclamation depot and earned $1.41, which he turned over to the animal shelter.

But Bruce says one day he will be getting out of the glass business.

"When I get older I'm going to be a veterinarian," he says emphatically.

without a medical prescription! Remember, the Almighty made mankind to be able to live to a ripe old age, IF.

And that big "IF" means, if we ingest the vital foods, vitamins and trace chemicals needed by our internal glands and tissue cells.

There are 44 water-soluble chemical elements on this earth and all of them are circulating in various minute amounts in our blood, which is essentially water and thus can't carry anything that is not water-soluble.

But many of these 44 chemicals are almost totally dissolved from our soil!

So biochemists suggest we could remedy this serious lack by drinking an ounce of boiled whole ocean water each day.

Such a supplement to our intake is simple and inexpensive, which may explain why many scientists disdain ocean water, for they strain to concoct expensive, intricate NEW drugs, only available on medical prescriptions!

Send for my medical booklet "The Ocean's 44 Trace Chemicals," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and use your "horse sense."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You find you are quite nervous and restless now and need to be very careful you are not forgetful and that you avoid breaking promises. You are thinking with good logic, but have trouble carrying through with the sensible decisions you make. Be steadfast.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take time to compose yourself so that you do not have trouble in motion of any kind, especially while driving on the highway, turning corners, and so forth. Avoid sarcasm with associates. Diplomacy pays off well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A more balanced attitude is best, since you can be very stingy one minute and overly extravagant the next. Do contact an adviser you can trust. Make the investment that will lead to greater security in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to go after personal aims with a vengeance; if you plan your time well, you can do just that and handle business also. Listen to what a clever person has to suggest. Haphazard activity could have you running around in circles, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you try to get out of that obligation you have assumed, you can certainly come a cropper now. Try to assist others with their troublesome affairs. You are a fine humanitarian at heart.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You cannot rely on usually helpful friends today since they are preoccupied with their own affairs, so handle matters well by yourself. A poised attitude is wise when dealing with others. Have a delightful time socially in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use courtesy in dealing with others or you really get into trouble. Safeguard your reputation and be on the safe side. Drive with utmost care in p.m. if you have to go out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are tempted to make some radical changes now but the time is not right for such, so await a better day. Sit down and plan new arrangements first. Show you are an expert in whatever you do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are responsibilities you have to handle, so get at them though you may not be in the right mood for such. Mate may be in a bad mood. It would not be a good idea to ask the reason.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Understand what it is a good partner has to say instead of trying to follow your own way of thinking now. This could be very helpful to mutual affairs. Avoid arguments that are annoying.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Many tasks face you and there is no more ideal day than this to get them out of the way efficiently. Plan more time for rest later so you rebuild your energies. Do a little reading and relax before you retire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to get into the amusements you enjoy now with congenials after you have done your work well. Show more affection for mate. Buy some thoughtful gift that will please. Early to bed tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The situation at home is apt to be very tense, so get busy making everything there more harmonious. Show you have understanding for others. Don't discuss any controversial subjects and start a serious argument.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those very restless young people who early in life will require much rest and a very good diet to build up the body, so be sure to put to bed early even though this child wants to stay up late and be peevish. Slant the education along lines that will place your offspring before the public, whether as a salesperson, on the rostrum, entertaining, or whatever. Teach early to complete whatever has once been started.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Helms Will Get Thurmond Aid

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican Senatorial nominee Jesse Helms will receive campaign help Thursday from Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the Helms staff said Tuesday.

The South Carolina senator is scheduled to be in Charlotte Thursday morning, fly to Greensboro and then to Statesville, and then move to a barbecue and rally Thursday night at Barium Springs.

Helms said he welcomed Thurmond's campaigning on his behalf. "I can think of no one I would rather have campaign for me," Helms said.

He planned campaign visits in Cabarrus, Iredell, Catawba and Alexander counties today, including a speaking appearance at a YDC meeting in Hickory.

Stocking Up On Winter Food

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities have started a crash program to assure enough food for Moscow this winter.

Following a shortfall in the grain harvest, local newspapers confirmed today that searing heat had reduced the potato crop in an area of 40,000 square miles around Moscow.

Potatoes and bread are staples of the Russian diet.

One of the complicating factors was the shortage of storage space in the Moscow area.

Galifianakis To Try Late Surge

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Nick Galifianakis said Tuesday night he planned to step up the pace of his campaign during the final stages of the U.S. Senate race this fall.

"We have tremendous forward momentum after the primaries and we can't afford to let up," Galifianakis, the Democratic senatorial nominee, told a reception.

He planned campaign visits in Cabarrus, Iredell, Catawba and Alexander counties today, including a speaking appearance at a YDC meeting in Hickory.
