

Vietnam Tops Agenda For Nixon And Tanaka

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, beginning a round of mid-Pacific conferences today, put Vietnam first on the agenda, then a bid for a billion-dollar economic transfusion from Japan.

Before opening formal summit talks with visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Nixon set aside the morning for a Vietnam review with Elsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were on hand at Hickam Air Force base — a major target of Japan's 1941 attack that brought the United States into World War II — to welcome the stocky Tanaka, who was installed as prime minister only last month.

The President and his advisers hope two days of sessions with Tanaka will produce a formal agreement by Japan to place an extra billion dollars on orders for American goods ranging from jet aircraft to feed grain.

Actually, the U.S. government would like Japan to up the ante to $2 billion, but preliminary talks in Tokyo indicated the lesser amount was more likely.

Americans currently are buying Japanese goods worth $3.8 billion more than they are selling to the Japanese each year. This imbalance is one factor behind the weakness of the dollar in international money markets.

Nixon and Tanaka will also talk about developing ties between their two countries and China.

While in Hawaii, the President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduling some activities that presumably could benefit the chief executive's campaign for a second term. Mrs. Nixon, for example, was to spend more than seven hours today on the island of Hawaii, visiting good-works projects and being feted at an evening luau.

The Nixons, in what was regarded as at least a semi-political event, spent an hour Wednesday night shaking hands with about 600 Hawaii business, political and civic leaders at the oceanside estate of long-time Republican Clare Boothe Luce.

Nixon's schedule for today was confined solely to official business, however. Henry A. Kissinger, his foreign policy adviser, described the morning meeting with Bunker as a review of the situation in Vietnam and the search for a negotiated settlement of the war.

In welcoming Tanaka at a state arrival ceremony in a Hickam hangar, Nixon said:

"May we always meet as we meet today, working for the great goals of peace in the Pacific and peace in the world."

Tanaka responded by noting the increased national strength of Japan and saying:

"With this in mind, we wish to strengthen further the already solid foundation of friendship and mutual trust between Japan and the United States and to promote even more wide-ranging cooperative relations in the coming years. I earnestly hope that my meeting with President Nixon will mark the beginning of a new era of constant dialogue between our two countries."

Meat Price Slump Upsets Cattlemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen are angry and consumers skeptical, but government and meat industry officials say housewives soon will get a price break at the meat counter.

The Department of Agriculture said Wednesday prices for cattle at market dipped in August for the first time in four months, although there has been no official indication that retail prices have followed suit.

The USDA said cattle prices were down $1.10 per one hundred pounds on the hoof from the record high of $34.60 in July. There are 18 per cent more cattle being fattened now than a year ago, which means a bigger supply by fall, it said.

John A. Copeland, chairman of the National Livestock and Meat Board in Chicago, said the declining prices at the market level should be passed on at supermarkets in the coming months.

But Iowa cattleman Bert Eason Jr. said here that cattlemen are "irritated, frustrated and upset" over the slump in meat prices.

He told a news conference that the cattlemen are the ones absorbing the burden of the lower wholesale costs and that consumers would not be paying 12.9 cents a pound less for beef if the lower farm prices

Resigning After Nat'l Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — George S. Romney plans to resign as secretary of Housing and Urban Development after the Nov. 7 election, The Washington Post quoted him as saying in an interview.

"The President urged me to stay on until after the election and I agreed to do so," Romney was quoted as saying.

The exact date of resignation will be decided after the election, he added, and then he will discuss the "public service in a private capacity" he has mentioned previously.

Expressing support for President Nixon but discouragement at unsuccessful attempts to expand HUD's staff, Romney was quoted as saying, "The principal lesson I've learned in my years in government is that we don't get fundamental reform except as the result of crisis."

Dredging Appeal Heard

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Environmentalists seeking to make Chicod Creek in eastern North Carolina a national test case of their opposition to governmental stream channelization efforts are seeking continuance of an injunction.

An attorney for the National Resources Defense Council told a federal appeals court Wednesday that dredging of Chicod and other waterways that empty into the Tar and Pamlico Rivers and Pamlico Sound could add 4,000 tons of sediment.

The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals took the case under consideration.

The appeal against the Soil Conservation Service and the U.S. Agriculture Department seeks to continue an injunction to prevent dredging operations in the area until a hearing can be held on an impact study presented by SCS.

Attorneys questioned the validity of a recently submitted environmental impact study and a $75,000 bond placed the citizens group when the injunction was permitted.

The study "does not fully disclose the impact" of the project, attorneys said, in asking for a continuation of the injunction, which was dissolved by a U.S. District Court when the statement was filed. Attorneys contended the National Environmental Policy Act was violated by the government agencies.

Hoax

CHARLESTON (AP)—A law enforcement officer says a black congressional candidate has admitted as a hoax his story of being kidnapped, robbed and stowed away in a motel under threats.

Chief J. P. Strom of the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division (SLED) reported Wednesday that Benjamin Frasier, 29, admitted the hoax.

Frasier had told police at Lumberton, N. C., of being kidnapped in South Carolina by two white men, robbed of $35,000, and then staying in a North Carolina motel for three days under a threat of death if he won the election in which he finished a distant second.

Strom had no further comment on the case in which the man's family had reported him missing after picking up a new car from a dealer near Charleston at midday Saturday.

Leukemia Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — American scientists say a reported Soviet breakthrough in leukemia research raises new hopes of finding a preventive vaccine and improved treatment for the disease.

The breakthrough, announced at a news conference Wednesday, comes at a time when scientists—especially in the United States—already are making significant progress in slowing down the development of all forms of cancer.

Soviet scientists have reported they have produced leukemia in monkeys and baboons after inoculating them with blood from human leukemia patients. The implication is that the Soviets might have succeeded in isolating a cancer-causing virus.

Dr. John B. Moloney of the National Cancer Institute said the Soviet report raises "new hope, absolutely" for preventing and stopping not only leukemia but also leukemia-like diseases and for cancers of the connective tissues.

The three classes of cancer together comprise 38,000 of the 640,000 new cases of cancer in the United States. Twenty-five years ago, the average survival of leukemia victims was measured in weeks and months. Today, it is at least three to four years and a few patients have been known to live from 12 to 15 years or more.

Support Of Thieu Said Sole Obstacle

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam declared today that "the only obstacle now for the restoration of peace is the U.S. obstinacy in maintaining the Nguyen Van Thieu administration and imposing U.S. neocolonialism in South Vietnam."

Assailing President Nixon for continuing U.S. bombing in Vietnam, Hanoi's peace talks spokesman declared that "no brute force can prevent the Vietnamese people's fight against U.S. aggression."

Nguyen Minh Vy, acting chief delegate of the North Vietnamese delegation, told the 157th session of the peace talks that "This is precisely the reality that the Nixon Administration should have the courage to realize and thereby put an end to its military adventures."

Eastern Belt's Tobacco Prices Continuing High

The Farmville tobacco market yesterday averaged $89.07 per hundred pounds, the second highest average obtained on the Eastern Belt yesterday.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville market, the volume of leaf and cutter grades showed a sharp increase yesterday over previous sales days this year. Offerings of nondescript grades showed a sharp decline in volume. Primings and lugs have shown an increase in price each day this week, according to Williams.

The Farmville market yesterday sold 473,642 pounds of leaf for $421,869. The highest average on the Eastern Belt was obtained on the Wendell market when 269,056 pounds of tobacco was sold for $239,923, giving an average per hundred pounds of $89.17.

The Greenville market yesterday averaged $88.76 per hundred pounds. The average on the Kinston market was $88.65 per hundred pounds, while the Rocky Mount averaged $88.08 per hundred pounds for tobacco sold yesterday.

The Wilson market, leading the other markets in the Eastern Belt, with the number of pounds sold, averaged $88.78 per hundred pounds after selling 1,240,128 pounds of tobacco for $1,101,038.

A tabulation of the individual markets on the Eastern Belt as compiled by the Federal-State Market News Service, includes:

Expect Punitive Action Over 'Bootleg Tobacco'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture is investigating reports of fraudulent marketing of flue-cured tobacco in North Carolina and has indicated that punitive action is expected.

Officials said Wednesday the Office of the Inspector General in the department has turned up "instances of false identification" of excess tobacco bootlegged at lower prices from farmers who had sold more than they were legally allowed under federal marketing quotas.

Among its countermeasures, the department said it would require that farmers report unmarketed tobacco remaining in their possession at the end of the marketing season. Adequate on-farm checks would be made to insure compliance.

"Appropriate monetary penalties will be assessed, farm acreage allotments and marketing quotas reduced and prosecution undertaken for violations when the investigations are completed," officials said.

The department also said new countermeasures will be put into effect in an effort to head off further abuses. "False identification"

The department also said a printed notice would be placed on all marketing cards calling attention to the fact that nonaction sales as well as sales at auction must be reflected on the marketing card at the time of sale.

"Other countermeasures to be continued will be the withdrawal of price support measures from warehouses found to be violating the law and program regulations," the department said.

Well, That's One Way To End Argument

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Stevie and I went together for about four months, and he gave me his peace ring, which I wore all the time.

Last Friday we had a big fight, and I tried to give Stevie's peace ring back to him, but he refused to take it. I finally threw it at him.

He said he didn't want it, so I picked it up and stuck it in his pocket. That's when he SWALLOWED IT!

I told my mother about it, and she said she didn't want me to ever go out with that lunatic Stevie again. Abby, I still care for him, and I'd like to go back with him, but now my mother won't let me. Now I'm sorry I told my mother anything. What should I do? LINDA

DEAR LINDA: Hide your time, Honey. Things have a way of working themselves out.

DEAR ABBY: Everybody thinks waitress work is a good deal because a girl doesn't need much education, little training, and if she's willing to work, she can rake in a lot of money. Well, I work for a place which employs about 160 waitresses, and what the customer does not know is this:

1. If a customer walks out without paying the check, the waitress has to pay it.
  2. If he walks out WITH the check [all checks are numbered] it costs the waitress $10.
  3. If a waitress breaks a dish, she pays for it.
  4. If a waitress makes a mistake in addition [and under charges] she has to make up the difference.
  5. If the waitress forgets to mark an item on the check, no excuse is acceptable, she is fired!
  6. If a night girl comes on the floor and finishes serving for a day girl, the night girl loses the tip.
- Now, Dear Abby, what advice have you for a weary, underpaid girl who has to support herself as a waitress?
NO UNION HERE

DEAR NO: Hustle your bustle to the nearest travel bureau, find the first plane, train, bus or dogeared out of that town, and take it!

DEAR ABBY: Naturally you won't print this, but I am going to write it anyway.

Everyonce in a while, in your column there's a reference to a "male chauvinist pig," and of course the remark always comes from a woman.

What a laugh! Ask any service station operator or a janitor who cleans both men's and women's rest rooms who the "pigs" are. They will tell you they are the women, beyond a question of a doubt. And women will call men pigs!
NO SYMPATHY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR NO: I didn't have to ask. I've heard it for years.

DEAR ABBY: If a girl is single and free to date, has a child, and a fellow wants to take her out, should the fellow pay for the babysitter? Or should the gal pay for it herself? In this case, the girl has limited funds, and the man is aware that she has a child.

Should she just drop a hint, or come right out and say, "I'm sorry. I can't go out this evening because I can't afford a sitter," and then wait for him to offer or what? I feel that if a man can afford to date a girl, he should consider the sitter a part of the expense of dating, right?
SHORT OF MONEY

DEAR SHORT: Paying the sitter should be the mother's responsibility. If the gentleman offers to pay for the sitter, fine, but anything resembling a "hint" would be in poor taste.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69766, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Couple Speaks Vows German Cuisine Is Varied And Rich

By TOM HOGE
AP Newfeatures Writer

The marriage of Miss Connie McLawhorn and Warren Haddock was solemnized in a ceremony Saturday at 6:00 p.m. in the Shelmardine Baptist Church.

The Rev. Travis Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. McLawhorn of Rt. 3, Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. and Mrs. Lewis Haddock of Rt. 1, Grifton.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Judy McLawhorn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza and alencon lace designed with a Victorian neckline and pointed sleeves. Lace appliques accented the front of the skirt and edged the detachable train.

She carried a bouquet of white pom poms and mums centered with a white orchid with white satin streamers.

Miss Jean Laughinghouse of Washington was maid of honor. She wore a white crepe dress designed with a V-neckline. Her headpiece was of white net with green velvet accents. She carried a tapered bouquet of miniature white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Brenda Mosley of Rt. 3, Greenville, and Kathy Adams of Grifton. They wore dresses styled identical to that of the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Douglas Haddock of Grifton was his brother's best man. Ushers were Donnie McLawhorn of Rt. 3, Greenville, brother of the bride, and Jeffery Haddock of Grifton, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride is a rising senior at Ayden-Grifton High School. The bridegroom also attended Ayden-Grifton High School.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Grifton.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Earl Evans, of Greenville.

Conservatives With Liberal Ideas

HAVERHILL, England (WNS) — Eileen Currell, 37, was shocked at the liberal goings-on at the Friday-night dance of the Conservative Club. "Before I could use the phone booth for an emergency call, I had to wait for the couple inside to get dressed," she reported to the executive committee. "The girl was naked from the waist up, and the boy from the waist down. Or vice versa, I'm not sure which. The point is that this is not the proper image for a Conservative Club." An official explained that "discotheque dances are a chief source of revenue, but we intend to clean things up so that membership will grow again."

Man Takes Wife's Advice

DURBAN, South Africa (WNS) — Katharine Beckett thought that her 63-year-old husband Dudley was joking when he told her that he felt like committing suicides. "Well, go jump off the roof while I put the kettle on for tea," she suggested. Beckett did exactly as she had suggested. When tea was ready, his wife found him lying dead in the yard.

Meat is the keystone of the great German cuisine, and if one had to choose a national dish it would be a tossup between the Braten and the Schnitzel, both of which have become famous round the world.

If you lack the time or funds to fly to Germany and sample the fare on the spot, the next best move is to dine in one of this country's famous German restaurants, like Luchow's in New York City which has been serving the classic specialties of the Rhineland for 90 years.

Braten, or roast, may be pork, beef or veal, and the best German chefs transform it into an elegant creation larded with bacon, stuffed with foie gras and wrapped in puff paste. Such a roast may be cooked with wine, vegetables or cream, basted with broth or glazed with honey.

Special Course Scheduled For Late September

A "Preparation for Parenthood" course will be taught at the East Carolina University School of Nursing beginning Sept. 20 at 7 p. m.

The course is designed to give an understanding of the maternity cycle and the newborn and his care. Instruction will be provided to promote skills in body mechanics as an aid in achieving optimum conditions for labor and delivery. Hospital routines and procedures will be discussed, as will characteristics of the newborn, home preparation, infant care, and development through the first year of life.

The class for expectant or new parents will run eight or nine sessions each Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m. Instruction will be provided by junior-level students of obstetrical nursing under the direction and supervision of Mrs. Lona P. Ratcliffe, R. N., and Mrs. Therese G. Lawler, R. N. The cost is $8 per person or $10 for a husband and wife.

Enrollment is limited, so advance registration is recommended. One's name, address, telephone and an $8 or $10 check should be sent to Non-Credit Program, Division of Continuing Education, ECU, P. O. Box 2727, Greenville, N. C. 27834. Registration will be held during the first class.

Sweet-sour dishes are typical of the German cuisine, and the best of these is sauerbraten or 'sour roast,' which is very popular in the United States.

The Germans can perform minor miracles with veal, especially the cutlets known as Schnitzel. They range from the unbreaded Naturschnitzel and the Wienerschnitzel served without sauce to the elaborate Schnitzel Holstein. This famed dish is covered with a fried egg topped with anchovies, capers and parsley and surrounded with tidbits of smoked salmon, caviar, mushrooms, truffles and cooked crayfish tails.

Germany is a land of many regions and widely varying dishes. The northern Germans, for instance, consume vast quantities of potatoes which grow well in their sandy soil. But in the south, where there is an ample supply of wheat, they go in more for dumplings.

Among the best known German specialties are the smoked pork and Westphalian hams and the numerous fresh and smoked sausages. These range from the tiny Weisswurst with a veal-based stuffing to a goose-liver sausage redolent with truffles.

The German kitchen is noted for its thick soups made from potatoes, dried peas or lentils fragrant with sausage and onion. There is also creamy cauliflower soup and crayfish bisque made with veal stock and thickened with egg yolk.

The Germans have developed a number of chicken dishes, but their fowl cookery runs more to duck and goose, stuffed with a rich mixture of fruit, onions and herbs. Luchow's serves virtually all of these specialties, but executive director Dieter Sauer is especially fond of that longstanding favorite; Schnitzel Holstein. Here is his recipe:

- Four 6-ounce veal cutlets 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- flour
- 5 eggs
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 12 anchovy fillets
- 8 thin slices pickled beet
- 8 slices dill pickle
- Wipe cutlets with damp cloth.
- Pound meat thin, season, dip in flour. Beat 1 egg. Dip cutlets into it, then roll in bread crumbs. Cook in 4 tablespoons butter until golden brown on both sides. Fry remaining 4 eggs in butter. Remove cutlets to warm dish and place fried egg on each. Garnish with anchovy fillets, sliced beet and pickles. Serves 4. Good with a Moselle wine.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Sunday

FARMVILLE — The wedding of Miss Emily Elaine Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanley of Farmville, and John Alexander Basso, son of Mrs. Alexander Basso of Greenville, and the late Mr. Basso, took place Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Jim Williams of Wilson officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Honor attendants were Miss Betsy Stanley, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sandra Parker.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jimmy Sugg and Miss Janice Parker, cousins of the bride.

Children in the wedding were Lorrie Cox of Ayden, cousin of the bridegroom, and Ricky Harper of Farmville, nephew of the bridegroom.

Clay Sutton served as best man and Art Beaman, cousin of the bridegroom, was head usher. Ushers were Neal Walston and James Allen, all of Farmville.

The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Farmville.

The bride is a graduate of Edcombe Memorial School of Nursing and is employed at the Family Clinic, Farmville. The bridegroom is attending Pitt Technical Institute, Greenville.

MRS. JOHN ALEXANDER BASSO

Following the rehearsal Saturday night, the bridegroom's mother entertained at a dinner party at the Candlewick Inn for members of the bridal party and friends.

Airline Type Lunches Make Hit With Parents, Students

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A lot of students lunch like airline passengers these days. They eat commercially prepared, single serving frozen tray meals that are heated at school.

Airline type lunches make a hit with parents and school boards as well as students, but for different reasons.

The youngsters like the speedier service and menus planned around universal favorites, such as franks and beans, spaghetti with meat sauce, lasagne, pizza, fried chicken, breaded fish fillets, hamburgers, sloppy joes or barbecue and tacos.

One school food service director says parents like the new system because it guarantees each child a sealed lunch package containing a full portion of wholesome food.

Money Saving

School boards approve because the system saves money while providing balanced meals without the large staff and expensive equipment of conventional cafeterias. Only a freezer, a refrigerator and a convection oven are required. Schools that lack space even for these often are served by a central kitchen which heats meals for delivery in insulated carriers.

Julius J. Jacobs, director of school lunches for New York City, said in an interview that more than 100 schools here switched to airline type meals during their first year of availability. He expects the number to grow.

Each hot entree comes with a vegetable in a compartmented aluminum tray like those used for commercial heat-and-serve dinners.

Each child in line is handed his tray of hot food on top of a styro foam tray containing bread, butter, dessert, a napkin, an eating utensil and a straw for milk, which tops the pyramid.

"In a conventional cafeteria, if you're number 90 in a line of 90 kids, you have 30 seconds to gulp your food and keep moving (back to class)," said Jacobs, adding that lines move faster when you don't have to wait for someone to dish up food individually.

Savings Vary

The money saved by the new system varies from school to school and city to city. In Bridgeport, Conn., labor costs dropped about 50 per cent when airline type meals were introduced. Excess food service staff either left through normal attrition or were transferred to schools joining the lunch program for the first time.

Thomas Carroll, Bridgeport's school food service director, wrote in School Management magazine that spoilage and waste are almost eliminated. When bad weather or other causes reduced attendance, fewer frozen meals are heated, and any heated leftovers are sent to high schools to be used the next day in a la carte service. Dessert packs, even when thawed, remain fresh several days under refrigeration.

Commercial processing also is an economy. Companies that regularly prepare similar meals for institutional and retail sale can do the job for school lunches cheaper than the schools could do it themselves, especially when the schools provide some ingredients in the form of donated foods from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Volunteer Army Doubts Remain

The military draft will be ended by July, 1973, if Congress approves legislation recommended by the administration.

This announcement came from President Nixon Monday. It came, of course, as the presidential campaign moved into its final two months and it is likely that the president wants to get as much political mileage out of it as possible.

Still, there is no doubt in our minds that Nixon does intend to carry out his aim of eliminating the draft. It was a promise made in 1968 and the government has been moving toward it ever since.

All the old troubling questions remain about trying to maintain large numbers of men under arms at a time when the draft will not be a factor. First, of course, is the fact that the volunteer army will be costly and increases in salaries and benefits will be necessary to attract the personnel needed for an efficient armed force. Then no one knows what will happen to the National Guard and Reserves when the threat of the draft no longer induces young men to join these forces.

There is also the worry of how desirable it will be to have armed forces composed of all professional military men without the tempering effect of civilian soldiers which has characterized our armed forces since before World War II.

Military conscription has been legal because service was looked on as a citizen duty, just as jury duty is.

We have to confess to an uneasiness to entering an era when the civilian soldier will no longer be a part of the military scene. It is, however, an era that is near at hand, and we hope that it works out in the best interest of the nation.

Taxes May Be Litter 'Cure'

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The state's taxing power may be the best tool for cleaning up the litter of empty beverage containers.

That's a conclusion of a study conducted by the Research Triangle Institute to find ways to abate the problem of discarded cans and bottles once their contents have been consumed.

A mandatory high deposit, to encourage the return of refillable containers, was a second-best approach suggested by the exhaustive analysis of beverage container disposal prepared by the RTI staff for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Both alternatives would be hard to swallow for the beverage industry. While conscious of the bad image created by litter left by its products, the general view within the industry is that the solution lies in public education and technology rather than legislation.

"We would be very much opposed," said Sam L. Whitehurst, executive director of the N.C. Soft Drink Association, of the tax proposal. There are serious doubts about the constitutionality and whether it would achieve the desired results, he contended.

Contents Already Taxes
Tar Heel bottlers already rankle under the present soft drink tax which is on the contents, not the container.

A recent legislative session received a bill to require a five-cent deposit on containers. The sponsor withdrew it, Whitehurst recalled, after he got a better understanding of what was involved.

"We want our bottles back. We have to have repeated use to recover costs. But the level of deposit has to be worked out on the basis of what the consumer will accept," he insisted.

Customer convenience dictated the use of non-returnable containers, he said. Now, the trend again is to refillables. Some bottlers around the state are raising deposits from two cents to three cents per container, to assure a higher rate of return. Whitehurst said.

The soft drink industry has a long-standing interest in the litter problem, he continued. "We always have felt the answer is to be found in teaching the public to properly dispose of solid wastes," he said.

Behavior Change Difficult
The RTI study, which got national attention in a Fortune magazine article, said efforts to change public behavior are expensive and limited in impact. As examples, it cited campaigns on the dangers of smoking and the use of seat belts for highway safety.

That empty beverage containers are a component in pollution of the environment is obvious along every highway. On the average, each American litters 1,000 of them every year, the study noted.

"On a national basis they probably make up at least 20 per cent of the items littered along our roadsides and, because of their lack of degrade ability, at least 30 per cent of the items typically collected," it said.

Evidence of the frustrating search for a solution is the fact that 382 bills have been introduced at federal, state, and local levels to cope with the problem.

The task assigned by EPA to the research organization was to provide a comprehensive examination of beverage container disposal, an analysis of alternative governmental policies, and recommendations as to the best course of action.

Tax Said Best Choice
Of proposals considered, the RTI report identified a mandatory high deposit or a low tax as the two best choices. It said both would have predictable effects, and both would reduce litter but by different approaches.

The high deposit would be expected to reduce littering and possibly stimulate scavenging, while the tax would generate funds for litter collection. It said the mandatory high deposit probably has greater benefits, but its costs are significantly greater.

"The tax should reflect the social costs of the littered containers. This policy would be the most predictable, least expensive, most equitable, and easiest of the available alternatives to administer. It may also have applicability to other environmental (especially litter) problems," according to the report.

"Since beverage consumption, container types, littering habits, citizen values, and litter collection costs all vary from area to area, the social costs incurred by society will also vary. For this reason, and also for reasons of administration, the tax should be imposed at the state level. Each state should determine its own appropriate tax rate, based on the magnitude of its beverage container problem. It appears, however, that most tax rates should be from one-half to one cent per container."

Should Jointly Assure All Precautions Taken

The $20 million nuclear fuel fabrication plant for Franklin County is an announcement that should benefit that area.

The plant will employ about 1,200 persons with an annual payroll of $16 million by the end of the 1970s.

Both state and company officials have assured us that the plant will be ecologically clean. We accept this, but state agencies should work closely with the firm during the planning and construction stages to assure that all precautions are taken to protect our air, land and water.

Skirmish Goes To Holshouser

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — Jim Holshouser won't sound any trumpets about it but he came out with a psychological victory in the futile talks with Skipper Bowles to limit campaign spending in the gubernatorial race.

Officially, both sides said the talks failed. They blamed each other.

Holshouser had proposed the spending limit and Bowles agreed to discuss the matter.

In an interview with this column five weeks ago, Holshouser said he couldn't match Bowles in the spending department but he added: "It's important that I stay in the same ballpark with him."

Holshouser contends that Bowles did a good job of spending money in the primary that was not visible to the average voter. He speaks directly of the direct mailing Bowles did in the campaign — several letters to registered Democrats.

Why did Holshouser gain an advantage from the financial talks?

First, he did what he wanted to. He focused public attention on the issue.

Holshouser believes — rightly or wrongly — that a candidate who spends a great deal of money to win a primary is hurt by it in the general election, if the public is made aware of the matter.

Second, Bowles said he would not exceed $175,000 for television advertising. This is plenty of money to get his message across but the fact that he agreed to the limitation could help Holshouser in a close race.

As far as Bowles is concerned, his camp is confident that he won't have to spend the great sum of money that he did in the primary to defeat Pat Taylor.

Bowles started off the primary in a very decided underdog position. Taylor was known state-wide. Bowles wasn't. Bowles used television to become better-known.

He doesn't have the problem against Holshouser that he had against Taylor.

In the first place, Bowles — at this point — has to be considered the favorite in the race. His polls show him ahead.

And in the second place, Bowles is probably better-known state-wide than Holshouser. His television campaign in the election can be used to get across his message. He won't need to spend money to close any "identification gap."

Holshouser very definitely plans to make campaign spending an issue this fall. Bowles reported spending $875,000 in the Democratic primary.

Holshouser says Bowles' people never negotiated seriously in the financial talks and he termed them a "farce."

Bowles' aides charged that Holshouser delivered an ultimatum to do it all his way or he wouldn't agree to anything.

Looking back, it appears to be little way that the two sides could have agreed on anything that could have been enforced.

But the talks were given front-page publicity across the state and that's one of the things that Holshouser wanted. The public has zeroed in on the amount of money it takes to run for Governor of North Carolina.

Strength For Today

EVERYTHING HAS A PRICE TAG
For some people one of life's hardest lessons is to learn that goodness of life comes through effort.

These same people are perfectly willing to admit that there can be no business success without effort. They will tell you that the body cannot be made strong without exercise. They will even admit that the finest qualities of character are built up as the result of one's meeting life's hard circumstances and wrestling with them.

That figure of wrestling reminds us of the patriarch Jacob who, we are told in the Book of Genesis, thought he could rise up and cross the stream Jabbok and on the other side meet his brother, Esau, whom he had wronged and hookwinked. But as he got to the other side of the stream Jacob found himself grasped by the strong arms of a man — or was it an angel? — and then a wrestling match started. Jacob and his opponent wrestled through the night. In the morning Jacob had a new name, but what was vastly more important, he had a new nature. He had thought he could triumph just as he was. God showed him that it would take a new — a renewed — Jacob to win a real victory.

It takes effort to achieve goodness just as it takes effort to achieve success in any field. We wrestle with angels, with men — most often, with ourselves. A million dollars cannot be earned without effort. Neither can character or self-restraint be otherwise achieved.

After 2 Weeks On Road

SCRABBLE, Va. — To spend two weeks on the road, as these things usually are reckoned, is not to be long away from home. Soldiers, sailors and traveling men are out much longer. Back in the early spring, when many of us were chasing candidates on the primary trail, two weeks were nothing much. But this has seemed a long time out — twelve thousand miles, as the crows fly, and none the wiser.

Yet the awareness of ignorance marks the beginning of wisdom, and this time, perhaps, for no particular reason, I bring home awareness. We oracles often are asked, when the speech ends and the questions begin, to define the mood of the country. The honest answer, seldom heard, is that no man can say.

These two weeks have spanned the nation, from Miami to Los Angeles and back again. I am struck dumb, again for no good reason, at the immensity of this good land. It has no dominant mood. One encounters hope and despair, anxiety and satisfaction, anger and good humor, frustration and achievement. Some idiot, writing in the current Playboy magazine, has delivered himself on sweeping pronouncements on "the women of the South," as if he knew the women of the South. A stupid article. Those of us who deal in national affairs should avoid the same presumption.

How are things in Tallahassee? The question is put to a clerk at a newsstand, and her accent is as soft as Spanish moss: "We're feelin' no pain." What of Chicago? Says a cab driver: "It could be worse." And Los Angeles? Says a barber: "Not bad. Not bad at all." But the clerk and the cab driver and the barber speak from their own small worlds, their tiny tight cocoons. We ought not to leap to grand conclusions on the health of a nation.

Here in the mountains, suddenly it is summer's end. In an old and vivid metaphor, one says of a man that he has "gone to seed," but it is only late in August that the image lies at hand. Everything, in these two weeks, has gone to seed — grass, trees, weeds, the garden plants. This time is a time of transition.

The tomatoes are still producing, but the vines are shriveling now, the dead branches like torn curtains. Japanese beetles have made lacework of a peach tree. Black-eyed peas did poorly this year: Too much fertilizer, I suspect. They were done in by affluence and wasted themselves in extravagant vines.

I drive to Woodville for the mail. The road crew, at long last, has cut the weeds, but the dead stalks are worse than the living plants. The lie in rotting windrows, boot-brown. A groundhog scuffles through the debris. He is a fat one, that groundhog. How are things in Rappahannock County? The groundhog, snug in his hole, is feeling no pain.

The leaves are turning. I fill one of the bird feeders, suspended from a gum, and pluck a leaf. Two weeks ago it was green, this leaf, but it is russet now, black-charred at the tip. Eugene McCarthy has sent a book of his poems. He speaks of maple leaves that fall in autumn, "brown veined, spotted, like old

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women are better than men at holding grudges. Partly, it's because they are not as lazy as men; partly it's because fewer things generally happen to women than to men. Because they lead more varied lives, men find it too much trouble to hug a grievance to their bosom very long. Women, who get more mileage out of any situation, have more time to spend on either hate or love.

A lady reader writes in and wants to know what she can do with leftover breaded veal cutlets. Personally, I've never had to face this problem; I've always made it an iron rule of life never to let lamb or breaded veal cutlets enter my front door. The only possible thing I can think of to do with leftover breaded veal cutlets would be to use them as ship ballast, but I doubt if you could wear them out no matter how many times you sailed them around the world.

Have you ever had a pair of handcuffs around your wrists? I never have, and never want to. That may not be much of a claim to fame—the mere fact a fellow's never been in jail—but if they were still alive, it would certainly surprise a lot of my old neighbors who were sure I'd wind up in the penitentiary.

Every knowledge has its limits. For example, I've met many men who learned in the army how to sew on a button—some even felt this relieved them of any need to get married—but I have never met a man who could make and sew a buttonhole.

If we all had our lives to live over again, we'd still probably do the same things—but at least we'd be looking for an easier way to get them done.

The "depression chariot", an automobile with a mule for a motor, is solving the transportation problem for hundreds of eastern North Carolina. At the same time, it is solving a new problem to filling station operators for the driver buys no gas, oil, spare parts and few tires. All he asks for is water and air which are free. When adverse times hit the farmers, they created the "depression chariot" by fitting automobiles with shafts and hitching horses and mules to it.

The odds, were with the scientists who gambled on New England weather as morning brought clearing skies after a cloudy night to a large part of the area in which the solar eclipse will be total today. Reclining chairs were rented out so that tourists might view the eclipse at ease and many stores reported they were unable to supply the demand for smoked glass.

Other Editors Say Walking Softly

(Christian Science Monitor)
If we read correctly the signals coming from Tokyo, prior to the two-day meeting in Honolulu this week between President Nixon and Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Mr. Nixon is unlikely to come away from the talks with the substantial trade concessions that the United States had hoped to get.

Trade relations between the two countries are, to be sure, only part of the reason for the meeting. Japan's blossoming new affair with Communist China tops the priority list in long-range significance. But the multibillion dollar trade imbalance between the two countries is a matter of domestic political concern to both Messrs. Nixon and Tanaka.

In recent days, Tokyo has been signaling that it feels it has already gone the second mile in giving the United States concessions. For one thing, it disputes the size of the trade balance in Japan's favor, placing it closer to $2.5 billion than the $3.8 billion U.S. estimate.

Comments from Tokyo regarding the talks refer to the trade aspects of the meeting as "symbolic," a hint not to expect too much in the way of substance. And the United States-Japan Trade Council, a lobby group partly financed by the Japanese Government, has been pushing the view that the U.S. focus on the dollar imbalance is "simplistic," overlooking important "invisibles" in U.S. favor.

But the really meaningful, less politically salable, aspect of the Honolulu conference revolves around Japan's new relations with Communist China. It all began, of course, when Mr. Nixon went to Peking and Moscow last spring, setting the scene for a massive reshifting of global alliances. Now Mr. Tanaka, who will be going to Peking shortly himself, will surely want to discuss such related matters as Japan's continuing relations with Taiwan, particularly as one of Peking's prices for resuming diplomatic and trade relations is that Tokyo scrap its peace treaty with Nationalist China.

Related to this question is the United States mutual security pact with Japan and its commitment to defend Taiwan from attack. Mr. Tanaka is under pressure at home both to close down American bases, needed for any defense of Taiwan, and to maintain trade relations with Taiwan which is a major customer.

These conflicting demands present a basketful of diplomatic eggs to Messrs. Nixon and Tanaka in Honolulu. It will take exceedingly delicate footwork if they are not to be scrambled.

Scant Support For Separatism

By GEORGE ARFELD
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN (AP) — The resolution by a U.N. committee that declared Puerto Rico has a right to independence marks the first major victory in a campaign by leftist separatists seeking abroad the support that has long eluded them at home.

Two separatist parties, the Puerto Rican Independence Party and the Marxist-Castroist Puerto Rican Socialist Party, have found an eager ally in Cuba, always ready to discredit the United States. They have also sent delegations to plead their case before the Marxist government of Chile and several Latin American legislators.

The separatists — known here as "independentistas" — have never polled a substantial share of the vote. In the 1968 elections they fell short of 4 per cent. But that may be misleading because many who yearn for sovereignty cast their ballots for other parties because of economic or traditional reasons.

Gov. Luis A. Ferre, who favors statehood, believes the independentistas total about 10 per cent of the electorate. A poll taken recently by the San Juan Star showed 4.8 per cent of those interviewed favored independence.

Even those opposed to independence retain a strong sense of Puerto Rican nationality. Puerto Ricans usually refer to their island as "el pais" — the country. They are proud of being Puerto Rican, and the foreign observer gets the impression that even if the island became a state someday, the people would refuse to give up their Spanish heritage — the language, the traits, the Roman Catholic approach to life, the Mediterranean romanticism.

Most Puerto Ricans seem to have little interest in independence at present. The island, although far from a paradise, is rapidly entering the age of mass consumption thanks to a successful industrialization program that has been in effect for a generation. Although the average annual income remains lower than that of the poorest state of the union, Puerto Rico boasts a higher per capita income than any Spanish-speaking country.

One of the biggest barriers to the separatist movement has been fear of Communism and the poor record of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba.

The two separatist parties are now waging an active political campaign, with the Independence Party seeking to elect its fiery, Yale-educated leader, Ruben Berrios, to the island legislature.

Abroad, through cooperation with Cuba and at sympathetic conferences, symposia and other meetings, the independentistas seek to embarrass the United States and daub their autonomous form of government with disrepute.

Amateurs Test Chess Masters Only Failures For 1972 Skyjackings For Ransom

REYKJAVIK WAS NEVER LIKE THIS — Six chess masters took on all comers in Chicago's Civic Center Wednesday, simultaneously playing many opponents. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — More than 2,000 persons put up with near 90-degree heat in Civic Center Plaza here to match wits with masters from the Chicago Chess Club. Few were successful.

The three winning "amateurs," however, were typical of the general quality of play that was even more surprising than the large turnout Wednesday.

The plaza's large Picasso sculpture had seldom looked down upon such a hushed crowd. Most of the noise came from usual downtown traffic in a hurry to get to the next stop light, church bells tolling the hour, the bustle of noon hour crowds — and the hawking over a loudspeaker system by Richard Verber, a rotund chess master who helped organize the event.

But where the activity occurred, on 200 chess boards opened on tables arranged in rectangles, there was a general calm.

The masters moved between the tables, playing as many as 20 games at a time. The challengers were seated, plotting their moves, receiving occasional suggestions from those standing behind them waiting to play next.

"It was a matter of our playing a simultaneous game against a well thought out game," said Tim Redman, who, at 22, is recognized an expert by the U.S. Chess Federation.

Redman said he faced about 50 opponents within six hours. He was among the chess club's experts who lost to one of three persons who won a McGovern-Nixon chess set sculptured by Alexander Silveri, retired Austrian professor of art.

"I blundered. That's how you always lose," Redman said. "He (his opponent) got the advantage. I tried to trap him and failed."

The 16 masters and experts who played from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. were surprised, they said, not so much at the numbers of people, but the quality of play.

"Usually, in a simultaneous game you can expect some pushovers," Redman said. "I had no easy games."

"We had the best chess players in the area out there today," Verber said. "They came to play. Before we even had our signs up to attract passerby, there must have been 900 people waiting ..."

Verber, who said the surging interest in chess is certainly due to the current chess championship match in Iceland between American challenger Bobby Fischer and Russia's Boris Spassky, said he expected about 2,000 games to be played.

But he estimated near the day's end that as many as 3,000 were played and that hundreds of persons waited up to three hours to compete.

They recognize in the brevity of a flower's beauty the transience of their own being in the universal scheme.
Few things make a man feel more important over nothing than the preparing of his last will and testament. And isn't it a commentary on human nature that he gets more relish figuring who he wants to leave out of it than who he wants to put in?

Kissinger has had frequent dates with Hollywood stars, the most recent with Jill St. John, who accompanied him to a reception at Nixon's California home Sunday night.

Kissinger also was asked about reports that he had been offered a $2 million advance for a book on his White House years.

He replied he had not had "any discussions with any publishers" about writing his memoirs and will not while he is in his present job. But, referring to the $2 million figure, he said, "I read in the paper that that's what they're worth."

hands, fluttering in blessing." Better to write poetry than to run for president.

It is all necessary, of course, this going to seed, this cycle of rotting and dropping and dying. In the deepening twilight, I pick up a fallen acorn, knurled as the knob on a safe, and wonder at the secret locked inside. It is the oldest observation of philosopher and theologian that in the midst of life we are in death. At summer's end we know the first soft breath of spring.

Perhaps it is so with institutions also. Politics is my beat. Is there some valid analogy here? Are the old virtues dying, truly dying, or only going to seed, renewing themselves? "We hold these truths to be self-evident," said Jefferson. He wrote in an early summer long ago. Two hundred years have passed, and the American dream has been two weeks on the road. The balloons of Miami were red, white, and blue, but the acorns are brown and the nights grow cold. Weatherman, I ask aloud, what is our country's season now?

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 11 attempts this year to hijack an aircraft for ransom have failed, Federal Aviation Administration Administrator John H. Shaffer said today.
In every instance, he said, the persons involved either have been arrested, killed, or are under the control of a foreign government.
"The recent action by the Algerian government in returning the $1.5 million in ransom money paid by U.S. airlines in two hijacking incidents must be a severe blow to anyone who still imagines that air piracy can be a profitable enterprise," Shaffer said.
"There now is virtually no place on earth a hijacker can go with the realistic expectation that he will be allowed to keep the money he has extorted."
"When a person buys a ticket on an airliner with the idea of hijacking it for profit," Shaffer said, "he has really bought himself a ticket to prison or to the morgue."
Hijackings for extortion began last Nov. 24 when a man known only as D. Cooper disappeared after parachuting from an airliner with $200,000 in ransom money.
Many government officials are confident Cooper was killed in the jump. However, no body has been found, and the money has not been recovered.
All 20 hijack attempts since—two last year—have ended in failure, Shaffer said.
In five cases the hijackers escaped by parachute. All but one were tracked down on the ground and arrested, and the ransom paid them was recovered. The exception was a hijacker who surrendered to authorities in Honduras and claimed to have sent the $303,000 in ransom to recipients in Red China.

Russia May Lose Egypt Naval Bases

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may soon be forced to give up its naval bases in Egypt, some intelligence sources here say.

Relations between the two countries have been rapidly deteriorating in recent months and President Anwar Sadat of the United Arab Republic already has told the Russians to withdraw their air force and army units.

Sources report a growing belief in Washington's intelligence community that the Russian navy may soon follow suit.

There have been reports of a secret meeting in which Sadat told his subordinates the Soviet navy would leave Egypt. Officials here say they know about the meeting but cannot confirm the reports. They say they are inclined to accept an earlier statement by Sadat that the Russians could continue to use the naval facilities.

But one official said it was "significant, or at least interesting" that Moscow has not commented on Sadat's statement.

Sources say there has not yet been any change in Russian use of their naval installations at Alexandria, Mersa Matruh and the Gulf of Sollum on the Libyan border.

Loss of the naval facilities would not have the same impact on the Soviet Union as its earlier loss of air bases, although it would be another psychological blow, sources said.

Loss of the air bases has shown up in the recent cessation of Soviet reconnaissance flights over the U.S. sixth fleet, the sources said.

The loss of Egyptian air bases also was serious for broad Soviet military planning, officials here say. MIG23s, using the bases, covered the southern half of Greece and Turkey, two NATO allies of the United States. They complemented the air coverage over northern Greece and Turkey from MIG23s based in the Soviet Union and Bulgaria.

Since the Soviet Union has no aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean, the Egyptian bases seem irreplaceable, officials say.

But in the event of loss of Egyptian naval installations, the Russians still could use two bases in Syria, at Latakia and Tartus.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning finds you able to work out some problems to your satisfaction by utilizing to advantage your logical reasoning powers, but take no chances the rest of the day and evening and think out the best way to solve problems through a careful and cautious approach. Keep calm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to persuade others to carry through with your own ideas in a.m., but after lunch it is just the opposite with bigwigs, so carry through then as they prefer. Give earnest encouragement to the one you love. Get fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to handle material affairs at home very carefully today and tonight. You are able to solve all the important financial matters through perseverance. Show others you are not easily thwarted in your efforts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some letter you receive in a.m. can serve as a guidepost for the days ahead, but after lunch you have to handle affairs without undue impatience. Don't run around socially without some definite purpose in mind.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to use common sense where those secret affairs are concerned in a.m., then study whatever comes up very carefully, but do not reach definite decisions yet. Bide for time with those who apply pressure on you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Quietly state your aims with a good friend, but do not pressure and you get the cooperation you want and need. You have to use more patience if you are to gain vital desires. Good friends are most important to you now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make certain you do not take any undue risks so you do not jeopardize either reputation or credit or both. Get your bills paid and stop using excuses. Plan more time for the one you love in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good friend can be of assistance to you in gaining the aims you have in mind. Do the studying that will lift your thinking. Diplomatically discourage a glamorous, especially if you are married.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A higher-up can give you the right answer to some problem you have, but think the questions over carefully tonight before acting in the morning. Keep busy at routines. Some light recreation is fine tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you do not have the right understanding with an important associate, now is the time to get it. You had better do something wise about that problem that is pressing. Procrastinating only makes it worse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to delve right into all that work but it would be well first to check with higher-ups and co-workers so that it is done to the satisfaction of all concerned. Please an attachment by doing what is wanted of you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you take an associate with you, you can have the delightful time at recreations you want. First put particular effort on important work you have to do. Get that project on the road intelligently.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you have to go out to business, plan how to improve conditions at home, otherwise center your energies on that exclusively during day. A different approach to an old problem sees it nicely solved. Show you are a clever person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those almost neurotic young people who early needs the spiritual training and the gentle discipline that will mold the nature into a fine and stalwart young lad or lass, or else your interesting son, daughter becomes the proverbial rolling stone that gathers little moss. Teach early to complete what has once been started. The profession should be one where logical thinking is the first requirement. Give sports that are healthful.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Soil Conservation Technician Selected For John S. Thomas

David C. Hardee of Rt. 2, Ayden, was recently selected for the GS-6 Soil Conservation technician position with the Soil Conservation Service.

In this new position, Hardee will be responsible for scheduling technical assistance on conservation plans and installation of conservation practices for approximately one third of Pitt County.

A 1961 graduate of Ayden High School, Hardee began working part time with SCS in 1967 and in September, 1969, was hired on a full time basis.

Hardee is married to the former Connie Vincent of Winterville and they have four children, Paula, 14, Rhonda, 12, Pamela, 10, and Christopher, 10 months.

He is a member of the Greenville Moose Lodge, Rose Hill F.W.B. Church, Traveler's Protective Association and serves as chairman of the Ayden Girl Scouts' fund raising committee.

DURHAM — A banking executive from Greenville, has been named to the newly created post of estate planning officer at Duke University.

John S. Thomas, trust officer and estate consultant with Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. in Greenville, will take over the Duke post immediately, according to J. David Ross, director of development at Duke.

Thomas will have responsibility for developing, coordinating and administering the estate planning program and promotion of deferred giving to the university.

"With this new post, we believe we can provide a valuable service to persons who might wish to contribute to the university," Ross said. "Mr. Thomas will provide expertise in developing, for example, life income arrangements with Duke under which the donor is paid an income on his contribution for the remainder of his life."

A 1965 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Thomas worked one year with Irvin Trust Co. in New York. From 1966-71, he served as assistant trust officer and estate consultant for Wachovia in Raleigh.

He has held the Greenville

Four Injured In Two-Car Crash

Four persons were reported injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets about 9 p.m. yesterday.

Officers, who identified the drivers of the vehicles involved as Stephanie Deloatch Griffin, 21 of 206 Tyson St. and Judith Ann Creath, 17 of 100 Kirkland Dr., reported both drivers and two passengers in the Creath auto were hurt.

Damage to the Griffin car was placed at $800 while damage to the Creath car was placed at $1,500.

Miss Creath was charged with failing to stop for a stop light.

Will Discuss Guidelines

Wahl-Coates Elementary School in Greenville is one of five schools selected as sites for school food service directors and supervisors to get together to discuss new federal guideline during September.

The meeting at Wahl-Coates will take place on September 11. Other meetings throughout the state will be on September 5 at Smith Elementary School in Burlington; September 6 at Knox Junior High School, Salisbury; September 12 at the Fayetteville Administrative Unit Office; and September 14 at Western Regional Education Center, Canton.

Scheduled by the State Department of Public Instruction, the meetings, according to Ralph Eaton, State Director, School Food Services, are designed to discuss "the U.S. Department of Agriculture's new guidelines for this year's school lunch program." He notes that "one of the most important items we will discuss is reimbursement rates and how schools may obtain maximum rates."

Participated In Program

Miss Margie Ann Bennett of Greenville, has completed a six-week graduate level summer program at the University of South Carolina in Columbia, sponsored by the General Electric Foundation.

Miss Bennett was one of 48 secondary school guidance counselors who received fellowships for the program, which was underwritten by a G-E Foundation grant to the university.

In this program, emphasis was placed on exposing counselors to the real world of work through academic courses related to practical vocational experiences augmented by in-depth visitations with employees at nearby industrial plants, according to Dr. Donald J. Watson, Secretary of the Foundation, and the resulting knowledge has prepared those who attended to cope more fully with the basic educational needs of and opportunities for young people planning careers in business and industry.

The University of South Carolina guidance counselor program was one of three sponsored this summer by Foundation grants totaling $130,000.

Again Threaten Courthouse

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Three telephoned bomb threats against the Mecklenburg County courthouse were received Wednesday, marking the second time in five weeks court sessions have been disrupted.

Searches were made but no bomb was found.

The courthouse was cleared from 11:45 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. after the first threat, which said a bomb would explode at 12:30 p.m.

Two more threats were received about 2 p.m. and the courthouse was closed for the rest of the afternoon.

Boat Dealers Here To See New Models

VIEW ENGINE . . . A dealer attending the Grady-White boat demonstration yesterday at Whichard's Beach takes a look at the marine engine that powers

the new G-W jet craft which was available for demonstration rides by visiting dealers. (Reflector Photo)

Approximately 125 boat dealers from various parts of the United States were in Greenville Wednesday attending the Grady-White boat show and meeting sponsored by National Boat Works Inc.

Included on the agenda for the boat and marine equipment dealers, in addition to previews of new Grady-White models, was a plant tour of the company's new facility that is nearing completion on the eastern by-pass, and demonstrations of new craft that is nearing completion on the eastern by-pass, and demonstrations of new craft at Whichard's Beach in the afternoon.

Meeting in Greenville for the third year, dealers got a look at a new innovation in pleasure boating, a jet-powered craft capable of speeds up to 49 miles per hour depending on engine size. Demonstration rides in the G-W jet, as well as in some 12 other boats, were given throughout the afternoon as dealers were encouraged to try out prospective models for their sales inventory.

The jet model, which employs a conventional marine engine designed to operate at high revolutions per minute, works on the principle of forcing or injecting water into an impeller to create pressure and expelling the water through an outlet nozzle, officials explained.

Ed Smith, president of National Boat Works, purchased the company over four years ago and, with employment drawn from the Greenville and general Pitt County area, currently has a staff of about 75. With the completion of the new plant expected in early November, the employee staff is projected to number 150, it was noted.

Attorney Joins Office

Ernest C. Richardson III is now employed as an associate attorney of the law offices of Frank M. Wooten Jr., it was announced this week.

Richardson, a New Bern native, graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1969 with a Bachelor of Science degree and completed his studies in the UNC School of Law this year.

He is married to Barbara S. Richardson, also a New Bern native. Mrs. Richardson, a 1969 graduate of East Carolina University, is currently employed at Rose High School.

Murderer Taken From Death Row

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Charles Manson has been transferred from Death Row at San Quentin Prison to the maximum security adjustment center.

Manson, 38, was convicted in the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others three years ago. He is one of 97 Death Row inmates being transferred following a State Supreme Court ruling in July that they could not be segregated from the general prison population. That ruling came after the death penalty was declared unconstitutional.

The whitetail deer is the most hunted big game animal in North America.

Greene Central Could Be Team To Beat In Eastern Carolina Loop

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School's Coach Stewart Smith is in an unfamiliar position. And he hopes that by the end of the football season, he'll still be there, but a little more familiar with it.

This year, for the first time in the school's history, the Rams are favored to win their conference championship. They have adequate experience returning from a team that went 8-2 last year and was 7-2 in the league, finishing a game out of first place.

That was the best ever for the Rams, but they're hoping for even finer things this year.

There are 14 lettermen back, including 10 starters. Those veterans include quarterback Lonnie Carraway, safety Stevie Williamson, tackle Darius Shackleford, guards Harper Shackleford and Clint Braswell, center Johnny McLawhorn, tackle Kim Rouse, halfback Alvin Brown, and linebackers Johnny Cox and Jeff Letchworth.

"We have all our experience tied up in just a few people," Smith said, however, painting a little blacker picture than the rest of the league would have you believe. "Davis, Brown, Carraway and Braswell all will be starting for the third year, so our real experience is only skin deep."

The depth, according to the coach, is the same way. There is plenty of it around, but it generally lacks experience. "We have enough experience to build around, and fill in, so we should be respectable," Smith offered.

He likes the favorite's role. "It's nice to have a chance to feel this way," he said. "But I still feel that overall we're still young and inexperienced. I guess we're more or less a Cinderella team. The more established teams like Southern Nash and South Wayne and even Ayden-Grifton should be the ones who are favored."

But the coach admits that he paints a dark picture. "I like to do this," he admits. "I think we have the potential to win, but I don't want to get overconfident. We've seen some things that look good so far; we just have to keep them going."

Speed on the Ram team will be better this year, but size will be smaller. "We're one of the smallest teams in the conference," the coach said. "We do have quickness, but not an overabundance of it." In the offensive line, Smith feels like he has two of the best guards in the conference in Harper Shackleford and Braswell. "From the information, we've got to have good guards." He also feels that Rouse (5-10, 210 pounds, the largest of the Rams) is one of the league's better tackles. "These three have quite a bit of experience, and this will help us a lot."

In the backfield, however, Smith feels the Rams are trailing. "Our timing isn't good yet, and we've had some mental lapses. I do think that we'll have two good running backs, but I can't say who they'll be. Right now, there are 12 people trying to win a starting position in the backfield, and the two positions could go to any one of them." Smith tends to be conservative in the game, sticking to the ground, but admits that the Rams will have the ability to pass to loosen up the defense.

Currently, he'll start Lafan Forbes at one end and Tim Butts (one of two sophomores on the team) at the other. Charles Lanier, the other sophomore, will be at the other tackle position, while McLawhorn will be at center. Carraway will handle the quarterbacking with Williamson at the flanker position.

On defense, Smith feels the team will be as big as it was last year. "That's still not big, but our speed should be as good or better than last year." He added that the Rams have a good secondary and good linebackers, and this is the key to their success.

"We've been coming up and hitting real well so far," he said. "The defense has been pleasing, but we're still looking at a couple of positions to a certain extent."

Smith plans to start Forbes and Butts at the ends, with Darius Shackleford, Braswell and Rouse in the interior. "The other interior position is up for grabs and we're just not sure who'll start here."

The linebackers will be Cox, Harper Shackleford and Letchworth, while Williamson and Jerome Sheppard will be in the secondary.

Greene Central opens Friday against Saratoga Central, then swings into conference action. And those first two league games might decide the title.

"We play Southern Nash and then Southern Wayne, the two teams we'll have to beat to win. If we can get by them, the momentum may carry us the rest of the way. But we're going to have to develop some experience among our newcomers quickly if we are to be successful."

Rose High School's Rampants open their 1972 football season Friday night, with hopes much higher than at the same time a year ago.

For Coach Dave Bumgarner, it will be his second year, and one which he hopes will come closer to being just the reverse of last season when the Rampants won only two games.

"Last year is not worth looking back on," Bumgarner said. "It's in the past and that's where we want it to stay. We made a lot of mistakes, and I hope we benefit from them. If so, it'll show up on Friday nights."

The Rampants open with the same opponent they had last year in their first game, Farmville, Central High School. This year's game will be played in Farmville, starting at 8 p.m.

The Jaguars, after battling Rose on nearly equal terms throughout three quarters of their meeting last season, broke it open in the final period and rolled to a 21-6 victory. Farmville Central then went on to post 8-1-1 record on the season, sharing their conference title.

Rose's only touchdown in that game came after a fumble recovery put them into excellent field position. It marked the beginning of a frustrating season.

But this year, there is more cause for optimism. "We have more depth, some good new people, experience, and a better attitude," Bumgarner pointed out.

And the Rampants also are running from a new offense, the wishbone. Bumgarner feels that this offense can get the most out of the running backs he had, and he has them in abundance.

To start off with there is Al Hunter, already being billed as the state's number one back for this season. Hunter ran the 100 in less than 9.6 this past track season, and has the size to go along with the speed.

In the backfield with him are Mike Harris and Reggie Perkins. Harris is big and strong, and also is a sub-10-second sprinter. Perkins is not as big as the others, but makes up for it with a super spirit and drive. He also is a lightning runner.

But the stable doesn't end there. Backing them up are three more speedsters in Calvin Moore, Jackie Savage and Keith Joyner.

Add to that the fact that both of the quarterbacks, Dean Phillips and his backup Dickie Johnson, are interchangeable too, and you give Bumgarner a lot to be happy about.

If there are any problems for the Rampants, it might be in the line, but experience is back there too.

"We have the material and the experience to do what's needed," Bumgarner said. "If everyone does what he's supposed to and we have no mental breakdowns, we should be pretty good. A lot depends on how well we keep our composure."

Although the Rampants will tend toward a rushing game, they do have the ability to pass, and will use it from time to time. "But the only time we're going to get into a passing game is when someone comes up with a defense that can stop us on the ground," Bumgarner said.

Bumgarner had praise for his two fullbacks, Perkins and Savage. "We really can't tell them apart, they're so close together in ability. Both are doing a real fine job for us."

Asked what affect all the pre-season publicity might have on Hunter, Bumgarner found it difficult to say. "Different people react differently to it. It's bound to affect him to a certain extent; it would affect anyone. It just depends on whether it's a positive or negative effect."

For the most part, the Rampants will be twoplatooning. There are only three slated to start on both the offense and defense. They are Lee Cherry in the line, and Harris and Hunter in the backfield. "We hope we'll be able to pull them out and put in other people before we're through, but we need some experience first," the coach said.

"What we really need is confidence in ourselves. In the past few years, we have lost or won a lot of games by just a couple of points or so. We need to know that we can score. We need to know that we can move the ball and do things that are right. We need to know that we can run, block and tackle like we're supposed to do."

"I hope we find these things out in our first two games. We've got to, really. We have to have it by the time we meet Wilson (in the third game)," the coach said.

The probably starting lineup on offense has Fred Lemmond at split end and Ronnie Rasberry at tight end, Jose Baro and Maurice Sheppard at tackles, Cherry and David Matheis at guards, Phil Ragazzo at center, Phillips at quarterback, Perkins at fullback and Hunter and Harris at halfbacks.

Defensively, the Rampants will start Henry Bunn and Charles Tyson at ends, Cherry and John Calhoun at tackles, Harding Sugg and George Price at inside linebackers, Harris and Savage at outside linebackers, Hunter and Johnson at halfbacks, and Moore at safety.

Drivers Seek Darlington Slot

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — The battle between Mercury driver David Pearson and Chevrolet ace Bobby Allison is expected to continue Thursday at Darlington. Raceway as 40 drivers vie for 12 starting positions in the 23rd Southern 500 on Labor Day.

Other hopefuls in Thursday's opening qualifying session include Dodge drivers Bobby Isaac, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty, Chevrolet pilot Fred Lorenzen and Ford's Donny Allison and LeRoy Yarborough.

Both Bobby Allison, defending Southern 500 champion, and Pearson, winner of the Rebel 400 here in May, logged practice speeds above 151 miles per hour Wednesday following registration and technical inspections.

The record at the 1.366 mile race track was set in May, 1969, by Charlie Glotzbach who toured the oval at an average speed of 153.822 m.p.h. for four laps in a winged Dodge.

That time, however, was clocked before initiation of mandatory carburetor restrictions required by the National Association for Stock Car Racing (NASCAR) for competition in its Grand National circuit.

Americans Win Third Medal In Shooting

By BOB JOHNSON
Associated Press Sports Editor
MUNICH (AP) — It was the best of days for one sharpshooter. It was very nearly the worst of days for 10 others. It was the bitterest of days for one high flyer. It was the sweetest of days for another.

"I don't spend 30 hours a week at a hobby," John Writer said Wednesday after winning the three-position small-bore rifle and setting a bit of American Olympic history. "This is a sport. Real competition."

By winning the gold medal at these 20th Summer Games, the 27-year-old Chicago marksman gave the United States its second shooting medal, the first time the United States has won more than one in the traditionally European-dominated sport.

Writer scored a world and Olympic record 1,166 points out of a possible 1,200 in the prone, kneeling and standing positions. And the United States got its third shooting medal when Larry Bassham of Comanche, Tex., an Army marksmanship instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga., got the silver, finishing behind Writer with 1,157 points.

Vic Auer of North Hollywood, Calif., had gotten America's first shooting medal of the Games on Monday, taking a silver in the small-bore prone competition.

The 10 other sharpshooters are known collectively as the U.S. basketball team, whose supremacy of the game in the Olympics very nearly came to an end Wednesday.

"We needed a game like this where we had to come from behind," Coach Hank Iba said of his kids after they rallied from seven points down in the second half to pull out a 61-54 triumph over Brazil.

The victory was the fourth for the Yanks, now undefeated in 59 contests stretching back to the 1936 Berlin Games, when the sport was introduced to the Olympics.

The bitter high-flyer was Bob Seagren, America's premiere pole vaulter, angered over what he called "obviously a political decision" on the part of the International Amateur Athletic Federation to outlaw his green vaulting pole for the Games.

The pole, with a newer weave of fiberglass than the old ones, came out last year and Seagren, rebounding from knee surgery, used it to set his world record of 18 feet 5 3/4 inches.

After he set the record last month, the IAAF banned the pole saying it hadn't been available for world-wide use.

On Monday, the IAAF reversed itself, reinstating the pole. On Wednesday the federation reversed itself again.

"It's a personal vendetta against me and against America," said the angry Seagren of Monterey Park, Calif.

Seagren got a bit of good news—and Sweden a bit of disastrous news—when it was announced that his stiffest competitor for the gold, Kjell Isaksson, would not compete because of groin and leg injuries.

The happiest high-flyer was Vladimir Vasin, a Moscow University economics student who won the gold in springboard diving, ending a 60-year U.S. domination of the three-meter event.

"For years the Americans have been the best divers in the world," said the handsome 25-year-old Russian. "But now we have come to the conclusion that they are not gods and that we can compete with them."

Craig Lincoln of Hopkins, Minn., rallied from sixth place on his final two dives to win the bronze behind Italy's Franco Cagnotto.

In the four swimming finals, the United States wound up with one gold, two silvers and a bronze. That, along with the rest of the day's competition, gave America 22 medals thus far—seven gold, nine silver and six bronze. Second in the standings is East Germany with 15 medals, five of them gold.

Four U.S. girls combined to get the lone water gold, winning the women's 400-meter freestyle relay in a world-record time of 3:55.19.

Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif., was the heroine as she covered the final 100 meters in a sizzling 58.18 seconds to overtake East German anchor swimmer Kornelia Ender.

Ahead of Miss Babashoff in the relay were Sandy Neilson of El Monte, Calif., Jennifer Kemp of Cincinnati and Jane Barkman of Wayne, Pa.

One silver went to Tim McKee of Newton Square, Pa., who finished an incredible two-thousandths of a second behind Gunnar Larsson of Sweden in the men's 400-meter individual medley. Both were clocked in 4:31.98 and the computer had to carry the time an extra digit to provide a victor. It was Larsson, 4:31.981 to McKee's 4:31.983.

The other silver and the bronze both came in the men's 100-meter breaststroke. Nobutaka Taguchi of Japan won the gold with a world-record 1:04.91 clocking while Tom Bruce of Sunnyvale, Calif., came in second and John Hencken of Santa Clara, Calif., third.

Only in the women's 400-meter freestyle were the U.S. swimmers shut out. Shane Gould, Australia's 15-year-old sensation, won her second gold of the Games with her second world-record performance, winning in 4:19.04. Miss Babashoff was America's best in the event, coming in fourth.

In women's all-around gymnastics, Russia's Ludmila Tourisheva, graceful as a ballerina and strong as an acrobat, won the gold while the best of the five Americans, Cathy Rigby of Long Beach, Calif., was 10th.

Japan swept the men's gymnastics with Sawao Kato copying the gold.

Dan Gable of Waterloo, Iowa, moved within a step of grabbing a gold in wrestling, reaching the finals of the 149.5-pound freestyle division by pinning Poland's Wlodymierz Cieslak in a semifinal.

Mukharbi Kirshinov of the Soviet Union won the light-weight weightlifting, Poland's Witold Woyda won the men's foil, Angelika Bahmann of East Germany was victorious in women's Kayak and East German Walter Hofmann and Rolf Deiter won the Canadian pairs canoeing to garner other golds.

Rain Cools Off Orioles' Dobson And Twins Warm To His Pitching

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pitcher Pat Dobson wasn't talking. And Manager Earl Weaver wasn't asking.

Their silence wasn't golden for the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

"He didn't tell me that his arm had tightened up and I didn't think of asking him," said Weaver after his pitcher came back after a rain delay and was hit hard while losing a 7-1 decision to the Minnesota Twins.

Dobson looked like two different pitchers against the Twins—pitching shutout ball before the 34-minute rain delay interrupted the seventh inning, and then getting whacked as the home team scored all its runs.

"Dobson looked like he was still throwing good after the rain delay," said Minnesota second baseman Rod Carew. "But I guess he gave us some pitches that we didn't let him get away with."

Dobson got two outs, but couldn't get the last one—giving up four singles and two runs before leaving the game. Minnesota starter Bert Blyleven had better luck after the rain delay ("It made my leg stiff, instead of my arm," he said) and managed to complete the game with a seven-hitter.

Despite losing, the Orioles stayed tied for first place in the American League East with Detroit because the Tigers also lost a 4-1 decision to the California Angels.

The Oakland A's improv- their margin in the West to 1 1/2 games. They beat the Cleveland Indians 2-0 while the second-place Chicago White Sox lost to the Boston Red Sox 4-2.

The New York Yankees trimmed the Texas Rangers 3-1 and the Kansas City Royals turned back to the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2 in Wednesday's other American League games.

National League results: Chicago 9, Los Angeles 8 in 11 innings; Pittsburgh 11, San Diego 0, Montreal 3, Atlanta 2; Cincinnati 4, New York 2; Houston 5, Philadelphia 3 and San Francisco 3, St. Louis 2.

Andy Messersmith stopped Detroit on three hits and Vada Pinson knocked in two runs to power California over the Tigers. Messersmith struck out nine batters as he posted the fifth straight complete game by a member of the Angel staff—a club record.

Messersmith held the Tigers hitless until two were out in the sixth inning, when Dick McAuliffe broke the spell with a line single to center. The loser was Chuck Seelbach.

Mike Epstein's 22nd home run of the seventh inning started Oakland to victory over Cleveland. Epstein's 375-foot blast to right helped John "Blue Moon" Odom boost his record to 12-4 with relief help from Darold Knowles.

Pitcher Wilbur Wood mis-played a high chopper for an error in the sixth inning that let in Boston's go-ahead run and helped the Red Sox win the rubber game of their three-game series with Chicago.

Rob Gardner held Texas to seven singles in 7 and 1-3 innings and lowered his earned run average to 1.21 as New York beat the Rangers. Sparky Lyle came on following Rich Billings' one-out single in the eighth inning and notched his 29th save, tying the Yankee record of Lindy McDaniel and Luis Arroyo.

Amos Otis drove in five runs, including three with a homer in the eighth that broke a 1-1 tie as Kansas City beat Milwaukee. Otis also had a two-run double in the ninth.

Clemente, Rose Tie Club Hitting Marks

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Records are made to be broken, but for the time being Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente and Cincinnati's Pete Rose will have to settle for ties.

Clemente singled twice in the Pirates' 11-0 romp over San Diego Wednesday night and tied Honus Wagner's club mark of 2,970 career hits.

Rose managed one single in the Reds' 4-2 triumph over the New York Mets and matched Vada Pinson's Cincinnati record of 1,881 hits.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston downed Philadelphia 5-3, the Chicago Cubs edged Los Angeles 9-8 on Jim Hickman's 11th-inning home run. San Francisco nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Montreal shaded Atlanta 3-2.

American League scores: California 4, Detroit 1; Minnesota 7, Baltimore 1; Oakland 2, Cleveland 0; Boston 4, Chicago White Sox; New York Yankees 3, Texas 1; Kansas City 6, Milwaukee 2.

"I don't worry about records," Clemente said. "All my life I just play the game the best I can. I didn't even know I was close to Wagner. The people who keep the statistics never tell me anything."

The people in the stands at Three Rivers Stadium told Clemente something when they gave him a standing ovation.

"Everybody started cheering," Clemente said, "but I didn't know why. I didn't know what was going on until I looked at the scoreboard and saw the message. When I singled in the first inning, the second base umpire (Ed Sudol) told me, 'If you get another base hit it looks like I'll have to give you the ball.' I wondered what he was talking about."

In addition to Clemente's two singles, Dave Cash hit a three-run homer, Willie Stargell slammed a solo homer and Manny Sanguillen drove in three runs with a pair of singles. Bruce Kison blanked the Padres on six hits.

Cincinnati's Rose also received a standing ovation, but said he wasn't aware of it.

"Did they stand up for me?" he asked. "I didn't realize it. I just saw my family standing and I thought someone was standing in front of them. My son (Pete Jr., age 2 1/2) told me I'd get the record tonight."

The Mets took a 2-1 lead on Dave Marshall's seventh-inning homer but the Reds rallied for three in their half on singles by Tony Perez, Denis Menke and Hal McRae and Joe Hague's two-run double.

Philadelphia's 21-game winner Steve Carlton held Houston hitless until Tommy Helms' fifth-inning single touched off a two-run rally. Helms scored on Larry Howard's double and Howard tallied on Roger Metzger's infield chopper. Bob Watson singled another run across in the sixth before Carlton left for a pinch hitter.

Chicago's Hickman socked his game-winning homer on a 3-2 pitch from Los Angeles relief ace Jim Brewer. The Cubs wiped out a 6-1 deficit in the third inning, which included two of the four wild pitches uncorred by Dodger hurlers. Jose Cardenal also homered for Chicago.

Plan Continue 'The New East'

The East Carolina University Regional Development Institute, after having distributed approximately 15,000 copies of "The New East" magazine and evaluating the results therefrom announced today that the publication will be continued. The magazine had been published and distributed in order to aid in the proper economic development of Eastern North Carolina. The Institute which edited and published "The New East" in cooperation with Albermarle Area Development Association, Coastal Plain Development Association, and Neuse Development Association announced the continued publication of the magazine. This has been assured by the organizations involved agreeing that Eden Press of Edenton, would receive the sponsorship of these organizations. In return Eden Press agreed to publish at least four quarterly issues with the same concept and editorial policy. While the first issue was funded by the area organizations with no advertising, the future issues will contain advertising and individual subscriptions will be sold.

Tom Willis, Director of East Carolina University Regional Development Institute states, "This culminates five years of a dream which will make Eastern North Carolina competitive in this manner with the rest of the state. We were delighted that so many companies wanted to publish The New East, however, it was our feeling that the Eden Press offered us the best proposition in continuing what we started."

Officers of Eden Press, Inc. are L. F. Amburn, President; James Darnell, Vice-President; West W. Byrum, Jr., Secretary-Treasurer; Thornton N. Brooks, Executive Vice-President; F. N. Manning, Director of Production; and Loyal Phillips, Editor. The next edition of "The New East" is expected in early January.

NAACP To Sponsor November 5 Event

Final plans have been made by the Pitt County NAACP executive committee for the annual NAACP County-wide Queen contest. According to Pitt NAACP president D. D. Garrett, the contest will be held November 5 at York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church on Albemarle Avenue. Each church in the county is invited to enter a young unmarried girl of high school age as a contestant. First, second and third prizes will be awarded to the contestants reporting the highest amount of money, Garrett emphasized. Honorable mention will be given to all other contestants. Garrett noted too, that the pastor of the church reporting the highest amount of money will also receive an award as will the vice-president reporting the highest collection. Tickets for the contest will be available from any sponsor or contestant, according to Garrett, or from contest chairman Mrs. Fleeta K. Tetterton of vice-presidents Calvin Henderson, A. T. Mills, J. J. Brown, J. R. Person, Mrs. Mahalia Shivers of Mrs. Myrtle Wilson. Garrett said the contest "is one of the Annual Freedom Fund Rallies and we are asking individuals, organizations and merchants throughout the county to donate the gifts and prizes."

Norway Becomes Camel Exporter Fly Control Is Virtual 'Must'

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norway, the land of polar bears, has become an exporter of camels. The deer park at Kristiansand, Norway, recently shipped two Baktrian (Afghan) camels to Britain and soon 11 other camels will be shipped to Canada. Despite export of 13 camels, Kristiansand still has Europe's biggest colony of Baktrian camels.

STORRS, Conn. (UPI)—If all the household flies hatched weren't reduced by various means, we'd be literally waist deep or deeper in them. Reproduction of a pair of flies starting in April, if all lived, would result in 191 quintillion, 10 quadrillion flies by August, says Extension Service Entomologist Dr. Milton Savos at the University of Connecticut.

Fischer Only One Point Away From Chess Title

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer was only one point from the world chess championship today, and the big question was whether he would try to wrap it up in today's game or cautiously coast to victory on two half-point draws.

Fischer and champion Boris Spassky drew their 20th game Wednesday, giving the American challenger 11½ points to Spassky's 8½.

A victory counts one point, a draw half a point for each player. Fischer needs 12½ points to win the title and Spassky needs 12 to keep it.

Victory for Fischer would take the championship away from the Soviet Union for the first time since 1946.

"I think Bobby will play to win — but he is being very careful now," said Miguel Quinteros, an Argentinian master who recently joined the American entourage.

Some observers say the last seven games were draws because Spassky was playing sound chess and not because Fischer's appetite for a win had diminished. Others believed that having racked up six wins to Spassky's three in the first 13 games, and one of those Russian three a forfeit, Fischer felt he would prove nothing by taking risks.

If this match was being played according to the rules already adopted for the 1976 championship, Spassky would have lost his crown to Fischer on the 13th game. Under the new rules not yet in effect, draws will not count, and the match goes to the first player to win six games.

The young American appeared delighted as he walked off the stage after Wednesday's draw on the 54th move. Spassky sat glumly staring at the board for several minutes after the referee cleared away the pieces.

The game had begun Tuesday and was adjourned with Spassky in a position some experts thought might give him a victory. But after the game resumed, the champion could not

Gov. Wallace Is Home Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, still partially paralyzed and taking medication, has left the Spain Rehabilitation Center and returned home.

Wallace, saying it's "good to be home again," was greeted at the governor's mansion Wednesday by a cheering crowd and members of his family. He said his doctors told him he could do as well at home as at the center, but must continue a physical therapy program for leg paralysis resulting from an assassination attempt May 15 in Laurel, Md.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy with scattered showers of thundershowers along the coast Saturday becoming more widespread Sunday and Monday. Temperatures will be seasonal.

Wednesday, the U.S. Command reported today. Filers from the carrier Kitty Hawk said their bombs caused 100 secondary explosions and seven large fires at the Dong Ngan depot 13 miles northeast of Vinh.

Pilots from the carrier Oriskany hit a major fuel depot a mile west of Vinh, while other Oriskany filers attacked a storage area 39 miles to the south. The Command said they caused five explosions and a huge fire at the fuel depot, and at the storage area destroyed more than 100 supply crates and damaged another 100.

A third target was the Cam Pha fuel depot 37 miles northeast of Haiphong. The Command said pilots from the Midway destroyed four supply buildings there and touched off a large explosion and a fire.

In South Vietnam, Communist forces rained rockets into the big air base at Bien Hoa during the night and carried out a series of hit-and-run terror and sabotage attacks at scattered points.

The Saigon command said 15 Vietnamese were killed and 51 were wounded in the attacks. One American also was wounded, and eight U.S. and South Vietnamese planes were destroyed or damaged at Bien Hoa. Two-thirds of the Vietnamese casualties were civilians.

Two Marine squadrons of A4 bombers and an Air Force squadron of A37 bombers are stationed at Bien Hoa, or 50 to 60 planes. They support ground operations in the southern half of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Bien Hoa is also used as a forward operating base for scores of American jets based in Thailand. They refuel, rearm and receive maintenance at and 32 wounded.

In Cambodia, a relief column suffered more than 100 casualties fighting its way into a town 50 miles south of Phnom Penh that had been under siege for a week.

The only major fighting reported was at Quang Tri, on the northern front, where a stalemated battle has been taking a heavy toll on both sides for the past two months.

The Saigon Command claimed 119 North Vietnamese troops were killed at Quang Tri Wednesday and 53 weapons were captured. It said more than 800 rounds of artillery and mortar fire hit South Vietnamese positions, and total government casualties were 12 killed

The Worry Clinic Psychology Is For Everybody

Prof. Zee outlines some of the liberal bias of many college professors against our "free enterprise" system. But liberals merely abet Socialism and the strangulation of freedoms that Russia demonstrates. Conservatives support the U.S. Constitution!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-874: Prof. Zee teaches Applied Psychology at the university.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my students consider your textbook the most interesting and helpful text they have ever met in college."

"But many of our faculty have never been out in the rigorous competitive economic world, so they want Uncle Sam to run everything."

Anonymous Critics

The publishers of my textbook have passed along several anonymous letters of violent criticism from atheistic professors.

"There is no God," they protest, "so it is stupid to include a chapter on 'Psychology and Religion.'"

But you laymen have as logical mental ability as any professors so consider these facts and then serve as the jury:

(1) My textbook is called "Psychology Applied" and thus offers a panoramic view of all the fields where you can zoom your salary by use of practical psychology.

(2) Since 65 percent of all our Americans belong to some church, either Jewish, Catholic or Protestant, wouldn't it thus be appropriate to offer them advice on handling religious problems?

The latter consist of Sunday School methods, church music, church summer camps, personnel strategy for hiring church workers, methods for handling the business sessions, public speaking strategy, etc.

(3) Even if you were an atheistic professor, if your course was to prepare college youth for meeting all the various practical problems of American society, and if 65 percent are church folks, wouldn't it be sensible to offer them a chapter titled "Psychology Goes to Church?"

Regardless of the professor's personal hatred for Deity, if he is to give his students their money's worth, shouldn't he thus teach them a little church psychology?

Unfortunately, many people are so shortsighted, they ignore the wishes of the consumers as they let their own bias curtail what the customers desire.

This is even true in Journalism, for many liberal Journalism Profs even brainwash their students against this column, saying:

"Dr. Crane is too conservative! We need more liberalism!"

But a "conservative" merely advocates the guarantees of our famous CONSTITUTION regarding free speech, free public assembly, safety on our streets, etc.

So send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Airborne Band Will Entertain

The 82nd Airborne Band, of Fort Bragg will perform during the D. H. Conley home football game Friday night.

The 35 member band with color guard will perform in conjunction with the Army Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps Program offered this year for the first time at Conley.

Approximately 135 students in grades nine through 12 are enrolled in JROTC. Future plans for the Conley students include the organization of a band similar to the one performing Friday night.

The Conley football team will play Southern Wayne.

"There is no God," they protest, "so it is stupid to include a chapter on 'Psychology and Religion.'"

But you laymen have as logical mental ability as any professors so consider these facts and then serve as the jury:

Opening lead: King of ♠ Yesterday we presented a hand taken from Italy's qualifying round victory over the defending world champion Dallas Aces during the Olympiad held in Miami Beach in June. Today we have another hand where the Blue Team bid aggressively with the North-South holding to arrive at six clubs whereas its American counterparts settled for a game.

Garozzo and Forquet were playing their own version of the Precision Club (a summary of which is presented in the latest enlarged edition of Goren's Bridge Complete) in which an opening bid of one club promises at least 16 high card points. One heart is a natural response showing at least 8 points and a five card suit. Garozzo's rebid of one trump is a specialized call which, in their methods, asks partner to show the number of controls he has. Aces are counted as two controls; kings as one.

Forquet's next call of two hearts designated four controls. This could be either two aces, or one ace and two kings. Garozzo had no difficulty in placing his partner with the latter holding,

Private School Tide Seen Leveling Off In South

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Attendance in private all-white schools in the South — which mushroomed to a 500,000 enrollment this past school year — will continue to rise this fall, but school officials believe the trend is leveling off.

Record numbers of parents in Florida, South Carolina and Texas will put their children in private schools this fall, but even officials in several of those states believe the rate is slowing.

And in states such as Virginia and Mississippi, where whites virtually abandoned public schools in some areas several years ago, officials say there is a slight trend toward returning to public schools.

opened doors this past school year over the previous year, three or four more schools are opening this fall in the Columbia area alone.

"Our movement into the unitary school system has not been accompanied by a heavenly choir; nor has the transition vaulted public education into a bottomless chasm of dooms and disaster," said state Supt. Cyril Busbee.

"We have some situations where there is a satisfying degree of harmony, but we must also respect the possibility of further erosion of white enrollments in some communities," said Busbee.

"The private school enrollment increases ... actually represent only 1.8 per cent of our total public school enrollment of about 650,000 students."

School officials pointed out that the estimated enrollment of 500,000 pupils in private schools in 11 Southern states during the past season represented only slightly more than 5 per cent of all white pupils.

A state-by-state report:

—Alabama — A State Education Department official says enrollment figures for the 1971-72 school year are still coming in and some increase, but not a substantial one, is expected over the previous year when 301 private schools had an enrollment of 47,098. It has had little effect on public schools, whose enrollment is down only slightly.

—Florida — Traditionally, this state has long had a greater percentage of pupils in private schools than any other southern state. In the 1970-71 school year, there were 434 private schools including kindergarten through 12th grade with total enrollment of 120,732. By the 1971-72 school year, there were 492 schools with an enrollment of 125,431. The new schools sprouted mostly in the counties where busing is a big issue — Dade County, Duval, Pinellas, Palm Beach and Broward.

—Georgia — State education department officials estimate there were 70,000 pupils in private schools when the school year ended June 30, 1972. Officials decline to predict how many will attend private schools this fall but say the situation is "beginning to settle down," and that they expect an increase in public school enrollment. The Savannah and Columbus areas report private enrollment up for this fall and in Macon, it's beginning to level off and is expected to be less than last year.

—Louisiana — The Public Affairs Research Council's Information Center on School Desegregation reports 152,259 pupils enrolled in private schools in 1971-72, compared with 161,711 the year before. The center lists 453 private schools for 1971-72, compared with 456 the year before. The center reports that although public schools have lost some white enrollment during desegregation, the trend is now stabilizing.

"Whether or not this trend continues will depend largely on what occurs in public schools within the next few years." Of the 152,259 pupils enrolled in private schools during the 1971-72 school year, 112,667 were in Catholic schools.

—Mississippi — Approximately 64,000 pupils attended non-public schools during the 1971-72 school year in about 140 or 150 private schools. The coming school year is expected to be about the same with a slight trend toward returning to public education. The Mississippi Private School Association reports several private schools are full for the coming year, particularly in the lower grades.

—North Carolina — In 1971-72, some 49,412 pupils were enrolled in 258 approved and 10 unapproved private schools.

This was an increase of 34 per cent from the 36,820 enrolled in 231 private schools in 1970-71. However, the 49,412 pupils represented only 4 per cent of the state's school age population. Calvin Criner, head of the non-public school division of the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, said 19 persons have filed letters of intent to operate new private schools this year. He said they may or may not, and others may open without informing the state.

—South Carolina — latest figures show a total of 164 private schools with an enrollment of 38,762. The previous year, there were 115 private schools with a total enrollment of 26,287. No estimate yet on enrollment this year, but three or more private schools have opened in the Columbia area alone.

—Tennessee — State officials cannot say at present how many in private schools, but rough estimate of the Nashville area shows 16 reporting private schools in 1970-71 and 24 in 1971-72. The total enrollment in private schools in Nashville in 1970-71 — one year before busing for desegregating public schools — was 4,102. The figure rose to 6,702 in 1971-72. The public school system reported a decline of some 6,000 from its estimated enrollment last year. This was attributed to fewer entries to first grade because of declining birth rate and white flight to suburbs.

And You Can Count On Courteous Service, Quality Merchandise and Convenient Terms!

"We've been getting 10 to 15 telephone calls a week from white parents who withdrew their kids last year and put them in Johnny-come-lately private schools," said Roberd Hilldrup of the Richmond, Va., city school system's public information office.

"We believe there will be some returns this season but whether it will exceed the normal outgo, we just don't know," Hilldrup added.

State departments of education often do not keep count of the growth of private schools and information about them is often fragmentary.

Hilldrup said school officials believe the segregation academies — the most rapidly developing private schools of the past few years — "are in trouble" in the Richmond area.

"The parents know in their hearts it's an inferior education," Hilldrup said. "You see your child being taught in some church basement by some grandmother, and you start wondering. Also, times are a little tight."

In Florida, 98 more private schools sprouted in the 1971-72 school season in areas where busing is a big issue. However, neither the state education department nor the Florida Council of Independent Schools could give an estimate of anticipated enrollment for the coming school year.

Both said, however, that they expected small increases.

"It's easy to see that many parents are taking their children out of public schools because they are unhappy with court-ordered busing," said Education Commissioner Floyd Christian.

Christian said he and other state education officials have been making frequent attempts to persuade parents to keep children in the public school systems.

"Every time we talk to groups of parents," he said, "we tell them how important it is for their children not to be shifted around. Some private schools do not meet the standards of public schools, and later when the pupils attempt to re-enter the public school system, we find they may be a grade or more behind in actual classwork."

In Texas, a check of private schools shows applications and enrollments have boomed at religious and military schools since court-ordered integration plans hit metropolitan areas two years ago.

Only the private Catholic schools in the Diocese of Dallas have not gained, because they refused to contribute to the busing backlash and froze their enrollments two years ago.

Mississippi public school officials say approximately 64,000 pupils attended nonpublic schools, including church-related schools, during the 1971-72 school year.

Both the education department and the Mississippi Private School Association said the coming school year will be about the same — with a slight trend for a return to public education.

"Many of our private schools have been in operation for some time," a spokesman for the association said. "Mississippi got an early start in private school education with a number of schools established before massive desegregation."

Alabama state education officials estimate some increase this fall in public school enrollment but not a substantial one over the past school year when 301 private schools had an enrollment of 47,098.

Georgia expects some increase in public school enrollment this year. Said Dr. Joe Edwards, assistant state school superintendent: "We think there is a leveling off of enrollment in private schools, with some returning to public schools this fall. This is based on information from local school officials in the state."

In South Carolina, however, where 49 more private schools
