MUNICH (AP) — Arab terrorists armed with submachine guns broke into the Olympic village today, killed two Israelis and held 13 more Israelis hostage in their living quarters.

The Arabs, who had boxes of explosives, threatened to kill all the hostages unless 200 Arab terrorists held in Israel were released.

They first set a deadline of noon-7 a.m. EDT. Later a West German spokesman said an extension of the deadline was achieved in negotiations between the terrorists and Mohammed Chatib, head of the Arab League office at Bonn, who had rushed to Munich.

The deadline was first extended to 2 p.m., and later to 5 p.m.—noon EDT—German officials reported.

The Olympics, founded to foster international understanding, were thrown into balance. After an emergency Cabinet meeting, Israel asked West Germany to halt the games, reliable sources reported. But the games went on, for the time being at least.

Chancellor Willy Brandt called a meeting of the West German Cabinet, then flew to Munich from Bonn to supervise in the negotiations.

Police surrounded the Israel building and negotiated with the terrorists.

The raid, a daring and apparently well-planned operation, was carried out by about five men with blackened faces. They climbed over the fence surrounding the village and made straight for the building, also occupied by the teams of Uruguay and Hong Kong.

The terrorists tossed a paper out of a window of the Israeli quarters. It bore the title "Communique" and listed five points of an ultimatum:

1. West Germany must declare itself prepared to bring the Israeli hostages to a place to be specified by the "revolutionary forces" inside the Olympic village.

2. West Germany must provide the guerrillas with three airplanes. The Israelis would be divided into three groups and placed aboard each of the planes. After the first plane left, the other planes would in succession leave as soon as word was received that the previous one had reached the as-yet undisclosed destination.

3. Any attempt to interfere with the operation would result in the killing of the hostages. West Germany would bear full responsibility.

4. The ultimatum deadline would run out within three hours.

5. In the event the ultimatum is not heeded, orders would be given "to carry out revolutionary and just force in order to give the war chiefs of the Israeli war machine a hard lesson."

Radio communication was opened between Munich and Jerusalem, and Premier Golda Meir met with her cabinet in the Israeli capital.

The Bavarian Interior Ministry said there were five terrorists and that negotiations with them were "very, very difficult."

Mark Spitz, the American Jew who on Monday night became the first man in Olympic history to win seven gold medals, held a news conference as scheduled this morning without a security guard. But afterward he was moved out of the village to a downtown hotel as a safety precaution.

The teams from Hong Kong and Uruguay are quartered in the same building with the Israelis, and a number of those athletes and officials were reported in their rooms. The Arabs, after establishing their identity, reportedly told them they could go, but Olympic security officials asked them to remain in their quarters.

A German postman who left the village when he went off duty at 4:30 a.m. told police he saw "two groups of four or five men each" jumping over the fence.

"But we didn't pay much attention to it," one official said. "We thought these were some athletes coming home a bit late and having some fun."

At the first word of the attack, police swarmed over the village, sealed off the area and began negotiations with the Arabs.

The attack spread tension throughout the Olympic area, but events went on as scheduled. Today's first competitions — canoeing and equestrian — were under way as Schreiber negotiated with two dark-haired men outside the Israeli building.

The Palestine guerrilla organizations in Beirut, the capital of Lebanon, were silent for the moment, and there was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack.

However, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported from Bonn that the new Palestinian guerrilla group known as Black September claimed responsibility for the attack.

The organization was formed in late 1971, assassinated Premier Wasfi Tell of Jordan soon after and in May hijacked a Belgian airliner to Tel Aviv.

The list of imprisoned terrorists whose freedom was demanded was reported to be much the same as one handed the Israelis after the hijacked Belgian plane landed in May. That time, however, Israeli commandos got aboard the plane in disguise and killed or captured the hijackers.

The West German government expressed shock and dismay.

"This violation of Olympic peace is an abhorrent crime," said a government spokesman. He added that the government hoped the terrorists would be seized quickly and their hostages released.

Reports Received By Commissioners

Pitt County Commissioners, this morning, heard reports from various county agencies and departments, made appointments to several boards, and gave the county's date processing manager authority to investigate the use of machinery to do key-punch work directly from hand-lettered forms.

Mrs. Mildred Mitchell of Grifton was named by Commissioners to the Sheppard Memorial Library Board of Trustees to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Elizabeth Hart who has left that board. The six-year term ends March 31, 1978.

Commissioners reappointed Morris Brody, S.C. Winchester and Willie Pate to three-year terms on the Greenville Board of Adjustments for extra-territorial jurisdiction and reappointed Bobby Johnson to a three-year term on the Ayden Planning Board.

Re-appointed also to three-year terms on the Pitt County Planning Board were Johnny Dilda from Fountain Township, Milton Spain from Belvoir Township; Eugene F. Fleming from Grifton Township and Charlie Tyre from Falkland Township.

The four men were originally named to the board for one-year terms when the county planning body was organized last year.

The Board of Commissioners also designated the county Planning Board as the County Goals Committee as required for Economic Development Administration funding of county projects as requested by the Mid East Economic Development Commission.

Date Processing director Gene Windham asked commissioners this morning for permission to look into the possibility of renting an optical scanner to be used with his department's key punch system.

Windham, who was given approval to make the necessary contacts told the board that with the use of a $3,600 per year rental machine, forms that could be hand lettered with block numerals could be run through the unit and cards automatically punched.

He said such a unit would reduce the requirement for additional key punch operators to do the job.

Harry Jarvis, assistant county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration told commissions that during the past year, FHA had approved 212 rural housing loans, 213 farmer loans, and a half-dozen other loans totaling $5.2 million.

Pitt County Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Richardson told commissioners that local hospital has the highest rate of utilization of any unit in the state, according to a survey the local hospital participated in during the past year.

According to the administrator, Pitt Memorial had a rate of 54 people per bed for the past year as compared with the 45.9 rate at Rex Hospital, the next closest in the survey. Other rates included 45.1 at New Hanover, Wilmington; 43.6 at Presbyterian in Charlotte; 39.5 at Watts and 33.4 at Wayne County in Goldsboro.

In other action, the county board approved the purchase of additional furnishings, including a judge's chair and side chairs, for the District Superior Court Judge's Chambers in the Court House.

national affairs. "If the Commission adopts this idea, it will be an open market for many of you," he said.

Jenkins assessed the total higher education situation in the United States, noting that higher education outlays, public and private, have been increasing at two-and-one-half times the rate of increase of the Gross National Product — which itself has grown nearly fourfold since 1950. "This overload, not only by an increase in the number of college age people in the population, but also by an increase in the percentage of that larger number who seek a college education comes at a difficult time. Spiraling costs in every area irritate the public and cause some conflict between the general commitment to education and the public willingness to pay the additional costs," he said.

He said higher education is reaching more and more into the community via extension classes, educational television, and interchanges between various institutions our society.

"More students will very probably be working in their chosen professions prior to graduation," he said, "not only as a means of earning money and of getting an acquaintance with the profession, but as a means of satisfying degree requirements. We expect it to become common, not only for those entering the teaching and health-related professions, but in practically every area of learning."

He noted that he has completed 25 years of service to ECU and expressed hope that "our future years will be as productive as the last 25 have been."

Voter Effort Ahead

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Julian Bond, a black Georgia legislator, will come to Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh, Elizabeth City and Durham next week to keynote voter registration rallies at black colleges.

The announcement was made Monday by John W. Edwards of Durham, state director of the Atlanta-based Voter Education Project, an independent, nonpartisan organization.

Edwards said Bond would be on or near the Johnson C. Smith University campus at Charlotte Sunday, in the next three days he is scheduled to be at State in Greensboro, Shaw University in Raleigh, Elizabeth City State and in Durham.

The state director said "floating registrars" are the greatest need in North Carolina to get blacks on the voting rolls. Those persons would take voting books into neighborhoods and make them available outside normal business hours.

He said most counties don't take advantage of this provision in state law. "Most low-income people don't have the transportation (to go the elections board offices)," he said. "You take the average working man: He can't get the time off, and when he does get a week-day off, a lot of times he has other, more pressing things to do like doctor's appointment."

MUNICH (AP)—The 20th Olympic Games will be suspended this afternoon and a memorial service held Wednesday morning for two Israelis killed in a terrorist raid on the Olympic Village.

A joint announcement by Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, and Willi Daum, president of the Olympic Organizing Committee, was announced at a news conference.

'A First Step', Reminds Jenkins

New ECU Med School To Be Launched Wednesday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Wednesday will mark the "beginning of a much needed program" at East Carolina University according to Chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins. Others say the opening of the much-debated, much-sought-after medical school is an historic event.

"We must realize," Dr. Jenkins said of the one-year school, "that this is the first step down the road to a four-year program. And my only regret is that this class does not have 40 members instead of 20."

A closer look at the budding medical education program was given by Dr. Wallace R. Wooles, the young and energetic Dean of the School of Medicine.

"The beginning of the new school has far reaching effects...it can affect the lives of everybody in our area," he emphasized. "There is no question that many things improve the quality of life, but adequate medical care does this more than any other single factor."

The new one-year medical school will aid this goal, he suggested.

The medical education program is the result of several hard-fought campaigns in the North Carolina

General Assembly, and according to Dr. Wooles, "the result of the efforts of many people..." And he emphasized, the one year program "is not what we were searching for...but a beginning."

Citing the need for more doctors and improved medical care, Dr. Wooles referred to a study by Dr. Lyndon K. Jordan, a former Smithfield physician who left private practice to take a position with the Duke University Medical Center.

He said the national average of patient office visits per week is 91.6 while in the agricultural region of rural America it is near 150 and the average number of doctor hospital visits per week on the national average is 32.4 while in this area it is close to 70. The average number of hours spent in direct patient care by physicians per week is 44.7 while in this rural area it is almost 60.

In North Carolina, Wooles continued, during the period between 1957 and 1968 the population increased 12 per cent but the number of doctors in private practice in the state decreased five per cent while the number of community physicians decreased 15 per cent.

"There is a need," the medical school dean emphasized. "We hope this humble beginning will continue to grow...arrive at a complete medical school facility...and with the magnitude of the need, we hope it is not too late in coming."

The medical program will add a great deal to the university, bringing new and very highly qualified faculty members to the campus and will increase the number of seminars and invited speakers and recognized experts to be shared by all of the university, Dr. Wooles continued.

Currently the medical program is staffed by 16 faculty members with two more to be added in the near future.

"These faculty have been drawn from leading medical centers in the U.S. with most having North Carolina connections. They are very well qualified and without exception are all anxious to begin teaching," Dr. Wooles noted.

"Fully 30 per cent of the faculty are supported in research grants by the National Institutes of Health or the National Science Foundation, while an additional one-third have grant requests pending before the NIH."

According to the dean, the full-time faculty represent all major disciplines that are necessary — anatomy, physiology, biochemistry, pharmacology, microbiology, pathology, clinical medicine — and are supplemented by 50 part-time clinical faculty members...mainly of doctors in the Greenville area.

In addition to the medical school students, the faculty will be teaching students enrolled in other programs under the Division of Health of which the School of Medicine is a part.

And the students who were selected, according to Dr. Wooles, "are well qualified men and women who bring to the study of medicine an eagerness to serve suffering humanity when the need exists."

Most of the 20 students, selected from 240 applications acted upon, are North Carolina residents. "I feel confident that practically all will return...enter community base practice..."

"It's very beneficial to expose our students to physicians practicing community medicine. It will tend to lead them back," Dr. Wooles theorized.

All of the students successfully completing the one-year program at ECU will

Pitt Tech Begins Its Fall Quarter On Wednesday

Starting its tenth year of services to citizens of Pitt County, Pitt Technical Institute will begin its fall quarter Wednesday.

All new and returning curriculum students will register Wednesday from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Students who have indicated plans to attend Pitt Tech for the fall quarter have been mailed information relative to registration. Students registering after Wednesday are asked to go directly to the Registrar's office after a trial class schedule has been prepared.

More than 750 curriculum students, new and returning, are expected to register for the fall quarter. Initial enrollment in 1961 was 25 students.

"Improvement of instruction continues to be one of our major goals at PTI," Dr. William E. Fulford, Jr., Pitt Tech President, said Friday morning as he addressed the new and returning faculty members to Pitt Tech.

He welcomed the returning faculty and expressed appreciation for their past performance and contributions to the progress and growth of Pitt Tech. In welcoming the new faculty, Dr. Fulford stated that he hoped their association with the Institute would be enjoyable, pleasant, and rewarding.

Some of the thoughts regarding improvements in instruction that Dr. Fulford shared with the faculty included: the development of realistic and measurable goals; content and experiences into manageable segments that can be readily measured; and empathy and rapport with students.

"We must provide reinforcement (adequate rewards) for student learning," Fulford remarked, "and make rewards for students contingent upon behavior desired."

"Just as you, the instructors, are encouraged to reward students who perform well, it is our policy to give the blessings of PTI to the faculty and staff who render outstanding performance," he asserted.

Calling upon the faculty to assist the administration in helping with certain areas of concern, Fulford stated, "We must, somehow, improve instruction, reduce attrition and absenteeism, and increase enrollment."

"Each of you is urged to help and contribute in making Pitt Tech the finest technical school in North Carolina," he challenged in his closing remarks.

Other activities during the orientation held Friday included discussions by the various departments with the faculty of the services and programs of the Institute.

Crumpler-Wilson Vows Exchanged On Saturday

In a double ring ceremony Saturday at 2:00 p.m., Miss Janice Marie Wilson became the bride of Charles Pittman Crumpler.

The Rev. Robert Hufford performed the ceremony in Hooker Memorial Christian Church. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Gloria Hawley, organist, and Mrs. Thomas Byrd, soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles R. Jenkins of Hampton, Va., and the late Mr. John T. Wilson. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Pittman G. Crumpler of Roseboro.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Charles R. Jenkins, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau de soie with an empire waistline and lace applique from the neckline to the hemline. The gown had a matching chapel length train.

Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of chantilly lace. The bride carried a white Bible centered with a hybrid orchid and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Dianne Manning of Greenville was the honor attendant. She was dressed in a floor length lavender and white gingham checked dress designed with an empire waistline with lavender satin sash and long sleeves. Her white nylon hat had a wide brim and lavender satin band. She carried a nosegay of summer flowers.

Bridesmaids were Teresa Culbreth and Arlene Stancill, both of Greenville. Their gowns of blue and white gingham checks were styled identical to that of the honor.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Gary Hess and Jimmy Amspacker, both of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to Topsail Beach, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride attended J. H. Rose High School and Pitt Technical Institute. The bride is now employed at Pitt Technical Institute. The bridegroom attended Roseboro High School, graduated from East Carolina University and now employed by the Greenville City Schools.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and green summer

A Coat Wearer Tries, But Can't Change Her Spots

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago an aunt died and left me a lovely leopard coat. It's about 35 years old, but looks like new. It was recently restyled, is in excellent condition, has a lovely new lining and fits me perfectly.

My problem? You guessed it. I am completely in accord with the conservation of this animal as well as all the others in jeopardy, so I would feel terribly guilty wearing the coat—even tho it was purchased long before the animal was in danger of extinction—or any measures had been taken to protect it.

I have stored it for three summers now without wearing it once. I don't think it would sell because of the current situation. If you were I, would you wear it? If not, have you any suggestions as to what I should do with it? Sign me

"SPOTS BEFORE MY EYES"

DEAR SPOTS: If I were you, I would not wear it because even tho you have no reason to feel "guilty" you would be so concerned about what people might think, you wouldn't enjoy wearing it. You might consider giving it to a charity and taking a tax deduction on it. Someone, somewhere would wear it with pleasure without feeling self-conscious.

DEAR ABBY: My parents divorced when I was 4. My mother remarried a wonderful man when I was 12. I have always kept in contact with my natural father, and my stepfather was more of an acting father than my real father. I love them both very much.

My problem is this: I am now planning my wedding and I don't know who should give me away. Both men would be proud to do so, but I know each would be very hurt and disappointed if he weren't chosen.

I don't want to elope, so please don't suggest that as a solution. Would it be "kosher" to walk down the aisle with a father on each arm? DE

DEAR DE: Why not? My father [rest his soul] walked down the aisle with a DAUGHTER on each arm!

DEAR ABBY: That marvelous letter about the two salesmen who share the same mistress five days a week is stuck up on my wall in front of my typewriter.

The lady, it seems, wants to report what she gets [the money, that is] for tax purposes, but it would cost her an extra $1,518 a year.

She should check with her accountant. I think she can report her income as a gift. That way she pays only a gift tax on it, which is nominal, and no tax on the first $30,000.

The other possibility is that they consider a third partner, for weekends, which, they say, the girl has off anyway.

This situation reminds me of my law school days—back in the mid-'30s, when we were all broke, and also girlless. Five of us once considered such an arrangement, only we couldn't find a girl who would live on $1.08 a week.

Historical note: One of us is now a judge in Southern California, another is senior counsel for a major state agency, one has a very successful private law practice, one [the brightest one] was killed in World War II, and I am managing editor of a legal magazine.

I'm not sure what this proves, except maybe that rich is better? ANONYMOUS, PLEASE, IN SAN FRANCISCO

General Puts Patients First

By JOY STILLEY

AP Newsfeature Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ann Hoefly's uniform is Air Force blue rather than nurse's white these days, but patients still are the primary concern of the Chief of the U.S. Air Force Nurse Corps, who recently was promoted to brigadier general.

"Any place they have Air Force patients I go," says the first woman in the Air Force medical service to join the star ranks. "I have visited most of our approximately 180 medical facilities around the world, from a 1,000-bed hospital to the smallest dispensary, and I intend to visit them all before I leave this position."

In addition to the patients, the tall, hazel-eyed general's loyalties are obviously with the airmen and women whom she considers her "family."

"The Pentagon ceremony where I received my silver stars was certainly very touching," she recalls. "There were nurses in white uniforms, nurses in flight uniforms and medical technicians—they are very near and dear to me."

The feeling is apparently mutual. After her promotion was announced while she was on a trip, she returned to Washington to be met by nurses from Andrews Air Force Hospital. They presented her with a dozen long-stemmed roses, with a silver star attached to each one.

"The exceptional thing about being in the military forces," she explained on a visit to New York, "is you'll find out you really belong to a family. Wherever you go you're working with, seeing and meeting people in the same uniform who have the same goals."

Her own goal in the post she has held since 1968 is to expand the role of nurses and institute new health programs for Air Force personnel and their dependents.

"With zero draft coming up we fully expect we'll have fewer physicians and the ones who are around will be focusing their attention on problem areas that require their expertise," she declares. "Nurses will have to expand their roles to do some of the things the physicians formerly did and technicians will move up to what nurses have been doing."

A program has been started to train nurse-midwives in the expectation that fewer obstetricians will be available, and pediatric nurse practitioners already conduct well-baby clinics at many Air Force medical failities. "We run the whole gamut in care—everything you have in civilian practice we have in the military," notes the youthful-looking 53-year-old general. "The difference is we are playing two roles—first the professional nurse, which is a very involved with life and death thing, and second, as a professional officer we are part of the total Air Force family with responsibility to the service and to the officers and airmen with whom we work."

General Hoefly, whose own specialty was neuropsychiatric nursing, has taught flight nursing, a field unique to the Air Force, and has a masters degree in nursing administration. "I entered the U.S. Army Nurse Corps in 1944. There was a war going on and I felt it was my place to go," she relates. "In 1946 I got out for 18 months but came back in, and in 1949 asked to be transferred to the Air Force. It was a new medical service starting and I wanted to try it out."

When she speaks of nurses, she points out she means men as well as women, since 11 per cent of the Air Force nurses are male, and she hopes to see more young people of both sexes opt for such a career.

"I would latch on to patriotism (in recruiting) even though that may not be a popular trend," she declares. "I couldn't ignore it and be true to myself. If one is talking about being involved, which kids are nowadays, what better way than to be in the service of their country. If you don't like what you see in the military, then get in there and pitch."

The trim officer, who shares a house in Langley Park, Md., with two cats and a dog, likes to sculpt, work with driftwood, fish and do carpentry work. She has finished the basement in the house she presently owns, and enclosed a carport and laid a marble patio in previous houses.

Does she believe the nursing profession may lose some recruits as more women turn toward careers as physicians?

"I would hope more women would pursue medicine—there's a need for them. But it's one thing to talk and another thing to do it. Women are equally capable but I just think that perhaps some women have interests other than devoting full time to a career.

"As for me, having been an emancipated woman all my life, if I had really had the motivation to become a physician I would have done so."

Carpenter Likes Pay

DALLAS (AP) — Darlene Wisdom, 23, of Ferriday, La., has been sworn into Carpenters Local No. 198 as the only dues-paying woman carpenter in the city.

"I kind of like the pay," she says of her $4.28 an hour job. "It's a good trade, too. Some day, when I get good enough, I want to build my own wooden house somewhere up in the mountains."

So far she has suffered no injury, not even a blister. "But I'm just waiting to get my finger smashed," she said.

Darlene says the men on the job have gotten used to having her around.

"Sometimes delivery men stop and gawk at me, as if I belonged somewhere else, but I don't pay them any mind," she said. "I really don't have time to stop and talk. My job keeps me pretty busy."

The fact that so many power tools are used now makes it easier for a woman to do the job, she says.

Darlene says her 5-year-old daughter, Laura, is proud of her new skill.

"She tells all her friends: 'My mommy is a carpenter.'"

Engineered foods are being introduced in the federal school lunch program. They include a fortified breakfast cake with creamed filling, a textured soy protein product and high-protein macaroni. The cake is designed to be served with milk, and the other two products, in combination with meat or meat alternates.

Miss Joyce Erwin Speaks Vows

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, Miss Joyce Jilayne Erwin became the bride of Larry Glenn Johnston in a candlelight ceremony at Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

The Rev. E. Linwood Kilpatrick officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Joyner Erwin of Farmville, and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Johnston Jr. of Bell Arthur.

The ceremony was performed amid a setting of emerald palms with two pyramidal candelabras holding lighted cathedral tapers interspersed with white summer flowers. The couple knelt for communion and prayer on a brass prie-dieu before an arch holding twenty lighted cathedral tapers. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Tommy Manning of Ayden, organist, and Miss Dianne Griffis of Kinston. Her selections were "We've Only Just Begun," "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal floor length gown of silk organza and Venice lace with a chapel length train. The bodice featured a high neck with standing collar, full length bishop sleeves and basque waist. Venice lace encircled the waist, cuffs of the sleeves, and collar. Appliques of lace adorned the bodice. The full length A-line silk organza skirt was bordered with Venice lace. A tubular chapel train attached at the waist back held a matching border of Venice lace.

Her veil was elbow length of silk illusion attached to a tiara of white Venice lace flowers and white satin loop bows, each centered with pearls and iridescent jewels. She carried a white, satin, lace covered bible covered with white miniature carnations centered with a white orchid and satin streamers.

Miss Pamela Gaye Johnson of Farmville was the maid of honor. She wore a formal floor length gown of ivory chiffon trimmed in ecru Venice lace and blue satin. The High-rise bodice was trimmed with patterned ecru Venice lace entwined with blue satin ribbon, and had full length puff sleeves cuffed at the waist. A gathered chiffon skirt flowed floor length.

Her blue wide-brimmed picture hat was embellished by a blue organza bow. She carried a stem of miniature blue carnation, with garlands of greenery and blue satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Douglas A. Johnston of Bell Arthur, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn James of Bell Arthur. Junior Bridesmaids were Miss Jessica Johnston, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jonsi Jo Erwin, sister of the bride. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant and carried similar flowers.

Flower girl was Miss Sandra McLawhorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McLawhorn of Bell Arthur. She wore a formal floor length dress of blue chiffon, a blue bow in her hair, and carried a white basket of blue petals.

Mr. Johnston attended his son as best man. Ushers were Douglas A. Johnston, Timothy C. Johnston, brothers of the bridegroom, Randy Erwin, brother of the bride, and Mike McLawhorn, of Bell Arthur, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of light pink silk with a matching full length lace coat with long sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of mixed miniature carnations. The bridegroom's mother selected a medium blue organza dress with a matching full length lace coat. She wore a corsage of mixed miniature carnations.

Mrs. W. A. Mills of Greenville, Mrs. Oscar Lee Erwin of Farmville, grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. R. A. McLawhorn Sr. of Bell Arthur, and Mrs. Annie Maw Johnston, of Greenville, grandmothers of the bridegroom, wore corsages of white pom poms. Mrs. Elnor Jones, aunt of the bride, was remembered with a corsage of white pom poms.

Mrs. James Lewis of Bell Arthur directed the wedding.

For traveling, the bride changed into a navy and white dress with a matching jacket. She wore matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School and is a senior at East Carolina University.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Greenville.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. Elnor Jones, Mrs. Oscar Lee Erwin, and Mrs. Norma Louise Newby entertained at a reception in the Hooker Memorial fellowship hall.

Greeting guests were the bride and bridegroom and their parents and Miss Pam Johnson. Miss Judy McLawhorn and Randy Erwin presided at the bridal register, where the bride's wedding portrait was displayed.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth. A silver epergne of blue carnation was used for the centerpiece along with silver candelabras holding lighted tapers. After the couple cut the traditional first slice of the tiered wedding cake, Mrs. William H. Taylor of Grimesland served cake and Miss Ruth Jones poured punch.

Following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Johnston Jr. entertained at a party at their home. Miss Erwin was presented a yellow mum corsage which complemented her yellow organza dress.

Blind Couple Looked With Their Hearts

By PAT BORDEN
Charlotte Observer Staff Writer
GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Ethel Thomas describes the meeting with her husband Wesley 20 years ago as love at first sight, but the two have never seen each other.

That is, not with the eyes, as most people see, because they both are blind. Instead, they looked with their hearts, and what they saw was sufficient to last through all these days, which included raising a son, born a year after their marriage.

Ethel was born in Deep Gap, the youngest of nine children. Her family included the famous guitar-player, "Doc" Watson, who also is blind.

When she was a tiny girl of 8, Ethel left behind her mountain crossroads community and went to the Governor Morehead School for the Blind in Raleigh.

It was a frightening experience for her, especially since she was separated from her family from September to May her first three years.

"When a new principal came my fourth year," Ethel said, "he insisted that everyone go home at Christmas. That was a little better, but I never got used to being away from my family."

It was at a dance in April of her last year at the school that she met Wesley. He was too shy, she remembers, to ask her for a date himself, but had a friend come by to ask her for him.

Their future together was soon sealed. They finished school in June, married in September and moved to his home in Gastonia.

"We lived with his mother for the first two years," Ethel said. "She was the best mother-in-law I could have had. She left me alone and let me do things for myself unless I asked her for help."

As a result, Ethel became self-sufficient as a wife, cook, housekeeper and mother.

When her son, Stacy, who is sighted, was born, Ethel had no trouble except in giving him liquid medicine. Except for her own shyness that is.

"When I was growing up, and even into my marriage," she said, "I was very self-conscious. I wouldn't even go across the street to the little store. I just knew someone would see me make a mistake and know I was blind."

But by the time Stacy was 5, she was getting out, finding her way around town through his eyes. In time, she had constructed a mental map that was to serve her well when she decided to make a career for herself as a medical record transcriptionist.

"I've always been interested in medicine," she said, "but more interested in house-keeping and raising a baby. But when Stacy was grown, I knew I wouldn't have enough to do to keep me busy and I can't stand to sit around the house."

Past years prove her dislike of idleness. About the time Stacy entered junior high school, she began taking in ironing.

"I bought just about all my son's clothing that way," she said. "I'd much rather do ironing than something like baby-sitting; you can put ironing aside and do it when you feel like it."

Ethel made her decision to go out into the world about two years before Stacy graduated from high school, but she called the personnel director at Gaston Memorial Hospital before taking any steps toward her goal.

"I told him that I wanted to be a medical records transcriptionist and that I knew there were blind people doing it all over the state, but first I wanted to know how he felt about hiring blind people," she said.

"He told me that he didn't care what a person's handicap was, so long as she was qualified for the work."

After tests, a refresher course in typing and dictaphone and a training course in medical records transcribing, she wasted no time in applying for a job at Gaston Memorial. After so much effort, she was told there were no openings at the time. Her dreams became reality the very next day, however, when a job opening did come into being at the medical records library.

Ethel's life is by no means restricted to her place of work, however. On a recent long weekend's trip, she and Wesley took off for Durham to visit friends. She wound up spending that Monday afternoon helping her friend get caught up with her transcribing.

"I was even offered a job," she said, dimples flashing at the corners of her mouth.

County Leaders Are Named For UNC-G Alumni Fund Drive

GREENSBORO — Mrs. Charles E. Woodall of Greenville has been appointed chairman for Pitt County for the 1972-73 Alumni Annual Giving Program of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Mrs. Woodall resides at 1911 E. Eighth St.

The appointment was announced today by Mrs. Edwin Holt, originally of Smithfield and now of Summit, N.J., chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving Council.

Mrs. Woodall and other UNC-G alumni leaders in the county will set up an organization to assist in this year's Alumni Annual Giving Program.

There are 173 UNC-G alumni living in Pitt County. Many of them attended the institution when it was known as the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The name change occurred in 1963, and in the process UNC-G became coeducational.

Similar county and community alumni groups in 56 different geographical areas will conduct campaigns for the UNC-G Alumni Annual Giving Program this fall.

The Alumni Annual Giving Program at UNC-G is now entering its second decade. From 1961-62 to 1971-72, a total of $1,003,446 was contributed to the program. That 10-year sum includes the $130,523 given by more than 8,300 alumni last year.

Funds raised under the program are allocated by the Alumni Annual Giving Council for important campus needs not provided for by state appropriations. These include 32 Alumni Scholarships ranging from $225 to $1,000, a special student employment fund, an Alumni Distinguished Professorship, Alumni Teaching Excellence Awards, a discretionary fund for the chancellor, campus beautification, an emergency scholarship fund and a variety of other programs.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Douglas A. Johnston of Bell Arthur, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn James of Bell Arthur. Junior Bridesmaids were Miss Jessica Johnston, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jonsi Jo Erwin, sister of the bride. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant and carried similar flowers.

Flower girl was Miss Sandra McLawhorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McLawhorn of Bell Arthur. She wore a formal floor length dress of blue chiffon, a blue bow in her hair, and carried a white basket of blue petals.

Music Request Brings Proposal

LONDON (WNS) — When bandleader Tommy Thompson asked the audience for requests, Victor Quick, 24, quickly pulled Thompson's daughter up to the bandstand and asked, "Can I marry her?" Thompson was left speechless, the audience roared "Yes," and the band struck up "Daddy's Little Girl" as an engagement dance for the young couple. Bride-to-be Lesley Thompson later confided that Vic had never even proposed to her. "I couldn't pluck up the courage and hoped that you might," confessed Quick.

'Profits' Down In Skyjackings

In spite of the big money involved, the crime of skyjacking is proving as unprofitable for those who undertake it, as the crime of bank robbery has in recent years.

So far this year, all of the 18 attempts to hijack airliners for ransom have ended in failure of the hijackers to get away with the money. In each of the 18 attempts, the persons involved have either been killed, arrested or are under control of foreign governments, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

The skyjacking for profit just isn't profitable. The skyjackers are batting a big, fat zero. That doesn't mean, of course, that some other criminal will decide he is smarter than all before him and hijack another airliner with dreams of a huge bundle of bills at the end of the rainbow. But the odds are that his dreams of successfully making off with the ransom will vanish faster than the speed of a jet.

Lack of success on the part of those who have attempted hijackings for big money is largely due to the efforts of airline and federal officials to prevent such crimes, and to thwart attempts even after they are underway. It should be reassuring to the public that security is being tightened with each passing month.

A Report Card For Officials

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—North Carolina school officials soon will get a sixth grade report card. What it will tell them is not only how the students are doing in the classroom but also something of the attitudes and circumstances which influence the level of achievement.

BRYAN HAISLIP

The statewide assessment study can provide a tool for the evaluation of present programs and planning for new ones, said Dr. William J. Brown, Jr., director of the research division in the state department of public instruction.

The objective, he explained, is to find the relationship between in-puts and out-puts. "In the past, we were inclined to look at things like facilities, teachers, curriculum — what goes into the system. This is an attempt to assess the products turned out — the students and their learning experience," he said.

A 12,000 sample of the state's approximately 100,000 sixth graders took a battery of tests last spring to provide the basic data for the assessment study. They came from 448 schools in 130 out of 152 administrative units, randomly selected to reflect geographic regions, population pattern (rural, urban, medium-size towns), and other factors.

Report Due Soon
The raw material now is being analyzed and tabulated by the Measurement Research Center at Iowa City, Iowa. A technical report is due later this month. Dr. Brown and his staff then will interpret the findings, draw conclusions and prepare a report to present to the State Board of Education in December.

The implications of the study will be shared with local school administrators in a series of regional conferences early next year.

The assessment study is the first effort in North Carolina, using an analytical approach and scientific sampling techniques, to really measure school effectiveness.

What it will yield, Dr. Brown said, will be clues to why youngsters do well or not so well. That can give guidance, he suggested, in building on positive aspects and compensating for the negative.

Attitudes Evaluated
In addition to achievement level, the study will look at the student's attitudes towards himself, school, and the community as they relate to success or failure in learning. "We want to get beyond indicators to causes," Dr. Brown observed.

For example, previous studies have shown that students from a low economic background are poor achievers. "There's not a great deal we can do about economic level," said Dr. Brown, "but if we can look beyond that to the factors in the school which influence learning perhaps we can plan programs to be more effective."

Educational assessment is a national trend. A nationwide assessment recently was sponsored by the Education Commission for the States and financed by the U.S. Office of Education. Many states have followed suit with their own studies. North Carolina was not the first, but none has been more thorough in its approach, Dr. Brown said.

State-Federal Funding
Parts of the national assessment were subcontracted to the Research Triangle Institute, and it was responsible for sampling techniques and data collection for the state study. A combination of federal and state funds financed the study, plus contributed professional time at the local level.

The sixth grade is a logical breaking point in the school sequence, and a good place for measurement, Dr. Brown said.

All students were tested for general intelligence and attitudes affecting learning. The group was divided in fourths, and each measured for either career awareness, reading, language arts, or mathematics.

The study design made it possible to acquire a maximum of information with minimum interruption of the school schedule, Dr. Brown said.

Valid assessment is a continuing process, not a one-shot affair, he noted. "We hope this will be the first of a series of studies at different grade levels on a regular basis," he explained. "We'd also like to be able to test the same group of youngsters three years from now in the ninth grade."

That would give a clear picture of progress or its lack, he said.

Seen in perspective, the assessment study is an initial step towards accountability in public education.

Citizens who pay the bill in taxes have a right to know the results. That can best be shown, Dr. Brown said, is a periodic assessment on a sound basis of students as they move through the system.

Lumberton Efforts To Keep Plant Paying Off

Things look considerable brighter at Lumberton where Converse Rubber Co. has announced it will increase employment at a footwear plant by 500 and increase wages by 12 cents.

Only a short time back B. F. Goodrich has announced that the plant would be closed.

The plant will now have a $10 million payroll and it should be of great benefit to the Lumberton area.

There were difficulties in working out the new ownership, but the efforts have paid off in maintaining a substantial industry for North Carolina.

The McGovern Braintrusters

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The pro-McGovern foreign policy braintrust unveiled Aug. 24 by Sen. George McGovern is studied with professors who not only disagree with McGovern's international policies and have no present intention of voting for him but were amazed to find themselves listed.

Statements by Prof. Abram Chayes of Harvard Law School, coordinating the McGovern braintrust, indicated the 100 foreign policy experts support McGovern and generally endorse his foreign policy.

"Their commitments are ample testimony to the depth of support which Sen. McGovern commands within the foreign policy community," said Chayes's prepared statement. "We appreciate that support." He then told a press conference that "obviously they wouldn't have signed up" if they disagreed with McGovern.

A spot check of the panels tells a different story. Several members were sizzling that they were put in the apparent position of endorsing McGovern when, in fact, they are neutral or even hostile. Several gave no authorization for public use of their names.

The most prominent of these is Prof. Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia, a onetime Johnson administration policy planner named to McGovern's general advisory panel. He did agree to serve in order to give his views. But he supports neither McGovern nor President Nixon and disagrees with McGovern's neo-isolationist positions.

The Middle East panel is packed with academics who fundamentally disagree with McGovern and agreed to supply only their opinions—not their support—when recruited by Martin Peretz, the millionaire left-wing Harvard don.

Prof. Ben Halperin of Brandeis told us that, when asked by Peretz's assistant, "I explained to her that I'm not going to vote for McGovern and I'm not going to vote for Nixon, and if it was okay, I would serve on that basis."

Prof. Marie Syrkin of Brandeis told us she is "ambivalent" about McGovern with "certain misgivings" about his policies and does not now support him. She expressed "no opposition" when asked to serve but feels she should have been shown a copy of the press release.

Prof. Gil Carl Aloy of Hunter College told us he informed Peretz he would work with a panel if "it did not entail any support for McGovern," adding to us: "I don't particularly care for either McGovern or Nixon." A friend described him as upset.

A fourth member of the Mideast panel, Prof. Michael Curtis of Rutgers, was described by associates as not supporting either McGovern's candidacy or his Middle East policies.

Continuing inability of Sen. McGovern and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills to communicate was underlined when McGovern's carefully orchestrated offer for Mills to become his Secretary of the Treasury nearly backfired.

Despite veiled hostility in pre-convention maneuverings, McGovern's advisers badly need Mills's immense respect within the business community. Consequently, one McGovern idea man concocted the dramatic scheme of having McGovern offer the Treasury post in his Aug. 29 Wall Street speech. He stressed that McGovern should warn Mills and get his approval so as to avoid a boomerang.

Thus, after visiting Lyndon Johnson Aug. 22, McGovern telephoned Searcy, Ark., to tell Mills about his speech. McGovern carefully mentioned the Treasury offer and thought Mills understood.

But once again, communications broke down. "I thought he was just joshing me," Mills later told a friend. More important, he regarded McGovern's call as personal and off-the-record. So, when contacted by the press after McGovern's speech, Mills said the Treasury offer was

ADORATION AND WORSHIP

The English dictionary gives a number of definitions for the word "worship." The one which most accurately describes worship says that it is "an act of paying divine honors to a deity; religious reverence and homage, adoration or reverence paid to God." In fact, the English word itself comes from two Anglo-Saxon words which mean "worth ship." Worship deals with the most precious factors in the whole of God's universe.

We believe not only that God made the world in which we live but that He is still in it. It is possible, of course, for us to worship God anywhere we happen to be and at any time, but human experience proves that unless we set aside stated times and places for worshipping God we at last get to the place where we utterly neglect to worship Him. What can be done at any time and anywhere is usually not done at all. Hence we have holy appointments and shrines.

We are a generation of activists. We think of our religion in practical terms, and this, on the whole, is a good thing. But there is more to the Christian religion than merely living a good life and loving our neighbors. It is also in adoration and worship that our spirits reach up to God and God's spirit reaches down to us.

The blessing of God under these circumstances is the reward of the worship experience.

A Supplement To Orwell

If it has been some time since you read "1984," let me recommend a return to George Orwell's classic; and then read a supplement to it. The supplement, published only a few days ago, is titled, "Army Surveillance of Civilians: A Documentary Analysis." We are not far from Orwell's bright cold day in April, when the clocks were striking thirteen.

This is a bone-chilling report, prepared for the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights under the direction of Chief Counsel Lawrence M. Baskir. The document achieves dramatic impact by not being dramatic; it sounds a thundering warning without raising its voice. For many years, politically active Americans have been wondering: Were they suffering a kind of paranoia, or was Big Brother really watching them? Answer: He was watching. The report covers some familiar ground, already traversed in hearings before Senator Sam Ervin's subcommittee, but it contains much that is new. It transpired through the hearings last year that over a period of decades, going back at least to the time of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the Army had been systematically gathering intelligence on civilians who might cause trouble. In the ensuing uproar, thousands of files and dossiers were destroyed, or so it was said, and orders went out to halt the surveillance.

Were the dossiers in fact destroyed? Has the surveillance ceased? Baskir leaves the questions unresolved. "It is unlikely," he says, "that we will ever know the extent to which the monitoring and the data banks have been cut back."

Baskir's report stops at Dec. 31, 1970. At that time, by his estimate, Army Intelligence "had reasonable current files on the political activities of at least 100,000 civilians unaffiliated with the armed forces." The Army then was maintaining more than 350 separate records centers. Some of these were enormous: Fourth Army Headquarters at Fort San Houston, Texas, had the equivalent of 120,000 file cards on "personalities of interest." At Fort McPherson, Ga., the Third Army had dossiers on 4,672 persons and 2,220 organizations.

Some of the most elaborately computerized files were maintained by the Continental Army Command, known as CONARC. At the press of a button, the computer could search through "2,269 pages of detailed summaries of the political beliefs and activities of nearly 5,500 persons." The information was known as "plink," computer shorthand for "personality link."

The plink on Subject No. 000001641, married female, Massachusetts, contained this derog info: "Has written a number of letters to U.S. Government officials, civil defense officials, and to newspapers. The letters are generally very critical of Federal and local government because of what she considers the futility of a civil defense program and refusal of countries to disarm."

The Army's dossiers, many of them drawn, like the foregoing plink, from FBI records, covered the whole landscape of political activity. The National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, in one coding system, had Dossier No. ZA 00 90 26. The National States Rights Party was nearby: Dossier No. ZA 00 90 97.

Baskir's somber observation, in a concluding statement, evokes the Orwellian nightmare: "What separates military intelligence in the United States from its counterparts in totalitarian states," he says,

To the editor:

Have you ever passed through an intersection at a time when one or more of the traffic signals would be malfunctioning or not functioning at all? Or, come to an intersection where your vision of oncoming vehicles was blocked either to the left, the right or both ways? Or come to an intersection where the signals directing your flow of traffic are placed in a position whereby it cannot be seen from the intersection?

If you have not, try going through the following intersections in Greenville:

1. Cross Dickinson Avenue from Grande Avenue while attempting to get to East Tenth Street.
2. Cross Third Street while traveling either north or south on Pitt Street.
3. Move onto Dickinson Avenue while traveling west on Ninth Street.

These are just a few of the "unusually" hazardous intersections in our city. There are many more. My real concern here is (in the form of a question):

Are we, the citizens of Greenville, going to wait until untold property damage or even death result before positive action is taken by some responsible individual(s) to minimize these hazards to our citizenry and visitors?

I feel certain that my concern for greater traffic safety is shared by a significant number of your readers.

Railroad Excursions See Growth

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The old-fashioned railroad excursion has not only been revived but it is growing like crazy.

"We sell out almost every seat on every excursion," says a spokesman for Amtrak, the government's operating arm for passenger rail traffic. "The only thing keeping us from selling more is a lack of cars."

Amtrak offers a wide variety of tours, from a one-day, New York-to-Washington jaunt for half the usual fare to a 15-day Chicago-Los Angeles trip. The western one has a return via San Francisco and Reno and costs about 20 per cent less than the regular rail fare.

The longer tours are generally offered by Amtrak in cooperation with a regular tour firm. The tour firms arrange for meals, hotels and sightseeing buses, while Amtrak furnishes the trains. The tours are sold for an all-inclusive price which makes it difficult to say just how much is for rail passage and how much for the other features.

However, one recent traveler discovered that he could spend $618 for two people for a trip from New York to Los Angeles and back on the regular trains. But a longer trip, fares only, on an excursion ticket was only $584 for two. This called for a 9-day trip via Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and Los Angeles but did not include hotels and meals along the way.

Another Amtrak innovation is a rail tour to Florida, including a rental car for seven days. The compact car is included with the purchase of three train tickets, while four tickets will get a full-size car for the same one-week period. The car can be picked up at any of five Florida cities and returned at any of the others.

Unlike the old railroad excursions, many of the longer ones can be started on any day.

However, some of the family plans to Florida must be used only during the week, to take advantage of the lower price for a wife and children. Also, the rates on some routes are higher than one others: for instance, sleeping cars called "slumber coaches" are available on coach fares on some railroads, while other roads require a higher fare for the use of sleeping cars. No celebration marked the observance of Labor Day in Greenville today because the citizenship was too busily engaged in earnest labor in preparation for the greatest event of the year, the opening of the bright leaf tobacco market tomorrow. The post office and banks were closed in observance of the occasion, but other public buildings and business houses remained open. Always one of the greatest days of the year, thousands of people are expected to flock to the city tomorrow to get first hand information concerning the price situation. The shortage of the crop in this immediate section is expected to be a tremendous factor for better prices.

McGovern Urges Job-Making

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, proclaiming his spirit revived and his hopes high after a boisterous welcome to the Pacific Northwest, called today for federal help to create 25,000 new jobs at the Boeing Co. by providing cleaner and quieter engines for commercial jets.

the Nixon administration's proposal for a federally subsidized supersonic transport to be built largely by Boeing, said the new program could be financed from only "a small share" of $9 billion in recently granted corporate tax relief.

"The cleaner engine would also improve the environment," the Democratic presidential nominee said in remarks prepared for a visit to a food distribution warehouse set up to feed unemployed persons here, many from Boeing.

More than 5,000 cheering supporters greeted McGovern outside his downtown Seattle hotel Monday night after his arrival from enthusiastic receptions at Labor Day rallies and picnics in Ohio and California.

"My spirit is revived, my hopes are high," McGovern told the predominantly youthful crowds, declaring that though polls show him far behind, "I'm ready for the uphill fight against Richard Nixon and I think we're going to win that fight."

As in his other speeches earlier Monday, the crowd especially cheered McGovern's increasingly aggressive attacks on President Nixon and his most prominent Democratic backer, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally.

At every stop — Barberton and Chippewa Lake, Ohio, and Pleasanton, Calif. — McGovern lit into Nixon's Labor Day statement that the Nov. 7 election pits advocates of a "welfare ethic" with advocates of a "work ethic" such as himself.

"Mr. Nixon is for the work ethic on Labor Day but he's for unemployment the rest of the year," the Democratic nominee told a predominantly youthful crowd of 2,000 at a labor-sponsored fair at Pleasanton, outside Oakland.

Later, in an interview with local television reporters, McGovern linked Connally with AFL-CIO President George Meany, who is sitting out the election while attacking both President Nixon and McGovern.

"I don't think that either Mr. Meany or Mr. Connally or others who usually vote Democratic, but this year have taken a walk, I don't think they're going to decide the election,"

McGovern said.

He criticized Meany's statement that he is an "apologist" for the Communist bloc as "total nonsense" and said "I don't think the American people believe it."

Touring Choir To Be In Pitt

"Anyone who has ever vacationed in the Morehead City area and visited the Salter Path United Methodist Church will want to hear the wonderful singing of the church choir in this area soon," said Mrs. Betty Speight.

The choir, its organist and director, Victor Salter, and the pastor, the Rev. Foster Reynolds, will be at Bethany Free Will Baptist Church on Rt. 1, Winterville Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The choir has toured extensively in North and South Carolina and Virginia and have been on radio program broadcast as far away as Canada. They have made two record albums and a stereo tape.

Soviet Mediterranean Fleet Buildup Awaited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials predict the Soviet Union will send helicopter carriers and more intelligence-gathering ships into the Mediterranean to make up for the forced withdrawal of Russian reconnaissance planes from Egypt.

TU16 reconnaissance bombers flying from Egyptian bases had been used by the Russians to keep watch on movements of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean. These planes reportedly returned to Russia several weeks ago after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ordered Soviet advisers and technicians out of his country.

Most of an estimated 15,000 to 18,000 Russian military men then in Egypt are reported to have left. But the Soviet navy still is using three Egyptian ports.

Pentagon intelligence authorities say the Russians still are adjusting to changes and the possibility that the Soviet navy eventually may have to move its base of Mediterranean operations.

"Reconnaissance will be a problem for them now," said one Pentagon expert.

To deal with this problem, officials said, the Russians probably will augment the 50 or so Soviet naval vessels in the Mediterranean with one or both of the Soviet Union's helicopter carriers, the Moskva and the Leningrad. Choppers from these vessels could then patrol in sight of U.S. warships.

The Moskva and Leningrad normally are based in the Black Sea.

In addition to helicopters, Pentagon officials said, the Soviet navy may add to the four or five AG1 intelligence ships usually in the Mediterranean. AG1s, which look much like trawlers, are equipped with sophisticated electronic gear for surveillance and monitoring radio traffic.

Meanwhile, U.S. intelligence sources said Soviet repair ships, submarine tenders, oilers and other auxiliaries still are moored in Alexandria, Mersa Matruh and Port Said. And Russian warships are being served in those Egyptian ports as before.

Departure from Port Said of a Soviet naval amphibious group in mid-August prompted some analysts to expect a Russian naval withdrawal from Egyptian ports. However, intelligence authorities say that amphibious group has returned to Port Said.

Senior U.S. naval officials say Syria is about the only country around the rim of the Mediterranean which might provide port facilities to the Russian navy if it finally is ousted from Egypt. But while Syria has received considerable military aid from Russia, the Syrian government is said to be none too eager to provide naval bases for the Soviet Union.

Schools Closed By Philadelphia Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Public school teachers in the nation's fourth largest city went out on strike today, refusing to give up what the School Board says is the shortest high school working day in the nation.

Affected are 13,000 teachers, 5,000 paraprofessional union members and 285,000 pupils, who are due to begin classes Thursday.

The teachers were to report for work today.

Bargainers for both sides agreed that the key dispute centers on the board's demand that secondary level teachers extend their work day from five hours to five hours, 40 minutes.

The board, $52 million in debt, has offered raises of $330 a year to the 5,000 city teachers now at top scale, but also has asked that other salaries be frozen and that 485 positions be phased out by adjustments in class size in an effort to save $11 million.

The teachers, in a list of 400 demands, have asked for pay raises averaging 34 per cent on their scale that now ranges from $8,900 for a beginner to $17,000 for a veteran with a Ph.D.

Jack Soloff, negotiator for the board, said, "Senior high school teachers in Philadelphia have the shortest day of any in the United States . . . I feel the problem we face with the PFT (Philadelphia Federation of Teachers) crystallizes around this one issue."

John Ryan, the union's negotiator, said, "We're willing to negotiate on the salary package, but we'll definitely not negotiate on the longer high school day or larger class size."

School Supt. Matthew Costanzo has indicated the city's 280 public schools would not remain open unless enough teachers showed up to work. Mary Mealey, president of a faction called the Philadelphia City Education Association, said her group with a "couple thousand members" would cross picket lines.

Cystic Fibrosis Drive Scheduled

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Jaycees will conduct a drive to raise $72,000 for research seeking a cure for cystic fibrosis, a disease affecting children's lungs and digestion.

State Jaycee President Fred Morrison and North Carolina Cystic Fibrosis Executive Director R. B. Owens of Wilson announced the "Breath of Life" campaign Monday.

Linwood Parker of Four Oaks will serve as state chairman of the drive, which is expected to run through Oct. 31.

Smelling a double-cross, McGovern's campaign staff went into orbit. After a frantic McGovern aide telephoned Searcy, Mills changed his public statement to say he did recollect talking to McGovern about the Treasury. But the initial damage was done.

How did this outrageous invasion of constitutional rights get started? It was for the best of motives: The Army wanted to prepare itself for the threat of internal revolution and major civil disorders. Then the cancer of bureaucracy went to work. People had to appear to be "doing something." Vast quantities of useless material piled up, and the technological wonders of computerized data processing did the rest.

Assuming that most of the dossiers have indeed been shredded, and most of the tapes wiped out, what is to prevent a recurrence of such surveillance in the future? That practical question, says Baskie, "remains to be considered." Thus ends his report; and we are left to wonder, to go back to Orwell, when our clocks will start striking thirteen.

Congress Returns To Waiting Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back at work after a two-week break, the Senate prepared today to vote on granting a cash award to families of policemen and firemen killed on duty, while the House was set to decide on financing the antipov-erty program.

Returning following the recess for the Republican National Convention and Labor Day, senators were scheduled to vote on a bill to provide $50,000 tax-free for the family of any policeman, fireman or other public safety officer killed in the line of duty.

House members slated action today on a compromise bill authorizing $4.8 billion for a two-year extension of the antipov-erty program.

Congressional leaders are shooting for adjournment by the end of the month, but it is likely the session will spill over into October because of a number of controversial issues still to be resolved.

The first measure to be voted on by the Senate provides, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1967, for a $50,000 federal payment to the widow or other dependents of public safety officers killed while on duty.

In addition to policemen and firemen, this would include prison guards, national guardsmen and members of the armed forces assigned to maintain civil peace.

An almost-unbroken rise in police killings in the last decade led the administration to request the legislation. Justice Department records list 126 policemen killed in line of duty during 1971, compared to 37 a decade earlier.

The bill also would provide for a payment of $25,000 to an officer for the loss of a foot or a hand or blindness in one eye, and $50,000 for double dismemberment. None of the payments would be subject to federal income taxes.

Another bill to be voted on by the Senate is designed to take

Farmville's Police Dept. Remodeled

FARMVILLE — Remodeling of the Farmville Police Department is complete and it's luxurious compared to the way it's been in years past.

Chief Carl C. Tanner said a processing room for persons arrested in Farmville has been made from an area formerly used for storage. The room is paneled in wood and the floor is covered with vinyl. Adjoining the town jail, the room houses the breathalyzer. A records room is colorfully painted and carpeted, also, and besides much filing space, a camera for making photographs of persons arrested and fingerprinting equipment is kept here for use by identification officer, Ptl. Larry Parker.

Chief Tanner's office is carpeted, as are the halls and another office.

"We are delighted with our new police headquarters and are thankful to the town for providing it," Chief Tanner said.

New Building Inspector For Winterville Named

WINTERVILLE — The resignation of J. Brooks Tucker as town building inspector was accepted by the Winterville Aldermen last night, as they named Randy Eastwood as his replacement.

Eastwood, who is now the town's waste water plant operator, will serve in both capacities.

The Aldermen drafted a petition to the State Highway Commission to place a spotlight at the Main and Mill Street intersection where there is now only a blinking light.

Also drafted was a letter of appreciation to the Greenville Utilities Commission which assisted Winterville crews in changing some switches on the town's electrical system. Because of the GUC help, electrical current did not have to be interrupted.

Approval was given for the establishment of Ragland Acres subdivision, section 1 — 18 lots on East Main Street Extension.

A public hearing was set for Monday, Sept. 18 at 8 p.m. on whether to rezone Ben Worthington's property on the north side of Worthington Street from agricultural residential to residential.

The Aldermen accepted an audit report, changes in the town budget beginning June 30, an amendment to the 1972-73 budget and a petition for curbing and guttering and paving on West Railroad Street from Depot Street to Tyson Street.

Police Chief Clay Haisley noted in his monthly report that there is much drug use in Winterville.

Railroad And Two Radar Stations Under Attack

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets attacked North Vietnam's northwest railroad to China Monday and destroyed two radar stations used to direct surface-to-air missiles at American planes, the U.S. Command announced today.

On the ground, North Vietnamese forces mounted their third attack since last Friday against South Vietnamese bases in the central highlands. The Saigon command said the assault was beaten back and claimed 130 North Vietnamese were killed, 100 of them by air strikes. Government losses were five killed and 13 wounded, the command said.

The U.S. Command reported that American jet fighter-bombers carried out more than 220 strikes across North Vietnam Monday, with the northwest railroad and the radar stations the major targets.

The pre-dawn North Vietnamese attack in the central highlands hit the Bau Can base camp, about 12 miles southwest of Pleiku city. The position, manned by about 100 government militiamen, was first shelled then attacked by infantrymen.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, noted increasing North Vietnamese pressure within a 25-mile radius of Pleiku City, the capital of the Central Highlands.

Viet said, however, the objectives of the North Vietnamese were not immediately clear. He said he did not know whether Pleiku City would be a target.

U.S. B52 Bombers have stepped up their attacks in Pleiku province in recent days and they flew nine more strikes today against North Vietnamese troop concentrations and staging areas 15 and 18 miles southwest of Pleiku city.

Visitor Fatally Beaten In Park

CHICAGO (AP) — A teen-age girl identified as a visitor from England was beaten to death Monday in Grant Park on Chicago's lakefront.

A witness who asked that his name not be divulged told police he saw a black man in his 30s drag the girl into some bushes only a short distance from where others were picnicking and playing ball.

The witness said he called out to try to stop the attack, then saw the man pick up a stick, beat the girl and run.

Police found the victim nude and dead of massive head-wounds.

She had registered at the YWCA as Judith Betteley of Stockton-Brookstoke-on-Trent, England, police said. Her age and purpose of her visit to Chicago were not determined.

Cloud Of Dust By Earthquake

HOLLISTER, Calif. (AP) — A huge cloud of dust soared high into the air and the walls of a fire station cracked after an earthquake on the San Andreas Fault.

The dust rose about 3,000 feet Monday for about 10 miles along the dry San Benito River. The quake was recorded at 4.5 on the Richter Scale at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

The quake struck about 11:04 a.m. There were no reports of damage.

Nightclub Dynamited

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Village Barn, a nightclub on Asheville Highway, was dynamited Monday night by two dynamite explosions, police said. The club was closed and no one was injured.

Capt. Tom Hammer, head of the city's bomb squad, said four dynamite charges had been placed in or around the building. Two charges at the rear of the structure exploded and police found on the inside two others which did not explode.

Sam Roberts, club owner, estimated damage at about $10,000. He said the club would be reopened Thursday night.

Police said arsonists burned the Village Barn to the ground last Aug. 4. It was rebuilt and reopened three months later.

Another Asheville Highway nightspot, The Corral, was damaged slightly by fire on Aug. 23, 1971. A second fire, believed the work of arsonists, leveled The Corral in December.

Hammer said the charges were detonated by the use of a battery placed about 75 yards away in a wooded area.

To Hear Spiro

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The Southern Governors Conference hears more talk about presidential politics today with the arrival of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Agnew will address a dinner at the conference — two days after Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee came to this island resort for a three-hour parley with the governors.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, wounded in an assassination attempt last May, arrived Monday afternoon and also will be at the dinner. He was brought by helicopter to the 18th hole of a Hilton Head country club, where he was met by about 200 persons.

The conference, scheduled to end Wednesday, has been dominated by talk of presidential politics.

McGovern said he sought no endorsements but received two — from South Carolina Gov. John West and Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina. Scott was the first Southern governor to announce that he would chair the South Dakotas' campaign in his respective state.

Scott, whose term expires this year, called a news conference Monday to criticize Democratic politicians who have shied away in large numbers from supporting the national ticket.

"I don't have much use for those people who are too weak to get out and support the party that has given them an opportunity to serve," said Scott.

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel, who earlier had endorsed McGovern, told newsmen he felt the two Deep South endorsements represented a "dramatic breakthrough" and he said he anticipated more.

But Mandel agreed with Southern governors who told McGovern that President Nixon currently was far ahead of him south of the Mason-Dixon line.

"It is a very good thing that the election is not being held now," said Mandel.

Presidential adviser Harry Dent arrived Monday and immediately began lobbying among the governors for President Nixon and Agnew.

Perry Foiled Again For 20th

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The pennant scramble in the American League East is so wacky that the four contenders who started play Monday with only one-half game separating them finished the day with you guessed it—one-half game separating them.

Baltimore split a doubleheader with New York, winning 4-3 and then losing 5-2. That dropped the Orioles into a first-place tie with Detroit, which edged Cleveland 2-1.

Boston beat Milwaukee 2-0, but lost the nightcap 6-2 and trails the leaders by one-half game and three percentage points.

The Yankees blew a chance to take over the top spot by blowing a late 3-0 lead in their opener against Baltimore and wound up instead in fourth place, one-half game and four points out.

Oakland opened up some more ground on Chicago in the West Division—the A's lead by 3½ games—by splitting a 10-5, 1-2 twin bill with California while the White Sox were being swept 2-1, 4-0 by Minnesota. In the National League, Pittsburgh took two from Philadelphia 10-0 and 5-1, Chicago defeated New York 2-0 before losing 6-2, Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati 6-5 in the first game of a doubleheader and the Reds came back to win the second game, 8-4. Atlanta nipped Houston 6-5, Montreal shaded St. Louis 1-0 but lost the nightcap 8-7 and San Diego edged San Francisco 1-0.

New York's Fritz Peterson blanked Baltimore for six innings in the opener and was staked to a 3-0 lead. But the Orioles erupted suddenly in the seventh on Boog Powell's single, a walk and Andy Etchebarren's second home run of the season.

They pinned the defeat on relief ace Sparky Lyle with a run in the eighth on Don Baylor's infield single, a wild pitch and Paul Blair's two-out double.

The Yankees bounced back to take the nightcap by snapping a tie with three unearned runs in the eighth inning on run-scoring singles by Bobby Murcer, Felipe Alou and John Ellis following an error by first baseman Powell.

Murcer had a double and home run earlier and Rob Gardner pitched 8 1-3 strong innings before Lyle came on again to notch his 30th save, a club record.

Willie Horton paced Detroit's victory with a two-run two-out triple off Gaylord Perry, in the sixth inning, again preventing the Cleveland ace from winning his 20th game in his third try.

Horton's key hit followed Tony Taylor's leadoff double and an intentional walk to Norm Cash with two out. Woodie Fryman surrendered Cleveland's run in the eighth when Jack Brohamer struck out but reached first on a passed ball and came around on singles by Chris Chambliss and Ray Fosse.

Boston took its opener from Milwaukee as Luis Tiant hurled a five-hitter for his fourth consecutive shutout and Carl Yastrzemski hit a two-run homer. A group of ex-Red Sox sparked Milwaukee's victory in the nightcap. Syd O'Brien hit a tie-breaking two-run homer, Joe Lahoud also homered, George Scott delivered a run-scoring single and Ken Brett was the winning pitcher.

California pitchers had allowed only five earned runs in nine games but Oakland jumped on Clyde Wright for four runs in the first inning of the opener—Gene Tenace, Reggie Jackson, and Mike Epstein had run-scoring singles—and added four more in the second on two-run homers by Matty Alou and Tenace. Nolan Ryan fired a six-hitter and fanned 11 in the nightcap as the Angels bounced back.

Meanwhile, Minnesota dealt the White Sox a severe jolt behind the six-hit hurling of Bert Blyleven in the opener and Ray Corbin's five-hitter in the nightcap.

The Twins rallied to take the first game with two runs in the seventh when Jim Nettles doubled home the tying run, took third on the throw home and scored the winner on catcher Ed Herrmann's wild pickoff throw. Rick Renick lashed a pair of run-scoring singles in the nightcap.

John Mayberry and Lou Piniella socked two-run singles for Kansas City to offset home runs by Jim Fahey and Tom Grieve of Texas.

Williamston Coach Doesn't Feel Tigers Should Be League Favorite

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

(One of a series)

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School's Tigers are rated as the team to beat this year in the Albemarle Conference, but Coach Dink Mills can't figure it out.

"I just don't understand why they picked us," he said. "I guess they're looking at (Mike) Weaver and (Dwight) Ange. But we lost 13 seniors and they're going to have to replace."

The Weaver Mills referred to is his quarterback, one of the top players in the conference, while Ange is a rangy split end, again one of the better players around.

"We have 11 lettermen coming back, eight of whom were starters," Mills said. These eight are Ange, Carlton Dallas, a tackle; Vann Andrews, a guard; Harry Johnson, a tackle; Alvin Pearson, a guard; Glynn Rollins, a center; Weaver, Joe Roberson, a fullback; and Mike Bundy, a running back.

"We are very thin everywhere," Mills added. "We have nine people going both ways, and half of them were defensive starters last year, so our offensive strength is at a minimum in experience. Half of the backfield is inexperienced and we just don't have any depth."

The backfield finds only eight people listed on the roster, the four starters, and a backup man for each position.

Mills feels that the team size is just average. "We have only one who is over 200. Our speed and quickness are only average also."

For these reasons, Mills feels it's a mistake to call his Tigers the favorites in the conference. "Our defense is weak and inexperienced also, and our offensive timing is off."

In the offensive line, Mills returns both of the guards and the center, while the split end is also a veteran. "We're fairly sound, with just three new men in the line," he said.

The line currently has Ange at split end, with Keith Biggs at tight end; the tackles are Robert Wiggins and Mike Reilly, while Andrews and Pearson are the guards. Rollins is the center.

In the backfield, Mills is playing Weaver at quarterback, and Bundy at a running back position, taking care of the experience. Roberson, the fullback, didn't start there last year, but did see limited duty when not playing defense. The other running back is sophomore Kenny Speller.

"Our game is fairly well balanced," Mills said. "We pass and run about half and half. We have good receivers, so we know we can pass. But we can't get anyone hurt because we just don't have the backup people. We just didn't have anyone out for backfield this year."

Mills said that his defense was the team's weak point last year and that things don't look a lot better this season. "We looked pretty good Friday against Robersonville, but we're real thin in the backfield here too."

The defensive lineup has Biggs and Roberson at ends, Dallas and Johnson at the tackles, Wiggins, Jeffrey Roberts and Andrews at linebackers, and Speller, Weaver, Ange and Bundy in the secondary. "You can see we're in trouble when we have to play our quarterback on defense," Mills added.

Mills feels the Murfreesboro really should be the favorite in the league. "They lost only a few players off last year's team and they were tough last year. They could be the ones to pull it out."

But he also didn't count out Edenton. "They lost a lot of players, but the always seem to come through with some good ones on tradition."

For Williamston to come though, the Tigers must maintain their health. "We're got to have a lot of luck," Mills said. "We have to stay away from injuries. If we have several of these, we'll be out of the race. We are just so thin, especially in the backfield."

Williamston lost their first outing of the year, on 8-6 cliffhanger to Robersonville, last year's 1-A state champion. The Tigers ended the game on the verge of a second and winning touchdown, but time ran out before they could score.

This week, they begin their conference play, hosting Northampton.

Ward Captures Moyer Tournay

Jim Ward captured first place in the annual W. S. Moyer Memorial Golf Tournament at the Greenville Golf and Country Club this weekend.

Ward took top honors with a two-round score of 147. He had a 69 on the opening round and then came back with a 78 during the second day to breeze to the victory by eight strokes. It marked the third straight year Ward has won the tournament.

Second place went to Archie Simmons, who had a 77-78 for a 155 total, beating out Howard Waldrop who finished with a 156. Al Ward won the first flight title with an 81-71—152 score. Carl Pierce was second with 81-79—160.

In the second flight, Shep Edwards won with a 174, while Joe Thurber took second with a 175. Thurber had to win a three-way playoff with Boyd Lee and Joe Hallow to take the prize however.

In the third flight, Dorsett Ward took top honors with a 179, followed by J. C. Whitehurst with a 181. Whitehurst also won a playoff for second, beating Dr. A. M. Mumford.

Walter Williams won the fourth flight with a 182, with W. C. King second at 186. In the fifth flight, Ken Hite took first with 196, and Billy Dail was second with 197.

A total of 78 golfers participated in the tournament, shorted by rain from its usual three-day format to two days.

Chargers Score Late To Get Win

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton High School's Chargers opened their 1972 football season last night, gaining a 12-3 victory over Weldon.

The game had been delayed because of weather from Friday night.

Ayden-Grifton had problems most of the evening due to its own mistakes. Penalties in key situations, and fumbles, two of which they lost, cost them field position throughout the game. They were able to move the ball against the Weldon defense, but each time, their mistakes kept them from scoring.

Weldon got on the board first, scoring on a 20-yard field goal in the second period. That gave them a 3-0 lead that looked like it might hold up.

But in the final period, the Chargers finally got a drive off that went all the way. Willie Stewart did the job, going over from the one to push the Chargers into the lead, 6-3.

Then, later in the half, Stewart came back to score his second touchdown of the evening, getting in from the two yard line. That boosted the Ayden-Grifton lead to 12-3, and Weldon couldn't overcome that.

Stewart proved to be the big gun for the Chargers, picking up 169 yards in rushing for the game.

Ayden-Grifton overall got 252 yards on the ground and added 60 through the air. The Ayden-Grifton defense held Weldon to 142 yards in total offense.

The Chargers open their Eastern Carolina Conference play on Friday playing host to strong Southern Wayne, one of the pre-season favorites, and the team which has already taken the lead in the league with a 1-0 mark.

Smith's Return Boosts Spiders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If it were possible to see a sigh of relief, it would be visible today on the face of Frank Jones, coach of Richmond's champion Spiders.

Barty is back.

For those not in the know, that's Barty Smith, a 230-pound junior who was an All-Southern choice at fullback as a sophomore and who is one of the most feared runners and blockers in the conference.

Smith, until Monday, had been absent from practice more than a week at Richmond — with a virus infection that caused him to lose 20 pounds and with a pulled muscle in his leg.

"Barty felt real good," Jones said afterward, "and that helped the rest of the boys. It also gave the coaches a big lift."

Jones, getting his Spiders ready for their opener Saturday at Atlantic Coast Conference champion North Carolina, said "Barty's legs are still not what they were, but he is coming along real well."

Virginia Military's Keydets, meanwhile, spent an hour on their game plan for their home opener Saturday against conference opponent East Carolina, and coach Bob Thalman said the entire week would be devoted to polishing strategy for the meeting with the Pirates.

Most of the heavy fundamental work was covered in the first two weeks of practice, said Thalman, who added that all members of both starting units are expected to be healthy and ready to play Saturday.

The East Carolina-VMI clash is one of two on the season's opening day matching conference opponents.

Coach Jim Root will make his debut at William and Mary with the Indians playing host to Furman's Paladins, whose Bob King is the dean of the league's coaches as he begins his 15th season.

The Citadel's Bulldogs had a contact drill Monday as they worked on mistakes the coaching staff saw in a Saturday scrimmage. Coach Red Parker said he planned more rough work today in efforts to improve ballhandling deficiencies he noted.

The Bulldogs open Saturday at Clemson, and the offensive backfield will have All-Southern Harry Lynch at quarterback and Bob Carson and All Southern Jon Hall at running back. Bob Willis will be at tight end, but Parker has not yet designated his split end.

Other nonconference openers Saturday have Appalachian State's Mountaineers at Western Kentucky in the afternoon and Davidson's Wildcats at Wake Forest at night.

Trevino Warms Up With Win

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
WETHERSFIELD, Conn.

(AP) — Lee Trevino has not done well in two previous shots at the World Series of Golf, but he goes into this weekend's big showdown with the momentum of a tournament victory and "my game together."

Trevino warmed up for his Akron, Ohio, tourney against Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Gay Brewer by winning the $25,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford Open in a one-hole playoff with Lee Elder.

"I have the momentum," said Trevino. "I'm in the best shape I've ever been in. My legs are strong. I'm hitting the ball farther than ever before. I've got my game together."

Trevino had to drop a 12-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to get into the playoff with Elder and then sink a dramatic 16-footer on the first sudden-death hole to win the $125,000 Hartford tournament.

Elder, attempting to score his first tour victory and thus become the first black to qualify for the prestigious Masters Golf Tournament, could have won in regulation had his five-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole not hung on the lip.

"You wonder what you have to do to win," said a dejected Elder, who won $14,300.

Trevino said he felt like "a heel" for taking the victory away from Elder.

"I know how much this means to him, with the Masters and all," said Trevino. "I felt good that I had won, and then bad. But I wouldn't let my wife beat me if I could help it."

Both Elder and Trevino wouldn't have been in a playoff had it not been for the disaster that struck tour sophomore Ralph Johnston of Garden City, N.Y., on the fourth to the last hole.

Johnston, a co-leader with Curtis Sifford after 54 holes, scored a four-under-par 31 on the front nine and birdied the 14th to take a three stroke lead.

But his lead evaporated when he triple-bogeyed the par four 15th when he sprayed his drive into the woods, took two shots to get back onto the fairway and then three-putted from 15 feet.

Trevino and Elder finished regulation play with 15-under-par 269s, the lowest 72-hole total on the tour this year.

Johnston and Deane Beman, who missed a four-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole, tied for third, one stroke back, and Sifford, who struggled to a one-over-par 72 on the last day, finished tied for fifth place with Homero Blancas at 273.

The Colonie Hill complex at Hauppauge, N.Y., includes a 7,100-yard golf course. It recently was sold for $20 million. It cost $11 million to build.

No Flop This Time For Spitz

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MUNICH (AP) — "I'm four years older and own seven gold medals," Olympic hero Mark Spitz said Tuesday in comparing his flop at the 1968 Games to the glory of Munich.

Spitz conducted a 40-minute news conference shortly after Palestinian terrorists stormed Olympic Village and killed two members of the Israeli team.

"I think it's very tragic," said Spitz, who refused to stand in the open at a microphone. "I have no further comment."

Following the conference, German soldiers escorted Spitz out of the huge Olympic press building and he was taken to a downtown Munich hotel.

Swimming Gold Of U.S. Is Tarnished

By BOB JOHNSON
Associated Press Sports Editor
MUNICH (AP) — It was a gloriously climactic day for America's aquatics, what with Mark Spitz' magnificent seventh and triumphs by Mike Burton, Karen Moe and Melissa Belote—but the lustre of all that U.S. gold was tarnished by the spectre of doping charges.

Rick DeMont, an asthmatic 16-year-old from San Rafael, Calif., who had already won the 400-meter freestyle last Friday, was ready to go for gold and improve his own world record in the gruelling 1,500 meters.

But only minutes before the race, DeMont was "medically ejected" for having taken Ephedrine, an asthma medication. It's presence was discovered in a routine urine test after his winning the 400.

"I can't say anything," DeMont said, fighting—and failing—to hold back the tears. "I put it all on my forms. I did everything anybody asked. I have nothing else to say."

With DeMont out of the race, Burton of Sacramento, Calif., streaked to victory, shattering DeMont's record with a clocking of 15:52.58.

"I'm sorry Rick wasn't in the race," said Burton, who finished nearly six seconds ahead of Australian Graham Windt, "and I'm not saying I would have beaten him . . ."

The ejection from the 1,500 was not, however, the major letdown faced by DeMont. He faced possible loss of his 400 gold as well. The International Olympic Committee's Execu-utive Committee and U.S. swimming officials were meeting overnight and a decision was expected early today.

The German word for the spectacular water hole here is "Schwimmhalle," but it could just as properly be called the "Spitzhalle."

The 22-year-old torpedo from Carmichael, Calif., an Indiana University dental student, owns it outright. Seven times he got into the water and seven times he came out a world record-breaking winner.

The finale on Monday was in the 400-meter medley relay. Ahead of him, backstroke Mike Stamm of San Diego and breaststroke specialist Tom Bruce of Sunnyvale, Calif., gave the American team the barest of leads over East Germany.

Then Spitz hit the water for his 100-meter butterfly leg—and by the time freestyle anchorman Jerry Heidenreich took over for the final 100, the U.S. kids had an unbeatable 12 or 13-foot lead. The quartet was clocked in a world-record 3:48.16, beating out silver-winning East Germany and third-place Canada.

Miss Moe, of Santa Clara, Calif., led a 1-2-3 U.S. sweep in the women's 200-meter butterfly with her world-record mark of 2:15.57. Lynn Colella of Seattle took the silver and Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., the bronze.

Miss Belote, of Springfield, Va., who earlier had won the 100-meter backstroke, became a double gold medalist with her 200 backstroke triumph in 2:19.19, also a world record. Susie Atwood of Long Beach, Calif., was second ahead of Donna Marie Gurr of Canada.

If all this "U.S. swimmers swept . . ." and "new world record . . ." business seems repetitive, it is. The U.S. men, for example, grabbed 10 of the 18 golds available and took eight silvers and eight bronzes. And the women won eight of 14 golds, plus five silvers and four bronzes. In all, world marks were set in 23 of 29 events and no record from Mexico City's 1968 Games—not one—was left intact.

U.S. men should be so fortunate on the track. They got aced out again Monday in a race which, for decades, virtually had a "made in America" stamp on it.

Valery Borzov, who earlier won the 100-meter dash, became the first non-American to sweep the sprints as he won the 200 meters in 19.99 seconds, beating Larry Black of Miami to the wire by a fifth of a second.

Despite being second best, Black was not impressed by Borzov. "To me he's a clown," he said. "He's always running and looking around to see who's near him. If he can run and win that way, all right. But the day's going to come when he's going to look around too much."

Kip Keino, a favorite to repeat as champion in the 1,500 meters, won the 3,000-meter steeplechase, an event he tried for the first time just four months ago. And 16-year-old West German Ulrika Meyfard thrilled the "hometown" crowd in the 80,000-seat stadium by winning the women's high jump.

In men's 10-meter platform diving, Richard Rydze of Pittsburgh, fifth going into the final three dives, rallied to win a silver medal behind Italy's Klaus Dibiasi, the first male diver ever to win a medal in three Olympic Games.

"Fantastic!" shouted U.S. polo team Capt. Gary Sheerer of Menlo Park, Calif., after he and his mates captured the bronze, the first time in 40 years a U.S. squad has managed any medal in the event.

The California-recruited team did it with a 6-5 victory over Italy. Traditional rivals Russia and Hungary brawled to a 3-3 tie with the Soviets getting the gold.

In boxing, middleweight Marvin Johnson of Indianapolis scored an easy victory over Ewald Jarmer of West Germany and light welterweight Ray Seales of Tacoma, Wash., scored two knockdowns against Ireland's James Montague en route to a unanimous decision.

But light flyweight Davey Armstrong of Tacoma may neither the strength nor inexperience to cope with Enrique Rodriguez of Spain and lost a unanimous decision.

Vikings Roll To Win As Oilers Slip Around

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — The offense of the Minnesota Vikings stood up to be recognized.

The offense of the Houston Oilers brought the wrong shoes, and had trouble keeping its footing.

The Vikings, led by comeback efforts, rolled up 399 yards and subdued the Oilers 26-14 Monday night in a National Football League preseason game.

Houston Coach Bill Peterson admitted after the game the Oilers had brought soccer shoes from Texas to play on a Metropolitan Stadium field that became slippery after a brief pregame rain.

"We weren't wearing the right shoes," said Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini, whose touchdown passes of 17 yards to Charlie Joiner in the first period and 15 yard to Alvin Reed in the second gave Houston a 14-10 lead at the intermission.

With Bob Lee passing for 207 yards, the Vikings took a 16-10 lead into the fourth period on field goals by Fred Cox.

Fran Tarkenton came into the game, reeled off a 26-yard run and set up Cox' fourth field goal of the game in the fourth period, this time from 14 yards out.

Tarkenton then finished off the Oilers by marching the Vikings 93 yards for a touchdown—a 39-yard pass play to Bill Brown on a third down-and-one situation.

The Houston-Minnesota game topped off a five-day Labor Day weekend that saw all NFL clubs in action.

The 13 games, next to last exhibitions before the regular season openers Sept. 17, were important for coaching staffs. The NFL squads must be chopped to 44 players each by 4 p.m. today.

Washington's Redskins started the weekend last Thursday by whipping the Miami Dolphins 27-24. Detroit got by Baltimore 24-17 in a Friday night game at Tampa, Fla.

There were seven games Saturday, one of which saw the Kansas City Chiefs end the 15-game winning streak of the Dallas Cowboys 20-10. Elsewhere, Denver demolished New England 49-24, the New York Jets beat Atlanta 9-6, Pittsburgh easily handled New Orleans 56-7, San Diego took Los Angeles 14-13 in a neighborhood battle, St. Louis rode by Green Bay 31-10, and the New York Giants defeated Philadelphia 27-12.

In Sunday games, San Francisco shut off Oakland's 4-0 pre-season streak with a 34-21 decision in another neighborhood struggle; Cincinnati defeated Cleveland before 86,000 in Columbus, Ohio; and Chicago earned a 24-24 tie with Buffalo on a play that came after regulation time had run out.

Tired Oliver Swats Phillies

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
AL OLIVER stayed up half the night diapering the baby, then really pinned it on the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I'm thinking about getting up with the baby every night from now on," Oliver joked after spanking two 3-run homers that started the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10-0, 5-1 doubleheader sweep Monday.

Oliver's swats in the opener were fashioned despite the agonies of little sleep, the typical tribulations of a young father.

"I was really tired before the doubleheader started," said the Pirates' All-Star centerfielder. "My month-old daughter, Felisa, put on her crying act Sunday night."

After sharing the hero's act with Steve Blass' five-hitter in the first game, Oliver took a backseat to Bruce Kison in the second. The baby-faced right-hander completed Pittsburgh's ninth doubleheader sweep this year with a five-hitter.

"You hear so much about our hitters that people forget that we have one of the best pitching staffs in baseball," said Oliver.

"The only reason that we don't have a 20-game winner is that our pitchers don't start every four or five games," noted Willie Stargell, whose 33rd homer boosted his major league-leading RBI total of 108 and helped the Pirates win the second game.

Pittsburgh's National League-leading East margin jumped to an out-of-sight 13 games after the Labor Day activities. The Chicago Cubs, second in the East, lost a game after splitting a doubleheader with the New York Mets—winning the first one 2-0 and losing the second, 7-2.

The West-leading Cincinnati Reds split a doubleheader with the Los Angeles Dodgers and improved their margin to 8½ games. After the Dodgers won the first game 6-5, the Reds came back to win the nightcap 8-4 and move up a half-game on Houston. The Astros lost 6-5 to the Atlanta Braves.

In the other National League games, the Montreal Expos trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second, 8-7 and the San Diego Padres tripped the San Francisco Giants 1-0.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox stopped the Milwaukee Brewers 2-0 in the first game of a twin bill, then lost the second 6-2; the Minnesota Twins took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 2-1 and 4-0; the Oakland A's and California Angels split a pair—the A's taking the first game, 10-5 and the Angels the nightcap, 2-1; the Baltimore Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 in the opener of two and the Yankees won the nightcap 5-2; the Detroit Tigers clipped the Cleveland Indians 2-1 and the Kansas City Royals defeated the Texas Rangers 4-3.

Ferguson Jenkins, bidding for his sixth straight 20-game-winning season, hurled a four-hitter for his 19th victory as Chicago took the opener from New York. The Mets won the second game, featured by Gary Gentry's first victory since July 20.

Manny Mota doubled home Bill Russell from second base with two out in the ninth inning to give Los Angeles its first-game triumph. Cincinnati came back with a 12-hit offense in the nightcap led by Tony Perez' two singles and a double. The Dodgers committed seven errors in the second game, a record for the Los Angeles team.

Hank Aaron tied the score with a two-run bases loaded single in the ninth inning and Felix Millan sent home the winning run with a grounder for Atlanta.

Carl Morton pitched a five-hitter, recording his first shut-out since Sept. 1970 as Montreal won the opener from St. Louis. Bill Voss had three hits, his first in the National League to help the Cardinals take the nightcap.

Derrel Thomas hit a home run and Mike Corkins and Gary Ross combined on a five-hitter leading San Diego over San Francisco.

Spitz . . .

take chances," a spokesman for the German Olympic Organizing Committee said.

Spitz is a Jew of Russian-English heritage.

Relegating the questioning to swimming subjects thereafter, Spitz said he was "under a lot of pressure, but now I feel great."

The handsome, 22-year-old California swept finals in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle, 100 and 200-butterfly plus three relays. All came in world record time.

Asked who, including himself, was the greatest swimmer of all time, Spitz grinned and then answered, "I don't think I'm in a position to say who's better or worse than I am."

Spitz predicted before the Mexico City Olympics that he would capture six gold medals, but the then 18-year-old Indiana University freshman took only two relay and a silver and bronze individual medal on almost unbeatable teams.

In Munich, he won everything but the swimming hall.

As Spitz answered questions, he sat in the relative security of the packed crowd. His personal coach, Sherm Chavoor of Arden Hill Swim Club in Carmichael, Calif., was on one side, the U.S. men's coach, Peter Daland of the University of Southern California, on the other.

"I'm pleased to see this crowd and it's a great honor for me," the pre-dental graduate said. Asked about his public image, he said, "I tried to do my best. I have no control over what people think."

A small boy hung what was called an "eighth gold medal" around Mark's neck. Spitz explained only that "a lot of little children got together and wrote saying they liked how I swam."

A reporter said that Spitz and chess world champion Bobby Fischer now are the top American sports heroes and asked Mark what he thought of the other sportsman.

"I admire Bobby Fischer," he said. "And, I'm not going to take up chess."

take chances," a spokesman for the German Olympic Organizing Committee said.

Spitz is a Jew of Russian-English heritage.

Relegating the questioning to swimming subjects thereafter, Spitz said he was "under a lot of pressure, but now I feel great."

The handsome, 22-year-old California swept finals in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle, 100 and 200-butterfly plus three relays. All came in world record time.

Asked who, including himself, was the greatest swimmer of all time, Spitz grinned and then answered, "I don't think I'm in a position to say who's better or worse than I am."

Spitz predicted before the Mexico City Olympics that he would capture six gold medals, but the then 18-year-old Indiana University freshman took only two relay and a silver and bronze individual medal on almost unbeatable teams.

In Munich, he won everything but the swimming hall.

As Spitz answered questions, he sat in the relative security of the packed crowd. His personal coach, Sherm Chavoor of Arden Hill Swim Club in Carmichael, Calif., was on one side, the U.S. men's coach, Peter Daland of the University of Southern California, on the other.

"I'm pleased to see this crowd and it's a great honor for me," the pre-dental graduate said. Asked about his public image, he said, "I tried to do my best. I have no control over what people think."

A small boy hung what was called an "eighth gold medal" around Mark's neck. Spitz explained only that "a lot of little children got together and wrote saying they liked how I swam."

A reporter said that Spitz and chess world champion Bobby Fischer now are the top American sports heroes and asked Mark what he thought of the other sportsman.

"I admire Bobby Fischer," he said. "And, I'm not going to take up chess."

'Prisoners' While Stranded In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Bargain-hunting foreign tourists have discovered that cheap tickets on the Soviet airline can mean cheap service and even imprisonment in a Moscow hotel when the line runs out of plane seats.

About 100 travelers from the United States, Britain, Japan, West Germany and other countries had that experience over the weekend.

U.S. and British consular officials who went to the airline hotel Monday were told that the Americans and British among those stranded had finally taken a flight to London.

There was no official Soviet statement on the situation.

The passengers had all bought tickets on Aeroflot, the Soviet government airline, and were supposed to change planes in Moscow. Since they were not stopping over in the Soviet capital, they had been issued no Soviet entry visas. But when they arrived in Moscow, they found that Aeroflot had sold too many tickets and no seats were available for them for several days on outgoing flights.

Soviet visas usually take weeks to get, so the stranded passengers were put under guard on the four top floors of the transit hotel run by Aeroflot. Some were kept there from Friday to Monday, or longer.

Entrances to the floors were locked, and Soviet officials made room checks. The foreigners were not allowed to make or receive telephone calls, but some finally managed to notify their embassies. They were taken to the hotel restaurant in shifts.

Aeroflot refused to put the travelers on foreign airlines with space available because the Soviet line would have had to reimburse the Western lines in hard currencies and paid the standard fares.

Although one of the biggest international carriers, Aeroflot does not belong to IATA, the International Air Transport Association, and can sell tickets on its scheduled flights at less than IATA fares.

One stranded passenger said he paid only $475 for a $1,760 round trip ticket from New York to Tehran and return.

Rock Festival's Throngs Depart

BULL ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Thousands of tired and disillusioned rock music fans early today, leaving behind deserted this scarred peninsula, tons of trash ranging from makeshift shelters to panties.

The last band at the Labor Day weekend Soda Pop Festival packed its equipment shortly after midnight, a few hours after promoters had left.

Between 25,000 to 35,000 fans remained at that point, still waiting for performances by headlined groups that were promised, but never appeared.

Police estimated nearly 300,000 young people flocked to the 900-acre island in the Wabash River between Indiana and Illinois for the three-day celebration. Promoters said they had expected no more than 75,000.

The homeward trek caused a mammoth traffic jam.

Although the site is in Illinois, the only access is a one-lane Posey County, Ind., road. Indiana State Police said they were able to handle the bumper-to-bumper traffic by routing

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥ Today's hand produced a standoff when it was dealt during the qualifying round match between the eventual winners—Italy's renowned Blue Team and the runners-up, the United States. North and South reached a six spade contract at both tables that could have been defeated with a diamond lead.

The bidding is presented at the table where Italy held the North-South cards. The opening bid and initial response was the same at both tables. The American player, seated East, made a jump overall of two hearts which, in their methods, designated a hand of opening bid strength including distributional values.

When South freely bid two spades, North flashed a slam signal by cue bidding in East's suit to show the ace of hearts. South's rebid of three spades designated that he had started with two five card suits. Holding four trumps, a singleton club and both red controls, North was now determined to try for slam and he checked for aces by using Blackwood. When South showed an ace, North persisted to six spades.

If East had taken the opportunity to double at this point, it would have been a lead directing action requesting his partner to open the dummy's first bid side suit—in this case diamonds. East is aware from the auction, that South has a maximum of three cards in the red suits. If he has only two, it is unlikely that the contract can be defeated. Similarly, if he has two hearts and one diamond, it probably does not matter which suit West opens, for East's king of diamonds can be ruffed out directly to establish a discard if North has the queen of diamonds.

In the event that South's red suit holding consists of one heart and two diamonds, then the diamond lead may be essential while East retains the ace of clubs. Apparently neither East felt certain that a diamond lead might be crucial and the final contract of six spades was passed out at both tables. In the absence of any directions from partner, West made his normal opening of partner's overall and the play became routine.

The heart was won in dummy, trumps were drawn in three rounds and the ace of clubs was dislodged. When South regained the lead, he cashed four rounds of clubs, discarding diamonds from dummy. This enabled him to ruff out his small diamond and thereby restrict his loss on the deal to one club trick. With a diamond opening, South is obliged to take a first round finesse of the queen as his only chance to make the hand. When this fails, East must still score with the ace of clubs to defeat the slam.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing day which is made more difficult because of your eagerness to obtain precise information. Incorrect statements from others could take awhile to replace with actual facts and figures. Use as much time as you can getting your health in excellent condition.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily improve conditions around you so regular duties are easier to perform and avoid serious mistakes. Study your wardrobe and see what new garments will be needed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to be at your very best before you keep an important appointment. Make plans for recreation you want later in the day. Be sure business matters are in order. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show more affection at home and avoid a possible argument. You are puzzled by a new situation, but don't reach any definite conclusions without further study. Time is on your side.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure not to leave your purse or wallet where others could possibly steal it. Don't irk a good friend who is troubled now. Postpone making definite decisions at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Monetary matters should not be changed now since there is a cloud over them. Tomorrow will be a much better time to act. A conversation with experts can be most helpful. Relax tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Spend some time analyzing what your aims are and how to gain them quickly and easily. Show that you are an intelligent person. Make others understand you are vital and dynamic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Home is your best place of endeavor now although you want to get into the world of business. Don't bring up an old argument at home or there could be dire results. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) One in ill humor could give you a bad time, if you permit, so avoid this person. A new aim you have is not ready to be pursued yet. Study all details carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Think how you can expand in the days ahead instead of working so hard on an unimportant activity. A higher-up is not in a good mood. Avoid this person or you could be disappointed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study a new change you want to make or plan a trip you want to make in the future. A new friend can give you ideas and suggestions that are not wise so forget them. Be courteous.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of those responsibilities you have instead of trying to escape from them, since you would only make matters worse later on. You now can come to a far better understanding with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you may not agree with others, this is not a good day to argue or you could get into trouble. A civic matter needs study. Plan to take care of it as quickly as you can.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has fine dreams for a brilliant future. Teach to study the practical aspects of any situation so that true facts will be understood and your youngster will not be laboring under any delusions. This is a fine chart for personnel work, property improvement, human relations, community work, and the like. Send to right schools.

Med School . . .

automatically transfer to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to continue their medical education. (The UNC medical school has 110 first-year students.)

What is the cost of the program?

According to Dr. Wooles, it costs about $35,000 per student now.

"A 30 per cent increase in the budget would allow the class size to expand to 70-80 students. In other words, we could have a 400 per cent increase in students for a 30 per cent increase in budget."

But he emphasized, money is not a critical factor. "Medical education is expensive, but it's too important to the life and welfare of citizens to try to find cheap and shoddy ways to cut the cost. We can't afford to do that," he noted.

"We're training these people to take care of our good health...the most important thing we have." Classes will begin Wednesday at 9 p.m. in the new science complex at the university...with the medical school's labs, lecture rooms, offices and research laboratories located in the North tower of the biology building.

The school's library, termed by Dr. Wooles "our most important resource" is located in the Allied Health building. And arrangements have been made, the dean explained, "so our students will have access to anything held in any medical center library."

Why would highly skilled men and women come to a new school in the heart of rural Eastern North Carolina?

"In part," said Dr. Wooles, "it is a willingness to come to a new place so they can help build something. They have the pioneer spirit. They have something to contribute...see a new school started and see their ideas and concepts put into practice."

"We believe what we are doing is right. Very few people have this opportunity."

Doctors in Eastern North Carolina have to work harder and longer hours than doctors in other areas, Dr. Wooles said. A medical school here will help bring new doctors to take some of the load.

"We are taking one step down the road" to a four-year program, the dean again emphasized. The struggle ahead "Staggers us every time we think of it, yet the goal is so necessary and vitally needed. The help and cooperation of all," he termed "truly outstanding."

And according to Dr. Jenkins, "I'm grateful to the many people whose efforts made this possible but we must continue the struggle for modern, adequate medical care for all of our citizens in Eastern North Carolina."

The 20 medical students, their age, their undergraduate school and home town include: Marjorie Rhodes Barnwell, 21 UNC-CH, Kinston; Paul Douglas Barry, 22, Duke University, Shelby; John Jacob Brantley II, 21, UNC-CH, Roanoke Rapids; Leon Douglas Davis, 29, UNC-Wilmington, Wilmington; James Bowman De Torre, 22, UNC-CH, Albemarle; and Ronald William Gerbe, 25, Duke, Merrick, N.Y.

Others are: George Daniel Jacobs, 21, Clemson University, Gastonia; David Malcolm Larsen, 23, Austin Peay State University, Burlington; Kenneth David Lempert, 24, Rutgers University, Baltimore, Md.; David Blair, 25, University of Kentucky, Wilson; James Sheridan Parsons, 21, North Carolina State University, Cary; Douglas Craig, 21, ECU, Havelock; Sheldon Michael Retchin, 22, UNC-CH, Wilmington; Robert Scott Shapiro, 22, UNC-CH, Charlotte; Thomas Lee Speros, 22, Duke, Maxton; Fronis Ray Thigpen, 26, UNC-CH, Fair Bluff; John William Uribe, 25, The Citadel, Wrennwood, Pa.; George Watterhouse, 23, University of the South, Charlotte; Ray Allen Wertheim, 22, UNC-CH, Fayetteville; and Richard Lee Wing, 23, UNC-CH, Charlotte.

Shooting Victim Dies; Murder Charged Woman

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department has reported that a 31-year-old Rt. 2, Farmville woman has been charged with first degree murder following the death Monday of a Bell Arthur man.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said today that the murder charge has been preferred against Mrs. Ruby Edwards, who had been held in Pitt Jail on assault charges since Aug. 28, 29 shooting of William Francis Carr, 30, of near Bell Arthur.

Carr died in Pitt Memorial Hospital where he had been undergoing treatment for a bullet wound in the abdomen.

The sheriff said that Mrs. Edwards is being held in Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond. A hearing had previously been set for Sept. 11.

LOOKS CAN SOMETIMES DECEIVE. . . as in the case of the above object. At first glance, it has the appearance of a snake. On closer inspection, however, it turns out to be an oddly shaped sweet potato. The long, twisted root was among the potatoes harvested by farmer Claude Fornes early this week in the Cox's Mill Community of Pitt County. (Reflector photo by Jerry Raynor)
