Pinned Five Days

GUELPH, Ont. (AP) — A woman who was pinned under a wrecked car for five days while the bodies of her husband and two friends lay nearby is recovering in a Guelph hospital.

Denise Sprayson, of Maxwell, Ont., was found Sunday. Dr. G. L. Stewart, the coroner in the case, said he didn't understand how she survived.

"Mrs. Sprayson's wounds were loaded with crawling things," he reported. "Her discomfort must have been beyond imagination. She survived an ordeal which not many people could have."

Mrs. Sprayson endured rain, 80-degree temperatures and chilly nights. Police said her head was near enough to a pool of water that she may have been able to drink. One leg and some ribs were broken and her skull may have been fractured.

Police said the car failed to negotiate a curve Wednesday near Durham, Ont., shot through the air and rolled down a 16-foot embankment.

Mrs. Sprayson was discovered by Paul Smeil of Rexdale, Ont., who was driving by and stopped to walk his dog. The dog found the woman. Smeil tried to help her, then ran to a farmhouse half a mile away and called the police.

The coroner said the three others could not have survived, even if they had received prompt medical attention, because of the extent of their injuries. They were Frank Sprayson, 42; Mrs. Gordon Willicombe, 38, of Preston Township, and Albert Price, 49, of Maxwell, believed to have been the driver of the car.

Regain Entry Into Quang Tri Citadel

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese Marines fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today, but were encountering tough resistance. "It is still contested," one informant said.

One source estimated that about 400 North Vietnamese troops were still entrenched in the 19th century fortress whose political symbolism outweighs its military value in the battle of Quang Tri. It could not be determined how much of the Citadel's 50 acres the marines had occupied and how much the enemy still held. Newsmen were not allowed closer than 200 yards to the fortress.

Shells from both sides hit the fortress while U.S. and South Vietnamese jets pounded it. South Vietnamese batteries on Highway 1 south of the city included long-range 175mm artillery to counter the North Vietnamese 130mm guns. They thundered throughout the day but could not silence the enemy fire hitting marine positions inside the city and several smaller gun batteries to the south.

Officers at the front said the marines outside the Citadel's walls were closing off the enemy's avenues of supply and reinforcement.

Sec. Butz Speaks For Helms, Nixon

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
U.S. Department of Agriculture secretary Earl L. Butz spoke here last night — blasting Democrats George McGovern and Nick Galifianakis — and voicing support for President Richard Nixon and Republican Senatorial candidate Jesse Helms.

Butz's shots at the Democrats and praise for the Republicans came at a rally designed to boost support for Helms, who faces Democrat Galifianakis in the November election.

Raised on an Indiana farm, Butz married a Sampson County, N.C. native and former Jones County Home Economics agent — the former Mary Emma Powell — 34 years ago. He said last night that North Carolina is "my number two state...I've come to love the state and it's people." The Agriculture Department official — who owns 7 of one per cent of Capitol Broadcasting Co. (WRAL-TV, Raleigh and the Tobacco Network) stock, as does Helms — gave his love for the state as reason for coming "in Jesse's behalf."

"I stand here as a Republican, but I'll have to make this bipartisan since most of you here are registered Democrats" the speaker told the several hundred persons in the audience.

"I want the best people in the world we can get in government," he emphasized. "There's nothing dishonorable about politics...just a few politicians who are dishonorable..."

Butz said Helms and Nixon would be the best choice for the people of North Carolina this fall. "I think I've got some feel for the people here," he said. "I understand their patriotism. I understand their desire for a strong America."

"Jesse Helms stand squarely on the independent principles you proud Tar Heels hold pretty close to your heart. Jesse Helms knows agriculture. He stands and fights for what is right. He has courage. I know," Butz noted. "He stood beside me in my confirmation battle before the Senate — when Sen. McGovern charged that my confirmation would be a catastrophe for American agriculture."

"Well, I feel exactly the same about George McGovern today. You do, too..."

Butz questioned, "what kind of man do you want for your president — a man whose word you can count on and whose record you can measure... or a man whose promises are constantly changing and who as yet can't even govern his own staff?"

The official then said, "Sen. McGovern can't seem to get it all together. He was able to

Seek Surcharge

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's three major electric power companies have notified the state Utilities Commission they plan to file petitions to impose a research and development surcharge on their customers' bills.

President Shearon Harris of Carolina Power and Light Co. told the commission the surcharge is needed to help pay for advanced technology in the electric power production field.

The surcharge, immediately described as a "tax" by one utilities commissioner would cost the average residential customer of CP&L, Duke Power and Virginia Electric & Power Co. 3 cents a month next year and 6 cents a month in 1974.

Harris said the power companies would like to see the surcharge go into effect Jan. 1, 1973.

Suggests Ending Olympic Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said today the Olympic Games serve no useful purpose and should be discontinued.

"The games have become 'too political, too racist, too anarchic, and too murderous,'" he told newsmen.

"Their ideal is being dissipated more rapidly with the passing of time. Even the refereeing is getting a nationalist tinge."

Brown To Head UF Drive Unit

Karl Faser, campaign chairman for this year's Pitt United Fund appeal, has named Lester Brown of Greenville to handle the campaign's Business II Division.

Brown, employed at First Federal Savings and Loan Association here, graduated from East Carolina University where he earned a degree in business administration.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, the division chairman is a member of the Greenville Jaycees and Rotary Club. He served a three-year tour of duty with the U.S. Army.

The chairman and his wife, Mary May Brown, have one child and they attend Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Commenting on the 1973 campaign, Brown said that "I hope we can continue the fine work that has always been done on the United Fund."

Avers Butz, Helms Are Ideologically Far Apart

Nick Galifianakis' state campaign manager charged here Monday that Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz is neglecting "both farm problems and official duties to come to North Carolina to campaign in behalf of Jesse Helms."

Russell Walker told newsmen that Galifianakis, candidate for the U.S. Senate, is remaining in Washington "working...to save the jobs of several thousand civilian North Carolina' who work in the food service industry on military bases in our state" while Butz appears in behalf of the congressman's GOP opponent. Butz appeared here last night at the Moose Lodge.

"This is the third such political trip Mr. Butz has made here this summer," Walker contended, adding that the appearances "are remarkable for two reasons."

"First," he said, "Jesse Helms, the man whom the Secretary of Agriculture is promoting for the Senate, has consistently opposed the agricultural and rural development programs which Mr. Butz says he is for. Over the years Jesse Helms has condemned the very programs which have most benefited hundreds of thousands of North Carolina farmers and rural residents."

He continued, "Second, Jesse Helms and Earl Butz have a long-standing but little known business relationship — a relationship dependent on the license from the federal government."

Walker provided newsmen with copies of editorials and columns written by Helms which the campaign manager claimed documented Helms' "rigid ideological hostility to federal farm programs."

"Other things make Mr. Butz's trip here today remarkable," Walker said. "Mr. Helms also doesn't believe in rural electric co-operatives or the export of American farm products to Russia, both of which the Secretary of Agriculture says he supports."

Walker said that Helms calls REA "socialized electricity" and exports to Russia "trading with the enemy."

Quarantine Imposed As Hog Cholera Diagnosed

Hog cholera has been diagnosed in Pitt County in the Eastern Pines Community.

A state quarantine has been placed in the following areas: Beginning in Pitt County at the junction of state road 1704 and U.S. Hwy. 264 bypass, proceed north on U.S. Hwy. 264 bypass to its junction with U.S. Hwy. 264 business; thence east on U.S. Hwy. 264 to its junction with state road 1762; thence southwest on state road 1762 to its junction with state road 1764; thence south on state road 1764 to its junction with state road 1766; thence south on state road 1766 to its junction with state road 1756; thence east on state road 1756 to its junction with state road 1770; thence south on state road 1770 to its junction with state road 1772; thence southeast on state road 1772 to its junction with state road 1777; thence southwest on state road 1777 to its junction with state road 1774; thence west on state road 1774 to its junction with state road 1744; thence south on state road 1744 to its junction with state road 1743; thence northwest on state road 1743 to its junction with state highway 43; thence northwest on state highway 43 to its junction with state road 1739; thence west on state road 1739 to its junction with state road 1737; thence west on state road 1737 to its junction with state road 1725; thence north on state road 1725 to its junction with state road 1704; thence north on state road 1704 to its junction with U.S. Hwy. 264 bypass, which is the beginning point.

The quarantine, which was placed on the area yesterday, was signed by James Graham, commissioner of agriculture.

According to Graham, all swine in the area is under state quarantine and all farm-to-farm or farm-to-market movement of swine within the area must cease immediately. The movement of slaughter swine will be permitted under rules prescribed by the state veterinarian.

According to Graham, anyone with sick hogs is asked to report the problem to the county agricultural office or call the federal veterinary service.

Hog movement is restricted in the quarantine area and nothing can be moved except for slaughter hogs. A permit must be obtained from the federal veterinary service, by calling 752-6354 or calling the local agricultural office, 758-1196, before the hogs are moved.

It is important that any farmer in the county who feels his hogs may have cholera call the federal veterinary services to have the swine checked. Slaughter hogs outside the quarantined area can be moved but feeder pigs cannot be moved until a permit is obtained. It is advised that the permit be obtained a few days before the move is made.

McGovern, Kennedy In Rousing Show

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — George McGovern's come-from-behind presidential campaign is taking on a frantic but rousing roadshow appearance as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy joins the Democratic nominee for three days of rallies across the populous Northeast.

The two senators set out on a five-day, 16-hour schedule of appearances from Minneapolis to Pittsburgh today following their premiere Monday night before approximately 11,000 people.

Kennedy, who earlier this summer turned down McGovern's offers to run with him as the party's vice presidential candidate, revved up the already-enthusiastic crowd of predominantly young people inside the Minneapolis Auditorium. The format will be repeated at least a half-dozen times this week and probably again later in the fall.

"The American people are going to elect a president whose interests do not lie with Wall Street but with Main Street U.S.A.," the Massachusetts senator said while McGovern waited offstage. "I stand with George McGovern for the rights of all the people and we want all of you beside us."

Kennedy, considered a sure prospect for Democratic presidential politics in the future, displayed a touch of family humor in a reference to McGovern's running-mate Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy-in-law.

"Until only recently," he quipped, "I was just one member of a hundred in the United States Senate, just doing my job ... and then all of a sudden the selection came for the vice president, and it just goes to show what it is to have a famous brother-in-law."

There was the vigorous leap to the office when Kennedy asked the absent President Nixon "and what about the Watergate bugging scandal, Mr. President? Why doesn't your administration listen to the American people in public instead of trying to eavesdrop on George McGovern and Larry O'Brien in private?"

The crowd loved it. But it loved McGovern, too, and the applause was longer and the cheers louder when the South Dakota minister's son took the stage, intoning "thank you, thank you very much," while the admirers shouted "We want George!"

His voice more even than Kennedy's and his gestures almost non-existent, McGovern was a contrast popular with the audience.

In a speech interrupted at least 35 times by applause, McGovern received one of his biggest ovations on the issue that made him nationally famous when he said "Come home, America, from the cruellest, the longest and the stupidest war in our national history."

After today's engagements in Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, McGovern and Kennedy will spend the rest of their three days together in Philadelphia, Albany, N.Y., New York City and Waterbury, Conn.

Pitt Democrats Work At Voter Registration

Pitt County Democrats have begun a pre-election voter registration drive in the county's precincts. It was announced today.

The drive, chaired by the Rev. Charles Mulholland and the Rev. John Taylor, is organized by the 31-member Pitt County Democratic Voter Registration Steering Committee.

Drive co-ordinator Cynthia Whisenant said the committee and some 300 volunteers have already registered voters in some precincts, but that the major effort begins this week.

"We plan to reach as many people as possible by a door-to-door canvass in the brief time left," she said, adding that "if any potential voter is not visited by a committee volunteer, he can contact a committee member for information and assistance."

The co-ordinator noted that any U.S. citizen 18 years of age or older who has been a resident of his precinct and state for 30 days may vote in the Nov. 6 election.

Registration of voters is now in progress in the main section of the Courthouse on weekdays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. through Oct. 9 and on Saturdays through Sept. 30, she reported.

Registration will also be open at the various precinct polling places all day Sept. 30, she added.

Members of the executive committee who are also serving on the steering committee are Miss Whisenant, Joan Bowen, Charles Cain, Willie Maye Carney, Dr. Patricia Daugherty, Dr. Alvin Fahrner, the Rev. Clarence Gray and the Rev. William B. Moore.

Other steering committee members are: Clinton Ray Anderson, Alma Barnes, Kay Clyde, Gloria Dixon, Wilma T. Dupree, Frederick Graham, Lillie Gorham, Janice Hardison,

JC Light Bulb Sale Underway

The Jaycees' 1972 light bulb sale is underway and members have begun taking orders for bulbs and other types of lamps for delivery in late October.

Jaycees reported that Greenville businesses will be contacted through Sept. 22 and will be followed by the residential sale the first full week in November.

Joe Ratcliffe, chairman of the annual project, pointed out, "While the business segment of this year's sale is being held now, we will be canvassing the residential areas for four nights beginning Nov. 6."

He added, "We urge merchants to place their orders now when Jaycees contact them, and residents to purchase their bulbs in November. Another reminder, profits from the sale of the bulbs ... will go entirely to charity."

Some 1,200 Bodies From Old Cemetery Lost During Flood

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
FORTY FORT, Pa. (AP) — Still missing: 1,200 bodies, more or less, from flood-racked Forty Fort Cemetery. "It's a tragedy," said Harry B. Schooley Jr., cemetery president.

But for still shocked residents who live near the Susquehanna River—many miles from the 195-year-old burial ground in northeastern Pennsylvania—it's a horror to find parts of bodies 12 weeks after the flooding caused by tropical storm Agnes.

The bodies were gouged out of their graves when the river swelled to record heights and tore through a 33-foot dike on June 23. "The river came roaring over the steel piling, like ocean waves, and began to lift the grass and dirt, and knocked down the tombstones like matchsticks," recalled cemetery caretaker John Novak.

"It was frightful. I saw vaults and caskets popping out of the ground. Bodies tumbled out of broken boxes. Some looked like they were standing or walking on the water."

Schooley, a bank trust officer in nearby Wilkes-Barre, said "2,000 bodies at least, and maybe 2,500, were washed away and we have recovered only 1,005."

Mayor Ernst Bascomb said cleanup crews, hired by the Army Engineers, found bodies, caskets and gravestones everywhere, and used trucks, helicopters, cranes and even horses to gather them up.

Those cadavers and skeletons that have been found were reburied, at least temporarily, in the Memorial Shrine Cemetery in Carverton, eight miles north.

Only 30 were positively identified, Schooley said, because they were picked up intact in marked vaults or caskets.

About the missing 1,000, 1,200 or maybe 1,500 bodies?

"They're probably gone, God knows where," Schooley said.

The cemetery association, determined not to forget them, hopes to determine who was buried in the destroyed section, but it won't be easy. Records in the tiny office 150 yards from the river here inundated, and now are being freeze-dried.

The 16-acre nonsectarian cemetery was begun in 1777 by the 44 settlers who built a fort near the river—giving the town its name.

The rampaging river washed out nearly five acres of graves, destroying some dating back to the early 1800s, and others buried in old family plots only a few years ago.

Meantime, Novak is busy restoring, righting and resinking tombstones that were knocked over.

"We have to get it back into shape," he said.

Queen Helene Mint Julep Masque 15 Minute Treatment Must Show Immediate Improvement or — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home-treatment that rinses away blackheads in a matter of minutes. It was demonstrated recently on five teen-age girls and three boys.

The results were breath-taking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cloth used to wash off the Masque. But this wasn't all! Acne-pimples improved after one application, enlarged pores reduced, and rough complexions became cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. These results certainly indicate why teen-agers are now saying "this is one product that really works" ... and why mothers of teen-agers have endorsed its use.

The Masque-Cream Treatment is indeed a remarkable discovery, not only for clear healthy skins, but also for the self-confidence, poise and self-esteem a fine complexion brings to teen-agers!

Anyone Can Use It

If you suffer the agony of teen-age blackheads, acne-pimples and rough unsightly complexions, give yourself this home treatment at our risk. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent, called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" were softly kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads and foreign impurities.

As it firms and hardens, its suction-action draws out waste matter from the pores. In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your towel. And your skin feels clean... really clean... refreshed, smooth like velvet!

Start Now Improve Your Complexion

Don't take a back seat or be a wall-flower because of bad skin. If you want to get your full share of fun and parties... clear up your complexion and let Mint Julep Masque "Lead the Way"! # Doctors Should Tell The Truth About Death

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that when a doctor knows there is no hope for a patient's recovery, he should tell the patient the truth?

My wife and I disagree on this. The patient happens to be her father. She insists that "ignorance is bliss," and her father should not have been told. [His doctor told him.]

I say it's a person's right to know so that he can put his affairs in order.

Isn't it the practice of most doctors to tell their patients the truth? And don't you think most patients would rather know? And finally, Abby, how do you feel about this?

J AND A

DEAR J AND A: Most doctors believe in telling their patients the truth, but some will not if the family asks him not to, or if the doctor feels the patient can't handle it. [Most patients "know" without being told, but pretend not to.]

Since nobody gets out of this world alive, death should be looked upon realistically, and without fear. There is no "bliss" in ignorance which creates false hope, and the inconvenience and confusion of unfinished business.

DEAR ABBY: At a recent family wedding, my brother in law [who was under the influence of alcohol at the time], confided that he had passed on a letter addressed to his sister [my wife] in care of his office! He said it was from an old boy friend of hers.

My wife is, and has been for many years a "swinger," while I've gradually approached impotency, I regret to admit. Now for the problem: I have reason to believe that the letter set up a specific time and place for an upcoming meeting between the two of them.

Casually, I told my wife that if that were true, it was 100 per cent O. K. with me, except that I did not want to ever know about it.

Have I unconsciously "regressed" to the younger generation's standards? Or am I being maturely realistic?

CONSENTING CUCKOLD

DEAR CONSENTING: No decent man would give his wife permission to carry on with someone else. And a mature man would certainly not say, "Go ahead, but I don't want to know about it." [P. S. and tell your brother in law with the big mouth that he not only drinks too much, he talks too much!]

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I invited a couple to be our guests for dinner out. In the meantime, some casual friends telephoned and said they'd like to get together with us, so we asked if they cared to join us for dinner. They said they would, and they brought their TWO children along!

My husband asked the waiter for separate checks so he could give the couple who came and brought their children their own checks, but the waiter said, "Sorry, we are not accustomed to doing that here."

The upshot of the whole thing was that my husband got stuck for the entire bill [over $60] plus the tip.

Don't you think this was very nifty of the couple who came along?

My husband is not a wealthy man. He is just gracious and friendly.

What do you think we should have done? STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Your husband should have asked the other couple for their share of the bill. What's so complicated about that?

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion on the hassle some merchants give their customers about their personal checks.

My husband tells me that I feel offended by them because I grew up in a small mid-western town [10,000 population] where everyone knew everyone else.

I can understand why they ask for proper identification, and refuse checks on distant banks, but I become irate when a salesman starts to sweat and turn pale the minute I reach for my checkbook. You would think I had pulled a gun on him!

If a customer were to ask for a written guarantee that the $30 dress she bought would not fall apart in the washer, the store manager would probably throw her out. I say that the merchant is offering a service to the public when he opens his doors for business, and he should show the customer some respect at the check cashing counter.

You could hand most clerks a $20 bill with a picture of George Washington on it, and they would smile, accept it, and say, "Come back again." But when you try to pay with a perfectly good check, you are made to feel like a criminal. Why?

IRATE IN OXNARD

DEAR IRATE: If you had been stuck with as many bad checks as some merchants, you wouldn't ask why.

Beauty Recipes Use Avocado

By AP Newsfeatures

Before long we may all be "growing" cosmetics in pots in the living room or in the backyard.

True, you may wait a while for your very own tree or bushes to bear fruit, but meanwhile you can experiment with some fruity recipes as the experts explore the possibilities of natural beauty.

For example, the avocado is full of vitamins, minerals and natural oils, say the California avocado people, who provide the following beauty recipes that make use of the peel and pulp.

Facial Cleanser: Beat egg yolk until it is light and frothy, add a half-cup of milk and the mashed half of a ripe peeled avocado. If you don't have a blender, beat the mixture with a fork until you have a thin cream of lotion-like consistency. Apply with squares of cotton. The formula is perishable so it should be made every other day and stored between uses.

Grainy Cleanser: Peel and mash one-half of a ripe avocado and mix it with a half cup of fine-grind cornmeal. Wash your face and apply the avocado-meal paste to the trouble spots. Gently rub mixture on skin for a few minutes. Remove with a damp washcloth and flood with a cold splash of skin tonic, witch hazel or a fruit wash.

Eye Treatment: Peel an avocado, remove pit and slice a half avocado into quarter-inch crescents. Lie down with a crescent or two under each eye for 20 minutes.

Dry Skin Mask: Beat yolk of egg until it is frothy, add mashed pulp of a half avocado, blending it. Cleanse face before using mask. Spread mixture over face and neck. Relax for about 20 minutes. Remove with clear, tepid water. Follow by a rinse of cold water (or mild lotion).

Oily Skin Mask: Put white of egg, teaspoon of lemon juice and mashed pulp of half avocado into blender. Blend for a few seconds. Cleanse well to remove oil from face and neck. Apply mask evenly. Relax for 20 minutes. Remove with tepid water and follow with ice cold astringent.

Scalp Treatment: In a warmish bowl, beat an egg yolk slightly with a wire sauce whisk, add a small amount from a half-cup of olive, sesame, almond, safflower or soybean oil. Beat mixture. Add mashed pulp of half an avocado until blended, add the additional oil, a teaspoon at a time, beating after each addition. Add lemon juice. Beat again to blend it well. (If refrigerated this will keep for a few days.) Saturate hair strands with the mixture. Leave it on head for a half hour or overnight (wrap head to protect bed linens). Shampoo with tepid water, using your favorite shampoo to remove. You may need to shampoo twice. Use treatment once a week at first, then monthly when hair's condition improves.

The Peel: Scrape pulp out of peel until it feels sandy. The slightly abrasive peel may be rubbed on feet, hands or other rough skin spots.

It may also be used as a moisturizer. Using it in upward strokes, lightly massage your face with the inside of the peel. Let the oil remain on your skin for 15 minutes or all night, if you are going to bed. Or you may remove with tepid water, patting it dry.

The oily residue that remains should hold your foundation or powder in place for hours.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

I love to test recipes for fresh pork spareribs because I always enjoy eating them so much! If you feel the same way, I have no hesitation in recommending the following recipe. The sauce is on the subtle side and does not overwhelm the good taste of the meat.

GRILLED SPARERIBS

- 4 pounds fresh pork spareribs, cut into 1-rib pieces
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ½ teaspoon peppercorns
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ½ cup minced onion
- 1 cup (12-ounce jar) apple jelly
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger.

Place ribs in a large saucet; Add enough water to cover ribs. Add salt and peppercorns. Bring water to a boil; reduce heat, cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Drain ribs; place them, meaty side down, in a shallow dish.

In a small saucepan melt butter; add onion and cook gently until wilted. Add apple jelly, vinegar, lemon rind, lemon juice and ginger. Cook over low heat, stirring, until jelly melts. Pour over ribs, cover and refrigerate for several hours or overnight.

To finish cooking ribs, remove them from marinade and broil over very low glowing charcoal; turn often and baste with marinade until well-browned—8 to 10 minutes. Or broil in similar fashion in the kitchen range.

Makes 4 servings as a main dish or 8 to 10 servings as an appetizer.

Gypsy Beggar Conducts Poll

MALAGA, Spain (WNS)—Gypsy beggar Pilar Albinez, 72, talked to an American efficiency expert, then decided to find out who are her best targets. "I put donations from foreigners in separate pockets from the pesetas given me by Spaniards," she explained. Her first two weeks of research revealed that Americans seldom give to beggars. Spaniards "and other Latins" are the most generous. "The British at least give me a smile when they say no," reported Pilar. "Americans scowl and sometimes frighten me."

Old fabrics never die; they just keep coming back in new and exciting ways. Chintz is one. It's coming back after a 20-year absence from fashion's front ranks. Polished cotton, toile patterns, Oriental looks—all turn up in the chintz parade. Some of the chintzes are quilted.

On The Verge Of Major Growth

If any reminder is needed that Greenville is developing rapidly one only has to follow the by pass system now being developed through and around the city.

From north to south one can follow a four lane drive from the river, along Memorial Drive and then southward to Winterville. Construction is underway all along it.

Traveling from east to West the Greenville Boulevard thoroughfare is being developed from Frog Level to Memorial Drive into a five lane street. From there on to the Washington Highway it is already five laned and then north from there the route is being developed as a divided highway with limited access to the Burroughs-Wellcome plant.

On Tenth Street a five lane thoroughfare is being developed from Cotanche to Greenville Boulevard and new businesses and buildings are springing up along this route. Plans are underway for five laning Charles Street, and other work.

All of these thoroughfares are busy now during the rush hours. When ECU opens in a couple of weeks the crush of traffic can be expected to be a major problem. And if the growth that everyone expects for Greenville comes about in the years ahead, it will not be long before even these new thoroughfares are inadequate for the traffic load.

There are lessons for us to learn from larger cities which have built major thoroughfares only to see the unprecedented increase in auto traffic clog the thoroughfares.

Greenville should study these growth problems which have plagued larger cities with an eye toward avoiding the problems as we grow.

Perhaps one answer is to plan residential areas as close as possible to locations where large numbers of people work or attend school. No doubt we should be looking at all the plans coming along now for mass transportation.

Greenville seems to be on the verge of a major growth era. It is coming whether we are ready for it or not, but it is our job to get ready for it.

New Alliances Could Emerge

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH. — Long-range effects on the alliances within political parties could come out of the '72 presidential election.

Dr. Abraham Holtzman, a political scientist who practices what he teaches, sees the potential for loyalty shifts breaking up old coalitions for the Democrats and offering new opportunity for the Republicans.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Short-range, Dr. Holtzman envisions the election of President Nixon to a second term. Nixon's advantage of incumbency, and the disarray of Democrats, are handicaps George McGovern can hardly overcome in the eight weeks left to the campaign, he predicted.

"Nixon has a very good chance to break up the traditional Democratic coalition of the South, organized labor, religious and ethnic groups," said Holtzman.

The erosion of the Solid South, initiated in the Eisenhower days, will be accelerated; a substantial labor vote will move to the Republican ticket; Jews are likely to break a 40-year loyalty to the Democratic party to support Nixon. These are forces working for a GOP victory in November. Holtzman explained.

Potential Long-Range Gains "Republicans have something long-range to gain if Nixon can capitalize on the discontent and misconceptions of these groups with McGovern's candidacy," he added. "The question is whether he can make them stick with the party in the future, as Eisenhower could not."

How Dr. Holtzman, political scientist, evaluates the current campaign doesn't reflect the personal commitment of Abe Holtzman, Democrat. He's a staunch McGovern supporter.

Classroom performance at North Carolina State University has earned him recognition as an outstanding teacher both from the student body and the alumni association.

Practical involvement made him a delegate this spring to county and state Democratic conventions. His non-academic background also includes Washington experience in Congress as an intern for a Representative and a Senator, and on the staff of the Democratic national chairman.

Political parties today are caught in the same currents of change shaking society. Under pressure to open up to elements long closed out, they are torn by the conflicting self-interest of groups assembled under the party banner.

Parties Here To Stay Despite rampant ticket splitting and voter inclination to shop around, Dr. Holtzman doesn't subscribe to the view of some of his colleagues that parties are becoming obsolete.

"Parties are the vehicle to recruit leaders. More than that, the party anchors attitudes. They serve to shape and reinforce the ideas people have of what is good for the country and good for them," he explained.

"Furthermore, many people are still traditional. There are millions of voters who will vote for the party."

Shifts in party composition have occurred in the past. A notable instance, Dr. Holtzman recalled, was the movement of blacks to the Democrats under Franklin Roosevelt. They had voted Republicans since the Civil War, but the New Deal brought a massive transfer of loyalty.

Blacks May Hold Ranks The prospect is that blacks, in large measure, will hold ranks for the Democratic party in the coming election. Other components of the party's base with voters is less secure.

What leads a group from one party to another is the feeling that its own interests are in jeopardy.

For example, many Jews have formed the impression that McGovern is weak on Israel. Dr. Holtzman suggested, "This is not the case, as an examination of his position will show but once the stereotype is set it is very difficult to break," he added.

The Jewish vote is small, 3 per cent of the electorate, but strategically placed. It could be decisive in California, Illinois, and New York — states McGovern must carry to have a chance.

Paradoxically, some of the factors which weaken McGovern's candidacy could build strength for the party's future.

Democratic reforms giving greater participation to women, youth and blacks created resentment rebounding against McGovern, Dr. Holtzman agreed. At the same time, he said, the changes will be good for the party in the long run.

"Parties have a lot of vitality in the political scheme of things," he declared. One election lost can mean the emergence of new leaders and fresh programs to bring victory the next time around, he added.

U.S. 'Fallout' From Munich

By ROLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON —

President Nixon's repeated pledge that he would rather be a "one-term President" than avoid taking politically unpopular foreign policy actions now faces its toughest test in the wake of the tragic murder of 11 Israelis in Munich last week.

The reason is twofold. First because Mr. Nixon has embarked on a very hard line in restraining Israel from major reprisals against Arab countries under Israel's long-established "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth" policy of dealing with the Palestinian terrorist-commandos.

And second, because Sen. George McGovern, furiously exploiting the Munich disaster in his effort to hold the important Jewish vote in the November election, is calling not for Israel but for American reprisals against the Arab governments of Egypt and Lebanon.

Thus, the undoubted breakthroughs into the normally Democratic Jewish vote seemingly within Mr. Nixon's grasp are now threatened by McGovern's demand that the U.S. "ostracize and punish" Egypt, Lebanon and any other Arab states that harbor Palestinian nationalists.

In short, the Senator's blatant effort to outflank the President as Israel's most loyal and dedicated champion has been given a potent shot in the arm by Munich. With Mr. Nixon — at least for now — committed to post-Munich policies that serve real American interests, McGovern is free to swing as wildly as he likes.

McGovern's demand for U.S. retaliation against Egypt (which recently threw out its Soviet ally) and Lebanon (whose fragile pro-Western government is continuously threatened with fatal entrapment in the issue of the Palestinian guerrilla movement) is a wild swing indeed.

It may, to be sure, help McGovern regain political ground he lost during the early days of this Administration. That was when he supported the basic, Israeli-opposed Middle East settlement plan of Mr. Nixon, whom he now attacks for having "consistently undercut" Israel.

But if the President were to succumb to the temptation of outbidding McGovern's post-Munich Middle East policy, the result could be catastrophe both for the Middle East and for the U.S.

Thus, the main purpose of the terrorists' plot in Munich was to sever the tenuous movement toward an overall Middle East settlement which Egypt itself, now helpless militarily against Israel, is quietly encouraging. The extremist Palestinian nationalists who call themselves the Black September have several objectives: to convulse the Middle East, embarrass Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and undermine all moves toward any peace that outflanks Arab Palestine, seized by Israel in 1967.

That same objective was behind the Black September assassination in Cairo of Wasfi Tell, the Jordanian prime minister and a hard-liner in running the Palestinian guerrillas out of Jordan. Tell was a key actor in secret diplomatic contacts between Jordan and the Israeli government.

Likewise, that was the objective of the Black September in an aborted assassination attempt against the Palestinian mayor of Israeli-occupied Gaza ten days ago in Amman, the Jordan capital.

As for Egypt, which permits no military training or financial support for Palestinian terrorists, every Palestinian seeking entry is placed under immediate and constant surveillance. Surprisingly, even insecure and unstable Syria is trying to squeeze the commandos out of its territory. The government of Syria recently refused to allow Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestinian fedayeen commando organization, to bring a show-case jeep, bristling with machine guns and electronic detection equipment, into Syria. The jeep was the gift of Libya's President Qadhafi — the one arab leader still willing to

Strength For Today

OUR BELIEF IN GOD
What does the Bible teach about God?

To use theological terms, it teaches that God is immanent (in all things), and also transcendent (above life, apart from it, viewing and influencing it objectively).

If we believe only that God is here in this world pervading the whole of this life, we become pantheists and religion soon loses its substance for us and its significance. If, on the other hand, we emphasize transcendence too much we lose a sense of the personal presence of God. We become like the Mohammedans who believe in the faraway, lordly Allah, and in fate.

The Christian has a hard time bringing immanence and transcendence together and keeping them in balance. But he does not understand the Biblical teachings about God until he knows that God is in him and in the whole world all the time and in every way, yet that God is also in the heavens, the Creator, Sustainer and Sovereign of all that exists. Here and there! God our Companion, Sustainer, God the mighty Being in the Distant reaches of eternity, ruling all.

The distinguishing factor of Biblical religion is the revelation that this God is righteous, loving, sacrificial, merciful and so interested in his creation that the hairs of our heads are numbered and not a sparrow falls but that He noted it.

Once A Pleasant Event

The younger generation may find this hard to believe, but once upon a time the opening of school was a peaceful and pleasant event. In many communities, of course, it still is. But it is a dismaying experience to glance about the country and to make the miseries this month.

Continuing a trend of recent years, a number of private and parochial schools will not open at all. Without some form of financial aid, perhaps in the form of tax credits to parents, the closings are bound to increase.

Ironically, a number of public schools also failed to open their doors last week: The teachers had gone out on strike.

Still other schools began the all semester in moods of open or barely concealed bitterness, brought on by court orders to bus children for purposes of achieving racial balance.

To make bad matters worse, this past year has produced additional evidence that in many States the taxpayers have had it. They are rebelling against higher taxes to support an educational system that no longer commands their affection.

Other elements contribute to the unhappy picture: Here the parents are quarreling over sex education. There the parents are aroused at the poor teaching of reading. In nearly every city one finds angry complaints against "permissiveness." My own mail reflects a rising resentment against "slanted textbooks." The dissatisfaction is deep, pervasive, and mounting.

The saddest part of the story is that we are losing certain images and intangibles that once had great value — the quiet classroom, the dedicated teacher, the neighborhood school, the confidence of a community in its educational system. True enough, the old days had their bad aspects: In the segregated South, children were bused by reason of the color of their skin. Almost everywhere, teachers were underpaid and overworked.

Everything seems to have gone wrong. Once again, not only in the South but in Northern and Western cities also, children are being bused by reason of the color of their skin. A new militancy has taken over the teaching profession. Thousands of dedicated teachers have held fast to the old ideals — they want no part of the new trade unionism — but the image has been lost.

In Philadelphia, for one example, some 13,000 teachers went on strike last week. There the school board, $52 million in debt, had asked that most teacher salaries be frozen at last year's levels, and the board had proposed that the five-hour work day for secondary teachers be extended to five hours and 40 minutes. Pay scales now range from $8,900 for a beginner to $17,000 for a veteran teacher with a Ph.D.

Incensed at these requests, the Philadelphia teachers' union called a strike. The union demanded pay raises averaging 34 percent — enough to pay beginners (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Today's Illiterates

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Surrounded by the most abundant food supply the world has ever seen, the United States is fast becoming a nation of nutritional illiterates.

That's the opinion of Henry J. Heinz, chairman of the Heinz Company. He points out, that despite a wealth of scientific knowledge about nutrition and the values of food, too many of us do not know what a balanced diet is and are ignorant of the essential nutrients we need and the foods that contain them.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that the percentage of households that met or exceeded the department's definition of a good diet dropped from 60 to 50 per cent from 1955 to 1965.

Nine per cent of families with incomes over $10,000 had diets rated poor. This takes some of the air out of certain politicians' contention that this is a nation of malnutrition, a contention intended to help balloon welfare programs.

The Department of Agriculture points to one of the chief culprits of poor diets as "snacking." Also, over the decade there has been a decrease in the use of milk, milk products, vegetables and fruits. This decrease has been by choice, not necessity.

The blame for declining nutritional standards lies at least partly, also, with food faddism and "changing life styles." Many people today seem to follow "fashions" in eating just as they do in dress and manner of speaking. The "in thing" is to work certain phrases to death, wear ties of a certain width or skirts of a certain length or drop a basic food item from the diet in order to get on the bandwagon with no questions asked.

The trouble is, speech and clothing styles can change with no harm done. Arbitrary tampering with diet, however, can leave lasting harmful effects.

Normal people need a balanced diet — foods that through deliberate self-denial they are not now getting.

Apparently our sophisticated civilization needs to be taught how to eat properly.

Quick Trade Creed Is Replaced

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Many an old Boston fortune has been preserved over the decades by researching a fundamentally strong company, investing in it, and then putting the securities away in a vault.

There lay the certificates untouched, radiating dividends over the years, reproducing themselves through stock splits from time to time, thus keeping the family and its bankers and lawyers fed and content.

In recent years, however, that philosophy came into disrepute. In many instances bad securities were vaulted away with the good, and so the returns often were found to be less than they would have been with an occasional dusting.

In the past 20 years especially, the performance craze spread through the market, enveloping the portfolios not only of individual investors but of trusts, pensions, mutual funds and other institutions. In-out trading was the fad.

Now performance seems to have had its day. As anyone who casually follows the market knows, many of the institutional and private investors who amassed fortunes by turning over the portfolios 100 per cent in a year are broke. And they went broke blindly following the quick trade creed.

And so we have a reiteration of that old Boston philosophy by the Boston Consulting Group, which is a management consulting organization within the multimillion Boston Corp., which is a descendant of Boston Safe Deposit and Trust.

Says Bruce Henderson, BCG president, "The stock trader can rarely win. The long-term investor can." No equivocation, no asterisks, no broad exceptions. But the reasons have changed some over the years.

"Tax laws and inflation combine against the trader. He loses too much capital in taxes," he says. "Investing becomes a house game in which the odds are stacked against him as they are at the race track or the casino."

Each time the trader sells at a profit he pays a tax, to say nothing of a broker's fee. But the long-term investor not only pays taxes at a lower rate but he pays only once instead of two or three times over the same time span.

If securities are traded rather than held, says Henderson, the income tax removes capital that otherwise should be compounding.

The combination of taxes and inflation, he states, sometimes cancels out what appear at the time to be General John J. Pershing will observe his seventy-second birthday tomorrow.

The Greenville tobacco market opened its second week of sales today and from all indications there will be decidedly more tobacco offered here than last week. Farmers have been handicapped recently by cotton picking and farm operations and were not able to market their crop as rapidly as usual during the first week of sales, but now the bulk of the work is over and the tobacco market should return to normal.

Excellence Awards For Two On ECU's Faculty

Two members of the East Carolina University faculty have received $500 awards for teaching excellence.

The award recipients are Professor Alvin A. Fahrner of the Department of History and Instructor Louise Ashton Levey of the School of Education's special education faculty.

The awards, given by the ECU Alumni Association, are named for outstanding alumni Robert and Lina Worthington Mays of Greensboro and Robert L. Jones of Raleigh.

The two recipients were chosen from among ECU's more than 600 faculty members by the Provost's Ad Hoc Committee on the Evaluation of Teaching Effectiveness.

Dr. Fahrner, a member of the ECU history faculty since 1960, holds degrees from Hampden-Sydney College and UNC-Chapel Hill. He is a specialist in Southern U. S. history and has a number of publications in the field.

In 1968, he was granted leave to be consultant for the Coastal Plains Regional Commission's manpower education study. Dr. Fahrner was cited in Outstanding Educators of America last year.

Mrs. Levey, currently on leave of absence to complete doctoral study at the University of Virginia, was awarded the annual Gilbert-McNairy Scholarship by Delta Kappa

Homecoming Set Sunday

Boyd Memorial Church will hold its annual homecoming Sunday at 11 a.m. Dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. The service will have various Presbyterian officials as guests.

The church is located on the Falkland Highway, and Russell R. Davis is the minister.

Boyd Memorial Church was established February 13 through the merger of the former West Greenville Presbyterian and Boyd Memorial Churches.

New windows and air conditioning have been added to the church's sanctuary this year. The kitchen has also been remodeled.

Proposed additions include carpeting and draperies in the fellowship hall. Friends and former visitors of the church are welcome to attend the services.

Nixon Leads Student Poll

RALEIGH (AP) — A poll shows students at North Carolina State University prefer President Nixon to Democrat George McGovern by a wide margin.

The poll by the Student Affairs Research Division was released Monday, and it also showed the students heavily favor Democrat Nick Galifianakis in the U.S. Senate race over Jesse Helms, but give Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles only a thin edge over Republican Jim Holshouser in the race for governor.

The poll gave these results: For President: Nixon 63.2 per cent; McGovern 24.8 per cent; other 0.6 per cent; not certain 11.4 per cent.

For U.S. Senate: Galifianakis 64.4 per cent; Helms 18.9 per cent; other 0.2 per cent; not certain 24.7 per cent.

For governor: Bowles 37.5 per cent; Holshouser 36.9 per cent; other 0.9 per cent; not certain 24.7 per cent.

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for the Democratic party try again today to file allegations that former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans played a key role in the bugging and burglarizing of Democratic National Committee offices last June.

The charges are contained in an amended complaint to the civil invasion-of-privacy suit filed by the Democratic National Committee and Lawrence F. O'Brien, its former chairman.

But when attorneys tried to file the complaint Monday, the clerk refused to accept it because it was not accompanied by a motion asking U.S. Dist. Court Judge Charles Richey's permission to amend the original filing.

The new complaint alleges that Stans, now finance chairman of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, and Hugh Sloan, former committee treasurer, gave $114,000 in unreported Republican campaign funds last April 11, to G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House and GOP campaign aide, to finance the activities of the men charged with breaking into the Democratic party offices.

The complaint named Liddy, E. Howard Hunt Jr., formerly employed as a consultant by the White House, and James W. McCord, former security chief for the presidential campaign committee, as "commanding personnel" of what it called the "political espionage squad."

Clark MacGregor, President Nixon's campaign chairman, said the charges against Stans and Sloan would be "grossly libelous" if made outside a court complaint. He said he has directed attorneys to file civil suit against O'Brien and the Democrats for "malicious prosecution and abuse of process."

"The allegations are false and Mr. O'Brien and his friends are well aware they all are false," said MacGregor.

Navajos 'Sing' Troubles Away

NEW YORK (UPI)—Navajo Indian medicine men and their traditional methods of psychiatric care are making a comeback. Traditionally trained Navajo "singers" work on the belief that illness is a result of disharmony with the universe, according to a report in the latest issue of The Sciences, published by the New York Academy of Sciences.

The report, "Medical School for Medicine," describes how they bring about the restoration of harmony through the proper ceremony or sing. All members of the patient's family must take part in a sing. The duration depends on the intensity of the illness. In a very serious illness the sing or ritual chant may go on for five to seven days, involving from 50 to 100 hours of singing.

Stans called the accusations "a scurrilous pack of lies."

MacGregor called on Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential candidate, to disclose who on the Republican campaign payroll has fed information to the Democrats.

MacGregor referred to news reports that information in the amended complaint giving details of the alleged bugging of Democratic party telephones had come from a participant in the activities.

In addition to adding Stans, Sloan, Liddy and Hunt as defendants, the new complaint asked for $3 million in damages instead of the $1 million requested earlier.

The complaint named the Committee for the Re-Election of the President and its finance committee as defendants. They had been named in the original suit before a judge granted a motion to drop them as defendants.

In the early-morning hours of June 17, police arrested five men including McCord, inside the Democratic National Committee offices. The Democrats charge Liddy and Hunt also were there but got out before police closed in.

New Panama Assembly Calls For Canal Control

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's new electoral assembly called Monday for a treaty with the United States restoring Panamanian sovereignty over the Canal Zone and recommended that the government demonstrate opposition to the U.S. control of the canal by rejecting the $1.93 million annual rent.

The Assembly of Community Representatives has no legislative powers, but its action was an expression of popular will designed to strengthen the government's hand in negotiation of a new treaty with the United States to replace the 1903 Canal Pact.

The U.S. State Department had no immediate comment. The 1903 treaty gave the United States perpetual sovereignty and jurisdiction over the 647-square-mile zone. Talks have been going on since June 1971 on a new treaty, but they have been suspended until after the U.S. presidential election.

Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, the National Guard chief who came to power four years ago, has made recovering jurisdiction over the zone his major objective. The United States says it is prepared to negotiate the transfer of control over certain services in the zone, but will continue maintaining military forces in the vicinity. The United States also seeks an option either to expand the existing canal or to build a sea-level canal elsewhere in Panama.

The 505-member assembly was chosen Aug. 6 in the first elections since Torrijos took over. It met to elect a new president and vice president and to approve a constitution sponsored by Torrijos. The presidency will be largely a ceremonial post with Torrijos retaining control of the government.

The resolution about the Canal zone said rejection of the rent would let "the entire world know that this strip of Panamanian land known as the Panama Canal Zone has not been purchased, or conquered, or annexed, or ceded, or rented, or its sovereignty been transferred by the Republic of Panama to the United States, but that it has been occupied arbitrarily as the result of a unilateral application and interpretation of the 1903 treaty which is annoying to national dignity."

Impose Embargo On Bird Imports

RALEIGH (AP) — Because the dread exotic Newcastle disease is raging in some parts of the country, state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham Monday slapped a ban on the importation of poultry or other birds into North Carolina for shows or exhibits. The ban is effective today and will last through Nov. 1.

This will make it necessary that the State Fair and other fairs in the state this fall show only North Carolina grown birds.

Graham said it would be "disastrous to our poultry economy if it (Newcastle disease) gained a foothold here," Graham said.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Assyrian Dictionary, in its 50th year of preparation at the University of Chicago, will not rock the literary world with its 1,250 copies when it is completed by 1980. The editors of the 21-volume effort say that's okay. The dictionary is designed to assist linguists, historians, anthropologists and archeologists to reconstruct man's past. The language of the dictionary is one really out of fashion. It was last written in 100 A.D. The first 10 volumes of the dictionary published to date have been sold to museums, colleges, universities and individual scholars.

Audit Report Critical Of School Agency Spending

By VERN A GUIDRY JR.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A report the government hoped to keep secret says a program spending billions to upgrade education for the poor is supervised on the basis of "unrealistic estimates and inaccurate figures."

The audit agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare surveyed 11 selected school systems to determine if money under title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 actually gets to the poor and whether it illegally replaces funds state and local education agencies would have spent in the absence of the federal money.

A copy of the study, whose cover bears instructions not to release its contents to press or public even upon request, was obtained and released by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund.

A separate study released Monday by the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law concluded that the U.S. Office of Education has "neither the capability nor the desire" to enforce "comparability," the legal requirement that local per-pupil expenditures be equalized before federal money is spent.

As a consequence, the lawyers maintained, "millions of poor children throughout the country continue to be denied the compensatory benefits" of the program.

The audit agency said it found a breakdown in guidance and monitoring of comparability of expenditures at both the state and federal levels.

Poor communication resulted in local interpretation and reports "based on criteria ratios improperly calculated from unreliable estimates and inaccurate figures," read the report.

In many cases, the audit went on, state school agencies did not even make a cursory review of local district reports.

The audit was made public as the Nixon administration pushes to commit an additional $2.5 billion in this area, including $1.5 billion under Title I.

Some $7.8 billion has been spent under Title I in the last seven years and another $1.6 billion will be spent this year.

Comparability is determined by all five criteria, three involving pupil-staff ratios and the other two involving per-pupil expenditures.

Illustrating the problem, the audit agency cites Chicago, where it determined that 126 of the 225 Title I schools were noncomparable using all five criteria. A district, however, used only one criterion and found 42 noncomparable.

The audit agency's summary included data from New York, Chicago, Miami, Baltimore, San Diego, St. Louis, Louisville, Kansas City, Oakland City, Calif., Hartford, Conn., and Yba City, Calif.

The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights, examining federal comparabilities of 80 of the nation's largest school systems, found only Huntsville, Ala., with a perfect record.

It says the worst district studied was Cincinnati "where 93 per cent of its schools lack comparability on one or more counts."

Other cities and the percentage of noncomparability as determined by the lawyers were Los Angeles, 58 per cent; Denver, 41 per cent; Miami, 33 per cent; Chicago, 49 per cent; Indianapolis, 50 per cent; Philadelphia, 86 per cent; Houston, 85 per cent; New Orleans, 84 per cent; Detroit, 86 per cent; Newark, 89 per cent; and Virginia Beach, Va., 92 per cent.

Some of the 80 school districts studied by the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights, the number of schools determined to be in violation of Title I and the percentage of non-comparability:

Alabama — Birmingham, 25 of 68, 37 per cent; Huntsville none; Mobile County, 38 of 62, 61 per cent; Montgomery, 5 of 33, 15 per cent;

Georgia — Bibb, 11 of 28, 39 per cent; Chatham, 13 of 26, 50 per cent; Cobb, 2 of 6, 33 per cent; Dekalb, 19 of 31, 61 per cent; Fulton, 12 of 20, 60 per cent; Muscogee, 7 of 32, 22 per cent;

Louisiana — Calcasieu, 22 of 27, 81 per cent; Jefferson, 29 of 49, 59 per cent; New Orleans, 70 of 94, 84 per cent;

Mississippi — Jackson, 10 of 24, 42 per cent;

South Carolina — Charleston, 29 of 32, 91 per cent; Greenville, 37 of 51, 73 per cent;

Tennessee — Memphis, 51 of 59, 86 per cent; Shelby County, 3 of 25, 12 per cent.

Obstacle Is Now Lifted

RALEIGH (AP) — The last obstacle blocking a start on construction of the Falls of Neuse Dam project near Raleigh has been removed, says state Natural and Economic Resources Secretary Charles W. Bradshaw Jr.

Bradshaw said Monday this came when Acting Army Secretary Kenneth E. BeLieu signed an agreement with the state under which the state and government will share on a 50-50 basis the cost of recreational fish and wildlife developments on the reservoir.

He noted that Army also had signed a water supply contract with the City of Raleigh.

"We have cleared the final hurdle prior to a startup," Bradshaw said.

"I'm sure the Corps of Engineers will now begin to purchase land and take other necessary steps to get this project underway," he added.

Start of the 50,000-acre project had been delayed several months when the Army secretary refused to sign the first draft sent him by the state. A revised agreement was sent him and this was the one BeLieu signed.

Club Backs Added Levy

The Greenville Noon-Time Optimist Club has announced a stand on the proposed October 17 referendum to levy additional taxes for the purpose of creating capital improvement funds for the Greenville Recreation Department.

Gene Brown, president of the club, today announced the action, stating the endorsement was unanimous. In indicating the club's total support, Brown said he "feels it is in keeping with the club's motto, 'Friend of a Boy.'"

On October 17 Greenville voters will cast their decision on this matter in a special election. Votes will be "for" or "against" a proposal to levy an additional four cents per $100 valuation of property. The purpose of the additional tax is to build swimming pools and other major recreational facilities in Greenville over a period of several years.

Navy Reorganization Is Expected To Begin Soon

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Navy will probably soon implement a sweeping reorganization that will give the service one command staff for its forces on the sea, one for undersea forces and one for its air wing, the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot reports.

The consolidation, the newspaper said in its Tuesday edition, would drastically cut the number of staff functionaries, save the Navy money and provide for more efficient management.

The air and submarine commands would not be new but the surface force would. It would consist of cruiser-destroyer, amphibious and service forces.

Aircraft carriers are the only surface ships that would not come under the new surface force. These giant vessels will continue to operate under the naval air forces of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, the Virginian-Pilot said.

Sources said the reorganization, if approved, should be partially completed in the Pacific Fleet by next February and in the Atlantic Fleet by next summer. The Atlantic Fleet is headquartered here.

The newspaper said it had learned that Vice Adm. C. Edwin Bell, commander of the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force here, has been mentioned as a candidate for command of the proposed Atlantic surface force.

Resources of the new surface force would be great. In the Atlantic alone, the cruiser-destroyer force numbers 138 ships and more than 40,000 personnel. The Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force would add another 40 ships and some 12,000 persons.

The Atlantic Service Force would further swell the surface command with 51 ships and about 18,500 persons.

Curfew Lifted After Weekend

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A dusk-to-dawn curfew was lifted and state troopers were withdrawn after a peaceful evening Monday, following three nights of disturbances.

Mayor Joe Stargel lifted the curfew, imposed after the weekend of violence in which 120 persons were arrested, mostly for curfew violations. Most of those arrested were young blacks, police said.

Early Monday night, 30 state troopers called in to assist police during the weekend had been withdrawn and placed on standby status, police said.

The fire department said there were reports of "five or six" false alarms on the southside, but no fires were discovered.

Col. Ray Pope, director of the state Department of Public Safety, was reported to be conducting an investigation in the city.

The lifting of the curfew was a "safe decision" said Frank Maddox, regional coordinator for the U. S. Justice Department's Community Relations Service.

immediately known but discussions were continuing for creating a bi-racial community relations council and a rumor control center, the mayor said.

Stargel said he hoped a council could be set up with five blacks and five whites with the rumor control center manned by blacks.

Stargel said the community relations council was being formed as a result of meetings Sunday with about 100 members of a black coalition.

The violence began Friday night when a fight between a white youth and a black youth erupted at a southside high school football game and moved out into the streets. Eventually 200 persons were involved.

More than a dozen fire-bombing reports were investigated during the disturbances Sunday night and early Monday. In addition, a tire company and a warehouse were destroyed by fires believed to have been set by fire-bombs.

Hero Award For Fireman

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A New York City fireman who died trying to rescue children believed trapped in a burning tenement building was named Monday to receive a $3,000 heroism award from the Ward LaFrance Corp.

The award goes posthumously to Capt. John T. Dunne of Ladder Co. 175 in Brooklyn and will be presented to Dunne's widow.

The announcement of the first annual LaFrance heroism awards was made at the 99th annual meeting of the International Association of Fire Chiefs here.

A $1,000 award was announced for Fire Capt. David Darby of Oklahoma City for rescuing two boys who had fallen through thin ice at Candlewood Lake in Oklahoma.

Two $500 awards were announced. One goes posthumously to fireman Joseph P. Jenkins of Salisbury, N.C., and the other to two Fayetteville, N.Y., firemen—assistant chiefs David Volles and Roy McCarty.

Jenkins, a bachelor, lived for 28 days after being burned while trying to rescue a man on July 4, 1971. The man died in the fire, the only one who did not get out of the one-story house safely.

He noted that Army also had signed a water supply contract with the City of Raleigh.

"We have cleared the final hurdle prior to a startup," Bradshaw said.

"I'm sure the Corps of Engineers will now begin to purchase land and take other necessary steps to get this project underway," he added.

This exhibit, one of the major annual art affairs of the Southeastern U.S., is comprised of works from a representative cross section of artists selected through an annual competition.

The public is invited to attend the opening, which will last until 10:00 p.m. Friday.

Williams reported that some grades of primings, lugs and leaf brought 90 cents per pound yesterday.

Julian Bond In Williamston To Address Group

WILLIAMSTON — Georgia State Representative Julian Bond was in Williamston Monday morning for a brief time to give a talk on voter registration.

The young black legislator and lecturer arrived at the Williamston City Hall shortly after 11 o'clock. He is currently on a voter registration tour of several eastern North Carolina towns.

Mrs. Doris Wallace, a member of the Martin County Community Action program, said "about 80 to 100 people of all ages were on hand to hear Mr. Bond. The receptive audience heard him make two main points in his talk, for all the people to get out and register, and then to vote."

Dr. Gray . . .

 sang a hymn set to a modern arrangement.

Dr. Gray noted that several of the judges remarked privately on the intelligence and sincerity of the contestants. "Peter Lind Hayes, Mary Healey, Eileen Farrell, and several others made a number of comments on this," Dr. Gray said. "And though the girls were at all times immaculately dressed, they have a naturalness, a healthy beauty that has nothing to do with being a painted doll."

The Greenville judge revealed his vote for the top three was identical to the final results. "Miss Wisconsin, Miss America," he remarked, "has tremendous talent. It was incredible, the reaction of the audience to her singing in one of the preliminary talent events," he said. "They gave her a standing ovation."

Speaking about the incident of the unlaced ballet slipper that hampered Miss North Carolina, ECU's Miss Constance Anne Dorn, first place runner-up, Dr. Gray said: "I almost died for the poor kid, but she really came through it fine, a real job of professional recouping. She had to drop a couple of spectacular steps she would have made had the slipper not come untied, but she handled it beautifully."

The role of a pageant judge, Dr. Gray emphasized, is "exhilarating, but definitely hard work. My wife and son went with me. After midnight and at meal times were the only times I had a chance to be with them."

Despite the long hours, the constant round of activities, and having to drive back to Greenville in the week-end traffic on Sunday night, Dr. Gray admitted "it was an experience I wouldn't have missed for anything."

Annexation Is Taken To Court

GRIFTON — Residents of Forest Acres and Country Club Hills have gone to court over the annexation of the two subdivisions by the Town of Grifton. Residents of the two areas filed complaints with the Clerk of Superior Court in Greenville August 25 seeking to enjoin the town from annexing the subdivisions, asking that the annexation be declared unconstitutional and asking that the town be enjoined from issuing water and sewer improvement bonds okayed by a vote of Grifton residents December 11, 1971.

Forest Acres complainants whose names appear on the paper filed with the court include Jean H. Williams, Harold S. Rose and Rita Rose while Country Club Hills petitioners include Howard L. Parker, Kenneth Carter and Al Bremer. According to the two civil actions on file, residents of Grifton approved the issuance of $575,000 in bonds to finance sanitary sewer improvements and $125,000 in bonds to fund water facilities in December, 1971. The city then annexed the two subdivisions on July 27, 1972.

The complainants contend that their subdivisions were annexed to increase the tax base of Grifton in order to finance the water and sewer improvements and say they should not be taxed to help repay revenues raised through the sale of the bonds (which have not been sold; because they had no voice in the December voting.

Touching on the Vietnam War, Butz questioned, "What kind of world do you want — a world with bright prospects for lasting peace achieved through strength and cooperation ... or shakey proposals for one-sided disarmament and a headlong retreat from global responsibility."

The secretary said "From McGovern, about all we hear are proposals to beg-out, bug-out, or sell-out."
 He said, "Remember, it was not Richard Nixon who got us into Vietnam; it was Richard Nixon who stopped sending draftees to Vietnam and who has reduced our ground force in Vietnam... who reduced the cost of American lives from hundreds each week to near-zero... who offered the most generous of peace terms and whose spokesmen have travelled repeatedly to Hanoi, to Paris, to Peking and to Moscow to seek peace."
 "North Vietnam would love to see McGovern in the White House."

Butz asked "What kind of Government do you want to pay for — a government that helps people get things done ... or a Government which tells people engineer a hijack of the Democratic Party — but he can't see to hoodwink the American public.

"He's not consistent either. Last week he said that 'any laboring man who supports President Nixon ought to have his head examined' — but we all know how McGovern feels about someone who has his head examined."

Watching the McGovern camp, Butz said, "I hear the sniping and the maneuvering of his staff, the shifting of positions, the scolding and the frowning — and I remember that George McGovern was a school teacher one time. Can you imagine what it would be like to put your kids in one of McGovern's classes? Would Sargent Shriver — when he was President of the Chicago Board of Education — have hired George McGovern? After all — Shriver has admitted that McGovern wasn't his first choice for President."

Again he questioned, "what kind of future will you choose for North Carolina — one you will be proud of ... or one you'll regret? "It's your decision," he answered, but "I am confident you will make the right decision. With your help, we can trounce the living daylight out of the McGovern ticket and give Richard Nixon four more years in the White House."

"President Nixon needs a man like Jesse Helms in the Senate. He needs leaders who will get down to business, wrestle the tough problems facing this nation, and enact laws based on the fundamental principles you and President Nixon share."

"But most of all," the Secretary emphasized, "you need Jesse Helms in the Senate ... a man to speak for you and vote for you ... a real Senator for North Carolina."

"What kind of economy do you seek in which to earn your living — an economy where inflation is harnessed and where those who are able to work earn what they get ... or an economy where those who work feed those who sit and where all progress is eroded by reckless inflation?"

"What kind of agriculture do you want — an expanding agriculture with more income earned in the marketplace ... or a shrinking agriculture with income increasingly dependent upon a consumer-oriented Congress and accompanied by rigid mandatory controls?"

"What kind of a world do you want? You must decide," Butz emphasized.

"But with Richard Nixon and Jesse Helms — you will be building a world of lasting peace for North Carolina ... you can choose an economy where you can earn a good living, and a better living if you choose ... government will be your junior partner, playing a subordinate role, as your servant, at your side ... have an expanding, market-oriented, farmer-managed agriculture in which you can earn a better income."

Butz charged that McGovern's plan to give "families $1,000 per year whether they need it or not" would "guarantee unemployment. You won't get anyone to work."

Again he questioned, "what kind of future will you choose for North Carolina — one you will be proud of ... or one you'll regret?"

"It's your decision," he answered, but "I am confident you will make the right decision. With your help, we can trounce the living daylight out of the McGovern ticket and give Richard Nixon four more years in the White House."

"President Nixon needs a man like Jesse Helms in the Senate. He needs leaders who will get down to business, wrestle the tough problems facing this nation, and enact laws based on the fundamental principles you and President Nixon share."

submitted by Jack Wallace, local appraiser, for first acquisition figures in Southside was approved. Wallace and two other local appraisers offered proposals (not appraisals, it was emphasized) for approximately 180 acres of land in the N.C. R-134 Southside project area.

Executive Director Joe Laney reported that verbal approval to proceed with advertising for bids for the 78 units in the Newton Project has been received from the Greensboro office of HUD. Laney said that he hopes the bid advertising can start tomorrow.

Commissioners offered their approval of the addition of a death benefit clause to the employee retirement system that makes the Redevelopment Commission system comparable to the city and other public agencies. A motion was also approved adopting a hospital insurance benefit for employees under the retirement system.

Dream Power.

Every person that lives has some kind of dream. The day he doesn't, he's dead. The ability to imagine is one of the most precious powers we have.

Dreams change things. Some dreams may change your world. And some dreams may call for money.

U.S. Savings Bonds are the safe way to make sure some of your dreams come true. And, they're easy to buy. Your bank sells 'em. Or, you can probably buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Bonds build you a sizeable nest egg. While you build a dream. Bond power. That's real dream power.

Now E Bonds pay 4% interest when held to maturity of 30 years. 30 months after the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Strife Filled Olympics Come To An End

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MUNICH (AP) — Lord Killanin of Ireland took over today as the new president of the International Olympic Committee with a briefcase full of problems to be solved before the next Olympic Games in Montreal in 1976.

The Games of the XX Olympiad, bloodstained by murder and rocked by political strife, ended in Munich's Olympic Stadium Monday.

As the Olympic flame was extinguished and the Olympic flag came down, Avery Brundage stepped down too—after 20 years as IOC president.

Killanin and his committee now have to think about the Olympics of the future. One of their problems is the sheer growth of the games.

In the Munich Olympics about 8,000 athletes competed, attended by 2,000 coaches and team officials, and more than 4,000 journalists and photographers came from all parts of the world.

With the whole world watching on television, the games have become a platform on which political quarrels are aired and nationalist aims pursued.

For two weeks before the games began the black African countries fought to stop the Rhodesian team from competing.

In the end they succeeded.

That, the critics said, was the first big dent in the image of the Olympics, which had always striven to be free of political pressures.

Then, when the Olympics had been in progress for 10 days, the friendly atmosphere of Olympic village was shattered by the Arab guerrillas who broke in with submachine guns and held members of the Israeli team as hostages.

On that day 11 Israelis died—either murdered in their quarters in the village or shot down in the gun battle between the Arabs and German police at a nearby air base late in the evening.

Many believed the games would be abandoned. Some thought the Olympics might never start again.

But Brundage, speaking at a memorial service for the dead Israelis the next morning, announced the games "must go on."

With flags at half staff but the flame still burning in its cauldron in the stadium, the Olympics continued under a dark shadow.

When the shootings and the political wrangling had been left behind, the IOC stamped hard on athletes who were judged to have broken the Olympic code.

Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett, Americans who won the gold and silver medals, respectively, in the 400 meters, were banned from further Olympic competition for life because they turned their backs on the American flag during the medals ceremony.

All 11 members of the Pakistani field hockey squad were given a similar ban for failing to stand to attention for the West German national anthem. West Germany had upset Pakistan, the defending champions, 1-0, in the final.

Rick DeMont, 16-year-old American swimmer, was deprived of his gold medal in the 400 meters freestyle after failing a drugs test.

When it came down to the sports themselves the main talking point was the decline of the United States in the face of a growing challenge from the athletes of Europe.

Track and field events which Americans previously had dominated—the sprints, the pole vault and the discus throw—went this time to Eastern Europe.

The Americans even lost the basketball title—the sport they gave to the world. Russia beat the United States 51-50 in a dramatic final with bitter overtones. The Americans filed a protest and refused to accept the silver medals.

The 1972 Olympics produced athletes whose names will be talked about for years to come.

Valery Borzov, the red-vested Russian, won both the 100 and 200 meters sprints—the first non-American ever to achieve the feat.

Renate Stecher, an East German housewife, scored a similar double in the women's sprints.

A new kind of fever has hit the country.

It began last summer with the introduction of IH's new line of farm tractors.

An interest and enthusiasm began to build that is unparalleled in our 50 years of producing FARMALL® tractors.

Olympics End On Happy Note

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MUNICH (AP) — The organizers planned it solemnly, but the athletes made the closing Olympic ceremony their own—joyously.

Olympians from Great Britain formed a human chain and snake danced their way into the stadium as if determined to end the Summer Games on a happy note instead of to the strains of tragedy that struck just a week ago.

Competitors from other countries mingled hand-in-hand, arm-in-arm, shoulder to shoulder in animated conversation and gestures of good will as flags of all nations wreathed the 80,000-seat Stadium, signaling international unity.

But one nation—Israel—was represented only by a placard. Eleven of its team died at the hands of Arab terrorists last Tuesday. The others returned home with their dead comrades.

One flag—that of Israel—flew at half staff as a memorial.

Avery Brundage strode to a platform and bade farewell to the XX Olympiad and 20 years as president of the International Olympic Committee. He left with one hand leaning heavily on the shoulder of an escort.

There was a moment of silence in memory of the dead Israelis.

The lights dimmed and the Olympic flame that had burned for 17 days flickered, then was extinguished.

Appalachian Gets First SC Challenge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Appalachian State's Mountaineers make their official Southern Conference football debut at home Saturday night against The Citadel's Bulldogs, and the two teams could wind up in either an aerial battle or an all-out defensive struggle.

It was figured The Citadel would go to the air with All-Southern quarterback Harry Lynch, the league's total offense leader as a sophomore last year, back in action. But Appalachian State wasn't expected to be that much of an air-minded team.

"We're going to run first and throw second," said Appalachian coach Jim Brakefield before the season opened.

Brakefield added, however, "we think we're going to throw the football better. We've got the same basic people we had last year."

Lynch threw 21 times last Saturday as The Citadel dropped a 13-0 decision to Clemson and completed just eight passes for 110 yards. His experienced corps of receivers dropped several.

Appalachian didn't exactly go crazy in the air—but the only score in the Mountaineers' 7-6 victory over Western Kentucky came on a 78-yard bomb from Steve Loflin to Jrich Agle.

The Bulldogs, who led the league in total offense a year ago, gained only 201 yards in their loss. Appalachian had only 159 in winning.

Despite giving up 279 yards, Appalachian made the big play when it had to. Three Western Kentucky passes were intercepted, two by sophomore defensive back Jim McKenzie. Lynch didn't throw an interception, but the Bulldogs lost two fumbles against Clemson.

The game will be the first of four straight against conference foes for Appalachian, which must count its game at non-member South Carolina as a fifth league scrap to be eligible for the title.

After reviewing films Monday of the Clemson defeat, the Bulldogs got a scouting report on Appalachian and held a brief session on offensive and defensive play recognition. Coach Red Parker said much work this week will be done on the over-all kicking game.

Saturday's only other conference encounter has Davidson at Virginia Military. Richmond goes to West Virginia, William and Mary to Navy, Furman is host to Presbyterian at night and East Carolina is at home at night against Southern Illinois.

East Carolina's Pirates held a light workout Monday and learned senior offensive tackle Terry Cumberworth will be out at least a month with a knee injury received in the 30-3 victory over VMI. Defensive tackle John Williams will miss the Southern Illinois game because of a dislocated thumb that required surgery.

Montgomery Is Defensive Star

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—For the second straight year, Davidson linebacker Woody Montgomery has used a strong performance in the Wildcats' opening game against Wake Forest to win Southern Conference defensive football player of the week honors.

The 202-pound senior from Asheville, N. C., was honored today for his play—which included 11 individual tackles and 13 assists—as the Wildcats lost Saturday night to heavily favored Wake Forest 26-20.

Montgomery also deflected two passes, handled kickoff and extra point duties and called defensive signals for the Wildcats. He had a standout game in last year's season opener against Wake Forest and was named defensive player of the week at that time.

"Woody played great football against Wake Forest," said Davidson coach Dave Fagg. "If he isn't an All-Southern Conference player, there never has been one."

Larry McKenzie, a 190-pound sophomore defensive back for Appalachian State, was runner-up. McKenzie intercepted two passes that stopped Western Kentucky drives in Appalachian State's 7-6 victory.

Named offensive player of the week was William and Mary sophomore running back Doug Gerhart, who gained 119 yards on 14 carries and scored twice in the Indians' 31-7 romp over Furman. One of his touchdowns came on a 47-yard run.

The offensive runner-up was wide receiver Walt Walker of Davidson, who caught six passes for 119 yards, one a 50-yard scoring play.

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

GAMES OF WEEK ENDING SEPT. 17, 1972

By DICK DUNKEL

TOP TEAM - Alabama leads teams playing to date with a scoring margin of 22.0 over opposition index of 87.9 for the best total rating of 109.9.

ACCURACY - The higher rating teams won in 80.4 percent of the 108 games covered last week.

Whacky Eastern Race Continues Southern Cal Moves To Top Of AP's Grid Poll

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball is going through its annual September Song and as the days dwindle down to a precious few, the chase for the American League East pennant gets whackier and whackier.

Front-running Boston, for example, had its lead trimmed to one-half game by losing to Cleveland 6-5 Monday night on a sacrifice fly that turned into a double play. And Baltimore closed the gap with a 3-2 victory over Milwaukee, thanks to a friendly foul pole that turned a potential home run into a long strike.

Cleveland's winning run against the Red Sox came on a sacrifice fly that outfielder Ben Oglivie dropped and then cleverly turned into a double play. The DP erased what would have been an error for the rookie outfielder, but the fly ball got home the run that beat Boston.

Meanwhile, Baltimore used Boog Powell's first home run in more than three weeks to trip

Milwaukee. But the Birds had a ninth inning scare as pinch hitter Joe Lahoud crashed a two-out shot into the right field bleachers barely foul. A few feet the other way, and the Orioles would have been on the short end of the score.

The other AL East contenders splashed through 5½ innings before the rain took over and the Yankees beat the Tigers 4-2. The victory moved New York into third place, 1½ games behind Boston. Detroit slipped to fourth, two games off the Red Sox' pace.

In the AL West, Chicago moved to within two games of Oakland by beating Kansas City 2-1 while the A's were losing a doubleheader to Minnesota, 2-1 and 3-2. Texas and California weren't scheduled.

Only three National League games were played Monday night. The New York Mets trimmed Philadelphia and Steve Carlton, 4-2. Montreal shut out St. Louis 4-0 and Houston topped Los Angeles 4-3.

The Red Sox flexed their muscles with home runs by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith, Carlton Fisk and even relief pitcher Bill Lee while Jack Brohamer and Tom McCraw connected for the Indians.

The score was 5-5 in the sixth following Lee's homer when the Indians scored the deciding run. Cleveland loaded the bases on Buddy Bell's single, a hit batsman, a sacrifice and an intentional walk. Then Roy Foster fled to Oglivie.

The rookie dropped the ball but recovered in time to force Jack Heidemann at third and when Foster passed another runner on the base-paths, he also was declared out. But Bell scored on the play and the damage had been done.

Baltimore did its offensive damage on Powell's three-run homer in the fourth inning. It was No. 18 this season but his first since Aug. 21.

There is absolutely no truth to the report that Manager Ralph Houk was seen doing a rain dance in the New York dugout as the Yankees waited out a one-hour, 43-minute delay with the lead secure and the game official. Finally, the umpires decided to call it, giving Steve Kline his 18th victory.

Consecutive fourth inning homers by Bobby Murcer and Felipe Alou gave New York the lead for keeps. Murcer's homer was his 28th of the year and one of three hits in the game for the Yankee center fielder. Alou's shot was the 200th of his major league career.

In the AL West, Chicago chopped 1½ games off Oakland's edge by nipping Kansas City while the A's were losing a pair to Minnesota.

Dick Allen's 34th home run—a White Sox' record—accounted for all the Chicago runs and Tom Bradley allowed just three hits for the victory.

Allen, the AL's leader in homers, runs batted in (104) and second in batting average (.316), connected in the first inning and Bradley protected the slim edge into the ninth. When Steve Hovely tagged a KC homer in the ninth, Terry Foster came on to get the final out.

Rich Reese's ninth inning double drove home the deciding run in the opener for Minnesota after Oakland had tied the score on a two-out homer by Sal Bando in the top of the ninth.

Danny Thompson singled in the bottom of the ninth and then raced homer on Reese's two-base hit.

In the nightcap, Reese drove in the winning run again, this time drawing a bases-loaded walk with two out in the eighth inning. Bert Blyleven earned the victory with a six-hitter. Ironically, Reese was a defensive replacement in both games.

Reliever Rollie Fingers was tagged with both losses for the A's.

In the NL, the Mets frustrated Carlton's bid for a 24th victory, beating the Phillie ace with catcher Duffy Dyer pacing the offense. Dyer drove in three runs with a homer, triple and ground out.

Mike Jorgensen also drove in three runs for Montreal as the Expos blanked St. Louis on Bolor Moore's five-hitter and moved into a tie with the Cards for fourth place in the East Division.

Jimmy Wynn hit a triple to drive in a run and homered for another run for Houston. The ninth-inning homer was his 22nd of the season. Don Wilson, 12-8, was the Astro winner with relief help from Jerry Reuss.

Southern California has replaced Nebraska as the nation's top-ranked college football team.

The Trojans shot all the way from eighth place to the top following an impressive 31-10 rout of Arkansas while Nebraska's two-time national champions skidded down to 10th.

Southern Cal received 13 first-place votes and 779 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and won a close race with Colorado and Ohio State.

Colorado, also runner-up in the preseason poll, received 12 first-place ballots and 769 points following a 20-10 triumph over California. Ohio State, which doesn't open its season until Saturday, got five No. 1 votes and 710 points.

were idle. Penn State, with one first-place vote, slipped to sixth, followed by Tennessee, which thrashed Georgia Tech 34-3 and also earned one first-place ballot.

UCLA, Nebraska's surprise conqueror, took down four top votes and was ranked eighth after failing to crack the preseason Top Twenty. Louisiana State rose from 11th to ninth and Nebraska rounded out the Top Ten and even got one first-place vote.

The other No. 1 ballot went to Washington, 13-6 winner over Pacific. The Huskies were 12th, behind Michigan. The rest of the Second Ten consisted of Arizona State, Notre Dame, Texas, Georgia, Arkansas, Purdue, Mississippi and Florida State.

OAKLAND (AP) — Bill Posedel will retire as Oakland Athletics pitching coach at the close of the 1972 baseball season, Oakland owner Charles O. Finley announced Sunday.

Finley said Wes Stock, now mound coach with the Milwaukee Brewers, will succeed Posedel next year under a two-year contract.

Maryland, Hoping For Winning Year, Improves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maryland, which hasn't had a winning football season in the last 10 years, is off to a good start in its effort to break the jinx.

True, the Terrapins didn't beat North Carolina State in their opener last Saturday, but they played a gutsy game in coming from behind to earn a 24-24 tie.

Maryland is home to North Carolina Saturday in the only Atlantic Coast Conference game this week. Scout Ron Melfi told North Carolina that Maryland is a very explosive team.

The North Carolina Tar Heels are the defending ACC champions, but they didn't look like champions in defeating Richmond of the Southern Conference, 28-18. The Spiders, down 21-0, outscored North Carolina in the second half.

Wake Forest will be without quarterback Kit Basler for several weeks. He fell on his shoulder when he was tackled on an option play in the 26-20 victory over Davidson, and underwent a shoulder operation Sunday. He had been sharing quarterback duties with Chuck Ramsey. The Deacons will be at Southern Methodist Saturday night.

N.C. State, which will be home to Syracuse in another night game, may make some personnel changes. Coach Lou Holtz said, "But right now we're sticking with the same players that went against Maryland. But we could have some second thoughts on the matter."

Duke Coach Mike McGee said he was pleased with the aggressive play of his defensive line in the 35-12 loss to Alabama. Duke gave a good account of itself before falling in the second half. The Blue Devils will continue their national tour by playing at Washington's Huskies.

McGuire Likes Watching Joyce

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — It was halftime of the South Carolina-Virginia football game, and Frank McGuire eased into a straight-back chair to watch the press room's color television set and the finals of the Olympic basketball.

McGuire, who has coached the South Carolina Gamecocks to four consecutive seasons of 20 basketball victories or more, wanted to get a glimpse of his captain for next season — senior Kevin Joyce.

It was an opportune time to watch the game. The United States was behind and Joyce had been sent into the game and he was sparking a comeback.

McGuire watched and he said, "That Joyce is something else. Watch him with us behind. He'll go. That boy has got the guts, there's no question about it. And, he goes better when the pressure is on and things look the worse."

Joyce reacted far away in Munich, Germany, as if McGuire was sitting on the bench there, rather than in that straight-back chair in a football stadium in South Carolina.

Joyce hit a jumper and then he made a lay-up.

"See," McGuire said, "he's tough. He's got the guts."

As the game progressed, with the United States inching back and Joyce providing the spark, McGuire said he was convinced the Olympics would help Joyce in the upcoming basketball season.

"He's learned a lot over there," McGuire said. "He matured. He has gained some valuable experience and this thing is going to put him farther along in his basketball."

Joyce missed a shot and McGuire said, "It's alright. He had a good shot. He should have taken it. Watch him play defense. He's all over."

Joyce committed a foul and the Russian made only one of two from the free throw line.

"That was smart," McGuire said, "trade a two-point basket for one point. That Joyce knew what he was doing."

The coach seemed more and more pleased as Joyce moved the ball sharply and quickly on offense and played tight defense.

McGuire turned and said, "Those Russians should be playing the Los Angeles Lakers. They're pros. They play together now nine years and we face them with a pickup team of young kids. Nothing fair about it."

McGuire shook his head and said, "Joyce told me the other day when he comes home, he is going to take a rest. It's about time. I been trying to get him to take a rest for the past three years. He just keeps working and working. The rest will do him good — if he takes it like he said."

The second half of the basketball game started and McGuire was left alone on his straight back chair watching those final seconds and then the final seconds replayed and non one heard what he had to say about the outcome and the Russian victory. And it was probably just as well, because it more than likely wouldn't have been printable.

Mackey Denies He's Retiring

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — John Mackey, voted the best tight end during the first 50 years of pro football, refuses to be a part-time player for the Baltimore Colts.

But the veteran of nine seasons in the National Football League denies a club statement that he has retired from the sport.

The Colts announced Mackey had retired Monday after reporting they had been unsuccessful in attempting to trade the 30-year-old tight end to any of the other 12 American Conference teams.

Mackey denied he had retired and also charged that the Colts had refused to place him on waivers or release him outright.

"If no one wants me," Mackey said, "I don't understand why they don't release me or put me on waivers. They have nothing to lose."

"I haven't retired," Mackey said. "I'm healthy, able and looking for a new team ... and new coach. If I'm not given an opportunity to play, it's like preventing me from earning a living."

Mackey, president of the National Football League Players Association, said his lawyers were checking into aspects of his case. He also reported that Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union, would talk with the league office today.

Mackey said he asked to be traded during the off-season, and then reiterated his request Monday after being told by Coach Don McCafferty that Tom Mitchell would start at tight end in next Sunday's NFL season opener.

"I asked them to put me on waivers if they couldn't make a deal," Mackey said, "but McCafferty said he didn't want to put a player of my stature on waivers."

"I don't know why not," Mackey said sarcastically, "when I'm only a second-stringer and no one wants me."

Under NFL rules, trades at this time of year are only possible within the two conferences. But if Mackey were to be placed on waivers or released, he could be picked up by a team in the National Conference.

Mackey was not the only player to express his opinion about his coach. Veteran fullback Tom Woodeshick, cut by the Philadelphia Eagles, said he was "extremely bitter" at coach Ed Khayat.

Woodeshick said the Eagles are "completely demoralized" under Khayat. "The military discipline of Khayat is completely contrary to lifestyles of the Eagles. They haven't been able to accept the mandate of short hair and wing-tipped shoes."

The Eagles also cut another veteran fullback Jim Nance, the leading ground gainer in the old AFL with the Boston Patriots, along with defensive end Don Brumm and linebacker Will Foster.

Other NFL clubs also got down to the 40-player limit for the opening of the regular season Sunday. Today is the deadline to reach the limit.

Dallas reached the limit by putting five on no-recall waivers, linebacker Lee Roy Caffey, guard Brian Goodman, running back Harvey Phillips and wide receivers Charles McKee and Robert West.

Atlanta cut punter Billy Lottridge, one of the original Falcons, along with quarterback Leo Hart, tackle Steve Okoniewski and running back Bill Holland.

Linebacker Steve Kiner of Washington, linebacker Ralph Heck of the New York Giants, wide receiver John Spills of Green Bay and defensive back Dennis Pete of Cincinnati were among other players cut.

The Worry Clinic Mental Illness Widely Known

Dr. Hanke represents thousands of dedicated voluntary citizens in the National Mental Health Association. This newspaper is a pioneer in this same field via this "Worry Clinic." And topnotch clergymen also apply psychiatry on a group scale, as per Dr. Fosdick!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-586: Dr. O. A. Hanke recently invited me to give several talks under sponsorship of the Ogle County Mental Health Association.

Four counties in northern Illinois joined in this splendid venture and the Dixon TELEGRAPH helped sponsor the all-day program.

Like hundreds of other progressive newspapers, the TELEGRAPH has been offering this "Worry Clinic" to its wide readership to help reduce mental problems.

A recent Harris Poll showed that 54 per cent of the public said they personally wished more information about mental illness.

"Dr. Crane," my host began, "at 10:30 in the morning we'd like to have you meet with the staff at our Mental Health Center."

"There will probably be 35 to 40 at this session."

"Then we have you scheduled for a large public audience at 2 p.m."

"And at 6:30, we want you for our banquet crowd of 300 members of our Mental Health Association."

This type of all-day clinic deserves special recognition and praise.

"For mental illness," says President I. H. Chase, of the National Association, "is our Number One health problem in America."

Be grateful to this splendid National Association for Mental Health, since it is a nationwide VOLUNTARY citizens' organization.

When I launched this "Worry Clinic" a generation ago, it was to help spotlight this same acute problem.

For the recent Harris Report showed that one out of every four had somebody in their family or friends who had a nervous breakdown or other types of mental illness.

While teaching psychology at George Washington University in our national capital, I became alarmed at the zooming rate of mental illness.

So I started this "Worry Clinic" as the quickest way to help teen-agers overcome abnormal phobias, excessive timidity, persecution complexes and other psychological dilemmas.

And to assist their parents in avoiding divorce, sexual maladjustments, parent-child feuding, venereal disease and myriad additional social problems.

For the newspapers are America's most widely read (and thus most influential) family testbook.

They do on a nationwide scale what the late Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick said a good clergyman should do locally, namely, vaccinate people against mental illness of all sorts and especially social dilemmas. "Preaching," thus warned Dr. Fosdick, "is merely counseling on a group scale."

When I launched this "Worry Clinic," a number of excellent medical columns were then running in various newspapers. But almost without exception, they focused on organic disease and surgical operations for appendicitis, gall bladder, etc.

But they ignored this vast field of psychosomatic medical ailments and mental health problems.

Karl Menninger has stated, moreover, that psychiatry is not a special group of men with an M.D. degree, but is a "method." As such it should be cultivated by all intelligent people!

For we shall never be able to afford one psychiatrist for every child, as many thoughtless dogooders seem to advocate.

So send for my booklet "How to Avoid Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Poland, a relative newcomer to international bridge competition, put on a very impressive performance during the 1972 Olympiad recently held in Miami Beach. Although they failed to qualify for the finals, their overall showing indicated that the Poles are a force to be reckoned with in future competition.

In today's hand, taken from their match against the Republic of China, Poland picked up a substantial swing. The bidding is presented at the table where the players from Formosa held the North-South cards. North's bid of two spades is the so-called "weak two bid," which designates a holding of less than regulation opening bid strength including a six card suit. South chose to gamble out a game bid in hearts in the hope of hitting his partner with some side strength in clubs.

It may be observed that against anything but a club lead, declarer is assured of 10 tricks—one spade, six hearts, and three clubs. The Poles, however, subjected South to a deadly defensive exhibition.

West opened the six of clubs, the three was played from dummy and East ruffed with the deuce of hearts. The latter now dar-

McGovern Staff Troubles Grow Offer Brochure On School Sale

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—When political campaign organizations are functioning smoothly, they don't show. And Sen. George McGovern's has been showing.

His has been a troubled command post since shortly after he won the nomination. McGovern himself once reprimanded his staff, and announced that he had done so, because an unidentified aide asserted that campaign Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien would be only a figurehead with no real responsibilities.

They're saying how clumsy we are." In the days of his uphill climb through the presidential primaries to the nomination, McGovern's organization did perform brilliantly. It also performed quietly.

Remind Britain Multilingual

LONDON (UPI)—English is only one of five languages spoken in the British Isles as a native tongue. Welsh is spoken by a quarter of the people in Wales. About 81,000 persons in Scotland speak a Scottish form of Gaelic, while some families in Northern Ireland speak Irish Gaelic.

Beer Barrels Roll In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Beer trucks can now roll along Michigan highways on Sunday. Until the law was repealed in July, no beer could be transported on Sunday, even though selling and drinking beer was legal on the Sabbath.

knowledgeed there is tension within the organization, and sensitivity on the part of early McGovern men as Democratic politicians who earlier had sided with other candidates move into the campaign.

"Here's How in Greenville City Schools" is the title of a brochure that has been published for general distribution to interested Greenville citizens.

In addition, the matter of budget-finance is included, with percentages of the budget source indicated.

NOTICE OF SALE
County of Pitt
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by DANFORD L. BAKER and wife, IRENE P. BAKER, to Mark W. Owens, Jr., Trustee, dated the 9th day of January, 1969, and recorded in Book F-38 at page 310, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County...

EDGAR LOESSIN
Fiddler On The Roof will be directed by Edgar R. Loessin, chairman of the Drama Department at ECU.

The schools' mission is stated to be "to educate each student commensurate with his individual needs, interests, and abilities so that he can function in a productive manner satisfying to himself and society."

Objectives considered necessary to fulfill the mission include eight major points — "each student will experience continuing progress and find learning satisfying;" "...will develop an acceptable degree of communication and computational skills;" "expand his appreciation for both the practical and fine arts;" "demonstrate scientific literacy and skills, and use reasoning in decision making;" "attain an acceptable level of physical competencies;" "show respect and concern for others and accept the responsibilities of citizenship;" "find a realistic and positive self-image, demonstrate emotional stability, and use his time effectively;" and finally, "each student will successfully enter the world of work or continue formal education upon terminating his public school experience."

After enumerating these hoped-for goals, the brochure provides a brief general history of the Greenville City Schools, including the make up of the school board.

One section deals with means of community involvement; lists the schools in the city, and touches briefly on curriculum, services to exceptional children, a few words on the professional staff and auxiliary services — such as food services, pupil transportation and the maintenance program.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is good for you to make up your mind and the aims that mean the most to you. Afternoon and evening you are able to put such a course into active expression as well as let others know just what you do have in mind and to get their assistance quickly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to duties early so you can make new acquaintances later, look into new outlets, etc. Investigate new sources of information so you can extend your present views. Don't argue with mate in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can complete those talks with an associate early in the day so later you can delve right into the work necessary to further mutual aims. Try to be more understanding with mate. Be ahead of the game.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get all those duties handled most efficiently now if you really apply yourself. Get at them early and then you can join the world of action for good purposes. Fix your wardrobe to please own tastes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan the recreation you want to have early. Then get right into important work with partners with enthusiasm. You can convince someone to do what you want in the morning, but others are not so amenable later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle that situation at home very carefully in a.m. Then you can work on creative activity with bigwigs and make big headway. Get into basic matters that are important. Evening is fine for amusements.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Appointments and shopping should be scheduled early so that later you can be with kin to have more harmony at home. You had better plan early what you will say in that vital conversation you want to have with another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have practical affairs to handle early so do not procrastinate any longer. Get routine work out of the way, too. Pay those important bills also. Don't forget shopping.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make that plan of action early so that you can then plow through it successfully and gain the benefits therefrom. Entertain those to whom you are obligated, and show appreciation for their relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Out to some place where you can concentrate and plan the future more intelligently; then you can set the wheels in motion with good pals. Listen to advice from experts and follow it. Avoid one who argues too much.

APRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know what your true aims are and who you want to see today, then carry through in a most positive fashion. Study that particular aim well before you take any action on it. Evening is fine for happiness with mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are under some pressure now that requires thought and right action immediately. Then get out to the activities that interest you most. A higher-up can give fine aid in a.m., provided you contact early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are highly inspired now on how to gain your fondest aspirations, but be sure to contact bigwig for his okay. A study of facts at hand can give you the knowledge you seek. Then you can expand as you wish.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those charming and logical young people who is forever making plans and carrying them through to gain what is most important. Upon reaching maturity your son or daughter will want to express self in a most ideal and articulate way, so it is vital for you to give the finest education you can afford. There can be fame in this chart, provided the ethical and spiritual training necessary is not neglected.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

For some folks, it's time for a new car the minute the cigarette lighter stops working.
For others, it takes something a little more drastic.

When you reach the point of breaking with your car, or when your car just breaks itself, talk to your dealer about PNB financing on a new car. Or come talk directly to us. Nobody's easier to talk to about money than we are.
