Threatens Aid Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon vowed today he would cut off all U.S. economic and military aid to any country whose leaders protect "the merchants of death who traffic in heroin."

Selecting an international narcotics control conference to respond to Democratic nominee George McGovern's criticism of his war on drugs, Nixon said "very sharp recent increases" in heroin prices in the eastern United States "indicate that the supply is drying up and that the pressure is on the criminal drug trade."

"We are going to keep the heat on until these despicable profiteers in human misery are driven out of their hiding places and are put in prison where they belong," Nixon said in his prepared comments.

He asked the U.S. diplomats who coordinate overseas efforts to curb drug supplies to convey "this personal message for me: 'Any government whose leaders participate in or protect the activities of those who contribute to our drug problem should know that the President of the United States is required by statute to suspend all American economic and military assistance to such a regime. I shall not hesitate to comply fully and promptly with that statute.'"

Hiking Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today moved to sharply increase imports of fuel oil. Officials said the proclamation he signed will allow an additional 9,500 barrels to be imported daily through the rest of this year.

The proclamation signed by Nixon increased from 45,000 barrels per day to 50,000 barrels per day of importing No. 2 fuel oil and also said importers can bring in an extra 10 per cent during the last three months of this year. This would add up to 9,400 barrels per day.

No. 2 fuel oil is used extensively in New England and other northern states and Nixon's proclamation said the Office of Emergency Preparedness—OEP—had found that "changes in the supply ... and demand ... have been occurring rapidly and additional flexibility should be provided."

Towns Recaptured

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Uganda said today its air and ground units had recaptured three towns it claimed were seized by troops invading from Tanzania in a drive to halt the expulsion of Asians from the East African nation.

Ugandan military spokesmen said troops of neighboring Tanzania invaded Uganda Sunday.

Tanzania denied its forces were involved but suggested Ugandans opposed to the regime of President Idi Amin were fighting troops loyal to him in southwestern Uganda.

A Radio Uganda broadcast said President Amin had informed the charge d'affaires of Libya that Britain was behind the fighting, trying to bring former President Milton Obote back to power.

He said that in this way Britain hoped to bring a reversal of his order of last month to expel Asians holding British passports. The issue has stirred controversy in Britain where some quarters express concern about a heavy influx of non-whites.

The first group of 193 Asians reached England today.

Enclave Is Besieged

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — One man was killed while about 300 Protestants besieged the tiny Roman Catholic enclave in the port of Larne, 25 miles north of Belfast, in an orgy of bombing, shooting, burning and stoning Sunday.

The fighting was the latest evidence of snowballing Protestant militancy as they intensify their war against the Irish Republican Army. About 20,000 Protestants marched through Belfast Saturday in an unprecedented show of force.

A British soldier killed a gunman in Belfast, Sunday and along with the death in Larne, the Ulster death toll for three years of violence has risen to 651.

The trouble in Larne began with gasoline bomb attacks on a Protestant-owned store and a policeman's home. Many of the rioters were uniformed like the extremist Protestant Ulster Defense Association. Sinclair Johnston of Larne was killed in the shooting and he was later linked to an underground Protestant guerrilla unit.

Call For Replacement

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Association for Retarded Children wants the next governor to fire Dr. Lennox Baker as secretary of the Department of Human Resources.

The organization unanimously passed a resolution to that effect Saturday at its annual convention in Elizabeth City.

The resolution stated that Baker should be replaced by "an individual sympathetic to the needs of the developmentally disabled."

Jerre Annis, president of the association, said the reasons behind the action concern Baker's response to various association moves.

"We have tried on several occasions to discuss problems relating to the delivery of service to the North Carolina mentally retarded," Anis said, and on each occasion his actions have convinced us that he has a deep and continuing bias not only against the retarded but also against the overwhelming majority of developmentally disabled persons in our state.

Held In Beach Death

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — A 23-year-old Air Force sergeant has been charged with murder in connection with the weekend slaying of a North Carolina woman whose body was found at the edge of the beach in this coastal city.

Myrtle Beach police said 27-year-old Rosemary Cameron Wray of Greensboro was found dead with multiple stab wounds about 10 p. m. Saturday.

Sgt. Donnie Lemons, 23, who has been stationed at the Myrtle Beach Air Force Base since May, was arrested in his apartment at 5:25 a. m. Sunday and charged with murder.

Announce Loss Of Three Jets

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the loss of three jets during raids over North Vietnam and said four of the six crewmen were missing.

U.S. Navy destroyers, fighter-bombers and helicopter gun-ships stepped up their attacks on supplies being unloaded by Chinese freighters off the coast of North Vietnam in efforts to circumvent the U.S. blockade of the ports of Dong Hoi and Vinh.

The U.S. Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine tactical fighter-bombers carried out more than 330 strikes across North Vietnam Sunday. The closest raid to Hanoi reported by the command was 42 miles north of the capital.

In Da Nang, terrorists riding motorbikes tossed hand grenades into two coffee shops and a street intersection Sunday night, killing two children, a civilian and a policeman. Fourteen others were wounded.

An Air Force F105 was hit by a surface-to-air missile Sunday and crashed into the Tonkin Gulf near Dao Cat Ba island east of Haiphong and the two crewmen were listed as missing.

The two crewmen of an Air Force Phantom, after completing a mission over North Vietnam, had to bail out Sunday when a malfunction caused a fire in the cockpit, spokesmen said. They were rescued 65 miles northwest of Da Nang.

The third air loss occurred Sept. 12 but was not announced until today because search-and-rescue operations were under way. The U.S. Command said it was an Air Force Phantom that was downed by a MIG 32 miles northeast of Haiphong. The two crewmen are listed as missing.

In a broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, Radio Hanoi said that in the past three days six U.S. planes, including a B52 bomber, were shot down over the North.

The broadcast said the B52 was downed Friday over Quang Binh province.

South Vietnamese forces, flushed by their victory in the Quang Tri Citadel, launched fresh sweeping operations through the northernmost provincial capital and fighting continued, although the government troops appeared to be in firm control of the city.

Debt Ceiling Plea Pushed

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration said today that Social Security payments would escape "budget cuts if a proposed spending ceiling is adopted, but it added that defense would not necessarily be shielded.

In testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, budget Director Caspar Weinberger said that although a spending ceiling would be governmentwide, it would be "academic" to suggest that President Nixon would cut back Social Security if it appeared the $250-billion limit would be exceeded.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, had the best idea for where any cuts should be made: "Everywhere."

In response to a question, Shultz said, "I would expect we could find a nickel or two in defense."

The discussion on the spending limit took place as the administration asked the committee to approve a $15-billion increase in the national debt limit to $465 billion through June 19, 1973.

Weinberger and Shultz declined to get specific on what programs might be trimmed if Congress should go along with Nixon's request to clamp a $250 billion lid on spending for the remainder of the current year.

The debt-ceiling hearings provide Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee another opportunity to rake over the economic policies of the Nixon administration. Democrats are trying to make these a prime election-year issue, asserting that Nixon has failed to control inflation or improve employment and that his policies favor business and the wealthy.

The Democratic Study Group, made up of liberal and moderate Democrats in the House, already has announced it will try to attach to the debt-ceiling bill provisions to close what it calls $6-billion loopholes favoring business and high-bracket individual taxpayers.

All 26 Polling Places To Open

J. B. Spilman Jr., chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections, announced that all 26 polling places in the county will be open on Sept. 30 as a convenience for persons wishing to register.

Spilman reported that the Board of Elections hopes the full day of registration opportunities at county precincts will encourage all eligible citizens to get their names on the books for the November election.

He noted that it is probably inconvenient for some people to get to the courthouse and the availability of county precincts should make it easier to register.

Power Costs Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of electricity was up 6 per cent for average residential users in 1970, and consumption of electricity was up 7 per cent, the Federal Power Commission reports.

The FPC Sunday said the national average monthly bill for 500 kilowatt-hours in 1970 for residential customers was $11.13, or 2.23 cents per kilowatt-hour.

The corresponding figures for 1969 were $10.51 for 500 hours in 1969, and 2.10 cents per kilowatt-hour.

It was previously forecast by the FPC that increased use of electric power would be accompanied by higher rates to consumers.

The study showed increases in all residential usage categories in 1970—for 100, 250, 400, 750 and 1,000 kilowatt-hour levels.

Average residential consumption was 6,367 kilowatt hours in 1970, up from 5,943 in 1969 and 45 per cent more than in 1965.

Commuting 560 Miles To Work So Family Can Live In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — In order to raise his family in Raleigh, Ed Nadeau commutes 560 miles to work.

Nadeau is first officer on an Eastern Air Line Whisper Jet that flies the New York to San Juan, Puerto Rico, run. The other two pilots in the crew are based in New York, but Nadeau wants no part of the big city.

"If you work out of New York as I do and have a family to raise, you don't want to raise them in that environment," he said. "Raleigh is about as good a place as you can find in the eastern seaboard to raise a family."

In order to live where he wants and have the airline run he wants, Nadeau must commute from Raleigh-Durham Airport to LaGuardia in New York and back again at the end of his flight.

As an example of his commuter's routine, Nadeau recently left Raleigh-Durham at 8:30 on a Sunday evening and arrived in LaGuardia after an hour and 15 minutes.

After spending the night in the apartment he keeps in New York, Nadeau takes off at 7:30 the next morning to fly a Whisper Jet to San Juan where he arrived at 11 a. m. At 12:30 the plane leaves San Juan and arrives back in New York at 4:05 p. m.

Nadeau takes the 8:15 p. m. plane out of New York and reaches Raleigh at 9:30, 25 hours after he left. After one day at work, Nadeau gets three days off.

Nadeau's commuting presents problems at times. For instance he must keep a sharp eye on weather conditions. If weather may force cancellation of a flight, he has to leave a day early.

One time he was called at midnight and told to report the following day. Since no flight was available and he was too tired to drive, he took the train.

Nadeau, who is a New Hampshire native, has been an EAL pilot since 1954. He lived in Miami 20 years before moving to Raleigh with his wife, Jacqueline, and children, Michelle, 6, and Michael, 5.

Overjoyed Fliers Released By Hanoi

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

HANOI (AP) — Three American pilots shot down during bomb raids over North Vietnam have been released from captivity at a ceremony organized by the North Vietnamese Army and attended by relatives and U.S. peace activists who had journeyed to Hanoi.

They are Navy Lt. Norris Charles, 27, whose wife Olga, had flown out from San Diego, Calif.; Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28, whose mother, Minnie Lee Gartley, came from Dune-din, Fla.; and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34, of Valdosta, Ga.

Overjoyed at their new freedom, the three fliers were neat-appearing in new civilian clothing provided them for Sunday's 40-minute ceremony, a unique affair in the annals of warfare. Each pilot made a statement into microphones before the official release, held before Vietnamese and European television cameramen in a building of the Peoples Army.

Olga Charles, 27, who had had her hair washed and set in a downtown Hanoi beauty shop in anticipation of the ceremony, fought through the throng of cameramen and technicians for an emotional embrace with her husband.

Minnie Lee Gartley joyfully put her arms around her Navy pilot son and said, "He's even better looking than I remembered." Mrs. Gartley for the past four years has actively picketed Congress and the White House for an end to the war.

Elias, who until Saturday had expected his wife or father to come to Hanoi, said in a statement before the microphones, "I have been told that for various reasons they could not make it, but I will be seeing them soon."

Elias' father, Barney, a housing consultant, said in Jacksonville, Ill., he, his wife and daughter-in-law had decided it was "not in the best interest of all the POWs" for them to make the trip. He also said peace activists Cora Weiss and Dave Dellinger, who arranged the release and were at the Hanoi ceremony, had assured the Elias family the major's release would not be jeopardized by their not attending.

Charles, Gartley and Elias were the first American prisoners released by Hanoi since 1969. The U.S. Defense Department prior to Sunday listed 539 Americans known to be captured and held prisoner in Southeast Asia and more than 1,000 missing.

Following the ceremony, there was a banquet at the Hoa Binh Hotel.

Joy, Relief, Impatience Among Relatives Who Had To Remain Behind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm going to kiss him and then buy Daddy some candy," a 3-year-old girl exulted at the news in Florida, an airman's wife in Georgia said she felt much improved and ready to travel. And a Maine man talked of plans for the first deer hunt with his son since 1967.

These and other reactions of joy, relief and impatience to see their loved ones came from relatives who "stayed behind" when North Vietnam released three American prisoners of war Sunday in Hanoi.

Gerald Gartley said he hasn't been together with his son, Navy Lt. Mark Gartley, since a hunting trip in the fall of 1967. "We got a deer then. We'll get one this year, too," said Gartley, who owns a hunting and fishing lodge near Greenville, Me.

Lieutenant Gartley was met by his mother when he was released along with Air Force Maj. Edward K. Elias and Navy Lt. Norris Charles.

Charles was reunited with his wife, but the wife of Elias is under treatment in Valdosta, Ga., for internal bleeding and was advised not to make the journey.

However, Mrs. Elias, 25, said, "This news has improved my condition" and she vowed to travel to meet her husband, despite feeling "very weak." She is already planning his first home-cooked meal of pork chops and carrot cake.

Three-year-old Kirsten Charles saw her father and mother on television while staying with Charles' parents in Tampa, Fla.

"I'm going to kiss him and then buy Daddy some candy," she squealed.

Elias, the only POW not met by a relative when the release took place, said he was "a little disappointed" but would see them soon.

His father Barney, a housing consultant in Jacksonville, Ill., said he, his wife and daughter-in-law decided "it was not in the best interest of all the POWs" for them to go to Hanoi.

"I haven't changed my mind about that," Elias said, "But now that he is free, I'll go wherever I can to meet him."

Charles' father, a retired railroad employe, said he and his wife were "just so happy he's released" they would travel "wherever he lands" to meet their son.

"We'll have a prayer first, give thanks to the Lord," added Mrs. Charles. "Then we'll have his favorite meal—probably a barbecue."

The release of the three prisoners was arranged by peace activists Cora Weiss and Dave Dellinger.

However, the elder Gartley gave much credit to his wife, Minnie Lee, who for four years has picketed Congress and the White House for an end to the war and freedom for her son.

"I think his mother has done more to help him than anyone with her antiwar activities," said Gartley. "And more power to her for it."

Purchasing More Screening Gear

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Transportation Department has announced it is purchasing 2,290 passenger-screening devices for security purposes at the nation's airports.

Total cost of the devices, which will be operated by the airlines, is put at $2.7 million. There will be 1,090 walk-through devices and 1,200 hand-held units for less busy airports.

The walk-through devices screen passengers as they pass through an electromagnetic field in a four-foot-long passageway. They are to be in place by January.

Farm Tips

Small bur growing — that's the North Carolina grape industry.

The state will have only 2,000 acres of muscadine vines this year. This may not be a large figure, but it represents a remarkable growth rate. In 1971, the state only had about 1,000 acres.

The second thousand acres was established this spring to meet what new and established growers have been told is a strong demand for grapes for making wine.

Another reason behind the expansion is the continuing need in rural areas for new sources of income.

"The long range outlook for the wine industry is encouraging," points out Joe F. Brooks, extension horticultural specialist at North Carolina State University.

Supplies have been so limited that very few grapes have been available for selling on the fresh market. "From the indications I've seen around some parts of the state, the fresh market would be a good outlet for a limited quantity of high quality grapes, provided proper merchandising and promotion were supplied," Brooks said.

Most of the commercial muscadines grown in North Carolina are processed by firms in Petersburg, Va., and New Brunswick, N. J. who have buying stations in North Carolina. Brooks pointed out that other wineries have expressed an interest in buying grapes, but supplies of the raw product have been too limited to support other markets.

Prices for these Tarheel-produced grapes have ranged up to $325 per ton and possibly higher.

Brooks figures maintaining and harvesting a mature vineyard costs about $400 to $600 per acre. Total cost of establishing a vineyard has ranged from $600 to $1,400 per acre. About three years is required after the vineyard is established for the grapes to come into production.

Muscadines are grown primarily in the eastern half of the state, and they can be grown successfully in the lower Piedmont. They produce best on fairly fertile well-drained soils. Sandy loam Coastal Plain soils and fertile clay loams of the lower Piedmont are desirable. They like the full sun and generally don't do well in partial shade. Muscadine grapes start growth in late spring. They are seldom damaged by late frosts. They are tolerant or resistant to most insect and disease troubles.

Strong one-year-old vines are preferred for planting. The land should be prepared well before planting and the vines set any time during the dormant winter season except during freezing weather. During the planting operation the roots should be protected from drying out by carrying the plants in a pail of water or keeping them wrapped in wet burlap. The holes in which the vines are planted should be large enough to spread the roots without crowding, usually one foot in diameter and one and one-half feet deep.

Muscadines should be cultivated at least until they are in full production. Good fertilization aids in producing vigorous plant growth. When the vineyard is in full production, a sod culture is satisfactory if the cover is occasionally mowed and left on the ground as a mulch.

Large Pitt Delegation At Annual Convention

ELIZABETH CITY — A large Pitt County delegation attended the N.C. Association for Retarded Children's 20th annual convention here this weekend. Robert L. Denny, executive director of the new Council on Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, told members how they can use the services of the Council.

William G. Ervin, vice president of the Southeast NARC and Kermit Harrington, NARC southeast representative, gave reports from the National ARC. President-Elect Brad Wiggins will be NARC's representative in national convention balloting.

Mrs. Ruth Sann presented the 1972 Christmas card program, noting the Carla Popin of Asheville won first place for designing this year's card. This contest is sponsored each year by the NARC and the Metropolitan Art Corporation. Cards were on display and order forms were available.

Dr. Ann Wolfe, deputy commission on Mental Retardation Services, presented Mental Health's Mandate for the Retarded. A panel discussion followed.

Miss Diane McLean, president of the N.C. Youth ARC told the group that the retarded want to decide for themselves whether they would like to participate in an "ice cream-lollipop party" or join in a baseball game. Most would like to get out of the kiddie stage when they reach 18 or so, she said.

Brad Wiggins reviewed programs and services for the retarded in North Carolina from 1960 through 1972, and showed slides of Danish schools which house and educate mentally retarded children.

Winnie and Mason Grigsby told about their group home, its requirements, its finances, and how they have developed a new family and life.

"What will happen to my child when I'm not here?" is still a paramount question in the minds of parents of retarded persons, Eugene Greer, NCARC director said as he gave the role of advocacy. Persons other than parents left to care for the retarded usually do a good job of providing the essentials, but often could do better with recreation and personal attention, he said.

The convention will be in High Point in 1973 and in Raleigh in 1974.

Coordinated By Jackson

The coordination of the McGovern-Shriver campaign field efforts in North Carolina's First Congressional District is being handled by George Jackson of Elizabeth City.

A February graduate of East Carolina University, Jackson is a radio and television information officer in the N.C. National Guard.

McGovern organizations are now active in Pasquotank, Pitt, Lenoir, Craven, Beaufort, Jones, and Chowan counties. Jackson says he expects the other First District counties to be fully organized by mid-to-late September. "Our primary activity at this time involves registering 20,000 voters in the district," he said, "but we feel that farm and tax issues are our real allies in this campaign."

Jackson said his wife, the former Blair Foreman of Elizabeth City, is responsible for his political involvement. "Before the convention I told her that if McGovern won I'd work for him, he said. "When he did, she called me on it."

Historical Soc. Inducts Officers

The induction of officers was featured at the first fall meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society Thursday night at the ECU Cafeteria following a buffet dinner.

John B. (Jack) Lewis, Jr. of Farmville is the new president, succeeding Wyatt Brown. Other officers include Donald R. Lennon, vice-president; Miss Marguerite Wiggins, recording secretary, Mrs. Helen Snyder, corresponding secretary; Conner Eagles, treasurer; Dr. Ralph Rives, program chairman; and Ira L. Baker, publicity.

Frank Wooten reported that all conditions for incorporating the society had been met and the 47 members present voted unanimously to apply to the Secretary of State for a charter of incorporation.

Dr. Rives announced that the society would sponsor a trip to historic Salem in October. He also expressed the hope that some of the meetings during the year might take place in Pitt County communities other than Greenville. Winterville and Farmville were mentioned as possible sites.

The next meeting will be held November 16, exact time and place to be announced later.

USAF Marking 25th Birthday

Twenty-five years ago today a new military service was founded in the United States. On September 18, 1947, the United States Air Force came into existence.

To mark the silver anniversary, this week is being observed as United States Air Force at local state and national level.

In Greenville, on Friday, Mayor S. Eugene West, in the presence of Greenville Air Force Recruiter M-Sgt. Purcell Hunt, Jr. and City Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath, signed a proclamation designating the week of September 18-25 as "U.S. Air Force Week in Greenville."

In signing the proclamation, Mayor West noted that the Air Force and its individuals, "in the performance of its duty, has become an indispensable part of our nation's defense effort.

"The members of the Air Force are distinguished by having voluntarily chosen to serve their country," the proclamation notes. "Among the ranks of these patriotic Americans, and deserving of special note, are a great many young men and women from the Greenville area."

In addition to M-Sgt. Hunt, the Greenville Air Force Recruiting Office is manned by another career enlisted man, M-Sgt. Levy Brock. Both men have served a number of years as professional members of the Air Force.

No Story Telling Time This Week

Miss Helen Parks, Children's Librarian for the Greenville City Libraries, has announced that story telling time will not be held this week.

The new autumn session of story telling sessions will begin on Wednesday, September 27. That date the sessions will be held for pre-school children, one at 11:00 a.m. and a second one at 2:00 p.m.

There will also be a 30 minute story

There will also be a 30 minute story telling period for pre-school children at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, September 28.

Miss Parks notes that at an early date, the full schedule of children's library activities, including the Saturday activities for elementary age school children, will be announced.

The crossing of two species to produce a third, hybrid form is known to occur in trout, suckers, minnows and sunfishes.

Watch this space for easy to understand information about no-fault insurance.

On June 30, Independent Insurance Agents of North Carolina recommended to the Governor's Automobile Study Commission a plan of no-fault automobile liability insurance.

The plan we recommended resulted from more than 3,000 man hours of study. During the course of our study, we learned a lot about no-fault insurance.

One of the things we learned is that most people really don't understand what this concept can and cannot do for the motorist.

During the next several weeks, Independent Insurance Agents are going to be trying to explain no-fault insurance in a series of advertisements in newspapers throughout North Carolina.

In addition, we'll tell you some of the things we told the Governor's Automobile Study Commission about no-fault in general and our plan in specific.

We're not trying to sell you on our plan, even though we think it's a good one. What we are trying to do is give you the benefit of what we have learned about no-fault insurance.

We're doing this because we're confident that when you have the right information, you'll be prepared to make the right decisions about no-fault insurance.

Language Out Of Character For Grandmother

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the teen-ager who cursed and used foul language, and told her 50-year-old mother to "get with it" when she expressed disapproval, reminded me of a similar incident.

About 10 years ago my granddaughter came home from her freshman year of college. When she came to visit me, she immediately used two obscene words which shocked me, but I tried not to show it.

I don't know where I got the courage, but in the very next sentence I used the same two obscene words! My granddaughter burst into laughter and said, "Granny, it is so out of character for you to talk that way. You're such a lady!"

I smiled and said, "It's also out of character for YOU to talk that way, Dear. You're a lady, too!"

She never used that kind of language in my presence again.

EIGHTY ONE AND STILL A LADY

DEAR ABBY: After trying without success for a long time to have a child, my husband and I had fertility examinations. We discovered that he was unable to father a child, so we agreed that I should have artificial insemination.

Abby, twins have always fascinated me, and if I could have a pair of twins my dream would come true!

Is there a donor somewhere who could guarantee me twins?

I asked my doctor about this and he said he thought I was asking for too much, and I should be satisfied with just one baby. Will you please see what you can do for us in this line? Thank you.

WANTS TWINS

DEAR WANTS: No one can guarantee you twins, with artificial insemination or otherwise. Only one mother in 11,000 (in the U.S.) is likely to produce twins. And since twins fascinate you, do get the book [just out] titled "The Curious World of Twins" by Vincent and Margaret Gaddis. It's the most fascinating collection of documented stories about twins ever published! And one of the most entertaining and informative books I've ever read.

DEAR ABBY: I agree, there is entirely too much food wasted in some restaurants because they serve much too large portions, and one can't carry home soup or leftover salad or relishes.

We are two senior citizens, and naturally our appetites aren't what they used to be, but we enjoy eating out in different places.

A full meal usually consists of soup, salad, vegetables, bread, butter, and by the time we get to the main course, we can't eat it because we are so filled up with the other things.

Lo and behold, we went to a restaurant the other evening, and we saw in bold print on the menu, "children's and senior citizens' portions at a reduced price."

I wish more restaurants would give us a break like that. It's not only cheaper, but there is no food wasted.

MOM: AGE 90 DAUGHTER: AGE 67

DEAR MOM: Maybe after this appears in print, they will I hope so. Our senior citizens need all the "breaks" they can get.

DEAR ABBY: Our family usually takes a winter vacation over the Christmas holidays, so we were talking about it when my father suggested that instead of going somewhere, we should use the money to give Mother a facelift!

Mom was very hurt and she broke into tears. I would like to say that I think my mother is very pretty and she doesn't look her age.

Do you think my father should be praised, or was my mother justified in feeling hurt? PUZZLED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Mom probably needs a facelift less than Dad needs a dressing down.

Many American Women Are Caught In The Old 'Sit And Wait' Routine

By PATRICIA McCORMACK HOMEFRONT, U.S.A. (UPI) —The housewives of America have nothing to do but sit and wait some days. Sit and wait for the appliance or furniture deliveryman. It happens with repairmen, too.

Order a bed or refrigerator or anything you can't tote home and ask when it's going to be delivered. Most often, you will be given a date—no more.

That means: all that day drop everything for the sit and wait ritual. It continues until the deliveryman makes his delivery.

You dare not leave the house—not to take the dog to the vet's if he turns sickly suddenly, not to pick up the kids at the music teacher's, not to go to the grocer's, not to keep your weekly hair appointment. Or go to a movie—or anything.

Right this minute, in fact, I'll bet thousands of housewives are sitting and waiting for deliverymen. And they are angry—just as angry as you and I have been while performing the waiting ritual.

Collectively, we're mystified as to why this great American technology that can invent picture phones, instrument landing systems for big jetliners, put men on the moon and do countless other marvelous things can't be a little more exact about deliveries of large merchandise.

It seems simple enough for an outsider such as myself to suggest a system that would seem, even to a first grader, to work. To wit:

—In theory, each truck surely has a route to follow each day with a pre-determined amount of merchandise. We know each truck must proceed from its starting place to point A, the place of the first delivery. Then we know it must spend so much time while the merchandise for A is delivered. After that, we know the truck must proceed to point B and another delivery—and on down the list of things to be delivered by that truck and crew that day.

—It seems that a store following such a system, as all must to avert disorder, could estimate within an hour or two the arrival at a particular address. If so, why not have the store call the housewife the night before and give her the estimated arrival time?

That way, she would not have to kill a day on the waiting game.

Waiting for repairmen can kill more than a day. Let's say you want something simple—like a new kitchen counter top. You start by asking the people who advertise odd carpentry jobs, "no job too small."

For many of these, you find, a simple new wooden top on a kitchen counter is "too small"—and never mind about truth in advertising. What goes with a counter job for these "no job too small" people usually is a new sink, new faucets and other extras. There seems to be a law you can't have a new counter top with an old sink and old faucets. The bill would be too low.

I am going through countertop trauma at the moment and it has been six weeks since the order for same was given. The man keeps calling and promising to come but emergencies come up. The last time he called he said he couldn't come because the new sink hadn't come in.

The sink is in now but the job isn't sailing along. This terribly complicated job—costing what I think is outrageous ($340 for a seven foot counter replacement and sink)—probably will be done next Friday. The man called the other night to say that this job, its cost defended by its complexity, probably can be

Sheltered Workshop Director Is Speaker

Howard Dawkins was guest speaker at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Executive director of the Sheltered Workshop, Dawkins told of the overall program of the workshop, its history, goals and resources. One of the Welcome Wagon Club's projects is sending one or two workshop members to summer camp.

Mrs. Harry Hastings, president, conducted the meeting and introduced the speaker. Mrs. John McConnell announced the formation of a couples bridge club. The fall league of bowling began Sept. 14 at Hillcrest Lanes for beginners only. The Gad-A-Bouts announced plans for a trip to a tobacco auction on Sept. 30. The Bienvenue Book Club will meet Monday, Sept. 26, with Mrs. Marty Parsons.

Mrs. Dell Taylor reminded members of the cultural and social functions in Greenville this month. The Volunteer Committee Chairman, Mrs. Phyllis Ertis, gave a report on individual volunteer needs in the area.

Guests for the meeting were: Mrs. Bill Schlandt; Mrs. Kenneth W. Field; Mrs. Jerry S. Brantley; Mrs. Phil W. White; Mrs. Joe Wilson; Mrs. Charles D. Shaw;

Mrs. Joseph D. Condra; Mrs. Harry Battersby; Mrs. Edward Campbell; Mrs. Charles R. Goodman; and Mrs. Daphne Richardson.

STUFFED SHRIMP
Clams go into the well-seared stuffing
2 pounds (24 large shrimp, shelled and deveined)
1 can (10½ ounces) minced clams
¼ cup instant minced onion
¼ cup water
8 tablespoons butter
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 teaspoon dried crushed basil

1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried crushed thyme
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
Red pepper to taste
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon paprika
Cut almost through shrimp to center to "butterfly." Drain clams, reserving clams and ¼ cup of the liquid. Mix onion with water; let stand 10 minutes to rehydrate. In a small skillet melt 4 tablespoons of the butter; add the rehydrated onion and saute 5 minutes. In a small mixing bowl mix together the onion, bread crumbs, clams and the reserved ¼ cup liquid, parsley, basil, ¼ teaspoon of the salt, thyme, garlic powder and red pepper. Place a heaping tablespoon of the mixture on each butterflied shrimp; arrange in a buttered baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches). Melt remaining 4 tablespoons butter; stir in lemon juice and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; pour over shrimp; sprinkle with paprika. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 350-degree oven until stuffing is firm and browned and shrimps are tender—25 to 35 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 portions.

Household Hints

Keep neckties from getting wrinkled when traveling by packing them between the pages of a magazine.

To remove a cracked or worn piece of asphalt or plastic floor tile, first warm it with a heated electric iron.

Cut hard-shelled squash with a hacksaw or meatsaw, instead of a knife. It's safer.

Kennedy Appearances Help Ted

One of the interesting developments in the badly lagging campaign of George McGovern has been the recent appearances of Ted Kennedy at his side.

The appeal that Sen. Kennedy still has been obvious as the throngs appearing at McGovern rallies became larger and more enthusiastic. Sadly, however, even Sen. McGovern must realize that the larger numbers of people are not there because of his magnetism, but because of the Kennedy mystique. That fact is so embarrassingly clear that one wonders why Sen. McGovern would want Sen.

Kennedy to appear with him and, indeed, why Kennedy would appear?

Well it is obvious that McGovern is willing to take the risk of being outshone by Kennedy because his campaign desperately needs the lift which Kennedy can provide. There is risk involved of having the man who could have been the party's nominee aboard, but it is a risk which McGovern must take if he ever expects to get his campaign going.

As for Sen. Kennedy, there is little to lose in making the appearances. He must know, as do most political observers, the Sen. McGovern's chances of winning the presidential election are slim indeed. However, if by some chance all the signs have been badly misread and McGovern should win, then McGovern would be forever indebted to his benefactor. On the other hand, in the event of a McGovern loss, Sen. Kennedy will be able to argue that he did all he could for a lost cause, as a good party man should.

It is our observation that so far Sen. Kennedy is getting all the mileage out of his appearances with McGovern. He comes across bright and articulate, alongside McGovern and, since he is not under the pressure that faces a candidate, he is learning the mood of the nation first hand.

If Sen. Kennedy has any thoughts of running for president in 1976, we can bet that he is learning from the McGovern mistakes. He will likely shy away from statements which may cast him as a radical to take advantage of the new moderate wave which has swept the country.

It is doubtful that the Kennedy appearances have helped McGovern very much, but we believe they have helped Sen. Kennedy a great deal. As the party's hope for 1976 he is gradually removed some of the tarnish from his image.

Clearer View Of Child Abuse

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The extent of child abuse and neglect in North Carolina is being drawn into focus by a new mandatory reporting law.

The picture is not a pretty one. It reveals that thousands of children are beaten, sometimes severely; left untended for long hours; and denied basic needs, such as adequate food and medical attention.

many children are actually in need of protection but who, for one reason or another, are not brought to the attention of the local department of social services." Mrs. Wells commented.

The law goes further than those in force in most states. "While almost every state has passed laws requiring mandatory reporting of child abuse cases, North Carolina is one of a few states which requires mandatory reporting of both neglect and abuse cases," she said.

Professionals are required to report all cases of suspected child abuse and neglect. Any citizen who has actual knowledge of such cases has the responsibility to report it to the local social services department of the police. The law provides immunity from civil or criminal liability for those who make complaints, provided they acted in good faith and without malicious intent.

Privilege Waiver Included
Waiver of husband-wife and physician-patient privileges is written into the law. "This provision is extremely important since child abuse and neglect often occurs within the privacy of the home, away from the questioning eyes of neighbors, friends and even relatives," Mrs. Wells said.

One parent may be aware of the other's abusive treatment of the children, but feel helpless to act, she explained. "Under the new law, the non-abusive parent is given an alternative to assure that the children will cease to be abused and the partner given help," she said.

Child abuse and to some extent, child neglect, are the end products of unleashed aggression, Mrs. Wells said.

"The acts of abuse and neglect are symptoms of the stress that forces people to react to the pressure upon them," she explained. "When stress is applied, each person reacts differently; some get drunk, some start a fight, some read a book, while others beat their wife, their dog, or their children."

Alcohol is involved in 25 to 35 per cent of child abuse and neglect cases, she said. Drugs as a precipitating cause is beginning to show up, she added.

Punishing the parent, or taking away the child, is no real solution though it may be necessary when their is danger of physical harm, she said.

The better course, she continued, is to mobilize community resources that make for more adequate parents and a healthy environment for children. Preservation of the family, if at all possible, should be the objective, she said.

BRYAN HAISLIP

A law does not stop the crime, nor does punishment prevent the abuser from abusing again, said Mrs. Jan Wells, child services supervisor for the state department of social services.

An effective reporting system, she said, can bring the cry for help to the ears of those with resources for remedial action. Unless the cry is heard, she added, nothing can be done to help. Too many times neighbors and relatives close their eyes to suspected cases of child mistreatment, hesitating to interfere in a family situation. The mandatory reporting law adopted by the 1971 legislature is designed to make them feel a legal responsibility as well as a moral obligation to speak out for the child's sake.

The effect of the law, in force one year last July 1, has been salutary, Mrs. Wells said.

Reports Up Sharply
During the year, 94 of the 100 counties made at least one report of alleged abuse or neglect to the central registry in the social services department. Reports numbered 6,875 and abuse or neglect was confirmed in 4,397 cases.

By way of contrast, during calendar 1970 under the previous voluntary reporting system, only 52 counties made reports. Of the 2,487 cases reported, 1,782 instances of abuse or neglect were confirmed.

For the year ended last July 1, there were 28 deaths of children reported resulting from abuse or neglect.

The dramatic surge in cases reported does not mean incidents of child maltreatment are rising to such an alarming degree. It does reflect a greater awareness of the problem, said Mrs. Wells, bringing to light cases formerly left in the shadows.

George Wallace Still A Factor

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK MONTGOMERY, Ala.

Reaching for the hands of workers at the gates of the glove factory in the sleepy town of Greenville, Winton (Red) Blount repeated the same message over and over. "I'm Red Blount," he said, "and I'm running for the U.S. Senate against George McGovern and his crowd."

Not a word about veteran Democratic Senator John Sparkman, who is Republican Blounts opponent in the first serious, partisan Senatorial contest this Deep South state has ever seen.

The form sheet says Blount vs. Sparkman, but the only conceivable way President Nixon's former Postmaster General can win is to run not against Sparkman, an Alabama institution, but against Presidential nominee McGovern. Compared to his standing here, McGovern's national campaign looks positively glorious.

Conversely, Sparkman, to keep maximum distance from McGovern, has declared complete independence from the national campaign and is playing footsie with Gov. George Wallace. Although he supported John F. Kennedy in 1960, the last year he ran for the Senate during a Presidential campaign, Sparkman is now saying that he has always campaigned in airtight separation from the national campaign. No matter how he is badgered, he refuses to say how he will vote for President on Nov. 7.

That is the inevitable impact of the Nixon "solid South" and the McGovern drag on Democratic Senate candidates here and in Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Virginia and other Southern states. The Democrats are ostracizing their party's Presidential nominee and the Republicans are trying to cash in on the President's Southern strategy and McGovern's terminal case of political leprosy.

But even with the ostracism of McGovern and Mr. Nixon's magnolia charms, Blount is finding Sparkman more formidable than some White House political strategists will admit.

Part of the reason can be found, ironically, right inside the White House itself. Thus, either through incredible bungling or to satisfy a suicidal White House impulse, Sparkman has in his possession a letter initialed "RNM" praising him for "a demonstration of courage and statesmanship" in supplying help on two critical issues in the Senate—the President's May 8 peace proposal and the Vietnam fund cut-off battle.

In Aug. 3 "Dear John" letter, Mr. Nixon, seeming to undercut his four-year struggle to elect a Republican Senate, wrote Sparkman, praising his responsible action in supporting the United States negotiating position.

The hard-driving Blount found out about the letter by chance from a prominent Democrat he is wooing away from Sparkman, and to whom Sparkman had sent the letter as evidence that, far from being on the President's hate list, he and Mr. Nixon are partners.

The encomium to Sparkman undoubtedly will be used by Blount as additional pressure to get Mr. Nixon down here before the election. But even if the President agrees, Blount still has to surmount the most dangerous problem of all—George Corkey Wallace, Wallace, out of political combat since his multiple wounds at the hands of an assassin last spring, seems itching to get back in next month.

Strength For Today

FREEDOM TO CRITICIZE

One of the finest things about our country is the fact that every public issue is required to pass through a period of vigorous discussion. The idea of having an opposition party always challenging the majority is one of the finest factors in modern democratic liberty. We should be thrilled everytime we read how those with whom we differ politically assail our position and attempt to demolish it. Out of such discussion will come a clearer perception of what the truth really is.

Communism calls its stooges together and hands them a slate of candidates and list of measures which a few men have decided are necessary and then there is a big shout and applause for what they call "the true democratic principles"—all of which, of course, is arrant nonsense.

But political debate sometimes degenerates into bitterness. When men stop discussing principles and begin assailing personalities, then the fat is in the fire for sure. No good ever comes out of bitterness. All liberty is guarded and preserved by continuous discussion. The spectacle of legislators shaking their fists at each other and threatening violence is unbecoming when it occurs, which fortunately this is very seldom. But angry and spirited protest against what a legislator thinks is a wrong policy or principle is wholesome and is destined to bring good results.

Liberty depends for its continuance upon discussion. By Earl Douglass

If You Look Back—

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer is a better recall machine than the human memory in some ways.

But it excels only in terms of pure quantity. No human mind could store and then deliver back on demand the millions of figures or letters or words that a computer can.

But when it comes to quality, the machine is hopelessly out-classed. Only the blood-fed heart and mind can recall the flavor of a memory or restore an emotional event with all the impact that it had originally.

HAL BOYLE

You've got a pretty good memory box in your own head if you can push a mental button and it will remember when:

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who pitched pennies at sidewalk cracks for keeps.

A man who skipped going to church on Sunday felt guilty about it all next week.

You weren't a real traveling salesman until you learned to call every pullman porter "George."

In summer you could tell a dude by his straw boater and two-tone shoes.

In a fair fight, there still was some tradition of sportsmanship. You were supposed to refrain from kicking an opponent when he was down — a rule later dropped by a generation which believes that it is only when a fellow is down that you can give him a proper kicking.

Anyone walking down the street of a small town after midnight would start a dozen dogs barking.

People pushed lawnmowers instead of taking a scenic ride across the lawn on them.

Sometimes it seemed that the only things the parlor of home were used for were wakes and later, the reading of the will.

A kid knew the coming Saturday afternoon movie serial would be a dinger if Eddie Polo or Pearl White was in it.

F. Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald were young, alive, in love and still living together, a romance to remember.

Producer Billy Rose, a former shorthand whiz, was earning a living on Broadway as a song lyricist, turning out such hits as "Me and My Shadow," "The Old Gang of Mine," and the one about some odd character who left Spearmint chewing gum on the bedpost overnight.

A man was as good as his word.

Those were the days remember.

The Living Room Season

WASHINGTON — The football season has officially begun, and in living rooms all over the nation friends are gathering to watch these exciting contests on TV.

There is a certain on-epmanship in football TV watching that has become part of the game.

If you are the host, it goes something like this.

Bradlee comes in and sits down. "What's wrong with your color?"

"It looks fine to me," you say.

"You have too much green. The players all look sick." Bradlee goes over and adjusts the color knobs.

"There," he said, "that's better."

Two minutes later Dalinsky arrives. "Why is the grass so red?" he asks.

"Because Bradlee said it was too green."

"How can grass be too green?" Dalinsky asks.

Bradlee replies, "The grass is too green when the players are too green."

"I'll fix it," Dalinsky says. He gets up and twists a dial. "It's fine now," you say, having missed the first seven plays.

Geyelin arrives and asks, "Do you still have that old TV?"

ART BUCHWALD

"It's not old," you protest. "I bought it two years ago."

"Where's your fine tuner?" Geyelin asks as he goes up to the set.

"It's the third button down."

Geyelin twists the fine tuner. The color comes in perfect, but he's lost the sound.

"Will you get the sound back?" Califano yells.

"If I get the sound back, everything will look yellow," Geyelin says.

"It wasn't yellow until you started fooling with it," you say. "Will you sit down so we can watch the game?"

Califano asks, "Do you have an aerial on the set?"

"Of course I've got an aerial on the set."

"Outdoors or indoors?"

"Outdoors, damnit. What kind of question is that?"

"You should be able to get Channel 7 better than that," Califano says. "Maybe there are leaves clogged in it."

"There are no leaves clogged in it," you say angrily. "I had perfect picture before you guys came in."

"Why don't we go to my house?" Dalinsky suggests. "I have no trouble getting Channel 7."

"I don't have any trouble either," you shout.

"Then why is Howard Cosell's face chartrreuse?" Geyelin asks.

Other Editors Say Should Specify

(Washington Daily News)

The North Carolina Ports authority serves two state ports, at Morehead City and at Wilmington.

For sometime now Carteret county people have been saying that the port at Morehead City is playing second fiddle to the one at Wilmington. They say that the Morehead City port has been treated unfairly.

About the only charge that has been made to date is that the State Ports authority favors Wilmington over Morehead City. It is so very easy to see how people get disturbed when they feel that they are not being treated right. But to make a blanket charge is far different from making specific charge.

Sometime ago a committee, if we understand correctly, looked into the blanket charge and found it without foundation. Governor Scott says that insofar as he knows and can find out there is no discrimination between the ports and that Morehead City is being treated fairly.

Now with a gubernatorial campaign underway, it seems to be the plan to take this matter directly into politics. That is a right of the Carteret County commissioners, if they so choose to do.

But regardless of how the charges are made, a detailed report that people all over North Carolina can read would suffice much better than mere open charges which have no supporting evidence.

It is true that sometimes shipping lines will prefer one port over the other. That is not a case of favoritism on the part of the state, but rather a business decision. Both ports are valuable assets of North Carolina, and the main objective of the state should be that of developing both ports to the fullest.

The fact now that the matter is definitely in the realm of politics in no manner should mean that there must be an actual taking of sides one way or the other. But the State Ports authority as a body should not be in politics directly now or at any future time in our state. This group is there to serve people and to promote port activities at both locations.

If however there is real evidence shown that any favoritism has been used, the exact details should be bared now.

Rivalry between ports can be wholesome, and that very measure of competition could serve to keep both groups alert and active. That is the way it should be.

Flood Relief Campaign Issue

By SARA FRITZ

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Nixon has widened his edge over George S. McGovern in Pennsylvania with a polished campaign to tell voters what the administration has done for flood victims.

Although the polls give Nixon a 17 per cent lead, the President was losing face among thousands of flood victims last month as Democratic Gov. Milton J. Shapp relentlessly criticized federal disaster aid.

Both Democrats and Republicans now agree the trend was reversed by public relations and a surprise presidential visit Sept. 9 to Wilkes-Barre—the state's hardest hit area during tropical storm Agnes.

McGovern toured Wilkes-Barre before Nixon, but ruled out any hard-line effort to exploit the issue. Instead, the McGovern staff began a low-keyed volunteer cleanup effort in the city.

Shapp, who fears Republicans will take the state legislature on Nixon's coattails, continues to criticize the federal flood relief effort. Aides said he has become a self-appointed McGovern warrior on the issue. They also conceded his impact was waning.

Bill Powell, a spokesman for the statewide Nixon campaign, said the flood relief publicity was helping the President's campaign "without a doubt," not only in Wilkes-Barre but across the state.

"Wilkes-Barre is a good Republican area and there were a lot of people up there who were getting very hostile toward the President," he said. "That has been turned around."

Powell insisted Nixon did not make flood relief a political issue. "Sen. McGovern tried to make it a political issue when he went to Wilkes-Barre," he said, "but there was nothing he could do for the people. His was purely political stop." McGovern's visit included chats with flood victims, a proposal for a national flood insurance fund and a demand that defense money be diverted to disaster areas. "It was not a razzle-dazzle trip," an aide said.

Nixon went to the town with a $4 million check for Wilkes College. The next day a White House kitchen crew served 2,000 hamburgers and hot dogs.

"It was a blatantly political visit," a McGovern strategist said. "In an area where there is 33 per cent unemployment because of the flood, free hot dogs are not a gesture that will fool anybody."

Nixon sent his personal representative, Frank Carlucci, to Wilkes-Barre in August after HUD Secretary George Romney's visit to the city ended in a shouting match with Shapp. Carlucci assembled a public relations staff to promote the federal program.

The McGovern staff opened a storefront in the heart of Wilkes-Barre's devastated downtown area with a sign reading: "McGovern Disaster Relief Center." One staff worker, Dan Wenhoff, is organizing student volunteers help clean up flood damaged homes.

Wenhoff said all of McGovern's 70 headquarters around the state will be used to collect clothing and furniture for Wilkes-Barre.

The active McGovern campaigning has been concentrated in the vote-heavy Democratic urban areas of the state—Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. Traveling with Sen. Edward Kennedy, McGovern attracted two of his biggest and most enthusiastic crowds in these cities last week.

Nixon has never been able to crack the cities in Pennsylvania, but many blue-collar, urban Democrats appear to be leaning his way this time.

always hazardous, but Wallace strongly hinted to us over lunch at the governor's mansion here that he will endorse the state ticket, and that means Sparkman. Not even a Nixon stumping tour for Blount—highly unlikely in any event—could match a Sparkman endorsement by the governor.

Accordingly, Blount's last resort (in addition to his own inexhaustible campaigning) is that black voters will give John Lafore, Senate nominee of Dr. John Cahsin's black-based National Democratic Party of Alabama, at least 100,000 votes.

But the critical factor is still Wallace, both here and in other Southern states. A word from him could blacken Mr. Nixon's vision of Republican Senate takeover, which is why all eyes down here are once again on George Wallace.

"His face is always chartruse," you reply. "That's what makes him such a good sportscaster." Bradlee gets up and starts fiddling with the dials. The picture goes to "black and white."

Everyone starts yelling at once.

Geyelin gets up and pushes another dial. The vertical is now moving 60 frames a minute.

Dalinsky gets up, stops the vertical, but now the players are elongated and look 12 feet high.

"This sure is a crazy set," Califano mutters as he tries to get the horizontal back.

"Everyone sit down," you scream. "The next person who touches the set leaves the house."

You get up and adjust the knobs exactly as they were before anyone arrived. It's a perfect picture. You sit back and suddenly you hear Frank Gifford's voice. "And that's the end of the exciting first half. Now stay tuned to a wonderful half-time show, right after this message."

Did You Ever Make THE RING TEST During That

Time-of-the-month?

Does your ring slip off your finger easily—or does it hopelessly get stuck below your knuckle during the days of the pre-menstrual and menstrual period? It may tell whether you are retaining fluid in the system—body-bloating fluid that often builds up due to over-tiredness, stress during the menstrual stages. Amazing new X-PEL "Water Pills"—a gentle diuretic—helps you lose as much as 5 pounds of this water-weight gain, and helps to relieve body-bloating puffiness when body water retention "swells" your waist, thighs, tummy, legs, arms. You Never Had It So Bad: Shriver

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sargent Shriver says his net worth is about $100,000—a figure that would make him appear the poorest of the four men seeking national office.

It puts the Democratic vice-presidential candidate out of the financial league of President Nixon, who reports a net worth of $765,118.

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew disclosed a net worth of $198,250. Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, reported in January that his assets totaled $271,600 more than his liabilities.

In answer to a newsman's question Sunday, Shriver replied: "My net worth is about $100,000." He did not elaborate. But since his wife, Eunice, is a member of one of America's wealthiest families, the Kennedys, it was apparent that Shriver was speaking only of his personal worth.

John Twohey, Shriver's deputy press secretary, said in Washington that a detailed statement of Shriver's financial situation is in preparation and

Dog's Name Was Too Prophetic

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — What's in a name? Well, it was a prophecy of doom for a dog named Gator Bait who was eaten by an alligator named Aloysius.

Gator Bait was the 5-month-old pet Dalmatian of the Roger Miller family, who live near Lake Floresta in this community north of Fort Lauderdale.

About a week ago, Gator Bait and Jeff Miller, 18, were walking near the lakeside when Jeff warned the dog to stop sniffing around near the water, which harbors a number of gators. But Gator Bait later sneaked back to the lake.

The last the family saw of their pet was "a yelp and a splash" and the gator known as Aloysius surfacing a few minutes later, chewing contentedly.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market steepened its slide today in continued sluggish turnover as many traders remained home in honor of the Yom Kippur Jewish holiday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was off 2.71 at 944.61. An hour earlier it was down only fractionally.

The New York Stock Exchange index at 11 a.m. was off 0.9 to 59.62, but the American Stock Exchange index was up 0.1 at 26.16.

Southern Co. was active on the Big Board, down 1/4 to 187 after a 279,900 share block traded at 183 1/2, off 3/4.

Imperial Oil, off 1/4 to 39 1/2, was top mover on the Amex.

Salvage While Still Smoldering

ASHBURN, Ga. (AP) — Salvage operations began in a gigantic peanut warehouse as firemen were still pouring water on a smoldering fire.

Plant manager Robert Davis said a fire which broke out Saturday and raged out of control for three hours caused an estimated $1 million damage to a Goldkist Peanut Plant warehouse. It contains 16 silos housing 4,000 tons of peanuts and is one of the largest in the world for peanut storage and processing.

No injuries were reported.

Hatchery Fish Found Better

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Biologists say hatchery-raised fish are better than ever, largely because of improved modern fish food.

"Fish produced in today's hatcheries are healthier, more vigorous, cost less and taste better than fish raised 15 or 20 years ago," an official of the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources said. "Much of this is directly related to improved fish food which long ago departed from the raw meats. Modern fish food has low moisture content, is highly concentrated and converts almost directly into fish flesh."

Obituaries

Allen FARMVILLE — Mr. William Glenwood Allen, 66, of Route 2, Farmville, died suddenly at his home Sunday night.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. from the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home, with the Rev. Ron Thompson and Elder A.P. Mewborn officiating. Interment will follow in the Allen family cemetery near Farmville.

Mr. Allen, a life long resident of the community, was a retired farmer. He was a member of Monk Memorial Methodist Church, The Red Men, and Woodmen of the World. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Marvin Baker of Williamston.

Campbell
Johnnie David Campbell, 74, died early this morning in the Craven County Hospital at New Bern.

A Pitt County native, he spent most of his life in the Simpson community and a retired merchant. He was the son of the late John and Ada Cox Campbell.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church, of which he was a member, by the Rev. Bill Twitty. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. James C. Potter of Lowlands, Mrs. E. E. Edward of New Bern, and Mrs. B. T. Jones of Grifton; two sons, Willie B. Campbell of Hampton, Va. and Collie C. Campbell of Goldsboro; 14 grandchildren; and 22 great grandchildren.

The family will receive visitors from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Norman Funeral Home here.

Zincone

RICHMOND, Va. — Mrs. Alice Purcell Zincone, 58, died Sunday in St. Luke Hospital here.

She was the mother of Louis H. Zincone, Jr. of Greenville. Funeral mass will be conducted at Our Lady of Lourds Catholic Church Tuesday at noon. Burial will be in Greenwood Memorial Gardens in Goochland County, Va.

Chooses Jail To Providing Bond

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Southern Christian Leadership Conference official Hosea Williams chose to stay in jail for the second straight night rather than pay $1,500 bond.

Williams was arrested Friday night on charges of battering a police officer and creating a turmoil as he was leading demonstrators at the Martin Luther King Sr. Nursing Center. The group was protesting what it termed deplorable working conditions at the center.

A spokesman at the city jail said the DeKalb County SCLC head, told Saturday he would be allowed to make bail, replied, "I think I'll just stay here for awhile."

Pledges Offer To Wm. Calley

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The law-and-order mayor of Macon, Ga. says if he is elected to Congress he will offer Lt. William Calley a job on his Washington staff.

Ronnie Thompson, a Republican, says if he wins the 8th District congressional race, "I'll put him on my staff in Washington, D.C. — if he so desires."

Calley is under house arrest in Ft. Benning, Ga., awaiting a decision on appeals on a court-martial conviction of murder in the 1968 My Lai incident. Thompson's law-and-order stand won him a landslide reelection last year as mayor of Macon.

"I don't know what his qualifications are," said Thompson of Calley, but added, "I would find a job for him."

Young Raleigh Man Is Held In Fatal Shooting

BOONE, N. C. (AP) — A young Raleigh man is being held in the Watauga County Jail on a charge of manslaughter as the result of a fracas in which one of two men charged with armed robbery earlier this summer was shot to death and the other critically wounded.

Sheriff's deputies said Bobby Pruitt, Jr. 21, one of seven Raleigh young people who said they were accosted by three men on Tater Hill just north of Boone Saturday night, was charged in the slaying of Walter Isenhour, 28. Isenhour was shot in the head.

Wounded in the stomach and still in critical condition early this morning at Watauga County Hospital at Boone is Charlie Ellison. Isenhour and Ellison were awaiting trial for an armed robbery that took place on the same hill in July.

Deputies said Pruitt told them that three men in a pickup truck harassed the Raleigh group on the hill where it had stopped to watch the sunset.

The three men badgered the group for money, according to the account given deputies by Pruitt and his companions.

The harassment continued when the Raleigh visitors tried to leave the hill, deputies said they were told, with the men in the truck pulling in front of the group's two cars as they made their way down a narrow road.

Pruitt told deputies he fired a warning shot after his group had been stopped a third time on the road and one of his companions had been robbed and assaulted. Deputies said Pruitt and his companions said Ellison began fighting with one of their group, Ward Williams.

A state investigator who asked that his name or his agency not be used said Pruitt told authorities he shot Isenhour because he feared Isenhour was returning to the truck to get a weapon.

'Fair Campaign' Pledge Signed

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles says he and his staff will campaign fairly during the general election race.

Bowles announced Saturday that he had signed a code prepared each year by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee of Washington.

"I will live by these rules discussing the issues and taking my program to the voters of the state," he said. "I have been doing that in North Carolina and I will continue to do that in this campaign."

He added, "We will insist that all of the people campaigning for us follow these same rules."

Cards' Van Galder Directs Upset Over Baltimore

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tim Van Galder has qualified for the National Football League's pension plan for players.

It could mean a lot larger pension than the one he'd have gotten if he had remained in the Army.

The 28-year-old rookie—by NFL rules—directed the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-3 upset of the Baltimore Colts Sunday as pro football began its 1972 season.

"Not only was this my first regular season start, it qualified me for the NFL pension," explained Van Galder, who upstaged one of the game's old pros, Johnny Unitas. He spent three years on St. Louis' taxi squad and two years in the Army before getting into a regular season game.

In Sunday's other games, the Miami Dolphins defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 20-10; the Atlanta Falcons bombed the Chicago Bears 37-21; the Green Bay Packers upset the Cleveland Browns 26-10; Cincinnati's Bengals clouted the New England Patriots 31-7; the Los Angeles Rams routed the New Orleans Saints 34-14.

The Detroit Lions whipped the New York Giants 30-16; the New York Jets jolted the Buffalo Bills 41-24; the Pittsburgh Steelers thumped the Oakland Raiders 34-28; the Dallas Cowboys thrashed the Philadelphia Eagles 28-6; the San Francisco 49ers beat the San Diego Chargers 34-3; and the Denver Broncos clipped the Houston Oilers 30-17.

Coach George Allen, who has never lost an opening game, sends his Washington Redskins to Minnesota tonight for a nationally televised game, winding up the first of 14 weekends of NFL action.

Van Galder's statistics from the Cardinal-Colt game weren't very impressive—10 of 15 passes for 110 yards. But he connected with a 71-yard toss to Jacky Smith in the third quarter on a play which led to Donny Anderson's four-yard game-winning touchdown run.

Baltimore's Unitas threw 36 times, completing 22 for 257 yards. It put Unitas' total passing figures for his 17 seasons as a pro over 22 miles.

"Mistakes, Mistakes," muttered Don McCafferty, the Colt coach. "We made mistakes and the Cardinals didn't."

Now for a quick look at the other games:

Dolphins 20, Chiefs 10: In the celebrated replay of the 1971 Christmas Day double-overtime game, Miami won again. The Dolphins had all of their points—a Bob Griese touchdown pass, a Larry Csonka run and two Garo Yepremian field goals—before the Chiefs could get on the scoreboard.

Falcons 37, Bears 21: getting a team record 31 points in the first half, Atlanta easily crushed Chicago with Bob Berry throwing a pair of touchdown strikes and running for a third Falcon tally. "I thought we were ready," said Chicago Coach Abe Gibron.

Packers 26, Browns 10: "You can't say field goal in Polish because they don't play football," said Polish-born Chester Marcol, who kicked four three-pointers to lead Green Bay past Cleveland. Rich McGeorge caught two touchdown passes to make things even sweeter for Dan Devine and the Packers.

three field goals. Steve Owens gained 114 yards rushing. What more can you say about a Detroit team that thrashed the New York Giants. Except that New York's Rocky Thompson got a touchdown on a 92-yard kickoff return.

Jets 41, Bills 24: "I know I could do better," said New York running back John Riggins. Riggins wasn't satisfied with his 125 yards and a touchdown in the Jets' triumph over Buffalo. Emerson Boozer scored three times for the Jets, one on a 12-yard throw from Joe Namath.

Steelers 34, Raiders 28: Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw ran for two touchdowns and passed 57 yards for a third to lead his team over Oakland. Daryle Lamonica, who came in for the Raiders in the fourth quarter when his team was down 27-7, threw two scoring strikes.

Cowboys 24, Eagles 6: Craig Morton threw twice for touchdowns in leading Dallas to its victory over Philadelphia. Backup quarterback Danny Reeves saw action late in the final quarter and later Sunday underwent surgery for a bone chip in his left knee.

49ers 34, Chargers 3: "The San Diego defense took Ted Kwalick away from us," said San Francisco quarterback John Brodie. So Brodie threw three touchdown passes to Gene Washington when he couldn't find tight end Kwalick, his favorite receiver.

Broncos 30, Oilers 17: Denver quarterback Steve Ramsey ran for one touchdown and passed for another. Houston's Dan Pastorini countered with scoring throws of 18 and 57 yards. But the Broncos got three field goals from Jim Turner and a 66-yard touchdown jaunt by Billy Van Heusen on a faked punt play to give John Ralston a successful debut as a pro coach. It spoiled Oiler Coach Bill Peterson's, however.

Indians Control Destinies In AL

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Remember the Cleveland Indians? Detroit, Baltimore and New York will—and Boston certainly does.

The Indians, it seems control the destiny of the American League East—and that means the Tigers, Orioles, Yankees and Red Sox.

Cleveland, wallowing in fifth place, 14 games off the frantic pace, closes out its less-than-successful season with two games against Detroit, followed by four apiece with Baltimore and New York.

But Boston was the bunch on hand Sunday and the Indians did a good bit of scalping as Gaylord Perry, with solid support from the rest of the tribe, scattered seven Red Sox hits en route to a 9-2 romp that nailed down his 21st victory of the baseball season.

That, coupled with Detroit's

6-2 victory over Milwaukee, shaved the Red Sox' lead over the Tigers to one tiny percentage point.

The Yankees, meanwhile, kept their hopes alive by nipping the Orioles 2-1, moving within 2½ games of the front-runners while keeping Baltimore 1½ back.

In the West Division, things loosened up a bit more as Oakland downed Texas 4-1 to open a five-game lead over second-place Chicago, which lost 3-1 to California. In the other American League game, Kansas City slugged Minnesota 10-6 in 10 innings.

Over in the National League, Philadelphia Nipped Montreal 3-2, the Chicago Cubs tripped the New York Mets 6-4, St. Louis slipped past Pittsburgh 5-4, Atlanta beat San Francisco 7-4, San Diego dumped Cincinnati 10-7 and Houston outlasted Los Angeles 15-11.

Perry was nicked for an unearned run in the first inning and Andy Kosco hit a pinch homer in the seventh for Boston. Frank Duffy, Buddy Bell and Chris Chambliss, meanwhile, were doing their thing for Cleveland.

Graig Nettles and Duffy slapped run-scoring doubles in the second inning. Bell hit his eighth homer in the third, then Duffy doubled to trigger a two-run fourth, one of the runs coming on a single by Chambliss. A hit batsman, singles by Alex Johnson and Chambliss and a sacrifice fly added two runs in the sixth.

Joe Coleman, treated to a big lead early, coasted home with a six-hitter against the Brewers.

Felipe Alou unloaded a two-run homer in the fourth inning, the only runs the Yanks needed to down the Orioles. And Sparky Lyle had what it took to preserve Fritz Peterson's 16th victory.

"We all knew how important this game was," Lyle said after equalling an American League record with his 34th save of the season, "but after Felipe smoked that one out of there I knew we were going to win."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter was in the catbird seat, breezing to his 20th victory by limiting the Rangers to just two hits while Gene Tenace drilled a pair of run-scoring doubles for the A's.

Andy Messersmith of the Angels shackled Chicago on three hits as the White Sox sputtered to their fourth loss in five games.

"I guess we've got our work cut out for us now," Manager Chuck Tanner sighed after watching shortstop Luis Alvarado commit two errors that gave California a pair of unearned runs. Wilbur Wood, failing in his third straight attempt to gain his 25th victory, wound up instead with his 14th loss.

Kansas City raced to a 6-0 lead, the Twins raced right back to tie it with three runs in the eighth and three more in the ninth, then the Royals struck for four runs in the 10th on Fred Patek's tie-breaking double, Joe Keough's two-run single and John Mayberry's sacrifice fly.

Postponed

A meeting of the Rose High Touchdown Club, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The Club will meet in the High School cafeteria to see a color film of the Rose-Fike High game. Parents and other Rose fans are invited to attend.

Wolfpack No Pushover

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Atlantic Coast Conference football coaches, when asked how they think their teams will do for the entire season, frequently say, "We just play 'em one at a time."

The next one for North Carolina State, not regarded in pre-season polls as likely to be trouble for other teams shooting for the conference championship, suddenly cannot be taken lightly.

The Wolfpack plays the University of North Carolina, which finds itself in first place in the conference with the league's only victory, 31-26, over Maryland last Saturday.

North Carolina State may have been considered lightly by North Carolina at one time, but that was before the Wolfpack smashed Syracuse, 43-20. Syracuse is supposed to have one of its best teams in the last five years.

Put that together with the 26 points the Tar Heels gave up to over Maryland, and you've got what promises to be a real slam-bang affair when North Carolina and the Wolfpack collide at Chapel Hill next Saturday afternoon.

About all North Carolina proved last Saturday was that its defense runs hot and cold and that it has found a quarterback — Nick Vidnovic.

Vidnovic, who ran for two touchdowns and passed for another, made an official 73-yard punt. The ball actually traveled 100 yards.

The trouble with North Carolina is its pass defense, and that may be the downfall of the Tar Heels if they don't sharpen up by next Saturday. Maryland got 221 yards in the air against North Carolina.

North Carolina State's freshman quarterback, Dave Buckley, completed 9 of 15 passes for 100 yards against Syracuse. And the Wolfpack's Willie Burden made four catches for 112 yards.

Two of Burden's receptions, 43 and 44 yards, set up touchdowns. Both were thrown by the Wolfpack's other Mr. Smooth at quarterback, Bruce Shaw.

North Carolina does have a hard hitting defense in stopping ground attacks, however, and that will hurt the Wolfpack, which lost three fumbles against Syracuse.

The North Carolina-Maryland game was the only conference contest Saturday.

In other games involving ACC teams, Washington struggled past Duke, 14-6; Virginia came from behind to beat Virginia Tech, 24-20; SMU clobbered Wake Forest, 56-10. Clemson did not play.

Romanian Wins Seattle Classic

SEATTLE (AP) — Ilie Nastase of Romania combined powerful service and impossible returns to defeat Tom Gorman of Seattle 6-4, 3-6, and 6-3 and win the Seattle International Tennis Classic.

The $10,000 Rainier Cup he won Sunday was a follow-up to his U.S. Open Tennis Championship victory earlier this month in Forest Hills, N.Y.

Ross Case and Geoff Masters of Australia won the doubles competition, defeating Jean Chanfeau and Wadenaro Godrella of France, 4-6, 7-6, 6-4.

In the singles finals, hometown favorite Gorman broke Nastase's service in the eighth game of the second set with some quick volleys and well-placed backhand smashes. Nastase glared at the linesman after a close call which gave Gorman the game.

But Nastase broke Gorman's service right away in the third set. His serves were overpowering as he played solidly for the victory.

Bob Hewitt of South Africa beat Jaime Fillol of Chile for third place, 6-3, 6-0.

Golf Tourney

In a recently conducted Captain's Choice Golf Tournament held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, a team of two men and two women came in first place with a low score of 66.

The top team was made up of Karl Faser, Mrs. Christine Simpson, Miss Mary Dale White and Pier Andresen.

Second place team, scoring 67, included players Walter Williams, Mrs. Della Dayton, Alex White and Bill Bruner.

In third place, with a score of 70 was another team of equally mixed men and women players. These were Mike Di Lanciano, Chris Andresen, Mrs. Joan Hooper and Mrs. Herb Carter.

Foyt And Pearson Will Join Forces

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
Two of auto racing's all-time favorites, the venerable A. J. Foyt and David Pearson, will join forces in Glenn Wood Mercury racers at Charlotte next month.

If Pearson's performance in a 500 mile stock car race at Dover, Del., Sunday proves the point, the two should be unbeatable.

Pearson, who like Foyt is 37 and in his 20th year of racing, brushed aside such things as 90 degree heat, high humidity and three other strong cars and raced to an easy victory in the Delaware 500—a crucial late-season event on the Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

The exhausted Pearson, as tired as he has ever been in his life, made the 500 circuits of the steeply-banked Dover Downs mile in 4 hours, 8 minutes, 57 seconds for a speed of 120.506 miles per hour. His Wood Brothers Mercury performed flawlessly.

Elsewhere, young Frenchman Francois Cevert won his first Canadian-American Challenge Cup road race, a last-lap come from behind thriller at Donnybrook race course near Brainerd, Minn.

Cevert, driving the same McLaren that Denis Hulme used last year, took the lead on the final lap as George Follmer's turbocharged Porsche stalled with victory in sight.

The 26-year-old Cevert collected about $15,000 in prize and accessory money, but more importantly his victory allowed Follmer to hold on to his lead in the Can-Am Championship standings as the McLarens of Hulme and Peter Revson failed for the second time in as many races.

In another development in the Donnybrook race, Mark Donohue made his return to action after recovering from a leg injury. It was a dismal return, as Donohue's Roger Penske Porsche crashed on the 43rd lap. Donohue was not injured.

Also during the weekend, Butch Hartman of North Zanesville, Ohio, placed sixth in a stock car race at Nashville, Tenn., Saturday and wound up with his second United States Auto Club stock car championship in a row.

Darrell Waltrip, driving a Ford, won the race, with Bobby Unser placing second in a Ford, Gordon Johncock third in a Chevrolet, Ramo Stott fourth in a Plymouth and Roger McCluskey fifth in a Plymouth. Waltrip's speed for the 250 miles was 109.929 m.p.h.

Pearson so dominated the Dover race that he finished three miles ahead of Richard Petty, whose Dodge lost two laps because of faulty pit stops. Stott, doing double duty during the weekend, finished third in a Ford. Fourth place went to James Hylton in a Mercury and fifth to Cecil Gordon, also in a Mercury.

Pearson collected $13,000, bringing his season's take in 15 races to more than $121,000.

Speedy Tailback

Out For Season

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) —

The University of Iowa football squad has lost the services of speedy tailback Craig Johnson for the remainder of the season.

Johnson suffered a shoulder separation in Saturday's 21-0 loss to Ohio State.

Team Physician, Dr. Harley Feldick, said Sunday that Johnson would have to undergo surgery Monday.

Johnson, a senior, rushed for only 14 yards before being injured.

Trevino Hangs On, And Wins St. Louis Prize

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino lost his putting touch but not his lead in hanging on to win $30,400 top money in the $150,000 Greater St. Louis Golf Classic Sunday.

The confident Texan, fulfilling a week-long promise, overcame Deane Beman's one-stroke edge early on the final 18 holes and prevailed with a 269, matching the year's best 72-hole total.

Trevino at the finish was a stroke ahead of Beman with a par 70 compared to the former British and U.S. Amateur champion's 72 for 270.

The victory, however, would have been a comfortable one had not the 32-year-old Trevino faltered in sweltering heat and bogeyed three holes on the back nine.

Bothered earlier in the week by the front nine on the 6,550-yard Norwood Hills Country Club course, Trevino set out with a vengeance Sunday and easily birdied the first two holes following immaculate iron shots.

The start provided him a one-up lead over Beman which swelled to three strokes when Beman bogeyed the fourth and sixth and became four with a birdie at the par five ninth.

The usually pressure-proof Trevino lost his edge beginning at the 11th, where a four iron went past the green and resulted in a bogey.

He missed an almost certain birdie by two-putting from three feet at the 14th, then missed short puts on the 15th and 16th for bogeys.

As he parred the final two holes, the 34-year-old Beman issued one final challenge with an iron shot 15 feet from the pin at the 18th but came up short in his try for a tying birdie.

Trevino's fourth tourney victory of the year, his 15th in a spectacular career, swelled his earnings to $199,168 for 1972.

Beman, who had sought his first 1971 triumph, picked up $17,100. Bob Goalby and Don Bies tied for third at 274 and earned $8,850 each.

Atlanta Hockey Team Wins Test

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (AP) — The Atlanta Flames, one of two new National Hockey League franchises this season, defeated the other newcomer, the New York Islanders, 4-1 in an exhibition contest Sunday.

It was the first pre-season outing for the two expansion teams.

The Worry Clinic Primary Goal: Fill The Seats

Russell's little church is letting 50 kiddies remain unchurched, while it quibbles over new pews and carpet. Yet half the present pews are unoccupied, so the pastor should tell his members about the 3rd movie owner below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-590: Russell Coffman is president of an adult Bible Class. "Dr. Crane," he asked, "we recently put a new roof on our village church at a cost of $6,000. "And we installed new carpet and have a very attractive altar. "But some of the plaster is peeling a bit, so it has been suggested that we remodel the entire sanctuary. "This would involve an outlay of almost $14,000 for new pews, new carpet, a new altar, ect. "You have spoken from our pulpit several times, so what is your opinion?"

Potato Theology

Many church congregations became enamoured of swanky decorations, even when their pews are half empty. They lose perspective and fail to show "horse sense."

They should pattern after the potato, whose main purpose is not to produce bouquets of purple-white flowers nor a luxurious vine that is 6-feet tall. No, indeed! The proper potato vine should focus on big tubers beneath the soil, with only an 18-inch vine above ground.

Same goes for many churches which stress the ornate and arty windows, pews and carpeting, yet produce very few conversions! On the usual Sunday morning, this little church is lucky to have 50 per cent of the pews occupied. So why waste money buying new pews? For people are not attracted to church because of pews, carpets or ornate altars! A smart dental wife recently wrote me about 3 men who bought a moving picture theater. Two of the partners immediately began to argue about re-decoration and couldn't decide whether to cover the seats with velvet or leather.

So they turned to the 3rd partner and asked his advice. He vetoed their ideas entirely. "Let's first cover those seats with the 'bottoms' of paying customers," he grunted.

This little church that Russell mentions has a dwindling Sunday School enrollment. There are at least 50 youngsters in the vicinity that should be attending every Sunday but don't.

Pastors with "horse sense" would follow the example of the dedicated clergyman of a suburban church near Chicago where our daughter Judy attends.

He bought an old school bus for $250 and began to bring in the non-churched youngsters.

Then he found it necessary to purchase another school bus. His church is thus brimful and overflowing with kiddies.

Children are far more effective decorations for every church than million dollar limestone sanctuaries and costly stained glass windows!

A reasonable amount of money is wise and proper for a church building.

But its basic purpose is not to be confused with mere "newness" of the pews, windows or wall decorations.

Claim No Facts Most Time On To Back Finding Desegregation

RALEIGH (AP) — The Attorney General's Office says Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier had no "findings of fact" to support his conclusion last spring that existing auto liability insurance rates were "inadequate."

In a brief filed with the North Carolina Court of Appeals, Associate Atty. Gen. Benjamin H. Baxter contends Lanier never had sufficient evidence before him to set rates.

Baxter said Lanier needed information on premiums earned by the industry in the state, the expenses it incurred and profits or losses resulting from underwriting private passenger auto liability insurance.

"Without such evidence," he contends, "it is impossible to determine whether the present rates are adequate or inadequate or what rates are reasonable and in the public interest."

Lanier approved a 7.4 per cent hike in liability rates last spring based on the industry's July 1, 1971 rate request. The attorney general appealed as part of a long-range effort to change the method of insurance rate-setting in North Carolina.

Lanier's order said he had found existing rates "inadequate."

"There are no findings of fact...that tend to support the ultimate finding that the present rates are inadequate," Baxter said.

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina school superintendents agree unanimously that desegregation takes more of their time than that of any other single issue.

And 61 per cent of the city school superintendents expressed the opinion in a survey made public Sunday that desegregation would not weaken the education of white students while only 41 per cent of the county superintendents felt this way.

However, an overwhelming majority of all the superintendents agreed that desegregation would not interfere with the education of black students.

The survey grew out of a doctoral dissertation by Dr. Jerry Paschal of Fayetteville State University, former superintendent of Goldsboro city schools and former president of the North Carolina Education Association.

Assisting Paschal was Dr. Robert Pittolo, an associate professor at Duke University. They polled 86.9 per cent of the state's school superintendents in a questionnaire survey.

The surveyers concluded that the typical North Carolina school superintendent is likely to be a former athletic coach, a Democrat, married, white and Protestant.

If he is a city superintendent he is likely to believe that sex education is the school's responsibility but a county superintendent would probably disagree.

The study showed that while most superintendents have similar backgrounds, city superintendents tend to be more liberal than the county school heads.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

AKQ74 K642 K9 A32
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 Pass 2 Pass

What is your rebid?

A.—Four hearts. A double raise is in order since this hand is worth 18 points in support of hearts. A single raise would not do justice to your holding.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AKJ5 AK106 KJ95 A3
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 Pass 2 Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. Don't make the mistake of bidding two hearts merely to show a biddable second suit. The double will serve every practical purpose. It will help you to determine whether to play the hand at spades, hearts, or diamonds, or might possibly enable partner to pass for penalties now that he knows you have opened on values beyond the minimum.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

A75 Q96 K342 AJ32
The bidding has proceeded: North East South 2 Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—In order to determine the full potentialities of the hand, it is better to settle the trump suit first by an immediate raise to three hearts. This permits the ace showing to start. On the next round you will show the ace of clubs and if partner shows the ace of diamonds you will indicate possession of the king, providing partner with complete information as to your holding.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AKJ1054 K32 AKJ10 A4
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 Pass 2 Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You have a minimum hand and should take no voluntary action even though you are in position to rebid at a low level.

What action do you take?

A.—Three hearts. The direct raise is much superior to inviting complications by bidding your other suit.

Q. 5 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

AJ1032 AQ532 A42 A53
The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. This hand is worth just one constructive bid. It would, therefore, be poor tactics to bid two hearts which would necessitate a subsequent raise in spades. Such action would describe a much stronger hand.

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

KJ542 A65 A832 A976
The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Despite the five trumps you have not sufficient values for a free raise. Your hand is worth not quite six points.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

AK4 AJ2 Q986 A3J42
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 Pass 2 Pass 3 NT Pass 4 Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. Heretofore you have made two minimum rebids, and it is incumbent upon you to show that you have a you to show that you have a really good diamond raise rather than a mere preference, in view of the fact that your cards have become enhanced in value.

Q. 8 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

AJ2 KQ63 AKJ93 A43
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 Pass 1 Pass 2 Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You have a minimum hand and should take no voluntary action even though you are in position to rebid at a low level.

Two Lying In Roads Among Traffic Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two men who were lying in roads and who were struck by cars were among the six persons killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend.

The deaths brought the toll for the year to 1,337, 101 more than this time last year.

One of the pedestrians killed was William Howard James, 55, of Rt. 1, Jamesville. He was struck by a car while lying on a rural unpaved road in Martin County.

A similar accident killed Willie Louis Green, 18, of Rt. 1, Elberne on Old U.S. 220 a mile east of Rockingham.

A Sugar Grove girl, Patricia A. Hagerman, 15, was killed in a two-car wreck at Boone.

One man was hurt and three others injured in a wreck on a rural road four miles south of Marion. The victim was Keith Daniel Adkins, 19, of Newport News, Va.

A motorcycle went out of control on a rural road four miles south of Ayden, and the driver, Weyland Brien Briley, 23, of Rt. 1, Ayden, was thrown to the pavement and killed.

Robert Thomas Jeffreys, 19, was killed and his brother, James Jeffreys was injured, when a stolen car in which they were riding wrecked while being pursued in Oxford.

The North Carolina soybean industry is in the process of developing a new image. A bright and attractive yellow sticker has been designed in the shape of a soybean and over-printed with the words, "Soybeans... Tarheel Pearls."

not too difficult to imagine a remarkable resemblance of pearls and soybeans in size and color. And, certainly soybeans are of tremendous economic value to our North Carolina producers.

Value to soybean producers in North Carolina last season was in the vicinity of seventy million dollars, based on statistical data. Nation-wide, soybeans are the leading cash crop and could become the second highest cash crop in North Carolina during the coming season.

Nationally, production is at an all-time high of 46.4 million acres according to recent United States Department of Agriculture figures. Even with this expanded production, prices are expected to remain strong due to increasing world demand for the crop.

Three-Day Work Week Initiated In Gastonia

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer
GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Lester Cutler, a 51-year-old textile mill owner, is as proud as a new father about a three-day work week he has initiated for his employees. He says he thinks it is "as historical as Ford's $5-a-day plan."

Most of the employees at Cutler's Wales Manufacturing Co. are off four days a week, putting in three 12-hour days to earn their full 40-hour pay per week.

Grace Martin, back on the job after a four-day weekend, said: "I was glad to come back. It's unusual for me to miss work that much."

Mrs. Martin runs a knitting machine and says the long day at work does not tire her. There are several short breaks throughout the day and a half hour for lunch.

Another worker, Gloria Bryson, said, "I didn't think I'd feel that good" as she did after her three 12-hour work days.

"If I have to work 40 or 48 hours, this is the best way," she added.

Cutler says he began thinking about the best way to utilize his plant nearly a year ago, noting that the best utilization of his equipment requires 24-hour operation.

He said he used to have three groups of 30 employees for three eight-hour shifts each work day.

"Now we have 30 working from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, another 30 from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. those days, 30 more on two shifts like that Thursday through Saturday — four groups of 30."

"We created more jobs," he said.

He cites what he thinks are its main benefits: "First, in today's mode of life one of the main things people are looking for is time off.

"Second, instead of driving to work five days, now they come three days. There is some savings: less wear and tear on automobiles, less gas.

"Third, some females require babysitters, instead of five days, now only two or three. Their husbands can often keep the children one day.

"If it doesn't work, we can always go back — but I don't think so. I'd have one hell of a problem if we went back.

"I'd be tarred and feathered."

Can Settle Priorities

RALEIGH (AP) — Chancellor John T. Caldwell of North Carolina State University says the new higher education budgeting system provides "a chance for educators to spell out an institution's priorities instead of legislators."

Caldwell discussed the new budget process of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system at a meeting of his Board of Trustees Saturday.

He went over the $571.6 million budget request which the Board of Governors drew up and noted that the board had ranked the institutions' needs according to priority.

"President Friday and his staff have done a tremendous job in assessing the financial need of the schools," Caldwell said.

He also noted that the NSCU campus has reached an all-time high enrollment of 13,800 students—an increase of about 300 over the enrollment at the beginning of the 1971 fall semester.

New freshmen enrollment did not increase substantially over 1971, he said, and the increased enrollment was primarily the result of an increase in entering transfer students.

House Could See Major November Turnovers

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although a near-record number of new faces is likely in the next House of Representatives, the effect of the changes, including some in leadership positions, may not be noticeable for some time.

Some senior members are losing influential committee positions but in most instances other oldsters will take over the vacancies.

Newer and younger members must start at the bottom of the seniority ladder, but their opportunities for advancement are becoming brighter as older members depart.

With more casualties certain in the November elections, the number of new members in the House convening next January may approach the record of 116 who took office in January 1949.

There were 51 new faces in the House when the present Congress convened in January 1971.

That number already has been exceeded by announced retirements, primary election defeats, and the quest for other office. Among them, departing members have about 1,000 years of service.

Of the 15 House members defeated in primaries this year, four, all Democrats, are committee chairmen.

They are Reps. Emanuel Celler of New York, Judiciary; George P. Miller of California, Science and Astronautics; Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado, Interior, and John L. McMillan of South Carolina, District of Columbia.

Celler, 84, has been in the House 50 years. His committee post is scheduled to go to Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who is 63 and has 22 years of seniority.

Miller, 81, has been in the House since 1945. His chairmanship is slated to go to Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., 62.

with 26 years of service. Teague now is chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee. If he elects to keep that post, Miller's chairmanship would go to Rep. Ken W. Hechler, D-W.Va., 58, a 14-year veteran. If Teague leaves the Veterans Affairs panel, the chairmanship would go to Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn, D-S.C., who is 56 and has been in the House since 1947.

Aspinall, who is 76 with 24 years of service, is due to be replaced as chairman of Interior by Rep. James A. Haley, D-Fla. Haley, 73, came to the House in 1953.

McMillan, 74, has been in the House since 1939 and is one of its most conservative members. He is slated to be replaced as head of the District of Columbia Committee by a liberal black, Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., 50, who was elected to the House in 1954.

Two of the 30 retiring House members are committee chairmen. They are Reps. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., and Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md.

The 82-year-old Colmer heads the Rules Committee and has been a member for 40 years. A conservative, his place as committee chairman is destined to go to a liberal Democrat, Rep. Ray J. Madden of Indiana, 80, with 30 years' seniority.

Garmatz, 69, heads the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, and is due to be replaced as chairman by Rep.

Lives Saved By Bomb Call

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A telephone warning about a time bomb aboard a Venezuelan jetliner saved 97 persons from almost certain death, Nicosia Airport officials said today.

The DC8 made an emergency landing at Nicosia shortly after it left Beirut Sunday. The bomb was found in a rear toilet and defused without further incident. It was timed to go off as the jet would have been approaching Rome and would have blown it up, the officials said.

Three men, believed to be Lebanese, were later arrested in Beirut in connection with the bomb. One of them was believed to have telephoned the warning to Beirut Airport.

The Caracas-bound flight, carrying 86 passengers and 11 crewmen, was about 20 minutes out of Beirut bound for Rome when the warning call came.

Police did not disclose a motive for the attempted bombing.

One of the passengers was Prof. Gerald McCue, an American teaching at Berkeley, Calif., who said: "We realized something was wrong when the plane suddenly made a sharp turn as we were over Cyprus and started a rapid descent."

"As soon as we landed the plane pulled up sharply and the pilot himself, helped by other crew members, started herding us hurriedly off the plane, pushing several reluctant women blocking the exits down the steep escape shutles," McCue said.

Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., who is 69. Garmatz came to Congress in 1947, Mrs. Sullivan in 1953.

Nine retiring veterans are Republicans who would be chairmen of important committees if Republicans won control.

Only two senators have lost their seats in this year's primaries. Six others are retiring voluntarily. Nine House members are running for Senate seats. Another is running for governor and one already has lost his bid for nomination to the Senate.

Claim Undue Force Used

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Between 100 and 200 blacks marched peacefully and orderly through the eastern section of Wilson Sunday afternoon to protest alleged police brutality in the arrest of a 27-year-old black Wilson man.

State Coordinator Golden Franks of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told the marchers at the county courthouse, "We're going to march night and day until we get the just redress of our grievances."

The protest march and rally was prompted by the Sept. 2 arrest of Robert Guion, who was charged with driving under the influence, speeding and interfering with a law officer in the performance of his duties.

The blacks claim state highway patrolman, who made the arrest, used undue force on Guion. They claim their accusation has been ignored and the march and rally were staged to bring attention to their complaint.

Boy Drowns On Family Outing

CHIMNEY ROCK, N.C. (AP) — A 9-year-old Inman, S.C., boy drowned Saturday in the Rocky Broad River near Chimney Rock while his family was on an afternoon picnic outing.

Authorities identified the victim as Troy Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Rt. 6, Inman. The youth's older brother attempted a rescue and the stepfather tried to rescue both but could only save the older boy, authorities said.

The family, formerly of Florida, had moved to Inman about three weeks ago, authorities added.
