

School Board To Again Try Break Deadlock On Site

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

In another effort to break out of the current stalemate in negotiations to purchase the Evans property off Hooker Road as the site of the future middle-junior high school, board members Monday night approved making a new approach to the County Commissioners.

The approach will be made by a committee appointed by School Board Chairman Dr. Badger Clark to seek advice immediately from the County Commissioners with a view to pursue all options available for acquisition of the property.

The decision to renew efforts followed lengthy discussions on the subject, in which school board members and others present voiced opinions on possible strategies that might result in getting action going again on the deadlocked issue.

Sam Sewall, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Greenville City Schools, reporting on the meeting between the committee's members and four of the County Commissioners early last week, said it was his opinion that the commissioners "had not closed their minds completely to reconciliation."

The advisory committee, in a letter of September 18 to Dr. Clark, advised that the committee had "passed a unanimous resolution urging the School Board to take whatever legal action is necessary to secure the preferred Evans property for the proposed junior high school."

"...it is our opinion that the advantages of this particular site outweigh the extra cost involved. We will continue to urge the County Commissioners to reconsider their position in this matter."

Sewall said it was his impression that "the County Commissioners encouraged taking this matter to court." School board member Henry Dunn, stating he had also attended the meeting between the commissioners and the Citizens Advisory Committee, said it was also his feeling that the commissioners would like to see the school board go to court.

"But this would have to be financed," Dunn added. "The commissioners would have to give us money to go to court."

Dr. Clark, commenting that he was "personally convinced this is the property we ought to have," noted that in the last 30 days no progress had been made. "We haven't moved an inch," he said.

"This should be settled quickly. I think the legal route is the one we should travel and feel we should go along with this, go to court, let the judge put a value on the property," Dr. Clark said. The chairman noted that there were two routes the board could take — that of appeal or condemnation.

"In my opinion," he continued, "as two boards (school board and commissioners) we are creating a poor public image, standing at two ends of the table fighting each other. The only thing I'm concerned with is that this site should be the next junior high school site."

On a suggestion to consider a trade of the Lynndale site as part of negotiations, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the City Schools, remarked he felt this would be unwise. "Someday we will need this site and the one we hold north of the

Adopt Criteria For Evaluating Of Teachers

Two instruments of criteria for evaluation of professional teaching personnel and professional personnel other than teachers were approved by the Greenville City School Board at the board's meeting Monday night.

As a result, performance of teachers in the city school system, to be evaluated twice annually, will be based on 13 categories with a number of sub-categories, for a total of 107 different points to be considered by principals in evaluating teachers.

The newly adopted instruments differs basically from the older ones in that only two levels of rating will be used — satisfactory or unsatisfactory. Previously, evaluation reports were scaled on five scoring levels dependant on the degree of efficiency of performance adjudged applicable by the evaluator.

The new forms incorporate, within each of the 13 major performance categories, space for comments on two factors. One is "Strengths — especially noteworthy;" the second is on "Improvements needed — performance objective, job targets."

School board members also approved Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox's recommendation that prices of school lunches not be raised. Under new federal regulations, reimbursement to the city schools could be slightly higher if lunch prices were raised to an average of 40 cents per pupil. The State Department of Public Instruction has encouraged public schools to take action to raise prices to meet the 40 cents average level.

Cox's recommendation not to raise prices was based on the fact that free lunches, the basis of the largest percentage of reimbursement, were not as significant a factor in Greenville schools as it was in many schools, particularly rural ones.

Also approved was a recommendation by Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood that administration staff member Charles Dickens be nominated to attend a National Program of Educational Leadership to be offered in Raleigh.

Attendance is for three days a week, every other week, for a total period of six weeks extended over a twelve week period.

Dickens will be on detached duty for the three days each

Another 'Critical' Assembly Gathers

By ALEC COLLETT
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — An escalating crisis in the Middle East, Chinese and Soviet demands for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Korea, and a bitter debate on terrorism confront delegates from 132 member states as they meet today for the opening of the 27th U.N. General Assembly.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko heads a high-powered Soviet delegation. He is the first of the Big Five foreign affairs chiefs to arrive for the 13-week parley, which 73 foreign ministers are expected to attend.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and the Chinese foreign affairs vice minister, Chiao Kuan-hua are scheduled to arrive in the next few days.

The critical assembly session convenes under the tightest security precautions since the special 1970 session when heads of state gathered to commemorate the United Nations'

25th anniversary.

As on that occasion, a force of federal Executive Protective Service agents has been sent in from Washington. President Nixon ordered 40 to New York to guard the U.N. missions of 18 Arab countries, Israel and the West German observer following the Munich killing of 11 Israeli Olympic squad members.

The session also meets in the lengthening shadow of a Middle East crisis which observers say has set back chances of a negotiated peace agreement several years.

A perennial item on the assembly agenda, the Middle East problem this year is compounded by Israeli retaliation for the Munich terror attack.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Monday condemned the weekend Israeli incursion into Lebanon, declaring "such acts of violence" were not helpful to solving the crisis by peaceful means.

Waldheim has proposed that the assembly consider "measures to prevent terrorism and other forms of violence," thus possibly assuring the most acrimonious Mideast debate for years.

U.S. Economy Continuing Its Strong Upward Swing

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy, still on a strong upward path, may top the Nixon administration's official forecast made in January, government reports indicate.

The Federal Reserve Board supplied evidence of continuing economic expansion Monday, reporting that its index of industrial production rose 0.5 per cent in August after a 0.3-per cent gain a month earlier. The index is regarded as one of the most sensitive indicators of the economy.

On Capitol Hill, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz disclosed that the administration had revised upward its 1972 economic forecast. Gross National Product, the output of the nation's goods and services, is expected to grow $7 billion higher than forecast in January, Shultz said.

If so, this means that GNP, the broadest measure of the economy, will grow by more than $100 billion this year and make 1972 one of the best years for the economy.

Shultz's report said that GNP is expected to average $1.152 trillion this year, compared with $1.145 trillion estimated in January.

As for industrial production, the board said its index moved up 8.2 per cent higher than a year earlier to 114.3 per cent of the 1967 average.

The production gain was strongest in the manufacture of durable goods, but output in the mining and utilities industries showed some decline.

The board's report also showed that the central bank is continuing its policy of expanding the nation's money supply to accommodate the economic growth. In August, the money supply increased at an annual rate of 6 per cent, slower than the July rate but still a fairly strong growth.

In July, the board disclosed only Monday, the Federal Reserve's Open Market Committee decided to influence the money market enough to keep short-term interest rates from falling too sharply because of international developments.

This was in response to a money crisis overseas precipitated by a large accumulation of dollars by foreign central banks.

Suicide At Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — As tourists looked on at President John F. Kennedy's gravesite, a 23-year-old Temperance, Mich., man knelt in prayerful gesture and plunged a kitchen knife into his chest Monday, U.S. Park Police reported.

The man, identified as Gale Ott, died at Arlington Hospital nearly seven hours after the incident, police said.

They said Ott unexpectedly appeared Sunday at the home of a friend, identified as Wayne T. Kadera, whom he had not seen since they were discharged in 1970 after an Army duty tour in Germany.

Kadera told police that Ott told him he was having some personal problems and later asked to visit the Kennedy gravesite, police said.

Kadera could not be reached for comment.

Police said Kadera did not see the stabbing, which took place in front of several people, but Kadera took Ott to the hospital.

House Approves Compensating Crime Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved legislation to compensate victims of crime and the "good Samaritans" who go to their rescue.

The amendment was attached to an omnibus crime bill which passed the Senate by a 74-0 vote Monday. The bill also would make it a federal crime to kill a policeman or fireman.

The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference to resolve differences.

Arguing for adoption of his proposal, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said government for too long has neglected the victims of violent crimes and others injured while trying to aid them.

In an unusual parliamentary tactic, Mansfield's $15-million plan was passed twice—the first time on its merits and the second time attached to the House-passed omnibus crime measure.

Mansfield said he hoped by this maneuver to get his pro-

Taft To Direct Division In UF

Heading up the Special Gifts Division of the Pitt County United Fund this year will be Joe M. Taft Jr., according to an announcement by campaign chairman Karl Faser.

Taft will be one of ten division chairmen, designated by Faser, coordinating 1973 United Fund activities in Pitt County. The divisions have a collective goal of $157,526 with the drive set to begin Oct. 2.

The special gifts chairman, a partner for 11 years in Taft Furniture Co., is a Jaycee, a member of the Rotary Club and Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Taft is a Greenville native and was educated in public schools here. He received his A.B. degree in business administration from East Carolina University.

Taft and his wife, Camilla, have three children and attend Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marvin Taft.

"The united way is by far the best way," Taft commented. "In

Fair Premium List Is Ready

The premium list for the 1972 Pitt County American Legion Agricultural Fair is currently being distributed by fair manager S.C. Winchester to persons interested in exhibiting at the annual agricultural show.

Sponsored by the American Legion posts of Greenville, Ayden and Farmville and approved by the N.C. Department of Agriculture, the fair will be held this year from October 2 through October 7.

According to Winchester, Ed L. Yancey is director of exhibits in the men's division while Mrs. Sue B. May is director of exhibits for the Women's division this year.

Exhibitors in all departments must have their products entered and ready for exhibitions by 5 p.m. October 2 with the exception of exhibits in the floral and home cooked products department. No exhibits can be taken out until after Saturday night. All exhibits must be products of Eastern North Carolina and only one entry per class will be accepted except as provided in the livestock and poultry departments.

Departments for this year's fair include field crops, crops, horticulture, eggs, crafts, poultry, livestock, swine show, educational exhibits, clothing, pantry, and floral.

The swine show will begin at 1:30 p.m. October 3, with judging of dairy cattle will begin at 2 p.m. October 3. The beef cattle judging will start at 1 p.m. October 3.

According to Winchester, the Buck-Page Exposition will again be on the midway at this year's fair.

The Buck-Page shows, which have played the local fair for a number of years will include about 30 rides, 14 shows and 50 novelty concessions.

Hog Cholera In County Isolated To A Small Area

A U.S. Department of Agriculture official said here Monday that so far the county's measure of hog cholera appears to be isolated in only a small area.

Dr. Billy Perryman, department veterinary medical officer, said that the presence of cholera has only been discovered in one herd in Pitt County and the quarantine put into effect last week covers only that one area.

Dr. Perryman, who is heading up an emergency field office in the county to monitor the cholera situation, did not name the farm involved but noted that the infected herd and two neighboring herds were destroyed because of the risk of exposure. He explained that the risk of exposure necessitated the destroying of approximately 50 hogs.

The medical officer reported that representatives from both the N.C. and U.S. Department of Agriculture would remain here until the area is released from quarantine in order to reinspect hogs and issue shipping permits for hogs bound for slaughter.

He added that the quarantine runs a minimum of 30 days after the last infected hog is destroyed. Dr. Perryman urged persons having sick hogs in their herds to call the field office, located in the building housing the county extension service on Third Street, at 752-6354.

He said that all reports are investigated, at no cost to the grower, and so far no other instances of cholera have been detected. Veterinarians who have had training in diagnosing cholera are available and no one should take a chance on delaying diagnosis of a disease within their herds, the official continued.

Dr. Perryman said that the office here was established through a joint effort of the state and U.S. departments with the full cooperation of the Pitt Extension Service.

Need More Better Business Bureaus: Morgan

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan said today additional Better Business Bureaus are needed throughout North Carolina to help protect the buying public.

Morgan, who set up a consumer protection division in his office, said in an interview that "by and large a great majority of the merchants appreciate receiving a call from us when the public has a complaint."

"But we definitely need more Better Business Bureaus," he said.

"Some of the Better Business Bureaus in some sections of the country," he added, "take the position that it is their duty to protect members of the trade organization, but that has not been the attitude in North Carolina."

Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy said most of the complaints received by the consumer protection division "deal with bait and switch advertising and improper billing."

"Some of the merchandise in this type of advertising is of such bad quality that no one would buy it," Benoy said. "The customer quickly realizes this and the fellow takes them over to a medium quality piece of merchandise and charges them a premium price."

This type of advertising, Benoy explained, is misleading, deceptive and injurious to other merchants.

"The public is demanding that it have an independent or objective mediator for consumer disputes without having to go to court because that involves large sums of money," he said.

Benoy joined Morgan in calling for more Better Business Bureaus to fill the void between the merchants and consumers.

"We think you would get more response from locally controlled Better Business Bureaus rather than through government operation," he said. "The public is demanding it. What the public enterprise does not fill, the government will provide eventually."

Benoy said there are Better Business Bureaus in Charlotte, Greensboro, Winton-Salem and the Research Triangle.

Frustrating Day For McGovern

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — After a day of campaign foulups that reportedly left him fuming, Sen. George McGovern today endorsed the idea of tax credits for parents of students in private and parochial schools. The move was seen mainly as a friendly gesture toward millions of Roman Catholic voters concentrated in the large states which the Democratic presidential nominee feels are crucial for his bid for the White House. McGovern said he endorsed the "tax credit-approach" without proposing any specific plan. Previously McGovern had said he was exploring ways to aid parochial schools without violating the U.S. Constitution's prohibition against mingling church and government.

McGovern released his statement on parochial school-aid before heading into a closed-door meeting with Chicago labor leaders. He also was to appear at a Catholic technical high school in a predominantly white, working class neighborhood in the northwest part of the city.

Monday, McGovern put in a 17-hour day on the campaign trail in West Virginia coal country, Ohio's industrial southwest and the rural southern tip of Illinois. But the nominee spent barely five hours of that time campaigning.

The rest of the time was spent fighting twisting mountain roads and city traffic jams, so that by late afternoon a highly placed traveling staffer was muttering "dumb! dumb-dumb!"

McGovern was described as extremely irritated after arriving in Cincinnati two hours behind schedule and so late that his interviews with local television newsmen missed the afternoon broadcasts. One station cancelled its interview altogether.

He got himself back on schedule by forfeiting a couple of hours of personal time he had planned in Cincinnati. His day perked up when he adressed an applauding, cheering airport crowd, estimated by local authorities at between 2,000 and 4,000, at Carbondale, Ill., site of the 23,000-student campus of Southern Illinois University.

But despite the warm reception, local observers said McGovern could have done better if he had waited two days until the start of classes at SIU.

And, as if to add insult to the day's frustrations, a St. Louis television newsmen mousetrapped McGovern into an unintended snub of Edward L. Dowd, the Democratic candidate for governor of Missouri.

"Do you know the name Ed Dowd?" the interviewer asked. "Sort of vaguely," replied a puzzled McGovern. Then the interviewer explained who Dowd was. "If he's a Democrat, then I endorse him," said McGovern, quickly recovering. McGovern spent the night in Chicago.

Pat Nixon Fields Tough Questions During Tour

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Pat Nixon fielded tough questions on the Vietnam war, the Watergate bugging, Martha Mitchell and abortion on her first day of a week-long cross country campaign trip.

Then, she headed for the calm wilderness of Yellowstone National Park today to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the designation of that unique natural setting of volcanic geysers and hot springs as a park.

Mrs. Nixon is spanning the country with stops in seven states in her most ambitious solo campaign swing. Chicago police stopped city traffic so she could make her motorcade rounds.

She stopped in to congratulate volunteers who were working for her husband's re-election at campaign headquarters in Chicago's "Magnificent Mile" downtown area.

They promised her "Chicago for Nixon in '72."

With Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Mrs. Nixon went to ceremonies for 236 newly naturalized American citizens, who will have their first vote this November.

At an afternoon "press coffee," Mrs. Nixon faced some of the hardest questioning she has had as First Lady.

She made these points: —She would "be willing to die to save freedom" for 17 million South Vietnamese people "who are now having aggression against them with the idea of taking away their freedom and their country."

—The bugging of Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington won't hurt Nixon's chance for re-election — "I think it's blown completely out of proportion. I think the (GOP campaign) chairman answered all the questions on it." She said the people know that "he (Nixon) has no part of it."

—She opposes "on demand" abortion; it is a personal matter and one to be left to the states to decide.

Mrs. Nixon was asked if it bothered her that former Cabinet wife Martha Mitchell says she was manhandled by a man who has since been promoted to head the Nixon campaign security forces.

"Well, I don't know anything about what happened in her room," Mrs. Nixon said regarding Mrs. Mitchell's reports of alleged efforts to restrain her.

"I only know what I read in the papers."

Bahamians Vote Today After Heated Campaign

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer
NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Bahamians elect a new government today after a campaign marred by violence and fought over the issues of independence from Britain and a faltering economy.

At stake is the fate of the first black Bahamian government in history and the 700-island nation's future course in foreign affairs, its own defense and the attraction of foreign investments.

Voters decide whether to return Prime Minister Lyndon O. Pindling and his Progressive Liberal Party to office or give the Free National Movement — a combination of dissident PLP members and the old white-dominated United Bahamian Party — the needed majority of 38 assembly seats to form a new government.

"The PLP has adopted an anti-foreign attitude which has damaged this country immeasurably," claimed Arthur Foulkes, a former Pindling associate who has become one of the administration's harshest critics.

Pindling, a popular black attorney from Nassau whose PLP swept aside the United Bahamian Party in 1967, admits to problems — employment is up, construction is down and investment is off. But he sees these as transitory, generated mainly by the uncertainty of elections.

While the opposition insisted on making independence an election issue, the PLP went full speed ahead with its announced timetable of a complete break in formal ties with Britain by July 10, 1973.

The picturesque islands dotting the Atlantic ocean off the Florida coast would remain within the British Commonwealth, but they would assume control of their own defense and foreign affairs.

The leader of the Free National Movement, Cecil Wallace Whitfield, argued that independence should not be considered at least until another general election is held. This could take five to 10 years.

"The cry of independence has already cost blood," says Whitfield, former PLP education minister under Pindling.

At least one death and half a dozen injuries have been attributed to pre-election violence. One of Whitfield's supporters was found shot to death early this month.

A hotel on Cat Island used as an FNM headquarters was fire-bombed over the Labor Day weekend. In addition, there have been reports of other incidents of arson.

Coed Crimefighter's Crusade Is Drawing Mail; Wants Still More

By GENE WANG
Durham Herald Writer
for The Associated Press
DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A "Combat Crime" campaign begun last month by a 19-year-old coed from Durham is filling a rented post office box with letters.

Diane Strawbridge favors stricter law enforcement and is asking people who agree to write her.

By early September she had received more than 300 letters, most of them from eastern and central North Carolina but a few from other states, including California, Florida, Connecticut and Michigan. Miss Strawbridge says when she has accumulated at least 5,000 letters she will take them to Congress.

"Everybody who has written has been in agreement that something has to be done, even if they don't agree with my ideas," she says.

"Our laws were not written by one person and our court system wasn't designed by one person. It's going to take many ideas put together to straighten these things out," she says.

Miss Strawbridge's ideas include capital punishment for murder, rape and hijacking, and in general "stricter punishment." She emphasizes, however, she thinks prison can be used to rehabilitate inmates.

She says the problem lies in the fact that two-thirds of prisoners are repeaters who have not been rehabilitated, and therefore should not be allowed back into society.

"Judges should give punishments that fit the crime," she adds, giving an example of a New York judge who sentenced a traffic offender to spend Saturday nights in a hospital emergency room.

Miss Strawbridge's crusade began shortly after two motorcycle gangs shot it out near Durham this summer. She wrote a letter to the editor of the Durham Herald, deploring the incident and saying that some participants had prison records.

President Nixon saw it and congratulated her for the concern.

She is a sophomore at N.C. State University at Raleigh and has returned to classes. Studies will reduce the estimated 15 hours a day she has devoted to her project, but Miss Strawbridge expects to continue the work.

She has made personal appearances before civic clubs and other organizations to push her cause, and has been on television and talked to the Durham City Council. It adopted a resolution of support.

Her message includes this statement: "Until the American people band together, the crime problem is going to be put off."

She says some letters have come from "young children who say they're scared to go outside and play because they don't know what might happen to them. They say they're afraid to turn their backs at school because someone will put drugs in their food."

Miss Strawbridge says she

Two Wrecks On Monday

Three persons were injured and an estimated $2,000 property damage reported in two collisions investigated here yesterday.

Police reported Velma Mills Meeks of 411 Pittman Dr. and Shirley Garris Wade of Route 1, Greenville were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries they received when the cars they were driving collided about 11:43 a.m. at the intersection of N.C. 11-U.S. 13 and Greenfield Boulevard.

Officers, who estimated damage to the Meeks car at $375 and damage to the Wade vehicle at $400, said both cars were total losses.

Investigation of the collision is continuing.

Louis Person Jr., 17, of Route 1, Bethel was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Country Club Road.

Investigators reported the Person car collided with a vehicle driven by Donna Kay Jones, 18, of Route 8, Greenville causing an estimated $800 damage to the Jones vehicle and about $275 damage to the Person car.

Miss Jones was reported injured in the collision.

Priests Urge IRA To End Its Bombing

BELFAST (AP) — Roman Catholic priests have called on the Irish Republican Army to end its bloody bombing campaign in Northern Ireland as the guerrillas claimed three more victims, two of them killed in bomb blasts.

In sporadic shooting across the province, British soldiers claimed they captured a sniper firing from near a Catholic convent in Lurgan and shot another in a Catholic stronghold in Belfast early today. One soldier was wounded.

Three bombs exploded, one killing a bar owner as he opened the door of his booby-trapped car on a road near the Irish Republican border late Monday night. Two men with him were wounded.

Police said the men were collecting the bar owner's car near Crossmaglen. It had been stolen last week in Dundalk, a former IRA border stronghold in the Irish Republic.

The others who died Monday were a 53-year-old woman, wounded when the Imperial Hotel in north Belfast was bombed last Thursday, and a soldier wounded in Londonderry by a sniper Sunday.

Their deaths brought Ulster's three-year fatality toll to 564.

The priests said in Londonderry, the province's bomb-pitied second city, that Catholics there were weary of the "senseless bombing and shooting."

But the priests also condemned British troops for "the army practice — coming with wearying repetition — of referring to all civilian victims of shooting as gunmen as justification of their actions."

They claimed that of nearly 30 civilians killed by army fire in Londonderry in the last 14 months, only three were known to have been armed. But, they stressed, all were described as gunmen by the army.

The priests said a 19-year-old Catholic youth gunned down in Londonderry Sunday was not armed. Troops claim he had a rifle, later spirited away by friends, after he was shot by a soldier he had just wounded in an ambush.

But the priests also condemned the gunmen who ambushed troops and "thereby draw fire on innocent bystanders."

"BEING VERY, VERY CAREFUL IN ANAHEIM"

DEAR BEING: I received numerous reports from readers insisting that they knew women who had given birth well into their sixties!

I asked my own doctor, John A. Haugen, an expert in the practice of obstetrics and gynecology for some 35 years in Minneapolis, and here is his reply:

"Dr. Nicholson J. Eastman of Johns Hopkins University made an exhaustive study of the records from Johns Hopkins Hospital, New York Lying-In Hospital, and Boston Lying-In Hospital concerning the upper age limits of reproductivity. Studying more than 500,000 records from these well authenticated reports, no pregnancy after the age of 50 was recorded. I must agree with your statement, Abby, that altho the chances of becoming pregnant at the age of 50 are greatly reduced, it is by no means impossible, so keep telling the ladies to keep their guards up."

DEAR ABBY: You can hardly pick up a newspaper anymore without reading that some teen-aged girl was raped. Some are even raped and murdered! I am heart-sick for the victims and their families, but, Abby, the way some girls dress nowadays, they are asking for it.

Why in God's name would a fully developed girl go around with a see-thru blouse and no bra, and short shorts or a pair of jeans so tight that if she had a dime in her pocket you could tell whether it was heads or tails? Don't these foolish girls realize they are asking for trouble?

Abby, so many of them read your column, please warn them!

WORRIED FOR GIRLS

DEAR WORRIED: Some girls are naive. But most girls dress provocatively to attract attention—and they do! [So do some men, but the threat of rape is minimal.] I would hope that all women would dress decently and modestly more for their own self-respect than for protection.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to respond to "Cold Fish in Pompano Beach," who is married to an undemonstrative husband.

From her letter, she is not starving or sleeping on a park bench, or hauling her husband home from the corner pub, dead drunk every night. So he's "cold"? There are probably thousands of women with seven kids who are dead tired who wish their husbands would leave them alone.

I am married to a man who has to be asked for a goodnight kiss. And if I want more than a kiss, I have to ask him for that, too. I also boiled for a couple of years, but it didn't change him a bit. No amount of begging, threatening, or nagging will ever change a man. Then I told myself I was foolish. He comes home every night, hands over every paycheck, and he's good to the kids. So what if he doesn't pinch me at the kitchen sink? He doesn't pinch anybody else, either.

In case you think our life is boring, it isn't. We have many nice friends. We're active in church. I teach Sunday school and my husband is a youth director. We go camping and fishing together. We don't drink or smoke, and we're healthy!

My husband may not be the most passionate lover of the 20th century, but when we are 70, we will still be having fun together when "Cold Fish" is still fishing.

DOESN'T MIND ASKING IN SEATTLE

DEAR DOESN'T: No one has everything. And if you don't miss what you don't have [and you seem to have rationalized it very well], hooray for you. May it ever be thus.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Grandmother Has 'Laundry List' Of Accomplishments

By MARIAN BURROS
WASHINGTON — Once a powerful member of the Federal Government's formidable beauracracy, Esther Peterson has come to the conclusion that the government is "the biggest stumbling block" to progress in consumer affairs.

Now consumer advisor to a large Washington area supermarket chain, the former Assistant Secretary of Labor and Consumer in the Johnson administration has become "convinced that things have to be done by little bits and segments."

Beginning her third year in a job that has had a profound influence on the consumer movement throughout the country, Mrs. Peterson reflected on her first two years in the job: "I think we've been the catalyst in influencing other companies and consumers. I'm sure we helped move the National Canners and the Grocery Manufacturers Association" to see the consumer point of view, and the National Business Council has adopted Giant's labeling plan almost all the way down the line."

The business council represents the conservative business community which less than 10 years ago denounced Mrs. Peterson in the most vitriolic terms, attacking her personally for her attempts to improve the lot of the consumer. Today, she said, "I could set up a consulting firm if I wanted to make money, and they would come to me for advice."

Mrs. Peterson, described by everyone as kindly and grandmotherly looking, is in fact kindly, though hardly grandmotherly, in her dealings, especially with those who oppose her ideologically. But she is the first to admit that cajoling often gets you further than a frontal attack in the business world.

In the last two years Mrs. Peterson has amassed a "laundry list" of accomplishments, many of which would have been impossible without the right consumer-oriented climate and, she adds, without the right boss, Joe Danzansky, president of Giant Foods. "He has backed me up on everything."

And everything includes: open dating of perishables; unit pricing of all products; nutritional labeling of some store brands plus fresh foods; ingredient labeling and percentage of ingredient labeling; recycle store-brand paper products; recyclable shatter-guard bottles; drug and cosmetic labeling; see-through bacon packaging. Plus labeling and changing of detergents so that the shopper has a choice between those with and those without phosphates; removal of fruit-scented household detergents on the theory that children might think they were edible; change in labeling of frozen fish from "fancy" to "previously frozen"; generic names for all meats instead of the meaningless terms such as

"california" or "patio" steaks; a choice between marashino cherries with No. 2 red dye and those without (after No. 2 red dye was declared a possible hazard to health).

Mrs. Peterson says she has had only limited success with ground beef labeling. "We do not yet have the technology to give the specific fat percentage in ground beef."

This month the chain plans to market nitrite- and nitrate-free hot dogs. Recently there has been concern that the nitrites and nitrates used in preserving foods may be cancer-producing agents. In order to seal hotdogs without them they will have to be sold as fresh meat, stored and cooked in the same manner. They will sell for $1.19 a pound and be brownish gray in color. One question in Mrs. Peterson's mind is, "How are the consumers going to face the trade-off?" Will they be willing to pay the additional cost? Will they accept the unfamiliar appearance?

Another project, which will make its appearance shortly, is the nutritional labeling of dairy products. And as soon as the FDA decides definitely on a federal nutritional labeling code, the chain will introduce it into its stores.

Problems with the FDA on nutritional labeling and an inability to get the government to agree on uniform grade labeling are among the reasons Esther Peterson thinks the beauracracy is more of a stumbling block to these consumer programs than a champion. But because, in the end, none of these programs can become nationwide without the federal government, the "kindly grandmother" will grin and her

Currently she is anxious to help the consumer with the skyrocketing cost of food. "The price situation is really the biggest problem." Her approach in that area is bottom price formation for the consumer.

Called down by various government officials, both in the legislative and executive branches of the government, for suggesting a grocery ad that people should "buy something else" instead of meat when the price began to rise, she says she has never had a moment's regret. I feel completely vindicated now because the administration is saying the same thing.

Eventually, almost everything Esther Peterson has proposed or said has been picked up by those in power who originally have opposed her. And it's the key to her success that she doesn't object one bit.

Add Cheese, Bacon To Tuna Sandwiches

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

One of the best ways to treat a tuna sandwich is to French-toast it. That's exactly what is done in the following recipe and it produces an absolutely delicious offering for lunch, supper or a snack.

The filling for this sandwich is especially good because along with the tuna it calls for cheese and bacon. We think your family and friends will like it.

FRENCH-TOASTED TUNA SANDWICHES

2 cans (each 6 1/2 or 7 ounces)

tuna in vegetable oil

2-3rds cup finely chopped celery

1/4 cup finely chopped onion

2-3rds cup grated (medium-fine) cheddar cheese

4 slices bacon, cooked until crisp and crumbled

1/2 cup mayonnaise

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

12 slices bread

2 eggs

1/2 cup milk

2 tablespoons butter

In a medium mixing bowl mix together the undrained tuna, celery, onion, cheese and bacon. In a small mixing bowl whisk together the mayonnaise, salt, pepper and mustard; add to tuna mixture and mix lightly. Spread on 6 slices of bread; top with remaining bread.

In a shallow dish or pie plate whisk eggs slightly; add milk and beat to combine. Dip sandwiches on both sides in egg mixture.

In a 10-inch skillet heat 1 tablespoon butter; add 3 of the sandwiches (one sandwich cut in half) and brown over moderate heat, turning once; keep hot in a low oven. Fry remaining 3 sandwiches in remaining 1 tablespoon butter the same way. Serve garnished, if you like, with gherkins and cherry tomatoes. Makes 6 servings.

Doctor Shows How To Bathe Away "Corns" and Calluses in Minutes

By INA LEE

YESTERDAY at the offices of a foremost New York foot specialist, I experienced what may prove to be the answer to the foot problems of millions. I was shown a quick, easy way to relieve tired, aching, itching feet — even feet tortured with corns and calluses!

As a reporter, I'm on my own feet about 12 hours a day. For years I've suffered — not only from corns and calluses — but also from recurring athlete's foot, and that tired, aching feeling so familiar to salesmen, postmen, policemen, teachers and others who must stand on their feet for their livelihood. I tried everything from specially made $45 shoes to all kinds of foot powders, creams and salves — all to practically no avail. So I was naturally skeptical when I was assured, in a doctor's office that in a few minutes I would be relieved of all the foot miseries that had been plaguing me for years. I just couldn't believe it — but here is what actually happened!

In just 20 minutes, the itching misery of my athlete's foot had subsided. My corns were softened and dead skin washed away. So were my calluses!

In fact, my feet felt simply wonderful — and that is why I am writing this article — so that others will be helped as I have been! For this doctor's simple method is now being made available to the public for home use!

PART 1.

A Mineral Bath for Your Feet

For the first part of this 3-way method the doctor had me place my sore, tired feet in a basin of hot water. To this water he added a green powder containing Potassium, Iron, Magnesium, Lithium, Iodides and other minerals (similar to those found in the waters of famous natural Spas). Almost immediately I began to feel a new and wonderful sensation. All the pressure and the heavy feeling in my legs seemed to float away. My feet felt as though they had no weight at all. My foot and leg muscles seemed to relax. I could actually feel soreness and pain diminishing.

"The perspiration, the dirt and the odors so common to your feet is now being cleansed from your pores," said the doctor, "you must remember that the secret of well being, pain-free feet is constant care and sion, stimulating circulation and sending a fresh supply of new blood to your feet. This helps cleanse out the pores that soap and water cannot reach. I could see dry, dead, scaly tissue being flaked away. I touched the hardened surfaces of my feet and found that they were now soft and smooth. I could feel the dead dry skin of corns and calluses softened and loosened.

PART 2. Corns and Calluses

After about 15 minutes the doctor had me remove my feet from the bath. Then while they were still moist, he began to massage them with a special volcanic lava stone, which he had already soaked in the Foot-herapy bath. It felt as if my feet were being gently caressed with wool. In just 3 or 4 minutes this volcanic stone began to buff away the dead skin of corns and calluses that had bothered me for years. Best of all, one particularly painful corn on my little toe which I had to have cut off at least once a year was gradually being buffed away. It was as if I had grown a new pair of feet.

PART 3. Athlete's Foot, Unpleasant Odors

The third and final step of this doctor's treatment is a medicated cream designed to correct the condition of athlete's foot, prevent sweating and remove unpleasant foot odors. It contains a tested chemical which is now being used in hospitals, to help combat fungi, dangerous bacteria and relieve skin rashes. As the doctor rubbed this cream into my skin, I felt a cooling, mint-like sensation. Itching between the toes disappeared. A special combination of natural oils helps lubricate the entire skin surface leaving a soothing, protective, invisible film to help guard against reinfection of the area.

"Even though we have gotten such wonderful results with just one application," said the doctor, "you must remember that the secret of well being, pain-free feet is constant care and attention. Your shoes must be fitted correctly and your feet must receive the proper hygiene. That's why you'll find that if you use this simple medicated method everyday after work, your feet will not only continue their remarkable improvement but will feel healthy, rested and cool even after your toughest working day."

Nothing Else Like It

If you suffer from tired feet, aching feet due to foot fatigue, you can now rinse away those aches and pains with nature's own minerals. You can even avoid painful, stubborn corns and calluses without "razor blade" surgery, and if your feet are cracked, itching, sore from fungus infections . . . perspire excessively . . . give off unpleasant odors . . . you can relieve these conditions practically overnight!

But even more important, you can give your feet a daily hygienic "doctor's" care — right in your own home — that will help keep your feet strong, impart a feeling of well being; inhibit the growth of fungi, bacteria.

The medically developed products used in this doctor's treatment are Foottherapy Mineral Bath, Foottherapy Mineral Bath, Foottherapy Lava Stone and Foottherapy Medicated Balm. These 3 items are sold as a complete application kit for only $3.98 and $5.98. Quite a bargain when you think of what it can do for the condition of your feet; your sense of well-being and even your disposition! If pains or corns persist — consult your chiropodist.

Vast New Farm Market Opens

The U.S.-Russian wheat grain deal has become a political issue in this election year, but we should not lose sight of the fact that the doors have been opened for a vast new farm market.

More wheat than originally expected has already been sold to the Russians and, last week, the Agricultural Department announced that trade documents show about 15 million bushels of U.S. wheat have been sold to China.

For too many years a vast part of the world has been cut off as a market for our huge farm industry. Partially as the result, the farmer's almost unlimited capacity to produce has been thwarted. This often resulted in surpluses and tight government control programs. That has been paradoxical with so much of the world facing a shortage of food and other farm products.

Now the door has been opened to tremendous markets in Russia and China. Wheat is being sold to these two Communist countries this year and it is likely that sales can be negotiated in future years.

Tobacco producers cannot miss seeing that vast new markets are also potentially opened for their product. American grown bright leaf enjoys a world wide reputation for superior quality and certainly tobacco can be sold to both the Soviet Union and China based on its quality.

The United States should continue to work toward selling farm products to the Soviet Union and China. Certainly the sale of tobacco should be an important part of these negotiations.

Need Aid From Two Directions

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Private colleges can survive the present financially perilous time to remain a vital element in the nation's dual system of higher education.

It will take help from friends, said Dr. John Edgar Weems, as well as astute management on the private campuses.

"The private institutions provide alternatives, open more potential, and give a wider response to public demand," he said. "They have a future as long as there are those who believe in the values they give to our society."

He brings that confidence and optimism to the presidency of Meredith College, a Baptist-supported, liberal arts campus for women.

Meredith trustees selected Dr. Weems last fall as the sixth president for the 73-year-old college. Formal inauguration will come next Friday (Sept. 22) although he has been in office since Jan. 1.

He came out of public higher education and a coeducational situation to take the position. A Tennesseean, he was vice president for finance and administration at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro.

Return To North Carolina

The move was a return rather than introduction to North Carolina for the Weems family. Late in the 50s, he was at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson for three years. He taught business administration and economics, also serving as director of admissions and placement and director of student personnel services.

Administration and financial management is his specialty. He spent a couple of years in the executive training program of a major industry before making education his career choice. He earned his doctorate degree at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., in higher education administration.

"Higher education is big business. The products turned out are very different, but the allocation of resources to achieve desired results is fundamental to both," he said.

That doesn't mean running a college is all computer and cost-pricing. The human element—the aspirations of students and faculty, the commitment of staff and administrators—remains paramount. The Weems approach aims for rapport with people.

At Ease With People

He doesn't talk to visitors across the big desk in the president's office. He comes around to an easy chair, stepping away from the seat of authority to meet them at their level.

The executive apertures can be "psychological crutches," propping up the ego but impeding the exercise of leadership, he explained.

"I'm careful of them. If I detect I am using one, I get rid of it," he said. Fanfare and status symbols, he observed, get in the way of dealing directly with people and calling forth their best ideas and performance.

That's his view of what being a college president is all about—not that he's the most eminent scholar, keenest financial mind, or cleverest public relations operator on campus, but that he can weld the talents of faculty, staff and students to serve the institution.

At 40, Weems doesn't need crutches of any sort. He's 6-3 and fit from a lifetime of interest and participation in athletics. His background qualifies him as an administrator of ability and innovation.

He will put on academic regalia for the inaugural, but the pageantry will last but a day. Then he'll be back at his tasks without benefit of show or ceremony.

Meredith Is Atypical

Dr. Weems takes the helm of a college that is a typical in private higher education. Meredith has been cited nationally for its sound financial position at a time when many others are in trouble.

Enrollment is steady at the 1,200 limit set by trustees. A $5 million capital campaign initiated under his predecessor, Dr. E. Bruce Heilman, is near its goal. New Buildings brighten the campus, including a president's residence to be dedicated as part of the inaugural program.

God fortune can't be taken for granted, Dr. Weems cautioned. An enrollment dip as slight as 50 students could upset the balance, he said.

To assure the future for Meredith and other private campuses, he said, help must come from friends in two directions. "First, parents who believe in the difference we provide must send their children to us," he said. Analysis of the cost will show the disparity with public institutions is not all that great, at least not at Meredith, he added.

Second, other friends—industry and individuals—must continue to give support, he said.

State aid, while beneficial, should not become a mainstay, as he sees it. Viable institutions, he believes, will attract support as they justify their reason for existence.

Carstarphen Carries Promising Credentials

William H. Carstarphen, now assistant city manager at Charlotte, has been named as Greenville's new city manager.

The Williamston native's credentials show him to be well qualified for the position. Being from this area, he should have a special insight into the problems of our growing eastern city.

We welcome Mr. Carstarphen to Greenville. We believe he will quickly become a part of the development of a unique community.

Dan Walker's Big Handicap

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BATAVIA, Ill. — Dan Walker, Democratic nominee for governor of Illinois, was energetically handshaking his way through supporters of the VFW Hall here when this question from a voter stopped him short: "Are you fully supporting McGovern?"

No words could have been more disturbing to Walker, particularly in this heavily Republican community just west of Chicago. The many Republicans who paid $6 for pizza and beer at the VFW Hall to help Walker's local campaign wanted no part of Sen. George McGovern for President.

"Yes, I support him," Walker replied, quickly and quietly, racing on to the next handshaker as if his questioner carried the plague. Through the evening of campaigning, Walker never mentioned McGovern's name.

The specter of a Nixon landslide in Illinois clouds Walker's apparent lead in the nation's most interesting contest for governor. Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie, fighting up hill for a second term, in every speech links McGovern and Walker. Conqueror of the Daley machine in last March's primary, Walker resolutely runs away from McGovern (just as he did at the Batavia VFW). If Walker loses, he can justifiably blame McGovern.

Beyond expediency, it is ideologically fitting that Walker keep his distance from McGovern. While McGovern turned out to be just another super-liberal, Walker evolved into the New Populist that McGovern's theoreticians wanted him to be.

The race for governor is certainly not what it once seemed superficially: limousine liberal Walker, who as $150,000-a-year general counsel for Montgomery Ward crusaded against police brutality, vs. law-and-order conservative Richard Ogilvie, tough-talking former sheriff of Cook County (Chicago). In reality, after four widely acclaimed years as governor, Ogilvie takes the liberal line that government is an effective problem-solver. Walker's campaign indicts government, spending, the establishment and, in particular, politicians.

Thus, this contest takes on national implications. If Walker's anti-government line wins in the face of a national Democratic debacle, he and his New Populism would attract instant national attention. It would also indicate a doubtful future for practicing liberals such as Ogilvie, whose passage of a long overdue state income tax made him politically vulnerable.

That's not the way Walker's campaign began in November 1970. Author of a celebrated report charging a "police riot" during the 1968 Democratic national convention in Chicago, Walker was the darling of liberals nationwide seeking retribution against Mayor Richard J. Daley.

What changed this tone was Walker's remarkable walk across Illinois, climaxed by his astonishing primary victory over the regular organization. Finding ordinary citizens outraged by high taxing, high spending politicians, Walker turned to white collar Wallaceism: free of racism and more sophisticated but still an anti-establishment preaching ("I want an end to politics as usual").

Promising no new taxes and assailing Ogilvie for wasteful spending, Walker has cut deep into conservative ranks.

Demagoguery Is An Art

Back in the spring, when he was campaigning for the Democratic nomination, George McGovern constantly emphasized one aspect of his candidacy: He intended to level with the people. He was not going to equivocate, falsify or cover up. He wanted to restore credibility to government.

If the senator had kept that pledge, he would not be running 30 points behind in the polls today. He would be gaining in great strides on a Nixon administration that is woefully vulnerable in these areas. Sad to say, George McGovern steadily is revealing himself not as an exceptional statesman, but as merely another politician. He is Senator McHumbug.

For a recent example of the late-model McGovern, consider the senator's remarks on his Midwestern tour. His purpose was to appeal to the farm vote. Toward this end, he sought to portray the Nixon administration as the enemy of the little farmer and the friend of the corporate giants. He left the carefully cultivated impression that Nixon is to blame for the decline of the family farm.

Now, demagoguery is an art form in its way, like playing a jug or chewing tobacco. You have to admire a virtuoso. But this was hogwash. He knew it was hogwash—after all, he grew up in South Dakota—and his audience knew it. But this was Senator McHumbug speaking.

If the March and April McGovern had been speaking—a McGovern who was going to level with the people—the senator would have played it straight. He would have cut out the hokum.

McGovern might have said, laying it on the line, that the family farm as a social and economic concept has been declining in the United States for the past 30 years. This is not the fault of any politician or any political party. It is the result of changes beyond the control of any Congress—changes and trends that probably are irreversible.

The Department of Agriculture's census of 1910, the first of its kind, found 6,406,000 farms in the United States. That number remained almost constant for the next 30 years, rising to 6,545,000 in 1930, declining to 6,350,000 in 1940.

Then all kinds of things began happening at once. The war took young men off the farms and created new jobs in the cities. The postwar years saw an explosion of urbanism. These years also witnessed rapid changes in agricultural technology, as new and more costly machines began to replace hand labor. Farm boys and girls, who once might have been content to milk cows and slop the hogs, looked beyond the barnyard to wider horizons.

For these and countless other reasons, the whole nature of American farming began to change. In 1960, when Eisenhower was going out of office, there were 3,961,000 farms; the average farm was 297 acres. Through the eight years of Kennedy-Johnson, the number of farms went steadily down, and the average size went steadily up. Precisely these trends have continued under Nixon. The 1972 estimate places the number of farms at 2,831,000 and the average size at 394 acres.

Senator McGovern, playing it straight, might have leveled with his audience on food prices, production costs, and profit margins. The processing industry, he might have said, is highly unionized; costs of packaging and distribution are bound to go up. The senator himself is firmly committed to the unionization of farm labor:

After a summer filled with diversion for some and work for others, Pitt County children began school today to resume studies abandoned with commencement exercises last spring. Eighteen schools were thrown open for the 1932-33 school year with prospects for one of the best terms in years. Three of the schools will operate for six months and the remainder for eight months.

Plans have been completed today for the annual meeting of the North Carolina Synod of the Presbyterian Church which will convene at Austin Auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow evening.

Strength For Today

RULES FOR PRAYER

Today let us look at some of our Lord's counsel regarding prayer.

First of all, he said, let us pray with sincerity — not as those who love to make show of their piety but as those who pray in secret that the Father Who seeth in secret may recompense them.

And pray, said Jesus, in a forgiving spirit. "And whenever ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have against any one; that your Father also who is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses."

Pray with alertness, said Jesus. "Watch ye in every season, make supplication, that ye may prevail to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man." And in our praying, let us always remember that God's will is supreme. Our Lord's prayer on the last night of his life was: "Father, if thou be willing remove this cup from me; nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done." If we pray for anything contrary to the will of God, we invite on disaster.

Especially important in all praying is the necessity that we pray in faith. "All things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer believing," said Jesus, "ye shall receive." That is, our very belief that our prayer will be answered is a definite factor in causing them to be answered. If we pray in doubt, half the potency of our prayer is destroyed. If we pray believing, the divine promise is that we shall receive.

Trading Contributes To Costs

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It is fairly well agreed now that an individual or an institutional investor might fare as well by picking his stocks wisely and holding onto them as he would trading in and out.

Taxes and commissions — remember, every time you switch a stock you pay two commissions — contribute to this equalizing process. And quite likely also it can be shown that the frequent trader steers an erratic course.

But don't ever believe that the philosophy of buy-and-hold will ever displace buy-sell-buy. There is an enormous investment in short-term trading: millions of dollars, thousands of careers, hundreds of institutions.

In short, there is a powerful vested interest in active trading, and it is from this same source that most of the investment advice and trading theories emanates. It is the nature of the market.

You might wonder, for instance, why anyone would need to know that in 10 of the past 18 presidential election years the market has risen 10 times between Sept. 1 and election day and declined in only eight.

Moreover, that in those 10 years the gains averaged 7.5 per cent and in those eight years the losses averaged 3.15 per cent. Or that the average for all 18 years was a gain of 2.79 per cent.

No need to wonder. Research not only is basic to an understanding of the market but it is the necessary ingredient of sales.

And so Wall Street, figuratively speaking, continues to study how many angels can be fitted on the head of a pin. Its own history is a treasury of gems in which the future can be seen. Good for sales.

But it isn't only "new" information that goods sales. Brokers lime on commissions. They must translate the advice they offer you into sales to you or else they aren't earning their keep. It's the nature of the market.

Mutual funds have contributed mightily in recent years to short-term trading, although they usually dislike being so reminded. In their literature they offer professional management and diversity. But something more is offered.

Unpromised in print but widely suggested orally is the promise of performance, of quick gains via short-term trading. Performance, as it is called, is not offered by all funds. But some funds seeking quick gains, have turned over their portfolios 100 per cent in a year.

The stress of time is essential to short-term trading. It is the ingredient that activates need and greed, that excites one with the prospect of a quick killing. It makes a trader of the dreamer. Why dream when you can create your own reality?

Should the nation's brokers and institutions — and publishers be blamed for all this stock market activity that many astute market men deplore?

Some people may blame them, but millions will continue to praise them. They relish the excitement, the hopes, the activity itself. They aren't willing to wait; they equate it with waste. It's human nature.

THE GOOSE CREEK SYMPHONY......music makers in the manner of rural southern Kentucky, scheduled to be in concert Friday at 8:00 p.m. at Minges Coliseum. Tickets are now on sale.

Goose Creek Symphony At ECU On Friday

A quiet place of sweet air and the smell of hay in southern Kentucky was the start of it all...of the Goose Creek Symphony, that is.

And on Friday at 8:00 p.m. in Minges Coliseum on campus at East Carolina University, music lovers will have a chance to hear the result of how one man translated a love of this place into a group of music makers bearing the name of the area.

Ritchie Hart, transplanted from Goose Creek to Phoenix, Arizona, could never forget his feeling about the peaceful rural place. Friends of his with the same kind of nostalgia for such a place, though not from there, shared Hart's attitudes.

Together, they began talking, writing and singing about Goose Creek. There's Fred Weisz of Port-of-Spain, Trinidad; young Doug Haywood, who at 20 writes songs, plays three instruments and sings; Paul Howard, who was in electronics; drummer Mickey McGee; and from Pennsylvania Bob Henke, versatile on piano, organ, guitar, and jews harp.

Once together as a performing group, they decided to add the name "symphony" to "Goose Creek," because, as one said, "that seemed to be the best way to describe themselves and their music."

And there is one other member—Beauty, A-Blue Tick Hound.

Also in the same concert, five entertainers, a singing male group, "Five Dollar Shoes" will be included in the evening's fare of entertainment.

Heavy Sales At Farmville

FARMVILLE — The volume of sales continued heavy on the Farmville tobacco market yesterday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor.

Williams reported that most leaf grades continued to account for most of the volume. Offerings of primings, lugs and nondescript grades reached its lowest percentage of sales yesterday.

"Smoking leaf grades showed a sharp increase in volume as compared with Thursday's sales," Williams said. "Prices on practically all grades were about the same yesterday as last Thursday with the exception of some grades which showed a slight increase."

The Farmville market averaged $89.45 per hundred pounds when 509,120 pounds of leaf sold for $455,387.09. To date, the Farmville market has sold 9,439,881 for $8,338,448, giving a season average of $88.33 per hundred pounds.

Would Segregate Smoking Passengers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans, who are smoking more now than at any time in the last four years, may soon have to take a back seat on U.S. airlines.

Americans 18 and over will average 204 packs of cigarettes apiece this year, the most since 1968, the Agriculture Department predicted Monday. That's a two-pack increase over last year.

The average is for all Americans over 18, both smokers and nonsmokers.

Meanwhile, the Civil Aeronautics Board Monday proposed a new rule to require segregation of smokers to the rear of the aircraft on all air-

Four-Year-Old Dies Of Injuries

FOUNTAIN — A four-year-old girl received fatal injuries when she ran into the side of a truck near here yesterday morning.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E.W. Harvey said Lurline Denise Wooten of Route 1, Fountain died about 4:30 a.m. today of injuries she suffered in the 11:30 a.m. Monday mishap.

Highway Patrolman Fred Davis said the child had crossed the road in front of her home with a sister, then darted back into the highway and into the side of a truck driven by Walter Lee Moore of Route 6, Greenville.

According to Harvey, who ruled the death accidental, the child suffered multiple fractures, contusions and abrasions.

DEPRESSING NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Association of University Professors reports purchasing power of American college and university faculty members, as measured by average salaries, decreased during the past year.

Will Stress The Positive

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew began his 1972 model campaign today saying he will stress the positive record of the Republican administration in contrast to "the rather meagre, probably well-intentioned, but often inconsistent and poorly thought out" proposals of George McGovern.

Agnew said in advance he was dropping the hard-line campaign style he used two years ago. His first text was a demonstration of that new look.

"This is our first stop on an intensive campaign that we begin today," Agnew said. He said he intended to focus public attention on President Nixon's programs and policies.

Agnew's initial speech, prepared for the International City Management Association, concentrated on praise for Nixon's "new federalism" proposals, particularly the sharing of federal revenue with state and local governments. A revenue-sharing bill is about to clear Congress.

His text had only a brief mention of the opposition and none by name of McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Agnew's tour will take him to eight states in nine days. And, aides said, the vice president probably will be campaigning four days a week until the Nov. 7 election.

Will Dedicate Highway Marker Honoring Late James W. Hood

NEW BERN — A highway marker, honoring the late Bishop James Walter Hood — founder of the first African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church (AME Zion) in the South in 1864 — will be dedicated here September 26.

A 5:50 p.m. procession to the Hood marker at the intersection of Broad and George Streets will precede the 6 p.m. dedication service. An evening service at St. Peter's A.M.E. Zion Church at 8 o'clock and a reception following this service, will conclude the dedication activities.

The Right Rev. Alfred G. Dunston Jr., presiding Bishop of the North Carolina Conference of the Fourth Episcopal District will consecrate the marker.

Among other participants at the dedication service will be D.

D. Garrett of Greenville, vice-president of the Connectional Laymen's Council of the church. Music at the evening service at St. Peter's will be conducted by the York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church choir of Greenville with Johnny Wooten directing.

The late Bishop Hood was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania in 1831. Granted a license to preach in New York in 1856, Hood first moved to New Haven Conn. where he was received into the A.M.E. Zion Church and was ordained a deacon in Boston Mass. in 1860 before being appointed to Nova Scotia from 1860 to 1863.

In 1863 he went to Bridgeport, Conn. and after six months there was sent as a missionary to the freedmen in North Carolina.

Bishop Hood arrived in New Bern in 1864 and remained there for three years — establishing St. Peter's A.M.E. Zion Church (known as Mother Zion of the South) — before moving to Fayetteville to organize A.M.E. Zion work.

After spending two years in Fayetteville, Bishop Hood became a member of the Reconstruction Constitutional Convention and Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction in North Carolina and served in that capacity for two years.

He was ordained a bishop in the A.M.E. Zion church in 1872; was one of the founders of Zion Wesley Institute in Concord, N.C. in 1879 (moved to Salisbury in 1882 and is now named Livingston College); was a delegate to the Ecumenical Conference in London in 1881 and in Washington in 1891 and was the first Negro to preside over that body; and was the first to ordain a woman deacon in the Zion Church in 1884.

Bishop Hood died in 1918.

Rep. Jones Assured Of Aid In Grain Emergency

First District Congressman Walter B. Jones announced that he has secured the assistance of several railroads to help provide adequate rail facilities to meet the existing grain storage emergency in Eastern North Carolina.

Jones said that improved harvesting equipment and a concerted effort on the part of grain farmers to complete the harvest of their crop prior to the hazardous weather season is creating a heavy consecration of grain at eastern buying stations. He noted that the buildup "far exceeds the storage capabilities of both the farmers and the grain dealers."

The congressman reported that he contacted the Norfolk and Southern Railroad, the Norfolk Southern Railroad, The Norfolk and Western Railroad, The Association of American

Railroads and the Interstate Commerce Commission and was "encouraged by the excellent response..."

Jones said that Southern has agreed to make available 12 jumbo covered hopper cars and Norfolk and Western will furnish 40 open hopper cars to Norfolk and Southern. He added that the Association of American Railroads is continuing its efforts to make all possible equipment available.

The congressman, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, reported that he has requested the I.C.C. to waive, on a temporary basis, the mandatory car service policy which would permit western railroad grain cars moving into the Norfolk, Va. area for unloading to be utilized in Eastern North Carolina without the existing requirement that they be returned immediately to their owner.

"This could be a decisive factor in elevating the existing emergency," Jones said. "The I.C.C. was very receptive to this request and I am hopeful for a favorable response."

Told Ship's Rudder Locked Into A Collision Course

THREE YEAR OLDS MEET — Bengie Ruhe, 3, of Syracuse, found out quickly that Saint Bernards like cotton candy. Jonah, the three-year-old dog, took a liking to the sweets and consumed Bengie's offering. (AP Wirephoto)

BALTIMORE (AP)—The master of a Columbian freighter heavily damaged when it was struck broadside by a U.S. container cargo vessel off the Carolina coast last week is expected to testify Wednesday when a Coast Guard hearing resumes into the cause of the accident.

The master of the American vessel, the S.S. TransHawaii, told Coast Guard investigators here Monday that a power failure aboard the Columbian ship had locked its rudder and held it on a collision course with the TransHawaii. There was other testimony indicating that steering problems had occurred aboard the Columbian ship a month earlier.

Four seamen were injured and one engineer room officer possibly killed aboard the Republica de Columbia.

Capt. John H. Morin of Baltimore, testifying at the opening session of the investigation, said the power failure explanation had been given him by the master of the Columbian freighter, Gabriel J. Kleindl.

Kleindl, who was with his ship at Newport News, Va., where it had been towed after the collision, was expected to testify in the second round of hearings in Newport News

Wednesday. Two merchant seamen from the Republica de Columbia testified Monday that their eight-year-old ship had been forced to return to its Columbian port about a month ago after steering problems developed at sea. Morin said the TransHawaii was northbound and had passed the Diamond Shoals Lighthouse enroute to Baltimore from San Juan, P.R., with a cargo of 265 containers when the mishap occurred.

He described visibility as "excellent" as the Republica de Columbia was passing his vessel at a distance of about six-tenths of a mile on his starboard side.

Satisfied the passing was "beautiful" and not at all extraordinary, Morin said, he left the bridge in command of his second officer and went below.

He testified that when he rushed back to the bridge after hearing a shout from the second officer, he saw the TransHawaii's bow ram into the side of the 554-foot Columbian vessel.

The Coast Guard has reported the Columbian ship's assistant chief engineer, Miguel Antonio Darrago, is still missing, possibly buried under debris in the engine room.

Because the collision occurred on the high seas, the Coast Guard has no jurisdiction over the Columbian ship, except to call its hands as witnesses.

Coast Guard Capt. Thomas W. Powers, who will write a report on the mishap, could, however, recommend a board of inquiry be convened to consider possible action against the crew and officers of the U.S. ship, if he feels such action is warranted.

AWOL Marine On Trial Today

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — The general court-martial of Tom Michaud, a 23-year-old Marine private who has been "over the hill" for nearly three years and who surrendered to authorities on the floor of the Democratic National Convention in July, was scheduled to begin at this military installation today.

Michaud, of Chester, Conn., was an enlisted man from November, 1968 to May 30, 1969 when he became "a self-retired Vietnam veteran." He turned himself in on national television at the Democratic convention.

Michaud is represented by two civilian attorneys, Thomas Ensign of New York City and Thomas Loflin III of Durham, N.C., and Capt. Richard Snier-son, a military lawyer appointed for him.

Officials at Camp Lejeune scheduled the court-martial for a larger trial room after Ensign threatened a boycott if the proceedings were held in a room he said was enough for only 10 persons.

The new courtroom has room for about 20 persons, Snier-son said.

Michaud's trial on charges of an alleged violation of Article 86 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice—unauthorized absence—is similar to trials constantly held at this base.

But the trial of Michaud is the first trial here of a military man who has articulated upon the reasons why he placed himself in a "self-retired veteran status."

Michaud, who has a ninth grade education, said in a recent interview he had no general feelings of opposition about the Vietnam war when he went into the Marines.

After more than a dozen patrol and combat assignments in Vietnam, he said he left "at my own free will."

"I do not wish to participate in the killing of any human being. I do not think the same as the service about my God."

"Mainly I left because it was the right thing for me to do, at least in my own mind."

Hard Summer Is Behind Flood Area's Students

By HELENE SPICER
Associated Press Writer

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — The first day of school usually means the end of summer, but not for children of the flood.

"They've had no summer," said Dr. William Smodac, head of the 64,000-pupil suburban Wyoming Valley West school district here. "They've had nothing but dirt and mud."

School doors swing open today, two weeks behind schedule but before desks have been received to replace those destroyed in June by floodwaters in the wake of tropical storm Agnes.

The children, Smodac said, had "no camps, no swimming, no trips to the shore or elsewhere, none of the things that are reserved for the summer. They've had hard work."

Now comes the return to class within the Luzerne Intermediate School unit, headed by Nello A. Riccetti. For some of the 15,000 pupils who were affected by the flood, it means bus rides from trailer camps to neighborhoods where homes are unlivable, if they choose. The longest ride, Riccetti says, will be an hour and 45 minutes each way.

The children have the option of enrolling at schools near the trailer sites. But some expressed preference for old schools in anticipation of completion of home repairs.

Of 146 schools in the unit, seven schools will be closed because of flood damage. Students at those institutions will be transferred elsewhere.

One of the problems, as schools prepared to open, was missing pupils — "There are 500 to 1,000 students, we really don't know where they are," Riccetti said. "Some children fled flood waters in the night with their parents to relatives' homes. Some may be out of state."

Smodac said it was a six-to-eight week job to dry out records at the Wyoming West administration building.

"Our problems right now are desks and lockers," he said. "Some 1,200 new desks are on the way, delayed by a train derailment near Detroit...."

"We have fine youngsters. It made me that much more proud of the young people that they still want to come back."

Protestors, Tokyo Riot Police Battle

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — An estimated 3,000 antiwar protestors battled riot police today in an unsuccessful attempt to prevent the U.S. military from transporting armored personnel carriers from a repair facility to a pier.

Police said five protestors and 79 policemen were injured in the clashes, outside the U.S. Army supply and maintenance depot at Sagami-hara, 18 miles northwest of Yokohama, and along a 21-mile route to the pier. Twenty-five protestors were arrested.

The demonstrators claimed the ten personnel carriers were being shipped to South Vietnam. The U.S. military has refused to disclose the destination of the vehicles.

Police mobilized about 5,000 riot police and stationed 3,600 of them around the depot to control the demonstrators. Most of the demonstrators were students or members of leftist organizations, police said.

Yokohama authorities banned movement of military vehicles and tanks from the depot Aug. 8, claiming the action violated municipal road ordinances limiting the weight and length of vehicles.

Authorities later approved movement of the armored carriers because they said this resulted only in a "minor" violation.

Cleaning Up Big River Oil Spill

ST. MARYS, W. Va. (AP) — Environmental Protection Agency officials say cleanup of a 50,000-gallon fuel oil spill on the Ohio River near here should be completed before the end of the week.

EPA spokesmen said Monday most of the oil, from an oil company barge that collided with coal barges last Friday and sank, was trapped in a chamber of the Willow Island dam under construction and is being pumped from the lock into barges.

Both shores along an eight-mile stretch of the river showed traces of oil after the collision, which involved four coal barges and a tow of 20 oil barges.

U.S. Coast Guard officials have begun an investigation into the collision and resultant spill.

Hose Williams Out Of Jail

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hosea Williams, the civil rights leader, has been released from jail even though he had said he wanted to remain in custody until his trial on charges of assault, inciting a riot and creating a turmoil.

Jailed last Friday, Williams was freed Monday after Atlanta businessman Charles Williams signed a $1,500 property bond for his release.

The civil rights leader was arrested last week while marching with other pickets protesting working conditions at the Martin Luther King Sr. Nursing Center.

A policeman, also black, said Williams fought with him when he attempted to arrest the civil rights activist.

School Menus Get Special Attention

Parents of Greenville school children who may be concerned about having advance information on school lunch menus published each Sunday in The Daily Reflector have a champion for their concern.

At the school board meeting Monday night, school board member Dr. James Bearden, noting the school menus for this week he will be attending the program, and will remain on salary during that time. The State Department of Public Instruction will provide lodging, food and travel expenses.

Six teachers were approved for election: Sandra M. Bassler, Wilbur H. Chestnut, Anne S. Dees, Edwin G. Lee, Gwendolyn Speight and James S. Stocks. Two are replacement and four fill vacancies not earlier filled. Two teachers, Marjorie H. Jones and Mary F. Morgan, were released at their request from contract for valid reasons that could not be foreseen at the time of making the contract to teach.

Dr. Cleetwood reported that the general atmosphere in the schools have been exceptionally good, despite a little tension that had been noticeable Monday. He said attendance had been excellent and attributed this in part to the fact that Joseph Godette, who had formerly served both county and city schools as truant officer, with the cooperation of the county schools, now served the city schools on a full time basis.

The proposed Cosmetology Course, a joint effort of Pitt Technical Institute and the city schools, approved by the board at last month's meeting, failed to receive approval at state level and consequently will not be offered to Rose High students.

A report was also given on possible land site acquisitions. School Board Chairman Dr. Badger Clark recommended, and the board approved, instructions to Dr. Cleetwood to take action to pursue appraisal of land adjacent to Sadie Sautler school with eventual purchase in mind. Dr. Clark said it was opinion land acquisition at Sadie Sautler was a matter of pressing priority river," he commented.

One of the points brought out was an impression stated by some of those attending the advisory committee-county commissioners meeting was that the commissioners were willing to state a definite price they would permit the school board to offer for the proposed school site.

On the possibility of the school board instigating condemnation procedures in an effort to secure the property, Dr. James Bearden said: "When we talk about condemnation, we have to keep in mind the owners of the land stand a chance of getting less than $135,000."

(The price ruled earlier by the Clerk of Court as a reasonable figure on which to base negotiations. The asking price by the owners is $150,000.)

"I don't think," Dr. Bearden added, "that we should say condemnation is the only way to go. We should make an appeal one more time."

"I would suggest we set up options," Dr. Clark stated. Among options suggested were those of making a firm offer to Evans for a set amount, based on the clerk of court's negotiation price of $135,000; continue the appeal; or to go into condemnation.

week did not appear in the Sunday, September 17 edition of The Daily Reflector, asked to put this matter on the agenda.

He pointed out that previously, he had written a letter to the board chairman, Dr. Badger Clark, stressing the importance of the matter.

Dr. Bearden also mentioned that he had previously brought the matter up at board meetings, and had been led to believe the menus would be published each week.

When it did not appear in the Sunday paper, Dr. Bearden related that he had talked to David J. Whichard, II, editor of The Daily Reflector, who had assured him the menus would be published, but that Sunday's omission was the result of not having received the menu.

In concluding his remarks, Dr. Bearden asked that Glenn Cox, Associate Superintendent of the Greenville City School, see to it personally that the menus were delivered on a timely basis to the newspaper.

Galifianakis Farmer Committee Announced

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Congressman Nick Galifianakis, campaigning for the U.S. Senate in Greenville this morning announced the formation of a "Farmers for Nick Committee" to "help me reach the Senate and continue my support of farming and rural life."

Galifianakis, who won the Democratic nomination over incumbent Sen. B. Everett Jordan in the Democratic primary and who will face Republican hopeful Jesse Helms in the November general election, emphasized, "It is my hope that throughout the rest of the campaign and during my years in the Senate, these and other agriculture leaders will give me the benefit of their wisdom and experience in developing future programs needed by this most basic segment of the state's economy."

Named to the committee were Joe Sugg of Rocky Mount, a

Air Force Maj. Edward Elias looked wistfully toward his fellow pilots, Navy Lts. Norris Charles and Markham Gartley, who were laughing over dinner with their loved ones.

"I sure wish I could get home soon," he said.

Definite plans for their departure from Hanoi have not yet been firmed, according to Cora Weiss, co-chairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam.

"It is in the hands of the Foreign Ministry but I expect to be leaving with the men this weekend," Mrs. Weiss said. The men were released Sunday.

Monday afternoon Charles and his wife Olga planned a quiet stroll around a popular Vietnamese lovers' lane on the edge of a large lake in the middle of Hanoi.

Hundreds of Hanoi residents gathered around them curiously, just watching and saying nothing.

As Minnie Lee Gartley and her pilot son Mark joined them, someone shouted out, "Gartley, Gartley," and the crowd murmured but did not seem antagonistic.

Mrs. Weiss told the pilots later at dinner: "Could you imagine Japanese pilots walking free in New York City after the bombing of Pearl Harbor? This is fantastic."

All the pilots have been speaking freely of their detention, which was four years for Gartley, eight months for Charles and five months for Elias.

Gartley said their food was adequate and the general policy in the camps where he was detained was acceptable.

"We were not penalized in any way when the bombing of North Vietnam was resumed," he said.

The pilots discussed mail and parcel delivery problems with the Committee of Liaison members who came to Hanoi from the United States to escort them home.

Of the three released men, only Charles had come out repeatedly with statements against the war.

"I hope I have made it clear that I am a McGovern man and I feel that only by ending this war will all prisoners come home," Charles said to this reporter Monday evening.

Elias and Gartley have not committed themselves so far on the war, other than to express the hope that their fellow pilots will be released.

Elias said to a television interviewer, "Anything I say here about politics could be later construed as being made under duress, so why say it?"

Shrink In U.S. Tobacco Supply Said Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fair demand for exports and a slight upturn in U.S. cigarette smoking point to a 3 per cent shrink in the tobacco supply during the 1972-73 season, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials, in a summary report on the tobacco situation, Monday said that the 1972-73 supply of all types of tobacco will be about 5.2 billion pounds. Although down for the eighth straight year, the supply is expected to be adequate for all markets.

The 1972 crop, estimated at 173 billion pounds, is up slightly from last year, but the carry-over going into the 1973 marketing year is down about 5 per cent.

Total use, for domestic and export markets, may decline slightly next season from the 1.9 billion pounds in 1971-72, the report said.

"In the big volume flue-cured sector, sharply higher prices are limiting exports," officials said. "For Maryland, fire-cured and cigar-filled tobaccos, reduced supplies mean cuts in domestic use."

Total leaf exports in 1972-73

may be down from last season's 524 million pounds," the report said. "This year's flue-cured crop has been actively sought by West Germany and Japan. The United Kingdom, a major U.S. export destination, decreased its takings in 1971-72 but may maintain that level this season."

The supply of flue-cured, the leading kind for cigarettes and exports, is estimated at 2.92 billion pounds for 1972-73, down 4 per cent from last year.

The total burley supply may be down about 0.3 per cent from last season and 11 per cent below the record in 1964-65. This year's crop, however, is estimated one-fifth larger than 1972 when poor weather trimmed production.

Per capita cigarette smoking this year may be up slightly to about 204 packs for Americans 18 years and older, a two-pack increase.

Officials said the USDA must announce by Dec. 1 the 1973 national marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco on an acreage-poundage basis. Quotas for burley and other kinds will be announced by next Feb.

Investigating Theft At Church

Greenville police are investigating the theft of two cassette tape players from the Immanuel Baptist Church on Elm Street Saturday.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, the theft of the two players, valued at $65, was reported to police yesterday. He noted the two tape units were reported to have been stolen Saturday.

Greg Troupe Gets Southern's Weekly Offensive Player Honor

Greg Troupe, a 221-pound junior guard at East Carolina University, has been named Southern Conference Offensive Player of the Week.

Troupe becomes the first Pirate to take the honor during the 1972 season.

He gained the honor for his performance in the Bucs' 16-0 victory over Southern Illinois University, the second straight win for the Pirates against no losses. The 6-3 junior from Alexandria, Va., became the first player in three years to earn a 100-per cent grade in the ECU game films. He was credited with making 11 downfield blocks, and didn't miss an assignment all evening.

For Troupe, the honor is a big one. Last year, he didn't even dress for most of the games, according to offensive line coach Dick Kupec.

"He switched around a lot from center to tackle last fall," Kupec said. "Then during the spring we moved him to guard, and he began to come along. He's certainly come a long way since then."

Kupec said that Troupe carried out his assignments exceptionally well on Saturday night. "The whole team is proud of him for his award, and it will certainly add some juice to the whole offensive line for one of their number to be recognized," the coach added.

He pointed out that only center Jimmy Creech had experience when the season opened. "Southern Illinois had 10 of their 11 starters back on defense, and they had everyone outweighed by about 30 pounds, but our kids did a real good job. We wanted to control the ball and hang onto it, and we did," Kupec said. "That's one reason we ran the ball so much. It's tough on the linemen when you do have this many plays (a school record of 76 rushes and 91 offensive plays), but they held up well. Our conditioning paid off."

Kupec added that Troupe's winning the honor is also a thrill to the coaching staff. "The thing that is so great about it is that he has logged so little playing time prior to this year."

Runner-up for the honor was Mike Shelton, a junior quarterback at Furman, who hit 12 of 17 passes, including nine in a row, for 142 yards and his team's only touchdown in the Paladins' 10-7 loss to Presbyterian.

Allen Melton of The Citadel, credited with nine tackles from his end position in the Bulldogs' 28-21 win over Appalachian State, received the defensive player honors, while Davidson's Jimmy Hardison, a native of Williamston, was the runner-up. Davidson downed VMI, 18-14.

Redskins Ease Past Minnesota

By PAT THOMPSON

Associated Press Sports Writer MINNEAPOLIS, ST. PAUL (AP) — Bill Malinchak draws his National Football League salary chasing kickoffs and punts, charging the kickers and punters.

The seven-year veteran from Indiana, on the taxi squad last week, earned his paycheck Monday night as the Washington Redskins topped the Minnesota Vikings 24-21 in a regular season opener.

Malinchak blocked a punt, picked it up and ran for a touchdown. He recovered a fumble that led to the winning touchdown, and was on the field when teammate Ted Vactor blocked a field goal and deflected another.

Second place went to Steve Camp of 104 Garrett St., Greenville, who missed on three games, the same two Warren missed, plus the Furman-Presbyterian contest.

Brooks Robinson Leads Orioles To 5-2 Victory Over Boston Nine

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer If there were an unabridged dictionary for baseball, you'd find a simple definition for "money players." The synonym would be "Brooks Robinson."

Baltimore's defending American League champions journeyed to Boston for the start of a must series against the Red Sox Monday night and Robinson gave them the jump, drilling three hits to pace a 5-2 Oriole victory.

It was a typical performance for the Orioles' old pro third baseman, who's always at his best in the clutch ball games.

Robinson had two singles and a double, scoring two runs and driving in another for the Orioles, now one game back of idle Detroit which took over the East lead. Boston is squeezed into second place, one-half game behind, while the idle New York Yankees remained fourth, 2½ games off the pace.

In Monday's other games on an abbreviated major league schedule, Cincinnati inched closer to the National League West crown by topping San Francisco 2-0. Pittsburgh's NL East clinching remained stalled with New York edging the Pirates 1-0. In the only other game played, Los Angeles edged San Diego 3-2 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's victory reduced the Reds' magic number to five while the Pirates' fourth straight loss left their clinching number at three.

"We're just in a position where we can't lose," said Robinson. "You've got to fight like there's no tomorrow."

The Birds were trailing 1-0 in the fourth when Robinson opened with a double and scored the tying run on Dave Johnson's triple. Two innings later, the Birds had the lead with Robinson's single helping build the rally and Johnny Oates' double driving home one run and two-out single by pitcher Pat Dobson delivering the other.

Two more runs scored in the seventh, one on Don Baylor's pinch single and the other on Robinson's third hit of the game.

Johnny Bench gave San Francisco a taste of versatility as the Reds shut out the Giants.

First, the Cincinnati slugger crashed his 34th home run of the year for the first run of the game in the fourth inning. Then, two innings later, Bench shifted to his short ball offense, dumping a perfect squeeze bunt down the third base line to score Joe Morgan.

Jim McGlothlin surrendered eight hits in the first five innings but his shutout was preserved by outfielders Cesar Geronimo and Pete Rose who both threw out Giant runners on the basepaths. Clay Carroll pitched the ninth to complete the shutout.

The Mets got five-hit pitching from rookie Jon Matlack to beat Pittsburgh.

Matlack, 13-9, outduelled Nolie Briles, 14-8, with the game's only run scoring in the ninth inning on a single by Duffy Dyer. Rusty Staub, playing only his second game since June for New York, started the winning rally with a single.

Four 10th inning walks, the last one to Willie Crawford with two out, forced home the winning run as Los Angeles nipped

San Diego.

Frank Robinson hit his 19th homer for the Dodgers and No. 522 for his career, moving into seventh place ahead of Ted Williams on the alltime list. It was also the 30th major league park in which the veteran slugger has homered, extending his own record.

Southern Cal Likely To Hold Top Position

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The powerful Trojans of Southern California appear in little danger of losing their No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press college football poll when they play Illinois Saturday.

The unbeaten Trojans retained their top ranking Monday in this week's poll following their 51-6 rout of Oregon State. At the same time it was disclosed that quarterback Mike Wells was a doubtful starter for the Illini.

Wells reinjured a finger on his throwing arm in last week's losing game against Michigan State. Without him, the Illini offense will be greatly hampered. As a result the Trojans will be favored more than ever to make it three in a row.

In Monday's voting the Trojans received 28 first-place votes and 920 of a possible 1,000 points from a nationwide panel

Rozelle Doesn't Want The Replays

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At least one official of the Superdome project here feels National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle should do a re-think on his objections to giant instant-replay television screens in the huge stadium.

"It's hard not to recognize that two stadiums already have the television facilities," William Connick, secretary-treasurer of the stadium commission, said Monday.

Rozelle and officials of the New Orleans Saints have said they could see problems arising from the instant replay plan.

Rozelle said Saturday he is opposed to instant replays in modern stadiums except at halftimes and after the games.

"There could be serious consequence otherwise," he said.

"There is the chance of an undesirable fan reaction which could result if controversial plays are shown," Dick Gordon, executive vice president of the Saints said Monday.

Six giant screens—22 by 26 feet each—have been proposed for the stadium. Connick alluded to "certain economic advantages to be recognized from the television screens, as well as the boon to kibitzers."

"We think it will come to pass," Connick said. "It opens up areas for theatrical productions, closed-circuit prize fights and things of that nature."

Rozelle did not refer directly to the Superdome in issuing his condemnation of instant replay in stadiums. The new Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City has one screen capable of showing instant replays, and Rozelle has ruled similarly on that.

Rozelle also said Saturday that some thought had been given to using TV cameras as an aid to officials, but that he felt the time it would take to review films would slow the pace of the game too much.

He added that the plan had been junked because it "would need a number of cameras and this would not be economically feasible."

Things Can't Get Much Worse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The way things have gone so far, coach Frank Jones of Richmond's defending Southern Conference football champion Spiders must think it's a rerun of last year.

If so, things are bound to get better—because they couldn't get much worse.

At this stage of the 1971 campaign, the Spiders had dropped a 23-0 decision to North Carolina and a 16-3 decision to West Virginia. They then lost to Boston College 24-0 before winning five of their last seven games, including five of six in conference play.

So far this year, the Spiders have lost again to North Carolina, by 28-18, and to West Virginia, by 28-7. Their next opponent Saturday is a newcomer, Northeast Louisiana, followed by conference opponents in six of their last seven games.

It's not the defeats that are worrying Jones so far, however, as much as it's the injuries and illnesses.

All-Southern fullback Barty Smith, last year's leading ground gainer and pass receiver and one of the top blockers in the conference, played only sparingly against North Carolina and not at all against West Virginia because of a lingering three-week virus.

Tight end Joe Sgroi also missed the West Virginia scrap with a virus, and junior tailback Weldon Edwards—who scored twice against North Carolina—suffered a serious knee injury in the second quarter at West Virginia.

A decision was expected today on whether Edwards would undergo surgery, but it was anticipated he would miss most of the rest of the season, if not all of it.

Smith finally was back in uniform for Monday's practice for the first time in more than a week, but Jones got another dose of bad news to go with the good tidings of Smith's return.

Starting quarterback Dave Yount, a sophomore transfer from Buffalo, was discovered to have sprained the thumb on his throwing hand in the West Virginia game and his status is doubtful.

"Right now, Yount can't even hold a football, let alone throw it," said Jones. "He was just starting to come around as our No. 1 quarterback, and now this happens."

Defensive tackle Vic Moye suffered a knee injury against West Virginia and missed Monday's drills, but he's expected back in action for Saturday's home opener for the Spiders.

Another defensive tackle, Norman Seabrooks, was held out of a light workout at The Citadel because of a slight virus. The Bulldogs play their first home game Saturday night against Western Carolina.

Battle Of Quarterbacks Is Slated For Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North Carolina State at North Carolina Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday will mark the meeting of two quarterbacks who distinguished themselves last week. They are Nick Vidnovic of North Carolina, who was great on third-down situations in the 31-26 victory at Maryland, and Dave Buckley of N. C. State, a freshman selected as the ACC Offensive Back of the Week for directing the Wolfpack to three touchdowns and a field goal in the 43-20 victory over Syracuse.

Jerry Claiborne, Maryland coach, said, "North Carolina did it on third-down plays. We would put them in a hole and then Vidnovic would come through with a pass or a run and they would be alive. He showed he could throw the football when he needed to. Twice in a row in the fourth quarter he found his tight end in pressure situations."

Despite the loss, Maryland showed it can be a contender and dangerous against anyone. The Terps, down 17-3 at half-time, made two touchdowns for a 17-17 tie within six minutes after intermission.

One of the scores was on a 72-yard run by Bob Smith on a low, line drive of a punt by Vidnovic. But Vidnovic made up for this blunder with a booming, 73-yard pressure punt late in the game that bounded into the end zone and precluded a victory for fired-up Maryland.

Despite some electrifying passing by Bob Avellini, a drive of 80 yards was asking too much, and just before the end of the game North Carolina recovered a fumble off a pass interception.

Of his long punt Vidnovic said, "The only thing on my mind was hitting the ball solidly. That was my only thought."

Coach Bill Dooley of North Carolina's defending ACC champions was pleased that his team kept its poise after Maryland came back early in the second half. "Under these conditions on a foreign field we had the ability to twice go 80 yards for touchdowns," he said. "That's the real test of what a team can do. We won under the toughest of pressure."

In only his second varsity game, Buckley scored N. C. State's first touchdown and passed 13 yards to Steve Lester for another. His 57-yard run in the third quarter set up a touchdown. He rushed for 110 yards on only 11 carries and completed nine of 15 passes for 100 yards to account for nearly half the Wolfpack's 452 yards in total offense.

Syracuse Coach Ben Schwartzwalder said, "I can't believe that kid is only a freshman. He has so much poise. He's a real fine one."

State Coach Lou Holtz said, "I wouldn't hesitate to use him in any situation."

Monday's workouts usually are light, but Wake Forest, preparing to entertain fifth-ranked Tennessee, went through a grueling 2½-hour session. "We have made too many mistakes in our first two games, so today we basically worked on fundamentals that take place at the line of scrimmage," said Coach Tom Harper. The Deacons lost 56-10 at Southern Methodist last week after opening with a 26-20 victory at home over Davidson.

Duke, after two losses away, is home in a third inter-sectional game, against 19th-ranked Stanford. The game will be televised regionally.

Duke has lost 35-12 to Alabama and 14-6 to Washington.

Virginia, unbeaten in its first two games and off to its best start in 18 years, heard scout Don Lawrence report that West Virginia will be the toughest team the Cavaliers will have faced so far. The Mountaineers also are unbeaten in two games, and Lawrence said they are a deep, experienced and quick team.

Clemson, which had an open date last week, is at Rice Saturday night. Maryland is home to VMI.

Tennis Winners

Miss Susan Bussey and Miss Ellen Warren, top seeded in the Greenville Tennis Club's Open Women's Doubles Tournament, swept to victory this weekend at Elm Street Park's courts.

The duo downed Mrs. Nancy Powell and Mrs. Sissie East, the second seeded team in the tournament by scores of 6-4 and 6-0 to capture the championship flight.

A total of 10 teams entered the tournament, one of several being held by the Greenville Tennis Club. Losers in the first two rounds made up a flight, which was won by Miss Susie Pittman and Mrs. Anne Sayetta. They defeated Mrs. Frances Cain and Mrs. Kathy Dupree, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

The women's closed singles and doubles tournament will be held Wednesday through Friday of this week at Elm Street Park.

Unser To Race In National

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Unser, former Indianapolis 500 winner, will make his first appearance in over four years in a NASCAR superspeedway race in the National 500 stock car race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway on Oct. 8.

He was chosen Monday to pilot a Ray Nichols-built Chevelle in the $123,000 event on the circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

He will join another U. S. Auto Club (USAC) driver, A. J. Foyt, selected previously to drive one of the two Wood Brothers Mercurys. The other will be driven by David Pearson, whose victory in the Delaware 500 Sunday was the Wood Brothers' eighth superspeedway triumph of the year, a record. Pearson has won six of the races in the No. 21 auto.

Another USAC driver in the National 500 will be Roger McCluskey, who outran Richard Petty in capturing the Pennsylvania 500 at Pocono in July. McCluskey will drive a Dodge prepared by Dave Marcis.

"Instead of there only being four or five cars capable of winning, we are going to have at least 10," said Richard Howard, general manager of the speedway.

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — Influenza has thrown a stiff bodycheck at the Los Angeles Kings, the National Hockey League team in training here.

Fifteen of the 38 players in camp were hit by influenza during the weekend. It even caught up with the team's publicity director and an assistant trainer.

"The players are affected in varying degrees, but none seriously," general manager Larry Regan said. "It's a nuisance, more than anything."

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots of the National Football League have acquired on waivers offensive lineman Bob Reynolds from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Reynolds, a former three-time selection for the Pro Bowl, attended Bowling Green and was the Cardinals' second-round draft pick in 1963.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Ratliff, the second-round draft choice of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings of the National Basketball Association, has been suspended indefinitely. Coach Bob Cousy said Monday.

The Worry Clinic

The 2nd Child Has Own Trait

"Sibling Sequence" shows why Billy and Bobby are like the Prodigal Son and his older brother. For our personalities depend to a large degree on whether we are the firstborn or 2nd child of the same sex. Use the "Introvert-Extrovert Test" to pick your career!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-592: Billy and Bobby, aged 9 and 7, are a puzzle to their mother.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "the boys are entirely different in their personalities."

"Billy is quiet and more reserved, for he doesn't show as much interest in being hugged or kissed."

"And he is a hoarder of his toys, as well as candy."

"At Easter, their grandparents gave both of them a lot of chocolate Easter eggs."

"Bobby ate his in the first 2 days and then tried to wheedle some of Billy's."

"For Billy kept his for weeks."

In fact, I recently found 3 of those chocolate eggs tucked away in his box of relics and treasures.

"Billy is more reliable and finishes his tasks, while Bobby talks his way out of work and often leaves his chores undone."

"Isn't this proof of their different inheritance?"

Introvert-Extrovert

No, it is chiefly a sign that Billy is the firstborn while Bobby typifies the usual 2nd child.

That is especially true if your first two kiddies are both boys or girls and close together in age.

Then the older is generally much like Billy.

For the first born comes upon the family scene with no other youngsters with whom to talk or share toys or romp and play.

So that oldest child tends to become an introvert.

He may thus develop into a dreamer and create his own recreation, using his wooden blocks and other toys.

Then along comes the 2nd child, who finds himself in a dilemma.

For there is another older and stronger "King of the Nursery."

So that 2nd youngster quickly learns to use language as a means of talking his way out of difficulty or of persuading his older sibling to share toys, candy and attention.

The younger child will often shed crocodile tears as if he is being killed, when in a battle with his older brother, for then Mamma will rush to his rescue and say:

"Junior, let your little brother have that toy, for he is just a baby, you know, while you are a BIG boy."

The Prodigal Son was thus the 2nd child and you Bible scholars will recall how he fast talked his father out of his inheritance.

Then, when he had spent his money on wild living, he had to gail to return home.

The oldest son would probably have starved rather than come back home to admit his failure.

The firstborn also becomes a "counter" or accountant for he must survey his toys each night to make sure his younger sibling hasn't taken some of them.

That older child also is more inclined to save things, ranging from old toys, stamps, rare coins and even his money.

As an adult, he is more likely to have a bank account to look after his aged parents.

Though he may growl and show little personal affection, when the chips are down, they know they can depend upon him for support.

The younger (extrovert) kisses them, shows his affection and converses with them by the hour, but then may borrow the money his older brother gave them!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Move To Quiz A 2nd General

DENVER (AP) — Senators probing unauthorized U.S. bombing raids against North Vietnam fly to Denver today to question a second general implicated in the case.

Armed Services Committee

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., and Sens. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, and Peter Dominick, R-Colo., were due to arrive at midmorning to question Maj. Gen. Alton Slay, former 7th Air Force deputy chief of staff for operations and now head of the special training command at Denver's Lowry Air Force Base.

Slay was said to be recovering from a hernia operation at Fitzsimmons Hospital.

He served as deputy to Gen. John D. Lavelle, the 7th Air Force commander who was fired after higher officials learned that he had ordered unauthorized raids.

According to Stennis, Slay was implicated in testimony Friday by Col. Charles Gabriel, commander of the 342nd Reconnaissance Wing at Udorn, Thailand, during the raids last November through March.

Twenty-eight raids involving 147 aircraft hit North Vietnamese targets under the guise of "protective reaction" before renewed heavy bombing of the North was ordered by the White House. The committee is probing the circumstances of the raids as well as the broader question of civilian control of the military.

Gabriel, said Stennis, testified behind closed doors that "the targets were to be hit whether or not there was reaction" from the North Vietnamese.

As he understood Gabriel's testimony, Stennis said, the raids "were planned in advance—hostile fire or the equivalent, or not—and he was to make reports as if they met this hostile reaction."

Gabriel was quoted as saying he received those orders from Slay via telephone.

Air-war rules in effect at the time banned U.S. strikes against the North unless American planes were fired upon or there was strong evidence they were about to be attacked.

Italy not only won the World Bridge Olympiad held in Miami Beach last June, but they also finished first in the Ladies Series which was run concurrently with the main event. The Italians took an early lead and played consistently thruout to finish solidly ahead of South Africa while a highly regarded American lineup had to content themselves with third.

Today's hand is from the match between Italy and the United States and the deal netted the eventual victors a sizeable swing.

The bidding is presented at the table where the Italians were seated North and South. East opened the bidding in second position with one heart and South overcalled with one spade. West's double is not for penalties, but in the methods employed by the American pair using it, is a conventional call showing values in the unbid suits.

North's jump to three spades was intended as a preemptive maneuver designed to jam up the opponents' bidding channels. With spade length and heart strength located in front of the opening bidder, North did not appear to be long on defensive values. Holding a virtually self-sustaining suit, East persisted to four hearts. South bid four spades which West doubled—this time for penalties. She was convinced that her side could not make a five level contract, but perhaps it would have been wiser to pass the decision around to partner, particularly since the issue was not clear-cut. If left to her own devices, East might have carried on to five hearts which will be defeated only one trick if South makes the expected opening lead of the ace of spades.

Against four spades doubled, West opened the seven of hearts and the ace was played from dummy. The Jack of spades was led and when East played the seven, declarer considered a moment and then let the jack ride. When the finesse succeeded, another spade lead brought forth the king and ace and cleared up the trump situation.

The ace of clubs was cashed and a small club continued. When West turned up with the king, declarer claimed 10 tricks—conceding two diamonds in addition to the club that she had just lost. The profit on the deal to Italy was 590 points [290 for the doubled trick score plus the 300 bonus awarded in tournament play for a nonvulnerable game].

At the other table where the United States was seated North-South, the bidding started in a similar manner with East's opening bid of one heart and South's overcall of one spade. The Italian player in West's position declined to take direct action and passed. North jumped to three spades which was passed by East. Altho North's action is highly invitational, a jump raise by the partner of an overcaller is not forcing and South held too many losers to carry on voluntarily. She passed and West once more declined to act, permitting her opponents to play a part score.

Altho the American South routinely took 10 tricks, her score on the deal was only 170 [120 plus a 50 bonus for a part score] and the net loss on the deal to the United States was 420 points.

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Boise State College is planning a two-day seminar next month on the art of federal and private "grantsmanship."

The seminar is designed for any person, agency, organization, city or county interested in getting through the red tape that surrounds grants from the government and private institutions.

Pollution Rules Costly For TVA

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — If all the pollution regulations currently in effect and those being actively considered become law, the Tennessee Valley Authority would have to double its sources of revenue, a TVA official says.

Aubrey J. Wagner, chairman of the TVA, said Monday the agency's power revenues were about $650 million last year but more stringent pollution requirements would severely cut into the funds.

"If it should become necessary to meet all of these tests and requirements," he told the Region II meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association in Savannah, "TVA would be faced with an approximate doubling of our revenue requirements."

The TVA may have to spend between $75 million and $830 million annually to make its power generator operations free of pollution, Wagner said. He said the disparity between the figures resulted from consideration of federal and state environmental laws still being developed.

"The $75 million figure includes actions or arrangements that are, for the most part, already included in our operations and immediate plans," he said. "It represents our current thinking concerning minimum cost of doing a responsible job of meeting the environmental needs. "The larger total reflects added control measures either already required by state or federal regulations or those being actively proposed or considered."

The TVA chairman said the public wants something done about pollution but is largely unwilling to pay anything to help correct it.

"Common sense should tell us that we can't completely clean up in a year or two a total situation that is being building for generations," he suggested. "We must assess the problems, set up some priorities, do first things first."

Heart Attack For A.C. Davis

RALEIGH (AP) — A. C. Davis, controller for the state Board of Education, was listed in fair condition at a Morehead City hospital Monday after suffering a heart attack at Atlantic Beach Sunday.

Davis, who suffered a similar attack in May of last year, probably will be transferred to a Raleigh hospital in a day or so, according to Dr. Milton Morey.

Withdrawal Mood Cited

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk is concerned about what he termed the present mood among the American people if withdrawal from world affairs.

Rusk, now a law professor at the University of Georgia, told a Southern Newspaper Publishers Association seminar Monday that "we are obviously going through a period of transition where our commitments to such notions as collective security are eroding and we have not yet decided or even seriously considered what to put in its place if we turn away from it."

Rusk denied that the United States has played the role of world policeman, saying that of the 400 situations of violence which have occurred in the world since 1945, "we were directly involved in only about seven or eight of those."

In his discussion of "The Role of the Military in Foreign Policy Decisions," Rusk said, "I personally reject something called the military mind. Usually these references appear to have in mind personalities like George Patton and Curtis LeMay rather than George Marshall, Dwight Eisenhower and Omar Bradley."

Fatally Wounded In Holdup Try

RALEIGH (AP) — A man identified as Herman Sanders, 28, was killed in a robbery attempt at a Raleigh motel Sunday, police Capt. Larry Smith reported Monday.

Smith said Sanders was fatally wounded by Charles W. Pritchett, night manager at the motel, and died later at Wake Memorial Hospital.

Pritchett said he shot at Sanders after the man pointed a gun at him.

Revival Being Held All Week

Revival services are being conducted at the Calvary Pentecostal Holiness Church, located on the Belvoir Highway, through Sunday.

The Rev. Lotis Joyner is the guest speaker. Services begin nightly at 7:45 and features special singing.

The pastor, Rev. T. R. Bradshaw, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is unusually good for uniting conditions from the past in an intelligent alignment with what you want in the future. The evening finds a confused situation developing that requires much care and caution.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day to get in touch with as many fine friends as possible and do those things that will improve the friendship. You can reach desires not possible before now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you seek ideas from higher-ups in the morning you can push ahead more quickly toward success. You are now able to handle those civic affairs. Evening is fine for other tasks.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have so many ideas in your mind that it is important you employ only those that are best for you in the future. Make plans for a trip which is important to your advancement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make those collections now that will enable you to pay bills that are pressing and thereby improve your credit. A display of your fine talent will impress others now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in conversations with associates so that you can clear up any differences and make better arrangements for the future. Avoid one who bickers. Relax at home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to do all that work ahead, efficiently and gain the respect of co-workers. Use your energies wisely. Some time spent at exercise will improve your health. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan time to repay a social debt today which could bring fine benefits in the future. Your mate wants proof of your affection, so be sure to give it and add to happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Add those comforts to home that will increase its beauty and give happiness and satisfaction. Work on a plan to have more security in the future. Success is up to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can now make excellent new contacts while enjoying old ones. State your aims to right people who can now help you attain them. Don't neglect correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to find a more modern way of adding to present income, otherwise you will not get good results. Contact an expert in business for advice and follow it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handling personal affairs is best today, although you can accomplish almost anything you set your heart on today. Talking with persons you respect can bring about advancement.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talking with a good friend and stating your fondest desires brings fine cooperation so that you can attain them easily. The social is particularly good this evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful individuals who likes people. Be sure to have playmates in as much as possible, but be sure they are the right kind of people, otherwise your progeny could get into the wrong company and possibly ruin a fine future. Almost any field is good here, especially that of selling, personnel work, the ministry and teaching.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

N.C. Rally Slated By 'Common Cause'

RALEIGH — Over 500 North Carolinians, including some from the First Congressional District chapter, are expected here Wednesday to meet national Common Cause chairman, John W. Gardner, when he addresses the first statewide rally of Common Cause.

Scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Raleigh Woman's Club Building on Highway 70, the rally is expected to attract both Common Cause members and non-members who share Gardner's goals for reordering priorities in the nation's governmental institutions. This is Gardner's first appearance in North Carolina since his founding of Common Cause, a national citizens group, in 1970. The rally is free and open to the public.

The former secretary of health, education, and welfare has been speaking throughout the country on Common Cause issues. Chosen by members, the issues include money and secrecy in politics, the Vietnam war, citizen access to the ballot, and political reform such as abolition of the seniority system in Congress, tighter lobbying controls, freedom of information, and strict conflict of interest laws.

Common Cause members in North Carolina, numbering about 2,000, are part of the more-than-200,000-member network of citizens in the nation who lobby on behalf of the issues. The organization is political but nonpartisan.

Horn-Playing Incites Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Music may have charms to soothe the savage beast but a lady who practiced scales on a French horn at odd hours only incited her neighbors to sue.

Civil Court Judge Bentley Kassal issued a decision Monday ordering Shirley Lahm to confine her daily practice to certain hours or face eviction from her lower East Side apartment.

The schedule: a maximum of one hour between noon and 2 p.m. and a maximum of two hours from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays; a maximum of three hours from noon to 6 p.m. Saturday—and never on Sunday.

Kassal noted that Miss Lahm, a computer programmer who is seeking to become a professional horn player, described her playing as "dark, muted and mellifluous."

Her neighbors were harsher critics, he said. One described the sound as "piercing shrieks" and added that it "drives me up the wall."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THE GENTLY SLOPING saddle roof of Plan HA744R makes the house look much larger than it really is. The 12 by 12 screen porch extends the living room, via a sliding glass door. The dining area is handy to the kitchen. And the kitchen has a breakfast nook, as well as a door to a back porch, also suitable for outdoor eating. There are 784 square feet in this home, designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

Union Backs McGovern For Controls' Position

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Citing Sen. George McGovern's pledge to abolish wage controls if elected, the executive board of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union—whose 50,000 members saw the Pay Board slash a wage boost won through a bitter strike—has endorsed the Democratic presidential ticket.

In a statement urging its members to "bring about the defeat of the Nixon administration," the ILWU's international executive board said Monday "the board believes the election of McGovern-Shriver as against another four years of the Nixon administration will be of benefit to the overwhelming majority of American people."

"Four years of Richard Nixon in the White House have resulted in wage controls which have severely limited the gains of millions of trade unionists," the board said.

"Profits of big corporations continued to rise while the number of impoverished people in the United States increased to 25,559,000, or 12 per cent of the population."

The board also criticized the Republican administration for sponsoring a bill passed by Congress during the 134-day West Coast dock strike last February which empowered the President to halt the walkout and impose compulsory arbitration.

The ILWU statement did not mention McGovern's vote in favor of that bill, which passed the Senate 79-3.

The statement also cited Nixon for "not keeping his promise of ending the war in Vietnam ... removals of U.S. ground forces in Vietnam are accompanied by increases in air forces in Laos and Thailand and great increases in 'naval forces.'"

But the board warned that a McGovern victory would be "no cure-all to the problems before us. Constant pressure must be maintained on Sen. McGovern to see that wage controls are ended, the rights of labor maintained, and the war in Vietnam brought to a quick end."

The Pay Board last March chopped 30 cents from a 72-cent hourly first-year wage increase won by the longshoremen through the longest strike in West Coast dock history.

McGovern has publicly stated that his administration would eliminate most wage and price controls.

McGovern's office here released a statement in which the senator said he was "very gratified" at the endorsement.

Parents Charge Country Singer

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — A Harrison County couple has promised further legal action after country music entertainer Faron Young allegedly assaulted their six-year-old daughter at a country music concert here Sunday night.

The child was waiting at the side of the state for an autograph from Young when the entertainer walked over, picked her up and began spanking her.

The parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Catlett of Stonewood Addition, later filed assault charges but by that time the Young entourage had left Clarksburg en route to another engagement.

The bus carrying the troupe was stopped on U.S. 50 in Wood County and Young was arrested. He later appeared before a Wood County JP, paid a $24 fine plus $11 court costs and was released.

The Catletts said their daughter was badly bruised in the incident and indicated the plan civil action against Young.

In Nashville, Tenn., Young's agent, Billy Deaton, said he knew nothing of the case and would not comment.

Later the entertainer's road manager, Louis Redding, gave a spokesman this account of the incident:

"We were doing this show in Clarksburg. Faron has a new song out called 'This Little Girl of Mine.' When he sings it, he usually picks up a little girl from the audience and holds her."

"There was this one little girl who came up and she stuck her tongue out at him. He picked her up and she pulled his hair, and he asked, 'Who owns this child?' and not a soul said a word," Redding said. "She stuck out her tongue and pulled his hair again and this time she pulled the microphone cord out."

"Well, he spanked her a couple of times, then got back on stage and then her father came up," Redding added, "and said some things to Faron and Faron just closed the show. He said there was no use going on."

Redding said he was with the Young party when they were stopped near Parkersburg "and we took care of it."

ConscienceCash From Seattle

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska Fish and Game Department has received a cashier's check for $75 from an unidentified Seattle man who said his conscience was bothering him.

State spokesmen said Monday a check for that amount arrived late last week along with a hand-printed note.

The note read: "While hunting in Alaska, I took game in a manner which was not completely legal. This has bothered me a great degree ... While it is impossible to go back and change the event, I do feel that I can make some correction by sending you an amount of money that I feel I would have paid out if it were done in a legal manner."

The note was not signed. The money was deposited in the state treasury.

Keeps Area For Businessmen

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A restaurateur says he will continue his battle with the women's luncheon crowd over his policy of reserving a corner of his downtown restaurant for businessmen.

Thomas Burns, president of the firm which owns the restaurant, has been cited in a U.S. District Court suit filed by the Wisconsin Civil Liberties Union Foundation and some women lawyers.

Burns' grill has been picketed several times in recent years by women, and was invaded this summer by demonstrators. He says he sets aside an area for businessmen only at noon when they are in a hurry, and that women are always welcome elsewhere in the restaurant.

Arrest Youth For Break-Ins

Freddie Lee Williams, 18, of 314 Page Dr. was arrested yesterday on three counts of breaking, entering and larceny in connection with three break-ins here last week.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Williams was charged with a September 11 break-in at the New Deal Cleaners, 911 West Fifth St.

In addition, the chief explained, Williams was charged in connection with a September 16 break-in at the cleaners and a break-in at Harris Super Market at 901 West Fifth St. the same day.

Bond for Williams was set at $1,000 in each case.

'Rock-a-thon' For Pitt UF

The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity at East Carolina University, announced plans to conduct a Rock-a-thon at Five Points with all proceeds going to the Pitt United Fund.

Greg McLeod, first vice president of the fraternity, said that 17 or 18 persons will participate in the effort which is slated to begin at 8 a.m. Sept. 28 and continue through 6 p.m. on Sept. 29.

McLeod reported that the fraternity will have a brother rocking at all times and will station one person at each of the corners at Five Points to solicit pedestrian traffic. Funds collected during the Rock-a-thon, he added, will be turned over to the ECU division of the United Fund for further presentation to the Pitt chapter.

The brother drawing the lucky assignment of rocking for the United Fund will continue his duties, without relief, until 6 p.m. on the 30th. McLeod said that the school maintenance department is furnishing the stand to be used for the service project.

Noting that the fraternity would like to raise at least $2,500 for the United Fund, the vice president reported that the appeal for funds will be directed to the students as much as possible.

He added that Alpha Phi also plans to set up a booth in the ECU student union during the first week in October to collect funds and accept pledges for United Fund.
