

Gunfire Again Explodes On Israeli-Syrian Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gunfire exploded again across the Syrian-Israeli cease-fire lines today as Israelis called for tighter security against Arab terrorist murders in Europe.

The Israeli military command reported at dawn that Arab gunners inside Syria opened artillery fire on the occupied Golan Heights, near the border region where Israeli forces invaded South Lebanon on an antiguerrilla mission over the weekend. There were no casualties, and the Israelis returned the fire, the command said.

Syrian shellfire has been aimed at the Golan Heights for more than a week, and most Israelis regard it as insignificant, but Arab terrorist attacks outside the Middle East have set a grim new mood in the country.

The newest Arab sabotage — a flurry of parcel bombs in Europe which killed an Israeli agricultural attache in London Tuesday — brought a warning from foreign minister Abba Eban that terrorists will get what is coming to them.

He described the agricultural attache, Ami Shachori, as "a man of the soil who devoted his life to upbuilding and creation," and vowed that "those who shed innocent blood, their supporters and those who aid them, will meet their just deserts."

Thieu Hints New Northern Push Heavy New Blows By N. Viets

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese struck heavy, new blows at Quang Ngai province south of Da Nang today while more than 150 miles to the north President Nguyen Van Thieu visited recaptured Quang Tri City. He indicated a new northern push toward the demilitarized zone in the coming weeks. In the air war, the number of American planes downed over North Vietnam in the new 5½-month bombing campaign hit the 100 mark, the U.S. Command announced. A Navy A7 Jet was shot down Tuesday by anti-aircraft artillery fire. The pilot was recovered by a rescue helicopter in the Tonkin Gulf 40 miles northeast of Vinh.

The Command said Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers carried out more than 310 strikes across North Vietnam Tuesday, concentrating on bridges, highways, truck traffic, water craft and warehouses in a continuing campaign to disrupt the flow of war materials into South Vietnam.

Eye Hospital Bids Around January 1

By CAROL TYER

Hospital architect Beverly Freeman told trustees last night, "We hope to go for bids around the first of the year."

He explained that approval of plans must yet be obtained from the regional office of Housing and Urban Development concerned with the dissemination of Hill-Burton Funds and from the N.C. Medical Care Commission, and that it is wise to show them to Duke Endowment which usually is generous with hospitals that care for the needy.

Asked what kind of facade the hospital buildings would have, he said they would be light-colored stucco or steel studs. The inside would be mostly dry walls. Board member J.H. "Hap" Moyer said there has never been a stucco building in Eastern North Carolina that does not leak. Toward the end of the meeting, he said he wanted to go on record as opposing the use of the stucco facade. Other trustees agreed to look into the matter more thoroughly. Construction estimates are as follows: the hospital buildings—259,653 square feet—$11,762,490; the rehabilitation building—62,488 square feet—$2,009,641. Funds committed to the project so far amount to $10,523,042. The balance necessary for construction is $3,249,089. It is hoped that Hill-Burton and other funds will be forthcoming to take care of much of this deficit. The names of several more ministers were approved for the registration of ministers with special patient-visiting privileges. Dr. Earl Trevathan reported that the Department of Family Medicine is now functioning with Dr. Herbert Hadley as its head. Pitt apparently is one of the few hospitals in the country to have established such a department within the medical staff. Dr. Burt Aycock and Dr. Andrew Best were recognized, Dr. Aycock for his years of service to the Greenville City School Board and Dr. Best for being named "doctor of the year" by the National Medical Association.

Field reports said that just before dusk, North Vietnamese troops moving under cover of a heavy mortar barrage attacked a South Vietnamese ranger compound on the northern edges of the district town of Ba To in southern Quang Ngai province. The district town had fallen earlier. Sappers broke into the compound, defended by a battalion of roughly 400 rangers, and heavy fighting was reported. The area's South Vietnamese commander called for air strikes against more than a battalion of North Vietnamese troops. The fate of the ranger battalion was not immediately known, but at last report it was still holding at least part of the compound. Meanwhile, U.S. Air Force C130 transports began an airlift to another district town, Duc Pho, on north-south Highway 1 about 15 miles east of Ba To.

Chosen Chairman

J.T. Little, Jr. was elected chairman of the Pitt County-City of Greenville Airport Authority at a meeting of the authority on Tuesday night.

Little, earlier named by the City council as a member of the authority, was elected chairman by members of the authority. Other members on the authority are John L. Howard, Elmore Hodges and W.C. Monk.

Mrs. Mildred McGrath, Greenville City Councilwoman and J. Vance Perkins, Pitt County Commissioner, are ex-officio members of the authority.

Little, elected for a four year term as a member of the authority, replaces former chairman R. W. Howard, Sr.

Bowles Stops Here On Way To Carteret Talks

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, the Democratic candidate for Governor, stopped in Greenville this morning on his way to other campaign commitments in the Carteret County area.

During his local stay, Bowles visited Raynor-Forbes Warehouse on Dickinson Ave. where he shook hands with a number of people on hand for the tobacco auction in progress, then stopped at Pitt County Shrine Club fish fry sales location on Memorial Drive where he tried a plate of fish, slaw and fried corn bread.

The candidate talked with a number of farmers at the warehouse and said they seemed pleased with the high prices they were receiving for their golden leaf.

Talking with newsmen there, Bowles expressed his displeasure with what he described as the "highway slush fund" which "now and in the past" has been controlled by the governor. "I'm going to eliminate it," he emphasized. "I don't think the governor should have the authority" to fund millions of dollars worth of road projects "without the approval of the Highway Commission."

Bowles emphasized, "Let the experts put it where the need is, rather than where politics dictates."

The Democratic hopeful also said he would ask the North Carolina General Assembly "to let the people vote on $40 million" to acquire park land and expand the system of state parks.

"We need to buy the land today for expansion in the future," he emphasized. Explaining, Bowles noted that historically most of the state-owned park land has been donated to the state. He said land prices are constantly going up and that land should be bought before prices increase further, noting that the time when Mt. Mitchell State Park was sold to the state for $16 per acre is long gone. "We need parks readily accessible to all," Bowles said. Bowles said too, that his campaign is "getting tremendous support" from Republican party members in the state and announced that a "Republicans for Bowles" committee was announced in Charlotte yesterday "to actively support our candidacy."

Following his warehouse visit, the candidate stopped off for a plate of fried fish at a Pitt County Shrine Club stand. Himself a Shriner, Bowles praised the efforts of local Shriners in their efforts to raise money for the Crippled Children's Hospital in Greenville, South Carolina.

Bowles was told that the fish fry last year resulted in $10,000 being donated to the hospital from Pitt County. The candidate will be in Greenville again Friday. A $100-a-plate barbecue is being held to raise funds for his campaign then.

Liza's Not Worried About Life With Desi

By PERCY SHAIN
NEW YORK (WNS) — It will be an intriguing marriage: Liza Minnelli, 26, and Desi Arnaz Jr., 19, the offspring of two of the brightest stars of their generation...an age barrier...a career conflict. But Liza's not worried.

"We can handle it," she said in a recent interview. "We've both been through the career thing. We've lived with it all our lives. I see no problem there."

"As for Desi's age, well, Fred Ebb (the songwriter and a friend) put it best when he said, 'There's a paper somewhere that says he's 19. But I don't believe it.'"

"I don't either. Gee, he's been through so much. To come out on top the way he has is a real accomplishment. It's made him gentle and compassionate. He's really an old soul."

When will the actual marriage occur?

Liza's To Flit

"Who knows?" she replied. "I never plan ahead. I don't know what I'll do tomorrow, let alone next year. I like to flit from one thing to another. I hate anything that keeps me tied down to any one place. I love my freedom, but it's got to happen some day. Maybe six months. Maybe two years. In the meantime, we're engaged."

They've known each other for many years. She said she was eight when she first met him. But since he was one at the time, it probably wasn't much of a meeting.

She has changed her ideas about marriage since Desi came into her life. Before that she said, "Marriage is just a promise on a piece of paper."

Now she says, "For a sentimental girl like me, there is something to say for the marriage ritual. It is so lovely. I don't think much about that business of getting the license and all those details. But the ceremony itself — it says something beautiful. It has a place in life."

At the moment they're separated. He's "off playing tennis" somewhere. But they're very much in love and spend every minute they can together.

TV Special

And they were side by side the night of her television special, "Liza with a Z," aired Sunday night, Sept. 10, as the opening shot of NBC's new season.

"We were at Lucille Ball's house," Liza said. "She planned a big party that night. She was on a competing show, the 25th anniversary salute to television. But she said she'd watch my show, not hers."

"She told me that was a pretty boring program. Just a lot of people getting awards. Needless to say, I'm tickled pink."

Later, Liza will join Desi in Israel, where he'll be shooting a movie, "Billy Two-Hat," a western.

"I can't wait to get there," she said. "I have a date in Las Vegas in October and right after that I'll join him in Israel."

Liza apologized for being so bubbly. "It's really because of the special," she said. "It's that moment in life where everything came together. I rehearsed five weeks for this show and then did a concert before a live, black-tie audience. It was exciting. I was all a-tingle."

Lots Of Waiting

"I don't often feel this way. I waited a long time for this show. I waited a long time for 'Cabaret' and for 'The Sterile Cuckoo,' too. And I'm very proud of both those films. It seems to turn out best when you have patience."

"I never do anything just for the sake of doing it. It has to mean something. But that doesn't mean I don't like to work. I do. I love the pressure and excitement of this business. It's my lifestyle."

Show business pressures can break a sensitive person, as happened to her mother, Judy Garland, but Liza feels "there's a difference."

"I deliberately chose this way of life. It was forced on my mom. She couldn't cope with it. I think I can."

"You have to be able to separate the fantasy from the real thing. I think I've solved that problem. My motto is to resolve to do the best I can every time and leave it at that."

"I love to be with people. I enjoy life. My parents gave me the best possible training for a career as an entertainer. I was always conscious of their support and their influence. They were always in back of me, and they never got in my way."

"They gave me the greatest gift a kid ever had. They gave me their trust; they had confidence in my integrity. They both liked me, not because they had to, but because they just did. And I liked them."

"They were so different from each other, yet both so full of life. My mom had so much going for her. My dad (producer-director Vincente Minnelli) by contrast is ethereal and very creative. He has an entirely different set of values. I'm very proud of him. We have a project going that may result in his producing my next picture."

With her flying start she may some day eclipse her famous mother, but Liza said, "That was never my aim. I never dreamt of setting that kind of goal for myself. I know that when I was young and she was alive, people looked upon us as rivals because we were in the same business. But I never felt that way."

Dancer

"Actually, as a child, I just wanted to be a dancer. At 4, I thought it would be great to be in the ballet. Then I got hooked on jazz dancing. My big ambition was to be in the chorus of 'Bye Bye Birdie.' I earned my first $5 dancing my heart out while my mom sang 'Swanee.'"

"Then I got a Ruby Keeler complex and decided to strike out on my own. I got a job off-Broadway as the third lead in 'Best Foot Forward' at $34 a week. It was then I realized that if you want to be a performer you have to be able to do everything. I decided to become an actress and worked at it."

She won a Tony as best newcomer on Broadway in 'Flora the Red Menace,' broke into the movies in 'Charlie Bubbles,' then skyrocketed to fame in 'Sterile Cuckoo,' 'Tell Me that You Love Me, Junie Moon' and 'Cabaret.' In the meantime, she married (and later left) a husband, Peter Allen, an Australian singer.

She has never been to a psychiatrist, "but some of the magazine interviews I've been subjected to have made me feel I'm in analysis," she laughed. "They ask so many questions. Sometimes, when I left out whole areas of my life, they'd get mad at me, as if I weren't telling the truth. But I was. I just didn't remember the hard parts."

"To me, in spite of everything, my childhood was a fascinating experience. It reads like a really good book. I always associate it with music and movement. I've visited so many cities. I ran into so many different lifestyles, so many kinds of people. It was terrific."

"The kids I palled around with were Mia (Farrow) Tish (Sterling) and Candy (Bergen.) I knew Lucie (Arnaz), but not as well. Funny I should be going with her brother now."

She's also had accidents. She broke a leg in "Best Foot Forward." She fell off a motorcycle and sustained severe injuries, including a fractured shoulder and a "hole in the head" that is scarred over, "but fortunately my hair covers it, and it can't be seen."

Opti-Mrs. Installation Ceremony Held Last Night

Officers for 1972-73 of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville were installed during a dinner meeting last night at Parker's Restaurant.

Charles Ross, president of the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville, installed the following in a candlelight ceremony:

Mrs. Jim O'Brien, president; Mrs. John Trotman, vice president; Mrs. Curtis Howell, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Joe Johnson, historian.

Mrs. Charles Ross, outgoing president, presented the club's gavel to Mrs. O'Brien, and expressed her appreciation to members for their support during the past year.

Plans to sponsor either a Brownie or Girl Scout Troop at Operation Sunshine were discussed. Members were asked to assist in decorating for the Evening Optimist Club dinner meeting and installation of officers on Saturday, Sept. 30.

Mrs. O'Brien announced that a called business meeting would be held at her home on Wednesday, Sept. 27.

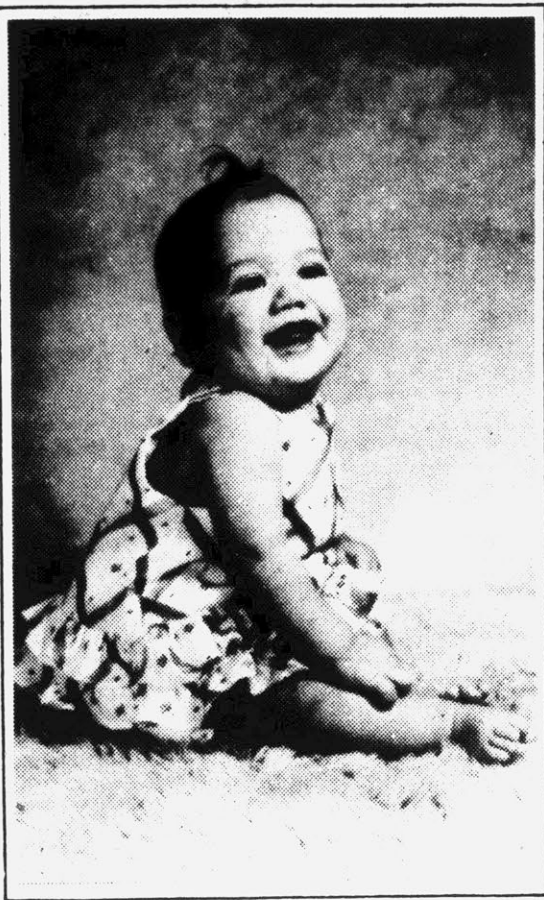

Husbands of the members were special guests for the installation meeting.

District Nurses Meeting Held

WASHINGTON — District No. 30 of the N.C. State Nurses Association held its fall meeting here last week at Beaufort Technical Institute.

Nurses from Williamston, Washington, Greenville, Plymouth, Belhaven, Chocowinity and Yeatsville were in attendance.

The program for the evening, "Continuing Education: A Requirement of Relicensure in Nursing," was presented by Dr. Ruby Barnes of East Carolina University.

Some of the issues discussed included: what is continuing education? Who will pay for continuing education programs and how will they affect university based or college based programs? what are some concerns relative to the dimensions of the requirements for evidence of continuing education?

During the refreshment period, Mrs. Tina Bridgeman donated a crocheted afghan to be used as a money making project by the district.

The October meeting will be held in Williamston.

He's Unjustly Blamed For A Non-Going Affair

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last weekend I was falsely accused of having an affair with the wife of a fellow worker. This fellow telephoned me at 7 a. m. and informed me that he had some good news and some bad news. The bad news was that I wouldn't be able to spend the weekend with his wife. The good news was that instead of doing me physical harm for having fooled around with his wife [which I never did], he had thrown a brick thru the windshield of my automobile!

I thought it was all a joke. Now comes the problem: Later that morning, I found a $100 check in my car and a note from this fellow stating, "After contemplating my rash behavior, I realized how foolishly I behaved, so this $100 will cover the damages to your car."

I replaced the windshield, which amounted to $30. What should I do with the remaining $70? "ON THE LEVEL"

DEAR ON: Buy yourself a bulletproof vest. You never know what a nut like that will do next.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to our nephew's high school graduation party, and when we arrived we were told our nephew had left town that morning to go on a vacation to the seashore. His mother said he had made plans to go three days before the party. We [and all the others at the party] were disappointed to come to a party and find the guest of honor wasn't even there.

We had brought a nice check which we wanted to hand to our nephew in person, but we left it with his mother instead. [The boy has been back for five weeks and we still haven't had an acknowledgement for our check.]

I asked the mother why she didn't cancel the party when she knew three days in advance that her son wouldn't be home, and she said, "It's proper to have a party to honor our son's graduation whether he's here or not."

We've never heard of such a thing. Was this proper? DISAPPOINTED RELATIVES

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: About as "proper" as scheduling a wedding without a bride and groom. In any case, there is no excuse for his not having acknowledged your gift.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married in December and I have my wedding all planned out to the smallest detail because I want it to be perfect.

The problem is this: the guy I am marrying wears braces on his teeth. We thought he would have them off in time for the wedding, but he found out yesterday that he will have to wear them for another five or six months! He's 20, and a junior in college [so am I] and it's bad enough that he has to wear braces at his age, but when I think of the wedding pictures and him with braces, I could cry.

Should I insist that he have them taken off for the wedding? I know it could be done, but his dentist isn't crazy about the idea. Please advise me. BLUE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Don't mention his braces. I'm sure they aren't as conspicuous to others as they are to you.

DEAR ABBY: I read that letter from "Hurt Mother," who cried all night because her son who had been in Viet Nam for over a year, went straight to his girl friend's house instead of coming home. [Your answer was perfect. You said, "Thank God he came home!"]

I know only too well what you meant. My son was killed in Viet Nam after he had been there only three months. Ask "Hurt Mother" if she would like to trade places with me? She should get down on her hands and knees and thank God her son came home alive. I'd give anything in the world if mine had.

Executive Chef Non-Stop Talker On Weight Control

By JEANNE LESEM

UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Franco Palumbo calls himself a sloppy chef, he's talking about his messy kitchen, not his personal appearance.

It wasn't always so. By the time he graduated from high school, the roly-poly child had grown into a 240-pound youth, five feet, seven. During two years of chef's training that followed, he lost 55 pounds. Diet pills helped.

In an interview, Palumbo said he weighed 190 in 1962 when he went into the Army and shipped out to Europe. He gained 23 pounds in three weeks there and by 1969, he was up to 265 pounds.

Today, he is a trim 160 and a non-stop talker about successful weight control. He's also executive chef for the world's largest weight reduction organization, Weight Watchers International, Inc.

The story of how he achieved both goals sounds like fiction. Palumbo first joined a weight reduction class in 1969, while he was working as a chef in both a restaurant and a bakery on the resort island of Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

He was the only man among 40 women but he stayed on the program nine months, lost 105 pounds and ended up as a lecturer himself. A magazine article about him led to the promotion to head chef. In that capacity, he develops and tests menus and recipes for a monthly newsletter and a girls' camp near Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

A Professional Dieter

"I was a professional dieter," Palumbo now says. "Most of our three million members are. They can tell you the calorie count of any food at the drop of a hat. They've tried the ice cream diet, the banana diet, the grapefruit and egg diet, the spinach and egg diet."

His chef's jobs may sound incompatible with either dieting or weight maintenance, and not just because of the constant availability of food. Any chef worth his toque blanche (tall white hat) must sample as he cooks. Palumbo said he solved that problem long before he accepted his present job. He followed a friend's advice to use the wine tasting technique: taste anything you want but don't swallow it.

Palumbo still hits the lecture trail for the parent organization. He said his trips have taught him to recognize men's biggest cop-out. Those who travel a lot use necessary business entertaining as an excuse to overeat.

"There are few restaurants where you can't order something that fits the rules," he said. "I ate 21 meals out a week for two weeks and lost 14 pounds."

"All restaurants have tomato juice, plain bouillon, fruit cup or melon," half a grapefruit, steaks, roast beef, chicken, broiled fish.

"You can order vegetables without butter and salads without dressing. You can have a 3-ounce baked potato or half a cup of rice."

Carries Own Bread

Palumbo himself thinks nothing of taking along his own bread — one regular slice, halved horizontally—to use for a sandwich in a restaurant.

"If you toast it lightly, you can slice it with a serrated-edge knife," he said.

"You can take your own salad dressing. I usually carry diet margarine in cool weather."

He also carries packets of onion bouillon and asks the chef to use it instead of butter in broiling fish.

"You're paying for it (when you order food prepared without butter). Send it back if it comes with butter. Or ask for another plate and a linen napkin and use the napkin to blot up as much butter as you can."

Palumbo conceded that the napkin trick doesn't endear him to restaurant staffs, but he gets away with it anyhow.

Chef Franco Palumbo's

macaroni cheddar salad bowl is a Weight Watchers International recipe that sounds fattening but isn't.

In a salad bowl, combine 1 tablespoon each of vegetable oil, wine vinegar, water and mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon each of prepared mustard and worcestershire sauce, artificial sweetener equal to 2 teaspoons of sugar and salt and white pepper to taste. Mix until smooth. Add 1-1 1/2 cups of cooked enriched elbow macaroni, 2 ounces of cheddar cheese, grated, 2 teaspoons of dehydrated onion flakes, 2 tablespoons of chopped pimiento and ¼ of a green pepper, seeded and diced. Mix well. Chill before serving on lettuce leaves. Makes 2 servings. Garnish each with 1 hard-cooked egg, quartered.

She's Still Tall In The Saddle

LONDON (WNS) — Now that England has legalized ladies' races, Granny Louise Dingwall has applied for a jockey's license. Mrs. Dingwall, who gives her age as "well over 80," is already Britain's oldest racehorse trainer. "I can ride the pants off any girl," she declared. "The only trouble is that I'll need a good horse because I'm too damned heavy." She also admits that her eyesight is not too good but adds, "I've ridden practice gallops on every big course and never missed the winning post yet." After 40 years as a trainer, Granny Dingwall still works at the tracks from six a.m. to eleven p.m.

Soap Designs Show Variations

By AP Newsfeatures

In the future, non-polluting products may get a start at the design school level.

Students engaged in a fashion visuals program at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn recently were given an assignment to design a bar of soap.

They came up with some intriguing ideas in form, texture, usefulness, even as they maintained the requirements that included achieving a concept that was pleasing to the eye and a basic ingredient that was organically grown.

In addition, the soap had to clean the skin naturally without burning the user's eyes, it should not slip out of a user's hands, and it had to float in water. The package had to be soluble or reusable and made of organic ingredients so it could be recycled.

There were the easy to use soaps—one that was easy to handle with either the right or left hand, an apple-scented bubble bath soap that could be broken into four pieces and a bunch of soap grapes with each grape designed to be used individually.

A grapefruit soap had eight sections, but it also filled another requirement—it was wrapped in soluble paper and packed in a reusable clear glass globe. A watermelon soap was packaged in its own rind which could serve as a soap dish.

Some students used dispensers. One white enamel slicing machine was designed to slice soap to any thickness desired. It was wrapped in soluble paper. Another was packaged in a reusable injection molded dispenser which drops one piece at a time. An easy-to-use hand soap is packaged in a wash cloth of dehydrated sponge compressed to paper thinness. Soap balls in fruit shapes were packed in clear jars which could become fruit preserve jars later.

And there were soapy cookies too—fruit scented and in reusable jars.

Household Hints

Keep outdoor empty electric light sockets clean and dry by inserting an old burnt-out fuse.

Try sewing it on with dental floss.

Meats will stay juicier if you turn them with tongs instead of piercing them with a fork.

You can straighten out a tangled fringe by "combing" it with a fork.

Clean unlacquered brass and copperware with a salt and vinegar paste.

An old toothbrush can be converted to a nail brush by cutting the bristles down to 3/8 of an inch.

Three Out, Many More To Go

We share the joy of the released prisoner of war families in their loved ones, homecoming; however we cannot lose sight of the fact that the whole thing was a propaganda exploitation on the part of North Vietnam.

Hanoi and its contacts in the United States were careful to see that family members were on hand for the release of the three flyers. There was a big ceremony and then a banquet was held at a Hanoi hotel. Obviously North Vietnam will use the event to spread the word of its "humanitarian" gesture throughout the world.

Certainly no one blames the families of the released POWs for traveling to Hanoi for the cherished release of their loved ones. Nor for that matter can anyone blame the family of one of them who decided not to go because it was not in the best interest of all the POWs. In each case it was a personal decision that had to be made according to conscious.

It is a fact, however, that hundreds of U. S. prisoners of war are still being held. They can and should be released when some progress is made at the negotiating table toward ending the war.

Releasing three prisoners of war in a blaze of publicity is all very well, but North Vietnam, along with South Vietnam and the United States must face up to the real task of finding an honorable and fair settlement to the war which will end the killing and return all of the prisoners of war to their homelands.

Initiative Is Key Ingredient

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The town that thinks well of itself can sell itself, regardless of size, if it knows what it's got and what it wants.

Local initiative is the essential ingredient in economic development, said Al Callaway, a community services official in the state's natural and economic resources department.

More than 400 have been received as a result of the ads. "It has been the most successful ad we've ever run in the number of responses," Callaway noted.

Participation is voluntary, and the community striving for the award doesn't compete against any other — only towards meeting the standards set out for the award. It's not a rubber-stamp operation: some communities have tried and failed, others have earned the award only after more than one try.

Criteria Listed

Callaway listed the criteria for the award. They are, he said, basic measures which call for more time and effort than money. The fundamental, he added, is the indication of community interest and support for its own betterment.

There must be an organization to promote the community. It can be the town government, a civic club, a local Chamber of Commerce, so long as it is a recognized and functioning unit.

A local development corporation must be in existence as a legal entity that can buy, borrow and sell, and otherwise participate in development.

A community audit must be made. "This translates the adjectives and adverbs into facts and figures," Callaway observed. It covers information required by a prospect, such as labor force, transportation, taxes and services, education and cultural facilities.

Sites for industry must be identified, with assurance that they are available. Size and access to utility services and transportation must be given.

A brochure must be prepared, not fancy as to appearance but factual in content. It is a contact tool for prospects.

Finally, the community must assess how it looks and take the steps for improvement. Painting downtown stores, dismantling eyesore structures, hauling away junked cars are among activities carried out.

"This can serve to unify, and focus attention on the whole effort," Callaway said. "Everybody can be involved, and given the feeling that they have a part in making it a better community."

"Those better prepared are the ones getting new industry," said Callaway. "When the prospects call, it is up to the local community to make the final sale."

The incentive to prepare, for towns of 15,000 and less population, is the Governor's Award program. It sets up standards of readiness for the community to meet in order to qualify. Areas covered include an inventory of resources, sites available, and improved appearance through a clean-up, fix-up campaign.

Gov. Bob Scott will present the 65th award under the program to Hamlet on Wednesday evening in ceremonies in the Richmond County town.

The program had its birth in 1970, in an effort to assist small towns in finding greater opportunity for economic growth. Since the majority of North Carolina municipalities are under 15,000, their health has a decisive impact on the economy of the state as a whole.

Meshed With Trends

Trends in industrial development and planning coincide with the aims of the Governor's Award program. Industry is receptive to small town locations, following a dispersal pattern in selecting new sites.

State planners advocate putting jobs and services where the people are, encouraging small-to-medium size population centers rather than big urban centers.

Since 1970, new industry has located in half of the Governor's Award communities at an investment of more than $100 million.

"We don't say any of these came about solely because of the Governor's Award. We are convinced that the effort put forth for the award helped to give these communities a competitive edge," said Callaway.

"We don't promise a town it will get an industry if it earns the Governor's Award. We do say its chances are improved, and that the community will

Even Higher Costs Of Electric Power Ahead

No one who pays electric bills will be surprised at the Federal Power Commission announcement that cost of electricity was up 6 percent for average residential users.

A 500 kilowatt bill in 1970 cost an average of $11.13 or 2.23 per kilowatt. In 1969 the cost was $10.51 or 2.1 cents.

Lamentably even higher costs are on the way. It means that those who represent consumer interests must fight vigorously to hold the increases as low as possible.

Wallace In The Catbird Seat

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ATLANTA — The critical role of George Wallace to President Nixon's soaring hopes to capture the Senate seven weeks from Tuesday is obvious from the frantic cries for help now overloading telephone circuits to the catbird seat in Montgomery, Ala., from the headquarters of Democratic Senatorial candidates all over the South.

A case in point is Sam Nunn, the 34-year-old political ingenue who toppled Sen. David Gambrell in the Democratic primary runoff election on Aug. 29. Nunn is neck-and-neck against Republican Rep. Fletcher Thompson, a conservative with a strong following among Wallaceites.

Nunn began plotting his approach to Gov. Wallace in Georgia's rich harvest of Wallaceites long before anyone thought he had a chance to win the Senate nomination.

He prudently gave Wallace his public backing for the Democratic Presidential nomination way back in March. He also said that without Wallace on the Democratic ticket, President Nixon was assured of a second term in the White House.

Within days of his surprising triumph over Gambrell, Nunn was on the telephone to Wallace's office seeking an appointment and Wallace told us last week he plans to receive Nunn, possibly this week. But that doesn't assure an endorsement.

Likewise, managers of South Carolina state Sen. Nick Zeigler say that if Wallace would "just accept an invitation to speak at a Zeigler fund-raiser" in South Carolina, Zeigler's challenge to the formidable Sen. Strom Thurmond could become serious overnight.

Zeigler courted Wallace at the Southern Governors' Conference in Hiltonhead, S.C., early this month—but, instead of an endorsement, Wallace gave him a rhetorical pat on the head as a "fine man."

Wallace, in short, has not decided how or even whether to use the extraordinary political power he gained throughout the country, particularly in the South, from his spectacular showing in the Democratic Presidential primaries last spring.

In the first place, all depends on his recovery to reasonably good health. His daily physical therapy is awesome—long stints at the parallel bars and weight-lifting 80-pound bar bells in a small room adjoining his bedroom. Secondary infections caused by the assassin's bullets are now healing and no more surgery is indicated.

But the agonizing process of learning to confront life without the use of one's legs must come first, and for Wallace each day presents a searing personal challenge that takes precedence over everything else.

Nevertheless, the process of mending has far from obliterated the process of politics, and Wallace already has some fairly hard political plans between now and Nov. 7. He wants to help Dolph Briscoe, Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, because Briscoe voted for him at the Miami Beach convention. He has also promised—health permitting—to make a campaign foray both to Florida and the eastern shore of Maryland, which gave him huge pluralities in the primaries.

The larger purpose of his still-incomplete 1972 plans is to prove his power as a political leader—and his credentials as a card-carrying Democrat—at a time when, as he would say, the Democratic party went horribly astray by nominating George

We Need And They Need

WASHINGTON — It is one of the ironies of the world we live in that the Communist countries may yet bail us out of our trade deficit mess.

Billings Montana, an economist with the Department of Commerce, told me at lunch the other day that the capitalist system now depends on how much goods the Soviet Union and Red China buy from us. And the Communist system depends on how much goods they can sell to us.

You would think both sides would hold out so the respective systems would fail. But that isn't how it's working.

Billings told me, "The Russians need us, and we need the Russians."

"But how can you do business with Commies? S.O.B.s who are trying to impose their totalitarian methods on the freedom-loving countries of the world?" I asked.

"What's that got to do with the price of wheat?" Billings demanded.

"I'm not talking about the price of wheat. Everyone knows that the Soviet Union has promised to buy us."

"No country that makes a grain deal with the United States can be all bad," Billings said. "Of course we have ideological differences with the Communist bloc, but they can be overlooked providing the Soviets contribute to our gross national product. Great Britain isn't buying our wheat. And the United States needs bread."

"Bread?"

"Money. It is obvious that we can no longer depend on the freedom-loving countries of this world to buy the things that the United States manufactures so it can be the strongest capitalist country in the world. Therefore, our only choice is to find customers among the enslaved peoples of the globe who have been deprived by (ital) their (unital) system of the good things in life."

"That makes sense," I admitted.

"Who do you think saved the Boeing Aircraft Co. this year?"

"I know it wasn't the Mexicans," I said.

"It was the Red Chinese. They have just ordered $150 million worth of Boeing jet planes. The economy of the entire northwest part of the United States has been rejuvenated because of this order."

ART BUCHWALD

"But these planes will carry passengers around the world who don't think the way we do," I protested.

"That is not our concern. Denmark thinks the way we do, but when is the last time they bought a Boeing 707?"

"I hear the Red Chinese also gave us an order for wheat."

"Exactly. And Canada, our closest neighbor and friend, won't even buy a box of Post Toasties from us."

"It sure is a crazy world," I said, "when you have to count on your enemies to keep your economy going."

"We don't consider anyone who buys wheat or planes from us an enemy. They may have their faults, but we like to think of them not as adversaries but as customers."

"Once you take a Soviet or a Red Chinese buyer to lunch, you find out they're really very nice people," Billings said.

"Say, a thought just occurred to me," I said. "I wonder what would happen if, at the next Paris peace talks meeting, the North Vietnamese offered to make a grain deal with us. Would we still consider them ruthless, aggressive international gangsters?"

Billings replied, "It would all depend on the financial terms of the deal."

Other Editors Say Americanization

(Greensboro Daily News)

There is, by now, absolutely no doubt about it: the United States and the Soviet Union really are growing closer together. First there was Mr. Nixon's visit to Moscow. Then there was his gift of a Cadillac to Chairman Brezhnev. Then there was Mr. Brezhnev's gift of a speedboat to Mr. Nixon.

And now comes the clincher: The Russian newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda has reported that expense-account padding has become part of the Soviet way of life. If further evidence be needed of the Americanization of Russia, we don't know what it is.

Padded expense accounts are as American as Mom, apple pie, Main Street and John Wayne. If it were not for expense accounts, Miami Beach and Broadway and the French Quarter would all vanish from the map, victims of economic starvation. Indeed, were it not for the expense account, the entire national economy might well collapse. Has anyone ever heard Nixon attack the expense account in his economic messages? Heavens, no. He knows that it is a revered national institution.

It has become one in Russia, too. The wily communists, we now learn, have made a fine art of fabricating "conferences, seminars, symposiums, wholesale fairs, business meetings, one hard on the heels of the next" — and all held at vacation spas at the Black Sea and the Caucasus mountains. They take along their wives and cousins, and charge off the expense to "cost overruns." They only rarely do any business, unless sunning and swimming can be called business, and documentary evidence of their deliberations is rare indeed.

This has Komsomolskaya Pravda in a fit of righteous outrage, for it runs hard against the communist version of the Puritan Ethic. For our part, we think it's marvelous. For if the padded expense account has arrived, can peaceful coexistence be far behind?

Plans Always Astray

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

The best laid plans of mice and men, not to mention women, invariably go astray when vacation time rolls along.

No matter how early you start, no matter how many lists you make, something is bound to happen that leaves you with a last-minute flurry of unpacked necessities, unconfirmed reservations and and unsettled nerves.

This year I was determined to beat the system.

Our passports were in order. So were our smallpox vaccination certificates, even though you don't need them these days to get back in the country.

The trains, the planes and the mails all were reported to be in working order. Unlike the year there was a postal strike in Britain. Grudgingly, I placed a transatlantic phone call to make hotel reservations in England only to be told: "Can't you confirm it in writing, please?"

This year, I mailed neatly typed letters — carefully filling the carbons — a full three weeks before departure.

Of course I managed to mis-address one of them, sending it to the wrong address in the wrong city in the wrong county. Somehow those British post-men, now back on the job thank goodness, got the letter on the right track and I received an answer. After a long-enough delay to allow for considerable worrying — on my part — and derision — on my husband's.

Then there was the problem of laundry. Anyone who's ever packed for vacation knows that it takes at least a master's degree in mathematics to figure out just when to do the last laundry before leaving. Timing is crucial so the whole family has enough clean clothes to take along and enough clean clothes to wear before departure. Naturally, somebody always winds up with one too few pair of something.

Planning where to go is simple, right? Wrong.

Three weeks before we were to leave our itinerary was set. Then someone suggested another option. Two weeks before departure day we were wavering.

Another friend talked about the crowds. Maybe we should change plans. And what about

Mr. Flanagan has represented this county in the legislature for several years and will return next session to carry out the wishes of his constituents.

The sale of bright leaf tobacco which has been light since the opening of the market over two weeks ago, hit its stride in Greenville yesterday and today with the largest offering of the year recorded. The official report of sales issued by the supervisor of sales showed the market yesterday sold 1,127,662 pounds of tobacco for a total sum of $109,309.46 at an average of $9.69 per hundred pounds.

Strength For Today

HOW WE DEVELOP ORIGINALITY

Robert Louis Stevenson is said to have developed his remarkable literary style by coping the style of scores of distinguished authors. For some weeks he would try assiduously every day to put what he had to say into the form used, perhaps, by Cicero or Spencer. Then again he would copy Voltaire or Tolstoy. Next he would choose some of the literary men of his own day and try to write in such a fashion that a critic could not distinguish between his writings and the writings of these his contemporaries.

Raphael did the same thing in art. He never saw anything in the technique of any artist that he did not try to copy—the technique absolutely.

The result both in the case of Raphael and Stevenson was not that they became mere copiers of others. Out of their slavish attempt to incorporate into their own work the best they found in the work of others there emerged for each in his field a technique amazingly original. No one has ever painted just like Raphael, and no one has ever had a literary style just like Stevenson. Yet the art of these men was the result of diligent attempts to copy the 'best they encountered in men everywhere.

If we are not afraid to learn, the whole world will come forth gladly and lay its treasures at our feet. Everyone has something to teach us, and the man with the sharpest ears and eyes develops the most pronounced originality.

Fringe Benefits Hard To Assess

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you fail to analyze critically those surveys made from time to time about the swift growth in fringe benefits paid to workers you might believe that life was becoming a big handout.

Last year, according to a National Chamber of Commerce study, such benefits accounted for 30.8 per cent of the average firm's payroll.

In 1961, the study states, the average annual benefits paid cost $1,254. Similar payments last year averaged $2,544, a gain of 103 per cent in one decade.

Out of average annual earnings of $8,260 paid in 1971, the Chamber lists three average benefits per employee: Social Security $372, up 178 per cent in a decade; insurance $369, up 171 per cent; paid sick leave $81, 131 per cent up.

Following in order are: profit sharing $86, up 105 per cent; paid holidays $244, up 94 per cent; private pensions $402, up 91 per cent; paid vacations $400, up 90 per cent, and "other" $228, up 20 per cent.

Does this mean that labor is draining away the vitality of its employer? Some businessmen are inclined toward that point of view.

Before jumping to conclusions you must define "worker," because some of the most beneficial fringes are those that make the executive's life more comfortable and financially rewarding. Benefits are not solely a blue-collar phenomenon.

Nevertheless, some executives draw on a vast array of statistics showing that corporate profits have indeed been pinched in recent years by rising payroll costs, despite the growth in overall prosperity.

But in a broader perspective that includes social good and national goals it is more difficult to assess the impact. Productivity of American factories has not risen as fast as in many countries, but that may be changing.

In fact, a study just released by Standard & Poor's shows that "for the first time in recent years there was a significant dip in 1971 in the portion of the sales dollars of industrial companies that went into pay-rolls."

S&P defines payrolls to include wages, salaries and fringe benefits, which it said amounted to only 26 cents for every dollar of sales, down from nearly 28 cents in 1970. The percentage was the lowest since the 1950s.

Of 29 industrial groups for which comparisons were made, 19 showed declines in wage-cost ratios and 10 reported rises. Among those showing declines were autos, chemicals, electrical equipment, oil and steel.

RJR Board Plan Pageant For Members In Recreation Funds City Today

W Stuart Leake, vice president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., G Dee Smith, comptroller and Zachary Smith, treasurer, were in Greenville today to observe tobacco sales at the Raynor & Forbes warehouse.

The visit was conducted in connection with a meeting of Reynolds' Board of Directors scheduled for this afternoon in Wilson. Other company directors today visited tobacco markets in Kinston, Rocky Mount, Goldsboro and Wilson. This marks the first time the company has scheduled a regular board meeting outside Winston-Salem, the site of Reynolds' home office.

Speaking at a reception held for the directors last night by the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade, Reynolds' board chairman Colin Stokes said his group decided to hold its meeting in this area because they felt they should get out and meet the growers and warehouse owners face-to-face. "After all," he said, "tobacco growing is the foundation of our industry. We need the continued help of people like the farmers in this area who grow the fine leaf which goes into our products, the men who run the markets, and even the storeowners who supply WINTERVILLE — With a growing need for recreation facilities, a number of Winterville citizens plan to present a beauty pageant in order to raise funds for those facilities.

At a date sometime in November, a Miss Black Winterville will be crowned. From 15 girls from the Winterville area, three girls are to be chosen to receive a trip, scholarship, and a wardrobe.

Calvin Henderson, co-director of the pageant, states that there is a need for recreation facilities in the town. "We will hold this pageant with the hope of raising $5,000 for the equipment," he noted.

The second purpose of the pageant is to improve the Winterville Masonic Lodge, sponsors of contest.

The contestants are: Annie Louise Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Clark; Denise Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Anderson; Jacqueline Willoughby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Barrett; Renee Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Phillips; Lena Cox, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Cox; the farmers with the tools of their trade."

Audrey Washington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Washington; Barbara Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ward; Phyllis Mobley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mobley; Deborah Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Cathleen Lincoln; Deborah Daniels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Daniels; and Sandra Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jones.

Along with Henderson, Miss Willie Jean Phillips and Mrs. Betty Staton serve as directors for the pageant.

Invitations To Ball In Mails

Invitations to the Fine Arts Ball to be held on October 13 at the Greenville Golf and County Club have been mailed out this week.

The ball, an annual fund-raising one held for the benefit of the Greenville Art Center, is a formal "black tie" event.

Mrs. Marvin Blount, Jr. and Mrs. Clifton Everett, Jr. are co-chairwomen for invitations. Mrs. James Cheatham III is chairwoman for decorations; Mrs. Steven M. White, chairwoman of reservations; and Mrs. William Corbitt, chairwoman of deserts.

No-Parking Is Well Enforced

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — The 70-man city parking corps patrolling the streets of the Danish capital averages a daily haul of 600 to 700 parking offenders. Most parking violation fines are 80 kroner ($11) but they can run up to 300

Career Education Said To Be Lagging In U.S.

RALEIGH (AP) — A visiting consultant has told a North Carolina task force that career education in America is "behind the parade."

The comment came from Dr. Gordon I. Swanson, coordinator of international studies in education at the University of Minnesota and consultant to the U.S. Office of Education on career programs.

Swanson spoke Tuesday to a task force on career education which will make recommendations to the state Board of Education in February.

He endorsed the "work ethic" for school children and said American schools "may have overextended in our concern for the individual" and not given enough emphasis to group needs.

kroner ($42) for parking under no-stopping signs or at pedestrian crossings.

The parking corps is made up exclusively of former trolley operators and ticket-collectors. Copenhagen became an all-bus city in May.

Goldfish are domesticated cousins of the carp.

He warned against separate vocational schools, saying that he favors integration of career preparation into existing schools.

One of the objectives of the federal plan for children in kindergarten through sixth grade is to "focus basic subjects around the 'career education theme,'" he said. In the seventh grade a pupil might spend his whole year studying bridges if it was related to his future career.

Swanson said Tuesday to a task force on career education which will make recommendations to the state Board of Education in February.

He endorsed the "work ethic" for school children and said American schools "may have overextended in our concern for the individual" and not given enough emphasis to group needs.

Funeral services were to be at 4 p.m. today at Twiford's Memorial Chapel with burial in West Lawn Cemetery.

Culpepper had won the Democratic nomination for his fourth term in the House during the May primary and was to be unopposed in the November general election.

He withdrew from the race two weeks ago, citing ill health.

The federal guidelines state that in high school the student motivation should be increased by relating all his studies to the world of work.

Swanson said there is a need for more relevant curriculum and "keeping teachers' feet to the fire." The goal of career education he said, is 100 per cent placement in college, jobs or special training programs.

Career education, he said, will also require more money and staff.

Rep. Culpepper Dies Of Cancer

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP) — A three-term legislator, Rep. William Thomas Culpepper Jr. of Elizabeth City, died Tuesday after a nine month bout with cancer. He was 58.

Funeral services were to be at 4 p.m. today at Twiford's Memorial Chapel with burial in West Lawn Cemetery.

Culpepper had won the Democratic nomination for his fourth term in the House during the May primary and was to be unopposed in the November general election.

He withdrew from the race two weeks ago, citing ill health.

An article in a travel magazine offered further possibilities. Returning coworkers told of marvelous — and cheap — little hotels.

Next year I must get organized.

McGovern for President.

But he has not decided whether to use the Senatorial background conveniently centered this year in his own South to make his point. He knows the risks of trying to transfer his popularity to candidates in other states.

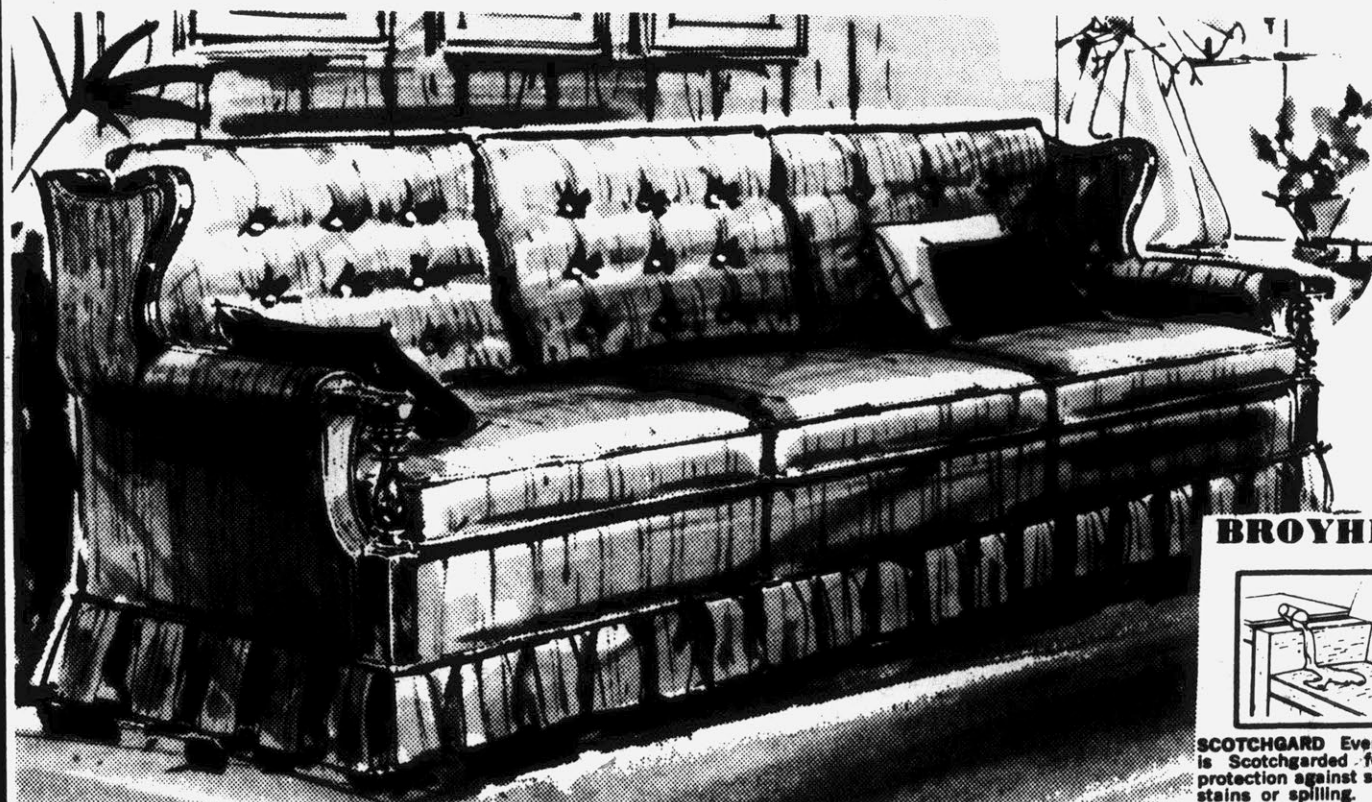

That risk is minimal as perceived by the Southern Democratic governors. Senatorial candidates and party leaders we have talked to. Without exception, they look to Wallace as the surest obstacle to prevent the Nixon landslide from rolling over the Democratic Senate (which explains the unprecedented elevation of Wallace to the chairmanship of the Southern Governors' Conference early this month).

It is no wonder, then, that Sam Nunn is going a-courting to Montgomery to persuade the catbird to sing for him.

Brody's To Celebrate Expansion

With a major expansion and refurbishing program complete at Brody's downtown and Pitt Plaza stores, plans have been made for a "Discover the New Fashion World" celebration at both stores beginning tomorrow morning at 10 a.m.

Morris Brody, president, said the remodeling and expansion effort gives the two stores a combined fashion display and sales area of over 25,000 square feet and has provided for new and enlarged fashion departments for shoppers.

The Pitt Plaza store, which was opened in 1966, has undergone a complete interior renovation that included redecorating "to present a whole new look" and the addition of approximately 6,000 square feet of floor space at the rear of the store. Brody said. The overall addition of space was incorporated in new and larger sales departments, he added.

Several features were included at the Pitt Plaza store. Brody continued, including a new Designers Room and Regency Room and Missy Sportswear Department.

The Children's Shop has been doubled in size and a new atmosphere created with changes in decor. A new Junior High Shop also features an increased fashion selection, he noted, with wider aisles included to making shopping easier.

A rear entrance has been put in for shopper convenience and parking at the rear of the store is now available. A second floor area has been added and now houses an employee lounge, offices, and a training room.

The downtown store, while retaining the same floor space, was completely redecorated with new carpets and color accents, the store president noted.

Both stores have incorporated a new shop-within-a-shop look in several areas. Brody pointed out. Included are a Career Shop on the downtown store's lower level that has fashions aimed at the career lady.

He said that the number of fashion brands has been expanded with the enlargement and refurbishing program to where Brody's now boasts one of the largest fashion display areas in the state.

Brody said that he has engaged Mutual Buying Office of New York, "one of the largest buying companies" with some 300 buyers, to assist in securing fashionable items for the Greenville stores.

Brody's, which opened here in 1936 with an employee staff of about eight, currently employs approximately 70 persons. All employees are local people, the owner said. The expansions have resulted in additions to the employee staff, Brody said.

Commenting on the "new" stores, Brody said, "We shall endeavor to bring the finest fashions, and offer the best trained sales personnel, and with our long policy of complete customer satisfaction, will give the people of Eastern Carolina an exciting place to shop."

BRODY'S ... at Pitt Plaza has a new look with the completion of an expansion and refurbishing program. Additions to the rear of the store and added space in all departments give the fashion center a new and different appearance.

Local Rotary Hears District Governor

Governor A. B. Johnson of Rotary District 773 addressed the Rotary Club of Greenville Monday evening on the occasion of his official visit.

Preceding the dinner meeting of Rotarians, District Governor Johnson conferred with President Kenneth M. Watkins, Secretary-Treasurer James G. Sullivan, and committee chairmen of the local club on administration and plans for future activities of the club.

Rotary District 773 is comprised of 22 counties in the southeastern quadrant of North Carolina. Membership of the 44 clubs exceeds 1,800.

Governor Johnson made an appointment of Dr. James W. Butler, a past district governor, of Greenville, to the chairmanship of the district public relations committee, during his Greenville visit.

Speaking of the global growth of Rotary, an international men's service organization, the district governor said.

"Rotary is the pioneer of the service clubs and today numbers over 15,328 clubs with a combined membership of more than 720,000 business and professional men. Spread throughout 149 countries in all parts of the world, Rotary clubs conduct activities to improve their communities, aid youth, elevate business standards, and further international friendships and understanding."

Governor Johnson asked members of the Greenville club to join with the International President of Rotary, Roy Hickman, and his theme, "Take A New Look."

During his visit, the Rotary official was given information about the local club, its projects, and varied activities.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when there are many opportunities to get out from under obstacles that face you. Maintain a cheerful attitude and let those around you see that you can rise above difficulties and can perform usual routines in a satisfactory fashion. Keep calm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Whip up some real enthusiasm for all the work you have ahead of you and then you please all those who are depending on you. Handle an important matter that comes up.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take health treatments that make you a more charming and delightful person. Then you can accept an invitation with confidence and have a wonderful time. Dress in good taste.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A situation at home is strange, but if you show loyalty to kin, all works out fine. If you make sure appliances are in good order, you can prevent a possible accident.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) While shopping be sure to exercise much care so that you don't spend too much, nor choose unwisely. Use care in travel. Not a good day for starting a long trip.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A hunch you have where a property matter is concerned is not good, so don't follow it. Use good judgment instead. An expert could be of real help to you now. Relax tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't get into an argument brewing between an associate and an official or you may regret it later. Carry through with a task at home instead of trying to let others do it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you make your home and office more charming in the morning, you can then improve your wardrobe and get ready for busy days ahead. Take care of your duties. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can have a fine time today provided you don't spend too much money which you may regret. Do your work well, otherwise shoddiness could get you in trouble. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do something that will stamp you as a fine citizen. Forget all those prejudices you have. Support a higher-up who is having a difficult time. Avoid one who gossips.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have constructive ideas that need to be communicated to others. You can now add to present efficiency and success. Go over letters and statements for possible errors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You need to take care of a financial affair without further delay. Listen to the advice of a business expert. Save time for a good friend who wants to see you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are pressures upon you now that are puzzling to you, but this is because you have been thinking negatively. Don't blame others. A cheerful attitude brings best results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who either has ability at music and art, or the appreciation for them. Direct the education along such lines, and teach early to keep idealistic concepts high, if success is to be reached. There is a tendency to be gloomy so be sure to give fine spiritual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Three Injured Elect Officers At In Accidents District Meeting

Greenville police investigators reported three persons were injured and an estimated $1,900 property damage caused in two collisions here yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted when vehicles driven by James Marshal Wood, 36, of LaGrange and Martha Ridenhour Tripp, 18, of 1103A Myrtle Ave. collided about 7:25 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets.

Both drivers were injured, investigators said and damage in the mishap was set at $1,200 to the Wood car and $400 to the Ridenhour vehicle.

Mrs. Ridenhour was charged with failing to stop for a red light.

Kay Elizabeth Portor of Route Ayden was reported injured when the car she was driving collided with a truck operated by Norman Lee Sutton of Route 2, Grimesland about 2:25 p.m. at West End Circle.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Portor auto. No damage resulted to the truck, officers said.

Area Assembly At Fayetteville

Local Jehovah's Witnesses have been invited to an area assembly scheduled for Fayetteville's Cumberland County Memorial Auditorium Friday through Sunday.

According to C. L. Corey, local Witness minister, it has been less than two months since the congregation attended the Divine Rulership assembly at Carolina Coliseum, Columbia, S.C.

On Sunday morning there will be a baptism of new ministers. The highlight of the three-day convention will be on Sunday at 2 p.m. when W. G. Condillis, district overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses in Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas, discuss "Is This Life All There Is?"

There are more than 11,000 lakes in Minnesota, says National Geographic.

The Greenville District United Methodist Society held its semi-annual meeting at St. James Church here Sunday.

The society is composed of 375 officers of the 76 local churches of the district.

The following officers were elected for 1972-73: Rev. W. M. Ellis, Williamston, chairman; Rev. Troy Barrett, Greenville, vice chairman; Leroy Whitfield, Hookerton, second vice chairman; Mrs. W. S. Dawson, Greenville, secretary; John Morgan, Jr., assistant secretary.

Rev. H. M. McLamb, Greenville, treasurer; and the members at large: Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Leatherman, Kingston; Rev. K. R. Wheeler, Farmville; Rev. R. L. Bame, and funds of the North Carolina Conference and the General Conference.

Plans were made for the Christmas offerings, the chief source of funds for the district society.

Rose High PTA Meets Thursday

A meeting of the Rose High School PTA will be held at 8:00 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

Plans for the current school year will be discussed by Thomas Payne, President of the P.T.A. and James Mallory, Dean of Men at East Carolina University will speak. Time of the meeting will be kept as close to 60 minutes as possible.

TV Networks Get Only FBI To Probe Wheat Sale Issue Gloom From The FCC

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP)— In two pronounced instances, the merry month of May has brought only gloom to the three U.S. television networks. Each time the woe has come from the Federal Communications Commission.

Eleven years ago, the month brought a declaration by then-FCC chairman Newton Minow that commercial television was "a vast wasteland."

In May nine years later, the FCC adopted the controversial prime-time access rule. For a year now the rule in effect has stripped each network of 3½ hours of highly profitable time each week and returned it to local stations.

But this year's month of network gloom has been changed to September.

Hollywood craft and talent unions have demanded quantity—more new programs and far fewer prime-time network reruns—as a means of reducing widespread unemployment among their members.

The networks estimate they now spend 45 per cent of their prime time—8 p.m. to 11 p.m.—broadcasts on reruns.

A study by Hollywood unions says the national average is closer to 60 per cent. They're asking the FCC to limit reruns to 13 weeks a year and require networks to present an additional 12 weeks of first-run programming.

The networks insist that productions costs already are so high that they'd suffer heavy financial losses if forced to buy more new programs than they now do.

The real network agony officially got underway last Thursday because of a letter

President Nixon sent John Gavin, head of the Screen Actors Guild.

In it, Nixon said he agreed increased prime-time network reruns constituted an "economic threat" to film industry members. And he promised to look into remedial action by the government if necessary.

FCC chairman Dean Burch would comment only that he believed the FCC had the authority to limit prime-time network reruns.

The three networks were asked Tuesday if they felt the FCC had that power and whether they'd go to court to fight any rerun limitation the FCC might order, if it ever did.

CBS said its lawyers are "still studying the issue," and had no other comment. ABC had no comment beyond its Sept. 14 statement in which it said it opposed "the concept of government intervening in the programming process—an exercise which violates the spirit, if not the letter, of the First Amendment to the Constitution."

NBC had no comment other than the question was "novel" and that "our legal counsel is looking into the issue."

By DON KENDALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two full-scale investigations—one before the election, one afterward—have been promised in the escalating dispute over wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

The pre-election probe by the FBI was announced by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew while campaigning Tuesday in Minneapolis. In fact he said "that investigation is in progress" at President Nixon's orders.

But the FBI said it had received no instructions to look into the matter. A spokesman for its parent agency, the Justice Department, Tuesday night would say only that "a preliminary review of the matter referred to by Vice President Agnew is under way."

An Iowa Democrat, Rep. Neal Smith, promised a House subcommittee investigation of the wheat deal and broader questions next February "after the passion of election-year politics has passed."

At a Minneapolis news conference, Agnew said that Nixon ordered the FBI probe to answer such questions as whether major grain exporter received and benefited from advance sales information allegedly fed to them by USDA officials and former officials.

He accused Democrats of spreading innuendos about the deal.

The Iowa congressman said he will press for a full airing of the wheat deal in February or March by a House Small Business subcommittee which he heads.

The deal, he said, raises broader questions about how farmers fare, as compared with exporters, in foreign agriculture trade.

Although the wheat deal was considered a boon for the Farm Belt, critics now question whether farmers were paid prices kept artificially low in order that exporters might reap larger profits. The farm price rose in late July and August after the size of the sale became known.

Another House subcommittee, headed by Rep. Graham Pucell, D-Tex., Tuesday completed a three-day probe into allegations that the Agriculture Department engaged in what Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern has called a "conspiracy of silence" by not disclosing full details of Soviet wheat purchases this summer.

A central figure, Clarence D. Palmby of Continental Grain Co., New York, labeled as an "outright lie" contentions that he carried along government secrets when he left the department June 7 to join the firm as vice president.

As an assistant secretary of Agriculture, Palmby in April helped lead trade talks in Moscow concerning possible grain sales to the Soviets. But Palmby said nothing was settled at that time.

Palmby denied repeatedly that he had any advance knowledge of a White House credit arrangement with the Soviet Union.

Plan Publishing Bremer's Diary

BALTIMORE (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer's attorney says the convicted assailant of Alabama Gov. George Wallace may need help in paying for his appeal and has obtained permission to arrange for publication of Bremer's diary.

The 114-page diary discloses Bremer's attempts to shoot President Nixon and Wallace.

The dandelion is also known as blowball, cankerwort, doon-headclock, fortune teller, horse gowan and Irish daisy.

Survival Fight Said At Hand

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Thomas F. Baker, general manager of the National Soft Drink Association, says the industry is "in a fight for survival" because of a proposal by the Federal Trade Commission to abolish the territorial franchise system.

He addressed the 58th annual convention of the North Carolina Soft Drink Association Tuesday.

Carl Brown of Wilmington was elected president. Others elected were Royall Spencer Jr. of Greensboro, vice president, and Harold Scott of Biscoe, secretary-treasurer.

Soviet Mapping Highway Plans

MOSCOW (UPI) — Surveyors have started mapping the routes for six 16-lane highways fanning out from the Soviet capital to cope with spurting production of cars and trucks, says the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya.

The six turnpikes with eight lanes in either direction will be 371 miles long and will extend from the circular highway around Moscow towards Volokolamsk, Dmitrov, Kashira, Klin, Kolomna and Serpukhov.

Teacher Strikes Declined In '71

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) —Teacher strikes in the United States dropped 50 per cent from a record high of 181 in the 1969-70 school year to 89 last year, the National Education Association reports.

The number of man-days involved in the 1971-72 strikes was 69,140—only about one-tenth of the total for the previous year.

Pierce Resigns

RALEIGH AP — The administrator of the North Carolina Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, James W. Pierce, has resigned his post after a State Bureau of Investigation probe.

Pierce's letter of resignation was dated Sept. 1 and effective Sept. 15 and gave no reason for his resignation.

ABC Board Chairman W. Charles Cohoon said Tuesday that he had seen the SBI report on Pierce, but he declined to reveal the contents of the report.

Pierce, 49, had worked for the ABC Board about 2½ years.

William F. Hester, 27, has been hired to replace Pierce, Cohoon said. Hester, a former counselor at Needham Broughton High School in Raleigh, will receive $12,432 a year, the same salary Pierce had.

The SBI investigation of State ABC Board employees during the past year has resulted in the conviction of one ABC supervisor and the indictment of a field coordinator on charges of falsification of expense accounts.

District Two Supervisor Vonnice W. Gay of Wilson was fired last month after he pleaded guilty to larceny in July. Field coordinator Robert Warren was indicted by a Durham County grand jury June 27.

PREVENT WASTE.

Electrically speaking, it's good for your budget.

Because while the electricity you're using today is one of the best buys around, the electricity you waste is expensive. The television set that's on while you're out of the room, for example. Or the thermostat that's set too high in the winter.

To help you avoid wasting electricity—and get the most for your electric dollar—Vepco would like to give you a copy of a new free booklet, "How to Save on Your Electric Bill." You can pick up a copy at any Vepco office, and it's filled with easy, sensible money-saving ideas anyone can use.

Some of the suggestions are as simple as remembering to close the refrigerator door, or cleaning the lint filter on your electric dryer.

But some of the ideas aren't quite so obvious. Like repairing that leaky hot water faucet: one drop a second adds up to almost 200 gallons a month—and that's a lot of hot water (and electricity) down the drain!

And what about turning out the lights when you leave the room? Some people don't, because they think turning a light on and off uses more electricity than leaving it on. They're wrong, as our enlightening little booklet quickly points out.

The booklet includes tips on efficient air conditioning and heating, too, plus freezing and dish washing advice. It even tells you how to boil water! The ideas are all the kind you can use without being an electrical engineer, and they'll all help you get the most for your money—which is always a bargain.

We want you to enjoy the convenience of electricity, but we want you to enjoy the economy, too. So we hope you'll stop by or call your Vepco office for a free copy of "How to Save on Your Electric Bill" today. Because when it comes to economy, there's nothing we'd like more than for you to see the light.

New Partner Bottlers Woood Joins Office By 'Billy' Creel

Dr. Larry Mumford has become a partner of Pediatrics Inc., a pediatric medical practice composed of Dr. Earl Trevathan, Dr. Paul Erckman, Dr. Ben Shappley, and Dr. Mumford.

DR. LARRY MUMFORD

A Goldsboro native, Dr. Mumford graduated from East Carolina University with an A. B. degree in science, earned his Doctor of Medicine degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and did his internship and residency at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and did his internship and residency at the University of Virginia. He practiced pediatrics in Fort Worth, Tex. during an Air Force stint.

He and his wife, the former Alice Walters of Greenville, have two children, Susan, five, and Michael, three.

Tells State Park Goals

RALEIGH (AP) — Chairman Thomas H. Hampton of North Carolina's State Parks Committee says the longrange goal of the agency is to provide a park within 50 miles of every person in the state.

Hampton Tuesday outlined a six-year, $6.5 million program for purchasing 10 new state park sites. The proposal went before the Advisory Budget Commission last week, and Hampton sketched out some of the details in an interview.

He said the largest purchase would be 5,000 acres in the South Mountain area. Other large purchases would be 2,500 acres at Goose Creek, 1,500 acres on the Yadkin River and 1,000 acres at Crowders Mountain.

Other proposed purchases are 600 acres in the Black Lake area, 300 to 400 acres on the Eno River, 400 acres in the area of Merchants Mill Pond, 300 acres at Sandhills and 800 acres in the Dismal Swamp.

He also said several sites are under consideration in Hash County where there is a "void in their state parks."

But 3 Short Of Holdup Record

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — North Carolina has had its 39th bank robbery of the year, only three short of record, with more than three months to go.

A gunman robbed the First Union National Bank at the Northside Shopping Center of an undisclosed amount Tuesday.

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The Democratic candidate for commissioner of labor, W. C. "Billy" Creel has told soft drink bottlers that if he is elected, safety and health inspections at their plants would be "practical and realistic."

"There will be no nit-picking in the inspection procedures," Creel told the 58th annual convention of the North Carolina Soft Drink Association in Asheville Tuesday.

The new federal Occupational Safety and Health Act requires all manufacturers to comply with safety standards to protect the health and welfare of employees.

The executive vice president and general manager of the National Soft Drink Association, Thomas G. Baker, also addressed the group.

Baker said the bottling industry is "in a fight for survival because of proposed Federal Trade Commission action to abolish the territorial franchise system."

He said the FTC action "could destroy the bottling industry and he urged the manufacturers to support a proposed amendment to federal legislation that would permit continued use of the franchise system."

New officers elected during the two-day meeting were Carl Brown of Wilmington, president; Royall Spence Jr. of Greensboro, vice president and Harold Scott of Biscoe, secretary-treasurer.

Foreign Language Teachers To Meet

The North Carolina Council of Teachers of Foreign Languages will meet Saturday at East Carolina University. Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. in the Psychology-Education Building with the opening session scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in Room 129.

"Creativity in Foreign Language Teaching" will be the theme of various sections of French, Spanish and Latin teachers meeting throughout the morning.

Faculty members of the ECU Department of Romance Languages who will take part in the meeting are: Thomas A. Williams, who will introduce the program; Manolita F. Buck, who will speak on constructive activities in teaching Spanish; and Marie-Francoise Malherbe, whose topic will be explaining French gestures.

Tora Ladu, Director of the Division of Languages in the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction, will speak on individualization in teaching foreign languages.

The N. C. Council of Teachers of Foreign Languages is being assisted with arrangements for the ECU meeting by a committee headed by Michael Bassman of Romance Language faculty members appointed by Joseph Fernandez, chairman of the department.

Correction.

A statement attributed to Joe Taft Jr., new Special Gifts Division chairman for the Pitt United Fund, in Tuesday's edition should have read, "The united way is by far the best way. In assuming this position I feel that I can help meet some of my responsibility to this community and my fellow man. I am confident that those whom I call upon to assist will feel likewise."

Taft was quoted as saying, "I am confident that those whom I call upon to assist will feel otherwise. The Daily Reflector regrets this error."

Plant Damaged By Blast, Fire

BELMONT, N. C. (AP) — An explosion and fire badly damaged the Kincaid Industries plastic plant Tuesday.

The firm, which had about 15 employees, occupied a one-story cement block building once used by a tire recapper. No one was injured.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

No Road To Dying Town On Aegean

By JOHN N. RIGOS

PORTO KAYO, Mani, Greece (UPI)—The only way to get to this fishing village, with its long houses dotted over various levels of the landscape, is to sail up the two-mile long narrow bay, flanked by barren mountains.

Like so many villages in the Mani, a 30-mile rugged peninsula in southern Greece, it is dying for want of inhabitants.

Panoyotis Kassis, his wife Pagona and their 20-year-old daughter Koula live in a house at the end of the village. George Kalimeria and his wife Maria tend the "shop" with its few tinned and packeted provisions, operate the telephone and do a little fishing on the side.

All the other houses in the area are empty. Over the years their owners have gone to live in other parts of the country or abroad where they could make more lucrative living.

Kassis, a 55-year old lean man with weathered skin, said he was glad I came. "It makes us feel there are a few more people in the world."

He is by trade a fisherman, dropping his lines in the Aegean at night.

"If the bait is good—I use mainly squid and small fish—the catch next morning can be between 44 and 220 pounds, mostly snapper and red mullet," he said.

Readying the Catch

As soon as he brings his catch in from sea, Kassis boxes them ready for market in a storeroom on the beach where he has a large icebox.

"Twice a week I take my fish to a fishmonger up in Gythion, about 30 miles from here. It takes five hours to sail there but 'Holy Trinity' never lets me down," he said, banging the side of his caïque.

His wife and daughter always go with him to Gythion.

"We arrive in time for a stroll in the square and a movie, spend the night on the boat and after shopping the next morning we arrive home in the afternoon," Koula Kassis said, sitting on the beach wearing a knee-length dress over slacks.

When the weather is bad Kassis drops his nets in the bag. "We don't catch fish good enough to sell, but it makes good enough soup for us and our neighbors," he said.

"For leisure, we sit at the table with a glass of wine, talking, listening to the radio. We have no newspapers, no television. Things haven't changed here in decades, except that all the others have gone," said the fisherman as he fiddled with his nets.

"From the radio we hear what is going on in the rest of the world, what's going on in Greece. We might comment to each other, but none of it affects us down here."

Daughter May Leave

A small boat from Athens' port of Piraeus comes to Porto Kayo once a week, bringing mail and the occasional visitor.

"We have no road to connect us with the rest of Greece. The mountains are too difficult to cross regularly, so like islanders we depend on the ship," Kassis said.

In the summer a few former villagers come back for vacations "but in the winter it's tough. We are really alone, but what can we do? I've lived here all my life and I like it here."

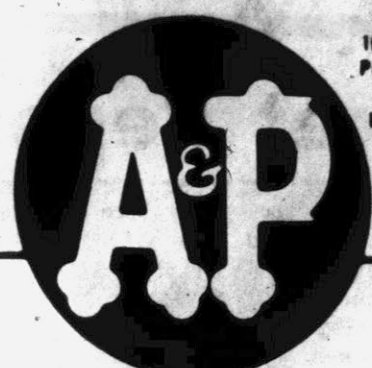

"It is lonely," said his daughter. "For the time being it is our life, but one day I will leave them, too."

"My father has bought an apartment for me in Athens. It's my dowry. When I marry I will go there," she said. "I would like to stay here, but can you think of anyone who would want to come and join me?"

Guidelines On Decision-Making

NEW YORK (UPI)—The College Entrance Examination Board is out with DECIDING. It is a new program for junior and senior high.

DECIDING provides students with training and practice in the rudiments of rational decision-making and encourages their application in life situations. The program teaches students the essential ingredients common to every decision that is made. These include: personal values, available alternatives, risks involved in each decision, a plan to seek out and evaluate and utilize information, clearly stated long and short range objectives.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued weakening today, after several sessions of mild declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 3.16 to 940.02. Since last Thursday, the Dow has lost some 7 points.

Amplex was active on the New York Stock Exchange, with 124,500 share block trading at 5%, down 1/4. Later it was trading at 5 1/2, off 1/4.

American Telephone, still responding to the announcement earlier this week of an earnings jump, was up 1/4 to 47 3/4.

Research Cottrell was off 4 to 57 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange, after reports by the company president that new orders were slowing down into areas of the pollution control field.

Charge Man In Robbery

Pitt Sheriff's Deputies arrested a 21-year-old migratory worker yesterday and charged him with armed robbery following investigation of a Saturday incident.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the deputies arrested George Albert Reeder, who listed an 1801 S. Pitt Street address here and also a Laurens, S.C. address, and charged him in connection with the robbery of Otis Gooden of 608 Gooden Place near Bells Fork.

The sheriff reported that Gooden told deputies he was robbed around 3 p.m. Saturday of $45 by a man who pulled a knife on him after asking for a ride to the Bells Fork area. Gooden reported that his car was taken following the incident. Reeder is currently under $2,500 bond in Pitt County Jail and a hearing has been scheduled for Oct. 2 in District Court here. The Sheriff said that Reeder was also being sought by South Carolina authorities.

No Apology For Honoring Flag

SANDY, Ore. (AP)—A reserve officer with the Clackamas County sheriff's office says he'd rather lose his job than apologize for removing two American flags he felt were being treated disrespectfully.

Brad Kelly said he noticed the flags in front of a Sandy restaurant Monday night, and took them down.

"I didn't feel they should be flying at night in the rain when they were not illuminated," said Kelly, 25. The owner of the restaurant, Don Eklund, and Kelly's superior officer said Eklund had violated no law. They said Tuesday they have both asked Kelly to apologize and to raise the flags. Kelly, however, refused to put the flags up and said he believes "the flag needs a lot more respect and I don't care if I lose my job."

Pay Hike Gets Pay Board Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bending to a court mandate, the Pay Board has given preliminary approval to a 34-cent-an-hour pay raise for about 100,000 aerospace-industry workers.

Pay Board spokesman Erick Kanter said Tuesday that the agency's decision is not final because it has not yet considered fringe benefits in three-year contracts affecting members of two unions.

"This is in effect a preliminary decision," he said. "It is a partial ruling based on the money portion. We're looking at the total package."

The approval was for a 17-cent-per-hour increase for the second year of the contract plus another 17-cent boost deferred from the first year, Kanter said. Since the first year of the contracts has ended, he said, a total 34-cent increase would start with the second year if it gets final approval.

The board's decision covers aerospace workers who are members of the United Auto Workers union and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

After the Pay Board originally deferred the first-year raises, union leaders challenged the action and a federal judge ruled on Aug. 31 that the board had exceeded its authority.

Probe Case Of Imposters

An investigation by the Pitt Sheriff's Department is underway into an incident last week in which an elderly couple and a visiting neighbor were apparently victimized by three men posing as Social Security workers.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies are investigating a report that the imposters gained admittance to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lewis of Rt. 2, Greenville by telling them they were doctors representing the Social Security office and were there to conduct physical examinations.

Lewis, 71, and a visiting neighbor, Allen Buck, 76, of Rt. 2, Greenville, were examined by the men, the sheriff said, while Mrs. Lewis was asked questions concerning her physical condition.

The victims, who told the Sheriff's Department that the incident occurred last Thursday, reported discovering a total of $63 missing following the departure of the three men. The department was notified Tuesday evening, Sheriff Tyson said. He added that the victims were not injured.

The sheriff noted that similar incidents are being investigated in Beaufort, Carteret and Craven Counties.

Sympathy Vote Factor Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says President Nixon should be "a bit worried" about surveys that show him with a substantial lead over Democrat George McGovern because polls can create a sympathy vote for the underdog.

Harris, head of Louis Harris and Associates, a New York-based polling organization, and pollster Dr. George Gallup, testified Tuesday before a House subcommittee on a bill to require all pollsters to file detailed information on their surveys with the Library of Congress.

"If I were President Nixon today," Harris said, "I'd be a bit worried that people would look at these polls and say, 'I may be for him, but I don't think he should win by that margin.'"

The New York Times reported that in interviews after their committee appearances, both Gallup and Harris expressed surprise at the number of reported defectors from the Democratic party.

The Times quoted Gallup as saying, however, that he would find it "amazing if Mr. McGovern doesn't start improving his position. There's always a return to the fold of loyal Democrats in the final weeks or days as there was in 1948, of the 'Wilmington 11'."

much to our consternation." He referred to pollsters' incorrect predictions that Thomas Dewey would defeat Harry Truman for president. Harris testified against the proposed poll legislation.

Farmville Mart Had $89.35 Day

FARMVILLE — The Farmville market yesterday averaged $89.35 per hundred pounds when 485,951 pounds of leaf went for $434,219.

Offerings yesterday consisted of mostly leaf grades. The volume of primings, lugs and nondescript grades continued to decline.

Smoking leaf showed a sharp increase as compared with Monday's sale. Cutter grades accounted for a small percent of the offerings yesterday.

To date the Farmville market has sold 9,925,832 pounds of leaf for $8,773,667, giving an average of $88.39 per hundred pounds.

Who in America would introduce a new car like this?

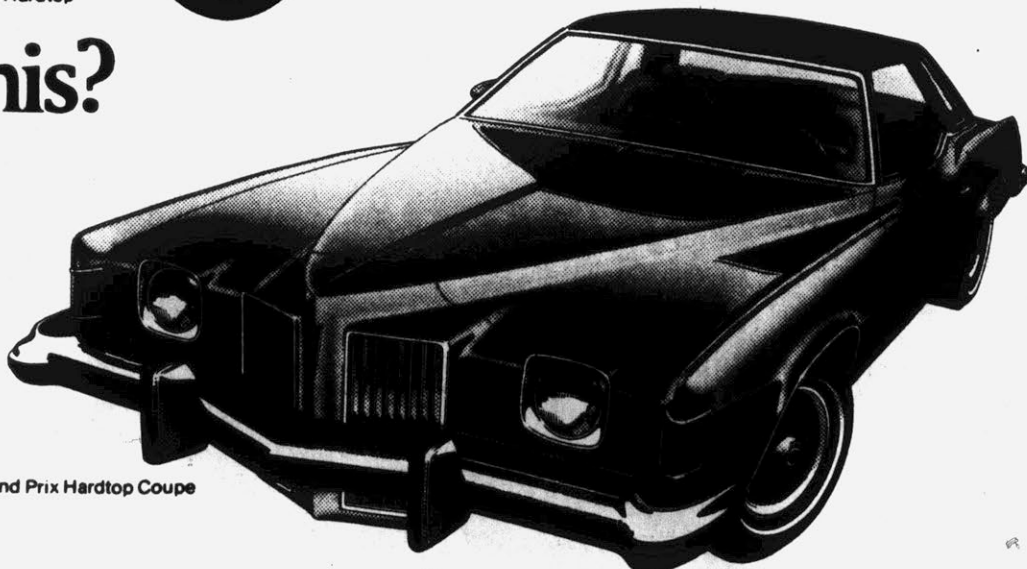

Grand Am with Colonnade Hardtop styling

Luxury LeMans 4-door Colonnade Hardtop

And styling like this?

Grand Prix Hardtop Coupe

And a classic like this?

Only Pontiac would.

Pontiac introduces the first Grand Am. It has the feel of a Grand Prix. The handling of a sports car. The characteristics you've admired in fine road cars. That could make it the newest American car ever.

The 1973 Luxury LeMans has been totally restyled. With great benefits. Improved bumpers.

Excellent visibility. A strong, new roof.

The classic Grand Prix is designed around a single principle. Spare nothing, compromise nothing, the driver is all-important. You'll understand when you get behind the wheel.

Pontiac has more news, too. New comfort for Catalina, Bonneville and Grand Ville. A new low-priced Ventura Hatchback. For our Firebirds, stronger bumpers, nicer interiors. Shouldn't you see a Pontiac dealer? Soon?

Buckle up for safety.

Pontiac, of course.

Chargers, Jaguars Clash This Weekend

Ayden-Grifton and Southern Nash continue along a collision course atop the Eastern Carolina Conference standings, with both facing league teams this weekend.

Both are 2-0 in the conference, as are North Lenoir and Eastern Wayne. Part of the logjam at the top will be broken up this weekend when North Lenoir and Eastern Wayne clash in one conference game.

Others find Farmville Central at Ayden-Grifton, North Pitt at Southern Nash, and Greene Central at Charles B. Aycock. Conley goes against non-conference West Craven, while Southern Wayne is also outside the loop this weekend, facing Goldsboro.

The job of stopping the other two top teams falls to Farmville Central's winless Jaguars, while another team without a win, North Pitt, must go up against Southern Nash.

The Jaguars have shown slow but steady improvement as their youngsters mature. "Our offense did better this past weekend," Farmville Central coach Gene Brewer said. "We're still coming along slowly, but fumbles are still hurting us. The defense did a pretty good job except we couldn't stop them from getting the big play."

"They" were Southern Nash, who took a 24-0 win over the Jaguars last Saturday. "I felt we should have scored at least twice," Brewer said. "If we could have, and could have held off the big play, it would have been a different ball game. But we did improve."

Now they face another tough team — Ayden-Grifton. It is the third straight time they've gone up against one of the league's leaders, as their first game was with Eastern Wayne.

"We're had our share with the schedule like it is," Brewer said. "They (A-G) have a good ball club. They're strong, and they have some good backs. They also throw well." Their big job will be to stop Willie Stewart, who's led the Charger rushing. He was injured last week against Conley, however, but Brewer notes that his replacement, also did well.

"We're going to have to improve in all areas of play if we're going to do well against them," he said.

Conley's Ken Treadway, who just finished with Ayden-Grifton, losing 20-0, feels his team did a good job defensively, but not on offense. All three of the A-G touchdowns were set up by the Charger defense, blocking two punts and intercepting a pass.

"They came at us pretty good. We did what we wanted to, defensively — stop Stewart; but our kicking game hurt us. They just wore us down and our mistakes killed us."

Treadway had praise for two of his defensive stars, Laurence Harper and Willie Hawkins. "Harper intercepted three passes and Hawkins did a heck of a job at linebacker," the coach said.

This week, the Vikings go against winless West Craven — the first team they beat last year. "They come at you from the wishbone and then run a 4-4 defense. They tied North Pitt, but they haven't won since then," Treadway said. "I'm sure they'll be up for us, however. They're young and inexperienced, like we are, but they've got some good material. I understand their quarterback is a good one."

The North Pitt Panthers go against Southern, looking for a tough game. "We'll have to be at our best to stay in the game with them," Coach Danny Wilmer said.

The Panthers fell hard to Eastern Wayne's Robbie Price this past weekend, and Wilmer feels that Price was the story of the game, as he did most of the damage. "I thought we played well, but we let down in the third and fourth quarters. The big play was really what killed us."

And that was the story. All of the Eastern scores were on long plays. "We were ahead, 12-7, at one point in the second half, and had them fourth and long on their 30. But we roughed the punter and that gave them a first down at the 45 and they scored on the next play," Wilmer said. "That broke our backs."

Wilmer praised running backs Billy Perkins for picking up nearly 100 yards, and Clarence Mooring for his fine running.

"Southern Nash will be all fired up, that's for sure," Wilmer said of this week's game. "But they'll probably be looking for an easy win and we might pull something off. We just need to get a couple of breaks."

Ayden-Grifton's Mike Overton felt his team didn't play well offensively, but also felt Conley did a good job on his group defensively. "They're doing a good job defensively," he said. "They're still building offensively, and I think our defense did a good job too."

The big question for the Chargers is whether star running back Willie Stewart will be ready to go this weekend. They probably won't know until Friday, Overton says. "Tony Koonce, who came in for him did a real good job running," he added.

He also singled out the play of Ronnie Salmon and Lyman Blount on defense.

Looking toward Farmville Central, Overton noted that when these two teams meet, record books are thrown out the window. "It's always a tough game for both teams," he said. "It should be a good game. It'll also be 'Parents' Night' for us."

Ali, Patterson Clash Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali returns to Madison Square Garden tonight for the first time since losing to heavyweight champion Joe Frazier when he meets Floyd Patterson, who has never lost a Garden fight.

Ali was the overwhelming favorite—there was no betting line to win the scheduled 12-round fight which was to be shown on closed-circuit television at 125 locations in the United States and Canada.

Two ex-lightweight champions also were on the card. Ken Buchanan of Scotland and Carlos Ortiz of New York were set for a 10-rounder which also was scheduled for closed-circuit television, preceding the main event which was to start about 10:30 p.m. EDT.

Ali and Patterson met once before, with Ali, who was then champion, stopping Patterson in the 12th round at Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22, 1965.

It's 1973, and Chevrolet roofs are opening, seats are swiveling, bumpers are retracting, hatches are flipping up.

Did you ever have so much to talk about that you didn't know what to say first?

We're happy to report that's us for 1973. But since everything must begin somewhere...

Isn't it romantic?

You see that rectangle beaming at you from above? That's a moonroof. Not to be confused with a sunroof. (Although many people will undoubtedly be caught using it like one.) A power roof is available on Chevelle and Monte Carlo; a manual one on Nova.

Bumpers are exciting?

This year's are something to get stirred up about. One of our new bumpers, for example, is built around twin hydraulic cylinders. So on minor impact, the whole system retracts to cushion the shock.

It's standard on all big Chevrolet, Chevelle and Monte Carlo

New Nova Hatchback Coupe.

Look what we hatched

You know us for our little Vega Hatchback. Now dependable Nova has one. Which literally makes it half trunk with the backseat down. It's a feature as practical as Nova itself.

We've been thinking about your legs

One of the few things people asked us to improve in our popular Chevelle was leg room in the backseat. Well, your knees will be pleased with the '73s. There's almost 3 1/2 more inches in the sedans.

So what else is new

Naturally this is only a taste of what's new for '73.

Among other things, we're introducing larger gas tanks for longer cruising range, a new Exhaust Gas Recirculation system, a hatchback for wagons, and a highly refined flow-through power ventilation system.

Plus a reading light for front seat passengers, improved suspension systems, engines that give you performance combined with gas economy, reclining seats and scores of dramatic styling changes.

We invite you to see it all at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Cleveland Continues To Haunt Leaders

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The winner of this mad, mad, mad American League East pennant chase obviously will be the team that manages to play less games than the others in the final two weeks of the baseball season.

Boston was back on top of the pack today, thanks to some friendly clouds that dumped enough moisture on Fenway Park to force postponement of Tuesday night's scheduled game against Baltimore. The rainout meant the Red Sox couldn't lose something Detroit and New York did quite thoroughly.

Detroit, which had taken the lead the night before thanks to an open date on the schedule, dropped a doubleheader to Cleveland 3-2 and 6-4 to slip into a second place tie with Baltimore, one-half game behind Boston. Fourth place New York lost to Milwaukee 7-2, but with the Tigers losing twice, the Yankees actually gained a half game on Detroit and remained 2½ games out of first place, now occupied by the Red Sox.

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota topped Texas 5-3, Kansas City trimmed California 7-2 and Chicago took Oakland 8-7 in 15 innings.

In the National League, Pittsburgh dumped New York 5-1, clinching a tie for the NL East title. Cincinnati reduced its magic number in the West to four by beating San Francisco 5-4. Montreal thumped Chicago 7-2. Houston downed Atlanta 5-3. St. Louis edged Philadelphia 2-1 in 10 innings and San Diego topped Los Angeles 5-2.

"I don't worry about the scoreboard," said Yankee Manager Ralph Houk after watching the last-place Brewers put the slug on New York. But the scoreboard, with its news of Detroit's double defeat at Cleveland, was the only place Houk could find any solace Tuesday night.

Bill Parsons throttled New York on six hits and George Scott and Johnny Briggs tagged consecutive homers for the Brewers. And, believe it or not, the Brewers felt the pennant pressure every bit as much as the Yanks.

"There's really more pressure on us than on New York, Boston, Detroit and Baltimore," said Scott, "because we don't want to be on a last place club the rest of our careers. Every win means something for us, if only for morale next spring."

The loss didn't do much for the Yankees' morale. New York still figures it has a break in the schedule with 10 of 12 remaining games against Cleveland and the Brewers, the East tailenders.

"Who would you rather play?" asked Houk. "Baltimore"

Of course, after what happened to Detroit, the Yankees may have second thoughts over how soft a touch the Indians may be.

Steve Dunning did in Detroit in the opener, cracking a home run and scattering nine hits before Ed Farmer came out of the bullpen to nail down the victory. After beating Mickey Lolich in the opener, the Indians completed the sweep as Graig Nettles tagged his 17th homer of the year in the nightcap.

Willie Horton accounted for three Tiger runs with an eight inning homer.

Cesar Tovar hit for the cycle, a single, double, triple and homer, with the homer coming in the bottom of the ninth inning to move Minnesota past Texas.

Bobby Darwin tagged a two-run homer for the Twins.

Kansas City got six-hit pitching from Monty Montgomery to defeat California. Montgomery also contributed a double and a run-scoring single to the 15-hit Kansas City attack. Paul Schaaf had three hits for the Royals and Cookie Rojas and Lou Piniella added two apiece.

The A's and White Sox played a marathon, going through 15 innings, 51 players, and 4 hours, 51 minutes before Chicago won.

It took a home run by Jorge Orta to win it for the Sox after the A's had come from behind twice-once on a two-out, two-run single by Joe Rudi in the ninth inning and the other time on a two-run 13th inning homer by Dave Duncan.

It turned into a battle of attrition at the end and the Sox eventually left the A's clean out of troops. With two men on in the bottom of the 15th and two out, Oakland Manager Dick Williams had only one available player to pinch hit for pitcher Gary Waslewski. The last man was another pitcher, Ken Holtzman, and when he struck out, the marathon was over.

The vital victory kept Chicago's flickering West hopes alive. The White Sox are four games back and Oakland's magic number remains nine.

Appalachian Is Said Explosive

Appalachian is "quicker and more aggressive than anybody else we have played," said Coach Sonny Randle about this week's opponent.

East Carolina meets the Mountaineers this Saturday in Ficklen Stadium. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Pirates are fresh off two wins — including last Saturday night's upset of Southern Illinois University 16-0, and Randle was understandable elated. But, as to Appalachian, newest member of the Southern Conference, the ECU coach was cautious.

"They've got an explosive football team," Randle said. "They ignited in the second half against The Citadel last Saturday and did everything but win the game. I'm sure they learned right then what they are capable of."

Randle referred to Appalachian's comeback from 21-0 at the half by closing the gap with three touchdowns and giving the Bulldogs a 28-21 scare.

The Pirate coach singled out Rich Agle as one of the App's most dangerous guns. He called the split end and kick return specialist a "talented game-breaker. We'll have to contain him if we can."

The Pirates have not won their opening three games since 1967, but Randle had reasons for optimism after their 30-3 opener over VMI and then last week's upset of SIU.

"It's the greatest effort I have ever seen at East Carolina," Randle said of the SIU game. "We played a team that was bigger, stronger, more physical — and I think we played them to the hilt. We may be few in numbers, but we are for real."

Standouts in the game included freshman kicker Ricky McLester of Oakboro, who set a new school record with three field goals in the second period; offensive guard Greg Troupe, who won Southern Conference "Offensive Player of the Week;" and fullback Les Strayhorn with 101 yards on 33 carries. Defensively, tackle Joe Tkach and linebacker Kanny Kopley were outstanding.

As to the Pirates' defense, they now lead the nation with 14 net yards allowed rushing in two games. That averages out to seven inches each time an opponent carries the ball.

Mountaineers Leading Series

BOONE — Appalachian State University and East Carolina University renew an old rivalry Saturday night when the Mountaineers face the Pirates in a 7:30 p.m. game in Greenville.

The series, which Appalachian leads 17-4, dates back to 1932 when the Mountaineers took a 21-0 victory. The last meeting was in 1962, East Carolina's final year in the Carolinas Conference, when the Pirates took a 29-16 decision.

Since that time Appalachian has also left the Carolinas Conference and both are now members of the Southern Conference. Saturday will be the first conference meeting between the two schools.

The Mountaineers are 0-1 in the conference and 1-1 overall following last Saturday's 28-21 loss to The Citadel. The Pirates are led by junior quarterback Carl Summerall. "They have one of the finest running back combinations in North Carolina," says Appalachian head coach Jim Brakefield. Carlester Crumpler, a 6-4, 205-pound tailback, and Les Strayhorn, fullback, are the running backs Brakefield refers to.

"They are very aggressive on defense and rush the passer very well," Brakefield continues. "They haven't given up a touchdown in two games this season."

The Appalachian offense finally got moving Saturday night against the Citadel, but it was too late for the Mountaineers. They had fallen behind by 21-0 in the first 16 minutes of the game, and they couldn't quite catch the Citadel.

"The Citadel has a fine football team," says Brakefield. "But we made a lot of mistakes we are going to have to correct before we are a consistently good football team."

Brakefield expressed pleasure with his team's passing attack which picked up 22 yards against The Citadel. "I thought we looked very good moving the ball through the air, and our receivers did a fine job."

"Rich Agle did a fine job as a receiver and returning our punts and kickoffs. He looked very good on his 70-yard punt return for a touchdown."

Greenville

The annual City Golf Championship Tournament will be played this weekend at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The deadline for entries is 6 p.m. this evening, and anyone wishing to participate is asked to call the pro shop before then.

The tournament will be played Saturday and Sunday, covering 36 holes.

The Greenville club is also making plans for another tournament, for the juniors, to be held in October. The tournament will be open to both boys and girls, ages 8 to 15. It will be played on Saturday, October 21, starting at 8 p.m. All interested junior members of the club are urged to sign up and play.

Brook Valley

Several members have turned in their best rounds recently at Brook Valley Country Club.

Among them are Les Turnage, who fired at 79, Kelly Kee, who had a 78, and Frank Hill, who had a 73. Hill shot his round from the gold tees.

Robersonville

The Robersonville Golf and Country Club is making plans for its annual Tobacco Invitational tournament, to be played October 7-8.

Signups for the tournament close on October 4. The entry fee is $15 and anyone desiring to enter may contact the pro shop for further information.

There is no defending champion this year since weather delayed and finally cancelled the tournament last year after three tries at getting it started.

Youngster Likes Scare Career Lobo Wolf Thrives On Washington Peninsula

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
HONOLULU (UPI) — The shelves in Bryan Furer's room are filled with monster magazines, ingredients for "make believe" blood and gruesome masks.

While other teen-agers are spending their free time raising batting averages and increasing record collections, Furer is working on a new fake blood recipe, contemplating the details of a new monster mask and emerging as an experienced and sought after makeup artist.

Furer, a 17-year-old high school senior, has found his thing in the bizarre. The tall, thin young man has turned a childhood fascination with monster movies into an unusual hobby which he eventually hopes to make into a career.

"I was only about nine when I saw my first horror movie," Furer said. "It scared me to death, but I still liked it and went to see some more."

Furer started making his own monster movies with his mother's movie camera, making up neighborhood children and starring them in the productions.

"I saved up money from my paper route and bought a projector," Furer said. "Then I started showing my movies to the kids on the block, and they really enjoyed them. Of course the movies weren't much."

The youngster also went to a theatrical makeup supply house and bought some fake blood and started experimenting with it, making phony burns and cuts.

Furer said he got his "first big break" four years ago when he was given the chance to make up mock victims at a health fair. Since then he has done make-up and masks for local productions and is also working on a science fiction film he hopes to enter in the next film festival here.

He Taught Himself

By watching television and reading monster magazines, Furer basically taught himself how to create the masks. Later he took some make-up lessons to improve his technique. "I started out buying plastic masks and building them up," Furer said.

"Now I make a cast of the actor's face and start from that," he said. "It can be a long, complicated process."

Furer's most ambitious mask, for a production of Beauty and the Beast, took three days. It consisted of a cast built up with modeling clay and liquid latex. Gauze reinforced the mask and Furer added crepe hair, grease paint and fangs protruding over the lower lip for the finishing touches. Furer made the beast's hands from rubber surgical gloves, applying liquid latex, hair and fake fingernails for menacing claws.

An ape, a mummy, a werewolf and an aged man resembling a corpse are some of the other masks Furer has completed.

Blood Recipe

He has also whipped up his own recipe for imitation blood: red food coloring, orange coloring and a drop or two of green food coloring. "Then I add liquid starch and regular laundry starch," he said, "to get it as thick as possible so it won't run like water."

Furer eventually hopes to merge all his interests into a movie making career. "Most people think monster movies are for children," he said. "I have to admit that now-a-day monster movies aren't worth much."

"I'd like to make some really sophisticated monster movies that would be artistic too," he said. "I'm also interested in science fiction films, suspense and mystery."

Furer's unusual interests don't shock his friends a bit. Most of his buddies have become involved in his hobby with him, and girls don't seem to mind talking about it on dates. And even though his bedroom is bursting with all his equipment, Furer's parents don't mind.

His father, Frederick, an architect, said "though unusual, it's certainly a creative hobby. We encourage it."

One of Furer's make-up jobs creating a witch even earned him his Eagle Scout award.

Lobo Wolf Thrives On Washington Peninsula

GARDINER, Wash. (AP) — The lobo wolf, once so feared a killer that bounties for some equaled the reward offered for Jesse James, has found a haven from extinction on Washington's Olympic Peninsula.

The lobo, also known as the Great Plains or buffalo wolf, is thriving on a 40-acre wolf park owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynch.

Lobo wolves derive their name from two Blackfoot Indian words: "lo" meaning wolf and "bo" meaning buffalo. Lobo also is Spanish for wolf.

When buffalo were abundant, these canny, viciously-fanged hunters would follow the migrating herds across the great expanse of America's plains. When man decimated the bison, the wolves turned their hunting instinct towards settlers' livestock.

Rewards of up to $5,000 were paid for packs of lobos that killed as many as 18 cattle a night.

A government trapping program began and the wolves' doom appeared certain.

The restoration of the lobo began about 1920 when Dr. E. H. McCreery of Kane, Pa., read a news account of the government's intention to exterminate the wolf. He wrote Washington, D.C., wildlife officials, asking if he could get some of the animals.

He eventually received 20 wolves that trappers had captured. The most intelligent and best physical specimens were kept for breeding and the doctor eventually established a park to display them.

The Lynches bought the wolves from the 94-year-old Dr.

McCreery in 1961. They searched the country for a new home for the wolves and eventually settled on the Clallam County site.

Lynch arrived in Gardiner with 32 wolves which were trucked across country in a large trailer. Another 20 had been flown ahead in small groups earlier.

Presently, each pair of wolves is housed in 40-by-80-foot pens built in the woods. The aim is to preserve the natural beauty of the setting, removing only what was necessary to permit viewing of the pens.

The animals' appetites are gargantuan. Lynch says he has butchered 150,000 to 200,000 pounds of beef a year over the past 10 years. The wolves are fed 45 to 50 pounds of meat once a week. They are fed every five days in winter.

Impetus In Middle East Appears Toward Peace

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT (AP)—Passions ignited by the Munich tragedy will take a long time to subside, and more violence is likely in the Middle East. But the general impetus is toward peace, not war.

In the weeks before Arab terrorists struck at the Israelis' Olympic headquarters, Egypt and Israel showed renewed interest in reaching a negotiated settlement of the 1967 war.

Seasoned diplomats thought it was just a matter of time.

Egypt fundamentally altered the strategic equation in July by expelling thousands of Russian troops and military advisers. Without them and without new Soviet arms, Egypt would be virtually powerless in a new war with Israel.

Until the expulsion, war in some form seemed inevitable. Now it appears much less likely, but this does not mean that peace is just around the corner. The thorny, seemingly insoluble problem of Palestinian refugees—and the guerrillas who fight their cause—will continue to upset peace efforts, as they did at Munich.

Israel has warned it will "strike at the terrorist organizations wherever we can," as in the retaliatory air raids in Lebanon and Syria this month. But Prime Minister Golda Meir added: "The terrorists cannot weaken our desire for peace. They will not alter our peace policy."

Thus although Munich has thrown up a roadblock to peace moves for a while "the dust will settle and we can start up," an official in Tel Aviv said.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, in a separate holding action of his own, has been preparing a diplomatic offensive to get European Common Market countries involved in trying to arrange a settlement with Israel.

As a result of Munich, relations between Egypt and West Germany, re-established three months ago after a seven-year lapse, are strained. But Bonn did not figure as prominently in Cairo's plans as did Britain and France.

One key to action seems to be the United States and the useful role it can play by using its political weight to secure an Israeli withdrawal.

Perhaps anticipating post-election pressure from Washington, the inner circle of the Israeli Cabinet has been informally discussing what frontiers are needed to guarantee the country's security, but no decision apparently has been reached.

Egypt's primary concern is getting Sinai back. The only realistic way appears to be the U.S. plan for "proximity talks" aimed at an interim agreement to reopen the Suez Canal as a first step. This in turn must await the outcome of the November elections, officials in Cairo believe.

Sadat rejected Mrs. Meir's appeal on July 26 "to meet as equals to make peace," repeating Egypt's position that no negotiations are possible without an advance Israeli commitment to withdraw from occupied land—that otherwise such talks serve only to reward aggression.

The other linchpin in Egypt's position is that there must be no bargaining on the rights of the Palestinians, but this is purposefully left vague.

The guerrilla attack clearly embarrassed the Egyptian government but the guerrillas are not a major factor in official thinking about a possible settlement.

Palestinian leaders get moral support and the use of a radio transmitter but little else from Egypt, which has almost no resident Palestinian population and keeps tight rein on guerrilla activities.

Two years ago the Palestinian guerrillas represented a dynamic new force in the Arab world. Now the movement seems to be on the ropes.

Smoking Given Another Rap

BOSTON (UPI)—Podiatrists have come up with another reason for quitting smoking. It's bad for your feet.

Dr. Ernest M. Weiner, president of the American Podiatry Association, says persons who suffer from poor or borderline circulation add to their problems if they smoke. Tobacco curtails circulation to the feet because of its tendency to narrow the blood vessels.

"FLAGSHIP OF THE FLEET" — The Chevrolet Monte Carlo S is among the most changed of all seven Chevrolet car lines in 1973. Featuring sculptured side and rear-quarter metal, new grille, and an optional Landau or opera-type vinyl roof, the Monte Carlo is a styling classic. Months of advanced chassis and suspension engineering work have given the Monte Carlo handling and roadability said to equal or surpass that of Europe's most expensive personal touring cars.

Must Learn Quickly Or Soon Extinct

By RICHARD WEINGARTEN
BRASILIA (UPI)—A group of pre-Neolithic Brazilian jungle Indians must learn in the next few months how to live in the modern world, or face the threat of extinction.

The tribe, whose existence was not known, was discovered in early August by Roman Catholic missionaries who flew over their jungle-surrounded village in the western state of Mato Grosso.

According to Jesuit missionary Thomaz de Aquino Lisboa, one of the men who found the village, it lies only 23 air minutes away from the almost-finished Cuiaba-Santarem Trans-Amazon highway.

The tribe belongs to the Cinta Larga Indian grouping, Father Lisboa said, and the completion of the road spells great danger for them. "An outbreak of the common cold would be enough to wipe out the entire 300-member tribe," the priest said. "Pacification"

The slim missionary works for the Anchieta Indian Mission, a stand-in for the Catholic Church and Brazil's National Indian Foundation (FUNAI) in the region. The mission uses a well-developed "pacification" program which tries to introduce primitive Indians to the white man's world without loss of tribal customs and beliefs.

More directly, it is a course in survival. The program provides the cultural skills by which the Indian can conserve his health and lands in the face of inevitable outside intrusion.

Father Lisboa said that presents have already been exchanged and peaceful contact established between the Mission and the Village. An Indian woman, named Irantxe, has been sent to live with the tribe in order to carry out the first stages of pacification.

Irantxe is also a Cinta Larga, Father Lisboa said, and has the advantage of speaking their language. She has already worked in the successful pacification of the Tupxi, Tikbaksta, Beico-de-Pau and Munku tribes.

Father Lisboa described her job as "extremely delicate."

Improving Sanitation
"She must work closely with the Cinta Larga chieftain," he explained. "She must always respect his authority for without his help nothing can be accomplished."

Irantxe's initial task will be to get the Indians to improve their sanitary conditions. She will try to teach them, mostly by personal example, to boil their water, install privies, and give more attention to personal hygiene.

She then will introduce basic gardening skills, in hopes that the nomadic Cinta Largas will in time become subsistence farmers, able to produce flour, corn meal and other staples.

Later more sophisticated economies will be tried out, based on locally available resources.

Another Mato Grosso tribe, the Xavantes, "civilized" less than 20 years ago, has already begun to raise lumber, peanuts and rubber on its land.

Under Brazil's newly drafted Indian statutes, the tribe will have the right to all the lands they have traditionally lived on and roamed, although the government does reserve the right to take some lands when such action is deemed to be in the national interest.

Auditioning Was Police Matter

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (AP) — Police responding to a report of a ruckus in a store found two young men yelling at each other.

After they calmed down Bob Tessier, 21, and John di Luzzio, 19, the officers demanded to know the cause of the trouble.

There was no trouble, the pair replied, waving scripts. They were merely trying out for roles in a local production of Thornton Wilder's play, "The Skin of Our Teeth," which calls for a number of loud arguments.

The store was being used by the Westminster Community Theater Youth Group for auditions. Jess Newman, director of the group, said later: "Tessier and di Luzzio got the parts, of course."

Tourist Can Easily Get Into Trouble

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

An American youth recently was sentenced to five years in jail by a court in Thailand for possession of LSD. An American girl is waiting trial in Italy on drug charges that could get her up to eight years behind bars.

Actually, these are only two of the hundreds of young Americans who have found out the hard way that foreign governments are not more permissive than the United States about drug use, smuggling or trafficking.

According to the U.S. State Department, more than 900 Americans are being held in foreign jails. The fact of the matter is that possession or sale of illegal drugs overseas is punishable by stiff fines, long-term imprisonment and even, in Iran, by death. And a U.S. passport does not make one immune to arrest and prosecution if the holder breaks the laws.

This was part of the message delivered to youths and their parents during a 20-city tour through the United States by Maxwell C. Elliott, who has lived, worked and traveled in Europe and the Far East for over 40 years.

The Word
Elliott, now director of International Public Affairs for American Express, said that wherever young people gather the word is being spread around: "Stay out of hassles with the fuzz."

At an interview during a New York stopover on his way back to his headquarters in France, Elliott said:

"There's a mistaken impression around that foreign drug law enforcement is less stringent than in the United States. Not so. Prosecutions have been intensified in many countries, and penalties can range from expulsion to heavy fines plus imprisonment for up to life in some cases."

He said that in some countries drug pushers are also informers "who make money two ways, by selling narcotics and then trying to blackmail the buyer or collecting rewards by tipping off customs or police."

Booklet Available
Elliott said American Express, as a public service, reprinted a U.S. State Department booklet with travel tips for young Americans and is distributing more than 500,000 copies free through cooperating airlines and travel agencies.

While the drug scene has been getting most of the attention recently—and deservedly so—Elliott said there were other problems for youths traveling abroad.

"In the excitement of travel many first-time travelers lose their natural prudence," he said. "Young people meeting other young people tend to be trusting and as a consequence are careless about their belongings."

He said don't leave cameras, clothing, musical instruments "around as a temptation—and that goes also for your money, passport or return ticket."

Other Precautions
Most young travelers know by now they should carry funds in the form of travelers checks, Elliott said. They can be replaced without loss if the company is notified promptly when lost or stolen.

"But, recently there have been a rash of cases of youthful travelers being swindled by people offering to sell them travelers checks or foreign currency at bargain prices or cut-rate airline tickets—which turn out to be counterfeit or stolen," he said.

"Street corner and black market deals with strangers are hazardous—laws in foreign countries are stringent and penalties can be severe."
When it comes to youth, Elliott should know whereof he speaks. He was for many years manager of the American Express office in Paris, an almost traditional port of call for generations of young American travelers in Europe.

Decorating Help In Small Room

NEW YORK (UPI)—If an off-center window in a smallish room poses a decorating problem, a shade, hung reverse-roll (to hide the roller) within the window frame, will come to the rescue by creating an illusion of more space—particularly when chosen in a color that blends with the wall. Painting the window frame a brighter tone will lend subtle definition.

Carl Smith Lives Life Of Riley

By NANCY SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — You won't have to look far to find singer Carl Smith—he's the one that looks like a ranch hand, sitting underneath a big tree with his wide-brimmed hat beside him. He's communing with nature.

"I'm very contented," he smiled, brushing the long hair back from his brow. "I live the life of Riley, truthfully. I just do what I want to do."
Wearing blue jeans, a tee-shirt and tennis shoes, Smith, a giant in country music, admitted, "I have ambition, but I don't have any ambition to be the No. 1 cat in the country—too much trouble."

"I was there once and it's a lot of aggravation," he grinned, glancing at his wife, Goldie, who at one time was the top female singer in country music.

During the past few years, Smith, 45, has cut down on personal appearances and now only goes on the road on week-ends.

The Maynardville, Tenn., native spends every free minute around his 500-acre farm in Williamson County, chatting with the ranch hands, working with his horses, playing with his three children. Sometimes he drives the 20 miles to Nashville to cut another record that's almost guaranteed to be a hit.

"I'd like to be rich and unknown and retired," he confessed before breaking into easy laughter.

Looking back over 22 years as a recording artist, Smith conceded he wouldn't do anything any other way, at least. "nothing I can talk about."
"Career-wise, I don't think I would have changed anything. I've been very consistent. I've been very fortunate really. Things could have been better but they sure as hell could have been worse," he quipped.

He attributes his success to "guts," then gets serious long enough to say, "I have never understood why anybody would buy a ticket to see me and I have never understood why anybody would buy one of my records. It amazes me."

But when asked whether he would, he laughed, "Yeah, cause I'm pretty good."

"I don't particularly want an audience to remember anything—I just want them to forget everybody except me that was on the show."

Smith, who wants to be remembered as a "pretty good ole boy," said he hasn't changed in years.

"Musically, I've changed the style of my records in the last year by going to orchestration."

"During the years I've been recording I've done a little bit of everything from rock 'n roll to bluegrass to straight country and western swing, but I never had done this."

"I'm not really experimenting now—I'm just doing something I wanted to do."

Smith has never been too caught up in other facets of the music business. "I'm not the kind to be in the publishing business, for example, because I'm too critical of material."

"To be a producer or publisher, you've got to have a broad vision that what I've got," he said.

"When I listed to a song, I listen to it for myself and I don't picture anybody else doing it," he said. "If I don't like it for myself I don't picture anybody else doing it."

He said he's missed some good songs because of that. And he counts on his fingers such songs as "Crying in the Chapel" and "These Hands."

Free Tickets Are Available

Free reserve tickets are still available for the Saturday concert of the U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus scheduled for 2 p.m. at East Carolina University's Wright Auditorium.

Tickets may be picked up at The Daily Reflector offices, the central ticket office at ECU, and at the Army Recruiting office on Evans Street.

The Daily Reflector is sponsoring the Greenville visit of the 100-man group, the official touring musical representative of the Army and known as "The Kings of the Highway."

The Field Band and Chorus, continuing at Fall tour that runs from Sept. 20 to Oct. 27 and includes concerts in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida, will arrive here Saturday morning and will be assisted in concert preparations by members of AFROTC at ECU. Cadets will also handle ushering duties at Wright Auditorium.

The Greenville visit will be followed by a concert in Raleigh on Sunday at Memorial Auditorium.

Area residents who are unable to obtain free tickets for the performance will be admitted to Wright Auditorium but ticketholders will be guaranteed reserved seats.

Many Facets Of State History Are Available

By H. G. JONES, Administrator

Office of Archives and History
RALEIGH (AP) — Historical maps, documents county histories and large documentary volume covering many facets of North Carolina history are among the publications of the Office of Archives and History.

Periodicals, too, are available including the "North Carolina

Historical Review," which is issued quarterly and contains articles on North Carolina and southern history, documentary materials and book reviews. "Carolina Comments" is published bimonthly and offers news of historical agencies and groups throughout the state. For the younger set, the "Tar Heel Junior Historian" provides information and guidance to junior high school students.

Typical of the major documentaries offered are "The Regulators in North Carolina," "North Carolina Charters and Constitutions," and a multi-volume set of the "Records of the Moravians in North Carolina." Two long-range projects are aimed at publishing a new Civil War roster and all the available significant colonial records of North Carolina.

Other interesting books available included "The Formation of North Carolina Counties 1663-1943," and "The Poems of Governor Thomas Burke," who was also a doctor, lawyer and public figure during the Revolutionary period. The latter is particularly unique in that its design, typeface, paper stock and binding conform to 18th-century style.

A wide variety of inexpensive paperback publications of interest to both school children and adults cover such subjects as Indian wars in North Carolina, reconstruction, and colonial homes. Most popular are those dealing with Indians, pirates and the Wright brothers.

It is not uncommon for these small books though inexpensive when new, to become collectors' items and highly valued on the used book market after they are out of print. A booklet on North Carolina silversmiths, for instance, has been out of print since the mid 1950s and has been sold at some dealers for up to $25. It is being revised for reprinting this winter and will be offered again for a modest price.

A listing of all available publications is available from the Office of Archives and History at 109 East Jones St., Raleigh 27611.

Scent is the most important of the several message systems of mammals.

Proffer Clues On Drug-User

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute says the following signs may indicate a child is on drugs: a tendency to sit looking off into space; an appearance of intoxication with no smell of alcohol; staying out much later than usual and giving evasive answers when questioned about his activities; avid reading of books and articles on the drug culture; loss of appetite; rapid loss of weight.

Many Services Offered At Local ESC Offices

There are many non-fee employer and individual job-related services available at the local office of the N. C. State Employment Security Commission, according to J. E. Hannan, manager of the local office.

The one service most used, the manager said, is testing.

He explained, there are two basic tests offered on a scheduled basis: the clerical battery to measure typing speed, shorthand proficiency and spelling ability; and the aptitude test — a test unique in that it does not measure what an individual has already learned, but rather the ability to learn a new trade, skill or occupation.

Hannan said the clerical battery is designed to reveal information about persons interested in clerical occupations and the information is then used to discuss an applicant's proficiency with prospective employers.

Neither the test nor the referral of an applicant to an employer for consideration for employment are on a fee, he emphasized.

Hannan said the aptitude test reveals the jobs best suited for the applicant there-by precluding a potential high turnover rate for the employer.

He said there are a total of 12 skills measured by the test and the scores on the test relate to how well an individual can use his hands and fingers, his ability to discern visual comparisons and discriminations and to define slight variations in form, size and shape; his ability to follow instructions and give an indication as to hand and eye coordination.

Hannan emphasized that the test results, coupled with the interpretation of them by trained employment office counselors can predict with a very high degree of accuracy an individual's areas of employment success.

According to Hannan, persons interested or in need of testing or desiring to up-grade their present jobs may contact the local ESC office at 1002 South Evans St. or phone the office at 752-6146 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tree Gardens Are Fertilized

NEW YORK (UPI)—Georgia-Pacific Corp. has begun helicopter "air drops" of fertilizer to speed up the harvest for the year 1972. The fertilization covers 4,423 acres of "tree gardens" in Oregon's Coos, Lane and Lincoln counties and will improve strength and growth for plywood and lumber products 45 years from now.

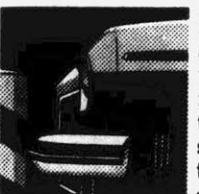

Oldsmobile for '73

Cutlass. It's two new cars.

Cutlass S Colonnade Hardtop Coupe. Sportier this year. Roomier. Heavier. Yet surprisingly easy to own. Even if you order the new swivel bucket seats. Cutlass Supreme Colonnade Hardtop Coupe (foreground). More of a little limousine than ever. You can see it in the formal roofline and new opera side windows. You can feel it in the spacious, quiet interior. And even in the ride we've patterned after our bigger Oldsmobiles.

Delta 88—with a new grille that swings out of harm's way.

For '73, we've made the Delta 88 tougher than ever. The Swing-Away Grille (pictured at left) is just one way. It's teamed with an improved hydraulic front bumper system: if the bumper gets tapped, the grille swings out of the way. We pound the seats 100,000 times, and drive the Delta 88 thousands of hard miles, to test durability. All to make sure it's more than just big, comfortable and smooth-riding—not just another pretty car.

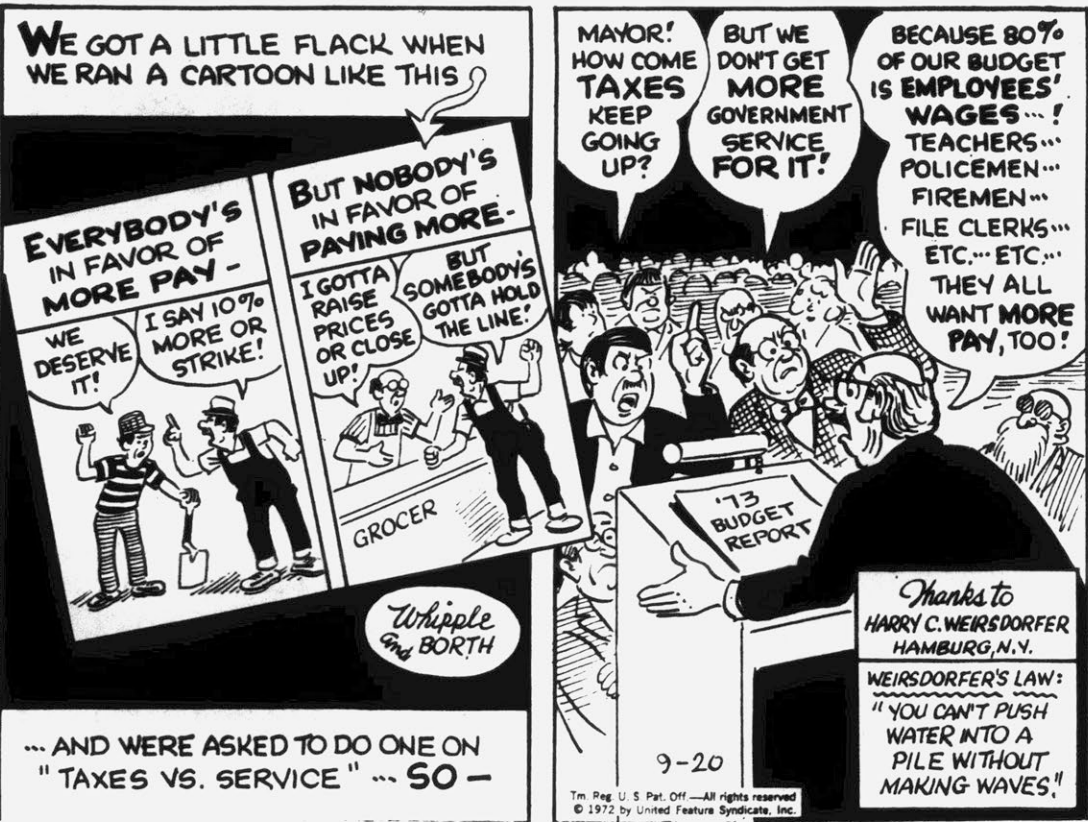

Omega. The new compact Olds at a compact price.

It's a whole new kind of Olds. And the lowest-priced of all. Omega is a compact—but one with big-car thinking built in. It's nearly 500 pounds more car than some smaller compacts. Its wheelbase is longer, 111 inches, for a smooth ride. And you can feel the difference on the road. A deluxe interior with new "wet-look" vinyl trim is standard. So is full carpeting. And a 250-cu.-in. engine. Coupe, 3-door hatchback or sedan, it's a lot of Olds for the money.

See the '73 Toronado, Ninety-Eight, all the new ones at your Olds dealer's showroom now.

The Worry Clinic Vasectomy Can Pose Problem

Jill is having a serious sex quarrel with her new husband. A Chicago judge recently awarded an annulment to a similar couple. But such a breakup of a home could have been avoided by the methods outlined below. So use more "Horse Sense."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-593: Jill J., aged 23, married her boss, aged 35. "But, Dr. Crane," she wept, "I am afraid I must get a divorce, or else an annulment."

"For my husband had been married before but his wife never wanted any children."

"So she made him submit to a vasectomy."

"But they quarreled a lot and she finally divorced him."

"However, my husband promised me that he would consult a surgeon and try to have his vasectomy reversed."

"Dr. Crane, he has never gone to the doctor, though I made two appointments for him to do so."

"He argues that it is difficult to reverse a vasectomy, but I thought he would at least try to do so."

"For I wouldn't have married if I had thought we couldn't have any children.

"So what can I do?"

Vasectomy Woes
Although over 1,000,000 American husbands are reported to have had vasectomies, not many surgical reverses have been accomplished.

But it is certainly worth a try, especially when the new wife is obsessed with a desire to have children.

Jill admitted that she knew in advance it wasn't likely that her husband's vasectomy could be reversed.

"But at least he could have tried," she protested, "for he had faithfully promised me he would do so."

Last March 1st, Chicago's Judge Benjamin Kanter thus granted an annulment to another young wife in the same boat with Jill.

For the young wife's attorney had argued that having children was the fundamental purpose of marriage.

Which is obviously not 100 per cent correct, for millions of weddings occur where the women are past the age of 45 and hence cannot get pregnant.

In true love, which is entirely unselfish, the parties to the marriage ceremony are supposed to forsake ALL others and cling to each other.

And that word "ALL" not only means in-laws but even children!

It is true that the presence of babies in the home usually exerts a very wholesome effect by giving the two parents a mutual dynamic interest.

If a husband with a vasectomy then wishes to offer his wife a baby, here are some of the medical and psychological possibilities:

(1) Try artificial insemination by use of the husband's sperm.

These can often be extracted via a hypodermic needle that is injected into his gonads.

Then they can be injected upon the wife's cervix at the precise day in the menstrual month when she would most likely conceive.

(2) If that method proves ineffective after a number of trials, then an attempt can be made to reverse the vasectomy.

(3) As a final resort, the couple can try to adopt babies (or even kiddies of school age).

Remember, many older youngsters will be far more appreciative of foster parents than would be babies who have never known the heartache and longing to be in a normal family group, with a daddy and mother of their very own.

Consider, too, that marriage is merely a form of "adult adoption" where the couple are not of blood kin but feel closer than blood brother and sister!

So send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy and Adoption," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Wine-Tasting Set Sept. 27

The Greenville Wine Club organized in May 1972 will have its next monthly tasting September 27th at 7:30 p.m. at the Candlewick Inn.

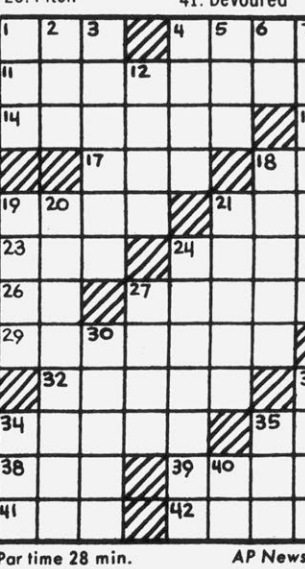

The Club is non-profit, self-supporting, and was organized for the purposes of social contact and to appreciate and learn about wines. The Club members extend to any interested parties an invitation to attend their September tasting. There will be a guest speaker.

For further information please contact Archie Simmons, 758-0660 or 752-5457 a.m. or p.m. before Sept. 25th.

The bidding:

West North East South

1 NT Pass 4 ♠ 5 ♣

Dble. Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

South's decision to sacrifice at five clubs in today's hand was, at best, of doubtful wisdom.

East's jump response to four spades over his partner's opening bid of one no trump confronted South with a completely blind situation and the more discreet course is to let nature take its course.

The damages against five clubs may far exceed the value of the opponent's game if North's values present a misfit.

Furthermore, there is no assurance that four spades is a cinch, despite South's apparent lack of defensive values.

The trump lead would not have cost West anything, it is difficult to criticize him for attempting to cash the ace of spades.

South ruffed with the four of clubs and cashed the king next to test the lay in trumps.

When both opponents followed suit, it appeared that he had been guilty of taking a phantom save-for in defending against four spades. North and South could have scored a trick in every suit.

With the ace of hearts clearly marked in the opening no trump bidder's hand, there was no danger that declarer's five club contract would suffer more than a 100 point deficit, and therefore very little swing was in the offing on the deal.

South sought for some way to capitalize on the trick gained by the opening lead and thereby make his enterprise pay off with a profit—and presently he uncovered a method to assure success.

At trick three he led the deuce of diamonds and West was confronted with a choice of unpleasant alternatives.

He actually chose to put up the ace of diamonds and exited with the queen of clubs to North's ace.

The closed hand was reentered by leading the six of diamonds to the queen and a small heart was played next.

West rose once more with the ace, but that was the second and final trick for his side.

Dummy's king of hearts took care of one of declarer's small cards in that suit and the other two were discarded on the king of spades and the king of diamonds.

It would have availed West nothing to duck when South led his small diamond at trick three.

The king of diamonds is played from dummy to win that trick and then declarer can discard his remaining card in the suit—the queen—on the king of spades.

The ace of clubs draws West's remaining trump, the closed hand is reentered by ruffing either a spade or a diamond and a heart is led toward the king.

The defense scores two heart tricks, but that is all.

INVITATION FOR BIDS
 The Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, will receive bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and services required for the construction of Project NC 22-4. Project NC 22-4 consists of sixteen (16) buildings, containing seventy-eight (78) units and Administration C&M Building, the work to include site preparation, site improvement work, and landscape work as specified in the technical portion of the Specifications, dated 2:00 p.m. (E.S.T.) October 18, 1972 in the Council Chambers, third floor of the Municipal Building, Greenville, North Carolina.
 In addition to the General Construction Contract, separate prime contracts will be let for Plumbing, Heating, and Electrical Work.
 Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $100.00 with the Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, for each set of documents so obtained. Such deposits shall be refunded to each person who returns the plans, specifications and other documents in good condition within 10 days after bid opening.
 A certified check drawn on a bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, payable to the order of the Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, in an amount equal to five percent of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.
 The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds.
 Attention is called to the provisions for equal employment opportunity, and payment of not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Specifications must be paid on this project.
 The Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding.
 No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without consent of the Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina.

NOTICE OF CONSIDERATION OF APPROVAL OF PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS OF US 13 & NC 11 FROM WEST THIRD STREET TO NC 903
 Project 6.80.907, 9.8202038
 Greenville, Pitt County
 The North Carolina State Highway Commission will consider approval of the proposed design for the above improvement ten days from the date of this notice. The proposed design consists of adding two additional lanes with 30' or 44' median to the west side of the existing lanes. All intersections will be at grade. The right-of-way will vary and will be that necessary to contain the construction. The proposed design is the same as presented at the public hearing on March 28, 1972, in Greenville, N.C.
 A set of prints setting forth the above and a copy of the Environmental Impact Statement Negative Declaration is available for public review and copying at the Division Office of the North Carolina State Highway Commission, Greenville, N.C.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

TOP-NOTCH two-bedroom planning makes this ranch plan just right for a retirement home. The optional study or third bedroom could be built instead of the porch, converting the plan into one for a growing family. There is a mud room-laundry and two-car garage plus rooms in the basement. Plan HA743C has 1,060 square feet and is available from Architect Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Collection 'Tours' At Club's Meeting

At the September meeting of the Greenville Collectors Club, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simmons, members were treated to two tours of collections.
 The first was that of Francis Belsic related details of several trips made throughout the U.S. in search of material for his varied collections. This included an account of searching local river banks for old bottles; of visiting West Virginia and Ohio for old and new glassware; and visiting numerous flea markets and garage sales for undisclosed treasures. He also told about visiting two oceans for collecting seashells; and traveling in western deserts for biological specimens.

 The second tour for the collectors was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenyon. Their tour centered on ancient Japan for a look at netsuke, the old, rare and beautiful Japanese miniature figures; and the Kenyon collection of Nazi memorabilia covering the Hitler regime in Germany.
 The Kenyon tour will be continued at the October 10 meeting of the collectors club to be held at the home of Mickey Elmore at 207-A South Summit Street.
 Members have also indicated that plans are in the making for the club's outdoor flea market and antique sale slated for October 15. Details will be announced later.
 Persons interested in getting more information about the Greenville Collectors Club are asked to contact Elmore. New members are always welcome.

N.Y. Lacking In Eateries

NEW YORK (AP)—For the average metropolitan worker, the lunch break, once a relaxing respite from the workday routine, has become one of the most frustrating periods of the day.
 "Here in the nation's most crowded city, for example, there are only about 5,000 restaurants, ranging from pizza parlors to gourmet palaces," said Alan Emerick, president of the Great Bear Spring Company. "Yet there are some 3.5 million office workers searching for a lunch-time oasis."
 Since the average restaurant can serve only about 150 diners between noon and 2 p.m., only about 500,000 workers each day can enjoy a restaurant lunch, Emerick added.

The other three million are learning to "eat in" again, either by bringing their lunch from home, ordering it from a delicatessen or by using new office refreshment units, which dispense both hot and ice water and boast a refrigerated compartment, to prepare nontime feasts right beside their desks.

EASY ON BUDGET
NEW YORK (UPI)—Studies have shown children prefer carpeting to a hard-surface floor. Try indoor-outdoor carpeting. It isn't as expensive as other carpeting, as a rule. It has this added feature: easily cleaned with soap or detergent suds.

Sego announces a sensational new way to diet. Pudding

Shoe Departments Get Special Emphasis Among Brody Stores

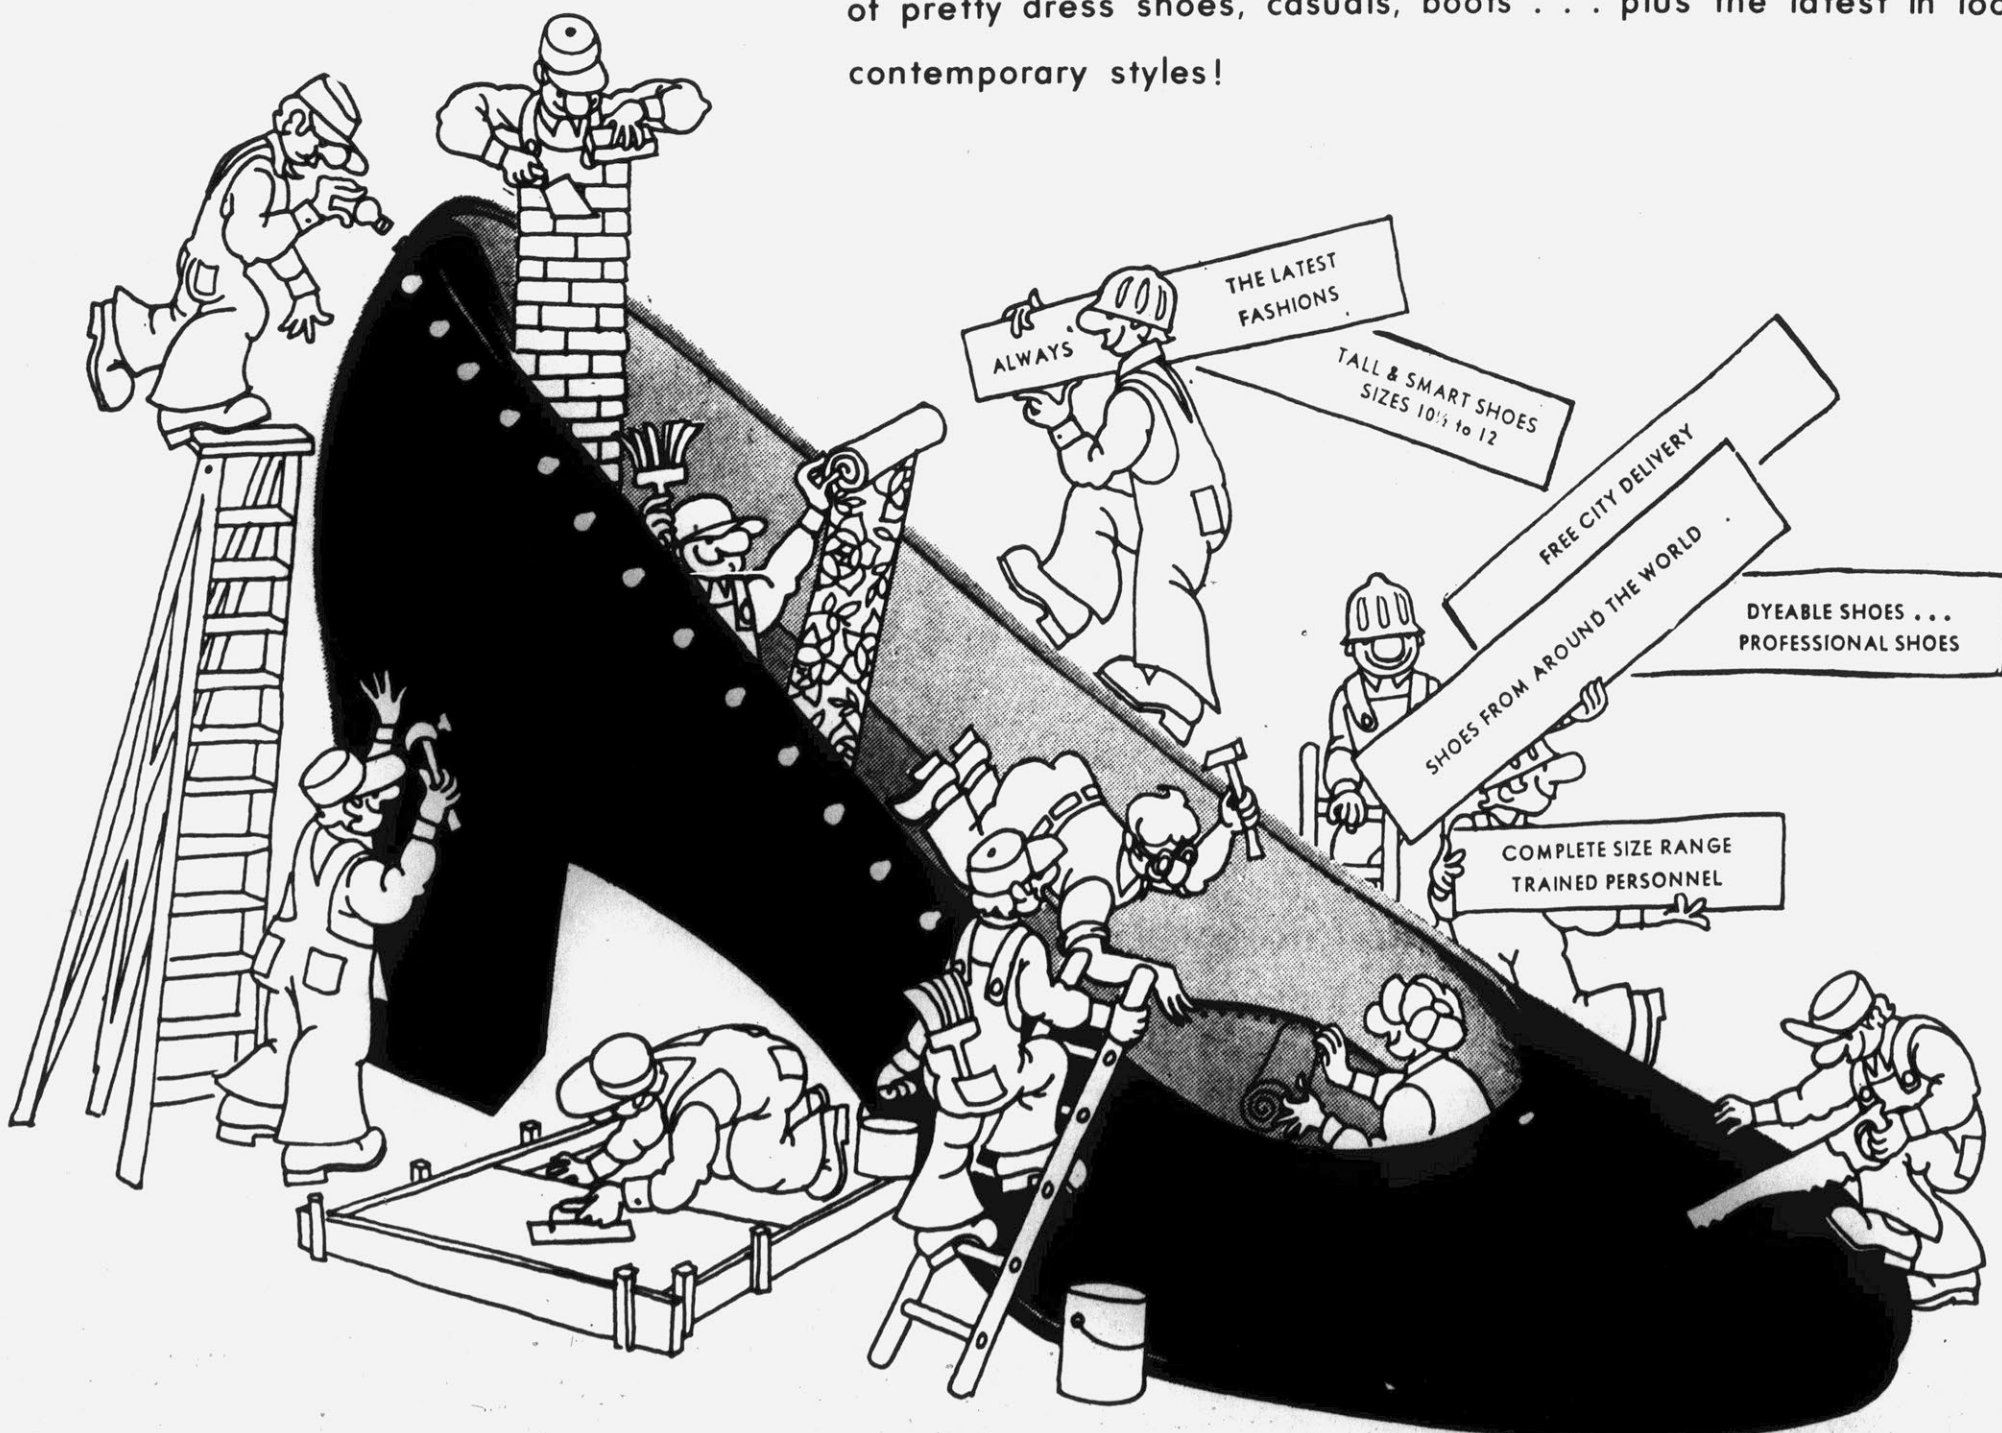

The newly remodeled and enlarged Brody Stores place special emphasis on their shoe departments. Long recognized as a fashion leader in the shoe world, Brody's has kicked off their new departments with a special "September is Shoe Month" promotion. The downtown store has remodeled and touched up its area, and Pitt Plaza has nearly doubled its floor space to house many more of Eastern Carolina's favorite styles.

Famous old brand favorites such as Palizzio, Deliso Deb, Red Cross, and Amalfi are present along with such newer fashions as S.R.O., Dr. Scholl's, and Sandler. Of particular note is the expansion of the Children's Shoe Department. The Brody fashion touch has tried here to provide the youngsters with the new fashions. Lazy-Bones, Jumping-Jacks, and Alexis lead the way in the new children's shoe shop.

Brody's Applies New Concept In Ready-To-Wear Selling Area

Brody's of Greenville has a new concept in retailing in the fashion ready-to-wear area. This philosophy is carried out by the new ready-to-wear departments of Brody's downtown and Pitt Plaza stores.

Morris Brody believes that clothes must suit both the personality of the individual and environment in which they are worn. For these reasons, there are several shop-within-a-shop looks.

Pitt Plaza's new Regency Room provides an elegant setting for elegant styles. Designer name fashions such as Kimberly, Schrader, PAB, Rona Nardes, Alpa-Swartz and many others bring together the finest in quality and high fashion.

The new Young Missy Shop downtown features fabulous fashions from such renowned designers as Howard Woolf, Ann Fogarty, Beene Bazaar, Jones of New York, Serotta Sport, and Jerry Silverman. The looks from this shop represent the latest fashion looks.

The Career Shop downtown features more moderate priced fashions in popular styles. The look is set by Country Miss, Kay Windsor and many others. Also featured is rainwear by Misty Harbor.

Pitt Plaza has a corresponding shop which features Butte Knit, Hobnobber, Country Miss and many more.

Brody stated that the fashion conscious clientele of Eastern North Carolina will find in his store one of the largest selections of famous fashion brands and styles in the state.

Brody Junior Shops Add Flair To The Proven Fashion-Winners

The new Junior Shops at Brody's are as bright and exciting as the fashions they house. In the Pitt Plaza and downtown departments the look is totally junior and totally now.

Contemporary music and free candy combine with the friendly service to create the most relaxed shopping experience available. All this combined with one of the state's largest selections of tops and bottoms, make the Brody's junior shops quite an experience.

Many fine and funky lines give the departments their particular flair. Jeans and trousers by Male, Landlubber, Prides Crossing, Stringbean, Plush-bottoms, and Chequers are available. Tops by Elaine Post, Miss Ingenue, Kitty Hawk, Kelita, Vitamin E, Outlander and many others are included.

Proven fashion winners such as Garland, Hang-ups and Junior House are representative of the many fashion looks present. The Brody philosophy of something for every taste, every occasion and every frame of mind is again expressed fully in their Junior Shops.
