

Cost Of Living Rise Is Braked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in living costs slowed below President Nixon's target goal of 3 per cent in the first year of his wage-price control program, the government reported today.

"In the 12 months ending in August, the first year of the economic stabilization program, the Consumer Price Index rose 2.9 per cent. This compares with a rise of 4.4 per cent in the preceding 12-month period," the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The report said living costs in August rose two-tenths of one per cent, half the previous month's rise.

The bureau also reported that the average paycheck of some 50 million rank-and-file workers rose to $137.23 a week and that, after allowance for inflation, the past year's increase in purchasing power was the largest on record.

The report, marking the first anniversary of the Nixon economic controls, said the Consumer Price Index rose to 125.7 in August. This meant it cost $12.57 last month for every $10 worth of typical family spending five years ago.

The 2.9 per cent rise in living costs over the past year included both the hard freeze imposed by Nixon for three months in which prices climbed at an annual rate of 1.9 per cent, and the nine months of more relaxed Phase 2 controls, during which the annual rate of increase was 3.3 per cent, the bureau said.

The report said food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent in August and were 3.8 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Housing costs were up three-tenths of one per cent for the month and 3.8 per cent for the year; clothing declined two-tenths for the month and was up 1.5 per cent for the year; transportation rose two-tenths in August and was one per cent higher than a year ago; medical care was up two-tenths for the month and 2.2 per cent for the year; and recreation costs remained unchanged in August and were up 2.8 per cent over the year.

Foreign Aid Bill Approved In House

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Senate preparing for its third vote of the year on requiring total U.S. troop withdrawal from Indochina, the House has approved $4.2 billion for foreign aid and related programs.

The House vote Thursday night was 169 to 141 for the aid appropriation bill and came after members shouted down attempts to slash foreign-aid spending by $1 billion.

The action sent the bill to the Senate, which today uses its own aid-authorization measure as a vehicle for debating an end to the war. The same bill will provide the second Senate battle of the year over military assistance to foreign countries.

The Senate will vote Tuesday on the bill and its end-the-war amendment.

The $4.2-billion aid appropriation approved by the House carries $2 billion for military assistance during the current fiscal year, $1.2 billion for economic aid, $81 million for the Peace Corps, and the remainder for international development-loan institutions and for aiding Cuban and Bangladesh refugees.

The House earmarked at least $350 million for direct aid to Israel, and voted to prohibit any aid for trade with the Soviet Union so long as the Moscow government charges Jews high fees to emigrate.

The bill passed by the House Thursday actually appropriates funds for the aid programs. The measure under consideration in the Senate only authorizes the military-aid program.

Congress last year approved a bill authorizing economic-aid programs for two years.

While the House has voted $2 billion for military aid this year, the figure recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is $1.45 billion, plus $100 million for relief in Bangladesh.

The new Senate bill is $270 million less than the measure rejected by the Senate July 24 after an amendment to cut off funds for U.S. involvement in Vietnam in four months was attached.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is sponsoring an amendment to delete the Indochina war-fund cutoff from the pending bill.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania proposes in another amendment to increase the authorizations for military assistance grants and supporting aid, and military credit sales to the $1.7-billion total previously turned down by the Senate.

See Errors In Chicod Creek Impact Report

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — The National Resources Defense Council has charged that the government's environmental impact statement for the proposed Chicod Creek stream channelization project is filled with errors. Conservationists are trying to make Chicod a national test case against channelization.

In a petition to U.S. District Court Thursday, the environmental action group said the statement filed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service ignored significant water pollution dangers in the project.

The council also said that the Weyerhaeuser Co., which owns 17 percent of the acreage in the project area, has made a deal with the project sponsors.

It said Weyerhaeuser, a giant lumber company, plans to use the stripped banks of the Chicod for logging roads, which the Council said would cause severe erosion problems.

The petition, in the form of an amendment to the Council's suit against the project, said the Tar River, into which Chicod Creek flows, will suffer algae and fish kill problems because of the project which were not considered in the impact statement.

Finally, the council said the Soil Conservation Service had not considered any alternatives to channelization in its impact statement which might benefit farmers and be gentler with the environment.

Chicod Creek is a meandering stream that flows through depressed tobacco farming areas in Pitt and Beaufort counties. The channelization project would straighten and dredge it, primarily for drainage and flood control purposes.

Slight Upswing In Curb And Gutter Work Price

After having held its own for some time, the price of curb and gutter work in Greenville will take a slight upswing in some instances effective October 15.

Based on recommendations made by City Engineer C. A. Holliday of the City Engineering Department, prices on curb and gutter for varying widths, approved by the City Council will be as follows:

—24 inch curb and gutter, $2.75 per linear foot.

The current price is $2.00 per foot.

—24 inch curb and gutter, 32 feet paving, $2.00 per linear foot curb and gutter, and $2.00 per foot paving, for a total of $4.00. This compares to a $3.00 total at the present time.

TRYING TO CHOOSE A PUMPKIN — Glenda Everett of Greenville picks a pumpkin out of approximately 1200 pumpkins on the front lawn of the Herbert Branch farm on the New Bern Highway. The pumpkins weigh on the average from 25 to 30 pounds; and the largest, says Mrs. Branch, is about 70 pounds. Glenda is the president of the SGA at D.H. Conley High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Everett of Greenville. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Hunt Bomb Believed To Be Hidden In Fuel Tank

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The FBI charged Paul Raymond Gilbert Juhala, 35, Escanaba, Mich., today with bombing U.S. government property in connection with an explosion last month at a Strategic Air Command base near Sault Ste. Marie.

Juhala was being held in Marquette County Jail on the charges stemming from the blast at Kincheloe Air Force Base. No one was injured in the explosion, which blew a hole in the ground near a rear gate of the base.

Meanwhile, at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base near here, the Air Force continued draining an 800,000-gallon fuel storage tank searching for another bomb. An Air Force spokesman said the tank should be drained by noon or 1 p.m., when searchers would be able to tell whether a bomb was in the tank.

The spokesman indicated that if no bomb is found, the search will not spread to other areas of the SAC base near here.

Authorities said earlier that Juhala was also being questioned in connection with the reported planting of the bomb and with Thursday's discovery of 45 sticks of buried dynamite near Sawyer. They said Juhala was believed to have stolen the explosives at Escanaba.

Fell Below Goal

A total of 145 units of blood were collected by the American Red Cross Bloodmobile in the two day drive held Wednesday and Thursday at the Moose Lodge in Greenville.

Chairman of the Bloodmobile Program Douglas Morgan said that on Wednesday 66 units were donated, and 79 on Thursday for the 145 total. There were also 26 rejects.

Morgan noted that it had been hoped to receive about 250 units over the two day period, and that the relatively small number of donors giving in this first drive after the summer vacation had placed the program even further behind in the quota.

"We are certainly grateful to those who took the time and effort to make contributions," Morgan said, "and hope that more people will be able to come out for the next drive."

The drive this week was sponsored by the Greenville Jaycettes. Members of the Women of the Moose and Greenville Service League assisted in arrangements and on the scene assistance.

The American Red Cross Pitt County Bloodmobile is scheduled for a two day visit to East Carolina University on November 1 and 2.

Arrest Boy For Prof's Murder

NEW YORK (AP) — The murder of Columbia University professor Wolfgang Friedmann has been declared solved with the arrest of a high school sophomore and the issuance of a 13-state police alarm for two brothers.

Friedmann, 65, was accosted three blocks from the Columbia campus Wednesday afternoon by three muggers who took his wallet. When he resisted their attempts to wrest his wristwatch, one plunged a knife into his chest.

GRANTED DIVORCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin (Pete) Rozelle, pro football commissioner, has been granted a divorce from his wife of 23 years, Jane Marilyn.

Yancey Serving Pitt UF Role

Edwin L. Yancey will serve as chairman of the County Division of the Pitt County United Fund this year, according to campaign chairman Karl Faser.

Yancey, who has been employed since 1969 as Pitt County Extension chairman, will serve with nine other division chairmen in coordinating United Fund activities for the 1973 appeal. The drive will be launched on Oct. 2.

The county chairman is a native of Wedowee, Ala. and holds a B.S. degree in animal industry and M.A. degree in adult education from North Carolina State University.

The son for Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Yancey of Rt. 1, Mebane, he worked as an agricultural extension agent in Johnston County from 1956 until 1969 with the exception of a two-year period when he was employed as sales and service manager for Benson Feed Mills Inc.

Yancey is a director of the Greenville Kiwanis Club and second vice president of the North Carolina Association of County Agricultural Agents. He is also a member of Epsilon Sigma Phi, extension fraternity.

The Chairman is married to the former Bette Anne Williford and they have three children, ages 14, 12 and nine.

Post Office's Job Ends With The Delivery

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote to you saying "Our boss opens all the mail that comes addressed to the office," and you replied, "Surely you are aware [as your boss must be] that opening mail addressed to another is a federal offense!"

Well, Abby, that's what I thought—until I found out I was wrong.

The responsibility of the Post Office Department is to deliver mail to the address given. Interference with delivery, while en route or still in the recipients' mailboxes is a federal offense but once delivered, the responsibility of the Post Office Department ceases.

Some places of business make it a policy to open all mail delivered to their address, regardless of to whom it is addressed. This discourages employees from using company time to read their personal mail, and no doubt answer it during office hours.

Also, employees who are carrying on a little hanky panky and do not want certain letters addressed to their homes, use their office addresses.

So, please tell your readers if they want their personal mail to remain personal, to get a post office box.

HAVE ONE IN DETROIT

DEAR HAVE: Thank you for a most informative letter. I learned something today. And I'll wager several million other people did, too.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the boss who opens all the mail that comes to his place of business, regardless of who it's for! Where do employees get off having their personal correspondence sent to their offices anyway? Don't these people have homes.

You can bet your bottom buck that mail addressed to one's place of business is read on company time, and answered on company time with the company's stationery, typewriter and stamps, too.

This is stealing, far as I'm concerned.

SCRUPULOUS IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: This is for people who are afraid to leave a tip on the table for fear a busboy or another waitress might steal it: There is an unwritten law among waitresses and busboys. They do not take each other's tips! They are loyal to each other, and I can vouch for them because I was a waitress for many years.

If you see a waitress or busboy pick up a tip, it is only to prevent a customer or a child from picking it up. [Believe me, this happens more often than you think.]

Customers should NOT try to hand the waitress the tip personally. I've had my arms loaded with a tray of hot food, and customers have come up to me and tried to put the tip in the pocket [always the wrong pocket!], or worse yet HAND it to me when I don't have a free hand.

Please, folks, just leave the waitress' tip on the table. She'll get it.

MARGIE, THE EX-WAITRESS

DEAR MARGIE: Thanks for the tip.

DEAR ABBY: Re "Thank you" notes from newlyweds, here's one for you: in response to a gift check we gave a young couple for their wedding gift, they wrote, "Thank you for the donation which will be used toward the purchase of a second-hand desk."

How about that? No names please.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Well, at least they were honest.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Alice In Healthfoodland Will Find Honey Is A New Myth

By SIDNEY MARGOLIS NEW YORK (WNS) — If Alice were to visit the growing realm of Healthfoodland, she would find that honey has become a magical, even mystical, word.

It also is one of the most over-promoted products being sold to much manipulated health foodists on the basis of claims ranging from "priceless ingredients" and "wonderfully rich in vitamins" to the not much truer assertion that it is better for you than sugar.

If we really are what we eat, many health-food disciples must be very sticky people indeed. The long rows of honey occupy more space than any other product in health food stores except vitamins. There are dozens of varieties—tupelo, alfalfa, eucalyptus, clover, buckwheat, biblical honey (from real old-time plants), even Bees and Vees honey "produced by bees fed on a special diet." (deponent sayeth not what it is.)

The prices are equally imaginative—sometimes as much as $3 for 15 ounces; a huge price for even "a real nutritional thrill," as the brand is described.

Costly Apples

Honey is everywhere in Healthfoodland; in crunchy cereals, candies, cakes. Dried apple slices dipped in honey command $1.80 a pound.

The health values attributed to honey are a delusion, and probably a mythology traceable to honey's use in Biblical time. Several times in past years government agencies have seized honey promoted by health food stores as a cure for "premature death" or as beneficial for waning virility, rheumatism, arthritis or a weak heart.

The most frightening prospect to convinced health foodists is an empty calory, and so they detest sugar. They also fear the potential damage to health from sugar, and there is some evidence on their side. For example, an English researcher, Dr. John Yudkin, found that a person taking more than 100 grams-3.5 ounces—of sugar a day is five times as likely to have heart problems as one taking less than 60 grams.

But honey is only a little less empty and no safer. The magazines that promote health foods say, for example, that honey contains some of the vitamins which have been removed from white sugar, and also a long list of mineral including iron and calcium.

The facts as shown in the U.S. Agriculture Department's "Composition of Foods, are that honey has only a trace of vitamins. As for iron, honey has only half a milligram per 100 grams. That amount is one-tenth or less the iron in molasses; half to one-third that in syrups, much less than in cocoa, brown sugar, dates, prune juice, and many vegetables, meat and eggs, Glen M. Shue, FDA nutrition expert, points out.

Nor is honey notably rich in calcium, another of the more important minerals because, like iron, it sometimes is short in American diets. The milligrams of calcium in Honey compares with such bountiful amounts as 165 to 684 in molasses, about 60 in raisins and dates, 123 in cocoa powder, and so on in many other calcium-rich foods including milk products.

Scanty Data

From a medical point of view, Dr. Robert F. Bradley, Medical Director of the Joslin Clinic in Boston, a division of Joslin Diabetes Foundation told us:

"There is no reason to believe that honey is any safer than sugar, because honey is sugar. I suspect the reason for the fad is that there are those who believe that refined or cane sugar (sucrose) is associated with a greater chance of developing atherosclerosis.

"The data for this is extreme, scanty and purely epidemiologic at the present time. But enough has been said about it that those who are reading that particular literature could make an attractive case for a fad which is the major carbohydrate in most forms of honey."

"As far as the effect on the blood sugar is concerned on a day-in- and day-out basis, there really is no difference between honey and sugar."

Marcella Katz, nutritional consultant for Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York, advised us that honey and sugar basically perform the same way in your system: "Both are digested to glucose and fructose." Dr. Ruth Leverton, noted government nutritionist, also had said that on the basis of nutritive value she would not choose one over the other.

Tooth Decay

But the biggest bombshell that I found in researching honey is that it may be more detrimental to teeth than even sugar. Dr. Joseph F. Puccio, a specialist in periodontics and assistant professor at Einstein Medical College in New York City advised us.

"In a discussion with Dr. A. Anastasio, pedodontist and professor at New Jersey State College of Dentistry, regarding honey and children's caries, Dr. Anastasio feels that clinically honey contributes as much or more to dental caries than refined sugars.

"He feels that one of the factors is that honey clings to the tooth and keeps the sugar in close proximity to the susceptible areas. Discussion with several members of the dental profession regarding their experiences with honey and dental caries showed that each of these experts believes that honey caused as much or more decay caries than refined sugar."

Further testimony to the caries potential of frequent use of honey comes from Dr.

A.E. Nizel, Associate Professor of Nutrition, Tufts School of Dental Medicine.

He told us:

"It has been my experience that sugary products in any state of refinement are significantly cariogenic foods. This means that honey and even dates, figs, prunes, raisins, etc. can be changed readily to organic acids when retained on the surface of the tooth and when in contact with dental plaque bacteria."

In his book, "Nutrition in Preventive Dentistry," Dr.

Nizel reports that in experiments on laboratory rats, researchers found more caries in the rats fed honey.

We hope our friends the bees and their gallant keepers will forgive these stinging remarks. But we are concerned that health food promoters, even if they believe their own myths, may substitute one dietary problem for another.

Big Role Awaits New Hospital

Hopefully Pitt County's long planned new hospital will be up for bids by the first of the year. That is what Architect Beverly Freeman reported to the board of trustees recently.

Plans must still be approved by the regional office of Housing and Urban Development, which disseminates Hill-Burton funds, and the N. C. Medical Care Commission; however it seems that the construction stage for the new hospital will soon be here.

The structure will be among the finest in North Carolina. It is expected to cost nearly $14 million and $10.5 million of this is already on hand. Hill-Burton and other funds hopefully will cover the remainder of the cost. A feature of the new hospital will be a rehabilitation building to cost $2 million and to include 62,488 square feet of floor space.

The new hospital will provide superior facilities for treatment of people in the area. Hopefully it will continue to attract outstanding physicians to the area such as we have here now.

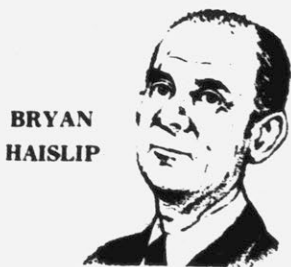

The new facilities are also expected to be helpful in the developing medical school and health care programs at East Carolina University.

Providing modern hospital facilities is an expensive proposition. Such facilities are necessary, however, if we are to have the kind of health care which our citizens need. Pitt Countians have recognized the need and have voted to provide the funds. Planning for the new building is nearing completion and construction should get underway after the first of the year.

New Ideas For Old Problems

By BRYAN HAILSLIP
RALEIGH — Tackling society's old problems calls for new expertise and fresh approaches.

Alcoholism, mental illness and prisons have been around a long time. Agencies dealing with them, caught up in day-to-day operations, often find their vision fixed on the trees and missing the forest while costs and number of people involved soar.

BRYAN HAILSLIP

What is needed is the input of outside experts, grounded in research and skilled in sophisticated problem-solving techniques.

The Institute of Human Ecology (TIHE) came into being to meet that need. Its staff is a cadre of professionals, largely drawn part-time from area universities, broadly trained in a variety of fields.

The name implies a concern with "people problems," explained Dr. Jerome Hallan, executive director.

"The relationship of people to one another is basic to the human service agencies," he said. What they do for people, not administrative charts, tells how effectively they function.

An example of a people problem is the public drunk, long a pathetic figure on the social fringe. Decent citizens can shield their eyes, but they can't escape the burden of costs.

The cost of jail versus treatment will be compared in a study TIHE will conduct under a $61,392 grant from the Federal department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Tale of Two Cities
The research project will be a tale of two cities. Atlanta and Baltimore will be the focus, said Dr. Harold Holder, a North Carolina State University professor and project director.

Georgia holds to the traditional concept of public drunkenness as a crime, sending offenders off to jail. Maryland has a new law, doing away with criminal penalties and substituting centers and programs for treatment and rehabilitation.

Dr. Holder said the study will attempt to compare total costs of the two approaches. It will cover police time, court costs, jail and prison overhead, as well as estimate the cost to the individual in terms of lost jobs, broken homes and poor health. Models for rehabilitative programs which can be measured for their financial costs also will be a part of the project.

Fits Institute Role

This kind of study would be difficult to carry out within an agency, but fits the Institute's capability, observed Dr. Hallan.

"The structure of organization and available specialized talents make it hard for an agency to look beyond its immediate problems," he said.

The idea for the Institute occurred to a group with experience in a state government department a little more than two years ago, he said. It was formed as a private, non-profit corporation with a board of trustees representing a wide range of interests.

The Rev. W. W. Finlator of Raleigh serves as president of the board. Other members include a couple of state legislators, businessmen and college professors, and women.

Although it has kept a low public profile, TIHE has grown rapidly. Last year, it handled projects amounting to some $140,000; this year, the total will move beyond $200,000. Approximately 60 per cent of income is derived from federal grants, while 40 per cent comes from state and private sources.

Examples Of Work

Some examples of its work: It constructed a five-year simulation of public costs for handling public intoxication for the Committee on Law and Order, a study which served as the stimulus for legislation in the 1971 legislature.

It prepared a plan to develop and implement community programs, aimed to prepare inmates for a return to community life, for the state corrections department.

Another project for the corrections department provided the program design and program evaluation for handling drug offenders. Also in the field of drug abuse, the Institute prepared a systems approach to drug problems for the State Bureau of Investigation.

Education, migrant workers, health care, and mental health are other fields involved in the Institute's activities.

Staff members find the Institute a way to involve their expertise in real-world problems, Dr. Hallan said. "It lets us do work we really want to do, and help those who really need help," he said. "It's the best of both worlds."

The ultimate goal is pragmatic, and has an impact for the average citizen. Better deployment of resources by human service agencies of government, he said, can save tax dollars and meet a larger degree of social needs.

Nixon Coattail Not For Helms

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK
RALEIGH, N.C.

Nowhere does the vision of a Republican Senate being swept into office on a Nixon landslide seem more ephemeral than here in North Carolina, where Mr. Nixon's coattails are pulling far beyond the reach of conservative Republican Jesse Helms.

Moreover Helms, whose television editorials from Raleigh station WRAL have been hammering out hard-right ideological manifestos for 10 years, is making little effort to modify his conservative philosophy along lines of Nixon pragmatism.

Thus, Helms makes no secret of his basic distrust for such Nixon schemes as revenue-sharing, welfare reform, the developing detent with Communist China, nuclear arms agreements with Moscow and even the President's signature on the bill raising Social Security benefits by 20 per cent.

He has toned down his rhetoric somewhat in his Senate campaign against Democratic Rep. Nick Galifianakis, eschewing, for example, such harsh criticism of the President as he used in his TV commentary last Nov. 5.

"Richard Nixon," he said then, "the man who won his spurs in politics as an anti-Communist, is now—well, you know about his appeasement of the Chinese Communists in Peking, and the warm embrace he has given the Communist dictator from Yugoslavia, Marshal Tito."

But the modest tuning down is far short of changing the Helms image as an unreconstructed conservative in a moderate state. Despite desperate pleas from old friends and worried party leaders, that he temper his ideology by an expedient move away from the right, he continues to import the most glittering conservatives in the country to help his campaign. That stunts his growth toward the dominant center.

Thus, at a delightful Cadillac-and-jewels fundraising dinner party at the exclusive Country Club of North Carolina in Pinehurst on Sept. 13, 250 guests, many of them uppercrust Democrats newly-turned Republican, heard Sen. Barry Goldwater praise Helms.

"If Jesse wants to out-Goldwater Goldwater," said the Senator, "send him to Washington and we'll put him in our row with Dominick and Buckley" (Republican Sen. Peter Dominick of Colorado and Conservative-Republican Sen. James Buckley of New York).

One close Helms friend of long-standing muttered: "Jesse needs those fellows like a hole in the head. What he needs is somebody like Jack Javits or Bob Taft, but the conservatives just can't get rid of their death wish."

Death wish or not, the latest statewide polls offer little hope for Helms, barring a sharp swing to the center. DeVries and Associates, headed by political consultant Walter DeVries, shows Galifianakis running 52 per cent to Helms' 40 per cent, with Mr. Nixon leading Sen. George McGovern 67 per cent to 32 per cent.

But even if Helms did embrace President Nixon's brand of pragmatic politics and grab hard for his coattails, the North Carolina ballot is stacked against him. There are, in effect, three separate ballots: one for the Presidency, one for statewide candidates like Helms and one for local candidates. A single-lever pull for the straight Republican ticket is impossible here.

Moreover, in Galifianakis, Helms confronts a politician of subtle skills who, despite his reputation as left of center, has compiled a voting average hardly displeasing to the moderate right. Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA) gives the Congressman a cumulative, pro-conservative voting record of 53 per cent, almost 20 points higher than the 35 per cent pro-liberal record given him by Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

Thus, the three-term Congressman has protected his flank on the right, with strong support from farmers and small-town merchants, while penetrating the moderate left with his early dovish position on immediate withdrawal from the Vietnam war.

With the vision of Mr. Nixon's coattails fading here and in other Southern states where control of the Senate will be decided, Helms must pull himself up by his own bootstraps, and that seems beyond his capacity.

NATURE OF TRUE RELIGION

Thomas Mann, the distinguished man of letters, has spoken of what he calls "religiousness," and he defines "religiousness" as attentiveness and obedience.

This would appear to be a quite penetrating observation on the part of this great literary man. For whatever else true and sincere religion is it is certainly respectful attention to divine realities and obedience to divine commands.

Many people believe that they are religious simply because they belong to some church, attend religious services and pay their dues. All these things are matters of considerable importance in the field of religion, but they are not religion itself.

Religion is the attitude of soul which we maintain toward the Great Soul which dominates the whole of creation. And we are truly religious, and therefore pleasing to that Soul, when we pay respectful attention to its requirements and obey its commands without question.

If we only understood the nature of true religion we would never have any part in persecution of any kind. There is a great deal of truth in the contention that we will have no time left to judge and criticize others if we pay proper attention to the problems of our own spiritual life.

They Sold The Moon

WASHINGTON — The retail value of the commercial exploitation of the Apollo program has now passed $1 million. That is to say, people have made over a million dollars cashing in on the astronauts' trips to the moon. Unfortunately the astronauts have shared in this questionable rip-off of the space program. Every day reveals some new commercial aspect of the Apollo trips that was not known to the American public.

There is a fear among some that the million dollars is just the tip of the iceberg, and the really big deals that the astronauts made with promoters have not come out yet.

The biggest nightmare of all for the space agency is that astronauts may have sold the moon to an unscrupulous real estate developer. One day in the not too distant future someone like E. Pluribus Yunum may walk into NASA headquarters and say, "I understand you're building a space shuttle to land on my moon." "Your moon?" a NASA official asks.

"Yes, I bought the moon from the astronauts 16 months ago. Here's the deed, registered in Houston, Tex." "But they had no right to sell the moon to anyone," the NASA man says frantically.

"Who says so? I gave them each $2,500, and they sold the place to me, air rights and all. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not against the space shuttle, because we will need transportation when we develop 'Moonlight Acres.' But we just want to make sure the landing field for the shuttle won't interfere with our master plan."

"Just a minute," the NASA man says. He pushes the button on his intercom. "Send in any Apollo astronauts you can find in the building."

A few minutes later three astronauts come into the office.

"Did you sell this guy the moon?" the NASA man asks. "He took an option on it," one of the astronauts replies sheepishly.

"And I picked up the option," Yunum says. "Don't you remember I gave you each a check and the right to build a house apiece on the Sea of Tranquility?"

"I knew we signed some papers," another astronaut admits, "but I didn't know the sale was final."

"It's final, all right," Yunum says. "We're taking ads in next Sunday's newspapers announcing the sale of lots on the Sea of Tranquility. We're making it into a senior citizens' complex."

"We're also selling acreage, $10 down and $10 a month, along the Sea of Serenity. We'll provide a golf course, tennis courts, schools, roads and fishing and boating facilities to the lucky owners. And each site will have an unobstructed view of earth."

The NASA man says, "I don't know what it is, but there has to be something illegal about this sale."

Yunum says, "I checked it out with my lawyers. There is no question about it; I own the moon and I'm going to develop it. Now if you people still want to land on it, it's all right with me. But I don't want a lot of spacemen landing late at night. It could discourage real estate sales."

The NASA executive looks at the astronauts. "How could you do it? How could you cheapen the whole space program by selling the moon to this joker?"

"If we hadn't," an astronaut says defensively, "one of the other guys would have done it. Besides, he told us he wanted to make a national park out of it."

"If you want," another astronaut says, "we'll give the $2,500 back."

Many Faces Of Luck

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Some people in this world seem to have all the luck.

Nothing bad ever happens to them. They are immune to the ambushes of fate that make life's road perilous to the rest of us.

Their cars never run out of gas unexpectedly or refuse to start on cold days. They never lose money in the stock market, and they are able at will to make red-haired girls fall in love with them.

The Conclusion On Tax Reform

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —

Noting that federal tax reform has become a leading economic issue, and that debate tends to be more emotional than rational, the Tax Foundation has set out to set the record straight.

The nonprofit institution, which claims also to be non-partisan and interested solely in the goal of more efficient and economical government, supplies consistent opinions.

The first proposition tackled is the claim that wealthy people are not paying income taxes.

Yes, the foundation states, "A small number of persons with high adjusted gross income had no net taxable income and thus owed no tax in 1970." It lists 112 individuals with incomes over $200,000 who paid no tax in 1970.

But, "The outstanding fact brought out in the tabulation ... with respect to the $200,000 and over income group, is that 15,211 out of 15,323 returns in this group did pay taxes"

On the other hand, "At the other end of the income scale, nontaxability is considerably more common," the foundation reminds us. "For example, in 1970 there were some 51 million returns filed with adjusted gross income under $10,000. Of these, 15 million, or nearly 30 per cent, paid no federal income tax."

Proposition No. 2: "Some big corporations do not pay taxes and profits are high."

"Political observers have noted that almost 40 per cent of all corporations pay no federal income tax. The fact is that in a typical year almost 40 per cent of all corporations operate at a loss, with no income left to be taxed away."

As for profits: "Profits have not risen nearly so rapidly as other economic indicators in recent years."

Proposition No. 3: "Taxes are too high." The foundation agrees.

Proposition No. 4: "Federal expenditures will go up and we need more revenue, perhaps a tax increase." The foundation disagrees. It suggests that too much is being spent now.

What arouses curiosity about the report is not the findings. The foundation is strong in research and notable for factual accuracy. It is notable, however, that the foundation considers these propositions most worthy of its immediate attention when there are so many other issues involved in what it calls "the challenge of tax reform."

Perhaps the explanation lies in a list on the report's final page.

It is a list of names, of members of the foundation's board of trustees and trustees' advisory council. It is a list also of chairman and presidents of the nation's largest corporations, of some of the nation's richest men.

Senate Aims Bill At Hijackers

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill passed by the Senate would give the president sweeping new power to curtail air traffic to and from countries harboring skyjackers or assisting airborne terrorists.

In addition, the bill would set up a federally financed airport police force, require screening of every passenger, and give juries the option of meting out the death penalty to a convicted skyjacker.

The Senate voted 75 to 1 for the plan to give the president leeway to suspend services of a U.S. airline to a foreign country or service of a foreign airline in the United States if the other nation:

—Aids or harbors skyjackers or is host to or helps terrorist groups using air piracy as a prime weapon.

—Takes inadequate precautions against skyjacking.

—Continues its service to another nation which aids or abets skyjackers or sky terrorists.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said he thought "that part of the alarming increase in hijacking has been the failure of the U.S. court system to impose stiff penalties."

One reason why skyjacking has escalated, said Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., is buck-passing between airlines and the Federal Aviation Administration as to who would pay for air-travel security.

He said the proposed federal financing of $35 million a year should resolve this dilemma.

The Senate defeated an amendment by Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., who said a mandatory minimum sentence of 20 years in prison would be unfair, for instance, to an American who hijacks his way out of Hungary or to a Cuban refugee hijacker.

"We're trying to discourage hijacking no matter what the purpose, no matter how laudable the person may think his purpose is," said Cannon, the bill's floor manager.

The airport police force would succeed the sky-marshall force, which was disbanded following criticism of ineffectiveness. The FAA would review the screening requirement and the police-force program after the initial year.

Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, who cast the only dissenting vote, objected to the death-penalty option.

The Senate also approved riders to the antiskijacking bill giving airlines the option of reducing fares on a standby basis for survivors of airline employees, the handicapped and their attendants, and persons over age 65.

It passed another bill making it a felony punishable by a $5,000 fine or five years in prison to threaten to hijack or destroy an airplane "with an apparent determination and will to carry the threat into execution."

Said Less Apt To Have Tumors

LONDON (AP) — Women taking contraceptive pills are less likely to contract breast diseases, the British Medical Journal reported today.

The Journal published results based on interviews with about 700 women between 1968 and 1971. Half of the women suffered from breast ailments.

A team of medical experts led by Sir Richard Doll said that women who had taken the pill for longer than two years had only about 25 per cent as great a risk of developing non-malignant breast tumors as women who have never used the pill.

Doll is known in Britain for his work on a possible link between smoking and lung cancer.

The complaint also said that the firms had refused to make advertised bonuses available to customers, had "failed to live up to advertised guarantees" and had engaged in the practice of shortweighing customers.

Mishap Closes Bridge-Tunnel

By DAVE RILEY

Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Military salvage workers said today the 235-foot barge that slashed huge chunks from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel has been secured but could not say when the craft would be towed away.

Salvage workers who labored through the night to embed the barge in the sand at the edge of the bay said she was no longer an immediate threat to the battered 17.6-mile-long structure.

But the barge, which went on a wind-whipped rampage early Thursday and repeatedly pounded the bridge after being separated from her tugboat, remained with her bow nestled in the last gaping hole she gouged in the bridge.

A spokesman for the bridge-tunnel commission said late Thursday there was no final report on the amount of structural damage to the bridge, but indicated the key link in the ocean highway that extends from New York to Florida might be closed for a month or more.

The collision with the bridge Thursday came exactly 32 months after the Navy cargo ship Yancey ripped out a 375-foot section of the structure, closing it to traffic for 42 days. Repairs cost $1.7 million.

Salvage workers from the Army, Navy and Coast Guard—fearing the incoming tide could raise her enough to allow her to batter the bridge again—labored under the glare of floodlights Thursday night and early today to secure the barge, which was partially grounded about half a mile from the bridge's Virginia Beach terminus.

Bait, Switch Ban Ordered

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Attorney General's Office has obtained a temporary restraining order forbidding three freezer meat firms from engaging in "bait and switch and other unfair and deceptive trade practices."

Forsyth Superior Court Judge Robert A. Collier signed the order pending a hearing on the suit next Tuesday.

Earlier, the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division had filed a suit at Fayetteville against freezer meat firms operating in Fayetteville and Jacksonville.

The division said Thursday the firms named in its latest suit were High Point Meat Co., Old Fashioned Meat Co. of Winston-Salem and Rocky Mount Meat Co.

The complaint contends that the three firms would advertise bulk meat at very low prices but that customers seeking to buy the meat were shown "fat and unattractive meat" and were told that it was from "an old steer or cow and was tough." It said customers would be persuaded to buy "fresh, lean beef" that was "prices substantially higher."

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By MARY L. BRANCH
Hi! We're ready to go. We are the students at Conley who make up The Shield.

As newspaper writers for our school, we have to stand on our feet practically all the time gathering news. It's really a job, but we learn quite a lot from this course.

Order Permanent Curb On Hexachlorophene Use

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Alarmed by the deaths of three-dozen French babies and armed with new test results, the Food and Drug Administration today announces permanent curbs on the popular germ-fighter hexachlorophene which is suspected of causing brain damage.

The agency's decision is complicated by recent confirmation that infection outbreaks increased sixfold in hospital nurseries that stopped routine HCP bathing of newborn infants. In fact, the FDA had delayed action until now on its January proposal to restrict the antibacterial skin cleanser to hospital and prescription use and ban its inclusion in vaginal deodorants.

But in August the world learned that a French-made talcum powder, accidentally laced with a double dose of HCP, had been traced to several infant deaths.

The French Health Ministry blamed the 6-per-cent HCP content for causing encephalitis, or severe brain inflammation. The FDA sent two experts over to investigate.

None of the French Talcum powder was imported into the United States, the FDA said.

The FDA's regulatory decision will have a large impact on the multimillion-dollar cosmetic industry; which has used HCP in such items as vaginal sprays, aerosol deodorants, soaps, toothpaste, baby lotion and hair spray.

Widely used in hospitals for more than 20 years, HCP came under public attack last November by consumer advocate Ralph Nader who wrote the FDA that HCP was fast becoming a health hazard and asked that it be made a prescription drug.

The FDA acted in December by sending a drug bulletin to 600,000 doctors and other health professionals, warning them to discontinue use of products such as phisoHex in routine body bathing of infants and adults.

The bulletin cited fresh studies by the phisoHex manufacturer, Winthrop Laboratories, showing that baby monkeys bathed with a 3-per-cent HCP solution for 90 days had developed brain lesions.

Grifton Club Fish Fry On October 11

GRIFTON — The annual Grifton Shrine Club fish fry will be held Wed., Oct. 11, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Profits from the event will be used to help support the Shrine Crippled Children and Burns Hospitals throughout the United States.

The sale will be conducted in two locations, one near the water tower in Grifton on Queen Street and one on West Avenue in Ayden, between the railroad tracks and the new municipal building.

According to W. E. Rasberry, president of the local club, the two locations will be more convenient and will better serve both communities.

Areas will be set up in both locations for eating on the site and take home plates will also be provided.

The plates are $1.25 each. "The people of eastern North Carolina know the many advantages the Shriners Children's

Power Supply On Pago Pago Is Sharply Cut

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (AP) — Students are without hot lunches, frozen food is thawing and there's no educational television on American Samoa due to a breakdown in the island's power plant.

The power plant output dropped 20 per cent last week when one of the generators broke down. The only back-up generator has been out of commission for about six months.

Most of the island is limited to 12 hours of power each day. The loss of frozen food could be a serious problem, since all of Samoa's beef comes frozen from New Zealand.

One man reported that with the television system out, his wife of 20 years has agreed to learn chess.

TOUCHDOWN... we all know the thrill that lifts us to our feet when OUR team scores. We cheer, we sing and shout.

It takes teamwork to put a man over that goal line. The whole team must work together to move that ball down the field... "the right way." The guards and tackles must hold the line. The ends must be "on target" to receive passes. The quarterback must know his plays and execute them with speed and skill.

Likewise, in the game of life we need wisdom and strength beyond our individual endeavor. It is essential to receive inspiration and help in order to achieve successfully our goals in life. Your church can provide that faith which leads to everlasting victory.

'Dozens Of Ways' To Avoid Robbery In Car Repair

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's easy to be taken for a ride when trying to get your car fixed, a Senate investigator says. But, he adds, there are dozens of ways to avoid the trip.

They range from giving your favorite mechanic a Christmas gift to picketing the repair shop which you think may have cheated you.

Donald A. Randall, counsel to the Senate subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly, is co-author of a new book which outlines how-to instructions on car repair.

The instructions include questions a motorist should ask when he brings his car in, ways to check that the car has been fixed correctly and ways to complain when it hasn't.

"The Great American Auto Repair Robbery" was written after a four-year subcommittee investigation of the auto repair industry, directed and organized by Randall. His co-author is Arthur P. Glickman, former reporter for the Wall Street Journal.

"If you haven't been gypped by an auto repair shop, it's probably because you've never driven a car," the authors say.

During the Senate investigation, Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., estimated that the American public was being cheated out of $8-$10 billion a year on car repairs.

"The auto repair industry is just slightly more advanced than it was in the Model-A era," Randall said in an interview.

The authors say many car repair problems can be blamed on the auto manufacturers, through their failure to train and enlist competent mechanics, warranties that often prove worthless and production of cars which can be damaged easily but are not so easily repaired.

Other problems, they say, stem from the pressure which insurance companies put on repair shops to fix cars as cheaply as possible, often resulting in slipshod work.

With all these pitfalls, how can you insure that your car will be repaired efficiently and correctly?

The best way, the authors say, is to find a mechanic whom you can trust—not an easy task because of a critical shortage of good mechanics and the virtual lack of training for those entering the trade.

"Ask every mechanic you deal with about his background and try to judge as best you can the quality of his work," they say. "Once you find a good mechanic, stick with him."

The authors add, "Tip the mechanic a few dollars once in a while and remember the mechanic and the service writer who writes up repair orders in car dealerships at Christmas time."

A major cause of skyrocketing auto repair costs, the authors say, is the use by most repair facilities of so-called flat rate manuals, which determine how long each type of repair job should take. Motorists are charged for the amount of time the manual says a repair job should last, not how much time actually is taken.

"In practice," the authors say, "a reasonably competent mechanic can beat the time in the independent flat-rate manuals, sometimes by 50 per cent."

They say mechanics usually are paid on a flat-rate basis, leading them to perform jobs as quickly as possible in order to make more money.

"If you must deal with a shop that uses the manual, at least choose one that pays its mechanics a straight salary or a salary plus proficiency pay," the authors say.

Other suggestions are:

—Don't take your car to be repaired during peak work periods, particularly mornings, when service writers and mechanics are rushed.

—Make sure you describe to the mechanic the symptoms your car is exhibiting. Don't just talk with the service writer.

—Request a copy of the repair order before repairs are made to prevent anyone from adding unnecessary repairs after you've signed the order.

—To insure that your car has been repaired properly, demand a road test and perhaps take your car to an auto diagnostic center to be checked.

Trying to get repairs for a car under warranty is possibly the thorniest of all auto repair problems because it's not profitable for auto dealers, the authors say.

A good way to avoid warranty problems is to get all the "bugs" out of the car before you take possession.

The authors suggest that you:

—Have the dealer state in writing that all the items on the manufacturer's pre-delivery inspection list will be performed.

—Insist that before you take possession, you be allowed to road test the car and have it examined by a mechanic of gas mileage and often break your choice or at a diagnostic clinic.

—Buy as few power options, like air conditioning, as possible because they put stress on the motor and battery, reduce

If you feel you have been gypped and you don't get satisfaction from your auto repair shop, complain loudly and persistently to auto company executives, the appropriate federal and state government agencies, newspaper "action lines" and the Better Business Bureau, the authors say. If nothing else works, think about hiring a lawyer and going to court.

Entire Family Is Strikebound

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Richard Lingsch family of suburban Port Vue has been spending a lot of time together lately—like it or not. All are strikebound.

Lingsch, 34, who has worked for 10 years in a G.C. Murphy Co. warehouse in nearby McKeesport has been home a month because of a strike there.

His wife Sherry, a student in a two-year nursing program at Community College of Allegheny County, can't attend classes because of a teachers' strike and their sons, David, 8, and Richard Jr., 12, are home because of a walkout by teachers in the South Allegheny School District.

"We haven't gotten bored with each other yet," said Mrs. Lingsch.

Expect Savings On Medicaid Drug Program

RALEIGH (AP) — The Department of Social Services says it expects to save North Carolina $1 million under its new method of administering the Medicaid prescription drug program.

Administration of the drug program will now be handled by a private firm, Paid Prescriptions Inc. All pharmacists will submit their Medicaid drug bills to the firm, which will make the payments. The state will then pay the firm a monthly premium for each category of Medicaid recipient.

Social Services Commissioner Clifton M. Craig said Thursday the new method was approved by the Advisory Budget Commission last week.

New Car Sales Sharply Rose

RALEIGH (AP) — Sales of new cars in North Carolina were up 19.7 per cent during the first seven months of this year as compared with the same period last year.

The Department of Motor Vehicles reported Thursday that sales so far this year have totaled 149,319, compared with 124,709 in the first seven months of last year.

Bucs Go For Third Against Appalachian

One of East Carolina University's oldest foes, Appalachian State University, comes to town Saturday night, testing the unbeaten record of the Pirates.

And Appalachian is one of the teams on the Buc schedule that has a winning record over the Bucs in years past. In fact, the Mountaineers, the newest member of the Southern Conference, have a 16-4 record against the Pirates, giving East Carolina little to brag about when on the field with them.

The series is one of the oldest the Pirates have, going back to their initial year of football, 1932, when Appalachian downed them, 21-0 in their final game of the season. It was the 10th game of the series, in 1952 before the Pirates finally won, getting a 22-19 win. They won again in 1953 and 1955, but then lost six straight before winning again in 1962, their last meeting.

Appalachian comes into the 7:30 p.m. Saturday meeting in Ficken Stadium with a 1-1 overall record and an 0-1 Southern Conference mark. The Mountaineers downed Western Kentucky, 7-6, in their opener, then fell to The Citadel, 28-21.

In coming into the game, the Mountaineers will be going up against the Nation's Number One defense. East Carolina has limited its opponents to just seven yards on the ground per game and less than 100 in total offense per game.

"I had no inkling that we would be as good as we have," Coach Sonny Randle said of the defense. "In fact, the whole club has come along fast. We thought we would be capable of playing as we have. We felt that if the staff could make them believe the way we wanted them to — that they could do this sort of damage — they could do it. They are thinking and acting the part — they believe in themselves."

Being number one is a real plus, Randle feels. "Any team would be proud of it. It gives us something to uphold," he said.

But Randle also added that the team didn't feel that it was an offensive or defensive plus, but a plus for East Carolina. "Both the offensive and defensive units and the special teams have to do the job for us to win and they each know this," he said.

The Pirate mentor feels that the Pirates beat a real good team in Southern Illinois last week. "We completely dominated the game offensively and defensively," he said. "We were able to control the ball, and this was the story."

One of the overlooked facts in the game was that East Carolina had 76 rushing plays, one less than the national high so far of 77 that Oklahoma had against Utah State. They also had 92 offensive plays, only three less than the national high of 95, also by Oklahoma. "When you have the ball for 92 plays, you'll win the game just about every time," Randle said. "This is most impressive."

The Bucs, in controlling the ball, knocked on the door several times, coming away with three field goals and one touchdown. "There were about four cases when we stopped ourselves," Randle said. "We'd have a penalty or something like that. And then a couple of times we just got whipped by their fine defense. They had 10 starters back from last year, and they were not weak at all."

The coach also had praise for freshman kicker Ricky McLester. "He's certainly going to get better. He has great potential, and an amazing amount of composure for a freshman." The coach also added that the Bucs have another good kicker in Jim Woody.

As far as Appalachian is concerned, Randle says the Mountaineers have "us scared to death."

"They have a lot to gain by knocking us off," he said. "And they have the potential to do it."

The coach said the ECU staff wasn't impressed with Appalachian until the second half of the game with The Citadel. "They looked as good as anybody we'll play this year in that second half," Randle said.

The Mountaineers were down 28-0 at the half and stormed back to make a game of it in the final half. "They got a taste of what it was like and they liked what they tasted," Randle said. "Now they'll want to get all they can down here."

The coach said Appalachian has the potential to move the ball well from its wishbone setup. "They're difficult to contain," he said. "They have a fine quarterback in Steve Loflin, and a split end, Ricky Agle, who is dynamite."

Agle is the leading pass receiver on the team, catching five in two games for 161 yards.

Loflin has hit on 10 of 26 passes for 258 of the 310 yards passing the Mountaineers have. Passing to date has been their strong point, as they have only 208 yards rushing. James Tucker leads the running with 54 yards in 11 carries. Tommy Harris is next with 40 yards.

"We have so much at stake in the game," Randle said. "It's nice to be in this position (2-0 and tops in defense), but it brings pressures we haven't felt in a long time. I don't know whether the players are feeling it but the coaches are. We can't have a letdown and expect to win. We can't just go through the motions or we'll get slaughtered."

Saturday night will be Youth Night for the Pirates. All 17 years old and younger will be admitted free of charge to the game.

ANYTHING FOR A CHEER — East Carolina University Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich was the target of a pie in the face during a pep rally last night on the ECU campus. Cheerleader Babs Winn did the honors as students and others cheered her on. After the first face-full, the students yelled "Hit him again! Hit him again! Harder! Harder!" and Babs again responded with the second pie. It was all part of the pep rally to bring out school spirit for this weekend's ECU-Appalachian game. At left, Babs delivers the first pie, then, at right, laughs at her work as she prepares for the second delivery. (Reflector Photos by Tommy Forrest)

Most Southern Members Outside Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

William and Mary, rated one of the three top contenders for the Southern Conference football title, split even in its first two starts, and coach Jim Root says Villanova, the Indians' Saturday foe, "looks a lot like the two teams we've played—strong defensively."

It's hard to tell from that what Root thinks his chances are, for the Indians rolled up 485 yards in routing Furman's Paladins 31-7 and gained 317 yards in bowing to Navy 13-9, a game in which W&M failed to get a touchdown despite reaching the Middles' 15 six times.

Villanova, which has lost to West Virginia and Kentucky in its first two games, "doesn't do a lot of fancy things offensively," says Root. "They just come at you."

The Indians' game at Villa-nova is one of three nonleague scraps on tap Saturday afternoon.

Richmond's defending league champion Spiders, 0-2 against outside opponents, open their home season against Northeast Louisiana and Virginia Military's Keydets, 0-2 and losers of 12 in a row since their 1971 opener, will be at Maryland.

One conference game is scheduled Saturday night with Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 1-1, at East Carolina's Pirates, 2-0.

East Carolina—now tied at 1-0 in league play with William and Mary, The Citadel's Bulldogs and Davidson's Wildcats—can take over sole possession of first place with a victory.

Nonleague action Saturday night has The Citadel, 1-1, at home against Western Carolina; Davidson, 1-1, at Lenoir Rhynes; and Furman's Paladins, 0-2, playing host to Wofford.

East Carolina has yet to give up a touchdown in beating VMI 20-3 and Southern Illinois 16-0, leading Appalachian coach Jim Brakefield to comment that the Pirates "are very aggressive on defense and rush the passer very well."

For his part, East Carolina coach Sonny Randle calls Appalachian "quicker and more aggressive than anybody else we have played."

There has been good and bad news all week for Richmond coach Frank Jones, whose Spiders are trying to recover from defeats at the hands of North Carolina and West Virginia.

The good news is that All-Southern fullback Barty Smith, who saw limited service in the first game and none in the second because of a virus, apparently will be ready for Northeast Louisiana.

But Jones will be missing tailback Weldon Edwards, out for the season with a knee injury suffered at West Virginia, and starting quarterback Dave Yount, who injured his thumb. Sophomore Harry Knight apparently will be the Spiders' starting quarterback.

Mistakes have been the undoing of a young VMI team which apparently has come up with a passing game led by sophomore quarterback Tom Schultze. Coach Bob Thalman now is working with senior Mac Bowman and sophomore Ronnie Norman to establish a ground attack.

"Our defense meant the difference in the VMI game," says Davidson coach Dave Fagg, whose Wildcats defeated the Keydets 18-14 last week. He says Lenoir Rhynes, which opened last week with a 13-12 victory over Wofford, "will be a real challenge for us."

Allison Tagged Dominion Choice

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Bobby Allison and his flying Chevrolet appeared to be the combination to beat today as time trials began for the Old Dominion 500 stock car race at Martinsville Speedway.

Allison, the year's top money winner with $206,050, was the favorite to win the important pole position, in itself worth $1,000, as race officials started the process of trimming a 56-car entry list to the fastest 36 drivers for Sunday's 1 p.m. start.

The first 20 spots in what could be the most competitive lineup ever put together for a Martinsville race were to be decided in qualifying runs during the afternoon.

Chief competition for the two front row spots was expected to come from David Pearson, Richard Petty, Buddy Baker, Fred Lorenzen and Bobby Isaac, the latter driving a Ford for the first time.

Allison, well into his second $200,000 season in a row, has won the pole spot in 10 of his 25 Grand National races this year. Not only that, he set the stock car qualifying record for the tight little .525-mile local speedway at 84.163 miles per hour in June.

Isaac, who sat on the pole for the 1971 Old Dominion 500, had started No. 1 in eight races this year before quitting his trusty Dodge two weeks ago and turning it over to Baker.

Isaac will drive a Ford owned by Virginian Junior Donlevy. The car finished a close second in the rich Talladega 500 in Alabama last month.

Pearson, winner of the Delaware 500 last Sunday, and all-time favorite Petty were other candidates for a possible pole position. Pearson is driving the Glenn Wood Mercury that has carried him to six major triumphs and $122,325 in winnings this year.

Sunday's race offers $54,480 in cash and accessory awards, with a $6,000 first-place payoff and an additional $5,000 to the driver who leads the most laps. It is the richest short-track event in the history of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Bucs, Rampants Get Panel's Nod

We thought last week might shake up the standings in the Daily Reflector's football panel, and shake them up it did. There is now a three-way tie for first, and a two-way tie for last, just two games back.

And somehow, I find myself right in the middle, all alone.

This week's slate, at first glance, doesn't have many mysteries. But another look or two confirms that this could be a shake-up week, as well.

Currently, George Holland, Sandra Spivey and Jack Whichard hold onto the top position with 18-5 records, while I follow with a 17-6 mark. John Trotman and Tom Baines bring up the rear with 16-7 marks. It's still close, however, and the standings could change quite a bit this time out.

First, let's look at the high school schedule:

Robersonville, fresh from its victory over tough Aurora, travels to Bath this weekend. The Eagles will be looking for their 16th straight victory, and it might be that they could be ripe for an upset after their big win last week. But we'll have to go along with them to win.

Farmville Central travels to Ayden-Grifton for a big cross-country rivalry. The Jaguars are winless and the Chargers are unbeaten, but most say records go out the window when these two meet. Nevertheless, the Chargers have to be favored to win it.

Conley goes to West Craven. Last year, this game gave Conley its first victory ever. The Vikings have shown improvement, while West Craven is still trying to build. Conley is the choice.

North Pitt goes to Southern Nash also looking for its first win. Southern is unbeaten and could be the team to beat in the Eastern Carolina Conference race. The Panthers are slowly coming around, and

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Southern might be overlooking them. Still, Southern must be our choice.

Greene Central travels to C. B. Aycock, in another must-win situation. The Falcons haven't looked as sharp as they were thought to be, but they could be ready to play this weekend, Greene Central worries. The Rams have to stay up there to keep within range of the leaders, and they should win it.

Finally, Williamston goes to Weldon in another key Albemarle Conference game. The Tigers appear to be rolling now, and unless they have a serious letdown, they should win here.

Rounding out the high school slate is this week's first panel pick — Rose vs. Jacksonville. Both teams are coming off their first loss of the year last week and both will be anxious to win and get rolling again. Rose may remember they lost 41-0 last year. It looks like a very good game for both teams, and really could be a toss-up.

The panel is unanimous however — all pick the Rampants to win.

The other big game is the East Carolina-Appalachian contest Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium. The Wild Dog defense will be out to maintain their number one ranking in the nation, but they should get a good test. The offense would also like to get rolling and do some more scoring this time out, as they greet the newest member of the Southern Conference.

The pick of the panel — East Carolina gets all six votes.

Pittsburgh Claims Third Eastern Flag In Row As Mets Bow By 6-2

By TOM EMORY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates played hard all season and now it was time to pop off. So they popped off the tops of champagne bottles, a few soft drinks and one bottle of red wine.

The Pirates held a celebration Thursday night after winning the National League East title for the third straight year.

They beat the New York Mets 6-2 and the victory was welcome relief for a team that had lost four of its last five games.

More champagne went for showers than for thirst in the Pittsburgh dressing room. Winning pitcher Steve Blass had some poured down his pants; Manager Will Virdon got a champagne shampoo; and the rest of the players joined in the pennant party with drinks, music and laughter.

Virdon slipped away to a quiet corner, sipped some red wine and said the season had been just beautiful.

"Winning a division title is the hardest thing to do because it takes so long to do it," the rookie manager said. "Of course, it's harder on the players than it is on me, but it's still a long season for everybody."

The Pirates scored five runs in the third inning after getting one run without a hit in the first. In the third, the big glow was a two-run single by Richie Hebner. Roberto Clemente, Milt May and Bob Robertson also drove in runs.

The clincher Thursday night was the earliest of the three titles for the Pirates. In 1970, they won on Sept. 27 and in 1971, they won on Sept. 22.

In the only other NL game, Philadelphia beat St. Louis 3-1.

In the American League, Detroit thumped Boston 10-3, Milwaukee downed New York 6-4 and California topped Kansas City 4-2.

Detroit blasted Boston for four runs in the first and third innings, three runs coming on a single by winning pitcher Joe Coleman, 18-13. The Boston loss cuts its lead in the AL East to less than one percentage point over the Tigers. In percentages, it's Boston .5454 and Detroit .5448, and that's close.

Boston started rookie Mike Garman, who came up from Louisville in the International League on Sept. 1. Manager Eddie Kasko defended his position even though Garman lasted just one-third of an inning and was hit for three runs.

"I had to gamble," said Kasko. "I wanted to start a right-hander and I had three left. Garman had looked good in relief."

Johnny Briggs hit a homer, double and single and drove in three runs for the Brewers. The loss was the fifth in six games for New York. Bernie Allen homered for the Yankees.

Bob Oliver hit a homer and triple to lead California over Kansas City. Nolan Ryan broke a three-game personal losing streak and recorded his 17th victory. His four strikeouts increased his major league-leading total to 290.

Aycock In 6-6 Game

WILSON — E. B. Aycock Junior High School rallied in the second half to hold Wilson and come away with a 6-6 tie in its opening game of the year.

Playing the "Blue" team of Wilson Junior High, Aycock found itself down, 6-0 at the half, but came back to pull out the tie score.

Wilson took the lead in the first period as Rodriguez James went 15 yards for the score.

The Blue team completely dominated play the rest of the game, rushing for 115 yards and passing for 62. Aycock got only 37 yards on the ground, and added 74 through the air, hitting two of six passes.

One of the passes, however, paid off. It was a 65-yard scoring bomb from Henry Trevathan to William Joyner that tied the score.

"They had a huge line," Aycock Coach Wilson McDowell said. "It was bigger than Rose's. But I think we just out-gutted them. We had the desire to stay out there and fight."

Aycock travels to Rocky Mount on Thursday for its next game.

Cougars Take Win

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Two new players, Mack Calvin with 25 points and Billy Cunningham with 19, led the Carolina Cougars to a 116-110 American Basketball Association exhibition victory over the Virginia Squires Thursday night.

Virginia led until the fourth quarter despite a pressure defense installed by the Cougars' new coach, Larry Brown. But Carolina erased an 11-point deficit midway through the final period.

Jim Ligon led Virginia with 18 points.

It was the season's first exhibition for both teams. They open the regular ABA season with a game in Richmond on Oct. 12.

The Cougars will play 12 exhibitions, the next two against Virginia on Saturday in Springfield, Mass., and against the New York Knicks in Durham, N.C., on Sunday.

Dooley, Holtz Meeting Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's Dooley against Holtz again Saturday, but this time Lou Holtz will be coaching a different football team, North Carolina State.

When they met last year, Dooley's North Carolina Tar Heels came from behind in the closing minutes to nip Holtz's William and Mary Indians, 36-35. The teams ground out 563 yards rushing and 361 passing.

The North Carolina State Wolfpack, and North Carolina, who meet in Chapel Hill, also have been big on yardage.

The Wolfpack has gained a total of more than 900 yards in its 24-24 tie with Maryland and the 43-20 victory over Syracuse.

North Carolina, the defending Atlantic Coast Conference champion, which will be seeking its 10th consecutive league victory, has gained 581 yards in victories by 28-18 over Richmond and 31-26 over Maryland.

North Carolina leads in the series, 41 to 14, but in the last 10 years the record stands at 5-5. North Carolina won the last two games, but the Wolfpack won the three before that.

Both Duke and 19th ranked Sanford, whose game in Durham will be televised regionally in color, use the T formation with two set backs and two wide receivers. The Duke Blue Devils sometimes shift from the T to the I. Both employ basic 4-3-4 defenses. Sanford's Mike Boryla, No. 12, is a rangy quarterback who can throw and run. Duke's tailback, Steve Jones, No. 46, leads a strong ground game.

Defensive backfield coach Casto Ramsey cautioned Virginia that West Virginia, also unbeaten, the home foe at Charlottesville, has the tallest receivers the Cavaliers have faced. And they have more of them with excellent speed, he added.

But he said, "We feel that things are jelling for us this week, and everyone is healthy."

In other games Saturday, Maryland will be home to VMI. Clemson will be at Rice at night, and Wake Forest will be at fifth-ranked Tennessee.

The Wake Forest Deacons had a brief, light workout in shorts Thursday after three days of lengthy sessions in full equipment. The running game and pitchouts were stressed, with Chuck Ramsey and Jim Ryan alternating at quarterback.

Clemson also worked lightly without pads. The team leaves by air today for a scheduled workout tonight in Rice Stadium in Houston, Tex.

McGovern, Agnew, Shriver, Nixon All On The Road

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For the first time in the 1972 presidential campaign, all four major candidates are taking to the hustings today.

President Nixon prepared to fly to Texas; Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is making a series of appearances in the South; Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern is in Detroit, and his running-mate, Sargent Shriver, is campaigning in New York.

Agnew, just a few days into his official election effort, has responded sharply to McGovern's steady criticism of the Nixon administration's Vietnam policy.

Dropping the low-key style he used earlier in the week, Agnew told a Republican rally in Chattanooga, Tenn., that McGovern is "parroting the propaganda of the North Vietnamese" in criticizing U.S. bombing.

Thus, Agnew said, the Democrat is helping to destroy "the morale of thousands of Americans who are not in possession of the facts" about communist aggression.

Meanwhile, Nixon was ready today to depart on his most important trip so far in the campaign—an overnight jaunt to Texas.

The President planned to attend a reception and buffet dinner tonight for wealthy Democrats for Nixon at the Floresville ranch of John B. Connally, the former Democratic governor and Treasury secretary.

On the Democratic side, McGovern says he plans to talk to the voters by television in a series of quiet "fireside chats," alluding to the historic radio addresses of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The South Dakota senator said Thursday night that he has been having trouble getting his message across to the people in "partisan" speeches at airport rallies and street crowds.

McGovern made the statements to newsmen as his campaign jet headed to Detroit after a day of troubles in his city-hopping campaign.

McGovern had barely flown out of New York City when running-mate Shriver flew in. Shriver immediately went to a private home for a fund-raising cocktail party.

Shriver campaign aides said he was considering flying to Texas today for an appearance in Floresville—about seven miles from Connally's ranch, where Nixon was scheduled to be.

Earlier Thursday, Shriver told the City Club of Cleveland that he hopes to "become the people's voice at the top of government." He maintained there is "too little representation of the people" in Washington.

Several Fights At Rose High; Number Suspended

For the first time in the new school year, problems erupted at Rose High School Thursday.

Principal Robert Alligood said "there were four fights in the school yesterday. In one, a girl was injured after being jumped by three or four other girls in a bathroom and was sent to a doctor."

"I haven't been able to determine the extent of her injuries," Alligood said, "and we were able to keep feeling under control until yesterday when things erupted."

The Principal said the tension had arisen from an incident last

Friday night at a drive-in restaurant following the ball game. "We have no control about what happens off campus," he said, "and unfortunately these things carry over into the school."

Alligood said that both boys and girls, black and white students were involved in the fighting yesterday. "The aggressors have primarily been black students and the white students have responded in this situation."

Alligood confirmed that more than a dozen boys and girls, black and white have been suspended. "We cannot have aggressors in school," he commented. "Whenever we feel a student is in fault, he is going to be expelled, it's that simple."

Police have not been called to the school. "We do have parents in the hallways, and will be glad to have others come any time they can," he said. "We find this helps."

The school day today, Alligood said, "has started without incidents, but there's still tension and we're keeping on top of the situation."

High Utility Bills Result

The Greenville Utilities Commission has had numerous inquiries and complaints this month about the high cost of electricity. Utilities officials report. The biggest contributing factor has been the 35 to 37-day period covered by the last bill.

"Usually, the meters are read on a 30-day basis," said Curtis Howell, Business Manager, "but because of the Labor Day holiday and bad weather at the beginning of September, the meter readers were delayed 5 to 7 days. In addition to this, 'we've had an 11 percent increase in mean temperature over last year's mean temperatures, and this, with the longer billing period meant a 20 to 30 percent higher than normal bill for some customers."

"Our meter readers will be back on schedule next month," said Charles Horne, Utilities director, "and since the cooler weather has set in, the consumption of electricity is now less than half the demand during July and August, which means our customers should find a drop in the amount of their October utility bills."

"We want our customers to know that all their questions concerning utility service and bills are welcome," said Horne, "and to assure them that our major concern will always be to supply them with the best service possible."

Man Escaped East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — A 21-year-old East German scaled Communist barriers early Thursday to reach West Berlin safely, police have confirmed.

The man came into the southern sector of West Berlin, apparently unnoticed by border guards.

It was the first refugee flight that came to public attention in weeks, with police ordered by higher authority not to disclose escape attempts except as a confirmation.

Child Wounded By Babysitter

DUNN, N.C. (AP) — A Dunn child was in serious condition at Johnson Memorial Hospital today from knife wounds allegedly inflicted by a babysitter Thursday night.

Dunn police said Liza McNeil, 5, was left by her parents with a cousin, Mabel McNeil, 19. Police said when the child began crying, the babysitter choked her and sat on her to stop the crying. When that failed, the babysitter allegedly slashed the child on the arms, legs and cheeks.

Mabel McNeil was in the Dunn jail charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

May Set Date For Billboards

RALEIGH (AP) — A meeting in Concord next month, the State Highway Commission is expected to consider a proposal to set Oct. 15 the effective date for enforcing a law regulating billboards on interstate and federal aid highways.

The 1967 General Assembly enacted the law but no date has been set for it to take effect because of the failure of Congress to provide funds for enforcement.

The law makes it unlawful to erect billboards, except those on business premises, in all areas within 660 feet of federal aid highways.

Wrestling To Resume Again

The Memorial Gym, on Tenth Street, will be the site for the return of outstanding Mid-Atlantic Championship Wrestling on Thursday, September 28, at 8:15 p.m. The matches are being sponsored by the Jaycees.

The main event features The Royal Kangaroos, Lord Jonathan Boyd and Norman Fredrick Charles III, battling the very popular team of Jerry Brisco and Sandy Scott. When these two teams clash in the ring the action is expected to be wild and rugged.

Brisco is the current Eastern Heavyweight Champion and his partner, Sandy Scott, is a very talented veteran. They will be facing two of the roughest grapplers to ever come to this part of the country. The Royal Kangaroos have proven to be fierce competition.

This outstanding main event will be the best of three falls with an hour time limit.

In another tag team tussle, George "Two Ton" Harris and Frank Morrell, two very tough veterans, go against Steve Hagen and Frank Hester, an outstanding Negro wrestler.

In singles action two of the top female wrestlers in the country collide as Miss Vicki Williams takes on Miss Dorothy Downs. The opener has Joe Furr facing Bobby Paul.

Again this year, the Greenville Jaycees, in sponsoring the wrestling matches, is doing this for the benefit of Pitt County-Greenville Boys Club. Their support of the Boys' Club in this manner for the past two years has been an instrumental factor in keeping the club in operation.

Tickets for the first match of the season are now on sale in Greenville at the Boys' Club headquarters on Skinner Street; and at Pitt Plaza Gulf, H. L. Hodges Hardware downtown, and Western Auto downtown.

Prices for tickets are $3.00 for advance ringside seats; $3.50 for ringside seats at the door; and $2.50 for general admission.

The Worry Clinic Humor Applies In Pulpit, Too

Joel was surprised when I told his church congregation that Jesus employed humor in His sermons. But there are degrees of humor, ranging from slapstick "pie-in-the-face" episodes, to the O. Henry witty climax. See samples below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case U-595: Joel T., aged 26, teaches high school English.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I heard your address last Sunday in my hometown church. 'And I was quite interested in your statement that Jesus employed humor in His sermons. Since I contribute short articles occasionally to magazines, I wonder if you'd outline some more advice about the psychology of jokes and wit-ticisms.'"

Christ's Hyperbole

Joel referred to the fact I mentioned Christ's use of hyperbole to startle his audiences and make them smile. Hyperbole is not merely the usual stretching of the truth, which a fisherman might do regarding the length of his fish. Instead, hyperbole is ex-travagant exaggeration to the point of the ridiculous.

So Jesus warned his audience against criticizing the mote (speck) in their brother's eye but ignoring the beam (joist or sawlog) in their own eye.

Again, he told them they were guilty of straining at gnats while they routinely swallowed camels!

Humor is of various degrees of complexity so speakers must adapt it to the IQ of their listeners.

Thus, children can't appreciate Chesterfieldian wit nor even the play on words as indicated by a "pun."

"Baseball," said a genial clergyman recently, "was first mentioned in the opening verse of Genesis."

When his congregation raised their eyebrows in disbelief, the pastor opened the Bible and read the first line, which states, "In the beginning (big inning)."

This same play on words (punning) was illustrated by another preacher who announced:

"It wasn't the apple in the tree that caused the trouble in the Garden of Eden but the pear (pair) on the ground."

Children (and adults of lower I.Q.) prefer slapstick comedy, which means humorous situations with a great deal of visual elements.

Thus, the Saturday matinee old-time movies would convulse the child audiences by having an actor struck in the face with a custard pie.

Or with seeing a mischievous boy place a tack on the teacher's chair.

Another type of humor involves the sudden, unexpected ending, like the O. Henry short story climax.

When a Tennessee mountaineer, aged 98, announced he was marrying an 18-year-old girl, his preacher tactfully tried to dissuade him.

"Silas," warned the preacher, "marriage is physically rather strenuous on the couple, especially during the honeymoon."

"So have you fully considered all the possible consequences? The old mountaineer nodded assent and replied:

"Well, if she dies, she dies!" Reader's Digest recently paid my daughter-in-law, Arlene, for describing a family dinner party at our home where five of their kiddies and several other cousins were present.

George, aged 3, was upstairs when his sister Becky rushed down to tell us George had locked himself in the bathroom!

"Don't worry," I purposely jolted the excited crowd, "for we have two more bathrooms downstairs!"

Send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Revival Series Begins Monday

Revival services will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. and continue throughout Sunday at the Sheldahl Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The Rev. Elmer R. Mooring, pastor of the Alert Pentecostal Holiness Church, Wilson, will be the guest speaker.

Special singing will be rendered at each service.

The pastor, the Rev. Roy O. Williams, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

North's response of two clubs to his partner's opening one no trump bid promises at least eight points and requests the opener to show a four card major if he has one or to rebid two diamonds if he does not. Even if South had bid two diamonds, it was North's intention to show his spade suit next to give his partner an opportunity to raise that suit if he had three card support. The slightly unbalanced nature of North's hand including two worthless doubletons suggests that a suit contract might be preferable.

When South, somewhat unexpectedly, bid two spades, showing four of that suit, North proceeded directly to game in spades—for in support of that suit, his holding was worth 10 points.

West opened the jack of diamonds, North played the three and East put up the ace. The latter shifted to the queen of clubs which was covered by declarer with the king. West won the trick with the ace and then exited with the deuce of clubs. East put up the ten and continued with the jack, forcing dummy to ruff with the three of spades.

The king of spades was cashed and when East showed out, discarding the seven of hearts, complications set in, even though West's jack could be picked up easily enough by finessing dummy's ten. If trumps had divided either two-two or three-one, South could trump out his long diamond.

With the highly abnormal division in spades, declarer sought for an alternative line of play. He considered cashing the ace and king of hearts and then attempting to ruff a third round in his hand, but by so doing—he might subject himself to an overruff by West. The play in clubs tended to indicate that that suit was divided four-four and inasmuch as West was known to have four spades as well, that left him with only five cards in the red suits.

Since East held nine red cards, the burden of protecting hearts and diamonds might rest on the latter's shoulders and South decided to cash out the trumps in order to place pressure on his right hand opponent.

A spade was led to the ace as East gave up his remaining club. A small trump came next, West followed with the nine and the proven finesse of dummy's ten was taken as East parted with the eight of hearts. The queen of spades drew West's jack of trumps and placed unbearable pressure on his partner. East could not afford to give up another heart, for then the ace and king would drop the jack and queen and establish North's ten and six for two more tricks in the suit.

East parted with the four of diamonds and now a diamond lead to the queen followed by the king dropped the four outstanding cards in the suit and established declarer's six for the game fulfilling trick. In all, South took five spades, two hearts, and three diamonds.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices edged higher today in slow trading, as bargain hunters began nibbling at selected issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was up 2.86 to 942.35.

Williams Co. was very active and up 1 1/2 to 37 1/2. When a 130-200 share block that had been hanging over the market cleared at 35, off 1/8, the issue recovered. Analysts said it was selling at a cheap price-earnings ratio at this level.

American Airlines, which has reported a sharp drop in August income compared with a year ago, was off 3/8 to 25 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, Coit International, a recent mover, was up 1 1/8 to 19 1/8.

Spelling Error Led To Court Reversal

RALEIGH (AP) — A spelling error in a bill of indictment has led to the reversal of a Johnston County man's conviction for voluntary manslaughter.

The North Carolina Court of Appeals reversed the conviction of Jesse Everett Allen, saying that he was subjected to double jeopardy.

Allen was charged in November, 1969, with first degree murder in the death of Evin H. Parrish. A month later he was indicted for the murder of "Ervin H. Parrish."

In February, 1971, Allen pleaded not guilty. When the state's first witness was called and asked if he knew Evin H. Parrish, Allen objected. He said the victim of the murder alleged in the indictment was "Ervin H. Parrish."

A mistrial was declared. Last November a new indictment for second-degree murder was returned against Allen with the correct name of the victim. Allen entered a plea of former jeopardy, but it was not accepted in superior court.

$89.68 Day At Farmville

FARMVILLE — The Farmville tobacco market yesterday averaged $89.68 per hundred pounds after selling 484,922 pounds of tobacco for $434,873.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor on the Farmville market, the increase in volume of cutters was responsible for the sharp increase in average. An unusually large percent of primings and lugs were on the floor yesterday.

Williams reported that bidding by all companies was strong.

Prices on practically all grades were steady with the exception of lugs and primings which were higher than the day before.

More tobacco carried over from last year was marketed yesterday than any previous day this year.

To date, the market has sold 10,915,339 pounds of tobacco for $9,657,839, giving a season average per hundred pounds of $88.48.

Correction

Tom Anderson, American Party candidate for vice president for the American Party, was quoted incorrectly in Thursday's paper as saying President Nixon and George Wallace have similar goals. The quote should have read George McGovern, rather than George Wallace.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The 1972-73 E.C.U. Artist Series, consisting of six marvelous performances, opens the night of October 5th, with the world famous Cleveland Orchestra. As of Wednesday, September 20th, we have sold 68 season tickets to the Greenville public, 84 to E.C.U. faculty members and 103 to out-of-town purchasers. We are supposed to sell 1,000 season tickets, and even on this basis they are costing the general public one-third of the actual cost of the performances to the university.

The E.C.U. Student Union is financing and subsidizing this project for the benefit of the people in Greenville and surrounding territory. They will continue to do this only if the public shows that it appreciates and wants it by supporting the project. The E.C.U. Student Union can see no reason to continue to spend approximately $30,000—which they cannot get but $10,000 in return if all seats are sold and at the present rate not even appreciation or desire to have it continued by the General Public. If you want this project continued, I urge you to either call or go to the Central Ticket Office in the Wright Building, P.O. Box 2731, Phone 758-6278 before October 5th and purchase your tickets, because there will be none available after that date.
