Welfare Reform Is Racing A Deadline

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Working against a deadline, the Senate opens floor debate today on the hotly disputed welfare-reform legislation, a gigantic bill sweetened with Social Security increases.

The fate of the $14.6-billion legislation is highly uncertain because prolonged debate over its controversial provisions would thwart congressmen's hopes for adjournment by Oct. 1.

But the bill also contains many Social Security and Medicare benefits which its sponsors consider highly popular in election year.

An effort will be made to rescue these benefit provisions in some fashion if the full bill cannot be passed.

The 889-page bill has been nearly two years in the making. It passed the House in June a year ago and has been stuck since that time in the Senate Finance Committee.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has called the bill to the floor despite the lateness in the session to fulfill his pledge that President Nixon's top-priority proposals would be given consideration.

As the bill was submitted by the President and passed by the House, it contained his proposals to change the system of providing public assistance for families with dependent children.

The Senate Finance Committee, however, rejected the Nixon plan and substituted its own Workfare system which would impose much tougher work requirements on parents in the welfare families.

This dispute is expected to dominate the Senate debate.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the bill, predicted that all the provisions except those on the welfare families could pass in a few days.

The Social Security provisions in the bill would give special benefits to widows, the disabled, men, persons who work beyond 65 and other groups.

The legislation would expand Part A of Medicare, which is financed by Social Security, to give coverage to 1.5 million persons who now receive Social Security disability payments and to include payment for drugs needed by chronically ill aged persons.

Social Security taxes would be raised about $6 billion a year to pay for these new benefits.

Nixon's family-assistance plan would fix a minimum $2,400 annual income for a family of four and, for the first time, provide payments for the working poor.

The Finance Committee's Workfare plan would remove from the welfare rolls families whose children were in school and require the parents to take jobs with a federal corporation in order to receive any income from the government.

Ask $571 Million For Universities

RALEIGH (AP) — The Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina put in a request Tuesday for $571.6 million to operate 16 state-supported universities during the next two fiscal years. This was $64.8 million less than the institutions' requests two years ago.

"We used the paring knife rather freely," State Rep. Jay P. Huskins, D-Iredell, chairman of the board's budget committee, said as he outlined the institutions' requests to the Advisory Budget Commission.

The single, unified budget request for the 16 schools was outlined to the commission which will make recommendations to the 1973 General Assembly.

Huskins said the governors trimmed $87.2 million from the institutions' original requests.

The proposed budget calls for a base budget of $310.8 million; $18.4 million for academic salary increases; and $242.2 million in change budget requests.

The board also asked for $157.9 million for capital improvements during the next two fiscal years, including $116.7 million for renovation, improvement or construction of instructional facilities.

The budget "reflects the application of composite educational and professional judgment to the total responsibility of the state in higher education," William C. Friday, president of the university system, told the commission.

The request for salary increases amount to 5 per cent for each year of the biennium. Also included is an item of $500,000 to provide a special fund for faculty improvement.

Huskins said an increase of 3,279 full-time students is expected the first year and 5,833 the second year of the biennium.

Huskins noted that there are 53 items on the priority list in the proposed budget, and he urged the commission "not to attempt to juggle the priority."

He said the governors had reduced the institutions' capital improvements requests from $210.2 million to $157.9 million and the request of $29.3 million for salary increases was cut to $18.5 million.

"There are two areas to which the proposed budget does not speak," Huskins said. "One has to do with the East Carolina med school; the other with continuing aid to private higher education. Both these are now being studied by appropriate committees of the board of governors and will be covered in subsequent messages."

Hanoi's Espionage Equipment Claim Rejected By Robinsons

ROBERSONVILLE — "I call this latest accusation by Hanoi a bunch of hogwash," Bill Robinson said yesterday when interviewed about allegations that his prisoner of war son has received packages from home containing espionage equipment.

"Every package Jessie and I have sent Billy has contained only items bought here in Robersonville," he said. "Usually we include pipe tobacco, coffee, sugar, powdered, socks and underwear," he said. "We pack the boxes according to the way they, the North Vietnamese, say ship 'em."

If the packages contain items other than those packed, somebody has tampered with the boxes and replaced the items in them," he said.

American antiwar activists accompanying the three released POWs home reported in Peking Tuesday that the North Vietnamese had charged that sophisticated equipment capable of revealing camp locations and other information has been sent to prisoners from the United States.

Several names, including William Robinson of North Carolina could be read on photographs of some of the packages the North Vietnamese said contained espionage equipment.

Robinson, who operates a service station here, recalled that the only package that has ever been returned had a Hanoi

postmark and looked as if it had been tampered with. The closely packed contents had been rearranged, but said but no items were missing or altered. String used on the inside was missing and a different string had been used to rebind the package, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Robinson, Billy's grandparents who helped rear him, were with Robinson during the interview. His wife, Jessie, who travels for a Goldsboro photography firm, had not been reached at the time. Robinson said he fears these allegations may hurt his son's chances for release or bring other harm to him. Billy, now 28, and unmarried, has been a prisoner since Sept. 20, 1965 when he was shot down during a helicopter rescue mission. Seven years a prisoner, he is one of the longest there and his father feels the allegations may be related to his being an "oldtimer."

All packages have been sent through the Committee of Liaison in New York, a group headed by Cora Weiss and other activists, who have relayed these messages about these charges. Letters, also, have gone through this committee, with those received from Billy being only form letters saying his health and conditions are good and not to worry about him. Latest letters from him were brought first by actress Jane Fonda and then by former attorney general, Ramsey Clark.

Some items, Mrs. Weiss' group said were displayed in Hanoi included: a candy bar containing papers for writing invisible messages; a giant toothpaste tube which when squeezed was found to contain what Hanoi described as a radio receiving apparatus; a bar of soap with secret writing equipment inside; peanut shells, condensed milk, and instant coffee containers which Hanoi said contained messages. The messages were said to have requested information about prisoners and their conditions of captivity.

Refute Cancer 'Breakthrough'

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — There has been no breakthrough in the search for a cure for cancer and authorities say nobody here ever said there had been.

But scientists at Oak Ridge National Laboratory say there is a hopeful sign that experiments on guinea pigs with a substance called BCG may lead to help for persons with cancer some time in the future.

This was the import of a news conference at the laboratory Tuesday after it had been flooded with hundreds of telephone calls seeking information on a reported breakthrough in the cure for cancer.

Some of the calls came from as far away as Australia and Argentina.

"I'm sorry for the misunderstanding," said Dr. Michael G. Hanna Jr., a top cancer researcher here. "I feel apologetic to the people who telephoned me and, certainly to the outsiders who sought me out at the laboratory."

Hanna said the misunderstanding apparently was triggered by a news release saying that a team of scientists at the National Cancer Institute and ORNL "have proposed a mechanism to explain how stimulation of the immune, or disease-fighting systems of animals with cancer, can result in complete disappearance of the cancers."

BCG, a substance which stimulates the body's natural resistance to foreign bodies, was used in the experiments.

Hanna said it destroyed small tumors in the guinea pigs but had diminishing results when tried on larger tumors.

Published reports over the weekend of experiments here and elsewhere referred to a "breakthrough" in the treatment of cancer.

Scientists here said this apparently stemmed from the news release's reference to "complete disappearance" of the animals' cancers.

"You can't blame people at all," said Dr. James Livermore, associate director of biomedical sciences at the laboratory. "They want a cure for their loved ones. It was a natural reaction and we're not glaming anyone for the misconception."

Unhurt By Bomb

PHNOM PENH (AP) — A powerful terrorist bomb set ablaze the armored limousine carrying the ranking U.S. diplomat in Cambodia to work this morning, but the envoy escaped unhurt, authorities reported.

Police at first reported two motorcycle policemen escorting the limousine and a civilian were killed in the blast and four Cambodians wounded. But U.S. Embassy sources said later only one policeman was killed and that the other was critically injured. They said doctors offered little hope of saving him.

Thomas O. Enders, 40, the U.S. charge d'affaires, emerged unscathed from the battered wreckage of the car. He was on his way to the American Embassy, where he is in charge while Ambassador Emory C. Swank is on home leave in the United States.

Swank escaped an assassination attempt Sept. 7, 1971. A riderless bicycle bearing a 13-pound plastic bomb concealed among loaves of French bread was sent careening into his limousine. The bomb failed to explode and the bicycle fell harmlessly to the street.

"We feel very deeply for the policemen," Enders said in a brief interview in his office.

Won't Award A Peace Prize

OSLO (AP) — The Norwegian Nobel committee announced today that it has decided not to award any peace prize this year.

A Nobel Committee spokesman did not give any official reason for this year's decision. The prize money, approximately $100,000 will be kept in the Nobel fund.

The 1971 peace prize went to Willy Brandt, the chancellor of West Germany. American Norman E. Borlaug won it in 1970 and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1964. The prize was last omitted in 1967.

Talents Needed

Dr. Robert May, Director of the Department of Community Health Services for Pitt County, says the department would like to hire two or three belly dancers for their booth at the Pitt County Fair, which gets underway next week. He invited applicants for the positions to call the department this week. The number is 752-4141. Community Health will be among the community services that are being featured in the exhibit hall of the 1972 event.

When questioned about how the dancers would be used in a Community Health exhibit, Dr. May declined to be specific. He did say that their talents were needed for a health related purpose. He hinted, too, that it might be worthwhile for the county's citizens to come by the booth to find out just what is going on at the Community Health Center.

No Probable Cause For Two In Marijuana Case

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

No probable cause was found yesterday in the case of a Aycock Junior High School teacher charged September 7 with possessing marijuana.

District Court Judge Robert Wheeler ruled there was no probable cause to hold James Ray Moldin, 24, after hearing the State's evidence in the case.

Moldin was one of four persons charged with possessing marijuana following a raid on a Route 1, Winterville home September 7 by Pitt County Sheriff's deputies and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation. During that raid, officers found 1½ to 2 pounds of marijuana and a quantity of marijuana seed in the house.

Others charged included Kathy Jean Gallman, 20 of Route 1, Ayden and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Route 1, Winterville.

Judge Wheeler also ruled there was no probable cause to hold Miss Gallman who also appeared at the preliminary hearing yesterday.

A hearing for Johnson, 24, and his 22-year-old wife, Rebecca Jane has been set for a later date. Pitt Deputy Sheriff K.R. Evans testified yesterday that Moddin and Miss Gallman were at the Johnson home at the time of the raid and that between one and two pounds of marijuana were found in the kitchen of the dwelling while marijuana seed were found upstairs in the dwelling. Some weeds were also found in the living room where Moddin was found when the officers entered, Evans told the court.

The officer also noted that the odor of marijuana was noticeable in the Johnson house.

Surfaces

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell, wife of President Nixon's former law partner, former attorney general, and former campaign chief, has surfaced anew as a Republican attention-getter.

Mrs. Mitchell appeared Tuesday night at a Republican fund-raising dinner here addressed by Nixon.

Afterwards, she greeted the President and then, separated from him only by a Nixon aide, stood shaking hands and signing autographs.

Couple Speaks Vows In Sunday Ceremony

On Sunday after at 3:00 p.m., Miss Shirley Elizabeth House and Ronald Lane Lassiter were united in marriage at Parkers Chapel Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ashley House of Stokes. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Provert Lassiter of Bethel.

The Rev. John T. Woodley of Greenville officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. William Harvey Whitehurst of Stokes, organist, and Mrs. Ronald Crisp, soloist, who sang "We've Only Just Begun," "More" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The church was enhanced with all brass wedding accessories. The altar was centered with a massive arrangement of white bridal flowers.

The profile prie-dieu, where the vows were exchanged, was flanked with Hayarth curved arrangements holding a single cathedral candle. The family pews were marked with bridal satin and tulle interspersed with phalaenopsis garlands.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of silken organza over peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with an empire waist, pearled neckline and lattern sleeves of sheer organza. The gown featured appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace with pearl motifs which enhanced the bodice, sleeves, and skirt. The appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace also enhanced the chapel length train which fell from the waist.

Her veil of imported silk illusion fell from a headpiece of rosettes and petals of English net. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses with polished English ivy centered with a corsage of orange delight roses.

Miss Vickie House, sister of the bride, was the honor attendant. She wore a formal gown of apricot chiffon, styled with an orange lace vest, with lace at the cuffs of long sleeves. The gown featured an empire waist and a chiffon bow at the neck of the dress. She used a matching headpiece or orange veiled loops and a short veil. Miss House carried a natural wicker basket overflowing with yellow and orange delight roses with bronze and yellow pom poms tied with matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Susan James of Bethel, Mrs. Barbara Rollins and Miss Debra Manning, both of Bethel. Their dresses and bouquets were similar in color and design to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father served as best man and ushers were Danny Rollins, brother-in-law of the bride groom, of Bethel, Robbie Bell of Fountain, Ernest Rawls of Stokes, and Ray Harrell of Belvoir.

Mrs. House chose for her daughter's wedding, a yellow coat and dress ensemble. The dress featured a stand-up collar and short sleeves. The matching coat was enhanced with matching yellow braid around the sleeves, bodice and neck. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a pale green coat and dress ensemble. The coat featured elbow length sleeves and was also trimmed with matching green lace. She wore matching accessories and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Carl Oakley, maternal grandmother of the bride, was attired in a navy blue coat and dress ensemble. She wore a white carnation corsage.

The bride was graduated from North Pitt High School and is presently employed at Fieldcrest Mills.

The bridegroom was graduated from North Pitt High School and is also presently employed at Fieldcrest Mills.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride chose a navy blue ensemble featuring smocking at the waist and at the end of long bishop sleeves. She wore the orange delight roses lifted from her corsage.

The couple will make their home in Stokes.

Does She Have A Beef—Or Is Her Husband Right?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: For 18 years I've tried to get this point across to my husband, but he doesn't listen. He follows your advice to the letter, and if he reads this with your comments it will help our marriage.

We seldom go out socially, and when I mention a night out, he says, "Okay, Honey, let's go! You order theater tickets to whatever you want to see, and YOU make reservations for dinner wherever YOU want to eat. Press my such-a-color shirt and pick up my suit, and be sure the gas tank is filled so we won't have to stop for gas."

Abby, by the time I have done all that and have fed the kids, my evening out is no longer special. Then he gets disgusted because I'm not bubbling over with enthusiasm when we go out the door. The last six months I have told him I have changed my mind, and don't feel like going, and that makes him angry.

Please tell him to once come home and say, "I have tickets to a play on THIS or THAT night, also reservations to dine at THIS restaurant, let the kids eat peanut butter, just pretty yourself up and let's go."

Maybe then I could generate some enthusiasm. Thanks. DULL LUSTER

DEAR DULL: Are you feeling well, dear? Maybe you need a checkup. As I see it, ordering tickets to a play of your choice, and making dinner reservations at your favorite restaurant, and pressing a shirt and picking up a suit and filling a gas tank isn't all that much work. Now, what's really bothering you?

DEAR ABBY: I have been employed for two years as a bookkeeper for a small used car establishment. I am happily married and have three children, all school age.

My problem is the sales manager where I work. He is 30 years my senior and thinks he is Casanova. At first I could handle his remarks and keep him in his place, but it's gotten to the point where he's got to kissy-face and touchy-body every time he comes into the office.

He always knows when my boss will be out, and that's when he tries this stuff. I'd die of embarrassment if anyone ever walked in and saw him being so friendly, and my nerves are shot just worrying about it.

I've tried calling him "Dad" and "Gramps" but to no avail. I love my job and will do anything short of quitting to solve my problem. BETTY THE BOOKKEEPER

DEAR BETTY: Tell Casanova that if he doesn't knock off the kissy-face and touchy-body, you will tell the boss. And if the old geezer gets out of line again—do it!

DEAR ABBY: After 25 years of marriage, my husband and I were divorced. A year later he married a younger woman. I live alone. We have two children, a daughter who was married last year, and a son who is being married soon.

I do not want to attend my son's wedding if my husband's wife is there—and that is my problem. She came to my daughter's wedding last year and ruined the whole thing for me.

I feel like telling my son that either he has me or that woman because I just can't stand to be where she is. I hate to miss my son's wedding, but there would be no point in my going with a lump in my throat and tears in my eyes.

Please, Abby, tell me what to do. SAD

DEAR SAD: Tell your son exactly how you feel.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN A MESS IN ATLANTA": There is no law anywhere that can force a man to marry a woman. And if there were, I can't imagine a more discouraging union.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90060 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060.

Bigger Budget In Her Job

PARIS (WNS) — AT 17, Gilberte Beaux began her business career as a stenographer. Now 42, the attractive Frenchwoman is general manager of the Occidental Bank for Industry and Commerce. "I see nothing surprising in that," commented the top lady banker in France. "Most women keep the family budget. This is the same job on a larger scale." Women's Lib?

"No, I don't approve of its revolting methods," said the French wife and mother. "Fighting the opposite sex leads to enmity and divorce. Love has nothing to do with that."

If American designers showing their fall and winter collections are right, the American woman has had it with tricky clothes, fakey fashionness and what has been called silliness. She wants to be genuinely pretty and quietly confident in fashions she can understand and love wearing.

Fashion Designers, Retailers Say 'That The Dress Is Back'

By MARYA MANNES

NEW YORK (WNS)—Here we go again, sisters and ladies. After a few blissful years of not only wearing what we like but being told to wear: what makes us feel good, back to the old fashion blather.

First, the designers and retailers raise their tattered standard—"Return to Elegance!" We get it every fall. If our hair is short we are told to grow it. If our hair is long we are told to cut it. After living in style and comfort by day in pantsuits, or in tops and long skirts by night, we are told that "the dress is back." After walking with glorious ease in shoes with low heels or none, we are now—worst of all—being sold high heels.

The shoes, clogs, clumps or whatever you call them, are monstrosities: not only with heels as much as two and three inches high, but thick, clumsy, and hideous in shape. The toes are boxed, as for robots. The with-it girls already on them, teetering along, presumably unaware of the imminent danger of turning ankles, quite apart from aesthetic disaster.

Simplicity

Good feet are not only, if you'll excuse the word, elegant in themselves but deserving of a delicate simplicity of contour that flatters them. At least they used to be. Before we ran around half-naked and barefoot, men got a major kick out of slim legs and well shod feet. The greatest harm ever done to our nether extremities was, again, fashion: the spike heels and pointed toes that were indeed sexy, but literally deformed a generation of toes. According to doctors, they also tipped our pelvises and vital organs as we teetered along in ways that did us no good.

But now we have a generation of females growing up whose unbound feet may be and usually are two or three sizes larger than ours, but who are falling for the same fashion-pitches that we did. And if these elevated coarsely-constructed clogs are sexy, there must be a new freak fetish going around.

If so, I doubt whether most men or many women over thirty-five will go for it—or them. They are merely one more paradox of a new breed who are in many ways beautiful in their freedom from artifice, but who are also contemptuous of the aesthetics of dress. White-spotted frayed blue-jeans offer few visual delights, nor do the wrinkled tops or crocheted ponchos above them.

But their wearers walked in flat sandals with the free stride of Indians, and it would be a great shame if they fell for, or from the new platform heels that designers are concealing their with.

As for "the return of dress," it will come in sizes 8 to 12 only, so if you have any old ones left in your closet, prepare to spend your free hours hemming them up or letting them down. (They'll tell you the "newest length.")

Very Bad Day With Full Pay

COOLANGALTA, Australia (WNS) — Eileen Piper's husband was driving her to work when his car crashed into a wall. The truckdriver who took the shaken Mrs. Piper home crashed into her house. After coffee, the poor lady tried to clean her kitchen stove, and it exploded. Then her baby son pulled a cupboard on top of himself, broke a leg and had to be taken to the hospital. "The day was completely bad," insisted the waitress. "My boss gave me the day off with full pay."

Charter members not in attendance, but to be honored with 25 year certificates and pins are: Mrs. Frances B. Forrest; Mrs. Louise Wells; Mr. Claude B. Ward; D. J. Whichard Jr.; Mrs. Kathleen Whitehurst; Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Rowe; Mrs. Edna Loftin of Kinston; Alfred Wood of Vanceboro; Jasper Basart of New Bern; and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Branch of Portsmouth, Va.

Mrs. Alma Paramore, W. H. P. welcomed members, friends, and visiting guests from Onslow Shrine, Fort Macon Shrine, and Coastal Shrine. The invocation was given by Tommy Maning of Ayden.

The welcome to charter members was given by Mrs. Nancy Willard, N.P. After charter members were introduced, Mrs. Simmons Hill of Ayden sang in their honor, accompanied by Tommy Maning. The history of the Shrine and the highlights of its 25 years was given by Mrs. Blanche Jackson.

A birthday cake was decorated in tribute to the charter members. Twenty-five candles were lighted by the following members: Mrs. Ethel Allen; Mrs. Ruby Brown; Mrs. Byrdie Williams; Mrs. Lina Harbour; and Mrs. Beulah Gaylord, who received their light from the single candle on the cake that represented the first birthday. The single candle was lighted by Mrs. Nancy Willard. This in turn lighted the larger candle on the 25 year birthday cake, which represented the charter members. As the 25 small candles were lighted, appropriate verse was given by Mrs. Thelma Maxwell, Scribe. The tribute ended with "Happy Birthday" sung to the charter members. After the presentation of the certificates and pins, J. A. Holt, W.O.S. congratulated each charter member. A solo, "Jesus Revealed In Me", sung by Mrs. Simmons Hill, accompanied by Tommy Maning, closed the program. Jessie R. Laughinghouse presented five leather chairs and a desk table to the Masonic Temple from Greenville Shrine, commemorating their 25th birthday. James W. Brewer, chairman of the Board of Directors of Masonic Temple, accepted these gifts for the temple. The benediction was given in song "Bless Be The Tie That Binds." A reception was held following the meeting. The hall was decorated with silver and white flower arrangements. This motif was carried out on the refreshment table where the decorated birthday cake was served with punch and other refreshments.

NICE, France (WNS) — Mireille Martin, 21, has been winning beauty contests for the last six years. Now she would like to settle down to her career as dress designer, but she just can't say no. "I have never entered a beauty contest of my own accord," she insisted. "People keep making out entry forms in my name, and I hate to disappoint the judges." The worst offender is her father. "I'm proud of her beauty and like the world to acknowledge and enjoy it," explained Bernard Martin.

Med School Stands On Merits

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles has expressed shock that deans of three existing medical schools in the state have recommended against another four year medical school in the state.

It is a shock that we share. Bowles gave his thoughts on the matter in an interview with the Daily Reflector. He was commenting on a recommendation made by a subcommittee of the N.C. Medical Association, which is dominated by the deans of the three existing four year schools.

"I'm sure that these men are honorable men, that they believe in what they said. But it's like getting the goat out of the cabbage patch," the candidate stated. "I don't believe that we should have a committee made of people who have already made up their minds."

Bowles continued that he felt sure the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina "will have an unbiased recommendation rather than just the opinion of these three to go on."

From the day a medical school was first proposed at East Carolina University as the best way to alleviate the physician shortage, proponents have asked only that the issue be considered fairly on its merits.

Based on merit, the development of the medical school has been approved by the Legislature and the Board of Higher Education; it has been studied by an outstanding accrediting committee, with a positive report. As the result, a soundly grounded one year medical education program opened at ECU just this fall. The young people who successfully complete the course will transfer to Chapel Hill to continue their training next fall.

The ECU Medical School has developed and progressed because it has received fair hearing from public officials and accrediting experts who have been involved with it.

Skipper Bowles has been telling us that he would be fair in handling the further development of the school. His thoughts on this report by the three deans show that his promise to be fair is not just empty words. That is impressive to us.

Party Faithful Asheville Bound

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina Democrats go west this weekend in homage to two governors of the past and to rally force for the election of a new one.

Asheville is the rendezvous point for an anticipated 1,200 to 1,500 party faithful for the Vance-Aycock dinner, the big fund-raising affair of the current campaign season.

The event will draw candidates, office-holders, and rank and file Democrats from all over the state to fatten the treasury (at $50 each) and to evaluate the status of the Nov. 7 ballot engagement with the Republicans, now little more than one month away.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Whether the lagging national ticket will affect state races and how followers of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama will vote are among the questions that will be asked in the hallways and lobby of the elegant Grove Park Inn, setting for the two-day program.

Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, heading the state ticket as nominee for governor, will be the dominant figure for the gathering. It will be his team in charge of proceedings from State Chairman James R. Sugg to Dr. Eugene Poston, the main speaker and Bowles' pick as Tar Heel Democratic National Committeeman.

Display For Unity
Unity in the wake of the spring primary will be the centerpiece display. Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, defeated for the nomination, will introduce Bowles to the audience.

Gov. Bob Scott, moved to the political fringes as his administration nears an end, will give the traditional welcome at the banquet. He and Mrs. Scott will host a reception for those attending at the governor's western residence near Asheville.

Chairman Sugg, a New Bern attorney who served in the legislature with Bowles, said his first month on the job has shown him that divisions of the primary have been closed. That will be demonstrated, he added, at the Vance-Aycock dinner.

"I feel like there's real party harmony, more than I anticipated when we started out," he said.

In addition to the Asheville appearance, Taylor has indicated he will be available on the campaign trail, Sugg reported. Those who supported the lieutenant governor in the spring, he added, are active on Bowles's behalf in the fall.

Scott Role Uncertain

Sugg was less specific on the part Gov. Scott will have in the state campaign. What the governor does for the state ticket, he suggested, will be on his own initiative and scheduled through his office rather than party headquarters.

Bowles linked Taylor to Scott in the primary race. Since then, he has continued a distant line with the present administrative. Some of those close to the governor have observed that Bowles is saying more harsh things about the incumbent than Jim Holshouser, the GOP candidate.

Sugg reiterated that the state party will leave to its own devices in North Carolina the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern. That position is understood and acceptable to the McGovern forces, he said.

Direct McGovern Pitch

"We have been told that Sen. McGovern wants to go directly to the people," Sugg said. "We are concentrating our energy for state candidates. So far, there's been no complaints from McGovern forces on the way we're doing things."

At the moment, Sugg conceded, it appears obvious that McGovern cannot carry the state against President Nixon.

"I predict that if McGovern is able to show substantial strength in other states, his stock will rise in North Carolina," he added.

Gov. Scott is serving as state chairman for the McGovern effort, though his role so far has had little public visibility.

Wallace got a majority of votes in the Tar Heel presidential primary last spring, and retains a reservoir of strength among the state's Democrats. Whether those voters will remain loyal to the state ticket in the fall is a question which could have an impact on some races.

The party recognized the Wallace following with the election as a vice chairman of C. J. Hyatt of Winston-Salem, an area coordinator for the Alabama governor in the presidential primary.

Communication with county chairman is high on the agenda for party headquarters under Sugg and the new executive director, Arthur Johnsey. To highlight the aim, Sugg will present a "Chairman of the Year" award to an outstanding county chairman at the Vance-Aycock dinner.

Mapped Fiscal Gulf Of Tonkin

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Dr. Arthur Burns, August chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, spent most of last Tuesday behind closed doors of the House Ways and Means Committee in the highly unusual role of special Presidential lobbyist — a fact partially explaining why Congress may grant President Nixon extraordinary powers to stop the runaway Federal budget.

Burns, the nation's central banker, is not normally engaged in pushing Nixon legislation. But the President's request for a $250 billion spending ceiling in the current fiscal year is not normal legislation, and Burn's advocacy helped enlist the essential support of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, the Ways and Means chairman. With Mills behind it, a big bipartisan majority on the committee was expected this week to approve pretty much what Mr. Nixon wants.

Thus, a White House proposal once given little hope is clearing its first hurdle with a real chance for Congressional passage. With $265 billion already in the appropriations pipeline, Mr. Nixon will have to eliminate a whopping $15 billion. Predictably, he will slice deeply into social welfare programs he feels are bloated anyway.

Such emergency powers would last only one year. After that, Nixon economic strategists hope Congress would reform itself to bring, lethal, runaway spending under control. But worried liberals fear the worst. Rep. James Corman of California, leading liberal Democratic spokesman on Ways and Means, told his colleagues last week that the Nixon spending limit would be "a fiscal Gulf of Tonkin resolution."

When Congress passed the Tonkin resolution in 1964, anti-war liberals were unaware that Lyndon B. Johnson would use it to claim extraordinary war powers in Vietnam. Corman fears an abdication of Congressional budgetary powers may be equally momentous. And although liberals this time are more alarmed than in 1964, they have been taken by surprise once again.

Until last week, liberal Congressmen were quixotically eyeing the bill to renew the national debt ceiling as a vehicle for tax reform. More realistically, a month ago the White House became deadly serious about trying the $250 billion expenditure ceiling to the debt limit.

When first proposed in July, the spending limit seemed a stale political ploy by the President: since Congress surely would not pass it, Congress could be blamed for forcing tax increases in Mr. Nixon's second term to finance excess spending. Since then, however, the spending ceiling has been viewed at the White House as the best way to halt or at least slow down the spending rollercoaster.

The stumbling block seemed to be Chairman Mills, playing Mr. Partisan Democrat in this election year. But Richard Cook, Mr. Nixon's lobbyist in the House, had read Chapter 19 of President Johnson's "Vantage Point" — a detailed account of Mills's efforts to enact spending controls in 1967.

Cook met secretly with Mills and learned of Mills's continuing interest in a spending ceiling — providing it was a firm one without the many exceptions that made it meaningless in 1967. Mr. Nixon then asked Dr. Burns, more respected by Mills than any Administration official, to see the chairman.

In their three-hour conversation, Burns stressed how much a spending limit would bolster the shaky U.S. position in international money markets. At Mills's request, Burns continued his arguments at Tuesday's committee session — pleading for heroic measures against the runaway budget.

That's not all. Dr. Charles (cq) Walker, Under Secretary of the Treasury and the Administration's high-level fiscal lobbyist, has spent two weeks pushing the spending limit. The potent home-building industry, fearful of inflation kicking up mortgage interest rates (Continued on page A-6)

Nothing But The Truth

WASHINGTON — There is no doubt in my mind that the Justice Department has conducted the most thorough investigation into the Watergate bugging affair that was humanly possible. The fact that they were unable to trace any of the money in the case to any higher-ups in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President was good news to all of us who hate to think that any of our political leaders would be involved in such a sordid affair.

Of course there are certain psychological factors at work in such an investigation which no one can control. When the President's own attorney general is asked to look into a scandal in the President's own party, there is always the suspicion that something was covered up.

The person I feel the most sorry for is the poor bureaucrat in the Justice Department who was called into his superior's office one day and told, "Hapless, the President of the United States of America wants you to investigate the Watergate bugging affair and all its ramifications."

"The President wants me to do that?"

"That is correct, Hapless. He has given specific instructions that he wants to leave no stone unturned in his effort to root out the evildoers who would have the audacity to bug the offices of the Democratic National Committee."

"Gosh, that's a big assignment."

"The President of the United States, who happens to be President of all the people as well as the leader of the most powerful country in the world, expects you to treat this as just another case."

"He does?"

"That is correct. He has instructed the attorney general that even if his own political party is involved, and his own close personal friends are to be investigated, and his re-election is at stake, he still wants the truth to be made public at the earliest opportunity."

"Even before Nov. 7?"

"The President is more concerned in the illegal uses of wiretapping and bugging than he is in what happens on Nov. 7. You owe it to the President and the attorney general to see that every bit of evidence in this case is available to the grand jury."

To the Editor:

Recently there was a note on my door saying, "URGENT! . . . We are taking the census for the City Directory. To save us another trip please call (a given number)". I made the call.

The third question asked me, after establishing my last name and address, was one which would have been of valuable assistance to anyone compiling a potential list of places to rob. I refused to answer. When I asked to know the authority behind the interview, I was given a phone number which proved to be a private (non-commercial) one.

The City Clerk informs me that the city is NOT sponsoring any directory. I question strongly the wisdom of giving private information over the phone to unidentified individuals. I question strongly the wisdom of having information valuable to thieves compiled by other than governmental sources.

Census-takers for a legally authorized directory should publicize their arrival beforehand, have an acceptable way of identifying themselves, and do their job in person not by phone. Ruth Lambie

The origin of the name Tar River is unknown. Many writers are inclined to "Taw" as the original and it was often spelled "Tau". How it became Tar is equally unknown but many claim it a corruption of the words "Taw" or "Tau". The county of Pitt was named in honor of William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, who was Prime Minister of England. John Hardee was one of the most prominent men who settled in Pitt County. He came here before the county was formed in what is now the Hardee Creek area. In May 1760, the assembly meeting at New Bern was presented with a petition asking that a division of the county be made. Thus the county Pitt was born.

Strength For Today

PEERING INTO LIFE

The great William Herschel, a medium-grade musician who turned out to be one of the great scientist of all times, declared that seeing is an art "which must be learnt."

How's your capacity for seeing things? Not just how is your eyesight, for if there is any lack there it can be overcome by glasses. But do you or do you not have the capacity really to see what you look at and to peer with penetrating glance into the very core of situations and into the hearts of persons? Discernment is indeed an art. Some people, like Herschel himself and in later generations like Edison, were born with a great capacity for observation. But most of us are equipped only to a mediocre degree in this regard. Penetrating insight is not natural for most of us, but the great thing is that it can be acquired. Whatever latent ability we have along this line can be greatly increased by practice. A person who naturally discerns but little may by discipline and practice become a person who discerns readily. Try to develop the opportunity to see and understand what is going on around about you. There is nothing so interesting as the heart and mind of man. We can look into these great areas with understanding if we train ourselves to do so.

Assumptions Taken As Facts

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Certain assumptions that may not be provable as facts nevertheless become accepted as if they were true by the mass of ordinary individuals and even by their governments.

In this category may be placed the widely accepted assumption that the United States is running the worst rate of inflation of any of the large industrial nations.

Even during the worst of the inflationary period that began in the late 1960s — in February 1970 when the consumer price index briefly reached an increase rate of 6.4 per cent — the claim had to be highly qualified. Now that statement is simply false. Japan, West Germany, France and the United Kingdom, to name a few, reported higher inflation rates than the United States in the second quarter, and in all but West Germany the rate was getting worse.

Prices in Japan rose in the April-May-June quarter at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent, in West Germany at 4.3 per cent, in France at 5.7 per cent and in the United Kingdom at 7.5 per cent. The U.S. rate was 3.3 per cent.

Still, so sharp were foreign charges that the American government mismanaged its economy, that many Americans still retain a feeling of guilt. The standard claim was that the United States exported inflation.

To some degree, this may have been true, because unlike any other nation, the United States has an economy so large, and exports so much of its product, that domestic economic policies have a worldwide economic impact.

But in the past few years the United States has imposed much greater discipline on the economy than had existed in the mid-1960s. Prices have been under controls for close to a year. The dollar has been devalued.

Another claim, this one a forecast repeated so often that it came to be widely accepted as inevitable, was that the stock market, as measured by the Dow-Jones industrial average, was bound to exceed 1,000 points this year.

This forecast was based on evidence that the economy was improving, and that blue chip companies whose shares are included in the average, would be among the chief beneficiaries.

The fact is that these companies have benefited. But their price per share hasn't risen proportionately.

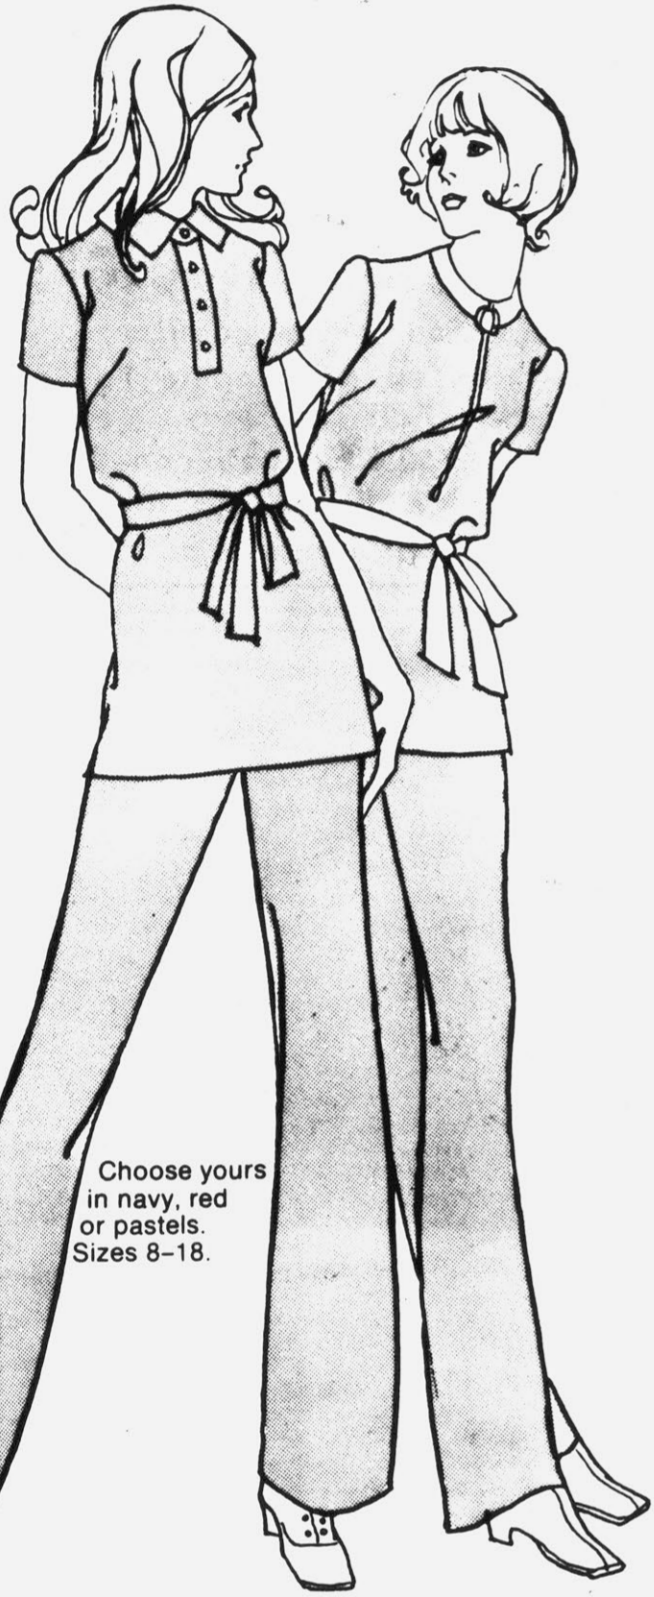

Among the reasons being given: Investors are still afraid that the economic recovery could be untracked by inflation, which might force tight money policies again; political uncertainty; disenchantment of small investors, especially with mutual funds.

Even the optimists aren't talking loudly any more about piercing the 1,000 "barrier." And it is safe to say that those who are still spouting that line have a much smaller audience these days.

Tutorial Reading Program Readied For Third Year

For the third consecutive year, city school administrators, county mental health officials, and interested persons will be participating in a tutorial reading program for elementary and junior high students in the Greenville City Schools, sponsored jointly by the Pitt County Mental Health Association and the Greenville City Schools.

Meeting Monday afternoon to discuss details for the ongoing program, a planning committee outlined plans for the third annual October to May tutorial program.

Dr. Karla Nelson, coordinator for the program in the elementary grades; Mrs. David J. Whichard II, coordinator for the program in secondary grades; and Mrs. Joseph M. LeConte, Executive Director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, met on Monday with three school administrators — Mrs. Ann Harrison, Coordinator of Programs and Services for Exceptional Children in the Greenville City Schools; Mrs. Audrey Whitehurst, Director of Secondary Education, Greenville City Schools, and Charles Ross, Director of Elementary Education, Greenville City Schools, and Charles Ross, Director of Elementary Education, Greenville Elementary Schools.

The panel announced that letters to parents of school children were to be sent out Monday and Tuesday, setting forth details about the program.

Speaking of past achievements of the tutorial reading program, Mrs. Harrison commented: "Over 75 percent of the children made gains in the year or more that they have been participating in the program. Another effect "and an important one, is the change in attitude reflected by these children and a consequent improvement in classroom attendance."

One basic reason, emphasized by all the panel members for the success of the program, lies in the ratio of volunteers to assist students enrolled in the tutorial program.

"We are striving for individualization," Mrs. Whichard said, "and the more volunteers we have, means we will be more nearly able to have a one-to-one ratio."

Mrs. Harrison said that last year between 85 and 100 mothers offered their services. "With between one and two hundred children in the program," she commented, "we were able to provide a great degree of individual assistance."

As in the past, plans are to concentrate primarily on assistance to first and second graders and to seventh and eighth graders.

Mrs. Audrey Whitehurst said it was at these levels "that assistance is most critical."

"This does not mean, however," Mrs. Le Conte pointed out, "that the in between grades will be neglected."

Ross said that the program is based on accepted linguistic approaches, with specific material available to help those working in the program.

Dr. Nelson stated that again this year Dr. Patricia Daniels, assistant professor of the School of Education, East Carolina University, would be on hand for the organizational meeting is scheduled for 10:00 a.m. on October 3 at Wahl-Coates Elementary School in the school's auditorium.

Also in the plans are workshop sessions to give in-service training to volunteer assistants for the tutorial program. These will be conducted periodically as the need arises.

Mrs. Whichard mentioned that "Greenville citizens, whether or not they are parents receiving letters who may wish to contribute their services are invited to participate in the program."

Letters sent out Monday and Tuesday to parents of school children include a request that letters be returned to the schools by September 29.

In order to assist persons who may have questions about the program, each school has had a "contact mother" named to be ready to answer questions on the program. The names of these persons and the schools they represent are:

 Elmhurst: Mrs. C. H. Rand,
 Wahl-Coates: Mrs. W. B. Cherry III, Sadie Saulter; Mrs. James H. Trotman, Eastern Mrs. Charles Ross, South Greenville; Mrs. Roy Berbert, Third Street; Mrs. John Foell, Aycock; Mrs. Guy McClanahan.

Radio Star Of Yesteryear Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — "Howdy Amos . . . Howdy Andy" — for 32 years those familiar words opened a radio show that captivated millions of Americans.

For addicts of the "Amos and Andy Show," there were also the Kingfish, and Sapphire and Madam Queen. And there were the Beauty Parlor and the Fresh Air Taxicab Co.

But it was the Negro dialect of two white men, Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden, which drew Americans to their sets week in and week out after the show went on network radio in 1929.

On Tuesday, the deep voice of Correll was silenced by death. Four days after he entered Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital in the wake of a heart attack, Correll died. He was 82.

Born in Peoria, Ill., Correll retired in 1960 and lived in Beverly Hills, Calif., a few blocks from Gosden, now 67.

Correll and Gosden met in 1919 as fellow members of an amateur theatrical group touring the South.

They formed a two-man team and toured tent shows in the South, sometimes singing duets.

In 1926, Correll and Gosden started a blackface minstrel show on Chicago's WGN which they called "Sam 'n' Henry."

When they changed stations in 1928 they had to find a new name for their act because of the WGN contract.

On an elevator ride to their first broadcast they overheard a man greet two other men as "Handy Andy" and "Famous Amos." Their search for a new name ended.

The show went coast-to-coast on Aug. 18, 1929, and the Amos and Andy Show soon became the most popular in the country.

Restaurants frequently boosted the volume of their radio sets when the show came on, to satisfy their customers. Motion pictures often were cut at mid-reel so audiences could tune in on the doings of Amos and Andy.

In 1960, with television taking more and more of the audience, Amos and Andy left the air.

Negro actors were chosen in 1950 to portray Amos and Andy in the television version of the radio show.

Correll is survived by his widow, Alyce, and four children. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Opera Tryouts Are Scheduled For Next Week

Auditions for Puccini's opera LA BOHEME will be held next Monday from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. and again on Wednesday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall located in the Music Building on the ECU campus.

The opera will be produced jointly by the East Carolina Playhouse and the School of Music in January, 1973.

One of the most famous operas ever written, LA BOHEME offers major roles for eight men and two women, as well as a large chorus. The production will be directed by Michael Hardy of the drama department and conducted by Robert Hause from the School of Music.

The auditions are open to anyone who is interested, although some previous singing experience is expected. Those trying out should bring their own music; a piano accompanist will be provided.

 again, was recruited to lend a hand. Congressmen were told the White House would rather have no bill than a "rubber" bill loaded with exceptions.

Against this attack, liberals are at a disadvantage. Privately, they feel a tax increase is not only inevitable but desirable to finance expanded spending programs. But in a society grown hostile to government, Congressmen hesitate to openly and vigorously oppose a spending limit.

Whether this spending limit would permit Mr. Nixon to fulfill his dubious pledge of no second-term tax increase is questionable. But if the limit buys a year in which Congress can begin to control spending, there is a chance that Mr. Nixon's pledge would be more than just another broken campaign promise.

Invite Bids On Chicod Creek Watershed Work

Sponsors of the Chicod Creek Watershed have mailed invitations to bid for construction of the project, according to Bobby Stokes, chairman of Drainage District No. 9.

Bids will be opened on Oct. 26 at 2 p.m. in the district courtroom of the Pitt County Court House.

The project will involve stream channel improvement, fish and wildlife mitigation, and pollution abatement measures.

The Chicod Creek Watershed covers 29,625 acres in Pitt County and 5,475 in Beaufort County.

The project is sponsored by Beaufort Soil and Water Conservation District, Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District, Pitt County Commissioners and Pitt County Drainage District No. 9.

The estimated price range for the work is $750,000 to $950,000. This is the second time that bids have been sought for the project. In November, 1971, the estimated price range of the same project was $550,000 to $676,000.

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of American warplanes battered North Vietnam Tuesday, striking the heaviest blows at the big Yen Bai air base midway between Hanoi and the Chinese border and knocking out two MIG21 fighters on the ground, the U.S. Command announced today.

North Vietnam reported that it suffered heavy civilian casualties and extensive damage in the raids Tuesday and claimed they ranged from the demilitarized zone northward to the Chinese border.

A broadcast by Radio Hanoi said there were several hundred civilian casualties, that bombs hit two schools in Hoa Binh and Nghe An provinces south of Hanoi, and that many homes were destroyed or damaged.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command declined comment on the North Vietnamese charges, as has been the practice of the command.

A communique from the U.S. Command said more than 300 tactical strikes were carried out across North Vietnam on Tuesday, and many of them were both to the south and north of Hanoi. Other main targets included military barracks and supply depots, the command said.

There were no planes reported lost in North Vietnam, but in South Vietnam a Navy F8 taking off on a mission from Da Nang crashed after a mechanical failure, killing the pilot, spokesmen said.

For the second successive day, U.S. B52 bombing raids across South Vietnam were curtailed to less than half of the normal 100 strikes every 24 hours.

Instead, the bombers were again diverted across the border into eastern Cambodia to attack North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps. Reports said as many as 50 B52 bombers struck in Cambodia in efforts to forestall a new wave of attacks anticipated in South Vietnam's 3rd Military Region. This region includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces. The U.S. Command can spare the B52 strikes for Cambodia because of the low level of fighting in South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces, however, kept up their harassing attacks along South Vietnam's northern coast.

The main north-south Highway 1 just above Da Nang was closed for the second successive day after saboteurs blew up two more culverts. One had been blown up Tuesday and repaired.

Seventy-five miles south of Da Nang, government forces reopened a 15-mile stretch of Highway 1 from Quang Ngai City to the district town of Mo Duc, according to Col. Tran Van Nhat, commander of the 2nd Infantry Division.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of cutting off the money for U.S. participation in the Vietnam war are ready to give up for the year after suffering a reversal in the Senate.
"The next vote comes on Nov. 7 when the people will decide," Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said after the Senate voted 45 to 42 Tuesday to strip an "end-the-war" amendment from the foreign-military-aid authorization bill.
Cranston, a leader of Democratic antiwar strategists in the Senate, told a reporter he referred to congressional elections as well as the presidential election.

The Senate tally reversed two previous roll calls by which the Senate voted 50 to 44 on July 24 and 49 to 47 on Aug. 2 to adopt similar amendments to cut off funds for U.S. military operations in Indochina in four months, conditioned on release of American prisoners of war by North Vietnam.
Cranston attributed the reversal to absenteeism. Six antiwar members and four opponents of the fund cut off weren't there.
The only switch from the previous vote was Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who voted Tuesday for the motion by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., to strike the troop-withdrawal requirement from the bill.
Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Senate he believes President Nixon has been doing all he can as "head of a self-respecting nation" to bring the Vietnam war to an end.
After removing the "end-the-war" amendment, the Senate passed the bill 46 to 41. The Senate had defeated a similar bill 48 to 42 on July 24 on July 24 with the war-end provision attached.

The bill would authorize $1.82 billion in assistance to 64 countries, $431 million less than requested by the Nixon administration and $311 million less than voted earlier by the House.
An amendment by Republican Leader Hugh Scott to increase the total from the $1.55 billion recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was approved by a 56-32 Senate vote.
The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference to adjust differences.

The Senate tally reversed two previous roll calls by which the Senate voted 50 to 44 on July 24 and 49 to 47 on Aug. 2 to adopt similar amendments to cut off funds for U.S. military operations in Indochina in four months, conditioned on release of American prisoners of war by North Vietnam.
Cranston attributed the reversal to absenteeism. Six antiwar members and four opponents of the fund cut off weren't there.
The only switch from the previous vote was Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who voted Tuesday for the motion by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., to strike the troop-withdrawal requirement from the bill.
Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Senate he believes President Nixon has been doing all he can as "head of a self-respecting nation" to bring the Vietnam war to an end.
After removing the "end-the-war" amendment, the Senate passed the bill 46 to 41. The Senate had defeated a similar bill 48 to 42 on July 24 on July 24 with the war-end provision attached.

The bill would authorize $1.82 billion in assistance to 64 countries, $431 million less than requested by the Nixon administration and $311 million less than voted earlier by the House.
An amendment by Republican Leader Hugh Scott to increase the total from the $1.55 billion recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was approved by a 56-32 Senate vote.
The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference to adjust differences.

Journalist Says Candidates' Background Outweighs Words

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer
Journalist Hugh Sidey contended here last night that it is more important to know and understand the backgrounds of presidential candidates than to make our judgments on what they say.

Sidey, who has covered and worked closely with Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon, told a Wright Auditorium audience that this is not a time for a weak man to be president and urged the public to "think long and hard" about the men who are seeking the presidency.

Acknowledging that there is much that he agrees with in Democratic candidate George McGovern's policies, he added, however that one of the biggest problems the candidate faces is the "inability to run himself and his people."

He suggested that polls are snapshots and he would not "begin to guess how this will come out" but he said that the mass of evidence suggests that McGovern has a "tough goal and indeed, it may be too late for him now," Sidey said that the campaign appears to involve one man running against a government.

Sidey said that the presidency "is a great job and they love it," in spite of the increased threat to the lives of the men who seek it. For those men who pursue power, he contended, it is a magnificent job.

Kennedy, the speaker recalled, remarked about the job during his tenure that "he could walk home to lunch and the pay is pretty good." Sidey asserted that the job has made Nixon healthier than he was before taking office and suggested that the reason Harry Truman has lived so long is because of the magic of the White House.

Sidey, currently bureau chief for Time Inc. in Washington, D.C., dug into his memory to discuss and compare the four presidents he has covered.

Eisenhower, he said, was misjudged by the public. "He wasn't all that interested in the presidency. He wasn't a great politician. He didn't examine things that closely or get involved in party matters or even legislative matters."

"But there is something else about Eisenhower that we have come to appreciate after he left and that is his character. Dwight Eisenhower was sincere, he was honest. He was, in the classic sense, a good man," Sidey continued.

He was a sincere man, he came across, Sidey remarked of Eisenhower.

Kennedy, he offered, made a lot of sense and Sidey "liked him very much." The president was a "friend of mine, knew him personally, my age, so I guess I am just prejudiced about John Kennedy..."

Sidey noted that he felt Kennedy's strong point was his sense of history "and it paid off finally in...1962 when we had the Cuban crisis. 'He read deeply and he may have even been an intellectual, we are not sure about that.'"

Kennedy realized that it was his job to communicate with the people, Sidey said, and he strived to convince the people that he meant what he was saying and wanted to understand what they were saying.

Johnson, he continued, had a totally different sense of history and was "the most awesome, frightening, yet endearing, man that I have ever covered in Washington."

"I suspect that it may have been a disaster if he had been in the White House another four years," Sidey said.

Johnson learned his craftmanship in politics from Franklin Roosevelt and when Johnson entered to the White House he never ceased to be the legislator, Sidey added.

The speaker said that he felt Johnson was a victim of the "Alamo syndrome" that dictates that "Texans are not defeated."

Nixon is a totally different person, Sidey said, having no past like Johnson's and few monuments in his honor. "He is a carefully organized lawyer not wedded to any one thing," Sidey asserted.

He contended that Nixon is "not a great scholar" and possibly has a "single track mind." The president does not like domestic matters and is "not that good at it."

He said that possibly the turning point in Nixon's campaign came earlier this year when he made the decision to mine the harbors in Haiphong. It showed, Sidey said, that we had a man who would stand up and make a decision and who understood what he was doing. "It gave him credibility across the board in both domestic and foreign matters," he said.

Sidey's coverage of the White House has resulted in the publication of two books, "John F. Kennedy, President," and "A Very Personal Presidency: Lyndon Johnson in the White House."

He completed his formal education at Iowa State College and began a journalistic migration to Washington, D.C.

Pedestrians Are Injured

Four pedestrians were injured last night when struck by a car at the intersection of Pitt and Howell Streets according to Greenville police investigators. Officers said a car driven by Edward Langley, 34 of Washington, D.C. struck three pedestrians when the three allegedly stepped from the curb into the path of his car.

The Langley car stopped, passengers in the car jumped out and ran to the three injured to render aid, and Langley started backing his car to the site of the mishap.

As the Langley auto traveled backward, investigators reported, the vehicle struck a fourth person who was running from a nearby home to the three pedestrians.

No charges were made in the 10:14 p.m. incident. The four pedestrians reported injured were identified as William Tucker, 59 of 403 Wyatt St.; Theodore R. Borwn, 66 of 415 South Railroad St.; Fountain Bumpers, 63, of Route 2, Greenville and Annie Dixon, 73 of 1619 South Pitt St.

Both Drivers In Mishap Charged

Both drivers involved in an 11:05 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road were charged in connection with the collision, according to police department investigators.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Linda Adams Stallings, 21 of Route 8, Greenville and Carl Willie Roberson, 27 of Route 2, Robersonville.

Damage to the Stallings car was placed at $400 while damage to the Roberson car was set at $900.

Mrs. Stallings was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety while Roberson was cited for failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Two Winterville residents have been arrested by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said deputies, accompanied by Winterville police, arrested Alvin Richard White, 18 and his wife, Deborah Street White, 17, last night in Winterville. They listed a Box 733, Winterville address.

The sheriff noted that officers confiscated approximately one-half pound of marijuana.

Bond for each person was set at $2,500, he reported, and a hearing has been scheduled for Oct. 30 in District Court here.

Battles For Lead And For The Cellar

Two of the three unbeaten teams in the Eastern Carolina Conference go against each other this weekend, as the logjam atop the loop slowly begins to dissolve.

The two are Ayden-Grifton and Eastern Wayne, both unbeaten against conference competition. Eastern Wayne has lost only once, outside the league, to strong 4-A power Goldsboro. The A-G Chargers are unbeaten.

Two of the three winless teams in the league, North Pitt and Farmville Central, meet each other, and the crowd in the cellar should be somewhat smaller after that game.

Elsewhere in the league, D. H. Conley travels to Greene Central, among local games.

Ayden-Grifton, Eastern Wayne and Southern Nash currently lead the conference with 3-0 records, while Greene Central and North Lenoir are hot on their heels with 2-1 marks.

North Pitt, Farmville Central and Charles B. Aycock are all mired in the basement with 0-3 marks, while Conley and Southern Wayne are just a step ahead with 1-2 records.

Either North Pitt or Farmville Central will probably crawl out of the cellar this weekend, barring a tie. And either Ayden-Grifton or Eastern Wayne will drop off the top.

North Pitt's Danny Wilmer felt his Panthers just ran into a much better team when they met Southern Nash and were demolished by them Friday. "Not having a feeder program is really a problem for us," Wilmer said. "We just don't have any experience coming into our program, and we have to teach them from scratch. By the time we learn, the other teams are far ahead of us in preparation."

There were some bright spots in the game, however. Clarence Mooring ran for 119 yards, "and he got every bit of it all by himself," Wilmer added. Quarterback Ben Johnson tossed for over 100 yards.

"Southern Nash was flat at the start of the game and it gave us a real opportunity," Wilmer said. "But we were just as flat, and that killed us."

This week, against Farmville Central, Wilmer looks for another tough game. "They are a very underrated team," he said of the Jaguars. "They have made a lot of mistakes and it's hurt them, but they're a young club, too. We need to generate some spirit if we're going to win this one, and we certainly have a chance to."

Farmville Central's Gene Brewer, whose Jaguars barely lost to Ayden-Grifton last week, 14-13, felt that his team continues to show improvement, but that mistakes continue to cost them. "We're improved in some areas, but we're not in others," he said.

"We're still making mistakes, and when we stop these, we'll start winning. We were inside the 30 a number of times against (Ayden-Grifton) and we only scored twice. Mistakes just stopped us."

Brewer did feel that Lee Johnson, Mickey Fields, and Chuck Finklea played well on defense, and that Keith Langley did a good job going both ways. "North Pitt is a right much improved team," Brewer said. "They are doing a lot of things they couldn't do last year, and they're ahead of what I expected of them. They have two good running backs and they can throw the ball well, too."

Conley, in taking on Greene Central feels it could be running in a buzz saw. The Rams were devastating in their win over Aycock last week, while Conley had a tough battle winning against winless West Craven outside the conference.

"I think we tended to be a little overconfident," Viking Coach Ken Treadway said. "They came at us hard and scored on their second series. I think this finally brought us to our senses, but we had another letdown early in the second half. We were real fortunate to get out of there alive."

Treadway praised Willie Hawkins, Alton Nicholson, Vic Corey and Stencil Hines for their play against West Craven. "Greene Central has one heck of a ball club," Treadway said of this week's road opponent. "They really capitalize on your mistakes."

"They are a little bigger on offense than we are, and their line really fires out well. They are good both passing and running. The defense also comes at you hard. They're a well-rounded club and we'll certainly have our hands full."

Ayden-Grifton Coach Mike Overton termed last week's slim win over Farmville Central, "a miserable night."

"We made so many mistakes, it's a wonder we won," he said. "But we have young boys who make young mistakes. We just stopped ourselves on several occasions."

At the same time it has praise for Farmville. "They are a better team than their record indicates. They're going to beat a lot of people before it's over."

Tony Koonce led the A-G offense, picking up 215 yards rushing. Greg Nelson added 118 yards. Top rusher Willie Stewart is still on the injured list and probably will miss this weekend's game.

"Eastern Wayne is a very tough team," Overton said. "They're unbeaten in the conference, as we are. Their game is built around their quarterback, Robbie Price, and we've got to contain him if we are to win."

Price and his favorite receiver Bobby Body have wrecked the three conference teams they've played so far, and Overton feels that they will be the key to the outcome this Friday.

Littler Returns To Golf Circuit

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gene Littler, with 18 years of professional experience, is golf's fifth all-time money winner and a former U.S. Open champion. But when he returns to the pro circuit next week, he says, "It will be like starting all over again."

"I think it will be hard to play for a little while. I'll be nervous," the winner of 25 pro tournaments says. "People will be watching me to see if I can play, and it will be difficult answering all the questions."

The stares and the queries all will deal with the same subject: how someone returns to professional golf after undergoing two operations six months ago for removal of a malignant cancer tumor under the left arm.

At the time of surgery, doctors refused to speculate on whether the 41-year-old athlete would ever swing a golf club again—much less play professionally. He beat the tumor but for a while afterwards was unable to raise his left arm above his waist.

But Littler worked fulltime at building up the weakened muscles and started playing a few holes in June. Now he says he's ready to rejoin his fellow pros at the $300,000 Pacific Club masters tournament in Tokyo Oct. 5.

Wilt May Try Jump

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Superstar Wilt Chamberlain is considering leaving the NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers to sign with the new San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association, a newspaper reported here today.

Leonard Bloom, owner of the Conquistadors, has visited the 7-foot-1 center and discussed the move with him, the San Diego Union said. Neither Bloom nor general manager Alex Groza would deny that negotiations are under way, the paper said.

Chamberlain has not yet signed to play for the Lakers this year and the Union said his attorney "is trying to find a loophole in his contract."

The newspaper quoted a source as saying Chamberlain may sit out the coming season and do radio commentary and public relations for the Conquistadors if he and Bloom can reach agreement.

The Conquistadors are the newest ABA franchise and this will be their first season.

Blass Collects 19th; Not Worried About 20

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Roberto Clemente would dearly love to get his 3,000th major league hit in Pittsburgh. But the Pirates' Steve Blass isn't too concerned where he gets his 20th victory—or, for that matter, whether he gets it at all.

"Either I do or I don't," Blass said Tuesday night after winning his 19th of the baseball season, scattering eight Philadelphia hits as the Pirates beat the Phillies 5-1.

"I certainly want 20," added Blass, who would become the first Pittsburgh hurler to reach that plateau since Vernon Law did it in 1960. "But I'm not going to worry about it."

Blass will have one more regular-season start, then he'll rest until the start of the National League playoffs against Cincinnati.

It's likely that the 30-year-old right-hander will open the best-of-five playoff Oct. 7 against the Reds' Don Gullett.

But unlike Blass, Gullett had his problems Tuesday night. The Atlanta Braves ripped him for seven runs in six innings and handed him his 10th loss in 18 decisions en route to a 10-9 victory over Cincinnati.

In other National League games, the New York Mets downed St. Louis 3-1, the Chicago Cubs blanked Montreal 6-0, San Francisco defeated Houston 5-2 and Los Angeles beat San Diego 7-3.

In the American League, Milwaukee topped Boston 6-4, Cleveland edged Baltimore 3-2, California clipped Texas 2-1, and Kansas City nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1. Minnesota's twinight doubleheader at Oakland was rained out.

Clemente picked up a pair of singles against the Phillies to raise his major league hit total to 2,996, putting him just four short of a lofty mark reached by only eight other players in the history of the game.

Pittsburgh has two more games in Philadelphia before returning home to face New York and Pirates Manager Bill Virdon announced right after that game that, if Clemente reached 2,999, he'd be benched until the start of the series with the Mets.

"We'd like him to get 3,000 at home," Virdon said—and Clemente echoed the sentiment.

"That's what I want," Roberto said. "I play all my life in Pittsburgh. I'd like to get my big hit there."

The Bucs bunched all their runs against the Phils in the sixth inning. Al Oliver doubled in two, Manny Sanguillen singled for two more and Blass singled for the final run.

Ralph Garr, Dusty Baker and Earl Williams drove in two runs apiece for the Braves, who battered Gullett and two relievers for 13 hits. The decisive run, however, came in the top of the ninth inning on Larvell Blanks' sacrifice fly.

Baker hit his 17th homer while Hank Aaron hit his 32nd, the 671st of his career, putting him 43 short of Babe Ruth's all-time record. Those homers countered two by the Reds' Johnny Bench, who leads the majors with 39 homers and 121 runs batted in. Pete Rose added three RBI to Bench's four in the game as Cincinnati stroked 14 hits.

Jerry Koozman of the Mets had a no-hitter for 6 1/3 innings. But when he gave up a ninth-inning homer to Ted Simmons and then a single, Tug McGraw came on to get the final out and his 25th save.

Ed Kranepool and Wayne Garrett singled home New York runs and Ken Boswell hit a sacrifice fly for another one.

The Cubs remained 4 1/2 games ahead of the third-place Mets in the East as Milt Pappas twirled a four-hitter against the Expos for his 16th victory of the year and 10th in a row.

Billy Williams singled home one run and Glenn Beckert singled for two more in Chicago's four-run third inning, then Williams cracked his 35th homer, a two-run shot, in the fourth.

The Giants wiped out a two-run Houston lead with a four-run fifth and Bobby Bonds drilled his 24th homer in the seventh to give the victory to Sam McDowell, who surrendered Bob Watson's 15th homer in the second inning.

That left the Astros, second in the West, just one game ahead of the Dodgers, who got two-run homers from rookies Ron Cey and Joe Ferguson that provided Mike Strahler with his first complete game in the majors and his first victory of the season, an eight-hitter against the Padres.

Boston, Baltimore Both Beaten

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
George Scott helped the Boston Red Sox win a pennant in 1967 and could help them lose one in 1972.

The former Boston slugger, dealt to the Milwaukee Brewers last winter, returned to haunt the Red Sox Tuesday night in the midst of their tension-filled American League East baseball race.

"If I say I'm not fired up playing here, I'd be telling a lie," Scott said after hitting a two-run homer at Fenway Park that led the Brewers to a significant 6-4 triumph over Boston. "After all, I played here for six years and I have a lot of friends here."

The defeat cut Boston's lead in the East to a mere half game over the Detroit Tigers and kept the four-team race in an extremely nervous state.

The Tigers and New York Yankees, both idle Tuesday night, gained ground on the Red Sox. The Yankees moved within 2 1/2 games of Boston and are tied with the Baltimore Orioles, who lost 3-2 to the Cleveland Indians.

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals stopped the Chicago White Sox 2-1 and the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 2-1. Rain washed out a twinight doubleheader between the Minnesota Twins and Oakland A's.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 5, Philadelphia 1; Chicago 6, Montreal 0; Atlanta 10, Cincinnati 9; San Francisco 5, Houston 2; New York 3, St. Louis 1 and Los Angeles 7, San Diego 3.

The Red Sox were unable to hold a 4-0 lead built on early two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and pitcher Marty Pattin. The Brewers finally caught up in the eighth after getting a run in the fifth on Johnny Briggs' homer and one in the sixth on Ellie Rodriguez' run-scoring hit.

Brock Davis touched off Milwaukee's winning rally with a bunt single and eventually came around with the first run on Rodriguez' sacrifice fly. Joe Lahoud then reached base on Yastrzemski's error at first base and Scott promptly put Pattin's pitch into the seats.

Chris Chambliss and Ray Fosse hit consecutive home runs in the fourth inning to lead Cleveland over Baltimore, dealing the Orioles their 32nd one-run defeat of the year.

Chambliss also singled home a Cleveland run in the sixth.

The Orioles scored a run in the fifth on singles by Johnny Oates and Don Buford and a sacrifice fly by Bobby Grich, then scored their second run on Oates' ninth-inning homer.

Steve Busby pitched a five-hitter and Ed Kirkpatrick slammed a home run as Kansas City beat Chicago and dropped the White Sox four games behind the A's. The defeat lowered Oakland's pennant-winning magic number to four in the West.

Rookie Billy Parker hit a home run and Andy Messersmith fired a three-hitter to lead California over Texas. Parker's homer came off Mike Paul in the second inning. The Angels added the eventual winning run in the sixth when Lee Stanton scored on third baseman Jim Mason's throwing error.

Foster KO's English Foe

By ALAN GAYFER
LONDON (AP) — With sweat still dripping from his brow after his successful light heavyweight title defense Tuesday night against Chris Finnegan of England, champion Bob Foster pencilled in his next two dates which could be in the same ring.

The first, yet to be finalized, will be against Muhammad Ali over 12 rounds in November. The second will be a return against the left-handed Finnegan, "who gave me my hardest title fight ever," as Foster admitted later in his dressing room.

London promoter Jarvis Asaire was confident Tuesday of getting the fight with Ali for the same Wembley ring, with satellite television screening for the United States.

But Robert Arum, the lawyer who looks after Ali's interests, thought Las Vegas or Detroit might get the fight.

Foster, 33, had a hard fight for his $109,000 purse against the 28-year old British, Commonwealth and European champion.

"He was tough, brave, and a good boxer, and a left-hander as well," said a weary Foster. "He went 14 tough rounds with me, and that's gotta be the best."

Finnegan, Olympic gold medalist as a middleweight at the 1968 Games in Mexico City, had been given little chance against the hard-hitting champion, making the 11th defense of his title.

"But he hurt me with a shot to the body," said Foster. "I kept forgetting he was a left-hander. I'm glad he couldn't punch as hard as I can punch."

Will Power Technology Is Suggested

By DUSTON HARVEY STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Overweight? Unable to break the smoking habit? Convinced by past failures that you don't have the will power to change? There's still hope, according to a pair of sympathetic Stanford University researchers, Dr. Carl E. Thoreson and Michael J. Mahoney.

"All too many efforts at self-regulation follow this pattern," the research team says, adding that the circular definition of will power fails to explain why some people have it and some don't, nor does it help those who don't.

"The person who demonstrates self-control by resisting major temptation, such as the heavy smoker who quits cold turkey, is often described as having will power," they said in a research report.

"How do we know he has will power? Well, he quit smoking, didn't he? Observing a self-regulative behavior, inferring will power, and then using the latter to 'explain' the former is an all too frequent journey in discussions of self-control. It does not take us beyond the behavior to be explained."

Will Power Technology—Thoreson and Mahoney have some advice on creating a "technology" of self-control, along lines suggested 2,500 years ago in Homer's "Odyssey."

"To manage the bewitching effects of the Sirens, Odysseus had his oarsmen fill their ears with beeswax," their report noted. "To manage himself he commanded his men to tie him to the mast after warning them not to release him under any circumstances."

"Instead of beseeching the gods for aid or admonishing himself to exercise his will power, Odysseus altered some important environmental factors."

The researchers suggested that effective, durable methods of self-control can be established if attention is given to the relationships between the person and his environment. Evidence is mounting that a technology of self-control can be created, they said.

"The acquisition of these self-control skills is dependent on the person's ability to identify patterns and causes in the behaviors to be regulated—to pick out cues or events that frequently precede overeating, for example, or to notice the consequences that often follow smoking," they said.

Their preliminary research showed three major approaches to self-regulation—one of which was present in every successful attempt.

"The first strategy is simply self-observation... a kind of behavioral sensitivity training" in which the person records his actions to check up on himself and evaluate his progress with the use of golf counters, diaries or wall charts.

In one study, an adolescent girl concerned about doing better work in a history class was asked to observe and record her study habits. In one week, she increased studying from about 30 to 80 per cent of the available time.

A second method involves changing one's environment so the cues preceding a behavior or its immediate consequences are changed.

"Avoiding cigarette machines, buying only dietetic snacks, and carrying only minimal amounts of money are effective ways of controlling smoking, overeating and over-spending," Thoreson and Mahoney said.

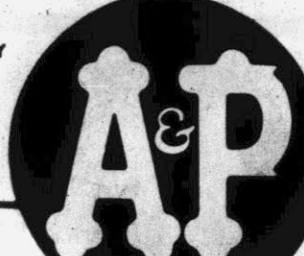

They cited a study on smoking reduction in which smokers were asked to record their daily rate. The average time between cigarettes was computed and the person asked to wear a portable timer which buzzed whenever the average period had elapsed. The smoker was instructed to smoke only when the timer buzzed.

"By establishing this new environmental cue to smoking, previous cueing situations, such as the completion of a meal, a conversation with a friend, or a stress experience, were displaced. Gradually, the interval between cigarettes was increased until the frequency of smoking was greatly reduced."

The third technique was altering the consequences of behavior—either internally by self-praise or criticism or externally by special privileges (a favorite TV show), tangible rewards (clothing), private contracts ("If I do this, then I get that") and physical reminders.

If you don't have will power, don't worry. You can learn it.

SAVORY VEAL BALLS

1 pound ground veal

1-3 cup butter, melted

1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind

1 1/2 tablespoons water

1 teaspoon salt

Dash of pepper

1 egg, beaten

2-3 cup fine dry bread crumbs

2 tablespoons butter

1 jar (16 ounces) spaghetti sauce with mushrooms

1/2 cup commercial sour cream

Minced parsley

Combine veal, 1-3 cup butter, lemon rind, water, salt and pepper; shape into 12 balls. Dip Marjorie P. Blanchard (Citaldel).

1 1/2 cups unsifted flour

1/4 teaspoon baking soda

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 cup butter

1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1/2 cup granulated sugar

1 egg

1 tablespoon grated orange rind

2 tablespoons orange juice

1/2 cup chopped (medium fine) pecans

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugars; beat in egg and rind. Stir in flour mixture and orange juice, then nuts. Refrigerate for 30 to 60 minutes. Drop small amounts of batter (1/2 of a level tablespoon) about 2 inches apart on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until browned around edges—6 to 8 minutes. Remove with a wide metal spatula to wire racks to cool. Makes about 8 dozen.

When you are heating a loaf of French or Italian bread, wrap it in foil but leave the ends open. The open ends of the package will help the bread to crisp.

Opening lead: Four of ♣
An interesting defensive problem arose for West when today's hand was dealt in a recent team-of-four match. The final contract at both tables was three no trump.

South opened the bidding with one club and West overcalled with one spade. North and East passed and now South had a problem. A reopening double was not an appealing recourse despite his holding 19 high card points because of the singleton heart, which is the suit partner is most likely to bid. A jump to three clubs was an alternative, but the best chance for game appeared to lie in a nine trick contract and with two spade stoppers, South decided that a jump to two no trump—despite the lack of a diamond stopper—would offer partner the best inducement on how to carry on if he had anything. Holding seven points, North had ample to raise to three no trump.

Since the bidding clearly indicated that a spade lead would probably be into the ace-queen, West opened the four of hearts at both tables and East's eight dislodged declarer's ace. The ace and king of clubs were cashed, but when West showed out on the second round, discarding a spade, declarer abandoned the suit temporarily to lead a small spade in an attempt to reach dummy.

It would not have availed West to duck, for after North's jack of spades wins the trick, the king and queen of hearts are cashed. A club lead from dummy allows South to finesse the ten, pick up the jack with his queen and then cash the long club and the ace of spades for 10 tricks—two spades, three hearts, and five clubs.

Both Wests put up the king of spades and the crucial moment had arrived. One West chose to exit with the jack of hearts and South took 11 tricks, giving up a diamond at the end.

At the other table, West paused to assess the situation. If declarer held the missing spades, as appeared likely, he could take three spades and three hearts in addition to the two clubs previously scored. If South also has the ace of diamonds, then that card will score his ninth trick. If, by some chance, the latter has more strength in clubs not yet showing but lacks the ace of diamonds, then failure to shift to a diamond will hand declarer his contract.

Reasoning that he had everything to gain, and at worst—an overtrick to lose by shifting—West led back the king of diamonds on which his partner gave him an enthusiastic come-on with the eight. West continued with the queen and a small diamond to East's ace, and the latter then cashed the setting trick with the six of diamonds.

Jack Anderson Talks Monday

Called a "muckraker in the true sense of the word," Jack Anderson, author of the Washington Merry-Go-Round column, syndicated in 700 newspapers, is coming to Greenville on Monday as the second of the six man lecture team appearing in the 1972-73 Lecture Series at ECU.

Anderson will be at Wright Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Monday to talk about his column and the purpose behind it, which he states "is to expose and oppose."

For 26 years Anderson has been writing for the column—first as junior partner for Drew Pearson, and since Pearson's death three years ago—as the column's regular writer.

Exposés by Pearson and Anderson have been credited in helping convict three congressmen for kickbacks; the resignation of Eisenhower aide Sherman Adams; and for discrediting the late Senator Thomas J. Dodd for mixing private and public funds.

Anderson has been struggling to overcome a reputation for inaccuracy and oversimplification that has plagued the column since it began 35 years ago.

In January, 1972, Jack Anderson became the most quoted source in Washington after he released secret government documents on the U.S. role in the India-Pakistan war and by asserting that the Nixon administration "lied" in saying that Washington was neutral in the conflict.

It has been said that Anderson lives on secret documents, and that his column thrives on inside reports of high-level discussion, as well as intimate glimpses of public figures in off moments. Admission to Monday's lecture for the general public is $2.00 or by season subscription. Groups of 20 or more persons can secure tickets at $1.50 per person for this lecture.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although the early part of the day can be utilized to advantage by a calm, steady and cheerful approach to your goals and aims, the afternoon and evening find you all too apt to be in an argumentative frame of mind which could cause you to miss out where it means the most to you by stirring up plenty of opposition. Ignore others' anger.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do that shopping and handle correspondence in the a.m., and then make sure in p.m. you do not lose your temper, or you can lose a fine pal. Much care in motion is imperative especially in the evening. Driving can be particularly hazardous.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Any interest in financial affairs should be handled in a.m. Be prudent tonight. Take care you are not more extravagant than you can easily afford now. Think along more constructive lines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan time for improving health and good looks so you gain favors easily and can feel sure of yourself when dealing with others. Out to the social affairs you like, but be very cautious. Do nothing to jeopardize your reputation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You feel there is pressure around you which you cannot do anything about, but if you relax and look at the matter objectively, you can accomplish a great deal. Keep your cool though you feel like throwing things.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal morning to set up appointments with good friends for whatever your mutual purposes. Forget that aim that is not rational and be safe. A perfect evening for having fun socially with congenials.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can rid yourself of responsibilities easily now provided you do not bump up against irate higher-ups. Steer clear of them. Not a good day to do that civic work which could prove disappointing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look at new situations and conditions that arise today with a practical eye and they will benefit you, but if you are merely visionary, they vanish. Find right data you need at proper sources. Work tonight, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have some leftover duties to attend to, although it is in your mind to go out for pleasure, so be sure to do those first. That hunch you have is faulty, so do not follow it. Steer clear of trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are too blunt with a partner, you can certainly start a big argument, so use diplomacy instead. Handling that civic matter conscientiously brings excellent results. You are a gracious person; show it socially in p.m. especially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have excellent talents and can get all that special work behind you with speed and efficiency now. Others are in no mood to give you assistance, so do not ask. Don't get bogged down with details for best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Just so long as you get into proven entertainment activities, you can have a delightful time at them today. Do not pressure others into going with you. Work some on that particular product you have in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Back close ties instead of annoying them and make everything much better at residence, bring greater happiness. Get rid of causes of tension. Fix faulty appliances, but get rid of whatever is dangerous, unrepairable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be one of those charming young people who will be a born inventor, a mechanical genius, and can make much money with new articles that the public in general will gladly buy, even in the realm of toys. Send to the right kind of schools that will be helpful along such lines. The mind is a logical one and the love life is apt to be quite torpid, so give the finest ethical and spiritual training possible early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Folk Singer To Appear At ECU

David Olney, a folk singer who recently completed an engagement at Atlanta's Twelfth Gate, will make six one hour appearances on campus at East Carolina University in the "Coffeehouse Series" of entertainment.

Olney will be in Room 201 of the Union Building Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights for two performances each night. The first begins at 8:30 p.m. and the second at 9:30 p.m.

Critic Joe Roman says of Olney's Twelfth Gate appearance...."David Olney proved himself to be perhaps the most promising solo performer to grace the stage at the Gate in its five years of operation."

"Honest, with a voice and manner that give the impression of a deep profound isolation from the hum of the modern age and an old fashioned understanding of the good and bad sides of people, David delivers folk music that is the real thing."

Olney's repertoire is noted for a mixture of traditional classics and originals. Robert Johnson's "Kind Hearted Women", a well known blues number; and old slave songs sung with only the use of a harmonica occasionally, are among the type of songs Olney includes in his programs. In some numbers the folk singer uses guitar to accompany his singing.

His voice has been termed as "a haunting, silky falsetto. He has been favorably compared with new promising folk singers such as John Prine, Leo Kottle, Townes van Zandt and Loudon Wainwright III.

Admission to Olney's coffee music concerts will be a minimum charge. Jim Hicks, Assistant Director of Student Activities, said an exact admission had not been set, but that it would perhaps be twenty-five cents per person.

The public is invited to attend one of the performances. Room 201 is on the second floor of the Union Building.

Await Monetary Plan Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its bold proposal for reshaping the world monetary system on the table, the United States is settling back to await official foreign reaction to its plan. Most of the finance ministers and central bankers attending the International Monetary Fund's annual meeting withheld substantive comment after Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz sketched the U.S. plan Tuesday. "Clear and coherent," West Germany said. The British said much the same thing. Canada called it comprehensive. But the Japanese were reported unhappy. And France worked on a reply. Shultz proposed that countries with balance-of-payments surpluses should be under as much pressure to change their currency values as those in deficit. The pressure should come from new international economic sanctions, he said, including the right to impose import surcharges against a country with a chronic surplus. Another sanction would be the loss of any right to convert accumulated foreign-currency holdings into reserves of another country. Japan's delegation, while making no official comment immediately, was said to be sharply opposed to any direct economic sanctions. The Japanese, heavy exporters, now run a sizable surplus in trade with the United States. Japan also rejected any notion that its currency, the yen, should again be raised in value. Shultz proposed new flexibility for the monetary system, including a wider range of permissible international values for the dollar. The dollar would be able to swing in value as much as any other currency can. Other currencies can swing in value by 9 per cent against each other. But the dollar, because it is the centerpiece of the monetary system, is now limited to a total 4.5-per-cent range.

If the U.S. plan is adopted, the dollar would lose its once-special role as the currency by which the monies of other countries are valued. Instead, Shultz said, all currencies, including the dollar, should be stated in terms of Special Drawing Rights, or "paper gold," now worth $1.08 each. SDRs are the newly created international reserve asset designed to supplement gold and settle debts between governments. They are bookkeeping entries, with value based only on mutual trust and confidence. Shultz said gold should be phased out as a reserve asset.

Filipino Troops Sweep Up Alleged Subversives

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN, Associated Press Writer
MANILA (AP) — Two provincial mayors, two councilors and the son of a man who wants the Philippines to become an American state were among persons apprehended today as Philippine armed forces continued their sweep against persons said to be subversives, Information Secretary Francisco Tatad said. Tatad said arrests were continuing and that a new figure and list of names would be released later. At least seven more persons have been detained, including Amando Doronilla, editor of the Manila Chronicle, and one of the paper's columnists, Ernesto Granada. As of Tuesday, 92 persons were in custody under the sweeping General Order No. 2 that President Ferdinand Marcos issued in assuming the power to arrest criminals and anyone declared to be a subversive. Those arrested included Antonio Rufino Jr., whose father is leader of the movement which wants the Philippines to become the 51st American state. He claims a following of millions. The young Rufino was accused of being a gang leader and war lord. To date, the army's drive to disarm Filipinos has netted 2,200 firearms of various kinds and 2,500 rounds of ammunition. Tatad said he would release the number of guns and ammunition surrendered voluntarily later. As part of a drive against privilege in high places, congressmen, governors, senators and all political leaders have been stripped of their official bodyguards. Tatad said 750 officers and men have been recalled and returned to the army as a result. He also said the paramilitary metropolitan police force, known as Metrocom, has broken a counterfeiting ring in the city and seized $103,000. The army also called in the mayors of the greater Manila area to brief them on plans to spruce up the city as part of a morale building tourist program. Cadets in the Reserve Officer Training Corps have also been pressed into service to run educational programs to teach "good driving manners" and decorum on the sidewalk for pedestrians. Shoppers will be shown how to form lines "like they do in other cities," Tatad said.

HORSES AND CHICKENS FOR BAIL — Rebellious New Jersey residents who object to paying Philadelphia's city wage tax because they work in the Quaker City, showed up for a hearing Tuesday at City Hall, bringing horses and chickens as bail bonds. They cited an 18th century law which said a defendant could bring collateral such as horses and pigs. They were ordered to show cause why they should not be arrested as delinquent taxpayers. ## Say Domestic Are Indentured

OTTAWA (AP) — Jamaican women are being used almost as indentured servants, a provincial government report indicated Tuesday. The women, the report said, are lured to Canada by glowing descriptions produced by Jamaican agencies and find themselves employed as domestics working long hours for pay far lower than they were told to expect. The situation was revealed by two Ottawa university students working for the ministry of community and Social Services this summer. They found that some of the women were told that they owed five years' work to their employers, who had paid part of their transportation costs from the West Indies. The students discovered the situation when they sent out letters offering assistance to new arrivals in Canada. The shrew must eat almost constantly to maintain its high rate of metabolism. It can starve to death in a few hours.

Great Grandson Darwin Sees Antagonism, Too

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) Rhea County High School students met the great grandson of Sir Charles Darwin with warmth Tuesday but some of the county's adults were openly antagonistic. Francis Darwin, ancestor of the scientist whose theory of evolution was argued here at the famous Scopes Monkey trial 47 years ago, was here in connection with a movie about his great-grandfather. The British science teacher appeared during the afternoon at the high school then at a preview of the American pre-

But during the program preceding the filming of the movie about the elder Darwin, he encountered open antagonism. Although he repeatedly protested that evolution does not deny an existence of a divine being, some of the fundamentalists in the audience refused to accept his claim to a belief in God. On the platform with Darwin was Dr. Theodore Mercer, president of Bryan College, a school established to foster fundamentalist philosophy of William Jennings Bryan who assisted in the prosecution of John T. Scopes, the teacher who was tried here in 1925 for teaching Darwin's theories in conflict with Tennessee law. "The Darwin Adventure," produced by 20th Century Fox, is the story of Charles Darwin's travels in the 1830s during which he developed his theories for "The Origin of Species."

It was the Darwin theory of evolution that got John T. Scopes, a high school science teacher, in trouble with Tennessee law in 1925. Scopes was tried and convicted of charges that he violated the law forbidding teaching of evolution. The trial drew Bryan to Dayton to assist the prosecution and Clarence Darrow for the defense. Bob Gray, a 20th Century public relations man, said Dayton was chosen for the premier of the new film because it was here that Darwin's theories were first given worldwide attention. The film does not include any reference to the trial.

Cooler air will filter in on Thursday, dropping the mercury mostly into the 70s. Maximums were in the 80s Tuesday. The highest afternoon reading was 89 at Greensboro. Fayetteville, Goldsboro and New Bern reached 88. Fog developed in the mountains this morning. The weather map shows a cold front stretching from Lake Erie southwestward to western Tennessee and then southwestward to central Texas. A ridge of high pressure lies over the Carolinas but is drifting eastward. Another mound of high pressure is centered over the Dakotas.

GOP Landslide Hope Doesn't Include The House

Richard Boone Back In Hollywood, And Unhappy

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a seven-year absence, Richard Boone is back on television, as uncompromising as ever in his judgment of the ratings and the frustrations of making a Western on a backlot.

"I don't even like being here," rasped Boone, who now has taken up residence in St. Augustine, Fla., after seven years in Hawaii. "There are so many nice places in the world."

Wearing a red jumpsuit, Boone sat in his dressing room office at Universal Studios. His dark brown hair was almost to his shoulders and his gray moustache almost to his chin for his role in "Hec Ramsey" on NBC's "Sunday Mystery Movie."

RICHARD BOONE, making "Hec Ramsey", doesn't like shooting on a studio backlot, which he calls "an indescribable mess". (AP Wirephoto)

"If we go beyond the current commitment, whatever is made after that will be made away from the studio entirely," he said. Boone is committed to four 90-minute shows and the two-hour movie that kicks the series off Sunday, Oct. 8.

First on his schedule after "Hec Ramsey," however, is an American Western to be filmed entirely in Israel. It will be his eighth trip to Israel, where he previously made the movie "Madron."

Boone always has preferred location shooting. "The backlot is an indescribable mess," he said. "Visually, it looks fine. But creatively, you can't work there. You're playing a scene and a pink and white bus drives up 15 feet away and an idiot on a loudspeaker says, 'There they are, ladies and gentlemen, acting just for you.' And you're trying to concentrate on a scene."

Boone said if the show is successful future episodes would be made in Tucson or Santa Fe. "They both have sound stages for interiors. All we lose is interference and tour buses." That success, of course, depends on the ratings — a subject that brings Boone to the boiling point. He said his first series, "Medic," was put on "for just one reason — to knock Lucille Ball off top notch." It failed to do so and NBC canceled it after two years.

His next series, "Have Gun, Will Travel," rode high in the ratings and Boone left it a multimillionaire in 1963 to put together a repertory company for anthologies on "The Richard Boone Show" on NBC. It was canceled after the first year. He said, "I was bitter about it then and I still am. It was a rotten decision. The show was just beginning to catch on."

After the anthology show was dropped, Boone moved to Hawaii and vowed never to return to television. He said, "I had no reason to come back. Economically, I have no reason to. Sid flat talked me into it."

Sid is Sidney Scheinberg, president of Universal Television, whom Boone calls one of the few "really creative" studio executives. He said, "He listens and he cares. If I have any problems he says to call him. He answers the phone and straightens it out."

By RAYMOND M. LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Signs that President Nixon could carry the entire South have revived Republican hopes of winning control of the Senate—the goal they found so elusive in 1970.

More widely accepted forecasts, however, call for at least two more years of divided government with a Republican administration and a Democratic Congress.

The nation has survived a partisan division between the two branches for 12 of the past 26 years despite the anguish of advocates of "party responsibility" in government.

With or without a Nixon landslide, the GOP is not talking about taking the House. Its rising Senate hopes are offshoots of the late summer polls indicating Nixon is far ahead of Democrat George S. McGovern.

Democratic campaign managers differ with their GOP counterparts about the Senate outlook, noting that Republican presidential candidates traditionally have had short political catatals.

Along with the election of a president, all 435 of the House seats and 33 of the 100 Senate seats will be on the ballot Nov. 7.

Assigning now vacant seats to the parties that won them in 1970, the present House lineup is 256 Democrats and 179 Republicans. The GOP needs a gain of 39 seats for a bare majority of 218.

The Republicans are handicapped by arithmetic in their quest for Senate control, which also was the target of an intense campaign led by Nixon himself in 1970. At that time, the Democrats had 25 Senate seats at stake and the Republicans only 10. The GOP needed to pick up 7 seats but gained only 2, leaving the senate divided at 55 Democrats and 45 Republicans.

State Congress Of Parents And Teachers Set

FAYETTEVILLE — The 52nd convention of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held Oct. 5-7 at the Downtowner Motor Inn here.

The theme of the convention will be "Report on Relevance." Election of officers will be held Friday and the installation of the new officers will be held Saturday morning. Workshops for those attending have been planned.

All presidents, local officers, chairmen and members are invited to attend the convention. Each local association is entitled to be represented at the convention by its president of alternate, and by one delegate for every 25 members, or major fraction thereof.

Texas Feeds The Most Cattle

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is at the top of the charts in all phases of the cattle industry, Agriculture Commissioner John White reports.

Iowa lost its first-place spot in cattle feeding to Texas this year, as the Lone Star state reported 2,045,000 head of feed, White said.

Texas is also No. 1 in total cattle and calves and in beef cows that calved, White reports.

There were 12,829,000 cattle and calves in Texas on Jan. 1, five million more than second-ranked Iowa, and more than a million above the state's human population.

The oldest public park in the United States is Boston Common, established in 1634.

Slow Spending Among Italians

ROME (UPI)—Italy's civil service machinery is so slow it cannot even spend money allocated long ago by parliament.

A recent survey showed the amount of unspent allocations rose from 2.1 trillion lire ($3.6 billion) in 1966 to 4.5 trillion lire ($7.7 billion) in 1971.

nominee against Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, and Idaho, where Sen. Len B. Jordan is retiring. Rep. James A. McLure is the GOP nominee there against William E. Davis, a state college president.

Where GOP Could Win
The most vulnerable Democratic-held seats are:
Rhode Island—where Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell faces former Gov. John Chafee, a recent Navy secretary.
Oklahoma—where Sen. Fred Harris' retirement has produced a contest between former Republican Gov. Dewey Bartlett and Rep. Ed Edmondson.
New Mexico—where four-term Sen. Clinton P. Anderson is retiring.
North Carolina—where Rep. Nick Galifianakis unseated Sen. B. Everett Jordan in the Democratic primary.
Georgia—where Rep. Fletcher Thompson is the Republican candidate facing Sam Nunn, victor over Sen. David H. Gambrell in the Democratic primary.
GOP strategists add Alabama, where former Postmaster General Winton M. Blount is the Republican nominee opposing four-term Sen. John J. Sparkman, and Montana, where Sen. Lee Metcalf is a Democratic candidate for re-election.

Indicating the acknowledged strength of incumbents, both parties in both houses are chiefly concerned with "open seats," brought about because incumbents are not seeking re-election or failed to win renomination.

Joins Faculty Of Art School

Peter James Peterson, former furniture design consultant with Southern Electric's Furniture Division, has joined the East Carolina University School of Art faculty.

Peterson will be an instructor in the Department of Interior Design.

A native of Florida, Peterson received his undergraduate and master's degrees at Florida State University in housing and interior design. He is a member of Omicron Nu society, the American Home Economics Association and the American Institute of Interior Design.

In the House particularly, first-term members are targets.

House Republican campaign managers foresee a GOP pickup of 18 to 25 seats, but short of the 39 needed to control.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, said his party lists 87 battleground districts—58 now Democratic and 29 Republicans. He felt the Democrats should lose no more than 15 seats net.

Securities Are Moved Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Securities worth about $260 million moved through the streets of Philadelphia in two hours one recent Saturday morning. As far as the company involved knows, it was the largest move of securities at one time, ever.

Fidelity Life Insurance Co. was moving its stocks and bonds to a new office. Securities were loaded into a Brinks armored truck guarded by policemen with rifles wearing bullet-proof vests.

The reason the move took as long as it did was that the truck could only take $50 million worth of securities on one trip. Each trip took 10 minutes each way.

Negotiable securities were $50 million of the $260 million and they were all in one cardboard box—making that by far the most valuable load of the morning.

Icelanders Indicate Can Change Eviction Policy

By IAN WESTERGREN REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Iceland still wants to evict the Americans from the NATO base at Keflavik but the Icelandic government may be open for compromise. This was the impression given by Prime Minister Olafur Johannesson in an interview with UPI. "We wish to be without foreign troops on our soil," said the 59-year-old leader of Iceland's year-old coalition government of progressives, leftist liberals and Communists. "Iceland is a young independent nation and we are sensitive about our independence and sovereignty, you know." The eviction of the 3,700 American Navy and Air Force men was a major plank in the first policy statement of the new government, which took power in July, 1971, after the ruling coalition of Independents (conservatives) and Social Democrats had been defeated in national elections. The government said it wanted to review the existing defense agreement with the United States with the aim of evicting the troops step-by-step until 1974. But the statement made clear that Iceland intended to remain a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. NATO officials reacted with shock. They said the Keflavik base, located on a barren peninsula some 30 miles southeast of Reykjavik, was vital—not as a combat base but for surveillance. The radar-laden planes that take off around the clock from Keflavik keep a close watch on all Soviet movements in the North Atlantic. The Russians have been building up their military muscle recently in this area and have pushed further out into the Atlantic with their naval units. Icelanders Doing Study There are only 128 combat soldiers on the base and a handful of fighter planes, the prime minister said. The majority of Americans are involved in radar surveillance from the planes and from the radar station at Hoefn in southern Iceland. Johannesson, a stocky, fair-haired former law professor at Reykjavik University, said he expected the negative reaction from NATO and Washington. "We all know what the generals say," he said with a broad smile. Now the Icelanders have embarked on an investigation of the importance of the base, he said. The Icelandic government has been preoccupied with the fishing limits issue in recent months, but Johannesson said he expected his foreign minister to resume negotiations on the base with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers before the end of the year. Iceland still wants the troops to leave, the prime minister said, but he and his government colleagues are open for new ideas and proposals. One such is that Icelanders should take over the base in peacetime. "We are obliged to maintain the base facilities and it must be manned," he said. "But nothing excludes the possibility that Icelanders take over this job."

Set-Aside Acreage Is Open To Grazing

Set-aside acreage under the 1972 cotton, feed grain, and wheat programs may be used for livestock grazing after Oct. 1, Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, has announced. He reminded farmers that no grazing is permitted on acreage still under contract in long-term land retirement programs such as the Cropland Adjustment Program. Today's announcement affects only livestock grazing on land diverted under annual commodity programs. No set-aside acreage may be harvested. Set-aside acreage is land taken out of production by farmers participating in voluntary commodity programs. This acreage must be kept in conserving uses. Among other provisions, this means no livestock may graze during the growing season. The normal growing season in North Carolina has been established as April through September 30. "Public benefits are provided by conserving use of set-aside acres," Evans said, "as well as protection of the farmer's land." By helping prevent soil erosion, conserving uses help keep water run-off more silt free than if the land were left idle but unprotected. Set-aside land also provides many thousands of acres of wildlife habitat. Evans concluded by saying that cost-sharing is available under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program for farmers that wish to carry out conservation measures on set-aside acreage.

The prime minister went out of his way to point out that he had nothing against the American GIs as such. "It's my opinion," he said, "that if we have to have foreign troops in Iceland, I prefer Americans to any others, including Scandinavians." GI Happy To Leave If the generals would morn the possible closing of Keflavik, the GIs would probably cheer. Life on the stormy and rainy island is rough. The base area, on a windswept, treeless peninsula, with muddy cinder roads and rundown buildings, leaves a gloomy impression. Iceland's only highway runs from Keflavik to Reykjavik, but the capital has little to offer for relaxation and is off limits to U.S. personnel during certain hours. There have been few incidents between Icelanders and the GIs—who have been here since 1951—but it would not be true to say that relations are warm.

There is an American TV and radio station at the base, which is a cause for irritation to many Icelanders. Local television is poor—it even closes down for a month in the summer for vacation—and as a result many of Iceland's 210,000 inhabitants watch American television. Many Icelanders see in this danger of "Americanization." They are proud of their own language and their own culture, from the ancient sagas to the works of Nobel Prize winner Halldor Laxness. Keflavik also serves as Iceland's international airport—another cause for irritation since it means that Icelanders traveling abroad must pass through the U.S. check point at the base gates. Few are stopped, and if they are the American MP is assisted by an Icelandic policeman when checking vehicles and identity papers. But many Icelanders, including the prime minister, dislike the arrangement.

A Subdued Bella Abzug Campaigning

By MARY ELLEN MYRENE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug, wearing a floppy black hat as usual, chatted with bystanders and smiled easily when she spent one morning campaigning here last week outside a crowded subway station.

But the campaigning was for Sargent Shriver. For herself, Mrs. Abzug remained unusually subdued.

The question on everyone's mind was whether Mrs. Abzug — the flamboyant, finger-jabbing, raspy-voiced reformer — would seek the Democratic nomination for the seat of the late Rep. William F. Ryan.

The answer was yes. But standing next to Shriver, she delayed that news, seeking a cushion of time. Would she care to discuss her political prospects, a reporter had asked. No, she said quietly, this day is for Shriver.

With the death of Ryan on Sept. 17, Mrs. Abzug had lost a long-time friend. He had also been her opponent in the most bitterly fought campaign of her career.

In a move that generated widespread dissension, Mrs. Abzug invaded Ryan's 20th Congressional District last spring after her own district was lost to reapportionment and challenged him for the Democratic nomination to the seat he had held for 11 years.

It was a grueling campaign. Ryan emerged the victor by a 2-1 margin in the June primary.

He died Sept. 17 of cancer. Mrs. Abzug has emerged as a leading contender to succeed Ryan. She is the only candidate — among five mentioned — to actively campaign for the post.

Like Ryan, she is vehement in her opposition to the Vietnam war and a champion of women's rights.

Ryan's successor will be named this Sunday by a vote of 520 Democratic committeemen, two each from 260 elective districts. About 35 per cent of the committeemen will be drawn from Mrs. Abzug's old district, absorbed by the 20th District under reapportionment.

In her first public comment on her candidacy Monday, Mrs. Abzug told reporters, "I think my chances are very good." She said she thought she had no major opposition.

Others being mentioned as possible candidates include Ryan's widow, Priscilla; State Assemblyman Franz S. Leichter, a long-time Ryan supporter; attorney Paul O'Dwyer, the Democratic Senate nominee in 1968; and Rep. James Scheuer, like Mrs. Abzug apportioned out of his old district.

Society Helping WombagSurvive

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Chicago Zoological Society, using funds provided by the Forest Park Foundation of Peoria, owns 13,800 acres of semi-arid land in South Australia's "outback" to help increase the chances for the rare hairy-nosed wombat to survive.

The purchase was the first attempt by an outside zoological society to aid Australian wildlife.

The society bought the reserve when it became evident that the wombat's very existence was threatened by sheepmen. The entire area has been fenced and a game warden patrols the area.

The wombat survives only in isolated colonies in the hot, dry lands of South Australia and Queensland. Like many desert mammals, the wombat is mainly nocturnal and spends daylight hours in burrows where the temperature is about 65 degrees.

Mouth Helps In Early Diagnosis

LONDON (AP) — Dentists should operate an early warning system in the diagnosis of diseases, says Prof. J. Harold Jones, professor of oral medicine at Manchester University.

He told the British Dental Association conference in Swansea that certain changes in the mouth could provide pointers which could lead to the early diagnosis of bodily disease.

TV Ratings Still Hinge On Future

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Initial ratings for the first week of the new television season show NBC in first place over-all, ABC a close second and CBS trailing the pack amid vows of a strong comeback in succeeding weeks.

A.C. Nielsen Co. reports that, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. between Sept. 11 and Sept. 17, NBC had an average rating of 20.6 — meaning that an estimated 13.4 million households were watching its programs. "It's our best start in over five years," an NBC spokesman raved.

At ABC, the Nielsen ratings averaged out to 19.2, or some 12.6 million households. An ABC spokesman was cautiously optimistic: "It's very encouraging."

At CBS, the week's average rating came to 17.0, or an estimated 11.1 million households. "We definitely feel we're going to win this one when the blockbusters are out of the way," a source at CBS insisted.

The "blockbusters" are the proven theatrical film successes and spare-no-expense entertainment specials that dotted the opening round of television's fall season. They can't go on forever — there isn't that much good material — but they make a network look good in the early ratings.

Among individual shows and assorted movies, "Goldfinger," the James Bond movie thriller, gave ABC much joy on premiere week. It smote the regular series opposite it with a 31.1 rating, which meant that Nielsen estimates it was seen in more than 20 million households the night of Sept. 17.

Among the week's top-rated 20 shows, "Goldfinger" was second only to a regular ABC series, "Marcus Welby," which made its fourth-season debut in an estimated 20.2 million households.

Nine of NBC's shows were in the top 20; ABC had six and CBS 5. Among the newcomers in the top 20 were "Maude" (11th) and "Bridget Loves Bernie" (6th), both on CBS.

Perhaps the biggest surprise was ABC's "Paul Lynde Show." It opened to a chorus of critical boos, yet ranked 14th.

But network analysts say the early returns don't really portend how many will watch what in the long run. They say real viewing patterns won't be clear until mid-October. At that point, the ratings really mean something on Broadcast Row in Manhattan.

Then there will be sincere woe and whoopee in the corporate chambers. A month later, the networks start another fall ritual — deciding if a show is a bomb, needs a new time slot or will survive until it's time to start worrying about rerunning the thing.

Wouldn't Hide Death Concept

NEW YORK (UPI) —Parents should not protect their children from the concept of death, according to an article in the National Association of Mental Health Reporter.

Quoting Rabbi Earl A. Crollman of Beth El Temple Center in Belmont, Mass., the report advises: "At the time of a death the child should not be shut away or abandoned, but should share the experience, be given realistic answers and even the option of whether or not to attend the funeral."

Counseling Is Computerized

NEW YORK (UPI) —Married couples with communication problems are receiving therapeutic help from a computerized light transmitter, patented by Prof. Edwin J. Thomas of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

While discussing some aspect of their marriage, a husband and wife can send green or red light signals to register agreement or disagreement with what their partner is saying. The conversation and signals are recorded on tape for assessment by the therapist later.

Profile Of A Junkie—Put Together At Drug Clinic

Editor's Note — About a hundred young people a day troop into the Haight Ashbury street clinic for some sort of treatment for their drug addiction. The following article on the junkie in the San Francisco area as put together by the clinic.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bluntly, the clinic counsellor hurls the question at the young heroin addict.

"How many Cadillacs do you think you have in your arm?" He intends a shock effect, to reinforce one of the motivations that pulls many addicts to the clinic — the desire to shed the anxiety and sweat of having to earn or steal or somehow raise the huge income to pay for their habit.

And the counsellor can spell out what the average addict, here in the San Francisco area at least, could get instead for the dollars he shoots into his arm each year:

A new Porsche Model 914 sports car...12 months rent on a luxury apartment on Twin Peaks...all expenses of a three-week vacation in the Mediterranean...a complete stereo set (Marantz amplifier, A.R. turntable, Bose speakers)...100 long-playing records...a complete wardrobe including formal clothes and sportswear...

It all totals more than $16,000 a year, roughly $50 a day.

The scene is the Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinic, the first in the nation, which is not only treating addicts but is pioneering research to depict the profile of hard-drug addicts, who they are, where they come from, what they say a "fix" does for them, and what probably finally happens to junkies over the years.

Haight-Ashbury is also the first free or street clinic to receive federal funds to operate a drug treatment project, to the tune of $366,000 the first year from the National Institute of Mental Health, with the clinic required to add 10 per cent more.

"We can reach these people," says Dr. George R. Gay, director of the Drug Detoxification, Rehabilitation and After Care Project, as it is formally known at the clinic's totally informal operations in a few old, rambling but highly accessible buildings near the intersection of Haight and Ashbury Streets in the western part of San Francisco. Dr. Gay, 41, a former pediatric anesthesiologist, is also associate director of the Haight clinic started by Dr. David E. Smith.

"We see about 100 kids a day, most of them hooked on heroin, but 15 per cent or more are taking multiple drugs, cocaine or barbiturates in addition to their smack," says Dr. Gay, an amiable bearded man who dresses in "hippie" style, beads, a cap and all, the better to establish easy communication with his young clientele.

"We have real access to these people. If they're not ready really to try treatment, we say, 'Okay, there's our soup kitchen. Come back when you're ready.' They come because friends tell them they can expect sympathetic, non-judgmental aid, no lectures."

About three-quarters are white, 14 per cent black, eight per cent Mexican-American. Three-quarters are male, but the percentage of females has been rising lately. So has the proportion of middle-class junkies, and even more the percentage of "blue-collar" boys and girls. And a wave of new G.I. junkies is appearing, too.

The average age is 23.3 years. Most become hooked between ages 15 and 25, with a peak now in this area at 20, says Dr. John Newmeyer, a young and enthusiastic social psychologist out of Harvard whose epidemiological studies are contributing to understanding how the addict behaves, and why, and how he got started in the first place.

The vast majority got turned on from the influence of friends, mostly same-age friends, Dr. Newmeyer finds, with only small numbers brought in directly by dealers in drugs.

Dr. Newmeyer and Roger Corn asked 270 heroin abusers what they usually did while "high." About half said they felt "mellow," relaxed, tranquil, or peaceably "on the nod." Fourteen per cent said they behaved just about the way they usually do; three per cent said they were basically sociable and talkative, and an equal number said they became active or energetic. Of the rest, 85 gave such answers as itchy, hungry, sexy, going on a self-destructing trip, cool, nonaggressive, bitchy, happy, grouchy, clumsy, smooth, nauseous, giggly, uptight.

Heroin is the "I don't give a damn drug, the social anesthetic," says Dr. Gay. "It produces a plastic encasement around your own psyche, protecting from the psychological and physical pains you and I feel every day. The addict can have abscessed teeth, pelvic problems, even a ruptured appendix and not know it. He's literally walking around anesthetized."

Another thing about heroin is that it's costly, even for poor quality stuff.

In one year, junkies seen at the Haight clinic said they spent $29 million for smack. Dr. Newmeyer reports $5 million was earned in legitimate jobs, another $2 million came from other legal means, and $1 million came from welfare payments.

Cash thefts, as from stores and banks, produced $1 million. Dealing or selling drugs produced $7 million. Prostitution produced $2 million. Thefts of goods from stores, homes and automobiles produced $11 million, the amount paid by fences for goods valued totaled $33 million.

Dr. Newmeyer has prepared a rough estimate of the probable fate of 50,000 Americans hooked on heroin in any given year of the late 1960s.

Friends and relatives will divert 10,000 to become "clean" after an average of a year of addiction. Their cure will be monetarily free, but before cure they will have cost society $60 million.

Hawaii Plans 'Floating City' To Fill Space Need

EDITOR'S NOTE—Between normal growth and migrations from the mainland, Hawaii's population is expected to double in the next 28 years. Because of its limited land area, Hawaiians are looking to the vastness of the Pacific to solve their problems. They're planning a floating city.

By WILLIAM HELTON
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Fearing their idyllic islands will be swamped by mass migrations of people from the continental United States, Hawaiians are planning a modern, but away-from-it all city.

The city will embrace the high-density, three-dimensional approach with apartments clustered and rising high into the sky, each with a view.

Conveyor belts, elevators and a monorail system will move people. There will be no cars.

Everything will be within 30 minutes' walking distance. There will be no pollution, no noise.

And each family will have a continuously changing view of the coastline of Hawaii's islands.

For the city will rise out of the sea. It will float. A 1-to-20 model of a city is floating now—in Kaneohe Bay on Oahu's north shore. It was built of sheet metal, welded and bolted together by professors and students working on weekends. It was financed by an $85,000-federal grant.

"It's a community effort," said Joe E. Hanson, manager of the University of Hawaii's Floating City Project. He ticks off the local contributions: firms provided forklifts and trucks; the Navy supplied a tug to tow it; Honolulu Community College donated student welders, and volunteer students and military divers gave their time.

The driving force behind the floating city idea is John Craven, a University of Hawaii professor of ocean engineering and the state's marine affairs coordinator.

He says: "All I want to do is return the land to environmental use and put the high-density structures at sea. It is the hardest battle to make people understand that. Hawaii is a very desirable place to live, and stopping people from coming here is just kind of a vain hope."

And, to make room for the increasing population Craven says will be double the present 770,000 persons by the year 2,000, work on the city continues.

After completing tests on the 150-ton model, the next objective will be a two-mile-long city for a marine exhibit in 1978, marking the bicentennial of the discovery of the Hawaiian islands by Capt. James Cook.

If all goes well, the exhibition city will float a few miles off Waikiki, permanently accommodating 2,000 persons, having enough hotel rooms for 8,000

Too Few Relish Haute Cuisine

NEW YORK (AP) — Le Pavillon, at its elegant peak an exemplar of the finest in French cooking and a training ground for scores of restaurateurs, has joined a select graveyard of haute cuisine restaurants.

"There simply are not enough patrons to keep a restaurant of this stature in the style it should be kept," Stuart Levin, manager and part owner, said Monday in announcing the closing of Le Pavillon.

overnight guests and handling 40,000 daily visitors.

The design of the city grew out of a series of meetings among ocean engineering students, Craven and Japanese architect Kiyonori Kikutake.

The key principle is that long pylons—huge bottles, really—extending deep into the ocean will provide stability enough so that you won't have to worry about getting seasick on the city, Craven said.

Three of the giant, 350-foot-tall bottles bolted together and supporting a platform will form a module, on which hotels and apartments will be built. Ten of the modules fitted together will form the inner ring of the city. Craven hopes an additional 10 will be hooked on to the outside for the exhibition city.

All but 40 feet of the bottles will be under water. They will be weighed down with ballast or other materials to give the city stability. There will be underwater hotels and restaurants in some.

In future floating cities, they will be the sites of factories, sewage treatment plants and other facilities which do not require sunlight.

Visitors would step off a ferry and take an elevator up a pylon to get to the inner core of the city, a structure that will rise some 13 stories above sea level.

A system of pulleys moored to the ocean floor will rotate the city and move it up and down a five-mile tract. It would be possible to watch the sun sink in the west and rise in the east from the same hotel room.

The opposition has been such that Craven is pessimistic of quick public acceptance—and financing. He estimates that each module of the 20-unit exhibition city would cost $10 million. But he says that is much less than the price tag for similar structures on land. The cost of tearing down and rebuilding inner cities would be excessive, he says, and hence to the sea, where engineers can start with fresh ideas.

Gradually, Craven says, the public will come to accept floating cities as living complexes.

Six Elected To Nat'l Academy

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Six members of the University of California faculty on the Berkeley campus have been elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences.

The election brings the total Berkeley faculty membership to 59, second only to Harvard University in total membership. The University of California's total academy membership is 121, greater than the total for any other college of university system.

There are 10,000 species of fern.
