Concern Of Freed POWs Is For Men Left Behind

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The three American pilots flew home today, happy to be within hours of the land they left to fight a distant war, concerned about the hundreds of prisoners of war they left behind.

Lt. Norris Charles put it succintly shortly before he and two colleagues released by Hanoi took off for New York.

At a Copenhagen news conference he said the American people were in fact bringing the trio home. Then, concerning the remaining prisoners, Charles told Americans:

"If you really want to bring these men home you can do it. If you really want to end the war you can do it. I call on you to help me bring the men home ... I can't feel too free when I consider the men who are left behind in North Vietnam."

Charles, his fellow Navy Lt. (j.g.) Mark Gartley and Maj. Edward Elias of the Air Force appeared to be in fine shape as they arrived in Denmark after an overnight stay in Moscow. They had flown from Hanoi via Peking and Moscow, traveling on commercial planes in the company of a group of American antiwar activists. That was an effort to avoid any attempt by U.S. authorities to take the pilots into custody while en route.

Charles had been a prisoner of war almost a year, Gartley four years and Elias four months.

They shunned political statements today.

Gartley observed: "I've been away from the States for a very long time and not all the issues are clear to me. But whichever policy will bring the men home the fastest is the one I support the most."

Asked if Jane Fonda as a visitor to Hanoi had reported accurately that American prisoners of war favored the election of Sen. George McGovern, Gartley said the actress was "not qualified to speak for the opinions of the prisoners of war."

When the fliers reached Moscow there was a name-calling struggle between the activist group and a U.S. diplomat, centering on who would be in charge of the men's return home. There was nothing like that in Copenhagen — the official contact was brief and polite.

Charles told a newsman that he did not expect to be going back on combat duty and the other two pilots nodded their heads in agreement.

Asked if he thought he would be in trouble with the U.S. military for his statements, Charles replied: "The military does not hold the truth against anybody."

Gartley, speaking of his long captivity, said "psychologically speaking you become adapted. The first six months are hard."

Then he said, a life goes on to a month-by-month or season-by-season scale instead of one from hour to hour or minute to minute.

Charles, describing his North Vietnamese captors, said he was "treated with a lot of kindness and a lot of generosity."

The men wore Eastern European-style suits that fit them only approximately and fashionless, narrow ties, Gartley, a light haired, tall man, looked pale in the television lights, while Elias' complexion appeared ruddier.

All said they were in good physical condition.

Twelve Leaders

Twelve, civic, business, and professional leaders will be serving as community chairmen for the County Division o the Pitt County United Fund campaign this year.

In announcing the community chairmen, division head Ed Yancey noted that the leaders will be responsible for completing the organization and coordinating all phases of the UF drive in each of the communities.

Yancey said that the community chairmen will be aiming for the county division goal of $22,750.

Leaders named and the communities in which they will service are: Major Almyra Watson and Mrs. H. C. Cannon, co-chairmen, Bethel; Miss Beatrice Moore, Belvoir-Falkland; J. Beverly Congleton, Stokes; Mrs. Carter Smith, Fountain; Durwood Little, Farmville; Keith Brunson, Chicod; Roland Brinson, Simpson; David Smith and J. J. Brown, co-chairmen, Syden; Clifton Gentry, Grifton; and Ewell Atkinson, Winterville.

The United Fund campaign gets underway Monday. This year's fund goal, as set by the UF board of directors, will be $157,526.

Spread Net For Officer's Killer

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Officers throughout a wide area of central North Carolina and southern Virginia remained on the alert today for the killer of a North Carolina highway patrolman.

The patrol spread an alarm for an old green and white Mercury automobile occupied by three Negro males following the fatal shooting Wednesday of Patrolman Joe Wright, 42, of Roxboro.

The killing occurred on a rural road near the village of Helena in southern Person County.

Harold Grinstead, a farmer, told officers he heard Wright sound his siren to stop a car and he looked from behind a tobacco barn where he was working to see what was happening.

He said Wright was near the rear wheels of the stopped car when the driver raised his arm and fired three shots.

Grinstead said the man then pointed the weapon at him. However, he ducked inside the barn and came out the other side to assist the trooper as the vehicle roared away.

The farmer said he helped the patrolman to his patrol car and summoned help on the car's radio. However, Wright died before help arrived.

Officers said the trooper had been hit three times by .22 caliber bullets. They said, however, they found four spent shells at the scene.

State Bureau of Investigation agents arrived in a mobile laboratory and made castings of tire imprints in the dirt road.

Wednesday afternoon, a 1965 Ford was found abandoned off Interstate 85 near Butner and officers converged there. Grinstead was flown in via patrol helicopter, but he said it was not the car used in the killing.

It was the first slaying of a state trooper since 1964 when two were killed in separate incidents.

Col. C. B. Guy, patrol commander who came to Roxboro by helicopter to direct the search for the killer, praised Wright as "an excellent, an outstanding officer."

Wright was a native of Biscoe in Montgomery County. He joined the patrol in July, 1959, and was stationed at Burlington before going to Roxboro in 1965. He was married and had three children.

Rockathon Begins For $2,500 At Five Points

The Rockathon is back again at Five Points, and Mike Mahne is this year's commander of the old rocking chair (actually a new one in a floral design).

Alpha Phi Omega, an active service fraternity of East Carolina University, is again sponsoring the annual event designed to call attention to fund raising for the Pitt County United Fund Drvie.

Funds collected during this year's three-day effort will be channeled into the ECU Division of United Fund for further presentation to the Pitt UF chapter. John Bell heads the campus division.

"Our goal for the rockathon is $2,500," Mike said, "I hope we make it, and more. The main purpose of course is to get people's attention, to remind them of the fund drive."

Mike, a native of Roxboro and a junior at ECU, climbed into the rocker at 8:00 a.m. this morning. this morning.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of ECU, and some of Mike's fraternity brothers, were on hand to get him seated and wish him good rocking for the 60 hour goal.

"We're not planning to try to set a new record," Mike said. "There would really be no point, sixty hours is enough." Asked what he planned to think about for the long stretch of rocking to and fro, Mike observed "It should be fun, sitting here looking at people pass by, kinda like watching a 60 hour TV show.

"Maybe after about 40 hours I'll not care too much what I'm looking at," he added.

Lots of planning has gone into preliminary preparation for Mike's sixty hour platform appearance. In addition to a beach umbrella, Mike revealed he has a canvas to stretch over him in case of hard rain.

To elminiate bathroom problems, he said he had been on a liquid diet for a couple of days prior to platform time, and had

Occupants Seize Buglar Suspect

Things didn't work out quite right for a man who allegedly entered an 807 Albemarle Ave. apartment last night.

Clifton Earl Holden, 22, of 803B Howell St., according to Chief of Police Glenn Canon, allegedly entered the Albemerle Avenue building about 11:05 p.m. and allegedly took a television, flashlight and light for a camera.

But occupants of the building found Holden and held him until police officers arrived and took him into custody.

Holden was charged with burglary and placed under a $2,000 bond for hearing in District Court.

LSD Peddler

RALEIGH (AP) — Wake County deputies reported that a 14-year-old Millbrook High School girl was arrested Wednesday morning on a charge of peddling LSD to her schoolmates.

Munn said the girl was accused of selling the LSD tablets for $2 each. He added that he recovered 78 LSD tablets.

China And Japan To End State Of War, Establish Relations

PEKING (AP) — Prime Minister Chou En-lai announced tonight that China and Japan have decided to establish diplomatic relations and terminate the state of war between the two countries.

The 74-year-old premier said in a farewell toast at a glittering banquet in the Hall of the People given by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan that this historic step will make a "positive contribution" to the relaxation of tension in Asia and to world peace.

Tanaka, 54, who arrived here Sunday on a state visit, said normalization of relations is only the first step and that he will try his best to continue the trend of rapprochment.

Japan's 22-year-old state of diplomatic relations with Taiwan is expected to be broken by Friday morning, when Chou and Tanaka sign a joint communique outlining the steps they have taken

"We are going to end the abnormal state of affairs which has existed between the two countries up to now," Chou said. "Ther termination of the state of war and the normalization of relations between China and Japan — the realization of this long-cherished wishes of the Chinese and Japanese peoples will open a new chapter in the relations between the two countries and make a postive contribution to the relaxation of tension in Asia and safeguarding the world peace."

The banquet took place after the fourth and final round of talks by Chou and Tanaka.

A Japanese spokesman said after their 80-minute meeting, "Our major problems have been solved. The summit has been a success."

The joint communique, ending 22 years of hostility and distrust between Japan and the Chinese mainland, will be signed Friday morning in the Great Hall of the People.

Object To Service Roads On U.S. 264 By-Pass

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The State Highway Commission has said that service roads are not feasible or practical for U.S. 264 by-pass west.

This was revealed in discussion of the subject as one of four agenda items of the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission at City Hall Wednesday night.

The information was provided in a letter from Ron Poole, of the Advance Planning Section of the State Highway Commission in response to the commission's earlier request to be provided details on advantages and disadvantages of serivce roads.

In saying the commission did not favorably consider service roads of the type in mind, Poole pointed out that such roads create more traffic hazards than are solved; and that the problem and expense of getting right of ways to begin with are expensive obstacles.

"Service roads along major streets should be avoided in almost every situation," the letter concluded.

Mrs. Earl Trevathan, one of the commissioners advacating the concept of service roads in future development plans for Greenville, said: "I can't agree with the highway commission's concept."

The rezoning request by J.T. Manning, Jr., one asking to rezone property on the north side of U.S. 264 by-pass west from RA-20 to neighborhood commercial, was denied by a vote of five to four.

Fred Mattox, explained proposed plans were to construct a convenience store with dimensions 60 feet wide and 50 feet deep, placed at a distance of 105 feet from the highway. The lot size of the land for which rezoning was being sought is 140 feet wide along the highway running back to a depth of 400 feet.

Opposition spokesman Dennis Sutton, representing residents of the neighborhood, said that residents still "feel the store would be a hindrance to the community, a deviation from residences that make up the area." He passed copies of a map to commissioners that showed the location of the proposed store in relation to houses.

When the vote on the motion was taken, it appeared at first the vote was a favorable one.

Council member Percy Cox commented, "That's a weak nay vote I heard, I would suggest a show of hands." When Chairman Louis Clark asked for a show of hands the result was five against, and four for.

Nick Smith Criticizes Morgan Holding 2 Posts

By Tom Baines
Reflector Staff Writer

The GOP candidate for attorney general charged here yesterday that there are conflict of interests involved in incumbent Robert Morgan's position as both attorney general and chairman of the East Carolina University board of trustees.

Nick Smith, a Durham attorney, said that Morgan should not be in a position to decide on the disposition of funds at ECU while serving in both a Justice Department capacity and as head of the school board.

Smith said that a dispute over whether ECU funds were from private or state channels and could be applied to Student Government activities was directed to the Justice Department for clarification and he asserted that Morgan was in a conflicting position to be able "to decide on that kind of question."

He explained that in 1971 the Legislature passed a law saying "that it is now legal for a man to have one elective office and one appointive office. In normal legal construction, if the Legislature says that this is now legal, you presume it wasn't before."

Smith contended that "under the dual office holding statute it was not legal for Morgan to have those two offices prior to that time, that there was a conflict of interests involved and he did that for political reasons because this is a political power base for him ..."

He added, "It is a very poor example for the Justice Department and the attorney general to set. And it is not only that; when you've got this one party rule for so long, people can get hypocritical and not even be embarrased about it."

For instance, Smith continued, Joe Hooper of Wilmington was on the State Board of Medical Examiners

Mrs. Lilly Is Cosmetologist Speaker Tuesday

Mrs. Julia Lilly presented the program at the meeting of the Pitt County Cosmetologist Association held Tuesday night at Milady Beauty Shop.

A member of the N. C. Hair Fashion Committee, Mrs. Lilly demonstrated a current style, the U. S. sophiscate, and her model was Lois Johnson.

The fashions for this year include: the American girl; the swinging single; the contemporary classic; Mrs. America; and the U. S. sophisticate.

Guests for the meeting were from Martin Technical Institute, Darlene Yates, Debbie Hardison and Emily Craft.

The September board meeting was held Sunday in Fayetteville at the Downtowner Motel. Members attending from the local affiliate were Debra Hardee, president, Margaret Johnson and Julia Lilly.

Mrs. Hardee conducted the business session and refreshments were served.

Attractive Woman Seeks Lawyer For 'Legal' Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Believe it or not, my husband of 10 years left me and our two beautiful children for our baby sitter! It wasn't easy to accept, but I have decided to make the best of it.

I will say he made a very fair settlement. I get the deed to our new four-bedroom home, which is on 3½ acres of choice property, rental property which pays $30,000 a year, plus annuities for the children [ages 3 and 6] and a very nice cash settlement.

Now I am looking for a decent man. I prefer the athletic type between 35 and 45 who puts God first, family second and his job last.

There is a lawyer in town who is eligible, but I have never been introduced to him. I am told I am a good looking woman, and I am well built and know how to dress. I am not exactly for free love, but I'm only 33, and I'm not dead yet.

How do I meet this lawyer without being too obvious?

"33 AND LOOKING"

DEAR "33": It seems to me that a woman in your position could use some "legal" advice. He's one man you could call up and make an appointment with, without much difficulty. All you may get is legal advice, for which you must pay—but it's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: You are our last resort. Please help! My father [who lives with us] is 69, and he drives a large, fast car of which he is very proud. The problem is that his eyesight is failing and he won't admit it.

Dad hasn't had his eyes checked in five years. When we suggest a checkup, he flies into a rage and insists that he is the very best judge of his eyesight, and his eyes are perfect.

Abby, we have been with him countless times when he has unknowingly forced other motorists practically off the road, narrowly missed guard rails, and tailed dangerously close to the car ahead of him.

If anyone offers to drive, Dad gets upset and insists on having his way. Everyone who knows him will use almost any excuse to get out of riding with him.

Abby, he reads your column faithfully. Please tell him that he should consider the opinions and safety of others, and get his eyes checked, even tho he thinks they are "perfect." Sign me . . . OUT OF EXCUSES

DEAR OUT: I'll wager your letter will be read [and heeded] by many who are younger than your dad, but could use the advice. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law has lived with us for nearly 20 years. She is over 80 now and I hope she lives to be 100.

In all the years Mother has been with us, she has never had any expenses. We've taken care of her housing, food, clothing—everything. She has banked her pension checks, and now she has a reasonably healthy bank account.

Now the question, and I hope this doesn't sound mean or grabby: should we ask her to share her pension check with us? Since Mother has paid no bills, I am sure she isn't aware how much the cost of living has gone up.

We have spent our lives and our income raising and educating our family. We have provided for our own retirement, and are not hard up, but we could use a little help.

We wouldn't hurt Mother for anything, and no matter what your answer is, we will continue taking the best of care of her as long as she lives. No name or town, please.

SIXTYISH

DEAR SIXTYISH: I'm sure the dear lady has not offered to share her pension check with you only because you have made her feel so completely "at home" that it never occurred to her—which is to your credit. Your reasons are sensible and valid, ask her.

Why Feminine Styles During This Era Of Liberation?

FEMININE STYLES
By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP

ROME (WNS)— "With the prominence of Women's Lib, why have European couturiers turned to extremely feminine fashions?" reads the question that comes across my desk.

Blimey! Another instance of someone looking for the whys and the wherefores of fashion. There is an answer, of course, but it would have been easier to give if the reader had not used the word "prominence" regarding Women's Lib and had not referred specifically to "European" couturiers.

"Prominence" Women's Lib certainly has in the United States. But in the countries on the continent where high fashions are created, the movement gets nothing like the hospitable exposure it receives in America.

In Itlay, progress on the big issue—divorce—has edged other causes into open discussion; and abortion, a subject until recently unapproachable except in private conversation, is finding its way into print.

Muliebrity

But there are no standard-bearing Italian equivalents for Signora Bella Abzug or even Signora Gloria Steinem. Muliebrity (the state of possessing full womenly powers), as celebrated by Gina Lollobrigida or Sophia Loren, remains the Latin ideal — as does using those full womanly powers in traditional ways.

Closer to the women's movement is the life style of Rome's new "in" movie star, tall, slender, Brazilian-born Florinda Balkan. She says and does what she wants, when and where she wishes and with whom she chooses and her fine bone structure is the admiration of Italian designer Valentino.

If her clothes are any index of the influence of the liberated woman on Rome fashions, then it should be noted that she has been wearing trousers quite regularly. However, when she was asked after the Valentino opening what she thought of that couturier showing no pants this year at all she said: "It's time we changed."

In Paris the high incidence of ruffles in the collections and the low fashion profile accorded to pants suits might be considered a return to so-called feminine fashions. But here again, the women's movement could not have played a decisive part.

Le Mouvement

Members of the French version of NOW, which is called Le Mouvement de la Liberation de la Femme are disadvantaged. By historical precedent they are encumbered with a classic image — that of the dowdy lady reformer, the "bas bleu," i.e., the blue-stocking.

In the popular mind the "Bas bleu" is a woman who is very intelligent but not enough to see that all she must do is reach her objectives is to turn on her charm. Or, worse, she is a woman who has no charm to turn on. (Novelist George Sand, who was a "bas bleu," gets forgiven because she knew all about charm and what to do with it.)

Since charm in France is synonymous with fashion and beauty, and blue-stockings, are mostly charmless, it should come as no surprise that the newspapers and magazines currently mention members of Le Mouvement as "les harpies de la M.L.F."

You could say, in general, that women's libbers in France have notoriety rather than prominence.

Now if, as mentioned earlier, the question were phrased differently, we could have a case for the women's movement's influence on fashion. In American we have designer John Anthony. He won this year's signal honor in U. S. fashion — the Coty award — for his strictly man-tailored coats and suits for women.

A New Start On Improvements

The Oct. 17 referendum on a four cents tax increase to be used for recreation capital improvements has been cancelled.

The cancellation followed confusion over the legality of the way the fund could be spent. There was a question of whether three pools would have to be constructed before the funds could be used for any other purpose.

There is one hopeful note in the new action by the council on a motion by Percy Cox. That is the fact that the entire matter has been referred back to the Recreation Commission, "for thorough study as to requirements needed, costs involved, amount of tax needed to cover desired pools and other needs; and that legal requirements be checked in order that there will be no future confusion; and that the Recreation Commission, when this has been done, submit their recommendations to the City Council for future action."

That to us is a very proper move and one that certainly should have been followed from the beginning. The Recreation Commission will have the job of administering whatever funds are raised through any special tax and the thoughts of that commission are necessary before action is taken.

With city government the size it is in Greenville now, the City Council must use its boards and commissions to make studies and recommendations on impending expenditures. This procedure was not properly followed prior to the setting of this referendum.

Councilman Cox's motion clearly spells out that on the second go 'round, the swimming pool issue is referred to the Recreation Committion for thorough study and specific recommendations. This is the correct way to handle the matter.

Can't Count On Reduced Rates

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The Tar Heel policyholder can't count on the no-fault concept to reduce his auto liability insurance premiums.

The likelihood is that rates will go up, even if no-fault is adopted by the 1973 General Assembly, said Sen. F. O'Neil Jones of Anson, chairman of a study commission dealing with the subject.

BRYAN HAISLIP

He voiced the cautionary note last week in a preliminary report to Democratic House candidates, meeting in Raleigh for a briefing by state officials and others.

"Don't paint yourself into a corner by promising dramatic changes in rates," Jones advised. Six other states which have gone no-fault had substantial premium reductions, he said, but projections do not make it appear in the cards for North Carolina.

What would be benefits, he added, are certainty and facility of claims payment and assurance that a larger share goes for injured parties rather than fees for attorneys and other costs.

No-fault probably will be the pivotal consideration when the next legislature takes up the perennial subject of auto liability insurance. Hashed over by one study commission and legislative session after another, it remains a topical and controversial issue.

Bill Deing Drafted

Jones said a no-fault bill will be drafted by the study panel, and ready for introduction when the legislature convenes next January. It will provide a sound legal frame work within which legislators can debate and select options, he said.

"It is not our purpose to dictate insurance legislation which should be passed. Not at all," he explained. "We expect to offer an assortment or package from which the legislature itself can make the decisions."

Jones' view of the study commission role is unorthodox. Traditionally, it has been the vehicle for the formulation of a set of recommendations to solve a problem. Its report tended to create an adversary situation, inciting opponents to attack and advocates to defend. The out-come often has been stalemate, a commission report filed on the shelf, and no constructive action taken.

What Jones wants the insurance study commission to do is act as an unbiased broker of information for legislators. Rather than trying to sell a specific course of action, he explained, it should attempt to educate lawmakers to make decisions in a highly technical field.

Options, Not Recomendations

"I don't anticipate our results will be so much recommendations as the articulation of alternatives," he said. "Instead of telling the legislature what to do, we will show them ways to do things."

For example, on no-fault versus tort liability the commission can point out what can and can't be accomplished and how to draft a statute which will have the desired result, he said.

"We would lose our credibility with legislators if we took a stand on controversial issues. What we've got to do is make available to them the expertise we have gained through our study," Jones said.

One idea before the study commission would remove authority to fix rates from the insurance commissioner and place it with a board of three to five members named by the governor.

Consumer Advoate Role

That would leave the commissioner, as an official elected by the people, in the role of consumer advocate to speak directly for the public in the rate-making process, Jones explained. Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan advanced the suggestion. "Personally, I am impressed with it," Jones remarked.

It likely would get a different reaction from whoever sits in the commissioner's chair since it would restrict the powers of the office.

Jones, a freshman in the '71 session, lost his bid for nomination to a second term in the spring Democratic primary.

Three of the eleven study commission members are candidates in the general election. They are Sen. Gordon Allen of Person, in line as president pro tempore of the '73 Senate; and Reps. Craig Lawing of Mecklenburg and John S. Stevens of Buncombe.

Follow through for its study will require that some of the commission members and staff be on the scene when insurance legislation is debated.

Jones said he will take time from his Wadesboro law practice to come to Raleigh while the subject is considered by the General Assembly. "We will be available, one-to-one if necessary, to help members of the legislature understand the bills before them dealing with auto liability insurance," he promised.

Avers Morgan Looking To '74

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Nick Smith is rather new to the world of politics and when he gets through with this campaign, he'll probably wonder what it was that rolled over him.

"If I get fewer than two votes," Smith told me in a candid interview, "I'll have reason to feel crushed. That would mean that not even my wife voted for me."

The 34-year-old Smith is a Durham lawyer who teaches anthropology at N.C. State and lives in Chapel Hill. He is also running for attorney general against Robert Morgan, without question the most popular and powerful practicing politician in North Carolina.

"Morgan is really something," Smith says, a faint smile creasing his lips. "Mention his name in Chapel Hill and the reply is 'Boy, Morgan is great.' Can you imagine that? They love him in Chapel Hill. Have they forgotten that Morgan was one of the leaders in saddling the University with the Speaker Bun Law?"

Smith has modisily long hair, pencil-gray eyes, speaker softly about the American dream and being idealistic about the law. He's running against Morgan because he feels government must be competitive, not because he believes in offering himself as a sacrificial goat.
goat.

He likes Bob Morgan personally, he says, but thinks he's done a poor job as attorney general.

He claims Morgan's crusade for consumer protection has been for public relations and to make him popular, not to protect the public. He alleges the SBI's fight against drug abuse consists of busting kids for dope and not being able to catch the fat cats who make the rackets possible.

"I'm not saying legalize marijuana," Smith says, "but I'm saying the priorities are out of whack. Heroin should be the target of the SBI, especially the big people who deal at the top. An SBI agent shouldn't spend 10 minutes a day on marijuana. But they're interested in the headlines and that's what they go after. It's easy to bust kids for dope but it's hard to catch the big pusher. The SBI's not doing the job."

Smith concedes that he has found out without question that Morgan is a popular man. But he says it's because Morgan works at being popular and is running for the U.S. Senate in 1974.

"Morgan reads the polls," Smith says. "If a poll came out that said North Carolinians were worried about the traffic situation in Taiwan, Morgan would have a statement out the next day saying the attorney general's office is going to study the traffic situation in Taiwan. He won't promise the people that he'll serve four years as attorney general. He's going to pronounce his duties accomplished there in two years and run for the U.S. Senate."

Smith has tried to get the State Republican Party to give him some heavy ammo to fight Morgan. He contends that an overwhelming victory by Morgan will help other Democrats on the state ticket. But money isn't easy to come by these days, and mostly Smith is getting smiles, handshakes and a pat on the back with the admonition, "Do the best you can."

In all candor, the Republicans do not expect Smith to beat Morgan. And Smith does not expect Smith to beat Morgan.

Smith asked what chances I thought he had of beating Morgan.

"None," I replied.

"Then I'll go on to something else after this is over," he said.

A friend of Smith's waxed philosophical about the whole thing. "Nick's too smart to be in politics anyhow."

Thanks to you it's working

A PRACTICAL LESSON IN POLITICAL SCIENCE!

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Hike In Darkest Guinea

NEW YORK — It is no trick at all to demonstrate the hypocrisy of the United Nations: Witness the sanctions imposed upon Rhodesia. To demonstrate the UN's imbecility ordinarily takes a little longer, but a report has come recently to hand that happily simplifies the task.

This is a report submitted in July to the General Assembly's "Committee of 24," known formally as the Special Committee on the Situation with Regard to the Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples. The report comes from the special three-man mission assigned to the situation in Portuguese Guinea.

Now, Portuguese Guinea does not rank large among the powers of the world. It is enclave of 14,000 square miles—about the size of Connecticut and Massachusetts combined—carved out of the west coast of Africa south of Senegal. Its population was estimated last year at 560,000.

For the past 10 years, more or less, a guerilla outfit known as PAIGC (Partido Africano da Independencia da Guine e Cabo Verde) has been trying to overthrow the established government. The guerillas call themselves freedom fighters; others call them terrorists.

The jungle struggle is important to the Communist, who are seeking to gain power; and it is important to Portugal, which is trying to hold power, but it has small importance otherwise. It is a fair surmise that most of the natives stand indifferent in the cause. Back in the jungle, such concepts as freedom, nationalism and self-determination are as shapeless as the river mud. The people will be ruled by the remote authority of Marcelo Caetano, a benevolent man, or by the more immediate authority of Amilcar Cabral, who is scarcely benevolent at all. So much for Portuguese Guinea.

On March 14, the Committee of 24 announced that its special mission would visit the liberated areas of Portuguese Guinea. The three gentlemen—one from Ecuador, one from Sweden, one from Tunisia—met the PAIGC leaders on April 2. They were led about the jungle for six days, more or less, and came out on April 8. Thereupon, they made their report.

Imagine, if you please, three Cub Scouts who have just come burbling home from their first overnight hike. They are filled with wow, golly and gosh! They heard a bear—or that's what the older boys said it was. They found a wildcat's track—or anyhow that's what it looked like. They walked for miles and miles and miles, and they got so tired. But they saw all these marvelous things, you know, like birds' nests and snake skins and funny rocks, and they sang songs around the campfire and it was awful spooky at night, and oh, mother!

That is precisely the tone of his ludicrous report. The three UN diplomats supposedly were inspecting "liberated areas" under guerrilla control, but clearly the areas were not liberated in any ordinary meaning of the word. The Cub Scouts hiked by night and hid with their leaders in the jungle by day. Their guerilla hosts

The Real Test

(Raleigh Times)

N.C. State Chancellor John T. Caldwell summarized well the advantages of the new higher education system when he told the N.C. State trustees that it offers "a chance for educators instead of legislators to spell out an institution's priorities."

Dr. Caldwell was discussing the new method of budget presentation under the higher education reorganization plan adopted by the 1971 General Assembly. Under the system, the 16 campuses in the North Carolina university system submit budget requests to the University Board of Governors. The Board considers each request before submitting an overall budget for all the campuses.

Under the old system, each campus submitted its request to the Advisory Budget Commission and then to the legislature itself. The inevitable result was considerable competition between campuses, and more than a lot of politics became involved.

Although Dr. Caldwell's estimate of the system as offering a chance for educators to spell out priorities is correct, whether the new system will work is up to the campuses themselves, and the individual legislators. If an institution decides to go directly to the legislature to seek some special project, the system will be damaged. If the legislators heed such special pleading from one campus, the system will be wrecked.

The higher education reorganization became necessary because of such end runs to the legislature in behalf of special projects. Legislators felt that they had to get all they could in budget requests for home-district campuses. The result was a tangle which didn't serve the best interests of statewide education.

Under the new system, the University Board of Governors studies the budget requests from all campuses, and makes one lump sum recommendation to the Advisory Budget Commmission. The Board with the advice of President William C. Friday and his staff, is able to work out educational priorities on a statewide basis.

The real test for the new system will come during the next legislature. If the legislators refuse to deal with any educational requests that haven't come from the Board of Governors, the new plan will be well on the road to success.

Enjoys Happy People

By MARTIN KRUMING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bus driver Edgar Parker enjoys happy passengers.

That's why he greets them with, "Hi, how are you?" and urges them to "please watch your step. Have a beautiful afternoon and a lovely weekend."

Parker apologizes to elderly ladies with canes for not pulling even with the curb; says goodby in five languages; points out landmarks in Harlem and midtown Manhattan; waves to merchants and jokes constantly.

Some samples:

"Next stop is the poor house—Rockefeller Plaza."

"Welcome aboard our 747. We have this aircraft disguised as a bus to prevent a hijack. I hope."

The riders love it.

Customers have written him letters, offered candy and free lunches and even tried to kiss him.

"One lady wanted to kiss me goodnight but her husband kept pulling her away," says Parker, a 50-year-old father of three who moved to New York from North Carolina in 1936.

He started driving a city bus four years ago. Before that he ran a liquor store in Harlem.

"Driving a bus in New York is one of the hardest jobs," he says. "Anything you do with the public is hard."

His secret is "neighbor first, God second and me last."

"I love people," says Parker, an ordained minister who spends little time preaching but a lot of hours visiting hospital patients.

"You never see people smile anymore. They're so tense waiting for someone to offer a kind word," he says. "If everybody practices a little love there would be less fear."

Many passengers stop on their way out to thank him for

Forty Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
September 28, 1932

The act for a town on the lands of Richard Evans on the Tar River had never been carried out, so in 1774 a supplementary act was passed providing for that town, by the name Martinborough. The act also provided for the building of a courthouse, prison and stocks and making it the county town. Among the acts of the Assembly for 1784 were those for cleaning out the Tar River and making the town of Martinborough a place for the inspection of tobacco but the Greenville tobacco market was not established until 1891, when local citizens built the Eastern Tobacco Warehouse. The two most important events of 1786 to Pitt County were, the incorporation for the Pitt Academy to be established at Martinborough and the changing of the name Martinborough to "Greenesville", in honor of Nathaniel Greene, the hero of Guilford Court House. A free ferry was established at Greenville in 1787 by the Assembly, and a small tax provided for its maintenance. It is supposed to have been about where the bridge now stands.

Strength For Today

WORSE THAN THE PLAGUE

Recently I talked with a woman whose aged husband still continues in a most active and useful career. Although twenty years past retirement, he still goes to the office, and his usefulness, especially in helping young people get through college and professional schools, is recognized by educators throughout the country.

"How can he do it?" I asked the man's wife. "Well," she said, "I would say the chief reason for his wholesome life and his success is the fact that he harbors nos resntments." I recalled that many years ago this man experienced a shocking disappointment to his ambition. The blow would have killed some men. Of those who survived many of them would have become permanently embittered. But this man? He has gone through life smiling. His conversation is punctuated with chuckles. He has become rather infirm in the legs but not in mind or soul. He shuffles along the street, but he gets to the office and gets his work done. Best of all, he is cheerful about everything.

No conflicts! This is the cause of a lot of life's successes, and the presence of conflict the cause of much failure and early death. Resentment sets up within us a decimating conflict.

Flee resentment as you would flee the plague. Resentment is the more dangerous of the two.

Money Management Role Aired

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One result of spreading affluence and its corallary, consumer activism, is the availability today of information that once was closely guarded by money institutions.

A growing number of banks now publish for individuals the type of money management bulletins that once were directed only at wealthy individuals and corporations.

There is nothing altruistic about it. It's good business.

Millions of persons today have discretionary income; they have money left over after paying for basic needs, and they can decide how they want to save or spend it. Naturally the banks are interested.

In addition, people are better educated today. This doesn't necessarily mean that they are better equipped to handle themselves in the complex marketplace of modern society, but it does mean that they want to know how.

The combination of money and education adds up to power. That power underlays the entire consumer movement — it led to the more vigorous regulatory climate and now it is fostering the disclosure of information once regarded as private.

Monthly publications by large banks treat such diverse topics as controlling travel costs, the art and science of budgeting, and calculating retirement costs.

Among the tips is a savings timetable that lists the amount that must be saved per month at various interest rates to achieve a specific goal in a stated time.

If you wished to build up savings of $10,000, you would look down the chart and read that you would have to put away $65.86 a month for 10 years, assuming 4.5 per cent interest.

Smart savers then may turn to another chart, also offered by the banks under their recent "the truth never hurt" policy. This chart illustrates the damage that inflation rates cause.

It shows that if the rate of inflation was 4 per cent a year — it exceeded that in four of the past five years — the buying power of that money would be $8,200 in five years, $6,700 in 10.

Have such revelations hurt the savings institutions? Hardly. Savings and loan associations are bulging because the growing financial assets of Americans — more than $85 billion in savings, life insurance, pensions and the like — must be placed somewhere.

Wise consumers know that, like corporations, they must have "liquidity," or money that can be used quickly. Therefore savings.

As the level of education and the availability of information rise, so also rises the number of direct shareholders in corporations, so also does the amount of life insurance.

The facts aid rather than hurt legitimate financial institutions.

Chef-Restaurateur Will Not Sell Due To 'Pride Of Name'

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Liane Kouny's work hat is a fashionable black straw model instead of a chef's traditional toque blanche. But that's not what makes her an unusual chef-restaurateur.

Mme. Kouny's restaurant in Fond du Lac, Wis., is open regularly only one night a week and by appointment on two others. Dinner for one costs $17.50 without wine or liquor. This sounds like a formula for failure, but The Postilion is so successful in its 23rd year that the French-born owner recently rejected an unsought offer to sell it to a big American food manufacturer.

In an interview here, Mme. Kounty—pronounced Keq'-nee—said she turned down the offer for the same reason that she refuses to obtain a state liquor license: pride of name.

The interview took place during a trip here in connection with the introduction this fall of mail order sales of some food specialties formerly sold only at the restaurant.

Mme. Kouny said she refused to get an alcoholic beverage license because:

"In Wisconsin the wine license is married to the liquor license and I don't want our family name on one."

She said her patrons benefit from this policy. They can afford to bring with them wines she couldn't afford to stock.

Booked Ahead

Her restaurant also differs from the norm in other ways. It occupies the dining room and verandah of her home, a 121-year-old house. It is booked months ahead on reservations, although the only advertising is word-of-mouth.

She either grows or has grown for her virtually all the ingredients used, from fresh herbs to Charolais beef cattle, milk-fed veal and Bresse-type chickens. Poulets de Bresse, a great French specialty, are fed only on grain, corn and buttermilk.

Mme. Kouny, whose husband, John, is an artist and director of the Oshkosh Public Museum, insisted on all natural ingredients long before it was fashionable to do so.

"I'm not a food faddist," she said. "I am a connoisseur. I know when something is good."

She does all the cooking herself, with the help of three women in the kitchen. Six waitresses serve the 28-seat restaurant.

Special reservations also are accepted for lunches and dinner any weekday but it was apparent that Mme. Kouny's heart really belongs to the cooking school she also conducts in her home.

Her pupils range from high school graduates and college girls to professional chefs of both sexes. Two young women who were star pupils now are chefs at the Wisconsin governor's mansion.

"The school is no society girls' afternoon tea," she said. "I supervise it like a boarding school. I teach them how to prepare and serve meals, how to set tables and plan menus." She even insists that they learn meat cutting.

No Waste Taught

"I teach them not to waste anything, to get the last vestige of nutrition out of the food they serve.

"Meals are served on embroidered Madeira linens, sterling and Spode (fine English bone china). Trappings don't make good food. They enhance it. And they can't make up for bad food.

"The greatest specialties of the house are my mother's recipes," added Mme. Kouny. These include milk-fed veal in fresh herbs and cream, salmon mousse, quenelles (pike dumplings) with lobster sauce, and fruit compotes with rum, cognac or kirsch—white brandy distilled from cherries.

Mme. Kouny said she has taught cooking since the early 1940s, when as a bride she opened her first culinary arts school with friends as pupils. That was in Portland, Ore., where her husband was stationed with the U.S. Air Force. She said she's still teaching nearly 30 years later because:

"What you like to do is not work."

Good sauce

Liane Kouny's restaurant serves fresh corn off the cob in a rich cheese sauce. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a heavy skillet. Off the heat, stir in 4 tablespoons of flour until smooth. Gradually add ½ cup of strong chicken stock and 1 cup of heavy, or whipping cream, 15 drops of juice from a grated onion, ½ of a fresh nutmeg, grated, and salt and ground white pepper to taste. Cook, stirring often, until sauce thickens and floury taste is gone. Stir in corn cut from 12 ears. Add ½ cup of grated Swiss or gruyere cheese and stir well again. Add 1 tablespoon of chopped fresh parsley and stir well. Turn into a flameproof hot buttered dish, top with 3 or 4 tablespoons of grated Swiss or gruyere and place under broiler just long enough for mixture to reach boiling point and brown lightly. Makes 6-8 servings.

MRS. ELMER RAY BURROUGHS JR.

Couple Weds In Sunday Ceremony

Miss Anita Rae Langley became the bride of Elmer Ray Burroughs Jr. Sunday afternoon at five o'clock in a ceremony performed on the lawn at the home of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Langley of Pactolus and the bridegoom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ray Burroughs Sr. of New Bern.

The Rev. Willis Wilson of Winterville, uncle of the bride, officiated at the single ring ceremony. The couple exchanged vows amid a setting of mums and greenery.

The bride wore a yellow polyester A-line dress designed with short sleeves. She used matching accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of North Pitt High School. The bridegroom is employed by Howe's Furniture Store.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Kinston.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by aunts and uncles of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Langley of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Hardison of Robersonville, at the bride's home.

The refreshment table was covered with a white and blue embroidered linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white snapdragons, daisies and pom pons.

Assisting in serving were Miss Sue Johnston, Miss Arlene Langley, cousin of the bride, and Miss Leckie Langley, sister of of the bride.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the bridal couple included a shower Friday night held at the Pactolus Ruritan Club Building.

Hostesses were Mrs. W. M. Langley, Miss Leckie Langley, Mrs. Donnie Hardison, Mrs. Sandra Gray and Mrs. J. D. Langley.

The refreshment table was covered with a shell white cloth over green and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white snapdragons, daisies and pom pons flanked by green candles.

Assisting in serving were Miss Sue Johnston, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Hardison and Mrs. Langley.

The bride was remembered with a corsage of yellow daisies.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Carroll of Winterville announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Ann, to Stephen Franklin Walters, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Walters of Greenville. The wedding will take place Nov. 18.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have little chance now to get out and get much done, but you are able to tackle those problems of a basic nature that need your undivided attention successfully, even though you do not feel you are getting much done. There is now a tendency to nag at mate or anyone around who is close to you, but adverse results would follow, so avoid criticizing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do your utmost to have more harmony with those who dwell with you and you can do much better on your job, in business, etc., as a result. Don't take any risks where your present security is concerned. Don't invest unwisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be careful not to take out on others whatever is your own fault, or you get into real trouble, lose valuable allies. Buy the supplies you need, but count the cost well. Remain calm and poised.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get good advice from experts where monetary matters are concerned so you do not make any serious errors. That usual adviser is not dependable right now, so avoid. Use your own hunches, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are feeling cranky today, so be sure to relax and think clearly before you come to any important decisions or do vital work. Don't attend that social affair where one you do not like will be. Steer clear of trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you may be right about some situation, don't voice any comments right now, or you get into trouble with others. Study that important data and become better informed. Do not waste time with persons who bore you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You had better handle own affairs yourself since others are so busy with their own worries they could do you no good. Don't give advice to others unless asked for it, and then most wisely, cautiously. Avoid arguments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't take chances with your good name — follow every rule and regulation that applies to you. Steer clear of a higher-up who is looking for someone on whom to vent spleen. Don't let it be you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you leave present set-up for something new and untried, you could get into a peck of trouble, so show that you are wise, stable. Get the information that will be helpful in performing your regular work more efficiently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) That intuitive prompting you have is not good, so do not follow it or you get into a good deal of trouble. Show that you have self-control and follow orthodox methods. Avoid one who makes you feel uncomfortable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't get impatient if an associate who can help you with some project has big troubles and cannot do so at this time. Try to be of help yourself, and later all is fine for you. Discuss important affairs with associates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You had better delve right into all that work ahead of you without expecting much help from others and it goes off nicely. Rest during spare time so you improve condition of your nerves. Eat lightly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You had better find out more about the new kind of amusements you are tempted to jump into now, or you might wish you had never done so. This could be either monetarily or otherwise. Get your bills paid early.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has fine talents for whatever careers are best suited for dealing with the public in general, serving them en masse, whether with utilities or whatever has to do with the humanities. Teach your offspring early to be objective instead of taking everything so personally, thinking others have little better to do than to criticize him or her. Then the chart here becomes a most successful one.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

could not provide so much as a spare razor. Thus the visitors went a week without and shave, and they loved it.

Indeed, the UN investigators loved everything they saw or heard. Their report betrays not the slightest hint of neutral objectivity. The rebels are depicted as heroic, brave, dedicated, hard-working, mature, valiant, peaceful and determined. They have established 200 school, a great number of hospitals, a whole system of courts. They are planning some lovely one-party elections. They are building a model nation. By contrast, the Portuguese are insane and hysterical fascists who find despotic amusement in the bombing of little children.

The outraged Portuguese have denounced this caper as "Mission Invisible." They strongly suspect that the guerrillas, with a nice black humor, led their bug-eyed and breathless guests on a merry chase through a few square miles of a border-area forest. For all the hard evidence produced by the UN mission, it could be so. The report, in any event, is a farce. A s such, it accurately reflects the character of the UN General Assembly, but it is not very funny all the same.

'John Doe' Is Held Here

Law enforcement officers issued a John Doe warrant for a man they found at 9 Ford St. yesterday afternoon charging him with possession of marijuana after they discovered a package of marijuana in the apartment.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Greenville Police officers and Pitt County ABC enforcement officers conducted a search of the dwelling about 2:35 p.m. and took the unidentified man into custody when they found marijuana in a bedroom at the house. The police official said the man refused to give his name to the officers.

He was jailed under a $2,500 bond pending a hearing in District Court.

Chief Cannon said that in addition to the marijuana, searchers found a .9mm German-made automatic pistol and a .38 caliber revolver concealed in the dwelling.

Two serial numbers on the revolver had been filed off, the police official noted.

He said efforts are now being made to identify the man and the pistols found in the home.

a pleasant ride. A German woman had her friend take her picture alongside him.

How do you spot Parker's bus?

It's marked "4 to Ft. Tyron Park" on an afternoon route, and usually he's heard announcing over his microphone: "All aboard. All aboard. Hi, glad to have you with us today."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)-(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets fully steady Wednesday.

Supplies adequate.

Demand fair to good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 44.93,
Medium whites: 39.91,
Small whites: 27.54.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today are mostly steady. Tops of 28.75-29.25 Rocky Mount; 27.75-28.75 Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; 27.50-28.50 Wilson, Siler City and Denton; 26.50-27.75 Tarboro; 26.50-27.50 Bethel; 29.50 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Aycen and Laurinburg; 29.00 High Falls; 28.50 Mt. Olive; 28.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b dock broilers: Market generally steady today. Supplies adequate. Demand good. Weights mostly desirable. The N.C. f.o.b. dock weighted average price for less than truck lot sales of sized plant grade A broilers to be picked up at docks next week is 29.69 cents per pound.

North Carolina hens: Prices steady with a firm undertone next week on heavy type. Supplies of heavy type are fully adequate and the demand fair to good. Offerings of light type are short of trade needs and the demand good. Heavies, at farm, 12 cents per pound. Light type, at farm, 6½ to 7, mostly 6½ cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned a bit sour today after the dispelling of peace rumors which spurred a big rise Wednesday.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 3.24 to 944.01. Declines took a 604-to-510 lead over advances, with 1,462 issues exchanged in slow trading.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was off .14 to 60.00. The price-change index at the American Stock Exchange, however, was up .01 to 26.09.

Airline issues were especially weak today, after a major financial daily's bearish look at the industry's prospects. TWA was actively trade and down 2⅛ to 41⅜. American was off 1⅛ to 24⅜; Eastern down 1⅛ to 23⅛; and UAL off 1⅜ to 31⅛.

Most-active on the Big Board was Gulf Oil, down ¼ to 23¼. Second-most-active was Great Western Financial, up ¾ to 33¾. The present management of Great Western Financial recently won a proxy battle to maintain control of the company.

Record $93.77 Day On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE — The Farmville tobacco market yesterday averaged $93.77 per hundred pounds when 506,725 pounds of tobacco sold for $475,160.

"To the best of my knowledge, yesterday the Farmville market sold the highest price loose leaf tobacco that has been sold in the entire Eastern Belt during the 1972 auction season," stated Louis Williams, sales supervisor.

Williams said top price paid for several pounds of wrappers ran from $1.50 to $1.64 per pound. One pile of fancy cutters brought $1.66 per pound.

"Pile after pile sold for over $1 per pound," Williams noted. "Quality of offerings was by far the best of the season.

The volume of leaf grades declined yesterday while smoking leaf and cutter grades increased. Nondescript grades accounted for less than one percent of the sale.

Attorney Sworn By Judge Wells

Winterville native, Mrs. Linda Avery Thurston was sworn in Monday as an attorney-at-law by Judge Winifred T. Wells in Pitt County Superior Court. She was introduced to the court by District Solicitor Eli Bloom.

Mrs. Thurston has the distinction of having passed the North Carolina Bar Examination even though she is completing her third year of Law School at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is working part-time in a Chapel Hill law firm. Her husband, Richard Thurston is assistant solicitor in Durham.

A graduate of Winterville High School and UNC—Chapel Hill, Mrs. Thurston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Avery of Winterville.

Man Arrested

Police yesterday arrested Thomas Wilson Manning, 26, of Route 2, Williston on charges of indecent exposure following an incident here yesterday.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, Manning was charged after allegedly exposing himself to an East Carolina University coed on the ECU campus.

Rampants Host Rocky Mount In Key Game

Rose High School's Rampants face another tough Division II foe this week as the race has reached the critical point for the team.

In hosting Rocky Mount's Gryphons, Rose is in a must-win situation if they expect to have a shot at the title and therefore a playoff berth.

The Rampants come into the game with a 3-1 record, bowing in their only conference contest, against Wilson. Last Week, they downed Jacksonville in a non-league game that was not as close as the score indicates, 28-21. The Cardinals scored in the final minute of play against the second unit when the game had been decided.

"It was a spectator's game," Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner said afterwards. ""It had a lot of running and passing that the people like to see. But it wasn't a good gome for the coaches because of so many mistakes."

Bumgarner praised Jacksonville as having a good football team. "They are better than everyone expected them to be. They moved the ball well, even though we didn't really tackle well all night."

Three members of the Rose defense sat out most of the game, two missing it entirely. Calvin Moore is still hospitalized with a kidney injury, while George Price was sidelined with an ankle injury. Not far into the game Mike Harris twisted a knee and didn't see action again. And then, in the second half, Dickie Johnson got clobbered, breaking his nose, ending his playing for the night.

"Everyone is expected to be ready to play except for Calvin," Bumgarner said, "although Johnson is still questionable. If he plays, he'll wear a special protective mask."

Rose was sepecially vulnerable to the draw in the game, and expects to see it again this week against the Gryphons. "we've worked on it. But whether we can stop it is a different thing. We're not so much worried about the draw as we are about their total offense. We were in a position to stop Jacksonville's draw and we just didn't tackle well."

Bumgarner agreed that the Rampants were somewhat flat in the game, following their being so high for the Wilson contest.

The coach said he couldn't help but cite running back Al Hunter for the running he did against Jacksonville. The big back picked up 269 yards on the ground and scored four touchdowns.

"But as he said Monday in our players meeting, he couldn't have done it without 10 others helping him and blocking for him," Bumgarner said. "On that first touchdown run, our films show that every single number of the unit did their assignment perfectly. The line blocked extremely well all evening, and this has to be the reason for our success."

Bumgarner said that Rocky Mount is bigger and stronger and quicker than anybody the Rampants have faced so far. "The only thing they don't have going for them that Wilson did is tradition," he added. "They don't have it yet, but they are 4-0 and they feel they can go all the way. They think they are the bast defensive team in the state and so far they've done a good job of proving it."

Bumgarner said that there is no one particular player who has made the Gryphon defense as solid as it is. "They all play well," he said. "They have been passed on and run on, but when they got down near the goal line, they are especially tough. New Bern had the ball on the one and didn't score; so did Raleigh. They forced six turnovers by Raleigh, three fumbles and three interceptions."

Their offense is similar to Wilson's. They come at the defense from a pro-I or Power-I. "They just try to blow people off the line." Bumgarner said. "they have a good tight end, and they try to run his way or throw his way. As far as the running game is concerned, they go to their tailback 80 per cent of the time."

Bumgarner expects a very physical game. "The way we are physically prepared will have a lot to do with the outcome," he said. "We feel we can move the ball, and we also feel we can stop them if we don't get people hurt."

But it's a must game, if the Rampants are to continue as a threat in the league. "We could finish 8-2 and just be an also-ran," Bumgarner said. "It would be a good season, but it wouldn't be good enough."

Game time in Ficklen Stadium is 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The probable offensive starting lineup has Ronnie Rasberry and Fred Lemmon at ends, Charles Tyson and Maurice Sheppard at tackles; John Calhoun and David Matheis at guards, Phil Ragazzo at center, Dean Phillips at quarterback, Reggie Perkins at full back, and Mike Harris and Al Hunter at halfbacks.

On defense, the Rampants will have Henry Bunn and Lee Cherry at ends, Ronnie Moore and Ken Creech at tackles, Jackie Savage, Ragazzo, Harding Sugg and Harris at linebackers, and Hunter, Mat Perkins, and either Lemmond or Dickie Johnson in the secondary.

Lorenzen Has Important Week

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Fred Lorenzen, winner of more than $475,000 in stock car racing, labels the current week as the most important of his career as a driver.

He's entered in a Chevrolet in Sunday's Wilkes 400 at North Wilkesboro and says the car is "getting better every time I go out in it. I think we'll win a race or two, maybe before the season is over."

Lorenzen, who will celebrate his 38th birthday Dec. 30, hopes to qualify for the 32-car starting field Friday, then hop into a plane for Chicago where he expects to be married Saturday.

He'll return to Wilkesboro Saturday, run in the Wilkes 400 Sunday—and, hopefully, win it—then take off for a honeymoon, probably at his off-season hangout in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

There is little doubt that he'll make the Wilkes 400 field. He qualified fifth best for last Sunday's Old Dominion 500 and was running fifth behind Bobby Allison, Richard Petty, Buddy Baker and David Pearson until his engine failed after 216 laps.

"The car is a good one," Lorenzen said, "Eventually, we'll get an engine that will hold up. These little things can't keep happening, and when we get the bad luck behind us, we'll be tough."

'Wild Dogs' Hold The Lead

East Carolina University's Wild Dogs held onto their number one position in the nation to number two in slipped to number two in rushing, according to the weekly statistics released by the National Collegiate Sports Services, a branch of the NCAA.

The Bucs continue to lead the country's major college division in total defense, allowing an average of 128.3 yards per game. Auburn University ranks second with a 157.5 yards per game average, while Oklahoma is third at 168.5.

In the rushing category, however, Southern Methodist, with a minus 15 yard performance against Florida over the weekend, moved in front of the Pirates' rugged defenders, with a 41.0 average. The Bucs who gave up 125 yards to Appalachian, fell from their 7.0 yards per game mark to a 46.3 average, ranked second. Third was Texas Christian with a 58.0 average per game.

Southern Methodist will get a tough test this weekend, however, testing Virginia Tech. Auburn, meanwhile, meets highly ranked Tennessee, so it would seem likely that the Pirates could improve their ranking in both categories since their average will not change due to an open date.

The Bucs also advanced in the scoring defense column despite allowing their first touchdown of the season. The Bucs currently rank sixth, allowing a 3.3 point per game average. Notre Dame, Ohio State and Louisville are tied for first, allowing none in one game each, while Oklahoma is next at 1.5, followed by Stanford at 3.0.

Notre Dame faces Purdue, Ohio State hosts North Carolina, and Louisville meets Dayton this weekend, while Oklahoma takes on Clemson and Stanford goes against tough West Virginia.

Rusty Markland, honored as the Southern Conference's Defensive Player of the Week, ranks third in the nation in interceptions, with a 1.3 per game average. Donnie Sprouse of VPI and Pat Virtue of Navy rank tied for first with a 1.5 per game average.

Several ECU opponents for this season also rank high in the national statistics. Mike Stultz of N. C. State is sixth among punt returners with a 22.6 yard per return average. Mike Stewart of William & Mary is sixth among interceptions, picking off an average of one per game.

State ranks 12th in total offense, picking up 440.3 yard per game. They are eighth in passing offense with 236.3 per game.

Jay Jones of Richmond is 15th in punting with a 42.3 average, with Nick Vidnovic of Carolina 19th at 41.8 and Jim Hughes of The Citadel, 21st with a 41.4 average.

Cougars Power Past Kings By 118-102

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

"Billy C. is back!"

That's the slogan of the Carolina Cougars for the 1972-73 season.

Last night in Minges Coliseum, the Cougars roared to a 118-102 victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings (formerly the Cincinnati Royals), and when Billy Cunningham was on the floor, they were definitely a different team.

Cunningham came to the Cougars this year as a result of court action from a suit between the Cougars and the Philadelphia 76ers. Cunningham had signed with the Cougars some time ago, but later signed to play again for the NBA 76ers, the team he was with at the time. Court action has dragged on for several years, but a decision was finally reached that Cunningham must honor his Cougar contract, and the former University of North Carolina star "came home."

Although he scored only eight points in the game with the Kings, his presence was definitely felt. Playing only 18 minutes, he helped to guide the Cougars to an early lead, and then helped to pull them away in the second half as they led most of the way. His ball-hawking was the real asset he brought to the Cougars, as he made several steals at key points.

The Kings were plagued by injuries. Nat Archibald, their floor leader, has been hampered by an injury, while center Sam Lacey hurt his leg during the game. In addition, forward Ken Durrett was missing because of an injury sustained in the only King win in four starts the previous night against the Virginia Squires.

The Cougars fell behind only once, at 2-0, when Tom Van Arsdale drove the baseline for a basket after 30 seconds. Former Duke star Mike Lewis hit from underneath to tie it up and Mack Calvin hit a jumper after a steal to put Caroina ahead, 4-2.

Van Arsdale tied it up at 4-4, but Lewis tapped in a missed shot for a 6-4 lead with 10:12 left and the Cougars were never caught again.

They slowly built up their lead to as much as 11 points in the first period, taking a 30-19 lead just before the Kings got two free throws at the end of the period from Matt Goukas, making it 30-21.

In the second period, the Cougars continued to pull away quickly building their lead to 13 at 34-21 on two free throws by Ed Manning and a drive by Ted McClain.

The Kings struggled back, however, and behind the scoring of John Mengelt cut the margin to four at 42-38 with 2:19 left. Calvin then sparked the Cougars with a free throw, a basket, and a feed to McClain after stealing the ball to run the Cougars back to an 11 point edge and they held a 53-42 lead at intermission.

The third quarter was somewhat sluggish until near the end when the Cougars again upped their lead, this time to 17 at 78-61. Then, early in the final period, they built the lead to as much as 22 at 100-78 as Bob Warren hit six straight points for them. After that, it was just a question of running out the clock.

Calvin and Gene Littles led the Cougars with 17 point each, while Lewis had 16, Joe Caldwell had 11 (all in the first half before being withdrawn with an injury), Dennis Wuycik also had 11 and McClain had 10.

Mengelt led the Kings with 24, while Nate Williams had 14 and Van Arsdale had 12.

Perry's 23rd Win May Have Put Baltimore Out Of Reach Of Flag

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the Orioles an extinct bird: Could be—in the American League East pennant race.

After a critical 3-0 loss to the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, the defending American League champion Baltimore Orioles might be a dying breed in 1972.

"That doesn't eliminate us mathematically," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, "but ... "

Weaver left the sentence hanging, which is just about where the Orioles are right now. Baltimore has fallen 3½ games in back of the front-running Boston Red Sox and it appears that only a miracle finish could give them a fourth straight Eastern Division pennant.

"I can't figure out all the combinations it would take for us to win, but I imagine there are some," added Weaver.

This is the pitch, Earl:

Any combination of three victories by Boston or losses by Baltimore will eliminate the Orioles from contention. The same goes for the New York Yankees, who also fell 3½ behind by losing to the second-place Detroit Tigers 6-5 Wednesday night.

The Red Sox continued to rule the East by a half-game after defeating the Milwaukee Brewers 7-5.

In the West, the Oakland A's moved closer to the title by winning a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins, 1-0 in 11 innings and 2-1 in 10. The Chicago White Sox dropped to the brink of elimination by losing a 4-2 decision to the Kansas City Royals. Elsewhere, the California Angels beat the Texas Rangers 3-1.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 5, Philadelphia 1; Chicago 8, Montreal 0; Atlanta 8, Cincinnati 5; Houston 3, San Francisco 0; St. Louis 4, New York 0, and Los Angeles 2, San Diego 0.

Gaylord Perry, who's been accused on occasion of throwing a wet ball, didn't let a 90-minute rain delay bother him as he pitched a seven-hitter over the Orioles.

"There's no doubt that Perry throws a strange pitch," said Weaver of Perry's alleged spitter.

Perry, who won his 23rd game, allowed three of Baltimore's hits in the opening inning but pitched out of trouble with the help of a double play. The veteran righthander was equally effective after that rain delay in the sixth inning.

The Indians scored all their runs off Oriole southpaw Dave McNally in the first inning.

Chris Chambliss hit a two-run triple and then scored on a single by Ray Fosse. McNally then departed the scene without retiring a batter.

Duke Sims delivered a tie-breaking single in the last of the ninth to cap a two-run rally as the Tigers whipped New York and dealt a serious blow to the Yankees' title chances. The loser was reliever Sparky Lyle, the Yankees' Most Valuable Pitcher with 35 saves.

The Tigers scored five runs in the last two innings to come back from an early 5-0 deficit. New York had taken that big lead in the first two innings on a three-run homer by Johnny Callison in the first and a two-run single by Bobby Murcer in the second.

Reggie Smith doubled home two runs, Luis Aparicio tripled home a pair and Bill Lee turned in a clutch relief job to lead Boston over Milwaukee.

"All we have to do is win every ball game and we have no worries," said the 38-year-old Aparicio, his eyes sparkling like a rookie.

"This is one I felt we had to win," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko.

Sal Bando delivered both game-winning hits to pace Oakland over Minnesota. In the first game, he singled to drive in the winning run in the 11th inning and in the second game, his run-scoring hit produced the game-winner in the 10th.

John Mayberry slammed a two-run homer in the first and scored after his third-inning trile to power Kansas City past Chicago. White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner was obviously distraught.

"We're really a long shot now," he said, quietly.

Vada Pinson's double in the third inning drove home Sandy Alomar with the winning run and Clyde Wright pitched a six-hitter as California beat Texas.

Terp Sophomore Has Rush Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland sophomore fullback Lou Carter has jumped from sixth place to first in rushing in Atlantic Coast Conference football.

Carter, who did not draw a starting assignment in last week's game with VMI, came on to gain 117 yards on 16 carries. That increased his season's total to 237 yards for an average of 79 yards in three games.

The Terrapins beat VMI 28-16, their first victory after a 24-24 tie with N.C. State and a 31-26 loss to North Carolina.

Six quarterbacks are averaging better than 100 yards in total offense. Still the leader is Maryland's All Neville, with an average of 180.3 yards. Then in order come Dennis Shaw of North Carolina State, 161.3; Harrison Davis of Virginia, 135; Nick Vidnovic of North Carolina, 124.7; Ken Pengitore of Clemson, Ill.; and freshman Dave Buckey of N.C. State, 108.

Neville also continues as the passing leader. He has connected on 40 of 61 attempts for an average of 13.3 completions a game.

Davis is second with an average 10.7 completions and Shaw is third at a 7.3 average.

Virginia's Dave Sullivan continues as the top receiver, averaging 6.3 catches a game. He has caught 19 passes for 216 yards and two touchdowns in the Cavaliers' two victories and a loss.

Second is Don Ratliff of Maryland, who has caught 15 passes, an average of five a game, good for a total of 218 yards and two touchdowns.

Ellis Alexander of North Carolina has taken over as the scoring leader with 21 points, all with his kicking. He has made good on all 12 extra-point attempts and on three of four field-goal attempts.

Chuck Ramsey of Wake Forest has the best punting average, 45.5 yards, which also is the second best in the nation.

What makes this music system a SUPER BARGAIN at $329.80? Make your own three-way comparison test. 1. Match it up with an expensive component system . . . hear the difference . . . probably not but if you do you'll probably agree ours sounds better at half the price of the other. 2. Now stack it up against an inexpensive component system . . . doesn't ours sound great . . . what did you expect . . . after all that other one is only a radio masquerading as hi-fi. 3. Let's set ours up beside that console you've been looking at . . . the console looks O.K., right . . . but it sounds terrible . . . don't forget in consoles the cost of the cabinet not the cost of the electronics determines the price of the set. Now decide for yourself and come in this week and save $100.

Benoy Inference Meets Rejection From Court

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Court of Appeals was told Wednesday that a 1971 meeting between Gov. Bob Scott and members of the state Utilities Commission resulted in executive influence on the regulatory agency.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy said this as he argued to the court against interim "emergency" rate increases granted Duke Power Co. and Carolina Power & Light Co. last year. He immediately ran into objections from the three-judge panel hearing the case.

"You're not trying this case before a newspaper," Judge Frank Parker told Benoy. "You're before a court now."

Benoy told the court he did not contend the meeting between Scott and the utilities commission, at which the natural gas shortage and the financial situation facing power companies were discussed was improper.

But, Benoy said, "I think the meeting had influence on the commission.

However, the three judges—Parker, Naomi Morris and Hugh Campbell, indicated they considered Benoy's reference to Scott's meeting with the utilities commissioners was irrevelent.

"If you have evidence of influence, put it in the record," Campbell told Benoy at one point. "You're asking the court to rule on inferences."

Benoy implied such influence in his briefs, submitted several days ago to the court before the interim rate case came up for oral arguments.

Before he began his arguments on the interim rate case which gave Duke Power and CP&L $26.1 million in higher rates last year, Benoy told the court his briefs were "factually correct, despite what may have been said about them."

This was a reference to Scott's charge that Benoy was "a liar" for implying in the briefs that executive influence was brought to bear on the commission in order to help the financial health of the two utilities.

Both companies received general rate increases in February, 1971. Duke got $22.5 million on Feb. 12, $14.72 million less than it had asked. On Feb. 26, CP&L received $15.8 million, $2.8 million less than requested.

Within three weeks after Scott met with the utilities commission on April 15, 1971, both Duke and CP&L filed for interim "emergency" rate relief.

Duke got $18.24 million in interim rates and CP&L got $7.86 million.

After hearing the arguments in the case, the court took the case under advisement.

and wanted to run for county commissioners. Morgan, Smith said, wrote Hooper a letter and said "you can't do that, that's dual office holding," at the same time himself having two jobs.

The candidate, who resides in Chapel Hill, said that "people in government are skeptical about government because they don't feel that those in power will listen to them."

"It would be a great thing for our state if the attorney general's office could shake itself free of politics and concentrate on rebuilding public confidence in the law by staying in constant touch with the people. One assistant attorney general listening to citizens fulltime would be better than 20 sitting in Raleigh," Smith said.

Acknowledging that the polular Morgan will be hard to outpoll in November, Smith said that he wants to provide the incumbent with some opposition and "give it the best try" that he can. "Frankly, I'm only concerned with one thing," he concluded, "and that's whether when this thing is over in November I can look at myself in the mirror ... and my self esteem is not located outside of anybody's poll or anybody's vote . . ." At this point, Smith said, "I'm just not ego involved."

A second request for rezoning, one Clark termed an "unusual one" was that made by David Greer for a tract of land located on the northern side of State Road 1529 northeast of the intersection of State Road 1529 and N.C. Highway 30. (State Road 1529 leads to Pactolus from the area just past Prepshirt).

Clark's reference to an "unusual" request was based on the fact Greer is seeking rezoning from unoffensive industry to RA-20. The request was recommended for approval.

One item only was listed for the Greenville Planning and zoning Commission was a discussion item on the ordinance covering Convenience Commercial Uses in multi-family complexes.

The Planning and Zoning Commission had been requested by the City Council to restudy and make additional recommendation on two details—that of a requirement for such commercial establishments to be completely surrounded by the complex; and that plans for commercial uses be indicated in original complex plans.

Following the lengthy discussion, the matter was tabled until the next meeting. Chairman Clark asked that action be taken to send each commissioner copies of all prior actions so that each member can re-study the matter before the next meeting.

Nixon Promises Four 'Best Years' In U.S. History

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon, expanding on his 1972 campaign slogan of "Four More Years," says his re-election would mean "four of the best year in the whole history of the United States."

Addressing a $1,000-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner here Wednesday night, Nixon spoke of his initiatives toward Moscow and Peking, but declared:

"We need four more years to build on this beginning.

Then, talking about law and order and his effort to end what he terms permissiveness by the courts, he said:

"Four years isn't enough. We need more."

Summing up his pitch for what he has described as "a clear majority," he cited three goals for his hoped-for four more years:

—Peace in the world.

—"Opportunity and jobs for all Americans."

—To instill in all citizens a firm conviction that "this is a great and good, and indeed, a beautiful country."

As Nixon spoke, a dwindling but noisy group of dissenters—the White house described them as the forces of the President's Democratic opponent, George McGovern—demonstrated outside the Century Plaza Hotel.

At one point, police estimated the demonstrators numbered more than 3,000 but their ranks thinned as the evening wore on. Only occasionally did they stray from their role as professed peaceful protesters, once when some tried to storm the lobby.

Los Angeles police in riot garb moved in quickly whenever they got a hint of possible violence but quickly withdrew when nothing serious occurred.

Inside the Century Plaza, busloads of young Republicans had their own party and, at one point, were allowed to leave by the rear of the hotel to gather in the lobby behind ropes and stanchions.

The President reflected on his Vietnam policy and said "we have not accomplished everything we would have desired as fast as we might ..."

But, he added, "We have prepared the South Vietnamese so that it is now very clear that they will be able soon to undertake their complete defense without our assistance ...

"We are going to end our involvement," Nixon said. "We will end the war. But we are going to end it without betraying our allies and we are not going to abandon our prisoners of war or play politics with our prisoners of war."

In his Los Angeles speech, Nixon renewed a pledge that he would seek to avoid tax increases in a second term while trying to stamp out inflation.

Looking to the weeks just ahead, and referring presumably to measures that might emerge from the current Democratic-controlled Congress, the President said:

"I intend ... to approve no bills that would lead to a tax increase for the American people."

He promised he would "find it necessary to veto some huge spending bills."

McGovern has been trying to goad Nixon into more frequent public appearances, arguing that major campaign issues are not being clearly defined by the opposing major candidates.

Arriving in California in search of its 45 electoral votes, Nixon said Wednesday he must be in Washington much of the time so he can ward off potential tax-boosting programs of the Congress.

"I would welcome the opportunity to take the case for this administration directly to the American people," said Nixon. "But my first responsibility is to do my job as president of the United States ..."

In one of two statements issued in his home state, Nixon said:

"I shall make no promises in this campaign for any new spending program—no matter how popular—if such programs would lead to a tax increase."

Just before his scheduled return to Washington, Nixon went to a hotel in downtown Los Angeles to receive an award at a National Cancer Conference.

In remarks prepared for the occasion, he recalled the medical-research-cooperation agreement signed during his trip to Moscow in May.

"Perhaps," he said, "the fight against cancer can help teach the world that despite immense differences between cultures and values and political systems, nations must work together to meet their common needs.

"Those who join hands against disease help advance the day when nations will no longer raise their hands against each other."

East's activities during the auction provided South, the declarer at four spades doubled, with a virtual roadmap to uncover the unorthodox line of play that was required to land 10 tricks in today's hand.

South opened the bidding with one spade. West's three club bid was the good old fashioned strong jump overcall, formerly a part of our own methods but which has been replaced in recent years by the preemptive jump which comes up with far greater frequency than the type of holding West has.

North and East passed and now South chose a somewhat unusual course when he reopened the auction by bidding three hearts instead of three spades. It is customary to rebid a six card suit first, however South felt that—due to the advanced level of the auction—it was more important to show his second suit immediately in case North had hearts and not much in spades.

West persisted to four clubs and North bid four hearts, altho with only three trumps, five high card points and evenly balanced distribution, a pass appears to be the more discreet course. East's double must be rated as an impulsive action, for had he paused to consider the consequences of alerting the opposition to the adverse trump break, he might well have been content to defend against four hearts without doubling. When North somewhat surprisingly retreated to four spades, East doubled again, tho with considerably less relish than before.

West opened the king of clubs and when East followed with the eight and South with the three, all of the missing cards in the suit were accounted for. Inasmuch as there was no inviting shift, West continued with the ace of clubs on which East discarded a diamond while declarer ruffed with the six of spades.

East's actions during the auction clearly indicated that hearts would divide most unfavorably. If the spades were four-nothing, then there was no way South could make his contract, for he lacks the entries to dummy to take repeated trump finesses. A three-one division in spades can be handled, provided that South proceeds with care.

The ace of spades was cashed first and declarer's efforts were rewarded when West followed suit with the seven. Trumps were now abandoned and a heart was led to dummy's king followed by the jack of hearts, covered by East's queen and South's ace. West showed out, but having no more trumps, he took a harmless discard in clubs.

Declarer continued with the ten of hearts and then ruffed the fourth round in dummy with the three of spades, which enabled South to lead a trump next and successfully finesse the jack when East followed suit with the ten. The king of spades drew the remaining trump and declarer claimed 10 tricks, conceding two diamonds to the opposition in addition to the club trick previously lost.

Had East passed four hearts, permitting South to play that contract undoubled, the latter in the normal course of play and without benefit of a peak at his opponents' holdings, would no doubt have lost control of the proceedings and ended up going down several tricks on the deal.

Will Preach At New Bern Meet

NEW BERN — Dr. W. A. Jones Sr. of Brooklyn, N.Y., will preach at the meeting of the New Bern Eastern Missionary Baptist Association at St. John Baptist Church here Friday at 6 p.m.

Dr. Jones is pastor of the Bethany Baptist Church of Brooklyn, N.Y. He will be accompanied by a 100 voice choir.

The Rev. W. C. Horton will serve as moderator.

Offer Piano Workshop

A special workshop for piano teachers will be offered by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education on Friday, October 6.

Directed by Dr. Charles Bath of the ECU School of Music, the workshop includes a session on memory security led by Dr. Everett Pittman, ECU music dean, and a session on the Yamaha method of teaching music fundamentals by Greenville Yamaha instructor Betty Aldridge.

Paul Tardif, member of ECU's artist faculty, will present a lecture-demonstration on the nineteenth century character piece, and ECU pianist Peter Takacs will discuss new elements in contemporary piano music and perform a recital consisting of four sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti and Schumann's Fantasy, Opus 17.

Interested piano teachers may write the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville, for further information and advance registration forms.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

GRIMESLAND — Homecoming will be held at the Grimesland Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday. Guest speaker for the 11 a.m. service will be the Rev. W. M. Wooten.

He is pastor of the Calvery Pentecostal Holiness Church, New Bern.

Lunch will be served after the morning service. An old-fashioned singing will begin at 2 p.m. featuring the Coralier Quartet from the Fayetteville area and the Woolard Sisters of Belhaven.

The Rev. Paul C. Jackson, pastor of the Grimesland Church, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

IT'S THE ELECTRICITY NOBODY USES THAT COSTS THE MOST TO MAKE.

In the hot summer months, when air conditioning's the thing, everybody uses electricity. So much that it takes almost every piece of generating equipment we have to keep up with your demand.

Which is fine.

But when winter comes, the power demand drops. To a point about 17% lower than the summer demand. This means that a lot of our equipment winds up sitting idle.

Which isn't so fine.

Because we still have all that equipment to pay for and maintain. But it's not producing any electricity. And it's not earning its keep.

Which is bad.

The money to pay for all that equipment has to come from somewhere. And the only place we can get it is from the rate we charge you.

Which is unpopular.

Now, here's the kicker. What we need to do to solve this problem is sell more electric power in the winter months. It won't take any more plants or generators. We have them available already.

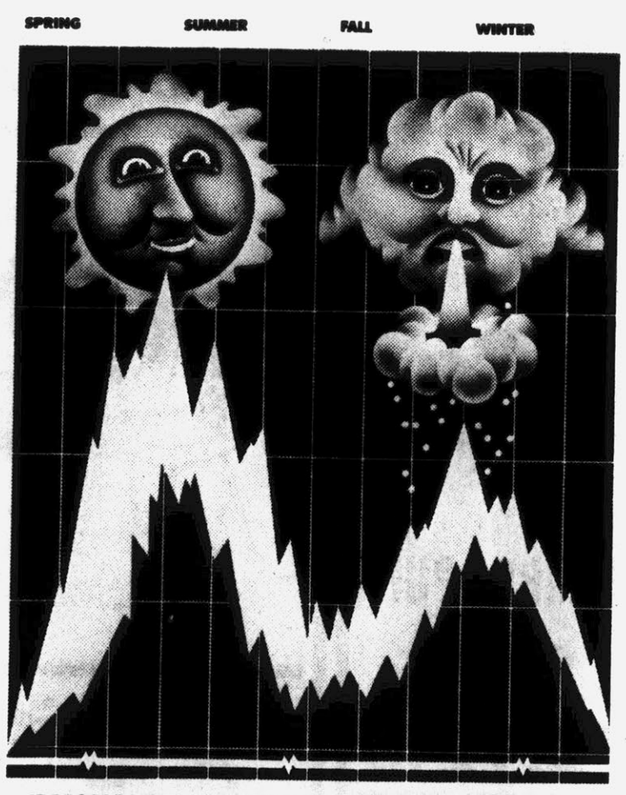
What it will do is put this equipment to work. Producing electricity to help pay for itself. And the simple fact is that the more electricity we sell in the winter, the less it costs to produce it per kilowatt-hour on a year-round basis. And that helps keep rates down.

Here's the reason. Idle equipment costs you money. But when it's working and producing electricity, it's also producing money.

So it makes sense to promote the use of electricity in winter and put that equipment to work year-round. That way, we keep our supply and demand in better balance.

And that helps us keep electric power a bargain buy for you.

Which is great.



IF PEOPLE USED AS MUCH ELECTRICITY IN THE WINTER AS THEY DO IN THE SUMMER, WE'D ALL BE BETTER OFF.

$2,500 Presented To Red Oak Church

Red Oal Christian Church near Greenville was presented a check for $2,500 at its Sunday worship service by the Week of Compassion Emergency Fund to assist the church in its reconstruction of its building destroyed by a tornado last May.

The Rev. Alex Moody, associate minister of the Disciples of Christ Church in North Carolina, presented the gift on behalf of the national office to the Rev. Ronald Nichols, Red Oak minister.

The Week of Compassion is an emergency fund that provides assistance to victims of earthquakes, floods, hurricanes, tornados other natural disasters. This assistance is channeled through the Christian Churches as a way to respond to human need with Christian compassion.

Long Auto Strike Ends

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Striking United Auto Workers have ended the longest walkout ever at a General Motors plant, but apparently without assurance their major grievances have been settled.

UAW Local 674 members voted Wednesday to ratify a new contract for operations at the GM Assembly Division plant in suburban Norwood. They had been on strike 174 days.

The contract—approved by a 74-26 per cent margin by the plant's nonskilled workers and a 94-6 per cent margin among the skilled workers—satisfied the employes' seniority, overtime and shift preference grievances.

But Richard Minton, Local 674 president, said the international UAW organization had recommended that certain production standards grievances be dropped.

These complaints, including alleged assembly line speedups and poor working conditions, had been at the crux of employe unhappiness.

"This is one thing I don't like," Minton said. But over-all, he added, the contract "is a major victory for us."

GM said the plant would reopen at the earliest possible date. However, Sidney W. Roche, the plant manager, said several weeks might be required.

Guest Preacher At Homecoming

The Reverend D. B. Shackelford, pastor of the Pike Rocky Point Presbyterian Church of Rocky Point, will be the guest preacher at the annual homecoming services of the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church of Greenville on Sunday at 11 a.m.

The Rev. Shackelford is a former member of the church as well as a candidate to the ministry from the church and the Albermarle Presbytery. He is a graduate of East Carolina University and the Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia. He is married to the former Christine Evans of Greenville and they have two sons, Ronnie and Steve.

The host pastor, The Reverend Bronson Matney, officers and members of the church extend a special invitation to all former members and friends of the church to attend this special event.

The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed during the worship service since the congregation will be joining Christians around the world in observing World Wide Communion Sunday.

Following the morning service, lunch will be served picnic style on the church grounds.

Mayors Named For Urban Plan

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern today named a team of more than 20 mayors to help him forge a long-range urban policy and pledged $4 billion in interim relief to cities.

The Democratic Presidential nominee also announced that a second group, "Mayors for McGovern," will begin active campaigning in his behalf. It is headed by John V. Lindsay of New York, Joseph Alioto of San Francisco and Roman Gribbs of Detroit.

That trio will participate as well on the new policy panel, for which McGovern designated Mayors Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J., Richard J. Daley of Chicago and Kevin P. White of Boston and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota as leaders.

After introducing the new campaign units, McGovern attacked the Nixon administration's urban record and declared the election "will determine the fate of American cities for the next two decades."

In remarks prepared for a midmorning news conference, the South Dakotan called for a massive redirection of federal funds from the Vietnam war to jobs, housing, crime prevention, environmental protection, schools and urban transportation.

He was particularly critical of the Federal Housing Administration, saying "the federal government today is ... becoming the nation's largest slumlord."

McGovern said federal housing authorities in at least 20 cities, including St. Louis, Chicago and Washington, face imminent bankruptcy while "Richard Nixon has impounded some $315 million which could be used" to keep them alive.

"Under my administration," McGovern said, "the impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress because of so-called inflationary pressures will cease. These public programs should not be penalized for the mistakes of other sectors of the economy."

McGovern hailed the recent congressional compromise on the revenue-sharing bill as "a very welcome step" but said "as president, I would increase that program another $4 billion in emergency fiscal relief to cities, out of money saved through tax reform and cuts in unnecessary military spending."

He said his administration "as one of its first acts," would look to the urban-policy panel chaired by Gibson for the nation's first long-range development plan.

"The lives of 100 million children, the increasing flight to the cities, our terrible transportation needs, and the vast decay of urban centers cry out for immediate, serious, and thoughtful planning," McGovern said.

On the employment front, McGovern said, the Nixon administration has adopted "a deliberate policy of economic neglect ... by throwing men and women out of work," whereas he is committed to a $6-billion program to create one million new public-service jobs by 1975.

"Despite the talk of law and order," McGovern went on. "The Nixon administration has permitted a 30-per-cent increase over three years in the number of serious crimes, and some 350,000 drug addicts still roam the streets.

"I would propose as president a tough $1.5-billion program to fortify this country and its legal, its curative, and its preventive fight against drugs."

McGovern's comments came in his only public appearance planned until next wee

Presentations Marked End Of Church Year

The Brotherhood Organization of Immanuel Baptist Church marked the end of the church year by presenting a set of cassette recordings to the church library and three cassette recorders to the pastor of the church.

The recordings are of the New Testament and the Book of Psalms. The recorders are to be used in the ministry of persons confined to their homes or the hospital.

Dr. H. D. Lambeth Jr., outgoing president of the brotherhood, and Arnett Harris, president-elect, made the presentations to the Rev. Irby Jackson, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church at 1101 Elm St.

Jackson said that the year had been an especially active one for the brotherhood. The group did a church census of several population centers and sponsored activities for the Royal Ambassadors, the boy's organization of the church.

Obstacle Course For Pedestrians On Cotanche St.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

East side, west side, all along Cotanche Street, boys and girls, men and women daily tread on precarious territory.

There is a pressing need to keep the eyes carefully riveted to the sidewalk to avoid falling, tripping or stumbling.

Both sides of the much traveled strips of sidewalk (or more accurately sidewalk alternating at one or two spots with unpaved areas) could easily be a source of inspiration to a designer of pedestrian obstacle courses.

Concentrating on two short blocks—from the intersection of Cotanche and Third to the intersection at Fifth and Cotanche, there's no difficulty in spotting at least a dozen impediments to safe foot travel.

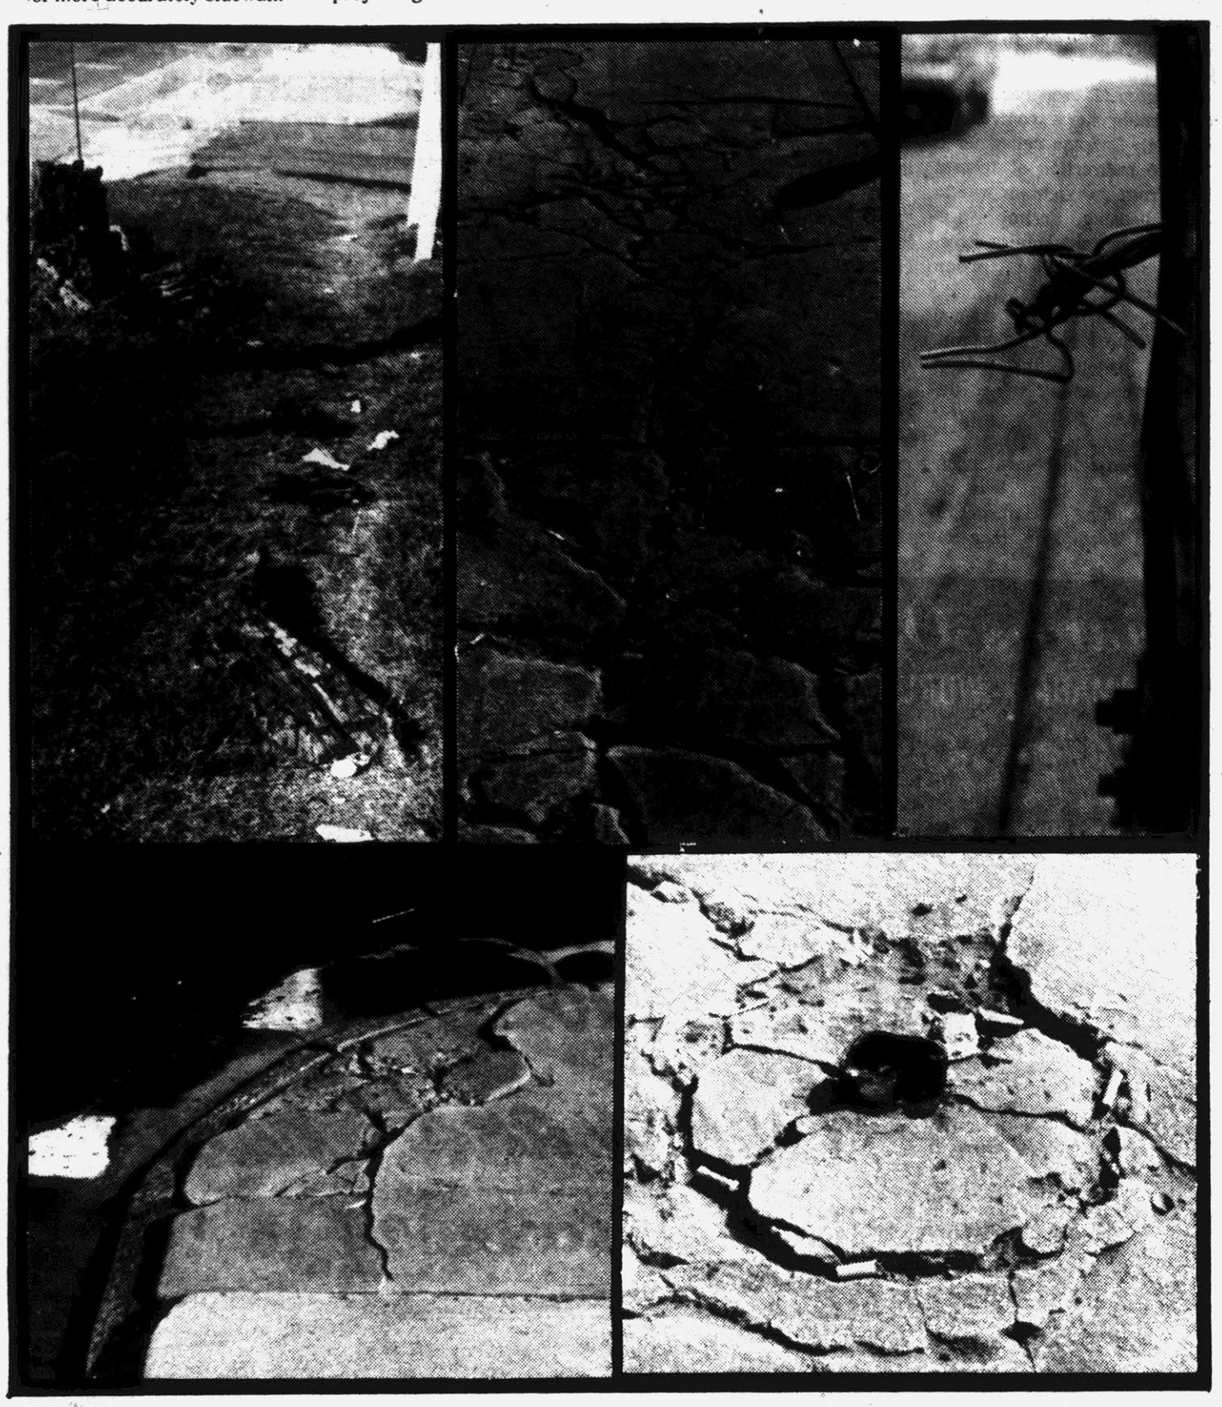
And there's a variety—metal tubing, smooth or bent, projecting from the sidewalk, perfect for toe-crashing; ragged edges of curbing at corners evidently broken by the heavy wheels turning sharp corners; sunken cracked areas of sidewalks; skin-tearing frayed ends of heavy wire sticking out from underneath the shield of a guy cable; a loose unprotected guy cable, that, if unseen, could snap an ankle; hunks of half rotted wood from a decayed stump littering an unpaved stretch of sidewalk.

There are other examples, but these are sufficient to pinpoint the physical dangers of a stroll along the sidewalks of Cotanche.

An even briefer survey south of Fifth and Cotanche intersection reveals a metal parking directional sign whose forehead cutting capability is elevated only about six feet four inches above the sidewalk. (Young - males nowadays have a habit of growing tall); steep angular drop offs from the sidewalk to the street level at a couple of points; and a few other safety hazards.

While long range plans are in the offing to renovate the badly tattered and battered walking areas bordering Cotanche, there is always the possibility that before that time arrives, someone, young or old, man or woman, might suffer painful or even serious injury because of the conditions of the present sidewalks.

In the meantime, it might be wise for pedestrians to keep attention focused on where the feet go—and to put aside day dreaming while negotiating the obstacle course created by deterioration through time and usage.



COTANCHE OBSTACLE COURSE. . . .the photographs above, taken between the Third and Fifth Street intersections of Cotanche, show a random sample of hazards facing pedestrians using the sidewalks of the busy downtown street. (Reflector Staff photos)

Farm Community Lines Are Reviewed

Farm community boundaries have been reviewed by the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee in anticipation of elections for ASC county and community committeemen later this year. Each community includes approximately 250 producers.

In reviewing the boundaries, ASC county committeemen compare the number of farms and eligible voters in each community with other communities. They also consider the availability of community communication and transportation facilities, type of farming, geological conditions, and local political subdivisions, according to W. F. Tyson, ASC County Committee Chairman. There is no change in community boundaries from prior years.

The communities as now designated are: Ayden A; Ayden B; Beaver Dam; Belvoir; Bethel; Carolina; Chicod A; Chicod B; Chicid C; Chicod D; Falkland; Farmville; Fountain; Greenville A; Greenville B; Greenville C; Greenville D; Pactolus; Swift Creek A; Swift Creek B; Winterville A; Winterville B. A map showing the specific boundaries of each ASCS community can be seen at the ASCS office.

Reviewing ASC community boundaries is only the first step in this year's community and county committeemen election schedule. A voter eligibility list will be compiled and will be open to public inspection at the county office located in the old Post Office at 215 Evans St. Nominations, completion of slates, and balloting will follow.

All ASCS programs, including these elections, are nondiscriminatory and are administered without regard to race, creed, color, sex, or national origin.

The normal life span of a shrimp is between one and two years.

Begin Week Of Revival

Revival services will begin Monday Oct. 2, at the Greenville Church of Christ on the 264 ByPass at 7:30 p.m. Services will continue through Sunday.

D. Hugh Counts, currently associated with the Highland View Church of Christ in Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be the guest speaker.

He attended George Pepperdine University and Victoria University while he was in Wellington, New Zealand. Prior to moving to Tennessee in 1970, the family spent nine years in mission work in New Zealand.

He has participated in four overseas and one American campaign, served as personal work director and advertising coordinator and has directed personal evangelism workshops in parts of California. The Counts have three children.

The Worry Clinic

Take The Best Job Available

Katie's forthcoming marriage is jeopardized by her "champagne" attitude regarding wage scales. Her disdain of a filing clerk job at $2 per hour would alienate many employers who are unable to pay even the minimum wage scale of $1.60 per hour and make a decent profit!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-504: Katie K., aged 19, is worried about marriage.

"Dr. Crane," she asked, "I am engaged and we want to get married soon.

"But we shall both need to work, so I am looking for a position.

"I recently finished a year at Business College, but jobs are scarce.

"However, I was offered one as a filing clerk.

"But the salary is only $2 per hour so I turned it down.

"Besides, that is dull work, just being a filing clerk!

"So what would you advise me to do?"

Snooty Teen-Agers

Even in these days of inflation, $2 per hour is regarded as a good wage by millions of talented workers in small town and retail stores.

In fact, hired farm workers are lucky to make $2 per hour in America!

Many sales clerks, waitresses, office employees and even Dental Assistants in our smaller cities don't get more than $2 per hour.

The past two years we've been in a serious business recession, so $2 per hour is now regarded as good pay by millions of Americans.

Obviously, that figure does not compare well with the $7 per hour for unskilled laborers in Chicago's building trades.

But these higher wage scales in Chicago, Detroit and other large manufacturing centers are possible only because of the big orders that Ford, General Moters and other huge plants can invoice to Uncle Sam's Pentagon.

For then we taxpayers are compelled to pay those bills!

But millions of small merchants don't invoice the Pentagon for the articles they sell.

Instead, the small town store keeper deals only with other village merchants and farm workers.

Thus, the local restaurant or hardware store, grocery or barber shop, merely patronize each other.

They must ante up the money for those purchases in their local area, since the Pentagon doesn't buy directly from them!

The big union wage scales in Chicago, Detroit and elsewhere are impossible on our farms and small towns!

At present, $2 per hour is good wages in vast areas of the U.S.A. where farmers and village merchants patronize each other.

But they must then buy costly machinery, produced at the exaggerated union wage scales of our steel mills, auto factories and oil refineries.

At Indianapolis recently, for example, a man on welfare refused to take a job at $2 per hour because he said he got more than that from the relief agency, plus his 6-months' unemployment checks.

A Jewish merchant at Baltimore once urged me to give this superb bit of advice regarding Vocational Guidance to my psychology students at George Washington University.

"Take the best job available," he began, "and do it to the best of your ability.

"But meanwhile keep your eyes open for any better jobs that may open up in your own or other companies."

Remember, there is no future in any job! The future lies in the worker!

Katie plans to live in a city of 15,000 population where the $2 per hour wage scale is normal.

If she seriously wants to get married, she better take that filing clerk job and then use it as a springboard for better positions later on.

Employers prefer to offer jobs to those who are already working rather than to the unemployed!

For unemployed people are regarded as either low in I.Q., or inexperienced, or lazy and unreliable!

Send for my "Vocational Guidance Kit," enclosing a long stamped, retuen envelope, plus 25 cents.

Teachers At Workshop

The first of four workshops to acquaint area teachers with the physical education television series, "Ready? Set — Go," was held Saturday at East Carolina University.

Sixteen educators from Pitt County Schools attended the inservice workshop to learn how the series can be best used in the classroom.

"Ready? Set — Go," is the National Instructional Television (NIT) Series in physical education for primary children. Starting Oct 9, primary teachers who elect to use "Ready? Set — Go," will use the once-a-week program to help their pupils learn to use their bodies effectively in a wide variety of situations.

According to Mrs. Ola Perry, primary grades supervisor, when children develop a basic movement concept, they discover new ways of solving problems. With this comes self-confidence and a sense of accomplishment.

Teachers who attended the workshop from Pitt County Schools were: Mrs. Carrie Bess (Belvoir Primary), Mrs. Ann Lane (Falkland), Mrs. Ruth Bailey (Pactolus Elementary), Mrs. Connie Warren and Mrs. Mattie Clark (Stokes Elementary), Mrs. Nesbia Phillips, Mrs. Lula Beaman, Mrs. Doris Spell, Mrs. Margaret Hodges, Mrs. Judith Smith, Mrs. Ann Jones and Mrs. Judy Bright (Bundy), Miss Mamie Carney, Mrs. Elaine Whitaker and Mrs. Nel Godley (Whitfield) and Mrs. Ola Perry, primary supervisor.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

WINTERVILLE — Immanuel Free Will Baptist Church will hold its homecoming Sunday at 10 a.m. It will be a combination service of singing and preaching with Rev. Neal Hearn, former pastor, as guest speaker.

The service is to be completed at 11:30 and dinner will be served at the Winterville Fire Station at 12.

Rev. Owen Ganey, pastor, welcomes former members and friends of the church to the service.

Church To Mark Anniversary

The membership of Hooker Memorial Christian Church will be celebrating its 18th anniversary Sunday.

The Rev. Robert G. Hufford, minister, will speak on "Discourtesy" at the morning worship service. A covered-dish dinner will be held in the educational building immediately following the service.

Those responsible for the arrangements are: Mrs. Robert Alligood, chairman of membership; Mrs. Joe McKoy, president of CWF; and Jesse Laughinghouse, chairman of building and grounds.

All members and former members are invited to attend.

The next best thing to a new car: a used car with a 100% guarantee.

Every major working part is guaranteed 100 percent for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. So if during that time anything goes wrong with any of these parts, we'll repair or replace it free.

But just because we're an authorized VW dealer, don't think we're only talking about our used VWs. We inspect and guarantee every make on our lot.

For instance:
engine transmission rear axle front axle assemblies brake system electrical system
