Japan, China Write Finis To Hostilities

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

SHANGHAI (AP) — Japan and China signed an accord for diplomatic relations today, writing finis to the warfare and hostility that have separated them since the 1890s. Japan plans to close its embassy in Taiwan.

The Japanese and Chinese premiers, Kakuei Tanaka and Chou En-lai, issued a joint statement in Peking then flew to a staged but tumultuous reception in this port city which 35 years ago felt the Japanese military boot.

The joint statement announced that Japan recognized the People's Republic as the sole legal government of China. Negotiations will begin soon on a treaty of peace and friendship to replace one Japan signed in 1952 with Chiang Kai-shek's Republic of China on Taiwan.

There was no official reaction from the Taiwan government.

News of the accord was generally well received in Japan.

Japanese financiers and businessmen have expressed hope Taiwan will not stop economic relations with Japan.

Within hours after the statement was signed with Chinese writing brushes and toasted in champagne in Peking's Great Hall of the People, Tanaka's treatment, which had been warm but not effusive, underwent an extraordinary change. Several thousand gaily dressed dance, song and music groups from communes, universities, government offices and youth organizations deluged Peking airport with noise and color in a sendoff strikingly different from the coolly correct reception Tanaka received on arrival Monday.

Tanaka made the two-hour flight to Shanghai with Chou in a special Ilyushin 18 and received a welcome here perhaps more exuberant than the Peking farewell.

Three thousand boys and girls beating cymbals, waving flowers and doing spirited dances greeted the two leaders. The throbbing beat on an enormous drum dominated the din.

Freed POWs In Hospitals

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

The three American pilots freed by North Vietnam spent their first day home in military hospitals in three parts of the country today, still beset by political controversy over their return.

Air Force Maj. Edward Elias and Navy Lts. (j.g.) Mark Gartley and Norris Charles, dressed in freshly tailored service uniforms and wearing their combat decorations, arrived at Kennedy International Airport in New York Thursday night. They were greeted by family, friends and a delegation of ranking military men.

The trio separated from their escort of antiwar activists and, after a highly charged exchange between Gartley's mother and a Defense Department officer, headed for military hospitals in New York, Alabama and California. Mrs. Gartley, whose son was a prisoner for four years, objected to the immediate assignment, saying she wanted him to spend a few days with his family.

The three POWS had rejected offers to turn themselves over to U.S. government officials at various points along their journey, which included stops in Peking, Moscow and Copenhagen.

Must Recount 26,200 Pennies

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Elton Clark of Woodburn walked into the city hospital Thursday to pay a $262 bill for the July 18 birth of his first child.

He carried 26,200 pennies in a five-gallon jug, which he dropped and broke in the lobby.

Hospital employes said they retrieved all the pennies but are now faced with a massive counting job.

Clark and his wife saved the pennies over a three-year period.

Precincts Open Tomorrow For Registration

J.B. Spilman, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections, announced that all county voting precincts will be open for voter registration tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Spilman reported that the Board of Elections office located on the third floor of the county courthouse will also be open for transfers and party changes on Saturday.

The chairman noted that voters will need some form of identification, prefereably a drivers license or social security card. He urged all qualified permanent residents, 18 years or older, to take advantage of this opportunity.

Persons living in Greenville Precinct No. 5 will go to the courthouse to register, Spilman said. Voters who expect to be absent on election day may apply for an absentee ballot at the courthouse or through the mail.

Budget Hearings Are Wrapped Up

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's Advisory Budget Commission has wound up hearings on the state's proposed budget for the next two fiscal years and Chairman Tom White commented that the requests ranged from "a bit conservative to inordinate."

White said the commission will meet again on Oct. 18 and 19 after budget analysts and commission members begin studying the requests.

The commission will draw up a budget for 1973-75 to present to the 1973 General Assembly.

As it wrapped up its hearings Thursday, the commission:

—Heard Dr. William L. Turner, secretary of the Department of Administration, ask $50 million for capital improvements, including $9.7 million for a new state office building. About half the money would be spent in the Raleigh area.

—Received a $746.6 million request from the Department of Transportation which includes the state Highway Commission. It asked that additional highway money be spent on a priority basis with the primary road system listed first and the urban road system second.

—Received a request from the State Bureau of Investigation for more than $4 million, including money for 24 additional drug agents and six agents to form a tactical unit to combat organized crime.

At one point, Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and SBI Director Charles Dunn were asked to restore to their budget request a $400,000 item for two satellite crime laboratories. The item had been withdrawn while a federal study is being made.

Building Rate Up

Building permits totaling $79,036,414, including $1,284,731 for Greenville, were issued during August in 36 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population, according to state Labor Commissioner Frank Crane.

Crane said the August building figure exceeded by 59.3 per cent the $49,610,137 reported by the same cities in August of 1971.

Permits totaled $485,597,755 during the first eight months of 1972, Crane said, with Greenville posting eight-month totals of $11,596,440.

Other eastern cities and their August and eight-month figures are: Goldsboro, $1,824,500 for August and $13,796,248 through three quarters; Jacksonville, $188,069 and $1,279,107; Kinston, $1,311,755 and $4,155,979; New Bern, $97,400 and $2,901,023; Rocky Mount, $1,627,947 and $10,296,576; and Wilson, $594,360 and $5,569,628.

Crane said that Raleigh led the cities with August permits totaling $11,604,138.

Assault On Lawmen In State Said Increasing

RALEIGH (AP) — Two law enforcement officials in North Carolina say that assaults on officers are increasing, and four—including the highway patrolman killed Wednesday, have been shot down in cold blood this year.

State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn said Thursday, "I'm not an advocate of harsh judgment, but something's just got to be done."

Dunn said "quick and firm" court action needs to be taken against persons who assault officers.

Highway Patrol Commander Col. Edwin Guy said he believes the whole criminal justice system, from the courts to probation, has got to be improved. He also thinks it was a mistake to end capital punishment.

"Our whole society has just got to change," he said. "We've got to live like they did in the days of the Bible, under laws and rules with respect for law and order."

Guy said standards for law enforcement officers are being improved and his men are being trained not to take lives needlessly.

"But society has got to reciprocate," he said.

Trooper Joe Wright of Roxboro, who was shot Wednesday after he stopped a car for a routine check, was the fourth officer in the state killed without provocation this year.

On April 16, Asheville policeman Alford Baird was shot down as he walked along a street. On May 2, Michael Patrick Jenkins, a Bessemer City policeman, was shot to death when he stopped a car for a routine check. And on May 5, Lt. Robert Jackson Eury of the Cabarrus County Sheriff's Department was shot when he answered a call about a domestic problem.

Dunn said killings of policemen are soaring nationally, and assaults against policemen are increasing both in the state and the nation.

Four officers were killed in the line of duty in the state last year, but the number for the past decade has varied from four to 12 a year.

Newspaper Links Mitchell To Intelligence Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — While serving as attorney general, John N. Mitchell personally controlled a clandestine Republican fund earmarked for gathering intelligence about Democrats, The Washington Post reported today.

The newspaper quoted "several reliable sources" as saying that Mitchell personally approved withdrawals from the fund as early as the spring of 1971, almost a year before he resigned as attorney general to become President Nixon's reelection campaign manager.

Mitchell quit the campaign job in mid-summer and since has served the Nixon campaign only in a behind-the-scenes capacity.

The Committee for the Reelection of the President promptly issued a statement denying the Post account.

"There is absolutely no truth to the charges in the Post story," said Powell Moore, the committee's information director.

Although Mitchell was the first controller of the secret fund, four other Nixon associates later were authorized to approve payments from it, the Post said.

The sources identified the four as former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, now finance director for the Nixon campaign; Jeb Stuart Magruder, a former White House aide and now deputy director of the campaign organization; a third person identified only as "a high White House official now involved in the campaign," and a fourth described only as "a campaign aide outside of Washington."

"Neither Mr. Mitchell nor Mr. Stans have any knowledge of any disbursement from an alleged fund as described by the Post," Moore said. "And neither of them controlled any committee expenditures while serving as government officials."

The secret fund reportedly ranged from $350,000 to as high as $700,000, the Post said.

It was uncovered first when the General Accounting Office audited Republican campaign records and reported a fund of $350,000 kept in Stans' office safe, the newspaper said.

It reported the GAO said the absence of public reports on the sources and distribution of the cash was in apparent violation of a new law requiring public reports of campaign contributions and expenditures.

The Post has identified the cache in Stans' safe as a special fund designated for intelligence-gathering directed at Democrats.

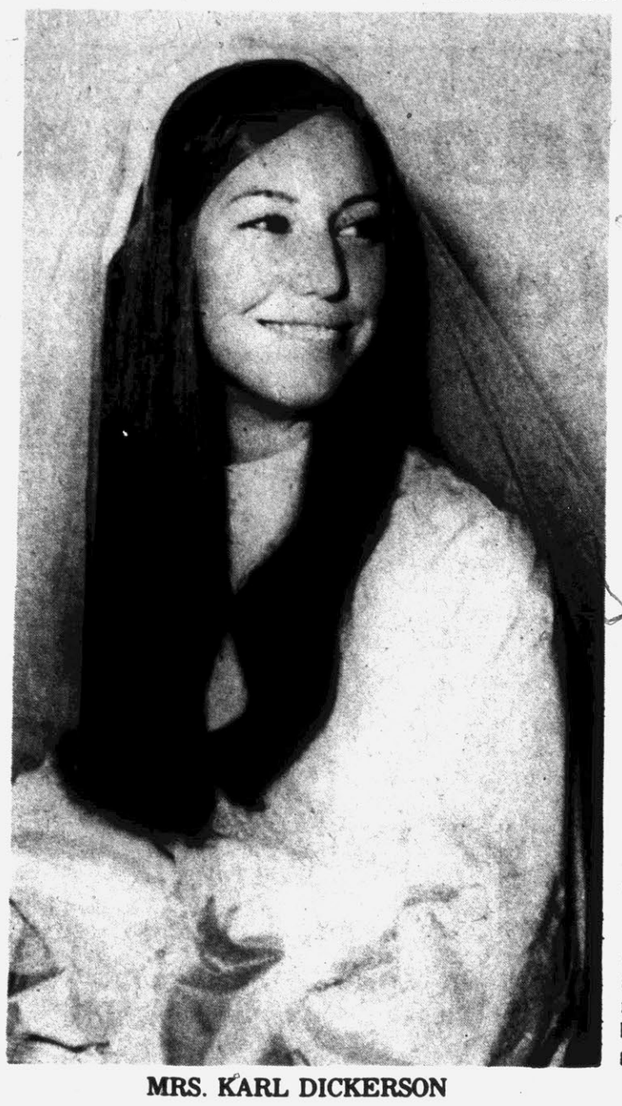
Dickerson-Clifton Vows Spoken

Miss Charlotte Ann Clifton and Karl Dickerson were united in marriage during a candlelight ceremony Monday at 8:00 p.m. in the Mount Pleasant Christian Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Clifton of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Dickerson of Littleton.



MRS. KARL DICKERSON

The double ring ceremony was performed by the father of the bride. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Pattie Fleming, pianist. Larry Prescott of New Bern, soloist, sang "The Song of Ruth" and Charles Holton of New Bern sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The altar was centered with a standing basket of white mums and gladioli with candelabra holding lighted tapers on each side. The couple knelt for prayer on a brass profile prie-dieu.

Given in marriage by her brother, Billy Clifton, of Greenville, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin designed with an empire waist and bell skirt with chantilly lace and seeded pearls. The small French collar and the pointed sleeves were also accented with chantilly lace and seeded pearls.

Her veil of illusion was held in place with a white satin bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pom pons and sweetheart roses tied with satin ribbon.

Maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Amy Clifton, sister of the bride. She wore a formal gown of lavender taffeta overlaid with lavender chiffon. The gown featured a purple velvet bodice with square neckline. She carried a long-stemmed yellow rose with matching streamers and her headpiece was identical to her gown.

The carried a long-stemmed yellow rose with matching streamers and her headpiece was identical to her gown.

The father of the bridegroom served his son as best man. Ushers were David Clifton of Greenville, brother of the bride, and Dallas Dickerson of Littleton, brother of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose a lavender knit dress, matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom selected an aqua knit dress, matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Verna Dickerson and Mrs. J. H. James, grandmothers of the bridegroom were remembered with corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Sellers Dickerson of Greenville, aunt of the bridegroom. Miss Brenda Dickerson, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Spring Lake.

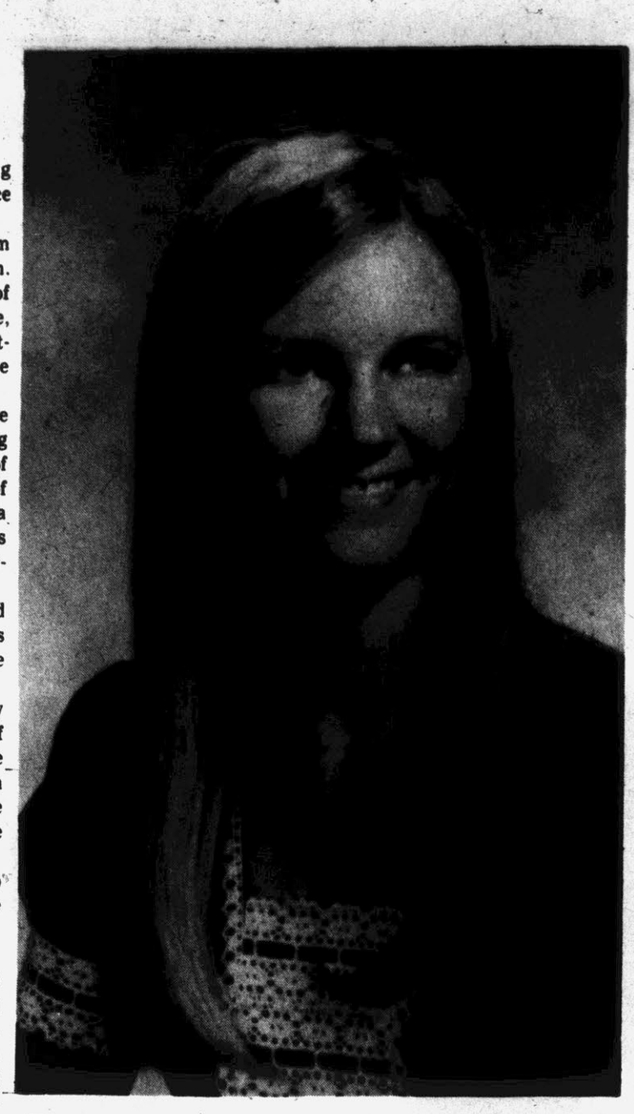
Reception

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church community building.

The table was centered with an arrangement of white mums flanked by green tapered candles on each side.

After the bridal couple cut the first traditional slice of the four tiered cake, Mrs. Sellers Dickerson served cake and Mrs. Gorman Dickerson poured punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jarrett greeted guests.



Engagement Announced

MISS LINDY FAYE LEE. . ..is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyett Wilson Lee Clayton, who announce her engagement to Joseph Sheridan Gaddis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dixon Gaddis of Asheboro. The wedding will take place Dec. 16.

Pilot District Chairman Gives Monday Program

Mrs. Sue Smith, District VI safety chairman, presented a film for the Pilot Club of Greenville Monday night.

The film, "Stop The Drunk Driver," explained and narrated the program started in Phoenix, Ariz. Drivers who are arrested for DWI, (Driving While Intoxicated) are required to attend classes related to safety, reaction time and psychological reasons for drinking.

The course was started by a professor at Arizona State, and the hopeful purpose is that the knowlege gained would prevent repeaters of DWI. Mrs. Joseph LeConte, chairman of Safety Committee of the local club, introduced the program.

Guide lines for the Scholarship Fund were presented by Dr. Ruby Barnes. The fund in the amount of $100 is given to worthy students who qualify.

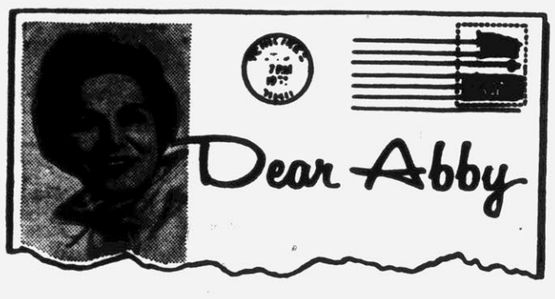
A letter of appreciation was read from the Trainable School for a contribution given by the club.

Mrs. Dallas Ross was a visitor for the social and program part of the meeting.

During the meal, members heard a record, "The New Heritage Singers." The director of the group is the daughter of Mrs. Mattie Tucker, a club member. The singers are composed of 71 young people from the Midway United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ruby Fields, president, announced that the October meeting will feature a Founder's Day program. She also welcomed Mrs. Virchie Vick, who has been on leave of absence.

Wife's Friends Give Husband The 'Bores'



By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work with two wonderful women one day a week. It's not very glamorous work, and they are very dedicated and I admire them tremendously.

One of the women invited my husband and me to her home for dinner. My husband wasn't too thrilled about going, but I got him there, and thank goodness, he was cordial. It was a small party, just the two volunteer workers, their husbands and us.

After we got home my husband told me to never subject him to another evening like that! He said he'd never spent such a boring evening—the women came on strong, like a couple of women's libbers, and he felt sorry for their poor henpecked husbands. [That wasn't my impression. I thought the women were fun and entertaining, and the husbands seemed very proud of them.]

Abby, I know I should invite these nice people to my home, but I'm afraid my husband wouldn't hear of it. My problem is, I can't face them every week knowing I should reciprocate. We are quite socially prominent, and they know we entertain a lot, and I'm sure they wonder why I haven't invited them back. Should I beg my husband to please let me have them? It's terribly embarrassing. How should I handle it?

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Reciprocate by inviting the women over some afternoon, sans husbands. DON'T "beg" your husband to be a host to these nice people. His snobbish attitude would probably show, which would be more humiliating to your guests than not being invited at all.

DEAR ABBY: I just attended a bridal shower where one woman brought her seven-year-old daughter. [The only child there.] The mother planted the little girl at the guest of honor's feet while she opened her gifts. There were lots of pictures taken while the shower gifts were opened, so of course this child got in every one of them!

The mother of the child has relatives all over town so there was no excuse for taking her along. What's with these pushy mothers? Or am I the oddball?

ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Pushy mothers have been with us since Eve gave Adam the rib. Just try not to hold it against the kids. They're the victims.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very bright, quick-witted 32-year-old son who is an expert at putting people down with his sarcasm. There are times when we all wish we had that talent, but it grieves me to see him constantly use it on his little four-year-old daughter. How can a child cope with a 200-pound man, eight times her age? She is such a sweet, sensitive little thing who adores her father and longs for his approval.

I am sure he loves her, too, but I feel the cutting edge of his sharp tongue against this helpless child as keenly as I felt it years ago when my own mother often ridiculed and humiliated her children, leaving scars on all six of them.

My own son was never subjected to this type of cruelty, so he doesn't know how it feels. I do. Thanks.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANON: Since you are "grieved," and legitimately so, I suggest that you tell your "bright" son how you feel about his cruelty. Unburdening yourself to me will not benefit your grandchild.

DEAR ABBY: Occasionally someone corrects my pronunciation of a word. This makes me very angry. Everyone mispronounces a word occasionally. I think anyone who corrects a person is rude and ignorant. What do you think?

MIAMI

DEAR MIAMI: It depends upon the circumstances. To correct someone publicly is rude and unkind. But a private correction is a courtesy.

Mynah Bird Was Too Political

BOURNEMOUTH, England (WNS)—Diana Stiller, 25, was embarrassed to tears when her father, Harold Pryce, arrived on holiday visit the same day that her mynah bird began saying insulting remarks about Prime Minister Ted Heath. "Father is an officer in Mr. Heath's Conservative Party," she explained, Mrs. Stiller decided that her husband Harry, a Socialist, had taught the bird the rude remarks. "I gave the bird to an amusement park," said Mrs. Stiller.

Homecoming Set Sunday

The Mount Pleasant Church of Christ, located on Rt. 6, Greenville, will hold homecoming services Sunday.

Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m. followed by morning worship service at 11 a.m. Dinner will be served on the church grounds at 12 noon. Friends of the church and former members are invited to attend.

Revival services will begin with the 11:00 a.m. worship service Sunday. Ray Giles, former minister of the congregation, will be guest evanglist for the revival services.

Giles and his family have served as missionaries in Ethiopia for the past four years and are in the states for a one-year furlough.

Giles will be giving a report of his mission work throughout the revival. David Thomas, also a former minister of the Mount Pleasant congregation, will serve as song evangelist. Thomas is now associated with person to person evangelism of "Revival Fires."

Revival services will continue nightly at 7:30 through Sunday Oct. 8. A nursery will be provided for all services.

Special music will be rendered from different area groups. The Spokesman's Quartet of Roanoke Bible College will bring special music on Sunday night, Oct. 1.

Five Killed In Collision

JONESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Five persons are dead as a result of a collision Thursday between a tractor-trailer carrying baskets of tobacco and a compact car.

Troopers said the tractor-trailer, en route from North Carolina to Kentucky, apparently drifted across the center line on U. S. 11-E near Jonesboro and struck the car.

Four of the victims were in the car and apparently were killed immediately. They were identified by officers as John and Mary Tichy of Berwyn, Ill.; Eleanor S. Sinko of Downers Grove, Ill., and Mamie Bartick of Riverside, Ill.

The fifth victim was the truck driver, identified as James Boothby, 47, of Shelbyville, Ky., who died in a Johnson City hospital after the accident.

The truck careened down the highway beyond the point of impact and overturned, crushing the cab. Officers said a pickup truck, trailing the Illinois car, crashed into it. Two occupants of the truck were treated for minor injuries.

Supermarket Is Bombing Target

JERUSALEM (AP) — An explosion blasted Jerusalem's biggest supermarket, across the street from the American consulate, today, slightly injuring the wife of a Venezuelan diplomat.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by an Arab terrorist bomb. Bystanders said police immediately rounded up more than 100 Arabs in the district for questioning.

Police gave few details of the explosion, but the Venezuelan Embassy confirmed that Mrs. Santiago Ochoa, wife of the embassy's second secretary, suffered minor wounds in the blast.

TV Viewer Can Be Selective

Local television viewers in allotting their time should not forget Channel 25, Greenville, the public television channel for this area.

With its transmitter located at Farmville, the channel gives good basic color coverage to this area and most households in Farmville, Greenville, and other nearby areas should be able to receive it with a set-attached loop antenna. Further away, a simple outside antenna might be necessary for reception.

The channel is UHF, which means that only sets equipped with UHF tuners can pick it up; however all sets produced in recent years are UHF equipped because this is required by law.

For most of us, Channel 25 is not one we would watch for an entire evening. We would need to be selective. The station does offer some programs which are highly informative and entertaining, however. One was telecast Monday night entitled "The Mind of Man." The BBC produced study included an experiment in New Delhi where a yogi entered his oxygen intake to one-fourth the amount a mon normally needs to stay alive. There were explanations of how various areas of the brain control various functions and how hallucinogens affect brain cells.

There have been programs on the Universe and on Sunday night the Evening at the Pops is highly entertaining.

As we say, every program on public television is not for everyone, but there are programs which should be of interest to almost everyone.

Our area is fortunate to have three television statons which carry the programs of the three major commercial networks. Channel 25 completes the selection, with public television programs. Every viewer should explore what it has to offer.

Driving Also Health Hazard

By BRYAN HAISLIP

DURHAM — "Warning: driving has been determined to be dangerous to your health and the lives and safety of others."

That caution is not required to be painted on every car door, but the fact is that the motor vehicle is a health problem of epidemic proportions.

The American male between the age of 3 and 30 is more likely to die in an automobile accident than from any other cause. Nationally, some 55,000 persons are killed and nearly four million injured each year on streets and highways. One bed in every eight in general hospitals is occupied by an accident victim.

BRYAN HAISLIP

"This epidemic places a serious drain on our national health resources not only by adding significantly to medical costs, but also through interference with the scientific search for causes and prevention of medical diseases," said Dr. Willaim DeMaria of the Duke University Medical Center.

As with any other hazard to health, he added, the medical profession must involve itself in the effort to find solutions.

Recognizing Responsibility

Few laymen have thought about the medical aspects of highway safety as it bears on the pysical, mental and emotional capability of the driver. Inside the profession, there are those with a keen sense of responsibility to use their expertise in combatting traffic slaughter.

Virtually every doctor at some time has asked himself whether a patient should take the risk of driving, said Dr. DeMaria.

An obvious instance is the case of the person who has suffered a heart attack. At what point is it safe for him to resume the stressful task of driving? "There is no uniformity of opinion among physicians. The doctor's decision has to be based a lot on hunch," said Dr. DeMaria.

What about patients on drugs which affect normal driving performance? Those persons with personality disorders or emotional problems incompatible with the exercise of driving skills?

Research Key To Prevention

If driving behavior is a key to accident prevention, as safety experts say it is, Dr. DeMaria observed, then research must be directed to define the driving task and to identify the effect of medical and psychological factors.

That is the objective of the National Driving Center, a concept developed over the past decade by a committee drawing together state agencies, the medical and legal professions, and insurance agents in North Carolina. Dr. DeMaria, a professor of pediatrics, now is committee chairman and project director.

The driving center will be located in the Research Triangle Park. The last legislature committed $500,000 to the project, and fund-raising efforts to secure some $5 to $6 million are now in progress.

No such facility is yet in existence in the nation, Dr. DeMaria said. It would provide the means, using a specially designed road track and sensor devices out of the space program, to evaluate behind-the-wheel performance of drivers with a record of violations. Though the research, data will be accumulated for use as the basis for rehabilitative programs, for licensing standards, and for improved driver training.

"Auto Death Syndrome"

The "automobile death syndrome" has received attention in medical journals and other publication in recent years as the profession has attempted to come to grips with accident prevention.

"It is the physician's responsibility to deal with the fatality-prone driver as he would any other patient with a potentially lethal illness-by maximum use of his own clinical judgment and skill, and by proper referral to the resources within his area," wrote Dr. Stuart L. Brown.

He reported on a Houston, Tex., study of a consecutively killed group of 25 drivers who were determined to be at fault in their fatal crash. Eighty per cent, he said, "showed serious, obvious impairment in overall personality functioning."

Dr. DeMaria cited the Texas study in noting the impact of emotional problems on driving performance. An estimated 10 per cent of the population suffers with some form of personality disorder, he observed.

Medical factors such as physical condition and the use of prescribed drugs also relate to driving performance. Another element involves the social background of family and environment which shapes the individual's discipline and attitude towards self and others.

"The investigation program proposed for the National Driving Center will provide the fundamental information necessary for the establishment of uniform standards for physicians to make their judgments pertaining to a driver's competency," Dr. DeMaria explained. "These standards are essential if the rules are to be firmly applied through legal means through the driver licensing procedures at a national level."

Union Gap On Busing Issue

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DETROIT — When Sen. George McGovern delivered his first formal statement on school busing last Friday, he was following advice from politically astute leaders of the United Auto Workers (UAW) that his only remote hope of carrying Michigan was a last desperate try to neutralize the busing issue.

Since McGovern could not or would not join the anti-busers at this late hour, he followed the UAW's proposal to keep carefully neutral by declaring, "The issue will be settled in the courts."

But hd did not adopt the UAW suggestion that he take that stand in suburban Macomb County, the anti-busing hotbed where white autoworkers are furious over litigation to bus their children into Detroit's black inner city. Instead, McGovern spoke in Detroit to union shop stewards, mostly committed to his candidacy.

The upshot: McGovern's Michigan chances are unchanged, and that's bad news for Democrats. In this former liberal stronghold, the busing issue is helping push President Nixon to a landslide victory and menacing Democratic State Atty. Gen Frank Kelley's chances to unseat Republican Sen. Robert Griffin.

Thus, contrary to wishful thinking by McGovern strategists, the busing issue lives in Michigan — underlining the UAW's diminishing ability to influence its members with bread-and-butter arguments.

UAW arguments to its members that another Nixon term would ravage their bank balances come off the printing press last week for distribution on the assembly line. But whereas the union was properly confident in 1968 that bread-and-butter issues would save Michigan for Hubert Humphrey, there is defeatism today. Realists at UAW's Solidarity House acknowledge that Gov. George Wallace's landslide win in last May's Michigan primary dramatized the gap between union leadership and rank-and-file.

Although statewide unemployment was 9.1 per cent in August, there is abundant work in the automotive industry. So the autoworker worries more about social than economic issues. There is even doubt how hard shop stewards may press the union's case for McGovern.

In fact, Michigan's white liberal Democratic Congressmen, all overtly anti-busing, completely disassociate themselves from McGovern. Only Senate candidate Kelley has a pro-McGovern work — but not always.

Addressing the Greater Detroit Building Trades Union Council, Kelley last week completely omitted McGovern's name. Moreover, the only spontaneous applause came when he reiterated his opposition to busing. Minutes earlier, a grinning aide had handed Kelley an early edition of the Detroit News with this front-page banner: "Plan to Speed Busing Fought By Kelley."

Only a year ago, Kelley was associated in a politically disastrous pro-busing stand by the state Democratic central committee. To survive, he completely switched; even UAW officials urged him to fight current busing attempts in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

It may be too late, even though the witty, likeable Kelley has advantages against Griffin, a highly capable Senator and Republican Senate whip who gives off the image of cool, depersonalized efficiency (Kelley calls Griffin "Mr. Warmth"). But having long ago established himself as an anti-buser, Griffin leads today.

Here again is that gap between union leaders and Members. When the UAW's political arm gave Griffin an unprecedented invitaion to address its conference Sept. 16, he responded by baiting his hosts. "I'm convinced," said Griffin, "that my stong opposition to forced busing of school children does represent the views of your members — even though the leadership of this union takes a contrary position."

The political revolution here was evident last week at McGovern's airport rally in Flint, an automaking town with 70,000 General Motors employees. The sparse

Strength For Today

BLESSING OF FORGETFULNESS

The question is often asked, "Do you have a good memory?" Very often people do not realize that the capacity to forget is just as necessary to mental health and achievement as the capacity to remember.

This is especially true in the moral field. Some people never forget anything—especially an injury. Two hundred years ago the royal governor of Georgia said to the Reverend John Wesley, "I never forget an injury," to which Wesley replied: "Then you certainly cannot expect God to remember you in His mercy."

Some people in the general walks of life really have difficulty about not being able to forget anything they have once heard or learned. People who have this capacity never to forget anything find that they continually suffer from mental strain. Their brain is overworked. The capacity to forget is as essential to mental health as the capacity to remember.

One of the greatest things that could happen to the world would be a widespread forgetting—nations forgetting their hatred races. Best of all, we need to forget the injustices that have been done to us, the lies that have been told about us, the slights we have experienced.

Try, under the grace of God, to develop a divine forgetfulness.

STARTING TO CRUMBLE!

The Big Wheat Plot

WASHINGTON — Is the purchase of wheat by both the Soviet Union and People's Republic of China Communist plot to destroy the United States? I have it on highest authority that it is.

The decision to use wheat as the ultimate weapon to wreck the capitalistic system in the United States was made back in the Khrushchev era, but the actual implementation of the plan went into effect this year.

Here are the minutes of the meeting held in the Kremlin that laid the plot all out:

"Comrade Khrushchev has promised to bury the United States. How do you plan to do this, comrade?"

"Is simple," Comrade Khrushchev replied. "We will bury them with wheat."

"With wheat?" a Politburo spokesman asked.

"Over the next 10 years we will buy American wheat, increasing the purchases every year. Pretty soon American farmer will find raising wheat so profitable he will refuse to grow other crops.

"American people will go to supermarkets and find nothing but bread on sale. Housewives will riot and the seeds of revolution will be planted."

"Is fantastic idea, Comrade Khrushchev."

"Is better than fantastic. As our grain orders come in, Americans will be forced to plow over suburbs, dig up four-lane highways, tear down golf courses to supply more wheat.

ART BUCHWALD

"Football fields will be taken over by the government to plant wheat, strategic air bases will be closed and crops sown where runways used to be. We will make price of wheat so high everyone will become wheat farmers in America. They'll grow wheat at White House, at Nike missile sites, at Disneyland. From one end of the country to the other will be nothing but wheat fields."

"Go on, comrade," they said excitedly.

"United States will have no place to store wheat. So office buildings and factories will be requisitioned by government for grain elevators. Apartment buildings will be taken over for storage. People will have no place to work or sleep. But our orders will continue coming in."

"Wait a minute, comrade," a Politburo member said. "Where will we get the money to pay for the wheat?"

"Long-term credit," Khrushchev said, "and also we will get the Chinese to buy wheat."

"The Chinese? Can we get Peking to buy wheat?"

"What's the matter? You never heard expression '800 million starving

Other Editors Say A Familiar Note

(Durham Herald)

A story with a familiar note is told in a Charlotte report on drunken driving arrests resulting from a special effort, the Alchohol Safety Action Project, in that city.

The program has resulted in more arrests than usual, and in the period between Jan. 10 and March 31 of this year 944 drivers were charged with driving under the influence.

When the cases came to trial, however, 40 per cent of the drivers were not convicted on that charge.

That is in the matter of clogged court dockets, and the large backlog of untried cases in many North Carolina counties is the cause of major concern to many people.

A few weeks ago it was reported that there were more than 2,000 cases awaiting trail in the district courts of Wake County. There are probably that many in other large counties in the State. In Moore County for example it is almost impossible to clear the docket in superior couct cases even with extra or special terms scheduled.

The obvious answer would seem to be more judges and solicitors with more court terms scheduled.

But is that really the answer? In our opinion it is also obvious that there are many, many cases in our courts which never should be there at all. Criminal violations are charged in instances which should not be statutory crimes. This is especially true in many traffic arrests in which criminal violations are charged when the civic liability is involved. Many thoughtful people have proposed in the past that traffic violations be removed for the most part from the criminal statutes, and made simple violations of driving regulations in which certain penalties would be imposed without resort to criminal court trial. This is a matter which calls for study and we would like to see the question explored by the General Assembly.

Attorney General Robert Morgan has suggested that many solicitors could unclog their dockets by negotiated settlements of charges. In many places this suggestion has been put into effect.

There are no simple solutions to the problem of clogged courts but the whole question needs seriousstudy not only by the judiciary, legislators and law enforcement officers but by concerned citizens as well.

Biking Status Blues

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — If you aren't careful, bicycling can turn into a matter of keeping up with the Joneses.

I bought a three-speed English bike a few months ago because I thought it would be a nice, undemanding way to get healthy. But I got into a rat race with my bicycling neighbor.

I was proud of my bike, which is bright red and has skinny tires. It looks very fast. The first day I rode it, a red-haired kid hailed me to the curb.

"Nice bike," he said, smirking a little. "Three-speed, huh?" I grinned agreement. "Three-speed is out," he said.

"If you're going to bicycle, man, you got to have the right equipment. One of those 10-speed, aluminum-framed jobs with center-pull brakes and brown rubber tires. My pop has one. Made in Switzerland. It's like a fine watch. Fast. Light. Expensive, too."

My own bike suddenly felt big and clumsy and harder to pedal. I ran into his father a few days later. He was wearing a biking outfit with special green and red-striped shoes, red-visored cap and a racing jersey.

And he was astride a lime green bike with at least 10 speeds and brownish looking tires and no kickstand. "No kickstand?" I asked, a slight sneer on my face. I conspicuously clicked mine with a heel.

Forty Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
September 29, 1932

During the past week Greenville citizens have become very aware and very proud of the town's history due to the articles that have been published in the Daily Reflector. Although the year now is 1932, it is April 19, 1791 that the people of Pitt County will never forget. On that day George Washington rode down the dusty roads of Pitt County. Washington's party left Tarboro on this morning and drove to Greenville along a road that covered the same ground as does the present route 43. The cavalcade finally arrived in the town on the Tar and Washington is said to have dined in a house on the southeast corner of Cotanche and Fourth Streets right across from where Flanagan Buggy Company now stands. When Washington left for New Bern he was joined by the Pitt Light Horse troop under Captain Samuel Simpson which acted as a guard of honor. This route must have been down route 43 to Bells Fork through Haddocks, Venters, and Helens Crossroads. The rest of it is found in history books but it was a long time to be remembered by the natives of Pitt County. And even if the President called the county seat a "trifling place", and a famous county inn "an indifferent House" there was much worth recalling.

Aware Of Mutual Dependence

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Efforts of the world's trading nations to erect a new monetary system is further recognition that this is, after all, one small planet of mutually dependent peoples.

That reminder is more often placed before us today in another context, that of ecology. We fully realize now that one nation's behavior in air and water treatment, for example, effects not only it but the world.

The same is true in international trade, where one nation's excess often can be used to fill another's need, to their mutual benefit. But there is no gyroscope to maintain this balance, and trade sometimes hurts rather than helps.

Nations sometimes try to dump their excess on another. They try to withhold goods if that helps their cause. They erect trade barrier in the form of quotas and duties. In effect, they sometimes practice warfare in trade.

Other problems arise because of internal differences, economic policy, inflation, wage rates, living standards, stage and pace of industrialization.

And as these economic elements change, so also changes the symbol of a nation's economy, the value of its currency. Ever-changing currency values constitute a threat to the exchange of goods and money.

In effect, the International Monetary Fund, now meeting in Washington, is seeking to build into world trade a guidance system, a monitor of values, by erecting a new system of currency exchange.

If they succeed—it is generally believed imperative that they do—it will be perhaps the most vital of many moves undertaken in the past 25 years to achieve world economic cooperation.

Progress is already noteworthy. The United States now trades with China and Russia. Japan and China are seeking to accommodate each other. The nations of Europe are erasing trade barriers by expanding the European Common Market.

The trend is not, however, all in one direction.

Simultaneously with efforts toward economic cooperation and unity, economic nationalism is intensifying in some nations which are fearful that trade hampers rather than promotes their well being.

The United States is considering the Burke-Hartke bill aimed at protecting American business. Chile and some underdeveloped nations are going their own way. Canada, Australia and others are concerned about foreign ownership of their production facilities.

Moreover, the gap between the rich nations and the poor nations is widening rather than closing, and international trade is one of the primary reasons for it. A nation whose exports consist mainly of raw materials, especially those that can be duplicated artificially, has little clout.

The route toward economic cooperation has crossed a lot of hills and valleys to get this far, but it still has many more ahead. At the moment, the biggest obstacle is the lack of an acceptable monetary system.

The system that died a year ago had served the world's trading nations until it became too out of joint with the times, too unflexible to accommodate itself to changes in the relative economic strength of nations.

Erecting a new system is considered by monetary authorities to be the only alternative to gradual fragmentation of the economic cooperation that brought prosperity to many nations following the great depression and World War II.

Tar Heel Ace Returns Home

REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Capt. Steve Ritchie, first Air Force ace of the war in Vietnam, eays "it's tremendous to be an American...it's even greater to be at home."

The 30-year-old flier arrived at the regional airport at nearby Greensboro Thursday, one month after scoring his fifth kill in air battle in the Southeast Asian war.

Reidsville city officials, civic leaders, friends and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned C. Ritchie greeted him for his first visit home since January.

Ritchie was to be honored this morning at Reidsville High School, where he played football. A parade was scheduled in the afternoon in his honor, including a fly-over of Air Force jets.

Then tonight, he is to be presented the key to the city by Mayor James Daniel during halftime ceremonies of the Reidsville-North Forsyth high school football game.

The flier will be honored Saturday night at a dinner at the Reidsville Elks Club. He leaves Sunday night for two weeks of engagements around the country.

Ritchie said he plans to return to Reidsville for several days before going to Thailand where he will assume a staff position.

"The reception has been great everywhere I've been in the United States," Ritchie said upon his arrival. "I have been told that there may be some antiwar feeling but I haven't found that at all. I think it's great."

He said he felt that support of the American position in Vietnam is stronger than many people believe.

"I think that about 95 per cent of the American people support our position there," said Ritchie, "and those of us who have been there know the need for the support of the people back home. I'm just happy to be part of a great team that is working for our nation."

Playwright And Intruder Battle

LONDON (AP) — Playwright John Osborne, who wrote "Look Back in Anger," grappled with an unidentified knife-wielding intruder who burst into his Chelsea home and threatened him and his wife, police say.

Called by the couple's cook, police pounced on the man as Osborne struggled with him Thursday night. The intruder was disarmed and taken into custody.

Neither Osborne, 43, nor his wife, actress Jill Bennett, 41, was harmed. No motive was given for the attack.

RARELY PICKED

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Wooden toothpicks have never been in favor in Scandinavia and the average Dane picks his teeth only four times a year according to a Copenhagen University survey.

FALL NIPS THE AIR — The summer breezes have finally ceased, and the cool air of fall blows by. Farmers begin to harvest their corn crops. Students are beginning a new year of classes and mothers air clothes for the coming winter. The sun as it shines through a corn stalk has a distinct fall appeatance. Summer has ended for 1972. CG Auxiliary To Get Charter

The Greenville Flotilla of the Coast Guard Auxiliary will receive its charter in ceremonies Saturday night with Commodore Raymond Donnell, commander of the Fifth Coast Guard District Auxiliary, making the presentation.

Officers to be installed during the ceremonies include Carlton Heckrotte, Flotilla Commander; John M. Ewell, Vice Flotilla Commander; and Fountain P. Cade, Secretary-Treasurer.

The 13 charter members of the new Flotilla, it was pointedout, have successfully completed courses in basic seamanship, water safety and Auxiliary procedures.

The Auxiliary is a volunteer non-military organization dedicated to public service. Created by Congress, its members are involved in three basic areas of boating safety activity; public education, safety inspections and safety patrols.

The new Flotilla, it was noted, will be active in the three areas. A 12-lesson course in seamanship and small boat safety for the public will be taught soon after the first of the year and satisfactory completion of the course is a prerequisite to Auxiliary membership.

Disturbed By Vacations

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — The city manager of this coastal community says he is losing patience with policemen who went on vacation this week when they heard their chief might lose his job.

Alvin Kornegay Jr., the city manager, said Thursday he has decided to replace policemen who have been out since Monday unless they return to work soon.

The officers started their vacation after an ad appeared in a newspaper asking for application for the police chief's job at Southport.

Police Chief Walton Willis, who has held the post four years, said the ad was the first indication that the town aldermen were not pleased with his work.

Kornegay said that was not quite true. He said the aldermen were "highly critical" of the police department at a recent meeting. He also said he had informed Willis about the ad three days in advance.

Six of the eight policemen, including Willis, did not report for work Monday. Kornegay said volunteers and sheriff's deputies are filling in.

Chinamen'?"

"Okay, is good so far. What do we do next?"

"When entire American economy is devoted to growing wheat, we tell United States we have too much wheat and we cancel order; United States is stuck with billions of tons of wheat and capitalistic system is buried under its own grain."

Unfortunately for the Soviet Union, Khrushchev's plan to bury the United States never got off the ground because he was unceremoniously kicked out of office for banging his shoe at the United Nations.

But recently someone found the plan and it was resurrected and renamed the "Brezhnev wheat plan" and put into effect this year.

When the CIA reported to Presidnt Nixon the real reason behind the wheat purchases and the threat it posed to the American people, the President, desperate for foreign gold, shrugged his shoulders and said, "Let them eat cake."

"That's right," he said pityingly. "Speed, you know. Weight."

I removed my own kickstand that night. Also the fenders.

I got a little toolkit with special aluminum sprocket wrenches and hung it from my seat, like my neighbor. I got a skinny, painful little seat with no padding and replaced the heavier, regulation seat.

I got some turned-down handlebars, wrapped them with friction tape that leaves the palms of your sweaty hands black. I thought I was ready — or, at least, as ready as you can be if you don't have $150 for one of those superfast bikes.

But the other night I was out riding around with a small light bolted onto my handlebars. I saw a beam bobbing up and down in the distance. It was my neighbor. He had this little light clipped to his leg.

"That light's no good for real bicycling," he said bluntly. "You got to have one like this. I ordered it from Yugoslavia."

And he rode off, his 10-speed aluminum-alloy gear sprocket making a fine, expensive whirring noise in the darkness. He had reflectorized stripes on the back of his cap.

audience of around 1,5000 contained precious few blue-collar workers but was packed with long-haired youths, many too young to vote. The prospect, once considered impossible: a Nixon victory in Genesee County (Flint).

McGovern's grave strategic problem was sharply etched when one bright young McGovernite, imported from outside Michigan, reminded union politicians at a recent meeting that McGovern had come from nowhere to win the nomination. The rebuttal came from canny UAW vice president Doug Fraser. Capturing a nomination with a tiny minoirty of primary voters, Fraser said, is not winning over the broad electorate.

In Michigan, that means doing far more to defuse the incendiary busing issue than McGovern did last Friday.

It didn't come easy!

Great Bourbon never does. It takes the choicest grain. Pure limestone springwater. Years of aging in charred oak barrels. And plenty of time, patience and hard work. Everything required of a Great Bourbon goes into the distilling of every bottle of Echo Spring. Is it all worth it? Don't ask. Sip.

F-111 Returns To Combat Role

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The controversial F111A fighter-bombers returned to combat Thursday for the first time in 4½ years and attacked North Vietnam's northwest rail line and military barracks between Hanoi and the Chinese border, the U.S. Command announced today.

For the fourth successive day Thursday, Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers launched more than 300 strikes across North Vietnam, the command said.

The key raids were made by the F111s, which carry up to 29,000 pounds of bombs, or twice the load that any other fighter-bomber can carry. They were in an area about 55 miles northwest of Hanoi and 100 miles below the Chinese border. The command gave no assessment on the damage they caused.

The Air Force also reported that F4 Phantom jets attacked what it described as a supply facility 28 miles southwest of Hanoi.

North Vietnam alleged that U.S. warplanes "wantonly" attacked the outskirts of Hanoi "causing many civilian casualties including children." It said three U.S. planes had been shot down in two southern provinces of North Vietnam, but made no mention of the fate of the pilots.

The U.S. Command declined comment on the Hanoi allegations, repeating statements that only military installations are targeted.

The command reported no plane losses over North Vietnam. It has a policy of withholding announcement of aircraft losses if search and rescue operations are under way.

In South Vietnam, however, the command announced in a delayed report that a Marine A4 crashed from unknown causes Tuesday area and said the pilot was missing.

An Air Force A1 Skyraider was reported lost to unknow causes Thursday in Laos. The pilot was rescued.

In Quang Tri City below the demilitarized zone, a U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom on a raid against North Vietnamese positions on the west bank of the Thach Han River opposite the Citadel accidentally hit a South Vietnamese marine position on the east side of the river. The U.S. Command said initial reports listed 11 marines wounded.

The F111A attack planes were sent immediately into action after arriving at Takhli Air Base in Thailand from Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, Nev.

Two squadrons of the all-weather attack planes, nearly 50 aircraft, are being based at Takhli. They replace about 60 F4 Phantoms from the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing which are returning to Holloman AFB in New Mexico.

The F111s were brought back, U.S. officials said, to increase the American strike capability during the forthcoming monsoon season in North Vietnam beginning next month. Their intricate radar systems allow them to fly to low altitudes during overcast skies.

First brought to Takhli on March 17, 1968, a half dozen F111s were used in the air campaign over North Vietnam, but were grounded several times because of technical problems. Three of the planes crashed and the other three were sent back to the United States after President Lyndon B. Johnson halted the bombing of the North.

The Air Force claims the mechanical problems have been eliminated.

Coffeehouse Concert Series Opened By Poet Of The Guitar

David Olney, a young poet of voice and guitar, inaugurated the East Carolina University 72-73 Coffeehouse Concert Series in Room 210 of the Union Building Thursday night.

A 24 year old folk singer whose home base is now Atlanta, Georgia, David scores solidly on several accounts—as singer, guitarist, harmonicist and composer.

David treats his listeners to music that brings a welcome measure seldom encountered in today's electrically magnified music—the joy of hearing musical sounds as they really are.

His is a talent marked by integrity and originality. Even at this early stage in his career, he stands favorably on his own merits, and needs no comparison to past or present masters of the art of folk singing.

David easily ranges from blues to traditional folk songs, to comic or plaintive slave songs and sprinkles his repertoire with his own compositions. His rendition of Frankie and Johnny was one of the finest I've ever listened to of this old favorite. He is not imitative, even in songs like Lovesick Blues, where the temptation to imitate would certainly be an easy one to fall prey to.

An advocate of the natural sound, David plays a non-electric (acoustic) guitar, using picks and rarely resorting to strumming. At times he produces lilting passages notable for clarity; reminiscent of a harp in its lower register.

Although it is always a matter of enjoyment to hear familiar songs, the finest thing about David's concert is the opportunity to hear his own compositions. These show the full range of the young musician's talent...which is considerable.

Let Me Stay With You, a song he said "I made up for a couple of friends three years ago when they got married, and they're still married," combines a lovely melody with lyrics that are poetic ...."to live alone is dying...my love is not a passing breeze." Another original composition, Catherine's Song, tells of the courage the memory of a childhood love brings...."you sing of words on heaven's door....a song to help me face the day, one to make it through the night."

A native of Lincoln, Rhode Island, the dark haired musician for a while attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In his student days there, he played in local restaurants, bars, and any place a performer was needed. In Atlanta, he has performed at numerous local spots, including the Twelfth Gate. This summer he performed at Duke University and Morehead College in Kentucky.

"I have to get back to Atlanta soon," he said, "as I'm acting in a children's play at the Children's Theater there. I plan to do some more tours when the play is ended." To date he has recorded one album, Simpson, for Columbia Records. He said for this record he teamed up with Blanche Simpson, Robbie Rothstein and Steven Morolla.

The Student Government Association has come up with a fine idea in the Coffeehouse Series. About 100 people at most (including floor sitters) can fit into Room 201 on the second floor of Union Building. Candles burn in bottles on tables. Free soda and doughnuts are given out before performances and during the break between the consecutive one-hour concerts.

Admission is free. However, a contribution of about 25 cents is encouraged to help defray expenses.

Lewis Gidley, chairman of the Coffeehouse Series, says that local people as well as students are welcome and are urged to attend the series, which hopefully will be held about two times each quarter during the school year.

For those who like music that is gentle on the mind and warms the heart, David Olney should not be missed while he's here in Greenville. David will be on hand at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. tonight and again at the same hours Saturday. One note of caution—if you're old enough need a seat, best be early. Should you have to sit on the floor, however, you'll find listening to David worth every minute of possible discomfort.

Save 18 On Burning Ship

LORIENT, France (AP) — Rescue ships saved 18 crew members from the flaming Cyprus freighter Kekenis early today. Five men were reported missing. The bodies of two crew members were recovered.

The vessel was carrying 4,000 tons of ammonium nitrate.

The Swedish tanker Axel Brostrom was credited with rescuing most of the crewmen on the Kekenis.

Distress messages were heard from the 5,000-ton ship late Thursday night and several ships in the vicinity changed course and went to the rescue in the Bay of Biscay.

Fire burned in the Kekenis all night, but it was reported extinguished this morning. The oceangoing tug Pacific left Brest to take the burned-out freighter in tow.

Details of the fire were not immediately available.

The pastor, Rev. Phillip Jones, will assist in the services which will begin at 8 p.m. Special music will be featured each evening.

The public is invited to attend.

Singer Addict Under Treatment

LONDON (AP) — Marianne Faithfull, the singer-actress who once was the girlfriend of the Rolling Stones' Mick Jagger, is reported making good progress after voluntarily seeking treatment for heroin addiction.

A leading London psychiatrist who is treating Miss Faithfull, Dr. James Willis, said Thursday, however, that "it is impossible to talk about a cure at the moment." Willis operates a drug dependency unit.

When a man has a brother

A man's got to look after his brother. That's what Timmy said the other day, as he stood beside our baby. And I told him he was right. "You are so much stronger than this tiny, little creature," I said. "From now on, you've got a real responsibility!"

A man does have to look after his brother . . . especially when that brother is weak. But there are moments, too, when even the strongest man may need a brother. —especially on Worldwide Communion Sunday!

In the eyes of the Church, all men are brothers, just as all men are equally beloved. As long as there is a church near you, you are not alone. You have only to open the door and walk in and you will be at one with your fellow man . . . and at home with your brothers.

McGovern Injects Crime Report Into Campaigning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The FBI's new report on the nation's crime rate has been injected into the 1972 presidential campaign.

After the report was issued Thursday, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern asserted: "Under the Nixon administration, the basic problems behind high crime rates have not been solved. They have worsened."

While President Nixon did not respond to McGovern's comments, two administration officials did. Presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman contended that McGovern was "dramatically haywire" in his crime figures.

The report, the FBI's Uniform Crime Report, said serious crime in the country was up 1 per cent for the first six months of this year compared to the same period in 1971.

But McGovern said: "This does not come close to telling the whole story. For every crime that is reported, there are two that are not reported, according to President Johnson's Crime Commission."

The South Dakota senator, who cut short his campaign plans to relax today at his farmhouse at St. Michaels, Md., said crime has increased 33 per cent and drug addiction has doubled in the last three years.

Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, in a speech to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, attacked critics of the crime-reporting system.

"The myth-makers have decided that since the figures just do not bear out their point of view anymore, they will tell us that the figures are mistaken," Kleindienst said.

"They tell us that a lot of crimes are not reported to the police, and the answer to that is that this is nothing new—some crimes have always gone unreported."

Flying back to Washington from Los Angeles with Nixon, Ehrlichman disputed McGovern's report that serious crimes increased 33 per cent over the last three years.

Asked by newsmen what the figure should be, Ehrlichman said there had been a 20-per-cent decline. But with more questioning, it developed that McGovern and Ehrlichman were talking about two different sets of statistics.

However, questioned by newsmen, Ehrlichman checked and reported that the 1969-72 hike in the number of serious crimes had been 19 per cent. "McGovern's statistic was misleading as well as wrong," he said.

Meanwhile, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Sargent Shriver, told a union group in Detroit that it is in labor's best interest to elect the McGovern-Shriver ticket in November.

Shriver spoke to a national meeting of presidents of United Auto Workers locals. "Everything that's been for the benefit of the American man and woman who works for a living has been sponsored, fought for, passed and signed by Democrats in the House and Senate or in the White House," Shriver said.

The UAW has endorsed the Democratic ticket.

On another political front, Eleanor McGovern presided at the opening of a "Friends of Eleanor" fund drive in Washington. She predicted her husband's planned "fireside chats" on national television will propel him into the White House.

Mrs. McGovern also criticized the Nixon campaign: "I think the President should be forced to defend the last four years, to justify his actions. I think the burden of proof is on him . . . but he sits in the White House and says nothing."

The President addressed the National Cancer Conference in Los Angeles. He said history may mark the U.S.-Soviet agreement to cooperate in medicine as a "great turning point" in man's struggle against cancer and other diseases.

While Nixon was in California, the White House issued a statement in his name, claiming "steady progress toward the new prosperity" in California and nationally.

Polls were in the news Thursday.

The national director of McGovern's campaign said in Washington that it has met a goal of narrowing the spread between the Democrat and Nixon to 20 percentage points.

And the director, Gary Hart, said "there's no doubt in my mind that" the campaign will reduce the spread to no more than 5 to 10 points by Oct. 5, and close it entirely before the election.

A poll released in New York indicated that 55 per cent of adult Americans plan to vote in the election.

"This works out to about 76 million people at a time when more than 86 million people should be intending to cast their ballots," said Alfred E. Sindlinger, who conducts the 17-year-old Sindlinger poll.

In New York, Secretary of State William P. Rogers reiterated an accusation by other administration officials, saying McGovern's proposed defense cuts "would seriously undermine our foreign policy and endanger the peade and security of the world."

Rogers discussed McGovern's military-cutback plans, without mentioning the Democratic candidate by name, in a speech to the 50th anniversary dinner of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Discusses Projects Of Watershed Study Plan

Dr. Charles O'Rear, assistant professor of Biology at ECU, spoke to the Mid-East RC&D Council Tuesday about progress on the proposed National Demonstration Project for a study of three watershed jobs in this area, where extensive fish and wildlife measures are to be included with stream channel modification.

The proposal calls for the study to begin immediately on Chicod Creek Watershed and to be expanded to Little Contentnea Creek Watershed as soon as possible. Later on it will be expanded to Swift Creek Watetshed. The drainage district commissioners for these three watersheds have endorsed this National Demonstration Project, Dr. O'Rear stated.

The Departments of Biology, Geography and Geology at ECU are preparing lists of project objectives that will be included in the proposal. Dr. O'Rear will then compile the information as a single draft proposal. This should be completed in about three weeks, Dr. O'Rear said.

The North Carolina Water Resources Research Institute in Raleigh is providing guidance in preparing the draft, O'Rear reported. He also said that he has talked to people in the Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta, Ga. and inWashington, D. C., concerning this proposal since that agency will be asked to help fund the study.

Dr. Joseph Boyette, associate dean of the ECU Graduate School, who is providing general guidance to development of the propasal, also met with the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Council. Two Departments of Biology graduate students have already begun gathering preliminary data in the first project area, Chicod Creek Watershed in Pitt and Beaufort Counties.

The proposed National Demonstration Project was adopted by the Mid-East RC & D Council as a project measure in June. It has been endorsed by Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of ECU. Colonel Ed Jones, Director of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, which carries out clearing house functions in this planning region, is helping prepare the Letter of Intent for this proposed project.

The Mid-East RC & D Council, sponsors of this National Demonstration Project, covers Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties. The Council is developing a conservation program for the five county region.

It will obtain RC&D technical assistance, loans and grants for eligible resource measures within the five-county planning region Federal assistance on RE&D projects comes principally from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Soil Conservation Service is furnishing leadership for the department of the Mid-East RC & D Council.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By MARY L. BRANCH

Good things are always happening at Conley.

We have had three guest speakers to come to our school to discuss lawmaking and law enforcement. Deputy sheriff Ray Evans spoke about the procedures of arrests until they reach court. Magistrate Russell Wooten discussed the procedures through the trial. Attorney Dave Reid talked on the difference between English law and American law and the roles of court officials.

We thank these men for taking up the time to be with us. The discussions proved very educational.

Dr. John Horne, director of admissions at East Carolina University, is coming Monday to talk about college admissions.

The Political Science Club has been organized with Melvin Edwards as president and Annete Franke, secretary. The club is planning to seel light bulbs to help raise money for the government calss to go to Washington, D.C.

Melvin Edwards is also in charge of the school store which is set up for the same purpose.

Six students from Conley, accompanied by Calvin White, went to UNC at Chapel Hill this week to attend a debate workshop. The observing debaters were Randy Avery, Brooks Barwick, Steve Sayce, Melvin Edwards, Wanda Dail, and Mike Roberson. A debating tournament will be held in the spring giving Conley's debaters a chance at competition.

Cathy Phelps and Liz Byrd are going to East Carolina on October 4 for an oral communications workshop. They are especially interested in dramatics. Mrs. Myrtly Allen and Mrs. Helen McClanahan, English teachers, are also attending this event.

Students have been registering for the PSAT which will be given on October 24 and the SAT which will be given on November 4.

JROTC

An arms room is being built here at D.H. Conley to store artillery for the students taking JROTC. This program will make fine young men with plenty of military knowledge, particularly under the capable leadership of Ltc. Applewhite and Sgt. Shivers.

Workshop For Women

MRS. BRENDA SPRUILL

The Belvoir Free Will Church Ladies Auxiliary is sponsoring a workshop, "New Horizons in W.N.A.C.", Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Brenda Spruill, National Field Worker for Woman Auxiliary will be the speaker.

Mrs. Spruill is the daughter of Free Will Baptist home missionaries Luther and Helen Sanders, who pioneered the work in Hawaii in 1959. She holds a B.A. from the Free Will Bible College in Nashville, Tenn.

Her husband, Wayne, is supervisor of Circulation for the Free Will Baptist Foreign Missons Department. Mrs. Spruill has been with the Woman's National Auxiliary Convention as a field worker since 1971.

The church is located six miles west of Greenville on the Belvoir Highway. All the ladies in the area are invited to attend.

Barking Upsets Neighborhood

LONDON (AH) – The barking of ex-Beatle Paul McCartney's English sheepdog and her eight pups have his neighbors in an uproar.

Neighbors in the exclusive St. John's Wood district at first asked McCartney by letter to keep the dogs quiet, then three filed a formal complaint with police over the day-and-night yapping.

One of McCartney's neighbors said Thursday that one of the notes sent previously to the former Beatle had been returned to the sender with a crudely scrawled, four-letter word reply.

"It was inexcusable," said the neighbor, who declined to be identified. "There was no need at all to send that. It just shows a dreadful lack of manners."

McCartney commented. "They're all mad around here. They're a load of colonels – I don't care what they say."

The Isles of Scilly number about 140 small islands, islets and clusters of rock 28 miles off the coast of Cornwall, England.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market conditions unsettled today. Live supplies fully adequate and demand only fair. Weights irregular but mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter today 1,185,000.

North Carolina hens: Market generally steady with a firm undertone noted for next week on heavy type. Too few sources reported today to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rolling on despite news of prime-rate hikes at two major banks, the stock market moved today toward a third straight day of solid advance.

Persistent rumors of progress toward peace in Vietnam were generally credited with spurring the rise, even though government officials denied that any break-through had been achieved.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.78 to 957.93. There were 764 advances against 374 declines on the Big Board, with 1,474 issues exchanged in moderate trading.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was up .25 to 60.77, while at the American Exchange, the price-change index was up .06 to 26.20.

Among the more active oil issues, Txaco was up 1/8 to 36 5/8, Gulf was up 1/4 to 24, British Petroleum was unchanged at 135 5/8.

Police Hunting For Assailant

Greenville police today are hunting for a man who grabbed an East Carolina University coed as she walked along South Cotanche Street last night and exposed himself to the girl.

The 18-year-old ECU junior from Elizabeth City told officers she was walking along the sidewalk at the time of the 9 p.m. incident, Chief Glenn Cannon explained.

The chief quoted Deborah Webb as saying the man walked up to her, grabbed her arm, asked if she wanted to make some money and exposed himself.

Chief Cannon said Miss Webb broke away from her assailant and ran. She then called police.

Ask District Court To Dismiss Action

Pitt County farmers today called on the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina to dismiss the pending action aimed at stopping channel improvement in Chicod Creek Watershed. In breifs filed, the farmest contend that the Court is powerless to stop the project.

The Intervenors rely on statements made by U.S. Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D N.C.) that this approval by the two Congressional Agricultural Committees is the only approval needed for the Chicod Creek Watershed project and that the Courts have no jurisdiction over this Congressional action.

Currently, the local farmers and the Soil Conservation Service are proceeding with plans to let the contract for Chicod Creek construction in mid-October.

Chicod Creek Watershed construction was originally restrained by the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina on March 15, 1972. U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. dissolved the restraining order on August 3, 1972.

An appeal to the United States Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit, by five environmental groups seeking to reinstate the injunction, was dismissed in Greenville, S.C., on September 5, 1972 by an order signed by Judge Clement Haynesworth, Jr.

Telecasting Candidates

Each candidate will be interviewed by eyeWITNess Newsman Bill Rogers, and the entire program will deal with the individual candidate's views and comments on their issues. The program will be videotaped in advance of the air dates. The schedule will be as follows:

Sunday, October 1: John Walker (Republican candidate for Lt. Governor).

Sunday, October 8: Jim Hunt (Democratic candidate for Lt. Governor).

Sunday, October 15: Jim Holshouser (Republican candidate for Governor).

Sunday, October 22: Hargrove Bowles (Democratic candidate for Governor).

Sunday, October 29: Jesse Helms (Republican candidate for U.S. Senate).

Sunday, November 5: Nick Galifinakis (Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate).

Sponsor Dinner Sale Saturday

Grimesland Masonic Lodge No. 475 is sponsoring a barbecue pork dinner Saturday.

Serving time will be from 11 a.m. through 7 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge in Grimesland and from 12 noon until 2 p.m. at the Greenville Masonic Temple on Charles Street. The plates will be sold for $1.25 each.

Proceeds from the dinner will be used for the building fund.

Farmville Mart Volume 'Heavy'

FARMVILLE — The volume of sales on the Farmville tobacco market continued heavy yesterday with leaf grades accounting for most of the sales.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, primings and lugs accounted for a large percent of the offerings while the amount of nondescript grades continued light.

The market sold 481,754 pounds of leaf yesterday for $439,722.49, for an average of $91.28 per hundred pounds.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 12,898,909 pounds of leaf for a season average of $88.98 per hundred pounds.

A person must be at least 30 years old to be eligible for the U.S. Senate.

Honorary Chairman Of Pitt Chapter Announced

Dr. Paul Erckman, Greenville pediatrician, has been named honorary campaign chairman of the Pitt County chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Announcement of Erckman's selection was made by Mrs. Robert B. Morgan, honorary state chairman of the North Carolina chapter of the national foundation.

Practicing with Pediatric Services Inc., Erckman came to Greenville in 1969. His education includes undergraduate work at Davidson College and medical school at the Medical College of Georgia.

He served his internship at Macon General Hospital in Macon, Ga., and his residency at Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, Tex. While at Baylor he had a one-year fellowship in pediatrics-infectious diseases and was exposed to the Cystic Fibrosis Treatment Center, one of 110 centers across the nation.

Erckman is currently serving as Chief of Pediatrics at Pitt Memorial Hospital and is a member of the Pitt County and North Carolina Medical Societies and the American Medical Association.

The Foundation supports research in children's lung diseases such as cystic fibrosis, asthma with lung damage, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and childhood emphysema.

The Pitt County "Breath of Life" campaign will begin Oct. 1 and continue through Oct. 15, it was announced. A door to door campaign will be conducted during this period and will be supplemented by the Greenville Jaycees campaign for cystic fibrosis.

Funds are used primarily for research and for treatment centers such as the facility at Duke Medical Center in Durham which is supported by the national foundation.

Nixon Ahead In Student Poll

WILSON — R. Frank Everett, eastern N.C. coordinator for the Committee to Re-elect The President, and Joe Ramsey, Youth Director for the Committee to Re-elect the President, Wilson County, announced the results of a student poll election on the campus of Atlantic Christian College, the week of September 25.

Of 506 votes cast by ACC students, 36 were for McGovern, 39 undecided, and 431 votes for Richard Nixon; a ratio of 12 to 1 in favor of Nixon's re-election.

The poll was reported taken in cooperation with Democrats on campus.

Variance Denied By Adjustments Board

A denial for variance and the granting of a temporary 30 day permit to cover a request that had been incorrectly advertised was the record for the Greenville Board of Adjustments meeting Thursday night.

The first of two agends items, a request for variance by the Perkins Oil Company, was unanimously denied.

The request had been for a variance to alter the structure located at 1007 East Fifth Street.

Opposition was voiced by Dr. Kathleen Stokes and Miss Janice Hardison, among others. Those in opposition pointed out that a change in structure would alter the primary nature and operational hours of the present services. Currently the structure is a service station. The variance would have made the station into a convenience store.

The request for a special use permit made by Kiddie Korner Nursery to use a building at 1308 West Third Street as a nursery was incorrectly advertised.

The Adjustment Board granted a 30 day temporary permit. If objections are registered, the permit will become null and void, and the matter scheduled for another public hearing.

Library Begins Fall Program

The autumn schedule of elementary age school children activities at Sheppard Library gets underway this Saturday.

Miss Helen Parks, Children's Librarian, has announced that from 10:00 a.m. to noon Saturday, in the Children's Library, a program of arts and crafts, film strips, movies, drama and dancing would be included in the two hour session.

Miss Parks said that future programs would be announced prior to each Saturday morning.

All children of elementary school age in the city are welcome and encouraged to attend these Saturday Activity Programs.

DEDICATION

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott was scheduled to be the principal speaker at the dedication today of a 26-mile stretch of Interstate highway from near Durham to Henderson.

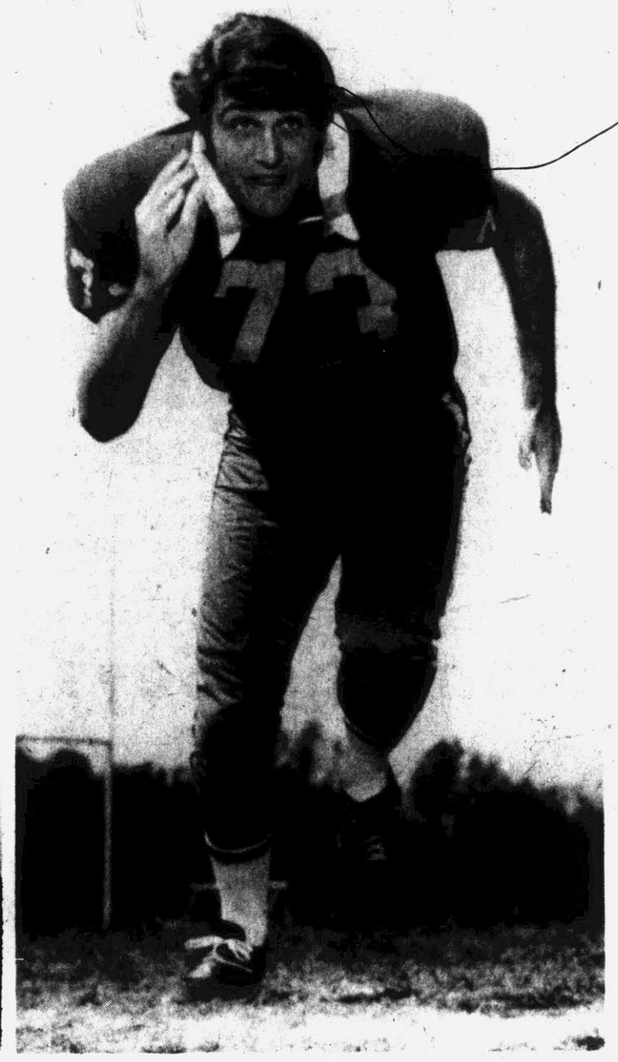
Randle Warns Don't Count Wins Yet

Flanker Tim Dameron



Guard Fred Horeis

With an open date this weekend, East Carolina University's Pirates are taking time to heal their wounded, take a little rest, and take a hard look at what's to come.

Standing atop the Southern Conference right now with a 3-0 record, the vantage point would appear to be a good one, but Coach Sonny Randle isn't looking at the silver lining, but at the clouds gathering on the horizon.

"I'm getting disturbed by the way people are talking," Randle said yesterday. "Just because we're 3-0, people are talking about 8-3, 9-2, 10-1 or even 11-0 seasons. But the easy part of the season is over, and we've got to come back down to earth."

Randle said that despite the record the Pirates would still have to work very hard and have luck on their side to pull out a winning season. "We thought at the start of the season a winning year would be miraculous. Now we think it's possible, but we're not counting our chickerns yet."

Instead, the East Carolina staff firmly believes in playing them one at a time. "Some people are saying, 'Bring on Carolina.' Well, that's just ridiculious. Right now the only team we're even interested in is Richmond (the next Buc opponent). We can't afford to look a day past the next game."

Randle does think that the Richmond game will be a key to the eventual success of the Pirates, however. "It may even be the key to the Southern Conference. But we still have to play several other teams in the conference, including The Citadel and William & Mary, and they're loaded. William & Mary has lost some heartbreakers. The game between those two this weekend will probably decide a lot."

The coach said the Bucs could talk in terms of being hopeful of a winning year, but those three more wins would be hard coming. "North Carolina and State aren't even in our league," Randle said. "Simple arithmetic will tell you that. When you have 120 scholarships, you ought to be able to put together a pretty good 11 on the field. It's a little harder when you have only 65."

The next three weeks will probably tell the tale for the Pirates, the coach believes. "It'll be a strong indicator as to where we're going."

"Everyone seems to be getting carried away, and it's a false sense of achievement. We have accomplished more than we thought we were capable of at the start, but we still have a long way to go."

The coach admitted that the Pirates weren't razor sharp when they took the field for the Appalachian game and this caused some early problems. "We had one man out of position when they made their big yardage, but after that we shut them off pretty well. I'm surprised, but we were able to get up on the field. Usually that's not possible."

Randle warns that Richmond is a strong team that the Bucs can't take lightly. "They have a very fine passing team, and are solid in their rushing game. They also have a great kicking game and we can't expect them to beat themselves."

Richmond battled North Carolina to the wire, and held West Virginia's powerful offense scoreless for nearly three quarters, in their two losing efforts. They downed Northeast Louisiana last week for their first win, and Randle expects them to have a good day against VMI this weekend.

The upcoming Pirate opponents are not to be regarded lightly either. The Citadel gave Clemson a tough game, while everyone knows the accomplishments of N. C. State. Chattanooga carried Auburn to the wire last weekend, and William & Mary may be one of the strongest teams around, despite their record. Dayton is posting a winning record to date and North Carolina is unbeaten at this point in the season. Furman, while not rated as a powerhouse, always has been a thorn in the skin of the Pirates, playing their better games against the Bucs.

Currently, East Carolina is ranking high in the Southern Conference statistics. As they do nationwide, they lead the league in total defense, allowing 128.3 yards per game. William & Mary is second with a 303.0 average, followed by Richmond at 307.0.

In rushing defense, the Bucs also lead, allowing 46.3 yards per game. William & Mary is second with 162.3, followed by Davidson at 169.3. In passing defense, Richmond leads with a 78.7 average, while the Bucs are next, 82.0. Furman is in third with a 102.7 average. Likewise in scoring defense, the Bucs lead, allowing only 3.3 points per game. William & Mary is second with a 13.3 average. Offensively, the Bucs rank high too. They are second to William & Mary in total offense and rushing. The Indians have a 377.3 and 272.0 average in the two categories respectively, while the Bucs are averaging 356.0 and 243.7, respectively.

In passing, however, the Bucs rank only sixth with a 112.3 average. Davidson leads with a 189.7 average. In scoring, the Bucs lead with a 27.0 average, followed by William & Mary at 27.0.

Carl Summerell is second in total offense with a 143.0 average, while Carlester Crumpler is eighth at 94.3. Crump is third in rushing with the same average, while Les Strayhorn is seventh at 67.0.

Summerall ranks fourth in passing with 20 completions. Tim Dameron is sixth in receiving with a 2.7 catch per game average.

William & Mary Seeks To Break Losing Hex Against The Citadel

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

William and Mary's Indians in the past two years have lost eight of their last 10 football games, all in the final period, and new Coach Jim Root has reached the point he says "I've got to admit that I believe in hexes and we're going to do anything to get rid of ours."

The Indians play host to The Citadel's Bulldogs in one of three Saturday afternoon Southern Conference games, and the winner of the scrap matching teams with 1-0 league records and 1-2 over-all marks will tie East Carolina's Pirates for the league lead at 2-0.

Richmond's defending champion Spiders, 1-2 over-all, make their conference debut at home against Virginia Military's Keydets, who have lost their last 13 starts. Two of the Keydets' three defeats this season were to conference foes.

The third league scrap has Furman's Paladins, 0-1, at Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 0-2. The two teams, who battled to a 0-0 tie last year, both are 1-2 against all opposition.

Davidson's Wildcats, 1-2 over-all, go to unbeaten Air Force Academy in the only nonconference scrap. Surprising East Carolina, 3-0 in over-all competition, is idle this weekend.

Root is dead serious about trying to halt William and Mary's string of defeats in the final quarter. The Indians' 13-9 defeat at Navy and 20-17 loss at Villanova both came in the closing minutes.

"For the first time in three years, we're going to wear green uniforms at home instead of our white ones," says Root.

But, Root adds, "more than anything else, we need to score about 28 points in the fourth quarter. Our boys are frustrated. We have to put it all together and win a big one like this week's game . . ."

"The Citadel's an explosive team and we feel we're going to have to score over three touchdowns to win," says Root.

Except for a 28-21 victory over Appalachian, however, The Citadel—the league's top offensive team last year—has been anything but explosive. The Bulldogs were shut out by Clemson and Western Carolina in their other two starts.

Coach Red Parker of The Citadel says the Indians "aren't as explosive as last year's team, but they have the ability to maintain ball control, and their defense has been outstanding."

Both teams have a number of players who, if they play, will be slowed down by injuries. For what it's worth, the home team hasn't won in the series between the two teams in the last five years.

Despite VMI's record, Coach Frank Jones of Richmond is worried.

"VMI always plays well against us and we believe that they have a better football team than they have had in the past," says Jones.

The records tend to bear him out, since the Keydets lost by only 18-14 to Davidson and 28-16 to Maryland—and they could have won both games. VMI also has the conference's total offense and passing leader in sophomore quarterback Tom Schultze, plus an aggressive defense.

"The six most important games on our schedule are the Southern Conference games," says Jones. "VMI is our first league opponent, and as far as we're concerned, this is the biggest game of the year right now."

The Spiders appear to be healthy, though, with All-Southern fullback Barty Smith and running back Billy Meyers apparently approaching top form and with quarterback Dave Yount, who missed last week's 17-0 victory over Northeast Louisiana, ready to play.

Furman finally cracked the victory column last week by beating Wofford 24-7, but the Paladins must face Appalachian without their leading runner, Donny Griffin.

"Our task would have been difficult with Griffin," says Furman Coach Bob King. "Now it will be an extreme test for our team. We feel that Appalachian is probably the most aggressive defensive team we will see all year."

Referring to last year's scoreless tie, Appalachian Coach Jim Brakefield says "it could be another defensive battle. But I think our offense will get going."

White To Leave ECU

East Carolina University's Sports Information Director, Franc White, is resigning his post, it was announced yesterday.

White, who took over the post in July, said his resignation will take effect following East Carolina's October 14 game with The Citadel.

A native of Alabama, White came to East Carolina two years ago as assistant director of the News Bureau. He took over the SID duties when Jim Young resigned to further his eduaction.

A native of Alabama, White came to East Carolina two years ago as assistant director of the News Bureau. He took over the SID duties when Jim Young resigned to further his education.

White, who hosts a weekly half-hour television show on hunting and fishing, cited lack of time as the reason for his leaving the East Carolina post. He is also working on a book and writing free-lance for several outdoor magazines.

Prior to coming to Greenville, White spent four years with the Birmingham News and 11 years with WSOC-TV in Charlotte.

Rose Cubs Tie Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount rallied in the third period to score and gain a tie with the Rose High School junior varsity, 12-12, yesterday.

Rose never trailed in the game, but twice Rocky Mount came back to knot the score. The Rampant Cubs scored first, as Lindberg Morris scored on a 20-yard run on a reverse, giving Rose a 6-0 lead at the end of the first period.

Rocky Mount came back, however, to tie it up with a touchdown in the second quarter. That left it at 6-6 at halftime.

Rose went back into the lead in the third period as Jeff Hagans scored on a gour-yard romp, pushing Rose back into a 12-6 lead.

But Rocky Mount came back again, scoring on a pass play to deadlock it, and it stayed that way. Rose offered one more threat, driving to the 20 before a fumble stopped them.

The Cubs, now 1-1-1, host Kinston on Wednesday, Oct. 12.

Phants Lose

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount Junior High School gained a 14-0 victory over E. B. Aycock Junior High School yesterday.

No details of the game were available. The loss left the Phantoms with an 0-1-1 record.

THE FIGURES LIED

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Atlanta Braves visited Shea Stadium for their last three 1972 games in New York against the Mets, the players on the field showed a total of 84 home runs. The starting Mets had a total of 40 homers. But the Mets won the game 5-0 behind the pitching of Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw. And Met home runs were hit by first baseman Ed Kranepool and center fielder Tommy Agee.

Rose Hosts Rocky Mount

Rose High School's Rampants will play host to Rocky Mount tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

The game is an important Division II struggle. Rocky Mount comes into the game with a perfect 4-0 record with a 1-0 conference mark. Rose is now 3-0 and 0-1 in the league and needs to win to have a chance to stay in the title race.

Leaders Are Now At Rear Of Pack

They say life has a way of balancing things off. Well, to date, this year seems to be making up for last year.

Last season, Tom Baines of the News department and I battled for first place all season long in our panel of pickers. This year, we're battling again, but we're on the bottom instead of the top.

Jack Whichard currently leads the standings in our weekly picks, hitting on 29 of 36 games. The newest member of our panel, Sandra Spivey is next with 28 right and eight wrong. George Holland and John Trotman follow with records of 26-10.

Then come Baines and myself with unhappy 25-11 victories.

My problem is that at least a half-dozen of those 11 losses came in the final minute of play-games like Carolina over State, Navy over William & Mary and the like.

Oh, well, there's always my high school record to fall back on — last week we turned in a perfect week, correctly picking the winners in all of the local games.

So let's take a quick look at the area schedule.

Farmville Central and North Pitt meet in a game between winless teams. North Pitt does have a tie to its credit, but The Jaguars are looking for anything other than a loss. It should be quite a game, but we'll have to choose Farmville Central.

Robersonville goes to Elm City still unbeaten. The Golden Eagles are chasing their 17th in a row and winning is a habit with them. No difference this weekend — they're the choice.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Conley goes to Greene Central with some hesitation. The Vikings downed C. B. Aycock, while the Rams competely ruined them last week. Greene Central wants the title and can't lose if they are to stay in the race. They should come out on top in this one.

Eastern Wayne visits Ayden-Grifton in the battle of unbeatens in the Eastern Carolina Conference. The loser will have his work cut out for him in the league race, while the winner still has to get by both Greene Central and Southern Nash. It should be a fine game, and we'll go with Ayden-Grifton to snap back from last week's close one and win it.

Finally, Williamston travels to Northeast. The Tigers are clawing about everything is sight since losing to Robersonville in their first game. Apparently they're getting their revenge on the Eagles against everyone else. Williamston must be favored here.

Turning to our poll, the first game is the Rocky Mount-Rose clash tonight in Ficklen Stadium. Rocky Mount comes in unbeaten, while Rose must win to stay in the conference race. It should be a tremendous affair, and our panel is divided on the outcome. The division is perfect, so we'll really have to wait and see. Three pick Rose — and three pick Rocky Mount, me included.

Oakland Ices West Title While Boston Increases Eastern Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The happy Oakland A's and desperate New York Yankees were at opposite ends of an emotional see-saw today as baseball's 1972 season headed into its final regular week of play.

The A's, wearing the American League's West Division crown, were happy that they hadn't backed into the title and the Yankees, still nursing an outside shot at the AL's East title, were grateful that they hadn't backed out of their chance for the other division championship.

Oakland wiped out a seven-run deficit and clinched the West with a pulsating 8-7 victory over Minnesota while the Yankees, peering at the fate of instant elimination, fought back for a 3-2 victory over Detroit.

The Tigers' loss, combined with Boston's 3-1 victory over Kansas City, moved the Red Sox 1½ games ahead of Detroit in the AL East scramble. Each team has six to play including a season-ending three-game series against each other.

The Yankees, almost doomed by that last-week schedule, are third, 3½ games behind with five to play, and idle Baltimore slipped to fourth place, four behind with five to play,

In the only National League game played Thursday, Philadelphia topped Pittsburgh 2-1 as Steve Carlton became the eighth pitcher in major league history to strike out 300 batters in a season.

Oakland fell behind 7-0 in the first 4½ innings against the Twins but battled its way back, finally tying the score on Angel Mangual's two-run single in the eighth inning.

In the ninth, leadoff batter Sal Bando was hit by a pitch and then circled the bases on Dal Maxvill's double for the winning run.

"I've had hits before," said Maxvill, batting .222 since coming to the A's from the St. Louis Cardinals last month, "but this was one of the most important hits I've ever had. I guess you could say the most important."

Mike Epstein's 26th homer of the season started the A's comeback and he was one of the happiest players in the dressing room.

"What a way to win it!" said Epstein. "We came from behind. We didn't back in!"

Although no one could accuse the A's of backing in, New York very nearly backed right out of their race in the East. But Roy White's 12th inning homer gave the Yanks the victory and kept them mathematically alive.

Had Detroit beaten the Yankees, New York's chances would have ended simply because it would have given the club 72 losses and either Boston or Detroit would mathematically be assured of finishing with a better record. Which one did would depend on next week' three-game series.

But New York hung on and eventually beat Mickey Lolich, dealing the Tigers' chances a tough blow.

The Yankees did it with solo homers by Thurman Munson in the eighth inning, relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel in the ninth and finally White in the 12th.

The loss left Lolich with a 21-14 record—4-8 since the All Star Game. "The last half, I've lost a lot of heartbreakers." said Lolich, "but this one is probably the toughest."

It was made even tougher because of Boston's victory over Kansas City.

"One less game to go," said Red Sox Manager Eddie Kasko, after John Curtis had outduelled Dick Drago. "It's as simple as that."

Drago permitted the Sox only five hits but two of them were doubles by Reggie Smith, who scored twice, and another was a clutch, two-out single by Doug Griffin that chased home the first Sox run in the second inning.

In the only National League game, Carlton spun a six-hitter and struck out 11 to beat Pittsburgh for Philadelphia. It was the 26th victory of the season for the Phillies' ace-left-hander and gave him 302 strikeouts. The only other National Leaguer to reach the 300 plateau was Hall of Famer Sandy Koufax.

"I had one of the best fastballs I've had all year and the best curve ball," said Carlton. He called the 300-strikeout plateau "a great accomplishment. I feel very good about that."

Brundage Says Change Needed

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Olympic song may be over, but the melody still lingers on strongly for Avery Brundage, retired president of the International Olympic Committee who reached his 85th birthday Thursday.

"The Olympic Games will survive, no question about it, but some drastic changes are needed," said Brundage, whose 20-year regime as IOC head ended with the recent tragedy-marked Munich Olympics.

Brundage, replaced as IOC president by Lord Killanin of Ireland, returned to his office in the LaSalle Hotel he once owned just in time to celebrate his birthday in quiet fashion.

Tearing himself away from a desk loaded with international correspondence, congratulatory cablegrams and honorary awards, Brundage's birthday party was celebrated in the hotel coffee shop.

While a bevy of waitresses sang "Happy Birthday," the world-renowned watchdog of amateurism nibbled at a small birthday cake after a light lunch.

Brundage reiterated defense of his statement at the Olympic memorial service for 11 members of the Israeli team slain by Arab guerrillas in which he also criticized expulsion of Rhodesia because of a threatened Olympic boycott by black African nations.

"I still say the threatened African boycott was a savage assault on Olympic principles. Principles are as important as human lives. Was it Patrick Henry who said 'Give me liberty or give me death?' "

Brundage described the Olympic program as "too large and too expensive" and called for elimination of some sports which have become "more a business that a sport."

He included soccer and basketball in this bracket, contending, "You can't find a handful of real amateur soccer players, and the same goes for basketball—especially in the United States, where players get $20,000 athletic scholarships."

Brundage said he was named a "lifetime" honorary president of the IOC but said, "I won't attend any IOC meetings unless I'm invited—I don't think I should interfere with the new administration."

Asked to name the single best Olympic performance he has seen, Brundage said, "That's an impossible question."

Virginia's Loss To Mountaineers Should Not Give Heart To Duke

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That 48-10 score by which West Virginia beat Virginia last week should not give too much confidence to Virginia's football opponent this Saturday, the Duke Blue Devils.

Virginia played most of the game without its starting quarterback, Harrison Davis. He was ejected with only 1:45 gone in the second quarter after a game official said he had kicked West Virginia starting tackle Jeff Merrow in the face.

But Virginia, through its athletic director, Gene Corrigan, said Thursday it disagreed with this version after viewing game films and talking with Davis and a member of the West Virginia coaching staff. Corrigan said:

"The West Virginia player involved in the incident made a late tackle on Davis following the pass. Davis, in a very distinct motion, kicked down on the back of the West Virginia player's helmet with the bottom of his shoe to get the player away from him. In our opinion, there were three other plays in the game which were at least as flagrant and for which no penalty was assessed."

Corrigan did not elaborate on the other incidents.

West Virginia led by only 7-3 before Davis was asked to leave.

Virginia at Duke will be the only league game for Atlantic Coast Conference teams this Saturday, the fourth week of the ACC season.

North Carolina reviewed its game plan Thursday, and flies to Columbus this afternoon for a work out in Ohio Stadium.

The undefeated Tar Heels have averaged 31 points in their three opening victories, but this time they are up against the fifth-ranked team in the Ohio State Buckeyes. Ohio State has played only one game so far, defeating Iowa 21-0 two weeks ago.

Two North Carolina State players from Danville, Va., flanker Steve Lester and tight end Havey Willis, impressed coaches as the Wolfpack held its last heavy workout for the game at Georgia. Both made several fine catches from quarterbacks Bruce Shaw and Dave Buckey.

The Wolfpack has managed more than 400 yards in total offense, and leads the ACC in that department and in passing. It also has scored 100 points in three games, only 47 less than its output for the whole of last season. It has beaten Syracuse 43-20, tied Maryland 24-24, and lost to North Carolina 34-33. Georgia was beaten 24-13 by Tulane last week after opening with a 24-14 victory over Baylor.

Clemson announced that Jay Washington will start at tailback sfor the game at second-ranked Oklahoma in place of Smiley Sanders, a star runner injured i last week's 29-10 loss at Rice. Coach Hootie Ingram said Sanders will make the trip, but it is uncertain whether he will play at all.

The Oklahoma wishbone offense has moved for 1,348 yards, 1,061 of them on the ground, in victories by 49-0 over Utah State and 68-3 over Oregon. The Sooners lead major-college football teams in total offense and rushing offense.

Maryland, which last week scored its first victory under new coach Jerry Claiborne, is at Syracuse, which also has only one victory so far. Syracuse has won the last seven meetings with Maryland. The Terrapins beat VMI 28-16 last Saturday after losing 31-26 at home to North Carolina the week before and opening with the tie at N. C. State.

Baker Seeks Pole Position

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Buddy Baker makes one of his rare appearances at North Wilkesboro Speedway today, hoping to uphold what has become a tradition for his car owner.

Baker, a 6-3, 220-pounder, was a candidate for the pole position in opening time trials for Sunday's Wilkes 400 stock car race. If recent history repeats, he should be a shoo-in for the honor.

Baker's Dodge, driven until three weeks ago by Bobby Isaac, won the pole position for the Gwyn Staley Memorial 400 last April 23 with Isaac at the wheel.

Beyond that, cars built by Baker's chief mechanic, Harry Hyde, have captured the No. 1 starting spot in every Wilkesboro race except one during the last three years. The exception was in October last year when Charlie Glotzbach placed Junior Johnson's Chevrolet on the pole at a record 107.558 miles per hour for the five-eights of a mile oval.

Johnson's current driver, Bobby Allison, has taken the car to eight victories and $215,150 in prize money this year.

Allison, along with his chief rival of the moment, Richard Petty, also were strong pole candidates as the first eight spots in Sunday's 30-car starting lineup were to be filled.

Petty, whose seven triumphs and $178,080 in prize money ranks second to Allison, hasn't won the pole position at North Wilkesboro in several years. But he is the track's most prolific winner, with eight first-place payoffs in 10 years.

Also high up on the list of likely qualifiers were Fred Lorenzen, Bill Dennis and Clifton "Coo Coo" Marlin, each with new Chevrolets; Benny Parsons and James Hylton, in Mercurys; and Tiny Lund, who surprised by winning last year's Wilkes 400 in a Chevrolet and driving a similar car this year.

Northeast's Fishing Industry Shaken By Red Tide

By HOWARD KERCHEVAL
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — A "red tide" of toxic algae which brought on a ban on the sale and consumption of some shellfish in five New England states two weeks ago has sent an economic shock through the entire fishing industry of the area.

President Nixon declared the Northeast coast a disaster area Thursday and the Small Business Administration and the Office of Emergency Preparedness began gearing up to see what they can do to rescue hard-pressed fishing firms.

Prices for shellfish affected by the ban as well as species which have been declared safe from red tide poisoning have skidded, for fishermen as well as wholesalers and retailers.

"They've cooked it completely," said Al Hook, a partner in the lobster firm of James Hook & Co. "Our business has fallen off 60 to 70 per cent."

It is worse in other places, such as the picturesque fishing town of Gloucester, where an estimated 70 per cent of the 27,000 residents depend on the sea for a living.

The original ban applied to all soft-shell and hard-shell clams, to mussels and to scallops. Lobsters, oysters, crabs, shrimp and fin fish were all declared safe. Scallops and hard-shell clams were later removed from the ban in effect in Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

The ban on soft-shell clams and mussels remains in effect, but starting Saturday some areas in southeastern Massachusetts will be opened for the digging of species affected by the red tide.

In addition, state authorities have cleared for retail sales some shellfish which could harbor red tide toxin, after ascertaining they are free of poison.

But fishing industry spokesmen say the red tide, which can cause death to humans who eat contaminated shellfish, was seen by consumers as a general bogey-man.

"I've got a plant in Florida—at Miami Springs," Hook said. "It's the same everywhere. People are just frightened."

At Captain Marden's Seafoods in Wellesley, Mass., select lobsters were going for $2.25 a pound when the red tide scare hit. On Thursday the price was $1.69.

Charles Fields, owner of New England Lobster Co. in Rockport, said his business was off about 50 per cent. He said retailers he deals with have dropped the price of lobster to as low as 99 cents a pound in some cases.

Restaurants suffered too.

Joseph A. Milano, co-owner of Boston's 147-year-old Union Oyster House, where Daniel Webster once was a steady customer, said his business probably was off 60 per cent at the worst point and still hasn't fully recovered.

Peter Maistrellis, manager of Ipswich Shellfish Co., said shipments of the famed Ipswich clams to all sections of the nation have been slowed.

"Our sales probably dropped as much as $75,000 a week," he said, "and we're just one company. Some companies were hurt more."

Maistrellis said seafood shipments from some firms in the Ipswich area have dropped as much as 90 per cent, and some "have effectively gone out of business."

Wholesaler John Del Torchio said the whole industry is operating chaotically—"We don't know what to look forward to."

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon use care that you are not sensitive and avoid getting your feelings hurt in which event you could lose objectivity and make a big mistake However, the afternoon and evening are fine for personal pleasures and for getting the home and other furnishings and articles you need Show affection to others

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Try not to lose your temper with kin at home in a m , then the p m becomes restful and charming there Come to a far better understanding instead. Don't permit a partner to run roughshod over you.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Tone down those worries over financial or personal matters in a m , and wear a smile and you win others over easily Then all improves for you. Make the repairs that are needed and have fun at home tonight with friends

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you do not overspend for whatever you do not really need anyway during the day, and in p m you can then make fine plans for the future Others expect too much from you, so do only what is humanly possible and show you have good sense

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you show that you are well controlled during a m , you win easily over others Later you can be with congenials for the delightful pleasures you desire with them Spend some, but not too much

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Instead of fretting over that situation in a m when you can do little about it, await the afternoon and settle it calmly after you have cooled off Dress nicely and go out socially tonight Show others you like them

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Morning is a good time to get appearance improved if you are going to go out socially later. Don't wait until the last minute and feel unsure Good friends are in fine mood for fun

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Do whatever will clear up that confusing condition at home in a m and then the afternoon and evening are fine for dining out, other activities you like. After lunch is best time for approaching that bigwig for backing Meet new personalities, too

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Morning is best time to delve into that source of information difficult for you to do before Then make the right new connections you want Avoid one who has an eye on your assets but flatters you a great deal

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Getting responsibilities well handled in a m frees time for more enjoyable activities later in the day and in p m That feeling of joviality returns in p m that has been missing all day Have fun

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) If you are patient with a partner in a m , you find that later in the day you get backing or cooperation you want, but could not earlier That problem is difficult to solve until p m Then all is okay

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have boring work to do in the morning, so get it out of the way before you step out for other activities, since it is important nevertheless. Steer clear of arguments Build up your vitality in some right way

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You want to have a good time, which is all right, provided you get that important work out of the way early most efficiently You have to clear up flaws in creative outlets, too The evening can be particularly delightful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fearful and overly sensitive young people if you let him or her hang on to the apron strings too long. So give training in self-dependence early, but carefully, and teach early about the pitfalls of life Then this becomes a most successful chart, particularly in connection with public endeavors. Teach early not to fuss and fiddle so much, especially about the unimportant things of life. Sports are very helpful.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Cancer Mortality Cut In Women Over Fifty

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An experimental yearly screening program in New York has resulted in reduction of breast cancer death rates by one-third, says a report on a new five-year study.

However, the manual and X-ray tests reduced the mortality rate only in women over 50.

The report on breast cancer—the No. 1 fatal cancer among women—is to be presented today at the Seventh National Cancer Conference sponsored by the American Medical Society and the National Cancer Institute.

A preview of the study was presented at a Thursday news conference by Sam Shapiro, director of research and statistics of the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York.

A total of 62,000 female participants in the insurance plan were studied, he said. Half were offered the annual screening and half were not.

Within five years, 42 per cent of the unscreened women who got breast cancer died from it, Shapiro said.

Of those in the study group, only 28 per cent of those who contracted breast cancer died in five years. In addition, some women in the study group refused screening, and the death rate for those who actually underwent examination was only 17 per cent.

The diagnostic tools used in searching for early breast cancer were clinical examination, manual palpation by a doctor and mammography, X-rays of the breast.

Shapiro couldn't explain why the screening program had little effect on women in the under-50 group.

"It may have something to do with the kinds of cancer women get before menopause and the kind they get after menopause, but we just don't know," he said.

It turned out that mammography, which is much more sensitive than the manual examination, played a large part in the reduced mortality for the over-50 women, he said.

Shapiro said that only 2 per cent of the cancers detected by mammography led to deaths in the five-year period.

The results of the five-year study, he said, justify expansion of the screening program to more women. This would be especially important for women who, because of certain aspects of their medical history, are high-risk breast cancer targets, Shapiro said.

On the other hand, he said, more trained medical workers and cheaper screening methods will have to become available before major segments of the female population can be examined this way.

New Automated Series Catalog

The J. Y. Joyner Library of East Carolina University has recently made available an automated Serials Catalog to facilitate use of the Library's extensive magazine, newspaper, and other serial publications.

The new catalog lists all holdings in these categories housed in Joyner Library and the Health Affairs Library, giving all necessary data for each title to allow for speedy and efficient retrieval of needed materials from the bookstacks. Production of the catalog was a joint effort of the Joyner Serials Department and the East Carolina University Computing Center.

The new Serials Catalog is to be updated monthly by computer, and made available to users in a microform format called microfiche. The entire list of approximately 7,000 titles, requiring 896 computerprintout pages, is contained on five pieces of 4" x 6" microfiche. A microfiche reader is used to enlarge the image to its normal size.

At the present time, the catalog can be consulted in three areas of the Joyner Library and in the Health Affairs Library. It is hoped that in the near future many academic departments will be able to have the catalog available in their office areas for convenient use by the faculty.

Eugene Huguelet, Director of Technical Services at Joyner Library, said "Electronic data processing and the techniques of micromation are being employed in many library systems to enable librarians to provide better service to users. At a cost somewhat lower than the cost of the tradidional manual system, information can be made available at various convenient locations on the campus. Also, the possibility of exchanging catalogs with other campuses in North Carolina could lead to more cooperation and sharing of resources".

PromotingNixon For Nobel Peace Prize In 1973

NEW YORK (AP) — The leader of a drive to win the nomination of President Nixon for the Nobel Peace Prize in 1973 says 28 heads of state have agreed to submit his name.

The Nobel Institute, which has said it will award no peace prize this year, requires that a nominee's name be submitted by a head of state.

Elizabeth Manning, the editor of Finance magazine, also said Thursday that 1,000 college professors have also agreed to nominate Nixon next year and that $20,000 has been donated to finance the nomination campaign.

"This is very unique," Mrs. Manning said of the drive. "The Nobel people said nobody had ever tried anything like this before."

She said the President had acknowledged the efforts on his behalf by letter and said that "one of the compensations of public life is to have this kind of recognition for his prime goal—a lasting peace."

Provocative 'Naughtiness'

Sally's case is really a first cousin to that of Shakespeare's heorine in his famous "Taming of the Shrew." Females crave masculine dominance. Nagging is a wife's attempt to make her meek mate assert his erotic mastery in the boudoir!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-505: Sally M., aged 5, is a problem case.

"Dr. Crane," her kindergarten teacher began, "Sally was the only child until a year ago.

"Then she received a baby brother, and the family gave him most of their attention.

"So Sally has become a problem youngster.

"When I have visited in her home occasionally, I have seen her deliberately violate rules till her daddy spanks her.

"She actually seems to do out of her way to provoke her parents into punishing her. Why?"

PROVOCATIVE NAUGHTINESS

This is a good example of what we term "provocative naughtiness."

In such cases, a child will deliberately disobey rules and even submit to the inexorable punishment, just to gain its father's attention.

Though it may even suffer some pain from a spanking, it secretly realizes it has meanwhile produced physical contact via has "laying on of his hands."

And kiddies crave physical contact, preferably in the form of hugs, kisses and caresses.

But even by incurring slaps or spankings, they will often relish the limelight they thus gain from their parents.

They prefer such painful attention to the isolation they suffered previously!

Indeed, in Shakespeare's brilliant psychological plot, entitled "The Taming of the Shrew," we witness a first cousin to Sally's provocative naughtiness.

While Sally's anti-social conduct was due to the fact she had been dethroned as queen of the household and now craved a return of parental attention, Shakespeare's heroine wanted masculine dominance.

But her shrewish behavior was also an attempt to convert her "doormat" (henpecked) mate into a dominant ruler of the boudoir.

Nagging is thus the modern woman's weapon for trying to make her meek and deferential husband assert his sexual mastery!

Alas, the more such a male submits, the more of a nagger his wife become. (Note Maggie and Jiggs).

Yet such wives are seldom conscious of just why they scold and criticize their mates chronically.

But subconsciously they are hoping to force him into an ascendant role where he will literally spank them till their teeth rattle!

"Dr. Crane," a quiet, mild-mannered business man recently surprise me, "I was never inclined to argue with a woman.

"So I let my wife have her way in everything, even to our bedroom deportment.

"But she became such a shrew that she'd constantly nag and nag.

"One night I got so irate I threw her across my lap and paddled her bottom till it was black and blue.

"And ever since then she's been as nice as pie.

"Oh, I still let her run the house and act as treasurer or our little family corporation.

"But she now knows she must walk a chalk line in our boudoir."

No wife can fully relish romance with a man unless she likewise is a little afraid of him!

He may be meek and docile in most of their marital affairs but she secretly expects (and craves) dominance in the boudoir.

Probe Theft Of Extinguishers

Vandals, sometime Tuesday, took two dry chemical fire extinguishers from the Immanual Baptist Church at the Intersection of Elm Street and Brookgreen Road, but not before discharging a quantity of the units' fire retarding power in the church's sanctuary.

The two fire extinguishers were recovered by police, however, before they were reported missing and the incident at the church reported Wednesday.

About 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Joe Davis of 312 Rutledge Rd. reported his two children, taking a bath, were sprayed with white dry power from the extinguishers by someone standing outside their bathroom window.

Investigating, Davis found the two extinguishers in his yard and handed them over to police when they arrived.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

A well conceived bidding campaign landed North and South in a sound contract of six diamonds with the latter becoming the declarer. Altho an adverse division in trumps as well as dummy's side suit posed problems to South during the play, he managed to overcome an early disadvantage and ultimately salvage his contract by placing an unbearable amount of pressure on East which forced the latter to surrender the fulfilling trick to declarer.

When South opened the bidding with one diamond, North's hand became worth 19 points in support and he flashed an immediate slam signal by making a jump shift to three clubs—which call is, of course, unconditionally forcing to game. South, with a bare minimum and stoppers in the unbid suits signed off at three no trump. His partner was not ready to quit yet, and bid four diamonds to confirm his excellent fit for opener's original suit.

Since South had announced a minimum on the previous round, he took this opportunity, on the way to game, to show the ace of hearts. This was all North needed to hear and he proceeded without further ado to six diamonds.

West opened the ace of spades which was ruffed in dummy. Declarer tested the trump situation by leading over to his king and back to the ace, but East showed out on the second round, discarding the six of spades.

South tried to set up the club suit by cashing the ace and king and then ruffing the next round with the nine of diamonds. West overruffed with the jack. A spade was returned and trumped with the six of diamonds as East followed suit with the seven of spades. Another club ruff with the queen of diamonds established dummy's long club.

A heart to the king put North in to cash the nine of clubs on which East discarded the nine of hearts and South the seven. The ten of diamonds was led and placed East in an untenable position. If he parts with the king of spades, South can discard the ten of hearts and take the last two tricks with the queen of spades and the ace of hearts.

If East gives up the jack of hearts, South sheds the queen of spades. A heart to the ace, now drops the queen and enables declarer to take the last trick with the ten of hearts.

NOTICE OF SALE
North Carolina
County Of Pitt

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by THOMAS LEWIS SMITH and wife, CAROLYN B. SMITH, to Archie C. Walker, Trustee, dated the 9th day of December, 1971, and recorded in Book M-40 at page 434 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County; and under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as substituted trustee by an instrument of writing recorded in Book D-41 at page 128 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned substituted trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash

AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR IN GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, AT 11:30 A.M., ON THE 13TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1972, the land conveyed in said deed of trust, the same lying and being in Greenville Township, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina and more particularly described as follows:

Being all of Lot 19, Block C in Greenbrier Subdivision, as shown on map of record in Map Book 14, Page 78 and 78-A, Pitt County, North Carolina, Registry.

This conveyance is subject to those certain restrictive covenants appearing of record in Book 0-35, Page 452, Pitt County Registry, to the same extent and as fully as though said covenants were copied herein verbatim.

The above property is to be sold subject of unpaid taxes and assessments, if any.

This 12th day of September, 1972.

ANNOUNCING THE 1973 CHRYSLERS

CIDAA

1973 Chrysler:

The heritage of great engineering coming through with Chrysler Newport. Electronic ignition, standard. Electronic digital clock, option. Plus all the room, power and luxury you expect from a Chrysler. Yet still at the lowest Chrysler price.

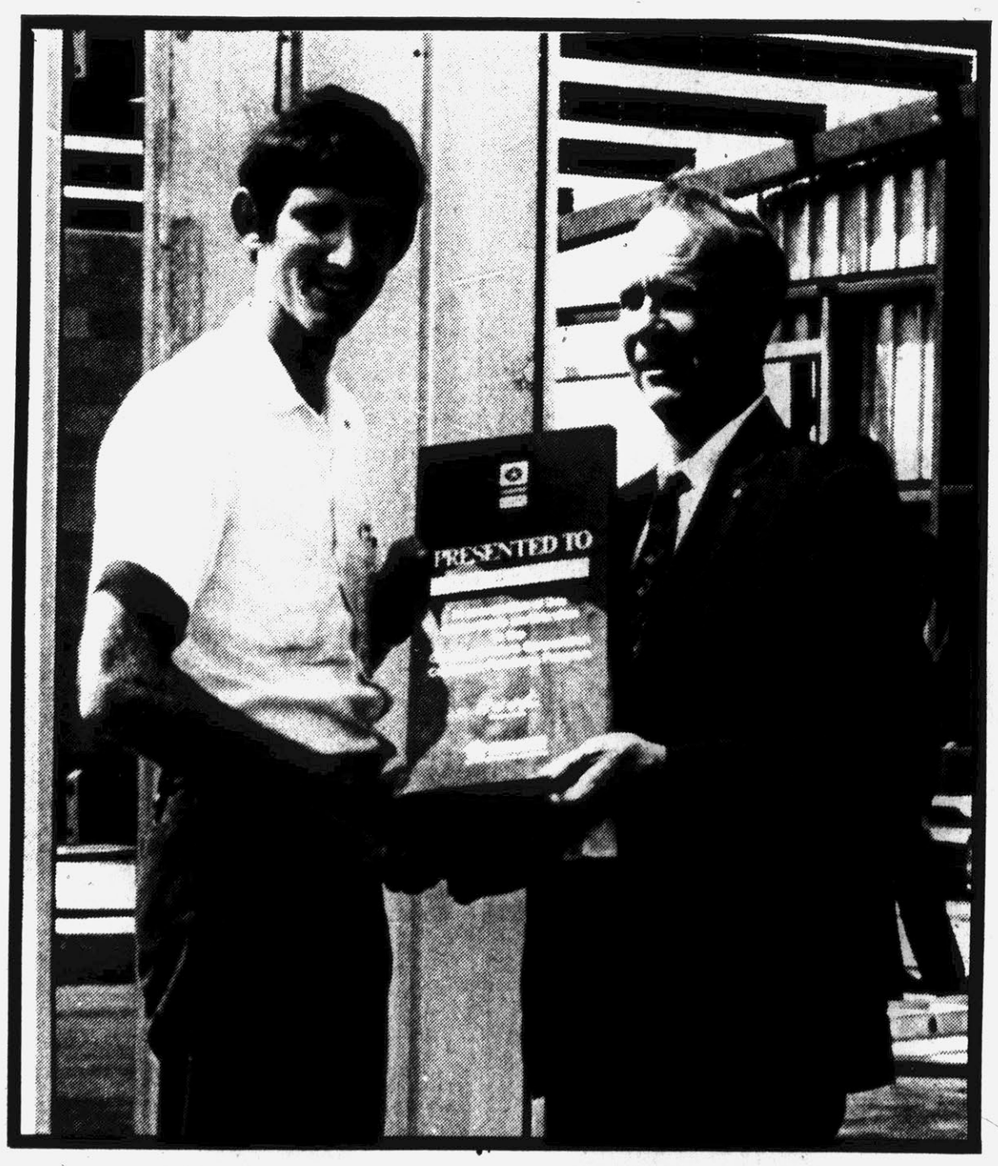
THE CAR CHANGED. THE IDEA DIDN'T.

New Yorker:
The Chrysler has always been built with the idea it should be an automobile of innovation.

The 1924 Chrysler, for example, introduced a revolutionary new high-compression engine . . . and that was just the start of it.

'73 Imperial:
The interior of the new Imperial is enough to make you wish you didn't have to leave it. Depending on the model you pick, you can order beautiful Cologne leather seats, individual folding center armrests, rear-seat reading lamps and built-in foam pillows.

The Imperial is our finest, most comfortable car.
And the 1973 Imperial is our finest, most comfortable Imperial ever.
The car may change. The idea never.



Mr. O.D. Miller, service representive from Chrysler Motor Corporation presents a service award in front of our partially completed new service facility to James Trotman, service manager, (left). The award, given to dealers who render excellent service to their customers, is one of only ten given out statewide.

William L. Johnson, President of Bright Leaf Motors, Inc. said that this award comes at a moment when Bright Leaf is putting additional stress on better customer service. Bright Leaf is doubling their total service facilities in order to give their Chrysler customers new , and old, whom they have served for the past 23 years, more improved service.
