Pitt County United Fund Drive Officially Opened

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County United Fund drive began officially this morning but today was not the first work day for campaign coordinators.

Following a "get ready early" format that saw the annual kick-off luncheon session held several weeks, ago, Pitt UF officials encourage campaign coordinators to accomplish as much as possible prior to the launch day.

Campaign chairman Karl Faser named ten division chairmen to head the various phases of the county drive and appeal efforts began in most divisions weeks ago. Several industries conduct internal UF campaigns and have completed their appeals.

County fund president Jack Whichard, noting that officials hope to wind up the campaign by the third week of this month, said that this year the effort focused on advance preparation, rather than waiting until Oct. 2, to start working on fund drive.

Whichard, Faser and executive director Joe Tripp appeared on WNCT-TV's Carolina Today this morning to tell the story of the Pitt United Fund to area viewers and outline plans for the campaign. Whichard told viewers that a fund goal of $157,526 has been set.

The United Fund, which budgets appropriations to a variety of agencies, received assistance from several of these in publicizing the upcoming campaign. Area Boy Scouts were busy during the weekend distributing posters to Greenville businesses and Boys' Club members worked Saturday putting up United Fund signs.

The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega undertook an ambitious project last week on behalf of the East Carolina University division of United Fund as a 60-hour Rockathon was held at Five Points. Mike Mahne drew the three-day rocking assignment as members of the service fraternity accepted pledges from downtown pedestrians.

UNC Housing Shortage Results In One Finding His 'Home' In A Tree

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The housing shortage at the University of North Carolina has driven many students "up the wall." It's driven Chip Hope up a tree.

Hope, 21, arrived at school this term for his junior year and decided that doubling up in a single room wasn't for him. He found a place to lay his head midway up a 40-foot pecan tree in a grove about five minutes from the campus.

Chip's $20 home is a six-foot square wooden platform. It has a green tarp that keeps out some of the rain and a rope ladder, but no walls or electricity. "This is not the place for someone who tosses and turns in his sleep," he says.

He calls his abode "Antler Lodge," after a society he belonged to while in high school. It's equipped with a blue reading pillow, a goosedown sleeping bag, some foam rubber pads, a candle and an alarm clock. Some friendly neighbors let him use their bathroom in a nearby house.

The Charlotte, N.C., native says there were really three reasons for his decision to live in a tree. It was hard to find other accommodations in the crowded university community; those that were available were expensive; and he likes treehouses. "I must have built six of them when I was a kid," he said.

His leafy bower, he says, has some advantages. It's cool on hot, humid days, and it's a good place to study.

Entertaining is a bit more difficult.

"I had seven people up here for a party," he said. "And some were kind of hanging on the edges, and some were worried about whether the platform would hold together."

When the weather turns cooler, Hope says, he will look for more conventional quarters — but nothing elaborate. "I can live in places where other people couldn't store a suitcase," he said.

In his career at Chapel Hill, he reports having lived in a dormitory, a house, a fraternity room, a fraternity basement and a fraternity closet.

Senate Considers 2-Year Delay

Hesitant On Welfare Reforms

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today considers a move to shelve welfare reform for two years while tests are run on three plans for aiding families with dependent children.

Adoption of that amendment probably would set the stage for Senate passage of the big Social Security-welfare bill this week.

That would leave next week, expected to be the last for the 92nd Congress, for a Senate-House conference to come up with a final version of the bill.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee and author of the two-year-test amendment, said he doubts the Senate is ready to vote for either of three major welfare-reform bills at this time.

Disagreement over aid to families with dependent children has been the principal cause of a 15-month delay in Senate consideration of the Social Security-welfare bill.

Long is a chief sponsor of a tough "Workfare" plan, adopted by the Finance Committee, to require many parents in welfare families to accept jobs or lose all benefits.

The delaying amendment up for consideration today, introduced by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., calls for tests of Workfare, the family-assistance plan espoused by President Nixon and adopted by the House, and a liberalized version of the assistance plan, pushed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Ribicoff has said he wants a separate vote on his proposal and has introduced an amendment embodying it.

But he, too, said he expected that in the end the Senate would turn to a test of all the plans.

The Nixon plan calls for a guaranteed annual income for welfare families and aid for the first time for the working poor. The Senate Finance Committee conservatives, a majority on the panel, have never been willing to accept these provisions.

Approve Greenville Planning Area

Varied Steps By County Board

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning gave their approval of two subdivision final plats and approved boundaries for Greenville's one-mile extra-territorial planning and zoning area.

The one-mile extra-territorial zone approved by commissioners, as recommended by the County Planning Board, follows natural boundaries such as roads and creeks. Under the old line, the boundaries followed individual property lines.

Plats approved by the board and recommended by the County Planning Board, included plans plans for an addition to Hardee Acres off U.S. 264 East of Greenville and Pine Forrest off the Stantonsburg Road West of Greenville.

Commissioners also approved low bids for fuel oil for the Court House and other county office facilities this morning.

Based on current tank-wagon prices, less discounts, the board awarded the contract for the oil to Leon L. Moore Oil Co. of Greenville with a low bid of $13.90 per 100 gallons for the Court House and $14.30 per 100 gallons for other county facilities.

Other bidders included: Ayden Fertilyzer and Fuel Co., $14 and $14.50; Midway Oil Co., Ayden, $13.90 and $15.90; and W. L. Allen Oil Co., Greenville, $15 and $16.

Last year the county used about 19,500 gallons of fuel oil at the Court House and about 17,000 gallons for its other offices, including the County Office Building, the Tucker Building, the Health Department and Mental Health building.

Acting on a request by the Town of Ayden, commissioners appointed Marvin C. Baldree Jr. to the Ayden Planning Board for Extra-territorial Jurisdiction for a three-year term ending July 1975. Baldree replaces Royce Alligood whose term expired in July.

Commissioners also approved payment of $24,632 for installation of water lines from the Ayden municipal limits to an industrial site.

Commissioners were scheduled to visit the county landfill site this afternoon and were expected to formally open the facility located at Littlefield, between Ayden and Grifton.

Traffic Mishaps Claim Two County Residents

Traffic mishaps Saturday night and Sunday morning took the lives of two Pitt County residents.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said James Curtis Jenkins, 21 of Route 2, Greenville, was dead on arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital after being run over by a car about 10:10 p.m. Saturday 3.8 miles South of Greenville on N. C. 43.

Highway Patrolman J. W. Brooks said Jenkins was struck by a car driven by Bobby Dean Strickland, 32, of Route 3, Greenville as he lay in the roadway.

Trooper Brooks quoted Strickland as saying he saw an object in the roadway, applied his brakes, but was unable to stop before striking it. An estimated $125 damage resulted to the Strickland car.

Coroner Harvey said investigation of the incedent is continuing.

A 13-year-old boy —David Earl Joyner of Route 2, Farmville — was killed about 11:58 a.m. Sunday when the mini-bike he was riding collided with a car on the Stantonsburg Road a mile West of Joyners Cross Roads, according to Highway Patrol Sgt. F. M. Lemmond.

Sgt. Lemmond said young Joyner had been riding the motorbike in a field across the road from his home and was crossing the road toward his home when he pulled into the path of a car driven by Jimmy Wayne Forrest, 23 of Route 2, Farmville.

An estimated $150 damage resulted to the Forrest car while the mini bike was listed as a total loss.

Coronor Harvey ruled the death accidental.

Killed By Shotgun

AYDEN — Two-year-old Jacqueline Felicia Livitt was killed Sunday when a shotgun held by a friend of her father's accidentally discharged hitting her in the back of the head.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said the child died as a result of the shotgun blast before her family reached the Ayden Police Department to have the Ayden Rescue Squad take her to the hospital.

Witnesses said her father, James Lovitt and two friends had been shooting chickens in the yard of the Lovitt residence. The gun was handed to Raymond Warren, 19, who broke the gun, removed two shells, and loaded it with two more shells. When he closed the gun, it fired. The child, who was standing in the doorway of the family, car, was struck from the rear.

Further investigation by the Pitt County Sheriff Department is underway.

Nixon, Gromyko Parley Faces Evening Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred today at the White House with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, then arranged to fly the Soviet official to his Camp David retreat for an evening working dinner.

Their subjects were expected to range from treatment of Russian Jews to trade matters to East-West relations in Europe and possibly Vietnam.

Sitting in on Nixon's morning session with the foreign minister were Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry A. Kissinger, the President's assistant for national security affairs, as well as Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Camp David, in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains some 65 miles north of Washington, was the site of a 1959 summit conference between the then President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the then Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Out of their talks emerged a brief era of good feeling that was labelled "The Spirit of Camp David."

Administration officials said the Soviet foreign minister and the President would deal largely with two matters—commercial relations and the European question.

Tied to the commercial negotiations is the question of Soviet treatment of its Jewish population, an issue assuming increasing importance in the current American presidential-election campaign.

There is strong sentiment in Congress to link any new U.S.-Soviet trade agreement to a Soviet concession on the large exit taxes levied on emigrating Jews.

The possible agreements are under negotiation in Washington. They involve settlement of the Russian World War II lend-lease debt, a maritime accord and an over-all commercial treaty.

The maritime talks, conducted on the U.S. side by Secretary of Commerce Peter Peterson, center on the percentage of trade between the two nations that would be carried in American ships.

The lend-lease talks deal with the $11 billion owed the United States since World War II. The price settlement is said by sources to be about $500 million with the outstanding questions the terms and length of the repayment.

Cruiser 'Unsafe'

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Navy spokesman said today stocks of ammunition aboard the cruiser Newport News were considered unsafe, and that the warship would not dock at Subic Bay after its scheduled arrival in the Philippines.

'It will be parked offshore until special crews can go aboard and deactivate the ammunition," the spokesman said. She is due Tuesday.

When the ship is considered safe, he said, the Newport News will proceed to repair facilities at Subic.

The Newport News headed for the Philippines after an explosion tore through a gun turret early Sunday, killing 19 sailors and injuring 10 others. off Vietnam.

A 7th Fleet spokesman in Saigon said the blast, described as an accident, was under investigation.

The 21,000-ton cruiser carries a crew of 1,300.

Expect Russia Need '73 Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture said today the Soviet Union probably will have to import large quantities of grain next year in order to meets its commitment for improving Russian diets by 1975.

Even with a good crop of wheat and other grain next year, the Soviet Union "may need to schedule sizable imports again," the department said in a report.

"For the years beyond 1973-74, if current livestock production goals are retained and increased further after 1975, it appears that that the U.S.S.R. will be a major importer of grain, perhaps over the next three to five years," the report said.

Prepared by USDA economists and Soviet specialists, the report noted the Soviet Union by Sept. 1 had purchased 950 million bushels to 1 billion bushels of grain, including 650 million bushels from the United States, mostly wheat.

The U.S. wheat sales, about 400 million bushels, have caused repercussions here.

The Ride South Reveals 'Ant-Power' That Keeps Hanoi In War

Editors Note: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett, the winner of a Pulitzer Prize in eight years of war reporting from South Vietnam, has just completed his first visit to North Vietnam. In the following story he describes the "ant power" of the North Vietnamese war effort and the wonder of a visitor, wonder not at the destruction of U.S. bombing but at the survival power of the North Vietnamese.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

If you have wondered why the North Vietnamese can continue to fight on despite the biggest bombing campaign in the history of war, then ride with three U.S. pilots and me down the roads south of Hanoi and find out.

Our destination was Nam Dinh City and the Phat Diem Cathedral, both severely bombed, and showplaces of the destructive power of the American air campaign. Jane Fonda and Ramsey Clark had been there. Now it was the turn of the three pilots just released from a prisoner-of-war camp — Navy Lts. Mark Gartley and Norris Charles, and Air Force Major Edward Elias — and myself.

But long before we reached our destination we were shaking our heads in wonder, not at the destructive power of the bombs from the sky but at the survival power of the people on the ground.

The pilots' previous view of North Vietnam was from the skies above. For years I had watched from the vantage point of South Vietnam.

Now here on the ground as we rolled along the narrow highways in the dark hours before dawn, the cliches came true.

Here was the "ant power" that Pentagon experts theorized lay behind Hanoi's ability to keep supplies and men moving to the southern war fronts. Where bombs had scored direct hits on railway cars on the tracks paralleling the road, dark shapes hammered at twisted wreckage, while other figures carried material and dumped it into the craters. As dawn came and we passed through the railroad junction of severely bombed Phu Le, we saw that the dark shapes were women and they weren't even using buckets; they were carrying mud in their bare hands to fill the craters in, and they seemed to be enjoying it.

This "ant power" was everywhere. Whereas in South Vietnam the war has denuded the countryside of population and sent people scurrying into the cities, in the North it is the reverse, and they swarmed on the highway.

Walking or riding bicycles along lonely road's in South Vietnam at night can mean death or capture. But in the North, nighttime is the logical time to travel for the fainthearted, or for the supply convoys, because it affords protection from the planes that fly above.

The key to the use of the night is simply that there are no guerrillas to harrass the convoys or blow up the supplies. In North Vietnam the war is only from the air.

That is why I observed no barbed wire anywhere, no barricaded militia outposts or fortified bunkers. Except for when the planes came over, the North Vietnamese countryside looked positively bucolic. But few things are ever what they seem, and Elias, who piloted a reconnaissance plane before he was shot down five months ago, enlightened me.

"See those grave mounds?" Elias asked as we waited under the trees for a ferry to cross a river where a bridge had been destroyed. About 100 yards away, buffalo grazed quietly around the heaps of earth.

"They're antiaircraft pits with the muzzles down," Elias said. "Let a plane come over and they'll stick up their snoots and blast away. And those things are difficult to spot in pictures. It would take a very expert and very lucky PI (photo interpreter) to see them."

The discovery of the flak sites and the industrious people were possibly predictable enough. Enough American planes get shot down each week to adequately suggest the extent of the antiaircraft fire. And "people power" has long been known as North Vietnam's most important commodity.

What was mindbending to the freed pilots was the extent of North Vietnam's visible supply chain. From the time we left the outskirts of Hanoi at 4 a.m. one morning to our return at 8 p.m. the next night we constantly encountered vehicle convoys, rows of stacked ammunition alongside the roadsides and Reinartz, who was honored during ceremonies at the military facility, was cited for his contributions in the field of conversation and ecology while assigned to Picatinny.

N.C. Doesn't Help In Land Gyps

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

If you've bought property in a resort subdivision but find promises of a clubhouse, swimming pool and tennis courts unfullfilled, it won't do you any good to turn to the North Carolina and South Carolina state governments for help.

These two states are among only 10 in the nation that have not passed subdivision laws that have driven fast-buck "development" companies out of Florida, Georgia and other states.

Although most resort developments are legitimate in North Carolina and South Carolina, a shady company can spin a tale of fabulous things to come — swimming pool, clubhouse, tennis courts — and deliver nothing.

Unlike other states which could slap the company with fines up to $50,000 and bar further sales, North Carolina and South Carolina can do nothing to stop the wheeler-dealers.

Victims do not discover how shockingly lax their states are against unscrupulous developers until it's too late.

Officials in the two states where resort land sales are booming have no way of knowing how many people are gobbling up switch-and-bait tactics and other ploys, but they know the area is fine for the chiselers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Harris of Matthews in Mecklenburg County of North Carolina were among the victims of a company's lure to Lake Norman just north of Charlotte.

The couple purchased three lots, which combined to make 200 square feet of property for a total of $2,400 in 1969. The salesman and a letter to prospective customers promised there would be a swimming pool and paved roads at least by the following year.

Harris' mother, who also purchased a lot there, still has the letter.

Today the "development" is just what it was before the company subdivided it — a big patch of weeds. The Harrises says they have been charged $20 a year for "road assessments."

A complaint signed by 28 residents of a development in Currituck County on the North Carolina coast was sent to the state's Real Estate Licensing Board.

The residents said the developer had enticed them to purchase property by promising to pave roads, deed additional land to residents for recreation purposes and to make other improvements.

None of the promises were fulfilled, the complaint said. The residents said the development company's president disavowed any such promises.

Pennsylvania's Department of State advised the North Carolina Real Estate Licensing Board to look into another development on North Carolina's north coast.

Pennsylvania had forced the company to halt operations in that state, so the firm moved to North Carolina where state government cannot touch it.

A development in the mountains was advertised as 5,200 feet elevation, but was only 3,200 feet, according to the president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors, A.P. Carlton of Greensboro.

No such advertising is permitted in states with subdivision laws, where companies must give prospective purchasers a public-offering statement.

A typical Florida statement tells the buyer that "10 per cent of the land is subject to flooding for a period of three months in a year to a depth of three feet."

Further, that "15 per cent of the tracts have muck or peat to an average of two feet and that 35 per cent is marsh of swampy." The statement also declares, even through the development is advertised as "suburban estates," that there are no roads, no sewers, no electricity and no promises there will be any.

No such statements are required in North Carolina and South Carolina.

The North Carolina Real Estate Licensing Board does not even require that a broker or a salesman selling subdivision lots have a real estate broker's or salesman's license.

The South Carolina Real Estate Commission does require licenses for subdivision sales, and the licenses can be revoked for misrepresentation. However, the company is free to hire new salesmen, and the state can take no action against the firm itself.

The only recourse for Carolinians caught in a land scheme is to file a civil suit—an often expensive, drawn-out and fruitless effort.

The most frequent complaint in such suits involves unfulfilled promises.

Buyers seldom win lawsuits of this sort, however, because of a technicality, according to a North Carolina assistant attorney general Don Davis. The technicality — it is necessary to prove fraud, legally defined as a misrepresentation of an existing fact. What the developer has misrepresented, however, is not an existing fact, but a future condition.

Another reason few land-gyp cases surface is that "most people don't want to suffer the embarrassment of someone, their friends, finding they've been taken," said the executive secretary of the North Carolina Real Estate Licensing Board, Joseph Schweidler.

There was an attempt in the 1971 North Carolina General Assembly to get a land subdivision act passed, but the bill died in a committee. No such legislation has been introduced in South Carolina.

Carlton, who in addition to being president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors is a member of the state's Real Estate Licensing Board, says a similar measure will be introduced in the 1973 General Assembly.

"We've simply got to do something about these blue suede shoe boys taking advantage of people," The Greensboro realtor said.

Some developments in North Carolina and South Carolina are advertised as for residents of the state only. That gets the companies off the federal hook.

The U.S. Housing and Urban Renewal Department regulates interstate land sales, but because of a staff of only about three dozen workers and a rapid increase in complaints, the division handling violations is fighting a losing battle.

"The number of complaints has more than doubled since March 1 of this year," said John McDowell, the deputy administrator for interstate land sales. "We are having to establish priorities."

McDowell says the tactics used by some land sales companies include "high pressure tactics on hesitant customers, such as leaving them in the boondocks in a hot car. There are shills, anything you can thing of."

A shill is a company employe who poses as a customer. While in the presence of legitimate customers, he pretends to be buying a lot, or expresses interest in the same lot being viewed by a couple, and babbles about what a marvelous deal it is.

Lots in some developments cost as much as $12,000.

McDowell says the value of subdivision land is based frequently upon what is supposed to be built, however. Sometimes each landowner waits for the other landowners to start building houses so he can sell his own land at a profit. But in some cases, no one builds and the prices plunge.

What, then should prospective purchaser of resort property, or any subdivided land, so in North Carolina and South Carolina?

Since neither state has laws to protect such purchasers, Schweidler says there can be only one answer: "Caveat emptor," the Latin term for "let the buyer beware."

LONG FREIGHT

NEW YORK (UPI)—The merger that created Burlington Northern gave the new railroad 113,000 freight cars—enough to make a train that would stretch the 1,000 miles from New York City to Davenport, Iowa. Capacity of the fleet is 7 million tons.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep professional and other appointments, and show that you are an active go-getter. The ideas you have are fascinating, so divulge them to the right persons. Be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go over debits and credits and do what will improve your monetary position, but be very painstaking and don't take risks. A successful person in business can give you some fine pointers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You know exactly how to make yourself more charming in appearance as well as more healthy. Engage in social life that is delightful. State your secret aims to right persons.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have small tasks to perform before you can make a right impression on higher-ups, so attend to them early. Handle activities that will increase personal happiness. Keep cheerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to the advice which a most precise friend gives and follow it for best results. The evening is fine for social pleasure in the company of fine people. Be poised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your duties well and then get busy handling them in a methodical way. Take time to rest in the evening. You can benefit by discussing business matters with higher-ups.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you look over brochures and become familiar with their contents, you can find new and lucrative outlets for yourself. You are now able to make big strides forward.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being certain to pay all debts now is wise, but show kindness to those who are having a difficult time paying bills. Show that you are a practical person. Show that you have wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Engage in long talks with associates and get better results where mutual projects are concerned. Do what you can to make an opponent less irritated. Show you have faith.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming people who will handle problems in life in a quiet and controlled fashion and get excellent results. Teach to handle details in a thorough way, otherwise your progeny could miss out on many of the fine benefits possible in this chart. A college education would be fine here, plus ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Couple Exchange Vows In Sunday Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Peggy Ann Garris and Rodney Louis Tyson was solemnized Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Grace Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Garris of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Tyson of Greenville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Chester R. Phillips. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Curtis Sutton, organist, and Mrs. Jane Randlete, who sang "Each For The Other" "Whither Thou Goest" and the "Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The church was decorted with standards of mums and pom pons, emerald greenery and candelabra. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the bride and bridegroom exchanged vows and knelt for the "Wedding Prayer" and benediction. Pews were marked with white stain bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin appliqued with rosepoint lace encrusted with seeded pearls. The gown was princess style with a jewel neckline and long sleeves.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was bordered with rosepoint lace and seeded pearls attached to a coronet of satin organza. She carried a cascade formal bouquet of white miniature carnations and orchids tied with bridal satin.

Mrs. Janie Garris Harris, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore a gown of shocking pink peau de soie designed with long bell sleeves with lace trimmed jewel neckline and the princess style dress was accented with a rose satin ribbon ending in a bow at the back with hemline streamers. She wore a matching bow headpiece with a veil and carried a classic nosegay in shades of pink, purple, lavender and orchind miniature carnations with baby's breath tied with American beauty satin bow with long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Brenda Boyd and Miss Katherine Tyson, sisters of the bridegroom. They were dressed in shocking pink gowns designed like that of the honor attendant with matching bow headpiece. They each carried a bouquet fashinoned after the honor attendant's.

Miss Kimberly Boyd, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She was dressed in a full length shocking pink gown designed like that of the honor attendant. She carried a basket with rose petals.

Tracy Roberts of Greenville was ring bearer.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Richard M. Garris Jr., brother of the bride, Dallas Tyson, brother of the bridegroom, Steve Brown and Alvin Brown, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride was attired in a rose pink polyester lace knit. She wore matching accessories asd a corsage of mixed colors of miniature carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore a powder blue polyester lace knit dress with matching accessories and a corsage of mixed colors of miniature carnations.

Mrs. Clemmie Tyson, grandmother of the bridegroom, chose a sky blue polyester dress, black assessories and a corsage of white pom pons.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Wilson.

After the wedding, the couple received in the vestibule, where the bride's portrait was displayed.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Belvoir High School and is employed with Tobacco Processor, Wilson.

The bride's parents entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Garris Saturday night.

The refreshment table was centered with a pink and white centerpiece surrounded by candles. Mrs. Jimmy Mills served the cake and Mrs. Louis Tyson poured punch assisted by Mrs. Janie Harris.

Christmas In October Planned

Plans for Christmas in October were discussed at the business meeting of the Women of the Moose Thursday night.

The event will be held Oct. 12 for Mooseheart and Moosehaven.

Junior Regent Mrs. Jasper Anderson conducted the meeting. In reporting on the success of the group's recent flea market, she said that it might become an annual affair.

Mrs. James E.

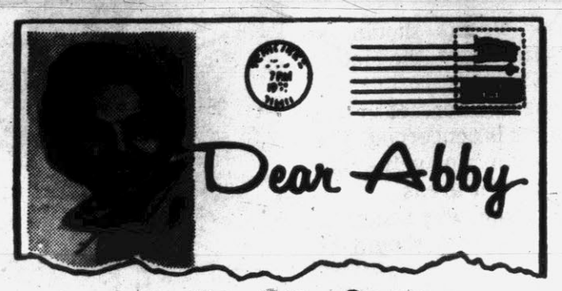

Mrs. James E. Taylor was presented a pin for attending five consecutive meetings.

The chapter qualified for the Award of Achievement for 1971-72 and Mrs. Ed Moore for her Green Beanie convocation to be held in Burlington Oct. 29.

Miss Ada Jones and Miss Phyllis McLardie are selling fruit cakes as a chapter project.

Mrs. Anderson reported that Mrs. A. W. Diehl, Senior Regent, is a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Should Teetotaler Tattle On Friend?

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: All our friends know that Willie and I neither drink nor serve any drinks in our home. We aren't "holier than thou" about it. We do go where liquor is served, but we quietly sip a soft drink.

Last week we had a backyard barbecue for 40. We had a lovely fruit punch bowl and everyone had a fine time. The guests drained the punch bowl quickly as it was quite warm. Some of the folks seemed noisier than usual, and I myself felt warm waves, but I thought I was just having hot flashes, which is not unusual for my time of life.

After the party, the hired lady said she had heard one guest tell another that "Mr. X." had emptied a quart of vodka into our punch bowl! [We found the empty bottle in our trash!]

"Mr. X." is a good friend of ours and we knew he imbibed, but what do you think of a friend who would betray his host and hostess in this manner?

I say we should let him know he didn't get away with anything. My husband says to skip it. What do you say?

BETRAYED

DEAR BETRAYED: I'm with your husband. But if you invite "Mr. X" to another party, frisk him before you let him in the house.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl just starting high school and I just had my eyes examined and found out I have to wear glasses. Abby, I feel terrible about it because I am a pretty girl with a nice figure, and I'm afraid glasses will spoil my looks.

I asked if I couldn't have contact lenses but my parents said, "No, they are too expensive." I am getting my glasses tomorrow. Someone wrote me a note saying: "GUYS DON'T MAKE PASSES AT GALS WHO WEAR GLASSES." This made me feel even worse. Please cheer me up.

FOUR EYES

DEAR FOUR EYES: That little verse is passe. Try this one: "Guys will make passes at girls who wear glasses providing the dames have good looking frames."

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person from North Carolina. You told [him or her] not to blame the inhibited woman for batting zero in the boudoir. You stated that psychiatrists tell us that a surprising number of men can perform anywhere except at home because of their inhibitions. To them every decent woman is "mother" so they find their pleasure where "mother" isn't.

The big question? What's "mother" supposed to do, if she's not ready for the rocking chair yet?

Find her pleasure where "father" isn't? Sign me,

"FORCED TO ROCK"

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column about a woman who was offered elegant clothes in exchange for work, but she wanted a salary. My problem is just the opposite. I love clothes, but I can't afford them. Unfortunately I wear a size 16, and no woman I've worked for in my brief housekeeper-cook career wore that size; I was never so lucky.

If I could find a job for Saturday and Sunday with pay in clothes and accessories instead of money I'd be thrilled. I am a good secretary, can supply excellent references, some of which are cook-housekeeper.

If you have any contacts, let me know. The employment agencies would probably scoff at the idea.

LIKES NICE THINGS

DEAR LIKES: So why not put an ad in this newspaper? There may be some "16s" you can make a deal with.

Reason For Highway Controls

The State Highway Commission has informed the City County Planning and Zoning Commission that it is not feasible to develop service roads on the U.S. 264 bypass.

A letter from Ron Poole, of the Advance Planning Section of the Highway Commission, said such roads create more traffic hazards than are solved and obtaining rights-of-way is an expensive obstacle.

"Service roads along major streets should be avoided in almost every situation," the letter stated.

The Highway Commission may be correct in this opinion insofar as U. S. 264 bypass is concerned. The areas along the road are already extensively built-up with commercial and residential areas.

This is all the more reason, though, why access to new highways being built in this area should be more closely controlled.

We have pointed out that, despite the fact that the Winterville-Ayden and Grifton bypasses are fenced, it is possible for business and residential areas to develop along the road.

The new Greenville Eastern Bypass is being fenced and perhaps similar development is possible along it.

We know from experience that any new road which is developed in this area runs the risk of becoming cluttered, if access directly into it is allowed. The U. S. 264 bypass proves this.

If nothing can be done along that stretch of road, then certainly every effort should be made to see that new roads constructed by the Highway Commission are made limited access.

Paralysis Was Turning Point

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — You've got to walk a lonesome road to find out who you are. You've got to go there by yourself.

"Nobody else can do it for you," said George Michael Smith. "When life comes down to the nitty-gritty, you're the only one who can do what has to be done."

His road came to a turning seven years ago. Nineteen, robust and in love with the outdoors, he went water-skiing on the Pungo River at the family cottage near Belhaven.

BRYAN HAISLIP

In an instant's flash, an accident occurred. His neck broken, he was left to live paralyzed from the chest down, dependent on braces and a wheel chair, helpless without the help of others.

Pluckily, Mike Smith reassembled the pieces. Therapy and rehabilitation gained him the best use of his handicapped body. A talent suspected but undeveloped came to the surface. The quarry he no longer could hunt afield he snared with pencil and paint in wildlife art that soon earned recognition and income.

"It's a strange thing to say. I know, without reservation, that my life has been much more rewarding than it ever would have been before," he said.

No Easy Acceptance

"Don't get me wrong. I can't stand this damn wheel chair. I'd get rid of it tomorrow if I could. Sure, I miss being physically active. I guess I always will.

"IThe irony of life is that the world today puts so much importance on physical ability and at the showdown all that really counts is what's up here." He tapped his forehead. "It's not necessary that I play ball or go hunting. What matters is that my life be fulfilled as a human being."

Fulfillment goes beyond self to others. Smith surmounted his handicap, benefiting from North Carolina's rehabilitative programs. He gave his efforts to make the same chance for others, through counseling services, employment opportunities, and removal of architectural barriers.

His contributions earned the Citation for Meritorious Service of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. He accepted the award from Gov. Bob Scott at a recent ceremony.

Calamity can make or break a personality. Mike Smith made it. He never wanted to die or dropped into depression and self pity.

Family Gets Credit

He gave credit to his "fantastic family," well off enough to provide good medical care and rehabilitation, and rich in love that gave him confidence he could lick the tough adjustment. "I couldn't let 'em down," he said.

He doesn't say much about the faith factor, but it was present. "I am not outwardly very religious. I do have a strong feeling about God and how He feels about me," he said.

Joe Smith, a commercial plumbing contractor, took his sons hunting and fishing. Out of the experience grew comradeship, self reliance and respect for the natural environment. "Dad didn't preach to us," Mike recalled. "He's not a philosopher. He has a way of communicating values without a lot of words."

The wild freedom of waterfowl fascinated the boy. Ducks rising on a rush of wings left indelible pictures in his mind.

Mike Smith filled his schoolbook margins with sketches and doodling. In the ninth grade, he got a part-time job as a draftsman.

A Talent Awakened

The talent lay dormant until the aftermath of disaster. Someone gave him charcoal pencils and a sketch pad the first Christmas following the accident.

He began drawing by jamming a pencil in a styrofoam block and grasping it with both hands. He acquired facility, teaching himself as he went along. He progressed to water color and oils.

Wildlife was the subject matter. Working from recollection, photographs and models, the artist rendered scenes of outdoor magnificences in dramatic and precise detail.

Friends admired his work. Critical acclaim brought the more substantial tribute of sales. Today, he offers a line of limited edition prints, Christmas and note cards to a growing mail-order clientele.

More than art for art's sake, Smith sees his work as a stimulus for conservation action.

He doesn't fit the plaster saint mold often reserved for those who overcome handicaps. By his own admission, he can be hard-headed, hung-up on handling problems his own way, subject to ego inflation over his accomplishments.

"I've had to find out just who Mike Smith is. I learned you can't solve problems feeling sorry for yourself, but only when you grit your teeth and assert yourself as an adult human being."

A Blow To Hope, But Someday Real Victory

Each time a report of a cancer research breakthrough surfaces, it must come as a cruel blow to those who suffer from this disease when the report is refuted.

That happened again recently following discussion of experiments at Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

The real hope in this situation, however, stems from the fact that extensive cancer research is going on. There may never be one dramatic breakthrough, but we can be certain that science will gradually conquer this dread disease.

"There is absolutely no reason to get our hopes up-pp . . . Aw, fellas, cut that out!"

Fat isn't just a problem for the young and the middle-aged. One out of every three persons over 65 in the United States is also overweight.

There are some things in the universe almost impossible for the human mind to comprehend. For example, there are stars 100 billion times brighter than our sun, and stars so dense that one cubic inch of their material — a chunk about the size of an ice cube — weighs over a billion tons. Death Of The Rogers' Plan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Seconds after President Nixon told 35 prominent Jewish leaders in New York Tuesday that "under no circumstances" would he ever "impose" a Middle East settlement on Israel, one of those present whispered: "That's the end of the Rogers Plan."

Indeed, these leaders of the American Jewish community, one-third of them Democrats or independents now backing Mr. Nixon's reelection, were left ecstatic by the President's 45-minute pledge to defend Israel's interests in the never-ending Middle East crisis.

These politically potent Jews, led by Mr. Nixon's close friend and fund-raiser Max Fisher of Detroit and including national religious, civic and financial leaders, came away from the Waldrof Towers meeting convinced of one thing: the potentially massive switch of Jewish support from Sen. George McGovern to the President was proceeding hand in hand with a new, far more pro-Israeli American policy on the Middle East.

Hence the demise of the Rogers Plan, named for Secretary of State William P. Rogers. The Rogers Plan precisely defined limits set by the U.S. to which Israel was supposed to withdraw from territories conquered in the 1967 six-day war. In Israel, that plan has been consistently damned.

Rogers, architect and principal advocate of the 1969 U.S.-backed withdrawal plan, has evidenced strong withdrawal symptoms himself. Thus, when Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban discussed the Middle East with him here last week, Rogers never once raised the question of Israel's massive post-Munich reprisals against guerrilla camps in Lebanon, even though Lebanon claims that 660 Lebanese civilians were killed in the Sept. 16 raid.

The Jewish leaders who attended Tuesday's session with the President, moreover, seemed convinced that the pro-Israeli policy change is for keeps as long as Mr. Nixon remains President and that the Rogers Plan will never be revived.

That does not mean Mr. Nixon is turning a completely deaf ear to appeals from Lebanon and other Arab countries which have felt the reprisal lash of Israel's powerful American-supplied air force. He is dealing with these appeals but he is doing so secretly and directly with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir herself.

Publicly, he has said nothing to indicate American concern at Israel's use of American-built aircraft to strike at guerilla camps deep in Arab territory. To the contrary, he promised the Jewish leaders a pipeline of "continuing" air and other military aid to maintain Israel's overall position of strength against the Arab states.

He told his applauding audience at the Waldorf that he had sked Mrs. Meir to "trust me." Her reply, he said with a smile, was: "I'll trust you, but I'll watch you, too."

The only serious exchange at the Waldorf talks came when Rabbi Herschel Schacter, a Democrat and chairman of the American Conference on Soviet Jewry, made an emotional and eloquent appeal for Presidential help on the in-

The White House Bowl

WASHINGTON — "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. This is Howard Lowsell and we're at halftime at Presidential Election Stadium where we are witnessing one of the duller political football games ever played before a nationwide TV audience.

"The McGovern team is behind by 28 points in the polls and the Nixon team seems to be running at will.

ART BUCHWALD

This is particularly interesting because Nixon has not even been in the ball game. He's been sitting on the bench and sending in plays to his assistants. This has enraged the McGovern team who claim they came to play Nixon and not his flunkies. But Nixon has said it is unprofessional for someone in his position to go out on the field and mix it up with the McGovern rabble.

"In the first quarter the McGovern team got off to a bad start when McGovern's star running back, Tom Eagleton, fumbled the ball. McGovern backed Egleton in the fumble, but a few minutes later substituted Sarge Shriver in the backfield and sent Eagleton to the locker room.

"This caused great consternation on the team and they were penalized one month for unsportsmanlike credibility.

"Another thing that caused the McGovern team to lose yardage was that although McGovern is the quarterback, everyone on the

Other Editors Say Overprotected?

(Raleigh Times)

Do North Carolina's Democrats really need more than 100 walky-talky equipped policemen and private security agents to keep them safe during their Vance-Aycock fund-raising dinner Saturday night in Asheville?

The amount of security which organizers of the event have dreamed up is breath-taking. They will have the 100 officers roaming around with walkie-talkies. There will be deputies from the Buncombe County sheriff's office. There will be State Bureau of Investigation agents, and State troopers.

And, as a sort of frosting on the security cake there will be "background checks through the new national police computer system . . . on the staff at the Battery Park Hotel and Grove Park Inn who will have access to the candidates . . ."

The statement from the organizers of the dinner said that plainclothese security men would mingle with the guests, in addition to the guards on the door. The statement explained all this with the remark: "It's a sad commentary on contemporary mores that it's necessary."

Well, what sort of customs do we have in North Carolina that make this sort of keystone kop drama necessary? We have had some demonstrations, to be sure. We have had some people who were rude to politicians, which sometimes is understandable.

But what in the name of heaven have we had that makes it necessary to bring in all those policemen to surpervise 3,000 Democrats who show up for a $50-per-plate fund-raising dinner?

The sad truth is that the security people have let their worries get the best of them. Of course, there have been assassinations. But, we cannot afford to turn every public gathering into a miniagure police state. We are fast coming to that. There were more policemen at the recent Southern Governors' Conference at Hilton Head Island, S.C. than there were official guests.

Sheriff Tom Morrissey of Buncombe County explained all the dinner precautions with the remark that "the best way to avoid trouble is to be prepared for it." That's true. But, a vast amount of overpreparation could be as bad as not enough.

Forty Years Ago Today

By GWEN COGHILL

October 2, 1932

On August 23, 1926, the movie actor Rudolph Valentino, 31, died in a Manhattan hospital. In less than five years, the sleek Valentino had established himself as king of the cinema lovers. His death set off an epidemic of female hysteria. In London a dancer swallowed poison. In New York a housewife drank iodine and shot herself twice before sinking down in a pile of his photographs. Newspapers and press agents fanned the fever. Film flacks hired twenty women to weep at the funeral parlor and they attracted 30,000 unruly mourners who lined up for hours for a one second glimpse of "The Sheik." Newspapers cooked up fake poison story and gave away pictures of Valentino while others ran a composograph depicting the Great Lover meeting his compatriot Enrico Caruso in heaven. Last week the female population of major cities again paid tribute to "The Sheik" as many observed the sixth year of his death.

Profit Pinch Hits Food Chain

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. released its quarterly statement a few days ago. While the results weren't what a food shopper might have guessed, they were exactly what competitors had forecast: A big loss.

This isn't the only food chain casualty either. The red ink is showing on the hides of a few other retailers also, as they too become caught up in the consumer-business-government battle to restrain rising food prices.

Few shoppers are aware of the vicious price competition that has now enveloped many food retailers and, furthermore, they hardly care except when it means a bargain to them. Most shoppers feel the bargains are too few.

This may be so, but the fact is that most chains now make less than one cent on each dollar of sales, and some earn less than one-half cent. A&P last year made one-quarter cent on each dollar.

The poor showing of A&P didn't develop overnight. For several years it has been caught in a sales-profit bind that it couldn't break. Outdated and poorly situated outlets, combined with hidebound ways, contributed.

The annual reports tell the story. In the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1970 the 4,200-store chain reported sales of $5.75 billion. A year later the figure was $90 million lower. And on Feb. 28 this year it fell to $5.51 billion.

Profits went the same way, from $53.3 million in 1970 to $50.1 million in 1971 to $14.6 million this year. Since February it has lost $41.6 million.

Not all chains have had the same poor fortune, and this fact has much to do with the fierce competition. Safeway Stores, Inc. pushed its profits up to $80.2 million in 1971 from $68,9 million a year earlier.

Safeway's sales volume probably is even more significant. In 1970 it reported sales of $4.9 billion. Last year the figure jumped to $5.36 billion. Volume this year is soaring, and Safeway has already made tentative claims to being America's No. 1 food retailer.

Thus goaded nationally and locally, A&P is counter-attacking. While its profits are down, it sales have turned. In the six months through August they rose 12.3 per cent to $3.1 billion, largely because of WEOs.

In May 1971 A&P opened an outlet in Pennshaugen, N.J. that it called a Warehouse Economy Outlet, otherwise known by the acronym WEO. It was designed to sell fast-moving items at a low markup.

The lessons learned there were quickly applied to many other stores. The acronym was borrowed too, although it is now applied to the label "Where Economy Originates." Sometime this year all A&P stores will be WEOs.

In effect, A&P seems to believe it has magically derived wisdom from the absurd — that you can lose on every sale but make it up in volume. It is losing heavily, and doing so with enthusiasm, vigor and an unswerving dedication.

Clearly, it feels that immediate losses will be insignificant in comparison to long-term gains. If stores are made more efficient, if they accommodate critical consumers, if they offer real bargains, then customers should flock back. And they are.

A&P can afford to wage such a battle because, despite its troubles in recent years, its debt structure and cash position are extremely healthy. Quite likely it can absorb losses that would destroy smaller companies.

It is that latter possibility that could spring some repercussions for A&P even before it can completely carry out its plans. Some competitors are all but claiming A&P's practice constitutes unfair, maybe illegal, competition.

One, the Bohack Corp., based in New York, has called the big chain's moves desperate and it placed blame for its own losses on the larger chain's "cut-throat" practices.

Strength For Today

INSECUTIRY BREEDS BLATANCY

The "show-off".

Externally he is an unpleasing, irritating person, a nuisance wherever he happens to turn up. Internally, however, he is poor, lonely, and insecure person. His blatant attempts to show off and his frantic attempts to gain attention by his bud utterances are only compensation for the fact that he feels so lonely and insecure. He not only whistles to keep up his courage, he usually shoves other people about, wears flashy clothes, boasts, buys the most expensive of everything he can afford and tries to lives on a plane much above that justified by his income.

We should always try to put our best foot forward, but we should distrust with hard-headed skepticism the meek and retiring man or woman who fawns and pretends to be nothing at all. Remember Uriah Heep in Dicken's "David Copperfield? He was so humble, and yet all the while working a most consummate villainy.

But there is a place about half way between the show-off and the humble appearing hyprocrite at which we should all aim. We should try at all times to put our best foot forward and to muster up all the self-assurance we possess. But we should work hard to keep it from getting out of hand.

The best intentioned person can become a show-off. The most pathetic show-offs is the unconscious type who cannot recognize his condition or analyze it.

Liberals See Hope In Election

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite polls forecasting dim prospects for the Democrats in the presidential election, liberal House Democrats see a good chance for increasing their strength in the next Congress.

An unusual number of retirements and primary election defeats have left gaping vacancies in the Democratic ranks, most of them among senior and conservative members.

Although a lot will depend on who is elected to fill the vacancies, the liberals see a strong possibility that they will wind up in control of the House Democratic Caucus.

With that as their goal, they are fashioning a number of reform proposals dealing with seniority, committee secrecy and the powers of the party leadership for possible action by the caucus next January.

The showing made by George McGovern in his race against President Nixon is important, but not crucial, to their hopes, say the liberal strategists. Most of the same polls that show McGovern far behind also show the Democrats are likely to retain control of the House.

The Democrats now have a 254-to-177 edge over the Republicans with four seats vacant. Campaign officials for both parties expect the Republicans to gain, but even the most optimistic among the GOP professionals place the pickup at fewer than 30 seats, with 218 seats needed for control.

The liberals say their great opportunity lies in the changed makeup of the Democratic majority that retirements, resignations to run for other office, and primary defeats make inevitable.

Six committee chairmen, the strongest forces against change in House procedures—and 21 other Democrats considered more likely to resist reforms—are among the departees, as against six reform-minded members. Twenty-six Republicans are also leaving, assuring a significant turnover in the House at large.

The reforms being worked on by the liberals are relatively modest. There are no plans to abolish the seniority system, throw out Speaker Carl Albert or make committee chairmen powerless.

The proposals have as their general aim strengthening of the caucus—the organization of all House Democrats—in order to make the committees and their chairmen more responsive to party policies. Consideration is also being given to means of increasing the power of the speaker for the same purpose.

First Sweepstakes Ticket Is A Winner

BALTIMORE(AP)—"I don't usually fool around with those things," said Lillie M. Miller, a dime-store waitress who just once bought an Irish Sweepstakes ticket and came out a winner.

Mrs. Miller learned over the weekend that she holds a ticket worth about $52,000. It is one of 11 tickets held by Americans on the second-placed horse, Roy Bridge, in the Dublin race.

The 49-year-old waitress said she barely remembered buying the ticket and probably wouldn't have, if her brother, Ernest Graham hadn't "forced me to," at a family gathering in New York last July.

The telephone call from Dublin informing her Friday that she was the holder of a winning ticket came at an appropriate time.

Only hours earlier, she had been thinking "this is bill week" and mentally figuring out the payments, she said.

The telephone call from Sweepstakes officials Friday didn't tell her how much her ticket was worth, however. She learned that Saturday from a wire service story which listed the top winners.

The amount may fluctuate slightly because of changes in the foreign currency market but it is expected to be close to $52,000.

"I thought it was one of the smaller prizes, maybe a hundred dollars," Mrs. Miller said of her first notification.

Now thoughts of new clothes have blossomed into dreams of a new house. Mrs. Miller and her husband, James, a 51-year-old bank teller, say they are thinking about building a home in Mrs. Miller's native Salisbury, N.C.

For now, however, the couple remains blithely indecisive about their new riches.

"Am I dreaming?" asked Mrs. Miller.

"Brother, I don't know what to say," her husband commented.

Seminar Attended By State Employees

Fifty-seven North Carolina state employees have completed a four-day Management Development Seminar sponsored by East Carolina University's Division of Continuing Education and the state Personnel Department.

The seminar was held in two separate sessions for about 30 participants each during September at the Betsy Jeff Penn 4-H Center at Reidsville. Purpose of the seminar was to help the individual use his resources for his own development within the organization. Most of the participants were high-level state employees, with supervisory or decision-making responsibilities.

They represented nine department of state government, including Agriculture, Correction, Health, Mental Health, Highway, Motor Vehicles, Social Services, Natural and Economic Resources, and Revenue.

Names and positions of the employee participants, with their working locations, follow:

team was calling a different play.

"When McGovern would call for a pass, Shriver would run with the ball. When McGovern signaled for a punt several of his linemen went over his head and tried an end run. It took almost the entire first half for McGovern to persuade the fans he was calling the signals, and many people still are not convinced.

"The McGovern team was selected to play in the White House Bowl because of their new brand of football. But as we have seen during the first half, they are playing the same style of football as previous teams without, I might add, much success.

"There has been a great deal of recrimination about this contest. The McGovern team claims the Nixon team bugged the McGovern locker room and stole the McGovern game plan.

"Nixon had one of his assistant coaches look into these charges in what he called the 'most thorough investigation in football history.' The assistant coach concluded no one on the Nixon team had anything to do with the bugging of the locker room and was appalled that the McGovern team would make an issue of it.

"The McGovern team also has claimed that one of the reasons it hasn't played well is the lack of money. Their helmets are dented, their shoulder pads are torn and a few of the players have no shoes. They maintain every time the Nixon team calls a timeout, the water boy, Maurice Stans, brings another bucket of money onto the field.

"Money does seem to be a problem in this game, but that's only part of it. Let's face it, folks, George McGovern is no Joe Namath. His plays have been unimaginative, his ball handling suspect and as far as the fans are concerned his passes have not been on target.

"The Nixon team with its huge lead is playing it safe, using up the clock with runs down the middle. The name of the game as far as Nixon is concerned is defense.

"And that about summarizes the first half. The teams have now come back on the field for the second half.

"There is McGovern and Shriver screaming at Nixon to get off the bench, but Nixon is ignoring them and instructing Spiro Agnew where to kick the ball."

flammatory issue of large emigration fees for Soviet Jews trying to get out of Russia.

Mr. Nixon replied that any "Harsh confrontation" with the Kremlin would hurt, not help, in effect repudiating McGovern's demand that Congress refuse to give Moscow trade concessions until the emigration fees are terminated.

Even though that reply fell far short of what McGovern and many American Jews have demanded, the rapport that Mr. Nixon had established with his audience held and there were no recriminations.

Thus, the President's courtship of the Jewish vote, so long the property of the Democrats, is becoming more ardent as the election approaches. By contrast, McGovern's equally intense wooing seems pallid. McGovern can only promise, but Mr. Nixon has the power to act, as the demise of the Rogers Plans proves.

Scott Says N.C. Is Considering Action

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has told Rep. Nick Galifianakis that the state is "giving serious consideration" to suing the federal government in an attempt to recover $25 million in frozen highway appropriations.

Galifianakis released a statement Sunday saying that Scott sent him a letter last week on the matter. The congressman, who is Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, sent Scott a letter Sept. 4 suggesting the suit.

Scott wrote, "This arbitrary action by the executive branch of the federal government has been of great concern to us and all other state governments."

He said he had been in communication with governors and highway commissioners of other states about the frozen funds.

Scott said Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan has informed him that "there is now discussion among the legal counsel for the various highway commissions throughout the country about the effectiveness of a number of states bringing similar suits simultaneouly with the hope that such concerted action might convince the federal authorities that all of the apportioned federal highway funds should be released to the several states for obligations."

South Carolina and Missouri have filed suit against the federal government to regain their funds. Missouri won its case, but the federal government has appealed the decision.

Toys Given To Pitt Hospital By Cub Scouts

A local Cub Scout troop has made a contribution to the Pitt Memorial Hospital in the form of toys.

Den 5, Pack 200 of Greenville, led by Den Mother Hilda Whitley and Den Chief John Hernan, donated some building blocks which they sanded and painted themselves to the hospital last Thursday.

The blocks will be used in the pediatrics ward of the hospital.

Members of the pack include: Chat Whitley, Jeff Rowe, Bobby Hopkins, Robert Saieed, Johnny Joyner, Dwayne Greer, Neil Jones, Mike Lancaster, Kenny Barnes, Johnny Barnes, and Michael Van Wageren.

Mrs. Mary Saieed accompanied the scouts to the hospital.

Library Asking Donations Of Jigsaw Puzzles

Mrs. Kay Taylor, librarian of East Branch Library, has announced an appeal for donations of jigsaw puzzles for an exchange program at East Branch Library located in Colonial Heights Shopping Center on East Tenth Street.

The exchange program begins today, with anyone invited to bring puzzles for exchange. Donations of puzzles will be gratefully accepted.

The initial collection of puzzles now on hand, Mrs. Taylor points out, is very small and contains only adult puzzles. It is hoped the exchange program will result in building up both adult and juvenile puzzles.

East Branch Library hours are from two to seven each afternoon from Monday through Friday.

North Pitt Notes

As with the beginning of most schools, the opening of a new school year tends to be slow for a couple of weeks. By the end of the first month, teachers, as well as students, begin to get in full swing of their routine.

Students at North Pitt have a change in routine this year. School starts at 9:50 a.m. and the last beel rings at 3:05. Also, homeroom meets the last ten minutes of first period every Friday.

Representatives for class councils were elected Friday. One black and one white student was elected from each homeroom. These representatives and class officers make up the class council.

Freshmen have begun to get petitions for the freshman class officers. Each petition must have 50 freshmen names. Thursday and Friday will be the last day for getting names. Elections will be October 6. The junior class will also elect a vice president. Kitty Jones, present junior class vice president, will take the place of Mary Heath, president.

The S. G. A. has met for the first time this year and here are some of the points brought out in the first meeting: Freshman Election, October 6; Committee starting on nine courses: Homecoming, October 20; Leadership Workshop Conference, October 10. It will be sponsored by S. G.A . Mrs. B. S. Cummings from leadership school at Mars Hill College will be conducting.

North Pitt's Math Lab, the individualized mathematics program for the math lab students so far this year. This program is the very first of its kind in the entire state of North Carolina. Teachers and students are excited to be involved in such a new and interesting program for general math.

Many teachers and students other than general math have enjoyed visiting and using the lab facilities. Everyone is loking forward to a very successful year in the math lab for 1972-73.

Annuel Staff

The North Pitt annual staff under the direction of Mrs. Betty Warren and Mrs. Miriam Jones have already gotten the annual staff coming on strong.

Colorful posters are posted on the walls throughout the school. Members of the staff are busy selling ads, taking names for booster page for those who contribute $1.00, and taking subscriptions.

If seniors wish to have their name on the front cover, they must pay full cost.

Thursday will be a big day for juniors. A representative from the L. G. Balfour Company will be at North Pitt to let juniors order rings. Students must pay a $10 deposit to order. The rings can be returned if the ring is not what you ordered or if it is too small. These are the only reasons for reordering.

The cross country track meet was held Thursday, September 28. The schools competing were Rose High and South Edgecombe along with North Pitt. The length of the race was 2.6 miles.

The track team is not the only one "on the run". The students of North Pitt were surprised to be interrupted while eating lunch by a fire drill. While visiting the school, Bobby Joyner, the county fire marshall, suggested a surprise drill.

Mr. Joyner timed the drill and much to his amazement, everyone was out in 80 seconds. It seems students get out much faster than they come in.

Offers $5,000 Reward For Killer's Conviction

RALEIGH (AP) — A $5,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer of Patricia Grimes, woman's editor of the Raleigh Times, and Peter Pescud Williams Jr., a Raleigh real estate man.

The reward was announced Sunday by Frank Daniels Jr., president of The News and Observer Publishing Co., which publishes the Raleigh Times.

Wake County authorities said Sunday no arrests had been made and no motive found for the slayings.

The bodies of Miss Grimes, 23, and Williams, 27, were found Saturday at Raleigh Beach, a fishing and picnicking spot on the Neuse River about six miles from Raleigh.

Miss Grimes had been shot four times and Williams three.

Funeral services for both were scheduled today.

Services for Miss Grimes were to be at 3:30 p.m. at Sacred Heart Cathedral with burial at Oakwood Cemetery.

Services for Williams were to be at 11:30 a.m. at Christ Episcopal Church with burial at Oakwood.

Chief Wake County Deputy L. W. Kelly said Sunday that the two were shot with a .22-caliber rifle. Deputies were called to the scene about 2:30 p.m. Saturday by a resident of the area who discovered Williams body.

Kelly said the man's name was being withheld to protect him.

The man told deputies he had heard several rifle shots fired in rapid succession about 1:30 or 1:45 p.m. and had heard a woman screaming. He said if then heard another burst of shots and a "man hollering."

The man said he then heard an automobile drive away at a high rate of speed.

Miss Grimes' body was found near a patch about four feet from the door of an old mill building. Williams' body was found about 30 yards from Miss Grimes', and blood spots along the trail indicated that he had been standing near Miss Grimes when he was first shot.

The two had left about noon Saturday to go bicycle riding in the country. Miss Grimes' small foreign car with two bicycles on a rack on the rear was found about 15 yards from where William's fell.

Deputies said robbery had been ruled out as a motive since $30 was found in Williams' wallet and both were wearing wristwatches.

Both were members of prominent Raleigh familes. Williams had been employed since 1971 as a sales associate with his father's realty firm, Williams & Haywood, Inc. Miss Grimes joined the Times about two years ago as a woman's page writer and was appointed editor about a year ago.

Popular Drink Is Also A Tonic

MOSCOW (UPI)—A wondrous drink made according to a recipe of ancient Asian nomads from the milk of Kazakhstan's two-humped camels is all the rage in Alma Ata.

Known as "Shubat," the drink "slakes thirst, relieves fatigue, is used by popular medicine as a tonic, and is superior to cow's milk for its nutrient value," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Poor Indians Said Victim

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Three North Carolina Indians told the N.C. Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission that poor Indians have been victimized by the "system."

Carnell Locklear, secretary-treasurer of the East Carolina Indian Organization, and two others, Hughie Locklear and Keever Locklear, told the panel of problems Indians have encountered with the Social Services Department at the state and local levels.

The Advisory Committee closed two days of hearings Saturday with an observation that use of the power of subpoena would be helpful. Committee chairman the Rev. W. W. Finlator, pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church in Raleigh, called for further hearings using the power of subpoena "before any real gains can be accomplished."

Saturday's hearing was chiefly concerned with matters involving political participation and employment of Robeson County's 26,000 Indians, a majority of the state's 44,000 total.

Lumberton Mayor Earl Musselwhite, acknowledging that the current employment and political status of Indians in the county is "disadvantaged," called the hearing "enlightening and helpful."

Paul Caldwell of Raleigh, director of the state Personnel Department, spent more than an hour in the closing day explaining the state's new "affirmative action program" for minority recruitment, particularly Indians.

Concippio Is Put To Rest

LAURINBURG, N. C. (AP) — An Italian carnival worker, whose mummified body had been on display at a Laurinburg funeral home since 1911, was buried Saturday at Hillside Cemetary.

Forenzzio Concippio died after being struck in the head during a fight 61 years ago at a carnival at nearby McColl, S. C. The body was brought to the McDougald Funeral Home in Laurinburg and embalmed.

Hewitt McDougald, whose father put the remains on exhibit at the funeral home, said Concippio's father paid part of the funeral expenses and promised to pay the remainder, but never did.

McDougald took the body off display only recently under pressure from Italian-American groups, including New York Congressman Mario Biaggi, and from the N. C. Attorney General's office.

He said he also plans to provide a marble tombstone with the inscription: "Forenzzio Conceppio. Died May 1911. Buried September 30, 1972. About 25 years old."

Staff Meeting Inside A Prison

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— Kentucky Corrections Commissioner Charles J. Holmes recently took 23 department staff members inside the maximum security state penitentiary here "to show we are not armchair people."

To help acquaint the staff with "what the prison is actually like," the meeting was probably the first of its kind for the department, Holmes said.

Bandit Balked By Big Biter

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—It was bite, fright, flight—in that order—when a gas station customer tried to snatch $40 from Owen Young, 13, as Young helped his stepfather at a gas station.

Just after a motorist bought a dollar's worth of gasoline, he reached for Young's shirt pocket. Young bit down hard. The would-be thief howled in pain and hurriedly drove away.

gasoline drums. These were stretched out along the 180 miles we drove, and other foreign visitors in Hanoi at the time attested they saw similar scenes on different roads.

During daylight the vehicles were casually parked under the inevitable line of trees at roadside. On some long, straight stretches of highway we counted as many as 40 trucks.

They seemed extremely vulnerable, but Charles commented, "We could never see those things from the air. And the moment someone comes down to get a better look them — blam, man."

This simple roadside cover hid ammunition caches up to 1,-000 cases in size, according to my fast counts from the moving automobile. Particularly noticeable were concentrations of supplies at bombed-out railway crossings.

In the evenings as the trucks began to move south loaded with supplies, the whole operation reminded me of a huge glacier forcing itself slowly but surely down a mountain valley.

Reflecting on the scenes one evening at a rest house in Ninh Binh province, Gartley said, "I used to fly over this place and it seemed uninhabited. But look, it is teeming with life."

Gartley later said, "All the pilots really have for targets are the cities, the bridges and the railways. Yet the North Vietnamese move out from the cities and use these back roads."

Elias said, "It is technology against ideology. I just wonder how far technology can go because the Vietnamese habitually beat it." He mentioned that Hanoi has found a partial answer to the threat of the laser-guided "smart" bombs that can zero in accurately on targets.

"The North Vietnamese put up smoke around the target. If you don't see it you can't hit it," Elias said.

The North Vietnamese glorify in their ability to outwit the U.S. planes.

"You have to fight this war with intelligence, not with computers," Prime Minister Pham Van Dong told the antiwar activists who went to Hanoi to pick up the released pilots. "The computers merely multiply man's stupidities thousands of times," he said, rocking forward in his chair with a knowing smile.

I was wondering how a computer could determine the number of handfuls of mud required to fill a bomb crater, or the manpower needed to load and unload supplies that are leapfrogged from train to train across the bombed out portions of track each night on the way south.

But all those bombs raining on North Vietnam are dropping somewhere, and in interviews with top officials I got the impression that severe damage is being done.

"Whole cities have been destroyed. Hospitals, schools, churches have been destroyed. There have been so many victims," said Premier Dong, when the antiwar activists asked if the American people could help contribute to reconstruction.

"I fear that no city will be left intact in the North if President Nixon is re-elected. Mr. Nixon's war is ten times more barbarous that his predecessor's," the editor said.

But as our old sedan bucked and rocked across filled-in bomb craters and careened by the ammunition boxes stacked like cardwood along the roadside, I got the feeling that the world of the cities and the world of the countryside supply routes were separate.

We were given no information about where these supplies originated, but we presumed they came down the highways from China to the north. I got the impression that as long as those supplies were pumped down through the arteries of North Vietnam the war would go on even if the cities were destroyed.

And the North Vietnamese can rationalize anything. Standing on one of the broad, treeline thoroughfares in the Hanoi that the French took so much pride in building, one of my guide-interpreters commented, "This is just a remnant of colonialism, anyway. If it is destroyed we will build a new, better city. Our city."

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets today are slightly stronger on heavy types. Supplies of heavy types are fully adequate and demand is fair. Offerings of light types remain short. Heavy hens at farm $.12½; light type at farm .07.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were soft in today's stock market, on the heels of Friday's erratic session. Trading was slow.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.04 to 951.23. Losing issues held a small lead over advancing stocks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board's volume leader was Levitz Furniture, down 1⅞ to 31⅜ after plunging 13¾ points Friday, when the company said its earnings in the current quarter would be "disappointing."

Also active were Imperial Corp. of America, up ⅜ to 18⅜; Virginia Electric & Power, unchanged at 18½; and Rockwell Mfg., down 1¼ to 30.

At 11 a.m. the New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks was off .13 to 60.47.

On a percentage basis, the Big Board's best gaining issue was Carolina Freight Carriers up ¾ to 12, a rise of 6.7 per cent.

New Life For Drab Lunchroom

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — While teachers at Ulloa Primary School here munch away and gossip, the Cheshire Cat leers at them from the wall of the faculty lunchroom and the White Rabbit fussily keeps tabs on the time.

Mothers of some of the school's pupils who wanted to "do something nice for the teachers," covered the once drab, institutional green walls of the lunchroom with murals from Alice in Wonderland.

"It's fantastic," said teacher's aide Betty Randall. "It really puts life into the place."

Watched Killing Of Four People

BRANDON, Fla. (AP) — A young divorcee and her two children watched helplessly as a gunman killed four persons including her parents and brother in a Brandon farmhouse, police say.

Police said the assailant fired one shot through a screen window early Sunday, killing one person, and then burst into the farmhouse and shot three others.

The victims were identified as John T. Sanders, 50; his wife, Catherine, 37; their 15-year-old son, Earl, and a friend of the family, James Richmond Bridges, 28, who was shot as he lay in bed, police said.

Police said they arrested Thomas Turner Chambers, 32, of Gadsden, Ala., and 21-year-old Robert Harris of Largo, after a high speed car chase. Both men were charged with first degree murder.

A neighbor, Mrs. Mary Davis, said Mrs. Johnson came running from the house, crying hysterically and yelling, "They're all dead. They're all dead."

Police said she told the Davis family the gunman spared her, saying "I'm not going to kill you, just the ones you love most."

Hillsborough County sheriff's officials said the young divorcee had been seeing Chambers for three years but left him about three weeks ago in Texas.

Inching Up

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll shows Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern inching up on President Nixon, but still 28 percentage points behind.

The survey released Sunday showed an improvement of six points for McGovern over the previous survey.

Taken Sept. 22-25, the new survey said 61 per cent of the respondents favored Nixon and 33 per cent McGovern. One per cent preferred other candidates and 5 per cent were undecided.

The narrowest spread between the two candidates was in the industrial North, where Nixon's lead was 59 to 36 per cent.

Holshouser To Be In County

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Holshouser will be at the Pitt County Fair Tuesday night.

He also will campaign in Pitt County Wednesday morning.

Chavis Trial Is Recessed

BURGAW, N.C. (AP) — The trial of black activist Ben Chavis and 10 others on charges stemming from racial violence last year at Wilmington was recessed abruptly this mornining when state's witness Allen Hall lunged from the witness stand in the direction of defense attorney James Ferguson.

Hall was restrained by several officers who reached him before he touched Ferguson, who was seated across examining the husky 18-year-old black prisoner.

Many members of the jury, seated near the stand, scrambled from their places.

Superior Court Judge Robert Martin called a recess and went to his chambers.

Hall, in his fifth day on the stand as the trial began its fourth week, is serving a prison sentence for assault on emergency personnel during the Wilmington violence.

He has testified that Chavis showed him dynamite and materials for making firebombs and instructed him and others in their use.

Richmond Clears VMI: ECU Is Their Next Hurdle

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Richmond's Spiders have passed the first hurdle toward another Southern Conference football championship, but Coach Frank Jones says "I don't like these close things, especially when we think we have the best football team."

Jones was referring to Richmond's conference debut Saturday in which the Spiders defeated Virginia Military 34-15—but only after the winless Keydets, who've now lost 14 in a row, extended them for three periods, at which point Richmond led by only 17-15.

The Spiders play at home again this Saturday against East Carolina's unbeaten Pirates, who were tied for the league lead at 2-0 by Wjlliam and Mary's Indians, 31-12 victors over The Citadel's Bulldogs behind the running and passing of sophomore quarterback Bill Deery.

Furman's Paladins broke into the league victory column Saturday by scoring twice in the final quarter, the last time on Jim Barnett's one-yard plunge with 44 seconds left, and edging Appalachian State's Mountaineers 20-17.

In the only nonconference outing—East Carolina, 3-0 overall, had the weekend off—Davidson's Wildcats were routed 68-6 by unbeaten Air Force Academy.

Davidson crossed midfield only twice and scored on an 80-yard drive capped by Jeff Heinicka's one-yard run. It was the Wildcats' third defeat in four starts.

All-Southern fullback Barty Smith ran for 105 yards and provided the blocking for running back Billy Meyers, who gained 80 yards and scored three of Richmond's touchdowns on short runs.

The Spiders got just 59 yards in the air in contrast to VMI, whose sophomore quarterback, Tom Schultze, hit on 16 of 33 passes for 285 yards and a 70-yard scoring strike to Tony Farry.

"We think we're a better passing team than that," said Jones later, "and we don't like the other team throwing on us like that."

Of the performance by Schultze, which also included a 60-yard throw to Ronnie Moore to set up VMI's first touchdown, Jones said "we thought we could put a lot more pressure on him."

That touchdown pulled VMI to within four points, an onsides kick set up a field goal and the Keydets then blocked a punt and moved to the Richmond 10 before Bob Loprete came up with the first of his two pass interceptions.

To Jones that was one of the turning points in the game—"that kinda took the heart out of them. Bob Thalman (the VMI coach) does a helluva job. His boys were ready to play."

Thalman said his young Keydets "have come along in every game this season and we're going to keep improving. There are seven games left in this season and the Keydets are going to win their share. The story of the game for us was that we didn't take advantage of some of the breaks we got in the first half."

Strangely enough, Coach Red Parker of The Citadel "thought we were going to win it at the half—we really did—but those two bombs in the third quarter hurt us."

William and Mary was leading 17-0 at intermission, and Deery hit All-Southern flanker David Knight with a 27-yard pass to the 3 to set up a score after a 12-yard Bulldog punt, then hit Knight on a 31-yard scoring toss to boost the Indians' lead to 31-0.

Knight was covered by two defenders, and Indian Coach Jim Root said it was a catch Knight "had no business making. He and The Citadel defensive men were all playing the ball, but he plays it better than anyone." Knight earlier had caught a 30-yard scoring toss by Deery.

The Indians' signal-caller, before retiring from the rain and mud midway the third quarter, hit six of 13 passes for 112 yards and ran for 125 yards and a touchdown on 14 carries.

All-Southern quarterback Harry Lynch of The Citadel, whose receivers dropped a number of passes, hit on 19 of 40 aerial attempts but had just one yard rushing in 20 tries. He directed a pair of scoring drives in the final period against William and Mary reserves.

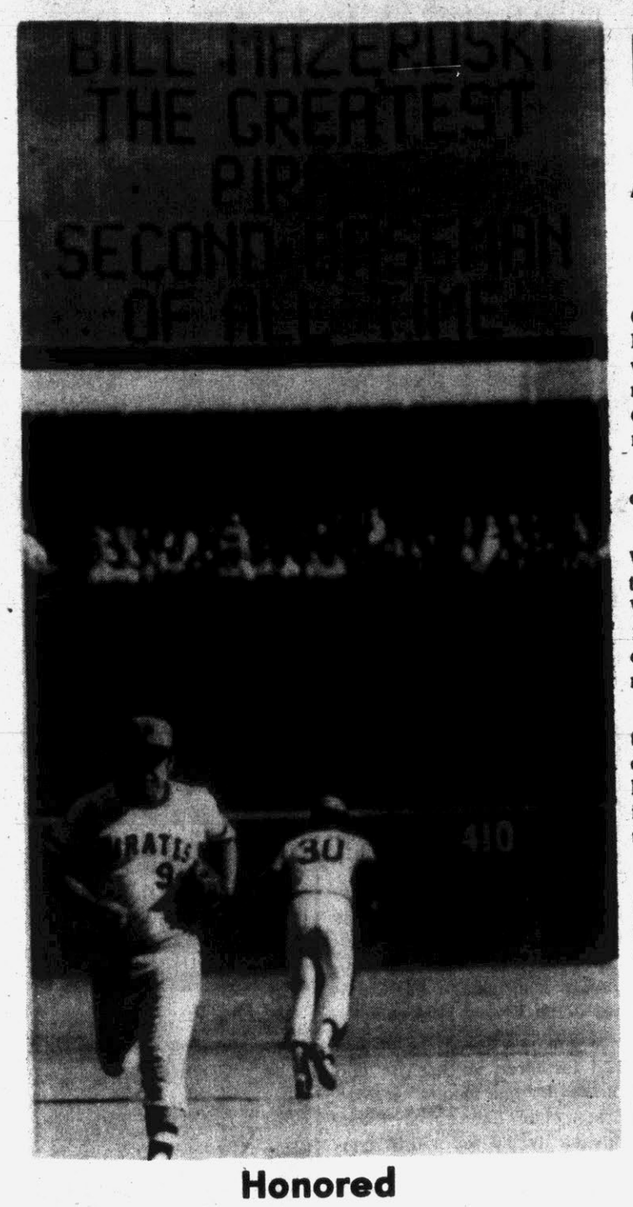

"I felt we could move the football, but the defense really had a great day until we started playing the young guys late in the game," said Root. "I was surprised to see The Citadel come out throwing. I thought the weather would have been better suited to their running."

Two school career records were set. Knight now has caught passes for 1,571 yards, a William and Mary mark. All-Southern Jon Hall, who got 50 yards on seven carries, has 1,834 rushing yards, a Citadel record.

Appalachian was penalized 192 yards, five short of the league mark for one game, and had three passes intercepted, lost two fumbles and had a kick blocked. The latter set up one touchdown, and Furman then drove 73 yards for the winner.

"We just beat ourselves," said Coach Jim Brakefield of Appalachian, which had led all the way to the end with Steve Loflin passing 10 and 28 yards to Dwight Gates for two touchdowns.

Furman was without its leading runner, Donny Griffin, and All-Southern defensive end David Shi, and Coach Bob King said "I was particularly happy to win because we were so short-handed. There were so many times we could have quit, but we didn't."

Honored

MAZ LEAVES THE GAME — Pirates second baseman Bill Mazeroski (9) who will retire at the end of this season, leaves the game in the top of the eighth inning Sunday afternoon and is replaced by Dave Cash (30). Mazeroski, 36, in his 17th year of the action, now lives in Greensburg, Pa. He was honored in a ceremony prior to the game that the Mets won 7-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Petty Again Wins Over Allison In Third Match

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (AP) — Richard Petty and Bobby Allison, the two heavyweight contenders of stock car racing, staged their third fender-crunching match of the month Sunday.

And again, Petty won the decision.

The scene this time was the Wilkes 400, a 250-mile short track event at the scenic North Wilkesboro Speedway. The match drew a near-capacity crowd of 16,000 on a warm, sunny afternoon.

They watched in awe as the two antagonists slugged each other repeatedly, using 3,900-lb., 650 horsepower race cars instead of gloves for the final ten laps.

Petty, his red and blue Plymouth looking like it had gone through a wrecking machine, beat Allison across the finish line by about a car length to claim the $5,700 first prize.

Allison, his Chevrolet smoking from bumper to bumper because of sheet metal dragging against his tires, almost didn't make it home at all.

It was Petty's ninth triumph at North Wilkesboro, and the 148th of his career. It also tied him with Allison at eight wind apiece on the season.

Allison, however, could claim another, though dubious honor. He now has finished second to Petty in each of Petty's victories this year.

For what it is worth, Buddy Baker finished third in a Dodge that steered so badly he could hardly keep it on the track. He was four laps back of the two leaders. Benny Parsons was fourth in a Mercury and John Sears fifth in a Chevrolet.

It had been Allison and Petty all the way until a two-car wreck brought out the first yellow flag of the race only 38 laps from the end. Allison was leading Petty at the time by almost a full lap. The yellow light allowed the two contenders to close up behind the pace car.

From the restart at lap 375, the two swapped the lead several times, never more than a car length apart and more often racing side by side around the five-eighths of a mile oval.

With about seven circuits to go, the bumping started. Petty went up against the outside retain and moments later, both cars slammed into the wall. Petty said Allison started it, and Allison put the blame on Petty.

"He crunched me real good, filling my car full of smoke," Allison said. "I couldn't see anything from then on, but I knew he was beside me, so I crunched him."

Petty countered by saying: "He turned right on me twice while I was outside him, driving me into the wall. I had to protect myself if I was going to win, so I punched him a couple of times."

Before the race, Allison led Petty in the season's money race, $215,150 to $178,080, while Petty had an almost unbeatable margin over Allison in the race for the Winston Cup Grand National driving title.

They to to Charlotte next week for the high speed National 500, and Allison said he's going to that one with a clear conscience. Petty, who has never won at Charlotte, said he's going there to win.

Ted Williams Missed Win

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Manager Ted Williams almost didn't stick around long enough to see his floundering Texas Rangers finally snap their American League losing streak at 15 straight games.

They finally turned the trick by shutting out the Chicago White Sox 1-0 in the season's final home game on Dick Bosman's three-hitter Sunday—but Williams already was on the way out.

The former big league batting wonder disclosed 24 hours earlier that he's retiring as the club's skipper, effective after the end of the campaign two games hence at Kansas City.

Rangers owner Bob Short, who joined Williams in meeting newsmen Saturday, said (1) no successor will be named at once and (2) Williams will stay with the club as an untitled executive and adviser.

Williams complained that his young crew had been guilty of "mistakes high school players make" but nevertheless said he had no regrets about coming out of retirement to manage the former Washington club for four seasons.

Drysdale Loses In International

ALAMO, Calif. (AP) — Australia's John Newcombe overwhelmed Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in the first two sets and hung on to win the third set and the men's singles championship Sunday in the $10,000 Redwood Bank International Tennis Tournament.

Newcombe won 6-1, 6-1, 7-5.

In the doubles final, Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill. beat Egypt's Ismail El Shafei and Brian Fairlie of Australia 7-6, 6-4.

Before the widespread use of cats as mousers, ferrets were used in homes all over Europe.

Moves Up, Wins Sailing Crown

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — Mark Donohue of Media, Pa. overhauled Denis Hulme of New Zealand on the 31st lap and went on to win the Can-Am auto race at International Speedway Sunday.

Donohue's time for the 80 laps around the 2.52-mile circuit was 1:50.26.901 for an average speed of 109.87 miles per hour in a Porsche. Hulme was second in a McLaren 20.

George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., Donohue's teammate in the Roger Penske racing organization, was third.

AL Schedule-Maker Drew Up Cliff-Hanging Finale

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Here is a tip of the hat to the little old American League schedule maker. He didn't know it last winter when he drew up the AL calender, but he has created one dandy wrapup to the 1972 regular season.

The East division race—5½ months and some 150 games after it started—has come down to the final three games of the baseball season. The contenders are Boston and Detroit and the battle will be settled as it should be—head to head.

The Red Sox are in Detroit for the start of a three-game series tonight. The team that wins two of those games will advance to the AL playoffs to face the Oakland A's.

Boston's first-place edge was trimmed to one-half game Sunday when the Red Sox dropped a 2-1 decision to Baltimore while Detroit was whipping Milwaukee 5-1.

In other American League action Sunday, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 4-2, Texas shut out Chicago 1-0, Cleveland swept a doubleheader with New York, winning the first game 2-1 and taking the second 4-3, and Minnesota edged California 3-2.

In the National League, New York rapped Pittsburgh 7-3, Chicago shut out St. Louis 3-0, Montreal routed Philadelphia 10-6, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 1-0, San Diego trimmed Houston 3-1 and San Francisco whipped Atlanta 6-2.

Boston nominated left-hander John Curtis for tonight's opener with Detroit ace Mickey Lolich opposing him. After that, it will be Luis Tiant Tuesday and Marty Pattin Wednesday for the Red Sox with the Tigers using Woody Fryman against Tiant and Joe Coleman on the last day.

The Sox had hoped to take the 1½ games lead they held most of last week into the final series. That would have meant that one victory at Detroit would clinch the flag for them. But Baltimore's crafty Mike Cuellar was having none of that. He scattered eight hits and Bobby Grich's sixth-inning homer gave the Orioles the victory.

On the scoreboard, the Sox watched Detroit's John Hilger mow down Milwaukee on five hits for his first victory in exactly two years. Hiller, out of baseball because of a heart attack last year, had last won a game on Oct. 1, 1970.

Aurelio Rodriguez cracked a three-run homer and Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline added solo shots to account for the Tiger runs.

Now the time for scoreboard watching is over.

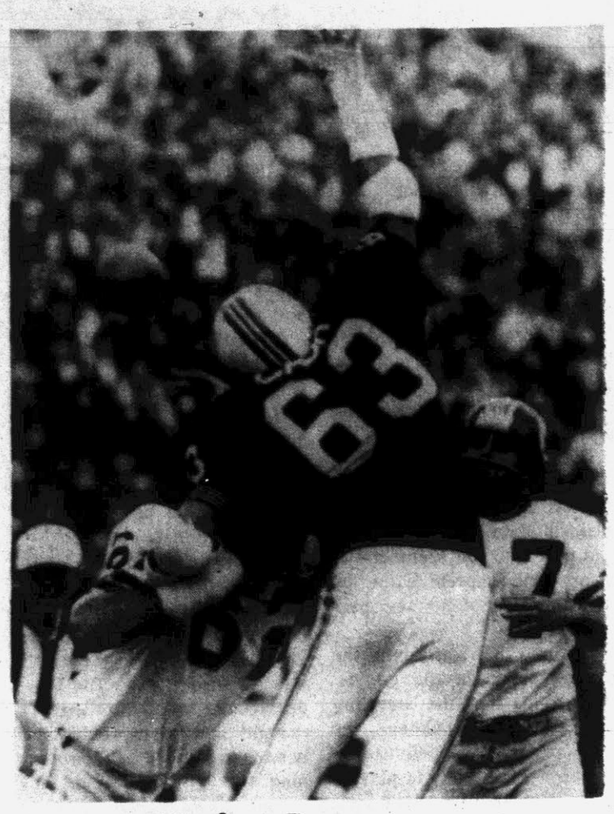

Texas ended its 15-game losing streak with Dick Bosman throttling Chicago on three hits and blanking the White Sox. Bosman struck out 13 batters and the Rangers scored the game's only run in the first inning when Dave Nelson walked, stole second, moved to third on a fly ball and scored on Ted Ford's single.

Oakland's West Division champions whipped Kansas City with Gene Tenace pacing the late-inning offense. Tenace singled and came around to score the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning. Then he singled home two more runs for the A's in the ninth.

Gaylord Perry limited New York to four hits and struck out 11 as Cleveland won the first game of its doubleheader with the Yankees.

Chris Chambliss' 11th-inning sacrifice fly scored the deciding run in the opener for the Indians. Then, two errors by Yankee catcher John Ellis helped the Indians to two runs that proved decisive in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

Jim Holt drilled three straight hits and drove in two runs as Minnesota edged California.

Under Pressure

BILLY COOL — Washington Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer cooly gets off a pass to wide receiver Charley Taylor for an eight-yard gain in the early minutes of the second quarter despite pressure by New England Patriots defensive tackle Rick Cash in Sunday's game at Foxboro. Washington's Ray Schoenke applies the block on Cash. The Patriots won, 24-23. (AP Wirephoto)

Southern Cal, Sooners Endure Rash Of Upsets

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Top-ranked Southern California and runner-up Oklahoma survived the rash of upsets over the weekend and if they both continue their winning ways it appears that the question of who's No. 1 will have to be settled in a poll rather than a bowl.

The problem is that Southern Cal plays in the Pacific-8 Conference, whose champion goes to the Rose Bowl, while Oklahoma is in the Big Eight and up for grabs by any bowl ... except the Rose.

"I suppose they'll be No. 1 next week," said Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty after Southern Cal blasted his team 51-6 Saturday night. "I don't know who is No. 1, but I imagine USC is as good as any other team. It would be great if USC and Oklahoma could play."

While Southern Cal and Oklahoma, a 52-3 winner over Clemson, were rolling along, six other members of The Associated Press Top Ten—Ohio State, Alabama, Michigan, Louisiana State, Notre Dame and even once-beaten defending champion Nebraska—were ready and willing to stake their claim to No. 1 should the leaders falter, a fate that befell third-ranked Colorado and fourth-rated Tennessee.

Colorado dropped a 31-6 shocker to Oklahoma State while Auburn staved off Tennessee 10-6 in the weekend's major upsets, along with Wyoming's wild 45-43 triumph over No. 11 Arizona State.

Ohio State, ranked fifth, turned freshman tailback Archie Griffin loose for the first time and he romped for a school record 239 yards in a 29-14 victory over North Carolina. Why did Woody Hayes forsake his pet play, the fullback smash?

"They give you eight men up front," he said, "and to run on it you must use that fullback to block."

Sixth-rated Alabama crushed Vanderbilt 48-21 with a crunching ground game, although Coach Bear Bryant said he "didn't think they could score 21 points on us."

Flashy Johnny Rodgers set a Big Eight career pass-catching record—2,070 yards—and a school scoring mark with his 34th and 35th touchdowns in seventh-ranked Nebraska's 49-0 rout of Minnesota.

Michigan, No. 8, put down upset-minded and 18th-ranked Tulane 41-7 as Ed Shuttlesworth bulldozed for 151 yards and three scores. Ninth-rated Louisiana State beat Wisconsin 27-7, breaking open a close game with two field goals in the third period—including a school record 52-yarder by Juan Roca—and two touchdowns in the fourth.

Tenth-ranked Notre Dame's new-found offense trimmed Purdue 35-14 as Tom Clements passed for 287 yards and two touchdowns and fellow sophomore Eric Penick gained 133 yards in only 13 carries.

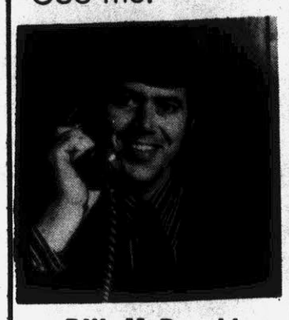

Colorado had its national championship hopes destroyed by Oklahoma State as Alton Gerard ran for three touchdowns and slick little Brent Blackman directed the Cowboys to 307 rushing yards.

Tennessee, bent on revenge, came away instead with its third consecutive loss to Auburn on Terry Henley's one-yard scoring plunge and Gardner Jett's 30-yard field goal.

Wyoming's Steve Cockreham ran for three touchdowns and passed for one against Arizona State while 12th-ranked Texas opened its bid for a fifth consecutive Southwest Conference crown with a 25-20 triumph over Texas Tech as quarterback Alan Lowry scored twice in the second half.

Elsewhere, No. 13 Penn State, blanked for three periods, shaded Iowa 14-10 on John Hufnagel's last-minute touchdown pass to Dan Natale; No. 14 Washington remained unbeaten with a 31-11 drubbing of Illinois; No. 15 UCLA shellacked Oregon 65-20 Friday night; Gary Huff's four touchdown passes paced No. 16 Florida State past Kansas 44-22; No. 17 Mississippi overcame Southern Mississippi 13-9 with a last-period touchdown and No. 19 Stanford outslugged No. 20 West Virginia behind John Winesberry's running and Mike Boryla's passing.

Tar Heels Say Not Impressed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We could have beaten Ohio State," said North Carolina quarterback Nick Vidnovic after the Tar Heels dropped a 29-14 decision to the Buckeyes Saturday.

"I know they have a big name and a hot reputation, but I wasn't impressed with them that much," he continued.

Other Tar Heels expressed similar feelings. "They were good,' offensive guard Ron Rusnak admitted, "but they weren't the best I've faced."

UNC was one three Atlantic Coast Conference teams that swallowed a defeat dished out by non-conference teams Saturday. The Clemson Tigers took the worst beating, suffering a 52-3 rout at the hands of the Oklahoma Sooners. Clemson's only score was a face-saving field goal booted on the last play of the game.

North Carolina State set up two early Georgia touchdowns with fumbles, then battled back for a 14-all halftime tie. But touchdowns in each of the last two periods by Georgia more than offset a closing minutes score by the Wolfpack.

Syracuse packed two touchdowns and a safety into three minutes of the second quarter to beat Maryland. The losing Terrapins scored first and fourth quarter touchdowns, both by Art Seymore.

In the only contest for the conference books, Duke bumped Virginia 37-13. The Blue Devils' first three outings, all losses to nationally ranked teams, were apparently fresh in their minds.

Duke tailback Steve Jones called the win over Virginia the beginning a new season for Duke. If the Devils continue their winning ways next Saturday at North Carolina State, they an tie North Carolina, which will sit idle, for the league lead.

Other games have Wake Forest at Maryland, Clemson at Georgia Tech and Virginia at Vanderbilt under the lights.

Inexperience Is Decisive Factor

DURHAM (AP) — "You can't expect to play freshmen in key positions, play good teams and expect to win. The opposition will exploit your weaknesses every time."

Speaking on the subject on inexperienced football players was Morgan State coach Earl Banks, following the disastrous 29-7 defeat handed his team by N.C. Central Saturday in Baltimore.

Central's lop-sided win over Morgan was the only Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference game scheduled on a weekend in which only three other teams saw action.

North Carolina A&T coasted to its fourth consecutive win by stomping John C. Smith 23-12, while Howard University, which seems to get better each week, blanked Virginia State of the Central Intercolleviate Athletic Association, 17-0.

Virginia Union handed S.C. State its third straight loss, 13-6. S.C. State has yet to win following an intersectional 15-14 verdict over Bethune-Cookeman in its opening game.

Central quarterback Garvin Stone riddled Morgan's "doomsday" defense for 221 yards with the aid of five interceptions. The Eagles were able to defeat Morgan for the first time at Hughes Stadium in more than a decade.

Morgan, blanked in its first two games by Grambling and Tennessee State, scored its first points in nine quarters when freshman quarterback Greg Grimes passed 10 yards to Curt Davis for a score with 1:11 left in the first half.

Hoaard rushed for 213 yards, picked off four Virginia State passes and held the Trojans to just 36 aerial yards in its victory. Ron Bell kicked a 35 yard field goal and scored again on a pass reception of 3 yards to spark the Bisons.

S.C. State, which has yet to generate any kind of offensive punch since its first game, got its only score on a 47 yard run following a pass interception by Johnny Mason.

In games this week, Morgan visits the University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

Clemente Is Taking Rest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirate rightfielder Roberto Clemente is taking off the rest of the regular season after becoming the 11th player in the history of major league baseball to collect 3,000 career hits.

"I'm glad its over," said Clemente after reaching the goal Saturday in the Pirates' 5-0 victory over the New York Mets. "Now I can get some rest."

Clemente's 3,000th hit—a ringing double to left-center—came in the fourth inning off rookie John Matlack. The leadoff blast sparked a three-run inning that pushed the Pirates to victory.

After leaving the contest in the fifth inning, Clemente said he would not play in the Pirates' last three regular season games, resting, instead, for the National League playoffs next weekend.

"I give this hit to the fans of Pittsburgh and to the people of Puerto Rico," he said.

When the hit seemed sure to fall in center field, the crowd of 13,117 rose in unison. The game was stopped and Clemente was handed the ball.

Only Delayed Waltrip's Win

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The loss of a right front wheel on the 239th lap only delayed Darrell Waltrip's victory Sunday in the 14th annual Permatex-Southern 300 late model sportsman race at Fairgrounds Speedway.

Waltrip, of Franklin, Tenn., took over the lead on the 23rd lap and held it until the wheel departed. He guided his three-wheeled Chevelle into the pits where some rapid replacement work put him back out in traffic in third place.

Everything On Hand But Belly Dancer

"The set's all built, we've got the music, oriental rugs, soft lights and people to watch, but no dancer," Dr. Robert D. May, Director of the Department of Community Health Services for Pitt County commented this morning.

Dr. May revealed he had checked with several private clubs in Washington, D.C. and other places and had contacted the Arabic Information Center in Washington in efforts to locate available dancers or even a single belly dancer.

To date, no luck. "We have been very hopeful," Dr. May said. "This is an important health message we wanted to tie in with the use of belly dancers."

Original plans had been to have two or three specialists in this field of bodily movement on hand for the Community Health exhibit at the Pitt County Fair opening today. Dr. May has not given up, and hopes to get a last minute response to his appeals.

Anyone qualified to fill the role or knowing a likely candidate is urged to contact Dr. May by telephoning 752-4141.

Martin Sworn In As New Farmville Administrator

Martin who served as deputy administrator during the illness and after the death of the town's first administrator, Carl Beaman, said he decided only last week to seek the job that has been advertised for several weeks.

Martin has spent most of his adult life working for the Town of Farmville. He came here from his native Wake County in the summer of 1935 and served the next seven and a half years as a policeman. He married a local girl, Gray Carraway, who has served the town working in its public library for many years. For two and a half years he worked for a local bank and later a tobacco company. Then he came back to the town and has worked in its office ever since. Commissioners had just recently named him clerk and treasure, offices formerly held by Beaman.

The Martins have a son, Andy Jr. who lives here with his wife and son, Scott.

Martin was administrered the oath of office Friday by Pitt County Magistrate Joney Taylor. His hand was placed on a tiny Bible given him by his mother.

"The Commissioners were unanimous in their decision to hire Andy as soon as we knew he would accept the position," Commissioner W. R. Duke said. "He knows Farmville people and town business better than anyone else could. We're fortunate to be able to use his experience."

Duke added that the town will be seeking an assistant administrator to learn the ropes from Martin and help him with his varied duties.

Man Charged In Shooting Case

Walter Taft Jr., 37, of 501 Norris St. has been charged by Greenville police with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill following investigation of Saturday shooting incident.

According to Chief Clenn Cannon, Taft allegedly shot Harry Lee Edwards of 502 West 12th St. with a .22 caliber pistol about 12:15 a.m. at the intersection of 12th and Pitt St.

Taft was placed under a $1,000 bond pending a hearing in District Court.

Garrison Fails In Court Race

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison, who once charged people in high places plotted the assassination of President Kennedy, has failed in his bid for a seat on Louisiana's Supreme Court.

The New Orleans prosecutor was defeated Saturday by New Orleans mivil court Judge Walter Marcus. Marcus polled 104,676 votes to Garrison's 88,406.

The race was one of several which attracted a light turnout for the Democratic party runoff.

'Workfare' Has Support In N.C.

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig has voiced strong support of legislation now pending before the U.S. Senate which would require able-bodied welfare recipients to take either a private or a public service job or get off the welfare rolls.

"Any program that would guarantee a welfare recipient a job and give him increased benefits is a step in the right direction," said Craig.

The new "workfare" legislation, proposed, by Sen. Richard Long, D-La., faces an uncertain future in the Senate where it is embroiled in a three-way struggle between liberals, conservatives and the Nixon administration. The House has already passed the Nixon plan, which would guarantee a family of four an income of $2,400 a year.

Craig estimated that between 35 and 40 per cent of the 50,000 adult recipients of aid to families with dependent children in North Carolina, most of whom are female heads of household, would be required for a job. The remaining 60 per cent would be exempt for various reasons.

Welcoming this "get tough" approach to welfare, Craig noted that "under this proposal those people who deserve exemptions get them, and those left over are qualified to work. I see nothing wrong in offering them a job and disqualifying them if they don't take it."

"All along we've been told the welfare recipients don't like to be welfare recipients and would rather have jobs I assume that these people woujd welcome the chance to work."

Candidates To Talk To Law Enforcers

RALEIGH (AP) — Some 1,000 law enforcement officers from across North Carolina are expected to gather in Raleigh Thursday to listen to candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, senator and attorney general.

The occasion is an "issues and positions" conference being sponsored by the North Carolina Law Enforcement Association Council.

The council coordinator, State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn, said the candidates have been asked to talk about how they propose "to help law enforcement to do its job more effectively."

Dunn said all of the candidates have been asked to comment on the council's legislative program.

This includes a $6,000 annual minimum salary for personnel; a uniform retirement program; minimum standards; expansion of law enforcement training programs; improvements in criminal, drug and traffic laws; and transfer of the Law and Order Division into the Department of Justice.

The gubernatorial candidates scheduled to attend are Democrat Hargrove Bowles, Republican Jim Holshouser and American Arlis F. Pettyjohn; The Senate candidates are Republican Jesse Helms and Democrat Nick Galifianakis.

Democrat Robert Morgan and Republican Nick Smith, nominees for attorney general, and Democrat Jim Hunt and Republican Johnny Walker, candidates for lieutenant governor, have also agreed to speak.

High Court Opens Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opened its 1972-73 term today with a four-minute ceremonial session attended by the nine justices.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger opened the new court year. Eight lawyers were admitted to the court's bar. The justices then left the bench to begin a week-long series of private conferences to dispose of some 90 requests for hearings that have amassed since they took off for summer vacation at the end of June.

The first rulings will be handed down on Oct. 10.

Noteworthy was the presence of the first girl page since the court began employing pages after the Civil War. She is Deborah Gelin, 14, of Rockville, Md. She stood to the rear of the bench behind Justice Lewis F. Powell, during the perfunctory session.

Says Kickbacks To Facilties Run In Millions

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Frank E. Moss has told of the American Society of Consultant Pharmacists that pharmacists are paying hundreds of millions of dollars in kickbacks to get the business of long-term care facilities.

The Utah Democrat, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on long-term care, said Sunday a survey he took of 4,200 pharmacists nationwide indicated the kickback rate averaged around 25 per cent of the price of the drugs delivered to facilities such as nursing or shelter-care homes.

Moss said about 40 per cent of the questionnaires he sent out were returned and that 42 per cent of the pharmacists replying admitted they had been approached for kickbacks.

Larceny Charge Is Facing Pair

Two East Carolina University students have been charged by Greenville police with larceny.

Richard Duane Ingram, 18 and Joseph Henry Johnson III, 18, both of 308 Jones Dorm, were taken into custody about 1 a.m. Sunday by officers as they walked along Tenth Street with an end table allegedly taken from Garrett Dorm, Cheif Glenn Cannon said.

Value of the table allegedly removed from the woman's residence hall was set at $60.

Bella Abzug Is Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug has been selected to succeed the late Rep. William F. Ryan as Democratic candidate for Congress.

Democratic county committeemen from the 20th Congressional District voted 553 to 327 Sunday night for Mrs. Abzug over Priscilla Ryan, widow of the congressman who died of cancer Sept. 17.

The flamboyant Mrs. Abzug, 52, lost her own district through reapportionment. She challenged Ryan, a fellow liberal, in the June primary but lost by 18,000 votes.

Easy to understand information about no-fault insurance.

Many North Carolina motorists expect huge reductions in the cost of automobile liability insurance under a no-fault plan. Here's the real story on cost reductions.

Perhaps you've heard that the cost of automobile liability insurance has been reduced dramatically in Massachusetts under a No-Fault plan. Costs have been reduced in Massachusetts, but in North Carolina we can't expect the same kind of reductions.

You see, automobile liability insurance in North Carolina today costs far less than it cost in Massachusetts when No-Fault insurance was introduced. There are many reasons why automobile liability insurance cost more in Massachusetts than in North Carolina. One of the reasons is that North Carolina motorists settle far more claims out of court than Massachusetts motorists did before the No-Fault plan went into effect. Today even with No-Fault insurance, many motorists in Massachusetts are still paying more for automobile liability insurance than we pay in North Carolina.

Independent Insurance Agents of North Carolina believe the No-Fault concept is sound, and we have recommended to the Governor's Automobile Insurance Study Commission a plan of Modified No-Fault insurance.

The principal advantages of the Modified No-Fault plan we are recommending are:

1. It provides for quick and convenient payment for the majority of losses resulting from traffic crashes.
2. It preserves the right of the seriously injured accident victim to collect damages in full for his injuries and accompanying pain and suffering.
3. It promises some initial cost reductions and a means of holding the line against further increases in the cost of liability insurance.
4. It enables the motorists to obtain better service when he has a claim because he will deal with the agent from whom he purchased his policy and it won't be necessary to prove the "other driver" was at fault.

Certainly, we would like to come up with a No-Fault plan that would reduce the cost of automobile liability insurance greatly. But with the cost of automobile insurance in North Carolina near the bottom among the southeastern states, it just isn't possible to reduce the cost a great deal more.

S.E.A.manship

The 100-foot topsail schooner Westward is pictured above with San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge looming through the mist behind her. But her two-fold mission of oceanographic training and research takes her much further afield than that. Her current program includes voyages to Puerto Rico, the Caribbean, the Galapagos Islands, Bermuda, Lisbon and Casablanca. She's operated by S.E.A. (The American Sailing Educational Association), a nonprofit organization located in Westward's home port, Boston, Mass. The full ship's company numbers 30. Her staff are professional seamen and scientists. And she's manned by up to 20 apprentices 16 years and older, frequently without experience, who have come to learn about life at sea and to study oceanography. Photographed by Sal Veder.

On the Westward, S.E.A. runs a unique program: Oceanographic Apprenticeship. It's based on a belief in the value of learning by doing useful work.

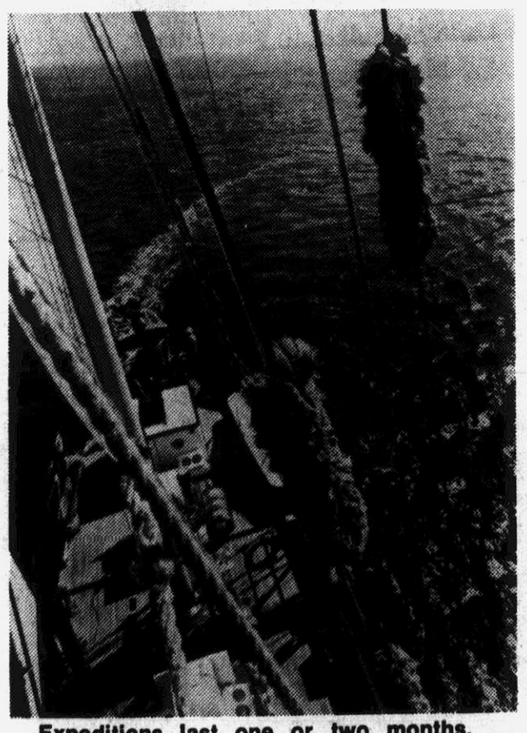

Operating a large sailing ship isn't the least of the challenges to be met.

Westward is an auxiliary-powered, staysail schooner, built of steel in 1961—a modern development of Irving Johnson's famous Yankee.

Westward's scientists and apprentices carry out far-ranging research for distinguished institutions (Woods Hole, Scripps, The Smithsonian, etc.).

Expeditions last one or two months, itinerary determined by research.

Sets Tone For N.C. Democrats

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A change in the text of Dr. Eugene Poston's address for the Democratic party's Vance-Aycock dinner just about summed up the tone of the party's annual fall fund-raiser at the old Grove Park Inn this weekend.

Poston's original wording called the Democrats to strive for victory "from the court house to the White House." But after sniffing the wind in Asheville, Poston decided to change it to "from the court house to the state house."

In fact, if George McGovern had wanted to attend the Vance-Aycock dinner, there were those who might have charged him the standard $50 extracted from the party's rank and file.

U. S. Senate candidate Nick Galifianakis told reporters that a visit to North Carolina from McGovern would not "enhance my candidacy," then added it "would have been nice to have Gov. (George) Wallace (of Alabama) down."

In fact, a determined effort to get Wallace to Asheville was made by Grover Mooneyham, a Wallace supporter. It was later backed by aides to gubernatorial candidate Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles. But Wallace's doctors reportedly vetoed both a trip and a video taping of a message for the gathering.

With Democrats of all stripes spewing effulgent praise for candidates from Galifianakis and Bowles on down, Gov. Bob Scott stood alone in support of the national leadership.

"After what Skipper has been saying about me, if I can vote and work for him — and I'm going to — then you folks can vote and work for George McGovern," Scott said.

Scott, who is co-chairman of the McGovern steering committee in the state, said McGovern's campaign was behind, "but a lot of people are out working for McGovern, and I think things will improve."

He said he felt an obligation to support all the candidates of "the party that gave me and every other Democratic officeholder in the state the opportunity to serve."

Fall Weather Has Arrived

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fall weather came to North Carolina during the weekend and will remain with us for the next few days.

Cool temperatures, low humidities and sunny skies were the rule across the eastern half of the nation Sunday, including the Tar Heel state. Afternoon highs were in the 60s ranging to the mid-70s. Wilmington, with an afternoon high of 76 degrees, was the warmest spot in the state.

During the night, temperatures across North Carolina dipped into the 30s in the mountains, into the 40s over the piedmont and the coastal plain, and into the 50s along the coast. Skies have been clear except for some cloudiness reported along the coast. During the past 24 hours, no precipitation has been reported in the state.

As the very cool airmass moved into North Carolina, winds along the coast increased and small craft warnings were raised on sounds and ocean waters. However, the winds have subsided and the warnings have been lowered.

Fine fall weather will continue across North Carolina for the next two days as the center of the cool airmass, located over eastern Pennsylvania, drifts slowly eastward keeping very dry air over the state. Temperatures will show a slow warming trend today.

Cabinet Post Is Not Insurance

HOBRO, Denmark (UPI)— Being a cabinet minister is no guarantee for easy access to the Folketing (Parliament) as Ib Frederiksen, Minister for Agriculture, learned.

Social Democratic voters preferred a local bricklayer, Poul Mortensen, as the candidate for a parliamentary seat. Frederiksen, who owns a farm in the neighboring constituency, failed by 15 out of 1,165 votes.

Sinkiang was the site of China's first atomic explosion in 1964.

Everything Is Under One Roof

Manila (UPI)—The 22-story Manila Hilton claims to be the only hotel in Asia offering complete wedding services, a result of completion of its ecumenical chapel.

After the wedding ceremony, the Hilton can offer the newlyweds breakfast, lunch, dinner or cocktails and their honeymoon in the hotel.

Medicine Not All Mysteries

Alan's query shows the need for a practical high school course on everyday medical problems. It would certainly reward the oppressed taxpayers far better than frilly courses on "Ballroom Dancing" or "Archery," etc.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-507: Alan H., aged 26, is a high school science teacher.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I enjoy your specific answers to problems.

"For you explain many medical assertions that we laymen have had to accept without knowing the basic reasons underlying them.

"Thus, you tell us why fever is an ally of our bodies in time of illness, and should not be reduced artificially with aspirin or cold baths, unless it approaches 105 degrees.

"Well, could you also show us why diabetics have excessive thirst?

"And why many older people are victims of insomnia about 2 o'clock in the morning, as is true of my grandfather, who lives with us?"

Medical Mysteries

Would that all senior high schools offered a semester course on "Practical Medicine," to enlighten the American people and thus avoid much needless anxiety!

For many physicians habitually use polysyllabic medical terms when they should employ simple words of one syllable.

"Polydipsia" is regarded as a classical symptom of diabetes.

But "polydipsia" merely means excessive thirst.

And it can readily be understood if you realize that the diabetic's blood sugar level zooms from 100 to maybe 400 or even 500 points.

When you thus quadruple the sugar in the blood, your body craves more water to dilute it!

Same is also true when you swallow too much salt.

We inject what we call "normal saline" solution into your vein at the hospital, which means about a 1 percent solution.

But if you were to ingest excessive salt by mouth, as might be true of sailors, adrift in a lifeboat without fresh water, then the blood would call for more fresh water to reduce the percentage of salt to that "normal saline" amount of 1 percent.

If you lack access to outside fresh water, the salt in your blood then pulls more water from surrounding tissues.

In s such cases, sailors may go insane because of that quick withdrawal of water from the brain.

Epsom salts also obtains its laxative effect by likewise ectracting water from the intestinal walls, thus producing what amounts to an enema from the stomach on downward.

By osmosis, you high schoolers will recall that if salt (or sugar) is in one container with a membrane separating it from a fresh water container, the fresh water tends to go toward the more saturated salty or sugar solution.

Alan's question about the insomnia of older people, especially men, is what I call "urinary insomnia."

They waken at maybe 2 a.m. to void urine. Alas, they then begin to think of income tax deadlines or other emotion-fraught ideas.

Thus, their blood pressure zooms and their heart beats faster, sending more blood to the brain, which arouses it till they can't fall back asleep.

So reduce your fluid intake after 6 p.m., especially of caffeine beverages like coffee, tea and cola soft drinks.

For then your urinary bladder may not waken you till 6 a.m.

Remember, too, that for heart attacks, the best treatment is immediate oxygen, easily obtained from the 20 percent in the air, as by fast deep breathing!

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠95 ♡Q1072 ◇Q4 ♣AK983
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ◇	1 ♠	2 ♣
Pass	2 ◇	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Raising with only a doubleton honor may seem a little risky, but is acceptable after partner has rebid his suit, when no convenient call is available. Partner may now be in position to try three no trump.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♡A1054 ◇AKQ105 ♣K964
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. Altho your are in possession of a fine hand, caution should be the byword, since no fit has as yet been established. A rebid of two clubs is best calculated to offer encouragement to partner to continue without crowding the auction.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A10 ♡AQ105 ◇K106 ♣AJ62
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Dble.	Pass	1 ◇

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. The tens made this hand a shade too strong to open with one no trump. When the bid is employed at this juncture in single-handed competition with the opposition, partner should play you for a very good hand.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK9 ♡74 ◇KQ2 ♣AQ975
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Your main concern is the heart situation |partner could have a sound opening bid without either top heart honor| and Blackwood will not help you to the answer. The best procedure is to make a false cue bid of four diamonds and follow it up by overbidding the game in spades. If partner can stop the opponents from winning two heart tricks, he will be able to proceed to a slam on even the barest of minimums.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠63 ♡72 ◇1063 ♣AK10854
Your partner opens with one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Three no trump. True, you can't count up to the required 26 points, but the compensating feature of a six card suit headed by the two top honors makes the bid a reasonable speculation. Since partner must not make a one no trump opening without at least Qx or xxx in clubs, chances of running the entire suit are good.

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K1074 ♡63 ◇KQJ93 ♣43
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has shown a minimum type opening and opposite your nine points no game can be in contemplation.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠76 ♡KQ105 ◇AJ42 ♣AJ10
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♡	2 ♣	Pass
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Two diamonds. Altho chances for game are just about nil since partner was unable to make a free bid, some further competition should be offered to prevent the opponents from making off with a cheap part score. You may succeed in driving them one level higher than they can afford to go.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠42 ♡AQJ952 ◇QJ2 ♣97
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
3 ◇	Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. West has announced a very weak hand and East did not have enough to go on so your partner is definitely marked with some values. If he has a good fit, there may even be a game in the offing.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF APPROVAL OF THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT OF US 13 & NC 11 FROM WEST THIRD STREET TO NC 903

The North Carolina State Highway Commission has approved the proposed design for the above improvement. The proposed design consists of adding two additional lanes with a 30' or 44' median to the west side of the existing lanes. All intersections will be at grade. The right of way will vary and will be that necessary to contain the construction. The proposed design is the same as presented at the public hearing on March 28, 1972, in Greenville N.C.

A set of prints setting forth the above and a copy of the Environmental Impact Statement Negative Declaration is available for public review and copying at the Division Office of the North Carolina State Highway Commission, Greenville, N.C.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The potent forces of both food and sex are being used in an Orange County soil testing campaign. Not surprisingly, the campaign is very successful.

Agricultural agents normally make a direct appeal to get farmers to have their soils analyzed for fertility levels. Traditionally, response to the appeal is spotty.

The Orange County agents have enlisted the help of women – aides working in the Expanded Nutrition Education Program – to "sell" soil testing to the farmer's wife as a good gardening practice.

"Farmers seem to be getting the idea that, if soil testing works in the garden, it will work in their fields," commented S. N. Shelton, extension agent. "It's apparent that the wives are more persuasive than we have been – which doesn't surprise us," Shelton added.

During the first few days of the campaign, three women aides brought in some 80 soil samples from their visits to families enrolled in the Expanded Nutrition Education Program.

This program is a nationwide effort to reach low income families with information on proper nutrition and good food budget management. Non-professionals are used by the Extension Service to go into homes in their own communities and work face to face with the homemakers.

"One approach is to encourage these families to grow a garden," explained Orange home economics agent Mrs. Janet Sessoms. "The first step to good gardening is having the soil analyzed."

The analysis is made by the N. C. Department of Agriculture as a free service. Information is returned suggesting what the soil needs in the way of lime and fertilizer, according to what crop is to be grown.

"Working with the wives through the nutrition aides, we are reaching farmers we've never reached before," Shelton said. "And not all of them are involved in the nutrition program. Others hear about soil testing from a neighbor who has been visited by one of the aides."

The farmer response to the soil testing campaign is a side benefit. The effort is directed mainly at low income families, both farm and non-farm, who need nutritional information. "We felt one of the first things they needed was a garden," Mrs. Sessoms said. "We try to point out the nutritional and economic advantage of gardening."

No matter where the families live, the aides encourage them to have a garden. "Some of them who live in town plant tomatoes in a bushel basket, for example," Mrs. Eloise Rountree pointed out.

Mrs. Rountree admits that she never thought of having her own garden soil analyzed before the campaign started. "I got to thinking about it one night when we were getting started, took a flashlight and went to the garden and gathered a sample," she said.

The aides go into the gardens with the wives and sometimes into the fields with the husbands to show them how to take a soil sample. When the analyses return, the aides consult with Extension Agent, Shelton, on proper interpretation of the data and return to the families to explain it all.

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK

With the winter season coming are you sure your soil has the nutrient supply necessary to feed those winter pastures and small grains? Many times after spring planted crops have eaten their supply of plant nutrients, the soil is often depleted to a deficiency level for over wintering crops. Research has shown the nutrient uptake for many of the fall planted crops to be equal to and in some case greater than North Carolina's major cash crops.

At this point of time when decisions have to be made, you might ask what can I do to guard against this possible shortage of nutrients for my winter crops? The answer is a free "insurance service" provided by the Soil Testing Division of N.C. Department of Agriculture. The soil Testing Laboratory in Raleigh will run an analysis on your soil to determine present levels of nutrients necessary for satisfactory plant growth. A pH determination is also made to determine the acidity level of your soil. Of course once the laboratory analysis are determined the service is only half completed. The division has a computer program compiling the most recent data for lime and fertilizer recommendations. Their program is tailored to meet the fertilility needs of most any economic crop grown by Tar Heel Farmers.

One additional question still might be puzzling you. Where or how can I get in on this blue chip service? In order to get in on the program you must first obtain soil sample cartons and information sheets. The Pitt County Extension Office has the necessary sampling materials as well as Vo-Ag teachers, Soil Conservation Service Office, and many of the fertilizer dealers around the county. The Soil Testing Laboratory strongly urges individuals interested in planting small grains and or establishing or maintaining winter forages to sample early because the rush season in the State Laboratory will be underway shortly.

Pitt County high school students, especially juniors and seniors, are invited to Open House at North Carolina State University on Saturday, Oct.14.

Open House is an annual affair of the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the School of Forest Resources. In addition, two other schools — the School of Engineering and the School of Physical and Mathematical Sciences — will open their doors to visitors this year.

The occasion is designed especially for career-minded high school students, parents, teachers, counselors, alumni and other adults interested in NCSU.

Exhibits, tours, and discussions by students and faculty members will be featured at the Open House.

See your Guidance Counselor of Distributive Education Instructor or call the Agricultural Extension Service for futher information on the open house at NCSU.

State Plans Mail Service

RALEIGH (AP) — The state of North Carolina is planning to start its own mail service to 13 Tar Heel cities about Oct. 9 and it hopes to save state agencies up to 25 per cent on their mail costs.

Present plans are for two station wagons to leave Raleigh the night of Oct. 9 with mail from state agencies to state, county or city government agencies in 13 cities.

One vehicle will head east to Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern, Greenville, Wilson and back to Raleigh. The other will go west to Durham, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Statesville, Salisbury, Lexington, Asheboro and back.

At each stop, mail from the state will be dropped off at special boxes and mail left in the box by local agencies will be picked up and brought back to Raleigh.

"We may not make that Oct. 9 date, but if not we'll start very shortly after that," said C. W. Williams, assistant secretary of the state Department of administration.

"We're setting up what we hope is an opportunity to save money and have next day delivery," said Williams. "We believe there is an opportunity here to save the taxpayers money."

"These two routes are a pilot project," he added. "If it is successful, we anticipate having possibly eight to 10 routes, going as far as Asheville or even Bryson City."

At 80, Danced Her Taxes Away

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (UPI)—By dancing until 2 a.m., Hilda Beecher Stowe, the granddaughter-in-law of novelist Harriet Beecher Stowe saved her heirs $200,000 in inheritance taxes.

Prentice Hall tax information service says Mrs. Stowe, at the age of 80, deliberately danced the night away to prove she was in sound health and, therefore, a huge transfer of funds she was making to her heirs was "not being made in contemplation of death."
