

Scott Preparing Report On His 4 Years

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott, characterizing himself as "more than a lame duck" with less than three months left in office, is planning a full report to the people on his four-year administration.

Scott, who was in Omaha Tuesday to keynote a 29-state conference on regional development commissions, told newsmen he would offer himself for interviews to newspaper editorial writers and to broadcast and television newscasters in the final weeks of his administration.

The idea behind the interviews and report to the people, Scott said, was prompted by a pamphlet published by his father, the late Gov. W. Kerr Scott.

"People do forget," Scott said in an interview. "You have to stop and remember what happened in 1967, how really turbulent things were, such as on the campus at Chapel Hill.

"For a young governor, that probably did more to mature me than anything else."

Scott leaves office in January. He is barred by state law from serving a second successive term.

Looking back over his administration, Scott expressed more personal pride in achievements during his second legislature than in the early years of his term.

He cited these examples: reorganization of state government, restructuring of higher education, creation of the Council on State Goals and Policy and environmental legislation.

"These probably will have more long term impact than what we did in the first goround," he said.

Scott told the Conference on Regional Commissions he was "a lame duck and, I suspect, I'm here for my swan song. I don't know whether to sing or quack."

"Actually," Scott continued, "I'm more than a lame duck. My neck has been wrung and my feathers singed."

Scott, a Haw River dairy farmer, joined Nebraska Gov. James Exon in an unannounced tour of the Omaha livestock yards and later looked over exhibits at a museum maintained by the Union Pacific Railroad.

He flew back to Raleigh Tuesday night.

County School Board Is Given Policy Manuals

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Pitt County Board of Education at its meeting yesterday were given policy manuals for study evaluation and approval at a later date.

Mrs. Kathryn Lewis, director of Pupil Personnel Services for Pitt County Schools, has been working for the past several months to bring up to date all procedures, decisions and policies affecting the operation of the county schools.

Final approval of the policy manual is expected after the board members and other school personnel have had time to study the information.

Assistant Superintendent J. L. Keeter discussed the Title I program for the 1971-72 school year. He explained that more progress was shown in the lower grade students, especially on the kindergarten level.

A total of 4,052 students were enrolled in Title I programs last year.

The various programs, the number of participants and the cost in the Title I program included: kindergarten, 644, $236,000; language arts, 975, $197,000; mathematics, 830, $55,000; reading, 1,270, $168,000; occupational education, 783, $87,000; special education, 267, $170,000; Speech therapy, 272, $19,000; children's services, 19,477, $125,000; clothing service, 325, $10,000; health (dental) 78, $4,262; health (medical service), 2,522, $6,000; psychological services, 363, $16,000; Counseling, 1,540, $34,000.

A total of 85 professional employees were hired under Title I last year as compared with 87 this school year.

Some changes made in this year's Title I program, according to Keeter, include: discontinuance of the readiness program for grades one through three. This program has been replaced by a tutorial program for first graders and by resource teachers for second and third graders; grades four through six have resource teachers and special education classes; seventh and eighth graders will be provided reading labs and special education classes.

Students in grades nine through 12 will have reading labs, math labs, and guidance counselors for additional assistance.

Title I will also employ nine janitors and two maids as well as 65 non professional personnel.

The changes made in the current Title I program were recommended by the N.C. Department of Instruction.

Board members gave Keeter permission to apply for a $14,000 Migrant Education Project.

The project would employ one full time employee and

Cites Balanced Education Goal

Making a campaign tour in Pitt County today, Republican candidate for governor in the November election Jim Holshouser took time out to talk with local newsmen this morning.

Holshouser, expressing some of his views on education, said, "I think the people are concerned about the quality of education they are getting in the schools, and 'We are going to have to upgrade our schools.'"

Emphasizing "every child should have a balanced education," he said the program emphasizing career education by his Democratic opponent Hargrove Bowles "is an admission we are not doing such a good job in giving our children the basics now — reading, writing and arithmetic."

He said failing to give the basics and turning to career education would be "writing off" many people. Forcing career decisions at an early age, he theorized, will not solve the problems of education.

Candidate Holshouser expressed support for a state-wide kindergarten program.

"The people are ready," he said, "but educators say we don't have the faculty or facilities needed" now to conduct a state-wide program.

"Pilot studies show," Holshouser explained, that a kindergarten program "improves tremendously" a student's progress in school.

Commenting on the question of busing, the candidate said busing children "is the wrong tool to solve a problem," and indicated he would "use every means" to find other solutions.

Holshouser indicated he is "making a special effort to let the people of Eastern North Carolina know we are concerned about problems here... that we are not just talking... but let them see some action."

Education Exhibits At County Fair Judged, Receives Awards

Education Exhibits at the Pitt County Fair were judged yesterday and the winners were announced by fair director Sam Winchester.

Of those sponsored by the Extension Homemakers Clubs, the places were as follows: Mount Pleasant, first; Red Oak Junior, second; Grifton, third; and Pactolus, fourth.

Under the division, Youth Opportunities, winners were Operation Sunshine, first: Boys Club, second; 4-H Club, third; and Chef and Gourmet, fourth.

County School winners in the Occupational Education division were North Pitt with Career Education, first; and Ayden-Grifton in second, third, fourth, and fifth places with Trade and Industry, Home Economics, Office Occupations, and Future Farmers of America, respectively.

Rose High Schools Occupational Education exhibits entitled Office Occupations and Distributive Education placed first and second respectively.

According to Mrs. Sam Winchester, attendance Tuesday night was "great" and the turnout by Senior Citizens on their special day was extremely good this morning, also. Mrs. Leota Tyson, performed with her accordion for the Senior Citizens and they also were treated to a look at the Greenville Rescue Squad truck and other exhibits of special interest to them.

Channelization Impact Is Cited

By BLANCHE HARDEE

NEW BERN — Arguments by attorneys continued in U.S. Eastern District Court here today in the Chicod Creek Watershed case before District Judge John Larkins.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Hughes said the question before the court today is whether or not the watershed project has "procedurally completed the impact statement according to the National Environmental Protection Act."

Hughes, countering earlier allegations that the impact statement failed to list adverse effects of the project, said the environmental impact statement does list adverse effects.

The attorney cited increased sediment couldn't be avoided: "in some portions of the project fish will be affected"; and some damage to hardwood timber

Robbed By Hitchhikers

NEWLAND, N.C. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson were recovering in a Banner Elk hospital today after being slashed and robbed by three hitchhikers late Monday.

The Robinsons, of Swannanoa, told officers they picked up the trio near Oteen and drove them north to the vicinity of Grandfather Mountain when they were attacked.

Do-It-Yourself Fire Extinguisher Easy To Make

With a view toward the observance of National Fire Prevention Week next week, Greenville Fire Chief Jesse R. Smith announced a baking soda cure for kitchen grease fires.

"Most people don't realize that an important ingredient in many commercial fire extinguishers is the same soda used in baking," Chief Smith said. "When heated, soda creates carbon dioxide gas, which in turn smothers the flames."

No kitchen should be without a handy container of soda, the chief noted. And for kitchens with no commercial fire extinguisher, Chief Smith suggested an empty one-pound coffee can — which will hold the contents of a large two-pound box of soda — could be used as a handy fire-fighting pail.

The chief said the can could be filled with soda, the click-on plastic top replaced, wire handles could be attached "and all you need is a label saying 'FIRE'."

And the chief said the "FIRE" label problem can also be solved.

Bright red wraparound FIRE labels can be obtained free from any Greenville fire station.

On each label are spaces for telephone numbers of the fire and police departments, ambulance and doctor. Also, instructions for dousing small cooking fires, electrical or gas fires and clothing fires are printed on the label.

"If grease flames break out in a skillet or broiler," the chief said, "don't be tempted to grab the pan and run outdoors with it. This can lead to dangerous burns and possible spread of the fire. 'Instead, grab your fire pail, throw soda at the base of the flames and stand back while the soda works."

He also urged householders to notify the fire department immediately afterward so firemen can double-check for sparks that may be smoldering.

"Don't hesitate to call, even though you think the emergency is over," he emphasized.

Tax At Airport Nets $76,269

RALEIGH (AP) — A $2 passenger boarding tax at the Raleigh-Durham Airport netted $76,269 last month.

Airport Manager Henry Boyd reported to the Airport Authority Tuesday that more than 42,000 persons paid the tax before boarding flights.

Receipts from the tax totaled $84,574 while expenses amounted to $8,304.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled this summer the tax was constitutional as long as the revenue was used for airport construction.

German Couture Fashioned With Care

GERMAN COUTURE — The House of Uli Richter in West Berlin is one of the pinnacles of fashion in Germany. For this fall and winter, Richter says coats are A-line or tent-shaped, sports ensembles are lively and colorful and suits with subtle color harmonies insure against conformity. Here are several examples of his views of these fashions. At left, a pants suit has a long jacket, with double-faced wool pants. In the center, a glen plaid suit has a long jacket, silk blouse tied with a bow, and a pleated skirt. At right, the coat is made of cashmere plaid in beige, white and gray.

Girl Finds Bonds Worth $10,000

PARIS (WNS) — Catherine Mollon, 18, spent everything except her railroad fare home on her one month's vacation on the French Riviera. However, when she arrived home and looked into her handbag for her apartment key, she discovered Treasury Bonds worth $10,000. She took them to the police, who quickly solved the mystery. A thief had slipped them into her bag aboard the train when he saw police coming through the car in search of him. He had been arrested on arrival in Paris, and detectives were looking for the evidence which Mlle. Mollon handed them. The reward will pay for her next vacation.

French Resort Has Lady Mayor

CANNES, France (WNS) — Women's Lib on the Cote d'Azur: Louise Moreau is the first lady to be elected mayor of a French Riviera resort. She now rules over the Mandelieu-La Napoule region. Her first change at city hall has been to replace the old-fashioned bust of Marianne (the symbol of France) with a modern Marianne bust resembling Brigitte Bardot. "This is 1972," explained Mayor Moreau, whose next project is to open a gambling casino in La Napoule. "By birth I'm Parisian," said Mme. Moreau. "I fell in love with this place when I came here on vacation as a child. By the time I was 18, I had saved enough money to buy my first house here and settle into a heavenly life. I recommend the same pattern to every teen I meet."

She Kept Secret, Then Pardoned

LEEDS, England (WNS) — Driver May Sexton refused to give her age to the traffic cop who was writing out the standard ticket. She was fined $7 in traffic court when she still refused to reveal her age. Mrs. Sexton appealed the case until the Home Office returned her $7 and gave her full pardon. The English woman still feels badly about the incident. "That young policeman has made me feel very age-conscious," she explained.

No Soap, She Says—Senator Comes To Aid

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salem, Ore., and here is my complaint. The government gives me food stamps for which I can get anything I want to eat. They even let me have chewing gum. But they won't give me soap or toilet paper! This doesn't make any sense to me, and I would like you to please find out how come, because those items are a lot more important than chewing gum. Thank you.

MRS. C. IN OREGON

DEAR MRS. C.: It didn't make any sense to me either, so I referred your complaint to your very able senator, Mark O. Hatfield. He replied: "Congress sought to get food into the stomachs of the truly needy, so by law, only FOOD can be obtained with food stamps. Not only is cleanliness next to Godliness, it is as essential to good health as food. I agree, poor people need soap more than they need gum. Now you've given ME something to chew on, and I am going to do all I can to improve the situation."

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the woman who is humiliated because her husband gawks at women with big bosoms. The explanation was that such men are little boys still looking for "Mommy."

Well, I have a husband who likes to look, too, but the girls he looks at in no way resemble his "Mommy." They are usually teen-agers. When he sees a young girl in a miniskirt and a nice figure he forgets where he is and whom he's with. He gets as close as he can to her, and just stares and stares. And the look on his face is frightening at times.

My husband is 50 and so am I. I have a figure my married daughters envy and I keep my hair nice and dress well.

Don't tell me to talk to my pastor. He is my pastor. I honestly think this man is sick in the head. What do you think?

WORRIED IN FLORIDA

DEAR WORRIED: I think you ought to get him to a doctor. A man of the cloth can't afford to sully his reputation, and he surely will if he doesn't quit this unbecoming behavior. Pastors are not saints. Pastors are people, and they are susceptible to the same illnesses [and weaknesses] as the rest of us.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if any of your readers are bothered by the same thing that bothers me. When shopping I will often look up and see someone watching me! I realize that with all the shoplifting going on, they have to watch people, but you would think they would have trained personnel who could do this subtly so as not to make the customers feel they are being spied on.

A friend of mine who works in a supermarket told me that he was told to keep his eye on me! [I have already talked to my lawyer about this.]

If I am suspicious looking it must be from a complex I have. I am shy by nature and do not like to look people squarely in the face. I can't help it. It hurts to think I am not trusted because I would never steal anything.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest.

INNOCENT BUT LOOKS GUILTY

DEAR ABBY: I think I have an even more touche' reply for the person who says, "I'll tell you something very confidential if you promise not to repeat it."

Say, "Don't tell me. You know I can't keep my mouth shut any better than you can."

Banana Splint Just Sandwich

SOLLER, Spain (WNS) — Catalina Bordes won such approval from American tourists for serving banana splits at her seaside cafe that she has now introduced "banana splits." It turns out to be a banana sandwich. "The super-splint version is banana and peanut butter between two slices of toast," explained Catalina.

Woodsy Owl, Smokey Bear Poster Contest Announced

The National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., in cooperation with Forest Service, USDA announces the 1972 free-hand Woodsy Owl and-of Smokey Bear Poster contest is now open.

The contest is open to all students and the participant does not need be a member of an affiliated Junior Garden Club. All entries become the property of National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. An individual may enter either Woodsy Owl and-or Smokey Bear Poster Contest, but would be eligible for only one national award.

Posters will be judged on: originality, 40 points; message effectiveness, 20 points; artistic quality, 20 points; and neatness, 20 points. Poster dimensions must be no larger than 12" x 18". A choice of materials may be used such as: water color; crayons; poster paint; charcoal; pastels; cut-outs; magic markers, etc. Entries must be identified by name, address, grade, and age on back of poster.

There are four grade levels: kindergarten to second grade; third grade to fifth; sixth grade to eighth; and ninth to the 12th grade.

Entries must be received by the state junior gardening awards chairman no later than Feb. 15, 1973. The chairman is Mrs. Les J. Spencer, 8 Holly Ridge Road, Asheville, 28803.

The state chairman will send the three best entries from each grade level to the regional chairman, who then sends the best ones in each category and grade group to national. The national winners will be announced and prizes awarded at the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. Convention, Seattle, Washington; May, 1973.

Woodsy's basic theme is "Give a Hoot. . . Don't Pollute." He's dressed in forest green pants held in place by a large brown belt. His gold belt buckle is a large "O" around an emphatic "W" — the brand of Woodsy Owl. Perched on his head is a dark green, Robin Hood hat fronted by a light green pine tree symbol and sporting a red feather in the hatband.

Dr. Thurber Is League Speaker

Dr. Robert E. Thurber was keynote speaker at the Monday meeting of the Service League of Greenville held at Elm Street Recreation Center.

The speaker is chairman of the Department of Physiology, East Carolina University Medical School. He spoke on the New one-year medical school.

He stated that a five-member committee was looking into the feasibility of a two-year school and that it would be voted on by the upcoming General Assembly.

Dr. Thurber pointed out that the new school has 20 students and 18 faculty members in residence. The students will be admitted to UNC Medical School to continue their studies. He was introduced by Mrs. Leon Moore, program chairman.

Mrs. Charles Stevens, president, conducted the business session. The following reports were given:

Bloodmobile, Mrs. Herbert Carter announced that 50 workers gave 152 hours and 145 pints of blood were collected at the September visit. Mrs. Ford McGowan, emergency charity chairman, answered three calls and Layettes Chairman, Mrs. Reid Hooper, answered two calls.

Mrs. Richard Capwell, Lending Chest chairman, stated that two wheel chairs had been purchased and she answered calls for three wheel chairs and one hospital bed.

Mrs. Louis Clark made several announcements concerning the Charity Ball to be held in February, 1973.

Drive Is Started In High Gear

The Pitt County United Fund drive is now officially underway, with a goal of $157,526. The work for this year's drive, of course, has been underway for sometime as the campaign coordinators followed a "get ready early" format. There have been ten division chairmen named by Campaign Chairman Karl Faser, and UF president Jack Whichard has said that it is hoped the campaign can be wound up by the third week of October. Whichard said that this year efforts have been focused on advance preparation, rather holding back until the Oct. 2 starting date to begin work.

Already the Boy Scouts have distributed posters, Boys Club members have erected United Fund signs and the Alpha Phi Omega has conducted its Rockathon for United Fund at Five Points.

It appears that everything is in readiness for a rapid United Fund campaign.

Whether the goal can be met in the next three weeks depends on the promptness of all our business concerns and citizens in making their United Fund pledges and contributions.

Most of us now understand that the good works of the United Fund agencies touch us all in some fashion and we feel that the majority of our citizens will give freely during the campaign.

It is also important that all of us pledge or give without delay so that the campaign goal can be met as soon as possible.

We should remember that many people are contributing their time and talents to make the campaign a success. It will create a good image for our community if we can reach the United Fund goal by the third week of this month.

Voters To Rule On Age Limit

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — How old is old enough to run for public office?

North Carolina voters will answer in the Nov. 7 general election with their decision on one of five constitutional amendments on the ballot.

If they approve the amendment, only those citizens who have reached the age of 21 will be eligible as candidates. If they defeat it, the age will be lowered to 18 for most offices.

Old enough to vote is old enough to run, argued Tom Barringer of Raleigh, state president-elect of the Young Democratic Clubs. "The same reasons for lowering the voting age apply to holding office," he said.

The recent YDC convention passed a resolution strongly urging all Tar Heels to vote against the amendment, he reported. In doing so, it joined most candidates (Democrat and Republican), youth spokesmen, and leaders of both political parties.

In fact, hardly a friendly word has been heard for the amendment although it had to pass both houses of the 1971 General Assembly by a three-fifths vote to get on the ballot.

Paradoxically, the framing of the proposition may have confused some opponents into voting for it and vice versa.

Two-Part Proposition
That's because it is a tandem amendment. The first provision authorizes 18 as the voting age; the second fixes 21 as the age to run for office.

An amendment to the U.S. Constitution already has accomplished the first objective, and it is now moot. The 18-to-21 population has the right to vote, however the election on the amendment turns out. The second part of the amendment remains a live proposal.

Some observers are chuckling that unware voters opposed to lowering the age to vote may cast ballots against the amendment, although they would favor the 21-age limit on candidacies. By the same token, some uninformed young people and others could vote for the amendment without realizing they were endorsing the higher age for office-seeking.

A somewhat similar case occurred a few years back. An amendment was submitted to ban the literacy test for voting, in keeping with a federal constitutional interpretation. Even though it was an empty gesture, Tar Heel voters rejected the amendment in favor of keeping the invalid provision in the state constitution.

Some Offices Limited
Even if the present amendment is defeated, it won't open the door to every office for young people. Specific ages are set elsewhere in the state and federal constitutions for president, U.S. Senate and House of Representatives, governor, lieutenant-governor and state senate.

The aspirant for the presidency must be 35. The U.S. Senate is open only to those over-30, the same limit applying for the offices of governor and lieutenant-governor. To run for Congress and the state senate, a citizen must have reached the age of 25.

Local offices, Council of State positions, the state House, and judicial offices would be affected. Defeat of the amendment, for example, would permit an 18-year-old to run for sheriff, Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, and a variety of other positions.

Principle At Issue
How many would do so is a matter of speculation, and beside the point, said Barringer. "That a legally adult citizen is prohibited from offering himself for public office would be embedded in the constitution as a matter of law," he insisted.

Barringer serves on a YDC committee to mount a campaign for the defeat of the amendment. At 31, he would not be personally affected by the outcome.

Practicality as well as principle argues for the amendment's rejection, he said. It would be a good thing, he suggested, if youth did take advantage of the opportunity to run for office.

No Belly Dance In The Name Of Good Health

At last reports, the Department of Community Health Services had been unable to find a belly dancer for its exhibit at the Pitt County Fair.

Dr. Robert D. May said everything was in readiness — but no dancer.

Recently belly dancing has been featured on television and elsewhere as a good way to keep the body in shape.

So far, at least, it appears that the excitement over belly dance has not spread to our area.

Nixon Unready To Risk Votes

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind the facade of party-wide euphoria over President Nixon's huge lead in the polls, dissension is rising among Republican candidates for Congress who want — but cannot get — Presidential help in their own uphill campaigns.

Pressure to get Mr. Nixon, who dreams of an all-time record majority, to risk a few points of his own vote by coming to his party's aid is centered in the Republican National Committee and the Senate and House Campaign Committees. Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the party chairman, is leading the way and hopes to take the case directly to Mr. Nixon this week.

The case is clear: If the President is serious about making his, vaunted "New Majority" a long-range proposition, rather than a majority that will dissipate right after the Nov. 7 election, he must also bring in a Republican Congress.

Sen. Peter Dominick of Colorado and Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairmen of the Senate and House Campaign Committees, agree with Dole that if Mr. Nixon descends from above the partisan battle and makes an all-out fight for a Republican Congress, he will unquestionably sacrifice the votes of some — perhaps many — Democrats for Nixon.

The reason for that is obvious. If Mr. Nixon, for example, campaigned hard in Rhode Island for former Navy Secretary John Chafee and against his opponent in the Senate race, Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell, he would alienate thousands of Democrats who now plan to vote both for Pell and the President. Their loyalties, centered on Pell, would be mortally offended.

The same is true in other states with close Senate contests but where the President rides far, far ahead of Sen. George McGovern — and of his own party. Dominick and Wilson are extremely disturbed by this imbalance and the disproportionate financing of Mr. Nixon's campaign to the grave detriment of lesser Republicans. But a direct request to the Committee for

To the editor:
The City Council and citizens of Greenville are to be congratulated in the fine selection which they have made in Mr. William Carstaphen as their new City Manager.

Mr. Carstaphen's leaving is truly a loss for Charlotte. He is a young man with unusual talent who has been not only highly respected professionally but well liked in all segments of our community. Mr. Carstaphen is technically sound in his knowledge of city operations. He is also skilled in communicating effectively with citizens from all walks of community life. These characteristics are indeed invaluable to any city which is growing and changing in its physical characteristics as well as its social values.

Charlotte will miss Bill Carstaphen. In time, Greenville will recognize that it has indeed found a man with unusual ability.

CHILDLIKE SPIRIT
The Bible speaks a great deal about the childlike spirit, but there is a great difference between a childlike spirit and childishness.

The childlike spirit is the spirit of humanity and trust and openmindedness. Childishness is something which appears in adults who never grow up. The childlike spirit is full of loveliness. Childishness is both ridiculous and revolting.

The child believes in many things he cannot see. To him life is a series of golden gates and they are all ajar. Parents and dominating adults may strive to achieve desires which youth may believe are worthwhile. The child desires nothing more than the security of its parent's love. The mind of youth is full of fancy but in this fancy there is often more truth than in the projects and grandiose schemes of adults. Sometimes people of very high station in life are positively childish in their aims and behavior. They grope after the shadows of life and miss its real substance.

We can see why Jesus placed such great emphasis on the childlike spirit. Humility depends on the Father whose love is above everything the world can give. Willing to believe means believing in many things which cannot be seen and having a mind full of inquiry and an eagerness to acquire new truth.

This is the childlike spirit at its best. This spirit Jesus loved and commended.

It Doesn't Help To Yell

WASHINGTON — I went over to Strybaum's house the other night about dinner time and walked into the living room. There was Strybaum screaming at the television set.

I looked shocked and Ada, his wife, pulled me over to the corner. "He's been doing that every night," Ada said. "It's either Cronkite or Chancellor — it doesn't matter. Ever since the election campaign started he's done nothing but yell at the set. I'm starting to worry about him."

President Nixon came on the set, speaking at a fund-raising dinner somewhere, and said, "And I promise that there will be no tax raises in the next four years if I am re-elected President of the United States."

"LIAR!" Strybaum yelled. "YOU KNOW DAMN WELL YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE TO RAISE TAXES. WHAT DO YOU TAKE ME FOR?"

Other Editors Say Killed This Year

(Wilson Times)

Killings are becoming too frequent and for no apparent reason. The last officer killed was a highway patrolman who tried to stop a car for a routine checkup. The officer was shot, and even before the highway patrolman could ask to see the driver's license.

You have a right to assume something is wrong because the driver fears a checkup. Are the ones driving taking dope, and on the defensive? Or do they have dope, smuggled cigarettes, or other things the driver is trying to hide?

Regardless of the cause, patrolman Joe R. Wright, 42, was shot and killed without provocation in the line of duty Wednesday, making four law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty this year. Three men have been accused of killing Wright and they should be punished if found guilty, but this does not restore life.

The situation is getting serious when State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn says "I'm not an advocate of harsh judgment, but something just has to be done." He considers quick and firm court action needs to be taken against persons who assault officers.

Highway Patrol Commander Col. Edwin Guy said he believes the whole criminal justice system, from the courts to probation, has got to be improved. He also thinks it was a mistake to end capital punishment.

Dunn says killings of policemen are soaring nationally and assaults against policemen are increasing both in the state and the nation. A record is being kept from January of this year as to the assaults the troopers receive. Through August, 99 were assaulted and 50 received personal injury.

Killing is certainly evident and so brutal. Take the couple killed from Raleigh, Miss Patricia Grimes and Peter Pseud Williams whose bodies were found about 2:30 Saturday.

Yes, life is too cheap, or rather those who take it must consider it so, and something must be done. For the punishment, when guilty, must think twice before he takes a life, especially if the person has done nothing to warrant killing and all the officer wants is a checkup.

Harvard U. Management Plan

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Universities seldom have won honors for financial acumen or administrative know-how, despite their other intellectual qualities.

They have done a certain amount of long-range planning, says Stephen Hall, vice president of Harvard, but "in general, they haven't been too intelligent about how they used their money."

When Hall was hired to handle a $40-million administrative budget early last year he found his 10 departments using "municipal accounting," or spending against a set sum and hoping to have something left.

His inheritance, Hall said, was an elaborate system for keeping track of costs, of accounting for money already spent, but with less emphasis on plotting the most effective use of the money in achieving university goals.

"Only one department broke down its budget on a monthly basis," said Hall, a former director of operations support at ITT-Sheraton. Without such a breakdown, progress couldn't be monitored or corrections begun.

Hall now claims that these same department heads have become so financially aware and proficient that, as a team, "they could go into many a large corporation and effect a 100 per cent improvement."

Moreover, he added, Harvard would like to share its knowledge with other universities. "We'll all come out better off if we do. We're all in the same business."

The Harvard administrative plan began to take shape with weekly staff meetings of Hall and the administrators, whose responsibilities ranged from the university press to food services to buildings and grounds, and so on.

From these meetings — strictly limited to one early morning hour because "staff meetings fail if they are strung out" — Hall and the administrators began working out a written management plan made up of seven basic elements.

The first of these in the current management plan, the mission, is always stated in one sentence. This, Hall feels, forces each administrator to define sharply the contribution his department should make to the university. Next, each administrator lists the scope of his job, the parameters of his responsibility, and lists also the amount that should be required to maintain that scope. Assumptions underlying the budget also are listed.

In food services, for example, G. Graham Hurlburt assumes, among other things, "that the cost of raw food will increase 7 per cent."

The next element is called "future impact," and it includes all those contingencies that might impact the plan. In this category, Hurlburt lists "union negotiations-spring 1973. Pressure will be on the side of higher wages..."

Following that, objectives are listed, both for the immediate year and for the next five. "To effectively integrate the combined work forces of Harvard and Radcliffe," is one near-term objective.

There follows a summation, in which the administrator verbalizes his concerns and hopes. The final section includes the usual charts, "but now they are tied into a system that makes

NEW YORK (AP) — The man I feel sorriest for in America is the man who doesn't like his job or enjoy his work.

Of course, all of us at times complain about the ordeal by which we earn our daily bread. We may dislike the hours we work or find the man at the next desk or machine a dull nonentity, the girls in the office too homely, the straw boss an anachronistic Neanderthal, or become annoyed because the office cafeteria serves too few meatballs with the spaghetti.

But, on the whole, most of us are reasonably content with the work we do and wish only that it would pay better.

It must be horribly galling to the soul, however, actually to hate your work and feel you are wasting your life in it. The feeling must be akin to that of a wild animal when its foot gets caught in a trap from which it realizes it cannot escape.

A man who hates his job is almost as bad off as a man who hates his wife.

As other pastures look greener to us, so do other jobs look more attractive at times. But there can be solace to us, too, in the realization that other jobs could be worse than the one we have, whatever its faults.

Name a few? All right, why not? Think how much happier you are at your present job than you would be if you were — the Rejection of the President for financial help has been quietly rejected.

That decision was made by committee chairman Clark MacGregor, his predecessor John Mitchell (still a superpower without portfolio in the Nixon campaign; and Maurice Stans, the committee's chief fund-raiser.

Instead, MacGregor now has gained White House approval for a series of relatively minor assists to Congressional candidates. Thus, the President's "surrogates" — cabinet members assigned to speak for him around the country — will be channelled into states where Republican Senate candidates might win with a little outside help. So will the direct-mail campaign and Nixon-Agnew storefronts.

That's a pittance, but it may mark the outer edge of Presidential help for beleaguered Republicans.

Mr. Nixon uses biblical language to describe his reluctance to jump into the slippery snakepit of the Congressional campaign. "The laying on of hands" by the President to elect a Republican Congress, he says, is not in his 1972 scenario.

Accordingly, when his campaign begins in earnest he plans only low-decibel appeals for Republican Congressional and gubernatorial candidates. Eschewing the kind of bitterly partisan campaign of 1970, Mr. Nixon will try to cling to the high road, bestowing routine words of praise on Republican candidates who will share the rostrum with him but avoiding "the laying on of hands."

Sargent Shriver appeared on the screen. "And I want to tell you, my fellow Americans, I am sick and tired of going into a supermarket and paying 37 cents for a quart of milk so the dairy interests can fatten the Republican Campaign Chest."
"WHEN WAS THE LAST TIME YOU WENT TO A SUPERMARKET, SARGE?" Strybaum shouted. "WHEN WAS THE LAST TIME ANY KENNEDY WAS IN A SUPERMARKET?"
"It's hopeless," Ada said to me. "He's determined not to let anyone get away with anything while he's watching TV."
"Strybaum," I asked, "what good does it do to yell at your set? They can't hear you."
"They may not hear me. But if everyone in this country yells at his set at the same time, they'll hear us," he replied. "Besides, it makes me feel good. Why don't you try it?"
To placate him I said I would. John Mitchell came on the screen and said, "I know nothing about the Watergate bugging case and I had nothing to do with it."
"YOU'RE LYING, JOHN!" I yelled. "AND MARTHA KNOWS IT, TOO!"
I felt terrible.

Although the real reason is to protect his own huge lead, White House strategists defend the decision with other arguments. Thus, they say, the value of Mr. Nixon's coattails is questionable. Moreover, by campaigning as President Nixon, not as partisan leader of his party, the effect of his coattails may be maximized simply by pulling in the largest possible pro-Nixon vote.

Presidential aides talk glowingly of a new "respect" for the President, based largely on his foreign policy, that could dissipate if he gets into a bare-knuckle struggle against the Democrats.
That's the self-serving mood Dole, Dominick, Wilson and Co. will try to change, with only small hope of success.

fresh energy and idealism in government affairs, he said. The questions of capability and maturity, he added, are not related to chronological age.
"I know persons 18 to 21 who have the qualities to serve. I know others who are older, yet do not," Barringer explained.

"I have faith in the electorate to decide whether a candidate is qualified for the office he is seeking, regardless of his age. No one is going to be able to get elected just as a youth representative. A candidate will have to be able to appeal to all age groups to get elected, and that fact won't be changed."
The significant issue, as he sees it, is whether young people are to have a chance for participation in decision-making. That chance would be abridged, he said, if the legal age is fixed at 18 for voting and other responsibilities of citizenship while the right to run for office is reserved for a later age.

Well-Orchestrated Meeting With POWs In Hanoi

(Editors Note: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett has just returned from a visit to Hanoi, his first trip to the North Vietnamese capital after eight years of reporting from the battle and political fronts of South Vietnam. In the following story he recounts a dramatic, unexpected meeting with seven American prisoners of war only minutes before he enplaned to leave Hanoi.)

The Prisoners Rjt. Two Takes
By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
Seven men. All dressed in simple blue denim prison garb. All crewcut. All American. And they had something else in common: a powerful desire to come home.

I could reach out across the table and touch their hands. Yet the gulf between us was immeasurable. I was a free man, about to board a plane within the hour and wing back to the United States.

Not these men. One of them, Navy Cmdr. Eugene Wilbur, from Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., had sat across that table a dozen times in the past four and one half years, watching faces of free men flit by as he waited for his turn.

Wilbur and the six others were all U.S. pilots shot down over North Vietnam and held in prisoner of war camps. I was with a delegation of four American antiwar activists in Hanoi to escort home three pilots released by the North Vietnamese.

At the last moment of our ten-day visit we were summoned to a Government building in downtown Hanoi. We were ushered into a long room and saw tables crowded with beer bottles and glasses.

A few seconds later they came in, seven men with hands outstretched and faces beaming. They were more eager to see us than any other men I had ever met. Two North Vietnamese officials sat in the room with us. Reporters and television cameras flooded in for the first five minutes. The affair was obviously carefully orchestrated by the North Vietnamese, the pilots handpicked for the meeting.

But only a master impresario could have created the spontaneous burst of feeling that had the pilots in bear hugs with their American visitors.

It is known that most of the approximately 400 U.S. pilots officially reported held in North Vietnamese prison camps don't wish to meet with visiting journalists and U.S. antiwar activists. Apparently they are fearful of being labeled as collaborators.

The Pentagon, however, says it will not hold pilots responsible for statements made while in prison. And watching these seven men animatedly discussing their letters, and families, and prison life, I felt it would take a hardened heart indeed to condemn them for coming that day.

The antiwar statements the seven made apparently were part of the scenario of the meetings, the price of admission. Some of the 12 American pilots released by the North Vietnamese over the years reversed their anti-war statements after they returned to America. Others didn't.

The antiwar rhetoric came thick and fast. Wilbur has met with other visiting groups and he repeated what he had said then.

"Tell my wife and family you have seen me. Tell her to use every facility to help you and the antiwar movement," he said. "Tell her I am working at this end."

Lt. Peter Callahan, from Belmore, New York, said, "I don't know how you can talk with my wife without giving her mental anguish in choosing between the peace movement and the government. If there is ever a group of men duped by the government, then here we sit."

Then there were the personal asides. Callahan said he was shot down on June 21 this year, and at the time his wife was nine months pregnant. She has made no reference to it in her letters. "Am I a father or aren't I?" he wanted to know.

Lt. Donald Karl Logan of Northridge, Calif., said, "Tell my wife to stop typing her name at the end of her letters. Tell her to write it out so I know it's her."

"Say hi to Patty for me," said bachelor Air Force Lt. Greg Hanson, from Thousand Oaks, Calif., in a personal message.

"Just don't play games with the packages," said Lt. Richard Fulton, from Mesa, Ariz., when told by the visitors of North Vietnamese charges that spying devices were being sent into the camps from America.

Capt. David Hoffman, from San Diego, Calif., mentioned the names of several other POWs and said, "Those people have not received any mail from their families since the day they were shot down."

And all the men bemoaned the continued air war against the north.

"I think we are in more danger from our own aircraft dropping bombs than we are from the North Vietnamese," said Hoffman.

The conversation flowed on. The beer glasses clinked and you could almost forget that these men were prisoners and you were free. But not for long.

One of the North Vietnamese officials stood up and announced to the visitors, "You have a plane to catch," and the talk was over. The pilots sucked at the dregs of their beer glasses.

Man has been making glass for at least 5,000 years.

Callahan crushed my hand as he went out. "Get us out of here, will you?" he said, and then they were all gone, swallowed up in Hanoi City somewhere.

Maybe a whim of the North Vietnamese will pluck some of these men to freedom, like the three pilots who came back with us from Hanoi last week.

For the others, the wait will continue. Some Americans in North Vietnam have already been prisoners of war longer than any other servicemen in American history.

UN Week Observance Scheduled For Pitt

For a dozen years the coming of October in Greenville has brought to the fore attention on the world's only sustained universal government, the United Nations.

Again this year United Nations Week in Greenville will be headed by Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, who has served as chairman and organizer of UN observances for 12 consecutive years.

"I'm very happy you can again head this worthwhile event," Mayor S. Eugene West told Mrs. Humber at City Hall Tuesday morning as he signed the proclamation designating October 24 as United Nations Day in Greenville.

In Greenville emphasis traditionally has been on observing the UN's birthday, October 24, not only with one official day of recognition, but in activities that range over the period of a week.

This year marks the 27th anniversary that the world-wide forum of nations has worked on efforts to find solutions to many universal problems.

In Mayor West's proclamation, he states "the ultimate success of the United Nations depends upon the support of an informed public which recognizes the achievements and benefits derived from our national participation in the United Nations and which understands both the problems and potential of the United Nations."

Saying that "the highest ideals and aspirations of this country are closely allied to the hopes and aims of people everywhere," Mayor West calls on citizens of the community "to observe that day in the spirit of common purpose expressed in the United Nations Charter."

foreign nations. This will be held on Friday at 7:00 p.m. at the Greenville's Woman Club, with members contributing dishes for the dinner. Mrs. W.E. Roseveare is in charge of this affair.

A fund raising Dessert Social is scheduled for Monday.

October 16 at the Greenville Art Center, 802 South Evans Street, beginning at 7:00 p.m. Sponsored by the Greenville Chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), proceeds from the sale of desserts will go to the UNICEF (children's fund).

Plans are to have a varied selection of foreign desserts prepared by Greenville housewives based on authentic recipes. The Collegium Museum of East Carolina University will be on hand to perform.

Other events at later dates will include the appearances of Dr. Malene Irons and her twin sister, Dr. Isa Grant, on "Carolina Today," at a date to be announced later.

Other traditional observances in Greenville will include the flying of the United Nations flag beginning on Saturday, October 21 and continuing through the following week. The Pitt County Home Demonstration Women organization will select representatives from a local youth group or organization to perform the flag raising and later the flag lowering ceremony.

Mrs. Humber stated that she will be asking officials of city schools and ministers of local churches to consider highlighting the United Nations theme in school programs and church services.

"I would be grateful if any of the civic clubs decide to incorporate observances in their program in any way," Mrs.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH

Assembly At Engelhard

ENGELHARD — The Norfolk, Va., and Washington District Disciples of Christ in eastern North Carolina and Virginia will hold its 1972 annual assembly here.

The meetings will be held at the Mount Pilgrim Church as of Christ (Disciples of Christ) beginning Thursday and ending Sunday evening.

The 20,000 member 102 year old group of Black Disciples has approximately 65 churches in 15 N. C. counties.

From 700 to 1,000 delegates, fraternal representatives and friends are expected to attend the sessions of the assembly. Among them will be representatives of other district assemblies, regional groups and national offices of the Disciples of Christ and other groups.

The Washington and Norfolk District is headed by Chief Elder Sir Walter Raleigh Keyes Sr. D.D. The prelate presently maintains his office and residence at Rt. 1, Jamesville.

Topped $90 At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Prices continued steady Tuesday on the Farmville tobacco market as the average once again topped the $90 per hundred pounds mark.

Louis Williams, sales supervisor, reported that top price paid per pound Tuesday was $1.02. Quality cutters and leaf grades accounted for most of the top quotes, he said.

The quality grades of lugs also continued to bring unusually high prices for this late in the season, Williams reported, while offerings of leaf grades declined. Volume of smoking leaf and cutters increased, he said, and non-descript and priming grades accounted for only a small percentage of total sales.

The market sold 532,505 pounds Tuesday for $483,307, averaging $90.76 per hundred pounds. To date the market has sold 13,948,507 pounds for $12,430,503, an average of $89.12 per hundred.

'Drunk Driving' On Horseback

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — A 31-year-old woman was arrested in downtown Fort Morgan on charges of drunk driving — on a horse.

Police said Elaine Greene was arrested Monday night after riding a horse through one bar and into another.

Witnesses said it took four police officers to persuade her to dismount. The policemen ended up walking her to jail when she refused to stay in the patrol car, officers said.

Committee Role Is Outlined At Meet

Principal functions of the Title I, ESEA Parental Advisory Committee were outlined Monday night at the meeting of the committee held in the board room of the City School Office on West Fifth Street.

Functions named for the group as its objectives of achievement as a working committee include those to: supply information concerning views of parents and children about unmet educational needs in Title I project areas and establishing priorities among these needs; a general plan for concentration of funds in specific schools and grade levels; participation in the development of proposals which are particularly adapted to bridging the gap between needs of pupils and the curriculum of the school; and hearing complaints about the program and making recommendations for its improvements.

At Monday night's meeting, four elementary schools, the kindergarten and Rose High were represented by parents. Persons representing the schools were: Mrs. Violet Wooten, Sadie Sauter; Mrs. Fern Mercer, Third Street; Mrs. Lester Moye, Elmhurst; Mrs. Augusta Parks, South Greenville; Mrs. Georgia Littleton, Agnes Fullilove; and Purvis Cohens, Rose High School.

Members of the Greenville City Schools staff and Title I program discussions were: Mrs. Shirley Peel, guidance counselor; F. R. Sanders, media coordinator; Mrs. Linda Kibler, school nurse; Mrs. David Barnhill, and Mrs. Joyce Smith, both homeschool coordinators, and Charles Dickens, Director of the Title I, ESEA program for the Greenville City Schools.

CHARLES ROSS

'Optimist Of The Year' Award To Charles Ross

Charles Ross received the "Optimist of the Year" plaque at the installation banquet on the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville held Saturday night.

Jack Weeden presented the bronze plaque to Ross in addition to presenting plaques to Jack Thornton, secretary, and C. P. Shaw, treasurer. Jim O'Brien received an Optimist ring for his work with the club sponsored Little League Baseball team.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was O'Brien, who also recognized guests including Lt. Governor of Zone 20 Leon Carlisle and Mrs. Carlisle of Rocky Mount, and Lt. Governor-Elect of Zone 20 Max Stephenson and Mrs. Stephenson of Greenville.

Officers installed by Stephenson included: Shaw, president; Jim Harris, internal vice president; Lyman Daughtrey, external vice president; Thornton, secretary; Gene Piner, treasurer; and John Trotman, sergeant-at-arms.

In giving the president's report, Ross recognized each committee chairman and the accomplishments of each were highlighted. Ross was given a past president's pin and in turn presented Shaw with a president's pin.

The following were recognized:

for sponsoring new members: Piner; Harris; Jim Hodge; Carl Knott; Gene Ward; Ross; and O'Brien.

Guests, including wives of the Optimist members, were welcomed by Ross. Following the presentation of the president's pin, Shaw gave the challenge for the new year.

Members recognized by Weeden as having perfect attendance included: Nick Simonowich; Trotman; Wade Trask; Thornton; Daughtrey; Ross; Carl Knott; Ed Dixon; Bob Stewart; Stephenson; Roy Rumbley; O'Brien; Shaw; Billy Ross; Ward; and Pete Carraway.

Brush Burning Law In Effect

County Ranger Ben Hardison advised that the Brush Burning Permit Law which regulates the starting of fires within 500 feet of areas under protection of the State Forest Service, is now in effect in Pitt.

Hardison reported that the law stipulates that it is unlawful for a person to start such a fire during the hours starting at midnight and ending at 4 p.m. without first obtaining a permit. Time covered by the regulation is between the first day of October and the first day of June.

The ranger said that the permits are available at no charge from an authorized agent.

Agents in the area include B. T. Manning, Grimesland; J. W. Crawley, Ayden; Gardner & Travis, Chicod School; William House, Stokes; Ronald Stocks, Hams Cross Road; Porter Supply, Simpson; W. C. Spencer, Black Jack; Mrs. Linwood Haddock, Haddock Cross Road; H. E. Gray, Bell Fork; Cecil Worthington, Winterville; County Jail, Greenville; Earnest Wooten, Falkland; McAlvin Turner, Belvoir; Raymond Webb, Bell Arthur; Roebuck & Parker, Stokes; Sam Alexander, Bethel; Murphy Brothers, Grifton; Major James, Bethel; and Curtis Witherington, Epworth (Craven).

Hardison said that persons having questions should contact him at his headquarters in Greenville or call 756-0414.

Martin Bd. Has Brief Session

WILLIAMSTON — In what was the briefest session in a number of years, the Martin County Commissioners at the October meeting on Monday had only one item of business to consider.

Approved by commissioners was the establishment of the Mid-East Commission of Minority Membership, a new commission that will deal with minority group problems. Named as head of the commission is Dr. E. M. Hunt. Members appointed to the commission are Haywood Harris, Mrs. Doris Wallace, Earl Newsome, William A. Cherry, Paul Barber, J. A. Everett, Mrs. Christine Farrier, Jack A. Runyon and Fred Taylor.

Nonpublic School Tax Credits Clear Hurdle

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to give parents of an estimated 5.1 million children in parochial and other nonpublic schools tax credits against their tuition has cleared its first congressional hurdle. But the measure may be lost in the legislative pile-up as Congress pushes for adjournment.

The House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday approved the measure that would allow parents to deduct from their income tax up to $300 in tuition paid for each child in a nonpublic elementary or secondary school, but not in kindergarten or college. For families with income above $18,000, the credit would be scaled down.

The credit would be a straight offset against income tax paid, not a deduction from taxable income.

The tax credit has been a major objective of Roman Catholic bishops and some spokesmen for other private schools. Both President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic candidate, have endorsed the principle.

However, there is strong opposition from civil-liberties and other groups which contend the credit would be an indirect provision of public funds for religious purposes and therefore would violate the Constitution.

The committee is to take one more vote on the measure when the language is perfected, but is not expected to change it substantially. The panel included a number of provisions relating to the constitutional question:

—No cash payments would be provided for families whose income is so low that they owe little or no income tax.

—The measure provides for a quick court test.

—The tuition would have to be paid to a tax-exempt school, which would cover parochial and many nonprofit private schools. But spokesmen said it would exclude private academies set up to avoid racial integration in public schools, since these have not been accorded tax exemption.

—The credit would be limited to 50 per cent of tuition, on the theory that this would cover the secular, but not the religious, component of education provided.

Sponsors said they intend to expedite handling of the bill but acknowledged that the outlook is doubtful if Congress adjourns next week, as leaders plan.

Scott Proclaims Alpha Phi Week

Four young East Carolina University sorority members, their district governor, house mother and a representative local alumni were in Raleigh this morning to receive a proclamation from Governor Bob Scott.

In a ceremony at 11:15, the governor signed a proclamation designating the week of October 8 through October 14 as Alpha Phi Sorority Week in North Carolina.

Brenda Sanders, native of Youngsville, N.C. and president of the ECU Chapter of Alpha Phi International Social Sorority, said "the proclamation is in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Alpha Phi. The sorority dates from October 12, 1872."

Brenda noted: "It is not the oldest sorority, but is one of the oldest ones in the U.S."

In addition to the chapter president, three sorority members will be making the trip to Raleigh. These are Sandy Penfield and Marsha Wray, both of Greensboro; and Chris Tharrington of Petersburg, Virginia.

The district governor of the local chapter, Mrs. Gay Blocker of Ayden, who is also a faculty member of the Physical Education Department; Mrs. Margaret Everett of Greenville, the house mother for the sorority and an alumni and Mrs. Thomas Scoopmire of Greenville, a representative local alumni, are the three who will be accompanying the four students.

"ECU is the only university in North Carolina to have an Alpha Phi chapter," Brenda remarked. "However, there are approximately 100 chapters of the sorority in the U.S. and Canada."

"The proclamation," she continued, "is also in recognition of the services by the sorority to the annual Heart Fund collection. This is our adopted national philanthropic project, and we have raised over one million dollars for the Heart Fund."

The local chapter president added that "in addition to this national project, we work with a number of local projects as well."

The ECU Chapter of Alpha Phi was established on campus here in 1960.

Pollsters Say Ohio For Nixon

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio polling firm predicts in a survey conducted for the Dayton Daily News that President Nixon will carry Ohio with 54 per cent of the vote.

Statewide Opinion Research said Tuesday its prediction is based on interviews with 400 Ohio voters.

The copyright poll gave Sen. George McGovern 31 per cent, with 1 per cent for other candidates and 14 per cent undecided. Statewide Opinion's percentages in previous presidential campaigns have averaged less than 1.3 per cent error.

SENATE SWORN IN

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodia's first Senate under a republican constitution was sworn in today in a ceremony presided over by the President Marshal Lon Nol, and attended by members of the government and diplomatic corps.

More Killed By Assassins

BELFAST (AP) — Assassins killed two more men early today after a 100-pound bomb blasted two Roman Catholic taverns, wounding 30 persons, two seriously.

The body of one of the men was found in an alley in the Lower Falls district of Belfast, Catholic zone where the bar bombings occurred.

Police said the man, aged about 25 and believed to be a Catholic, had been beaten and shot in the head.

The other body was found lying in Protestant east Belfast. The body was hooded and police said the man also had been shot in the head.

The slayings raised Northern Ireland's death toll from three years of violence 592 — at least 75 of them victims of sectarian assassinations squads in the last three months.

The bombing was blamed on Protestant extremists out for vengeance against Irish Republican Army supporters. But some security sources speculated it may have been another IRA bomb that exploded prematurely.

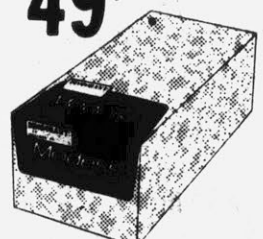

The bomb exploded late Tuesday night just as the bars were crowded with persons buying a last drink before closing. The bomb apparently was planted in a car parked outside the bars, which were only yards apart.

Earlier Tuesday guerrillas used the biggest bomb ever exploded in Ulster to attack a nearly completed police station in Londonderry, the province's second city.

Ohio Presidential Race Recalls Ancient Fable

By LEE LEONARD
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The presidential race in Ohio resembles a modern version of "The Hare and the Tortoise."

In the polls, President Nixon has run away from Sen. George S. McGovern. But he dares not stop and fall asleep. McGovern's Ohio organization is sure a brand new race is just ahead.

"If our people stay home," agreed James A. Duerk, a public relations man for the Ohio Republicans, "they could be surprised."

While independent polls show Nixon maintaining most of the 30-point bulge he held in Ohio last month, McGovern forces are certain the gap has narrowed and will continue to do so.

"We're feeling better than we have in a month," said Richard Sklar, Ohio campaign director for McGovern. "Our own poll shows we're about 10 points behind in Ohio, and the average spread for all the other states is 12 points."

"We've come halfway up in the Harris Poll, and we'll close the gap in October," Sklar continued. "We've got a shot at the thing." Predicts Big Nixon Win

The GOP wants to give the impression a close race is in prospect, but Nixon workers don't really believe it.

"We think we've got a shot at a 15 per cent improvement over 1968," said Charles Ross, director of the Ohio Committee to Re-Elect the President.

That would give Nixon close to 60 per cent of the popular vote in Ohio.

"I think he (McGovern) has got bad strategy in even worrying about Ohio," Ross said. "He's devoting 10 or 15 per cent of his time and money to Ohio, but he'd be better off spending it in Michigan or Pennsylvania, or New York or California where he's got a chance. He's not going to win Ohio."

McGovern and his running-mate, Sargent Shriver, have been in Ohio about once a week, stumping for votes and trying to make points with a stubborn Ohio AFL-CIO.

McGovern Says He Needs Ohio

The Democratic nominee himself underscored the Buckeye State's importance in a Cleveland interview a week ago, conceding he might as well forget about being president if he can't win here.

The McGovern camp is attempting to "persuade traditional Democrats that McGovern stands for the same things every Democrat has since Franklin Roosevelt," according to Sklar.

They hope to work from the base established by Howard M. Metzbaum.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when neither your ideas nor judgment are very good. You would be wise to await a more favorable day to put into effect any new plan of action. Make sure you carry through with whatever you have begun in a poised and patient manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You could be too critical of others now, which they would resent, so refrain from so doing. You are well aware of the ambitions of others, but do nothing right now to assist.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you are in the mood for a good time, this is not the right moment, so postpone recreations which could bring adverse result. Improve your appearance. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Many annoying situations can arise today, but take them in your stride, particularly at home. Make your abode more comfortable. Don't lose your temper under any circumstances.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being careful in anything you do or say today could save you money. Don't criticize others too harshly or you may lose valuable allies. Make sure you speak clearly and well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you may be financially lacking, you can launch economy measures that will quickly build a new fund for you. Do some repair work that is valuable. Don't wait until tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to get into new activities, but it behooves you to study them well first. Your appearance needs improvement, so do something about that. Don't lose your temper tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A situation could be annoying to you, but if you persevere it will be out of the way before you know it. Study well new activities before you put them in operation. Relax tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Getting into arguments with good friends would be most unfortunate and could sever valuable relationships. Social fun is fine provided you control your temper and don't criticize.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Reinforce yourself so that you don't take any risks where your fine reputation is concerned. The public in general can be difficult now, so obey all laws that apply to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show others that you are a most polite person and keep out of trouble, as well as have better rapport with others. Travel plans should be acted upon at a later date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you want to renege on promises you have made, be sure you carry through with the important ones. Mate is not in a good mood. Treat with kid gloves and all is fine.

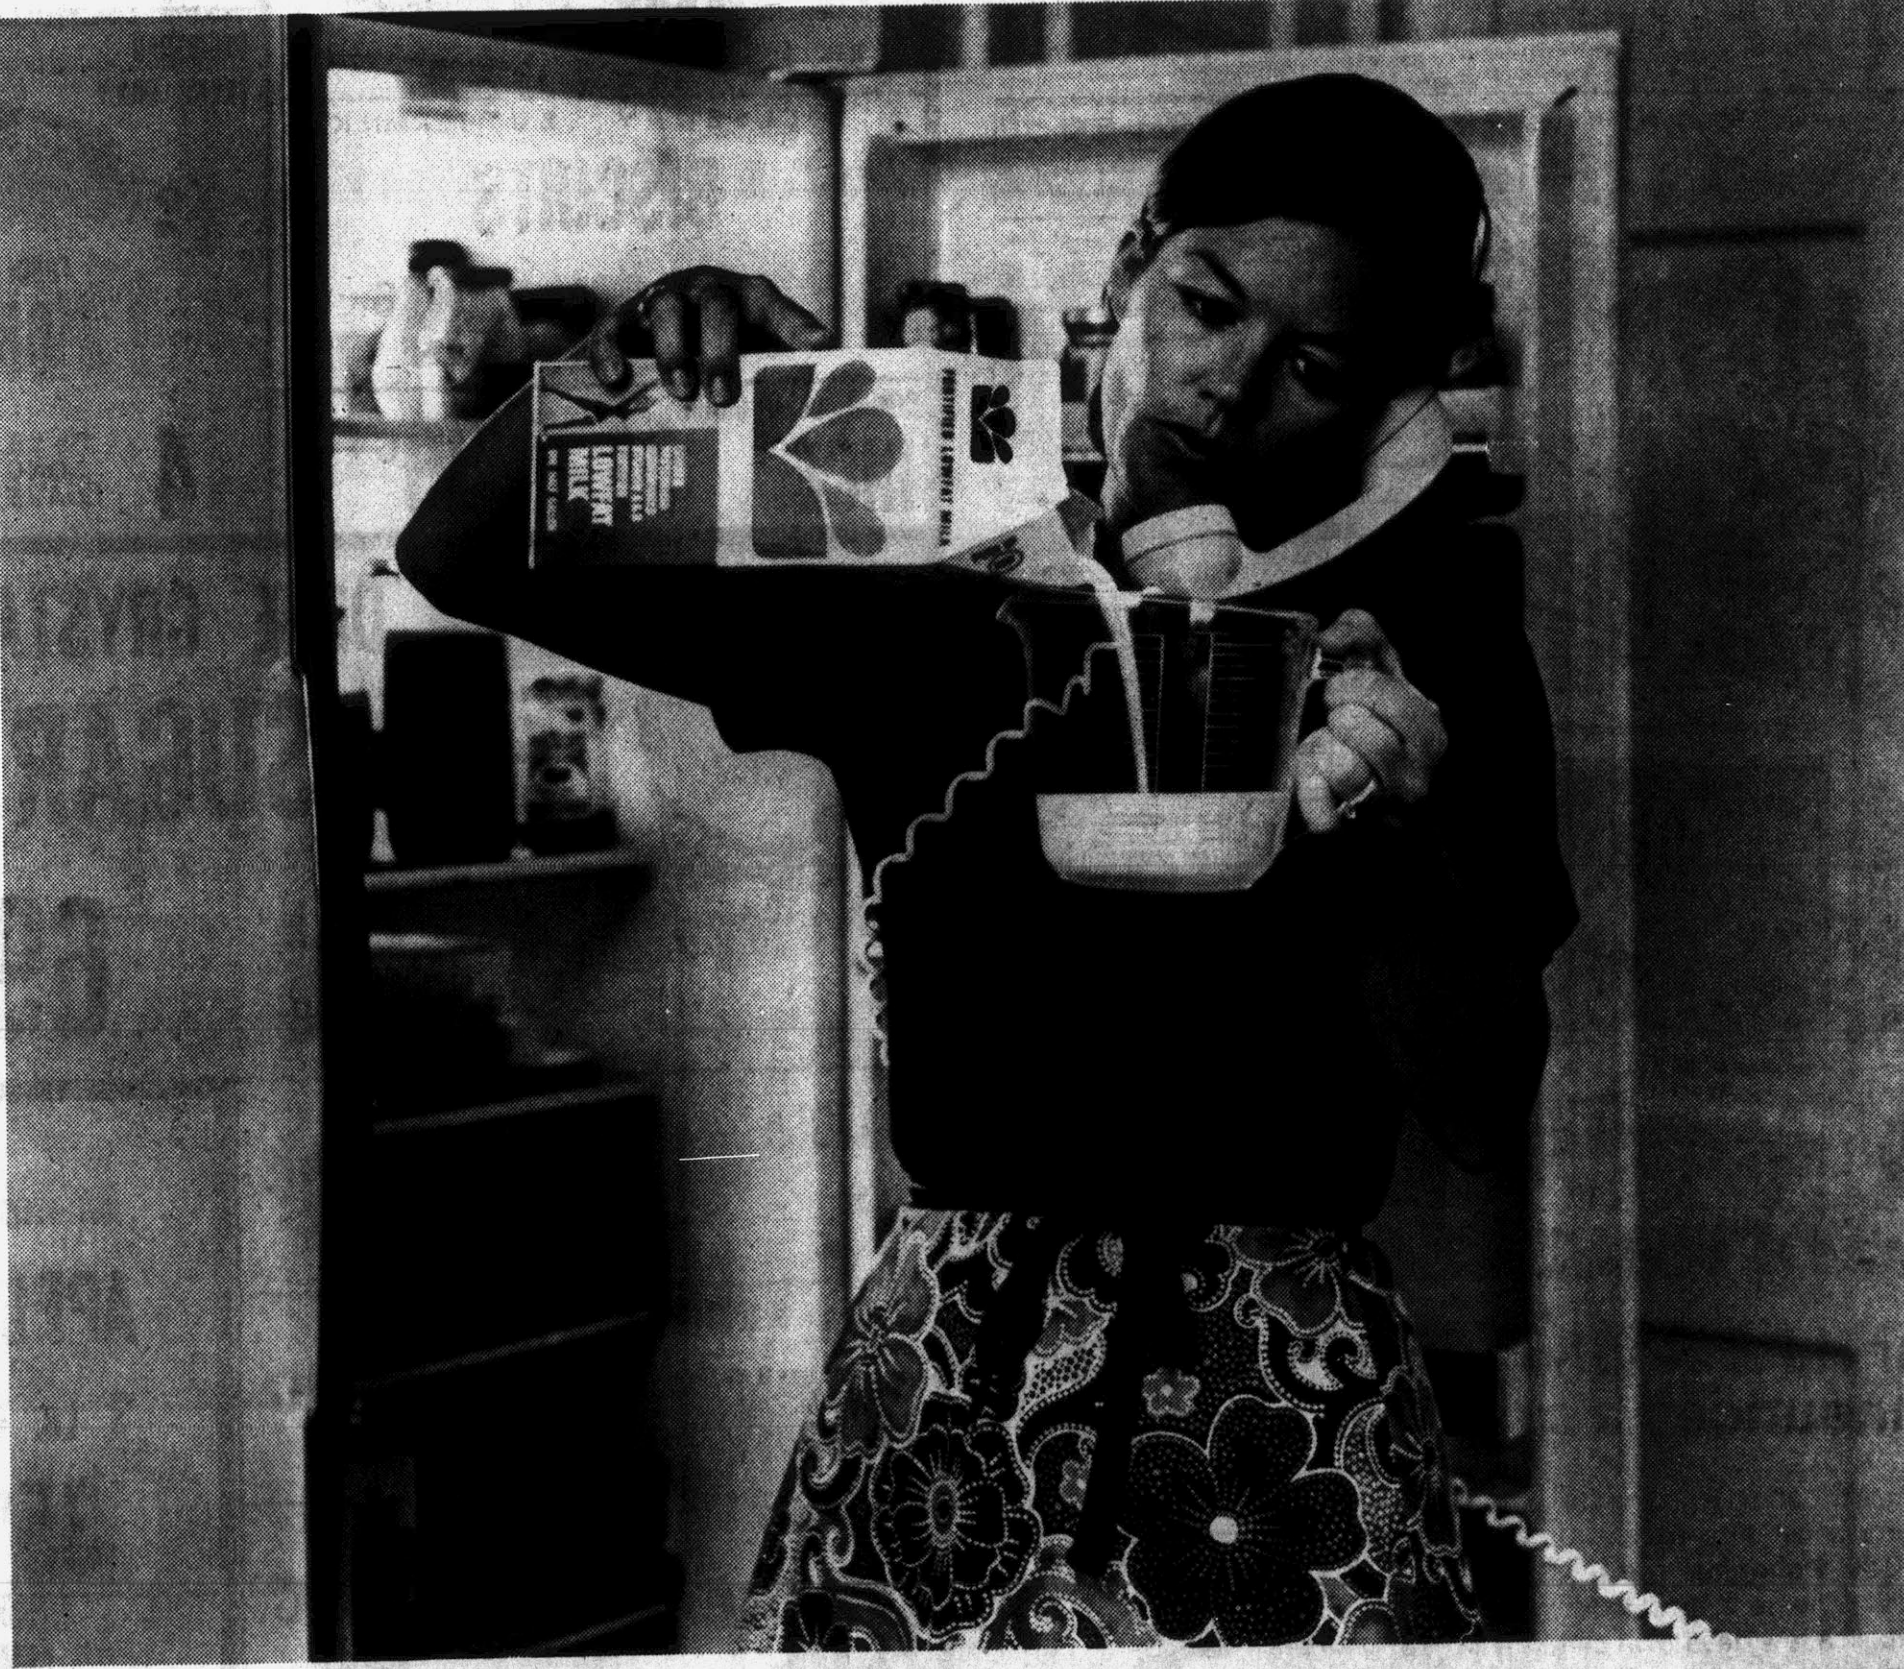

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you criticize an associate seriously, this will lead to trouble and do nobody any good, especially you. A real change of attitude is necessary. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those young people who could develop a martyr complex. Teach to realize that everyone's life is a challenge to the ability, and you find that your progeny then changes, thus becoming a most worthwhile and successful citizen. Trouble-shooting professions are fine. A connection with the government would be ideal.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

You'll be on your way to a slimmer figure in more ways than one. Because it's not the economical electricity you use that gets your bill out of shape; it's the electricity you waste. That refrigerator door you held open again. Those full loads of hot hot water for a dishwasher that's only half full. The front porch light that's been on since you came home from the movies last night.

Tips to help you reduce wastes like these—and get the most for your electric dollar—are what our new money-saving booklet is all about. It's called "How to Save on Your Electric Bill," it's available free at any Vepco office—and it's full of simple money-saving suggestions for every room in the house.

Today's electricity is more convenient than ever, but we want you to enjoy the economy, too. So we hope you'll make it a point to stop by or call for your copy of "How to Save on Your Electric Bill" soon. It's the answer to a waste-watcher's prayer.

Mildew On Tile Can Be Beaten

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI)—To combat mildew which has discolored grouting in shower tile, make a thick paste of household bleach and baking soda.
The paste should be about the consistency of tooth paste, advises the Middlesex County Extension Service, and should be applied with a tooth brush. After scrubbing the area, rinse with clean water and wipe dry.
For further information and a booklet on how to prevent and remove mildew, write the Home Economics Department, Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Mass. 01742.

Gunmen Are Back On The Haiti Scene

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti's "bogyman army," the Ton Ton Macoutes, are back.

The sunglasses-wearing gunmen, who disappeared from the Port-au-Prince street corners and village squares after the death of President Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier a year ago, have sprung up again under the rule of Duvalier's 21-year-old son, Jean-Claude, the world's youngest president.

What it means, foreign diplomats here say, is yet another power struggle in this 168-year-old republic whose history of power struggles is second only to its struggles against poverty. With a per capita income of around $70 a year, Haiti's five million people rank as the poorest in the Western Hemisphere.

"In the eyes of the Haitian people, who still venerate the late president, Jean-Claude is the president. But the facts demonstrate otherwise," said a Central American diplomat who, like other diplomats here, chose not to have his name used. With the press under government control and no opposition politics of any kind permitted, anonymous diplomats became a principal information source.

The consensus in that corps is that the real power lies in the hands of 40-year-old millionaire Luckner Cambonne, who as minister of defense, police, and interior and special guardian of the borders of Haiti, heads all the government agencies that have any fire power.

Cambonne, the diplomats say, seems to have totally entrenched himself as a result of Jean-Claude's exiling this year of his 29-year-old sister, Marie-Denise, who was considered the only other person in the nation with significant influence on "Baby Doc," as the president is sometimes called by his detractors.

Marie-Denise, now living in Mexican exile, originally joined her husband, Max Dominique, in a two-year exile in Spain in 1967 and 1968. This was after Dominique, a captain of the palace guard, was implicated in one of many plots to overthrow the president. Despite the fact that Dominique was his son-in-law, the elder Duvalier condemned him to death in absentia, but later lifted the sentence and let him return, reportedly because the president found Marie-Denise the most capable and useful of his four children.

There have been reports that more than 200 persons have been arrested in the last few weeks, and that a number of these have been assassinated. But there is no way to confirm this.

Reports of arrests and secret murders are always in the air in Haiti when the Ton Ton Macoutes (the word means "bogyman" in Creole) are visible.

During the heyday of this private, casually clad army of Papa Doc, in the early 1960s, there were said to be as many as 25,000 Ton Ton Macoutes carrying on their private and often bloody vendettas while protecting their sponsor. It was always believed that Duvalier used this unofficial armed force to balance the power of the official army, numbering about 5,500, so that neither could ever get strong enough to overthrow him.

After 1967, the power of the Ton Ton Macoutes began to decline and the worst of the terror appeared to be over although men carrying rifles or with gun-bulged pockets remained a common sight in the capital and the country.

Shortly after Jean-Claude was proclaimed president-for-life, on April 22, 1971, he announced that he had dissolved the Ton Ton Macoutes and was replacing them with a group to be called The Leopards, which would be a small, professional corps of presidential guards.

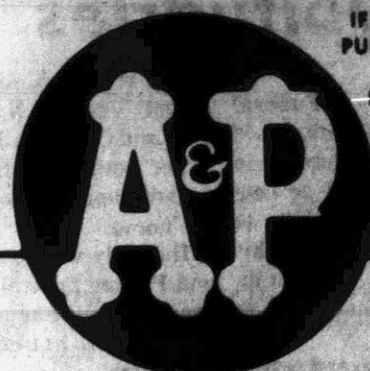

But in recent weeks, those men with the guns have turned up again, and whatever the president calls them, the Haitian people call them the Ton Ton Macoutes.

Diplomats feel that Cambonne is more certain of the loyalty of the informal police than of the army. It is said in Haiti that every army officer, given enough power, represents a potential coup d'etat. And this doesn't apply only to the army. Two years ago, the Haitian coast guard, which consisted of three derelict ships and 119 men, shelled the gleaming white national palace where Duvalier in his later years became a near-recluse, and then fled for neighboring Puerto Rico.

Farmville Sees New Street Version

By CAROL TYER
 Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Town engineer Jack McDavid last night showed Farmville Commissioners drawings of a widened version of the 100 block of North Main Street here, with parallel parking on one side and

45-degree parking on the other. Sidewalks, now as wide as 13 feet at some points, would be narrowed four feet on each side and would be cleared of all wires, signs, and other obstacles. Wires would go underground and signs would be hung above the street.

McDavid said he would have drawings of other blocks in the downtown area soon and the Commissioners agreed to begin investigating ways funds could be made available for such a downtown improvement project.

Bobby Gene Williams who has recently built a house on Williams Street extended, appeared asking that paving beyond Thorne Street, which intersects Williams, be considered along with a proposed project to pave Williams from Acton Place to Thorne Street. He was told that land beyond the Thorne-Williams Streets intersection is privately owned and the town may have trouble getting it dedicated. Commissioners promised to have the matter investigated.

A resolution to pave Williams Street from Acton Place to Thorne was adopted, as there was no opposition at a public hearing. A public hearing on the closing of an alley on a block on the west side of South Main Street where Lee's Warehouse once stood brought no opposition and the request was granted.

It was resolved to pave Hines Street from Main Street to George Street and Davis Street easterly to Crestwood, also.

The Commissioners agreed to make regular parking places of a former bus stop area in front of the Corbett washerette and the Ellis shoe repair shop on South Main Street.

It was agreed that funds could be transferred as needed for the completion of the Farmville Rescue Squad building. The town also agreed to take responsibility for providing water and sewer service to the building being erected in the J.Y. Monk Park area.

A public hearing was set for Nov. 7 to discuss new subdivision regulations recommended by the Department of Natural and Economic Resources. One of the main provisions of these regulations is that the town will be responsible for no reimbursements on subdivision development.

A low bid of $1,496.10 from the Brooks Company of Kinston was accepted for a fence around the National Guard storage area, with the stipulation that the work be completed within 30 days. The N.C. National Guard has agreed to pay one-fourth of the cost of the project.

The Commissioners indicated they will go along with the wishes of the Rotary Club, which built the Boy Scout Hut more than 30 years ago, on renovating the Hut and would give the Club a long-term lease, if this proves agreeable with the Club. The Hut stands on town land, but has not, in the past, been maintained by the town.

The Board expressed pleasure that the Pitt County School Board has indicated its willingness to pay half the cost of paving the unnamed street behind H.B. Suggs School. The total cost has been estimated at $4,464.84.

Frederick Graham reiterated a request that a vacant lot on the corner of S. George and Williams Street be cleared by the town.

The Commissioners asked that the town attorney investigate whether the town can, according to the N.C. General Statutes, allow septic tanks in good working order to continue to be used. If so, its ordinance that every home within the city limits be connected to the town sewer system will need to be altered. Water and Light Department director J.A. "Bud" Wooten announced that a meeting will be held Oct. 10 at 2 p.m. to set a timetable for improvement of the town's waste treatment plant, in compliance with Department of Natural and Economic Resources regulations.

Grant Is Announced

A grant of $23,440 has been awarded Dr. William H. Waugh of the East Carolina University School of Medicine by the U. S. Public Health Service.

The funds were given to Dr. Waugh to support continued research of kidney function. Dr. Waugh's project deals with local control of renal peripheral vascular tone.

Previously, Dr. Waugh's research has been supported by the National Heart and Lung Institute of the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Waugh is a graduate of Tufts Medical School and the author of more than 60 publications on medical subjects. Prior to his appointment to the ECU medical faculty last year, he was professor of medicine at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine.

Heavy Agenda For Councilmen

The agenda for the October meeting of the Greenville City Council at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday night in City Hall lists three items of old business and 14 items of new business.

To be considered under old business are two public hearings—a request to rezone to shopping center the Blount-Crisp property located north of Greenville Boulevard across from Pitt Plaza; and one portion of the W.E. Dansey property on highway U.S. 264 business, for which the request is for rezoning from RA-20 to shopping center.

The third old business item is a proposed ordinance regulating the sale and handling of exotic animals in Greenville.

Under new business agenda items scheduled are: An application for a mobile home permit by D.W. Chandler, north of highway U.S. 264 at River Bluff apartments; the purchase followed in the areas of employment, maintenance of personnel files, tenure law, dismissal and hearing procedures.

Jack Edwards, assistant superintendent, reported to the board on the number of workshops planned for county teachers and the participation of county personnel.

Edwards stated that some 22 different workshops will be offered to teachers during the next few months. Some workshops will count toward certificate requirements while others will not.

So far, 58 percent of the county teachers have enrolled in the various workshops.

Board members approved the substitute teachers list and a number of full time teachers who have been hired since the August board meeting.

Board members named to serve as delegates to the State School Boards Association meeting in Asheville Nov. 2-4 are Mark Owens, Sam Nelson and Tom Patterson. Superintendent Arthur Alford will also attend the meeting.

According to the candidate, "We're making a conscious effort to give the people reason to believe us . . . and let them know they will get a fair shake under the Holshouser administration."

In the past, Holshouser said, "a lot of promises have been made by other candidates . . . and not many of them kept. We intend to keep ours."

He noted that Bowles in the past had indicated opposition additional taxes. But, Holshouser explained, Bowles has "voted for every new tax since 1966."

Only Two Tied For ECC Lead This Week

The lead is down to a two-way tie in the Eastern Carolina Conference now, but unless an upset occurs, it should stay that way over this weekend, anyway.

Ayden-Grifton and Southern Nash reign together atop the league with 4-0 conference marks and 5-0 overall records following this past week's play.

DHC's Norm Marable

A-G's Tom Craft

Southern, however, might get a test from Eastern Wayne, but without the services of the Warriors' top quarterback, Robbie Price, it is doubtful.

Price was injured during the game with Ayden-Grifton last weekend, in which the Warriors suffered their first loss. He suffered a shoulder separation, and will probably miss the remainder of the season.

A-G football coach Mike Overton expressed sorrow at Price's injury, and noted that without him, Eastern Wayne isn't the same club.

"It was another tough game for us," he said. "They have a fine football team and a potent offense when Price is in there," Overton said. "We played well and moved the ball well. It was a real hard-nosed game. Our players had the challenge and they met it well."

Overton again praised Tony Koonce for his running, as he picked up 219 yards rushing.

"Greg Nelson called a good game, and the whole defensive unit had a good night," Overton said. He also singled out Jesse Brown and Tom Craft for their defensive play.

This week, the Chargers get a relative rest when they face Charles B. Aycock, 0-4 in the league. "They run the wishbone, and they stay on the ground most of the time, I understand," Overton said. "We haven't really scouted them much yet. But we'll take a hard look at the films later this week. They haven't played too well so far, but they gave Southern Wayne a real good game, losing 14-6."

Conley, which fell to Greene Central over the weekend, travels to North Lenoir this weekend, hoping for better things. "We started out with a bang (against Greene Central)," Coach Ken Treadway said. "We scored on the first play, but after that, they tore up our pass defense and riddled us."

Treadway praised the Rams' quarterback, Lonnie Caraway, and their running back, Miles Briggs. "After they had us trying to key their passing game, they just ran over us. In the past, our mistakes have hurt us, but they just slam beat us in the ground."

The coach singled out the play of Willie Hawkins on defense and Calvin Clemons, too.

Against North Lenoir, he's looking for better things. "They have average size and are young like us. We know they have a good tailback in Danny Gray, and they run him 60 per cent of the time on sweeps. They also run counters and reverses. But they aren't fancy, just basic."

Greene Central, which was on the giving end of the game with Conley felt the team was down when the game started. "We took them too lightly," assistant coach Lewis Godwin, subbing for jury-duty bound Stewart Smith said. "They scored so quickly on us that we quickly decided we had to go to work. But it was still half time before we really got going."

Godwin praised the play of Caraway, who hit 14 of 28 passes for 185 yards, and receiver Tim Butts, who caught seven, three for scores. He also praised Miles Briggs for 131 yards rushing, and the defensive play of Stevie Williamson.

"Not being ready is also a problem this week with North Pitt," Godwin said. "We didn't get up for Southern Nash, and we lost that one. North Pitt is strong and bigger than we are. They run well of tackle and they can pass the ball too. We've got to be ready."

North Pitt comes into the game still seeking to crack the victory column. The bowed to Farmville Central over the weekend after fumbling the first three times they had the ball and then throwing an interception the next time.

"We only had the ball for six plays the first 17 minutes of the game," Danny Wilmer of North Pitt said. "You can't do that and hope to have a chance."

The Panther coach had praise for his opposing mentor. "Geue Brewer is a heck of a coach and he's brought his team a long ways. They could have scored again late in the game, but he held them off. That marks a professional to me."

Wilmer singled out Billy Perkins for his play on offense, running for just under 100 yards. "He also played well on defense too, intercepting a pass. Fred Glisson, a sophomore, also played well on the defensive unit, intercepting one too."

This week, the Panthers face tough Greene Central. "They are well-balanced, and they have a fine quarterback, a good tight end and a great running back," Wilmer said. "We will have to be on our toes. If we are and can get some breaks, I feel like we can do the job. We just need to make up our minds."

Farmville Central, which claimed its first win of the year over the Panthers, may find it a stepping stone to other wins, or at least Coach Brewer hopes so.

"We have a little higher spirits now," he admitted. But at the same time, he wasn't happy with the Jaguars' play in the win. "We've played better this year. We just played well enough to win. We might have had a let-down, figuring we'd win anyway, but North Pitt isn't that bad. They've got some good players for the amount of experience they've had."

The coach singled out Lee Johnson for his play going both ways, and Chester Ellis for his defensive play.

This week, the Jaguars face another team coming off its first win in several weeks, Southern Wayne. "They have some outstanding personnel," Brewer said, "but they've also had some problems that have kept them from winning. I just hope they haven't solved them yet."

Brewer had praise for running back Phil Platt. "He killed us last year, and he's back with some other fast backs. They should be up, coming in after winning. I just hope that we'll be up too after finally winning."

Tigers Rally To Win; Clinch Eastern Flag

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Today's most pressing baseball puzzle is, for a change, not which team will win the American League's East Division race. The Detroit Tigers have answered that month-long riddle. Now, the question is whether Tiger Stadium can survive a possible playoff victory by Detroit against Oakland.

When the Tigers clinched the mini-pennant Tuesday night, it set off a chaotic scene as the frantic fans spilled all over the field, tearing up the bases and mobbing the jubilant players.

The sea of people lasted for a good half hour with the fans ripping huge tufts of turf out of the infield and outfield and celebrating the title it was said nobody wanted to win.

Detroit finally ended the tug of war that started with four teams, dwindled to three and finally two, by beating off Boston 3-1 and old pro Al Kaline was the hero. The 20-year-veteran drove in the tie-breaking run with a seventh inning single and then scored an insurance run on Carl Yastrzemski's error.

He also raised his arms triumphantly, moments before catching the last-out fly ball that set off the rampage of the fans.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, West Division champion Oakland lost to California 3-2, Texas shut out Kansas City 3-0, Milwaukee trimmed New York 3-2, Chicago edged Minnesota 5-4 and Cleveland split a doubleheader with Baltimore, winning 6-5 before losing 4-3.

In the National League, Philadelphia ripped Chicago 11-1, New York swept a doubleheader from Montreal 5-2 and 4-3 in 12 innings, Pittsburgh dumped St. Louis 6-2, Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 6-5, Cincinnati took Houston 6-1 and San Francisco downed San Diego 7-4.

Kaline was the man most responsible for Detroit's surge to the half-pennant. His seventh inning single game the 37-year-old veteran 22 hits in his last 44 at bats.

"The older you get," he said, "the harder it is to get up for every game. But for the big ones like this, it's no problem at all."

Manager Billy Martin, hopping from one champagne-drenched corner to another in the Tiger dressing room, pointed to Kaline as the key to the title run.

"There's not a word I can say. All the superlatives ... I would use them all. There aren't words to describe how he played," said Martin.

The Tigers won the ballgame and the division title in the seventh inning against Luis Tiant, who had been Boston's very best pitcher down the stretch.

Dick McAuliffe, whose first inning error had given the Sox an uneraned run, doubled with one out in the seventh and Kaline followed with a single. McAuliffe scored on the hit and Kaline raced to second on the play at the plate.

Bill Lee relieved Tiant and Duke Sims beat out a slow roller off shortstop Luis Aparicio's glove, sending Kaline to third. Next, Norm Cash bounced to Carl Yastrzemski and Kaline broke for home. Yaz grabbed the ball, then dropped it as Kaline scored the insurance run.

That was enough to finish the Sox. "We have no apologies," said Manager Eddie Kasko. "We battled them and nobody expected us to get as far as we did."

Tommy Harper had a simple explanation in the quiet Boston dressing room. "We just didn't hit, and if you don't hit, you don't score. If you don't score any runs, you can't win."

The Tigers now move into the playoffs Saturday against West champion Oakland. The best-of-five series opens in California.

The A's, marking time, bowed to California Tuesday night with Clyde Wright going all the way for the victory. John Stephenson drove in the winning run with a ninth inning single, beating reliever Rolie Fingers.

Baltimore finished the season with a split against Cleveland, clinching third place in the East for the Orioles.

Cleveland took the first game on Frank Duffy's 10th-inning single with Tom McCraw driving in four runs on a single, doubling and game-tying homer in the eighth inning.

Pitcher Roric Harrison hammered a home run and the Orioles nailed down third place by taking the nightcap.

Milwaukee doomed New York to a fourth place finish by tagging the Yankees with their fourth straight loss. Home runs by Joe Lahoud and Johnny Briggs proved the difference.

Roy White and Bobby Murcer homered for New York. Texas blanked Kansas City on the combined pitching of Mike Paul and Bill Gogolewski in a match of two teams who will start next season with new managers. Bob Lemon was dismissed as KC's skipper earlier Tuesday and Ted Williams resigned as boss of the Rangers last week.

Catcher George Mitterwald's throwing error permitted Chicago's winning run to score in the ninth inning as the White Sox edged Minnesota. Pitcher Terry Forster's pinch single drove in the tying run and then Mitterwald's wild throw on an attempted steal permitted the winner to score.

Carlton Claims 27th Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — "Any time you're linked with Sandy Koufax, you're in good company," said a smiling Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phils Tuesday. Carlton had watched Koufax' modern National League victory total of 27 for a left-hander with an 11-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Carlton, acquired by the Phils from the St. Louis Cardinals in a trade for Rick Wise last spring, finished the season with a 27-10 record and an outstanding 1.98 earned run average.

Carlton also had 310 strikeouts, exactly 100 more than last year when he posted a 20-9 mark and a 3.56 ERA in his fifth season with the Cardinals. "I'm glad it's over, but I certainly am completely pleased with my season," said the 27-year-old Carlton.

Asked his future plans and particularly whether he might in 1973 become the Phils' first $100,000 salaried player, Carlton replied:

"Right now, I'm just going to relax and do some hunting. I haven't given any thought to next season, but there's a lot of time to talk contract after I've rested a bit."

Pirates Fall To Second In Defense To Late Starter

Columbia University knocked East Carolina University's Wild Dogs' defense off the top of the NCAA heap last Saturday, both in total and rushing defense, but the Bucs still stand high in the rankings.

Columbia, opening its season with a 44-0 victory over Fordham, held their opponent to only 85 total yards and minus 12 on the ground. Columbia thus leads the nation in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense.

East Carolina, by not playing, however, gained ground on the rest of the teams across the country. The Bucs, in total defense through three games, have allowed only an average of 128.3 yards per game. Auburn is third with 168.0 per contest, nearly 40 yards behind.

In rushing defense, the Bucs are second with a 46.3 average. Southern Methodist has dropped from first last week to third this week with a 58.7 average.

In scoring defense, the Bucs move up from sixth to fourth with a 3.3 points per game allowed average. Columbia leads, unscored on in one game, while Oklahoma is second, allowing 2.0 points per game. San Diego State is third with a 2.7 average.

Rusty Markland, third in interceptions last week, fell to fourth this week. He and three others are tied with an average of 1.3 per game.

Among East Carolina opponents, several appear in the statistics of this week released by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Tom Schultze of VMI stands 20th in total offense, averaging 176.3 yards per game. Bruce Shaw of N.C. State is 23rd with a 173.0 mark.

In passing, Schultze stands 19th with an average of 12.8

completions per game. Jay Jones of Richmond is 11th in the nation in punting with a 42.4 yard per kick average. Nick Vidovic of North Carolina is 19th at 41.1.

State's Mike Stultz is eighth in punt returns, averaging 17.8 yards per carry.

In passing offense, State ranks fourth, picking up 239.3 yards per game. VMI is eighth with a 212.3 average.

East Carolina's allowance of 77 yards against Southern Illinois still ranks as the single-game mark for this year in fewest rush-pass yards allowed.

DeRatt Is ACC Rookie For Week Blass Says He's Ready To Go Against Reds

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina linebacker Jimmy DeRatt, who blocked a punt to give the Tar Heels a 7-0 lead over Ohio State last week, has been named the Atlantic Coast Conference football Rookie of the Week.

DeRatt, a 191-pound sophomore who is playing his first season of varsity ball, crashed through from the inside to block Gary Iago's attempted punt. He batted the ball into the end zone where teammate Gene Brown fell on it for a touchdown. Ohio State won the game, 29-14.

DeRatt came up with another fine defensive play near the end of the first half when he intercepted a pass and returned it eight yards. The Tar Heels failed to cash in on the scoring opportunity and trailed at half-time by 9-7.

The Stantonsburg, N.C., native performed as a tailback on last year's freshman club, but was moved to linebacker during spring practice. He ran for 362 yards and five touchdowns for the Tar Babies.

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer Steve Blass is feeling no discomfort in his right elbow ... and that's a shot in the arm for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"No pain at all, I'm ready," says Blass, indicating his willingness to start the National League playoffs against the Cincinnati Reds Saturday.

Pittsburgh's bread-and-butter pitcher, who was struck in the elbow by a line drive last Sunday, tested the arm in a brief relief appearance Tuesday night as the Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2.

"The main thing was that the arm felt good and there was no pain," said Blass after giving up a run and walking three batters in two innings.

The performance was good enough for Manager Bill Virdon to confirm Blass' nomination as the Pittsburgh starter in play-off Game No. 1.

"I'm kind of glad that Blass got into a little trouble so that he got a chance to throw a few more pitches," said Virdon.

The Reds tuned up for the playoffs by trimming the Houston Astros 6-1. In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies clouted the Chicago Cubs 11-1; the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Braves 6-5; the New York Mets took a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos 5-2 and 4-3 in 12 innings and the San Francisco Giants turned back the San Diego Padres 7-4.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 5-4; the Cleveland Indians stopped the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 in 10 innings before losing the second game of a doubleheader, 4-3; the Milwaukee Brewers nudged the New York Yankees 3-2; the Texas Rangers blanked the Kansas City Royals 3-0; the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1 and the California Angels trimmed the Oakland A's 3-2.

Bob Moose pitched the first five innings for Pittsburgh Tuesday night and allowed just one hit as the Pirates took a 6-0 lead.

Al Oliver and Richie Hebner each drove in two runs to supply most of the offensive power as the Pirates teed off on Al Santorini.

Cesar Geronimo and Joe Morgan knocked in two runs apiece and Gary Nolan pitched five innings of one-hit ball to lead Cincinnati over Houston, Nolan, who missed several games recently because of a bad tooth and a pained neck, made his first start since Sept. 7 in a tuneup for the playoffs.

Steve Carlton notched his 27th victory and Don Money and Greg Luzinski each slugged two home runs to lead Philadelphia over Chicago. Carlton, who has lost 10 games, yielded nine hits and struck out seven to bring his league-leading strikeout total to 310.

Not incidentally, Carlton's 27 victories tied Sandy Koufax' modern NL record for a left-hander.

Bill Buckner laced three hits, scored three times and drove in two runs in Los Angeles' triumph over Atlanta. Tom Seaver won his 21st game as New York beat Montreal in the first game and the Mets took the nightcap on Ken Boswell's RBI single in the 12th. Tito Fuentes belted a run-scoring triple in a three-run third and added a sacrifice fly in the fourth to help San Francisco beat San Diego.

Shaw Faces Another Tough Test As State Entertains Blue Devils

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bruce Shaw, North Carolina State quarterback, is a quiet man off the football field, but in the Wolfpack's first four games he has shown he can be an aggressive leader.

A year ago, as a sophomore, he was the third-string quarterback, but finished the season as a starter.

This year he never doubted that he would be a starter, and his confidence has grown with each game.

He has connected on 63 per cent of his passes for an average of 169 yards a game. He has thrown for five touchdowns.

"I have always felt good throwing the short passes, but now the long passes are starting to drop in there, too," says the 6-foot-2, 185-pounder from Richmond, Va.

"And the blocking has been great this year. I haven't had the defensive pressure I faced last year. There hasn't been anybody staring in my face when I got ready to throw."

North Carolina State is home to Duke Saturday and will have two new faces in the starting lineup. Pat Hovance, a tight end, has been promoted to the first team and will become the first freshman to start this season for the Wolfpack. And Howard Bradburn, a junior, has moved up to the first unit's offensive line to replace guard Bob Blanchard, who probably will be sidelined for 10 days with a leg injury.

Duke Coach Mike McGee said that kicking probably would be the deciding factor in the game. The Blue Devils emphasized that department in Tuesday's practice.

Wake Forest concentrated on pass defense. Coach Tom Harper said that Maryland has a super passing combination in quarterback Al Neville and receiver Dan Bungi, and the Deacons must control them to win.

Maryland, which will be the home team, stressed fundamentals in a one-on-one session.

Coach Jerry Claiborne said Wake Forest is "a big, strong team, one you can't grind out yardage against. You have to hit them with the big play."

Yellow Paint For Bob Unser

By BLOYS BRITT AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Unser, holder of the 10-mile speed record for closed courses and a $1 million lifetime winner in auto racing, has been classified as a rookie for Sunday's National 500 stock car classic.

"They will be calling me 'yellow tail,' and, hopefully, the winner before I leave here," Unser said Tuesday as he watched his crew paint the rear bumper of his Chevelle yellow.

The yellow bumper treatment is given all drivers, regardless of experience, when they make their first appearance on the high-banked, 1½ mile Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Unser, who qualified his Olsonite Eagle championship car at 201.416 miles per hour for a race at Ontario, Calif., in September, was one of about 40 drivers who were to participate in time trials today for the first dozen starting positions in Sunday's $123,603 race.

There was considerable doubt that the 37-year-old Unser, who became one of racing's five-million-dollar career winners during the summer, would make it into the 40-car starting field the first day.

His Chevelle, driven on the United States Auto Club stock car circuit most of the year by Gordon Johncock, was believed to be considerably short of the horsepower needed to become a qualifying threat.

The prestigious pole starting position was expected to go to one of several hotshot regulars of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Grand National circuit, or to another USAC $1 million winner, A. J. Foyt.

The 38-year-old Foyt, who won $82,805 in four NASCAR events earlier this year, joins three-time Grand National champion David Pearson in a pair of Glenn Wood Mercurys for this fall classic. The two were expected to be pole contenders, along with Bobby Allison's Chevrolet and Buddy Baker's Dodge.

Other candidates for the top 12 spots included Johncock and Pete Hamilton in Plymouths, Jim Vandiver, Richard Petty and Roger McCluskey in Dodges; and Bobby Isaac and either Fred Lorenzen or Cale Yarborough in a new Chevrolet owned by ex-driver Hoss Ellington.

Lorenzen was honeymooning after his marriage in Chicago last Saturday and Ellington said the former Golden Boy of stock car racing might not make it. Yarborough, also a former driving great, was standing by.

After today's first round of qualifying, the other spots in the 40-car lineup will be filled Thursday, Friday and Saturday—a dozen each day except Saturday, when only four will make it.

Southern Cal Is Favorite

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern California faces its toughest test to date Saturday in an attempt to maintain its top ranking in college football.

Who says so? John McKay. "Stanford is the best team we've played," says the coach of the Trojans, who travel up the California coast this weekend for a key Pacific-8 Conference game. "They have a more balanced attack with the running of John Winesberry and the passing of Mike Boryla."

"I liked our aggressiveness on defense against Michigan State. We went after 'em all the time. But we can't use the same defense against Stanford. We'll have to play a little bit more cautious."

Stanford, ranked 15th, is trying for a third consecutive Pac-8 crown and Coach Jack Christiansen insists that "as long as the athletic director continues having this game on the schedule, we'll show up."

Despite 188 points in four games, that defense is the most impressive thing about ... Southern Cal.

Notre Dame at Michigan State—"It's a little too early to determine how good we are," says Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian. Michigan State's 51-6 loss to Southern Cal "wasn't that one-sided," according to Coach Duffy Daugherty. In fact, the Spartans ran the same number of offensive plays as the Trojans. The difference is that Notre Dame's offense can score. Notre Dame.

Alabama at Georgia—Georgia held quarterback Andy Johnson out last Saturday to make sure he's 100 per cent for Alabama. One of only two road games all season for the Crimson Tide and it says here it's high time for low tide. Upset Special of the Week ... Georgia.

Auburn vs. Mississippi at Jackson—Neither team has shown much offensively. Auburn upset Tennessee with "a punt and a prayer," according to Coach Shug Jordan. Prayers usually don't help against the Rebels in Jackson, Mississippi.

Louisiana State at Rice—Footballs fill the air as thrown by Bruce Gadd of Rice and Bert Jones of ... LSU.

Missouri at Oklahoma State—Not only is OSU coming off an upset of Colorado, but to make things worse for Missouri, its next three opponents are Nebraska, Notre Dame and Colorado. Ride 'em, cowboy. Oklahoma State.

Colorado at Kansas State—K-State was primed for an upset, but Oklahoma State beat them to it last week. Buffs bounce back. Colorado.

Florida at Florida State—Huff (Florida State quarterback Gary) and Poff (Florida State linebacker David). Florida State.

McKeon Named Royals Manager

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "During the next 10 years I expect to win at least five out of 10 pennants," said Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Kansas City Royals while announcing that Jack McKeon was replacing Bob Lemon as manager of the American League team.

To do that, Kauffman said Tuesday, it would be necessary to establish continuity of management, which the 52-year-old Lemon would be unable to provide.

However, McKeon, 41, was given a one-year contract "like everyone else in the Royals' organization," he said.

Flanked by the outgoing and incoming managers and Cedric Tallis, executive vice president and general manager, Kauffman told a news conference: "I want a younger manager," and "I did not want to lose Jack McKeon from our organization."

McKeon has managed the Royals' Omaha farm team for four years.

He was the American Association's manager of the year in 1969 and 1970.

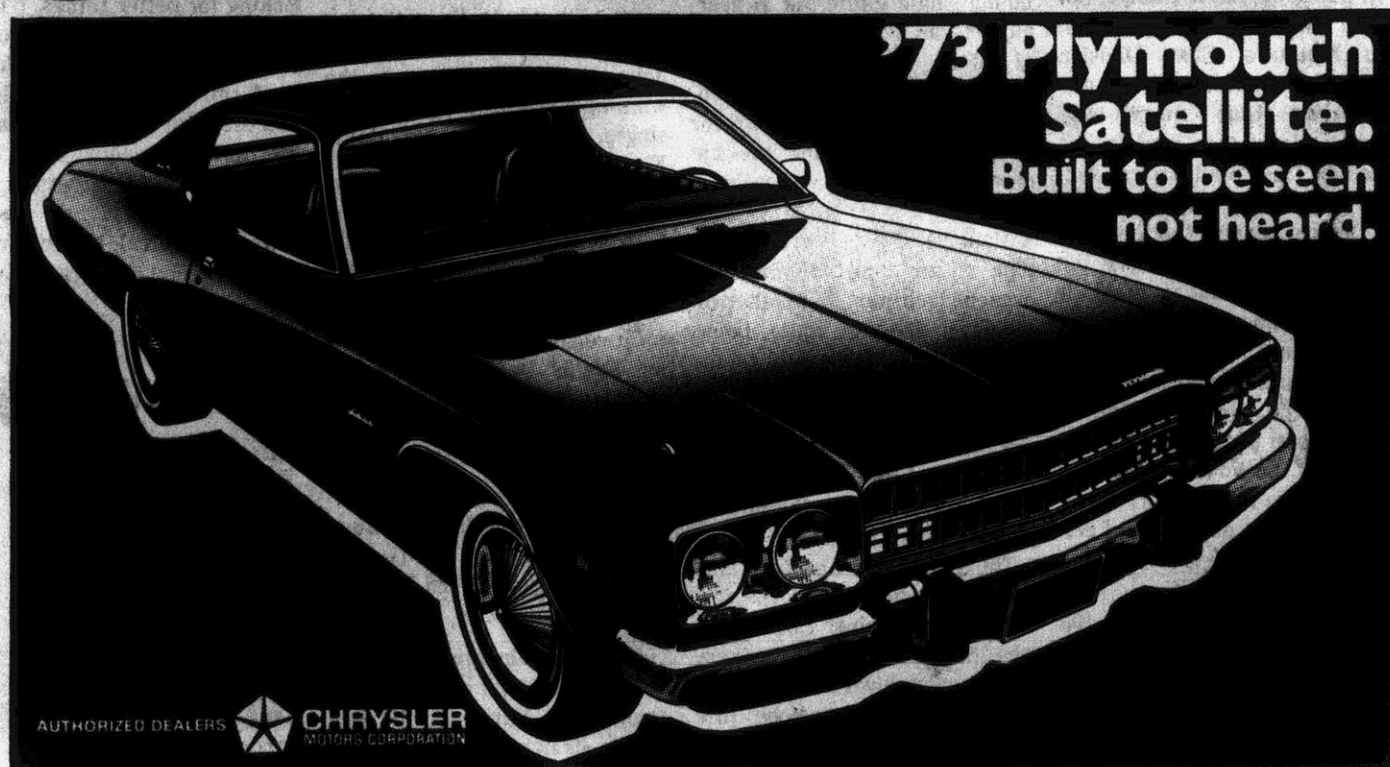

Lemon, a star pitcher with Cleveland in the 1940s and 1950s, was the third manager for the Royals, who began play in 1968. He took over in June 1970, when Kansas City tied for fourth place in the West Division with a 65-97 record.

Last year, the Royals finished in second place with an 85-76 mark, the best in the city's major league history, including 12 years of the Kansas City Athletics.

Lemon said he would be happy to continue in baseball in any capacity but preferred to manage. Kauffman said he would not interfere if Tallis offered Lemon another post with the Royals.

Serving Chrysler Product Customers For Over 23 Years

Mr. O.D. Miller, service representative from Chrysler Motor Corporation presents a service award in front of our partially completed new service facility to James Trotman, service manager, (left). The award, given to dealers who render excellent service to their customers, is one of only ten given out statewide.

William L. Johnson, President of Bright Leaf Motors, Inc. said that this award comes at a moment when Bright Leaf is putting additional stress on better customer service. Bright Leaf is doubling their total service facilities in order to give their Chrysler customers new, and old, whom they have served for the past 23 years, more improved service.

N.C. Highway Patrol Is Leading Most In Recruiting Of Minorities

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Highway Patrol, an all-white agency for 41 years, now has more minority race members—11 blacks and three indians—than most states.

Three times more blacks than the New York State Patrol, Col. Edwin Guy said in an interview. "Our best means of recruiting blacks are through our black troopers. They are proud and envious of their position." It was more than five years ago, August, 1967, that the barrier was broken when Charles Johnson became the first black to join the patrol. "I anticipate that within the next 18 months we will have about 20 blacks on the patrol which numbers 1,037," Guy said. Two are now attending training school.

The standards for acceptance on the patrol are rigid. Applicants must have graduated from high school and "undergo a tremendous investigative background," Guy said. The recruits take 700 hours of training at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill. In addition, they undergo 6-12 weeks of field training. "We are well pleased with the black members of the patrol," said Guy. "There have been no unusual problems and no backlash from the public. On the contrary, we've gotten numerous compliments from motorists on their work." He added, "I don't like to differentiate between our blacks and whites as long as they do their job. We measure a trooper by his job performance and not his color."

Guy cited a letter he received recently from W. H. "Bill" Norton, police chief at Smithfield for more than 15 years and still a member of that department. Norton said he was en route to Chapel Hill when his car developed trouble on the Raleigh beltline. He said the first black trooper he had seen stopped and assisted him in getting his car to a service station where repairs were made. "I felt like I had known him for years," Norton wrote, adding he wanted to commend the trooper, William A. Allen. The starting salary for a North Carolina patrolman is $7,948 a year.

In the suit, filed against Colorado Aviation, Inc., American Western Plastics Corp. and Telstar, Inc., Pamela Opal Lee Murphy and her two sons, Terry Michael Murphy and James Shannon Murphy, claim that the Aero Commander airplane was "so negligently and unlawfully piloted" that it crashed into Brushy Mountain near Roanoke, Va., on May 28, 1971. Five other men in the plane with Murphy were also killed in the crash.

Actor's Widow Brings Big Suit

DENVER (AP) — The widow and two children of actor Audie Murphy filed a $10 million suit in U. S. District Court Tuesday against the owners of the airplane in which Murphy died.

Names 3 Assistant Secretaries Of Transportation

RALEIGH (AP) — State Transportation Secretary Fred Mills has announced the appointment of three assistant secretaries and other key personnel of his department. Mills told a news conference Tuesday that the new assistant secretaries would be: —Thomas Cross, who has been serving on the state government reorganization staff. assistant secretary for management. —John Cameron, chief transportation planner for the Department of Administration, assistant secretary for transportation planning. —Elbert Peters, who has directed the governor's highway safety program, assistant secretary for transportation safety. Mills announced that four state Highway Commission department heads would head sections in his department. They were: W.P. Garriss, fiscal section; Eugene Baskett, data processing; Cloyde Alford personnel; and W.G. Reaves, purchasing agent. Mills also announced that J. Arch Laney, director of public information for the Highway Commission, will serve as public affairs director of the Transportation Department. As such, he will head all the department's information and public affairs resources. To round out his department, Mills said an Office of Aeronautics will be activated "with a minimum of delay while that of mass transportation would be brought aboard at a later date." "Practically all appointments that have been made do not carry an increase in salary even though there is an increase in responsibilities," Mills stated. "The two assistant secretaries for management and planning are the only two newly created positions that will be immediately filled." Mills said that three veteran officials will keep the posts they now occupy. These include George Willoughby as highway administrator, Joe Garrett as director of the Department of Motor Vehicles and James W. Davis as executive director of the State Ports Authority. Cross, who joined the state reorganization staff in February of last year, served as a chief planner for NATO and as chief of Army logistics during the last Cuban crisis. Cameron joined the Department of Administration's transportation section in 1970 after his discharge from the Army. Fire Policemen For 'Vacations' SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — Southport's city manager has made permanent the "vacations" of its police chief and four other officers who declined to come to work after the city ran a newspaper ad seeking a new chief. City Manager Alvin Kornegay Jr. said he had notified Chief Walton Willis, three patrolmen and a dispatcher that they were fired late last week. Kornegay said Tuesday the five men were fired because they took unauthorized vacations. Africa's highest peak is 19,340-foot Mount Kilimanjaro.

Opening Up Plantation To Public

By H. G. Jones, Administrator
Office of Archives and History
RALEIGH (AP) — Hope
Plantation, the restored home of Gov. David Stone, formally opens to the public this week.

Located on NC 308, four miles west of Windsor in Bertie County, Hope Plantation has been described as "one of the most impressive structures built in North Carolina and one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture anywhere."

Activities Tuesday and today climax six years of restoration carried out by the Historic Hope Foundation which purchased the property in 1966. A subscription dinner and dance at the National Guard Armory in Windsor Tuesday night followed a special preview of the mansion for "Friends of Hope," an organization instrumental in the property's restoration.

Today marks the official public opening with a band concert at 10:30 and ceremonies at 11:00. Ray S. Wilkinson, chairman of the Historic Halifax Restoration Association, was the featured speaker. The mansion was opened for public viewing at noon.

The land on which Hope Plantation stands was deeded in 1793 to David Stone by his father, a wealthy planter. The property then consisted of 1,051 acres. Stone married Hannah Turner a month later, and construction of the mansion was begun almost immediately. It was completed in 1803, and by 1810 the plantation contained more than 5,000 acres and employed more than 50 slaves.

David Stone was educated at Princeton and became active in politics at an early age. He represented Bertie County at the convention in Fayetteville in 1789 that ratified the Constitution of the United States, and he served in the North Carolina House of Commons
from 1790 to 1794.

In 1798 he was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives and in 1800 to the U. S. Senate.
He served two one-year terms as governor in 1806 and 1809 and later returned to both the North Carolina House of Commons and the U. S. Senate. He died on Oct. 7, 1818, in Wake County.

Restoration of Hope Plantation has been spearheaded by John E. Tyler who has served from the beginning of the project as restoration chairman and is president of the North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities.

Prior to the beginning of its restoration, the mansion was once described by W. M. Kemp, a master craftsman who has done much of the work, as "the most hopeless thing I have ever seen."

An earlier report of the foundation states that the house had at times stood vacant and teenagers had used the walls as a place on which to write their names. At other times it had been occupied by tenant families, and hot coals had burned through the floor in front of one of the fireplaces.

The house was spared from destruction and today it has been rescued from the years of abuse and restored to its original beauty.

The road on which Hope Plantation is located has been designated as "The Governor's Highway." In addition to the house of Gov. Stone, it passes the home of Gov. Locke Craig, and the home of Lt. Gov.
Francis D. Winston is not far away in Windsor.

In The Dark, But OK Ordinance

DAVENPORT, Fla. (AP) — City Atty. Clifton Howell was just starting to read a proposed ordinance renewing Florida Power Corp.'s franchise to provide utility service for this tiny central Florida town.

Suddenly all lights in Town Hall went out as part of an extensive power failure.

Undaunted, Howell produced a flashlight and continued reading.

The five-man City Council, still in the dark, then unanimously adopted the ordinance giving Florida Power a 30-year franchise.

Convict Has Acquired A Degree, Help

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Victor Laurence Taylor earned a bachelor's degree in 21 months with a near-perfect grade average, but he couldn't attend graduation ceremonies at Southern Illinois University.

Taylor is serving a 25-year sentence for bank robbery at the federal penitentiary in Marion, Ill.

Prison officials said Taylor completed his studies through correspondence courses and cooperative programs between the prison, the university and a local junior college.

Taylor received his degree
Friday night in special ceremonies at the penitentiary.

Taylor said he studied 60 to 70 hours a week, sometimes finding reading time during his eight-hour-a-day job in the prison's education department. His study schedule netted him a grade-point average of 4.89 out of a possible 5.00.

The 28-year-old convict majored in psychology with a minor in black American studies.
This fall he will be admitted to SIU as a graduate student in psychology.

Walter G. Robinson, Jr., director of the SIU black American studies program, told Taylor's story this way:

The Dallas native enlisted in the Navy when he was 17. His Navy recruiter said he would be eligible for pilot training or officers' training program.

However, he was ruled ineligible for aviation training because he was partially color blind and was then passed up for officer training.

It was then, while still in the Navy, that Taylor robbed his first bank. He and a friend took $125,000 from a San Diego naval station bank in November 1963.

He was caught, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to ten years. He served four years of that sentence, then went home to Dallas on parole.

However, he was arrested for a jewelry store robbery in Oklahoma and sentenced to 25 years.

In March 1968 he escaped from the state prison in Oklahoma City, and went on a bank-robbing spree through Arkansas and Louisiana. Forty-four days after his escape, he was back in prison—this time in a federal penitentiary in Atlanta, on new bank robbery charges.

In October 1969 he escaped from the Atlanta prison. He was free only a few hours. He was transferred to the maximum security institution at Marion in 1970 because authorities feared he would attempt another escape.

Taylor is up for parole in 1976. But Oklahoma officials will be waiting for him to finish his term for the jewelry store robbery whenever the federal prison releases him.

He has a possible 52 more years in prison, the combined total of the federal and state sentences.

Robinson said he and other
SIU officials will intercede for Taylor at his 1976 parole hearing. He said he is also trying to investigate a possible waiver for the unfinished Oklahoma sentence.

Taylor lists his career goals as obtaining a Ph.D., becoming a professor at a major university, publishing books and articles in his field and "living happily ever after."

The Worry Clinic
Males Expect Public 'Price'

Alma's sorority sister lost her fiancé when he found out she'd been a FREE sexual concubine of another college man! So you girls better disregard the stupid talk of Women's Libbers. This is still a man's world and virile males don't like to marry castoff females!
By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. M.D.
Case V-509: Alma D., aged 20, is a college coed.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "we had a lively sex debate at our sorority house last night.
"For we were trying to analyze the romantic attitudes of men.
"One of our sorority sisters has been living with a boy for several months.
"They planned to get married this fall.
"But he found out that she had also been sleeping with another college student two years ago.
"So he broke their engagement at once and moved out, leaving her crushed.

"She is now back in school and staying at the sorority house."
And they feel they give up far more than does the bride when they march down the center aisle.
That is generally true, though it ripples the Women's Libbers intensely to have me say so!
Thus, the typical male can easily get a half dozen desirable women to say "Yes" to his marriage proposals.
Not so with women! For men, after the teenage years, are slow to propose!
For there are an extra 5,000,000 eligible females above the age of 21. And not enough males to go around.
Men realize, therefore, that it is a "buyer's market."
And when they "buy," as by agreeing to marry a girl, they figure they are paying full price for their matrimonial merchandise.
So they doubly resent learning that a girl has given herself to some other male without requiring the public purchase price, namely, the wedding ceremony!
That's why Alma's sorority sister was ditched in favor of a young widow.
Both had had a sexual affair previously.
But Alma's sorority sister didn't exact the public "Purchase price" in the form of a wedding.
Instead, she gave away her intimacy to a man who strolled into her life and then walked out again.
He got the sexual frosting off the cake and for free!
The widow, however, had exacted the public purchase price, so her husband had assumed the financial and social obligations that society prescribes for a married man.
Thus, it is less deflating to the sex ego of a virile male to marry an attractive widow than to find that he was tricked into paying full price for a secondhand or "used" coed concubine.
"But, Dr. Crane," Alma protested, "don't many men nowadays indulge in sexual affairs with girls before marriage?"

True enough, but they do it as a convenient inexpensive way to enjoy the sexual privileges of a concubine without paying full price via a wedding.
"Yess, but some of the men finally marry their paramours, don't they," Alma protested, "even though they know the girl has slept with another man?"
Yes, for there are varying degrees of virility in males so some men with weak libidos have less sexual pride, and thus grumble less at used merchandise.

Hilo Hattie Never Had A Hula Lesson Classifieds

By ROBERT C. MILLER
HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—Hilo Hattie turns 71 this month (Oct. 26) but if you want to stay friends with her don't dare say she's "spry" for her age.

"That's for old people," she snapped at a reporter who had the audacity to suggest she was pretty spry for a lady of her years. "I'm just slightly mature."

The fact is that Hilo Hattie—she is Mrs. Clara Nelson in private life, wife of musician Carlyle Nelson to whom she's been married for 23 years—is still cavorting barefoot on stage, singing her comedy songs and doing hula takeoffs with the same energy she has brought to her entertainment for nearly 40 years.

She started life as a school teacher and says she probably would still be teaching school if it hadn't been for a professor at the University of Hawaii who told her to stick to entertaining. This was after an early flop in Hollywood which had sent her back to teaching.

Slid Into Show Biz

As it was, she recalled in an interview, she sort of slid into show business as a music and social studies teacher in Waipahu, a Honolulu suburb, in 1935.

"I got my big, bare foot in the door by singing with the Royal Hawaiian Girls," Hattie chuckled. "We were a group of young wahines (girls) who just sang for the fun of it. We would get $25 for an appearance, and there being 25 of us, we each got a dollar."

Her next move was to the swank Waiata Country Club where Hattie put on a three-hour singing, clowning and hula show, for the princely sum of $3. She got to the mainland with the Shriners who took her to their Los Angeles convention as part of their Hawaiian drill team.

HILO HATTIE is amazed that after 40 years as an entertainer, people still pay her to make other people happy. (UPI Telephoto)

"I never had a hula lesson in my life," she said.

"I just learned to dance by watching others. I just do what comes naturally. I have so much fun entertaining people and making them laugh that I feel I really shouldn't charge folks for entertaining them."

"And," she mused, "maybe that's why I'm so healthy—because I'm so happy all the time."

Adopted Name In 1936

Mrs. Nelson adopted her stage name in 1936 while enroute by ship to a Portland, Ore. teachers' convention. As part of the shipboard entertainment, she sang Don McDermid's song, "When Hilo Hattie Does the Hilo Hop," and it became such a part of her routine that Hollywood's movie producers insisted on re-naming her Hilo Hattie when she got a bit part in "Song of the Islands," which starred Betty Grable, Victor Mature and Jack Oakie. She's been Hilo Hattie ever since—legally since 1948.

Hattie made a half-hearted stab at retiring a few years ago, but realized that she was "too young for that sort of thing," and is back on the entertainment circuit. She does guest appearances on TV programs, tours the Hawaiian night club circuit, and still shakes her head in amazement that people pay her money to do what she considers the greatest thing in the world—making other people happy.

In honor of her birthday, United Airlines marked its fifth anniversary of service to Hilo by naming a DC-9 jetliner after her. Hattie's reaction to that was a grinning, "Aw shucks."

TV Special On Tuesday About Stone Age Tribe

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Reynolds sat down in a glass-enclosed booth at the recording studio on West 54th Street. He lit his pipe, checked the script again and started talking. Softly.

"This is a very special baby... a link between the present and the past. He is the latest member of a stone-age tribe. He has no name...For the time being his family simply calls him 'brother'."

Reynolds was taping his narration for a special documentary, "The Cave People of the Philippines," to be shown on NBC next Tuesday night at 10 p.m.

His words were about the Tasaday, a gentle tribe of 27 men, women and children whose home always has been the caves in a few miles north of rain forest on the rugged Philippine island of Mindanao.

They're the so-called "Lost Tribe." Their discovery in June a year ago touched off front-page headlines and waves of excitement among anthropologists, linguists and social scientists.

"...Landing there, one steps back thousands of years," Reynolds said as the sound engineer monitored the volume, "and we meet our stone-age ancestors face-to-face."

The seconds tick off on the studio clock. Reynolds must compress into 51 minutes the story and significance of a once-obscure tribe cut off from civilization for centuries.

But the tall, gently sardonic son of Brooklyn has too much respect for the Tasaday to treat their lives lightly. He sees a wedding ceremony this way: "The members of the tribe stand around the couple and say 'mafion'...which means beautiful. Then the couple promises to live together and help each other until their hair turns white."

His script has been hard work. He's been constantly writing and rewriting since coming to New York with the 3½ weeks of film he and his crew shot when they visited the Tasaday last August.

It was his third visit. He first filmed the tribe when the story of their discovery broke in June 1971. He went back again in May.

All his visits have been as quiet and unobtrusive as possible. It could be the reason he's the only network television reporter the Philippine government has let film the Tasaday.

But still, a helicopter is needed to get to the Tasaday. And they are further exposed to other gee-gaws of civilization—bolo knives, hiking boots, cameras and tape recorders.

It has been determined by experts that the tribe isn't aggressive; its language has no words for weapon, anger, hostility or war. So why risk destroying this? Why doesn't "civilization" leave them alone.

Reynolds, who was NBC's Saigon bureau chief at the height of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, sipped a cup of coffee and smiled.

"Why not leave them alone?" he asked. "Well, you have a choice. You could have left them alone and within a year the loggers would have overrun them and possibly killed them."

He meant logging interests that were within a few miles of the Tasaday before the Philippine government stepped in and declared the area in which the tribe lives a sanctuary.

"There also are Christian settlers in the area and they're land-hungry," he said. "With the help of politicians, they'd have driven the Tasaday farther back in the forest than they are now."

All this fuss over a collection of half-naked savages. Why does he think the average viewer in the U.S. will care about them? Why is it important to us at all?

"The point," he said, "is that the Tasaday should give us some kind of clue as to what civilization has done to us."

"The prevailing popular theory is that man is an instinctive killer, that he has a built-in drive for territory and a need to dominate other human beings."

"Theories like this are based on second-hand evidence, plus the study of animals," he said. "The Tasaday are the first opportunity anybody has had for a look at stone-age man."

Reynolds ended the program with a quote borrowed from a scientist who went with him to see the Tasaday. It summed up what took centuries to discover, weeks to film and 51 minutes to report:

"We will never know how much we have gained until we learn how much we have lost."

Map Waste Treatment

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Representatives of four regional government agencies have announced plans for a system of waste-water treatment plants to clean up the Yadkin and Catawba river basins.

Spokesmen said after Tuesday's meeting that the first step will be the hiring of engineers to plan an integrated waste-water treatment system. They said no deadline and no price tag had been put on the study.

The meeting brought together representatives of Councils of Government representing 27 counties, 200 municipalities and half of the state's population. The councils are the Western Piedmont, Piedmont Triad, Pee Dee and Centralina.

Donald C. Lambeth, mayor pro tem of Morganton, commented, "It doesn't do the fellow downstream any good to clean up the river if we upstream don't clean up our portion."

New Wrinkle In Borrowing Books

HOLLADAY, Utah (UPI)—There's a new wrinkle in checking out books from your local library—a microphone to take the place of those cumbersome machines that recorded each book borrowed.

At the Holladay branch of the Salt Lake County library attendants will read the title and number of your book into the microphone and it will be transcribed later from tape recorder cassettes.

s about 600 transactions on a tape," said Guy Schuurman, county librarian, "and when the books are returned it can erase the tape, from which the information of the missing books already has been transcribed onto cards."
