

Senate Shelves Welfare Reform To Await Tests

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — After shelving the key question of welfare reform for as long as eight years, the Senate is moving toward a final decision on the massive Social Security welfare bill. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., manager of the 969-page measure, said the Senate is over the hump on the bill and may be able to pass it tonight. But he said it is more likely the final vote will come Friday.

The fight over the most heavily contested part of the bill was settled Wednesday with a decision not to put any of three rival welfare-reform plans into effect but to provide for tests of all them.

This could mean that no effective reform will take place for as much as eight years, if, as expected the House goes along with the test idea.

Meanwhile, the costly and rapidly expanding program of aid to families with dependent children will continue pretty much as at present.

The AFDC rolls have tripled in the past 10 years, and it is this program that most often is cited by critics of "the welfare mess."

In voting 46 to 40 for the amendment by Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., to test the three plans, the Senate junked the workfare program which evolved from many months of work in the Senate Finance Committee.

This would have required many of the parents now on the AFDC rolls, mostly mothers, to trade their welfare checks for jobs under a new federal agency.

However, the Senate in a long series of votes retained some peripheral provisions dealing with welfare families in the Finance Committee bill.

They would set up a big new day-care program to make it possible for more welfare mothers to go to work; provide work bonuses and wage supplements to try to induce welfare recipients to take jobs and employers to hire them; and create broad authority for prosecutors to try to find runaway fathers and make them support their families.

Besides workfare, the plans tested under the Roth amendment would be President Nixon's family-assistance plan, which twice has passed the House, and a liberalized version of that plan sponsored by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

The tests would be worked out and supervised by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Wholesale Prices Inched Up Again, Says Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of a broad range of wholesale food, industrial raw materials and manufactured products rose an average of three-tenths of one per cent last month, the government reported today.

The report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the increase included a rise of six-tenths of one per cent for farm products, processed foods and feeds, while industrial commodities increased two-tenths of one per cent.

The report said that in the past three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 6.7 per cent compared with 4.9 per cent rate in the first and second quarters of the year, and that food and feeds soared at an annual rate of 17.4 per cent in the third quarter.

In the 13 months so far of President Nixon's wage-price controls, wholesale prices have risen at an annual rate of 4.3 per cent, compared with a rate of 5.2 per cent in the nine months prior to the controls.

The September increase brought the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 120.2 of its 1967 base of 100. This means it cost wholesalers $120.20 last month on the average for goods worth $100 five years ago.

The index was up 5 per cent in the past year, the bureau said.

In food, the report said, fruits and vegetables declined six-tenths of one per cent in September but were up 33.3 per cent from a year ago; meats, poultry and fish dropped five-tenths of one per cent for the month and were up 12.1 per cent over the past year; egg prices shot up 15.7 per cent in September and were 6.6 per cent above a year earlier; milk increased seven-tenths of one per cent for the month and was 3 per cent above a year ago.

Among industrial prices, textiles were up two-tenths of one per cent for the month and 4.2 per cent for the year, leather products rose eight-tenths and 18.3 per cent respectively, fuels increased five-tenths and 4.3 per cent, lumber prices rose three-tenths for the month and 10.6 per cent for the year.

Vote No Cloture

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today, for the third time, refused to end the filibuster against a bill to establish a Consumer Protection Agency.

In effect, it killed the measure for the year, according to its backers.

The vote for cloture to limit debate was 52 to 30, three votes short of the two-thirds of senators present needed to invoke cloture.

A minority of the Senate holding firm through three votes now, a chief backer of the proposed Consumer Protection Agency, felt the bill was dead, barring a miracle.

"And I don't see a miracle," said the senator who did not want to be quoted.

The bill, already passed by the House, will technically remain on the Senate calendar and could be brought up again in the remaining few days. But there seemed little chance that would be the case.

The vote on cloture last Tuesday was 55 to 32, three votes short. The vote last Friday was four vote short at 47 to 29.

Interest Rate On Deposits Boosted By N.C.

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina banks will have to pay more interest on the state money they hold on certificates of deposit.

Governor Bob Scott and the Council of State Wednesday boosted the interest rate on state money from five to five and three-eighths per cent.

The rate was boosted because of recent increases in interest rates on short-term federal securities.

In other actions, the council approved an allocation of $22,500 from the state's contingency and emergency fund for implementation of a sports medicine program in the public schools and an allocation of $10,000 to establish an Office of Emergency Services in state government.

It approved another allocation of $145,000 as a matching fund in the construction of a planetarium at East Carolina University.

POPULAR PARK

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — A total of 773,400 visits were made to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park during September, a 9 per cent increase for the same period one year ago.

Indictments

RALEIGH (AP) — U.S. Eastern District Attorney Thomas McNamera says bills of indictment have been prepared against at least eight persons on charges of tobacco marketing violations.

The indictments will be presented to a federal grand jury Tuesday, McNamera said, and grew out of an investigation in North Carolina by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

McNamera declined to give out any names or information concerning the charges. He said he would prefer to wait until the grand jury handles the cases.

Housing Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's central-city housing programs "have been a flop, a failure," says Housing Secretary George Romney who is in charge of them.

Romney also criticized Wednesday the urban-affairs proposals of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern. He was asked at a news conference why his own department "is in such deplorable shape."

"If you'll check the facts," Romney replied, "you'll see that the problems we have been tussling with are the problems that were started before we came into office."

Although he said central city housing programs have failed, he claimed success for housing programs nationally.

Use Garbage For Heat, Hot Water

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — Cabarrus Hospital will use garbage for heat and hot water.

The heating system which will burn the hospital's daily eight tons of garbage is being installed as part of a $6 million wing under construction.

The garbage will be ground and held in a storage tank until it is blown into an automatic incinerator. It will be burned at temperatures up to 2,000 degrees.

See Votes For House Win In Spending Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of a toughly enforced $250-billion government spending ceiling say they think they have the votes to give President Nixon virtually unlimited authority to tailor outlays to fit the limit.

The House is tentatively scheduled to vote next Tuesday on ceiling legislation. The Rules Committee voted to clear it Wednesday, but with one proviso: that an amendment may be offered that would in effect limit the President to proposing specific spending cuts, but leave the decision with Congress.

Rep. John S. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, told a reporter the outlook is good for retaining the full presidential authority in the bill.

"We need about 50 Democratic votes," Anderson said, "and I think Wilbur Mills should be able to bring along that many with him."

Mills, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Ways and Means Committee, supports the stronger version. He said his count shows substantially more support among Democrats than Anderson said is needed.

The spending ceiling is part of a bill providing a $15-billion temporary increase in Treasury borrowing authority. Unless Congress acts, the debt limit will drop below the actual debt Nov. 1 and the government theoretically would be unable to pay its bills.

Judge Forbids 'Statements'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has prohibited any more statements about the Watergate break-in and bugging case by those connected with it.

Sen. George McGovern said he doesn't think the ban applies to him, but he would speak out anyway. "I will not allow myself to be muzzled or intimidated by any politically motivated directions from Richard Nixon," he said.

Judge Sirica's ruling, issued Wednesday, applies to the Justice Department, the U.S. attorney's office, the FBI, other law enforcement agencies, the seven defendants, all witnesses and potential witnesses and attorneys.

CASUALTY REPORT

Viet Cong Cite Wide Gap As Peace Barrier

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong declared today that the wide gap between conflicting positions at the Vietnam peace talks "makes the solution to any substantial questions impossible."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief delegate of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government, told the 162nd session of the deadlocked talks that U.S. peace proposals are

"utterly unreasonable and groundless."

Her statement followed a declaration by the North Vietnamese chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, that "up to now the positions are far apart on political and military questions."

Mrs. Binh told the U.S. delegation: "Our negotiating position is correct and just, while yours is unreasonable and unjust. It is this antagonism which has created the wide gap which makes the solution to any substantial question impossible."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have missed opportunities to make peace and urged that "real negotiations — not mere restatement of your demands" begin today.

They said the Nixon administration "is intensifying and expanding the war more than ever."

Restraining Order Issued On Chicod Creek Project Contracts

By BLANCHE HARDEF
Reflector Staff Writer

NEW BERN — U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. issued a temporary restraining order yesterday against any issuance of contracts for the Chicod Creek Watershed Project.

Larkins did, however, say the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District may open bids on the project as scheduled on Oct. 26. Larkins said he would try to rule on whether or not the present environmental impact statement prepared by the Soil Conservation Service is adequate before the bids are opened on Oct. 26.

Larkins, during a hearing on the project Monday, said a temporary injunction should be issued because more than 120 invitations to bid were mailed on Sept. 25 for construction of the project. Larkins stated he had earlier discouraged invitations to bid and thought there was a gentleman's understanding of this.

Larkins also ordered the environmentalist groups to post a $100 bond. Larkins had earlier ordered the groups to post a $75,000 bond. However, the U.S. Fourth Circuit of Appeals in Greenville, S.C., recently ruled that in the event a restraining order was issued, the plaintiffs bond should be decreased to a nominal amount.

The appeals court also stated that if a preliminary hearing prior to the letting of contracts could not be held, that a restraining order should be issued to preserve the status quo of the case.

Charles Winberry, attorney for the intervenors (Pitt Drainage District No. 9), said mitigation measures had been included in the environmental impact statement because conservationists moved in good faith in planning the Chicod Creek Project.

"This case involves policy decisions made by Congress which this court is powerless to set aside—Public Law 566," Winberry stated.

"Whether channelization is bad or channel improvement is wrong, it is the power of Congress to do that which is not in violation of the law."

"Anything we do with this lawsuit is going to make the plaintiffs and other groups unhappy. What they are attempting to have the court look at is whether or not Public Law 566 projects should take place at all," Winberry emphasized.

"This court should not be used for the purpose of debating policies of Congress," Winberry said.

"The impact statement is sufficient and the Pitt County farmers should be allowed to go about their business, farming their land, having good crops and therefore, better lives."

John Hughes, assistant U.S. district attorney, told the court that the environmental impact statement does contain adverse effects the project will have on the environment.

Adverse effects mentioned in the statement include: an increase in nutrients from 50 tons annually to 250 tons (according to Hughes the national average yield of nutrients in streams is 260 tons annually. Chicod Creek would still be 10 tons under the national average); an increase in sediment yield in

Big Difference: Ignorant And Uneducated

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Louie) pleases me in every way. He's kind and generous, doesn't drink or chase, and he has been a wonderful father to our children. He has always been a good provider. He owns a small construction business and we have a lovely home, two cars, nice clothes and money in the bank. I have never had to work outside the home, and I do his bookkeeping.

My problem is my relatives. They are always making dirty remarks about how "ignorant" Louie is. [Never to his face.] It's true, Louie can sign his name, but that's about all. As a child he was poor, and sickly, and he never made it thru the third grade.

Please tell me what to say to my relatives who never pass up a chance to tell me how "ignorant" my husband is. [P.S. When my college educated brother needed a loan, who do you think gave him the money? My "ignorant" husband.]

SATISFIED WITH LOUIE

DEAR SATISFIED: Try this: "There is a vast difference between an "ignorant" person and an "uneducated" one. Louie may be uneducated, but he is far from ignorant. Many educated people are ignorant, and there are many who have had no education to speak of, but are intelligent. If Louie's lack of education offends you, why don't you just leave us alone?"

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a compulsive talker? If so, my wife leads the parade. She talks incessantly from 8 a. m. until 10 p. m. And then she wonders why she's tired all the time.

Isn't it a fact that talking continuously uses up much energy and makes the talker tired?

STOP THE SANTA ANA WIND

DEAR STOP: In answer to your first question: Yes. There is such a thing as a compulsive talker. And you will usually find them married to people with ulcers, high blood pressure and nervous indigestion. And yes, continuous talking can make one tired.

But not half as tired as those who have to listen to it.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "stumped" struck a responsive chord in me. I, too, knew a church elder and pillar of the community who was in the habit of being "affectionate" with women and young girls.

On his 74th birthday he kept asking me for a "birthday hug." Finally, he pulled me into an empty room in the church and gave me the most obscene hug I had ever experienced. I was only 12, and he was my Sunday school teacher.

Naturally I was shocked, and the guilt and shame of that "birthday hug" haunted me for years. I never even told my mother. I was so ashamed and frightened.

Abby, I've read your column since I was a child growing up in Chicago, and I'm sure young girls today still read your column as I did then. Should this be printed, I hope all adolescent girls who have similar experiences will do themselves a favor and tell some adult they respect and trust. Much self doubts and shameful feelings would be dispelled if they did.

CONFIDENTIAL to "Hopeful," the 19-year-old male who has been praying daily. ["Whatever ye ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."] Please send me your name and address. I am familiar with your "problem" and think I can help you. It will be kept absolutely confidential.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69760, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Eunice Shriver's Campaign Will Go Beyond November

By KATHY YARBROUGH
ATLANTA (WNS—Atlanta Constitution)—Regardless of whether her husband wins or loses, Mrs. Eunice Shriver, wife of Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver, plans to be collecting over one million names after the November election.

The names will form a rather unique list called "One Million for Life."

"One of the very sad repercussions of the liberalized abortion laws is there's not enough children to adopt now," Mrs. Shriver said in Atlanta while attending a "Reaffirmation of Faith" candlelight ceremony sponsored by the National Association of Media Women.

The blue-eyed, tawny-haired mother of five said several adoption services in the Washington, D.C. area were closing because of a lack of babies available for adoption.

The few services still operating, said the 51-year-old sister of late President John F. Kennedy, have waiting lists of two years. "And even they can't guarantee that you'll get a baby then."

"It's very sad. And what can you do about it," she sighed.

McGovern

Mrs. Shriver, whose anti-abortion stand differs from her husband's running mate, Sen. George McGovern has a solution—the "One Million for Life" roster.

Following the presidential election, with the help of three already enlisted organizations, including "One Million for Life," she plans to collect names of parents willing to adopt a child.

"Women who are going to have a baby and for some reason feel that they shouldn't bring another child into the world should know there is at least one family and probably many more who would be eager to adopt her baby."

Mrs. Shriver, wearing a blue, orange, green and white flower print A-line dress, said she doesn't feel one million families is a steep figure. "I'm sure there are many more."

There should be more government studies on the causes and possible solutions to infertility, the tall Kennedy clansman added. She said there is too much emphasis on reproductive biology, such as discovering more birth-control techniques, and not enough on "helping people who can't have children but want them."

Weekends At Home

Since her five children, who range in age from 7 to 18, are back in school, Mrs. Shriver said she'll spend four days of the week on the campaign trail. "But I'll return home on Fridays for weekends with the children."

The polls rating the McGovern-Shriver ticket way behind President Nixon are "particularly discouraging," she admitted, "but there are other polls more encouraging."

Predicting the Democratic ticket will win in November, Mrs. Shriver said her husband is "well equipped" for the vice presidency. She cited his experience in "domestic and foreign affairs as U.S. Ambassador to France and director of the Peace Corps."

Stories that her husband was offered the vice presidency by Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964 and by Hubert Humphrey in 1968, but had to refuse because of "Kennedy family pressure," are "just speculations," said Mrs. Shriver. "You get so much of this when you're involved in national affairs."

She expects her older children, particularly Robert, 18, and Maria, 17, will campaign for their father on weekends away from school. "Although Maria complains that her schoolwork practically keeps her locked in her room 6 hours a day, I think she'll make it."

Mrs. Shriver said she didn't see—only heard about—debating a group of young Nixon supporters at a recent McGovern rally. "But, I'm very much for my children speaking out on the issues."

The main issue in this campaign, she said, is "people want to have great optimism and hope in this country. I think Pres. Kennedy started that, but it's gone now."

Decorative Tiles Add New Drama To Floors

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Floors continue to provide decorating drama in the home. Newest impact comes from ceramic tiles with lines that, for the first time, include contemporary patterns in herringbone, cane, houndstooth and geometric designs. One handsome design is a large circle, another is a quartet of circles that is available in colorful contrasts.

Some tiles may be put together to make interesting designs. For example, four tiles in an arc pattern may be laid to form a large circle or octagon shape. The demand created by an era that prefers pattern to plain surfaces is the reason behind these innovative tile patterns, say spokesmen for the Tile Council of America.

Glazed tiles may also be used on floors now that heavy-duty glazes have been developed. Their textured and matte finishes are touted as slip proof and scratch resistant. Quarry tile—the traditional earthen-red tile—is now also available in a range of new shapes, sizes, colors.

Contemporary rug designs have picked up the tile pattern look. One new carpet pattern, tilestone, not only goes down like tiles, but its design resembles a tilestone pattern of small and large squares and rectangles. The 12-inch square carpet tiles in shades of straw-brown are made of long-wearing nylon and have a built-in backing of latex foam rubber with an adhesive backing. No other underpad is necessary. Seams become part of the pattern and disappear.

Foam-backed carpets are now available in rugs of olefin, polyester and acrilin including shags, low-level tufts, ribs and felted surfaces.

Tufted carpets include tweeds but there are a great many printed carpets, even shags, including animal skin replicas, plaids and mosaics.

Meat: What's In A Name?

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Meat is suffering an identity crisis. With more than 600 names of varying cuts in use at the retail level, often only the butcher knows for sure what part of an animal the meat came from.

Virginia H. Knauer, the President's consumer affairs commissioner, has the cooperation of meat industry trade associations in an effort to clarify or eliminate fanciful local, regional and store cut names.

But until the job's done, how's a consumer to cope? We put the question to Sandra Brookover, then-consumer meat specialist for the livestock division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service. Her answer was discouraging.

In her last interview before resigning from the service, Miss Brookover said nomenclature was a problem everywhere her job took her in recent years.

"Family steak in Klamath Falls (Ore.) is not the same cut as family steak in Chicago," she said. "Boneless cuts are especially hard to identify. They could be sirloin, round or lean chuck. Even I have a very difficult time."

Miss Brookover suggested ringing the service bell at supermarket meat counters to get help in identifying unrecognized boneless cuts.

"Occasionally you'll find cutters who can't answer your questions, but about 90 per cent of the time they can," she said. She said many supermarkets now post USDA meat charts that not only depict meat cuts but also suggest the best methods of cooking each one. Unfortunately, the charts picture only primal cuts.

Bone structure used to offer reliable clues to many cuts and, to some extent, it still does for anyone willing to buy unboned meat.

Shoppers Not Experienced
Fewer shoppers are, in Miss Brookover's experience.

"I watch college age kids shop, establishing future buying habits. They buy convenience things—meat patties already formed and bonless chicken breasts," she said, adding that do-it-yourself types who are willing to buy unboned cuts appear in the minority.

Among the few beef cuts that are easily recognized are seven-bone chuck or roasts, whose bone is shaped like the figure 7, and round bone arm chuck steak or roast, which has a small round bone near but not at one end of the cut.

Among more expensive, and more tender, beef cuts, both porterhouse and T-bone steaks have T-shaped bones, but the porterhouse has the larger tenderloin section of the two. Club and strip loin steaks also look alike. Both have the same large muscle as the porterhouse and the T-bone, but no tenderloin. The strip loin muscle generally is narrower than the club—more like a long triangle.

Rib steak is easy to identify if there's a rib roast in sight for comparison. Steaks are cut from the same section as a standing rib roast and have the typical curved bone that forms a natural cooking rack for the roast.

Illustrations Are Available
The muscle, or meat, of an unboned full round steak can be distinguished from round bone chuck because round steak has almost no marbling of fat. Also, the bone is at the cut end of the steak, which contains three muscles. One muscle runs the full length of the cut and the other two, which are parallel to it, have a thin natural division of fat.

All this is easier to understand if you have illustrations. They're available in the USDA's Home and Garden Bulletins, Nos. 145, 146 and 195, representing, in this order, beef steaks, beef roasts and lamb. They can be ordered for 10 cents each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

But the only practical, lasting solution to the identity problem is consumer insistence on laws establishing standard cut labeling for all prepackaged meat. New York state has had such a law in force since June 1. It permits a second name on the label only if it describes the cut or its uses. For instance, beef round for braciolo is for Italian-style stuffed, braised steak.

In Albany, a spokesman for the State Department of Agriculture and Markets said more than 200 warnings have been issued to individual retailers, but so far none has been prosecuted. He added that a large share of the state's estimated 47,000 food stores use machine labeling and that the majority of them either have complied with the law or are awaiting delivery of the necessary equipment.

ELM STREET SENIOR CITIZENS

KNITTING'S HIS PASTIME. . . Sam Whitehead of Greenville knits as he mans the Elm Street Senior Citizen's Club booth at the Pitt County Fair.

Knitting Became Good Pastime

Sam Whitehead learned knitting as a second-grade student in Rocky Mount during World War I. It's become a good retirement pastime for him now. Whitehead has used his time spent manning the Elm Street Senior Citizens Club booth at the Pitt County Fair this week to knit an afghan for the Senior Citizens. His needles click as he talks. "You don't remember, little lady," he said, "but during World War I, warm covering was at a premium. The Red Cross went around teaching school children to knit and providing the materials. They showed us how to cast on 25 stitches and go from there knitting squares which they sewed together into blankets. "That was the last knitting I did until some time during World War II, when I decided I'd make some argyle socks from a kit." Whitehead, a bachelor, came to Greenville when he retired because he has relatives here. A veteran of 20 years in the Army, he worked in Charlotte between 1961, when he was separated from the Army, and when he came here. "Knitting is a good hobby," he said, "something to do with my hands while I'm watching television or chatting with others," he said. "Friends and relatives always seem to like the afghans I make for them, too, so that makes it all worthwhile." —Carol Tyler

Future AMTRAK Raids Forbidden

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A federal court judge has forbidden Oklahoma law enforcement authorities from future raids on Amtrak trains serving liquor by the drink while passing through the state.

U.S. District Court Judge Stephen S. Chandler Wednesday ordered a halt to the prosecution of club barman George H. Bell of Chicago, who was arrested July 18 when state authorities raided Amtrak's Texas Chief as it passed through Oklahoma City.

"The subjection of Amtrak to the Oklahoma criminal laws thwarts and frustrates the congressional purpose in the creation of Amtrak and unduly burdens interstate commerce," Judge Chandler said in granting a permanent injunction against further prosecution of Amtrak for serving liquor on its trains.

Ayden. She was co-chairman of the Ayden Operation Santa Claus campaign last year. She and her husband, who operates James Enterprises of Grifton, have three children. Timothy, 13; Heidi, 10; and Jeremy, four. They are members of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Kinston. Mrs. Shadle has called a meeting of all community chairmen for Operation Sunshine Thursday, Oct. 12 at 10 a.m. These names will be announced at this time and concrete plans will be made for the collection and delivery of the gifts.

Mrs. Shadle said, "It is my hope that each person in Pitt County will add just one more gift to his or her already crowded Christmas gift list. I can promise this gift for a person at Cherry or Caswell will be the most appreciated gift anyone will give this holiday season."

Cites Decisions By High Court

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "In the past two years the U.S. Supreme Court has given us some of our most significant civil rights decisions," the deputy general counsel of the U.S. Employment Opportunity Commission says.

John Pemberton Jr. told the National Association of Human Rights Workers Wednesday the Supreme Court has broadened the definition of racial discrimination, outlawed the death penalty and recognized that persons of the Black Muslim faith can apply for conscientious objector status.

"The same court that scared us by saying that a guilty verdict need not be unanimous has forged new frontiers in civil rights," said Pemberton, who for nine years was executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Congress Defeats Veto Of Large Pension Plan

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — With quick and decisive votes, Congress has overridden President Nixon's veto and granted 900,000 retired railroad workers a temporary 20-per-cent increase in pension payments. Nixon vetoed the bill at noon Wednesday; by midafternoon, the House had voted 353 to 29 to override the veto, and a few hours later, the Senate voted 78 to 5 to override. In both cases, the margin was far larger than the two-thirds majority required to upset the veto. The action means that the bill has become law.

The President said in his veto message that the pension hike would hasten the bankruptcy of the railroad retirement system. He protested that the bill provided no way to raise the extra funds for the higher payments. Congress passed the bill last month in order to extend to retired railroad workers the same 20-per-cent increase voted earlier for Social Security recipients. Railroad workers are covered by a pension system separate from the Social Security system. Nixon had reluctantly signed the Social Security increase after protesting that he thought it too high. It was attached to a debt-limit bill he needed in order to continue government operations. During the Senate debate, some senators agreed with Nixon that the railroad fund is in shaky financial shape and said Congress next year must find some way to make it solvent. However, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., argued that with the Social Security increase already in effect, "equity required that we give a commensurate increase to railroad retirees."

The increase for railroad workers is effective only until next June 30, and Cranston said that to make the higher pensions permanent Congress must provide new financing. The President proposed a substitute which he said would mean an average $28-a-month boost for a single worker and $47-a-month increase for a married couple. Officials said that's about half the amount provided in the just-enacted law. In the House, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., said Nixon waited until too late in the session for a leaner bill to be passed.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two drivers were injured and an estimated $1,900 in damages resulted from two traffic accidents investigated Wednesday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported that David Sherrod Hammond of 802-A Tyson Street and Alfred Herman Woodworth of 2009 Fairview Way were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital following a collision at the intersection of Line Avenue and Farmville Blvd. at 8:15 a.m.

Police set damages at $500 to the Hammond vehicle and $400 to the car driven by Woodworth. Woodworth was charged with failure to see a safe move could be made.

Albert Phillip Hibbs of 1118 Rose Drive, Louisville, Ky., was charged with having improper brakes following a 1:55 p.m. wreck at the Evans-Eighth Street intersection.

Investigating officers reported that $1000 in damages resulted to the Hibbs car and $20 damages to a truck driven by Linwood Earl Stocks of 1606 Dickinson Avenue. No injuries were reported.

Ayden-Grifton School News

By VERA L. CLAYBOOK Ayden-Grifton High School is extremely busy at the present with various activities underway. A successful magazine sale by the 11th grade is about to culminate. As a whole, the students have been enthusiastic about magazine sales because of the final reward-money for the Junior-Senior Prom. Also, any money that is left after the Junior-Senior Prom expenses have been extracted will go into the senior class treasury of 1973-74.

Immediately upon the magazine sales ending, an all-out campaign to sell candy will be sponsored by the clubs of the school. The selling of candy is the money making project that has been set aside for them. Hopefully, enough profit will be made from the sale to eliminate other money making projects during the year.

So, please support these young people when they approach you with candy. Most of us eat candy; why not eat theirs? On Friday, October 13, at 8:00 p.m., the Ayden-Grifton Chargers meet the Green Central Rams in an all-out battle at Ayden-Grifton for the event of the season — homecoming football game.

The students and faculty are enthusiastic about the Chargers' record — five wins and no losses. Please come and support the team and coaches in this big event.

Also, the half-time activities will be well worth your money. A court of beautiful young ladies will greet you with all the suspense that goes with the crowning of beauty queens. How often does one get so much for so little?

To make the evening even more exciting, the Student Government Association is sponsoring a homecoming dance to be held in the gymnasium from 10:00-12:00 p.m. The band, The Atlantic Sound Show, is well known throughout Eastern North Carolina. They promise you an evening of worthwhile entertainment.

Advanced tickets will be on sale Friday, October 6 and can be purchased from any S.G.A. member. The price per couple is $2.50; stag, $1.50. Only Ayden-Grifton High School students and their dates can attend the dance. October 8-14, 1973 is National School Lunch Week in North Carolina. Governor Scott has designated the period as School Lunch Week in North Carolina. Please join him in urging students to recognize the full potential of the school lunch program and to support it. In the spring of 1972, Mrs. Worthington, the lunch room supervisor took a poll of students to determine their wishes concerning menus to be served in the lunchroom. From a result of the poll, she has been able to satisfy them better. Next week, we will again greet you with the "ON THE SPOT" news.

Landfills Are A Positive Step

The county commissioners are moving along with landfills to serve various sections of Pitt County. Commissioners this week visited the first sanitary landfill site near Littlefield, east of N.C. 11 between Ayden and Grifton. It had been anticipated that this first landfill would be opened this week but the opening was postponed a week to give the land more time to dry. Commissioners also discussed the possibility of purchasing a tract of land between N.C. 43 and the Stantonsburg Road for a land-fill site.

Eventually we can expect to see all areas of the county served by landfills for disposal of garbage. There will have to be strict laws prohibiting the dumping of trash and garbage in any area other than authorized landfills, but it is something that must be done if we are to clean up our highways and natural woodland. The first sanitary landfill is a positive move by the county commissioners. It is a step toward alleviating the problem of roadside dumping. As the landfills are developed, all our citizens should cooperate by seeing that garbage is disposed of in a proper manner.

School Apathy Fading In N.C.

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — How Tar Heels feel about public schools has turned the corner from apathy to concern. That shift in attitude, said Gene Causby, "is the most significant thing that has happened in the last 30 years in promising better schools." As he reads the mood, it Local folks built it, paid for it, hired and fired the teachers. School-Community Estrangement Estrangement set in as the educational undertaking grew in size and complexity. Professional administrators and staff took over operation. State support moved control a step away. Federal intervention widened the gap to a chasm, in image if not in actuality. Racial integration created tensions and emotional reaction.

"A great many citizens lost faith in the schools. They do not feel trust, nor readily extend their support," Shugart affirmed. "To re-enlist the support of the citizenry, we must have public involvement on a meaningful scale."

One of the primary recommendations of the Governor's Committee on the Causes of School Unrest was that an active effort be made to restore confidence through citizen participation. It proposed the assignment of a school official to work in the area of public affairs—the job Shugart now holds.

A Challenging Task He sees it as a challenge to assist local systems in working out examples of constructive public involvement.

The concept of citizen committees to support schools is not new. Perhaps as many as half of the 152 local units now have such groups, Shugart estimated. Some work well, some are inept, some actually harmful.

Too often, they have been formed in crisis atmosphere to meet an emergency, he said. Calling a group together in haste to pass a bond issue or smooth over a school disruption is not an approach that promises lasting benefits, he added.

"It takes time to set up a soundly based program that merits the confidence of both the public and school personnel," he explained.

Honesty is the cardinal principle in seeking public involvement, said Causby. "The group formed must reflect an honest cross-section of the people the schools are serving," he said.

"There must be honesty in communications with school officials. Otherwise, little good can be accomplished."

Concern has its own set of problems. Citizens wrought up about schools can bring on fragmentation and create pressure for change.

"I'd rather have those problems than apathy," Causby said. "When people care enough to become involved, there is the promise that things can be made better."

Action Coming Soon On Newtown Project

It appears that the long awaited Newtown housing project will soon get underway. Bids are being accepted Oct. 18 for the construction of 78 housing units which will make up the project. The units will be built in an area along 14th Street which was cleared of slum housing by the Redevelopment Commission. This delapidated housing will now be replaced by the Housing Authority with standard housing. It will be a great improvement for that area.

Bowles Offers A 'Fresh Face'

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — The campaign that Skipper Bowles is running for Governor has surprised, confused and mystified some old line Democrats — but upon close examination, you'll find a very rational approach to what Bowles is doing. Bowles is trying his best to present a fresh fact to North Carolina voters, one that is not tied to any political machine. That means he'll hammer away at Gov. Bob Scott as quickly as he will at his Republican opponent Jim Holshouser.

Recognizing this, Gov. Scott said during a talk at the Vance-Aycock dinner in Asheville last weekend: "After what Skipper has been saying about me, if I can vote and work for him — and I'm going to — then you folks can note and work for George McGovern."

Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance, Gov. Scott's uncle, recently told me: "It looks like Skipper gives Bob more hell than he does Holshouser." But Sen. Scott went on to tell me he was going to do what he could for Bowles in Alamance.

Furthermore, some other political leaders in Alamance feel privately that Bowles has pretty much ignored their county during the campaign. A prominent Charlotte Democrat who worked in a leading capacity for Pat Taylor in the Democratic primary tells me: "It appears that Skipper wants to punish me because I worked for Taylor."

And there have been grumbings from some Democrats in New Hanover, who feel Bowles' workers have snubbed them in planning and carrying out the campaign.

Is Bowles making a critical mistake that will come back to haunt him on election day? It's extremely doubtful. Early in the primary, Bowles and his staff made a decision to bring new and fresh faces into the campaign. In many instances they named county campaign chairmen who weren't real well known, but who could be counted on to roll up their sleeves and go to work for the candidate.

The Bowles strategy became obvious early in the primary against Pat Taylor. He linked Taylor to the Scott administration and, in effect, told North Carolinians: If you want more of the same, go with Taylor. If you want something new and exciting, Bowles is the man.

The strategy was a complete success in the primary. It worked so well that Taylor tried to adopt part of it in the runoff against Bowles, by coming down heavy on Gov. Scott.

There haven't been many scared cows in the Bowles campaign. He has been as critical of the Democrat-appointed Highway Commission as has Republican Holshouser.

Cliff Benson, a highway commissioner from Wake, supported Bowles in the primary, but has not escaped Bowles' fire recently. Benson okayed some state money to help construct a golf cart underpass for a Zebulon Country Club and Bowles was quick to criticize the move.

Some newspaper reports earlier had indicated that Benson was being considered by Bowles to be the next chairman of the Highway Commission. After the golf underpass incident came to light, Bowles' office quickly put out a statement saying Benson was not being considered for the chairman's post, and indeed might not even be asked to remain on the commission in any capacity.

Holshouser long ago realized what Bowles was doing. The Republican told me that Bowles was connected with the Democratic machine and this would be a major issue of the campaign.

In all candor, however, Holshouser has not been able to put Bowles in a room with the present administration or with any particular machine.

There is no question that some Democrats are unhappy and angry about the way Bowles has conducted his campaign. Bowles turns this into an advantage, saying he wants to be responsible to the people when he takes office, not to special interest groups.

One Raleigh politician, who has observed gubernatorial campaigns for more than two decades, told me: "Some people don't like the way Bowles is doing things but if you ask me, he's running the smartest campaign I've ever seen in North Carolina."

Strength For Today

TAKEN IN BY THE TEMPTER Temptation is practically always symbolized by the serpent. Slithering, hiding to pounce on its victim, full of venom—this indeed is a fitting picture of temptation. So we are not surprised when we read in the third chapter of Genesis that it was the serpent which tempted Eve. Ye shall not surely die from eating the forbidden fruit, he declared. What a lie! They died spiritually, and with them their descendants. Serpent words! Serpent ways! If the temptation would stand in the middle of the pathway and meet us head on

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Third Party's Platform

A vast deal has been written of the platforms of the Democratic and Republican parties, but little or nothing has been said of the platform of the American Party. This is fair enough. Deprived of George C. Wallace, the American Party abruptly has run out of steam. It counts for little in this year's election. But, gentlemen, its party platform is a knockout. The Democratic platform evoked one image — the image of a long-haired lad in Union Square, whooping it up for share-the-wealth. The Republican platform evoked another image: a long-winded senator addressing the Westchester women.

The American Party platform evokes other images altogether — bowling lanes and porch swings, revival tents and sawdust trails, Legion halls and county fairs. Here nothing is ambiguous; nothing demands interpretation. The major party platforms had their soft spots; they tended to curl around some difficult points. The American Party platform hits like a pool cue.

It opens with a prayer. Can you imagine that? The idea never occurred to the major parties — but it occurred to the American Party, which "gratefully acknowledges the Lord God as the Creator, Preserver, and Ruler of the Universe and of the Nation, and appeals to Him. He is concerned with the opportunity of gainful employment, educational opportunity for his children, the safety of his wife and child on the streets of his community, and equity in taxation which makes him neither the victim of those who by refusing to work have no income to tax, or the multimillionaire who use tax loopholes to avoid the payment of any taxes. He is concerned about the never-ending use of his sons for gunfodder in futile international involvements."

Now, that passage might offend the women's liberationists, and the crack at multimillionaires has its demagogic aspects, but this is plain speech. The plain speech goes on. The American Party platform expresses "total commitment" to the Constitution; the major parties gave the Constitution, poor thing, no more than a lick and a promise. The American Party wants no truck with equal employment by law: "We shall steadfastly oppose Federal legislation permitting the Federal bureaucracy to tell a business man who he must hire or fire."

Back of more interest to North Carolinians was Mr. Nix's statement that a package mailed from Chapel Hill to Carrboro, a distance of a mile, would "under the new postal organization with its businesslike methods, travel 160 miles to arrive at the same destination a mile away." Delivery by foot would be quicker and cheaper.

Mr. Nix conceded that the new system probably would benefit mass mailers. "We are not interested, however, in what, if any service can be obtained by the big business mailing houses," Mr. Nix was quoted as saying. "The standard for the Postal Service as a government agency is what, if anything, such an agency will accomplish directly for the American mail patron." The ordinary, neglected mail patron can only say "Amen" to that.

Guidelines In Monthly Report

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The Harvard University campus sprawls over nearly 350 acres. It encompasses 357 buildings — dorms, museums, libraries, a stadium and 18 food facilities among them — not only in Cambridge but across the Charles River in Boston. Nevertheless, because of a management system that not only keeps open the communications channels but refines the information that flows through them, a two-page monthly letter serves to keep the president, Derek Bok, informed of administrative progress.

The letter, addressed by Stephen Hall, vice president for administration, is a distillate of similar two-page letters sent to him by the 10 administrators who run the physical plant of Harvard on a $40-million-plus budget. Each administrator's letter is also included along with Hall's should the president wish details. Each letter consists of four parts: critical indicators, critical milestones, future impact and opportunities.

The first of these, critical indicators, "tells whether the patient is healthy or ill," said Hall in an interview. "If the situation doesn't look good we investigate further."

In the personnel department, for example, an unusual turnover of employees would be a signal for investigation. In food services, if the manhours needed to serve 100 meals rose from its present 20 there would be explaining to do.

Critical milestones are the tracking systems that break general objectives into their specific subparts and plot them on a calendar. If the indicator lags, action is indicated.

Future impact is a list of any potential problems that might force a change in the administrative management plan, which is made each year for the current year but which tries also to take an additional four-year peek into the future.

Paris Once Unique

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "Paris is to Europe what the navel is to a nude statue," said the old lady with the lionlike head, who had just become a best-selling author at 80. "Paris is still the cultural and artistic center of Europe as well as France." But for nearly 50 years Paris has also been the life fountain for Janet Flanner, the wise, witty and perceptive author of the famous biweekly "Letter from Paris" in the New Yorker magazine. A selection from her more than 800 letters — covering the years from 1925 through 1939 — has been edited by Irving Drutman and published as "Paris Was Yesterday." It is a memorable and evocative portrait of the French capital, and has made several best-seller lists.

Why is Miss Flanner so nostalgic about the 1920's? "Because I am 50 years older now, and because Paris now is 50 years younger in its false modernizations a l'Americaine," she replied.

"Yes, I am homesick for the France that was yesterday. Paris was irresistible then. Everything was new, and nothing seemed fake. Today, unfortunately, France has imitated America and become semi-Americanized. Paris then was unique, as London still is."

Miss Flanner came to Paris after a brief stint as a movie critic for the Indianapolis Star. Soon she knew everything and everybody there, from the Eiffel Tower to Picasso.

"I educated myself by travel and reading the French newspapers," she recalled. "You

Investigate Claim $10,000 Got Her Out Of Prison

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A claim by paroled kidnaper Ruth Eisemann-Schier de Randazzo that her release from prison cost $10,000 is under investigation by state agents.

Jody Powell, Gov. Jimmy Carter's news secretary, said Wednesday night the governor received a letter from Mrs. de Randazzo claiming that a ministration by state agents.

(Continued from page 4) private medicine, prayer in schools, and recognition of Rhodesia. It stands four-square against gun control, amnesty, the U.N. liberalized abortion, legalized marijuana, the Equal Rights Amendment, and any sort of payment to able-bodied persons who refuse to work.

The Republican platform pussy-footed around the question of gold: The GOP recommended that convertibility merely be "considered." There is no pussy-footing here. The American Party flat-out "advocates a return to the gold standard." The party would abolish the Federal Reserve, put an end to price and wage controls, and wipe out farm subsidies over a period of three to five years.

Mind you, lest there be misunderstanding, this is not intended as an endorsement. Once it gets past the preamble, the American Party platform is mostly baloney — but it is honest baloney. Many of its recommendations, such as the direct election of Federal district judges, are fantasies — but these are pure fantasies. This is a platform to roll back the clock by 150 years, to the time of Madison, Monroe, and Andy Jackson, to the dreamy golden days of strong men, loving women, and spacious skies. Eheu!

The whole world marches to different drummers now. But in our own time, a time of hypocrisy, weak compromise, and evasion, it is wonderfully refreshing to hit a document that doesn't fudge, waffle or equivocate—even if the document, in many ways, is unequivocally wrong.

Boyle . . .

(Continued from page 4) can get a good education from them. And news in France is always semihistorical. You always get a sense of the past, as well as an insight into the future — if you look sharp.

At 80 she is still diligently turning out the 2,000 to 3,000-word fortnightly essays that have given two generations of Americans the flavor of France.

"My only vices are smoking and working," she said. "But work is the most pleasurable of vices. I believe that life is largely a matter of one's self-development, and my philosophy is that of my Quaker grandmother — she died at 96 — whose prayer was, 'Let me wear out, not rust out.'"

Here are a few bon mots from Miss Planner noted during an interview before she returned to Europe:

"The French aren't open-hearted really, but they act as if they were — and sometimes that's just as good."

"Don't go to Paris now. It's infected with skyscrapers. If you do go, pretend they aren't there. Don't look at them."

"The trouble with France has always been that it had too many varieties of politics. Charles de Gaulle ended that, and politics is quite dull there now, which a great many French will never forgive him."

"The French like money, but no other people love money as much as the Americans do. We still dream of fortunes and still make fortunes here. But France hasn't made an enormous financial killing since the Suez Canal."

"The English are legitimate. They are polite and useful both to themselves and the world. It isn't an empire anymore, but the shape and the sense of responsibility of their civilization remains."

ister told her "he had paid $10,000 for my freedom."

The minister, the Rev. R. Howard Gardner, former president of Samaritan House Inc., a ministry to derelicts, denied the charge.

"This is totally ridiculous," he said. "Nobody has been paid anything for her release."

"I helped her get out of prison by simply asking people in her behalf to turn her loose. But she hasn't paid anybody any money to get out of prison."

"Ruth had fallen in love with me," Gardner said. "It had gone further than the minister bit. This was broken off. I can see now that she is wanting to hurt me."

He said the only money involved was a $3,000 loan he made to Mrs. de Randazzo after her release and $750 in travel expenses he incurred while settling the estate of her mother.

Mrs. de Randazzo and Gary Steven Krist were sentenced for the 1968 kidnaping of Florida heiress Barbara Jane Mackle who survived several days of burial in a wooden box containing an elaborate life-support system.

Krist, convicted and sentenced to life in prison, remains behind bars. Mrs. de Randazzo, who pleaded guilty in May 1969 and was sentenced to seven years in prison, was paroled in April. She married after returning to Honduras.

Powell said Mrs. de Randazzo's letter was turned over to the State Department of Investigation, headed by Col. William Beardsley.

"The matter is currently under investigation by Col. Beardsley and his people," Powell said.

He said Mrs. de Randazzo apparently wrote Carter because of recent charges by the governor that Atlanta area lawyers were charging high prices for little work in helping convicts obtain release. Carter said potential parolees needed no legal representation before the Parole and Pardon Board.

Mrs. de Randazzo said in her letter that when she arrived in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Gardner was waiting for her and told her of the payoff for her freedom. It was not clear whether she reimbursed him.

She also said in her letter that Gardner had her sign a contract giving him exclusive rights to any books or other writings she might offer for publication in the United States and 50 per cent of the profit from the sale of these and any movie rights.

Gardner said the contract was drawn up at her request as a way of repaying him for his kindnesses while she was imprisoned.

Powell said Mrs. de Randazzo enclosed in her letter copies of two she said were written by Gardner. One, to a Honduras bank, said: "Ruth is wanting to buy her freedom and return to Honduras this coming July. Ruth is in need of approximately $10,000. I will be coming to Honduras the last week in April. Please advise me by return mail as to the possibilities of getting this amount of money for Ruth and bringing it back at that time."

The second letter said "This letter is to inform you that you can get all your things and the new contract on the book only if you bring me the $3,750."

Gardner admitted that he wrote the letters but said Mrs. de Randazzo had falsely reported the facts.

Anticancer Troops Meet

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Cancer-fighting scientists from 10 nations are meeting here today to examine the potential of BCG as a possible new treatment for human cancer.

The bacteria substance has been viewed as a prospective treatment for cancer for a decade, according to the U.S. National Cancer Institute which is sponsoring the conference.

There is still no proof whether or not it will work, but research has been encouraging, says the NCI.

Studies also have suggested that BCG might serve to prevent at least one form of cancer—childhood leukemia—although that, too, is unproven, the institute has said.

The two-day conference of 80 scientists represents the first international meeting of researchers studying BCG.

By coincidence, it comes about two weeks after an Oak Ridge, Tenn. scientist reported using the substance against animal cancers. The report stirred widespread but quickly quashed hopes that a major breakthrough had already been achieved toward curing human cancers.

Long-used as an antituberculosis vaccine, BCG more recently came under investigation as a possible means of treating cancer by stimulating the body's natural immunological defenses against disease.

The material is actually a strain of tuberculosis bacteria which causes TB in cattle but not in humans. The idea of using BCG against cancer is based on the fact that most people have developed a natural immunity to TB. Administering BCG to a cancer patient conceivably could reawaken his body's memory of its reaction to TB germs and marshal the body's defensive "shock troops" in great strength against the cancer invader.

Probably in anticipation of the exchange here, the National Cancer Institute last week issued a statement declaring that results obtained during the past few years limited human trials of BCG "while encouraging, do not represent a major breakthrough."

"BCG is not now ready for other than controlled clinical trials in human cancers and probably never will be of use by itself in curing patients with advanced cancer," the statement said, adding that results in human trials were "not definitive."

The institute's statement was triggered by the hope-laden public reaction—especially among cancer patients and their families—to a report Sept. 22 by Dr. Michael G. Hanna Jr. of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, an NCI contract-researcher, that BCG had proven 100 per cent effective in curing cancer in laboratory animals. The Oak Ridge laboratory said the animal research described by Hanna did not represent a major breakthrough in the human cancer field.

Water Quality Bill Sent Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — By near unanimous votes, Congress has sent President Nixon a $24.6-billion antipollution bill which aims to purify the nation's waters by 1985.

The three-year authorization measure must be backed up with appropriations.

Final passage in both houses came within three hours Wednesday evening. The House passed the bill 366 to 11 and the Senate followed with a 74-0 vote.

If fully financed, the water-quality bill would provide $9.7 billion in fiscal year 1973, $9.95 billion in 1974 and $7.65 billion in 1975.

It would allot $356 million for the current year for waste-treatment works already authorized.

Other facets of the bill include:

—A requirement that industries discharging waste into waters apply the best practicable control technology by July 1, 1977 and the best available by July 1, 1983.

—$18 billion in grants to municipalities to build waste-treatment plants and improve sewage collection. The federal government would pay 75 per cent of the cost of building waste-treatment plants.

—Continuance of current water-quality standards plus limits on how many effluents a plant may pour into the nation's waters.

—Required government approval of state guidelines for issuance of permits for disposing effluents.

—Administration by the Army Corps of Engineers of a separate permit program for disposal of dredge or fill material in certain areas.

Plan Enlarging Of Hovercraft

LONDON (UPI)—Hoverloyd, a company which operates air cushion vehicle ferry services across the English Channel, has announced it would "stretch" three of its craft to enable them to carry 288 passengers and 37 cars. Hovercraft operating now have a capacity of 250 passengers and 30 cars. They make regular Channel crossings.

Kidney Is Removed, Repaired, Returned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two operations in which a diseased kidney was removed, repaired, then returned to the human body were reported by a medical school official to the American College of Surgeons today.

Unlike kidney transplants, there is no danger of tissue rejection from a poor match when a person's own kidney is fixed and put back, Russell L. Lawson of the University of Oregon Medical School told the ACS's 58th Clinical Congress here.

The diseased kidney is placed in an iced saline bath allowing the surgeon six to eight hours for slow, meticulous repair without damage to kidney function, Russell said the process also allows for correction of defects in area that otherwise would not be amenable to surgery, he said.

"The concept of removal of the kidney to accomplish surgical repair of blood vessels could also be extended to such problems as questionable kidney tumors where the kidney can be removed from the patient, carefully examined, and then placed back in the patient if a tumor is not found in the substance of the kidney," Lawson said.

The two successful removal and return operations were performed on a 31-year-old man who was admitted to the hospital with blood in the urine, and a 21-year-old woman who had a five-year history of severe hypertension, he said.

Re-Tinning Field Has Become A Family Tradition

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
"My grandfather, father, brothers and myself have all been in this line of work," Stapo Christo remarked.

On Wednesday, Christo, accompanied by two young helpers, his son Pete and Pete's cousin Johnny Johns, was busy re-tinning bowls and pots for Diener's Bakery on Dickinson Avenue. He also had kitchenware from other Greenville kitchens.

"I've traveled in just about all the 48 states," Christo said. "Many of my customers are people I work for time after time."

In between carrying out processes that required rapid skillful application to reach the perfection he wanted, Christo explained that the term re-tinning applies to several steps of cleaning, heating and applying a coat of melted block tin.

The final stage, applying a smooth, evenly thin surface of melted tin to both the inside and outside surfaces of the utensil, is the crucial test.

Judging from the flawless finish on a large mixing bowl Christo had just completed, it is obvious he is a master of his trade.

"It's a very exacting thing," Frank Diener Jr., commented, "that requires after cleaning getting the exact reduction of surface tension. "Judging the right heat is the heart of the secret," he added. Christo said that the work involves the use of muriatic acid, zinc, block tin, ammonia chloride and other compounds. "The finished product," he observed, "gives more protection to bakers and the people eating the baker's goods."

He mentioned that for heating he now used compressed butane gas. "It's faster, easier and not as dangerous." In years gone by heating of the metal was accomplished by the use of charcoal or kerosene fed heating devices.

Diener said he was delighted to have Christo take care of his equipment. "It's no longer easy to find a good re-tinner," he remarked. "In some places they're called tinkers, and there's perhaps 200 left today in the U.S. who travel around doing this work."

The baker added that the advent of stainless steel and plastic had cut into the need for re-tinners. "I can get the same job done by sending my bowls back to the factory," he noted, "but I have to pay freight both ways and be without my bowls for about eight weeks. Having someone come here is much better."

Asked whether he felt his son Pete would follow in his footsteps, Christo said, "I don't know, but it has been a tradition in our family for a long number of years."

Taft Is Admitted To Bar Association Boy And Dog Rode A Train

Thomas F. Taft, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoover Taft Jr. of Greenville, has been admitted to the North Carolina Bar Association.

Taft was sworn in during ceremonies here Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Walter W. Cohoon of Elizabeth City.

The new attorney, a 1964 graduate of J.H. Rose High School, completed requirements for his A.B. degree in 1968 from Duke University and earned his degree in law from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Law earlier this year.

Taft served as president of both his freshman and senior classes in law school and was editor in chief of the North Carolina Law Record, a school publication.

He studied at the Hague Academy of International Law in The Netherlands during the summer of 1971 and earlier served as an intern at the United States Embassy in Chile during 1967. Taft is a member of the Army Reserve.

Currently working as assistant state headquarters director for the Jim Hunt for Lieutenant Governor campaign in Raleigh, Taft reported that he plans to eventually establish his law practice in Greenville with his father.

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Two youngsters playing near a railroad track got on a flatbed car Wednesday and then the freight train started to move.

One jumped off and was injured.

The other didn't jump because he had his brown puppy with him. The puppy refused to jump and he couldn't leave him.

Boy and dog traveled 65 miles before the train was stopped at Belmont, N.C., and they were taken off unharmed.

Three-year-old Tommy Burnett, a chubby blond in a rumpled red shirt was cuddling the puppy when police lifted them from the open car.

"Ritchie told me to jump off, but puppy wouldn't jump," he said.

Jerry Richard "Ritchie" Belcher, 5, his cousin, had been found in a gravel pile near the tracks in a textile mill village near Spartanburg. He was taken to Spartanburg General Hospital.

The children's mothers had been visiting relatives in the area and couldn't find the boys when they got ready to leave.

Safe at home in Spartanburg Wednesday night, Tommy said, "Me and Ritchie just wanted to look at the train."

Correction

It was reported in yesterday's Daily Reflector that North Pitt High School had a first-place exhibit at the Pitt County Fair.

According to Joseph Nelson of Bethel Middle School, the winning exhibit actually represented the Career Awareness program of Bethel's Kindergarten through Sixth-Grade School and the Middle Occupational Exploration Program of the entire county school system.

Volume Of Sales Continues High

FARMVILLE — The volume of sales continued heavy yesterday on the Farmville tobacco market.

The market averaged $90.57 per hundred pounds after selling 499,328 pounds of leaf for $452,282.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, leaf grades accounted for most of yesterday's volume. More smoking leaf appeared on the warehouse floors yesterday than any previous sales day this year.

Damaged and carried over tobacco from last year accounted for a large percentage of sales.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 14,447,833 pounds of leaf for $12,882,765 for an average per hundred pounds of $89.17.

McGovern Pledges Policy Of New Internationalism

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern said today President Nixon's foreign policy is one of "unconscious isolationism" and pledged if elected to supplant it with what he called a new internationalism.

The South Dakota senator said he would as president extend diplomatic recognition to The People's Republic of China, a step Nixon has said is not in prospect in the foreseeable future, despite his own summit diplomacy in Peking.

As always, McGovern vowed to withdraw immediately from the war in Indochina, but the speech he prepared for the City Club of Cleveland was his first detailed account of his foreign policy intentions toward the rest of the world.

McGovern said the United States is isolated from allies and trading partners by "six gun diplomacy and failure to consult," and from the developing nations by attitudes that favor big business there.

"We are isolated from reality by the insistence that tough talk and big Pentagon budgets are somehow synonymous with national manhood," McGovern said.

"I suggest that we must reject this unconscious isolationism in favor of a New Internationalism based not only upon our vital interests, but also upon the kind of nation we can and should be," he said.

McGovern thus sought to take the foreign policy offensive against Republicans who have charged that his proposals for defense cuts, withdrawal from Indochina and U.S. troop reductions in Europe add up to a new isolationism.

"Let us have the defense we need," McGovern said. "But let us not permit the insatiable appetite of our military to replace our good sense, and undermine the prospects for reduction in the balance of nuclear terror."

He said under Nixon "we are becoming a second-rate nation in the terms that will really count in the 1970s," in international economics, and cooperative aid for the developing nations.

McGovern issued his 13-page foreign policy manifesto as he campaigned in New York and Cleveland.

He began it with an appearance before Democratic nationalities groups in New York City, saying it is the Democrats, not Nixon or the Republicans, who have historically encouraged openness in U.S. immigration policies.

McGovern did his vote-hunting Wednesday with a half-dozen speeches in Buffalo and New York City, campaigning among blacks and leaders of organized labor appearing before a Liberal Party dinner in New York that drew more than 1,500 people.

McGovern was joined at the dinner by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who described the 1972 choice as one "between the courageous and the corrupt," and by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

who said "there's still time to fight" for the Democratic ticket.

Red Tide Is Going Away

BOSTON (AP) — A red tide of toxic algae has all but disappeared from the waters off the Massachusetts coast, but it remains trapped inside clam shells in commercial beds and may prevent clam digging for another eight weeks.

Dr. William Bicknell, state commissioner of public health, said Wednesday commercial harvesting of softshell clams and mussels remains banned, and it would be at least two weeks and maybe eight weeks before diggers can go back to work.

"The organism (red tide) is now probably down to its normal levels in the water," Bicknell said. "We are waiting for the toxin to naturally wash out of the shellfish..."

"The red tide issue is not over," he said, disputing a Food and Drug Administration statement earlier in the day that all shellfish now being harvested and shipped from New England are safe for consumers.

Bicknell said that before commercial clam beds are reopened, certain tests proving negative must be performed consecutively over a two-week period on every clam bed affected by the ban imposed Sept. 18.

SCLC Faces Up To Scarce Funds

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Severe financial straits have caused the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to let nine full-time staffers and some part-time employees go — at an annual saving of $100,000.

Bernard Lee, executive assistant to SCLC President Ralph David Abernathy, said Wednesday that former executive director Stony Cooks resigned in protest over the recent cutbacks, fearing they would cause curtailment of SCLC programs.

But, Lee added, the staff reduction will have no effect on the organization's programs.

Reservist Unit Offers Credits To Retirement

Voluntary Training Unit (VTU-14) of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves needs new members. This is an excellent opportunity for non-commissioned officers and officers to earn their reserve retirement credits, according to Major Sheldon C. Downes, commanding officer of the Rehabilitation Counseling Program of East Carolina University. He said the meetings are held every two weeks on Wednesday evenings. Two credits are earned each time with extra credit given for instructors. This system of earning credits makes it easy for reservists to earn 50 credits, which constitutes a satisfactory year. Members remain eligible for promotion along with their contemporaries on active duty, he said. For further information contact Major Downes, the commanding officer, at 758-6961 or 756-4722.

statement fails to give specifically what harm would be done to the environment.

"Channelization is an agriculture factor which causes an increase in sediment and nutrients in water," Wertheimer told the court. "The cumulative effect the project would have on timber, fish and other wildlife should be discussed further in the statement."

Winberry asked that a temporary restraining order not be issued. He said the intervenors would not let any contracts for the project.

"If the court of appeals had meant for us not to advertise for bids, they would have clearly said so at the hearing held in Greenville, SC., recently," Winberry said.

Larkins said that, since the intervenors did not plan to award a contract for the project, he saw no harm in granting the temporary restraining order.

"It is a matter of honor," Winberry told Larkins. "We feel a restraining order is unnecessary."

Prefers Govm't Clark Honored Handle Issues By Red Cross

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Issues concerning the Vietnam war and prisoners of war are "in the best hands" when they are dealt with by the U.S. government, says a newly freed POW.

Maj. Edward Elias, one of the three POWs released by North Vietnam, said Wednesday that matters involving war and captive servicemen should be handled "government to government and not between a diverse bunch of individuals."

Elias spoke at a news conference at Maxwell Air Force Base where he is undergoing medical checkups after being brought home last week by a group of antiwar activists. He was captured after his plane was shot down last April 20.

But Elias, 34, said "These issues about the war, and about the prisoners of war issues, I feel have always been, and are now in the best hands that they could possibly be in. And that is the government of the United States of America."

The major waved off questions about the treatment of American prisoners in North Vietnam, saying he did not want to make any statement that might jeopardize the servicemen he left behind and their possible release.

Elias, whose residence is at Moody AFB in Valdosta, Ga., said that being chosen for release "came as a complete shock." He said he didn't know why he was given his freedom.

Elias, joined at the news conference by his wife, Georgia, said he plans to stay in the Air Force and make the military his career.

The board of directors of the Pitt County chapter of the American Red Cross, meeting Wednesday night, honored recently retired chairman Joe Clark for his service.

Clark, who retired after four years as chapter chairman, received a plaque from the board during the dinner session at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Clark will remain active in Red Cross work, it was noted, in an advisory capacity.

Also honored during the meeting, presided over by new chairman O. E. Dowd Sr., was Mrs. James T. Little who is retiring from the board after many years of service. Six retiring members will receive certificates recognizing their years of service on the board. During a short business session, the treasurer reported that the Pitt chapter will receive its full budget request of $21,717 from the Pitt County United Fund.

A report was also given on a project underway in which the local chapter is working with the Federal Government and county Social Services Department in contacting elderly persons who may qualify for food stamps.

Alexander Graham Bell was 29 years old when he invented the telephone.

the Tar River upon completion of the project (an adverse effect which cannot be avoided); and the effect on shellfish, shad, herring and other species; and some damage to hardwood timber would be noticed.

The fact that Weyerhaeuser owns 17 percent of the land in the watershed project was brought out in yesterday's hearing.

Hughes pointed out that only one owner in the entire project was mentioned by name. That was the property owned by the Voice of America. According to Hughes, the law requires that federal property in such projects must be identified.

"We are not concerned about the amount of property owned by Weyerhaeuser," Hughes said, "as much as we are interested in the 83 percent of ownership that belongs to the farmers."

Winberry said he felt the impact statement presents fairly both sides of the controversy. NEPA requires the statement to include the following: environmental impact of the project; any adverse environmental effects; alternatives to the proposed project; and a discussion of the relationship of short term uses of man's environment and long term productive consideration.

"I feel the impact statement has done this," Winberry said.

Richard Wertheimer, attorney for the environmentalists, said, although the statement had mentioned some adverse effects the project would have on the environment, the

Rampants Hosting New Hanover Eleven

The only thing left now is a winning season. That's all Rose High School's Rampants can look forward to now. With an 0-2 conference record, the chances of winning the league title have evaporated. But with a 3-2 mark overall, the chances of posting the first winning season in several years is still a definite possibility.

This week, the Rampants chase after that fourth victory, going against non-conference foe New Hanover High School of Wilmington. The game is set for Picklen Stadium Friday at 7:30 p.m.

New Hanover comes into the game with a victory in its last game over conference foe Hoggard. The Rampants, of course, come in following their 14-0 loss to Rocky Mount.

"We should have been able to play without Al (Hunter)," Coach Dave Bumgarner said of the loss. Hunter, who had rushed for over a hundred yards a game going into the contest, broke a small bone in his left hand on Thursday in a physical education class at school. He was able to play, but his hand was heavily bandaged and it affected his play.

Twice on pitchouts, the ball struck the wrappings and bounced away. On one of these plays, Rose turned the ball over the Rocky Mount; on the other, they lost yardage. The injury in affect took away the outside running game of the Rampants and threw all of the pressure on fullback Reggie Perkins.

Perkins performed well, picking up over a hundred yards for the third time in five games, but the team failed to push over a score for the first time this year.

"We just weren't prepared for an injury like this," Bumgarner said. "We just couldn't adjust in time and do the things we normally do on the field."

The coach added that it should be possible for him to move his backfield around and not lose efficiency. "But we just didn't have the people ready to step in a situation like this," he added. "And the injury hurt our morale," he said. "Even if we had someone ready to go, it still would have hurt us mentally not to have Al in there."

Hunter is still questionable for this Friday night's game. "I'm not anticipating his playing," Bumgarner said.

"We probably played our poorest offensive game," the coach added. "Except for Reggie, we just didn't have it. If anyone has played exceptionally well with consistency all year, it's been him. He gives us 100 per cent plus every week."

Because of the poor play, Bumgarner and his staff did not named a player of the week. "We did fairly well defensively until we let them score their first touchdown."

The coach did single out Fred Lemmond for his movement into the defensive backfield with little advance preparation.

Wilmington and Rose have met two common opponents so far this year, Jacksonville and Rocky Mount. The Wildcats were beaten by Rocky Mount, 7-5, in the second game of the season, and then beat Jacksonville, 28-18. Besides the 14-0 loss to Rocky Mount, Rose downed Jacksonville, 28-21, with the Cardinals scoring on the next-to-the last play of the game, to pull close.

Overall, the Wildcats have the same record as the Rampants, 3-2. They have also beaten Hoggard and Kinston, while losing to Reid Ross of Fayetteville.

"Their offense is similar to that Jacksonville runs," Bumgarner commented. "They move the ball well, and they have an excellent field goal kicker in Larry Bullard."

The Wildcats and Rampants thus appear to line up as two fairly even teams. They, too, like Rose do not pass much but stay on the ground just about the entire game. They depend on the running of Ron Taylor and Jimmy Worrell.

"Both of their running backs are good," Bumgarner said. "But they just don't appear to have a passing game."

Defensively, the Wildcats run a 4-4 defense, but it has proved vulnerable. They have not held anyone scoreless and everyone has been able to move the ball on them.

One of the Wilmington schools is slated to join the expanded Division — conference next year, and Bumgarner feels that New Hanover will be the one to come in.

Rose's offensive lineup will have Bob Higgins at split end and Ronnie Rasberry at tight end; Charles Tyson and Maurice Sheppard at tackles. John Calhoun and Dave Matheis at guards, Phil Ragazzo at center; Dean Phillips at quarterback; Matthew Clark at fullback; and Reggie Perkins and Keith Joyner at halfbacks.

On defense, it'll be Henry Bunn, Ronnie Moore, Lee Cherry and Tyson across the front, with Jackie Savage, George Price, Harding Sugg and Mike Harris at the linebacking spots. Fred Lemmond, Nat Perkins and Dickie Johnson will be in the secondary.

Wood Surprised Over Positions

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Glen Wood, a lean, graying ex-racer from the Virginia hill country, is one of auto racing's most noted car builders. He also is an eternal pessimist.

"I'll admit I was surprised, agreeably so," Wood said Wednesday after a pair of his cream-puff Mercurys captured the first and third starting positions for Sunday's $123,000 National 500 stock car race.

"I thought there were several cars here that were faster than ours," said the 48-year-old veteran, whose car dealership and winning cars have made him wealthy.

"I'd have bet money — and I'm not a gambler — that someone else would get the pole," he added.

The pole honor went to three-time Grand National stock car champion David Pearson, whose speed of 158.539 miles per hour was the best recorded at the 1 1/2-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway in three years.

Buddy Baker, making only his first big speedway start in a Dodge formerly driven by Bobby Isaac, grabbed the other front row spot with a speed of 158.450 m.p.h.

Wood's other driver, racing's all-time money winner A. J. Foyt, was third best with a speed of 157.770 m.p.h. And if anyone in the Wood crew was disappointed, it was Foyt.

"It's a new car," the husky, battle-scarred Foyt said, "and we're still sorting it out. The car was capable of winning the pole, and I have nobody to blame but myself. I could have used the $1,000."

Nonetheless, Foyt was the only one of five visiting drivers from the United States Auto Club (USAC) who managed to win one of the 12 up-front positions available in Wednesday's qualifying trials.

Gordon Johncock and Roger McCluskey, the latter fresh from a 500 mile, $134,000 triumph in the California 500, posted speeds too slow to make the lineup.

They were expected to try again today, when a dozen more berths were to be filled. Bobby Unser, the 1968 Indianapolis winner, and Butch Hartman, the 1971 and 1972 USAC stock car titleholder, were expected to join them.

Wednesday's other top qualifiers included Bobby Allison, a pole sitter in 12 races this year, who had to settle for the other second-row position, with a speed of 157.530 m.p.h. in a Chevrolet; and Isaac and Fred Lorenzen, who placed a pair of Chevrolets in the third row.

Wood, a pioneer stock car driver in the 1940s and 1950s, has had the most successful season of his career as a car builder. Foyt and Pearson together have brought the team $208,295 in prize money in only 16 races.

Rose 3rd In Meet

TARBORO — South Edgecombe High School captured a three-way cross-country meet yesterday. South Edgecombe picked up 33 points to down Rocky Mount, which had 40, and Rose High School, which trailed with 55. Low score wins in cross country.

Joe DeLoach of South Edgecombe took top honors, finishing the course in 11:59.4. Second place went to Keith Lanier of Rocky Mount who was times in 12:12.

They were followed by Lee Tolar of Rocky Mount, 12:14; Robin Savage (RM), 12:25; Huber Mullins (SE) 12:27; and Marvin Smith (SE) 12:30. Rose High School's first finisher was Gary Cayton in 12:34, good for seventh. He was followed by Gary Walton of Rose in 12:47 and their teammate Art Klose in 12:49. Chase Williams of South Edgecombe rounded out the top ten, finishing in 12:55.

Other Rose finishers included James Davis, 16th; Dwight Lawler, 19th; Hugh Stokes, 20th; and Lee Pulley, 22nd.

Stasavich Is Hospitalized

East Carolina University Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich has been admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of "chest pains."

The 59-year-old former head football coach is in the intensive care unit of the hospital, and will be there for "four or five days" according to his wife. She said that as of this morning, she had not heard the results of any tests that Stasavich had been given yesterday on his admission.

"He suffered some pains last week," Mrs. Stasavich said. She added that he had seen a doctor during the week and that he had stayed in over the weekend to rest. "He seemed to feel better on Monday and said that Tuesday he felt better than he had in some time," she went on. Tuesday night, however, recurring pains led him to contact his doctor, and enter the hospital for tests and treatment on Wednesday morning.

"Stas seems to be in real good spirits," his wife said. "Of course, he doesn't like to be hospitalized; it's just not his style."

Stasavich suffered a heart attack in 1963 while in South Carolina coaching an East Carolina game against Presbyterian College. He sat out the rest of the season that year as the Bucs put together the first of three straight 9-1 bowl seasons under him. He bowed out of the direction by telephone from his bedside.

Stasavich retired as coach following the 1969 season, turning his full-time attention to the position of athletic director.

Brinkman Records

DETROIT (AP) — Shortstop Ed Brinkman of the Detroit Tigers who did not make an error in his brief appearance against the Boston Red Sox Wednesday, set two major league fielding records.

Brinkman one of only three players in the American League to play in all his team's games this season, finished with only seven errors—four fewer than the previous low of Larry Bowa of Philadelphia and Leo Cardenas of California.

Brinkman finished the season with a .990 fielding percentage, .003 better than Bowa's old major league mark.

Pirates Fall; Reds Win In Last Games

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer
"People don't relate to past performances," said Manager Bill Virdon of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "They relate to play-offs and whether you win or lose."
And for Virdon and his Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds, the regular National League season is "past performances," and their future is the league play-offs and a chance to face the American League in the World Series.
Pittsburgh, the East champion, ended the season Wednesday night, losing to Bob Gibson and St. Louis 4-3. Cincinnati, meanwhile, beat Houston, the team that has been chasing the Reds in the West, 4-2.
"Now we just have to start all over again," said Pirates' pitcher Steve Blass, waiting for the play-offs to begin in Pittsburgh Saturday.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said his club is ready and, actually, much better than his league champion team of 1970.
"This has been our best pitching staff in three years I've been here," said Anderson.
Gibson finished the season with a 19-11 record. He helped his own cause against Pittsburgh by driving in the Cards' first run with a fifth-inning single. He also snapped his record of most 200-strikeout seasons by fanning 11 Pirates and running his total to 208. It is the ninth season of 200 or more strikeouts for him.
Johnny Bench hit a fifth-inning sacrifice fly to provide the Reds' winning run. Earlier, Dave Concepcion had hit his second homer of the year for Cincinnati.

In other National League Games, San Francisco beat San Diego 6-4, Philadelphia edged Chicago 2-1, Los Angeles downed Atlanta 4-1 and New York topped Montreal 3-1.
In the American League, it was Minnesota 14, Chicago 2; Milwaukee 1, New York 0; Kansas City 4, Texas 0; Boston 4, Detroit 1 and Oakland 2, California 1.
Bobby Bonds hit a three-run homer in the eighth to give San Francisco its margin of victory over San Diego. The Padres had a 4-3 lead on the strength of John Jeter's two-run blast in the top of the eighth.
A pinch hit home run by De-ron Johnson in the eighth broke a 1-1 tie and gave Philadelphia a victory over the Chicago Cubs. Larry Bowa drove in the Phils' first run in the second inning but the Cubs' Jim Hickman tied the game with his 17th homer in the bottom of the inning.
Claude Osteen scattered eight hits to win his 20th game for Los Angeles. He was backed by two home runs by Steve Yeager and one by Tom Paciorek.
Jim Beauchamp's two-run homer in the sixth inning broke a 1-1 tie and gave New York Mets' rookie Jon Matlack his 15th victory. Montreal led 1-0 going into the sixth as Bob Bailey scored in the fourth on a double play. The Mets' first run came on an error, an infield out and a wild pitch.

Martin Gets New Contract

By EARL GERHEIM
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Billy Martin couldn't ask for much more except for his Detroit Tigers to win the American League pennant and the World Series.
Martin, whose Tigers clinched the AL East flag with a 3-1 victory over Boston Tuesday—ending a tense division pennant scramble—had his contract, reportedly worth $65,000 and due to expire after the 1973 season, extended Wednesday for one year.
Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, who had been on the way out before his faltering Red Sox unleashed a late-season charge and finished just one-half game behind Detroit, was rehired for two years with a $10,000 increase, boosting his salary to $60,000.
Announcement of the two contracts was made just before Boston defeated Detroit 4-1 Wednesday in their final game of the year.
Also on Wednesday, Minnesota, which secured third place in the AL West by crushing the Chicago White Sox 14-2, gave Manager Frank Quilici a contract for the 1973 season, and the Cleveland Indians rehired Ken Aspromonte for at least two more seasons.
Martin, who earlier had rejected a one-year extension, later changed his mind and said: "I got the money I wanted, so I'm very happy. It was either a longer term or more money. I got the money."

Kasko's job appeared shaky before the Red Sox rallied after the All-Star break and charged into first place, a position they ultimately lost to Detroit.
"I'm real pleased with the contract and very pleased with the way our ball club came on in the last couple of months," Kasko said. "It was enlightening the way we came on and I foresee a bright future."
Terms of Quilici's one-year contract were not announced but his salary was believed to be about $30,000. He led the Twins to a 41-43 record after replacing Bill Rigney on July 6 and is the fifth manager in six years to work under Owner Calvin Griffith.
"There should be some changes made as far as personnel is concerned," said Quilici. "We can't be content with the kind of pitching we have. We have to be concerned with defense."

Lolich Doesn't Think Tigers Over The Hill

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers have won the chips in the American League Eastern Division and now head west for a game of higher stakes.
Next stop: Oakland, for the American League play-offs.
"They call us the over-the-hill gang and things like that because of all the veterans on our squad," says Tiger pitcher Mickey Lolich, "but I don't think we're that bad."
Apparently, some of the book-makers in Las Vegas don't think that the Tigers are that bad, either. They're rated a toss-up to win the best-of-five game series from the A's, winners in the Western Division.
The Tigers, who closed out the regular season Wednesday with a meaningless 4-1 loss to the second-place Boston Red Sox, will deal Lolich in the first playoff game Saturday at the Oakland Coliseum.

The A's ended their regular baseball season Wednesday night on a positive note by whipping the California Angels 2-1. In the other AL games, the Minnesota Twins pounded the Chicago White Sox 14-2; the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the New York Yankees 1-0, and the Kansas City Royals blanked the Texas Rangers 4-0.
In the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the Chicago Cubs 2-1; the New York Mets topped the Montreal Expos 2-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Atlanta Braves 4-1; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Houston Astros 4-2 and the San Francisco Giants defeated the San Diego Padres 6-4.
Oakland Manager Dick Williams awaits the Tigers' arrival with confidence.
"The club we'll play has been my preference," says Williams. "That's mainly because we have had better success against the Tigers than the Red Sox."
The A's took the season series from the Tigers, eight games to four. They were 3-9 against the Red Sox, who lost the Eastern pennant by a half-game.

Oakland's Jim "Catfish" Hunter will face Lolich in a duel of 20-game winners.

Marty Pattin fired a four-hitter as Boston beat Detroit Wednesday and deprived Joe Coleman of a 20-game-winning season. Coleman, instead, wound up with his 14th loss after giving up all of Boston's runs in six innings.
Pinch-hitter Don Mincher's seventh-inning single drove in the winning run in Oakland's victory. John Odom, tuning up for a start in the second game of the play-offs Sunday, won his 15th game for the A's.
Bert Blyleven won his 17th game for Minnesota with the help of a 19-hit attack.
Johnny Briggs hit a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning for the game's only run and Jim Lonborg pitched a three-hitter to lead Milwaukee over New York. Roger Nelson pitched a two-hitter, both singles by Ted Ford, as Kansas City beat Texas.

No Such Thing; But It's Okay

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League has said there is no such thing as a television blackout, then gone on record as opposing a bill that would lift the blackout for pro football fans.

"NFL home territories are no longer blacked out on television on Sunday afternoons even when the home team is playing a game at home," NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday.

A bill eliminating local blackouts of home games "does not deal with blackouts," Rozelle said. "It is an effort to prescribe by statute which NFL games must be telecast in what area on what occasions."

The NFL commissioner said only nine teams—the Cincinnati Bengals, Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers, Minnesota Vikings, New York Giants, New York Jets, Philadelphia Eagles, Washington Redskins and Denver Broncos—are sold out for their remaining games of the 1972 season.

Robin Ficker of Silver Spring, Md., who identified himself as president of a Redskins fan club, said the Skins' 53,000 season tickets are purchased by only 13,569 persons or corporations.

Ficker asked the subcommittee to amend the bill to allow no one to purchase more than two season tickets "until everyone who wants two season tickets has them."

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., co-sponsor of the bill and chairman of the subcommittee, said President Nixon has endorsed the bill and wants to see it passed before Congress adjourns.

"I'll tell you how serious this has become," Pastore said. "This has become a national crisis."

Two witnesses, both identifying themselves as football fans, supported the bill that would allow home games to be televised locally if they are sold out 48 hours before the contest is to begin.

The three-day hearing ends today with several witnesses, including Baseball Commission-

RYAN'S HOT STREAK
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — During one hot pitching streak, Nolan Ryan of the California Angels has allowed less than one run a game over a stretch of 100 innings. In that period he struck out 125 American League batters and walked only 42. Ryan came up with the New York Mets and was traded to the Angels just before the season for Jim Fregosi.

Bike Race Scheduled

Playoff Coverage

Plans for the "Greenville-Beargrass 37", a bicycle race for college students throughout the state, have been finalized according to B.L. Hunt, originator of the race.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company will televise virtually all of the American and National League baseball play-off games beginning Saturday.

The race will be held in Greenville on Saturday at 9 a.m. and offers ten cash prizes. Top prize will be $200.

An NBC spokesman said Wednesday night that the first NL play-off game, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh Saturday, would be nationally televised at 1 p.m. EDT, followed at 4 p.m. by the opening AL game between Oakland and Detroit at Oakland.

The event is open only to college students and will be sanctioned by the East Carolina University Bicycle Club.

Sunday, only the Detroit at Oakland game will be televised, starting at 4 p.m.

Cyclers will begin the race near the Pitt County Courthouse Saturday morning, and will pedal to Bear Grass, a community about 18 miles from Greenville and return. The total distance of the races is 37 miles.

On Monday, with the AL teams idle, game No. 3 in the NL series will be televised from Cincinnati, starting at 3 p.m.

Students throughout the state are invited to register for the event. Registration blanks may be obtained at most college and universities across the state. A registration fee of $1.50 has been set to cover the cost of headbands issued to each race along with numbers for identification.

Tuesday, the AL game at Detroit will be televised at 1:30 p.m., and if the best-of-five NL series is not yet settled, game four will be televised at 3 p.m. However, the spokesman said that only portions of the NL game would be shown until the AL game is completed, then the rest of the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati game will be shown.

The same procedure will be followed Wednesday—if both series have not been decided. And if a fifth AL game is needed, it will be televised at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Detroit.

Students may also contact Hunt by calling (919) 752-4080.

Pirate Kickers Fall To 'Hawks'

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington held East Carolina University scoreless in the second half, while picking up a goal of its own to take a 3-2 soccer victory over the Bucs yesterday.

East Carolina came right back with a goal by Tom O'Shea, with an assist by his brother Danny. But the Seahawks came right back scoring the tying goal on a shot by John Howarth.

Wilmington then came back in the final five minutes of the game, scoring the winning goal. Coach John Lovsted singled out the play of Danny O'Shea, Kunkler, Tom Pozer and Brad Smith, but noted that the team did not play well.

East Carolina, now 1-2 overall, travels to Lexington, Va., on Saturday to face VMI in its second conference outing. The Pirates are 1-0 in the league.

No Shortage Of Volunteers To Be 'Smokejumpers'

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD
Associated Press Writer
MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — A U.S. Forest Service smoke-jumper is called on to risk his life parachuting into the remote and rugged timberlands of western America for as little as $3.52 an hour, yet hundreds of young men apply for the few available openings each year.

At the Aerial Fire Depot just west of Missoula there are no new faces this year. Weeds cover the obstacle course at the nation's largest smokejumper base and parachute instructors are busy with other tasks.

Dick Baldwin, manager of smokejumper operations, explained that for the first time since the Forest Service traded pack mules for parachutes 32 years ago, there were enough returning veterans this season to fully staff the 140 authorized positions.

Although they are attached to the Forest Service's Region One—a sprawling territory encompassing nearly 27 million acres of national forests in Montana, Idaho and Washington, and slightly more than one million acres of national grasslands in North and South Dakota—the smokejumpers are called on to fight major fires anywhere in the western United States.

Under usual circumstances, 20 to 40 new men are selected each year from as many as 800 applicants, Baldwin said. The cutback of a 25-man contingent based in Alaska, coupled with the high rate of returning veterans, filled all the positions, he said.

The average smokejumper this year, he said, has more than three years of experience and three and one-half years of college.

The men who qualify as smokejumpers and complete the rigorous four-week training program can look forward to parachuting to 6 to 10 fires a year.

Smoke jumpers have logged more than 100,000 jumps since Rufus Robinson of Koonsia, Idaho, and Earl Cooley of Hamilton, Mont., made history July 12, 1940, by being the first airborne firefighters. They bailed out of a Ford tri-motor plane to reach a blaze in the Nezperce National Forest in central Idaho.

"Our people are the best-qualified forest firefighters in the country," boats, Baldwin. Smokejumpers see service from April through October, with the most active season from June to September. Some say they pursue the dangerous work because of the travel opportunities. Others like the pay—more than $4 an hour for a veteran of four years of service—which is above average money for seasonal work in this part of the country.

"It's a real good summer job for a teacher," said Joe Kroeber, 29, a high school biology teacher from Jamestown, N.D. A veteran of 10 seasons as a smokejumper, Kroeber has made 106 jumps and works an 8 to 5 day when not fighting fires. To hear the muscular Kroeber tell it, jumping into a forest is about as easy as taking a Sunday drive. Landing in trees, he said, is easy because the chute catches in the branches "and you don't have the hard impact that results when you land on the ground."

In his view, the biggest problem "is crawling back up to pick up your parachute after the fire is out."

Most of the jumpers don't worry openly about the risks, saying they are well trained to cope with the dangers. "If I'm on the ground and I'm all right, I really don't care about the jump," said Mike Javins, 28.

A squad leader with 105 jumps to his credit, Javins said the toughest work for a smoke-jumper is packing into a fire site with 100 pounds of equipment after bailing out a few miles from the flames.

Despite the risks, no Region One smokejumper has ever been killed in a parachute jump and only one Forest Service parachute instructor has lost his life while parachuting, officials said.

The biggest disaster in the history of the Aerial Fire Depot was in 1949 when 12 smoke-jumpers and a district fire ranger were trapped by flames and killed in a mountain gulch near Helena. The Forest Service says the men had jumped safely into the area and became trapped after winds reversed the direction of the flames.

The training program required of prospective jumpers has been termed as tougher than Marine Corps boot camp.

Each day begins at 6:30 with either exercises or a two-mile cross country run before breakfast. During the day, between sessions on map and compass use, the men practice jumps from a tower and trampolines and practice firefighting techniques in nearby wooded areas.

After seven jumps from an airplane into relatively clear areas, the men are ready for their first assignment on a fire.

"At least 90 per cent of the fires we go to are lightning-caused," Kroeber said. The fires, he said, flare up in areas where men have never set foot.

Ex-Resident At Seminar

WASHINGTON, D.C. — George L. Jenkins Jr., a former resident of Greenville N.C. and currently a management analyst on the executive staff of Washington mayor Walter Washington, recently attended a one-month seminar for training of Training and Development Managers at Aspen, Colorado. The 30-day program was sponsored by the National Training Development Service, whose goal is to improve the level of managerial and executive efficiency of state and local governments through training. Jenkins was one of 20 other executive level government officials from major U.S. cities attending the program.

The son of the late George Lee Jenkins, Sr. and Mrs. Bertha Lee Jenkins, the Washington, D.C. official expects to receive his doctor's degree in political science from Howard University faculty, teaching classes in national, state and local government.

It includes interpretative essays by Dr. Lokken, accompanied by Logan's correspondence and writings on several areas of science.

Public TV Is Launching Campaign To Combat VD

CHAPEL HILL — A nationwide campaign against venereal disease will be led by the nation's 224 public television stations (including the University of North Carolina Television Network) with a series of special TV broadcasts this month.

The campaign will be launched with a special, hour-long program, VD BLUES, to be broadcast coast-to-coast at 8 p.m., Monday, October 9. Host for the program will be late-night talk show personality, Dick Cavett.

VD BLUES will be seen in this area over Channel 25, WUNK-TV.

The TV presentations will be followed up nationally by an extensive campaign on the part of over a dozen national medical, educational and social organizations to combat the spread of venereal disease. During the last few years VD has reached epidemic proportions in the United States and gonorrhea is currently our most reported communicable disease.

VD BLUES is being produced by WNET-13 in New York with a grant from the 3M Company and content assistance from the American Medical Association. Other national groups will provide follow-up campaigns in their own areas and are disseminating material to the local public TV stations for their viewers.

VD BLUES will consist of dramatic vignettes and songs combined with a hardhitting, frank presentation of facts about the symptoms of venereal disease, its various forms, causes, how it can be prevented and cured, and what happens if VD is left untreated.

Among the performers and writers who have contributed to the program are Jules Feiffer, who has written an original sketch, "Silverlips" for the program and Arlo Guthrie who will sing "Child of VD", an unpublished song written by his father, Woody Guthrie, in 1949.

A major segment will feature Broadway stars James Coco and Robert Drivas as gonorrhea and syphilis germs in a sketch which begins on a humorous note but ends in a frightening depiction of how the diseases work their torments on the human body.

"The show has its frivolous moments as well as its serious ones," said Cavett, "but the purpose is dead serious." This is an entertainment show, not a documentary program, aimed primarily at the young folks. It is a show they'd watch, not a program they'd be told to watch.

"It is very worthwhile to have the opportunity to contribute to the lessening of a disease that has succeeded into 100 generations," he concluded. "The show not only will dramatize the human predicaments of the individuals faced with venereal disease, but will impart to viewers vital information," said producer Don Fouser of WNET-13. Fouser was formerly with the Emmy-winning series, THE GREAT AMERICAN DREAM MACHINE.

Other public television programs that will be related to the subject of venereal disease will include BLACK HOUR-NAL'S October 3 study of the controversial Tuskegee Study conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service in 1932 in which some 400 black men suffering from syphilis were purposely denied medical treatment.

William F. Buckley's FIRING LINE on Sunday, October 15 will be devoted to the subject of sex education and WORLD PRESS on October 12 will look at the venereal disease problems in other countries as reported in their press.

Among the national organizations contributing to the VD campaign are the American Academy of Family Physicians, the National Education Association, the American Library Association, the National Council of Churches, the National Congress of PTAS, and the American Osteopathic Association.

Unemployment Claims Dropped

Jim Hannan, Manager of the local office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission, announced that the overall North Carolina work force for August, 1972 decreased from July, but showed an increase over August 1971.

The recent decrease in employment, August over July, was primarily in agriculture. In Pitt County, the average number of persons filing weekly unemployment insurance claims fell to a yearly low of 225 from a high of 1,071 person; the average weekly rate of covered unemployment during September 1972 was 2.0 percent from a 1972 high of 7.9 percent. The National unadjusted unemployment rate during September was 5.5 percent and State was 3.1 percent. Of the average of 225 persons filing for unemployment insurance benefits during August, 184 were female. During August 1972, 72 of the 225 persons received their final unemployment insurance payment.

The local N. C. Employment Security Office had what it considered an excellent month during August. The local office recorded 226 persons placed in gainful employment in the Pitt County-Greenville area. The local office manager, Jim Hannan, attributes the "good month" to the high rate of cooperation by local employers. The employers do the hiring — the employment office selects and refers a person to a job based on stated employer job requirements. The month of August was termed encouraging.

The local office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission is a non-fee agency to any employer or job applicant; providing applicant testing, referral and under some circumstances a means of training for new employees.

Following the hour-long national presentation, the UNC-TV network will produce a local follow-up providing information about programs to combat VD in the state and where they are

College Reveals $25,000 Gift

BUIES CREEK, N.C. (AP) — Officials of Campbell college have announced receipt of a $25,000 gift from the Cannon Foundation for development of the college's department of government and support of the Graham A. Barden Chair in Government.

Campbell's president, Dr. Norman A. Wiggins, said that gifts and pledges to the Barden memorial now total about $250,000.

The official flower of the state of Washington is the rhododendron.

Dog Traps For Householders

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The city pound has a solution for householders whose garbage cans are raided by dogs.

It will furnish dog traps free of charge. They are wire-mesh cages designed to capture stray or nuisance dogs without injuring them. The traps can be baited with meat or bones and when a dog goes inside to get a free meal a wire gate swings shut. The dog catcher then will come and cart the dog to the pound—from where it can be redeemed by the owner for $7.

Safeguard Cutback Affects N.C. Jobs

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Western Electric Co. has estimated that 5,000 workers in its North Carolina operations will be affected by the Army's cancellation of a part of its multimillion dollar contract for the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system.

Word of the cancellation came Tuesday and the Army said it was the result of the ABM limitation treaty signed by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Western Electric maintains Safeguard headquarters in Greensboro and manufacturing plants in Greensboro and near-by Burlington for production of radar, computer equipment and missile parts.

The company reportedly plans to shift some telephone manufacturing from Winston-Salem to Burlington to take up some of the slack.

At Huntsville, Ala., headquarters of the U.S. Army Safeguard System Command, Col. Winston L. Comer, public information officer, said contract terminations or partial terminations also apply to contractors in Boston, Mass., and Syracuse, N.Y.

He said two Alabama firms, UNIDEX Inc., of Huntsville and IPSCO of Decatur, also are involved although the impact on their employment is not expected to be significant.

DON'T LEAVE US BEHIND !!

Staff Sgt. David Demmon was missing-in-action for 5½ years — how easy it would have been to assume him dead. Last November he was seen alive and his status was then changed by our government from MIA (missing-in-action) to POW (prisoner of war). The Viet Cong, however, still refuse to identify David or let him communicate with his family. He is only one of almost 1,600 men whose life may depend on you.

Although war itself is a nightmare of suffering, pain, and death, the indefinite suspended state of not knowing whether your loved one is alive or dead, that has been perpetrated on the prisoner of war—missing in action families, reaches a new low in man's inhumanity to man.

Although North Vietnam has given us an unofficial and incomplete list of prisoners, the Viet Cong and Pathet Lao, who admit holding prisoners, repeatedly refuse to release a list or allow any communication with families.

THESE MISSING MEN MUST BE ACCOUNTED FOR

We must never again repeat the tragedy of not having demanded a full accounting of our men prior to the cessation of hostilities as we did in North Korea. To this date our government is still attempting to secure information on the 389 men who they had evidence were prisoners from that conflict.

If there is any hope that man will ever progress to Peace on Earth, Brotherhood and understanding, we must not allow this inhumanity to be perpetrated any longer. The solution to this tragic war must include neutral international inspection and identification of all prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

North Vietnam and her allies have shown themselves responsive to public opinion. Since widespread concern began in October 1969 more than 200 men, whose families had waited for years for knowledge of their very existence, were finally allowed to write.

It will take even greater concern and growing public opinion to insure the safe return of all our unidentified prisoners. You are public opinion, only you can help.

A simple metal band engraved with the name of a POW or MIA and the date he was lost.

Don't wear it unless you want to get involved. When one assumes the one-to-one bond with a stranger who is unable even to ask for your concern, and to enter the pain of his family, something happens to you.

The Worry Clinic Case Number Aids Response

Nita's request took us several hours to solve, for she failed to give us the exact Case Number! Since this column pulls the heaviest letter input of any advice feature, it saves us time when you use the Case Numbers.

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-510: Nita J., aged 26, is a high school Latin teacher. "Dr. Crane," she began, "you had a case last winter about the value of studying Latin. "I wonder if you could send me a copy, for I have lost the original column which I had clipped from the newspaper. "We Latin teachers wish to reproduce it and mail copies to all the high schools in our state. "For many school principals nowadays come into those executive positions via coaching jobs or else by way of Business Education majors.

"Thus, they need to be prodded into realizing that the ability to read fluently is predicated on Latin. "And it offers a far more cultural background than many other courses, don't you agree?"

Case Numbers
Nita didn't remember the actual Case Number for the column about Latin.

So my secretaries lost several hours of valuable time trying to find when it ran!

A dozen times per week this same complication arises, with a resulting loss of much time.

So when I launched this clinical column in everyday psychology and psychiatry, I employed actual office cases and numbered them.

For if you mention Case B-319 or X-451, etc. we can find them in a few moments if you give us the exact Case Number.

Remember, this is the heaviest mail-pulling "advice" column in American journalism, with Ann Landers usually running second.

And via the mail service, I offer helpful counsel to assist your local Mental Health Association.

Via mail, I can thus go into far more detail in showing you the background factors that lead to divorce, delinquency, school dropouts, neuroses and other forms of maladjustment.

In this brief printed column I must compress many lengthy office sessions with patients into 500 words.

But you may often need a much more comprehensive dissection of those background factors that produced your serious dilemma.

And "serious" problems you certainly have, for they can lead to divorce, criminality, school dropouts and even suicide or insanity!

So I don't offer flippant wisecracks or joke at your expense!

Instead, I follow the second bit of advice from Confucius, who said:

"If you give a hungry man a fish, you feed him for one day. "But if you teach him HOW to fish, you feed him for 100 years."

In this column, therefore, I try to teach you HOW to analyze your own problems and then solve them happily.

Thousands of doctors, professors, clergymen and business executives now have their secretaries maintain complete scrapbooks of these daily cases.

For they furnish you the most complete and comprehensive set of scientific analyses of human dilemmas.

Mothers, pay your children to develop a scrapbook for you own family use, too!

Index them under various headings, as Marriage, Child Rearing, Business Psychology, Public Speaking, etc.

As regards Latin, it is the best foreign language of all for high schoolers, far surpassing 2 years of German, French or Spanish in its ultimate aid for reaching college and also developing a wide English vocabulary!

She Pays

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has ordered the second ex-wife of Gerald Paul Glickman to pay his first ex-wife $8,852.80 in alimony and child support.

Court documents showed the decision Tuesday stemmed from a unique arrangement in which the second ex-wife and Glickman agreed to the payments in exchange for the divorce between Glickman and his first wife.

Glickman later married and divorced Mrs. Glickman No. 2.

Mrs. Glickman No. 1 sued Mrs. Glickman No. 2 because her former husband was considered "uncollectible."

No Action On Reassignments

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County School Board Monday night met with a number of students and parents seeking reassignment to school districts other than the ones they are currently attending.

No action on requests was taken, with the board pointing out that the earlier ruling still applied, the one that states a student must attend the school located in the district in which he lives.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠
A correct reading of his opponents' distribution provided South with the information required to uncover a winning line of play and thereby salvage his six no trump contract which was momentarily threatened by an adverse division in clubs.

Altho North's hand is worth 19 points including distribution, usually sufficient for an immediate jump shift response when partner opens the bidding, the presence of a potential misfit caused him to adopt a more cautious approach initially. He contented himself with a temporizing one round force by responding with two clubs. South's rebid of two no trump shows roughly the equivalent of an opening no trump bid (the actual range is 15-18 high card points).

North was now determined to reach a slam and made one more try for a suit contract by bidding three diamonds. When South merely returned to three no trump, North abandoned further exploration and proceeded directly to six no trump.

West opened the ten of hearts, the deuce was played from dummy and East won the trick with the king. The latter shifted to the nine of spades and South put up the ace. Declarer appeared to be on the verge of success, for with any normal division in clubs, he could expect to take five club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and three spades.

He tested the clubs first by cashing the queen and then leading over to North's jack. When West showed out, discarding a heart on the second round—South's trick total was temporarily reduced to 11. Declarer had several things going for him, however. East was known to have five clubs and his shift to the nine of spades presumably marked West with the outstanding length in that suit. If this were, in fact, the case—neither opponent could protect diamonds as declarer cashed out his side winners, and the diamond suit would ultimately produce a 12th trick for South.

The ace and king of clubs were cashed on which South discarded the deuce of spades and the deuce of diamonds. West realized from his partner's shift to a high spade, that he would have to retain his holding in that suit. He put off his discarding problems temporarily by disposing of his remaining hearts—the nine and ten.

South now cashed the ace of hearts and led over to his queen. West was obliged to give up the six and seven of diamonds. The king and queen of spades came next on which dummy parted first with the three of diamonds and then the four of clubs as both opponents followed suit.

West was known to have started with one club and four hearts. Since he was presumed to hold the fourth spade, this would indicate that he also began with four diamonds. Since he had already discarded two cards in that suit, the outstanding diamonds appeared to be divided two-two. The king of diamonds was played followed by a small one to North's ace. When East's queen dropped, the jack of diamonds took the last trick.

Encyclopedia In Stone Perused

MOSCOW (UPI)—Ancient inhabitants of the forbidding "Black Mountains" of southern Kazakhstan had domesticated camels and used them to draw two-wheeled chariots more than 3,000 years ago, according to a "stone encyclopedia" discovered there recently.
The "stone encyclopedia" consists of about 3,000 rock drawings depicting village life of three millennia ago and was found on the northern slopes of the "Black Mountains," the shown in the drawings are similar to those used by the ancient Romans.
