Major Bills Still Await Congress

Inching To Adjournment

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inching toward final adjournment, Congress planned to tackle several major bills today but it appeared likely two of them would delay the end of the session until early next week.

The legislators had intended to adjourn the 92nd session by Saturday.

But no settlement seemed probable before Monday or Tuesday on the Social Security-welfare bill now in a House-Senate conference committee, and the $250-billion spending ceiling President Nixon had requested.

Both houses extended the Thursday sessions into the night in an effort to whittle down the last-minute crush.

The House passed the compromise $74.3-billion defense appropriations bill, one of the largest in history. The Senate planned to vote on it today and send it to the President.

The House cleared the compromise revenue-sharing bill and sent it to the Senate which plans to pass it on to Nixon this afternoon. The measure would distribute $30 billion in federal funds to the state and local governments over five years.

The spending-ceiling measure Thursday was cleared by the Senate Finance Committee for floor debate. The panel's 8-8 tie vote blocked efforts to put restrictions on Nixon's power to cut federal programs to stay within the $250-billion ceiling he seeks for the current fiscal year.

The legislation was scheduled for consideration by the full Senate this afternoon.

Democrats said they would continue the fight to put some limits on the bill's broad grant of authority to the President.

As the bill passed the House, the President could cut any program by any amount he chooses, to hold spending to the $250-billion limit.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, said he believes the Social Security-welfare bill would force the session into next week if nothing else did.

Conferees today were to conduct their third meeting in an effort to resolve conflicts between the House and Senate versions of the 989-page bill.

The Louisiana senator, head of the Senate conference delegation, said many decisions remain, but that an agreement seemed likely by Monday or Tuesday.

The Senate shelved a bitterly disputed antibusing bill Thursday and thus shunted aside one of the biggest obstacles to adjournment.

A third attempt to shut off debate on the bill failed to muster the needed two-thirds majority and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield moved to put the measure aside. His motion carried 59 to 26.

The bill, passed by the House Aug. 18, would have put an end to almost all busing for school-desegregation purposes.

Kissinger Reports On 4 Days Of Secret Parleys

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon received a breakfast briefing from adviser Henry A. Kissinger today as the administration continued its silence on whether his intensive Paris negotiation had made progress toward ending the Vietnam war.

Before a crackling fireplace in the White House family dining room, Nixon conferred with Kissinger, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, and Kissinger's top assistant on the National Security Council, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Nixon was given an initial report from Kissinger and Haig Thursday night after they returned from Paris and an unprecedented four days of private talks with North Vietnamese negotiator, Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

Kissinger and Haig, upon arriving Thursday night from Paris, said nothing to newsmen. The two went directly to the White House for an initial report to Nixon.

A White House source said he knew of no immediate plans to disclose what has gone on in the negotiations. So far Nixon has said only that "the negotiations are at a sensitive stage."

Against this backdrop, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott Thursday predicted that the United States' "warlike participation" in Vietnam will be over by Jan. 20.

The White House silence on the secret negotiations, matched by Hanoi's silence, has set off flurries of speculation that a peace deal is near at hand. But some rumors also portray the rival envoys as still far apart.

The announced circumstances suggest that the two sides have gone into each others' peace terms in considerable detail, perhaps refining differences in a way to allow leadership decisions on the next negotiating move.

If so, Nixon could be weighing options brought home by Kissinger. A decision on the timing and scope of the next U.S. move would be up to the President.

Nixons Welcomed In Atlanta

Greenville Gross Retail Sales For June Showed Near 13 Per Cent Climb

Greenville recorded a 12.8 per cent increase in gross retail sales in June over 1971 figures for the same period, according to a report by the N.C. Department of Revenue Statistics.

June sales this year totaled $10,908,003, compared with $9,668,438 recorded last year. For the first six months of the year, gross sales here were $62,075,458, up some 11.5 per cent from $55,639,239 last year.

Wilson, with a 23.2 per cent June increase, led cities in this area although Morehead City posted the best overall eastern increase with 28.8 per cent. Wilson's sales climbed from $8,556,601 last June to $10,544,474 this year while six-month totals reflected an increase of 13.4 per cent on sales of $58,139,964 over $51,263,660.

Washington had a June increase of 17.4 per cent as sales rose from $5,562,061 to $6,530,446 this year. January-June totals were $33,718,434, up 15.4 per cent from $29,205,229 last year.

Goldsboro recorded a 15.2 per cent rise in gross sales as figures were $14,859,311 in June over $12,896,820 last year. Totals for the six month period were $81,856,474, up 16.2 per cent from last year's $70,392,467.

Totals for Kinston were $11,931,582, an increase of 13.6 per cent over $10,494,127. Six-month figures were $63,934,682, up 10.3 per cent from $57,918,567. Rocky Mount had an increase of 8.0 per cent on sales of $15,061,114 in June over $13,942,566 while first six months figures showed an increase from $75,767,451 to $83,879,919, or 10.7 per cent.

Jacksonville had a 7.8 per cent increase on sales of $9,954,570, compared with $9,230,882. Sales for the six month period were $57,340,867, up 11.6 per cent from $51,339,697. Williamston recorded a slight increase as sales increased from $2,416,163 last June to $2,507,501 this year. For the first six months, gross sales were $15,045,809, up 5.6 per cent from $14,238,622 recorded last year.

New Bern was one of only two eastern towns to record decreases in sales as 1972 June figures showed a drop from $9,260,402 to $8,994,356, or 2.8 per cent. Sales for the first six months indicated an increase with $53,298,077, up 8.4 per cent from $49,154,687.

Monday Agenda

Site and land acquisition reports will be on the agenda for the Greenville City Board of Education meeting Monday night at 8:00 p.m. at the boardroom of the Central Administration Office on West Fifth Street.

Other matters on the agenda will include a budget report through September 30; audit reports on the 71-72 financial summary; the final document of the local budget for 1972-73; a report on school food services; matters in school curriculum and personnel; and a number of miscellaneous subjects, including discussion of American Education Week.

Distribution Of Heroin Charged

Bobby Gene "Mule" Corey, 31, was arrested at 603 Gooden Place early today on charges of distributing controlled substances (heroin).

Greenville police, members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and East Carolina University police officers participated in the arrest which stemmed from an April incident, Chief Glenn Cannon said.

Bond for Corey was set at $5,000.

The arrest took place about 12:05 a.m.

Nixon Campaigns On Achievements

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, declaring "there is much left to be done," has carried briefly into the South a re-election campaign he said is designed to "appeal to all."

Nixon was greeted by a blizzard of confetti and cheers of thousands of Southerners as he rode down Atlanta's Peachtree Street Thursday in one of his infrequent campaign appearances.

Then, talking to 200 campaign officials and party leaders at an invitation—only reception, he asked them to spread this message:

"We are proud of our record. We are proud not only of what we have done in moving toward a more peaceful world, in moving toward a new prosperity without inflation or without war, in moving toward progress and opportunities for all, but there is much left to be done."

The President, saying "what I am trying to do is to appeal to all, added it is essential that "we find a way to make this nation one nation, that we find a way to work together, that we find the way in this cam- his cam-paign and in this electi- on to be guided by our hopes and our ideals and not by our fears and our hates."

Nixon's six-hour trip to Atlanta, his first public campaign appearance in two weeks, probably will be his only journey to the South in his low-key campaign against Democratic nominee George McGovern—a challender never mentioned by name.

The President is working on a weekend radio braodcast on domestic issues, and is expected to make a quick foray into the Midwest next week. But he told newsmen who asked about his campaign plans Thursday that he is limiting his travel because "I have to be president first."

According to police estimates relayed by White House spokesmen, up to 700,000 turned out to welcome Nixon to Atlanta. One police commander told newsmen he thought the crowd size was upwards of 300,000.

As dozens of high school bands blared and partisans waved signs of support, a beaming and waving Nixon moved along Peachtree Street as tons of shredded paper drifted down from the Southern skies.

Later, the confetti combed from his hair, Nixon traced for selected supporters from 10 Southern states "the No. 1 issues in the nation."

"First," he said, Americans "want this country to be strong," and second, they want peace.

Campaign Report

Some $24,186 has been collected or pledged so far toward the Pitt County United Fund goal, according to Spencer Hill, special assistant to Karl Faser, campaign chairman.

Hill said that the first report submitted by the ten county division chairmen did not include most of the large industrial contributions and with those expected to come in soon the total should show a marked increase.

The UF official encouraged all division leaders to continue their efforts towards conducting a short, effective campaign and pointed out that Pitt County United Fund coordinators are hoping to complete the campaign by Oct. 27.

Hill said that weekly reports will be made by division heads concerning progress in their respective areas.

This year's campaign kicked off on Oct. 2 and officials are aiming for a fund goal of $157,526.

Muskie Suspicious Campaign Sabotaged

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination was riddled with an "astonishing series" of incidents of apparent espionage and sabotage.

Though sidestepping accusing specific individuals, the Maine Democrat and his staff suggested Thursday that Republicans were to blame.

Muskie said he has not ruled out the possibility of filing suit against the Committee for the Re-election of the President and certain White House officials linked in published reports of alleged sabotage.

The occurrences labeled suspicious by the Muskie staff peaked during the period the senator was considered the frontrunner for the nomination subsequently won by Sen. George McGovern.

The incidents dropped off when Muskie's campaign faltered.

The list released by the Muskie staff included possible cases of wiretapping, stolen documents, forged campaign literature, false news releases, and bogus telephone calls arousing voters in the middle of the night.

The list was prefaced with the admonition that the incidents had not been thoroughly investigated and were "not intended at this time as charges against any individual or group."

John T. McEvoy, the senator's administrative assistant, said the incidents "were not undertaken in the spirit of fun. They were undertaken to destroy a candidate."

Muskie said, "Over the past 18 months, there have been a number of inexplicable incidents that seem to us to be inevitably involved with somebody's sabotage efforts."

In a related development, Chairman Wright Patman was stymied in efforts to conduct House Banking Committee hearings on financial aspects of the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building.

Republicans on the committee boycotted the session Thursday, as did the four White House and re-election committee officials who Patman, DTex., had invited to testify.

But one of those Patman sought to question, Maurice H. Stans, was ordered to appear in a Miami court to testify in the trial of Bernard L. Barker, one of the seven men indicted in the Watergate case.

Report 'Emergency' In Pine Beetle Infestation

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development was told today that an emergency situation now exists in the state as the Southern Pine Beetle continues to kill pine trees of all species.

"Piedmont and mountain areas of the state have seen the most drastic increase in beetle destruction," the Forestry Committee reported.

It said there have been great increases in beetle activity within the last two months, and the outbreak is the worst in 10 years.

The committee also reported that although seven male gypsy moths were trapped in the state this season, there "is no established infestation in the state at this time and no immediate danger" to the forests from this pest.

The report was one of 10 presented to the board at its quarterly meeting by divisions of the C&D Department.

The Commerce and Industry Division reported that investments in new and expanded industry in the state during the quarter totaled $180,410,000 and created a total of 8,326 new jobs.

The division said environmental concerns and the higher quality of industry which is seeking to locate in the state has made the workload "somewhat of a problem" for its industry hunters.

The State Parks Division said attendance at state parks from June 1 through Labor Day was up 7.76 per cent to 1,585,645.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By MARY L. BRANCH

Hi! Conley is the place where excitement begins.

As we discuss the interesting events that happen here, we sometimes overlook the person who makes these things possible. James R. Carraway, our principal, has quite a responsibility. He must make dicisions that will benefit the student body. No one can do a better job than he is doing.

Our Chess Club officers were elected this week. The president is George Franke; vice-president, John Maye; secretary and treasurer, Janet Tucker; and sergeant-at-arms, Melvin Edwards. They play chess during their lunch hour.

Mrs. Nancy Evans and Mrs. Sarah Perkins are responsible for having a couch and two chairs upholstered in the teacher's lounge. What a pretty improvement! The faculty expresses their appreciation.

Mrs. Brenda Little, Mrs. Sarah Perkins, Mrs. Eva Rountree and Mrs. Beulah Mebane, along with the Future Homemakers of America members, attended a district rally held at East Carolina, Saturday, October 7. The theme was "Building Today For Tomorrow."

Mrs. Brenda Little's Clothing Occupations class completed their garmets and are entering them in the J.C. Penney sewing contest.

They are planning to make stuffed animals for the crippled children of Pitt County. They will be given during the orthropedic clinic at the health department.

Mrs. Judith Carter, student teacher in home economics, assisted the FHA handbook committee in preparing books for club members. Students in FHA are decorating cheese boxes. At their last meeting, Mrs. Barbara Parker, Librarian, spoke on the need to read.

Excitement builds as homecoming nears. This is one event we are really looking forward to. The homecoming candidates will all feel like Cinderalla at the ball. Good luck to them!

Our homecoming candidates for senior queen are Darlene Boyd, Glenda Denton, Dorothy Foreman, Beverly Gatlin, Cathy Phelps, Jane Porter, and Linda Loyd. Junior candidates for princess are Loretta Adams, Barbara Carmon, Annie Clark, Pam McLawhorn, Janet Tucker, and Polly Ward.

Sophomore candidates for princess are Gloria Bostillo, Hattie Carmon, Debbie Cox, Kathy Heath, Carol Jones, and Debra Mills.

Homecoming is tonight from 10 until 12 p.m. The dance and activities will be held in the Conley gym. Admission at the door is $1.50 but $1.00, if purchased in advanced. Students will dance to the music of the "New Challengers," from Wilson.

Bonnie Sue Purser spent a day with Dr. Joseph C. Bateman, veterinarian. It gave Bonnie a chance to see if this is the work in which she would like to pursue. She will also spend a day at Central Carolina Technical Institute at Sanford.

The California Mental Maturity Test was given Tuesday morning under the direction of our guidance department.

We would like to welcome back Melvin W. Rountree, assistant principal, to Conley High School. We're glad he has recovered from his illness.

Conley has a leadership class in the planning. This class is the first in this state to be taught at school.

The class would meet at lunch time for about 30 minutes. Conley's club and class officers are the students that are encouraged to attend. This is quite and honor to have a pilot class which is so educational. See you next week!

Chilean Strikes Spread Against Socialist Plan

By SERGIO CARRASCO
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende's troubles increased today with the announcement of an indefinite strike by small businesses, retail shops, the construction industry and private farmers.

They were called out in support of a nationwide trucking strike and to express their opposition to Allende's socialist program.

The Marxist president declared a state of emergency in Santiago and a large part of populous central Chile Thursday as a result of the trucking strike, now in its third day.

Gasoline rationing was ordered as some service stations went dry, and some bakeries ran out of flour.

Despite the state of emergency, Jorge Fontaine, president of the Confederation of Production and Commerce, said the sympathy strike would begin today.

The confederation's members are threatened by Allende's plans to convert Chile to socialism eventually.

Fontaine said in a broadcast they were striking because of "repeated attacks against freedom to work and freedom of expression and to express our solidarity with the national trucking movement."

The University Student Federation, led by Communist Alejandro Rojas, issued a call to impede "the new reactionary escalation aimed at defeating the government."

The Councils of Supplies and Prices, formed by the government in poor neighborhoods to report store owners charging more than official prices, called upon its members to take measures "to open the businesses that remain closed."

The truckers' strike began late Tuesday after the breakdown of talks between the government and the Confederation of Truck Owners, which is demanding higher cargo rates.

Some 300 truck drivers and owners, including confederation president Leon Vilarin, have been arrested and charged with breaking the internal security law.

Gen. Hector Bravo, chief of the emergency zone for Santiago province, banned all demonstrations as well as publication of news that the government considered "exaggerated, alarmist, tendentious or provocative."

The general, in a nationwide broadcast, also forbade the carrying of firearms by civilians, ordered police checkpoints to control traffic into Santiago and ordered the police to patrol roads and highways to keep the striking truck drivers from blocking them, as they did the Pan American Highway north and south of the capital Wednesday.

Annual Meet On Saturday

Dr. G. A. Weimer, local anesthesiologist and president of the state society, will preside at the sessions.

Included on the agenda for the session is a scientific program to be presented by Dr. Duke B. Weeks of the Bowman Gray Medical School Department of Anesthesiology on problems of humidification in anesthesia, and election of officers for the coming year.

The estimated 25 to 30 participants at the session are scheduled to attend the East Carolina University-Citadel football game Saturday afternoon to be followed by a dinner at the Candlewick Inn.

Other activities include a tea held for the doctor's wives by Mrs. Weimer and a barbecue lunch prior to the football game.

Lower Leaf Grades Seen

FARMVILLE — Offerings on the Farmville tobacco market yesterday consisted of more poor grades than any previous sales day this year.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, the volume of sales was heavy on all floors. However, the volume after next week is expected to be much lagither as the 1972 acution season approaches an end.

Williams said some piles sold from 98 cents to $1.04 per pound. Good quality ripe leaf is in the strongest demand of the season, Williams said.

Leaf and cutter grades accounted for most of yesterday's volume.

The market yesterday sold 553,110 pounds of tobacco for $499.607, for an average per hundred pounds of $90.33.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 16,604,390 pounds of leaf for $14,847,600, for an average per hundred pounds of $89.42.

See Larger Leaf Crop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Production of all types of tobacco this year has been estimated at 1,727 million pounds, according to the Agriculture Department.

The estimate, the department said Thursday, is up one million from the September prediction and 20 million more than the 1971 crop.

The estimate for flue-cured tobacco was set at 1,011 million pounds, down two million from September and 67 million less than 1971 production.

The flue-cured yield estimate was put at 1,949 pounds per acre, compared with 2,050 last year.

The burley crop was estimated at 568 million pounds, a 1 per cent increase from September and 20 per cent above last year's crop.

Estimates for various types of tobacco, along with last year's production, included:

Flue-cured Type 11, North Carolina 232,750,000 and 260,440,000; Type 12, Eastern North Carolina Belt 329,700,000 and 354,570,000; Type 13, North Carolina 88,200,000 and 97,680,000.

Flue-cured Type 13 South Carolina 134,400,000 and 133,245,000.

Burley Type 31, North Carolina 17,710,000 and 14,455,000.

Lester Adams Named To Helms Veterans Group

Lester E. Adams of Greenville has been named to a 30-member "Veterans for Helms" committee, it was announced by GOP Senate hopeful Jesse Helms.

Helms, a Raleigh broadcasting executive who is opposing Democratic candidate Nick Galifianakis in the November election, said that the committee was being formed to help publicize his views on national defense policies.

The COP candidate announced the formation of the group at a "Veterans for Helms" breakfast and news conference in High Point this week and said that the committee will be headed by Thomas D. Linnins of Greensboro

Also named to the committee from the eastern part of the state was Robert L. Mohler of Washington.

State Fair Opens Today

RALEIGH (AP) — The 105th annual North Carolina State Fair opened its gates this morning for a nine-day run.

Secretary of State Thad Eure was to represent Gov. Bob Scott at formal opening ceremonies this afternoon.

This will make the fourth year of a nine-day fair. For many years the fair ran for only five days.

Publicity director Bob Wills says he is not superstitious about opening on Friday the 13th.

"I feel that we had our bad luck last year when it rained the last five days," Wills said Thursday.

A special space show, "Returns from the Future," will be a feature of this year's fair. The exhibit will include the Apollo 12 command module, an astronaut's suit and other artifacts.

Performers who will appear in Dorton Arena during the fair include Art Linkletter, John Davidson, Bobby Vinton, Davey Jones and Kenny Rogers.

The James E. Strates rides and shows will be on the midway.

His Poetry Is Corny, But It's An Earful!

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: About that man who sang to his tomatoes: I can top that. I read poetry to my corn.

After planting the seeds for sweetcorn, I got out my Shakespeare, turned to Julius Caesar and improvised:

"Sunshine, bumble bees and cornstalks.
Lend me your ears."

And believe me, it works. If you wish, I will send you a picture of the corn as it is now, growing rapidly in a flower box on my front porch. I hope you won't think this is too corny to print.

KERNEL SAM GUGGENHEIM,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

DEAR SAM: Never mind the picture. I'm a sucker for corn, so send me your ears?

DEAR ABBY: Just read your letter about the guy who thought "music" would help his vegetables grow, so he went out in the garden with a six-pack of beer and serenaded his tomato plants. Could he have been growing "stewed" tomatoes?

FORMER IOWAN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are middle-aged with five children, ages ranging from 9 to 21—all home and, of course, in school.

My husband nets a fair income, and I have a part time professional job, a 12-room house, and am active in church and civic affairs.

The last two years the teen-age children [ages 13 to 19] of my two married sisters have been hitchhiking to Mother's every time they have some difficulty at home. Mother isn't well [as my sisters know] and since Mother lives near me and I look after her, you know where the kids end up. That's right. With me!

We have trouble enough keeping our own kids in line without taking on the responsibility of our nieces and nephews and I am sick and tired of all the extra cooking and cleaning and laundry for these kids, not to mention the expense. I am fond of them, but I don't want them in my hair all the time.

Some of the kids are pretty far out, and already I see some of their kooky ideas beginning to take root, and I am honestly afraid of leaving them alone in my house when I go to work. I am all for sending them home after a week's visit, and making a rule to have only one of them here at a time. My husband says, "Ask Abby." What do you say?

STUMPED IN W. VA.

DEAR STUMPED: I say seven days of them would make one weak! But don't surprise them with the news. Let them know NOW that you have placed a ceiling on their visits.

DEAR ABBY: I don't pretend to be a paragon of virtue, but I am a somewhat confused member of the male sex. I am not quite 85, but it burns me up when a young woman puts her arms around you, gives you a big kiss and all but waves the green flag at you [usually in front of other people] then shows virtuous indignation when you react like a healthy normal male. They get themselves up with their miniskirts, low necklines and all the rest of it, then play hard to get if we take the bait. Either leave us old boys alone or go for broke!

No New Real Thinking On War

Sen. George McGovern's "plan" for ending the Vietnam war, outlined in a television talk Tuesday, offered no real new thinking on his part concerning the war.

Sen. McGovern has been saying for some time that he would pull out of Vietnam within 90 days and this he reiterated in his political talk.

The senator's cease fire would be without any similar concession on the part of North Vietnam. He would also immediately cut off all aid to South Vietnam without any agreement that Soviet Union and China aid to North Vietnam would be halted.

The only threat Sen. McGovern would make to North Vietnam would be to keep U.S. forces in Thailand and off Vietnam's shores until the prisoners are returned. A cease fire order would be signed by McGovern minutes after taking office and these forces would be of no concern to North Vietnam. Since we have no idea whether North Vietnam would release the prisoners, part or all, these forces might hang around for a long time.

Sen. McGovern has offered his plan to the American public. The easiest way for all of us after so long and agnoizing and frustration a war would be to forget the whole thing.

Still we have to recognize that the war has been wound down from more than a half million men to around 50,000. It is true that extensive bombing is going on, but it was not ordered until the north launched an extensive offensive.

There is a strong belief throughout the world that a negoitated settlement is near in Vietnam. It may come before the U.S. election and it may come after, but we are inclined to think it is near.

We recognize there is no guarantee of a successful settlement, but certainly a negotiated end would be the most appropriate way to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

No Two-Party Politics Yet

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Democrats are finding it easier to vote for Republican candidates, but real two-party politics remains an unrealized possibility in North Carolina.

The approaching general

BRYAN HAISLIP

election isn't likely to advance the cause significantly, added Dr. J. Oliver Williams, assistant professor of politics at North Carolina State University.

"What we are seeing is the movement of dissident Democrats, not a realignment of voters by parties," he explained.

The prospect that President Nixon will carry the state does not show GOP strength so much as disaffection for the Democratic candidate, he said. That diminishes any "coat-tail" effect in other races and promises little benefit in building the party.

Tar Heel Republicans are more competitive for top state offices, evident in the aggressive campaigns by Jim Holshouser for the governorship and Jesse Helms for U. S. Senate, Dr. Williams agreed.

Gaps In Candidates List

At the same time, he noted, a lack of candidates left unchallenged many state legislative seats including a number in urban areas where GOP fortunes would be expected to be rising. The voter registration ratio remains heavily Democratic, he added, indicating a majority of citizens prefer identification with that party despite ticket-splitting voting habits.

Twenty years ago students of politics assumed North Carolina among the Southern states was farther along than its neighbors in evloving to a two-party system based on the national political model.

Yet one-party dominance has been unbroken in this state while Virginia has elected a Republican governor, Tennessee a governor, and two U. S. Senators, and South Carolina a U. S. Senator (a Democrat who switched labels).

In that sense, Williams asserted, North Carolina has lagged behind in the political development which had been expected to take place.

In the monumental study, "Southern Politics" by V. O Key, published in 1949, North Carolina was described as a "progressive plutocracy" acting to solve its problems of economics and race.

One-Party Pattern

Key saw the state conforming to the Southern pattern of one-party dominance, but with a difference. "The financial and business elite" which controlled Tar Heel politics under the label of the Democratic Party, he said, exhibited a sense of community responsibility that promoted progress and placed North Carolina in the forefront of the 11 Old Confederacy states.

Political change since that time, Williams observed, "has been more continuous than dramatic." Events unforseen by Key have modified the structure although vestiges of the past remain, he said.

Williams and the late Dr. Preston Edsall of the NCSU politics faculty co-authored the chapter on North Carolina in a recent up-dating of Key's work. Titled "The Changing Politics of the South," the book was published earlier this year by the Louisiana State University Press.

Sorting out the Southern states, the political scientists who collaborated on the book identified a group evolving to a two-party system, a middle group still wavering between old and nwe, and a third group where protest politics remains the theme.

A 'Wavering State

North Carolina fell in the middle group, Williams said.

"The ear of one-party dominance is not yet history and Republicans face real difficulty in winning statewide races," wrote Eilliams and Edsall.

"Yet a new political culture has emerged. Based less on traditional geographic voting patterns, it now reflects the interest and ideology of a growing urban electorate, of a potentially more volatile black vote as well as that of younger, less traditional political participants, many of whom are middle-class immigrants from other states.

"Little partisan realignment has occurred. The urban, middle-class voters retains a Democratic Party identification while voting Republican," they concluded.

"Though much remains of the 'progressive plutocracy,' a persistent effort on the part of organized labor, women, newly enfranchised voters, and blacks may produce major changes in the state's political future."

How soon two-party politics will become established is hard to predict, Dr. Williams said.

The question, he added, is whether the Republicans as a party can begin to cammand the allegiance of a growing body of coters or simply continue to provide an alternative for Democrats dissatisfied with their own candidates.

Brooklyn Poll Amazes GOP

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — Telephoning only non-Republican voters in the Democratic bastion of lushly-financed New York organization can scarcely believe the results.

Except in such immovably-Democratic Brooklyn sections as Flatbush, East New York and Jamaica, these non-Republican voters — most of them registered Catholic and Jewish Democrats with a sprinkling of independents — are telling Mr. Nixon's telephone canvassers today that they prefer him to Sen. George McGovern by well over 50 per cent.

The enormously expensive Republican telephone canvass is designed to turn up possible Nixon voters in traditional Democratic country. It shows a huge 33 per cent undecided among these working-class voters who normally provide the Democratic pluralities essential to overcome Republican strength outside the city.

Republican strategists theorize that at least half this undecided vote will go for the President but won't admit it to a Republican telephone canvasser. But even if the entire undecided voted for McGovern, the acknowledge Democratic defectors plus the regular Republican vote could give the Democratic heartland of Brooklyn to Mr. Nixon, guaranteeing a big Nixon win in New York state.

While no Democratic leader will admit as much, a candid remark by Brooklyn Democratic leader Meade Esposito two weeks ago may have been grimly prophetic.

Introducing McGovern at a drop-in at Canarsie, Esposito made a fighting speech ending this way: "The Brooklyn organization is all the way behind you, Senator, to the bitter end."

Esposito, snubbed by the McGovernites during the New York Presidential primary campaign last June even after he publicly endorsed the Senator, is nevertheless laboring overtime but against grave odds to reverse the anti-McGovern trend among Italian, 'Polish and Irish Catholics and lower-income Jews. McGovern's own managers are not making it easy.

Thus, although McGovern's showing in Brooklyn could well hold the key to New York state, his campaign organization seems oblivious to the ethnic drain that threatens catastrophe. It has not yet named an overall coordinator to concentrate on the ethnic vote. Typical is the Lawyers Committee for McGovern. Only six of its 500 members are Italian, a fact resented by the large Italian-American population of New York City.

Esposito sits in his party headquarters on Remsen Street pumping the telephone to McGovern's Washington headquarters to arrange splashy McGovern rallies with guaranteed crowds, but he cannot get McGovern's schedulers to give him enough advance notice.

In neighboring Bronx County, Democratic leader Pat Cunningham (himself the recipient of one of those telephone calls from Republican canvassers) confronts equally grave programs. Cunningham aides say he has been flooded with ardent appeals from district leaders not to schedule McGovern into their bailiwicks.

With middle and lower income blue-collar workers defecting from McGovern in increasing numbers, the single McGovern bright spot is in Manhattan. A just-completed poll in Rep. Edward I. Koch's 17th Congressional District gives McGovern a margin over the President slightly higher than Hubert Humphrey's 1968 margin.

But the Silk Stocking 17th District, almost 50 per cent Jewish, is anything but typical. The anti-McGovern Jewish defectors, just like their Catholic counterparts, are not in the Silk Stocking 17th but in the working-class areas of Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx. It is there that the Republican telephone canvass is finding so many defectors.

Using well-paid workers manning nearly 100 telephones in New York City alone, the Republican target is 600,000 households (and one million upstate and Long Island) — an unprecendented hunt for Nixon-leaning Democrats and independents.

Against the highly-organized avalanche, McGovern operatives can't afford the $300-per-phone deposit demanded by the New

Strength For Today

HAVE FAITH

We have all upon occassion heard a friend complaining bitterly about a particular event and then later discovering how glad he was, after all, that it had happened. With all our knowledge we humans are still very successful in foreseeing our future and deciding what is best for us. Out tomorrows have a disconcerting way of producing enw experiences and new situations which leave us changed people with changed desires.

Life is sometimes like ar intersection on a superhighway. We know that we must go north to reach our destination, but the road signs tell us to turn south. If we have not driven much on such highways we may be very reluctant to do it. But gradually we learn to have faith in the highway engineers that somehow the turn to the south will put us on the highway north.

That kind of faith on a larger scale is what we need through out life. So often our intentions seem thwarted. We are forced by circumstances to leave our job or to move to a new town. The money we saved for one thing has to be spent for something else. The man or woman we hope to marry marries someone else.

Have faith! Have courage! Even though you cannot see around the bend, the road leads on by ways you do not know to your destination.

Marriage And The GNP

WASHINGTON — For the first time, it has been conclusively proved that the United States loses 34 million man-hours of work each week due to fights between husbands and wives.

Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Institute of Advanced Marital Development has just completed a study on marriage disputes and their effect on the gross national product.

"My study," Prof. Applebaum told me, "indicates that production is affected even more by domestic fights than alcoholism."

"How can that be?"

"For some reason, which we still have not been able to determine, the American wife prefers to start all fights with her husband at bedtime. These fights, which last on the average of two or three hours, prevent the man from getting any sleep. The next day he is completely useless at his job, causing accidents, grave errors in bookkeeping and making horrible decisions in a groggy state of mind."

"That's serious," I admitted.

"We suspected it all along," Applebaum said. "But now we have the data to back it up. This is a case history of a typical American couple in Detroit whom we followed through from dinnertime one evening to lunch the lext day:

"Saxby came home at 6 p.m. had a dry martini, watched the evening news and then shared a delicious dinner with his wife and three children. After dinner he took a bath, read the evening paper and watched the Dean Martin Show. The wife did the dishes, called her mother, took her bath and read a chapter of 'The Godfather.'

"Mr. Saxby said, 'Good night, dear. I have an early meeting tomorrow with some subcontractors to discuss a very important matter.'

"Mrs. Saxby said, 'Good night, dear.'

"Five minutes later Mrs. Saxby asked, 'Why don't you ever talk to me?'

"Saxby who was just dozing off responded, 'Huh?'

" 'You never talk to me any more. You have an awful lot to say to your friends, but you don't have anything to say to me.'

" 'I talk to you,' Saxby said, getting a good grip on his pillow. 'We talk all the time.'

" 'But you never say anything. You don't talk to your children, either. As far as we're concerned, you're just a boarder here.'

"Saxby rolled over on his stomach. 'You're right, I should talk more to all of you. Good night, dear.'

" 'That's typical of you,' Mrs. Saxby said, lighting a cigarette. 'You think you can just end a discussion by saying I'm right. It doesn't wash any more. You won't even talk to me now.'

" 'I'd love to talk to you,' Saxby said, 'but it's midnight and I have this meeting with the subcontractors tomorrow.'

" 'Of course. Your work is so much more important than your home life. Why don't you just move into the office and forget about us?'

"Saxby started punching the pillow. 'Look, I tell you what. Why don't I come home early from work tomorrow and we'll discuss it then?'

" 'I want to discuss it now. Tomorrow it might not bother me.' "

The case histroy said the Saxbys stayed awake until 3 o'clock in the morning discussing not only why Saxby didn't talk to his wife but also an old girlfriend that Saxby had before he was married, a questionable joke Saxby had told at a dinner party the previous week, a poker game Saxby had gone to a year ago and the fact that he had missed his 17-year-old daughter's birthday party when she was 3 years old.

The next morning, according to the case history, Saxby was so sleepy he made a mistake on the subcontracting job, and three months later the Ford Motor Co. had to recall 1 million cars.

Other Editors Say Carstarphen Goes

(Charlotte Observer)

Charlotte lost one of its best public officials last week when William Carstarphen, assistant city manager, left to become city manager at Greenville, N.C. The presence of former Mayor Stan Brookshire and former City Manager Bill Veeder at his farewell said much about the measure of City Hall respect for Mrs. Carstarphen.

At 32, he is bright, efficient and "unflappable." A protege of Mr. Veeder's, he took on some of the city's toughest challenges during his seven years here. His specialty became people and negotiations, two areas that can bring grief to insensitive city governments.

Three years ago he raised eyebrows all over town when he brought in a report to the City Council saying the Park and Recreation Commission had agreed to give up a big chunk of its long-held, jealously guarded autonomy in exchange for some city support. Over months of patient negotiations, Mr. Carstarphen had worked out a compromise that the park board not only agreed to accept but publicly expressed happiness over.

Since then, he has been the city's chief agent in two other sensitive, troublesome "people" projects, Model Cities and Urban Redevelopment. When the Model Cities program all but blew apart under the policies of former Director Paul Hones, it was the young Carstarphen who went in to straighten things out and restore public confidence.

When City Manager Bill Veeder resigned, many people, some of them on the City Council, expected Mr. Carstarphen to be named his successor. Apparently he was a strong contender to the very end, losing out only to the experience and long-proven judgement of an older outsider, David Burkhalter.

We assume that in his work at Greenville, Mr. Carstarphen will acquire the broad background and demonstrate the resonsiblitiy that will make him even more attractive to Charlotte one day. We regret, however, that he felt it was necessary to go elsewhere to write a brighter record.

Dispensations For The Bosses

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — After some hassling during many coffee breaks over the past few weeks or so, the secretaries of America have decided to observe National Boss Day next Monday, Oct. 16.

The observance will be in the form of certain dispensations granted to the boss, "without fear of recrimination," said Margaret Dillon of Birmingham, Ala., president of the National Secretaries Association.

On that day alone, for example, the boss may disappear once without telling his secretary where he is going and for how long, said Mrs. Dillon.

The decision was hardly unanimous, and many secretaries are expected to ignore the day, claiming that their bosses failed to observe National Secretaries Week, which is the last full week in April. Note: week, not day.

The NSA is made up of 29,000 secretaries who have passed education and proficiency requirements that become increasingly tougher as one seeks the coveted rating of Certified Professional Secretary. Only 6,-188 have attained the rating.

Most CPS's are fully capable of running the office and all its occupants, including the top man or woman, as suggested by the following dispensations they are granting their bosses on Monday.

You may:

—Dictate one letter with your back to me.

—Take one file and give it away without telling me to whom.

—Make one business appointment without letting me in on it.

—Make one rude statement about my never being at my desk when you have forgotten the mission on which I was dispatched by you.

—Open the mail this one day and scatter it around with no regard to replying or routing.

—Start dictating 15 minutes before the close of the day instead of the usual 30 minutes.

—Repeat once more the funny story which I have already heard many times.

—Have me place one long-distance phone call and then be away from your office when it goes through.

Understandably, there is a danger, that, permitted such luxuries, a poorly trained or naive boss might fall into bad habits that might seriously offend his secretary. The latter, therefore, will be cracking the whip again Tuesday morning.

Monday is your day bosses. Enjoy it, and don't forget to mark down on your calendar, in legible writing that your secretary can't help but read, that National Secretaries Week begins next April 22.

Marks Of A Winner

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people never seem to have any luck because other people seem to have all the luck.

There are, on the one hand, the losers, and on the other hand, the winners.

The losers usually have a hangdog air as they go through this world, the winners a topdog look.

There are other ways, of course, to tell them apart.

You can safely be reckoned a born winner if —

Snatches Down the Years from Meetings of Hope Fire Company

On March 12, 1897, the old suction hose was sold for $1.17. About two years later the town council ordered harness and horse to pull the engine. On August 11, 1902, it was requested that the Greenville Board of Aldermen be asked that the practice of ringing the firebell each night at eleven o'clock be stopped. On April 2, 1906, it was requested that a whistle be used for fire alarm at night instead of bell. In 1916 the town bought its first fire truck and another was purchased in 1922. Greenville's first Fire Chief was A.J. Griffin, and he was in office from 1896 to 1901. After a lapse of one year he returned in 1902 and served to 1904. From that date until 1928, the following men have served as the chief: S.T. Hooker (1904-05), R. Hyman (1905-?), D.D. Overton (?-1922), F. A. Haskins (1922-1924), D.D. Overton (1924-1925), George Clark (1925-1928). On October 1, 1928, Greenville's present chief George W. Gardner was appointed to the office. Chief Gardner was Greenville's first full time paid chief.

ANNUAL FINANCE DRIVE . . . for the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters gets underway Monday at 9:30 a.m. with a coffee at the home of Mrs. Herman G. Moeller, 100 Lakewood Drive. Funds raised in the past have made possible publications such as a comprehensive resource booklet on city-county government and services; the Community Services Directory; the non-partisan Candidates' Forum with questionnaires; and similar publications. The publications have been placed in social agencies, offices of county agencies, schools and in other places serving the public. Shown in the photograph above are three of the workers engaged in the drive. From left to right are: Mrs. Ernest Marshall, Mrs. Herman Moeller and Mrs. Myron Caspar. (Photo by Betty Casey)

While the employment picture for recent graduates of U.S. college and universities continues to look grim, a very high percentage of East Carolina University graduates have found jobs.

ECU Placement Director Furney James noted that of 987 May graduates who registered with the campus Placement Service only 90 were still seeking employment at the end of August.

"Most of those as yet unemployed remained so because they were unwilling to relocate where the jobs were," he said.

"Some of these were married women who could not find suitable employment where their husbands already have jobs, and others simply did not want to move to the locations where jobs are available."

While most Placement Service registrants were already wage-earners by August, a few were engaged in active military service or planning to continue formal sutdy in graduate programs.

Most of the employed registrants (613) were cited as employed in North Carolina, and 124 were employed in other states.

Job categories reflect the current spectrum of available jobs nationwide, James said. Still in high demand are accountants; 24 ECU accounting majors readily found employemnt in CPA firms, industry and government.

Other highly employable classifications include counselor, recreation director, sales representative, administrative and indsutrial trainee, medical technologist, nurse and physical therapist.

The teaching field is still a varied one, with placements ranging from kindergarten through junior college, but the available jobs have decreased in number.

Among available high school or college teaching jobs, the highest concentration is in the field of business, mathematics, industry, computer science, psychology, sociology and physical education.

Recruitment activity at ECU is about the same this year as in recent years, said James.

"Some companies are returning to the campus to interview our students for the first time in several years," he said. "Otherwise, the same number who came last fall are scheduled to recruit here this fall. We do however, anticipate an increase in recruiting in the spring."

Recently, recruiters have begun to pay more attention to the students' academic records, he said. Now that there are more college graduates vying for the same jobs, employers are attempting to choose the top students from among those available.

Employers who are currently seeking ECU graduates include school systems in North Carolina, New York, Delaware, Georgia, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Virginia.

Those who wish to interview non-teaching graduates are primarily interested in business administration and accounting majors.

Several banks, merchandising firms and industries have scheduled trips to the campus during the fall to interview prospective employees.

The ECU Placement Service also helps former graduates to find better jobs. Thos who are dissatisfied with their present employment often return for other job opportunities, sometimes as much as ten years after graduating. During the past year, about 400 former graduates registered with the Placement Service.

Since September, 1971, James said, 166 firms, industries and school systems visited ECU and interviewed a total of 1,956 students.

FFA Award To Jim Graham

KANSAS CITY (AP) — North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has been presented the Future Farmers of America Distinguished Service Award.

The presentation was made Thursday at the group's annual convention by Tim Burke, national FFA president.

Graham was nominated for the award by C. L. Keels, executive secretary of FFA in North Carolina. He cited Graham's support for national resources and agribusiness education and FFA in North Carolina.

Graham, a former FFA member, has served as state agriculture commissioner for eight years.

Audience Of One

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The West Charlotte High School band got in a school bus Thursday, rode a few miles to a suburban home, and gave a concert for an audience of one.

She was Mrs. J. David Richardson, a school parent who last year led a drive to bring racial harmony to the school and to raise money for new band uniforms.

Mrs. Richrdson was stricken ill this summer, and it was only a few days ago that West Charlotte students learned of it. They began to flood her with get-well cards.

And then the band, Principal Gerson Stroud and student-body representatives got on the bus and drove to her house. She sat in a lawn chair facing the band, wept briefly during the concert, and said, "You are beautiful, beautiful."

Says Nixon Responsible For Long 'Scandal' List

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — Sen. George McGovern said today that President Nixon bears responsibility for an administration in which "political money and special favors flow like the falls of Niagara."

On his third trip to Washington state since Labor Day, the Democratic presidential nominee sought to pin direct responsibility on Nixon for a long list of alleged scandals in an administration the senator has called "the most corrupt in the nation's history."

In a speech entitled "Ethics in Government" prepared for the King County bar association, McGovern said that while dollars from those seeking favors from the Nixon administration flow to Republican campaign finance chairman Maurice H. Stans, "the buck still stops in the White House."

And he noted that Nixon is responsible for the appointment of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, who are involved in controversies over an antitrust-suit settlement favorable to the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the recent U.S.-Soviet wheat deal.

McGovern's speech was the first stop on a long campaign day down the Pacific Coast, featuring rallies in downtown Portland, Ore., and at San Francisco's Cow Palace before he heads to San Diego for the night.

On Thursday, in a nearly 19-hour campaign day that spanned the nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific, McGovern spoke to labor leaders in Boston, a rally at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, and an airport rally at Fargo, N.D., before flying here for the night.

At Fargo, the Democratic nominee again asserted that the Nixon administration permitted six large grain companies to have inside information enabling them to make big profits on the sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union.

He criticized the Price Commission for granting the first of what he said would be a series of price increases by flour companies resulting from the sale, saying the deal eventually would cost American consumers some 2 billion in higher prices.

"Without money," moaned a top McGovern planner, "we have no capacity for planning." Lack of money is indubitably a factor in the looming McGovern defeat here, but a far larger factor, as evidenced by the Republican telephone canvass, is lack of confidence in George McGovern.

YOUNG CHURCHILL

"From the beginning of 1895 down to the present time I have never had time to turn round. I could count almost on my fingers the days when I had nothing to do. An endless moving picture in which one was an actor." So wrote Winston Churchill in "My Early Life." Now the film of that early life has been made: it's called "Young Winston." It was Churchill's own idea, in the beginning. The film is written and produced by Carl Foreman, who had also made "The Guns of Navarone," which Churchill saw and liked particularly for its scenes of action and adventure. He suggested that Foreman should film the account of his childhood, schooldays and adventures as a soldier and war correspondent. That was ten years ago. Sir Winston died in 1965, but writing, researching and planning for the movie went on and the project was finally completed, with Richard Attenborough as director. Three young actors were cast as young Churchill in the different stages of growing up; Anne Bancroft and Robert Shaw play Lady Jennie and Lord Randolph Churchill, Winston's parents. Here are some of the film's scenes side by side with actual Churchill family photographs.

Try Discredit 3 Witnesses

BURGAW, N. C. (AP)—Three defense attorneys have sought to discredit testimony of three state's witnesses in summations to the jury, which continued today in the trial of 10 persons on charges growing out of racial violence in Wilmington last year.

On trial are black activist Ben Chavis and nine others. They are charged with conspiracy to commit arson and assault on emergency personnel — firemen and policemen — during two nights of shooting and firebombing in a black area of Wilmington.

Defense lawyers James Ferguson and Mathias Hunoval had their turns at summation as the trial resumed today, with the prosecution still to be heard from. After that will come the judge's charge to the jury before that panel retires for its deliberation.

The case is being tried by Superior Court Judge Robert Martin. A mistrial was declared in June when a prosecutor became ill before completion of the jury and the trial was removed to Burgaw when the defense contended it could not get a fair trial in Wilmington because of racial feeling.

Charles Becton, Frank Balance and John Harmon appeared for the defense as summations opened Thursday. They sought to discredit testimony of state witnesses Allen Hall, Jerome Mitchell and Eric Junius, who identified Chavis as a leader in the events of the nights of Feb. 5-6, 1971, when a grocery store and two residences were burned.

Firemen were shot at as they sought to put out the fires and police became sniper targets when they sought to protect the firemen.

Pageant Is Set Sunday

The Purity Class of Wells Chapel Church of God In Christ will present its annual "Miss Wells Chapel Pageant" Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the church.

The theme for this year's program is "Young and Beautiful."

The contestants, all members of the Purity Class, include: Miss Clara Boyd, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Boyd of Bancroft Avenue; Mary Russell, daughter of Mrs. Mary Ann Russell of Moyewood; Annie Reddick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Reddick.

Miss Rosalyn Williams is the current "Miss Wells Chapel".

Sunday's program includes a parade of talent by the contestants.

Judges for the event are Miss Debra Mayo, Miss Gwendolyn Speight, Miss Delzora Moore and Mrs. Austin Parker. Mrs. Johnny Wooten serves as the group's advisor.

Miss Boyd and Miss Reddick are students at Rose High School. Miss Russell attends classes at Aycock Junior High.

Four Hurt In 2 Collision

Four persons were reported injured in two collisions here yesterday that resulted in an estimated $4,250 property damage.

Police said heavest damage resulted from a 4:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of N.C. 11-U.S. 13 and Greene Street involving vehicles driven by Earnest Lee Sutton, 42, of 2105 South Village Dr. and Mary Lou Orlowski, 29, of 201 Eastbrook Dr.

Officers, who reported Mrs. Orlowski and a passenger in her car were injured, estimated damage to the Sutton truck at $800 and placed damage to the Orlowski vehicle at $2,300.

No charges were reported.

Drivers of two vehicles that collided about 12:33 p.m. at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Kirkland Drive were reported injured.

Police identified them as Delores Blanton Murphrey of Clinton and Bessie Chapman Smith of 408 Tyson St.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the Murphrey auto and $150 to the Smith car.

Mrs. Smith was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

ANOTHER GARFUNKEL

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur Garfunkel of the former Simon and Garfunkel folk singing duo, yesterday married Linda Marie Grossman, a graphic designer and daughter of a Nashville physician.

Missing, Is Found Dead

A local woman, reported missing by her husband Wednesday, was found dead here yesterday.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, David Lee Adams of 711A Vanderbilt Lane reported his wife Beaulah Smith Adams, 21, missing about 2:25 p.m. Wednesday. Adams told officers his wife had been missing from their home since Monday.

Mrs. Adams was found in a vacant house at 1013 Pennsylvania Ave. — a dwelling formerly occupied by the Adams family — by officers yesterday. Police had been called to the home by a man inspecting the property when he saw what he described as "human feet" from a window.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey, who said investigation into the case is continuing, reported an autopsy is being performed to determine the cause of death.

Plastic Foliage Less Durable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some $50,000 in plastic trees and plants which rim some streets in suburban San Pedro will be replaced with live vegetation—because plastic isn't as durable as the real thing.

County Supervisor James A. Hayes told his fellow supervisors that the three-year-old imitation trees and shrubs simply aren't as strong as live plants. "The artificial plants were not durable enough and it is time that they be replaced," Hayes said.

The supervisors agreed and by a 5-0 vote adopted his motion ordering county Road Commissioner Irvin L. Morhar to allocate funds for live foliage.

Large Audience For Wierwille's Address

Dr. Victor Paul Wierwille, founder and president of The Way and one of the most controversial teachers of the Bible in the nation, addressed a crowd of over 300 Wednesday night at the American Legion Hut with his "tell it like it is" brand of Christian teaching.

High school and college students and many adults from throughout eastern North Carolina gave Wierwille a standing ovation and interrupted his teaching with applause.

"The Word of God is the will of God," Wierwille said time and again. "It means what it says and it says what it means and I don't care if nobody believes it, it's still the truth!" he asserted.

Wierwille is currently on a tour of North Carolina, and other eastern states where The Way is flourishing, especially among high school and college-age people.

Doug Emerson, director of The Way of North Carolina, which is headquartered in Greenville, introduced Dr. Wierwille.

The Way, headquartered in New Knoxville, Ohio, is not a church and it is nondenominational and nonsectarian. It is a Biblical research and teaching ministry designed to help people who are seeking "power for abundant living" in their lives to tap the keys that unlock the Scriptures.

Prior to his visit to Greenville, Dr. Wierwille taught large and enthusiastic gatherings in Louisville, Ky. Charleston, W. Va., Morganton and Raleigh, N.C.

Branch organizations of The Way of North Carolina are located in Greenville, Raleigh, Wilmington, Charlotte, Durham, Chapel Hill, and Asheville. Fellowship of The Way are springing up in dozens of other communities throughout the state.

Humane Society Officer Speaks To Girl Scouts

Girl Scout Troop No. 446, under the Leadership of Mrs. Dina Dorney, welcomed Miss Evelyn Beasley as guest speaker at their Monday meeting at St. Raphael's School.

Miss Beasley, as an Officer of the Pitt Couty Humane Society, discussed highlights of the Society's efforts in combatting cruelty to animals and prevention of over-breeding of unwanted kittens and puppies by their reduced-rated spaying program available to owners of cats and mixed-breed dogs.

The Troop volunteered to distribute literature and pamphlets to help publicize the humane movement in Greenville. Girl Scouts present were Jill Cargile, Sheri Howell, Sarah Cooley, Carolyn Keeping, Susan Sigda, Ann Trotta, Kathy Dorney, Lorri Wagner, Dora Butler and Gina Cullins.

Refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned after a discussion of plans for the Troop to visit the nation's capitol at Washington, D.C. plus a visit to the White House to see President Nixon.

Coed Struck By Car And Charged

Eliza Moore, 19 of Wilson, an East Carolina University coed, was charged early this morning with public drunkeness after she was struck by a car in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets.

Police investigating the 12:10 a.m. mishap reported Miss Moore was allegedly sitting in the lot at the time she was sturck by a car driven by Beverly Sue Knox, 17 of Route 2, Robersonville.

Three Dead In Shootout

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal undercover agent and two men identified by officials as suspected cocaine dealers were shot to death in a West Side motel Thursday night when a trap laid by narcotics agents backfired and a gunfight ensued.

A supervisory agent was critically wounded.

A Bureau of Narcotics spokesman said the two men had agreed to sell the undercover man 10 kilos of cocaine for $160,000 but then, in a doublecross, tried to rob the agent without delivering the drugs.

The dead agent was identified as Frank Tummillo, 25, who had been with the bureau for four years. Officials said he had made contact with the two men two weeks ago.

They agreed to sell Tummillo the cocaine and a meeting was set up for Thursday night.

Charge Bilking By Bank Guard

NEW YORK (AP) — A bank guard has been arrested and charged with bilking a blind customer when he helped her make withdrawals.

"Charlie was always so kind and obliging," said Juliette Silvers of Charles Harper, 32, "though he acted kind of slow and would sometimes say, 'Oh, I forgot to have you sign the slip—sign it here, please.'"

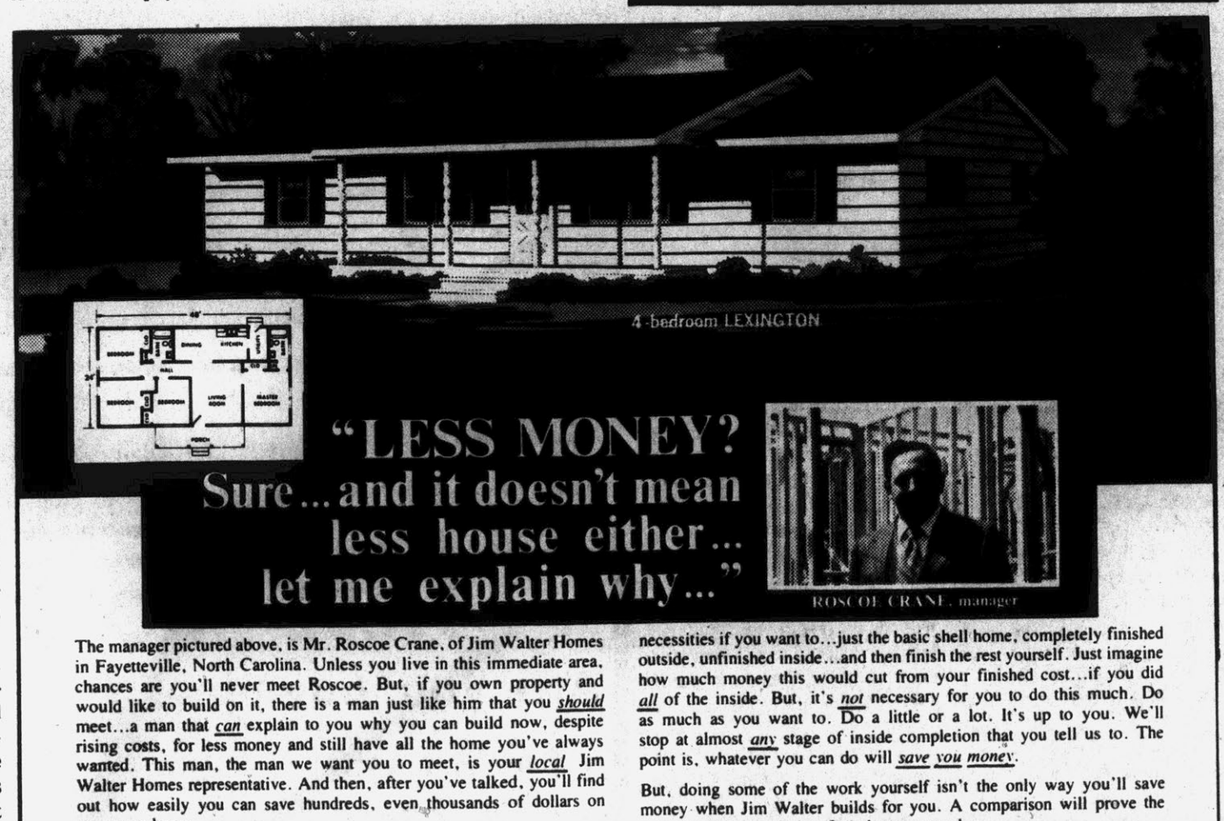

Miss Silvers, with her seeing-eye dog, was at the Bowery Savings Bank to talk over the situation with officials Thursday after Harper's arrest.

She had discovered, on a day when Harper was not at the bank, that her account had only $169.65 in it instead of the $2,857 the guard had told her was on deposit.

Bank officials said they would make full restitution.

The manager pictured above, is Mr. Roscoe Crane, of Jim Walter Homes in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Unless you live in this immediate area, chances are you'll never meet Roscoe. But, if you own property and would like to build on it, there is a man just like him that you should meet...a man that can explain to you why you can build now, despite rising costs, for less money and still have all the home you've always wanted. This man, the man we want you to meet, is your local Jim Walter Homes representative. And then, after you've talked, you'll find out how easily you can save hundreds, even thousands of dollars on your new home.

Did you know that a good portion of the inside of any home can be finished by amateurs...people who are not experts but are just handy with tools? How many times have you painted a ceiling...the walls...did the whole room? Can you use a hammer and nails...a square...a rule and saw? When Jim Walter builds for you, you can start with the bare necessities if you want to...just the basic shell home, completely finished outside, unfinished inside...and then finish the rest yourself. Just imagine how much money this would cut from your finished cost...if you did all of the inside. But, it's not necessary for you to do this much. Do as much as you want to. Do a little or a lot. It's up to you. We'll stop at almost any stage of inside completion that you tell us to. The point is, whatever you can do will save you money.

But, doing some of the work yourself isn't the only way you'll save money when Jim Walter builds for you. A comparison will prove the cost of our homes is low for whatever you buy.

FLIGHT SOUTH

It was only a faint sound at first, but it grew louder and louder. Then I knew what it was and rushed from the house.

High overhead, dark against the bright autumn sky, a flight of geese winged instinctively toward the south. Large wings flapped in graceful rhythm, and raucous honks of conversation brought a nostalgic ache to my throat.

"Bon voyage," I called, saluting with my whole heart the brave creatures who flew so unswervingly through uncharted skies.

And I wondered at us humans. How we doubt and fear and flail about, worrying about tomorrow and a dozen other somethings! Our course is not unknown. God promises abundant life if we but follow Him.

Your church is your guidebook to God. Worship there and find the security that comes from within, the result of understanding God and one's relationship to Him.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)— North Carolina hog markets today are steady, mostly 25 cents lower. Tops of 28.50-29.00 at Rocky Mount, 27.25-28.25 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton, 27.00-28.00 at Siler City and Denton, 26.50-28.00 at Tarboro, 26.50-27.50 at Bethel, and 28.00 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)— North Carolina live hen supplies fully adequate, Demand fair to good today. Weights mostly desirable. Prices steady on heavy type with firm undertone noted for next week. Supplies of heavy type barely adequate and demand good. Light type, too few to report. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm: 13 to 14 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to lose power again today, sliding for the third straight session, as investors awaited news on Vietnam peace prospects and fretted over rising interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 6.85 to 930.61 in light trading. Declines outnumbered advances by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The 11 a.m. Big Board index was off .27 to 59.21. The price change index on the American Stock Exchange was down .02 to 25.84.

Most-active on the Big Board was Brunswick Corp., continuing a decline prompted by its pessimistic picture of future earnings. It was off ⅞ to 28⅛. Pittston Coal, which has reported disappointing net and faces an important union election, was off ¼ to 21⅞ in a block trade.

General Motors, which was struck today by workers at its St. Louis plant, led a decline in automotives and dropped 2⅛ to 75⅛. International Buusiness Machines, Inc., continued to fall after its unsuccessful bid to delay a pending antitrust suit. It had dropped 9½ in the two previous sessions and fell 6⅛ more to 378⅜.

After a delayed opening, Chase Manhattan Corp. was down 3 to 60. The company announced a top management change Thursday after its president resigned and also disclosed third-quarter earnings would be off about 10 per cent.

Pitt Teacher Of The Year Is Selected

DEMOCRATIC LISTENING POST? . . . Well, not exactly, but close kin anyway, as Annie is a mule and not a donkey. Annie's owner, Roosevelt Peel of Williamston, says the old girl puts her ears up anytime anyone around her starts talking. The subject under discussion when this photograph was snapped — one on government subsidies for farm prices, was very likely of particular interest to Annie. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Mrs. Eleanor H. Mills has been named Pitt County Schools "Teacher of the Year" for 1972-73.

Mrs. Mills, a fifth grade teacher at G. R. Whitfield, has taught at Bridgers School, Tarboro, Grimesland Elementary and G. R. Whitfield.

Mrs. Mills received her B.S. and Masters degrees from East Carolina University. She has had 18 years experience as a teacher.

A member of the Pitt County Division of North Carolina Association of Educators, Mrs. Mills is also a member of the National NCAE and NEA. She has served as president and vice president of the Pitt County NCAE.

She served as a delegate to the national convention of the National Education Association in Philadelphia, Pa. in 1969 and in San Francisco, Calif., in 1970.

A charter member of Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, Mrs. Mills is married to Jay Mills and they have two children. Mrs. Mills, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Haynes, is a member of Immanuel Baptist Church.

Mrs. Arlene M. Hoot, sixth grade teacher at Stokes-Pactolus School, was runner-up.

Other nominees were: Mrs. Rebie W. Crandol, physical science teacher at North Pitt; Mrs. Peggy R. Price, kindergarten teacher at Bethel Primary; Mrs. Queenie Taft, fifth grade teacher, Belvoir Grammar; Mrs. Olive M. Smith, math teacher at Ayden-Grifton High School; Mrs. Lois J. Haddock, fifth grade teacher, Ayden Grammar; Mrs. Margaret H. McCaskill, resource teacher, A. G. Cox; and Mrs. Virginia M. Monk, reading lab teacher, Falkland Elementary.

Nominees were judged on the basis of community involvement, professional participation and affiliation, educational background, philosophy of teaching and the biographical sketch.

Members of the Pitt County committee to select the teacher of the year were: William B. Moore, chairman; Mrs. Lilliam D. Bradley, Mrs. Gretchen Weeks, Mrs. Ann Brown and Mrs. Linda Caulder.

Mrs. Mills will now be eligible to participate in district competition. State and national competition is also held.

Wreck Kills Local Man

TAZEWELL, Tenn. — Lawrence C. Glisson, 43 of Greenville was killed near here early Thursday morning when the truck he was driving plunged from a roadway to a river-bed 100 feet below.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said Glisson was driving the cab section of a tractor-trailer rig South on highway 25E about five miles North of Tazewell at the time of the incident.

Officers said the vehicle's drive shaft came loose, tearing airlines to the trucks brakes loose and part of the steering mechanism from the cab. Thus losing control, the vehicle crashed through a bridge railing and fell 100 feet to the river bed below.

Glisson's body swept about 300 feet downstream by the fast moving water, was recovered about 9 a.m. Thursday, some seven hours after the 2 a.m. crash.

Investigators said Glisson had apparently been having trouble with the rig and had left the trailer section of the truck in Tazewell.

Camp Overrun By North Viets

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces today overran the Ben Het border camp in the central highlands, a legacy from the Green Berets that had withstood years of assaults.

A two-day attack drove South Vietnamese forces from the camp for the first time in the war. This coupled with increased attacks in other parts of the highlands apparently signaled a renewal there of the offensive the North Vietnamese launched 6½ months ago.

The Saigon command said that two days of heavy shelling, in which at least 1,500 rounds of heavy artillery, rockets and mortar hit Ben Het, destroying the defenders' artillery, ammunition and a food warehouse.

Radio contact was lost with the camp Thursday night after units of the 320th North Vietnamese Division launched a ground assault, the chief spokesman for the Saigon command, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said.

More than 100 strikes by American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers and U.S. B52 bombers failed to drive off the North Vietnamese.

Hien said about 140 of the camp's 300-man garrison were spotted by observation planes southwest of the base and contact had been made with them.

Initial reports from the field said that more than 60 of the Ben Het garrison were killed and more than 120 wounded.

Most of the men were Montagnards—mountain tribesmen—and many had their families living in the camp.

The mountaintop camp is just east of the triborder region where the frontiers of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos meet. It was established as an observation post to track North Vietnamese infiltration along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Ben Het has been virtually surrounded by the North Vietnamese for years, and periodically the enemy has laid siege to the camp. But this is the first time it has fallen.

When the Green Berets of the U.S. Special Forces were in Vietnam, they led and trained the camp's garrison of Montagnards. The camp was turned over to the South Vietnamese on Jan. 4, 1971, but most of the Montagnards signed up as rangers and stayed on at the camp.

Bucs Entertain Citadel In TV Contest

Normally, the East Carolina University football coaching staff only has one problem to worry about on Saturdays — their opponenet of the day.

This Saturday, instead of just worrying about The Citadel, they've got to worry about the health of their players too.

A mysterious virus swept through the team this week, putting as many as 16 players into the infirmary. Two of these were still in here as late as Thursday afternoon. "It's really got us all up-tight," Coach Sonny Randle said. "This has got to adversly affect us. The sick ones are dehydrated, and this costs them a lot of strength.

Running Back Jimmy Howe

"And after all, we're not Notre Dame when we're at full strength. When you take away some of it, we're in trouble," he added.

The Pirates came into the regionally televised (ABC) game with a perfect 4-0 record. They lead the Southern Conference, and a victory in this weekend's game would assure them that they would keep it for at least two weeks.

The Citadel comes in with not nearly so good a record, but with the potential to do about anything they want. The Bulldogs are 2-3 on the year so far, but both of their wins have been in the conference, where they've also lost once.

The Bulldogs downed Appalachian 28-21, and VMI, 42-3. They lost to Clemson in their opener, 13-0, then fell to Western Carolina, 10-0, and William & Mary, 31-12.

Last week, however, against VMI they showed that they are putting things together, much to the worry of Randle and Company.

The Bucs are coming in off a fine 21-0 victory over Richmond, a long-time rival in the conference. "I've never been any more pleased with the team effort the men showed," Randle said of that game. "It was really unbelievable. The entire team — the offense, the defense, and the specialty teams — all did a magnificant job."

Carlester Crumpler had his best game of the season, earning Player of the Week honors in the Southern Conference. "He's healthy and in one piece now, and this makes a big difference," Randle said. "His good game should propel him onward to a good season."

And the play of Carl Summerell again showed his continuing improvement in guiding the team. "He gets better every day," the coach added.

Defensively, or offensively, Randle can't single any one out. "How can you when they're all doing the job."

The defense, of course, has tremendous pride in being first in the nation in total and rushing defense and being listed in both passing and scoring defense. "It's nice, but that's not really what counts," the coach said. "Winning is what we really want — the ranking comes second."

Although there are no injuries on the team, Randle feels there is no way the Bucs can be at full strength for the game because of the illnesses of the week. "Our conditioning helped us, however," he admitted. "It meant that not so many got sick, and that the ones who did, didn't stay sick as long."

Randle feels that The Citadel brings to Ficklen Stadium the most explosive team the Bucs have met so far this year. "They had their problems early, but against VMI last week, it looks like they've got them worked out."

Randle praised Bulldog quarterback Harry Lynch as one of the best in the conference. "He runs the veer offense for them as well as it's run in Houston, where it all started."

He also praised the two Citadel running backs, Bob Carson and Jon Hall, as being among the best around, too.

One of the places where the Bulldogs have had trouble has been in their receiving corps, but that too seems to be shaping up now. "They don't have any Brian Baimas this year, but they do have some good people," Randle said, "and they're getting better all the time."

Kirk Doll

"We have to stop their explosiveness and cut them down to size. And just like at Richmond, we've got to be able to control the football on offense."

Defensively, Randle pointed out Allan Melton, an end, and Norman Seabrooks, a tackel, as the key men to watch. "Their defense is not great, but it is solid."

Offensively, so far, Carson leads in the rushing, picking up 291 yards. Hall is next with 288, followed by Lynch with 235. Bill Paine, who subbed for Hall last week against VMI, pcked up 166 yards and is a definite threat.

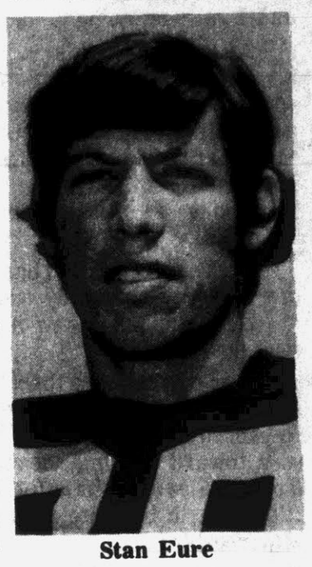

Through the air, Lynch has hit 37 of 83 attempts for 512 yards. His top receiver has been flanker Ricky Crosby, who's caught 10 for 147. Split end Tom Skordal has six receptions for 147 yards.

The Pirate offense has been led by Summerell, who has 550 yards in total offense, 448 of them through the air. He's hit on 29 of 60 passes, including seven for touchdowns. Crumpler leads the ground attack with 415 yards, while Les Strayhorn has 228 yards.

The game means much in the standings, but there seems to be more emotion than normal connected with the game. "I really don't understand it," Randle said. "It's more than the normal school rivalry, but I can't put my hand on it. I know they want to beat us badly, and I know we want this one very much too."

Randle feels that the fact that the game is televised will have some affect on the contest, but he doesn't feel that it will be that great.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1:50 p.m. Saturday faternoon.

Lea Named New SID

Sonny Lea was named today as the new Sports Information Director at East Carolina University.

He replaces Franc White, who is resigning as of Sunday, to devote more time to other things.

The position is not new to Lea, however. He has served for the past four years as student assistant in the sports information office at East Carolina, becoming thoroughly familiar with all aspects of the job. He has edited and prepared several of the brochures for various teams during that period.

A 22-year old native of Rocky Mount, Lea played football and golf while in high school there, winning four letters. He has handled the public address system at East Carolina's Minges Coliseum for basketball for the past several years, along with duty at Harrington Field and Ficklen Stadium also.

Two Gain State Field

WILSON — All four members of the girls tennis team at Rose High School, competing in the sectionals tournament at Wilson, lost out yesterday, but two advanced far enough to qualify for the state tournament next Thursday and Friday.

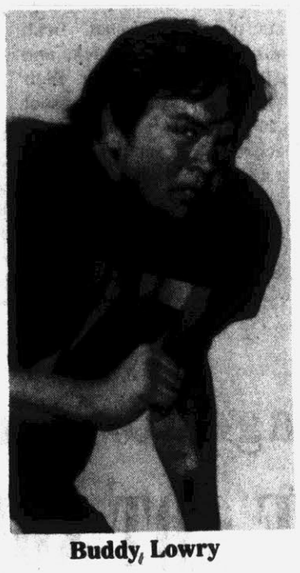

Susie Pittman, seeded sixth in the sectionals, and Becky Piner, seeded eighth, both gained berths in the state field.

Miss Pittman had a first round bye, then beat Pam Dickerson, 6-1, 6-0, to gain the next round. There she defeated Sharon Kibbe of New Ben, 6-2, 6-0, before losing to Wilson's Joan Adams, 7-6, 6-3.

Miss Piner also drew a first round bye, then beat Lora Dionis of Kinston, 6-4, 6-0. She lost in the next round, however, to Rochelle Small of Wilmington Hoggard, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Cubs Fall To Kinston

Kinston High School's junior varsity gained a 6-0 victory over Rose High School's Rampant Cubs yesterday.

It was the second loss in five games for the Cubs, who are now 2-2-1 for the season.

The lone score came from a yard out.

Lindberg Morris led the Rampant rushing with 69 yards in nine carries. Ronald Raldolph led the receiving corps with six catches for 125 yards. Altogether, Rose picked up 307 yards.

The Cubs had several opportunities, but failed to make them pay off. Once, an interception return put the ball on the Kinston 20, but a penalty pushed them back and stalled the drive. Another drive ended with a fumble, and Kinston stopped another on downs inside the five yard line.

Bera Says Reds Will Steal It

By YOGI BERRA

CINCINNATI Oct. 13 — The Cincinnati Reds stole the National League West, the National League pennant playoff and I look for them to steal the World Series starting here tomorrow. That's because a former Navy test pilot in World War II—who didn't make a hit or a pitch—won it for them. He put speed up front. His name's Bob Howsam, general manager.

Howsam got one-third of his rebuilt Red machine in a trade from the Houston Astros. He's got speedy Joe Morgan on second base, Denis Menke on third base and Cesar Geronimo with a gun in right field. And he got tomorrow's opening game pitcher Jack Billingham in the same deal of 11 months ago for Lee May, Tommy Helms and Jimmy Stewart.

That's all baseball men are talking about in this Ohio River city. And if you don't think Howsam is a smart baseball man ask Gussie Busch of the St. Louis Cardinals. Howsam was his GM in St. Louis and Howsam hired Sparky Anderson to manage the Cardinals' Rock Hill, S.C., team in 1965. Sparky won the pennant there. And in 1969, one day after Sparky signed to coach for the California Angels, Howsam got permission and signed Anderson to manage the Reds after firing Dave Bristol. All Sparky did his first year was lead the Reds to the World Series. Thare are people who think the Reds should have beaten Baltimore that Series, but the Reds lost because they hit too many balls to Brooks Robinson at third base. So you see, Howsam made a "steal" of a deal with Houston and grabbed Sparky from the Angels.

I pick the Reds to win tomorrow's opener because of Johnny Bench and his home runs and Billingham's pitching. Bench has 40 homers and 125 rbi's, and Billingham, 0-5 in May, finished 12-12. Billingham has a fast ball that moves and throws a sidearm sinker. He strikes out more than twice as many as he walks. Also because the Reds have so much speed in the first three spots.

There's switch hitter Pete Rose leading off, followed by real speed in Morgan and Bobby Tolan. They steal you blind. This is the heart of Sparky's attack. It's hard to keep 'em off the bases.

KNEW STRIKE ZONE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)- The late, legendary Frank (Lefty) O'Doul who had a lifetime batting average of .349 and who once made 254 safe hits in one season, spent seven years as a pitcher before playing every day as an outfielder.

What goes up must come down.

That means runways must be kept free of snow and ice. Or airports must close and the planes land somewhere else.

Which causes a lot of inconvenience for passengers. Strange hotels. Long lines. Missed relatives. And dreary hours waiting for better weather.

But this winter the story may be different. Because of Union Carbide's Runway De-Icer.

We discovered a new combination of liquid chemicals that penetrates a covering of snow and ice and unglues it from the runway surface.

So it can easily be pushed away.

It can also be laid down before a storm to act as an anti-icer.

Last winter it was successfully used at over 20 busy metropolitan airports. This year we expect that more airports will be using UCAR Runway De-Icer.

So now instead of just talking about the weather, people can do something about it.

Femme Fatale To Male Pollsters

Into every life a little rain must fall — or so the saying goes.

Right now, I feel about like one of the folks left outside banging on the door of the ark. The whole bottom has dropped out, and I don't have anywhere to go.

Thanks to some unlucky breaks in the early part of the season, (six games missed out on by scores in the final two minutes of play) I've had to start taking the defensive and picking for upsets.

Unfortunately, the upsets haven't been coming, and I've been going — down.

After last week's results, the men are still trailing our gal picker Sandra Spivey. Right now, she's got a 47-12 record, leading Jack Whichard by a game. He's at 46-13. Tom Baines comes next with a 44-15 mark, followed by George Holland and John Trotman at 43-16.

And down at the bottom comes poor I with a 40-19 mark.

High school football has still been pretty good to me, however, with only one wrong pick last week.

For instance, there's the battle in the Albemarle Conference between unbeaten Murfreesboro and Williamston. The game will go a long way toward settling the conference race, and it looks like two strong offenses meeting each other. It's going to be quite a game, but I'm going with Murfreesboro.

Greene Central is at Ayden-Grifton in a key Eastern Carolina Conference game. The Rams have lost once, to Southern Nash, and must win this one to stay in the race. Ayden-Grifton, unbeaten, wants the win to stay in first place, or at least a share of it. Again, it's a tough one to decide, but the Rams will certainly be fired up, and I'll take a chance of them.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

North Pitt goes to Charles B. Aycock in the battle of last place in the league. Neither has won this year in the league, and whichever does may be getting its only win. North Pitt should be fired up for it, and I'm going to go out on a limb and pick them.

Eastern Wayne visits Conley looking for a win to stop a two-game winning streak. The Warriors are without their offensive leader, and this could spell disaster for them. I'll stick with Conley here.

Robersonville goes outside the conference to meet South Lenoir. The Eagles haven't been beaten this year, but this could be a tough one. But you don't go against a winner—Robersonville to win.

North Lenoir is at Farmville Central, where the revived Jaguars are getting tougher every week. They've won two in a row, and may have turned the corner. It's a toughie again, but Farmville should pull it out.

Turning to our panel of pollsters, we look first at the Rose-Kinston affair tonight. Rose hasn't won in the league and Kinston just plain hasn't won. But the Vikings have a passing attack, and this has been the weakest part of the Rose defense.

The panel is unanimous however, in picking Rose to win this one.

Saturday afternoon, the Pirates of East Carolina entertain tough Citadel. A virus has plagued the Bucs all week, and they may not be up to par. It would be most unfortunate to lose out on a chance at the title because of illness which could be the pivot in a close game.

Again, however, the panel is united — East Carolina to win.

Appalachian Plays 'Conference' Game With South Carolina Eleven

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

East Carolina's unbeaten Pirates will match their potent defense, called the "Wild Dogs," against a suddenly powerful offense put together by The Citadel's Bulldogs in a regionally televised football game Saturday that's crucial in the Southern Conference race.

The Pirates lead the league with a 3-0 record and have won their first four games over-all for the best start by an East Carolina team since 1967. That Pirate outfit won its first six games, then dropped the seventh to The Citadel.

After leading the league in offense last year, The Citadel has had trouble putting it together this season. But the Bulldogs, now 2-1 in league play and 2-3 over-all, showed signs of waking up last Saturday night in mauling Virginia Military's Keydets 42-3.

Davidson's Wildcats, 1-0-1 in the league and 1-3-1 over-all, play their first game at home this season in another Saturday conference scrap with Furman's Paladins, 1-1 and 2-3, providing the opposition.

There are three afternoon nonleague encounters with Richmond's Spiders, 2-3, at home against Southern Mississippi; William and Mary's Indians, 2-3, playing host to Vanderbilt; and VMI, 0-5, trying to end a 15-game losing streak at Virginia.

Appalachian State, 0-3-1, in league play nd 1-3-1 over-all, plays Saturday night at South Carolina in a game that counts in the league standings for the Mountaineers. Appalachian needed five games to be eligible for the title, but the Mountaineers are out of the running.

Should The Citadel hand East Carolina its first defeat, William and Mary would move to the top of the standings, for the Indians are 2-0 in conference competition.

"They are the most explosive team we will have met this year," says Randle of The Citadel, which lost to ECU last year 31-25. "What's more, they left here a year ago feeling positively that they should have beaten us."

The Pirates have been hit this week by a virus that claimed Randle among its victims, but all hands are expected to be ready Saturday. Some, however, may play in a weakened condition.

"The fact that they are high in team defense (ECU leads the league) is enough to tell you how good they are," says Coach Red Parker of The Citadel about the Pirates. "They are as aggressive as any football team we have ever played against, and even more important, they are convinced they are as good as their record."

Not only that, but Parker says "tremendously effective is the best way to describe their offense. The thing they do so well is play without error."

"The next three weeks will determine to a large extent where we will finish in the conference," says Furman Coach Bob King, "and it is important that we get off on the right foot against Davidson."

The Paladins, like East Carolina, have been hampered by a virus this week and running back John Wolfrom is out with a chest injury. But King hopes to have running back Donny Griffin back in action.

Appalachian Coach Jim Brakefield sees no way the Mountaineers can stay with South Carolina "unless we eliminate the mistakes which have hurt us so far this season."

VMI's hopes against Virginia, whic may have seven starters out of action with injuries, rests on the passing of sophomore quarterback Tom Schultze, the conference leader in total offense.

"We have to bounce back from that loss (21-0) to ECU and Saturday is as good a time as any," says Richmond Coach Frank Jones. "Southern Mississippi is a pretty tough team to start a winning streak against, though." Southern Miss leads in the series 9-1.

William and Mary could bat Vanderbilt with a repeat of last week, when the Indians ran up 518 yards in total offense and still dropped a 49-34 decision to West Virginia. Todd Bushnell, Doug Gerhart, Bill Deery and Terry Regan lead a punishing Indian ground game.

Kickers In Loss To NCS

RALEIGH — North Carolina State University eased past the East Carolina University soccer team, 2-1, here Wednesday.

East Carolina, playing its best game of the season, couldn't quite stand off the tough Wolfpack, having to play on the defense most of the second half.

The ACC's Most Valuable Player of last year, Vixaysouk hit the first State goal, 22 minutes into the first half, giving them a 1-0 lead.

Then, 16 minutes into the second half, Jeff Kunkler hit for East Carolina on an assist by Danny O'Shea to tie the contest. But after 37 minutes, Catapano hit for State, giving them the winning goal.

"They outplayed us," Coach John Lovstedt said, "but we played a really good game – our best of the year."

Lovstedt singled out Brad Smith, his center fullback, and goalie Rick Lindsay for their outstanding play. "They outshot us 20-6 in the second half," the coach said, "so you can see the job we did on defense."

The Pirates are now 2-3 overall and travel to meet Methodist College on Saturday afternoon.

Sooners In Unfamiliar Position As Favorite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time in nine years Oklahoma is favored over Texas in the 67th renewal of the Red River Classic in college football Saturday.

The clash between the nationally second-ranked Sooners and the 10th-ranked Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl is one of two games pitting teams in The Associated Press Top Ten against each other. Eighth-ranked Louisiana State and ninth-ranked Auburn battle at Baton Rouge in the other.

These two games between four nationally rated and unbeaten teams spice the weekend fare on collegiate gridirons.

Coach John McKay's unbeaten and top-ranked Southern California Trojans seek their sixth in a row against California.

In other games involving the AP Top Ten, No. 3 Alabama takes on Florida, No. 4 Ohio State faces Illinois, No. 5 Michigan tangles with Michigan State, No. 6 Nebraska battles Missouri and No. 7 Notre Dame engages the Pitt Panthers.

No. 12 Washington opposes No. 17 Stanford and No. 13 Colorado is pitted against No. 18 Iowa State in games pairing teams in the AP Second Ten.

No. 14 UCLA plays at Oregon State, No. 15 Penn State is at Army, No. 16 Air Force is at Boston College, No. 19 Oklahoma State is at Virginia Tech while No. 20 Arkansas hosts Baylor. No. 11 Tennessee has an open date.

While the Sooners are favored, Oklahoma fullback Tim Welch says the game with the Longhorns is "going to be a real battle. I don't think people are taking them serious enough. They've got as good a team as they've ever had."

A sellout crowd of 71,938 is assured for the game with another SRO turnout of 67,500 set for the night encounter between LSU and Auburn at Baton Rouge. Charles McClendon is looking for his 84th victory to become the winningest coach in LSU grid annals.

California is ineligible for the Rose Bowl, but the Bears hope to throw a roadblock in the path of the Trojans. "USC is the game we've been waiting for," said Cal coach Mike White.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers, the defending national champions, are favored to defeat Missouri and continue their climb back to the top after their first game upset by UCLA.

George McGovern grew up in a farming community. That's why he feels so strongly that the farmer and rural America are getting a raw deal.

Avon, South Dakota, is a small town not much different from many rural towns in North Carolina. That is where George McGovern was born. It's easy to understand why George McGovern feels the way he does about rural American values, when you realize that he is the son of a minister who was raised in a community of farmers and small town businessmen. George McGovern knows that the family farm is threatened by the "Fifth Avenue Farmers" who are taking over farming through government favoritism. This year alone, more than one million people will move from small rural farms to cities in order fo find employment. In these cities traditional religious and American values are decaying.

Nixon supports big business

The Republican Party has always been the party of Big Business and the Nixon Administration has encouraged this trend to drive the small farmer out of the market place. How can the small farmer survive when he is faced with rising taxes, rising costs and an ever-smaller share of the consumer's dollar when it is spent for farm products.

McGovern's plan for rural Americans

George McGovern proposes to help rural America by appointing a Secretary of Agriculture who is a real farmer. (President Nixon appointed one who believes in corporate agriculture rather than family farming.) Farm income will be increased through reducing taxes for agriculture, and rural industries. McGovern would also raise farm price supports, provide greater parity of income, and more commodity price supports. However, this is not enough. The fate of the farmer is tied to the fate of rural towns. As President, McGovern would support projects in cities under 25,000 that would bring some of the farmer's tax dollar back to his own community to make it a better place to live.

What has McGovern done already?

McGovern has already done more for farmers than you might know. As the Senator of a small agricultural state, he has become an expert on farm problems and is a member of the Senate Agricultural Committee. He has been responsible for much of the legislation aimed directly at improving rural America.

For example: The Wheat Certificate Act, The Farm Parity Resolution of 1966, The Meat and Dairy Import Limitation Laws, The Rural Development Act of 1969, The Rural Job Development Act of 1969, and the Farm Credit Act of 1971. Most recently, George McGovern supported the Family Farm Act of 1972 which hopefully will help to stop the spread of non-family farms.

A Message to Carriers:

"YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING ON THE BALL"

says Johnny Bench

"SO YOU'RE A NEWSPAPER CARRIER!"

Nobody knows pitching better than a catcher. So when Cincinnati Reds star Johnny Bench talks about "something on the ball," he's thinking of every successful pitcher he knows.

But "something on the ball" isn't restricted to the ball park. You can say it about people who have that something special that leads to success. Helpfulness. Willingness to work. Pride in accomplishment.

BENCH-marks of a star:
Born in Oklahoma and was a newspaperboy there. High school valedictorian, active in 4-H Club. Little Leaguer starting at age 7. Twice on all-state H. S. baseball team. All Star catcher in three minor leagues, and '67 Minor League Player of the Year. National League Rookie of the Year and Jim Thorpe Foundation Award winner '68. National League Most Valuable Player and Major League Player of the Year '70. Golden Glove Award winner '71. National League All Star catcher five straight years – with a '72 vote total that was tops for both leagues.

Add in a few more items like "performs in all kinds of weather," and "likes to give friendly service to the customer," and you've got a pretty good description of your newspaper carrier.

Chances are that thriftiness is part of the picture, too. Thousands of newspaper carriers set aside part of their earnings each month for college and other important future needs. U. S. Savings Bonds are one of their favorite ways to build that "tomorrow fund," just as they are for their parents and millions of other Americans.

So Johnny Bench is not alone in his tribute to carriers. Uncle Sam, through the Treasury Department, salutes them too. And now that it's Newspaper Carrier Day again, maybe you'd like to join in.

Sparky Won't Make Same Errors He Made In Last World Series

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two years ago Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson boasted: "Bring on the big bad Birds, We'll beat 'em."

Anderson's first Cincinnati team had won the National League pennant in a three-game playoff sweep over Pittsburgh. He looked down his nose at the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles made Anderson choke on his words, beating the Reds in the Series four games to one. Anderson hasn't forgotten. He's not about to make the same mistake.

"I have to be honest," said Anderson Thursday as he watched the Oakland Athletics win the American League pennant over the Detroit Tigers, "after the beating we took in '70, I'll make no comment. I'm not going to give Dick (Oakland Manager Dick Williams) any ammunition."

Anderson added, "I never dreamed an American League club would beat us, but I've changed my thinking about the AL now. Dick's team plays good baseball."

The 38-year-old Anderson recalled his outlook before the 1970 Series.

"In 1970 I was naive," he said. "I had never been to a World Series. I was just so glad to be there. I came in awe. The whole season was that way. I remember the reaction in Cincinnati when I got the job. They said Sparky who?

"Everybody at the Series couldn't understand how I could be so nice after losing. Well, I was so glad to be there I didn't realize until I got home that we had lost four out of five."

Anderson watched the A's go ahead of the Tigers 2-1, then win by that score.

"Oakland has great balance," Anderson said. "They can run, have good pitching and a fine defense. And they've got some good bats in Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi, Mike Epstein and Sal Bando."

The Cincinnati manager said Oakland posed a different problem from a pitching standpoint than Detroit would have presented.

"If the Tigers had won, we would have had to look at Lolich maybe three times," Anderson noted. "The A's have Jim Hunter, John Odom, Ken Holtzman, Vida Blue and a darn good bullpen."

Anderson said of his own team that the Reds' pitching was 50 per cent stronger than it was in 1970 against Baltimore.

Cincinnati does have one pitching question mark, right-hander Gary Nolan.

Nolan finished with a 15-5 record in the regular season, but was almost unused the last two months because of a sore shoulder and neck.

"Nolan will be our opening-game pitcher," Anderson said, but the manager can't be sure of that until Nolan warms up before the game Saturday. Nolan worked six innings of the third National League playoff game. He left leading 2-1 when his arm stiffened.

Billy C. Leads Cougar Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Cunningham made an impressive debut with the Carolina Cougars in the American Basketball Association as the ABA opened its sixth season Thursday night.

Cunningham, who lost a legal struggle to remain with Philadelphia of the National Basketball Association, scored 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to help the Cougars to a 123-115 victory over the Virginia Squires.

In the other opening ABA games Indiana defeated Memphis 109-105 and Utah tripped Denver 115-104. No games were scheduled in the NBA.

Jim Eakins, with 30 points, topped the Squires, who at one time led the Cougars by 10 points in the third period.

Mel Daniels sank two free throws in the last five seconds to assure the Pacers' triumph over the new Memphis Tams, owned by Charles O. Finley. George Thompson of Memphis was high game scorer with 34 points. Daniels led the Pacers with 24.

James Jones' 26 points paced the Stars over the Rockets. Ralph Simpson topped the Rockets with 27.

It Took 41 Years, But Athletics Are American League Champs

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — In 1931 Herbert Hoover was President, champagne was illegal, and Manager Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics were the American League baseball champions.

A lot has changed in the 41 years since but one thing is the same—the Athletics, now of Oakland, are again AL champions.

They will carry the pennant into Cincinnati where they'll face the National League champion Reds beginning Saturday in the World Series.

It took the maximum of five games, but the A's finally overcame the Detroit Tigers with a 2-1 victory Thursday to take the AL playoffs.

"The day I got traded (from the Chicago Cubs) Dick Williams called me at my house and said, 'We're going to put you in the World Series.' And damned if he didn't," said Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman, smiling as he sat quietly in front of his clubhouse locker.

Most of his teammates were exploding champagne corks, splashing beer, hugging each other, and yelling with joy. Even millionaire owner Charlie Finley joined in, pouring champagne on dry heads and crying with happiness at the moment which seemed to be slipping away after Tiger victories Tuesday and Wednesday.

Holtzman is Manager Williams' choice to pitch the Series opener and the A's will have suspended shortstop Bert Campaneris back in action, although Reggie Jackson may be out with a pulled hamstring muscle suffered in a successful steal of home plate Thursday.

The A's won Thursday on the strong arms of John "Blue Moon" Odom and Vida Blue, plus some questionable Tiger fielding and the running of Jackson and his replacement, George Hendrick.

Winner Odom gave up an unearned run in the first inning as he pitcheda two-hitter for five frames before getting an upset stomach. Blue finished the job with a lightning fastball, allowing three harmless singles in picking up the save.

Campaneris, suspended by AL President Joe Cronin for the last three playoff games for throwing a bat at Detroit pitcher Lerrin LaGrow, joined in the Oakland post-game bedlam but wasn't saying much.

It was learned Thursday night that Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will permit Campaneris to play in the Series.

Jackson opened the A's second with a walk off loser Woodie Fryman, stole second, and reached third on a long fly out by Sal Bando.

Mike Epstein was hit with a pitch and Gene Tenace struck out before Epstein broke for second on a steal, hoping Tiger catcher Bill Freehan would throw to second and give Jackson a chance to steal home. And that's what Freehan did, both runners sliding in safe.

Jackson was injured in the slide and replaced by Hendrick, who reached first leading off the fourth on a throwing error.

Hendrick took second on Sal Bando's bunt and scored the winning run on a single by Tenace.

Left fielder Duke Sims was a little slow getting the ball out of his glove on the hit. It was a close play at the plate and Freehan let the throw slip away; however, Hendrick was ruled safe before that.

City-County Consolidation Hasn't Caught On, Yet

RESEARCH CRAFT — The experimental lifting body X-24B undergoes finish work at the Martin Marietta Corp. space center near Denver. The plane was delivered to the Air Force today. The X-24B will be used in a joint two-year Air Force-NASA research program to test its handling qualities as a wingless craft shaped for flight in air and in space and for conventional aircraft runways. ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Governmental consolidation, pioneered nationally by Nashville, Tenn., in 1963, has not yet caught on as a cure-all for urban problems.

Only three more sizable cities have followed the Tennessee capital's lead — Jacksonville, Fla., Columbus, Ga., and Indianapolis, Ind.

Two smaller cities — Juneau, Alaska, and Carson City, Nev. — have also consolidated. A few major metropolitan areas, most notably Miami, Fla., have implemented modified forms of consolidation called federations.

The list of cities that have rejected consolidation is long. Chattanooga, Tenn., and the Florida cities of Tampa and Tallahassee recently voted down such a merger with county government.

But officials of consolidated governments maintain that it is working and saving taxpayers money. Property taxes in Jacksonville have been reduced for the fourth consecutive year.

Much of the opposition to consolidation has come from city and county officials who are threatened by the loss of their posts or who would have to run for new offices under the new system.

"The average guy doesn't know anything about the concepts of government," said an observer of the Jacksonville situation. "But he does know who the sheriff is and he's affected if the sheriff tells him that consolidation will just mean one big bureaucracy and high taxes."

The theory behind consolidation of city and county governments is that it will eliminate duplication of services lowering the cost of government to the taxpayer.

Jacksonville's purchasing department estimates it saves $600,000 on the fleet purchase of cars for consolidated departments. The cost of record keeping has been cut substantially, say officials.

Proponents of consolidation cite another reason. Such a merger stabilizes an area's property tax base in a time when much of a city's wealth is moving to the suburbs.

Consolidation has been sold in a variety of ways.

Jacksonville's consolidation was pushed as one solution to widespread municipal corruption that ended with the jailing of several councilmen for graft.

Consolidation for Nashville was defeated in 1958, then passed after the city annexed 40 acres of county land, subjecting its residents to double taxation. Nashville also imposed a highway use tax on suburban communters.

Complaints against consolidation generally come from residents of the old county areas who have been forced to take up the slack when core city residents are no longer required to pay both city and county tax bills.

And a common complaint is that government has become too big to fight.

"It's just too big and too hard to get anyone to help you," complained a housewife in Antioch, a Nashville suburb.

"You just can't fight city hall."

Rough spots remain in the Nashville - Davidson County consolidation.

"When (Beverly) Briley first ran for rlection they put a big sign out here on a vacant lot saying it was the site of a new fire hall," said Antioch Councilman Hill. "It stood around for years and finally fell down."

Some suburban residents have complained that city services have not caught up with the rate at which they are taxed.

A sampling of public opinion in Jacksonville shows general acceptance of the four-year-old government. "Consolidated government is much better in terms of public service, and law enforcement is one of the major improvement," said George Allen, a chamber of commerce executive.

School principal Anne M. Belote said there is room for improvement "but it was worth consolidation to get street lights in our neighborhood, outside the old city limits."

Officials in Columbus, where consolidation took effect in January 1971, say the level of service for the 170,000 persons in the consolidated area has been upgraded considerably. More than $2 million will be spent in the months ahead to run water and sewer lines outside the old city limits.

But consolidation in the Georgia city has not yet resulted in a savings to taxpayers, mainly because of the cost of extending services and a decision not to cut the payroll. Consolidation backers felt the proposal would stand a better chance of passage if the public was assured no worker would lose his job through the merger.

"We wanted to make as few waves as possible," said Dr. Thomas Whitley, chairman of the consolidated charter commission.

Forty-four functions and services of the old city and county governments have been streamlined into nine in Columbus.

Says Ervin Role Risked

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — State Democratic Chairman James R. Sugg has warned Democrats that Sen. Sam Ervin could lose his power in Congress if Republican Senate nominee Jesse Helms is elected.

Sugg told the Sampson County Democratic Women's meeting Thursday night that the Helms race is part of the GOP effort to turn control of the Senate around.

He said, "If the move should succeed, it would deprive Ervin of the committee positions from which his voice had been so strong as to make it a voice of authority and prestige throughout the nation."

The Watergate incident, Sugg said, has emphasized to all Americans the urgency of having a man of Ervin's stature at the head of important congressional committees standing guard over individual liberties.

"It also has served to emphasize the importance of the party role played by political candidates at a time when increasing numbers of persons have been inclined toward independent voting.

He urged Democrats to vote for their party's Senate nominee, Rep. Nick Galifianakis. Sugg said Helms would have to win the votes of thousands of registered Democrats to defeat Galifianakis.

Court Orders 3 Nixon Fund Raisers To Appear

MIAMI (AP) — Three of President Nixon's top fund raisers have been ordered to appear as material witnesses in the Florida trial of Watergate defendant Bernard L. Barker.

Barker, is one of five men arrested in the break-in at Democratic headquarters in Washington. He is accused here of misuse of a notary public seal on a $25,000 campaign check from Kenneth Dahlberg, Republican finance chairman for the Midwest.

Dade County Criminal Court Judge Paul Baker signed an extradition order Thursday for Dahlberg, former Secretary of the Treasury Maurice Stans and Hugh W. Sloan to appear at the Oct. 26 trial in Miami.

Meanwhile, Barker's attorneys subpoenaed The Associated Press, United Press International, 33 radio stations and six television stations in the Miami areas to appear at a pretrial hearing today.

The subpoenaes sought tapes, transcripts and files of news stories concerning "the Watergate Caper."

Judge Baker's order for the extradition of the three Republican figures said their appearance "could not be secured voluntarily."

Courts in Minnesota, Washington, D.C., and Virginia would have to rule on the extradition order if the three men refuse to appear.

Barker, a 55-year-old former Central Intelligence Agency operative, is accused of fraudulently using his notary public seal to acknowledge Dahlberg's signature on the $25,000 cashier's check.

The money, part of $108,000 from the Committee to Re-Elect the President, went through Barker's bank account at the Republic National Bank prior to June 17.

On that date, Barker was arrested with four others inside the Democratic offices in the Watergate complex in Washington.

Stans, Dahlberg and Sloan hold positions on the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

Judge Baker said they will be needed for approximately 12 days unless discharged sooner. The 12 days would end election day, Nov. 7.

Appointed To Morganton Post

RALEIGH (AP) — The superintendent of the Robeson County prison unit, John E. Harrison, will take over as head of North Carolina's Western Correctional Center at Morganton Nov. 1.

Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds announced Thursday that Harrison, 31, will succeed Dr. James E. White Jr.

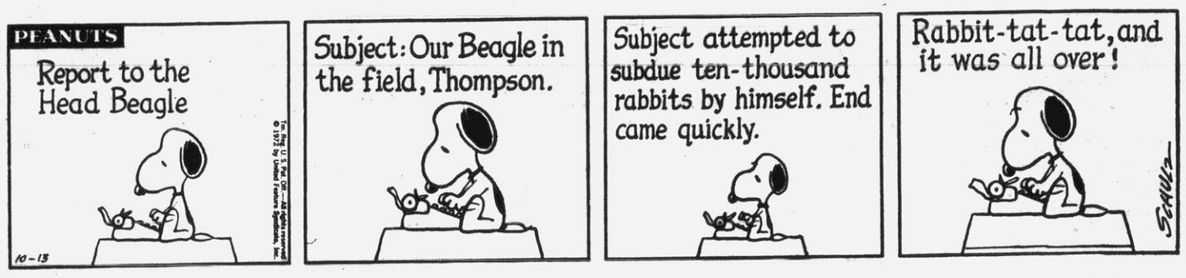

White will remain at Morganton as director of program development for the prison system.

Harrison, a Caldwell County native, joined the Department of Correction in 1970. In addition to the Robeson County duties, he has served as a rehabilitation officer and as correctional programs director.

BUSY?

You Bet He Is!

SUMMER'S OVER. Your newspaper carrier is back in school again. This year he's got a lot of new subjects. His homework is harder. He's in some new activities and is developing some new interests.

HE'S STILL DOING a good job on his route. He tries to give every customer prompt, courteous service. He's a good, ambitious and experienced carrier-salesman. He's busy. Busier than ever.

BECAUSE HE'S BUSY he doesn't have much time to spare. He's on a tight schedule so he makes his delivery fast. He also tries to schedule his collections. This can be his most difficult problem. It's tough on him when he must "come back" again and again to some homes to collect for the newspaper.

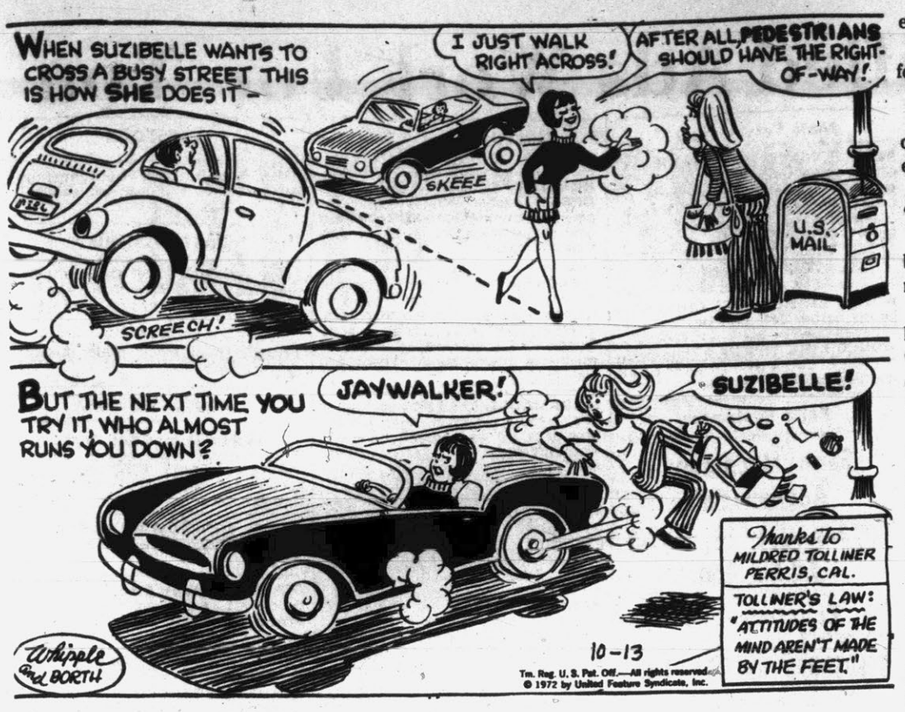

YOU CAN HELP this busy young man, and help us keep him interested in doing a good job by having your money ready the FIRST time he comes to collect.

HE THANKS YOU . . . and so do we.

Compliment To Change Lives

Sarah wanted to ruin her husband! She felt a vicious delight in doing so. For he had affronted her feminine ego chronically. Then see what happened when I have her superior plan for devastating his morale and driving him into professional bankruptcy!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-516: Sarah B., aged 39, is furious.

"Dr. Crane," she began. "I hate my husband so intensely that I would do anything to hurt him!

"Since he is a doctor, I have decided to get a divorce, for wouldn't that injure him in his medical practice?

"So I have an appointment with a divorce attorney after I leave your office.

"But what else could I do to make him suffer?

"For he ignores me and doesn't come home for dinner an average of even once per week.

"He doesn't speak to me, either, except when I ask him a direct question.

"Nor does he ever remember birthdays or even Christmas."

Good Riddance

But I reminded Sarah that maybe he would secretly be delighted at a divorce.

"Suppose he should take the attitude: 'Good riddance to bad rubbish' and thus be glad to have you begin divorce proceedings?

"If so, you wouldn't be hurting him as much as you hope to.

"However, if you really wish to cut him to the quick and ruin him in his medical practice, I can give you a surefire prescription."

Sarah eagerly vowed that she'd do anything to get revenge on him!

So I told her that if she'd employ the "Compliment Club" strategy on him for a month or two, she probably would have him eating out of her hand.

"Soon you'll have him such a devoted slave that he will be unable to face life without you," I added.

"Then, if you REALLY wish to ruin him, a divorce would devastate his morale and possibly drive him into a dissolute end via alcoholism!"

Sarah's eyes glowed at the prospect.

So she agreed faithfully to give him an honest compliment every day, even though she had to force it across her clenched teeth!

She was so incense that she became a perfect pupil and carried out by instructions to the letter, without realizing they would backfire!

A week later she phoned me that he would just grunt when she praised his tie or new car, etc.

Then she failed to report to me for several months.

Finally she breezed into my office one afternoon, aglow and exulting with a sense of victory.

"Dr. Crane," she exclaimed, "it really worked!

"After a couple of weeks, he began to come home more regularly for dinner.

"At the end of the first month, he even told me he had opera tickets and took me out on a date, which hadn't occurred for the previous 5 years!

"And lately he has remembered my birthday with flowers and takes me out to dinner quite often.

"So last night he admitted that he loved me more than anybody else in the world!"

To which I nodded approval but then suggested:

"Well Sarah, now that you have him wrapped around your little finger, if you get your divorce, this is the time to really ruin him!"

She looked shocked!

"But, Dr. Crane," she protested, "I don't want any divorce now! For I love him as much as he loves me!"

Readers if hateful Sarah could change such malice into love and affection, you can see why the "Compliment Club" is the greatest fool for producing harmony in families, as well as nations.

Send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

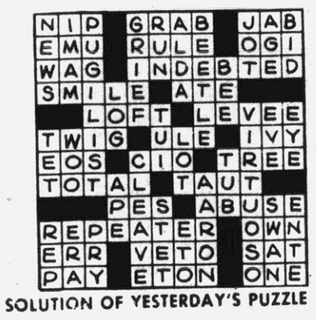

(Always write Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Tornadoes often form in families of two or more and generally travel from southwest to northeast.

South's method for scoring ten tricks in his four spade contract may appear to be the result of a look at an opponent's holdings. His success was not the result of a "peek" however, but rather a well conceived campaign based on the information already available to him.

East's opening bid of one diamond was passed by both South and West, the latter failing to have the necessary six points to keep the bidding open. North reopened the proceeding with a take-out double and even tho his partner bid only one spade, North raised to two. His holding is worth 15 points in support whereas the balancing double might have been made with only 10 or 11. South decided to put no further pressure on partner inasmuch as his holding had considerable merit and he proceeded to four spades.

West opened the ten of diamonds, the three was played from dummy and South won the trick in his hand with the king. The queen of spades was led and when West followed with the deuce, declarer paused to reflect before playing from dummy.

If a finesse was taken in spades and it lost, a heart return might be anticipated. If East has the ace of hearts, then the contract is safe—for the defense will be limited to one trick each in spades, hearts and clubs. If the ace of hearts is behind the king, South must lose two heart tricks and he will suffer a setback on the deal.

It appeared to South that the ultimate fate of his contract hinged primarily on the location of the ace of hearts rather than the king of spades. On this reasoning he decided not to take the finesse in trumps. The ace of spades was played from dummy and when the king appeared from East's hand, ten tricks became assured. Two more rounds of trumps were drawn and then the king of clubs was led. East played the ace and shifted to the queen of hearts which was covered by the king and ace and a heart return enabled East to complete the defensive book with the jack but South had the rest.

Declarer did not see the king of spades in the opening bidder's hand, but his play was designed to profit on the possibility that that card was all alone. Refusal to take the finesse would result in failure only if West has both the king of spades and the ace of hearts. This is not a possibility however when West does not keep his partner's one diamond bid open. He may have either the king of spades or the ace of hearts—but not both.

If the ace of spades play does not drop the king, a spade is continued and even if it develops that West takes a trick which could have been denied him, declarer can count on making his game bid since the ace of hearts must be in the opening bidder's hand.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 14, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: By smiling and showing you are willing to be of service to others, you can make this a successful day and evening. Daytime is best for positive and constructive actions on your part. The evening is likely to bring you some confusion, so don't make decisions in p.m.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any outside duties you may have should be handled from the standpoint of cooperation and then you get right results. Improve your credit by paying that bill on time now. Don't try to lord it over others so much.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have some fine ideas but require added information from others, so be sure you get it in a cooperative way. Make certain you understand every clause of any contracts you make. Do not lose time with time-wasters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you contact experts early, you know better how to handle pressures that are confusing right now. Do not criticize mate but give encouragement needed. Reach a far better understanding.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you do some entertaining of associates today, you find you cement far better relations with them. Remain poised during some possible upset where the public is concerned. Think logically.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy early improving your appearance so you are at your best and feel sure of yourself with others. Then get those dull duties behind you that are nonetheless important. Avoid one who likes to downgrade you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are in the mood for a good time and should follow along such lines so you feel and look happier. Take mate along with you and reach a better understanding. Don't forget to pay that bill first, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is important that you take care of those family affairs very wisely and tactfully today. Make your home a haven of rest, comfort and joy so that others are happy there. Do not criticize so much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Taking short trips is fine for whatever reason, but be sure you drive with utmost care, especially on the highways and byways. Make sure you shop for the week ahead and save time. Fun at home in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can add to waning funds by spending little now. Then investigate some new outlet that will be helpful. Make your home more smooth running and comfortable. Enjoy it more yourself thereby, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although you may have anxieties, be sure to smile and not make others feel unhappy. Spend some time getting appearance improved before you sally forth socially later in the day. Make an excellent impression on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to plan good times with those who are congenial and you truly like for the weeks ahead. Then sit down with an expert and get the facts you need to gain your ambitions. Do not argue.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You should enlarge the circle of your good friends now since this can mean advancement for you in the future. Know what your real aims are and take steps in right direction to attain them. Don't permit lesser persons to deter you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who is poised and cool, who will objectively study what is wanted and make the right practical plans to attain aims, and build a solid foundation to the life early. Give the right training while young to bring out the good business sense inherent here. Be a model for your child to follow, and provide early for the higher education your son, daughter should have. Ethics important early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

PARTNERSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI) —The brain plus blood vessels serving it form a vital partnership, the Public Health Service reports in a pamphlet on stroke.

Both must be healthy to keep the body healthy. Diseases primarily affecting the blood vessels are called vascular diseases. Diseases of the blood vessels serving the brain are called cerebral vascular diseases (CVD). Someone who has had a cerebrovascular accident has had a stroke.

North Pitt Notes

By JOURNALISM CLASS

Another busy week has passed for the North Pitt students and faculty as the 1972-73 school year moves into full swing.

Climaxing a hectic week of campaigning, freshmen class elections were held Friday. Students selected to lead the class during the first of its four high school years are Sarah Sharpe and Joey Nelson, presidents; Pamela Short and Randy Pritchard, vice presidents; Martha Little and Rhonda Nichols, secretaries; Lois Council and Jimmie Sue Spain, treasurers; and Barbara Snuggs and Pam Simpkins, reporters.

Willie Spencer was also elected Friday as junior class vice president to fill the vacancy left by Glendolyn Jones. Glendolyn Jones took the place of Mary Heath who moved away.

Candy will once again be the primary fund-raising project for the seniors. At present, the students plan to use the money to buy furniture for the senior lounge which is to be completed by Thanksgiving.

Only the Name Is Changed

The organization formerly known as the SIC (Student Involvement Committee) has been changed to the Student Task Force.

As in the past, this committee is a local division of the Pitt County Task Force. Representatives from each local division meet regularly to plan program and exchange ideas.

After concentrated annual sales ended Friday at an all time low, staff members expressed disappointment over the lack of student interest in purchasing the annual.

Since only annuals for which deposits have been made can be ordered, it seems that only a few students are going to benefit from the hard work of the staff and the expense to the school of financing the publication.

Although no such decision has been made by the administration, it would appear that future publication may be suspended until more interest is shown by the students.

Staff members hope that interest in the annual will increase and urge those students who did not order annuals during the sales campaign to do so now by contacting a member of the staff, Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Warren.

New Programs Underway

North Pitt's Math Lab, a program unique to the public school system, is continuing to draw visitors to the school. On Oct. 2-3, students from Saint Andrews College visited the school to tour the lab and to talk with the students involved in the program.

The visitors, all future math teachers, planned to carry new ideas and methods back to their college classrooms for discussion.

Mrs. Jenkins and Mr. Walker welcome interested visitors. Appointments for visits can be made by calling 825-8741.

Naval careers were the topic of conversation Friday, when Petty Officer Mead, a naval recruiter, visited the school to talk with interested students.

North Pitt's Advisory Council met for the first time Oct. 2. The following officers were elected without opposition: E.E. Dennis, chairman; Noel Lee Jr., vice chairman; and Walter Latham, secretary.

The Council discussed money-making projects for the school year. The need for approximately $2500 was established for supplementing athletic events, paying for the Junior-Senior Prom, helping with the expenses of the cheerleading squad, and financing other worthwhile extra-curricula school activities.

It was the opinion of all present that student sales of products should be limited. Rules and regulations for the use of the two recently acquired buses were also discussed.

PSAT tests (Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test) will be administered at North Pitt Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Any sophomore or Junior interested in taking this test should bring $2.50 on that date and report to the cafeteria during first period. All students interested in attending college are encouraged to take the test.

Mrs. Rebie Crandol was recently named North Pitt's Teacher of the Year. She will compete against other Pitt County teachers for the honor of representing Pitt County in the state competition.

North Pitt's J.V. squad faces C.B. Aycock Thursday at North Pitt. The varsity squad will play C.B. Aycock the following night at Aycock.

North Pitt students having birthdays Oct. 11-17 include: Oct. 11—Ricky Little, Janey Manning and Doris Wilson; Oct. 12—Tony Clark, Mittie Everett, Deloris Pearson; Oct. 13—Patricia A. Brown, Jacqueline Hudson, Peggy Oakley, Mattie Parker, Michelle Toney; Oct. 14—Carol Edwards and Linda Hathaway; Oct. 15—Alexander Howard, Teresa Manning, Debra Speight and Sidney Terry; Oct. 16—Faryce Goode, Cynthia Singleton and Edna Wilson; Oct. 17—Elworth Bradley, Michael Pollard and Larry Wiggins.

No Changing Of Halloween

RALEIGH (AP) - Gov. Bob Scott says he's not going to change the date for Halloween this year, despite Kelley Chandler's bedtime.

Last year, when Halloween fell on Sunday, the governor suggested in a proclamation that it be moved up to Saturday.

Scott received a letter this week written in a child's carefully formed printed letters. It asked:

"Dear Govenor Scott.

"Halloween is on a school night and (I) might not get to stay out after 8:30. Could you change it to a weekend?

"Sign Kelley Chandler."

There was no return address so the governor and his staff issued an open letter Thursday.

In it, Scott said:

"Dear Kelley,

"I don't plan to change Halloween this year, Kelley. Halloween falls on Tuesday this year, and that's a good night to go trick or treating.

"I hope you get lots of treats and few tricks."

Halloween is Oct. 31.

Tax Charge For Percy Flowers

RALEIGH (AP) — A Johnston County man, J. Percy Flowers, and his wife Delma are facing trial in U.S. Eastern District Court on charges of federal income tax evasion.

A federal grand jury indicted the couple Tuesday on charges of "willfully and knowingly" filing false income tax returns in 1965, 1966 and 1967, by failing to report part of their income.

The indictment did not say how much money was involved.

Over the years Flowers has been convicted on a number of bootlegging charges and acquitted of others.

Reynolds Stock Drops 4 Points

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—R.J. Reynolds Industries stock dropped 4 points to 49½ Thursday after the tobacco-based conglomerate announced a 6.4 per cent drop in net earnings for the third quarter.

It attributed the drop to increased tobacco operating costs.

Earnings were $55.2 million, equal to $1.22 a share, compared with $1.33 a share in the similar quarter last year.

Earnings declined despite record sales and revenues for the quarter. Chairman A.H. Galloway said the company expects fourth-quarter results also to be affected by higher costs.

Short-Term Solutions To Energy Crisis Are Heard

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the century ends, the process that gives the H-bomb its big bang may be harnessed to produce electricity. Coal, now a frequent cause of pollution, may be a major source of clean natural gas. Uranium supplies may last for hundreds of years.

These are among possibilities being assessed by scientists under White House orders to come up with ways of easing the nation's energy crisis.

Some proposals, using so-called unconventional sources of energy such as the winds, the tides and tropical currents, may not be practical until the 21st century. Other, more conventional possibilities, from coal gasification to controlled thermonuclear reaction, under under immediate consideration.

The dimensions of the energy crisis are clear. For example, demand for electricity doubles each decade, but supplies of gas and oil that today furnish 75 per cent of the nation's energy are running out. Estimates are that current domestic supplies of natural gas will be exhausted in the 1990s.

Reports from 11 panels of specialists appointed by the White House's Office of Science and Technology are due soon and are expected to provide the basis for Nixon's administration recommendations for further funding of energy research. The OST says money for such research has increased 75 per cent in that past five years and will run at a 600-million level in fiscal 1973.

The panels, each dealing with a different area of the energy, are expected to pin down more precisely timetables for developing additional energy resources and recommend which projects should be developed by government, industry or both.

The highest priority list for developing conventional souces of energy include:

—The liquid metal fueled breeder reactor, an atomic power plan that would create more fissionable fuel than it burns in sustaining a chain reaction.

Such reactors are expected to be demonstrated as feasible by 1980 and may help ease power shortages by the mid-1980s, OST scientists say. They add that the reactors offer possibilities for assuring that domestic uranium supplies last for centuries.

—Coal gasification for the production of synthetic natural gas. OST scientists say some process to convert coal into gas are beginning to emerge and more sophisticated ones should be available by 1976. But they add that gasification may not make a significant impact on the national energy picture until 1980-1985.

Projects designed to liquefy coal to produce fuels similar to petroleum are rated as "a little further away" from payoff.

—Development of technology for removing sulfur dioxide, one of the major environmental pollutants, from the stack gases of coal-burning industrial plants.

The objective is to permit the plants to continue using high-sulfur coals, the most abundant type of coal, but currently the least acceptable environmentally. These coals are abundant in the eastern and central United States.

Dr. Richard E. Balzhiser, assistant director of OST, said that stack-gas technology has yet to be demonstrated.

But he said progress is being made on techniques "to clean away the sulfur from the coal before you burn it, or to use advanced combustion systems, such as so-called fluidized beds wherein you have a material that reacts with the sulfur as you burn the coal, thus yielding sulfur-free hot gases for making steam." The steam then would be used to generate electricity.

"Hopefully," he said in an interview, "these clean-up and advanced combustion techniques will begin to become available before the end of this decade."

Administration scientists recently have given priority to research on controlled thermonuclear reaction, the quest to harness the hydrogen fusion process that accounts for the H-bomb's explosion

If perfected, as now appears probable, reactors using this process could literally generate power forever because the virtually limitless hydrogen from the world's oceans would be the fuel.

Balzhiser said the hope exists that the technical feasibility of at least one type of fusion reactor can be demonstrated by 1982, but he adds that any significant commercialization of such devices "is not envisioned before the year 2000."

Such time scales could be shortened, he indicated, if a relatively new concept in the controlled-fusion field bears fruit.

In the newer concept, powerful laser beams would be directed at hundreds of marble-sized solid pellets of hydrogen to fry them at temperatures exceeding 100 million degrees and cause the energy-releasing fusion of hydrogen atoms.

In theory, the process is simpler and easier to achieve than that based on an older concept in which hydrogen is converted to an electrified gas which must be confined magnetically by an elaborate system of so-called magnetic bottles.

But Balzhiser cautioned against premature enthusiasm for the laser concept.

The OST scientist listed these further possibilities for more or less conventional sources of energy.

—Exploitation in parts of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming of extensive, untapped oil shale, a substance that "has been considered a strong potential back-up to our petroleum reserves for many years and appears to be much closer to commercialization today than at any time in the past.

—Nuclear explosions that tap certain tightly locked natural gas deposits in the West. Balzhiser said a potential of 300 trillion cubic feet of natural gas exists in the Mesa Verde region of the West, a supply equal to the nation's present proven reserves of easier-to-get gas.

Asked about the nation's energy prospects in the years immediately ahead Balzhiser said:

"By and large, the energy problems of the next five years are going to have to be taken care of by the technologies of the past."

This will involve, he indicated, conservin coal, gas and petroleum supplies wherever possible while seeking additional resources, such as through offshore-drilling for oil and gas.

He suggeted a need existed for expanding the present nuclear power industry with its fission-type power plants. And in both the fossil-fuel and nuclear-fuel areas, he indicated, there will be a need for guarding against excessive environmental impact.

Poll Results Pour Over TV Screen

NEW YORK (AP) — Political polls these days are falling upon us faster than autumn leaves. And you'll hear about them nearly every day on television right until the presidential race ends Nov. 7.

Many samplings concern the effect of the so called "Youth Vote" in the battle between President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern D—S.D. But the definitive youth poll already has been done by CBS.

It crept unnoticed into "60 Minutes" earlier this month and gave us the political word from 10 and 11 year old pupils at the Border Star School in Kansas City, Kan.

The poll drew no conclusions. It just let the 30 or so young respondents have their say about the two candidates—politicians in general and assorted campaign issues.

They began with correspondent Morley Safer's question about the difference between Nixon and McGovern on the issues.

"The largest difference, I think, is that McGovern is a liberal and Nixon is conservative," one youth said. "And I'm totally against the war and my brother in four years will be able to be drafted.

"And Nixon said in '68 that if any man cannot get us out of a war in four years he deserves no more. And he himself has not done this."

"I think McGovern said that he could end the war in 90 days if he got elected president," another boy said. "I don't think he can keep his promise."

"I just don't think that either one of them can really promise what they're promising," a third said. "They can't do it."

One girl had a peace plan and a question: "I don't see why the United States just can't surrender. Right then and there. Because—well, just make a peace treaty and tell them (the North Vietnamese) 'Why can't you guys just be friends?'"

On the vice presidential issue, one youth predicted that Spiro T. Agnew will "get a whole lot of votes because he's so popular they have watches made of him."

Charge 2 In Fire Death

RALEIGH (AP) — Two Central Prison inmates have been charged with first degree murder in the death of Charles Richardson, an inmate who died when his cell rupted in flames Wednesday.

The two were identified as Michael Johnson, 21, serving a five to seven year sentence from Mecklenburg Superior Court for larceny, and Jimmy Maddox, 24, serving a 28 to 30 year sentence from Davidson Superior Court for armed robbery.

Deputy Warden Sam Garrison said warrants were served on the two inmates Thursday night following a probe by prison officials and the State Bureau of Investigation.

Garrison said the autopsy report on Richardson indicated there was a "kerosene-like substance" on the body.

Richardson, 34, of Rt. 3, Albemarle, was serving eight to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and 23 to 30 years for armed robbery.

The fire started about 11:22 a.m. Wednesday. Guards became aware of it when inmates in nearby cells began yelling. The blaze was put out in 10 minutes, but the flames were so intense that they badly charred the steel and concrete walls, floor and ceiling of the cell.

THRIFTY YANKS

CHICAGO (UPI) —Americans saved a greater share of their current income in 1971 than in any other year in a quarter of a century, the United States Savings and Loan League reports. Personal savings climbed to $60.5 billions or 8.2 per cent of after-tax income.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS RANCH HOUSE is slightly under 1,000 square feet in area (966), yet it contains a central foyer from which all rooms can be entered. The living and dining area are made to look more spacious because of the rear window wall and cathedral ceiling. Three bedrooms, bath, a carport which could be converted into a garage and kitchen with a front view complete the first-floor plan. The basement is developed into a huge playroom, utilities room and storage. Plan HA742P was designed by Samuel Paul, 107-40 Queens Blvd., Forest Hills, N.Y. 11375. Anyone interested in the plan or finding out how much it costs may write to him.
