

Foreign Aid, Spending Limits

Adjournment Bid Snags

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $250-billion spending limit and a trimmed-down foreign aid bill loomed today as potential snags for legislators anxious to ad-jour the 92nd Congress and get home to their re-election campaigns.

Some senators continued to insist that tight curbs be placed on any new power granted to President Nixon to hold down federal spending. They announced they will oppose the compromise worked out by House-Senate conferees near midnight Saturday and expected to pass the House today.

And the Senate chopped

$515.4 million off the House's $4-billion spending authority for foreign aid, tossing the measure back for House reconsideration.
But a $6-billion Social Security-Medicare compromise was expected to get through, assuming both the House and Senate can muster quorums.

Campaigning absentees left the Senate short of a quorum Monday—the House took the day off—and the pressure of getting back to neglected campaigns offered Congress' best hope for speeding up settlements of the foreign aid and spending-limit bills.

Pessimists doubted, however, that Congress could adjourn before Wednesday night.
Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and other senators spoke out Monday against the spending-limit compromise which loosens Senate-passed restraints to give the President more authority over federal program cuts to meet the $250-billion limit.

Nixon requested unfettered authority to choose where cuts should be made.
"We are giving up our constitutional power of taxation and appropriation" with such bestowal of authority, Mansfield said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Nixon does not need congressional approval to cut spending. He suggested that the President asked for Congress' okay in order to pose as an economic leader if he got it or the victim of a spendthrift Congress if he didn't.
"The President has set a political trap," Proxmire said. "Either way it goes, he will be the big political winner."

The Senate's $515.4-million foreign aid cut was from an interim continuing resolution to keep the program alive through Feb. 29.
Regular appropriation bills for foreign aid died in a deadlocked House-Senate conference and the resolution, in effect, authorizes continued spending on the assumption Congress will approve regular appropriations next year.

Armada Of Planes Gathered To Hunt For Hale Boggs

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A small armada of private planes assembled in poor weather today to search Alaska's rugged southern coast for a light plane carrying House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three others. The plane was long overdue and presumed down on a campaign flight for the state's only House member.

A heavy cloud cover and rain prevailed in the search area as some 30 planes prepared to join an electronically equipped Air Force HC130 on the rescue mission. The Air Force plane had flown an Anchorage-to-Juneau pattern through the night in search of the missing plane, which failed to show up late Monday on a 560-mile flight from Juneau.

A spokesman for the Air Force's Rescue Coordination Center said the forecast for today was for strong wind, an overcast and "very marginal flying weather."

Meanwhile, an Air Force HC130 rescue plane searched throughout the night for the missing craft, which failed to show up late Monday on a scheduled 2 1/2 hour, 560-mile flight to Juneau.

Aboard the twin-engine Cessna 310 were Boggs, 58; Rep. Nick Begich, a 40-year-old Democrat; Begich's administrative assistant, Russell Brown, 37; and the pilot, 38-year-old Don E. Jonz.

Boggs' administrative assistant, Gary Hymel, said in Washington that the last radio contact with the plane came 12 minutes after takeoff Monday, when Jonz filed a flight plan. There was no sign of trouble.

Policy Proposals Extend School Board's Meeting

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Reporter
New policies to reflect changing conditions and needs of Greenville City schools dominated the four hour long meeting of Greenville's Board of Education Monday night.

Subjects for which policy matters were discussed ranged from teacher pregnancy to transfer of pupils, custodial-maintenance changes, field trips and graduation.

Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox asked the board to consider a proposal that would establish a two shift work force for the school custodial force of the schools.

Cox pointed out that under the present arrangement, with all 32 personnel working basically during school hours, this meant they could only work in the halls, in toilets and other non-classroom areas while classes were in session. As their work hours end soon after dismissal of students, this provides a limited time in which the force can devote to cleaning of classrooms.

The proposal Cox asked the board to consider is one to establish two shifts, one to run from about 7:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m., a second one from about 2:30 to 10:30 p.m. Cox noted this arrangement would have definite advantages in better cleaning arrangements, but that there were certain problems. Foremost among problems is reluctance of personnel to work on a second shift that entails late hours, particularly among the 13 women. As the pay scale is low — the minimum rate of $1.65 per hour, Cox indicated it is difficult to keep good people for the job because of the competition in the community for efficient custodial persons.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the City Schools, introduced the matter of policy changes that likely would be forthcoming soon relative to maternity leave for teachers. "The federal courts have ruled that pregnancy is a natural condition causing temporary disability," Dr. Cleetwood stated.

The superintendent said that thinking in this matter now is that teachers should be allowed to utilize fringe benefits. "For this reason, a number of schools have asked the State Board of Education to articulate on this matter."

He explained that under the present policy, a pregnant teacher terminates teaching at a mutually agreeable time designated by the teacher's physician, the teacher and the principal, "but no later than at the end of six months of pregnancy."

The board is being asked to give thought to a policy stand that would take into consideration changes that might arise in the present arrangement utilized by the school system in teacher pregnancy situations.

Other policy matters included one that will permit school administrative officials to approve field or sightseeing trips of an educational nature for trips that entail less than a day's time. For longer trips — out of state ones or ones in which overnight stays are required — each proposed trip is to be submitted to the school board for prior approval.

In high school graduation policy, the board gave approval to adhere to the current 14 unit requirement for graduation without exception. The 14 unit system is based on a student completing 14 units in grades 10, 11 and 12. Some school systems in the state, those of Pitt County, for example, are based on an 18 unit system covering four school years, grades 9 through 12. Rose High principal Robert Allgood noted that in the case of students transferring in from 18 unit systems, arrangements can be made, through summer school attendance if necessary, to make it possible for a student to fill any gaps in graduation requirements.

Another matter under discussion relative to policy was that of pupil transfer during the school year. This will be the subject of discussion when a

Helms Visits Campus

Republican Senate nominee Jesse Helms said today credibility of the opponents was the major issue in his race with Democratic Rep. Nick Galifianakis.

Helms told young people in Goldsboro and Greenville that his race with Galifianakis offered a clear-cut choice of "a conservative on one side, a liberal on the other." Helms repeatedly has described Galifianakis as a member of the Washington ultraliberal set.

In Goldsboro, Helms opened his swing through eastern North Carolina with an early morning coffee with about 50 persons. Shaking hands, Helms frequently ended his conversations with a light pat on the wrist and the words: "Bless your heart."

Later he told students at Wayne Community College that he was "unilaterally opposed" to busing to achieve racial balance in classrooms. The comment came in response to a question from a student who told him a campus poll showed Helms ahead among the students.

Helms took time out to pose with two dental hygiene students at the community college, and then kissed them as a small gathering cheered.

Helms smiled broadly as he met with students at the Goldsboro school and later at East Carolina University. He showed no signs of the cold that plagued him in Raleigh Monday and has slowed him since last Thursday when he was caught in rain at Rose Hill.

A doctor treated Helms at his Raleigh home Monday night.

Planning Bd. To Elect Officers

The Pitt County Planning Board will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Law Library of the Pitt County Court House.

Major items of business on the board's agenda is the election of officers for the coming year, a review of the areas the board feels should be of most interest in the coming year, and a review of proposed amendments to the subdivision ordinance.

Signs Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will sign the revenue-sharing bill in Philadelphia's historic Independence Hall Friday.

Invitations are being sent to the 50 governors, members of Congress, mayors of about 100 cities and various state and county officials to attend the ceremony, which is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

Revenue sharing was one of Nixon's major proposals for the 92nd Congress. It will provide for distribution of $5.3 billion from the federal treasury to state and local governments this year and slightly higher amounts in the next four years.

The checks for the first six-month period will be mailed on Oct. 27.

Pitt Stands To Get $902,000 In U.S. Funds

Pitt County stands to receive some $902,000 in federal revenue sharing funds this year—thanks to the passage of the revenue sharing bill by Congress last week—but plans to spend the funds have not been made.

"We hate to count our chickens before the eggs hatch," County Manager Reginald Gray said. "We haven't received notification of it yet."

According to Gray, "We have a number of holes to fill, but the board (of County Commissioners) hasn't given serious consideration as to what is going to be done at this point."

"I don't know and the board doesn't at this point."

Emphasizing the fact that "we need it," Gray said the county has not received guidelines on how the funds can be spent as yet.

The City of Greenville is slated to receive about $590,000 in revenue sharing funds and City Manager Bill Carstarphen said members of the city council are investigating the various alternatives and needs for which the money can be spent.

Washington To Hold Last Sale

The Greenville tobacco market yesterday averaged $85.21 per hundred pounds after selling 1,230,739 pounds of tobacco for $1,048,818.

Wilson and Farmville both averaged $86.99 per hundred pounds yesterday. The Wilson market sold 1,468,342 pounds of tobacco for $1,277,446, while the Farmville market sold 518,065 pounds for $540,714.

The Washington tobacco market has announced it will close the 1972 auction season after sells on Thursday. Closing dates for other markets in the Eastern Belt are expected to be announced next week.

A tabulation of sales on the individual markets as compiled by the Federal-State Market News Service as follows:

Back To Secret Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, is back in Paris today meeting with North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy in another round of peace talks, the White House announced.

The peace talks are being resumed after a five-day break during which both sides consulted with their respective governments. It is Kissinger's 20th trip to Paris and 25th day of private talks in an effort to reach a settlement of the Southeast Asia conflict.

The White House said Kissinger left Washington Monday morning, while President Nixon was substituting for him in an appearance before the National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action.

The time of Kissinger's return will be announced when it is known, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in making the announcement.

Lawmen Attend Traffic School Conducted Here

Forty-five North Carolina Patrolmen and city policemen are currently participating in the second week of a three week course in "Traffic Planning and Supervision" at the American Legion Building. Sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Highway Safety in cooperation with Pitt Technical Institute and Northwestern University, the course includes 105 hours of instruction.

"The purpose or objective of the course is to further train police officers in this area to have a better understanding of traffic law enforcement as it relates to accident investigation," stated Thad T. Aycock of Northwestern Traffic

Institute who is serving as one of the instructors for the course. The course consists of 50 hours of training in traffic laws and the proper techniques used to enforce traffic laws. The second half of the course consists of accident investigation.

The objective is not only to teach the officers how to enforce traffic laws and investigate accidents, but to teach the direct relationship between enforcement and investigation, in order to reduce accidents, Aycock noted.

Personnel of the Highway Patrol and city police departments from throughout North Carolina are attending the three weeks course.

Also instructing in the training sessions is L.B. Dunfee of the Ohio State Police.

Among city policemen attending the traffic school are officers from such municipalities as Greenville, New Bern, Mt. Gilead, Gastonia, Rocky Mount, Wilmington, High Point, the State Capital Police, Hickory, Roanoke Rapids, Tarboro, Wilson, Goldsboro and Carolina Beach.

Others attending the session include the chief of security for East Carolina University, the assistant chief of police at the university of North Carolina at Wilmington, and officers from Camp Lejeune, Ayden, Cherry Point, Kinston and other governmental units.

Holshouser Says Gap Closed; No, Says Bowles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Republican Jim Holshouser says he has closed the gap and is running neck and neck with Democrat Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles in the North Carolina gubernatorial race. Bowles says he is ahead now, but has warned his workers of overconfidence.

The gubernatorial and senatorial candidates started Monday the final three weeks of campaigning before the election on Nov. 7.
Holshouser and Bowles will speak in Wilmington today to the convention of the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters.

The Democratic candidate for senator, Rep. Nick Galifianakis, will hold a news conference in Raleigh today, and then campaign in High Point, Winston-Salem and Kannapolis. His Republican opponent, Jesse Helms, remained in Raleigh Monday for office work and to nurse a cold.

Holshouser said in Asheville Monday, "Our first poll back in August showed us 18 percentage points behind. We've been polling every two or two and a half weeks, and we close the gap each time. He said his polling now shows him and Bowles each with 41 per cent of the vote, and the rest undecided.

Bowles said that his biggest fear in the final three weeks was overconfidence within his organization. He told a news conference in Mount Airy, "Our polls show that if the election were held today, we'd win. But the election is not today. It is Nov. 7. I'm trying to get out people in the field to get out the vote and not be victimized by overconfidence."

He said he has a substantial lead over Holshouser, but declined to give figures.

Galifianakis was asked by a political science class at Elon College what is the basic difference between him and Helms. He said he has a positive approach rather than a negative one, "You don't find me alarming or being a prophet of doom." He also said he has more experience.

He also said how he stood on the presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern. He replied, "I have repeatedly said I will honor my pledge to vote for Democratic candidates." But he added, "Every candidate for office has to make his own case."

Helms said a political advertisement in his behalf which challenged the truthfulness of Galifianakis "speaks for itself." He declined further comment when asked at a news conference, "Are you saying Nick Galifianakis is a liar?"

The ad appeared in some North Carolina newspapers Monday morning. It quoted Sen. B. Everett Jordan as saying during his unsuccessful runoff campaign for the Democratic nomination with Galifianakis in May "Nick's doing nothing but spreading lies...Galifianakis can't be trusted in anything he tells you."

Political Sabotage 'Innuendo' Rapped

By WALTER MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's press secretary and campaign director have denounced assertions that administration aides were involved in political spying and sabotage against the Democrats.
But neither man flatly denied them.
"I will not dignify with comment stories based on hearsay, character assassination, and guilt by association," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Clark MacGregor, campaign director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said "all the dirt is being thrown" by the opposition to Nixon.
"The mud-slinging, the name-calling, the unsubstantiated charges, the innuendos, the guilt by association, the character assassination, the second-hand hearsay are all tactics exclusively employed by the McGovernites and their apologists," MacGregor said in a statement Monday.

He did not discuss the specific charges of administration-linked sabotage published by The Washington Post and Time magazine.
Instead, he refused to answer questions and rushed from the room after reading before newsmen and television cameras a statement assailing The Washington Post.

MacGregor did say that Donald H. Segretti, the Los Angeles lawyer said by the Post and by Time magazine to have been engaged in attempts to disrupt the campaigns of Democratic presidential candidates, has never been employed by the Committee for the Re-election of the President or its finance committee.
Ziegler said Segretti has never been an employee of the White House.

The Post has reported it was told that Dwight L. Chapin, Nixon's appointments secretary, was a contact with Segretti in a spying and sabotage operation aimed at the Democrats.
Time said it had learned Segretti was hired by Chapin and Gordon Strachan, another White House aide, to "subvert and disrupt Democratic candidates' campaigns."
Ziegler noted that Chapin already had described the Post account as "based entirely on hearsay ... and fundamentally inaccurate."

MacGregor said the Post "has maliciously sought to give the appearance of a direct connection between the White House and the Watergate," the affair in which five men were arrested inside Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building last June 17 on an apparent wiretapping mission. Seven men have been indicted in that case.
MacGregor said any such charge is false; Ziegler said no link has been found "because no link exists."
He described the new sabotage allegations as unproven charges about "alleged campaign disruptions that occurred more than six months ago."

City Officials Plan To Attend League Meeting

Mayor S. Eugene West and several other Greenville City officials plan to attend the estimated 1,000 mayors, councilmen and other key city officials from all across North Carolina to attend the 63rd Annual Convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

To date, in addition to Mayor West, Council members William Dansey, Dr. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Mildred McGrath and John Taylor, as well as City Manager William H. Carstarphen, Director of Utilities Charles Horne and City Attorney David Reid, have all made tentative plans to be in attendance at the three day session to be held in Greensboro October 29 through October 31.

The role of the state in understanding and aiding in city problems and the new awareness by cities of the role and assistance available to them from state agencies has become particularly apparent in the past few years.

North Carolina voters, as an example, have approved a $150 million dollar bond issue through which the state will aid cities and towns in water and sewer construction programs. The 1971 General Assembly recognized the burden of maintaining city streets and doubled allocation of funds for that purpose.

Major political candidates for the office of governor, lieutenant governor and U.S. Senate will be among those speaking to municipal officials at various points during the convention.

Governor Bob Scott will be the recipient of a Honorary League Membership, a recognition given to only nine men in the history of the league.

Sam Massell, Mayor of Atlanta, who is now serving as president of the National League of Cities, will deliver the keynote address on Monday, October 30. Also appearing on the convention program will be Professor Emeritus Albert Coates of the University of North Carolina, founder of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

Old Trailer Is HQ For Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — A dirty gray and blue junkyard trailer, surrounded by discarded auto wrecks and often frequented by Cadillacs, has been unmasked as organized crime's "summit headquarters" for the New York City area.

A sweeping dragnet, involving issuance of subpoenas to more than 600 reputed organized crime figures, was announced Monday by Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Eugene Gold, who called it the biggest underworld probe in history.

Gold disclosed that three telephones had been bugged and an eavesdropping device had been installed last April in the 40-by-15-foot trailer in Brooklyn which is surrounded by barbed wire and guarded at night by dogs.

Conversations recorded over the past seven months and a gallery of still and moving pictures revealed "the comings and goings of prominent members of the five organized crime families of New York City and other people," Gold said.

Included in the range of crimes said to have been discussed in the trailer were narcotics, counterfeiting, labor racketeering, auto theft, insurance fraud, prostitution, gambling, loansharking, burglary and arson.

"All the top members of organized crime had been in the trailer," Gold said.

An estimated 100 policemen were also understood to have been issued subpoenas.

"We have pierced the veil of organized crime," declared Gold, who told newsmen that his investigation had been more productive than the exposure of the 1967 Apalachin crime convention.

Indicted For Gun Slaying

RALEIGH (AP) — A 50-year-old woman faces trial on a murder charge in the pistol slaying Aug. 10 of Dr. Alice Pugh McInnis, 47, Raleigh pediatrician.

Mrs. Celeste Van Landingham was indicted Monday by the Wake County Grand Jury. Dr. McInnis was found shot to death in a room at the stables on her farm north of Raleigh. She had been shot several times with a .38-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Van Landingham, who was manager of Dr. McInnis' horse farm, was arrested Aug. 12 and charged with murder. She was returned to the Wake jail about a week ago from Dorothea Dix State Hospital where she was committed by the court for mental observation.

Solicitor W. G. Ransdell Jr. said psychiatrists at the hospital pronounced her sane.

IBM Break-Up Trial Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — A lawyer for International Business Machines Corp. says trial of a 3½-year-old Justice Department suit to break up the multibillion dollar data processing company is being delayed by a government move to enlarge its scope.

"The government wasn't ready before, and it just trebled the size of its case," Thomas D. Barr, the IBM lawyer said Monday after details of the suit were spelled out in a Justice Department memorandum.

To replace the present IBM structure, the government said it would seek "formation of the total domestic and international computer systems facilities of IBM into several separate, independent and competitively balanced entities capable of competing successfully in domestic and international markets."

Barr said the statement contained the first mention of inclusion of IBM's overseas business and the first mention of its computer leasing and peripheral equipment aspects.

"It all shows that the government just doesn't have a case," Barr said.

IBM, largest computer manufacturer in the world and the nation's fifth largest corporation, reported $8.3 billion in revenues last year.

IBM stock closed at 364½ on the New York Stock Exchange Monday, down 14½ points.

In these days of gimmickry and gadgetry, advertising media of every sort have induced the public to buy services and products with which they were very unhappy. Because what they were induced to buy, through various means of advertising, was in fact, not what they received.

In these cases, considerable time may lapse before the public discovers the advertisements were misleading.

Women Are Climbing Up The Executive Ladder

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. June Turley, an analytical manager at the Dow Chemical Co., thinks women may reach the "take-off point" in their careers later than men do.

She would be an example. Less than one year ago, Dr. Turley was a senior research chemist with 15 years' tenure at Dow's Midland, Mich., research laboratories. Then she was named analytical manager, supervising three women and 22 men in her research group.

"One of our executives asked me why he didn't hear about the 'young tigers' among women employees as he did about the men. After thinking it over, I believe women's careers are timed differently. They are more aware of their potential in the business world at an older age, around 35," she said.

National statistics indicate that a woman who is working at 35 has 25 more years ahead of her in the job marketplace. Dr. Turley added.

Such facts are increasingly significant to major companies such as Dow, which decided more than a year ago women employees were underutilized as a resource.

A decision to help women achieve full potential in the company was backed by appointment of a five-woman committee to advise management on job opportunities for women. Dr. Turley was one of four long-time employees named to the committee.

This year one woman has been named to a full time position as coordinator of Advancement of Women Employees at Dow (AWED).

"We found that many women need counseling. They are aware they have potential but aren't sure how to seek promotions," Dr. Turley said.

"Some women are highly trained, technical experts without thinking of themselves as career women."

Petite and blonde, Dr. Turley is mother of three children—a son 14, and daughters 12 and 8. She was graduated from Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and received master's and doctoral degrees from Penn State.

Her husband is a polymer physicist at Dow.

"That's not at all unusual," she said. "When there's one big company in town, several family members often work for that company. We were interviewed together for our jobs."

"I always judged my own performance by that of the men I worked with in the lab. Initially I was afraid, as I remember it, to sign my name to a report—I always used initials. But I got over that after a while. I was always being mistaken for a secretary, but I found it bothered the men I worked with more than it worried me. They always took great pains to explain that I was a chemist," she added.

Dr. Turley feels one reason she has been able to move up in management is that she has never been afraid to tell someone when she thought things weren't being run the way they should be.

"I always thought I could do some things better—or differently—than the way they were being done. I didn't hesitate to express my feelings to my supervisor, just so he'd know I wasn't a dummy who thought everything was okay," she said.

Since Dr. Turley and the advisory committee began talking with Dow women across the nation, 10 per cent of the company's female employees have received promotions. A number now hold jobs formerly held only by men.

When will the huge company have a woman executive?

"Maybe never," one official said. "But hopefully, we'll soon reach a point where women will have an equal opportunity to compete for the job."

Dr. Turley said there are perhaps 20 women in plants across the nation with the kind of broad background they would need to begin working toward an executive position.

"It would take someone like me at least five years," she said. "That's something to think about."

Couple Weds In Recent Ceremony

WILSON — In an informal ceremony on Wednesday, Oct. 4, Mrs. Shelby Skinner Hamm and Carl Allegood, both of Wilson, were united in marriage in the First Apostolic Church.

The Rev. Luther Evans was the officiating minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mollie Skinner of Wilson. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Irvin Bowles of Greenville, and the late Mr. Claud J. Allegood.

For her wedding, the bride wore a lime and dark green dress accented by a corsage of yellow roses.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in La Grange, where the bridegroom has assumed the Chevrolet dealership.

Cooking History Features Garlic

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
For centuries, the versatile bulb known as garlic has perhaps been used to flavor more types of food than has any other seasoning.

Despite the potent aroma this member of the onion family gives off—by scientific estimate one millionth of an ounce can be detected by the human nostril—garlic is delicate if prepared properly.

In the Mediterranean area where garlic is used lavishly, cooks have discovered that crushing the bud reduces its potency. Boiling garlic also tames the scent. In fact kitchens in Provençal feature a soup composed of a couple of dozen garlic cloves, water and not much else.

In ancient times, garlic served as a food rather than a seasoning. Historians tell us the Egyptian slaves who built the Great Pyramid in the 5th century B.C. virtually lived on garlic and onions. And the Roman poet, Virgil, urged reapers to eat garlic to help them withstand the broiling sun as they toiled in the fields.

Garlic was also used for medical purposes in olden days. When one suffered from a toothache, a sliver of the bulb was placed in the cavity. It was generally believed in medieval times that garlic could cure dog bites, poison-arrow wounds and the sting of a venomous snake.

One tends to link Italian food with the flavor of garlic and this is true of many dishes of that land, from the rich tomato sauces of southern Italy to the tangy dishes of Milan in the north. Good Italian cooks are careful not to over-season a dish or sauce with garlic, but there is usually enough of an aroma to make it clearly detectable.

In Naples they serve a pasta flavored with garlic and olive oil, and in Piedmont restaurants feature a powerful sauce known as bagna cauda, or hot bath. Made from butter, anchovies, white truffles and garlic with olive oil, this authoritative mixture is used as a hot dip for cold raw vegetables and makes a delicious antipasto.

In Milan, they have several garlic specialties that have found their way to America. One is Ossobuco, which consists of veal shanks braised with vegetables, white wine and tomatoes. Before being served, this pungent dish is garnished with a mixture of chopped raw garlic, lemon peel and parsley.

One of the most delightful garlic dishes for which Milan is noted is Vitello Tonnato. It consists of sliced veal flavored with garlic, wine and herbs, served cold with a sprightly tuna-fish, anchovy and garlic sauce.

Vitello Tonnato is a specialty of L'Aiglon, a restaurant in midtown New York. The owners picked up the recipe in a small trattoria in the Milan region, and adapted it for their cuisine.

Mother Prepares 'Summer Time Schedule'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-H. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: At the beginning of summer I made up a "time schedule" for my children, since I didn't want to go thru another summer seeing them lie around doing nothing all day.

Some children are lucky enough to have summer jobs, or go to summer school, or summer camp, but judging from the favorable comment from neighbors, friends and repairmen who have seen my schedule posted on my kitchen wall, it's a pretty good idea.

I make a "chart" listing chores that must be done daily (Monday thru Saturday—Sunday is a "free" day), and I indicate which child is to do what on each day. It works like a charm, especially when I tell one of them to take out the garbage, and he says, "It's HER turn . . . I did it yesterday." Then trying to be fair, I wrack my brain trying to remember who was right.

I'm sorry I didn't think of sharing this idea with your readers sooner, Abby, but there is always next summer.

LUCILLE H.

DEAR LUCILLE: Thanks for suggesting it now. The summers seem to get closer together each year.

DEAR ABBY: Some letters you had in your column from the husbands who were patting themselves on the back because they forgave their wives for having affairs prompts me to write.

About a year ago my wife forgave me for an affair which I knew almost from the start was a mistake. She assured me that all was forgiven. She hasn't mentioned it since, but hardly a day goes by when she hasn't mentioned something she wants me to buy her. She seldom goes anywhere with me, unless it's to see some of her friends. Mine have been crossed off our social list. She hasn't had sex with me for a year. [She says she doesn't "feel" like it.]

Do you think she has forgiven me? I am beginning to wish I hadn't crossed the other woman off my list.

TIERED OF IT ALL

DEAR TIERED: She obviously SAID she forgave you. Meanwhile, she's milking your mistake for all it's worth. When you think you've been punished enough, tell her! Unless you want to spend the rest of your life under her unforgiving thumb.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother of little girls who wanted to bathe her neighbor's little boy [with her little girls "helping"] so they could see what a little boy looked like has been on my mind. Maybe the little boy is just as curious, and should get equal time. Sounds awful to me!

It reminds me that while traveling in Italy many years ago and visiting churches, women with bare arms were not permitted in churches for fear the monks would be "disturbed." Meanwhile, these monks would be seen roaming around the art galleries gazing at the nude paintings!

Perhaps the mother should take her curious daughters to an art museum. There are plenty of nude figures there and no one thinks a thing of it.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: And if they're in Florence [Italy], they shouldn't miss Michelangelo's.

DEAR ABBY: Mighty kind of you to have put in a good word for the much maligned stepmothers of the world with your statement, "Abraham Lincoln was referring to his STEPMOTHER when he said, 'all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.'"

I challenge that. When Lincoln's mother died he was nine years and 235 days old. He knew and loved his mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, and I believe he was referring to HER, and not to his stepmother, Sarah Bush Johnston Lincoln. Respectfully,

Where Will It All Come From?

Certainly everyone who is concerned with financial problems of local and state governments welcomes the federal revenue sharing bill. The question still remains, however, of where the money is to come from.

It is well known that the federal government is running deficits of ominous proportions.

Cities and counties particularly have been hard pressed in recent years because they rely to a great degree on property taxes which do not tend to grow like other taxes. All of the state and local governments have been waiting hopefully for final approval of this bill which will send funds from the federal treasury back to the states, cities and counties.

As the program was debated, however, federal deficits have steadily mounted so that now there are many who question whether the federal government can afford it.

In this election year it became good politics to approve revenue sharing and, at the same time, there have been pledges by the Nixon administration of no tax increases.

If the revenue program is to be carried out and federal taxes held where they are, it becomes obvious that some other federal spending is going to have to be eliminated.

Quite a juggling act will be required to maintain federal tax rates and carry out this new revenue tax sharing program. It remains to be seen whether this can be done.

Machinery To Set A Course

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — State government reorganization gives the machinery the next governor can use to set the direction for North Carolina.

Jim Holshouser wants to be the man pulling the levers. He's asking voters to elect him the first Republican governor in this century so he can make changes in Raleigh.

"My thinking focuses on reorganization," he said. "I see that as the tool a governor can use to make state government a better vehicle to provide services for the people."

As a state legislator, Holshouser helped put together the nuts and bolts of the reorganization concept. To some point, it occurred to him that only a Republican governor could really make it work.

That was one of the factors leading to the decision that now finds him three weeks away from the general election ballot duel with Democrat Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr.

On the way to the shoot-out, Holshouser had to beat Jim Gardner of Rocky Mount in a primary that bruised and shook the party. That the nomination was regarded a prize worth such a fight indicated GOP certainty that '72 is a year of opportunity.

Has Time Arrived? Reorganization and GOP chief executive and ideas whose time has come, said Holshouser, a mountain lawyer with a strong Republican heritage.

What the ship of state needs is not just a change of crew with the same old stripe, but steering into fresh waters. "A Democrat will have the albatross of the established order around his neck," asserted Holshouser. "It will take a turnover of party control to give a governor the free hand to overhaul agencies and make them function effectively."

Holshouser, slender at 38, has a boyish face and nose that crinkles with a frequent grin. What his manner lacks in charisma he makes up in earnestness.

Political Distrust Deepening Out among the voters, he said, he finds a deep distrust for politics and politicians. The question he sees in many eyes, he said, is: "What's he in it for?"

The cure is to demonstrate by example that elected officials serve the public, he said. "We have to prove it by going over and beyond the call of duty. We must have those in public office who show they are in it only to do the best job they can," he said.

Long tenure by a single party breeds complacency officials and a cynical public, Holshouser said. "I'd feel the same way if the Republicans had been in as long as the Democrats have," he added. "A two-party system would create the healthy competition that would keep those elected on their toes and hustling."

Though sharply critical of aspects of the present administration, Holshouser avoids broadside indictment of the Democratic party. After all, there are the votes he must have to win.

He doesn't say how he marks a ballot in the privacy of the polling booth, but he observes that more and more voters of both parties choose the man. "Problems of government have reached the point where we've got to start putting the best people into office, regardless of party," he insisted.

President Nixon at the top of the ticket encourages the Republican belief that the time is ripe to break the 70-year Democratic hold on the governorship. They expect the negative appeal of George McGovern to boost the inclination for ticket-splitting, with wash-over benefit for other GOP candidates.

However, favorable the timing, the campaign road runs uphill. As in the past, the Tar Heel GOP gubernatorial candidate bucks the odds of tradition and voter registration.

Campaign On Schedule Holshouser keeps a dogged confidence. He's behind now, he conceded, but the game plan is on schedule.

He sees Bowles as over-exposed and headed for an early campaign peak. His own trajectory, he added, is aimed for election day and is on target.

That forecasts an intensified tempo in the coming weeks, sharpening the tone of attacks and tightening the identification of Bowles with the party in power and the presidential candidate.

What voters are hearing discloses little difference between the two in basic philosophy of proposals. Both bear down hard on the tax issue, promising to use better what is now raised and to avoid any increases.

News releases from the Holshouser camp always spell the Democratic candidate's name with a dollar mark for the final "s." Holshouser never used the nickname Skipper; Hargrove sounds more upper crust.

Virginia Now No-Party Land

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
RICHMOND, Va. —

Despite new calamities inflicted on Virginia's bedraggled Democratic party by the McGovern campaign, Republicans are still far from political domination here — a situation typifying widespread breakdown of party politics in the South.

Virginia's Republican party, though incomparably healthier and better suited to the state's conservative climate than the Democrats, has not filled the vacuum caused by the Democratic collapse. The political confusion here is measured by the possibility that the two leading prospects for governor in 1973 — former Gov. Mills Godwin (conservative) and Lt. Gov. Henry Howell (liberal) — may both run as independents.

Virginia represents, perhaps in exaggerated form, transitional political conditions throughout the South. The fading one-party system, given its death blow by the McGovern catastrophe, is being replaced temporarily by a no-party system — thanks partly to President Nixon's non-support for Southern Republicanism.

Clearly, the Virginia Democrats are at low ebb. With liberals having taken control the state Democratic party is in danger of becoming a permanent minority of blacks, labor leaders and the college campus. That danger has become reality in Sen. George McGovern's campaign.

McGovern's high command has ignored the liberals running the party and inserted his own inexperienced agents. State Democratic chairman Joe Fitzpatrick, a veteran of many Virginia campaigns, was passed over because he did not support McGovern before Miami Beach. So, the outsiders and post-adolescents in charge for McGovern here have not even generated McGovern's own constituency. The black turnout in Norfolk, for example, may be 33 per cent below 1968.

McGovern operatives unfamiliar with Virginia have pulled off a series of laughers, such as sending strident women's lib activist Gloria Steinem into the decorous Old Dominion this week. Moreover, the young McGovern state coordinator imported from Washington, D.C., Harley Daniels, was transferred last week to presumably more promising Connecticut. "Just when he was beginning to learn something about Virginia," a bitter Virginia McGovernite told us.

The upshot: not only a prospective Nixon landslide but further evidence that national Democrats write off the South. "George McGovern may set us back 20 years," confided a prominent Virginia liberal. Howell, elected lieutenant-governor as a liberal independent last year, intends to run for governor as an independent, not a Democrat, partly because of the McGovernite stigma on the Democratic party.

Though the Republican party holds six of Virginia's ten Congressional seats and may pick up a seventh, the overall GOP picture is not satisfactory. Republicans probably will lose the U.S. Senate race here this year, their third straight statewide defeat. More important, may prominent Republicans want to forego fielding a Republican for governor next year and instead back Godwin, the last Democratic governor of Virginia, as a conservative independent.

The conventional wisdom in Republican circles is to blame all this on Gov. Lynwood Hilton, Virginia's first Republican governor since Reconstruction. Holton's patronage policies and statewide candidate selections, say his critics, stunted party growth.

But nobody could hold Richard M. Nixon blameless. Although a sure winner in Virginia, he had concentrated here — as elsewhere — on carrying the state with no regard for local Republican fortunes. Fitzgerald Bemiss, a Byrd Democrat and F.V. (First Family Virginia) aristocrat, was given command of the Nixon campaign. With ex-Gov. Godwin (Continued on page 5)

People Unlikely To Buy

Senator McGovern's speech last week on Vietnam, which he himself described as the most important statement of his campaign, provided some excellent insights into the candidate's strength — and into his weakness also.

Viewed simply as a forensic effort, this was first-rate job. The Senator spoke clearly, forcefully, eloquently. In times past, his voice has seemed to have a fuzzy twang, as if his speech were scored for a country fiddle, but not on Tuesday night. Technically, this was an excellent performance.

The Senator cannot be faulted in another respect: He hit fairly at a vulnerable spot in the Nixon record. "Those who have had a chance for four years and could not produce peace should not be given another chance." That is what Nixon said of the Democrats in the course of the 1968 campaign. McGovern is perfectly entitled to throw the statement back in his face.

Yet the Senator's address, for all its sincerity and eloquence, contained large servings of hokum and demagoguery; and his step-by-step plan of unilateral withdrawal may fairly be challenged for its wisdom.

It was hokum, for example, for the Senator to depict himself as one "who has publicly opposed this war for nine years." He dwelled upon that theme. He recalled an anti-war statement he had made in 1963; he said he had opposed the war through three administrations; he asserted that "for nine years I have loved this country enough to risk my political life to call it home."

It is this kind of waffling that damages the Senator's plea for credibility. McGovern voted in August of 1964 for the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution. In the spring of 1965, he praised Lyndon Johnson for his conduct of the war. In March of 1966, he voted against the Morse amendment to repeal the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution. In June of 1967, he told a home town reporter that "I am not now, nor have I ever been, an advocate of unilateral withdrawal of our troops from Vietnam." Throughout this period, McGovern voted for military appropriations to maintain the war.

McGovern would be better advised candidly to acknowledge these aspects of his record. I recall one night in New Hampshire, back in February, when a planted Republican heckler challenged him to defend his vote on the Tonkin Resolution. McGovern met the challenged head-on, confessed his mistake, said he regretted the vote — and his audience responded with the best applause of the night. He was credible then. But this "nine-year" stuff is not credible now.

It was demagoguery for him to say, as he said repeatedly, that Nixon's purpose is "to save a political regime in Saigon." Our policy-makers "want to save face and they want to save the Saigon regime of General Thieu." Mr. Nixon, he said again, "would continue the war to preserve General Thieu's power." Rhetorically he asked, "Shall we break free at last from General Thieu?"

This is flappdoodle. If General Thieu were to die in his bed tonight, the purposes of the Nixon administration would not be altered by one iota. Those purposes have nothing to do with Thieu as an individual or with Thieu's regime as such. More than three years ago, Nixon defined his essential objective: "We seek the opportunity for the South Vietnamese people to determine their own political future without outside in-

A nosy person is someone who thinks any letter beginning "to whom it may concern" is meant for him.

One of the things I admire most about a woman is her ability to enjoy the fact that she is a woman, and not some other animate or inanimate object. Neither the privileges nor the pleasures of being a woman stir a responsive chord in me; I sympathize with members of the female sex who say they wish to heaven they had been born male. I would rather be a rooster in a barnyard, or a flat rook on a mossy hilt than be a woman, whether she sat on a throne or worked as a scullery maid. But that by no means makes me a woman hater. It makes me only respect more those women who make of femininity a real achievement. Never play marbles with a guy who shoots with his glass (Continued on page 5)

Members of the Greenville Rotary Club last night paid tribute to a great public servant to Greenville and North Carolina. The club honored Thomas Jordan Jarvis who was elected lieutenant governor of North Carolina in 1876, and when Governor Zebulon Baird Vance was elected to the United States Senate in 1879, Jarvis succeeded him as chief executive of the state. He was re-elected for a full term in 1880. Some of his outstanding accomplishments were his advancement of public education, the development of the railroads, and work for public welfare. He brought about the construction of the Western North Carolina Railroad, and two asylums were founded under his leadership, one at Morganton and one at Goldsboro. Jarvis proposed to the legislature of 1881 that it provide a residence for the governor. Upon his retirement from the office of governor, Jarvis was appointed by President Cleveland as minister to Brazil. The last twenty years of his life was spent in Greenville. During this time Jarvis and William H. Ragsdale wrote a bill that was passed in the 1907 legislature establishing the East Carolina Teachers Training School at Greenville. Jarvis died in 1915 and is buried in Cherry Hill Cemetery here in Greenville.

Strength For Today

QUITE SUFFICIENT SUCCESS

Have you ever pondered the fact that the best baseball players in the business only get one hit about every three times at bat? The other times they are either struck out or flied out. If anybody ever got a fifty per cent success or better in batting the world would go delirious over the greatest athlete of all times. So why get discouraged and downcast because your batting average in daily success is not any better than professional baseball players? You regard yourself as a failure because try as you will along some lines you simply cannot attain a measure of success which is satisfactory. Perhaps you take music lessons and are aware of the fact that if you practiced eight hours a day you would never emerge out of a class of the amateur. Or you may write and have manuscripts returned from the publisher from time to time. Perhaps for years you have been trying to overcome some moral weakness and have not been able to do so. Don't give up. If you must have one hundred per cent achievement to be satisfied, then rest assured you will never be satisfied. But achievement in this world will never be one hundred per cent nor anywhere near one hundred per cent. Keep your eye on the ball and keep slugging. Your success will be quite sufficient.

Campaign On One Basic Speech

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
Day after campaign day, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern stands on a platform somewhere and gives them The Speech, with its somewhat redundant refrain: "We can't stand another four more years" of Republican rule.

It is, of course, McGovern's turnabout on President Nixon's campaign slogan. And it is part of The Speech. From Boston to Los Angeles and more than two score cities between, McGovern has delivered the speech that has become a litany.

It doesn't make the headlines or the evening network news, simply because it is what the candidate always says. Every presidential campaigner develops a standard stump speech. President Nixon had one four years ago, but he doesn't have one now simply because he hasn't been campaigning much.

But for a candidate running a traditional campaign road show, there is neither enough time nor enough material to put together a new and different oration for every audience. Furthermore, in a new city, to a new crowd, the standard speech is new.

Hence, The Speech. In McGovern's case, it often begins with word that he has good news, no matter what the polls say.

"It isn't news that I've read in the press, that I've learned from the Gallup Poll," "It's good news that we've seen on the faces of thousands of people."

"And that good news is that the Democratic party is going to score a great victory on Nov. 7." It is a guaranteed applause line. When the cheers subside, McGovern goes to his issues. "Their battle cry is four more years...."

"Think about what has happened these last four years. Another 20,000 Americans have died, hundreds of Americans who have sat in their cells in Hanoi.... And I ask you, do we want another four more years of that?"

"No," the crowd will roar. Then the economy, unemployment, inflation, "and I ask you whether we want another four more years of that?"

"No." Or "the greedy forces of privilege, I ask whether we want four more years of that?"

"No." There is his pledge to close "those unjustified tax loopholes at the top." "There is a tax structure today that permits a $200,000-a year executive to deduct his $20 martini luncheon but a working man can't deduct the price of his baloney sandwich, and that's unfair."

And the windup: "Some 27 years ago, I was flying as the pilot of a B24 bomber. We were hit one day over a very dangerous target over Nazi Germany, some 115 holes in that airplane, and the crew was on the verge of bailing out, and I was just as scared as they were. "We assessed the damage. We decided that with a little luck we might make it back home. So I said to the crew 'Everybody resume your stations, we're going to take this plane home.' "I want to say to all those here and to all other Americans who share our love for this country and our passion for peace and justice, 'Resume your stations, we're going to bring America home.'"

McGovern Aides Say Campaign Cash Rolling In

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The hand-to-mouth campaign budget George McGovern once described is fattening to the point that the Democratic nominee need not scrimp, according to two McGovern aides.

One of McGovern's chief fund-raisers and his media advertising manager said in separate interviews Monday that they expect to receive enough money from donors mailing in an average of $20 to $22 each to buy all the broadcast time McGovern can use and pay all his campaign bills.

Morris Dees, who oversees the massive small-donor program, and Liz Stevens, McGovern's television and radio advertising manager, said the public response to McGovern's telecasts has been very good.

A month ago McGovern said his campaign was in dire financial condition, and was operating on a "day-to-day basis."

Dees said that by midday Monday $670,000 had been contributed by mail as a direct result of the candidate's Oct. 10 television program in which he described his plan for disengaging U.S. military forces from Southeast Asia.

Because a plea for contributions at the end of the program listed a special Post Office box number not used in other McGovern campaign material, aides are able to determine which contributions are a result of the Vietnam speech.

Dees said he expects another $250,000 as a result of the speech.

As a result of mail appeals, the campaign has grossed $8.1 million since McGovern's nomination in early July, Dees said. He expects another $5 million from this source. Donations from big contributors now total about $1 million, Dees said.

Although the small-donor program is well below the $25 million McGovern publicly talks about as his goal, it is within the $13 million to $15 million range more realistically envisioned by campaign planners, Dees said.

Despite the reports of a swelling treasury, McGovern's campaign manager, Gary Hart, reportedly has written staff members to forewarn them of a possible 50 per cent pay cut in the closing weeks of the campaign.

Asked about the memo, Hart said the money might be needed for television time and "we just thought it was better to warn ahead of time that there might be a potential redirection of funds."

interference."

In that same speech in 1969, Nixon ably argued the case against unilateral withdrawal. McGovern's plan repudiates the Nixon view.

The Senator, without waiting for a cease-fire or a written agreement, would "immediately stop all acts of force in all parts of Indochina."

He would halt all military aid to South Vietnam. He would "expect" the other side then to return all prisoners.

Once the prisoners were back home, he would close the last bases in Thailand, send the U.S. Navy somewhere else, and agree to recognize "any" government that gained power thereafter.

The McGovern program in brief, invites the Communist North (which would continue to receive planes and armaments from Russia) to conquer the abandoned South, from which "all salvageable American military equipment" would have been withdrawn.

The American people, unless I am wholly mistaken, are not likely to buy any such "peace" as the peace McGovern proposes.

Loretta Lynn Takes 3 Top Country Music Awards

COUNTRY MUSIC STARS — Two honored by the Country Music Association last night: Charlie Pride and Loretta Lynn. (AP Wirephoto)

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Loretta Lynn, 36, won the Grand Ole Opry audience award, with a proud smile and a southern drawl, told them, "When you're lookin' at me, you're lookin' at country."

It was a warm, muggy and rainy evening, but the crowd ate it up.

And by the time country music's sixth annual awards show ended, Miss Lynn had strutted off stage with three top honors, including entertainer of the year and female vocalist of the year.

She became the first woman ever honored with the Country

Music Association's entertainer of the year accolade. When asked if her honors represented a victory for women's liberation, the striking brunette said:

"What? I really don't know what you're talking about. I'm still in shock."

A coal miner's daughter from Kentucky, Miss Lynn, 36, entered country music 10 years ago. Her last CMA award was in 1967, as top female vocalist.

The third award for Miss Lynn Monday night was presented to her and singing partner Conway Twitty for best duo of the year.

Top male vocalist was black artist Charley Pride, 34, a former professional baseball player from Mississippi. Last year, Pride attained national acclaim when he captured the vocalists and the entertainer of the year award, the first black to do so.

Donna Fargo, a former Los Angeles high school teacher and a new face on the country music scene, copped the best single of the year for "Happiest Girl in the Whole USA." She sang the song for the Opryhouse crowd on live nationwide television.

A former entertainer of the year and top male vocalist in 1970, Merle Haggard of Bakersfield, Calif., won best album for "Let Me Tell You About A Song."

"You gotta be kidding," he said when presented the award. "It came as a complete surprise."

For the fourth consecutive year, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, captured best instrumental group. Best instrumentalist was harmonica player Charlie McCoy. And best vocal group was the Statler Brothers.

Top song of the year was "Easy Loving" by Freddie Hart, who was decked out in a pink rhinestone-studded western coat.

Named to the CMA's Hall of Fame was former two-time Louisiana Gov. Jimmie Davis, who drew the evening's only standing ovation. Davis, writer of over 300 songs, gained prominence for "You Are My Sunshine."

Lynn—all of whom sang continuously over a period of about 10 minutes.

"I never dreamed of this," said Miss Lynn long after the event had ended. "I just had it wiped completely out of my mind. If you come to win, it hurts when you lose."

The awards are part of a full week of country music activities in Nashville, which is celebrating the 47th birthday of the Grand Ole Opry.

The Opry, entertainment home for country music's most renowned artists, will be moved in the spring of 1974 to Opryland USA on the outskirts of Nashville.

Bootleg Cigarettes Said Costing Fla. Heavily

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Bootlegging, mail orders from North Carolina and black market dealing by servicemen are costing Florida up to $25 million worth of cigaret taxes, says Rep. Ralph Turlington, D-Gainesville.

The veteran House Finance and Taxation Committee chairman commented Monday on lost cigaret taxes in the wakes of reports that mail order houses in North Carolina are generating a new rush of Florida business.

Although Turlington said he plans to "close every loophole we can," he said Florida cannot hope to dry up the sources of low-tax cigarettes on its own.

"We expect and we feel we should get better federal help," he said.

The problem results from Florida's high cigaret tax rate — 17 cents a pack plus the 4 per cent sales tax — when compared with low-tax tobacco states such as North Carolina, which charges only a penny a pack.

The mail order houses, for instance, sell cigaret cartons, which cost around $5 in Florida, for about $3.15. Cigarettes purchased on military bases, meanwhile, are exempt from state taxes.

Gordon Cassels, chief Beverage Division auditor, said it's obvious that huge quantities of cigarettes are purchased at Florida military installations and resold in evasion of tax laws.

"Some bases have like 33 people on them and they're selling 900,000 packs of cigarettes," Cassels said. "Ain't no way they're smoking all those cigarettes."

He said the Beverage Division, which enforces cigaret tax laws, tracks down mail order purchases and requires payment of taxes but "we don't know how many we don't catch."

The mail firms are required to send lists of their Florida customers to the Beverage Division, but with 141 of them operating at last count, Cassels said it's impossible to keep up with unpaid taxes.

"It's a problem we wish we could eliminate but we haven't come up with a solution yet," he said.

Jay-C-Ettes Hear Branch President

Guest speaker for the October meeting of the Greenville Jay-C-Ettes was Tom Reese, president of the Pitt County Branch of the N.C. Cystic Fibrosis Chapter.

He spoke to the club about the disease cystic fibrosis and what is being done to combat this illness.

The North Carolina Jaycees have adopted cystic fibrosis as a state-wide project and the Greenville Jaycees are conducting a campaign in this area. A motion was passed by the Jay-C-Ettes to aid the Jaycees in this year's campaign.

Mrs. Arlene Hoot, candy sale chairman, announced that in addition to the house-to-house sale on Saturday, a sale will be held Thursday night, Oct. 19.

During the business session, the group voted to purchase a wheel chair to be donated to the Pitt County Health Department. Mrs. Joy Collins announced that a high chair, stroller and various items that were needed by the Pediatrics Ward at Pitt Memorial Hospital had been purchased and donated by the club.

Mrs. Marguerite Anthony distributed patterns for stuffed animals to be made by the group. The animals are part of the gifts each year for the Christmas party at the Crippled Children's Clinic.

Mrs. Evelyn Stroud and Mrs. Sue Turcotte, co-chairmen for Muscular Dystrophy, announced that canisters for the campaign should be delivered the last week in October.

Mrs. Anna Crockett was a guest at the meeting.

Mrs. Joyce Steinbeck and Mrs. Cynthia Cox are clinic volunteers for this month.

Attended State Chapter Session

NEW BERN — A semi-annual conference of the N. C. Chapter of the American Physical Therapy Association was attended recently by Mary Susan Templeton, Evelyn McNeill, Dennis Davis, and chairman, George Hamilton, all of the ECU Physical Therapy faculty, and Henri Guyette, chief physical therapist at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The participants had a mini-course on respiratory disease management and heard discussion of the effect of electrotherapy disease management and heard discussion of the effect of electrotherapy on wound healing. Hamilton presented the rationale for an electrotherapeutic regime for patients with wound healing problems and results of research conducted at ECU on the effects of electrotherapy on wound healing.

Hamilton was elected treasurer. Miss Templeton was named to the nomination committee and Davis to the scholarship and loan fund committee.

YOUNG VOTERS URGED
Manila (UPI)—The Philippine Commission on Elections is supporting moves in Congress to lower the voting age from 21 to 18.

"We feel this change is long overdue," said Elections Commissioner Jaime N. Ferrer. "Its attainment would be a milestone in our political system."

Cooking . . .

- 2 cups dry white wine
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 chopped garlic buds
- 6 celery tops
- 2 carrots sliced
- Bag of mixed herbs (available in most food stores)
- Place veal in heavy pot and sear over hot flame. Add above ingredients, cover pot and cook slowly 2½ hours. Remove from fire and let cool.

For the sauce, place in a blender two medium cans white-meat tuna, 4 anchovies, 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard, 1 teaspoon garlic powder, 1 teaspoon each powdered thyme, savory, salt, white pepper. Add 4 ounces fresh lemon juice and put blender on low speed, adding slowly 1 cup olive oil. Turn blender to high speed 1 minute, remove sauce to a bowl and stir in four ounces capers and four ounces chopped parsley. Slice cold veal and place in a shallow dish that has a cover. Pour sauce over meat, cover and keep in refrigerator 2 days. Serves four as a main course. Good with a chilled Soave white wine.

Voters Get Clear Choice In N.C. Senate Campaign

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

One of Jesse Helms' staunchest supporters in the race for the U. S. Senate in North Carolina, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, ran for President in 1964 on the slogan, "A choice, not an echo."

That slogan also sums up the situation facing Tar Heel voters in this year's race between Republican Helms and Democrat Nick Galifianakis, a three-term U. S. representative from Durham.

In their records—Helms as an editorialist for WRAL-TV in Raleigh and Galifianakis in the House—their campaign statements, and in extensive interviews with The Associated Press, Galifianakis and Helms present sharply divergent philosophies and styles.

Galifianakis, in his six years in Congress, has been labeled a more liberal member of the generally conservative North Carolina delegation.

He earned that tag by casting lone votes in favor of Congressional efforts to end the war in Vietnam to raise the national debt ceiling and in support of spending for social program like the war on poverty.

Helms, meanwhile, developed a reputation as a staunch opponent of war protesters, of federal spending on social programs and of the "men without honor" and "murderous gang of butchers" he said were behind the international Communist conspiracy.

As they try to appeal to a statewide electorate for the first time, both candidates are attempting to modify the emphasis, if not the substance of many of their positions.

Galifianakis, for example, voted in favor of raising the national debt during the Johnson administration and was quoted then as saying that the idea of the debt was a "myth."

Now, he prefers to speak about a plan he has introduced to force Congress to spend six months of each session on economic issues, and to regulate its own spending to insure balanced budgeting except on matters of national security.

Helms in November, 1971, accused President Nixon of "appeasement" of Peking. On foreign policy matters, he was reminded Nixon that "the middle of the road is where the accidents are."

Now, running under Nixon on the GOP ticket, he says "Maybe appeasement was literary license. The President is privy to information I haven't got available to me."

Modifications, however, do not close the gap between the two on issues like the war, inflation and unemployment.

Helms says he will support the Nixon administration's conduct of the war. "You bet your boots I would vote against congressional initiatives to end the war," Helms said.

Galifianakis, who supported the war during the Johnson administration, favors congressional action to end it. "I think our commitment has been fulfilled," he said. "We should have been out of there by now."

"Helms calls government unemployment figures 'inflated and illusive,' saying they do not subtract the people out of work who are in between jobs who don't need to work because of independent income, or who are just waiting for the right kind of job."

His solution to the employment problem is the same as the one he offers for most of the rest of the nation's economic problems, "a drastic reduction in federal spending. 'Let the money the government's spending generate jobs in the private sector.'"

Galifianakis takes the view that unemployment is a serious problem across the nation, though less so in North Carolina. He says the government should act as an employer of last resort, giving people jobs on public works projects.

Helms believes wage and price controls are "cosmetic" and will not solve the inflation problem in a free economy. He returns to his theme of reducing government spending in suggesting better alternatives.

Galifianakis said the current wage and price controls "has an important psychological effect." He would retain them, he said, for use by the President as the status of the economy dictated.

Galifianakis said he would change emphasis on the controls and concentrate them on unions and manufacturers in industries like steel and automobiles which affect the entire economy.

Neither man is committed to any specific proposals for tax reform, Helms said. "There are two sides to that question," when asked about oil and mineral depletion allowances, investment tax credits and other exemptions.

Course Is Attended By Deputy Sheriffs

Deputy sheriffs from eastern North Carolina, last week, attended an area law enforcement school, "Service of Civil Process for Deputy Sheriffs." The one-week course, covering 33 hours, was sponsored by and taught at Pitt Technical Institute.

Officers attending were deputy sheriffs from Wayne, Pitt, Carteret, Martin, Pamlico, Wilson, Lenoir, and Robeson Counties.

Deputy Sheriff Richard B. Williams, Wayne County Service of Civil Process Officer, was the instructor for the course.

According to Guy Langston, area consultant, law enforcement training, deputy sheriffs, unlike other law enforcement officers, must be knowledgeable in both criminal and civil law. "This course was designed to increase the deputy sheriff's knowledge of Service of Civil Process in carrying out the civil duties of the sheriff," Langston said.

Subjects covered during the course included the duties and responsibilities of the sheriff, liability of the sheriff for acts of his deputies, court structure and jurisdiction, duties of the sheriff and court attendance, the jury system — the grand jury, and new rules of civil procedure.

Other subjects covered were issuance of summons, manner of service, subpoenas, levy and execution, requirements of a valid execution, the execution sale, handling proceeds of sale, levy on motor vehicles, claim and delivery, attachments, civil arrest, and bail.

Bars Visitors From Farmhouse

DUBLIN (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's 73-year-old Irish cousin is barring the public from her home where Kennedy's great-grandfather was born because she wants "a little bit of peace in my last years."

"I'd rather people remembered Jack and Robert in their prayers without traipsing through my place," Mary Ryan said Monday. "How would Mrs. Rose Kennedy like to be awakened at four in the morning with a busload of tourists wanting to come around the place?"

The little farmhouse is in Dunganstown, County Wexford. Kennedy visited there in 1963 and had tea with Mrs. Ryan. Since then there have been more than 100,000 visitors.

Mrs. Ryan said she did not charge the tourists but did sell a few souvenirs that "only paid the cost."

Andy Griffith And Wife Split

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Television comedian Andy Griffith has been divorced after a 23-year marriage.

Superior Court approved a property settlement Monday but didn't disclose the terms.

Barbara Griffith, 45, whose suit charged irreconcilable differences, will have custody of the couple's 12-year-old daughter, Dixie. The 46-year-old actor will have custody of their son, Andy 14.

Mrs. Pompidou To Skip Movie

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the French president, has decided not to attend the opening of the film "The Godfather."

The decision, announced Monday by Elysee Palace without explanation, was apparently made because some Italians were upset with her plans to do so.

Le Monde said reports that Mrs. Pompidou would attend a film associating a friendly neighbor nation with the Mafia so irritated Italy that it made a discreet diplomatic representation here to express displeasure.

NO FLAG, NO PARADE

NEW YORK (AP)—After sagging in early trading, the stock market strengthened a bit today, giving signs it might snap its four-day streak of losses.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 3.23 to 924.89, and advances held a 500-to-515 lead over declines on the Big Board with 1,479 issues exchanged in slow trading.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was up .06 to 58.57. At the American Exchange, the price-change index was off .01 to 25.68.

IBM, which helped pull the market down Monday, sagging 14½ points was down 1½ today to 362½ after a delayed opening. The Justice Department said Monday it would seek to break up the giant computer company through an antitrust action.

Union Carbide was the Big Board's most-active stock, up ¼ to 43½, after a block trade of 391,900 shares at 42½.

General Motors, beset by labor troubles at six plants, was off ½ to 73½.

Indict 2 Prison Inmates For Fiery Death

RALEIGH (AP) — The Wake County Grand Jury has indicted two Central Prison inmates on murder charges in the fiery death of another prisoner, Charles Junior Richardson, 34.

Indictments were returned Monday against Jimmy Maddox, 24, serving 28-30 years for armed robbery, and Michael Johnson, 21, serving five to seven years for larceny.

Richardson died Oct. 11 when fire engulfed his prison cell. He was serving eight to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon and 23-30 years for armed robbery.

Deputy Warden Sam Garrison said an autopsy showed traces of some inflammable liquid on Richardson's body. Garrison said the liquid possibly had a kerosene base.

The Indochina war officially began Dec. 19, 1946.

Funeral services for Mr. James (Jim) Green will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. at Phillips Brothers Mortuary Chapel with the Rev. Leroy Adams officiating. Burial will follow in the Branch cemetery.

Surviving are four brothers, Jarvis Roach of Belvoir, Johnnie B. Roach of Winterville, William Roach of Grimesland, and Carey Roach of Washington, D.C.; three sisters, Mrs. Mamie Dale of Kinston, Mrs. Lucy Moye and Miss Daisy Roach, both of Greenville.

Viewing the family visitation will be held at Phillips Brothers Mortuary tonight from eight o'clock until nine o'clock.

Forbes

Mrs. Hattie V. Forbes widow of Sharpe Forbes of 705 Tyson Street, died Sunday night in Pitt Memorial Hospital after a brief illness. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 4:30 p.m. at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church with her pastor, the Rev. B. B. Felder, officiating. Burial will be in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Forbes, daughter of the late Levi and Mary Congelton, was born in Princeton, N.J. then moved to Martin County where she attended the Martin County Schools. She was a graduate of Elizabeth City State College, and taught in the Pitt County Schools for 40 years. She was a member of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, Deaconsess Board, Loving Union Tent No. 264, Order Eastern Star, Pride of the East, Chapter 524, Order of Calanthe Jurisdiction of North Carolina.

Surviving are 2 sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth McGlene of Greenville, and Mrs. Mary V. Hill of Washington, D. C.; one brother, Levi Congelton of Philadelphia, Pa.; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Mary Whicahrd of Norfolk, Va., and one step grandson.

The body will remain at Flanagan & Parker Funeral Home until taken to the church one hour prior to the service. Family visitation will be from 8 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Landfill Is Open 6 Days

Although subject to change, the new Pitt County landfill — opened at Littlefield, between Ayden and Grifton yesterday — will be open six days per week, Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said today.

Gray said that for the remainder of this month — while Daylight Savings Time is in effect — the landfill will operate from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

When Eastern Standard Time returns October 29, the landfill, Gray said, will be opened from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

According to Gray, the difference in the hours of operation are necessary in order to give workmen ample daylight time to cover material deposited in the landfill.

Gray emphasized that no auto bodies, chemicals or explosives will be accepted for disposal at the landfill.

The Littlefield site is being used as a pilot operation on which to base the county's future involvement in sanitary land fill operations.

Water Shortage

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Citizens of Clemmons and Lewisville are using water sparingly because of a break in a line supplying the two Forsyth County communities.

Seven public schools and two private schools in the area are to be closed until the break is fixed. The cause of Monday's rupture was not learned immediately.

Each community is served by a water tank fed by the line.

FARMVILLE — Mr. Willie Green, 90, of Rt. 1, Farmville died at his home late Sunday night after a long illness. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Hemby Funeral Home in Fountain.

Artis

The Rev. D. C. Artis of Wilson died Sunday night in Wilson Memorial Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. at St. Rose Disciple Church, Wilson by Bishop Uzzell and Bishop S. W. Jones.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Esabelle Perkins of Greenville.

Effects Of Test Result

Tests being conducted here this week on Greenville water mains as part of a study that will ultimately affect fire insurance rates within the city, might cause rusty-looking or cloudy water to run from faucets in homes and business establishments.

Fire Chief Ray Smith, who earlier this week said the tests might affect pressure at some locations as well as the clarity of water, emphasized that the flow tests on city water mains would result in sediment being stirred up in mains. This sediment, he noted, can cause tap water to become cloudy and rust-colored.

Chief Smith explained that as soon as the tests are concluded, the water will clear up once again as the sediment resettles in the water mains.

The flow tests, he explained, are being conducted by the Insurance Services Organization.

Such tests are conducted by ISO every few years. These tests, combined with the results of other studies conducted locally, are combined and fire insurance rates for the city are based in part on the results.

committee from the city school board meets with a committee from the county school board next week in an informal exchange of ideas.

Approval was given Monday night by board members to four requests for transfer of students from the city to the cmouty schools.

Dr. Badger Clark, chairman of the School Board, reported briefly on the status of progress of acquisition of the land site for a new junior middle high school. Saying "everything is in harmony with the county commissioners," Clark added "I hope within a week to be able to definitely report on what is going to happen."

Lester Turnage reported that appraisers are now working "as fast as they can" on appraising land adjacent to Sadie Saulter School and that there should be something more to report on at an early date.

In the matter of school food services, Cox gave a report that shows that six different bidders making bids on 50 food items had resulted in 21 bids at prices lower "than what we were paying in June."

Cox also reported that a new revision in reimbursement for free lunches now bases reimbursement rates on the actual cost of preparing and serving lunches.

The board went into executive session to review a disciplinary case involving an Aycock Junior High Student. It was a review session only, as the student involved has been reinstated in school.

Young Quarterbacks Shine As They Perform In Takeover Duty Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two Atlantic Coast Conference quarterbacks, sophomore Bob Avellini of Maryland and freshman Scott Gardner of Virginia, suddenly propelled to starters, have shown the potential to cause headaches to opponents in the second half of the football season.

Avellini took over late in the second quarter last week after Al Neville suffered a broken collarbone that will put him out for the rest of the season. Avellini completed 10 of 17 passes for 146 yards and one touchdown as the Terps defeated Villanova 37-7.

"I'm confident I can do a good job as the starter," he said. "The responsibility doesn't frighten me. I've wanted all along to be the starting quarterback, but not this way. I think this team can go on winning."

Word Was Unofficial

The reported resignation of East Carolina University Baseball Coach Earl Smith was termed "unofficial" today by him.

"The announcement that I had resigned my coaching position was pre-mature," Smith said. "The coaching responsibilities are still mine and will continue to be until something official is decided." Smith said that he had submitted a written request to East Carolina Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich several weeks ago, that he be relieved of his coaching duties. Smith would continue to teach at the university.

Since then, Stasavich has been hospitalized with a heart attack, and no action has been taken on Smith's request.

"That's where it is now," he said. "Until some action is taken, I'm still the coach."

Smith recently completed his 10th season as head baseball coach for the Pirates, but his coaching career goes back some 32 years through high school, collegiate and the pro ranks.

Contest Winners

Doyle Daughtry of 106 N. Oak St., Apartment 2, Greenville, is the winner of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Daughtry correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games in the list in last week's paper. He won, however, on the basis of his point total pick, having a guess of 78.

Second place went to Dixie Lister of 7-2 Snowhill Street, Ayden. She also had 27 correct, but was further off the point total with a guess of 59.

The actual point total was 107, in Arizona State's 59-48 victory over Utah.

The tie between Colgate and Holy Cross was counted wrong on all entries, since it is possible to pick a tie.

This week's new contest appears on pages 10-11.

Maryland is 3-2-1, has won its last two games, and is at Duke next Saturday.

Neville, who had been leading the ACC in passing and total offense, said he would build himself up during the offseason. The junior said, "I'll come back. Bob and I will have a helluva battle for the quarterback job next spring."

Gardner threw for two touchdowns and ran for two in Virginia's 45-14 victory over VMI, which has lost all its games this season. But he also threw three interceptions.

Coach Don Lawrence said, "The staff was impressed with Scott. He did a lot of things well. But, as he knows, he also made a number of mistakes."

Gardner has taken over for Harrison Davis, who has a jammed thumb in his passing hand and has been moved to flanker.

Seven Virginia regulars didn't play against the Keydets. Lawrence said the injury situation still is critical although Kent Merritt, a tailback, and Chris Brown, a defensive back, might be ready to play at Clemson Saturday.

Virginia has never beaten Clemson in their 13 meetings.

In the 7-0 loss to Duke last week, Clemson gave the ball up twice on fumbles, had two passes intercepted, and killed one series with a holding penalty. Coach Hootie Ingram gave the Tigers a day off Monday to nurse bruises received in the game.

Duke, unimpressive against Clemson, had something to cheer about in the return of quarterback Mark Johnson, who had suffered a shoulder separation before the season began. He went into the game early in the first quarter, played the rest of the way, and picked up 66 yards in 14 carries. He completed just two of seven passes, but three of his passes were dropped after hitting receivers squarely.

The North Carolina at Wake Forest game will be televised in the South and the East by the ABC network. The kickoff will be at 1:50 unless the baseball World Series is extended past Thursday. If there is a baseball game on Saturday, the football game will be delayed until 3:50.

Rose JV's To Host Cougars

Rose High School's junior varsity will play host to Goldsboro here Wednesday.

The game is set at 4:30 p.m. at the E. B. Aycock field off Greenville Blvd.

Assistant coach Moyer Smith told North Carolina that Wake Forest is a better team than its 1-4 record indicates. North Carolina is 4-1. It got votes for this week's national rankings, but didn't make the top 20.

Three North Carolina State regulars have returned to full-speed drills for Saturday night's home game against undefeated East Carolina of the Southern Conference. They are fullback Charley Young, tight end Mark Cassidy and defensive back Mike Stultz. They missed last week's Wake Forest game because of injuries. The Wolfpack won 42-13 and brought its record to 3-2-1.

McLester Third In S.C. Scoring

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Although neither Bill Deery nor Terry Regan was able to bring off a William and Mary victory against Vanderbilt last Saturday, the two Indians moved into a tie for the Southern Conference football scoring lead with their performance in a 21-17 defeat.

Deery, the Indians' sophomore quarterback, scored one touchdown and Regan, a sophomore tailback and kicker, accounted for five points. That left them deadlocked with 36 points each—Deery on six touchdowns, Regan on one TD, 12 conversions and six field goals.

One of the many freshmen who are beginning to see action around the conference, kicking specialist Rick McLester of East Carolina, moved into third place with 33 points. McLester has booted 12 extra points and a school-record seven field goals for the unbeaten Pirates.

Tied for fourth with 32 points each are senior flanker Tim Dameron of East Carolina, junior flanker Walt Walker of Davidson and sophomore tailback Doug Gerhart of William and Mary. Each has five touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

McLester kicked three extra points and two field goals and Dameron scored a touchdown in East Carolina's 27-21 victory over The Citadel, while Walker accounted for 14 points in the Wildcats' 51-35 triumph over Furman. Gerhart was shut out against Vanderbilt.

Senior All-Southern flanker David Knight of William and Mary, who caught one scoring pass in the Indians' loss to Vanderbilt, is seventh with 26 points on four TDs and a two-point conversion.

There's a tie for eighth with four touchdowns and 24 points each between a pair of running backs, senior Billy Meyers of Richmond and junior Carlester Crumpler of East Carolina. Crumpler had one score last week, Meyers none.

The No. 10 man in the scoring derby is kicking specialist Al Standiford of Furman with 20 points on eight conversions and four field goals.

Two other kickers, Woody Montgomery and Keith Clark of Richmond, have accounted for 19 points each. Montgomery has four conversions and five fields, Clark seven extra points and four field goals.

Bucs Start Preparing

East Carolina University's Pirates began work yesterday in preparation for their Saturday night meeting with N. C. State in Raleigh.

During the workout, the regulars drilled in sweats, and following the regular session, the reserves spent some time in scrimmaging.

A scouting report on the explosive Wolfpack was given the Pirates, who also reviewed the mistakes made in Saturday's 27-21 victory over The Citadel, the Bucs' 5th straight win of the year.

The coaching staff reported that everyone was in good shape now, and that most traces of the flu which bothered the Bucs all during last week, seem to have disappeared.

BERRA CAUGHT MANY
NEW YORK (AP) — New York Met manager Yogi Berra, inducted into the Hall of Fame this summer, holds a number of World Series and American League records. But he's also proud of having caught 34 different pitchers in 14 World Series in his 19 years as a Yankee player.

In series action he caught fireballer Allie Reynolds six different years. He was the receiver in five Series in which Ed Lopat, Whitey Ford and Vic Raschi pitched. Of the pitchers Berra caught in the World Series, 29 were on teams managed by Casey Stengel.

Oakland Hopes To Land Knockout Blow On Home Grounds This Week

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's have staggered the Cincinnati Reds with two quick jabs and now hope to deliver another solid punch in the third game of the World Series tonight.

"I think we have them on the ropes," said Oakland pitcher Vida Blue. "But you can't count the Reds out yet. You can't let up."

The surprising American League champions were sitting pretty with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 baseball classic as a result of a 3-2 and 2-1 victories in Cincinnati over the weekend.

Added to this margin, the A's also had the theoretical advantage of the home field in the next three games of this best-of-seven showdown for the world's championship.

After playing on Riverfront Stadium's unfamiliar artificial surface, the A's returned home to their field of natural grass at the Oakland Coliseum.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson wasn't too happy about its condition, either—the field was soggy from rain and craggy from use by the Oakland Raiders' football team Sunday.

"I thought (Oakland owner) Charles Finley had more class than this," said Anderson whose team's running game obviously would be hurt by the slow conditions.

In addition, the possibility of stormy weather threatened to further muddle the situation at the Coliseum, where a sell-out crowd of 50,000 will watch the struggle. The National Weather Bureau forecast a 30 per cent chance of showers for the contest, which starts at 8:15 p.m., EDT.

The situation has got the A's brimful of confidence.

"We're handling the Reds easier than we did the Texas Rangers," said Blue, referring to one of the patsy American League teams.

Oakland Manager Dick Williams was naturally optimistic about finishing off the National Leaguers in his cozy Coliseum. He said that when his team first went to Cincinnati for the opener last Saturday, he would have settled for a split of the two games.

"But not after the first game," said Williams. "Then we sure weren't willing to settle for a split."

If the A's have any inhospitable thoughts about the visitors, they ought to check Cincinnati's record on the road. The Reds play better away from home, history shows.

"We're a good road club," said Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose, "We played .700 ball on the road this year."

The Reds also have another thing going for them—confidence. Top to bottom, they're still a swaggering bunch despite the odds against them.

Anderson, who predicted correctly that it would take the Reds five games to win the National League playoffs over the Pittsburgh Pirates, insisted the World Series will go the seven-game limit. Asked why, he said, "because it's going to be tough for us to win it in six."

Joe Morgan, a star in the playoffs who hasn't gotten untracked yet in the Series, coolly reflected his manager's optimism. "If you think that the A's are going to beat us, you're wrong," said Morgan.

The chances of a team winning a seven-game series after losing the first two aren't very good, though. It's only happened five times since the affair began in 1903.

The Reds will get to see another one of the Oakland Aces tonight—John "Blue Moon" Odor. The right-hander, who notched two victories in the American League playoffs against Detroit last week was 15-6 during the regular season.

Odor is member of an eight-man staff that fashioned a gaudy 2.58 earned run average this season and did even better in the post-season games. Oakland pitchers have allowed only 11 earned runs in the five playoffs and two World Series games.

Jack Billingham, a right-hander who had a 12-12 record and led the Cincinnati staff in strikeouts with 137 this year, has been nominated to pitch for the Reds.

Pirate Pair Runners-Up

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Senior tackle Norman Seabrooks of The Citadel picked a regionally televised game to show off his football talent and today was named Southern Conference defensive player of the week.

Seabrooks also was the winner of the award as the outstanding defensive player in the game, for which his school received a $1,000 scholarship from one of the sponsors.

Ironically, Seabrooks' Bulldogs dropped a 27-21 decision to East Carolina's unbeaten league-leading Pirates.

Seabrooks had seven tackles and 11 assists, and he was credited with almost a one-man effort in shutting the door on East Carolina's running attack on his side of the line.

He was voted the most valuable defensive player by his coaches and teammates. He had been honored as defensive player of the week the week previously in South Carolina.

The 6-foot-3, 240-pounder from Bryant, Fla., has been a starter all three years at The Citadel. Upon graduation, he plans to attend law school.

Runner-up for the honor was Buddy Lowery, a 6-foot-1, 221-pound defensive end from East Carolina.

Halfback Dave Ingold of Davidson—who scored twice, ran for 134 yards, caught two passes for 11 yards, returned three punts for 64 yards and ran back three kickoffs for 74 yards in a 51-35 victory over Furman—was named offensive player of the week.

The runner-up in that department was quarterback Carl Summerell of East Carolina, who ran for one touchdown and threw for another in the Pirates' triumph over The Citadel.

Golfing Winners

A "Bingle, Bangle, Bongle" golf tournament was recently held for ladies at Greenville Golf and Country Club.

First place went to Julia Painter, while Lil Bost was second. They were followed by Eleanor Ruffin and Gay Waldrop.

A chipping contest was also held in connection with a clinic and Nancy Monroe won that. Putt Carter took first place and Chris Andresen was second in a putting contest also held.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl announced Monday that Louisiana State University at New Orleans, moving into major competition this year for the first time, will play in the Sugar Bowl's 1973 tournament.

Other teams in the tournament will be North Carolina State, Villanova and Memphis State.

Williams Won't Stop

OAKLAND (AP) — "I haven't heard any complaints about it," Oakland A's Manager Dick Williams said Monday, referring to his frequent trips to the mound to talk with Oakland pitchers during the first two games of the World Series.

"There is no limit to the number of times a manager can call a conference during a World Series game, as long as he doesn't make a farce out of it," Williams said.

"We've won two ball games and I don't feel I've made a farce out of calling time to talk with my pitchers."

Charles S. Feeney, president of the National League, asked baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn during Sunday's game to return to the regular-season rule after Williams had made several trips to confer with his pitchers. Regular season rules, waived for the World Series, require a manager to remove a pitcher if a coach or manager goes to the mound for a conference more than one time in any inning.

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's girls tennis team closed out its regular season play yesterday with a 6-3 victory over Rocky Mount.

The victory left the Rampant Lions with a 6-4 record on the season.

Rose took four of the six singles matches, then came back to win two of the three doubles to wrap it up.

On Thursday and Friday, the state tournament will be held in Chapel Hill. Becky Piner and Susie Pittman will represent Rose in the singles event.

Summary:

Susie Pittman (R) defeated Leigh Jefferson, 6-2, 6-3.
Becky Piner (R) defeated Curleena Jackson, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.
Ann Brown (R) defeated Ann Morgan, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Renee Holcum (RM) defeated Sarah Wilcox, 6-1, 6-4.

WEEKLY PRIZES

1st PRIZE

$15.00

2nd PRIZE

$10.00

CONTEST RULES

1. Thirty-two football games are placed in the ads on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per week per person. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: "FOOTBALL CONTEST", P. O. Box 1967, Greenville, N. C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted)

EXPLANATION

The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10
scoring points stronger,
per game, than a 40.0
team against opposition of identical strength.
Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Basketball Players Reaping Big Dollars

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench earns $82,500 a year as supercatcher of the Cincinnati Reds. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar makes about $82,500 a month during the Milwaukee Bucks' basketball season.

Pro basketball's salaries make virtual amateurs of affluent heroes from other sports despite a two-league war that is skyrocketing hockey paychecks.

Football and baseball stars, many of them living on less than $100,000 a year, suffer by comparison.

Jabbar's incredible $400,000 deal with Milwaukee—and you wonder why they call them the Bucks?—is trailed handsomely by Walt Frazier's $350,000 from the New York Knicks and Jerry West's $300,000 from the Los Angeles Lakers.

Charlie Scott, two years out of the University of North Carolina, jumped from the American Basketball Association to the rival National Association's Phoenix Suns and his fee hit the $300,000 class.

Wilt Chamberlain, a bachelor with a $1 million hilltop castle, read about teammate West's new contract and decided to hold out for renegotiation of his $250,000 salary. He finally was given more than $300,000.

After all, electric bills and maid service are expensive these days.

Remember George Mikan? The former DePaul great was voted the top player in basketball for the first half of the 20th Century, including a brilliant stint with the Minneapolis Lakers.

Mikan, an early giant at 6 feet-10, finally managed to make $20,000 a year in the late 1940s.

And how about Bill Russell? His rookie contract with the Boston Celtics was $20,000 in 1956, about the same as Jabbar hauls down for a week of NBA play.

Chamberlain got $65,000 as a rookie with the Philadelphia

Warriors in 1959-60 and in three seasons later rose to $100,000. Boston, not to let Russell be embarrassed, came up with $100,001.

Basketball has many other high-salaried members, including Pete Maravich of Atlanta, $325,000 per year; Austin Carr of Cleveland, $250,000 and Spencer Haywood of Seattle, and Jim McDaniels, who jumped from the ABA to Seattle, $300,000 each.

The expected ABA-NBA merger will curb such high salaries in the future, but—for this era at least—if you're tall, fast, accurate and smooth, you're also a millionaire.

A current bidding scuffle between the established National Hockey League and the infant, but well-bankrolled World Hockey Association, has made several hockey players instantly wealthy.

Bobby Hull, the famed "Golden Jet" of the Chicago Black Hawks, was hired at age 32 in a 10-year, $2.7 million play-ercoach-executive deal by the WHA's Winnipeg Jets.

Derek Sanderson, hockey's flashy answer to football swinger Joe Namath, left the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins for the new Philadelphia Blazers and $300,000.

Meanwhile, Bruin ace Bobby Orr and several other NHL standouts have, as a result of the competition, bagged $1 million deals with their clubs.

Joe Namath is pro football's biggest moneymaker with a $250,000 paycheck from the well-heeled New York Jets, and John Brodie, if the salary guessers are close, makes something like $100,000 with the San Francisco 49ers.

The National Football League has quite a few superstars in the $100,000 range, including O. J. Simpson, Len Dawson, John Unitas, Jim Plunkett, Archie Manning, Fran Tarkenton and Roman Gabriel.

But, few make more than $100,000 and the NFL Players Association complains that its brothers deserve a larger share of the 26 teams' gross revenue.

The average NFL quarterback makes $41,500. By position, it drops to a $25,500 average for defensive backs and $22,500 for specialists. Not bad, but far below the average salary of $65,000 earned by basketball's New York Knicks.

Baseball got its first $200,000-a-year performer when Hank Aaron, currently chasing Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs, was signed to a three-year pact in 1971 by the Atlanta Braves.

However, the Babe's incredible $80,000 salary in 1928 was—in the pre-income tax era, probably worth more than Jabbar's current $400,000 deal.

Carl Yastrzemski is a $167,000 player for the Boston Red Sox, while in the $150,000 class are Willie Mays of the New York Mets, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Bob Gibson of St. Louis.

These are the team sports, men who are guaranteed their money whether they perform well this year or not. In individual endeavors, the huge paydays are there, but it's almost always on a performance-or-else basis.

With all this in mind, the modern father doesn't quite know what to do with his young son.

Should he train his hitting eye? Develop a golf swing? Learn to dunk a basketball?

Oklahoma Closing In On Southern California In AP's Gridiron Poll

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "In sports the only superstition you have is bad players..."

"The first thing all players should do in the morning is look in the mirror..."

"I don't believe in running around the locker room screaming. If we have to do that, let's cancel the game..."

So says John McKay, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Southern California, again the No. 1 team in The Associated Press weekly poll.

McKay's Trojans got 28 first-place votes and a total of 948 points, edging second-place Oklahoma, which garnered 20 votes for the No. 1 spot, by 18 points.

Alabama remained No. 3 this week, followed by Ohio State, Nebraska, Michigan, Louisiana State, Notre Dame, Colorado, Tennessee, UCLA, Penn State, Stanford, Texas, Auburn, Air Force, Arkansas, Washington, Arizona State and Iowa State.

This is McKay's 13th season at Southern California.

"It just means I've held the job longer than most guys," says the 49-year-old McKay of the supposedly unlucky No. 13. His hair has turned completely white. He's not as fast as he was while playing halfback at Oregon but his wit remains quick.

He recently suggested a humorous angle for a story—save all coaches' comments for a year-end comparison.

On the much publicized wishbone formation (USC uses the I formation)—"We're calling ours the Fishbone. Maybe the I-bone would be better."

Why the Trojans don't cluster on the sideline before each game and show spirit—"I don't want our players jumping up and down and yelling before the kickoff. All that means is somebody could jump on the coach's feet."

On coaches' excuses—"A coach will say, 'We weren't up.' Then what the hell were you doing down? He'll say, 'We were flat.' A good team can win when it doesn't play good football."

Why he calls Alabama—not USC—the nation's top football team—"I'm so damn modest."

On winning—"Winning generates winning and everybody looks good. The only thing dull about football is losing."

On McKay—"I basically don't say a lot. Never have and I don't see a reason to. I'm not saying that's the right way. That's our way."

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

|                   |     |     |

Scouting Report Tells The Story

By YOGI BERRA
OAKLAND (AP) — This was in a Cincinnati hotel before the first World Series game. Manager Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics and his boss Charles O. Finley had a meeting with their coaches and their scouts. When scout Al Hollingsworth, who had seen the Reds play 30 games in six cities, began talking everyone of the A's began looking for paper to make notes on.

Williams opened the dresser drawer, found six Western Union blanks and made notes. One sheet was for defensive alignment, one on hitters weaknesses and strengths, and so on. He put them in his pocket and I wouldn't be surprised the way Williams is managing the amazing A's if he doesn't put those six yellow slips of paper under his pillow at night.

It is a scouting report that Charlie Finley labels as amazing. "Never heard anything like it in my life," says the A's president of the Hollingsworth report.

So when and if Williams goes out to the mound today and reaches in his back pocket he's not pulling out the Red lineup. He's pulling out those six withered yellow sheets which tell him everything Hollingsworth learned in the 30 games he saw the Reds play toward the end of the National League season.

"Better get them laminated," Hollingsworth told Manager Williams this morning.

"Don't worry," said Williams. He's hoping his amazing A's win today so they can talk about a four-straight sweep. Williams has positioned his infielders perfectly thus far, especially on the artificial turf in Cincinnati where the A's took the Reds 3-2 and 2-1. "Not only those yellow slips," says Williams "but we learn from watching the Red infielders. Some of our hitters are just as good as theirs and are proving it."

The A's won't talk about four straight until they win tonight's game, the first ever played in Oakland. There have been only 10 sweeps in all series history. The Yankees did it six times, the Orioles once and the National League three times.

The Reds, behind Jack Billingham, must win tonight. Their backs are against the wall. They must play safe. They figure to start hitting against Blue Moon Odom like they hit in Sunday's ninth inning. We'll see. The A's have all the chips; they can play loose they have the speed in Bert Campaneris who's swinging a good stick. Joe Rudi's bat and glove and Gino Tenace, a young catcher with a good bat. Tenace also has a Yogi Berra autograph I gave him when he was eight years old. All he did was win the deciding AL playoff game with a single and then crack back-to-back homers in Saturday's opener. He says I'm his idol.

Tonight's game means so much to Charlie Finley. He's getting his wish many times over. One suggestion he made to Commissioner Ford Frick 12 years ago said: "They ought to start the World Series at night on week-ends so the working man can take in the games. And they should play the mid-week at night for the fans and for TV."

Now it's being done. Charlie and the rest of the owners won't get a cent from the receipts unless the Reds win tonight or tomorrow night. Owners share in receipts only after the first four games. The players share in only the first four games.

Finley Calls Them Raises

By JACK SIMMS
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Charles O. Finley, maverick of major league owners locked horns with baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Tuesday in a dispute over whether Finley can increase salaries of Oakland A's players at this stage of the season.

"I don't give any bonuses, just raises," Finley said after being handed a statement released by the commissioner on the eve of the third game of the World Series between the A's and the Cincinnati Reds.

Finley referred to $5,000 salary increases three of the Oakland A's have received in the past 10 days.

While the A's were en route to Detroit on Oct. 8 for the start of the American League playoffs Finley announced first baseman Mike Hegan had received a $5,000 salary boost but he didn't say it was a salary increase. He said it was a bonus.

And he announced somewhere between Cincinnati and Oakland that Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace were making $5,000 more. Again he didn't say it was a salary increase but maybe he didn't call it a bonus, either.

Rudi made a sensational catch Monday at the left field wall on a hit by Cincinnati's Denis Menke. It kept the Reds from tying the game and the A's won 2-1.

Tenace, who hit only five home runs all season, smashed two homers in the opener Saturday and was the hero of Oakland's 3-2 triumph.

"They were not bonuses. They were retroactive salary increases," Finley told newsmen during a party hosted at the Oakland Coliseum.

The rules of baseball strictly prohibit performance or incentive bonuses.

"I have read Mr. Finley's statements regarding special payments to certain Oakland players," said a statement from Kuhn. "I have discussed the matter with Mr. Finley. I will have no statement to make regarding this subject until after the World Series. In the meantime, Mr. Finley has assured me the entire matter will be held in status quo."

Asked what the statement meant, Finley only shrugged.

Asked if he felt the commissioner and those who run baseball were out to embarrass him, Finley smiled and replied: "You said that. I didn't. I have no comment."

Colt Center Blasts Boss

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Center Bill Curry sharply criticized today the firing of Don McCafferty, contending the head coach of the Baltimore Colts had been improperly blamed for the team's losing record.

"Mac is a decent man and a talented coach," Curry said, "and the way he has been treated is a real injustice."

Curry also rapped Joe Thomas, Baltimore's new general manager, who fired McCafferty Monday, replaced him with defensive line coach John Sandusky, and said the Colts would "sort of start a new regime with young players."

Noting Thomas had announced that the dismissal of McCafferty was made "for the good of the team," Curry said: "That's the same general manager who hasn't bothered to go around and meet all the guys and learn their names."

Thomas said the youth movement for the Colts, 1-4 for the season, would even affect Johnny Unitas, the 39-year-old quarterback now in his 17th National Football League campaign.

"Marty Domres will play a lot more from now on," Thomas said, "and he could even start."

Curry made his personal views known prior to a scheduled meeting of the entire Colts' squad, following today's practice session, at which a formal team statement was to be drafted.

After a closed door meeting Monday night, attended by 28 of the Colts, Curry said it was decided to delay a team statement until all 47 players could gather at one time. That was impossible to accomplish at the hastily called night session.

Curry noted that McCafferty had directed the Colts to the Super Bowl title as a rookie head coach in 1970, following 11 years as an assistant Baltimore coach, and that his 21-6-1 prior to this season was the best among active NFL coaches.

"Now that we've lost four games, he's been made the scapegoat, and that's wrong," Curry said.

Curry argued that McCafferty had no control over numerous injuries, notably to All-Pro defensive end Bubba Smith and guard Glenn Ressler, who have been out all season, or the loss for several games of running backs Norm Bulaich and Tom Matte, and wide receiver Eddie Hinton.

McCafferty, 52, took his firing with outward calm, but admitted he was shocked by the sudden dismissal. He wished the best for Sandusky, who also has been with the Colts since 1959 as an assistant coach.

Packers Rally To Nip Detroit

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Those rumors that "The Pack is Back" may not be premature speculation after all.

If the Green Bay Packers aren't back as a contending team in the National Football League then why do they own a 4-1 record to stand atop the National Conference Central Division?

Monday night they had a chance to show their stuff before a national television audience, and they used the opportunity to help crack the pessimistic swamis' crystal balls.

Quarterback Scott Hunter fired a 15-yard touchdown strike to rookie wide receiver Leland Glass with just 1:54 left on the clock, and rookie Chester Marcol kicked the extra point, to give the Packers a 24-23 victory.

Green Bay had trailed nearly the entire game before Marcol's closing moments' conversion, and the Lions never recovered from the shock.

"To come from behind in a game like this really raises our confidence," Packer Coach Dan Devine said rather quietly afterwards. "But I'm not saying we didn't have confidence in ourselves before this game. We knew we had a good team and this reinforces that."

The teams entered the game tied for first with 3-1 records, with Minnesota third at 2-3 and Chicago last with a 1-3-1 mark.

"We always thought we could win it," Devine said of the title. "Now we know we can win it."

The Packers trailed 17-7 at halftime. Then Errol Mann of the Lions and Marcol traded field goals of 45 and 34 yards respectively before Packer cornerback Ken Ellis turned the game around by racing 80 yards with a punt return for a touchdown.

"We're in front now and nobody's going to catch us," said Ellis, a third-year man from Southern University, who seemed the happiest person in the winners' dressing room.

"I don't think Green Bay is a better team than us, but they're a sound team," offered Detroit quarterback Greg Landry, who had two passes intercepted by safety Jim Hill. "One point doesn't make them a better team."

Detroit capitalized on two Packer mistakes to score its two first-half touchdowns. Landry ran around right end from two yards out for a first quarter TD and Altie Taylor plunged off right tackle in the second period for the other.

The Landry score came eight plays and 30 yards after cornerback Lem Barney picked off a Hunter pass, breaking the quarterback's string of 80 passes without an interception. The string dated back to last season.

Horse Sense In Heavy Demand

Harlan expresses our U.S. Navy's stress on versatility in its officers. Note also what Prof. Baird says about the present demand for workers with "Horse Sense" in contrast to the braintruster or bookish graduate. Use the tests below to measure gumption!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case V-520: Harlan X., aged 38, was a top navy officer. "Dr. Crane," he inquired, "we'd like permission to use 500 of your newspaper quiz items. 'For we want a practical method of weeding out the theorists among the candidates for officer training in our Navy Air Corps.'"

"All of these men have a high I.Q."

"But some of them are too 'bookish' and not broadly oriented in practical affairs. 'In your daily Test Your Horse Sense' column I have noticed that you cover a very wide range of useful everyday knowledge."

"And you present it in a popular 4-answer format, so we could easily cull out 500 of your test items that would let us then weed out the versatile candidates in contrast to the braintruster variety."

Harlan is the type of practical educator that I admire, so I was glad to let him use those 500 items. And that 4-answer or "multiple choice" format is very popular with students everywhere. For example, note the variety of fields of human experience indicated by just the 10 items below!

Then imagine how 500 of them would eliminate the academic or bookish Navy Officers.

(1) Veal chops made which sound while on foot—Oink, Gobble, Moo, Baa?

(2) Which worker uses a bobbin—Tailor, Plumber, Chef, Electrician?

(3) A wind sock suggest which inventor—Deere, Bell, Fulton, Wright?

(4) You can shoot a birdie without a gun on a—Diamond, Links, Court, Gridiron.

(5) Which species will cackle—Merino, Orpington, Guernsey, Morgan?

(6) A trivet is usually found in the—Bathroom, Bedroom, Dining Room, Living Room.

(7) An ingot suggests—Boston, Pittsburgh, Omaha, Tulsa.

(8) Which cow produces the most milk—Holstein, Jersey, Hereford, Guernsey?

(9) Spiro Agnew suggests a—Gridiron, Diamond, Fairway, Track.

(10) Mosquitoes are a chief spreader of—Typhus, Rabies, Malaria, Tularemia.

Not only has the U.S. Navy employed 500 of those "Horse Sense" test items but many American industries use them to weed out the impractical job applicants from those with versatile human experience. A number of Dental Surgeons, too, now add this quick "Horse Sense" exam to the battery of employment tests when hiring Dental Assistants.

For the stress today is not on mere academic grades and cultural high-brow Liberal Arts training, but on ability to adapt to changing work conditions. Recently, C.W. Nickerson said his placement officer at Boston had 162 unfilled positions available but nobody to take them!

Despite an unemployment figure of 5 per cent to 7 per cent, many jobs still go begging.

Prof. Holis Baird, Director of Lincoln College, says the job opportunities are much greater for those with a 2-year Associate Degree, than for the 4-year B.S. graduate or even the Master's (M.S.) degree.

A Phi Beta Kappa whose knowledge is bookish, may thus be surpassed by a 2-year "B" or even "C" student with more versatile practical experience! If you teen-agers can afford only one year at college, you may get the best chance at good positions by taking the one-year diploma course at any accredited Business School!

Send for my "Vocational Guidance" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, for it also includes a one-hour "Test of Horse Sense." (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Quartet To Be Singing

The Gospel Lads Quartet, originally from Southern California and now full time with the Revival Fires ministry, will present the program at the Roanoke District Convention Saturday.

The program, beginning at 10:30 a.m., will be held at Macedonia Christian Church, Highway 17 south of Williamston. A program will also be presented at 1:30 p.m.

The Gospel Lads are a regular feature on the Revival Fines television program now viewed coast to coast on more than 100 television stations. The program is viewed in this area on Channel 7 on Sundays at 8:30 a.m.

The Gospel Lads will present a concert of gospel and sacred songs with emphasis on a "three dimensional sound", including "New Gospel" for young people, "Old Gospel" favorites and "New Southern Gospel" style hymns.

Lunch will be served by the host churches at 12 noon, preceding the afternoon session. The Gospel Lads will also be at the Washington Park Mall Saturday night.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 NT Pass 4 ♣ Pass
4 NT Pass 5 ♣ Pass
5 ♦ Pass 6 ♣ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♠. Altho South was the victim of bad luck in his six heart contract, he could have overcome adversity on the deal by more careful management of dummy's resources. When North opened the bidding with one no trump, South had the values to look for slam since his holding is worth 17 points including some key controls. His four club call as an immediate response is the Gerber convention, asking for aces. Note that a direct bid of four no trump is a raise, not Blackwood.

North's reply of four no trump announced three aces. South rebid five clubs to check for kings and North's five diamond call showed none, so South signed off at six hearts.

West opened the three of spades, the queen was played from dummy and the king. East continued with the jack to dislodge North's ace. A diamond was led to the king, a small one returned to the ace and a third round trumped with the ten of hearts on which West showed out, discarding a spade.

When the diamonds did not break evenly, South gave up on that suit since there was only one entry remaining in dummy. A heart put North in to try the club finesse. When West turned up with the king, the contract was set by one trick.

Declarer was unlucky in finding both black kings unfavorably placed, since the odds were roughly three to one in his favor. He could have improved his chances considerably by successfully establishing North's diamond suit. A vital discard can be obtained provided that diamonds divide no worse than four-two, which offers declarer about an 84% chance of success. In order to retain an extra entry to the dummy, South must preserve the ace of spades from attack which he can accomplish by playing a small spade from the North hand at trick one instead of the queen.

East is in with the jack of spades, but he cannot continue the suit without presenting his opponent with a free finesse. If East shifts to a club, declarer plays the ace, cashes the king and ace of diamonds and ruffs a third round with the ten of hearts. The king and ace of hearts come next and a fourth diamond is trumped by the jack of hearts. The queen picks up West's remaining trump and the ace of spades provides access to North's hand to cash the long diamond on which declarer disposes of the jack of clubs. He loses only one trick in spades.

Sierra Club Survey Indicates Pessimism In Environment Field

By ROGER PETTERSON
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Sierra Club, increasingly active in the nation's environmental affairs, has little faith in the ability of the government, big business and the current administration to clean up the environment, a survey of its members indicates.

A majority of those answering the survey—75 per cent—said they feel the federal government "is pretty much run for the benefit of a few big interests."

More of the club's members would vote for Sen. George McGovern than for President Nixon, it shows. However, the mailed questionnaire survey was conducted from April 20 to June 30, before the political conventions.

The Sierra Club's search for preservation has taken it from mountain trails to the U.S. Supreme Court and national attention on such issues as the Alaskan oil pipeline and Disney Productions' proposed Mineral King resort development in California.

Its critics accuse it of wanting undeveloped land saved for campers, hikers and rugged individualists, to the exclusion of the average person seeking recreation and to the detriment of progress.

The survey was conducted for the Sierra Club by James McEvoy III of the University of California at Davis and Ted Bartell of the University of Michigan.

They said their report was based on "1350 to 1400 respondents, a response rate of approximately 74 per cent from the original sample." They estimated their results to be within 3 per cent "of the true percentages if we had in fact interviewed everyone in the Sierra Club." The club's membership is about 140,000.

Ten per cent said the federal government pays "a good deal" of attention to what the people think, 44 per cent said "some" attention and 46 answered "not very much."

President Nixon would have received the votes of 25 per cent of the respondents, and Sen. George McGovern 44 per cent at the time of the survey. The remainder favored candidates no longer in the running.

Asked which branch of government would do most to improve environmental quality, 41 per cent said legislative, 21 per cent answered the judicial branch, 13 said the executive branch, and 25 per cent voted for regulatory agencies.

On the other hand, 40 per cent said the executive branch "will have the greatest negative effect on environmental quality during the 1970s." The legislative branch received 20 per cent of the vote on that question, judicial 17 per cent, and regulatory agencies 22 per cent.

Thirty per cent said the Democratic party is doing a better job on environmental issues, 62 per cent said neither is doing a better job, and 7 per cent favored the Republicans.

Asked to react to the statement "Too much money is spent on national defense that should be spent on conservation," 53 per cent strongly agreed, 32 per cent agreed, 14 per cent disagreed and only 2 per cent strongly disagreed.

The national Sierra Club is "very effective" in influencing national conservation policy, 63 per cent said, "somewhat effective," 36 per cent said, and one per cent of the club's own members answered "not very effective."

The club has trembled in recent months in disputes over the power of local organizations versus the national headquarters. Asked how much influence local organizations have on national policies, 3 per cent said very much, 18 per cent quite a bit, and 50 per cent said some; but, 25 per cent answered very little and 3 per cent said none.

Only 24 per cent agreed that "a married couple should have as many children as they wish, as long as they can adequately provide for them."

Only 9 per cent agreed that an industry causing substantial pollution "should not be forced to stop operations if it would put people out of work."

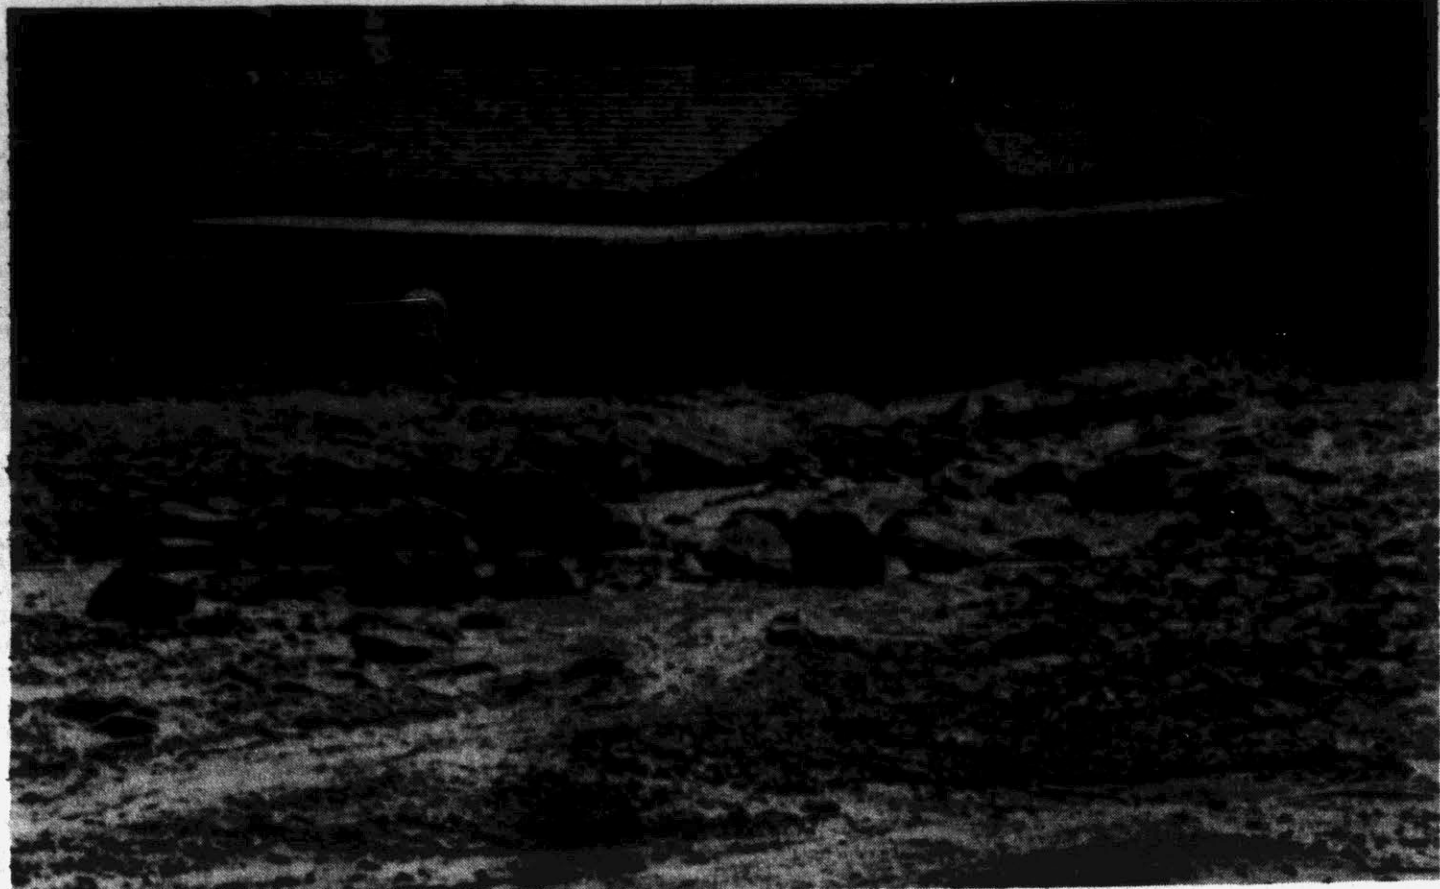

Suspension of nuclear power plant construction for five years was favored by 31 per cent, opposed by 37 per cent, and 32 per cent were undecided.

Prohibition of new offshore drilling was favored by 74 per cent, opposed by 10 per cent, and 16 per cent were not sure.

Impoundment of operating revenues of polluters pending compliance with state anti-pollution guidelines was favored by 77 per cent, opposed by 12 per cent, and 12 per cent were undecided.

According to the survey, the average member is 40.1 years old, has a family income of $15,400, and 62 per cent are male.

Only 5 per cent have no college education, and 62 per cent are employed in professional or technical fields.

Autumn Leaf Judge Sets Stage For Trip Nov. 5 Deliberation On Chavis

WEST JEFFERSON, N.C. — Plans are going forward for the 14th Annual Autumn Leaf Train Excursion to be held Nov. 5.

This train is sponsored each year by the West Jefferson Womans Club to raise funds for recreation and Mrs. Ed M. Anderson has served as chairman since the train started.

The usual square dance and country music sing will be held on Saturday night prior to the train trip on Sunday morning.

The passengers will board the train at 9 a.m. and will be served a box lunch on the train. On the way over, a morning worship will be held at White Top. There will be song leaders on each of the cars and other entertainment for the passengers. Most passengers are expected to detrain at Abingdon where they will visit the Barter Theatre while the train goes to Bristol and turns around.

The route traveled is the highest elevation of any railroad east of the Mississippi.

BURGAW, N. C. (AP)—Superior court Judge Robert Martin was to deliver his charge to the jury today, setting the stage for deliberation of the case of black activist Ben Chavis and nine other defendants on charges growing out of racial violence in Wilmington last year.

Chavis, 24, formerly of Oxford but now pastor of the Church of the Black Messiah in Wilmington, and eight other defendants, aged 18 to 22, and all from Wilmington, are charged with conspiracy to assault emergency personnel, conspiracy to burn property with an incendiary device, and burning property with such a device.

The other defendant, Ann Shepard, 35, of Wilmington, lone white in the group, is charged with conspiracy on the burning count.

The state's two attorneys in the case, Jay Stroud, assistant solicitor for the judicial district, and Dale Johnson of the attorney general's office in Raleigh, wound up their summation to the jury Monday.

The charges involve two nights of firebombing and sniper shooting in a black area of Wilmington, using the Gregory Congregational Church as a headquarters.

A grocery and two residences were burned the night of Feb. 6, 1971, the second of the two nights during which firemen were shot at and policemen also became sniper targets as they sought to protect the firemen, according to testimony given by officers during the trial.

Stroud summarized the testimony of the state's three principal witnesses, two of them serving prison sentences, as relevant. They told the court of Chavis's leadership and instruction in preparing firebombs and in shootings.

Johnson said of the violence, "This was more than a riot, it was a war."

Hunt Four Men In Local Holdup

Greenville police are continuing their hunt today for four men who allegedly took $2 from a man at gun-point here last night.

Bob Ehrman, of 209 East 12th St. told police last night that he was held up after he delivered a pizza to a club at 1008 Dickinson Ave. between 10 p.m. and 10:30, Chief Glenn Cannon said.

The chief quoted Ehrman as saying he had delivered the pizza to the club and was returning to his car when the four men walked up to him and demanded his money. He said after he handed over the $2, he was told to get into his car and drive away.

The incident was reported at 10:28 p.m.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A difficult day when most persons are out of tune with circumstances about them and want to blame others for conditions that actually come from the planets. Be gentle and kind. And be sure to handle all upcoming situations in a most intelligent way. Show more poise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are in the doldrums and should try to help those less fortunate than yourself. Tonight you can make plans for a new activity that will bring benefits you want and need. Be cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It's fine to get together with a good friend but don't bring up controversial subjects that could be upsetting. Show that you are a kind person with a good sense of humor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't give in to a temptation to belittle a higher-up and thus avoid trouble. Being reckless in any way at this time could jeopardize the fine reputation you have been building up.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study every detail connected with a new activity you have decided to launch and you will be successful. Show cordiality and courtesy toward others. Use a new approach.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) No better day than this to handle those mounting responsibilities. Show associates and friends that you can be depended upon. Strive to have more accord with the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to make those changes in agreements you have made with others, but tomorrow is fine. Plan to lighten the load of associates. Show that you have much ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Start on that work ahead of you but don't become involved in any arguments with fellow workers with whom you do not agree. Show that you can solve a mechanical problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you want to have a good time, don't force your wishes on others, or they will resent it. Use diplomacy. Try to delve into recreations that require few people to enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are objective in studying the situation at home, you find that you can handle problems there easily. Others are in an irritable mood, so tread lightly. Avoid emotionalism.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care in travel and don't upset others in conversations in any way and this becomes a most productive day. Being careful of your money while shopping is wise. Be alert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to spend beyond your means today or you could regret it later on. Study the cost before you put your money on the line. Analyze your financial position accurately.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't allow yourself to become depressed over unexpected turn of events. Conditions will improve by tomorrow. Take health treatments and get back on the beam. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those dynamic young people who needs regulated duties, otherwise your youngster could get into unwanted mischief. Under proper direction this chart can be worked out well and the fine potential realized. There could be a born problem solver here, so direct the education along such lines. Religious teaching early in life is definitely needed.

Moose Civic Affairs chairman James Fleming announced Monday night the Clothing Bank drive was reasonable successful, but "I'm certain from past experiences we will have more calls for help from needy families of the county than we could help at the present time." For that reason, he said, the lodge would continue to accept used but still usable articles of clothing from the public.

Lodge Governor James Harris reported a number of Greenville Moose attended the Legion Ceremonial in Kinston over the weekend, with three advancing to the second degree of the fraternity. They were: Andrew Walker, Kenneth Simonowich and Alger Hicks. Fifty-two members were installed at the Kinston session.

Secretary E. M. Baldrée reminded the George Doerner band would be playing at the lodge on this coming Saturday night from 9:00 to 1:00 a.m. and members planning to attend were advised to get their tickets early.

Fleming called attention to preparations for the Halloween Carnival (on the evening of October 31) for children of Moose families, and the work that yet had to be done on the program.

Harris recognized two visitors: District President John Copeley and Elizabeth City Moose Lodge Junior Governor Larry Freeman. Copeley spoke briefly on the pride he felt in the work of supporting Mooseheart and Moosehaven.

State Fair Starts Fast

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina State Fair was off to a big attendance start its first three days before rain and overcast skies slowed the turnstiles Monday.

Publicity director Bob Wills said attendance Sunday totaled 69,314, the largest in the four years the fair has been operating on Sunday.

Attendance for the first three days, Wills said, totaled 242,333, including a record 126,000 Saturday.

The 19th annual apprentice bricklaying contest at the fair Monday was won by Chester A. Silve of Rt. 3, Warrenton. He scored 930 out of a possible 1,100 points and won $200.

Second place and $100 went to Joe A. Dellinger of Hockory. Edward Whitfield of LaGrange won third place and $50. Fourth place of $35 went to Charles H. Barbour of Clayton.

Declare Marine Brigs Exemplary

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A civilian study team says Marine brigs at Camp Pendleton and San Diego, Calif., and Camp Lejeune, N.C., now are outstanding.

The team of psychologists, penal specialists and special workers said tough and often brutal conditions have been replaced by a more human approach which civilian prisons should copy.

The Navy ordered the study in 1970 after congressional investigations claimed overcrowding, a lack of trained guards, and brutality for rioting at the Camp Pendleton brig north of San Diego.

Coptic Leader In Unity Talks

ISTANBUL (AP) — Patriarch Shenouda III, leader of the Coptic Christians of Egypt, leaves for Damascus today to complete a five-country visit to Orthodox leaders.

Shenouda and Ecumenical Patriarch Demetrius I completed talks on Christian unity on Monday "in an atmosphere of brotherly understanding and affection," a spokesman said.

Bishop Samuel, who acts as head of the Coptic Church's ecumenical division, said Demetrius, spiritual leader of the world's 200 million orthodox Christians, visited Shenouda during the evening in his hotel to continue talks that started in the morning. Shenouda leads Egypt's one million Coptic Christians.

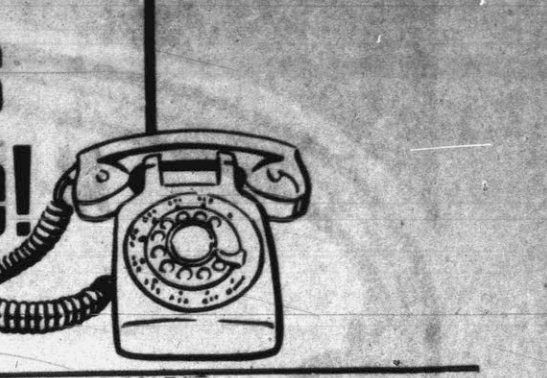

"These are the first contacts toward rejoining the two eastern Christian families in 15 centuries," Bishop Samuel said.

McPherson, Trustee, dated January 12, 1971, and recorded in Book S-39 at page 263, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 11:00 A.M. on the 26th day of October, 1972, the property conveyed in said deed of trust, and more particularly described as follows:

That certain lot or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the Town of Winterville, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being located on the east side of Mill Street, said street being also designated as State Highway No. 11, and beginning at an iron stake in the east property line of Mill Street, or State Highway No. 11, at a point 35 feet North 23 deg. 58 min. East from the northeast corner of the intersection of Blount Street and said Mill Street, or State Highway No. 11, said beginning point of the lot owned by the Town of Winterville, and running thence South 65 deg. 56 min. East 99.5 feet to another iron stake, a corner; thence running North 23 deg. East, 106 feet, cornering; thence running North 65 deg. 56 min. West 99.5 feet, more or less, to a point, a new corner, in the east property line of Mill Street, or State Highway No. 11, 106 feet, more or less, to the iron stake at the point of the beginning; and being the same property conveyed by B. Vernon Cox et al to Linwood J. Butts and wife, Mazil S. Butts, by deed dated January 27, 1968, and recorded in the Pitt County Registry.

The highest bidder at the sale will be required to deposit with the Trustee 10 per cent of his bid to show good faith pending confirmation of the sale.

The above property is to be sold subject to all outstanding and unpaid taxes and assessments, if any.

This 26th day of September, 1972.

SERVICE

Mr. O.D. Miller, service representative from Chrysler Motor Corporation presents a service award to James Trotman, service manager, (left). The award, given to dealers who render excellent service to their customers, is one of only ten given out statewide. William L. Johnson, President of Bright Leaf Motors, Inc. said that this award comes at a moment when Bright Leaf is putting additional stress on better customer service. Bright Leaf is doubling their total service facilities in order to give their Chrysler customers new, and old, whom they have served for the past 23 years, more improved service.

YOU GET A GREAT NEW CAR ...AND A DEALER WHO VALUES YOUR BUSINESS.

All prices, sizes, models, colors, options!

What makes our new Chryslers and Plymouths such great buys for '73? Perhaps it's new features like standard electronic ignition. Or proven features like torsion-bar suspension and unibody construction. But most of all it's extra care. In the engineering, in the selling, and in the servicing. Come in and see the new '73 Chryslers and Plymouths. See what a difference extra care can make.
