Too Few Left To Do Their Business

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has called it quits for the year after overriding President Nixon's veto of an antipollution bill and denying him the spending-cut authority he had asked.

The congressmen were leaving town so fast Wednesday that neither the House nor Senate could muster quorums for votes. So Congress adjourned at 8:50 p.m.

A bill carrying $6 billion for highways and $3.4 billion for mass transit died in the rush in the House and so did a tough antiskyscraping bill that could have brought the death penalty for airliner hijackers and terrorists.

But before closing up shop, Congress overrode Nixon's veto of $24.6 billion water-cleanup bill and a proposal granting him broad authority to hold federal spending within a $250 billion ceiling this fiscal year.

The 93rd Congress convenes Jan. 3.

The 92nd was marked by passage of the 26th Amendment giving 18-year-olds the vote, approval of a new concept of sharing $30 billion in federal revenue with the states, and by a House-Senate standoff on legislating an end to the Indochina war.

The highway-mass-transit bill had been declared dead by Senate-House conferees Saturday night but was resurrected and passed by the Senate Wednesday before dying in the House for lack of a quorum.

Only 156 of the 433 House members answered a quorum call, far short of the 217 required to conduct business. The Senate had fewer than 30 of its 100 members in town.

Also killed by the sudden adjournment was a bill to halt U.S. air travel with countries that harbor skyjackers and airliner terrorists, and give juries the death-penalty option for skyjackers.

McGovern 'Grasshopper' Tour Is Welcomed Here

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Countians and East Carolina University students turned out at Wright Auditorium today to welcome Miss Terry McGovern, Mrs. Jessie Rae Scott, and other Democratic Party notables on their first major stop in North Carolina. Miss McGovern is part of a "Grassroots Grasshopper" tour of the South.

After a lengthy ovation Miss McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate's 23-year-old daughter, told the crowd she does not believe suggestions she has heard that her father is "too compassionate, too generous, too perceptive, too honest to be elected President. I also do not believe that because this country has such a strong military it is not deteriorating inside, or that because Pres. Nixon seemingly has wide support, he has not manipulated and suppressed us for the last four years."

She said, "My father has worked to secure our trust and he's done it by trusting us. He has the issues well thought out yet he's open to suggestion. He's been that kind of father and he'll be that kind of president."

Miss McGovern presented Doug Alcorn, the ECU campus McGovern campaign director, a copy of a biography of her father for inclusion in the ECU Library.

Dr. Leo Jenkins spoke briefly on the need for continuing support for the Democratic Party, after which Mrs. Scott said, "The crowd I see here today makes me know I don't believe what the newspaper say about apathy for McGovern on our campuses. Hang in there till the last vote is counted. I welcome all of you on the tour to North Carolina to give us greater enthusiasm for the McGovern-Shriver ticket."

Liz Carpenter, former press secretary to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, said she is glad to be "in the heart of the Southland, where you spray bugs, not plant them." She intimated she is fed up with part-time Democrats like John Connally and that she is proud to be a Franklin D. Roosevelt-Harry S. Truman-John F. Kennedy-Lyndon B. Johnson-George McGovern-Sargent Shriver Democrat.

"Sissy" Farenthold, introduced as a woman who got her chance at the Democratic Convention because of policy changes brought about by Sen. McGovern, said, "I reject that miserable Southern strategy of Candidate Nixon and I reject the phony patriotism and phony respectability of an administration that allows such scandals—and they're scandals, not capers—as the Watergate, ITT gifts, and wheat deals. The Watergate affair took corruption right to the heart of the electoral process and to sanction it by electing the administration that allowed it to sanction the same kind of corruption on every level of the electoral process."

She called the "miserable and immoral war in Vietnam" the number one issue of this campaign.

Also introduced were John Henry Falk and Miss Janice Hardison, Pitt County campaign directors for the election of McGovern and Shriver.

Revenue Increase

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's general fund revenue collections last month showed an increase of $12.4 million over September, 1971, State Revenue Commissioner Andrew Jones reported today.

Sales and income tax receipts led the way as the general fund took in $77.5 million during September. The sales tax, which reflects business conditions brought in $30.3 million, an increase of $4.2 million. The income tax receipts totaled $32.3 million, up $3.8 million.

For the first three months of this fiscal year the general fund collections amounted to $283.6 million, a gain of $47.7 million over the same period a year ago.

Jones reported that highway fund receipts during September totaled $25.5 million, up $2.4 million over September last year. Gasoline tax receipts amounted to $23.8 million, a rise of $2.3 million. The highway fund receipts the first three months of this fiscal year were $74.8 million, an increase of $4.9 million.

Vacation Plans Interrupted For Couple In Light Plane's Mishap

Banks Held Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two more North Carolina banks were robbed this morning, at Glen Raven, outside Burlington, and Charlotte.

A shopping center branch of the North State Bank at Glen Raven was robbed by two black men who left on foot.

At Charlotte, a branch of the Northwestern Bank was robbed by one black man, the FBI reported.

In each robbery, the men left on foot. The amount of money taken was not immediately determined.

They were not injured when the Cessna 170 plane turned upside down upon landing.

Lessard said that the oil pressure went very low and the engine lost its power. Upon landing the plane turned over about 50 yards after it touched the ground.

According to Douglas O'Mary, who saw the plane land, the couple crawled out of the craft unharmed. O'Mary stated that the crash took place on the Frank Hart farm near the intersection of rural paved roads 1128 and 1127, about a mile and half from highway 264, west of Greenville.

"Probably what kept us from getting injured were the motorcycle helmets that we had in the plane," Mrs. Lessard stated.

"We saw that we were going to land and we put the helmets on to protect us," she continued. The couple had a small motorcycle in the plane at the time of the crash.

Lessard and his wife left Montreal Monday enroute to Florida and the Bahama Islands. Lessard said that they had had no trouble until the forced landing yesterday.

Pitt County Sheriff's department officials on the scene said that Lessard had a valid Canadian pilot's license and investigation will be continued by the Federal Aviation Agency.

Weather Clearing For Boggs' Plane Searchers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)

— Feeling for some electronic pulse of life, an armada of planes prepared to resume the search today for a plane missing for three days with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three other persons aboard.

Cool and clearing weather was expected to greet 35-40 aircraft and crews, "if they can get off the ground due to the weather," an Air Force spokesman said.

He added that an electronic equipped search craft had flown the suspected flight path of the plane "back and forth between Anchorage and Juneau" efforts to pick up possible distress signals.

Meanwhile, three Coast Guard cutters plied rough seas in the Gulf of Alaska during the night.

Bad weather continued to jumble the search schedule, but a Coast Guard spokesman in Juneau said it was "silly to give up hope when there are so many areas left uncovered."

Today's search was expected to center around two areas along the 560-mile route — the rugged Portage Pass area 50 miles southwest of Anchorage and coastline and mountain areas northwest of Juneau, about 500 miles to the south-east.

The missing twin-engine, Cessna 310 left Anchorage Monday on the last leg of a whirlwind campaign tour by Boggs on behalf of Alaska's lone member of the House, Rep. Nick Begich. It has not been heard from since.

Aboard it were Boggs, 58; Begich, 40; his aide, Russell Brown, 37, and the pilot, Don E. Jonz, 38, of Fairbanks.

Fog, rain and generally poor flying weather prevented all but the briefest of visual searches of the two areas Wednesday.

A crack 10-man Army mountain rescue team, which climbed to the top of Portage Pass on Wednesday, planned to move out at daylight for another search over glaciated valleys and steep mountainsides.

Some Alaskan bush pilots, familiar with emergency situations in rough terrain, agreed that the light plane could have put down safely. But they also agreed that every hour the search continued unsuccessfully diminished the odds for survival.

Bonner Charges Incumbent Rep. Jones In 'Liberal Demo' Ranks

By TOM BAINES

Reflector Staff Writer
Jordan Bonner, Republican candidate for the First Congressional District seat, contends that his incumbent opponent is "Voting with the liberal Democratic ranks" and not representing the viewpoints of the people.

The Hertford politician said here Wednesday that in campaigning throughout the district, he is meeting the voters personally, letting them know "how inactive Congress has been and how we can improve the situation by bringing action back into Congress."

He said that he is emphasizing "The fact that we have got to have a representative who is actually representing the viewpoints of the people of this district which Walter Jones is not doing anymore."

In charging that Jones, a Democratic veteran of three terms in Congress, is voting with the ranks, Bonner said that he thinks "the people realize this, along with other situations with their congressman they disagree with, and they are looking for new young energetic leadership. I think they are turning to me for the solution to these problems."

He asserted that the voters have been electing people who have held offices in the General Assembly or as county commissioners "but we find that these people are being elected when they are 55 or 60 years old. They don't have time to really go up there and learn the ins and outs of Congress. My ultimate goal in life is to be a congressman, not to be a North Carolina legislator or a county commissioner, but to be a congressman."

Bonner said that he feels the addition of Carteret, Jones and Greene Counties under the realignment of the district will be a help to him in gaining votes. "We've found in our campaign that most of the new counties that have been added to our district... aren't particularly happy with being in the First District because of the situation; the large land area and the very few people. And also, they totally disagree with the representation that the First District has received in the past, the inactivity of the congressman, the fact that he is not in the district very much communicating with

Working With Handicapped Led To Careers As Clown Regulars

Does Honesty Pay? Readers Write In

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Charles Scribner's Sons, Inc.)

By ROBERTA ULRICH
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—
Barbara Nadel and Peggy Williams both began their careers by working with the handicapped—and now are regulars in the clown troupe of
"The Greatest Show on Earth."
Miss Nadel, 24, was working as a physical therapist at Samuel Shattuck Hospital just outside Boston and taking part in community theater productions where people kept telling her, "You're a regular clown."

Miss Williams, 23, of Madison, Wis., was working toward her master's degree in speech therapy when "it dawned on me school could get to be a habit—
I'd been going for 17 years."
So both applied for the Ringling Bros. Barnum &
Bailey Circus clown college.
were accepted, attended, graduated and joined the privileged few hired by the circus.
Miss Williams is in her second year and Miss Nadel is making her first tour with the circus'

Red Unit, one of the touring troupes.
Physical Comedy
Miss Nadel said she became interested in being a clown as she found "everything I was doing was geared to physical comedy."
"The circus is that," she said, "It's a very physical way of performing. You can't speak to the audience; so you have to use your body."
Miss Williams became interested in pantomime while working with deaf children. She noted that the children tried to express themselves with their bodies when they were unable to do so with speech.

"I thought clowning was a good way to study pantomime,"
she said.
On tour since Feb. 13, the two young women live with the circus show girls in a dormitory car of the circus train, where each has a bunk and a small storage space.

On The Move

The circus moves once, often twice, a week and does two or three shows a day each day it is in a town. The show runs 2 hours, 45 minutes and the longest the clowns are away from the ring is 20 minutes.

The two young women reach the performance area from the train, usually by circus bus, an hour to an hour and a half before the first performance
each day. Applying the elaborate white face can be done in 36 minutes "but I like to take 45," Miss Nadel said.

Miss Nadel, a wispy 5-foot-2, wears great floppy yellow shoes
as part of her costume. "It took me four months to work up to wearing them," she said.
"When I started my legs weren't strong enough. I had to build up my whole endurance."

The girls are part of a 23-clown troupe. Each young woman, like all clowns, designed her own costume and makeup and developed her own act. Each does a few bits alone, one or two with each other and several with other clowns.

Miss Williams, as the first woman clown to join the Red Unit, took the brunt of any prejudice. She said she found no outright opposition "but there was a feeling that 'girls can't be clowns.' People were afraid to work with me."

Miss Nadel said she found there was "never any outright trouble" but some of the men clowns appeared afraid of hurting her in some of the rough and tumble acts.

Among their supporters is Frank Saluto, the midjet clown who has been with the circus 42 years. He said he likes women clowns, adding: "They're fun-nier than the boys."

Miss Nadel is thinking of staying with the circus three years but has no definite plans.
"I like being a clown," she said. "It is obviously so valid for a woman."

Miss Williams is thinking in longer terms. "I really like the life style," she said. "I love
what I'm doing and the side benefits—like travel."

Sometimes they see too little of the areas they visit,
however, and they find it difficult to meet local people—although in Portland they had dinner with a group of young people who came backstage after a performance.

At Portland the two young clowns and three others from
the "Greatest Show on Earth"
spent a morning visiting the Portland Zoo and riding its miniature train. They loved it.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who wondered whether she was "Honest or Stupid" for returning that which she had found, was obviously disgruntled because no rewards were offered.

If one expects to be rewarded for honesty, it means that honesty today is a rarity, and I don't believe it.

A number of years ago I was stranded in Durham, N.
C., after having lost my wallet. A Negro bellhop paid my hotel bill plus breakfast, and when I obtained cash by wire to send me on my way, I left a repayment plus a reward for his kindness to me.

When I returned home I found a letter with the reward money returned to me from the bellhop, stating there was no price on his friendship to man. I was deeply moved by his action and shall never forget it. By the way, I am white, which made no difference to my black humanitarian friend.
H. A. L., PANORAMA CITY, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: You gave a good answer to the woman who asked "Does it pay to be honest?" ["Honesty pays in the currency of honor and self respect."]

May I add a postscript? In determining what is right, I find it is helpful to consider the alternative.

With regard to the abovementioned situation, the alternative would have been to keep the items she found instead of returning them to their rightful owners, rationalizing, "I probably won't even get a 'thank you.'"

This type of rationalization would surely create nagging guilt feelings which would be harder to live with than the resentment of unexpressed gratitude on the part of the owners.

Again and again I have found that considering the alternative has made the immediate unpleasantness much easier to bear, and helped in making the right decision.

THE REVEREND C. W. KIRKPATRICK LUDLOW, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "Honest or Stupid," I wish to relate an experience I had some years ago in Philadelphia.

While shopping on my lunch hour in the five and ten cent store, I noticed a woman's large pocketbook setting on the counter. It was a shabby bag of expensive quality. I looked around to see if anyone appeared to be looking for it, and since no one was, I looked inside for the owner's identification. I felt so guilty searching a stranger's purse you'd have thought I had stolen it.

There was a wallet bulging with several hundreds of dollars—maybe more. I was too nervous to count it. Also, a large bunch of keys, and several credit cards, bearing the owner's name and address.

I felt so conspicuous, and half fearful that I would be approached and accused of stealing it, I rushed immediately to the Lost and Found Department and turned it in, leaving my name and address.

Several days later I received a nice note and a lovely handkerchief supposedly from the "owner" of the purse.
She mentioned that altho she had only "a few dollars" in her wallet, she was grateful to have had her keys and credit cards returned!

I quickly realized that her purse had not been returned intact. Most of the money had been removed. Imagine how I felt!

I learned a lesson then and there. If I ever found anything again, I would NOT turn it in. I would leave MY name and address at the Lost and Found, with instructions to have the owner contact ME. That way I'd be sure of its safe return. REALLY STUPID

DEAR ABBY: Concerning rewards for being honest: I was raised on a farm in Indiana by a father who didn't spare the rod, and I thank God for him every day of my life. When other kids were being rewarded for being "good," my father used to say, "It's not what you'll get if you're GOOD, it's what you'll get if you're NOT GOOD you ought to worry about."

DU Dinner Is On October 25

Area Ducks Unlimited chairman Roger Collins III reminds sportsmen who have an interest in waterfowl hunting and conservation that tickets are still available for the Greenville area DU meeting next Wednesday night.

Collins said that area sportsmen who plan to attend the annual dinner meeting can purchase their tickets from any member of the Greenville DU committee which includes Melvin Hoot, Marvin Buck, John Farley, Frank Edmundson III, Henry Riddick, Freddie Stokes, Rob Whitley and Tom Baines.

This year's session, Collins reported, will be held at the Candlewick Inn and advance tickets should be purchased prior to the meeting date. Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour and will be followed by dinner and the short business session.

The chairman noted that in addition to a drawing following dinner, an auction will be held prior to the showing of one of Ducks Unlimited's 25-minute waterfowl films. Among the items to be auctioned, with proceeds going directly to DU, are a hand-carved, locally made decoy and print No. 318 of 500 of John Ruthven's "Oak Grove Pintails."

Collins, noting that all proceeds from the meeting go to further the work of Ducks Unlimited, said that tickets for the session, as last year, will include a membership in the organization as well as cover the cost of the meal. All persons attending, through their purchase of a ticket, will be a member of Ducks Unlimited.

The local DU chapter is an active part of the national organization. Funds raised at the Greenville meeting and at other DU meetings throughout the nation are channeled into the national fund for work involving the immediate and long range welfare of the waterfowl population.

Nothing Certain About Peace

Nothing is certain in the Vietnam peace talks these days except that the secret negotiations are obviously going at a greatly increased rate.

Kissinger has spent several days in Paris engaged in the secret negotiations and most recently he has flown to South Vietnam for consultations there.

We would not dare try to predict at this point just what it all means. There has been speculation that the truce will come before the U.S. elections,

Senate Contest Believed Close

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The race for U.S. Senate is taking shape as the tightest on the general election ballot, in the view of editors of the state's afternoon newspapers.

A poll of the N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies confirmed that President Nixon is far ahead of Democrat George McGovern in the bid for Tar Heel electoral votes.

It showed an impressive margin for Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr., the Democratic candidate, over Republican Jim Holshouser in the gubernatorial campaign.

Jim Hunt, youthful Democrat making his first try for elective office, placed well in front of Johnny Walker, his GOP opponent, for lieutenant governor.

In contrast to those races, the editors saw the Senate picture as a developing battle between Congressman Nick Galifianakis, the Democrat, and Jesse Helms on the GOP ticket.

While a majority said Galifianakis is leading in their areas, the survey indicated strength for Helms that could take the race right down to the wire.

Interest Generally Moderate
Twenty-three editors, representing all areas of the state, participated in the poll. They sized up public interest in the '72 campaign as generally moderate, apathetic in some instances, and keen only in certain places and specific races.

Economics, including taxes and rising prices, is the predominant issue in the minds of voters. The war in Southeast Asia, school busing, and lack of credibility in political leaders are other concerns.

One editor said personalities overshadow issues. "I wonder if one local man didn't say it right: 'This election,' he said, 'is directed more to voting against someone, rather than for someone,'" he commented.

The survey response does not reflect editorial endorsement of any of the individual afternoon newspapers, but simply gives the judgment of the participating editors on voter sentiment of the communities.

Thirteen editors placed Galifianakis ahead of Helms in the Senate race. Two called it close, although one thought Galifianakis might have a slight edge. Eight ranked Helms in the lead.

Intense Senate Campaign
Both candidates are campaigning hard for the prize of a six-year term in the U.S. Senate. Galifianakis, a Durham native with a dozen years' legislative experience (six in the state legislature, six in Congress), beat incumbent Sen. B. Everett Jordan for the nomination in last spring's primary.

Helms, once an aide to a Democratic U.S. Senator, switched his party registration in recent years. A Raleigh broadcast executive, he is running for public office for the first time.

Helms' support was evident not only in the east, where he is well known as a television editorial commentator, but also in the piedmont and west. One editor referred to his "conservative image" as a factor favoring Helms.

Bowles, Greensboro businessman and former state senator, was seen as the leader in the race for governor by 21 of the responding editors. Those who cited percentages gave him a margin from 55 to 70 per cent.

Only two editors in normally Republican territory said Holshouser is likely to carry their areas. One of those said Bowles will run well, and has a good chance for a slim majority.

The same results held for the lieutenant governor contest. Hunt was picked over Walker by a count of 21-to-2.

Nixon Heavy Favorite
In contrast to the Democratic preference in state races, the editors predicted the GOP presidential ticket will be the overwhelming choice of voters in their communities. Twenty named President Nixon as the probable winner. One said the race is close. Two gave an edge to McGovern.

One of those came from the rural northeast, heartland of traditional Democratic strength. "This area has not in the 20th century voted Republican for president," said the editor. "It will be the closest ever this time...by Nov. 7 McGovern will likely have a narrow lead."

The other McGovern area was a university town in the central part of the state.

A conclusion from the survey is that coat-tail benefits will be slight and ticket-splitting widespread. "Lot of talk of jumping party lines—some will not vote for president and vote straight party ticket the rest of the way," reported a mountain editor.

Sixteen editors rated interest in the campaign as moderate. Five termed public reaction apathetic, and only two found keen interest.

that it will come later and that the shadowy comings and goings are only a part of American politicking.

We are inclined to think that serious efforts are underway to end the war immediately. Our first thought would be that North Vietnam would choose to wait out the elections in hopes of getting George McGovern as president.

On the other hand, the Communist can read the American polls, too. They know that the odds are they will still be dealing with Richard Nixon after the elections. They also know that Nixon is unpredictable. This he has shown by resuming bombing in this election year and mining the North Vietnam harbors.

President Nixon has also established better relations with both China and the Soviet Union, North Vietnam's two principal suppliers and this means that these two countries would be less willing to risk these improved relations in order to continue the war in an obscure country.

President Nixon's stand on a settlement may stiffen after the election and he could allow more strategic bombing in the north. Thus there are many reasons why North Vietnam might agree to a cease-fire before the election, if they have any thoughts of doing so any time in the months ahead.

We believe a cease fire in Vietnam is going to come rather soon. While we are not knowledgeable enough to say it will come before the election, we would not rule this out. Many signs point that way.

Using Tactics Of Desperation

By ROLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ST. PAUL, Minn.— Sen. George McGovern's spectacular return to the Vietnam war issue last week was an admission that he is now threatened with potentially grave defections among voters originally attracted to him for one reason alone: his pledge to end the war.

That explains his decision to broadcast an anonymous tape from an alleged Vietnam war veteran to a huge student audience at the University of Minnesota here, a "war is hell" lament so emotionalized that it stunned his antiwar audience into shocked silence.

Yet, before McGovern played the tape over the loudspeaker, his reception here, despite the size of the student audience, was only mildly enthusiastic. Indeed, even on this activist campus the antiwar passions seemed to have run out. Little white buckets handed through the audience for contributions to McGovern's campaign went empty from hand to hand. The huge crowd was cheerful but clearly uninspired as McGovern once again outlined his well-known peace plan.

The potential loss of McGovern's credibility on the war issue is partly explained by the overall erosion, remarkable in its intensity, of voter confidence in him across the board. That erosion set in during Sen. Hubert Humphrey's attacks on McGovern in the California primary and became apparently irreversible during the Eagleton catastrophe.

That it should now threaten to undermine McGovern on the war issue is ironic in the extreme, considering the Senator's efforts the past two months to shed his image as a "one issue" candidate.

Thus, until last week, McGovern had soft-pedaled Vietnam in favor of the corruption, inflation, drugs and crime-in-the-streets issues. He culminated his attack with a charge in New York two weeks ago that President Nixon's administration is the "trickiest, most deceitful" in U.S. history.

But while the Democratic nominee was desperately trying to find a non-war campaign issue that might begin to whittle down Mr. Nixon's huge lead, polling data from both his own campaign staff and such outside experts as Louis Harris and Dr. George Gallup began to show grave deterioration in his voter standing on the war issue itself.

That data, comparing with our own scouting expeditions with Oliver Quayle in such traditional Democratic areas as Macomb County, Michigan, and Brooklyn, N.Y., traced a steady decline in the credibility of McGovern to end the war in a way acceptable to American voters.

Dr. Gallup's poll of Oct. 13, in fact, showed that even among young voters between 18 and 29, McGovern's end-the-war plan lagged behind Mr. Nixon's plan by a fatal 33 to 52 per cent.

As dubiously interpreted by McGovern's top political advisers, that meant one thing: McGovern's soft-pedaling of the war had smudged his once-clear-cut pledge to remove every vestige of U.S. military power from all of Indochina within 90 days of his inauguration, and all support for the "corrupt Thieu regime" and trust Hanoi to return all U.S. POWs.

Such a finding dictated an immediate return to the Vietnam issue, and the Senator proceeded to do just that with his half-hour speech over the CBS-TV network last Tuesday (Oct. 10) night, following an antiwar speech earlier that day at Western Michigan University.

The new strategy is filled with political danger. For example, the Senator risks a stunning blow to his credibility if the emotionalized words of the alleged Vietnam war veteran broadcast here should turn out to be fraudulent.

Moreover, Republican strategists disagree with McGovern's own managers that his sudden new appeals to his old "one issue constituency"—the antiwar movement—are working. A Republican survey among Democratic voters in New York City immediately following the Senator's

So They Cancel Title

A letter is at hand from a seventh-grade teacher in a Southern city, commenting upon how things are going in the Year 18 A.D., which is to say, After Desegregation. Things are not going too hot.

My correspondent formerly taught at Columbus Junior High School, all-white. In the Great Shuffle of 1969, she was transferred in town to Crispus Attucks, all-black. In another Great Shuffle in 1970, the black eighth and ninth graders from Attucks were ordered bused back out to Columbus, while the white seventh-graders from Columbus were bused in to Attucks, thus creating at Attucks a thoroughly integrated school dealing with seventh-graders only.

All clear? Okay. She inquires rhetorically, "How has the education of the ghetto children improved?" And she writes:

"Buses are frequently late. First and second period classes are interrupted by groups of latecomers in the halls. They have missed early morning announcements, as well as part of their classes. The class they enter is often held up while the teacher repeats instructions for these students. Sometimes we must take some extra time to check and see if Student B does indeed ride Bus 23, and was Bus 23 indeed late this morning, or has Student B been smoking in the restroom for the last half hour?"

"No more after-school activities, as 60 per cent of the student body is shipped out at 3:15. Attempts at having after-school activities during the school day have been disastrous thus far.

"Teachers have difficulty in grouping students according to ability, as this often results in all-black groups and all-white groups, and this is a no-no.

"Discipline has suffered as we cannot keep white students after school, and most white female teachers are unwilling to stay on the school grounds after hours either with discipline problems or parent conferences. During the first year of integration I tried keeping black students after school but found that they resented the fact that they were not white children. According to them I was prejudiced.

"The most ridiculous problem has been the Title I program. I'm sure you are familiar with this federally funded program which was supposed to broaden the experience of able but disadvantaged children. So long as the school was all-black, the Title I program rocked along with no problems. I don't know that it did any good, but at least it was there and I suppose the black people felt Big Brother was trying to help.

"But when the whites were shipped in, we found ourselves with an all-black Title I class, which, according to the Powers That Hold the Pursestrings, equals inferior education. The only trouble was, the disadvantaged white families didn't want to put their able but disadvantaged white children in the Title I class. In other words, the po' whites didn't want to put their children in with so many po' blacks.

"So an appeal went out to the more intellectually inclined families. The class really was an elite group, we said, with special privileges, broadening experiences, etc. Thus we had white children from $80,000 homes with

TRUTH—FORM AND SUBSTANCE

Truth never changes. Forms of truth change but the truth itself never changes. Down at the bottom everything that it true has been and will be true for all time. Men will pour eternal truths into new thought forms but the truth itself will not change.

Through the centuries men have been making the mistake of believing that the forms in which they held the truth were the same as the truth itself. But the forms in which the truth is held are like the human body which will die and sink into dust, whereas truth itself is like the soul which will live forever. The body perished. The soul lives eternally. Men's thought forms change from generation to generation.

Truth is the same yesterday, today and forever.

When people believe that their thought forms and truth are one and the same thing they quickly grab up the club of persecution and go after anyone who differs with them. Isn't this person opposing the truth? Not necessarily. Probably this person is opposing only the form in which truth manifests itself.

Wisdom consists in being able to differentiate between the kernel and the husk—between truth and the forms in which men conceive and express the truth. The external cover will pass away. The internal abides forever. Truth never changes—only our conception of it, the form we give it.

China Poses Vast Trade Boost

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A

China authority who helped prepare President Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger for their February trip believes the United States is about to play a multibilliondollar role in China's industrialization.

Harned Pettus Hoose, who was born and raised in that country and who represented 14 American companies in trade negotiations at Canton and Peking, believes that American businessmen, almost literally, are being invited to do so.

"I asked them what they wanted to buy," said Hoose, who spoke for many hours with numerous trade officials of The People's Republic. In almost every instance, he said, they replied: "Modern industry."

Their needs, he said, are for sophisticated capital equipment rather than consumer items—for heavy machinery, entire plants, machine tools, computer controls and oil-mineral discovery, extraction and processing equipment.

"We have supplied our human needs," Hoose said he was told. "now we will be developing the technological and industrial facets of the economy."

Hoose stated that there are great pressures for doing so. First is China's difficulty with the Soviet Union. Second is the threat the Chinese see in Japan being the dominant economic power in Southeast Asia.

"We are unwilling to let the Japanese or any nation have such a position, so we will be buying very heavily from foreign sources if relations continue satisfactory," Hoose said he was told.

Hoose, now a Los Angeles lawyer, said he was also told that:

1. "We will not be trading heavily with the people to the north, a reference to the Soviet Union, 'because of our current problems.'"

2. "We must reduce the percentage of trade with Japan." Japan accounts for 20 per cent of China's foreign trade and will continue to be a major factor. But the percentage, Hoose was told, isn't likely to grow.

3. "We will be seeking more trade with the United States.

Western Europe and the East."

Since the "East" presumably means the relatively small nations of Albania and Romania, Hoose interprets what he was told to mean: "This is a race between American and West European trade."

The United States, Hoose believes, has definite advantages. Like China, for example, it is a "can do" culture with a strong work ethic. There is, Hoose believes, a certain understanding and appreciation of American methods.

(The implications of China's mineral assets will be discussed in tomorrow's column.)

Chavis And Friends Held As Prison Appeals Are Readied

BURGAU, N. C. (AP)—Black activist Ben Chavis, 24, one of 10 persons sentenced for conviction on charges growing out of last year's racial violence in Wilmington, was held today in Central Prison in Raleigh pending appeal.

Chavis, pastor of the Church of the Black Messiah in Wilmington, received the stiffest sentence Wednesday —25 to 29 years for arson and a concurrent 4 to 5 years for conspiracy to assault emergency personnel —and was under the heaviest bond, $50,000.

Connie Tyndall, 22, also was held at Central Prison as was Ann Shepard, 35, lone white among the defendants. Others, also with appeals pending and because of their ages, were held at the Odum prison camp in Northampton County.

Superior Court Judge Robert Martin imposed the sentences Wednesday following Tuesday night's convictions by a jury which deliberated just under three hours.

Tyndall and Marvin Patrick, 20, were sentenced to 22 to 26 years for arson and 4 to 5 years on the conspiracy to assault count and their appeal bond was set at $45,000.

Mrs. Shepard was sentenced to 7 to 10 years for conspiracy to commit arson, the only charge against her. Appeal bond was set at $20,000.

The others were convicted on arson and conspiracy to assault counts. Their sentences and bonds were: Jerry Jacobs, 19, 22 to 26 years for arson, 3 to 5 years for conspiracy, bond $40,000; and Willie Earl Vereen, 19, Reginald Epps, 18, James McCoy, 19, Joe Wright, 19, and Wayne Moore, 18, 20 to 24 years for arson, 3 to 5 years for conspiracy, bond $40,000.

The Wilmington violence reached its peak in two nights of firebombings and sniper fire Feb. 5-6, 1971. Two persons, an armed black and a white motorist, were killed in the area of the greatest violence which was centered around the Gregory Congregational Church, as related by Wilmington police at the time and as brought out in testimony.

The week had been punctuated earlier, police said, by angry black students seeking to have certain demands met involving school desegregations. The church, which became what police described as headquarters for the violence, had been used for student meetings.

Testimony presented by the state identified Chavis, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, as ring-leader of the violence. Chavis was an unsuccessful candidate for Charlotte City Council.

Yet, seemingly boxed in by voter apathy or disagreement with him on the economy, corruption and other non-war issues, McGovern seems to have little left but the politics of desperation.

"Finally, the entire school system is in financial trouble. The purchase, operation and upkeep of buses (and drivers), the salary of an integration supervisor and staff, and the cost of increased vandalism must be quite a drain. According to the grapevine, the enrichment classes will be the next to go — music, art, shop, and home ec. Some improvement!

Southern Republicans See Chance In Senate Races

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The death since 1970 of two veteran senators and the primary defeat of a long-time Democratic incumbent have raised Republican hopes of electing the first GOP senators since Reconstruction from at least three Southern states.

Republicans also are counting on a re-election sweep by President Nixon to boost their chances in Georgia, North Carolina and Louisiana. Louisiana's race was left wide open by the death of Democratic Sen. Allen Ellender last summer.

Democratic Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, dean of the Senate and chief spokesman for the Southern bloc, died in 1971 and his appointed Democratic successor has been beaten in a primary.

"If we ever had a serious chance, this is it," said Bob Shaw of Atlanta, state Republican chairman.

In North Carolina, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, 76, was defeated in the Democratic primary by a 43-year-old congressman who faces a former television commentator in the Nov. 7 election.

Republicans also are making major efforts in Alabama, Arkansas and Virginia while trying to retain seats from South Carolina, Texas and Tennessee. A Republican is running in Mississippi but without the support of the Nixon administration.

The administration says it favors Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland over Meridian businessman Gil Carmichael. Eastland frequently votes for administration proposals.

The North Carolina race pits Rep. Nick Galifianakis, a Democrat, against Republican Jesse Helms, who has become well known in the eastern part of the state through a decade of editorials over a Raleigh television station.

Helms' biggest problem is making himself known in the Piedmont and western sections of North Carolina, where the bulk of the votes are. He has attempted to identify himself with Nixon, but Galifianakis refers voters to editorials in which the Republican has attacked the administration.

Working against Helms are separate federal and state ballots that make it impossible to vote a straight ticket, and a gubernatorial race that has absorbed much of the state party's energies. Helms has used the Democrat's antiwar votes to depict him as a liberal in the style of Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee. But Galifianakis has countered by showing he has voted with the administration most of the time.

Louisiana has a four-way race. Democratic former State Sen. J. Bennett Johnston of Shreveport is opposed by Republican Ben Toledano of New Orleans, American party candidate Hall Lyons of Shreveport, and Independent former Gov. John McKeithen.

McKeithen wanted to run in the Democratic primary but the party refused to reopen qualifying after Ellender's death. The former governor won a place on the ballot through petition. McKeithen has told voters that the election of an independent senator would give the state an important swing vote in the Senate.

Toledano, a New Orleans lawyer, has said the election of a Republican senator would insure cooperation of the national administration on settling the tidelands case and other matters of critical importance to Louisiana. The Republican is not well known outside of New Orleans and the state has only 40,000 registered Republicans out of 1.7 million voters.

Johnston has attempted to separate his race from the presidential contest, declining to say for whom he will vote. The Democrat is widely known in Louisiana and came within 5,000 votes of winning the last gubernatorial primary held by his party.

The American party candidate has done little campaigning and is given virtually no chance of winning.

The Republican candidate in Georgia, Rep. Fletcher Thompson of the Atlanta suburb of East Point, has stiff opposition from Democratic State Rep. Sam Nunn of Perry, in central Georgia.

Thompson, a three-term congressman from Atlanta's 5th District, is campaigning largely on his ties to the Nixon administration and record in Congress, but he has been placed on the defensive by Nunn for most of the campaign.

Nunn has attacked Thompson for his acknowledged use of free mailing privileges to distribute statewide his congressional newsletter. The practice, Nunn charges, is a "flagrant waste" of tax dollars. The issue has dominated the campaign thus far.

Thompson has attempted to rally by painting Nunn a McGovern Democrat, but Nunn has responded by disclaiming the support of black State Rep. Julian Bond, a top McGovern worker. Nunn carried endorsements from both Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox and black leaders in his primary upset of Sen. David Gambrell, Richard Russell's appointed successor.

Winton Blount, former postmaster general in the Nixon administration, is the Republican candidate in Alabama. He is opposing Democratic Sen. John Sparkman's bid for another term. Sparkman, 73, has spent 26 years in the Senate.

Blount's campaign has been boosted by a procession of top Republicans visiting the state, including Vice President Spiro Agnew, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

Sparkman has been endorsed by fellow Democrat, Gov. George C. Wallace, and many feel that will offset President Nixon's popularity in the state. Blount, a wealthy Montgomery construction man, has used Sparkman's age and liberal votes as key issues.

Democratic Sen. William Spung of Virginia is running for a second term against Republican William L. Scott of Fairfax and Independent Horace Henderson of Virginia Beach. Virginia has a Republican governor and Nixon's popularity is uncontested, but a number of Democrats for Nixon have endorsed Spung. They include

Richard Reynolds Jr., head of the metal company and a big contributor to past Democratic presidential contenders.

Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, Democrat, weathered a tough primary fight against predictions that his age—76—would cost him the race. The five-term senator faces Republican Wayne H. Babbitt in the general election. McClellan campaigned hard in the primaries, but has done little campaigning for the November election.

Babbitt's handicap is a Republican party that has fallen apart since GOP Gov. Winfield Rockefeller was defeated in his race for a third term. Babbitt has found few issues to use against the conservative McClellan and has resorted to blaming the state's low per capita earnings on the senator.

the people."

He added, "But they also know that when he is in Washington he is not standing up on the floor of the House talking for them. He is not introducing legislation for them and they feel that they do not want to inherit that type of representative and so they are going with . . . me."

"If the people, after I'm elected, feel that I'm not representing them or if I'm not keeping the promise of trying to learn how to represent them or to find out what the problems are and solve these problems, then they have the choice of reelecting . . . me or electing my opponent. I feel that that's the case right now that people too often feel that the congressman is the incumbent and has to stay there until he dies or retires."

The candidate said that he feels people must control their own destinies. "They can vote for responsible leadership. They can lower their own taxes by electing a congress that is not going to overspend the government's budget. They can solve the busing problem by having a congress that's going to put a congressional amendment up there which this congress hasn't voted on."

Congress, he continued, has not solved any of the problems that are facing the nation or passed any legislation that deals with tax reform or with welfare reform, with busing. "The only major legislation they've passed revenue sharing and Walter Jones voted against that and that was specifically designated for areas like Eastern North Carolina to bring more money back in, and help with rural and industrial growth, he said.

On the East Carolina University medical school question, Bonner said that he feels we do need a four year medical school here and that it should be expanded in later years into an internist and surgical program.

He added that the medical program here should also include, in addition to a four-year operation, "satellite medical centers" throughout the rural areas "so that the school would actually provide their internist to work in these . . . centers to give . . . preliminary treatment to people in the area."

Bonner also listed as one of his priority concerns the road situation in the east, noting that "we want to work to get Interstate 40 from Raleigh into Morehead City because we're got to develop that port down there."

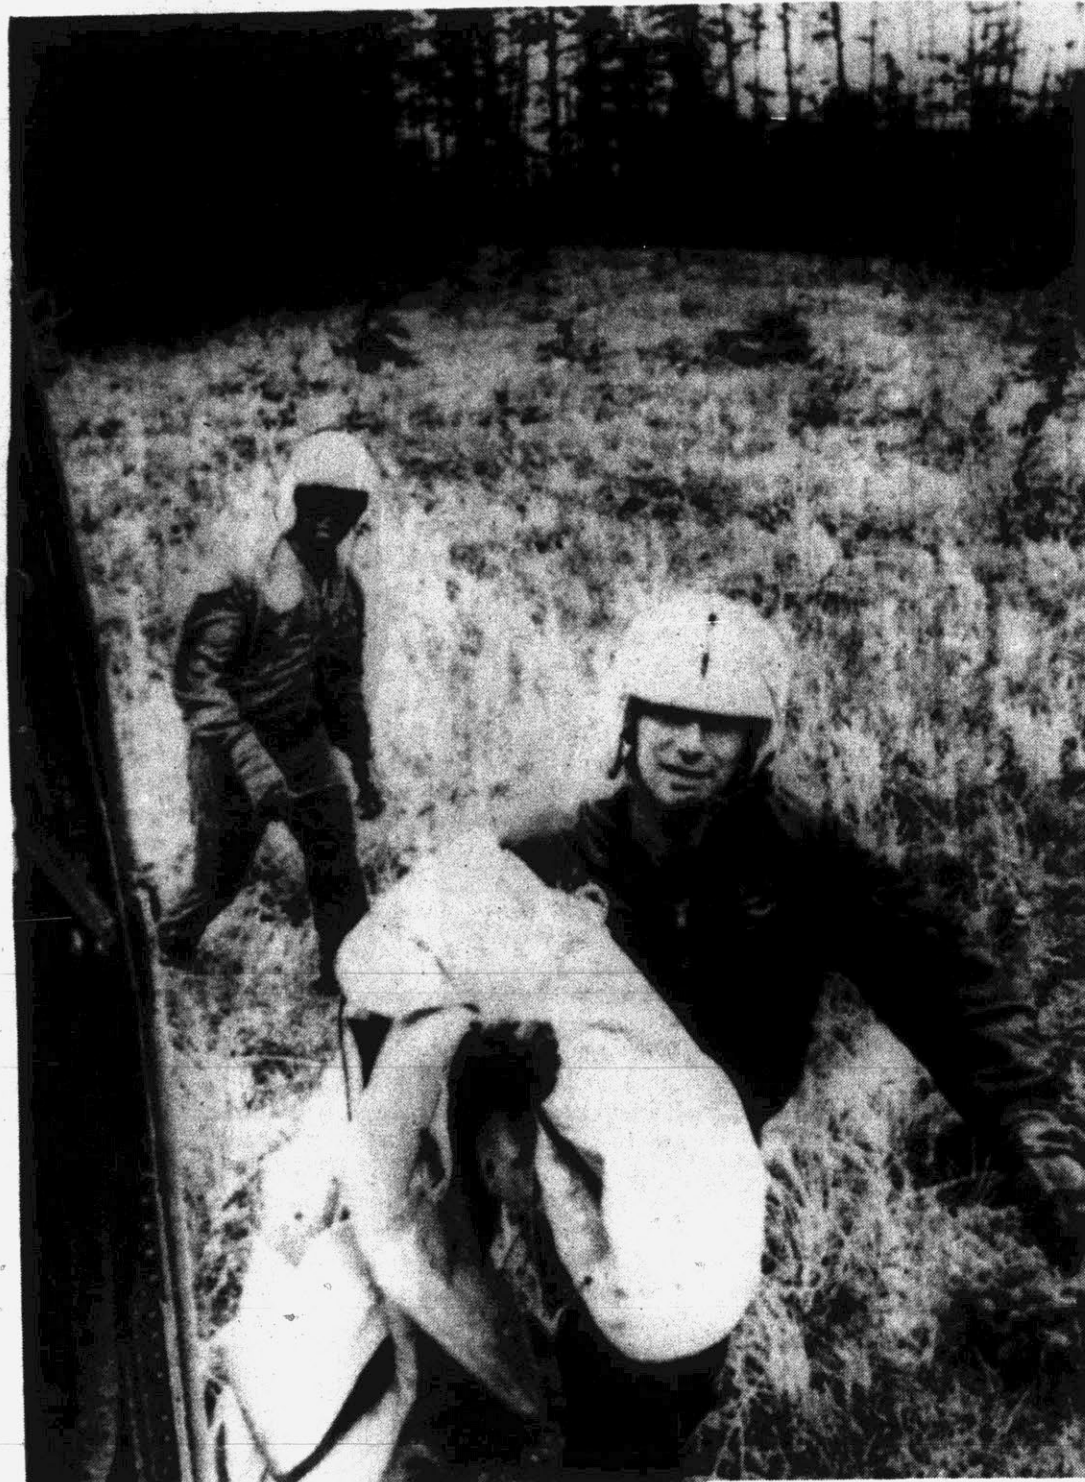

"I don't say that I know all the answers to the problems facing Eastern North Carolina but I can tell the people that I'm going to give it my best and I'm going to go up there and work . . . and come up with workable solutions."

Galifianakis Replies By Pointing To Vote Record.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rep. Nick Galifianakis, Democratic candidate for senator from North Carolina, says, "My vote on busing has been very clear—I'm opposed to it."
His Republican opponent, Jesse Helms, has accused him of being wishy-washy on the issue.
"I have found busing to be an irritant to all races," Galifianakis said Wednesday while campaigning in the Salisbury and Concord areas. "If concentration was on maximizing educational opportunity for all out children, some of the social problems we have faced would give way."

On other matters, he said his proposals for the future include economy in government, action against drug abuse, separation of powers, and what he called restoring the integrity of the legislative branch.

Helms was 51 Wednesday and cut birthday cakes at his headquarters in Burlington and in Asheboro. Earlier, he said in Durham that the White House has made his race a top priority. "Mr. Nixon has stoutly supported us. The White House has been in constant contact with us," he said.
He said in response to a newsman's question that his campaign will cost in the neighborhood of one-quarter million dollars, and that he will spend about 10,000 of his own money. He resigned after 11 years as a television editorialist for a Raleigh station to make the race.

He said an effort should be made to shorten campaigns and reduce their cost.
The Republican candidate for governor, Jim Holshouser, said he had a method to cut $12.5 million in what he called fat from state government budgets.

He speculated at a news conference in Raleigh that this would save up to 25 per cent above the expected savings of up to $50 million from just-completed government reorganization.
Holshouser called the plan a zero-based budgeting system, meaning that a state agency would have to justify all the program it wants money for, not just the new phases.
The system has been adopted in Georgia and New Mexico.

Holshouser said that at present, "We always begin our budget process by continuing automatically everything we've done before. We never ask ourselves whether it's time to phase out a program."
The Democratic candidate for governor, Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, was met by 10 hecklers as he appeared for a speech in Red Springs, and they booed him throughout his remarks. He said later that the booing bothered him a little, but he felt sure the small group did not represent either the Robeson County citizenry or the Republican party. The group had carried placards supporting Holshouser, but left them outside the auditorium where Bowles addressed the Lumbie River Electrical Membership Cooperative.

He said he would seek new programs to reduce the state's infant mortality rate. He also promised to work to eliminate malnutrition and raise the living standards of seasonal workers.

Bowles, bothered by a stomach ailment, was examined by doctors in Red Springs and in Greensboro. He said that both had indicated a change of medicine would clear up his touch of colitis. He looked fresh as he left Greensboro late Wednesday afternoon for a staff meeting in Wilmington.

Over 400 Furniture Manufacturers Set

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — Even though this market has received favorable reactions, there are expected to be fewer introductions than at previous fall shows.
This is because most furniture makers have reported huge backlogs of orders. This coupled with a labor shortage in Southern manufacturing regions, has caused less need for new designs to push sales upward.
In keeping with the less rigid approach to furniture designs, interior decorators have taken up the banner of simplicity in their exhibit spaces. Accessories show off the country-casual look of interiors.
It has been estimated that 85 per cent of the nation's furniture purchasing power is represented by the buyers who make the Southern circuit twice each year, during April and October.
The fall market traditionally is a style-introduction market featuring few new fabrics. This year it will reflect the new lifestyles and the usual influence of women's fashions, two of the manufacturers' most important guidelines.
The accent this year is on warm and natural colors accented by bright, fresh hues.
Much of the new furniture will reflect an easy, country living style.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early hours of the day are certainly not good for financial or travel activities or for borrowing or lending. But as the day advances, you find that you become more in tune with those about you and are able to know the right answers to problems facing you. Employ more goodwill.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Safeguard your reputation today when others are in a mood to criticize. Keep busy at handling personal affairs wisely. Show others that you are a very charitable person. Avoid arguments.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Wait until the afternoon before putting a new arrangement into operation that will put your debts behind you. Talk with mate without losing your temper. Come to a fine understanding.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day for discussions with associates but not for putting over deals in the business world. A civic activity can now be very successful. Show that you are a go-getter, not a push-over.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study the duties ahead of you and find a way to get the cooperation of fellow workers. Avoid an associate who is not thinking clearly today. Do something to improve your appearance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) You have too much work ahead, so do only those things that are important and then go out for recreation. You can complete it tonight with ease. Prove that you can carry through with good ideas.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Talk with kin and plan how to have more harmony and security in the future. Not a good day or evening for social or recreational activities. Handle fundamental affairs efficiently.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) A day for much constructive activity, such as shopping, keeping appointments and obtaining information you need. A quiet attitude at home is fine. Evening is fine for family entertainment.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You have to use much care in travel and in motion today. But your monetary matters become much clearer to you. Others come to you for advice, so be sure to give it. Be gracious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) You know pretty well how to gain aims of a personal nature, but it would be well to consult with experts where business matters are concerned. Happiness is yours for the making.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Although your judgment is usually good, it would be wise now to do some deep thinking about a private matter. Steer clear of social affairs where you confront inflated egos.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Contacting good friends and listening to their ideas is fine today. Evening is fine for complete relaxation and thinking out how to gain your most cherished longings. Avoid one who bickers.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Don't rely on good friends who are too busy and can't help you today, but higher-ups can be contacted with fine results following. Put your talents forward with the right people. Be wise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will have the wisdom to listen to what business experts have to say. The intuitive faculties here are very pronounced and the life will be based largely on this. Fine success can result in whatever the forte may be here, which could be music, the ministry or art. Religion is a natural in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Panthers Seeking Second Win Of Year

What a difference a win makes!

Coach Danny Wilmer of North Pitt can say this with a lot of enthusiasm. The Panthers won their first game of the season last Friday night, rolling to a 36-6 victory over Charles B. Aycock. The win lifted North Pitt out of the basement and just about assured them of not finishing there.

But at the same time, Greene Central handed Ayden-Grifton's Chargers their first loss of the season, and that pushed the Chargers off the top of the league, leaving Southern Nash up there all along.

And unless the Chargers can come back this weekend and beat the Firebirds, Southern will have almost a free ride to the remaining two weeks of the season to the championship.

This week, besides the Ayden-Grifton meeting with Southern Nash, Eastern Carolina Conference action finds Farmville Central at Greene Central, Aycock at Eastern Wayne, Conley at North Pitt and Southern Wayne at North Lenoir.

The key game, of course, will be the Southern Nash-Charger game. It is a must contest for either team. Ayden-Grifton must win to have a chance at the title, while Southern can just about wrap up the title with a victory.

"We made too many mistakes," Ayden-Grifton coach Mike Overton moaned after his team's 34-12 loss to the Rams.

"We've made these same mistakes before, but only Greene Central has been strong enough to take advantage of them. They are a good team, and they have a good quarterback and three good receivers. They're just hard to defend."

Overton also got bad news when Tony Koonce, his chief ball carrier, was hurt during the game. He has been declared out of this week's action. Sam Stewart, who did the running until he was injured earlier in the season, still isn't back either. "We're really hurting without them," Overton added.

Overton singled out the play of Tom Craft and Milton Brown in the game.

"Southern Nash is a very tough team," he said. "They beat Greene Central earlier, and they have two good running backs. They're a lot like us when we're healthy, but it's going to be tough going up there with no running backs. We'll have to let our defense do the job and give us the ball in good field position."

North Pitt, after its initial conference win, might be figuring on another quick one at the expense of Conley.

"Things are a lot better now," Wilmer smiled. "There's been a change of attitude here now. It really feels good to win."

The coach said that North Pitt might have won even bigger if penalties hadn't stopped drives at key times. "We had one long touchdown by Charles Young called back," he said.

Clarence Mooring had a field day against the Falcons, breaking loose early for 92 yards to put North Pitt ahead. Overall he picked up over 300 yards rushing. "After his first one, we just gave it to him and let him do his thing," Wilmer said. "He got the team clicking, and when they scored, we just came right back and put it away."

Wilmer praised the entire offensive line, and singled out Don Sheppard and Johnny Vines. "Spencer Barnhill also did a good job, as did Milton Alston and Woody Andrews." Wilmer figures the game with Conley a toss-up. "It will be who ever wants it the most," he said. "I know they'll be tough. They have some good backs, and they'll come at us."

On the other side of the field, Conley's Ken Treadway was happy with his team's 13-6 win over Eastern Wayne. "We drove on our first series, and the offense looked good," Treadway said.

"We made some offensive changes, putting Willie Hawkins at tailback and Calvin Hawkins at fullback, and they did a good job for us," he added.

"Overall, it was a real good effort. Both the offense and defense played well. We're growing up," he said.

Willie Hawkins and Vic Corey drew praise for their offense play in the backfield, while Stencil Hines and Charlie Tyson were singled out in the line. Defensively, Bobby Bryans, Calvin Hawkins, Hines and Peanut Edwards were listed as standouts.

Treadway feels that North Pitt came a long way as a result of their victory. "They're an up and coming team. They were fired up for Aycock, and they'll be fired up for us," he said. "They have a good backfield, and a good passing ball club. Mooring is really going to be hard to stop."

Farmville Central, having taken its last three in a row, has to face tough Greene Central this weekend, and that will be no easy task for the young Jaguars.

"We played well in the first half," Coach Gene Brewer said over the Jags 29-6 win over North Lenoir. "But we started thinking of the Homecoming dance in the second half, and didn't play nearly as well."

Brewer still feels the team is improving, however. "But not as much as we have been," he added. "We made a lot of mental mistakes in the second half."

Brewer said the whole team performed well in the first half, and didn't single out any specific player.

"They have a real fine ball club," he said of this week's opponent, Greene Central. "They have got a real good passer in Lonnie Carraway, and they have a better than average running attack, too. It's going to be a real tough test for us."

Rampant Cubs Trim Goldsboro

Rose High School's junior varsity rolled to a 38-6 victory over Goldsboro High School here yesterday. It was the third win against two losses and a tie for the Rampant Cubs.

Greenville had already posted 18 points before Goldsboro got on the boards. Oddly enough, two of Goldsboro's victims, Wilson (38-12) and Kinston (28-6) had recorded victories over Rose earlier in the season.

The Cubs got their first touchdown in the first period as Mike Ball passed 11 yards to Ronald Randolph. Later in the period, Ball took to the air again, this time, from 12 yards out, hitting Lindberg Morris for a 12-0 lead.

In the second period, Harold Randolph picked off an interception, setting up Ball's 25-yard pass to Curt Creech for the third score.

Goldsboro then got its only touchdown of the afternoon, a 60-yard run by William Coley.

Greenville came back to add another score in the third period boosting the lead to 24-6. That came on a three-yard run by Ronald Randolph.

In the final period, two more Cubs crossed the goal line. Ball scored on a one-yard run, then hit Creech for the two-point conversion. Morris then scored on a six-yard reverse to finish off the scoring.

Morris led the Rose rushing with 126 yards in 18 carries. Ronald Randolph had 68 yards in 10 carries, while Ball did a good job passing.

Defensively, Rose picked off six interceptions, two by Harold Randolph, two by Morris and one each by Freddie Baker and Jack Jenkins.

Coach Bud Phillips had praise for the defensive play of Randolph, Baker, Ron Hunt and Gilbert Cox.

Rose travels to Tarboro on Thursday of next week for its seventh game of the season.

Cougars Take Fourth In Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Cunningham did some traveling over the summer from Pennsylvania to North Carolina but all indications are the distance didn't effect him one bit.

Cunningham, who left Philadelphia of the National Basketball Association to join Carolina of the American Basketball Association, showed Wednesday night he's still the same old player who is "great" in capital letters.

The rangy forward led the undefeated Cougars back from a 20-point deficit to beat the Kentucky Colonels 105-100. In the fourth quarter he scored 17 points and pulled down seven rebounds. He finished the game with 25 points, 15 rebounds and eight assists.

Kentucky, which got 30 points from Rick Mount, had a 51-39 halftime lead and a 63-43 margin in the third period. But Carolina, with a full-court press, pulled to 81-72 at the start of the final period. Then Cunningham scored 11 of his team's next 13 points and his team rallied to grab the lead with 4:05 to play.

In the other ABA games, the Memphis Tams trimmed Dallas 99-98, Indiana beat Utah 107-

103, and Denver whipped Virginia 115-109.

There were no games scheduled in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

George Thompson scored 20 points and Warren Davis had 16 points and 19 rebounds for Memphis. The Tams managed to come back strong against Dallas when the Chaps' Steve Jones, Rich Jones and Gene Kennedy fouled out.

Indiana lost an 11-point lead and had to fight to hold on against Utah. Donnie Freeman, acquired from Dallas in the off-season, scored 10 points in the fourth quarter and finished with 15 for the Pacers, who also got 16 points from Billy Keller and 15 from George McGinniss. The Stars' Willie Wise led all players with 21 points.

Marvin Roberts scored a career-high 27 points and Dave Bustion hit for 18 for Denver. Virginia was paced by George Irvine with 20 points.

Runners Are Second

RALEIGH — Sanderson High School captured a three-way cross-country meet here yesterday, putting together only 31 points.

Rose High School finished second with 44 points, just beating Broughton High which finished with 47. Low score wins in cross-country.

Sanderson's Schlesinger took individual honors in the meet, winning the 2.2 mile race in 10:55. Schlesinger is the defending state two-mile champion.

Second place went to Callis of Broughton in 11:10, closely followed by Howe of Sanderson in 11:20. Brower of Sanderson was fourth in 12:05 followed by Gary Walton of Rose in 12:07 and his teammates Art Klose in 12:46 and Gary Cayton in 12:48.

Stinnafaro of Sanderson was eighth in 12:54, followed by Davis of Broughton in 12:56 and James Davis of Rose in 13:20.

Other Rose finishers included Hugh Stokes, 16th in 13:49; Les Pulley, 20th in 14:22; and Tim Brankin, 21st in 15:56.

Unitas First To Feel Colts' Youth Movement

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposed youth movement of the Baltimore Colts won't be accomplished overnight, but the oldest player will feel its effects first.

When Coach Don McCafferty was fired Monday, General Manager Joe Thomas said Baltimore youngsters would be given much more playing time during the remainder of the season.

In Sunday's upcoming game against the New York Jets, however, 39 year-old quarterback Johnny Unitas will be the only player actually bumped out of his job so far.

Taking over for Unitas—second to the Jets' Joe Namath in the AFC with 1,044 yards passing this season—will be Marty Domres, who spent four seasons as a backup signal caller at San Diego before being acquired in a trade by Thomas.

Rookie Glenn Doughty also will start at wide receiver, replacing rookie Cotton Speyer, who is injured, and second-year players Don Nottingham and Don McCauley will start in the backfield for the second straight week while veterans Tom Matte and Norm Bulaich nurse injuries.

It was McCafferty's refusal to bench Unitas which helped lead to his dismissal after the Colts lost to Dallas last Sunday for their fourth loss in five starts, with defensive line coach John Sandusky taking over.

In a story published in a Baltimore newspaper Wednesday, Thomas denied having instructed either McCafferty or Sandusky to start Domres.

After Wednesday's practice, however, Unitas reiterated that Thomas had telephoned him Monday after McCafferty had been fired and informed him that Domres would play.

"I told him, 'that's your decision,' and hung up," Unitas said.

Slight Raise Kept Him Going

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Jack Billingham once told the Los Angeles Dodgers to fork up a $50 a month raise or he was going back to pumping gas and changing oil in his dad's Orlando, Fla., filling station.

Fortunately for the Cincinnati Reds, the Dodgers kicked in with the money, and Billingham forgot his gas pumping threat to continue a baseball career.

Billingham remembers being so nervous the day he started his first minor league game that he became nauseated and threw up. But, the 29-year-old right-hander pitched with poise and savvy Wednesday night as he rescued the National League champions from the brink of disaster in the World Series.

He was 12 and 12 for the Reds in 1972, pitching extremely well in the last few months in Cincinnati's drive to the West Division title.

Billingham said he wasn't upset when Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson came out to get him after Jack went to a three-ball, no-strike count on Oakland slugger Mike Epstein in the last of the ninth.

"The idea is for the team to win," Billingham said. "We had our backs up against the wall. I wasn't disappointed."

Unitas also he also had been told by reliable sources that Sandusky had been instructed by Thomas to start Domres and that McCafferty twice rejected such suggestions by Thomas and owner Robert Isray.

Other than outlining the chain of events, Unitas declined to comment on his benching or his future with the club after he finishes his 17th season. This is the last year of a three-year contract at $125,000 a season.

Qualifying Runs Opening For 500

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — A field that includes stock car racing's Big Four of Bobby Allison, David Pearson, Bobby Isaac and Richard Petty opened qualifying runs today for Sunday's $106,000 American 500.

The first 15 positions in the 40-car lineup for Sunday's 12 noon start were to be decided in afternoon time trials at the North Carolina Motor Speedway. The one mile oval features the highest banking in racing.

Top candidates for the pole position were Allison, Isaac, Pearson and Dodge-driving Buddy Baker, with Petty in the usual dark horse role he enjoys in qualifying sessions.

"I'm not a pole contender," Petty said Wednesday after giving his Plymouth several shakedown laps. "I'll be satisfied with a start somewhere in the top five."

Petty, stock car racing's only $1 million winner, has won five races at this scenic little oval situated in North Carolina's golf-conscious Sandhills area.

Petty is the only driver to win more than once since the speedway opened in 1965.

Allison, driving the Junior Johnson Chevrolet that has carried him to nine triumphs and a circuit-leading $237,650 this year, set a world closed-course speed record of 139.048 miles per hour for one-mile courses at Rockingham in 1970.

The Hueytown, Ala., flash also won the pole position for the Carolina 500 in March with a speed of 137.539 m.p.h. That speed was expected to be about par for today's top qualifiers.

Isaac is entered in a new Chevrolet fielded by ex-racer Banjo Mathews. Pearson, whose $132,305 trails Petty's second place $185,745 in the money standings, drives a Mercury.

Allison, Pearson, Isaac, LeRoy Yarborough and Cale Yarborough are the other former Rockingham winners among the 61 drivers entered for the American 500, next to the last race of the season on the Winston Cup Grand National schedule.

Reds Capture 1-0 Win Over A's

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and Oakland A's entered the "Twilight zone" again tonight for the fourth game of the 1972 World Series.

And because of it, both teams looked forward to another low-scoring game following Cincinnati's 1-0 triumph Wednesday night that cut Oakland's series lead to 2-1.

"The twilight made the difference for me," said winning pitcher Jack Billingham after gaining the victory with ninth-inning help from Clay Carroll.

"You'll see another good one tonight with Don Gullett pitching," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

"Maybe the rest will be one-run games too," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams.

The first two games of the best-of-7 series were played in Cincinnati last weekend, but the 3-2 and 2-1 Oakland successes were fashioned without any assistance from nature.

When the Series switched to the Oakland Coliseum this week, the starting time for the contest in California was 5:30 p.m. That's the worst time for a hitter because of the fast-fading light.

Cincinnati slugger Johnny Bench, who went 0-for-4 Wednesday night and struck out three times, had been apprehensive about the conditions.

"I hate to hit in the twilight in Oakland," he had said.

But while it hurt the major leagues' top home run hitter, it also didn't do too much for the Oakland team.

"I don't usually strike out that many batters," said Billingham, who fanned seven Athletics. "The twilight no doubt helped me."

There was no twilight, however, when Billingham tired in the ninth. The journeyman right-hander, who gave up three hits through eight innings, started the ninth by throwing three straight balls to Mike Epstein while the crowd of 49,401 at the Coliseum cheered.

Anderson then decided that Billingham had gone far enough.

Carroll then came in to preserve that shaky lead by getting Epstein on a bouncer, Sal Bando on a soft line drive and George Hendrick on an easy hit to the mound.

While he was in, Billingham, a right-hander with an unspectacular .500 lifetime record, was a superman as far as Oakland was concerned. He fed the A's a steady diet of sinker balls all allowed only three flies during his tenure.

The only hits that he gave up were a bunt single by Joe Rudi in the fourth and infield hits by Dick Green in the fifth and pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez in the seventh.

His only jam came in the sixth inning, when the A's had men on first and third with none out and the bases loaded with one man gone. But Billingham finished off the A's by getting Bando on a rally-killing double play.

John "Blue Moon" Odom was equally good for Oakland, striking out 11 before running into trouble in the seventh inning, when the Reds scored the game's only run.

Tony Perez singled and was sacrificed to second base by Denis Menke. Cesar Geronimo, hitless in his first nine World Series appearances, then laced a single to center field.

Perez barreled around third, slipped and fell on a field made soggy by 10 straight days of rain. But he picked himself up and scored the winning run when Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris made no relay throw.

Williams has tapped Ken Holtzman to face Gullett in a match up of hard-throwing southpaws tonight. The fifth game will also be played here Friday afternoon and the sixth

Holtz: Defense Will Be The Key

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lou Holtz, North Carolina State football coach, says defense will be the key in his Wolfpack's Saturday night home meeting with undefeated East Carolina of the Southern Conference.

"We have been having trouble rushing the passer, but this is one of their strong points," Holtz told a news conference Wednesday. "I think the effort on defense will be vital to the outcome."

"I respect East Carolina and know that they have a real good team. They execute well and don't beat themselves with turnovers, penalties or big plays," the Atlantic Coast Conference coach said.

East Carolina has won five games. N.C. State has won three, lost two and tied one.

At Virginia, which is preparing to meet Clemson, a team it has never beaten in their 13 meetings, Coach Don Lawrence said he was thankful that his freshmen have played an important role. Lawrence, who has used as many as nine freshmen in varsity games, said, "This has been of extra importance to us because of our depth situation. They have given us added strength where we needed it."

One of the freshmen, quarterback Scott Gardner, was named ACC Rookie of the Week for leading Virginia to a 45-14 victory over VMI last week.

Clemson, which will be the home team, devoted most of its practice session to pass offense and pass defense.

Clemson has lost its last four after opening with a 13-0 victory over The Citadel. Virginia is 3-3. Both have lost to Duke, Clemson by only 7-0 last week and Virginia by 37-13 three weeks ago.

Maryland, which plays at Duke, has not yielded a touchdown in the last 10 quarters. The Terp defense gave up 55 points in the first two games, but has surrendered only 39 in the last four.

Maryland leads the ACC in total defense, having given up 1,636 yards in six games, an average of just over 272. But Duke is right behind at 1,696 yards allowed.

Wake Forest emphasized defense against the running attack of North Carolina, whom the Deacons will meet in a regionally televised home game. It will start at 3:50 p.m., after the World Series game.

North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley announced that quarterback Johnny Klise has quit the team. The coach said the junior from Portsmouth, Va., apparently has given up football because he has not won a starting berth.

Financial Genius Vowed To Poverty

By ROBERT C. MILLER
SUVA, Fiji (UPI)—The newest financial genius of the South Pacific is an Illinois Jesuit, bound unto death by a vow of poverty, who parlayed faith and $45 into a $4 million banking institution.

And the man who hired the Rev. Marion Ganey, S.J., for the job 20 years ago was a 32nd degree Mason, Sir Ronald Garvey.

Father Ganey, who recently celebrated his first half century as a Jesuit, claims he was drunk more kawa (Polynesian festive beverage), told more stories, and spent more time squatting on mats than any other bank manager. For as the founder of the Fiji Credit Union, the 75-year-old Gillespie, Ill., Irishman went into the jungles, climbed the mountains and sailed endless miles in outrigger canoes to establish the credit unions.

"The chief of one Fijian village pointedly reminded me in his welcoming speech that his grandfather had killed and eaten the first missionary that visited the village," Father Ganey said. "But the chief explained that it had all been a mistake because the poor Baptist minister had violated a village taboo. We agreed to let bygones be bygones."

The handsome, grey-haired Midwesterner involved himself in other people's financial problems when he was assigned to the British Honduras fishing village of Puntagorda in 1944.

"These poor, ingenious people had no conception of money, and were suckers for the local money lenders who kept them perpetually in debt with fantastic interest charges," he said.

Credit Union Begun
"We scraped together $18 from the 35 most prosperous fishermen and organized the colony's first credit union. You could hear the usurers grinding their teeth all along the coast."

Today the British Honduras credit unions have more than 4,000 members and a record of more than $10 million being lent to villagers for their personal needs.

It was while he was in Honduras that Father Ganey came to the attention of the governor. And when Sir Ronald was transferred to Fiji, he asked the church to allow Father Ganey to continue his good work in the South Pacific.

"Sir Ronald must have been a very persuasive man—or maybe I underestimated the power of British diplomacy and the Church of England because the permission was granted, and I've been in the South Pacific ever since."

Father Ganey found the same conditions in Fiji that existed in the Caribbean. The easy-going, good natured Fijians were unfair game for the Indian money lenders who took full advantage of their lack of financial knowledge and bled them for every pence available.

"I was told the Fijians had no money sense," Father Ganey said. "The Indians and the British were convinced that they would be the world's worst credit risks. We were told that credit unions would never work, that we were wasting our time, and that the Fijians were nice, gentle, stupid islanders."

"But in the 20 years since we started, we have had but one case where a village credit union manager ran off with the money. The village handled the case themselves, subjected the culprit to the silent treatment (ousting him from the village and refused to talk with him). He made full restitution and has been a fine man ever since."

A Showman
The secret of Father Ganey's

success is probably his flair for showmanship. He has made the saving and lending of money a weekly village pageant, carried out with all the trappings of a religious ritual.

"We combine the Fijian's love for social gatherings with his village pride," Father Ganey explained. "There are always songs, story telling, long debates and detailed discussions at each meeting. It may take several hours before the villagers decide whether a $50 loan should be made for a new sail, or whether the credit union should increase its interest rates. It is a community enterprise involving everyone in the village, and I guess the biggest incentive all these years was the ridicule the Palangis (whites) and Indians had for the ability of the Polynesians to handle money."

In one village in Western Samoa, Father Ganey used a tactic to rescue a shaky village bank which few bank managers would approve: he gave the villagers the shirt off his back. "I merely presented them my white shirt and insisted that if the village credit union failed to bank their quota, they would fly my shirt from the village flag pole for all to see."

"And it worked. Three months later they slipped, and with all the sorrow of a funeral, they flew my shirt and were so ridiculed and scorned by the neighboring villagers that the shirt came down at the next meeting and the quota was back far above what it had been."

Today there are 320 branches of the Fiji Credit Union on all the new republic's islands, and a school for credit union

Lost Decision; Stay Married

DETROIT (AP) — A 45-year-old Detroit man is still married after attempting to win a divorce on grounds that inequity in income tax laws penalized married couples.

Charles Hammond, a postal clerk, and his wife Marie took the decision of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Maher philosophically Wednesday and left the court smiling, arm-in-arm.

"We love each other and we did this mainly as a protest against income tax laws that penalize people for being married," Hammond said. "But we are going to appeal this."

Their combined income of $18,000 was taxed $357 more because they were married than if they had been single and living together, Hammond said.

Under questioning, Hamond stated that he and his wife were still living together and intended to continue living together even if they received a divorce.

HELPING
NEW YORK (UPI) — A U.S. Department of Agriculture study shows that husbands average about one-and-one-half hours a day on yard care, car upkeep and chauffeuring children — regardless of whether the wife is a full-time homemaker or employed.

High Rise Life Said Failure For Kids

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The old-fashioned farm house has a lot more going for it than its bucolic setting. It's a good place to rear children. For that matter, the ranch house and even the city apartment may be equally good places for young people.

"People have a better chance to be law abiding when they are dispersed in communities," concluded Police Superintendent John Radley, 37, of Nuneaton, Warwickshire, England, after a three-month tour of the United States to study the effects of environmental pressures of high density living on young people. The trip was motivated because England is "beginning to have some problems," he says.

Radley's wide experience in the constabulary ranges from beat constable to his present position. He is training for a social science degree and was awarded the Winston Churchill Traveling Fellowship to study the housing situation. His report will state that the high rise public housing development is a failure in the United States.

"In England we have built a number of new estates—18 or 20 stories—for people displaced from slum areas. But these people just don't know how to cope in such buildings. For one thing Mum is 15 stories up and the kids are down on the ground."

As any parent knows, it is hard enough to keep track of one's offspring when they are underfoot, much less when they are five or 10 minutes away by elevator.

And that is one big problem with the high rise, Radley observed. Great security blanks are caused by elevators. More must be done with them architecturally—perhaps "some form of reinforced perspectives" so one can see into the elevator.

With other police officers he visited one area where he wouldn't enter the building, much less enter the elevator.

"In such buildings in Chicago, they are experimenting with some form of security, but I was told they are not going to build any more high rises for public dwellings. That doesn't apply to people living in the $400-a-month high rises on the lake," he added.

Seven days after he arrived in the United States, Radley, a big man, well over 6 feet, was mugged, he says, "at tea time" while waiting for a bus in New York. On that occasion he responded to the request for money by kicking the robber in the groin, a good thing to remember, he advises.

their basement offices" in a few cities. Reaction in their lairs to police was not hostile, he observed, but a patrol car is something else. In one instance at Watts "angry young men" would saunter out in front of a car driven by a plainclothes-man, stop it, and walk slowly away. Rapport between police and gangs is necessary to protect neighborhoods from violence, he has decided, although it might be a little riskier for the police than the gangs.

Introducing the 1973 Beetle:

Re-introducing the 1972 price:

With the price of our new Beetle still under $2,000,* the Volkswagen Beetle is a bigger buy than ever before.

More warranty, for instance, than you get with any other small car. Twice more. 24 months or 24,000 miles.**

More attention to specific details than ever (and that's quite a lot). More than 1,000 inspectors meticulously scrutinizing more than 5,000 parts. Some two or three times. For us, it's not enough to get it right, we want it perfect.

Volkswagen also has the most advanced automotive service system in the world. A brand new computer is, or soon will be, waiting in our service area. We simply plug it in to your VW, and it checks, via sensors and probes, vital service parts and spells out the results in plain English. That's service.

Maybe all of this explains why VW owners have gotten more resale dollars after three or four years than the owners of any other comparable car.†

Obviously, it's not only the price of the '73 Beetle that reminds you of the good old days. It's also the quality.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

*1973 Volkswagen Sedan III suggested retail price, P.O.E. local taxes and other dealer charges, if any, additional.
**If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear and service items) will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge.†See your dealer for details.

Phosphate Removal Said Risky

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — A University of North Carolina environmental engineer has spoken out strongly against replacing phosphates with caustic compounds in detergents.

Dr. Daniel A. Okun told the North Carolina Public Health Association in a prepared talk that removal of phosphates from detergents would mean "exposing all society to a clear risk while obtaining a very questionable benefit."

Removal of phosphates, he said, "is not likely to be beneficial" even in areas where eutrophication or overgrowth of algae in rivers and lakes is a problem.

He added that if phosphates are removed from detergents "something must replace them if we want detergents to clean our clothes."

"The only substitutes for phosphate detergents currently in use in the United States are caustic compounds," he said. "These generally do not create problems in the environment because they are quickly diluted in dishwater, but in the dry form in which they are used in the home they can cause severe damage to the throat, larynx, esophagus, skin or especially the eyes."

Okun added that some medical authorities have estimated that if such alkaline material were allowed to inundate the U.S. market, some 10,000 to 30,000 crippling or deaths would result each year.

Okun said one common misconception "in our society today is that efforts in water pollution control will result in improvement in the quality of our drinking water."

However, "efforts in the water supply field" have been neglected while funds for research and regulation have gone to waste water treatment.

He said about half the people who drink water from public water systems in the U.S. use waters which were in part discharged only hours before from industrial or municipal sewers.

Okun said conventional wastewater treatment does not eliminate viruses that are always present in human wastes and most do not remove industrial and domestic chemicals.

"It is my thesis that not only do current popular pressures for environmental quality not promise improved health, but in many instances, they may in fact have deleterious consequences."

"And it is the role of the health worker to put environmental issues into proper perspective so that the solution to one environmental problem doesn't create hazards to man's health that are far more serious," Okun stated.

WAITING FOR THE FIRST FROST . . . The local wild persimmon crop is a good one this year. The tart, mouth puckering orange-gold fruit will be ready for eating as soon as the first frost comes to sweeten the sticky fruit. The persimmon is a favorite food for opossums and some species of birds. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Firemen Called To Get 'Rescuer'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Firemen hear it all the time — a call to come rescue a cat from a tree.

The call they got Tuesday evening was slightly different.

A cat ran up a tree, all right, and meowed for help. Then came the switch.

A teen-age boy climbed the tree in a rescue attempt. And he couldn't get down.

Firemen rescued the boy. The cat apparently made it to the ground without help.

"He was really embarrassed," firemen B. W. Pickett said of the boy. "We didn't ask him his name."

Permits Revoked By ABC Board

FOUNTAIN — Beer and wine permits issued to James Lester Ellis for Lester Ellis' Store and Service Station, Route 1, Fountain, were revoked by the State ABC Board October 16.

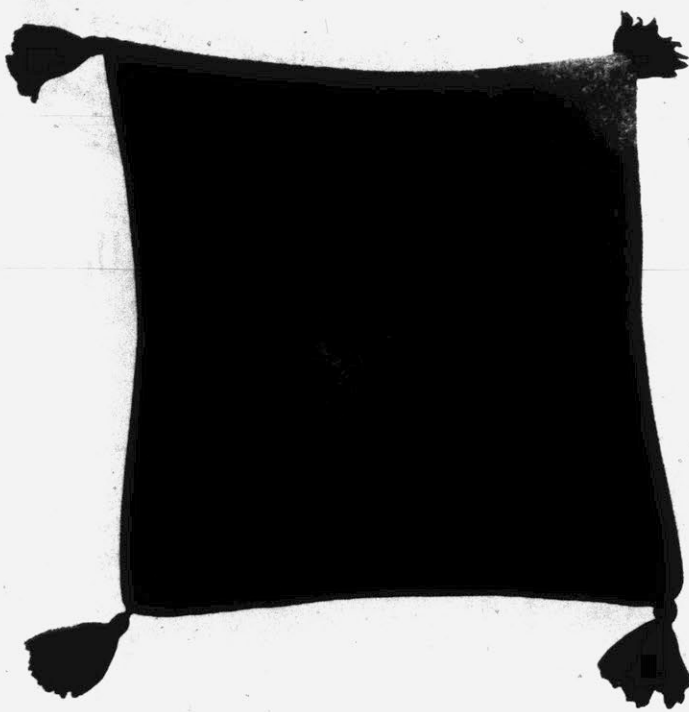

According to the Board, the permits were revoked "because permittee did on June 4, 1972, sell and/or allow the sale of wine during illegal hours and possesses, for the purpose of sale, tax-paid whiskey on the retail licensed premises . . ."

LBJ WILL SPEAK CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson will speak at University of Virginia graduation ceremonies here next June, according to Pat Patrick, the senior class president.

East's total passivity proved fatal to the defense in today's hand and enabled South to salvage his four heart contract.

When South's opening one heart bid was overcalled by West with one spade and passed by the next two players, the former properly reopened the proceedings with a double since he had 19 points with a good six card suit. Altho North only bid two hearts, South gave him another chance by carrying on to three. Without a ruffing value, perhaps North should have declined the invitation but—influenced by the heart fit—he persisted to game.

West opened the king of spades on which East gave an encouraging signal with the eight and declarer played the jack. A small spade was continued and East put up the ace which South ruffed with the three of hearts.

It appears that the success of declarer's contract hinges on finding the ace of diamonds favorably located, but South despaired of East's holding that card after the latter turned up with the ace of spades, for, holding two aces—he might have been expected to take some action when his partner overcalled. South sought for a method that would enable him to cope with adverse distribution and finally, he decided that his best chance was to end play West.

A heart was led to North's nine and a third spade was trumped in the closed hand with the ten of hearts as both opponents followed suit. The ace, king, queen of clubs were cashed next and when the sequence of plays survived without casualty, South was ready. A heart was led to the jack and the West showed out, the last heart was permitted to remain at large. A space was led from dummy on which East gave up his last club. Declarer discarded the deuce of diamonds and West was in.

A spade return would permit South to ruff with North's ace of hearts while another diamond was sluffed from the closed hand. In desperation, West underled the ace of diamonds in the hope that East held the king. South showed up with that card, however, and claimed his contract—conceding one diamond to his opponents. In all, he lost two spade tricks and one diamond.

East had two opportunities to thwart his adversary. He could have overtaken the king of spades at the opening gun and switched to a high diamond which would have enabled his side to cash out the setting trick before the initiative was surrendered. We do not charge him with an error on this account because the issue was by no means clear at this stage.

When the fourth round of spades was led from dummy after clubs were stripped out, it should have been obvious that West was threatened with an end play if nature was allowed to take its course, and East should have bent every effort to thwart declarer's plans. If he ruffs in with the worthless eight of hearts, South must overruff to prevent a diamond shift and then the latter is forced to play diamonds himself after which the defense cannot be prevented from winning three tricks in the suit.

South sought for a method that would enable him to died last Easter. "He had a heart attack following a golf game. "But he was only 47 years old! "And next day our own former Governor Ellington, of Tennessee, also died of a heart attack while playing a round of golf with his friends. "Yet he was only 64. Is golf that strenuous a sport? "Why, when President Eisenhower suffered a mild heart attack, the doctors allowed him to play golf during his convalescence! "So, Dr. Crane, what are the facts?"

Strenuous Sports Obviously, golf is not as severe a strain on the heart as are tennis, track and several other sports.

But it involves more energy than many people suppose, even including occasional physicians! For a golfer expends 25 percent more energy than the average bricklayer.

Yet President Eisenhower was permitted to play golf while recuperating from a heart attack!

And you housewives also engage in more strenuous exercise than a bricklayer while ironing clothes or hanging wet laundry on the line!

Do you think I'm joking? Then look at the following table from Page 736 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied."

That table shows the "Calories per minute" that are demanded for various types of activity and are derived from Dr. E. E. Gordon's report in our magazine titled "Modern Medicine":

|                      |           |

| Playing piano        | 2.5       |
| Normal walking       | 3.6       |
| Making beds          | 3.9       |
| Laying bricks        | 4.0       |
| Ironing clothes      | 4.2       |
| Bowling              | 4.4       |

Heart attacks are usually linked with middle age and upward.

But many young people, even in the teens or twenties, also get them.

Floating tiny clots of blood may thus lodge in a coronary artery and plug it (coronary embolus).

Or the artery's walls may be thickened via tobacco and other irritants, until it is plugged (coronary thrombus).

Prevention consists chiefly of regular, athletic exercise in your youth to develop larger hearts with bigger coronary arteries.

Plus the avoidance of tobacco, obesity and probably cholesterol foods that may dam the blood vessels via fatty deposits.

During an attack, the only effective remedy is oxygen! And quickly!

So breathe fast and deeply, for the air contains 20 percent oxygen.

You can thus help your hampered heart IMMEDIATELY with the air's oxygen, without waiting 30 minutes for an ambulance and bottled oxygen!

So send for my booklet "How to Break the Tobacco and Liquor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Alcohol also fools heart patients by deadening the pain, so they then tend to exert their wounded heart unduly; hence, a coronary attack!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Count But 2 Combat Dead

SAIGON (AP) — Two Americans were reported killed in the Vietnam war last week, five were missing and four were wounded, the U.S. Command reported today. For the first time in seven years of weekly casualty reports, no deaths from nonhostile causes were listed.

The combat death toll was down sharply from the previous week, when 19 men were killed in an explosion aboard the cruiser Newport News. But last week's casualties were in line with the totals in recent months.

South Vietnamese casualties were the highest in seven weeks: 576 killed, 2,421 wounded and 188 missing. The South Vietnamese command claimed 1,722 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed, 321 less than the week before.

Annual Event Of FWB Churches

Para-Police Said Ghetto Need

By JAKE BOOHER
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Police chiefs worried about poor community relations in the ghettos have heard a proposal for improving the situation: recruitment of para-professionals from the neighborhoods to work with regular officers.

The proposal was made at the International Association of Chiefs of Police annual conference Wednesday by James W. Shumar, chief crime and delinquency adviser for community development of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Shumar said that police frequently are trained to be impersonal in performing their duties, which they primarily regard as catching criminals.

"However, when it comes to dealing with human affairs — with people problems — the attitude of detachment and the cold, impersonal approach simply does not work," Shumar added.

He said that police cannot properly perform even their criminal-catching duties without support from the community.

Shumar, in an interview prior to his presentation to the chiefs, said the para-professional would be recruited right out of the neighborhoods in which he would work, and would be conditioned to accept responsibility for overseeing services to his community.

Shumar acknowledged that such a recruit isn't always going to fit the old-time image of how the boys-in-blue should look and behave.

But he said, "The fellow who has grown up in the ghetto is much better able to relate to its problems. He hears their complaints with a much more tuned ear than the officer who is not experienced in the ghetto."

He asserted that day after day, armed police trained to catch criminals are called to assist in quieting family quarrels or handling juvenile problems simply because there is no other agency for the public to call.

Shumar acknowledged there are problems in getting para-professional police programs going. The department has invested several million dollars giving it a try in cities that include Chicago, Tampa, Fla., and Richmond, Calif.

He said snags have been hit in some cases with the problem of getting white policemen to work with black para-professionals.

And, he said, in too many cases, paraprofessionals have been assigned menial jobs that neither made optimum use of their talents, nor the talents of the police officers who might otherwise be freed for criminal-catching duties.

Replacements Ready To Fill TV Casualty Slots

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As in real warfare, television keeps a steady supply of replacements lined up before the first casualty reports of the season are known.

In the past few months the networks have been busy signing scores of development deals for new shows. Only a handful will ever reach the pilot stage.

A few of the shows will be pressed into service at midseason, when the first casualties fall by the wayside, but the fate of most of the proposed shows will not be known until the networks draw up next fall's schedules in February or

March.

At least one new show, a half-hour comedy called "Here We Go Again," is already in production for a midseason slot on ABC. It stars Larry Hagman, Diane Baker, Dick Gautier and Nita Talbot in a comedy about two couples who exchange spouses.

ABC also has ordered six scripts for "Indict and Convict," a projected hour drama about the California attorney general's office. A two-hour pilot movie, starring George Grizzard, has been completed.

By far, most of the shows under development are half-hour situation comedies.

The networks, particularly

NBC, had begun to edge away from a preponderance of half-hour shows after the Federal Communications Commission lopped off 30 minutes of network prime time every night.

NBC was down to only four half-hour shows in prime time for the week. An executive of that network said recently he is looking for more half-hour shows.

Television has moved away from comedy for several years, but suddenly humor is big on the tube again. Situation comedy has moved away from the gimmicks and the fantasy. You can thank "All in the Family," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Room 222" for that.

They're the shows that introduced realism to situation comedy and gave the whole genre new vitality.

Unless they rise in the ratings soon, among the most likely casualties are "Alias Smith & Jones," "The Men," "The Sixth Sense" and Julie Andrews on ABC, "The Bold Ones" and "Banyon" on NBC and CBS' "Anna and the King." Julie Andrews deserves a better fate. Hopefully the show can be moved to an earlier hour.

May Indicate Mental Illness

NEW YORK (UPI)—Disturbing behavior may be an indication of mental or emotional illness. This is according to the NAMH Reporter, official publication of the National Association for Mental Health.

Troublesome persons may be persons in trouble and the article suggests sympathetic understanding rather than criticism and antagonism when dealing with people who have such mental problems.

2,000 Years Of No Spaghetti

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Lovers of present-day Neapolitan menus may find it hard to believe, but this city survived for more than 2,000 years without spaghetti or tomatoes.

Greek settlers founded Naples in the 8th century B.C. Venetian traveler Marco Polo brought spaghetti from China to Europe only in the 13th century A.D. It was another three centuries before tomatoes, imported from the Americas as ornamental plants, came into use as food.

Platinum coins circulated in Russia between 1828 and 1845.
