Third Child A Luxury

SINGAPORE (AP) — The government announced today it will take action against families who refuse to practice family planning after August 1973.

A Health Ministry policy statement to Parliament said that in modern Singapore a third child is a luxury and fourth and fifth child are "antisocial acts."

Families with more than two children will get lower priority for public housing under a government-subsidized scheme that provides apartments for 40 per cent of Singapore's two million residents.

Maternity fees will be higher and maternity leave shorter for mothers with more than two children, the statement added.

Plans are to encourage sterility and family planning programs so that the basic birth rate in 1980 is 14.8 per thousand instead of 25.7, which would be the normal estimated increase. At that point the rate of natural increase would be less than 1 per cent.

The estimated basic birth rate for 1972 is 23.3 per thousand.

$50 Million Expansion

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A $50 million expansion program for Walt Disney World, including a new hotel and 300 campsites, was announced Saturday by Disney officials.

The officials said the largest of the planned attractions was a reproduction of one of the most popular attractions at Disneyland in California, the RCA Corporation's Space Mountain and Pirates of the Caribbean.

The hotel would be a 153-room golf resort overlooking the final holes of the two Disney golf courses, officials said.

They said construction of the hotel would begin as soon as the Disney World Open Golf Championship ended in December.

Other new additions included in the expansion program are Tom Sawyer's Ireland, featuring an old fort and a tree house; the Walt Disney Story, a new movie about the founder of the Disney empire; a sternwheeler to join the parks other paddleboat and plaza swan boats to be used in the theme park canals.

In the Fort Wilderness camping area, officials said 300 sites would be added to the present facilities for 500 as well as a new swimming area and a train.

Disney spokesmen said new monorail trains and water buses would be added to speed up the transporting of visitors around the 27,000-acre vacation kingdom.

Scott To New Orleans

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott will be out of the state again this week, this time to speak at a National Tree Planting Conference in New Orleans.

The speech will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Rivergate Hotel in New Orleans.

Scott returned Saturday from a week in Japan as part of a Tar Heel industry-hunting mission.

He will speak Sunday at 7 p.m. at the North Carolina State Grange's fellowship dinner in Durham. Monday he will be off for Veterans Day along with other state employees.

Wednesday the governor is to be back from Louisiana and will attend the N.C. Extension Homemakers Association luncheon in Raleigh at 12:30 p.m.

Next Saturday he will attend the N.C. State-South Carolina football game in Carter Stadium in Raleigh.

Comb Offshore Isles

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The search for Democratic House Majority Leader Hale Boggs was concentrated Saturday around a group of offshore islands after the Air Force said it re-evaluated reports by California citizens band radio operators who placed a plane in trouble in the area.

The Air Force said a voice heard by the radio operators could have come from the plane carrying Boggs and three others that has been missing in Alaska for six days.

Other indications surfaced that the twin-engine Cessna 310 might have been in the area of Sitka, a city located on one of three islands south of Juneau. The plane was carrying Boggs from Anchorage to Juneau for a fund-raising dinner when it disappeared Monday.

Pilot Don E. Jonz had asked about the weather at Sitka before he took off, an Air Force spokesman said.

Jonz frequently used Sitka as an alternate landing strip when Juneau was closed because of bad weather, the spokesman said, which was the case on Monday.

'Normal' In S. Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Sports fans flocked to games, officials announced further meetings with North Korea and life appeared normal today under South Korea's martial law.

But troops, some with fixed bayonets, guarded key points, including the disbanded National Assembly.

Tight censorship on the domestic press and a ban on political activities also continued, and universities remained closed.

Sources reported that some opposition leaders were virtually under house arrest, but no formal arrests of politicians have been reported.

Thieu Said Barring Tripartite Rule

Saigon: No 'Temporary Peace'

By TRACY WOOD

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu and the South Vietnamese National Security Council turned down a "temporary peace solution" discussed during talks with President Nixon's special adviser Henry A. Kissinger, the newspaper Tin Song reported Saturday.

"These suggestions are completely unacceptable from the standpoint of the Vietnamese government which is restoring an honorable peace that will last forever for the country," said the report.

Tin Song (Live News) is partially financed by Hoang Duc Nha, Thieu's nephew and personal secretary, who has participated in the three days of talks between Kissinger and South Vietnamese government leaders.

The newspaper did not give details of the "temporary peace solution." Other sources have indicated discussions with the North Vietnamese at the Paris peace talks included proposals for a cease-fire and a halt in United States bombing of the North, with other major political issues to be decided later.

Cambodia Next Stop

The South Vietnamese government also plastered thousands of posters on buildings throughout Saigon proclaiming Thieu's strong opposition to any peace plan that included a coalition with the Communists.

Kissinger conferred for three hours with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam Saturday but did not meet with Thieu. Kissinger held a total of 8 1/2 hours of talks with Thieu since arriving in the Southeast Asian republic Wednesday night.

U.S. embassy sources in Phnom Penh said Kissinger would leave Saigon for Cambodia Sunday morning to discuss the Indochina War with President Lon Nol.

Bookies in Phnom Penh were offering 20-to-1 odds in favor of a cease-fire declaration during the weekend.

Plumbing the Depths

Official spokesmen for the South Vietnamese government and the U.S. embassy gave no details of Kissinger's talks. But the appearance of the two-foot-long posters indicated Thieu had not softened his resistance to a three-part government with the Communists.

"To accept the farcial three-part government is to welcome the gang of Communist aggressors into our house," said one of the posters.

"The so-called tripartite government is just an arbitrary solution that deprives the South Vietnamese people of their right of self-determination," said another.

"We are the only ones who can guarantee with certainty that South Vietnam will not fall into the hands of the Communists," said a third.

U.S. embassy sources in Saigon said that by the time Kissinger left the capital he would be able to tell Nixon "exactly what limits and what horizons encompass the solidly entrenched Thieu regime."

"They are plumbing the depths," a spokesman said. "Kissinger, representing President Nixon, and President Thieu each stated how far each side would go, how far they could back down, how many personnel and materiel losses they are willing and able to sustain."

Kissinger, William Sullivan, the deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asia affairs, and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker took part in the three-hour meeting with Lam Saturday.

Thieu met with Kissinger for five hours Thursday and three and one half hours Friday.

Nixon Offers Self As Spokesman For A New American Majority

By CRAIG A. PALMER
THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon offered himself Saturday as the leader of a new majority of "good, decent people" who oppose power-hungry politicians' demands for higher taxes, job quotas, income redistribution and busing. In his third weekend radio speech of the campaign, a 15-minute paid political broadcast from his Camp David, Md., retreat, the President never mentioned George S. McGovern or the Democratic party by name.

But he rejected the "alien paternalism" of those who he said "have more faith in government than they have in people" and believe that only an ever-stronger bureaucracy in Washington knows what is best.

"It is time that good, decent people stopped letting themselves be bulldozed by anybody who presumes to be the self-righteous moral judge of our society," Nixon said.

Not Pessimistic
He said Nixon was reviewing 132 bills passed in the dying days of the 92nd Congress to determine "a list of possible veto prospects" to keep federal earn, about wanting your children in good schools close to home, or about wanting to be judged fairly on your ability," he said.

Nixon's chief domestic affairs adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, told reporters meanwhile that the President almost certainly would veto a compromise HEW-Labor Department appropriations bill that is roughly a half-billion dollars above his budget request.

Ehrlichman also called McGovern a "liar" for suggesting in a political broadcast Friday night that the economy was in worse shape under the administration than when the Democrats left office in 1969.

In a briefing at a snow-capped gateway to the presidential compound, Ehrlichman also noted predictions by some members of the Business Council meeting at Hot Springs, Va., that a tax increase was inevitable in the near future.

Another Speech Sunday
As for McGovern's criticism of Nixon economic policies, Ehrlichman said, "I remember very well when I was a kid that the minister's son was the biggest liar in class.

spending under control. "I would by no means rule out the possibility of being able to avoid higher taxes next year," Ehrlichman said.

"The President is determined to do everything he can to avoid higher taxes next year. We by no means are pessimistic by this review that is going on right now."

Bills subject to veto would include "just plain budget busters," such as the HEW-Labor appropriations, and others that "create little kingdoms within the federal bureaucracy," he said without elaboration.

The HEW-Labor bill total is $30.5 billion, identical to one Nixon had vetoed earlier as inflationary, but includes provisions for discretionary White House cuts that could trim the total to $29.3 billion. This still is about $500 million above Nixon's request.

Field reports said that the heaviest fighting in the Saigon area Saturday was at Hoa Nhut hamlet and militia post, 13 miles north of Saigon.

Fighting In Saigon Area

By ALAN DAWSON

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese and Communist troops fought for control of two hamlets and a militia outpost Saturday within 15 miles of Saigon where U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger held a third day of talks with government officials.

Saigon Mayor Col. Do Kien Nhieu ordered a general tightening of security in Saigon to guard against expected commando and terror raids inside the capital before the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential elections.

U.S. B52 bombers dumped more than 600 tons of high explosives in seven raids around Saigon between noon Friday and noon Saturday, spokesmen said. The bombing strikes could be clearly heard inside the capital. Jet fighters in support of embattled government forces, the U.S. command said.

In Saigon, government workers plastered walls with thousands of posters denouncing any coalition government. Political observers said that the Nguyen Van Thieu administration appeared to be publicly vetoing any attempt to end the war by the imposition of a coalition.

Kissinger's third day in Saigon Saturday was relatively quiet. He talked for three hours with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam at the minister's home, and spent the rest of the day with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. Army chief of staff.

Field reports said that the heaviest fighting in the Saigon area Saturday was at Hoa Nhut hamlet and militia post, 13 miles north of Saigon.

The battle actually began Thursday, when the Communists took over the hamlet and forced the militiamen out of the post. Friday, South Vietnamese regulars and the militia force attacked guerrillas entrenched in Hoa Nhut.

At one point during Saturday's fighting, two Communist soldiers faked a surrender to the government forces. When the South Vietnamese moved up to "capture" the guerrillas, they were ambushed, field officers said.

Two miles north at Bung Cau hamlet, 15 miles from Saigon, Communist troops late Friday entered the town's market and warned residents of the hamlet to leave, refugees said Saturday.

Over North Vietnam Friday, U.S. jets flew through generally bad weather to attack in 190 bombing raids, the U.S. command said Saturday. Nine waves of B52 bombers backed up the jets with raids in the lower panhandle, including six missions over the Mu Gia pass, the major route to the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos, 75 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

U.S. Air Force planes using laser-guided "smart bombs" and regular high explosive bombs raided the Kep railroad yard 40 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Coup In Egypt Failed

LONDON (UPI) — Egyptian army officers tried to overthrow President Anwar Sadat's government last week, the British Broadcasting Corp (BBC) said Saturday night.

"According to the reports, the plot collapsed when one group was stopped by chance in the center of Cairo by a military policeman," the BBC said in a newscast.

The BBC foreign affairs correspondents said between 200 and 300 Egyptian army officers were believed to have been arrested after the coup attempt failed. "According to reports reaching Eastern Europe and the West, two groups of officers drove into Cairo a week ago to try to capture President Sadat," the BBC said.

One group then was halted by the policeman, the plot was discovered and the plan fell apart, it said.

"The officers are reported to have been protesting against Egypt's failure to wage full scale-war against Israel and against the union of Egypt with Libya," it said. "The BBC said there seemed 'no suggestion the attempted coup had major military or political support and the current situation is expected to remain unaffected.'"

Cancer Now Being Found Most Often In Lungs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cancer of the lung, the variety that holds the least possibility of survival, is increasing so rapidly that the lungs are now the spot where cancer is found most often, the American Cancer Society said Saturday.

Lung cancer kills up to 91 per cent of its victims and its incidence in the United States has been steadily growing, ACS reported. The rate this year among men, who are most often affected, is 18 times greater than it was 40 years ago.

Despite the grim figures, the society said lung cancer "is a largely preventable disease, since most lung cancer is caused by smoking."

"Unfortunately, it is difficult to diagnose in time for cure," ACS said in its publication "73 Cancer Fact and Figures."

Low Female Incidence
There will be 79,000 new cases of lung cancer during 1973, the society estimated, 3,000 more than during 1972. The predicted incidence for lung cancer matches that for cancer of the colon and rectum—a disease that has stabilized in recent years in its incidence and mortality.

"Lung cancer will result in the highest number of cancer deaths this year—72,000—with colon-rectum next at 47,000," the ACS publication said.

Lung cancer has relatively low incidence among women, although it is increasing steadily. Breast cancer, with 72,000 new cases and 32,400 deaths expected in 1973, is the most common variety among women.

Cancer in all its varieties is the second most common cause of death in the United States after heart disease, the society said, with a toll of more than 318,000 people, or 16.5 per cent of all deaths, according to the most recent federal statistics (1968).

The American Cancer Society estimates 350,000 persons will die of cancer in 1973, while 222,000 people will be saved from cancer.

Gadget Makes People Believe In Seat Belts

RALEIGH (AP) — A gadget in operation at the North Carolina State Fair has made over 20,000 persons believers in seat belts.

The gadget, sponsored by the Governor's Highway Safety Program, shows the effect of sudden stops at low speeds.

Elbert L. Peters Jr., coordinator for the Governor's Highway Safety Program, said more than 2,000 persons have ridden the device and some 20,000 have observed the operation.

The device consists of a seat mounted on a track. It is designed to permit the rider to travel at about 7 miles per hour before being stopped abruptly at the end of the track.

Peters noted this simulates the jolt a motorist receives when his automobile collides with a fixed object at about 7 miles per hour.

"I'm thoroughly convinced," said Fred Tyner of Raleigh as he was dismounted from the device. While his wife and two daughters looked on, a representative of the Governor's Highway Safety Program attached a label on Tyner's jacket saying, "I'm convinced."

Most riders also expressed surprise at the jolt caused by the 7-mile-per-hour stop.

"I had no idea it would be that rough," said Mrs. Rita Anderson of Raleigh. "Imagine what it would be like at 40 or 50 miles per hour."

But some riders were not surprised. "I've been convinced for years," said Highway Patrolman A. G. Wright of Bethel. "I've seen the difference seat belts can make in highway crashes. Convincing people here may save their lives later."

Extremist Talk Given Support

By DONAL O'HIGGINS BELFAST (UPI)—Protestant extremist leader William Craig claimed growing support Saturday for his pledge to "shoot to kill" to keep Northern Ireland British. Incidents of violence, meanwhile, continued unabated, especially in rural areas.

"We have been getting a steady stream of support messages," the leader of the extremist Vanguard movement told newsmen. "They come not only from loyalists but from others outside their ranks—including businessmen."

Despite his claim of support for the call to arms which he initially made Thursday in a speech to a Conservative club in London, Craig was denounced by a number of prominent Protestant politicians.

But a spokesman at Vanguard's Belfast headquarters said telegrams and telephone calls of support have been pouring in. "100 percent behind Mr. Craig" and his statement that he and his followers are "prepared to come out and shoot to kill" to keep Northern Ireland from being united with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

The week's outbreak of attacks on Catholic property and businesses continued Saturday.

Fires Nridaz night damaged a Catholic church in Feytown and a Catholic-owned pub outside Belfast. In other incidents, six masked gunmen blew up two sand barges on Lough Neagh, 15 miles west of Belfast, police said. The men on the barges were put ashore before they were dynamited.

Protestant extremist splinter groups spoke up for Craig. The outlawed Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF) pledged "our full support as a military force. When the crunch comes we will be there."

The Loyalist (Protestant) Women's Action Committee, which claims 40,000 members, also promised full backing.

Plan Begin Planetarium Project Within Year

Construction is expected to start within a year on the proposed planetarium at East Carolina University, according to ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins.

Dr. Jenkins voiced that opinion while commenting on a $145,000 allotment from the state Contingency and Emergency Appropriation granted by the Governor and Council of State earlier this month.

According to the ECU head, the C and E appropriation is contingent upon matching funds coming from federal sources and is to revert to C and E if not matched. But, Dr. Jenkins emphasized, officials foresee no difficulty in securing the federal matching grant.

Present plans call for construction of the planetarium on property acquired by the university along Eighth Street over the past few years at a cost of about $116,750.

Planetarium funds currently available—in addition to the $145,000 from the Council of State—included some $47,500 in cash donations, $100,000 from American Credit Co. in Charlotte, $13,000 in equipment fund budgeted for the 1972-73 fiscal year, $2,000 contributed by Pitt County alumni, $20,000 in National Science Foundation grant money, and a block of Little Mint Inc. stock currently valued at about $45,000.

The federal matching money—slated to come from the Higher Education Facilities Act—will amount to about $253,600, according to Dr. Jenkins. This, he said, will bring the total money available for the project to total about $644,100. The remainder of the $800,000 projected cost of the planetarium facility, Dr. Jenkins said, is being requested of the state Advisory Budget Commission.

Those close to the project feel sure the needed money will be included by the budget advisory group in their proposals to the North Carolina General Assembly which meets again in January.

Ambitious 'Congress Project'

Nader Assesses Jones Conservative

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A gaggle of students and young researchers working under the auspices of consumer advocate Ralph Nader have reported that North Carolina's members of Congress are everything from "courtly," "judicious," and "friendly" to "lackluster" and inefficient.

As the second phase of Nader's ambitious Congress Project, the young researchers compiled 20-page booklets on all Congressmen, except those retiring at the end of this term. The reports were released to the news media Friday for publication Sunday.

The reports were based, according to Nader associate Harrison Wellford, on interviews with the Congressmen, interviews with their constituents and associates, and library research into their voting records. Computers were used, in one instance, to cross-check Congressmen's reports of their financial holdings with the records of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Each report contains a narrative evaluation of the Congressman as well as tables and statistics on his voting record—both on the floor and in committee—ratings by political interest groups, and demographic profiles of each district.

Wellford said the researchers represented all shades of political opinion, who produced reports that were as "unbiased as we can make them."

He said the reports were released during the campaign because "this is when people are most interested in Congress." He added that it was not, in his opinion, unfair to probe only into the records of incumbents and not their opponents.

"The advantages of incumbency are so enormous, because of media exposure and the franking privilege. And, the incumbents ought to run on their records," he said.

Wellford said the reactions of 380 Congressmen who saw draft copies of their profiles were 84 per cent favorable. "The unfavorable reactions were about evenly divided between liberals and conservatives," he said.

Following are capsule summaries of the Nader profiles for the nine North Carolina Congressmen running for re-election. There were no reports on Reps. Charles R. Jonas, Alton Lennon, or Sen. B. Everett Jordan, all of whom are retiring. A Nader spokesman said the profile on Sen. Sam Ervin was delayed.

REP. WALTER B. JONES: The First District Democrat was characterized as a man who believes "that government governs best which governs least." The report cited his recent conversion to a "moderate dove" on the Vietnam War and his strong support of defense spending.

Much of his activity, it said, is directed toward his district, with the three bills he authored in the current session of Congress all dealing with tobacco. But the report noted that the district receives less than the national per capita average in government spending. The Nader assessment of Jones' voting record placed him in the "conservative coalition" of Southern Democrats and Republicans. It noted his opposition to model cities, urban renewal, poverty programs and several environmental issues.

Galifianakis Is Pushed For Role In Agriculture

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Nick Galifianakis brought his senatorial campaign to Greenville Friday amid strong pledges of support from several veteran politicians, including the man he defeated in the Democratic primary last May.

Accompanied by the chairman of the important Senate Agricultural Committee, Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, the Durham congressman received a rousing welcome both at the airport here and later at a luncheon with local supporters.

Galifianakis earlier Friday received a campaign boost from Sen. B. Everett Jordan during a Raleigh breakfast gathering when the Saxapahaw senator, who lost primary and runoff elections to the young representative announced his support and pushed for Galifianakis' appointment to a vacancy on the agricultural committee.

Aiming his campaign visit at the agriculture-oriented populace of the east, Galifianakis reminded supporters at the airport that "during the course of the campaign we have pointed out that an issue that is important to Eastern North Carolina as well as to the rest of the state is tobacco and agriculture and all the other agriculture commodities that produce prosperity for our people."

Talmadge echoing the congressman's sentiments on the importance of agriculture, pointed out that North Carolina "is one of the greatest agricultural states in America. You have more than 150,000 farms in North Carolina. You produce agricultural commodities that sell for a billion and a half dollars a year and 60 percent of those...commodities are farm crops."

"Next year," he continued, "we will have to extend or rewrite our principal farm program. That will be the first order of business. We have always had very effective representation from North Carolina on the agriculture committee," he said, noting that he served with both the late Kerr Scott and Jordan.

"I hope that we will have on our committee next January Nick Galifianakis to help us look after the agriculture interest not only of North Carolina but of this nation. We need strong friends of agriculture in Washington at the present time. The farmers have less than six per cent of the population of the United States and most people disregard the importance of agriculture."

Talmadge said that Galifianakis has "been an outstanding leader in effectively supporting agriculture, rural development, REA, the tobacco program, cotton program, feed grain program and other programs that mean so much to rural America."

He reported that the Republicans have 45 members of the U.S. Senate while the Democrats have 55 members, and with a heavy victory predicted for Nixon in November the Republicans "see an opportunity to pick up five additional senate seats...and if they do, with the vice president breaking the tie, they can organize the Senate."

He said that if that situation does occur, the south will lose "eight of the most important committee chairmanships in the senate," including Sen. Sam Ervin as chairman of the committee on government operations. Talmadge said the loss of the eight posts would be a "tragedy for the country...and the senate."

Galifianakis also introduced Marcus Braswell of Battleboro who has been named to serve as chairman of the Farmers for Nick committee in North Carolina.

An overflow crowd of local supporters and well-wishers turned out to meet Galifianakis at an afternoon luncheon and he told them, "Much has been said about the president needing my opponent (Jesse Helms) in Washington. That's not the issue in this campaign. It's who the people of North Carolina need in Washington because the interest to be represented there is the interest of our state..."

State Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham journeyed to Greenville for the afternoon meeting and voiced his support for the congressman's senatorial campaign and a possible seat on the agriculture committee.

Graham told farmers at the meeting that the hog quarantine in Pitt County that had been in effect for weeks has been lifted.

Nixon Said Favored In Preference Poll

In a mock political poll conducted this past week on campus at East Carolina University, the results gave President Nixon 708 votes over Senator George McGovern 439 votes.

The poll, according to Craig Souza of the local Nixon headquarters, was a non-partisan one conducted on campus by members of Gamma Sigma Sigma (formerly Delta Theta Chi) Sorority.

Robert Clifton, a senior in Political Science and president of the Democrats Club, however, has challenged the validity of the preference poll.

In challenging the poll, Clifton says, it "could hardly be considered non-partisan." He based this statement on a claim that there were Nixon pamphlets and literature around the ballot box, as well as a Nixon banner over the table where the poll was conducted.

"In a true poll no political literature is allowed within 50 feet of the polls," Clifton said.

Dog Rescuer

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A St. Bernard dog named "Budweiser" has been credited with saving the lives of two children in a fire on John's Island near here Friday night.

The imposing, 165-lb. dog earned his place in the ranks of man's best friends by dragging Linda Lawson, 4, and Joyce Hinson, 4, from a burning house only minutes before the roof collapsed.

Mrs. Nelle Carter said she and six of her grandchildren were in the house, with the children asleep, when two explosions rocked the house and flame shot through the bedroom.

"The first thing I remember is Budweiser running in from the front porch. He took Linda's arm in his mouth, dragged her out and left her on a neighbor's doorstep."

Mrs. Carter, whose husband George was working in his North Charleston restaurant, got four of the other children out as Budweiser ran back in and dragged Joyce out.

They stood on the front lawn and watched as the dog entered the burning house for a third time, apparently in search of his friend, a toy chihuahua named Tiny.

The flames by that time, though, were too intense and Budweiser was forced to back off.

Within 30 minutes of the explosions, the roof of the house collapsed. The building and its contents were judged a total loss.

Saturday morning, as insurance agents and firemen swarmed around the scene, Budweiser poked around in the ruins, still searching for Tiny.

UAW And GMC Bargainers Talk

By United Press International
United Auto Workers and General Motors bargaining teams met through the weekend to try to resolve grievances against a cost-cutting management team that triggered strikes by 12,500 workers at GM plants in Kansas, Wisconsin and Texas.

Strikes at Janesville, Wis.; Arlington, Tex., and Kansas City, Kan., were expected to end by Monday or Tuesday as part of the union's new strategy of "hit-and-run" strikes—short strikes that do not drain the union's strike fund.

Three strikes called last week were nothing more than "long weekend" walkouts and three strike deadlines in the coming week are set to expire Thursday night and Friday.

The series of "quickie" strikes have been directed mainly at the General Motors Assembly Division (GMAD).

The union has accused the recently formed GMAD with "slashing back assembly line manpower while demanding as much, or more production, issuing heavy disciplinary layoffs, and attempting to discard important provisions of agreements" with formerly separate divisions.

GMAD was set up to consolidate basic manufacturing and assembly operations under one management group. It now operates 18 plants, including the Norwood, Ohio, plant which was struck for a record 174 days over the same issues.

The short-term strikes disrupt GM production at a time when GM's divisions are heading for record sales. Unless

"Although this was not an official poll, the logic in conducting it according to rules is still valid."

Souza reported that a total of 1,205 students were polled. In addition to the voted registered for Nixon and McGovern, 51 indicated they were undecided and seven cast votes for the American Party.

Bowles' Candidacy Impressive

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles has come a long way since that day many months ago when he announced he would be a candidate for governor of North Carolina.

He came from back in the pack to a resounding victory in the Democratic primary to become his party's nominee for governor. Now Skipper Bowles is combing the state seeking to gather the votes needed to be elected governor in the general election Nov. 7.

The thing that impresses us about the Democratic candidate is his steadfast refusal to make any promises for projects if he is elected governor. So far as we know there have been no specific roads promised, or anything else that would have the effect of swapping state funds for votes.

Instead Skipper Bowles has based his campaign on a steadfast pledge of no new taxes and a promise to be fair. Obviously we would love to see him make a pledge to continue developing the ECU medical school or to build specific roads in our area, but even more we think we would like to have a governor pledged to listen to our concerns and to be fair with us.

Bowles has shown that he can be fair by spotting the inconsistency of the deans of the three existing medical schools passing judgment on the expansion of the new one at ECU. And that shows us he is, indeed, a man who means it when he says he will be fair.

North Carolina does not need an eastern governor or a Piedmont governor or a Mountain governor. What we do need is a governor who will look at the needs of all the people of his state and see that our resources are allocated so that its three regions can progress.

If we can get that kind of governor we feel that we in the east will not have any trouble making a case for meeting our needs. We feel that Skipper Bowles is that kind of man. We believe he will listen and then act in the best interest of all the state. We do not anticipate favoritism from Skipper Bowles for any section of the state and that is the way it should be.

Skipper Bowles is our choice for governor of North Carolina and we recommend him to the voters.

Post-Election Kennedy Plans

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The post-election role in the Democratic party that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts is covertly playing even before the anti-climactic Nov. 7 election was exposed this week when Kennedy agents put out the word: Robert Strauss is not acceptable as Democratic national chairman.

As he barnstorms the country drawing huge, enthusiastic crowds, Kennedy lets it be known that former national party treasurer Strauss, a moderately conservative Dallas lawyer, is not the man to run the party. His close personal relationship with John B. Connally, national chairman of Democrats for Nixon, is enough to disqualify Strauss, according to the word from Kennedy.

This represents an obvious effort by Kennedy to put his own imprint on Democratic leadership following President Nixon's prospective landslide win over Sen. George McGovern. Besides the national chairmanship, Kennedy is quietly engaged with leadership in the Senate and perhaps even the House.

Typically, Kennedy's intervention is shrouded. For instance, he is on good personal terms with Strauss and recently asked him about arranging a speech before a conservative Texas audience (the project was dropped when no suitable audience could be found).

Nor is Kennedy committed to a specific replacement for Jean Westwood, whose brief and undistinguished tenure as national chairman will probably end Dec. 9 despite her efforts to continue. It is assumed, however, the Kennedy would be pleased with either of the ideologically bland young Democratic state chairmen in the nation's two largest states: Charles Manatt in California and Joseph Crangle in New York.

manship, he is being pushed by the party elements most hostile to McGovern's nomination.

Washington, who choked noticeably in endorsing McGovern, is backing Strauss for chairman. Behind Jackson are AFL-CIO officials who did not endorse McGovern at all: president George Meany and two top aides, lobbyist Andrew Biemiller and political operative Al Barkan. To Kennedy's inner circle, they represent a potential threat to party control.

Kennedy's hand is even less visible in the Senate's misty maneuverings. The long, soporific term of Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana as Senate majority leader is expected to end with his resignation—if not in 1973, then in 1975. Kennedy wants to avoid the succession of majority whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia. To Kennedy, conservative Byrd leading the Senate is considerably more onerous than Strauss at national headquarters.

Kennedy's public posture is discreet: he does not wish to be seen seeking revenge against Byrd, who unseated him as majority whip last year. Behind the scene, however, Kennedy agents confide he wants Byrd stopped and would energetically support anybody who had a chance to do it.

Certainly, Kennedy would support Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who led the successful fight this week against proposed money-cutting powers for Mr. Nixon. He would similarly back Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, another possibility.

As a Senator, Kennedy's role in picking new House leaders would be shielded completely. But his men share liberal dissatisfaction over Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, particularly following his vote against the last end-of-war resolution. Despite ideological differences, Kennedy would be delighted with his friend, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas (who did support the antiwar amendment), as the new speaker.

How successful Kennedy could be in these indirect interventions is questionable. Byrd, quietly and methodically, has been lining

15-Year-Old's Busy Summer

By NANCY BROWER
The Asheville Times

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — If the teacher assigns a theme on "What I Did Last Summer," David Lee Pusey will have plenty of material.

The 15-year-old sophomore at Asheville High School became the nation's youngest lecturer on sickle cell anemia, conducted experiments that led to what seems to be a breakthrough in combating virulent infections without the use of antibiotics, and is engaged in patenting a medication in which 17 major pharmaceutical houses have expressed interest.

That's what David, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Norman Pusey, did last summer.

It all began last spring when David's class at South French Broad Junior High School toured the laboratory at Buncombe County Health Department. For most of the kids the visit was merely a chance to escape the classroom, but David could scarcely tear himself away from the lab when the tour was over.

Scout Project Request
A couple of days after the tour, the laboratory director, Marvin H. Palmer, a registered medical technologist, got a letter from David thanking him for the tour and asking his help on an Eagle Scout project.

To earn this high rank in Scouting, David wanted to write a research paper on sickle cell anemia. He asked if Palmer, who is organizer at Asbury United Methodist Church where David's dad is pastor, would serve as his technical advisor.

Palmer said he loaded the boy down with research material on sickle cell anemia — heavy reading for doctors and medical technologists. "Frankly, I expected he'd take one look at that stuff, throw it out the window and that would be the last I'd hear of it," Palmer admitted. After all, David was only 14 at the time.

David's paper on sickle cell anemia was so well done, Palmer submitted it to the North Carolina State Society of Medical Technologists. That group thought so highly of David's work, they gave him a $75 cash award and invited him to present his paper at the statewide meeting in Jacksonville last April.

Invited To Virginia
Virginia's medical technicians heard about

David and invited him to lecture at their state meeting in Lynchburg in May. Officers of the American Medical Technologists heard David in Virginia and invited him to address the southeastern district seminar in Charleston, S.C. attended by medical technologists from 10 states.

The boy's work in sickle cell anemia led to an increasing interest in laboratory procedures. When school was out in June, David asked Palmer if he could help out around the lab — wash glassware, run errands, etc. — in return for the chance to observe lab practice. Palmer, who has 20 years experience with youngsters interested in medical technology, said that David was his most promising pupil ever, able to grasp complicated routines just by watching. He was awarded a lab coat and name tag.

Looking on as Palmer performed a lab test to see which of some 20-odd antibiotics would be most effective against a strain of bacteria, David asked Palmer why antibiotics, to which many people are dangerously allergic, have become the primary treatment for infection. He suggested that ordinary chemicals found in any medical lab's supply closet might be more effective against infection than commonly supposed.

Ordinary Chemicals Tested
After lab hours and with Palmer's supervision, David tested 20 such chemicals — some as ordinary as bicarbonate of soda — in a carefully managed experiment. The substances were tested against the two most resistant forms of bacteria, staphylococcus and pseudomonas.

Nineteen of the substances were ineffective against these super germs, but one of the chemical solutions cured severe abscesses on laboratory animals in four hours, killed pure cultures of both bacteria and otherwise proved to be an effective anti-infection agent.

David and Palmer are engaged in patenting a medication for superficial infections based on this breakthrough. They have reason to believe their preparation will be effective against acne.

Sam Bundy, Pitt County legislator, joined the coffee drinkers at Biggs Drug Store one morning last week.

He was scheduled to speak to a luncheon club and he was passing the time until then.

Rep. Bundy recalled that he had recently been asked to speak to a church group on "The Politician and the Christian."

"It can't be done, can it?" one of the coffee drinkers jested.

Bundy chuckled. "I told them (the church group) I knew exactly what they were thinking. I told them the story about two men who came across a tomb stone with the inscription 'Here lies a lawyer and an honest man.' One of the men commented, 'Well, they're putting two men in one grave now.'"

We were all just kidding, folks. Honest.

F. D. Duncan, retired business manager for East Carolina University, dropped by the office recently.

He recalled that he went to Duke hospital with back trouble 25 years ago.

"The doctor told me they were not going to operate, but if a car gets stuck in the sand just leave it there," Duncan said. "If I saw a lady carrying a heavy package, just look the other way." Duncan followed the advice through the years. During the East Carolina-Citadel ABC telecast of last weekend, the announcers expressed an

Other Editors Say Truly Distinguished

(The Raleigh Times)

Capus Waynick is a truly Distinguished Alumnus of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

That was the title bestowed on him by the University in ceremonies recently at Chapel Hill, the Distinguished Alumnus Award. He is that, and he is even more a distinguished North Carolinian.

The citation read at Chapel Hill spoke of his diplomatic service as ambassador to Nicaragua and Colombia, of his newspaper work, of his long hours of service to the people of North Carolina in various public and private jobs. All those things are true.

But, it should be recorded that Capus Waynick's greatest times of service came when he was willing to step into leadership in causes which, if they weren't unpopular, surely weren't high on the hit lists of the times.

In 1948, for example, Capus Waynick was State Democratic chairman. Harry Truman was the Democratic presidential candidate, and he wasn't a popular one in the minds of many southern Democrats. But, Waynick took up the North Carolina cudgels for the entire ticket, campaigned for Truman and all the others. And Truman carried North Carolina in an election which featured not only the traditional Democratic and Republican tickets, but also Wallace and Dixiecrat nominees.

It could be said that Waynick's last major public service was his most important to North Carolina. He was Governor Terry Sanford's top trouble-shooter on racial matters during the early 1960's and his leadership during those troubled months helped guide North Carolina in the paths which spared this State much of the racial anguish which hurt other southern states.

Waynick lives in retirement now on his farm near High Point. It is a retirement which he has richly earned. And he deserves the best wishes of all the people of this State in that retirement.

Israeli 'Frigid' To JDL

By RICHARD C. GROSS

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli officialdom views Rabbi Meir Kahane and his Jewish Defense League (JDL) as two American exports that this country could do without.

Prime Minister Golda Meir has denounced them. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has vowed to "break" them. A leftwing Knesset (Parliament) member has urged their expulsion as a criminal threat to Israel. Police Minister Shlomo Hillel has suggested their activities be outlawed.

Nevertheless, Kahane announced he was entering Israeli politics in next fall's Knesset elections.

As founder of the JDL in New York City in July, 1968, the Rabbi came to Israel a year ago.

Convicted in U.S. Convicted of bombing conspiracy, put on five years probation, fined $5,000 and ordered never to discuss weapons publicly, Kahane moved to Jerusalem with his wife and four children and set out to settle old scores between Arabs and Jews in Israel and its occupied territories.

The government tolerated almost weekly JDL demonstrations but, when the group began taking the law into its own hands, the authorities moved in.

With Kahane at the forefront, about 60 league members demonstrated two months ago in the occupied West Bank town of Hebron, calling for a public trial against Sheikh Mohammed Ali Ja'Abari, its mayor, for his alleged role in the 1929 massacre of Jews there.

The military governor banned 20 militant JDL members from Hebron as a result.

After the Arab guerrilla murder of 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics, the JDL said Israeli retaliatory raids into Lebanon and Syria would do little to combat Palestinian organizations operating abroad.

It said it would track down and kill the guerrillas and their supporters everywhere, announcing "with pride" that it had tried to smuggle arms to the United States and Europe for that purpose but that the shipment had been intercepted at Lod Airport.

Police Opposition
Furor erupted in government circles. Kahane was seized by police for questioning.

Hillel said the government was considering outlawing the JDL on grounds it was an underground organization that was undermining government policy towards the guerrillas.

"This is not Brooklyn, and we will not operate by imported methods," the police minister said.

That's when Kahane announced he was entering politics for the first time to head the ticket on an opposition slate in the 120-member Knesset.

"The primary reason why we are running for the Knesset is to prove that we are not an underground organization," Kahane said in an interview.

The constituency?
Immigrant Soviet Jews who know his name from his battles with Soviet diplomats and their families in New York in efforts to force a change in Soviet emigration policies. Youth dissatisfied with a government that has been in power since the state was founded in 1948. And American immigrants who "we feel we can make feel at home as their spokesman."

Kahane, who speaks fluent Hebrew, said his campaign will be politics American style.

Strength For Today Being No. 1 Can't Be All Bad

LEARNING WISELY EMPLOYED

We need always to bear in mind that intellect and intelligence are not the same thing — or, to put it another way, that learning and wisdom are not the same thing.

Crime experts tell us that on the whole criminal tendencies, low intelligence and meager education go together. But sometimes a very well-educated and scholarly person appears in the criminal line-up. All of us may know many well-educated people who are morally dependable and victims of bad habits. A good education is a great asset, and everyone should get as much education as he can, but education in itself neither makes a man good nor wise.

One of the most astounding facts in history is the transforming effect which the Christian gospel has had on the minds of multitudes. Yet Jesus of Nazareth, who set forth his transforming gospel, was not a well-educated man — probably possessing only what we would call today a grade-school education. And when he sent forth his disciples into a well-educated and sophisticated social order he chose such disciples not from among the educated but from among the uneducated.

All of which adds up to this: character comes first and highly trained intellect next. Intellect and intelligence are not the same, nor are learning and wisdom. Character is learning wisely employed.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It seems that the advantages of being No. 1 in the industrial world clearly outweigh the drawbacks. Otherwise, why the battles and claims and charges? And when the spot is lost, why the desperate fight to regain it?

Whether the position is desired because of the assumption that the biggest is also the best and thus should deserve the customer's order or whether it is mainly a matter of pride is debatable. But big appears to be beautiful.

U.S. Steel certainly treasures the label that so often identifies it as "the nation's No. 1 steel producer," and you may be sure heads would roll if the tag were lost to Bethlehem, the No. 2 producer.

In the vehicle-rental business, Hertz is still in the lead and racing hard to stay there. But Avis, fussing in second place with about 110,000 vehicles to Hertz' 155,000, has been saying lately that it will be No. 1. When, it doesn't say.

In food retailing, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, the top food chain since records were kept, now is carrying on what smaller retailers claim is the most savage price war they've ever seen.

For several years, A&P has been losing its share of the market, and its profits have been skimpy. Still, it didn't go on a price-cutting rampage until Safeway Stores began telling people it had taken over the top spot.

That claim is still open to dispute, but there is no question that Safeway sales were growing while A&P's, until recent weeks, were slipping. A&P closed 1971 with volume of $5.48 billion; Safeway, with $5.36 billion.

As the gap narrowed early this year, A&P furiously accelerated a program of converting more than 4,000 outlets to discount status, fully anticipating the losses that followed. Since February, those losses total more than $40 million.

In the opinion of the Justice Department, and many other critics as well, big is often bad. International Business Machines, which in some years has had as much as 70 per cent of the electronic computer industry, learned this.

Government lawyers announced this week their intention of breaking IBM into a number of separate companies, the idea being to promote price and product competition. IBM will fight back, of course, and with an intriguing argument.

The big computer maker, while conceding the obvious, that it is No. 1, is expected to argue that it isn't so solidly entrenched there as to monopolize the industry. We're No. 1, they are prepared to say, but not so No. 1-ish as we were.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Do They Really Favor Control?

Whenever we comment editorially on the billboard blight along our highways, the outdoor advertising industry politely informs us that it favors control of billboards. Now that industry has a chance to put its money where its mouth is.

An amendment to the 1972 federal highway bill now before Congress would undo the slight progress that has been made toward controlling billboards. It has passed the Senate and may well have passed the House by the time this appears in print.

The Highway Beautification Act of 1965 says that, except in industrially zoned areas, signs beside interstate and primary roads shall be limited to directional and other official signs and notices, including natural wonders, scenic and tourist attractions.

The 1972 amendment broadens that provision to legalize those directional signs "pertaining to rest stops, camp grounds, food services, gas and automotive services, lodging" and natural wonders. A specialist in the Department of Transportation says the bill would prohibit the department from removing any directional signs which give information to the traveling public. Within a matter of days, says this specialist, "every sign in America can be made a direction sign."

If the outdoor advertising people mean what they say about the desirability of billboard control, they will join the environmentalists in fighting this step backward in the long drawn out fight for more attractive roadsides. — Gainesville (Ga.) Times

The Will To Work

What ever happened to pride in good, honest quality workmanship? For that matter, what ever happened to the American work ethic? Answer the latter question and you answer the former.

From across the nation come reports that thousands — and probably millions — of people have lost the will to work. Why? One reason is the insidious policy of government and its welfare syndrome.

This is partly the reason for the continued story of the increasing welfare rolls. And the insistence by many that if an able-bodied person refuses to take a job when work is available then he should be barred automatically from public handouts.

The American work ethic was once a source of pride; it was a key factor in the economic development of this country. Today, however, come continued reports of rises in absenteeism, job-hopping and calls for more public relief, not to mention shoddy work.

Not too long ago, an auto manufacturer with a normal work force of 100,000 had to hire 44,000 new workers in a single year to meet its work schedule. Some fear America is going soft and that its slide toward second-class status will be hastened if it loses its desire to produce. Perhaps we have not gone that far. But it has gone much too far. — Rocky Mount (N.C.) Telegram. Telegram.

Our Busy Airlines

In an average week, U.S. scheduled airlines carry three and a half million passengers an average of 800 miles. That's the equivalent of picking up every man, woman and child in Chicago and transporting them to Dallas.

Today more than 75 per cent of the travelers who go by common carrier between American cities go by airplane. In travel between the U.S. and foreign countries, airlines account for 90 per cent.

But today's traffic volume is nothing compared to tomorrow's. Air travel will almost triple in the next 10 years, the Air Transport Association of America predicts. — Beaumont (Tex.) Journal.

Pageants Are Voluntary

In recent years and most especially at the last Miss America Pageant, there were the screams from women's libbers and others about feminine beauty pageants being nothing but exploitation of the female. That's their prerogative. They can say what they feel.

On the other hand, a former Miss America — Judi Ford — comes back with the perfect answer to the exploitation pitch. She says, "If a girl doesn't want to enter a pageant, she doesn't have to. I resent people saying you're being used. I feel others have no right to tell you what to do with your life."

The 'Unsolvable' Problems In U.S. Piling Up

By J.J. KILPATRICK
CINCINNATI — Sex orgies, wife-swapping and lascivious entertainments have become a way of life in Washington. The story is bound to break soon. It merits your close attention.

The American Gas Association held its 54th annual convention here in Cincinnati last week. The opening session came on Monday, right after the Reds had dropped two games to the Oakland Athletics. A damp drizzle-draze was falling from cold grey skies. It was a gloomy town, and in many ways a gloomy convention.

This is the grim truth: There is indeed an energy crisis. The problems of the gas industry bulk large in this crisis, but oil, coal, nuclear power and even water power are parts of it also. Stephen D. Bechtel, Jr., the brilliant president of San Francisco's Bechtel Corporation, gave it to them straight: "Your problems are unsolvable," he told the convention members. Later in his address, he qualified that blunt appraisal. "Your problems are unsolvable," he said, "unless —"

The "unless," in Bechtel's view, depends largely if not wholly upon the ephemeral factor of public awareness. If the people of the United States could be shaken into awareness of the desperate problems that rapidly are piling up, the people — and their political representatives — might buckle down to the difficult tasks that have to be done.

The problem, put in the fewest words, is simply that the American people are consuming far more energy than they are producing. This has been true for the past 20 years. A thousand industry spokesmen have warned of the pending crisis in a thousand speeches, and the speeches have gone unheard.

There are abundant ironies here. The United States has tremendous reserves of untouched energy. We have enough coal, by some estimates, to last a thousand years — but this is mostly high-sulfur coal, and in a nation understandably aroused by air pollution, high-sulfur coal is a no-no. New sources of oil and gas could be found, mostly offshore — but in a nation angered by "tax loopholes" and oil depletion allowances, the capital required to conduct a redoubled exploration program cannot be obtained. Many of the problems of electric power production could be cured by the vigorous development of atomic power — but the same environmentalists who oppose offshore drilling also oppose nuclear reactors.

From Bechtel's address, and from other sources, this picture emerges in the matter of gas: The domestic supply ranges in the neighborhood of 56.5 billion cubic feet per day, about 3 billion under the demand. By 1985, domestic supplies will have increased to perhaps 60 billion cubic feet per day, but the demand will exceed 100 billion. The deficit can be made up in part by importing liquefied gas or by getting sag from coal, but both alternatives are fearfully expensive.

The picture as to oil is even more alarming. By 1985, the demand for oil will run to 30 million barrels per day. Only half of that can be produced domestically. The other half will have to be imported, mostly from the Middle East and Africa. Obviously, such supplies are of doubtful dependability; they are subject to political crises and to the competition of other buyers. Such massive imports would produce a potentially ruinous trade deficit of perhaps $25 billion a year by 1985.

Bechtel offered some short-term recommendations: Cut out the waste in both production and consumption; increase the utilization of coal, even if it means tolerating some high-sulfur smog; seek price increases for oil and gas, in order to attract capital. For the long term, in his view, we must go to nuclear power, and we must develop the technology for getting oil from shales and from tar sands. For the still longer term, in the next century, perhaps an answer can be found in harnessing the energy of the sun. Meanwhile, we must face the prospect of price increases up to 150 percent on gas, oil and electricity; and we might be well advised to pray that nothing goes wrong in Africa and the Middle East.

Obviously, this column has nothing to do with sex orgies in Washington, but nobody would have read a column based on a convention of the American Gas Association. And the energy crisis, in dead seriousness, does indeed merit your close and sober concern.

McGovern's Hope For Student Majority Is Dimmed In College Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. October 21 — Results of a special Gallup survey of the nation's college students dim the hopes of the McGovern forces to win huge majorities on the college campuses of America on Nov. 7.

Far from the 3-to-1 advantage McGovern had counted on among college students earlier this year, the latest figures show that students divide their vote about equally between President Nixon and Senator George McGovern, with McGovern holding a slight edge.

The latest "trial heat" figures on campus, based upon those students who are registered to vote (80 per cent), show McGovern with 49 per cent of the vote, 47 per cent for Nixon, with the remaining 4 per cent undecided or leaning toward other candidates.

Although the presidential race is close among college students overall, preferences vary significantly by class in school, type of college, major area of study and place of residence.

The college sample was designed to provide a representative national sample of all full-time college students, including students living off campus, married students, graduate students, and those attending universities, four-year colleges, and two-year junior colleges. A total of 1,116 students out of a total college population of 6 million full-time students was interviewed Sept. 25-Oct. 8.

Class in College
A Major Factor
Analysis of the results by key student population groups shows that a student's class in college is an important factor in terms of presidential choices. Nixon holds a substantial lead over McGovern among underclassmen (freshmen and sophomores), while McGovern runs strong with juniors, seniors and particularly graduate students, as show below:

Class in College	McG.		Nixon		Other, Undec.
Freshmen	40	56	4
Sophomores	45	52	3
Juniors	55	40	5
Seniors	52	45	3
Graduate students	68	31	1

A student's place of residence is also a key factor. Those who live on campus (dormitories, fraternities, sororities) prefer Nixon, but off-campus residents (apartment, rooming houses) are heavily on the McGovern side. Students who live at home with their parents, however, are strongly in the Nixon camp. The following table gives the details:

Place of Residence	McG.		Nixon		Other, Undec.
	%	%	%	%
On Campus—dorm, fraternities, sororities	44	52	4
Off campus—apartments, rooming houses, etc.	56	39	5
Students who live at home	44	52	4

McGovern leads Nixon among students attending public and private colleges, but the President holds a commanding lead over his opponent in religious-affiliated institutions, as shown below:

Type of College	McG.		Nixon		Other, Undec.
	%	%	%	%
Public	49	46	5
Private	54	42	4
Denominational	26	74	*

* Limited sample size
A student's major area of study is also a big factor in terms of candidate preference. McGovern, for example, has a decided advantage among students majoring in social science science or the humanities, while Nixon does well among students in the physical sciences (math, science, engineering) and those enrolled in business and professional courses of study. This is shown below:

Major Area of Study	McG.		Nixon		Other, Undec.
Humanities	58	37	5
Social Sciences	58	37	5
Physical Sciences	44	51	5
Math, Engineering	44	51	5
Business & professional (pre-law, medicine)	42	56	2

Differences by sex are only slight, with Nixon leading marginally among women and McGovern with a slight edge among college men.

McGovern wins the overwhelming backing of black collegians (about 8 in 10), while Nixon holds a small lead among whites on campus.

More Democrats Than Republicans

The latest college findings showing a close race overall are also significant in that Democrats far outnumber Republicans on campus (35 per cent to 22 per cent, with 43 per cent who call themselves "independents").

Following is the question asked to gauge student voting preferences:

If the presidential election were being held today, which candidate would you vote for — McGovern the Democrat, or Nixon, the Republican?

Taylor . . .

He said he was deep sea fishing off the coast when his heavy line was broken after it snared an obviously big fish.

He figured that was that, but soon another fisherman in the boat hit something. He reeled in his taunt line and found his hook was entangled in the broken line of Fred's original catch.

The line was spliced on Fred's fishing rig and he reeled in a 42 pound amberjack. There was a competition underway at the time and Fred won the prize for the largest fish.

Bowles And Holshouser In Strenuous Campaign

RALEIGH — Skipper Bowles and Jim Holshouser, the two leading candidates for Governor, are trying to set some kind of a record for personal campaign appearances.

Look at the schedules of both men for a given week and you have to be amazed how either is standing up under the pressure. They start their appearances about 7:30 in the morning and continue until about 10 at night, at which time they have to gather with their workers to review the day and plan tomorrow.

Both men are trying to squeeze a day off every now and then, but even when they try to hide they end up on a hand-shaking tour or talking with aides on the telephone. When it's over, both men will have to vacation for a week or ten days just to unwind. It makes me nervous just trying to write about where they go every week.

The North Carolina Democratic Party made about $30,000 from the Vance-Aycock dinner held in Asheville on Sept. 30. Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate Jesse Helms says polls aren't worth a doodle. In that light, we report to you that a Charlotte News poll showed Nick Galifianakis running ahead of Helms in Mecklenburg and a Greensboro Daily News poll also showed Galifianakis ahead.

However, a poll out of Greensboro taken by Long Marketing Service indicates that Helms is ahead.

Maybe Jesse has a point. Maybe the polls aren't worth a doodle. At least, somebody is going to be wrong in this election.

At least one Elections Board in North Carolina has issued a warning about the upcoming election.

Bill Culp, executive secretary of the Mecklenburg Elections Board, says it will be well into the morning of Nov. 8 before the Mecklenburg returns are counted.

The reason, according to Culp, is the unusually heavy number of absentee ballots that have been requested.

The law says these ballots must be taken to the precinct where the voter is registered and kept under lock and key until the polls close on Nov. 7. At that time they will be counted by hand before the regular votes are tabulated.

"We have absentee ballots out in the thousands," Culp told us in an interview. "The counting of these ballots is going to delay our returns from Mecklenburg. We'll be lucky to have our returns finished by 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning." And this is in Mecklenburg County, where every precinct has voting machines.

Greenville Glimpses

Hold it, everybody. They're drifting back from the coast and there will be a long winter of fish (and fishy) tales.

Collard patches doing well despite (until recently) the lack of rain.

Young lady pedaling furiously toward campus carrying an umbrella, a bike chain and lock around her neck and some books, and doing a balancing act.

For those who didn't promise a rose garden, roses are still blooming prettily in many Greenville gardens.

Car entering town at the bypass with a freshly-killed six point buck roped and slung over the top, and a driver looking very proud.

Bragging. First in tobacco. First in sweet potatoes, first in farm forestry, second in cucumbers, second in peanuts, third in eggs, third in turkeys, fourth in broilers, fifth in green peppers. That's North Carolina and Pitt County.

$590,000 Bonanza Leaves Question Of Who Will Get Benefit

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

The City of Greenville is about to find itself in the unusual position of having a great big chunk of unobligated money on its hands. You might even say it's about to strike it rich—suddenly rich.

Its slice of the multi-billion dollar "revenue sharing" melon Washington is about to cut will come to around $590,000. For a good idea of what this means, stack it up against the City Budget for this year, $3,082,653.

This windfall amounts to a whopping extra 19.44 per cent. That's thick cream. And what's more, it is only the first of five yearly installments.

That's a lot of money for our town, even in these days and times. For example, it would be hard, perhaps even impossible, for the city fathers to put over a tax-supported bond issue in this amount for any purpose.

And what's more, this handout (gift, if you prefer) has few strings attached. The City government will have a rather free hand in its use. It can extend benefits to all, limit them to a few or fritter the money away on almost any manner of "progress" projects.

For this reason, Washington will keep a watch on how funds are used by local governments. A prime objective of the program, called revenue sharing even though the U.S. Treasury is running a huge deficit, is to provide some protection for local taxpayers. For this reason, the also will be on the watch.

Local city officials say they have no hard and fast ideas on how the $590,000 should be used. But they shouldn't have to look far. Ideas are bound to pop up.

It would be possible for the Mayor, the City Manager and the Council to ease some public burdens. By shifting budget numbers this way and that, the new wealth could be shared with property owners through tax reductions.

Still, its sort of difficult to picture a city council as opting for any such plan. There's that old fear that if you ever lighten the tax burden, then the taxpayer might resent some future increase. Tax cuts are unorthodox.

But there are other ways the windfall can be shared with the citizens in general. One that comes quickly to mind is the electric power rate, which makes a hefty contribution to the City's finances.

The local Utility Commission likes to boast its charges its customer no more than Virginia Electric Power, from which it buys, charges VEPCO customers. But there is nothing in the law which says it has to charge such rates. And power rate relief might be in order.

And the Council could improve the television programs available to the Greenville area. This could be done by getting cable TV, for which the City holds the franchise, into the working stage. This would improve the quality of network reception and make it possible for local viewers to have a wider choice of non-network programs.

Any of the above would tend to spread the benefits of revenue sharing on a broad base — reach the community in general. But it is a good bet that the city fathers will find good, and to them valid, reasons why all should be ignored; after careful consideration, of course.

The modern, progressive type of city administration somehow sees its mission as spending, not saving, so long as there is a dollar to be tapped. And with a big chunk of free money at hand, temptations will be hard to resist, especially since there will be no need for referendums. The taxpayer need have no say.

The public swimming pool project will be urged anew. And this time, the city fathers can OK it, if they wish, without calling for a popular vote. The same thing goes for other construction — streets, storm sewers, offices, or what have you. And there's always the redevelopment program.

Of course, the city will no doubt find compelling need for more workers. And it won't take much imagination to direct use of the new fund so that pay levels can be puffed up a bit. Public employment today is a top growth field.

Any way the money goes will afford burdened taxpayers some worth while "watching". It's possible our city fathers might do damage to the popular lore about how the "new rich" fritter their money away.

Tourists Finding Miami Beach A Rather Dull Place

By FRANK EIDGE
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—A lot of people lately have found Miami Beach a great place to live but a dull place to visit. It used to be the other way around — before the ocean sucked away much of the beach and high rise hotels and condominiums encroached on what was left. Now many tourists find the seaside resort is mostly concrete and gilt that is showing tarnish around the edges.

The skinny island has a swelling tide of permanent residents, but its leaders feel that while live-in folks are fine, Joe Tourist still pays 40 per cent of the bills around here.

Playing host to both national political conventions this summer finally forced all factions guiding the city's fortunes to take an honest look at what Miami Beach is now and where it's going.

Conventions Lost Money
 Instead of the riches they expected, the political conventions cost the resort money in loss of vacationers and rejected bookings for non-political conventions.

Miami Beach has not fallen on hard times but the summer of '72 jolted many leaders into the realization that tourist prosperity is not around the corner unless Miami Beach changes with the times.

"We've been riding on our reputation for several years now," Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall said. "We have to have more than that."

The resort leaders are launching on all-out drive to regain Miami Beach's reputation as a leading tourist mecca of the world.

The No. 1 ingredient needed, they decided, was more sand—lots of it—to cover an area 15 miles long and 200 feet wide.

$28 Million Beach
 Erosion, helped by what Hall calls "the politics of the past," has robbed Miami Beach of much of its shoreline sand. The city-limits portion of the ocean front is only seven miles long, but it is impossible to walk the distance on the beach. Many large hotels, bracketed by groins, have practically no beach at all.

The Army Corps of Engineers has finally settled on the most workable plan—dredge sand from the bottom, pump it onto the shore and keep replenishing it faster than the ocean carries it off. To put the beach back on Miami Beach will cost at least $28 million initially, and take about five years.

"But think of it," Hall said, "a 200-foot wide beach stretching for 15 miles—it will be beautiful, utterly incredible."

Sand won't solve all Miami Beach's tourist problems. Hall, who operates a travel agency in private life, and the hotel owners are aware that Miami Beach has become a haven for old folks.

At South Beach, a decaying area of yesteryear, reside the Social Security set and other low-income pensioners. To the north, the richer senior citizens populate the high rise apartments and condominiums.

In between is Miami Beach's famed hotel row. Many of the older hotels are being pushed out of business by the high rises. The remaining hotels, the biggest concentration of such in the world, represent a huge investment, estimated somewhere over the billion-dollar mark.

More Rooms Than Europe
 These establishments are surviving by working hard to land conventions and offering package economy deals to honeymooners.

"There are 180,000 tourist accommodations—more than in all of Europe—along this coast from Miami Beach to Palm Beach," a hotel spokesman claimed. "That's a huge investment to protect."

"Tourism is the sixth largest industry in the country—$3 billion—and we're not getting our share."

There was a time, right after World War II, when Miami Beach was one of the top glamor resorts of the country. But gone are those "good old days" when the young thronged Collins Avenue, or waited in long lines at 4 a.m. to catch sight of late-suppering celebrities at Wolfie's restaurant or all-night cafeterias; when black market money and accumulated overseas military pay flowed like high tide through Indian Creek to the cabana bookies and plush illegal casinos.

Those were the days when they rushed new hotels to completion under flood lights at a cost, extravagant in those times, as high as $23,000 a room. One large hostelry which went bankrupt was found to be carrying 13 levels of mortgages against the building.

High-Rise Boom
 Nowadays the big money is going into building high-rise apartments. There hasn't been a major new hotel erected since 1966. The hotelmen look with disdain on the towering apartments and condominiums.

"They don't improve the economy," one hotelman observed. "We pay heavy taxes and support hundreds of businesses. We buy in large quantities nearly everything we need from local people or local distributors."

"Senior citizens throttle a community. They don't want tourists and conventions around disturbing them."

The rise of high-rise apartment houses—127 in the last five years alone—has brought a dramatic change to Miami Beach. In the seven-by-one-mile resort city where a million or more persons have gathered each winter since World War II, less than 20,000 were permanent residents right after the war. Now the permanent population numbers about 90,000.

The mayor and some other leaders see this as a good thing.

MIAMI BEACH — The ocean has sucked away much of the beach itself and high rise hotels and condominiums encroach upon what was left. (UPI Telephoto) tourist business remains as high as ever but it is now spread out over the full year and represents about 40 per cent of the economy, compared to 60 per cent a few years ago.

"I think we need to stabilize tourism and achieve a balance," Goldberg said. "We can't afford to lose the tourist industry."

Plans For Revival
 All sources agreed that foreign competition, coupled with the modern ease of swift air travel, is siphoning off Miami Beach's tourists faster than the Atlantic is sucking it away the sand.

"But Europe will never match our climate," Hall said. "We've got to add vital tourist attractions and get away from the 'city of cement' tag some people have hung on us."

One hotelman put it differently. "Tourists have changed," he said. "Nowadays they want stimulation, not a rest. They are more sophisticated and insist on value."

Restoring the beach to a "glamor strip" wider than it ever was, is the major step toward luring tourists. In addition, Mayor Hall is pressing for bicycle pathways, hundreds of tennis courts and a garden-like beautification of causeways leading to the island and the major highways criss-crossing toward luring tourists.

"We're planning a 14-foot wide awning the length of Lincoln Road mall with numerous sidewalk cafes selling the best food and drink, better than they have in Europe," the mayor said. "It will take a zoning change, but we'll do it."

"We're going to make Miami Beach an exciting place again for the young and the young at heart."

Northern Pike In Texas Lakes

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Approximately 300,000 northern pike obtained from a federal hatchery in Kansas have been released in Lake Quitman and in Houston County Lake, both in East Texas.

The small fish were released in "nursery coves"—portions of the lake sealed off by a polyethylene barrier draped over nylon netting. When they are large enough the fish will be released into the main portions of the lake.

Fine Extras In Modest Ranch

By GERRY BISHOP

There is a parallel between the home-building boom of today and the one that followed World War II.

Economy was the watchword in planning the modest homes that went up in the '40s and '50s. The same is true today with one exception. Young couples in the '70s expect more than their predecessors of a decade or two ago.

The Berkeley, designed by Associated House Plans, meets the modern couple's demands. What does it have that earlier economy models lacked?

A second bath, for one thing. A double garage is another plus. And there's access to the outdoors through sliding-glass doors in the dining room.

The Berkeley is a ranch with frame construction and brick veneer trim on the front facade. Twelve-inch bevel siding is used on the outside walls and the roof, which has a 4-2 pitch, is of asphalt shingles. Another economy feature is roof trusses which are used throughout.

There's no wasted space in this modest ranch. Every square foot is used to the best advantage, thanks to the rectangular shape.

The brick veneer trim, shutters and ornamental garage door add very little to the cost but greatly increase the exterior appearance and resale value.

The floor plan puts the sleeping quarters in one wing. There are three bedrooms and two baths, which are back to back for maximum savings on plumbing.

Open planning enhances the usefulness of the living room-dining-kitchen area. Stairs lead to a full basement, which provides space for future expansion and storage. The two-car garage could be entered from the front or rear depending on the size of the lot.

The main entrance opens into the living room. Its dimensions are approximately 22 feet by 13 feet. A large window across the front floods the room with natural light.

A breakfast bar separates the kitchen and dining room, which is connected to a rear terrace. Appliances and cabinets are arranged in a U shape in the kitchen. It is handy to the garage, a convenience for shopping.

The master bedroom has its own bath and larger dimensions than the other two bedrooms. Each has a large closet and is just a step away from the main bath.

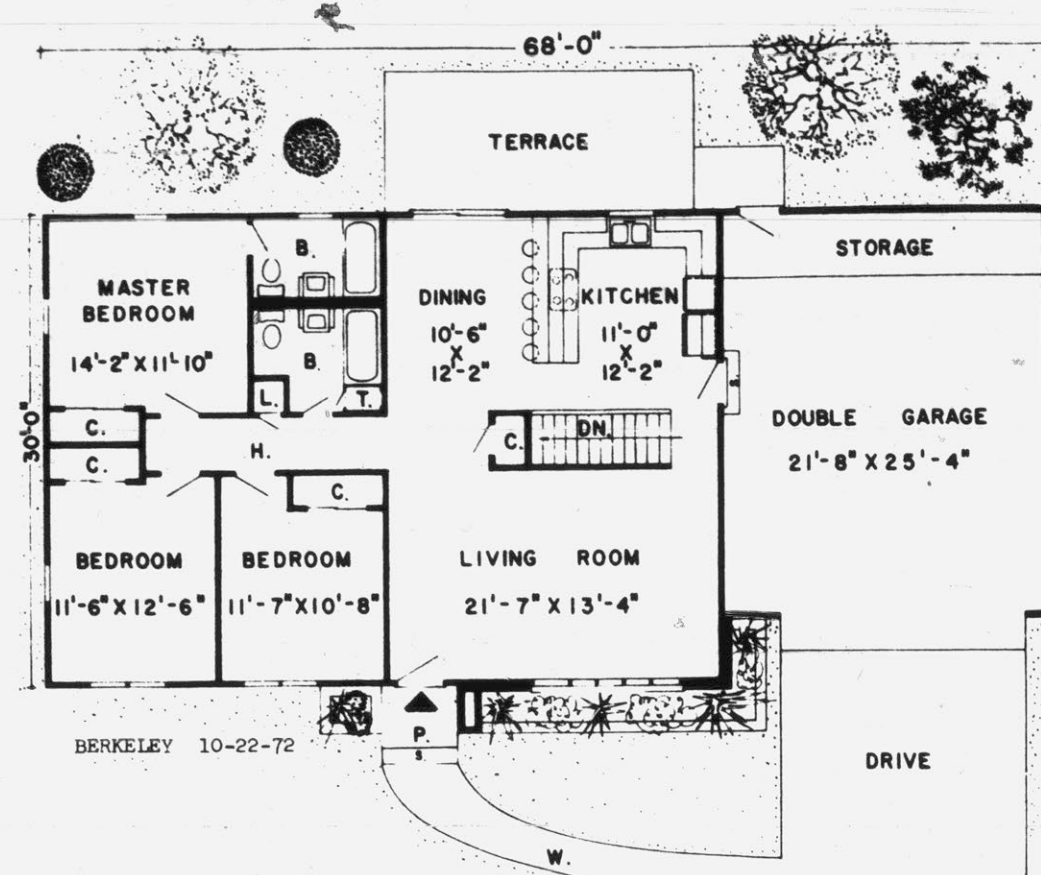

The garage has a storage area for garden tools.

The laundry is located in the basement.

Gypsum wallboard is specified for all interior walls and partitions. The plans show carpet in the living room, oak floors in the bedrooms and dining room and vinyl tile in the kitchen and baths.

The main level and basement each has 1,380 square feet and there is 572 square feet in the garage.

The exterior dimensions are 30 feet by 68 feet.

ECONOMY AND COMFORT—The Berkeley, designed by Associated House Plans, is a charming one-story that accents economy and good living. There are three bedrooms, two baths, an open living room-dining-kitchen area, double garage, full basement and rear terrace.

Homeowners Succumb Again Today To Lure Of Traditional Hearth

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—It has been "hearth and home" almost since the dawn of civilization.

Fire—and the warmth, food and security it symbolizes—is an integral part of the home.

And today, more than ever, according to the Fireplace Institute, homeowners are succumbing to the elemental appeal of the hearth. No longer is fire confined to campfire blazes or custom-designed fireplaces.

Any apartment, townhouse, any style home can center around the traditional hearth. There are electric and gas-fired units, as well as a wide variety of wood-burning fireplaces.

The masonry fireplace, the Institute says, remains the most desirable in many locations because its custom design and fabrication blend into any decor. Framed in fieldstone, brick, ceramic tile or even adobe, these wood burning units now are less costly than they once were, thanks to more efficient construction methods and the use of prefabricated metal parts, such as flues, smoke domes and damper assemblies.

However, the completely prefabricated fireplaces also have grown in popularity. These retain the appearance of the masonry fireplace but do not demand its structural requirements. These new pre-fab units are completely assembled at the factory, and may be framed in simply with 2 x 4 wood framing. Light in weight, they may be supported easily on any well-built floor system.

The prefabricated fireplace will appear custom-designed when faced with brick, paneling, or other materials, and located either in a wall or a corner, or open on both sides for two-room enjoyment. These wood-burning units are suited for new or existing homes.

Free-Standing Models

Another new development in home fireplaces, the Institute says, is the free-standing unit, available in a wide variety of designs. The contemporary steel models, designed in flowing modern lines and vibrant shadings such as hot orange, flame blue and copper tone, are especially useful in contemporary rooms. If the traditional is desired, they are available also in authentic reproductions of the cast-iron Franklin Stove, or "brick" fireplace.

The free-standing models may be utilized in any room of the house, such as kitchen, den or bedroom—combining warmth and conviviality with ease of installations. They may be connected to existing flues, and require no masonry or special supports.

If an ample wood supply is available, the Institute says, the wood-burning units can provide the nostalgic charm of crackling logs and the glow of embers. But if a ready wood supply is difficult, a gas-fired unit is an alternative. Lit by switch or push-button, the dancing flames resemble a real wood-burning fire, with added features of a safety shut-off and automatic pilot.

A fireplace designed specifically for gas usually is pre-fab, with a smaller flue for the venting of gas fuel residue, and equipped with a gas log and connections. The smaller flue usually will fit inside an ordinary wall with little modification.

The conventional fireplace, however, can be fitted with a gas log also, since it already has a flue.

Gas logs are designed in many styles and sizes, simulating such woods as twisted pine, mountain oak, white birch and manzanita for an authentic effect.

The electric fireplace, too, has grown in popularity, the Institute says. It is especially in demand for apartments. As simple to install as a painting, they are simply plugged into an electric outlet, where the snap of a switch starts flickering "flames."

These units require no permanent flue or built-in requirements of any kind, and are easily portable. They may be purchased with or without heating facilities. If warmth is desired, the heating unit is equipped with circulating fans and thermostat. Models are available for either 120 volt or 240 volt circuits.

No matter what your fireplace, there is the question of accessories.

Firescreens, tongs and log baskets are essential for wood-burning fireplaces, both for safety and efficient performance. With gas or electric fireplaces, accessories are primarily decorative, adding to the reality of effect. Accessories today come in a wide variety of styles from burnished brass early American to Mediterranean wrought-iron and the gleam of contemporary stainless steel or pewtered driftwood steel.

Whether home is an apartment or a single-family residence, your tastes simple or sumptuous, it can be a "hearth and home."

O-J-T Adopting Mortar Boards

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—"O-J-T" now wears a mortar board. The initials stand for on-the-job-training, a practical education in how-to, learned on the job.

It is wearing a mortar board, according to a report from Purdue University, because educators are working "O-J-T" into collegiate programs. It provides the degree students some practical experience, working under the supervision of an experienced practitioner. At Purdue, pharmacy students are getting "O-J-T" by working with practicing pharmacists.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you do it yourself, here are some bits of information that may be helpful to you:

Extra kitchen storage space can be created by cutting an opening in a wall the width of three studs and as high as you want it. Cut out the center stud and place a 2 by 4 at the top of the opening so that it spans the first and third studs. Put in shelves between the studs and use mauling around the outside of the opening to finish it off.

When steaming off or otherwise removing wallpaper, be sure to cover the floor with crumpled newspapers. If you don't, you'll find the wallpaper sticking to the floor as it comes off the wall, not only making a mess but causing stains.

In roller painting rough stucco, deep indentations may not take the paint. Keep a large sponge handy. When dipped in the paint, it is excellent for filling those hard-to-reach areas.

Plastic wood used to make repairs is difficult to remove when some of it gets on an adjoining surface for which it was not intended. You can buy a special plastic wood solvent that will soften the hardened substance and enable it to be removed.

Many persons believe a one-quarter-inch portable electric drill will not cut any holes larger than one quarter of an inch. Actually, the quarter-inch designation refers only to the maximum size of the bit shank it will handle. But bits and special hole saws with quarter-inch shanks can be used in the drill and will cut holes up to 3 inches.

After removing the old finish from a floor with a floor sander prior to refinishing, it is essential that the entire room be vacuumed before doing another thing.

(Thirty-five home repairs are discussed in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Here's How To Do It

By ANDY LANG

Q—We had vinyl tiles put down on our kitchen floor a few years ago. They are still in good condition and still solidly attached to the floor, but my wife is changing the color scheme and wants to replace them with tiles of a different color. I am thinking about using vinyl asbestos tiles. It seems like a terrific job to take up the old tiles. Can I put them down over the old tiles?

A—Yes. But it is important that any wax on the floor be thoroughly removed, otherwise the adhesive will not hold properly. An added step that will insure secure gripping power is to sandpaper the old tiles a bit to roughen the surfaces, but I have seen excellent installations where this step was not taken. In laying the new tiles, be sure that the joints do not fall over the seams of the old tiles.

Q—I am going to paint our kitchen. My wife says she wants to wash the walls first but isn't sure what to wash them with. Can you help?

A—Your wife has made a wise decision. For most jobs of this kind, washing with a mild detergent and warm water will take off the accumulated grease and grime. For especially stubborn areas, use a stronger detergent. When washing the walls, do it differently than most persons. Start at the bottom and work upwards. If you start at the top, the dirty water will run down the walls, mingling with the old dirt and causing a difficult removal task. When dirty water runs down a just-cleaned surface, it wipes off easily.

TOLL OF PARENTS

The Garden Clinic

Q What is the proper way to take care of strawberries year around? (Mrs. J. V., Raleigh)

A Two booklets available from the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service will answer your strawberry questions from A to Z. The first booklet, "Commercial Strawberry Production", is for larger growers who cultivate strawberries as a cash crop. The other booklet, "Berries for the Garden", is for the home or hobby gardener. It also covers blackberries, raspberries and blueberries. You can get a copy of these booklets from your county extension office or by writing to the Department of Agricultural Information, Box 5037, N. C. State University, Raleigh, N. C. 27607. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

Q How can I keep apples, especially Golden Delicious, from shriveling when I buy them? (Mrs. J. G., Gastonia)

A Put them in a bread wrapper or other type of plastic bag, along with a wet napkin, and place them in the hydrator of your refrigerator. (Mel Kolbe, extension horticulturist)

Q I see dozens of balls hanging on my cedar tree. The tree is fairly healthy, but something has made these balls out of silk and needles. What are they? (R. S., Bolton)

A Bagworms. They attach bags (balls) to twigs of trees—mostly evergreens, in early fall. Later the insects mature, become adults, mate, and lay eggs. The eggs overwinter in the bags. So, you are now growing next year's crop of worms. If you only have a few bags, cut them off and destroy them. If you have a lot of bags, watch for the caterpillars to emerge about next June and spray or dust them with diazinon, malathion or dimethoate (Cygon or DeFend). Two treatments a week apart will be needed. (H. E. Scott, extension entomologist)

Q What is a good location for fruit trees? (M. C., Wilkesboro)

A Frost is generally less of a problem for fruits and berries at higher elevations. Cold air, which is heavier than warm air, tends to drain away from the higher areas. (Mel Kolbe, extension horticulturist.)

Between Us Small Decencies Are A Vital Part Of Discipline

By DR. HAIM GINOTT
Note to readers: The encounters depicted in my column are designed to serve as a practical guide to improved communication. They are not to be taken literally. They should be adapted to individual situations and individual ways of speaking.

DISCIPLINE PROBLEMS often diminish when an adult helps the child turn vague rage into clear communication. For example:
Josh, 10, entered his class crying, "I have to see Mr. U. (the Principal) at two o'clock."
"Oh," his teacher said. "You look very unhappy."
Josh took off his glasses and showed a scratch near his eye. "Ray hit me at lunch," he said. "When I tried to hit him back, Mr. W. (the lunch monitor) reported me for fighting. I said 'What about him' but Mr. W. said 'I didn't catch him; I caught you. I'll catch him next time.' But he won't catch Ray, he only catches me. And I didn't even hit him; I was about to hit him."

The teacher nodded, "I see. You feel you've been dealt an unfair blow."
"But that won't matter to the Principal. He'll call my mother and tell her I can't eat lunch there anymore."
The teacher decided to show a way out of his predicament: "Josh," she said, "sometimes when I need to explain my side of an altercation, such as yours with Mr. W., I find it helpful to put my thoughts in writing."
"You mean I should write a letter?" he asked.
"You understand me well" the teacher said with appreciation. "But I can't spell all the words I need," Josh said.
"You can come to me for 'consultation' any time you feel it's necessary," the teacher counseled.

Josh with the teacher's help, wrote a letter to the Principal: Dear Mr. U.: I was dealt an unfair blow this afternoon. Ray hit me because I wouldn't pass him the milk. He scratched me and it hurt. So I went to hit him back. That's why Mr. W. reported me. Actually, I didn't even hit anyone. I just got reported for fighting when I wasn't.

I hope I explained, so you understand me. If you still want me at two o'clock, please let me know, and I'll come. Sincerely yours, Josh.
A monitor took the note to the Principal. Soon Josh received an answer:
Dear Josh: Thank you for your note. It will not be necessary for you to come now. I suggest that you explain your feelings to Mr. W. tomorrow. If you ever have trouble in the lunchroom again, please let me know so I can be of help to you. Sincerely yours, The Principal.

The best discipline is achieved by adults who have a civilized disbelief in punishing. Whenever possible they seek and discover effective substitutes for punishment.
Good discipline, moreover, consists of small decencies through which an adult reaches a child's heart.
Example: The substitute teacher caught Raymond, age 9, copying from a book, during a test.
"I'll take the book," she said. "I'll return it later."
"He's cheating," Bryan called from across the aisle. "He always cheats." You should take a red pencil and write 'Cheating' in big red letters. Put a big red zero on the paper, and have his mommy sign it. That's the way our teacher does it." Bryan concluded emphatically.
"That's not what we'll do today," the teacher replied. She turned to Raymond and said: "This is an unassisted test. Please continue without assistance."
Raymond sighed in relief. He finished the test unassisted and behaved beautifully during the rest of the day.
This teacher demonstrated skill and humanity; she refused to humiliate a child caught in a transgression. Her kind act had greater influence on Raymond than a degrading punishment. Copyright, 1972, by Dr. Haim Ginott Distributed by King Features Syndicate

A child can be spared crushing punishment if only the teacher would listen first.

J. Patrick (Pat) Kelly, executive editor of the Winston-Salem Journal and Twin City Sentinel, will visit East Carolina University Oct. 25-26 as a participant in the Editor-In-Residence program on college and university campuses. New Look For Campus Police STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—The uniforms and guns are out and blazers and slacks are in for Stanford University's security officers.

The new look is part of a reorganization of the campus police services. Even the name has been changed—from security men to community service officers.
But just in case a tougher arm of the law is needed, the new style officers carry walkie-talkies so they can call in special deputies.

Earn Accreditation In Physical Therapy

The educational curriculum in the Physical Therapy Department, School of Allied Health and Social Professions, at East Carolina University has been granted accreditation by the Joint Committee on Accreditation of the American Physical Therapy Association - American Medical Association.
The curriculum was developed in 1969, accepted its first students in 1970, and has to date graduated five fully qualified physical therapists with its first class.

To receive accreditation from the APTA-AMA Joint Committee, the curriculum was required to present and prove competent educational offerings in such areas as gross human anatomy; human physiology; disease diagnostic entities and their medical or surgical management; theory, rationale and fundamental skill in physical evaluation, treatment program planning and conduct of therapeutic programs; community health planning and implementation of roles by the physical therapist; departmental organization and management.

In addition to accomplishing the various courses related to the above areas, the student must also rotate through supervised clinical settings and develop a special area of his interest in physical therapy through a research project in the senior year.

Schools Set Open House

The Junior Historical Association of Pamlico County High School and the Pamlico County Historical Association will sponsor a film "The Cooper's Craft" on Tuesday, October 31, at 7:30 p.m. This will also be a regular scheduled meeting of the Historical Association.

The film, first in a projected series of motion pictures on the crafts practiced in the Virginia Colony 200 years ago, depicts the fascinating steps in the making of a barrel...from the felling of an oak tree in the woods to the application of the craftsman's mark to the finished product. The camera brilliantly records the work of Cooper George Pettengell, formally of London, as he re-enacts the activity of a small colonial cooperage in 18th century Williamsburg. It is a sound, color, 39 minutes film.

All members of the Association and others are invited to attend this meeting.

On The Young Side

By MARY CHARLES STEVENS

Visiting the State Fair and preparing for homecoming are some of the activities interesting Rose High students this week.

Terry Kovalchick, Sharon Lautares, Susan Martin and Peggy Watson went to Raleigh last weekend to see the State Fair. They rode in paddle boats, toured the N.A.S.A. exhibit, watched the fireworks, and tried their hands at various games. Susan took her horse and it placed fifth in the National Tailed Three Gaited Horse Stake.

Chaperoning the outing were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Allen Stox and Mrs. Fred Sauve. The Stox's horses placed first in Junior Five-Gaited Stake, second in Three-Gaited Saddle Bred Class and third in Five Gaited Stake.

School Homecoming

Rose High students are looking forward to homecoming next week. Friday an assemble will be held with the crowning of the queens and the princesses. A parade is scheduled for after school. This year's homecoming game will be played against New Bern and a dance held afterwards.

Preparing for testing are the juniors who have registered for P.S.A.T.-N.M.S.Q.T. (Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test) The tests are scheduled for Tuesday at 9 a.m. in the Rose High cafeteria. The cost is $2.50. Correct change is mandatory. Scratch paper, two or three number two pencils, page 37 from the Student Bulletin and $2.50 are needed.

The P.S.A.T.-N.M.S.Q.T. measures verbal and mathematical abilities important in college work. It is recommended for high school students wishing to continue their education.

Make up pictures were taken Thursday for those students who were absent before and for those requesting re-takes. The annual staff is now in the process of identifying student pictures for the yearbook, "Visa".

This weekend some horse lovers from Rose are participating in the North Carolina State Fair Youth Day Horse Show.

Semi-finalists for this year's Homecoming co-queens are: Fran Dudley; Kate Welch; Mary Kay Dunn; Rebecca Jones; Val McKinney; Lynn Bullock; Debbie Webb; LeAnne West; Phyllis Joyner; Marilyn Jones; Fawn Staton; Charlene Vines; Elaine Hawkins; Faye Langley; Denise Speight; and Linda Gallope.

Rewards For Steel Design

NEW YORK (UPI) — The mousetrap business may have fallen on hard times, but there are still rewards for those who design better things — if the things are made of steel. The returns, however, are in international professional prestige rather than cash.

American Iron and Steel Institute has announced its 1972-73 Design In Steel Award Program, a biennial competition started 12 years ago to honor engineers, architects, designers and artists for creative contributions to the American life-style. The 14 categories cover not only homes, office buildings and bridges but also agricultural equipment, furniture and fine art. Either individual or team designs are eligible.

The Design In Steel Award Program, known internationally as DISA, attracted more than 1,000 entries last time. Entries close at the Institute here Jan. 26, 1973, when 12 judges, drawn from a variety of design disciplines, take over.

Promote Blueberry Crop In Deep South

ALMA, Ga. (UPI)—Blueberries have been common for years on breakfast tables in the northeastern part of the United States but there's a small group of farmers in southeast Georgia who think the berry can be sold in the South.

There aren't much more than 100 acres of blueberries planted or growing in Georgia now. However, 34 farmers have banded together in the Georgia Blueberry Association.

"We are shooting for 2,000 acres in 10 years," said association manager Robert Swinney, noting that it takes about four years to get plants into production.

Georgia's main agricultural money-makers include tobacco, soybeans, pecans and cotton, but a study by the Coastal Plains Regional Commission last year showed that good management can produce profits from blueberries, and that's the lure to farmers in Bacon, Appling, Chatham, Pierce, Camden and Ware counties.

They are also intrigued by a survey conducted by the Georgia Cooperative Extension Service, indicating the prospects for marketing blueberries in the Southeast were good.

Most blueberries are now produced in Maine, Michigan, New Jersey and North Carolina but the American Blueberry Council said consumption is

Turn Up Lore On Civil War

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The restoration of the White House of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis' wartime home, and the building of a $1.5 million museum to house historical artifacts and documents here have turned up some interesting sidelights on the Civil War.

Many prominent Americans have lent their names to the restoration project, including Mamie Eisenhower, Lady Bird Johnson and Civil War historian Bruce Catton. Funds are being raised through sale of a limited number of sets of Lenox bone china — collector's items — bearing reproductions of hand-painted scenes of Civil War highlights. Each set costs an investor $900, but is expected to appreciate in value.

The Confederate White House, now serving as a museum, exhibits the sword and uniform worn by General Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, scene of the Confederate Army's surrender. Research has shown that contrary to common belief, General Grant did not ask that Lee surrender his sword, nor did Lee proffer it.

The museum also boasts tiny fragments of wool cloth from the uniform of General

Clemson Claws Virginia, 37-21

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Quarterback Ken Pengitore swept Virginia's right flank for five yards and a touchdown the third time Clemson had the ball, then led his team to a 37-21 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Virginia Saturday.

The next time Pengitore got his hands on the ball, the 200-pound junior from Haledon, N. J., whipped a 60-yard scoring pass to end Dennis Goss.

A 24-yard field goal by Eddie Seigler early in the second stanza left Clemson leading 17-0 before Virginia could get its initial first down.

intercepted pass by Jeff Siepe. His other two three-pointers were forced on Clemson by a stiffening Virginia defense.

Virginia's principal offensive weapon, other than Allen, was Kent Merritt. He took a 22-yard pass from Allen in his team's first touchdown drive and raced 28 yards from scrimmage to the Clemson five on the second TD push.

The game started off with a wild exchange of fumbles. Virginia bobbled a bad center snap on a fourth down punt attempt at its 12. The ball went over to Clemson but the Tigers fumbled the pigskin into the end zone, where Virginia recovered.

Virginia was able to get off its next try at a punt, a short one, and Clemson was threatening—only to have Chris Turner of Virginia intercept one of its passes. After that, both teams settled down.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Mark Johnson raced 68 yards for a touchdown and passed for another to lead Duke's Blue Devils to a 20-15 victory over Maryland Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Johnson ran 19 times for 114 yards and completed five of eight passes for 54 yards. Jones added 92 more rushing yards for Duke on 29 carries.

Sophomore Avellini, who has replaced injured Al Neville as Maryland quarterback, passed for 314 yards, hitting 21 of 31. Russell was a prime target, catching four passes for 113 yards and a touchdown.

Carter accounted for 56 of Maryland's 69 rushing yards on 14 carries.

Duke took the opening kickoff and went 68 yards in 16 plays with Johnson passing to end Chuck Mundav for an 11-yard touchdown. Later in the first quarter Duke began another march that went 90 yards with Steve Jones scoring in the second period from the six.

The Terrapins rolled from their 29 to Duke's 31 in the second quarter and Steve Mike-Mayer attempted a 48-yard field goal that failed. Three plays later Johnson raced around right end, cut back to his left and went 68 yards for a touchdown to give the Blue Devils a 20-0 lead.

N.C. State University has had a rallying call for the last 12 months: "Remember last year." For last year, East Carolina University downed N.C. State, 35-15 and left them with a lot to remember by. Upstart ECU was not supposed to do things like that.

And State, using the airways and the ground routes with equal authority, plus getting all of the breaks, fashioned their revenge in a 38-16 win over the Pirates here last night, before the largest crowd of the year in Carter Stadium, 39,000.

Except for one pass interception early in the game, the ball bounced State's way all night. The statistics in the game were fairly even, but the difference came many times on the

Carolina Slams Deacs For 21-0 ACC Decision

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina broke open a scoreless tie with two quick second period touchdowns and added a final score in the waning seconds Saturday to post a 21-0 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Wake Forest.

The victory, seen on regional television, was UNC's fifth of the season against one loss. It was also the Tar Heels' 12th straight ACC victory over the past three seasons and enabled them to retain first place with a 3-0 record.

Junior quarterback Nick Vidnovic broke the scoring ice in the second period with a five-yard rollout into the Deacon end zone. It capped a 48-yard drive in nine plays. A Vidnovic pass to Dick Oliver set up the scoring play.

The Tar Heels got fancy the next time they scored. Vidnovic pitched out to fullback Sammy Johnson, who completed a 45-yard drive in nine plays. A Vidnovic pass to Dick Oliver set up the scoring play.

Starting on their 31, the Deacons moved to the North Carolina 18 on a long bomb to Richard Carter on the right sideline. But the Tar Heels held on downs at the nine.

Aside from Vidnovic's injury, which was not considered serious, the Tar Heels lost linebacker Steve Early for the season. He suffered torn knee ligaments and was taken to a Winston-Salem hospital where surgery was scheduled Saturday night.

North Carolina tailback Ike Oglesby led his club in rushing with 71 yards in 20 carries. Freshman Frank Harsh of Wake Forest led all runners with 77 yards in 22 carries.

The loss was the fifth straight for the Deacons after an opening win over Davidson. Their ACC record dropped to 0-3, worst in the conference.

After a scoreless first period, Oklahoma capitalized on a Colorado fumble at the Buffs' 35. Six plays later, senior quarterback Dave Robertson scored from 17 yards out. With 1:13 left in the game, Greg Pruitt gathered in a 10-yard scoring strike from Robertson for the other Sooner score.

carry while Crumpler had nine and Strayhorn, 11. The Bucs finally got a first down at the two, and it took three plays to put the ball in, as Crumpler went over from a yard away. McLester kicked the extra point and the Bucs led, 7-0 with 4:58 left.

The angered Wolfpack came right back behind the guidance of freshmen quarterback Dave Buckley. He kept for 13, then hit Mike Hardy for 18. He went to his brother, Don for 22, and then kept for 15 more to the seven. The Bucs drew a penalty to the two, and Fritts went up the middle from there for the score. Ron Sewell added the extra point, tying it at 7-7 with 1:27 left in the frame.

State got the ball back early in the second period and moved into the lead. It took only six plays to go 45 yards after a short punt. Buckley hit Fritts for 23 yards then kept for 14 in two plays. Willie Burden got six more, and Buckley went around the right side after that for the score, making it 14-7 with 12:25 left.

East Carolina drove back down field, but had to try a field goal from 43 yards away, and it bounced off the uprights, no good.

State drove back to the Pirate 38 before stalling and turning the ball over again. This time, the Bucs drove and got the field goal. They were helped out by a 22-yard draw by Strayhorn, while State was hit with a 15 yarder for a personal foul. Summerell broke free for 25 yards to the 16, but the Bucs got only to the 12, and settled for McLester's eighth field goal of the year, a 33-yarder that made it 14-10 with 1:59 left.

The Bucs got back into distance late in the half; after a 30-yard pass from Summerell to Tim Dameron, but a field goal attempt from the 33 with three seconds left was blocked.

State took their first possession of the second half in for the score. It took only four plays to go 65 yards. Burden broke away for 33 yards and the Bucs were penalized down to the 11. Fritts got three and Buckley kept for six before Fritts went over from the two, making it 21-10 with 11:55 left.

After holding the Bucs, State drove again. They again got good field position after a punt at the Buc 47. Short drives except for a 14 yard pass from Buckley to Burden moved them along, finally setting up a first down at the five. Fritts hit to the four, and Burden went over from there, and it was 28-10 with 5:19 still left in the quarter.

The Bucs then came back with their final scoring drive. Summerell hit Vic Wilfore for 14, and Crumpler added six. A pass to Eure and a Summerell keeper put 14 on the 48, and State was hit for pass interference to the 27. After 12 yards on two rushes, it looked like the Bucs might be stopped, but State was caught interfering again giving the Bucs a first down at the one. Crumpler went over from there, making it 28-16 after a two-point try failed.

The Wolfpack drove back down the field, getting a big break when a 39-yard pass bounced off a Buc defender and into Pat Kenney's hands for a first down at the Buc 24. East Carolina held, however, and Harrell kicked a 37-yarder to make it 31-16.

The final touchdown came on another lucky break for the Pack. A pass by Summerell went off the chest of the receiver and bounced into the hands of State's Bob Pilz, who returned it to the 17 of the Bucs. On third down from the 15, Wilks went around left end for the score with just 55 seconds left.

State finished with 224 yards on the ground and 169 through the air, a total of 393 yards. East Carolina had 236 on the ground and 86 in the air for 322.

The loss was the first of the year for the Bucs, who now drop to 5-1 on the year. They travel to Greenville, S.C., next Saturday to face Southern Conference foe Furman.

Colorado Surprises Oklahoma, 20-14

By JOHN MOSSMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's fired-up defense intercepted three passes and recovered a fumble while quarterback Ken Johnson sparked the offense through the air as the ninth ranked Buffaloes upset No. 2 Oklahoma 20-14 in Big Eight football Saturday.

The Sooners had to punt on the ensuing series, and Campbell redeemed himself two plays later, taking a pitchout and rambling 43 yards down the right sideline for the first Buffs TD. Lima's extra-point try was wide and Colorado still trailed 7-6. But the Sooners couldn't move the football on their next possession eight, and a high center snap on a punt attempt sent punter Joe Wylie into the end zone, where he barely got off a pass that was intercepted by Colorado's Cullen Bryant and returned to the Oklahoma 18.

Colorado bounced back from a 7-0 halftime deficit with a pair of third-quarter touchdowns, and barefoot kicker Fred Lima added two field goals in the final period as the Buffs dominated the previously unbeaten Sooners.

Six plays later, Keyworth made a leaping catch in the end zone for another TD. Fullback Bo Matthews crashed over for the two point conversion.

Oklahoma got past Colorado's 40-yard line only twice on a Colorado fumble that led to the Sooners' first touchdown and on a desperation scoring drive late in the final period.

After a scoreless first period, Oklahoma capitalized on a Colorado fumble at the Buffs' 35. Six plays later, senior quarterback Dave Robertson scored from 17 yards out. With 1:13 left in the game, Greg Pruitt gathered in a 10-yard scoring strike from Robertson for the other Sooner score.

Johnson, hitting tight end J. V. Cain and wingback Jon Keyworth on two passes in the third period, directed the Buffaloes into Oklahoma territory, only to have sophomore tailback Gary Campbell fumble the ball away at the Sooner 10-yard line.

Blue Devils Drown Terps

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Mark Johnson raced 68 yards for a touchdown and passed for another to lead Duke's Blue Devils to a 20-15 victory over Maryland Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Johnson ran 19 times for 114 yards and completed five of eight passes for 54 yards. Jones added 92 more rushing yards for Duke on 29 carries.

Sophomore Avellini, who has replaced injured Al Neville as Maryland quarterback, passed for 314 yards, hitting 21 of 31. Russell was a prime target, catching four passes for 113 yards and a touchdown.

Carter accounted for 56 of Maryland's 69 rushing yards on 14 carries.

Duke took the opening kickoff and went 68 yards in 16 plays with Johnson passing to end Chuck Mundav for an 11-yard touchdown. Later in the first quarter Duke began another march that went 90 yards with Steve Jones scoring in the second period from the six.

Cincinnati Evens Series With 8-1 Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

(CINCINNATI) (AP) — For more than a week, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson has been saying the World Series would go seven games—and that his Reds would win.

He said it before the Series ever started. He said it when the A's won the first two games in Cincinnati, putting his Reds in a hole from which no team in the 69-year history of the classic has ever escaped.

He said it when the A's rallied in the last of the ninth inning to win game No. 4 and give Oakland a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven showdown.

Now, he finally has convinced Oakland Manager Dick Williams. Anderson's Reds routed the A's 8-1 Saturday to tie the Series at three victories apiece and set up a decisive seventh game showdown Sunday at 1 p.m. EDT with the A's John "Blue Moon" (dom) opposing Jack Billingham.

"Sparky was right," admitted Williams after watching the Reds' romp. "He said the Series would go seven—but I don't think he picked the right winner."

Before Saturday's game, he was swinging a bat aimlessly at the side of the batting cage. "Oh," he wailed, "if I could play, we wouldn't be here now."

Without Jackson's big bat, the A's have been held to four or less runs in each of the first six games of the Series. Williams recognizes the problem.

"It's a question of our hitters hitting," he said simply. The Reds' hitters finally found the combination and Riverfront Stadium crowd of 52,737 roared its approval at Cincinnati's offensive awakening.

The Reds, starting into the face of elimination for the second consecutive day, thus forced a seventh-game showdown for baseball's world championship. The decisive final game will be played at 1 p.m., EDT, Sunday with the A's scheduled to send John "Blue Moon" Odom against the Reds' Jack Billingham.

The first five games were all decided by one-run in tight, tense battles. But once the robust Reds' attack got untracked, game No. 6 was no contest.

John Bench and Tony Perez, power men of the Cincinnati offense, drove in their first runs of the series to build a 3-1 lead. Then the Reds got to Oakland pitchers and wrapped the game up with the five-run seventh.

Bench boomed a two-out home run into the second deck in left field against A's starter Vida Blue in the fourth inning and the A's tied it temporarily in the fifth on Dick Green's two-out double.

Hal McRae opened the Reds' fifth with a double to deep center—a ball that missed being a homer by perhaps three feet. He came around on an infield out and Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly.

North Pitt Rally Topples Conley, 20-18

"YOU'RE OUT," SAYS UMPIRE ENGEL — Umpire Bob Engel calls John "Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland A's out at the plate in this game-ending play of Friday's fifth game of the World Series in Oakland. Odom was put in to run for Gene

Tenace. A foul ball by Campy Campaneris along the first base line to Reds' Joe Morgan, brought Odom home, but Morgan fired to catcher Johnny Bench to give the Reds a 5-4 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

BETHEL — "What a difference a win makes!"

After getting off to a 0-5-1 start, the North Pitt Panthers have turned things around and won their last two football games.

Friday night, a touchdown by Ben Johnson in the last minute of play edged D.H. Conley, 20-18.

The Panthers got the ball with just 35 seconds left in the game on a Viking fumble at the Conley 34. From there, Johnson laid the ball in the hands of Charles Young who took the ball the rest of the way for the score. Conley drove to the North Pitt 21 before the clock ran out.

North Pitt had seen the Vikings take a 12-0 second quarter lead before they could get on the boards. The first Conley score came on a one yard run by Vic Corey capping a 53 yard drive.

Conley scored again early in the second period on a 14 yard gallop by Willie Hawkins. The extra points failed both times.

North Pitt broke the ice late in the second quarter as Billy Perkins dove over from the one. The run for two points was made by Scooter Mooring.

Conley moved out by 18-8 on the third play of the fourth quarter as Hawkins went in from nine yards out. But North Pitt surprised the Vikes as they recovered a fumble on their 48 and took it in for a score to put them back in the game. Mooring did the honors cracking in from the 11. That made it 18-14.

Then with a slim 35 seconds left the Johnson to Young combination came through for the Panthers and they had the win.

The Conley rushers plowed their way for 170 yards. The Panthers, however, were cut off by the Viking front line and only got 81 yards. North Pitt did roll to 125 yards through the air while giving up 114 to Conley.

Conley scored the first time they had their hands on the ball. They got it on the opening kickoff at their 47. Hawkins picked up a short three on a sweep and Calvin Hawkins blew through the middle for 16 yards into Panther territory.

Calvin Hawkins got three more and then Willie Hawkins went over left tackle for 16 yards down to the Panther 23. Willie carried twice more for seven and nine yards giving the Vikings a first down on the seven. He carried two more times moving the ball down to the one and from there, Conley waltzed in for the score. A bad snap on the point after throttled the kick.

North Pitt got its first opportunity as they took possession on the 42. Mooring carried twice getting six yards and Perkins added three. Perkins got a short yard giving the Panthers a fourth down but Perkins banged up the middle to keep the drive going.

Mooring picked up two but Johnson tried to go to the air twice and both missed his receiver. They had to punt.

Conley could do nothing and another kick went off. North Pitt ended up giving the ball right back as they were held to four downs. This time Conley started to move. From their own 24, Willie Hawkins slid through a hole in the left side for 12 yards and then picked up 33 as he went around the left again on a sweep. Calvin Hawkins tried to take a pitch-out but was dropped for an eight yard loss. After an incomplete, Corey threw a screen pass to Willie Hawkins who got seven but it was not enough and Conley had to punt.

Corey got off a low punt that hit Fred Glisson in the back on its second bounce. Wayne Maness alertly fell on the ball giving the Vikings a first down on the 14. Willie Hawkins rambled in on the next play for the score. The run for two points was no good.

North Pitt got the ball again with about five minutes to go in the half on a fumble by Willie Hawkins at the Conley 17. Perkins moved the ball three yards closer to the goal line on first down and on second, Johnson threw to Darrell Cogdell for ten down to the four. Johnson got to the three and Perkins sent to the one and on third and goal Perkins went in. Mooring's run made it 12-8 with 3:35 left in the half.

After much hand changing the ball found itself in the hands of the Vikings as the third quarter was drawing to a close. Charles Tyson recovered a fumble on the 49 to set up the Viking's last score. Willie Hawkins got them moving with a gain of eight on a pitch out and added six more up the middle. Hawkins drove for a slim one and Calvin Hawkins ran for two.

A screen pass put the ball on the Panther 28. That was not good enough for a first down and Conley went back to punt. They faked it, however, and Calvin Hawkins picked up seven yards and a first down on the North Pitt 21. Willie Hawkins moved the ball to the 12 on a carry of nine and Calvin Hawkins got it three yards closer on a pitch. Two plays later, Willie Hawkins went in for the score. Corey tried to pass to get the point after but missed three plays after the start of the fourth quarter.

North Pitt, however, had had enough and began to overtake the Vikings. They got the ball back with just under seven minutes left on their 48 when Young fell on a fumble. Johnson threw twice incomplete and then hit Young on a post pattern to take the ball to the Conley 14. Perkins got three and then Mooring got the call on second down and thanked Johnson for the consideration by going all the way for the score. The pass for two points was incomplete.

The Panthers got it back almost immediately as they tried an onside kick that went in and out of the hands of a Conley front-lineman. From the 50 Perkins ran off left end for three, Mooring found a gaping hole for 10 yards to put the ball on the 40. Two runs by Perkins put it on the 37 and Johnson got six on a pass. Mooring got the first as he boomed through for three.

Johnson threw twice to Young but both were incomplete. He then threw to Steve Fuchs who went the remaining distance for an apparent score. The play was called back as the Panthers had been caught moving before the snap. They gave the ball up two plays later as they could not move it.

Conley got the ball on its 29 and Willie Hawkins got the first ball and picked up one. On the next play he fumbled after a gain of four and the Panthers recovered on the 34.

Johnson called a pass—and caught Young in full stride for the score that boosted them into the lead. The try for two points failed.

Conley tried desperately to come back as Corey passed to Willie Hawkins for 33 yards and after a 15-yard penalty hit Johnny Smith for 39 down to the 21 but time had run out and the Panthers had their second win.

And to top it all off it was the Panther's homecoming.

The Panthers will have a tough contest this week as they take on the Ayden-Grifton Chargers on the road, while Conley hosts Farmville Central.

Missouri Upends Irish To Give Them First Loss

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Fullback Don Johnson scored two touchdowns and place-kicker Greg Hill booted three field goals Saturday as Missouri upset eighth-ranked Notre Dame 30-26.

Missouri built a 30-14 lead early in the final period before the Irish mounted a late charge, scoring touchdowns on a 14-yard keeper by quarterback Tom Clements and a 12-yard run by fullback Randy Huff.

The loss was Notre Dame's first in five games this season, while Missouri evened its record at 3-3.

The Tigers, aided by Notre Dame errors, dominated the action most of the game until the final Irish rally.

Notre Dame got the ball with just over two minutes to go, but Missouri back Mike Fink intercepted a long Clements pass at the 44-yard line and ran it back to the 15 to thwart the drive.

Missouri scored each time it had the ball in the first half. The Tigers gambled on fourth-down five times in the first two quarters and made the needed yardage on each attempt. All three first-half touchdowns came on fourth-down plays.

Halfback Leroy Moss scored on a 16-yard run with 8:40 left in the first quarter for the first point by an opponent against Notre Dame in the first half of any game this year.

Johnson's first score came on the first play of the second quarter, a fourth-down plunge from the Irish 1. His second touchdown came with 1:09 left in the half when, again on fourth down, he leaped over the line for the score.

Notre Dame got on the scoreboard late in the first quarter, driving 66 yards in 11 plays with Huff going over from the 1. The Irish added their second touchdown with the 8:57 left in the half on a one-yard run by John Cieszkowski.

'Bama Wins On Two Late Scores

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Third-ranked Alabama scored two touchdowns within a 36-second span of the final two minutes, the last a 22-yard run by Terry Davis, and defeated 10th ranked Tennessee Saturday, 17-10, in a Southeast Conference football game.

Trailing 10-3 and apparently whipped, Alabama marched 48 yards for the tying touchdown which came on Wilbur Jackson's two-yard plunge with 1:48 left in the game.

Then, John Mitchell pounced on a fumble by Condredge Holloway at the Tennessee 22 and Davis streaked around right end for the touchdown on the first play.

A quick Tennessee defense had dominated play until the two late scoring strikes by Alabama. Fumble recoveries inside the Crimson Tide 30 set up both Tennessee scores, the first a two-yard by Holloway and the other a 36-yard goal by barefoot Ricky Townsend with 13:06 left in the game.

The Vol defense led by Art Reynolds and Carl Johnson, continued to stop Alabama's vaunted wishbone offense and it appeared the Tide's 16 game regular season winning streak was at an end.

However, with 2:39 remaining, Davis moved his team 48 yards on only three plays for the tying score. Davis fired a 17-yard pass to Wayne Wheeler before Steve Bisceglia galloped 27 yards to the two setting up Jackson's score.

Alabama had taken a 3-0 lead on the final play of the half on a 31 yard field goal by Bill Davis. It was set up on a 22-yard interception return by Mike McKinney to the Tennessee 22, and was Alabama's only scoring threat until the final two minutes of the game.

Alabama is now 6-0 and 5-0 in the SEC while Tennessee fell to 4-2 and 0-2.

Cougars Fall For First Time

Julius Erving's back and the Virginia Squires are back in business in the American Basketball Association.

Erving made his first appearance of the season with the Squires Friday night and was instrumental in their first victory after four straight setbacks. Virginia whipped the New York Nets 130-120 with Erving accounting for 26 points.

In other games, the Utah Stars topped the Carolina Cougars 127-111, the Denver Rockets overcame the Indiana Pacers 116-99 and the San Diego Conquistadors upended the Memphis Tams 132-107.

In the National Basketball Association, Boston turned back Buffalo 126-118, the New YORC Knicks outlasted Cleveland 92-89, Milwaukee topped Detroit 109-89, Houston downed Atlanta 120-106, Golden State defeated Seattle 101-92 and Los Angeles beat Portland 126-104.

Erving, who played for Virginia last season, had signed a contract with Atlanta of the NBA and had seen action with the Hawks during the exhibition season. However, he has been forbidden to play in the NBA by a federal court, pending a judicial decision on a suit filed by the Squires.

Erving hit only 8-for-21 field goal attempts but was 10-for-10 from the free throw stripe in 30 minutes.

Jim Eakins of the Squires shared scoring honors with Erving, collecting 26 points. Brian Taylor led the Nets with 25.

Utah snapped Carolina's four-game winning streak with a fourth-quarter spurt. Willie Wise clicked for 29 points and Jimmy Jones added 28 for the Stars. Billy Cunningham paced Carolina with 23.

Tenace Threatened

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police arrested a 32-year-old man at Riverfront Stadium Saturday in connection with a threat on the life of Oakland A's catcher Gene Tenace.

Officers said a woman in line to buy standing-room tickets reported hearing a man say: "If Gene Tenace hits a home run today, he won't walk out of this ballpark."

Police later arrested Elwood King of Louisville on an open charge. Officers said he had a loaded pistol and a bottle of whiskey on him.

Tenace has hit four home runs against the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series, tying the record of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Hank Bauer and Duke Snider.

Chargers Bow To South Nash

SPRING HOPE — Southern Nash High School took a giant step toward the Eastern Carolina Conference title by downing Ayden-Grifton, 12-6, Friday night.

The win left the Firebirds with a 7-0 conference mark and an 8-0 overall record. They have only two conference games left, and hold a one-game edge over Greene Central, a team they have already beaten.

The Firebirds next face Charles B. Aycock, a team that has failed to win against conference competition going into this week's games. A victory would assure the title for Southern.

The Firebirds picked up the first score in the game, getting it in the opening period. Charles Robinson did the honors, going into the end zone from a yard away. The 6-0 score held for the rest of the first half.

Early in the second half, however, Ayden-Grifton came up with its only score. Donnie Moore got the touchdown, also cracking over from the one to tie it up at 6-6.

But it didn't last long. Southern Nash came back later in the period as Robinson dashed 51 yards to get the winning touchdown.

Robinson led the Firebird rushing with 165 yards in 26 carries. Willie Stewart, coming off a leg injury, led the Chargers, getting 45 yards in 14 carries.

The Chargers, hampered by injuries to their top running backs, could pick up only 52 yards on the ground against the Firebirds, and just 27 through the air. Southern Nash rolled up 238 yards in total offense.

The Chargers play host to and coming North Pitt next week.

Tolan Sparks Reds To Win Over A's

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — A baseball game in bright sunshine can really open your eyes. Look what it did for Bobby Tolan and the rest of the Cincinnati Reds.

a 3-1 lead.

The capacity crowd of 49,410 gave Tenace a standing ovation as he crossed home plate, courtesy of Cincinnati starter Jim McGlothlin. Mike Epstein walked and George Hendrick singled prior to the wallop. Tenace's fourth of the series.

Only four others players in history have belted four in a World Series—Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Duke Snider and Hank Bauer. No player has hit five homers in a series.

The Reds' dugout came to life again—and the partisan crowd quieted down—when the National League champions cut the Oakland lead to 3-2 on Menke's home run down the

Gonzalo Marquez, who tied a World Series record for pinch hits with three, gave the home team a 4-2 edge with a run-scoring single in the fourth.

Joe Morgan, Tolan and Rose—three players who hadn't done much in this series—then proved the undoing of the American League champions.

Morgan walked with two out in the fifth inning and came all the way home after getting a big jump when Tolan drilled a line-drive single to right-center. Morgan's speed also paid off again in the eighth when he walked, stole second and roared home to tie the contest 4-4 on Tolan's base hit.

After Rose knocked in the winning run in the ninth inning, it was Morgan's arm—not his legs—that saved the game for Cincinnati.

The A's had runners on first and third with one out on a walk to Tenace and a pinch-hit single by Dave Dunca. Bert Campaneris lifted a dying fly in foul territory along the first base line that Morgan gloved.

But John "Blue Moon" Odom, running for Tenace at third, sensed a chance to score. He raced home, but was cut down on Morgan's peg to catcher Johnny Bench for a double play that ended it, although Morgan slipped on the heavy turf just before making the throw.

Greene Central Defeats Jaguars

SNOW HILL — Greene Central throttled the Farmville Central offense Friday night and the Ram offense got 22 points to take a 22-0 shut-out win. The Rams are now 6-1 while the Jaguars drop off to 3-4.

Greene Central got its first score as the first quarter drew to a close. With :55 left in the period, Willie Forbes went over from the one. The Rams had gotten a break that set up the score when the Jags were caught for roughing the kicker on a Ram punt. The resulting first down gave them new life and they went in to score.

Farmville Central held the Rams scoreless in the second period to trail only by six at the half. Greene Central, however, came out and promptly got another score. Tim Butts hauled in a 35 yard pass from Carraway, who has been cranking them out all year. Lafan Forbes kicked the point after for a 13-0 lead.

In the fourth quarter, Lafan Forbes split the goalposts as he hit on a field from 25 yards out.

Later in the fourth quarter, Shorty Radford scored for the Rams as he sprinted 19 yards for a TD. The kick failed.

Eagles Score 20th In A Row

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville's Golden Eagles won their 20th straight game and their eighth of this season Friday night as they struggled past Saratoga Central by 21-12.

The Eagles cranked out 269 yards on the ground as they were carried along by the rushing of Sammy Gray, who had 139 yards, and Jeff Carson, who had 87. The Eagles were burned by the Saratoga Central passing attack. Robersonville gave up 167 in that department.

The first score of the night was by Saratoga Central. SC had taken the opening kickoff on their five and with the help of a 70 yard pass moved to the Eagle 25 where Jimmy Bayant threw to Randolph Finch for the touchdown. The kick failed.

Robersonville came back in the second period to take the lead on a pair of scores. The first came as Gray rambled 42 yards for the Eagles. Robin Folwer added the point after to put Robersonville ahead 7-6.

Robersonville went out by 13-6 later in the quarter as Matt Wilson unleashed a 20 scoring strike to Ricky Brown. The point after failed.

Saratoga Central threatened the Eagles in the third quarter as they scored again this time on a one yard dive by James Peoples. The run that would have Saratoga ahead failed.

Robersonville got it back later in the period as Wilson scored from one yard out then threw to Harvey Whichard for the conversion. Neither team scored in the last quarter.

Hearn Is New Coach

Al Hearn, a 26-year old native of Alexandria, Va., has been named Crew Coach at East Carolina University. The announcement was made recently by Bill Cain, Assistant Director of Athletics.

Hearn, who worked with the crew team last season as co-coach, is presently a senior majoring in business education at East Carolina.

He began rowing 12 years ago and helped to befig ECU's crew program in 1965 when a team was formed on a club basis. He continued to row in 1966 and 1967 before a two year stint in the service forced him to miss two seasons. He returned to East Carolina and rowed in 1970 and 1971.

"We are very happy to announce that Al Hearn has accepted the position of Crew Coach at East Carolina University," said Cain in making the announcement. "He comes well qualified and he knows and understands our program."

ECU will begin its crew season in the spring.

Wildlife Afield: Beating The Heat

ON OPENING DAY. Wayne Nobles and Shelton Dixon, both of Winterville, hold two bucks they bagged near Aurora in Beaufort County on opening day of deer season last Monday. Nobles downed his seven-point buck with one shot from a .30 caliber M1Carbine while Dixon felled his eight-pointer with two hits from a .44 magnum. Nobles' deer weighed 215 pounds while Dixon's prize topped the scales at about 175 pounds. (Reflector Staff Photo)

By JIM DEAN

The road was a crunchy mat of dried leaves that swirled in the thick rope of dust that followed my truck down the mountain. Deep in the gorge below I could see the stream, its pools like tiny emerald beads.

Minutes later, I pulled off the road alongside the stream. It looked bad. The long spell of dry weather had taken its toll. Where rapids usually coursed down the rocky chutes like white horses, the water barely meandered. The pools—usually deep and wrinkled by the flowing currents—were clear glass. There was not even enough current to sink the dry leaves that floated like a becalmed armada.

Fearing the worst, I stabbed my stream thermometer into the water and took a reading. I expected the water to be 70 degrees or more. It wasn't. In fact, it was only 62.

That was encouraging. At least the trout weren't cooking in water too hot for survival. That still left the problem of catching fish. Low, clear water is the bane of trout fishermen. Often, the trout stay holed up under the rocks, feeding only at night. When trout do feed during the day under such conditions, it is very difficult to find out what they're eating because there are very few mayflies hatching.

Then, there is the problem of getting close enough to make a cast without frightening every fish in the pool. Step into a calm pool, and you send out waves that signal danger. Make a cast, and the shadow of your line leaps across the water, spooking the spots off any trout within 50 feet.

"When it's like this," opined A. J. Johnson, my fishing companion. "I wouldn't be surprised if the trout could see you when you sit up in bed in the morning."

A lot of trout fishermen—confronted with such conditions sway their rods for squirrel rifles. But to others, the low, clear water that often accompanies the extended fall trout season (which closes October 31) presents a special challenge.

To beat the odds, I used some techniques and tricks I've learned from many older, more experienced trout fishermen, including A. J. You must stalk the trout like you'd stalk a grizzly, moving slowly, and staying out of the water except when necessary. Some anglers even wisely wear camouflage clothing. Many also use long, fine leaders, I prefer a 10- to 14-foot leader tapered to at least a 5X tippet. On this particular trip, I used fine nylon sewing thread as a tippet. You can buy it in spools at sewing shops, and it tests less than two pounds.

Your choice of fly is also important. Because there are not many stream insects hatching off the water, the trout are often feeding on terrestrials (land dwelling insects such as ants, hoppers and jassids). My favorite low water, October fly is a size 16 floating black ant tied with black rabbit fur.

Dry flies also occasionally work, but small sizes are best. During a small hatch one afternoon, it took a tiny size 20 gray hackle to consistently catch trout.

We also caught trout using larger flies—including the hairwings—in the faster riffles on the stream, but that was probably because the trout do not have as much time to inspect the fly. In the flat pools, big flies drew a blank.

That these techniques work can be attested by the fact that during three days of fishing, we took quite a few wary brown trout. Most were caught on the floating black ant, but one—a 17-inch brown—took a size 18 Quill Gordan tied with pale dun hackle.

Most of the browns were lying in the shade near the tails of the quiet pools, while the rainbows were invariably in the swifter water at the head of the pool.

To catch trout on a fly is always a thrill. To catch them using flies on a brilliant fall day when the water is low and clear is a considerable accomplishment.

It's the kind of accomplishment that feeds memories in front of winter fireplaces.

Increased Education Helps Cut Accidents

By JACK WOLISTON

NEW YORK (UPI)—From the ditty bag:

—Efforts to enforce boating laws in Michigan were increased 20 per cent this year and the state also enlarged its educational program for boatmen by 17 per cent. The result: A 2 1/2 per cent decrease in boating accidents.

—More than $5 million worth of power and sail yachts ranging from 40 to 200 feet in length will go on display Nov. 8-12 at the American Yacht Brokerage Show in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The five-day show, sponsored by the Society of American Yacht Brokers, Inc., will exhibit in the water more than 100 previously owned brokerage yachts, each valued at $50,000 and up.

—In Iowa, boatmen are bitter about the state Conservation Commission's proposed ban on motorboats on 900-acre Big Creek Lake, an impoundment now under development near Des Moines. Purpose of the ban is to reserve the lake for sailboating. Powerboat operators point out that some $130,000 of funds for the development came from the motorboat fuel tax.

There are also a few openings on days not listed.

—In South Carolina, a new law sets up stiffer penalties for persons convicted of negligent boat operation or operating under the influence of liquor or drugs. In addition to a fine or jail sentence, the offender may be prohibited from operating any vessel on state waters for up to two years.

—A group of 64 New England boat dealers wined perceptibly as they watched two men wielding hammers smash holes in a number of fiberglass hulls at the AMF Alcott plant in Waterbury, Conn., recently. The smashing was part of a daylong "repair school" for the dealers. After their opening gambits, the two hammer welders, technicians from Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., showed how the damage could be repaired to where it was barely noticeable.

—An ultrasafe, lightweight family sailboat is being produced by a British company which it claims makes the craft unsinkable. Known as the Durafloat 3.60, the 12-foot boat is made from two vacuum formed plastic skins of acrylonitrile butadiene styrene (abs) filled under pressure with rigid polyurethane foam. By forcing out all the air between the two skins, the material takes on a "closed cell" characteristic and does not soak up water.

—Bill Martin, a 29-year-old furniture store operator from Clark township, N.J., has been named 1972 West Coast offshore powerboat racing champion. Martin won the title by accumulating 2,525 points in just four of the Pacific Offshore Powerboat Racing Association's seven races during the 1971-72 season. He is the first non-state titleholder.

—Johnson Motors, a leading manufacturer of outboard motors for 51 years, has a new name. It's now Johnson Outboards. "We feel our new name more clearly explains just what it is our company does," said W.C. Conover, Johnson manager, in explaining the change.

Road Construction Wipes Out Fishing

You can mark the Thompson River in Transylvania County off your list of good trout streams in North Carolina. The river has been virtually destroyed as trout habitat by siltation from the new Whitewater Falls road that is being built in this area.

A N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission biologist has called the siltation "unbelievable." The road has been under construction for about three years, and until very recently when some seeding was done, no precautions against stream siltation had been taken. The river now runs muddy, like most Piedmont creeks.

A 265-foot sample—using electrofishing gear—yielded only 11 blacknose dace (minnows) and one scrawny brook trout.

The Thompson River is one of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission's 22 stretches of trout streams under "native" regulations. These "native" streams are among the top streams in the state, and they are open to fishing under tight restrictions to promote the population of wild trout.

Siltation destroys the ability of a stream to produce wild trout, and such destruction is virtually irreparable. If the stream is able to recover at all, it may not be within our lifetimes. It is a grievous and inexcusable loss, particularly considering how few really good streams capable of supporting wild trout are left in the state.

Permit Needed To Drain Pond?

Thinking of draining that pond or lake on your property? You might need a permit.

If your pond or lake is classified as public water, a permit is needed before you can drain it, and many ponds and lakes on private property are actually legally classified as public water.

Public water is defined as any body of water whose source and drainage do not lie entirely within one person's private land. That means that if your pond is fed by a creek that meanders across someone else's property, the pond is legally designated as public water. Or, if the creek leaves your pond and wanders onto anyone else's property, the pond is public water.

In order to legally drain such water, a permit must be obtained from the Division of Inland Fisheries, N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, 325 N. Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

In most cases, the permit is little more than a formality since the Wildlife Commission is interested only in knowing about or preventing drainage that might have long-term environmental effects.

If you're not sure if your pond or lake is classified as public property, request the permit anyway. It could save you some trouble later.

The first half of the Federal split season on mourning doves ended on October 7 and dove hunters who haven't already missed their share of shots at these elusive targets will have to wait until the second half of the season.

The second part of the split season on doves in North Carolina will open at noon December 13 and close January 15. Doves may only be shot each day of the open season from noon until sunset.

Openings At Mattamuskeet

If you missed the public drawing for the first choice of hunting dates for waterfowl at Lake Mattamuskeet, you may still have a chance at a desirable date.

There are still plenty of vacancies—as of this writing—during most of the season. From December 18 through December 29, there are plenty of dates available on a first-come, first-served basis. There are also plenty of openings during the periods from January 1 through January 3 and from January 8 through the close of the waterfowl season on January 20.

MARSH BEAUTY — The Fragrant Waterlily (Nymphaea odorata) is common in marshes and ponds from Manitoba eastward. The flower is large with many white petals and a golden-yellow center. The leaves are rounder in shape than those of the yellow waterlily. In the quiet waters of bays and wayside marshes this attractive lily grows in large mats, containing numerous plants, whose combined leaves often cover the water surface, while dozens of the big white flowers float amongst them.

Tooth May Help Bears

RALEIGH, N.C. — Going bear hunting this winter? If you do, and you kill a bear, the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission could use your help — and a tooth.

The Wildlife Commission is trying to learn more about bears in North Carolina so that proper management and regulations can be applied in future years to save the state's dwindling supply of bears.

Hunters who kill a bear during the season are asked to take the kill to the nearest Wildlife Cooperator Agent. The agent will then contact a Commission game biologist who will get in touch with the hunter.

The hunter will then be asked to fill out a brief form furnishing information that can be used in studies. Also, the biologist will extract a small tooth from the bear to determine the bear's age.

"The tooth will be a small one, and it will not mar the bear's appearance for those who want to have him mounted," said Dick Hamilton, a Wildlife Commission spokesman.

The program is purely voluntary, but the information collected could help raise the population of bears in the state in future years, and provide better hunting.

Local Auctions Spin A Web of Magic

Text and Photographs by Jane Keller

ITEMS OF KITCHENWARE . . . are usually a staple feature at many of the local auctions.

Whether it is the call of the auctioneer at tobacco time, heralding the beginning of fall and another rich harvest, or the "one-gimme-one-now—who'll-make-it-two?" drone of a local sale, the letters AUCTION spin a web of magic which captures Eastern North Carolinians and lures them to another adventure.

Don't misunderstand. There is no Parke-Bernet type auction nearby, but there are several regularly scheduled opportunities to outbid your neighbor or foe on the sale floor.

For Greenville residents, the nearest and one of the most colorful regular auctions occurs on Wednesdays at the Greenville Livestock Auction. The flea market-type auction, located on the Pactolus highway just off north Greene Street, offers something for almost everyone.

At 9:30 a.m. each Wednesday, the miscellaneous portion of the auction begins. For approximately three and one-half hours, farmers, college students, housewives, auction buffs and a regular group of Livestock Auction fans follow the auctioneer up and down the rows of offered goods.

Items for auction are laid out in the open air auction yard in carefully aligned rows prior to the sale. Auctioneer and followers move from unit to unit. During and before individual sales, items for sale may be held, examined tried or otherwise inspected by potential purchasers. Trash and treasures abound.

At one p.m., the miscellaneous sale stops and the sale of livestock begins. On a recent visit to the auction, ducks, guineas (both hens and chicks) and chickens of several varieties were offered for auction as well as cows and hogs of varying ages, sizes, sexes and breeds.

The Greenville Livestock Auction also sells goats, turkey, eggs, geese and just about anything having to do with farms and farm products. This includes tools, furniture, building supplies, books and housewares of all kinds.

During the proper season, melons, sweet potatoes, fresh peanuts, honey, onions, collards or other local crops may be available on the grounds from the growers, but not for auction. Sometimes new products are also available such as mill-end yardage, rugs or yarns, plastic wares, shoes and various clothing items.

According to co-owner D.M. Owens, the items offered for sale by the Auction vary according to the season.

especially livestock. Owens and partner C.G. Dickerson manage the business which was begun in April, 1946, by Owens' father. The format is essentially the same as when the Auction began, although some changes have been tried.

Other popular auctions in the area deal more exclusively with furniture, both antique and contemporary.

The Stokes Antique and Auction House at Stokes specializes in just that: antiques and auctions. Colonel George Hawley and his wife conduct the business of auctioning and auctioneering every Friday night, beginning promptly at 7:30. Their speciality is antiques and among their regular customer are antique dealers of eastern North Carolina. Spirited bidding may result from a contest over a highly desirable item. Sometimes excellent period pieces are available. Usually the prices match the quality of the merchandise.

The Henry Hill Auction Barn, located six miles south of Chocowinity on Highway 17, sells miscellaneous items each Saturday night beginning at 7:30. Furniture, tools and other items are available.

Hammers, hatchets and hobnail boots are likely to turn up at the Greenville Livestock Auction on Wednesday mornings. Hutches and highboys may be sold at Stokes' and Hill's on Friday and Saturday nights.

You aren't likely to find a Hepplewhite at any one of them.

PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS . . . line up along a row of odds, and ends at the Greenville Livestock Auction. This phase of the auction precedes the auction of livestock.

AN INTERESTED CROWD . . . gathers around an auctioneer in anticipation of putting in bids for a collection of miscellaneous items and old farm equipment being sold outdoors.

Gabriel Gyorffy Talks About His Colorful Life

On Columbus Day (the authentic one of October 12), a man who in his own way has explored the world around him spent a sun-filled day in Greenville.

Gabriel Gyorffy (pronounced Jeffrey), in Greenville on a promotional tour of Love Minus One, a film he directed (and in which he also does a brief singing stint), had some interesting remarks to make about the things that have happened to him so far in life. And the events are fantastic, as unpredictable as the complicated twists of an operetta plot.

"I'm a fatalist," Gyorffy said early in an interview in which everyone present except Gyorffy consumed coffee and cigarettes. "So many things have happened to me. It's too uncanny, the way in which these things take place.

The unexpected began happening early for Gabriel Gyorffy. Even his birth in a small hamlet in Hungary was not as had been planned. "I was to have been born in Budapest," he explained, "but my mother decided to visit some of her family shortly before my birth." As a result of the visit, Gyorffy was born in a quiet village which he describes as having "a name longer than the main street."

Music Lover

As a child, he must have been something of a minor league rebel. By long tradition Hungarians are musically inclined. "There are few Hungarians who can live without music. I'm no exception," Gyorffy said. When he was seven, his parents had him taking violin lessons. "I hated violin lessons," he admitted. At 13, this dislike turned to open rebellion when he purposely broke his violin so he could get to play his uncle's trumpet.

Youth Orchestra

"I went through all the pertinent adolescent pains that are universal to boys, whether American, Hungarian or what have you," he said. "In my teens I was an avid fan of American jazz. At 17 I organized a jazz orchestra of 36 pieces. We played jazz despite the fact it was forbidden. Some of our best numbers were Tiger Rag and Dipsy Doodle."

He smiled when recalling the sly strategy he and the young members of his band resorted to when German soldiers were present. "We simply played American music, giving it a Germanic flavor, changing the words to German. The German soldiers loved it. They beamed with pleasure over the glorious German music."

As the orchestra's leader the young Gyorffy played lead trumpet. In those formative years, however, he also mastered the accordion, playing that instrument in the summer months at the circus.

Gyorffy's love of American jazz did not divert him from considering a career in classical music. He studied at the Franz Liszt Academy of Music and was slated for a lead seat at the Hungarian National Opera. The war, however, changed his destiny.

Studied Italian

In the choice of a foreign language to study as a schoolchild, some muted chord in the orchestra of young Gyorffy's fate must have been at play. "I chose Italian," he said. "Most school children took French or German. Italian is the language of music. Fate must have grabbed my hand at the moment I made that choice." And later he explained why.

By the time Gyorffy was nineteen, he was a recognized member of the Hungarian Royal Post Offices' Communications Center. At that particular moment in history, Germany, he explained, "was still calling the shots for Hungarians."

Rather than chance being conscripted into military service on the side of the Germans, Gyorffy and his best friend, Laszlo Csordas, made a decision to escape. This they managed just ahead of the oncoming Russian troops from Budapest. "We made it into the Italian Alps," he recalled. "There we were jumped by members of the Italian underground. Laszlo was a strapping Hungarian blond who looked like the perfect specimen of a German youth.

They're Going To Shoot Us!

"The underground people pushed us up against a wall. The whole thing stunned me. 'My God!' I remember thinking, 'they're going to shoot us!' They were armed with machine guns."

Gyorffy related that the thought of what was about to happen snapped him out of his stunned condition and loosened his tongue. "Believe me," he smiled, "I did some fast talking in Italian. Thanks to having a superb Italian teacher, I was able to convince them they didn't want to shoot us."

It's conceivable that Gyorffy's dark curly hair and stocky build, not unlike that of the typical Italian, may have given credibility to his command of Italian at a time when every defense counted.

"Laszlo and I soon parted ways," Gyorffy recalled. "He went back to Hungary, stayed two years. Later I found out it was too much for him, and that he had managed to leave and get to Sweden."

In their days of adolescent friendship in Budapest, the two had often explored the fabled waters of the Danube River that divides the new and old cities of Buda and Pest.

"Laszlo loved boating," Gyorffy said, "and later became our Kyak champion."

Once more fate dealt the young refugee a winning card. Because of his experience in communications with the Hungarian Royal Post he was able, after escaping to Italy, to secure a position as radio operator. That was on the Danish ship M-S Laura Maersk.

In New York

After sailing around the world, Gyorffy decided that New York was the place for him.

The Hungarian youth — with the confidence that seems to be a special gift of the young, faced the New World in a practical, if unorthodox manner. He explained that "on stepping off the boat in New York, I checked in at a 24 hour movie house. That was not necessarily for sleeping purposes. "It was a crash course to learn English."

Fourteen hours later, duffle bag still over his shoulder, Gyorffy emerged from the darkness of the theater. "I had enough English to order a cheese sandwich and a beer," he said. He had opened a new — and thus far — longest chapter in his colorful life history.

It would have been easy for Gyorffy to have settled permanently and comfortably in a new life as a Hungarian in New York's Hungarian community. Because of his musical training and the fact he liked being on stage, he was soon active in stage musicals.

"I wanted to master the English language," he explained, "and I couldn't do it living in the Hungarian atmosphere in New York." He first became adept at speaking the language, then turned to writing and reading.

"This involved my spending a lot of time in the movies," he smiled, "and you can see I'm still an avid movie fan, only now I've gone in a new direction." In the process of mastering the English language, he discovered that he enjoys Shakespeare more than Micky Spillane.

GABRIEL GYORFFY. . . script writer and director of "Love Minus One," a first full-length film for the Hungarian born man. The film opens in Greenville on October 25.

Striking out on his own, Gyorffy sampled a number of jobs — including what he termed "a rather intriguing one but without a future." The job was inspecting bras in a brassiere factory. From there it was a stint at a candy factory, and then into a more masculine field — a job as an electrician.

Teleprompter

"Being an electrician put me once more at the right place at the right time, another example of why I'm a fatalist," he said. The electrician job was a Teleprompter on the Dave Garroway "Today Show" on NBC network.

"For the second time, my ability to speak Italian paid off," he remarked. "An Italian family who had survived the sinking of the Andrea Doria appeared on the TV show. They could not speak English and those on the show could not speak Italian. An awkward situation."

But someone remembered their teleprompter could speak Italian. "In short order, I came out of my overalls and dressed in a shirt from one person; a coat and tie from another, trousers from someone else and was pushed out on stage. My first experience before the camera."

Photography

Acknowledging that he has always been a seeker of new experiences, new skills, Gyorffy hit upon the idea of publicity photography for the people appearing on the show. He learned photography, ranging from fashion shots to publicity, from industrial to glamour photography.

"I opened my own photography studio," he said, "after being with the Dave Garroway show for five years. I like working in both black and white and in color. I fancy myself as something of a color expert. I have worked on assignments with Waverly Fabrics and Burlington Mills, and also did some early work with day-glo colors."

Like a thread of fate, his involvement in photography led back to an old love, movies. "From my studio I began covering motion pictures being filmed in New York. I got assignments for publicity kits, doing pictures, stories and caption texts." Once established in this phase of photo-publicity, he began accepting bit parts in the movies he was covering.

By 1965, whatever bug it is that gets to people loving the smell and action of filmmaking, had gotten to Gyorffy. "I left New York for Hollywood in 1965," he recalled. "I spent a year rounding out my education, one that included areas of study from studio lighting to production management."

Accustomed to writing, the versatile Hungarian completed work on a script — his second one. A young Hollywood producer liked it and wanted a director familiar with the script.

First Major Effort

"The script, as you may well suspect," Gyorffy said, "is that of Love Minus One." He says "this is my first major effort as a director. There was a previous venture, but that was like climbing a small hill. The first was a sort of travelogue. Working on Love Minus One is for me like scaling Mt. Everest."

The director points out that the film "is a low budget one, which means it was completed with a budget of under half million dollars."

"In shooting a low budget movie, as opposed to a large studio production with unlimited funds, you have to make every penny and every minute count," he explained.

"Selecting players in a low budget production presents problems," Gyorffy asserted. "It means you have to work with virtually unknowns. In my case, since I wrote the script, I had a clear cut concept of the persons I wanted for the two major roles, a visual picture, so to speak, physically and spiritually."

He admitted that choosing the right girl was more a problem than choosing the male lead. "We tested any number of likely girls," he said. "The role went to Jill Janssen, sister of David Janssen."

Gyorffy said that Mark Bond, the male lead, "was the choice from a final field of five likely candidates. He has had no movie experiences, but has been on the stage a bit."

The man of many past experiences and jobs feels he may now have discovered the one thing that fate has kept in store for him at the end of a roundabout search to find himself.

"I've been knocking around the world, looking for me," he commented. "I'm aware and feel I must beware the business of aging. The idea of retiring, of getting old and inactive terrified me."

I've Found It!

"Then, after becoming a film maker, I suddenly woke up at five o'clock one morning with the most wonderful feeling. I've found it. I'll never grow old now! I said to myself."

Gyorffy has never returned to his native Hungary. "I've been too busy," he smiled. "seeing the U.S. I dare say I've seen much more of America than most native-born citizens have. Coming to this part of North Carolina for the first time is a revelation to me." Gyorffy commented. "You have such marvelous colors in your countryside. I understand, too, this is good fishing territory. There's nothing I enjoy more than fishing, it's my one passion other than my work. Don't be surprised if I return here someday to spend several days doing nothing but fishing."

The way fate in the past has inevitably led from one thing to another in Gyorffy's life, it would not be much of a surprise if the director one day shows up in eastern North Carolina to film a motion picture and at the same time indulge in a spree of fishing.

But to get back to the present, film fans in Greenville will soon have an opportunity to see Gyorffy's first major effort in a local theater. Love Minus One is opening at Plaza Cinema for a one week run beginning October 25.

If writer-director Gyorffy has captured anything in the film of the excitement of living that he has experienced in his "fate directed" life, movie fans should have a first rate entertainment treat in store.

Business Notes

ATTENDED COURSE
Realtor Jeannette Cox, GRI, of Jeannette Cox Agency of Greenville, attended an R.D.I. course in Chicago, Ill. recently, sponsored by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.
Successful completion of the course is a prerequisite for the C.R.B. (Certified Residential Broker) designation. Before the designation is awarded, candidates must complete at least a full year of candidacy and hold a G.R.I. designation. Candidates must also acquire elective and required credits by completing various NIREB courses.

BUSINESS INCREASE
New business obtained by Pilot Life Insurance Co. during the first nine months of 1972 totaled over $815 million, an increase of more than $222 million over the same period of 1971, according to H. H. Howard, Greenville district manager for the company.
Howard said that sales of individual policies during the first nine months amounted to more than $260 million and group insurance sales amounted to $555 million.
The manager reported that the company's gain in insurance in force during the period was 47 per cent greater than the gain during the corresponding period of 1971. Total insurance in force at the end of September was $6,281,070.00.

VISITED STORE
General office employees of Heilig-Meyers' Richmond office made the three and a half bus ride to Greenville recently to visit the company's store here.
Jimmy Davis, local manager, welcomed the group and explained to them the various operational techniques of the store while the Heilig-Meyers' sales staff was on hand to answer questions about specific operational methods. Hyman Meyers, company president, conducted a tour of the facility and explained the furniture merchandising methods that inspired the construction and physical layout of the store.
The group also visited Maxwell Furniture Co. here, Heilig-Meyers' Rocky Mount warehouse, and the Roanoke Rapids Store. The company is a Richmond-based firm operating 46 retail stores in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

NEW DEPARTMENT
Kenneth Branch and Guy Mayo Jr., owners of Tarheel Toyota Inc., announced the opening of a new division, Tarheel Mobile Homes, to be located on Bismark Street.
The owners announced that Tom Coward, a Greenville native, has been chosen manager of the mobile home operation. Coward worked with Conner Homes Corp. as a salesman and manager for two years.

GROUP BUYER
Belk Tyler announced the appointment of Charles C. Hardee as group shoe buyer for Leggett stores of Durham and Chapel Hill. Upon completion of new stores now under construction in Durham and Chapel Hill, he will be a buyer for four Leggett stores in the area.
Hardee, previously first floor divisional manager of Belk Tyler of Washington, is a Winterville native and 1955 graduate of the Winterville schools. He joined Belk Tyler in 1960 as shoe department manager here.

FALL CONFERENCE
Edward Renfrow, president of the North Carolina Society of Accountants, announced that the Fall Professional Development Conference for society members will be held here Monday and Tuesday, following a roundtable workshop Sunday, 2:30 at the Holiday Inn.
Purpose of the workshop is to give the chapter members and general membership an opportunity to ask questions and become involved in the overall planning of society activities for the current year.

EARNINGS REPORTED

Four From ECU Faculty Attend Joint Meeting

Four faculty members from the Department of Romance Languages, East Carolina University, recently attended the joint meeting of the North Carolina Chapters of the American Association of Teachers of French, German, Spanish, and Portuguese at Meredith College in Raleigh.

At the separate afternoon session of the American Association of Teachers of French the teachers were greeted by Jacques Harde, President of the International Federation of Professors of French and Editor of the French Review, official journal of the American Association of Teachers of French.

Those attending from East Carolina University were: Manolia Buck, Grace Ellenberg, Marguerite Perry, and Rolly Wanderman. Mrs. Perry is presently serving as secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French.

Underwriters Hear Gilmore

James O. Gilmore, chartered life underwriter and vice president in charge of Training, Integon Life Insurance Corporation, was guest speaker at the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters' second meeting of the year.

Gilmore spoke on the subject, "The Widow's Plight", which was based on a survey taken by the Life Insurance Agency Managers' Association and the Life Underwriters' Training Council.

Gilmore stated that the survey pointed out that few widows have adequate financial security through their husbands' insurance program as only a few husbands have an ample amount of coverage.

WHEN YOU SELECT ELECTRIC HEAT, YOU MAKE LIFE A LITTLE MORE COMFORTABLE. FOR EVERYONE.

Not just your family. Though with clean, quiet, even, odorless electric heat, they're bound to be blissfully comfortable. Everyone. Because the more electricity we provide in the wintertime, the closer we come to balancing the demand for power. And the closer we come to balancing the demand for power year 'round, the better we're able to keep your rates down.

But we still have to maintain that equipment, pay the operators, and pay the interest on the money we borrowed to buy it. And since our customers are our one and only source of operating income, you wind up paying for these things. And paying higher summer rates if you are a high summer-use customer.

That's why we encourage people to select electric heat through advertising. To help balance the demand for power. To keep that equipment busy all year 'round. To see that it pays for itself.

So next time you hear that someone's chosen electric heat, give him a loud and lusty cheer. He's doing your pocketbook a favor. Not to mention his family.

IF MORE PEOPLE USED ELECTRIC HEAT, IT WOULD HELP KEEP RATES DOWN YEAR 'ROUND.

Sophie Races To Save Hawaii

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI)—In a cluttered room off a congested alley, a young woman pores over thick law books, complicated statutes and environmental legislation. She works intensely, afraid that time is running out.

Each day, while Sophie Ann Aoki fights to save Hawaii's environment, nearly 60 million gallons of raw sewage is pumped into the Pacific Ocean 3,500 feet offshore.

There are some island waters, once havens for swimmers and surfers, which are marked with pollution warning signs. Towering hotels dwarf the beaches in Waikiki, and the pounding and sawing of new buildings going up drowns out the gentle surf sounds.

An increasing number of cars congest the roads. Oahu's population, currently 645,700, is expected to reach 990,000 by the year 2,000.

Sophie admits the figures are depressing, but the 24-year-old president of a powerful environmental organization isn't giving up. She is convinced an aware and active public can keep Hawaii's waters blue, her sunsets golden and her future hopeful.

As president of Life of the Land, Sophie has been criticized and threatened. But she is unafraid and relentless in her attack against dangers to the environment, from whatever source.

Hardly a week has gone by that Life of the Land hasn't popped up in the news fighting a court battle, filing a legal petition or lashing out at a developer, corporation, state or federal agency. Hawaii's largest and most powerful companies, public utilities and the military have been among the group's targets.

Energy and Beauty Sophie, a combination of determined energy and petite beauty, has been at the center of the group's environmental whirlwind. The avid environmentalist of Japanese ancestry works day and night for a $250 a month salary "to make Hawaii a better place to live."

"This means clean water and clean air," she said. "The earth has its limits. We can handle only so much."

Although only two years old, Life of the Land's membership has swelled from the 10 founders to more than 750 throughout the islands. A makeshift office in an aging foundry, filled with law books, statutes, reams of environmental information, typewriters and scattered tables, serves as the headquarters for the organization, supported only by membership dues and contributions.

It is here that Sophie, Executive Director Tony Hodges and their staff of volunteers and law students do the sometimes painstakingly slow research that Sophie feels is a necessity for the group to maintain its reputation for accuracy. Only one libel suit has been filed against Life of the Land. It was thrown out of court.

Having lived most of her life in Hawaii, Sophie has witnessed the encroachment of Waikiki into what was once open space. She has seen the results of pollution in some previously clear waters and has smelled the smoke of burning debris instead of the fragrance of island blooms.

Saving Beauty Sophie, a University of Hawaii graduate, acknowledges that there is still much beauty left in Hawaii, and she intends to do all she can to save it. Life of the Land members warn her when they note possible environmental dangers or violations of law. The group also gets information from government workers who are concerned, but who can't change policies from the inside. Anonymous information from people who work for polluting companies is also common.

"Our primary achievement has been to make people aware, to show that citizens can do something to save the environment," she said.

"Companies here know if they're doing something wrong, someone is watching them. As a result, they're making improvements, and government officials supposed to enforce the law are also doing a better job.

"We don't move until we get the facts. Usually the information we need is available to the public somewhere, but sometimes it involves a long, frustrating search.

"First, we present the information to the offending company. If they refuse to correct the situation, our recourse is bringing the information to the press with the resultant public pressure.

"Our last resort is going to court.

"Hawaii's environment is so fragile. Our laws have got to be strict and properly enforced.

"But for all our efforts, Hawaii's air is probably not cleaner than it was a year ago, the water is probably dirtier and there's even less open space.

There are some things in life that have no price.

At Stratford Arms we try to create an atmosphere that makes it a happy place to live.

Even though our apartments are reasonably priced some people think the attitude and atmosphere are priceless. Come and see and feel it. Sorry we're all booked on 3-bedroomers but our 1 and 2 bedroom apartments are a delight.

CARROLL RICHTER'S
HOROSCOPE
 from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good day to be obstinate with friends or you could lose out where it counts the most. Make a special point to study and make an assessment of your assets and liabilities regarding money, property and possessions. A sensible approach to the materialistic is now desirable.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to quietly talk over with a favorite adviser how to put your business and social affairs in better working order. More money in the bank will eliminate insecurity you have.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have plenty of time now to get your appearance as you want it to be. Try not to argue with others. Show good friends that you are truly devoted. Get rid of that unhappy feeling.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Figure out what is keeping you from getting ahead as fast as you would like, then put the right wheels in motion. Correct errors in reports. A friend needs assistance. Be sure to give it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You want to have a good time socially and this is fine provided you cheer others up who are in the doldrums. Not a good day to work on a personal project. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you don't irritate a bigwig or you could lose valuable support now. Handling public work is fine but don't take any risks. Use your persuasive powers and you get fine results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to engage in new pleasures but don't irritate those who mean much to you. A telephone call now could be annoying but take it in stride. Show that you are a capable person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Taking steps toward paying your debts is wise today, since broken promises could be costly. A tactful approach is necessary with mate. Try to be understanding and not critical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Analyze your facts well before you discuss the matter with an associate tomorrow. Make sure you are understanding when dealing with the public. Avoid others who are in a mood to criticize.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make plans to do the work ahead of you without trying to get others to assist you, since they have other things to do. Conditions now could be confusing. Don't jump to any conclusions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Engage in recreational activities alone since others are in no mood to go along with you now. You are creative and can put your talents to work very nicely now. Perfect your hobbies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of arguing with kin, be sure to do whatever is necessary to have harmony there. There is a point of contention at home that should be eliminated. Avoid a false friend.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't act too hastily, walk too fast, or you could get into trouble today. Make sure that you shop carefully and not be too extravagant. Think of ways to improve your finances.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those very practical young people who has to be taught to be objective so the fine abilities to solve problems will be realized. Teach to be conscientious so that a feeling of martyrdom will be averted. Save money now for a good college education. Music lessons and sports are fine here.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S
HOROSCOPE
 from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening good for arranging to have your wardrobe and other articles at home, or of a personal nature, in fine condition. Entertain later, or relax to build up your health and energy. Good for deciding a better diet for the future and for planning more regular rest, recreation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your liabilities and assets well so you can make better arrangements for the future. Listen to what a clever monetary adviser has to suggest. Follow the best ideas. Think.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to improve your social life, so plan for that early in a.m., then take initial steps in this good direction in p.m. A group meeting could be just your cup of tea. It is important you dress in fine style.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you get together with helpers in the privacy of your study, you can make the right plans for greater productivity. Show more devotion to mate in p.m., and get right response. A gentle manner is wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Getting in touch early with good pals and stating your aims brings excellent results now. Attend that social affair where you can meet with people who have right answers to your problems. Use tact.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show your finest abilities to a higher-up and gain his or her support for your particular talents, aims. Then get into that civic work that can open new doors of opportunity to you. Use diplomacy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to get into new outlets or meet people who can help you be more successful. Get the information you need from the proper sources. A wise and clever manner with others is best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on the many agreements you have made with others and on how to carry through with them successfully. Showing more affection for the one you love is wise. Buy some little gift that will be appreciated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to put your points across with an associate so you can have more harmony and success. Get out together later for recreation that is mutually enjoyable. Reach a far better understanding that way, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get an early start on the work ahead of you as the new week begins, and make a good impression on higher-ups as well as co-workers. Find the right articles you need for home and wardrobe. A fun evening with friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to be with congenials for recreations and conversations that appeal most to you. Put those fine talents to work that bring excellent results. Plan to put more money in the bank in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There are conditions to handle at home that require tact and finesse in order to get right results. Try to please kin more. Don't renew some moot topic that could start arguments. Stay on the right side of life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can now make those appointments for improving health, business or other reasons and get the right results therefrom. Planning to travel, communications are fine. Briefness is wise in correspondence.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those mentally keen young people who has a flare for detail and you would do well to slant the education along lines of property management and high finance. Teach not to deliberate so much otherwise many fine opportunities pass him or her by. There is much magnetism in this nature that will make a fine impression on others. Plan now for a fine college education. Not too many sports, though.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Migrants Given Residency Break

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Sons and daughters of migrant workers are now eligible to acquire Michigan residency for enrollment purposes at Michigan State University, thus reducing tuition costs.

Under the plan, the residency test is met if the parent or legal guardian of a minor student or a student who has reached 18 has been employed as a migrant worker in Michigan for a minimum of two months each year for three of the past five years.

HIGHLIGHTS

By MARY L. BRANCH
 Hi! Let's go with the news of this week.

Senior homecoming queens were Dorothy Foreman and Jane Porter. Junior princesses were Barbara Carmon and Pam McLawhorn. Sophomore princesses were Debra Mills and Gloria Bostillo. Last, but not least are freshmen princesses Kathy White and Linda Mills. Congratulations to each one.

Science Club
 Science club officers were elected this week. Heading this club as president is Randy Avery; vice-president, Dorothy Payton; secretary, Donna Sayce; treasurer, Kim Kilpatrick; and Geneva Mobley is the club reporter.

Officers for Future Farmers of America are president, Benjie Forrest; vice-president, Joe Dixon; sentinel, Robbie Allen; reporter, Janet Bullock; treasurer, Ralph Mabry; and secretary, Clifton Dixon. Sponsors of this club are Milton Maye and Sutton Austin.

The FFA is doing research on plant anatomy as well as running tests on seeds. They are now doing Rag Doll seed germination with water tests, acids, and mechanical effects. These tests will enable us to know the how and why of seed germination. They are now participating in landscaping our school campus.

Conley's agriculture class under the supervision of Sutton Austin have also helped our landscaping. They have taken trips to the livestock sales along with planting pine trees and working in the green house. Austin also inspects hogs. This class is really making progress.

Lorraine DeCuzzi, state vice-president, and Mrs. Mary Thompson, adviser, attended a FBLA State Executive Meeting at the Durham Hotel Saturday to work with other state officers in making plans for this conference. FBLA members at Conley are busy, too. The club is planning a Candlelight Installation and Initiation service for Thursday night at 7:30, in the school cafeteria.

Club members are inviting their parents for this occasion. An invitation is also being extended to the business men in our school community who have agreed to be sponsors for the club. Refreshments will be served.

The Conley business teachers Mrs. Annie Chappell, Mrs. Doris King, Mrs. Barbara McLawhorn, and Mrs. Mary Thompson along with the 41 club members are looking forward to this meeting.

Plans are being made for the FBLA State Convention. Leadership Conference is to be held in March.

Luther Doyle from NASA came to talk with the science classes. Ron Braxton, teacher, arranged the visit for Conley. Doyle spoke to four science classes during the day. He showed slides and film presentations and models of aircrafts, rockets and the skyball.

We're the 12th school in the country to have this service from NASA. The program was highly successful.

Benjamin Dudley from Channel 9 television talked to our journalism class. He expressed many points of view which were of interest to us.

Recently selected Junior varsity cheerleaders are Jackie Costine, Jo Ann Hines, Vivian Branch, Sarah Dixon, Hattie Carmon, Dawn Branch, Diane Artist, Fannette Hines, Sandra Cox, Judith Webb and Patricia Smith. The two co-chiefs are Anne Mathews and Sandra Jones.

Conley Vikings are really becoming more courageous. They beat Eastern-Wayne Friday night. We scored two touchdowns. Wow, what a game! Keep it up, Vikings. See you next week!

Terrariums Can Be Do-It-Yourself Fun

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Plant yourself a garden in a bottle and once it's sealed all you have to do is sit back and watch it grow, says Kay Buck Barnes, who's become somewhat of an expert on the planting of terrariums.

Giant six-gallon bottles have become available in Greenville just lately and the rush is on to acquire these lovely no-care bits of greenery for living room or terrace. Mrs. Barnes plants terrariums at the Pitt Plaza Garden Center according to the tastes of whoever buys one, and the Center also sells everything needed to "plant your own," as would almost any store carrying garden supplies. There's a knack, though, and a trade secret or two that Mrs. Barnes shares here.

Clean Bottle

"Make sure your bottle is clear so your plants will show up to best advantage," she advises, adding that a liquid bleach solution left for a day or so would probably clean the bottle thoroughly. "Rinse cleaning solution out well," she warns.

Mix

"The first step in planting a terrarium is to thoroughly mix one peck of potting soil, two quarts of vermiculite, and 14 ounces of charcoal. The charcoal is absolutely necessary to promote the recycling of carbon dioxide, and oxygen, once the bottle is sealed," Mrs. Barnes said.

Pour

Now comes the tedious process of placing the soil mixture in the bottle. A wide-necked funnel or an improvised trough may be a help, but Mrs. Barnes simply uses a trowel to pour the soil through the bottle neck a little at a time, knowing this is the most time-consuming part of the job.

Water

A squirt of a garden hose all around the slanting sides of the bottle should provide sufficient moisture. The bottle should then be left alone a few minutes to allow time for the water to be absorbed by the soil.

It's time for planting now. Any plant may be used, but ones that are slow-growing and not easily broken are preferable. Mrs. Barnes suggests zebra plants, corn (ribbon) plants, peperomia, arrowhead, miniature palm trees, snake plants, and slow-growing ferns.

Plant

A stick like a yardstick or a cut off broomstick is what's used to do the actual planting. Mrs. Barnes first makes a hole in the center with the end of the stick and then eases a plant which has had its root hairs clipped through the bottle neck. She tries to aim the plant at the hole she had made for it. With the stick, she prods its root end into the hole and pushes soil up around it. She encircles the center plant with others, as many as the customer wants, being careful to keep them about two inches from the outside and far enough apart so they will not be crowded.

Seal

Once the planting is done, the bottle can be sealed never to be opened again. The moisture sealed within will continuously evaporate and condense on the sides only to rewater the plants. It is an atmosphere within itself.

Terrariums can, of course, be made in other glass containers and one with a wider mouth—say a pickle jar or an old aquarium—would not be as difficult to plant, though the soil content should be the same. Seeing if you can manage the planting stick is half the fun, though, and the bottle makes a great decorator and conversation piece, Mrs. Barnes says.

SEAL IT. . . and the terrarium is complete, requiring no care at all.

GET SOIL INTO BOTTLE. . . any way you can. Mrs. Barnes uses a trowel and lots of patience.

JUST A SWISH. . . of water around the slanting sides of the bottle should provide enough moisture for the soil.

Miss Pattie Has Watched Weather 50 Years

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The John Campanius Holm Award received recently by Mrs. Pattie Clark Mizelle officially recognized 30 years of weather-watching, but it actually commemorates 50 years of the service by her family.

"Miss Pattie," as all her friends call her, had the weather station at her home on East Fourth Street in Greenville put in her name in 1942, but it was in 1922 that her first husband, B.T. Clark, took the job.

The award, named for John C. Holm, the earliest known systematic weather observer in North America, cites Mrs. Mizelle's outstanding accomplishment in the field of meteorologic observations and recognizes her "years of service to Greenville, North Carolina, and the Nation in the collection and dissemination of river and flood information." Although there are some 12,000 systematic observers in the United States, only 24 received the Holm Award this year. Mrs. Mizelle was the only one in North Carolina.

The energetic 77-year-old Miss Pattie recalls how it all came about. "My husband and I both were from Everetts in Martin County," she said, "but we lived in Richmond for several years where B.T. was a streetcar conductor. We came to Greenville in 1920 and he went to work at the water and light plant. Just two years later when Miss Bettie Warren had to give up the weather observer's job because of her health, he took it over.

"We had the rain gauge in our back yard, just as I do now, but we had to go to the Green Street bridge every morning to check the river level. We also recorded temperature.

Warned Of Danger

"Our main job, though, was to let people know when there was imminent danger—the river's rising or high winds expected. We had to get the news on the radio and in the newspaper, too, when there was time.

"Flooding in the low grounds along the Tar River and creeks in the area occurred a lot more back then. A rise of 15 to 16 feet would put them over their banks. Yet this low ground was used. People would hurry to get their livestock and the wood they used for curing tobacco out of the low grounds when we warned them of expected flooding.

"I remember once in the 1940s Lon Rountree, who had farm land on the Tar River out toward Falkland, came into the machine shop where I worked the morning after flood warnings had been issued. He said, "Miss Pattie, you saved a mother hog and eight little pigs for me yesterday." And do you know that that winter when he killed hogs, he brought me a ham as further thanks?"

The Clarks had seven children and several were still in school when Mr. Clark had a heart attack in 1941 and died a few weeks later.

"There I was with children to raise, a fairly new home to finish paying for, and nobody to depend on but myself," Miss Pattie said. "I did the only thing I could do—I went down to my husband's machine shop and I went to work. This lasted for nine years and saw the children through their educations." Miss Pattie was married to Leland Mizelle in 1946. He then helped her with the weather observations. They had a pact—he would go across the river bridge to work each morning and if there were any change in the water level, he would call her and let her know so she could report it to Raleigh. Mr. Mizelle died in 1966, and Miss Pattie has lost two children in recent years, also.

Gauge Phone-Operated
Miss Pattie now has a river gauge on her back porch. It is operated by telephone.

Measuring rainfall is still done much as it always was, though. She simply measures the amount that has fallen in a copper container. The most it will hold is eight inches, but she recalls only one time

CHECKING RAINFALL. . . is accomplished by measuring the level of water in this copper cylinder.

HER BOSS'S APPROVAL. . . is apparent as Larry Windt of the U. S. Weather Service in Raleigh poses with Miss Pattie the day he presented her the John C. Holm Award.

Miss Rose Lewis Weds In Ceremony On Friday

The wedding of Miss Rose Marie Lewis and Jerry Wayne Jones was solemnized Friday at 8:30 p.m. in a candlelight ceremony at Parkers Chapel, Free Will Baptist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harrie Brown of Greenville. A program of wedding music was presented by Betty Slaughter, organist, and Greg Tripp, soloist, who sang "Because" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Celia B. Stroud of Ahsokie, and Mr. Donnie E. Lewis Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Jones Jr. of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Douglas E. Lewis, wore a gown of white dotted swiss lined with white taffeta. The bodice of the gown and bottom ruffle were designed of lace rose petals. The empire waist and puff sleeves, attached to fitted sleeves, were made of lace rose petals with full bell cuffs of dotted swiss. The neckline, bodice and ruffle were accented with satin ribbons and bows. The gown was designed by the bride's mother.

The bride's chapel length trail of illusion was trimmed in lace attached to the empire waist. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a white satin rose and she carried a bouquet of white mixed flowers with a touch of purple with white streamers.

The church was decorated with candelabra entwined with ivy. The windows of the church were decorated with lighted candles and ivy. At the altar was a kneeling bench where the bride and bridegroom knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with satin ribbons.

As the bride was ushered in the church, she presented a long stemmed white rose to her mother and after the ceremony she presented a long-stemmed white rose to the mother of the bridegroom.

The honor attendant was Sandra L. Griffin of Greenville, sister of the bride. She wore a floor length gown of purple and lavender floral chiffon lined with white taffeta. She wore a matching bow headpiece and carried an old-fashioned lantern trimmed with ivy with purple and white ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Don H. Perry of Zebulon, and Mrs. Paul Glisson of Fayetteville, cousin of the bride. They wore floor length gowns of purple and lavender floral chiffon lined with lavender taffeta. Their headpieces and lanterns were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Miss Jerri Lynn Turner of Norfolk, Va., cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown was identical to that of the bridesmaids and she carried a basket of lace, satin ribbon and bows filled with purple and lavender petals. Charles Culpher of Colerain, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a heart shaped pillow of satin trimmed with lace with satin streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Donald Earl Jones and Randy Eastwood, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and is employed by Atlantic Credit Co. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stokes High School and is employed by Empire Brush.

After-Rehearsal Party Following the rehearsal Thursday night, the mother and sister of the bride entertained the wedding party and guests at an after-rehearsal party.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth over lavender and centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers.

The bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice of the two tiered wedding cake, Mrs. C. H. Branton served cake and Miss Joan Gray poured punch.

A little cognac is delicious added to a semisweet chocolate sauce.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

Indian summer visitors to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee were treated to two outstanding yearly fall happenings — the beautiful changing of colors on the trees and the Southern Highland Craftsman's Fair.

The site of the annual Craftsman's Fair is Gatlinburg, Tenn. Since it began 25 years ago, the fair has grown into the best attended and most famous event of its kind in America. People from every state plan their vacations each fall to coincide with the dates of the fair.

Those who go to Gatlinburg in October get a double helping of beauty. The mountains around have been outfitted in their autumn hues and are a perfect setting for the colorful crafts inside the City Auditorium.

In the auditorium can be found the rich browns of pine cone wreaths and walnut wood and the bright and shining facets of cut stones and the skeins of wool, whose dyes come from the mountain areas.

The fair is not all looking — there is listening to be done, too. Several times each day, the playing and singing of Otto and Marguerite Wood, Aaltje Vanderburg and Homed Ledford bring back in sharp focus the songs and ballads of long ago.

The annual fair, which was concluded yesterday, is sponsored by the Southern Highland Handicraft Guild. In addition to the this month's fair, the guild presents a fair at the City Auditorium in Asheville, beginning the second Monday in July.

Besides the two Craftsman's Fairs, the guild operates four retail shops. Here can be found the crafts of guild members who live in the Appalachian mountain regions of Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

Two of these shops are located in Asheville, Alland and Guild Crafts, Bristol, Va., is the

ALMOND CHICKEN
After the ingredients are prepared, the cooking is quick.

Seasoning sauce, see below
1 egg white
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 chicken breasts (boned, halved and skinned), cut in 3/4-inch wide crosswise strips.
1/4 cup peanut oil

1 can (3 ounces) whole broiled mushrooms
1 can (6 ounces) water chestnuts, drained and sliced

1 package (10 ounces) tiny chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 package (10 ounces) tiny green peas, partially thawed
Salt to taste

1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
Prepare Seasoning Sauce and set aside. In a medium mixing bowl stir together the egg white and cornstarch until smooth; stir in chicken. In a large skillet heat the oil until very hot; add chicken and cook, turning over as needed, until it is white. With a slotted spoon remove chicken from skillet. To oil in skillet add the mushrooms, water chestnuts and peas; mix well; cover and simmer until peas are tender—several minutes. Return chicken to pan; add Seasoning Sauce. Cook and stir over high heat until thickened. Add salt. Sprinkle with almonds. Makes 4 servings.

Seasoning Sauce: Gradually add 2-3rd cup water to 1 tablespoon cornstarch, stirring to keep smooth. Stir in 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons soy sauce and 2 tablespoons dry sherry.

Necklaces go to all lengths to accent necklines for fall and winter. Monet starts at the top with chic chokers, stunning collars and soft fill-ins, all specially designed to fill, frame and feminize a simple or open neckline.

Couple Speaks Vows In Saturday Afternoon Rites

OLD GREENWICH, Conn. — The marriage of Miss Carol Ellen Johnson and Rodney Alan Hawes took place Saturday at 2:00 p.m. in the First Congregational Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Pickette Johnson of Old Greenwich, formerly of Greenville, N.C. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Tapley Hawes of Stamford, Conn.

The Rev. Gabe Campbell, pastor of the First Congregation Church, Stamford, officiated. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an heirloom gown of candlelight slipper satin with appointments of Brussels lace. Her veil of French illusion was attached to a caplet of matching Brussels lace and extended to the end of her cathedral length train. Her long gauntlets of matching Brussels lace were fastened with miniature slipper satin buttons. She carried a cascade of white rosebuds, cymbidium orchids and stephanotis with miniature ivy.

The bride's sister, Miss Alice Sheridan Johnson, of Old Greenwich was maid of honor. The matron of honor was Mrs. Mark Waga of Riverside, Conn. Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Lynn Johnson, sister of the bride, of Lenox, Mass., and Miss Joan Losito of Greenwich, Conn.

The bride's attendants were dressed alike in old-fashioned floorlength gowns of soft beige accented with miniature cinnamon floral patterns. Their full skirts were trimmed in layers of sweeping ecru lace. They wore matching hats and carried bouquets of cut fall flowers of amber and bronze highlighted with lunaria and miniature ivy.

The bridegroom's brother, Robert Hawes, of Stamford, Conn., was best man. The ushers were Gary Bache of New Canaan, Conn., Dwight Corning of Redding, Conn., and Curtis Anderson of Stamford, Conn.

Miss Johnson is a graduate of Greenwich High School and attended Wingate College, Wingate, N.C. She recently graduated from the Greenwich Hospital School for Practical Nursing.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Bertis McKay Johnson of Wallace, N.C. and the late Dr. Johnson, formerly of Greenville, N.C., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Heber Randolph Munford of Greenville, N.C.

Mr. Hawes graduated from Stamford High and from Gettysburg College Gettysburg, Pa. He received his M.S. degree from Wagner College in bacteriology.

He is employed by the Greenwich Hospital, Greenwich, Conn. He served in Vietnam with the U.S. Army Medical Corp.

Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, Mr. and Mrs. Hawes will make their home in Stamford, Conn.

Look Out Below! It's Raining Fish

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a fish falling from the sky?

My husband is serious about the fact that once when it was raining, he saw a small fish coming down with the rain!

When I laughed at him, he explained that the sun had picked up the egg from the stream, and it hatched in the sky, so when it rained, a live fish came down.

I think this is ridiculous and that my husband needs help. I'd like to hear from you. WONDERING IN KANSAS

DEAR KANSAS: Your husband's story sounds fishy to me. Are there any placitologists out there who can reel in the answer to this? I seem to have heard this fish tale before.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "Little Old Lady Baby Sitter" who thinks baby sitters should form a union because they are underpaid and overworked:

If they feel abused, all they have to do is refuse to sit for the abusive parties. I think we parents should form a union. We pay a sitter 75 cents an hour to do nothing but sit. Our baby is asleep when she gets here, and all our sitter has to do is watch TV, snack, and talk on the telephone, which is the reason our line is always busy when we call home to see if everything is all right.

About snacking: we have had sitters consume five and six bottles of soft drinks in one evening, and clean out a filled cookie jar to boot. We should turn in a bill for what they eat above and beyond what we think is normal.

ABUSED PARENT

DEAR PARENT: Turn about is fair play. If you feel abused by your sitter, get another sitter. But wouldn't it make more sense for parents and sitters to air their gripes to each other and lay down some ground rules?

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked if honesty paid. Let me tell my story:

On a beautiful sunny afternoon, I took my wife and children to lunch in the country. En route home I had to make a phone call so I stopped at a gasoline station, opened the telephone book and found a coin purse with about $300 in it. No identification—no nothing. I was on my way to turn it in to the service station attendant when a woman drove up and asked if anyone had seen her coin purse. I immediately handed it to her. She had just cashed a check and was en route to the airport to visit a sick relative. She wanted to give me a reward. I said, "No, thank you. A person doesn't need a reward for being honest."

I hope my children remember this episode.

RON PELL, RIVERSIDE, CAL.

DEAR RON: They will now.

DEAR ABBY: I got a kick out of "No Gambler"—the gal who went to the races with a guy who gave her $2 to bet a horse. Her horse came in and paid $70, she offered the guy half, and he said if she didn't give him the whole $70 he wouldn't take her home, so she kept the $70 and she took a bus.

You told her she was better at picking horses than people and to stick with whole horses. Well, listen to this:

I took a gal to the races and gave her $10. She picked a long shot and won $600. She thanked me for the thrill of winning and shoved the $600 in my pocket. I tried to stick it in her purse but there was no way she would keep a dime.

With the world so full of grabby broads you can imagine how big a hit this kid made with me. I must have sent her $3,000 in perfume and jewelry. In fact, if I wasn't already married, I'd have asked her to marry me.

Hives Started Her Beauty Business

By RENA PEDERSON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — It isn't enough for Dina Merrill to be nestled in the Post Toasties family fortune, with actor Cliff Robertson for a husband and an acting career for herself. "I want to be busy and creative all the time," she said with a technicolor smile. So she has added the cosmetics business to her roles as wife, mother, actress. "It all started when a cosmetics company sent me some makeup that gave me huge, GIANT hives!" she explained. "I was furious that such products could be on the market and I protested to a cosmetics executive. It wasn't their makeup that broke me out, but I told them they ought to bring out a makeup that was absolutely safe for the consumer and easy to use." She shook a headful of honey blonde hair—immaculately coiffed—and said, "There's no reason for some of the things on the market now. They just confuse the consumer and her complexion." The cosmetics company gave Miss Merrill the go-ahead to develop her own products. Now she spends a lot of her time jetting to department stores across the country, telling women who wish they looked like her how they can try—with her beauty supplies. "It's fascinating to me," Miss Merrill says. "I like the people. I like the selling, I like the creative end such as designing the packaging. I just like the challenge." The new role fits in with her motto, "You're never too busy to squeeze in one more thing." Miss Merrill, 47, has three grown children from her marriage to Stanley Rumbough Jr., and she and husband Cliff have a 4-year-old daughter, Heather Merriweather. She said they don't mind her new responsibilities, "Because we have a great sharing and giving relationship." Miss Merrill, whose grandfather was Charles Post, the cereal king, was taught not to rest on the family wealth: "My mother made me learn shorthand and typing so I could always earn a living." She tried acting instead and was a success playing sophisticated beauties. Her upcoming projects include two movies, "The Walking Major," and "Throw Out the Anchor." Then she has appearances scheduled this fall on "The FBI," "Night Gallery" and "Movie of the Week" on television.

Program On Needlecraft Given At Meet

A program on needlecraft highlighted the meeting of the Bonae Artes Book Club held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Virgil Clark. Mrs. Joseph Downing, who is learning lab coordinator for basic education at Pitt Technical Institute, presented the program.

She displayed examples of varied types of needlework such as crewel embroidery, canvas and Danish embroidery and explained the characteristics of each particular type of handiwork.

Pitt Tech offers a class in canvas embroidery at Oakmont Baptist Church, which is taught by Mrs. Downing.

A short business meeting followed the program and refreshments were served.

Sealed With A Kiss In Bonn

BONN, West Germany (WNS) — The new symbol of this capital city is a pair of feminine lips parted for a kiss. It adorns posters throughout the city. Lapel buttons display the word "Bonn" with the "o" replaced by the pretty mouth. Visiting businessmen receive neckties as gifts with the kiss as decoration in lipstick red on dark blue background. And what is there for the ladies? "In preparation," explained a local official, "is a replica of a coin minted in 1919."

Swimming Champion's Love For Water

By JOHN KIRSHON
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic champion Shane Gould—who at the age of 15 has broken five Olympic and world records and been heralded as the greatest woman swimmer in the world today—began a love affair with the water before she could even walk.

When she was an infant the future Olympic star cried when bathtime ended, recalls her mother, Shirley Gould, who has just completed a book about her daughter's aquatic abilities. "Swimming the Shane Gould Way," Mrs. Gould further notes that her daughter could manage the dog paddle at the age of 3 and was a budding expert with a snorkel and mask round the reefs of the Fiji Islands at the age of 5.

"In Fiji the weather was always warm and swimming was just the thing to do," the young Australian explains.

On a visit here with her mother, following her prize-winning performances at Munich where she won one bronze, one silver and three gold medals, Miss Gould claimed that she does not think she has reached her peak at 15 and a half. "Women swimmers reach their peak anywhere from 14 to 17," says history's youngest gold medal winner from Australia. Will she, then, try for a repeat performance at the 1976 Olympics?

"I'm just going to take each year as it comes," she says.

Miss Gould uses a special two-beat kick that most swimmers only use for long-distance racing. She also follows a personal low-fat, high protein diet that calls for extra rations of vitamins C, B and E.

While she considers the discipline and diet essential, Miss Gould attributes her aquatic success more to a natural ability. "I go in for school sports whenever I can—tennis, sailing, surfing, high jumping, women's basketball—you name it. I guess I'm just very athletic."

remarks the tall, blonde teenager who is in her fourth of six years at Turramurra High School in Sydney.

"But swimming is the thing that's fun all the time—it just comes naturally to me," she adds, noting that her three sisters enjoy swimming as well.

As further proof of the young Australian's natural ability in the water, Mrs. Gould cites the fact that many experts have noticed that "Shane does not fight the water like some swimmers but rather is propelled by it."

While Miss Gould says that the Olympics have not always been a goal of hers, in the last two years she has stopped playing all other sports and limited other outside activity for preparation and full-time training. Of the 1972 Olympics she observes. "It was a fantastic festival of youth. Everything that happened was done for and by kids. I made a lot of friends, listened to a lot of new records and discussed fashion, which is another of my interests. Everything was so relaxed, except for the opening ceremony which made me a little jittery, and then the violence that interrupted everything."

After the terrorism that broke the "Olympic peace" she says that "most people just wanted to go home. It was tough after that to concentrate on competing."

Despite the tragedy, Miss Gould feels the Olympic experience was well worth it for her and for the other young athletes.

"Although all the training and discipline may sound like a lot of pain and agony I get an enormous amount of personal satisfaction and enjoyment from swimming," the young Olympian says. "Really, I'm just doing my thing."

Woolfolk-Origer Vows Solemnized New National Law Changes Their Lives

LOUISA, Va. — In a double ring ceremony Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in the Louise Baptist Church here Miss Nancy Ann Origer became the bride of Cosby Lee Woolfolk.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Garland Sparks. Mrs. Nancy Pennington, cousin of the bridegroom, organist, and Miss Patti Daniel soloist, presented a program of wedding music.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Origer of Wilmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson LaVert Woolfolk of Rt. 2, Louisa, Va.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown with peau d'ange lace. The gown was designed with an A-line skirt with an empire lace bodice. The front panel featured beaded trim. Her Camelot headpiece had a lace border. The bride carried a cathedral mantee of ivory flowers, pink sweetheart roses, white pom poms and ivy.

The honor attendant was Susan T. Parlier of Camden, S.C., cousin of the bride. She was attired in a floor length gown of moss green chiffon veiled over taffeta designed with a tucked bodice, high neckline and long bishop sleeves. The A-line skirt was gathered at the waistline and accented by contrasting braid. She wore a gold picture hat and carried a basket of ivy and fall flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Duke of Richmond, Va., and Miss Rosebud Woolfolk of Louisa, Va., both sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael Cross of Vienna, Va., and Mrs. Richard Thurston of Chapel Hill, N.C.

Their floor length gowns were styled identical to that of the honor attendant. They wore moss green picture hats and carried bouquets similar to that of the honor attendant.

Miss Teri Woolfolk of Huntington, W. Va., cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her moss green dress was styled like that of the honor attendant accented by gold velvet ribbon at the waistline. She carried a basket of fall flowers.

Following a wedding trip to western points, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Louisa, Va.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by Louisa Tractor and Implement. The bridegroom is a graduate of Virginia Commonwealth University and is employed at Holly Farms Poultry Industries, Richmond, Va.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social hall.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Origer, Mrs. George Monte, Mrs. Dixon Parlier, Mrs. Thomas Mann, Miss Nancy Bowen and Mrs. Robert Lee Woolfolk.

ROME (UPI)—Anna Alterisi is a 53-year-old illiterate widow who scrubs and polishes three hours a day six days a week for a Roman family.

Olivia Mercanti is a 31-year-old Sicilian who works 10 hours a day as a maid, babysitter, cook and cleaning woman for a different Rome family.

A new national law has changed their lives considerably — and made the subject of domestic labor a major topic of conversation.

After introduction of the new law, Miss Mercanti lost her job and Mrs. Alterisi kept hers. It was a matter of money.

The law overhauled the whole system of domestic labor and introduced unemployment, sickness, maternity and old age pensions for 620,000 women who cook, clean and care for children in Italian homes.

Under the law, even such occupational titles as maid, governess, cook and cleaning woman disappeared and were replaced officially by a more dignified title — domestic collaborators.

Basically, the law revamped the social security legislation covering women who work under other people's roofs. It also sharply increased the cost employers pay for the privilege.

The new domestic deal is so complicated the U.S. Embassy issued a booklet so diplomats could figure it out. So did the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

Not everyone is happy about the new deal.

"The battle, which lasted so long, is over," said Le Colf, the weekly magazine for domestic employees. "But someone rightly asks if this glass of water is poisoned, if this progress does not kill the profession?"

Too Much for Employer
Miss Mercanti might say yes. She lost her job, which paid 88,000 lire ($151.36) a month plus room and board, because the new law required her employer to pay 20,000 lire ($34.40) more a month in social security benefits. He said that was too much.

Mrs. Alterisi might say no. She kept her job, which pays 2,000 lire ($3.44) a day, because her employer must pay only 640 lire ($1.10) weekly in social security. He said that was reasonable.

Not many domestic employees — or their employers — can figure out what the new law means. But basically, social security payments are determined by the number of hours maids work, how much they are paid and even the size of the city where they work.

The chief beneficiaries are women like Mrs. Alterisi, working less than four hours a day in households which never reported them to the social security service. This meant no social security benefits for them if they lost their job, became ill or pregnant or reached retirement age.

A recent occupational survey estimated it costs 1.6 million lire ($2,800) a year to keep a maid, not counting room and board. This makes a maid a luxury by Italian standards.

The new law, experts estimated, adds about 324,800 lire ($560) to the annual cost of a maid. These are the figures Romans kick around the terrace and swimming pool.

Pensions range up to 124,000 lire ($213.28) a month after 40 years' service as a fulltime domestic. Maternity benefits include partial pay for six months and unemployment benefits start at 400 lire (69 cents) a day for six months.

Chapter Program To Be Held On Monday Night

Mrs. Carolyn Bobbitt, president, and members of Zeta Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be hostesses for a program and reception at the Holiday Inn Monday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Lyda Moody from the International headquarters of Beta Sigma Phi, Kansas City, Mo., will show a 14-minute movie of the organization's activities in 50 states and 22 foreign countries. She will also be keynote speaker for the event.

Beta Sigma Phi is the largest Greek letter organization in the world although it has no connection with any college or school. It is cultural, social and service oriented and memberships are transferrable when members move. Each chapter has two cultural programs per month, September through May.

Through projects members work on, over $200,000 has been given to Cancer Research. $225,000 to Girls Town, a home for homeless girls, $30,000 to the Multiple-Handicapped Children's Clinic and many thousands of dollars to blind children, retarded children, orphanages and homes for the aged.

Guest speaker this year for the Carolina Convention was Art Linkletter, who aided members in their efforts to help with drug rehabilitation throughout the county.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, a number of invitations will be extended to local housewives and business women to become members of the local chapters.

One Of The Good Things

BILL COSBY'S GOT SOMETHING TO chuckle about because "The Electric Company" begins its second season, October 23 at 12:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. M-F on Channel 25, University of North Carolina Television. Cosby is just one of the good things on this series from the "Sesame Street" people designed to teach reading skills to youngsters, which last year was the most widely used School Television series throughout North Carolina. THE ELECTRIC COMPANY combines music, comic skits by Cosby and a seven-member repertory company of actors, animation and wizardly electronic effects to teach young readers a "decoding" approach to the written word. This year's series will feature guest appearances by such famous "teacher's aides" as Rowan and Martin, Jean Stapleton and Carroll O'Connor of "All in the Family," and Arnie Johnson. Last year over 10 per cent of North Carolina's teachers used this series in their classrooms. Photo courtesy Children's Television Workshop)

Dom DeLuise A 'City Farmer'

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dom DeLuise, Dean Martin's sidekick and barber on the weekly variety show, moved to Hollywood from Manhattan five years ago and has become a city farmer of sorts. He and his wife, actress Carol Arthur, live in the suburb of Pacific Palisades where he cultivates a small orchard of avocados, figs, oranges, lemons and plums. He also raises his own tomatoes and squash and pitches in with his wife when it comes time to do the cooking. For a Brooklyn-born boy, Dom might just as well turn his attention to animal husbandry, too. The DeLuise household includes a dog named Nancy, Malibu (a cat), Woody Woodpecker (a parakeet), a rabbit named Dixie and four unnamed guppies in a bowl with a pair of goldfish, Pinnocchio and Monstro.

The trees and vegetable garden are a hobby with DeLuise as well as a source of provender. But the menagerie is strictly the doing of the comedian's offspring. The DeLuise union of seven years has been blessed by three sons: Peter, 6; Michael, 3; and David, 9 months.

Dom—for Dominick—takes the two older boys trout fishing, swimming and bowling. "I want to give them a real sense of family," says DeLuise. Until he visited Italy recently Dom was convinced his parents were mistaken about his heritage. "I thought the name was French," DeLuise explains, "even though my parents came from Spinoza, Italy. Well I visited the city and half the people there had the name of DeLuise. So I'm 100 per cent Italian."

This pleases the performer, who enjoys cooking Italian dishes although Carol knows her way around the kitchen as well as anyone, and their housekeeper is a fine cook herself. Dom reports for work only three days a week, and often spends only an hour or two rehearsing a specific sketch with a guest star. One day a week—Friday—Martin and the entire cast work together beginning at noon. While Dom and other members of the troupe go through their paces Dean watches on a monitor. By 4 p.m. an audience fills stage 3 at the studio and the show goes on. Usually both the dress rehearsal and the final polished version are taped. Producer-director Greg Garrison then takes the best footage from both shows and splices them together. This leaves Dom with considerable time of his own.

Long Drive
Dom's principal nuisance in life is the long drive from his home to NBC studios in Burbank where "The Dean Martin Show" is taped. Dom reports for work only three days a week, and often spends only an hour or two rehearsing a specific sketch with a guest star. One day a week—Friday—Martin and the entire cast work together beginning at noon. While Dom and other members of the troupe go through their paces Dean watches on a monitor. Edw. G. Robinson Says Sense Of Humor Helpful

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"What you have to do in our profession is maintain your sense of humor. When you feel yourself starting to get serious, that's when you should start smiling. When you get more serious, break out laughing. That's the only way to keep your sanity."

Edward G. Robinson was philosophizing about his long survival in the film world. For proof of his theory, he offered the example of another relic of the gangster-movie era—"The won some awards and then became so dignified that he lost touch with reality."

It could never happen to Edw. G. Robinson.

He continues his distinguished acting career with a twinkle in his eye, refusing to be impressed with Hollywood or himself.

Robinson demonstrated his attitude recently when MGM gave him a champagne reception to celebrate his 101st movie, "Soylent Green," a science fiction story about overpopulation in the 21st century. Costar Charlton Heston delivered a flowery speech, Robinson's oldtime leading lady Joan Blondell gave him a kiss, and onetime boss Jack Warner tossed in some wisecracks. Robinson cut a cake and responded with gracious thanks.

Later he admitted, "This isn't my 101st picture. More like 120th. My God, I've done so many that I lost count long ago."

"I'm the kind of guy who keeps track of nothing, saves nothing. Oh, when I was a kid starting out in the theater, I saved my reviews. Then it was simple. You go out of town with a play, you get reviews. You come into New York, you get more reviews."

"But how the hell are you going to collect reviews on a movie when it's opening everywhere? After I got in pictures, I gave up saving anything."

Except art. He was the first of the famous Hollywood art collectors, amassing a gathering of Renoirs, Gauguins, Corots and Matisse that made his Beverly Hills home an art-lover's paradise.

The collection was sold as part of the divorce settlement with Robinson's first wife. He has since assembled a more modest but equally lovely group of paintings and sculpture.

"Art is a surcease from sorrow; it makes your life livable. I never tire of my art, never."

Nor does he seem to tire of his acting career. He'll be 79 on Dec. 12, but he continues at a steady pace. Earlier this year he made a film in Israel—"mainly so I could get to Europe again, and I went first-class, which is the best way." He is performing in three television specials for Ford, traveling to various parts of the country.

"How long will I stay at it? As long as it's fun, as long as I can keep my sense of humor."

GUESTS OF 'CANNON'
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—George Maharis and Stefanie Powers will be seen in guest roles of the "Cannon" television series this season.

CAST ADDITION
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Chuck Connors has been added to the cast of MGM's "Soylent Green" starring Charlton Heston, Leigh Taylor-Young and Edward G. Robinson.

BAKER STARRING
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Joe Don Baker will star with Walter Matthau in Unigensal's "Carley Varrick."

In addition to putting in the garden, he jogs around the block a time or two each morning to get his heart started. Dom belongs to a health club where he exercises and swims.

DeLuise has planted grapevines on his property and anticipates the day when he can stomp his own wine.

"California is wonderful for growing things," he says. "When I was a kid in Brooklyn my neighborhood was full of gangsters and killings. But I saw nothing wrong with that. I thought it was part of growing up."

Growing fruit and vegetables, he concludes, is better.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Has any new—and still unproven—series ever achieved cover exposure on TV Guide as quickly as CBS' "Bridget Loves Bernie," which premiered only two weeks before this relative of "Abie's Irish Rose" was given the big break? It is to ponder!

Jim Henson's Muppets will be part of the Perry Como special on CBS Dec. 6. Henson will present some new puppets as well as the familiar Muppets of "Sesame Street."

A forthcoming made-for-video movie, "Tenafly," one of NBC's "World Premiere" films, has James McEachin playing a black private investigator involved in the murder of the wife of a controversial talk show host.

Feb. 11 is the date for a 90-minute CBS special titled "Duke Ellington...We Love You Madly." The noted musician will appear on the show along with a couple of dozen stars paying tribute to his talent as a composer and orchestra leader during a career that began in 1916.

Hosts for the annual New York City Thanksgiving (Macy) parade on NBC Nov. 23 will be Joe Garagiola, Lorne Greene and Betty White, who are no strangers to such an assignment.

Don Rickles, the comedian who puts down everyone with his cutting comments, is the star of a CBS special scheduled for Dec. 12. Guests will be comedienne Anne Meara, dancer-singer Juliet Prowse and Harvey Korman of "The Carol Burnett Show."

17th Annual Faculty Show At Kate Lewis Gallery

Each year one of the most eagerly awaited art events in Greenville is the annual faculty show of the School of Art, East Carolina University.

The 17th annual, now on view, is up to the standard of overall excellence and enjoyable viewing that in past years has made this a consistently rewarding show.

Installed in the newly opened Kate Lewis Gallery in Whichard Building on campus, the exhibition was the subject of a gala opening on Thursday night that drew a large number of people.

While the Kate Lewis Gallery is an improvement over the several smaller galleries of the Greenville Art Center where the annual had been shown in recent years, there remains a pressing need for more space to achieve the proper viewing perspective this annual deserves. (This chronic drawback will hopefully be remedied when the new art building is constructed).

Twenty-six faculty artists have contributed to this show. (The catalog lists all except Annette Williams. It would, incidentally, be helpful if catalog listed the first name of artists instead of a single initial). Also, viewers looking for Robert Rasch's work will not find it in the gallery — his contribution is an untitled 16mm movie that was shown twice on opening night.

Although no startling new developments or radical departures in the output of individual artists is in evidence, there are several artists whose work reflect new approaches within the framework of their particular style.

Gerald Johnson, for example, has four relatively small works that are compact derivations from larger, earlier constructed works. Donald Sexauer, by showing older and more recent prints, affords a ready contrast of dark and light periods of his work. In both, an aura of sadness prevails. Sexauer's people never smile.

Continuing experiments with graph paper, Mel Stanforth has incorporated full mint panes of one and two cent stamps in a two part work. Sara Edmiston's door knockers, door pulls and bells are objects of beauty and fine craftsmanship that reflect hints of the Renaissance period, Art Nouveau and modern simplicity.

Norman Keller has a delightful touch of humor in one of his sculptures, Portrait of the Inside of My Boots; and Ed Reep's painting, Microcosmos compels the viewer to let the eye wander from one cluster of details to another in this large, nature derived painting that gives the illusion of being many layered. Janet Fischer and John Satterfield in jewelry creations; and Charles Chamberlain and Paul Minnis in ceramics reveal the intricacy and skill that go into examples of beautifully crafted pieces.

... Elliott painting

... Keller sculpture

... Peterson macrame (detail)

... Hartley painting

Paul Hartley's two paintings make use of figures in entirely different styles; the static posture of two facing figures in one painting; and the entwined flow of a multiple group of figures in a second painting. Elizabeth Ross, in a drawing and again in a print, presents studies of the nude figure.

Two newcomers are represented in this year's show. Peter J. Peterson has three works. One, a large macrame in a formal design, imposes a masculine approach on a feminine motif. Annette Williams is represented by a painting of carefully controlled duplicated form and light colors. In addition to faculty artists mentioned above, other faculty members showing in this annual are: Joe Buske, a tapestry; Robert Edmiston, a sculpture;

Tran Gordley, landscapes; Francis Neel, paintings; Betty Petteway, paintings; Dorothy Satterfield, pastries; and Dr. Francis Speight, landscapes.

The 17th Annual School of Art Faculty Exhibition will be on view through November 2. This is a once a year opportunity to get a collective viewpoint of what the faculty artists are achieving. Viewing hours are during the regular business hours of the university.

Farmville Annual Announced

The Farmville Art Society has announced plans for its tenth Annual Art Show at the Farmville Art Center. The event will take place from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. on October 28 and 29; and again from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on October 30 and 31.

This year, more than 150 works are to be shown by members of the Farmville Art Society. Members come from an area within a radius of 20 miles of Farmville. Mrs. Mildred society; Mrs. Ruth Mercer is chairman of arrangements for the show. First, second and third place awards will be presented in the categories of landscapes, seascapes, portraits and still life. Persons attending the show will have an opportunity to vote for their favorite painting of the show.

Miss Clara Flanagan and Dan Morgan are instructors in art at the Farmville Art Center. The public is invited to attend the annual Farmville show for which no admission charge is made.

Spring Mills 1972 Winners

Winners in the 14th annual Spring Mills Art Contest and Show at Ft. Mills, S.C. have been announced this week. Miss Joan Gregory, acting chairman of the Art Department of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, was awarded $1,000 first place for a collage, "Hilton Head Series No. 1." Other cash awards went to Ricky Baty of Columbia, S.C., second place $250, for a mixed media portrait. Miss Minnie Green DesChamps of Sumter, S.C. received a third prize of $100 for one of her primitive paintings entitled "Peach Pickers." A conte crayon drawing by Charles DeAntonio, Jr., Mt. Pleasant, S.C. was chosen for the fourth prize of $100.

poet platt to read poetry here tuesday

eugene robert platt, poet, will read some of his poems in the auditorium of the Nursing School on the East Carolina University campus at 8:00 p.m., Tuesday. Admission is free and the public is invited.

While on campus, platt will also conduct a workshop in poetry for students and area poets. The workshop schedule is 4:00 p.m. Tuesday in 319 Austin building and 10:00 a.m. Wednesday in 302 Austin. Local poets are invited to bring manuscripts for platt's criticism to the workshop. Visitors are welcome.

platt, thirty-three years old, and one of the bearded poets, is author of three collections of poetry, Coffee and Solace, Six of One-Half Dozen of the Other, and Allegheny Reveries. He has also published poetry in many literary magazines, among them The American, Voices International, and Poet Lore, and has read on many college campuses — College of Charleston, Davidson, Marshall University, Penn State, and Pittsburgh, among others.

At present he is editing three anthologies, one of them a collection of poems about the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Besides writing, reading, and editing poetry, platt serves as Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs at Clarion State College in Pennsylvania. He lives with his wife, Kathleen, and 3-year-old daughter, Troye-Suzanne. platt holds a diploma in Anglo-Irish literature from Trinity College, Dublin, and has been a featured poet at the Dublin Arts Festival.

Music On Campus

Three Recital Hall events and one event at Wright Auditorium are scheduled on campus at East Carolina University for the remainder of October, leading off with a piano recital by Dr. Charles Bath today and ending with the autumn concert of the ECU Symphony next Sunday. The events are:

—Today, 8:15 p.m. — Faculty Recital, Dr. Charles Bath, pianist. Compositions to be played will include ones by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin and Ginastera. Dr. Bath, chairman of the keyboard faculty of the ECU School of Music, received advanced degrees from the Eastman School of Music and the University of Michigan.

—Monday, 8:15 p.m. — Guest recital, trombonist Richard Cryder of the Mars Hill College music faculty. Cryder's program will include works by Handel, Serocki, Bonneau and George F. McKay. He will be accompanied at the piano by his wife. Cryder, in addition to solo recitals, has performed in brass and band ensembles at Kent State University and with the U.S. Navy Band in New York City. He received both the bachelor and master degrees in music from Kent State University.

—Thursday, 8:15 p.m. — Phi Mu Alpha Concert. Further details not available at this time.

—Sunday, October 29 — 3:15 p.m. Wright Auditorium — The ECU All Concert, Robert Hause, conductor, Paul Tardiff, piano soloist. Peyton Becton, Gray Barrier, John Floyd, Butch Sievers, percussion soloists. Selections are: Concerto for Percussion and Orchestra, Finney; Symphony No. 3 for Piano and Orchestra by Beethoven and Brahms' Symphony No. 2. (Additional details will be published at a later date).

Admission to all events, both at the Recital Hall and the Sunday afternoon performance at Wright Auditorium, are free, and the public is invited.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library
By KAY TAYLOR

Three new books at Sheppard Memorial Library will be of particular interest to the homemaker who is always seeking good ideas for making her home an especially nice place to be. An enchanting textured-look cover featuring crewl work flowers, birds, and other designs on chair covers, pillows, handbags and plaques invites the reader to share in the PLEASURES OF CREWEL. Author Jo Springer relates the history of crewl embroidery before embarking on a practical "how-to" guide for both the beginner and the advanced needleworker. Ms. Springer describes the necessary tools and materials and how to plan designs. For the beginner, there is a special section of tips as well as several simple projects. Designs become progressively more intricate as Ms. Springer moves to projects for those who have more experience and those who are advanced needleworkers. An outstanding glossary of embroidery stitches gives detailed illustrated instructions for making seventy-seven different stitches and includes a guide to specific uses of the stitches. Ms. Springer very thoughtfully includes a code to show the relative difficulty of the stitches. The final section of PLEASURES OF CREWEL reveals professional finishing tips which will help make the crewl work a treasured show-piece.

Wonder what to serve surprise guests or how to be a relaxed hostess while serving a gracious dinner? Margaret Murphy has to answer. In her latest book, THE COOK IT AND FREEZE IT BOOK, she tells how to cook ahead and freeze whole dinners — appetizers, meats, vegetables, salads, breads, and desserts. Some of the meals may be served in as little as thirty minutes, leaving the hostess time for family and guests.

THE COOK IT AND FREEZE IT BOOK also serves as a guide to freezing uncooked foods. Ms. Murphy suggests taking advantage of seasonal buys which may be frozen to provide delightful treats long after the item has gone out of season. The ideas she presents in THE COOK IT AND FREEZE IT BOOK can enable wise homemakers to save time and money while providing delightfully varied, nutritious meals all year long.

With the approach of Christmas, creative people again seek ways of expressing themselves by making unusual Christmas gifts, decorations, and foods. Farm Journal has produced a new holiday book, CHRISTMAS IDEA BOOK, which contains a holiday cookbook, handcrafted gift items, and decoration ideas. Many of the crafts and decorations are simple enough for children to make. Since several of the items are composed primarily of scrap materials, resourceful individuals may make handsome novelties for very little cost. Mothers may be freed for shopping of their own or making mother-watering goodies suggested in the cookbook while their children hide away in their rooms, making surprise gifts and decorations. These handmade items can be a source of pride and joy both for the maker and the receiver.

Lavishly illustrated in color, the CHRISTMAS IDEA BOOK is sure to give good ideas to all its readers.

Pitt Players Plan Productions

The Pitt Players this year have taken up new residence at Ayden-Grifton High School. The players have now incorporated some Ayden-Grifton High School students within their group.

Three productions are tentatively planned for this year's program. The first production will be The Curious Savage by John Patrick. The play takes place in the living room of the Cloisters in a town in Massachusetts. The play revolves around the commitment of Mrs. Ethel P. Savage to a private mental institution by her son and two daughters. The effect on the inmates of Mrs. Savage's charm is a delicate balance of humor and pathos. Cast members are involved in all aspects of the production from building sets to lighting to acting various parts in the production. The cast and crew of production include: From Pitt Technical Institute — Connie Nichols, Louis Gurkin, Randy Johnson, Hilda Swain, Kathy Cannon, Helen Posey, George Lopez, Edgar Eatman, and Lynn Scarborough.

From Ayden-Grifton — Mary Manning, Faye Smith, Bunny Davis, and Dwight King. In this production, Helen Posey will play Florence; George Lopez portrays Hannibal; Kathy Cannon is Fairy May; Dathan Manning, Jeffrey; Hilda Swain, Mrs. Paddy; Louis Gurkin plays Titus; Faye Smith as Samuel; Mary Manning, Lilly Belle; Connie Nichols, Ethel Savage, Lynn Scarborough as Miss Wilhelmina, Dwight King, as Dr. Emmett. Assisting the players are: Bunny Davis, script; Pam Campbell, property mistress; and Randy Johnson, lighting.

The production of Curious Savage is scheduled for the seventh and ninth of December at 7:30 p.m. in the Ayden-Grifton High School auditorium. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR FRANKIE LAINE, singer

You don't seem to socialize with show business people very much. Don't you like them?—A. O. P., Hollywood, Fla.

● No, not most of them. They're self-centered. It's like a caste system. You can't have more than one big name in a group. For instance, you put Anthony Quinn and Cary Grant at the same table—both great guys. People will gravitate to Grant—so how does that make Quinn feel? Now you put Quinn with Ricardo Montalban—a great actor. Now

Grant Quinn Montalban Sinatra Davis

Quinn gets the attention. Now put Sinatra and Sammy Davis together. Sinatra will get the lion's share of attention, even though Davis is the greater talent. In each case, one ego has to give in to another—or move to another table!

FOR JIM BROWN, actor

I've heard you talk about Black Economic Self-Determination. What do you mean by that?—E. K., Trenton, N.J.

● To me, there are many ways to work within the system. As an individual, I can make it—but there are many black brothers who think they can't. I want them to do things in an intelligent way—within the system—rather than operate out of total emotionalism on the streets. I've helped blacks get bank loans, start businesses, afford jobs to other blacks. They assume responsibility, and grow.

FOR JACK LORD of "Hawaii Five-O"

On a recent "Hawaii Five-O" episode there was a flashback scene of you in the Navy. The guest called you "Lieutenant." Was that your rank?—Iris McAbee, Mullins, S.C.

● I was never in the Navy. I was in the U.S. Merchant Marine and earned a 2nd Class Seaman's ticket, which I still hold.

FOR JOHNNIE McKEEVER WALTERS, Director, Internal Revenue Service

What is the tax on prizes won by contestants on TV programs?—R. A. Lyons, Twin Falls, Idaho

● It is taxed as ordinary income. If the award is in the form of merchandise, the prizewinner pays tax on the fair market value of the prize.

FOR MARY TYLER MOORE, TV actress

Why haven't you gotten married on your TV show yet? Do you plan to do so?—L. N., Kokomo, Ind.

● The producers and I feel we can get better stories about Mary Richards as a single girl than as a married lady. And we feel everyone on the show is so talented that we don't want to have another regular member of the cast—at least not this season.

FOR GEORGE MEANY

Some liberal critics have charged that organized labor has become a reactionary force in recent years, that it has become middle class. What do you say to that?—R. F., Yuma, Ariz.

● Well, if we're middle class, we started out many years ago when we were not middle class and tried to raise our people up to the status of middle class. And as far as I'm concerned, I want to see them raised to the status of high class.

FOR FLETCHER THOMPSON, Congressman, Georgia Under what kind of passport did Jane Fonda travel to North Vietnam?—Mrs. Harold Platt, Gainesville, Ga.

● She was issued a "Tourist Passport" from the U.S. Department of State. Her trip was made with the full knowledge of the department. But there really was no choice; the Supreme Court ruled in 1967 that the Government cannot place restrictions on countries to which citizens wish to travel.

FOR LOU BROCK, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder

Do you think you can ever pass Maury Wills in the all-time stolen-bases category?—Becky Hines, Bloomington, Ill.

● The way I feel this year, I don't see any limit on the number of playing years left to me. And I've been very lucky that injuries haven't cut into my playing time. So I do hope to catch Maury in total stolen bases. This would be an enormous honor, since Maury is the man who put emphasis on base stealing in modern baseball when he stole an amazing 104 bases in 1962.

FOR NEILE ADAMS (Mrs. Steve McQueen)

Is it true that you were in a concentration camp as a little girl?—J. C., Canton, Ohio

● I was born and raised in Manila. When the Japanese invaded the Philippines, they put both my mother and me into a concentration camp. We starved a good part of the time. We learned to steal to get by, and as a "lesson" to us we were made to watch other prisoners being tortured and killed. At least my father was lucky. He left Manila before the war broke out. Where to I never knew.

FOR EVA GABOR

How do you manage to look so young?—M. W., Redding, Calif.

● I keep running around like a maniac. I love to give parties. I just keep busy. You see, if you don't sit down, you don't have time to grow old. That's why I will never retire. If I am ever born again—which I plan to be—I want to be frozen for a while. I understand that is very good for you. Someday I will just drop dead. I think it is terrible that some people must retire at 65 and then they are just forgotten and play cards and all that.

Sybil Leek Selects: The 10 People Americans Are Most Curious About

By Sybil Leek,
Especially for Family Weekly

Sybil Leek, the well-known psychic, is a native of England who now lives in Indialantic, Fla. She has traveled thousands of miles in the course of her psychic and astrological pursuits, and has become the world's most prominent witch. In all these travels, Miss Leek meets thousands of Americans—who seek her out, in jet planes and lecture halls, to ask her about the people who make them curious. Here are some of her answers—about the people who make Americans ask the most questions.

vancement of his political career. She may have a few more years of uneasy peace before she adds another page to the star-crossed history of the Kennedy family. Born with the Sun in Virgo, Joan Kennedy can always be relied upon to do her duty, even though it is distasteful to her personal inclinations.

GOV. GEORGE WALLACE

His way of taking a private war into the public arena of the Democratic party has made people curious about the innermost dreams of George Wallace. He appeals to the public as a non-heroic type who suddenly surprises everybody by displaying all the charisma of the hero. He even became a physical casualty on the political battlefield but refuses to be destroyed, a feat that is usually linked with a superman. He is probably more effective while immobilized in his wheelchair than he was when he stumped through his campaigns. Born with the Sun barely in Virgo, the sign of service, Wallace has numerous strong forces from Leo also rooting for him. There are indestructible qualities about Leos, and Wallace is living up to them. He will walk again—but not quite into the White House.

Wide World

CLIFFORD IRVING

People are still curious about this author. He has admirers who praise him for being "con man of the year" and "avenging angel of the publishing world." Since he was born with the Sun in Scorpio, it is no wonder that Irving has a devious nature, with a capability to probe into the turgid depths of people's lives. He also has an exaggerated sense of the dramatic and is still capable of holding back a few choice morsels.

JACQUELINE KENNEDY ONASSIS

The widow of the late President John F. Kennedy continues to be a focal point of curiosity. Stories of her financial extravagance make many people wonder why she does not wear more of her fabulous wardrobe in public. Since she married one of the wealthiest men in the world, she has achieved the knack of making herself look like a forlorn waif. And she looks like a waif despite the fact that the jeans and halter-top swim bras are made by top designers. Jackie was born with the Sun in Leo, a sign that is famous for fantastically good memories. She could have been a fine actress. Maybe she is, using the world as her stage. She certainly thrives in the limelight. But she does a good job of faking happiness. It is a well-known psychological fact that the more a person relies on extravagant clothes, the less emotionally secure that person is. This almost answers all those curious questions. Alas, poor Jackie, a whole world loved her—once upon a fairy-tale time.

FRANK SINATRA

It's mainly American housewives who worry about Frank Sinatra. How much of his private life has truly been laid bare? This leads people to wonder somewhat wistfully whether he is really the captain of his own soul. What does it profit a man to sing like an angel if he is not free to talk to his friends? The public is curious to know if he is indeed the prototype of the singing star in "The Godfather." Does he acknowledge anyone as his personal godfather or does he enjoy playing the role of godfather in his own life? Born with the Sun in Sagittarius, Sinatra has a natural inclination to follow a swashbuckling buccaneer life-style that is a teaser to public imagination. What he knows about the secrets in his own life is likely to remain secret, which befits his image as a living legend.

DAVID FROST

He became the brightest, freshest personality of the small screen. He made it big—a sparkling, silver-tongued, but down-to-earth Englishman, who gained new friends by his vast command of the English language and his good looks. More especially, he has the aura that belongs to someone who has managed to keep his bachelor status and still stay popular with ex-girl friends. The big question is whether the lovely, talented black star, Diahann Carroll, is the love of his life. Is David married to Diahann, and if so, where and when did it happen? And why must it be kept a secret? David Frost was born with the Sun in Aries, making it easy for him to scorn public opinion about his private life. But few Aries are able to keep a secret for too long. So maybe, this year, there will be an announcement.

HUGH HEFNER

Born with the Sun in Aries, Hugh Hefner is a natural-born innovator, and he used this inherent talent to remove the taboo from sex. Combining this with a breakthrough in the world of publishing, he even succeeded in making his big-chested bunnies into harmless everyday symbols—touched by the same magic and money

JOAN KENNEDY

Every member of the Kennedy family seems to take a turn generating public curiosity, and lately it is the ladies who are overshadowing the men. In this Presidential-election year, Joan Kennedy, wife of Senator Ted, became a major topic of conversation in many American homes. Joan Kennedy is probably the most creative and certainly the most sensitive of the Kennedy ladies. Because of this sensitivity, it is likely that she lives in fear of being called on to stand by her husband's side as he steps every day toward the ultimate ad-

Pictorial Parade

HOWARD HUGHES

After the many stories that have been written concerning the world's most eccentric millionaire, it's a marvel there is anything left to be curious about. The major curiosity today surrounds the growing feeling that Hughes may not be alive—which evokes speculation about the manner of his death, and the reasons why it has not been revealed. If the last page of Hughes' life was written some time ago, who profited by tearing out this page? Born with the Sun in Capricorn, a sign noted for its longevity, Hughes could normally be expected to live for a long time. Except that fabulous Capricorns, with Saturn the ruling planet, are placed at the mer- cy of secret enemies. Especially when Taurus, the money sign, is involved! History shows that empires can fall into decay when the key figures are removed. But lesser figures can make a good show of bolstering the sagging structure until the time comes to reveal the truth. Many an understudy can play as fine a role as the leading actor.

power that Walt Disney achieved with Mickey Mouse. The main curiosity is about his personal life. Can a Bunny-Father figure find happiness by remaining a bachelor while surrounded by bevy of beautiful girls? Or is he like the boy in the candy store who, when given the freedom to eat himself silly, ended up never wanting another piece of candy? Perhaps this is why he has to seek sensations in so many avant-garde ways, through the extravaganzas of publicity.

big business, or even into the realms of the late J. Edgar Hoover. Agnew has played second fiddle for a long time, a role not generally liked by Scorpio subjects. But it could be a training period for what is yet to come. A recycled Agnew will still provoke curiosity well into the future.

HENRY KISSINGER

Mainly, the public is curious about the extent of his influence on President Nixon. When the dream of Camelot died away, Henry came along to revive public curiosity as a man of many hats. How could we not respond to a man who can travel into forbidden territory, pave the way for some of the most critical events in American history and evade the press at the same time? He has the lovable charm of most Gemini's and was born in this sign associated with dual personality. It enables him to lead his cloak-and-dagger life in a refreshingly versatile way.

Sybil Leek's new book is "My Life in Astrology" (Prentice-Hall, $5.95).

SPIRO T. AGNEW

Public opinion divides itself into two distinct camps where Spiro Agnew is concerned. Those who like him see him as the epitome of what America needs, and those who hate him think he is a throwback to the Dark Ages. One thing is certain: He can never be ignored. It is not his personal life that commands interest, but his potential impact on the future of politics. Agnew is a man of many secrets, as befits one born with the Sun in Scorpio. He will take these secrets with him—into the world of

When a Loved One's Death Shatters Your Life: An Expert's Advice On How to Pick Up the Pieces

By Dr. Austin H. Kutscher

About four years ago, the wife of Dr. Austin H. Kutscher, of New York, died after a long illness. After her death, Dr. Kutscher became ill and entered a hospital. It was at this point that he discovered there was practically no help available for those who face the problems of being left behind or those who must care for the dying.

When Dr. Kutscher recovered, he began to fill what he thinks is a vital need in society—helping people cope with death. Along with two colleagues from Columbia University (where he is a professor of dentistry), Dr. Kutscher organized the Foundation of Thanatology—from the Greek word thanatos, meaning death. The foundation is devoted to the study of dying and its medical and psychological effects, and to promoting medical investigation into the problems of death and grief.

Dr. Kutscher has edited three books dealing with the problems of the bereaved.

If you have ever experienced the death of a loved one, it is quite possible your life is now tormented by more than the anguish of your loss. Bereavement and grief are accompanied by many practical problems, emotions, physical symptoms and feelings of helplessness.

Despite all this, life must and does go on. The saying, "Time heals all wounds," does not mean time alone, like some magic potion, will cure bereavement. Rather, the remedy comes from what you do with the time.

Grief can become a source of creativity. The energies expended in expressing it can be rechanneled into helping others. Many bereaved have devoted themselves to fighting the disease that afflicted their loved one. Many have sought to memorialize the deceased by carrying on a project they left unfinished.

Grief is like an illness, having its own symptoms and its own course; it also may foster physical diseases or bizarre reactions and thoughts.

Contemporary society tends to shun or feel ashamed of emotional display, including funeral ceremonies and wakes. How often have you heard funerals criticized as being needless or overly elaborate? But these attitudes may deprive us of social support for the immediate period of mourning. In the book, "Loss and Grief: Psychological Management in Medical Practice," Chaplain Robert B. Reeves, Jr., of The Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, states that if "the hurt is barred from open expression, eventually it seeps through in one form of illness or another."

The bereaved should realize that their expressions of sorrow, their search for emotional support, are not indications of weakness. They are signs that the healing process has started, that the path to recovery will be found.

The emotional setting of grief is filled with new anxieties. You might experience unwarranted feelings of guilt: that you did not do enough to save or prolong your loved one's life (or did too much and so extended his suffering); that at some moment of disagreement you wished for the harm or death of your loved one; that you feel extreme anger toward the dead person for abandoning you.

These feelings do exist—and they should not be repressed. Repression is no solution. As psychiatrist Dr. David Peretz has observed, "Because of the varied qualities and attributes [of the loved one] which are lost, multiple feelings are aroused—mental pain, yearning, anguish, sorrow, dejection, sadness, depression, fear, anxiety, nervousness, agitation. . . ." The bereaved must cope with some or all of these in rebuilding their lives.

In coping, do not hesitate to seek help from your clergyman or physician, from a psychiatrist or a social worker. Physical symptoms such as loss of appetite or weight, insomnia, nausea, must be cared for, and the family physician is always available for consultation.

Social-service agencies can help you with your problems, both during the terminal illness and after the death. Cancer Care, Family Counseling Services, Family Homemaking Services, Community Guidance centers are among those that may be listed in the telephone directory or with your local hospital. Job-counseling services are available at many of these agencies.

The Foundation of Thanatology has sponsored educational programs to assist professionals in aiding the bereaved. No one should be embarrassed or reluctant to call upon such helpers.

Although each individual's experience with death is unique, and advice on how to cope with bereavement is a personal matter, here are some points that may be constructive:

1. Excessive Grief. Avoid this if possible. Try not to let the deceased person—or the memory of that person—haunt you for too long. Look forward to a time when you will accept and adjust to your loss.

2. Telling Children. Children quite often do not express emotion at the time of a death—particularly if it is a parent who has died.

"Jim Is Gone"— One Widow's Agony

This letter to FAMILY WEEKLY came, unsolicited, from a reader, Mrs. Zelda Strauss. The editors felt it spoke volumes about the subject of the accompanying article. Mrs. Strauss wrote her essay as a way of unburdening herself of her grief.

A tinge of delight flowed through me at the sight of my husband. I touched his hand and I was at ease. I was forty. Fifteen years of happy existence had given me the feeling that it was good to be a female.

And then Jim lay down and died. Friends came and told me that I mustn't be so sad. "Living must go on," they said to me. Lawyers came and told me that my husband had seen to it I'd have no money problems. "Your way of life will go on," they said. Way of life without Jim? Could life exist for me without him?

"Go on a sea voyage, a leisurely one that will take you through the Mediterranean waters," they said to me.

I stood at the rail looking at the skies and my husband's face drifted in and out among the soft white clouds. The

They are even more susceptible to guilt than adults. For example, a child might have misbehaved a day or so before a parent died. The child might feel that the death was his punishment for being bad. This could be expressed years later in destructive ways. If possible, children of a deceased parent should be taken to a psychiatrist for counseling. Or consult a family-counseling service or social worker trained in this area. Death must be intelligently and lovingly explained to children.

3. Financial Security. Widows, in particular, often need to be "retrained" to handle family finances. Family-counseling services can help set up a realistic budget. A widow might discover that she must go out and get a job. She may need counseling for this as well.

4. The Widower. A man may find he has to replace his wife's valuable services in the home. He may need a "substitute mother" for his children. School-age children should not come home to an empty house. To find this new person, a widower could run an ad in his local newspaper or consult a Homemaker Services organization. The widower may also need a housekeeper. All of this will be an extra expense for which he must plan.

5. Social Banishment. One of the hardest things a widow has to face is that she might be dropped socially. Men seem to get along fairly well in social circles after the death of a wife. But women have more difficulties. Often married friends will find a widow depressing—especially if she keeps talking about her deceased husband. And other women, quite frankly, will find her a threat and become jealous. But new social contacts must be made. Many churches and social organizations have activities that both widows and widowers can get involved in.

6. Guilt and Anger. Though few people want to admit it, death of a partner can arouse anger. We probably don't realize this, and it may come out in physical symptoms later on. It's very important for a surviving spouse to ventilate guilt and anger after the death of someone who has been so close and on whom he or she has depended.

7. Time for Grief. Grief in general should be turned outward. You can live with it only so long before it becomes destructive. Grief can last from three months to a year. After that, if a person is not functioning in a reasonable manner, if he or she has not adjusted to the death, it is advisable to seek medical or psychiatric advice.

8. Loving Again. A surviving spouse should not feel that he is betraying the deceased person by loving or even remarrying again. In fact, a second marriage can be even more satisfying than the first because the person may have matured more and the demands on his time are likely to be different. It is most important not to feel guilty about remarriage after the death of a partner. One must look forward and go on to other experiences that bring happiness and personal fulfillment.

cabin was empty when I closed the door.

I left the ship at the New York pier six months later. When I entered my home on Long Island, it too was empty.

I found excuses not to join "at home" evenings of neighbors. Soon I learned they were glad I hadn't. They didn't want to be reminded of death.

Suddenly bills came to my home. The executor had vanished. My home was sold.

"You haven't been considerate of me, Jim," I found myself saying. "You didn't prepare me for life without you."

Do We Still Harbor Illusions About Sex?

By John E. Gibson

In spite of all the facts contained in all the books written about sex, many of us still hold certain illusions about the subject. How do your answers shape up to the questions in this True-False quiz?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The type of girl men find the most appealing resembles the "Playboy" center-fold type.
2. The eldest child in a family is likely to have the most sex appeal.
3. A girl's clothes provide an index of how much she dreams about the opposite sex.
4. Women with sexy figures experience greater self-satisfaction and self-confidence than their less bountifully endowed sisters.
5. In today's permissive society, free-love advocates have little to worry about if precautions are taken against such things as accidental pregnancy or VD.
6. As they grow older, men tend to lose interest in sex before women do.

ANSWERS

1. False. Men may enjoy looking at pictures of girls whose physical charms are so overwhelmingly evident, but studies show that a great many men feel ill at ease in the presence of one of these walking center-fold specimens. It takes a certain type of man to hold his own with such a girl, and not lose most of his poise in the process.
2. True—if it happens to be a girl. Psychological studies at two universities have shown that girls who are well endowed with sex appeal—and who are most interested in the opposite sex—were found more frequently among firstborns. A happy childhood was another predisposing factor.
3. True—according to psychological studies at a leading university. In the investigation, each girl was "asked to record all outstanding dreams that she could remember. The length of her hemline was measured from the middle of her knee. Repeated measurements were taken over a two-week period to establish consistency." Each girl's dreams were analyzed. Findings were reported as follows: The shorter a girl wears her clothing, the more likely she is to have a high degree of sexual symbolism in her dreams. This doesn't necessarily mean that she is more open to romantic adventure. On the contrary, she may be sublimating her emotional drive, and thus actually be less interested in the opposite sex than would usually be the case.

4. False. At Arizona State College, studies were made of two groups of women. The first consisted of women with eye-catching figures. The second group was selected at random from several hundred women whose figures were no better than average. Each group was given psychological tests and personality questionnaires. Results: "It was found that the physically attractive women expressed less satisfaction with their body image, self, and the sexual-social self-references than did the women whose body physique varied from the cultural ideal.... Results from this study also indicated that having a sexually attractive figure may lead to greater anxiety and insecurity."

5. False. A questionnaire-study at the University of California indicates that "casual sex, while it may give an immediate if shallow physical gratification, leads to emotional confusion, frustration, and a sense of personal worthlessness." It was clear from the questionnaires, which called for the most intimate information on the lives of the individuals, that young people who seek total freedom in sex and in other matters end up in great emotional trouble.

6. False—according to studies of middle-aged to elderly men and women (45 to 69), sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service. Findings: "Dramatic differences between men and women of like age were observed in regard to all indicators of sexual behavior, with the men generally reporting greater interest and activity than the women. Only six percent of the men and 33 percent of the women said they were no longer interested in sex."

GUARANTEED RENEWABLE TO AGE 70!

The Family Life Insurance Plan is so good and so inexpensive for the amounts of coverage you get, only $1.15 for each $5,000 up to age 30 and low rates thereafter, that you probably have some questions. We've put all the answers down here in black and white so you won't miss the enrollment deadline.

During this limited enrollment period you can apply for yourself and all eligible members of your family. All you need to do is fill in and mail the short application form with your first month's premium by October 31st. It's that simple. And, there's no risk with our 30-day Money Back Guarantee! When you receive your policy you'll find it direct and easy to understand.

The Family Life Insurance plan is a low cost, high protection insurance plan up to now offered only to association members and employees to add to their regular group life insurance and you can apply now without joining a group. This plan was designed to fill one and only one insurance need: To provide low cost, high protection for your loved ones. Insurance to be purchased by you, the breadwinner of the family, up to $20,000 to provide money for your survivors, not for yourself. The Family Life Insurance Plan does just this while it allows you to also insure your wife, up to $10,000 (up to 1/2 your coverage) and all your eligible children ($1,000 each, no matter how many, for one low premium), at rates so low for their coverage, you can't afford not to provide for them as well.

Why Term Insurance is Best For You!

It provides maximum coverage and the lowest possible cost to do the primary job that life insurance is intended to perform . . . protection for your loved ones in the event of the untimely passing of a primary family provider.

The Family Plan is Term Life Insurance so straightforward in concept and explained so fully in this booklet that it is the only type of life insurance we recommend buying this easy, low cost way, through the United States mail. And you can apply right from this ad, but you must mail the application by October 31, 1972. Better yet, do it today!

30 DAY NO-RISK MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

When your Family Life Insurance policy arrives, examine it in your home. Show it to one of your trusted advisors. And if for any reason you change your mind, just return your policy to us within 30 days and we'll refund your money at once.

You're Eligible To Enroll Up To Age 60!

You and your wife up to age 60 are eligible to apply for up to $20,000 life insurance for yourself ($5,000—$10,000—$15,000 or $20,000), up to half as much coverage for your wife ($2,500—$5,000—$7,500—$10,000) but not more than half your coverage and $1,000 on each of your eligible children. And all your children from 15 days to 23 years old—no matter how many—can be included (for $1,000 coverage each) for one low additional premium of only 45 cents a month. When child coverage is in force, future children are covered automatically when they reach 15 days old at no increase in premium.

Guaranteed Convertible Without Proof Of Insurability!

You and your wife, anytime up to your age 65, can convert your Family Life Insurance Plan coverage to the same or smaller amount of Ordinary Life Insurance, without any proof of insurability whatsoever. Your children are guaranteed the right at age 23 to convert their coverage to as much as $5,000 Ordinary Life Insurance regardless of their health or occupation, without any physical examination. Nor proof of insurability!

"Guaranteed Renewable to Age 70!"

This means your policy automatically renews up to Age 70 without regard to the condition of your health, as long as you continue to pay premiums.

The Family Life Insurance Plan rates are so low to cover your wife and only 45¢ a month more to cover all your eligible children, that you can't afford not to provide for them as well.

Policy Cannot Be Cancelled Except By You

Once issued to you, your policy can never be cancelled except by you and your premium rates can never be changed. However, to keep your policy in force you must pay your premiums promptly when due. And you can continue to renew your policy until you're 70 years old without any proof of continued good health.

Premiums Waived If You're Disabled

If before age 60 you become totally disabled for six months or more, National-Ben Franklin will waive all your premium payments while your disability continues or until you reach age 70, and even though your premiums are waived, you still keep your right to convert your coverage to cash-value life insurance. In fact, this right may be extended up to age 70. However, intentionally self-inflicted injury, act of war, serving with military units or participating in riots or insurrections are not covered.

Only One Exclusion

Even the one exclusion, suicide, is temporary and is covered after your Family Life Insurance Plan is in effect for only two years.*

Here's All You Do to Apply

Just complete the short, easy Application Form enclosed and sign your name. Mail it with your first month's premium by October 31st. We'll process your application just as quickly as possible and issue your policy as soon as your Form is approved.

NOW—JUST ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS

1. If you're self-employed, do you provide as much life insurance protection for yourself as you would expect if you worked for someone else?

Your family protection needs may be even greater because of your higher standard of living. Our plan provides this added protection.

2. Will you still have coverage if you change jobs?

You need to be sure you and your family are protected at all times. Our plan continues no matter what.

3. Have you increased your life insurance in the past two years?

Prices of everything (as well as your standard of living) keep rising, and coverage adequate a few years ago, just isn't enough today.

4. Does your group life or other insurance also cover your wife?

Money can't replace the love she gives to the family, of course, but money can help care for the children and your home if she isn't there.

5. Does your group life insurance also cover your children? Are you making sure your children will be able to get life insurance when they start out on their own?

Conditions of health could change so that your children are no longer insurable. This way they're guaranteed protection.

20 Important Questions Answered

Tell Why National-Ben Franklin Hospital Cash/Plus Policy is Your Best Protection for the Lowest Cost.

1. Who is eligible to apply?

Anyone 18 to 60 years of age who's in ordinary good health. Wives up to age 60 and children from 15 days to 23 years can also be included for very little additional cost. New additions to the family are covered automatically when they're 15 days old at no additional premium when child coverage is in force. However, you must be insured in order to cover your wife and children.

2. How much can I apply for? My wife? My children?

You can apply for up to $20,000 life insurance on yourself (in units of $5,000—that is a total of $5,000, $10,000, $15,000 or $20,000). You can add coverage for your wife in units of $2,500 ($2,500-$5,000, $7,500-$10,000) up to a maximum of one-half of your coverage. And you can add $1,000 protection for each of your eligible children—no matter how many—for one low premium.

3. Why such low rates?

National-Ben Franklin is a leader in low cost group plans for veterans and others and by mass enrollment throughout the country, sales costs are held to the barest minimum with savings passed along to you in lower premiums.

4. Is there any red tape?

None at all. Just answer the few simple questions on the Application on next page and mail it with your first month's premium before the deadline. That's all there is to it.

5. Can I convert to Ordinary Life Insurance?

Yes—Ordinary life insurance accumulates cash value, but of course has higher premium costs. You may convert to the same or smaller amount of your coverage anytime up to 65 without proof of insurability whatsoever.

6. Can my wife convert her coverage?

Yes—Anytime regardless of her health or occupation and without any physical examination, up to your (policyholder's) age 65.

7. Can my children convert their coverage?

Yes—Your children are guaranteed the right at age 23 to convert their coverage to as much as $5,000 Ordinary Life Insurance regardless of their health or occupation and without any physical examination.

8. Can my insurance policy ever be cancelled?

No—However, to keep your policy in force you must pay premiums when due. N-BF Life guarantees renewability up to age 70 without any proof of continued good health.

9. Can my rates be changed?

No—Absolutely not!

10. Why do I need this coverage if I have other insurance?

Ordinary life, annuity or other plans providing for retirement income are fine depending on what you want your insurance to accomplish. For pure protection however, this is the buy for you! And if your present insurance is group insurance, it probably doesn't cover your wife and children. Plus the fact that if you should leave your present job, your family might be caught without protection until you could join a new group plan in your new position.

11. How much does my first month cost? How much after that?

You pay only what is listed on the monthly rate chart for your age and coverage desired.

12. What if I become totally disabled for 6 months or more up to age 60 and can't make my payments?

National-Ben Franklin Life will waive all your premium payments while your disability continues or until you reach age 70. But even though your premiums are waived, you still keep your right to convert your coverage to cash-value life insurance. In fact, this right may be extended up to age 70. (Disability caused by self-inflicted injury, act of war, serving with military units or participating in riots or insurrections is not covered).

13. Will my beneficiaries receive their money promptly? Yes—We act promptly, many are paid by return mail!

14. Will the money be all theirs? What about taxes? All theirs! Lump sum life insurance death payments are not subject to income tax.

15. How do I apply?

It's very simple. Just fill in the Application Form on next page, sign your name and mail it with only one month's premium by the deadline. We'll process your application as quickly as possible so that your policy can go into force without delay.

16. Should I use this policy to replace or change one that I now have?

No. We do not recommend that you do this. In fact, if this is your intention, we will not be able to issue this policy to you. (See item 8 on application form.)

17. Why should I apply now?

Because The Family Life Insurance Plan is only offered to the general public during limited mass enrollments. And this is your opportunity to get the additional protection you need at these low monthly rates offered before only to association members and employees. Besides, your health or the health of someone in your family could change without warning and make it impossible for you to get all the protection you need and want.

Since there's a full money-back guarantee if you change your mind within 30 days after you get your policy, you risk nothing by applying now. And your protection and your family's protection can begin as soon as possible.

18. Why should I select National-Ben Franklin for my Family Life Insurance Plan?

Because National-Ben Franklin, a 120 year old company, is licensed by your own state, regulated by your own state insurance department and carries full legal reserves for the protection of all insured. And is an Affiliate of the Continental Corporation, one of the world's largest and most respected insurance groups.

19. What one exclusion is there?

Only suicide, and even this is covered after your policy has been in effect for only 2 years.*

20. Whom should I list on the application form?

We recommend you include every eligible member of your family. The premium for family coverage is so low, you can't afford not to have the added protection.

*One year in Colorado, North Dakota & Louisiana

If you answered "NO" to any of these questions, you and your family need the low-cost, high-protection Family Life Insurance Plan that covers you, and if you wish, your wife and your children for one low monthly premium. To get these low family rates for your wife and children however, you must also be insured under the plan.

How Can Rates Be So Low?

The answer is simple. The Family Life Insurance Plan was created for association members and employees to supplement their regular group life insurance. And now for the first time, National-Ben Franklin is offering the same plan for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. Through mass enrollments, costs are kept very low and you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.

You Risk Nothing

Savory Meat Loaf and Onion Sauce, served with Mashed Potato Puffle.

A Variation on Meat and Potatoes

MARILYN'S MENU

- Savory Meat Loaf-Onion Sauce
- Mashed Potato Puffle • Buttered Carrots
- Green Pepper Vegetable-Rolish Cup
- Sliced Pineapple in Juice

SAVORY MEAT LOAF AND ONION SAUCE

- 2 lbs. lean ground beef
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup evaporated milk, undiluted
- ¾ cup water
- 1 envelope dry onion-soup mix
- 1½ cups instant mashed-potato flakes
- 2 tablespoons parsley flakes

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen does a variation on meat loaf because, "I know just about everybody has his own recipe for meat loaf. This is different because of its convenience ingredients."

- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ½ teaspoon thyme leaves
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Lightly grease a shallow roasting pan.
2. Combine beef, eggs, evaporated milk, water, dry onion-soup mix, instant mashed-potato flakes, parsley flakes, pepper, thyme and 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce. Stir with large spoon until thoroughly combined.
3. Turn meat-loaf mixture into roasting pan. Shape into a loaf approximately 10 x 5 x 2 inches. Score top with knife. Brush with remaining 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
4. Bake for 45 minutes for medium-well-done meat loaf. Makes 6-8 servings

ONION SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1½ tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups water
- 1½ tablespoons dry onion-soup mix
- 1 tablespoon ketchup
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Dash sugar
- ¼ teaspoon liquid gravy seasoning

1. In small saucepan melt butter, remove from heat; blend in flour smoothly. Gradually stir in remaining ingredients.

2. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly till mixture thickens slightly. Makes about 1½ cups

MASHED POTATO PUFFLE

- 2 pkgs. (3-oz. size) instant mashed-potato flakes
- 3½ cups water
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash pepper
- 2 eggs, separated

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Make up potatoes according to package directions, using water, butter, salt and milk in amounts given. Season with dry mustard and pepper.
2. Beat egg whites until stiff. With same beater, beat yolks. Stir half of yolks into potato mixture. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased 9x2-inch shallow casserole. Swirl surface with remaining egg yolk.
3. Bake 20 minutes. To brown, broil for 2 minutes under broiler, 4 inches from source of heat. Makes 6-8 servings are the best way to kill mice. Right?

WRONG!

It's a fact, that mouse traps can cause more problems than they solve. If a trap does not accomplish a quick, clean kill, the job of "finishing off" the injured mouse is up to you. Or—if the trap happens to hit the mouse's tail or leg, he may hobble off, dragging the trap into the wall. But not with d-Con® MOUSE-PRUFE®... MOUSE-PRUFE IS CLEANER. No disease-carrying, messy mouse traps around the house... no handling mice. And no disposal problems. MOUSE-PRUFE IS EASIER. Just pull tab on the package and bait feeds automatically. Mice eat 'til they've had enough—and disappear from sight! MOUSE-PRUFE IS SURER. Because mice always come in family groups, one trap is not enough. But one package of MOUSE-PRUFE can do the job of two, three, or more traps. MOUSE-PRUFE does not contain violent poisons, so it's safe when used as directed—even around children and pets.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

This Exclusive Formula Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief In Many Cases from such Pain. Also Helps Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due to Infection.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice. This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true. The medication used was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Just see if doctor tested Preparation H doesn't help you. There's no other formula like it Ointment or suppositories.

Teens Get It All Off Their Chests: A List for Parents Only!

By Jhan Robbins

And we do mean parents only! If you're a teen, no fair to pull out this list and wave it at Mom and Pop. The rules of the game don't allow it—and besides, doing it that way will turn them off!

The late President Eisenhower was once asked about the drastic rise in teenage-parent problems. He shook his head sadly and said, "Everybody agrees that problems exist but too little constructive information is available. Loads of complicated things have been written on the subject, but many mothers and fathers feel the advice frequently offered is so far removed from reality that they file the suggestions in the nearest trash can. Maybe the kids have some real simple ideas on what's wrong."

could prove quite helpful to many parents, although they are by no means intended to be "rules." Since parents can no more regulate their personalities at will than children can, and since these complaints leave a tremendous amount of room for individual interpretation, the complaints form a "chart" for parents to peruse and study.

Recently we talked to more than 200 teenagers and got their counsel on "how to be a good parent." We conducted group sessions in Missouri, Massachusetts and New Jersey. The participating youngsters, ranging in age from 13 to 17, were encouraged to speak out—and they did. Some of their thoughts were duplicated, some were incoherent, some too obvious, others too personal.

Their usefulness, it is emphasized, depends mostly on the parent's ability to read them here—to hear them from the lips of other kids, and not his own. A teenager shouldn't expect much relief if he waves this list in front of his parent's nose and shouts, "See!"

We pruned the list and showed it to three psychiatrists who specialize in treating adolescents. They felt some suggestions were too one-sided, favoring the teenager at the expense of the parent. They recommended that we remove these. We did. Then two of the psychiatrists reread the list and agreed that the remaining suggestions

Here then are the suggestions the young people hoped parents would take. While you may not agree with all of them, they did have psychiatric blessing as "useful."

- Teens Speak: (An Anthology of Gripes)
- I think most of our fights are caused by my not understanding what you mean. You could help by explaining things more clearly.
 - Is it necessary to always discuss my acne or my grades or my weight? It's bad enough that I worry about them myself.
 - Must you ask me: "Who was that on the phone?" Please allow me some privacy.

● While on the subject of privacy—please don't search my drawers or my closet or try to force open my diary. You wouldn't want me to search your personal things. If you suspect something, come right out and ask me.

● Sometimes I want to be left alone at home. The way I see it, occasionally the parents should get away and leave the child behind. How else can you build up trust?

● Don't reward me with dollar bills for each "A" I make. Not everything has a price tag. A word of appreciation is sometimes more valuable than a "reward."

● I hate being bawled out in front of others. If you have something to say, why can't it wait until we're alone?

● You say that you want to spare me and that's why you shut the door when you two fight. I suppose I can't solve all the world's problems, but who knows—in this case maybe I can help. In any event, I will feel needed.

● Don't keep telling me that you're sacrificing your life for me. I want you to live for yourself—not just for me.

● When I choose friends, don't always ask them what their father does or other personal junk that really doesn't matter. After all, if his father is a lawyer, will it make him a better friend than some truck driver's kid?

● But that doesn't mean that you should stand back completely. I really want my friends to know and like you.

● If you allow me some privilege, like using the car, don't always talk about it afterward—how you did something real special. I may not heap thanks on you, but I am appreciative!

● Don't laugh, but I really want you to read something I've read—and talk about it with me afterward. You'll say that this won't work. But who knows?

● You may think my phonograph records and other stuff like that are real junk. Maybe I'm wrong, but it makes me think that you find it necessary to dislike things I like. I'll bet that if you gave those records half a chance you'd get to like them.

● I'm likely to close my ears when you start a conversation with, "When I was your age...." I just can't picture you my age!

● Aren't there times when you're in a foul mood and want to be left alone? That goes for me, too.

● Sometimes you could be wrong. When you make a mistake, please admit it. That will sure help us become friends.

● You want me to tell the truth, but sometimes when I do, you hold it against me. This makes me think that the next time I should lie.

● If I spend my allowance on some dopey things—lecture me about it, but please don't keep harping on it. You don't have to repeat things like that over and over.

● Some conversations on things like sex should be repeated. One drawn-out conversation on the subject that covers A to Z is hard to follow. But that doesn't necessarily mean a long series of lectures.

● About talks on sex, I guess it's pretty natural for you to feel kind of embarrassed. I suppose I feel that way, too. However, my friends tell me that it soon goes away.

● My going steady may seem foolish to you, but if you laugh at it and make fun of it, that just makes me even more determined. I think I could choose a marriage partner more wisely—and maybe be more willing to wait—if you'd take things a little easier.

● Please don't try to be one of the gang; I want a mother and father—not more pals.

● Sure, it's nice that you look young. But the truth is that I don't really want you to look too young.

● I really want to have "heart-to-heart" talks with you, and I'm hoping they don't turn out to be silly or embarrassing. Try to remember that, even though I'm your child, I'm a separate human being!

How Mr. Liptai and Mr. Rowe QUIT SMOKING FOR GOOD

A lot of people write telling how they quit smoking with the aid of Bantron®. A common feature of many of these letters tells how Bantron succeeded when nothing else could.

Mr. Peter Liptai of Baldwin Park, California writes: "I have lost count long ago of how many times I have tried to quit and failed. Now with the help of Bantron I have finally kicked the habit and joined the unhooked generation."

This is from Mr. John M. Rowe of Reeds Ferry, New Hampshire: "I have tried many times in 20 years to stop smoking. When I tried Bantron it was with little faith. But it worked, and this is forever, I am sure."

What is the special thing about Bantron that enabled it to do the job for Mr. Liptai and Mr. Rowe when nothing else could?

The answer is that Bantron is the only major smoking deterrent containing buffered Lobeline Sulfate*.

Lobeline Sulfate (even without buffering) is an effective smoking deterrent, proven in clinical tests. It works not by making smoking unpleasant, but by acting as a substitute for nicotine in the system. It helps to reduce the craving and withdrawal symptoms. But taken in sufficient quantities to be an effective substitute for nicotine, Lobeline by itself often upsets the stomach.

However, some years ago, researchers in a great American University discovered that buffering Lobeline Sulfate with two special antacids virtually eliminated any likelihood of stomach upset. This discovery was a great breakthrough. It was immediately patented, and is now available in Bantron. Because of this discovery, Bantron contains four times as much Lobeline in a single dose as any major smoking deterrent sold in drug stores.

Before Bantron was put on the market it was thoroughly researched. It was tested on hundreds of people who wanted to quit smoking. In these clinical tests, 83%, more than 4 out of 5, quit easily and pleasantly, with the help of Bantron, in only 5 to 7 days.

That's a pretty good batting average isn't it! Why not try Bantron yourself. Join Mr. Liptai and Mr. Rowe and quit smoking for good.

The Franklin Mint presents
The Twelve Days of Christmas

FOR THOSE WHO WISH to give a most unusual — and most valuable — gift this Christmas, The Franklin Mint has created this set of original Collector's Spoons in solid sterling silver.

This is the only time you will have the opportunity to acquire this beautiful set this year; it will not be available in gift shops or retail stores.

Superbly minted in sterling silver. The original designs have been meticulously minted in solid sterling silver to bring out the beauty and fine detail of the artist's work. The set thus becomes a true work of medallion art — an intrinsically valuable as well as useful collection — impressive in its luxurious fitted chest of elegant design.

Those who receive this gift from you will be fortunate indeed. For "The Twelve Days of Christmas Spoons" are certain to become treasured heirlooms as the years go by. Owning this set may also start one of your favorite people on a form of collecting that is extremely popular today: collecting sterling silver spoons of unusual design.

Each of the twelve spoons in the collection represents a different verse of the beloved English carol, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," as interpreted by the distinguished artist Carlos Sierra-Franco.

The poetic words are ideally suited to the sculptor's art: "a partridge in a pear tree," "two turtle doves," "three French hens," "four colly birds," "five golden rings" . . . each of the twelve lovely verses is captured with delicacy and charm in another distinctive spoon design.

Convenient payment plan. Each set of "The Twelve Days of Christmas Spoons" in solid sterling silver, including the display chest, is offered at $145 on a convenient monthly payment plan. You also have the option of charging your collection on one of the credit cards indicated on the order form.

Because these sets require special minting, only a limited number can be produced in time for Christmas this year. To be sure of receiving the sets you want, and to make certain of delivery in time for Christmas, your order should be postmarked no later than November 15, 1972.

ORDERS SHOULD BE POSTMARKED BEFORE NOVEMBER 15, 1972

The Cowboys' Herb Adderley: His Brother's Keeper

Herb Adderley, star defensive corner back for the champion Dallas Cowboys and the only pro football star to play in four Super Bowl games, answers an emphatic yes to the age-old question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" While Adderley, 33, was growing up to become a successful sports hero and idol to young fans, his brother Charles, 34, became involved with narcotics, and while under the influence of drugs, stabbed a woman to death. Charles was given a life sentence by the courts in his native Philadelphia, but Herb has always felt he could be rehabilitated and has asked the Pennsylvania Pardons Board to release him to his custody and supervision. Herb has been active for many years in volunteer organizations that aid youngsters in trouble and feels a special responsibility to help his brother. Adderley's parents split up when he was 11, and his mother became both mother and father to him. He won Philadelphia's "Athlete of the Year" award at 17 and received an athletic scholarship to Michigan State University. When he graduated, the Green Bay Packers made him their first draft choice, and for several years he was the outstanding All-Pro defensive back who helped the Packers win championship after championship. Dallas wasn't able to beat the Packers until Adderley was traded to the Cowboys. Adderley still maintains his home in Philadelphia, where his wife teaches handicapped children and his daughter attends a Montessori school.—By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

What's Really Best For Arthritis Pain?

Of all human ills, the most dreaded is pain. And the most common form of human pain is osteoarthritis. Osteoarthritis is simply a degeneration of bone and cartilage around joints. It is not brought on by cold or dampness but is the "normal abnormality" of growing older. It may, but need not necessarily, vary with the weather, though it often feels worse in the winter. You can get relief for osteoarthritis from common analgesics such as aspirin, acetaminophen or salicylamide. But analgesics are only part of the treatment. Many people do not realize that reduction of body weight to lighten the load on joints also helps. Also, ask your doctor to prescribe certain exercises. These exercises will help you in moving around—help your mobility. Ask your doctor also to check your nutrition to see if you are getting the proper vitamins and minerals. Liniments, when applied judiously, may reduce the associated muscle pain. Ask your pharmacist for a liniment that contains oil of wintergreen and use it according to the cautions on the label.—By Erwin DiCyan, Ph.D.

The Diet Watch

Are You a Sneaky Snacker?

"I never even eat a whole meal!" an overweight woman tells a doctor at an obesity clinic, "—so I don't understand why I'm so heavy." She is being honest. Many heavyweight housewives actually never do eat complete meals. An obesity-clinic study in New York shows that such women are often snacking housewives—women who eat a mouthful of something while serving a meal to the family, women who "taste" a mouthful of this or that while preparing meals, women who eat the family meal's leftovers, women who say they "don't have time" to sit down and eat a full meal and instead grab something here and there. Many such overweight people would be shocked to realize how much—and how often—they eat. Those who snack rather than eat meals can often rapidly lose weight once they change their eating pattern: forcing themselves to sit down and eat full meals—and stopping their snacks.—By Harriet LaBarre

Jobmanship

Understanding the Chip-on-Shoulder Co-worker

Though a chip-on-shoulder co-worker may be making your life difficult, a touchy co-worker is not really out to "get" you or anyone else. Instead, his anxious and aggressive behavior is brought on by his being afraid and insecure. It's not power he's after. Just the opposite. He's using his unpleasant attitude toward others to protect himself and his job. Because he's so unsure of himself, the chip-on-shoulder worker has trouble taking any suggestion or criticism about his work, even if you deliver it gently and constructively. He's the fellow who, even when it's plain he has made a mistake, goes right on insisting that it just isn't so. Because he's so anxious, he's also the worker who frequently exaggerates and misinterprets actions and remarks that weren't even directed at him. If you can help your touchy co-worker to feel surer of his position and his capabilities, he may be able to relax and be easier to work with.—By S. R. Redford

Celebrity Soapbox

ROBERT MITCHUM:

"Let Indians Shape Their Own Destiny"

"We shouldn't treat Indians as a minority group. After all, they own the joint. It was their country and they're the ones who were rooted up and plundered, with everyone taking a crack at it—the Dutch, the French, the Spanish, you name them." The speaker is Robert Mitchum, who refers to himself as "one of the most active Indians in the movies" and says his father was half Blackfoot. "Indians have no great power. They are a proud people, simple in their worldliness. They're not degenerates, they are not subversives. But they are treated as if they were. Indians should administer themselves and not be subjected to the vast bureaucracy that outnumbers them. They should determine their own future, and take charge of their own lives. The Bureau of Indian Affairs should inform the public of the true character of the Indians, and the Bureau should be run by Indians." Mitchum's latest movie is "The Wrath of God."—Interview by William Wolf

People and You

Creating Confidence In Your Child

Some young people will plunge in and try a new task with confidence. Others hang back. Even before they try, their reaction is, "I won't be able to do it." Psychologists working with mothers of high school juniors and seniors believe they now have a partial understanding of how confidence is created. Mothers who had expected their children to be independent and competent at a very early age had teenagers who were worried about failure. Some of them were not only afraid of failing but didn't really see advantages to trying and succeeding! The psychologists discovered that the teenagers who didn't think achievement was worthwhile were punished when they failed at a task during their early childhood. Yet when they did succeed in their childhood their mothers just took it for granted and didn't react. The teenager whose mother praised and noticed his accomplishments while he was growing up might worry about failure, but he did feel that accomplishment was valuable!—By Shirley Sloan Fader through their word,

that all may be one as you, Father, are in me, and I in you;
I pray that they may be [one] in us, that the world may believe that you sent me.
I have given them the glory you gave me
that they may be one, as we are one—
I living in them, you living in me—that their unity may be complete.
So shall the world know that you sent me,
and that you loved them as you love me.

There is no tumult in the streets. There are no screaming headlines. But a quiet revolution is taking place. One day, it may change the world.

The name of the revolution is ecumenism. It is the effort of Christian and non-Christian churches to come together in harmony rather than split apart in strife. Already, impressive progress has been made. Without sacrifice of principles, the differing parties have been finding ways to strengthen the bonds that unite them and to discuss the issues that divide them. The results show promise for a new age of truth, justice and peace.

But so far, the "experts" have provided most of the action. Now it's time for the layman to become informed and to get involved. That's where you come in. That's where we come in. We invite you to write for our informative pamphlet, "Principles of Unity." It's free. Nobody will call.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

SHOOK UP

A handshake is the oddest thing.
It's best when you don't wear a ring.
For some can make a setting buckle
And bring the blood and crush a knuckle.

Then there are those who, strong or weak,
When they have shaken, while you speak,
Hold on (and on) and won't let go.
You think together you may grow.

Between the two, I'll take the crusher
And not the holder-on, the gusher.
For if it must indeed be one,
Let fingers crack—at least we're done.

The noblest of all animals is the dog, and noblest of all dogs is the hot dog—it feeds the hand that bites it.

Women's Lib is healthy

Women's Lib may go way to the other side of the coin to straighten the balance out, but I think women understand that. What they're saying is that there are certain things men have been doing that have been damaging to womanhood, and I think that's very true."

America needs to reverse progress, says author L. Rust Hills. Here's how he puts it: "Just turn everything around and start going the other way. This would keep America moving, but now we'd be moving in the right direction, backward—from the complex back toward the simple, from the new back to the old, from the ugly and shoddy back to the lovely and sturdy. . . . This would cause no unemployment, because there would be just as much work undoing all the things we've done as there was doing them. . . . Not only would we de-mechanize America, but de-mechanize her quietly and slowly, without using any noisy machines. . . . There'll be a need to subvert our national mania that 'growth' is good, that it's 'vital.' A really vital nation endures in its best phases, refuses to grow toward its own extinction." From Hills' book "How To Do Things Right" (Doubleday, $4.95).

HAPPINESS

A Vietnam orphan finds a family

An orphan toddler, named Happiness by nuns who found her wandering on a shell-pocked road near Saigon, came halfway around the world to find a new home. At the Paris airport, she met her new parents—Pat and Reginald Merryweather—and the youngest of her three new sisters, Celia 13. Mrs. Merryweather, holding the two-and-a-half-year-old in her arms after five years of waiting for a foster child, could only say, "Isn't she sweet? Isn't she adorable?" Happiness, to be renamed Maria, returned the compliment by giving her mother a lump of sugar and a kiss. Then it was home to Paradise, England.

Made by skilled craftsmen in Hong Kong/Taiwan to give you these extraordinary values. Modacrylic fiber made in U.S.A.

THAT'S A PLEDGE you can live up to when you have “Wide-Range” disability income protection that can pay you up to $1,200.00 A MONTH when you're sick or hurt and can't work...in or out of the hospital.

“To hold” is a fine and powerful promise, packed with many meanings—“to guard,” “to keep,” “to support.” A world of promises in one—tough promises to hold to in sickness.

But you can have help. As the breadwinner, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month...more than $250.00 a week) to help replace your paychecks when you're sick or hurt and can't work. These monthly benefits are all yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose...yours to use for every kind of bill.

They are payable over and above any benefits you receive for hospital and medical bills. And you are covered for disabilities that start before retirement or age 65 (whichever comes first).

These benefits are not payable for losses caused by war or military service; narcotics, childbirth, pregnancy or resulting complications.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN:

- 1 You may qualify for up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (more than $250.00 a week) to spend as you see fit when you're sick or hurt and can't work!
- 2 These disability benefits are payable both IN and OUT of the hospital!
- 3 Benefits are payable for both accidents and sickness covered by your policy and beginning after the policy date!
- 4 Mental disorders are covered the same as any other sickness!

5 Your policy protects you as a passenger in any kind of aircraft—even a private plane!

6 Benefits are payable for disabilities incurred both on and off the job. They are payable in addition to your Workmen's Compensation or Employer's Liability coverage!

7 You have this renewal agreement: Mutual of Omaha guarantees that no matter how much you may receive in benefits, you cannot be singled out for policy termination or for a premium increase. The only time your premium can be changed is when premiums for all policies of the same classification in your state are changed!

How much monthly income do you qualify for? Find out. Send for the free facts about this basic protection that helps you keep your promise, and you will also receive information about the fine plans to meet your life insurance needs now available from Mutual of Omaha's affiliate, United of Omaha. IF I KNEW WHAT T' DO FIRST, PUNJAB... I'D DO IT! GOT ANY IDEAS?

ONLY ONE, PRINCESS! WE DO NOT SEARCH... WE BECOME CONSPICUOUS... AND HE WHO SEEKS US WILL HAVE NO PROBLEM FINDING WHAT HE DESIRES!

LOOK FOR A SMALL GIRL WITH FLAMING HAIR... AND A GIANT OF A MAN... AS LARGE AS I... WHEN YOU SEE THEM, MAKE NO MOVE!

REPORT TO ME! THEN I WILL TAKE CHARGE... AND THIS TIME, MY MASTER WILL HAVE NO CAUSE TO DOUBT MY WISDOM, MY CUNNING... OR MY SUPERHUMAN STRENGTH!
