POW Centers Ready

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — American prisoners of war released after an end to the fighting in Vietnam will be flown to one of three processing sites in Guam, the Philippines and Okinawa, it was reported today. In a copyright story, the San Diego Union said the Defense Department's top official for POW affairs, Dr. Roger Shields, has outlined a procedure under which released POWs will remain in the centers until judged physically able to return to the United States. "It could be a week, 10 days or longer, depending on his health conditions and the doctors' recommendations," the paper quoted a military official. A processing center has already been chosen for each POW, the report said.

N.C. Building Down

RALEIGH (AP) — State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane reported today building activity in North Carolina was down in September as compared with September of last year. Crane reported that 36 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population issued $58 million dollars worth of building permits in September. This compared with $69 million issued in the same month last year. Crane also reported that in the first nine months of this year, permits totaling more than $543 million were issued by the 36 cities. This compared with $500 million in the period of last year. Raleigh led the cities with $9.8 million worth of permits in September, Charlotte and $7 million, Durham $6.3 million and Greensboro had $6 million.

$250 Million Color Camera

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — After four years and $250 million, the Polaroid Corp. has introduced a new self-developing color camera it says will "change our lives." About the size of a paperback book and weighing only 24 ounces, the SX 70 will retail for $180 and be available nationally soon after the first of next year, Polaroid said Thursday night. It will go on sale in Florida Nov. 10. The camera, brainchild of Polaroid founder Dr. Edwin Land, requires the photographer essentially to do only three things — focus, push the shutter button and wait. One second after the photographer pushes the shutter, the camera ejects a developing picture unit within an invisible stiff protective plastic structure. The unit represents 17 layers of compounds, some only 10-thousandths of an inch thick. The picture area at first appears uniformly turquoise, but within six minutes becomes a brilliantly colored finished print immune to rain, sun and fingerprints. It is almost impossible to bend or break with a human hand. Operation is controlled by 250 transistors contained in the film packs. The packs cost $6.90 for a pack of 10 exposures. A special flash for indoor pictures was developed for the camera by General Electric. They cost $2.77 for a package of 10. "No description can do it justice," Polaroid senior vice president Peter Wensberg told some 1,500 Florida photo dealers gathered for the camera's presentation. "Perhaps once or twice in a lifetime something so radically new is developed that it actually changes our lives. This is what the SX 70 is," he said.

300,000 Tons Of Corn Sold China

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today the first sale of livestock feed grains—300,000 tons of corn—to the People's Republic of China. In mid-September there was an announcement of a 400,000-ton wheat sale to China but there had been no earlier dealings in corn. Nixon, in a campaign radio broadcast on the farmer and his problems, said the new relationship with Peking "is another situation in which our farmers are both contributing to peace and profiting from peace."

with the Soviets in July—the biggest peacetime transaction of its kind in history. "This sale holds enormous benefit for all Americans. It will raise crop value for America's farmers by a billion dollars in 1972 alone. It will improve our nation's balance of payments by a billion dollars. It will create at least 30,000 new American jobs. It will save the taxpayers some $200 million."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States waited today for a direct signal from Hanoi to open the last round of secret talks that Henry A. Kissinger promises could bring peace to Vietnam "in a matter of weeks, or less." The presidential adviser, saying "peace is at hand ... an agreement is within sight," told newsmen Thursday that "what remains to be done can be settled in one more negotiating session ... lasting, I would think, no more than three or four days."

provincial councilmen and National Assembly deputies. "We don't know exactly what agreements have been reached. But one thing is true. We do not agree on anything yet. In this case, the only cease-fire that will take place will comply with our stands. I will present the agreement to you, and I will not sign any agreement in secret." Kissinger told newsmen that the tentative agreement reached with Hanoi provides a cease-fire and the return of all prisoners of war held by both sides within 60 days of the date the pact is signed. "I want to stress that what remains to be done is the smallest part of what has already been accomplished, and ... we must remember that, having come this far, we cannot fail and we will not fail over what still remains to be accomplished."

Horne will release the complete details after checking final with officials of the industry.

Nixon Vetoing 9 Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today he is vetoing nine bills—some of them major—because they would "break the budget" by about $2.75 billion during the next two years.

The fattest money bill Nixon vetoed would have appropriated $30.5 billion to finance activities of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He complained that the measure would call for "overspending" of $535 million. Even that sum, he said, "would still amount to pressure for higher taxes."

In a memorandum, Nixon spoke of his determination to hold federal outlays to $250 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1—a ceiling he says must be met if higher taxes are to be avoided.

"If I were to sign these measures into law," said Nixon, "I would, in effect, be making promises that could not be kept—since the funds required to finance the promised services are not available, and would not be available without the higher taxes I have promised to resist."

ACTING PRESIDENT

September Beef Prices Reported Slightly Down

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers paid less for beef last month because of a slide in cattle prices and the first dip in middleman markups since last June, the Agriculture Department said today.

The September retail price of beef, a key indicator in the cost of living, was slightly less than $1.13 per pound on an all-cut basis, including hamburger as well as steak.

That was almost three cents less than in August and 4.4 cents cheaper than the record high in July. In August, however, the price spread—the markup—from cattlemen to consumers was a record 44.8 cents per pound.

Last month, according to a "market basket" report on U.S. farm-produced food, the middleman share for beef was 43.3 cents per pound, a decline of 3.3 per cent in a month.

Statistically, however, the middleman beef margin was 20.3 per cent more than last June and 14.9 per cent more than a year ago.

All grocery store foods averaged 0.1 per cent less in September but 5.6 per cent more than a year earlier.

Last week the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported take-home food in September rose 0.1 per cent from August. But USDA officials said their report covered only food produced on American farms and did not include imported items and seafood products.

The BLS report also covers meat prices only for the first week in a month, while the USDA surveys beef and pork for the entire month.

Broken down further, the USDA report showed that the average retail beef price of just under $1.13 per pound, the "farm value" was 69.6 cents in September, down from 71.0 in August and the summer peak of 77.5 last June and July when cattle prices were higher.

Farm value is not the price producers get for cattle, but it is their share of what consumers pay at retail stores.

Sanford Given Charter Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—Duke University President Terry Sanford, North Carolina's former governor and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination last summer, has been named to head a commission to draft a permanent charter for the Democratic party.

"I have agreed to become chairman of the Democratic Charter Commission," Sanford said in a statement released in Washington and Durham Thursday by party officials, "because the viability of the Democratic party will have much to do with shaping the future of the nation." Sanford said he would hold a news conference shortly after next month's election to discuss plans and procedures. He added that the assignment would not interfere with his duties at Duke University.

Democratic spokesmen said the commission will look into the ways of creating a party organization which is open and responsive to the party's voters and which will work with state and local members of the party. Spokesmen said the remainder of the commission would be announced in December.

Propose Japan's Dollar Surplus Help Students

Expansion of expertise on international affairs was the main objective of action taken by the N.C. Commission on International Cooperation at its quarterly meeting yesterday in Raleigh. The commission, headed by Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, passed a proposal aimed at easing economic tension between Japan and the United States as a result of the mounting U.S. dollar surplus being held by Japan. The commission will forward the proposal to Gov. Robert Scott and ask him to make the request to the Japanese government. The proposal, it was reported, suggests that the Japanese government earmark some of its dollar surplus to fund the travel of U.S. students, teachers, and researchers to Japan for study at Japanese institutions of higher learning.

In other action, the commission requested the Department of Natural and Economic Resources to assist with the drafting of its proposed budget to be presented to the 1973 General Assembly. The commission was established by the 1971 General Assembly and authorized to undertake programs of information and education designed to enlarge the understanding of North Carolina citizens with respect to trade and other economic relations with foreign countries.

"We want to get the private citizen involved and participating in this program as well as the academic community," Dr. Jenkins said.

Adjustments Board Holds Seven Public Hearings

At the October meeting of the Greenville Board of Adjustments, two items were tabled, one denied and four approved in a total of seven public hearings. The request for special use permit to operate Kiddie Korner Nursery at 1115 West Fourth Street as a nursery was approved on a permanent basis. Earlier a temporary permit had been granted. The one denial was on a request for variance requested by Calvary Baptist Church at 1412 Holbert Street. Three board members voted in favor of granting the variance, but one member voted against. When only four members are present, an approving vote must include concurrence of all four members without a dissenting vote. The member casting the dissenting vote gave as reasons for voting against the request that the church is a non-conforming use in an unoffensive industry zoned area; it does not meet the minimum set back requirements; and approval would increase the size of the non-conforming structure. Two issues were tabled due to no representation of persons seeking the variance or permit. These were the public hearings requested for Gilbert's Automotive Clinic at 1604 Dickinson Avenue and by Earl Simmons at 2301 May Street. The request by Collice C.

Moore to use a building at 2501 East Tenth Street as a day care center was approved. One person registered opposition to this request. Also approved was a request for Vicki's Ceramic Shop to be located at 1101 Johnson Street as a home occupation. The request for special use permit by James M. William and Philip E. Carroll was approved. The initial request had been for a sales office and a lot for automobile sales at 201 West Tenth Street. At the meeting, Carroll noted the sales lot deal had not come through, so the approval applied only to an office space at the location.

Boy Dislikes Church With Hypocrites

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old, and my parents force me to attend church every Sunday.

I hate going to church because I see people there who I know are drunkards, gossipers, liars and cheats, and they are right there every Sunday saying their prayers and singing the hymns. I don't have any respect for hypocrites and our church is full of them, my own parents included.

I am only 13, so maybe my opinion doesn't count, but I don't see any sense in my going to church with a bunch of hypocrites.

DEAR ONLY: Christ became a man at 13, and you are not too young to become a man either. One goes to church to learn about the Bible and the word of the Lord, although God dwells in one's heart, and it's not necessary to "go" to church to communicate with Him.

A church is not a museum for Saints, its a hospital for sinners, so "judge not, lest ye be judged," young man.

DEAR ABBY: I do not care for dirty jokes, especially in mixed company, but I never know how to act when I hear one. [I'm a young married woman.]

Should I keep my face straight and pretend I don't understand it? [That would seem rather foolish.]

Or should I politely laugh along with everyone else? I'm afraid if I make an issue of it and bluntly say I don't care for dirty jokes, people will think I'm a poor sport.

DEAR VIRGO: Don't permit ANYTHING which offends you to be said in your presence without challenging it. Silence implies tacit approval. Respectable people will respect you, and don't worry about what the others think.

DEAR ABBY: My son and daughter in law have a darling two-month-old baby, and they ride all over on a motorcycle with the baby strapped to the mother's back.

My son and his wife wear heavy helmets in case they fall off or get into an accident, but the baby doesn't have anything on his head. I don't like to meddle, but I mentioned this to them, and they didn't pay any attention to me.

Now what should I do?

DEAR WORRIED: Mention it again! And this time explain to those foolish parents that they are exposing that child to possible injury or death! No one should ride a motorcycle unless he is protected.

And that goes for infants too!

DEAR ABBY: What are the requirements for adopting a Viet Nam orphan? I am a single male, age 45. I have a nice home paid for and have an adequate income to help at least one homeless child.

I am prepared to take a trip overseas if necessary. Thank you for any information you can give me in this matter.

DEAR ALABAMAN: Write to International Social Service: W. A. I. F., 345 E. 46th St., New York, N. Y. And good luck. You're beautiful.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Household Hints

By United Press International

Replace electric cords promptly when they are damaged.

Inspect electric cords for wear and tear.

Before plugging in a cord or unplugging it from an outlet turned on and off by a switch, be sure the switch is turned to the off position.

When disconnecting a plug from a wall or floor socket, pull on the plug. Don't yank it out by tugging on the cord.

Before using a new electric dishwasher or any new appliance, read the instruction booklet supplied by the manufacturer.

Wipe up spilled foods immediately. This will keep the spill from turning into a stubborn spot.

Top drained canned or frozen cooked artichoke hearts with a ham sandwich spread; garnish with capers. Serve as an hors d'oeuvre or on lettuce as a salad.

Cook tiny meat balls in butter in a skillet. Heat equal parts of chili sauce and grape jelly until the jelly melts; use as a sauce for the meat balls and serve at cocktail time.

Seafood Species Can Be Used Interchangeably In Recipes

By JEANNE LESEM

UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—America's fast-growing appetite for fish and seafood has left some popular varieties such as cod, haddock and shrimp in short supply in United States' waters.

But there's no need for alarm at the dinner table. Imports are filling the gap created by a 300-million pound a year increase in consumption since 1967. And consumers can help by substituting new, more plentiful species in favorite recipes.

The species new to U.S. retail markets and in greatest supply are pollock, whiting and Greenland turbot, which is entirely different from the Mediterranean turbot popular in Europe.

The National Fisheries Institute says all three new species can be used interchangeably in recipes calling for such popular fish as cod, sole, flounder, haddock and halibut, and regional favorites such as bluefish, grouper, grey mullet, red snapper and sea trout. While flavor varies from species to species, all are lean fish with firm texture that react to cooking in similar ways.

Available Frozen

Robert H. Wilbur, director of communications for the institute, said pollock and whiting also are in national distribution in frozen fish stick form, ready to heat and eat. The institute represents 350 processors, packers and distributors of domestic and imported fish and seafood.

In an interview, Wilbur said about 60 per cent of all fish and seafood eaten in the U.S. is imported. The principal species imported are cod, ocean perch, haddock, pollock, tuna and shrimp. The first four come largely from Canada and the remainder from Japan, Mexico and India.

Wilbur said the high ratio is necessary because "fish are not like beef cattle. Through management over a couple of years, you can increase the number of cattle on the range."

It's not that easy with fish, although farms for fresh water trout have existed for years. Wilbur said he expects farming of fresh water species to increase but "we can't yet farm ocean fish." The biggest growth in this area is putting more catfish on the table, but so far both the frozen and fresh product are sold largely in the South and the Midwest where the farms are located.

Cooking Easy
Fish and seafood are easy to cook if you remember that they are tender and juicy when raw. Unlike meat, they have no connective tissue to be tenderized. Cooking simply coagulates the protein and brings out flavor.

No thermometer is needed. A simple fork test shows you when the food is done. Fin fish flake easily and their translucent appearance changes to opaque when ready to eat. To avoid overcooking, check for doneness about halfway through the recommended cooking time by inserting a fork in the thickest part.

The meat of shellfish — shrimp, lobsters, rock lobsters and crab — also turns opaque when done and their shells become pink. All will dry out and toughen if they're overcooked.

If you've been frying or baking fish because you find other cooking methods difficult, try these ideas:

Bake turbans, or rolled, stuffed fillets, individually in lightly oiled muffin pans. This eliminates the need for toothpicks to hold each roll together and prevents their falling apart during cooking.

If poached or steamed fillets break when you remove them from the pan, cook them on a plate. Place the raw fish in a single layer on the plate, tie it in cheesecloth and immerse it in the cooking liquid or place it on a rack in the steamer. Use the knotted cheesecloth as a handle to remove the plate of cooked fish. Untie the cloth and use slotted pancake turners to drain the fillets and remove them to a platter.

Father Charles Mulholland was guest speaker at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Bienvenue Book Club held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Williamson.

The club is sponsored by the Welcome Wagon Club of Greenville. Pastor at Saint Gabriels and campus minister at ECU. Father Mulholland shared his ideas on the pressing gaps of today including those between youth and adults and between people of comfort and those of poverty.

He reminded members that youth has sought the idea of freedom — the idea that adults have been advocating for many years. Therefore, he suggested that adults must speak to youth as free people in order to be heard.

A discussion period followed the program. Yearbooks were distributed to club members.

A guest for the meeting was Mrs. J. T. Haynie of Anderson, S. C.

Reason To Think Peace Is Near

There is every reason to believe that a world which has grown increasingly weary of the Vietnam war will soon see an end to this immensely long struggle.

All the signs have been there as Presidential Advisor Henry Kissinger has spent days meeting with the North Vietnamese and then has held further meetings with President Thieu in South Vietnam.

There had been a number of hints in public statements of concerned officials that a settlement was near at hand. It became obvious that truce arrangements had been agreed upon Thursday when North Vietnam publicly announced that terms had been agreed upon.

According to their spokesmen, the accord was all but settled and the United States was having trouble persuading Saigon.

Later in the day, Kissinger confirmed the peace agreement, telling newsmen that peace was at hand. He saw only minor points to be settled. Included in the agreement is the cherished return of all American prisoners held by the Communist.

A national election would determine the future government of South Vietnam. Under the agreement U.S. forces would be pulled out within 60 days and there would be a total prohibition against infiltration of forces from North Vietnam. The only military supplies to be sent to South Vietnam would be replacement equipment for that which is worn out or damaged.

The proposed truce agreement has been long awaited and it appears now that it is almost certain to come in a short time. Hopes have been dashed before in this long and agonizing war, but never before have the negotiations reached such a concrete understanding.

The question has already arisen as to whether the settlement was timed for maximum impact on the U.S. election. This is something we have to doubt, since it takes two sides to negotiate. We must assume that North Vietnam felt it could get the best settlement prior to the election, accepting the likelihood that President Nixon will be elected for four more years.

There may be pitfalls in the proposed settlement; however this war has been so drawn out and so wearying there is reason to believe that the two sides will make the cease fire work to avoid a tragic return to the battlefields.

Drumbeat For A Half-Century

By BRYAN HAISLIP
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. —
Fifty years as chronicler and catalyst for the Southern region has made the reputation of the University of North Carolina Press.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Books which have been the drumbeat for a half-century march of progress have come from the Press since 1923, the year of its founding.

It's no exaggeration, said Director Matthew Hodgson, that in the international circles of books and scholarship the Chapel Hill imprimatur is recognized for a byword of excellence.

"We rank among the top ten university presses in this country," he observed. "Our books have won virtually every available award of prestige."

Two eminent friends will join the golden anniversary observance at a December 1 reception and dinner here.

Alfred A. Knopf, a titan among American book publishers, and Howard Mumford Jones of Harvard University, scholar and author, will be speakers for the birthday celebration. The two men, both vigorous in their 80s, will assess the literary and social contributions of the Press during its lifetime.

Those attending the dinner will include a spectrum of Tar Heel leadership in education and the arts, civic and political life, business and industry.

A Cultural Landmark
They will pay tribute to an institution comparable in literary terms to the N. C. Museum of Art and the N. C. Symphony in the fabric of Tar Heel culture.

The Press is an adornment and advertisement for the state and the University, Hodgson said. It serves as the vehicle to share faculty scholarship and research, to identify and analyze issues and problems confronting the state and region, to preserve heritage and folkways.

Its books are not always light reading, though it has had its best sellers. "Our books generally are not the sort you'd curl up with," conceded Hodgson. "We do keep in mind appeal to the educated lay reader."

Even those who don't read them have felt the impact of books published by the Press.

A series of Southern studies in the 30s and 40s, including the monumental "Southern Regions" by Howard W. Odum, stimulated economic and social progress still affecting the area and its people. Books from the Press delineated the plight of blacks in a way that cut through myth and misconception. Hodgson recalled, and created the climate for change.

Looking To Future
Reflecting on the past is preparation for the future. Hodgson has in mind innovative books which can have an equal catalytic effect for ecology and planning.

"What happens when rural areas become urbanized?" he asked. "We think we can produce the books dealing with planning which can have an influence on the course of the next 25 years for North Carolina."

Men as well as books compose the 50-year history of the Press. Hodgson came to his job in 1970, fifth in line of Press directors. His predecessors were Louis Round Wilson, William T. Couch, Thomas J. Wilson, Jr. and Lambert Davis. Each maintained and pushed forward the boundaries of its reputation.

A UNC alumnus, Hodgson brought a background of 20 years in commercial book publishing and an editorship at the University of Kentucky Press.

Press Attracted Him
He came to Chapel Hill in the first instance because of the Press, he remembered. A Tennessee lawyer's son, his imagination was fired by the groundbreaking volumes on the South published during Couch's tenure.

His undergraduate literary involvement was on a more raucous plane. He edited Tarnation, the campus humor magazine.

Picking a "ten best" list from 50 years is an impossibility Hodgson doesn't care to attempt.

"Hiroshima Diary" by Dr. Warner Lee Wells ranks among best sellers and has been translated into a dozen languages. Marion Brown's "Southern Cookbook" is a profitable staple. "Practical Farming for the South" by Benjamin F. Bullock went to 40,000 copies. "White Over Black" by Winthrop Jordan won the 1968 National Book Award.

Fame doesn't mean financial security for university publishing. The worth of a book, not its sales value, must be the gauge, Hodgson said.

That means a money situation fluctuating from crisis to chronic; at the moment, it's manageable, Hodgson added. The Press looks to foundations and other sources, he said, for the support to carry its work into the second half-century.

Percy Versus White House

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — The self-imposed handicap that Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois carries into any race for the 1976 Republican Presidential nomination was exposed last week when he lunched at Chicago's elegant Casino Club with key Democratic supporters for his reelection to the Senate.

"Some assistants at the White House," Percy told his Democratic hosts, "have the mistaken belief that we are under a parliamentary system, where Republicans in Congress are required to follow the President." Percy quickly added that he had no intention of following anything other than his own conscience. The Democrats around the table, mostly liberal and mostly rich, beamed in approval.

Such campaign talk by Percy elevates blood pressure at the White House. President Nixon's political aides — and probably the President himself — cannot understand why Percy publicly criticizes them to woo liberal independents and Democrats who support him anyway. Such White House ire, in turn, irritates Percy into complaining about the White House.

Superficially, this has created heated competition over whether Percy's or the President's reelection campaign, each shown by the polls winning Illinois by 2-to-1, gets a bigger percentage of the state vote. But whoever is ahead Nov. 7, powerful forces close to Mr. Nixon are determined to obstruct Percy in the years ahead.

Actually, Percy is no doctrinaire liberal in his one-sided campaign against a little known Democratic Congressman from Chicago, Rep. Roman Pucinski. Before last week's Casino Club luncheon, Percy played the role of party regular in meeting with west suburban Republican committeemen. He hurried from the Casino Club to the north suburbs, where the Skokie Chamber of Commerce heard an impeccably conservative sermon decrying runaway federal spending.

Nor is Percy the Senate's most irregular Republican. Although he has backed Mr. Nixon on only one-third of the issues considered most important at the White House, that's much better than other liberal Republicans — Clifford Case of New Jersey and Jacob Javits of New York — who generate no such anger at the White House. The difference is Percy's insistence on criticizing Nixon policy during an election campaign.

Three weeks ago, Percy went on national television to attack the President's suffocation of the consumer protection bill. Last week, he bluntly criticized the President's handling of the Watergate bugging case.

In public, the Nixon political apparatus turns the other cheek. At the request of Percy supporters, Nixon campaign manager Clark MacGregor last week mailed pro-Percy letters to party regulars here. But after the consumer protection fight, White House aides privately passed word into conservative downstate Illinois of Mr. Nixon's intense unhappiness with Percy.

Indeed, Percy's closest backers in the Illinois Republican party cannot understand why, having cornered the liberal independent vote against Pucinski, he cannot curb his criticism of Mr. Nixon and thereby mend Republican fences for the future. Some have put the question to Percy in precisely those terms.

The answer given them is a defense of his regularity and a contention that the Bourbons of Illinois have become reconciled to him. But that is strictly in terms of reelection to the Senate. Our check of the Bourbons here shows that Percy's independence from the White House has reinforced their blood vow to fight his Presidential ambitions.

Even if Percy were a staunch Nixon loyalist, his Illinois home base would not be secure. Gov. Richard Ogilvie, having surged ahead for reelection after appearing doomed last summer against Democrat Dan Walker, is telling friends that he will be available for President — perhaps not as an active candidate but standing by with Illinois's votes in his pocket.

In reply, Percy is reminding everyone that he risked his own political fortunes to actively support Ogilvie in the governor's darkest days. But that won't persuade Ogilvie to hand over Illinois's delegates out of sheer gratitude.

Percy's lieutenants know this. They also question whether anybody with Percy's positions on the issues can win the Republican Presidential nomination — a doubt shared by Percy himself. Nevertheless, Percy refused to placate the Republican right, even by merely holding his tongue about Mr. Nixon. The Chuck Percy of 1964 who embraced Barry Goldwater in a vain attempt to appease the Bourbons is no more.

We are apt to say that money talks, but it speaks a broken, poverty-stricken language. Hearts talk better, clearer and with wider intelligence." — William Allen White.

JUST A LITTLE BIT SCARY!

By ART BUCHWALD

Nixon Against The Wall

WASHINGTON — Dr. Kis N Guh, President Thieu's special representative, has arrived here with his top advisers to try to persuade President Nixon to form a coalition government in the United States.

So far the talks have not been going well, and President Nixon has remained adamant in his stand not to accept a negotiated settlement of the November elections.

"I intend to remain President for the next four years," President Nixon angrily told Dr. Kis N Guh, "no matter how much pressure the South Vietnamese government puts on me."

Dr. Kis N Guh told President Nixon, "This is completely unsatisfactory to the Democratic Party. They insist that peace can only come to the United States if you are removed from office. We, of course, will support you, but we have to reach some compromise that will be satisfactory to all parties."

"No compromise," President Nixon said. "I will not make one concession to the Democrats. They are trying to destroy my government, and I will not stand for it."

"Before you make up your mind, let me spell out the territory of a peaceful settlement to see if something can be worked out," Dr. Kis N Guh said. "President Thieu considers them very reasonable, and urges you to accept them."

President Nixon sat stony-faced.

"First," said Dr. Kis N Guh, "you would remain President of the United States until the country holds free and open elections under international supervision."

"That's ridiculous," said President Nixon.

Dr. Kis N Guh continued, "Second, Sen. George McGovern would be named Vice President in the coalition government."

"What about Spiro Agnew?" President Nixon demanded.

"He would become the U.S. ambassador to Uganda," Dr. Kis N Guh replied. "Ramsey Clark would be attorney general and Dr. Spock would be secretary of health, education and welfare."

"What about my people?" President Nixon asked.

"Your people would have Cabinet positions, too. James Hoffa would be secretary of the treasury. The rest of the Cabinet posts would go to Ralph Nader's people whom we consider at this moment neutral."

"After the cease-fire, all territory pacified by the Republicans will remain Republican and all territory in Democrats have agreed to give amnesty to all Republicans involved in the Watergate bugging scandal on the condition that every tape and captured enemy document be returned to Democratic headquarters."

"We're winning the war," President Nixon said. "I see no reason why we should bargain with outlaws."

"I cannot stress, Dr. Kis N Guh,"

Public Forum

Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words

To the editor:
My husband and I have noted with regret that the visitations of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Greenville have frequently failed to meet their quota, even for a two-day visitation.

We have both been grateful recipients of blood at a minimal cost through the Red Cross Blood program, both here and in other participating hospitals. In addition we are the proud possessors of the "golden blood drop" label pins awarded for having donated a gallon or more of blood each to this program. And we have younger friends who have given three gallons or more to the Ft. Wayne, Indiana Regional Program.

We feel this to be the best of all Red Cross volunteer programs of "people helping people". Any citizen of Pitt County or any participating county may receive Red Cross blood in any participating hospital anywhere in the United States in case of emergency illness or accident. Paying only the laboratory and administration costs. In some hospitals this means a saving of from $25 to $50 per pint of blood, or more.

Having been actively involved for several years in blood donor recruitment, we further suggest that a Speakers' Bureau be set up to study the program and present it to civic groups. Also, we feel sure that there are local churches and industries whose facilities could be donated for a visitation, thus involving their members and employees with the obvious result of more blood donors. This has worked in other cities.

We urge all able-bodied citizens between the ages of 18 and 65 to give a pint of blood at the next visitation. The life you save may be your own or that of a member of your family, or your neighbor, or a tiny new-born RH factor baby whose entire blood system may need to be replaced.

A Portent In Public's Anxiety?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "In curious contrast to the obvious health of the economy, the nation now fidgets with anxiety."

Thus the First National City Bank, the nation's second largest, began an essay on the mood of the country as the Nov. 7 elections approached. It continued:

"What is noteworthy about the present mood of querulousness is that it has persisted so long in the face of a favorable economic performance."

Shortly thereafter the news was released in Washington that showed consumer prices for September rose 6 per cent, the worst showing for that inflation indicator in seven months.

Are the people querulous, anxious, fidgety because they know or suspect something that the experts who work with statistics cannot seem to penetrate? It wouldn't be the first time.

There is a vast difference between a sound economy as viewed from the business or financial communities, where numbers are symbols, and the world of reality for millions of Americans, where numbers mean jobs and prices.

This disparity has seldom been more noticeable than now, even though the popular measures of economic confidence are rising, and so also is consumer spending, and the disparity is occurring at a politically critical time.

That 6 per cent rise in September prices, for example, is the last such monthly report to be released before the elections, and so it undoes a lot of progress that had been made in the previous six months.

But it isn't that 6 per cent figure that disturbs the average shopper. That number is really an old one to shoppers, a belated report on what they had already concluded from their shopping trips.

To the woman who shops every day or every week for food, the slightest price change is quickly noted. Her inflation gauge is more timely, more sensitive, more revealing. She already knows by the time the official figures are released.

To the professional economist, however, those statistics are all-important, and sometimes he forgets that those little numbers are important only in that they are symbols of little people out there in the real world.

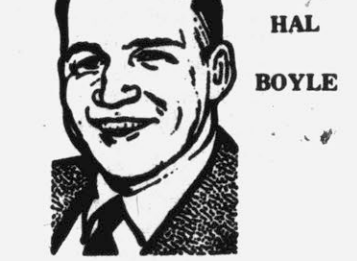

And so you have economists who believe one thing and ordinary shoppers another. You have economists waiting for the populace to behave as they feel it should and you have people waiting for the economist's statistics to shape up.

You have businessmen who state flatly that the economy

Eddie Egan's Story

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The best amateur actor in the history of the New York City Police Department is doing well as a professional television and movie performer.

"I had to go into the movies to get promoted," said former detective Eddie Egan, who plays a police lieutenant in Paramount's new crime thriller, "Badge 373."

Eddie, whose real-life exploits were the basis for the award-winning film, "The French Connection," is the legendary detective who made 8,741 arrests during a 19-year career as a crime-solver.

This amazing total is a record for the Police Department here.

Eddie, a maverick detective sometimes in trouble with his superiors because of his unorthodox methods, retired last year because he was "tired of paper work" and because he had always yearned for an acting career.

He feels he has smoothed out his quarrels with the Police Department. He has his badge, and is still permitted to wear strapped to his right ankle the gun he wore while in service. And, beginning in 1975, he will start receiving annual retirement pay of $11,000, which is 42 per cent of his final salary as a detective.

Defending the brusque tactics he employed while on duty — he wasn't noted for following departmental rules to the letter — Egan remarked:

"An old cop once told me, 'The only trouble you can get into on this job is by doing the job.' I found out myself that when you're arresting 8 to 10 people a day, you become maybe too experienced. You for the 10 a.m. opening on Monday. Store hours will be from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m., they said.

Music Shop Opening Set

Frank Ferree and Paul East Carolina University with a McNeil announced the opening degree in psychology. McNeil, a Monday of Rock 'N Soul Inc., a North Wilkesboro native, is music shop specializing in both currently attending ECU. rock and soul tape and record selections.

Ferree and McNeil are co-owners of the 112 E. Fifth Street business.

Ferree reported that in addition to offering rock and soul music supplies, the shop will carry selections in classical, country and western, and jazz in both records and tapes with business aimed primarily at the university clientele. He said that the shop will also stock tape and record accessories, including tape carriers.

Anyway, Eddie feels his future is pretty bright. He has a contract with Paramount tying him to the production of 13 films for which he has submitted plot outlines. Also in prospect is a television series, tentatively entitled "My Partner and I."

"Hopefully, I'll play myself," said Egan, "but that's being negotiated."

There are sound reasons for Eddie's optimism. He has already played six professional roles, and behind him lie innumerable real life roles while he was a detective, in some of which his own safety was at stake.

Egan, now 42, stands 6 feet 1, weighs 225 pounds, has wavy brown hair and intense blue eyes, and looks like a retired pro football fullback. He said there was considerable difference between acting for the Police Department and for Hollywood.

"The pay is nicer now, but acting is literally a matter of survival when I was a detective. In some places, if they knew you were a cop, you'd end up with too many holes in your head."

"I think that I played everything but a midget. At different times I was disguised as a blind beggar, a bum, a priest, a doctor, a bank teller, a college coach, a movie producer and a hospital patient."

He has asked me to tell you that if you do not accept the conditions as outlined he will not accept any more military and civilian aid for his country."

"Why that's blackmail," President Nixon said.

"President Thieu has also told me to advise you that unless you agree to a coalition government he will not allow you to bomb North Vietnam."

"He's taking all my options away!" President Nixon cried. "It's up to you," Dr. Kis N Guh said. "President Thieu is losing his patience and the people of South Vietnam are sick and tired of all the fighting going on in the United States. What is your answer?"

"Tell President Thieu," President Nixon said, "that no matter how much I need to support him, if he tries to force this settlement on me, I will go it alone."

Joint Board Gives Okay

In the brief Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission meeting preceding the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Wednesday night, approval was recommended for a request for rezoning presented by E. Hoover Taft. The request covers an area now zoned RA-20 and asks for division into three new zones — highway commercial, unoffensive industry, and office and institutional.

The property is located near the intersection of State Road 1534 and N.C. highway 30 (the Pactolus highway). It will also be in the southeastern quadrant of the intersection of the new proposed U.S. 246 by-pass and N.C. 30 once the by-pass is constructed.

City Planner Watson pointed out that approximately 300 feet of the eastern section of the land area did not fall under the newly defined one mile jurisdiction of the City of Greenville.

Taft, however, is asking that the zoning be applicable to all the property, a request the joint commission agreed was a valid one.

NEW PTI SGA OFFICERS . . . elected this week include from top to bottom: president Oakley, vice-president Knox, secretary Miss Speight and treasurer Miss Posey. (Reflector Staff Photo)

On November 7, 1972, I am going to vote for Jesse Helms for United States Senate. Mr. Helms has always supported the progress of our Eastern Region. I have bought this ad to remind my good friends in Pitt County that we have always had a friend in Jesse Helms.

Mr. Helms is now running for the United States Senate, and he needs our support.

Bobby Simpson
Newton Grove, N.C.

Whether by design or by happenstance, a great many North Carolinians still are not fully aware that 85 miles east of Raleigh there is emerging one of the more remarkable educational institutions in the South. It seems only yesterday that Greenville was the home of a small but respectable teachers' college which leaders of both higher education and politics were content to treat as a sort of deserving but undemanding stepchild.

The years have passed rapidly since East Carolina Teachers College became East Carolina College. But they have been remarkable years because of a remarkable man. As president of East Carolina College, Dr. Leo Jenkins has already proved to the satisfaction of many that he is perhaps the most effective and aggressive administrator ever to serve the state's efforts in higher education.

This has not put Dr. Jenkins in the running for a popularity award among some of his fellow educators. He has dared to be different. He has not shared the dream of some of his contemporaries that higher education should be a sort of super colossus beginning at Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill, running thence west to Greensboro and Charlotte. He has seen the need, and thus the opportunities, in the east, as well.

And so, Dr. Jenkins has presumed to dream independent dreams and to work towards their fulfillment. He put East Carolina College on the move, and then on the march. Muffled grumbling on other campuses has too often sought to limit his achievements, even at the price of restricting the degree of the service of his institution. But this remarkable man remains undaunted.

The hour approaches when East Carolina College will ask the state's General Assembly to approve the addition of a two year medical school to its curriculum. Again, Leo Jenkins has seen a need and is seeking to fill it. All around him are villages badly in need of physicians, some with none at all. Let us, he says, begin the training of some of the young men and women in his area who have the qualifications and the ambition to practice medicine.

No legislation has yet been introduced, but opposition to Leo Jenkins' latest dream already is mushrooming. The president of the University of North Carolina is said to have fears that some dollars might be diverted that otherwise would go to Chapel Hill. The State Board of Higher Education, which looks none too kindly upon East Carolina College anyhow, is curiously offended because it was not given an opportunity again to brush aside an expression of hope from that rapidly-growing campus at Greenville.

There is reason for hope that the legislature will look kindly upon the proposal, when it comes, for a medical school at East Carolina College. Certainly selfishness and petulance on the part of educators and others who oppose the idea should not be countenanced. If the legislature is sincere about its expressed hope of lifting the level of living throughout the state, it surely cannot turn its back on this reasonable and logical proposal.

Unlike the legislation which recently created a fourth branch of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, the bill providing for a medical school at Greenville will be introduced with careful assurances as to its cost. East Carolina College is not asking that the taxpayers be saddled with unlimited and unspecified burdens. Indeed, East Carolina College proposes to raise half of the necessary money from private sources. The cost to the taxpayers will be only a fraction of the normal allocation to the state's existing School of Medicine.

No one suggests that a two-year medical school at East Carolina College would be an overnight solution to the problems of providing more adequate medical care to the farming communities of the coastal plains. But it would be a start, and it would be an addition to the total efforts of the state. Certainly it should not and will not dilute what is now being done. It is a dream worth dreaming, and one that should not be made longer, overdue in coming true. It is simply a recognition that the people of eastern North Carolina are citizens, too, and that their needs and wishes are worthy of favorable consideration by the General Assembly.

Viewpoint No. 1054 March 9, 1965

East Carolina University's President Leo Jenkins is being bitterly criticized for his continued efforts to establish a two-year medical school at Greenville. But case histories in other states indicate that Jenkins is on the right track.

The State of Indiana, for example, had its medical training centralized in one relatively small geographic area—until recently. Now the state is making plans to establish medical training facilities at seven new locations around the state!

For years, Indiana politicians and educators fought the same kind of battle of jealousy that is now being waged in North Carolina. Then the leadership of the state woke up, and discovered that there were countless communities without physicians.

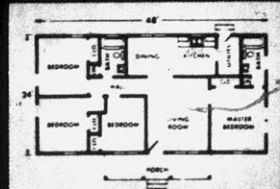

Which is precisely what Leo Jenkins has been saying to the leadership of North Carolina—about North Carolina.

FOR UNITED STATES SENATE ON

NOV. 7, 1972

"LESS MONEY? Sure... and it doesn't mean less house either... let me explain why..."

ROS COE CRANE, manager

The manager pictured above, is Mr. Roscoe Crane, of Jim Walter Homes in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Unless you live in this immediate area, chances are you'll never meet Roscoe. But, if you own property and would like to build on it, there is a man just like him that you should meet. A man that can explain to you why you can build now, despite rising costs, for less money and still have all the home you've always wanted. This man, the man we want you to meet, is your local Jim Walter Homes representative. And then, after you've talked, you'll find out how easily you can save hundreds, even thousands of dollars on your new home.

Did you know that a good portion of the inside of any home can be finished by amateurs... people who are not experts but are just handy with tools? How many times have you painted a ceiling... the walls... did the whole room? Can you use a hammer and nails... a square... a rule... and saw? When Jim Walter builds for you, you can start with the bare necessities if you want to... just the basic shell home, completely finished outside, unfinished inside... and then finish the rest yourself. Just imagine how much money this would cut from your finished cost... if you did all of the inside. But, it's not necessary for you to do this much. Do as much as you want to. Do a little or a lot. It's up to you. We'll stop at almost any stage of inside completion that you tell us to. The point is, whatever you can do will save you money.

But, doing some of the work yourself isn't the only way you'll save money when Jim Walter builds for you. A comparison will prove the cost of our homes is low for whatever you buy.

MR. FARMER YOU NEED NICK

If there is a change of as many as five Senate seats from the Democratic to the Republican party in the November 7 election, then the Republican party could change the chairmanships of the various Senate committees.

HERE IS WHAT COULD HAPPEN!

Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina would lose his chairmanship of the Senate Government Operations Committee.

Senator Herman Talmadge of Georgia would lose his chairmanship of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

WHO THEN WOULD BECOME CHAIRMAN OF THE AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE?

Most likely it would be Senator Jack Miller of Iowa. And Iowa doesn't even grow any TOBACCO or PEANUTS! Where would that leave the North Carolina farmers?

Elect Nick Galifianakis, who is on record in strong support of the farm program, and assure that North Carolina farming interests are protected and promoted!

Paladins Challenge Pirate Leadership

"We can't afford to lose one of our regulars." Coach Sonny Randle of East Carolina University said as the 1972 football season got underway. Randle referred to the lack of depth on the Pirate team, and the near-total lack of experience.

For the first five weeks of the season, the Pirates stayed healthy and no one was lost. During those five weeks, the Bucs moved past five straight opponents building up a 5-0 record.

Last week, the Pirates played their toughest opponent of the season, N.C. State, and the injuries finally came. Safety Mike Myrick fell by the wayside with an ankle injury. It appears now that he will not be back for the rest of the season.

Not long after he left the game, defensive halfback Billy Hibbs joined him on the sidelines with a knee injury. He'll definitely be out this week, and it is unsure when he'll return.

Monday, Jim Post, defensive captain of the Pirates, came down with a delayed injury, and is expected to be out of action this week too. "We hope to have them both back by next week," Randle said.

"I said earlier that we couldn't afford to lose even one, and now we've lost three. We've got a world of troubles," he added.

Moving in to replace them will be three inexperienced members of the squad. Gary Niklason will move into Post's linebacking position for the game, while Wash Edwards will replace Hibbs and Mike Jones will take over for Myrick. Both Edwards and Jones got their baptism during the State Game last week.

Despite the fact that the winning streak is over and the Bucs no longer lead the nation in defense, Randle feels there is still pressure there. "I think the absence of these three starters is going to add pressure," he said. "On top of that Furman has everything going for them."

What they have going for them is the fact that it's Homecoming. It's also "Bob King Day" honoring the dean of football coaches in the conference.

"They'll be playing way over their heads... Randle said, "because of this."

And also because the Paladins always manage to get up for the Pirates. In fact their last win over the Bucs, back in 1965, was a 14-7 triumph that was the only victory over the Pirates during that Tangerine Bowl year. Since then, close games have been the norm rather than the unusual. This will be the 10th meeting between the two schools and East Carolina has won seven of them. Furman won the first and East Carolina took the second by fairly lopsided scores, but after that they've all been close. Furman won the next game, 14-7, and the Bucs have won the remaining six: 17-10, 34-29, 24-13, 24-21, 7-0 and 26-13. Seldom, if ever, during these past seven years have the Bucs been able to consider Furman an easy opponent.

"East Carolina is their big game," Randle said, then added, "Why are we always somebody's big game? Why can't they be OUR big game?" But so it remains, and Randle realized that the Bucs are in for a battle. "They gave us a hell of a game last year. We have to fight for our lives," he said.

Furman comes into the game with a 2-5 overall record and a 1-3 conference mark. The Paladins lost their opener to William and Mary, 31-7, they fell to Presbyterian, 10-7. They upset Wofford, 24-7 and took Appalachian, 20-17, with a rally. But for the past three weeks, they've come out on the short ends, 24-15 to Western Carolina, 51-35 to Davidson, and 37-0 to Richmond.

The Paladin offense is led by running back Donny Griffin, who's picked up 507 yards in 91 carries, an average of 5.6 yards a play. Jim Barnett is next with 242 yards, followed by fullback Mike Johnson and quarterback John Wofrom, with 171 and 116 respectively.

Their quarterbacking situation, however, is apparently up in the air. They've been unable to settle on one, and for this game, they play to start sophomore Charles Elvington. (Continued on page 10)

Linebacker Gary Niklason

Kansas State Loss Our Gain

Five years ago Jim Post thought seriously of coming to East Carolina University to play football, but he didn't.

Instead, he went to Kansas State where he started at linebacker as a freshman and as a sophomore rotated in and out of the starting lineup. That followed a brilliant career as a tight end and linebacker at Pascoack Hills High School near his hometown of River Vale, N.J., and a one-year stay at Masanutten Military Academy in Woodstock, Va.

But, Post became displeased with his stay in Manhattan, Kansas, during his sophomore season and thought of leaving and going home. He was ready to quit football — and quit college.

He left Kansas State during the season of his sophomore year and returned home to New Jersey. Soon after arriving, he thought to give Henry Vansant, a former Pirate assistant coach who has recruited him while at Masanutten, a call to see about coming to East Carolina.

That one telephone call proved to be a very important one for Pirate football. Soon afterwards, Post was accepted here at East Carolina and he was ready to begin playing football one more time.

But, he had to sit out the next year — just watch from the sidelines — because of the NCAA ruling regarding transfers from member institutions. The wait nearly killed Post but he was happy at East Carolina so he just watched.

The following spring, the 6-3, 220-pound linebacker began to make his presence known in the Pirate camp. And, not long afterward, he had gained himself a starting position.

Last season — his first at East Carolina — Post was a familiar figure in the Pirate defense until he was struck down with pneumonia following the Pirate victory over N.C. State. That forced him out of the picture for the rest of the season, but he was not forgotten.

When spring drills began last March, Post knew he would have to work hard to get his old starting position back. But, he was ready and he was successful.

He was so successful in fact, that following the spring drills his teammates voted him co-captain.

"It was a real honor being selected co-captain", said Post, who lives in an off-campus apartment with his wife Sandy and their German Shepherd dog Elsa. "Being a transfer student, I really didn't feel like I would be elected but I was wrong."

Though the 23-year old senior physical education major doesn't live with his teammates in dorm, often they will come to him with their problems. It then that Post really comprehends what a great honor being co-captain really is.

"Your teammates look to you for leadership," explains Post. "And this year, because of your youth, that leadership is really important."

During the spring Post reported to spring practice weighing an elephantine 245, much too heavy for his position. But, during the summer he dieted and worked painting houses, and when fall drills began, he reported in at a svelte 220.

All season Post has been a mainstay in the Pirates' "Wild Dogs" defense. He is near the top among the leaders in tackles and his play has been outstanding all season.

Obviously, Kansas State's loss was East Carolina's gain.

Getting Out Of Cellar Is A Job

It's nice to have company in your misery.

George Holland was nice enough to come down and join me in the cellar following last week's picks. Not that I don't appreciate it, but I'd just as soon leave him there after this week.

Jack Whichard, with an 11-1 week last time out, pushed into sole possession of first place on the picking panel with a 68-15 record. Sandra Spivey, who's held first place most of the year, fell off with a 9-3 week and tumbled to second with a 66-17 mark. Tom Baines, who went 10-2, held third with a 65-18 record. John Trotman lost ground with a 9-3 week to go to 62-21, while George was 7-5, and I was 10-2, making us 60-23 for the year.

This could be a week of surprises, and not too many were confident when they turned in their picks.

But first, a look at high school action.

North Pitt, winner of two straight, pays a visit to Ayden-Grifton, loser of two in a row. It could be a battle between the offense of North Pitt and the defense of Ayden-Grifton. Injuries could tell the tale, but I must go with Ayden-Grifton.

Williamston plays Plymouth seeking to pull within a game of wrapping up the conference title in the Albemarle. The Tigers are loose and there should be no holding them. Williamston gets the nod.

North Lenoir visits Greene Central, and the Rams must realize by now that only a miracle can save them. Not from North Lenoir, but for the conference championship, which Southern Nash has about wrapped up. Pity North Lenoir, they'll have to pay for it.

Farmville Central visits Conlev in another cross-county game. The Jaguars are seeking a break-even season, while the Vikings need a win-period. The Jags appear to have their team moving now, however, and that should decide things.

Mattamuskeet visits Robersonville as the Eagles start working on their second 20 victories in a row. They'd like to get 21 first, however, and chances are they will.

Rose High School closes out its home schedule against New Bern tonight. The Rampants will be having Homecoming, and New Bern would love to spoil it as well as prevent the Rampants from getting their seventh win of the year.

Our panel has voted, however, and finds in favor of the Rampants, 6-0.

East Carolina goes down to its sister city in South Carolina, seeking to spoil another Homecoming — Furman's. The Bucs come in off their first loss, while Furman isn't having too good a year. Normally, however, when these two meet, the records go out the window. It could be a real foot-stomper.

But again, by a 6-0 vote, the Pirates are the choice

Bucs Chasing Soccer Crown

East Carolina's soccer team will face conference foe William and Mary Saturday in a game that will decide the northern division championship in the Southern Conference.

As the Pirates prepare for the game they are faced with injuries which may prevent several key personnel from playing.

Prior to Wednesday's game with MacMurry College of Illinois, ECU Head Coach John Lovstedt listed goalie Rick Lindsay, fullback Bob Poser, lineman Tom O'Shea, and halfbacks Tom Tozer, Charles Costello and Bill Betts as doubtful performers. Lineman Jeff Kunkler, also injured, was expected to see limited action.

"We don't know what effect the injuries will have yet," said Lovstedt. "But we're counting on our replacements to fill in and do the job. In addition, we think that top performers Dav Schaler, Bob Gebhardt and Danny O'Shea may be able to take up some of the slack."

East Carolina goes into the William and Mary game with a 3-5 overall record and must win to preserve its chances for a "500" season.

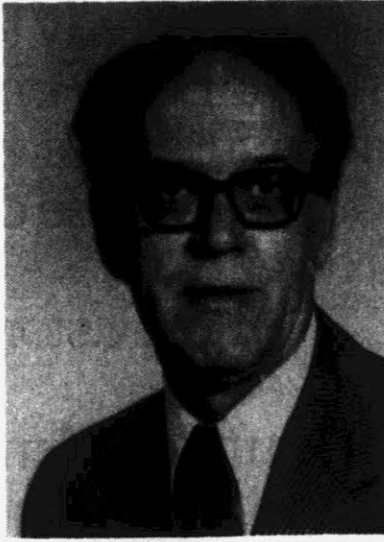

The Pirates have only two regular season games remaining after Saturday's clash, hosting St. Andrew's on November 3, and closing out the schedule November 7 at North Carolina Wesleyan.

Saturday's winner will face the southern division champions for the Southern Conference Championship on November 11.

Perry Chosen To All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's world championship belongs to Oakland but Chicago dominates the 1972 Associated Press All-Star team selected by writers and broadcasters across the country.

The champion A's failed to land any of the 10 first-team berths in the nationwide balloting but four players from Chicago—three from the National League Cubs and one from the American League White Sox—made the squad.

Slugging Dick Allen, the Sox' first baseman, headed the balloting with 407 votes, tops for any player this season. Allen, traded to the American League last winter, batted .308 with 37 home runs and 113 runs batted in.

The three Cubs chosen were outfielder Billy Williams, whose 37 homers matched Allen, third baseman Ron Santo and shortstop Don Kessinger.

Williams, who led National League batters with a .333 average and had 122 RBIs, polled 364 votes, second only to Allen's total.

Santo batted .302 with 17 homers for the Cubs, and Kessinger finished with a .274 average.

Joining Williams in the outfield were Houston's sensational young Cesar Cedeno and veteran Pittsburgh star Roberto Clemente. Cedeno batted .320 with 22 homers and 82 RBIs for the Astros, while Clemente, who reached the 3,000-hit plateau for his career, batted .312 for the Pirates.

Two Cincinnati players, catcher Johnny Bench and second baseman Joe Morgan, made the team. Bench bounced back from a poor season in 1971 and hit 40 homers while driving in 125 runs for the Reds. Morgan, acquired from Houston in a winter trade, scored 122 runs for the Reds, tops in the NL, and stole 58 bases while batting .292.

The two pitchers named were left-hander Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies and right-hander Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians. Both had remarkable seasons with losing teams.

Carlton led the majors with 27 victories and had a 1.97 earned run average, pitching for the last-place Phillies. Perry was 24-16 with a 1.92 ERA for fifth-place Cleveland.

East Carolina Girls In Field Hockey Meet

GREENSBORO — The Deep South Field Hockey Association, a division of the U.S. Field Hockey Association, will hold its annual tournament on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro for the first time, Nov. 2-4.

Approximately 200 women field hockey players representing 13 colleges and universities in four states will compete for berths on two 11-member teams which will be selected to go to the Southeast Tournament in Richmond during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Participating in the tournament in addition to UNC-G are Appalachian State University, Coker College, Catawba College, Converse College, Furman University, Winthrop College, Wake Forest University, High Point College, University of Tennessee, UNC-Chapel Hill, East Carolina University, and Judson College (Alabama).

"Spectating is free," according to Miss Elsa Heimerer, tournament director and instructor in the UNC-G School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"The matches are open to the public without admission charge. Since several high schools in the area are beginning field hockey programs, we hope to have as many of their players and coaches as possible observe," she added.

Matches will be played on the fields behind Rosenthal and Coleman Gyms at UNC-G from 9 a.m. till noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 3, and from 8:15 a.m. till noon on Saturday, Nov. 4. At 2:45 p.m., the two teams selected for participation in the Southeast Tournament will meet each other in a match.

Final Rites Today For Jackie Robinson

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie

Paladins . . .

He's hit on 23 of 46 passes for 233 yards and three touchdowns. The other main quarterback is Mike Shelton, a junior, who's hit 48 of 91 for 516 yards and two scores.

Another change in the backfield will find sophomore Sam Christner starting at fullback instead of Johnson. Quarterback Wolfrom will miss the game because of an injury, as will tight end Ted Cain.

The defense of the Paladins is a good one, too. Randle feels, "They have a senior squad with good experience. They've been good against the pass."

The defense is anchored by tackle Don Haynie and halfback Vince Perone, who has picked off six interceptions so far this year.

The East Carolina offense is led by quarterback Carl Summerell, who's picked up 858 yards so far, 601 of them through the air, hitting on 40 of 92 passes, good for eight touchdowns.

The ground game is led by Carlester Crumpler, with 599, while Less Strayhorn has 367 and Summerell had 257.

Tim Dameron leads the receivers, with five touchdown passes. He needs one more to break the season record of five, shared by him, and the career record of 11.

Kicker Ricky McLester is drawing near a Southern Conference record, after breaking all the field goal marks of East Carolina. McLester has eight field goals so far, and the league mark is 10.

Perhaps the biggest danger for the Pirates is looking past Furman, and Randle warns that it better not happen or the Bucs will quickly be down two. "We just can't afford to be looking ahead after the way State kicked the hell out of us," he said. "We've got to play better than we have in the last game and a half."

A victory for the Bucs would insure their staying in first place for at least two more weeks. They are now 4-0 in the league, ahead of William & Mary, 3-0. "A victory would lift the Bucs to 5-0 with only one game, a November 11th meeting in Williamsburg with William & Mary to settle it all.

But the pesky Paladins are lying in wait, and tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 will tell the tale.

Robinson, a man remembered as much for his courage as his baseball ability, will be buried today before a large gathering of admirers.

Robinson, a black man who broke baseball's color line 25 years ago and played an important part on the old Brooklyn Dodger championship team, died Tuesday of a heart attack at the age of 53.

The funeral cortege is scheduled to proceed through the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, not far from the site of Ebbets Field, where Robinson attracted an army of fans.

He will be laid to rest at Cypress Hills cemetery following services at Riverside Memorial Church.

Robinson's body was placed on public view for eight hours Thursday before a long, unbroken line of mourners, mostly elderly persons.

"He was the first black man to break the color line in major league baseball," said an elderly woman, "and we should be very proud of him."

There were no flowers on the gray-blue metal coffin and none of the mourners was allowed to touch the bier. A middle-aged man tried to put a red carnation on the coffin, but was dissuaded by an attendant.

Today, Robinson will be laid to rest before dozens of former teammates, old friends and public officials including Sargeant Shriver, the Democratic Party candidate for Vice President in the November election.

Many of Robinson's teammates on those fine Dodger teams will be pallbearers and honorary pallbearers.

Cubs Rally By Tarboro, 32-28

TARBORO — Unbeaten Tarboro jumped off to a 20-0 lead in the first period, then watched while the Rose High School junior varsity came roaring back to take a 32-28 victory yesterday.

The resulting loss was the first in eight games for the Baby Vikings, who had given up only 12 points prior to the game. Rose is now 4-2-1 on the season.

Tarboro took the lead with three touchdowns in the first period of play. Ken Joyner scored the first two, going in from five yards out and 23 out on the second. Joe Jones then intercepted a pass and carried it back 33 yards for the third score. The two-point conversion after the third made it 20-0.

Rose came back to score its first touchdown in the second period as Lindberg Morris went over from three yards out.

Tarboro finished up their scoring in the first half with another touchdown by Joyner, a 16-yard run. He also collected the two-point conversion, putting the Vikings into a 28-6 lead before halftime.

But that was to be the limit of their scoring, while the Rampant Cubs came roaring back.

One more touchdown came before the half was over. Morris got the score, this time on an 11-yard pass from Mike Ball. That cut it to 28-12 at intermission.

In the third period, Rose scored again. Tyrone Taft did the honors from a yard away, then ran the conversion cutting it to 28-20.

Then, in the last period, Rose got two more to push ahead and win it. Ball passed to Ronald Randolph for one, going 16 yards, while Taft pushed over from the two to get the clincher.

Rose also had another fourth period score called back because of a penalty. Rose rolled up 321 yards in offense, 98 in the air, and 223 on the ground. Morris led the ground attack with 142 yards in 27 carries. Tarboro was held to just 146 yards, mostly in the first half.

Fire Chief Advises Halloween Caution

Greenville Fire Chief Ray Smith today urged parents of local youngsters planning to use Halloween costumes and decorations to use caution and observe a few safety rules in order to prevent fires.

According to the fire official, parents should be sure ready-made costumes masks, wigs and beards carry a flameproof label. "Clothing — even sturdy dungarees — can burn," Chief Smith explained, "so be sure children understand that they must stay away from any open fire or cigarette lighters."

For homemade costumes, the chief explained, "stay away from flimsy materials and outfits with yards and yards of material in baggy sleeves and skirts." He emphasized that a touch of flame can start them burning.

"Children should never carry a pumpkin lighted by a wax candle," the chief said. And he added, "Don't set a candle-lighted pumpkin on a doorstep where it could be brushed by children's costumes or use indoors where it could set fire to curtains or other decorations."

He suggested that small flashlights be used to light pumpkins for children or in other places where the danger of fire is present.

Chief Smith also suggested that smaller children should be supervised by responsible older persons at all times during their trick-or-treat rounds.

Halloween Party Planned Tuesday

A Halloween Party will be held at Eastern Elementary School Tuesday afternoon.

The afternoon's activities include a haunted house, a carnival of music, a ghost house, bobbing for apples, bean bag throwing, and dishing for treats.

The party begins at 1 p.m. and will continue until 3 p.m. It was erroneously printed in Wednesday's edition of The Daily Reflector that the party would be held at Elmhurst Elementary School.

Galifianakis On Busing "Undecided"

1. Mr. Galifianakis did not sign the anti-busing petition.

Sixty other Congressmen did. They sent a strong anti-busing petition to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Mr. Galifianakis, who says he is against busing, refused to sign the petition.¹

Lots of politicians say they are against busing.

Actions speak louder than words.

Mr. Galifianakis failed to act.

2. Mr. Galifianakis is SOMETIMES against busing.

In another election year, Mr. Galifianakis introduced a supposedly "anti"-busing bill.²

It was a weak bill. So weak, say leading attorneys who have studied it, that it would have played right into the hands of pro-busing federal judges.

After the election, Mr. Galifianakis forgot about the bill. It died in committee.

This year an anti-busing bill came to the House floor for a vote.

A political reporter who was there wrote:

"Nick Galifianakis, whose voting record became more conservative when he announced for the Senate, seemed undecided on that vote. He picked up several red and green ballots and shuffled them nervously, pacing back and forth in front of the two aisles. After conferring with a dozen or more members and reading the amendment, he finally marched slowly up the left aisle with his green ballot."³

3. Jesse Helms is against forced busing.

He has always opposed forced busing—from the very beginning. He has never been namby-pamby about it. He will fight to stop forced busing—by constitutional amendment, if that's what it takes.

His stand against busing is one reason so many pro-busing editors are against him. They know where Jesse Helms stands—against busing.

Period.

The bidding:
 East South West North
 1 ♠ 2 Pass 3
 Pass 4 Pass Pass
 Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♠

A delicate approach by South in today's hand enabled him to capitalize on a slightly favorable bit of distribution to develop a crucial trick. The four heart contract reached by North and South was an aggressive undertaking. South's overcall of two hearts after East opened the bidding with one spade was sound, but when his partner merely invited a game by raising to three hearts, South should have declined. He has balanced distribution with six potential losers outside of the trump suit, and it is not a reasonable expectation that partner can take care of three of them.

West opened the three of spades. East played the queen and continued with the king and ace—South ruffing the third round with the nine of hearts.

Inasmuch as one club loser is inevitable, declarer observed that he must bring in the diamond suit without casualty. Assuming that West has the king, where it is finessable, then East becomes marked with the king of clubs as part of his opening bid values in which case South will require four diamond tricks in order to obtain a parking place for one of his clubs.

To cover all possibilities, South proceeded carefully. A heart was led to the ten and a small one returned to the jack as both opponents followed suit. A trump was temporarily permitted to remain outstanding in case North's king of hearts was needed for a delayed entry.

The queen of diamonds was put thru next and covered by West's king and dummy's ace. A diamond was returned to the jack and when East played the nine, South's eight became established as a winner. In order to utilize North's ten of diamonds, the eight must be cashed first and the reason for retaining the king of hearts becomes apparent.

The eight of diamonds was put thru and the East was out of that suit, he was unable to ruff and discarded a spade. A heart to the king drew the last trump and put dummy in to cash the ten of diamonds on which South discarded a club. He conceded one club subsequently and claimed 10 tricks—five hearts, four diamonds, and one club.

Case closed?

SHREWSBURY, England (AP) — The Plough Inn began losing business when the city installed a historical sign saying "Plough Shut" on an alleyway leading to the tavern. "Shut" is an archaic word for alleyway.

The tavern was given permission to put up a "business as usual" sign at the alley entrance.

editor.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-529: Bob Early pioneered this "Worry Clinic" in the Indianapolis STAR several years ago.

For he is the versatile type of modern editor who realizes the vital need to improve society's batting average in "Human Relations."

As a superb Applied Psychologist, he also knows that redhot controversy zooms reader interest!

So, the STAR often prints letters from readers, pro and con, regarding this practical column, as well as its other stellar features.

Seven young women thus started their recent irate missive, as follows:

"We, the undersigned readers of the STAR, find 'Dr.' George Crane's column to be extremely insulting and degrading to women, and indeed, to all intelligent readers."

"The damage that it does with its gross inaccuracies and pseudo-scientific 'facts' is immeasurable."

"...we suggest that you print one written by a competent professional who is respected by others in his or her field."

A couple of days later, 8 men then signed a letter in staunch defense of this "Worry Clinic."

And leading housewives also entered the fray, some pro and others con.

So it made a fascinating debate. And gave readers an opportunity to indulge in splendid "audience participation" in the production of a great newspaper.

Sometimes critical letters are initiated by professors who prod their students into sending their teacher's propaganda to the editor.

Thus, the STAR a few years earlier had sent me a stack of letters from Bloomington, Indiana, apparently incited by some jealous psychologist at Indiana University.

Whippie and BORTH

But the students weren't resourceful enough to vary the punctuation and phraseology, so it was quite obvious that this barrage of mail was all initiated by the same source.

Other letters often come from indignant readers whose toes have been stepped on.

But this use of letters from readers is an excellent means of stimulating wider interest in a Newspaper.

Many critics, however, (like the 7 women who signed that first letter), violate various of the "10 Common Fallacies" mentioned below.

Thus, they often indulge in the "Hasty Generalization," as by accusing me of false statements, yet they fail to mention even one such specific error and don't cite any actual opposing facts.

Note, too, the claim by these 7 girls that my column is insulting "to all intelligent readers."

That's a classic instance of the "Hasty Generalization," for "all" means 100 percent.

Also, observe their use of quote marks around the "Dr.," plus their stress on "competent professional," which is Fallacy

Groups Combine Effort To Aid UNICEF Drive

Additional local efforts to raise funds in Greenville for UNICEF, the United Nations

Children Fund, will take place on Saturday, Sunday and Monday as fraternity and sorority members from East Carolina University, Boy and Cub Scouts and young people from the town's churches volunteer their time and effort to do their bit in helping less fortunate children throughout the world.

The East Carolina University students have been given permission by the Greenville Police Department to canvass for donations at four locations in Greenville on Saturday. These are at Pitt Plaza; at the intersection of First and Greene Streets; at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive; and at West End, the intersection of Memorial Drive and U.S. 264 business.

The annual drive this year is again being sponsored by Church Women United, of Greenville, with Mrs. Tracy McLaurin, chairman of the 1972 UNICEF program.

Mrs. McLaurin has revealed arrangements made for the young people in their three fold drive that will take place at different times and places during the weekend.

On Saturday, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and continuing until 3:00 p.m. the first phase of the drive will be handled by members of Delta Theta Chi Sorority and Alpha Phi Omega fraternity.

The second phase of the UNICEF effort will be made both by Scouts and young people from many of Greenville's churches, beginning early Sunday afternoon, members of Boy Scout Troop No. 124 and Brownie Troop No. 347, along with the children from the churches, will canvass homes throughout Greenville.

Mrs. McLaurin said the young people making the rounds of the residential areas would be identified as UNICEF canvassers.

A final effort is that to be made by Boy Scout Troop No. 330. On Monday night, scouts from this troop will canvass the Brook Valley area, outside Greenville's city limits, to receive contributions from residents there.

"I feel it is a fine program," Mrs. McLaurin remarked. "It gives our children a chance to do something for other children, and serves also to help children who have a very real need for help."

In an earlier smaller fund raising event, the UN Dessert Night held at the Greenville Art Center featuring foreign made desserts and music by ECU's Collegium Musicum, a total of $83.00 was reported by Mrs. Robert Lee Humber for the UNICEF fund. Mrs. Humber is chairman of United Nations observances in Greenville.

For a number of years, fund drives in conjunction with the Trick or Trick time of Halloween have been a principal source of funds for UNICEF. And 1972 marks the 25th anniversary of this international program to help needy children in many nations.

Church Sets Film Sunday

The film, "Martin Luther," a chronicle of the career of the founder of the Protestant Reformation, will be shown by the congregation of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church at the church building Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

A short coffee fellowship will follow the showing of the film. The membership invites any of the Greenville churches and citizens to view the picture.

"Martin Luther" was filmed in 1954 by Louis De Rochmont Associates at actual European locales where the action of the events took place over four centuries ago.

The Eve of All Saints, Oct. 31, is the date on which Luther posted his objections to certain abuses in the medieval church on the castle church door at Wittenbert, Germany, in 1517.

Luther, a monk and priest in the church, spent the next 29 years of his life in the task of reforming the church. This Oct. 31 date and the Sunday before it are celebrated by more than 70 million Lutherans over the world as the Festival of the Reformation.

VACUUM

Steve—
Your dinner
is in oven.
Mom

Steve doesn't mind. Only a little. He knows Dad has to travel. And some days Mom must work the swing shift.

Steve doesn't mind. Not very much. It's just that food doesn't make a dinner. It's like a vacuum when you're alone. And the evening—what's to do?

Such vacuums can affect adversely the developing personality of a child. They can also test a child's sense of security and self-reliance.

We claim no expertise in child psychology. Our concern, however, is that there be no Sunday morning vacuum. A Steve whose character is being molded by spiritual and moral training, a Steve whose home has the atmosphere of religious conviction and integrity... such a Steve is better equipped to meet the tests of loneliness and freedom.

In many families we cannot alter circumstances — but we can foster quality of character to cope with it. The Church is ready to help!

PEPSI

Those backyard scrimmages with that boy of yours can get a little rough—on you. But rough-and-tumble fun is a big part of living... a big part of growing up. Make Pepsi-Cola a part of the fun. Pepsi's got the big taste... the big energy... that gives a lift to young scabbacks and, just as important, to their dads.

You've got a lot to live. Pepsi's got a lot to give.
