

Holshouser Elected Next N.C. Governor

Helms Wins N.C. Senate Seat

RALEIGH (AP)—Self-styled conservative Jesse Helms, drawing heavily on President Nixon's popularity, easily won election Tuesday as North Carolina named a Republican to the U.S. Senate for the first time this century.

Helms captured or was leading in 67 of the state's counties as he piled up more than 100,000-vote margin over three-term Rep. Nick Galifianakis, a Durham Democrat.

With 91 per cent of the 2,263 precincts reported, Helms had 717,958 votes, or 55 per cent, to 609,985 for Galifianakis.

Helms' vote total was second only to that of President Nixon, who became the largest vote-getter in North Carolina's history.

In a victory statement Helms said it was "time to put aside rancor and think of the next generation. America's future will be secure only when America returns to the principles that made her great."

Helms, 51, had been widely known through his 12-year career as a Raleigh television commentator. A frequent critic of the Nixon administration as an editorialist, Helms the candidate eagerly sought the President's endorsement for his campaign.

The victory, Helms said, indicated that North Carolina "chose conservatism."

Galifianakis, 44, reached the election by ousting incumbent Democrat B. Everett Jordan in the second primary last June. Bitterness from the primary spread into the general election, with Helms using campaign allegations by Jordan to challenge Galifianakis' credibility.

Jordan and fellow Democrat Sen. Sam Ervin campaigned actively for Galifianakis, but Helms received the Republican party's top guns, including Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Helms won support throughout the state, but his strength in the east fell short of the goals set by his staff. He found major help, however, in the Piedmont and ran strong in the west.

Mecklenburg County's big electorate gave Helms an 8,000-vote majority, as did Davidson County. He also led in Alamance, 18,008 to 11,708, while winning Wake, his home county, 41,993 to 36,131.

Galifianakis led in Forsyth, with one precinct unreported, by 1,500 votes, in Guilford 43,988 to 39,015 and in Durham 23,381 to 18,847.

Pitt County Backs Nixon And Helms

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

For the first time this century—as far as anyone can remember—staunchly Democratic Pitt County yesterday gave a resounding victory to a Republican presidential candidate, mirroring a nation-wide trend that gave President Richard Nixon four more years in the White House by a landslide.

Pitt County voters also helped give Republican senatorial candidate Jesse Helms victory over his Democratic opponent Nick Galifianakis, although Republican gubernatorial hopeful Jim Holshouser—who won state-wide over Democrat Skipper Bowles to become the first Republican governor-elect this century—fell some 2,600 votes behind in the county.

According to unofficial returns tabulated by The Daily Reflector, Republican Nixon took 14,399 Pitt votes as compared with Democrat George McGovern's 5,858, in the presidential race. American party candidate John G. Schmitz ran a poor third, taking only 195 votes.

In the race for Governor, Pitt voters cast 11,333 votes for Bowles while giving the state winner Holshouser 8,673 votes—a respectable number for a heavily Democratic county that has only 4,391 voters registered as Republican as compared with 28,310 registered Democrats.

American party hopeful Arlis F. Pettyjohn in the race for governor took only 69 ballots.

In the race for U.S. Senator, Pitt voters gave a 502 vote margin to Raleigh radio and TV personality Helms. The Republican polled 10,005 Pitt ballots as compared with 9,503 votes cast for Galifianakis, the Democrat.

A breakdown of the voting by precincts shows that Nixon led in all but two precincts—Greenville 3 and 4 (Third Street School and West End Fire Station)—while Helms led in 15 of the county's 26 precincts, with Galifianakis taking the lead in nine. The two senatorial hopefuls tied in two other precincts—in Chicod 3 with a vote of 72-72 and Grimesland 2 with 267 each.

State-wide loser Bowles took 19 of the Pitt voting places to edge out Governor-elect Holshouser who took the other six precincts in the county, by 2,660 votes.

Greenville attorney Robert Browning, manager of Holshouser's campaign in the county said this morning "we were surprised at the very good reception the voters in Pitt gave to Holshouser's candidacy. We feel we were well received in Pitt County."

Browning, as did Helms' co-managers in Pitt, attorneys Nelson Crisp and Dallas McPherson expressed their appreciation for the support given their candidates.

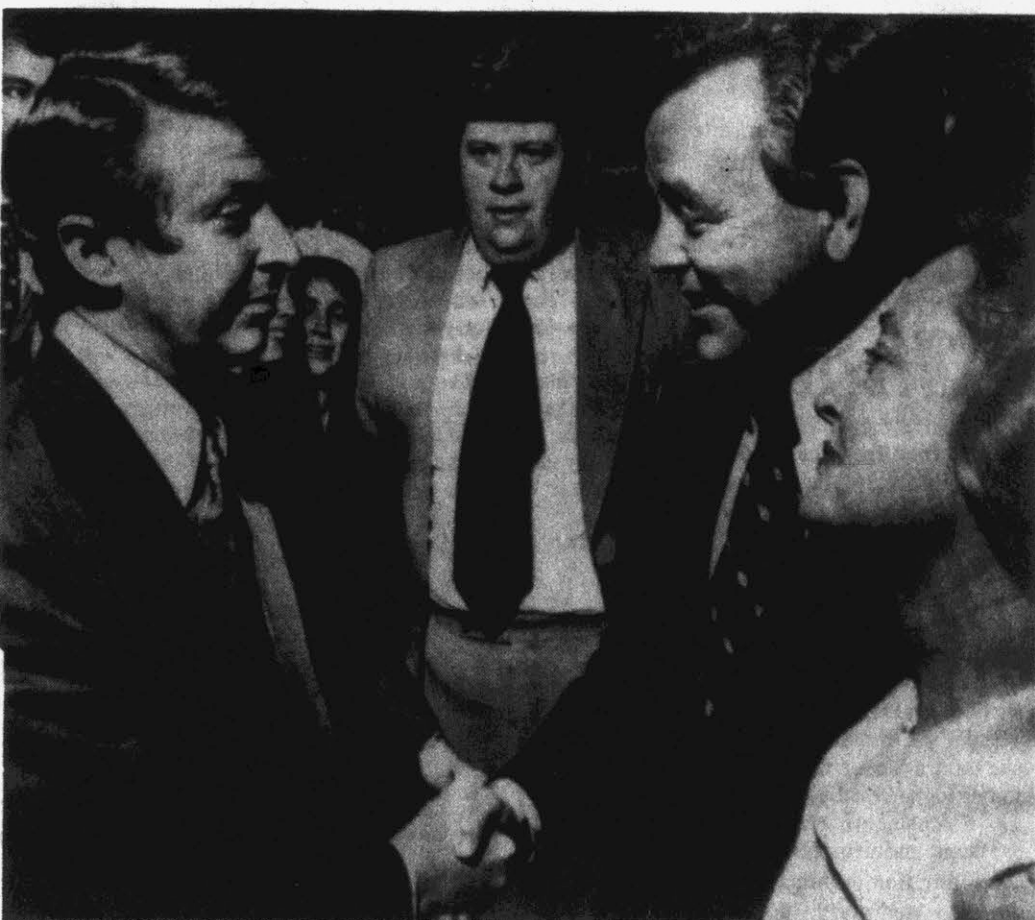

McPherson said "I'd like to thank all the people," that worked during the campaign; and termed Helms' win "a tremendous victory for Helms personally and for the Republican party in North Carolina."

Mrs. Crisp said "for me, I'm about as happy as I have ever been over any political election," adding of course I want to thank everybody. They worked hard and we had the cooperation of the Nixon reelection committee, along with the Holshouser group.

"That joint effort caused us to win," she noted.

In other races—which in fact proved to be not close at all—Pitt residents gave incumbent First District

Nixon Triumph

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

President Nixon has soared to his greatest personal triumph, but his landslide reelection confronts him with at least two more years of divided government as Democrats kept firmly in command of Congress.

Nixon swept the nation from coast to coast Tuesday in one of history's most massive victories. He captured 49 of the 50 states and approached the highest popular-vote percentage of any American president.

The President's 521-17 electoral-vote majority over Democratic challenger George McGovern rivaled Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1936 victory of 523 to 8. McGovern won only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in his party's worst presidential showing.

And Nixon's 61 per cent of the vote was close to the previous record, the 61.1 per cent attained by Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson eight years ago.

But Democrats, ousting four veteran Republican senators, actually gained two seats for a probable 57-43 margin in the new Congress. They lost only a handful of House seats and gained a net of one governorship when Daniel Walker finally edged GOP incumbent Richard Ogilvie in Illinois.

"This is a personal triumph

Unbroken Slate Of Demos Win Council Of State

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The same voters who gave Republican Jim Holshouser North Carolina's governorship, elected an unbroken slate of Democrats to nine Council of State positions.

Jim Hunt, a 35-year-old Wilson attorney, led the Democratic sweep for council of state positions with an impressive win over John A. "Johnny" Walker, wealthy Republican building supply dealer, and American Party candidate Benjamin McLendon.

Returns from 1,679 of the state's 2,263 precincts gave 556,100 or 56 per cent to Hunt to 435,232 for Walker and 6,648 for McLendon.

Hunt's victory put him in the forefront of those considered as likely contenders in future elections.

Carried to reelection in the Democratic sweep of the Council of State positions, were Secretary of State Thad Eure, Treasurer Edwin Gill, Auditor Henry Bridges, Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, Commissioner of agriculture Jim Graham and Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips.

Also swept to victory were Democrats John Ingram and W. C. "Billy" Creel in the RALEIGH (AP)—Jim Holshouser, a boyish looking, 38-year-old lawyer and state legislator, has become the first Republican governor of North Carolina in 70 years.

Holshouser scored a narrow, upset victory over Democrat Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles in Tuesday's election, completing a Republican sweep led by President Nixon and U.S. Senate candidate Jesse Helms.

With 92 per cent of the state's 2,263 precincts counted, Holshouser had 705,307 votes, or 52 per cent of the total. Bowles' 657,030 votes represented 48 per cent, and American party candidate Arlis Pettyjohn collected less than 1 per cent with 8,217 votes. President Nixon led the GOP ticket with 70 per cent of the vote.

It was not until 2:50 a.m. that Holshouser could walk into the Hilton Inn and with a wide grin, tell his followers that, "My Dad has been waiting a long time for a Republican governor in this state. I'm glad I could help him see it happen."

Bowles, who spent $1.3 million in his losing effort, conceded defeat about five minutes later. He smiled and told his supporters to, "Wake up in the morning and say 'Jim Holshou-ser's going to be a great governor because we're going to help him."

The lead in their race had see-sawed back and forth Tuesday night as returns slowly trickled in. In the end, Holshouser's strength in both rural and urban areas of the populous Piedmont was enough to overcome the advantage Bowles maintained in the rural and traditionally Democratic east.

Holshouser had a margin of 6,000 votes in Wake County (Raleigh); 14,000 in Mecklenburg (Charlotte); 9,000 in Forsyth (Winston-Salem); and 2,000 in both New Hanover (Wilmington) and Buncombe (Asheville).

He expanded on normal Republican pluralities in rural Piedmont and mountain counties, carrying Cabarrus by 5,000 votes and Avery by better than 3 to 1.

In areas where Bowles was expected to be strong, Holshouser held his losses to a minimum. He lost Guilford County, Bowles' home, by only 1,000 votes and Durham by 4,000. The only counties in which Bowles scored heavy victories were sparsely populated eastern areas which could not overcome Holshouser's strength in the Piedmont.

Improvements Committee Is Appointed

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — A committee to plan for the improvement of the looks and the parking situation in downtown Farmville was appointed last night by Mayor W.E. Joyner during a meeting of the Town Commissioners.

The committee is composed of T. Eli Joyner Jr., chairman; Jack McDavid, Cedric Davis, J.I. Morgan Jr., Horace Allen, Jack Lewis, and Louis Williams.

Public hearing were held and the following streets were approved for paving, curbing and guttering: Horton Street from Main to Williams Street; Barrett Street from Pine to George Street; Hines Street from Main to George Street; and Davis Street eastwardly to Crestwood.

Public hearings were set on the conditional use in an R-20 zone for apartments requested by Gid Holloman and for the addition of a food store next to the Pitt County Transportation Company in the M-1 (light industry) zone on South Main Street, as requested by Jim Lancaster.

The Board approved allowing A.C. Monk's new plant just outside the city limits to be put on the city fire alarm system.

The company will be given the number 49 and will pay for the installment of the alarm lines from the city limits into the plant, the Board indicated. The Company wanted to be a part of the town system, so its administrators, as well as firemen, would be alerted in event of fire. Phoned-in alarms are all given the number 71, not indicating where the fire is.

Police Chief Carl Tanner and Town Administrator Andy Martin were confirmed as representatives to the Mideast Law and Order Commission. Martin was also approved as representative to deal with the Economic Development Commission and as a representative to apply for funds under the Clean Water Bond Act. Mrs. Margie Tripp was appointed his deputy in EDA dealings.

It was agreed to advertise for sale a caterpillar tractor no longer used by the town.

The Board reiterated that individual homeowners are responsible for reworking their driveways, though they did leave it to the discretion of the Town Administrator to make amends if he feels that the town is responsible in any particular

Amendments Overwhelmingly Approved By Tar Heel Voters

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina voters have overwhelmingly approved five amendments to their state constitution.

Included in the sweep was an amendment which would raise from 18 to 21 the minimum age that a person can hold public office in the state.

In approving this amendment, the voters disregarded the pleading of the two major candidates for governor, Jim Holshouser and Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, as well as student leaders throughout the state.

The same amendment also would lower the voting age to 18. However, this will have no effect since an amendment to the U.S. Constitution had already lowered the voting age.

Two of the amendments were adopted over the strong objections of U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin and Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt of the state Supreme Court.

But the two amendments, prepared by the North Carolina Courts Commission, were passed overwhelmingly by the General Assembly.

One of the amendments would empower the General Assembly to set a retirement age for judges and would activate legislation passed by the 1971 General Assembly to set the retirement age for appellate court judges at 72 and for trial court judges at 70.

Another amendment would activate a 1971 act creating a judicial Standards Commission with power to censure or remove judges.

Ervin and Bobbitt objected that the two amendments would undermine the independence of the judiciary.

Bobbitt said the provisions "go far beyond the bounds of necessity and prudence" and "would do more harm than good."

There was virtually no opposition to an amendment that would declare environmental protection "a proper function of the state of North Carolina."

A fifth amendment would restrict the incorporation of new municipalities within certain distances of existing municipalities. The North Carolina League of Municipalities strongly favored the amendment which was aimed at insuring the orderly development of urban areas around cities.

HER HIGHNESS . . . Miss Donya Heath of Greenville reigned as Homecoming Queen of the N.C. School for the Deaf at Morganton this year.

Homecoming Queen Was Team's Unanimous Choice

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Heath of Greenville despaired when they learned that their daughter, Donya, had a kind of nerve deafness that could not be helped. But neither they nor Donya have allowed this handicap to keep her from becoming the lovely young lady she is.

This fall Donya was crowned Homecoming Queen at the North Carolina School for the Deaf at Morganton. She was the unanimous choice of the School's football team.

Donya Nadine Heath was born in 1952 in Snow Hill, one of the Heath's three children. She is not totally deaf, but it became apparent when she was a very young child that her hearing was seriously impaired. Trips to hearing specialists in numerous places left her parents with the same answer — "You would be wasting your money on any kind of treatment. Nerve deafness can't be changed."

Donya was entered in a private school and then in public school, but her parents soon learned that she would not be able to get the kind of special help she needed. So her parents made the tough decision to send her far from home to Morganton where she could be best trained with her handicap always taken into account. She was enrolled in 1962.

She was a Junior Girl Scout and later a Senior Girl Scout. In her high school years, she was a sophomore class vice president and princess of the class for Homecoming and she was secretary of her junior class. She belongs to the Junior National Association for the Deaf, was sergeant-at-arms of that organization last year and this year is advisor of the Pee-wee N.A.D. She received awards for "Most Improved Student" two years ago and the "Citizenship Award" last year.

She was a member of the Pep Squad her freshman year, a cheerleader her sophomore year, and head cheerleader last year and again this year. She played forward on the basketball team for three years and was a member of the Monogram Club three years.

She is a Science Club member and was secretary last year, and is in the Anchor Club, which she serves as president, having been treasurer last year. She is associate editor of The High School News, a publication written and printed by high school students. She belongs to The Upper Group, an organization whose members are chosen for their "good judgment, maturity, and fine character traits."

Donya now wears the latest in hearing aids, tiny unnoticeable devices that improve her hearing to 45 per cent in one ear and 50 per cent in the other, her mother says. Her speech is remarkably clear, so anyone can understand it well.

She has already completed her high school subjects, but will not graduate until June, 1973. She plans to attend Galludet College in Washington, D.C.

Wife Upset At Hubby Smoking On The Sly

By Abigail Van Buren
(c) 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I need help desperately. Please don't tell me that I am stupid to be worrying about something like this with so much real unhappiness in the world today, but here is my problem.

My husband and I have been happily married for 24 years. I am 45 and he is 46. We have three children. About a year ago I caught my husband smoking a cigaret after he had promised me he'd quit three years ago. Well, I bumped into him accidentally downtown and he had a cigaret in his mouth! I was sick with disappointment.

He promised me on bended knee that he would never smoke another cigaret as long as he lived, but when he'd come home, sometimes I smelled smoke on his clothes and in his hair. He said he'd been around smokers, and I believed him.

Well, I caught him smoking again in the basement and then I really went to pieces. I am especially heartsick because his father, who was a chain smoker, died of throat cancer at the age of 53. I love him, Abby, but I feel like leaving him. He has disappointed me so terribly, I've lost all respect for him. And here I was bragging to all our friends that he had quit when his brothers didn't have the guts to. What a fool I've made of myself. Can you help me?

HUMILIATED AND MISERABLE

DEAR HUMILIATED: Let's put first things first. Are you miserable because you were humiliated, or because you are concerned about your husband's health? I know you love him, but your husband's smoking has turned into a power struggle between you two. Quit nagging him and making him feel like a little boy who has to sneak a smoke behind the barn. He knows the hazards involved, but the poor man is hooked. He needs your love and understanding—not threats and punishment. You can't MAKE him quit. But he can quit if he really wants to.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a young man, and we plan to marry soon. I have a 2-year-old child, but I have never been married.

My fiance of course knows all about it, as the child lives with me. The problem is how to tell his parents. He says they are from the old country and may not understand.

I have never met them as they live in another state, but they have been asking their son to bring me to meet them. How do we go about breaking the news?

CHICAGO PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: When you go to meet them, take your child along. His parents will probably assume you are widowed or divorced. If (and when) they inquire about the child's father, tell them the truth. They'll survive.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in asking if it was okay to ask a stranger if he was wearing a toupee—and where he bought it. You advised him against it, saying if it looked like a toupee it was no compliment.

Listen to this: a woman I had never laid eyes on before came up to me while I was waiting for a bus, and said, "Excuse me, but if you are wearing a brassiere, would you mind telling me what make it is?"

I was, and I told her. But I've never been so shocked in all my life.

The annual Reel family reunion will be held Sunday, Nov. 12, at the Timothy Community Building, Gardnersville. All relatives are invited to attend and take a picnic basket.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lewis Jr. and son, Steve, have gone to Augusta, Ky., for the funeral of Mrs. Lewis's father, E. B. Winter.

Christmas Story Gets New Warmth In Book

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Marjorie Holmes doesn't claim to have created a new plot for her latest novel. The story is, in fact, nearly two thousand years old.

"My objective was to take the principals of the Christmas story off the holiday cards that have made them into stereotypes and turn them into human beings with whom today's people can relate," explains the author of "Two From Galilee."

"It's the greatest love story of all time—the love of two young people under those trying circumstances," she says of her tale of Mary and Joseph facing scandal, family conflict and an awesome responsibility as a result of Mary's pregnancy. Admitting that such a book might have been considered sacrilegious up until a few years ago, she adds, "Now the world is ready for it."

The petite Miss Holmes, whose numerous previous works include the best-seller, "I've Got To Talk To Somebody, God," got the inspiration for "Two From Galilee" appropriately enough on a Christmas Eve.

"I had gone to church with my teen-age daughter," she recalls, "and the fragrance of the hay in the manger suddenly gave me a great sense of the reality of the event. It hit me that it really happened, and Mary was a girl not any older than my daughter sitting beside me that night.

"My whole being as a woman responded to the idea," she continues. "Birth is a miracle, whether a child is born in a delivery room, a ghetto or a stable."

Miss Holmes began to study the history of the Jewish people and to absorb the political and social flavor of the times. She made a trip to Israel, "confirming and enlarging on my own understanding."

"I could smell the odors and hear the sounds and see the sights that people saw then," she says with a note of awe. "It was a moving experience to be in Galilee because I had been so immersed in it. I felt quite at home."

Once the research was completed the writing came easily, says Miss Holmes, who writes five days a week from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 or 6 p.m. whether she's "inspired" or not.

"Once I got at the typewriter I get inspired," declares the bubbling blue-eyed blond. "I may start with no joy for my day's work but after several hours I'm so excited I can't stop."

The author, recipient of the 1972 Woman of Achievement award from the National Federation of Press Women, teaches writing classes at universities and workshops. She admits that writing takes talent but insists that possessors of such talent should respect it enough to practice every day.

"And there are great flashes of inspiration," she adds, "marvelous moments when you should leave the dinner party, leave the dishes, get up if it's the middle of the night—and write."

Miss Holmes has been practicing what she preaches since her first book was published 30 years ago and has two more volumes scheduled for publication in 1973. She not only writes a weekly newspaper column and a monthly magazine column, but travels extensively for lectures and radio and television shows.

In addition she loves dancing and walking and, as a native of Storm Lake, Iowa, where she was born "practically on the lake," she often swims three times a day. It's a gruelling schedule that belies her fragile appearance.

Taking Care Of Those Teeth Is Serious Business

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — So you've been reading about "preventive dentistry." You hear that if the mouth is properly cleaned, dental problems will be minimized, maybe even be gone forever. It has finally gotten to you that if you know what to do, you may never wear false teeth; maybe you will never even have another cavity. Now how do you go about making preventive care a part of your life?

Many dentists today agree that the primary cause of inflammatory gum disease and tooth decay is the almost invisible gummy mass of microorganisms called dental plaque. If plaque is thoroughly removed every 24 hours, it does not have a chance to ferment and start trouble. If, for example, inflammation has begun, it can be completely arrested in less than a month on a preventive program, so long as it has not progressed to form infected pockets between gums and teeth.

The prevention program begins when dental plaque is revealed to the patient.

One way to show it is with a high-intensity hand lamp with an optically-designed filter lens. This light illuminates invisible dental plaque when it is covered with a pleasant-tasting solution.

When the plaque is revealed, the attack is planned. Weapons are a soft nylon tooth brush with three or four rows of bristles rounded at the tips, and a supply of dental floss.

Before embarking on a home care program however, all plaque and tartar, the hardened substance that develops from old plaque, should be removed thoroughly by a dentist or a dental hygienist. A professional cleaning on a regular basis is advisable because it catches

BRIGHT SMILE — Invisible microorganisms cause all the trouble teeth have with dental plaque. A plaque disclosing kit, combining high intensity lamp with optically filtered lens and mouthwash solution highlights those bacteria. Flossing, center, is essential to proper preventive dentistry. Then a soft-textured, multi-tufted brush dislodges plaque but won't harm gums. It should be used to reach gently but firmly into plaque concentrated areas where teeth meet gums.

any tartar that might collect in the most difficult-to-reach parts of the mouth, and checks any possibility of unrecognized infection.

Brushing removes plaque film from the outer and inner surfaces of the teeth and the biting surfaces. You should brush gently, with enough pressure to feel the bristles on the gum, but not so much that you feel discomfort.

For outside surfaces of teeth and inside surfaces of back teeth, position the brush with bristles at the junction between teeth and gums. Move the brush back and forth with short strokes several times.

For the inside surfaces of the upper and lower front teeth, hold the brush vertically making gentle back and forth strokes over the gum tissue and teeth. The brush can effectively reach only one or two teeth at one placement, so it is advisable to change the position of the brush often to reach all tooth surfaces.

After brushing, rinse vigorously to remove all loosened plaque.

The next step is flossing. Starting with a piece about 30 inches in length, wrap the floss around the middle finger of each hand at about the level of the first joint.

A small working arc, with the thumb and forefinger as guides, puts you in position for flossing the upper teeth. For the lower teeth the forefinger of each hand is used to guide the floss. The fingers controlling the floss should not be more than one-half inch apart. The floss should not be forced between the teeth, but inserted gently by sawing back and forth at the point where teeth contact each other. Slide the floss gently into place, down to the gum tissue, but not into the gum to cause discomfort or bleeding. Using both fingers, the floss should be moved up and down the side of each tooth until the surfaces are squeaking clean.

Reports Given At Service League Meeting Monday

Various reports highlighted the meeting of the Service League of Greenville held Monday morning at the Elm Street Recreation Center.

Mrs. Charles Stevens, president, heard the following committee chairmen.

Mrs. Herbert Carter, Bloodmobile, announced that the Bloodmobile visit to the ECU campus last week was successful. Sixty-one members worked 18½ hours and 380 pints of blood were collected. The next visit will be held on Thursday, Dec. 14 at the Du Pont Plant Kinston.

Projects, Mrs. William H. Watson, reminded members who are helping with the United Fund Drive to complete their cards. Mrs. J. C. Lanier, chairman for Mental Health, requested members to bring unwrapped gifts for patients at Cherry Hospital to the December meeting.

Mrs. Reid Hooper, Layettes, thanked sustaining members for their assistance in sewing layettes last month. She reported three calls answered for layettes. Mrs. W. S. Bost, sustaining, reported that the sustaining members held a sewing bee and assisted with the completion of layettes.

Hospital Activities, Mrs.

Gerald Crane, reported 180 Halloween tray favors were made for Pitt Hospital patients and an arrangement was made for the Pediatric Ward. She asked for volunteers to help with Thanksgiving favors.

Mrs. Ford McGowan, Emergency Charity, reported four calls for assistance and asked those interested in donating Christmas baskets for the needy to contact her. Laughinghouse Hospital Fund, Mrs. Frank Longino, advised members that one call was answered and one gift to the fund had been received.

Mrs. Ercell Webb, Coffee Shop, told of the Thanksgiving holiday schedule at the Coffee Shop and Mrs. Richard Capwell, Lending Chest, reported a call for a wheelchair and one bedrest and two wheelchairs were returned.

It was announced by Mrs. F. F. Hendrix, Civil Defense, that a course in First Aid or home nursing will be given if enough members are interested.

In closing, Mrs. Stevens announced that she had received a call from Aycock Junior High School for volunteers to assist students who are insufficient in reading. Several members volunteered their help.

A Different World Tomorrow?

Joseph C. Harsch of "The Christian Science Monitor" theorizes that the Vietnam war is the last of its particular kind which the world is likely to experience for quite a while.

"It is an ideological war deriving from a period of history in which ideology influenced the thinking of statesmen and the attitudes of peoples," he wrote in the influential newspaper. "It has its historical parallels in the wars between Christians and Muslims at the end of the first millenium and between Protestants and Roman Catholics in the 16th and 17 centuries.

"It was a war which began on the assumption that the issue was Communists against anti-Communists. It is ending in a world in which Communists and non-Communists are groping toward ways and means of doing business with each other. Germany and Korea are the most prominent examples."

Well, it does appear that the long and agonizing Vietnam war is nearing its conclusion. We have little doubt that a cease fire will be signed and that both sides will observe it simply because neither will want to risk resuming the exhausting and fruitless fighting.

We think, too, with trade resuming between Communist and non-Communist nations, that we are going to live in a different world than that which preceded the Vietnam war. When nations depend on each other for essential goods, they are less likely to begin blowing each other up.

That will leave it to the historians to determine the results of the American involvement in Vietnam.

It may be seen as years of senseless bloodshed which finally impressed on Mankind the futility of war; or it could be seen as a strong and final stand by the free world against Communism which finally made the revolutionary leaders realize that it was better to co-exist than to fight the other half of the world.

Right now the bloodshed and suffering are too close for we contemporaries to make a judgment; and anyway the historical judgment will be made in the light of events yet to occur.

The important thing for both sides right now is to hammer out the final agreements needed to bring about the cease-fire.

Curriculum Is Wide-Ranging

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Greek civilization and auto mechanics are subjects with equal claim to a place in the school curriculum.

Education for democratic citizenship must be comprehensive, said Dallas Herring, scholar-citizen and craftsman.

Train the man to operate the machine, he advised, but never forget he is a man with a share in mankind's heritage of learning and culture.

"I see no conflict whatsoever between career education and liberal arts," he said. "They complement each other in the total development of useful skills."

He used a much used quote from Charles Brantly Aycock. Every child has a right through the public schools, affirmed Herring, to "burgeon out all that is within him."

The ideal of universal and comprehensive education expressed by Aycock, North Carolina's turn-of-the-century "Education Governor," is best achieved by the unique American approach of lay boards responsible for school policies and budgets, Herring added.

He is chief lay spokesman for Tar Heel schools. A 45-year-old bachelor and businessman from Rose Hill in Duplin County, Herring is chairman of the state board of education.

Professional Role Dominant Complexities of administering an expanding system have enlarged the role of professionals in recent years, he granted. "The very burden of detail is so extensive that frequently there is no choice but to approve what professional leaders have proposed," he explained.

For example, at a recent monthly meeting the state board members received a bulky document on teacher training policies. "We had to take it on faith, for reasons satisfactory to the professionals, when we should have had more time to digest it," Herring observed.

"I hope my criticism is constructive and not negative," he added.

The lay board and the professional staff each has its area, though sometimes overlapping. "The line between can't always be clearly defined. Some things we have to do together," Herring conceded.

In any case, lay involvement is dynamic and not static. "If it were nothing more than a rubber stamp, they wouldn't need me," said Herring.

He takes seriously citizen responsibility. He was mayor of Rose Hill at 23, served five years on the Duplin County board of education, and was appointed to the state board 15 years ago.

Perfect Attendance Record He hasn't missed a meeting in the more than two decades covered by the three public positions.

From local community to state level, citizens today are inclined to feel left out and frustrated for in-part to the operation of their schools.

The fact remains, Herring insisted, that the schools belong to the people. "The professionals are the hired help. Administrators and teachers have a distinctive role, but all citizens must be involved in the decisions on policy and direction," he said.

They will come in and speak out when the door is open, he added.

He recalled a 1959 statewide curriculum study in which 30,000, both lay and professional, participated. "It caused so much interest and talk that Terry Sanford based his campaign for governor on it and rode into office," said Herring.

School Support Waned There followed an era of progress and a groundswell of school support, dissipated by the crisis over racial integration. "People clammed up and with drew, and the schools were set back," the board chairman commented.

New, with that crisis in large measure behind, the time is due and overdue to open the doors again, Herring suggested.

"I hope the next governor will use the technique to develop active grassroots understanding of policy questions involved, and to generate renewed support for public education," he said.

A study to find answers is not the goal. "The education building is full answers. We need to let the people find the answers for themselves," Herring asserted.

More than money, the exertion of leadership for public involvement in schools could serve to advance the cause of education, Herring said. As for funds, he continued, they will be forthcoming as people recognize and demand needed improvements in the schools. "We haven't begun to scratch the surface in financing our schools. The people of North Carolina can afford what they want in public education," he declared.

Odds Overcome By Holshouser

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — Republican Party leaders across North Carolina looked at Jim Holshouser a year ago and remarked: "He's an excellent man, but he can't beat Jim Gardner."

There were other raps against Holshouser. Some said he looked too young to be elected Governor. Other said he would never be able to raise the money needed to campaign.

But while people were busing themselves with reasons why Holshouser could not win, he was out in the mountains, in the Piedmont, and in the flat country of the East, drumming up support for his candidacy.

While chairman of the North Carolina GOP, Holshouser had collected his share of IOU's. He was calling them in.

To the surprise of many people, Holshouser had wide backing in his run against Jim Gardner in the primary. And that victory, more than anything else, made Holshouser strong enough to win election to the Governor's Mansion.

No longer did people say he looked too young. He had taken on the toughest candidate his party could offer and beaten him in a bitter battle.

Against Bowles, Holshouser had another kind of problem. It was money. Bowles had plenty. Holshouser had very little.

The Boone attorney tried to turn this into an advantage, by saying at every stop that the Governor's office couldn't be bought and that people were sick and tired of seeing Bowles on television.

Holshouser had his own polls. He kept telling people that he was gaining and two weeks ago, he said he was

Public Forum

Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words

To the editor:

I wish to suggest a useful way to spend some of the federal funds Greenville is to receive. I think money should be spent to build sidewalks and bicycle paths for the city's many non-drivers — children, the elderly and the poor. Because sidewalks are now lacking in many areas, pedestrians are forced into the streets in front of speeding cars. Because bicycle paths are nonexistent everywhere, accidents and injuries to cyclists increase.

Not only the present non-drivers would benefit by this addition to Greenville's amenities. If it were safe to walk and cycle, many more people who are now "locked to their steering wheels" would discover the pleasures of these activities. The city would not need to spend so much money widening streets and building roads. Air pollution would not be so rapidly on the rise. Not so many pleasant green places would have to be covered with asphalt for parking lots.

Nothing will ever replace the car entirely of course. But I think Greenville is small enough that walking and cycling should be made possible, too.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Marilyn Stephenson

Saw It In 16 Countries

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to believe, but Tuesday night's television coverage of the presidential election was seen live and mostly in color by millions of viewers in 16 foreign countries.

Satellites made it possible. The foreign report was broadcast from four studios at NBC, which ran this year's international election night television pool.

Network correspondents ranging in nationality from Japanese to Danish stood before the camera, trying to explain in their own language our turbulent way of electing a president and the Congress. It was a far, sophisticated cry from 1948, when a U.S. presidential election was televised by the networks for the first time.

Today's international coverage wasn't even national then. The technology hadn't advanced to the point where a television signal could be relayed from the Muehlbach Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., the election night headquarters of President Harry S. Truman.

Perhaps it's just as well. The only scene television would have shown was one of tired, bedraggled reporters lounging around, talking to each other and wondering where Truman had gone.

"We didn't know where he was that night," said Frank Bourgholtzer, NBC radio's man at the Muehlbach in 1948 and now a television correspondent for NBC News in Los Angeles.

Truman, as Bourgholtzer and the others learned the next morning, had spent the night at the Elms Hoel in Excelsior Springs, 30 miles northeast of Kansas City.

The watch at the Muehlbach wasn't particularly productive. Radio had no projections, no computers to speed the vote count in an election which all the polls said Truman was certain to lose.

The reporters at the hotel only had news wires to keep them abreast of the national vote. And, as Bourgholtzer recalls, the time dragged on without any definite result.

The moment that sticks most in Bourgholtzer's mind came at about 2 a.m., when Windsor Booth, then Time magazine's White House correspondent, made a cursory check of the wires at the hotel press room. What he saw excited him.

"I remember he sort of shouted, 'Hey, damnit, the old man's going to win this thing,'" Bourgholtzer said.

And we all went over to the wires and looked at them and said, 'Ah, come on, Win,

Words That Weary

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you can't escape from hearing after a national election:

"The people have spoken."

"I told you right at the start who the winner would be."

"We may have lost the battle, but that doesn't mean we have lost the war."

"I don't know whether the best man won or not. All I know is that my man lost."

"I admit I told you that if we didn't win this one, I'd push a peanut from Times Square to Pike's Peak, but — uh — I was just kind of exaggerating a little to make my point."

"It's all a lot of hot air anyway."

"Maybe, now that we've got that out of the way, everybody in the office can get back to business."

"The whole thing reminds me of a three-ring circus."

"I think the mud we threw was better than the mud they threw, but the trouble was they had twice as much mud to throw."

"The time has come to thank our loyal supporters. Without the kind of help we got from you, defeat would have been impossible."

"No, I can't say we didn't have enough principles and issues. What we were short of was a little thing called money."

"Well, I'm glad the whole nonsense is over for another four years."

"To tell you the truth, the last one I really trusted was Calvin Coolidge, but I forget why."

"What difference does it make to us, anyway? We still have to go on working five days a week from here to eternity."

"The way those fellows talked, I thought that when we woke up the day after the election the world would look com-

The Greenville Fire Department is going to do its bit toward informing the public the outcome of the national election tonight. By radio and close contact with the wire service of the Daily Reflector, the firemen, when the election of a President has been officially declared, will make it known over the bull-throated whistle used in sounding fire alarms. If Roosevelt is elected number thirty-seven will be sounded, if Hoover is re-elected the fire house will be as still as a mouse.

In spite of drizzling rain which continued throughout the night and day, long lines of voters awaited their turn to ballot at the two voting places at the court house here today.

Strength For Today

WE SHOULD CHEER UP
The Roman Catholic Church, the Eastern Orthodox churches and the Protestant churches regard Christian truth from slightly different angles. Fully ninety-five per cent of what any one of these branch churches teaches is believed and taught by the other two branches. They differ largely in what constitutes authority. The fact, however, that God is the Creator of the universe and our Heavenly Father, that Jesus-Christ is regarded by all Christian believers as God's divine Son and our Saviour, that the Holy Spirit has been given believers to guide them in the way of truth and that God has revealed Himself and his will in many ways, particularly through the Bible—these beliefs are held by all branches of the Christian church.

We happen at the present time to be passing through a profound moral decline. Political conditions throughout the world confused and often terrifying. The disposition of the different branches of the Christian church to regard one another in a spirit of amity, understanding and friendship is therefore one of the most hopeful circumstances that has taken place in recent centuries.
There are differences between the different branches of the Church—and there should be. But this should not make us enemies. We have a broad world to live in, a world of opportunities as well as problems. This is not a time for hopelessness but for hope, faith and hard work.

Young Managers On The Move

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The voluntary egression rate among managers in their 30s has been shooting upward since the first of the year, said the professor. Optimism prevails, and the young mobiles are changing jobs again.

It is nothing unexpected. Just as water churns when the kettle is heated, so also do the talented young managers begin to move about when the economy gets hot.

Eugene Jennings, who has spent his adult life — he's a bit on the far side of 40 — studying executive mobility, maintains that this group is the avantgarde of job changers, and that younger and older executives will follow their lead.

"This group is vital to understanding business economics," he said. "They have the most mobility, the greatest capacity to be optimistic. They are a good barometer of optimism. When they move it means people are betting on the future."

For at least two years this group, which usually is the most free to change jobs, was frustrated. "Intelligence dictated that they watch their nests." They were unable to hasten their careers by job changes.

But there is more than optimism and ambition involved in executive churning, which still isn't as intense as it was in precession days but may be double the rate of 1969 and 1970.

Between 1965 and 1968, said Jennings, who is a professor at Michigan State University, an author and business consultant, many companies recruited more talent than they needed. Then came the recession.

"They discovered that too many of the people they had hired were not of the proper caliber. They were forced to counsel out a lot of young and middle-age managers." To be "counseled out" is to be laid off gently.

In reducing their staffs, however, many companies failed to reassure competent workers whom they wanted to stay. Some of these talented people lost their sense of direction, said Jennings. They too expected the ax.

Many of these managers are now moving on, said Jennings, who maintains 41 listening posts in corporations. Their employment was never reinforced by the company, he said. They were told they were wanted.

Easing their movement is the fact that opportunities of age exist. Because of the vagaries of birth rates and economic growth, middle-age managers are in growing demand. There are openings for those in their late 30s to mid-40s.

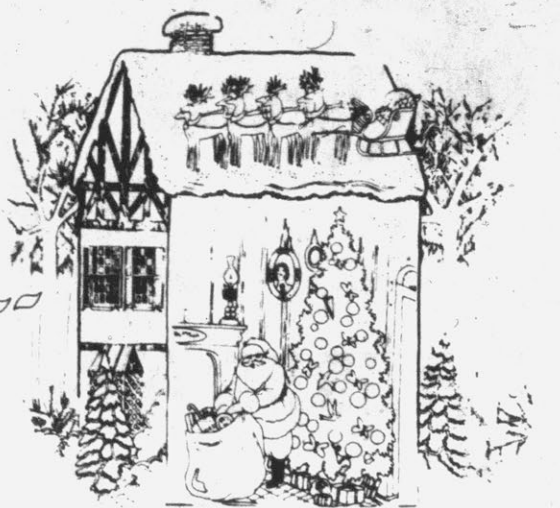

Those who can market themselves now tend to go, Jennings observed. "They are rebelling against corporate life, against what is called the '5 to 9' routine, or of working until 9 p.m. when others leave at 5."

"The unions gave the blue-collar worker the idea of a fuller life," said Jennings, "but nobody speaks for the overworked executive." Therefore, he concludes, they are speaking up for themselves.

Williamston Project Is Advancing; Bids Soon

WILLIAMSTON — Water and sewage facilities, that would provide services to a considerable distance outside the western town limits of Williamston is now further along the road to possible achievement.

Administrative Assistant John Boykin on Monday reported to the Town Commissioners that bids are ready to advertise and to be let. December 5 has been named as opening date of bids for water and sewage facilities from the town limits to Martin Technical Institute.

For the time being, the Town Board has extended until after Christmas free parking downtown. A check with merchants revealed that 60 to 70 percent favor no meters. The commissioners will take the issue of keeping or eliminating parking meters up in the January meeting.

Board members agreed to preparing an application for fiscal year 73-74 for a planning assistance grant. This will be handled through HUD and relates to a survey for future housing.

Also approved was a resolution introduced by town attorney D.A. Manning requesting updating the town's fire code. The resolution is to adopt the so-called 1975 code, which replaces the present 1965 code.

Revival Begins On Thursday

Revival services at St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church begin Thursday night and continues through Sunday, with services each evening commencing at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. B.D. Shelton, pastor of West Durham Pentecostal Holiness Church is the evangelist speaker for the revival services.

St. Paul's is located on Highway 264 (the Washington Highway) just east of Greenville. The church is invited to attend. Rev. R.H. Brafford is the pastor.

According to the NBC radio log for the 1948 election, the network switched to Bourgholtzer the next morning at 8:38 a.m. as Truman was arriving at the Muehlbach Hotel.

And Truman still wasn't as confident as Booth. Bourgholtzer told his listeners Truman asked reporters, "How is it going?"

Kenny Rogers Learned Own Secret Of Success

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Versatility. It's one of those words that's tossed around too much when used to describe musical groups. But a look at Kenny Rogers and The First Edition, puts it back in its rightful place.

When The First Edition band together in 1967, the group's four members had a professional background tailored mostly to folk music.

Their first hit, though, was a psychedelic rock piece. The second hit was in the Top Ten — on the Country music charts. And the many hits they've had since have embodied a vast array of musical style, mostly blending rock and country.

The group is living proof that rock-pop music, with a country foundation, is a highly sellable product. It's the kind of talent that has produced a million-selling record on the average of once a year for Rogers and the others.

"Country music is the white man's rhythm and blues. It'll always be around. To me, country music is the foundation for all the music we play," said Rogers, a bearded bulky singer-guitarist who was raised in Houston and now lives in Los Angeles with the other members.

The group now has six musician-singers — Rogers, Terry Williams, guitarist; Jimmy Hassell, vocalist and lead guitarist; Mickey Jones, drummer; Mary Arnold, singer; and Gene Lorenzo, pianist-organist.

Together, they have produced million sellers in "Tell It All Brothers," "Reuben James," "Something's Burning," "Ruby" and "Just Dropped In To See What Condition My Condition Was in."

The latter was their first smash, and their only hard rock hit.

Perhaps the group's greatest strength lies with the vocal dissimilarity of its members.

"There's absolutely no direct competition between any of us," said Rogers, explaining that none of the members could mimic any other's vocal style — well.

"Our advantage over a lot of groups is that we are basically entertainers," said Rogers. "Most groups are basically musicians who can sing. We're basically singers who can play."

At that point, Jones, 32, chimed in: "The healthiest thing about this group is the fact that anything creatively that you want to do, you can do it."

Rogers said the group continually makes an effort not to seek one musical direction. Their philosophy was quickly challenged with their first hit five years ago, "Just Dropped In."

"We didn't want to be labeled a psychedelic group because we knew it was just a fad," he said.

"But we didn't want to be labeled a country group, either, because that's limiting, market wise."

The only kind of music which the First Edition avoids producing is hard rock. It's not that they don't like it, said Rogers. It's just that hard rock doesn't fit the group's image in the record-radio market.

On stage, though, that's another matter — for the First Edition can open with a rock song and close with a ballad. And in between, you'll find country, folk and pop music.

Image is the crux of maintaining their popularity, said Rogers. Referring to a hard rock piece that's now being toyed with, he said:

"We'll never release it under the First Edition. We'll release it under another name because it'll sell under a different name."

"We'll go in phases," he said. "We're constantly experimenting with our product. But the key is maintaining some kind of common denominator."

What is that denominator? "I don't like to refer to us as a country group. But, face it, we are country oriented," Rogers said.

Crater Not Safe For Cats, Dogs

HALEAKALA, Hawaii (AP) — Rangers at Haleakala National Park have been instructed to shoot on sight any dogs or cats found loose in the 19-square-mile crater of extinct Haleakala Volcano.

Park Superintendent Russ Cahill said the pets interfere with normal breeding cycles of ground-nesting birds and particularly pose a threat to the nene, a rare Hawaiian goose.

Plays Mother To Entire City

HONOLULU (AP) — A mayor, says Mayor Frank Fasi, is like a mother.

The Honolulu chief executive told a group of Cub Scouts visiting City Hall: "Your mother takes care of the family, keeps the house clean, keeps you out of trouble, tells you what you can do and cannot do and punishes you when you do something wrong. That's the same thing a mayor does, except he must do it for an entire city."

Mission House Least Visited

HONOLULU (AP) — Newly compiled figures show the Honolulu Zoo continued as the most popular attraction among Hawaii's parks and museums in 1972, drawing 1,107,000 visitors in the first six months.

The least popular attraction was the Waioli House, a restored missionary residence on Kauai Island, which only 426 persons visited.

driveway action. A new subdivision ordinance that would free the town from reimbursing subdivision developers was enacted.

Mayor Pro Tempore J.I. Morgan Jr. gave a written report of his attendance at the N.C. League of Municipalities meeting in Greensboro. He said he has reams of material that any of the other Commissioners are welcome to study.

It was agreed for the town to erect a stoplight at the Church-Fields Street intersection where several wrecks have occurred just recently. Numerous requests to the State Highway Commission which maintains this intersection have been unanswered, so this action is being taken in the interest of safety, the Board said.

Several old, very small tax bills were released, including those of Claude Joyner, James Reason, Charlie Sherrod, Charlie Tyson, and Gordon Lee Warehouse, the last being for a few personal items that were destroyed when the warehouse burned prior to the tax listing time.

After a decade of backstage participation in state Democratic Party affairs Hunt emerged more than a year ago to embark on a well-oiled campaign for lieutenant governor. He showed his vote-getting ability by sweeping to the Democratic nomination last spring with a first-primary victory over a field of five candidates. Except for the lieutenant governor's race, the other council of state contests were largely overshadowed by the campaigns of governor and U.S. senator and attracted little public attention.

MVP Honor For Johnny Bench

By BILL WINTER
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — It was a sunny afternoon last May when Johnny Bench sat in the Cincinnati Reds dugout, pondering his fate as a superstar gone sour.

The National League's Most Valuable Player in 1970, Bench had slumped to a .238 batting average in 1971, and the Reds fell from pennant winners to fourth-place finishers.

In May well into the 1972 season, Bench again was batting at his humble 1971 level, and the pressure was showing.

"I know I'll hit," Bench muttered that day. "It's my job, my profession, and I know I will hit. Maybe I'm pressing, I don't know, but I will hit."

He was right.

Bench slammed four of his league-leading 40 home runs during a four-game Cincinnati sweep of Houston in late May, and the Reds were headed for the NL Western Division pennant.

Bench finished the campaign with 125 runs batted in and a .270 batting average as the Reds won the NL pennant and Tuesday was named the 1972 National League Most Valuable Player.

"Winning (the award) in 1970 was a great thrill for me," he said, "but this year the race was a lot different because so many people involved for us were having good years."

Bench, a muscular 24-year-old, drew a total of 263 votes, including 11 first-place votes from a 24-man panel of the Baseball Writers Association—two from each league city.

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs drew second place with 211 votes, with Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell third with 201 votes and Joe Morgan, the Reds' second baseman, fourth at 197.

Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, the Cy Young Award winner as the NL's top pitcher this season, was fifth with 124 votes.

Bench became the sixth player in National League history to repeat as MVP. Only three other catchers—Roy Campanella, Gabby Hartnett and Ernie Lombardi—have captured the NL award.

Bench is one of baseball's most sought-after figures, a fact often cited as one of the reasons for his 1971 decline.

His 1970 MVP award brought a dizzying round of banquet appearances, a host of celebrations Bench later admitted left him out of shape entering the 1971 season.

He endured Manager Sparky Anderson's rigorous spring training program this year, yet started slowly, drawing bitter criticism from Cincinnati fans who expected better.

Then came the Houston series, and things turned around for the 6-foot-1, 200-pound Bench, a swinger both on and off the field.

Pairings In Playoffs Set

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League announced Tuesday the pairings for the post-season playoffs and championships leading to Super Bowl VII Jan. 14 in Los Angeles.

Post-season play begins with divisional playoffs the weekend of Dec. 23.

In the American Conference, the Central Division winner hosts the West Division champion and the East Division winner hosts the "wild card" team—the one with the best record of the three runner-up clubs in the conference.

If the East Division runnerup is the fourth qualifier, however, the pairings will be changed so that the East winner hosts the West champion and the Central titlist takes on the "wild card" club.

In the National Conference, the Western winner hosts the Central champion and the fourth qualifier is at the East winner—unless the runner-up is also from the East.

In that event, the Eastern champion will host the Central winner and the "wild card" team will visit the Western winner.

The conference playoffs will be held Sunday, Dec. 31. As in the past, if a runner-up qualifier wins a divisional playoff, it will be ineligible to host its conference playoff.

the wide gap the Jamesville team had racked up.

Alvin Grimes led the scoring with three field goals, and five free throws for 13 points. Tommy Mizell and Larry Modlin each dumped in 11. Grimes had scored 16 in the first game while Mizell scored 11. Steve Jones had ten in the first game and R. Jones scored 12.

Jamesville will meet Chowan Friday.

First baseman Jim Hegan of the Oakland A's played 86 games with the New York Yankees, then 195 with Milwaukee's Brewers before he went to Oakland in 1971.

PIRATE CAGE CO-CAPTAINS — Dave Franklin, left, and Jerome Owens have been named co-captains for the 1972-73 basketball season at East Carolina University. The two will lead the Pirates as they defend their Southern Conference championship this year. The Bucs open the season on November 28 against the University of Baltimore in Minges Coliseum.

Franklin, Owens Are Basketball Co-Captains

Seniors Dave Franklin and Jerome Owens have been chosen by their teammates as co-captains for the East Carolina University Basketball team.

The announcement was made recently by Tom Quinn, head basketball coach.

Franklin, who captained the pirates last season as a junior, averaged 12.2 points a game and 6.9 rebounds a year ago from his wing-forward position.

The 6-5, 210-pounder from Richmond, Va., was a part time starter as a sophomore and full time starter last season when the Pirates won the Southern Conference Tournament and made their first trip ever to the NCAA Eastern Regional Playoffs.

Owens, a 6-1, 190-pound point-guard from Baltimore, Md., was a starter a year ago after transferring to East Carolina from Baltimore Junior College.

Owens was the second leading scorer for the Pirates last season averaging 13.1 points per game and also led the team in assists.

The Pirates open up their 1972-73 season, November 28, hosting the University of Baltimore in Minges Coliseum.

Jamesville Captures Opening Cage Victory

LUCAMA — Jamesville's boys basketball team won its second game of the year last night as they downed Lucama 55-39. They had beaten Lucama last Friday night by 60-35.

The Jamesville girls have not fared so well, however, as they have lost twice in as many starts, both to the Lucama ladies. Friday night in was 36-32 and last night Jamesville was edged out, 32-31.

Donna Williams led all scorers in both games as she has pumped in 32 points. She scored 15 in the first game and got an additional 17 last night. Lucama's Terry Lucas paced her team with 10 points in last night's contest.

Lucama inched out to a 10-9 lead in the first period and padded it by out scoring Jamesville 9-4 in the second quarter for a halftime lead of 19-11. Jamesville cut the lead by two points in the third period as they dumped in nine points to Lucama's seven making it 26-20. Jamesville continued to fight back in the last quarter but fell a point shy as the clock ran out.

Jamesville's boys avenged the loss by getting out to a 22-10 margin in the first period of their game. They added 15 more in the second period to lead 37-18. Lucama took the third period, 8-6, and the fourth by 13-12 but could not recover enough to cut

Purple-Gold Swimming Meet Set For Thursday

By DANNY WITFORD
Sports Information Assistant

With a swimming schedule that includes such national powers as N.C. State, Maryland, North Carolina and South Florida most collegiate swimming coaches would be turning green around the gills.

Well, East Carolina swimming coach Ray Scharf is in just a situation but for some strange reason he seems to be mighty happy these days.

The Bucs' first meet of the season in Thursday and Scharf looks forward to the event with a degree of confidence because, as he puts it, "This is one meet that we're absolutely certain to win."

Why so much confidence?...Perhaps it's because this week's season-opening meet is the annual Purple-Gold Meet, and intrasquad battle.

But then Scharf also has other more permanent reasons for optimism which completely transcend the mere assurance of "winning" the Purple-Gold Meet.

The Pirates' swimming coach looks forward to the affair as a golden opportunity to evaluate the true abilities of what he calls "the best swimming team in East Carolina's history."

With nine lettermen returning from last year's squad, which finished 7-5 in dual meet competition against an equally tough schedule, as well as a promising group of new comers, including several high school All-Americans and All-Starters, Scharf may well have ample reason to be optimistic.

Among the returnees are last year's top individual medlist Wayne Norris and diver Jack Morrow who broke three varsity records during the 1971-72 season. Norris also broke the varsity record in the 200-yard butterfly.

Also returning are freestylers Paul Trevisan and Paul Schiffel and breaststroker David Kohler, all of whom broke varsity records in their individual events last season.

Trevisan placed 26th in last year's nationals and, according to Scharf, has the potential to go much further than that this year.

In addition, freshman freestyle-breaststroker Larry Green, freestyle-backstroker Jim Hadley and several other talented newcomers may be able to work their way into the varsity picture, according to Scharf.

The Bucs' coach describes the upcoming Purple-Gold Meet as an important test for each member of the team, particularly for the newcomers. In fact, several positions on the varsity swimming team may be at stake in the event, according to Scharf.

"The meet will give Coach John Lovstedt (ECU's diving coach) and me a chance to evaluate the abilities of our freshmen in situations of nose-to-nose competition," says Scharf. "We'll also have a chance to see how much our returnees from last year have improved. How well the boys perform individually will be important in determining the make-up of this year's varsity roster."

Back to the original question. Why is Ray Scharf so confident?...Sure, as far as Scharf is concerned Thursday's Purple-Gold Meet is a "sure victory."

Kickers Win, 3-2

ROCKY MOUNT — East Carolina University closed out the 1972 soccer season yesterday with a 3-2 victory over North Carolina Wesleyan College.

The Pirates built up a 2-0 lead in the first half, then coasted through the final period, scoring the winning goal before Wesleyan finally managed to push over a goal.

Jeff Kunkler scored the first of the Pirates goals after 6:05, with an assist by Tom O'Shea. Then, just 15 seconds later, the two exchanged pleasantries, with O'Shea scoring on Kunkler's assist.

The final goal came after 2:33 of the second half, when Kunkler again did the honors.

Davis scored the first Wesleyan goal after 4:30 on a penalty kick, and the final goal came after 34:42 with King getting it.

"We dominated the game from start to finish," Coach John Lovstedt said. "We outshot them 2-1, but we missed on a lot of shots. We should have scored more."

Top players for the Pirates included Kunkler, O'Shea, Tom Tozer, Bob Gebhardt, Brad Smith and Bob Poser. Oddly enough, goalie Rick Lindsay finished up his collegiate career in the match. Four years ago, he played his first soccer match, starting at goalie against Wesleyan.

The Bucs ended the second with a 4-8 record.

Warriors Trim Buffalo Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry noticed it. Of course, he would have. He was chasing a National Basketball Association foul shooting record and he wanted the conditions to be perfect.

"The basket doesn't look right to me, it looks a little high and a little off center," said Barry before he and his Golden State Warriors met the Buffalo Braves Tuesday night.

Perhaps thinking too much about the whereabouts of the basket, Barry missed his first foul shot in 40 tries this season—but the Warriors found everything okay for field goal shooting enroute to a 105-91 victory at the Buffalo Auditorium.

The Warriors wiped out a 53-51 Buffalo lead at the intermission and charged by the Braves with a hot second half led by Jeff Mullins' shooting and Clyde Lee's fine rebounding work.

Barry wound up with 16 points in the game. However, he had 2-of-4 from the free throw line, an unlikely Barry performance. The Warriors' flashy forward had hit 39 straight and was after the NBA record of 55 held by Bill Sharman.

In Tuesday night's other NBA games, the Atlanta Hawks nudged the Baltimore Bullets 109-107 in overtime and the Los Angeles Lakers turned back the Houston Rockets 122-109.

In the American Basketball Association, the Indiana Pacers trimmed the Memphis Tams 124-116 and the San Diego Conquistadors whipped the New York Nets 116-108.

Mullins scored 14 of his game-high 22 points in the last half at Buffalo. Lee wound up with 18 rebounds in just 27 minutes of work, also a game high.

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo had 21 points while Elmore Smith, playing with his right arm in a cast because of a fracture, had 11 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

George Trapp's basket with 2:14 left in overtime gave Atlanta its victory over Baltimore. After the basket by Trapp, who scored 22 points and had a career-high 19 rebounds, both teams missed scoring opportunities.

Pete Maravich, who led the Hawks with 28 points, hit a lay-up with eight seconds left in regulation time to send the game into overtime tied at 101. Mike Riordan led the Bullets with 28 points.

Happy Hairston scored 30 points to pace the Laker triumph. Mike Newlin had 30 points for the losers.

Indiana took command late in the game to drop Memphis.

Memphis' Randy Denton led all scorers with 30 points while Roger Brown led Indiana with 25.

Paced by Stew Johnson and Larry Miller, the Conquistadors stopped the Nets with a second-half explosion. Johnson, who scored 25 points, and Miller, who had 24, helped San Diego break away from a 60-60 half-time score. Jerry Chambers, a substitute forward, came off the bench to score 20 points for the winners.

Bill Melchionni led the losers with 20 points.

Set Basketball Officials Clinic

A basketball officials clinic will be held at Elm Street gymnasium Thursday night at 7:30.

All Pitt County high school officials, coaches and other interested people are invited to attend.

A review of new rules and mechanics for officials will highlight the program.

Third baseman Sal Bando of the Oakland A's played in 152 American League games this season, plus five more in the playoffs against Detroit.

Caldwell Reprimands Coaches

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University Chancellor John T. Caldwell has reprimanded basketball Coach Norman Sloan and assistant coach Eddie Biedenbach for violation of NCAA regulations in recruiting.

But Caldwell reiterated he regarded the violations as "technicalities" and did not justify the one-year probation the NCAA recently placed on the Wolfpack basketball team.

Caldwell said the reprimands were recommended by the N.C. State Athletic Council on the grounds Sloan and Biedenbach were "in a position to avert acts of poor judgment" in connection with basketball recruiting and were in accord with the conclusions of Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Robert C. James.

But, Caldwell added, the reprimands were in no way an endorsement "of the substantive findings of the NCAA on the basis of which the NCAA council justified probationary status."

The NCAA recently found State guilty of violating eight rules in connection with basketball recruiting and placed the team on one year's probation.

Caldwell also told Sloan he did not want the reprimand "to obscure the clear evidence that your basketball recruiting efforts have been characterized by an honorable intent to respect the intercollegiate rule."

"You will continue to have the support of this administration in every effort you make to maintain a successful basketball program characterized by the high ethical standards that match your own personal commitments," Caldwell told the coaches.

"This is the only kind of program the university wants and I am certain it is the only kind of program that can be successful," he added.

The announcement of the reprimands, Caldwell said, "ends the matter as far as we're concerned."

Colorado Voters Refuse Fund Winter Olympics

DENVER (AP) — The Olympic torch will not be passed to the Rocky Mountains in 1976, top organizers of the Winter Games said Tuesday after voters in Colorado cut off state funds for the event.

With 1,253 of 2,045 precincts reporting, 343,832 ballots had been cast to stop state funding and 232,159 persons had voted to continue funds.

Clifford Buck of Denver, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said, "Needless to say, it is a tremendous disappointment to me. I think it's a tragedy for the state, and a tragedy for the nation that the people of Colorado were not aware of the great privilege and great honor to host the 1976 Winter Games."

"But the majority has spoken," Buck said in New York, "and I don't think there is any more to add."

As returns were coming in Tuesday night, Gov. John Love said a fund cutoff for the Olympics would mean "the people don't want them and we won't force it down their throats."

Opponents of the Winter Games were jubilant. Cheers and floying champagne greeted the returns at the election night headquarters in Denver where opponents gathered.

The anti-Olympics drive was led by Citizens for Colorado's Future (CCF) composed mostly of young people.

Meg Lundstrom, 24, a CCF director, said opponents thought the Olympics would cost too much money and would encourage haphazard growth in Colorado.

State Rep. Richard Lamm, D-Denver, a long-time foe of the Games, said the cost issue became the dominant one at the campaign's close. Lamm said the Olympics traditionally have huge cost overruns.

Olympic organizers said the Games would cost $35 million, but opponents argued that the event would really cost much more.

Weapon For Underseas Exploration

By ROBERT C. MILLER
HONOLULU (UPI)—A former bullfighter who got tired of being chased around the ocean by sharks has produced a new weapon that ichthyologists hope will clear the way for safer undersea exploration.

Rhett McNair, who describes himself as "a lousy bullfighter," designed the potent hand gun after several close calls with South Pacific sharks.

Dr. John Randall, a veteran diver and Honolulu bio-marine scientist, described McNair's device as "unquestionably the finest weapon ever developed against sharks."

"It may save divers' lives, and will certainly give them greater confidence," Randall said.

Tests of the new weapon in shark-infested waters of the South Seas have shown its killing power.

"My weapon has been tested in defensive situations with more than 20 free-swimming sharks killed, as well as many others destroyed under controlled test conditions," McNair said. "I've hit sharks in every conceivable part of their anatomy and never failed to stop them with one shot."

Simple and Reliable
Dr. Randall says the beauty of the McNair gun is its reliability and simplicity.

"Previously the only weapons we had on our expeditions were powerheads which you had to unscrew the barrel to reload," Randall explained. "With sharks all around you, the time needed to reload can seem like an eternity. You could be eaten by a shark in the time it usually takes to reload. But with McNair's gun, you can reload rapidly."

McNair developed his shark gun after repeated brushes with the undersea monsters during a scientific expedition in the Line Islands four years ago.

"The weapons available then were not dependable," McNair said. "And after a shark brushed my leg during a dive, I wanted to carry a weapon, but they all had a tendency to misfire, and were slow and difficult to reload."

"I had two choices. To give up diving or do something that would improve conditions."

Quick Reload
The new weapon reloads in less than two seconds, and has shockpower sufficient to kill or totally disable a seven-foot shark no matter where it is hit. It took McNair four years to perfect his powerhead, as he had to produce something that was small and light enough to carry without being cumbersome.

Dr. Philip Helfrich, associate director of the Hawaii Institute of Marine Biology, said all the previous shark guns had deficiencies in design and operation.

"The beauty of McNair's powerhead," Dr. Helfrich said, "is that there are no moving parts, and it has rapid loading. This not only means that it doesn't take you long to reload, it also means you don't have to unscrew something as you do with other guns. Can you imagine trying to unscrew something and put it back with a shark around?"

To test the weapon, McNair joined an expedition doing underwater research at Eniwetok Atoll in the Southwest Pacific.

"McNair insisted on being his own guinea pig," Dr. Helfrich said. "He carried down with him an instrument that made a clicking sound that would attract sharks. One shark charged at high speed, but McNair stood his ground and fired his gun. The charge blew off part of the shark's lower jaw. The momentum carried the shark up against him, and McNair had to fend off the tumbling body. I'm certain I would have headed for the boat, but Rhett had tremendous confidence in his weapon, and he absolutely proved his point as far as we were concerned."

Second Rescue By Joey Bishop

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Joey Bishop has been credited by the Coast Guard with his second rescue at sea in three weeks.

The comedian was at the helm of his 42-foot cruiser Sonuvagun II Monday when he saw a partly submerged sailboat through heavy fog.

Bishop and his party hauled the occupant of the boat aboard unharmed and towed the sailboat back to Marina del Rey.

Three weeks ago Bishop rescued five persons whose motorboat was disabled.

Pitt School Bd. To Protest VEPCO Rate Increase

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County School Board, meeting Tuesday afternoon, voted to "use every avenue to protest the exorbitant proposed rate increases by VEPCO for North Pitt School."

Leck Keeter, Assistant Superintendent, reported that VEPCO has asked the Utilities Commission for a 70 per cent increase on rates at North Pitt, which would raise the cost per year from about $16,000 to about $27,000. He said the Utilities Commission has asked for an account of costs that would cause a 26 per cent increase. Other Bethel schools will also be affected, he said. The Board agreed to have their attorney, William W. Speight, do everything possible to fight the increase and to have representatives at a Utilities Commission hearing on the matter Jan. 23. They also said they would contact other schools in the area served by VEPCO and the State School Board Association to join them in the fight, noting that they were told when they decided on the all-electric heating, etc. that school rates had not been raised in several years and would not be anytime soon.

Kenneth Dews voiced the Board members' opinion that all school personnel should be asked to economize as much as possible on the use of electricity. Keeter said that possibly the Schools should look into the possibility of installing devices to have certain compressors not come on while others are running in order to keep electric costs down as much as possible. D. H. Conley reported that attendance so far this school year is the best ever. Percentages of students present range from 96 to 98 per cent in the elementary schools and 94 and 95 in the high schools. He and Mrs. Katherine Lewis explained about how truancy is dealt with and gave apparent reasons for the improvement. There were no comments and no problems reported by auditors of county school funds Title I funds, and state school funds, Superintendent Arthur Alford reported. Nothing positive reportedly came out of a meeting with representatives of the City School Board recently. One point of contention is whether city students should be required to pay tuition if they choose to attend county schools if county students are to continue to have to pay such fees to attend Greenville Schools. Another meeting is set for the second Tuesday in January. All but four students have paid school fees from last year, it was reported. The Board accepted a recommendation that they require that all fees for this year be paid by the end of the second six weeks and that next year, this deadline be upped to the end of the first six weeks. The Board acknowledged with appreciation a letter of thanks sent them by Principal Walter Latham and the North Pitt Advisory Council for the two activity buses made available to North Pitt and the feeder schools in the North Pitt area. The Board agreed to enter a formal request for $36,179.56 from the county's share of revenue sharing funds for use in capital improvement to A. G. Cox School. The following personnel was approved, based on the recommendation of the Superintendent: Etheridge

Ricks as an eighth grade teacher at G.R. Whitfield replacing Mrs. Betsy Chappel; Mrs. Chappel transferred to H. B. Sugg, replacing Mrs. Marilyn Smith; Roger Ingalls replacing Noah C. Williams at North Pitt; Mrs. Curcella Dixon Collins replacing Miss Mattie Forbes at North Pitt; Mrs. Ernestine J. Gardner as a new addition to Pactus faculty; Mrs. Dinaz Kara as a new addition to Ayden Grammar; Elmer Loftin at Ayden-Grifton to replace Mrs. Clarissa May; Mrs. Brenda Matthews replacing Christy R. Teale at Belvoir Primary; and Mrs. Kathy Floyd as a new addition to Falkland Grammar. Next month's School Board meeting was scheduled for Monday, Dec. 4 at 2 p.m., so as to leave Tuesday free for Supt. Alford to attend a Superintendent's Conference Dec. 5-7. The Board said they approve and welcome an opportunity to place 10 students from North Pitt High School at the Eastern

North Carolina Sheltered Workshop for a half-day of occupational training each school day. Edwin Chandler of Ayden-

Grifton High School, a Student Task Force representative, asked if something could be done about equipping all school buses with fire extinguishers and First Aid kits and making sure these are kept in working order. Alford thanked him for his suggestion and agreed to have the matter looked into and discussed further at the next meeting.

Auxiliary Will Serve Barbecue

The Woman's Auxiliary of Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church on Fourteenth Street Extension will serve barbecue Saturday from 4 to 7 p.m. at the church and a bake sale and auction will be held the same day. Orders to take out will be sold and meals also will be served in the church fellowship hall. The bake sale will be held during the same hours as the barbecue sale and the auction will begin at 7 p.m., with a variety of things being offered. Proceeds will be used for the church building fund. The public is invited to attend.

The Board approved the use of the old lunchroom at G. R. Whitfield School as a Pitt County Community Health Department miniclinic. It also approved the putting up for sale of a small parcel of land and the old principal's home in Grimesland. Mark Owens was reelected chairman of the Board and Sam Nelson was named vice-chairman to replace Dick Worsley, whose tenure on the Board ended with this meeting.

A U.S. Army squad contains 11 men.

Brief Outage Was Accident

The brief electrical outage Tuesday afternoon was the result of an accidental knocking out of a circuit breaker. Charles Horne, Director of Greenville Utilities Commission, reports that VEPCO service personnel, testing a relay north of the river, accidentally knocked a circuit breaker out. He noted only a brief time elapsed before the service personnel discovered the accident and restored the circuit breaker.

Revival Series Begins Tonight

FARMVILLE — Revival services will begin tonight at the Baptist Tabernacle Church, located at Lang's Crossroads four miles east of Farmville. Melvin Vaughn of Henderson will be the guest evangelist. The pastor of the church is Chester Fussell. The services will be held through Saturday night and will start at 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be provided. The public is invited to attend.

Honor Teacher For Saving Life

A seventh-grade teacher at Grifton School was honored Tuesday by the Pitt County Board for his "quick and skillful action to save the life of a Grifton student."

County School Superintendent Arthur Alford related to the Board how Richard McLawhorn used his knowledge of First Aid on behalf of Eugene Wilson. He asked McLawhorn to relate the details of the incident.

McLawhorn, who teaches science, health, and physical education to seventh graders, said he was called by other students who said Eugene was "not moving." He was told that the boy had been running through a breezeway when he turned to see who was chasing him and ran into a brick column. The blow knocked him unconscious.

McLawhorn said when he reached the boy, he saw his tongue was obstructing his windpipe causing severe breathing difficulty and that his jaws were locked. He pried his jaws apart and used his fingers to extract his tongue from his throat. Then he blew into his mouth once or twice to help him as he gasped for breath.

McLawhorn said he used a little-known First Aid device fetched for him by the School principal, Nelson Baldree. An oral screw was used to help him keep Eugene's jaws open while he kept the boy's tongue from going down his throat again.

The Grifton Rescue Squad carried the boy to a local physician and then to Pitt Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for a head injury. He was back in school in about a week, McLawhorn said.

McLawhorn is a graduate of Ayden High School and East Carolina University. He was a trainer for five years in secondary school and also at ECU. In this job, he was, of course, well-versed in First Aid.

One Injured In 2 Wrecks

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,650 property damage caused in two collisions here yesterday.

Police investigators reported Robert Hemby, 63, of 415B Hudson St. was injured when the care he was driving collided with a truck driven by David Tripp, 21, of 412 Tyson St. about 11:40 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Streets.

Police, who set damage to the truck at $50 and damage to the car at $400, charged Hemby with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Runell Haddock Toler of Route 1, New Bern was charged with but he said this was the first critical situation he ever faced alone.

The marks of Eugene Wilson's teeth on his hands attest to his courage and skill when he did have to face it, his principal has been quoted as saying.

failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 4:44 p.m. mishap on N.C. 43, 2,000 feet South of the Red Banks Road intersection.

Officers reported the Toler car collided with a vehicle operated by Gwendolyn Lynch Nequirt, 29, of 113 South Woodlawn Ave., causing an estimated $400 damage to the Toler auto and about $800 damage to the Nequirt vehicle.

Program On Alcoholism Set At ECU

A monthly training program series on the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics will be given by the East Carolina University-based Alcoholism Training Program for North Carolina.

Beginning this month, the series will continue through October, 1973.

Don Watson, Coordinator of Practicum Programs for the Alcoholism Training Program, said the series will consist of three day sessions at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center.

The series is designed for newly employed professionals in allied health and social agencies.

"A maximum of 10 people will be admitted each month," Watson said.

"Our training objectives are to acquaint the trainee with the medical, social and cultural dynamics of alcoholism and its impact on the individual, the state's alcoholism program, and the various methods of treatment for the individual with an alcohol problem."

Additional information about the training program is available from the Alcoholism Training Program for North Carolina, ECU, Greenville.

Alarm Nabs 26 Burglars

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—An invisible ray burglar alarm system installed in a large warehouse here nabbed 26 burglars in 52 days.

The five-story structure of Riverside Properties, Inc., which stores small electrical appliances, is surrounded by a high, industrial-type fence which failed to deter the agile young burglars who easily climbed it and then broke into the building through doors or windows.

After being victimized by several burglaries, the warehouse management called in security specialists from ADT, a nationwide electrical protection company. They installed a sensitive photoelectric system outside the building and parallel with the fence.

By passing through the system's invisible beam, an intruder automatically transmits an alarm to a nearby ADT central station serving the Newark area. Unlike conventional alarm systems in which an intruder trips the alarm and sounds a bell or siren on the premises, this alarm is "silent" so that the burglar is unaware that he has been detected.

At once, personnel at the central station notify local police of the intrusion and then speed to the site of the alarm.

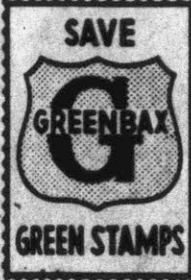

According to O.A. Petrin, local ADT manager, the system has been trapping intruders ranging from one would-be burglar to teams of three and four.

Prince May Soon Begin Royal Duties

By MARGARET SAVILLE LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles will be 24 on Nov. 14 and friends say it may not be long before he gives up his Navy career and starts full time at learning the duties of a British sovereign.

Royal circles said Sub-Lieutenant Windsor, heir to the British throne, probably will spend his birthday on naval duties aboard the frigate Minerva which he is due to join shortly. He will celebrate the following weekend when he gets his Friday night to Monday morning shore leave.

The Prince's usual personal celebration is to invite half a dozen close friends for drinks in his Buckingham Palace suite and then on to a West End show and dinner in some quiet restaurant afterward.

Charles' decision that he isn't really cut out to be a sailor came as a surprise to those who remembered his enthusiasm when he went to Dartmouth Naval College last year.

No High Adventure

But he has found that instead of an adventurous open-air life, he has had to spend long days in the classroom with his fellow sub-lieutenants learning about the complicated electronic gadgets of a modern navy.

Charles already has special leave to return to the Royal Air Force flying school for an advanced course on the newest jets. He's happier in the air than at sea.

The Prince has matured during the past 12 months, partly thanks to his naval service, partly because he is now much more in touch with affairs of state.

While he has been at Dartmouth regular dispatch cases of documents have come from Queen Elizabeth's office for Charles to read, ponder upon and make decisions about as he would have to do if he were king.

If he returns to civilian life to assist his mother with state and official activities, Charles may well begin to think about marriage.

He has met many beautiful and well-born girls during the past year as he moved around on naval service. Some even meet the conditions he has said himself are necessary for a future queen—"She would have to be a special kind of person and know what it's all about."

He Prefers Blondes

Charles seems to have a personal preference for blondes—he is seen escorting about five times as many blondes as brunettes or redheads.

Among his frequent companions are two blondes. One is model Georgina Russell, whose father is British ambassador to Madrid. Another is Emma Soames, daughter of a British Common Market representative and granddaughter of Winston Churchill.

Charles has made known other qualities he likes in women:

"I like a girl with intelligence but I hate her to be more clever than I am—and show it."

He also has said he likes girls "who do things. It makes for better talk."

Charles is described by friends as a very determined, often obstinate personality, quiet but very firm when he wants to be. For tenacity and self discipline he takes after his mother, the Queen.

Pet Medication Dangerous, Too

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — You keep medicine out of reach of small children? But what about medicine on hand for cat or dog? The pet prescriptions also can be potent poisoners of curious kiddies, cautions the American Academy of Pediatrics.

What makes matters worse: the animal medication usually is packaged in envelopes or bottles that display no warning. Some of this medicine could be toxic to a child. Take the same precautions with pet medicines as you would with those for humans.

CARS SHOULD FIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cars that don't fit their drivers can cause accidents. Dr. Julian Waller, professor of community medicine at the University of Vermont, says so. He told of a study that showed drivers who are above or below average in size may have trouble reaching their cars' controls.

The Worry Clinic Fascination Is Not True Love

Dorothy was as glib as Eve in the famous Garden of Eden! Millions of other coeds also confuse mere sexual fascination with true love. But true love in UNSELFISH: not like that of Prince Amnon, as described below. Girls, beware!

BY GEORGE W. CRANE, PH.D., M.D.

Case V-539: Dorothy J., aged 19, is a college sophomore. "Dr. Crane," she wailed, "I am so unhappy I feel like taking an overdose of sleeping pills. 'For I met a handsome

"What could make a man act like that Dr. Crane?"

AMMON'S 1972 TWIN

If you wish to read a terse account of a similar jilting, just open your Bible to II Samuel, Chapter 13.

Therein you will read about a royal prince named Amnon who became smitten by the lovely Princess Tamar.

The Bible says he loved her so intensely that he fell sick and took to his bed.

That's where we obtained our English idiom about being "love sick."

Amnon's psychological confidant and adviser told Amnon to stay in his bed till the king was duly notified of his son's illness.

"For the King will come to visit you," added the adviser, "and then you can ask that Tamar be sent as your private nurse."

And that's exactly what happened.

But Amnon asked Tamar to bake him some cakes and then insisted she come into his bedroom to feed him.

Meanwhile he sent all his servants out of the house.

Alas, when Tamar started to offer Amnon one of her cakes, Amnon jumped out of bed and tried to assault her.

She begged and pleaded, but to no avail, and told Amnon if he really loved her, the King would let them marry.

Notice how tersely the Bible handles such sexual episode: "Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice; but being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her."

Modern pornographic writers would have stretched out this case of sexual assault into a lurid novel of maybe 300 pages!

But notice the very next verse in the Bible:

"Then Amnon hated her exceedingly; so that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone."

But she begged him not to advertise her rape in this manner, and wanted to stay within the house, at least till evening.

So Amnon called his servants, ordering them to bodily put her out of the house and even bolt the door!

Actually, Amnon's so-called

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, November 8, 1972—21

earlier love was merely sexual fascination and desire for erotic conquest.

And that applies to Dorothy's college classmate, too.

For millions of people succumb to mere physical magnetism or sexual charisma, failing to realize that "true love" is UNSELFISH and thus will protect the girl via a wedding band!

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Reduce Waste On Homefront

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Authorities estimate that each person in the United States generates 5.5 pounds of solid waste per day.

Some women, following a suggestion by Eco-logue, an ecology column published by the Westport News in Westport, Conn., are reducing the waste problem on the homefront. As Eco-logue suggested, they are leaving excess packaging at the check-out counter. Another way of fighting the waste problem: when you have a major appliance delivered, insist that the deliverer takes the cartons back with him.
