Redevelopment Board Reelects Laughinghouse Chairman At Meeting

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Billy B. Laughinghouse was reelected chairman of the Redevelopment Commission last night during the annual session held following the board's regular meeting. Laughinghouse, who has served as commission chairman since April of 1968, will serve another one-year tenure. He was first appointed to the local board in April of 1967. Commissioners also elected Jack Whichard as vice chairman and his term in office will be one year. Joe Laney was reappointed as the board's secretary-treasurer. During the regular business session, a request by Bancroft Moseley for a not-to-be-acquired agreement for parcel 25-2, located on the northwest corner of Fourth and Washington Streets, was approved. Laney said that the agreement would cover a section of property 36 feet wide located behind the corner building. Moseley noted in his request that the lot would be used for office parking. The request was approved subject to the submission of an adequate parking plan by the developer. The executive director reported that HUD has issued an edict which stipulates that housing projects must be in execution by March 31 or they will be terminated. In that respect, Laney noted, the schedule for the Southside project must be accelerated to insure project completion. He said that a HUD official visited the commission and discussed the Southside status with the local staff and everything now appears to be "in good shape" for the accelerated schedule. Laney said that the commission will submit the combined Part I and II project applications by Feb. 15 and that action should save several months in the overall schedule of events and cut out some of the lengthy review time.

The director added that a mid-planning conference on Southside will be moved up from January to December as part of the stepped-up schedule and everything should be in good order to meet the HUD deadline for execution. He said also that the project is within the commission budget allowances, a stipulation required by HUD. Commissioners last night voted to proceed with condemnation action on property owned by the W. H. Brown heirs on the southeast corner of Seventh and Dickinson Avenue and on the Taft brothers (William and Joe) property located across the street on the northeast corner. In addition proceedings will be filed on commercial property owned by Frank Wooten on Greene Street between Second and Third Streets.

A motion to negotiate a contract with Francis Scott Key, a land appraiser, for first reuse appraisals in the Southside Project, was approved. T. I. Wagner, deputy director, reported that the Southside Project Advisory Committee is now meeting regularly

Another Meeting On Viet Peace Le Duc Tho Paris-Bound

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Le Duc Tho, North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, headed for Paris today for what Radio Hanoi said was another meeting with the Americans on the Vietnam war. Tho stopped over in Peking to confer with Premier Chou En-lai, the Chinese official news agency Hsinhua reported. There was no hint as to how long Tho would stay in Peking. Tho also is expected to stop in Moscow for discussions with Soviet leaders before flying to Paris. There was speculation that the two main U.S. negotiators, Henry A. Kissinger and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., were en route to Paris, but the White House said both were in Washington. U.S. spokesmen said they could neither confirm nor deny that the private talks to end the war were about to resume as was widely anticipated. South Vietnam, meanwhile, announced today it would agree to withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South by stages instead of the total withdrawal at once that it had demanded earlier. The Radio Hanoi broadcast today said North Vietnam, "to show its good will and seriousness," had agreed to "another private meeting between the United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam to solve the signing of the agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam. It said the meeting was proposed by "the U.S. side." Kissinger and Haig conferred with Nixon for one and one-half hours at the President's Camp David retreat Monday following Haig's return from four days of talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon. Both men next went by helicopter to Andrews AFB, which is a frequent departure point for official missions abroad. There was no announcement on the details of the Camp David discussions, but U.S. officials in Saigon said Haig, who is Kissinger's top aide, had narrowed the differences in his talks with Thieu on the American and South Vietnamese positions on a cease-fire. Haig carried a personal note to Nixon from Thieu, but its contents were not disclosed.

WANT INCLUSION — South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, left, speaks to newsmen at press conference Tuesday in Saigon. He said the Saigon government wants to be included in the next Paris meetings between the U.S.'s Henry Kissinger and the North Vietnamese representative. Further consultations with the Thieu government in Saigon will be necessary, he said, before any final peace agreement can be reached. (AP Wirephoto)

Friday Cites Benefits Accruing To State In Restructuring Program

William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina told members of the East Carolina University branch of the American Association of University Professors and guests here last night that the new system of higher education in the state — which encompasses 16 state-supported centers for higher education, including the local campus — "is a means to an end... designed to build better public higher education in the state." Friday took over as head of the 16-campus university system July 1, 1972, after the last General Assembly restructured higher education — abolishing the old UNC system and bring all 15 degree-granting school and the School of the Arts under a newly created Board of Governors. Although Friday has been in the new president's position for several months, he is no newcomer to higher education in the state. Born in Virginia, he attended school in Dallas, N.C., spent one year at Wake Forest University and completed work for a degree in textile engineering at North Carolina State University in Raleigh before serving as a U.S. Naval officer during World War II. Following the war, he completed law school at UNC-Chapel Hill then became assistant dean of students there. In 1951 he was elevated to the post of administrative assistant and then to acting president in 1955. He became president of the old university system in 1956. Saying "I don't consider this a speech, just a visit together," Friday told the gathering of professors there has been "splendid demonstration of good will and cooperation on the part of everybody, to make the system work." And, he noted, "I think it is to the credit of the state... they went about it as it did," in placing the 16 campuses under one board of governors. Outlining the structure of the new system, Friday told the audience of several committees that have been formed, including a long range plan group which, he said, is now taking inventory as to what programs are being offered by the various state campuses, with the idea of eventually eliminating needless duplication in programs. "The chancellors (term now used for the heads of the individual schools) agreed to a self-imposed moratorium on new degree programs" while the study is going on, Friday noted. The president said all schools would have the "standard AB and BS programs," indicating that elimination of duplication would most affect upper levels such as "doctoral (law, medicine, etc.)" programs. UN Conflict On Terrorism Grows Intense

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The conflict in the U.N. General Assembly over terrorism gathered intensity today. The United States was pressing for concrete measures while a bloc of African and Asian countries prepared delaying action. U.S. Deputy Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. told the General Assembly legal committee Monday terrorist violence involving innocent victims is spreading "like an unchecked forest fire" and the problem is too urgent to be put off for time-consuming studies. He listed more than 20 international skyjackings, mail bombings and other terrorist acts committed since the assembly started meeting in September. African and Asian delegates holding the balance of power in the world organization scheduled a meeting today to frame a common approach that would stress the underlying causes of terrorist incidents. Most Arab and many African countries regard the antiterrorist issue as directed against the Palestinian liberation movement and other causes they favor. U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim asked the assembly to act against terrorism three days after Palestinian guerrillas massacred 11 members of the Israeli Olympic team at Munich in September. The United States followed with a specific proposal for the Assembly to convene a world conference next year to adopt a treaty obligating signing countries to severely punish or extradite international terrorists.

Sound Fiscal Stance

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Bob Scott said today North Carolina's next governor will come into office with the state's financial condition so strong that a "program of tax relief for our people" can be recommended.

Scott specifically cited "a one-time, 10 per cent retroactive tax credit on 1972 personal state income taxes."

"This measure," Scott said, "will not disturb the state's current tax structure and will not result in reductions in future general fund revenues. It is simple, easily understood by the public, affects a large number of people and is easy to administer."

"This tax credit would affect each and every individual income taxpayer in North Carolina," Scott said. "The amount he would be otherwise required to pay would be reduced by $1 on every $10."

Procedures To Block Skyjacks Again Studied

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has started an intensive investigation of procedures to combat air piracy in the wake of the weekend hijack of a Southern Airways jet. Most officials aren't talking about why current safeguards failed to thwart the three men who commandeered the DC9 over Alabama Friday night and held 31 passengers and crew members captive for a 3,800-mile, 28-hour nightmare. But one FAA security specialist said privately, "We are not yet sure as to why the hijackers and their weapons were not detected in the pre-boarding check."

Asst. Transportation Secretary Benjamin O. Davis said Monday night the FAA had told him the three men were selected for special screening as they prepared to board the plane at the Birmingham, Ala., airport.

Southern Airways employees pulled the three from among other passengers because they fit the FAA hijacker profile, Davis said the FAA told him. The three men were allowed to board after undergoing a special electronic check, he said. There was no immediate explanation why the men's weapons failed to show up in the screening. Neither the FAA nor the FBI would comment publicly on the antihijack procedures. The Air Line Pilots Association, which usually voices strong protests following a hijacking, declined comment until officials conferred with the DC9 crew.

Any alteration of the antihijack procedures will depend on the outcome of the study, FAA security specialists said Monday. The hijacking Friday was the 31st this year in the United States and the 10th considered successful.

It is not known precisely what security measures were in effect at Birmingham Friday night when the three men hijacked the jet on a circuitous route that eventually took them to Cuba with an unknown amount of ransom money.

Southern Airways officials have refused to say what sort of metal detection device was in use, and there have been conflicting reports about whether any was in use at all.

A motion to negotiate a contract with Francis Scott Key, a land appraiser, for first reuse appraisals in the Southside Project, was approved. T. I. Wagner, deputy director, reported that the Southside Project Advisory Committee is now meeting regularly

Hicks Warns N.C. Leaf Production May Fall Short Of Need

RALEIGH — North Carolina farm leader says that next year's production of flue-cured tobacco is likely to fall short of industry needs by 30 million pounds unless there is a quota increase.

Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg, president of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, said Monday that by next summer, with no quota increase, loan stocks probably will be down to 250-285 million pounds. He termed this an inadequate reserve level. Hicks and Hugh C. Kiger, director of the tobacco division in the Foreign Agricultural Service, urged growers and others in the tobacco industry to "take a hard look" at the supply situation.

They spoke at the annual meeting of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee. Hicks and other officers were reelected.

Hicks and Kiger warned the inadequate supplies on tobacco can lead to significant declines in exports and further increases in imports of foreign grown tobacco. Hicks said many growers hope there will be no change in the quota because they want another "seller's market" like the one that prevailed most of this season.

He added, "I am alarmed that this season, with its record high price averages... many foreign and domestic buyers, have had to turn to other countries for grades not available on U. S. warehouse floors or in U. S. stocks."

Hicks noted that about 58,000 acres of flue-cured allotments that were left unplanted this season could have produced an additional 100 million pounds. He urged that sale, lease and transfer of allotments across county lines be considered as one "realistic" way of dealing with the inflated acreage problem. Kiger told the group that U.S. flue-cured exports goodwill be strongly influenced by our ability to supply adequate quantities of high quality tobacco at competitive prices.

He said some thought should be given to the consequences of a one-price market on which the same price is paid for the lowest and highest qualities of tobacco.

W. Alex Allen of Farmville was named to succeed the late F. Royster of Henderson on the executive committee.

Arts And Crafts Fair Outstanding Fall Event

With warm sunny days adding extra enjoyment, several out- standing bazaars and craft- smen's fairs have been staged in eastern North Carolina during the past week.

Highlighting this year's fall season, the Coastal Plains Arts and Crafts Fair concluded Saturday at Tarrytown Mall, Rocky Mount.

Approximately 50 demon- strators and sellers displayed their wares ranging from country kitchen items to Christmas tree ornaments. The fair was sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service.

On Saturday afternoon, one of the main attractions was the art of weaving on a loom demon- strated by Mrs. Clarence Fisher of Battleboro. As she weaved on a dark green and off-white place mat, interested spectators were fascinated by the skill displayed by Mrs. Fisher.

During the three-day fair, other demonstrations included spinning cotton on an old spinning wheel by Mrs. John May of Spring Hope and Mrs. Roger Kornegay of Franklin County displayed her pottery wheel.

Among the craftsmen present was Curtis R. Elks of Winterville displaying his talents in woodcrafts ranging from the tiniest tree lapel pins, wooden flower vases, doll cradles to an elaborate bird house.

Lots of old-fashioned goodies fresh from the kitchens of area homemakers were available as well as silhouettes, doll cloths, potted plants, decoupage, rocheted articles and jer- lery, pottery, paintings and silk screen prints, corn shick dolls, African violets, dried materials and beads, tote bags, wastebaskets, and stuffed animals.

The Coastal Plains Arts and Crafts Fair began as an effort to provide an awareness and a market for home produced crafts. It has grown from a one- county event begun in 1966 by Nash County, to an 11-county event.

How Should A Commuter Handle Bus Problems

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I travel to and from work by bus and would like your advice as to how to handle two problems which I encounter quite often.

The first is when the person sitting next to me dozes off and starts slumping against me. I once had a man's head on my shoulder! And another time a lady was practically in my lap!

I never know whether to wake the person, ignore him or what. It's embarrassing. I can't change seats because the bus is usually packed.

The second problem is sitting next to someone who has a wad of chewing gum in his mouth. He's usually preoccu- pied with reading a newspaper and is most likely unaware of the noise he is making with his slurping, cracking, and popping. It is most annoying to me and, again, I can't change seats because there are none vacant.

This may seem trivial to you, but it's not to me be- cause I usually arrive at work (or home) in an extremely agitated mood. I HAVE to ride the buses, so I hope you'll print this with some advice.

TEED OFF IN D. C.

DEAR TEED: If a fellow rider slumps on you in his sleep, gently awaken him. As for the rude and noisy gum chewer, he may have a short fuse, so I suggest you silently recite a long prayer and thank the good Lord he is only a stranger you'll probably never see again.

DEAR ABBY: In recommending that one bathe and change undies daily, you are contributing to both a water and power shortage!

I was surprised to learn that my physician husband, who is quite acceptable in polite company, bathed only once a week, which is proof of the adage, "What you don't know can't hurt you."

According to dermatologists, unless one's work creates excessive perspiration or exposes him to grime, unpleasant odors or contagious diseases, daily baths are neither essen- tial nor recommended.

Madison Avenue hucksters have sold us the myth that daily baths, deodorants, soaps, and mouthwashes are neces- sary to life and the pursuit of happiness, when actually earthlings have survived remarkably well without them for thousands of years. In fact, they have come into general use only the last 50 years or so, along with the increase of divorce. Probably more dissension and divorces are caused by hogging the bathroom and appropriating all the hot water than by failure to take a daily bath.

CLEAN BUT NOT FANATIC

DEAR CLEAN: Perhaps I have been brainwashed by Madison Avenue, but I happen to believe that a man should bathe daily, and a woman can't bathe enough! Fifty years ago when one had to bathe in a tub in the kitchen in front of the coal stove, the Saturday night bath made some sense, but not any more. [P. S.: People with naturally "dry" skin should use a moisturizer.]

DEAR ABBY: My husband did something recently that worries me. He insisted that I sign a paper stating that if he should die first I would NEVER get married again. To tell you the truth I never gave it a thought one way or the other, but I signed it just to satisfy him. We aren't old. I'm 44 and he is 45, and I don't know why he is worrying about such a thing now. Far as I know, he's in good health.

I would like to know if this paper I signed is legal. I mean, can he hold me to it?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: After he is gone, he can't "hold you" to anything.

dies in brass candleholders.

Gifts were received and displayed by Miss Jessica Johnston, Miss Denise McLawhorn and Miss Judy McLawhorn, granddaughters of the honored couple.

The reception table was covered with a floor length gold linen cloth and centered with a brass and crystal compote holding bronze and yellow mums, and gold candles in brass and crystal candleholders.

Serving individual party squares and punch were Miss Georgia Powell, Mrs. Neal Walston, and Miss Valencia Willoughby, assisted by Mrs. Glenn Johnston, Mrs. Tim Johnston, and Mrs. J.S. Flake.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. McLawhorn cut their three- tiered golden wedding an- niversary cake and was served to their children and grand- children.

Good-byes were said by the Rev. and Mrs. E. Linwood Kilpatrick.

Barbecue That Corned Beef

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Have a Deli meal! Cook corned beef on top of the range, then make up a barbecue sauce. Slather the beef with part of the sauce and bake; serve hot for a first meal. Re- frigerate the remainder of the meat for good sandwich eating. The barbecue sauce that is left over should also be refrig- erated; if it lasts longer than the corned beef, serve it with cold cuts.

BARBECUED CORNED BEEF
4 to 6 pounds flat-cut corned beef brisket
6 whole cloves

3 whole allspice
2 bay leaves
Water
1/4 cup butter
1 tablespoon prepared mus- tard
1 tablespoon dark brown sug- ar

1/2 cup undrained sweet pickle relish
1 cup catchup

Place corned beef in a large saucepot; add spices and enough water to cover. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer until tender when pierced with a fork—3 to 4 hours. Cool beef in broth; drain beef and remove excess exterior fat. Place beef in shallow roasting pan.

In a small saucepan melt but- ter; stir in mustard. Stir in re- maining ingredients; simmer sauce, stirring constantly, for 1 minute.

Spread about 2-3rd cup of the sauce over corned beef; bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve corned beef warm with remaining sauce; or chill meat, slice thin and serve cold on rye bread, spreading with remaining sauce warmed to room temperature. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

They Must Be Confused

AUBERVILLIERS, France (WNS) — Sylvie Pelca, 4 received the first letter of her life but was unable to make head or tail out of it. The yellow form was from the income tax department and demanded $300 in back taxes. Sylvie's parents told officials that she had earned nothing but a few chocolates and a doll for good behavior in 1971 and promptly received an apology. Then they learned that the lady who takes care of Sylvie while her parents are at work had recently received orders to report to the army for military service in an artillery unit. The lady is almost 50 years old. Now the army has apologized.

Sore Losers Pay For Actions

LONDON (WNS) — Lorraine Jenkins, 18, and Denise Grif- fiths, 17, were disappointed when their hometown Sheffield soccer team lost to the Queen's Park Rangers. In the ladies room they asked stranger Josephine Winnell, 22, which team she supported.

When Josephine said Queen's Park, Lorraine and Denise punched her in the face and knocked her down and kicked her. In court Judge Nina Lowry told the assailants, "That two girls should behave in this violent way passes com- prehension. If you have any sense, you will avoid going unattended at future matches." Then she put them on probation and fined them $240.

Sought Deal With Castro

MONTGOMERY, 25 (AP) — The three men who hijacked a Southern Airways jetliner offered some of their ransom money in an attempt to get Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to come to their aid, says a man who was aboard the hijacked plane.

"They kept asking for Castro to come talk to them," said Luther Waller Jr., referring to the first time the hijacked DC9 arrived at the Havana airport.

But Waller said Monday it was his impression that Cuban officials refused to negotiate and offered only to "see that justice is done" if the three would give themselves up to Cuban authorities.

The Montgomery resident said his impressions were gathered from listening to the hijackers' conversations and from word he picked up second-hand in the cabin of the plane.

He said he could not directly hear the attempted negotiations which he said went on between the plane's cockpit and the Havana airport landing tower.

However, he said he knew unequivocally that the three men "tried to strike a bargain with Castro. It didn't work to their satisfaction. Therefore they took off."

In Washington, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said that the pilot of the hijacked jetline was told by Castro after the plane returned to Havana the second time that the hijackers would be incarcerated for life.

The hijackers, who had demanded $10 million and were given an undisclosed sum by U.S. authorities, were taken into custody and the money was confiscated by Cuban officials when the plane made an emergency landing on its return trip to Havana.

Reichman To Speak At Conference Here

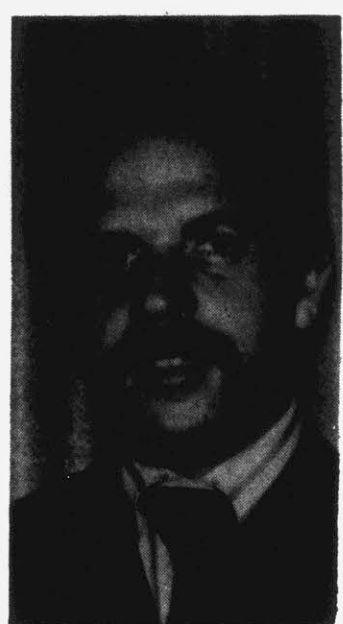

Dr. Walter Reichman, assistant professor of psychology at Baruch College of the City University of New York, leads the list of outstanding speakers at the third semi-annual Vocational Rehabilitation-Mental Health Alcoholism Conference Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference will be held in the Allied Health Building on the campus of East Carolina University, Greenville.

Vocational development is Dr. Reichman's research field. He is now a consultant for the Occupational Branch of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. He will speak on "Your Role as a Change Agent in the Community."

Another out-of-state speaker will be Riley Regan, program director of the Maryland Division of Alcoholism Control. His topic will be "Getting It Off the Ground."

State Mental Health participants in the conference are Dr. R.J. Blackley, deputy commissioner of the Division on Alcoholism of the Department of Mental Health; Forrest Teague, Eastern Regional Vocational Rehabilitation director at Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro; Ken Pearson, VR coordinator at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center in Greenville; Dick Rhine, occupational program consultant of the Department of Mental Health; and Wade H. William Jr., Eastern Region Alcoholism program coordinator with the N.C. Department of Mental Health.

Facility To Be In N.C.

NEW YORK (AP)—The 88-acre Staten Island site of Sailors' Snug Harbor, a home for old seamen, has sold to New York City and a developer for more than $8 million. Over the objections of State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, a judge approved Monday the removal of the home to Sealevel on the North Carolina coast, where the judge said a 100-acre site overlooking the sea can be acquired for $26,000.

The judge, Manhattan Surrogate S. Samuel DiFalco, also said that the home can be constructed in North Carolina at a reasonable cost.

Lefkowitz argued that moving the institution would violate the wishes of Robert Richard Randall, who in 1833 established the charitable trust which set up Sailors' Snug Harbor.

DiFalco ruled the trustees had the right to move the facility to North Carolina. He noted that construction at Sealevel would feature single-story units, eliminating the need for stairs.

CBS Maps '73 Changes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — CBS will cancel two situation comedies, add a new detective show and shift the time periods of five other shows at midseason.

Robert D. Wood, president of the CBS Television Network, said Monday "The Sandy Duncan Show" and "Anna and the King," which stars Yul Brynner in the role he created on Broadway and in the movies, will be dropped.

An hour-long detective show, starring Buddy Ebsen and tentatively called "Barnaby Cobb," will premiere at 9:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 28. Ebsen previously starred in "The Beverly Hillbillies."

"Mannix" will move up to 8:30 p.m. Sunday and "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" to 7:30 p.m. Sunday on Jan. 27.

"The Carol Burnett Show," "Sonny and Cher" and "Mission: Impossible" will make a three-way switch of time periods. The Burnett show goes to Saturday at 10 p.m. on Dec. 16, "Sonny and Cher" to Wednesday at 8 p.m. on Dec. 20 and "Mission: Impossible" to Friday at 8 p.m. on Dec. 22.

Belo Horizonte, third largest city in Brazil, also has the third largest stadium, seating 130,000.

Said Most Hazardous

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Commission rates the intersection of Monroe and Ellis Streets in Salisbury as the most hazardous in north Carolina, even though only 19 accidents occurred there during a 2½-year study period.

The commission said Monday the Salisbury intersection received the rating because of a complex formula that takes into account the amount of property damage, severity of accidents and traffic count.

The nine top urban intersections which ranked behind the one in Salisbury were: Lee and Morgan Streets, Shelby; Davidson and 11th Streets, Charlotte; Lee and Willow Streets, Greensboro; DeKalb Street and Earl Road, Shelby; Garfield and 16th Streets, Wilmington; Road and Church Streets, Elizabeth City; McDowell and Edenton Streets, Raleigh; N.C. 87 and N.C. 210, Spring Lake; and McConnel Street and Willow Road, Greensboro.

The study was from January 1969 through June 1971.

Faculty Oboist To Give Recital

Dr. Richard Foley, faculty oboist in the East Carolina University School of Music, will perform in recital Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 8:15 p.m. in the campus Recital Hall.

His program includes the Quintet for Piano, Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon, K. 45 by Mozart, Poulenc's Sonata for Oboe and Piano, and the Sonata in C Major by J.B. Loeillet.

Appearing with him are faculty members Peter Takacs, piano; George Knight, clarinet; and James Parnell, French horn; and senior student bassoonist Beverly Ervine.

governors have called on party chairman Jean Westwood to resign.

Their call Monday came as both the public and private campaigns moved into high gear to oust the woman chosen by defeated standardbearer George McGovern.

"When you don't win a national election, it's time to reappraise the leadership of the party," said Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew agreed, saying the party must be reunited and adding, "No personal offense toward Mrs. Westwood at all. I just happen to believe she is not the person who can do that."

Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, chairman of the Democratic Governors Caucus and spokesman for its executive committee which met Monday, said their recommendation will be presented to the full caucus at its Dec. 3 meeting in St. Louis.

Also present at the meeting were Govs. Kenneth Curtis of Maine and Wendell Anderson of Minnesota. Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton, the sixth member of the executive committee, was in Hawaii, Bumpers said.

Among those often mentioned by the dump-Westwood forces for the chairmanship are former party Treasurer Robert Strauss of Texas, New York state Democratic Chairman Joseph Crangle, and Mrs. Westwood's predecessor, Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Mrs. Westwood, a Utah mink rancher turned political organizer, was said by her office to be vacationing with her husband in Florida Monday. She could not be reached for comment.

ment. Last Thursday, when the anti-Westwood move was mostly underground, she told a news conference she intended to remain on the job.

She was picked for the post by McGovern last July after he won his party's presidential nomination.

Many of Mrs. Westwood's opponents feel she is too closely associated with McGovern and party reforms initiated by him to be effective.

While the governors were meeting in a local motel, aides to at least one Democratic senator were calling members of the Democratic National Committee to enlist their support for the anti-Westwood drive.

The DNC meets in Washington Dec. 9 and, if Mrs. Westwood has not resigned by then, a motion to oust her is expected.

Allocation For Road Project

Area Highway Commissioner Henry Oglesby said today that $85,000 has been allocated to widen and improve SR 1939 from the Grifton city limits northerly for 0.3 of a mile.

Oglesby said that a previous news release from Raleigh mistakenly identified the project as one to improve SR 1100.

The allocation, which will be taken from state secondary road funds, will pay for the improvement which includes constructing curb and gutter on the project.

The Greenville Jaycees' annual light bulb sale, begun Sunday, will be continued tonight and Wednesday and through Thursday if it rains either of these nights.

"This year the Jaycees hope to 'light the way' with the largest profit in the history of the sale," 1972 Sale Chairman Joe Ratcliffe said. "We plan to cover all the Greenville area we missed Sunday and last night. Any area resident not contacted who wishes to buy light bulbs to benefit many local charities and needy persons may do so at the Boys Club on Skinner Street during the sale hours."

A Personal Political Triumph

The Nixon landslide which was so consistently predicted is now a fact, and it is time for leaders of the Democratic party to pick through the rubble and determine what can be salvaged.

It is clear from the outset that nationally the Democratic party did not fare nearly so badly as the huge Nixon lead would indicate. The party kept control of Congress and even scored gains in the U. S. Senate. Thus the Nixon victory was a personal one for the president.

Big Turnover In Legislature

By BRYAN HAISLIP
 RALEIGH — A lot of the members of the 1973 General Assembly are going to need on-the-job training when they come to Raleigh in January.

A troop of freshmen Representatives and Senators, victors in primary and general election balloting, will take their seats when the session convenes.

Only 24 of the 50 Senators who served in 1971 will be back at their desks. Little more stability prevailed in the House, where 69 of the 120 membership is returning.

While the rate of incumbent return is low, many incoming legislators do have previous experience. A number of new Senators, for example, moved over from the House. Others served in past sessions, though not in 1971.

More Republicans, more women, and one additional black legislator were other changes in the make-up of the General Assembly out of the general election.

The personnel turnover could mean slow start and a long session. New-comers need time to learn the legislative ropes, and they won't be ready to plunge immediately into major issues.

Wheels Already Turning
 Wheels already are turning to give some momentum to the Jan. 10 start for the legislature.

Democratic House members will caucus in Raleigh on Nov. 17 to select a Speaker, a position likely to be filled by Rep. James E. Ramsey of Person. His supporters claim to have nailed down what started out as a contest with Rep. Dwight Quinn of Cabarrus, the senior in service among Representatives.

An orientation for lawmakers is scheduled Nov. 30-Dec. 1 at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill. For first-termers, there will be basic information on mechanics, sources for assistance, and how to find the way around in the legislative process. For all members, the conference will include discussions on issues likely to be big on the agenda.

A heightened element of partisanship will make the 1973 session interesting, and probably protracted. Jim Holshouser will be in the governor's office as the first Republican chief executive in more than 70 years.

Record GOP Membership
 He will have a legislative toehold, with a GOP delegation of 50, a record for the party in this century. Still, in legislature and numbers the legislature will remain firmly in the control of Democrats.

The previous high for Republican membership came out of the 1928 election, when Herbert Hoover carried North Carolina and 49 GOP candidates rode his coattails to the State House.

This time, it was President Nixon who paced the party sweep. The victory included the governorship, a U.S. Senate seat, and the enlarged General Assembly delegation.

Thirty Republicans, 23 in the House and seven in the Senate, and served last session. The gain of 20 for 1973 was divided into 12 House seats and eight in the Senate.

In addition to the GOP gains, election results swelled the number of women lawmakers and raised black representation from two to three.

Eight women will be in the 1973 legislature, compared to only two in the previous session. Seven are in the House, and one is a Senator.

Equal Party Division
 The feminine contingent is equally divided by party, four Democrats and four Republicans.

Among the Democrats, Rep. Nancy Winbon Chase of Wayne is returning for her sixth term. The newcomers are Reps. Patricia Stanford of Orange, Lura Tally of Cumberland, and Jo Graham Foster of Mecklenburg.

Women winning on the Republican ticket were Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Wilkie of Henderson in the Senate, and Reps. Frances F. Tomlin of Cabarrus, Marilyn R. Bissell and Carolyn Mathis, both of Mecklenburg.

Six women candidates lost in the general election, including three Republicans and one Democrat trying for the House, and two Republicans running for the Senate.

Blacks didn't fare as well. Seven were entered in legislative races, and three won.

Two veterans returning are Reps. Henry E. Frye of Guilford and Joy J. Johnson of Robeson. They will be joined by Rep. H.M. Michaux Jr. of Durham. All are Democrats.

Two blacks on the Republican ticket were defeated. They were A.J. Turner, a candidate for the House in Wake, and Alexander Barnes of Durham, running for the Senate. Two Democratic losers were K.O.P. Goodwin of Forsyth, a candidate for the House, and Fred D. Alexander of Mecklenburg, a Senate candidate.

Those who will pick up the pieces within the Democratic party, however, must see that the rank and file of the party were vastly dissatisfied with the selection of George McGovern as their presidential candidate. They must understand there was a strong feeling that the reorganization of the delegate selection system took the party away from the masses.

Assigning seats to various factions may seem a noble way to bring minorities into the power structure, but if it gives the great middle class of the nation a feeling of alienation then the Democratic Party can hardly expect to win presidential elections.

There will obviously be a new fight for control of the Democratic Party machinery as wise leaders within the party seek to restore public trust.

The new leaders who finally assume control will no doubt be looking for other ways to assure that minorities are represented than through the delegate selection system that characterized this year's National Democratic Convention.

A 'Manifesto' For Democrats

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — A broad-based organization of anti-New Politics liberal Democrats, privately conceived during last summer's McGovernite orgy at Miami Beach and secretly nurtured ever since, is surfacing as a cutting edge in the struggle for the soul of the Democratic party.

The hard-nosed thrust of the new group, the Coalition for a Democratic Majority (CDM), is revealed in the unsigned manifesto (titled "Come Home, Democrats") mailed out in a solicitation for membership. Its authors typify liberal intellectuals appalled by McGovernite new politics: Norman Podhoretz, editor of Commentary, and his wife, writer-editor Midge Decter, author of "The New Chastity," a pungent argument against women's liberation.

"We believe that is repudiating the Democratic 'new politics' Presidential candiacy in this election," says the Podhoretz-Decter manifesto, "the voters were speaking with precision and sophistication. What they said was that American society should continue on in that very Democratic tradition which, abandoned by the forces temporarily in control of the national Democratic party in 1972, was usurped in some measure by the Republicans."

This joins the ideological struggle for the post-McGovern future. Beyond that, it fills a long-felt need to show that internationalism and law-and-order are perfectly compatible with liberalism. In this sense, the CDM mirrors the founders of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) a generation ago seeking a refuge for anti-Communist liberals.

In conversations last summer the CDM was conceived as a new version of ADA, which long ago abandoned international anti-Communism and went over to the New Politics. Involved in those discussions with Podhoretz and Miss Decter were author Ben F. Wattenberg, adviser to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, and Richard Shifter, a Maryland political leader and supporter of Sen. Hubert Humphrey. They kept their conversations secret to avoid accusation of undercutting McGovern's campaign. While most unenthusiastic about McGovern, they rigorously shunned any hint of apostasy that would have made them John Connallys in liberal clothing. But they quietly recruited a formidable cadre of anti-McGovern liberals.

Many are from the academic community, including Prof. Nathan Glazer of Harvard who wrote a pallid endorsement of McGovern for Podhoretz's Commentary. Most CDM charter members sat out 1972. That includes Prof. John Roche of Brandeis, LBJ-era White House aide and former ADA national chairman. Other CDM academics are Seymour Martin Lipset of Harvard, Jeanne Kirkpatrick of Georgetown and Joseph Bishop of Yale law school.

From outside academia come Patricia Harris, the 1972 Democratic credentials chairman; longtime Humphrey lieutenants Max Kampelman and William Connell; New York real estate executive Richard Ravitch, a fund-raiser for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie; campaign consultant Robert Keefe, who is close to organized labor; and black leader Bayard Rustin.

Only two members of Congress, liberal Reps. Richard Bolling of Missouri and Thomas Foley of Washington were signed up before the election. Others, as well as labor leaders, will follow.

The question is whether any of the party's big guns — such as Humphrey himself — will join. An early ADA leader, Humphrey personally subscribes to CDM's principles, specifically including a strong national defense. Whether he publicly embraces CDM may tell much about his willingness to challenge the McGovernite wing of the party.

The Podhoretz-Decter manifesto leaves no doubt about those principles. It attacks "the claim of an elite faction that it knows what is best for others" and "a politics new in its contempt for the very people and institutions on which the Democratic party has built its electoral strength."

The manifesto underwrites strong national security, civil rights, and this liberal formulation of law-and-order: "The belief that order is essential to justice has been diluted by an attitude of cavalier disregard for the tens of millions of Americans who are genuinely concerned (Continued on page 7)

Of Rosebud & Macaulay

SCRABBLE, Va. — A considerable problem in diplomacy, strategy and old-fashioned hospitality has arisen at our small spread here in the Blue Ridge Mountains. It is a problem that has to be approached with delicacy and courage, if indeed it has to be approached at all.

It is the problem of Rosebud and Lord Macaulay. They are skunks.

Our problems up here, you will understand, are not problems of large dimensions: no crime, no drugs, no traffic, no sirens in the night.

This time of year, to tell the truth, there is not much to do. November is that kind of month. If a cow wiggles through a fence and comes up in the yard, Lorenzo chases the beast away and we talk about it for two or three days. Anyhow Lorenzo talks about it for two or three days. He is a great talker, that collie.

But about Rosebud. The general rule at our place is that Lorenzo kills the groundhogs and my wife traps the mice. I swat the flies, but otherwise no one kills anything. The rule is live and let live. If the human race would just observe that rule, we'd have a better human race. Here the rule works admirably for quail, doves, deer, fox, possum, coon, chipmunks, rabbits, squirrels, and even snakes, and of course Rosebud and Lord Macaulay are entitled to the same Fifth Amendment protections. But as I say, they are — well, they are skunks.

Rosebud appeared about a month ago, along a fence row a hundred yards from the house: a cunning creature, black as a Bible, with a white-washed face and a white-tipped tail. She was grubbing away in the front field, minding her own business. Everybody came out on the deck to look at Rosebud, and Rosebud looked back at us.

Lorenzo, who is nobody's fool, lay down and looked the other way.

This was about the middle of October. Every night we now see Rosebud on patrol. Once, coming home from a good party, I turned near ran over her in the driveway. Since then we have been coming up that driveway ver-r-y slowly. If Rosebud is in the way, we wait till the don't-walk sign changes. Live and let live.

Then, 10 days ago, we were coming home by twilight, ver-r-y slowly, and there was her gentleman friend. Back in September we had built an umpire's platform for the tennis tournament — plywood nailed on a couple of sawhorses — and sitting on that platform, if you would believe it, haughtily surveying the turf, was the noblest skunk I ever saw.

He had a certain arrogance about him. You remember Macaulay? "I do not hesitate to pronounce," he used to say. After a while, when it suited him and not one moment before, this skunk shinned down and strode (Continued on Page 2)

Other Editors Say Holshouser Plans

(The Henderson Dispatch)
 Governor-elect Jim Holshouser will have a lot to live up to if he can accomplish all that he promised during the campaign. With some of it he will have legislative support; though not in every instance.

He cited the $200 million surplus that will have accumulated by the end of the present biennium next June 30. He said that even without the tobacco tax, that on soft drinks and the extra dig on gasoline sales, there would be a surplus of $100 million. And that's gravy, mind you, meaning more than was anticipated in the budget of the biennium, and which could well be applied toward relief for the taxpayer.

In addition, there will be the hundreds of millions of dollars that will come to the State from Federal revenue sharing. That should never have been provided by the government, which doesn't have the money in the first place, and which in the end, as Senator Ervin has said, will become a burden of itself on taxpayers. Washington will have to produce the cash and its only source is by borrowing and a higher budget deficit.

Holshouser envisioned what he called "the largest increase in revenue in State history, just from normal economic growth, in excess of $500 million." He plans, as he said, to "pry loose the fat from State government." In that, the governor will have the support of most citizens. He proposed repeal of the tax on medicines, which ought to be done by unanimous assent of the Legislature. Actually, it should never have been imposed. It is a tax on health, or at least the effort of the individual to protect his health.

The fact that Holshouser is of a different political faith than that which has operated State government since the beginning of this century does not in the least minimize his thinking or his ability to accomplish improvements for the good of the people.

He stands on the threshold of a great opportunity, and should not be throttled merely in the name of politics.

Strength For Today Stereotypes Fall Before Facts

WHAT IS FREEDOM?
 We live in an age characterized by freedom. There is no word more precious in the vocabulary of modern man than the word "freedom." Deprived of this freedom we are dead whether the undertaker knows it or not.

What is the meaning of the word "freedom"? Does freedom mean that we can do anything that we want to do at any time that we want to do it? Not at all. A thoroughly selfish and unsatisfactory life is based on the determination to have one's way. But if we are committed to this philosophy of life we shall soon find ourselves in a desperately unhappy state. Friends will forsake us. Business opportunities will pass by. Promotions will go to someone else, not to us. We are perfectly free to do what we want to do in all spheres unless our actions become so antisocial that the law steps in and takes a hand. Otherwise we can go along doing about as we want to do.

But we had better be careful—that is, if we want to get along in business or have a lot of friends and a happy home. Freedom has been an ideal for which millions of men have died on the battlefield. It can really be said that satisfactory living is not possible without freedom. Yet if we think that freedom means doing what we want to do at any time we want to do it, we had better do a little straight thinking about what life really means after all.

 NEW YORK (AP) — We live in an age when myths are exploded like strings of firecrackers, unimpaired that, before the echo is lost and the debris settles, we will have developed another set.

While a new stereotype of women may be forming, for example, the old one still is remembered and, to some extent, even acted out by those who were brought up in its image.

This is revealed by an investigation of male-female job attitudes and beliefs, made at the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

One conclusion, reported in the ISR Newsletter: "Much of the difference in attitudes and beliefs can be attributed to early childhood socialization which prepares males and females to fulfill different work and family roles as adults.

"But, additional social forces which act on men and women workers later in life, such as educational and professional training or the demands of the job itself, have some influence on job-related attitudes."

For the most part, however, the stereotypes were destroyed by facts. Among the stereotypes:

— "American women work just for pin money. The assumption is that they are supported economically by men. But, say the researchers, the data prove it wrong."

"Two out of every five working women could not be regarded as economically dependent on a male wage earner, be he either a husband or a father. A third of the women in the sample were the sole wage earners...."

—"Women are less concerned than men with getting ahead in their jobs." The researchers found "no difference between men and women in terms of the importance they attached to having a job where the chances for promotion are good."

However, there is a difference, probably the result of conditioning. When asked of their present job, "Approximately when would you like to take on a job at a higher level?" many women said they never wanted to be promoted.

—"Women are more concerned than men with the socioemotional aspects of their jobs." The researchers found only one basic difference between men and women on this score and, therefore, found the statement essentially correct.

The one difference was that more women than men said that it was very important to them that their coworkers be friendly and helpful. The researchers tended to discount even this difference and explained:

The source of the sex difference was really the fact that women are over-represented in jobs demanding interpersonal relations. "Without friendly and helpful coworkers, their job performance might be impaired."

Schooldays at Butterfield Elementary School, in the north Chicago suburb of Libertyville, are no longer quite the same old golden rule days...

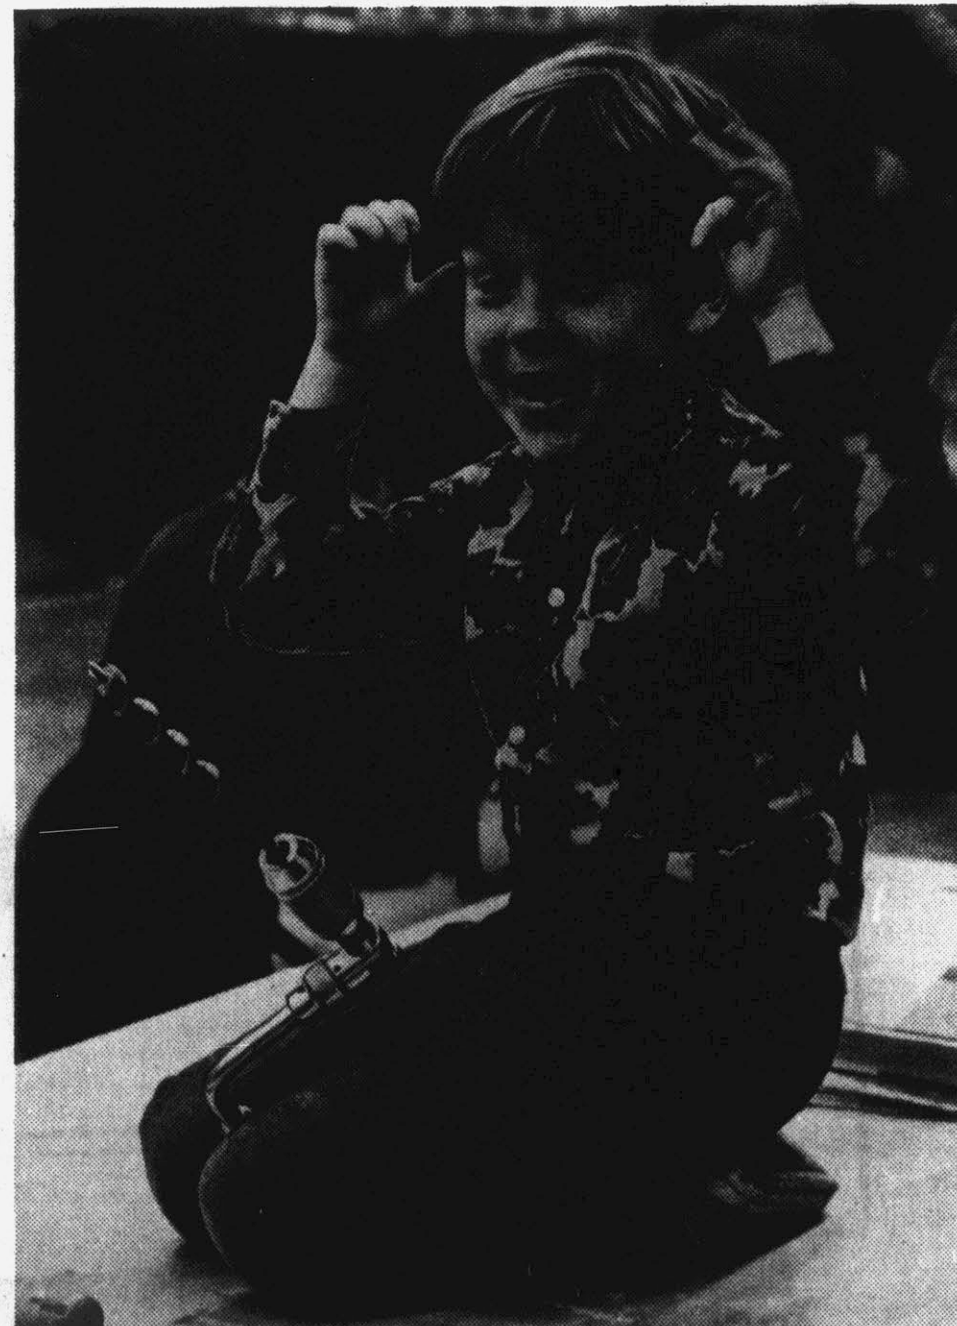

... And yet—the school's innovative "open" program still has something in common with the little old one-room schoolhouse: students of all grades assemble together, in the subject areas into which school space is divided instead of closed-off classrooms. The school has nearly 700 first through eighth graders, who can earn the privilege of taking over the planning of their own study programs when they've shown themselves capable of doing so. When they reach that point, they can sign themselves up for the classes they choose, when they choose, with the teacher they choose—subject to approval and with teachers' advice on devising a balanced schedule.

Photographed by Charles Knoblock.

In other ways, Butterfield is unlike the one-room school. In getting down to study literally, for example, sitting on the floor around one's teacher. And in the kind of learning that's not confined to rows of desks—like developing a taste for cookery, below, and coming to grips with carpentry, right.

Campaign Finance Law Will Face Revision Efforts

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new law regulating campaign finances, fresh from its first election-year test, faces sure-fire attempts to roll back its key reform provisions early in the next Congress.

A key target is expected to be a provision banning indirect contributions by government contractors.

The Federal Elections Campaign Act, which limits the amount candidates for Congress and president can spend on advertising and requires full reporting of the sources, and uses of campaign funds, was passed by Congress last January.

But during the closing days of Congress, efforts were made to salvage affiliated political funds, a ploy used by big corporations and labor unions to contribute to political campaigns.

These gifts are virtually outlawed under the out-of-court settlement last summer of a lawsuit by Common Cause against one of the funds. Attempts at repealing the section on which the suit was based failed only after Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., threatened a filibuster.

But both sides expressed the certainty that the battle would be resumed in the new year.

Other efforts are expected to try to reduce the number of reports candidates are required to file on their gifts, to eliminate reports in off-years and to strike the requirement that reports include the occupation and business address of each donor.

The new rules brought some howls during their first testing this fall from those who thought they were too restrictive and liable to shut off the sources of campaign financing.

The affiliated political funds brought the loudest complaints. These funds are built from collections taken by corporations and unions from their employees or members and given out by the company or union to candidates who can help the donor.

Unions and corporations are not allowed to give their own money to political candidates, but by using money collected from employees, they can achieve the same effect. It's not company money, but the recipient knows full well he gets it at the company's grace.

The catch is that the law apparently bans even this kind of giving from corporations and unions which have government contracts. This knocks out most big corporations and a number of unions.

The practice had gone unchallenged until Common Cause, a citizens' group, sued TRW Inc., a major government contractor which had what was considered the prototype of af-iliated political funds.

TRW dissolved its fund rather than defend it in court, and a number of other corporations followed.

But others resisted, especially after Rep. Sam Devine, R-Ohio, introduced a bill to repeal the ban.

The AFL-CIO, which operates a large funding operation of this type, mounted a massive lobbying effort behind the repealer in an unusual harmony with the business community.

The repealer whistled through the House without committee hearings shortly before adjournment, but Proxmire and others stopped it from coming to the Senate floor.

Women March Toward Full Equality In ROTC

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International
Women are marching toward equality on campus this fall to a hup-two-three-four cadence.

For the first time in its history, the Army ROTC has enrolled coeds on 10 of the 293 campuses on which its military science curriculum is offered.

More than 200 coeds so far have joined up, and the figures are not yet complete. If the girls stay with the program they will be eligible for the scholarships—and the Army commissions—until now reserved only for male students.

The Air Force has had ROTC women for several years and Army ROTC units had auxiliaries, "cadets" or mascots who participated in part of the program but were not eligible for scholarships and commissions.

The Army ROTC speaks of its coed program as a "limited test for women." An ROTC spokesman in New York explained that his organization wanted to "get the feel of input and output" and added:

"What if we opened up the program to women at 290 schools and wound up with 40,000 women? What would we do with 40,000 female officers?"

The colleges now open to women ROTC students are Eastern Kentucky University, Penn State University, Florida State University, South Carolina State College, Louisiana State University, Indiana University, Texas A&I University, South Dakota State University, Arizona State University and the University of Hawaii.

Firearms Voluntary

The girls in ROTC are taking basically the same program as their male counterparts, although marksmanship and bearing arms are on a voluntary basis. Details have not yet been worked out about what the girls will do in more advanced ROTC courses, which include forced marches, combat training and summer training programs.

Lt. Col. Norman R. Anderson, associate professor of military science at South Dakota State University in Brookings, explained one reason for the Army's expanding its ROTC to include women. He said the Defense Department plans to expand the woman's role in the Army by 1976 when the freshman women now enrolled in the program will be commissioned.

He added the ROTC isn't changing its method of operation because women are in the program—the women are making the adjustment, not the ROTC.

The exception might be uniforms.

The girls in the program say they are attracted by the scholarships, by the appeal of a new avenue of study, and by the possibility of the Army as a career. A number of them are the daughters of service personnel.

Nancy Wall, of Wishawaka, Ind., one of the 15 freshman coeds in the Indiana University program at Bloomington, said of her reasons for joining:

"For one thing, my father was in the service 22 years and I was aware of a lot of opportunities in military service most girls do not realize. I am not sure how I am going to like it, but I think there are things you get from the Army and kinds of experience you can't beat."

Likes Scholarship

Many of the girls, such as Sylvia Diaz, 18, a freshman at Texas A&I at Kingsville, are interested in the ROTC scholarship program and believe they will stick out the four-year course. Because of its four-year nature, the Army ROTC is primarily interested in freshmen, although because this is the first year it is open to women, it also is accepting some sophomores. Juniors and seniors may take it for their own interest.

"I think I'll stick it out," Miss Diaz said. "It's pretty interesting. I might make it a career. I'm going for a four-year scholarship. The scholarship is a pretty good deal. You get all your tuition, fees and books and $100 a month."

Many of the girls said they have taken some good-natured ribbing on their ROTC status, and a few mentioned that their boyfriends were less than enthusiastic.

There has been no difficulty reported, however, from the male side of the ROTC. Typical of the reaction was that of Tom Dyke, of Ashland, Ky., a political science major at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, who said:

"Women are all talking about increased roles in society and this is just one more opportunity for them."

What to do? They have moved in. They have taken up housekeeping. Last week Rosebud hung out a line of wash. Lord Macaulay has taken to sitting around the tennis court by evening, in white ruffled shirt and black smoking jacket, smoking a thin cigar. We are having a flossy party next week for the press. Suppose the Washington Post contingent comes up the drive, and za-ap! It boggles the mind.

One distant friend has suggested that Lord Macaulay and his paramour be trapped alive and transported. Some months ago when the chipmunks and squirrels were stealing our bird feeders blind, I bought two Hav-a-Hart traps, one small, one middle-sized, but I never had the heart to set the big one and the small one caught nothing but Charlie the chipping sparrow. It caught him twice and he was plenty burned up. Besides, how would you get a live skunk out of the trap?

So there is the problem. It is not exactly a monumental problem, compared to those that afflict the larger world, but it worries me. Rosebud was grubbing away last night within 25 yards of the house. If Dr. Kissinger will hurry up and settle this Vietnam thing, perhaps he could run out some weekend and negotiate a truce with these characters. Otherwise we may have to let Lord Macaulay referee the next tournament, and who wants this guy to keep score?

No Lead Tinsel This Christmas

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says that "not a single strand" of lead Christmas tree tinsel should be found on store shelves this Yule season.

"It's gone. We have assurances that not one ounce will be sold this year," said Malcolm "Mac" Jensen, director of FDA's Bureau of Product Safety.

Last Christmas the agency was accused of agreeing secretly with several lead tinsel manufacturers not to publicize an understanding that production would stop Jan. 1, 1972, but sales could continue through the 1972 Christmas season.

Jensen denies it.

"There was never any effort to hide it," he said in an interview. "The decision was made internally not to publicize it because we feared that many people preferring the lead variety would stockpile it."

After the charges of secret-dealing surfaced, Jensen said, "We got back to the industry and said, 'You haven't got a saleable product anymore. You might as well get out of the lead business.'"

At the same time, he said, the FDA asked customs agents to freeze any lead tinsel imports.

The FDA campaign is based on persuasion of manufacturers and importers following a conclusion by FDA in August 1971 that lead tinsel was an unnecessary risk to children with symptoms of lead poisoning. No absolute ban was imposed, Jensen said, for lack of medical verification to declare lead icicles a "health hazard."

Plant inspections have shown that no lead tinsel is being made in the United States, Jensen said, and customs officials have not reported any foreign products arriving here.

"We have assurances in writing from all manufacturers and importers that absolutely none will be distributed this year," he said.

Great Bourbon never does. It takes the choicest grain. Pure limestone springwater. Years of aging in charred oak barrels. And plenty of time, patience and hard work. Everything required of a Great Bourbon goes into the distilling of every bottle of Echo Spring. Is it all worth it? Don't ask. Sip.

Police Chief Died Monday

ROBERSONVILLE — Jimmy Bernard Bullock, chief of police of Robersonville for the past nine years, died Monday afternoon in Duke Hospital.

Bullock, 62, was a native of Robersonville. He was the son of Ed Bullock of Robersonville and the late Rosa Ross Bullock. He was a member of the First Christian Church of Robersonville where he was a past deacon. He was also a member of the Stonewall Masonic Lodge.

Bullock had been in declining health since Oct. 1 and a patient at Duke Hospital since Oct. 7. He was married to Louise Smith on May 20, 1941.

Surviving in addition to his wife and father, are four brothers, Mayhew Bullock of Tarboro, Cecil Bullock of Williamston, Wallace R. Bullock and Jesse Bullock, both of Robersonville; one sister, Mrs. Hazel Everett of Williamsburg, Va.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at Biggs Funeral Chapel, Robersonville, by the Rev. Donald Weaver and the Rev. John Browning. Burial will follow in the Robersonville Cemetery.

Will Walk, Run Around State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire is going to expand his five-mile-a-day habit to a 1,200-mile walking and running tour around his home state of Wisconsin.

Proxmire, the 57-year-old physical fitness buff who runs five miles to Capitol Hill each day, termed the tour, "My idea of having a ball." He does not run for re-election until 1976.

He said he wanted to do it so he could talk with the people, the farmer in the barn and the mechanic in the grease pit.

Proxmire, a Democrat, said he would space his trip through late fall and winter, with the first 250-mile segment starting next week. He plans to run 10 miles a day and walk another 15 to 20 through such towns next week as South Milwaukee, Racine, Lead Mine, Hazel Green, Fair Play and Footville.

Carson Advised Try, Try Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson brought his "Tonight" show back to New York City and got a greeting and some advice about marriage from Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay appeared Monday night as a guest on the first "Tonight" program taped in New York since the late night talk show moved to California several months ago. The show will remain in New York for three weeks.

Lindsay congratulated Carson on his recent marriage, compared marriage to politics and said, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Carson's response: "But, I hope to get better at it."

Orders Lansky To Face Trial

MIAMI (AP) — Meyer Lansky, the reputed underworld financial wizard, has been ordered to stand trial Jan. 19, 1973, on criminal contempt of court charges.

U.S. District Court Judge James L. King on Monday set the date for trial on the charge returned by a grand jury after Lansky failed to appear in Miami in response to a subpoena delivered to him in Israel in June 1971.

Lansky returned to the United States last Tuesday after Israel ordered him to leave and he could not find a country that would accept him. FBI agents arrested him when his plane arrived here.

He entered Mt. Sinai Hospital the day after his arrival for treatment of a heart ailment.

ple," Friday continued, "we don't need several schools of social work of journalism."

Under the new structure, a single, unified budget request is presented to the Advisory Budget, Commission for the 16 campuses, Friday explained.

Funds for continuing operation, he said, go directly to the individual campuses when approved, while funds for new programs — the old "B" budget requests — "go in a lump sum to the Board of Governors for allocation to the campuses."

Friday emphasized the desire of the Board of Governors to "decentralize as much as possible" in order to keep the identity of the individual campuses. "This is as it should be," he said.

"I am for institutional uniqueness," he noted, saying the new structure is "a means to an end . . . designed to build better public higher education in the state."

He told the professors, "one of the first tasks is trying to reassert higher education in the state."

Universities, he said, should be "centers of reason . . . free debate," where the young and old can be taught.

And, he noted, centers of higher education should "give students a total learning experience," including travel and independent study. "We've got to find ways to provide dynamic campus environments."

Adding "all of our instructors have parts to play," Friday said professors must have a "willingness to innovate."

"I wish for you to understand, we deeply appreciate the face that quality rests with the faculties and not with the Chancellors or Trustees of the individual schools."

During a question and answer session, Friday explained that members of the Board of Governors are elected by the General Assembly and the Board of Governors elects the president.

Local boards of trustees, Friday said, are composed of 13 members — eight named by the Board of Governors, four appointed by the incumbent Governor and the 13th, the president of the school's student body.

Under the new system, the local board of trustees establishes a screening committee which recommends two candidates for chancellor of the school to the UNC president who in turn makes his choice known to the Board of Governors which makes the final decision.

At the close of the meeting, Friday told the gathering, "congratulations on the Southern Conference championship. A week from Saturday I'll be sitting there looking. Some Absolved Of Disobedience

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Charges against a few of the 123 seamen who refused to return to the carrier Constellation after being put ashore have been dismissed, the Navy says.

"There have been a few," a spokesman said, but he declined to say how many men were cleared of charges that they were absent without authorization.

The decision, he said, was "a combination of things and left up to the commanding officer who reviewed each man's records and made up his own mind about him."

The punishment meted out to the others ranged from fines to reduction in rank and extra duties, the spokesman said.

The seamen protesting alleged racial discrimination on the supercarrier appeared in a steady stream before Capt. Robert McKenzie, commanding officer of North Island Naval Air Station to which the men were assigned last Thursday. Earlier, they stood for eight hours beside the Constellation but refused an order to go aboard as civilian attorneys talked with naval officers.

Individual counseling by human resources personnel was started, meanwhile, in what the Navy said was an attempt to resolve the whole situation.

In Washington, meanwhile, House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert announced establishment of a special subcommittee to investigate "alleged racial and disciplinary problems" on the Constellation and the carrier Kitty Hawk.

"I share the concern of many members of Congress over the apparent breakdown of discipline in the United States Navy," the Louisiana Democrat said in making the announcement Monday.

Two Teacher Union Locals Chartered

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Two more North Carolina teacher union locals — representing Forsyth and Guilford counties — received charters from the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, in ceremonies at Winston-Salem Monday night. The AFT chartered locals in Greensboro and High Point earlier this year.

Officials of the locals have not given out membership figures. About 120 persons attended the presentation meeting.

North Carolina AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby told the meeting he expects another two AFT locals to be chartered in the state before January. But Hobby did not say where they would be.

The charters were presented by David Selden, AFT president. He said there is a need for redistribution of power in American education, and that teachers "cannot tolerate the failures" of the present system.

Selden added that the primary need is for more power for teachers and that the National Education Association is doing too little to provide that power. The NEA has a majority of the nation's teachers as members.

Get Welfare Fraud Terms 'Suspended'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Eight mothers who pleaded guilty to welfare fraud have had their two-year prison terms suspended, on several conditions.

The women, who admitted they misrepresented their incomes in order to get bigger welfare checks, had spent the weekend in jail because Chief District Judge William H. Abernathy wanted them to get a taste of what jail was like before sentencing them on Monday.

Abernathy sentenced the women to two-year terms Monday. Then he suspended them with the stipulation that each pay a fine equal to one tenth of the amount of welfare they were accused of obtaining illegally.

The judge also told them that if they became pregnant, they must report the fact to their case worker from the Mecklenburg County Department of Social Services.

The eight women were among 11 persons facing trial on welfare fraud charges stemming from alleged infractions from 1970 through this year.

The Department of Social Services said the women were employed but did not inform their case workers, thereby receiving more money in welfare payments than they were entitled to, the department charged.

good insulation

Looking for ways to save money? Don't overlook insulation.

Heating engineers say that 4 inches of high quality thermal insulation will retain as much heat as a concrete wall 15 feet thick. They also point out that many homeowners lose large amounts of heat in winter through inadequate insulation. This can waste money and cause discomfort.

You save three ways with good insulation.

- First, you use less heat in winter.
- Second, you can operate an air conditioner more economically in the summer.
- Third, you are able to heat or cool with smaller, less expensive equipment, thus reducing installation costs.

Stoughton, Crumpler Players Of The Week

East Carolina University's Southern Conference championship Saturday afternoon propelled two of the Bucs into league honors this week.

Carlester Crumpler, the 6-5, 205 pound running back, was selected as Offensive Player of the Week in the conference, it was announced last night.

Then, this morning, it was also announced that Terry Stoughton, a 6-0, 175-pound senior halfback, was chosen as the league's Defensive Player of the Week.

It marked the first time this year that two Pirates had been named to the dual honors. For Crumpler, it was the second time he's been picked this year.

Stoughton and Crumpler both were key factors in the Pirate victory over William & Mary Saturday, bringing the Bucs their first outright Southern Conference title.

Stoughton, a physical education major from Ft. Scott, Kan., was a terror for the Indian ball carriers. He made five tackles, two of them saving touchdowns. He caused two fumbles (which the Bucs recovered) and intercepted a pass. He knocked down three other passes during the afternoon.

One of the touchdown saving tackles came at a key time, right after the Pirates had scored their first touchdown. Indian quarterback Bill Deery broke loose on an option, and appeared to be going all the way. But Stoughton came from across the field, had to go around an official in the way and then run down Deery from behind. But he did the job, and a few plays later, the Bucs picked off another William & Mary fumble.

"If we've ever had a legitimate Player of the Week, then he's it," Coach Sonny Randle said after the game.

Crumpler, meanwhile, continued to grind out the yardage, making him one of the leading rushers in the country.

The junior from Wilson carried the ball 34 times for 124 yards and scored three touchdowns. "He got the yardage when we needed it," Randle said.

Crumpler came up with key yardage in tough situations, especially late in the game when the Pirates had to control the football against the rallying Indians.

His yardage brought his total to 1,005 yards, within striking distance of the school and conference records. His three touchdowns upped his total to 78 points, among the best, if not the best in the league, and left him only three touchdowns short of the school and conference marks.

And his 34 carries brought his total for the year to 275, snapping the conference and school records held by Butch Colson, another former Buc.

The Pirates end their 1972 home season Saturday afternoon, playing the surprising University of Dayton Flyers. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Purple-Gold Cage Game Set

The East Carolina University basketball team for 1972-73 will go on display Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the annual Purple-Gold basketball game.

Coach Tom Quinn has divided his team into two groups, eight on each, and will regulate the coaching duties to his two assistants, Art Tolas and Dave Patton.

Tolas will handle the Purple team (which will be wearing white for the game). The team will consist of Al Faber, Roger Atkinson, Tom Marsh, Eugene Walcott, Randy McCullen, Fred Stone, Jerome Owens and Earl Quash.

The Gold team, to be coached by Patton, will feature Nicky White, Dave Franklin, Ray Peszko, Dave McNeill, Ernie Pope, Ken Edmonds, Al Edwards and William Hall.

Admission will be $1 for non-ECU students, who will be admitted on their IDs.

The Pirates this year will be out to replace only one starter, but Coach Quinn admits that this might be a tough job. The lost starter is Jim Fairley, who was the team's Most Valuable Player.

"White may be his replacement," he said, "but can he do the job Fairley did. I'm sure that he can replace him as far as scoring and defense is concerned, but Jim was the man we could count on for a rebound when we needed it, and Nicky must assume this."

While Fairley was one of the league's top rebounders, the top man, Al Faber is one of those who returns for his senior year. "We know that he can do the job in all categories," Quinn said.

Co-Captain Dave Franklin, Quinn noted, has a somewhat spotty record last year, performing like a pro in some games, and not so well in others. "I think he's going to be much more consistent this year, and may be one of our steadiest ball players."

Another man who might be in the starting lineup is 6-4 Roger Atkinson, a transfer student. "He's a real leaper despite his size," Quinn said. "He could be a key player and he'll be playing a lot. He's the only lefty in our program, and I fine it good to have one or two of these."

Another newcomer, Wolcott, could give back-up depth at the pivot position, but Quinn feels he needs to work harder to gain this.

"Owens played out of position last year (at the point) and may have to do it again this year. But he's one of our strongest players. He can take the big men underneath and kill them. We want him to shoot more, but he's a real unselfish player," Quinn said.

Quash is another player who is playing out of his position, and the coach said that he's getting competition for his job. "I don't know if this is going to be good or bad for him. I hate to have someone who started as a junior get beaten out as a senior," Quinn said.

Giving him the battle is Ernie Pope, the hero of the Southern Conference tournament last year. Pope came off the bench in every game to average over 12 points and control the tempo of the game. He probably is the first man in Southern history to make the first team All-Tournament squad as a reserve.

"He could be our point guard," Quinn said. "But David McNeill could also break into the lineup. He really didn't compete for a job last year, but he's smooth and entertaining, and we'll be playing him more this year. He'll make us much stronger at the guard position."

Another man who's looking good in drills is sophomore Tom Marsh, a walk-on last year for the freshmen. "He's looking good in practice, and he jumps well. He could be one of our top back-up men."

Quinn also feels that Ray Peszko has improved a great deal and will be seeing a lot of action.

"We have only three freshmen this year," Quinn said, "all guard-types." He pointed out that this spring the Bucs will lose a lot of their front line with Faber, Franklin and several others graduation. "But we lose all of our guards, so we have to replace them now."

Kenny Edmonds is a natural point man, but so far in practice he's been somewhat erratic, Quinn said. Randy McCullen may be the best pure shooter on the team from 20 feet. And Al Edwards, a highly touted player from Long Island hasn't come as quickly as Quinn would like, and is going to take time to come around. "He's not a pure guard, but one of those inbetweeners who's got to learn a new position."

Quinn feels that the Pirates are solid. "We have good players who deserve post season honors. We have more depth, and we have plenty of experience. We outrebounded Furman by 20 in the final game of the tournament, and we'll continue to be a strong rebounding team. I think we'll also be a better defensive team this year too."

The Bucs will open defense of their Southern Conference championship early, meeting Davison in the third game of the season. Their first game will be against Baltimore on November 28, in Minges Coliseum.

Contest Winners

Steve Camp of 104 Garnett St., Greenville is the winner of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Camp correctly picked the winners in 24 of the 32 games this past week.

Second place went to Barbara Stancil of 509 W. Haven Dr., Ayden, who had 23 of the 32 right.

The final contest of the year appears in today's Reflector.

Bryant: Alabama Best; Carolina Up To 16th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The best football team in the country is only No. 2 in the Associated Press college football poll, according to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant.

"The way I see it, the team that improves the most over a season should be No. 1," says Bryant. "And I think that we have improved tremendously."

Alabama, still second to Southern California in this week's poll, won the Southeastern Conference title Saturday with a 35-21 rout of sixth-ranked Louisiana State. Bryant thinks it proved something.

"It was a great win for a great football team against a great team," said Bryant, overflowing with superlatives.

Before Saturday's convincing victory over the Tigers, Bryant said he thought that perhaps Southern Cal and Michigan might be better than his team. But not now.

"The polls have not been important until now," said Bryant. "But with the season coming to an end, they become very important—especially at the top of the list. As I see it, there's plenty of room at the top for us."

Southern Cal, Alabama and Michigan, the only major teams with perfect records, remained 1-2-3 in the AP ratings, released Monday.

Pacesetter since the first week of the season, Southern Cal received 42 first-place votes and 984 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Alabama held onto second with five ballots for first place and 890 points. Michigan, the only other team to get first-place votes with three, was third on a total of 812 points.

Nebraska, most everyone's pre-season choice to maintain its No. 1 spot from last year, fell to fifth place as a result of Saturday's 23-23 tie with Iowa State. The Cornhuskers dropped out of the top spot after losing to UCLA on opening day.

Oklahoma, a 17-6 conquerer of Missouri this past weekend, rose from seventh to fourth. The rest of this week's Top Ten included: sixth ranked Penn State; seventh-ranked Texas; No. 8 Louisiana State; No. 9 Ohio State and No. 10 Notre Dame.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc.:

1. Southern Cal (42)	984
2. Alabama (5)	890
3. Michigan (3)	812
4. Oklahoma	654
5. Nebraska	527
6. Penn State	450
7. Texas	437

8. Louisiana State	397

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1925 by Dick Dunkel.

Wake's Ramsey Says He'll Try To Get His Old Job Back In '73

Petty, Running As Hard As He Wanted To, Happy With The Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Wake Forest has become a football team again, its ace punter, Chuck Ramsey, is going to try to win back next season the quarterback job he gave up.

He was the starting quarterback in the first four games this season—a victory over Davidson followed by losses to Southern Methodist, Tennessee and Maryland—but hasn't played the position since.

"Tennessee beats a lot of teams that had at Tennessee (45-6)," Ramsey said in an interview Monday. "I wasn't sure about the season until we played a conference team."

"After the Maryland game I really became discouraged. I really lost a lot of desire. I just quit the team as a quarterback. I told the coaches I would just kick."

"Everybody was under a lot of pressure and criticism then. I really didn't know if it was worth it. I had never been on a winning team in football or basketball until last year," said the junior from Knoxville, Tenn. "This season reminded me of high school and I wanted out of the rat race. There was a lot of dissension."

"It seemed we went out knowing we were going to get beat. We wanted to hurry and get it over with. I don't know what triggered thoughts like that."

With Kit Basler injured, Ramsey's decision left the quarterbacking to Andy Carlton, a freshman. The Wake Forest Deacons went on to lose seven straight.

But last Saturday, after it had been announced that Coach

Tom Harper was being replaced at the end of the season, the Deacons rode an emotional wave and upset Duke, 9-7. The margin was Ramsey's 26-yard field goal on Wake's first possession. He also averaged 44 yards on his four punts, and ranks fifth nationally with a 43.9 average on 62 kicks. The Deacons won their third straight over the Blue Devils on a 28-yard run by Ken Garrett with 54 seconds left.

"I'm going back to quarterback next year," Ramsey said.

"I can run the veer, but I'm not that fond of it. I'm more of a dropback and sprintout quarterback. I'm going to try to stay in shape all winter and try to get the job back."

Wake Forest will be home to Virginia on Saturday. In other games for Atlantic Coast Conference teams that day, Duke will be at North Carolina in a regionally televised game, Clemson will be at North Carolina State, and Maryland will have an open date.

Although the loss to Wake Forest ended the Duke's chances for the ACC title, the Blue Devils still have a lot to gain in the tradition game against North Carolina. A victory in this, their final game of the season, would leave them with a winning season at 6-5. It also would avenge last season's 38-0 loss to the Tar Heels, who now have won the conference championship for the second year in a row.

Duke Coach Mike McGee said he expects three players who missed the Wake Forest game because of injuries to be ready for North Carolina. They are fullback Mike Bomgardner, defensive end Melvin Parker, and receiver Rich Brienza.

North Carolina is ranked No. 16 in this week's Associated Press poll, a jump of two places.

North Carolina had received mention last week, although not making the top 20. But the Wolfpack is not mentioned this week after losing 37-22 to Penn State, which has jumped from 10th to sixth place. On Monday, N.C. State Coach Lou Holtz criticized his defense for allowing the long plays to Penn State, and his offense for failure to control the line of scrimmage. He told the squad he was pleased with the performance of fullback Stan Fritts, quarterback Bruce Shaw and guard Bill Yoest. The Wolfpack held a light workout.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Petty is particularly happy with the way he won the NASCAR Grand National stock car racing championship—running flat out all the way.

Petty, who arrived here Monday to appear for his sponsor, STP Corporation, at a trade show at the Los Angeles Convention Center, finished third Sunday in the final NASCAR race of the year, the Texas World 500.

His crew called him on the two-way car radio in his STP Plymouth at about the 190th lap of the 250-lap race at College Station, Tex., to tell him when he clinched the title, Petty said.

"I think I was leading the race at the time," the four-time champ said. "They told me I could run as hard as I wanted to, and I still wound up third at the end."

This wasn't the most satisfying season he has ever enjoyed, Petty said, because he didn't win as many races as he wanted to and he has won more prize money before.

"But we're really fortunate," he said. "We didn't have to do any stroking to try to make the car last to get points. I was able to run all the races just as hard as I wanted to run."

"It's good to be able to say you won the championship and say you ran wide open all year."

Even though Petty is the champion, he remains highly critical of NASCAR's system of declaring a champion, which awards points to every driver in each race and fractional points for every lap completed.

"I'm probably the one who has screamed the loudest about the way the points are set up," Petty said. "It's not a good way. It was very conceivable that someone could have won the championship and not finished in the first five all year long."

"It's pretty hard to explain to people that you have a champion who never won a race and didn't ever finish good. I'd say any time you have a point system like that it should be overhauled."

Petty returns Wednesday to family's racing compound in Level Cross, N.C., to begin preparations for the 1973 season. First on the agenda, he said, will be wind tunnel testing of the new Plymouth and Dodge stock cars to determine which will have better aerodynamics for the super speedways.

Petty claimed all season that he was at a disadvantage to the Chevrolet of his most intense rival, Bobby Allison, and he continues to insist that new carburetor restriction rules for next year, just announced by NASCAR, will favor Allison's Chevy even more next season than they did this year.

Both Petty and Allison won more than $200,000 in prize money and came down to the final race, the Texas World 500 last Sunday, before the title was decided.

Faculty Asking Athletic Study

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The undergraduate faculty of Wake Forest University has voted that an ad hoc committee be appointed to make "a thorough study of the athletic program" at the institution.

The motion was approved by a 107-32 vote of the faculty Monday at its regular monthly meeting. It says an ad hoc committee will be appointed by the dean of the college and that it will report by February.

The motion to appoint the committee was a substitute for one that the Faculty Athletics Committee "investigate the possibility of Wake Forest withdrawing from the Atlantic Coast Conference and joining an intercollegiate conference of schools which more closely resemble Wake Forest in size and goals."

Athletic Director Gene Hooks said he welcomed the study.

"Some of you should get in and share this misery," he told the faculty.

Hooks and the school have been criticized since head football Coach Tom Harper was dismissed Nov. 6. He will be relieved of his duties at the end of the season.

Harper's team lost seven games straight after winning its opener against Davidson of the Southern Conference and then defeated Duke University of the ACC last Saturday.

Bengston Gets Patriots Job

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer
FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Phil Bengston, who helped Vince Lombardi take the Green Bay Packers from a doormat to five National Football League championships and victories in the first two Super Bowls, was set to tackle another tough job today as interim coach of the New England Patriots.

Bengston, an outstanding tackle at the University of Minnesota before his graduation in 1935, was named to lead the Patriots for the remainder of the season Monday night, just a few hours after John Mazur resigned in the wake of a 52-0 blitz by unbeaten Miami.

"It's for five games," New England General Manager Upton Bell said. "The money, the terms, just for five games. There was nothing else discussed with Bengston. He is a man respected throughout football and he's our head coach for the next five weeks."

Bengston, who left the San Francisco 49ers after eight years as an assistant coach to answer Lombardi's call to join him in Green Bay in 1969, was a surprise choice after Mazur became the Patriots' third coach in less than four years to leave the club.

Mazur, a former Notre Dame quarterback who also helped to build a couple of champions as an assistant coach with the Buffalo Bills, took over the Pa-triot's midway through the 1970 season when Clive Rush was asked to step out.

Mazur was given a one-year contract for 1971, before Bell was lured from the Baltimore Colts' front office. It was no secret that Bell wanted his own head coach, but he had to accept Mazur.

With the arrival of quarterback Jim Plunkett, the Patriots surprised everyone last season, compiling a 6-8 record. Bell thought he had authority to hire a new coach, but found out differently as the club's board of directors handed Mazur a new one-year contract.

Mazur and Bell disagreed on many things. Both had difficulty containing themselves to prevent a public airing of their troubles. The Patriots lost their season opener to Cincinnati, but then fashioned one-point upset victories over Atlanta and Washington.

Everything since has been downhill with both the offense, including Plunkett, and the defense at fault in six consecutive losses. After the 52-0 humiliation by the unbeaten Dolphins in Miami, and a review of a 2-7 record with only 109 points scored and 296 given up, Mazur called it quits.

Bengston, an assistant coach at Missouri and Stanford before joining the 49ers in 1951, comes to the Patriots from the San Diego Chargers, where he was defensive coordinator last year and director of pro scouting this season.

Browns Top Chargers In Game's Last Minute

By BOB EGELKO

Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — The trade that sent Cleveland Brown receiver Paul Warfield to Miami for a draft choice three years ago was greeted by cheers in Miami—and groans in Cleveland.

Both reactions grew louder last year when Warfield helped the Dolphins into the Super Bowl and Cleveland's draft choice, quarterback Mike Phipps, didn't play often or well.

But Brown Coach Nick Skorich isn't groaning today.

"I think it was one of the greatest trades the Browns have ever made," he said Monday night after Phipps' 38-yard touchdown pass to Frank Pitts with 41 seconds to play gave the Browns a 21-17 victory over the San Diego Chargers. It kept the Browns' National Football League playoff hopes alive.

"We had to give up a super receiver but we got a great young quarterback in Phipps," Skorich said. "He'll play 15-18 years."

The victory, before 54,202 and a national television audience, was the Browns' fourth straight and gave them a 6-3 record, one game behind Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central Division. They meet the Steelers twice in the next four weeks.

The Chargers, 2-6-1, dropped their fifth straight game after taking the lead with 1:21 to play on Mike Garrett's three-yard run.

Phipps, who spent his first two NFL seasons on the bench behind veteran Bill Nelsen, said he had planned to set up a game-tying field goal when the call for a long pass came in from the bench.

"It's hard to score in less than a minute," he said. "You have to think 'field goal' in a situation like that."

On the winning play, Phipps said, "I thought the pass was a little bit out of his (Pitts') reach."

The veteran Pitts had a wrenched back and said he hadn't expected to play. But besides the final pass, he caught four others and also got the Browns moving late in the first half with a 13-yard run on a flanker reverse.

San Diego Coach Harland Sware said his team "blew pass defenses all day long."

"Everybody wasn't playing the same defense, particularly on that last series," he said. "It's downright silly to let them go that long, that fast for a score."

San Diego's mistakes weren't limited to pass defense.

The Chargers fumbled the ball away twice, once on the Cleveland four-yard line after a 73-yard march.

Garrett gained 89 yards and running mate Cid Edwards pounded out 91, also catching a four-yard touchdown pass from John Hadl. On the Cleveland side, Leroy Kelly rushed for 67 yards, Phipps one yard for a touchdown and Ken Brown two yards for a score. Brown also ran 19 yards with a swing pass, on the play before the winning touchdown.

New York Met manager Yogi Berra's 20-year-old son Timmy is a flanker on the University of Massachusetts football team. He's a junior.

Iowa State May Be In Liberty

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Officials of the Memphis Liberty Bowl Football Classic knocked down reports Monday that the winner of Saturday's Missouri-Iowa State game is a shoe-in for a slot in the Dec. 18 bowl.

"Certainly, Iowa State is high on our list," said Tim Treadwell III of the bowl selection committee. "They're the Cinderella team this year. And Missouri is worthy of a bowl. But we've made no commitment of this nature."

Treadwell went on to add, "If possible, we'd like to have Oklahoma as our midwest representative."

Monday night, the selection committee was in session, looking over this week's Associated Press top 20 poll and discussing what games will be scouted this weekend and possible combinations for the Memphis clash.

Tennessee reportedly ranks high on the list of possible Liberty Bowl invitees, but that would apparently mean Iowa State would be out of the running, since the bowl would not likely to give Tennessee the nod against Iowa State, where former Tennessean Johnny Majors is coach. Meanwhile, Sugar Bowl president John Boebinger spent Monday in Memphis and said his organization is going after an Alabama-Nebraska clash.

A crowd of 8,804 turned out at the new Civic Center in Springfield, Mass., for the first Basketball Hall of Fame benefit game. The fans were rewarded with plenty as the Celtics rallied for a 119-117 exhibition victory.

The Celtics, who have won 13 of 14 NBA starts for the lead in the league's Atlantic Division, repeated their official 121-118 victory over the Pistons Saturday night at Boston Garden. They came from behind with a 30-point fourth period.

The game was strictly an exhibition, but there was some hot action. Detroit's Dave Bing suffered a three-stitch gash over his left eye in the first period, and Boston's Paul Silas and the Pistons' Willie Norwood exchanged punches without damage in the third quarter.

Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 27 points and 11 rebounds, while Jo Jo White contributed 20 points. John Mengelt of the Pistons topped all scorers with 28 points.

Certainly not! First place awards are not to be political bribes for winning votes! So it is high time we stopped sending selfish men to the U.S. Congress who are sabotaging our "free enterprise" society by pandering to the shiftless and poor producers.

Recently my son Philip, now Congressman from northern Illinois but a former PH.D. American History professor, addressed a high school group on our Chicago Northside.

Some of the students demanded that "corporations be taxed far more."

That's a common sop for votes by typical selfish politicians. "Don't you realize," Philip reminded these teen-agers, "that this plan would merely cost you average voters more money?"

"For the corporations just add those taxes as part of the original cost of the automobiles, shoes or fabrics which they produce."

"Then you consumers must pay those extra taxes!

"And by constantly picking on the corporations that furnish employment, you soon can kill the goose that lays the golden eggs of our luxurious American system."

"For if we tax corporations to the point where they can't match the prices of automobiles or shoes or fabrics imported from Japan and Germany, then our American firms go bankrupt. "Which then puts thousands of men and women out of jobs!"

"And also eliminates those firms from helping us meet our future staggering tax loads!" Well, those high schoolers had never thought of these salient facts!

But many selfish labor leaders and scheming politicians still routinely pick on the corporations and big employers.

Slight Damage In Minor Fire

Light smoke damage resulted Sunday when a faulty transformer in a fluorescent light fixture caused a small fire at Johnson's Furniture at West End Circle.

A passer-by discovered smoke in the building and notified the fire department at 7:35 p.m.

Responding firefighters said slight damage resulted to the ceiling in the building which was charred in a spot over the faulty light fixture and light smoke damage also resulted.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Richter Institute
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is excellent for whatever has to do with getting emotions and health problems improved. The afternoon and evening bring delays in working out a suitable course of action. Later you can replace depression with constructive action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show that you are able to put a fine new plan in operation that can bring real success. One who is usually helpful becomes irritable today, so avoid this person. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have a fascinating plan but it needs to be studied well from a standpoint of details. Show patience where new social conditions are concerned later in the day. Don't pressure anyone.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to understand how to handle obligations well, so get busy on them until they are completed. Do whatever will make your mate approve of you more. Be more conscientious.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An associate is most cooperative during the morning but stubborn later in the day. A public affair is best handled tomorrow since today could bring problems. Think cleverly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your intuition is working well in the morning so be sure to follow it at that time, since changing conditions later would do you no good. Show devotion to mate. Avoid gossip time wasters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have the right slant to make a fine deal with an associate in the morning, but it would be more difficult in the afternoon. An outside matter requires a calm attitude for right results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A new approach at your work is fine, but don't neglect perseverance that is so much a part of your nature. Don't overtax yourself with too much concentrated work. Plan some time for rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time for pleasure but don't permit a demanding friend to pull you away from important work you have to do. Use special care in handling project that is vital to your welfare.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There are problems at home that need early handling or they can get out of hand. Do away with articles that are no longer usable. Replace with the new and the functional. Be modern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Buy the appliances that will make your work easier and more efficient, but don't make radical changes. Take time to do necessary shopping but don't buy anything you don't need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go along with the advice a financial expert gives you although you are not in complete agreement. Study your budget well. Make sure not to invest more than you really can afford.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are more clairvoyant in the morning so carry through quickly and get right results. A new plan you have for entertaining should have the kinks ironed out so do just that.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can get along well with others and much can be accomplished if the timing is right. There is the possibility of trouble, not only to self but to close alliances. Self-control should be taught early and then this becomes a successful chart. There is much natural intelligence here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Undetected Gonorrhea Indicated

By FRANK CARÉY
AP Science Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A team of doctors has reported evidence suggesting that appreciable numbers of troops returning from Vietnam may have "silent" undetected gonorrhea that could have national implications unless the men are found and treated.

Indeed, the doctors told a scientific meeting Monday, it is possible that much of an already noted increasing resistance of gonorrhea germs in the United States to antibiotic wonder drugs has been due to "importation of resistant strains" by Vietnam returnees whose own transmissible infection was overlooked because they showed no symptoms.

The doctors recommended that all Vietnam returnees be screened by a new test they devised for diagnosing "silent" gonorrhea.

The doctors—of the University of Washington, Seattle, and the Army's Madigan General Hospital, Tacoma, Wash.—made their report to the centennial meeting of the American Public Health Association.

They did so in reporting evidence from limited studies of both civilians and military men that "asymptomatic" gonorrhea apparently is much more prevalent among males than previously thought. They defined asymptomatic gonorrhea as a gonorrhea infection which produces no symptoms in the male or female infected but may produce active disease if transmitted sexually.

The team, headed by Dr. H. Hunter Handsfield of the University of Washington, said of the latter findings:

"Traditionally, it has been assumed that gonorrhea produces a symptomatic disease in men and (an) asymptomatic infection in women. This has produced the corollary assumption that the principal reservoir of gonococcal infection in the community is the silent female carrier. Consequently, a great deal of effort is expended toward tracing these asymptomatic women."

The doctors reported finding, by a special diagnostic test, a "high prevalence" of asymptomatic gonorrhea among a small group of civilian men known to have been exposed to infected women.

They also reported testing 2,000 Vietnam returnees who were undergoing routine physical examinations at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and at Madigan Hospital immediately prior to discharge from the Army.

And they said that of those who had had sexual exposure during their years in Vietnam—a number they did not specify—2½ per cent were found to be infected but showing no symptoms.

Declaring the germs uncovered from the men were relatively resistant to antibiotics, the doctors said: Even though no more than 7,000 men per year carrying gonococci would have returned from Vietnam during peak involvement the rapid spread of these organisms through the community would have been facilitated by their resistance to the antibiotic regimens (lower dose schedules) in use prior to this year...

Recall Cars And Trucks

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling more than 155,000 vehicles to correct a design problem involving steering.

The recall involves intermediate size cars produced prior to Oct. 9. The cars recalled are the only ones on which major styling changes were made—Chevrolet Chevelle, Buick Century, Oldsmobile Cutlass, Pontiac LeMans, Grand Prix and Grand Am models, as well as Chevrolet El Camino and GMC Sprint trucks.

The steering problem could arise if the car's right front wheel was backed into a curb while turned fully to the left. GM said Monday this could push the steering linkage beyond its normal limit of travel, which would cause a "toe-in." The "toe-in," if not corrected, could cause a steering loss on the wheel which struck the curb.

However, GM said squealing front tires would alert the driver to the problem before the loss occurred. The problem will be corrected by installing a special bracket, at company cost, to keep the steering linkage from moving too far.

Although the firm has received 58 complaints—including a number from executives driving company-owned cars—a spokesman said the problem has caused no injuries or accidents.

the country annually originates in Southeast Asia.

In congressional testimony and in other public statements, federal officials previously have estimated that Southeast Asian countries accounted for between 5 and 15 per cent of the heroin sold to the U.S.

For example, in August, retired Marine Gen. Lewis Walt cited official estimates in reporting to a Senate committee that "Southeast Asian heroin accounts for no more than 10 to 15 per cent of the total traffic coming into this country."

Walt, a former commander of U.S. Marines in Vietnam, had been commissioned by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to investigate world drug traffic.

He noted that Southeast Asia is one of the most important opium growing areas in the world and said the area "will become an increasingly important source of illicit opiates now that Turkey is phasing out legal production." Heroin is produced from opium.

On June 9, Nelson Gross, State Department coordinator for international narcotics matters, told a congressional committee, "We estimate that probably only 5 per cent and certainly no more than 10 per cent of the heroin presently flowing to the United States originates in Southeast Asia."

At about that time, Sen. William B. Spong Jr., D-Va., submitted a series of questions about international drug traffic to John Ingersoll, head of BNDD. After some prodding, the answers recently came through and included the far higher estimates for Southeast Asia's share.

The BNDD report said its figures on the sources of heroin sold in the United States came from identification of traffickers. BNDD said 60 per cent of the heroin sold to U.S. addicts originated in the Near East and another 10 per cent in Mexico.

Some of the world's present languages existed as early as 1850 B.C.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠
Altho West got off to the killing lead against South's four spade contract, he did not follow up his initial advantage, and in the end his efforts went for nothing.

Holding four trumps, West chose to launch an assault against declarer's trump holding by playing a forcing game. He accordingly opened the ace of diamonds and when partner gave him a come-on by playing the eight, West continued with the jack which was ducked by all hands. A third round was covered by North's queen, East's king and ruffed by South with the deuce of spades.

The dummy was entered with a club, and the jack of spades was put thru for a finesse. West won the trick with the king and exited with a trump. South had just enough spades to draw all of his opponent's trumps. When he was finished, he claimed his contract, announcing that he would discard his small heart on North's fourth club.

West erred in winning his trump trick so quickly. The initial attack in diamonds had brought declarer down to his size in spades, and West should have endeavored to preserve the initiative by exhausting the dummy of its trumps first.

Observe the effect that can be obtained if West ducks not only the first, but also the second spade lead. The best declarer can do now, is to cash the ace of trumps, leaving the king outstanding, and then begin to run the clubs. West trumps the third round of clubs and leaving the latter permanently disconnected from the dummy. In the end, South must surrender a heart for the setting trick.

The Youth Vote Was There, And It Had An Impact

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
What happened to the youth vote?

It was there and it did have an impact. Younger and more liberal candidates won state legislative races and local contests in many parts of the country with a strong boost from first-time voters.

A University of Nebraska student unseated the chairman of the state legislature's executive board. A 26-year-old Vietnam veteran will replace the oldest member of Hawaii's house of representatives. And an anti-war farmer was elected county commissioner in Athens, Ohio, home of Ohio University.

A few candidates for Congress and statewide offices clearly won on their appeal to young voters. In many cases, however, older or more conservative candidates won despite immense losses in areas dominated by young voters.

The Rev. Andrew Young Jr., 40, the first black congressman from Georgia since Reconstruction, said young people were essential to his victory. "I don't think we could have done it without the help of the younger, more moderate voters in Atlanta," he said. In this year of President Nixon's landslide, the youth vote made little difference in the outcome of the presidential race. Campus precincts almost universally went for Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern, but this strength was seldom sufficient to carry counties or congressional districts for McGovern.

There were 25 million 18-to-25 year olds eligible to cast their first presidential election ballots on Tuesday. About 11 million of them were 18-to-20 year olds enfranchised when the 26th amendment lowered the voting age in federal elections.

Some political analysts, including ranking McGovern staffers, had contended that young people would be decidedly more liberal than other voters and could carry McGovern to victory. McGovern campaign officials last spring talked of winning 70 per cent of the youth vote.

Republican strategists argued that young voters would be no more liberal than anyone else, and insisted that the President would hold his own with them.

An extensive poll taken election day for CBS News by George Fine Research, Inc. of New York indicated that 18-to-24 year olds supported McGovern by a 52-46 margin.

The poll indicated that Nixon did hold his own among young voters. Those youth voters, however, gave McGovern about 14 per cent more support than the total electorate, which went to Nixon by a 61-38 margin. While the youth vote had little effect on the outcome, it would have been extremely important in a close race.

The impact of young voters in local elections was visible in elections around the country:

—With all but absentee ballots counted, Steve Fowler, 22, a University of Nebraska student, has apparently unseated state Sen. William Swanson, chairman of the legislative council executive board. Fowler will have to drop out of school next term to assume his legis-

Probe Loan Of $50,000

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state is investigating a $50,000 loan the head of the Alcoholic Board of Control received from a bank whose chairman is a distillery representative, the News and Observer says.

The newspaper said in today's editions that the loan was received last year by W. Charles Cohoon, his wife and a Richmond, Va., couple from the Second National Bank of Richmond.

It said Second National's Board chairman, Ralph A. Elmore, represents whiskey distillers who sell the ABC board almost 10 per cent of the liquor distributed through its stores.

The News and Observer said Cohoon denied in an interview that the loan represented conflict of interest.

Cohoon was quoted as saying an investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation grew out of his own request last February that the agency look into "reports that were disturbing" about an ABC board employee.

The SBI found no wrongdoing by the employee but then turned its attention to Cohoon, the newspaper said.

Provide Space For Holshouser

RALEIGH (AP) — The state will provide office space for Republican Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser and his staff until he is inaugurated Jan. 5.

State Property Control Officer Carroll Mann Jr. said Monday a state-owned building which formerly housed the North Carolina Dental Society will be made available to Holshouser.

The 1971 General Assembly authorized up to $3,500 to pay staff salaries and other office expenses of the governor-elect. It also authorized $1,500 for similar expenses of Lt. Gov.-elect Jim Hunt.

lative post. The two youngest people ever to serve in Vermont's house of representatives were elected. They were Michael Obuchowski, 18, a Vermont resident now attending Harvard University, and Gregory Reed, 19, whose campaign staff included many people too young to vote. Archie Hapri III, a 26-year-old Vietnam veteran, toppled the oldest member of Hawaii's house of representatives, 68-year-old Mindro Inaba. Students from the University of Kansas flooded the polls in Douglas County, where they represent more than one-third of the population. They elected Michael G. Glover, 25, a recent university graduate, to the state house of representatives and put I.J. Stoneback, a farmer active in the local peace movement, on the county commission.

In congressional races, the youth vote was essential in electing at least on liberal candidate. But in some races strong support in campus precincts was not sufficient to oust conservative incumbents.

In Iowa's 1st Congressional District, Edward Mezvinsky, an antiwar Democrat, took a second crack at Rep. Fred Schwegel. He lost to Schwegel by 765 votes in 1970.

But the district includes the University of Iowa. There were now 5,000 students registered where there had been only a handful of voters two years ago. Mezvinsky swept the the county that includes the campus by nearly 7,000 votes and went on to win.

In Indiana, however, sweeping the county that is the home of Purdue University was not sufficient for Floyd Fithian, a history professor at the university.

Fithian was running against Rep. Earl Landgrebe a conservative Republican who was one of 19 representatives to vote against lowering the voting age.

Fithian ran strong in the campus precincts and came out of Tippecanoe County leading 26,856 to 19,384. But Landgrebe carried the remainder of the district with enough strength to win, 110,476-91,508.

Reconsidering Money Boxes

OAKRIDGE, Ore. (AP) — The City of Oakridge, in Oregon's Cascade Mountains, is having second thoughts about the money collection boxes it put in Green Waters Park.

The boxes were installed this fall to collect volunteer donations and avoid a park-use charge.

The take so far is 20 cents and a half pound of rice left over from a wedding.

NEW LOOK AT OLD SKULL — Here is a closeup view of the prehistoric skull found by Richard Leakey near Lake Rudolph, Kenya. Gaps have been filled in with plastic. Leakey last week announced the find and said he believes it is 2.5 million years old which would make it the oldest complete skull of early man ever found. Leakey said the shape of the brain case is remarkably suggestive of modern man and unlike the heavy and protruding eyebrow ridges of skulls of early man. Penny Jamieson, the only contestant ever to go to Atlantic City with the double title of "Miss North Carolina" and "Miss Congeniality," has learned there's a lot more to new car financing than just interest rates.

"I've found that the people at BNC don't mind discussing all the other important economies and conveniences — without my even asking. That's why I really feel Bank of North Carolina is my kind of bank, with my kind of people!"

Why not finance your new car at the BNC office nearest you? We'll both be glad you did!
