Fund Surplus Report

Scott Puts Stones In Holshouser Path

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic Gov. Bob Scott, long a controversial figure in his own party, apparently has stirred more resentment while throwing political stones into the path of incoming Republican Gov.-Elect Jim Holshouser.

Scott, in a "hurry up speech" scheduled at the last moment after several days of thought, said Tuesday North Carolina will have a general fund surplus of more than $200 million next July — a surplus, he said, that would make it feasible for his successor to recommend repeal of some taxes or extension of credit to taxpayers on other levies.

The result is a challenge to Holshouser, who faces a General Assembly with huge Democratic majorities, to obtain tax relief for North Carolinians or spend much of his time explaining why he didn't.

It was learned that some Democratic legislators, as well as Lt. Gov.-Elect Jim Hunt, a Democrat, did not welcome Scott's timing nor his methods in releasing the financial report.

One reliable source said some of the Democrats vying for leadership roles in the legislature had learned of Scott's plans last week and, for a time, considered the possibility of calling their own news conference. No reason was given for the decision to let Scott proceed on his own.

The Democrats reportedly believed Scott was making a grandstand play in search of a highly publicized finale of his administration, which ends Jan. 5.

In his speech to the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce's Legislative Task Force, Scott frequently expressed personal pleasure at his administration and his accomplishments. He compared the $200 million general fund surplus available to Holshouser with the $16,000 he had four years ago.

In listing "indicators of progress" under his administration, Scott said, "consider if you will the fact that we began four years ago with very little money, that we made major progress in many areas of service to our citizens, and that I am able to turn over better than $200 million to the next administration."

Scott specifically cited as possible steps toward tax relief a 10 per cent tax credit on all income tax returns for 1972, a credit on 50 per cent of the income tax paid by manufacturers and 50 per cent on intangibles tax payments, as well as repeal of some commodity taxes.

Scott backed the drives that led to imposition of taxes on cigarettes and soft drinks and an increase in the state gasoline tax.

It was in citing specific examples where tax relief might be granted that Scott rubbed political sensitivities, especially the legislators who had predicted the surplus privately or publicly.

"We tried to point out some of these things in 1971 to his excellency (Scott), and he defeatd every one of them. I think this is one of the contributing factors that elected a Republican governor," said Rep. Sneed High, a Cumberland County Democrat.

"James Ramsey and Jim Hunt are the people now who should make these determinations, not someone else who has already his bite of the apple," High said.

Hunt, as lieutenant governor, will be the presiding officer in the Senate. Ramsey, a Person County Democrat, is the leading contender for speaker of the state House.

Ramsey said Tuesday after Scott's speech that he had "no quarrel" with the governor's report. He added, however, "I think it (tax relief) should be left to the governor's discretion and, or, the General Assembly's discretion.

"I think here again this is going to be up to the executive branch and the legislative branch to take a hard, fast look at the whole area at the proper time," Ramsey said.

A Republican legislator said after heaing of Scott's report: "That's almost incredible."

The comment, by Sen. Hamilton Horton Jr., R-Forsyth, echoed other questioners' thoughts as to why there had been no indication previously that the state's financial condition was so healthy.

"It is ironic," Horton said, "that this didn't come to light until after the people had spoken for a Republican governor."

Scott said a tax reduction at this time appealed to him because "too much money is more dangerous than not enough."

Losses, Suffering In Wintry Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow, freezing rain and drifting snow tormented areas from the Ohio Valley to New England today and gale warnings continued for much of the Atlantic Coast.

Strong winds lashed the lower Great Lakes and the north Atlantic coast. Meanwhile, flood victims started returning to their water-soaked homes in Michigan and Ohio in the wake of a storm which lashed the shorelines of Lakes Erie, Huron and St. Clair on Tuesday.

Authorities estimated the number of evacuees at more than 10,000 along a 200-mile stretch of Lake Erie and Lake Huron shoreline extending from Ohio's Cuyahoga County west to Toledo and north to Michigan's Saginaw Bay.

Complete damage estimates were not available, but authorities in Monroe County, Mich., and along the Ohio shore said they expected damages in each of those areas to exceed $1 million.

Winds to 45 miles an hour sent waves up to 15 feet high crashing against Michigan and Ohio lakefront areas.

Gale warnings were posted today from Eastport, Maine, to New Jersey, with small-craft warnings flying as far south as Savannah, Ga. Gale warnings were also up along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

As the storm that struck the lower Great Lakes moved east late Tuesday it left snow accumulations of 13 inches at Mt. Washington, N.H.; 11 inches at Albany, N.Y.; 9 inches at Portland, Maine, and 7 inches at Buffalo, Rochester and Utica, N.Y.

A new storm in the West brought heavy-snow warnings for parts of the Rocky Mountain region, including northwestern Colorado, southwestern Wyoming and the central mountains of Arizona.

Air Power Pounds North Vietnam Supply Buildup

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes gave North Vietnam's southern panhandle its hardest pounding in months Tuesday and today, hitting at the supply buildup there with more than 300 fighter-bomber strikes and more than 30 B52 missions.

It was the largest number of fighter-bomber strikes against North Vietnam in a 24-hour period since Oct. 14. But the 320 strikes flown then were spread over much of the country, while those on Tuesday were concentrated in the southern third because of the suspension on Oct. 22 of bombing above the 20th parallel.

The escalation of air attacks on the panhandle began Nov. 9 and in six days U.S. fighter-bombers have made more than 1,290 strikes in the region, an average of more than 200 a day.

"This is to let North Vietnam know that as long as the war is not over, as long as it has troops in the South, we're not going to hold back," said one American official.

Officials said North Vietnam is making a "substantial" supply push southward through the panhandle to stockpile material for its divisions in the South before a cease-fire, and U.S. bombers are making "a greater response."

"We are trying to get every logistical point that is directly connected with the movement of supplies toward their forces in the South," said one official. "They are trying to increase their supply flow to their forces in the South."

The U.S. Command reported heavy damage to North Vietnam Tuesday, with 38 supply trucks, 11 warehouses, 15 bridges, 20 railroad cars, and nine artillery guns destroyed or damaged.

U.S. military sources said the B52 raids in the panhandle have been "real effective." One source said a mission two days ago set off 60 secondary explosions, indicating that a big ammunition dump was destroyed.

North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry claimed that in the last three days American planes had heavily bombed the Do Luong dam and hydroelectric plant in Nghe An Province and had carpet-bombed towns and villages in civilian areas across five North Vietnamese provinces.

The statement, broadcast by Hanoi Radio, said damage and casualties were particularly heavy in the town of Ha Tinh.

Meanwhile, the United States continued its own supply buildup to beat the cease-fire, and the 7th Air Force announced as many as 350 large U.S. transport planes have brought in 7,000 tons of equipment for the South Vietnamese armed forces in the past two weeks.

Preflight Routine For Apollo 17 Astronauts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 17 astronauts begin three weeks of preflight medical isolation today while launch crews start the final major rocket and spaceship tests for a Dec. 6 blastoff to the moon.

The isolation, in which the astronauts' movements and contacts are restricted, is to minimize exposure to disease or illness that could delay the last mission in the Apollo series.

Early today the launch crew began a week-long rehearsal duplicating every phase of the final countdown starting Nov. 30. The initial part of the test is to end next Monday with a simulated liftoff at 9:53 p.m. EST, the departure time on launch day.

Next Tuesday, with fuel drained from the rocket as a safety measure, Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans will board their command ship to run through the final 2½ hours of the countdown.

Starting today the astronauts and their backup crew are restricted to three areas at the Kennedy Space Center—the crew living quarters, the training building and the launch pad. They also will make one or two trips to nearby Patrick Air Force Base for proficiency flying in jet planes.

During this period, only 109 persons, mainly training and launch personnel, are authorized to work directly with the spacemen. Many will have minimal contact and some none at all unless necessary.

The wives of Cernan and Evans are included on the list and will be permitted to visit their husbands in the crew's quarters when they travel to Cape Kennedy four days before the launch. Cernan's and Evans' young children will be permitted to talk to their astronaut fathers through a glass partition.

Schmitt is not married.

The astronauts and authorized contacts have provided detailed medical histories, submitted to medical examinations and have been immunized against nine common diseases.

The preflight isolation was initiated after Apollo 13 crew member Thomas K. Mattingly had to be replaced a day before launch because he had been exposed to German measles.

Father Rules No Food; Child Dies Of Hunger

MIAMI (AP) — A 3-year-old boy whose mother told police he lived on chocolate milk for three months after her husband ordered her not to feed him is dead of starvation. The boy's father is charged with manslaughter.

Variety Children's Hospital authorities said little Dean Nozza was dead when his father, Michael Nozza, brought him to the hospital Monday night.

Nozza was charged with manslaughter Tuesday after Lois Jean Nozza told police her husband ordered her not to feed the child. She said her son had not eaten solid food for three months, that his only sustenance had been chocolate milk.

Authorities said they did not know why Dean had not been fed.

Nozza, 41, and his 28-year-old wife have five other children.

"She said her husband wouldn't allow her to take the boy to the hospital, and said she was afraid he would beat her and the other children if she did," Dade County Sheriff's Lt. John Esty said.

Police said Nozza, a sandblaster, "didn't allow the child to be taken to a hospital because he was afraid he would be arrested for child abuse."

Nozza told the hospital staff that Dean "would not drink anything except chocolate milk" and had not eaten for several weeks, Dr. Robert Lawson, Variety's chief of staff, said Tuesday.

Lawson said Dean "was brought in here dead with evidence of extreme malnutrition." However, he said the admitting physician saw no signs of bruises or fractures on the child.

Police records show the Nozzas were investigated in 1969 after authorities received a complaint of child malnutrition. That incident involved another child, police said.

Dade County's Protective and Preventive Services took the remaining Nozza children, ranging in age from one to 7, into custody Monday night after Lawson advised the agency of Dean's death. A custody hearing for them is scheduled today.

"The interior of that house was filthy with human defecation all over the floor and no furniture," Esty said. "Little Dean slept on a piece of cardboard on the floor with a black raincoat for a cover.

"Two of the children said they hadn't eaten for three days, and officers found only a package of hotdogs and a carton of chocolate milk in the refrigerator."

At a bond hearing Tuesday, Nozza was ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination prior to a determination whether he will be allowed to post $3,500 bond for his release from Dade County Jail.

Barracks Ghost?

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — There's an empty room in the cadet barracks of the U.S. Military Academy and the reported sighting of a ghost is responsible.

The two plebes who occupied the room, in the 4th Regiment area, told academy officers and fellow cadets of seeing several times a ghost of a cavalryman holding a musket and adorned with a handle-bar moustache.

The sightings were reported last month, and two cadet officers verified that they, too, saw "some sort of phenomena" in the room.

"We moved the plebes out of the room and left it empty," an academy spokesman said today, "because there was too much traffic. Their fellow cadets were bringing in cameras and tape recorders and the occupants weren't getting any studying done."

As reported by those who saw the apparition, the spokesman said, "it appeared to be a cavalryman of the 1830s era, wearing a gray uniform."

Cadet Capt. Keith Bakken appeared on a New York television show Tuesday night to relate the incident. Bakken was not one of the men who saw the ghost, and those who reported the sightings were not identified.

Soldier Freed In 'Fragging' Trial

FT. ORD, CALIF. (AP) — Billy Dean Smith, free after being cleared of murder charges in the first "fragging" court-martial conducted in the United States, says he is "just lucky to be here."

The 24-year-old black from the Watts district of Los Angeles explained, "If the trial had been held in Vietnam, something would have happened very bad.

"Not everybody is lucky enough to have a trial," he told newsmen after his acquittal here Tuesday.

GOP-Dominated Pitt Election Bd. Possible

The Pitt County Board of Elections stands a good chance to have two Republican Party members and one Democrat when the terms of the three current members expire March 1, 1974.

Currently the Pitt election's board is composed of two Democrats and one Republican, but the election of Republican Jim Holshouser as governor may change the complexion of the local board.

Holshouser will appoint a new State Board of Elections next year after he takes office. Presently composed of three Democrats and two Republicans, the state board is expected to contain three Republicans and two Democrats after the Holshouser appointments.

The possibility of a Republican-dominated State Board of Elections might result in a Republican dominated Pitt elections board.

Positions on the Pitt board—when the current terms expire in 1974—will be filled by the GOP weighted states agency.

Even the local precinct election officials may be Republican-weighted in 1974. The county board is responsible for securing election officials, such as registrars and judges, for each precinct.

Two Policemen Shot To Death Outside Office

KENNETT SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Two city policemen were found shot to death early today outside the local police headquarters, state police reported.

Trooper William Mooney of the Avondale state police substation said the two patrolmen were identified as Richard Posey and William Davis. Their ages were not known.

Mooney said two state troopers, John Campbell and George Duchemin, made a routine stop at the Kennett Square police headquarters and discovered the bodies.

Robersonville School Damaged By Flames

ROBERSONVILLE — A fire discovered after school was out on Monday has resulted in damages amounting to about $50,000 and the reshuffling of classes.

The fire, in the Robersonville Elementary School, which has this year housed kindergarten, first, second and third grade students, was discovered by Shirley Cherry about 5:15 p.m. Monday.

Within a few minutes, firemen from Robersonville Bethel and Williamston were on the scene.

As a result of the fire, classes were suspended for Tuesday and today until transfer of students could be arranged.

Eugene Rogers, Superintendent of Martin County Schools, said that kindergarten classes have been suspended indefinitely, and that arrangements for placement of pupils include placing grade 1 at East End School in Robersonville and another at the North Everetts School.

One grade can be handled in the undamaged area of the school, Rogers commented.

A total of about 190 elementary students are enrolled in the school, with an additional approximate 40 kindergarten students enrolled.

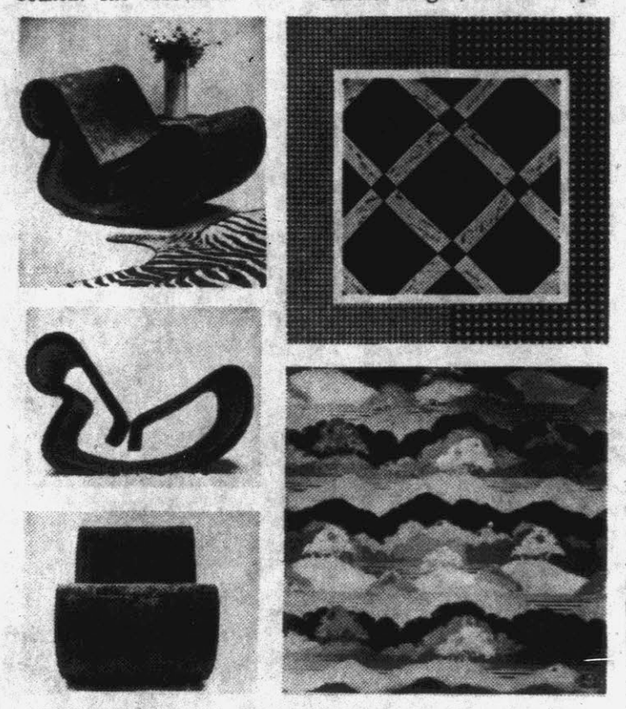
"So far as extensive repairs," Rogers said, "We'll have to take another look at that idea." Rogers noted the school is one on the list to be replaced next year.

Innovators Win Design Awards For Their Interior Furnishings

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Well-known innovators are recipients of top awards in the second annual product design program of the Resources Council. The association services all segments of the interior furnishings and manufacturers industry.

Architect Frank Gehry, textile designer Jack Lenor Larsen, floor-covering specialist Herbert Bright, and the carpet design team of Roger McDonald and Paul V'Soske were named along with the James Seeman Studios, wall covering muralists. Awards were also made in institutional furnishings.



INNOVATIONS — The fiberboard rocker, left, designed by architect Frank O. Gehry, has graceful, body-curving line and lacy edges. Polka-dot floors, top right, are made of vinyl by Herbert Bright. They were also winners in the Resources Council program. Hills of home is the name of handprinted silk fabric in terra cotta, caramel and gray used for wall covering by designer Jack Lenor Larsen.

In citing designers and manufacturers for outstanding achievement in total environment, the jury's decisions were based on imaginative use of materials and color, craftsmanship and the excellence of adaptation as well as innovative design.

Gehry's winning rocker of corrugated cardboard laminate was chosen for "its unique design quality using a new material with great technical skill... at a price most can afford."

The rocker is one of 27 pieces introduced by Gehry earlier this year. The unique line, fiberboard cross-laminated for strength, achieves a lacy effect that is smooth to the touch. The furniture—the rocker sells for about $75—includes a large rectangular table ($100) and high-backed chairs ($30). Gehry continues to experiment with the material which has acoustical properties, he says, and he would eventually "like to build a house of it."

Larsen's collection of printed and woven fabrics, titled "the great color of China," was selected for "its exquisite use of color, authenticity and timelessness."

No matter where Larsen works—Ireland, Africa, the Orient—his fabric statements capture the essence of the country in a unique way.

Bright's handsome collection of vinyl flooring—polka dots, gingham and houndstooth patterns—was cited for its "fresh, whimsical approach to vinyl flooring." The pioneering floor designer has long advocated unusual floors combining colors and varied materials including metals into patterns of varied shapes.

The murals and supergraphics in the kaleidoscope collection of James Seeman cover the wall from ceiling to floor and may be used individually or joined for use on long walls. Seeman is a long-time enthusiast of wall murals.

The two all-wool hand-tufted rugs earning an award for McDonald and V'Soske emphasize the careful attention to color and detail for which the V'Soskes have become known in the execution of their rugs.

Honorable mentions in residential furnishings were earned by two Italian designers—Mario Bellini for his upholstered component system of molded urethane foam and dacron with a unique device providing easy assembly, and architect Gae Aulenti of Milan for her polished marble table.

Carolina Cuisine Offers Fine Recipes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

In a cookbook whose contributions were submitted by "ladies of all ages and walks of life" we found a delectable main-course recipe, Curried Pork Chops and Apricots, and our adaptation of it follows. The cookbook, called "Carolina Cuisine," is a collection of recipes compiled and edited by The Junior Assembly of Anderson, South Carolina, and was published in 1969 by Hallux, Inc. In going through "Carolina Cuisine" we were delighted with its inclusion of a wide variety of recipes, both old and new. Whether one is bent on making Old Kentucky Jam Cake or a modern Daiquiri Pie, there's mighty good eating here.

CURRIED PORK CHOPS AND APRICOTS

6 center-cut pork chops, ¾ inch thick
2 tablespoons salad oil
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoons curry powder
1 cup fat-free chicken broth
1 cup milk
1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) unpeeled apricot halves, drained

Trim almost all fat from around chops. In a large skillet heat the oil; add chops and brown well on both sides. Remove chops and set aside. Pour off fat in skillet.

In same skillet melt butter. Add onion; with a wooden spoon stir over low heat to get up any brown particles; cook over moderately low heat, stirring often, until golden. Stir in flour, salt, pepper and curry powder. Gradually stir in chicken broth and milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and mixture boils 1 minute.

Place chops in a single layer in an oblong 3-quart glass baking dish (13½ by 8¾ by 1¾ inches) or similar shallow utensil. Add apricots and sauce.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until chops are tender—about 1 hour. If possible spoon off any fat that has collected around sides of dish.

Makes 6 servings.

Celebrating Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. L. R. MILLS — of Greenville were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday with a reception at their home. Hosts and hostesses were their children, Albert Leonard Mills of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Edward Earl McLawhorn, Mrs. Frank Smith, both of Winterville, Mrs. Hubert Hardy of Maury, Mrs. Jack Corbett and Forest Ray Mills, both of Greenville.

Births

Household Hints

Combine cranberry juice and apple juice and heat with a cinnamon stick. Nice for a rainy day!

When a recipe calls for granulated sugar, use nested measuring cups that come in sets of ¼ —, 1-3rd—, ½—and 1-cup sizes.

Meringue dessert: place a scoop of ice cream in each individual meringue; top with thawed frozen rasberries.

For individual servings of lemonade pour the juice of a lemon and ½ to ¾ cup cold water.

Cool colors, such as green and blue, make a room seem cooler.

One main center of interest usually is sufficient for a room. It may be either one wall or one main window or a fireplace or a grouping of furniture. Attention is drawn to this center through the use of color or through furniture arrangement.

Furniture fabrics include both slipcover and upholstery materials. In general, the difference is that slipcovers are made of light weight or medium-weight fabric and are removable. Upholstery fabric is heavier and is permanently attached.

Slipcovers usually are made of medium weight material for ease of handling.

Married, But Wants To Find New Partner

By Abigail Van Buren

[c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: My best friend, a 40-year-old divorcee with two children, joined Parents Without Partners last year. She met a swell man there [a widower with three children] and they are being married soon, and I am so envious I am ashamed of myself.

I would love to join Parents Without Partners and meet a nice gentleman with a family who wants to meet a nice lady with children.

I am 42 and have three wonderful sons who need a father. The problem is I am still married. My husband is never home and I am tired of being both mother and father. If I could find a man who really wanted to stay home and be a family man I would leave the one I'm married to so fast he wouldn't know what hit him.

I wonder if anyone has ever joined that club just to look over the prospects? PARENT WITH NO PARTNER

DEAR PARENT: Sorry, but you don't qualify for membership in Parents Without Partners, because technically you HAVE a partner. I suggest you get some counseling to improve your marital relationship, and get that silent partner of yours to sing a more cooperative tune. Widows and divorcees have enough competition without married women who would like a change.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79, and I am NOT senile, but something has puzzled me since my teens. I was secretary to a psychiatrist for many years, but could never pick up the courage to ask him about my problem, if you can call it a problem. [Unfortunately, he is dead now.]

I can "see" things that are not there. For instance, I glance down on the floor, and in the figured linoleum pattern I can actually "see" an animal, bird, or the profile of a person! At times I can look again and see the same image, and at other times, no matter how hard I try to see that image again, I can't.

These are not just crazy lines all over the linoleum, yet at a glance they go together to form a distinct image. I can do this with numerous things. I "see" images in trees, whose leaves are swaying in the breeze, in clouds, and in some hodge-podge modern paintings. And if I look a moment later, the images I clearly saw are gone forever.

Can you explain this? STILL PUZZLED IN PA.

DEAR PUZZLED: The images are conjured up by your imagination, and I dare say there is not a person alive who has not had the same experience, so don't let it bother you.

DEAR ABBY: Newton and I have been married for a year. His first wife died after 22 years, and from what he tells me, theirs must have been a perfect marriage. This is my second time around, too. Only I was divorced and my marriage was miserable.

Newton moved into my house after we married and the first thing he did was to set up no less than a dozen pictures of his first wife. He hung an enormous one over the fireplace in the living room and started burning an "eternal torch" under it. [He said if Jackie Kennedy could do it, so could he.]

I made him take the torch away. He also started burning jasmine incense all over the house because that was "her" favorite fragrance. I developed an allergy to it, so now he burns it only in the den, and sits in there smelling jasmine every chance he gets.

The last straw was when he started going to the cemetery every morning to visit her grave. It's 26 miles out of the way to his job, so I have to get up at 5:30 a. m. to prepare his breakfast. Also, he uses my gas card to fill his tank.

My friends say I am crazy to put up with this oddball, and they ask me what I need him for. So now I'm asking you. FED UP WITH NUMBER TWO

DEAR FED: I'd have to vote with your friends. And when you figure out what you need him for, please let me know.

DEAR ABBY: Do you see anything wrong with smiling and waving at truck drivers? I have always enjoyed it, but my sister says I should cut it out because the neighbors might get the wrong idea. My brother and brother in law also say it's wrong for me to smile and wave at these truck drivers. They think I should act my age [which is 20] and be a lady, and ladies do not wave at truck drivers.

Abby, it makes me feel so good when I bring a smile to a stranger. I often say "Good day" to old people when I see them on the street. They seem to be cheered by it. Is this also not ladylike?

I'll take your advice, and I hope you say it's okay.

LIKES PEOPLE

DEAR LIKES: Smiling and waving at truck drivers is okay. Also a cheery greeting to oldsters you pass on the street. But don't go overboard. Some strangers might mistake your friendliness for an invitation to something more. In other words, if you don't want a stray dog in your lap, don't pat him on the head.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and my brother are on the outs. It's been going on for a long time in a rather silent way, but my family is not aware of it.

My brother's daughter is being married soon and we are invited to the wedding. My husband flatly refuses to attend even tho I have tried to get him to go just for my sake. My parents are elderly and ailing and they would take it very hard if my husband didn't accompany me.

I am a nervous wreck thinking about going to this wedding without my husband and wondering how to explain his absence to my relatives.

I will go alone if I have to, but I wish there were some way I could get my husband to go with me.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: A family wedding is one occasion where all "grudges" should be put aside, and anyone who isn't willing to do it is childish and stubborn. If your husband refuses to accompany you, tell your parents why, but you aren't obligated to explain it to the rest of the family.

Lady 'Hijacked' On Sea Cruise

WOODTHORPE, England (WNS) — Lynn Kirwan's husband and children gave her a week off from household duties. So did the office boss for whom she is secretary. Mrs. Kirwan booked a seven-day cruies to the Mediterranean through Clarkson's Travel Agency. But once at sea she discovered that her ship, the Melina, was on a 15-day voyage to West Africa. "I've been hijacked," she cabled boss and family who checked with the agency and discovered that the seven-day cruise had been cancelled. "Through some administrative error Mrs. Kirwan has been given a ticket for the longer voyage," said a spokesman for the firm. "We are pleased to have her as our guests."

WSCS Bazaar Set For Friday

BETHEL — The Women's Society of the Bethel United Methodist Church will hold its annual bazaar at the Bethel Rotary House on Friday, Nov. 17.

The bazaar will feature home baked items including cakes, pies and candy. In addition, chicken salad, brunswick stew, and preserves will be available.

Another feature will be Christmas gifts and craft items.

A luncheon plate will be served during the day.

The bazaar is open to the public.

CHI OMEGA MEETING PLANNED

The Chi Omega Alumni meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. at the home of Stephanie Carlson, 2504 E. Fourth St., Apt. 5.

All Chi Omega alums are asked to be present.

Card Party To Be Held Friday

The St. Peter's Woman's Club annual card party will be held Friday night, Nov. 17, beginning at eight o'clock.

The card party will be held at the school hall and the charge is a $1.00 donation.

Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Couples Must Pay For Church Mess

NOTTINGHAM, England (WNS) — Reverend John Treadgold of Wallaton Church wants brides and grooms to pay an advance deposit that will be refunded to them if now confetti is thrown at their church weddings. "Confetti is a nuisance that turns up for weeks afterwards in the churchyard and environs," he explained. "It's the guests who are responsible. Most brides don't want it because it's a menace to their hair and wedding gown."

Public Wants Prompt Results

Voting machines do not solve all of the problems of finding out early how elections came out, but they sure can be helpful.

In last week's election there were some voting machine precincts which were late with returns. This was usually due to big numbers of voters being in line to vote at closing time, and also to the exceptionally long time needed to count absentee votes.

On the whole, however, in areas where machines have been in use for some time and they are available in adequate numbers the returns can be had quickly on election night.

Why is this desirable? Well, in this electronic age every effort is being made by television and news wire services to determine the winners rapidly. They do this through studies of key precincts with computer projections that almost always hit the mark. If we want to be a part of determining these early results, our returns should be available early.

Last week all three television networks and, we believe, both news services had conceded North Carolina to Nixon before the first precinct was available from Pitt County to be telephoned in to the News Election Service tabulating center.

That is not all. The Associated Press conceded the First Congressional District win to Walter Jones hours before they had even one vote from Pitt County.

Making every effort to have election returns available rapidly is just part of living in the 20th Century. The county commissioners should make plans now for voting machines before another election rolls around.

A Lobbyist In Public Interest

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Industry, professional groups and special interests hire expensive lobbyists to influence the legislature. Who lobbies for the people?

BRYAN HAISLIP

One of them is Mrs. Ruth Cook, petite, dark-haired and skilled in the ways of gaining the ear of legislators.

"The systems needs the input of citizens concern," she insisted. "When issues of broad social impact are being discussed, there ought to be a hearing for those who support the goals without a personal stake in the outcome."

That amounts to a public interest lobby, the light in which she sees her role.

Specifically, Mrs. Cook is executive secretary of the State Council for Social Legislation. The package she tries to sell lawmakers is the program endorsed by the council and its two dozen or so statewide organizations.

Annual Meeting Soon

Priorities for the 1973 session will be debated and selected at the council's annual meeting in Raleigh next Monday (Nov. 20).

Dr. Thomas Bland of the Southestern Baptist Seminary at Wake Forest, council president, will preside for the meeting. First vice president is Mrs. John B. Chase of Eureka, just elected to her sixth term in the house from Wayne County.

James B. Hunt Jr., the next lieutenant governor, will be the speaker. Hunt, a Democrat, will preside over the Senate and appoint its committees.

Likely items on the '73 agenda include auto liability insurance reform with the objective of a modified no-fault plan, areas of consumer protection, migrant labor housing standards, and further revision of abortion laws, Mrs. Cook speculated.

She will urge the council to keep abolition of the death penalty as a goal, to be ready to oppose any attempt for its reinstatement. "I have heard there may be a move to find a way to resotre capital punisment," she reported.

The council fared well in 1971. "There was a real progesssive spirit apparent in the last session," Mrs. Cook observed.

Licensing of day care facilities, an aim through three sessions, finally was enacted. The council also supported successfully a buyer protection law dealing with time payments an other credit purchases, and an "environmental bill of rights" amendment to the state constitution.

New Ballgame In '73

The upcoming prospects are hard to figure, Mrs. Cook agreed. "It's a new ballgame," she said.

What is new is a Republican governor and the largest GOP legislative contigent of the century. Whether the partisan climate will affect the council's program is the question.

Mrs. Cook is optimistic that it will not. "It is never partisan issues in which we are involved," she explained. "We always have had bipartisan support for our goals."

The council has a half-century history as an advocate for social legislation. It originated in 1920 with women's groups active in its founding, probably as a result of their recent access to suffrage.

Although it still leans to women's organizations, membership today reflects a balanced constituency, Mrs. Cook said. Civic, professional, social service and church groups are represented.

A fairly recent member is the State AFL-CIO, bringing labor union strength into the council circle.

Large Membership Base

Through its member organizations, the council embraces some 350,000 Tar Heel citizens, Mrs. Cook noted. They have the opportunity to participate in the process of discussion and selection of legislative goals, she added.

Lobbying has taught her something about influencing legislators. A first principle, she said, is to be informed.

"You can't help your legislator make up his mind if you don't know what you're talking about," she advised.

The second essential is communication. Just as the squeky wheel gets greased, the persistent citizens gets attention, she pointed out. out.

A lawmaker told her he couldn't vote for day care licensing because "my people are against it." What he meant, she explained, was that "half a dozen operators had been hounding him."

She works one-to-one, supplying information and encouraging support for bills. Winning and dining is out on her budget, but that's no handicap, she said.

"Legislators will give you a polite hearing, even if they don't agree. I never argue. Perhaps if they can't help on one bill, they can support another one. After all, they have the vote and I don't," she concluded.

Connally Has A Nixon Offer

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite John B. Connally's whimsical "hope" that President Nixon will not ask him back for the second Nixon administration, the fact is that Connally has already been asked to become Secretary of State and revive that once mighty office.

The offer was made to Connally when he resigned as Secretary of the Treasury last June 12, and it was couched in terms leaving nothing to the imagination: the President wanted a strong hand at State's helm to "clean out the bureaucracy," and Connally was the man.

Thus, Connally's repeated public lamentations that he wants nothing except to luxuriate in his newly renovated Houston mansion and practice lucrative law as senior partner in his huge Houston firm only delay his decision. Most Connally-watchers think that in the end Connally's decision will be yes and that, as a result, the State Department may be in for its biggest shakeup in history.

Mr. Nixon is not the first President eyeing the cavernous State Department bureaucracy with scornful eyes. But with his landslide victory and Connally as his agent, he is in better position to act than any recent President.

Moreover, putting the decisive Connally in charge at State would almost surely reverse the unfortunate decline of what used to be the most prestigious institution in government.

Under the amiable William P. Rogers, the State Department has suffered repeated humiliations. For example, when Connally headed Treasury, he persuaded the White House to put his own men in charge of certain international negotiations historically handled by State.

Far more important, Mr. Nixon deliberately centered foreign policy power in Henry Kissinger, his brilliant national security adviser, undercutting both the State Department's foreign service and, far more publicly, Secretary Rogers himself.

Beneath these public humiliations has been a largely hidden phenomenon: ever less attention by the White House to foreign service policy contributions and an alarming deterioration in morale among the best foreign service officers. Barring a change at the top, many of these will soon resign.

Thus, the President's house-cleaning orders to his new Secretary of State will seek to arrest this deterioration by giving new authority under Connally to he best service officers, while undertaking a massive purge of second-raters. The hoped-for result: a much leaner force of experts supplying the cutting edge both to economic and political foreign policy in the next four years.

The public speculation that Mr. Nixon plans to retain Rogers, based on his sudden exposure as a Presidential consultant frequently photographed in the Oval Office, is almost certainly a cover to ease his departure.

Now bathed in the public glow of Presidential pleasure, Rogers can leave within the next three months with a dignity denied him the

To The Editor:

A recent article in the News and Observer referred to Pitt County's new landfills as "A pilot project toward the day the county undertakes more ambitious garbage-disposal programs. Neighboring counties such as Lenoir, Wayne and Carteret have already undertaken a more ambitious program in the form of a container system. This container system provides large garbage containers which are stationed at various points throughout the county. The benefits of such a system for Pitt County are obvious in that everyone would live near a container and they would be available for public use 24 hours a day. This would be an appropriate time for the county commissioners to consider such a program in view of the Federal Revenue Sharing Funds which have recently come available.

No Coattails For Riders

WASHINGTON — Everyone is asking why President Nixon, with his tremendous victory, was unable to bring in any of the other Republican candidates on his coattails.

I can now clear up the mystery: The President did not have any coattails for anyone to hitch on to.

What happened was that a few months before the election Pat Nixon decided the President needed a new suit for election night. She called his tailor and made an appointment for the President. The tailor came to the White House and measured Mr. Nixon for his suit.

Two weeks later the tailor came back to give Mr. Nixon his first fitting. The President, aware that candidates all over the country were depending on him, asked the tailor, "What about the coattails?"

"The coattails come last," the tailor replied. "First I have to get the collar and the lapels right."

"Wouldn't a double vent give me a longer coattail for the other candidates to hitch on to?"

"You want a double vent in the jacket," the tailor said, "I'll give you a double vent."

"I guess the politically

ART BUCHWALD

popular thing would be for me to have a single vent. But sometimes a President must do the unpopular thing even if he loses votes."

"A double vent is just as good as a single vent," the tailor said.

"I have to think not only of my party, but of all America. My choice of a vent should not be decided because of one special interest group or another. It's true some people in this country, honest people with the best of intentions, believe in the single-vent jacket. They have a right to their opinion and I respect them for it, but I hope they also respect my right to have a double vent in my jacket if I believe it's best for the country."

"Will you stop moving you hands, Mr. President, or I'll never get the shoulders straight."

"I believe the great thing about this country is that we can honestly disagree about vents in our jackets and, after Election Day, get behind the President whether he has one or two vents in his suit."

"You make me proud to be an American tailor," the suitmaker said.

The tailor went away and worked on the suit. He tried to get an appointment for another fitting, but every time he got someone on the White House phone they told him the President was too

To The Editor:

The results of this past election show that ominous clouds hang over the Democratic Party in North Carolina. Strong moderate candidates were defeated for governor and senator. Had a few more people taken Walker's "Walk Right In" campaign seriously, Jim Hunt would undoubtedly have received the same fate.

The followers of Gov. Wallace, Republicans who moved into our midst, and many members of the medical profession have successfully courted the votes of the dissidents. If the trend continues, those of us who have wished for a strong two-party system in our state may soon find that we are still one party but with the Republicans in control.

The American people usually turn away from what they consider extremist government whether it be to the right or to the left and it would serve both parties well to remember the elections of 1964 and 1972 in the years ahead.

Jim Holshouser ran a fine campaign and we hope will bring some new ideas to our state government that will benefit our great state; but the election of Jesse Helms is something else. The political philosophy of his radio editorials remind us of the McKinley era and voters in the state and particularly in Eastern North Carolina would do well to follow his voting record carefully.

Social legislation of the past 35 years; particularly farm subsidies and Social Security; have brought great changes to this area. This did not happen by accident nor by "ho hum" government or by people who think like Mr. Helms. It happened through the efforts tof the Democratic Party and people like Sen. Jordan and Sen. Ervin.

The Democratic Party must regroup and make some changes if it wants to win elections. A strong party is needed, for the present administration is definitely geared toward "Big Business" and that is not always to the advantage of a rural area such as ours.

Need More Clues?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sex must be getting less important in this country.

Otherwise, why should it become increasingly difficult to tell the sexes apart?

When everyone today dresses, talks and acts alike, how can this be done? Well, mistakes are always possible, but there are still some clues as to how to tell the sexes apart.

HAL BOYLE

For example:

If it can put a sock on while standing on one leg, it's a man. If it has to sit on the edge of the bed and then fall over backward to struggle into its stockings, it's a woman.

Does it usually shave above the shoulders? It's a guy. Does it usually shave below the shoulders? It's a gal.

If it bores you by always wanting to tell you its dreams, it's a her. If it bores you by always wanting to brag about its hangovers, it's a him.

If it says it wears the pants in the family, put it down as the papa. If it actually wears the pants in the family, put it down as the mama.

Can it drive better while sitting in the front seat of a car? Dad once more. Can it drive better while sitting in the back seat? Mom again.

Does it wear its dentures at all times because it can't stand the thought of being seen with them out? Dear old Grandma! Does it sometimes take its dentures out and leave them lying anywhere around the house because it hates to wear them anyway? Dear old Grandpa!

Does it believe that everything will be better and more glamorous after marriage? That's the prospective bride. Does it prove to her in time that marriage doesn't make quite all that much difference? That's the bridegroom.

In an emergency, of course, you can always ask the father or mother of a person what the sex of their offspring is. If they can't agree, you might be wise to drop the whole matter.

After all, there is a lot more to human life than sex—it says right here. All you have to do is to find out what that could possibly be.

Strength For Today

REAL POPULARITY

The word "image" is much used today — not in the religious sense but to indicate the impression one makes upon his contemporaries. Recently a man was speaking about a certain educator and his methods. "I hate him. I hate him. I hate him." By the time he had left us his image in our mind was anything but pleasant. Whether we agreed or disagreed with him was not a matter of real importance. The fact that he could take that attitude toward anybody made him unpleasant to most of us who heard him utter these words.

There are some people who have good images. People like them, listen to them, laugh with them and if they do not agree with their ideas they nevertheless can talk things over peaceably. This might be summed up in the word "popularity." Better still, in the word "agreement." There are some people who establish a good image in the minds of their contemporaries and some who establish a bad image.

This is a matter of importance. A good image means that we find ourselves getting along better in business circles, in our social contacts, in the daily banter we have with friends and acquaintances. If one does not have to pay too high a price, it is pleasant to be known as "a good guy." Popularity can be bad when it is gained by going along with the crowd no matter what they stand for. Popularity, on the other hand, can be good if it stems from the fact that people like us and enjoy our company.

Try it.

Pointing To Overseas Markets?

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon may direct the American economy more toward overseas markets than he did in his first term, bankers and economists seem to agree.

Following the election, the President advanced a proposal for a complete elimination of tariffs between industrialized countries, these observers note, adding that it might foretell other, related moves.

American companies, for example, are expected to be strengthened in overseas markets by relaxation of some rules which have hampered mergers and intra-industry cooperation, they say.

Bankers in New York and other domestic points agreed on these points:

—The goal of fixed exchange rates will be sought more actively.

—American investments overseas may decrease because of tax law changes.

—Foreign aid may be increased, but might be spent mostly in Southeast Asia.

—Protection of American industry through tariffs will not increase.

"There's a good chance the controls on capital outflow from the United States may be lifted soon, said William Wolman, economist for Argus Research. "But this may be accompanied by tab changes which would reduce U.S. investment overseas, so there will be less reason for the controls."

Topic by topic, here is what bankers and traders see for the next four years:

Trade — Will grow as tariff barriers are lowered around the world. Lower customs duties will be sought by the United States in continuing negotiations. The Nixon administration is not likely to raise its own duties.

Dollar — Protection will be less of an issue as the dollar strengthens. "The financial establishment likes what it sees of the federal budget and money supply," said William Wolman, economist for Argus Research. "But this may be accompanied by tab changes which would reduce U.S. investment overseas, so there will be less reason for the controls."

Balance of payments — Should improve as overseas investment dollars come in. There is some feeling that foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies might be taxes higher, thus making capital outflows less likely.

There is talk that U.S. anti-trust laws may be relaxed to permit more cooperation among American companies operating overseas.

Foreign aid — May increase in the next four years, but where it will be spent is in doubt. There is a strong feeling, however, that any increase must go to Southeast Asia.

Ingram Plans Change In State's Auto Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Insurance Commissioner-elect John Ingram says he intends to change the automobile insurance assigned-risk plan to a reinsurance pool.

Ingram said this Tuesday as he told a press conference he had asked the auto insurance industry to draw up plans for a "reinsurance exchange" in North Carolina.

He specified three criteria would have to be followed in drawing up the plan to meet his approval:

—Every licensed driver who pays his premium must be eligible for immediate coverage with the insurance agent of his choice.

—There must be no surcharges other than those provided by the insurance commissioner under the Safe Driver Reward Plan.

—The company selected by the agent for coverage must be allowed a period of time to reinsure the motorist with the reinsurance exchange.

Ingram told newsmen the reinsurance exchange "will fulfill my pledge to the people of North Carolina to abolish the discriminatory assigned-risk plan and put an end to cancellations and non-renewals."

Ingram said he plans to meet again with auto insurance industry representatives Nov. 30. They were asked, he said, to submit two additional alternative plans to meet his requirements, as well as the primary plan.

Ingram took a verbal poke during the press conference at Sen. O'Nel Jones, D-Anson, chairman of the insurance study commission. Jones has been critical of Ingram's campaign promises.

Ingram said one of the main reasons Jones was defeated in the Democratic primary was due to his "opposition to reducing discriminatory rates for youthful drivers." The commissioner-elect has promised to cut liability insurance rates for youthful drivers and put the burden on drunk drivers.

Missionary Will Be Speaker At Church

The Rev. George C. Megill, missionary to Brazil, will be at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Sundy for the 9 and 1 a.m. worship services.

Following a covered-dish supper Sunday at 6 p.m., the Rev. Megill will show slides. He will appear on "Carolina Today" over WNCT Channel 9 at 8 a.m. Monday and will speak at the general meeting of the WSCS at 10 a.m. in the church chapel.

The Rev. Megill and his family have returned to the United States for furlough from missionary service. In Brazil, he has been director of a seminary for lay preachers and pastor of two small urban churches meeting in borrowed buildings at Copacabana and Ipanema in Rio de Janerio. He also helped start a new church on Governor's Island, Rio de Janerio.

From 1962-66, the Rev. Magill was superintendent of the Ana Gonzaga Orphanage at Inhoaiba where he ministered to the needs of 170 children.

Born in Kansas and raised in Oklahoma, he received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Tulsa and the bachelor of divinity degree from Duke University Divinity School, Durham.

The Rev. and Mrs. Megill are the parents of three children.

past four years. His New York law firm expects him back soon.

That leaves open Kissinger's future, assuming Connally does say yes to Mr. Nixon. Even to his intimates, Kissinger reveals nothing beyond a pledge to stay in the White Hoouse at least until Vietnam is settled. That should be early next year.

But some White House aides are certain that Mr. Nixon will insist on keeping Kissinger, his alter ego in the dramatically successful game of triangular politics with Moscow and Peking. Kissinger alone knows the personality, character and negotiating background of the chief Communist actors. He and Mr. Nixon alone have shared the conceptual outline of U.S. policy.

Furthermore, Mr. Nixon has no intention of dismantling Kissinger's apparatus of expert foreign policy troubleshooters in the White House. Even if Kissinger departed, the President would have to find a successor — no simple task.

Thus, arranging a division of authority between Kissinger and Connally — two of the most resourceful bureaucrats ever seen in this city — is now Mr. Nixon's difficult assignment. Kissinger objected to Connally's hard-nosed toughness toward Japan, Canada and Western Europe in the 1971 monetary crisis. It is to these U.S. allies that Mr. Nixon's second-term foreign policy will soon be appealing for Western unity.

But Mr. Nixon may be in commanding position today to draw those lines of authority and make them stick, with Connally given complete authority to clean out the State Department bureaucracy and give it new life, while Kissinger remains the President's foremost confidant on conceptual aspects of foreign policy.

busy to see him. The tailor was desperate and said he had to give the President another fitting as he hadn't measured Mr. Nixon for his coattails.

Apparently the person he talked to didn't realize the significance of the fitting and gave the tailor the brushoff.

On election morning at San Clemente, the President asked where his new suit was. The White House staff panicked and an aide called the tailor in Washington, "Bring the President's suit right away."

"But," protested the tailor, "the coat has no back to it."

"Never mind the back," Bob Haldeman said. "We're sending the President's plane for it and you'd better have it at Andrews Air Force Base when we get there."

The tailor met the President's plane with the unfinished suit and it was delivered just before Mr. Nixon was scheduled to vote. He put the suit on and asked his friends, Secret Service men and family, "How do you like it?"

As in the case of the emperor who had no clothes on, no one dared tell the President his suit had no back.

And that is why every Republican candidate who tried to grab the President's coattails on Election Day found himself with a handful of muslin instead.

Dam System Plan Killed

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority has abandoned plans to build a system of 14 small dams and reservoirs in the Upper French Broad River basin. It said, "Adequate local support and commitment no longer exist."

The dams would have affected Madison, Buncombe, Henderson and Transylvania counties in western North Carolina. State officials had asked that the project be abandoned after opposition developed from residents of the area and from conservation groups. The TVA made its announcement Tuesday.

Congress had appropriated money to begin construction, but no work had been done. TVA said long-term aims of the plans were flood control, water supply, improvement of water quality, and providing shoreline areas suited for private and public development. The project was first proposed in 1966.

Appreciation Citations Presented 2 Students

Two Rose High School students were presented Youth Appreciation Citations by the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville Monday night.

John Allen Tucker, president of the Student Government Association at Rose, and Darrell Davis, president of the senior class at Rose, were dinner guests of the club for their "kick off" meeting of "Youth Appreciation Week."

"Youth Appreciation Week" is being observed in Greenville through Sunday.

Davis presented the club's program for the evening and told of his experiences during the summer as one of Greenville's community ambassadors to Europe and Russia.

Following the program, C.P. Shaw, president of the Club, and Hugh Benson, chairman of "Youth Appreciation Week," presented the two students with the citations.

Averted Violence And Sabotage

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The commanding officer of the supercarrier Constellation says he was trying to avert violence and sabotage when he ordered a group of 130 dissidents, nearly all of them black, to leave the ship.

Capt. J. D. Lard defended his actions publicly for the first time at a news conference Tuesday while the Navy ordered an investigation of the affair.

Meanwhile, a Navy spokesman said nearly 1,000 crewmen aboard the carrier have signed a petition supporting Ward. A black servicemen's group backing the dissident sailors, who said they had been discriminated against in jobs and discipline, announced a petition drive aimed at having Ward disciplined for dereliction of duty.

Ward said some crewmen had threatened to "tear the ship up" before he put them ashore here Nov. 3.

All but seven of the 130 sailors who refused a subsequent order to return to the ship were transferred to shore duty and underwent disciplinary hearings.

During the most recent of the Constellation's six trips to Vietnam, Ward said, he found evidence of apparent sabotage.

"Some ordnance equipment had been tampered with and some expensive equipment had been thrown over the side," he said. "There is certainly some indication that a saboteur had been at work.

"I also learned of a plan of some of the men to lay down across the flight deck to disrupt aircraft operations while the ship was off Vietnam."

The captain said he pinpointed three men, whom he did not identify, as leaders of the alleged plot. He said he discharged one for low achievement, put another ashore and disciplined the third.

A sit-down of black sailors during maneuvers at sea three weeks ago forced him to take further action, Ward said, adding that the group was disorderly and potentially violent.

"I could either overpower them or take other action," he said. "The need to overpower them wasn't justified at the time." So, he said, he ordered them ashore as a beach detachment.

None of the dissident sailors has been available for comment since the mass transfer to shore duty last week. But Jake Colbert of a supporting group, the Black Servicemen's Caucus, said on Tuesday: "These men acted peacefully.

"If there was sabotage, if there were blacks or whites threatening the safety of any crew member or the safety of the ship, it should have been dealt with by the commanding officer. It's his responsibility to see that tension doesn't build up to that point."

Local Women At Workshop

The Ninth Annual Supportive Service Workshop will convene November 15 -17 at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh. Attending from the Pitt County Department of Social Services are Mrs. Rosa Harris, Mrs. Rosa Williams, Mrs. Ann Johnson, and Mrs. Doris Montgomery.

The general session will be held in the Elizabeth Roomoon November 16. Mrs. Rosa Harris has been chosen from Pitt County as one of seven speakers from across the state. Her topic will be, "Teaching Foster Children Personal Hygiene".

Various items of interest will be displayed by the Pitt County Homemakers at the get acquainted session that will be held in the Hayes-Barton on Thursday evening.

Wrote Article In Math Journal

Thomas B. Speight, a recent graduate of East Carolina University, is the author of an article in the September issue of the Journal of Undergraduate Mathematics.

Speight's article, "A Generalization of Laurent's Series," was written under the guidance of Dr. Lokenath Debnath of the ECU Department of Mathematics. Last year, Speight published another article written under Dr. Debnath's direction in the Pi Mu Epsilon Journal.

Speight is the son of ECU Artist-in-Residence Francis Speight and Mrs. Sarah Blakeslee Speight. At present he is employed with a Philadelphia firm which tests air and water pollution levels.

Alford Reviews Why Some PTA's Fail

Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Pitt County PTA advisory board Thursday night.

Alford said that most PTAs fail because of poor organization and a lack of enthusiasm on the part of both parents and teachers.

"Parents think the school is an organization that has only one responsibility and that is to teach children," Alford said. "The teachers feel they don't need meddlesome, interferring parents who are questioning their integrity.

"With this type of atmosphere prevailing, misunderstanding and resentment are bound to be predominant. The teachers must want parent's involvement and the parents must want to be involved and be responsive," Alford stated.

Alford continued, "Unlike other professionals, teachers have an added responsibility because parents have no choice as to where their children go to school or who their teacher will be. The situation should be such that any principal would want his children to attend that school.

"It adds up to one main word—involvement—on both parties. Most people believe that it always takes money, lots of money, to have a good PTA. All you really need is involvement, manpower and the desire to help," Alford said.

Herbert Dail, representing the Falkland PTA. made the welcoming speech and introduced the officers.

Dail emphasized that the main purpose and objective of the PTA is to get parents back in school where their children have been all the time.

It was recognized that the advisory board has already helped Belvoir, Bethel and Stokes Schools in getting a PTA organized.

Dail reported that "Prospectus", an educational newsletter distributed by the Pitt County PTA, is being sent to parents of children in Pitt County schools.

Dr. C.C. Cleetwood, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, Paul Rasberry, Mrs. Bernard Haselrig and Mrs. Guthrie, all representing the Greenville schools, were guests.

State Employes Finish Course

Twenty-two high-level state employees have completed the Management Development Program co-sponsored by East Carolina University's Division of Continuing Education and the State Personnel Department.

The seminar program, held at Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Center in Reidsville last week, was attended by employees from 12 counties. Represented were eight state government departments including Social Services, Motor Vehicles, Highway, Agriculture, Health, Mental Health, Archives and History and Revenue.

Showing Film On Rendering On Nov. 21

A film entitled "Rendering: An Essential Industry. . . Serving All Mankind" will be shown Tuesday, Nov. 21, at Pitt Technical Institute.

This is a 15-minute motion picture in full color and sound, designed to be both informative and entertaining. The film shows how rendering is essential to the health, ecology and economic well-being of the community, the nation and the entire world.

The film also shows how renderers' products go all over the world, helping the newer, growing nations and contributing to our country's overseas trade.

The film is being sponsored by the National Renderers Association of Des Plaines, Ill.

For additional information, interested persons may call Clifton J. Moss at PTI, 756-3130.

GEORGE,
TURN OFF THE TV AND GO BACK TO SLEEP.

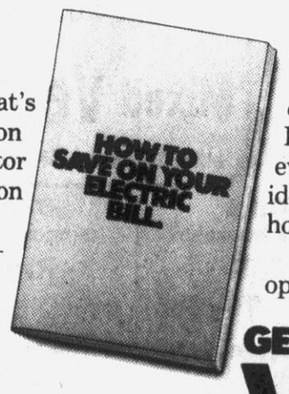
And rest assured you'll be getting more for your money electrically.

Because it isn't the economical electricity you use that's expensive; it's the electricity you waste. Like the television set that's turned on when you're tuned out. The refrigerator door you forgot to close when you took a ten o'clock station break. Those lights that are still on in the next room.

Electrical wastes like these—and how to stop them—are the whole idea behind a brand-new free booklet that's available from your nearest Vepco office right now.



We want you to enjoy the economy, as well as the convenience, of electricity, and "How to Save on Your Electric Bill" is full of simple money-saving ideas on everything from heating the house to washing the dishes—ideas you don't have to be an electrical engineer to use. We hope you'll come in or call for a copy first thing tomorrow.

It can open your eyes to some waste-saving opportunities you never dreamed of tonight.

Will Discuss New Center

Glenn and Barbara Bondurant of Pompano Beach, Fla. will be here Friday night to talk about starting a Christian coffee house and drug outreach center here.

This is an interdenominational project and it is hoped that all Christian churches and individuals will lend their support to the proposed project. Interested persons should meet the Bondurants at the First Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall Friday at 7:30 p.m. They will also be here Saturday and possibly Sunday.

They have been invited here to tell about their coffee house ministry called "The House of Icthus," opened in 1969, and their drug rehabilitation center known as "Turning Point." They reportedly minister to the whole person—body, mind, and soul—and for those who have completed the program, they claim 100 per cent cured. They have a 24-hour hotline and a jail and street ministry in which hundreds of young people receive personal counseling.

Student Interns GainExperience

Two students in the East Carolina University Department of Parks, Recreation, and Conservation are now gaining practical experience in the ECU Remedial Education Activities Program.

The interns, Alice Keene of Four Oaks and Stephanie Foltz of Greensboro, are working under "Skeet" creekmore and are involved in individual therapy, storytime, and free play and also are conducting recreational activities in arts and crafts, movement education, and outdoor education for the REAP children. In addition, they set up and administer motor and fine motor skills tests.

REAP is a diagnostic and educational program for mentally, emotionally, and-or physically handicapped preschool children of Eastern North Carolina.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE
North Carolina
Pitt County

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by William Alferd Carver and wife, Dianne M. Carver, to C.W. Everett, Trustee, dated the 4th day of August, 1972, and recorded in Book B-41, page 511, of the Pitt County Public Registry, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 12:00 Noon, on the 15th day of December, 1972, the following tract or parcel of land conveyed in said deed of trust and described as follows:

LYING and being in the Town of Bethel, Bethel Township, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: Located on the North side of Jefferson Street between James and Pitt Streets and beginning in the northern right of way of Jefferson Street at the Southeast corner of the Bertha Crane lot and running thence eastwardly along the northern right of way line of Jefferson Street, a corner; thence northwardly and perpendicular to Jefferson Street at the line of W.T. Carson lot (now Robert Joseph Staton Lot), a corner; thence westwardly with the line of the aforesaid Carson of Staton lot to the northeast corner of the Bertha Crane lot, a corner; and thence southwardly with the line of the Bertha Crane lot to the point of beginning, being the western end of that lot shown and designated on the fax map of the Town of Bethel as Lot No. 16, Block "I", Map 306, as the same appears of record in the office of the Tax Supervisor of Pitt County, and being a part of that lot conveyed to Clarence L. Warren and wife, Mary Rebecca L. Warren by deed recorded in the Public Registry of Pitt County in Book N-32, page 80, and being the same lot conveyed to the Grantors herein by deed of Clarence L. Warren et al dated the 2nd day of August, 1972 and recorded in Book B-41, page 509 of the Pitt County Public Registry.

The successful bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with the Trustee, ten percent (10 percent) of the amount of his bid as evidence of good faith pending the confirmation of said sale.

This 14th day of November 1972.

Kiernan New JC Director

Dick Kiernan was welcomed as the Greenville Jaycee's newest director during the chapter's recent general membership meeting.

Jaycee president Don Brady, emphasized that Kiernan, who is employed by Burroughs Wellcome, has proven himself to be an outstanding Jaycee in the seven months he has been a club member.

Other business discussed during the session concerned the annual lightbulb sale, wrestling matches, and the Chrsitmas Parade.

All profit from the lightbulb sale, it was pointed out, go to help the needy. Brady urged residents to support the project and "make someone's Christmas a little brighter."

Nominated To NAACP Posts

The nominating committee of the Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People made it's report at the group's regular monthly meeting held Sunday at St. Paul Church, Ayden.

Winterville Adopts House-Numbering

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen last week voted to have a house numbering system established for the town of Winterville.

The recommendation that all houses in Winterville be numbered came from the Winterville Planning and Zoning Board. At present, house numbers are not used in Winterville.

The board authorized Bob Kellerman, city planner with the N.C. Division of Community Services, to begin work on the project at once.

The board also signed an agreement with the State Department of National and Economic Resources confirming the board's intention of beginning contracting 701 planning assistance.

It was announced that Steve Moore, a recreation planner from the N.C. Division of Community Services will be at the December town board meeting to discuss recreation within the town of Winterville. Town Clerk Elwood Nobles expressed the hope that Winterville citizens would attend the meeting and make an attempt to improve recreational activities in the town. The meeting will be held Dec. 4 at 7 p.m.

Permission was given to the science club of D. H. Conley High School to hold a car wash Nov. 18. The event will be held behind the Winterville municipal building.

Subversives Hunter Of 1930s Dies

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Martin Dies Sr., who hunted subversives in government during seven stormy years as the first chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, is dead at 71.

His death Tuesday night was attributed to an apparent heart attack. Dies first suffered such an attack five years ago.

The burly, blond, cigar-smoking Texan spent more than two decades in Congress, and during that period he voted against all foreign aid bills.

Since his retirement in 1958, Dies had stayed largely out of public view, although he was often called upon to speak at meetings of patriotic tone.

Besides his widow, he leaves three sons—Martin Dies Jr. of Beaumont, Tex., now judge of a state civil appeals court and formerly a Texas secretary of state; and Robert M. and Jack Dies, both of Lufkin.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

After shifting the focus of the committee from investigation of Nazi subversives to probing communism in the late 1930s, Dies often stirred controversy and commanded newspaper headlines.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and many Cabinet members openly disapproved of Dies' tactics, but he gained public support as the world weighed implications of the Russo-German non-aggression pact of 1939.

"Communazis!" Dies bellowed, calling them unnatural bedfellows.

The son of a congressman from East Texas, Dies first became a member of Congress as its youngest member in 1931.

He began his congressional career with the introduction of a 1932 bill to expel alien Communists from the United States. The measure won House approval, but failed to clear the Senate.

Before he was named to head the initial work of the Un-American Activities Committee in 1938, he gained a seat on the powerful House Rules Committee.

In its efforts to track down subversive influences, the new committee became a personfication of Dies and frequently was called simply the Dies Committee.

Dies remained in Congress through 1944, then retired because of poor health and an expressed desire to return to the practice of law in Lufkin.

But he returned to politics in 1952 and won election as a congressman-at-large from Texas.

Six years later he retired from Congress a second time, after an an unsuccessful race in 1956 against Ralph Yarborough for the U.S. Senate seat left vacant when Price Daniel elected to seek the governorship of Texas.

Armed Robbery Charged Youth

A 17-year-old Winterville boy was charged with armed robbery yesterday by Greenville Police in connection with a hold-up at Smith's Motel here November 3.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, Willie David Streeter Jr. of Winterville was arrested and placed under $5,000 bond in connection with the 1:30 incident in which $350 was reported taken at gunpoint from the motel night clerk.

Streeter was taken into custody about 1:50 p.m. yesterday Cannon reported.

Reprimanded By N.C. ABC Board

Two Farmville-area firms have been reprimanded by the State ABC Board following hearing before the regulatory body in Raleigh, November 13.

According to a report from the state agency, written reprimands were sent to Mrs. Mae G. Hardison and Edward Lewis Jones following violation case hearings.

Mrs. Hardison holds beer and wine permits for the Community Store, 309-7-311 South Main St. while Jones holds beer and wine permits for the Road Runner, Route 1, Farmville.

NOT ENCOURAGED

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Prospects are not encouraging that low sulfur coal will solve the problem of sulfur dioxide emissions from steam power plants, the Tennessee Valley Authority has reported.

Obituaries

Picklesimer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Dr. Parnell W. Picklesimer, formerly of Greenville, N.C. died last night here.

P.W. PICKLESIMER

Dr. Picklesimer was a professor in the East Carolina Department of Geography from 1926 until his retirement in 1958. He served as chairman of the geography department for more than 30 years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Parnell W. Picklesimer of San Diego.

The family requests that flowers be omitted. Funeral services will be conducted in San Deigo.

Moore

Mrs. Essie Moore of 622 Ford St., died Tuesday night in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Chapel.

Thigpen

AYDEN — Mr. Eddie Thigpen of 805 Pitt St., here, died at his home Sunday after an extended illness. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3 p.m. at Zion Chapel FWB Church with his pastor, Elder Stephen Jones, officiating. Interment will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Mr. Thigpen was the son of Charlie Randolph and the late Mrs. Lillie Thigpen Payton. He was born and reared in the Belvoir Community of Pitt County but had made his home in and near Ayden for the past 33 years. He was a member of Zion Chapel FWB Church.

The body will be at Norcott and Company Downtown Funeral Chapel from 5 p.m. Wednesday until carried to the church one hour prior to the funeral. Family visitation will be at the chapel from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Brooks

Mrs. Octavia Broome Brooks, 71, widow of Dr. Frederick P. Brooks, died in Duke Hospital in Durham early Tuesday morning after a week of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Thursday afternoon at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church by the Rev. Charles Smith, the associate pastor, and the Rev. Roy Turnage, pastor of Holy Trinity United Methodist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Brooks, a native of Kinston, was the daughter of the late Lemuel and Helen Hooker Broome, and was graduated from Greensboro College in Greensboro. She was married to Dr. Brooks in 1924 and they settled in Chapel Hill. In 1934 they moved to Greenville where they lived until 1969. After Dr. Brooks died she moved to the Methodist Retirement Home in Durham.

An active and devout member of the Methodist Church and the Woman's Society of Christian Service, she was also a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Women's Auxiliary of the Medical Society.

Surviving are three sons, Dr. Frederick P. Brooks Jr. of Chapel Hill, Henry Franklin Brooks of Kinston, and John Charles Brooks of Raleigh; two sisters, Mrs. Mark Hill of Kinston and Miss Mary Broome of Durham; a brother, Henry W. Broome of Aurora; and five grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Tucker, 1305 E. Fourth St. at other times.

The family requests that flowers be omitted. Memorial gifts may be made to the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Building Fund or to the Brooks Hemodialyses Unit at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Cleared By Army Probe

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—An investigation into allegations of improper conduct in Vietnam has turned up nothing to warrant action against Army Capt. James W. Lanning, the commanding general at Ft. Bragg says.

In a statement Tuesday, the Army said Lt. Gen. John H. Hay, Ft. Bragg and 18th Airborne Corps commander, agreed with recommendations by Lanning's commanding officer and immediate commanders who reviewed the investigation file.

The Army said the review was "thorough and comprehensive" and that evidence does not support the allegations.

No charges have ever been filed against Lanning, who is now an instructor for the Institute for Military Assistance at the North Carolina post.

The Army's Criminal Investigation Division had alleged war crimes were committed in the spring of 1967 in Quang Ngai Province of South Vietnam, an area in which Lanning was stationed. At the time he was commanding officer of Company C, 2nd Battalion, 35th Infantry of the 25th Infantry Division. The unit was attached to the 4th Infantry Division.

Board Suspends Beer Permit

WILLIAMSTON — A beer permit issued to Robert Ed Mizelle for Bear Grass Esso Service, Route 2, Williamston, was suspended for 30 days, effective November 27, by the State ABC Board at the board's meeting in Raleigh November 13.

The suspension was ordered by the board, according to official reports because the permittee "knowingly sold and-or allowed the sale of malt beverage to Alvin V. Parnell Jr., person in an intoxicated condition on his retail licensed premise in violation of the General Statues...and allowed... Parnell...to loiter and consume beer on his retail licensed premises on or about September 30...and that the permittee failed to give his retail licensed premise proper supervision...."

Price Rise For Dairy Farmers

RALEIGH (AP) — Effective Dec. 1, North Carolina dairy farmers will receive a 28-cent increase per hundred pound weight for class I milk.

The North Carolina Milk Commission authorized Tuesday that the price to promoters be increased from $7.68 per hundred weight to $7.96.

The retail price for consumers probably will go up about one cent a quart. Wholesale distributors and retailers will shoulder the remainder of the hike. Class I milk is used for fluid purposes.

The price hike is the first for dairymen since December, 1970, when it was raised from $7.40 to $7.68.

The commission approved a motion to change several cream products from Class I to the non-fluid category known as Class II. The products include heavy and medium cream, half and half, half-ounce coffee creamers and egg nog.

The action is aimed at making North Carolina-produced cream products more competitive with items made out of state with cream and milk of Class II origin.

Schools and similar institutions will not be affected by the higher prices until June 30, 1973 to avoid contractual complications.

In other action, the commission approved increases for Class I milk transported out of state.

Under terms of a court-ordered formula, the following new prices will become effective Dec. 1: milk transported to South Carolina will be increased from $7.46½ to $7.60½; to Virginia, the price will be upped from $7.80 to $7.88; to Maryland the District of Columbia, the price will go up from $8.75 to $7.90½; to Knoxville, the price will increase from $6.77 to $7.36½

Jones County Board Backs Med School

The Jones County Board of Commissioners has endorsed the expansion of the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The resolution, passed at the Commissioners' regular November meeting, pointed out that "North Carolina has a shortage of physicians — that there are only 100 doctors per 100,000 people as compared to the national average of 163 per 100,000 persons."

"Rural areas suffer even more greatly from a physician shortage, with only 30 doctors per 100,000 persons," the resolution went on. "Half of all the physicians in North Carolina practice in six counties. The future of medical care in rural areas appears dismal in considering that 22 per cent of all physicians in practice in rural areas of the state are over 70 years of age."

"Many North Carolina students are deemed qualified for admission to medical schools each year, but cannot gain admission because of the lack of available places," the resolution further read.

Course On Parenthood

Couples who desire better understanding of the maternity cycle and care of newborn infants are invited to enroll in a special course to be offered Wednesday evenings beginning Dec. 6, by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education.

Instructors Lona Ratcliffe, and Theresa Lawler, faculty of the ECU School of Nursing, will discuss and demonstrate the knowledge and skills necessary for prospective parents.

The course will meet Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. in the ECU Nursing Building, room 209. It will consist of either eight or nine sessions, depending upon how fast the class progresses.

The course is designed for both husband and wife.

Williamston Faces Second Test Friday

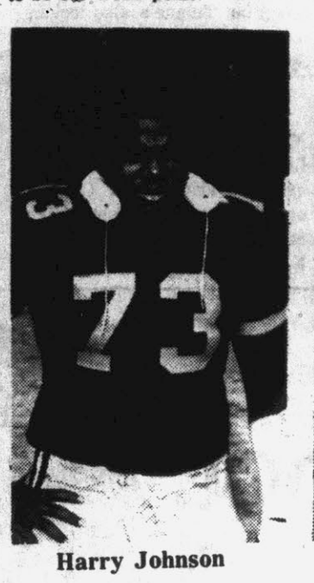
WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers, fresh from their 55-22 victory over Camp Lejeune in the first round of the State 2-A Playoffs, get no rest this weekend, as they prepare to meet Northwood High School this Friday.

The game will be played in Pittsboro, with kickoff at 8 p.m.

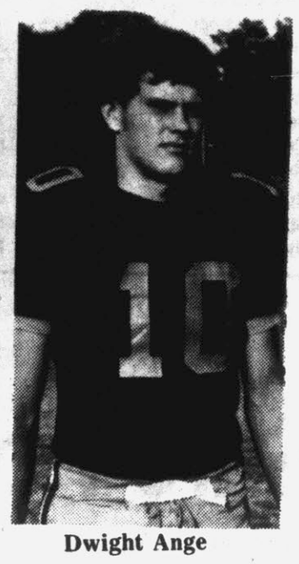
"We demonstrated a lot of offense," Tiger coach Dink Mills said, "but our defense continued to be our weak point."

Mills said that if his team can get the ball as often as the the other team, they can come along without too many problems. "I think we can score on just about anybody if we can get the ball enough times," he said.

Alvin Pearson



Harry Johnson



Dwight Ange

The Tigers ground out over 400 yards in offense against the Bulldogs, with most of it coming on the ground. "Both attacks (air and ground) went well," Mills said. "They weren't able to stop us anywhere."

He added that Lejeune got most of their yardage against the Williamston reserves.

But if the offense can score against about anyone, they're due for one of their biggest tests Friday against Northwood.

"They're 10-1 on the season," Mills said. "And they lost only to a 3-A Sanford. Aside from that game, they've given up only six points, and that was to Fuquay in last week's game. They went through the regular season without giving up a point except to Sanford."

That means that the Tigers can expect to have a lot of troubles unless the Central Tar Heel Conference is much weaker than the Albermarle.

Mills is also worried over the fact that Northwood has a lot of personnel. "They only have one man going both ways. They just tire the opposition out and then run over them." Williamston, in opposition, has a number of players who have to go both ways.

Size will also be a problem to the Tigers. "They have only one starter on their offense and defense who is under 170 points, and he weighs 165," Mills said. "We just can't match that."

Mills knows that the backs are quick, but he has been unable to tell how quick the line is in the films he's seen. "If they're as quick as the backs are, it may Katie-bar-the-door for us."

Defensively, the Northwood team uses a number of defensive formations. "They come at you from a right 4-4 and a stacked 4-4. They also use 5-3, 6-3, 6-1 and a gap-eight. You name it and then run it," he said. Because of this, the Tigers may find themselves doing some of the signal calling from the line of scrimmage.

Offensively, there's not much difference. Again, they use a multiple system, giving them a play-book that must rival the New York City phone directory.

"They run from the wishbone, the wing-I, a wing with split backs, whit I call a wing overload where they put all their backs on one side, the power I, the single wing and the shotgun," Mills said.

"They like to sweep,however. They're a wide team, giving it mostly to their big running back Randy Griffin (5-10, 175). He was the top runner in their conference this year."

Northwood doesn't throw a lot, but quarterback Joe Durham (6-3, 190) can when he has to. His chief target is 6-1, 175-pound end Norman May.

Anchoring the defensive line are 6-5, 220-pound tackle Archie Cross and 6-2, 209-pound Dwayne Austin, who plays either at end or at middle guard.

The winner advances to the Eastern finals, and will be the host team for that game.

Barry, West, Frazier Earn Their Salaries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry, Jerry West and Walt Frazier. Those are three of the superstars in the National Basketball Association who get paid super salaries to break open games.

And that's exactly what they did Tuesday night.

Barry sparked a fourth-period rally to help the Golden State Warriors defeat the Atlanta Hawks 114-105.

West poured in 15 of his 26 points in the last period as the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed the Milwaukee Bucks 95-92.

And Frazier fired in 32 points as the New York Knicks clouted the Phoenix Suns 103-97.

Golden State was trailing 88-84 going into the final period before Barry took charge. The brilliant forward hit a 20-foot shot with four minutes left to give the Warriors a never-headed 101-100 lead. Barry, who scored 19 points in the game, later added two field goals as the Warriors took a comfortable 106-100 advantage near the end.

West was the key man for Los Angeles down the stretch, helping his team pull away from an 86-86 tie in the closing minutes. His hot shooting overshadowed a fine performance by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, who scored 37 points and pulled in 16 rebounds.

Frazier controlled the flow of his game, as he usually does from his backcourt position. The All-Star guard took game-high scoring honors just ahead of teammate Bill Bradley, who also had a hot hand with 30 points.

In the other NBA games Tuesday night, the Baltimore Bullets edged the Houston Rockets 104-103; the Chicago Bulls ripped the Seattle SuperSonics 97-80; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings nipped the Buffalo Braves 106-101 and the Portland Trail Blazers spanked the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-91.

In the American Basketball Association, it was: Carolina 127, Virginia 118; Denver 118, Indiana 108 and San Diego 122, Utah 111.

Summerell In National Stats

Carl Summerell, East Carolina University quarterback, has joined Carlester Crumpler in making the nation NCAA statistics this week.

Summerell broke into the national stats in the total offense for the first time. He is now averaging 165.6 yards per game, good enough for 24th in the country in that category.

Crumpler still appears in three categories, rushing, scoring and all-purpose running.

In rushing, Crumpler has improved from 12th to 10th this week with a 111.7 average. His scoring of three touchdowns against Williams & Mary, improved his average scoring to 8.7 points per game, and jumped him from 24th to 11th in the nation in that area.

This week, for the first time, Kenny Strayhorn returned the kickoffs instead of Crumpler, and that let him slip from 15th to 17th in all-purpose running with a 132.7 yard average. The category includes rushing, receiving, punt and kickoff returns.

The Bucs lost their number one rushing defense standing, but didn't fall far, only to second place as they continue to rank in total defense and scoring defense.

In total defense, the Bucs remained number two with a 208.6 average. Nebraska ranks first with a 199.3 average. In rushing defense, East Carolina and national poll leader Southern California swapped placed with the Bucs moving to second with a 91.2 average. Southern Cal is allowing 75.2 yards rushing per game.

In scoring defense, the Bucs are now giving up 12.4 points per game, good enough to move from 14th to 11th place this week, despite the fact that their average moved up slightly.

The Bucs lost out in one area however. Up to this past weekend, their 44 yards allowed Southern Illinois in total defense had been the top single game performance of the year. Bowling Green, however knocked the Bucs off the list when they held Dayton, this week's ECU opponent to only 16 yards total offense.

Buce Shaw of N.C. State continues to rank high in total offense, ranking 20th with a 168.0 average. Tom Schultze of VMI is 22nd in passing with an 11.6 completions per game average.

Two former Buc opponents are in the punting ranks. Jay Jones of Richmond is 12th with a 41.5 average, while Jim Hughes of The Citadel is 24th at 40.2.

Stan Fritts of State is fifth in scoring with a 10.0 average per game. His teammate, Mike Stultz, is ninth in punt returns, averaging 13.8 yards per return. John Palazeti of Richmond is 12th in kickoff returns with an average of 23.2 yards per try.

In the team statistics, State still ranks eighth in total offense with a 427.5 average, while William & Mary is 14th at 407.6. East Carolina, while not listed, is averaging 383.7

In rushing, William & Mary is 12 at 280.6, while North Carolina, which the Bucs face in two weeks, is 15th at 262.8. ECU, unlisted, is averaging 257.4 yards per game.

Bear Grass In First Victory

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School slipped to a 41-37 victory over Chowan last night to record its first win of the young season.

The Bear Grass girls were not quite as fortunate, bowing for the third time in as many games, 51-14 to the Chowan lassies.

The Bears, now 1-2 on the year, swapped shot-for-shot with Chowan through the first period which ended in an 11-11 tie. In the second quarter, however, the Chowan five began to pull away, outhitting Bear Grass, 13-6. That pushed the visitors into a 24-17 lead at intermission.

Bear Grass came back in the final half, however, to get the job done. They outhit Chowan, 10-8, in the third quarter, cutting the margin to 32-27, then held their guests to just five points in the final frame, while the Bears scored 14 of their own to seek out the win.

Nathaniel Armstrong led the Bear scoring with 17 points, while Vann Rogerson added 10. No one had more than eight for Chowan.

In the girls' game, however, it was a different story for the Lady Bears. They fell far behind in the first period and were never in the game after the opening minutes. By the end of the fram they trailed, 18-2, and it was no contest from there on. By the end of the half, the Chowan ladies had built up a 35-3 lead.

They outhit Bear Grass, 10-3, in the third period for a 45-6 margin, they coasted home, being outhit, 8-6, in the final stanza to wrap it up.

S. Byrum and B. Byrum led Chowan with 12 each. All the Bear Grass scoring was scattered, with seven girls scoring three or less points.

Cunningham Is Cougar Spark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thirty-five points, eleven rebounds, five steals and two blocked shots.

Billy Cunningham is having a ball in the American Basketball Association.

Cunningham, a new member of the Carolina Cougars after several years in the National Basketball Association, continues to come through with all-star performances in the ABA.

Cunningham's big game Tuesday night helped Carolina blast the Virginia Squires 127-118. The star forward also boosted his scoring average, fourth best in the ABA at nearly 26.

In the other ABA games Tuesday night, the Denver Rockets ripped the Indiana Pacers 118-108 and the San Diego Conquistadors toppled the Utah Stars 122-111.

In the NBA, it was: New York 103, Phoenix 97; Golden State 114, Atlanta 105; Baltimore 104, Houston 103; Kansas City-Omaha 106, Buffalo 100; Chicago 97, Seattle 80; Los Angeles 95,Milwaukee 92 and Portland 100, Cleveland 91.

Carolina broke open its game with Virginia with a 14-4 spurt behind Cunningham late in the fourth quarter that gave the Cougars a solid 113-103 lead. Virginia could get no closer than seven points after that.

Julius Erving led the losers with 23 points and 16 rebounds.

Warren Jabali hit two baskets in the closing minutes and Denver held off a rally by Indiana to beat the defending ABA champion Pacers. Ralph Simpson led the Rockets with 25 points.

Sparked by Chuck Williams' eight points in the final eight minutes, the expansionist Conquistadors won their first ABA game from Utah.

Purple-Gold Set

The East Carolina University Purple-Gold basketball game will be played tonight in Minges Coliseum.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m.

The game will be the first public viewing of the East Carolina team for 1972-73. The Bucs are the defending Southern Conference champions, and will be out to claim their second straight title this year.

Southern Cal Picked In Top Contest

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — UCLA, which got caught looking ahead to Southern California and lost to Washington last Saturday, hopes to catch top-ranked Southern Cal looking ahead to Notre Dame this weekend.

The crosstown rivals meet in the Los Angeles Coliseum, which serves as home field for both, to settle the Pacific-8 Conference championship and the host berth in the Rose Bowl.

Southern Cal holds a one-game lead and a UCLA triumph would deadlock the race ... and send the Bruins to Pasadena by virtue of having won the head-to-head confrontation.

UCLA is second nationally in rushing with 361.2 yards per game and ninth in total offense with a 422.7 average. Southern Cal stands fifth in that category with a 450.0 average.

But it is on defense where the Trojans really shine, holding their foes to 215.3 yards per game (fourth best nationally), 75.2 on the ground (No. 1) and 9.7 points (No. 6). Trojan Coach John McKay says the defense deserves three-quarters of the credit for the No. 1 ranking.

The pick, then, is a defensive one ... Southern Cal.

Last week' score was 42 right—including the Upset Special, Michigan State over Ohio State—20 wrong and one tie for .677. For the season, it's 409-161-12—.718.

Virginia Tech at Alabama—If ever a team could be expected to look ahead, this is Alabama's turn. The Crimson Tide is coming off an impressive and emotional victory over Louisiana State and their next game is the finale with hated Auburn. Virginia Tech is only 5-3-1 but the Gobblers boast the nation's total offense and passing leader in Don Strock. The Tide secondary will get a workout but winning is the primary thing. Alabama.

Purdue at Michigan—More look-ahead possibilities. Will Michigan be looking ahead to Ohio State next week? If so, a Purdue win would throw the Big Ten race into at least a two-way tie between the Boilermakers and Wolverines, depending on what Ohio State does. Michigan.

Texas at Texas Christian—TCU bombed 15th-ranked Texas Tech last weekend but Texas is a Longhorn—and a ranking (seventh)—of a different color. Texas.

Georgia at Auburn—Auburn was the only team to beat Georgia last season. This year it's been done by Tulane, Alabama and Tennessee ... and now Auburn.

Mississippi at Tennessee—Both teams had last week off, but have the Rebels recovered from that heart-breaking last-second loss to LSU? Not likely. Tennessee.

Washington at Washington State—Washington has Sonny Sixkiller on target again but the Cougars took care of Stanford and passing whiz Mike Boryla last Saturday. Washington.

Brown at Harvard—Michigan State has won two since Duffy Daugherty announced this would be his last season. Wake Forest won last week after the school announced this would be Coach Tom Harper's one and only season. Brown's Len Jardine said Monday he would step down at the end of the campaign. Okay, precedent. Upset Special of the Week ... Brown.

Tulane at Vanderbilt—Tulane's a winner, Vandy's a loser, but Tulane's also looking forward to LSU. Second Upset Special ... Vanderbilt.

Other games:

South—Louisiana State over Mississippi State, North Carolina over Duke, The Citadel over Davidson, East Carolina over Dayton, Florida over Kentucky, Georgia Tech over Navy, Louisville over Memphis State, North Carolina State over Clemson, Richmond over William & Mary, Florida State over South Carolina, Tampa over Bowling Green, Chattanooga over VMI, Wake Forest over Virginia, West Virginia over Syracuse.

Rose's Al Hunter

Hunter Picked For Shrine Bowl

Al Hunter, Rose High School running back, has been chosen to participate in the annual Shrine Bowl in Charlotte, Rampant Coach Dave Bumgarner announced today.

Hunter's selection was announced in a letter to Bumgarner from the selection committee. The game is to be played on Saturday, December 2, and will pit the top stars from North Carolina against the best from South Carolina.

The 6-0, 195-pound senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter of Greenville. During the year, Hunter carried the ball 158 times, picking up 1,211 yards, an average of 121.1 per game. His per carry average ewas 7.7 yards a lug.

He scored 17 touchdowns, and on three occasions went over for two-point conversions, giving him a total of 108 points.

Hunter also caught two passes for 26 yards, ran back three kickoffs for 39 yards and intercepted two passes while playing on defense.

A testimony of his running ability is that he was thrown for only 52 yards in losses during the season when Rose had a 7-3 years.

Hunter, regarded by some as the top back in the state, is being heavily recruited by colleges from throughout the country.

Allen Named Most Valuable

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broad-shouldered Dick Allen, the muscle of the Chicago White Sox' offense, was named today the American League's Most Valuable Player of 1972.

Allen won the coveted prize in a landslide vote from the Baseball Writers Association of America, receiving 21 out of a possible 24 first-place votes.

The White Sox's star first baseman, who slugged a league-leading 37 home runs and knocked in a career-high 113 runs, won the trophy easily over outfielder Joe Rudi of the World Champion Oakland A's.

Allen, playing in his first year in the American League after several years in the National, was the only player named on all 24 ballots. He finished with a total of 321 points, just 15 points shy of a perfect score, while runner-up Rudi collared 164.

Rudi, the A's leading hitter with a .305 average, was named on 22 of 24 ballots.

Sparky Lyle, the left-handed relief ace of the New York Yankees, who saved 35 games and won nine during the 1972 season, finished third in the voting with 158 points.

Allen, Rudi, Lyle and pitcher Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers, who finished 10th with 60 points, were the only players to receive first-place votes. Rudi, Lyle and Lolich got one each.

After the 1-2-3 finishers, the rest of the top ten MVP players were: catcher Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox; outfielder Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees; Cleveland pitcher Gaylord Perry; pitcher Wilbur Wood of Chicago; pitcher Luis Tiant of Boston; shortstop Ed Brinkman of Detroit's East-winning Tigers and Lolich.

Allen is only the second White Sox player to win the award. Nellie Fox was the other in 1959.

Playing with his fourth team in as many years, Allen was obtained by the White Sox from the Los Angeles Dodgers in a trade last winter. He received a $60,000 bonus to sign his first pro contract with the Philadelphia Phillies and was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals after a controversy-marked career.

Allen stayed only one year with St. Louis before being traded to Los Angeles. He was gone after one year there, too.

Allen, who on occasion missed games with his three previous teams, was punctual all season for Chuck Tanner, the White Sox manager who is a close family friend. Allen played in 148 straight games at Chicago until Tanner dismissed him with six games left in the season and the White Sox out of the AL's West Division race.

Relief pitcher Rollie Fingers of the Oakland A's saved 21 American League games and won 11 during 1972.

Pro Track Group Set

NEW YORK (AP) — The Olympic Games have traditionally been the singular goal for the world's premier track and field athletes.

There was no money to be made.

Jumpers, runners and weightslingers would sweat through years of training for that one amateur chance at a gold medal...the miles of publicity...perhaps a ticker tape parade back home.

Then, they could start looking for jobs.

Plans were revealed Tuesday for a world-wide professional track circuit that claimed to offer top performers the chance to make good incomes in arenas from California to Europe.

The International Track Association (ITA) announced the signing of distance great Jim Ryun, pole vaulter Bob Seagren, shotputter Randy Matson and middle distance man Lee Evans for a 1973 series with more than 40 meets.

Pro football safety Richmond Flowers of the New York Giants agreed to make a comeback as a high hurdler. something he did magnificently at the University of Tennessee four years ago.

Michael O'Hara, president of ITA, said that contracted stars would get expenses to competition and a chance to make $500 for winning their event.

The format included two meets on most weekends—one apiece on Friday and Saturday—which would give an athlete the chances to win $1,000 in a week and still hold down another job.

Co-Captains Are Named

East Carolina swimming coach Ray Scharf has announced that seniors Wayne Norris and Paul Trevisan have been selected by their teammates as co-captains of the 1972-73 swimming team.

Norris, a physical education major from Fayetteville, was also a co-captain last year and has twice been selected to the All-Southern Conference team. He has won six individual conference championships and has qualified for the Eastern Seaboard Intercollegiate Championships the past two years.

Trevisan, also a physical education major, is from Newton Square, Pa. In addition to twice being selected All-Southern Conference, he holds the varsity and pool records in the 50-yard freestyle and has qualified for the national championships the past two years.

"The team could not have made better selections," said Scharf. "Both young men are leaders and are highly respected by every member of the squad."

HORSEY EDUCATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Douglas and Gerald Delp are 11 and 10 years old, respectively, but their college education is assured. And all because of a successful horse named Pro-Bidder.

Their father, Grover (Buddy) Delp purchased the 4-year-old son of Semi-Pro—Biddy Sue for $4,000 at the 1969 Keeneland fall sales. That son was Pro-Bidder who races in the name of the Dee and Gee Stable. The horse has won 11 races in 31 starts and his earnings of $126,377 will help Delp put his two sons through college.

Decide Winner

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP) —Belmont Abbey and Guilford College met today to determine the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 26 Soccer championship.

Defending district champion Belmont Abbey defeated St. Augustine, 1 0, and Guilford downed Pfeiffer, 1-0, in first round play Tuesday at Pfeiffer College.

Today's winner advances to the NAIA regional playoffs Nov. 24-25 at Buies Creek, N.C., to play the winners from Districts 27, 29 and 25 with the winner there advancing to the NAIA national tournament at Dunn, N.C., on Nov. 29 to meet other regional champions.

Nothing Is Certain In Duke-UNC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nothing is certain in the North Carolina and Duke football rivarly—not even the series standing.

There has been disagreement for three-quarters of a century, since a forfeited game in the 1890s. Duke says the game was scheduled to be played on its home field in Durham; North Carolina says it was to have been played in Chapel Hill.

It wasn't played anywhere. But both schools claim a victory by default.

North Carolina claims the record is 28 victories for Duke 27 for North Carolina, and three ties.

Duke's record book lists 28 victories for Duke, 26 for the Tar Heels, and three ties.

Their meeting in Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon will be televised regionally. The kickoff is 1:20 p.m.

North Carolina, with a 7-1 record and its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference title, is ranked 16th nationally. It has a good chance for a bowl bid.

Duke is 5-5 and is third in the ACC.

North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley said Tuesday that wingback Ted Leverenz, who sprained an ankle in last week's 23-3 victory over Virginia, is doubtful for the Duke game. Dooley said all his other players game out of the game in good condition.

The game will end the season for Duke. North Carolina will have two more regular-season games, against East Carolina and Florida.

Virginia needs a victory in its season-ending game at Wake Forest to avoid finishing in the ACC cellar with a 0-6 league record. Defensive tackle Dick Ambrose was praised by Al Groh, the defensive line coach, as Virginia's most consistent player. "We'll need him at 100 per cent to help stop the Wake Forest veer offense," Groh said.

Clemson Coach Hootie Ingram says he will use his freshman players as much as possible in the final two games, to give them experience. The Tigers will be at State Saturday and home to South Carolina the following week.

So far, seven freshmen have played with the varsity. Frank Wise and Wells Massengill have not played a down with the jayvees. Gary Alexander, Benny Cunningham, O. J. Tyler, G. G. Galloway and Peanut Martin have played with both units.

The seventh ACC team, Maryland, has an open date this week.

Harsh Is ACC Rookie

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Freshman fullback Frank Harsh of Wake Forest today was named the Atlantic Coast Conference football Rookie of the Week for his outstanding performance in the Deacons' 9-7 upset of Duke.

Harsh, a 6-0, 230-pounder from Blairsville, Pa., rushed 24 times and gained 124 yards to help the Deacs snap a seven-game losing streak and post their second victory.

He was the first Wake Forest player to go over the 110-yard figure in rushing. He also had his longest gain of the year, a 26-yard run in the second quarter. The 124 yards boosted his team-leading rushing total to 402 yards on 109 carries.

Oval Jaynes, the Wake Forest offensive coordinator, said, "Frank proved why he is considered one of the finest freshman running backs in the country. Not only did he have a great afternoon running the ball, but it was his best blocking performance."

Most Demos Cool To Shakeup

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide sampling of Democratic party leaders shows most are wary of any sudden shakeup in party leadership, particularly the firing of party chairman Jean Westwood.

For the time being at least, most are inclined to heed George McGovern's advice to wait.

Mrs. Westwood, McGovern's personal choice for national chairman, has become the center of a struggle for party control in the wake of McGovern's landslide loss to President Nixon in last week's presidential election. She has said she will not step down voluntarily.

But Tuesday McGovern advised caution in overturning either the party leadership or the controversial party reforms for which he is largely responsible.

"It would be a mistake to do things so quickly before final assessments of the election are completed," McGovern said at a news conference in the Virgin Islands where he is vacationing.

An Associated Press survey of Democratic governors, congressional delegations and local party officials revealed a general feeling that some changes are needed but no consensus on what they should be.

Of some 100 party leaders surveyed, the biggest bloc gave a "no comment" or "undecided" reply to questions on Mrs. Westwood's future. But many of those now undecided might make up their minds before the first showdown Dec. 9 when the Democratic National Committee meets.

And of the leaders willing to declare themselves at this point, those against Mrs. Westwood outnumbered those defending her.

Former party chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien emerged as the candidate most frequently mentioned to replace Mrs. Westwood if she is ousted.

O'Brien's popularity apparently derives from his peacemaking role as party chairman for two years until his replacement after the Miami Beach convention last July and his performance as chairman of the stormy convention.

While O'Brien has not campaigned for the job, he has said he would consider taking it again. But he said he would have no part in dumping Mrs. Westwood.

Summing up the sentiments expressed by several party leaders, Democratic Chairman Michael Poppiti said he would "favor O'Brien, or an O'Brien-type person who has the ability to make various elements of the party pull together."

Wrecked After Bullet Hit Truck

JELLICO, Tenn. (AP)—Herman Still, 24, of Vale in Lincoln County, N.C., says he lost control of his tractor-trailer after a bullet crashed through the windshield.

The truck ran off Interstate 75 and plunged down a 200-foot bank Tuesday. Stills was admitted to Jellico Hospital. Neither he nor police knew where the bullet came from.

Eckerds Notes Record Sales

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Eckerd Drugs Inc. has announced record sales and earnings for the six months ended Sept. 30, 1972.

A spokesman for the firm said Tuesday that sales increased from $56,827,074 to $67,378,528, reflecting a gain of 18.6 per cent over the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Net income was up 13.8 per cent from $1,727,670 to $1,966,642, for the six months.

Per share earnings were 43 cents compared to 38 cents in the same period off 1971.

GIVEN MORE TIME

Woman Expecting Baby After Ovary Transplant

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A young Argentine woman may be the first in history to give birth after an ovary transplant, according to her doctors. The baby is due in March, and so far there are no complications.

A report on the case was to be made today to the Brazil-Israeli Congress of Fertility and Sterility by Dr. Raul Blanco, head of the Argentine surgical team that performed the transplant last March in Buenos Aires.

"The pregnancy already is more than 3 months in progress, and it is completely normal," Dr. Blanco said in an interview.

"We have not encountered any symptoms of rejection so far, and we have not administered any treatment to prevent this possibility".

The 38-year-old surgeon acknowledged that the genetic characteristics of the baby will be those of the woman who donated the ovary and not the mother. He said this could create psychological problems for both women.

But "all of the developments that make a woman a mother—the conception, the implanting of the egg in the uterus, the pregnancy and finally the birth—all of these processes of motherhood occur in the recipient and not the donor," he added.

In an effort to avoid psychological disturbances among the mother, father and donor, Blanco's 25-man team at Buenos Aires' Alvear hospital included a psychiatrist. His chief task has been to assure the woman receiving the transplant that it will not affect her personality and to convince the donor that she can have children normally despite the removal of one of her two ovaries.

The doctor declined to give personal details of the pregnant woman, her husband or the donor, including their ages and occupations, "to avoid questions of possession between the two women." He did say the women were not related.

Blanco and his team performed three earlier ovary transplants to cure hormone deficiencies, and when they were successful he decided to use the same technique to combat sterility.

'Rolling Roadblock' Snares Bandits With Hostages

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Police used a "rolling roadblock" Tuesday night to snare two suspected robbers who grabbed hostages in a Greensboro bank and then led officers on a twisting, four-hour chase through middle North Carolina as their demands for an escape airplane went unmet.

U.S. Atty. William Osteen identified two suspects captured at the roadblock as Bobby Charles McManus, 30, of Atlanta, Ga., and 24-year old Charley Eugene Crawford of Greensboro.

Ralph Rampton, special FBI agent in charge at Charlotte, said McManus and Crawford are each charged with violating the federal bank robbery statute and were being held under $100,000 bond apiece after arraignment before U.S. Magistrate Herman Smith.

Rampton said there were six hostages, including branch bank manager Preston E. Davenport, four women employes and a male customer. The hostages besides Davenport were not identified.

The suspects were finally caught when unmarked police cars surrounded their station wagon as it sped down heavily-traveled Interstate 85 near the Orange-Alamance County line.

First, the squadron of cars tried to drive the station wagon into a roadblock set up in truck weighing area. But the robbers evaded that manuver by swerving across the highway median, turning around and coming back at the roadblock of moving police cars.

Then, an FBI car rammed the bandits headon, pitching the station wagon into a ditch, Rampton said. The suspects bolted from the car and headed for the woods, but police caught them. The hostages also ran for safety from the wrecked station wagon.

Rampton said one of the men and two of the women hostages taken in the Greensboro bank robbery Tuesday evening were slightly injured in the wreck. They were not harmed by the robbers, he said. The FBI man said Vic Holden, an FBI agent in Durham, was shot in the left forearm during the incident and was being treated at Duke Hospital.

Agent A.F. Lee of the FBI said, "The plan was to jam them up in here," referring to an access road used by trucks to reach the weigh station. The plan backfired, however, when the robbers' car jumped the median. That's when officers rammed it headon.

Rampton said: "We set up the roadblock to force a confrontation. We thought it was the proper thing to do because it (the chase) was going on and they weren't stopping."

The hostages and robbers were taken to Greensboro where they were interviewed by state and federal authorities.

The episode began about 5:10 p.m. when the two men entered the Lawndale Shopping Center branch of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. A bank employe managed to sound an alarm to police. There were reportedly four employes and one customer in the bank.

When police arrived at the bank minutes later, branch manager Davenport frantically urged them to leave because the robbers had taken those inside the bank as hostages. He said he was afraid the hostages would be harmed.

Police hastily cordoned off a two-block area around the bank and posted marksmen with rifles in front and behind the bank and on top of nearby buildings.

Meanwhile, the robbers were contacted by telephone, touching off negotiations in which the robbers demanded a fully-fueled jet airplane and helicopter transportation to Greensboro's Friendship Airport.

The robbers, with pistols in hand, forced the hostages into the station wagon at the back door of the bank after prolonged negotiations with Greensboro Police Capt. W.H. Jackson, who talked to them from a service station across the street from the bank.

Authorities said a helicopter was flown in from Raleigh, about 60 miles away, and was waiting at a nearby school. But the robbers changed their plans.

The robbers did not say where they wanted to go from the Greensboro airport but insisted in their telephone conversations with Jackson that "this stuff" should be ready "or we're going to kill five people."

Davenport emerged from the rear entrance of the bank at 7:17 p.m. and walked along the bank parking lot to the station wagon. Policemen crouching behind hedges along the parking lot called to him asking how many robbers there were. Davenport told them there were two.

Even after Davenport pulled the car alongside the rear door and went back into the bank, the robbers remained inside. They could be seen with their hostages at the rear door.

Finally, Davenport came back out and cried to police: "Please get back."

As the robbers and hostages came out the back door, one of the robbers appeared to be holding a .45-caliber postol to the throat of one of the women.

The robbers drove to Friendship airport and parked in the middle of a runway. But police said they were unable to arrange for an airplane and a pilot. The bandits then left, driving westward on Interstate 40 towards Winston-Salem. Air traffic was diverted from airports in Winston-Salem and Greensboro, officials said.

After they arrived in Winston-Salem, they turned around and headed back towards Greensboro, drove through Greensboro, connected with I 85 and confronted the rolling roadblock a short time later.

Council Fires City Manager

MOUNT HOLLY, N.C. (AP)—The City Council has dismissed City Manager Ben Homesley.

A resolution adopted 5-1 Monday night alleged "incompetence as chief administrative officer."

Homesley was director of public works in this Gaston County community before being named city manager two years ago.

RescueCoupleIn Albemarle Sound

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—A Coast Guard helicopter rescued Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stecher of La Mesa, Calif., from Albemarle Sound Tuesday after their 43-foot houseboat overturned.

The Stechers had left Elizabeth City about 3 ½ hours before, en route to Fort Myers, Fla.

Herbist Has Confidence Of Welcome

By DAVID SPURR

ZAGAJEVI, Yugoslavia (UPI) —"They like oddballs in America," Jovan Mijatovic said, twirling his bright red mustache.

That's why, he added, he's been invited by "an American medical society"—which he did not further identify—to visit the United States.

Mijatovic is, by his description, "a people's doctor." His medicines do not come from a pharmacist, but from the flora of windswept Romanije mountain, 4,500 feet high in the remote wilds of Bosnia, central Yugoslavia.

"I am a herbist. I have herbs for every disease that exists—and for some that don't exist," said Mijatovic, who dresses in the Serbian peasant's embroidered sash, riding breeches and knee socks.

Visited By Hundreds

The "Old Man of Romanije," as Mijatovic is called, does not know his exact age. "But I have been curing people for more than 50 years," he said.

Mijatovic lives in a small farmhouse two miles from the nearest road with his children and grandchildren, who prepare his medicinal herbs on wood-burning stoves by the light of oil lamps.

Every year hundreds of patients from all over Yugoslavia and from several foreign countries make the trek over the stony, rain-drenched fields to find Mijatovic.

The old man receives his visitors at a cluttered desk. A doublebarreled shotgun hangs on the wall "to ward off bears and wolves."

Mijatovic said the largest portion of his patients suffer froo advanced stages of cancer. "They come here after the hospital has let them out to go home and die," he said.

Other common complaints treated by Mijatovic are ulcers, tuberculosis, and various types of infection.

'Just Talent'

"Who taught me all this? Well, my grandmother knew something, but mostly it's just my talent," he said with a grin. "Talent, you know, is important in everything."

He held up a fistful of unopened letters. "This is today's mail—right into the fire. Anybody who wants Jovan's advice has to come to the man himself."

Mijatovic's interviewers asked if he was a licensed medical man. "Licensed? Well, let us say 'tolerated.' You see, I pay 10,000 dinars ($590) a year taxes."

"Taxes!" he shouted. "You know, it was better before the war, when I was illegal—no taxes," he said with a guffaw.

When Marshall Tito's Communists took over Yugoslavia following World War II, Mijatovic was arrested and tried for his unorthodox medical practice.

"But friends came to my aid. And now I am even recognized by Tito's personal doctor," he said.

Times indeed appear prosperous for Mijatovic. A collection of his recipes for medicinal teas is soon to be published by a Belgrade firm. Then, perhaps, that visit to the United States.

Hidden Costs In Car Ownership

NEW YORK (UPI) —Money management authorities estimate the average family spends $1,000 a year owning and operating a car. Some think that as a car ages the repairs cost more than buying a new car. In most cases this isn't true. You stretch the auto dollar by trying to hold onto the car one more year.

A car loses about 30 per cent of its current value each year to depreciation. If you buy a car one year older or hold onto the car one year longer it is estimated you can save 12 per cent of ownership costs.

Women Take Self-Help Role

NEW YORK (UPI) —In the African nation of Lesotho, most men can get jobs only in nearby South Africa. As a result, many women participate in CARE's self-help development projects, building roads and dams. The women also help fight soil erosion by planting trees. So far they have planted 2 million trees—one for each member of Lesotho's population.

Old Minoan Grave Also Held Idols

By JOHN N. RIGOS

HERAKLION, Crete (UPI)—The richest early Minoan grave to be found in Crete was discovered recently near Archanes, a town 10 miles south of Heraklion.

The grave, dated approximately 2200 B.C., was part of a large cemetery covering the slope of Fourni Hill, outside the town. The cemetery, discovered a decade ago, had graves spanning an era from 2500 to 1300 B.C., archaeologists said.

Yiannis Sakellarakis, the Greek archaeologist who discovered the grave, said more than 50 gold items, mostly jewelry, were found inside.

The jewelry was on the ground, underneath 11 clay sarcophagi enclosed in the dome-shaped grave. Sakellarakis said these were the first ornaments in gold found from that period in Crete.

But even more interesting than the gold pieces and some ivory seals, said the archaelogist, were 14 Cycladic idols.

These idols, no taller than one foot, look like miniatures of the monolithic figures on Easter Island. They represent female deities, lying with their hands folded across their chests.

Sakellarakis said some of the idols originated from these islands, but others were made in Crete. This is evident from the stone used for their carving, which is available in Crete but not found in the Cyclades.

"I would say that these idols point to a very strong Cycladic influence in Crete," Sakellarakis said.

Studying Figures

He reserved a final explanation on the figures, pending their complete study, but said it was possible that a colony of merchants from the Aegean Islands had lived near Archanes.

He also said that this area, which is only five miles from the Minoan Palace of Knossos, was an important religious center.

Knossos was the main city of a long dynasty of legendary kings known as Minos. These kings, who gave their name to the earliest civilization in Greece, established a sea empire over the Aegean islands and the coastal areas of Greece.

Even the city of Athens paid tribute to Minos. According to the legend, 14 youths from Athens were sent annually to Crete to be thrown in the Labryinth, a maze of corridors under the Palace of Minos in Knossos.

The youths were devoured by Minautar, a half-human half-bull monster kept by Minos in the Labryinth.

The rule of Minos collapsed in the 15th century B.C. when the eruption of a volcano on Thera, an island in the middle of the Aegean, sent out a tidal wave which destroyed Crete's coastal cities.

After that period, Crete fell under Mycenian influence. The Myceneans, a Greek nation on the mainland, were credited with the expedition against Troy, a city perched near the Straits of the Dardanelles in Asia Minor.

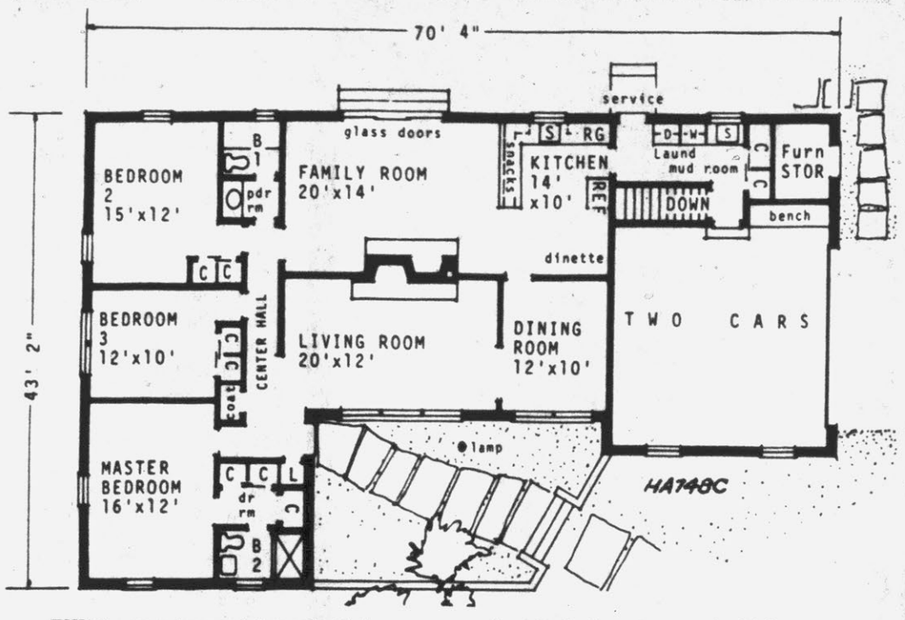
Sakellarakis said the cemetery in Archanes will probably bring to light many hitherto unknown elements on the transition from Minoan to Mycenean influence in Crete.

Modern Stamp British-Made

NEW YORK (UPI) —The modern postage stamp is a British invention, according to George R. Downes, British Postal Director, who is on an extended tour of the United States and Canada to help promote a new stamp, the Silver Anniversary Issue commemorating the 25th wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The first adhesive stamp, says Downes, was issued May 1, 1840, and it caused "great bustle at the Stamp Office" in London. The idea grew out of a need "for little bits of paper just large enough to bear the stamp and covered by a glutinous wash which the user might, by applying a little moisture, attach to the back of a letter."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS



THIS is a popular ranch house, with large rooms and convenient arrangements. Living area of 1,625 square feet covers a seven-room, two-bath plan with eight closets and two fireplaces. The service wing adds laundry and mudroom behind the garage. Plan HA748C is designed by Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036. Some Say Chris Gantry Too Far Ahead Of Times

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — His fellow songwriters call him a genius who's too far ahead of his time to be understood.

His music publishers call him a cocky brash kid who's putting himself and the entire world on.

And his audiences say he's a fascinating performer who can leave you dazzled one second and annoyed the next.

Whatever the case, Chris Gantry can play the dickens out of a guitar and thrash out a lyric that leaves you perplexed—not quite knowing whether to weep, laugh or study it like a poem.

At 29, he's regarded as one of the most brilliant but enigmatic singer-songwriters this music town has ever run into. He's been called the "Nashville poet," "the world's biggest put-on artist" and "a man who was doing four years ago what Kris Kristofferson is doing nowadays."

"I don't know whether Gantry is a tortured soul or a free spirit," says one of Nashville's better known songwriters. "I'd say he's a free spirit."

Trying to describe Gantry's musical mode is a virtual impossibility because his style is unlike anyone else's. His most recent published product, an album entitled "Motormouth," has to be one of the most fascinating blends of country, folk and rock music ever devised.

"I'm a songwriter first. I sing what I write and I don't dig specializing in one kind of music," says the outspoken artist.

Despite his vast repertoire, Gantry remains primarily a "street picker" who peddles his work from one local club to another—not really giving a damn whether anyone accepts him or not. Or so he says.

Gantry came to Nashville in 1963 from Jamaica, N.Y., where his father was an auctioneer. Two years ago he moved to a farm in nearby Franklin, a place he calls "my rock 'n roll turkey farm."

Before that; he said, "I lived on the streets of Nashville just like everybody else trying to make it in this business."

In a recent interview, which came on the heels of an impressive performance, Gantry detailed his attitude on life and music. He appeared disgusted with his musical surroundings and said he's on the verge of chucking his career. It went like this:

"I'm going to write for one more year and turn in all my songs and let it go where it may. Then, I'm going to split this town and live a little. I'll probably go to the (south sea) islands.

"Competition is wrong. It shouldn't have any place in music. When I first came here, I gave my all for everybody. I hung out at the right places and paid my dues.

"But when I wanted to do something that was really me, all the publisher turned their backs.

"Anytime money is the end of a musical product, it's immediately screwed up.

"I don't have the temperament a lot of these guys do. I used to be real enthusiastic and energetic. You know, I've been through seven publishers and made money for all of them.

"People say I'm uncooperative and that I'm a risk. You know what I thing? I think they don't want to understand me."

Moments later, he was asked to consider compromising with publishers on his gutsy musical style.

"Compromise," he said. "If that's what an artist is all about, then I don't care about being one.

"There's things I could dig more in life—like nature, children and easy times.

"Music-wise, I know I can write and sing. Whether I got anything to offer in the way of a marketable product is another matter."

After the interview, Gantry appeared on stage for another set. He began playing, but the audience was still restless from the brief intermission and chatted in a low tone. Gantry appeared offended.

"Look man," he told the audience. "How can I really play if y'all keep talking? Now either you can split or I'll split. But let's get on with it one way or the other."

The crowed quieted, fast. And, once the initial shock eased off, they fixed their eyes on the dynamic performer—partly out of politeness but mostly out of awe with his music, which he started writing at age 15.

"It bothers me a lot when they talk," Gantry said of the small group. "They don't know better."

His best-known song is the one he dislikes the most, "Dreams of the Everyday Housewife."

"It did me a lot of good," he said, "but I hate it. It's too commercial."

The Worry Clinic

Success Needs A Good Memory

Heed Dr. Carl's dilemma. It suggests the old medical adage: "The operation was a great success, but the patient died!" If you deal with people, become a memory expert! That's how to win popularity, as well as business success!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case V-545: Dr. Carl was president of his state dental society.

"Dr. Crane," he telephoned, "we'd like to have you come down here to handle an all-day session on 'Psychology in Professional Practice.'

"And I'd personally appreciate your telling us how to remember names and faces."

Memory Improvement

Then he told me about one of his own sad mistakes.

He had finished with a young woman patient at 4:45 in the afternoon.

Then he doffed his white coat and put on his suit coat.

Saying goodbye to his Dental Assistant, he hurried downstairs to the large department store next door.

He strolled over the the perfume counter where he had previously promised his wife he'd meet her.

An attractive sales girl came up to him and inquired:

"Dr. Carl, is there anything I can do for you?"

"No, thank you," he answered.

"I'm just waiting to meet my wife."

Then he wondered how the girl had recognized him.

"But how did you know my name?" he inquired, mystified.

The girl's eyes opened wide in surprise.

"Why, Dr. Carl," she protested, incredulously, "I just got out of your dental chair only 5 minutes ago!"

And Dr. Carl then informed me that this girl never came back to his office for the additional dental work that he had discussed with her.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "I must have offended her by not realizing her identity.

"So I'm sure I have lost many other patients for the same reason.

"And so have other dental surgeons in my state.

"Therefore, please include a little information on how to remember names and faces."

Dr. Carl could doubtless have instantly recognized his work on the girl's teeth. Indeed, many times the skeletons of murdered people have thus been identified by the dental surgeons who had filled their teeth.

Alas, many dental surgeons and physicians have been guilty of what we call "segmental surgery."

They can thus identify their surgery on teeth or even recognize the scars of appendectomies they have performed.

But then they may ignore such patients when they meet them on the street!

So I have been lecturing to many state dental and medical groups on the need to remember that doctors NEVER operate on just a tooth or an inflamed appendix!

No, indeed!

Instead, they operate to the total 125 pound patient to whom the tooth or appendix is attached!

This new concept is called "organismic" instead of merely "organic" surgery!

Thus, it behooves everybody who deals with the public to perk up in his memory for names and faces.

The basic secret for zooming your memory is to get a clearcut impression of the name at the outset.

For reproducing a name is like making a print from a photographic negative and you MUST have a clear original impression to do either one.

So send for my booklet "How to Improve Memory," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

They Live With A Split Ticket

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Some people vote a split ticket; others have to live it.

But that might not be too bad if you take the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Castogne of Spokane.

"Never argue about politics and religion," says Mrs. Castogne.

She was elected Democratic committeewoman from Spokane Precinct No. 8. Her husband was elected Republican committeeman in the same precinct.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♡

A substantial swing resulted when today's hand was dealt in a recent team-of-four match.

The bidding was the same at each table. North chose to open his hand with one club and South responded with one no trump to show a holding of average value, 9 to 11 points. When North invited a game by raising to two no trump, South had enough in reserve with 10 points and a five card suit to accept.

The play began in the same manner at both tables. West opened the five of hearts, East put up the jack and South won the trick with the king. A diamond was led to the ace and a small diamond returned, on which East was called to make a discard.

The defender at one table chose to part with the eight of spades. Inasmuch as one diamond trick must be lost in order to establish the suit, South ducked the lead into West. The latter was somewhat reluctant to continue hearts, for fear that declarer still held a guarded queen and had merely been false-carding when he won the opening lead with the king.

Hoping that his partner has a quick entry in spades to make a heart play thru South, West shifted to the seven of spades. South ran for cover with nine tricks—two spades, one heart, four diamonds, and two clubs.

At the other table East devoted more time to his discard when the second round of diamonds was led. By employing the rule of 11 at trick one, he had discovered that the declarer had only one card in hearts that was higher than the five. [The rule provides that when the card led is subtracted from 11, the remainder is equal to the number of cards in the suit—outside the leader's hand—which can beat the card led.]

By subtracting five from 11, East determined that there were six outstanding spot cards higher than the five. He was looking at five of them between his own hand and the dummy. South, therefore, had only one higher card—the king—which appeared on the opening lead.

East made good use of this information, for on the second round of diamonds, he discarded the queen of hearts, in order to clarify the picture for his partner. When West got in with his diamond stopper, it became routine for him to cash out the heart suit and defeat the contract.

Food Pays For Salvage Work

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — Gaber Mohamed lifted the 100-pound sack of wheat to his shoulder and collected a tin of butter, a packet of sugar and one of tea.

A few feet away, just outside the U.N.'s World Food Program (WFP) office, Am Aly was loading his rations on a donkey for the trip home to his wife and three children.

This was the scene as the U.N. agency distributed the first rations to 500 workers engaged in preparing a new site for the 2,000-year-old temples of Philae, endangered by the waters of the Nile river. The new site is the Isle of Agilkia, 500 meters away from the partially submerged temples.

The WFP is contributing $2.4 million in food to the workers over the course of the five-year salvage project.

"We want to attach the laborers to the project through their stomach ... in this case to save the ancient heritage," says Gamal Harbi, resident WFP representative.

Most of the men helped build the Egyptian-Soviet Aswan High Dam, within sight up river from the temples. Their forefathers helped the British build the Aswan low dam, just down river, in 1902.

They are no strangers to the burning sun and desert heat of Aswan, and the cold clear rushing waters of the Nile which have swirled around the temples nine months a year for the last 70 years.

Harbi hopes that the restoration of Philae temples, and their removal to the nearby dry site will attract new swarms of tourists to Aswan.

A deafening explosion of 1,500 pounds of dynamite brings shouts of joy from the workers, as a job which would take weeks with pick and air hammer is done in moments—loosening more rock from the island to which the temples are to be moved.
