

Israeli, Syrians Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air raids, artillery duels and a tank battle flared between Israel and Syria along the Golan Heights cease-fire line today. Both sides claimed the other had lost two planes.

The small-scale war on the Golan Heights, captured by Israel in the 1967 Mideast conflict, appeared to be the most violent clash since the American-sponsored cease-fire of August 1970. It was the second major outburst in 12 days.

An Israeli spokesman said one Syrian tank burst into flames and was destroyed in an armored engagement near Rafid Junction. No Israeli tanks were lost, he said.

The Israelis also denied losing any planes in the strikes against Syrian army and Palestinian guerrilla bases.

Syria claimed two Israeli planes were seen bursting into flames and crashing on Israeli-held territory.

Damascus radio said 16 planes were involved on each side in the brief dogfight and denied Israeli reports of two Syrian planes downed.

Syrian heavy artillery pounded Israeli positions along the cease-fire line, and gun and tank shells were still being traded in early afternoon, the radio said.

In four separate waves, Israeli planes bombed and rocketed Syrian army and guerrilla bases, pounding artillery positions and an army radar station, the military command said.

Syrian artillery cannons opened fire in mid-morning shelling three paramilitary settlements in the Golan Heights. The fourth wave of Israeli planes bombed and strafed two Syrian camps in retaliation for continued shelling, a spokesman said.

Land Acquisition For Schools Revived

By JERRY RAYNOR

Land acquisition for school sites is once more in the forefront with plans announced for condemnation proceedings for the new middle-junior high site and negotiations announced for additional land for Sadie Sauter.

At the meeting of the Greenville City School Board Monday night, board chairman Dr. Badger Clark announced that on November 16 he had signed condemnation proceedings papers for the 30 acre tract of Evans property lying between Hooker Road and Evans Street extended.

"The County Commissioners have approved whatever price the courts determine to pay for the land," Clark noted. "In taking this action we have withdrawn our route of appeal to Superior Court. The County Commissioners are with us in this present method of acquiring the site."

Initially, a price of $150,000, or $5,000 per acre for the 30 acre site had been agreed upon between the owners and the board members. County Commissioners refused to go along with this price, and after various conferences, had recommended a price of $135,000.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools told board members that an overture had been made with the owner of three lots along Pennsylvania Avenue as additional land for the Sadie Sauter Elementary School.

"The owner called me today and said before the week was out he would give his response," He added the county commissioners had approved the offer made based on appraisal of the land.

Dr. Cleetwood also presented to school board members a PERT (Program Evaluation and Review Technique) plan and chart that outlines to total of 42 stages relative to the construction of the new middle junior high school.

Dr. Cleetwood explained that with a beginning date of January 1, 1973 as a date for step 1, "the shortest period of time, if all went according to schedule, before the completion of the school, is 94 weeks. The longest period, barring exceptional delays such as strikes, would be 114 weeks."

This would mean the earliest opening date for the new school for the fall of 1975.

As a first step to align plans for the new school, board members approved an "inventory of present needs and estimate of future need for additional school facilities" form for Dr. Cleetwood to submit to the State Department of Public Instruction.

A means of financing the new building will be one of the major items to be discussed at the December meeting.

On the subject of the school's being able to look forward to additional funds as a result of recently announced federal revenue sharing for the city and county governments, board chairman Dr. Clark noted he had spoken to the chairman of the County Commissioners on the subject and that Dr. Cleetwood had talked on the matter to other officials.

"The County Commissioners are not entertaining requests from any source for any reason," Clark commented.

Following a lengthy discussion during which board member Edward Carter expressed concern that the school board have ready a list of priorities to present any time an announcement might be made on availability of funds, the board went on record as being aware of the need to keep constantly abreast of all developments. Dr. Cleetwood explained that already a list of priorities existed for any funds that might come available from any source, revenue sharing or any other type.

Dr. Clark appointed an ad hoc committee of three members. William Myers, (Continued on page 6)

Voting Plaint Filed

RALEIGH (AP) — An affidavit has been filed on behalf of Republican 4th district congressional candidate Jack Hawke alleging that certain Wake County voters were unregistered or did not live in the precincts in which they voted.

The affidavit, containing 111 names, was submitted Monday to the Wake Board of Elections. Hawke trailed Democrat Ike Andrews of Siler City by 971 votes in the Nov. 7 election.

Gene Boyce, Raleigh attorney for Andrews, and Carl Holleman, chairman of the Wake board, discounted the significance of the names. Both indicated that it is not unlawful to vote in a precinct in which you do not reside.

The affidavit alleges that 19 voters were unregistered and that the precinct residency of 92 cannot be determined.

The document was signed by Mrs. Maria A. Brennan, a secretary to Hawke. He said in an interview Monday night that Mrs. Brennan supervised the review of voting records.

Girl Pinned In Burning Wreck

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP) — A 16-year-old girl was killed Monday night when her speeding car ran off a road, hurdled a creek and burst into flames, the State Highway Patrol reported.

The victim was identified as Peggy Peeler of Rt. 2, Lawndale. The accident occurred on a rural paved road eight miles west of Lincolnton. The patrol said the car landed on its top, pinning the girl in the wreckage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, nudged by higher prices for clothing, rose by three-tenths of one per cent in October, giving the nation a 3.7 per cent inflation rate in the last six months, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the rise in consumer prices was three-tenths of one per cent both on an unadjusted and seasonally adjusted basis last month, smaller than the September rise but still over the Nixon administration's target of reducing the inflation rate to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year.

Consumer prices in September increased by four-tenths of one per cent on an unadjusted basis and five-tenths on a seasonally adjusted basis.

More than a third of the increase in the October index was blamed on higher clothing prices. The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said price increases for used cars, health insurance and property taxes also were contributing factors.

The bureau said that in the 11 months since President Nixon started his Phase 2 wage-price control program, the cost of living has risen 3.5 per cent. It has gone up 3.2 per cent since August 1971 when the President imposed his freeze on wages and prices.

The report said the rate of inflation has worsened in the last three months, with prices rising at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.1 per cent compared with 3.3 per cent in the previous three-month period. For the six-month span as a whole consumer prices have gone up 3.7 per cent.

The bureau said the higher prices were moderated by lower prices for beef, some fresh fruits and vegetables and gasoline.

Prices for fresh fruits, poultry and beef dropped, but not as much as usual at this time of the year, the department said.

Altogether, food prices rose by a small one-tenth of one per cent unadjusted, and two-tenths seasonally adjusted. The prices of commodities other than food climbed by a sharp four-tenths of one per cent, but with seasonal influences subtracted, the department said, this amounted to a one-tenth of a per cent decline.

The index rose to 126.6 of the 1967 base, meaning that it cost $12.66 to buy the same items that cost $10 in 1967.

Looking at the figures more closely the bureau said the index of food prices in grocery stores was essentially unchanged.

Bowles Considers Self Democratic Party Head

GREENSBORO (AP)—Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, defeated Democratic candidate for governor, says he still considers himself head of the party in North Carolina.

However, he added in an interview Monday that he is not ready to make long-range plans for the party or for himself.

While Bowles was on vacation in England last week, some Democrats were asking whether party leadership should pass to Jim Hunt, lieutenant-governor elect.

Bowles assumed control of the party when he won Democratic nomination for governor in the spring. He was asked in the interview whether he still headed the party.

"Following tradition, I guess that would be true," he answered. "Jim and I haven't talked except before the election we talked about how we wanted to strengthen the party.

"When I was running, I said one of the things I wanted to do was leave the party in better shape when I got through serving," Bowles said the promise still stands in spite of his defeat.

Bowles' participation in internal party affairs would be a new role for a man who built most of his political career on contacts with persons outside party affairs. But he said, "I had never run for statewide office, either."

Bowles said he did not see any need to make a decision about possible changes now. He added that if the state Democratic chairman, Jim Sugg of New Bern, whom he nominated, asked for advice, he would tell him, "Carry on, friend. We'll get together and talk before long."

"I just don't see any urgency for doing anything right this minute," Bowles said. "Most people are a little bit tired of politics and most people just want to let this thing jell."

Hunt has expressed similar thoughts. But he has also said that he hopes to bring together leaders from all sides of the party to consider how matters will be handled during the term of Republican Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser.

Bowles declined to commit himself to any political plans. He said he had not had time to sort out his own future.

He said he offered "no alibis, no excuses" for his defeat. "He (Holshouser) got more votes than we did. We did everything we could, everything we knew to do to win it."

Unceremonial

GENEVA (AP) — SALT II, the second phase of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks, opened today with calls from both sides for businesslike negotiations on a permanent ceiling for their nuclear offensive systems.

Gerard C. Smith, chief American negotiator, arrived one minute before the scheduled opening at the Soviet mission here. Greeting him with a smile in front of the modernistic building was Vladimir Semenov, deputy Soviet foreign minister, who immediately escorted Smith to the second-floor conference room.

The unceremonial opener reflected the down-to-earth atmosphere that prevailed during the 2½ years of SALT I, the first phase that produced a lasting curb on defensive antiballistic missiles and a five-year freeze on the number of long-range offensive missiles.

Growers And Buyers Divided Over Increased Leaf Allotments

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Reflector Staff Writer

Farmers and tobacco company officials seem to be on the opposite sides of the fence when it comes to the question of a proposed increase in tobacco allotments for the coming year.

A 27-member tobacco advisory committee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has asked for an increase in flue-cured marketing quotas for 1973, although they have been unable to agree on how much of an increase is needed.

The USDA is required to announce the flue-cured marketing quota and allotments by December 1.

Domestic buyers, dealers and exporters have indicated support for increased allotments and have said that unless farmers produce a crop large enough to meet their needs, they will turn to imports of foreign-grown leaf as a source of supply.

Tobacco growers, as opposed to the company men, fear that a larger allotment will result in lower prices and increases in government loan stocks, and point to decreasing prices on the flue-cured markets toward the end of the sales season as evidence that flue-cured supplies are adequate.

Robert A. Halstead of near Ayden, a member of the tobacco advisory committee, said the report of the meeting was a "little misleading". Halstead said he and a number of other members went on record as opposing any quota increase.

"The companies made a good plea for an increase," Halstead said, "but I could not get a clear understanding of the projected intentions of the companies. They left me with the feeling that an increase is not needed."

According to figures given to the committee by the Stabilization Corporation in Washington, D.C., last week, Halstead said there is a two and one-half year supply of tobacco on hand.

"Between the USDA figures and the tobacco company figures, I could not get an understanding of what is really needed for next year."

"I felt, along with other farmers and businessmen attending the session, that we could not recommend an increase for the coming year."

with the figures presented to us at the meeting," Halstead said.

Stacy Evans, office manager of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service here, said the consensus of opinion of Pitt County farmers is that they feel an

Large N.C. Group Observed German Elections In Weeklong Tour

A 30 member delegation of North Carolina officials, legislators and political figures has spent more than a week in West Germany observing the national elections and election process in that nation.

Arrangement for the trip and extensive program were made by Dr. Hans H. Indorf, director of the East Carolina University European Study Center at Bonn, in cooperation with the West German government. All members of the study tour paid their own expenses.

Headquarters for the visit were near the ECU campus in Bonn, the capital but the program included a number of trips to Cologne, Dusseldorf, Koblenz and other cities.

Heading the tour was state Attorney Gen. Robert Morgan, chairman of the East Carolina University board of trustees.

Others making the trip included I. Beverly Lake Jr. and

Bill Melvin, Assistant Attorneys General on Morgan's staff; State Sen. John J. Burney Jr. of Wilmington, a member of the Advisory Budget Commission; Sen. and Mrs. Russell J. Kirby of Wilson (Mrs. Kirby is a trustee of ECU); former state Sen. Elton Edwards of Greensboro; Sen. and Mrs. Charles H. Taylor of Brevard (Taylor is former House minority leader in the General Assembly.)

Also, state Reps. Willis P. Whichard of Durham and Robert W. Wynne of Raleigh; Mayor and Mrs. John Minges of Rocky Mount and City Councilman and Mrs. Fred Turnage of Rocky Mount.

Those representing the East Carolina University administration and faculty included Dr. Robert Holt, Vice-Chancellor and Dean; Dr. John Kozy, chairman Department of Philosophy. Another educator was Dr. Don Schoonmaker, Wake Forest University. The group included ECU trustees Eddie Green of Dunn, Roddy Jones of Raleigh, C. Ralph Kinsey Jr., David Whichard III of Greenville, and also Dr. Wallace Hyde of Asheville, chairman of the board of trustees of Western Carolina University.

Others in the delegation included Y. Howard Bunn Jr., chairman of the N.C. Industrial Commission, John Dalrymple of Raleigh, vice chairman of the governor's committee on architectural barriers, Harry Harrison, senior counsel, N.C. Employment Security Commission.

Also, Milton Kern of Greensboro, Young Democrats Club national committeeman, Charles Winberry, Rocky Mount, past president of the N.C. YDC, George Anderson, Raleigh attorney, John Morrissey, executive director, North Carolina County Commissioners Assn.

The arrangements by Indorf and German officials included a welcoming reception given by the German Atlantic Society at Bonn, a symposium on the German electoral system conducted by the Ministry of Interior, "Germany Today" by the Federal Press and Information Service, a briefing at the Foreign Office and visits to political party headquarters.

There were briefings by U.S. Ambassador Martin Hillenbrand, a meeting with ECU students in residence at Bonn, further briefings, trips to Cologne and Dusseldorf, wide-ranging discussions with German government and state officials, an interview session conducted by West German journalists, a meeting with officials of the Federal Association of German Industry in Cologne including increase is not needed. "Local farmers have the opinion, if the formula the secretary of agriculture works with to determine if an increase is needed, calls for an increase, that the increase be as small as possible," Evans said.

Evans said farmers have been producing less tobacco, since the acreage-poundage program began, than we have been using in order to get rid of the surplus tobacco on hand.

The question, according to Evans, is: "Is this the year to increase the quota so that we can maintain an adequate surplus of tobacco?"

"We have been producing less tobacco than we have been using," Evans said some segments of the tobacco industry have asked for as much as a 20 percent increase in the quotas for next year.

"This is good," Evans explained. "The theory behind this is to keep our tobacco competitive on the world market. Yet farmers say it costs to produce the tobacco here and they want to keep the production down so that they may realize a profit."

The secretary of agriculture is required by law to increase the poundage any time the supply plus expected uses will not maintain a two and one-half year supply on hand, according to Evans.

"If the supply on hand does not meet the needs," Evans said, "an increase is necessary."

C.W. Howard Jr., president of the Greenville Tobacco Company, said it is very evident that all segments of the tobacco industry are in jeopardy unless a substantial crop increase is granted for 1973.

"Of every two acres produced, one is exported and unless foreign customers are afforded some selectivity at the marketplace, they will ultimately refuse to pay a premium price for U.S. tobacco," Howard explained.

"This means that in the long run, American farmers will be producing only for the domestic market with substantially less dollar volume, and, of course, less total profit," Howard said. "The farmer must decide which course he will pursue."

Howard continued, "Many growers question a crop increase in the face of a declining price structure during the past two-three weeks."

"Our reply is that many manufacturers covered a large portion of their requirements from Stabilization stocks. These reserves no longer exist, which means a very definite shortage will occur in 1973 unless more tobacco is produced."

Howard said that many manufacturers are beginning to sample, purchase and test foreign growths in anticipation of a shortage here. Once such a trend has begun on a broad scale, it is extremely difficult to reverse, according to Howard.

"No doubt the farmer wishes to supply all customers and this being true, he must produce sufficient quantity to meet demand. Information at our disposal indicates that a minimum 1,250,000 pounds of tobacco for 1973 which would indicate a 12 to 15 percent increase in production," Howard emphasized.

William B. Glenn, president of Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, feels an increase is in order. "I view it extremely important that we maintain a sufficient amount of flue-cured tobacco so that our foreign purchasers will not reduce the amount of American tobacco in their blends," Glenn said.

Although Glenn feels an increase is needed, he declined to say how much increase he felt should be obtained.

Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, said the majority of farmers he had talked with are opposed to any poundage increase in the Eastern Belt at this time.

"The farmers are of the opinion that the present acreage is ample because of the radical decline in prices approximately three weeks before the markets closed. At the same time," Williams said, "some of the farmers are of the opinion that it might be wise to increase the poundage by a small percent. But, most of the farmers I polled, are against any increase."

Pitt County farmer Chester Don Worthington said he has mixed emotions about the issue.

"I feel we should be careful in considering this matter. We must not allow ourselves to lose some of our foreign markets," Worthington explained.

Worthington, who said he felt farmers were not in a position to make the decision on the quota situation, said farmers should consider a small increase.

"I feel the secretary of agriculture is in a better position to determine if an increase is needed," Worthington said.

"I am not sure the local farmers who are saying they do not want an increase are knowledgeable of the situation," Worthington emphasized. "The secretary of agriculture has more facts and figures to base his decision on than do local farmers."

Local farmers who opposed any increase include J.D. Briley, Wayne Stokes, William House and J.P. Davenport Jr.

These farmers feel that an increase in the poundage will lower the price they are receiving for their tobacco.

Stokes said he would like to see tobacco stay at the same prices as this year.

"If we raise poundage, more tobacco will go into stabilization and prices will be like they were a few years ago," Stokes said. "I like 85 cents to 90 cents per pound much better than 59 or 60 cents."

Westwood Clears Way For A Possible Step Of Resignation

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Democratic National Committee has cleared the way for her possible resignation, and there are indications the struggle for party leadership is becoming a two-man battle.

Jean Westwood, who has run the party machinery since George McGovern picked her for the job last July, indicated Monday she may reverse her earlier stand and voluntarily step down.

"My own future," she said in a statement issued by her office, "is subordinate to considerations about the future of the party."

The five-paragraph statement contained no reference to her previous insistence that she would resist efforts to oust her at the Dec. 9 meeting of the Democratic National Committee.

The two men who appear to be emerging as principal contenders for chairman are former party treasurer Robert Strauss of Texas and George Mitchell of Portland, Maine, who directed Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's unsuccessful bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Working on behalf of Strauss have been close associates of Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and AFL-CIO officials.

Mrs. Westwood "has a very warm feeling toward George Mitchell," said John English, general counsel at the DNC and a former Muskie strategist.

"He's the kind of a fellow who would carry on in the fashion she would like. He is highly acceptable."

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace made a move Monday to influence the future makeup of the party organization. His campaign organization announced it is opening a temporary office in Washington in preparation for the December meeting of the DNC.

"We are seeking to place as many people on the national committee whose thinking is in tune with the people as we possibly can," said Charles Snider, national director of the Wallace campaign.

Democrats who think Mrs. Westwood should resign include the leadership of the Democratic Governors Caucus, various members of Congress, and members of the DNC.

A Strauss-Mitchell contest could precipitate a struggle between the conservative faction of the party behind Strauss against the more reform-minded, liberal element behind Mitchell.

However, all sources contacted Monday, including ardent Strauss backers, indicated that Mitchell is considerably more acceptable to all wings of the party than is Mrs. Westwood, who is closely associated with McGovern and his losing presidential campaign.

Hunt Inside A Sanctuary

BROOKHAVEN, N.Y. (AP) — Armed with shotguns to bring down the birds and a lawyer to hold back the "feds," seven Long Island sportsmen have opened the duck hunting season inside a federal game sanctuary.

The seven recently bought a 1,000-foot sliver of land surrounded by the sanctuary for a duck blind. But they were warned they could be arrested if they shot a duck that fell on federal land.

If they retrieved a fallen bird from the sanctuary they would be violating the federal trespassing law and if they left it they would be violating the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, they were told.

When the hunters showed up at their blind on the Carmans River north of Great South Bay on Monday, they had their lawyer in tow with a letter he had drafted asking for permission to pick up such birds.

But the lawyer and the U.S. game management agents on hand to observe had nothing to do. The hunters only shot two ducks and both dropped practically in their laps.

Lumber Industry Price Violations Face Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission says it will take "significant action" because of widespread price-control violations and illegal business practices in the lumber industry.

The commission said Monday it has found a 30-per-cent violation rate in price and profit reports filed by lumber companies subject to price controls.

"There's a little bit of greed throughout the system," said Peter Carpenter, the commission's deputy executive director who headed a special review of the lumber industry.

Carpenter said the review showed "the level of noncompliance is higher than in other industries" and that violations appeared to be scattered throughout various segments of the lumber industry.

The Cost of Living Council reimposed price controls on the industry in June after it was dissatisfied with pricing practices during a period free of the controls.

The commission said the Internal Revenue Service has launched its own probe and plans 367 separate investigations, more than in any other industry.

Price violations cited by the commission included increasing prices without first clearing them with the commission, a procedure required for companies with annual revenues over $100 million.

Other violations, it said, were: exceeding profit-margin limitations; exceeding allowable markups; and, in the case of companies with less than $100 million annual revenues, increasing prices without adequate cost justification.

Illegal business practices alleged by the commission included pyramid wholesaling in which the same carload of wood products is sold back and forth between two or more lumber wholesalers, with a markup added each time, before the carload is sold to the customer.

The commission also cited instances of "paper" transactions for sales of wood products to outlets in Canada although the products never left the country; schemes to ship lumber of poor quality; and false justification of cost increases through intracompany transfers.

Character Actor Dies

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Funeral services were planned today for Donald Clayton Driggers, a character actor in some 400 movies who died in a hospital here Sunday.

Driggers, 79, played in such films as "Sergeant York" with Gary Cooper and "Reap the Wild Wind" with Paulette Goddard during his 32-year acting career. He was a native of South Carolina but had lived in the Birmingham area for the past four years.

Some of his other movie roles were in "Love Crazy," with William Powell and Myrna Loy; "The Badlands of Dakota" with Robert Stack; "Woman of the Year" with Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn; and "Her Honor" with Rosalind Russell and Edward Arnold.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Dewie Driggers; a son, Ralph Driggers, Wayne, N. J., and three brothers, Al Driggers and Noah Driggers of Tampa, Fla., and Herbert Driggers of La Crescenta, Calif.

FBI Director Is Hospitalized

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — L. Patrick Gray, the acting director of the FBI, has been hospitalized for a possible intestinal obstruction, but doctors say there are no plans to operate at this time.

Gray was taken to Lawrence and Memorial Hospital Sunday night after complaining of abdominal pains while at his home in Stonington, Conn.

A spokesman for the hospital said Monday night that Gray was in satisfactory condition and resting comfortably.

No 'Messages' From Presley

HONOLULU (AP) — Elvis Presley says he will steer clear of ideological promotions on a worldwide television concert he plans to originate from Honolulu Jan. 14.

"I won't try to push any messages or anything," he told newsmen Monday. "I'll just offer good entertainment."

Rocco Laginestra, president of RCA Records, said the concert will be carried by satellite to at least 34 countries, reaching an audience of an estimated 1.5 billion persons.

Laginestra said negotiations are under way to include Russia and mainland China among the countries to which the telecast will be beamed.

South Koreans Vote In Face Of Cold And Snow

By K.C. HWANG
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park's bid to retain office indefinitely with increased powers appeared to win approval today as a big turnout braved cold and snow to vote in a nationwide referendum on Park's revised constitution. Election officials estimated more than 80 percent of the nation's 15.6 million eligible voters cast ballots before the polls closed at 5 p.m. There was no violence.

With opposition voices silenced by martial law, it was generally agreed that the voters would approve Park's bid to remove the limitations on the number of terms a president may serve.

The president, his wife and their eldest daughter cast their ballots at a polling station near the official residence.

The soldier-turned-politician told his 35 million people that the constitutional overhaul was needed to protect them from "big power" politics around the Korean peninsula, apparently referring to the Washington-Peking contacts and the establishment of diplomatic relations between Tokyo and Peking, and to help in the reunification discussions with North Korea.

The old constitution, which Park wrote in 1962 shortly after he came to power in a military coup, was suspended when he imposed martial law Oct. 17. He also dissolved the National Assembly, banned all political activities and shut down all universities, a major source of political dissension.

The proposed new constitution extends the president's term from four to six years, with no limit on the number of terms. Direct election of the president is replaced by an electoral college system with one elector elected in each of the nation's 2,800 townships.

The president also would appoint one-third of the National Assembly. The rest would be elected, but the assembly would have little power to check the presidential authority, and he could dissolve it whenever he chose to.

Sorority Names 'Girl Of Year'

The Alpha Omega chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha has chosen Mrs. Nellie Taylor as "Girl of the Year" for having rendered outstanding service to the sorority and the community.

She was presented a trophy provided by the N.C. State Council of the sorority Thursday night and will compete on the state level.

The primary purpose of the local chapter is to provide needed services for the clients of the Eastern North Carolina Sheltered Workshop. They entertain the clients with parties throughout the year and raise funds for equipment for the workshop.

Mrs. Taylor was president of the Alpha Omega chapter during 1968-69 and is now co-chairman of the Philanthropic Committee. She has been an organizer and active participant in projects for the Sheltered Workshop.

The wife of Jack Taylor and mother of two children, she is an active member of Mount Pleasant Christian Church and is secretary of the Pitt County Chapter of East Carolina University Alumni and secretary to the Board of Directors of the State ECU Alumni Association.

Tell Your Staff To Use 'Mister'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is a message to office employees, secretaries, and mine in particular:

I came to this office as a much younger man and now hold a responsible executive position. My secretary was here when I started, and along with other employees, she addressed me by my first name. Once an employee calls the boss by his first name, it's almost impossible to ask for a "Mister" without creating a chill that affects office efficiency.

My secretary is capable, but more than once she has embarrassed me by using my first name. Because I deal with some distinguished people, I try to answer my own phone, knowing that it's possible that my secretary may say, "Harry, it's for you?"

There are circumstances when it's terribly touchy to suddenly ask to be called "Mister" after one is addressed by his first name. That's the situation I find myself in.

Perhaps my employees will see this, and understand that they can't go wrong with a "Mister," but you can cause embarrassment and control irritation with a first name. In my contact with other executives, I am never favorably impressed with an office staff who refers to the boss as "Harry." CALL ME MISTER IN MID-MISSOURI

DEAR MISTER: Since you had what it took to go from a "Harry" to an executive, lay it on the line, and tell your staff that "Harry" is okay in inner-office conversation, but outside the "family" you'd prefer to be called "Mister."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl and have a question I hope you won't think is too dumb to answer. How do you get a boy to notice you? NOT VERY PRETTY

DEAR NOT: No question is too "dumb" to answer. You get a boy to notice you by noticing HIM. When he becomes aware that HE has been noticed by YOU, he'll notice you. And don't worry about being "not very pretty." A very wise man once said, "Beauty is a gift. Charm must be cultivated. A beautiful woman is one I notice. A charming woman is one who notices ME."

CONFIDENTIAL to "unmarried, pregnant, and between two fires": Since you state you are morally against abortion, and your only problem is whether to keep the baby or put it out for adoption, I urge you to go to an organization called BIRTHRIGHT. They are very much concerned about women in your plight and will help you to make a decision you can live with. God bless you.

Chicken and pastry for Sunday dinner! Sounds great, but if you make and cook it after church, dinner time often runs late in the afternoon. Try making your pastry Saturday (or early in the week), slice it, place layers divided by waxed paper and a cookie sheet, and freeze. After the pastry has frozen drop pieces into a plastic bag. (Pastry actually improves with freezing.) When you get home from church, put the broth on to boil. By the time you change clothes you can drop the frozen pastry into the broth (rolling boil) and cook as usual.

Got plenty of freezer space? Make several recipes of pastry at a time, freeze, and use as needed.

CAUTION: Do not cook turkeys by the high heat — low heat — overnight method. The oven temperature eventually reduces to a temperature which encourages bacterial development.

You might like to make your stuffing early, but do not stuff the turkey until just before cooking him. Also store left-over turkey and stuffing separately. Stuffing left in the turkey can remain dangerously warm for a long time even in the refrigerator.

Call the Extension Office (758-1196) for an excellent booklet on buying, preparing, and storing poultry. It will be sent to you free of charge.

How do you wash washable wool? Gently — with tender loving care. The washable wool finish only means that the wool is treated to withstand water. The wool, even with the washable finish, will have a tendency to revert back to its natural habit of felt shrinking. You may find that the wool fibers pill or fuzz up.

Hand washing is the preferred method in caring for washable wool garment. This washing process ensures a warm water temperature, very little agitation and a mild detergent or soap. Squeeze water out instead of wringing. If you machine wash, set the machine controls on a delicate cycle which gives a short agitation period. Use a mild detergent and warm water.

No 'Obituary' For Democrats

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The Democratic party in North Carolina is alive and well, and living in the local precinct.

Time and timing brought reverses for some of its candidates in the general election, but no rejection of the party, said James B. Hunt Jr.

What voters said at the polls on Nov. 7 was not so much "no" to Democrats as "yes" to a two-party scheme in Tar Heel politics, he suggested. In that light, he added, the results point to more competition and new vigor for both Democrats and Republicans.

"And I think that's good," Hunt said. "It will make all of us work harder at serving the people, listening and responding to them. That's really what politics is all about."

Where the people are is where party organization begins, he reminded. That means in the precinct, he said, and it means everyone in the party.

Specifically, Hunt counseled in the election aftermath that the Democratic party needs to make room for the followers of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Wallace Followers Important
"Those who identify strongly with Gov. Wallace are important to the party, and they must play an important role in it," he affirmed.

Hunt has youth and political savvy and the position that will give his views influence in Democratic ruling circles. Running the first time for public office, he won easily as lieutenant governor while Republicans beat Democratic candidates for governor and the U.S. Senate.

At 35, the Wilson attorney will be the youngest ranking official in the next administration and the top elected Democrat. He will be serving a heartbeat away from the governor's office, occupied by James E. Holshouser Jr. as the first GOP chief executive in this century.

He will be one of those looked to in the days ahead as Democrats go about mending the party.

He discarded "re-building" as a word inappropriate for the task. "The North Carolina Democratic party is strong. It is unified," he insisted.

"Yes, we lost two major races," he conceded. "Yes, we need to do some things. We need to make crystal clear that everyone in the Democratic party is important. We need to have the party operate on eight cylinders, from state to county to precinct level."

Quota Question Raised
Some old-line Democrats have felt unimportant and shut out by a plan of party organization designed to assure access to youth, women and blacks. The interpret it as a form of "quotas," identified in the national party with George McGovern, the defeated presidential candidate.

The rules brought a new crowd to the last state convention, and sent to the national convention a mixed-bag delegation in which long-time party figures were conspicuously absent. Some observers have read in the election results disgruntlement with the party changes.

Quotas are not part of the plan, said Hunt, who chaired the study group which wrote it. "I personally led the fight against quotas," he added.

What the language calls for, he explained, is that party make-up "reasonably reflect" age, sex and race. To the extent that that might be taken to mean quotas, he said, there must be a clarification. "At the same time, we want all to have a reasonable voice in party affairs," he said.

Hunt declined to pick over the bones of the campaign. "It's too easy to say, 'If you won, you did everything right; if you lost, you did everything wrong,'" he observed.

Good, hard campaigns were waged by Democrats Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr. for governor and Nick Galifianakis for U.S. Senate, as well as their successful Republican opponents, Hunt said.

Time and Timing Factors
If one factor was decisive in the race for governor, he speculated, it was the long tenure of Democrats in power. "Seventy-two years and time for a change made an appealing call," he said.

Timing was critical in the U.S. Senate contest, he added, coinciding with the landslide sentiment for President Nixon. Voters attuned to national issues tended to couple the two offices.

Hard work was fundamental to his own race, Hunt said. "I'm not saying other candidates didn't work hard, because they did," he said.

Presiding over the Senate for the 1973 session and naming its committees is a first major assignment facing the incoming lieutenant governor. When the legislature convenes Jan. 10, Hunt promised, the list of committee appointments will be ready.

Whether any Republicans will be among committee chairmen is a decision yet to be made. In any event, Hunt said, he is confident that the General Assembly can give fair consideration to issues before it without regard to partisan differences.

moving traffic through a heavily congested area.

The five lane facility is 64 feet wide and is curbed and guttered. It has a center lane for left and right turns and, where it passes through the ECU campus there is a pedestrian median to help make crossing safer for walking traffic.

Traffic signals will be maintained at strategic intersections including Tenth Street intersections with Cotanche, Charles, College Hill Drive, Elm and Fifth Streets. A signal will also be installed at Greenville Boulevard, where Tenth intersects with the Eastern bypass now under construction.

The 2.4 miles project was built under construction contract of $1,877,200 and it has been under construction since April, 1971.

This project was way overdue and apparently was delayed during the administration of Gov. Moore. Funds were allocated after Scott took office and now this important local thoroughfare is a reality.

Tenth Street will tie in with the Eastern bypass and with planned improvements to Charles Street. It will channel traffic near the downtown area. With the construction of a short link on Cotanche Street it can take traffic to the Reade Circle thoroughfare now being constructed to serve the Central Business District.

For a decade The Daily Reflector has called for the much needed improvements on Tenth Street. At last the project is a reality and will be most helpful in our growing city.

Urgency As To Policing Force

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The four powers picked to supervise the Vietnam cease-fire are under heavy pressure from the Nixon administration to complete the selection of their military contingents and place them on 72-hour notice for duty in South Vietnam.

Each of the four-nation contingents is expected to average about 1,200 officers and men. Altogether, then, the four countries — Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia — will have a supervisory force of around 5,000.

However, each of the four countries has serious reservations about certain aspects of their policing duties, particularly the safety of their men in a situation fraught with obvious peril. The size of the total force strongly indicates that there is no remote possibility of the four-nation force stopping all or even most violations of the cease-fire — when finally signed by Washington and Hanoi.

Rather, experts here believe the force will be split into small groups and positioned in headquarters locations between the South Vietnamese army and Hanoi's estimated 110,000 front-line troops, scattered in many widely-sparated areas.

The danger that this policing force, despite the cease-fire, will be caught in military actions between the opposing troops is obviously grave. Of the four countries, Canada is the most skeptical about the whole undertaking. Canadian officials have sought assurances for the safety of its contingent. But with Mr. Nixon pressing hard for the force to be put in place at precisely the time the cease-fire takes effect, safety guarantees would seem to be utterly impossible.

Nixon's New Egghead
President Nixon has tentatively decided on Irving Kristol, a distinguished liberal-intellectual, to be a high-level White House aide — a decision with deep implications for the White House and the Democratic party.

No formal position has been defined for Kristol, but he is expected to perform roughly the role of Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan just before his return to Harvard in 1971 — a broad-gauged adviser on domestic policy without operational responsibility. To thoughtful Republicans who have lamented the absence of intellectual content at the White House since then, Kristol will be a welcome addition.

But it is bad news for old-fashioned liberals fighting to reclaim the Democratic party from McGovernites. A professor of urban values at New York University and co-editor of the quarterly Public Interest, Kristol deserted the Democrats this year and endorsed President Nixon, writing in an Oct. 13 Wall Street Journal essay that "the destiny of the Democratic party is in the hands of a movement committed to...the politics of irresponsibility." That essay became required reading by the White House staff, with routine FBI checks on Kristol following soon thereafter.

Meany's New Crusade
Riding high as a result of his accurate forecast of Sen. George McGovern's calamitous Presidential defeat, AFL-CIO president George Meany has now embarked on a new crusade: Congressional passage of the protectionist Burke-Hartke bill to end special tax concessions for multi-national U.S. corporations.

Meany has quietly appointed a committee of a dozen presidents of leading American labor unions, spearheaded by I. W. Abel of the Steelworkers, to organize a total labor effort in the new Congress. The move seems certain to put him on a collision course with President Nixon, who is now in Meany's debt as a result of his AFL-CIO neutrality edict in the Presidential campaign.

HUMBLE SERVICE

There is a man in our home town who has devoted himself to volunteer service in a hospital. He goes about doing menial tasks. Probably the thing he does most is to wheel people about in chairs or read to others that are bedfast or think up some way to amuse people who are apparently beyond the capacity to be amused.

Great will be his reward in heaven. "As ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me" (Matthew 25:40).

There is nothing very glamorous about housework, but we can be sure that many a woman who has slaved her life away for others will have her name in the Book of Life. The widow's mite was not much of a monetary contribution but it drew out the praise of the Great Master (Mark 12:42; Luke 21:2). The Lord is apparently more interested in little things than we sometimes realize.

And why not? Life is largely made up of little things. We remember our parents with awe and affection not just because they did some great things for us (if indeed they did great things) but because of the multitude of little things which went on day after day and year after year.

The line between greatness and mediocrity is hazy indeed. The Bible does not pay much attention to big and little. It is inner worth that counts — the carrying-out of God's purposes.

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Board Chairman Burger

Warren Earl Burger, to judge from his opinions over the past three terms, is not likely ever to rank with Marshall and Warren among the great Chief Justices of American jurisprudence. Burger's mind has no bent for building landmarks. But it is a fair guess that the determined Minnesotan will achieve something else: He will outrank the rest as a builder of our courts.

It may seem a poor compliment to praise a Chief Justice in terms of judicial reform. One might as aptly praise a Prime Minister for laying a nice course of bricks.

Yet Burger's accomplishments in court administration merit a round of solid applause. The first obligation of a judge is not to be efficient; his first obligation is to be just. But if Burger has his way — and he is getting his way — justice and efficiency will march forward hand in hand.

As the Chief many times has pointed out, our nation's courts (and especially the Federal courts) have been experiencing an explosive growth in litigation in recent years, largely as a consequence of new laws, changing court decisions, and a veritable revolution in the criminal law. In 1960, some 59,000 civil cases were filed in U.S. District Courts. In the last fiscal year, the number was 96,000. The surge in criminal cases has been equally dramatic. Just under 30,000 criminal cases were brought in 1960; there were 49,000 last year.

Burger had been concerned at these trends long before Nixon raised him to the high court in 1969. Using his new position to excellent advantage, he became a roving apostle for judicial reform. He complained incessantly at the law's delays. Often he contrasted the slow and meticulous processes of American trails with the brisk, no-nonsense approach of the British. He urged a new standard of justice — not the perfect trial, but the fair trial.

Largely as a result of Burger's missionary efforts, the creeping movement toward judicial reform decided to get up and trot. Many other individuals and institutions, of course, contributed to the new momentum. Maryland's former Senator Tydings, for one example, pushed through the Federal Magistrates Act of 1968. The American Bar Association and other professional bodies have played a major role. Most important, the Federal judges themselves, some of them pretty crusty characters, generally have shown a cooperative spirit.

The results, if not exactly dramatic, are surely encouraging. Under the Magistrates Act, which became fully effective in July of 1971, a corps of 81 full-time and 400-part time magistrates last year disposed of more than 237,000 items of District Court business. They tried thousands of minor offenses, conducted pre-trial conferences, handled im-

Other Editors Say Housing, 1973

(Christian Science Monitor)

It is certain that the new Congress which convenes in January will have to put the housing crisis close to the top of its priority list. The debate that goes along with reconsideration of federal intervention in the housing construction market, past and future, is bound to be explosive.

That much is already established by the contradictory conclusions of two studies on the problem. One, done by a panel of nonpartisan experts, for the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, finds federal housing programs to be a crazy-quilt patchwork, offering insufficient and inadequate housing to the poor, and enriching the building and financing industries.

The second study, done for the building and lending industries by a private Chicago consultant, finds that the federal programs are basically sound, but in need of reform. A major conflict between recommendations of the two studies arises from the proposal to stop pouring federal funds into building new housing projects and give direct cash subsidies to poor families to find their own housing on the open market.

One of the main objections to this latter course is that where housing is scarce, this would inflate housing costs. But in many central cities, where most of the country's worst-housed poor families live, there is an abundance of empty and abandoned housing which could be rehabilitated if the demand existed, as well as available good housing in areas which currently restrict blacks. By combining a selective program of cash housing subsidies in cities with a strong civilrights enforcement plan, the housing pressures could be relieved in these urban areas.

Congress should both consider the merits of a selective cash subsidy program, and subject existing housing programs to rigorous scrutiny and reform.

Neither the politics nor the economics of U.S. housing, which has unique regional problems, will yield to any one simple approach.

Profits Embarrass Executives

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the past year has been one of financial progress for both management and labor, the big increases in corporate profits that are now being reported are producing irritation and embarrassment for executives.

They are embarrassed because the percentage increases are so great. It now appears likely that the increase for 1972 over 1971 will be about 15 per cent. And there is the likelihood of a repeat in 1973.

While corporate officials concede these figures are high, they are irritated by the failure of casual readers to recall the reason why: 1971 profits were depressingly low.

They are indignant also that labor leaders are inclined to seize on those percentages without explaining that what appears to be a mountain of profits has its base in a very deep ravine — that is, in the recession of 1971.

Actually, they add, profits should be even higher if they are to return to more "normal" levels and if industry is to attract the investment capital needed for expansion.

Price Commission regulations, however, may prevent that occurrence, although some changes might be forthcoming in Phase III, if there is one.

As of now, profit margins must be kept to the average of the best two of the years 1968-1969-1970. But, as the corporate officials note, that was a period of poor earnings. Many of them want the base period revised.

If profits rise 15 per cent this year, the corporate defenders say, it will merely bring them back to where they were in 1968, when the gross national product, or total of goods and services produced, was considerably smaller.

Dr. Albert H. Cox Jr., a former Nixon administration economist and now executive vice president of Lionel D. Edie & Co., as well as senior adviser economic to Merrill Lynch, would like to see the Phase II base period AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan the day's recreations early so you can get right into them after a hard day's work. Show the one you love how truly devoted you are. A spirit of generosity can be most helpful now. Avoid one who argues.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Give more attention to home and family today and you find that conditions improve there considerably. Either entertain or relax at home in p.m., and make everyone happy there. Show you are a good family man or woman.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people with a fast and clever mind, who will get along famously with everyone because of the interest in almost every subject there is, as well as be a joy to the family which is raising him or her. Teach early to complete whatever has once been started, otherwise your child could go from one thing to the other and never really accomplish much. Find the strong points early and slant education along such lines.

Correspondence and military orders from World War II Generals Eisenhower, Patton and Bradley are among the 2,000 items recently donated to East Carolina University by Major General Ira T. Wyche.

Gen. Wyche, commanding general of the 79th Infantry Division in Europe and later Inspector General of the Army, has given his papers to the ECU Manuscript Collection for use in historical studies of the war years.

Born in Ocracoke in 1887, Gen. Wyche was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 1911. After border patrol duty in Texas, he joined the World War I American Expeditionary Forces in France in 1918.

Until 1941 he held various Artillery posts, culminating in the command of the 74th Field Artillery Brigade. In May, 1942, he became commanding general of the famous 79th Infantry Division which he began to train for combat in Europe.

During 1944 and 1945, the 79th (known as the Cross of Lorraine Division) faced some of the most devastating resistance of the war. Upon landing at Normandy June 12, 1944, the Division traveled more than 2300 miles across Europe until V-E Day found it deep in the Ruhr Valley of Germany.

Gen. Wyche's Division is credited with taking Cherbourg with its "impregnable" Fort du Roule and it was the first to cross the Seine in the Allied drive on Paris.

After the war, Gen. Wyche served as commander of the VIII Corps in Germany, the III Corps at Camp Polk, La., and the First Service Command at Boston. In January, 1947, he was made Inspector General of the Army.

The following year, he retired to Pinehurst, N.C., where he and Mrs. Wyche, the former Mary Louise Dunn, now reside.

Included in the ECU Wyche Collection are the General's complete personal files from his appointment as commander of the 74th Artillery Brigade in 1942 until his retirement from the Army.

Correspondence, reports, maps, military orders, citations, photographs and texts of speeches make up the bulk of the material. Two day-by-day diaries reflect his activities between March, 1944 and Jan., 1947.

ECU Manuscript Collection Director Donald R. Lennon commented that the Wyche papers constitute "one of the finest World War II collections anywhere in the nation."

"Through Gen. Wyche's files, it is possible to trace the 79th Division and the American armies across Europe with great ease," he said.

The papers will be housed with other collections in the ECU

Manuscript Collection located in the campus Joyner Library. After proper arranging and description is completed, the collection will be available to students and historians for research.

In addition, a selection of campaign maps, photographs, flags and other material from the collection will be on public display in the library lobby in the near future.

migration matters, and screened hundreds of habeas corpus petitions.

This past fiscal year saw a new circuit executive program well launched in seven of the ten appellate divisions. This also was the first year of operation for the Federal Public Defender offices and the Community Defender Organizations. More than half the 94 Federal District Courts continued to experiment with the newly-sanctioned six-member juries in civil cases.

Much remains to be done. Here and there the magistrates may have overstepped their authority. Despite significant reductions in trial delays, more than 4,200 criminal cases had been pending on June 30 for more than two years. Criticism continues of the six-member juries. The Supreme Court itself, swamped in 4,500 petitions a year, sorely requires relief. A new Court of Review, composed of senior circuit judges, will be commended to Congress by a blue-ribbon study panel. It may be an answer.

The problem of "the law's delays" was an old problem long before Hamlet lamented the injustice that is caused thereby. The problem never can be solved completely. But at least in our Federal courts, a new energy and purpose can be felt. Burger is proving himself, if not a brilliant jurist, at least a first-rate chairman of the board.

and national health insurance. Neither has anything like the urgency of the bill designed to stop the export of American jobs called Burke-Hartke (after Rep. James S. Burke of Massachusetts and Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, both Democrats).

The bill aims to end tax advantages for U.S. corporations with foreign outposts and impede the right of U.S. corporations to license their foreign subsidiaries. It collides head-on with Mr. Nixon's free-trade policies and could spell the end of the Meany-Nixon dalliance.

New Suit Is Facing Him

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Already facing legal actions in several states, Orlando businessman Glenn Turner was made defendant in yet another civil suit Monday.

Gordon S. Martin Jr. of Jacksonville asks return of $2,000 he says he spent for Turner's "Dare To Be Great" motivational course plus his court expenses and punitive damages to be set. Martin says he was lured to the St. Petersburg Hilton Hotel by the offer of a free weekend and while there was subjected to "a psychological onslaught of brainwashing..." He says his signature was obtained through duress, misrepresentation and fraud.

Defendants are Turner, his Dare To Be Great company and two of its representatives, Bobby and Janice Nettles of Nassau County.

Collins-Pridmore Store To Close Here

Collins-Pridmore Department Store on Dickinson Avenue disclosed plans to terminate business activities here on Dec. 31.

Charlie Harris, manager, said this morning that the business, owned by the Charlotte-based Collins Co., is closing due to plans by the Redevelopment Commission to purchase the building as part of clearance for the new Reade Circle now under construction.

Harris, who reported that Collins-Pridmore does not plan to relocate at this time in Greenville, said that closing of the local business will leave 12 others in North and South Carolina in the Collins chain.

Collins-Pridmore has been in business here for some 20 years, the manager noted, opening in February of 1952. He added that the store will be open for normal business activities until Dec. 31 close-out date.

Joe Laney, executive director of the Redevelopment Commission, said today that the commission, in continuing a policy not to acquire a business structure until an adequate alternate site is available, had brought to the attention of the Collins Co. the Winn-Dixie facility on Tenth Street and the A&P site on Dickinson Avenue as possible relocation sites.

"We felt either would be ideal sites for them," he commented, adding that the commission would pay moving expenses for the relocation. He said that the commission felt the Winn-Dixie site, in particular, would offer "much better parking, more retail space in the building, and better access."

"We would very much like to see them reconsider and take a good hard look at the sites," Laney said. "We certainly don't want to put anybody out of business and would like to help them in any way we can in relocating."

NCCLU To Intervene In Several New Cases

Directors of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union agreed over the weekend to intervene in behalf of Robeson County Indian parents in the controversy over control of the public schools of that county.

The board's unanimous decision at a meeting in Greenville, was in response to an appeal by one of its members, Mrs. Brenda Brooks, on behalf of an ad hoc group called Concerned Indians of Robeson County.

At issue is an electoral scheme by which voters throughout the county, including residents of five autonomous city school districts, elect a county board of education. The various city school boards are elected by voters within their particular districts.

All six separate school systems are financed by a per-pupil allocation of county revenues.

Consequently, said Mrs. Brooks, the predominantly white city electorates not only maintain white control of their particular school boards, but assure white domination of the county board which directs a rural school system that is but 20 per cent white.

Robeson's unincorporated rural population is 60 per cent Indian, 20 per cent black and 20 per cent white, yet five of its seven school board members are white.

The NCCLU position would be that election of the county school board should be limited to non-city residents or, alternatively, that all six school boards should be elected on a county-wide basis, according to Norman B. Smith of Greensboro, the Union's general counsel.

Also in the course of its meeting at the Baptist Student Center here, the NCCLU board agreed to file a damage suit on behalf of a Durham man who contends that his home was ransacked and his family terrorized by law officers acting under a defective search warrant.

And the board voted to file a civil rights suit on behalf of a black Boy Scout who was refused admission to the Rollo-Rama skating rink in Sanford when his troop went there on an outing.

Other cases approved include that of a Charlotte man challenging federal flag-desecration law and a challenge by several state prisoners regarding prison hair-length regulations.

briefing by officials of the Foreign Trade section on import-export possibilities and German industrial expansion overseas. A highlight on the eve of the national elections was a sightseeing trip to the famous Cologne Cathedral and a tour of ancient Roman remains, and later a tour of the Rhine and a wine estate in Westphalia.

In Emmelhäusen and Karback the group observed afternoon political campaign tours. Later there was a reception given by the Lord Mayor of Bonn at the City Hall. The group visited the Hotel Petersberg, suggested as a possible site of a University of North Carolina campus in Europe.

On Sunday night, the group visited the German Parliament to observe election returns, and attended an election analysis on Monday.

The schedule called for a return to North Carolina on Wednesday.

Charged With Bank Robbery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police say they have captured a suspect in the robbery of a local motel and a bank in Fountain, N.C.

They identified the suspect as Frank Gorham Sr., 41, who was arrested Sunday morning as he entered a motel room registered in the name of a friend.

At the time, police said, he was carrying a sawed-off 12-gauge shotgun concealed under his overcoat, 25 shells for it in an ammunition belt, and a loaded .32-caliber pistol.

Detectors, who said Gorham had $51 when arrested, asked him what he had done with the proceeds of the robberies with which he is charged. The robberies include the $11,700 hold-up of the Edgecomb Bank and Trust Co. at Fountain Nov. 10.

Detectors said he replied: "Oh, I gave it to people who need it."

The FBI said it had charged him with a bank robbery in Fountain.

Police said Gorham escaped from a maximum security ward for the criminally insane.

Parking Pattern Of Two Streets Is Changed

Changes in the parking pattern on portions of Ward and Latham Streets were announced today by Greenville Police Department officials.

Chief Glenn Cannon said effective immediately, no parking will be allowed on the North side of Ward Street, between Elizabeth and Latham Streets and on the East side of Latham Street, between Fifth and Ward Streets.

The elimination of parking on one side of the streets is designed to alleviate congestion in the area caused by vehicles parking on both sides of the streets in that area.

Chief Cannon said vehicles parked illegally in the area would be towed away at the owner expense.

Confiscated 13 Slot Machines

Robert L. Smith of 105 N. Sylvan Drive, owner of Smith's Motel here, has been arrested by Pitt County deputies on a charge of possession of gambling devices.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Smith was arrested Friday and charged with possessing slot machines at his Memorial Drive business.

Deputies confiscated 13 slot machines from a storage room at the motel, the sheriff said.

Bond was set at $200, he noted, and a hearing scheduled for Dec. 13 in District Court here.

Man Jailed In Shooting

A Rt. 3, Washington man is in Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond following a Sunday afternoon shooting that left his brother-in-law in serious condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Jerry Rufus Mizzell, 23, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill following investigation of an incident in which James Perry Morgan, 19, also of Rt. 3, was shot in the face as he sat in his car at a residence south of Pactolus.

Sheriff Tyson said the shooting apparently followed an argument between the two men.

He noted that Morgan was shot through the car windshield and the 30-30 caliber bullet struck him in the face and left shoulder.

A hospital spokesman said this morning that Morgan is still in the special surgical unit receiving intensive care. Morgan's condition was still listed as serious.

Fans, Not Performance, Reason For Pirates Being Passed Over

The news yesterday morning that Tampa University had been extended the Tangerine Bowl bid over East Carolina left Coach Sonny Randle and his East Carolina University Pirates heartbroken. And we can't much blame them.

Throughout the season, against adversity and adversity, the Pirates had performed. They molded a 9-1 season with one game left, and won the Southern Conference championship, something they weren't given a chance at doing at the start of the season.

Even Randle had no allusions of the year the Pirates put together. At the start of the season, knowing that the entire offensive line had to be rebuilt, he and his staff figured that a winning season, let alone a championship, would be a major victory.

The Bucs lost heavily from potential reserves at the start of the year when Randle and his staff put the players through a difficult pre-season, guaranteed to get them into the best of condition. Many of the less strong left. But those who stayed became men of iron. And the season has proven this. Few of the Bucs have been injured this year.

And those early weeks brought the survivors into a close-knit circle, a circle that nothing has been able to break. They set their goals and they went after them.

In the course of the next 10 games, the Pirates built up one of the toughest defenses in the country. They propelled themselves into the role of favorite in the conference, despite the fact that many in the conference didn't want them there. And when nearly everyone was picking them to lose out in the end, they won it anyway.

Granted they had a letdown on Saturday. They were due one. But they still won, and that is all that mattered.

The outcome of the game, the closeness of the victory didn't really matter to the Tangerine Bowl officials who were here Saturday to give the Pirates a look. They wanted the Pirates to be the team to meet with Kent State.

The reason the Pirates weren't chosen wasn't because of anything the team did. It was because of what the fans did.

Not those few loyal ones who showed up, but those who didn't. Here was a team that had gone out against all odds, had not only won the Southern Conference championship, but had produced an exciting team with a 9-1 record. And there were only 10,000 fans there to see them.

The Tangerine officials took one look and that was enough. If a team with the excitement of the Pirates can't draw in their own stadium, how on earth could they draw in Orlando, Fla.

And that decided it.

"I've never been more disappointed, never,"

Williamston In Opening Victory

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston High School boys opened their season last night with a 52-27 romp over Robersonville's Golden Eaglettes, also playing their first game.

The boys game was postponed because of Williamston's continued participation in the football playoffs. Williamston eased out into a 10-8 lead in the first period, then pulled away in the second frame. The Tigerettes outthrust Robersonville, 17-6 in the quarter, building up a 27-14 lead at intermission.

In the third period, the action slowed, but Williamston continued to pull away with a 9-4 advantage in scoring. That made it 36-18 as the final quarter began. In that, Williamston outthrust Robersonville, 16-9, to win going away.

Pam Warren led Williamston with 15 points, while Sherry Roberson had 11 and Sissy Taylor had 10. Brenda James led Robersonville with nine points. Williamston's next scheduled game, with Oak City Wednesday, has been postponed. They are next set to meet Edenton next Tuesday. Robersonville travels to North Pitt on Wednesday.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Sonny Randle said after learning the news. "And I know that our squad feels the same way. What do you have to do to get a bowl invitation?"

"It's a shame when a championship team doesn't get a bid because of how many people you'll take with you," he added. "And that was what decided it. They were here Saturday, and it was the smallest crowd of the year. That had to have some bearing on it."

And an official of the bowl game admitted that this was the case.

It's easy to say that the Duke-Carolina and the NCC-A&T games kept people away—but not that many people. It's also easy to say that the Pirates haven't played any "big" teams at home.

But try and get some of those teams into Ficklen Stadium. The first thing they consider is money, and without full stands, that money isn't there.

If the people of Eastern North Carolina want quality football, they've got to pay for it. They've got to support the Pirates through thick and thin. They wanted a championship football team and a winner and they got it.

But when Saturday rolled around, they still were somewhere else. And it wasn't just this Saturday. There were more people in Ficklen Stadium for Homecoming two years ago when the Bucs hadn't won a game than there were several weeks ago when they had lost only one.

So, people, if you want it, you've got to support it.

You've got to show up on Saturday. You've got to put your money into the Pirate club to insure that a year like this one keeps going, and that East Carolina will move onto a level with the likes of Carolina and State, the teams you want the team to play.

And don't go grumbling about the fact that that Pirates didn't play well Saturday, or lost to State, or maybe will get killed by Carolina. It wasn't the Pirates who lost the bowl bid—it was the fans who weren't interested enough.

If you're not going to support East Carolina athletics—don't gripe about the way things go for them.

Hunter, Cherry, Bunn, Ragazzo Picked But Perkins Is Ignored

Wilson's Fike High School, co-champions of Division II, paced the All-Conference team selected by the six coaches of the conference.

Co-champ Goldsboro managed only four members of the 24-man squad, along with Rose High School, the fourth place finisher. Third place Rocky Mount placed five on the team.

Kinston and New Bern, who brought up the rear, had two each on the squad.

Making the team from Rose were Al Hunter at the running back position, Lee Cherry at offensive guard, Henry Bunn at defensive end, and Phil Ragazzo as kicking specialist.

Ignored by the coaches was Reggie Perkins, the second leading ground-gainer in the conference behind Hunter. Both runner collected over 1,000 yards each.

Joining Hunter in the backfield was Devon Ford of Goldsboro, the only other 1,000-yard rusher, and P.D. Bartlett of Rocky Mount. The quarterback was Randy Warrick of Rocky Mount.

Others on the team included Tim Frazier of Goldsboro and Ralph Moore of Wilson at offensive ends. Tony Paroli of Wilson and Henry Binson of Goldsboro at offensive tackle; Ricky Hamlet of Kinston at offensive guard. David Clayton of Wilson at center.

The defensive unit included John Dinan of Rocky Mount and Lance Fulghum of Wilson at ends. Sonny Wooten of Rocky Mount and Benson Ellis of Wilson at tackles. Jerry Powell of Rocky Mount. Jerry Gathercole of New Bern. James Atkinson of Goldsboro and Charles Strater of Wilson at linebackers, and Miller Gibbons of Wilson. John Hughes of New Bern and Jeff Head of Kinston at the back positions.

Contest Winners

Joan Daughtry of 106 N. Oak St., Apartment 2, and Clarence Stasavich of 1101 W. Rock Spring Road, are the winners of the final week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Both correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games listed in the final contest. Four other people also picked 27 correctly but the two winners were just one point off the actual point total of 71 with a guess of 72, while the others were further off.

Singing Redskins Roll Past Atlanta

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
"Three cheers for the Redskins," sang the husky-voiced Washington football team. "Three cheers for the Redskins... rah, rah, rah."
These are grown men, mind you.

"Hooray for Pat. Hooray for Pat Fischer," continued the off-key locker room chorus. "Hooray for Alvin. Hooray for Alvin Hammond. Rah, rah, rah."
The Redskins are the world's oldest, largest, highest-paid Boy Scouts. George Allen is as much their scoutmaster as the coach of the National Football League powerhouse.

After a victory, Allen passes out game footballs like so many merit badges. Monday night was Fischer's turn for gutty defense that got him a black eye and Hammond's turn for nifty kick returning.
"We sing because we're happy," said Allen. "It was a big win for us. The pressure's now on the Dallas Cowboys for Thursday's game. We'll just sit back and watch what happens."

Washington had just smacked over the Atlanta Falcons 24-13 for their seventh straight, the longest streak of Redskin victories since 1942 when D.C. had its last world champion.
Billy Kilmer hit 7-for-7 in the third quarter, topping an 89-yard march with an 18-yard touchdown pass to Larry Brown and later hitting tight end Jerry Smith on a 12-yard score.
A 10-7 Falcon halftime lead vanished amid the Kilmer barrage that put Washington into 21-10 command. Bill Bell kicked a fourth-period field goal and Curt Knight matched it with a 37-yarder that drew a standing ovation.

Knight, you see, had blown six straight field goal attempts and had been showered with boos for two earlier goofs.
Kilmer, rushed by 250-pound Claude Humphrey, threw an interception in the first quarter that Ken Reeves returned eight yards to the Redskins' 44.
Three plays later, Atlanta quarterback Bob Berry rifled a 36-yard touchdown pass to tight end Jim Mitchell for a 7-0 Falcon lead.

Ted Vactor fumbled a Falcon punt at the Redskin 30 to set the table for a 33-yard field goal by Bell that made it 10-0 as the Washington clientele squirmed in their seats.
Falcon runner Art Malone cooled his team's hot streak with a fumble that was covered up by linebacker Chris Hanburger.

Kilmer hit Roy Jefferson for eight yards and Charley Taylor made 14 on an end-around to set up a one-yard scoring charge by the incredible

Brown. It was then 10-7, setting the stage for Kilmer's third period heroics that erased Atlanta hopes for an upset.
Brown muscled for five yards on his first carry of the game, hitting 1,000 for the season with four games to go.

Conley Defeats Panthers, 54-36

BETHEL — A new year is here in basketball, but it's the same old story at North Pitt High School.

The Big Orange Machine, which has never lost a basketball game in the two-year history of the school, rolled to a 53-20 win over D. H. Conley last night as the North Pitt girls set out in search of another championship.

In the boys game, however, Conley got its revenge with a 54-36 win.

The Big Orange Machine, the defending state champion in girls basketball rolled up a 15-1 margin in the first period and was in no danger after that. They outthit Conley, 16-0 in the second quarter and led, 31-1 at halftime.

In the third period, North Pitt again outthit and Valkyries, 11-8, to boost the lead to 42-9. They finished up with an 11-11 final period to record their first win of the year.

Minnie Hollis led the Panther scoring with 12 points, while Linda Lloyd had 10 for Conley.

In the boys' game, Conley burst out into a 14-8 lead in the first period and was never headed. They outthit the Panthers, 12-6, in the second frame and held a 26-14 lead at halftime.

Conley again outscored North Pitt, 18-8, in the third quarter, running its margin out to 44-22. The Panthers finally outscored the Vikings, 14-10, in the final period, but to no avail.

Kervin Hawkins led the Vikings with 12 points, while Larry Daniels had 11 and Mike Sutton had 10. Joe Wright had 10 to lead North Pitt.

Conley hosts Greene Central, while Robersonville visits North Pitt on Wednesday.

Oak City Falls In Opening Game

EDENTON — Chowan High School gained a pair of victories over Oak City High School last night. The boys won, 57-37, while the girls also romped, 48-22. It was the opening game of the year for the Trojans.

In the girls' contest, Chowan pushed out into a 13-8 lead in the first period and were never caught after that. They outthit the Trojanettes, 8-4, in the second frame, building up a 21-12 lead.

In the third quarter, Chowan continued to pull away, making their biggest break, 17-6. That boosted the lead out to 37-18. They again outthit Oak City, 10-4, in the final period to complete the rout.

Sandra and Beverly Byrum each poured in 15 points to lead Chowan. Sylvia Jones had 12 points to pace Oak City.
Chowan eased out into a 14-12 lead in the first period of the boys game then got a little more breathing room in the second period. They outthit the Torjans, 10-6, and built up a 24-18 margin by halftime.

In the third period, as in the girls game, Chowan made its big move. They dumped in 21 points, while holding Oak City to just seven. That let Chowan build its lead to 45-25. Both teams pushed in 12 points in the final stanza to keep the 20-point margin for Chowan.

Robert Elliott led Chowan with 13 points, while Milton Roundtree and Marvin Roberts each had 11 and Mack Terry had 10. Billy Greene led Oak City with 11 points.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California's unbeaten Trojans maintained their runaway lead over Alabama in The Associated Press college football ratings today while Auburn replaced Notre Dame for the only change in the Top Ten.

Following Saturday's impressive 24-7 drubbing of 14th-ranked UCLA that gave them the Pacific-8 championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl, the Trojans pulled down 44 first-place votes and 988 of a possible 1,000 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama and Michigan, the only other unbeaten teams in the country, continued to run 2-3. The second-ranked Crimson Tide blasted Virginia Tech 52-13 to nail down a Cotton Bowl invitation and received five first-place ballots and 874 points.

Michigan used a field goal with 64 seconds left to turn back Purdue 9-6. The Wolverines, who need only a win or tie against ninth-ranked Ohio State this weekend to capture the Big Ten crown and the other Rose Bowl berth, received the remaining first-place vote and 744 points.

The 4-5-6-7-8-9 positions were retained by Oklahoma, Nebraska, Penn State, Texas, Louisiana State and Ohio State but Auburn inched up from 11th to 10th by trouncing Georgia 27-10 while Notre Dame slid from 10th to 11th after barely holding off Miami, Fla., 20-17.

The Worry Clinic 'Elf' In World Of Giant-Size

Ruth's problem is not a salacious interest in sex. Instead, she is demonstrating the age-old conflict of the little elf in a world of giants. So take the "Giant Test" outlined below. Then you can understand kiddies far better.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE V-550: Ruth R., aged 10, worries her mother.
"Dr. Crane," the latter began, "Ruth seems abnormally interested in advertisements for woman's bra."
"She cuts out those ads that show a bra and keeps a scrapbook of them."

"Isn't this sign of abnormal interest in sex?"

"Has she been seeing too many TV shows, for otherwise why should she show this exaggerated interest in breast supports?"

Adult Symbols
Youngsters envy the many advantages enjoyed by the giants in their environment.

And adults are actually giants to young children!

Thus, a toddler may not be half his father's height and weigh only 30 to 40 pounds.

His daddy may be 6 feet tall and weigh 200 pounds.

We adults have forgotten this outlook of kiddies, for we tend to forget painful and unpleasant memories.

An elf or tiny person is thus not delighted to be so weak and helpless in our adult giant world, so he soon forgets the child's viewpoint after he attains the age of 21.

But you adults can easily regain some of that elfish attitude by stretching your imagination.

For example, assume at this very moment that you are surrounded by men who are 12 feet tall and weigh 1,000 pounds. Then you would be in a comparable situation to that which confronts the pre-school toddlers!

To carry the analogy further imagine that chair seats were all twice their present height from the floor.

Tables and beds would likewise be twice as high.

Table silverware would be twice as long.

Glasses would be twice as large (which is why toddlers often let a glass slip, for their fingers don't reach half way around it).

Furthermore, your 12-foot giant "rulers" would make you go to bed at 8 p.m.

And censor your TV shows.

Since that is the world of giants in which kiddies now actually live, they relish stories in which the elf defeats the giant.

Remember "Hop-o-My-Thumb," as well as "Jack and the Beanstalk" tales?

Adulthood is thus the envy and "Mecca" of all children.

Which is why toddlers try to walk in daddy's or mother's shoes or dress up in their parents' clothes!

Ruth's preoccupation with pictures of the female bra are not so much an indication of salacious desire as of a yearning to be a "Big Girl," like her 18-year-old sister.

Many girls in the upper grades become acutely conscious that a full bust is synonymous with maturity (entrance into the wonderful world of giants and giantesses).

So they even pad their breasts to appear older!

And prematurely employ lipstick or rouge and eyeshadow.

Little boys do the same by aping their giant fathers by smoking cigarettes, use of profanity and craving to get a driver's license.

This "ape" behavior extends even to the late teens as regards such envied adult male symbols as fast driving, guzzling of beer and violation of curfew deadlines.

Send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents when you send for one of his booklets.)

'Book Week' Parties Held

Approximately 50 children participated in the Book Week costume parties at East Branch Library on Friday. The following children were awarded prizes for their costumes at the preschool party:

Tony Harrington, who dressed as one of the Chinamen in the Five Chinese Brothers; Shawn Chambers, who dressed as Raggedy Andy; Renee Adams, who dressed as Little Bo Peep.

Mrs. Nita Brown, who is in charge of the Wahl-Coates kindergarten, served as judge for the costumes. The winners were given story book coloring books.

In the party for school children, Stephen Johnson won the prize for his Winnie-the-Pooh costume. He was awarded the book Winnie-the-Pooh. Robin O'Neil also won a prize for her Straw Man costume from the Wizard of Oz. She received a copy of The Wizard of Oz as her prize.

Mrs. Nell Eutsler from the East Carolina University Department of English served as judge for the school party. She teaches children's literature.

Airport Lure To Investing

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — An airport that hasn't opened has already generated more than $2 billion dollars worth of business.

The airport is located between Dallas and Fort Worth and is scheduled to open in the fall of 1973. The $500 million project has been described as the world's largest and most efficient facility.

"Developers and builders are so enthralled with the new airport and what it will mean to the area that they have already invested more than $2 billion in projects around it," said John Thompson, Director of Transportation for the North Texas Commission. The Commission is responsible for the development of the Southwest Metroplex, a 6,214 square mile area centered around Dallas and Fort Worth and the airport.

Some of the business that has already begun in anticipation of the airport includes: —The Park Central Project—An area larger than downtown Dallas which will include 6.5 million square feet of commercial, medical and recreational space.

—Flower Mound New Town—The latest in planned community development. Four miles from the airport, this 62,000 acre project will hold a population between 60,000 and 70,000 as well as a major industrial park.

—Fred Harvey Hotels—This division of Amfac is constructing a $12 million, 12 story hotel with the latest space age advancements.

—Good Development Corporation—Developing a $100 million hotel-office building complex.

Cuba Says It Will Try Three U.S. Skyjackers

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three men who hijacked a Southern Airways jet to Cuba nine days ago will be tried in Havana on various charges, including extortion, according to word reaching the State Department.

U.S. officials said the hijackers violated Cuban law when they threatened to blow up the plane if authorities at Jose Marti airport refused a demand to refuel the craft.

The incident occurred during the first of two visits to Havana by the hijacked plane in the 29-hour odyssey involving 30 passengers and four crew members. It was after the return trip to Havana that the three hijackers—identified as Henry Jackson, 25, Lewis Moore, 27, and Melvin Cale, 21—were taken into custody by Cuban authorities.

Discussing the latest developments in the case Monday, State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said the Cuban decision to try the men does not necessarily mean rejection of a U.S. request for their extradition. He said it is not unprecedented for a country to try accused persons and then extradite them.

Bray said there has been no reply from Cuba on a U.S. request for extradition of four men charged in the Oct. 29 hijacking of an Eastern Air Lines plane. Three of the four also are charged with two counts of murder in connection with an abortive bank robbery in Arlington, Va.

Bray also reported that the Cuban government has responded favorably to a U.S. invitation to "engage in discussions which might lead to an agreement" to discourage the hijacking of airliners.

He announced that the Cuban government is "prepared to begin discussions soon through the good offices of the Swiss government," which handles U.S. interests in Cuba.

U.S. sources said the alleged threat by the hijackers to blow up the Southern Airways jet may have contributed to Cuba's favorable attitude toward negotiating an agreement. It is believed that this is the first such threat in any of the 87 hijacking incidents involving Cuba since they started in 1961.

Hardships Of N.C. Residency Requirements Aired

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina residency requirements for state universities is working a hardship on new citizens attracted to the state by its industrial promotion program, Tar Heel legislators were told Monday.

At the first of a series of five briefings for legislators, officials of the University of North Carolina system also said that drastic increases in tuition charges for out-of-state enrollment that had been expected. This, they said, has resulted in budgetary problems.

The second of the five meetings is scheduled today on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. They were called to acquaint the lawmakers with progress made so far in implementing the state's new higher education setup and to explain the budget of $571.6 million budget the university system board of governor is requesting to operate 16 state-supported institutions during the next two fiscal years.

William A. Dees of Goldsboro, chairman-elect of the board of governors, told the lawmakers he feels North Carolina's new higher education setup "is the best system of governance of higher education in America."

Dees and UNC President William Friday appealed to the legislators to allow the new system to work without legislative interference with the powers and duties of the new board.

In particular, they urged the lawmakers to follow the law which empowers the board of governors to present the General Assembly a unified budget for higher education and gives the board the final say-so, with the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, in the allocation of "change budget" appropriations among the 16 institutions.

Dees said the new board must have the confidence of the General Assembly if it is going to work and it must be permitted to "make its decisions free of politics and sectionalism."

Friday told the group that "we've had a good deal of criticism" of the residency requirements of state universities. He said that many persons have moved to North Carolina under the state's industrial promotion program only to learn that their children would have to pay tuition as out-of-state residents rather than as in-state residents. The charge for out-of-state students is several times as high as the in-state.

Chancellor John T. Caldwell of North Carolina State University, told of a firm that moved to North Carolina only to find that "none of its employees' children were eligible for in-state tuition" and were told they would have to drop out of a school a year to become eligible.

Dees remarked that "a genuine resident finds himself at a real disadvantage."

Dr. Felix Joyner, vice president-finance of the UNC system, said that sharply-increased tuition charges for out-of-state students had resulted in a greater than expected reduction in the number of out-of-state students.

He said each time the 16 institutions report on enrollment of out-of-state students they are "more pessimistic."

Later Joyner explained to a reporters that the university system budget request was based on a 2,000 drop in non-resident students, but "put new estimates indicate" the drop will be somewhat greater.

Joyner explained that North Carolina residents will take the place of the out-of-state students, but since their tuition is much smaller the universities' request for state appropriations was upped by $6 million.

The series of meetings will continue at Fayetteville on Dec. 4, Asheville Dec. 15 and Greenville Dec. 20.

Graham Speaks To Tribesmen

KOHIMA, India (AP) — Md., and singer Archie Dennis About 100,000 Naga tribesmen — descendants of Indian head-hunters — filed onto a football field to hear Dr. Billy Graham preach the Gospel in a service that had to be translated into 18 dialects.

Graham's words echoed through the lush valley as he opened a four-day crusade Monday in Nagaland, an Indian state celebrating the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first American Baptist missionary.

That first American, the Rev. E. W. Clark, had to walk for weeks to reach Nagaland, in the northeast on the Burmese border. Graham made the trip in six hours, three by plane from Calcutta and three by road.

Graham's appearance in Kohima, the state capital, climaxed three months of planning by local Baptist leaders. Their major problem was not knowing whether Graham would be allowed into the area which is generally off limits to foreigners.

The Indian government approved the evangelist's mission and allowed him to bring six associates, including pianist Ted Smith of Silver Spring, Md., and singer Archie Dennis of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Wearing colorful shawls, the Nagas sat in 18 groups on the ground of the football field. They were divided according to their dialects.

Graham stopped after each sentence to allow for translation.

"We'll all speak the same language in heaven ... we won't have to have a translator," he said.

Co-Publisher In Tarboro Dies

TARBORO, N.C. (AP)—Henry C. Bourne, 79, long-time co-publisher of The Daily Southerner at Tarboro, died Sunday. Funeral services were to be today.

Bourne, who became co-publisher of the newspaper in 1916, was also the senior member of a Tarboro law firm and for many years was chancellor of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina.

The Tarboro native was a veteran of World War I and once was state American Legion commander.

He is survived by a daughter and two sons.

Fraternity Faces Taxes

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon governments may begin collecting taxes on property owned by fraternal groups with restrictions on membership because of a federal court decision.

State officials estimate that as much as $2.3 million a year in taxes is involved.

A three-judge panel ruled Monday that the Oregon Department of Revenue cannot allow the Elks an exemption without violating the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Clifford McGlotten, a 26-year-old former Reed College teaching intern, and 33-year-old Michael Falkenstein, a juvenile court counselor, brought class action with the help of the American Civil Liberties Union.

In 1970, Elks Lodge No. 142 in Portland rejected McGlotten as a member when he was put forward by Ken Keller, a Portland lawyer and then a member of the lodge, at Falkenstein's urging. McGlotten is black.
