Nixon Tells Cabinet Nominees Seeks 'Fresh Perspective'

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon, promising new second-term Cabinet appointments today, says his aim is to "bring fresh perspective and new vitality to the second four years of his administration."

In the first announcement Tuesday of three Cabinet-level shifts, Nixon unveiled two nominees and one appointee long associated with his tenure.

One possible appointment for today is a new secretary of Housing and Urban development, George Romney, who directed HUD throughout the first Nixon term, announced Monday he is resigning.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler stood before television cameras Tuesday in a cavernous helicopter hangar at the presidential retreat here to announce in Nixon's behalf the first three personnel changes in a promised major shakeup of the federal bureaucracy.

—Elliot Richardson, now Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will be nominated to be secretary of defense to succeed Melvin R. Laird who resigned.

—Caspar Weinberger, now director of the Office of Management and Budget, will be nominated to succeed Richardson as chief of HEW, a sprawling agency that more than one observer has judged to be unmanageable.

—Millionaire California industrialist Roy Ash, president of Litton Industries Inc. of Beverly Hills, Calif., is being appointed to succeed Weinberger as head of OMB. The agency was created on the recommendation of a Nixon administration advisory council Ash headed more than two years ago.

Ziegler said Weinberger, at HEW, would be expected to "move to bring about further efficiency"—apparently another way of saying Nixon thinks too many programs under that department are not producing a dollar's worth of results for a dollar spent.

Richardson apparently will have a Presidential mandate to try to bring soaring Pentagon costs under control.

As for Ash's assignment, Ziegler said Nixon expected OMB "to assume a new, expanded role—to undertake a comprehensive examination of all government programs now in existence to determine whether they are actually meeting the purpose for which they were designated."

Thieu Wants Summit Talk

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu is asking President Nixon to meet with him to discuss face-to-face the problems of achieving a Vietnam peace settlement, diplomatic sources said today.

Diplomatic and South Vietnamese sources said the proposal would be presented to Nixon later today by Nguyen Phu Duc, sent by Thieu to Washington to meet with the U.S. President.

There was no official comment from the presidential palace or the foreign ministry. But earlier in the day Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam told newsmen who asked if the two presidents might meet: "This summit meeting between the two leaders at any moment is always necessary in order to coordinate their policies. And I think it is always necessary for them to meet. It depends on the schedule of the two leaders, whether they have the time. But there's nothing planned at this moment."

South Vietnamese sources said Duc would propose the summit meeting be held in December and that it take up the postwar shape of Indochina in addition to discussing a peace settlement.

No site for the proposed meeting was mentioned. Previous U.S.-Vietnamese summit meetings have been held in Honolulu and Manila.

For the past week, both the official Saigon radio and the newspaper Tin Song, which is controlled by the presidential palace, have been indicating that Thieu wants to put his case before Nixon personally.

Thieu has been reported distrustful of the efforts of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who has been negotiating cease-fire terms with the North Vietnamese in Paris and who conferred with Thieu in Saigon in August and again in October.

Refloat Barge

PLYMOUTH, N.C. (AP) — An oil-laden barge that partially sank Monday in Albemarle Sound has been refloated and is being towed to the Weyerhaeuser Co. paper and pulp plant at Plymouth.

Company officials said today salvage efforts Tuesday night were successful without a major oil spill.

D. C. Nicholson, the company's environmental resources director, said the total oil loss was five to 10 gallons. The barge was carrying about 378,000 gallons of bunker oil when the sinking occurred.

A company spokesman said the latest inspection of the barge showed no structural defects. An investigation was continuing to determine the cause of the sinking.

The salvage activity was done by Norfolk Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., officials said, while the containment and clean-up work was handled by Industrial Marine Services of Norfolk.

Late Lawyer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Attorney Joe Roselle of Oklahoma City showed up in court 15 minutes late in September 1971, and District Court Judge Elvin Brown of Norman fined him $100.

Tuesday the Court of Criminal Appeals refused to consider his appeal. The court said he filed his appeal 45 days late.

Freedom Could Be Years Away, Says Reported In Jail

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "If you know when you're getting out, even if it's a very long time, it helps psychologically," says a reporter jailed for an indefinite term for refusing to reveal a story source.

"It's ominous," William Farr said in a jail interview. "Given the judge's position, I could be in here for years."

But the 37-year-old newsman, held in contempt of court by the Charles Manson murder trial judge, says he still hopes to be released by a higher court.

The California Supreme Court has said it will consider today Farr's latest appeal. Although that court and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an earlier appeal, Farr is appealing on new grounds.

Among other points in the latest petition is a claim that the statute of limitations has run out on the matter Superior Court Judge Charles Older is pursuing. Farr's story appeared more than two years ago.

The judge wants Farr, 37, to identify which of six Manson trial lawyers gave him a witness' secret statement for use in a Los Angeles Herald-Examiner story.

But Farr, wearing a blue denim jail uniform and speaking at a visiting room of the Los Angeles County Jail Tuesday, reaffirmed his vow not to identify his source and revealed that the statement Older has cited was not the sole basis of the disputed story.

"The real problem," said Farr, "is that those transcripts (of the witness' statement) were used merely to verify information which I derived independently. If the attorneys gave me transcripts after they knew I already had the information, should they have their lives ruined for that? I can't see it."

Bombed By Mail

ERLANGEN, Germany (AP) — A Jordanian medical student, facing possible expulsion for his alleged political activities, was severely wounded today when a letter bomb mailed in Lebanon exploded in his hands, police reported.

When Adnan Hammad, 31, opened the letter, it exploded, mutilating his hands and wrecking his apartment, police said. Windows were blown out and the doors ripped off their hinges.

Neighbors rushed in and pulled the bleeding medical student from the wreckage.

Police said he was a politically active student and possibly one of the leaders of GUP, an Arab student organization banned by the German government after the Sept. 5 Munich Olympic massacre in which 11 Israelis, five Arabs and a German policeman were killed.

Police said Hammad told them he suspects the letter originated in Israel but was mailed from Lebanon to cover up the source.

It was another in a death-by-mail series that began after the Munich massacre. An Israeli diplomat in London was fatally injured by a letter bomb mailed in Amsterdam.

Many flights are expected to be delayed and tempers ruffled by the inspection of millions of packages for smuggled weapons during one of the peak air travel periods, the officiale said Tuesday.

They said reservations agents are urging travelers to check gifts along with their regular luggage, in which case the packages won't be opened, or to carry the gifts aboard without Christmas wrapping.

An estimated nine million passengers will be carried between Dec. 22 and Jan. 1, and in the end the crush may limit searches to spot checks, some airline sources predicted.

State Goals, Policies Set

RALEIGH (AP) — A lengthy list of environmental, health care and economic goals for the state were agreed to Tuesday by the N.C. Council on State Goals and Policies at the end of a two-day meeting.

The report, which should be ready by the end of December, argues that future growth must not come at the expense of the environment and calls for control of massive urbanization and rapid industrialization in North Carolina.

It asserts that existing lack of coordination and planning has resulted in overcrowded highways, poorly located schools, lack of recreational facilities and inadequate water and sewer services.

Asserting that growth in the Piedmont Crescent is "out of sensible control," and that the coastal and mountain regions will soon face problems of urban development, the report calls for a state land use policy that would classify all lands according to their intended use.

In education, the report calls for greater flexibility in curriculum, statewide public kindergartens and more money for both secondary and higher education.

The health care section calls for improvement of the health care delivery system through group medical practices, outpatient centers, increased use of para-medics, the classification of emergency rooms and regional planning of health care facilities.

It also states that the state should examine a state health insurance program and that financial barriers to health care should be removed.

Gift Packages To Be Searched
NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas gift packages that travelers carry aboard planes during the holiday season may be opened and searched as an antihijacking measure, airline officials say.

Many flights are expected to be delayed and tempers ruffled by the inspection of millions of packages for smuggled weapons during one of the peak air travel periods, the officiale said Tuesday.

They said reservations agents are urging travelers to check gifts along with their regular luggage, in which case the packages won't be opened, or to carry the gifts aboard without Christmas wrapping.

Outspent By 4-To-1

RALEIGH (AP) — The unsuccessful try by Democrat Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles to become governor of North Carolina cost more than $1.4 million. This was more than four times what Republican Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser spent.

Bowles reported to Secretary of State Thad Eure Tuesday he was loaned or given a total of $1,358,670 and he spend a total of $1,433,310. The report showed he spent most of the money $875,671 to defeat Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last spring.

The report also showed Bowles and members

Water Treatment Money Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who tried unsuccessfully to veto an $18 billion authorization of federal aid to waste treatment facilities, has stuck to his guns and ordered that only half the authorized amount be distributed.

Nixon's action, announced Tuesday by Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, raised the possibility that one or more states might sue the federal government for the full authorization. Congress passed the authorization on Oct. 18 over Nixon's veto.

Of the amount authorized for distribution, state allocations include:

North Carolina—$8.6 million this fiscal year, $18.5 million in fiscal 1973, and $27.7 in fiscal 1974.

South Carolina—$4.4 million this fiscal year, $12.9 in fiscal 1973, and $19.4 in fiscal 1974.

The breakdown on expenditures listed by Ruckelshaus included:

—$2 billion was allotted to the states as grants for construction of municipal waste treatment plants in fiscal 1973, instead of the $5 billion authorized by Congress, and $3 billion for fiscal 1974, instead of $6 billion authorized.

—$1.9 billion was allotted for reimbursement of federal aid for municipal projects begun between June 30, 1966, and July 1, 1972, some $100 million short of the congressional authorization.

An EPA spokesman said none of the $750 million authorized for reimbursable aid to projects between 1956 and 1966 would be distributed.

No decision was announced on remaining authorizations totaling almost $1.9 billion for other activities to combat water pollution, including an $800 million fund to aid small businesses in their clean-up efforts. Ruckelshaus said the full amount would not be spent, however.

Thus, the administration has lopped almost $7 billion off the $16.46 billion authorized for fiscal 1973 and 1974, with further cuts virtually certain, and the 1975 funding still in doubt.

The action was criticized by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., leaders of the Senate water pollution subcommittee and the House Public Works Committee. They said it was a "flagrant disregard of the intent of Congress."

They also said the "overwhelming vote by which Congress last month overrode the President's veto of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act was a clear commitment to the American people that we meant business. The President has chosen to interpret that vote otherwise."

In vetoing the Water Pollution Control Act, President Nixon charged that its three-year, $18 billion construction aid program was excessive and inflationary.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said today that William C. Smith of Rt. 8, Greenville found the body lying in a small stream some 50 yards off the Pactus Highway.

The sheriff, who noted that his office had received no reports of anyone missing, said that the body was in about three feet of water in the stream and had apparently "been there for a right good while."

The body was clothed in men's apparel, it was noted, but no identification was found.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E.W. Harvey said that very little remained of the body except the skeleton and he assumed it was a man due to the clothing but he was unable to make a definite judgment.

The body was found around 4:30 p.m.

of his family contributed more than $220,000 to his campaign. There were nearly 300 persons who contributed $1,000 or more each.

During the last 10 days of the general election campaign, the report showed Bowles spent $126,549 while Holshouser was spending $30,698. Republican Jesse Helms reported spending $699,744 in his successful race for the U.S. Senate. He said he received contributions or loans totaling $648,293.

Democrat Nick Galifianakis who lost to Helms reported expenditures of $403,006 and contributions and loans totaling $396,520.

Public Paid Record Prices For Pork In October

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers paid slightly less for beef last month but a record high for pork, the Agriculture Department reported today.

For the second consecutive month, there was a small decrease in the general retail cost of food. The market price of a basket of foods produced on U.S. farms decreased 0.2 per cent in October, following an 0.1 per cent decrease in September. However, the October cost was 5.8 per cent more than a year ago.

Pork, the second most popular meat, again climbed to a record price average of 87.5 cents per pound, up 1 per cent from September and 22.7 per cent more than a year ago. These are returned to farmers was 44.4 per cent more than a year ago.

The middleman share for pork was 37.4 cents per pound, an increase of 8.7 per cent over September.

The October retail price of beef, an important indicator in the cost of living, was slightly less than $1.13 per pound average of all cuts. That included both hamburger and steak. The price declined 0.1 per cent from last month. Average beef prices were 4.5 cents per pound less than the record high last July.

Last week the Bureau of Labor Statistics said take-home food in October rose 0.1 per cent from September. The Agriculture Department report covers only food produced on American farms and does not include imported items and seafood products.

The BLS report also covers meat prices only for the first week of the month while the USDA surveys retail beef and pork for the entire month.

The USDA report shows that of the just under $1.13 per pound paid by housewives for beef, the "farm value" was 69.1 cents, compared with 69.6 in September and 77.5 cents in June and July, when cattle prices were higher. Of the 87.5 cents per pound for pork, the "farm value" was 50.1 cents, compared with 52.2 in September and 51.5 in August.

The farm value is not the price producers get for cattle, but is their share of what consumers pay at retail stores. It requires nearly 2.3 pounds of live steer, for example, to make one pound of supermarket beef.

A total market basket list of food items, enough to feed a typical family for a year, cost an annual rate of $1,317 in October, down $5 from the record highs in July and August.

Of the total, the farm share was $523, down from $538 in September. The middleman share—for transportation, processing and merchandising—was $794 in October, up $12 from the $782 in September.

The department said lower prices for fresh fruits and frying chickens contributed most to the decline in prices in October.

She Adds Warmth To City Buildings

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP NEWSFEATURES
WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — Pamela Walters creates what she calls welcome mats.

They're not made of rubber or straw to put outside the front door. She designs welcome mats for office buildings by creating an atmosphere of warmth and comfort in the lobby and outside plaza area.

An industrial designer, Miss Walters is involved in giving back something to the neighborhoods in which new office buildings are erected.

"Most builders rip down all the neighborhood functions and put up a sterile, cold file cabinet. I think you should give the building a sense of belonging, make it a place where people feel welcome, like a hearth," said the blonde, 31-year-old.

Pamela is currently putting finishing touches on a brick-paved, tree and flower decorated area surrounding a new, 38-floor office structure on Third Avenue. The building will even have a wood front porch fitted with seats.

The sidewalks are bricked in three colors. A curving red path gives people the option to walk in something other than a straight line, and it is outlined in lighter colored bricks. Thus the path emphasizes entrances to the new building.

"I always hated not being able to find the door in some buildings," the designer said.

Another shade of brick is used to pave the remaining plaza area and to climb the tiny hills that surround and support different sizes and styles of seating. There are benches under colorfully patterned vinyl canopies which will be lighted and heated.

There are both stationary and revolving seats atop tiny hills and in flat areas. To mark entrances to loading docks in the building, Pamela had tire tracks of brick laid in the driveways. In the tall walls bordering the next building, bricks of varying color form graphic illustrations of a truck with a boy driving, on one street, and on the next street, a horse-drawn flower cart. Each will get a vinyl canopy that sticks out from the wall and a box for displays that will change with the season—flowers for spring, fruit for summer and perhaps produce occasionally.

"I've already planned some parties to introduce this area to the neighborhood," Pamela reported.

"I've had lots of positive comment from passers-by. Women have seemed especially interested. I've never seen women as sidewalk superintendents before. Some people want to know how our trees live so I stop and explain the system we use to feed them water and vitamins."

The William Kauffman Organization, owner and builder of the Third Avenue structure, agrees that builders have commitment to people who live in a city for making it a better, nicer place to live and work.

One other building in which Pamela has worked also belongs to them. It is in Lower Manhattan, and features a rooftop mural of a giant cat chasing a bird near its nest, filled with three giant eggs.

"In the new building the inside workings—air conditioning and heating vents, electric wiring and even the elevator starting panel—will be exposed so that people can see how they work. The air conditioning ducts will be wrapped in soft material, like sculpture. The elevator walls will be padded and covered in soft vinyl, lighted from the bottom, so that the effect is soft," she said.

"At first some of the workmen may have thought I was strange. You always have to prove yourself. They are working to put everything in immaculate order now, for they know the work will show, be exposed. Even the electrician is putting in the wire panels of the elevator in beautiful symmetry, for he knows people will see it.

"When we finish, we'll put the names of some of these workmen on a plaque in the lobby, so people can find out who did the work," Pamela said.

A graduate of the Pratt Institute, Pamela worked in design offices with packaging and graphics for several years. She always wanted something more.

"I like working with buildings. It feels right to me, and I think we're proving that these kinds of designs can work in the city," she added.

DEAR ABBY: A high school girl signed, "Four Eyes," wrote complaining because she had to wear glasses. "And to make matters worse," she added, "someone wrote me a note, saying, 'Guys never make passes at girls who wear glasses.'"

You sought to comfort her with your own verse, "Guys will make passes at girls who wear glasses, providing the dames have good looking frames."

Your reply puts you in first-rate company, as Christopher Morley wrote a two-line postscript to that famous verse:

"But glasses can always be checked
By a girl who's about to be necked."

In case you have further correspondence with "Four Eyes," please remind her that a young man's character, disposition, and behavior are much more important than whether he wears spectacles. Likewise, any male worthy of her attention will judge her by her essential qualities rather than by her optical equipment. Greetings,

G. P. IN ANN ARBOR, MICH.

DEAR G. P.: You're right! I once fell in love with a shy college man who wore glasses. I can still remember how my heart pounded when he walked me to my door and removed his glasses, because then I knew he planned to kiss me goodnight. [P. S. I married the man.]

DEAR ABBY: Each morning [Monday thru Friday] a young neighbor honks his horn at an early hour as he leaves for work. I presume it is intended as a cheery goodby signal to his wife.

This honking disturbs us and others in the neighborhood. We are elderly and not in the best of health. We don't wish to alienate our young neighbors, but how can we let them know this honking disturbs us?

MATTISON STREET, FREWSBURG, N. Y.

DEAR MATTISON STREET: After this hits print, you may not have to.

DEAR ABBY: The man who reduced his wife to tears when he suggested that instead of a family vacation, the money be spent for "a face lift for mother" may not have deserved the rebuke you gave him.

Perhaps he had stood around the bedroom day after day listening to his wife complain [during menopause, no doubt] about how terrible she looked and how depressing it was to see her wrinkled, sagging face in the mirror, and he thought a face lift would make her the happiest woman in the world.

Maybe he deserved to be chastised for making the offer at the dining room table in the presence of the children without first having done a little personal exploring, but nobody's perfect.

No, I didn't make the same mistake. But I might have.
MR. AVERAGE

DEAR MR.: I agree, his offer was lovely, but his timing was lousy. And that's why I chastised him.

DEAR ABBY: A tip from another veteran letter carrier for "Afraid of Dogs":

I carry an umbrella, rain or shine. When harassed by a dog, I simply open it in his face and Fido retreats in confusion because he can't figure out what it is, especially if I get fancy and rotate the handle and flap it open and shut a time or two.

If he attempts to circle me, I ease the umbrella behind me with the grace of a bullfighter and keep the shield between me and the dog.
EUGENE

DEAR EUGENE: Beautiful! Your suggestion may start a boom in the umbrella business.

A Good Firm In Stable Field

Tom McGuane Industries has announced that it will create a new southern division which will locate in Greenville.

The firm, of Lipcoln Park, Michigan, is a manufacturer of automotive components and its initial production here will consist of automotive and truck gas tank caps.

The manufacturing facility will be located in the building constructed at the Dail site by Greenville Industries, Inc. as a training area for Burroughs-Wellcome. Tom McGuane Industries purchased that building and a 24-acre tract of land in the industrial site.

This will be a small industry since the building now on the site contains approximately 11,000 square feet of floor space. Yet, this is certainly a most desirable industry for our area. Tom McGuane Industries brings an entirely new type of manufacturing to Greenville and Pitt County. It is a good industrial firm in a stable field, and its operations here could grow.

Greenville already has a base of a number of small and medium sized industries which are contributing to a steadily growing industrial payroll. Tom McGuane Industries fits the kind of industrial development which is underway here very well. It is a welcome addition to Pitt County's growing list of corporate citizens.

Another Role For Citizenry

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — Injury to the environment is an injury to citizens and they ought to have the right to go to court for redress.

Securing that right will be a major goal in the 1973 General Assembly for McNeill Smith, Democratic Senator from Guilford County.

An alert citizenry with standing in court can be an effective ally for government agencies charged with pollution abatement, Smith argued. The mere presence on the law books of the additional avenue of relief, he added, can cause second thoughts by industry or other polluters, including government itself.

Citizens are the ones who suffer from water or air pollution, Smith noted. Yet procedural rules prohibit them from court action to halt the damage they observe.

"Ancient judge-made rules, based on the false notion that air and water are free, block suffering citizens' suits," he said.

"No matter how bad the pollution, unless the plaintiff's injury is different in kind and degree from the general public, his complaint will be thrown out of court without any hearing at all. Thus, under the old common law rule, the wider the harm the less likely the polluter can be taken to court. If the polluter ruins all the air for all the people, he can't be sued except by the state."

Bills Offered In '71
As a freshman House member in 1971, Smith pushed the concept of citizens' standing legislation. Two of his bills on the subject passed the House, but died in the Senate in the last days of the session. He will be prepared to offer them again, in a new version, when the legislature convenes in January.

Special statutes granting citizens standing to sue to protect the environment have been adopted by the states of Illinois, Indiana, Connecticut, Florida, Minnesota, Michigan, and Massachusetts. Seven other states now have under consideration such legislation, Smith said.

What Smith aims to do is give back to Tar Heels a right they had from 1903 to 1964. The 1903 law authorized "any person" to ask for an injunction to halt pollution of a public water supply. For some reason, probably an oversight, an amendment in 1964 eliminated the phrase "any person," and reverted to the old common law rule of no standing, Smith observed.

How the rule works is illustrated by a 1948 case involving the town of Burnsville. A group of citizens sued to restrain the town from emptying untreated sewage into a stream. The trial judge issued a restraining order, but the State Supreme Court reversed the decision on the ground that the plaintiffs had no standing to sue because they did not allege that they had suffered special damages not suffered by the public generally.

Safeguard Against Abuse
An argument raised against citizens standing legislation is that it would clog the courts with nuisance actions based on unfounded claims.

Safeguards can prevent abuse, Smith contended. "A bond for court costs should be required of the complainant, relief should be limited to injunction, without monetary damages. That would eliminate the lure of lucre from strike suits," he said. "No injunction would issue unless the plaintiff convinces the judge that serious damage is likely to result before the matter can otherwise be dealt with. If that is the case, then an injunction should issue. That is what the courts are for. In critical situations, this may be the only procedure whereby an irreversible course of damaging action could be brought to the public attention in time to do any good."

Special Statute Needed
Environmental suits are unique, and do not fit old legal molds, said Smith, an attorney. A special statute is needed, he continued, to lay down ground rules under which citizens may sue in cases where harm to the environment is involved.

"We should require that there be a minimum number of plaintiffs, perhaps 12," he suggested. "They should constitute a bona fide environmental protection group which has already demonstrated its concern about the environment. The group itself should have at least 100 members domiciled in North Carolina and membership must have been by some affirmative act. The group should be a non-profit organization duly registered with the Secretary of State and in existence for a minimum period of time, perhaps a year."

"All these limitations will guard against quack suits," he explained.

"Battling pollution calls for all the troops that can be mustered. Opening the door and giving the citizens standing to sue would enlist a new and valuable volunteer force—a useful supplement to the government's efforts," the Senator asserted.

Most Fitting Tribute To Robert Lee Humber

Naming of the new classroom building at Pitt Tech for the late Robert Lee Humber is a fitting tribute to the man whose influence in the establishment and development of the institute was so great.

Dr. Humber, who was chairman of the board of trustees, worked tirelessly for the development of Pitt Technical Institute and it is well that he has been so honored by the board.

Expediency & Permissiveness

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — On Thanksgiving Day, White House counsel John Dean sent a letter to the House Interior Committee dropping an iron curtain of secrecy over a shocking exhibition by President Nixon that matched the worst permissiveness he has so harshly decried in his political opponents.

Dean's letter refused an urgent request for five White House aides (Dean included) to testify at Interior subcommittee hearings beginning Dec. 4 on the destructive ($2 million plus) occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) building here by armed Indian militants.

Dean invoked executive privilege, but his true reasons are steeped in politics. The White House knows it will get a black eye out of the congressional investigation and, therefore, is desperately trying to separate Mr. Nixon from the government's handling of the BIA occupation.

But taking an executive branch Fifth Amendment won't accomplish that. Even some White House aides privately acknowledge this inescapable conclusion: the President's public abhorrence of permissiveness is grounded in political expediency. When it becomes more expedient to avoid admittedly dangerous confrontations with armed demonstrators, Mr. Nixon does not hesitate to look the other way.

Thanks to compartmentalized decision-making at the White House, there simply was no staff meeting on the BIA occupation. Thus, high-level aides read newspaper reports of the government's bowing to lawlessness without ever seeing a memorandum or attending a conference about it.

decision was made on Thursday, Nov. 2, the day the Indians occupied BIA. High Interior Department officials, recognizing three top Indian leaders as violence-prone hoodlums with no claims to legitimacy, wanted them evicted at once. Instead, the White House began protracted legal proceedings, a decision almost surely made by White House domestic policy chief John Ehrlichman and his deputy, Bud Krogh. It is inconceivable that the President himself did not concur.

Where the White House was heading was made evident that afternoon by the identity of its agent negotiating with the Indians: Bradley H. Patterson, Jr., a career bureaucrat regarded as a staunch liberal. As the White House aide specializing in Indian Affairs, Patterson had recommended government acquiescence in the 1970 peaceful occupation of Alcatraz Island by Indian militants.

On Monday, Nov. 6, supervision of the BIA crisis was taken over by Patterson's boss, Leonard Garment. Washington insiders got the message. By delegating responsibility to Garment, his House liberal in dealing with minority groups, the President signalled he preferred appeasement to firmness the day before the election. Accordingly, Garment decided to pay the militants $66,650 cash for travel money home.

Garment was avoiding what could have been a bloody Indian massacre. But he was ignorant of inexcusable vandalism then underway at BIA. Less understandable, he did not know that the three Indian ringleaders had criminal records with multiple convictions for armed robbery, assault and burglary.

Strength For Today

TRUE SUCCESS

Improvement is a possibility in the lives of us all and few things are more thrilling than self-improvement and the realization that we have accomplished it. We put great store by education today, and we should. We believe that the admonition to love our neighbor as ourselves is a duty and privilege resting upon us all. There has never been a time when people possessed greater money fortunes than they do right now, and yet we are all conscious of the fact that these fortunes have not always made such people happy. Money helps. The absence of money is a continuous and shocking impediment to happiness and peace. Social position, high political office, intellectual distinction—these are all to be desired, and happy the person who can have any or all of them.

But we need to remind ourselves constantly that the best way to get satisfaction out of life is to love life to its full. We may hold a humble job and retire at last on a humble pension. But we may have lived a life conspicuously successful by the attitude we have taken toward ourselves, toward God and toward our fellowmen.

Success is hard to define, but there are truly successful people in the world and sometimes they are in the circle of our acquaintances. Start picking them out.

'This Is Not A Junket'

WASHINGTON — This is the time of year when our congressmen and senators are traveling all over the world "investigating" things of utmost importance to the United States. There are some spoilsports, also known as taxpayers, who consider these trips junkets and a method of our lawmakers taking their wives on a much-needed vacation. But they are wrong. Our legislators are dead serious when they take a trip abroad, and the nation receives great benefits from these overseas jaunts.

I was at the airport the other day and ran into Sen. Ezra Bickering who was with his wife and a group of other senators and their wives, waiting for a plane to take them to the Caribbean.

Sen. Bickering was holding an underwater face mask, flippers and a snorkel in his hand.

"Where are you going, Senator?" I asked. "Well," he replied, "as you know, I am chairman of the Senate subcommittee on snorkeling, and we are going to investigate snorkeling conditions in our Caribbean Defense Area."

"I didn't know snorkeling was a serious problem in the Caribbean," I said.

"That's where you have been misinformed. We have information that the Cubans have been snorkeling in our waters."

"They have?"

"With Soviet equipment," Sen. Bickering said. "An underwater mask with a Russian trademark washed up on the beach at St. Croix three weeks ago. We intend to hold hearings at this beach and get to the bottom of it."

"But surely if this is true the U.S. Navy can deal with the problem," I said.

Sen. Bickering became a little huffy. "My committee is charged with drawing up legislation for snorkeling. The American people must be informed of the laxity of our snorkeling laws and they also must be alerted to the dangers of foreigners snorkeling in our waters. This is not a joy ride, boy. This is serious business."

ART BUCHWALD

"I can see that, Senator. If it is true that the Cubans have been snorkeling in American waters, what do you intend to do about it?"

"We're not certain," Sen. Bickering said. "That is why, after we hold our hearing at St. Croix, we're going on to Jamaica, Barbados and Martinique."

We want to see how other countries are dealing with their snorkeling problem. Once we gather enough information we hope to draft a snorkeling treaty with all the Caribbean countries."

"It sounds to me," I said, "as if you're going to be pretty busy for the next months."

"There isn't a man on my committee who wouldn't rather have taken a vacation instead. But when I raised the question on the snorkel Gap in the Caribbean and what it could mean to us in terms of the Monroe Doctrine, they all canceled their plans and agreed that this trip had first priority."

"But won't you have any

In the Raleigh News and Observer the other day, a story about the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina System said:

"A member... who asked that his name not be used... said undergraduate science courses are not adequate" at East Carolina University for pre-medical training.

The comment, understandably, rankled E.C.U. President Dr. Leo Jenkins. He feels that for a person in high place to make such a charge behind the protection of anonymity "is the cheapest type of cowardice."

We share Dr. Jenkins' feeling on that matter.

If a member of the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina wants to indict any program in any state institution, he should do so in his own name and be accountable to those who might wish to debate the subject.

It was obvious from the statement of the unnamed board member however, that

Profit Motive Helps Ecology

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The symbol of ecological devastation still is the scarred landscape, slashed and torn by man in his quest for the natural wealth of the earth. But someday that laceration might not be so obvious.

Prodded by criticism and threatened by legislation, companies which mine the earth for coal or ores or simply for new highway fill, are attempting to restore a natural appearance after they leave.

And now there is developing another incentive, one that business understands better. That's the profit motive, which yet may prove to be the ecologist's friend after all.

Between Dallas and Fort Worth, for example, a wildlife park exists on the reclaimed land of an old Gifford-Hill & Co. gravel pit. Near Indianapolis, an abandoned American Aggregate pit is the site of new housing.

In some instances the companies that did the digging are also responsible for converting the land to new uses, such as golf courses, lakes and shopping centers, but most do so with the aid of specialists.

To date, those specializing in land reclamation are even further fragmented into different aspects of the industry—in market research, financial feasibility studies, utilization planning and the like.

Howard Hoffman claims to be the forerunner of a new type of enterprise, an organization that handles all aspects of the job: the studies, tax analysis, zoning changes, community relations, reconstruction, managing. "We take surplus corporate assets—vestigial organs—and make money with them," he says.

Well before ecology became a central consideration for corporations, Hoffman was trying to sell them on using idle assets in imaginative ways, not only as a contribution to community appearance but to profits as well.

A former investor-developer who failed three times before making the grade, and who thus believes he finally knows his subject, he spent two years goading prospects to "get off your assets" before he landed a customer 10 years ago.

In Olympia, Wash., the St. Regis Paper Co. had idled a waterfront logging plant. With Hoffman's help it was subdivided for nine different tenants and then sold to the Port of Olympia for $2 million.

"Corporations don't understand real estate," he maintains. "It's a feel, a technique, an art, a creative feeling. The corporations have no expertise, no knowledge. No business school can teach you this business."

The problem for the corporations, he claims, is that they continue to think as corporate officials rather than real estate developers. "They have to think as entrepreneurs—and they can't."

As he explains it, the tough part is not drawing up the plans, but in completing the nitty-gritty work of zoning, conducting engineering studies, obtaining rights-of-way and finding a builder-developer or investor to participate in a joint venture with the corporation.

'Ghost' At West Point A Naval Academy Hoax

By TOM STUCKEY
Associated Press Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A Naval Academy midshipman says the ghost which has been appearing in a West Point dormitory this fall is nothing more than a hoax he helped to pull off in advance of the Army-Navy football game.

William Gravell, a midshipman officer and member of the brigade staff at Annapolis, told newsmen Tuesday he fashioned the trick with the aid of a flashlight, some cheesecloth and a photographic slide.

It was all designed, he said, to "make Army look stupid."

"I wanted something they wouldn't be able to pin on us, but something that with the tradition-bound atmosphere they have at West Point they would readily swallow. Well, they fell for it — fell much further than I would have imagined."

The West Point ghost story began this fall when two pebes reported that on several occasions an apparition of a 19th century cavalryman, wearing a handle-bar moustache and carrying a musket, had appeared in their room.

The resulting stir caused the military academy to put the room off limits with a spokesman explaining that "there was too much traffic. Their fellow cadets were bringing in cameras and tape recorders, and the occupants weren't getting any studying done."

According to Gravell, he and another midshipman, who would not allow his name to be revealed, journeyed to West Point several times to bring the ghost to life.

A midshipman with a penciled-on moustache was dressed in an old mock military uniform and photographed, "deliberately underexposed so the picture would look dim and milky."

Gravell, a senior from Riverton, N.J., said he and his cohort, dressed in civilian clothes and armed with the slide, a flashlight, cheesecloth and a fire extinguisher, visited West Point on Halloween.

Gravell said the fire extinguisher was turned on outside the room to awaken the sleeping cadets. "We realized that if a person was just waking up when he saw this thing, he would be dazed and not thinking clearly, whereas if he were fully awake, he probably wouldn't fall for it. He'd think it was some sort of projection."

Ignored Discipline, Monk Loses Status

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—A young monk whose father was a baseball catcher in the major leagues is losing his status as a monk and a teaching position at Belmont Abbey College because he decided to disobey a superior and have a novel published.

The monk, Robert Early, is the son of Jake Early, who caught for the Washington Senators in the 1930s and early 40s. The monk says he has no regrets about publishing the novel.

Early refuses to tell the title of his novel, but says it has the flavor of "Catcher in the Rye."

BE NEAT

NEW YORK (UPI) — On Christmas morning pick up gift wrappings immediately after presents have been opened. Place them outdoors in a trash can, or if you wish to save them, fold them and put them in a safe place—away from heat and fire.

Gravell said that while his friend was operating the extinguisher, he lowered himself from the roof and projected the slide through a window onto a wall in the room. The flashlight was covered with cheesecloth to soften its beam.

"The first time they woke up and did the bit, they screamed and it worked beautifully," Gravell said.

He said the prank was repeated during the next month, working every time except once when they were unable to awaken the cadets.

opt century B.C. Hindu doctors used black ants, which have powerful jaws, in battlefield surgery. The ant was held up to the wound or incision until it had closed it with its jaws. The body of the insect was then pinched off, but its head still retained its grip on the incision. This surgical trick was used for centuries by physicians from Africa to Southern Europe.

a valid excuse in the view of critics — such as one university president, a liberal Democrat, who displayed commendable firmness in forcibly ending student sit-ins during the 1970 Cambodian crisis. "If I had acted like the White House did in the Indain business," he told us, "Spiro Agnew would have chewed me out for permissiveness."

However, Mr. Nixon has not yet been condemned either by his liberal democrats or his distressed Republican allies. Indeed, he might well escape criticism save for lameduck conservative Democratic Rep. Wayne Aspinall of Colorado, chairman of the Interior Committee. Aspinall intends to show the vandalizing of BIA was not representative of the larger Indian community, the most aggrieved minority in U.S. history.

To expose White House decision-making, Indian affairs subcommittee chairman James Halley of Florida asked for appearances by Dean, Ehrlichman, Krogh, Garment and Patterson. Though refused by fun at all?" I asked.

"I doubt it. We'll be snorkeling — all day and holding meetings in the evenings. I may try to give the committee members a Dean, Rep. Haley may get an earful anyway from Harrison Loesch, Assistant Secretary of the Interior who is boiling mad at the White House.

But Loesch cannot say what some presidential aides now confide privately: the White House did not move against the invasion because it feared public support for the Indians. Now that Indian excesses at BIA have changed public opinion, they add, the White House would move much more boldly. In short, Mr. Nixon's oft-stated contempt for permissiveness does not match his compulsion for political expediency.

day off for shopping, but only if we get our work done."

"Why are you taking your wives?"

"They can entertain the wives for foreign snorkelers while we're in session."

"One last question. Will you hold any hearings on scuba diving?"

"No. Sen. Drakebill heads the subcommittee on scuba diving. He's there at Gate 24 waiting for a plane to take his committee to Tahiti."

Other Eds . . .

Not knowing who this fellow might be, let us nonetheless, address ourselves to him — wherever he might be hiding at the moment.

First, he contends the establishment of a one-year medical program at E.C.U. was politically motivated. He fails to discuss whether or not a medical program is needed at the school which serves such a large part of rural Eastern North Carolina and one suffering a critical doctor shortage.

The fact is that the people of the East had to push through their elected representatives to the General Assembly to get what many in Raleigh and Chapel Hill and elsewhere were determined they would not have.

Secondly, to charge that the science courses — or any other courses — are inadequate for pre-medical training, and to leave the matter there, brings into focus the prevailing attitude against E.C.U.

If the science courses are inadequate, then, pray, why don't we immediately bring them up to adequacy?

In the eyes of too many in this state, East Carolina University is and always has been a red-headed step-child serving a red-neck populace. And whatever the school has come by, it has won through determination, hard work — and political pressure.

So it will be in the future so long as we have in influential positions those who begrudge what E.C.U. gets, feeling the good things of life should emanate from elsewhere in the state.

The plea that we must think of the "state as a whole" is laudable and easy to defend. It also is all too familiar to East Carolina University.

Put in terms more easily understood down east, it too often means something like: "While we pass out the goodies, you boys at E.C.U. just stand here quietly — behind the door."

When those supporting E.C.U. stop fighting, E.C.U. will stop developing.

Neil Armstrong Stands In Line

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Former astronaut Neil A. Armstrong, the first man to set foot on lunar soil, is in line for another trip to the moon — this time as a passenger.

Pan American Airways recently closed out a reservations list after collecting the names of 90,000 would-be moon travelers, including Armstrong and fellow Apollo 11 astronauts Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins.

Spokesmen for the airline admit such a trip wouldn't be possible before the 21st Century, but they say that didn't stop thousands of people from playing the long odds for a $10 to $25 registration fee. Some, like the astronauts, were assigned reservations.

Twelve Win 4-H Awards

CHICAGO (AP) — Twelve 4-H members from North Carolina won more than $9,000 in scholarships at the 51st National 4-H Congress, in session in Chicago this week.

Included was a double winner, Neil Carter, 16, of Fletcher. He won a total of $1,300 for his work in entomology and the Key Award scholarship programs.

Other Tar Heels who won national awards were: David Palmer, 18, of Clyde, $1,000 scholarship in an agricultural program; Marcia Winnies, 20, of Chadbourne, $800, home economics; and 700 scholarships each to the following: Stanley Rash, 15, of Clemmons, bicycle safety; Carol Myers, 16, of Winston-Salem, clothing program; Vickie Eason, 16, of Jackson, dairy foods; Ronald Pledger, 19, of Columbia, electric program; Beverly Sheets, 19, of Lexington, food preservation; Marvin Lee, 16, of Kinston, health; Jocelyn Sharpe, 17, of Summerfield, health; Alan McKinney, 18, of Salisbury; swine program.

Betsy Lewis, 19, of Goldsboro, won a $600 scholarship as winner of a leadership program.

She signed up after listening to radio accounts of a space flight in the Gemini series.

"I am cursed with a blessed Irish imagination," she said of her desire to go the moon. She told her family she made "vacation plans ... I thought that would get a rise out of them."

First on the list was Austrian journalist Gerhard Pistor, who walked into a travel bureau in Vienna seven years ago and put down $20 on a rocket flight to the moon.

"I am naturally interested in space flight," he said, adding that he felt going to the moon as a newswoman was a good story, "if I was first."

Pastor Nabs Bank Bandit

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A Baptist minister stymied the attempted robbery of a Syracuse bank by surprising the bandit from behind and holding him until police arrived.

The Rev. Mr. Karey Rivers, pastor of the First Galilee Baptist Church in Syracuse's inner city, said he noticed the man demanding money from a teller in the Lincoln First Bank in downtown Syracuse.

"I walked behind him as if I was going to make a deposit," the Rev. Mr. Rivers said. "I grabbed him around his arms and I felt on him to see if he had a gun or any other weapon."

The minister continued to hold the unarmed man until police came.

Police said the bandit had demanded $5,000 in $20 and $50 bills but received nothing.

The Rev. Mr. Rivers, an official of the state Division of employment, was on his lunch hour when the holdup occurred.

Police were holding Davey Thompson, 21, for arraignment on a charge of attempted robbery.

Farm Bureau Directors Hold Business Session

The Pitt County Farm Bureau board of directors met Tuesday night at the Farm Bureau office building.

President David Smith welcomed the following new directors: Bobby Harris, Belvoir; Eric Whichard, Carolina; W.E. House, Bethel; Jerry Nichols, Grimesland; and Frankie Singleton, Pactolus.

During the business session, plans were made to erect a new Farm Bureau sign. D.R. House Jr., vice president, reported that progress is being made on plans for an addition to the present Farm Bureau building.

J.C. Galloway reported on the annual N.C. Farm Bureau convention held recently in Durham. He said delegates adopted a resolution asking for a referendum to give farmers the opportunity to vote for or against the lease and transfer of tobacco allotments across county lines.

Wayne Stokes said approximately 100 young farmers and their wives attended the young farmers breakfast meeting Monday during the state convention.

The board approved a dinner meeting for the young farmers of Pitt County to be held after the first of the year.

A budget committee, composed of D.R. House Jr., Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, Eric Whichard and Milton May, was named. The committee will report at the January meeting.

Election Set December 8

Chairman Arch J. Flanagan of Farmville urges all citizens who are interested in the natural resources of Pitt County to vote in this election.

He will speak at Bureau-conducted schools in Thailand, Laos, and American Samoa in the immediate future and will be with the Bureau in South American countries periodically during the winter months.

Certainly Nude But Not Lewd

NEW YORK (AP) — A 27-year-old bosomy secretary who took her bathing suit off at a Brooklyn beach last summer says she has won a major civil liberties victory with her acquittal on charges of public lewdness.

Criminal Court Judge Robert S. Kreindler held in his ruling Tuesday that while Shelley Gilbert had indeed been nude in the Aug. 19 incident, the prosecution failed to prove she had done anything "in a lewd manner."

He reserved until Jan. 3 his decision on a charge of "exposure of a female," which makes it a crime punishable by up to 15 days in jail for a woman to appear in a public place without a minimum covering.

One Injured In Car Collision

One person was injured when two cars collided about 10 a.m. yesterday on Tenth Street, 800 feet East of the Forrest Hill Drive intersection.

Police identified drivers involved in the crash as Luke Best Joyner, 25, of 611 West Fifth St. and Alfonza Weaver, 45, of Route 4, Greenville.

Police reported a passenger in the Joyner auto was injured and estimated damage at $800 to the Joyner car and $400 to the Weaver car.

Joyner was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

'Culture Week' In North Carolina Now Underway

By H. G. JONES
Administrator Archives and History

RALEIGH (AP) — This is "Culture Week" in North Carolina. From all over the state members of 13 cultural and historical organizations have gathered in Raleigh.

Fort Worth, Tex. The North Carolina Artists Exhibition at the State Museum of Art opens tonight.

Scheduled Thursday are meetings of the Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, which will feature an address by Clement E. Conger, curator of the White House, and presentation of the Cannon Cup awards for accomplishment in historic restoration and preservation. Other groups meeting Thursday are the North Carolina Museums Council, which will hear an address by Richard F. Gibbs, director of the North Carolina American Revolution Bicentennial Commission; and the North Carolina Symphony Society. The symphony group will hear remarks from Richard Wangerin, president of the American Symphony Orchestra League, and an evening concert by the North Carolina Symphony.

The North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, the founding organization of "Culture Week," meets Friday for a program including reviews of recent books by North Carolina authors, the presentation of six major annual awards in the fields of literature and history, and three addresses.

Louis D. Rubin Jr., professor of English at UNC-Chapel Hill, will speak on "Thomas Wolfe Once Again"; William S.

Powell, curator of the North Carolina Collection at the UNC library will deliver his presidential address on "Carolina Creatures from Roanoke Island to Purgatory Mountain," and John L. Sanders, director of the Institute of Government, will speak on "Building the State Capitol, 1833-1840."

The Friday schedule will also include meetings of the North Carolina Arts Council and the 61st annual session of the North Carolina Folklore Society. Final events Saturday will be meetings of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Poetry Society, and the Society of County and Local Historians.

North Carolina is the only state in the Union with an event such as "Culture Week" in which its major cultural and historical organizations, though retaining their individual identities, meet annually during a specified week.

Prominent among activities of the week are annual business meetings, programs and speakers of interest, performances and art exhibitions, social events, and the conferring of several coveted awards for excellence in art, literature, history, and music.

"Culture Week" began Tuesday with meetings of the Roanoke Island Historical Association and the Federation of Music Clubs.

Today is "Art Day" with day-long programs concluding this evening with a dinner address by Richard F. Brown, director of the Kimbell Art Museum in

Avers Lawmen 'Leaderless'

BY CHARLES LAYTON
Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — An Army ROTC instructor who witnessed the deaths of two student demonstrators at Southern University says law officers at the scene charged about "acting as individuals, with no noticeable leadership."

Army Maj. Leon D. Jackson told an unofficial all-black investigating committee Tuesday he helped keep state troopers at bay so students and university employees inside the tear gas-filled administration building could escape during the violence Nov. 16.

Jackson also said he had trouble persuading officers and university officials to summon medical aid for the two students — one dead and the other dying — who lay on the sidewalk outside the building. He said they had been hit by buckshot.

He said when he went forward to examine the two, a state trooper told him, "You are not God. Leave those people until the coroner gets here."

On another occasion, Jackson said, he approached two of university President Dr. G. Leon Netterville's top administrators and told them one student was dead and the other needed immediate medical attention.

"Their words were: 'It's good for them. They knew what they were getting into. They deserved what they got' — words to that effect," Jackson said.

The committee of black leaders adjourned for two weeks on Tuesday after taking two days of testimony. Committee Chairman Haywood Burns of New York City, director of the National Conference of Black Lawyers, said a written report would be issued later.

New Strain Of Influenza

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A doctor at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has isolated a new strain of influenza significantly different from the Hong Kong virus, officials say.

Dr. Robert C. Webster made the isolations from several specimens submitted by private physicians, said Dr. Robert C. Rendtorff, communicable disease control director for the Memphis-Shelby County Health Department.

The virus has been sent to the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for final strain typing, Rendtorff said Tuesday.

"Apparently it is the new strain that is common in England," he said.

Webster said it has been reported that the current vaccines for Hong Kong influenza also are effective against the new strain.

Rendtorff said few influenza cases have been reported in the community to date. However, he said the presence of the virus may pose a threat.

Punished For Drinking Beer

VINCENNES, Ind. (AP) — Two city policemen have been punished for drinking beer in a patrol car after attending a training session on how to handle drunk drivers.

A spokesman for the Board of Public Works and Safety said Tuesday that Leslie Chanley was reduced in rank from captain to patrolman first class and patrolman Esco Daffron was fined 15 days extra duty.

CHILD RESCUES — Manchester (N.H.) fire fighter George Gravel crawls on ladder over thin ice rescuing Jean Marchette, 6, who plunged into a pond with her brother David, 7, near their home. CHRISTMAS SEAL CAMPAIGN SCARF. . . . is presented by State Christmas Seal Chairman Arthur Smith to Miss Frances Bavier, "Aunt Bea" of the Andy Griffith Show, in recent ceremonies in Raleigh.

Record Reminds Tuberculosis Is Still Far From Eliminated

"An upsurge in crippling and killing lung diseases requires a renewed effort if the fight against them is to be won," according to Dr. Joe Pou of Greenville, 1972 Christmas Seal Chairman of the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Dr. Pou warned North Carolinians not to be lulled by a recent decline in active tuberculosis cases in the state. "Inactive cases relapse," he said, "and 1,061 active cases this year indicate that tuberculosis, a communicable disease, has not been eliminated.

"The rise of other respiratory diseases is frightening," Dr. Pou said. "Chronic respiratory disease is a direct or aiding cause of more than 90,000 deaths a year. About a million Americans are known to have emphysema, which is second among disabilities for which workers are awarded Social Security benefits."

Acute infections were the major cause of time lost from work and school. In a recent year, Americans spent almost 410 million days in bed because of acute respiratory conditions.

"We cannot afford to relax our effort," Dr. Pou comments. "It is important that we continue to support through our contributions in the Christmas Seal campaign, programs to control and eradicate lung diseases.

"Our contributions enable local and state respiratory disease associations to support community services, public health education, professional education and training, patient services and medical education and research."

Dr. Pou was among about 150 professional and volunteer workers for state and local Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Associations to attend a recent statewide coffee in Raleigh in support of the 1972 Christmas Seal campaign.

In attendance were Secretary of State Thad Eure; television personality Arthur Smith, State Christmas Seal Chairman for 1972; and Miss Frances Bavier of Siler City, the "Aunt Bea" of the Andy Griffith Show.

Also representing the Eastern TB and RD Association at the coffee were Mrs. Ruth Peterson, Mrs. Patsy Hatch and Mrs. Ruth Garner of Greenville.

Bulk Of Grain Still Unshipped

KANSAS CITY (AP)—About 17 per cent of the more than 400 million bushels of grain sold to Russia was shipped between July 1 and Nov. 17, a special task force of the National Grain and Feed Association reports.

Latest estimates indicate most of the grain will be delivered by next June or July, members of the task force told a meeting at the Kansas City Board of Trade on Tuesday.

Also, 15.3 million bushels of wheat have gone to China.

PARTICIPATED IN PARADE—Edward Dennis of Bethel participated in the recent homecoming parade at Chowan College, Murfreesboro. A college spokesman said Dennis and his horse were a "crowd-pleasing attraction" and he hoped the Bethel resident would return next year. (Chowan College Photo)

Elections Board To Hold Hearing In Hawke Appeal

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Board of Directors has agreed to hold a public hearing Dec. 11 on the appeal of Republican Jack Hawke who apparently lost the race for Congress in North Carolina's 4th District by 1,100 votes.

Elections Director Alex Brock said the board had agreed in closed session to hold the hearing "in consideration of the fact that certain irregularities in Durham County did in fact occur in the election process."

Official returns of the Nov. 7 election showed Democrat Ike Andrews got 73,072 votes to Hawke's 71,972. The board deferred its certification of the 4th District race until after the public hearing.

Brock said Hawke's petition did not indicate whether the alleged irregularities would change the result of the election.

Brock declined to specify their irregularities. But he said there was evidence to back up Hawke's allegation that voters cast ballots in precincts other than the ones in which they lived.

The elections board also set public hearings Dec. 11 on an appeal by William L. Revels, a Republican who apparently finished eighth in a seven-man race in Guilford County for the state House of Representatives, and on an appeal by Durwood T. Clark, a Democrat, in the Brunswick County register of deeds race. Clark, the incumbent, lost to Republican Arthur Knox by only 10 votes.

According to Brock, Revels, who apparently lost by less than 30 votes, contended that some voting machines were set to prevent votes for himself and some other candidates.

Chairman J. Brian Scott of the state Elections Board, closed Tuesday's meeting to newsmen after hearing a brief statement by Raleigh attorney Eugene Boyce, Andrews' attorney.

Scott said he wanted a closed-door session because "we will have a judicial function to perform" in deciding whether to hear the candidates' appeals.

State law banning secret meetings by governmental agencies allows some quasi-judicial bodies to meet in closed session.

Hawke has also appealed the refusal of the Wake County Board of Elections to order a new election or otherwise grant relief from the Nov. 7 results, but Brock did not mention it is reporting the order for a public hearing.

Hawke's appeal also was turned down by the Chatham County Board of Elections.

Brock said a State Bureau of Investigation probe of the election in Durham County will be ready for the Dec. 11 hearing.

TVA Rates Up By 9 Per Cent

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—As anticipated, the Tennessee Valley Authority has announced it will increase, by nine per cent, its electric power rates beginning in January.

The move marks the second time in two years that the federal government agency—which distributes electricity to seven states—has raised its rates.

On both occasions, TVA said the rate hike was necessary to cover a continuing rise in costs. In October 1970, the authority boosted its electric rates by about 23 per cent.

The new rates are expected to provide about $35 million in additional revenues for the remainder of TVA's fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

The increase will add about $1 a month to the average household electric bill in the wide area served by TVA's electricity-producing plants.

Prior to the increase, residential consumers of TVA power were paying about 43 per cent below the national average charged for electric rates, TVA officials said.

In announcing the rate hike Tuesday, the authority said higher costs for coal and higher interest rates on funds borrowed for power supply expansion were the prime factors for the increase.

In explaining its position, the authority said: "TVA is required to charge rates which will produce gross power revenues sufficient to cover operation and maintenance expense.

Banks Pay For Extra Guards

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Bankers report off-duty policemen are patrolling the city's 109 banks.

There have been a record 66 bank robberies in North Carolina this year, a third of them in Charlotte.

Uniformed and plainclothes policemen from the Charlotte and Mecklenburg County forces are being paid $5 an hour by the banks. They are not present at all banks during every banking hour.

Reagan Brings Nixon Message

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President Nixon has written President Luis Echeverria of Mexico that he is convinced the "world has now perhaps the best chance since the end of World War II to build the new structure of a lasting peace."

In a letter delivered by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, Nixon told Echeverria he wanted to "work with you and other world leaders to achieve that great goal."

Reagan arrived Tuesday for three days of trade promotion meetings with officials and businessmen. He delivered Nixon's letter during a meeting with Echeverria Tuesday night at the Mexican president's home.

Recover Stolen Cigarette Cargo

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The 950 cases of cigarettes worth $114,000 stolen from the Roadway Express terminal in nearby Kernersville have been recovered after a nine-day search.

Authorities have announced that the cigarettes, which were to be shipped to Ohio by the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., were recovered last Sunday in a barn about five miles from the terminals where they were stolen on Nov. 17. The owner of the barn said he had rented it to a New York man who said he planned to board quarter horses there.

The tractor-trailer rig stolen with the cigarettes had been recovered previously.

Fully Automated Plant Scheduled

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—New Dawn Industries has announced that it will open next May 1 the first fully automated textile mill in the Gastonia area.

Open-end spinning frames which run four to eight times faster than conventional frames will enable 25 workers to produce 80,000 pounds of carded yarn a week. It now takes more than 100 persons to produce a similar amount. There won't be any bobbins to doff, or expensive automatic winding.

The case of the disappearing paycheck and what to do about it.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Take stock in America.

Milestones In Careers Of Nursing

CHICAGO (UPI)—One of the nation's most important careers, that of the registered nurse, is near milestones that accent its youthful status among the professions.

It was approximately 50 years ago, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, that every state in the union had a law on examination and registration of nurses.

The beginning of U.S. professional nursing dates from the early 1870s, when the first schools of nursing were established. Before then the sick in hospitals were cared for by members of religious orders or by untrained employees.

When the Civil War began no trained nurses were available and the nursing duties of both the North and the South were carried out by women volunteers and enlisted orderlies.

After the war a reform movement in all health fields began.

In 1873 schools of nursing were established in New Haven, Conn., Boston and New York, based on patterns developed by Florence Nightingale, English nursing pioneer. Some critics, including physicians, were suspicious of the schools—especially because they were supervised by women—but were soon won over when the young graduates demonstrated competence.

North Carolina in 1903 became the first state to pass a law setting forth requirements for state examination and registration of nurses. Within 20 years all other states had followed this lead. Nursing schools increased rapidly, reaching more than 2,500 by 1925.

Meanwhile, demands for nursing services placed added emphasis on biological and physical science as well as general collegiate education. The educational system for nursing now comprises three types of programs: collegiate, four years; hospital school, three; junior college, two years.

Graduates of all three programs are eligible to take the state examination. If they pass they are authorized to use the title registered nurse (RN).

Approximately 700,000 professional nurses currently are working in the United States. Nearly 500,000 more are inactive, most of them married.

In addition, there are about 300,000 licensed practical nurses employed in hospitals, nursing homes and physicians' offices. About 500,000 nursing aides work in hospitals.

The number of professional nurses continues to increase more rapidly than the population, Encyclopaedia Britannica says, but the demand for their services has been increasing at an even faster rate.

Choruses At Tarrytown

ROCKY MOUNT—Two area school choruses will appear at Tarrytown Mall, Rocky Mount, as part of the Eighth Annual Christmas Music Festival.

The Wahl-Coates Elementary School Boy's and Girl's Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Vivian Beach, will perform Thursday at 5:45 p.m. The 80 member chorus of fifth and sixth graders will present "It was on a Christmas Eve," "Christ Child, Christ Child," "Strangers in the Streets," "Let Us Go to Bethlehem," and "The Little Drummer Boy."

The Chicod School eighth Grade Chorus, under the direction of Vivian C. Weatherly, will perform Friday at 9:30 p.m. The 40 members chorus will present a program of sacred and secular Christmas music including "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Sleigh Ride," "I Want a Hippopotamus for Christmas," "Tiny King," and "Keep the Spirit of Christmas Glowing the Whole Year Through."

Both groups will perform beneath the boughs of the Magic Christmas Tree. By an electronic process, the hundreds of twinkling lights adorning the tree change color in rhythm to the music, responding to each change in tone.

Over 80 musical groups from eastern North Carolina and Virginia will perform nightly except Sundays until Dec. 23.

Hanoi, capital of North Vietnam, is 710 miles from Saigon, capital of South Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of budget-minded Caspar Weinberger as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare signals hard times for the government's most expensive bureaucracy.

He undoubtedly shares the fat-trimming goals of President Nixon and outgoing HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson. Weinberger has been director of the Office of Management and Budget. But where Richardson would have used a scalpel, top-ranking HEW officials fear Weinberger may wield an axe.

Earlier this month the President singled out HEW as a department he feels is "too fat, too bloated." The HEW budget has been increasing at an average 15 per cent a year over the last decade, more than twice the rate of the Gross National Product. This fiscal year its spending is targeted at $78.9 billion, nearly one-third of all federal outlays and more than the defense budget for the first time in HEW's 19-year history.

Richardson set out to reform the system, cut the red tape surrounding more than 250 categorical programs and make them cost-effective. However, he also sought to protect the welfare of his department's 110,000 employees. When the White House ordered a 5 per cent slash in the federal payroll, the Office of Management and Budget, directed by Weinberg, set HEW's quota at 10,000.

Richardson won a major concession to make the cuts conditional on a pending transfer of several federal hospitals to local jurisdictions. Weinberger, who can expect to face stiff congressional grilling in attempts to justify cuts in programs, has asked HEW Undersecretary John G. Veneman to stay. Veneman, the only ranking survivor of the stewardship of Robert Finch, Nixon's first HEW secretary, is regarded as a man with a golden touch in congressional relations.

Weinberger is familiar with HEW programs through his role as budget chief. A new attempt is expected during Nixon's second term to dump many Great Society programs, cut the red tape surrounding more than 250 categorical programs and make them cost-effective.

McDonald of Greenville and Miss Harriett Jean Carter of the home; two sons, Judge Derb S. Carter and Lentz H. Carter, both of Fayetteville; two brothers, J. Gilbert Horner and J. Wesley Horner, both of Fayetteville; two sisters, Mrs. Annie V. Gore of Raeford and Miss Julia E. Horner of Fayetteville; six grandchildren.

Daniels
Mrs. Lottie Hopkins Daniels of 615-B Tyson St., died Sunday afternoon in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 4 p.m. at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church with her pastor, the Rev. B.B. Felder officiating. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Daniels, daughter of the late Andrew and Mary Jane Hopkins, was born in Pitt County and spent all her life here. She was a member of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church and the J.A. Nimmo Choir. Surviving are two sons, David Daniels Jr. of Bridgeport, Conn., and Dallas Daniels of Orlando, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Ebron of Farmville and Mrs. Lucille Evans of Greenville; one brother, Joe Frank Hopkins of Farmville; 19 grandchildren; three great grandchildren.

The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home and taken to the church one hour prior to the service. Family visitation will be held Thursday from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

N.C. Publisher Heart Victim
NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — The publisher of the North Wilkesboro Journal-Patriot, Julius C. Hubbard, died this morning at Wilkes General Hospital after a heart attack. He was 74.

Hubbard, who began his newspapering career at age 11 in North Wilkesboro, was editor of the Wilkes Journal in 1919 and purchased that paper in 1924. The Journal and the Patriot merged in 1932, and Hubbard later bought all interests in the company. Hubbard is a past director of the North Carolina Press Association. He had owned newspapers at West Jefferson, Bryson City and Andrews.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Survivors are his widow; a daughter, Mrs. C.L. Domeck Jr., Louisville, Ken.; two sons, Julius C. Hubbard Jr., and John W. Hubbard, both of North Wilkesboro and both associate publishers of the Journal-Patriot, and a sister, Mrs. Lee Hemphill, Wilkesboro.

At the same time, a new drive also is likely to reform the remnants of a welfare system dating back to the Great Depression, and to trim spending on many federal health programs that grew topsy-turvy out of Congress' reaction to pressure groups. Weinberger will be in an unprecedented position at HEW, reigning over a department whose budget he had a major hand in drafting. The 1974 budget, he says, is near completion and is one "HEW can live with."

Opine Panel Sympathetic
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — There are indications an Army panel considering the clemency plea of Lt. William L. Calley has recommended lifting some of the restrictions now imposed on him or possibly suggested some form of parole, the Daily Oklahoman says.

The newspaper said in today's editions it had learned that three clemency and parole officers who interviewed Calley Monday had submitted a report favorable to Calley, found guilty in March 1971 of slaying 22 civilians during the My Lai massacre in Vietnam. The newspaper added: "There were indications the panel may have suggested lifting some of the restrictions now imposed or even some form of parole."

The Daily Oklahoman said a "highly regarded source" told it the parole officers felt in 18 months he has been under house arrest at Ft. Benning, Ga., pending appeal "almost amounted to cruel and unusual punishment." The Oklahoman said the recommendations of the parole and clemency officers were submitted Tuesday to the commanding general at Ft. Benning, Ga., Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott. It said Talbott will add his recommendation to those of the panel and forward them to the Army and Air Force Clemency and Parole Board in Washington, probably within the next few days.

Americans Died In JAL Crash
MOSCOW (AP) — Three Americans were among 61 persons killed in the crash of a Japanese airliner as it was taking off from Moscow for Japan Tuesday night, Japan Air Lines announced today.

JAL said 14 Japanese and a New Zealander survived the crash and were being treated at Moscow hospitals. A 16th survivor was reported earlier but a check of hospitals produced only 15 persons. The airline said the 16th person was missing and presumed dead.

The Americans were listed as C. Gerbic, M. Brettler and Sackheim. The airline said Brettler and Sackheim boarded the flight in Copenhagen and Gerbic boarded in Moscow. Brettler was believed to be Monroe S. Brettler, president of the Brettler International Sales Corp. of New York, who a Japanese firm in Nagoya said was expected on the flight.

A U.S. Embassy official reported earlier that two Americans survived, but this proved to be erroneous. The four-engine DC8 was on a trans-Siberian flight from Copenhagen to Tokyo. It had climbed to about 400 feet after taking off, then plunged downward and crashed about 150 yards from the end of a runway at Sheremetyevo airport.

The surviving New Zealander, Eldridge B. Smith, 42, said one of the starboard engines burst into flames just before the plane started down, the airline reported. The plane's pilot was Tomomasa Nozue, 35, a veteran of more than 5,000 flight hours. He died in the crash, JAL said.

Japanese government aviation experts, a medical team and JAL President Shizuo Asada flew to Moscow today to help in the investigation of the crash. It was the second major airline crash at the Moscow airport in six weeks. An Ilyushin 62 operated by Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, crashed on Oct. 13 as it was landing in bad weather, and 176 persons were killed. It was the worst crash in aviation history.

Buckley Shifts Position On Marijuana Laws
NEW YORK (AP) — William F. Buckley Jr. says continued research on marijuana has now convinced him that criminal penalties for use of pot should be dropped.

However, the conservative columnist and editor of National Review magazine also said Tuesday that laws against trafficking in marijuana should not be eliminated. Buckley's position is a reversal from last spring when he testified against changing federal laws against marijuana use.

"I felt at the time that the evidence was not all in — that no one really knew enough to be able to say that the present penalties should be removed," he said.

The cover headline on the current issue of National Review says, "The Time Has Come: Abolish the Pot Laws" and its principal article urges American conservatives to stop supporting laws against smoking marijuana.

Cold Pirates Easily Defeat Icy Bees

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina University's Pirates opened the 1972-73 season last night, but the debut was less than auspicious. While the Pirates won handily, 78-58, they didn't look too good doing it. In the first half, the Bucs couldn't find the range, hitting only 30.6 per cent from the floor. They warmed considerably in the second half, however, hitting 53.8 per cent during that frame. But ball-handling left something to be desired, as the Bucs committed 27 turnovers, 15 of them in the second half, when they could have rolled even further away from the Bees than they did.

East Carolina led all the way from the first points, a pair of free throws by Nicky White after four whole minutes of play. They didn't get a field goal, however, until nearly five minutes were gone, when Al Faber finally hit after he stole the ball on the throw-in following two more free throws, these by Jerome Owens. That made it 6-0, as Baltimore, even colder, didn't find range until even later. Five minutes and 11 seconds had elapsed before the Bees finally got on the scoreboard, hitting two free throws by Wayne Meachum. Another minute and 13 seconds was to go by before they finally hit from the floor, with John Rhoads scoring on a drive.

The Pirates spent the entire evening on the verge of breaking it open, but each time they seemed ready to do it, a turnover to the quick handed Bees would stall them. The Bucs led by as much as 10 points in the first half, 23-13, but had to settle for a seven point spread at halftime, 33-26. Then, during the second half, they built up a 17-point spread, 59-42, halfway through. They reached 19, 61-42, with 7:33 remaining, but never got to 20 until Roger Atkinson hit a driving shot with just one second left on the clock to make it 78-58. The Pirates, however, were their old selves on the boards, wrecking Baltimore's attempts to get second shots. The Bucs pulled in 51 loose balls as compared to 39 for the Bees.

Faber and Atkinson both had eight to lead the way, while White had seven and Dave McNeill had five. Carl Kenty, a freshman for Baltimore, led all rebounders with nine. East Carolina, substituting liberally, used 11 players. Only two, Ray Pesko and Eugene Walcott, played less than 10 minutes, and only five, White, Earl Quash, Tom Marsh, Faber and Owens played as much as 20, half the game. White, with 29 minutes, logged the greatest time on the court.

Marsh, who might soon be known as Tom Terrific to the Pirates fans, continued the pace he set last year as a walk-on freshman, leading the scoring with 15 points. He left the game late in the contest, however, with a knee injury, after hitting the floor hard. Three other Pirates hit in double figures. Quash had 12, while White and Owens each added 10. Coach Tom Quinn said afterwards that he felt the coldness in the early part of the game was due to being too keyed up for the game. The Bucs, he said, had been concentrating on their defense, and were keyed for this and perhaps were too tense offensively. They apparently broke this tenseness at halftime when their shooting was almost double that of the first half, although they shot less, 36 times in the first half as compared to 26 in the second. And the defense did do the job, as Baltimore hit only 11 of 38 first half shots, and 11 of 42 in the second half for a poor 27.5 per cent for the night. After jumping into the lead by six points before Baltimore scored, the Pirates tumbled back to three, 9-6, before pulling away again. Baltimore, however, trimmed it to two, 13-12 on a steal by Meachum. But the Pirates got a jumper from the top of the circle by Dave McNeill and White poured in a driving hook. Owens added another drive and the Pirates out by eight, 19-11. Owens made it 10, 23-13, just a minute later, but Baltimore cut it back to five, 24-19 with 4:17 left. The Bucs finally went out by nine again, 33-24 with 1:08 left on a three point play by Marsh, but a jumper by Fran Jamrogowicz with 47 seconds left made it 33-26 at halftime. Jamrogowicz hit again to open the second half, but the Bucs went back out by 10 when Faber hit, and Dave Franklin followed with a three-point play. Another Franklin basket on a fast break made it 42-30, but again, the Bucs failed to take advantage of their lead. It finally reached 15 with 12:02 left, 51-46, and got to 17 at 55-38 with 10:34 left. The margin reached 19 when Quash sank a jumper with 7:33 to go, but it hung right around there for most of the remaining time. A jumper by Oscar Berryman and a steal by Jack Crabtree trimmed it back to 13 at 65-52, but the Bucs built it back to the final 20 in the remaining four and a half minutes. East Carolina will make its second outing on Saturday evening, playing host to the Athletes in Action.

THERE IT IS, IT'S MINE — East Carolina University's Al Faber (50) watches the ball as he moves in toward the basket during last night's play against the University of Baltimore. He's being guarded by Carl Kenty as Oscar Berryman (left) and Richard Diamond (51) comes to his aid. In the background is Dave Franklin. The Pirates won handily, 78-58, in their season opener. Paladins Have Load Of Talent

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)
Last year, Joe Williams put out his second Furman University team, and it looked like the Paladins would dominate the Southern Conference. But East Carolina sneaked up on them in the league tournament and set them down, taking the title themselves. This year in the third edition of the Williams' team, it might not be quite as easy for East Carolina, or anyone else for that matter. The Paladins have height, strength, shooting ability, and rebounding ability. These may combine to put the Paladins into the nation's Top Twenty, and to power them past nearly all opponents. "The biggest change this year," Williams said, "will be in our board power. In our games in the past, we've been pressing on defense and forcing turnovers, but we've been out-rebounded by our opponents. We felt that we had to gamble and that the gamble was important and we fouled if that was what it took." This year, however, the Paladins should be able to go to the boards with just about anyone, and this may cause some slight changes in the way the Furman team does things. The reason for this is the new-found height brought by two sophomores, 6-9, 225-pound Clyde Mayes, and 7-1, 235-pound Fessor (Moose) Leonard. Returning too are the two leading players from last year's team, Russ Hunt, 6-8, 205, and Roy Simpson, 6-9, 210. Hunt or Simpson may find themselves playing at the second guard position, and the wing where they were the inside men last year. Leonard and Mayes will be inside. And despite the fact that Mayes is just a sophomore, Williams rates him as a real team leader. "Both of the sophomores are looking real good," he said. "For sophomores to take the leadership role they're taking is really something." The point position is up for grabs. Two returning veterans, Steve Dougherty, 6-1, 160, and Ed Kelley, 5-10, 155, are battling along with Baron Hill, a 5-10, 165-pound sophomore. "Hill is looking best so far, but Kelley could take it away from him." Furman will still be a running team, and there appears to be enough depth to keep the pressure on the opponents by running in fresh men at various stages of the game. Chief reserves look to be Gary Clark, a 6-5, 175-pound junior; Todd Brenizer, a 6-3, 180-pound junior. Another veteran, Bud Bierly, 6-5, 190-pound, junior, has been injured and seen little pre-season work. Two freshmen, Michael Hall, 6-4, 180, and Craig Lynch, 6-6, 210, will also figure heavily in Williams' plans for this year. "We're going to play a physical type game," Williams said. "But we probably won't overplay on defense as much to cut down on the fouls." Williams feels that the Paladins have a tough opening, after having got by William & Mary in their opener. Upcoming in December, they have Clemson, Illinois, and Jacksonville, along with their own Poinsettia Classic. They then face North Carolina. "After playing these, we'll know a lot about having to play three sophomores." Williams said that this year is the first in several when the league can have someone in the Top Twenty. "Our team is the first step for the conference. Davidson could also make it. (Art) Tolas (assistant coach) is going to help East Carolina in the future and make them a top contender for national honors too." But for now, Furman is the favorite, and with only two seniors playing big roles on the team, they just might hold onto that favorite's role for several years to come.

The Bucs finally went out by nine again, 33-24 with 1:08 left on a three point play by Marsh, but a jumper by Fran Jamrogowicz with 47 seconds left made it 33-26 at halftime. Jamrogowicz hit again to open the second half, but the Bucs went back out by 10 when Faber hit, and Dave Franklin followed with a three-point play. Another Franklin basket on a fast break made it 42-30, but again, the Bucs failed to take advantage of their lead. Ayden-Grifton Dumps Panthers; Orange Rolls

BETHEL — Ayden-Grifton rolled to a 56-40 victory over North Pitt last night, but the North Pitt girls continued to roll along, 42-35. The Big Orange Machine that's known as the girls' basketball team at North Pitt destroyed another opponent, its third of the year, in building up an easy early lead, then coasting to victory. North Pitt built up a 15-2 lead in the first quarter of the game. Ayden-Grifton came back to score eight in the second frame, but gave up nine more as the score climbed to 24-10 at halftime. In the third quarter, North Pitt added another point to its lead with a 12-11 advantage, running the margin out to 36-21. The Lady Chargers came back in the final period to outthit the Panthers, 14-6, but it wasn't enough. Debbie Pollard led North Pitt with 12 points, while Minnie Hollis had 10. For Ayden-Grifton, Maude Babington had nine. In the boys' game, it was a different tale, however, as the Chargers took their third win. North Pitt eased into an 8-6 lead in the first quarter, but the Chargers came roaring back out outthit them 17-10 in the second. That left Ayden-Grifton ahead, 23-18 at halftime. The Chargers continued to pull away in the third period, outscoring North Pitt, 21-12. That made it 44-30 as the final frame got under way. A-G outthit the Panthers once again, 12-10, to wrap it up. Milton Brown led the Ayden-Grifton scoring with 17, while Melvin Stewart added 13. Joe Wright had 12 to pace North Pitt. Friday, North Pitt goes to Greene Central. Ayden-Grifton hosts Conley in its next outing, Tuesday.

Returning too are the two leading players from last year's team, Russ Hunt, 6-8, 205, and Roy Simpson, 6-9, 210. Hunt or Simpson may find themselves playing at the second guard position, and the wing where they were the inside men last year. Leonard and Mayes will be inside. And despite the fact that Mayes is just a sophomore, Williams rates him as a real team leader. "Both of the sophomores are looking real good," he said. "For sophomores to take the leadership role they're taking is really something." The point position is up for grabs. Two returning veterans, Steve Dougherty, 6-1, 160, and Ed Kelley, 5-10, 155, are battling along with Baron Hill, a 5-10, 165-pound sophomore. "Hill is looking best so far, but Kelley could take it away from him." Furman will still be a running team, and there appears to be enough depth to keep the pressure on the opponents by running in fresh men at various stages of the game. Chief reserves look to be Gary Clark, a 6-5, 175-pound junior; Todd Brenizer, a 6-3, 180-pound junior. Another veteran, Bud Bierly, 6-5, 190-pound, junior, has been injured and seen little pre-season work. Two freshmen, Michael Hall, 6-4, 180, and Craig Lynch, 6-6, 210, will also figure heavily in Williams' plans for this year. "We're going to play a physical type game," Williams said. "But we probably won't overplay on defense as much to cut down on the fouls." Williams feels that the

Baby Bucs Hold On To Get Win

East Carolina University's junior varsity, playing the last 1:53 with only four men on the court, held off Mt. Olive Junior College, to take a 74-72 victory last night in their home opener. The win leveled the ECU record off a 1-1 for the year. They dropped a one-point decision to the University of North Carolina Tar Babies on Saturday. Randy McCullen became the second Buc to foul out of the game with 1:53 remaining and only six Bucs had dressed. The seventh member of the team, Ken Edmonds, was sidelined with an injury. At the time, the Bucs held a four-point edge, 70-66, but Mt. Olive cut that to nothing, tying it at 70-70 with 37 seconds showing. But William Hill hit on a jumper with 22 seconds remaining to put the Bucs back on top. Al Edwards then canned two free throws with eight seconds left to give the Baby Bucs a four-point edge, 74-70, but a last second basket by Mike Gaillard cut the lead back to two as the horn sounded. Mt. Olive had moved out into a nine-point lead early in the game, 13-4, but East Carolina rebounded to take a 16-15 edge. It was a different tale, however, as the Chargers took their third win. North Pitt eased into an 8-6 lead in the first quarter, but the Chargers came roaring back out outthit them 17-10 in the second. That left Ayden-Grifton ahead, 23-18 at halftime. The Chargers continued to pull away in the third period, outscoring North Pitt, 21-12. That made it 44-30 as the final frame got under way. "But we probably won't overplay on defense as much to cut down on the fouls." Williams feels that the game was due to being too keyed up for the game. The Bucs, he said, had been concentrating on their defense, and were keyed for this and perhaps were too tense offensively. They apparently broke this tenseness at halftime when their shooting was almost double that of the first half, although they shot less, 36 times in the first half as compared to 26 in the second. And the defense did do the job, as Baltimore hit only 11 of 38 first half shots, and 11 of 42 in the second half for a poor 27.5 per cent for the night. After jumping into the lead by six points before Baltimore scored, the Pirates tumbled back to three, 9-6, before pulling away again. Baltimore, however, trimmed it to two, 13-12 on a steal by Meachum. But the Pirates got a jumper from the top of the circle by Dave McNeill and White poured in a driving hook. Owens added another drive and the Pirates out by eight, 19-11. Owens made it 10, 23-13, just a minute later, but Baltimore cut it back to five, 24-19 with 4:17 left. The Bucs finally went out by nine again, 33-24 with 1:08 left on a three point play by Marsh, but a jumper by Fran Jamrogowicz with 47 seconds left made it 33-26 at halftime. Jamrogowicz hit again to open the second half, but the Bucs went back out by 10 when Faber hit, and Dave Franklin followed with a three-point play. Another Franklin basket on a fast break made it 42-30, but again, the Bucs failed to take advantage of their lead. It finally reached 15 with 12:02 left, 51-46, and got to 17 at 55-38 with 10:34 left. The margin reached 19 when Quash sank a jumper with 7:33 to go, but it hung right around there for most of the remaining time. A jumper by Oscar Berryman and a steal by Jack Crabtree trimmed it back to 13 at 65-52, but the Bucs built it back to the final 20 in the remaining four and a half minutes. East Carolina will make its second outing on Saturday evening, playing host to the Athletes in Action.

Jaguars Roll To Win Over Rampants

By CHIP LAMBERTH
Reflector Sports Writer
FARMVILLE — Rose High lost four players on fouls last night and that proved to be the key in Farmville Central's overwhelming, last quarter surge toward a 70-57 win over the Rampants.

Phil Ragazzo, Jackie Savage, Mike Harris, and Matthew Clark all fouled out at various stages in the third and fourth quarters. As they were forced to leave the game, the Jaguars slowly came up from a 32-27 halftime deficit to tie it up at 36-36 and take the lead for good on a free throw by Willie Jones.

The Jags padded their lead to as much as sixteen and at several points led by 15 in the second half. They were only once threatened of being overtaken when the Rampants pulled within two, 43-41 with 1:07 left in the third quarter. The Jags came back with six straight points to work up a lead which increased steadily.

McCoy Williams led all the scorers with 18 points. Jones was right behind with 17. For Rose, Herb Bynum had 13 and Dennis Taylor pumped in 10. The Jags lost Melvin Bunch on fouls but he left so late in the game it did not matter.

Farmville took an early lead when Bunch sank a free throw after less than three minutes had gone by. Phil Lewis made it 3-0 as he added a pair of charity shots a few seconds later but Ragazzo hit from underneath for the first Rampant points and cutting the lead to 3-2 at 5:07.

Two more free throws by Lewis made it 5-2 but Clark sank a free shot and Taylor hit on an outside jumper coming off the bench to tie it at 5-5. Lee Johnson put Farmville Central back in front with a basket from the top of the key. They did not hold it long as George Price and Clark sank free shots to put Rose ahead at 8-7 with 2:43 to go in the first period.

A bucket by Bynum boosted the lead to 10-7. A free throw by Clark and a lay up by Harris gave the Rampants their biggest lead at six points, 13-7. The Jaguars got a couple of points when Lewis hit his fifth and sixth straight free throws and James Cobb scored on a fast break to narrow the lead to 13-11 with 1:01 left. With 14 seconds to go, Williams connected on a free shot but Bynum sank a pair of his own to give Rose a 15-12 edge at the end of the quarter.

The two teams swapped baskets as the second quarter began but two buckets, one each by Bynum from the corner and Robert Brinkley outside gave the Rampants a 21-14 margin. Williams hit on a field goal but it was matched by Brinkley.

Bynum tapped in a rebound to give the Rampants their biggest gap of the game at 25-16.

Then Farmville Central started to chip away at the Rose defense and Michael Corbett, Jones, and Williams each scored to cut the lead down to 25-22. Jones made three free shots sandwiched around two misses from the foul line by Rampant William Chance to tie it at 25-25. Jackie Savage canned a jumper with 1:20 to go in the half putting Rose back in front and Chance made a three point play to make the lead 29-25 with a minute to go.

Williams got the last Jaguar points in the half from the foul line cutting Rose's lead to three, 30-27 but Price sank a couple with :16 left and Rose took a 32-27 lead into the dressing room.

The Rampants scored the first point of the second half as Ragazzo hit from under the basket but that was the only goal scored by Rose for almost the next four minutes. Jones got the Jags three points with a jumper and a free throw and Bunch added three more in the same fashion. With 4:55 left in the third period the lead was down to 34-33. Williams drew a foul on Clark and made the charity shot to tie it for a third time, 34-34. Taylor put Rose back ahead with a field goal but a bucket by Jones and a free throw from a foul on the play put the Jags ahead to stay.

Williams scored from the corner with 3:21 to go in the period and Jones sent one through from the top of the circle to make it 41-36. Leroy Daniels scored for Rose but Farmville Central continued to pour it on and at the end of the quarter, they led by 49-41.

The Rampants pumped in two quick buckets to start the last period. However, the Jags dumped in ten points in a row to move out by 59-47. From there on out they just coasted along as the Rampants began to fall out on fouls.

Farmville gained its biggest margin of the night on Corbett's free shot with 3:30 to play, 63-47. The Jags went on to pour in seven more points while Rose added ten for the final 70-57 tally. The game was the first of the season for the Rampants but the third for Farmville Central. The Jags are 2-1 on the year so far having been beaten by Eastern Wayne.

Linbert Morris paced everyone with 18 points while James Carlton had 13 for Farmville Central and fellow Jaguar Robert Dixon dumped in 14. Walter Gorham had 10 for FC.

Rose took the lead in the first period as they outshot the Jags 14 more points in the second period to Farmville's 18 gave them a 28-24 halftime lead.

Farmville Central topped Rose in the third quarter, 12-11 cutting the lead to 39-36 but Rose came back with 17 points in the last frame to take the win.

Rose will open its home slate this Friday as they play host to Tarboro in both J.V. and varsity games.

Bear Grass In Loss To Pantego

PANTEGO—Pantego High School split a pair of games with the Bears of Bear Grass last night. The Bear girls won their game, 38-27, while the Pantego boys took a 58-48 win.

Bear Grass' girls slipped out into a 5-2 lead in the first period of play, but Pantego came back to outthrust them, 10-4, in the second frame and take a 12-9 lead.

Pantego continued to pull away in the third period, hitting 12 points to eight for the Bears. But in the final period, the Bears got blistering hot, hitting 21 points, while holding Pantego to just three and that was more than enough to win it.

Gloria Wobbleton led the Bears with 16 points.

In the boys game, Pantego pushed ahead, 11-4, in the first quarter. They came back with a 20-14 margin in the second quarter, building their lead out to 31-18.

The Warriors continued to pull away during the third period of play, hitting 16 more to 12 for the Bears. That ran the lead out to 47-30. The Bears put on a small rally in the final period, outscoring Pantego, 18-11, but it wasn't enough.

Nathaniel Armstrong led Bear Grass with 17 points, while Vann Roberson had 13 Hilton Armstrong had 10. For Pantego, M. Reddick had 25 and M. Whitley had 18.

Greene Central Takes Win Over South Wayne

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School split a pair of games with Southern Wayne in the Eastern Carolina Conference last night. The Rams took the boys' game, 44-35, while the Ewes were falling to Southern, 46-34.

In the girls' contest, Southern

Wayne shot away to a 14-4 lead during the first period of play, setting the tempo of the contest. The scoring margin was a little closer in the second quarter, but the Saints still held an 11-9 advantage, building their halftime lead to 25-13. Greene Central put on a rally in the third period of play, dumping in 11 points, while holding Southern to just two. That cut the lead back to 27-24, but they couldn't sustain it. The Saints came back to outthrust Greene, 19-10, and capture victory.

T. Bryan led Southern with 14 points, while J. Bryan had 12. Keith Gay led Greene with 14 points.

Southern slipped into the lead in the first period of the boys' game, holding a 9-6 edge after the first eight minutes. They continued to hold sway during the rest of the half, outthrusting the Rams, 8-6. That left the Saints ahead, 17-12 at the half.

The Rams began to warm to the task in the second half, however, outscoring Southern, 14-6, in the third period. That eased them into the lead 26-20. They added to their lead in the final period, 18-12, to gain the victory.

Ervin Spivey led the Ram scoring with 16 points, while Steve Williamson had 10. James Murray led Southern with 12, while Charles Berthea had 11. Greene will play host to North Pitt on Friday.

Hunter Gains During Drills

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The passing of neither North Carolina nor South Carolina has glittered in practice for Saturday's Shrine Bowl football game. But South Carolina has had outstanding running from Ken Callicott of Chester, Jerome Andrews of West Florence and Stanley Morgan of Easley.

For North Carolina, Tim Robinson of Hickory and Al Hunter of Greenville Rose broke gains to the outside Tuesday. Tailback Allen White of Bertie Central was the top Tar Heel runner on Monday.

Linebacker Curtis Banther of Brevard livened the North Carolina defense Tuesday by consistently making ringing tackles and voicing his exuberance. Other defensive standouts were his Brevard teammate Michael Marvin, West Stanly's tackle Rod Broadway, and Newton Conover's end and linebacker Greg Corpening.

Offensive guard Steve Smiley of Gaffney blocked well for South Carolina.

Ken Helms of Anderson Hanna, 6 feet 4 and 235 pounds, appears set at one defensive end for South Carolina. Nelson Wallace of Pageland likely will be at the other. Clinton's interior pair of Charles Norman and Robert Scott, and linebacker Mike Gravely of Pickens also have been impressive.

Halfback Dick Wier of Irmo has a pulled hamstring and has been replaced on the South Carolina squad by Dennis Carnes, a middle safety from Pageland.

The annual game in Charlotte matching 33-player squads of selected high school seniors benefits the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Greenville, S.C.

Callicott, a fullback who scored 18 touchdowns this season for Chester, a 6 and 5 team, says of the South Carolina wishbone attack: "They send you ramming straight up the middle, right into all those defenders. Used to be you'd run into a good one maybe every other team, but here they're all good.

Lew Smith of Albemarle, who will get some linebacking time for North Carolina, says the Albemarle coach, George Wheeler, who took over this year and produced a winning season, 6-4, after 2-7 and 3-7 seasons, is a hard but rewarding taskmaster.

"After several practices I felt I could shoot him, but it got to be a kind of a good hate, if you know what I mean. No matter how hard you worked, you couldn't please him.

"But from him a got a new pride, the feeling that you don't have to take getting beaten on a play or in a game. I began to feel very strongly about how to play linebacker. If I'm not at least around the ball when it stops moving, I know I haven't done my job. He changed the whole team that way."

Smith usually did his job. Lining up behind 150-pound tackle, the 205-pound Smith averaged 14 tackles a game.

Eagles Fall To Aurora, By 62-47

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Golden Eagles bowed in a pair of games with Aurora last night. The boys fell, 62-47, while the girls came out on the short end of a 43-41 score.

In the girls' contest, Robersonville and Aurora played on even terms most of the first quarter, with the Eagles holding a 9-8 edge at the horn. In the second period, however, Aurora took the lead and began to pull away, outscoring the Eagles, 14-8. That gave Aurora a 22-17 lead as the third period began.

In the third period, it continued to be Aurora, with an 11-9 scoring advantage, building the lead to 33-26. Robersonville tried to fight back in the final quarter, 15-10, but the drive didn't quite close the gap.

Elaine Forrest led Robersonville with 19 points, while Sherry Smithwick had 21 to top Aurora.

In the boys game, Robersonville also grabbed the lead in the first quarter, 15-8. But in the second, like the girls, they fell back, as Aurora came on to post a 17-6 scoring advantage. That left Aurora in command, 25-21 at halftime.

Aurora again outdistanced Robersonville, 15-6, in the third quarter, building their lead to 40-27. Both teams poured the points in during the last period, with Aurora holding a 22-20 advantage.

Tex Hooker led Aurora with 24, while Randy Moore and Randy Fulford each had 11. Ernest Crandall led Robersonville with 18, while Masonic Stokes had 10.

Robersonville goes to Belhaven on Friday.

West Virginians Davidson Opening Season; No Big Man Gobble Tickets

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — With the Dec. 29 Peach Bowl clash between West Virginia and North Carolina State still weeks away, Mountaineer fans planning the trip to Atlanta have gobbled up 8,300 tickets from the university ticket office here.

Ticket manager Tom Grayson said that the lion's share of seats in West Virginia's 10,000-ticket allotment had been sold by Tuesday afternoon.

"In the next few days the 10,000 will be gone," he said.

Grayson added that the Peach Bowl Committee has agreed to send him some more, but didn't say exactly how many extra tickets are coming.

The university ticket office began accepting mail orders and in person requests Nov. 20, one day after West Virginia, 8-3, accepted the invitation to meet the Wolfpack, 7-3-1.

University publicity assistant Ron Steiner says accommodations in the Georgia city are becoming increasingly more difficult to find. "Any rooms downtown are out of the question," he said, but inns in outlying areas still have a few vacancies for latecomers.

Flights from Morgantown Municipal Airport routed to Atlanta during the days preceding the game have been booked solid for a week, and commercial airlines in Pittsburgh, Charleston, Huntington and other major airports serving West Virginia patrons also report heavy requests.

The Mountaineers will be returning to the host city of their last bowl appearance. They defeated South Carolina 14-3 on a muddy, rain-swept Grant Field in 1969.

This time, the post-season clash is being held for the second year at Atlanta Stadium.

It was the West Virginia enthusiasm for that 1969 game that helped prompt the committee to select the Mountaineers this year.

West Virginia was given 10,000 tickets to sell for the 1969 contest, and sold every one of them.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Davidson's Wildcats, picked by league coaches to finish second behind Furman in this year's Southern Conference basketball race, open their season tonight at home against Wofford and Coach Terry Holland will be looking for the answer to his own question:

"Can you win without the big stud?"

Holland says the Wildcats "don't have the big man in the middle," but other than that, "things look good."

The Wildcats return most of the regulars from the team that finished first during the regular season last year, including All-Southern John Falconi, a 6-foot-5 junior who was hurt near the end of the campaign and missed several games.

"When we play well, we're gonna look very good," says Holland. "When we don't play well, we're gonna look very bad."

Of the 19 players listed on the Davidson roster, only two are seniors, leading Holland to observe: "We're very much looking forward to this season, and the next one, and the next one."

The Wofford-Davidson game is one of two on tap tonight for Southern Conference teams. Appalachian State's Mountaineers, routed 130-53 in their opener Monday night at N. C. State, provide the opening night opposition for Virginia Tech's independent Gobblers at Blacksburg.

Tech won't be quite as potent as State, for the Gobblers' lone returning player who was a starter all last season is 6-foot-7 Allan Bristow, who averaged 25 points and 13 rebounds per game.

The Gobblers will be depending on a pair of junior college transfers, Charley Thomas and Bobby Stevens, in the back court with Ed Frazier and Craig Lieder—veterans but not starters—up front.

East Carolina's defending conference champions opened their season Tuesday night with an effortless 78-58 victory over Baltimore University's Bees with four players scoring in double figures.

The Pirates opened up a 10-point lead midway the first half, led by seven points at intermission and pulled away after that as they worked for the good shot.

Sophomore Tom Marsh had 15 points and veteran Earl Quash 12 for the Pirates, while the Bees were led by Earl Jamrogowicz with 14 points and Wayne Meachum with 13.

TENACE STANDS OUT CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — There was no doubt about the World Series star. He was 26-year-old Gino Tenace formerly of Lucasville, Ohio, but now living in Walnut Creek, Calif.

Tenace drove in nine runs in the series and tied Babe Ruth's 1926 record of four homers in one series. The catcher-first baseman set a World Series slugging record of .913 with 21 bases on his eight hits in 23 at bats. He batted .347.

Tigers Drop Opening Game

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers, caught between the opening of basketball season, and the 2-A State Football Championships, bowed to Edenton, 63-51, last night in their first cage game of the season.

The Williamston girls, however, won their second contest, 31-28.

Williamston is still waiting for some of its players, including center Dwight Ange, to finish football, and didn't want to open this soon, but had no choice.

Both teams pushed through 11 points in the first period, and it stayed nip and tuck throughout the second frame. But Edenton finally outthit the Tigers, 18-17, for a 29-28 lead at the half.

In the third period, Edenton continued to ease away, hitting 15 points to 11 for Williamston. That pushed the Aces into a 44-39 lead. They copped that with a 19-15 scoring advantage in the final period to salt away the victory.

Fernell Williams led Edenton with 15 points, while Willie Barnes had 14, and Wayne Barnes and Adonis Lee each had 10. For the Tigers Octavius Brown had a 16, and Joe Savage and Willie Barnes each had 10.

In the girls game, Edenton slipped into a 9-6 lead in the first quarter, but the Tigerettes came roaring back with a 14-5 edge in the second quarter. That pushed Williamston into a 20-14 lead at the half. Edenton outthit Williamston, 9-8, in the third period, but was still behind, 28-23, as the final period opened. Edenton again out scored Williamston, 5-3, but couldn't catch up.

Cindy Tew led Edenton with eight, while Joanie Roberson had eight along with Janet Thigpen for Williamston.

Williamston is scheduled to play Scotland Neck on Friday.

Bullets Stop Chocowinity

JAMESVILLE — The Jamesville Bullets rolled to their fifth win in six starts last night, taking a 67-57 victory over Chocowinity. The Jamesville lassies, however, were not so lucky, falling, 34-17.

Jamesville inched ahead of Chocowinity during the first period, building a slim 13-10 lead. But in the second period, the Bullets shot away, dumping through 25 points while limiting Chocowinity to just 12. That pushed Jamesville into a 38-22 lead at intermission.

Chocowinity was able to hold the Bullets in check somewhat during the third period, outthitting Jamesville, 16-15, but they still were far back, 53-38. Chocowinity again outthit Jamesville, 19-14, in the final quarter, but just couldn't catch up again.

Larry Modlin and Robert James led the Bullets with 13 points each, while Tommy Mizelle had 12 and Gurkin Martin had 10. Glenn Page led all scorers hitting 23 for Chocowinity.

In the girls contest, Chocowinity got what it needed in the first period, hitting eight points while shutting out Jamesville. In the second quarter, they doubled the score on Jamesville, 10-5, and led, 18-5 at halftime.

Chocowinity could account for only four, making it 28-9, as the final stanza began. Jamesville finally outthit their guests, 8-6, but it just dented the margin.

Gladys Small led Chocowinity with 13 points, while Donna Williams had seven for Jamesville.

The Bullets travel to Pantego on Friday.

YOGI HARDLY FANNED NEW YORK (AP) — "Yogi seldom struck out," general manager Bob Scheffing of the New York Mets recalled when talking about past World Series. That statement brought a check of the 1961 series between the Yankees and Cincinnati Reds.

In that clash—won in five games by the Yankees—Berra struck out leading off the fifth inning against Bob Purkey. It was Berra's first series strike-out in his last 105 at bats in series competition. Berra played left field in that series, batting fourth, fifth and sixth. Ellie Howard was the Yankee catcher.

Found End Of Rainbow Is An Island

By CHARLES GREEN
Associated Press Writer
JESUSITA ISLAND, Costa Rica (AP) — Ken Hayes laughs a lot. He sits in a rocking chair, sipping beer, and smiles at the world.

Hayes has found the tropical island paradise many people dream about but most never see. And he has found a way to make a modest living on lush Jesusita—Little Jesus—Island in the Bay of Nicoya on Costa Rica's west coast.

The doctor of veterinary medicine, who closed up a pet hospital in Hollywood, Calif., 12 years ago to seek relief from chronic asthma, operates a tiny 10-room resort on 50 acres of the heavily wooded, 80-acre island. He is one of a growing number of Americans who feel they have found the rainbow's end in Costa Rica. He hunts, fishes, attends his guests, grows fruit trees, cooks gourmet meals and reads good books. But a lot of the time he just sits in a wood and leather rocker, pulling at a beer bottle with a sly grin on his face.

The doctor, who says he is 50 but may be older, has been on Jesusita for six years. He goes back to California occasionally to visit his children and grandchildren. But most of the time he is on the isle in his standard dress of bathing trunks and beer bottle.

"I had the Hollywood Dog and Cat Hospital but I was bothered by chronic asthma and couldn't find relief," Hayes said. "So I decided on a change in climate. Two other couples and I got on a boat and started going south. After we got to Costa Rica one woman was pregnant and wanted to have her baby in the United States so they left. Then the other couple decided they didn't like life on a boat so they left and I was stuck with the boat."

Hayes put the boat up for charter, mainly for fishermen and treasure hunters who were looking for the legendary pirate booty on Costa Rica's Coco Island in the Pacific Ocean.

"I lost money on that so I started fishing for lobster. I lost a lot of money on that. So I started fishing for tiger shark, selling the hide and meat. That was hard work but I made some money on that. Then I finally went broke and sold the boat. With the proceeds I bought the rights to the island and the little house that was on it," Hayes recalled.

He leases his 50 acres from the government. The other 30 acres of the hilly island are leased by a Canadian born Costa Rican who lives in the capital, San Jose, and visits the island on weekends.

Noise Troubles Town Of 1,200

FRANCISTOWN, Botswana, Africa (UPI) —Francistown, (pop. about 1,200), a sleepy, dusty cattle center, would seem to be the last place in the world troubled by noise pollution. Not so.

A spokesman for the Francistown town clerk's office announced steps to mute "the operation of radios, musical instruments, loudspeakers and similar devices for the purpose of advertising in public streets."

Worst offenders, the spokesman said, are the amplifiers "being played in Francistown to attract customers to beer parties."

"All persons wishing to play such instruments at beer parties must first apply for prior and written permission to do so," the official notice said. "Failure will result in a legal action taken against them."

Keep Joy In The Gift To A Child

CHICAGO (UPI) —Keep joy in the gifts you give to children by following these tips from the National Safety Council:

—Consider the age and abilities of the child and select your gift accordingly.

—Look for an Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label on electrical toys.

—Watch out for playthings that have points, sharp edges or removable parts, especially for little ones.

—Popular rocket and "shooting" toys can put eyes out. Present them only to older children who can understand their danger.

Old Racket Not Stopped By Lottery

By WILLY VOIGT JR.
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — When the Brazilian government set up a nationwide soccer lottery two years ago, one of its unwritten objectives was to eliminate the "jogo do bicho," the so-called animals game numbers racket which has plagued authorities for nearly 100 years.

But a recent newspaper survey showed that despite the fact the soccer lottery had attracted a total of $80 million in bets, the animal game was still going strong.

"Give me a hut in the jungle and two Brazilians," a harassed police commissioner said during the racket's heyday. "and you'll find one man in the hut running the animal game and the other hacking his way through the woods to place a bet."

In the "jogo do bicho," animals symbolize numbers. People who can't read or write or add or subtract still can make bets, by putting their money on the horse or the bull or the monkey—whichever they feel is lucky. There are 25 animals, each covering four numbers from 1-100.

In the old days, numbers sellers bribed cops as a routine business practice and in one state even supported a school lunch program in exchange for the state police's promise to let them alone.

The military-run government that took power in Brazil in 1964, however, got tough with the "jogo do bicho" and began sending numbers sellers to an island penal colony in the Atlantic Ocean.

The government then undertook a public relations campaign to promote existing legal state and federal lotteries and in 1970 started the soccer pool. Soccer is Brazil's national sport, and practically every Brazilian considers himself a soccer expert.

Thirteen games are on each week's card. No point spreads are given, but the bettor must decide which team will win each game or if it will be a tie.

Thirty per cent of the money taken in is paid in prizes—tax free. The rest goes for government sports and educational programs, charities and dealers' commissions.

The prize is split among the bettors who pick the most games right. Sometimes hundreds of people call all 13 games right. Once, however, Eduardo Teixeira, a 23-year-old worker in a thread factory, was the only person in the country to guess all the games correctly. He got $2 million—said to be the biggest single lottery prize in history.

Meanwhile, the "jogo do bicho" made a comeback. As former numbers racketeers got out of prison, they slowly re-established their shattered betting networks. The daily animal game turnover in Rio has climbed to an estimated $120,000 jumping to $250,000 on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when the winning numbers are revealed.

Numbers sellers believe there are several reasons for the racket's comeback and its peaceful coexistence with the soccer lottery.

"The soccer pool has helped us a lot," one racketeer said. "People who started betting on the games on the weekends got betting fever and wanted to bet every day. We were there to help them."

Walrus Help Ice Predictions

MOSCOW (UPI) —Soviet meteorologists say walrus help them predict when Arctic pack ice will break up.

Members of the Soviet Arctic Navigation Meteorological Service have been using walrus as prediction aids since 1965, when they first observed a herd of the mammals gathered in an ice field about 100 miles from its edge.

Two weeks later, air reconnaissance showed the packed ice had broken up and only drift ice remained in the area.

Scientists deduce the walrus, seeking the mollusks and crustaceans which are their main diet, follow warm streams of water in expectation these will cause the ice pack to disintegrate. As far as Soviet scientists have been able to observe, the walrus always were right.

Neither insects nor flowers would have developed as they have without the help of the other.

The Worry Clinic A Subterfuge In Belittling

Doris wonders about Dr. Gorney's classification of coed promiscuity as "good clean fun," in much the same category as eating pizzas! But, dining rooms differ from bedrooms as Communism differs from Capitalism! Beware of his psychiatric subterfuge to dull human consciences!

CASE V-557: Doris K., aged 26, is a Guidance Counselor.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "some of my teen-age high school girls argue that our former sexual taboos are out of date."

"For they are quoting a UCLA psychiatrist, Dr. Roderic Gorney, who seems to regard sex as merely good, clean fun."

"He says Playboy magazine's nudes, who are featured as wholesome young playmates for men, have 'simply reduced eroticism to good clean fun, or to a sorority prank engaged in by fresh young girls.'"

"These coeds 'now go to bed with the same eager but passionless enthusiasm that they eat pizza or play volleyball.'"

"Dr. Crane how can we Guidance Counselors cope with this type of comment from leading university professors?"

Since promiscuity and marital unfaithfulness have been made taboo by wise men ever since Judah's death sentence for his daughter-in-law (1500 B. C.), there must be good reasons underlying this Capitalistic attitude regarding sex.

Seek Reduction In Smoke, Noise

NEW YORK (UPI)—Someone up there—about 35,000 feet up—is trying to make the atmosphere about as clean as a smokeless jet engine will allow. In the air, and on ground-level at airports, it should be a lot quieter, too.

The "someone" constitutes the major U.S. scheduled airlines, grouped in the Air Transport Association, which has just issued a progress report. Although commercial aircraft contribute a scant 1 per cent to total air pollution, ATA and jet designers have been conducting a joint smoke-noise research program for 15 years.

ATA president Stuart Tipton said that by the end of 1973, 64 per cent of the combined U.S. airlines fleet will be flying with engines originally designed or modified to produce minimal smoke, compared with less than one per cent only three years ago. After that, the percentage of low-smoke, low-noise passenger planes will keep mounting as the new generation of jumbo and other jets multiples and older aircraft are phased out.

The new advanced-technology craft will comprise, by the end of the new year, 13 per cent of the total fleet, ATA reported. But an additional 51 per cent will be powered by "retrofitted" jet engines—less recent types that have been modified to reduce smoke emissions.

Other smoke-noise reductions are being gained in two ways. First, the front ends of passenger planes are being redesigned to reduce flight vibrations that stimulate noise. Second, the new wide-bodied planes, carrying up to three times the passenger load of conventional airlines, will be able to handle the rising passenger traffic without an increase in the number of planes in the air.

South cashed in on a favorable bit of distribution and salvaged his four spade contract by means of an unusual holdup play.

North lacked by a fraction the requirements for an immediate jump raise when his partner opened the bidding with one spade. He accordingly made a tempoizing bid of two diamonds since that was the closest he had to a legitimate side suit. The auction then proceeded in easy stages to four spades.

West opened the queen of diamonds and when the dummy was spread, it appeared that the fate of the contract hinged on which opponent held the ace of hearts. One trick must be lost in clubs and, after trumps are drawn, declarer may lead a heart from dummy toward the king in his hand. If East has the ace, then declarer can restrict himself to two heart losers. South was unwilling to bank everything on a fifty-fifty proposition and presently he uncovered an additional prospect that improved his chances slightly at no extra cost.

He permitted West to win the first trick with the queen of diamonds by playing the five from dummy. No shift suggested itself, so West continued with a small diamond to North's king. Trumps were drawn by leading to the ace and then back to dummy's queen.

A small club was led and East put up the queen to prevent declarer from winning the trick too cheaply. South played the ace and reentered dummy with the king of spades, cashed the ace of diamonds on which he discarded the jack of clubs; and then led the ten of clubs thru. East covered with the king and declarer ruffed. The seven of spades put North in again to cash the established nine of clubs on which declarer discarded a heart.

A heart was led to the king and altho West turned up with the ace, South restricted his losses on the deal to two hearts and one diamond. Observe that, if declarer's club play had not been successful—losing to an honor in West's hand—South still has available the opportunity to find the ace of hearts favorably located. He can discard one heart on the ace of diamonds and subsequently lead up to the king. If East has the ace, then declarer will lose only one trick in each side suit.

Pentagon To Face Rebuilding

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)— Elliott L. Richardson will bring a new style of leadership to the Pentagon as secretary of Defense as well as a new management team in what is certain to be a wholesale reshuffling of top defense officials.

Aside from the immediate problems of the new budget and the old war, one of the first tasks facing the new secretary will be to rebuild the Pentagon leadership from the top down.

Richardson, now secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is likely to draw on his present staff when he moves across the Potomac River from HEW on Jan. 20. Among them is likely to be Jonathan Moore, 39, said to be Richardson's alter ego at HEW and himself a former Pentagon official under Robert McNamara.

There will be a number of key jobs to fill as several officials, some holdovers from the Johnson administration who agreed to stay on under Melvin Laird, have already indicated a desire to leave.

Richardson will have help from two deputy secretaries, one responsible for procurement and management and the other for international affairs and relations with the National Security Council. Traditionally there has been one deputy, now Kenneth Rush. A second was approved by Congress earlier this year, although the post was not filled.

Rush, 62, former ambassador to West Germany, had been mentioned as a possible successor to Laird and is not likely to remain at the Pentagon. He may go to the State Department as undersecretary, a job held by Richardson before he took the HEW post in 1970.

The Pentagon is the largest bureaucracy in the world with its 2.3 million military personnel and 1.1 million civilian employees. The 110,000 Defense Department employees who are scheduled to be trimmed from the rolls next year equals the total number employed by HEW.

Running the Pentagon is conceded to be the toughest job in Washington next to the presidency. Laird has said he took it only because no one else wanted it. He agreed to stay only four years.

Richardson, 52, brings to the job his background as a lawyer, his involvement in Republican politics in his native Massachusetts and years at State and HEW.

A quiet thinker, he prefers to work out of the spotlight, in contrast to Laird who has held more press conferences and given more public speeches than any previous Defense secretary. Richardson has been considered one of the most liberal members of the Nixon Cabinet, while Laird was considered a conservative.

Ahead are some of the same problems Laird wrestled with: keeping the budget in check, completing the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam, soothing racial troubles in the armed forces, finishing the transition to an all-volunteer force, dealing in the broad range of negotiations with the Soviet Union over arms control and the reduction of forces in Central Europe.

Sudden Wealth 'Matured' Him

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)— Eduardo Teixeira, at 23 the biggest winner in Brazil's soccer pool history, says his sudden wealth has made his life isolated and changed his social status but also made him "more of an adult."

"In my old neighborhood, I used to shoot the bull with the guys, then another pal would come along and we'd have a beer or get up a soccer game," the former $120-a-month factory worker said. On April 30 he won $2 million in the Loteria Esportiva. Since then he has married and moved to a new neighborhood.

"Things are different here," he says. "And besides, my business activities keep me busy. I don't have much free time any more. It's a very isolated life."

Teixeira won by correctly picking the outcomes of all 13 games on the lottery card. He and a partner plan to build 13 hotels in Brazil to commemorate the win.

"For me, winning this money was a great experience," Teixeira told the weekly magazine Manchete. "It has made me more of an adult. I've had to assume responsibilities." He said marriage to his former childhood sweetheart, Teresa Cristina Lopes, was "the best deal I ever made."

Teixeira plays golf now and drives around town in his Ford LTD, the ultimate in Brazilian status symbols these days.

"To be honest, my social status has changed," he says. "But I've never tried to hide my new situation. My friendships haven't changed. I've got a motto in life: 'It's a man's personality that matters.'"

The Brazilian lottery basically consists of computer cards which are punched out by dealers on an inexpensive plastic keyboard with a large pin. The cards are then stacked and processed by a central computer.

The system grossed $480 million in its first 100 weeks.

NON-TOXIC TOYS

NEW YORK (UPI)—At Christmas toy buying time, look for the designation "non-toxic" on painted toys, clay, crayons and finger paints. Manufacturers following standards developed by the American National Standards Institute put that on the items. The phrase means paints and dyes won't poison child who chews, licks or sucks the playthings.

A doughnut sale and the election of new officers highlighted the November activities of the Youth Association for Retarded Children.

The sale of the doughnuts, held last Monday, helped raise funds for the organization's projects, which include a Christmas party in December.

New officers were also elected for the Association. They include: Cecilia Clark, president; Anna Bass, vice-president; Dianne Hudson, treasurer; and Carol McCombs, secretary.

These newly-elected officers will be installed in January.

Miss Clark succeeds Sharlene Dunn, the organization's president for the past year.

Democrats Can Be Winners: Farley

By H.D. QUIGG
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The

bald and busy at altitude 6 feet 2½ above hundreds of floor strategy huddles—is mellow of spirit at age four score and four, but sharp with an acuity honed

by decades of Democratic politicizing.
At age 12, in 1900, James A.
Farley stood at a campaign train and listened to William Jennings Bryan tell the folks of Haverstraw, N.Y., and evinced how the Democrats meant to win. It was his first exposure to a presidential nominee, Bryan lost.

The exposure intensified from 1924 to 1968 as a delegate to 12 straight Democratic National conventions. This year, his name was never presented for his customary role of delegate-at-large from New York.
At ages 44 and 48, Farley
masterminded Franklin D.
Roosevelt's first two presidential victories.

At age 84, last May, in a birthday interview he said that if the Democrats nominated George S. McGovern in July they would suffer their "worst defeat since Al Smith's defeat by Herbert Hoover in 1928." Smith got 87 electoral votes, Hoover 444.

Prediction Borne Out
On Nov. 7, McGovern got 17 electoral votes, President Nixon 521.

The convention itself left Farley more convinced than he had been two months before. But he said nothing publicly during the campaign.

"From the time the convention started, the manner in which McGovern and his staff acted, the arrogant manner in which they handled or attempted to handle or failed to handle the other delegates that were not instructed for McGovern brought about a feeling of dissatisfaction that grew. When it was over, there was no doubt in my mind that he did not have a chance to be elected."

The man who was known as "Mr. Democrat" for four decades a tower of strength to his party and a legend among politicians, was interviewed at his desk on the job as board chairman of Coca-Cola Export Corp. He had a mild heart attack in March but now says "I feel pretty good." He has slimmed down from 204 pounds to 187.
He's convinced that "there isn't any question" but that the Democrats can come back and win the White House in 1976 — with a big boost from the domestic troubles he is sure Nixon is going to have — if they get busy and reorganize the party.

Oust Mrs. Westwood
"The first thing they have to do is revise the national committee rules that prevented many regular Democrats who ordinarily went to the conventions, influential men and women who helped the party down through the years, from being delegates-denied them the right," he said.

"I don't think there is any question that the Democratic leaders around the country lost all confidence in the direction of the national committee under the chairmanship of Jean Westwood. I'm sure that the leaders generally also had no confidence in the staff operating under Mrs. Westwood.

There isn't any doubt, in my judgment, that the best interest of the party is that a new chairman sooner or later should be selected and that they should start reorganizing the party under new leadership.

"I might as well say that.
What the hell — I have no axes to grind or ambitions to satisfy. I'm not in politics. Completely out of it."

JAMES A. FARLEY is convinced the Democrats can come back and win the White House in 1976 if they get busy and reorganize the party. (UPI Telephoto)

Pets Are Fine Yuletide Gift

NEW YORK (UPI) — Looking for a Christmas gift that grows, moves without batteries and may try your temper on occasion? Consider a pup or a kitten.

These also kiss on impulse, so watch out.

Free or low-cost mutts (dogs without pedigrees) and plain cats (as opposed to fancy ones are tucked away under the Christmas tree in greatest numbers. Among the costlier canines' poodles lead the snooty parade. They are in demand because they are smart, gregarious and, at times, comic.
They also have been known to read their owner's mind.

Poodles cost from $75 up and come small, medium, large.
There's upkeep to consider.
Grooming every six weeks at from $15 up per session at the dogdom beauty salon.

A Snoopy Dog?
Another popular pedigree pup is the beagle. Ever lovin' Snoopy of Peanuts' fame in comical is a beagle. They're less expensive than poodles and don't require beauty treatments.

Other good family dogs, according to authorities at the Pet Food Institute in Chicago:
German shepherd, collie, dachshund, cocker spaniel and Boston terrier.

Sleek or fluffy?
In catland, the choice is pretty big, ranging from the fluffy long-haired felines to sleek short-hairs. The Siamese leads the field among the short-hairs. Dazzling blue eyes and fawn bodied, this type has paws, ears and tail tipped with darker color. Of all cats, the Siamese are the most active.
As cat people put it, this type is inclined to be gabby. Talk is a raucous meow.

Quieter but also beautiful are the Havana, the Russian Blue and the Abyssinian cats. The latter resembles a small wildcat.

The long-hairs tend to be more placid than the short-hairs.

If you've decided a pup or kitten is to be in the Santa bag for your children this yule, where do you begin looking?
How much should you pay?
How can you tell if the four-footed furry creature is healthy?

Answers to those questions and others—from the Pet Food Institute:

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.
Fair Thursday through Saturday, with highs warming from mostly 40s to mostly 50s.
Lows in 20s mountains, to near 40 on outer banks, becoming mostly 30s and low 40s.

—Begin the search by asking friends who own pets. Or ask a veterinarian to recommend a kennel, pet shop or animal shelter. Don't be bashful. Ask about prices and explain what you're looking for in a pet.
Most people selling pets or placing same for adoption are interested in finding a good home for the animal.

—Let your eyes and nose as well as your emotions help you decide when you visit the place recommended. Are animals kept in clean cages? Do feeding bowls contain fresh food? Are water dishes clean? Is the puppy or kitten treated by shop owner or kennel manager with loving care? A pup or kitten treated kindly will make an easier adjustment to your home and family.

—On the health check. Does animal act alert and friendly?
The quiet, shy one with the "please take me home" look may be sick. Check eyes, ears, nose to make sure there is no runny discharge. Also: a healthy pup or kitten has a well round body that appears firm when you pick him up.

—As you cuddle the little pet run your fingers through the fur. A well-cared for pup or kitten has a thick, even glossy coat. Inspect teeth and gums, too. Pink gums and white teeth are signs of good health.

—Have the pet you selected checked by a veterinarian.
Most reputable pet dealers will replace an animal if a defect is discovered within a day or two.

Air Pollution Eats Away Revered Monument

By JOHN RIGOS
ATHENS (UPI) — Air pollution, an ailment of modern environment, is eating away at the 2,400-year-old Parthenon, the most revered monument on the Acropolis.

Today's traffic and factory fumes are pitting yesterday's marble. Iron bars — used in restoration, but which themselves damaged the structure — are rusting.

In short, the Parthenon, a monument to the gods of ancient Greece, is falling apart. "When I was director of the Acropolis, I used to collect three large buckets of fragments a year which had fallen, mostly from the Parthenon. Now it is far worse," archaeologist Yannis Miliadis said.

The 77-year-old director of the Acropolis said the problem has reached the proportions of a "catastrophe."

Sulphur Erosion
"The marbles are suffering from sulphurism, caused by the sulphur in the air from industrial plant only a stone's throw from the sacred rock, and from traffic exhaust fumes, as well as the corrosion of iron bars used by past restorers to connect columns and other marble parts," he said.

Prof. Spyros Marinatos, the 70-year-old head of the Greek Archaeological Service and responsible for the preservation of ancient monuments, said the rescue of the Acropolis required "contributions from all who have ideas for solution of the problems it is facing."

"I search for a solution even with the eyes of my heart. Without love and responsibility, the problems will lead to disaster," Marinatos said. "The Acropolis as a whole is not threatened. But the surface of the monuments is wearing off. The Parthenon is suffering more than other monuments because of the poor quality of its marble."

Miliadis said the peeling surface of the Parthenon had already caused the destruction of priceless masterpieces. "Part of the frieze which had been effaced through peeling portrayed a man leading a wild horse. Many archaeologists believe that sculptor Pheidias, who decorated the temple, portrayed himself in that man. But the face now is gone," Miliadis said.

Egoist Banished
Pheidias, one of ancient Greece's greatest sculptors, liked to portray himself in his work. He was finally banished from Athens for sacrilege when his fellow citizens discovered he had portrayed himself in a figure on a shield in the statue of the Goddess Athena.

The Parthenon, completed in 454 B.C., survived almost intact until 1687. Then, during a siege by the Venetians of Turkish-occupied Athens, a shell landed in the temple while it was being used by the garrisons powder magazine.

The ensuing explosion destroyed most of the monument. Having served as an ancient temple, a Christian church, and a Moslem mosque, the ruined building was subsequently used as a source of marble by Turkish dignitaries who lived on the Acropolis.

Long after Athens became the capital of liberated Greece in the 19th Century, these buildings were taken down, the pieces of marble belonging to the Parthenon separated, and many of the temple's fallen columns restored.

"I was the only man to portest the use of iron," said Prof. Mrinatos, who then was a young but distinguished member of the archaeological service.

"Now we have a group of specialists permanently occupied with the replacement of iron bars in the marbles of the Acropolis.

Many Suggested Cures
"Many cures for the diseases of the marble have been suggested. Some called for the washing of the Parthenon with warm water, or covering it with chemicals, or removing all the art work and replacing it with copies. Another suggestion was to ban the public from the temple.

"We are still open to suggestions. We have formed a wide committee which will examine all proposals."

Miliadis said authorities are waiting their time by not acting immediately. "The rescue of the Acropolis requires a long-range silent effort and considerable funds. The authorities do not seek such strenuous efforts. The prefer sensational results," he said.

Airplane In Apartment

By MICKEY DAVIS
DAYTON Journal Herald
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The nose of Dave Duncan's airplane bumps his kitchen table.

The tail skid sits where he once had his couch. Two 14-foot wings spread over the living room floor.

The decor is a bit unusual for a townhouse apartment. For almost three years now—whenever he has had the urge to work on it—Duncan has been building the single seat monoplane in his apartment.

"I've reached the point where it's just getting a little too big for the place," Duncan said of his project. "I gotta get it out of here."

He still has to mount a 65-horsepower engine and the propeller and cover the plane with 50 yards of fabric.

He plans to roll the craft out the back patio door, head for an airport, fasten the wings and be ready to take to the air. "You never know," he said, "but I'll be staying close to the airport those first few times."

Duncan, 33, has been flying 13 years and flies weekly for an air travel club, but says there is a world of difference between the prop jets he handles for the club and the open cockpit plane he is building.

Duncan started building his plane in 1970, figuring to spend a year and a half on it.

He wrote for plans and instructions. The rest—all the parts and their assembly—was up to him. He has scoured stores for lumber, fittings and special bolts.

Duncan figures his plane will cost $1,700 when complete. A Federal Aviation Agency inspector has been around to his townhouse once to check the work.

The inspector will come back again before Duncan can roll his plane out to fly.

In the midst of the project Duncan got married. He and his wife move over, under and around the airplane. But they are making plans for Duncan's next big project—whatever it is.

They bought a house with a garage. "Now," said Duncan, "I might even build a two-seater."

World's Largest Airport Expected Bring Business

By TOMMY M. GEDDIE
DALLAS (UPI)—The world's largest airport could mean as much as a billion dollars a year to the Dalls-Fort Worth metropolitan area, according to one of the facility's principal designers.

"Today our economy is so interwoven with air travel that we don't really sense and recognize the total impact," architect Richard Adler said. "It just runs the entire spectrum of our very being." I mean, this airport can impact this community. It could be $500 million to a billion dollars a year as it starts to grow."

And a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said the area will probably have, with its airport approximately the size of Manhattan, the last super-jetport to be built anywhere in the world.

Land Shortage
 All other cities have literally run out of enough close-in land to make such an enormous project feasible," he said. "Timing of construction of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport as the centerpiece of the rapidly expanding Southwest Metroplex has coincided with the pressing need for a highly sophisticated airport capable for being mid-America's super jetport and main port of entry from all points of the globe," this spokesman said.

Adler, who temporarily moved his home from New York to Dallas to work on the huge airport schedule to open next summer, agreed. "If we examine toay the airline industry, and we say, 'Where will the future be? Why will airlines continue to grow?' the answer has become apparent," he said.

"We have an awakening giant, Central and South America. Now how will we in the United States related to that? It's going to be by air. Nobby's going to bet in a car from Dallas and go driving down to Rio de Janeiro. It's just not in the cards. So, with that being so, and Dallas being where it is, D-FW has that one tremendous shot at all of South America."

Confusing Effects
 The airport will be more than a stopping-off point, and some of its effects on the community can be confusing.

"There's always a misnomer that takes place about airport, and it's rather fascinating," Adler said. "I've seen marvelous groups of councilmen, not only in Dallas but elsewhere, who look upon a debt obligation on an airport in a fascinating sort of way.

"They expect that the debt — you know, it's maybe $200 million, $300 million, $400 million — is something they've got to take out of their pickets. What they always seem to fail to recognize is that, because of the nature of financing in our country, with bonds and debt service, that they're not really taking money out of their pickets.

The perfume of a flower helps call insects to collect the pollen.

Public Broadcasting Goals Set By Ex-USIA Man

EDITOR'S NOTE—Public broadcasting began in 1953 as "educational television," nurtured by a relatively small grant from a private foundation. Today there are 226 television stations with a total budget of about $175 million. Here, through the eyes of its new president, is a look at some of the attendant problems and how he hopes to solve them.

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Loomis, new president of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, says he plans some gradual changes in programming, firmer control to assure objectivity and balance, and experiments which at times may flop.

"I know what my goals are, but I think any change will be evolutionary rather than revolutionary," he said in an interview.

"We should experiment with new innovative techniques. I think this is one of our functions — that we can afford to fail."

Loomis, 53 and former deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency, was named by President Nixon to head the corporation after the resignation of John Macy Jr.

Macy, head of the agency since its inception in February 1969, reportedly quit because of differences with the White House.

There are continuing debates within the industry, the government and in Congress over the structure of the public broadcasting complex, its financing, programming and the issue of central vs. local control.

Loomis, who took over on Oct. 1, told public broadcast station managers 10 days earlier that the corporation, by adopting a hands-off policy toward programming, "had tried to duck its responsibility and it wasn't successful."

Program selection has been the function of the Public Broadcasting Service, a creature of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, which funds it. Loomis regards the programming function as a joint responsibility of his corporation, station managers and show producers.

Public affairs programs have to be carefully thought through, he said, avoiding the techniques commonly used on the commercial networks and stressing techniques which assure balance.

"Political things don't bother me a bit if they're in depth," he said, adding that too much now being done is shallow, like many panel shows.

"The fundamental difference is that the commercials aim at the largest possible audience. No one has really thought through what our audience should be.

"I think we should do a series of special programs for special people, so that chess people know they should tune in at 8 o'clock Tuesday, cooks at 8 o'clock Wednesday and musicians at 8 o'clock Thursday, or whenever.

Public broadcasting — it used to be called "educational" — is noncommercial radio and television supported by governments at all levels, by foundations and viewer contributions. Stations are licensed to non-profit community groups, universities, school boards or state commissions.

It started in 1953, nurtured in its first years primarily by the Ford Foundation, which has channeled more than $200 million into the field and now provides around $13 million yearly. There are 226 public TV stations reaching about 74 per cent of the population, located in all states except Wyoming and Montana.

There are 578 public radio stations, reaching 60 per cent of the population. Of these, 145 qualify for membership in National Public Radio, judged on such criteria as staff size, hours of operation and so on.

National TV programs include such acclaimed ones as Sesame Street, The Electric Company, Firing Line, The Advocates, Black Journal, The French Chef, Masterpiece Theater and Washington Week in Review.

Starting with $5 million, the federal outlay grew to $35 million last year, but that is still only about one-fifth of the total public broadcast budget.

Its supporters in Congress last winter advocated a five-year extension of the corporation's authority, with sharply increased financing. But in the face of administration opposition, they settled for a two-year bill which would have authorized $65 million in the current fiscal year and $90 million in the next.

Nixon vetoed that bill, and no effort was made to override. Congress instead passed the one-year, $45-million bill. The White House wanted.

In vetoing the Democratic-sponsored two-year bill on June 30, Nixon objected to the higher funding levels and said of the public corporation: "An organization, originally intended only to serve the local stations, is becoming instead the center of power and the focal point of control for the entire public broadcasting system."

"I don't think anyone's for centralization," Loomis said. "The question is how much centralization you can take temporarily for financial reasons. The station in Des Moines obviously can't produce the Lincoln Center opera; if they want it they get it from the New York station, but they should have the option, along with a mix of Julia Child and chess and so on ..."

Most everyone concerned agrees that some plan must be devised for long-term financing of public broadcasting. Suggestions include an excise tax on the manufacture of sets; a tax on commercial TV profits; a tax on total TV advertising outlay.

Loomis noted that Congress and the Treasury are traditionally opposed to dedicated taxes in principle, although there have been such exceptions as the highway trust fund.

The Nixon administration once promised to recommend a long-term financing plan by the summer of 1971; now it says it intends to produce one by mid-1973.

Loomis, who says he never saw a public TV program before he was appointed to his post, draws a salary of $42,500 yearly, compared to the $65,000 which Macy was paid.

The cut stems in large part from congressional resentment over the salaries of two liberal-minded correspondents for NPACT — Sander Vanocur at $85,000 and Robert Macneil at $65,000. The bill which Nixon vetoed contained a ceiling on salaries for corporation executives of $42,500 — the same as congressional salaries.

Loomis made it clear that he intends to keep a close watch on program content.
