

Flue-Cured Leaf Quota Increased 10%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has increased the flue-cured tobacco quota 10 per cent for next year. It said Wednesday that higher production is needed to meet increased use of tobacco products at home and abroad. About 40 per cent of the fluecured tobacco produced in the United States is exported.

The department also announced that the export subsidy of five cents a pound on all tobacco will be eliminated. It has been averaging $29 million dollars a year. One of its principal aims, the elimination of a substantial tobacco surplus, has been achieved.

But Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, protested against ending the export payments. He said:

"Currently we are exporting over $500 million of tobacco annually. This contributes greatly to the strength of our economy because it helps to narrow our huge balance-of-payments deficit. Also, the sale of this half-billion dollars of tobacco is vital to the livelihood of many family farmers in Georgia and throughout the South. It would indeed be foolish to risk these exports by cutting the tobacco export subsidy."

The national marketing quota for flue-cured was set at 1.179 billion pounds. The average yield is unchanged at 1,854 pounds, resulting in a national allotment of 635,922 acres, 10 per cent larger than for 1972.

Notices of acreage allotments and marketing quotas for individual farms will be mailed by local agricultural stabilization and conservation committees as soon as adjustments can be made to reflect undermarketings and overmarketings of 1972 farm quotas.

In Raleigh, the North Carolina commissioner of agriculture, Jim Graham, said the 10 per cent increase in the quota was more than he anticipated. "The soundings which I took in North Carolina did not reflect a desire for this much increase." He also said the termination of the export subsidy program was a "disappointment to me."

A 'Freeze'

SAIGON (AP) — The United States today froze further troop withdrawals from Vietnam pending the outcome of secret peace negotiations in Paris, American sources disclosed.

The U.S. Command said it had received no orders from Washington for further troop cuts after reaching a Dec. 1 ceiling of 27,000 ordered by President Nixon last August.

The command declined comment beyond that, but other sources said Washington had ordered a freeze.

The command did say, however, that troop strength in Vietnam had fallen slightly under 27,000, thus beating Nixon's timetable, although official figures won't be available until next Monday.

Most of the U.S. forces remaining in Vietnam are advisers, technicians, pilots and support troops.

The bulk of the U.S. support to the South Vietnamese is coming from air bases in Guam and Thailand and from 7th Fleet ships off the coast of Vietnam.

About 100,000 U.S. servicemen are supporting Saigon's war effort from these bases outside Vietnam, in addition to the 27,000 in the country.

Pledge Avoid Peace Delay

PARIS (AP) — The United States pledged today that President Nixon will not permit any avoidable delay in ending the Vietnam war.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told the 168th weekly session of the Paris peace talks:

"We had hoped, as you know, to reach an agreement earlier. We worked hard to bring this about, but the issues in this long conflict are complex, as all recognize, and can be neither dismissed nor distorted."

"We reiterate to you our President's firm intention to permit no avoidable delay in ending this war and entering a period of peace and reconstruction. Peace, when it comes, will be all the more stable and enduring if it is the result of planning careful and equitable relationships for the future."

In an apparent reference to the secret talks between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, Porter said:

"In this present phase, then, we should respect each other's problems and concerns, and we should have faith that the serious purpose demonstrated and the major progress achieved will lead at an early date to a mutually satisfactory final result. I believe we all owe it to our people, who have confidence in us, to continue the efforts which have been made thus far and bring them to a successful conclusion."

South Vietnam's representative, Pham Dang Lam, repeated his government's demand for withdrawal of all North Vietnamese forces in the South.

South Viet Envoy Again Is Called To White House

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon arranged a second meeting today with South Vietnam's special envoy Nguyen Phu Duc at the White House to continue discussions on the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Duc also met this morning at the White House for the second time separately with presidential national security advisor Henry A. Kissinger.

The morning meeting was set for 11:30 a.m. with Duc. The White House also announced a meeting just before-hand between the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Although the session with the Joint Chiefs was announced only moments before it got under way, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said it had been scheduled for some time "to review the entire situation in South Vietnam."

Nixon and Duc, a special representative of South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu, met for 2½ hours Wednesday. It was originally scheduled to last an hour.

Southside Urban Renewal Plan Studied By Greenville Board

Termed "for information purposes only" a presentation of the tentative plan for the Southside Urban Renewal Area, Project Number N.C. R-134 was made to members of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday night.

Joe Laney, Executive Director of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission and Housing Authority, and Bruce Jackson, project manager for the Southside Area Project, outlined the status and progress of the project.

The Southside Project, extending roughly from the Fieldcrest Mill area at the intersection of Hooker Road and Dickinson Avenue eastward to Evans Street at Fourteenth Street, is one of four areas under the Greenville Neighborhood Renewal Program (CNRP), earlier approved by both the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Greenville City Council.

Laney reminded that the program is "one for rehabilitation in blighted areas." Southside, he noted, has the highest priority of the four areas under consideration. The Redevelopment executive director said that "we are having our mid-plan conference with representatives of Housing Urban Development next week. By presenting our tentative plan to you tonight, we hope to get your reaction and ideas that we in turn can pass on to these people."

Laney and Jackson touched on several aspects of the program — residential rehabilitation; land use; street improvements; and possible zoning requirements.

Jackson explained that about half the structures in the area (all south of Fourteenth Street) can be saved by rehabilitation. "The main thrust is for renovation, not indiscriminate leveling of structures," Jackson said.

Laney pointed out that financial assistance will be available to home-owners at several levels. "For those of extremely low-income, such as elderly retired people with no financial means, outright grants of up to $3,500 will be available."

Cannon Awards

RALEIGH (AP) — Three persons and an organization were honored today for their work in behalf of historic preservation in North Carolina.

Cannon Cup Awards were presented to Gov. Bob Scott for his support of historic preservation during his terms as lieutenant governor and governor; Mellanay Delhom of Charlotte for her work with Tar Heel ceramics; Joyce E. Jordan for her years of service to the Department of Archives and History; and Historic Hope Foundation for the restoration of hope plantation in Bertie County.

Presentation of the Cannon Cups is a highlight of North Carolina's annual culture week during which the state's 13 major cultural and historical organizations meet.

Atlanta Blaze Claimed 9 In Home For Aged

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — At least nine persons were killed and 32 injured early today when a fire swept through the seventh floor of an 11-story home for the elderly.

Fire officials said the blaze was confined to the seventh floor of the Baptist Towers in southwest Atlanta. They said most of the bodies were discovered in the hall.

Fire Marshal Jim Seagraves said the fire apparently started in room 710 and spread down the hall, igniting several other apartments.

Officials at the building said it holds 300 persons. The occupants were evacuated.

Witnesses said several of the elderly persons panicked and fled down the stairs. One woman suffered a heart attack but her condition was not known.

"I heard all these people come panicking and screaming down the stairs," said Mrs. Louise Alexander, who lives on the first floor. "I could hear women screaming, 'Come and get me.' They just panicked. Some of them haven't been out since they got here."

The Fulton County medical examiner's office said there were nine bodies at the morgue. Some 23 persons were treated for injuries, mainly smoke inhalation, and nine persons were treated at three other hospitals.

Rogers Staying

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to keep Secretary of State William P. Rogers in his second term, but has reshuffled several top positions at the department, the White House announced today.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kenneth Rush, now deputy secretary of Defense, will be nominated as deputy secretary of State, the second-highest post in the department. He will succeed John L. Irwin.

William J. Casey, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, will be undersecretary of State for economic affairs, a newly created post.

Ziegler also announced that William J. Porter, now a negotiator at the Paris peace talks, will be nominated as undersecretary of State for political affairs, succeeding U. Alexis Johnson.

Commission Approves Bank Office Here

The Stage Banking Commission, meeting Wednesday in Raleigh, approved the application of Branch Banking and Trust Co. to establish an office in Greenville.

Officials reported that design and construction of the bank's office on Arlington Boulevard will begin following Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation approval of the application.

BB&T president J. L. Satchwell commented, "We are extremely pleased that regulatory authorities have approved our application to open a bank in Greenville, and we feel that we are in a position to make a significant contribution to the future growth of the Greenville area."

The president asserted that BB&T is one of the state's strongest financial institutions with more equity capital in relation to deposits than any other major North Carolina bank.

Established in Wilson in 1872, Branch Bank is the first North Carolina bank to celebrate 100 years of service. A full range of banking services, it was noted, will be offered by the Greenville branch office.

The organizational ancestor of Branch Banking and Trust Co., according to the bank, was founded only seven years after the end of the War Between the States when two Wilson businessmen, Alpheus Branch and Thomas Jefferson Hadley formed a private company and accepted time deposits, sold foreign drafts and engaged in the usual transactions of the private banker.

Although a charter had been obtained in 1889, the bank continued to operate as a private institution until the turn of the century when it became known as Branch Banking and Trust Co.

Branch Bank now operates 60 branches in 35 cities and towns throughout North Carolina.

Some minor confusion developed on the map presented by Philip Carroll, who noted the map he used was based on a 1919 survey. Carroll said this would be corrected prior to appearing before the City Council. He noted the rezoning requested to the City Council. The first, a request on the J. T. Williams property, was to rezone from RA-20 to highway commercial property located on the south side of East Tenth Street extended. The property is about 800 feet east of the intersection of East Tenth Street and U.S. 264 east bypass.

The second rezoning request was for the O. E. Whichard property, located on the east side of North Greene Street, adjacent to the Carolina Leaf Tobacco company property. The tract consists of two zones, one for highway commercial, the other for unoffensive industry.

Approval was also the order of the day for items on the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission meeting held Wednesday night immediately following the joint meeting.

The first matter considered would make for "good planning for the area."

The final of the three joint rezoning requests was on the Barnhill Contracting Company property just north of the Tar River and immediately adjacent to the eastern line of the proposed bypass.

The property includes a lake created by excavation for sand. Now zoned RA-20, the requestors are asking for a rezoning to highway commercial. In recommending approval, commission members noted this would be the most appropriate zoning for property in this area bordering the bypass now under construction.

Approval was also the order of the day for items on the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission meeting held Wednesday night immediately following the joint meeting.

The first matter considered by the City Commissioners was the final plat for Oakgrove Estates, Section II. This development is north of and adjacent to Greenfield Terrace Subdivision. City Engineer C. A. Holliday informed commissioners that the plat met all sub-division requirements for the R-9 residential zoning and that it meets recreational area requirements. The plat as presented was approved by the commissioners.

The second item, a preliminary plat for construction of four duplex apartments, was also approved. To be known as Min-Kin Courts, the small development will be located on East Fourteenth Street across from the Easthaven Subdivision and adjacent to Peppermint Park.

Mrs. Earl Trevathan complimented the developer, Vick King, for his efforts to save every tree possible on

Snow Peas
Ice Cream with Ginger Sauce
PORK CHOPS WITH PINEAPPLE

APPLE
Easily prepared in a big skillet.

6 thin center-cut pork loin chops (about 1½ pounds)
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon paprika
Salad oil
½ tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon light brown sugar

2 tablespoons catchup
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 can (8½ ounces) crushed pineapple in heavy syrup
Cut fat away from around chops. Mix together the salt, garlic powder and paprika; sprinkle over both sides of chops. Heat a 12-inch skillet and cover with a film of oil; add chops and brown on both sides. Meanwhile in a small mixing bowl stir together until smooth the cornstarch, sugar, catchup and soy sauce; stir in pineapple with syrup. Remove chops from skillet; add pineapple mixture; stir over low heat until thickened. Return chops to skillet, spooning some of the pineapple mixture over them; cover tightly and simmer until chops are tender—20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings—1 or 1½ chops per portion.

Skirt lengths for fall vary. Generally just above the kneecap is the rule.

Couple Weds In Recent Ceremony

AYDEN — Miss Elizabeth Delois Mills became the bride of Linwood Earl Wetherington on Sunday, Nov. 19, in the Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church at three o'clock in the afternoon. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Willis. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Catherine Gaskins, organist and soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Ed Mills of Rt. 2, Ayden, and the late Mrs. Jean Mills. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wetherington of Rt. 1, Grimesland. Given in marriage by her uncle, Curtis Nabe Mills, of Rt. 2, Ayden, the bride wore a white formal gown of peau de soie and chantilly lace. The gown was fashioned with a high neckline, empire bodice and long bishop sleeves. Lace motifs were enhanced with pearls.

Her caplet of peau was attached to a mantilla of illusion bordered with matching lace and flowed into a chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of white mums centered with an orchid tied with long streamers.

Mrs. Curtis Mills of Rt. 2, Ayden, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Donna Stokes of Winterville, Beverly Mills and Karen Mills, both of Black Jack, and Teresa Mills of Rt. 2, Ayden, cousin of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Ronnie Rogerson and Mike Rogerson, both of Winterville, cousins of the bridegroom, Lee Mills of Rt. 2, Ayden, and Randy Mills of Washington, both cousins of the bride.

The couple will reside near Greenville.

The bride is employed part-time at Wachovia Data Processing Center, Greenville. The bridegroom is employed by the Highway Commission.

After-Rehearsal Party
Following the wedding rehearsal on Saturday night, an after-rehearsal party was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Guests include members of the wedding party and friends of the bride and groom.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli with red ribbon and candles.

The bride was attired in a dress of flowered polyester double knit with a green vest. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Dessie Stanley.

Smog Snags Stockings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Cats' claws, splintery chairs, burning cigarettes and eager dogs all represent a threat to nylon stockings.

So does air pollution. The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation found that sample stockings and pantyhose disintegrated from acidic soot in the air. A principal villain is exhaust fumes from automobiles.

"Never, never stand in back of your automobile exhaust pipe when the engine is on" was the researchers' advice to bestocking females.

Five years of deterioration testing in New York communities determined the worst places to wear stockings and the best to own hosiery stores were Brooklyn and North Pearl Street in downtown Albany.

The Environmental Conservation department also noted that "severe nylon deterioration" of items besides stockings had been reported aboard ships and inland throughout the United States, Canada and England.

Lt. Elks Awarded Annual 'Police Officer Award'

The fourth annual "Police Officer of the Year Award" was presented to Lt. Redding B. Elks of the Greenville Police Department on Monday night at a meeting of the Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc.

Chief of Police E. Glenn Cannon made the presentation to Lt. Elks on behalf of the Pilot Club.

In accepting the award Lt. Elks said, "I accept this with great honor." Mrs. Elks was present and praised by Cannon for her loyalty and support to Lt. Elks.

Lt. Elks is from Grimesland and has been employed by the Greenville Police Department since 1954. He is the fourth officer to receive the award. The others were Lt. Clifton E. Warren, 1969, former Chief of Police Thomas E. Gladson, 1970, and Patrolman Eddie James Wallace Jr., 1971.

Mrs. Nancy Warren, vice chairman of the Safety Committee, presented Chief of Police Cannon who outlined the structure of the Police Department and some of the responsibilities.

Three students were presented scholarships. Two students, Mrs. Joan Russel Pilcher, home economics major, and Mrs. Mary Ann Burchette, business major, are currently enrolled at East Carolina University. Miss

Took "Vacation" Behind Bars

SOUTHEAST, England (WNS) — Winifred Gourlay, 28, asked the judge to send her to jail so that she could get a rest from financial problems and her five children. "I came here with my bags packed and ready," she said. The judge obliged by giving her a one-month "vacation" behind bars for stealing a tricycle and selling it. It was her fourth conviction, but the earlier ones had resulted in suspended sentences. "The world has got on top of her," explained her lawyer. "The children will be better looked after while she is in prison."

Happy Ending To Unperfect Wedding

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: "Blue Bride" was upset because her fiancé wore braces on his teeth and she was afraid they would ruin her wedding pictures. [She wanted her wedding to be perfect!]

Well, I wanted my wedding to be perfect, too, but a few things went wrong.

For example: on the way to the church my fiancé got a flat tire. Then while running across the street to the church he was hit by a car. Fortunately, he only tore the trousers on both knees and bruised one of his elbows. Not wanting to hold up the wedding ceremony, he got married on schedule with both knees and one elbow exposed.

After the reception, we took off for our honeymoon and found that our luggage had been lost! It took us quite a while to get it back, but meanwhile back at the motel my husband hit his sore elbow on the bureau and it made him sick to his stomach. The poor guy upchucked, and after flushing the commode he realized his partial plate with four front teeth was missing! He sure looked funny, but I loved him anyway. [You should kiss a man without teeth sometime.]

We've been married for 10 years, have since regained our composure and his four front teeth, and we couldn't be happier.

HAPPY ENDING IN TENNESSEE

DEAR HAPPY: The way we handle what happens to us can be the difference between tragedy and comedy. You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: This is about the guest who spiked the punch bowl on the q. t. with a bottle of vodka.

Mathematics were never my forte, but even I can figure out that given a hot afternoon and 40 guests, each would drink about 12 ounces of punch. This brings us to 480 ounces, which, if "spiked" with 32 ounces of vodka, would result in each guest getting a well-diluted teaspoonful of vodka!

If that amount of vodka could make the guests noisy and give the hostess hot flashes, I would be very much surprised.

The guy who spiked the punch would have been better advised to stash his bottle in the bushes and taken a few special friends there for substantial periodic nips. ALEEN

DEAR ALEEN: The suggestion was no doubt offered in jest, it would have been preferable to risking one alcoholic's consuming even a drop of vodka unknowingly. It doesn't take much for an alcoholic to fall off the wagon.

DEAR ABBY: I have just declined our umpteenth wedding invitation in the past few years.

My problem is a touchy one. My husband is a college professor, and he is adored by hundreds of his students, so naturally when they marry, they invite us to the wedding.

We can't possibly attend all those weddings, and we certainly can't afford to send a gift even tho we can't attend. There are some students to whom my husband feels a special closeness, and we would very much like to attend those weddings and send a little gift, even tho we can't afford much, but we are so afraid of hurting the feelings of the others.

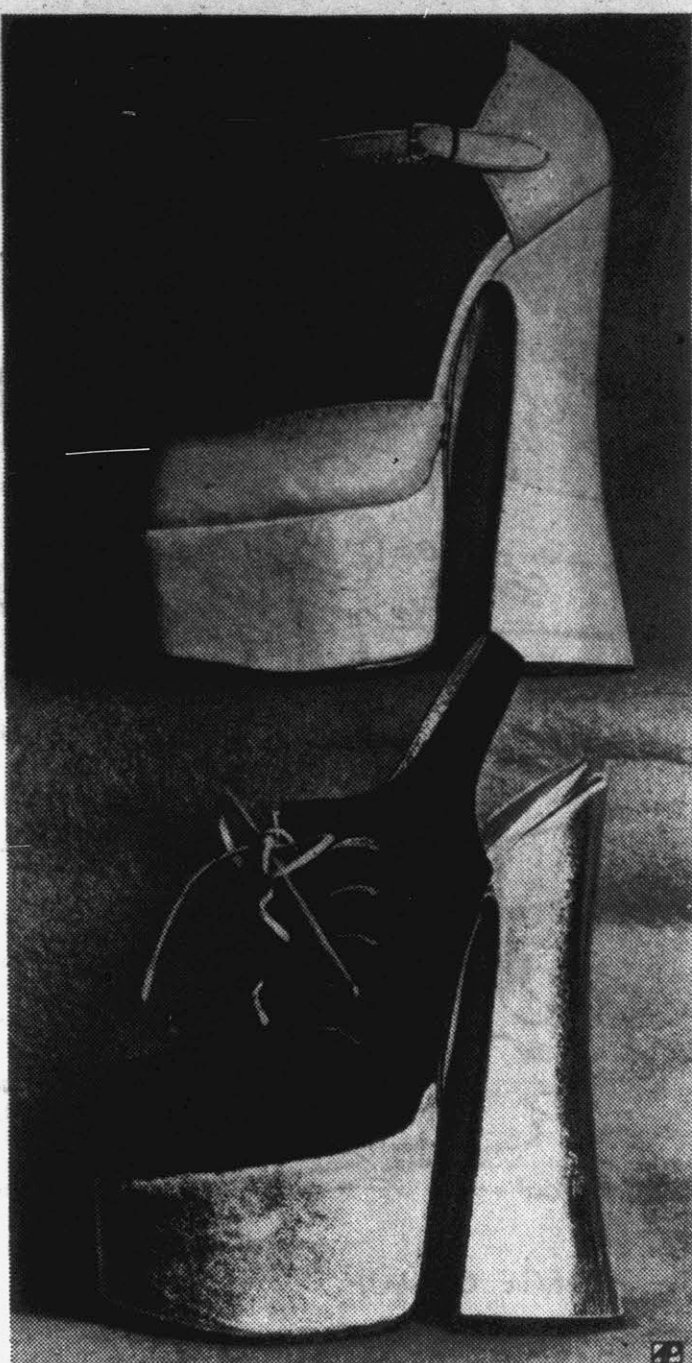

We routinely decline all invitations to weddings and send no gifts. Or is there a solution I haven't thought of?

PROF'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Accept the invitations to those to whom you feel a "special closeness" and regret the rest, and don't feel guilty. For an inexpensive gift, shop the second-hand bookstores for a book of poetry or the classics. In it inscribe a personal message to the couple, and your gift will probably be regarded as one of their most treasured. [And it need not cost more than 50 cents or a dollar.]

Collectors See Old Music Boxes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures WRITER
Some fine old music boxes may be hidden away in attics and barns.

Music boxes are bringing big prices as old ones become more scarce, and there are so many collectors, including young people, that there are music box societies, an encyclopedia of automatic musical instruments and books on musical boxes and how to repair them. One collector, Vicki Glasgow, not only has a large collection of boxes, she has organized a little museum.

"The chances of finding a good music box in a junk pile are pretty remote, though," she advises would-be scavengers. "To have value a box must be in perfect condition without mechanical defects or missing teeth from cylinders, and the tonal quality must be good. Some boxes look beautiful, but vital parts may be missing. Quite a number of boxes have been made in recent years, and one must have a trained eye to recognize the old from the new. Even experienced collectors can be fooled."

At the New York Antiques Center where Mrs. Glasgow has been displaying her own music boxes among those belonging to European and American collectors, she quickly identified a small polyphon box with bird for an owner as being fairly modern even though it resembled a antique one.

Instruments at her museum include miniature cylinder movements in snuff boxes and large disc movements in upright tall-case cabinets. A music box is any automated musical instrument and can include the "very desirable reproducing piano," nickelodeon, hurdy-gurdy, clocks with musical attachments and toys. One minstrel picture winds to play a tune. Cylinder boxes made before 1850 are likely to be key wound. Later ones have crank handles.

Some wooden boxes are fairly plain and many people purchase them to provide new cabinetry. Later boxes are mahogany, walnut, oak, fruitwood, and were inlaid with beautiful woods or mother of pearl. In her collection are boxes priced from $55 to $7,000—the price of one with 19 perfect changeable cylinders and original tone cards. The most interesting box, a handcarved tall piece of furniture in a wooden case with an automatic record changer, the forerunner of the modern juke box, may be worth $4,500, but Mrs. Glasgow would never part with it.

She parlayed a hobby into a business 13 years ago, she explains, when she and her husband bought an 8-inch box for $100 in New Hampshire where they were on vacation. She abandoned her previous hobby of collecting paper, prints and books when she acquired the little box made by Regina, the first American maker, and considered the finest disc box maker in the world. On today's market it would have brought about $350, she points out.

That box also provided her husband, a CPA, a diversion from his business. He became so interested in its movement that he soon became "a marvelous restorer."

In a sense the music box business is a lost art, Mrs. Glasgow explains, because so much of it was cottage industry with parts made with tender loving hand care. Musical Swiss watches were made in the 18th century and old Swiss boxes bring very high prices. In the 19th century came the snuff boxes of tortoise shell or filigreed with enamel. Cylinders have thousands of tin pins on them which hit a comb-like arrangement of tines to cause music by vibration. The Germans manufactured the first musical box which played interchangeable discs—vertically mounted combs over which a cardboard disc with perforations was used—but the American box was considered superior because it improved the tonal quality. Later discs were made of metal.

A Closed Mind On The Board?

For some time now it has been considered svelte in some circles of our state to smear East Carolina University with unsubstantiated statements casually dropped.

This has really been of no great concern to us, since we have always felt that if an institution is living up to its potential, it is going to be the object of careless accusations, not backed by facts. And, as we have seen, East Carolina University has grown and become a leader in higher education in North Carolina despite such things.

Recently, however, a member of the Universities Board of Governors purportedly made one of these careless remarks before an alert reporter. And it appeared in print that a member of the Board of Governors, who would not be identified, had said that "undergraduate science courses at the school (ECU) are not adequate for pre-medical training."

As usual, of course, this unnamed person offered no such facts. For some months there has been a very critical self study going on at East Carolina University for accreditation purposes. It has taken considerable time and effort to gather the information for this study and certainly this unnamed purported board member could not have gathered comparable information in a few months of sitting on the board.

J.W. Byrd, chairman of the Department of Physics at ECU, wrote a letter to The News and Observer in which he said that the statement about the science program was "untrue and irresponsible."

He pointed out that course work required to educate physics, biology and chemistry students is more sophisticated than that in a pre-medical program. "That we are able to offer such courses successfully is well documented by the many students who have earned PhD degrees after receiving undergraduate or master-level degrees from us."

Well, we suppose the anonymous statement should be viewed as just another stab at East Carolina University which should be shrugged off as irresponsible except in this case the statement was attributed to a member of the board of governors. If this is correct, it tells us that one of the 32 minds on the board is closed to carrying out the board's duties to develop a real state wide system of higher education. One person is not going to listen to facts in the matter of the development of ECU's School of Medicine. It does do just a little to shake public confidence in the infant board.

Jim Holshouser Staying Loose

By BRYAN HAILSIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — Jim Holshouser approaches the governor's office with country lawyer caution and open options.

What he promises is change, a new crowd in capital executive offices and a fresh viewpoint on government structure, emphasis on efficiency and services in spending tax dollars, and a political thrust for a two-party system.

How that change will be realized once he is inaugurated next January remains subject to his own study and selection of alternatives.

That he is staying loose while formulating plans for his administration became obvious this week as Holshouser held his first news conference since taking up the tasks of transition. Through the 45-minute session with news reporters, the governor-elect stayed congenial and confident but noncommittal on specifics.

He placed immediate priority on a talent search for the team to help him run state government. "No stone will be left unturned to find the best person for each job," he promised.

Appointment Options Open
Neither party affiliation, age sex or race will be barriers to his choice for appointments, Holshouser asserted. In fact, he held out the prospect that women and blacks will be represented at a high level, either in cabinet positions or on the gubernatorial staff.

Holshouser, a 38-year-old Boone attorney and former state legislator, goes into office as the first Republican chief executive of North Carolina in the 20th century. Voters elected him to break the long line of Democratic governors. That mandate for change will be honored, Holshouser said, but with the exercise of caution. "In no sense will there be change only for the sake of change," he insisted.

He repeated assurances that career state workers "who are doing a good job" have no reason to fear dismissal in the turnover.

At the same time, he went no further than suggesting study for a state civil service system. He once proposed it, in legislation he introduced at the 1963 legislative session. Since then, he explained, exposure to Washington bureaucracy has made him skeptical of the idea.

Early Team Start
His choice of cabinet level officials to head major divisions of state government will be made about the time he takes the oath of office next Jan. 5. The present plan, Holshouser reported, is to announce them as a group the week before or week after the inauguration.

Whether the number may include some holdovers from the outgoing administration of Gov. Bob Scott is another option he is keeping open.

An area certain for change is highway affairs. The campaign made it clear, said Holshouser, "the people are looking hardest for changes there." The big challenge, he added, is how to bring about change without disrupting professional capability and long-range planning.

Holshouser spoke a word of caution on the new structure for higher education, a plan fostered by Gov. Scott in which he joined. The Board of Governors over the state's 16 institutions "is an amazingly sound plan on paper," the governor-elect commented.

"It takes people to make things go. The big challenge in the '73 session is whether the legislature is willing to leave the board alone and give it a chance to work, even to make mistakes," Holshouser said. He will support the board's budget priorities for higher education, and resist any efforts to overturn them, he promised.

Legislative Outlook
Operating with an independent legislature in the control of Democrats gives him no qualms, Holshouser said. He doesn't look for a six-month honeymoon, but neither does he anticipate a partisan stalemate.

"I'm sure there will be times when we disagree," he acknowledged. "Frankly, I feel we can reach a good working relationship in the best interests of the state."

The situation creates an opportunity for the legislature to exercise initiative, and get away from the image of a rubber stamp for the executive, he added.

For his tenure, Holshouser indicated he is willing to work within present limitations of the governor's office.

The governor ought to have the veto power over legislation and he will recommend it, but only for his successor, he said. "That should take any partisan consideration out of the discussion," he noted.

As for allowing a governor to serve two terms, Holshouser said he can argue on both sides. "I would not push for it, but I probably would not oppose it," he said. Again, his view would be that the change, if made, should be effective beginning with the next incumbent.

Jordan Avoids Party Quarrel

By JOHN KILGO
Sen. B. Everett Jordan would not be drawn into a controversy over campaign tactics by Democratic candidates in North Carolina, but he did say "there are indications the Party would have been better off if the candidates had grouped together a little better."

Jordan made the comment to me in a telephone interview before he left on an overseas trip, representing the Senate.

Sen. Jordan talked with me about McGovern's defeat, his own campaign for reelection, his accomplishments and other subjects.

Here's the way the interview went:

Q. What political trends have you noticed in recent years?

A. "Well, we've made much progress. I'd say the trend had been a little liberal politically, but the last election sort of changed that. I think. It showed the country wants to go back to the moderate, more conservative approach."

Q. Do you believe too much power has been centered in Washington?

A. "I have constantly supported greater voices for local and state governments. I hope the election is going to reverse the trend of centering so much power in Washington. I always felt North Carolinians knew what was best for them and their state. I fought for this for 15 years."

Q. Do you believe the Executive Branch has usurped power that rightfully belong to Congress?

A. "I most certainly do. But I tell you this. Congress is more and more determined to take back some of the power that has drifted to the Executive Branch and I think that is a good sign for the country."

Q. Do you think Nick Galifianakis hurt himself in the manner that he campaigned against you in the primary?

A. "I don't know what to say about that. He defeated me, and I'm not sure I know exactly what defeated him in the general election."

A. "I hope he does a good job. Everybody ought to hope that. I think he's capable of doing a fine job in Washington."

Q. Do you believe Democratic candidates in North Carolina went it to much on their own this election year?

A. "It's always been customary for a candidate for Governor, or the Senate or for Congress to do what he could to promote his own candidacy. However, there are indications that we'd have been better off if local and state candidates grouped themselves together better than they did."

Q. North Carolina has elected a Republican Governor and U.S. Senator. What will Tar Heel Democrats have to do to rebound from a defeat like that?

A. "It depends to a large extent how those two men do in the jobs they've been elected to. You must remember, however, that Democrats in North Carolina still far outnumber Republicans. If we field strong candidates, and the Party gets behind these candidates, we should be able

Gripes Over Campaigns

Copyright 1972, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N.J., Nov. 29 — Seven in ten Americans would like to see changes in the way political campaigns are presently conducted. Leading the list of gripes are the high costs of campaigns and "too much mudslinging."

Next on the list of sought-for changes are "a greater discussion and definition of the issues" and shorter campaign.

The following comments reveal the mood of the public regarding the race for the presidency which, starting with the first primary election, consumed the better part of the year.

"Presidential campaigns usually start out on a fairly high level, but by the end of the campaign the race has degenerated, with desperate remarks and meaningless insults tossed about freely." These were the thoughts of a young engineer from Colorado.

A 51-year-old building superintendent from Iowa thinks there is room for improvement in the way campaigns are conducted, but confesses that he finds them entertaining—"The endless round of charges and countercharges — it's better than a circus."

A 42-year-old railroad supervisor from Chicago expresses a common view: "Campaigns cost too much — they hold good candidates back. The man who gets elected is not necessarily the best man — he's often the one who's got more money."

Behind Widespread Apathy This Year?
To a certain extent, the widespread voter apathy recorded this year can be charged against the lengthiness of the presidential campaign and the way it was conducted. Voter turnout on Nov. 7 was the lowest it has been since 1948. The percentage of election night TV viewers was down sharply from the percentage recorded in 1968.

7 in 10 Favor Law To Limit Spending
In the same survey, persons were asked specifically about a proposal for a law which would put a limit on the total amount of money that can be spent for or by a candidate in his campaign for public office.

Seven in ten (71 percent) say they would favor such a law, 18 percent are opposed, while another 11 percent do not express an opinion.

Basic in the thinking of many Americans is the belief that every person should have an equal chance to run for office and that money should not be a controlling factor.

Although present laws are designed to control the amount that a person can contribute to a campaign, these laws can be avoided or evaded in many different ways.

It is estimated that approximately $100 million was spent by presidential candidates in the presidential campaign this year, including $9 million on the Democratic and Republican conventions.

Public Has Long Favored Overhaul

The U.S. public has long favored a complete overhaul of the American Electoral system, including a nationwide primary to select candidates and abandonment of the Electoral College. The public's will in terms of changes in the electoral process has been heeded only in regard to lowering the voting age requirement to 18. In a survey conducted three years prior to the Supreme Court's decision, two adults in every three favored enfranchisement of 18, 19 and 20-year-olds.

Forget Those Myths

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Listen, Grandpa, don't start telling me again about those good old days.

You've been wearing out my ears since I was a kid with your mushy nostalgia about how those good old days were. Well, Grandpa, I finally got tired of it and went to the library and read some honest books about those good old days, as you call them. Let me tell you a few things about them you may have forgotten.

In those good old days cars didn't have heaters in winter or air-conditioning in summer. It took you four hours to go 45 miles on a frozen country mud road in cold weather, with your feet freezing and the wind and snow blowing through the holes of cracked isinglass windows.

There wasn't any radio or television in those good old days. A phonograph machine played only three minutes. Then you had to get up, put on another record, and wind the machine again by hand.

A doctor would make a house call all right, and for only $3, too, but if you were real sick with pneumonia or scarlet fever or diphtheria, there wasn't much he could do about it really. Most of the medicines then came in blue bottles, tasted brown — and didn't do much good.

In those good old days women wore tight corsets that made them feel all day like they were in the grip of an anaconda, and men wore high white collars so stiff with starch that their necks were rubbed raw most of the time.

When you went to church on Sunday, all the ministers ever talked about was how hard the devil was grabbing for your shirttail, how hot the coals of hell would be, and how much the church's missionaries were

Strength For Today

GIVE THEM THE WORKS

When will Christ return? It was his promise that he would return, and even as towering a figure as the Apostle Paul believed that Christ would return during his lifetime. HE has not returned yet. Does that mean that he will never return?

Most of us believe that this is not a valid conclusion. He will return to make the kingdoms of the world his own, and he will do it at the time that in his infinite wisdom he knows it should be done. Some people use the Bible as an almanac and believe that they can tell you when the Second Coming will take place. Most of us believe that such calculations have no validity. Christ will return. The time of his return is in the hands and in the plan of the Creator and Father of us all. The living of a righteous life before God is not only a fundamental duty but a thrilling experience. We think we can be happy giving in to this weakness or that. Liquor and sensuality have been among the most prevalent evils of the past. Today we have the horrifying situation of drug addiction. There are human beings in the world (or should we call them human beings?) who do not scruple to make big money by selling habit-forming drugs to addicts or to people who are on the way to becoming addicts. No human law can deal with such people adequately, but we should never let up in our attempt to deal with them and deal with them severely. They do not deserve mercy and should not get it. Their victims are the ones who deserve mercy. Give them the works.

The Govm't Is Warning Banks

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — Generally speaking, commercial bank business could hardly be better today except for one thing: The federal government is looking bankers right in the eye and telling them not to raise prices.

The price of a bank's product is expressed in the interest rate, and that rate has slowly, almost imperceptibly, moved higher in recent weeks. Moreover, there appears to be enough demand to keep pressure building.

When demand for money rises, as with any product, there is a tendency for the price also to rise. At least that is the case when the economy is functioning freely, which it is not as long as price controls exist. Money, however, is like raw fruits and vegetables in that it is exempt from controls. Legally, the banks can raise their prices within Federal Reserve guidelines and not have to explain their decision to anyone.

But the banks today are far more sensitive to public and governmental opinion that at almost any time in the past. Consumers have money, and they must not be antagonized. The government has power and must not be offended.

For several months now the government has been reminding the bankers that it will be angered to the point of retaliation if they don't show as much reluctance to raise rates as customers are to pay them.

Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, has expressed himself on the matter, as well he should, since he heads the President's Committee on Interest and Dividends.

Implicit in talks the committee has been having with bankers is that failure to please the administration will result in a loss of their rate-making freedom.

With controls already existing on so many products, this threat obviously is not an idle one. And it is a stronger one that might immediately be evident.

The reason is that even without price controls, the Federal Reserve Board has the power to exert enormous pressure on banks by controlling the amount of money that is permitted to filter through them into the economy.

The Fed, that is, can limit the amount of goods that the bank has available for sale.

To impose price controls on that product would mean they were being pressured at both ends, with a resulting negative impact on profits.

The smart money men understand that this would be the worst of worlds and that it must be avoided if banks are to continue the very healthy profits they have been reporting this year. They are obeying, but reluctantly.

Responsible financial analysts are forecasting an increase from 5.75 per cent to nearer 6 per cent in the prime rate, which is the lower rate given to the best corporate customers.

So far the forecasts haven't been fulfilled, and as the list grows of banks that have reached agreements or understandings with federal officials, the likelihood of that 6 per cent rate becomes a bit more remote.

'Open House' At Pace Academy

Karl B. Pace Academy is holding an open house Sunday afternoon to give area residents an opportunity to visit the new physical plant of the private school.

Pace Academy was founded in 1968 through contributions of the Karl B. Pace Foundation and friends. Classes for grades one through four were held that first year in the basement of Dr. Charles Pace's residence.

In 1969 other classes were added and the school moved into the Garrett home on Memorial Drive.

The new building complex was completed this fall and currently houses grades one through eight.

The new facility is located near Pitt Technical Institute on rural road 1708 between N.C. 11 and the Old Tar Road. The complex includes four buildings. Three of the brick buildings house two classrooms each while the fourth structure — a multi-purpose facility — houses two classrooms, school offices and a library.

The faculty for the school includes seven full-time teachers, four part-time instructors and the headmaster, Gene Baker of Greenville. The program at the school places emphasis on scholarship, small classes and individual instruction, according to Baker.

For the first time this year, a school newspaper is being published and a basketball team has been organized.

"We hope to have a chapter of the Junior National Beta Society at Pace this year also," Baker said.

The headmaster emphasized, "through the efforts and support of our patrons and friends, our future plans include adding grades 9 through 12 which will be basically college oriented."

The open house will be held from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. and Baker urge anyone interested in the school to visit the facility.

Suggest Water-Users Pay Full Project Cost

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Water Commission has tentatively recommended laws to make water-users pay the full cost of federal projects which benefit them. There would be such diverse long-term results as higher prices for beef and lower prices for milk.

The commission's executive director, Theodore Schadt, told a newsman Wednesday the impact of the proposals would be "less reliance on the federal treasury and more reliance on people paying for what they get."

The over-all impact on the consumer would be mixed, the commission concluded, although Schadt said it would tend to push consumer prices upward. Water prices could go up, but there could also be more efficient use of water.

Chances of the commission's recommendations being adopted as written appear slim. A series of public conferences are scheduled in January.

The commission's recurrent theme was that water should be priced at its free market value and that those who benefit from federal water projects should pay for them—with interest.

In a 1,122-page draft report, the commission urged that the full cost should be recovered for such future federal projects as municipal water supply, irrigation, navigation, hydroelectric power, water-based recreation, municipal waste collection and treatment, flood control, drainage and shoreline protection.

Plan Improving Charleston Port

CHARLESTON (AP)—A $2.5 million expansion of Charleston's Columbus Street terminals has been announced by the South Carolina Ports Authority.

This will create the port's third major facility for handling containerized cargoes. One is in use and a second is soon to go in service.

The authority's announcement said $1 million will go for land improvements for truck and rail access, the rest for a giant crane to operate on a recently-completed pier extension that cost $3.3 million.

The new facility has been designed to handle the new 946-foot long SL-7 containerships of the Sea Land Service.

Gallup Poll

last spring, 72 percent of persons interviewed said they favored the selection of presidential candidates in a nationwide primary election instead of by political party conventions as at present. The proposal found bipartisan approval.

Majorities in every survey — as long as 1948 — have either favored abandonment of the present Electoral College system or changing it to make it reflect more accurately the popular vote sentiment registered on election day.

The latest survey on the Electoral College showed eight in ten Americans in favor of the election of Presidents on the basis of popular vote throughout the nation rather than the Electoral College system. The latter system makes it possible for candidate to win even though he runs behind in the popular vote total.

Shorten Campaigns?
CAMPAIGNS?

The electorate would also like to see another basic change in the electoral process — cutting the 10-week campaign period in half. Six in ten voters would favor such a change, which, if it were done, would bring the U.S. more in line with the practice of Great Britain, Canada, Israel and other democracies.

Details of Survey
Today's report is based on in-person interviews with 1205 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation. These are the questions and national results:

"Would you like to see any changes in the way political campaigns are conducted?"
YES 70 percent
NO 30 percent
"Would you favor or oppose a law which would put a limit on the TOTAL amount of money which can be spent for or by a candidate in his campaign for public office?"
FAVOR 71 percent
OPPOSE 18 percent
NO OPINION 11 percent

Relent, Permit Russian To Talk

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The State Department has relented, and will allow Dr. Valerian Nesterov, counselor in the Russian embassy, to speak at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

He had been advised on his arrival at the Charlotte Airport last week that U.S. officials had ordered his immediate return to Washington in retaliation for similar action against an American diplomat in Moscow.

But the Soviet Desk of the State Department now has given Nesterov permission to return and fulfill the engagement. He will speak Friday on "Education in the Soviet Union."

Q. What accomplishments have you made in the Senate that stand out in your mind?

A. "I led the fight on the Senate floor to pass the one price cotton bill and we won. That helped the cotton farmer a great deal, and also the textile industry. I played an important part in passing the medicare bill and the Clean Meat Act. I also believe some of my legislation helped tobacco farmers in North Carolina get the highest prices ever for their product this year."

Q. What about the future for you?

A. "I'll keep my home open in North Carolina. It's always been open. I'll get my apartment in Washington for sometime. I hope to be visiting in the Senate quite often. I can go to the floor any time I please and enjoy its facilities. I have a great many friends in the Washington community. I'll remain active for a long time to come, I hope."

Man Found Hanging In Ayden Jail

AYDEN — An autopsy has been ordered in the death of a 25 year old Rt. 1, Ayden man who apparently hanged himself in his cell at the Ayden Jail early today.

Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney said that officers found Prennis E. Dixon around 7:30 this morning. The chief added that Dixon, who had been jailed on charges of driving under the influence and failing to stop for a stop sign Wednesday night, apparently used a mattress cover to hang himself. Dixon was alone in his cell.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said that the matter is still under investigation and he did not rule on the cause of death pending the autopsy.

Burney said that the State Bureau of Investigation would investigate the death. He added that it was normal procedure to call in an agency not directly involved to conduct an investigation.

Communists Less Active

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces made their smallest number of attacks in South Vietnam in two months Wednesday and today.

The Saigon command said there were 49 enemy attacks during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today, the fewest since 48 were reported on Sept. 28.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officials claim one reason for the generally low level of activity is that North Vietnamese units are as much as 50 percent understrength and in some cases short of ammunition, food and other supplies.

Most of the attacks were small-scale, but two assaults in Long An province just south of Saigon killed nine South Vietnamese and wounded eight.

Board To Hear PTI Officials

RALEIGH — Two Pitt Technical Institute administrators will speak to the State Board of Education here Wednesday night to explain Pitt Tech's Summer Institute for High School Students.

Making the presentation will be Willard Finch, assistant dean, and Ed Warren, director of cooperative education. They will be accompanied by three students who have been participating in the program.

The summer project involves pre-vocational education.

Law Firm Has Moved Into New Offices

The law firm of J.H. Harrell and Fred Mattox has relocated from offices in the Lee Building to new quarters on W. Second Street.

Mattox said that the move to 315 W. Second Street was completed earlier this week. Remodeling of the old Fleming home on the corner of Second and Pitt Streets took some three months, he added.

The law partner noted that interior renovations included the installation of air conditioning while the brick structure underwent painting on the outside.

Plans call for parking facilities to be included at the rear of the building, Mattox reported.

Harrell had been located in the Lee Building since the facility was opened and Mattox joined him in forming the law partnership in 1966.

Southside . . .

Other categories, he noted, will cover income groups of a bit higher level who will be eligible for long-term, low interest rate on three percent loans; and conventional period and terms loans for home-owners of more substantial incomes.

Southside planning also includes maintaining business establishments now located in the area, with requirements they meet minimum standards of improvements in cases where such is needed.

Jackson said that following a number of meetings with residents of the area, the overwhelming consensus among both home-owners, business owners and rental-owners is one in favor of the program.

He mentioned that there are 23 advisory members of the program drawn from the area covered.

In referring to certain vacant lots that will be created due to demolition of sub-standard buildings not renovatable at a reasonable cost, Laney said it is "not the intention of the program to acquire land. Our primary consideration," he stated, "is to encourage private investment within the area as a result of improvements to be made. We feel that in upgrading homes and businesses and by paving and improving streets, this will lead to renewed interest in private investment in the area."

The tentative plan for the Southside Urban Renewal Area will be placed on the Planning and Zoning Commission as a formal item for the January agenda.

From there the plan will go the City Council in February for their consideration.

Application Cards For 1973 License Plates Ready To Mail

Application cards necessary for obtaining 1973 license plates will be placed in the mail on Dec. 1, 8, and 20, Department of Motor Vehicles officials announced.

They said that the mailing, estimated at more than 3,700,000 cards, is expected to be delivered by Jan. 1.

The 1973 red and white plates will go on sale through the state on Jan. 2. The 1972 plates expire Dec. 31 and their use beyond that date is permissible only if they are duly registered by the department to the vehicle on only if they are duly registered by the Department have through.

Feb. 15 to obtain new plates. which display is made, it was noted. Owners who have their vehicles properly registered by the Department have, through Feb. 15 to obtain new plates.

Surrounding area residents may obtain new plates at Home and Auto Supply on Dickinson Avenue. Office hours will be from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9-4 on Saturdays.

Local license agent, Mrs. Anna Garris, pointed out that "to renew a plate you must have a renewal card" and cautioned against the misplacing of cards when they are received.

She also asked that recipients read the instructions and complete the application according to instructions before presenting it for a new plate.

The Department has made arrangements with the Post Office in Greenville, Bethel, Ayder, and Winterville to turn over to the local license office renewal cards which the Post Office has been unable to deliver. Anyone failing to receive an application card may possibly find it at the local license office, it was noted.

"It will take from ten days to two weeks to get application cards from the Department of Motor Vehicles in Raleigh," Mrs. Garris said, and she suggested that those who have not received an application apply to her office as early as possible so that there will be time to get one out of Raleigh in time.

Motor vehicle owners who have not received their license application card by Jan. 1 would notify the Department of Motor Vehicles in Raleigh. "It will take you from ten days to two weeks to get one and you should, therefore, act promptly," Mrs. Garris said.

Discuss Presenting Of Citizen Award

GRIFTON — Plans for the "Outstanding Citizen Award" were discussed at the November meeting of the Grifton Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

It was pointed out that Friday is the deadline for submitting nominations for the recognition. Anyone in the Grifton area may be nominated by individuals or organizations to receive the award. Names should be submitted at the Grifton Library.

The outstanding citizen will be honored at a new officers banquet Jan. 9.

A report was heard on the recent Newcomers' Dinner. Twenty-eight newcomers were honored.

The Rev. W.S. Brown reported on the Community Christmas Carol Sing to be held Dec. 21. A planning meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Grifton Library.

It was announced that Santa Claus will visit Grifton on Friday and Saturday afternoons, Dec. 22-23, instead of during the singing program which will be religious.

The next chamber meeting will be held Dec. 19.

Girl Scouts Ask For Furnishings

GRIMESLAND — The six Girl Scout troops of Grimesland are making an appeal to the community for contributions of furniture and a gas stove for their new Girl Scout hut.

Mr. and Mrs. James Heath are letting the troops use a house they own for a meeting place.

The scouts need a gas stove, tables and chairs for their new meeting place.

Anyone who would like to contribute any of these items may contact Mrs. Barbara Wagoner, 752-7892.

Camp David To Be Presidential Base For Decisions

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon is transforming rustic Camp David into his fourth White House where he says he will make his highest decisions and write his most important speeches.

Off and on for 30 years, the complex of wooden cabins and lodges set on a wooded crest of the Catoctin Mountains of western Maryland has served six presidents.

Now Nixon says he'll take advantage of the isolated mountaintop as a place for some of his most important work. "It is easier for me to get on top of the job" at Camp David, he said.

Through the years, Camp David has been the site of a number of historic summit conferences. Once honeymooners used it as a hideaway spot.

Though rustic, Camp David is far from rough. There are comfortable quarters, a full staff of Navy enlisted men and recreational facilities ranging from a heated pool to snowmobiles.

Nixon has already used Camp David more than any of his predecessors, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, who first used it as a World War II hideaway.

But in his first term, Nixon also put into service an ocean-side Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., and a bayside Florida White House in Key Biscayne to augment the traditional presidential residence in Washington.

Now preparing to open his second term, Nixon says there will be even more activities, meetings and major decisions at Camp David over the next four years.

At the retreat, 65 miles north of Washington (25 minutes by helicopter), Nixon works before a massive stone fireplace, apparently inspired by a splendid view of the mountain.

Complete privacy and seclusion is provided at Camp David, which covers a restricted area of 134 acres within a 6,000-acre tract of national and state parkland.

When Nixon is in residence, a shingled entrance sign announces "Camp David." But no casual tourist driving up from Thurmont can get close and "no stopping signs" warn off sightseers.

Camp David is operated by the Navy, guarded by Marines, many of them Vietnam veterans, who patrol with attack dogs. And it is surrounded by an ominous and forbidding circle of two high steel chain link electrified fences, topped by two-foot high circles of gleaming concertina barbed wire. At night, the perimeter is outlined with floodlights.

Nevertheless, the country atmosphere dominates. Occasionally a deer will suddenly walk out of the woods and through the main gate.

For presidents and their families Camp David has provided a perfect weekend vacation spot.

Roosevelt used to fly cast for trout in the little mountain stream that sparkles near the main lodge.

President Eisenhower practiced his golf on the front lawn green. The Kennedys rode horses and Caroline Kennedy's pony ring still stands. Lyndon Johnson and his family gave big parties for their friends.

Tricia Nixon and Edward Cox found it a perfect and safe honeymoon spot for a young couple besieged by the press. Camp David also served them as a private place to entertain Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Two main lodges and 10 surrounding guest cabins make up the living quarters at Camp David.

Nixon makes his headquarters in "Aspen Lodge," located in the southeast corner of the camp on a three-acre clearing with a large flagstone patio, barbecue and a spectacular view of the farm valley below.

It was built in 1941 on a site President Roosevelt selected and from a sketch he prepared.

The lodge has a big living room-dining area paneled in native red oak, with beamed ceilings, huge stone fireplace, picture window and glassed-in sun-porch. There are four double-sized, oak-paneled bedrooms, each with private bath.

Roosevelt called the big house "Bear's Den." Eisenhower renamed it Aspen, when he gave the camp its present name in honor of his grandson, David Eisenhower, now Nixon's son-in-law.

All of the cabins in the complex are named for trees.

Camp David was begun in the depression era of the 1930s as a Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) project.

Three public camp sites were set up in the Catoctin range and the one known as "Hi Catoctin Camp," was taken over by the White House during World War II.

Roosevelt named it "Shangri-La," after the mythical mountaintop retreat in James Hilton's novel "Lost Horizon." The camp was staffed with mess-boys, cooks, and stewards from the Presidential Yacht Williamsburg. The Navy has been in charge ever since.

FDR began using the camp in the spring of 1942 and his first important international visitor was British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. It was this historic meeting in May 1942 that committed the Allies to the Normandy invasion led by then Gen. Eisenhower.

Of all the presidents since then, Harry S. Truman made the least use of Camp David, preferring to take his vacations at Key West, Fla.

Though Eisenhower owned a farm only 23 miles away at Gettysburg, Pa., he found it easier to use Camp David for weekends away from Washington.

Eisenhower met Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the retreat in September 1959 and discussed cold war issues such as the future of Berlin. The temporary relaxing of East-West tensions which followed became known as "the Spirit of Camp David."

When not in use by the President, Camp David has been available to top members of his staff.

Dean Leary Winner In N.C. Art Society Show

Greenville's Dean Leary, a graduate art student in the School of Art, East Carolina University, was today named one of the top four winners in the annual North Carolina Art Society's art show.

Each year the big state annual, the most important art event in North Carolina, is the occasion for awarding a top purchase prize of $1,000 and three runner-up purchase awards of $500 each for works considered to be the top creations in the annual exhibit.

Leary's sculpture was one of the three $500 purchase awards.

Titled Composition in Green, the modern circular piece is a fiberglass and masonite construction.

Top purchase award this year went to Alice Fellows of Durham for a sculpture, Moon Egg III. In addition to Leary, the two runner-up artists are R.W. Kinnaid of Chapel Hill for an acrylic, Interference, and Ralph Cox of Atlanta, Ga. for an enamel Pink Forms.

Other Greenville artists whose work, were selected for the 35th Annual North Carolina Artists Exhibition now going on view at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh are Paul J. Harcharik, William Wayne Harris, Paul Hartley, Meredith S. Luck, Bette E. Petteway, Donald Sexauer and Melvin S. Stanforth. Also, a work by Winterville's Sandra Kaye Smith was chosen.

The 35th annual has 108 works chosen from a total of 864 entries submitted by several hundred southern artists.

New Bank Authorized

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Banking Commission has authorized the establishment of one new bank and two bank holding companies.

In action taken Wednesday, the commission approved formation of the Burlington Bank and Trust Co. A spokesman for the new bank's board said it was founded after Burlington's only independent bank, North State announced its merger with Bank of North Carolina N.A.

A commission spokesman said the new bank was only the fifth chartered in the state in the past eight years. It has reported that 1,511 stockholders contributed $2.2 million to capitalize the new bank.

The holding companies approved were The Sanford Bank, which will own the Carolina Bank in Sanford and P.B.T. Bank, which will own Piedmont Bank and Trust Co. in Davidson.

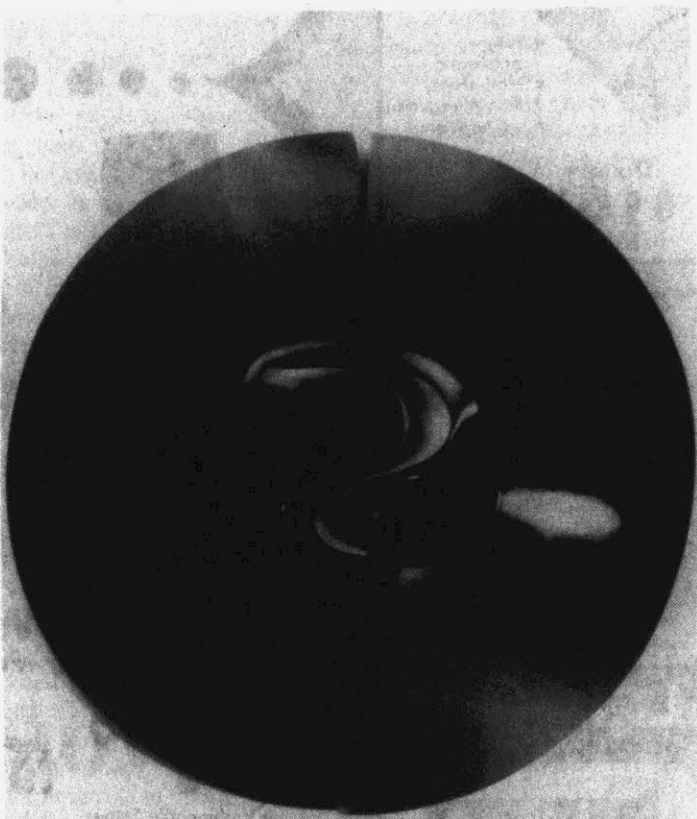

Commended For Summer Work

Pitt County instructors, Willie Morris and Freddie Outerbridge, have been commended by the Migrant Education Section of the N.C. Department of Public Instruction for their summer work with migrants.

Morris was cited for his "exemplary music program" and Outerbridge for his "exemplary arts and crafts program."

Morris, band director at D. H. Conley High School, and Outerbridge, art coordinator for the Pitt County School, both worked in the Chicod Summer Migrant Program this year.

The U.S. Marine Corps was established Nov. 10, 1775.

Time Element

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has provided a demonstration of what he meant Wednesday night when he told the Burke County Chamber of Commerce that his four years as governor have been a constant battle against time.

Scott departed the governor's mansion Wednesday morning with the Burke County speech in his briefcase, along with another he planned to give at a bridge dedication in Rhodiss.

But as the state plane Scott uses taxied to the runway, a "fire warning" light flashed on. The pilot returned to the apron and Scott switched to another plane.

The brief delay in the governor's crowded schedule caused him to miss the bridge dedication ceremony, at which he had planned to speak on the state's need for a mass transit system.

Later, in Morganton, Scott told a dinner audience that his four-year term has been filled with such frustrations, even when difficulties do not disrupt his schedule.

He said he never could find the time "to be with people—time to walk, and talk and congregate with citizens and to listen to their problems."

He said he has often passed homes, churches, factories and Grange halls he has visited in the past.

"Each time, I wanted so much to stop in for another visit. But the demands on my time have not permitted me to do nearly enough of this."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its sideways drift today in dull trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 1.20 at 1017.61.

But advances held a small lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mattel, which recently reported a nine-month earnings gain versus a year-earlier loss, was up 1/4 to 14 1/2.

Glamours were strong, with Winnebago up 1 1/4 to 26 1/4, Bausch & Lomb up 1/2 to 26 1/2, and Saxon Industries up 1 1/2 to 14.

Levitz Furniture, which recently reported higher earnings, was up 1 1/2 to 23 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, Milgo Electronic was up 1 to 20 1/2, and Ponderosa Systems was up 1 1/2 to 71 1/2.

An Old-Fashioned Christmas Program

An Old-Fashioned Christmas Tree is the theme of the program for children to be held at Sheppard Memorial Library on Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to noon.

Miss Helen Parker, Children's Librarian, has revealed that plans are to have children attending decorate a big Christmas tree in the old-fashioned way, with home-made decorations.

For this, she said it would be helpful if children attending the program could bring in odd socks of any size, design or color. Another item needed (and one that can be saved and returned to the owner) is a pair of baby booties.

There will be popcorn for the children to string, and small packages to wrap and put on the tree. Anyone with odd small pieces of Christmas wrapping paper are asked to bring this to help out. Christmas cards will be hung from the ceiling. There will also be a nativity scene, a frosty snowman and other favorites symbols of the Christmas season.

All children of elementary school age are encouraged to attend the two hour long Saturday morning program, to be held in the Children's Room at Sheppard Library.

Counted 3 City Wrecks

An estimated $650 in damages resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated here Wednesday night and this morning by Greenville Police.

Vance Council of Rt. 1, Bethel was charged with making an improper turn following an 8:10 p.m. wreck last night on N. Greene Street near Mumford Road.

Police reported damages of $50 to Council's vehicle and $125 to a car driven by Linda Karen Glenn of 300 Fleet Street, New Bern. No injuries were reported. Officers charged Milton Fletcher Adams of Box 25, Ayden with careless driving following investigation of an accident early today on Evans Street just north of Tenth Street.

Police reported that the collision involved a car driven by Adams and a parked auto owned by Thomas Edgar Austin II of 801 Evans Street. Damage was estimated at $125 to each car.

An oil truck driven by Levy Spencer Harris Jr. of 1301 Dickinson Avenue received damages set at $250 in a one vehicle wreck at 2:30 a.m. today.

Harris told officers that the cab of his truck slid around and wedged against the tank when he applied brakes at the S. Memorial Drive-Dickinson Avenue intersection. Harris was not injured.

Cancer Society Seminar Monday

The N. C. Division of the American Cancer Society is sponsoring a "Human Value Cancer Seminar" Monday at the Whispering Pines Restaurant in Southern Pines.

The meeting is planned to familiarize ministers, church leaders, nurses, physicians, nursing home managers, and other interested persons with the disease, the cancer patient, his family, and the importance of rehabilitation. The one-day program featuring doctors, a nurse, a hospital chaplain, and a Board member of the American Cancer Society, will begin at 9 a.m. and end at about 3 p.m. Reservations for a Dutch buffet luncheon will be $2.50.

Pre-registering is essential and may be done by contacting Mrs. Cornelia Gilmour, 345 S. May St., Southern Pines, N.C. 28387 or by phoning 919-692-6005.

New Test

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles says that beginning on December 11, driver's license renewal tests will be pictorial examinations that "put them right there behind the wheel."

The pictures are part of the department's efforts to update the tests and make them less difficult for drivers with reading problems, a spokesman said.

Parker
AHOSKIE — Miss Stella Parker, 78, died Wednesday night in Chowan Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. at Cool Spring Baptist Church in Gates County. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Surviving her are two sisters, Mrs. Geraldine King of Roduco and Mrs. Pauline Askew of Suffolk, Va.; a brother, J. D. Parker Sr. of Greenville.

Whichard

DURHAM — Funeral services for Mr. Willis Guilford Whichard, 64, who died Wednesday morning at 6 a.m. in Watts Hospital, will be conducted Friday at 3:30 p.m. at the Gospel Center here with Evangelist Welcome Detweiler, pastor, and the Rev. William Quick, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will follow in the Maplewood Cemetery.

Mr. Whichard was a native of Pitt County. He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1930 and taught school in Pinehurst and Red Springs before coming to Durham in 1934. He was principal of the E.K. Poe Elementary School from 1950 until his retirement in 1968 due to health reasons. He has served as the treasurer of the North Carolina Classroom

Complain At Lady Santa

HONOLULU (AP) — To kids, some things are sacred. And one of them is that Santa has to be a man.

That's what a 20-year-old female Santa and officials at a shopping center here found out.

Weldon Larsen, manager of the Kahala Mall, said he hired the young woman, who didn't want to be identified, to serve as one of two Santas working separate shifts at the center. The other one was a man.

"Of the ten applicants for the job, she showed a real interest in working with children and she was qualified, so we gave her the job," he said.

"There were no physical characteristics that gave her away. The Santa costume covered nearly all of her face and the suit was well padded," Larsen said.

But the kids, even one two years old, spotted a flaw in the disguise. Santa's hands, with well-manicured long nails, weren't those of a man, Larsen said.

The lady Santa worked for three days this week, but "we kept getting complaints from parents and the older kids were ruining it for the young ones by telling them Santa was a woman," Larsen said Wednesday.

"We mutually agreed that she give up the job. She was the last one who wanted to disillusion the kids."

Chargers May Be Ready To Repeat As Champs

By Chip Lambeth
Reflector Sports Writer
(One of a series)

LITTLEFIELD — If the Ayden-Grifton Chargers are to repeat as Eastern Carolina conference champs this year, they will have to rely on what Coach Bob Murphrey calls, "More depth and experience than any team I have ever coached."

The Charger basketball program lost only five players last year, three of them starters. Those three were Carlton McCarter, Chuck Babington, and Jessie Smith. Says Murphrey, "They were a big part of our team last year and they will be missed." On the other hand, however, Murphrey has several of his outstanding players of last season back this year.

Although there is not yet a "super player" the Chargers have four or five boys that can score. Here, Murphrey feels the key is balance. "We feel that Milton Brown and Melvin Stewart are as good a pair of guards as any in the conference," Murphrey points out. Under the boards, A-G has Danny Garris, and Sam Stewart returning. Stewart may be a little slow at first due to a knee injury sustained during football season but will be a potent part of the offense after a few games.

Offensively, A-G is picking up the tempo this year and by this move Murphrey hopes his team will be able to put in more points. "We won both our first games by big margins and looked fairly good." Along with the four returnees, two young men will be fighting for the fifth spot on the court. Jesse Brown, up from the J. V. will be sharing the duties at center with Jeff Worthington. Says Murphrey, "They will play about equal time."

Another player off the J. V. team is Travis Wood. He will be looked to to add some offensive punch to that part of the game but still needs to learn defense and to rebound. When he does, "...he will fit right in." Jimmy Maye saw limited action last year coming off the bench but is expected to play more this year after he recovers from knee surgery. Murphrey feels he is a little behind at this point but will help a lot when he comes around.

As far as offense is concerned,

Murphrey is pleased. "We look good but we haven't been tested yet. It will be a while before we get a real test, maybe against Conley, Greene Central, or North Pitt," he said. He also feels that the team has improved as a whole over last year.

The defense, though, does not please the coach as much. "Our defense and rebounding are not as strong as I would like but I hope that we can improve on it."

For the early going, Murphrey will go with Melvin Stewart and Brown at the guards, Garris and Sam Stewart at forwards and Worthington starting at center. Worthington will be hard pressed, however, by Jessie Brown who will be used heavily also.

Asked if he was looking for a repeat of last year Murphrey replied that it was too early to tell yet but does feel that, "We will be in the top two or three. We feel we are a little better than some other teams but there are other teams that are a little better, too." Elaborating further,

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) —

Making the All-Southern Conference football team is getting to be old hat for senior defensive back Paul Seolaro of William and Mary, but for junior running back Carlester Crumpler of league champion East Carolina it was an entirely new experience.

Because they were the top vote-getters in balloting by league coaches and members of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association, the two were named honorary cocaptains today of the 24-man unit, which includes a placekicker and a punter.

It was the third straight year Seolaro has earned All-Southern honors, and he finished just in front of sophomore linebacker Danny Kepley of East Carolina as the top defensive vote-getter.

Crumpler, who set four conference season records, beat out wide receiver David Knight of William and Mary—another repeater—by a shade as the leading vote-getter on the offensive unit.

Although 10 underclassmen were named to the All-Southern last year, only three were picked again—Seolaro, Knight and junior linebacker Pat Kelly of Richmond. Two of last year's choices did not return to school, and the other five were beaten out by newcomers.

Only six seniors were named to the new-format team, which includes two wide receivers, a tight end, a quarterback, two running backs and five interior linemen on offense and a front four, three linebackers and four backs on defense.

Besides Seolaro and Knight, the seniors are defensive end John Nugent and running back Billy Meyers of Richmond and defensive tackle Norman Seabrooks and linebacker Neil Rumble of The Citadel.

William and Mary joins Nugent at defensive end, while the other defensive tackle is junior Ron Reynolds of Appalachian State. Rumble, Kelly and Kepley are the linebackers.

Seolaro is teamed in the defensive backfield with juniors Rusty Markland of East Carolina and Bob Loprete of Richmond and sophomore Vince Perone of Furman.

East Carolina and third-place finisher William and Mary put six players each on the squad, runnerup Richmond five. All eight teams in the conference earned at least one berth.

Crumpler, who averaged 119 yards rushing per game, set conference season records with 340 carries, 1,309 yards rushing, 17 touchdowns and 102 points. Meyers set Richmond school records for one year by rushing for 763 yard and 10 touchdowns.

Summrell accounted for 15 East Carolina touchdowns, throwing for 12 and running for three. He hit 86 of 197 passes for 1,265 yards and ran for more than 300 yards.

The league's top pass receiver was Walker with 62 catches for 1,031 yards and eight touchdowns. Knight, playing for a team which ran 70 per cent of the time, caught 44 passes for 721 yards and six scores, bringing his career total to 123 receptions for 1,995 yards. Eure caught 23 passes for 243 yards.

Jones led the conference with a punting average of 40.4 yards per kick, while Regan set a league record with 27 consecutive conversion kicks. He also hit nine of 12 field goal attempts.

Among them, the defensive backs and linebackers intercepted 32 passes, Perone picking off 10 and Seolaro seven. Both Perone and Seolaro also were used to return punts and kickoffs.

Williamston Goes For State 2-A Title

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers put all the marbles on the line Friday night at 8 p.m. in Sylva, as they go for the State 2-A Football Championship.

Their opponent will be unbeaten Sylva-Webster High School, which comes into the game with a 12-0-1 record. The lone blemish on their record was a 14-14 tie with 3-A Tuscola, the team that is playing for the 3-A title.

"They've won 29 of their last 31 games," Williamston Coach Dink Mills reported. "And from their record this year we can consider them a formidable opponent."

According to Mills' scouting report, Sylva-Webster runs the Houston veer offense, and is strictly a ball-control team. "They ran 63 offensive plays against Parkwood last week," Mills said, "and 56 of them were rushes, so you can see they don't pass very much."

The primary ball carrier for the Western champions is Ronnie Smith, a 205-pound junior. "He likes to blast off tackle," Mills said. Also in the backfield with him is Terry Smith, the tailback, who carries it outside, and quarterback Dave Allen, a 145-pound junior. "According to what I've heard, he's never played in a losing game since taking over at quarterback," Mills said. "He's a real winner."

Smith doesn't get his yardage on his own, but has a fine line to run behind. Usually, however, he follows the blocking on the strong side, going behind David Austin, a 235-pound junior tackle and Randy Crawford, a 180-pound guard. The two of them blast big holes in the opposition lines for long gainers.

"They flip-flop their line to keep these two men and the fullback on the same side of the line at all times," Mills said. "We look for them to run this way a lot."

Defensively, however, Sylva-Webster isn't quite the same team. "They run what I call a 5-2 umbrella defense. Some call it a 5-4. Most of their defensive players go both ways, so they're a lot like us," Mills said. "Smith, for instance, is their top linebacker."

Mills said that the defense doesn't compare with their offense, "but it is quite respectable. We feel like we can move the ball on them and score."

The big test, however, Mills feels will be whether Williamston can keep Sylva-Webster from controlling the ball and burning out the clock. "We've got to keep the ball away from them as much as possible, so we'll have to control it ourselves."

"Since we are a passing team, this means that we're going to have to score," he said.

The Tigers left this morning for Sylva, where they'll be staying at the Towne House Motel. They plan to work out this afternoon at Western Carolina University at nearby Cullowhee, "to get used to the mountain coldness," Mills said.

He is also worried about the altitude factor on his players. "I don't know how much effect it will have, but we'll have oxygen on hand just in case we need it."

Two members of the starting Tiger lineup are doubtful for the game, and this is also worrying Mills. "Dwight Ange got a hard knock in the head early in the game last week, and we still don't know for sure whether he'll be able to make the trip. Also doubtful is our fullback, Henry Wiggins, who got hurt in the Tabor City game, too."

Should the Tigers gain the victory, it will bring to Martin County its second straight State Football title. Robersonville, knocked out of competition in the first round of play this year, won the state 1-A title last year.

Buc Defense Still Is High Among Leaders

Carlester Crumpler, with his record-breaking performance this season at East Carolina University, continued to rank high among NCAA leaders this week in three categories.

Crumpler, who has finished his season, still could move around in the standings, depending on the outcome of remaining games across the country.

Through this past Saturday's games Crumpler ranks eighth in rushing with a 119.0 average for 11 games. P. Van Valkenburg of Brigham Young tops the category with a 138.6 average. In scoring, Crumpler now stands sixth with a 9.3 points per game average. Stan Fritts of N.C. State is fourth with a 9.6 mark. Harold Henson of Ohio State leads the nation with a 12.0 average per game.

In all-purpose running, based on rushing, pass receiving and returns, Crumpler averages 136.2 yards a game, good enough for 15th place. Howard Stevens of Louisville is the national leader with a 213.2 yards per game mark.

Bruce Shaw of N.C. State ranks 24th in total offense with a 159.9 average, while Tom Schutze of VMI is 24th in passing, hitting 10.9 passes per game. Jay Jones of Richmond at 40.4 and Jim Hughes of The Citadel at 40.1 rank 20th and 22nd, respectively, in punting.

Mike Stultz of N.C. State is 11th in punt returns with a 13.3 average.

In the team statistics, the Pirates finished 11th in total defense with an average of 246.1 yards allowed per game. Louisville leads with a 202.5 average. In rushing defense, the Bucs are seventh with a 109.1 average. Louisville again is tops with an 82.1 mark.

N.C. State is sixth in total offense (432.5) and 14th in pass offense with a 207.8 average. William & Mary is 13th in rushing offense with a 265.1 average per game.

Celtics Survive Bad First Half

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The first-place Boston Celtics played poorly for one half, but the last-place Philadelphia 76ers played poorly for an entire game.

"We played very sloppy in the first half," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn after Wednesday night's National Basketball Association game against Seattle. "We can't afford to play like that."

But they could afford to play like that, moving from a 49-45 halftime lead to a 120-98 victory that boosted their Atlantic Division-leading record to 18-3. John Havlicek led Boston with 22 points while Spencer Haywood scored 29 for Seattle.

"We just did everything wrong," said Philadelphia Coach Roy Rubin after the 76ers were routed 139-91 by the New York Knicks for their 20th defeat in 22 games. The Knicks won for the 20th time in 24 starts and lead Boston by a half game but trail the Celtics by percentage points. The top Knicks scorer was Bill Bradley, with 26 points, while Fred Carter led Philadelphia with 21.

In other NBA action, Houston beat Baltimore 102-94, Phoenix topped Atlanta 109-98, Milwaukee took Chicago 105-97 and Kansas City-Omaha downed Portland 110-102.

Jack Marin and Otto Moore sparked a fourth-quarter surge that led Houston past Baltimore at San Antonio, Tex., and to within a half game of first-place Baltimore in the Central Division. Marin was high for the Rockets, with 21 points. Elvin Hayes scored 30 for Baltimore.

Atlanta stayed one game back of Baltimore by losing to Phoenix, which got 27 points each from Connie Hawkins and Charlie Scott. Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 30.

Four foul shots by Oscar Robertson and two by Bob Dan-dridge in the last 36 seconds keyed Milwaukee to its victory that opened up a 1½-game margin over second-place Chicago in the Midwest Division. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar topped Milwaukee scoring with 27 points while Garfield Heard and Bob Weiss each scored 18 for Chicago.

Johnny Green's 12 third-quarter points helped Kansas City-Omaha beat Portland at Kansas City for the Kings' 11th victory in 14 games. Nate Archibald scored 32 points for the Kings and Geoff Petrie scored 23 for Portland.

ther, Murphrey pointed out, "Conley is going to be stronger this year than a lot of people have thought. They are taller and have better size. They may be the team to beat."

"Greene Central will have a good team they can't miss. Farmville Central lost some key players but will still be good. They have a transfer from New York that is supposed to be real good and probably have the best player in the conference in McCoy Williams."

Still, the Chargers should end up as Murphrey predicts if they can continue to give up the ball to each other and continue to play balanced ball. So far they are 3-0 on the year having beaten North Pitt, Southern Nash, and Southern Wayne. And with a second string that is almost as good as the first, A-G should do well in the ECC this season.

Jaguars Top Rose Matmen

Farmville Central High School rolled to a 43-14 victory over the Rose High School wrestling team here yesterday. It was the opening meet for both schools.

The Rampants managed to capture victories in only two of the 13 matches, and one of those came on a forfeit. Two matches ended in draws, while the Jaguars took the remaining nine.

Four of those nine Farmville Central wins came through pins. The Rampants travel to Wilson tonight to meet the Titans. Farmville Central goes to Southern Wayne for its first Eastern Carolina Conference match on Monday.

Summary:
98: Tommy Manning (R) won by forfeit.
105: Tony Jordan (FC) 0:32.

defeated Julian Vainwright, 3-0.
112: Ricky Bundy (FC) defeated Alton Hansley, 3-0.

Mercury alone among medium-price cars gives you steel-belted radial tires standard. Yet, based on sticker prices, our Mercury Monterey 2-Door Hardtop is still within $116* to $194* of the "low-priced three"!

In your '73 Mercury Monterey you'll get improved handling and a better ride than ever. Steel-belted radials are the reason. They're the most technically advanced passenger car tires made. And on Monterey they're standard! Tests show that the average driver can expect 40,000 miles of tread wear from these radial tires under normal driving conditions.

A smooth, comfortable ride is what Mercurys are all about. And—it's standard at Mercury's low price. A sticker price so low our 2-door hardtop is within $116* to $194* of the "low-priced three" models.

*Based on a comparison of sticker prices for 2-door hardtops: Mercury Monterey vs. full-sized models of the most popular low-price cars. All Mercurys illustrated with optional whitewalls and bumper rub strip. Vinyl roof standard on Marquis Brougham and Cougar XR-7, optional on other Mercurys illustrated. Capri illustrated with optional Decor Group. Mercurys now available with optional engines and power trains.

Carolina, State Top All-ACC Picks

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Duke's Steve Jones was the top vote-getter, but bowl-bound North Carolina and N. C. State dominate in numbers on the 1972 All-Atlantic Coast Conference football team. Jones, the Blue Devils' workhorse tailback, was the only unanimous choice of the members of the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association.

UNC, headed for the Sun Bowl against Texas Tech, and N. C. State, due to meet West Virginia in the Peach Bowl, each placed seven men on the 25-member squad.

Joining Jones in the offensive backfield are three Wolfpack threats—quarterback Bruce Shaw and running backs Stan Fritts and Willie Burden. Top vote-getter among the linemen was guard Ron Rusnak of North Carolina.

Other offensive linemen are center Dale Grimes of Duke, guard Bill Yoest of N. C. State and tackles Rick Druschel of N. C. State and Jerry Sain of North Carolina.

The wide receivers are Dave Sullivan of Virginia and Pat Kenney of N. C. State. Sullivan led the league in passes caught and Kenney in yardage gained on passes.

Fritts, a sophomore, was joined by two other yearlings on the defensive team, North Carolina linebacker Jimmy DeRatt and Maryland defensive back Bob Smith.

The down linemen on the team are ends Gene Brown of North Carolina, and Melvin Parker of Duke and tackles Ed Newman of Duke, Eric Hyman of North Carolina, and Frank Wirth of Clemson.

The linebackers include DeRatt, Maryland's Paul Vellano, Wake Forest's Nick Arcaro and North Carolina's Mike Mansfield.

In the backfield is Duke's Bill Hanenberg, the leading vote-getter among the defenders, North Carolina's Lou Angelo, and N. C. State's Mike Stultz.

The kicking specialist is Wake Forest's Chuck Ramsey. Hanenberg, Newman, Sain and Rusnak were selected on the 1971 team, but Newman was picked then as an offensive tackle.

Here is the 1972 All-Atlantic Coast Conference team, selected by the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association; figures after the players' names represent votes received:

Freshman Sparkles In Opening Win For Terps

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
John Wooden of UCLA and Denny Crum of Louisville, two of the nation's leading collegiate basketball coaches, have been among the most outspoken against the new rule allowing freshmen to play varsity ball.

Coaches Lefty Driesell of Maryland, Fred Snowden of Arizona and Dick Lloyd of Rutgers would have to disagree with them ... especially following Wednesday night's games. Driesell watched his star freshman, John Lucas, net 19 points in his varsity debut as third-ranked Maryland set a school scoring record in routing Brown 127-82.

Snowden, coaching his first game at Arizona, had a successful debut as 17-year-old freshman Eric Money produced 37 points and the Wildcats beat California State-Bakersfield 94-87.

And Lloyd employed three freshmen in his starting lineup, including Phil Sellers, who scored 30 points, as the Scarlet Knight whipped Georgetown, D.C. 98-83.

Lucas, a 6-foot-3 guard from Durham, N.C., scored four points and assisted on another basket as Maryland scored eight straight points early in the first half and took a commanding 22-14 lead.

Tom McMillen topped Maryland with 22 points, while Vaughn Clarke led Brown with 28.

Money, also a guard, connected on 14 of 20 field goal attempts as Arizona shot a blistering 65 per cent from the field.

Sellers, a 6-5 forward from Brooklyn, N.Y., connected from all over the court and grabbed 10 rebounds, while his Rutgers teammate, John Somogyi added 26 points. Mike Staokes, one of four starting freshmen for Georgetown, paced the Hoyas with 21 points.

Meanwhile, All-America Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer last season with a 36.3 average, connected for 30 points as seventh-ranked Southwestern Louisiana beat Nevada-Las Vegas 102-92.

California State-Fullerton surprised Oklahoma State, 56-55, with the help of 16 points by Urie McLemore. Penn State capitalized on 24 Princeton turnovers and beat the Tigers 64-57. Jim Crawford fired in 29 points, hauled down 11 rebounds and had seven assists, leading LaSalle to a 75-59 victory over Lehigh.

Jim Brown's 27 points sparked Dartmouth to an 86-85 triumph over Vermont in the coaching debuts of the winners' Tom O'Connor and the losers' Peter Salzberg. Sophomore Dave Hampton's 16 points paced Navy to a 77-34 romp over Haverford. Billy Knight's 28 points keyed Pitt's 75-69 triumph over Mt. Union.

And Tennessee State, the Associated Press' college division champion last season, opened its 1972-73 campaign with an 87-63 victory over Alabama A&M.

When Sandy Koufax was inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame he paid a glowing tribute to ex-Dodger pitching coach Joe Becker. "He pushed me and embarrassed me, but he made me a pitcher," said the ex-southpaw. Koufax set seven records.

Baker Named Furman Coach

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Art Baker, an assistant for the past three years at Texas Tech, has accepted the head football coaching job at Furman University.

"I like the challenge at Furman," said the former Clemson assistant and head coach at Eau Claire High School in Columbia.

"I have had an objective to be a head coach and felt that it was time to make the move,"

he said Wednesday after Furman officials announced he had accepted the position.

Baker, who compiled a 43-16 record at Eau Claire during six seasons before joining the Clemson staff in 1965, said he will make his staff selections within a few days.

"I've got a good idea who I want, but of course I haven't had time yet to go through the proper channels before hiring any assistants," he said.

A native of Sumter, S.C., Baker joined the Texas Tech staff in 1970.

He said the opportunity to return to South Carolina played a large part in his decision to accept the Furman position, replacing Bob King who is retiring after 15 years as the Paladins' head man.

Blues Festival Drew Best Of Past

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Some of the time-weathered blues men were so old they hobbled onto the stage, but the music they produced wasn't the least bit lame.

The scene: the Second Annual River City Blues Festival, an aggregation of the best of what's left of the true blues musicians from up and down the Mississippi River—mostly ancient black men whose early records are now collector's items.

The names from the past: Bukka White, Furry Lewis, Thelma "Speedy" Ashford, Sam Chatmon, Jimmy Deberry, Mrs. Van Hunt, Houston Stackhouse, Harmonica Frank Floyd, Big Sam Clark, Willie Morris, "Piano Red" Williams, Joe Willie Wilkins and his King Biscuit Boys.

The festival brought them together under one roof last weekend and they showed the spectators just what "the blues" really is.

Take the rhythm of Africa, throw in a dash of the old work songs of the cottonfields, blend in the mood of the lazy southern rivers, and decades of oppression in which happy moments didn't come easy, then sprinkle in a thousand other ingredients and you can, perhaps, define the blues.

Whatever it is, it is not brassy. Nobody at the festival of the "old blues" brought a horn—it was guitars, harmonicas and pianos.

The music created on them was enough to drift the audience into a head-nodding rhythm so they could keep the beat with hands and feet.

Sam Chatham, born in 1899 in Hinds County, Miss., is holding down a nightwatchman's job these days. But he stroked a guitar with nimble fingers and told the spectators, "You've just been sitting" there, now I'm going to run you out." He did "St. Louis Blues."

Many of the songs didn't have names—they were a feeling expressed in music for which there was no name other than "the blues."

The names of other songs told the story, mostly of lost women, hard times and down and out on whisky—"Doggone Sugar Blues Done Soured On Me," and "Got To Stop My Boogie 'Cause My Woogie Don't Work No More."

Perhaps the best known of the performers were Bukka White and Furry Lewis.

White, 63, a native of Houston, Miss., is a cousin of and was the musical inspiration for contemporary bluesman B. B. King. White started recording for Victor in 1930, then hoboed around the country and ended up in the mid-30s in Parchman Prison in Mississippi.

Just before that, he had recorded a best seller, "Shake 'Em On Down," for Arc. He did 14 songs while in prison and they were released on Herwin and did not sell well. They have since been re-issued by Columbia under the title "Parchman Farm."

Prison life apparently left its scar on White and he dropped off the music scene until he was re-discovered in the 1960s. Now, he gets request for performances from overseas as well as in the United States.

Furry Lewis, 79, is an ex-street cleaner, ex-hobo, ex-medicine show man. He's been recording since 1927 under a number of companies.

The only white performer at the River City Blues Festival was Harmonica Frank Floyd, who strums a guitar while playing the harmonica, held in his mouth without the assistance of a rack.

Floyd, 64, achieved modest fame in the 1920s through 40s, mostly on radio. He did a few records over the years, the last of which were in 1950 for the Memphis labels Chess and Sun.

Because of his style, many thought he was black. He dropped off the scene until last January, when he was rediscovered and immediately got invitations to the National Folk Festival and the Smithsonian Institutes Festival of American Folklife.

The show did not attract any stars in expensive suits. Instead, Bukka White wore a shorty tie that was out of style 20 years ago. Baggy pants and mothy sweaters were the order of dress.

"We don't play no rock-n-roll," one of the performers said backstage to a reporter. And Furry Lewis, standing in the wings before the curtain, killed the last of his pint of bourbon, getting in the mood for "the blues."

Television For 'Lost Audience'

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pay television soon will reach the age of 21. In theory, that is.

Over-the-air pay television has been stymied for years. Finally, it appears, such fare as first-run movies and sporting events soon will begin arriving in some homes over the cable.

Experimental pay television operations — riding piggyback over existing cable systems — now are being wired in such places as San Diego, Calif.; Harrisburg, Pa.; and Sarasota, Fla. A number of equipment manufacturers, cable systems, movie studios and independent entrepreneurs are working to enter this potentially lucrative market.

The Federal Communications Commission cleared the way for cable pay television last spring, although it is still mulling over how the industry will be regulated.

"There is no question that a portion of the future of cable TV lies in what we call premium programming," said David H. Foster, president of the National Cable Television Association. "There are many to appeal to a mass audience but will induce people to pay a fee."

Pay television is after that lost audience that no longer goes out to the movies but does stay home and watch television. The motion picture industry, which has seen its audience shrink and the average age of the moviegoer drop to 29 years, feels it needs the home audience in order to survive.

Only about 15 per cent of the television homes currently are wired for cable, but pay television is built on the premise that as cable becomes more widespread this audience will be willing to pay several dollars a week to watch movies and such sporting events as home team games.

"You can't get people to go out. I don't care what you offer. The only alternative is to bring the movies to them," said Geoffrey Nathanson, president of Optical Systems Inc. of Los Angeles, which is installing the San Diego system.

When that system goes into operation, possibly in January, it will offer two movies a week that are less than two years old and have completed their initial theater run in the city. Movies up to an R rating will be shown uncut and without commercial interruption for an average weekly cost of $1.25 a week, Nathanson said.

The Home Theater Network of Los Angeles plans to begin testing its pay system in Harrisburg in January. A spokesman said it hoped to have the system available to the entire city in late spring and to offer it to other cities thereafter.

Trans-World Communications, a division of Columbia Pictures Industries Inc., which operates pay television in hotels, recently unveiled a set-top converter which will allow up to four channels of pay television programming along with 22 off-the-air and local origination channels. Its system will be tested in Sarasota.

Foster said he did not see cable pay television seriously jeopardizing free television. He said he expected to see a number of systems in operation within a year.

"It's a very lively competitive industry," Foster said, "and no one yet has a clear idea of how it will end up."

Formula For Clear X-Ray

MIKWAUKEE (UPI) — A taste of honey and tantalum dust can provide the clearest x-ray picture of the esophagus yet obtained, radiologists here claim.

The esophagus, like the stomach, must be outlined for x-ray examination with a contrast medium to make it opaque to x-rays but swallowed contrast material usually moves too swiftly down the gullet to obtain the best x-ray studies possible.

Drs. Wylie J. Dodds, Patrick S. McGlaughlin and Thomas G. Dehn at the Medical College of Wisconsin and Dr. Henry I. Goldberg at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, have been conducting research to solve the problem.

They mix a dust of tantalum, which is opaque to x-rays, with honey, cellulose and esophageal creams and find that the tantalum adheres to the walls of the esophagus 10 minutes or longer. Good x-ray studies are obtained even after a patient takes two swallows of water on top of the honey-tantalum mixture. Although its use is only experimental, they expect the mixture will go into general use because of its effectiveness and because it has no side effects.

Keep suitcases in storage from developing a musty odor. Put an unwrapped bar of scented soap inside.

To begin with, our Ford Torino is the solid mid-size car. Why quit when you're ahead?

Maybe "swinger" is getting to be an old word, but that kind of feeling is built right into Ford Gran Torino Sport. Adding special bucket seats and a vinyl roof attracts even more nice looks. And that kind of attention is important to a girl.

Basics. Nothin' too fancy. But not just plain old "plain." Good looks, good room, good power with a reasonable price tag. That's Ford Torino.

All 1973 cars must meet Federal Emissions Standards before sale. See your Ford Dealer for details.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 NT Pass 3 Pass
4 Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Queen of ♠

North and South reached a contract of four hearts in today's hand, and South, the declarer, was set one trick on what he contended was a perfectly normal line of play.

North opened the bidding with one no trump and South, holding 10 high card points and a five card suit, jumped to three hearts to offer his partner a choice of contract. North chose to raise hearts since he held normal trump support. Since his distribution was evenly balanced and he had numerous holdings that he might prefer having led up to, it appears that three no trump is a better rebid.

West opened the queen of spades against four hearts and held the trick when all hands ducked. West continued with the jack which was also ducked. The third round was ruffed by declarer.

The queen of hearts was led for a finesse, West covered with the king and dummy played the ace. A heart was returned and South put up the ten from his hand. When West showed out, declarer's defeat was assured, for he still had to lose a heart and a club.

When the deal was concluded, North observed that his partner could have made the hand by finessing against East's trump holding. Observe that, after the first heart trick is completed, South retains two honors in the suit in back of East's 9-8-6. When the deuce is led from dummy and East follows with the six, declarer can win the trick by merely covering with the seven. If East chooses to split his sequence by putting up the eight, South tops this spot with an honor, crosses back to the dummy, and picks up the nine-six next on a simple finesse.

Altho South did not dispute his partner's analysis, he claimed that it would have required a peek into the opponents' holding to warrant so unnatural a play in the trump suit. North disagreed, and this was his reasoning:

"Since South intends to finesse for the king of trumps, he must lead a heart honor from his hand; however, it is not essential that that card be the queen. Playing the ten will suit his purpose just as well, and may provide him with additional information about the distribution."

"When West covers the ten of hearts with the king, South can deduce it is a singleton for, if West has the king doubleton, the play of the king will sacrifice a trick for the defense if East holds the jack and one or two small hearts. Once he has reached the conclusion that West has a singleton heart, the winning play in the suit becomes obvious."

While there is much to be said for North's point of view and we are in basic agreement with his observations, perhaps one qualification is in order. Declarer should take into consideration the quality of his opponents before drawing an inference from their play. After all, a less experienced defender might err and cover an honor when he shouldn't.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a good chance today to think out a course of action whereby you can have more pleasure and happiness with those to whom you are most drawn. Fine time for thinking out your gift list as well as making plans for the coming holiday season.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know exactly what you expect from loyal friends, then state your aims to them and get the cooperation you want. Plan to reconcile with one who means much to you. Be cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Brightening your abode or place of business can do much to raise the morale and efficiency there. Taking steps to please kin will add to present harmony. Show that you are a capable person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you make the right appointments early in the morning, you can make this a most productive day. Show particular devotion to mate and clear up any misunderstanding. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Meet with financial experts and work out a plan that will give you greater income in the future. An ideal evening for entertaining at home and showing your family off to others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A fine day to visit with key persons for whatever special plans you may have in mind. Shopping for holiday gifts at this time is wise. Buy appliances that make your work easier and more efficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make new arrangement for handling money matters and you get fine results. A business expert can give you pointers now. Show that you have a fine head on your shoulders. Be more practical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use all that magnetism you have today to charm all and get right results. Dress nicely and accept all invitations extended to you. Try not to be so blunt when conversing with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Start making preparations now for the holidays ahead so that you won't have to rush later on. Take care of important business tasks. The evening is ideal for happiness with your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan to spend more time with your associates so that you can make better plans for the future. Do the shopping that is necessary and get the right items at the right price. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get in touch with a higher-up and discuss a plan you have in mind. You can get the support you need by asking for it. Taking part in some civic work can help you in your career at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Visit new places and obtain the information you need for advancement in your career. Plan other excursions for the near future that are also helpful. Your good judgment brings fine results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can keep the promises you have made to others easily if you listen to your intuitive promptings in the morning. Come to a far better understanding with mate by being more reasonable and kind.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming young people who will have social know-how since there is a fine combination of give and take here. Give as fine an education as you can since your progeny requires academic training if this fine mind is to achieve all the promise in this interesting chart. The family life here will be ideal. Don't neglect religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

(1) Hire non-smokers.
For smokers waste more time and cause a lot more fires (including factory explosion).
(2) Employ non-drinkers.
For it is Saturday and Sunday night liquor parties that cause the tremendous absenteeism on Monday mornings.
The wives of these men who have hangovers, then phone that their husbands are "very sick."
(3) Pick married men, preferably with children, for they are more dependable.
They don't stay out till 2 or 3 A.M. on Sunday nights and then fall asleep on the job on Monday.
(4) Select active church members, for they believe in the "Golden Rule" and thus "go that second mile," instead of cheating or welching on production.
(5) Choose former newspaper carriers, for they understand the problems of the Establishment, since they bought, merchandised and then tried to collect for their efforts.
Newspaper carriers thus realize the difference between "gross" income vs. "net."
They know that a big corporation's published gross sales of $100 millions don't mean $100 millions of profits or "net" income!
(6) Employ former farmers or operators of small businesses and retail stores.
For they understand the problems of management and cooperate better.

Planning ahead can save wear on the temper and make your vacation more pleasant.

Dick Gregory Here Tuesday

Former high-school athlete, entertainer, civil rights worker Dick Gregory is next on the 1972-73 Lecture Series at East Carolina University sponsored by the Student Union Association.

Blind Student Leads a 'Normal Life'

BLIND BUT NOT HELPLESS — Eddie Weaver, blind since he was six, works as a student office assistant at his school, giving guided tours and operating communications and printing equipment.

By HENRY BOSTIC
Charlotte News Writer
Written for The AP
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Eddie Weaver works as a student office assistant, gives guided tours of his school, drives a riding lawnmower, is a Boy Scout, rides a bicycle. In fact, he does just about anything he wants to do. Nothing unusual about that. Most 16-year-olds do. But Eddie Weaver isn't just any 16-year-old. He's blind—totally blind—and has been since he was six. That doesn't stop him from leading a normal life—so normal it takes strangers a while to realize he has a visual handicap, and people close to him sometimes forget he's blind. "I don't want to be treated differently," said Eddie. "I may be blind, but I do all right."

One of Eddie's biggest fans, Mrs. Beth A. Archer, secretary at Sedgewick Junior High School where he's a ninth grader, thinks Eddie's more than all right—"he's fantastic."

"We were skeptical when Eddie applied to be an office assistant last year," Mrs. Archer recalled. "But after a week, all doubts were gone. Tell him one time. That's all."

As an office assistant, he answers the telephone, uses the intercom system, distributes mail, counts money, uses the adding machine and typewriter, operates the duplicating machine as well as other duties. He's learning how to operate the more complicated mimeograph machine now. When a visitor comes to the school, he conducts tours.

"What's so remarkable about Eddie is his attitude and his sense of humor," said Mrs. Archer.

"Just the other day he was getting some records out of the vault. After scrambling around in the vault for a few minutes, he called out, 'Hay, Mrs. Archer, we're going to have to get the janitor to put a bigger light bulb in here so I can see.'"

"A few days later, when he was in the vault again he told me, 'I see somebody put in a bigger bulb.'"

Mrs. Archer recalled another incident. The school's teacher mail pigeon-holes were rearranged and color-coded.

"That crossed Eddie up for a while," Mrs. Archer said, "but he knows 'em all now."

"Yea," Eddie interjected, "they put the teachers' pictures beside their boxes to help me out."

A Maiden native, Eddie moved to Charlotte with his family in the early 1960s after he had lost his sight.

He could see through the first grade, but after that school year he suffered detached retinas. Three operations were unsuccessful.

"I'm kinda glad it happened when I was young," said Eddie. "I know it would hit me much harder now."

After losing two years, he returned to second grade at Sedgewick Elementary. He never went to the State School for the Blind in Raleigh.

"I didn't want to. The program's not that good there and I wanted to be at home with my friends."

Throughout elementary school he received special help from a teacher of the visually handicapped who, among other things, taught him to read braille, to use braille and regular typewriters.

An "A" student who hopes to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Eddie uses various techniques for doing classwork from reading braille textbooks to using his girlfriend's notes in social studies and language arts. For written work, he uses a typewriter.

About two years ago he learned to use a walking cane through the Mecklenburg Association for the Blind.

Eddie carried his retractable cane while leading a reporter on a campus tour, but he seldom used it.

Walking through hallways and down stairways, he accurately pointed out various classrooms, lounges and offices.

"I never count steps," Eddie said. "I can tell where I am by the sounds the walls give off, the different echos."

But, said Mrs. Archer, "I'm not sure whether Eddie even needs his cane. I've noticed he never uses it when taking girls on tours."

He knows all the teachers and most of his fellow ninth graders by the sound of their voices, but admits he has trouble recognizing seventh and eighth graders.

At home, Eddie says he gets no special treatment and admits to having his share of disagreements with an older brother and sister.

His parents let him do pretty much what he wants. He rides a bicycle, goes skating at a nearby rink, rides horses, plays basketball and baseball with his brother and is a member of the local Boy Scout troop for the handicapped.

But his newest pastime is driving the riding lawnmower around his backyard. He admits to having put a number of miles and "quite a few dents" in the mower since this summer.

Since Eddie's family has now moved out of the Sedgewick School district, his father, who works nearby, takes him to and from school. He arrives about 7:30 a.m. and leaves between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Before and after school, he helps out in the office.

Before school he operates the school store, selling paper and pencils to other students.

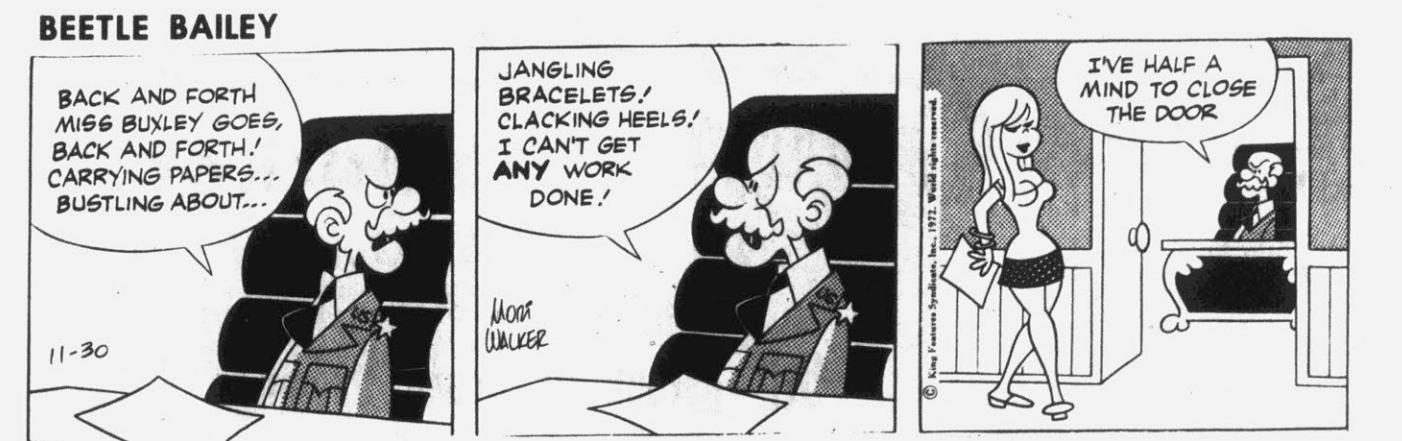

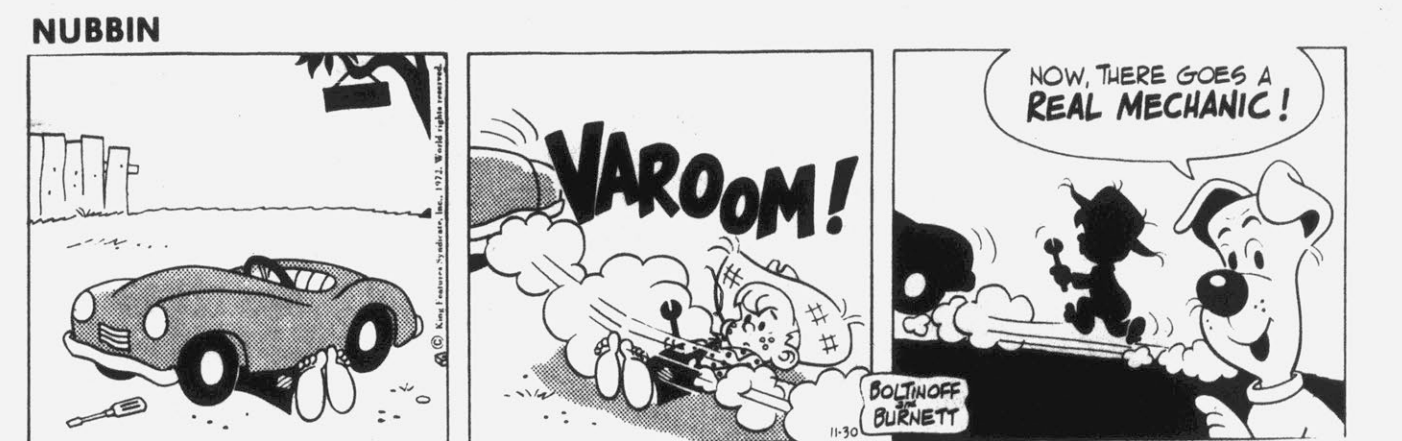

Only one student has tried to take advantage of him. The student gave Eddie what he said was 10 pennies, but one was a foreign coin. "I guess the student didn't realize I could feel the difference," he said as a smile spread across his face.

Eddie had high praise for Mrs. Archer and the staff and teachers at Sedgewick. "I really appreciate the way they have treated me just like everybody else," he said.

Mrs. Archer returned the compliment, saying she's convinced Eddie will have little trouble attaining his ambition of becoming a lawyer.

"With his drive, attitude and determination, there's no way he can fail," she said.

But she is reluctant to let him leave Sedgewick this spring. "He helps me so much. I guess I'll just have to go back to work."

Since Eddie's family has now moved out of the Sedgewick School district, his father, who works nearby, takes him to and from school. He arrives about 7:30 a.m. and leaves between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Before and after school, he helps out in the office.

Before school he operates the school store, selling paper and pencils to other students.

Only one student has tried to take advantage of him. The student gave Eddie what he said was 10 pennies, but one was a foreign coin. "I guess the student didn't realize I could feel the difference," he said as a smile spread across his face.

Eddie had high praise for Mrs. Archer and the staff and teachers at Sedgewick. "I really appreciate the way they have treated me just like everybody else," he said.

Mrs. Archer returned the compliment, saying she's convinced Eddie will have little trouble attaining his ambition of becoming a lawyer.

"With his drive, attitude and determination, there's no way he can fail," she said.

But she is reluctant to let him leave Sedgewick this spring. "He helps me so much. I guess I'll just have to go back to work."

An "A" student who hopes to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Eddie uses various techniques for doing classwork from reading braille textbooks to using his girlfriend's notes in social studies and language arts. For written work, he uses a typewriter.

About two years ago he learned to use a walking cane through the Mecklenburg Association for the Blind.

Eddie carried his retractable cane while leading a reporter on a campus tour, but he seldom used it.

Walking through hallways and down stairways, he accurately pointed out various classrooms, lounges and offices.

"I never count steps," Eddie said. "I can tell where I am by the sounds the walls give off, the different echos."

But, said Mrs. Archer, "I'm not sure whether Eddie even needs his cane. I've noticed he never uses it when taking girls on tours."

He knows all the teachers and most of his fellow ninth graders by the sound of their voices, but admits he has trouble recognizing seventh and eighth graders.

At home, Eddie says he gets no special treatment and admits to having his share of disagreements with an older brother and sister.

Frinks Again Is Arrested

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Civil rights leader Golden Frinks has again been arrested for parading without a permit.

Frinks, a field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was arrested late Wednesday night in Wilson as he led a crowd of 200 black youths down the main street.

He has been organizing protests there against the city school system, saying that its disciplinary procedures are unfairly applied against blacks.

City manager T.B. Boyette said the crowd dispersed after Frinks was arrested and only one other arrest was made. An unidentified youth was charged with breaking a store window as he walked away.

Frinks was arrested in Pitt County last year for leading marches without permits that were staged to protest the killing of a black farm laborer by a white highway patrolman.

Kashmir has been under a succession of foreign rulers for at least 2,000 years.

NOTICE
NORTH CAROLINA
PITT COUNTY
The following described lands and timber will be offered for sale to the highest bidder for cash by the undersigned at the door of the Pitt County Courthouse, Greenville, North Carolina, at twelve o'clock noon, on Friday, December 1, 1972, or on any day thereafter, subject to the conditions hereinafter stated.

The lands are generally described as being located on the Smith Road N.C. Secondary Road No. 1212) at or near Site "C", Voice of America, in Arthur Township, Pitt County, containing approximately 79.06 acres, including approximately 29 acres of cropland and the balance being woodland in two tracts. This farm has two tobacco barns in good condition and includes two sets of John Deere burners; one pack barn (or tenant house).

This farm is identified by Pitt County ASCS Farm Serial No. C-4636 and the 1972 crop allotments were 13 acres corn base, 1.1 acres cotton and 3.32 acres of tobacco, with base poundage of 6,693 pounds.

All timber upon said farm will first be offered for sale to the highest bidder for cash with the timber to be clean cut (including pulpwood) with the buyer to have one year to cut and remove all such timber. The land will then be offered for sale to the highest bidder for cash and both the timber and land will then be offered to the highest bidder for cash and the highest bidder or bidder at this sale will be immediately notified at the sale whether their bid is accepted.

This sale will be free and clear of all mortgages and encumbrances including Ad Valorem Taxes for 1972 and the highest bidder will be required to make a deposit of 10 percent of his bid if his bid is accepted and thereafter be given thirty days time within which time to complete the transaction.

The timber land and the farm may be inspected by any prospective bidder by contacting Mark Smith, Telephone 752-7877, Greenville, North Carolina.

This 15th day of November, 1972. Dwight B. Youngblood, Attorney-in-Fact for Owners. Route 3, Smithfield, North Carolina. Telephone: 924-2919. Nov. 17, 24, 30, 1972.
