Apollo 17 Lifting Off Tonight For Moon

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Seventeen, the last of America's proud Apollo flights to the moon, lifts into the dark on a column of fire tonight — a dazzling windup to an epoch of lunar exploration.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt were pictured as "all charged and ready" for the 13-day journey that may be man's final visit in this century to his celestial neighbor.

The blastoff is scheduled for 9:53 p.m. EST. Despite the few ever-present hitches, launch officials called the countdown of Apollo 17 one of the most trouble-free in the 11-flight Apollo series.

The skyscraper-tall Saturn 5 rocket and its cargo of men, scientific equipment and sacrificial mice will rise with a hellish roar on a 2,200-foot tail of flame that may be visible 500 miles away.

For the half million or more people expected in the area, weather conditions were not perfect. The forecast called for considerable cloudiness at 12,000 feet — the altitude the rocket reaches in less than a minute.

Weather posed less problems for space officials. Launch director Walter Kapryan said there would be a threat to ontime liftoff only if upper-level clouds contain ice particles that might create lightning strikes as the rocket slices through. He discounted the possibility.

The wives and children of Cernan and Evans said goodbye to the astronauts across a glass barrier Tuesday night. Schmitt, a geologist and the first scientist to go to the moon, is a bachelor.

Most of the Apollo astronauts, including many of the 10 men who have walked the moon, are at the cape to watch the historic last.

"There's a lot of good natured kidding between the veterans and the youngsters," said Adm. Alan Shepard, chief of the astronaut office and the first man in space.

"They're anxious to go," he said of Cernan, a two-flight veteran, and space rookies Evans and Schmitt. "They all seem to be feeling confident. They are all charged and ready for their part of the countdown."

The Apollo 17 astronauts have been sleeping later each day to adjust their biological timeclocks for an early afternoon wakeup. Their schedule calls for a light snack on arising, a medical examination in early evening and dinner 3½ hours before launch.

Although this is the last moon flight, it is not the end of space exploration. Three crews of three men each plan to man an earth-orbiting laboratory for periods of one and two months next year, and the space shuttle is in prospect for the late 1970s.

Cernan and Schmitt will land on the moon at 2:54 p.m. next Monday near the Taurus mountains and the Littrow crater in the northeast section of the moon. That area is scientifically interesting because it is expected to have the newest, as well as some of the oldest, rocks in the moon's 4.6 billion years of existence.

During their record 75 hours on the lunar surface, the astronauts will explore, collect samples and place experiments — leaving the lunar lander they call Challenger three times for seven-hour periods.

They plan to drive their moon car a total of 25 miles in quest of material that Schmitt said would "fill in missing chapters in the evolution of the moon — the first and the last."

He explained rocks returned by five previous moon-landing crews ranged in age from about 3 billion to 4.2 billion years old.

Evans, in the command ship named America, will conduct experiments from 60 miles over the surface in his 75 revolutions of the moon. By splashdown in the Pacific on Dec. 19, the command pilot will have flown 1.4 million miles.

Keeping Evans company will be five pocket mice that will ride in separate containers in a sealed box. They will be killed on returning to earth in an experiment to determine how cosmic rays might affect man's brain tissue on long space flights of the future.

Silver-haired at 38, Cernan previously has flown in space for three days on Gemini 9 and flew close to the moon in a dress rehearsal for the first landing aboard Apollo 10. He and his wife, Barbara, have a 9-year-old daughter, Tracey.

Schmitt, 37, a civilian, holds a doctorate in geology and was a Fulbright fellow at Harvard before joining the astronaut corps. He helped train the five previous moonwalking teams in geology and is the first scientist in space.

Evans, a Navy commander, is 39, married and the father of a son and daughter. He was flying combat missions in Vietnam when he was chosen an astronaut. He holds eight Air Medals.

Peronists Gain From Coalition

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Other political groups have agreed to join ex-dictator Juan J. Peron's Justicialist party in a broad coalition for Argentina's national elections next March.

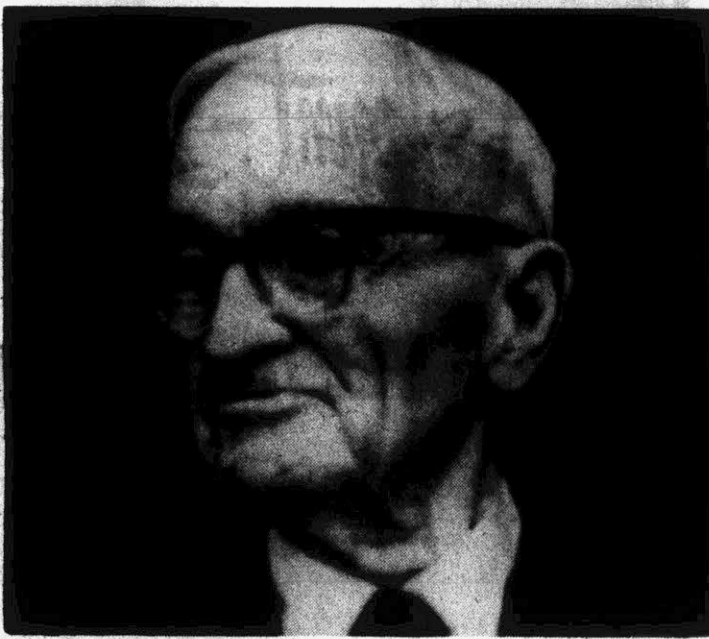

The agreement was announced Tuesday night by Vicente Solano Lima, leader of the small Popular Conservative party. He said 75 per cent of the candidates of the new Justicialist Liberation Front would be Peronists and the rest would come from the minor parties.

Condition Is Serious

HARRY TRUMAN

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dr. Wallace Graham today assessed former President Harry S. Truman's condition as serious, Research Medical Center announced.

Earlier, Truman's condition was listed as fair.

A statement from the hospital at 9:15 a.m. EST by John Dreeves, hospital information director, said Graham had assessed Truman's condition as serious as of 8:55 a.m.

The former president, 88, was taken to the hospital to be treated for what Graham, Truman's personal physician, described as pulmonary congestion, a congestion of the lungs.

The hospital described serious condition as "acutely ill with recovery uncertain. Vital signs may be unstable and not within normal limits. A chance for improved diagnosis."

Dreeves said no further word on Truman's condition would be issued until a scheduled news briefing at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Truman spent part of the night with her husband.

Truman was admitted to the hospital at 6:25 p.m. Tuesday after arriving by ambulance from his home in Independence, 10 miles away.

Truman was taken to the hospital June 28 after a fall at his home. X rays proved negative, and he was returned home 50 minutes later.

On July 2, he entered the hospital for what Dr. Graham described as a routine examination for a "lower gastrointestinal problem." He was released July 17.

Kissinger, Le Duc Tho Hold Long Talk Today; No Statement Issued

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger met with Le Duc Tho for 5½ hours today. No statement was issued at the close of the talks. This was the third meeting between Kissinger and Tho since President Nixon's security adviser returned to Paris Sunday. On Monday they held two sessions, each lasting 2½ hours, then called a 24-hour pause Tuesday.

North Vietnamese sources said the Tuesday break was requested by the American side. During the break, the White House spokesman said Nixon sent new instructions to Kissinger.

The site for the meeting was a house set in a park behind a high wall. The house is owned by Arnaud Clerc, a Paris jeweler of American origin who moved into a hotel so the negotiators could take over the house.

Food and drinks were taken into the house so the Americans and North Vietnamese could lunch on the spot. There was no indication how long they had spent over lunch but early in the afternoon Tho and Kissinger could be seen strolling together in the park.

As the gates opened for the departure of the delegations, newsmen could see Kissinger and Tho in a long handshake. As Tho walked past reporters, he had only a thin smile and did not produce his usual wave of the hand.

Kissinger was smiling and seemingly relaxed.

There have been no announcements of any kind from either side on progress — or lack of it — in the talks. Official spokesmen have refused to give any indication whether Kissinger and Tho are nearing agreement on modifications to the draft cease-fire agreement they worked out in October. White House press secretary Ron Zeigler said there had been heavy cable traffic Tuesday between Paris and the White House during the pause in the negotiations. He said that President Nixon had sent new instructions to Kissinger.

Demo Party In Trouble: Jones

"Party Politics and It's Dilemmas" was Congressman Walter B. Jones' subject when he spoke to the Pitt County Young Democratic Club at a dinner meeting last night.

"The Democratic Party is in trouble," Jones said. He discussed several reasons on the state, as well as the national level.

"Since Pres. Nixon won the North Carolina vote in 1968 and repeated it in 1972, the Democratic Party has to unite and forget its dissensions in order to regain its power and popular appeal. The Democratic Party is not dead, however. This is evidenced by the fact that the Party still has the largest registration and elected a lieutenant governor and attorney general.

"The Democratic Party must regroup, recoup, and make changes," Jones said. "It must seek out the candidate with the most charisma and ability to lead the Party back to unity and organization."

He stressed the importance of the young vote and gave several examples of how the youth contributed hard work in the 1972 campaign on the national, state, and local levels. He praised the youth who worked for him during his most recent campaign.

He also emphasized the importance of the Black vote, which overwhelmingly supported the Democratic Party in 1972.

He received a standing ovation.

Special guests included Pitt County Democratic Chairman Henry Oglesby and County Commissioner Charles Gaskins.

A party was held following the meeting.

U.S. Accepts A Major Part Of Cuban Plan To Deal With Skyjacking

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has accepted a major portion of a Cuban plan to deal with hijacking, including an indirect American pledge to keep anti-Castro refugees from harassing the island.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers incorporated this idea into a draft proposal he sent to Cuba Tuesday by way of Silvio Masnata, the Swiss ambassador to Havana who represents the United States in the absence of formal diplomatic relations.

According to State Department sources, the American draft agreement also accepts the Cuban language including ships as well as aircraft. An American-originated concept is a clause calling for the extradition of hijackers as an alternative to prosecution.

While the State Department declined to publicly discuss the substance of the negotiations, officials privately provided the outlines of the proposals made by both sides and offered an insight into the thinking behind them.

Meanwhile, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe ordered new procedures to protect planes, crew members and passengers from hijackers.

The regulations, which will go into effect within 60 days, require that airports station armed policemen at passenger checkpoints when persons are boarding planes. All passengers will have to be screened electronically before boarding and all carry-on luggage will be inspected prior to takeoff.

State Department sources said the original antihijacking plan offered a week and a half ago by the Fidel Castro government through the Swiss was brief and clear, no more than two pages of double-spaced copy.

The American response, which will be presented by Masnata this weekend, incorporates the provisions laid out by the Cubans on including ships and preventing raids and other acts of harassment.

The issue of the ships was particularly important to Havana since much of the past anti-Castro activity has come from vessels used to land raiders. Also, refugees seeking to flee the island often hijacked ships to make their escape.

In another indirect reference to preventing anti-Castro activity, the American proposal includes language similar to U.S. neutrality laws. These prohibit use of American territory and property to interfere in the affairs of another nation.

American officials said that the negotiations so far have not involved the give-and-take trading usually associated with efforts at reaching international agreements.

With the Swiss and State Department publicly enthusiastic, some officials look for a signing of an agreement early next year.

up only slightly in October, total nonfarm employment showed a strong gain to a record high level. The state's unemployment rate dropped from 3.1 to 3 per cent, the lowest level since September of 1969.

On the factory labor front, tobacco jobs were at their lowest level in years on a seasonally adjusted basis, but textile employment remained stable and furniture employment continued a steady advance.

"There continues to be a strong upward expansion in retail sales which are running some 14 per cent ahead of last year on a cumulative basis," Wachovia reported.

It said bank debits indicated total spending was down slightly in October, "But continues to remain strong over last year." For the first 10 months of 1972 bank debits showed a gain of 22 per cent over last year, with Charlotte experiencing a 31 per cent rise.

The rate of gain in construction activity may have slowed in recent weeks, but "both residential and non-residential building continued to be strong." The volume of building permits in 18 North Carolina cities was up 7.4 per cent through October on a cumulative year-to-year basis.

"October was one of the strongest months for new car sales since the federal excise tax was first lifted on new automobiles more than a year ago," it said. "New car sales jumped 12 per cent during the month and were up 17 per cent over a year ago."

Heavy Agenda For City Council Meeting

Seventeen items are on the December agenda of the City Council meeting at 8:00 p.m. Thursday night in City Hall.

Under old business, public hearings are scheduled on rezoning of Tuckahoe North development are near the intersection of State Road 1534 and N.C. Highway 30 (Pactolus Highway) from RA-20 residential to a mixture of three zones—unoffensive industry; highway commercial and office and institutional; on three requests for mobile home permits—by Tarheel Toyota at the intersection of Trade and Bismark Streets; International Mobile Homes at the corner of Greenville Boulevard S.W. and St. Andrews Drive; and the Mobile Home Center at the intersection of U.S. 264 bypass and Memorial Drive. The final group of public hearings are on renewal of two mobile home permits, one for Calvary Baptist Church at 1412 Hobart Street and the other for Huey Harrison at 152 West Gum Road.

Also under old business, appointments to boards and commissions will be considered.

Most of the agenda consists of items of new business, including a request for a pool room permit by Bennie Roundtree at 623 Albermarle Street; a request for a certificate of convenience and necessity by Larry J. Early of the Radio Cab Company; and a request for a taxicab permit by Mrs. Dorothy L. Langley.

Three requests for rezoning are to be heard. The first by J.T. Williams to rezone from RA-20 residential to highway commercial property on the south side of East Tenth Street extended; a second is a request to rezone the O.E. Whichard property adjacent to the Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company in four zones; and the third is a request to rezone the Barnhill Contracting Company property north of Tar River adjacent to the bypass under construction from RA-20 to highway commercial.

Other agenda items are a recommend award of a contract for repair service in the amount of about $6,700 to A.E. Finley and Associates for repair of the 1968 Elgin Street Sweeper; a resolution urging the expansion of the School of Medicine at East Carolina University; and presentation of a resolution honoring Colonel Harry E. Hagerty, former City Manager.

Also on the agenda is an invitation to participate in the inauguration of Governor-elect Jim Holshouser; recommended approval of insurance premiums totaling $5,147.90 to eight insurance agencies; and recommendation of payment of $573.37 in legal fees to City Attorney David Reid in connection with the collection of a claim on behalf of the city for damages at the Sheppard Memorial Library.

Somebody Took Away Crude Oil

RUSSELL, Kan. (AP) — Someone in Russell County apparently is starting his own backyard refinery.

The Russell County Sheriff's office received a report earlier this week from the John O. Farmer Oil Co. that 80 barrels of crude oil had been stolen from a storage tank near here. The theft was discovered during one of two routine daily readings of gauges on the tank.

Officers said it would take two trucks to haul away that much oil and were more or less at a loss to explain why anyone would want the crude oil.

N.C. Economy Continues Edge Upward In October

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's economy continued to edge upward during October and Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. economists say "strength in consumer spending is expected to boost the North Carolina economy through the remainder of 1972 and on into 1973."

Wachovia reported its North Carolina Business Index gained 0.1 per cent and reached a level of 123.6 which is 6.2 per cent above the year ago figure.

Sharing Shoes Can Lead To A Friendship

By Abigail Van Buren
(c. 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the amputee who voiced complaint over the necessity of purchasing two shoes when only one was needed: She (or he) should have mentioned her shoe size and which appendage had been pruned—and the chances are that several shoe-mates might have responded. I'm an amputee myself, and I'm always on the prowl for a female, minus her left leg, who wears a size 6-B. Sharing shoes can be the basis for a beautiful friendship. Her left for my right is a profitable swap. Since the demise of the shoe exchange—originally in St. Louis and then Santa Monica—amputees are pretty much on their own. Of course, an amputee can have a custom-designed shoe made, but this is usually more costly than purchasing a pair and discarding one.

I'm an old hand—or I guess I should say an "old foot"—at this business. I've used crutches for almost 55 years.

LOUISE

DEAR LOUISE: I have some wonderful news for you. If you want to know where in your area you can buy one shoe, write to me. One shot in my column asking readers if they knew of such a place brought hundreds of responses. Unpeds of the world—unite. It's a shoe-in!

DEAR ABBY: Let "AFRAID OF DOGS" try this: If a dog approaches in a menacing manner, say, "Shalom" in a firm but cordial way. Keep repeating it until the dog retreats and stops barking.

I tried this once, by accident, and it worked, so now I do it every time a dog looks like it is going to attack me. As many as three barking dogs have come toward me at once, and I kept repeating, "Shalom, Shalom," and, thank goodness, it's always worked.

SHALOM IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR SHALOM: Those dogs must have boned up on their Hebrew!

DEAR ABBY: If your recent column on fire safety saves even one life, its worth becomes priceless. May I add to it?

The day I arrived home from the hospital, virtually helpless in a heavy cast, the fire chief paid me a visit. He noted the nature of my disability, and pointed out alternate escape routes. He then placed a large red fluorescent sticker on my front door to notify the first responding fire fighter that there was an invalid in the house.

When I could walk again, I notified the fire department. They came and removed the sticker to prevent firemen from risking their lives and wasting precious time on a needless search.

Thank heavens, nothing happened in the interim, but it was most reassuring to know that somebody cared and was prepared.

W. K., ALAMEDA, CAL.

DEAR W. K.: Many other communities also take such precautions, but congratulations to Alameda for having received the highest national award for its fire-prevention efforts.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column from the woman who said she was looking for a man who put God first in his life, his family second, and his business last, interested me.

I once knew such a man. He's now a Catholic priest. Sign me, "LOST OUT" . . . or NUMBER TWO

800 Toys Banned—But There Are Still Dangers

By SIDNEY MARGOLIS
NEW YORK (WNS)—This ought to be a little safer Christmas for the children in your family. Since the Toy Safety Act was enacted three years ago, the Bureau of Product Safety of the Food and Drug Administration has banned over 800 toys considered to be unduly hazardous.

But don't be lulled into thinking your children are fully protected because there is a law forbidding unsafe playthings. There are about 150,000 different toy items on the market, and some 5,000 new ones are introduced each year. It is difficult for the government to check them all. Moreover, you can't even be sure that some of banned toys are not still being sold. The stores themselves often do not know which toys were banned. In the final analysis, you yourself have to be careful of what you buy.

Some of the cheap imported toys have been especially hazardous. The most notorious examples are the rattles with metal prongs or small objects in a brittle plastic case, which the FDA and other authorities have tried to get off the market when they appear. It is hard to control the imports because there are so many small importers bringing in the same toys.

Perhaps the most urgent precaution in buying toys is to be sure that they are suitable for the age of the child. Many toy packages now are labeled with the age group. This label is more than just a "suitability" concept. The recommended age group is the manufacturer's evaluation of what age the toy is safe for. Thus, this label has important safety and legal implications.

Other Hazards

Other hazards may become apparent on close inspection, such as sharp points, hinges that can squeeze fingers, small objects that a child can swallow, and pins and wires used to hold ribbons or eyes or to shape playthings. For example, some inexpensive dolls and toy animals are shaped by sharp wires which may become exposed if a leg comes off the toy.

As one woman wrote me last year, "because we read your article on toy safety we were alert enough to remove the enclosed 'eye' from our child's stuffed animal before he did it himself." The plastic eye was anchored to the stuffed toy with a long-sharp wire.

As an example of danger of wired toys, earlier this year New York State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz persuaded the importers of a wired toy rabbit not to sell it in that state. The so-called "Bendable Rabbit," manufactured in Hong Kong, had wires throughout the body and those in the ears were considered especially dangerous to a child.

Hong Kong, Japan and Taiwan are leading sources of dangerous toys, in that order, analysis of the toy bans indicates.

Lawn darts and archery sets that were not labeled with proper warnings against use by small children have also been banned.

Electrical toys, such as toy ovens and plug-in irons which heat up, and electrical hobby kits, also have caused problems. One problem is that such toys often are brought for children too young to observe safety precautions.

Xylophones

In analyzing the lists of toys that have been banned so far, these hazards have been especially noticeable:

Many of the bans so far have been because of sharp points, staples and edges. A number of toy xylophones were banned because of sharp edges.

Among the many toys banned because of removable objects, squeeze toys with removable squeakers are prominent. Make sure the squeaker cannot be removed. Also watch out for bells and rattles that have removable small objects. In buying any infant's toy you need to be sure it is too large to be swallowed and has no detachable parts that can lodge in a child's windpipe, nostrils or ears. Caution is especially important with children under three.

Many dolls have been ordered off the market because straight pins were used to secure the clothing to the doll. Interestingly, some very expensive dolls were banned because of the use of dangerous pins, as well as inexpensive dolls.

The Bureau of Product Safety also advises that instructions should be easy to read and understand. Parents also have the responsibility for instructing the child in the proper use of any toy that might cause injury through misuse.

While I was serving on the National Commission on Product Safety, which developed the Toy Safety Act, we found that sometimes even when an older child was able to safely manage a plaything like a toy electric stove, a younger sister or brother might get hold of it and be injured. Thus, you may need to install special household procedures for keeping potentially hazardous toys away from younger children.

Children also need to be taught the proper way to disconnect electric toys by holding on to the rubberized plug, rather than by tugging on the cord itself. Come to think of it, sometimes adults need to learn this technique.

Christmas Program Given At Meeting Of Service League

A Christmas program by Mrs. Frank Layne opened the December meeting of the Greenville Service League held Monday at the Elm Street Recreation Center.

Mrs. John Biggs, vice president and membership chairman, introduced and welcomed a new provisional member, Mrs. Robert Abbott. Committee reports were given by several chairmen. Mrs. Gerald Crane, Hospital Activities, reported 175 tray favors and one arrangement were made for Pitt Hospital. Several members volunteered to assist in decorating the hospital Christmas tree and hanging wreaths.

It was announced by Mrs. Richard Capwell, Lending Chest chairman, that Dr. Marshall Helms has donated a wheelchair to the Lending Chest. She also reported calls answered for two wheelchairs, two walkers and a hospital bed and mattress.

Mrs. Frank Longinol Hospital Fund reminded members of the Laughinghouse Hospital Fund for Christmas memorials.

Bloodmobile Chairman, Mrs. Herbert Carter, told members that the Bloodmobile will be at the DuPont Plant on Dec. 14. For members volunteering to sort and prepare Christmas gifts for patients at Cherry Hospital, Mrs. J. C. Lanier, Mental Health, announced the time and place.

Several members volunteered to assist Mrs. J. W. H. Roberts at the Art Center.

Mrs. Ford McGowan said she answered two calls for emergency charity and asked for assistance to distribute Christmas baskets.

Members voted to contribute to Operation Santa Clause and a note was read from the Recreation Department for a gift from the group.

Mrs. Charles Stevens, president, thanked members who are working with the reading program at Aycock Junior High School. Mrs. Richard Gammon, a volunteer, reported on the program.

A Christmas poem was read by Mrs. Stevens in closing the meeting.

Gold Star Mothers To Be Honored

Gold Star mothers will be honored Thursday night by the American Legion Auxiliary at a meeting at the Post Home.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a covered-dish dinner. Following dinner, Johnny French, chaplain of American Legion Post No. 39 will be the speaker.

Members attending are asked to bring a gift for "Operation Santa Claus."

Decorate House For Yuletide With Cards

NEW YORK (UPI)—Trim the house with Christmas cards this Yuletide.

Some ideas:

—Attach cards to a folding cardboard screen covered with gold paper that would serve as a backdrop for a statue of the Madonna or a replica of the Christmas crib.

—Cut a giant tree-shape from green felt. Tape it to a wall. As the cards arrive, add them to the "tree" with pins, tape, or glue.

—Use wide strips of red satin ribbon to show your Christmas greetings. Tape ribbons to either side of a doorway or window. If the curtains won't interfere, run ribbons right down the window, attaching them to the frame at top and bottom.

—Make a two-sided display by taping or stapling cards to both sides, thus making a window decoration that can be enjoyed from both outdoors and indoors.

—Strip an old umbrella of fabric, spray spokes gold and anchor handle in a pot of soil or clay. Presto—you have an umbrella card tree. Hang on cards with red and green ribbons. Add a few small ornaments or sprigs of greenery and you've a beauty of a "tree"—plus an interesting conversation piece.

Royal Family Follows A Tradition At Christmas

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's royal family will spend the holidays at Windsor Castle.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be joined by The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and Earl Snowdon and their two children, the Duke and Duchess of Kent with three children and Princess Alexandra and the Honorable Angus Ogilvy with their two.

On Christmas Eve, there will be a carol service at St. George's chapel and then a walk back to the Castle to exchange gifts between adults. Children under 12 get theirs at the foot of their beds on Christmas Day morning. Prince Philip acts as Santa Claus.

After a morning chapel service on Christmas Day, there usually is a brisk walk to whip up appetite and then a grand luncheon party for young and old at 1:30 p.m. A traditional menu, with roast turkey and a plum pudding, is carried in ceremoniously. Crackers are pulled and everybody wears paper hats.

Then there are indoor games and television watching until tea at five. The giant tree in the ballroom is then revealed, brilliantly lit and decorated. Everybody in the Castle, including the staff, gets a present from under the tree.

The Queen makes generous gifts to the staffs of her four residences, buys a plum pudding for each of the 300 police guards who attend her and provides food parcels and logs for old age pensioners in Windsor town.

As usual, a thousand logs were ordered this year but they will be just frosting more symbolic than otherwise. Most of the senior citizens had central heating or electric fires installed in their ancient cottages when they were recently modernized.

Bald Men Are Most Romantic

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Marie Anne Bruyere, 20, spokeswoman for sociology students who questioned 632 men, reported that those inclined to become bald are the most romantic, but also suffer most from heart trouble. "They also smoke too much and want to dominate the wife of their choice," she added.

Very Logical, No Wipers, No Ticket

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS) — Elly van Kempen, 29, had the logical excuse when the traffic cop asked her why her parked car had no windshield wipers. "Because somebody always puts a ticket under them while I'm shopping," she said. The cop gave her ticket.

A Better Location Is Needed

Now that the general election is over and things have returned more or less to normal, it might be easy to forget how inaccessible the Board of Elections office is.

The office is located high on the third floor of the old part of the Court House. There is no elevator service available in that portion of the building and those who wish to visit the office to register must climb the steep old stairway in the eastern end of the building.

That worked quite a hardship on the old and not-so-old during this presidential election year and, if something is not done, the same problem will be with us when the next election rolls around.

Certainly the County Commissioners can find some more accessible quarters for this most important office of county government. Registering to vote should not be an ordeal for our citizens and, in fact, the Board of Elections office should be as convenient as the county can make it.

With the present system of year around registration, new citizens and those moving to new precincts will be making use of the Board of Elections office even during 1973, a non-election year, so the need for improving the location of the office is still pressing.

The time to do something about the Board of Elections office location is now — not when heavy registrations precedes another state or national election.

Senior Citizen Travel Project

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Why should old folks do all their traveling in a rocking chair?

Why, indeed, echoed Mrs. Maude S. Morrow. She was born with a loose foot, and 67 years haven't eased the itch to be on the go.

BRYAN HAISLIP

"A trip can be something to look forward to, new sights to see and things to do, something to talk about for weeks when you get back," she explained.

Mrs. Morrow is consultant-coordinator for a new travel program for senior citizens, arranged to give them an opportunity to get off the front porch and on the road. Through group planning, it will make it convenient and inexpensive for those over 55 to see North Carolina.

Gov. Bob Scott joined First Union National Bank in announcing the program last week. The tours, scheduled to begin next spring, will be sponsored at cost by the bank to keep the price within the limited means of those it aims to reach. They will be timed in off-season periods to avoid crowds and enlarge the potential for the Tar Heel travel industry.

"To me, this program is an excellent example of cooperation between government and private business to make available a service to a group of our citizens who, generally speaking, are not in a position to provide it for themselves," Gov. Scott said.

Ready To Go

The senior citizen response was promptly voiced by Mrs. C. R. Hudson of Raleigh, the governor's 89-year-old aunt. "When do we start?" she asked. Actually, Mrs. Hudson amended, she won't make one of the tours herself but she liked the idea as a means of enlivening the prospects for older people.

There can be dull, dreary days for the aged, agreed Mrs. Morrow. "All the surveys show that it's loneliness more than anything else that the aging complain about," she said.

Companionship on a trip is a good way to defeat the golden age blues, she added. Many among the more than 600,000 Tar Heels in the 55-and-over age group would welcome the chance for somewhere to go, she predicted.

Now a consultant with the Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging, Mrs.

Morrow has a background in tourism that prepares her for her role in the new travel program. She will work out tour details for lodging, meals and sightseeing.

Lifting Psychological Bars

More than physical infirmity, psychological barriers inhibit travel for the Medicare set, Mrs. Morrow said. As a group, senior citizens are wary of the unknown, she explained. When they travel, they need the security that comes from knowing arrangements are made for how to go, where to stay, and what to see and do.

To assure peace of mind, a nurse will travel on each tour bus. At each stop, there will be a doctor who can be contacted in the event of emergencies.

Development of the concept has engaged the travel and promotion division of the state department of natural and economic resources, and enlisted the cooperation of the travel industry.

FUN Tours isn't just an acronym for the sponsor. It's the name of the game, said Mrs. Morrow. "No one is even too old to have a good time," she insisted. "We want to give some fun and entertainment for people who too often feel they are left out."

First Of Its Kind

First Union National said the program is the first of its kind sponsored by a bank in North Carolina and perhaps the first in the nation.

Ted Sumner, the bank's executive vice president, said First Union National has seen for some time the need for positive measures to enrich opportunities for the aging. "No one needs to be told there has been a depressing absence of activities for many of North Carolina's senior citizens. We believe this program will provide some of those activities and help meet the needs of some of those citizens," he said.

Although figures are not yet firm, it is expected that the two- and three-day tours can be offered at a package rate of not more than $50, for transportation, meals, lodging and sightseeing. Church and civic groups will be urged to pick up the tab for some unable to pay themselves.

Full information on the tours will be available after the first of the year at the bank's offices throughout the state, through senior citizen clubs, and the Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging. The first FUN Tours begin next April, with others in May, September, and October.

Two chartered buses with a total capacity around 90 will leave each point. Spaces will be available on a first come, first served basis.

Things Are Different For Juan Peron Today

Return of an old Juan Peron to Argentina brought out enthusiastic crowds, but things were different for him in the country he once ran as a dictator.

Peron, now 77, apparently has abandoned thoughts of seeking election because of the residency requirements which he has been unable to change.

However, Peron will select the man who will run for his party and whoever that is will be favored to win.

It is complicated politics, and it is strange to us that Juan Peron still retains so much power after years away from Argentina.

Egypt's Pres. Sadat AT Bay

By ROWLANDE EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

CAIRO — President Anwar Sadat, blocked at every turn in his efforts to persuade the U.S. to force Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula, is now putting all his eggs in the second Nixon-Brezhnev summit conference next year to impose a settlement of the Sinai crisis.

This rather desperate hope of the Egyptian president, however, follows a series of bold acts on the world stage that may have boxed him into a corner with neither Washington nor Moscow now prepared to come to his rescue.

Thus, when Sadat succeeded Gamal Abdel Nasser in the fall of 1970, he started dropping his eggs into the American basket, in effect accepting the territorial settlement plan proposed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, known as the Rogers Plan.

Unfortunately for Sadat, Israel flatly refused to yield to American pressure. Not only but in January 1972 Prime Minister Golda Meir persuaded President Nixon to end the ban on new U.S. weapons for Israel resulting in an open pipeline of F-4 Phantoms which will not be shut off until the end of 1973 at the earliest.

That decision by Mr. Nixon, taken on the eve of the presidential campaign and the President's ardent courtship of the American Jewish community, marked the end of Sadat's bid to the White House.

Understandably angry and frustrated by the Americans, Sadat retaliated by imposing a huge cut in the minuscule U.S. delegation here from a total of 20 officers and secretaries to eight. That reduction was ordered from the presidential palace without any advance consultation with the Americans and probably without even informing the foreign office.

But while reacting against the U.S., Sadat was also coming under heavy pressure from his new Libyan ally and from the officer corps of his own army to drastically reduce Soviet influence in Egypt. The leader in this anti-Soviet pressure was War Minister Mohammed Sadek. On July 18, in a sudden and spectacular move, the president ordered all but a tiny fraction of Soviet advisers out of his country.

In retrospect, Egyptian leaders of all persuasions now agree that Sadat's expulsion of the Russians not only was too abrupt but also, hard on the heels of the failure of the American option, left Egypt without a loyal attorney in either of the two super-powers.

Moreover, the timing of Sadat's dismissal of the Russians could not have been worse from the vantage point of influencing President Nixon and recharging the dying batteries of the Rogers Plan. In the midst of his reelection campaign, Mr. Nixon was not about to change course on the Middle East at the expense of Jewish votes.

The expulsion of the Russians, in short, was a major play by Sadat at a time barring what should have been a major response by Washington.

By autumn Sadat began his tentative rapprochement to Moscow but only after War Minister Sadek failed in his mission to obtain spare parts for Soviet equipment from Yugoslavia. The immensely popular Sadek was then dismissed on Oct. 26.

So far, this tentative rapprochement has yielded little — a few Soviet

Climb Every Mountain

WASHINGTON —

President Nixon has just revealed to the country that he likes to work on a mountaintop at Camp David. He said it's easier to do his job on the mountain than it is in Washington where even a President can lose his perspective. What the President didn't add was that when a man is on the top of a mountain, he is very much closer to God.

"Richard—R—I—C—H—A—R—D."
"Who's that?"
"It is I, Richard."
"Oh my God!"
"You've got it right. I have been watching you, Richard, and I'm disappointed. You had a big win. But what have you sacrificed to Me in thanksgiving?"

"My White House staff, three Cabinet officers and 16 newspapermen."

"For that kind of landslide, I expected more."

"I'm sorry. How about 14 U. S. ambassadors, 24 federal judges and the CBS news staff?"

"That's more like it, Richard."

"I'm in awe of Your presence. What do You want me to do?"

"Lead your people out of Vietnam."

"I've been working on it, Lord. When I first took office, there were 550,000 American troops there. Now there are only 19,000."

"I want them all out, Richard. Every last one of them. This war has gone on much too long as far as I'm concerned."

"Yes, Lord. I'll get them all out."

"And, Richard, I want you to stop the bombing."

Richard, a long time ago on another mountain I made a law, "Thou shalt not kill."

"But there were no Communists then, Lord."

"Silence! I want the bombing stopped and I want peace—NOW."

"Yessir. If You will it, it will be done."

"The economy all right?"

"Just perking along, Sir. A few weak spots here and there, but we should have an excellent profit picture at the end of the year."

"What about pollution?"

"My environmental people are working on it, Sir."

"I understand Congress voted to clean up the nation's waters, and you vetoed the bill."

"Yes, but they overrode my veto."

"Then why have you announced you will not give them the money they allocated for the job?"

"I have to keep my spending down because of inflation."

"I don't care about inflation. I don't want my waters polluted."

"In all due respect, Sir, I'm against federal expenditures that exceed $250 million. Now if You can show me how I can clean up the waters, pay for all the social services and have a defense posture second to none, then I'll release the rest of the

"I can't keep my appointment today, Doc. Anyway, the pain is all gone now."

much better when I take them out."

"Who makes more money — dentists, heart specialists or bank presidents?"

"Don't you get tired spending all day just looking into people's mouths?"

"I can't keep my appointment today, Doc. We're having the apartment painted, and I wouldn't dare leave these painters alone with all the Christmas gin I've got stored in the closets."

"Tell me the truth, Doc. Do I have bad breath? How bad would you say it is? Worse than most of your other patients?"

"This is my son, Sidney, Doctor. While you're straightening his teeth, is there anything you can do about his ears? They stick out too far for a boy only 10 years old."

"I had a dream last night, Doc. I dreamt that you were sitting in the chair, and I was drilling on you, and you screamed so much I finally woke up. Wasn't that a silly dream?"

"Yes, I know I need a bridge, and I know they're expensive. But you're not selling me the Brooklyn Bridge, are you?"

"What do you think about while you're putting in fillings? Doesn't your mind ever wander far afield?"

"Go ahead, Doc, do any darned thing you want to me — I just finished a four-Martini lunch."

"I can't keep my appointment today, Doc. Our cat's having kittens in the basement — right now."

December 6, 1932

County and township officers were formally inducted into office in exercises at the court house last night. The oath of office was administered to the officials from the office of constable to clerk of Superior Court by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill.

The Atlantic Coast Line now offer low railroad fares for the Christmas holidays. Pullman fares will be reduced 25 cents between southeastern points during the holidays.

A vaudeville act will be on the stage of the State Theatre tonight. The "Lovely Girl Revue" will also have minstrel star Slim Vermont.

Strength For Today

KEEP A BALANCE

Self-confidence is a fine quality provided it does not make us arrogant or a person regarded by his contemporaries as a "Know-it-all." If we agree with everybody around us we are wishy-washy. If we agree with nobody, arrogant and self-opinionated. It is a wonderful achievement to be well-liked and popular provided that popularity does not cost too much. Someone set forth a good principle recently by saying: "If the joke is on you be the one to laugh the loudest."

Satisfactory living is largely a matter of balance. If we get the reputation of being highbanded and overconfident in our own opinion, everybody turns against us. If we have no opinions, everybody despises us. Balance is hard to establish, but it is essential.

Sometimes we think that if we could just have our way in everything life would be wonderful. It certainly would not—it would be deadly dull. Nobody would have much respect for us. Worst of all, we would have no respect for ourselves. People are never confused in their estimate of a truly great or useful or happy person. They may not like us particularly, but that is neither here nor there. Do they respect us and do we respect ourselves?

If we think we are the greatest person in the world we are in for a slam. If we think we are a worm we are in for misery.

Take your choice.

Americans Get Back Into Debt

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —

Americans are going heavily into debt again after imposing a Spartan-like regimen on themselves beginning in the summer of 1969, when economic and other fears overpowered the buying instinct.

In October alone they added credit of $1.92 billion, a record for any month. Excluding home mortgages, it brought consumer credit to nearly $150 billion and the peak of the surge may still be many weeks away.

The greatest single category of credit is for the purchase of automobiles, although the more recent increases quite likely reflect in part the activities of early Christmas shoppers.

Regardless of how the money is being used, it is considered significant because it indicates a fundamental change in consumer psychology — from fear to confidence, from lethargy to enthusiasm.

The disease that afflicted consumer buying had been accompanied by a surge in the rate of savings that peaked at 8.6 per cent of take-home pay in the second quarter of 1971.

Since that time the rate has been declining, although there were indications it was leveling off at a rate around 6.4 per cent. A drop of that magnitude adds at least $15 billion a year to sales.

It is because of this enormous market power that retailers in recent years have been especially attendant to consumer moods and why the study of consumer attitudes and expectations has risen in importance.

Just a little more than three decades ago relatively few Americans had what is called discretionary spending power—that is, a choice in how their money was to be spent. For millions of people, all money earned was committed to necessities.

Consumers today have an increasing amount of discretionary income and, as a result, their behavior is less predictable in retail markets. Even when able to spend, it has been found, they may not be willing to spend.

Many explanations for resumption of spending have been offered, and to some degree all may be factors: —The rise in real buying power as inflation abates and more people are at work.

—A feeling by many Americans that domestic and international tensions are easing which, say consumer psychologists, may be translated into a greater willingness to make long-term spending commitments.

—A feeling of affluence, or at least of greater financial security, resulting from the buildup of savings.

Aerial Collision Killed Thirteen

CONWAY, S.C. (AP)—A jet fighter-interceptor plane with only the pilot board and a turboprop military transport plane with 12 aboard collided Tuesday night on a training exercise in which the fighter was simulating catching and shooting down the transport. There were no reports of survivors.

One witness said, "They looked like some Roman candles shooting, then there were pieces flying through the air, burning."

Sheriff's deputies quoted other witnesses as saying the planes fell in flames and crashed three miles apart in the rural Bayboro section of Horry County in northeastern South Carolina, 15 miles north of Conway and 30 miles northwest of Myrtle Beach. Bayboro is a sparsely settled area of woods and of open fields in which tobacco, soybeans and corn are grown.

The pilot of the singled-seat F102 delta-wing Delta Dagger fighter was Capt. Thomas G. Hagood Jr., 28, of Lexington, near Columbia, S.C., who was flying from the McEntyre Air National Guard Base near Columbia. He joined the Air National Guard seven years ago. In civilian life he was a pilot for Eastern Air Lines.

There was an early report that his body had been recovered. But the Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, headquarters for the search, said at dawn that it could not confirm this.

Ground parties, which included a National Guard unit from Mullins, searched through the night for bodies.

The C130 Hercules transport was from Pope Air Force Base adjacent to Fort Bragg in the Fayetteville area of North Carolina.

A spokesman at the McEntyre base said that on the training exercise the fighter was trying to intercept the transport and bring it down, with any hits recorded electronically on equipment in the fighter plane.

A spokesman at the Myrtle Beach Air Force Base said the forward section of the F102 fuselage was found in the Pleasant View Church area near Bayboro and the rest of the plane was found three-eighths of a mile away. He said the seat was still in the forward section, an indication that the pilot had not been able to eject.

The man who said the crash looked to him like Roman candles, S.W. Skipper, a fuel oil delivery man for a company in Conway, added, "While the sky was still lit up, I saw something like an umbrella, a parachute, I guess. It took a long time to come down."

He said he had been racoon hunting and had stopped in a swamp about 15 miles north of Conway when he was attracted by the noise of planes in the air, and then saw what looked like Roman candles.

Wreckage of the transport was found scattered over a wide area.

The crash occurred about 7:25 p.m.

State Highway Patrolman said bits of wreckage were scattered over parts of U.S. Highway 701 between Loris and Conway, but the roads were not blocked. Hundreds of motorists were attracted to the area.

No damage from the wreckage was reported.

A spokesman at McEntyre said the planes were on an Aero-Space Defense Command mission, and that such training flights in which a fighter practices intercepting and simulating the shooting down of another plane are common. He said the defense command at Fort Lee, Virginia, also has electronic equipment to monitor simulated hits.

A list of those aboard the transport was not immediately available.

Martin Board Okays Program

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County School Board members, Monday, approved a cooperative program with the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop. Under the arrangement, ten Martin County students will be picked up by a workshop bus each day for a three hour session.

Two new members took their seats on the board at the meeting. Zack Gurkin, one of the new members, was elected to fill the newly creation position of the Williamston attendance district. The other new member, Henry Winslow, was appointed to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of H.N. Jackson.

The two new members were sworn in by Mrs. Mary Davenport, Clerk of Court.

Arrangements for taking care of all displaced students as the result of the recent fire in the Robersonville elementary school have been completed. Superintendent of School Eugene Rogers disclosed that insurance settlement has not been made for damage caused by the fire.

The board voted approval of the purchase of additional land adjacent to the Bear Grass School. The amount being purchased is 4.2 acres.

Five new school personnel were approved, as was a budget item from the Williamston Local Advisory Commission. The funds represent local surplus funds and will be used to purchase two new activity buses.

In a report on construction, the superintendent reported that plans were moving along for the program of building of four new schools to be built in the county.

PRIVATE LANDFILL — Arch Flanagan has been successfully using this trench-type sanitary landfill on his farm near Marlboro. The initial "clean-up" of the farm property filled almost one-third of the trench. Since then, trash has been dumped and covered with earth weekly by using farm equipment. (SCS Photo by Roy Beck)

Asks Church Building Ban

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A California theologian has urged, as an ecology measure, that the nation's churches to stop construction of new buildings.

The Rev. Dr. George Rupp of the University of Redlands also suggested that salaries of church employees should be set at a fixed limit as part of an effort to trim consumption of the earth's resources.

"Simplicity, frugality and self-sacrifice" are demanded in the times ahead, the Rev. Dr. Rupp said Tuesday.

Declaring that the planet cannot sustain continued economic growth indefinitely and that justice demands more equitable distribution of available resources, the Rev. Dr. Rupp told a general assembly of the National Council of Churches: "The most crucial tendency that must be confronted is the materialism that pervades American life."

"Instead of acquiescing to Western preoccupation with material products, the church must again work to focus human energies on what Paul (the apostle) calls the fruits of the spirit — on enterprises which only minimally deplete resources and cause pollution."

The Grand Canyon is so deep that it may be snowing on its rim while flowers bloom in its depths.

Farmville Board Endorses Expanding Med School

By CAROL TYLER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board of Commissioners last night endorsed "the expansion of the East Carolina University School of Medicine to a two-year school by the next legislature and the eventual adding needed to make it a four-year institution."

Their aim, the commissioners said is to join other Eastern North Carolina municipalities in petitioning the legislature to act on the measure.

A resolution drafted by the N. C. League of Municipalities in memory of former Farmville Town Administrator the late Carl L. Beaman Jr. was read and a copy was forwarded to his widow. The Commissioners voted to put a wreath on Beaman's grave during the Christmas season on behalf of the Town of Farmville.

Rescue Squad, Capt. J. L. Baker reported that the Farmville Rescue Squad Building being constructed near the J. Y. Monk Park here may be ready by Jan. 15. he said the costs seem to be running close to the originally estimated figure of $17,000. The Squad raised $5,000 and is borrowing $12,000 from the Town as expenses arise. Baker invited each of the Commissioners to visit the nearly completed building.

The Commissioners agreed to give each Rescue Squad member who meets the qualifications set by the Squad a $25 Christmas bonus. The Commissioners themselves were given checks for a half year of work. Their salary is $50 per month.

Police Chief Carl Tanner told of new P.I.N. visual equipment the Police Department is getting. It will enable the Police to see and get a print-out if need be on any request made only seconds before both on in-state and out-of-state license numbers.

A letter from Chief Tanner commending Ptl. Larry Mulkey for his initiative and extra work in locating two persons wanted by the court was read.

At the suggestion of Building Inspector H. P. Norman, the Board adopted a repair and renovation permit scale that would start at $300. Any work requiring less expense than this would require no permit and no fee. After $300, the cost would $5 up to $1,000 worth of work and $1 for each additional $1,000.

The Commissioners okayed the purchase of a car for the Water and Light Department, told the Fire Chief to have his car painted red and marked clearly, and discussed the purchase of a new Police car to replace one that is "in the shop every week."

The Town Office, the Board determined, will be closed for Christmas Friday, Dec. 22 at 5 p.m. to Wednesday, Dec. 27 at

Fischer Wants A Return Match

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World chess champion Bobby Fischer says he hopes to defend his title in the United States against Boris Spassky.

But Fischer, who took the title from Spassky last summer in Reykjavik, Iceland, said Tuesday that the Russian wouldn't have "much of a chance."

"I'd like to play Spassky if the money is good enough," Fischer said during an interview in the Beverly Hills home of his attorney, Stanley Rader. "I think Spassky is still the best opponent."

Fischer, who must defend his title within three years or lose it, suggested Las Vegas, Nev., as a possible site.

Spines of the cholla cactus can pierce skin, clothing and shoes.

8:30 a.m.

A letter from the State Highway commission saying the SHC would be responsible for erecting a flashing stop-caution light was read. The Board had indicated last month that the town would erect a stoplight at the corner of Fields and Church Streets to prevent more accidents at this apparently hazardous corner. However, the SHC says that this is a state street and that the Town cannot do so. It also says that surveys indicate that about 1,200 cars use Fields Street each day and 600 use Church Street. "This does not warrant complete signal control," it said, "but a flashing light to show red on Fields Street and yellow on Church is in order."

Some $3,500 was appropriated to the Mayor's Council on downtown improvement. The immediate need is a survey on downtown parking possibilities, Irvin Morgan, the Commissioners' representative on the Council, said. He also said the first $25 would go for the town to gain membership in the Keep North Carolina Beautiful organization.

There was discussion with Sgt. Alton Hathaway on the use of the National Guard Armory for parties. Hathaway said the Fire Chief has recently posted a sign at the Armory—on request of Commanding Officer Lt. Thomas Lamar—stating that the building should not hold more than 366 people at one time. The Police Chief has indicated that no less than four policemen are needed to provide protection during a large gathering. Off-duty policemen are paid $25 an evening for this service. The Commissioners finally agreed that use of the building is none of the town's affair, but is the decision of the National Guard Commanding Officer under direction of the Adjutant General.

Sgt. Hathaway also thanked the commissioners for helping with the purchase of a new fence to protect equipment at the Armory. He said any use of the drill hall of the building by the Town Recreation would be welcomed.

The cemetery committee was asked to investigate the possibility of using some of the 30 acres recently bought on the Stantonsburg Road for use as a cemetery for recreation area, until the time it is needed for its original purpose.

Criticized On 2 Counts

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne have been taken to task over rather diverse issues — clothing and foxes.

Walter Koby, chairman of the Tie Manufacturers' Association, exhorted Prince Charles in a statement Tuesday to live up to the trend of sartorial elegance set by his uncle, the Duke of Windsor, who died last summer.

Prince Charles, 24, frequently has been criticized by Britain's male fashion industry for lack of imagination in his style of dress. He appears to prefer comfortable rather than with-it clothing.

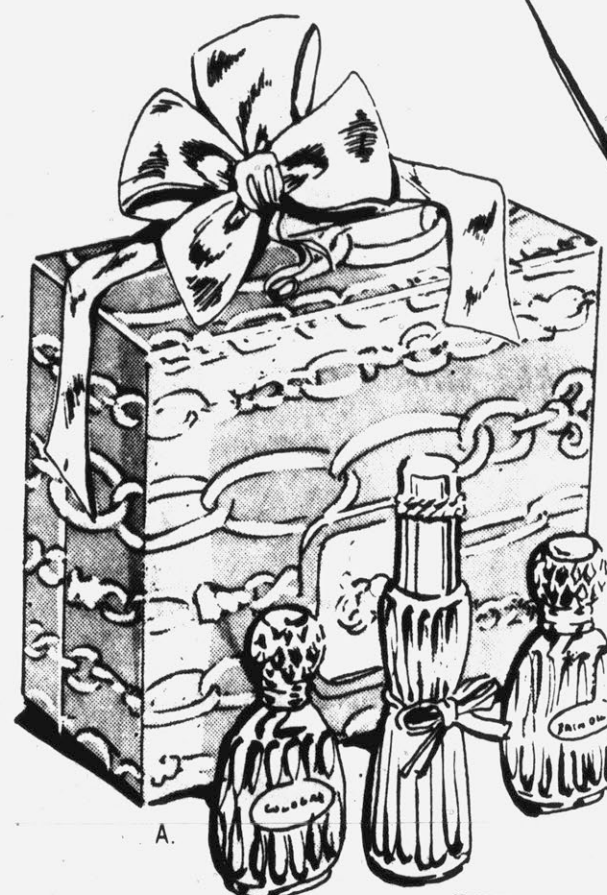

"We all look forward to the day when 'Bonnie Prince Charlie' will be the toast of the international fashion world," Koby said.

Meanwhile, the antihunting lobby in the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals raised cain with Charles' sister, 22-year-old Princess Anne, for going fox hunting again Monday.

"It seems more than a coincidence that Princess Anne should choose to go hunting right at the time when, because of her parents' silver wedding, the family is enjoying a wave of popular appeal," said Brian Seager, the antihunt leader.

Country House Of God

They wait for Sunday all week.

And when Sunday comes, they gather together to free their souls in a woodframe country House of God.

They are neighbors by miles, not city blocks. Yet they congregate like members of a family and, in spirit, they are.

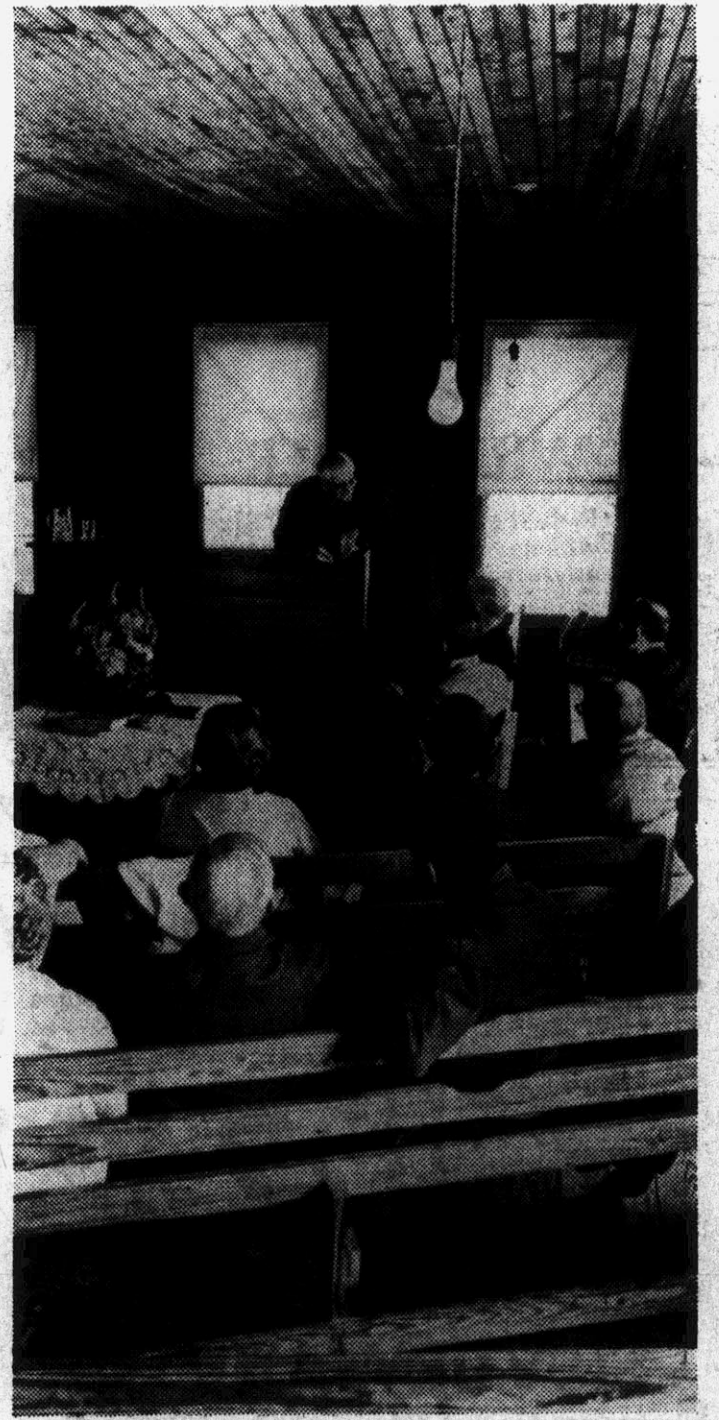

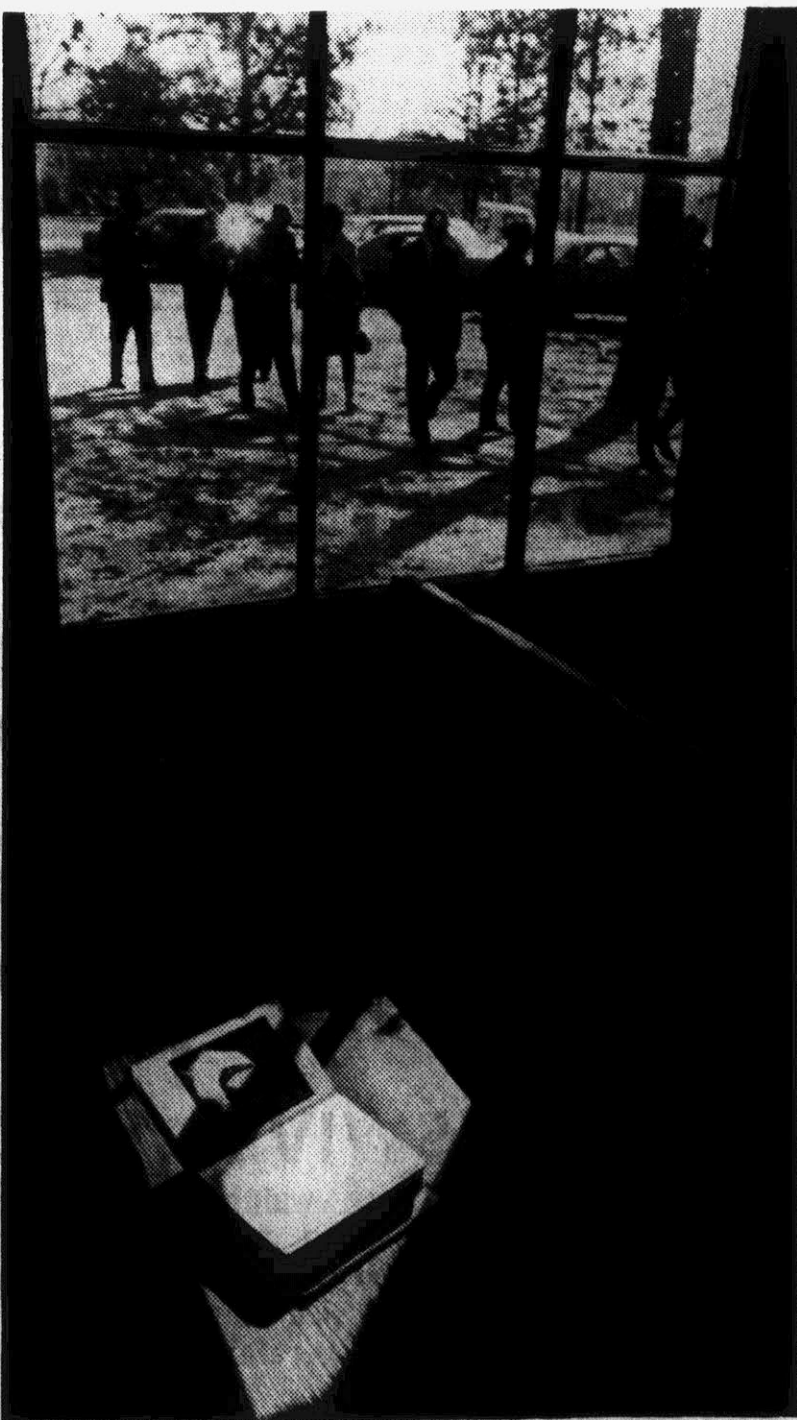

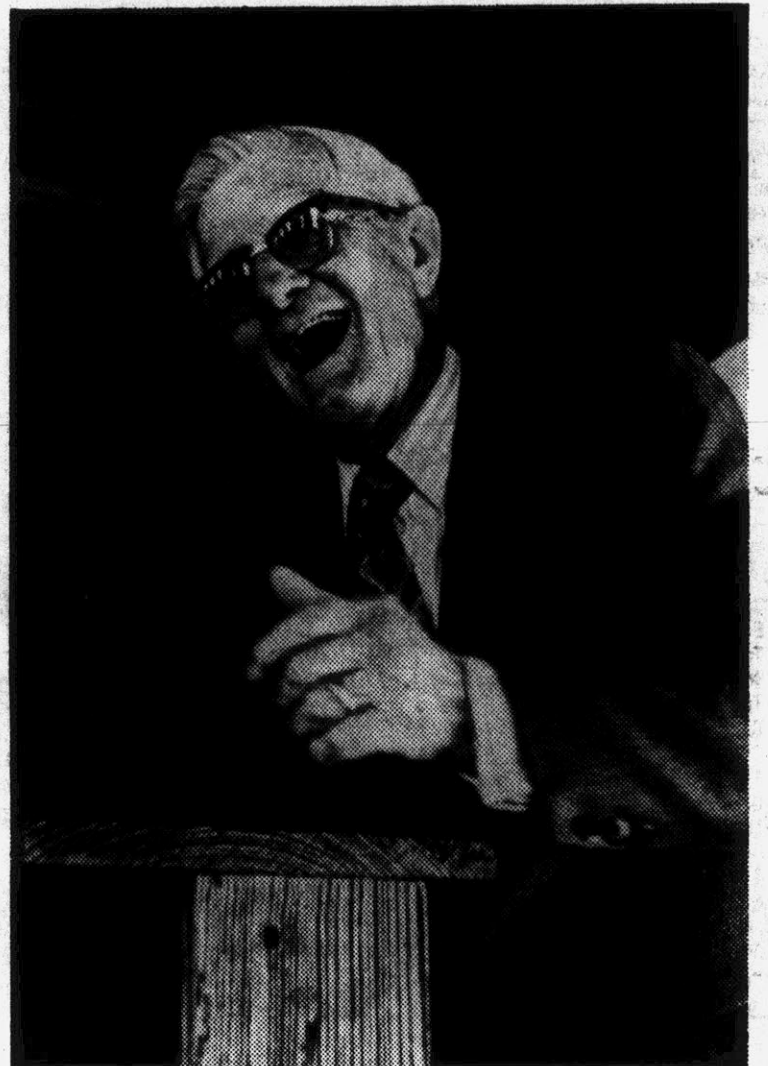

Everything they do is warm, simple and real.

No bells call them to worship, but they'll all be there on time, their hymns will ring out in harmony. No programs, pews, carpets or stained glass. The pews are benches, and yellow green sunlight plays through the old, clear glass windows on to the hardwood floor.

Down-to-earth, no-doze preachin' that can rattle the ceiling like thunder or shake the walls with laughter is written into the sermons they hear. "It's preachin' you can take home with you . . . just makes good sense to live by."

Pictured on this page is the congregation of the Antioch Primitive Baptist Church of Buna, Tex., whose pastor is the Rev. Elmo Withers. The 90-year-old, one-room church has been put forward for recognition as a state historical landmark.

Cooperating To Trim North Carolina Ranks Of Welfare Recipients

The North Carolina State Employment Security Commission and the North Carolina Social Services Department have entered into a cooperative agreement aimed at reducing the number of welfare recipients.

According to Jim Hannan, manager of the local ESC office, this will be accomplished by referring those persons on welfare rolls, not otherwise exempt, to jobs or meaningful training.

It is mandatory that persons seeking welfare assistance, who are able to work, must register for work at the local ESC office.

"The program is referred to as WIN—for Work Incentive," Hannan said. "The Department of Social Services screens each individual receiving AFDC payments (Aid for Dependent Children) to determine eligibility to participate in the WIN program."

Hannan said there are exemptions to the requirements for registering for work.

"However, the law as it applies to the AFDC payment does provide for child care and related services in order for the adults to be available for gainful employment."

Those persons who are exempted include: persons less than 16 years of age; less than 21 and attending school full time; persons under a doctor's care; or persons caring for a sick or disabled family member.

The Department of Labor estimates that 22,000 persons in North Carolina will be eligible for the program. Since 1969, the AFDC payments have increased approximately 1,900 persons much.

"Now refusal to work or report for registration for work could cause termination of AFDC payments," Hannan said. "This program will be a success from the viewpoint of the tax payer, only if the local employers lend their support," Hannan emphasized.

The law has a provision designed to entice employers to hire and train welfare recipients—this provision extends a 20 percent tax credit to employers on wages paid these individuals during the initial 12 months of their employment.

Hanna emphasized that the local ESC office and the Social Services Department are prepared to do their part.

"We need the support of our local employers to reduce the welfare rolls and increase the payroll," Hannan added.

To place a job order for any employee, local businesses or individuals may call 752-6146.

Social Security Rules To Change

Starting in 1973, people who are working while getting social security benefits can earn more but never lose more than $1 in benefits for each $2 earned, according to William McClure, social security district manager in Greenville.

"The more you earn, the higher your total income will be," McClure said. "Under the new social security law, social security payments will be reduced by $1 for every $2 over earned over 2,100 in a year."

Previously, monthly payments were reduced by $1 in benefits for every $2 earned between $1,680 and $2,880 in a year—and by $1 for every $1 earned over $2,880.

"People 72 and over will continue to get their full social security benefits regardless of earnings," McClure stated. Under the new law, people under 72 can earn as much as $2,100 in a year and get their full social security benefits. Different rules apply to people getting social security disability benefits if they work.

In addition, starting in 1973, full benefits can be paid for any month in which an employee's wages are not more than $175—or he didn't perform substantial services in self-employment. Previously, the monthly limit was $140.

"Also, starting in 1973, only your earnings in the months before you reach 72 will be used to figure what benefits are due for those months," McClure explained. "Before, earnings in the entire year you reached 72 were counted in figuring benefits due you for months before you were 72."

Another feature of the new law assures that the earnings exemption for people getting social security payments will go up automatically in future years as earnings levels increase, McClure said. The first year there can be an automatic increase is 1975.

Social security pays monthly benefits to eligible retired and disabled workers and their families—and to families of deceased workers who were insured under social security.

Pelicans Losing To Fishermen

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — Fish-gobbling pelicans have been vying with fishermen at the wharf here and losing.

Wildlife experts say nine of the big, brown web-footed birds have been injured, two fatally in the past eight days, from entanglement with fishing lines at the Venice Pier.

The pelican is on the federal endangered species list.

Sometimes the large birds, attracted by bait, snarl themselves in dangling lines. And others try to beat fishermen to the catch and gash themselves on hooks.

Toilet Bricks Saving Water

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) —

Six months ago, Tilly Spetgong, a serious gal with a goofy idea, walked into City Council carrying a brick. Councilman Steve Morgan ducked under his desk.

"He must have thought I was going to throw it," she said, "but all I wanted was to put one into every toilet tank in town."

The unusual proposal to save water stunned Council, but it was approved. And it so convulsed this residential community of 65,000 across the Delaware River from Philadelphia that it swiftly accepted the scheme — to become probably the first in America with a brick in nearly every toilet.

The idea is that the brick will take up space in the toilet tank, displacing a small amount of water that is not necessarily needed for flushing.

"It was a wacky idea that got people laughing, and also made them aware that people pollute and people can conserve," said Mrs. Spetgong, a 44-year-old mother of two who used to raise chickens and now, admittedly, "raises the dickens" as a member of the Conservation Advisory Board.

Council anted up $2,000 to buy 34,000 extra-hard beige bricks, the kind that won't break up in any kind of water and enough for every toilet in the town's 17,000 homes.

Last weekend, about 175 persons — mostly teen-agers — distributed 27,000 bricks, two to a house. They will finish this Saturday.

Of her idea, Mrs. Spetgong said: "It's off-beat enough to get people talking and, hopefully, make them aware of how involved all of us are in this pollution crisis."

"If the average family of four flushes a total of 20 times a day we would save 34 million gallons of water every year in Cherry Hill."

The earth's crust contains about 1-100th of a gram of platinum per ton, compared with 50,000 grams of iron, says National Geographic.

North Carolina's touring professional theatre will bring its picturesque production of William Shakespeare's Twelfth Night to Greenville on Wednesday, December 13.

The performance will be held at McGinnis Auditorium under the sponsorship of the East Carolina Playhouse. Reserved seat tickets will be sold for $2.50 to adults and $1.50 to students.

The rollicking comedy of Twelfth Night is a reminder of the occasion for which scholars claim it was written — a holiday celebration at the court of Queen Elizabeth. The play weaves its plot around a mixup in identities between a pair of lost twins and the boisterous antics of some of Shakespeare's most colorful characters — the drunken Sir Toby Belch, the foppish Sir Andrew Aguecheek, and the colorful foolery of Feste.

Twelfth Night is directed by Edward Payson Call, Carolina Repertory Company's first guest director and one of America's outstanding regional theatre artists. Call has been producing director of the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minnesota and had directed plays at the American Shakespeare Festival, San Francisco's American Conservatory Theatre, and in New York at the Downtown Theatre and the Equity Library Theatre. He has also taught and directed at the Julliard School of Drama at New York's Lincoln Center.

Call has described the production as "Shakespeare as it was written — no more blue jeans and sweatshirts." The play features rich medieval costumes and Elizabethan music, along with hand-painted sets and specially muted lighting effects.

Carolina Repertory Company has enlarged its staff and tripled its repertory after an initial season which produced 74 tour performances of The Wonderful O, an original musical adaptation of James Thurber's book. Audiences totaled over 35,000 on CRC's first ten-week tour.

Nearly half of the members of this year's cast are North Carolina natives or received theatrical training in the state. There are five returnees from the cast which performed The Wonderful O in Greenville last spring.

Less Hunting, More Fishing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The California Department of Fish and Game predicts that as we near the year 2000, hunting opportunities will decrease as open space "becomes a more critical factor in the total recreation picture."

At the same time, fishing opportunities will increase because of new water developments, improved water quality and fisheries management techniques.

Will Appeal Fund-Cutoff Order

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration probably will appeal a federal judge's ruling that could lead to a new wave of orders cutting off funds to still-segregated schools and colleges.

Government attorneys say the administration is likely to challenge Dist. Court Judge John H. Pratt's ruling that the Health, Education and Welfare Department must cut off federal funds if necessary to enforce desegregation in 17 Southern and border states.

The decision on an appeal depends on how forcefully Pratt implements the ruling, attorneys said.

In the Nov. 16 order in the District of Columbia court, Pratt gave federal and civil-rights lawyers until mid-December to draw up an implementing order for his signature.

"If they come up with an unacceptable proposal and the judge buys it, then we'll appeal," said a lawyer working closely on the case with HEW and the Justice Department.

The proposal prepared by civil-rights attorneys and submitted to the Justice Department Tuesday contains specific timetables and deadlines for enforcement, said Elliott C. Lichtman, a lawyer working with the NAACP Legal Defense Fund which initiated the suit.

To do less, he said in an interview, would "gut" the impact of the judge's decision.

Pratt ruled that HEW has no discretion remaining to stall enforcement, including fund cutoffs, at racially segregated public colleges and universities in 10 states, and elementary and secondary schools and state-operated vocational and special-education facilities in 17 states.

The class-action suit was brought two years ago on behalf of two adults as taxpayers and 25 students at allegedly segregated schools and colleges in Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Virginia and Arkansas.

HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and J. Stanley Pottinger, director of the U.S. Office for Civil Rights, are defendants.

Pratt noted that between the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and March 1970, when Pottinger became civil-rights director, HEW had moved against about 600 noncomplying school districts.

Since then, the judge said, "only a small, token number" of enforcement actions have been taken.

The suit at this time would appear to apply only to Southern and border states but the principle, if upheld on appeal, presumably could affect schools in other regions of the nation whenever cited for violation.

Despite the numerous fund cutoffs that sparked panic throughout the South in the 1960s, all the affected school districts eventually came into compliance and recovered their money.

The only permanent terminations are:

Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and Freewill Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn., both in 1967; the Odd Fellows Home of California in Sanatoga, September 1972; and four Mississippi state health institutions, 1968.

Termination orders for 16 Georgia school districts have been stayed pending full compliance with a 1969 federal court order.

Dick Gregory Gives Glimpse Of Talents

Scott Reveals 'Back To Farm'

GREENSBORO (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today he is looking forward to going back to the family farm in Haw River when his term ends Jan. 5.

Scott said that as a lame duck governor, "I feel that I have finally winged my way back to the refuge. Having dodged most of the potshots, I find myself right back where I started—with dairying and dairymen."

He made his remarks in a prepared talk to members of the North Carolina Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Scott said "There is no doubt in my mind" that the program of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association has been of considerable benefit to the economic health of Tar Heel dairy farmers.

He noted that in 1941 cash receipts from dairy marketing in North Carolina were just under $14 million. Last year, gross income from sale of milk topped $100 million.

"We need more than ever to develop sound new ideas and know-how in order to keep the industry of agriculture on the move in our state and, in deed, in our nation," Scott said.

Looking For States To Require Death Penalty

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer
CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — State attorneys general soon may ask their legislatures to draft bills imposing a mandatory death sentence for specified crimes.

"Each state would determine what the offenses would be," said Oklahoma Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, chairman of a volunteer committee of 11 states' attorneys that planned to present its recommendation to the National Association of Attorneys General today.

"The committee was unanimous that legislative action was necessary to reinstate the death penalty," Derryberry said in an interview Tuesday. "We determined that the alternative for reinstating the death penalty most likely to be favorably considered by the U.S. Supreme Court is one that would impose a mandatory death sentence for specified offenses."

He said the committee discussed offenses for which the death penalty might be made mandatory: "Murder during the commission of certain felonies — armed robbery, rape, burglary, arson, kidnapping and perhaps other felonies; murder of a police officer or of a public figure; murder by explosive devices; multiple slayings; contract killings; killings for pecuniary gain.

"We did not go outside of premeditated murder cases," he added. "But the states might decide that other cases would come under the death penalty."

Derryberry said the committee discussed but did not recommend introduction of a federal constitutional amendment overturning a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing the death penalty in its present form. The court ruled that capital punishment as currently administered in most instances violates constitutional safeguards against cruel or unusual punishment.

The president of the association, Atty. Gen. Gary K. Nelson of Arizona, said the attorneys general, with a few exceptions, favored reinstatement of capital punishment.

"The vast majority of the public, even higher than public opinion polls say, favor the death penalty in certain kinds of cases," he added.

He was a lecturer first last night, but Dick Gregory also gave his audience glimpses of why he is labeled a comedian, actor, human rights activist, social satirist, critic, philosopher and political analyst.

"Whenever this war is over, I'm going to do some serious eating," said the man who has fasted since April 24, 1971 when he announced that he would "consume only liquids until the war in Vietnam has ended."

"I'm a hungry man," he said. "In case the war was to end tonight, there's a little clause in my contract that would allow me to say, 'by ya'll,' and run for food."

"You know, Kissinger called one day and said, 'looks like you'll be eating by the weekend,' but it's been a long weekend."

Gregory, thin but otherwise showing no physical wear for lack of food, said that he "wouldn't give up food again if they were fighting in my house. I wouldn't stop eating if Rhodesia declared war on Harlem."

Gregory, who became famous as a professional comedian, said that he now spends about 98 per cent of his time on college campuses, pushing the cause for human rights.

He said that today's young people are the most "morally honest...and dedicated group...in history, bar none."

He charged that one of the "sad tragedies in America today is newspapers," claiming that 87 per cent of all newspaper space is devoted to ads rather than news for informing the public. "Very important, he emphasized again and again, "that you young people find a means of informing yourselves."

Skipping from subject to subject but drawing applause with almost every emphasized point, Gregory contended that "white people have been playing games...but the games are about over now."

He observed, "...as soon as you get hip to what is going on, the sooner we may be able to solve these problems."

Gregory claimed that the public is being tricked, saying that if Nixon "really feels like he tells us he does about the war, and if he does have compassion for the POW's, I wonder why he didn't pick up the phone and call them at the airport (recently when three were released) like he does football coaches after some funky football game."

He remarked, "The whole world's gone crazy." "Look what happened at the Olympics," he continued, where people were more concerned about the United States losing a basketball game than the killings.

Black people, he continued, know about the "real America." He said that when he was five years old he knew who the dope pushers were at home but the police didn't. "I wish more white folks would listen to more black folks."

Gregory said that thites are going to pay for the way blacks have been treated, but not through violence. "We are going to turn our backs and walk away and you are going to lose the only friend you ever had."

"Don't be no fool's fool," he advised the young. "Anytime you put alcohol and reefer in your body, it's like borrowing money from the bad, some day you are going to have to pay it back."

DICK GREGORY

He said that young people seem to think that drinking and smoking pot makes them "cool," but he suggested that they would be better off staying hot and sweaty.

"You youngsters got a big job ahead," Gregory contended. He said youth have to start telling "these schools and institutions" that they exist for you and not you for them. "These institutions have got to start teaching you how to live instead of just how to make a living."

Explorer Post Is Given Plant Tour

The newly formed Burroughs Wellcome Explorer Scout Post had its first insight into pharmaceutical manufacturing with a detailed tour of the B.W. production facilities North of Greenville.

The Post is made up of approximately 20 Greenville junior and senior high school students interested in pharmacy and chemistry as a potential career. During the tour and luncheon, they had many opportunities to meet B. W. Co. personnel involved in areas using these specialties.

This was the first in a series of pre-planned sessions which will provide in-depth experiences in pharmaceutical manufacturing for the Explorers. After these are completed, the members of the Post will assume the responsibility for planning the future course of their activities.

Organizing the program at B. W. Co. are Marc Locco, Post Advisor, and committee members, William A. Heymann.

Douglas Sutton, George Sullivan, and James Hernan.

This program, which is being promoted by the Exploring Division of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, is designed to enable high school age students to investigate a vocational field of special interest to them.

The Explorer program is open to boys and girls of high school age and currently over 1,000 students in Eastern North Carolina are participating in the program. Results of a recent career interest survey in the local schools prompted B. W. Co. to host an "Impact" luncheon for local government, industry, and educational officials. The intent was to get other companies interested in starting their own Explorer Posts and enable other students to investigate potential career interests.

G. Henry Leslie, B. W. Co. Plant Manager, described the program as one "which provides an opportunity for business organizations' participation in a proven project which offers many benefits to both youth and industry."

Man Charged With Break-In And Assault

Gerald Douglas Spellman, 23, of 1103A North Van Dyke St. was charged here yesterday with breaking and entering an auto and assault with a deadly weapon following an incident in a downtown parking lot.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, Spellman was taken into custody about 4:45 p.m. at the intersection of Pitt and Martin Streets, after Charles Bobbitt of Kenland Manor Trailer Ct. allegedly caught Spellman inside his car parked in a city parking lot near the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets about 30 minutes before.

Bobbitt told investigators Spellman drew a knife and ran when he confronted him.

Bond for Spellman was set at $700.

Miss Dixon In 1973 Edition

WINSTON-SALEM — Miss Peggy Dixon, a senior at Winston-Salem State University, has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

This honor is conferred annually upon outstanding student leaders from approximately 1,100 universities and colleges in the United States. Students are selected by their academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Miss Dixon is an Early Childhood Education major and has been accepted at Atlanta University to do graduate study in counseling.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Dixon of Ayden.

Pedestrian Is Struck By Car

Charles Phillip Butler 18, of Fayetteville, an East Carolina University student, was injured yesterday when struck by a car about 12:50 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth Street and college Hill Drive.

According to investigators, Butler, who was treated at the ECU infirmary for minor injuries, stepped into the path of a car driven by Roman Anthony Williams, 20, of 2614 Tryon Dr., causing an estimated $10 damage to the Williams auto.

No charges were made.

PINE LEVEL — Mrs. Florence P. Styron, 53, died this morning in Johnston Memorial Hospital in Smithfield.

She was the mother of Joe Styron of Greenville. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Parrish Funeral Home in Selma.

Steer
Mr. C. Burrell Steer, 80, retired concert violinist, died Tuesday morning at eight o'clock in a Goldsboro hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Friday at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. W.J. Hadden Jr. Burial will follow in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Steer started to study the violin at the age of seven in his native country, Jamaica, West Indies, and he continued his studies in Colombia, South America, two years later. At the age of 20 he went to Europe and studied in Germany, and in London with Emile Sauret and Rivarde. He was in Wurzburg at the beginning of World War I and was interned in a civilian camp during the war. Then he studied with Capet in Paris and started his concert career and he met and married his accompanist, Dorothy Alice Rice. They gave concerts in many of the major cities including playing before royalty in Norway.

In addition to his concert career, Mr. Steer played with various symphony orchestras including the St. Louis Symphony, Houston Symphony, Rochester Symphony, and Covent Garden Opera on tour under Sir Thomas Beecham. Mr.

Steer, a gifted composer, had several symphonies, some violin solos and songs to his credit.

In the early 1930's he was the conductor of the Des Moines Symphony Orchestra and a professor of violin at Drake University. In his later years Mr. Steer taught violin privately until his retirement. Since 1963 he had resided in Greenville with his daughter at 110 E. Eight St. His wife died in 1960.

Surviving are his daughter, Dr. Helen Steer, associate professor in the Drama Department at East Carolina University; and a brother, Henry Vane Steer of Toronto, Canada.

Turnovers Drop Pirates To Davidson

DAVIDSON — A problem for the mathematically-minded. How do you shoot 58 per cent from the floor and still lose?

It's simple. First you commit 37 turnovers, then you allow your opponent to shoot 60.7 per cent.

Farmville Central In Win Over South Wayne

DUDLEY — Farmville Central High School rolled to a 71-56 victory over Southern Wayne High School last night in an Eastern Carolina Conference meeting.

The Lady Jaguars, however, didn't fare as well, failing to Southern Wayne, 43-32.

Southern Wayne inched out in front of Farmville Central by a point at the conclusion of the final period, 14-13. But the Jaguars did a little better on defense in the second frame, limiting the Saints to eight, while they repeated their first period, getting 13 more.

That left Farmville in the lead, 26-22 at intermission.

Farmville made a rout of it in the third quarter, ripping the nets for 25 points. The limited Southern to just nine, and that ran the Jaguar margin out to 51-31. Southern managed to put on a rally in the final period as the Farmville bench was cleaned, but could only cut five points off the lead with a 25-20 advantage in the frame.

Meivin Bunch had his biggest night of the year, hitting 27 points. McCoy Williams contributed 15, while Phil Lewis added 13.

For Southern, James Murray had 24 and Leonard Pearshall had 22.

In the girls contest, Southern inched away in the first period, taking an 11-8 lead. They also held a scoring advantage in the second frame, 14-12, and led, 25-20 at halftime.

Farmville came back in the third period, outshooting them, 10-6, but still trailed by one, 31-30 as the final quarter began. They were then outthit, 12-2, by the Saintes, who pulled away to wrap it up.

Terry Bryan led Southern with 16 points, while Jaxie Bryan had 10. Darlene Joyner has 10 points to pace Farmville. The Jaguars travel to Conley on Friday night.

That's what happened Tuesday night in Davidson's Johnston Gym when the East Carolina Pirates bowed to Davidson's resurgent Wildcats, 100-80.

The Pirates nearly burned down the gym in the first half, shooting a red-hot 78.2 per cent, downing 18 of 23 shots from the floor. They were cooled off by the fantastic Davidson defense in the second half, however, hitting only 11 of 27 for 40.7 per cent.

Davidson, meanwhile, got off 12 more shots in the first half, mainly due to 17 turnovers by the Pirates, and hit on four more for 63.0 per cent. They cooled only slightly in the second half to 17 of 29 (58.6 per cent) and ended up with nearly a 61 per cent average.

East Carolina, making its first conference outing after one official start (their game with the Athletics in Action counted only as an exhibition), found the going rough right from the start, but managed to stay with the Wildcats most of the way, trailing by only one at intermission.

But in the second half, things turned into a nightmare for the Pirates, who didn't get a point for two and a half minutes and didn't hit a basket for five and a half minutes.

By then, Davidson had torn the game wide open, and the Bucs never were able to get back into the running. Another cold spell saw them outthit, 17-0, and that just sealed their tomb for them.

The Pirates were able to control the boards, that is, when somebody missed a shot. The Bucs grabbed off 36 as compared to 27 for the Wildcats.

But board powers didn't mean anything in this one—the 37 turnovers was the story.

In the first half, after the opening sparring, Davidson pulled away to lead by as much as eight points, a margin they held on several occasions. The last time it hit that was with 5:14 left, when Greg Dunn hit "a three-point play."

But Dave Franklin led the pirates back, hitting a field goal and then getting two free throws. Finally, with 1:26 to go, he hit again, cutting the lead to 49-48, and it remained that way the rest of the half. East Carolina was successful in holding Davidson scoreless for the final 2:45 of the half.

But if the Pirates were successful, Davidson was even more so in the second half.

East Carolina didn't get a field goal until Roger Atkinson hit with 14:29 showing. And they didn't get a point until Ernie Pope got a free throw with 17:35 left. Davidson, during this same period was outthitting the Pirates 12-1 and building up a 61-49 lead.

From there out, they just blew the Pirates right out of the gym. The only bright spot came just after the middle of the half, when the Pirates put on a rally and trimmed the lead back to just seven points. Nicky White hit with 8:36 left to cut the lead to 71-64, but the Bucs didn't get another point until 4:45 was left when Al Edwards made a pair of free throw. At that point, it was 83-66, as Davidson outthit the Bucs 12-0 over the four-minute span.

Shelton Parker led the opening of the spurt, but John Falconi who had more to do with the loss than anyone, hit five free throws over the next few minutes to finish off the job.

After that, the Wilcats slowly build it up to the final 20-point spread.

Tide Table

Tides for the 24-hour period beginning at midnight at Topsail Island:

Lows: 2:15 a.m., 2:58 p.m.
Highs: 8:43 a.m., 8:44 p.m.

Al Faber led the Pirate scoring with 17 points, while Franklin had 15. White and Atkinson both contributed 12.

For Davidson, Falconi finished with 23 points, while Mike Sorrentino had 14. Dunn had 13, while Steve Gadaire had 12, and Paul Wagner and Larry Horowitz each had 10.

The Bucs, 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the conference, return to Greenville on Saturday, playing host to the newest member of the Southern Conference, Appalachian State University.

Tigers Collect First Loop Win

HERTFORD — Williamston High School, fresh from the football wars, waded into the Albemarle Conference basketball schedule last night, and put together a pair of victories over Perquimans.

The Williamston girls took their third straight, 58-27, while the boys won their first in two starts, 57-39.

In the opening game, the Williamston girls shot away to a 17-6 lead in the first period and were never in trouble after the opening minutes. In the second quarter, they outthit Perquimans, 13-4, building their lead to 30-10 at halftime.

In the third period, the rout continued with Williamston pouring in 23 points to just six for Perquimans. That made it 53-16. Perquimans finally outthit them, 11-5, in the final period, but to no avail.

Fran Hardison and Sissy Taylor each had 14 points to pace Williamston.

In the boys' game, the Tigers also jumped out early, taking a 10-5 lead in the first period. They maintain the lead through the second quarter, outscoring Perquimans, 12-8 for a 22-13 halftime advantage.

In the third quarter, the Tigers continued to pull away, enjoying a 17-12 edge in the scoring to hold a 39-25 lead. They finished it off with an 18-14 advantage as they won going away.

William Barnes led Williamston with 15 while Joe Savage added 14. Hayes had 17 to pace Perquimans.

The Tigers play host to Northampton on Friday.

BOSTON (AP) — Boxing Promoter Sam Silverman is trying to line up a new feature bout for a Dec. 13 program at Boston Garden.

Silverman announced during the weekend that a scheduled 12-round bout between former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and Jack O'Halloran has been canceled. O'Halloran reportedly will be sidelined six months because of tendonitis in his elbow.

Paladins Fall To Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE — Fayetteville Technical Institute hurried past Pitt Technical Institute, 82-63, here last night.

Turnovers in the final eight minutes of the first half were the story of the game as the pace got too hectic for the Paladins, who were dropping their first game in two starts.

Both teams came out in a man-to-man defense and both ran with the ball. Fayetteville picked up the first basket, but Pitt Tech matched it. The two then swapped shots until the score reached 10-10.

During the next few minutes, Fayetteville began to slowly pull away, building up a 15-12 lead, then a 27-17 margin with about eight minutes left in the half.

For the next eight minutes, the Paladins failed to connect at all from the floor, getting only one free throw as the half ticked away. At the same time, Fayetteville was scoring 14 points to run their lead out to 41-18.

Woody Monroe led Fayetteville's balanced attack with 18 points, Curtis McNeal added 15, while Bobby Sole had 13, followed by Kelly Rogers and Dennis Gillard with 12 each and Larry Maloy with 10.

Frank Brown led Pitt Tech with 28, while Charles Jordan had 14.

Pitt Tech returns home Monday to host James Sprunt.

Rampants Bowled Over By Bertie, 68-47

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Poor ballhandling and the inability to control the backboard led Rose High School's Rampants to their third straight loss of the year last night, 68-47 at the hands of Bertie Central.

The Falcons, who shot a horrible percentage for three quarters led nearly all the way, but it wasn't until the final period that they broke the game wide open.

Bertie hit only 25 per cent of their shots during the first three quarters of the game, but still were able to push out by as much as 10 points during that time span. Rose, which shot .50 per cent in the first half, just didn't get the shots.

During the second period, for instance, they went through the first three minutes without getting off a single shot. Turnovers did it as the Rampants were guilty time and again of traveling or of making just plain bad passes.

At the half, Rose had shot only 18 times, hitting nine of these. Bertie however, had connected on 12 shots, but they had taken 45, and they led by six.

Rose, down by seven at the end of the third period, got reckless in the final period, and it allowed Bertie to take excellent shots, most of them layups, and they burned out the nets, hitting 14 of 21 shots to turn in a total of 32 points in the period.

Bertie got the opening basket after a little more than 30 seconds when Alphonso Ruffin hit a jumper. Jackie Savage drove in to tie it up with 7:03 left, but Bertie moved back ahead, 4-2. It was tied again at 4-4 and 6-6 before Kent Williford hit to put Bertie back out, 8-6.

Savage then dropped in a free throw to cut the lead to one, then got the ball back and hit from underneath to make it 9-8 in favor of the Rampants with 3:36 left.

It was the only Rampant lead of the night.

William Heckstall hit on a fast break to return the lead to the Falcons, 10-9 with 2:12 left. John Heckstall followed with another basket running the lead out to three, but a steal by George Price cut it to 12-11 at the end of the period.

A free throw by Ruffin, followed by a baseline jumper by William Heckstall and a tap-in by John Heckstall ran the lead out to six. Heckstall hit from the line and it was 19-11 before Phil Ragazzo finally broke the ice for the Rampants.

The margin swelled to eight largest of the half, when William Heckstall hit on a rebound to make it 21-13.

Rose slowly cut away at the margin, however, as Herb Bynum hit two field goals and a pair from the line, and shot by Ragazzo cut it to two, 23-21 with 1:30 left.

But Ruffin came back with two more buckets in the final minute to run the margin back to six at halftime, 27-21.

Ruffin and John Heckstall hit during the first 30 seconds of the third period, running the margin to 10, 31-21, but Rose again came back, hitting shorts by Ragazzo and Dennis Taylor to trim it to six, 33-27, but that was the best Rose could do.

Bertie pulled away again, and led, 36-29 at the end of the period.

The final frame turned it into a rout. Rose got the first bucket, cutting it to five, but Bertie came back to hit four straight, running it out to 13, 44-31. With John Heckstall leading the way, the Falcons began to pour it on. He hit 10 points in the period, and before it was over the Bertie five had built their lead to as much as 26 points, 68-42 before Rose got the final five points to trim it to the final margin.

Bynum paced the Rampants with 18 points.

John Heckstall led the Falcons with 20, while Ruffin finished with 16 and William Heckstall had 14.

The Rampant Cubs, however, got their third straight win, 58-50.

They pushed into a 12-7 lead in the first period, but Bertie came back to tie it up midway through the second frame. The Cubs, however, pulled away again, and held a slim 27-24 lead at intermission.

In the third period, the two teams swapped basket for oasket, and ended up with Rose stillin their slim three-point lead, 39-36. Then, in the final period, the Cubs pulled away, and only a final flurry at the end enabled Bertie to keep it as close as it was as Rose outthit them, 19-14.

Lindberg Morris led Rose with 19 points, while William Taylor had 10. Wade Cherry and 12 to pace Bertie.

The Rampants, still looking for their first victory, travel to Tarboro on Friday.

Big Orange Records 60th Win

BETHEL — North Pitt High School took a pair of games from North Lenoir in Eastern Conference action last night. The Panthers won their game, 40-38, while the Big Orange Machine recorded it 60th straight victory with ANY losses, 60-25.

In the girls' game, North Pitt, going for that 60th one, blew the Hawks right off the floor, dumping in 16 while only allowing four. They outthit them again, 18-5, in the second period, while building a 34-9 halftime advantage.

Things didn't get a bit better for North Lenoir in the third quarter, as North Pitt again outscored them, 14-6. That ran the Panth-HER margin out to 48-15. North Pitt finished up with a 12-10 advantage in the final period to complete the route.

Minnie Hollis led the way to the win, hitting 23 points. Phyllis Jenkins followed with 10.

In the boys game, North Pitt overcame first half North Lenoir lead to come back and hold on for the victory.

The Hawks pulled away in the first quarter of play, building a 12-4 lead before the panthers got moving. North Pitt could manage but five points in the second period, but they were able to hold the Hawks to just four and this was the saving point of the game. They trailed at halftime, 15-9.

In the third period, the action got hotter for both teams, as North Pitt trimmed a couple of more points off the lead, 16-14, and was behind only 25-25. They then pushed ahead with a 15-8 advantage in the final period, holding off North Lenoir in the closing seconds as they cut the gap to two points.

Bullets Fall

BELHAVEN — Belhaven High School rallied in the final period of play to take a 65-56 victory over the Jamesville Bullets here last night. Belhaven made a sweep of it by also taking the girls' game, 50-16.

In the girls' contest, Belhaven pushed out into a 12-7 lead in the first period. Then, in the second frame, they really poured it on, dumping in 22 points. Jamesville was able to hit only one free throw, and that left the hosts in front, 34-8 at intermission.

In the third quarter, Belhaven again outscored Jamesville, 8-4, running the lead out to 42-12. They finished it up with another 8-4 advantage to wrap up the victory.

Bonita Winfield led the Belhaven scoring with 18 points, while Ruby Borden had 12.

In the boys' contest, Jamesville was able to stay just ahead of Belhaven at the end of the first frame, 15-14. In the second period, however, the hosts eased in front of the Bullets, outthitting them, 19-15 for a 33-30 lead.

Jamesville came back in the third quarter and doubled the score on Belhaven, 16-8. That left the Bullets ahead, 46-41, as the final period got underway. But Belhaven broke loose in the last frame, hitting 24 points while allowing only 10, and that was enough for the win.

Carl Hogan led Belhaven with 25 points, while Michael Crude hit 22. Tommy Mizelle had 13 and Alvin Grimes had 11 for Jamesville.

Aurora Rallies

AURORA — The Robersonville girl picked up their first victory of the season, nipping Aurora, 36-34 last night. The Golden Eagle boys almost pulled off a sweep, but Aurora rallied in the final minute to take a 55-52 win.

In the girls' game, Aurora outthit Robersonville, 4-2, in the first period, but Robersonville came back strong in the second frame to dump in 14 points. Aurora got only six and trailed 16-10 as the half came to an end.

Robersonville again outscored Aurora in the third quarter, 9-6, building the lead to 25-16. But in the final period Aurora rallied and finally tied it up. But two free throws by Roberta Everett with two seconds left gave Robersonville a 36-34 lead and in the brief time left, Aurora could do nothing.

In the boys' game, it was nearly the same story. Aurora eased into the lead in the first period, 16-14, and neither team was able to do much about it in the second quarter. Both dumped in 10 points in the second quarter, and Aurora led, 26-24, at halftime.

In the third quarter, however, Robersonville came up with a five-point advantage, 16-11, and carved out a 40-37 lead. They looked as if they might pull it out, and with about 30 seconds left, held a 52-51 lead.

But Tex Hooker hit a basket to put Aurora ahead, 53-52, and Robersonville missed on their last shooting opportunity.

Chargers Overcome Conley Challenge

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton saw the D.H. Conley

Vikings take an early 12-point lead but came back to tie it up and go on to win 71-62 in a game that was constantly being halted for fouls. Almost 75 of them were called during the course of the game. The Conley girls also lost as they were trampled by the Chargerettes, 53-16, but the A-G J.V.'s did not fare as well as they were dumped 47-39.

The Vikings jumped out to a 10-0 lead before the Chargers hit a basket and Conley added two more to make it 14-2. A-G started to warm up and they started to come back slowly. Then midway through the second period, Melvin Stewart scored on a fast break to put the Chargers ahead but Conley went right back in front on a jumper by Larry Daniels.

That proved to be the last time the Vikings saw the lead as Travis Wood tapped in a rebound to put the Chargers in the lead. Rick Mobley had gotten the scoring started when he hit from outside to give Conley an early 2-0 edge. Buddy Phillips laid one in for two more points and a long jumper by Mike Sutton made it 6-0 with 5:45 to go in the first period.

The A-G boys had had a few shots but they failed to drop. Clennel Streeter drew a foul on Sam Stewart and sank a pair of free throws to make the Vik's lead eight. Two more free shots, by Mobley, made it 10-0.

The Chargers finally broke the ice when Melvin Stewart hit one from way back in the corner. Phillips matched it from his corner and another pair of free throws by Mobley gave Conley their biggest lead. Travis Wood blasted one in from the right corner for A-G and Sam Stewart added a charity shot. That cut the lead to 14-5 and baskets by

Wood and Melvin Stewart cut it by four more points.

Conley came back with another two points on free throws by Mobley as the fouls started to come with some regularity. Melvin Stewart got those two back with a swish from outside with just over a minute to go in the quarter but the Vikings, hot from the free throw stripe, came through again to get two more tallies to lead by 18-11 with :53 left. After an exchange of free throws the quarter ended with the Vikings ahead, 20-12.

The Vikings scored three points right at the start of the second quarter to move out by 23-12 but Milton Brown canned a pair of field goals and Sam Stewart a free shot to bring the gap down to 23-17. Jesse Brown made a free shot also and Milton Brown sank a three-point play to bring the Chargers up to 23-12.

Daniels made the lead three with a free throw and Melvin Stewart and Milton Tucker traded baskets keeping the lead the same. Sutton canned a pair of free throws but Melvin Stewart sank a basket from the corner to pull the lead down to one point and then put the Chargers ahead as he stole the ball and scored on a lay-up making it 29-28 with 4:21 to go in the half.

Conley got it right back, however, as Daniels hit in the lane but a tap-in of a rebound by Woods gave the Chargers the lead and they never lost it again. A three-point play by Woods boosted the lead to 34-30 with 2:32 to go and a tap-in by Woods with 2:14 left gave the Chargers a six-point spread. Lawrence Harper narrowed the lead down to four, 36-32 as he scored on a goa-tending call. He missed a chance to cut the lead by two more as he failed to score from the foul line. He did make one with :57 to go in the first half and that was the last point scored in the frame to make the score at intermission read 36-33.

Streeter made a three-pointer for the Vikes with less than 19 seconds gone in the second half to tie it but that was the closest the Vikings were to come for the rest of the game. Six straight A-G points made it 42-36 and from there it went on up to 56-45 with 19 seconds to play in the third quarter.

The Ayden-Grifton lead by this time was so great and Vikings were starting to disappear from too many fouls helped to keep Conley from threatening the Chargers any more.

Melvin Stewart had one of his better nights as he dumped in seven field goals and almost as many free throws for 20 points, high for the Chargers. Woods was next with 16 points and Milton Brown had 15.

Larry Daniels also had 20 points for the Vikings as he dumped in eight from the floor. Sutton and Mobley each had 10 for Conley.

The Valkyries got the lead on a basket by Linda Lloyd after a jump ball but that was the only time the Conley girls came even close to giving A-G's ladies a game. Four straight Chargerette buckets moved them out to 8-2 and at the end of the period they led by 14-5.

Ayden-Grifton continued to pour it on as they pumped in 13 points to Conley's four in the second quarter to lead at the half by 27-9. The Chargerettes dumped in an additional 16 in the third period and held the Valkyries to a bucket to boost the lead to 43-11. A-G added the finishing touches in the fourth period as they doubled the Valkyries 10-5 for the final 37-point margin. A-G's Decia Little led the scoring with 11 and Terry Wooten had nine.

Tar Heels Clobber Dartmouth, 128-86

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

What's this? Ray Mears, Tennessee coach, comes right out and says Marquette would beat the mighty UCLA Bruins, who have ruled college basketball for six straight years and won 48 in a row.

No ifs, maybes or buts about it, either.

Mears made his surprising comment after the nationally fifth-ranked Marquette Warriors had whipped his 14th-ranked Vols Tuesday night in Milwaukee 56-30.

"Their pressure defense is better than anything I've seen UCLA play," declared Mears, who has coached Tennessee for 11 years. "If they played UCLA here at the Milwaukee Arena they'd beat them. They might even beat them out there." He referred to UCLA's home court in Los Angeles.

The Vols, who upset South Carolina 55-45 in their opener on Saturday, stayed in a zone for nearly the entire game while the Warriors forced them into numerous turnovers in chalking up their 74th straight victory at the Arena.

"You can't chase the ball against this team when you have big guys like we have," Mears said. "All I can say is that's the most devastating team we've played since I've been at Tennessee."

Led by Maurice Lucas, who scored 20 points, the Warriors zoomed to 16-4 lead and were never in danger.

Louisiana State upset 11th-ranked Memphis State 94-81 and No. 13 North Carolina swamped Dartmouth 128-86 in other games involving teams in the Associated Press Top Twenty.

Louisville beat Dayton 75-58, Indiana humbled Kansas 72-55, DePaul took Northwestern 88-80, New Mexico downed New Mexico State 88-67 and the Air Force turned back Tulane 81-59.

Also, it was Fordham over Yale 95-81, Cornell over Penn State 74-65 Boston College over Rhode Island 85-75, Jacksonville over Florida Tech 70-50, Gonzaga over Washington State 54-52 and Baylor over Abilene Christian 72-69.

Eddie Talubinskas, a native of Australia, scored 32 points to lead LSU over Memphis State. He might have scored more, but he fouled out with five minutes left. Soph Don Washington tossed in 28 to spark North Carolina over Dartmouth as the Tar Heels set a school scoring record.

Another soph, 5-foot-9 Greg Boyd, paced DePaul over Northwestern with 32 points. New Mexico reeled off 13 straight points at the start of the second half in downing New Mexico State before 15,139 at Albuquerque.

Allen Murphy scored 18 points in leading Louisville over Dayton and Steve Downing was high for Indiana as the Hoosiers whacked the Jayhawks.

Pantego Downs Oak City Five

PANTEGO — Hosting Pantego High School swept a pair of games from Oak City High School here last night. The Warriors won the boys' game, 58-35, while the girls took theirs, 39-35.

In the first contest, the Oak

City and Pantego girls matched point for point in the opening frame, which ended in an 8-8 deadlock. In the second, however, Oak City threatened to blow it open, outthitting the Squaws, 14-6. That left the Trojanettes in a 22-14 lead at the half.

But Pantego came roaring back in the final half to pull it out. They outhit Oak City, 12-7 in the third quarter to narrow the lead to 29-26. They then out-scored them again, 13-6, in the final period to take the victory.

Betty O'Neal led the winners with 18 points, while Vickie Daniels added 10, Sylvia Jones led all scorers, hitting 20 for Oak City.

In the boys game, it was close only for a half. Pantego eased into a 14-12 lead in the first period, but Oak City came back to outthit them, 15-13, in the second quarter and make it 27-27 at intermission.

But that was to be it for the Trojans. In the third period, they managed only two points while the Warriors were dumping in 19. By the time the frame ended, Pantego had worked up a 46-29 lead. They again outthit Oak City, 12-6, in the final period to finish off the win.

Marvin Whitley led Pantego with 20 points, while Raymond Gibbs added 13. Shelton Jones had 12 to pace Oak City.

The Trojans travel to Aurora for their next outing on Friday.

Oak City—Jones 20, Ross 4, Duggins 6, Taylor 3, Reed, Andrews 2, Leggett, Sledge, Pantego—O'Neal 18, Hollowell 6, Daniels 10, Respass, Sledge 5, Allen, Council.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees really took advantage of Baltimore Oriole pitchers. With 13 hits in 36 trips to the plate, Munson hit .361 against the Birds.

Greene Central Tops S. Lenoir

DEEP RUN — Green Central and South Lenoir High School split a pair of games last night in non-conference action. The Rams won the boys game, 65-54, while the South Lenoir girls took their end of the contest, 40-10.

In the girls' game, South Lenoir pushed through six points in the first period, while holding Greene Central scoreless. They did it again in the second frame, but increased their own scoring by 10, giving that a 22-0 lead at halftime.

Greene Central finally managed to get on the scoreboard in the third quarter, hitting four points, but South Lenoir added seven more and led, 29-4. In the final period, Lenoir hit 11 to Greene's six to wrap it up.

Darcie Small led South Lenoir with 10 points.

In the boys' game, however, the Rams were the ones to beat, and after a sticky first few minutes, they began to pull away. It was all knotted up, 8-8, after the first quarter, but the Rams outthit South Lenoir, 18-11, in the second, and ran up a 26-19 lead.

In the third period, they did most of the damage, dumping in 17 points while holding South Lenoir to just eight. That pushed their lead to 43-27. Both teams hit it hot in the final period, getting 22 each, to run up the final score.

Stevie Williamson led the Rams with 15 points, while Ervin Spivey had 13. For South Lenoir, Don Whaley had 21 and Harry Smith had 12.

The Rams stay on the road Friday, meeting C.B. Aycock in an Eastern Carolina Conference game.

Leaders

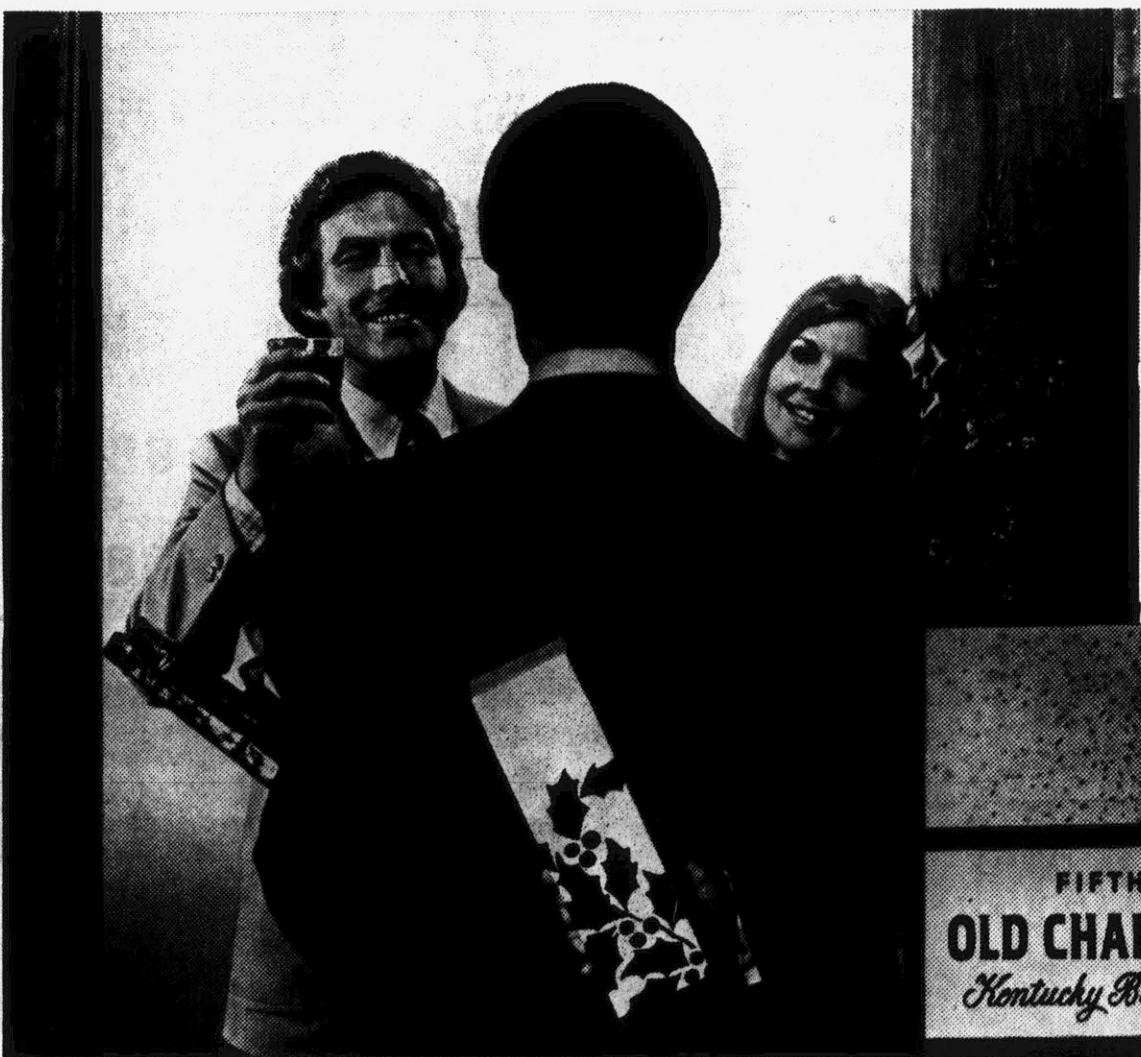

Are Named

Seniors Ron Smith and Barry Johnson have been elected co-captains of East Carolina's 1972-73 track team. It was announced Monday by Coach Bill Carson. Smith and Johnson are excellent students in addition to being good athletes," said Carson. "They are well-respected by their teammates and each of them take a great deal of team initiative."

Smith, a physics major from Hamlet, holds the school record in the 120-yard high hurdles at 14.1 seconds.

Johnson, a native of Grensboro, is majoring in physical education. He is a former Southern Conference champion in the quarter-mile and holds the ECU varsity record in the 600-yard run.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many beneficial influences grow stronger as the day passes; evening is one of those excellent times for putting in effect some new plan of action, for consulting with influential persons, or studying new plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day for contacting important people you know and getting them to help you commercialize your particular abilities. You have fine ideas for improving your present outlets. Keep busy and stop worrying.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) There are several new outlets through which you can better express yourself at this time, so be active, progressive. Making new contacts who have ideas different from your own can produce fine results. Show you are a practical person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Associates have fine ideas for adding to mutual benefits, so consult with them early and cooperate, become a more productive person. Evening is fine for more harmony with mate. A more practical approach is wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to find out what it is that associates have in mind and do your utmost to please them, get right benefits thereby. They will back you more generously, too. Take a more realistic approach to life in general.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are creative, cooperative, and a constructive thinker, worker, you can make big strides in your field of endeavor now. Co-workers will then go along with your ideas with speed. Only light social fun tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into recreational activities you really like during spare time today; do your utmost to please and amuse others. More affection for mate brings fine results. Don't be a penny-pincher.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get busy doing whatever will make your home more smoothly running, comfortable; enjoy it more in the future. Figure out how to have greater success in the days ahead also. Put that new plan to work in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can handle transportation matters well now as well as communicate ideally with everyone. Keep any professional appointment you may have made on time. Don't neglect your shopping and errands of importance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are anxious to acquire more than you have, so get the advice of an expert if you want to be successful in this. Improve property. Make budget changes so it is easier to follow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to have more personal pleasure in the future and make new friends who are more congenial than those you have now. Get out early to the social and quietly ingratiate yourself into the good graces of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't get so concerned about the problems of others and concentrate on your own, then you get ahead faster and solve them wisely. Confer with some expert and get good ideas on how to progress and be happier. Avoid one who bickers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Discuss with some good friend any uncertain matters that have been difficult for you to solve for some time, and get right answers. Show your appreciation to others by repaying important social debts. Have a delightful time in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those clever young people who knows how to benefit by conditions that are unusual and for whom problems are easy to solve. It would be well to slant the education along business lines, money and property management, etc. The mind is so very practical here that there will never be lack in this life, provided the ethical and religious ideas taught early are also followed and practical education given.

For A Change, Gina Is Behind Camera

ROME (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida has switched from posing for photographs to taking them.

Neglecting her acting career almost entirely for three years, the Italian film star used thousands of rolls of film to photograph her country. Her findings will be published in a book entitled "Italia Mai," a picture book of 208 black and white photographs.

Miss Lollobrigida says she traveled incognito all over Italy to take her pictures. She disguised herself by using two prune pits to fill out her cheeks and wearing a wig.

"After a while I changed the pits for two buttons. My mouth was getting sore," she said.

The actress confessed that she had spent "a fortune" pursuing her favorite hobby. She also said she had worn out a car and two cameras in the process.

Gina is not abandoning her film career but she says "in films I am, not my own boss; with photographs I can say what I want."

Gina's book emphasizes the human and humorous — a family of four riding to the beach on one motorscooter, the director of the Bank of Italy staring into an empty safe, a Neapolitan kneeling down and making a superstitious gesture to protect himself as a hear rives by.

She also has landscapes and city views.

Photography has long been a hobby for Gina who also studied painting and drawing before becoming an actress. Her favorite models both on film and in drawings were her former husband, Milko Skofic and their son, Milichetto.

There are 43,456 peddlers in Taiwan, says an official survey.

Pou Is Named Pitt County Key Banker

To coordinate the agricultural activities of the N.C. Bankers Association in this area, J.W. Pou has been named County Key Banker for Pitt County.

NCBA President L.R. Bowers of Whiteville has announced that Dr. Pou will serve as County Key Banker during the next 12 months. He is Vice-President of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, N.A. in Greenville.

For 27 years, the NCBA has received national recognition for its far-reaching program of service to agriculture in North Carolina. President Bowers noting the work of bankers in behalf of agriculture, thanked the 100 county Key Bankers for their role in this record.

Bowers called attention to the projects that are sponsored by the association such as the Annual Farm Credit Conference which will again be held in Raleigh, February 5-6, 1973, the two-week school at NC State University for young farmers who are provided scholarships given by their home community banks, and the co-sponsorship of the Land Judging Meet in the interest of soil conservation. He also reported that the banks of North Carolina continue to lend more money to farmers than any other institutional group of lenders.

Von Braun Says Self-Supporting Moon Base Ahead

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Space Writer
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Space pioneer Werner von Braun predicts Americans will return to the moon within 20 years, drive across its face in pressurized vehicles, erect shelters and maybe even start a lunar garden.

Von Braun, who was convinced in 1930 that men someday would land on the moon, retired earlier this year from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and is now a vice president for Fairchild Industries, Germantown, Md.

He directed the team that put America's first satellite into orbit and led the development of the powerful Saturn 5 rocket that made possible Project Apollo's expeditions. Wednesday's scheduled launch of Apollo 17 is the last to the moon planned by the United States.

Von Braun, 60, said in a telephone interview from his Maryland office that the next Americans to go to the moon will use the space shuttle now under development by NASA. The shuttle will take lunar travelers into earth orbit where they will catch a space tug to travel to the moon.

"So for the entire flight to the moon and back, reusable equipment elements will be used," he said. "This will of course drastically reduce not only the cost of going to earth orbit, but also the cost of going to the moon."

"This, in turn, will enable us to face very sizeable payloads to the moon which may include temporary or semi-permanent housing facilities on the moon. Then there will probably be surface vehicles with pressurized cabins on top that will have ranges of a thousand miles or so."

Why will men return to the moon?

"Well," von Braun said, "I think that the moon will for a long time be a challenge, almost like Antarctica, where we will be essentially after knowledge. But knowledge has a way of also providing payoffs in the most unexpected regions. "Let me just give you a few possibilities to envision."

"The far side of the moon, the side pointing away from the earth, is probably the quietest place we could ever visit as far as radio noise is concerned because the moon's bulk shields off all radio noise from earth itself."

"If we were to put up a large stationary radio antenna on the moon this could be a fantastic research tool for astrophysicists to explore radio emanations from the depths of the universe."

"You can also of course conduct astronomical observations from this side of the moon because it's a unique platform to observe the universe."

"And I think we will very soon, after we have put together enough of these missions, also develop ways and means of supplying people with their own needs on the moon so it won't be necessary to bring all the water and all the air they breathe and so forth to the moon."

"I think it is very little known that 60 per cent of the moon's weight is oxygen, tied up in the moon's rocks in the form of silicon oxides and metal oxides. With just a little bit of hydrogen blowing over some lunar dust and heating it up with sunlight, you can extricate this oxygen and convert it into water."

"Now you can either drink the water in which case you have to replenish the hydrogen, or you can electrolyze the water, again with solar power which is abundant on the moon, or with a little nuclear reactor carried along. You can decompose the water into hydrogen and oxygen."

"Then you breathe the hydrogen to extract more oxygen from lunar rocks. Now this at least would give you, with an initial supply of hydrogen, an unlimited supply of breathing oxygen."

Von Braun also said the upper 10 feet of the moon's rock and soil cover is soaked with hydrogen like blotting paper. The hydrogen comes from a stream of gases flowing from the sun. The hydrogen is evaporated into the vacuum of space but von Braun said it is being replenished all the time from the solar wind.

"And there is an equilibrium between the loss and supply with the result that there's always enough hydrogen on the moon that if you could convert this hydrogen to water, say by burning it in the oxygen extracted from lunar rock, you could cover the entire moon with, I believe, 10 centimeters (four inches) of water."

"Now, I'm not saying that we are ready to extract all that hydrogen. All I'm saying is there surely is enough hydrogen there to get water on the moon."

And that, von Braun said, leads to the possibility of a moon garden in a pressurized greenhouse.

"Suppose you take a cellophane type of bag, inflate it with internal pressure so you can walk inside in shirt sleeves and pull it over the ground so the water won't get lost into the bottom. You fill the bottom up with lunar soil and you can grow plants in this thing."

"You would water the soil. There are enough nutrients in the ground to support the plants. There is enough sunlight there to grow the plants and of course these plants will evaporate all the water they soak up through their roots and the evaporated water would be condensed so it can be recollected and used over and over again."

"So I think the moon can be made self supporting, really, with much less fuss than we think."

When might this all come about?

"Well, the shuttle will be operational in 1980, approximately. And it will really see a lot of use between 1980 and 1990 and I'm convinced that once we advance World Horizons for 12-3 release have this tug and when we have the shuttle that NASA will identify additional moon missions."

"So I think by 1990, you can very definitely expect things like a traverse of the moon in pressurized surface vehicles. There will be at least temporary stays where people will stay a couple of weeks."

Steered Away From MOB Title

HONOLULU (AP) — When it came time to sign a contract for construction of a 16-story, $6.6 million office building for the city government's use, Honolulu officials decided they had better change plans to call it the Municipal Office Building. Bureaucrats were beginning to call it the MOB. Officials renamed it the Honolulu Municipal Building.

Diary Tells About Ordeal In Civil War

MOUNT ULLA, N.C. (UPI)—G. Henry Brown wasn't too happy about the war he was in. Wounded and captured by the enemy, someone stole his money and his only shirt.

A Confederate soldier during the Civil War, Brown was wounded and captured at the battle of Gettysburg and kept a diary which relatives found recently in a compartment in an old trunk at the family home here.

His June 30, 1863, entry said he was "under picket fire all day. Yanks charged last night. Late in the night, charged the heights where I was wounded. Fighting all night."

On July 3, and 4, he stopped only to enter two words: "still fighting."

He was captured at 3 a.m. on July 5 and was taken to a hospital in Delaware.

On July 11, "wearing neither socks, shirt or drawers...moved to the barbox" where, on July 17, his hair was "shingled" to combat the maggots which had infested his scalp wound.

In the prison, which he did not identify, Brown noted that theft was rampant, and added, "the Blacks guard us."

"The only shirt I had stolen Friday," said one entry. The Oct. 14 entry was terse: "$100 stolen." On Nov. 10 he complained, "tent cut near my head last night. Minus 50 cents."

His surviving daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Brown, 93, said recently that her father-in-law was able to make money even in prison.

"He made trinkets and rings and corn cakes and sold them to the other soldiers, using his tobacco rations to buy the supplies," she said. "He was quite successful."

Prison food prices were reminiscent of those a century later.

Brown wrote that apples sold for $7 each, while half a watermelon cost $3. He did not specify, however, if it was Confederate or Union money.

Prices seemed to stick in Brown's mind. During his two years of fighting before his capture, he wrote of apples costing $90 a barrel and turnip greens selling for $1 a gallon.

On May 15, 1863, less than two months before his capture, Brown sat down after he and his comrades "fought all night" and wrote "a Yank soldier's prayer," a sardonic comment on his enemies:

"Our father who are in Washington, Uncle Abraham be thy name. Thy victory won, thy will be done, at the South as at the North. Give us this day or daily rations of crackers and pork and forgive us our shortcomings as we forgive our quartermasters, for Thine is the power over the soldiers and the Negroes for the space of three years. Amen."

After the war, Brown returned unscathed with the exception of a scar from the wound, married, built a home and a grist mill and raised a family.

He was hit by a train and killed in 1921 at the age of 94.

Fraternity And Sorority Will Aid Seal Drive

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity and Delta Theta Chi Service Sorority at East Carolina University will be assisting the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association with its annual Christmas Seal Drive.

According to Robert N. Fulghum, vice president of the fraternity, members of both Lambda Chi and Delta Theta Chi will be stationed throughout Greenville on Friday and Saturday collecting for the annual drive.

Fulghum added that the ECU representatives are hoping that this year's effort will "be the most successful Christmas Seal Drive ever."

Void 2 Excess Councilmen

MANILA (UPI)—The Commission on Elections has voided the proclamation of two "excess" councilmen.

Authorities said Datu Guisara Langoyo and Sultan Radia Tocalo had been proclaimed by the local board of canvassers as the seventh and eighth winning candidates for councilor in Bubong town in the 1971 elections, although that town is entitled to only six councilors.

The Vatican Finally Is On The Map

By BARRY JAMES
VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican finally has put itself on the map.

For the first time since it was set up as the world's tiniest independent state in 1929, it has given a name to all its highways and byways on an official basis and published a plan of them.

The map was issued recently as a supplement to the Acta Apostolicae Sedis, the Vatican's official gazette.

A map was drawn for land registration purposes in 1932, but it was not generally published and did not name all the streets and piazzas as the present one does.

The new plan was published to conform with the rules of the International Geographical Union, a United Nations body to which the Vatican belongs.

It includes 78 place names, some of them going back to Renaissance times, others new.

Grandiose Names
Since the Vatican covers only 109 acres some of the names tend to be more grandiose than reality suggests.

There is the Avenue of Sport, for example. It leads only to a tennis court. The Bastion of the Helicopter is a small square of concrete at the end of the Vatican gardens which occasionally has been used for the landing of what Pope John XXIII once dubbed a "helicop-torium."

Then there is the Piazza Santa Chiara, named after the patron saint of television. It stands in front of the Vatican radio station which, despite wistful talk of expanding into TV one day, remains strictly a sound operation.

An earlier proposal to have an "Avenue of the Black Lands" commemorating missionary endeavors in Africa was abandoned, perhaps for fear it would be interpreted as having colonialist overtones. Instead it has been named Avenue of the Ethiopian College, after the only seminary within the Vatican walls.

Places where Pope John XXIII and Pope Pius XII enjoyed walking have been named after those pontiffs. Well-known places such as the Belvedere and San Damaso courtyards have kept their traditional names.

Map Posted
The map has been posted in the barracks of the Swiss Guard and the Vatican security force, as well as in the post office. But officials still prefer the old-style directions — "through that archway and second door on the left."

Not that it all matters: The Vatican has yet to get around to actually signposting the streets or numbering the doors.

Senior Citizen Party Dec. 14

The Mid-East Program for Older Adults will hold its second annual Christmas Party for Senior Citizens in the Mid-East Region, December 14.

The party which will be held at Moratock Park in Williamston will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The program for the day will feature games, a talent hour by Senior Citizens in the five county area, musical entertainment provided by several local groups, and a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. The cost for the party will be $2 per persons.

Senior Citizens in the five county Mid-East Region made up of Hertford, Bertie, Martin, Beaufort and Pitt Counties are invited to attend.

Popped Corn In Pre-History

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — While modern movie theaters reap a huge benefit from the sale of popcorn, it is believed the practice goes back to prehistoric times.

M.J. Bitzer, a specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, says corn-popping probably was the first use man made of corn. The Aztecs have been known to have popped corn and some was found in America's midsection dating back to 4,000 B.C.

Nashville May Give Birth To Big-Time Rock Group

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nashville — The town of country fiddlers, mountain pickers and the high hill whine—could be on the verge of breaking loose with its first big-time rock group.

It's no secret that the Nashville Sound has been reaching far and near in recent times. What used to be home for only hardcore country music now harbors country rock, country blues, popu, folk and a youngish version of bluegrass. Yet there's one thing Nashville never has produced: a widely recognized rock group. Those days, too, promise to end. The first to do it could be a six-man group called "Jubal"—handpicked from Oklahoma, Alabama and Tennessee about a year ago by Combine Music Co.

Its members have backgrounds delving into the classical, blues and country music fields, as well as rock. The end product reflects their diversity—with everything from a foot-stomping boogie beat, to a soft rock to lyrical ballads.

It's this striking aspect about Jubal which, more than anything else, has enabled them to emerge with a sound emulating hard, chunky rock but maintaining a Top 40 appeal.

All of them are songwriters. And when six songwriters put their heads together and decide to join the world of performers, something's got to give.

It has. And it's good. Says Randy Cullers, drummer-vocalist: "Our look at success is different. We didn't get together and say, 'Now what can we do that's different?'"

"We're just out to play good music," interrupts lead guitarist Alan Rush.

Cullers, 28, grew up in Oklahoma in a home filled with country-western music. His parents were so far removed from rock that he never dared tell them he was a rock drummer who had several songs published.

Rob Galbraith, 28, gives the group its greatest diversity. The roots of his musical experience are buried deep in blues. His ballads, together with solo shots on the acoustic guitar and piano can hold an audience spellbound—as if it's flabbergasted to see the sudden shift from rock to soft work.

Rush, 27, also was reared in an Oklahoma country music atmosphere. Through it all, though, he's emerged with a guitar that thrashed the hard slide sounds or the chordy rock 'n roll beat.

Ed "Lump" Williams, 25, of Birmingham, is the group's bass guitarist, something he does with a rhythm and blues flair reminiscent of the Deep South black man's music.

The group's most musically-unorthodox character is Bobby Ogden, who until a few years ago was strictly a classical musician. Now concentrating on the organ, Ogden's repertoire of music is heavily felt in the group's sound.

The lead vocalist is Terry Dearmore, 25, also an Oklahoma product. The greatest influence on his style quite obviously reverts to the sound made famous by Stills, Nash and Young—and often deals with metaphors. Terry doubles on the harmonica and rhythm guitar.

Jubal's second album is in the making—a disc which embodies a distinct group sound as opposed to their first album, which primarily reflects the work of far-reaching talent trying to get their heads together. On that first album, entitled "Jubal," is a song called "Courage of Your Convictions," which later was made into a Hollies song.

"Things are now beginning to equalize and we're jelling together," said Rush of the second album.

"The impact of the group has really increased with our latest stuff. We weren't a real live in the flesh group at the time we cut the first album. We were more or less studio musicians," injected Cullers.

"This was put together as an outlet for songwriting material. Then we went on to get some unity, and it's really worked in the second album," Cullers added.

Opening lead: King of ♥
West was forced to surrender the game fulfilling trick to his opponent today, when he failed to take the necessary measures to avert an endplay.

West opened the king of hearts against South's four spade contract, and continued with the queen, as everyone followed. With all the hearts now accounted for, there might be a temptation to shift the attack; however, in view of South's aggressive bidding, West was afraid to break another suit. Without any further reflection, he chose the apparently safe exit of the ace of hearts which declarer ruffed.

A club was led to the ace and South ruffed the club continuation. The North hand was reentered with the ten of spades, and declarer ruffed the remaining club with the nine of spades. The jack of spades was overtaken by the queen to draw trump and complete South's stripping operation.

Now a diamond was led, East put up the jack in an attempt to avert the oncoming endplay, but his brave effort was to no avail. South covered with the queen of diamonds and West was in with the king. Declarer now held a tenace in the suit with the ace-nine. Whether West returned a diamond away from his jack, or shifted to a heart—which gives his opponent a ruff and discard—he must surrender the game fulfilling trick to South.

Altho West could hardly be expected to anticipate the precise end position, his holdings in the side suits should have suggested the desirability of retaining a safe exit card. Instead of leading a third heart, it would have been better to get out with a trump which is equally safe.

Had South not been given the benefit of a heart ruff by his opponent, he would have been unable to strip out dummy's side cards and would have been obliged to play diamonds himself. After the finesse of the queen loses to West's king, the latter can now exit with the third heart if he chooses, and wait to score the setting trick with the jack of diamonds.

Offer Music Of Today In The Schools

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Taking Bob Dylan, the Beatles and rock music in school? That is a dream come true for millions of youngsters in today's school music programs.

Popular songs, guitars and electronic synthesizers are being combined with traditional instruments in many music classes, says the American Music Conference.

A major new emphasis in music education is improvisation—allowing each child greater freedom in developing his own musical interests and abilities.

One teacher in California has 4th, 5th and 6th graders "converse" with drums. The combination of drums and the intensity of playing results in a spontaneous musical composition.

The class may be asked to compose music to a piece of poetry written by someone in the group. They select the instruments they feel best exemplify accent points and melodic lines which best suit the mood of the poetry.

Another teacher, in Florida, has turned her music class into a learning center where students are free to decide what they will study for part of the day. The semester's music lessons are all on tape and each child can select the session he wants. Lessons include modern music, rock songs, the xylophone, flutes, music notation and vocal music.

In Kansas, Maryland, Michigan and dozens of other states piano students are "plugging" into electronic labs. These labs contain pianos with individual earphones all connected to a central piano console.

The instructor gives instruction to the entire class. Then he can, by the touch of a knob, tune out the group and focus on individual students for additional assistance. He can also adjust controls to allow students to hear the others or just themselves.

New versions of the piano lab combine a whole range of instruments—organs, pianos, guitars, saxophones and even strings. All youngsters learn and play at the same time, but they hear only those instruments their teacher "tunes in" for them.

Television is also becoming a useful tool for musical education in the classroom, the AMC finds.

Professional musicians are frequently invited to visit schools and work with students. When time and distance prevent personal visits by musicians, television films are made of the performers and beamed to the classroom. Children get a close-up view of the performers in action.

Through television students can "attend" outdoor band concerts or symphony orchestra performances, see a synthesizer in action, watch instruments being made, visit backstage at an opera, or see what other youngsters are learning. Many have the opportunity of "studying" with the finest musicians. And all this without having to leave their own classrooms.

Gerrymandering Is Threatened

NEW YORK (UPI) —The computer threatens to make the gerrymander extinct, according to conferees at a recent New York Academy of Sciences meeting. The participants discussed ways computers can be used to ensure fair voter representation in elections.

Gerrymandering is a combination of the name of Gov. Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts and of salamander. It was invented because of the resemblance to a salamander of the irregularly shaped outline of an election district in Massachusetts that had been formed for partisan political purposes in 1812. The New York Academy of Sciences defines gerrymandering that way, anyway.

Free Busing For Hawaii's Elders

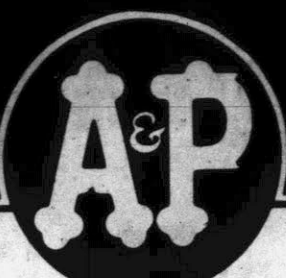

HONOLULU (AP) — Anyone 65 years of age or older has been able to ride any Honolulu city bus at any time without charge since a fleet of 35 new air-conditioned buses arrived in August.

Mayor Frank Fasi ordered the extension of a rule under which senior citizens have been able to ride free during off-peak hours.

The Worry Clinic

The Old Hymns Stir Listeners

Heed Velma's expose of church music! Alas, many choir directors and even clergymen pick strange hymns because of their lyrics. Or to let the choir "Show off" its melodic pyrotechnics! Instead, use the winning hymns below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case U-596: Velma V., aged 26, is a high school music teacher.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I guess I must apologize to you. 'For I also serve as choir director in our local church. 'We have a splendid volunteer choir of 35 voices.

"And I have been using the typical choral arrangements that have been prepared for churches.

"But we haven't received the enthusiastic support of the congregations that I felt our singers deserved.

"The I read in your 'Worry Clinic' that the chief purpose of church choirs is to resurrect the childhood altruistic moods and lofty emotions of the congregation.

"You thus said that strange choral arrangements actually hamper the clergymen by not reviving those old religious emotions.

"Well, at our State Fair a popularity poll of hymns was conducted.

"First choice went to 'How Great Thou Art' with 'In the Garden' rating second.

"Third place went to 'The Old Rugged Cross' with 'Amazing Grace' coming in fourth.

"So the next week our choir sang one of those numbers and the audience overwhelmed us with praise!"

Choir Psychology

The true pragmatic (practical) test of a choir's effectiveness is how well it can polarize the attention of the congregation.

And when revive lofty childhood emotions linked with familiar hymns.

Too many fancy choirs still try to "show off" via melodic pyrotechnics to prove they attended Music College!

Yet we psychologists have long stressed the vital fact that the tempo and even the lyrics are not the basic purpose of church music.

For those are like the bones of a human skeleton.

What makes a skeleton dynamic and appealing is the flesh-and-blood personality wrapped around that bony skeleton.

Same goes for music! At the outset, strange music leaves children (and adults) unmoved.

But after long exposure to the same melody in the same type of emotional setting, then that song will revive that same emotion!

Its later presentation to an audience may then produce tears or happy feelings or religious idealism or patriotic enthusiasm, etc.

The French Marseillaise thus has had to be banned at times to prevent the French from too militant behavior.

Our church choirs deserve tremendous praise and support for their volunteer efforts and many hours of choir rehearsal time during the week.

So it is a tragedy for their efforts to be largely frustrated by the choice of ineffective hymns and strange choral arrangements!

Here are the other 6 hymns in the first 10 favorites on that State Fair poll.

"Beyond the Sunset"; "Nearer My God To Thee"; "What a Friend We Have in Jesus"; "Holy, Holy, Holy"; "America"; "Have Thine on Way, Lord"

Now notice the second 10 favorites in order of preference: "I Love to Tell the Story"; "He Touched Me"; "As Sweet Hour of Prayer"; "Just As I Am"; "Onward Christian Soldier"; "Rock of Ages"; "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder"; "Love Lifted Me"; "Are Ye Able"

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1972.

Air-Cured Leaf Crop Endangered

PRINCETON, Ky. (UPI)—A combination of declining prices, lack of hand labor and competition with other crops is endangering an exclusive Kentucky product—Green River tobacco.

The dark air-cured tobacco is produced in nine western Kentucky counties and is used in the manufacture of plug, twist and fine cut chewing tobaccos along with snuff and some pipe and cigar tobacco.

NEEDLESS WORRY

SAN JUAN (UPI)—Although many private insurance companies feared a negative impact on their business when a government-operated no-fault auto insurance plan went into effect in Puerto Rico in 1970, private insurers wrote some $51.2 million in premiums that year, a boost of 5 per cent over the previous year.

USEFUL

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Many of California's public wildlife areas are actively involved in controlling agricultural crop damage. Each year approximately 5 million birds get in on programs aimed at "putting food on the table." Seed draws the fowl to the wildlife areas and consequently helps lessen crop depredation in the surrounding areas.

The Lady Is Pole-Climber — By DICK HENDRICKSON Elyria Chronicle-Telegram Writer

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — Women's liberationists seem to be "out to cut their own throats," says Janis Kay Ortnor, who recently entered the once all-male ranks of telephone pole climbers.

"There's nothing better than having the guy pay for everything," says the 20-year-old former operator for Northern Ohio Telephone Co.

Since it wasn't women's lib, what prompted her to take up the new job?

"I just like to be outside," she says. "It's a change of pace."

The company recently opened its repairmen's ranks to women. Although the firm has one other on the job at Oberlin, Miss Ortnor is the first in this area.

"This day and age I guess it's one of those things," says one of her supervisors, Paul Robuck of Norwalk. "They seem to be working out. They're doing their jobs."

After having attended two schools to learn general installation and maintenance work and pole climbing, she gets assignments in such regular duties as installing phones or tracing trouble in the lines along the highways.

She says there has been little reaction from the men, though one did a double take the first time he saw her. "I think he thought I was just a guy with long hair," she says.

PUBLIC NOTICES — NOTICE OF RE-SALE NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY

TAKE NOTICE that in accordance with Section 115.126 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, the Board of Education of Pitt County has decided that the school property described herein has become unnecessary for public school purposes and said property has been offered for sale, after which within the time allowed by law an advanced bid was filed on said property.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board of Education of Pitt County will sell at public auction to the highest bidder CASH at the Courthouse door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, at eleven o'clock a.m. on FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1972.

THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED SCHOOL BUILDING TO-WIT:

CHICOD AGRICULTURE TEACHER'S HOME: A one story building of frame construction. The frame roof structure is covered with composition asphalt shingles. The frame exterior walls are of asbestos siding. The building is located on approximately 1473 square feet. The building is to be sold and removed from the property of the Pitt County Board of Education.

The opening bid will be $1980.00 and the sale shall remain open for ten (10) days to permit the making of an upset bid. A ten per cent (10 per cent) cash deposit will be required of the highest bidder on the date of sale.

A description of the building may be obtained from the office of the Superintendent of Schools, A.S. Alford, in the Pitt County Courthouse, Greenville, North Carolina.

The Pitt County Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids on said property. This is the 1st day of December, 1972. PITT COUNTY, BOARD OF EDUCATION
