

Apollo 17 Moon-Bound After Brief Delay

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston
(AP) — The men of Apollo 17 streaked toward the moon today, leaving behind the cares of a cranky computer that delayed their journey for nearly three hours. They left on man's last planned 20th century lunar voyage with a liftoff lightshow which turned earth's night to noon.

"Good show, babe! Little late, but good show!" cried a relieved and elated commander Eugene A. Cernan as he and crewmates Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans rocketed away from Cape Kennedy.

"We had to work at it," said Mission Control. "Glad we made it."

"Guess who else is," said a happy Jack Schmitt, a Harvard-trained geologist who became the first American scientist in space.

After the launch, the first ever in darkness, the astronauts orbited earth twice and then were propelled on a path toward the moon, where they hope to find the missing links in man's knowledge of lunar evolution.

The smooth flight was blemished by only two small, nagging, but not serious problems. An alarm system in the cabin of the spacecraft was sounding without reason whenever the astronauts threw certain switches. Cernan also reported for a time that not all the latches which lock the command module and the lunar module together had operated.

Mission Control said the alarm system problem was not serious enough to affect the mission and the uncooperative latch later took hold.

It was a more serious problem earlier, however, that delayed Apollo 17's launch. Officials on the ground said the last time would be recovered by a speeded up voyage to lunar orbit and Monday's moon landing would occur at the originally scheduled time.

A computer which refused to acknowledge a manual signal from launch control technicians caused the Apollo 17 countdown to stop less than a half minute before the huge Saturn 5 rockets were to ignite.

Battling against time, engineers at Cape Kennedy and at the Marshall Spaceflight Center at Huntsville, Ala., quickly developed and tested a plan to outwit the confused computer.

The new system worked and Apollo 17 blazed into space at 12:33 a.m. EST, less than an hour before the ever-changing position of sun, earth and moon would have forced a 24-hour postponement.

Despite the countdown, the launch was smooth and spectacular.

While hundreds of thousands of persons watched from Cape Kennedy viewing areas, the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket lifted slowly, majestically from its nest of concrete and steel, climbing into a nearly clear, black Florida sky.

For more than six minutes, the rocket's 2,200-foot tail of flame burned away the darkness and lighted the sand flats and Atlantic beaches where the awed crowds watched.

After orbiting earth for nearly three hours, the astronauts re-ignited the third stage of their Saturday 5 rocket. The powerful thrust sent them hurtling out of earth's gravity grasp and put them firmly on their way to the moon.

About an hour later, at 5:20 a.m. EST, the astronauts freed their command ship from the third-stage rocket, which is called the S4B. The spacemen turned their cone-shaped craft and linked its pointed nose with the lunar module, which still nested in the S4B.

After securing three latches which had earlier failed to engage properly, the astronauts activated a spring system which ejected the combined command ship America and lunar module Challenger from the S4B.

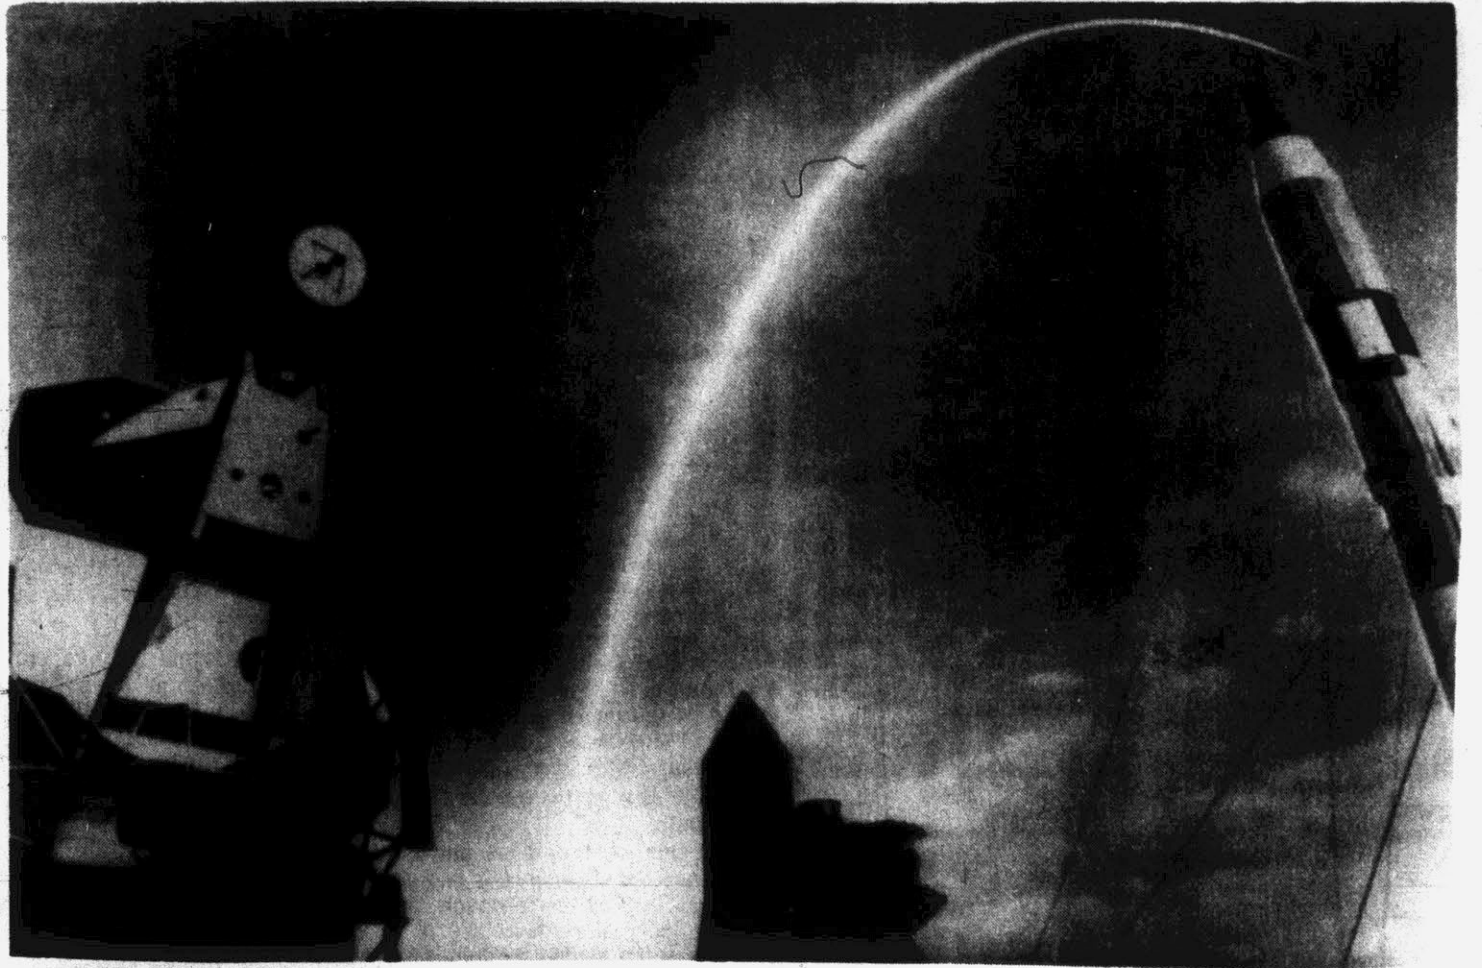

"Oh, boy," said Evans happily. "Here we go. It came right out of there."

The S4B spent rocket stage was maneuvered away from the command ship and then ordered by radio signals to vent its remaining oxygen and hydrogen.

The venting sent the rocket hull speeding away, toward the moon. The S4B will crash into the lunar surface on Sunday, causing seismic waves that will excite instruments left on the moon by previous Apollo missions.

Apollo 17's destination is a valley of the moon thought to have been carved by lunar volcanoes. Cernan, the silver-haired, 38-year-old mission commander, and Schmitt, a geologist on the most important field trip of his life, will guide the lunar module they call Chal-

Mob Attacks Cars, More Than Dozen People Hurt

A HELPING HAND . . . Police officers and firemen help Walter Lee Walters to a waiting ambulance after he was injured when his car was wrecked on West Fifth Street by a group of blacks last night. The unrest followed the shooting of a black man by a Greenville police officer yesterday afternoon. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage)

BATTERED CAR . . . The driver of this car, W. L. Walters, was injured when the vehicle was wrecked on West Fifth Street about 7:25 p.m. Efforts by the mob to burn the car were not successful, although the mob burned a motorcycle and beat and shot it's driver a short time later.

More than a dozen persons were injured—one of them shot—and an even greater number of vehicles damaged as a lawless mob vented its anger on motorists driving along West Fifth Street late yesterday afternoon and last night.

The crowd of blacks began their attacks on passing vehicles after a white policeman shot and killed a Negro near the intersection of Fifth and Hudson Streets about 3:40 p.m.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said the afternoon shooting occurred accidentally as the officer was attempting to make a routine arrest.

According to the chief, officer Charles A. Williamson was attempting to arrest Melvin Brown of 114 Ward St. on a warrant charging Brown with aiding and abetting in larceny after seeing Brown in front of a West Fifth Street business.

Brown ran from the scene and was pursued by officer Williamson, Chief Cannon noted, and the plain-clothes officer lost Brown behind a building. (He turned himself in at police headquarters about 4:50 p.m.)

As the policeman returned to the front of the store, the chief explained, he was confronted by three other individuals and "one of them allegedly used abusive and profane language. Officer Williamson placed this individual under arrest."

A second police officer arrived and "a second bystander was arrested for interfering with the arrest of the other subject," Cannon noted. The second subject arrested, identified as Connie James, 23, of 515 Ford St., "then attacked officer Williamson."

"Officer Williamson drew his revolver, and in an ensuing scuffle, the officer's revolver accidentally discharged, which resulted in the death of James."

Apparently in his efforts to free himself, Cannon continued, "Williamson struck James with the gun and the revolver accidentally discharged," fatally wounding James in the neck.

Williamson, according to Chief Cannon, "has been relieved of duty pending an investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation and the Greenville Police Department."

Young blacks in the area of West Fifth Street began tossing rocks and other missiles at passing cars a short time after the shooting. Law enforcement officers began blocking off a 20 to 25 block area along West Fifth Street about 6 o'clock, but not before a number of vehicles were damaged and a number of individuals were injured by flying glass and missiles.

The worst of the incidents occurred however, after police had erected barricades to keep traffic off West Fifth—the main artery through the predominately Negro section.

Two cars were reported overturned by the mob after drivers drove into the area after barricades had been put up.

The first vehicle reported was driven by Mrs. Clara Tripp of 309 East 13th St. The second allegedly flipped by the mob was operated by David Lee

Warns 'Setbacks' Can Occur In Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho resumed their secret talks today shortly after an American spokesman said there might be "disappointments and setbacks" in the pace of final peace negotiations.

Before the private peace session resumed in the Paris suburb of Gif-sur-Yvette, the acting U.S. delegate, Heyward Isham told the semipublic peace talks that prospects for peace were brighter but added: "The negotiating process has not yet reached its final conclusion."

Nguyen Minh Vy of North Vietnam told the weekly meeting that the Saigon government's objections to the draft Kissinger and Tho worked out last month have "again pushed the negotiations into a deadlock."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong denied speculation in the Paris press that a peace agreement was imminent.

Kissinger and Tho maintained their usual news blackout around their negotiations.

But Isham reported progress, saying:

"Most of the major problems involved in the settlement have been resolved in a manner that reflects credit on the good will and seriousness of both sides."

Mrs. Binh was the only one of the chief delegates attending the session today. U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter was reported suffering from a cold and severe laryngitis; Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam was presumably preoccupied with the Kissinger-Tho meetings, which he also attends, and Pham Dang Lam of South Vietnam also sent his deputy.

At the end of a two-hour session, the second shortest of the four-year-old conference, the delegations agreed to meet again next Thursday as usual.

The U.S. delegation spokesman, David Lambertson, said: "We remain confident that an accord acceptable to all parties will be reached soon." He did not elaborate.

Still Critical

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, fighting congested lungs and a weakened heart, remained on the critical list today but medical officials said his condition was improved.

A statement issued at 10 a.m. EST by Research Hospital and Medical Center, where Truman was taken late Tuesday, said: "His age (88) and the potential of sudden change require that he continue to be described as critical."

The statement said Truman's temperature, "somewhat controlled but fluctuating," peaked at 102.8 at midnight. It added that "the major concern is still heart failure."

John Drevets, hospital public relations director, had reported earlier that Truman's vital signs were stable.

County Welfare Directors Face Firing If Fraud Cases Unchecked

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Social Services intends to crack down on county welfare directors who fail to investigate possible cases of welfare fraud.

Any county welfare director who fails to make an adequate check for possible fraud will be reported to their county welfare board, the board decided Wednesday.

It endorsed the efforts of State Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig for tighter enforcement to guard against fraud.

The action came after Craig said he had uncovered two cases where county welfare directors had failed to investigate lists of welfare recipients who have outside earnings. The lists were supplied by Craig's department.

"We've asked the counties to check these lists to see if the recipients reported their outside earnings to the social services department," Craig told the board. "Now we are receiving some lists back, and it's clear from our checking that they haven't done anything with them."

Welfare recipients who hold outside jobs are required by state law to report their earnings to the county welfare departments, and their monthly checks are reduced on the basis of a formula.

Eight welfare recipients in Mecklenburg County and six in Wake have been convicted of welfare fraud.

John Jordan, board chairman, said, it appears that some county directors are returning erroneous, if not deliberately false information." He added that the county welfare board "should be made aware of that."

In other action the board:

—Directed Craig to draw up proposals for increasing monthly welfare payments to reflect cost-of-living increases over the past 2½ years. These will be presented to the board at its January meeting.

—Adopted regulations that will require Medicaid recipients to pay from $1 to $3 toward the cost of their treatment. This will go into effect in January and reduce government spending by $5.9 million.

Craig said in an interview that welfare payments could be reduced drastically if the state loses federal funds for failing to adequately police its welfare programs.

North Carolina has been threatened with a $5.5 million cutoff Jan. 1 for maintaining an error rate that exceeds the national average.

Facing The Years With Flair Is Aim Of Author Enjoying 60s

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —
Women should prepare themselves for old age much as they do for a career.

"We're all going to get old — birth and death are the only two things we're certain of — and I think we should develop interests to continue when we're too old for our professions. Then getting old wouldn't be so traumatic," said author Lavinia Russ.

AGE, GRACE AND STYLE — For author Lavinia Russ, the three go together.

"The ultimate horror, aside from sickness and poverty, is feeling useless. There should be a way to make grandmothers chic and fashionable," she added.

The 68-year-old author of "A High Old Time, or How to Enjoy Being A Woman Over 60," began taking notes at age 10 for the day when she would become an old lady.

Remembering her grandmother and days spent "being company" for the lonely lady, she vowed she would always wear sleeves because old ladies did not have pretty arms. She said she would never, ever, after age 60 wear a dress with a belt. She would seek advice from a banker or lawyer about financial moves. She would not be a bore, reporting her every whim and problem to friends and family.

She would give her children the joy of spoiling her. Most of all, she would not be responsible for the groan "This is the Sunday we have to go to your mother's."

With fashion hints, travel tips and discussions of health and leisure, Mrs. Russ talked about what she called the 60s syndrome.

"One of the most pleasing fringe benefits there is in writing a book is the feedback. The commercial reviews are nice, but it is heartwarming when someone responds to the book and takes time to write."

"Only two of the letters I received were unfavorable, and those certainly were not disagreeable. One woman was disappointed that I had not found a strong faith and the other was sorry I had not emphasized exercise more."

Mrs. Russ said she began to regret the subtitle for the book when one lady wrote about the book's hints on hats.

"She had a tam-o-shanter, and wanted to wear it. I said women over 60 should not. But of course, she should wear what is becoming to her. It all depends on the individual. I think that subtle smells of arrogance," she added.

The former children's book buyer, juvenile editor and stylist in specialty stores who began making her living by writing when she was 50, is happy about having a high old time in her 60s.

"It takes a lot of doing to have a sunny approach. People say 'It's easy enough for you.'"

But I have low moments like anyone else. It takes a lot of pulling in your gut to keep a light feeling when it's so much easier to slump as you get older."

Sex is a matter she did not mention in her book, and she says when she travels that it's a topic she's often asked about.

"Death is a topic like sex used to be. People never talk about it. Acceptance adds much more to today, for we live more fully when we know our time is limited," she said.

Mrs. Russ thinks people who are involved in something live longer. The passivity in older people is not due to lack of health or strength, she feels, but rather to being cut off from the life stream.

"Loving keeps people going — not necessarily conventional love, and certainly not the lady bountiful, self-glorifying love, but the pure love of others. That keeps people alive," she said.

Mrs. Russ feels that incentive in old people is killed by the present social security system.

"It's impossible to live on with any grace at all unless augmented by help from your children, and that is the ultimate shame. If you get a job, you lose money. There must be a way to keep old people from feeling useless and on the dole."

Mrs. Russ hopes the book will bring her an opportunity to write a regular column for older women. In the meantime, she is working on some radio spots for children's books.

"Essentially, I have a big streak of 'ham' in me. I'm not apologetic about being 'on' all the time, especially when alone. If you are a character in a play or a novel, you aren't whining or defeated. It helps you to stand aside as a critic in the last act of the play. I want to put on a good performance when I'm alone, so I won't be prey to despair or depression," she said.

Brighter Future Ahead Seen For Women's Colleges

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The president of St. Mary's College in South Bend, Ind., says America is on the brink of a women's revolution that will transform business and higher education.

Dr. Edward L. Henry says that women's schools must survive as the only institutions capable of "re-educating girls out of the stereotyped images which society has imposed on them."

Henry quit the security of full tenure at St. John's University in Minnesota to accept the president's job at St. Mary's, one of the nation's largest Catholic girls schools. It had recently gone through the trauma of being scorned by the University of Notre Dame.

The two schools had spent five years planning a merger until Notre Dame decided last year to go coed.

"That left us disarmed," Henry said during a fund-raising trip to Chicago.

"But in retrospect it may turn out to be a good thing. St. Mary's would have been swallowed by a merger and would have lost its identity," he said.

In forecasting the flow of women into business and education, Henry observed there is an immediate need to re-educate both men and women as to the roles of women.

"We never asked little girls what they were going to do when they grew up, only little boys. Scholarship aid still is disproportionately given to boys and the same for fellowships," he said.

"Both boys and girls are dominated by stereotypes, and coeducational institutions have an almost impossible job of re-educating because they must re-educate the boys first," Henry said one reason girls have a difficult time in realizing their roles in coed schools is that they have no models.

Only 14 per cent of the faculty at coed schools are women. In administration, it's even less. And both girls and boys are dominated by men faculty members and administrators who also are victims of the stereotypes," he said.

Henry laments the decision of Notre Dame and other private men's schools to become coeducational institutions and he says it would be a tragedy for the private women's schools to fail.

"Not all women need to go to a women's institution, but it is important for society to provide variegated education," he said.

"There will be day when women, who have been horrendously ignored as an economic resource, will be plumbers and carpenters as well as teachers," he says.

"Our girls, who come from middle-class Catholic backgrounds, are already opting for careers and later marriage. Studies show the average married woman has her youngest child in school by the time she is 32. That leaves by today's working period 33 years in which she can contribute," Henry added.

"The women's college can provide models and it alone can function to sensitize women as to their beings," he said.

First aid for expensive crystal goblets chipped at the edges: a good glazier may be able to grind the chipped area, smoothing it out.

Leash Laws Should Be Observed

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Some of the methods used to discourage dogs from attacking amused me.

In our town we also have leash laws, but very few people pay any attention to them.

Our paper boy told me that he was bitten by a dog which was running loose, and as he stood there with the blood running down his leg, the owner stuck her head out of the window and yelled, "Don't worry, Sonny, our dog has had its shots!"

CANON CITY, COLO.

DEAR CANON CITY: Shots or no shots, leash laws should be strictly observed. Many a poor hound who thinks he's "protecting his territory" has received one last "shot" his owner didn't count on.

DEAR ABBY: While shopping recently in one of the better department stores, I was horrified when I heard the bloodcurdling screams of a hysterical child. I then saw a terrified youngster about 4 years old being held down by her mother while another woman was piercing the child's ears!

I learned that this is a new service the store offers when one purchases a pair of earrings for pierced ears.

Altho I understand it is done by a nurse, I think it is very rude and inconsiderate to impose the sight and sound of this barbaric procedure on other shoppers.

I'd like to know what you think of such a promotion to sell earrings.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD

DEAR NORTH: I think that to subject a small child to such an ordeal is cruel. And to subject shoppers to the "sight and sound" of it is poor business.

DEAR ABBY: I can't forget "Happy in Olympia," the 27-year-old wife and mother who was perfectly happy just being a wife and mother and wanted nothing else from life. I say this is great for her, and probably will be for the next 10 years. But what happens when her children are grown, and want to live their own lives? I have seen too many of my age group (I am 20) struggling with the demands of mothers who cling to them because they have had nothing rewarding or fulfilling in their lives, apart from children.

My mother has been active in her own career for as long as I can remember, but our house has always been immaculate and I have had all the attention I wanted from her. In fact, I keep no secrets from my mother, and I have a better relationship with her than my friends whose mothers made raising their children their only concern.

I suggest that instead of watching talk shows all day, "Happy in Olympia" start learning to do something else, so that when her children grow up and leave her—as they surely will—she won't suddenly feel useless and lost, which is the sorry lot of too many middle-aged women today.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: You're thinking all right. Motherhood is a noble career, but it rarely lasts over 25 years. Then what?

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your letter about the high school girl (signed "Miss Four Eyes") who was upset because she had to wear glasses.

I am enclosing a clipping I have had around for some time. It might interest you and Miss Four Eyes. It is a reported PTA meeting, written by Mrs. H. G. F., occupation, housewife.

"Last night there were fifty-six mothers present at the PTA meeting. Only two were absent. I noticed that fifty-three mothers were wearing glasses. The school enrolment is 118 children, giving each mother two and a fraction kids, and more 'fractions' were visible from where I sat.

"I concluded that if the poem, 'Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses,' is accurate, then seldom is often enough."

Hospital Planning On Schedule

It appears that bids for the new Pitt Memorial Hospital will be received in the spring. Hospital Administration Jack Richardson reported to the county commissioners this week that the bidding stage will come in April or May. Planning on this multi-million dollar project has been underway for some time and we are hopeful that construction will be underway on schedule.

The new hospital is a part of the over-all development locally in the field of health care, rehabilitation and the School of Medicine at East Carolina University. Thus its prompt construction will be essential to the full development of all the things now going on in health care locally.

A modern new Pitt Memorial Hospital will provide adequate space to take care of the health needs of the people of Greenville and Pitt County. The local facility will also spur other developments here which should benefit health care for all of Eastern North Crolina and the state in general.

Planning a new hospital is a complex matter, indeed. We are glad to see that the planning for the new Pitt Memorial Hospital is moving along as scheduled.

Plane Hijacking Steps To Benefit Cuba, U.S.

It appears that some progress is being made in negotiations with Cuba concerning plane hijackings. Nothing could be better for both nations. Hijackings are extremely dangerous for passengers and crew and also for airports where the planes land and take off. It also certainly has to be an inconvenience to Havana to handle these wayward flights.

Some agreement for dealing with this problem needs to be worked out and it seems something might be forthcoming soon.

Tide Turns On Annual Session

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — It appears the North Carolina Legislature is on the verge of becoming body politic that meets annually, rather than once every two years.

The leadership of the General Assembly has indicated without question that it wants the Legislature to go to annual sessions, and they appear ready to fight for it.

And Governor-elect Jim Holshouser says he will not fight such a move, even indicating that it might be the wise course to follow.

The clue to how close the Legislature is of adopting annual sessions can be seen in the stance of Rep. James Ramsey of Roxboro, who will be the next Speaker of the House.

Not long ago, Ramsey told us that annual sessions would come eventually, but he wasn't sure they should be started at this time. He says now he feels the time has come to go to annual sessions.

Ramsey says the legislature could provide for annual sessions without legislation, by adopting a

To the editor:

The statement in my recent letter that Oregon had allotted 1 per cent of federal highway money for bicycle ways was not exactly accurate. What they actually did will probably result in much more money for this type of roadway.

Oregon appropriated 1 per cent of state highway funds. One way that this money can be used is for the state's share of the cost of bicycle ways constructed in connection with federally-aided highway projects. Federal money pays 50 - 90 per cent of the total cost.

"gentlemen's agreement" and adopting an annual budget, rather than a two-year budget, which is customary.

Li. Gov.-elect Jim Hunt campaigned on the issue, saying North Carolina government had grown to the point that annual sessions are needed.

One of the prime obstacles to annual sessions in the past is the threat that the Legislature would stay in session for about six months each year. Opponents of the move contend there's no way person serving in Raleigh could take that much time away from his business every year.

"The sessions must be business-like and observe some kind of a time-limit," Hunt says. "It must be made certain that they don't drag on and on."

Those who will push for annual sessions will do so on the grounds that it ought to be easier for a representative or senator to take three months away from his business each year, as opposed to having to take six or seven months every other year.

Verteran Sen. Herman Moore of Mecklenburg tells me: "Annual sessions will pass this time without question. I've talked to enough people to know. I think we'll limit the sessions in even-numbered years to 60 or 90 days, and in odd-numbered years it'll probably run five or six months."

Moore says he's in favor of annual sessions, but wants to keep a bi-annual budget.

"If we change to an annual budget," Moore said, "we'll be in Raleigh about five months every year."

One veteran legislator from the East, who asked not to be named, told me annual sessions would be a matter "discussed probably on the first or second day we're in Raleigh."

Christmas In Schools

By J.J. KILPATRICK

An unhappy and divisive incident has occurred here in the Washington area, involving the singing of Christmas carols in public schools. Other communities doubtless are experiencing similar incidents. The controversy merits a few observations.

The difficulty here arose in suburban Prince George's County, when Isaac Franck, executive vice president of the Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington, discovered that some of the county schools were conducting Christmas assemblies. Here the children were singing choral selections, among them such "distinctively religious Christian hymns" as Adeste Fidelis, Silent Night, O Little Town of Bethlehem, and Hark! the Herald Angels Sing.

Franck made complaint to Carl W. Hassel, superintendent of county schools, and Hassel issued some fresh guidelines: "No songs or music programs that have a significance for a particular religion should be performed during the period which coincides with the specific religious celebration." This produced a headline in the morning Post: "Schools Forbid Hymns," whereupon non-Jewish parents exploded in angry counter-protests of their own. The unhappy superintendent then loosened the guidelines he had just tightened, and an uneasy truce now obtains.

What is one to say? This whole lamentable affair stems from the Supreme Court's decision in June of 1962 in the New York school

Other Editors Say Med School Story

(The Chapel Hill Newspaper)

In the latest episode of "As the East Carolina University Medical School Turns," ECU President Leo Jenkins is at center stage, wearing a stunning hair shirt, insisting that he, personally, is not going to defy the University system's Board of Governors and lead a charge to Raleigh.

If the special committee now pondering the wisdom of expanding ECU's one-year medical school says no, and the Board of Governors accepts the decision, well, that will be that for Dr. Jenkins, personally.

That little tableau, a part of the scene in Raleigh Thursday, should have been encouraging to those who fear a legislative fight over the medical school will wreck the new University system—encouraging, that is, if the tableau had cut right there. The trouble is, it went farther.

After disclaiming any intention of personally flinging a negative decision back into the Board of Governor's teeth, Dr. Jenkins went on to say that others might very well push the ECU cause at whatever costs. There is strong grassroots interest in Eastern North Carolina in the medical school, Dr. Jenkins allowed. "They have an inherent right to always go to the Legislature," he said, and is some legislators get caught up in the cause, "We can't send out an edict saying cease and desist."

What Dr. Jenkins' disclaimer amounts to is a promise that when the charge comes for the medical school expansion, he personally won't be out front waving the flag.

That in itself is something. But defenders of the University system would be well advised not to doze, lulled by the notion that all will be well in the 1973 General Assembly. There are several episodes yet to come.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Scientists are getting more worried about how long the earth can keep out the welcome mat for an increase in the human race without destroying the planet's capacity to give people a possible home of some security, plenty, grace and dignity.

The human family presently is gaining an average 1,400,000 members a week, or nearly 140 a minute.

Gangsters must envy the safety that the many layers of an astronaut's space suit provide. They are designed to stop micrometeoroid fragments traveling at 64,000 miles an hour, about 30 times the speed of a rifle bullet. But, since the suits are priced in the neighborhood of $28,000 or more each, their market still is somewhat limited.

Considering what fuel costs will be in your home this winter, don't you wish Santa Claus would stuff your Christmas stocking with a few pounds of uranium this year? One ounce of uranium — it's about the size of a golf ball — contains as much energy as 15 carloads of coal.

Opportunity In The Southeast

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Look homeward, young man, for the opportunity to create and build, and to share in the American promise of success.

That's the advice to Tar Heels of the present generation from one who made it.

North Carolina and the Southeast offer virtually unlimited potential for economic growth, said Roy

H. Park. Keeping at home talented, restless young people is the surest way to build the state, he added.

"We hear a lot about out-migration from the state. What we usually mean is the population loss from rural areas of the poor and unskilled to cities of the North. We're concerned about it, and we ought to be," Park observed.

There's another migration which occurs with little notice. It comes when young people with brains and ability choose to go to another state for education and employment.

"When the bright ones leave, chances are they never come back home again. I am concerned about this silent migration of North Carolina's bright and restless young people," said Park.

Apex of Success

A career arc from Surry County farm boy to business tycoon took him away from his native state, but he never felt he really left home. Today he lives in Ithaca, N.Y., managing interests which reach into nine states and Puerto Rico, with assets totaling more than $40 million.

Ties of friendship and loyalty from his days as a student at North Carolina State University remain strong, and draw him into an intimate involvement with the state and its future.

It might have been different, Park surmised, had he gone to a Midwestern or Eastern university.

Park came to Raleigh last week for the annual meeting of the NCSU Development Council, and to assume its chairmanship. That places him in a key role in attracting private support, through nine foundations, for the University's teaching and research programs.

"There are hard-headed reasons to support the University," Park reminded the Council. "It is a vital source to all our businesses of highly educated manpower, superbly sophisticated research and effectively directed extension education that serves the entire state."

Home-Grown Leaders

The NCSU campus, Park added, is one of those where North Carolina can grow its own future leaders for industry and community.

"I just see nothing but great growth for North Carolina. The young people who choose to grow with it do not need to look elsewhere for opportunity," he insisted.

Sound judgment rather than sentiment is the basis for his assessment of North Carolina and the Southeast as a land of promise.

In acquiring television properties, he said, Park Broadcasting Co. made a thorough study before selecting the area to serve. The Southeast was the choice, he added, because of its potential for growth.

Park Broadcasting operates some 18 radio and television stations. The number includes WNCT-TV and WNCT Radio, AM and FM, in Greenville. It has been described as the largest broadcast group wholly owned by one man.

Park also owns farm and timberland in eastern North Carolina, another tie to his native state.

Early Communications Start

He got his introduction to communications as a Depression era college student. One of his part-time jobs was reading the "pony wire" to a string of newspapers. Now he's owner of a Georgia newspaper, and scouting for other likely properties.

The Dobson boy who earned his college education keeps at 61 his faith that opportunity awaits the ambitious youth. It's there, he affirmed, for those with the vision to see it and the gumption to grasp it. "I really think you make your own opportunity where you are," said Park.

He did. Upon graduation in 1931, he read a newspaper and signed only with a Post Office box number for a job in public relations. He prepared his application, took it in hand and camped by the Post Office box.

When the employer showed up to collect his mail, young Park thrust out his application. "I hope you'll read it first," he said. The employer did, and Park got the job.

Success isn't money or material things, but the sense of achievement. A preacher can be a success, and a captain of industry a failure, in making the world a better place, said Park.

"There is satisfaction in being able to do things you see need doing, to spending time on worthwhile projects," he concluded.

Strength For Today Housing Boom Near Its Peak?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — After two years of boom conditions during which construction was begun on well over four million units, housing analysts believe the rate of new home construction is near its peak.

So great is the momentum, however, that the third straight year of at least two million housing starts is forecast for 1973 by many in the industry, and some fear that inventories might exceed demand by late in the year.

The new state of affairs is in sharp contrast to conditions that immediately preceded the boom, when housing starts fell to well under one million units a year because customers were unable to obtain moderate interest mortgages.

Since then the nation's home leaders have been inundated by billions of dollars in savings, partly the result of a self-imposed spending boycott by millions of consumers, and mortgage money now is plentiful.

The two-million unit forecast includes conventional single and multiple-family dwellings, but excludes annual production of about a half million mobile homes while the debate continues about whether they are vehicles or housing.

The surge of mobile home construction has caused even more surprise than that for conventional housing. For several years it was thought of as a substitute to be used in the absence of other housing.

As sales rose each year in the face of pessimistic forecasts, however, the mobile unit became recognized as a permanent although sometimes unwelcome addition to the landscape.

It is widely felt now that the modular home of the future — assembled from factory built units — will draw its inspiration from the mobile home. Nevertheless, it remains excluded from most housing statistics.

Causing analysts to forecast some leveling in the strong construction pace are growing disparities between demand and supply. Inventories of unsold homes are growing, and vacancy rates for apartment units in some areas are rising.

While this generally is considered to be a temporary situation — the nation is believed to need an average of about 2.5 million units a year in the 1970s — it is looked upon fearfully by some builders.

Memories of housing's repeated recessions, sometimes in the midst of an otherwise strong economy, are indelibly imprinted on the minds of builders.

One of the main reasons for year-to-year inconsistencies are fluctuations in the availability of mortgage money, funds for lending tend to pour toward the highest return and so, when money is tight, there is little for the housing market, where a ceiling on rates exists.

In the past few years the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and other regulatory institutions have attempted to assure a more steady supply of funds to the home lenders, primarily the savings and loan associations.

Whether they have succeeded remains to be proved, although most lenders and builders expect an adequate supply of mortgage money to be available, although at slightly higher rates, through 1973.

The possible downturn they foresee is based on those growing inventories. This, says the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, could result in "market indigestion."

Wholesale Prices Accelerate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in wholesale prices accelerated sharply, in November, dampening the Nixon administration's hopes that inflation has been brought under control, government officials said today.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the wholesale price index rose six-tenths of one per cent, both on an adjusted and unadjusted basis, last month. It was the biggest increase in wholesale prices since July and it reversed a recent trend on slower price increases at the wholesale level.

The index was pushed up by price increases of fresh vegetables, eggs and dairy products, cars and furniture, lumber, leather and some textile products. Also contributing to the rise were increases in the prices of coal, hides and skins, and natural gas.

The report means that it will be difficult for President Nixon to reach his target of slowing the rate of inflation to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year. Rises in wholesale prices are usually reflected quickly in retail prices.

In the six months that ended in November, wholesale prices went up at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.7 per cent. That rate has slowed somewhat in the last 3 months, mainly because the index declined slightly in October on an unadjusted basis.

The report showed that Nixon's wage-price controls have failed to bring wholesale prices down much, if at all. During the first year of the controls, the index increased at an annual rate of 5.4 per cent. The bureau said this figure compares with a 5.2 per cent rate of increase in wholesale prices in the 8 months before Nixon froze wages and prices August 15, 1971.

The bureau said price rises in industrial commodities were three-tenths of one per cent on an unadjusted basis and four-tenths of one per cent adjusted. The index of industrial commodities is considered one of the most sensitive measures of inflation in the economy.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds went up 1.6 per cent. This figured to be 1.4 per cent when the bureau statistically discounted seasonal influences.

The report is expected to strengthen the demand for continuation of wage and price controls, scheduled to expire next April unless Congress votes an extension.

It appears the big debate this year will be whether to adopt rules that would allow annual or bi-annual budgets. But from my survey of the men and women who'll make up the 1973 Legislature, I'd have to say annual sessions for the Tar Heel General Assembly are just around the corner.

Winterville Town Board Talks Recreation Needs

WINTERVILLE — Steve Moler of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources met with the Winterville Board of Aldermen Monday night to discuss recreation activities concerning the town and community.

Moler recommended that the town board appoint a new recreation commission. Moler said he would like to meet with the new members at a later date to see what recreational plans could be made.

Alderman E.C. Hines reported that the Winterville chief of police W. C. Haislip and a part-time officer Clarence Barmon both resigned effective Nov. 20.

The board hired Joseph C. Bowens as a part-time police officer.

Fire chief Paul Hunsucker told the board there is a need for more members in the Winterville Fire Department.

According to Elwood Nobles, town clerk, it is the feeling of the board members that the federal revenue funds will be used for improvement of streets and drainage.

The first payment is expected to be mailed at the end of this week, according to Nobles.

John Patrick Jr., a resident of Worthington Street, presented a petition to the board for curb and gutter and paving of Worthington Street, beginning at W. Railroad Street and ending at Mill Street.

The board accepted the petition as presented but no action was taken.

Nobles announced that a Christmas tree for the municipal building lot had been donated to the town.

Music Events Are On Local Calendar

Three major events are on the calendar for the coming week, two of them focusing on Christmas music.

Tonight, at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium, mezzo-soprano Beverly Wolff will sing arias from Mozart's La Clemenza di Tito; Offenbach's La Perichole; and Berlioz's La Damnation de Faust; and songs by Hugo Wolf, Brahms and Ned Rorem.

At 3:15 p.m. Sunday afternoon, the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra in its annual orchestra-choirs concert, will be heard in Wright Auditorium. Featured in the program will be J.S. Bach's Magnificat with the University Chamber Singers and University Chorale. Robert Hause conducts the orchestra and Chales Moore directs the joint choir. Miss Wolff will appear as guests soloist on the program and will sing two numbers, including Mozart's Alleluia.

On Wednesday at the Recital Hall at 8:15 p.m., the Men's Glee Club and the Women's Glee Club will present their annual program of Christmas music. Beatrice Chanucey directs the Women's Glee Club, and Richard Foley directs the Men's Glee Club.

The Sunday and Wednesday performances are free and the public is invited to attend.

For the Beverly Wolff performance at Wright tonight, tickets will be available at the door prior to the performance hour.

Will Speak At ECU Seminar

Dr. David A. Yowell, research chemist at Burroughs Wellcome Company's Research Triangle Park laboratories, will speak at East Carolina University Friday.

He will direct a regular Friday afternoon seminar in the ECU Department of Chemistry. The seminar, "Disguised Carbonyls in Heterocyclic Synthesis," is scheduled, for 3 p.m. in 201 Flanagan Building.

"Weed" is a term applied to any plant sprouting where it isn't wanted, says National Geographic.

Elected Head Of State Group

Dr. Wendall E. Allen of the East Carolina University biology faculty has been elected president of the North Carolina branch of the American Society for Microbiology.

Other new officers are Dr. James G. Lecce of North Carolina State University, vice president; and Dr. Eugene R. Heise of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Allen is an assistant professor in the ECU Department of Biology and assistant dean of the ECU General College.

Santa Has Been Losing Weight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many pictures of Santa these days are in keeping with the current medical preachment: don't get too fat. The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers says Santa has been growing smaller and smaller — perhaps from sliding down so many sooty chimneys.

The very first Christmas cards depicted Santa as a hearty, chubby old gentleman. He's still rotund but not what doctors would call grossly obese — as he was in long ago pictures.

First Lady Of The Philippines Knifing Target

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.

MANILA (AP) — A dark-suited man slashed President Ferdinand E. Marcos' wife, Imelda, today with a foot-long bolo knife as she was congratulating winners of a beautification contest.

A helicopter took Mrs. Marcos to the Makati Medical Center where she was reported "safe ... out of danger." The hospital said the 42-year-old first lady of the Philippines was slashed on her arms and hands and lost a lot of blood.

Guards shot and killed the assailant, who was not immediately identified.

Dr. Constantino Manahan, director of the medical center, said: "The first lady suffered several slashing and penetrating wounds in the left and right arms. None of them are very serious. She is definitely out of danger."

The attack occurred at an amusement park in Pasay City, adjoining Manila.

Mrs. Marcos was congratulating the winners of the contest, who were lined up to shake hands with her. The attacker, wearing a dark suit, was in the line.

Mrs. Marcos had just shaken several hands when the man suddenly pulled a knife from his belt, charged at her and appeared to shove the knife into her breast.

As onlookers shrieked in horror, Mrs. Marcos fell to the ground, and the man appeared to follow her down.

Guards pulled him away and then killed him.

The award ceremony was being televised live, and the attack was seen by the Manila TV audience.

A statuesque beauty who takes an active part in her husband's political career, Mrs. Marcos has shared in the controversy generated by her husband's maneuvers to remain in power.

Mob Attacks

Walters, 45, of 113 East Jackson Dr. He said he had been beaten by a group of blacks after his car was wrecked.

Both Mrs. Tripp and Walters were among the 13 persons taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Harry Schultz, 20 of Winston-Salem was one of two of those injured during the rock-throwing who was admitted to the hospital.

Schultz, according to Chief Cannon, apparently rode his motorcycle past a roadblock. His vehicle, as was Walters', was stopped at the intersection of Fifth and Ford Streets, where blacks had established barricades—made of junk and scrap metal—of their own.

Schultz was apparently beaten by the mob—possibly kicked in the face—then shot several times in the lower abdomen. Dr. Joe Boyette, an East Carolina University professor was also hospitalized—with head injuries received when one of the missiles thrown at his vehicle struck him in the head.

Chief Cannon, who said motorists whose cars had been damaged yesterday were told to report the incidents today, said that more than a score of vandalism cases had been reported by mid-morning. He said he had no idea what the final number would be, although some speculated the number would total more than 50.

Another victim of mob action came about 7 p.m. when large glass windows at B and B Food Lane at 1006 Bancroft Ave. were broken out with bricks.

Cannon, who reported all activity in the blockaded area had ended about midnight, said one robbery was reported during the night.

According to the Chief, three Negroes forced an attendant at Service Distributing Co. at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Wilson Street, to give them about $25 in cash, then left on foot.

Two persons parked on the station lot allegedly saw the robbery taking place but did nothing to prevent it, according to Chief Cannon.

Two false alarms were reported during the night—one at 9:45 and the second at 10:05—both from the alarm box at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Streets.

The only fires occurred when the mob attempted to burn the Walters car, then succeeded in burning Schultz's motorcycle.

By daylight this morning, the barricades thrown up around the troubled area had been removed and traffic was flowing through the area this morning with no incidents reported.

Some 44 Greenville police officers on duty during the incident last night were supplemented by members of the Pitt County Sheriff Department and the North Carolina State Highway Patrol who aided in manning road blocks and in patrolling the area.

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, arrived in Greenville last night and remained here this morning surveying the situation.

East Carolina University's Debate Team finished in the semi-finals at the Madison College Debate Tournament in Harrisonburg, Va. last weekend.

In the preliminary rounds, ECU won seven matches and lost one. ECU victories were scored over varisty teams from Florida State University, Duke University, the University of Virginia, Central Michigan University, Clarion College (Pa.), Hampton Institute (Va.) and Bridgewater College (Va.).

They were defeated by the College of William and Mary. In the elimination rounds, ECU recovered its defeat by winning over William and Mary and moved into the semi-final rounds, where they were stopped by Florida State.

Coach Nathan Weavil noted that ECU's matches with Florida State and William and Mary came out exactly even, with a victory and a loss in each case. Both opponents are considered strong debaters.

ECU varsity debater Vern Jewett was selected "most outstanding speaker" among the 40 collegiate debaters in the tournament.

Jewett and his team-mate Patricia Meads Ellis recently won matches with several of the antion's top debate teams at the UNC-Chapel Hill tournament.

Opening lead: King of ♠ Promotion of North's trump holding in today's hand brings it up to the 13 points required to offer partner a jump raise. Since South held a minimum opening, he merely carried on to game and the bidding subsided.

West opened the king of hearts and was permitted to hold the trick, as East followed with the three. West assumed that when his partner failed to give him an encouraging signal in the suit, that South must have the ace. He feared that a continuation might offer declarer an opportunity to develop North's long card for a discard by playing the ace and another heart.

Deciding that it was necessary to attack diamonds without delay, West shifted to the five of that suit. East played the jack which dislodged declarer's ace.

South had already conceded

ed one heart trick and was confronted with an additional loser each in hearts and diamonds. If the king of spades did not succumb, his contract might go on the rocks. Before making a play in trumps, however, declarer decided to take a finesse first in clubs.

If the queen were favorably located, South planned to discard one of his red suit losers on North's third club, thereby assuring the success of his contract. Even if the finesse failed, the defense could do no better than cash a diamond trick inasmuch as declarer still had the ace of hearts.

A club was led and the jack was played from dummy. East won the trick with the queen, cashed the queen of diamonds and shifted to a heart. South put up the ace and played the dummy's high clubs, discarding his remaining heart on the third round. He now tried the spade finesse as a last resort; however, when West turned up with the king, the decision went in favor of the defense.

West's diamond shift at trick two was the key play of the deal. If he continues with a heart, declarer is in position to restrict his losses by playing the ace and another heart to clear the suit. If a diamond shift is now forthcoming, South is in with the ace and cashes the ace of trumps, permitting the king to remain outstanding. He then crosses over the dummy in clubs and plays the 13th heart on which he disposes of his remaining diamond. The defense is thereby limited to two heart tricks plus the king of spades.

Apollo 17 Lift-Off His Ticket To Splashdown

By BILL ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
CAVE CREEK, Ariz. (AP) — For 12-year-old Kevin Steen, a slender, blond-haired boy who doctors say should have died two years ago, the Apollo 17 liftoff was his ticket to a Pacific Ocean trip.

He will be aboard the USS Ticonderoga when crewmen from the American carrier pluck the Apollo 17 astronauts from the Pacific after they splash down to complete their lunar journey.

Kevin sat excitedly in front of the television set Wednesday night and watched the fiery lift-off from Cape Kennedy, Fla. Surrounding him were photos of his Apollo heroes neatly lined on a wall beside scale models of the U.S. spacecrafts.

Two years ago, physicians at the Mayo Clinic operated on young Steen for the ninth and apparently final time.

Nothing was removed, they said, because cancer had spread into virtually all parts of his abdomen — both kidneys, his back muscles, blood vessels and more. During eight earlier operations, parts of one lung, lymph node and other organs had been removed. "They told us if they removed the cancer everywhere it was, they would have had to remove just about everything," said Kevin's father, Orion Steen Jr. "They told us he'd be dead within six weeks."

"God only knows why he is alive today. We came home, bought a cemetery lot, contacted a funeral home and had ourselves all prepared to bury Kevin, but suddenly it dawned on us that he wasn't following the pattern, he wasn't dying."

Today, the boy is in what physicians call a "state of remission."

"We realize he could die within three months if the cancer became active again," his father said. "But there's a theory that when a person has a will strong enough, he can overcome the chemistry of his body, that it can be a deterrent to death."

For Kevin, the major deterrent stems from the Apollo projects, according to his father.

"I want to become an astronaut," said Kevin. "That's all I ever think about. That's all I ever dream about."

Since the boy was told more than two years ago he would die, he has personally met half a dozen astronauts and has corresponded with 50 others. He has made special trips — and been the guest — to see two Apollo blastoffs. Six weeks ago, Navy Rear Adm. J.L. Butts invited him to be aboard the Ticonderoga when the astronauts return to earth.

Kevin is scheduled to fly to Hawaii on Dec. 15 and on the same day board a Navy flight for Samoa to meet the Ticonderoga. He is to return to Hawaii on Dec. 20 en route home.

Set Fire That Killed Himself

RALEIGH (AP) — A Central Prison inmate touched off the fire that swept through his cell last week, killing himself, the state medical examiner has ruled.

Dr. Page Hudson said Wednesday John Davis Cuttino, 33, died of "thermal burns" that were self-inflicted. Officers removed Cuttino from his burning cell the night of Nov. 28 and he died about 45 minutes later.

Cuttino was sentenced in Durham County in 1968 to life for rape.

APPOINTED — The White House announced Wednesday the appointment of South Carolina textile manufacturer Frederick B. Dent, above, as Secretary of Commerce. He will succeed Peter Peterson in the post. (AP Wirephoto)

Gunman Shot In Holdup

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Police say a rookie officer shot and killed a 31-year-old man who was holding a woman hostage with a gun at her head in a downtown Atlanta loan company.

The slain man was identified as Larry Lee Miner, 31, from Columbus, Ohio.

According to police, the gunman had held up a nearby employment office Wednesday and had taken a woman clerk, Teresa Mathis, 18, as hostage. He then entered the loan company.

Patrolman R. S. Johnson, 22, said that when he answered a call to the loan company he saw "the man holding the young woman with a gun on her. He was shouting that he'd kill her."

"He backed up against a wall with her. Some of the officers moved around to another door. He turned slightly to glance at them and dropped her down a little."

"His profile was exposed for a second and I fired," Johnson, a member of the force for less than a year, said the bullet struck the gunman in the head.

"I wasn't afraid of hitting the girl," Johnson said. "I knew I could put the shot where I wanted it. What I was afraid of was that his reflexes would cause

Choir Won't Be Wearing Robes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The choir of the Central Christian Church here won't be wearing robes during the Christmas services.

Thieves stole them from the church basement, church officials said.

The 20 gold and purple robes, valued at $400, can't be replaced immediately on the church's budget.

NONE KILLED
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that no Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week. But it said three Americans died from non-hostile causes, one was missing or captured and seven were wounded.

Apollo 17 . . .

lenger to a moon landing among ancient mountains.

The landing is scheduled for 2:55 p.m. EST Monday.

The site, called Taurus-Littrow for nearby moon features, is thought to contain rocks and dust that will be among the oldest and youngest on the moon. Scientists hope the samples will complete volumes at the beginning and end of the encyclopedia of lunar history.

Evans, a Vietnam combat veteran on his first space voyage, will remain in lunar orbit aboard the command ship named America. He will operate a science package which will probe the moon with cameras and electronic instruments.

During 75 hours on the moon, Cernan and Schmitt will make three excursions in an electric car — the lunar rover — and explore more than 20 miles of the moon's surface. They will gather about 210 pounds of rock and dust, erect an atomic-powered science station and take thousands of pictures.

Apollo 17's launch was viewed by the famous and near-famous from a dozen walks of life. Those at Cape Kennedy for the launch included Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, congressmen, ambassadors, foreign dignitaries and a group of stage and movie stars.

The first two men to walk on the moon, Apollo 11 crew members Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., also were there.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early part of day is excellent for increased energy, charm and the ability to get what you want with ease, but the latter part of day and evening find a considerable amount of resentment present with the urge to break up existing conditions unwisely that have been found workable.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Daytime is fine for conferring with higher-ups and making headway in your special field of endeavor, but keep pretty much to yourself in p.m. Make your plans early and then carry through diligently.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have excellent ideas for advancement early and should put the most practical in operation quickly; other ideas should await the morning. Take time for research work needed. Rest tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you attend to obligations quietly during the day, you find they are handled quickly and well. Don't jeopardize harmony with mate in p.m. by some careless remark. Show you are stable, dependable.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) During day you are able to reach a better understanding with a fascinating new associate. Do not carry discussions over into the evening, when the aspects are not good for advancement. Civic duty also should be handled well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get your tasks done well and completed early if you really apply yourself during the day; then you have time left for improving health. Do nothing that can irritate fellow workers. Don't overdo about anything.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) This can be a fine day for you if you contact right people and work along proper lines with them. Get your particular skills functioning properly. Solitude is best in p.m. when you can do some interesting or important studying.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Act quickly on whatever will make conditions at home much better in a.m., but make sure you do not start an argument there in p.m. Get the gadgets that will make your home more smooth running. Take the exercise you need in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the work that will make your life more affluent and pleasant in the future, then enjoy some hobby you like in p.m. Correspondence should be handled early and well. Don't take risks of any kind today or tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with that expert you know just how to improve your financial position and make sure that you do not overspend, overinvest later. Improve budget and any property you may own. Avoid one who gets on your nerves.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) During the day you get excellent ideas for gaining your finest personal aims, so follow through on them, but tonight take it easy. Group meetings are good until 5 p.m. Accomplish much.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Meet with experts to plan to have more success in the future and forget all that gadding about socially for now. Evening is not good for coming to definite decisions. Lend a helping hand to one who needs it badly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can reach a fine understanding with others during day, but reserve the evening for your own kind of quiet amusement. Quietly state to others your personal aims now. Gain the cooperation of others easily.

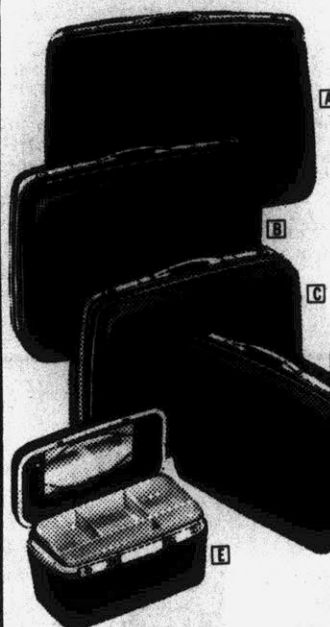

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who is a born organizer and therefore the education should be slanted along such lines since the greatest success can come from such specialized avenue of expression. Your youngster will always want to know the real motive and plans behind any work before putting all of his or her effort into it. The success can be as big as the expectations are. Give good spiritual training early, though.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

New, Rapid Detection

NEW YORK (UPI)—Medical science has developed a method of quick and painless early detection of cystic fibrosis, the mysterious ailment that attacks the lungs with excess mucus secretions.

The cystic fibrosis analyzer, developed by Sherwood Medical Industries of St. Louis, uses a cup-like device to obtain a perspiration sample from the patient's forearm. The sample collection cup is inserted with a special plug into an electronic scanner which gives a direct reading to the technician in minutes.

Experience with cystic fibrosis has shown that sweat gland secretion is about the most reliable indicator of the possible presence of the disease. Other symptoms, such as coughing, wheezing, rapid breathing, bulky diarrhea and failure of a baby to gain weight, also may be present in other diseases and make positive diagnosis difficult.

Cystic fibrosis affects about one in a thousand children. There is no cure for it. But modern therapy has increased the average victim's lifespan from pre-school age to about 12 or 13 years.

Jack Paar Still In Rebel's Role

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP TELEVISION WRITER
NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Paar held a press conference the other day at the 21 Club. There was a bar, and a lot of people who write about television showed up.

The proceedings had an old-fashioned flavor, partly because you don't see as many press conferences for television stars as you used to. Somebody apparently outlived them on grounds nothing sensible ever occurs.

But there was Paar, a rebel to the last, braving the misquote to nighttime television on a one-week-a-month basis next year on the ABC television network.

"If I ramble, just bring me back and don't write it all down because you won't have enough pads," he advised the scribes.

Paar, who left NBC's "Tonight" show in 1962 after five lively years, starts doing "Jack Paar Tonight" for ABC next Jan. 8 at 11:30 p.m.

Dick Cavett, who occupied that time slot on a weekly basis until laid low by ratings, now will do his show just one week each month. Assorted comedy, dramatic and variety shows will fill the intervals between the Paar and Cavett weeks.

Paar emphasized that he agreed to do his shows for ABC only on the provision that the network retain Cavett's services.

"And it was not a demand," Paar continued, adding that his contracts with ABC specify that "because of our mutual interest in Dick Cavett, he will be given the same amount of time as me."

Paar gave Cavett his start as a writer on the old NBC "Tonight" show.

Then he revealed, possibly for the first time, that he's seen Johnny Carson do the "Tonight" show five times at most. He said he doesn't watch the show more often because he really doesn't care for it or the hour it appears in Key Biscayne, Fla., where he now lives.

"I have no need for that kind of entertainment," Paar said. "Actually, I don't. I don't have any need for my kind of entertainment. I would actually rather read."

He also predicted that reporters would start writing stories about a Paar-Carson ratings battle and added: "It's most unfair if you do it that kind of way, but what the hell. It's a story."

The questions and answers went on and on. At one point, a writer asked: "Jack, what do you think of the new permissiveness in television?"

It was an absorbing press conference. I kid you not.

USC, Nebraska Lead All-American Picks

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN, Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two players from No. 1-ranked Southern California and three from Nebraska's deposed national champions, including Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, were named today to The Associated Press All-American football team for 1972.

Four members from the 1971 All-America team made it for the second year in a row, including Oklahoma's super runner Greg Pruitt. He was joined in the 1972 backfield by quarterback John Huftnagel of Penn State and running backs Otis Armstrong of Purdue and Woodrow Green of Arizona State.

The other repeaters are middle guard Rich Glover of Nebraska, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top interior lineman, offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore of Texas and center Tom Brahaney of Oklahoma.

The third Nebraska representative is defensive end Willie Harper while top-ranked Southern Cal is represented by tight end Charles Young and sophomore linebacker Richard Wood.

Rodgers, Harper, guard John Hannah of Alabama and defensive back Robert Popelka of Southern Methodist all moved up from the second team of a year ago while Brad Van Pelt, Michigan State's towering 6-foot-5 safety, climbed from the 1971 third team.

Rounding out the elite 22-man All-America squad for 1972 are tackle John Hicks of Ohio State, guard Ron Rusnak of North Carolina, defensive end Roger Goree of Baylor, defensive tackles Greg Marx of Notre Dame and Derland Moore of Oklahoma, linebackers Randy Gradishar of Ohio State and John Skorupan of Penn State and defensive back Calvin Jones of Washington.

Wood, who calls defensive signals for Southern Cal's unbeaten Trojans, is the only sophomore on the All-America team while Green, Hicks and Gradishar are juniors.

Rodgers wound up regular season play with four National Collegiate Athletic Association records, seven Big Eight Conference marks and 19 Nebraska records. He has scored 46 touchdowns, 276 points, caught 150 passes for 2,708 yards and 26 touchdowns and has returned punts for 1,654 yards. In all-purpose running, he has an NCAA record 5,586 yards.

Huftnagel has directed Penn State to 26 victories in 28 games since becoming the starting quarterback midway in the 1970 season. He holds nine Penn State records, including game, season and career marks for passing and total offense yardage.

Oklahoma's opponents overloaded their defenses to the outside to take away Pruitt's explosive sweeps and he didn't approach his 1,665 yards of last season. But Coach Chuck Fairbanks said he still "had a heckuva year for us."

Although he missed one Arizona State game with a knee injury, Green still galloped for 1,363 yards and 15 touchdowns. He had the professional scouts drooling even last year.

Purdue's Armstrong is likely to be a first-round pick when the National Football League does its drafting early next year. He was the only player to be named AP Back of the Week twice this season and he did it by gaining a school record 233 yards against Northwestern.

Tight end Young is outstanding whether he's catching the football or blocking. "He has outstanding speed and can catch the ball," says Southern Cal Coach John McKay. "He can go deep as well as short, almost like a split receiver."

McKay also says that Southern Cal's defense deserves three-fourths of the credit for the Trojans' No. 1 ranking and Wood is the leader. "He's as fine a defensive football player as I've ever seen at this stage of development," says McKay.

Brahaney, Hannah, Sisemore and Hicks were largely responsible with their blocking for their teams' high finish in the national rushing statistics. Oklahoma was tops, while Alabama, Texas and Ohio State all wound up among the top 11.

Rusnak is rated one of the finest blockers in North Carolina history. Even though opponents hesitate to try and skirt Harper's end, he still is the key man on Nebraska's pass rush and containing the Wishbone sweep.

He's big, tough and mobile with 4.6 speed over 40 yards. The other end, Baylor's Goree, was the Southwest Conference's Defensive Sophomore of the Year in 1970 and Defensive Player of the Year last season. Against Arkansas, he made 16 tackles and blocked two punts, a performance which forced the Razorbacks into punting on third down just in case he did it again.

Marx could have joined the pro ranks a year ago, but he had a year of eligibility left because he broke his arm in his sophomore year and decided to come back. Needless to say, Notre Dame is glad he did.

Oklahoma's Moore reached his peak in the Sooners' 27-0 rout of Texas. He made 10 tackles, blocked a quick kick which Oklahoma recovered for a touchdown, recovered a battered pitchout in the end zone for another touchdown and pressured the Texas quarterback into an interception.

Like Wood, Gradishar and Skorupan earned AP Lineman of the Week honors during the season. George Hill, Ohio State's defense coordinator, says Gradishar "has great speed and ability to get outside and he's a great pass defender."

We count on him each week to make the big plays. He's just a great football player; what else can you say?"

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno says Skorupan is "one of the finest linebackers we have had. He compares very favorably with the outstanding linebackers we have had in recent years."

Jones, smallest player on the All-America team at 5-9 and 170, had overcome his lack of size to win Pacific-8 honors three years in a row.

Southern Methodist's Popelka has 9.7 speed for the 100 and impressed one pro scout to say: "He was the best defensive back I saw all season. He's got real good speed, but the thing that impresses me is that he always seems to be in the right place. He just has a nose for the football."

Van Pelt is a three-sport star at Michigan State—football, basketball and baseball—who says he doesn't feel comfortable "unless I'm playing some sport."

Say President

'Hurting Team'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins quarterback Billy Kilmer says President Nixon is "really hurting us" by being a vocal fan of his hometown team.

In a Washington Post article Sunday, Kilmer was quoted as saying the President is "something else. He calls all the time. He even called the coach on election night to talk about the game."

Kilmer said comments favoring the Redskins prior to a game hurt the team.

The Apollo 17ers are heading for the moon but the Philadelphia 76ers will settle for third place in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division.

The 76ers are a long way from the moon but they're just 3½ games behind the Buffalo Braves following Wednesday night's 122-117 triumph over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, only their third success in 27 starts.

Elsewhere, Baltimore whipped Portland 115-102 and Phil Chenier set a club regulation-time record with 53 points, Seattle took Milwaukee 95-91 and Detroit downed Phoenix 114-105.

John Q. Trapp scored 10 of his career-high 35 points in the fourth period to pace the 76ers over the Kings. He gave Philadelphia the lead for good at 104-102 on a jumper with 7½ minutes left. Fred Carter, who scored 28 points, and Kevin Loughery, who added 23, then combined for 10 points as the 76ers opened a 117-109 bulge.

KC-Omaha's Nate Archibald scored 34 points and added 10 assists, but he felt he had a bad night after hitting only 12 of 39 floor shots. "They gave me the jump, but I missed a lot of shots," he said.

Baltimore's Chenier hit on 22 of 31 shots—he scored 13 points in the final period to help stave off a Portland rally—and erased the 49 points scored by Earl Monroe when he was with the Bullets. However, Monroe scored 56 points when that game went into overtime for the over-all club record. Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 36. Lee Winfield and rookie Bud Stallworth each sank two free throws in the final 12 seconds to help Seattle beat Milwaukee despite 35 points by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Bucks. Spencer Haywood paced the Sonics with 32.

Bob Lanier scored 34 points and grabbed a career-high 26 rebounds as Detroit downed Phoenix for the Pistons' fifth straight home win. Charlie Scott paced the Suns with 28. Right fielder Cesar Geronimo of the Cincinnati Reds batted .220 in 94 games with Houston in 1971. This year, Cesar hit .275 in 120 games for the Reds.

Four Enshrined In Hall Of Fame

DURHAM (AP)—The North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame has welcomed four more all-time greats into its growing ranks.

Inducted Wednesday night at the Hall's 10th annual awards banquet and reception were bowler Maxine Allen, football players Dan Hill Jr. and John Baker, and basketball player Dickie Hemric.

"It is the greatest honor that has ever happened to me," said Miss Allen, formerly of Durham and now of Greensboro. "I hope I can live up to the standards others in the Hall of Fame have set."

Hill, who played on Duke University's 1939 Rose Bowl team, said he did not accept the honor as an individual but "for those teammates who were on that Rose Bowl team with me." Hill makes his home in Durham.

Baker, who has thrown himself into fulltime parole work in his native Raleigh, said, "Throughout my professional football career, I had numerous honors but nothing which means so much as being inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame."

Hemric, who makes his home at Jonesville, said, "I'm thrilled to be one of the 44 Tar Heel elites. I hope I can carry on as the others before me have."

The new inductees presented momentos, each significant to the stars. Miss Allen presented a set of duckpin balls. Hemric donated his old No. 24 Wake Forest basketball jersey. Baker presented a helmet he received during his freshman football days at North Carolina Central University.

Hill presented a sign which rode the rear of the train that carried the Blue Devils to the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena, Calif.

Deacs, Furman Take Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Duke basketball Blue Devils travel to the West Coast to take on Santa Clara Friday night in the opening round of the Cable Car Classic in the Oakland, Calif., Coliseum.

At the same time, Virginia will be at Wake Forest in an Atlantic Coast Conference game, and North Carolina State will be home to South Florida.

ACC teams are idle tonight.

Duke has played one game so far, opening last Saturday with a 98-74 victory over William and Mary. Santa Clara lost 84-73 to Brigham Young, and then came back the next night to defeat Brigham Young, 66-64.

William and Mary, which has lost all its four games this season, was defeated 86 to 71 at home by Wake Forest Wednesday night in one of three games played by ACC teams.

Tony Byers scored 31 points for the Wake Forest Deacons, who have won all their four games.

Virginia, Wake Forest's opponent Friday, also undefeated, won 85-67 at home from Virginia Military Institute. The Cavaliers jumped out to a 19-0 lead and were ahead 49-22 at halftime.

Barry Parkhill, a second team All-America last year and the player of the year in the ACC, scored a career-low six points. However, the slack was taken up by sophomore center Dan Gerard, who had 25 points and 14 rebounds, and by junior forward Bob McKeag, who scored 21 points. McKeag hit 10 of 12 shots from the floor.

Furman of the Southern Conference beat Clemson 83-69, the Tigers second loss in three games.

Jaguar Lassies Must Improve Their Shots

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

Going into Tuesday night's game, the Farmville Central girls' basketball team had yet to record a victory, but first year coach Hilda Worthington feels that a victory should not be too far down the line.

Mrs. Worthington has only three lettermen back from last year's team, and just one starter, Dewanda Davis. "Linda Anderson was a sometime starter," she said, "and she and Dewanda are both starting so far this year."

Needless to say, the Jaguar Ladies are much lacking in experience. "It's very, very thin," Mrs. Worthington said. And fundamentals isn't very deep either. "We're having to learn the basics. We just don't have the background that some teams like North Pitt have. But we've already shown a 100 per cent improvement over last year."

Shooting is probably the key problem the Jaguar lassies have. "They try to rush their shots too much," the coach said. "This comes from inexperience. They're not taking aim but just shooting in the general direction of the basket. They are good when they take their time, but I think they get some 'butterflies' during the game. But they will improve and be good and we're going to win some games," she promised.

As far as speed is concerned, Mrs. Worthington says that some of the girls have it and some don't. "Anderson is one of the best defensive players around, and she's about the quickest. The defense overall is doing a pretty good job, if they could just cut down on the fouls."

There is some height on the Farmville team too. Tallest is sophomore Darlene Joyner, she's about 6-0. "She goes to the boards pretty good," Mrs. Worthington said. "We depend on her to get most of the loose balls." A freshman, Joyce Ann Dixon, 5-7, is coming along too and is doing a pretty good job in getting rebounds. "She's not quite as scrappy as I'd like her to be, but she'll come along."

Currently starting for Farmville are Davis, Beth Fields, Joyner, Dixon and Anderson. "This may change some from game to game, depending on how they perform in both games and practice," the coach said.

Looking at the Eastern Carolina Conference race, Mrs. Worthington said she would have to pick North Pitt as the favorite. "Eastern Wayne and Southern Nash have both improved too, and should move up in the standings," she added.

How Farmville Central will do, however, has a lot to do with how the girls respond. "They must progress and have the desire to win if we're to do well," Mrs. Worthington said.

"We have to get our shooting consistency down. Then we'll be okay."

Notre Dame In Jordan Overcomes Odds, End Of Streak Keeps Auburn Rolling

By TED MEIER

Notre Dame's once feared Fighting Irish have snapped an eight-game losing streak in college basketball and hope their spell of hard times in the sport has ended.

Unranked in the Associated Press Top Twenty, the Irish won their first game of the new season by turning back Valparaiso Wednesday night 82-72. They had lost their last six games last season and their first two of the current campaign.

Perhaps looking ahead to a Dec. 23 meeting with UCLA's mighty national champions Irish Coach "Digger" Phelps used numerous players against the Valpos at South Bend. "I wanted to give our kids confidence and I wanted to see whether they could come off the bench and play," Phelps said. "We're satisfied."

John Shumate, with 24 points, and Gary Brokaw, with 23, led the Irish. John Wolfenbarger of the Crusaders took high game honors with 26.

Pennsylvania, Southwestern Louisiana and Oral Roberts were the only teams in this AP rankings to see action. The ninth-ranked Quakers crushed the Citadel 67-34, the Ragin' Cajuns, No. 10, routed Pan American 111-77 and No. 12 Oral Roberts whipped Idaho State 95-82.

Dwight Lamar tossed in 30 points for the Cajuns, but Reese Stovall of Pan American led all scorers with 36. Richard Fuqua paced Oral Roberts with 31. Penn overcame a Citadel stall in winning the second game of a tripleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. In the opener LaSalle edged Biscayne 69-67. Oregon State defeated Temple 56-50 in the concluding game.

Oral Roberts' triumph was the windup of a doubleheader at Tulsa. Texas A&M scored a 67-64 overtime victory over Oklahoma State in the opener on Cedric Joseph's key basket with 47 seconds left.

John Brown tallied a career high of 35 points in leading Missouri over Purdue 84-75. Drake beat Butler 83-68, Oklahoma edged Samford 55-51, Chicago Loyola turned back the St. Mary Gaels 92-88 and Colorado trimmed Tulane 97-86.

Villanova beat Niagara 67-62, Georgetown's Hoyas whipped St. Bonaventure 73-0, Holy Cross took Connecticut 96-90 and Iona surprised Army 82-64. In other games Mississippi State went overtime to down South Alabama 72-67, Texas Tech put down Nevada-Las Vegas 67-58, Wake Forest humbled William and Mary 86-71 and Illinois State tripped Arkansas 81-67.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph "Shug" Jordan, a man who's scrimmaged with death and won, should take the longshot-of-the-year award for coaching Auburn to a 9-1 season and a Gator Bowl bid.

The man had one foot in the grave.

"Our schedule was the toughest in the country," says Jordan, "but I didn't worry about it ahead of time. I thought I'd be dead and somebody else would have to worry about it."

Four years ago, Jordan had lost his plump figure. His face crumpled like a prune, he dragged instead of walking. Shug was dying from cancer of the prostate gland.

Medical men pulled off some big plays, though, and Jordan beat the rap. By 1970, he was his jovial self again and pals from Shug's 45-year association with Auburn breathed easier.

Then, he was felled a second time.

"This time it was even more serious," says Jeff Beard, who just retired as Auburn athletic director, a friend of the Tiger coach dating back to their high school days.

"Shug felt some pain and worried that it was the cancer."

The hurting went away, but came back again. It turned out to be a ruptured appendix and he almost died from that, too.

Jordan missed only one game throughout the period of physical setbacks, a Gator Bowl matchup with Mississippi in 1970. He practically had to be tied into bed.

"His doctor, Dick Wheeler from Lafayette, 20 miles up the road, told Shug the Gator Bowl was out," said Beard. "The coach was a very sick man. Then, two days before the game, Doc Wheeler shows up in Shug's room with a packed suitcase."

Wheeler told Jordan, "I'm sorry you can't go, but I'm sure not going to miss the Gator Bowl." Jordan's physician said he was leaving the coach under the care of a Joe Doyle Hill.

"What kind of doctor is he?" Shug asked Wheeler.

"Oh, he's not a doctor. You know he runs the gas station down the street."

Shug survived that, too.

Jordan was named Southeastern Conference coach of the year for the fourth time this week and is a prime candidate for national recognition. His 21-year record as Auburn's head coach is 155-69-5.

"I've never seen a coach so loved by his players," said George Olsen, executive vice president of the Gator Bowl Association. "When we were in Auburn signing them up, one kid got up and said they were happy to have a winning year and a bowl invitation, but most of all they wanted Shug to be coach of the year. That is pretty rare in this era."

Auburn, which had been picked as low as last in preseason SEC polls, lost only to Louisiana State and killed cross-state rival Alabama's unbeaten season en route to the Dec. 30 Gator Bowl battle against Colorado.

Utah Defeats Carolina Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Running, that's our ballgame," says Coach Bob Leonard of the Indiana Pacers.

The defending American Basketball Association champs ran away from the expansion San Diego Conquistadors 124-112 Wednesday night and they're starting to run away with the ABA's Western Division, opening a 3½-game lead over Denver and Utah.

Elsewhere, Dallas defeated Denver 110-104, Utah turned back Carolina 119-108, Kentucky trounced Virginia 119-105 and New York outlasted Memphis 101-95.

The Pacers built a whopping 25-point lead over San Diego in the first quarter but saw their bulge chopped to eight by half-time and to just four midway through the third period. They had it back up to 20, though, in the final period.

"Darnell Hillman, George McGinnis and Roger Brown got out on the fast break and just outran San Diego," Leonard said. "San Diego got some offensive rebounds but we started sending both forwards out on the fast break and that's why San Diego was getting the rebounds. That will happen sometimes when you get ahead."

San Diego's Stew Johnson took scoring honors with 36 points while McGinnis and Brown led Indiana with 24 and 20, respectively.

Seven Dallas players scored in double figures as the Chaps beat Denver. Rich Jones led the way with 24, Bob Netolicky had 19 and Skeeter Swift 18. Ralph Simpson paced Denver with 23.

Glen Combs scored 28 points, James Jones 23 and Zelmo Beatty 22 as Utah whipped Carolina's Eastern Division leaders and climbed into a virtual second-place tie with Denver in the West. Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell led the losers with 24 and 23.

THE NATIONWIDE SUPERMARKET OF SOUND

Little Known Fact: Japanese Navy Bombed Oregon

By QUINTON SMITH
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Oregon coast is known for many things; sandy beaches, scenic views, the wind and rain—but least of all for three bombing incidents by the Japanese Navy during World War II.

An invasion of Normandy it was not. It did, however, involve the only killing of Americans on native soil by hostile action, and the first shelling of U.S. fortifications from an enemy vessel since 1812.

The dates: June 21, 1942, a Japanese submarine, the I-25 fired 17 five-inch rounds at Fort Stevens at the mouth of the Columbia River on the north Oregon coast. Sept. 9 and 29, 1942, a seaplane dropped incendiary bombs in heavy forests about 10 miles east of Brookings on the southern Oregon coast, and on May 5, 1945, six persons were killed in eastern Klamath County when a Japanese "balloon bomb" was touched off.

The Army believes there was a timetable connection between the shelling of Fort Stevens and the landing of Japanese forces on the Aleutian island of Attu nine days earlier. They also feel that heavy losses by the Japanese Navy in the Coral Sea and Midway battles in early June wrecked any plans for an invasion of the Pacific Northwest.

Despite radar and trained observers using high-powered telescopes, the attack was a complete surprise. The orange-tinted flashes from the submarine's guns could be seen from Astoria, and the blasts heard across the Columbia in Ilwaco, Wash. Although the Army reported that nine shots were fired, years later the sub's captain, Meiji Tagami, said his crew pumped 17 rounds at the fort.

No shots were returned, as the Army said a single-vessel attack would only be attempting to reveal the guns' locations. The I-25 remained in the area, slowly cruising beyond range of shore batteries until dawn the next day.

The sub, one of about 10 equipped with a seaplane stored in a waterproof deck hangar, returned again to the coast on Sept. 9 that same year. An Imperial Navy pilot, 31-year-old Nobuo Fujita, was dispatched from the I-25 to make an early morning run with incendiary bombs to the forests near Brookings.

The plane was sighted just before dawn by a U.S. Forest Service employee atop Mt. Emily. Poor visibility prevented identification but it was noted in Forest Service logs that it was a "seaplane."

About noon, the lookout reported smoke four-and-a-half miles away and left his perch to put out the blaze. Later that afternoon the radio in the Gold Beach ranger's office crackled with, "that fire was started by a bomb." Pieces of the bomb fragments, including the tail end of one were found the next day by the Forest Service. Two hundred men from G company, 174th Infantry of the New York National Guard were readied to put down any attempt at landings on the southern coast.

Fujita made another bombing run on Sept. 29, and a third flight was cancelled. No specific reasons, except perhaps retaliation for the bombings of Japan's cities by Col. Jimmy Doolittle, were given for Fujita's bombings.

The most tragic bombings by the Japanese occurred on May 5, 1945, in a remote area near Bly, some 54 miles east of Klamath Falls.

The Rev. Archie Mitchell and his wife Elsie took five youngsters on a picnic, and only Mitchell had ever heard of Japanese "balloon bombs."

Some 9,000 balloon bombs were launched from Japan in late 1944, and the Army believes from 900 to 1,000 reached the West Coast of the United States. About 15 of the devices were recovered in Klamath county, although not many people heard of the bombs because the Western Defense Command information bulletins were banned from newspapers and radio and passed along only by word of mouth to prevent any feedback on the bombings to the Japanese.

The $200 million "balloon bomb" project was termed "ineffective" by the Army, especially since it was designed to set West Coast forests ablaze. They landed instead in timberlands wet from heavy Spring rains.

When Rev. Mitchell heard a child say he had found a parachute with "this funny looking thing attached to it" his shouts to the others were lost on the resulting explosion. Although it was never determined how the bomb was triggered, five children and Mrs. Mitchell were killed in the blast.

Oregonians have marked the places and times of each bombing with monuments. A marker was placed where one of the shells landed near Fort Stevens, and the Japanese seaplane pilot, Fujita, now a Tokyo businessman, returned to Brookings in 1962 with his family and presented the city with his family's ancestral samurai sword. The presentation was with dignity and in "apology" for his one-man attack on the U.S. mainland.

Some 54 miles east of Klamath Falls, in a grove of trees named after the Mitchells, stands a memorial. On it are inscribed the names of Mrs. Elsie Mitchell, 26; Dick Patzke, 14; Joan Patzke, 13; Jay Gifford 13; Edward Engen, 13; and Sherman Shoemaker, 11; the only victims of an enemy bombing on American soil.

Drivers License 'Refresher' Set

A four-hour drivers license refresher course is being offered free to Pitt County residents by the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles, according to Joseph Congleton, the DMV's driver education representative in Greenville.

Congleton said the first two hours of the course will be offered December 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. while the last two hours will be taught from 7 to 9 p.m. December 14.

Classes, he said, will be held at Highway Patrol Troop "A" Headquarters at the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Streets in Greenville.

The refresher course, Congleton said, will cover the basic drivers handbook for drivers license renewal and is designed to aid people who have trouble passing drivers written tests.

Emphasizing that there is no charge for the four-hour class... "just show up," he said... Congleton explained the class is being scheduled in conjunction with the introduction of a new drivers license examination scheduled to replace old written tests across the state beginning December 11.

The new written test, he said, will include the use of illustrations and diagrams.

A supplement, including sample test questions, has been issued to be used in conjunction with the current drivers license renewal handbook in order to prepare persons for renewal of their license using the new test.

World Leaders See A Better Life By Year 2000

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J., Dec. 6 — Life will be better in the year 2000 for the common people throughout the world. This is the judgment of leaders in 75 nations of the world who took part in an international leader survey conducted by the Gallup Poll.

Optimism about the future prevails, as the response to this question indicates:

"Will life generally be better for the mass of people in your nation in the year 2000 than it is at present — will it be better or worse?"

Life will be better 64%
Life will be worse 15%
Life will be the same 15%
No opinion 6%

Survey respondents were selected from the "International Who's Who," "The International Yearbook & Statesmen's Who's Who" and the "Marquis Who's Who." Among the 265 world leaders who participated were: statesmen and diplomats, elected and appointed public officials, educators, scientists, corporate executives, economists, bankers, physicians, attorneys, media executives.

There were no responses from Russia or mainland China.

While most of the leaders look for substantial gains in population during the last 28 years of this century, the majority of those polled (74 per cent) believe that food supplies will be sufficient to provide for the increased population.

Estimates as to the population growth of their own countries during the next 28 years range from a modest increase of about 20 per cent — among leaders in such nations as Ireland, Norway, France, Finland and Great Britain — to a staggering 100 per cent increase or more in such nations as Brazil, the Philippines, Egypt, Peru, Bolivia and Colombia and most of the "developing" nations. See

Reduced Work Week
One reason, perhaps, why

HOURS PER WEEK NOW ESTIMATES OF WORK WEEK IN

leaders perceive that life will be better in the year 2000 is their belief that the hours of work each week will be drastically reduced. Following is a comparison of what the leaders polled say are the hours currently worked per week with their estimates of the work week in the year 2000:

WORKED YEAR 2000
Over 40 hours per week 54% 5%
40 hours per week 37% 25%
Fewer than 40 hours per week 6% 64%
No answer 3% 6%

The political winds of the world are expected by world leaders to blow leftward, as indicated by the results of the following question:

"Compared to the present, which will be more widely accepted in the year 2000, the conservative or the liberal viewpoint?"

The respondents in this manner:
Conservative 18%
Liberal 76%
No opinion 4%
No answer 2%

Those who participated in the survey were asked which nation of the world, in their opinion, would be the leader in the year 2000 in each of five areas: science, culture, military strength, stand of loving and quality of life. Their answers: SCIENCE—The United States wins top place easily. Germany and Russia are next, but far behind.

CULTURE: France gets the largest number of votes, with Great Britain receiving the second largest. The U.S. is third, Russia fourth.

MILITARY STRENGTH: Russia and the U.S. get exactly the same number of votes, with no other nation coming close. STANDARD OF LIVING: The U.S. receives as many votes as all other nations combined. In second place, but far behind, is Germany with Japan third. QUALITY OF LIFE: Great Britain receives the most votes, France is second, the U.S. third, Germany fourth.

Irish Voting Today On Favored Role Of Church

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish voted today in a referendum on Prime Minister Jack Lynch's proposal to end the special position of the Roman Catholic Church in the Irish Republic.

Lynch proposed the constitutional change as a step toward reunification with Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland.

The three major political parties favor the change, and the Church has indicated that officially it does not oppose it. But the traditional conservatism of Irish voters — 95 per cent of them Catholic — makes the result of the vote uncertain.

Lynch and his supporters argue that repeal of the constitution's Article 44, source of the Church's favored role in the republic, would remove a major obstacle to winning the support of the Protestants in the North for Irish unity.

The section giving the Church its favored role says: "The state recognizes the special position of the Holy Catholic Apostolic and Roman Church, as the guardian of the faith professed by the great majority of the citizens."

The special position has had little practical significance, except in one or two long-forgotten lawsuits. Some current legal opinion says the section is invalid because of the constitution's other clauses guaranteeing freedom of conscience and barring the state from religious discrimination.

The 1.7 million voters also were asked to approve lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 years; again the conservatism of the electorate made the outcome uncertain.

The change would add 140,000 young voters to the rolls, and their voice could be decisive in future elections for the Dail, the lower house of parliament.

The Dail for years has been rather evenly balanced between Lynch's Fianna Fail — or Soldiers of Destiny party — and the two opposition groups, Fine Gael and the Labor party. Fianna Fail has been in power since 1957, but it has often been hampered by the lack of a sizeable majority.

In Northern Ireland Thursday night, a rocket slammed into an armored car in a Catholic district of Belfast, wounding 11

British soldiers. Three other soldiers were wounded by snipers firing from a Catholic church, the army said. And a gang of men beat up the 25-year-old wife of a Protestant reserve policeman outside her home, but the reason for the attack was not known.

Anniversary Is Observed

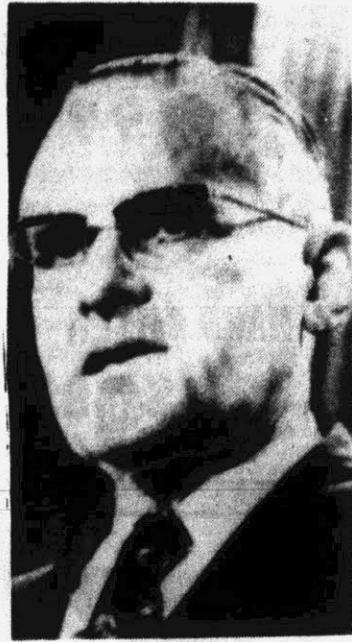

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — It was 31 years ago today when planes from a Japanese carrier armada crippled the U.S. Pacific Fleet here, but the anniversary of the attack is being observed quietly.

One scheduled event to mark the day was the lowering of colors at sunset and a wreath laying aboard the USS Arizona memorial by 20 members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association. No speeches were planned.

The Navy, which planned no ceremonies for this year, said the normal one-hour weekday boat tours of the harbor and the shuttle boats to the memorial will be conducted as usual.

Veterans organizations and private citizens were invited by the Navy, however, to present wreaths at the memorial during the day.

Bermuda laws restrict the number, size and horsepower of automobiles.

Poland Has Not Yet Solved Big Housing Shortage

By HOWARD A. TYNER
WARSAW (UPI)—Like a million other Poles, Herbert Terlecki wants most of all to have a new apartment. Like the rest, he will have to wait—possibly years unless a new approach to home building here in communist Poland can shorten the time.

The government's construction plans borrow freely from such non-Communist notions as pay incentives and private ownership, and they could go far toward relieving this nation's chronic housing shortage.

That would be welcome news in a country where adequate living space has been lacking for 30 years and where it is not uncommon to find three generations of a family living together in a single apartment.

Technician's Plight

Consider the case of Terlecki 29, a soft-spoken, crewcut Warsaw radio technician.

"I moved in here when I was a bachelor," he said, looking around the book-strewn room where he has lived for the past 2 1/2 years.

The room has a kitchen nook tucked into the corner and a bathroom leading off another. The bed was a foldup couch and Terlecki said when he opened it, the bed was as wide as the room itself.

"A year later I married and my wife moved in," he said. "We could manage here. But now she is pregnant and when the baby arrives soon my mother-in-law is moving in, too."

"With all of them in this room, I'll have to sleep downstairs with neighbors on a cot in their front room."

Five year wait
On average, the waiting time in Poland for a new apartment has been five years.

Poland's heavy wartime damage is one reason behind the housing shortage. Warsaw, for instance, suffered destruction of more than 60 per cent of its private homes and apartments in World War II.

Later new units were built too hastily. Many fell into disrepair too quickly. In 1970 alone 640,000 apartments throughout the country were declared unfit for further habitation.

In the 1950s and 1960s, while Poland's urban population nearly doubled, housing construction was erratic and poorly planned, and suffered from a persistent shortage of building materials. "The result was stagnation and near chaos in the industry," said Housing Minister Alojzy Karkowska who told a news conference that between 1.0 and 1.2 million Poles were waiting for apartments.

Gomulka's Failure
Some people say the failure to make headway in the housing field was a major factor in the downfall in December, 1970, of former Communist Party First Secretary Wladyslaw Gomulka.

True or not, his successors are determined not to make the same mistake.

First, to ease the situation in building materials they decentralized production in the key cement industry. Local plant managers were given more day-to-day authority and permission to hand out bonuses to especially productive workers.

Results were immediate. One newspaper reported cement output up 25 per cent within three months after the "revolutionary experiment" began.

The government also changed another traditional Communist policy, that of state or cooperative ownership of most housing.

"We all know the right to own one's own accommodation gives one a sense of stability," new First Secretary Edward Gierek said in setting the tone of the policy.

While Housing Minister Karkowska says only 10 per cent of all homes or apartments in Poland presently are privately owned, that figure obviously is going to grow.

Adopted Resolution
On Oct. 19 Parliament adopted a resolution which said 34 per cent of the 1.1 million apartments scheduled to be built in the next four years would be privately-owned. The government also authorized credits of up to 60 per cent for construction of private homes.

Private home ownership, however, remains an expensive undertaking for the average Pole, whose monthly take-home pay is 2,500 zloties ($115).

Dedicated Few Keep Brazil Tribe From Extinction

By STEVEN H. YOLEN
CUIABA, BRAZIL (UPI) — A thinly-funded, beaucratic government entity is the last bulwark separating Brazil's Indian tribes from extinction.

The National Indian Foundation (FUNAI), which runs a string of 142 tribal posts and four major reservations throughout the country, operates short of funds and long on paper work with one outstanding feature —dedicated personnel.

FUNAI arose in 1969 from the ashes of the scandal-ridden Indian Protection Service (SPI), which offered neither much in the way of protection nor services to Brazil's Indians. In fact, the SPI was disbanded after the discovery of corrupt officials who were cheating Indians out of their lands and perpetrating other humiliations on their wards.

Really Care
"The difference between FUNAI and SPI is dramatic," according to one field worker, Nancy Thurmond, an American learning the Xavante language at Posto Paraíso, 150 miles northeast of Cuiaba.

Miss Thurmond, who is participating in the Santa Ana, Calif., Institute of Linguistics program, says the FUNAI people "really seem to care." (In December, she is scheduled to marry the Brazilian who is FUNAI's chief at Posto Paraíso, where 250 Xavante Indians live.)

Brazil's Indian population numbered millions when the Portuguese discovered the country in 1500. Today, there are only about 100,000 left, and FUNAI is responsible for about 79,000 of them on its posts and reservations.

There are still many tribes in northern Mato Grosso and the Amazon River basin who have not had any contact with white men.

Up until two years ago, the country's Indian population was still declining. However, FUNAI field officials now say the tribes are beginning to show positive population growth.

Restore Health
"We believe that one of our chief successes has been to restore the Indians to health," says Col. Olavo Duarte Mendes, head of FUNAI's activities in northern Mato Grosso.

His aide, Lt. Sergio Fernandes, explains that "from birth, the Indians are vaccinated against almost everything — measles, polio, flu, smallpox. The probably are vaccinated against more diseases than you or I."

The Xavantes, for hundreds of years absolute rulers of the Mato Grosso and who numbered hundreds of thousands, today number only 2,500, scattered in eight encampments.

Miss Thurmond enthusiastically reports that "the Xavante population is on the rise again. We have lots of babies here now." Unfortunately, through some unexplained genetic imbalance, only about one out of every five babies born is a girl, which will lead to later complications for the tribe.

Every four months, a FUNAI "flying medical squad" visits all of the Indian posts in Col. Mendes' area. The squad, which consists of a doctor, a dentist and a nurse, gives the Indians the best medical care they have ever had.

And FUNAI runs a coordinated medical service in Cuiaba, including its own isolated "clinic" where Indian patients recover in an atmosphere much more like their own reservations.

"Our job is to help assimilate the Indians into civilization," Col. Mendes, a stock infantry officer with 40 years military service, explained. "If they were to be moved too swiftly into contact they would end up on the margin of society, love yourself."

Candidates for FUNAI posts are sent to a special school in Brasilia where they learn basic medical concepts and how to administer an Indian outpost. A basic job of the outpost chief is to keep the Indians as isolated from surrounding white communities as possible.

OUR HEATING SYSTEM OFFERS EQUAL RIGHTS TO EVERYONE.

Where heating comfort is concerned, all people are not created equal. They're as different inside as they are outside. So the thermostat setting that's warm for one may be hot—or cold—for another.

But there's one heating system that lets you please all of the people all of the time. Electric baseboard heat. Because it offers the one thing that guarantees everyone's comfort: a thermostat in every room.

With multi-thermostats, you can warm the bath and baby's room without overheating the rest of the house. You can lower the heat in the kitchen when you're cooking, or cut it way down in unused rooms to save electricity. And money.

But this room-by-room heat control isn't the only advantage. Electric baseboards give you clean, dependable, long-lived, trouble-free heating with no cold drafts or hot spots. And because they use electricity in the winter, when there's power to spare, they help you to hold down electric rates by balancing the demand for power throughout the year.

So if you're looking for a new house, or building one, ask the contractor about this flexible system. Or call your local Vepco office. They'll be happy to work with you and your builder to help you plan for electric baseboard heat.

Then all your relatives can be comfortable at once. Even though comfort is relative.

ELECTRIC BASEBOARD HEATING IS FOR "TURN IT UP" "TURN IT DOWN" AND "LEAVE IT WHERE IT IS" PEOPLE. ALL AT ONCE.

The Worry Clinic Changed Future With Just $25

Molly changed the educational future of her 5 grandchildren for just $25. That was the cost of 100 colorful Classics, Illustrated. Mrs. Crane ordered 150 of them last Christmas, for they are the BEST way to "bait" your kids into being good readers!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE V-564: Molly F., aged 51, is an intelligent grandmother.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "We have 5 grandchildren, all in grammar school. "But I worry because they are growing too 'ear-minded' and thus want to cluster around the TV screen.

"Meanwhile, they are missing many of the superb children's stories and moral fables that helped previous generations establish this great Republic. "So how can we help revitalize the printed page for our little grandchildren?"

"What gifts can we give to win them back to the printed page and thus make them more 'eye-minded'?"

EYE VS. EAR

Hitler and Marc Antony, as well as other rabble rousers, relied on oral speech.

For "ear-minded" people are more easily stampeded into lynching parties or rioting and mutiny.

Readers ("eye-minded") tend to be more individualistic. They don't stampede as readily!

They are more inclined to do their own thinking instead of waiting for the silver-tongued rabble rousers to tell them what to believe.

Always remember Hitler! He couldn't rise to power till he took over the press and thus stopped the newspapers from telling the truth.

Molly is correct, too, in saying our kiddies need far more exposure to moralizing stories, such as the "Goose That Laid the Golden Eggs."

Alas, millions of adult American voters never gained such a profitable education. So they bombard Uncle Sam

(Our Modern Golden Goose) with demands for special golden eggs for minorities, regardless of merit.

They cry out to Congress for increased minimum wage laws, which merely throw more people out of work, thus raising our unemployment figures.

The remaining fewer workers then are taxed extra to maintain that horde of additional non-workers, so they again scream for even higher minimum wage rates.

A vicious circle thus ensues that will soon kill our American Golden Goose.

Modern school children also don't know the stories of the "Monkey and the Cheese."

Or the origin of the "Sour Grapes" tale of the fox.

Or dozens of other superb narratives that give children more "horse sense," and thus insure the longevity of our American Golden Goose.

Since our schools are derelict in stressing such wise reading lessons, you smart parents (grandparents, uncles and aunts, too) should try to fill the gaps.

Order the famous "Classics, Illustrated," which are beautiful color digests of the world's greatest novels, such as "Ivanhoe," "Tale of Two Cities," "Three Musketeers," etc. They cost 25 cents each, prepaid.

There are over 150 of these and they sugar-coat the reading process so well that our 10-year-old Debbie read 42 during her last 4-day vacation with us.
