Concern For HST Heart

BY JIM BAGBY
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — The doctor attending former President Harry S. Truman expressed concern today about the heart of his patient, who is on the critical list at Research Hospital and Medical Center.

"His heart condition is not as good this morning as we had hoped it would be," Dr. Wallace Graham said in a statement released by the hospital at 10 a.m. EST.

"His heart is showing signs of considerable irritability and stress....President Truman has improved in some areas but shown no improvement in others," Graham said.

The 88-year-old Truman was taken to the hospital Tuesday evening from his nearby Independence, Mo., home suffering from lung congestion and a weakened heart. He was first placed on the critical list Wednesday night.

John Dreves, hospital public relations director, said neither Truman's wife nor daughter was at the hospital this morning.

A 7 a.m. EST briefing had listed Truman's temperature at 100.2 degrees and said it continued to fluctuate. That statement also said Truman's "pulse and blood pressure remained stable."

The former president's temperature was not reported at 10 a.m.

Ate Evidence, But Gets Jail

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Two shrimp cocktails, two bottles of champagne, two roast-beef dinners, one roast turkey and one rib-eye steak dinner got a 27-year-old student five days in jail even though the man ate the evidence.

Dale Anderson of Alameda, Calif., was arrested in a Peoria Howard Johnson's Monday, charged with defrauding an innkeeper when he could not produce $31.50 for food he had eaten.

Anderson, who ate the four meals at one sitting, said he was "cold, broke and hungry."

Judge William Young of Circuit Court Thursday gave Anderson credit for the four days he had spent in jail.

Building Activity Saw Boom In Greenville Area

Building activity in Greenville during the first eight months of the year increased some 98.3 per cent over last year, according to figures reported by the N.C. Department of Labor Statistics.

The city recorded construction totals of $12,065,004 for the January through September period, compared with some $6,082,387 for the comparable period in 1971.

The increase in construction activity here ranked fourth among 16 eastern cities.

Activity for the month of September fell off this year, it was noted, with totals dropping from $703,435 in 1971 to $468,564 this year.

New Bern recorded the largest percentage increase among eastern cities as activity climbed 172.4 per cent for the eight month period. Totals were $3,076,523 this year, compared with $1,129,397 in 1971.

Goldsboro was next in percentage increase with 164.9 per cent as activity climbed from $5,426,790 for the eight month period last year to $14,380,618 this year.

Other area cities, their 1971 and 1972 totals and percentage increases or decreases, include: Elizabeth City $2,447,839 (1971), $5,056,772 (1972), 106.5 per cent increase; Rocky Mount, $8,422,419, $11,969,314, 42.1 per cent; Kinston, $3,495,729, $4,628,432, 32.4 per cent; Jacksonville, $1,675,087, $1,813,746 8.2 per cent; Wilson, $6,970,492, $7,373,968, 5.7 per cent; Washington, $3,154,011, $2,970,243, 5.8 per cent decrease;

Apollo 17 'A Bit Off Course'

Corrective Rocket Firing Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 17, a bit off course but operating in a "super" fashion, passed the midway point of its voyage to the moon today. The crew awakened later to prepare for a rocket firing aimed at an on target arrival in moon orbit.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and D. Harrison H. Schmitt reported each got a good night of rest.

At 6:36 a.m. EST, while the spacemen slumbered, Apollo 17 streaked past the halfway point of its outward journey. At that moment, the spacecraft was 132,096 miles from both earth and moon.

The speed of the spacecraft, which has been declining steadily since it rocketed out of earth orbit, was then 3,083 miles per hour.

Apollo 17's command ship, America, and lunar module, Challenger, still linked nose-to-nose, were streaking on a collision course with the moon.

But ground controllers said a small rocket thrust of about one second would change the flight path enough to bring the spacecraft into the proper position on Sunday to settle it into lunar orbit.

Mission Control said the off-course flight path was caused by an excess of rocket thrust Thursday morning when Apollo 17 was fired out of earth orbit and started its 86-hour coast to the moon.

The astronauts spent a quiet day in space Thursday and Schmitt reported that all three took sleeping pills before retiring in hopes of getting a solid eight hours of sleep.

Just before the rest period started, at 1:20 a.m. EST, Mission Control reported Apollo 17 had just passed a point 100,000 miles from earth.

"One hundred thousand miles," mused Schmitt. "My goodness, gracious. That's impressive."

Schmitt, who said he's "strictly a novice" at meteorology, spent much of his first day in space describing the changing weather patterns over the continents and oceans of earth, which he called "a little bit of blue in space."

Looking at Houston, Schmitt accurately described the cold, rainy day experienced by the city.

"I don't know what your weather is like down there, but from here it looks like you might be overcast," he said. "Might even have a good storm going."

"Right," said a ground controller. "You're a regular weather satellite."

Schmitt did most of the talking from space Thursday giving volumes of description of the things he was seeing. But Cernan, the silver-haired Apollo 17 commander and two-time space veteran, added a little music.

"Dum-de-dum, dum, doo, de, dum," Cernan sang softly at one point.

Mission Control officials said they were delighted with how well America and Challenger, spacecraft which Cernan called "superbirds," were operating

Two Attempts To Set Fires In Night

City Is Otherwise Relatively Quiet

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two illegal burning attempts and one window breaking incident were the major signs of unrest as law enforcement officers last night again cordoned off a 20-to-30 block area in West Greenville that Wednesday had been the scene of mob violence which resulted in at least 13 persons being injured.

The mob violence by blacks was sparked by the shooting of a Negro by a Greenville police officer.

As opposed to Wednesday, when a number of cars were damaged and at least 13 persons injured as blacks threw rocks, bottles and other missiles at cars driving in the West Fifth Street area of the city, last night was relatively uneventful.

Early in the evening vandals broke windows from a house in the 400 block of Paris Avenue with rocks, but no other rock-throwing incidents were reported.

Greenville police interrupted two or three blacks in their attempts to fire-bomb the National Boat Works plant on Albemarle Avenue about 7:59 p.m.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, the would-be bombers tossed three molotov cocktail-type fire bombs on the roof of the boat factory and attempted to toss one bomb into a window, but unsuccessful in their attempts to burn the building. They were surprised by police officers and fled the scene.

A fire at 9:45 p.m. at the Pitt County Fair Grounds cause minor damage to a wooden door at the livestock exhibition, according to Chief Cannon.

The blaze, believed to have been set, was held in check by the use of a fire extinguisher until firemen could extinguish the fire with water.

A Greenville Fire Department officer, Lt. Amos Harrell, 46, died early this morning after a cerebral hemorrhage while on duty last night.

According to Chief Cannon,

Harrell had been assigned to a police car and equipped with a fire extinguisher so the unit could respond quickly to the scene of a fire. He collapsed while sitting in the vehicle at the intersection of 14th Street and Myrtle Avenue about 9:45 and died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 2:30 a.m. today without regaining consciousness. He had been a member of the fire department since January, 1943.

Yesterday, 48 persons reported that their cars had been damaged during the Wednesday night throwing in the West Fifth Street area. Damage estimates amounted to more than $9,000.

North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan, along with Gen. John Lang, secretary of the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, flew to Greenville yesterday to meet with local officials.

Morgan and Gen. Lang joined State Bureau of Investigation chief Charles Dunn, who had been in Greenville since Wednesday night directing SBI operations, in a review of the violence.

Following an afternoon meeting Morgan and Mayor S. Eugene West both urged local residents to be calm and cooperative with officials in

Single Rezoning Request Given Approval At City Council Meet

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Approval was given by the City Council to the single rezoning request for which a public hearing was held at the council's meeting Thursday night.

Tuckahoe North, a development area north of the Tar River, was approved to be rezoned into three divisions, unoffensive industry, highway commercial and office and institutional.

The mixed zoning applies to property located near the intersection of State Road 1534 and N.C. Highway 30 (the Pactolus Highway).

E. Hoover Taft, Jr., attorney, represented the developers.

In the matter of a trio of public hearings on requests for mobile home permits, all were granted. No opposition was expressed on any of the requests.

The first was for Tarheel Toyota, Inc., for placement of a mobile home to be used as an office at the intersection of Trade and Bismark Streets in the vicinity of Greenville Boulevard.

The second mobile home approved was for International Mobile Homes to be placed at the corner of Greenville Boulevard Southwest and St. Andrews Drive. The third was one for Mobile Center to be placed at the intersection of U. S. 264 bypass and Memorial Drive and to be used as an office.

Three public hearings were scheduled for the January meeting to be held January 11. These are: Request for rezoning of the J.T. Williams property located on the south side of East Tenth Street extended; a request for rezoning of the O.E. Whichard property on the east side of North Greene Street adjacent to the Carolina Leaf Company property; and a request for rezoning Barnhill Contracting Company property north of Tar River at the southeast intersection of U.S. 264 bypass (under construction) and State Road 1534.

A repair service contract in the estimated amount of $6,771.96 was approved for A.E. Finley and Associates. This is to cover repair of the 1968 Elgin Street Sweeper out of operation since November 1, for which the firm holds exclusive contract. Cost of the original equipment was about $14,000. In discussions about spending such a large amount for repairing the equipment, councilman Percy Cox noted it was feasible, as often a well rebuilt item of this nature would last about as long as a new item. Cox also said any equipment of this type, new or rebuilt, required a heavy outlay for maintenance and repair.

An ordinance was adopted to amend Ordinance No. 405, the 1972-73 Budget Ordinance that creates a General Revenue

Life Magazine To Discontinue

NEW YORK (AP) — Life magazine will discontinue publication with the issue of Dec. 29, Time, Inc. announced today.

The publisher said the 36-year-old magazine, famous for its pioneering use of news photographs, will be discontinued because of "continuing losses."

The year-end double issue will mark the close of the weekly magazine founded by Henry Luce.

Life was published at "very substantial deficits in 1969 and 1970 and smaller deficits in 1971 and 1972," the publisher said.

"As our projections for 1973 took shape, however, they showed a resumption of heavy losses, and the indications for 1974 were even more unfavorable," he added.

At about 10:45 a.m., grimaced staff members of the magazine began to gather for a meeting on the eighth floor of the Time-Life Building at Sixth Avenue and 50th Street.

About 250 to 300 staff workers sat in chairs or stood against the walls, waiting for the meeting, which was closed to outsiders, to begin at 11 a.m.

Life lasted more than a year longer than its chief competitor, Look, which ceased publication on Oct. 19, 1971. Look also blamed rising costs, especially postal rates.

Fifth Meeting

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho met today for the fifth time this week in their secret negotiations on a Vietnam peace settlement.

President Nixon's security adviser was the host at the meeting in a white two-story villa belonging to a Paris-based American jeweler.

Earlier Kissinger had a halfhour meeting with President Georges Pompidou, presumably to fill him on details of the negotiations.

Jobless Rate Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped sharply in November from 5.5 to 5.2 per cent of the work force, the Labor Department said today.

The November level was the lowest in 27 months, the report said.

The total number of unemployed dropped more than 200,000 to 4.2 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. It was the lowest level since September of 1970. At the same time, the total number of Americans with jobs remained virtually unchanged at $2.7 million, the bureau said.

The report also said that average earnings of some 50 million rank-and-file workers remained unchanged at $2.73 per hour, but weekly earnings dropped $1.12 to $138.01 because of a decline in the average number of hours worked.

Average weekly earnings were still up $8.88 or 6.9 per cent from a year ago, more than double the 3.4 per cent rise in living costs for the same period.

Santa Parade Saturday Morn

The annual Greenville Christmas parade will be held Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

The parade will form along Ninth Street beginning at 9 a.m.

The parade will travel down Dickinson Avenue to Evans Street, turn left on Evans Street, then proceed to Third Street, turning right on Third traveling to Cotanche Street.

The procession will travel down Cotanche Street to Fifth Street, traveling down Fifth to Reade Street where the parade will disband.

Irish Republic Voting Changes

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

DUBLIN (AP) — Voters in Ireland's national referendum gave an overwhelming "yes" vote today to removal of the Roman Catholic Church's "special position" under the 1937 constitution.

A similar heavy majority was piling up for lowering the voting age to 18 from 21.

First indications were that barely 50 per cent of the electorate voted in Thursday's referendum. Those who did divided roughly five to one in favor of change.

Under Article 44 of the constitution, the Catholic Church was given "special position" as "the guardian of the faith of the great majority of the people."

In Northern Ireland, a special task force formed two days ago to trap faceless assassins who have killed more than 100 persons this year hunted the slayers of a leading protestant militant.

The body of Ernest Duke Elliott, 28, was found with what police described as "terrible head injuries" and bullet wounds in a panel truck in Belfast Thursday.

The paramilitary Ulster Defense Association, the Protestant counterpart of the Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army, said Elliott was a lieutenant-colonel in the UDA.

He was believed to be the first UDA member murdered in the round of assassinations, both Protestant and Catholic, this year.

The Murder Task Force was on the scene within minutes of the finding of Elliott's body. The force, composed of military and civilian police, was created by British Secretary of State William Whitelaw to stem the "murder madness" in his province.

Meanwhile, in Armagh, several people suffered minor injuries when a bomb exploded in a tire factory; and, in Portadown, fire badly damaged a canning factory.

In the Irish Republic to the south, counting of votes began today after what was described as a meager turnout for Thursday's national referendum on whether to end the special position of the Roman Catholic Church in the republic. The referendum also was on a proposal to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 years.

New N.C. Teacher Certification Policy Criticized

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the State Board of Education says a new teacher certification policy adopted for North Carolina will be "a severe blow to the cause of academic achievement in public education."

Dallas Herring made the statement Thursday after the board voted 8-3 in favor of the policy which will go into effect next July 1.

Under it, teacher certification will be based on personal, social and professional qualities rather than just academic achievement as in the past.

The new evaluation is a further step in the competency-based approach to teacher training, which was adopted as state policy in September.

North Carolina is the only state in the nation with such a policy.

Board members H. L. Trigg and R. B. Hayes also voted against the policy.

Under the change, teacher certification will be based on ratings in academic achievement, professional performance, and personal-social characteristics.

At present, graduating seniors are certified by passing the National Teacher Examination. Prospective teachers will still take the examination, but need not perform well on it to be certified.

In other action, the board agreed to ask the General Assembly to approve and fund a change in the student transportation law to allow children living within a mile and a half of their schools to ride school buses.

The decision results from a request of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system, which cited student safety as reasons for asking the change.

Under present state law, school systems are not required to transport county or city school pupils living closer than a mile and a half to their schools.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system cited highway construction, inadequate provisions for pedestrian traffic and increased speed limits as hazards for children walking to school in cities and rural areas.

Couple Has Strange Experience

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had a strange experience the other evening.
We went back to the little town where we used to live because some old friends had invited us to spend Friday and Saturday with them there. On the way to these friends [we were a little early] we made a stop at the home of another couple we had known. They seemed glad to see us and asked us to stop for Sunday supper and spend the evening with them.

We stopped back and when we went to their house both their cars were in the garage and lights were on in the house, but the shades were drawn. We rang the bell and knocked on the front door, but we couldn't raise anybody. When we went around to the back door, there was a big SUCKER sticking in the latch!

We left without delay. Now what do you think of that?
STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: Unbelievable!

DEAR ABBY: Don't let anyone tell you it's not against the law to open another person's mail:

I read a letter recently in your column where the writer stated that if a person received mail at their place of employment it was not illegal for the "boss" to read the mail since it had been sent to his address. You thanked the writer for writing and said, "We learn something new every day." However, before your readers go out and practice what they have just "learned," I suggest they first stop at their nearest law library and read the excerpt quoted above from the United States Code. DEAR L. C.: I appreciate your writing. But I was right about one thing—we DO learn something new every day. And today we have learned something even "newer."

DEAR ABBY: You let me down when you refused to sympathize with that woman who didn't feel like going out with her husband because he left all the arrangements up

Parents Urged To Set High Goal For Their Brain-Injured Children

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The goal for parents of a brain-injured child to set is to have that child doing all the things other children his age are doing, insists David Melton, whose own brain-injured son has achieved "normality."

"That's the proper goal to set," he declares firmly. "It's much easier to set the goal that the child will never be any better—but if the astronauts hadn't aimed at the moon they never would have reached it."

Melton, a writer-illustrator who recounted the search for medical and educational help during his son's early years in a book called "Todd," has written a new book, "When Children Need Help."

"I wrote 'Todd' for Todd himself," he explained in an interview here. "I felt that sometime he should be able to read it and see how many people helped, to understand 'this is what it took to get me from there to here.'"

"After I'd written our story we got thousands of letters from parents who said they had a child exactly like Todd and where could they find help," he continues. "I wrote this new book to suggest a positive approach. This is not a book of desperation, saying that parents should learn to live with their problem."

Melton, who says he has attempted to break down some of the dogma that has surrounded brain-injured children, deplors labeling them "like a can of peas" as mentally retarded, slow learner, emotionally disturbed, autistic and the like. "These labels stick even though the child changes," he notes.

Brain injury can occur before birth, during birth or after birth, he points out and, since the simplest brain injury is one dead brain cell, "all of us are brain-injured in some way since all of us have dead brain cells. It's a matter of degree."

"Genetics has very little to do with it," he goes on, "so it's not the fault of Aunt Sarah or Uncle Joe and it's not an angered God who gave you a cross to bear. You just have a child who's been hurt. If you have a child with a broken leg you stop and take care of that child."

Melton reports parents seeking the answers to two vital questions—"What's wrong?" and "What do we do about it?"—will find that diagnoses are speedier now than when Todd was young but treatment procedures are still lagging.

"When my wife saw our son in a special education classroom she realized there were two alternatives: we had to build a special world for Todd or we'd have to change Todd so he would fit into the regular world. We didn't know how to build a special world so we decided to change Todd—and did," recalls Melton, who is quick to give his wife Nancy major credit for the results.

When Todd was 8 years old he was taken to The Institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential in Philadelphia, where he was placed on the Doman-Delacato program. For a year and a half he spent 10 hours a day on a regimen that included eye exercises, crawling combat fashion on his stomach, creeping on hands and knees, reading program, breathing program and patterning, with five people moving his body in a crawling motion.

"Now he's 15 and in a regular 8th grade class, a super kid," his father says with pride. "I have no doubt if we'd given up he'd still be in a special education class looking out the window."

"And I'm sure our 13-year-old daughter, Traci, gained a great deal more by Todd being on the program even than if he were all right," he adds. "At 5 she was doing the dishes without being asked because she realized her mother had more to do than she could manage."

"If the parents give up on them, these children are lost," he warns. "Stand firm and stand by the child."

The American Public Is Aware

It often appears that the American public is ahead of its governmental representatives in understanding the need for protection of our liberties. It seems that is the case in the matter of protecting confidential news sources. A recent Gallup poll showed that 57 percent of our countrymen felt that a newsman should not be required to divulge confidential sources if he is taken to court to testify about information in his news article.

Thirty-four percent felt that the source should be divulged. The favorable percentage was even higher for persons with college backgrounds. In this group 68 percent felt the news source revelation should not be required and only 27 percent felt that it should. Yet, even as this survey was being taken newsmen were being sent to jail by judges attempting to require them to reveal news sources. Newsman Peter J. Bridge was jailed in New Jersey and William T. Farr went to jail in Los Angeles.

It has long been obvious to those in the news field—and apparently also to the public in general—that if newsmen are required to reveal their sources it will not be long before those sources dry up. And what could be better for those in government who want to cover up something than a situation such as that.

Gallop quoted one reporter: "A newspaper reporter should not be forced to divulge his sources. If he has to, he won't be able to get any more inside confidential information. The information he provides is more important than the person who gave it, anyway. So, why should the courts insist on names?"

The First Amendment guarantees freedom of the press and our Colonial ancestors were careful to include this provision because they knew that a free press was essential to the survival of a democracy. Our contemporary citizens still feel the same way and the courts and government should make certain the press is unfettered, as the Constitution guarantees.

Hunt Outlines Primary Task

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Tar Heels are cynical about politics, lackadaisical in their participation in the process, and distrustful of those who are elected.

nout confirmed that large numbers of citizens were turned off. In spite of an electorate enlarged by lowering the voting age to 18 and nearly 300,000 more registered voters, the ballots cast were some 80,000 fewer than four years ago.

"They doubt the capacity of their government to respond to their needs—rather than the needs of just the special interests."

That verdict on the public mood is given by James B. Hunt Jr., based on thousands of conversations with citizens in the course of his successful campaign for lieutenant governor.

It leads him to the conclusion that restoring public confidence is the primary task confronting public officials.

"If we are to deal effectively with our problems, if we are to face our challenges and meet them squarely, we must first work to restore faith in our governmental process itself, and in the officials that control it," Hunt told members of the 1973 General Assembly recently.

Time To Begin
The legislative arena, and the session which convenes next month, is the place and time to begin, he said. No other item on the agenda is more important, he added.

Hunt, a Democrat, will preside over the Senate as lieutenant governor. In that capacity, he will appoint committees and exercise influence in the shaping of legislation.

As steps to revive public confidence, he placed priority on an ethics law to identify and avoid conflicts of interest, limits on campaign spending to blunt the impact of money at the ballot box, and electronic voting in the General Assembly to openly and accurately record the performance of lawmakers.

Hunt is one among many candidates and observers of politics to sense an attitude of disillusion and apathy among the voters.

Both James E. Holshouser Jr., the Republican governor-elect, and Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr., the Democrat who lost, noted the trend in public opinion and took the theme of change for their campaigns.

Voters Turned Off
The general election tur-

The 1968 total vote in North Carolina was 1,558,307. Last month, those participating in the general election totaled 1,504,785, representing approximately 64 per cent of voter registration.

Apparently, intense campaigns did not convince many citizens that choosing between the candidates would really make a difference.

Demonstration that the system is open and responsive and public officials who merit public trust can assure honest and capable government, said Hunt.

Neither the problems nor proposed solutions are new. The confidence gap between citizen and government has been widening. As remedies, ethics legislation, campaign expenditure limits, and electronic voting all have been discussed in recent years.

Whether the timing is now propitious for action is the question the next legislature will answer.

Ethics Law Supported
Hunt said many legislators have told him they are ready to support an effective ethics law to deal with actual and apparent conflicts of interest in state government. "I believe the people, in general, want such a law. I believe they are entitled to have it," he added.

He proposed a code to apply to all public officials, elective, appointive and employed, in every branch of state government.

"It would prohibit the use of an official position or office for personal gain. It would spell out how conflicts of interest could be avoided and would let us know when conflicts of interest existed. It would have provisions for disclosure of financial status, and it would restrict people from serving in area of state government—on regulatory boards, for example—where they have a vested interest (unless they were specifically allowed to do so by law)," Hunt explained.

He suggested the state follow the pattern of federal law in drafting limits on campaign expenditures and contributions. "Strong ethics and campaign financing laws will do much to restore the image of honest officials, honestly elected and honestly serving," he declared.

Electronic voting in the legislature would help convince the people that lawmakers have nothing to hide in the conduct of public business, Hunt said.

Strauss Surge Toward Center

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ST. LOUIS — The determination behind the campaign for Robert Strauss as Democratic national chairman was demonstrated Saturday night here when Democratic governors gathered in seclusion at a private room of Stan-and-Biggie's restaurant to plan the next day's formal meeting.

Govs. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin, battle-scarred liberal fighters, quickly moved to demolish Strauss. In his most sardonic and elegant manner, Gilligan wondered why his fellow governors bothered about the Democratic chairmanship when there are so many truly vital issues. Lucey, half-smiling and bemused, next questioned what right the governors' five-man executive committee had to demand Jean Westwood's resignation as national chairman.

In past years, the Gilligan-Lucey irony would have stamped the skittish governors into inaction. Last weekend, however, it had just the opposite effect, hardening their intention to adopt an unprecedented resolution Sunday endorsing Strauss to replace Mrs. Westwood.

Gilligan and Lucey underestimated the determination of their colleagues just as Mrs. Westwood and her advisers have consistently missed this post-election conclusion by many Democratic politicians: unless the radical aura of 1972 is cast off and the national party revived in Southern and Border states, 1976 will bring another Republican presidential victory no matter which Democrat is nominated for President.

The result is an unexpected surge of support for moderately conservative Dallas lawyer Strauss as a skilled fund-raiser who will brake runaway party reform while broadening the Democratic base. This surge not only produced the endorsement from the governors but has made Strauss frontrunner in the predictably bitter Democratic National Committee meeting Saturday.

Strauss's opponents failed to sense this as the governors arrived in St. Louis Saturday night. Gilligan told interviewers that Strauss had support from only five governors. Lawrence F. O'Brien, seeking a third hitch as national chairman, slipped governors a headcount giving Strauss only half the governors he ended with. Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel's own aides assured the press he would not, as in fact he did, vote to endorse Strauss. Hence, the widespread prediction was that the governors would talk much and do nothing.

One reason these forecasts were so wrong was hard-boiled Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky, who remembers how Democratic governors sat idly by while Sen. George McGovern's nomination insured a debacle Nov. 7. Insisting the governors go on record for once, Ford told the dinner meeting at Stan-and-Biggie's they would look absurd if they adjourned, as Gilligan and Lucey suggested, without taking action.

After dinner, Lucey huddled with Mrs. Westwood and her chief adviser, national committee general counsel John F. English, at her Chase Hotel suite. They then put the finishing touches on her Sunday statement to the governors, promising to step aside for a new face if Strauss also bowed out. The face would have to be really new; O'Brien is even more obnoxious to her than Strauss.

Her statement backfired. The governors felt that "The lady" having come here uninvited, now presumed to tell them who was and was not acceptable. No sooner had Mrs. Westwood left the 27th floor meeting room than the governors adopted the resolution urging her removal.

End Of Commuter Era

NEW YORK, N.Y. — As the Apollo 17 ends an ear of manned exploration of the moon, another era of exploration on earth also comes to a close. The Long Island Railroad Commuter program is being phased out and there is talk that people who live on Long Island may never see New York City again.

I talked to three commuters in Huntington, Long Island, who had expected to make the last trip, but had to postpone it because of strike.

One of the commuters told me, "Space travel by railroad as we know it is over. It just got too expensive for Americans to foot the bill. There is some talk about launching a manned shuttle train in the late '70s, and we even may send one train to New York made up of an American and Russian crew, but for the most part our trip could be the last one anybody will take."

"Why the disenchantment with the Long Island Railroad Commuter program?" I asked another of the men.

"When the Russians launched a high-speed train from Moscow to Leningrad, President Grover Cleveland decided we could not be second, and so he asked Congress for a crash program to beat the Russians in Railroad Space Travel. There was tremendous excitement when the program was announced. Nobody believed you could send a man from Long Island to New York City and have him survive."

"But thanks to American knowhow and hardware," the third commuter said, "we not only got a man to New York but we proved he could live there for a short period of time."

"The commuter program was the darling of Congress and for a long while they couldn't give enough money to the railroads. Every time a commuter returned from a trip he was invited to the White House for dinner and given a ticker-tape parade to city hall. Most of us who got into the program and moved to Long Island thought we would make it out life's work."

"But then," said one of the

Other Editors Say George Randall

(The Raleigh Times)

George Randall spoke for the people who couldn't speak for themselves.

He spoke and worked for prisoners, and because he spent the last two decades of his life in effective dedication to the cause of prison reform, North Carolina has taken long steps on the road toward better penal programs. These steps have made life better for the prisoners themselves, by giving them more chance to remain out of prison after they complete their terms. And, they also have been for the benefit of all the citizens of North Carolina. Keeping men in prison is expensive, and every man kept out of prison because of George Randall's work meant money saved for the taxpayers. And, most important of all, the programs Randall urged were good for the soul of North Carolina, for decent care for prisoners is a charge on the conscience of the state.

Randall's work in North Carolina had been in both paroles work and prison work. Those fields are closely related, and it wasn't surprising that Randall went from paroles into prisons. He served in the administrations of Governor Hodges and Sanford, then left for Oregon as a top prison official there. He returned to North Carolina in the late 1960's, again to work with paroles and prisoners.

He had always stressed the opportunities involved in rehabilitation of prisoners, opportunities for the state as well as for the prisoners. The state's successful work-release program, under which inmates work at regular jobs during the daytime and spend their nights in prison, was one he supported as prison chief.

At the time of his death Monday, George Randall was secretary of the State Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control.

He served his state and his fellow human beings well, and all people who are unfortunate enough to be in prison from now on can thank George Randall for all he did to make their lives better.

Alienated By The Big Brokers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The term "small investor" is "de-meaning and totally inappropriate," the speaker told the assembly of graduate business students. "It is belittling; it should be dropped from the vernacular."

As used by the brokerage community, he continued, it is a term of condescension, implying that the more important customer is the institution and that the small investor therefore is a second-class citizen.

There is little new in such an observation when made by a small investor. It is the attitude of brokers that big is better, in fact, that has alienated so many ordinary Americans and driven them into other investments.

But the comments, so typical of small investors, were made by Arthur Levitt, Jr., head of Hayden Stone Inc., a major brokerage house. And they were among other provocations that made his talk a significant document in the evolution of Wall Street.

Speaking at the Columbia University Business School this week about what he said were "personal feelings not shared by a number of my associates," Levitt suggested that "unaffiliated" or "individual" or "consumer" be used in place of "small."

He explained that if brokers remembered that "while institutions today do over 60 per cent of the trading, individual investors own over 60 per cent of the stock," they would realize the unproductiveness of their snobbishness.

Because of the broker-institution alliance, the small investor usually obtains poorer research, receives less attention, and is accorded less overall solicitude, said Levitt.

This, he suggested, is opposite to the proper attitude.

"In my judgment," he said, "the consumer investor needs more time and consideration, more guidance and more education than the institutional investor..."

A cause of the inferior service, he stated, is the existence of a compensation system that rewards the broker for making sales while he poses in the conflicting role of adviser.

Stating that a lot of small investors have been saying for years, he argued that the quest for commissions might tempt some salesmen to "suggest portfolio changes when their best judgment told them this was a time to do nothing."

In his own personal view, he said, the answer to this dilemma is to take salesmen off commissions, to raise the standards of training, and to inspire them with a sense of professionalism that is badly lacking.

"What we should strive for is the creation of job security

Aging Can Be Avoided

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Everything on earth matures and grows older — from microbes to oak trees.

But some things grow older sooner than they have to. People in particular do. Some people.

HAL BOYLE

They let the years suffocate them early. They give up on life and become tiresome victims of their own ennui. They deliberately seek the safety and anonymity of the rut. How can one tell if he is unconsciously letting himself act and feel older than he really needs to be? Well, if the person is you, you should give yourself a shaking up if these things are true of you:

You wait until a new film is on television before you see it. Why go to the bother of going out to a movie and paying money now when you can see it for nothing in a year or two or three?

You never have to look around the house to find anything, because you know where everything is — it's just where it belongs.

It has been three months since you read a new book, and it'll probably be another three months before you get around to reading one.

In the last five years you haven't made two new friends, or even found one that you're really struck by. And you'd rather talk to your old friends over the telephone than go places with them.

Reading the obituary page of your newspaper gives you more pleasure than reading the sports pages. On the other hand, there are a lot of days when nobody interesting seems to die, aren't there?

The first street decorations in connection with beautifying the city for the Christmas holidays were being placed along the principal streets of the business district today. Multi-colored lights are now being placed across intersections in an effort to give a truly festive appearance during the holidays.

A boat flying the British flag was being held in Morehead City today by federal authorities after several hundred cases of bonded liquor was reported found on the vessel. The boat was seized between Portsmouth and Cape Lookout by the Coast Guard.

Strength For Today

LITTLE THINGS COUNT
People are winning gold medals and championships by the score. One day it's swimming. The next day it's chess. In the Olympics former records were broken right and left. Everybody seemed to be wanting to get into the race and many were making heroes of themselves.

This is all good for any nation. There is nothing better for any nation than good clean sport. Everybody needs a hobby, and those of us who lack it are only too well aware of what we are missing. Imagine international representatives playing ping pong and the eyes of the world fixed on chess games. It must be fine if one is built that way, and the people lacking in such interests or capacities are to be pitied indeed.

One thing we ought to get well in mind is that life is made up of a multitude of little things. Watch a marriage go to pieces and you will find that for the most part it goes to pieces because little matters of taste and preference are disregarded or violated. The lives of most of us are made up for the most part of little things. Even people holding the highest positions in the business and political world find that a majority of their decisions are over matters that may appear petty and inconsequential. But they are not. Great things take care of themselves if we give sufficient attention to little things. They are the factors that really count.

August Sales Show Sharp Gain

Greenville was one of 23 Eastern North Carolina cities recording sales gains of ten per cent or more during the month of August as compared to the same period a year ago.

According to figures released by the Department of Revenue Statistics, Greenville recorded August sales of $11,889,632, an increase of 20.2 per cent over last year's $9,888,109.

For the January through August period of this year, sales $84,554,855, up 11.9 per cent over $75,523,105 recorded during the same period last year.

Among other area cities posting substantial gains were Rocky Mount, which recorded a 25 per cent increase in August on sales of $16,827,084, compared with $13,457,726 in 1971. For the first eight months of the year, Rocky Mount had an increase of 13.1 per cent as sales climbed from $103,067,047 last year to $118,656,253.

Tarboro had sales of $3,963,219 in August, a 23.9 per cent increase over the $3,197,727 recorded last year. January-August figures in 1971 were $23,411,919, while this year sales amounted to $27,215,802, or a jump of 16.2 per cent, for the same period.

Additional cities, their 1971 and 1972 August sales and percentage increases, and January-August totals for both years and increases, include: Jacksonville, $9,083,438, $11,067,045, 21.8 per cent, and $70,506,472, $79,104,707 12.1 per cent; New Bern, $7,966,988, $9,513,201, 19.4 per cent, and $66,487,012, $72,858,882, 9.5 per cent; Washington, $5,513,377, $6,430,039, 16.6 per cent, and $39,889,555, $46,337,079, 16.1 per cent;

Williamston, $2,476,783, $2,885,945, 16.5 per cent, and $19,366,620, $20,429,589, 5.4 per cent; Goldsboro, $12,445,504, $14,403,679, $15.7 per cent, and $94,656,393, $109,653,809, 15.8 per cent; Wilson, $10,170,044, $11,427,887, 12.3 per cent, and $71,184,058, $79,757,164, 12 per cent; and Kinston, $10,605,086, $11,791,277, 11.1 per cent, and $79,149,829, $86,632,619, 9.4 per cent.

Smithfield lead eastern cities with a 34.5 per cent increase in August while Morehead City easily topped the field in sales increase for the first eight months with 42.3 per cent.

Cary was the only city among the 24 reporting to have a decrease in August sales as figures dropped 12.8 per cent this year.

Prominent Role For ECU Geographers

East Carolina University faculty and student geographers were prominent in activities at the meeting of the southeastern division of the Association of American Geographers last week.

Hosted by the University of Miami, the assembled geographers met aboard the cruise ship M-V Freepart.

Students Owen Furuseh and Walter Martin presented original research reports concerning geographical aspects of eastern North Carolina.

Dr. Richard A. Stephenson lectured on his research in linear distribution of stream channel characteristics and on planning and applied geographic research.

Dr. Charles F. Gritzner was co-lecturer with a Florida geographer on the diffusion of Southern Corn Leaf Blight.

Also attending the shipboard meeting were Dr. George Martin and students John Morgan, Robert Corbo and Douglas Tucker.

During the four-day cruise, the ship docked in Freeport and Nassau before returning to Miami.

Levitt spoke to the students, he said, because he viewed their forum as an opportunity to introduce concepts for discussion. It is impractical to institute some of the concepts now, he said, but not soon enough to begin working toward them.

While the students were receptive to his suggestions, some adverse criticism already has been heard in The Street, where traditions, good or bad, die slowly.

other commuters, "the American people started losing interest in Railroad Space Travel. Congress started cutting back in funds. Newspaper editorials began asking, "Why are we spending so much money to send men to New York City when the funds could be spent on highways in suburbia?"

Another man said, "We stopped becoming American heroes. No one was interested in the rocks we brought back from Manhattan. The Railroad Space Industry found its contracts being halved and there were labor problems at the launch sites. The trains ran later and later. Pretty soon no one wanted responsibility for the Long Island."

"Commuters froze in the winter and perspired in the summer. Many of them dropped out of the program," the third man said.

"What scientific contribution do you think the Railroad Space program has made to our country?" I asked.

"We proved," said one of the commuters, "that man can live in a hostile environment for hours on end. We also showed that although it cannot sustain life, New York City was probably once part of Long Island. This is terribly important if we are seeking the origins of our planet."

"Furthermore," said the second commuter, "we proved we could get to New York before the Russians did. This has had a beneficial effect on the American morale."

"Of course," said the third commuter staring out at the empty tracks, "it's all over now. But I don't think you can stop man's curiosity. I predict that someday not only will man go to New York again, but he'll live there. Who knows, someday he might even make it by train to Trenton."

Evans-Novak . . .

When Gilligan then tried to endorse all other possible candidates, Ford again moved in with tough talk urging the governors not to "look like a damn bunch of fools." When efforts were next made to adjourn for lunch, two other Strauss supporters — Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and David Hall of Oklahoma — insisted on an immediate vote.

The 18 governors lined up for Strauss had too much Southern-Border state flavor to please Strauss's managers; they had counted on liberal Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, who instead abstained. But important Northern liberals (Gilligan and Lucey included) abstained instead of voting no. Viewing Strauss as a live possibility for the first time, they were not about to alienate a future national chairman.

The response by diehard activists on the party's left fringe now approaches hysteria. Sladering Strauss as "a Southern racist," one Westwood adviser told his election as national chairman "will force us into a new party."

Such blackmail might stop Strauss and instead elect O'Brien or California state chairman Charles Manatt. Whatever happens to Strauss, however, the 24 hours in St. Louis proved the intent to move back toward the center is a new and formidable force within the party.

Club Raising Gift Money

AYDEN— Members of the Ayden Senior Citizens Club are selling collards to raise money for Christmas baskets for the less fortunate senior citizens.

The club, which has about 25 members, were responsible for planting and tending the collard patch. Some of the heavier work was hired done.

The patch is located at the corner of Venters and Sixth Street in Ayden. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Nicey Williams at 611 Venters St. to purchase collards.

The Ayden Club was organized three years ago with the assistance of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, coordinator of the Council On Aging.

Officers of the club include: Mrs. Williams, president; Mrs. Israh Richardson, secretary; and Mrs. Doris Hardy, treasurer.

The club meets twice monthly on Monday nights and will begin meeting in the new Community Project recreation center next week.

The collard patch is just one of the projects the club has to sponsor its activities.

Friendship Said Portion Of LBJ Ranch Given To Park

A Future Basis

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Friendship, more than kinship, will underlie future human relations, and tomorrow's couples will engage openly in sexual relations with friends and other couples, says a British biologist and medical researcher.

In an article entitled "Sexuality in a Zero Growth Society" in the December issue of Center Report, Dr. Alexander Comfort says today's trend toward swinging "marks the end, or the beginning of the end, of proprietary sexual attitudes."

Mate sharing, says Comfort, is a "realistic view of the needs of couples and individuals for variety" and a "recognition that the meeting of needs rather than their frustration is a gift which expresses love ... and strengthens the primary bond."

Comfort says he expects "to see a society in which pair relationships are still central but initially less permanent, in which childbearing is seen as a special responsibility involving a special life style and in which settled couples engage openly in a wide range of sexual relations with friends, with other couples and with third parties as an expression of social intimacy, without prejudice to the primacy of their own relationship."

The old have been increasingly isolated by the decline of the kinship family, says Comfort, and would benefit most from "a 'spreading' of the couple-preoccupied family into something like a tribe of friends."

"We are not here talking about change which we can further or prevent, simply about changes which are now taking place."

POLLUTION ANALYZING
NEW YORK (UPI) — Five Japanese enterprises have established "pollution analyzing centers" as part of a new business trend to measure noxious matter found in water or air. Most of the firms report they already are swamped with survey requests.

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Come summer, tourists can glimpse the Old West and the new and at the same time, trace the birth-to-retirement surroundings of a former president in the LBJ territory of Texas.

Lyndon B. Johnson donated more than 200 acres of the LBJ Ranch in the state's hill country to the public this week, and the National Park Service is well along with plans for showing it off as an example of a modern working ranch. Thirty-six head of registered cattle, the nucleus of a herd, will be grazing on the slopes, and crops will spread across the landscape. The park service is paying Johnson between $25,000 and $35,000 for the cattle and has hired his foreman, Dale Malachuk, and five ranchhands to oversee the operation and to supervise some details at the contrasting Old West ranch. That 47-acre tract 15 miles away in Johnson City was used by Johnson's grandfather as a cattle-drive quarters in the 1880s. It will be reconstructed to show such Old West enterprises as blacksmithing and perhaps saddlemaking.

"We think it's going to be a hell of an experience for people," said one park service employee who has dealt with the ranch transition. He credited outgoing park service Director George Hartzog with persuading Johnson to donate the land and promise another gift of up to 500 acres later so there could be a unified plan to show the public how the nation's first president from the Southwest grew up, prospered and retired.

Johnson's boyhood home and his birthplace already have been declared national historical monuments by Congress and 668,000 persons have visited them since 1970. The addition of the ranch home and the ranching and farming headquarters, the grandfather's old-time ranch and the one-room school Johnson once attended will make a presidential package unlike any in the country, the park service said.

"Johnson is the only president we've had up to now who has his birthplace, his ancestors, his boyhood home, his principal nonpolitical vocation, his Texas White House and then his retirement home and his cemetery all within 15 miles," said Charles Boatner, a park service official stationed in Fort Worth, Tex., who has supervised the transition.

"It'll be a great deal better than running up and down the Potomac trying to chase George Washington—and we'll have the authentic things," he added.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By MARY L. BRANCH
Hi friends! Conley students are beginning to show Christmas spirit as the holiday nears. Our school library really puts you in the mood with all the pretty decorations. Students have already started making Christmas bulletin boards which make the classrooms quite attractive. Christmas should be a joyous season and Conley students are trying their best to make it so.

cement walk for the Whitfield elementary school. The most outstanding student in this Bricklaying I class is Artis Strong.

Bill Nobles, vice-president of the Ayden Southern Bank, was here Wednesday. Lillie Shivers of Shivers' Beauty Shop will be here on Monday to talk with Mrs. Allens' 10th grade English class on different job opportunities in the field of cosmetology.

Also, on Monday, Jerry Raynor from the Daily Reflector will speak with Mrs. Clark's 11th grade English class on newspaper writing.

Sgt. David Hughes, army recruiter, was here Thursday to talk with Mrs. Davis' class. Willard Finch came to speak with FBLA members, Wednesday on the FBLA Theme, Explorers of Tomorrow.

Ron Braxton's physical science class is always busy doing experiments. They learn while having fun. Student of the week in this class is Mike Clendenen. Student of the month is Mike Nobles and the most improved student is Jackie Costin. The IPS Allstars are selling peanut crunch and chocolate-covered mints for $1.00 per container.

Buy some so you can help support them on a trip to Hampton, Va. The way the students have been working, they really deserve the trip. They have been washing and vacuuming cars, baking and selling cakes, and now they are selling candy.

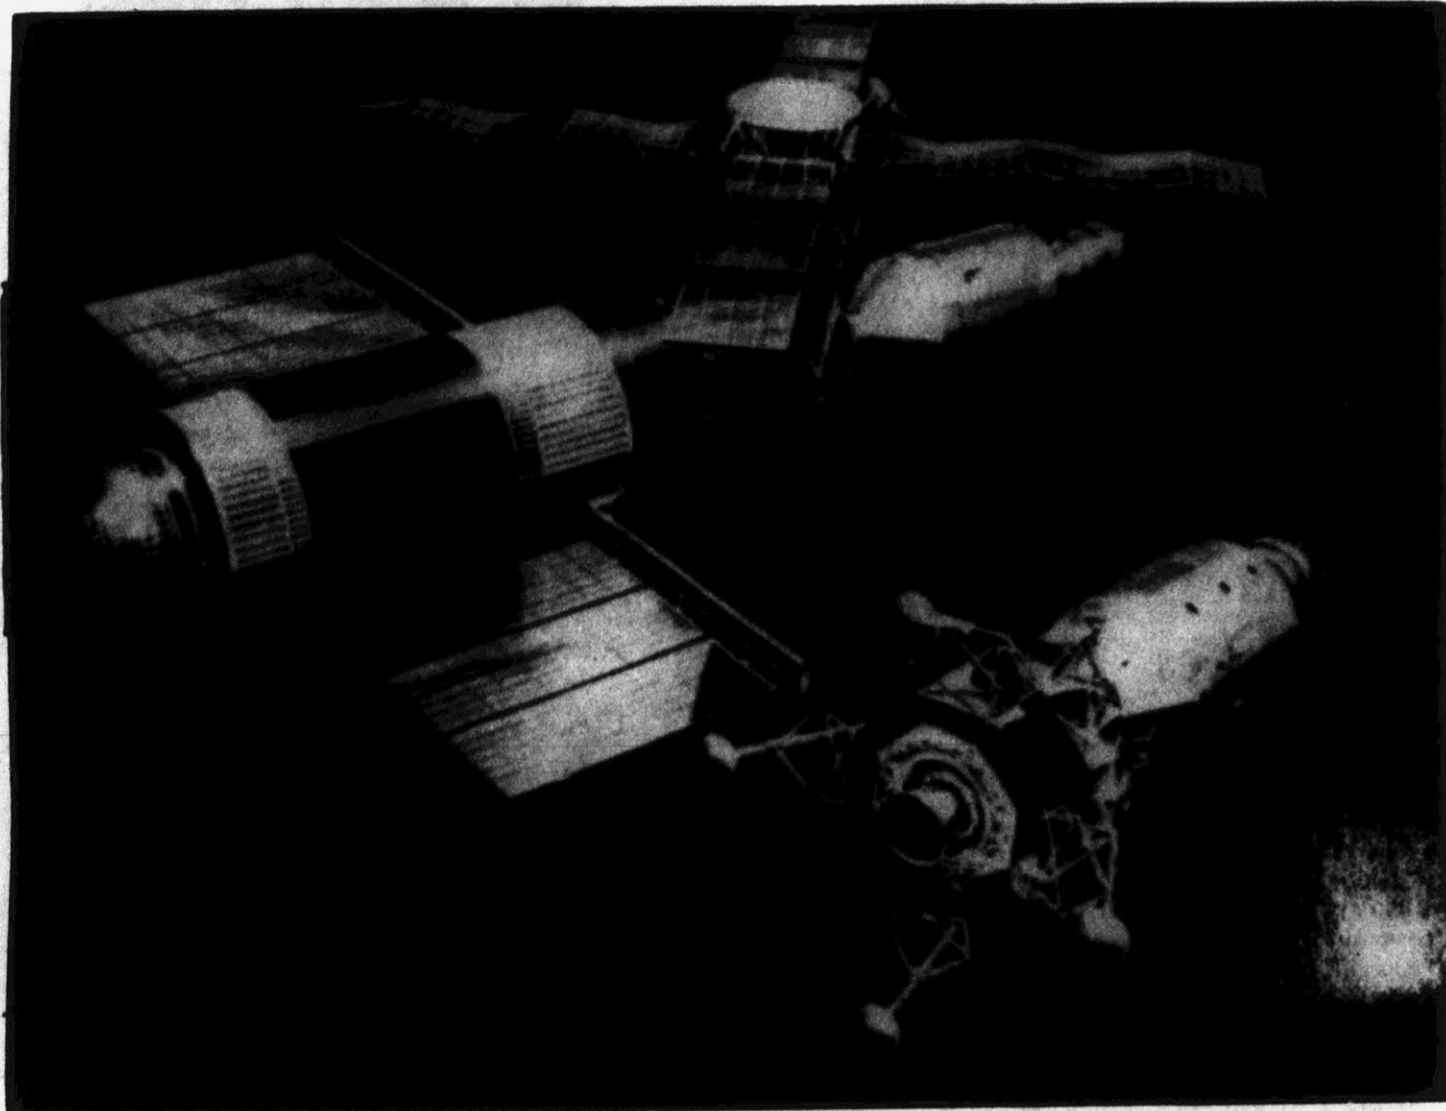

Don't forget, students, the local science fair is March 7. Start working on those projects.

Our photography class under Mrs. Nancy Evans is busy working on enlargements such as "serenity," "happiness," "friendliness," "excitement," and "school spirit." Photographers really get in on the excitement because they are always welcome to take pictures here at school.

Good luck, Vikings, against Farmville-Central Friday night. See you next week!

GOVERNMENT COST BEATS POPULATION

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's population has grown 130 per cent since 1946 but official figures show the cost of government, even adjusted to allow for inflation, has boomed over the same period.

Senator's Son To Stand Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 24-year-old son of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is scheduled to stand trial here Jan. 18 on assault charges filed in the alleged drugging of a former Playboy bunny.

Trial for Robin Cranston was postponed from Thursday in Superior Court because a prosecution attorney was ill, a court spokesman said. Cranston is charged with assault in the alleged drugging of Joyce Marie Williams, 23, in a West Los Angeles home last March.

Assault charges were filed because the drug was allegedly capable of inflicting bodily harm, authorities said.

Pretrial motions are scheduled here Dec. 18.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

EXTERIOR TREATMENT of this home, Plan HA751Y, is a simple but handsome blend of wood shingles and brick. Stone can be substituted for brick if the budget allows. There is a covered entrance porch, leading to a foyer where direct access is possible to almost any place without passing through another room. The garage has its own entrance to the house. The kitchen has cabinets on three walls; there is a dinette in addition to a dining room. The second floor contains three bedrooms, high above ground level, for privacy. The plan includes an extra drawing showing how a fourth bedroom can be added over the recreation room. Living space is 870 feet on the first floor and 676 on the second. The architect, Herman H. York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y. 11432, may be written by anyone wanting to know how much the blueprint costs.

Coed, 18, Helps On Educational Policy

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI)—Ann Nakagawa, Hawaii's first 18-year-old elected official, is just another pretty coed during school hours, but as an extracurricular activity she helps set educational policy for the entire state.

Miss Nakagawa, a University of Hawaii freshman of Japanese ancestry, soundly defeated her Democratic opposition in the primary election for a seat on the Hawaii Board of Education, and was automatically elected as there were no Republican contenders.

Highly articulate and issue oriented, Miss Nakagawa overcame the problems of being a political unknown, of having only $700 in her campaign fund, of being both young and female, to defeat Jacob Pyo, 55, a state employe with a long record of service in the Parent-Teachers Association.

Miss Nakagawa, helped by enthusiastic friends, would be up at 5:30 a.m. during the campaign to stand on street corners waving placards or do some house-to-house canvassing before class each morning.

Offered A Change

"People wanted a change and saw an opportunity for change in me," she said.

The dynamic teen-ager who held many offices in high school government sees herself as the "student voice" on what she describes as an "elite group," the 11-member school board, the policy setting body for the state's public school system.

"People say to me, 'being 18, you might have a hard time.' But I say being 18 is an advantage," Miss Nakagawa said.

"I just graduated from high school and 12 years of the public education system. Because of that I'm much closer to the schools and student's problems than any other person on the board."

Miss Nakagawa replaces a minister, who first gave her the idea that a student could and

A Review 'Galileo' Audience Has A Mind-Boggling Drama

"Galileo," a play by Bertolt Brecht, now playing at the East Carolina University Playhouse, (performances tonight and Saturday at 8:15 p.m.) gives you something to think, talk, and, quite possibly, argue about. Even the central thesis of the play is controversial: Galileo, by giving in to the pressure of church authority and recanting his well-researched scientific theories, did an act of cowardice and avoidance of responsibility which set the tone for modern science to develop its awesome machinery in an ethical vacuum, its work sequestered from moral responsibility. That is a prodigious amount of blame for the shoulders of just one man!

But historic questions are not so important as dramatic effectiveness. Towards the play's end, a repentant Galileo admits that in surrendering to coercion he paved the way for a crippling of science which would arm the establishment against the poor, bring a technology of drudgery, and produce "achievements" of such terror that they would be met by "a universal howl." We the poor, bring a technology of drudgery, and produce "achievements" of such terror that they would be met and produce "achievements" of such terror that they would be met by "a universal howl." We feel our necks tingle, for heavy hangs the mushroom cloud above our heads.

But historic questions are not so important as dramatic effectiveness. Towards the play's end, a repentant Galileo admits that in surrendering to coercion he paved the way for a crippling of science which would arm the establishment against the poor, bring a technology of drudgery,

The first of the play is concerned with the drama of new insight running into strong opposition. Galileo is the man who "abolished heaven" with his telescopic discoveries, depriving man of his cherished position as chief of God's creatures with central place in the universe. That we are all swept along was a disturbing insight to those who preferred to think of Rome as earth's immovable navel. Galileo's banishment of man to the "outskirts of the universe" was a severe offense.

Dan Hogan in the title role shows us a Galileo who begins as a somewhat irascible scientific charlatan and proceeds to a noble defense of truth which is marred by his recantation. However, Hogan's Galileo faces his own defection honestly and unsparingly. His forthright denunciation of himself renders him again heroic in our sight and is one of Hogan's supreme moments. Brecht wanted us to think Galileo a scoundrel, but, as is often the case with this German playwright's anti-heroes, a good actor oversteps that boundary and produces strong audience empathy.

Rick Price and Taylor Green, as high churchmen, display some of the most professional acting in the production. When they come together as reluctant Pope and eager Inquisitor, we enjoy a professional command and shading of subtleties which shines as the best-acted scene. Price is a pope who wants to be human and Green is insidious as the epitome of establishment jealousy and vengefulness.

Stephen Roberts does a fine job with one of the longest speeches in the play—not all opposition to the new science sprang from jealousy and baseness. The ethereal winds blowing in on man's consciousness were chill to good people also. Russell Chesson, on the other hand, takes but a few lines and breathes warmth and humor into them.

A mind-boggling dramatic happening is the ninth scene. Everything turns outrageously farcical. Serious churchmen dance behind masks and a vocal arrangement suddenly throws off the sing-song of Gregorian chant in favor of an appalling modern balladism (most ably belted by Barbara Benjamin). At first, there is universal rejoicing at the anti-authoritarian freedom "to do just as one pleases," but before our eyes this freedom turns decadent and finally horrible. Brecht loved to depict such decadence, but this ending of the first act goes even further, foreshadowing the ambiguity in human "progress" which is to end the play. Congratulations to director Edgar Loessin. Congratulations to director Edgar Loessin.

Robert Beard's music is a potpourri of the traditional and the modern, indicative of the conflicts in the life of the man who bridged two ages. The production's set remains static, but the projection of colored slides whisks us from Padua to Venice and Florence and Rome. More important, and most effective, is the extended use of slides showing the sidereal reaches of space. The walls of convention could not confine Galileo. He stands best and finally before us amid the enigmatic glories of the cosmos.

Jim Boswell (Jim Boswell is campus minister for Disciples of Christ at East Carolina University.)

Trial Witness To Give Testimony On TV Tape

By KEN GEPFERT ASSOCIATED Press Writer MIAMI (AP) — When it's time for Melvin Brewer to take the witness stand in a Miami courtroom today, he'll be vacationing in the Florida Keys. But he won't have to worry about being held in contempt.

In fact, Brewer was sent on his vacation with the blessings of the trial judge.

In Brewer's place will be a 21-inch television screen mounted in front of the jury box. The six-member jury is to watch as the Dade County Public Safety Department criminologist appears on the screen to offer his testimony in a heroin-possession trial.

Officials said they believe the televised testimony will mark the first time a video-tape recording of a witness' statement is presented in a U.S. criminal trial.

Bringing television into courtrooms is part of a project aimed at "streamlining the administration of justice both timewise and qualitywise," according to consultant Francis Taillefer of the National Center for State Courts.

The center was created in 1971 by U.S. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger to evaluate methods of improving the judicial process and reducing case backlog in state courts.

When the center's staff was looking for a courtroom to start experimenting with video-tape recording, Criminal Court Judge Murray Goodman volunteered.

When the prosecution asked for a continuance of the trial this week because one of its witnesses was on vacation, Goodman asked if the witness, Brewer, had left town.

Brewer was found at his home packing for his vacation, so the judge denied the continuance and ordered, in effect, that a minicourtroom be set up in the witness' living room.

Defendant, attorneys and prosecutor trooped into Brewer's home with a technician with a video-tape recorder.

There, with television lights burning, Brewer gave his testimony, complete with cross-examination by defense counsel.

should be elected to the board. "When I started thinking about the possibilities of having a student on the board, I really got excited and said, 'Yes, I'm going to run. I'm going to run.' We took it from there."

Miss Nakagawa's outspoken ideas may raise some eyebrows among the conservative, older members of the board, but she is very anxious to be taken seriously.

Liberalized Policies

Favoring educational experiments, Miss Nakagawa thinks high school students should be allowed to smoke on campus, would like to see teacher evaluations by pupils and wants more emphasis on vocational training. She plans to write a monthly newspaper column to be published in a youth paper circulated at schools "to explain what the board is doing and ask for student feedback."

Aware of the drug problem in public schools, Miss Nakagawa believes more classes about the adverse effects of drugs are the key to curtailing their use.

"Unless you test new ideas, you can never tell if they're good or bad," she said.

Miss Nakagawa sees her position as a "big responsibility since people are watching to see how youth succeeds. If I do a good job," she said, "more students will be elected to school board in the years to come."

Although preparation for the twice monthly nighttime board meetings and her school work take up most of her time, Miss Nakagawa is still interested in rock concerts, movies, dormitory living and dates.

She doesn't have a boyfriend and shyly admitted she's "still looking."

Opera Broadcast Series Readied

Giuseppe Verdi's operas will dominate the field in the 1972-73 Saturday radio broadcasts from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City.

Now a third of a century old, the Texaco sponsored broadcasts, live from the stage of the Metropolitan, will feature seven Verdi operas from a total of 20 performances scheduled from December 9 through April 21.

Only one 20th century opera, England's Benjamin Britten's Peter Grimes, is programmed for the Saturday broadcasts. All the other operas are from the standard repertoire of the 18th and 19th century, representing Italian, German, Austrian and French composers.

Three composers will be represented by two works each—Gounod, Mozart and Donizetti.

The 20 week schedule published by Texaco for the coming season shows the following operas set for production on the dates listed.

| 1972 Dates  | Opera and Composer               |
|-------------|----------------------------------|
| December 9  | Otello, Verdi                    |
| December 16 | Die Walkuere, Wagner             |
| December 23 | Die Zauberfloete, Mozart         |
| December 30 | Faust, Gounod                    |
| 1973 Dates  |                                  |
| January 6   | La Fille du Regiment, Donizetti  |
| January 13  | La Traviata, Verdi               |
| January 20  | La Boheme, Puccini               |
| January 27  | Un Ballo in Maschera, Verdi      |

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources report Communist guerrillas recently attacked a base in Thailand from which U.S. Air Force technicians control electronic surveillance of North Vietnamese supply routes through southern Laos.

U.S. intelligence analysts suggest the small-arms attack on Nakhon Phanom early this week is linked with increased military activity by Thai Communists.

Reports reaching the Pentagon said one American officer was wounded in the attack on Nakhon Phanom but that facilities and aircraft at the base escaped damage.

While the attack was minor in scope, the intelligence analysts appeared concerned it might foreshadow more-serious threats to about 49,000 American airmen and other servicemen stationed at seven Thai bases.

Attacks on U.S. bases in Thailand have been rare, and in the past Thais have blamed them mostly on North Vietnamese guerrillas.

But a U.S. intelligence report indicated a belief that the attack on Nakhon Phanom was staged by Thai Communists.

Some Thai officials long have forecast their country would come under increased Communist pressure from inside and outside its borders after the Indochina war ends, even though strong U.S. Air Force elements are expected to remain in Thailand for an indefinite period.

Nakhon Phanom, less than 10 miles from Laos, is one of the most important bases used by the U.S. Air Force because it is the site of a multimillion-dollar "infiltration surveillance center." From this center, equipped with computers and other advanced electronic equipment, Air Force technicians monitor sensors dropped along the Ho Chi Minh Trail by American war planes.

Information gathered by these sensors and digested at the Nakhon Phanom center determines many of the targets struck by American bombers and gunships attempting to interfere with North Vietnamese supply truck movements.

The Thai armed forces are chiefly responsible for protecting the air bases.

However, American military men are less than satisfied with the performance of the Thai army in dealing with insurgency, despite many years of U.S. aid and advice.

Automatic Given 5 Years For $7.5 Million Blaze

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Robert Vance Somers, Salisbury lawyer and newly elected Republican state senator, says he plans to introduce a bill which would automatically renew the license of North Carolinians who have maintained a safe driving record for the previous four years.

He says a safe driver would be one who had not been convicted of any violation, or had not been involved in any chargeable accident.

Joe W. Garrett, state motor vehicles commissioner, said he thinks the present renewal process, requiring tests, is necessary to keep motorists alert to new regulations and to new road signs and markings. He said, "Studying the manual is about the only way to reach every motorist and acquaint them with new changes."

Luci Nugent In Hospital Care
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Luci Nugent, the younger daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, has been hospitalized since Nov. 28 for "diagnosis and tests," says a spokesman at St. David's Community Hospital.

The spokesman declined to reveal the nature of her problem or the name of her physician.

Mrs. Nugent, 25, was admitted to another hospital in November for "corrective surgery on a hearing problem," but her current hospitalization is not related to her hearing, the spokesman said.

She is married to Pat Nugent, an officer of Communications Properties, Inc., an Austin-based national cable television firm.

Killer Is Sentenced To Two Life Terms

RALEIGH (AP) — A 24-year-old ex-convict is facing life imprisonment after a jury convicted him of first degree murder in the rifle slayings of a young Raleigh couple.

Michael Arnold LaPrade showed no emotion Thursday when the jury returned its verdict after deliberating less than 45 minutes.

He was charged with killing Patricia Grimes, 23, woman's editor of The Raleigh Times, and Peter Williams, 27, a real estate salesman.

Their bullet-riddled bodies were found Sept. 30 at Raleigh Beach on the Neuse River a few miles east of Raleigh. They had gone there on a bicycle outing.

Judge Clarence W. Hall, noting he could no longer impose the death penalty, said, "All I know I can do is give him the maximum in each case."

Because Hall did not say the sentences would be consecutive, they will by law run concurrently. LaPrade's status would be eligible for review in 10 years by the paroles board.

The 3-bedroom OXFORD

Jim Walter builds a better buy!

Actually our homes do require painting... but not very often. Here's why... the siding used by Jim Walter Homes is hardboard. We call it "wood made better" because modern technology has made it possible to improve upon lumber, nature's own building material. We actually take the trees, pull them apart, put them back together again and make lumber that is almost entirely impervious to dry rot, warpage and other deficiencies usually associated with wood. Then, in the factory, our hardboard siding is primed for painting, and the backside is surfaced-sealed to prevent absorption of moisture, a natural enemy of paint. It is then practically non-porous, meaning that you use less paint and you paint less often. And if you dread the tedious chore of painting windows, relax again... Jim Walter Homes installs aluminum windows that never need to be painted.

So once in a while you'll have to paint your homestead, but in the long run you'll be able to spend more time fishing, playing golf or lying back in your hammock. Whatever you enjoy doing for relaxation, you'll be able to do more of it... and enjoy living in your new home by Jim Walter besides.

Before you get too relaxed, though, here's how a little work can save you a lot of dollars... the amount depends upon how much interior work you do for yourself. Jim Walter Homes will build a two, three or four bedroom home on your property, completely finishing the outside, including the first paint job, but stop at almost any stage of interior completion. You can pocket big savings by doing all or just a little of the inside finish work. To make it even more convenient, we'll furnish the material and include the cost in your mortgage payments.

Cigarettes Almost As Rare As Steak Dinners In Chile Today

By ARTHUR GOLDEN

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Hand-lettered signs dangling from newsstands show that cigarettes have become as rare as steak dinners in Chile these days.

"No cigarettes. Don't insist!" snaps a crayoned warning on battleship gray cardboard outside a kiosk a block from the Presidential Palace.

"Take advantage of the opportunity. Don't smoke. Protect your health," advises a newsstand placard across the street.

Long lines, sometimes the length of a block, form outside newsstands when cigarettes arrive. Kiosk owners generally ration sales a pack a customer.

The eight domestic brands are produced by the privately-owned Chilean Tobacco Co., founded in 1903. The leftist government took over distribution several months ago in response to customer complaints.

The company said it had increased production 34 per cent since 1971 to meet demand. It said 345 workers were hired this year, bringing the labor force to 1,750.

Strike Affected Shortage
The shortage was aggravated last month during the 26-day nationwide labor walkout when striking truck drivers virtually paralyzed cigarette delivery.

Some observers believe the shortage is caused by the Chileans' desire to spend their money rapidly before this year's 130 per cent inflation rate makes their cash worthless. Patricia Palma, director of the Industry and Commerce Department, attributed the shortage to "reactionary forces who have tried to create discontent that could be blamed on the government."

Palma said unjustified speculation about future price increases in cigarettes "is produced a buying psychosis among consumers, exaggerating demand to volumes totally impossible to satisfy."

The tobacco company said each adult Chilean smokes about eight cigarettes a day, which is considered slightly less than average for Latin American nations.

Tobacco has been raised in Chile since before the Spanish conquest in the 16th century. A century later, Jesuits began the first large-scale cultivation of the crop.

Black Market Thrives
John Byron, an English traveler, reported in 1741 that Chilean women were already chain-smoking cigarettes. "The women have lovely skin but tobacco has stained their fingertips brown," he said.

The contemporary shortage has generated a thriving black market. Illicit peddlers offer domestic brands for the equivalent of about 75 cents a pack, three times the official price.

Imported brands, especially from the United States, are sold under the counter at more than three dollars a pack.

Angel Castro, a columnist in the Communist tabloid Puro Chile, said the other day that a black marketer was selling cigarettes during a street rally for Socialist President Salvador Allende.

Castro said Allende supporters forced the man to sell the cigarettes at the official price.

Apollo 17's Landing Site Could Fill Gaps In Knowledge Of Moon

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Astronaut Eugene A. Cernan calls the Apollo 17 landing site "exciting," and a noted lunar scientist terms it more complicated geologically than any place yet visited on the moon. "It's a flat valley between two major mountain fronts that rise up between 6,000 and 7,000 feet," explained Cernan, who will guide the lunar module to a landing. "We've also got mountains that we fly over just before landing that are upwards of 6,000 feet. Between these mountains is the valley, only about three miles across — sort of a box canyon."

"Taurus-Littrow is a very exciting landing site, from both the standpoint of geology there and from the standpoint of being a pilot and a lunar rover driver," he added. "I think it's going to be a heck of a challenge and opportunity."

Cernan and Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt, a geologist, are to land at Taurus-Littrow for a three-day stay on Dec. 11. The site, in the northeast quadrant of the moon on the rim of the Sea of Serenity, gets its name from the nearby Taurus Mountains and Littrow Crater.

"It may contain some of the youngest and, at the same time, some of the oldest rocks on the moon," says Dr. William Muehlberger, the U.S. Geological Survey's Center of Astrogeology, Flagstaff, Ariz.

"A veneer of very dark material — some of the darkest on the moon — covers most of the site and appears to be very young," he said.

Muehlberger is the principal Apollo investigator in charge of mapping the site, planning the astronauts' explorations there and interpreting results.

Rocks returned by the five previous moon-landing crews range in age from 3 billion to 4.1 billion years old.

Schmitt said that hopefully the material collected on Apollo 17 will fill in two missing chapters in the lunar history book — the first and the last.

"We so far have a portion of the history of the moon dating from about three to four billion years ago," the geologist-astronaut explained. "Our history book of the earth starts at about 3 to 3.5 billion years and goes to the present. That's the part of the earth we understand, and we really don't understand all of it.

"The early part of the earth's history is really obscured, wiped away by wind, water and an atmosphere," he continued. "That's why the first half billion years on the moon is so important. It can give us an insight into the early history of the earth because the earth and moon evolved by similar or related processes in the same part of the solar system at about the same time."

"So if we collect material at Taurus-Littrow dating back to

Answered 48 Alarms In Pitt During November

For the month of November, the Rural Fire Departments of Pitt County answered a total of 48 alarms covering 38 fires.

Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal, reports that for the month, house fires were the most frequent of any types of fires with a total of 13 reported. There was a rise in the number of grass fires over previous months, with 11 reported.

Five fires were in buildings other than houses, and one false alarm was reported. The number of mutual aid responses amounted to 10, a higher than normal monthly number. In mutual aid, one fire department assists another in fighting a fire.

Property damage for the month of November amounted to $26,595. Valuation of property involved in the fires amounted to $243,000.

the origin of the moon, we may learn much about how our own planet evolved," he said. "And if the dark material is very young, we will have a recent chapter in lunar history."

Nurses Will Not Be Held Liable

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)

The state attorney general's office says a registered nurse will not be held personally liable for injuries resulting from administration or treatment prescribed by a doctor.

The opinion said the nurse's responsibility is to carry out orders of the physician even if the nurse is doubtful of that treatment. She has no legal responsibility to question the ordered treatment unless failure to do so is tantamount to recklessness, the opinion said.

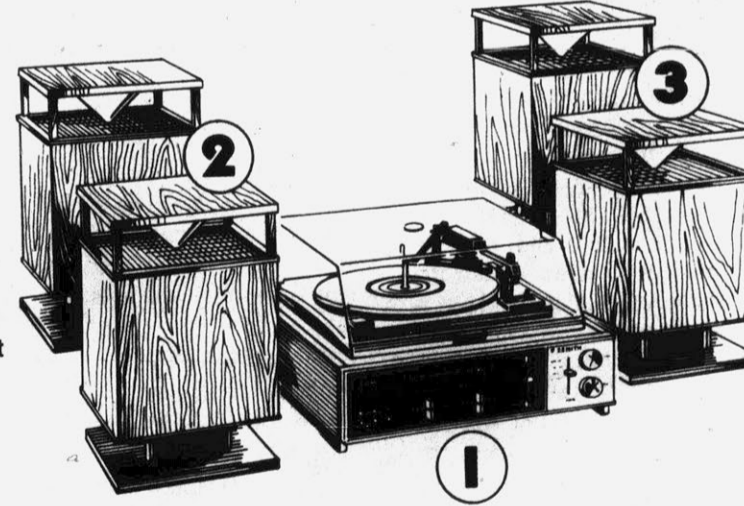

For Indian lore, only the Smithsonian Institution ranks above the Oklahoma Historical Society.

Collision Killed 2 Boys, A Girl

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—Three Hickory teen-agers, two boys and a girl, were killed Thursday when their car collided with an Army truck.

Authorities said the car skidded out of control on a curve on Highway 127 in the city and collided with the truck broadside.

The victims were Clinton Wilcox, 16; George Robin Hollar, 17, and Vicky Gail Christenbury, 18.

The driver of the truck, National Guardsman Mack Eddison Cook, 29, also of Hickory, was not injured.

Quiet Night

West, referring to the shooting that triggered Wednesday's vandalism, said it is "regrettable that the tragedy had to occur..." but said the death "is being investigated by the SBI."

He added, "I would like to ask the citizens to be calm and cooperative," and allow a thorough investigation into the incident to be made.

Morgan, mirroring the mayor's request for calm, said he was in Greenville at the request of city officials to "...personally, along with Mr. Dunn (SBI Director), see that an impartial and fair investigation is made into the shooting...and that all facts are made known and justice is carried out."

The attorney general emphasized that a fair investigation could only be carried out "in a calm atmosphere," and requested Greenville residents to "remain calm and cooperative."

The Rev. J. E. Vance will be honored at an appreciation service Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church in the main auditorium.

The Rev. Vance has been guest minister for Auxiliary Day for the past year at the church. The service will be sponsored by the Ever-Ready Club of the church. A social hour will follow immediately after the service in the educational department of the church.

Several choirs and singing groups in the community will be participating.

City Council

Sharing Trust Fund; and a resolution passed that authorizes the City Treasurer to deposit all funds received by the city under the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 to the General Revenue Sharing Trust Fund.

Another resolution adopted authorizes designating Wachovia Bank and Trust Company for as the depository for City of Greenville General Revenue Sharing Trust Fund.

In designating Wachovia Bank and Trust Company as the permanent depository of these funds, City Manager W.H. Carstarphen explained that the State Commission and the federal government both strongly urged naming one banking institution as a permanent depository to simply the rigid audit requirement for revenue sharing funds. The money will be reinvested with the highest interest bidder.

The council approved payment of a total of $5,307 in insurance premiums to eight insurance firms; and the payment of $573.37 to City Attorney David Reid. This was for professional services in connection with collection of a claim for damages at Sheppard Memorial Library resulting from improper installation of lights that created the damage to the ceiling.

Renewal of two home permits were granted—for the Calvary Baptist Church at 1412 Holbert Street and for Huey Harrison at 152 West Gum Road.

Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath brought up for discussion a non-agenda item, that of the status of work on the extension of Red Banks Road. City Engineer C.A. Holliday explained that the project, one long in the making, still had not been resolved in final details.

Mrs. McGrath asked and received assurance that any work to be accomplished first be presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In a final non-agenda item, the council approved removing from the fire district the building on Albermarle formerly housing the Grady White Boat Works. The approval was extended to cover about 10 acres in the area which covers other buildings. It was noted removing the area from the fire district would have no effect on insurance rates.

The request for removal was made to make it possible for Joseph D. Hull, president of Merrimac Marine Inc. to proceed with plans to begin manufacture of fiber glass boats in the building.

The council joined a large number of Eastern North Carolina Towns and communities urging the expansion of the School of Medicine at East Carolina University.

All the approved resolutions will be presented to the North Carolina General Assembly by Mayor William Flowers of Plymouth.

Minidress Has Gone Bowling

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP)—New Zealand women lawn bowlers have made a late move to get with the minidress look.

Their association says they can shorten their bows dresses by two inches—bringing hemlines up to 16 inches above the ground, which is about 2 inches below the average knee.

New Zealand remains a bastion of the miniskirt. Attempts by clothing manufacturers to lower hemlines have been defied by most women, who shorten the dresses before they wear them.

Prof Grabbed Grenade, Helped Foil Skyjacking

By GHION HAGOS
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — A U.S. professor helped foil the hijacking of an airborne jetliner today, picking up and hurling a live grenade as security guards shot and killed seven air pirates, including a woman, the government news agency said.

The professor, six other passengers and two stewardesses were wounded in the exchange of fire between security guards and the hijackers that took place shortly after an Ethiopian airliner took off from Addis Ababa.

Prof. Roderick Hilsinger, 41, of Temple University, Philadelphia, picked up the grenade dropped by a panicky hijacker and hurled it toward an empty seat in front of him, an Ethiopian passenger said. He was among the wounded.

Ten hijackers were involved, the government agency said, and three were arrested.

"He saved my life and those of many others," the passenger said.

Hilsinger of Temple University, Philadelphia, was in serious condition at the American Seventh Day Adventist Hospital in Addis Ababa, hospital sources said. He came to the Ethiopian capital to help arrange student exchanges.

Ninety-four persons were reported aboard the plane. The identity of the hijackers was not immediately learned. But it was thought they might have been members of the separatist guerrilla movement in Eritrea, a province in northern Ethiopia. The plane had been scheduled to stop in the Eritrean capital, Asmara.

The explosion knocked out one engine and the rudder control, the government news agency said, but the aircraft made a safe landing at Addis Ababa.

A woman appeared to be the leader of the hijackers, other passengers said.

Richard Wylie, an American who was with Hilsinger, said the woman stood up shortly after the plane was airborne and, in Ethiopian, instructed the other hijackers to take positions.

The incident provoked angry reactions from the store's management and several public officials. The patrolman directed to issue the summons said he felt ashamed of the move when he later learned why the store had been open.

Steam Engines Are Taken Out Of Retirement

SYDNEY (AP) — They brought two steam locomotives out of the Railways Museum to haul seven sleeping cars, a diner, and 130 steam enthusiasts 800 miles from Sydney to Whyalla in South Australia.

The sentimental journey was arranged by the Rail Transport Museum Society to mark the opening of a new rail line from Port Augusta to Whyalla.

Most of those on the train were members of the society, but some came from as far away as New Zealand to take the trip. The 10-day tour cost $300.

One engine used was a 38 class, 30 years old, and the other a 36 class, 46 years old.

Steam locomotives have virtually disappeared from Australian tracks, and in New South Wales only a handful are still in use and then only for shunting.

Someone shouted "Hijack!" and the security guards opened fire, another passenger continued. It was at this point that one of the hijackers dropped the grenade, and Hilsinger grabbed it, the passenger said.

In welcoming the new members to the club, president Les Garner noted that the "outstanding qualities of these three men are indicative of the dynamic growth and civic leadership of the Kiwanis Club of Greenville-University City."

Will Withdraw Sums For Sunday Service
NEW YORK (AP) — The city's corporation counsel says steps will be taken to withdraw a summons issued against Alexander's department store for allegedly violating the Sabbath law.

The city official, Norman Redlich, said a stipulation permitting "works of necessity and charity" would apply to the case, which arose when Alexander's opened last Sunday morning to serve handicapped persons who otherwise would have to brave the regular Christmas shopping crush.

The incident provoked angry reactions from the store's management and several public officials. The patrolman directed to issue the summons said he felt ashamed of the move when he later learned why the store had been open.

West, referring to the shooting that triggered Wednesday's vandalism, said it is "regrettable that the tragedy had to occur..." but said the death "is being investigated by the SBI."

He added, "I would like to ask the citizens to be calm and cooperative," and allow a thorough investigation into the incident to be made.

Morgan, mirroring the mayor's request for calm, said he was in Greenville at the request of city officials to "...personally, along with Mr. Dunn (SBI Director), see that an impartial and fair investigation is made into the shooting...and that all facts are made known and justice is carried out."

The attorney general emphasized that a fair investigation could only be carried out "in a calm atmosphere," and requested Greenville residents to "remain calm and cooperative."

The Rev. J. E. Vance will be honored at an appreciation service Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church in the main auditorium.

The Rev. Vance has been guest minister for Auxiliary Day for the past year at the church. The service will be sponsored by the Ever-Ready Club of the church. A social hour will follow immediately after the service in the educational department of the church.

Several choirs and singing groups in the community will be participating.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Two nights ago, violence erupted in Greenville over the shooting of a black man by a policeman. Too often, the ugly facts in something like this smother some of the good that comes out of it. But there was one episode that does bear looking at. The reason you see it here is that it involved an athlete.

Reggie Perkins is a senior at Rose High School. He's a football player and a sprint man on the track team. He's small, just 5-7, 155, but he's probably one of the quickest you'll ever see.

They call him "The Bullet." He ran for over 1,100 yards for the Rampants this fall but failed to get a look from the All-Conference selectors. Running for that distance is even more remarkable when you realize that he did it behind a man who ran for 1,200 in the backfield with him.

Most of the colleges and universities around are overlooking him. Fortunately, one—East Carolina, isn't. They want him as a Speedy Duncan type, a specialist to run back kickoffs and punts. He'll be successful at it if he decides to take it up.

Although it doesn't matter, except for the purpose of this story, Reggie is black.

Wednesday night, Reggie left his home to visit a cousin, off the Fifth Street area where most of the trouble was taking place. Near his cousin's house, he saw a car being overturned.

"It was a Virginia car, a Cutlass," he said. The woman driving the car got out, but a small child, 3 or 4 years old was inside. Without a thought, Reggie crawled through an open window and pulled the child out of the car.

The child was white. "The mother thought at first I was trying to attack the child," Reggie said. But she soon realized Reggie's only aim was to provide aid.

Neither occupant of the car was hurt, fortunately.

For Reggie, it was nothing special. He's used to being nice to people, black or white. And the hand of brotherhood will solve many more problems than a hand with a brick.

Buc Swimmers Host Richmond

East Carolina's varsity swimming team, fresh from a third place team finish in the Penn State Swimming and Diving Relays, will take on the University of Richmond Saturday at 2 p.m. in Minges Natatorium.

The meet will be the first ever between the two Southern Conference teams.

"Richmond's strength is unknown to us right now," said Ray Scharf, ECU's head swimming coach. "I'm sure that Norris Eastman (Richmond's coach) will get the best effort possible from his swimmers."

The Pirates finished third among a strong field of eighteen teams in the Penn State meet last Saturday. The University of Maryland won the even with 314 points while in the battle for second place Bucknell just edged past the Bucs.

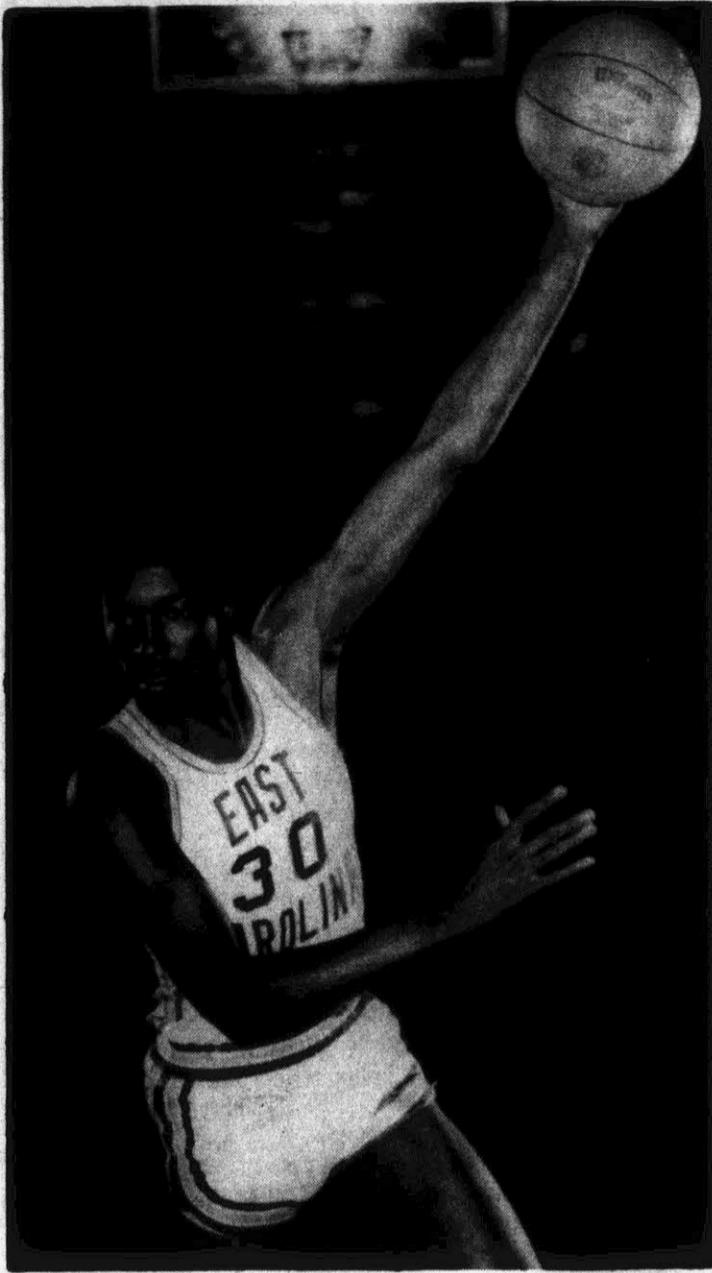

East Carolina was led by Jack Morrow and Jim Burden, who won the one-meter diving relay. In addition, the Pirates placed second in the 400-yard individual medley relay, third in both the 200 and 400-yard freestyle relays, fourth in the 400-yard breaststroke relay and sixth in the 500-yard crescendo relay.

Richmond fielded their first swimming and diving team only a year ago but are in the process of developing a strong and well-balanced program according to Scharf. Their team is expected to be further bolstered in January when Dick Tobin, a former All-American at East Carolina, becomes their head diving coach.

"I've been really pleased with our progress so far," said Scharf. "Up to now we've met all of our objectives but we're going to need a good effort against Richmond."

After the varsity meet, ECU's junior varsity will take on Grimsley High School of Greensboro, state champions for the past eight years. Then on Sunday, the Pirate jayvees will host Solitar Swim Club at 1 p.m.

Allen Adds To His AL Titles

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox added the 1972 American League slugging championship to his home run and runs batted in titles today in official records announced by League President Joe Cronin.

Allen, who tied for third in the batting race with a .308 average, compiled a slugging mark of .603 on 305 total bases in 506 trips to the plate.

Allen is the first player to lead the league in homers, RBI and slugging since 1967, when Boston's Carl Yastrzemski won the Triple Crown and had a slugging percentage of .622.

The White Sox' first baseman had 37 homers, 28 doubles and five triples. He led the league with 99 walks, five more than runnerup Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota.

Chicago catcher Ed Herrmann received the most intentional walks, 19. Oakland's Sal Bando received 17 and Allen 16.

Mike Epstein, recently traded by Oakland to Texas, was hit by 11 pitches, leading the league for the second year in a row. Minnesota's Bobby Darwin was the strikeout leader with 145, but finished high among sluggers with .442 on 22 homers, 20 doubles and two triples.

Carlton Fisk, Boston's Rookie of the Year award winner, was runnerup to Allen in slugging with a .538 mark. The young catcher had 22 homers, 28 doubles and nine triples, helping the Red Sox to the team slugging championship with a .376 percentage. Oakland was second with .366, followed by the New York Yankees with .357 and Detroit with .356.

Cronin announced that 25 major league records were broken and another 25 tied during the 1972 American League season.

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore set new marks for a third baseman, while Detroit's Ed Brinkman established for records for shortstops. And Boston shortstop Luis Aparicio set three marks.

The lowly Texas Rangers set a major league mark by getting only 11 complete games from pitchers. Wilbur Wood, the White Sox' knuckleball ace, struck out 65 times for a futility record by a pitcher.

There also were 25 American League records broken and 12 others tied.

EDMONTON (AP) — Jack Gotta, 41, head coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders, was named Canadian Football League Coach of the Year Tuesday. Te was selected by his fellow coaches.

East Carolina University's Pirates will be out to pick up their first Southern Conference victory Saturday night when they play host to Appalachian State University.

Game time for the varsity is 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The Pirate junior varsity will host Chowan Junior College at 5:45 p.m. in a preliminary game.

The Bucs, 1-1, on the year, lost their Southern Conference opener Tuesday night against Davidson, 100-80, with 37 turnovers being the key difference in the game.

"I knew we weren't there yet," Quinn said, referring to being ready to meet Davidson. "But we did do some things better than I had expected. We anticipated having trouble against their press and their shuffling defense, but it really didn't bother us that much."

Instead, he pointed out, the Pirates own defense fell apart and their open-center offense tore the Pirates up. "Their half-court man-to-man defense bothered us in the second half, too," he said.

It was in the second half that the majority of the turnovers occurred, and the Bucs fell from a one-point deficit after the first half.

"We didn't move and get into our offense in the second half and we didn't stop their offense," Quinn said.

The coach added that he saw

Deacons Getting 1st ACC Testing

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
Wake Forest basketball fans are about to find out if their surprising Deacons are for real.

Coach Carl Tacy, who left Marshall after last season to take the Wake Forest job, sends his unbeaten team against Virginia tonight in an Atlantic Coast Conference game at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Preseason polls placed Wake Forest last in the seven-team ACC. But the Deacons have won three straight in the past week and have in junior college transfer Tony Byers one of the bright new stars of the early season.

The 6-foot-2 backcourter from Bessemer City, N.C., who last season led Vincennes, Ind., to the junior college championship, has scored 92 points in three games, 38 per cent of the team total.

He paced the team in its surprise Twin City Classic tournament sweep last weekend, opening with 21 points against Florida Southern and adding 40 against Alabama, one of the favorites in the Southeastern Conference race.

Byers scored 31 in a 15-point victory over William and Mary Wednesday night. In three games he's averaging just under 31 points and shooting about 65 per cent, hitting 37 of 57 and 18 of 22 free throws.

Senior Eddie Payne, his backcourt running mate, is No. 2 scorer with a 12-point average and Sam Jackson, a senior, who missed one game, is averaging 11.5.

Tacy was disturbed by his team's 32 turnovers in the victory over William and Mary.

Virginia has won a pair of warmup games and, like Wake Forest, will be making its first conference start. The Cavaliers' Barry Parkhill, last season's ACC athlete of the year, scored only six points Wednesday night, his three-year varsity low, as Virginia walloped VMI 85-67 after running up a 19-0 lead.

If the Deacons get by Virginia, they will be tested severely in the North Carolina Big Four tournament at Greensboro when they meet North Carolina State, No. 6 nationally, in their first assignment Dec. 15. The following night the Deacons will play either North Carolina or Duke.

Two other ACC teams play tonight. N.C. State, which has rolled up 130, 110 and a school record 144 points in disposing of three opponents, is at home to South Florida, a first-time foe that finished 8-17 last season.

Duke takes a 1-0 record into the Cable Car Classic at Oakland, Calif., meeting Santa Clara in the 10 p.m. (EST) opener of a doubleheader. LaSalle plays San Francisco in the second game. The tournament winds up with two more games Saturday night.

Other Saturday games for ACC teams have Maryland at Canisius, Clemson host to Presbyterian and North Carolina playing Virginia Tech at Charlotte, N.C. up their first win. "Stan Davis is a very fine player," Quinn commented on the Mountaineers' leading scorer, who got 30-against Pembroke. Last year, had he been eligible, Davis would have led the Southern in scoring.

Erwin Hill also a fine player, according to Quinn, while their big center, Larry Dudas does a good job on the boards.

"They are not going to be any pushover," Quinn said. "They'll be especially strong at home, and are going to make a name for themselves in the conference."

The Pirate scoring is led by sophomore Tom Marsh, who hit 15 points in his only game so far. He's been sidelined with a knee injury. Al Faber has a 12.0 average, followed by Nicky White at 11.0. Dave Franklin at 10.5, and Earl Quash at 10.0. Roger Atkinson and Jerome Owens are right behind with 9.0 and 8.5 averages, respectively.

Teamwork Could Make Conley Girls A Threat

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

HOLLYWOOD — Four D. H. Conley High School's girls' basketball team, this year might be termed one of rebuilding.

Operating under their third new coach in as many years, the Valkyries have only two lettermen back from last year's team. One of them, Annanell Worthington, was a regular last year. The other, Glenda Denton, was a sometimes starter.

"Having three coaches in three years doesn't really help the program," coach Jeff Dudley said. "It's almost having to start from scratch three straight times. But I think our girls have the potential to be good if we can get them working together."

Experience is weak on the team, Dudley notes, with just those two back after heavy graduation losses last year.

"We don't have a great deal of height," he said. "Annanell is our tallest at about 5-9½. We also have a reserve, Kathy Allen, who is 5-9, but the rest are all pretty short."

For this reason, Dudley feels rebounding is one of the weak points on the team. "We really need to work on this. We've got to start blocking out and getting good position to get the missed shots," he said.

Dudley lists Ivy Pugh as the most improved player on the team. "She's especially good on defense," he said. "Linda Lloyd, a transfer is also one of the real good players this year."

Speed is another phase of the game that worries Dudley. "I like to run, but we just don't have enough speed to do it. Ella Fleming and Connie Barrett are about our fastest girls. The rest are just average in speed."

The coach lists Patricia Buck, a reserve, as the best ballhandler. "Glenda Denton is about our next best," he said. "The rest are just fair."

Shooting perhaps, is the weakest part of the game for the Valkyries, Dudley feels. "We just haven't gotten the feel of working together and working the ball in for good shots. We're not taking good shots at all."

Currently, Conley is starting Denton and Pugh at the guards, Barrett and Lloyd at the forwards and Worthington at center.

"We've already played three of the toughest teams in the league in North Pitt, Ayden-Griffon and Charles B. Aycock," Dudley said. "Aycock is going to challenge North Pitt this year and could be the ones to knock them off."

As to the Valkyries, Dudley feels that the shooting must improve along with the ability to work together. "The girls have to find out how to play with each other and recognize what's going on. We need good basics and rebounding. But I believe we can put it together and win before it's over."

Sto-Pac Gets Two Victories

STOKES — Stokes-Pactolus Junior High School opened its basketball season last night with a pair of wins. The girls downed Chocowinity, 26-14, while the boys took a 36-29 win.

L. Crandall led the Sto-Pac girls' scoring with 12 points while S. Yarrell had eight. For the boys, Kenneth Roberson had 17 and Virgil Pilgreen had 12.

Conley Captures Second Straight

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley High School's wrestlers won their second match of the season last night, taking a 52-13 win over Havelock High School.

Conley captured the first three matches to run up an 18-0 lead. But lost three of the next four to be challenged. The Vikings firmed up, however, and took the next six, taking three of them by pins to make it a runaway. Two of the 10 Conley wins came by forfeits, and three were by decisions.

Conley travels to Ahoskie on Monday for its next match.

Summary:
98: Eric Moore (C) pinned Bernie Stone, 0:30.
105: Dyke Hatch (C) pinned Pat Recchia, 5:23.
112: Frank Swinson (C) won by forfeit.
119: Al Brandenburg (H) pinned Randy Cox, 1:32.

Luckman: Dolphins May Be Best Ever

By JERRY LISKA ... Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — "Those old Monsters of the Midway probably would crown me, but I think the Miami Dolphins conceivably could beat our Chicago Bears of 1940, called the greatest professional team of all time."

The man who said that today was Sid Luckman, who quarterbacked the fabulous Bears of the World War II era to four National Football League titles, the first in an historic 73-0 clobbering of the Washington Redskins in 1940.

The Dolphins Sunday take a 12-0 record against the New York Giants with a chance to match the NFL's season record of 13 victories set by the 1934 Bears and matched by three later clubs. The Dolphins also could tie the "streak" record of 13 set by the 1934 Bears.

Bear owner George Halas always has regarded the 1934 Bears, powered by Beattie Feathers and Bronco Nagurski, and the Luckman-led powerhouses of 1940-41-42 as in a class by themselves.

Luckman, eased out of the Bear coaching picture several years ago and now a plastics firm executive, thinks the Dolphins are great, but their coach, Don Shula, even greater.

In Luckman's book, they broke the mold for a peerless coach after now-retired Halas, but the five-time, all-NFL quarterback asserted: "When I look at Shula, he reminds me of Halas when I was playing."

"Shula has the talent of knowing what he wants, getting it, and maintaining a great team esprit de corps. "Miami is a magnificently balanced team, with the game's three finest running backs, tremendous receivers and some workers playing far above their potential, thanks to Shula, who did the same thing at Baltimore."

Did Luckman actually believe the current Dolphins could whip the Bears who made the T Formation the source of pro football in the early 1940s?

"Well, it's like saying who would win between Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis," said Luckman. "It would be a meeting of two super teams, but because of size and speed, I'd have to go for the Dolphins. And that's a brash thing for me to say with Bulldog Turner, Joe Stydahar, George Musso, George McAfee, Ken Kavanaugh, Bill Osmanski among others of those great 1940 Bears still alive and kicking."

Luckman stressed, however, that "we had a 28-man squad and the regulars played both ways 60 minutes."

"It might be a horse of a different color if the Dolphins had to match us with their best 28 guys and they had to play both offense and defense."

"But the modern football players have so much more going for them, skilled coaching from the kid level, bigger bodies and greater speed. I look and shudder when I see those 270-280-pound men moving with the speed and agility they do today."

Five Bowls Are Appalachian In This Weekend

By TED MEIER ... Associated Press Sports Writer "With the big boys waiting in the wings for their year-end performances, five Bowl games involving college division powers headline Saturday's college football program.

There's the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La., the Pioneer Bowl at Wichita Falls, Tex., the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City, N.J., the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif., and the NAIA championship playoff at Commerce, Tex.

There'll be a game in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., where the only major game of the day is scheduled, Florida, 5-4-1, entertains the Atlantic Coast Conference champion North Carolina Tar Heels, 9-1, in the regular season windup for both clubs.

Running back Nat Moore of Florida needs only 37 yards to set a season rushing record for the Gators and his teammates have vowed to get him running room.

Unbeaten Louisiana Tech, 11-0, second to Delaware in the final Associated Press college division poll, tangles with Tennessee Tech, 10-1, for the NCAA Mideast title in the Rice Bowl.

The Pioneer Bowl pairs Drake, 7-4, against Tennessee State, 9-1. The Boardwalk Bowl, which will be played indoors, pits Massachusetts, 8-2, against California-Davis, 6-1-2.

It will be the North Dakota Sioux, 9-1, against Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 8-0-1, in the Camellia Bowl and East Texas State, 9-2, vs. Carson-Newman, 9-1-1, in the NAIA Division One championship. Missouri Southern beat Northern Iowa 21-14 last Saturday in the NAIA Division Two final.

Miller Calls Kuhn 'Rank Amateur' In Handling Of Player Negotiations

By TED MEIER ... Associated Press Sports Writer Remember Press Maravich? The former coach at Louisiana State who guided his son, Pistol Pete Maravich, to national fame and fortune is on the way back to prominence in college basketball.

Now coach at Appalachian State, Press Maravich directed the Mountaineers to a 67-65 victory over Richmond Thursday night in their first official game in the Southern Conference.

It was a historic career milestone for Press, who resigned as LSU coach after his son became a pro star with the Atlanta Hawks in the NBA. Appalachian joined the Southern Conference last year, but did not compete for the championship.

Brigham Young and Memphis State also started on the road back and Arizona upset Southern California in other Thursday developments. BYU rebounded from a 66-64 upset at the hands of Santa Clara to whip 18th-ranked Michigan 83-77. Memphis State, No. 11 in the Associated Press rankings, bounced back after a surprise defeat by LSU to humble South Florida 87-73. Arizona surprised the 17th-ranked Trojans 71-69 on two free throws by Jim Rappis with 11 seconds left.

Princeton edged Rutgers 51-47 and Manhattan took St. Peter's 96-78 in the first doubleheader of the season at New York's Madison Square Garden. Elsewhere, Kansas beat Murray State 69-63, Weber State beat Utah 81-70, St. Mary's of California humbled Seton Hall 83-78, Oregon downed Montana State 83-63 and Northeast Louisiana pulled out a 73-72 squeaker over LSU-New Orleans on a 10-foot jumper by Jesse Burnette with four seconds left.

Unbeaten Oklahoma made it five straight by beating Stetson 84-76 on 29 points from Alvin Adams the Sooners' 6-10 freshman star. In other games it was Harvard over Springfield 122-98, Auburn over Eastern Illinois 82-75 and Wisconsin-Milwaukee over Bradley 74-72.

Unbeaten Oklahoma made it five straight by beating Stetson 84-76 on 29 points from Alvin Adams the Sooners' 6-10 freshman star. In other games it was Harvard over Springfield 122-98, Auburn over Eastern Illinois 82-75 and Wisconsin-Milwaukee over Bradley 74-72.

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Terming Commissioner Bowie Kuhn "a rank amateur," Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, has reacted with anger to the public disclosure of the status of negotiations between the athletes and the owners.

Commissioner Kuhn revealed the owners' proposal in an unprecedented step at baseball's winter meetings in Hawaii last week and Thursday, Miller summoned a press conference to express his unhappiness with the action.

"It is an act only the most rank amateur would perform," said Miller, who handled labor negotiations with the steel industry before moving into baseball. "Not only has Mr. Kuhn shown questionable integrity," Miller said, "he has performed an extremely destructive act in terms of the negotiations."

In Hawaii, the commissioner revealed in detail baseball's most recent offer in negotiations for renewal of the expiring general agreement and pension clauses. They included the first concession ever made in the area of the controversial reserve clause that binds a player to his team unless sold, traded or released.

But the concession, which offers free agent status to any veteran player not offered at least $30,000 for his sixth major league season or $40,000 for his ninth year, was rejected as unacceptable by Miller and the Players Association.

"Were it presently in effect," said Miller, "this magnanimous offer would affect five of the 960 players on major league rosters."

Instead, the players have asked for free agent status after seven years, 12 years and 17 years, regardless of salary. Additionally, after five years as a professional, three in the majors, a player would become a free agent if he is earning less than the average big league salary, now figured at about $32,000.

Miller called the Players Association offer, "a modest proposal which goes to the problems of all players, whether they are superstars, regulars or reserves."

The players also are asking for a boost in their minimum salary from the current $13,500 to $15,500 in 1973, $16,500 in 1974 and $17,500 in 1975. The owners had offered $500 boosts per year, reaching $15,000 in 1975.

Pistol Pete Sparks Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "He's the guy who creates the action," says Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. And Pete Maravich surely created some action for the Hawks against the Chicago Bulls.

Maravich scored eight straight points to tie the Bulls at 86-86 and send the National Basketball Association game into overtime Thursday night. He then scored five of the Hawks' eight extra-period points as they won 94-89.

Maravich finished with 39 points. Bob Love topped Chicago with 26.

In the only other NBA game, Neal Walk scored 27 points and Charlie Scot 25 as Phoenix snapped a three-game losing streak by scoring a 117-102 victory at Pittsburgh over the Philadelphia 76ers, who were led by Kevin Loughery with 25.

Virginia edged Indiana 132-129 and Denver walloped San Diego 108-89 in the only American Basketball Association action.

"It just happened that way," said Julius Erving after he scored a club record 24 points in the third period as Virginia outscored Indiana 39-31 and built a 109-98 lead.

Erving also collected 17 other points, three of them on an off-balance field goal that gave the Squires a 129-124 lead with 1:58 left in the game. Erving also grabbed 19 rebounds. George McGinnis led Indiana with 31 points.

Denver beat back a third-quarter rally by San Diego for its victory. Ralph Simpson topped Denver with 22 points. Chuck Williams led San Diego with 17.

Conover To Wake?

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice Coach Al Conover huddled with University President Dr. Norman Hackerman today concerning Conover's interview for the head football coaching job at his alma mater Wake Forest.

Conover has just completed his first season as the head coach at Rice and guided the Owls to a 5-5-1 finish.

Reviewing the head coaching job is getting to be a regular Christmas chore for Hackerman, who recruited Bill Peterson when Bo Hagan resigned and then came up with Conover last year when Peterson became head coach of the Houston Oilers.

"I really think he's going to stay at Rice," Hackerman said. "He's a smart coach and I think he could do very well here."

Conover flew to Winston-Salem, N.C., Tuesday to be interviewed for the job left vacant by the dismissal of Tom Harper.

Conover returned to say he's been offered the job but Wake Forest Athletic Director Dr. Gene Hooks, said no offer had been made.

"As of this date," Hooks said Thursday, "the screening committee has not made a recommendation."

WOMEN'S GOLF SET SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Golf pro Ben Roman announced the 17th annual Harder Hall women's invitational golf matches will be held at Sebring, Fla., Jan. 3-4-5. The best scorers will accumulate points for the U.S. Curtis Cup team in these matches.

The 1972 winner was Jane Bastanchury Booth of West Palm Beach. Runner-up was Nancy Hager of Dallas.

A YARDFUL OF DOLLS surround this miniature house used as display at the Salvation Army Doll Show open through Saturday at 9 p.m. at Pitt Plaza.

Seasonal Doll Show Is Open Through Saturday

Over 300 dolls, each one carefully and differently dressed, are being displayed in a mobile home at Pitt Plaza Shopping Center as part of the Salvation Army Doll Show.

Every nook of the mobile is filled with dolls and they will be there for all to see through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The winning displays are located near the entry of the mobile home. First place was taken by Hooker Memorial Christian Church with a dollhouse display; second place by Greenville Utilities Commission with the Old Woman Who Lived In A Shoe and her children; and third place by St. James United Methodist Church.

Members of the Salvation Army Auxiliary are greeting browsers at the doll show.

Organizational Meet Tuesday

An area organizational meeting for "Key 73" will be held at the First Presbyterian Church here Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Plans for the meeting were announced by the Rev. H. M. McLamb of Greenville.

"Key 73" is an evangelism emphasis of 150 denominations and religious groups in the United States and Canada with the mission of "calling the continent to Christ."

The purpose of the Greenville meeting is to elect area officers and conduct present business.

The area includes Tarboro and Vanceboro and the following counties: Lenoir; Greene; Pitt; Martin; Beaufort; and Hyde.

Principals Note Absenteeism At 2 Schools

Principals Robert Alligood and Paul Rasberry of Rose High School and Aycock Junior High School, respectively, have confirmed that despite a high rate of absentee students, conditions in the two schools yesterday and as of mid-morning have been relatively quiet.

In a scuffle occurring at Rose High Thursday before school took in, three or four students received bruises and one student suffered a bloody nose. Alligood said a doctor treated the students and they had then returned to school.

At Aycock this morning, Rasberry reported that two non-students, both tall black young men, were being sought by police after having been sighted trespassing on the school grounds.

In both schools, parents have been on hand in the hallways yesterday and today. No police director is Dr. Charles Stevens.

Religious Workers Are Also In Dangerous Field

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
Selling Bibles can be dangerous. So can extending friendship to a prisoner. Or even entering an empty church.

In all of these circumstances, religious workers in recent times have encountered threats or death. The incidents reflect what philosopher-psychologist Erich Fromm calls the "mood of violence" in America.

The prisoner, who would have been eligible for parole soon, now will be behind bars indefinitely for the new crime.

The Rev. James Rowles, who as pastor of the Penelope church had influenced the Turners to take part in the prison ministry, called their death the "high cost of caring."

He said the prison ministry must go on, that Christians must continue to "care enough." He added:

"Those who never have cared will smugly sit back and say 'I told you so.' You won't catch them going out on a limb. They will never learn it is not how long you live but how well you live."

Briefly, here are some of the details:
In Los Gatos, Calif., a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Henri Tomei, 68, entered St. Mary's Church on a midweek day to hear confessions from anyone wanting to make them.

A church secretary, alerted by sounds of a commotion, hurried into the sanctuary and said a young man was kicking and hitting the priest. The assailant fled. The priest died of stab wounds.

In Camp Hill, Ala., Tom C. Hollingsworth, 24, a Southern Baptist Seminary student working as a summer Bible salesman, met two youths who said they would buy a Bible if he would drive them home to get the money.

Later, Hollingsworth's body was found in a heavily wooded area. His head has been bashed in and his supply of Bibles scattered about.

Two teen-agers were sentenced to prison this fall on their pleas of guilty to murdering the seminarian — to rob him of a few dollars.

In Hickory, N.C., F. O. Turner and his wife, members of Penelope Baptist Church, had become involved in the church's prison ministry to

Governor Scott Given New Car

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott will leave office in style when his term ends Jan. 5.

He was presented a new Lincoln Continental Thursday as a going-away present from Highway Commissioner Jack Kirksey, Morgantown businessman, and others.

Scott took the four-door sedan for a test spin around the executive mansion block. Kirksey declined to reveal the price of the car, but said "30 or 35" persons gave money toward its purchase.

On getting to the top...

Take another look at these stairs. You're right, there are no landings! Risky business climbing stairs without landings. And stupid, too, since they don't go anywhere.

There are people who would sacrifice almost anything to get to the top. They talk excitedly about the ladder of success. But in their eagerness to climb, they often choose a stairway to nowhere.

One day the stone masons and cement-pourers will catch up with the structural-steel men. Then a building will enfold this stairway. It will have meaning and purpose. It will be a stairway to somewhere.

Our churches are busy building spiritual values into the structure of our society. As these spiritual values enfold man's quest for success, the man on his way to the top becomes a dedicated servant of God and the community.

Disarmament Goals By NATO

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — Leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were preparing today for a peaceful struggle with the Soviet Union for the kind of security, disarmament and cooperation the Western allies would like to see in Europe.

The NATO nations' foreign and defense ministers and their aides drafted a final statement summing up the alliance's sem-annual four-day meeting. The leaders included U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin J. Laird, making his final appearance at a NATO meeting.

The shape of the coming campaign was clear. Two major East-West conferences are due in 1973, one on security and cooperation in Europe and one on mutual and balanced reduction of forces.

What the planners could not take into account were the major changes in strategy that may result from new initiatives by their leaders.

In January, French President Georges Pompidou will make another visit to Moscow to see Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

Not long afterward, President Nixon probably will be making a tour of Western Europe. Meanwhile, work will go forward at the 34-nation preparatory meeting at Helsinki for the conference on security and cooperation in Europe. It seems likely that a first meeting of foreign ministers can be held in June.

Exploratory talks for the conference on reduction of forces probably will start in Geneva Jan. 31. The conference could convene in the fall and probably will go on for years.

The allies' ideas on strategy were beginning to converge.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, a maverick in the North Atlantic alliance, came out in favor of what the United States has been seeking:

"confidence-building measures" such as an East-West agreement for advance notification of maneuvers and other big troop movements.

Schumann still had ideas of his own. For example, he favors force cuts in Europe by the Soviet Union and the United States, but he opposes limits on the forces of other European countries.

France is unwilling to take part in the conference on reduction of forces though eager for the one on security and cooperation.

The Western allies, including France, have no trouble agreeing that much should be made of an issue the Soviets would find uncomfortable: freer movement of people, ideas, books, magazines, newspapers and radio and television programs between East and West.

The Soviets want economic help. It seems likely that the Western price would be some

Operation Santa Soon

The time is less than a week before gifts for Operation Claus are to be delivered to Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro and Caswell Center in Kinston. Each year the Pitt County Mental Health Association helps to provide gifts for the patients in these two hospitals.

Groups, clubs and individuals in Pitt County are urged to bring their gifts to the Association's office in the Coffman Building, 312 Evans Street, in the next day or two.

Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte, executive director of the association, makes an unusual request in connection with Operation Santa Claus. Anyone having old belt buckles, in good condition, that will fit men's belts which are one and one-fourth inches in width to please drop them by the office, or call 752-7448 and they will be picked up. Ten such buckles are needed for belts that have never been used.

Operation Santa Claus is a project of mental health associations across the state to provide Christmas presents for patients in the state hospitals.

Born in Wilson, Dempsey is a teacher at Farmville Central High School. He is married to the former Faye Hall of Berlin, Md. (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hall of Berlin) and they have two children, Ginny 16, and Gary, 14.

Dempsey also holds the B.S. in business administration from the University here and a masters in counseling from East Carolina University.

Papers Case Set Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long-delayed Pentagon Papers trial will begin next Tuesday, says the trial judge, but the government will have to eliminate some 100 pages of evidence it planned to present.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ruled Thursday the government could not use some pages of the massive Pentagon Papers study that the prosecution didn't tell the defense it was going to cite at the trial.

Byrne denied a defense request for time to prepare for new material the government has added to its case since the trial was halted by an appeal of a wiretap issue last August.

The judge also allowed the government the option to introduce much of the new material at the trial. He said the subjects covered were the same as those previously listed by the government, although on different pages.

Defense attorney Charles Nesson argued that the government was seeking to become "a moving target" by shuffling its evidence to confuse the defense. He said two-thirds of the government's case had been changed and that much of the defense preparatory work had been wasted.

Scotch On Rocks And Everything

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP) — They had scotch on the rocks at a ramp to the Pennsylvania Turnpike near this Bucks County community Thursday.

They also had scotch on the grass and mud at the bottom of a 12-foot embankment.

A tractor-trailer tipped over and spilled 1,000 cases of scotch, rye and brandy worth $25,000.

"It smelled like New Year's Eve," said State Trooper Denton McLaughlin who investigated.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: That conservative streak that has been present for two days is now past, and most everyone is thinking about current, up-to-date means for putting their ideas in action and achieving greater success. Check newspaper ads for the best available methods of reaching this objective.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr 19) Listen carefully to the suggestions which a good friend has for you now and you make big headway where your career is concerned. The social fills your needs for the evening. Dress tastefully.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Sit down and analyze your position in life, in the community, at home, and see what can be done to improve things. Don't put up with faulty appliances; buy new ones. Work them more and yourself less. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some modern systems you start will make those ideas you have useable, so work on such early in a m. Making new friends can bring you interesting and fascinating, pleasurable hours in the future. Pick and choose well, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to get at those accumulated chores that have to be done sometime and are really important though dull. Look to mate for moral support for your finest ideas. A more courteous attitude is wise, right.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Listen to what a modern-thinking associate has to say since he has the key to greater success in the future. Forget that fixation where ideas are concerned. Reach a truly fine understanding with this person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept 22) If you listen to what co-workers have to suggest, you come to a far better understanding with them and get more accomplished. Develop the habit of positive decision and action. Being a human weathervane gets you little.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Get into the world of amusement that you have been neglecting for some time and have a delightful day, p.m. A thoughtful gift to mate would be a good idea. Be with charmers you really like.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov 21) Kin have excellent ideas for improving your home, so go along with them instead of being so stubborn. A good plan can be made for having more success in the future. Think along much more practical lines.

 "But recently that the word 'Boy' is being eliminated, so henceforth 'Scouts' will refer to both groups.
 "And that is what Andy (her husband; has been suggesting to me for a long time.
 "For when he was a Scout Leader in Budapest, he said the Hungarian boys and girls mingled together in the same Troop, beginning at age 13.
 "If they went on a hike or camped out, the boys and girls had their own separate tents.
 "But they dined and worked and played together, so each sex helped stimulate greater interest in Scouting among the opposite sex.
 "And I noticed that same thing last Fall, for I took a group of Girl Scouts on a camp-out.
 "But Matthew (aged 13) went along to help them put up their tents.
 "And he also was teaching them how to use a bow saw.
 "Meanwhile, at the campfire, one of our girls was trying to instruct the others in how to handle a jackknife.
 "But the attention of the girls wasn't on the jackknife, for they had their eyes on the bow saw demonstration by Matthew!
 "So don't you think it would be good psychology to mix the sexes in Scouting, at least beginning in the teens?"

Bisexual Scouting
 Such coeducation has long been successful in our public school system.
 And even at the college level, the former women's schools, such as Smith College, and the men's universities, such as Yale, have now gone coeducational.
 This idea of doing the same in the Scout movement would help reduce the big dropout among teen-age Scouters.

 For by the middle teens, thousands of boys have lost zest for their one-sex Scouting Troop. Same has been true of girls. But by uniting the two groups in such wholesome hiking, camping and Merit Badge study, this dropout threat would be almost totally checked.
 Up to the age of about 12, each sex is primarily concerned with its own group.
 This is what we psychologists technically describe as the true psychic homosexual age.
 But by the teens, they begin to transfer their interest to the opposite sex, which is what we call the heterosexual stage of emotional development.
 Scouting, which formerly focussed on the pre-teen groups, thus is to be commended for now taking advantage of the greater motivating value of bisexual Scouting.

East reasoned that he had a reasonably accurate count of his partner's distribution. West's lead of the deuce of diamonds marked him with a maximum of four cards in that suit. West had shown out on the second club which meant that he held eight cards in the major suits.

It appeared likely that West held four spades and four hearts, for if he had five spades, it was reasonable to assume that suit originally in preference to diamonds. If West has four hearts, then declarer has only one, in which case a heart shift should prove effective for the defense.

In order to cover the possibility that declarer's heart might be the queen, East returned the king of hearts. South held off for the first round but when East continued with a small heart and West played the ten, dummy put up the ace. Since he had only eight tricks at this point—four clubs, two diamonds, one heart and one spade—he led the jack of spades for a finesse.

West won the trick with the king and returned a heart thru dummy's nine-four which enabled East to cash two tricks in that suit and send declarer down to defeat.

If East does not switch to the king of hearts when he is in with the ace of clubs, South has time to develop the fulfilling trick in spades.

Boundaries May Become Obsolete

NEW YORK (UPI)—City boundaries are dwindling and the prospect is that the United States may become a vast megalopolis, according to a manufacturer of modular homes.
 Charles L. Pelkey, president of Stylex Homes Inc., says metropolitan housing rose an estimated 20 per cent in the '60s, while non-metropolitan housing increased only 12 per cent. With the 1970 census indicating that 84 per cent of the population growth in the last decade took place in big city areas, he expects that, as housing meets the resultant demand, most city boundaries will be obsolete by the end of the 20th century.

Pumps To Help Irrigate Plateau

MOSCOW (UPI)—A new series of four electric pumping stations will raise the waters of the Vakhsh River in Tajikistan nearly 200 yards to irrigate an additional 25,000 acres of land on the Garautinsk mountain plateau. The Tass news agency said.
 Construction of the four stations will enable Tajikistan farmers to harvest annually 25,000 tons more of cotton, the news agency said.

Finnish Sauna Custom Spreads As Foreigners Learn Benefits

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer
HELSINKI (AP)—The sauna is far more than a Finnish steam bath.

It is an institution, a national habit of the Finns and a civilized custom that is spreading to other lands.

To those who haven't experienced a sauna the very word conjures up an ordeal by fire with the victim whipped through a steamy haze by birch twigs and then rolled in the snow to cool off.

The sauna can be extremely hot. Some bathers do lash themselves with birch whisks and some do roll in the snow or plunge through a hole cut in the ice to cool down. But the essence of sauna is relaxation and a renewal of both body and mind.

The uninitiated is hardly relaxed, however, the first time he takes a Finnish sauna. After a quick shower he steps gingerly into the dimly-lit steam room.

The first sensation is a blast of heat and a wave of claustrophobia in the small, wooden-walled room. Choosing a seat on the three tiers of wooden benches—the upper tier is hottest—the first-time bather tries to get his breath.

After a few minutes of rising panic the neophyte might venture to ask the Finn sitting next to him: "How hot is it?"

Consulting the thermometer on the wall the Finn replies: "A little over 100 degrees."

That's 100 degrees centigrade so the fahrenheit-minded visitor does a quick calculation to satisfy his worst suspicions. It is also 212 degrees fahrenheit and that's boiling.

"Yes, boiling," murmurs the Finn, "but it's dry heat." Just then the Finn sitting nearest the stove ladles a dipper of water over the heap of hot stones on the stove. A hissing of steam.

After sticking it out for minutes that seem an hour dripping sweat, the novice gets up and with forced casualness wobbles out on rubber knees.

Then come a cold shower, a good scrub with plenty of soap and a brief dip in a nearby lake or pool. After a period of relaxation it's back into the sauna for another 10 minutes or so.

The second time around the steam room doesn't seem so hot nor does the lake seem so cold—the sauna is performing its wonders.

That's really all there is to it. But for devotees, the post-sauna feeling of relaxation and well-being is what sauna is all about.

Many foreigners try sauna once and never go back. Some take a sauna at a fancy hotel and get a "diploma" to hang on the wall at home testifying they have survived a Finnish sauna.

Some foreigners attach an aura of immorality to the sauna, perhaps because the bathers are nude. Except for mixed bathing by families, the sexes are segregated in the Finnish sauna.

Nearly every Finn takes a sauna once a week—and not just to get clean since modern bathrooms have long since replaced that ancient function of the sauna.

Sauna is a more elemental part of Finnish life. There are between 700,000 and one million saunas in this country—at least one for every seven Finns.

Wearing Purple Flared Trousers

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP)—President Nixon has blue slacks and maroon slacks — but purple, flared trousers? The White House isn't saying.

Asked about reports that the chief executive has been seen strolling about this presidential retreat in flared purple pants, press secretary Ronald A. Ziegler responded Thursday:

"Flared is a bit of an exaggeration."

Were they purple? Ziegler dodged the question, mentioning only that the President's wardrobe did include trousers of blue and of maroon.

Nixon "is a regular guy — he wears sports clothes," Ziegler said.

Children's Program At Library Readied

The children's program at the library for Saturday is to be a Stocking Full of Christmas Music.

Beginning at 10:00 a.m. Saturday in the Children's Library in the basement of Sheppard Memorial Library, music students of East Carolina University's School of Music will be on hand to present the special Christmas music for youngsters.

Camp Prive, vice president of the ECU chapter of Student Music Educators National Conference (SMENC), is coordinator.

The program will include solos and ensembles covering a wide range of Christmas music with appeal to young people.

Miss Helen Parker, Children's Librarian, said a program of Christmas music in which the children would do the singing is being planned for about December 20.

Also for children, the film for the coming week have been announced.

Surgeon Will Go To Help

MANILA (AP)—President Ferdinand E. Marcos announced today that President Nixon is sending a surgeon from California to help heal the damage done to his wife, Imelda, in a knife attack.

Marcos said Dr. Robert T. Chase of the Stanford Medical Center was expected Saturday or Sunday to help with surgery to connect tendons severed in the Philippine first lady's right hand. Nixon telephoned Marcos after the attack Thursday, and Marcos accepted his offer of help.

A still-identified man slashed the president's 43-year-old wife four times on the hands and arms with a bolo knife during an awards ceremony at an amusement park. Guards shot and killed the man.

Marcos said the doctors told him his wife would regain use of her right arm and hand. He said he wished he had been at the amusement park to be the target of the would-be assassin.

"When we undertook our program of reform, we knew we would have to pay a price," he said. "I cannot forgive myself it had to be her to pay such a price."

Nixon Has Good Cause To Cut White House Staff

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon's move to slash the White House staff is spurred by little-noticed statistics showing that executive-office employment has doubled in his first term.

Nixon himself acknowledged last week that the "White House staff has grown rather like Topsy." He promised that as he shakes up the bureaucracy and trims personnel "the biggest cuts will be made in the White House staff itself."

The President gave no figures on White House employment or on the size of the proposed cutback. Neither would White House spokesmen.

But an examination of monthly reports published by the Civil Service Commission shows that since Nixon moved into the White House in January 1969 the executive-office staff has increased from 1,748 to 3,562. More than 1,000 of the new employees were added to the executive office rolls during a 12-month period when federal agencies faced a presidentially ordered 5-per-cent cutback.

The sharp upswing in executive-office employment also bucked the government-wide trend. When Nixon came into office, there were 2,948,393 federal civilian employees, nearly 200,000 more than now.

The columns of fine print in the monthly personnel reports include the more than 600 employees of the White House office—the aides and advisers closest to the President—as well as staffers in a variety of offices, councils, and commissions grouped under the heading "the executive office of the President."

White House officials say—and the statistics confirm—that a portion of the increase can be attributed to new functions taken on by the executive office.

These include, for example, the Cost of Living Council set up to police wage-price controls. At last report, the council had grown from 0 to 966 employees in less than a year.

Officials also cited a change in bookkeeping methods as a reason for the upswing in employment statistics. Until 1970, they said, presidents had obscured the size of their personal staffs by having salaries paid through other agencies or through the White House "special projects" fund.

Nixon ordered that all his

White House employees be listed as such, one spokesman said, "in the interest of candor and accuracy."

Thus, the reported size of the elite White House office staff jumped suddenly from about 250 to about 500. At last report it had grown to 606.

Major increases occurred elsewhere in the executive offices unrelated to any change in bookkeeping methods.

Henry Kissinger's National Security Council lists 80 employees, about double the size of the pre-Kissinger staff.

John Ehrlichman's Domestic Council staff has grown from 25 employees in late 1970 to 50 but still is smaller than other lesser known executive offices.

For example, the Office of Telecommunications Policy lists 68 employees, the Office of Science and Technology reports 79, the Council on Environmental Quality, 68, and the Council of Economic Advisers, 58.

The Office of Management and Budget, which has assumed a broader watchdog role over government spending and employment, has seen its own payroll go up from 535 early in Nixon's administration to 689 at last report.

The latest figure of 3,563 executive-office employees does not include 2,300 persons employed by the poverty-fighting Office of Economic Opportunity, which, in some government publications, is listed under the President's executive office.

If OEO employees are included, executive-office employment reaches about 5,800, or 1,000 more than the comparable figure when Nixon took office and initiated policies and proposals that have resulted in slimmed-down OEO operations.

While the President has not specified precisely where White House personnel cuts will be made, he has said they will be substantial.

Talking on Nov. 27 to reporters, Nixon said: "I felt from the beginning that it was important that the White House establish the example for the balance of government in terms of cutting down on personnel, doing a better job with fewer people.

"Consequently, while there will be personnel cuts across the government, throughout the departments, the biggest cuts will be made in the White House staff itself."

When Franklin D. Roosevelt began his third term nearly three decades ago, records show the White House office staff numbered 51.

When Harry Truman was midway through his term the staff numbered 243 and there were 1,100 other employees in executive offices.

The total inched upward during Dwight Eisenhower's years in the White House, reached 1,500 when John Kennedy was president, topped 1,700 under Lyndon Johnson and now exceeds 3,500.

★★★★★ North Pitt Notes ★★★★★

By CINDY ROOK

Sports comes first as the North Pitt Panthers returned from Greene Central Friday with a double victory. The boys won 56 to 47 and the girls won with a score of 54-10.

The North Pitt J. V. team lost by a close 42-39. The Panthers have an away game Friday with Southern Nash.

Mr. Ingalls and his wrestling team are to be congratulated for their first victory of the season. North Pitt beat Ahsokie by a score of 57-14 last Thursday. Monday night the wrestling team traveled to Ayden-Grifton winning the match with a score of 60-9.

Three of our track team members, Jimmy Nelson, Kathy Taylor, and Joy Forbes competed in a cross-country track meet at Ahsokie last Saturday. All three received medals in the event. Jimmy ran ten miles and Kathy, along with Joy ran 2.22 miles. In the competition were six U. S. Olympic runners, all competing in the ten mile event. One broke the previous ten-mile record.

Tuesday the Seniors had the opportunity to order caps and gowns for graduation. Tuesday was also the day for receiving report cards.

One sale at North Pitt by the Athletic Department are cushions, license plates, and Panther buttons. The Junior class is selling stationery and plan to sell candy in February. The Art Department is getting in the Christmas spirit by selling Christmas wreaths.

Nat'l Exam Set Jan. 27

National Teacher Examinations will be given Jan. 27 at East Carolina University. College Seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE are eligible to take the tests.

Last year, about 120,000 candidates for teaching in the U.S. took the examinations, which are designed to assess cognitive knowledge and understanding in professional education, general education and subject-field specialization.

The examinations are prepared by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and sample test questions are available from the ECU Testing Service, 204 Education-Psychology Building, ECU, or directly from the Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Addition To Pitt Office

Raymond Coltrain has been employed as an assistant agriculture extension agent with the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office.

A native of Martin County, Coltrain began working with the local office on Dec. 1. He replaces Sam Weeks who retired in July.

Coltrain's duties include being responsible for tobacco, horticulture crops, small grains and pastures.

Coltrain, previously employed by the Martin County Agricultural Extension Service, received his B.S. degree in agronomy from North Carolina State University. He is very active in Farm Bureau.

The 23-year-old agricultural agent is married to the former Terry Gardner of Bethel. They reside in Greenville.

Enough Ammo For Every Man

CHICAGO (UPI)—For the 10 million men in the U.S. armed forces during World War II, enough ammunition was manufactured to permit each to wage his own small battle.

In the five-year period ending July 31, 1945, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, U.S. production included 41 billion rounds of small arms ammunition and 4.2 million tons of artillery shells—more than 4,000 bullets and about 800 pounds of artillery shells for every man in uniform.

Rainchecks will be given on Seasonal Items only if we can replenish our supply before Christmas.
