

Weary Explorers Sleep In Moon Valley

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — In the moon's valley of Taurus-Littrow, a gray geologic wonder dotted with auto-size boulders, two Americans slept late today, bone-tired from setting up a sophisticated scientific camp and scouting the terrain.

Their plans to search a lunar landslide tonight for perhaps the most ancient rocks ever seen were pushed back an hour after they bedded down late and received the go-ahead for a full eight hours of sleep.

Mission Control said astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt would be awakened shortly before 3 p.m. EST today, pushing the start of their second moon walk back to 6:03 p.m.

Tonight one of the first chores for the 11th and 12th — and perhaps last — men to visit the moon in this century will be to form a makeshift fender to fit over the right rear wheel of their electric-powered car, Rover. They will use clamps and cardboard or insulation material from the lunar ship.

The fender fell off during a drive Monday, and the unprotected wheel tossed dark dust over the astronauts, prompting Cernan to remark: "It's going to take us half a dozen Sundays to dust off."

The object of their scheduled journey in Rover tonight is a mountain slide on the South Massif which spilled rock debris across the valley in some ancient time.

There, they hope to find rocks created in the process by which the moon was formed and shaped, material dating perhaps to lunar beginnings 4.6 billion years ago.

Overhead, alone aboard the command ship-America, the third

Apollo spaceman, Ronald E. Evans, also rested. Tonight he will operate an array of science instruments and cameras which study the moon from orbit.

In one of the most accurate moon landings ever achieved, Cernan and Schmitt brought Challenger to rest only 300 feet from their aiming point.

A few hours later, Cernan, then Schmitt, climbed down a ladder to start the first of three surface excursions which will cover more than 20 miles of the moon's surface. They will collect some 200 pounds of rock.

When Cernan first planted his foot on the moon, he said solemnly, "I'd like to dedicate the first step of Apollo 17 to all those who made it possible."

Then, like children in an unbelievably exciting playground, Cernan and Schmitt frolicked, laughing and singing and gliding with tippy-toe freedom in the light lunar gravity.

"I'm out here. Oh, my golly. Unbelievable! Unbelievable!" shouted Cernan.

They unloaded the little lunar rover and turned on a television camera, giving Mission Control the first view on earth of Taurus-Littrow.

The valley was everything and more than they had expected. Boulders larger than panel trucks, coated with glass and pitted from the impact of meteorites, choked the valley floor like icebergs floating on a gray, dead sea. They saw glass sparkling in craters and looked long at the mountains, which appeared soft, as though covered with fur.

Cernan unwrapped an American flag which once was displayed in the Mission Control Center, and the explorers planted their nation's sixth banner on the moon.

"Deploying that flag has got to be one of the most proud moments in my life," said Cernan. "This flag has flown in Mission Control since Apollo 11 (the first landing). We very proudly deploy it on the moon to stay for as long as it can in honor of all those people who have worked so hard to put us and every crew here and to make the U.S. and mankind something different than it was."

Quickly, the spacemen learned that exploring the moon can be a dirty business. Both fell down, and their suits, which seemed to glow ghostlike in the blinding sunlight, quickly became smeared with the clinging gray dirt.

"I just got my first initiation to getting very dirty," said Schmitt after his first fall in the moon's low gravity. "I haven't quite learned how to pick up rocks with my hands yet ... which is very embarrassing for a geologist. That's why I fell down."

The astronauts quickly deployed their lunar rover, and Cernan boarded the little car for a short test spin.

"Challenger's baby is on the road!" he exclaimed.

But the lunar excursion, begun as a frolic, soon turned into a grim contest of man against the moon.

Cernan drilled an eight-foot bit into the moon, using an electric drill, and then tried to pull the bit out for a core-tube sample.

First he tugged by hand. No go. Then he attached a jacklike tool. No go. Then Cernan threw his weight against the jack, bouncing down into the dust on his hands and knees. No go. Again and again he tried, his breath coming in bursts.

Mission Control warned him several times to slow down, saying he was building up too much heat inside his space suit. Once, he was told his heart beat was rising rapidly, and the astronaut paused.

Schmitt joined Cernan, and together they worked the cores free.

The astronauts deployed the science station, a series of instruments attached to a central power station by wires which wiggled and twisted as if alive in the low lunar gravity.

Tardily, but still game, the astronauts made a short drive in the lunar rover, motoring to craters a few hundred yards away to collect samples.

The astronauts returned to Challenger at 2:01 a.m. EST after spending six hours, 55 minutes on the moon's surface. They entered the small cabin of their craft gasping from exhaustion, covered with the black dust which they said smelled like gunpowder but exuberant over their day's work.

Paris Parleys See Quickening Pace; Maintain Secrecy

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho opened the 14th meeting of their secret peace talks today in a villa in suburban Gif-sur-Yvette.

Kissinger earlier unexpectedly dropped in on a subcommittee of the top negotiators' deputies discussing details of a possible agreement. Tho was not present.

At the end of the subcommittee meeting, Kissinger and the other participants drove the 12 miles to Gif-sur-Yvette.

It was the first time in four years of secret negotiations that Kissinger and Tho set up subcommittees to discuss details of a possible accord immediately before a plenary meeting. The quickened pace suggested that the talks were approaching a climax, but both sides maintained their blanket of secrecy.

French dispatches from Peking said Premier Chou En-lai told newsmen Monday: "An agreement could be signed in Paris in the next two or three days."

Expectations of a break in the negotiations were heightened by a report from Bangkok that U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger had briefed the key members of Thailand's ruling junta for an hour today on the progress of the Paris talks. Much of the U.S. air forces now carrying on the war against North Vietnam are based in Thailand.

The higher ranking subcommittee included William J. Porter, the chief U.S. delegate at the four-party Paris peace talks; William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs; Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief delegate at the weekly peace talks, and Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

The other subcommittee was made up of technical experts.

Kissinger and Tho met for four hours Monday, beginning and ending with the usual broad smiles and cordial handshakes. It was their 13th meeting since they began three weeks ago to revise the cease-fire agreement they drafted in October.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu proposed the release of all prisoners of war on both sides, the observance of the annual Christmas cease-fire and separate negotiations during the cease-fire between his government and the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to work out a peace agreement and political settlement. He said the cease-fire could be extended as long as the Communists were willing to observe it.

The South Vietnamese president also repeated his persistent demand that all North Vietnamese troops withdraw from South Vietnam. This time he said that the South Vietnamese army would demobilize as many troops as the North Vietnamese withdraw.

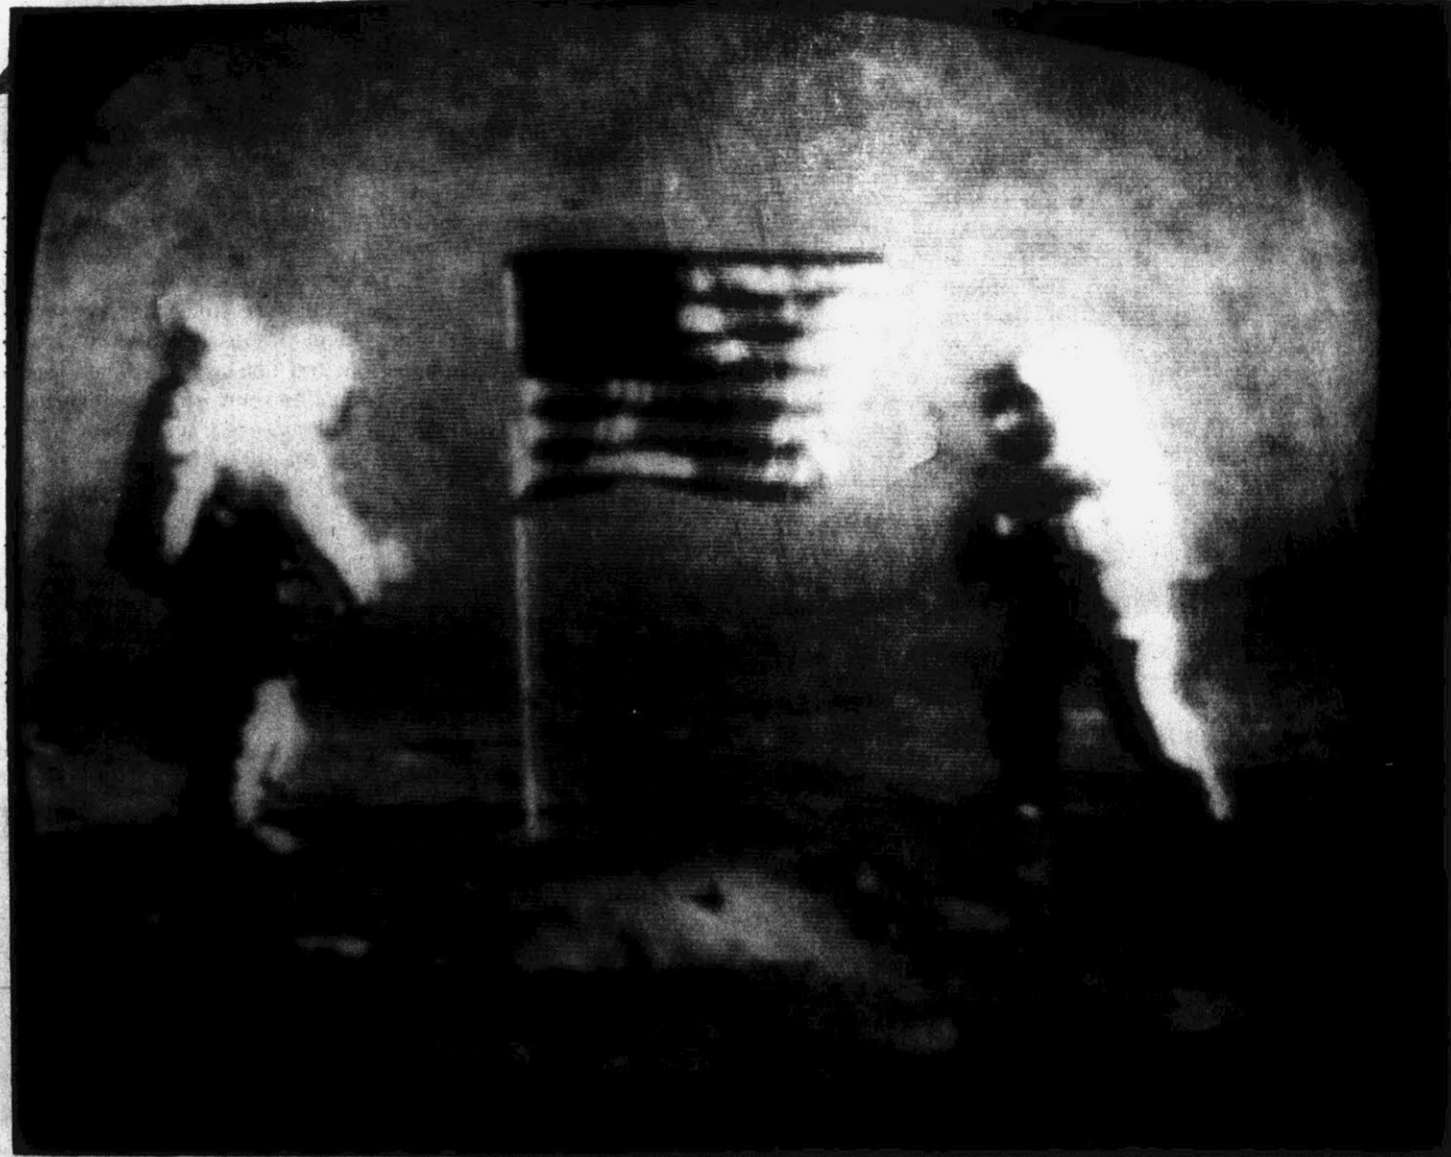

Western political observers in Saigon predicted that Hanoi would reject or ignore the proposal.

Draft Plans Of Reorganization

RALEIGH AP — Legislation is being drafted calling for several changes in the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources, including the transfer of two agencies to other departments.

Resources Secretary Charles Bradshaw Jr., outlined the recommendations Monday in a report prepared for the 1973 General Assembly on government reorganization.

He proposed that the Division of Law and Order and the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology be moved to other departments. Bradshaw said both were inconsistent with other responsibilities of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

He recommended creation of a policy-making advisory board for the department. It would be made up of the chairman and one member of seven advisory councils and commissions, the department secretary and 10 members appointed-at-large by the governor.

The present Board of Conservation and Development will cease functioning next July 1.

Other major changes call for the establishment of a nine-member Coastal Resources Commission,

Compliments

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott says he foresees "a very good operation" in the office of Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser, who will be inaugurated Jan. 5.

Scott told Holshouser Monday he was confident of a smooth transition in administrations.

The two traded compliments at a seminar at Annapolis, Md., for newly elected governors.

Holshouser, first Tar Heel Republican governor elected this century, said the seminar would have a "definite effect on our being able to hit the ground running, so to speak, in January."

Thieu Offers A Cease-Fire

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu proposed today a Christmas peace package providing for a cease-fire and release of all U.S. and Vietnamese prisoners of war, but the Viet Cong quickly rejected it.

Thieu told the National Assembly in an hour-long address that American and Vietnamese prisoners of war could be freed during the cease-fire "while a comprehensive settlement is being negotiated" by the Vietnamese parties themselves. He said his peace package would be presented formally at the regular session of the semi-public peace talks in Paris on Thursday.

In Paris, the Viet Cong delegation, responding to Thieu's address, declared in a statement:

"The obstinate attitude and the absurd and arrogant demands of Nguyen Van Thieu only serve to expose still more his intention to oppose a correct peaceful solution of the Vietnam problem. This fact proves once again ... Thieu is a major obstacle on the road to peace, reconciliation and national concord."

Hearing Scheduled For January 18 On Southside Project

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Redevelopment Commissioners last night set Jan. 18 as the date for public hearings on the N.C. R-134 Southside Project.

Executive director Joe Laney reported that the date is necessary for commission hearings in order to remain on schedule with the accelerated plans now being pursued for Southside.

Laney reminded that public hearings, including city and commission sessions, must be held prior to submitting the combined Part I and II applications for Southside to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The matter will be referred to the Planning and Zoning Board for review next week, it is hoped, and comments from the board should be in hand within ten days, Laney noted. He said that the City Council public hearing on the project could then be held around Feb. 8.

The director reported that local staff members met with HUD representatives recently for a mid-planning conference on Southside and everything appears to be on schedule. The ten representatives went over the project framework in detail, he continued, and indicated that the urban renewal effort appears to be within the HUD grant. Only minor changes will be recommended by HUD, he added.

Commissioners also approved a motion to pursue immediate work on the Reade Circle overpass that will allow pedestrian traffic a safe walkway over the planned street.

Laney presented and discussed an overpass design prepared by City Planning and Architectural Associates of Chapel Hill. The design will be presented to the City Council for comments and approval and then to East Carolina University before further drawings and bid documents are prepared.

The director noted that that will be no conflict in construction of Reade Circle and the overpass but work on the latter must be initiated now in order to insure its completion in conjunction with street completion. He added that the University indicated that a part of the cost of the overpass might be shared by ECU. The city would not build the structure, it was pointed out, but bids would be let by the Redevelopment Commission.

Commissioners voted to grant J. J. Perkins a not-to-be-acquired agreement for his property located in the Southside Project on S. Evans Street, provided that he removes a building on the property and develop the area in accordance with Southside plans.

Pitt Pedestrian Is Killed In Accident

GRIFTON — Mrs. Lillie Mae Stocks, 66 of Route 3, Ayden, was killed last night when struck by a car as she walked across N.C. 11 about two miles North of here.

According to Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey, Mrs. Stocks' death was ruled as accidental.

Harvey and investigating Highway Patrolman, Trooper Ray Early, identified the driver of the car involved in the 6:45 p.m. death as Mrs. Frances J. Durham of Route 1, Kinston. Investigators said the Durham vehicle was headed North when Mrs. Stocks apparently walked into the path of the vehicle.

Officers said Mrs. Stocks had been to a store across N.C. 11 from her home and was returning to her residence on the East side of the highway when the mishap occurred.

Schultz Preparing Extend Economic Controls

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz lined up a series of closed-door consultations today to determine the future shape of wage-price controls that President Nixon wants to retain.

Sources said the Nixon administration wants to move "pretty swiftly" in the private talks with government, business and labor officials, hoping to wind up the consultations within three or four weeks.

This would mean the administration would be in a position to make a decision early in January. The sources indicated the present control structure, headed by the Cost of Living Council, the Price Commission and Pay Board, probably will remain in place.

Schultz, the President's chief economic policymaker, told newsmen Monday that the administration will seek extension of controls beyond their legal expiration date next April 30. In the meantime, talks with the people who control wages and prices and with the people who are controlled will be held to determine a modified control system.

Schultz said the new system probably would be in place before next April 30. He said the administration has no preconceived notion of whether controls should be more or less extensive than the present system.

Schultz also announced that Nixon has determined that he can and will hold federal spending to $250 billion during the current fiscal year, meaning a number of agencies in government will find themselves slapped with cutbacks in coming weeks. The cutbacks will be announced about the time the new budget is sent to Congress in January.

Schultz told reporters that Nixon has ordered a freeze on all new hiring and promotions in the federal government until the new budget is submitted. In addition, he said, there will be no pay raises for federal government executives, senators and congressmen and federal judges in 1973.

Schultz said the next budget, covering the 12 months beginning July 1, 1973, will be balanced on a full-employment basis, meaning that Nixon is continuing his philosophy that federal spending should be roughly equal to the amount of taxes that theoretically would be collected if the economy were operating at full employment.

Schultz said the administration has committed itself to continuing the year-old controls on wages and prices. He said he sees no prospect of returning to voluntary guidelines in the near future.

The consultations on controls will focus on such issues as how extensive the new system should be whether food prices should come under tighter controls, and the length of the next extension of the Economic Stabilization Law.

Singers Here Friday In Pre-Christmas Benefit Find 200 Divorces Aren't Legal

Eastern North Carolina's own songstress sweetheart, Snow Hill's Alice Creech, will join her voice with well-known singing country star Tommy Overstreet in Greenville Friday night in pre-Christmas entertainment at the Music Factory on West 14th Street.

Beginning at 8:00 p.m. and continuing until midnight, the two singers, backed by Overstreet's instrumentalists, "The Nashville Express" will present music for listening and dancing.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two hundred couples who thought they were divorced are not.

And after up to 40 years since their supposedly legal separations, they are going to get a chance to reconsider.

It all stems from a fee-collection method used by V. L. Hash, a lawyer who picked up considerable walk-in business at his office across the street from the courthouse.

One of the town's best known attorneys, he is known to have filed many divorce cases without receiving the filing fee.

But his niece, Virginia Hash, herself an attorney, recalled

Monday that he always cautioned his clients: "You're not divorced until this decree is filed and it's not going to be until I'm paid."

That collection method was used widely in the Depression, his niece added, but is frowned upon by the legal profession today.

Hash died six years ago, and Miss Hash was named a co-executor of his estate.

Going through his papers, she found 200 divorce decrees which had been signed by judges but not filed with the clerk of the court and made final. Some date back to the 1920s.

To clear up the estate, she proposed to Superior Court Judge Laurens Henderson that he file all 200 nunc pro tunc — in other words, doing today what should have been done yesterday.

The judge said fine but certain legal requirements would have to be complied with first.

For one thing, the plan would have to be approved by the state Supreme Court. Miss Hash filed a friendly appeal, and the court on Monday set a Jan. 2 hearing.

She will advertise once, a week for four weeks in the Phoenix Gazette, Arizona Republican, Arizona Daily Star and Tucson Daily Citizen that Henderson has scheduled a Feb. 21 hearing. He felt use of the usual legal publications wasn't sufficient.

Listing all 200 couples by name, the advertisement will ask them to show cause why their divorce decrees should not be filed with the clerk of the court.

Should there be no objection, Henderson will file them and the separations will, finally, become legal.

In addition to the advertising costs, Miss Hash said, the estate will have to pay the $5-per-case filing fee for the 200 cases — $1,000.

"It was a rather expensive collection method," she said.

COUNTRY SINGING STARS. . . Alice Creech and Tommy Overstreet will be at the Music Factory in a pre-Christmas benefit performance at 8:00 p.m. Friday.

Holiday Lighting For Falkland

FALKLAND — As a traveler goes along Highway 43 West these evenings and approaches Junction 222 at the village of Falkland, he may note the festoon of Christmas lights spanning the roads and gladdening the storefronts.

Falkland has its first Christmas decorations since its beginning in 1727. Bill Jones, Falkland's mayor, secured the loan of the lights from the Greenville Utilities Commission. The Falkland Volunteer Fire Department put them up and decorated a tree in the middle of the town.

Farmville Gets Decreased Rates

FARMVILLE — Farmville electric subscribers will see a rate decrease as of the March 1, 1973 billing.

New electric rates adopted by the Farmville Board of Commissioners in a special meeting Thursday are from 2 to 3 per cent lower than those all types of customers have paid since a 14 per cent surcharge on all electric bills was put into effect in June, 1970.

The rate adjustment will mean an average decrease in cost per KWH of three per cent to residential customers, two and one-half per cent to commercial customers, and two per cent to industrial customers, according to J. A. "Bud" Wooten, director of the Farmville Water and Light Department. Tables are being prepared by the L. E. Wooten Company of Raleigh, which conducted the rate study.

New rates and regulations will be printed and made available upon request. Beginning in January, 1973, the United Meter Company of Hickory will begin calibrating all electric meters on the Town's system.

The larger-than-necessary surcharge was put into effect in June, 1970. Later CP&L's request for an increase in cost of electric power to the Town of Farmville of approximately 26

Artistic Values Suffering Crisis

By JOHN RIGOS
ATHENS (UPI)—The curtain may soon run down for the last time in many theaters in Athens, birthplace of the classical drama.

Directors of the capital's 42 theaters say the crowds stay away because of the "easy spectacles" of football and television. Others blame the anti-intellectualism of the people and the profusion of theaters.

"Saturday nights used to be packed and it was impossible to seat all those wanting to see the show," said Yannis Giannakis, Greece's top comedian. "Now most theaters are half empty and on week nights it's even worse."

Weekly receipts of local theaters ranged from 90,000 drachmas ($6,333) for a musical review to 29,000 drachmas ($2,970) for "Opreta", a play by Gobrovic.

With such takings, producers and theatrical entrepreneurs, who are usually the leading actors and actresses in each troupe, find they barely break even let alone make a profit.

Suffering A Crisis
Alexis Minotis, dean of Greek actors and directors, sees artistic values suffering a crisis more than the commercial success of the theater.

"Those theater companies trying to present something artistic are in far more trouble than the others," Minotis said. "Unlike other European capitals where people queue to obtain a ticket for a classical play, in Athens ticket sales for good plays are nothing compared to those of routine plays."

Minotis said the 42 theaters in Athens were far too many for its population. "Now the pinch has come, some will close down. The theater where I am currently directing Captain of Koeppen, may be among them. Expenses are twice as high as our receipts," he said. Dimitris Horn, currently playing Shakespeare's Richard III, said Athens was suffering from theatrical inflation.

"On the other hand, when audiences ransie their favorite actors on television why bother to go to the theater," he said.

Leading Lady
Barbarians will not invade our country through the borders. They will jump out of television screens," said Anna Synodinou, leading lady of Greece's ancient tragedy.

Miss Synodinou was not worried about the number on theaters. "Compared to the number of discotheques, clubs, and soccer teams, theaters are not so many for a metropolis of 3 million inhabitants," she said.

Other popular actors, however, said they thought theater would survive the crisis and, what is more, that actors who remained faithful to the art would regain their popularity which today is overshadowed by the stars of television.

Lambros Constanteras, leading actor in a successful musical, said television and its stars would pass like any other fashion. "Fashions are temporary," he said.

Yannis Fertis, whose theater is showing "Teahouse of the August Moon," was also hopeful. "It was the theater's turn after the cinema to suffer the effects of television. However, it will not last more than two years."

Table Manners Are Important

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are making a success of our marriage, the second for both of us. My son, 14, lives with us. My husband's three boys, age 8 to 14, live with their mother, but occasionally come to visit at our house for several days.

At their house, the family lives very informally, taking their meals on trays to eat in the den while watching TV. At our house the evening meal is important as a family gathering and it is eaten at the table. When his boys are with us, they often eat quickly and leave the table before others are finished eating. With my own son, I insist that he ask permission to be excused when he leaves the table early. Then he understands that for him the meal is over, and he is not allowed to return to the table when dessert is served.

My questions: Am I hopelessly old-fashioned to stress good table manners? Would I be presumptuous to teach my husband's boys the kind of manners I have taught my own son? Since they seldom eat at a table, perhaps they have not had the opportunity to learn good table manners. [I don't want to appear to be critical of their mother's ways of bringing them up.]

Do you think that while the boys are living with us they should be required to observe the rules of our household?
PUZZLED STEP-MOTHER

DEAR PUZZLED: Absolutely. And no ifs, ands, or buts.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get the message across to my mother in law when she tells me one of her "stories" that she already had told at least 20 times?

It gets to be very annoying to listen to her go thru a long, drawn-out monolog of one of her many lifetime experiences. When she launches into one of her boring stories, on occasion I have politely reminded her that she has told me before, but she goes right on until she finishes it.

I certainly keep track of what I tell people, and wouldn't think of boring them in that manner. Your advice will be much appreciated.
WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: You don't say how old you are, but I assume your mother in law is about 25 years older, which could account for her forgetfulness. Show a little more compassion and patience, if not respect.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "TIT FOR TOT" IN SANTA MONICA to enjoy her full bosom while she still has it. When her nursing days are over and she sheds a few pounds, other surprises await her. Sign me . . .

"DRAPE-SHAPE" IN ROSEBURG, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy and like to watch TV a lot. One night I saw a movie on TV where a baby was about to be born and the doctor asked for "lots of boiling water." This puzzled me. I asked my father what they needed boiling water for, and he said maybe they wanted to make tea or coffee.

Then I asked my mother, and she said, "The doctor probably just wanted to keep the father busy so he wouldn't be in the way." Abby, I think they didn't want to tell me the truth so they just made up those silly answers.

Will you please be honest with me and tell me why a doctor needs boiling water for the birth of a baby? This is something they don't teach you in school.
UNCERTAIN BOY

DEAR BOY: They haven't used boiling water in a birth since "The Birth of a Nation," which is a pretty old movie. But in the olden days, all surgical materials were sterilized in boiling water to kill the bacteria and prevent infection.

Tri-Chapter Dinner Held Thursday Night

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Eta State, held its eighth annual Tri-Chapter dinner meeting Thursday at the Greenville Woman's Club. The club was decorated in the traditional Christmas theme. Each place was marked with a handmade Christmas tree ornament constructed of red felt in the form of a cardinal. Miss Agnes Fuliore was in charge of the favors.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner was preceded by a social hour. Dr. Frances Daniels, president of Beta Alpha Chapter, hostess for the event, extended greetings to sister Chapters, Delta and Alpha Omega. Delta Chapter President, Mrs. Evelyn Moye, and Alpha Omega Chapter President, Mrs. Vera Oden, responded.

Special music was provided by The Versatiles from Rose High School directed by Steve Koch. The group presented familiar Christmas carols concluding with a group sing.

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Gwendolyn B. Dickens, director, Region I. Her topic, "Reflections on Culture in Changing Times," pointed out that we are on the verge of developing a new kind of culture, one that will reflect some of the traditional and acceptance of new ideas, too.

What Voters Told The Party

Congressman Walter Jones has shown through the years that his knowledge of politics is unsurpassed. Thus when he speaks of the rebuilding job the Democratic party has to do he knows what he is talking about.

Rep. Jones spoke on "Party Politics and It's Delimmas before the Pitt Young Democratic Club last week.

"The Democratic Party is in trouble," he said daily.

"Since Pres. Nixon won the North Carolina vote in 1968 and repeated it in 1972, the Democratic Party has to unite and forget its dissensions in order to regain its power and popular appeal."

He went on to say, "The Democratic Party is not dead, however. This is evidenced by the fact that the party still has the largest registration and elected a lieutenant governor and attorney general.

"The Democratic Party must regroup, recoup and make changes. It must seek out the candidate with the most charisma and ability to lead the party back to unity and organization."

Congressman Jones is not often wrong in his assessment of the political situation, and in this case he has clearly pointed out what the party must do rebound in North Carolina.

Certainly intra-party squabbling must be ended if the Democrats are to improve their position in future elections. The party must renew its appeal to people in all walks of life, the young, blacks and middle class citizens. It must be remembered that while the party suffered some set backs in this year's election, it was not a sweeping defeat for the Democrats. Obviously the party has appeal to the rank and file citizen, and what the voters were telling the party was that they were dissatisfied with some aspects of the way things were going.

As Congressman Jones says, the party must "regroup, recoup and make changes" if it is to bring back the voters who defeated to Republican candidates this year.

Certification Rift Runs Deep

By BRYAN HAILSIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — The state's two top public school officials are divided on a new procedure for the certification of beginning teachers.

Dr. Craig Phillips, the elected superintendent of public instruction and professional administrator for the school system, praises the plan as "another positive step in the long process of improving the quality of what happens to kids in school."

Dr. Dallas Herring, appointive chairman of the state board of education and the ranking lay voice in school affairs, says it downgrades academic preparation of teachers.

"Education ought to respect scholarship. This scuttles it," commented Herring in the wake of the board's approval last week for the fresh approach to evaluation of those preparing to enter the classroom as teachers.

Herring was in the minority of the 8-to-3 vote by which the board accepted the plan worked out by a committee of educators, representing teacher training institutions, teaching professionals, and the North Carolina Association of Educators.

New Factors Considered
Proponents describe the aim as evaluation of the prospective teacher not only on the basis of academic achievement, but also the potential for professional performance and the personal and social characteristics of a good teacher.

The direction of the procedure, which is a first not only in North Carolina but among the states, is away from the use of the National Teacher Examination as a basic measure for competence.

When it is implemented, the practical result will be to open a bit wider entry to the teaching profession. It also will work to bridge the gap between graduates of institutions with differing levels of academic standing.

The real point of controversy is in the weight assigned to academic preparation of teachers. In the past, it has been a major factor. A cut-off of score on the National Teacher Examination was a principal determinant in whether a prospective teacher received certification.

Quality Remains Good
The shift does not mean a decline of interest in quality, insisted Dr. Phillips. It recognizes that other qualities in addition to acquired knowledge are necessary in the make-up of a good teacher he said.

An opposite view was expressed by Chairman Herring. "This proposal constitutes a severe blow to the cause of academic achievement in public education," he asserted.

"I have always believed that there is no substitute for scholarship. Few, if any, values in education excel it. Nevertheless, this proposal makes it possible for a person who is a complete failure as a scholar to be licensed as a teacher. It gives higher value to such doubtful characteristics as 'personal magnetism' and the ability to speak a local dialect than it assigns to scholarship. It would have us believe that the blind can lead the blind," said Herring.

Field Tests Anticipated

The effective date for the certification change is July 1, 1973. That will allow lead time to prepare a procedures manual, train evaluators, and field test the program, said James Burch, assistant superintendent for special services.

It means next June's crop of graduates still must make a minimum NTE score of 950 to qualify for a teaching certificate.

After that date, the test still will be required but the result will be much less significant. The test score and the candidate's rank in his graduating class will measure academic achievement, as one of three equal factors in evaluating readiness to teach.

Using the class rank assures that the candidate is measured by the local norm of his own institution, as well as the national norm of the NTE score, said Burch.

"Some people just don't take tests well," he said, explaining the move away from primary reliance on the NTE score.

Two added categories for evaluation are professional performance and personal-social characteristics. At least three observers must rate the prospective teacher in these two areas.

A graduate can score a maximum of 50 points in each category. He must tally a minimum of 100 out of the possible 150 points for certification.

In theory, at least, he could wash out completely in the academic area and still qualify if he rated the maximum in professional performance and personal-social characteristics. In practice, the plan's advocates argue, it is as unlikely that a college graduate would be totally lacking on academic skills as it is that he would be perfect in the other attributes.

Flunked Tests Of GOP Plan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The sacking of Peter G. Peterson as Secretary of Commerce in the wake of his triumphant international economic negotiations is the key to the otherwise baffling makeup of President Nixon's second-term Cabinet.

Peterson flunked two tests of Cabinet-making which have guided Mr. Nixon and his inner circle at Camp David: first, the Cabinet member must fit the political grand design for a new Republican majority; second, he cannot be a genuine personage, possibly unwilling to subordinate himself to White House aides.

Besides eliminating Peterson, those tests insured a second-term Cabinet both faceless and symbolically political. That was the intent of the five Cabinet-makers at Camp David: the President, aides H.R. (Bob) Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles Colson and that immensely influential Houston lawyer, John B. Connally.

Nowhere is their intent clearer than the Commerce Department. Stripping the Secretary of foreign duties fits the scheme of concentrating still more power in the White House. The new Secretary, South Carolina textiles executive Frederick Dent, meets both tests: first, a political novice, he is unlikely to challenge the White House; second, he helps cement the Southern wing of the new Republican coalition. Indeed, the Cabinet-makers considered only Southern Business executives to replace Peterson.

Conversely, Peterson was deemed unfit for multiple reasons: his high visibility, his liberal friends on the Georgetown dinner circuit, his favorable press notices. The last straw was the Dec. 4 edition of Time declaring: "After less than a year in the job, he is wielding more clout than any Commerce Secretary since Herbert Hoover."

But Peterson's biggest disability may have been his failure to fit Mr. Nixon's political grand design. In White House discussions, aides grumbled about Peterson's past business association (at Bell & Howell) and continuing friendship with Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois. Since the White House targets Percy as Public Enemy No. 1 who must be kept from the 1976 presidential nomination, a Percy ally in the Cabinet is intolerable.

As we reported a week ago, Peterson was asked to become ambassador to NATO with greatly expanded duties in international economic negotiations. Mr. Nixon and his national security adviser, Henry F. Kissinger, intended this as a major position for Peterson. But the European base, making the mission harder to perform, would have pushed Peterson out of Washington as desired by the White House staff. The requirement to move to Europe also, less than coincidentally, led to Peterson's rejecting it for personal reasons.

Similar logic dictated a new Secretary of Transportation. Despite public statements to the contrary, John Volpe wanted to stay. But the former governor of Massachusetts was too publicity conscious, too independent and too much the politician for the Cabinet-makers.

At one point, defeated Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado was mentioned as Volpe's successor. But there was no desire for Another experienced politician there. The eventual choice, Claude S. Brinegar, is described by those who knew him at Union Oil Co. as a bland organization man sure to submit to White House orders.

Is Letter-Bomb Kosher?

By SMITH HEMPSTONE
James J. Kilpatrick is taking a week's vacation. Smith Hempstone is substituting for Mr. Kilpatrick. He will resume with the release of December 19.

WASHINGTON — That Zionist terrorists of the notorious Stern gang may have tried to assassinate President Harry S. Truman and various member of the White House staff with letter-bombs in 1947, as revealed in Margaret Truman Daniel's new biography of her father, "Harry S. Truman," comes as no surprise.

The Israelis did not invent the letter-bomb. That dubious distinction belongs to a Swede named Martin Eckenberg who killed himself in a London prison in 1910. But Zionist terrorists perfected the death-by-mail device — since apparently turned against Israel by Palestinian Arab terrorists — and tried unsuccessfully to assassinate at least eight prominent British politicians and military figures at about the same time Mrs. Daniel says they went after Truman (former Stern gang leader Nathan Yellin-More denies that his group tried to kill Truman, but admits the attacks on the Britons).

On Sept. 3, 1947, a parcel-bomb addressed to a brigadier engaged in intelligence work at the War Office exploded in a London post office, injuring two men. Two days later, eight letter-bombs mailed in Italy were detected by British counter-intelligence.

It is known that Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister Without Portfolio Arthur Greenwood, Minister of Food John Strachey and Maj. Gen Sir Edward Spears, former minister to Syria and Lebanon, were among those to whom the letter-bombs were addressed. Mrs. Daniel, who is the wife of New York Times Washington bureau chief Clifton Daniel, identifies Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden as other intended recipients of the deadly missives.

The attempt on Truman's life was first mentioned in a 1949 book by Ira R.T. Smith, a long-time employee in the White House mail room. But Mrs. Daniel's book, which will go on sale in a few days, contains the first public confirmation by anyone close to the former President.

With the establishment of the state of Israel in November of 1947, the flow of letter-bombs to Britain slowed but did not stop. The last one sent until this year was addressed to Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, the former

Other Editors Say How Far Down?

(Washington Daily News)
Just how far down the line will Governor-Elect James Holshouser go in firing state employees and putting in his own people?

That question is being asked all the time among a large group of people in North Carolina right now. In fact, one newspaper article recently printed says that the new governor, if he wishes, will have around 5,000 jobs to fill.

Of those 5,000 position, some of course are top level ones, some are on boards and commissions, and some are lower level full time jobs.

Mr. Holshouser has made it very clear that he wants to get his own "team" in the saddle in North Carolina. That is to be expected, and whenever any new governor comes into office, getting his own people in high ranking positions is a certainty.

But how about state employees in secondary positions such as secretarial help, career people not protected by the state personnel act, and many others? Will they be fired too?

There is an old saying that "to the victor belongs the spoils." Maybe Andrew Jackson said that, but it has been a political reality as long as we can remember.

Surely, there will be a lot of waiting when the new governor sets about the task of filling many jobs. Mr. Holshouser has said that secondary employees need not worry about their jobs "if they are doing a good job." But who will determine whether or not they are doing good jobs?

A lot of people will be fired, and we can be sure of that. One leader has said "Mr. Holshouser cannot afford to fire too many Democrats, because Democrats elected him governor." There is a lot of truth to that statement, but again a new governor has the inherent right to appoint to office or position those whom he wishes to name. North Carolina does have some top-flight personnel who have never been directly involved in politics. To name one, Lee Bounds, Corrections commissioner, holds his position, not because of politics but because it is his life's work. How about him and others?

We realize that Mr. Holshouser is going to appoint his friends to high office. It would be our hope that friendship and ability will have equal status in making the determinations.

But again, we must say he has the right as governor to appoint whomever he chooses. That is the system under which we operate in North Carolina, and be it right or wrong, it is the new governor's right and responsibility to have his "own team" operating with him.

Strength For Today

LET'S LISTEN
The youth problem is always with us. Adam and Eve had to confront it in the lives of their two children, Cain and Abel. We may think that life is different in every age, and so it is to a certain extent, but there is also a pattern to history and to human life in general which must be followed. In his Epistle to the Ephesians (6:4) the Apostle Paul urged his followers to provoke not their children to wrath but to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

We may criticize our young people to day for the frank and apparently disrespectful attitude they sometimes take toward their parents. But this has its good side as well as its bad. Children today come right out and say what is on their minds, and any parent who believed that he or she can make children tow the line and obey without asking any questions is in for disappointment and strife.

One of the characteristics of this twentieth century is that people cannot get away with things as easily as they used to. They have to give reasons for what they think and what they do. The present generation of young people are not lawless and rebellious outlaws. They are an inquiring group. If somebody (even their parents) requires something of them they want to know the reason why. Their attitudes and actions often call for firmness. But this does not mean that they must be disregarded in what they say and think. If there ever was a time when we needed to listen to youth, that time is right now. Highhandedness has no place in modern life.

Calling Signals For The NAM

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You may remember the new president of the National Association of Manufacturers as the smooth quarterback who handed off the ball to Blanchard and Davis, the touchdown twins of the great Army teams of the mid-1940s.

E. Douglas Kenna, much honored himself as a football and basketball player and coach, now is calling signals for an organization that generally doesn't hear the applause of the multitude or the praise of the critics.

The NAM is made up of 12,275 members, all top officers of their organizations, all men and women of very positive opinions that they seldom fail to articulate. "They wouldn't be there if they didn't," said Kenna.

One job facing Kenna is to attract more members to NAM. Like other associations in recent years, it has shrunk in size. In 1962, its rolls numbered 16,327, but recession and business consolidations have taken a toll.

Although he accepted the job on very little notice, Kenna expects he will be able to work easily with the association's 172-man board, even though that board often is not in total agreement. The common goal that unites them despite differences on matters such as import controls is, said Kenna, that "they are all for a good and healthy business environment."

Does such an environment sometimes conflict with other national goals, he was asked? "Yes," Kenna replied after reflecting, "there will be areas of conflict. There must be tradeoffs."

He spoke clearly, very calmly, very certainly, with a slight Mississippi accent, drawing slowly on a fine, slim cigar. He is 48, still athletic looking and inclined to dress less conservatively than some NAM members.

"We need a policy in which you wind up with a compromise," he said. "We must take the rational course. That is the policy we seek."

That philosophy was restated many times by Kenna as he prepared to take over from W. P. Gullander, who held the job of permanent president for 10 years, at the recent annual meeting.

It is not unusual as it might appear for a West Pointer to follow a business career after fulfilling his military obligations. At least one study shows that service-academy personnel, on a per graduate basis, occupy more top corporate jobs than the product of any top business school.

North Viet Battalion Flees After Mauling Defeat

SAIGON (AP) — The remnants of a North Vietnamese battalion mauled by government troops were fleeing through jungle country today back to the Parrot's Beak region of Cambodia, military sources reported.

and South Vietnamese infantry units were pursuing it.

The Communist battalion from Svay Rieng, the eastern-most province of Cambodia, had been in South Vietnam only five hours when it ran into a militia battalion lying in wait.

A North Vietnamese defector tipped the South Vietnamese to the presence of the Communists nine miles south of Tay Ninh, a provincial capital 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

During five hours of some of the sharpest fighting in weeks, 79 North Vietnamese were killed and two were captured, the Saigon command announced. Government casualties were put at only three wounded.

Other ground action in South Vietnam was light, the Saigon command reporting only 57 enemy attacks from 6 a.m. Monday to 6 a.m. today, and 47 of them were shelling attacks.

U.S. B52s for the sixth straight day pounded North Vietnamese supply dumps and troops on the coast just north of the demilitarized zone, concentrating about 18 strikes at a spot 41 miles southeast of Dong Hoi.

There were a total of 10 B52 missions — about 30 strikes — against North Vietnam between noon Monday and 6 a.m. today, the U.S. Command announced.

Nearly 40 strikes were flown against Communist positions in South Vietnam, more than 20 of them in Quang Tri Province and more than 10 of them 28 and 31 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. Command reported its fighter-bombers flew 80 strikes in North Vietnam's southern panhandle Monday. It said the pilots reported destroying six supply trucks, three highway bridges and three river barges.

American fighter-bombers flew 298 strikes in South Vietnam, nearly half of them in the northern provinces.

of Labor shocked high administration officials who see him totally unqualified and are urging the White House that a strong administrator had better be named under secretary. But Brennan at Labor fits the Nixon political grand design as much as Dent does and Peterson does not at Commerce.

The pattern is consistent. Articulate, energetic Republican politicians — Donald Rumsfeld (who winds up at NATO) and George Bush (asked by Mr. Nixon to become Republican national chairman) — were opposed for Cabinet posts by top Nixon advisers. Able and ambitious Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis was passed over as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in favor of the able but politically unambitious Commerce Under Secretary James Lynn (whose appointment shocked even pro-Nixon mayors.)

"Who cares?" snapped a presidential aide, questioned about the second Cabinet's stature. "The Cabinet doesn't mean anything." Except for political symbolism in the Brennan and Dent appointments, the Cabinet-makers of Camp David have made sure it does not.

UN Refuses Terrorist Curbs

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The drive for U.N. action against international terrorism had collapsed today, crushed by a coalition of Arab, African, Asian and Communist countries. Western diplomats said the campaign for international legal measures would continue outside the world organization.

By a vote of 76-34, the General Assembly's legal committee approved a resolution Monday limiting U.N. action on terrorism during the coming year to a study of its causes. A similar result was expected in the assembly since all its members are members of the legal committee.

"Why don't you write a book on how to be a success, Willoughby? The market should be ripe for a good fairy tale—that is, if it's funny enough."

U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. said the purpose of the resolution was "indefinite delay."

"Others will take over this issue," he predicted. "The United Nations will lose what ought to be its primary role."

Bennett drew a parallel with the League of Nations — which, he said, "grew increasingly unwilling or unable to come to grips with the realities of its days and faded into the mists of history."

Anniversary of Pastor Marked

The members of Sweet Hope F.W.B. Church are observing their pastor's sixth anniversary with special services this week.

The services include: Tuesday, Rev. J. N. Gilbert; Wednesday, Rev. F. C. Mitchell; Thursday, Rev. Stephen Jones; Friday, Rev. J. Kearney; Sunday, 11 a.m., morning worship, with Dr. A. A. Best as special guest; Sunday, 3 p.m., Rev. H. Wilson will preach. The Rev. W. J. Best is pastor.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim requested U.N. action, and the United States drafted a treaty calling for the punishment or extradition of terrorists who involve third countries or innocent foreigners in their attacks.

Most Arab countries fought putting the issue before the United Nations. Zambia argued that the world organization could not ask legal measures against terrorism because it had not been defined. Zambia argued that it was necessary to uphold the right to use force in independence struggles.

Bethel Store Is Disqualified For Violations

ATLANTA, Ga. — Hyman's Esso — a Bethel, N. C., food store — has been disqualified from the federal food stamp program for violations, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) reports.

Owned by Mrs. Jodie Hyman Bryant, the Pitt County food store was disqualified from the food stamp program for one year, starting Nov. 28, after being charged with redeeming USDA food stamp coupons accepted in violation of food stamp regulations.

A regional FNS official said that the owner may apply for reinstatement of the store in the food stamp program to take effect at or after the end of the disqualification period. Until the store has been reinstated, however, he said it will not be allowed to accept food coupons. Food stamps, by law, can be used only to buy food, he added.

Mill Increasing Newspaper Price

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP)—Southland Paper Mills Inc. says it will increase the price of newspaper to all its customers by $5 a ton.

The announcement Monday said the increase will be effective Feb. 1, 1973.

Melvin E. Kurth Jr., president of Southland, said the price increase was necessitated by rising costs of raw materials, energy and shipping.

The firm markets newspaper to about 250 newspapers in the South, southwest and midwest. Sales for 1972 are expected to be about $88 million, according to a company estimate.

Children In Tree-Lighting

Children in Greenville and several other cities across the state will assist Gov. Bob Scott in the first annual Governor's Christmas Tree Lighting Wednesday.

Trees in Greenville, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Goldsboro, High Point, Hickory, Shelby and Lenoir will be lighted simultaneously with the official state Christmas tree in the state Administration building in Raleigh.

The lighting ceremony will begin at 3:30 p.m. and the voice of the governor will be transmitted to participating cities by amateur radio operators.

The Ham radio operators and the local Exchange Clubs are cooperating in the tree-lighting venture.

The tree in Greenville will be located at Five Points.

Hearing

Wagner said that E. Hoover Taft was reelected chairman of the CBD Project Advisory Committee Nov. 28 and Tom Webb was returned to the secretary post. He said that the committee members are concerned with alleyways in the project area and are studying the problems involved in getting the alleyways dedicated.

Laney reported that he met with Kenneth Hite and Fred Mattox, local attorneys, and it was agreed that Hite, who represents the commission in legal matters, will now begin to turn over to Mattox contested condemnation cases. Mattox agreed to the proposal, Laney said, and since the commission already has a contract with the attorney no further negotiations are necessary.

Recreation Director For Farmville

FARMVILLE — Farmville has its first full-time recreation director. He is John Roberson, a Pitt County native and an East Carolina University graduate.

JOHN ROBERSION

Roberson, 28, attended the Farmville and Belvoir Schools and graduated from Belvoir High School in 1962. He served three years in the Army before entering East Carolina University where he earned his B. S. degree in health and physical education in 1971 and his Master's degree just last month. He and his wife, the former Dottie Grissom of Miami, Fla., have a son, Troy Debin, seven weeks old.

Roberson said that the first programs to be started will be activities for adults, men's and women's basketball and arts and crafts in which senior citizens can take part. Young people's programs already in progress will be continued, of course, and a well-rounded summer program will be planned, he said.

Roberson has been given office space in the Farmville Economic Council Office at 104 East Wilson Street here.

Rose High Attendance Is Returned To Normal

Conditions continue to improve at Rose High School today as attendance has again reached a daily normal average after a high percentage of absenteeism late last week and on Monday.

Principal Robert Alligood said there had been no incidents at the school as of mid-morning today. "We have policemen on and, a smaller contingent," Alligood remarked, "and will keep them but continue to reduce the numbers until we feel there is no longer a need for their presence."

Attendance rates at Aycock Junior high have also gone back to about normal today, according to principal Paul Rasberry.

"Our absentee rate was high on Thursday and Friday," Rasberry commented, "running about 25 percent. Monday it was down to 15 percent, and today it's about ten percent, which about the average rate, particularly for this time of year."

Both principals said that parents were continuing to report to the school to be on hand in the hallways. Rasberry noted at Aycock parents were to be in only during the lunch hour today. No police are on hand at Aycock.

All interested citizens of the community are invited to attend the Wednesday night meeting.

Trojans Believe They Can Challenge For Top

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

OAK CITY — Oak City High School is in somewhat of a rebuilding year this season, but Coach Henry Land believes that his Trojans just might be challenging Martin County favorite Jamesville before the season ends.

There are four lettermen back from last year's team that fought for the league championship, Russ Cotten, Shelton Jones, Ronald Duggins and Norman Williams. Three of those, all but Williams, had starting roles from time to time as Land used eight players most of the time, shuffling them in and out.

"We don't have a lot of experience," the coach said. "So I call this a rebuilding year. But we are trying to install a more disciplined offense due to the lack of height. And although we've lost our first four games, it looked Friday night like things were beginning to fall into place."

Oak City is lacking in height, with the tallest man only 6-2. He's Billy Green, a senior who is out for the first time. "He's done a good job, however," Land said. "He's been our leading rebounder and leading scorer so far."

In the rebounding department, despite losing those four games, Oak City has out-rebounded their opponents. "We've done a very good job of blocking out under the boards," the coach said. "We've been able to get it and do some running."

Defensively, the Trojans have used a 2-1-2 zone press right much so far. "We haven't got it going real good year, but it looks as if it's going to come around and be good for us soon. It's just a question of adjusting to the system."

The Trojans have only moderate speed. "It's nothing superb," Land said. "So we're trying to get more movement of the ball and less of the body and it's playing off. By the time we get into the conference I think we'll be all right."

That test will come soon, since the Oak City club will meet winless Robersonville on Friday.

If there is one thing that's been the downfall of the Trojans so far, it's been their shooting. "We've been getting good shots, but they haven't been falling for us. We've been trying 65 or so shots and have only hitting on about 25 per cent of them. Our foul shooting isn't good either, only about 40 per cent, and I think this has been the turning point for us. We've got three players who were playing football and they are just beginning to adjust to the switch. Friday night we shot 50 per cent in the first half, so maybe it's ready to come around."

Currently, Land is starting Cotten, Jones, Duggins, Billy Ross (up from the junior varsity) and Green. "That's the tallest unit we can field," Land added.

Top reserves include Calvin Worsley, Howard Jones, and Kenneth Perkins, with the only experienced reserve Williams serving as the sixth man on the unit.

Land looks for a tough conference race with Jamesville being favored. "They have the most experienced team. Everyone else lost three to five starters. They have the big 6-7 man (Larry Modlin), but if we can block him out, I believe we can beat them. If so, I think we can win it again."

But for Oak City to win, the shooting has got to improve. "Our offense is getting us the shots. Now we've got to start hitting them."

Goldsboro Tops Rose Wrestlers

GOLDSBORO — Goldsboro High School handed the Rose High School Rampants their fifth straight wrestling loss here last night, 51-15.

The Rampants managed to win only three of the 13 matches, taking two of them by pins and the other by decision. Goldsboro's 10 victories included one forfeit and six pins.

East Carolina University's Pirates begin a long road trip tonight as they go to Durham to meet the Blue Devils of Duke University.

The Pirates will be trying to pick up their third official victory of the season in fourth starts. For the Blue Devils, they'll be trying for the same thing.

Duke won its opener against William & Mary, then traveled out to San Francisco, Calif., to participate in the Cable Car Classic over the past weekend. They beat Santa Clara in the opening round, but lost by three points to hosting San Francisco in the second.

"I feel Duke is one of the best sleepers around," East Carolina coach Tom Quinn said. "They are a very powerful team. Their going out and beating Santa Clara was not an easy task, and to come as close to San Francisco as they did was something too. It really speaks well for them."

The Blue Devils this year are a pressing team. "They're much more active than in the past," Quinn said.

Currently, the Blue Devils are starting Gary Melchionni at the point position, while the rest include veterans Alan Shaw, Jeff Butdette and Chris Redding. Two sophomores, Pete Kramer and Bob Fleischer have divided the other forward duties.

"Shaw is their big man," Quinn said of the 6-10 center, and Melchionni is the man they look to for leadership. Redding, so far, has been their leading scorer. I think he's averaging about 20 points a game."

And there is plenty of depth, too, since Duke had a fine freshman team last year. Besides the two sophomores dividing starting time, there are also Bill Suk and Kevin Killerman.

Duke will have a height advantage across the front of several inches, Quinn pointed out. Fleischer is 6-8, while Redding is 6-8½, along with the 6-10 Shaw.

"They run and press a lot," Quinn said. "They run an excellent trapping defense similar to the one Davidson uses."

"If we can put our two best halves together like our first half against Davidson and our second against Appalachian, we can make a whale of a game out of it," Quinn added.

Jerome Owens, who missed

Saturday's game with Appalachian, may be ready to see some action tonight. He's suffering from a possible pulled groin muscle. Toma Marsh, however, won't be back in uniform until after Christmas. He's been sidelined since the opener with a knee injury. He's begun a program of rehabilitation, and no surgery is contemplated.

Quinn looks at this week as one of the toughest of the season for the Bucs. They play three games over a span of five days. Tonight against Duke, then Thursday against St. Francis is Loretto, Pa., then Saturday against The Citadel in Charleston, S.C.

"We've set a goal of winning two or all three of them," Quinn said. "But we know it won't be any easy task. We are playing under hard conditions."

The coach said he is quite pleased with the play of Ken Edmonds, Roger Atkinson and Ray Peszko. "They are coming along fine in reserve roles."

He also has praise for Earl Quash, who had an outstanding season so far. "For someone who didn't look to start before the season opener, he's done a fine job," Quinn said.

"Quinn is also pleased with the shooting of the Pirates so far, despite a bad second half against Davidson and a bad first half against Appalachian. "Our defense still has been puzzled," he said. "We've worked hard on our defense. We did force a lot of turnovers against Appalachian, and their shooting percentage was low. Maybe it's just going to take a while."

The Pirates don't have another home game until January, and have only two between now and the latter part of January, when they open a five-game home stand on the 31st. This doesn't bother Quinn, however. "We'll be playing our money games later in the season and this is good. We'll have plenty of experience by then, and the conference race will have settled into place for the most part."

The varsity game between the two teams starts at 8 p.m., following a junior varsity contest set for 6 p.m.

Panthers Drop Jaguar Matmen

BETHEL — North Pitt High School gained a 39-24 victory over the Farmville Central wrestling team here last night.

The Panthers, by winning, remained unbeaten through three matches. Farmville Central was going down to its first loss in three outings.

Playoff Possibilities Narrowed Down After New York Eliminated

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — And then there were two. With the New York Jets out of the way, the National Football League playoff picture is a bit clearer—but not much. The Jets, eliminated from American Conference "wild card" contention by their losing 24-16 to Oakland Monday night, have left the two remaining playoff berths to Pittsburgh and Cleveland—although New York can still have a hand in determining whether the Steelers or Browns win the Central Division title. Miami has clinched the East and Oakland owns the West.

In the National Conference, only the West remains unclaimed and, regardless of which team wins that title, the playoff sites are set. The first round will be Dec. 23-24.

The Steelers, 10-3, having already locked up a playoff position but not a title, close out their regular season next Sunday in San Diego while Cleveland, 9-3, goes against the Jets in New York.

If the Steelers beat the Chargers, they'll automatically take the Central crown—their first title of any kind in 40 years in the NFL—and leave the Browns with the AFC wild card, no matter what Cleveland does against the Jets. The same outcome would result if both the Steelers and Browns lose their final games.

With the Steelers as Central winners and the Browns as the wild card team with the conference's best runnerup record, here's how the first round of AFC playoffs, also Dec. 23-24, would shape up: —Oakland at Pittsburgh on Saturday.

—Cleveland at Miami on Sunday.

However, if Pittsburgh loses to San Diego and Cleveland beats New York, the Steelers and Browns would wind up tied for first with 10-4 records—and by virtue of the NFL's tie-breaking system, the Browns would win the Central title, leaving the Steelers with the wild card.

And if the Browns do take the Central title, they'll host Oakland in Saturday's playoff while Pittsburgh would play its wild card hand in Miami on Sunday.

In the NFC, things are a bit clearer, thanks to victories last weekend by Dallas and Green Bay which wrapped up all but one playoff berth.

With the Cowboys of the East Division the wild card winner by virtue of its best runnerup record in the conference and with the Packers the Central Division champions following their victory over Minnesota.

Florida State and Maryland remained UCLA's distant 2-3 challengers while Marquette jumped one notch to fourth, exchanging places with Big Ten powerhouse Minnesota.

North Carolina State and Long Beach State remained sixth and seventh, respectively. Southwestern Louisiana rose from 10th to eighth, Pennsylvania stayed ninth and Oral Roberts moved up two places to No. 10.

UCLA was idle last week and Coach John Wooden's West Coast wonders have a 3-0 record along with Florida State, Maryland, Marquette and Minnesota. Florida State whipped Eastern Kentucky 87-70 and Biscayne 97-62 in action last week.

Maryland beat Canisius 107-80 in its only game. Marquette had an impressive week, crunching 14th-ranked Tennessee 56-30 and edging No. 11 Memphis State 72-69. Minnesota dropped one place despite slamming Wisconsin-Milwaukee 79-60.

North Carolina State continued to be the nation's hottest scoring club, slaughtering Georgia Southern 144-100 and South Florida 125-88.

Long Beach State belted Portland 102-66 and Puget Sound 102-70. Kentucky, eighth ranked last week, took a double defeat dose in a 79-66 battle with Iowa and a 64-58 game against Indiana and the Wildcats dropped out of sight.

Southwestern Louisiana, 4-0, scored its most recent triumphs over Pan American 111-70, St. Joseph's, Pa., 84-74 and Marshall 98-84.

Ninth-ranked Penn beat The Citadel 57-34 and Navy 58-39. Oral Roberts, leaping into the top 10, slammed Wisconsin 90-76, and Idaho State 95-62 before nipping Murray State 79-78.

Carolina Stall Downs Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina found the key for defeating Kentucky—build up a comfortable early lead, stall and then hope.

The strategy worked as the Tar Heels raced to a 46-26 halftime edge and then held on for a 78-70 college basketball victory Monday night.

"You aren't going to add to a 20-point halftime lead against a great team like Kentucky," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith.

"We are very happy to have gotten that win."

Kentucky's Ronnie Lyons, who didn't start due to a kidney infection and a case of anemia, scored 15 points in the second half and led a tenacious comeback effort that trimmed North Carolina's lead to 71-65 with four minutes left. Bobby Jones of the Tar Heels then tossed in two straight baskets to preserve the victory.

North Carolina, ranked No. 11 nationally, was led by George Karl's 22 points while Jones added 15. Kevin Grevey paced unranked Kentucky, which last week was tabbed eighth, with 19 points.

Jimmy Baker tossed in 40 points as Nevada-Las Vegas erased a halftime deficit and upset 10th-ranked Oral Roberts 86-80. Bob Florence added 22 points for Las Vegas and David Vaughn led Oral Roberts with 18.

No. 7 Long Beach State put six players in double figures and ripped Colorado 93-69. Roscoe Pondexter led the winners with 20 points followed by Glen McDonald with 17 and Olympic star Ed Ratleff with 16. Dave Logan led Colorado with 19.

Junior Lee Harris pumped in a career-high 30 points as Nebraska defeated Texas Christian 72-58. Harris, whose 13 field goals were one short of a Nebraska record, led the Huskers to a 38-24 halftime lead.

Dan Murphy sank two free throws with three seconds remaining and lifted Cincinnati to a 76-74 triumph over Arizona State.

Freshman Leon Douglas made his varsity debut by scoring 18 points and snaring 10 rebounds in guiding Alabama to an 89-73 victory over Georgia Tech. Wendell Hudson also scored 18 for Alabama.

Unbeaten Drake, led by Dennis Bell's 28 points, posted an 83-70 victory over Creighton while George Washington beat Texas A&M 79-72.

Southern Illinois whipped Weber State 82-70, Baylor edged Oklahoma State 63-60, Rutgers defeated Lehigh 86-73 and the Australian national team downed Oakland 78-71.

Wildcats Try To Break Jam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Undisputed possession of first and last place in the Southern Conference basketball race will be at stake tonight when Davidson's Wildcats invade Richmond to take on the Spiders.

The Wildcats, 3-1 over-all, are one of four teams now tied for the conference lead with 1-0 records and can take over sole occupancy of the top spot with a victory.

Richmond, already in the basement at 0-2 and will drop farther behind if Davidson wins. A Richmond victory would pull the Spiders into a three-way deadlock for sixth place.

The Wildcats' first defeat was by 82-78 Saturday night at Princeton, the first encounter of a three-game Davidson road trip which winds up Saturday night at Cincinnati.

East Carolina's defending conference champion Pirates, 2-1 over-all, go to Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conference in tonight's only other action involving league teams. The Blue Devils, losers in the finals of last weekend's Cable Car Classic, also are 2-1.

One of Duke's victories was a 98-74 romp over another Southern Conference team, William and Mary, which finally broke into the win column Monday night with a 73-71 squeeze past Appalachian State's Mountaineers in a league encounter.

Both the Indians and Mountaineers now are 1-2 in conference play and 1-5 over-all as a result of the outcome of the only Monday night game involving league teams.

After leading 34-32 at intermission, William and Mary fell behind with 8:40 left but regained the lead in the closing minutes.

The Indians moved to a 72-68 margin with 25 seconds left, but Stan Davis narrowed the gap to 72-71 when he hit a field goal and turned it into a three-point play after being fouled. Freshman Mike Arizin hit a foul shot for the Indians' final margin.

Davis led all scorers with 32 points, but no other Mountaineers were in double figures. Jeff Trammell had 23 points, 6-foot-11 freshman Matt Courage 20 and Steve Seward 13 for the Indians.

Joe Shines But Jets Defeated

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Even in defeat, New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath has a knack for upstaging other football players.

"Joe was on target all night," Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank said Monday night after Namath passed for 403 yards in a 24-16 loss to the Oakland Raiders that killed the Jets' hopes of making the National Football League playoffs.

"He has these kind of games," admitted Raiders Coach John Madden. "but I feel our guy was pretty good too."

Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica, throwing a lot less than Namath, passed for 202 yards and two touchdowns in the nationally televised game.

Raiders fullback Marv Hubbard and Jets receiver Don Maynard were two other players whose feats were overshadowed by Namath's passing show.

Hubbard gained 118 yards to become the ninth NFL rusher to hit the 1,000-yard mark this season. The 35-year-old Maynard caught seven Namath passes for 131 yards and reached an all-time NFL high of 632 career receptions.

The loss left the Jets at 7-6 and eliminated their chance of winning the American Conference's wild card playoff berth. The Raiders, as champions of the AFC West, are 9-3-1 and heading toward a playoff opener on the road against Pittsburgh, or possibly Cleveland, on Dec. 23.

The Raiders kept the Jets out of the end zone after Namath hit tight end Rich Caster on a touchdown pass play covering 49 yards in the first quarter. That score put the Jets ahead 7-3.

Two interceptions near the goal line helped the Raiders.

Lamonica put the ball into the end zone on a perfect 39-yard scoring toss to Fred Biletnikoff as the Raiders took a 10-7 lead in the second quarter, and a pass to Ray Chester in the fourth quarter produced a 68-yard touchdown play and the final 24-16 margin.

Namath left the game briefly after suffering a slight ankle injury. He waved a hand in appreciation as he limped off the field to the loud cheers of Oakland fans.

The touchdown pass to Chester was the biggest Oakland offensive blow of the night. It came right after Bobby Howfield's third field goal had cut Oakland's lead to 17-16.

Lamonica went to Chester, who was all alone behind the New York secondary, after faking a handoff to running back Charlie Smith on a third down and half-yard situation.

Parson Of The Hills Church Is Appalachia

By JOHN KENNEDY
The Concord Tribune
for The Associated Press
HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — Many people in the Appalachian mountains of North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky think Santa Claus is clean-shaven and wears business suits. They consider the Rev. Charles Keyes of Hickory, the silver-haired Parson of the Hills. Santa as well as a friend. For more than 36 years the Rev. Mr. Keyes, himself a native of Ashe County in far northwestern North Carolina, has been traveling through the hills on a self-imposed mission of helpfulness. "My church is all of Appalachia, for these are my people and they're also the children of God," he says. The trips he takes cover a thousand-mile region of often rugged, sometimes nearly inaccessible terrain. On a salary of $4,000 a year and support from the nonprofit Parson of the Hills Foundation, the Rev. Mr. Keyes battles poverty daily. "If I just had a thimble full of the money the government has spent in the Appalachian poverty program,

I believe I could break this cycle of poverty," he says. But he adds, "God gave me life deep in the Blue Ridge mountains and by His grace I'll die in those mountains with my people." Christmas is near in the hills, and the minister is planning his annual parties for children in the region. This year there will be three, with the largest to be Dec. 17 at Trap Hill in Wilkes County. Another will be in Harlan County, Kentucky Jan. 6 and one is being planned for the Asheville area. "There'll be 5,000 children and old people at that party, (at Trap Hill, and I've got to have food and toys for all of them," he says. In addition, he will have clothing and shoes to distribute. A bearded, red-suited Santa will attend. For once myth will overshadow reality.

Tall Grass For Lifeless Field

MOSCOW (UPI) — Siberian scientists have grown grass a yard high in fields of slime that had been lifeless, the Tass news agency said. Scientists at Uralsk University tested more than 160 plant species on slime fields. Twenty-four survived, including wheat grass, lucerne and red fescue. About a million earthquakes a year occur in the world but only about a thousand cause damage.

Realistic Lesson In Authoritarianism For Pupils

NORTH OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Guards armed with automatic weapons policed the corridors of North Ogden Junior High School for the second day today in a frighteningly realistic lesson in life without freedom.

Troops from the mythical foreign power of Triangula invaded the school Monday morning shortly after classes commenced and imposed a stiff order on the surprised pupils.

The "invasion" was the idea of Principal Carl C. DeYoung. He said he was responding to complaints by a "flagboy" who told him many of his fellow students appeared apathetic during flag-raising ceremonies each morning.

The soldiers were real — disguised volunteers from the 683rd Artillery Unit of the U.S. Army Reserves.

"We're not throwing rocks at communism," DeYoung said Monday night after the first day of authoritarian rule at his school. "What we are trying to teach is a simple love for American freedom and a respect for some of its symbols such as the flag."

The "enemy" guards wear black triangular patches and represent a make-believe dictatorship. DeYoung said the pupils have not been told when the harsh rule will end, although secret plans are for its conclusion, Wednesday with a "patriotic assembly" to which parents will be invited.

Brusk military trials were held throughout Monday when students violated a tough set of rules handed out by the occupation force.

$95 Million Is Allotted State

North Carolina will get a total of $95,300,000 in waste water treatment plant funds for the next three fiscal years, Environmental Protection Agency Region IV administrator Jack E. Ravan has announced.

The amount this year was $40½ million plus $8.6 million. For the fiscal year 1973, it will be $18½ million and for the fiscal year 1974, $27.7 million.

The federal construction funds currently are allotted under "Public Law-660 grants program." However, beginning with the new fiscal year, under the new legislation the building money will be allocated on a contractual basis, a program designed to simplify and make binding the agreement between applicant and the federal partner. Upon approval of the application for a specific project, the federal government is obligated to pay 75 per cent of the costs. The Congressional act asserted that under this procedure the states and communities are assured of an orderly flow of federal payments and that this should result in substantial savings and efficiency, Ravan said.

RECORD SALES
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Record sales and an increase in employment marked 1972 for the nation's primary textile industry, the American Textile Manufacturers Institute said today in its annual review and forecast.

DeYoung said the objective of the experiment is to instill in his pupils "a feeling for values" of such concepts as freedom and commonplace expressions such as the Pledge of Allegiance, which is recited at the school each Monday morning.

"You can't have feelings about something until you experience it," he said. He said parents were told last Saturday in a letter about the experiment but were asked to keep it confidential. Two parents asked that their children not be included in the program.

Students reacted with everything from skepticism to near revolt.

Hempstone Col.

The Israelis first used letter-bombs in their continuing war against the Arabs in 1963. That was before the Arabs had begun to receive sophisticated hardware and advisers from the Soviet Union. In an attempt to bridge the technological gap between themselves and the Israelis, the Egyptians had employed a number of German scientists to help in the development of a system of ground-to-ground missiles. For Egyptian technicians were killed and one was blinded by letter-bombs sent from Germany.

The head of Israeli intelligence, Iser Halprin, resigned after Prime Minister David Ben Gurion publicly denounced the terror campaign and ordered it halted. But by then the Germans, finding the climate in Egypt decidedly unhealthy, had sought other employment.

Israeli letter-bombs, according to Arab sources, were used shortly before the 1967 Six-Day War to liquidate two key Egyptian intelligence officers: Maj. Mustapha Hapaz, chief of intelligence in the Gaza Strip, and Col. Salah Eddin Mustafa, military attache in Amman, Jordan. Both had been linked to Palestinian guerrilla organizations.

The Arabs this year made use of letter-bombs for the first time, apparently with technical assistance from East German or Czechoslovak intelligence agents, when 14 explosive packages were sent to Israel from Europe. All were detected, but a policeman was injured while dismantling one.

The Israelis struck back after the May massacre at Tel Aviv's Lydda airport in which three Japanese fanatics associated with the Arab terrorist movement killed 20 Puerto Rican pilgrims in a shoot-out. The Arab who had recruited the Japanese was seriously injured by an exploding letter-bomb. Other guerrilla leaders also received "greetings from Tel Aviv."

In September of this year, in the aftermath of the Arab terrorist incident in Munich in which 11 members of the Israeli Olympic team were murdered, there came the most numerous and highly publicized rash of letter-bombs, this time directed primarily against Israeli diplomats in various world capitals. Of the 50 letter-bombs mailed from Amsterdam, only one got through. That one killed Ami Sachori, the Israeli agricultural attache in London.

The assumption is — and there is some evidence to support this — that Arab terrorist of the Black September group which staged the Munich massacre were responsible for the Amsterdam letter-bombs. But Black September has been uncharacteristically quiet about claiming "credit" for the letter-bombs, and Cairo's Center for Political and Strategic Studies charges that the Amsterdam letter-bombs were sent by Israeli agents bent on further discrediting the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

The truth is not known. But anything is possible in the shadow-world of Middle Eastern espionage, in which both sides use terror-by-mail as an instrument of national policy, often without the knowledge or consent of responsible political leaders.
