Orange Soil Sample Treasure Of Moon

By PAUL RECER

AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two jubilant American adventurers prepared today for a farewell lunar exploration. But already aboard their lander Challenger was a new discovery — samples of intriguing orange soil possibly dating to the last fiery gasps of a dying moon.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt, in their last geology field trip in the moon valley of Taurus-Littrow today, take an eight-mile drive along the base of a high mountain and at the foot of wrinkled hills, using an electric car with a patched fender.

The astronauts, saying they "like to cover new ground," traveled a mile farther than planned on Tuesday night, gathering many bags of lunar samples, including scoops of the orange dust never before found on the moon.

The orange material was found during exploration of an ancient avalanche, 4.4 miles from the landing camp in Taurus-Littrow valley. By coincidence, it was found by Cernan, not Schmitt, a geologist and America's first professional scientist in space.

"Hey," exclaimed Cernan as he stumbled into the soil at the rim of a crater called Shorty. "Wait a minute ... there is orange soil."

"It's all over," Cernan went on excitedly. "Orange. I've stirred it up with my feet."

On earth, scientists were also excited by the discovery, though cautious in their evaluation. They said the orange soil may have originated from "the last gaseous gasp of volcanism" on the moon.

Dr. Robin Brett, chief of the geochemistry branch at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the material possibly could be rust — which has been found in other lunar samples in minute quantities — or some chemical combination which assumes a reddish color.

While Cernan and Schmitt motored on the moon, their crewmate, Ronald E. Evans, labored in the command ship America orbiting overhead. Evans is operating an array of science instruments which are photographing and probing large slices of the moon.

If the soil is a product of the volcanism that Brett spoke of, it may represent material from as recent as 100 million years ago, a time that's only yesterday in the evolution of the moon.

Cernan, the 38-year old mission commander, and Schmitt, 37, photographed the orange material in color from several angles and then took big scoop samples. Cernan also drove two core tubes into the material to get deeper samples.

But, pressed by time, the astronauts were not able to stay longer and find what Schmitt said could have been evidence of volcanic action from the moon's more recent geologic past.

The travelers of Taurus-Littrow started their day working as space-age auto mechanics.

The right rear fender of their $2 million electric car had been torn off by accident Monday and they wanted to repair it.

Following instructions from Mission Control and using a design suggested by Apollo 16 commander John Young, Schmitt and Cernan clamped a taped-together sheet of plasticlike paper in the place of the broken fender. They were delighted with the makeshift repair job.

"That fender is really a classic," said Schmitt.

"One might say it's a Younger fender," punned Cernan, referring to Young. He promised to photograph the fender repair and give a copy to Young as a present.

Gone from the early stages of the second excursion was much of the unbridled joy which marked the first. The astronauts carried out the geology field trip with the careful determination of men with important work.

They moved from crater to crater, gathering rock samples, taking scores of photographs and giving careful descriptions of fields they were visiting.

They drove their car from the landing site across a gray plain they called a "black mantle" and onto the debris of an ancient landslide which fell from a nearby 6,000-foot mountain called the South Massif.

When they reached the top of the landslide, Cernan radioed Mission Control: "Man, this has been a trip. We're really on top of this thing." Then he looked above him at South Massif and said, "That is a high mountain."

At one point, the television camera, remotely controlled from Mission Control, focused on a point of light rising in the black sky over the mountain. The view zoomed in and the light pinpoint resolved into the earth, a blue half-ball streaked with white.

Another time, as Cernan and Schmitt climbed a steep hill, their breath came in labored gasps. When they were small figures in the distance of the television view, Mission Control called them back for a rake out.

Schmitt objected sharply, saying it was difficult to climb.

Later, he told Mission Control "I don't stay angry long."

If climbing hills was difficult, coming down in the light lunar gravity was a joy. The astronauts, keeping their feet together, hopped like kangaroos.

"Hippity hop, hippity hop, hippity hopping alooong," sang Cernan as he came down hill, covering six and eight feet at a bound.

Leads In Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that challenger Arnold Miller has taken the lead over United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle in the union's court-ordered election.

Miller had 11,774 votes to 10,673 for Boyle, said the Labor Department, which is conducting the vote count under heavy guard.

The vote count is inconclusive so far with more than 100,000 votes still to be tallied.

Miller's running mates, Mike Trbovich for vice president and Harry Patrick for secretary-treasurer, also moved ahead of their opponents on Boyle's slate.

Trbovich had 11,146 votes to 10,573 for Leonard J. Pnakovich while Patrick had 11,423 votes to 10,307 for Wilbert Killian.

In the initial vote count report Tuesday from 53 of the union's 1,300 locals, "showed Boyle with 2,180 votes to 1,587 for Miller."

Pitt's Check

B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners said today that the county has received a check for $336,348 as the county government's share under the federal revenue sharing program for the first six months.

Gardner said the check received earlier this week was somewhat smaller than had been estimated earlier. According to the chairman, earlier estimates had projected the county government would receive in the neighborhood of $494,000 for the first payment period.

Allocations under the revenue sharing program are based in part on population and on tax effort by the various local governmental units sharing in the funds.

Gardner said commissioners have yet to decide how to spend the federal money.

No Clues In Peace Talks

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho met for six hours today at what could be the end of their current session of secret peace talks.

The U.S. Embassy advised Orly Airport that Kissinger would leave for Washington tonight, airport officials said. His personal plane has been standing by since it arrived from an American base in West Germany Tuesday night. He will report to President Nixon.

There was no immediate indication whether Kissinger and Tho have reached agreement, or whether they planned to meet again in the near future.

Before the President's national security adviser and North Vietnam's Politburo member met in a suburban villa, a subcommittee of experts held a 90-minute session to discuss details of a settlement.

French press reports said agreement was near on the issue blocking a cease-fire accord, the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. La Nation predicted agreement in "a matter of hours."

But Humanite, the French Communist party newspaper, said Kissinger was insisting on fundamental changes in the draft he and Tho worked out in October and "is holding up the signature of an accord which could lead to a cease-fire within 24 hours."

Kissinger was accompanied this morning by William J. Porter, the U.S. delegate to the four-party weekly peace talks.

and William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs. Tho's delegation included Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese delegate to the four-party talks, and Nguyen Co Thach, Hanoi's deputy foreign minister.

Kissinger's plane arrived at Orly Airport Tuesday night from a U.S. air base in Germany. Airport authorities said the U.S. embassy ordered the crew to prepare for departure today after the meeting with Tho.

Red Tanks Are Heading South

By DENNIS NEELD

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 100 tanks and several thousand fresh North Vietnamese troops have crossed the mountain passes that feed the Ho Chi Minh Trail, and American B52s and fighter-bombers are harassing them as they make their way south, U.S. sources reported today.

Some intelligence reports indicate the armor may be headed for the Plain of Jars in Laos rather than for South Vietnam. Several of the tanks have been knocked out, according to military sources.

An equal number of tanks have reached the three North Vietnamese divisions in South Vietnam's war-ravaged Quang Tri Province, the sources reported.

Up to 8,000 troops also have been sent across the DMZ in recent weeks to reinforce the depleted North Vietnamese divisions in Quang Tri.

Another 10,000 North Vietnamese may be heading for battlefronts closer to Saigon, other sources reported. They are believed to have reached base areas in southern Laos and are expected to arrive in South Vietnam early in the new year.

The dry weather has set in over southern Laos, and this is the season during which the Ho Chi Minh Trail is traditionally busiest. American air strikes have attempted to close the three main passes feeding the trail from North Vietnam by setting off landslides with high explosive bombs.

Parachuting Is Not Santa's Bag

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) —

Perhaps Santa had better stick to sliding down chimneys instead of jumping out of airplanes.

The jolly old man and two of his sidekicks planned to parachute into a shopping center here Tuesday, but things didn't go quite as planned.

One of his elves landed on target but another landed in a drainage ditch, and St. Nick, also uninjured, was found a half mile away dangling from a clothes line.

State's Long-Term Needs Set Forth By Gov. Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's long-term needs as set forth in the first annual report of the State Council on Goals and Policies were outlined Monday to a meeting of North Carolina Executive Cabinet.

Scott told the cabinet in a prepared talk that the state must strive to train more doctors, make public kindergartens available to all children, and adopt a statewide land use policy.

These goals and a list of several dozen others, Scott said, "express the needs and aspirations of North Carolina's citizens and identify the kind of future they want for themselves and their families."

The governor said that the council had concluded in its first year of operation that the one goal common to all is that of equal opportunity and justice for all citizens.

In developing the state's economy, Scott said it is imperative that job opportunities continue to grow and be made available to all regardless of race, creed or sex.

The council, he added, called for a more active state role in shaping the economic future.

Other recommendations included efforts to develop minority enterprise and encourage experimentation to relieve the boredom of industrial workers.

In discussing health care, Scott said it would be necessary to train more doctors and para-medical personnel and to encourage them to practice in areas which do not now receive adequate health care.

The governor said that along with kindergartens, the state should provide a study of child development centers for preschool children.

Other recommendations, he said, included year-round and night use of school buildings, and easy entry and re-entry for all citizens into the educational system.

On the environment, Scott said a land use policy is needed, along with higher priority to regional water and sewer systems and a uniform minimum housing code.

School Bd. To Meet Monday

The December meeting of the Greenville City School Board is scheduled for Monday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the boardroom of the Central Administrative Office at 431 West Fifth Street.

One of the basic items to face the school board members at the December meeting is the PERT Chart outlining the progressive steps necessary in planning for the new middle-junior high school. One of the facets of the planning stage will be that of ultimate steps to finance the facility.

Another agenda item up for discussion, introduced at an earlier meeting, is a recommendation from the ad hoc committee on plans for an athletic tract to serve Rose and Aycok schools.

Projections for the cost of this facility will be presented at the Monday meeting.

A report on negotiations to purchase of three lots adjacent to Sadie Sauter Elementary School is also to be one of the matters up for consideration by the board.

Heroin Addicts 'Multiplied'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The estimated number of heroin addicts in the United States has multiplied 12 times in the last 10 years, an official of the Justice Department's Office of National Narcotics Intelligence reports.

Dan McAuliffe told the annual convention of the National Association of Citizen Crime Commissioners Tuesday there are an estimated 600,000 heroin addicts in the country today.

Elections Bd. Rules Hawke Lost In Fourth

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Elections said today it will certify Democrat Ike Andrews as the winner in his disputed race with Republican Jack Hawke in North Carolina's 4th Congressional District.

Elections Director Alex Brock told a news conference the board took the action after rejecting Hawke's challenge of voting procedures in Durham and Wake counties.

Andrews was the apparent winner of the Nov. 7 race by 1,100 votes.

Brock said the board would formally prepare and issue its findings and conclusions later today to clear the way for Andrews' certification.

He said the board indicated that it would direct changes in Durham County to assure more uniform distribution of voting machines in future elections.

The board rejected outright Hawke's appeal for Wake County, saying it "found no cause for admonition as to election procedures followed" in that county.

Brock said the decision by the five-member state board was unanimous.

Britt Is Named CD Director

RALEIGH (AP) — David L. Britt of Raleigh, a staff officer for the North Carolina National Guard, was appointed today as state director of civil defense.

Gov. Bob Scott named Britt, a colonel in the guard, to succeed the late James W. Denning.

Britt has been on the guard administrative staff for 16 years, most recently as administrative assistant to the adjutant general.

He will serve at the pleasure of the governor.

$318,589 Check

City Manager William H. Carstarphen has announced that the first check for Greenville of the Revenue Sharing fund has been received.

The check, in the amount of $318,589, has been deposited as required and will soon be invested for the highest possible interest rate.

Carstarphen said it is his belief the City Council will perhaps consider use of the funds in capital outlay and capital improvements projects. This, he stated, could also include initial consideration for the city's recreation program.

The second half of the funds, for calendar year 1972, due to be in the same amount, is expected to be received during the month of January 1973. Carstarphen commented.

New Sewer-Use Regulations Tentatively Voted

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Managing Editor
Utilities Commissioners Tuesday tentatively approved new sewer use regulations to be effective Feb. 1.

The regulations will be explained to representatives of local industries meeting with Director Charles Horne and will be finally adopted at the Utilities' January meeting.

The new regulations embrace most requirements in the present regulations. They also provide, however, that holding tanks must be provided by users with a volume of more than 75,000 gallons in one day. The tanks will be required to equalize flows over a 24 hour period. They will have a capacity at least 90 percent of the normal volume of one 24-hour production period of waste. The tanks will be controlled to release wastes into the city system during off-peak hours.

The commission also established a surcharge system for industries using the city sewage system. A monthly billing will be designed to cover the city's entire cost of treating all wastes having a Biochemical Oxygen Demand in excess of 250 parts per million and Suspended Solids in excess of 250 parts per million.

On Director Horne's

recommendation, Utilities employees were granted a cost of living salary increase of 2½ percent effective Jan. 1. Employees had received a 2½ percent increase based on cost of living July 1, 1972. Merit raises of 2½ percent of the total payroll were also granted July 1, although the actual amounts per employee varied.

Gas Department Superintendent Bill Weston demonstrated a new gas leak detector purchased by the Utilities. The device will be used in conjunction with a system survey by Heath Consultants.

Weston also reported that the number of bottled gas customers has been reduced to 286, through a program of extension of natural gas lines. A year ago there were 1,500 bottled gas customers. Weston said further reductions were scheduled and it was planned to serve customers who cannot be reached by mains with bulk tank installations.

This would mean that the bottle truck could be eliminated and one tank truck could fill the bulk tanks.

Business Manager Curtis Howell reported that local banks now collect around 3,000 utilities bills per month. Under a system worked out with the banks Utilities customers can pay their bills at any bank office.

List Assets In Belongings Diary

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

There may be gold in the dustiest family heirlooms—one reason people have begun to keep estate diaries. An inventory of family items included in a diary which lists the family's entire assets may provide the poorest family with a sense of economic worth that someday may be converted into real cash.

Real estate, savings bonds, insurance, jewelry should be listed also, if the family has such assets.

Using the book method, one couple realized $9,500 on the sale of furnishings that even included fairly new items. The money is considered a windfall that might keep them for a few years in their Mediterranean hideaway. Childless, they had decided the heirlooms were expendable, too expensive to take with them and they might just as well enjoy the cash. They had not figured it would net them anything near the sum they realized.

Old china—the kind people keep unused on their shelves generation after generation—was in such good condition it was sold to a dealer for $2,000. Paintings, prints, linens brought another $800. An empire clock netted $85. Furniture brought more than $3,000 and included fairly new pieces, among them a tilt top table, Victorian sofa, a schoolmaster desk, old andirons. Furniture is now so expensive and people are so aware of the possibilities of refurbishing it, that even fairly new pieces in good shape can bring handsome prices.

More recently a woman began keeping such a diary when her husband told guests who had inquired that the tinsy type of her relatives "was something picked up in a junkshop." As she quickly reminded him, the frame was, but the relatives weren't. But it made her think—what would happen to the old family relics if she weren't around to earmark them for the children. And even if they didn't like the old family paintings—there are a lot of antique hunters willing to pay good prices in adopting such ancestors.

Motivated more by sentimentality, she began a diary listing everything the family owned indoors and outdoors, the cost of each item and the current market value. In addition to the list being available for insurance purposes in the event of catastrophe, every member of the family can be better informed about the family's household effects by looking at the book.

Her categories are marked—acquired (year), how (source), price (if any), current worth (market value). Family heirlooms are listed with pertinent facts. For example: old blue coverlet (Aunt Martha) believed to have been made by Grandmother Jones in 1870.

The dining room was an afterthought that proved to be a treasure trove of salable items—old candlesticks, Madeira cloth, Staffordshire bibelots, cut glass, porcelain, silver. Staffordshire is still being made from old molds so it is a good idea to jot down all information about it so that it may be convincingly sold.

She was sentimental about family pictures and handmade quilts and linens, but she would have no qualms about selling other family hand-me downs. If she did want to sell the family handcrafts, it is a good time, she was told.

The little diary can be especially helpful if someone must be hired to dispose of household effects. Some people make a profession of pricing and selling household items on a commission basis, but they aren't always the best-informed people.

One widowed man went to Europe while household effects were being sold from a house he had owned. Experienced shoppers were amazed that some valuable old things were priced ridiculously low, and some ordinary fairly new objects were priced so high they wouldn't sell. The man had turned the keys over without any instructions. Equipped with a book and the background of some of the items, the people running the sale could have more accurately assessed the contents of the house, and the man would have realized far more from the sale.

This Year Is Anniversary Of Home Economics

CHICAGO (UPI)—Somebody should bake a cake, for this is the 100th anniversary of an important event in the development of home economics.

The first formal instruction in home economics at the college level was given at Iowa State University in 1872.

There now are more than 400 institutions granting degrees in home economics.

In 1821, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, Emma Willard began the teaching of "household arts" in the Troy Female Seminary, Troy, N.Y.

This was one of the first steps in the then-revolutionary concept of classroom instruction in one of mankind's most basic activities—management of a home.

As a profession, home economics has about 27,000 practitioners in the United States, most of whom are engaged in teaching, particularly at the high school level.

'Playful' Call Ends With A Shooting

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: By coincidence, a woman named Bonnie has a phone number similar to ours, and I keep getting calls for her. My wife works nights and I am home alone in the evening so I started having a little fun when people would call up asking for Bonnie.

One night last week a guy called for Bonnie and I said she was in the shower but she'd be out in a minute. The guy on the other end of the phone said, "Well, I'm her husband and you'd better be out of that house before I get home or I'll blow your head off!" Then he hung up.

That evening on the TV news they reported a local shooting. It seemed a husband came home and found his wife with another guy so he shot him, and the guy was in critical condition. The husband admitted the shooting, and said he warned the guy on the phone to get out of his house.

Bonnie's name and address were in the evening newspaper, so I looked it up in the phone book and the number was the same as ours—only the last two numbers were reversed!

Now this has taught me a good lesson, but here's my question: Should I confess this phone bit to the authorities? STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

DEAR CON: Whether it will make a difference to the authorities to learn that the husband thought he had given the victim fair warning is anybody's guess. But in matters that deal with the law, tell your story to a lawyer and let HIM handle it. This is no laughing matter.

DEAR ABBY: When one child in the family gets a birthday present, should the other child get a present, too? Many parents do this so the other child won't feel hurt, left out, or jealous.

It seems to me that this teaches a child to expect a present whenever someone else in the family gets one, and if he doesn't he is very disappointed.

What is your view? FORT BENNING MOM

DEAR MOM: It's thoughtful to take a little gift to the other child, but it should be only a token. Children need to learn how to stand on the sidelines while a sibling has the limelight on HIS special day. Each child will have his turn, and if he must share his "special day," it ceases to be "special."

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a woman who was concerned about a 14-year-old girl who wanted the Pill.

I agree with your advice that the girl obviously needed some counseling. However, I can't believe that you have not been informed about Family Planning clinics or Planned Parenthood, who offer help to any person of childbearing age without requiring legal residence or discriminating as to race, religion, national origin, maternity, or marital status. Services are given free to those who cannot pay.

In the future, please urge your readers with questions about the Pill or other contraceptives to contact their local Family Planning clinic for the professional help they need, whether it be counseling or supplies.

If more persons would use these facilities available to them, there would be more planned babies with a welcome place in this world and less unwanted babies with small chances for a happy future. STEADY READER: SEATTLE

DEAR READER: And I can't believe that a "steady reader" has not noticed my frequent references to Planned Parenthood and Family Planning clinics. I mention them so often, I've been accused of being on their payroll!

DEAR ABBY: I am a singer and have been told by many that I should sing professionally, but I prefer to remain an amateur because I have family obligations, which I consider more important than a career.

Recently I was invited to sing for a local civic club. I rehearsed many hours on a well-planned program and presented it from memory perfectly. [I accompanied myself on the piano.] Afterwards, I received no gift, nor memento for my performance, nor did I receive as much as a "thank you" note from the organization. Furthermore, when the event was reported in the newspaper, my name was omitted.

I have found that this has happened to many musicians who have been asked to play for civic and social organizations. It's even happened when musicians are asked to play or sing at weddings and funerals.

Why are people and reporters so thoughtless? NEVER SING AGAIN

DEAR NEVER: I don't know, but I'm sure your complaint is valid because I have heard it often.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69769, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Possessions Tip Off Secret Life And Self-Image Of People

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Who drives a chrome-heavy, bright red convertible?

An insecure, aggressive or defensive person is behind the wheel, according to Dr. Jean Rosenbaum, author of "Is Your Volkswagen A Sex Symbol?" The "Bug" driver, on the other hand, is concerned about economics, ecology and creativity.

Dr. Rosenbaum suggests that the automobile a person drives is a very real indicator of his self-image.

"Of course, one item alone doesn't tell much about an individual," he said in an interview here. "But in combination with other things—his home, habits, appearance and his pets—it tips off the secret life and self-image of every person."

The Colorado psychiatrist, who received degrees from Wayne State University and was resident psychiatrist at Detroit Receiving Hospital, approaches this glimpse of personal psychology with humor but feels it is a serious problem.

"What a person is saying with his manners and possessions is 'I am my house, my clothes, my car and my pets. Don't look at me, I don't mean anything. I have no problems,'" Rosenbaum explained. "The humorous look at these symptoms seems to 'unthreaten' people who read the book.

"They can be curious. On television and radio talk shows, I'm often asked to draw 'habigrams' of individuals. People sit up and pay attention for it explains problems they have with sex, personalities and personal lives," he said.

The psychoanalyst says he is happy his book has been so successful.

"Now I'll be able to sell other, deeper, more serious books I've written."

With his pretty brunette wife, Veryl, also a psychoanalyst, Rosenbaum has written another, quite different book, "The Psychiatrist's Cook Book." It features specialties such as Mother's Milk Soup, Sensuous Shrimp and Sex Sauce.

The Rosenbaum sons are 9, 11, 14 and 15.

"They tell people who ask what their parents do that psychoanalysts are doctors helping people who have problems with their heart. We like that explanation," Dr. Veryl Rosenbaum said.

Their patients—they share a practice—may choose either doctor. If they don't relate to one, they may change to the other.

"We tell people that we were unhappy, neurotic people in our childhood. If we can become well adjusted, loving people and discuss our own problems openly, so can they," Rosenbaum added.

"There is more psychology in the kitchen at our house than most people get on the couch in a large city. People come from New York or Los Angeles and stay with us for three to six months. We have a mixed practice made up primarily of adolescents.

"Sometimes the kids get a job, giving them autonomy from their parents. There's a college nearby, so some go to school. If we do good work, these kids are our best references. Their friends say, 'What happened to you? You look great,'" he said.

In 17 years of practice as psychoanalysts, the doctors have seen many changes.

At first, young people had sexual problems. The sex revolution has removed most of those, Dr. Jean Rosenbaum said.

"Then came identity problems. The changing value system and fading family were things they could not relate to or put together themselves.

Teens shifted to aggression, became bombmakers, joined communes, got involved in drugs. I believe this is fading," he added.

"Now adolescents are coming to us with problems about love.

I view this as a growth process. Without love, life isn't worthwhile to these young people. This is very, very healthy, for all of us."

Rosenbaum said he is now beginning to treat older people for the first time.

"Psychiatry used to write them off because they were old," he said. "Now, we treat them because we feel everyone should make the best of his or her life."

The success of his humorous look at habits, now in its fifth printing and a book club selection, is gratifying to Rosenbaum.

"For years, I wrote poetry ... a poem a day. But that's published in speciality magazines, and nobody reads those except other poets. Now I write the poem in my mind and channel my writing in other directions."

Holidays Bring Around Phony Perfume Gyp

NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas season is the time some bargain hunters get led around by the nose.

It's the phony perfume racket spotted by Better Business Bureaus around the country each yule. The phony perfume gyp also shows up around Mothers Day and Easter.

Many vendors operate from sidewalk stalls. They rebottle toilet water or cologne in small containers and sell these fragrances as perfumes at $1 a bottle. This means that you are paying $1 for about 15 cents worth of toilet water or cologne.

Other promoters bottle phony fragrances in bottles marked with various initials—"A" for Arpege, "WS" for White Shoulders, "C-5" for Chanel No. 5—and again sell for $1 for a tiny bottle. Most likely you're getting scented alcohol.

Some promoters sell fragrances in bottles marked as high as $18.50—for 70 cents a bottle. The so-called original price is a phony, of course.

How to avoid such gyps? Buy from a reputable merchant.

Hextraordinary Justice For Her

Extraordinary LONDON (WNS) — Marion Unsworth, 25-year-old mother and witch, was given suspended six-month sentence for breaking into a church and stealing a cross and candlesticks. "I knew the judge would let me go," said Mrs. Unsworth. "My cat Tiger, whom I brought to court, had a lot to do with it." She promptly held a meeting of her coven, which decreed that she must sit alone in a circle on a desolate hill top. Her husband, truck-driver who refuses to join the cult, agreed to take care of their two children while she is gone.

1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix brown sugar, nuts and flour together in a large bowl. Stir in the butter and mix with your hands until crumbly. Remove 1 cup of the mixture to be used later as a topping. Place remainder in an 8-inch square pan and press firmly.

Bake at 350 degrees for about 12 to 15 minutes. Beat cream cheese until smooth with the granulated sugar. Beat in the egg, lemon juice, cream and vanilla. Pour this onto the baked crust. Top with the reserved crumbs. Return to a 350-degree oven and bake for about 25 minutes. Cool thoroughly, then cut into two-inch squares. These can be baked the day before serving. Cover with plastic wrap and keep refrigerated. Makes 16 cookies.

Perhaps Public Is Fed Up, Too

In a recent tragic weekend two law officers were killed in North Carolina as they attempted to carry out their duties.

State Trooper L. T. Walton was shot several times after he apparently halted a speeding car. Charles H. Lee, a Clayton Officer, was shot and killed while he investigated a possible motor vehicle law violation.

After the tragic weekend, the question arises as to how to stem the tide of wanton killings of police officers.

Highway Patrol Commander Edwin C. Guy does not see a very bright future. He predicts more murders of officers until society "stops focussing its sympathy on lawbreakers instead of victims."

Speaking of the trooper's death Guy said, "Slayings such as this will continue just as bank robberies will continue. Studies have shown that one patrolman is in a more dangerous position when alone than with two officers in a car."

"Just last week, they came in here interviewing me about commuting and paroling a man convicted of killing two troopers a few years back," he recalled.

We have no doubt that Col. Guy spoke for most officers in his sentiments. He also might not quite have captured the mood of the public. We think the majority of our citizens is tired of reading about police officers being gunned down as they make routine motor vehicle checks. And when the public loses its patience, we can expect to see sterner treatment of culprits in such cases.

Like most citizens, we would expect individual rights to be protected, but once a defendant is convicted of murdering a police officer there should be no leniency on the part of the courts or paroles board.

A New GOP Chairman Free Of Involvement

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole has resigned and he will be replaced by George Bush of Texas.

That was the announcement from Washington Monday.

Thus we see another of the changes which have been characteristic of the first few weeks following the re-election of President Nixon.

It is possible that the Watergate incident is a matter of concern to the Republicans. It may be felt that a new party chairman could be the best way to avoid future embarrassment.

Sadat May Pay Suicidal Price

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CAIRO — Secret studies here calculate that a crossing of the Suez Canal or a landing on the north coast of Israeli-occupied Sinai cost 10,000 military and civilian Arab casualties in its initial phase.

Nevertheless, despite the cost in terms of an Israeli retaliation, some Egyptian leaders regard the price as worth paying if the attack could damage Israel.

Thus, what is contemplated is not a dash across the canal and back—clearly within Egyptian capability—but a coordinated assault to seize a Sinai bridgehead and displace what would almost surely be one-way suicidal air attacks on Israel proper.

All objective evidence powerfully agrees that the result of such desperate military action would be catastrophic for Egypt. Facing the most highly motivated and skilled military machine of its size in the world, the Egyptians would risk awful retribution with no likelihood of Soviet intervention and little prospect of a diplomatic bailout by the Americans.

Arab leaders from Libya to Syria would shake their fists at Israel, but all are trapped in military impotence.

The result, then, could be destruction of the substantial military equipment accumulated here from the 1967 war and a quantum jump in Israel's hegemony in the Middle East.

Yet, the planning goes forward, even though the Egyptian army apparently is engaging in no army maneuvers above the brigade level and Moscow is reluctant to provide even such vital military equipment as spare parts.

The reason the planning goes forward is President Anwar Sadat's undeniable political bankruptcy, together with his inability to develop any coherent policy. That inability has been heavily underscored by U. S. failure to follow up Sadat's concession to Israel.

Egyptians now know what many suspected after President Nasser's death in 1970. Nasser's leadership of the nationalist Arab world and his rhetorical brilliance as an expounder of Koranic symbols which evoked the essence of Islam were replaced by a pedestrian and unimaginative successor incapable of playing the fastest game in the world from a position of proven weakness.

As one leading Egyptian told us: "Sadat is standing under the tree with his hat open waiting for the fruit to drop in. He does not understand that the fruit has not even ripened."

Unmistakable signs are multiplying that not only is Sadat losing the confidence of his people but also that some

Frank Crane Is Set To Retire

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — There are times in life when destiny seems to turn on something as simple as a straight furrow or a tossed coin.

Both incidents had a part in the career of Frank Crane, a rangy Union County farm boy who first saw Raleigh with his high school championship basketball team and later returned to spend 38 years in the state labor department.

It's funny how little things can be so important when you look back on them," Crane mused recently. He paused in clearing the pack-rat-accumulation from the corner office of the Labor Building on the north side of Capitol Square.

He put in nearly two decades at the big desk as North Carolina's Commissioner of Labor.

They were years of challenge and transition. The state moved from a rural to an industrial economy. Factory employment expanded and earnings for workers rose dramatically. North Carolina enacted the South's first minimum wage law, now up to the federal level. It earned national recognition for industrial safety, and steered a course of harmony in labor relations.

Threshold Of Retirement Amiable and vigorous at 65, Crane will step into retirement on Jan. 5 when W. C. (Billy) Creel, a co-worker elected his successor, takes the oath of office.

Relief and some regret will go along with the change, Crane conceded. Phasing out, he is preparing himself for the adjustment to routine that retirement will bring.

"I'm making no firm plans except to retire and work hard at it," he said. "I may get cabin fever, but I'm going to sort of let matters evolve."

That will leave the way open for fate to take a hand, as it seemed to do when he graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

In 1931, Depression lay on the land and every job had a surplus of applicants. Crane went to Davidson County where Welcome High School had an opening for a teacher and coach.

The principal took him to see the school board chairman, a crusty farmer who was plowing cotton. The chairman, unimpressed with a green graduate, said a dozen others with experience were after the job. Plowing Won Job

On impulse, Crane took over the plow and turned a neat furrow down the field and back. The farmer smiled. Crane was hired.

"I'm certain that bit of plowing got me the job," he recalled.

A few years later, he joined the state labor department under Commissioner Forrest H. Shuford. That he'd succeed the boss looked like a distant prospect.

Chance intervened. Shuford died in June, 1954. Gov. William B. Umstead said he would fill the vacancy with a career appointment. Lewis Sorrel, deputy commissioner, and Crane were the ranking prospects. They flipped a coin, and Crane won.

Sorrel stayed on as a loyal second in command. He retires Dec. 31, less than a week ahead of Crane.

New Team Captain

Creel, the incoming commissioner, also trained as a member of the Shuford team. His experience with the department covers 30 years.

Shuford was like a good coach, able to assemble a capable group and motivate them to the tasks, Crane said. "Commissioner Shuford was a very inspirational man," he added.

Crane is confident the department will function smoothly through the transition. While he may look in from time to time, he won't look over anybody's shoulder, he promised.

When he went to work for state government, Tar Heel per capita income stood at a rock-bottom low of $187 per year. For 1971, the figure was $3,424.

"It's almost incredible the economic progress we have made," Crane noted. That doesn't mean there isn't further to go; the state remains far below the national figure, and must seek a better industrial mix to continue its growth, he said.

Over the years, North Carolina has shifted from a farm to an industrial economic base. Sixty per cent of the state's labor force was engaged in agriculture when Crane joined the department, and only 40 per cent were in manufacturing, service industries and retail trade. Today, 88 per cent is in manufacturing, service and trade, and only 12 per cent in farming.

Employers and employees have maintained generally cordial relations through the period, Crane observed. He gives the credit to the character of the Tar Heel worker. "It's a trite expression, but it's true that our people believe in giving a day's work for a day's pay," he said.

But Don't Call It Pot

WASHINGTON — Drug hearings are being held in Washington this week. Several doctors have testified that many of the drugs sold over the counter are useless and in some cases harmful. Those billions the American public spends on patent medicine remedies, according to testimony, are just thrown down the drain.

Malcolm Ruddemaker, a friend (attention all Narc agents — I made up his name so don't ask me to reveal who he is before a grand jury), told me, "The trouble with pot is that it was introduced to the American public under the wrong auspices. The counterculture thought they could go it alone, and in so doing they brought down the wrath of the courts and the legislators on their heads."

the middleman. When you do that in the United States you are in for a lot of trouble."

"Because of the counterculture's suspicion of big business they tried to cut out

Other Editors Say To Save Your Life

(Rocky Mount Telegram) Some real changes have been made and more are coming in the design and construction of autos that are of the utmost personal significance to everyone who drives or rides in a car.

Specifically, these changes—some put in by industry initiative and others by government order—could save your life in the event that you are involved in an auto accident.

As the head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has put it, within a few years it may be "extremely difficult to kill yourself in a car." That is typical bureaucratic overstatement, of course, but even a reduction in our present annual traffic death rate would be significant progress.

Even so, in more and more instances, people walk away from or at least live through, highway crashes that would have been fatal just a few years ago.

The safety devices now protecting motorists lives start with a seat belt to hold you in the car where other safety devices can be built in to protect you.

Some of the new design features include the antiburst latch that helps hold doors shut, windshield shields that bend but do not shatter, dash panels that bend to absorb impact (usually with your head), cushioned steering wheels and energy absorbing steering columns.

There are also seats with head supports to reduce neck and spine injuries (whiplash) in low-speed, rear-end collisions.

National Safety Council figures show that between 1969 and the end of 1971, with nine million new drivers on the roads and highways, the number of accidents rose six per cent, but deaths to people inside cars dropped 7.5 per cent.

As interest mounts and cost and structural design problems are studied, it isn't likely that the need for driver common sense and courtesy will ever be eliminated.

But there is no doubt that the family car is getting safer and that is good news for all of us who have to get from here to there on the nation's highways. Perhaps, after that, attention will be turned to redesigning safer drivers so that they will take advantage of safer cars.

Cliches Aren't All Bad

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Let's take a little time off from Christmas shopping to play a game. It's the cliché game — a good one because it prepares us for life.

For where would we be without clichés, except tongue-tied? They seem to be as necessary to the educated as the uneducated man. They enable us to make conversation without really thinking.

Here's how you play the game: One player asks a question that has to be answered by a recognizable cliché. The one who can come up with the most clichés is the winner, whether he regards it as an honor or not.

To get the ball rolling — nothing like starting with a good cliché — here are a few examples that ought to give you food for thought — oops, there's another one.

"What kind of a spectacle was it?" It was a sordid spectacle.

"How pure was her character?" It was as pure as the driven snow.

"It was, that is, before what happened?" Before she drifted.

"Well, what is your own character above?" It is above reproach.

"You say it was a cute sight to see. Tell me, just how cute was it?" I'd say it was as cute as a speckled pup on a red wagon.

"What is a little knowledge?" It is better than none. "No dummy, you goofed that one. What is a little knowledge?" A little knowledge is a dangerous thing. "That's better — let's don't fall asleep on our feet."

"Is talk very expensive?" No, sir, talk is cheap.

"Where do you think would be a good place to put my mon- (Continued on page 5)

With Christmas less than two weeks away, Greenville merchants were busy today putting into place last minute shipments of toys and gifts that go to make the Yuletide season complete. Virtually all leading stores have been decorated in keeping with the spirit of the year. Strength For Today

THE LITTLE THINGS
Many years ago Kipling wrote these words:
"If drunk with sight of power we lose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe;
Such boasting as the Gentiles use
And lesser breeds without the law,
us yet.
Less we forget, lest we forget."
Many years ago a man forgot to renew his fire insurance on his place of business. The building burned down and the rest of his life this man's life was lived in straitened circumstances.
We may have forgotten to say "thank you" and someone who might have been a pleasant and useful friend became a disdainful enemy.
The disposition to forget matters of importance is a prevalent human failing. Forgetfulness is a type of

Money Problems In Affluence

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — As Americans become more affluent they are confronted with a greater number of decisions about what to do with their money: spend it, save it, invest it, lend it. Where, when, why, how?
Insurers, brokers, bankers and others would love to supply the answers, because to the man with the answers goes the business. Few insurance agents, however, are expert in banking; few bankers are authorities on stocks.
The ordinary American with a little extra money and a lot of questions has, therefore, to search about for answers and then, somewhat futilely, hope he can integrate them into a meaningful, logical financial program.
But some headway is being made. A few brokerage houses now are looking toward the day when their personnel will be taken off commissions and greatly upgraded in skills so that they will be able to serve as financial advisers.
Insurance companies too foresee the day when the agent might fulfill that role. And some lawyers seek to be such broadly skilled professionals, although people of such abilities usually can find wealthier clients.
Perhaps the response with the greatest potential emanates from the commercial banks, many of which advertise themselves as "full service" banks and some of which offer 40 or more different services.
Some of these now are going in for the personal banking concept. As one, the United Bank of Denver, a pioneer, states:
"You have a personal physician, a personal attorney, maybe a personal stockbroker. Now you can have a personal banker."
This is good news for the customer, who is often shunted from one department to another in large commercial banks.
At United — and at Harris Bank & Trust, Chicago, and at North Carolina's largest, the Wachovia Bank, among others — a customer may be assigned his own banker, and it is this person to whom he goes with business of any kind.
The personal banker has undergone a training program and, while not an expert in all areas of finance, has some understanding of them and knows who in the bank to ask for specialized advice. And, of course, he knows the customer's financial condition and goals.
The program, while helping the customer, is paying immediate dividends for the banks, too.
United Bank, for example, found that personal checking accounts rose 18.5 per cent just a year after it began its program in January 1970, but it measures even more benefits in the form of good will, payable in the future.
Other banks have been so fascinated by the concept that United Bank now runs conferences for other banks considering the switch.
The obvious danger to the concept's future is that the personal banker might tend to view the customer as a prospect for the bank's many services rather than as a client to be aided — that he will emphasize sales at the expense of service.
This, as many Americans have learned, is the weakness and even the conflict in many broker-customer and agent-customer relationships.

Pentagon Papers Jury Dismissed

By LINDA DEUTSCH
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury which waited four months to hear the Pentagon papers case has been dismissed and selection of a new panel already has been delayed.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne dismissed the jury Tuesday and said he would consider new defense motions challenging the potential panel that will be picked to hear the case.

Byrne set Friday as the final day for attorneys to file motions and expressed hope selection of a new panel would start next week.

The 12 jurors and six alternates chosen last July had waited while the defense appealed a wiretap matter to higher courts. They were discharged after the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that it would be "foolish" to keep a jury sworn four months ago.

Defendants Daniel Ellsberg, 41, and Anthony Russo, 35, both former researchers on government projects, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the leak to news media of the top secret documents detailing origins of the Vietnam war.

Both chatted with jurors after their dismissal and said many expressed annoyance with the defense for repeated delays. The two said they now felt their move to replace the panel was wise.

As Byrne moved to dismiss the panel, juror William Abata said in an unexpected, emotional speech, to the court that there were ill feelings among jury members about the dismissal.

"... People had plans they were going to make," Abata said, "and now they're all goofed up and messed up." Although all jurors swore they were still impartial, Abata said some were angered by the repeated delays which they felt were "caused by the defense."

Ellsberg later told the jurors that he feared their anger at delays in the trial might influence their verdict against the defendants.

"Just because I'm angry at you doesn't mean I'd find you guilty," Abata told Ellsberg.

ey?" Where your mouth is. "What, above all, must we always be able to tell?" We must be able to tell the forest from the trees.

"What is handsome?" Handsome is as handsome does.

"When our hostess serves us an exceptionally good dinner, what is it we tell her she must have done?" We tell her she must have put the big pot in the little one to come up with a meal like that.

"What is a left-handed baseball pitcher?" He's a southpaw. "Well, then, what is a northpaw?" You're just trying to mix me up now. There isn't any such thing as a northpaw. A right-handed pitcher is simply a right-handed pitcher.

other Arab states are becoming hesitant about dealing with Egypt. They doubt Sadat's staying power and question his judgment. Working in his behalf is the invisibility of any ambitious competitor wanting his job. Steering Egypt to an acceptable settlement with Israel borders on the hopeless and everyone knows it.

But that has not stopped the slow, dangerous hemorrhage of support for Sadat throughout Egypt. Student discontent is rife, although still undirected. The government has raised starting college graduate salaries in the bureaucracy by 25 per cent, but that does not touch the deeper malaise of a loss of national spirit. Police security has tightened, always a sign of unease, and the government has had to deal publicly with an outbreak of religious violence by Moslems against Christian Coptics (close to 20 per cent of the population).

To prevent political strangulation under the weight of these disabilities, Sadat will either get a settlement of the Sinai problem—highly unlikely—or act the desperado escaping certain death. Under public ridicule from Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, he cannot go on spending nearly one-fourth of his budget preparing for war, while his population soars and the economy barely maintains forward motion without showing something for it.

The Arab "fronts" against Israel are quieter today than at any time since 1967, but unless the U. S. persuades Israel to give Sadat a face-saving settlement, the Egyptian front will soon be ripe for exploding at terrible cost to Cairo. More important, the cost to U. S. standing in the Arab world for years to come would be incalculable.

asked Ruddemaker. "In a flash — with a multimillion dollar media campaign to back it up," he replied.

"But wouldn't the government stop them from making it?" I asked.

"Are you kidding? The government is not going to mess around with a big legitimate drug company that has friends in the Senate, the House and the White House.

"Besides other companies would bring out their own versions of Relax-A-Lot and then the government would have to deal with the drug lobby as well. You're taking about big political campaign contributions now."

"I hadn't thought of that. If only the kids had used their heads they wouldn't be in all this trouble about pot."

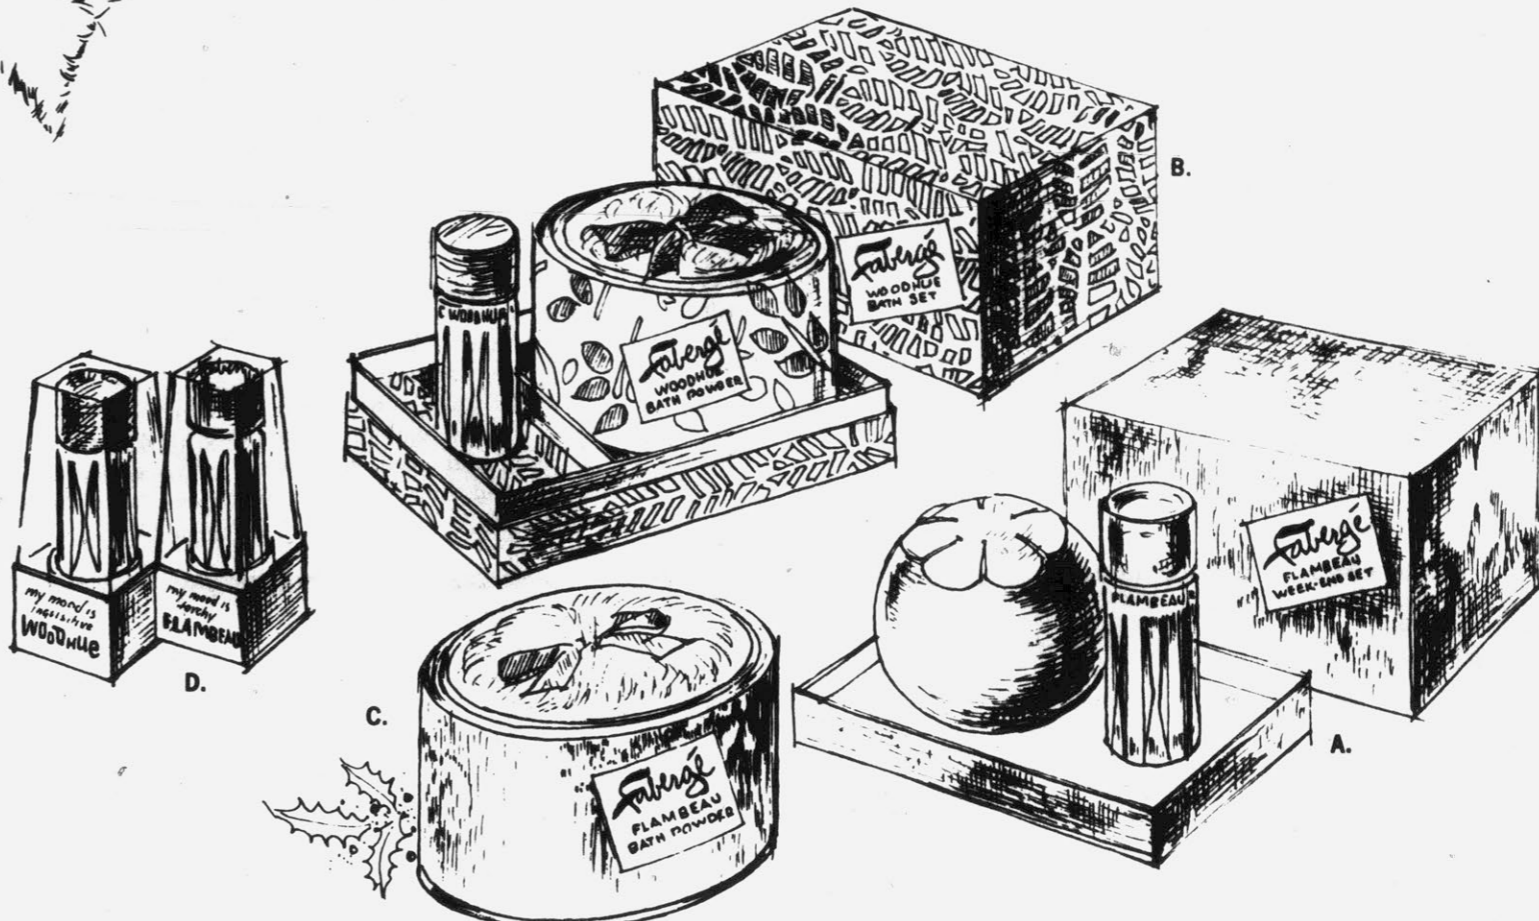

"It's never too late," Ruddemaker said. "I think the kids should turn over all their pot rights to the drug industry and say, 'You guys market it. We'd like to get out of sales.' In no time the American people who are fighting marijuana use would be lining up at drug counters all over the country screaming for fast, fast relief."

The town Christmas tree has been put up on the municipal lot and has been decorated by the town crew. The 30-foot cedar tree was donated to the town by John Grimsley Weathington. The town board has hired William Callicutt, a student at Pitt Technical Institute majoring in police science, to serve as a part time policeman. The 19-year-old Grifton native formerly worked as an auxiliary policeman in Grifton and with the Friton Juvenile Club. He is marred.

The Winterville office will observe Monday and Tuesday as Christmas holidays. The office will close Saturday noon before Christmas and reopen Wednesday morning, Dec. 27. The town employees will not receive Christmas bonuses.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles announced that the 1973 town tags will be delivered late this year. Nobles also announced that this month is the last month that 1972 taxes can be paid without a penalty. Beginning January, a two percent penalty will be added to delinquent taxes.

Judge Herbert O. Phillips sentenced Gary Dickens of 1200 Farmville Blvd. to 60 days in jail, then ordered the sentence suspended on condition Dickens pay $25 fine and costs and observe 9 p.m. curfew during a year's probationary period.

Dickens was charged with assaulting Police Sgt. E. E. Laughinghouse with an iron pipe on West Fifth Street about 6:15 p.m. December 6.

Mob violence in the West Fifth Street area that night resulted in at least 13 persons being injured and more than four dozen vehicles damaged by rocks, bottles and other missiles thrown by blacks.

$30 Million Drug Lawsuit By N.C. Still Far From Settled

RALEIGH (AP)—A $30 million lawsuit the state of North Carolina brought against five drug manufacturers is far from settled although litigation has been under way nearly four years.

The case dates back to January, 1969, when Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan joined 43 other states and numerous other plaintiffs in suing the drug companies for alleged price fixing in the sale of antibiotics.

A few months later, the companies offered a $130 million settlement which was accepted by all but seven states. North Carolina, which would have received $2.1 million under the settlement, and the other six states decided to seek a bigger settlement.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy indicated that "massive and complex" pre-trial issues are still before the U.S. District Court in Minneapolis where all the cases have been referred for trial.

Benoy said he could not even guess when the actual trial might get underway. The plaintiffs, in addition to North Carolina, number 65, including the six states, the U.S. government, the governments of the Philippines and South Vietnam, and a number of hospitals and individual consumers.

Most of the issues have now been decided against the companies, but in several instances not before they went before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Judge Lord, is still on the case; the correspondence between the drug firms has been made available to the plaintiffs; and the patent examiner will testify in the case.

Benoy revealed he had filed a brief recently on behalf of North Carolina consumers and state agencies asking for $30 million in damages. Under the federal anti-trust law, that damage figure would be tripled if a jury finds the damages have amounted to that much.

The complaint in the case alleges that the drug firms conspired to set the prices on antibiotics at approximately 50 times their manufacturing cost.

No Tear Gas Is Permitted

Individuals or firms possessing or selling tear gas may be in violation of North Carolina law, Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon warned today.

It is unlawful, the chief emphasized, for any person, firm or association to "possess, use, store, sell or transport any form of what is generally known as 'tear gas' or any container or device for holding or releasing such gas."

According to Cannon, persons or firms violating provisions of the state law are subject to arrest and upon conviction in court could receive a fine of up to $500 or imprisonment for up to six months or both.

The possession and use of "tear gas" Chief Cannon emphasized, is restricted by law in North Carolina to the armed services of the United States, the North Carolina National Guard, or to other governmental or municipal and state peace officers.

In addition, the general statute allows use of tear gas for bona fide, scientific, education or industrial purposes, or for use in safes, vaults, and depositories as a means of protection against robbery.

According to the chief, local law enforcement officers will enforce the state statute (GS 14-401.6).

No Longer Easy On Shoplifters

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A department store security manager says merchants no longer are willing to go easy on shoplifters, "the trend today is 100 per cent prosecution."

Jack L. Moore of the Belk store in downtown Charlotte added in a pre-Christmas shopping season interview, "Our slogan is 'Weep for the Innocent,' the honest consumers who must bear the cost of stolen goods."

He said the loss can't come out of the profits, or the business would go bankrupt.

Trio Announced To Head Area Key 73

Two Greenville men and one from Williamston will head the Key 73 movement in this area.

The Rev. Bobby G. Bazen of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church will serve as chairman. He will be assisted by the Rev. Gerald Peterson, of St. James United Methodist Church, Greenville, secretary-treasurer, and the Rev. Alfred L. Daye, of Mt. Shilo Baptist Church, Williamston, vice chairman.

Special emphasis will be used included massive national television programs. On Jan. 6, "Faith In Action" will appear on Channel 9-TV, Greenville.

In most towns, churches will be cooperating in a "noon prayer call" for two weeks between Christmas and the beginning of the new year. Individual churches are studying the "key" to Luke as a mutual basis for the effort.

Churches interested in participation may contact one of the pastors listed.

End Tyranny Ayden Board Set January 8 Exercises

NORTH OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Freedom returned to North Ogden Junior High School today after more than two days of "totalitarian" rule by the army of the mythical foreign power of Triangula.

Armed guards and military tribunals held the school since Monday morning in an experiment in the feelings of tyranny staged by U.S. Army Reserve volunteers who took over the school at the request of Principal Carl C. DeYoung.

DeYoung called a halt to the exercise today with a "patriotic assembly" to which parents were invited to share reactions of pupils to life without freedom.

Lines of students outside a "military courtroom" set up by the Triangulians, who were volunteers of the 683rd Artillery Unit of the U.S. Army Reserves, were full of "subversives" Tuesday.

"I'm here because they caught me carrying an American flag," said Jackie Beringer, 14, who was soon hustled off to face punishment, which usually consisted of being assigned to a cleanup detail.

DeYoung said he imposed "martial law" to teach students more respect for the flag and appreciation for freedom.

DeYoung said there were complaints from about three parents who felt the program should not go on or their children should not be in it. So arrangements were made "for five or six of the 830 students in the school" to have regular teachers and classes as usual.

AYDEN — The Ayden Board of Commissioners Monday night set Jan. 8 as the date for three public hearings.

Two of the hearings will involve rezoning of properties while the third hearing will be for special uses within districts.

The hearings were recommended by the Ayden planning and Zoning Board.

It was announced that the town of Ayden had received $30,941 from the first payment of the revenue-sharing fund.

The board passed an ordinance establishing a trust fund for the money under the state and local fiscal act of 1972. The ordinance also authorizes Town Manager Don Russell to invest the money in deposits and/or until needed.

Plans for spending the money will be discussed at a later meeting when the Town manager and the board of commissioners decide what the money should be used for.

Carl Speight was sworn by Judge Robert Wheeler to fill the unexpired term of Rex Smith as commissioner of the first ward. Smith has relocated outside corporate limits.

The board passed resolutions commending Smith for his service as commissioner. The board also passed a resolution for Clifton Dennis who retired after serving with the Ayden Police Department for more than 20 years.

The board rejected bids on a 1969 surplus police vehicle. The board felt the bids were too low.

The board will readvertise the vehicle for sale at a later date.

Honor Work Of Rev. Cherry

The Rev. Floyd B. Cherry of Wilson was honored last Wednesday during Founders Day ceremonies at Mount Olive College for his service as a member of the College's Board of Trustees from 1963 to 1971.

Rev. Cherry was pastor of Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church near here for 20 years and is now pastor of Daniels Chapel Free Will Baptist Church near Wilson and is president of the Free Will Baptist State Convention.

Board members endorsed a resolution calling for the expansion of the East Carolina University medical school.

The town office will be closed for Christmas Friday, Dec. 22 from 5 p.m. until Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. It was also decided that Christmas bonuses will be given to the town employees.

The board authorized Don Russell to pay James Pridgen, a former police officer in Ayden, for the time he spent in court on cases brought up after he no longer worked with the police department.

The world's first parking meter was built by three Oklahoma men and installed in Oklahoma City in 1935.

Moye Elected To 3-Year Term As Supervisor

Moses W. Moye of Farmville, was elected to a three-year term as a Pitt soil supervisor in an election held Friday.

Moye will begin his term of office when he takes the oath on January.

He will serve with Robert G. Little of Grimesland, F. Curtis Martin of Bethel, Truman Haddock of Rt. 2, Ayden and Ralph C. Tucker of Rt. 3, Greenville.

Arrest For Bad Checks

Walker Levon Miles, 34 of Route 1, Chocowinity, one of two Greenville businessmen charged two weeks ago in U.S. Eastern District Court with failing to deposit employee withholding taxes, was arrested by Greenville Police officers yesterday on worthless check charges.

The warrants served yesterday charged Miles with giving worthless check in the amounts of $146,09, $102.54 and $500 to the North Carolina Department of Revenue in October.

In addition to the criminal charges sought against Miles and Phillip K. Flowers, president and vice-president of Tar Heel Home Supply Co. in federal court for their alleged failure to deposit more than $4,000 collected on October 13, 20 and 27 and on November 3, as required, a Federal Tax Lien for more than $12,800 was filed with the Clerk of Court in Pitt County November 16. The tax lien indicated that the Tar Heel Home Supply firm had failed to pay more than $12,800 in withholding tax—including social security and federal income withholding tax—for the period ending March 31, 1972.

According to the warrants served yesterday, Miles gave the N.C. Department of Revenue the alleged worthless checks on October 13 and October 16.

Two Wrecks On Tuesday

An estimated $2,300 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police department investigators.

Officers said heaviest damages resulted when vehicles driven by Roy Little 59, of 405 Bonners Lane and Susan Denise Thomas, 20, of High Point collided at the intersection of N.C. 43 and Brook Road.

Officers, who reported a passenger in the Little car was injured, placed damage at $1,000 to the Thomas car and $450 to the Little auto.

No charges were reported.

Robert Pearce Kepner, 21, of Springfield, Pa., was charged with exceeding a safe speed following investigation of a 4 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 250 feet West of the Rockspring Road intersection.

Officers said the Kepner auto collided with a vehicle operated by Norman George Harris Jr., 19, of Route 2, Henderson, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Harris car and about $450 damage to the Kepner car.

No injuries were reported in that mishap.

Virginia Dare on Aug. 18, 1587, at Roanoke Island, N.C., became the first English child born in America.

Anticipate Changes In N.C. Pollution Regulations

RALEIGH (AP) — Changes in federal anti-pollution laws are expected to bring some significant changes in North Carolina's air and water pollution regulatory system.

The federal law changes, effective Oct. 18, require North Carolina to make two changes in its system or face the possibility of federal takeover of its pollution abatement functions.

The federal law now says that states must set strict rules for the content of polluting discharges it allows to flow into waterways, and says that members of the permit-granting Board of Air and Water Resources must have no financial connection with any group holding a permit to discharge into the waterways.

Under present state law, the Board of Water and Air Resources may regulate the quality of stream water, but it has no control over the content of pollution discharges.

And, there are three members of the Board of Air and Water Resources who apparently are too closely connected with water discharge permit holders to pass the federal muster.

The attorney general's office has drafted legislation for the 1973 General Assembly which would permit the board to regulate the content of discharges into the waterways, satisfying the first new federal requirement.

The Environmental Protection Agency in Washington has said it plans to issue detailed guidelines about the conflict of interest regulations on December 18. These might clear up the present uncertainty regarding the membership ship of the Board of Water and Air Resources.

The law provides that, "No board which approves permit applications shall include as a member any person who receives a significant portion of his income indirectly from permit holders or applicants."

The membership of three persons who might be placed in jeopardy by this are P. Greer Johnson of Asheville, Raymond Talton of Raleigh and Owen R. Braugler of Greensboro.

Johnson is director of the Metropolitan Sewage District of Buncombe County, which holds permits to discharge treated sewage into the state's waterways. Talton is a vice president of Carolina Power — Light Co., which has discharge permits for several of its power plants, and Braugler is director of environmental health for Guilford County which also holds discharge permits.

An EPA spokesman in Washington, Michael Glen, said, "We do not want to engage in the permit issuing business. But if the state doesn't have a federally-approved program, EPA will be issuing permits for that state."

Glen said the December 18 guidelines are certain to hold to at least one restriction: "Members with a direct or indirect financial interest in a permit holder or applicant will be disqualified from sitting on the board. There's just no way around that."

Director George E. Pickett of the state's water and air resources department, was unavailable for comment Tuesday. Previously he had stated he did not feel there were any conflicts of interest on the board.

Failure to comply with the federal guidelines could result in a partial loss of federal water pollution control funds to the state and in a situation where both the state and federal governments claimed jurisdiction over pollution discharge permits in the state, Glen said.

A Humorous Look At School Desegregation

"Gone with the Trend", a light look at some unreal people who would have put Scarlett O'Hara in a whirlwind tizzy, is the final program in the series "Thursday's Child". This group of fourteen productions on school integration is shown on the University of North Carolina Television Network. Serious subjects respond pleasingly to the humorous touch as blacks meet whites with a view to school desegregation. The "cast of thousands" is narrowed down in this play to four capable performers who fill their varied roles with appealing zest. The four players are Ira David Wood III, Michael Donnell Connor, Deborah Tekosky, and Robin Lilly.

Wood turns unreal people into very real personalities as he does his bit for school integration in the roles of assistant principal, sports coach, teacher, and the redoubtable colonel whose fried chicken just can't be beat. Wood, a native of Enfield, North Carolina, is executive director of "Stage 73" in Raleigh.

Connor makes the school integration scene as principal, teacher, student, and faithless companion of the colonel. He is a student at Shaw University in Raleigh, with a long list of roles to his credit.

Deborah Tekosky, as assistant dietitian of the school, has an unbounded enthusiasm that makes the integrated menu sound utterly delectable. Miss Tekosky is a second year student at Shaw University with a major in Theatre Arts.

Robin Lilly plays the part of sweet and smiling Student Activities Chairman. She has host of exciting ideas, but no time to hear the request for a Senior Prom. Miss Lilly, now attending Enloe High School, in Raleigh, as appeared in a number of student productions.

Dr. Long Named To State Board

Dr. Thomas E. Long, director of the graduate program in clinical psychology at East Carolina University, has been appointed by Gov. Scott to the state Board of Examiners of Practicing Psychologists.

Dr. Long's term on the five-member board will run three years. The board is empowered to examine and license persons who engage in the practice of psychology in North Carolina.

Have Birds For Loaning

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — "While we're downtown," says the man to his kids, "let's stop at the library and check out some birds."

The birds, of the stuffed variety, are available on a regular library card at the Public Library. One can have them for a month, like a book. There are some small stuffed animals, too.

Lois Markey, the library director, says she has 300 to 400 of the creatures to check out. But she doesn't know where they came from.

"Many years ago, the city was given a collection known as the Goodhue Collection," she said. Most of it is catalogued and is on display in cases on the upper floor.

"In addition, we have some down in our stack area in the basement, which are not catalogued," she added. "We got them in some other fashion, and it is those birds and animals that we allow to circulate."

Who would want one?

"The first users were artists in several media," said Mrs. Markey, "oils, watercolor, woodcarvers, craftsmen of all kinds. They use them rather extensively."

Schoolteachers are another user group.

"Then, upon occasion, somebody just likes to have one," she explained, "a piece of decoration."

"The point of the series has been to show how real people are dealing with the everyday problems of integrated schools. The earlier programs, of course, have taken a serious approach, but racial integration is a human problem and there is a lot of humor in human situations. We felt that if people could laugh at themselves, it might be a short cut to solving some of the problems."

"Gone with the Trend" will be broadcast tonight at 7:30 p.m. on WUNK-TV, Channel 25.

Advise Food Stamp Usage

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Mecklenburg Social Service Board has recommended unanimously that the county switch to food stamps.

It now gives free surplus government food to poor people. The county commissioners will make the final decision.

The board's vote Tuesday was a switch from a year ago, when it decided to stick with the surplus commodities.

Board Chairman James F. Richardson said it now was believed that under federal regulations 2,000 extra persons could qualify for the stamps, which are redeemable at groceries for food worth more than the cost of the stamps. Sixteen thousand persons receive surplus commodities in the county.

Richardson also said food stamps would take the monotony out of the feeding program. "A lot of the people can't eat all the (surplus) food, especially the pork and the starches," he said.

Another board member said stamps would solve the problem of transportation to the warehouse.

Warming up: Joan Carney, No. 10, practices with the New York Fillies.

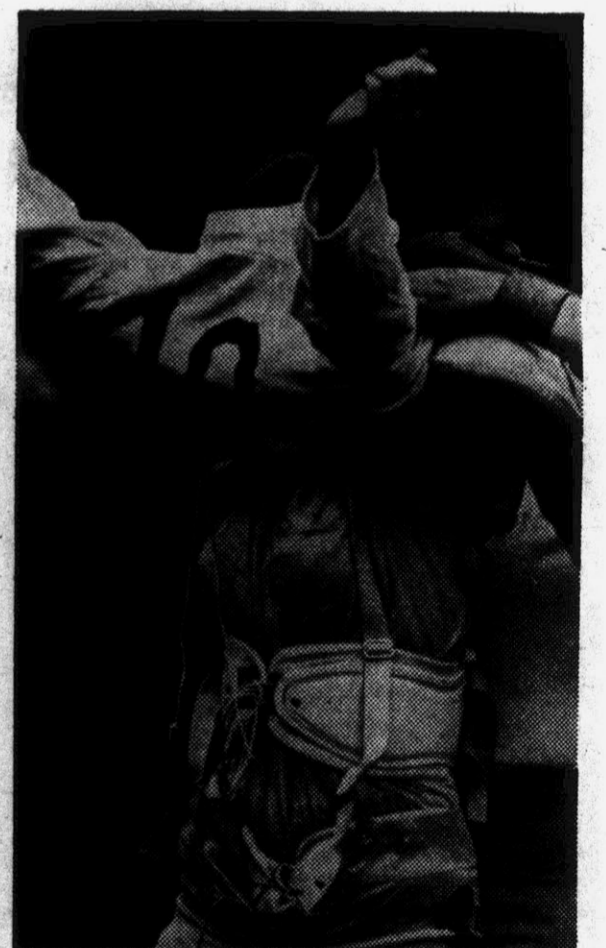

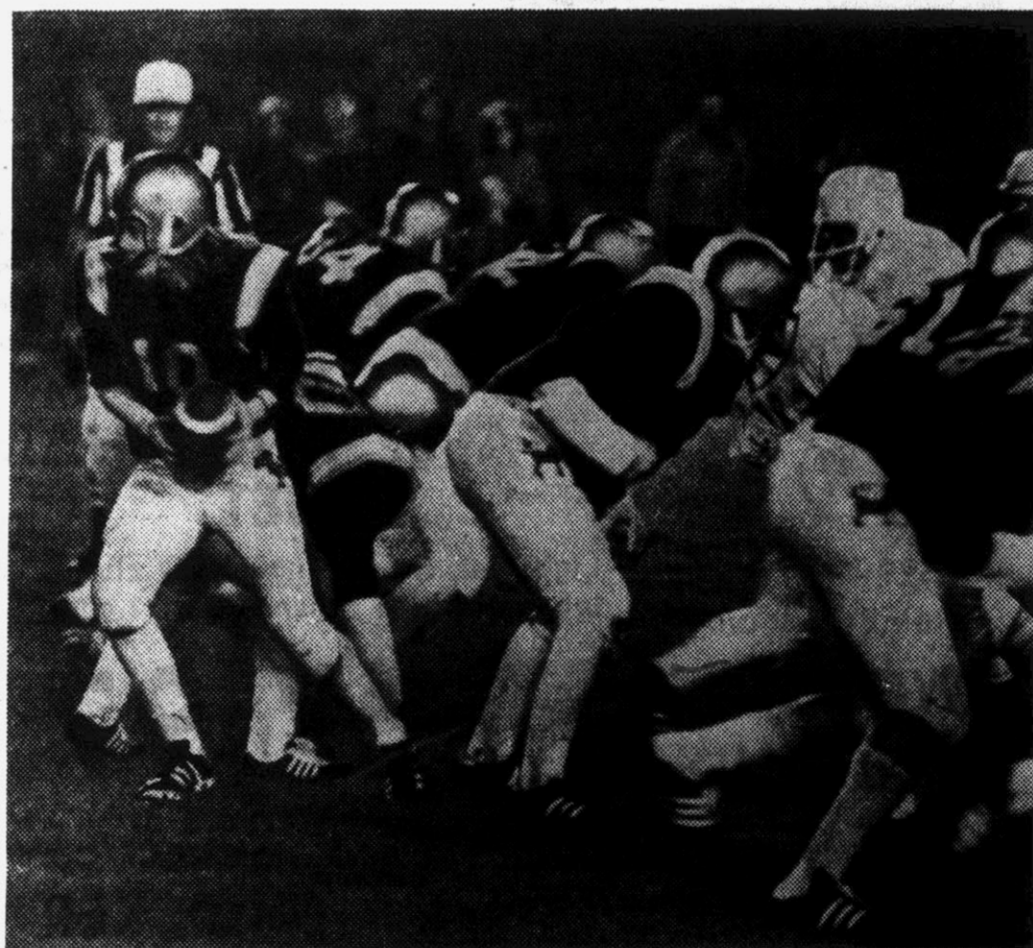

FOOTBALL FILLY

It's not just a lark, playing for the New York Fillies. It's football and it's serious and Joan Carney, 16-year-old high school girl and quarterback, likes playing and getting paid for it. Just how serious is brought home to her in the Fillies' opening game of the season, played at the Randall's Island stadium, New York City, against the Midwest Cowgirls. These girls play so hard it hurts and the other two quarterbacks selected for the 40-woman squad were injured. So, it was Joan Carney's night—No. 10. All 5 feet 4, 125 pounds of her.

The team lost, but they were happy to have played anyway and the champagne afterwards was swigged from the bottle and it tasted good.

Photographed by Ray Stubblebine.

Joan Carney, left, in civilian clothes, greets a team mate. As No. 10, she quarterbacks for the N.Y. Fillies, who lose the game. But the sport was good and so was that first taste of champagne afterwards.

Bob Hope Dreams Of Christmas Peace Tour

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's first overseas trip to entertain American servicemen in wartime almost was his last. It started in early 1942, and the destination was Anchorage, Alaska.

The Hope troupe was in a twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar flown by Army pilots. A sudden storm knocked out the plane's radio gear and left the crew completely lost at 13,000 feet.

Parachutes were being issued when a commercial airliner also bound for Anchorage passed through the Lodestar's propwash. Its pilots apparently sensed the Army plane was in trouble and radioed ahead.

Antiaircraft searchlights at the Anchorage airport were turned on. Hope's flight crew spotted the lights during a momentary break in the storm. They landed the plane safely, and the Hope show went on.

The troupe then consisted of actress Frances Langford, comedian Jerry Colonna and guitarist Tony Romano. All now are out of show business.

But Hope, at 69, still is going strong. On Friday, he'll be off on his 29th overseas tour to entertain American servicemen — including a day with those still in Vietnam. It'll be his 20th consecutive Christmas tour.

And it'll be a sentimental journey of sorts for him. He says it probably will be the last he'll make with the king-size troupe he's traveled with at Christmas time the last five or six years.

"I think it'll be the last Christmas tour of any size I'll make," he said at lunch when he was in town last week taping an NBC television special. "But I may still go overseas again."

"What the hell. You get requests from the guys — you can't turn 'em down. I'd like to play some (military) hospitals in the States next year. And maybe I'll go overseas. It all depends."

The first stop on this year's 15-day tour — as in the 1942 trip — will be in Alaska, at a tiny, miserable atoll called Shemya. It's a military refueling base near Attu at the end of the Aleutian chain. About 800 servicemen call it home, reluctantly.

He's doing three shows in South Korea, one at Bayonet Bowl near Seoul. He did his first show there in 1950, at the height of the second war in which he had entertained American fighting men.

He's spending Christmas Day amid yet another war. He'll perform at the sprawling Bien Hoa Air Base northeast of Saigon. He did his first Vietnam show there in 1964.

His unquestioning support of the Vietnam policies of two administrations has come under criticism, but the support is still there. So is a fervent wish that the war ends soon.

Hope didn't joke in talking about it. He leaned forward, uncommonly tense.

Make Lunar Rock 'Twin'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists have developed lunite, a laboratory twin of the lunar rock regolith, the newspaper Sotsialisticheskaya Industriya said.

Regolith is a loose material consisting of dust, sand, bedrock particles, fragments of falling meteorites and various vitreous particles.

Lunite was obtained in special laboratory installations which made it possible to simulate many processes which occur on the moon's surface, the newspaper said.

Scientists at the space research institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said the artificial and real moon rock would help them determine just how regolith is formed.

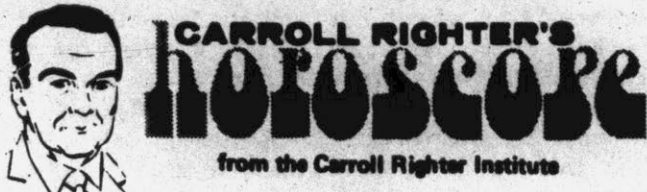

Some scientists think it results from falling micrometeorites that cut into the moon's surface at up to 45 mph. Others believe lunar volcanism plays a creative role, the newspaper said.

NOISE RESEARCH
ROLLA, Mo. (UPI) — Scientists at the University of Missouri are working with a $26,000 grant to design an acoustic filter to make refrigeration systems and internal combustion engine intake and exhaust systems work silently.

Oklahoma has more Indians than any other state and the Indians represent more separate tribes.

"Wouldn't it be great if I niks? Damn, but that would be could go out in front of those great. It really would be guys and say: 'Hi, you peace great.'"

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have many new ideas for gaining the things you want. Make plans for how you wish to spend the coming holidays and the best way to distribute gifts to various members of your family and others. Use your fine mind to advantage by constructive study.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Get on the beam and know exactly what it is you want to do in the future instead of being so lackadaisical and undecided. Use your gregarious quality for bettering your situation in life.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You need ideas from those of great experience if you are to better your position in life at this time. A personal relationship with an associate needs to be put on the right basis.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Look to clever pals for the new ideas you need, even though their fast-acting manners may get on your nerves. Accept a social invitation which can bring the right leads for business.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An ideal day to show you are not only patriotic but a pillar of the community. Show appreciation for the good work that bigwigs are doing. Avoid one who opposes you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) A person you meet today can inspire you greatly so that you will soon gain from this meeting. A plan to travel should be formulated for a good purpose you have in mind. Count the cost.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Adopt a system of work that will make it possible to handle your obligations in a most exact way. Discuss with mate those mutual promises you have made. Avoid extravagance.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) By listening carefully to the ideas of one who means the most to you, a true meeting of the minds comes about. You can now engage in civic work successfully. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Show enthusiasm for whatever tasks are ahead of you and they are easily handled. Listen to what associates have to suggest. Strive to gain mutual goals. Show that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) If you contact persons you like, you can have a delightful time with them now, at the hobbies and recreations mutually enjoyed. Your creative ideas can now be put in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Doing whatever will please kin is your best bet today before you get busy on personal plans. Once your fundamental affairs are handled, relax at home in the evening. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Get busy using that fine mind you have in constructive channels and express those excellent qualities you possess. Corresponding with persons you want as allies in the future is wise.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Use your practical skills so that you can have a greater income in the near future. Your regular adviser is not available at present, so confer with another business expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will be highly inspired to succeed in life. This can be achieved because of the willingness to work, and the element of good luck that is present in this chart. Teach not to jump into a new venture and then give it up. Give the finest education you can afford. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, which in the past two months has climbed to all-time heights, was finding the terrain slipper today.

The 11:30 Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 2.49 to 1030.70. On the Big Board declining stocks outnumbered advancing ones 692 to 379 with 1,519 issues traded. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was down 0.11 to 64.78, and the price-change index at the American Stock Exchange was off .03 to 26.65.

Today's decline followed a loss of 3.08 points in the Dow industrials Tuesday, but most analysts were unconcerned. A massive block trade of 221,000 shares at 25 pushed U.S. Freight to the most-active spot on the Big Board. After the trade it inched up to 25 1/2, down 1/4.

Xerox Corp. accused Tuesday by the Federal Trade Commission of monopolizing the office-copier-machine field, was down 1/4 to 148 1/2 after an 8-point tumble Tuesday. Xerox management denied the FTC charges.

On the American Exchange, Ward Cut-Rate Drug Co. was down 2 1/2 after Jack Eckerd Corp. announced that one of its subsidiaries plans to acquire the company.

Knifing Told By Witness

HILLSBOROUGH, N.C. (AP) — Testimony from a junior high school student that she saw Archie Parker stab Orange High School student Donnie Riddle last Feb. 1 highlighted the trial Tuesday of Parker, 18, and Alphonso Clark, 19, in Riddle's death.

Ida Chambers, a 16-year-old Stanford Junior High School student, testified that two black youths jumped Riddle on the school grounds. She said she was able to identify Parker because he "looked up in my face" after the stabbing.

The testimony came on the second day of the trial in Orange Superior Court of Parker and Clark. They are among five black defendants charged with Riddle's murder and a related assault on Billy Goodwin.

$85,645 Tax Paid City By Carolina Tel

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. paid its 1972 municipal ad valorem taxes here this week in the amount of $85,645.

According to District Commercial Manager D.A. Collier, this year's tax figure represents the largest assessment in the city, and covers taxes on the company's property in Greenville.

The 1972 tax bill for Carolina Telephone, Collier reported, is up some 37 per cent from last year's payment of $62,561. Contributing to the increase were tax law revisions and the company's increasing investment in buildings, outside plant facilities, and equipment, the manager said.

He added that city and county records indicate that Carolina Telephone ranks among the top taxpayers in the 40-county area it serves.

County and municipal 1972 taxes paid by the company in its area totaled over $3,810,900, Collier continued. He said that Carolina Telephone's entire operating tax bill for the year, including all state and federal taxes, is expected to total more than $22,000,000.

Collier pointed out that the figure does not include an estimated $7,700,000 in ten per cent federal excise taxes which were billed to telephone users by the company. These taxes are remitted to the federal government upon collection, he noted.

County records show that Carolina Telephone's Pitt assessment this year was $166,160, placing it second only to the $204,479 paid by Burroughs Wellcome.

Holding His Own

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's doctor said today the 88-year-old former president was "holding his own" as he remained in serious condition with heart and respiratory problems.

Truman's vital signs of blood pressure, pulse and temperature continued to fluctuate and were elevated overnight, a spokesman for Research Hospital and Medical Center said. But his pulse was 88, blood pressure 114-56 and temperature 101 — all within normal limits — at 10 a.m. EST.

The hospital spokesman said Truman's heart condition remained unchanged from Tuesday when it was noted as stronger than earlier in the week. His kidney function was described as adequate.

Truman responds to verbal stimuli but he did not talk during the night, the spokesman said. He explained that this meant Truman was aware he was being spoken to but did not necessarily reply.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician, said Tuesday the former chief executive's condition would fluctuate within the serious classification for some time.

Board Seeking To Avoid Suits

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Education headed off two lawsuits recently by changing teacher certification requirements.

At a meeting Dec. 8, the board voted 8-3 to adopt a new procedure for certifying teachers which stresses personal characteristics and downplays academic achievement.

The old procedure, which rated teachers applicants primarily on the result of the National Teacher Examination, was facing a challenge from the North Carolina Association of Educators.

And, a state education official said that state also was faced with "the looming shadow of a civil rights class suit" against the old policy.

J. Arthur Taylor, a state certification expert, said blacks could have challenged the test on the grounds the teacher examination reflected racial bias because a greater percentage of black college graduates fail the test than whites.

Meanwhile, Dallas Herring, chairman of the Board of Education who voted against the change, said in an interview he would favor elimination of state teacher certification altogether in the future.

He said he would substitute for it stricter state licensing of teacher training programs in the colleges and universities.

Aid Tabulated

The Salvation Army Advisory Board was told yesterday that more than 10,200 pieces of clothing and more than 700 pairs of shoes were given to persons in need during the month of November.

The tabulation of aid given by the Salvation Army last month showed that in addition to the clothing and shoes, 18 food orders were given, 86 pieces of furniture donated, five light bills were paid, and eight fuel orders were given.

In all, a total of 2,367 persons were assisted by the Salvation Army in Greenville and Pitt County last month. A report of aid given to transients during November indicated that 22 persons were given lodging, 38 given meals and two given bus tickets during the month.

That was one of the changes proposed by Supt. Rolland W. Jones and approved by the school board Tuesday.

Chargers Nip Jaguars, 60-53

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE — Sam Stewart blasted a field goal through the net with 4:38 left to play last night that put the Ayden-Grifton Chargers ahead of Farmville Central and helped them to go on to take a 60-53 win after trailing most of the game.

In a wild contest that saw the score tied eight times, Farmville lead almost all the way from the first basket until the Chargers inched in front in the last of the third quarter on a Stewart bucket that gave them a 37-35 advantage. The Jaguars got it right back and then some as they put in six straight points to go out by 41-41 but the Jags inched back in the lead on a jumper by McCoy Williams. That was the last time the Jags led as A-G pumped through 12 consecutive points to go ahead to stay.

In other games, the A-G J.V.'s were edged out in a tough game, 47-44, that was decided in the last minute when a A-G J.V. missed a free throw that would have tied the game. A foul after the horn gave Baby Jaguars two extra points.

The girls' game was no contest until late in the third quarter when the Lady Jags started to threaten the Chargerettes but could only cut the A-G lead to eight.

Maude Babington got the scoring started as she sank a basket from the corner to put A-G on the boards. Connie Carter added a free shot but Dewanda Davis tied it up at 3-all with a jumper from 20 feet. A-G's girls put through eight points to give them a lead that the Lady Jaguars could not over come. At the end of the period the Chargerettes led 16-7.

A-G continued to pad its lead in the second quarter as they outscored the Farmville Central girls 10-6 for a 26-13 halftime edge.

The Chargerettes were rolling along until Darlene Joyner hit a shot from the stripe to knock two points of a fifteen point lead, 33-20. Farmville Central added five more points to that to bring the lead down to 33-25 but the quarter ended soon after and so did the Lady Jaguar's steam. A-G put in 14 more points in the last quarter to Farmville Central's five for a 49-30 win.

Babington had one of her best nights hitting 11 out of 12 free throws and three final goals for 17 points. Cynthia Barrett had 11 for Farmville Central.

Williams put the Jaguars on the boards first as he hit from the corner with 20 seconds gone in the boys game. That was quickly matched with a bucket by Travis Wood. Phil Lewis tapped in a rebound to put Farmville Central back in front at 4-2. Williams made it 6-2 scoring on a baseline drive.

Milton Brown hit from the corner but Willie Jones netted two points on a drive through the lane putting the Farmville Central edge back at four, 8-4. It went on that way, both teams trading baskets, for the next 5 minutes and fourteen seconds. With :29 left in the opening frame, Stewart canned a shot to tie it at 14-14 but a turn-around jumper by Lewis gave the lead back to Farmville Central as the period ended.

Melvin Stewart scored on a fast break after the tap opening the second quarter to tie the score again, 16-16. Jones inched Jags out in front again hitting in the lane before a minute had gone by. A hook shot by Melvin Stewart knotted the score again this time at 18-18.

Williams got it back for the Jaguars as A-G could not seem to grab the advantage. The score was tied again at 2:51 to play in the half as Jimmy Maye swished one through from the corner for the Chargers to make it 25-all. Melvin Bunch put the Jags back in front and his teammates added six more points before the half ended to take a 33-25 spread into the locker room.

Both teams came out hitting again in the second half tying the score 35-35 and then A-G got its first lead of the night, 37-35 on Sam Stewart's bucket. Three baskets by Farmville Central put the Jaguars in the front again but with 4:38 left in the game the Chargers got the lead for keeps.

They had tied it again, 41-41 but a pair of jumpers by Williams kept the Jags in front. Wood scored for A-G and then hit again to keep up what by this time was getting to be monotony. But surprise, surprise, the Chargers got a pair of points from Sam Stewart and a couple of free throws by Brown to forge ahead for good. They moved put to as much as eight, 53-45 and held off the Jaguars to take the win.

Brown burned the nets with 23 points while Sam Stewart had 17 for the Chargers. Williams finished with 16, Lewis with 14, Jones dumped in 11 and Bunch added 10.

If the Rose High-Wilson Fike basketball game was a battle to determine occupancy rights to the Division II cellar, the dispute was quickly ended last night.

Suffering again from a second half collapse, the Rampants were beaten by a taller and faster Titan ballclub. The final score was 75-43. The Rampant Cubs fared better in the preliminary, whipping the Baby Titans 64-62.

Rose stayed fairly close in the first half, mainly on inside shooting by their small front line. But as the game progressed, nothing from the inside or outside would work for the Rampants, forcing them to take low percentage outside jumpers which the taller Wilson team rebounded easily.

Wilson opened the scoring with a jumper by Lee Williams. Harvey Tucker tied the game for Rose with a short jumper. The Rampants took the lead for the first and only time when Herby Bynum sank a free throw. Mike Parks and Tony Fields hit on three consecutive jumpers to make the score 8-3. Tucker answered with another jumper to bring the score to 8-5. Williams dumped in two points to up the lead to 10-5. George Price scored a bucket to shave the lead to three, but four consecutive Titan points ended the Rose threat, as well as the quarter at 14-7.

As the second quarter opened, Wilson showed signs of a pullaway, leading by as much as eleven at one stage. Rose staged a brief rally, closing to within three with Harvey Tucker's jump shot making the score 20-17. But little by little, Fike inched away with a basket by Vincint McCoy increasing the score to 28-19. Three points by Matthew Clark within forty seconds brought the Rampants to a six point deficit at the half, 28-22.

With the third quarter came the end of any chances for a Rose comeback. Wilson scored four points before the Rampants found the scoreboard nearly two minutes later. Leroy Daniels' lay-in made the score 32-24, but the Titans ran up the lead to 43-28 with less than four minutes remaining in the quarter. The two teams traded technical foul free throws late in the period, but they were of little consequence to the outcome. Wilson closed out the period with six unanswered points to make the score 51-31.

The Titans scored four more at the beginning of the fourth period before Rose could get on the board with a lone free throw. The Wilson lead reached its maximum at 4:23 left in the game when a Lee Williams tap-in made the score 63-34. Rose could do little to reel the onslaught of points as the Fike coach returned his regulars to the lineup near the end of the game. The final Rampant points came on a jump shot by Bynum.

Wilson put six more points on the board to close out the scoring. Freddie Sutton led the Titan attack with 21 points, with Mike Parks adding 16 and Thomas Blue and Tony Fields each scored 10. Williams contributed 15 points to the Wilson effort. Harvey Tucker was the only Rampant to attain double figures, scoring 16 for the night. Savage and Bynum added six each.

The junior varsity battle was almost an opposite, as the Rampant Cubs fought from 12 points down to defeat the Baby Titans. Lindberg Morris hit a fast break lay-up to give the Cubs their first lead of the evening. Reggie Smith of Wilson re-tied the contest with two free throws at 58-58. William Taylor's three-point play pushed the lead out for Rose to 61-48. Three more free throws, two of which were hit by Morris, finished off the Baby Titans.

Morris led all scorers with 24 points, with Taylor following him with 17. Jarvis Edmondson led the Baby Titans with 16, while Tony Burks followed with 11 points.

Rose travels to Jacksonville on Friday.

Bears Drop Two To Chocowinity

BEAR GRASS — Chocowinity took a pair of games from Bear Grass High School last night, winning the boys game, 65-52, and the girls, 41-29.

In the opener, both teams pushed through five points in the first period. But Bear Grass erupted for 14 points in the second to oust Chocowinity by six and take a 19-13 lead.

In the third quarter, however, the Bears failed to find the mark but once, and were outthit, 8-2, tying the score at 21-21. Chocowinity then dumped in 20 points to eight for the Bears in the final frame to win going away.

Dunbar hit 15 and Thompson had 10 for Chocowinity. Gloria Wobbleton had eight to lead the Bears.

In the boys' game, Chocowinity hustled out to a 17-4 lead in the first period and was never in great trouble after that. They outthit the bears, 15-11, in the second quarter and led, 32-15 at the half.

Bear Grass put on a small rally in the third quarter, outscoring Chocowinity, 18-12, and cut the lead to 44-33, but couldn't catch up. They were outthit in the final period, 21-19, as Chocowinity chalked up the win.

Nathaniel Armstrong led Bear Grass with 23, while Vann Rogerson had 12. For Chocowinity, Small had 14, Reddick had 11 and McCullen had 10.

Richmond Shines, But Still Is On Short End Of Score With Cats In Overtime From Aurora, 72-69

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Richmond's Spiders had been doing enough bad things in their first four basketball games to lose them all—and they did.

But the Spiders did enough good things Tuesday night to win a lot of games and still came off on the short end of an 88-80 score against Davidson that propelled the Wildcats into the Southern Conference lead with a 2-0 record over three teams tied at 1-0.

It wasn't until John Falconi hit a jump shot from the corner with 6:47 left that the Wildcats took command of the game for their fourth victory in five starts over-all. Until then, the Spiders—and Mike Anastasio in particular—had been making life miserable for Davidson.

"Anastasio," said Davidson Coach Terry Holland, "looked like an All-American. The big guys got their points, but he got the ball to them."

Jeff Snider finished with 23 points and Ray Amann with 13 before fouling out with 1:37 left. And Anastasio was credited with eight assists to go with his 20 points, besides being responsible for many of the Wildcats' 18 turnovers.

"We did everything we could possibly do to win," said Richmond Coach Lewis Mills. "Mike passed the ball off and controlled the tempo. They didn't have anybody who could keep up with him. They were trying to put on a lot of pressure, but they just couldn't keep up with Mike."

Snider had 19 points in the first half as the Spiders built a 42-39 lead—at one time the margin was 13 points—despite 60.9 per cent shooting from the floor by the Wildcats.

But Falconi, who finished with 16 points, began to hit everything he shot and the Wildcats finished with a blistering 67.9 per cent.

"Falconi started shooting the bottom out, but we couldn't spread out to stop him," said Mills. "We had some great individual performances and the team effort was there. They're a good ball team, but we did some things to upset them—help them play bad."

Paul Wagner also had 16 points for Davidson, while Steve Horowitz chipped in with 14, Mike Sorrentino with 13 and Greg Dunn with 12.

In Tuesday night's only other action involving league teams, East Carolina's defending champion Pirates took a 106-74 drubbing at the hands of Duke's Blue Devils of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Sophomore Bob Fleischer hit 23 points as Duke went in front early in the first half and pulled away with 53.4 per cent shooting. Steve Pezko had 14 points for East Carolina, now 2-2 over-all.

Tonight's only game for conference teams has William and Mary's Indians, 1-5, at home against Virginia Tech's Gobblers, 1-1.

ROYALS IN NEW PARK
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The baseball part of the new $43,000,000 Harry S. Truman Sports Complex in Kansas City will open next April 10. That's when the Kansas City Royals will open their American League home season with a night game against the Texas Rangers.

The complex provides 41,000 seats for baseball. The football part of the facility opened last August.

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville High School split a pair of games with Aurora last night. The Bullets took the boys' game in overtime, while the Aurora girls won their battle, 36-23.

In the opener, Aurora moved out into a 14-8 lead. They were able to continue to pull away in the second quarter, outshooting the Lady Bullets, 11-4. That left Aurora in front at the half, 25-12.

In the third quarter, Jamesville managed to get a little rally going, 74, but it wasn't enough to do more than dent the Aurora lead, 29-19. Aurora outshot Jamesville, 8-4, in the final frame to wrap it up.

Sherri Smithwick led Aurora with 14 points, while Donna Williams had 15 to pace Jamesville.

In the boys game, Jamesville slipped into a slim 16-13 lead after the first eight minutes of play, but had to battle to hold onto the lead at halftime. Aurora outshot them, 19-17, and the Bullets held only a 33-32 edge at the horn.

In the third quarter, Aurora again outshot the Bullets, 17-14, and pulled out into a 49-47 lead going into the final period. Then, down, 67-63 with time running out, Gurkin Martin got a steal and Horace Hall hit two free throws. Steve Jones then tied it up to force the overtime.

VOLPE IS AT POMPANO
POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Volpe, former golf pro at the Englewood and Roxiticus courses in New Jersey, is the new golf pro at the Crystal Lago Country Club, Pompano Beach, Fla.

Volpe converted former New York Yankee pitching star Ralph Terry into a golfer. Terry is the golf pro at Roxiticus Golf Club in Mendham, N.J.

In the overtime, Jamesville hit first, and after Aurora tied it up, got a three-point play to wrap up the win.

Jones led Jamesville with 18 points, while Hall had 16. Martin and Larry Modlin each had 10. For Aurora, Tex Hooker had 22, and Tom Coffey and Randy Fulford each had 14.

Jamesville visits Chocowinity Friday.

McMillen Leads Terp Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
When John Garrett was growing up—very far up—in Peru, Indiana, his idol was Rick Mount, who, at the time, was busy shattering Purdue University's basketball scoring records.

So it was no surprise when Garrett followed Mount to Purdue. And if the speedy Mount was the best little man ever to play for the Boilermakers, then Garrett, who's grown up to a hefty 6-foot-11, may be the best big one. Garrett averaged almost 27 points per game as a freshman last year and hit on an amazing 53 per cent of his field goal attempts. That's the kind of shooting that excites basketball people and Garrett kept the juices flowing Tuesday night with a virtual one-man show that moved the Boilermakers to a 66-65 victory over Miami of Ohio.

score 18 of Purdue's last 24 points including the winning basket with one second left to play. That gave him 29 points on 13 of 22 shots from the field and, in case you're wondering, that's 59 per cent accuracy.

Maryland's Tom McMillen was almost as hot at the start of the third-ranked Terrapins' 99-73 victory over Georgetown as Garrett was for Purdue. McMillen scored nine of his team's first 19 points and finished with 29 for the night. He also grabbed 15 rebounds as Maryland dominated the outmanned Hoyas, who started three freshmen.

You can't knock fresh to Arizona. The Wildcats used five of them for most of the second half against San Diego State and came out with a 79-70 victory.

Steve Downing tapped a rebound of a missed free throw for Indiana's winning basket as the 15th-ranked Hoosiers escaped with a 69-67 victory over gritty Notre Dame.

Indiana was down by as many as 13 points in the second half before launching a comeback.

"I'm just happy to go home a winner after a game like this," said Bob Knight, Indiana's coach. Knight's old Army team came out a winner too, but barely, squeezing by Northeastern 70-68 on two free throws by Doug Crewse with no time left on the clock at the end of an overtime period. There were other last-second foul shot heroics too. Little Harry Larrabee connected on eight crucial 1-and-1 free throws in the final minutes as Texas nipped 19th-ranked Memphis State 80-79. Brien O'Neill's five foul shots in the final 30 seconds clinched Princeton's 69-65 victory over Virginia. In other games, St. John's of New York defeated Rhode Island 85-75, Texas Tech slugged Tulsa 92-83, Marshall downed Cleveland State 79-72, Davidson whipped Richmond 88-80, Connecticut topped Massachusetts 71-68 and Duke whacked East Carolina 108-74.

WON 100 at MSU
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When Duffy Daughterty bowed out as Michigan State's head coach with a 24-14 victory over Northwestern, it marked his 109th victory in 19 years as the head coach at MSU. The Spartans' big win this year was an upset victory over Ohio State.

Fifty Years Of History

NEW YORK (AP) — The Sandy Amoros catch that helped Brooklyn win its only World Series, Yogi Berra's muff of a foul pop in Allie Reynolds' second no-hit game of 1951 and Al Gionfriddo's one-handed catch of a 400-foot Joe Dimaggio drive. They are all there in "Yankee Stadium—50 Years of Drama," (Houghton Mifflin Co., $12.50 by Joseph Durs).

show Johnny Podres, who blanked the Yankees in their home park, 2-0, in the final 55 Series game, jumping into the arms of catcher Roy Campanella. Third baseman Don Hoak, a bit late for his pummeling act, is identified as Pee Wee Reese. The book is brilliantly written and stacked with photographs that go back to the glory days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. After Jan. 1 the 155-page 9½ by 1½ book will sell for $15.

Gates County Hands Tigers Pair Of Losses

GATESVILLE — Gates County handed Williamston a pair of defeats last night, taking the boys game, 56-52, and downing the girls, 39-25.

The loss was the first for the Tigerettes this season. Gates, having a hot hand in the first half, jumped off to a 13-5 lead at the end of the first period. They kept it up in the second stanza, outscoring Williamston, 15-7 taking a 28-12 lead at the half.

The Gates scoring tumbled in the second half, but not enough. They outthrew Williamston again in the third period, 8-5, and held a 36-17 lead. Williamston finally outthrew them, 8-3, in the last period, but it was all in vain.

Theresa Outland led Gates with 19 points, while Lulu Eure had 17. Sissy Taylor led Williamston with seven.

In the boys game, it was a little closer, but the outcome was the same. Williamston pushed into the lead in the first quarter, 10-6, and held on for the rest of the half. They outscored Gates, 14-13, in the second period and took a 24-19 lead at halftime.

But in the third period, Gates put together a rally, outthrusting them 19-14, and pulled back to it at 38-38 as the last period opened. Gates again outthrew Williamston, 18-14, to gain the win.

Tony Eure led Gates with 15 points, while Joe Ballard had 12 and Jimmy Eure and Ervin Boone each had 11. First Williamston, Henry Wiggins had 18, Joe Savage had 14 and Dwight Ange had 10.

Williamston plays host to Weldon on Friday.

Making A Western In Holy Land

By THOMAS CHEATHAM
TEL AVIV (UPI)—From time immemorial, the Holy Land has been tossed like a ball from empire to empire. Now there is a new set of combatants on this ancient battlefield: cowboys and Indians.

"Why not?" asked Norman Jewison, whose production "Billy Two Hats," starring Gregory Peck, is being filmed on the same field conquered by everyone from the ancient Egyptians to the Turks to, finally, the Israelis.

"I don't see why all westerns have to be shot in Italy or Spain," Jewison said. "Israel has just as good a climate, terrain and almost the same kind of geographical locations." The government has gone to the trouble of building a real western town, replete with livery stables, swing-door saloons and a sheriff's office, outside Tel Aviv to attract movie companies and their money.

The film makers are offered, as incentives, tax-exempt status, a 20 per cent discount on all local purchases, and war insurance just in case the Middle East takes a sudden turn for the worse.

Written by a Scotsman, packaged in England and financed with $665,000 from Hollywood, "Billy Two Hats" is the first in what Israel hopes will be a series of profitable returns to its investment.

Ted Kotcheff, the writer, chose Israel as its setting because, he said, "I wanted to visually establish isolation and loneliness, and this did it better than anywhere else."

The attractions to movie companies include low-cost labor, a variety of landscapes, good weather and a confined area so that a move from one location to another is not too costly in time and money.

Bringing the Wild West to Israel wasn't so easy. For one thing, getting the Winchester rifles and Colt 45s past airport security men was something of a hassle.

For another, Peck was forced to use an Israeli-bred horse that had never been in the desert. And finding Israelis who had even been on horses to act as extras proved even more of a headache.

Eventually the extras came from South American and Californian teen-agers visiting Israel for some fun in the sun on the beaches.

Nevertheless, a commerce industry spokesman said, two more westerns are scheduled, plus the movie version of the book "O Jerusalem," a film on the Jewish last stand at Masada in the year 73, and Otto Preminger's "Genesis 48" about the birth of Israel.

While Peck saunters through the bogus western village at one end of the country, Jewison's film production of "Jesus Christ Superstar" is being shot at the other.

The money they leave behind—Jewison's films will be a $1.75 million boost to the economy—helps Israel combat its $3 billion foreign debt.

Played With A Live Cannonball

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — "Why, Nanny, we played with that," a 7-year-old told her grandmother after a live Civil War cannonball found here was intentionally detonated by authorities.

Mrs. Annette Williams of Selma said Monday she found the cannonball Saturday when she went to check her water meter. "It was some 12 to 15 feet from my house," she said.

She said her granddaughter and another young child told her they had been playing with the ball and had rolled it into the street and later pitched it into her yard.

Roger Clanton of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the U.S. Treasury Department and other officials took the cannonball to the city dump and exploded it.

Exile Finds A Refuge In Detention

By DAVID STUART-FOX
DENPASAR, Bali (UPI) — Tienho Hinomaru seldom speaks. His rare confidants are mostly from among the children who play around the Immigration Detention hostel where he has lived for the past seven years.

The children call him "akong," a Chinese word meaning grandfather, though he tells them he is not Chinese.

Feign Deafness
A former Japanese sailor, Hinomaru is a man in his 50s who seems uninterested in returning to his native Japan. He has a good story to tell, but would rather feign deafness and be left alone. Some of his life has been pieced together by the few who have talked with him.

Hinomaru was born of a Korean mother and a Japanese father. During the early years of World War II, he became a submariner, rank unknown, or unremembered. Near Madura, an island off northeast Java, his submarine fought a battle with an American vessel and lost.

Hinomaru and one other crewman made it to shore and into Surabaya, the great port city of East Java. There he parted from his friend and found work in Chinese shops. He avoided Japanese military authorities.

"If I reported I would have been ordered to war again," Hinomaru once said in one of his rare conversations. "I did not want to fight anymore."

Family Killed
At the end of the war, Hinomaru learned that all of his family and relatives had been killed. One unconfirmed version is that they all died in the atomic attack on Hiroshima. With no family in Japan, he decided to remain in Indonesia.

He lived first in Java, making a living selling medicines, especially the cure-all potions called jamur. He traveled throughout Java and learned to speak Javanese.

He came to Singaraja, the main town of northern Bali, in 1954. He continued to sell his medicines and added to his income as a skilled masseur.

Hinomaru later moved to Menanga, not far from Bali's mother temple, Pura Besakih.

In 1965 he became a prisoner of events. One result of the abortive Communist coup that year was the screening of just about everybody. Police discovered that Hinomaru had no papers. He was brought to the immigration guest house.

He has hardly set foot outside since. He made one trip to Jakarta to try to straighten out his case. Nothing happened, so back he came to Denpasar.

Immigration authorities would be happy to let him go out and earn his own keep, but he does not respond to their suggestions.

So the authorities are content to let Hinomaru stay, and they provide his few necessities.

Lives In Small Room
He lives in one small room. There is a bed with a mattress, but he sleeps on a mat on the floor.

In a corner he has his altar. When he receives his meal twice a day, he places the plate of rice and side dishes on the altar, burns a joss stick or candle, and prays. Only when this duty is done does he eat.

He leaves the room only to go into the corridor that runs the length of the guest house. On Sunday when the immigration office is closed and all is quiet, he sometimes suns himself and his few belongings in the yard outside.

Found Skeletons In Gobi Desert

MOSCOW (UPI) — A joint Soviet-Mongolian paleological expedition in the Gobi Desert has found the skeletons of hundreds of extinct animals, including dinosaurs and herbivorous lizards up to 25 feet tall, the Tass news agency said.

Some of the remains were of animals that roamed the Mongolian desert tens of millions of years ago, it said. Studies of the bones could provide information about the atmosphere and changes in climate during various geological epochs.

The Worry Clinic Women Want 'A Good Line'

Edward wonders why most women want a husband with a good sense of humor. He figures an adequate paycheck should be far more important. So study this case with double care. It will reveal the basic sex differences between men vs. women!

"COUNTRY GIRL" RATED (X) NO ONE UNDER 16.

adequate pay check, why should women rate a sense of humor on an equal plane?"

Stodgy Husbands

Most of our women Applicants to the AMF invariably tell us they want a man who is religious, interested in children, a good provider and with a SENSE OF HUMOR!

This doesn't mean they expect him to be a Bob Hope.

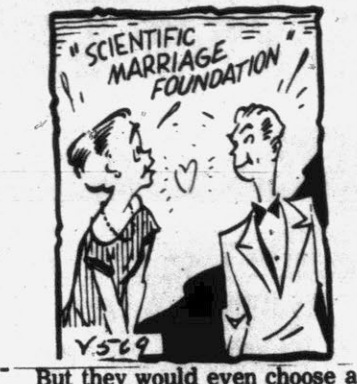

Nor do they anticipate his telling jokes at the table every day!

No; what they prefer is a husband with a broad social outlook who can laugh at minor mistakes and carry on jolly conversation.

Indeed, that is one reason why women are attracted to salesmen.

For salesmen are extroverts and good talkers! Women want words! Especially spoken compliments and daily praise!

But they would even choose a mate who occasionally barks at them angrily instead of an introvert who sulks in silence for days on end!

"Dr. Crane," many introverted men have protested, "I can't understand how a pretty woman can fall for an ugly guy!"

"Yet I have seen stunning looking gals with tremendous personality who are married to baldheaded men, fat and certainly not at all the athletic type."

"Dr. Crane, it doesn't make sense to me! How come?"

But those same bald, fat and non-athletic males had a "good line," which is what women tend to fall for.

As I have repeatedly warned you readers, women are NOT passionate creatures, as measured by the male standard!

The usually happily married young woman, if she has children and other interests to keep her busy, will freely admit that she would not crave marital indulgence more often than twice per month.

Yet she is deeply in love with her mate.

Unless a woman suffers from some deep-seated sexual inferiority complex that goads her into nymphomania, she is quite content with a goodnight kiss—and that is all!

But unless she is sterile or has had a breast or womb removed by surgery, or feels below par due to other anatomical defects, she is far more fascinated by the kitchen stove than by boudoir passion!

That's why women were designed by the Almighty to be primarily mothers, cooks and talkers, and not just sex symbols.

Even the Beauty Queens report they are much more attracted to men who praise them on their intelligent conversation or cooking instead of merely indulging in repetitious remarks about their legs or perfect measurements!

A baldheaded runt, with a pot belly and false teeth can often win a beautiful girl away from a young athlete with the anatomical figure of Apollo.

By realizing that every girl

"Wants to Feel Important," and deft spoken words even beat the bulging muscles in an introverted male sphinx!

So send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The bidding: Jack of ♣ South, the declarer at four hearts, handled his assets in very loose fashion, and when he ran into adverse distribution in both major suits, his campaign collapsed.

West opened the jack of clubs which was covered by North's queen and East won the trick with the ace. He continued the suit, South played the nine, West the ten and dummy was in with the king. Declarer cashed the king of spades, led back to the ace and played a third round, ruffing in dummy with the eight of hearts. East overruffed with the ten and returned a club, putting his partner in with the eight. West played a fourth spade trumped by North's nine of hearts and overruffed by East's jack for the setting trick.

South was guilty of gross carelessness. When the third spade is led, a precautionary measure is in order. Instead of ruffing in dummy, it is suggested that declarer discard North's remaining club. If it should prove that the spades are divided three-three, he will have surrendered nothing by his gesture, for he can now trump his club loser in dummy—and will merely have traded trick for trick.

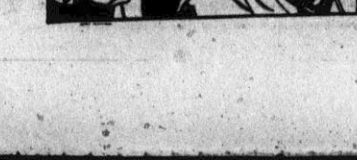

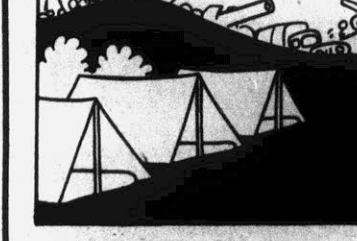

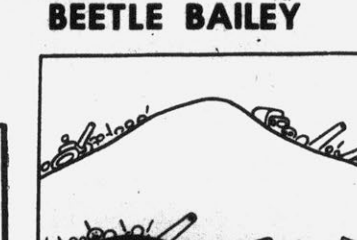

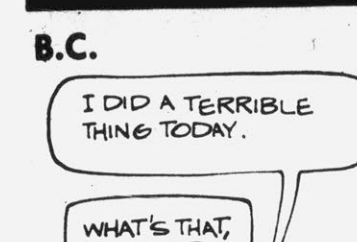

The advantage of discarding the club on the third spade can readily be seen in the present instance, where it serves as a safety play against an unfavorable break in spades. West is in with the jack of spades, and his best return is a diamond. The dummy's ace is played and a trump led to the closed hand, so that South can ruff a club.

Another heart puts South in to trump a fourth round of spades in dummy. If East overruffs, it is the third and last trick for the defense. If he refuses to trump, South can ruff a diamond in his own hand and then score a 10th trick with his remaining high heart.

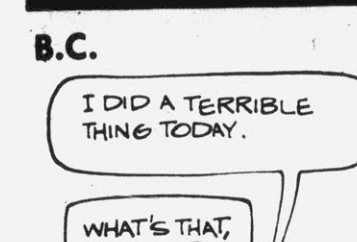

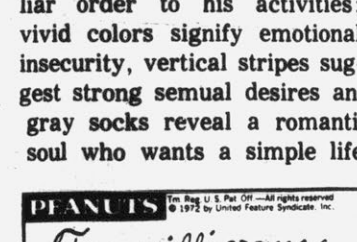

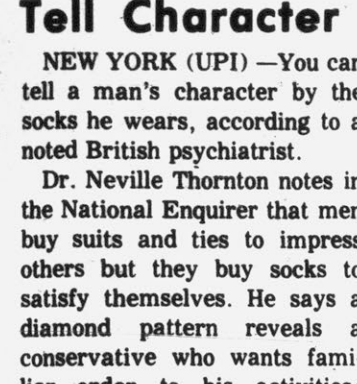

Declares Socks Tell Character

NEW YORK (UPI)—You can tell a man's character by the socks he wears, according to a noted British psychiatrist.

Dr. Neville Thornton notes in the National Enquirer that men buy suits and ties to impress others but they buy socks to satisfy themselves. He says a diamond pattern reveals a conservative who wants familiar order to his activities; vivid colors signify emotional insecurity, vertical stripes suggest strong sexual desires and gray socks reveal a romantic soul who wants a simple life.
