BANNER BLOOPER — President Harry S. Truman flashes a grin before a cheering crowd at St. Louis Union Station on Nov. 4, 1948, as he displays an early copy of the Chicago Tribune with its erroneous banner headline: "Dewey Defeats Truman." The President told the crowd: "That is one for the books." Truman died this morning, at 88. (AP Wirephoto)

BY HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman died today, conquered finally by the infirmities of his 88 years.

Trumans Had His Opinions

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — This is how Harry S. Truman expressed himself on a variety of subjects:

His religion:
"I'm a Baptist, if that means anything. I've been a member of that church since I was 17, but frankly, all the religion I have is found in the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount. Read them some time if you don't think it is all there."

On politics:
"I've had a lot of mud thrown at me in my years of politics, but none stuck and I never threw any mud back. As president I tried to do what was best for the most people." (Sept. 17, 1953)

On his rise from precinct level to White House:
"I am the only one I know of who did that. I am a politician and I don't claim to be anything else."

On the necessity for strong armed forces:
"I don't like military government. I think it is necessary for the people to be in control. As long as we have a president — a president who is civilian — there is no danger of a military dictatorship. As long as the people control the government, there is no need to worry about a dictatorship." (Kansas City, May 16, 1953)

On Working:
"It's not hard work that gets a man into trouble. It's the lack of it. When a fellow has nothing to do he gets into devilment." (Jan. 22, 1953)

On Soviet leaders:
"They're nothing but a set of damned liars. I wouldn't trust them across the street. They've got 700 million Chinamen who can walk into their back door. They're scared to death and we want to keep them that way." (Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 11, 1963)

On civil rights demonstrations:
"If northern busybodies would stay at home and clean up their own back yards, the rest of the country will obey its laws. These youngsters, who are running around the country trying to initiate mob rule, were raised under the nutty theory of 'let the child grow like a weed with no home discipline.' It is a lazy way to raise a family. These young rioters were not spanked enough as they grew up. The police should be furnished with nice old-fashioned butter paddles and be authorized to use them in the place intended." (Cleveland, Sept. 14, 1963)

On a tax cut, then being proposed:
"I am old-fashioned. I believe you should pay in more than you spend."

On walking:
"I don't do this for show. I do it because I think it will help me live longer."

Didn't Want A Namesake

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Before the birth of his first grandchild, Harry S. Truman said he wanted none of his grandsons named after him.
"It would be a handicap all his life," Truman said. "The worst thing in the world is to have a president in the family."

On another occasion, Truman said:
"No man, if he knows what it is all about, would want to be president. It is the most terrible job in the world as well as the most honorable."

He also called the White House "the finest prison in the world."

When he returned to Independence after more than seven years as president, Truman declared that as a private citizen he would do nothing that would detract from the dignity

President Nixon led the mourning for the nation's 33rd president, calling him "a fighter who was best when the going was toughest." The President also proclaimed Thursday a day of national mourning and ordered flags at federal buildings flown at half staff for 30 days.

Lyndon B. Johnson, now the only surviving former president, lamented the passing of "a 20th century giant."

Truman's wife of 53 years, and his daughter who saw him for a final 20 minutes Christmas Day, were at home in nearby Independence when death came at 7:50 a.m. CST.

In accordance with Truman's wishes, the funeral Thursday will be without the pomp accorded other great statesmen.

He will be buried Thursday at 4 p.m. EST in the courtyard of the Harry S. Truman Memorial Library, Truman's proudest achievement in the 20 years since he left the White House.

Truman was the last of the great World War II figures, preceded in death by Dwight D. Eisenhower, Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin.

He was the president who set the United States against global communism in the Cold War that followed World War II. He ordered use of the atomic bomb to end World War II, extended unprecedented help to nations resisting Soviet domination, and ordered troops into Korea when Communists began their invasion of the south.

"Recognizing the new threat to peace that had emerged from the ashes of war, he stood boldly against it with his extension of aid to Greece and Turkey in 1947 — and the 'Truman Doctrine' thus established was crucial to the defense of liberty in Europe and the world," Nixon said, adding:

"In launching the Marshall Plan, he began the most far-sighted and most generous act of international rebuilding ever undertaken. With his characteristically decisive action in Korea, he made possible the defense of peace and freedom in Asia."

The hospital attributed Truman's death to the "complexity of organic failures causing a collapse of the cardiovascular system."

Truman entered Research Hospital three weeks ago today — after fighting lung congestion at home for two weeks — and had been in a coma since early Saturday. Earlier in his hospitalization he appeared to be rallying, but the combination of respiratory problems, hardened arteries and kidney disease were too much for the old man.

In recent years he had appeared frail and drawn, his weight down from a presidential 170 pounds. He long ago abandoned his life-long predilection for long, fast early morning walks, but made almost daily excursions on shopping trips with his wife, Bess, herself 87.

Mrs. Truman received the sad news by telephone. A family spokesman, Randall Jessee, said she received it "with the same fortitude and calmness with which she has faced all of this."

Nixon proclaimed Thursday a national day of mourning, ordering flags lowered to half staff at federal buildings for the next 30 days.

The auditorium in the Truman Library, where the funeral services will be conducted, holds only 200 persons, and attendance will be by invitation only.

Most foreign dignitaries were expected to go to a memorial service in Washington's National Cathedral, rather than coming to Independence.

Tributes flowed in swiftly as word of the death was flashed around the world.

"A 20th century giant is gone," former President Lyndon B. Johnson said in a statement issued at Austin, Tex. "Few men of any times ever shaped the world as did the man from Independence."

"President Truman presided over the destiny of this country during one of its most turbulent eras. Never flinching in the face of crucial national choices, his decisions changed the course of human events throughout the world."

Queen Elizabeth II and Prime Minister Edward S. Heath expressed their sorrow to the American people in a wire to President Nixon, and the British monarch sent a private message to Mrs. Truman.

There will be a short funeral procession Wednesday morning from the home to the library, where the body will lie in state for 24 hours beginning at 11 a.m. CST.

Truman had been vice president for only 82 days in the closing days of World War II, when he became president on the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Air Force Resumes Bombing Of North Vietnam After 36 Hours

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers and fighter-bombers resumed attacks on the Hanoi and Haiphong areas of North Vietnam today after a 36-hour bombing halt for Christmas, the U.S. Command announced.

The Command also reported that American air strikes had been resumed across South Vietnam at dusk Monday following a 24-hour cease-fire. The Command made no comment on air operations in Laos, but other U.S. officials said they had continued through Christmas with no apparent letup.

The Command did not explain why the bombing halt in the North lasted longer than the cease-fire in the South. Nor would it say whether the attack was resumed on the massive scale employed last week, when the raids were the heaviest of the war.

U.S. officials had indicated earlier that the bombing halt over North Vietnam had been planned for 24 hours and had been extended on an hour-to-hour basis while President Nixon awaited some sign from Hanoi that it was ready to agree to his peace terms.

A statement by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin touched off speculation that he might have been in touch with Nixon, Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that Kosygin told Ambassador Vo Thuc Dong of North Vietnam that the Soviet government expects immediate termination of the bombing and signing of a cease-fire agreement. But observers in Moscow interpreted Kosygin's remarks as an expression of desire rather than a prediction.

The roadblock to a peace agreement has been the U.S. demand that Hanoi recognize two separate states in Vietnam, retreating from the concept of unification promised in the 1954 Geneva Agreement that ended the French Indochina War.

The U.S. Command refused all comment on the bombing cessation, which other officials said began before midnight Sunday as part of the allied cease-fire for Christmas.

Radio Hanoi has reported no air attacks after Sunday night but said today that U.S. B52 bombers destroyed the Bac Thai provincial hospital and sanatorium north of Hanoi in "concentrated" bombing raids on Christmas Eve.

The broadcast claimed the towns of Thai Nguyen, Ha Bac and Lang Son also were bombed on Dec. 24, and the raiders "killed and wounded a great many civilians, including Catholic people who were celebrating Christmas services." Lang Son is just below the Chinese border.

Hanoi claimed that it shot down another B52 during the attack on Bac Thai but made no mention of what happened to the six crewmen.

It was the 18th B52—and the 53rd U.S. warplane—claimed by North Vietnam since U.S. bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong area and other targets north of the 20th parallel was resumed on Dec. 18.

The U.S. Command has acknowledged the loss of 18 planes, including 11 B52s, and at least 70 airmen are missing.

In South Vietnam, 24-hour Christmas cease-fires proclaimed by the South Vietnamese government and the Viet Cong ended with each side charging the other with numerous violations. The Saigon command charged the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese with 58 attacks during the truce periods and said 45 South Vietnamese and 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed.

The U.S. Command reported that American AC130 gunships attacked a North Vietnamese convoy of about 25 vehicles Monday night northeast of Tay Ninh, near the Cambodia border, where a North Vietnamese buildup is reported under way. The command said the results were not known because of darkness.

No attacks on U.S. forces were reported during the cease-fire periods. But 30 rockets hit the Da Nang Air Base before dawn today. Military officials said one American soldier was wounded and three U.S. helicopters were damaged.

Two South Vietnamese were reported killed in the attack and two wounded.

The U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, Laos, announced that two American spotter planes were shot down in Laos in the past three days, one pilot was killed and the other is missing.

Nixon Waiting For Peace Call

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House maintained silence on the resumption of U.S. bombing attacks on North Vietnam today after President Nixon waited in vain for a Christmas peace signal from Hanoi.

A holiday pause in the bombing campaign against North Vietnamese targets above the 20th parallel lasted for 36 hours, although U.S. warplanes limited a Christmas halt to strikes in South Vietnam to 24 hours.

Like the holiday bombing pause itself, the 12-hour extension of the standdown on bombing raids against targets in the North was not announced formally by either the U.S. Command in Saigon or the President, who is spending Christmas at his Florida home.

Sources in Saigon said the 12-hour extension on strikes in the North had been continued on an hour-to-hour basis because Nixon hoped it would bring an indication from Hanoi that it was ready to resume private peace talks.

Henry A. Kissinger's peace negotiations in Paris with Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam broke off two weeks ago, with each side accusing the other of raising new issues to thwart the signing of a cease-fire agreement drafted in October.

Even with the impasse, U.S. officials have said lines of communication remain open between Kissinger and his Communist counterparts. Officials have refused to say, however, whether any recent contact has been made.

Since the peace talks staled

Ervin: Truman Was Great One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the words of North Carolina Sen. Sam J. Ervin, "President Truman was one of our truly great presidents."

"He had an unusual amount of common sense and an unprecedented amount of courage."

Ervin and other North Carolina political leaders reacted Tuesday to the news that former President Harry S. Truman had died at the age of 88.

Ervin said that in Truman's eight years in the presidency he was called on to make some of the most difficult decisions that have ever faced a statesman.

habilitation of Europe after World War II. Truman's decision to drop atomic bombs on Nagasaki and Hiroshima saved one million Americans from death and wounds, Ervin said.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, appointed to the Senate in 1958, said it had been his pleasure to know Truman for many many years.

Jordan said he had "many intimate associations" with Truman. "I was very fond of him and I think he made a great president," Jordan said.

Jonathan W. Daniels, editor emeritus of the News and Observer in Raleigh and Truman's presidential press secretary, said of the death: "I think one of the great Americans in our history died

Call For Food For Managuans

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's ruler says the survivors of the earthquake that devastated Managua need food, not medicine or blood plasma.

"We need food for the people," said Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's leader. He told foreign nations not to send any more medical supplies, that the supply was sufficient.

The quake Saturday destroyed about 75 per cent of Managua, a city of 300,000, and the toll was estimated at 5,000 to 10,000 dead, with 20,000 injured. Somoza said the country already was suffering from a drought and 250,000 people were unemployed.

Managua was ordered evacuated, and most of the survivors left. Officials said they would cut off relief food supplies to about 25,000 who refused to leave.

"We have to empty the area. We are afraid of an epidemic," said Gen. Luis Rodriguez Somoza, the relief coordinator. There was still no water or electricity in the city Monday and the smell of rotting bodies was heavy in the central area.

International relief operations have gone into high gear. President Nixon ordered "an all-out effort to provide all needed help to Nicaragua." CARE in New York said it had 700 tons of food available. The American Red Cross renewed its request for Americans to contribute money, not supplies.

U.S. Air Force planes loaded with rolled oats, flour, field hospitals, water purification equipment and other supplies departed hourly from MacDill Air Force Base in Florida. Army engineers with dump trucks, wreckers and bulldozers were flown in.

Carlos Giron Romero, head of the general hospital El Retiro, said he did not believe there would be an epidemic although, "of course, a possibility always exist."

In front of the hospital, some 900 patients were treated in mobile hospitals set up by the U.S. Army.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Bracelet Emblem May Save Lives

BELL ARTHUR—The United Methodist Church here was the scene of the Sunday wedding of Miss Brenda Joyce Vandiford and Robert Lee Williford.

The Rev. Ralph Hill performed the double ring ceremony at 4:00 p.m. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Eloise Jackson of Greenville, organist, and Miss Elaine Vernelson of Greenville, soloist.

The church was decorated with a background of bridal palms and candelabra. The altar was centered with a fifteen branch arch candelabra with baskets of red poinsettias on either side.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Vandiford of Rt. 1, Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white formal gown of peau de soie and pearl trimmed chantilly lace styled by Edith Vincent for Alfred Angelo. The gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline, empire bodice and long fitted sleeves. The detachable train featured matching lace appliques and flowed chapel length.

Her coronet cap of lace was attached to a three tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons and pixie carnations with accents of holly and red velvet tied with streamers of white velvet and fur puffs.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Williford Jr. of Rt. 1, Farmville.

Mrs. Edward Jackson of Bell Arthur, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a formal length emerald green velvet gown designed with a scoop neckline, fitted sleeves and empire bodice trimmed in silver braid. She carried a white fur muff adorned with clusters of holly and pompons tied with streamers of red and green velvet. She wore a white fur covered headband.

Bridesmaids were Miss Diane Williford of Rt. 1, Farmville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Patsy Carraway of Rt. 1, Fountain. They wore red velvet gowns styled like that of the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

The mother of the bride was attired in a mint green polyester coat-dress ensemble. The neckline of the dress was trimmed with a matching lace. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink polyester crepe dress styled with long sleeves and silver lace trim on the stand-up collar and cuffs. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Bobby R. Ellis, of Rt. 1, Ayden, and Willis Vandiford Jr. of Rt. 1, Greenville, cousin of the bride.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville High School, and attended Pitt Technical Institute. She is employed as a secretary at the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Farmville High School and served three and a half years in the U.S. Air Force. He is now a junior at East Carolina University.

MRS. ROBERT LEE WILLIFORD

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridal couple was honored at a reception. The refreshment table was decorated with sprigs of holly, pine and a centerpiece of poinsettias. Mrs. Roy Vandiford, aunt of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Annie May Nichols, aunt of the bride, served the three tiered wedding cake.

NEW YORK (AP)—Linda Collins Maurer travels a good deal and wears an unusual bracelet that often draws attention.

"But instead of asking what the bracelet is, people see it these days and start telling me the story of Medic Alert," she said, twisting the silver chain with its dogtag-like plate engraved with the caduceus, internationally recognized symbol for the medical profession.

Mrs. Maurer, the original Medic Alert member, knows the story well. It was her brush with death after an allergic reaction to tetanus antitoxin which spurred her father, Dr. Marion Collins, to form the Medic Alert Foundation International.

That was in 1956. Today more than 350,000 Americans wear Medic Alert emblems for more than 200 different conditions, ranging from allergies to heart disease to wearing contact lenses.

"I'm still enthused about the concept," said Mrs. Maurer, program advisor to Medic Alert, a nurse and the Northern California Women's Amateur Golf Champion.

"My dad started out as just one person spending his own money on an idea he thought was worthwhile. He would travel in his spare time—he was a surgeon and general practitioner—telling people, writing letters.

"At first, before we set up the foundation, we operated out of the rumpus room at our house, just the family and volunteers, working on the files, answering letters. But about 1960 we began getting such a tremendous response we couldn't handle it, and my Dad started getting a staff," she said.

Dr. John Maurer remembers when he first began dating Linda that they had to help open mail before they went out.

He was undeterred in his courtship. The Maurers are parents of three children and live in Turlock, Calif., home of Medic Alert. Dr. Maurer, a psychiatrist, is on the board of directors of the foundation and practices in a clinic there.

Practical Joker 'Dies' Laughing—Often

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a practical joker. Before I realized what a nut he was, I nearly had a couple of heart attacks. When we were married a short time, we had our first argument and I stormed out of the house to go to the grocery store. When I came home I found him all sprawled out on the kitchen floor with the dog's leash around his neck. His eyes were rolled back and his tongue was hanging out as though he had hanged himself. When I screamed and fell on him, he got up—laughing! [I didn't speak to him for two days.]

Again [after another disagreement], he put a lot of pillows in our bed and covered them in the shape of a man. Then he poured some catsup on top of it to look like blood, and in the middle of the man he stuck a butcher knife. When I walked in and saw it I nearly fainted, then my husband came out of the closet laughing!

Tell me, do I have a poor sense of humor, or should this man be locked up?
LENNY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I see nothing wrong with your sense of humor, but your husband is obviously using these little jokes to punish you.

DEAR ABBY: A doctor's home is about to be broken up by a little homewrecker who is on her third try for a doctor. I know, because my husband was one of the doctors she tried to get.

She is a nurse and my husband confessed to me that he had succumbed to her charms a few times last summer while I was out of town.

This woman nearly broke up a 30-year marriage a few years ago when she and her boss [a doctor old enough to be her father] got into an automobile accident. He claimed he was taking her home, but the accident occurred miles out in the country.

Now this woman has been slipping around with a young doctor whose wife isn't aware of what's going on, and nobody wants to tell her. There are small children involved. I told my husband I think I should tip off his wife. He says I should mind my own business. What should I do?

Bombs Underline Peace Points

If the American public is disappointed that prospects of ceasefire in Southeast Asia this Christmas season have gone up in smoke, they should think too of the frustrations and disappointment of their President and his negotiators. Last October things looked good to them. Good enough to tell the world that at last "peace is at hand".

It proved an empty hope. Henry Kissinger had to explain, and he did: The generalized pledges of October could not be translated into precise commitments. There was every evidence Hanoi planned an intensive offensive in the South to conquer as much territory and as many communities as possible prior to any actual stand-down.

The text of the North Vietnamese draft agreement reached in October was found to have one shade of meanings in the English language version and another meaning in the Vietnamese version.

The Hanoi response to America's protocols (or mechanics) to bring the peace machinery into being, was not submitted until the night before Henry Kissinger was scheduled to depart for home. The North Vietnamese proposals made a force of any peace-keeping machinery.

This was followed by further substantive linguistic changes which made it pretty evident that the U. S. was being "had".

To be sure, peace can be near. Too many differences were settled at Paris for the real progress to be overlooked or passed over.

Prospects for a real peace are immeasurably better today than a month ago. Hanoi is interested enough to at least make a show of negotiating rather than the charade of name-calling and complaining and charges made for the sake of propaganda.

So the door is not closed; though this Christmas carried with it a high degree of disappointment. We forget the negotiating table is a battleground for Communists. We look for something more.

The picture of some of our own political leaders and our own observers and commentators trying to cast a shadow of doubt over the honesty or sincerity of American negotiations for peace is rather sickening. Some appear more willing to believe Hanoi than their own government.

North Vietnam is eventually going to realize that the United States has a President who will not be blackmailed or stamped into an agreement that falls short of an honorable solution.

It could happen next week; it could happen next month; it could happen next year. But there is going to be a durable peace in Southeast Asia.

An Alternative Being Sought

By WES LEFLER
UNC-Chapel Hill
News Bureau

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — A University of North Carolina psychiatrist is offering a bright ray of hope to former alcoholics who want to return to alcohol in moderation.

Many alcoholics, Dr. John A. Ewing says, are wondering if there isn't another way to rehabilitation besides total abstinence.

Dr. Ewing believes there is. "For many patients the prospect of decades of total abstinence is basically unacceptable and this seems even more true today as we see alcoholics coming for help at earlier times of life than formerly," Dr. Ewing says.

"The fact is that it is a rare alcoholic who will remain abstinent indefinitely. If we can offer a ray of hope, I think we should."

The UNC psychiatrist and director of the Alcohol Studies Center in Chapel Hill is now involved in a research project to see if there is hope.

"So far I have only accepted those who have failed with Alcoholics Anonymous and with total abstinence goals or those who have rejected such approaches for the time being," he said.

Some Are Skeptical
Needless to say, many of Dr. Ewing's associates are skeptical of such a goal as controlled drinking for a former alcoholic.

And sometimes the comments of professionals or members of Alcoholics Anonymous have led patients to abandon the technique without a fair trial. But of the patients who have completed a three-month exposure, half are still drinking in a controlled fashion during a relatively brief follow-up varying from eight to 24 months.

The technique Dr. Ewing focuses on is a drinking behavior. The accepted drinking pattern is set by a therapist and medical student assistants who drink with the patients. Unpleasant electric shock is given for drinking too much, too fast. When the patient's blood alcohol level exceeds 50 to 60 mg. percent he gets a jolt of electricity to warn him that he's drinking too much too fast. North Carolina law permits 100 mg. per cent before an automobile driver is considered "under the influence."

Dr. Ewing's theory is based on the premise that social drinking can be taught and that many persons drink too much out of ignorance or lack of reason.

Reversing Drink Pattern
Normal drinkers find a slight intoxication pleasurable, Dr. Ewing says.

But problem drinkers seem to fear this stage of slight intoxication. The reason seems to be that problem drinkers associate slight intoxication with unpleasant withdrawal symptoms as one would experience when "coming down from a drunk." This also might explain the alcoholic's tendency to gulp down drinks when he starts drinking as if he needs to hurry past that stage of slight intoxication which most social drinkers find pleasurable.

What the UNC alcohol researcher is attempting to do now is to reverse this thinking in the mind of the alcoholic. He wants to demonstrate to the problem drinker that moderate drinking is socially acceptable and the feeling is really a pleasant one, often with a real sense of well being. And through his electric shock technique he wants to create an unpleasant feeling of fear and pain when the drinker gets too much to drink. Also, if the drinker has any social awareness he will soon learn that moderate drinking is supported by group approval while over indulgence is not.

Patients come once a week for a three-hour evening session and whenever possible the husband or wife comes too.

Spouse Is Involved
"I believe that modifying the view of the spouse is important, since frequently he or she has developed major reactions to the drinking of the alcoholic and probably has the capacity to sabotage the new controlled-drinking pattern unless he or she is closely involved as a helper or record keeper," Dr. Ewing says.

The research under way in Chapel Hill to teach moderate drinking is only developmental research, and while promising, will require much more testing, study and follow-up before a decision as to its value can be rendered.

Dr. Ewing cautions that the medical profession should become more concerned in alcohol problems which affect some nine million Americans.

There is a great deal of room in the field of alcohol studies and rehabilitation. There is much disagreement about treatment methods, research methods and even what "alcoholism" is. Some researchers say alcoholism is "fundamentally a bad habit." Others disagree. They claim it is a disease. Dr. Ewing says he prefers to keep an open mind.

His working definition of "alcoholism" is "a chronic relapsing condition of unknown 'etiology' (cause).

Nixon Devising Control Team

By ROWLANDEVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Obscured by his wholesale bureaucratic purge, President Nixon has quietly buried half his cabinet and fashioned a radical new instrument for running the domestic side of the government: a small supercabinet, intertwined with the White House staff and embodying Nixon reorganization schemes spurned by Congress.

This structure has not been announced and may never be formally unveiled: In overall command will be White House domestic policy chief John Ehrlichman and Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, wearing a new second hat as presidential assistant. Its members, dividing domestic policy areas, are: Shultz for economics; Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Caspar Weinberger for human resources; Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz for natural resources; Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) James Lynn for community development.

It is no coincidence that these policy areas are identical to new cabinet departments proposed by Mr. Nixon in 1971 and turned down flat by Congress. Nor is it coincidence that old departments abolished by the 1971 reorganization plan—Interior, Labor, Commerce, Transportation, for example—are now given second-class status.

Thus, working in stealth while Congress recessed, Mr. Nixon has rebuilt the government to make sure domestic policy and operations will now be tightly controlled from the White House.

That control derives partly from obliteration of distinctions between White House staff and cabinet. While Ehrlichman's huge domestic policy staff at the White House is now disbanded, his top aides are scattered among cabinet departments. Likewise, assistant and under secretaries are now picked by the White House, a precedent-breaking step. Still uncertain is whether Butz, Weinberger and Lynn will join Shultz as White House staffers. More important than this commingling are the four supercabinet members themselves: all are intelligent, tough and energetic. Non has ever held elective office or sought publicity. Above all, they will cause Mr. Nixon no trouble; none has his own constituency to interfere with the President's grand design of scaling down the federal government.

A case in point is Lynn, the new Secretary of HUD. His predecessor, former Gov. George Romney of Michigan, antagonized the White House by pushing racially integrated housing and promoting more money for the cities. Lynn, a Cleveland lawyer without political experience, has no such divided loyalties. As under secretary of Commerce, he impressed the White House with his dependability and low profile.

But, critics say, Lynn knows nothing about urban needs. "That's all right," a top presidential adviser explained to us. "Jim Lynn is in there to stop programs, not start them."

A similar role is envisioned

Life Of A Consultant

WASHINGTON — What does a man do when he leaves an Administration after serving his President faithfully for four years? He becomes a Washington consultant.

But what does a Washington consultant do? In order to find out, I went to the office of a former Deputy Undersecretary of Health, Commerce, Transportation and meet Inspection. His name is Wendell Watercress and I found him seated in a large leather chair behind a splendid desk.

On the walls were autographed photographs of Watercress with Vice President Agnew, Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, Secretary of Treasury George Shultz and the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff. And on his desk facing out was an 11 in. by 20 in. photograph of Watercress with President Nixon. There was a Secret Service man standing between them, and the president and Watercress was looking in opposite directions.

Other Editors Say Judicial Jobs Open

(Washington Daily News)

We believe we are correct in saying that it has been many years since there has been a Republican Superior court or Supreme court judge in North Carolina.

Republicans have often charged that in electing North Carolina judges the machinery has been so rigged that no Republican could get elected. In the matter of Superior court judges, they are nominated from within the district they serve and then elected on a statewide basis.

Governor-elect Jim Holshouser himself has been the leading figure in fighting this system through the courts. The U. S. Supreme court sometime ago denied his contentions, and thus North Carolina can continue naming judges in the future as it has done in the past.

However, because Mr. Holshouser lost a court case on the method of electing judges in North Carolina in no way means that his contentions did not have merit. In fact we believe they had merit, and we heretofore agreed that one reason we had no Republican judges has been because of the method of selection.

And let us say that being a Democrat should not and does not blind one to what is politically right and what is possible and to what is well nigh impossible. Certainly Mr. Holshouser had a great deal of right on his side even though the high court turned him down.

Now however as he prepares to assume the office of governor of North Carolina, he will have eight special judgeships to fill. And this will give him an opportunity to fill these judicial positions with members of his own Republican party.

And when it comes to judges, we are far more interested in capabilities than in political preferences. We would much prefer an able Republican judge than an incapable Democrat judge. The judiciary is extremely important, and there is no substitute for justice.

In addition after he becomes governor he will have the opportunity to fill any other judicial positions in Superior courts, Court of Appeals, and N.C. Supreme court through resignations, retirements, or death which might occur.

But his immediate power to name eight special judges means most to him right now. Because of this future exercise of power, the complexion of the judiciary is expected to undergo a political facelifting.

Our own concern is that he name fully qualified individuals to these posts.

ART BUCHWALD

"Mr. Watercress, what do you do as a consultant?"

"Just a minute, please," Watercress said. He pressed a button on his desk. "Miss Cobey, if the White House calls, tell them I'm in conference."

Then he turned back to me. "What do I do as a consultant? That's an interesting question."

The phone on Watercress' desk rang and he picked it up. "Hello? Oh, hi there, Mr. Cromagnon . . . I was going to call you today. I checked into your complaint . . . Yes, apparently the brake fluid lining you manufacture is polluting the city's reservoir. The environmental people are pretty upset about it, so I thought we'd go around them and put the problem up to Commerce . . . Commerce is more interested in brake fluid than they are in clean water . . . It's a little more complicated than that, Mr. Cromagnon. We have to put pressure on the city to move their reservoir to another place. That requires dealing with Housing and Urban

After Xmas Remarks

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you always hear the day after Christmas:

HAL BOYLE

"Daddy, can you fix my new doll? She just broke her head."

"I'm going to put a bear-trap in the fireplace — just in case that fat rascal tries to come down our chimney again tonight."

"Just think: we have only 364 days left to enjoy before we have to go through it all again."

"Somehow it didn't seem right to have Christmas fall on a Monday. What is there to celebrate on a Monday?"

"Christmas is getting to be a year-round industry. It takes six months to get ready for Santa Claus and six months to clean up after he has gone."

"Well, I wanted nothing much for Christmas — and that's exactly what I got."

"Daddy, all the air just went out of my bicycle tire. Can you fix it for me?"

"I really don't mind getting bills so much. What I hate is to have to pay them."

"I'll admit that the brown and cerise tie your Aunt Agatha gave you belongs in a chamber of horrors, but at least you can wear it to church. Nobody in church is supposed to notice what you have on."

"I think we can dispose of the turkey in time, but what in the world can one do with a gallon of leftover eggnog? The mere sight of it makes me feel ghastly."

"Why is it you act like a skunk all the rest of the year but turn around and give me a nice mink coat for Christmas?"

"Of course I enjoy the robe I got for Christmas. I like it so much that I wish my wife would let me wear it. She's had it on all morning."

"I don't mind going to their complaint department. What I can't stand is having to wait in line before I even get a chance to holler."

"I'm so upset by all this fuss that I feel just like a Christmas tree — full of little needles."

"Darling, I'm truly thrilled by the nice box of handkerchiefs you gave me. I can't wait to catch a cold so I can use them."

"Daddy, the kid up the street borrowed my sled and ran into a tree and broke off one of the runners. Can you fix it for me?"

Strength For Today A Year Of Consumer Selectivity

WHAT OF YESTERDAY? We look upon the birthday of Jesus which we celebrated yesterday. What did this celebration mean? It was more than the birth of a mere babe, was it not?

It was in truth our recognition of the fact that two thousand years ago a new world was born. The hills, the mountains and the sea looked very much then as they do now. What has changed has been the life of the world.

Before Christ came, only a little handful of the world's population had any sense of decency and justice such as millions cherish today. The thought never crossed anyone's mind two thousand years ago that slavery and war would ever pass from the earth. Neither has entirely passed yet for the world is full of the clamor of arms, and the concentration camps and taskmaster's whip are still cruel realities. But the peoples of the world hate war. They are determined to wipe our eventually the blot of slavery and the disregard of God and man from which it springs. Men through the century have dared to press on toward the perfect ideal which he set up. With nothing but their faith to sustain them, they live and work in the consciousness that his spiritual presence is still in the world.

The Judean hills were flooded with a heavenly light on the night Jesus was born. The world is still looking toward its hills—yearnings, hoping and believing.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As you peer at the busted toys and broken budgets — uptight, hung over and suffering the guilt of financial and sensual excess — take heart. Maybe it isn't all that bad.

The year may have culminated in a buying orgy, but it followed months of stern discipline that put retailers to the test. It was a year of consumer selectivity, and a year in which they asserted their rights, options, opinions.

As the consumer analysts say, it isn't just what the consumer has in his pocket that determines how much is sold. Attitude counts too. The consumer isn't entirely predictable. He's wiser; he makes his own decisions. Check with some resort operators and they'll probably tell you that the days of the free spenders and lavish tippers are over, for the time being anyway. People may have money to spend, but they look at the price tags.

They are, in fact, spending more at resorts and on cruises than ever before. But if you think they aren't demanding more, try counting all the discounts being offered. The one-price days are gone.

It was a good year for automobiles, but if you check you'll find that imports accounted for about 15 per cent of the market, despite the dollar devaluation that put them at a disadvantage.

One explanation being offered is that most of the imports were low-priced editions, and that the big attraction for them remained those relatively low price tags.

People clearly are exercising judgment in spending. While personal income rose 4 per cent this year, consumers didn't spend that money evenly. In fact, some of it went upstent.

Savings deposits at savings and loan associations soared to $33 billion, a 19 per cent one-year increase in total deposits, capped by a gain of $3.6 billion in December alone — right in the midst of the Christmas selling season.

But look at what happened to the stock market and mutual funds. Small investors refrained from committing themselves heavily to stocks. Week after week they sold more than they bought.

Redemptions of mutual funds presented serious problems for that industry, which was built on small investments and too often on big promises. Many once-enthusiastic fund investors soured on fund management.

In summary, the consumer exercised his will and his judgement many times during the year, even though today he might feel that he succumbed in the final month to an old spending habit.

If you are among them, look at it this way: You were entitled to a little indiscriminate spending. And the merchant was entitled to the same.

 for Weinberger at HEW. White House aides, irritated by incessant policy disagreements from liberal Republican Elliot Richardson at HEW, believe Weinberger will close down programs without protest.

That leaves the rest of the regular cabinet with huge offices and long black limousines but no power. Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton, a former Republican national chairman, has become unpopular with Mr. Nixon and top aides. But with supercabinet member Butz taking policymaking in natural resources away from the Interior Department, Morton becomes a limousine puppet. Just to make sure, the White House has assigned long-time Nixon aide John Whitaker as under secretary of the Interior. The fact that Morton has never gotten on with Whitaker completes the picture.

Similarly, Ehrlichman deputy Bud Krogh is the new under secretary of Transportation to another limousine puppet, oil executive Clarence Brinegar. But there's not much worry there. Brinegar has informed an appreciative White House he does not care much for press conferences or press releases.

The old-line departments are retained only because Congress insists. Congressional Interior committees would rather deal with Interior Secretary Morton than natural resources czar Butz. But as the real source of power becomes apparent, Nixon aides reason, a practical Congress will turn there. So, the old-line departments could atrophy long before they are formally abolished.

The major contradiction here is the new Secretary of Labor, hard-hat union chief Peter Brennan. Although the Labor Department is earmarked for oblivion, Brennan is not — a subject deserving attention in a later column.

Different Kind Of Fortification

By MARCUS ELIASON
 Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is fortifying Arab Jerusalem with a unique kind of bunker—one made of bedrooms and balconies.

The defenses are designed to withstand a political offensive. The occupants are civilian Jewish families: mothers with shopping bags and children with school bags.

Determined to hold onto the eastern half of the city, formerly ruled by Arabs, Israel is ringing it with massive housing complexes from Bethlehem in the south, across the Judean Desert to the east and up to Biblical Bethel in the north.

The building drive, which aims to complete 24,000 apartment units by 1975, has drawn Arab condemnation and international criticism.

For the message is clear: Israel intends to stay in the Holy City, including the Arab half it captured in the 1967 Mideast War.

The majority of laborers, crane operators and bulldozer drivers are Arabs from Jerusalem. Ten thousand are working for three times the pay they earned under Jordanian rule.

The buildings seem like a gigantic hand clamping down in a semicircle on the east side, each finger a township for thousands of Jewish families.

Near the placid Arab hamlet of Nebi Samwil, reputed burial place of Samuel, the prophet, troops are clearing thousands of landmines left from Jordanian times to make way for an 8,000-flat complex.

This suburb is going up on one of the most strategic zones of the pre-1967 days. Its official name is Ramot, but already it has been popularly titled "McCloskey Hill" after the U.S. State Department spokesman, Robert McCloskey, who announced America's objection to Israeli building in East Jerusalem.

It is widely believed that the McCloskey statement backfired and needled the Israelis into developing Ramot.

The United Nations has adopted resolutions demanding that Israel desist from settling Jews in East Jerusalem and leave the city open to negotiation. The demands have been ignored here.

Inside Israel, the biggest dispute over the building projects involved conservationists, who accused the builders of despoiling a Biblical landscape.

The conservationists won a partial victory. The government agreed to limit building to four stories and began hiring some of the country's best architects.

As a result, newer complexes like Talpiot and Giloh have been planned to blend into the hilly surroundings, sloping and becoming progressively lower as the topography drops, instead of conforming to one imposing height.

The ministry says it is unrealistic to go on thinking of Jerusalem in terms of the Bible. "We want Jerusalem to hold 10 per cent of the Jewish population of Israel."

 development . . . I've got a call into them now . . . No, no, I think it looks good. The only hitch is that you people only gave $50,000 to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President . . . You'd be willing to double that? Good, that takes care of that problem . . . I'll call you back. Right."

Watercress asked, "Now where were we?"

The phone rang again. Watercress answered it. "Ah, General, thanks for returning my call. Say, I'm calling on a small matter . . . You know the Air Force contract with Overrun Aircraft Company for the new rattlesnake Night fighter? . . . Well, it's turned out to be a fantastic plane. There is only one slight hitch at the moment . . . It won't fly at night . . . But this can be corrected for as little as $2 million per plane. . . Now, don't get angry. We're in this together . . . I can tell you something off the record, General. The President told me at church services last Sunday that he's counting on the Rattlesnake to be the bulwark of defense for the '70s. Good Talk it over with your people at the Pentagon and let me know.

"Where were we?" Watercress asked.

"What do you do?" I asked.

The phone rang again. Watercress picked it up. "Le Blanc . . . What's that? The FTC has found your carpets are inflammable? We'll have to do something about that . . . I'll call someone at the white House who will give the FTC a piece of his mind . . . Don't worry, Le Blanc. We have a warm spot in our hearts for carpet people, and we're not going to let the FTC walk all over you . . . And a Happy New Year to you."

"Now," said Watercress. "You want me to tell you what I do."

"Never mind," I said getting up, "I think I know."

Women Fighting For Right To Credit

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
Women who claim they've been denied credit because of their sex are becoming increasingly militant in demanding equal rights to credit cards and loans.

In response, a number of major stores, credit card companies and banks say they are changing or clarifying their credit policies, and some creditors are actively pursuing the business of women.

"A year ago, women just accepted discrimination without question," said Carole De Saram of the National Organization of Women.

"Now they're no longer taking it. They're asking, 'What do you mean I can't have a loan or credit?' Hundreds of women—and even some husbands—are up in arms."

"There's been an enormous increase in the number of women demanding equal access to credit," said Barbara Shack, assistant director of the New York Civil Liberties Union. "Women are much more militant, and it's having an effect on retailers and lenders."

Ruth Holstein, executive director of the National Commission on Consumer Finance, said the increased protests stem from widespread national publicity about the commission's hearings last spring on the subject of women and credit.

Witnesses, including several congresswomen and Women's Bureau Director Elizabeth Kooztz, told of single women with good incomes who suddenly had their credit accounts closed when they married. They were told they had to reapply in their husbands' name, in the process losing their own credit ratings.

There were instances of widows and divorcees whose credit accounts were canceled when their marriages ended because the credit belonged to the husband.

Also described were working wives whose earnings were not counted toward eligibility for mortgage loans and single, divorced and widowed women with substantial incomes who had to have male cosigners before getting loans.

Several women's rights organizations, including NOW, the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL) and the Women's Lobby, say they're planning stepped-up fights against sex discrimination in credit.

NOW will mount an "organized and concerted" national campaign in 1973, which may include demonstrations and boycotts, said Lynne Litwiler, head of NOW's task force on taxes, credit and finance.

Miss De Saram says she's received more than 100 requests from individuals and organizations throughout the nation for advice on how to organize groups to protest discrimination and work for equality in credit. One of the requests came from the Atlanta YWCA, which plans an extensive investigation of credit practices in Atlanta and eventually a permanent task force on credit.

The Dallas chapter of WEAL just completed an investigation of Dallas creditors and will urge stores and banks to make credit policy changes as a result.

Most creditors insist they do not deliberately discriminate and their only criterion for extending credit is the ability of the applicant to pay.

Retailers say it's more convenient and less costly for them to have a married woman's account in her husband's name. Lenders say they're wary of counting a wife's income for loans because she may quit her job, in many cases to have a baby.

There are signs that the protests are having some effect.

A subcommittee on credit for the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs acknowledged last month in its report: "Discrimination against women in credit granting systems can be subtle, but serious, as shown in recent hearings on the subject by the National Commission on Consumer Finance."

The council recommended that "consumer credit granting criteria should be the same for men and women. When they meet these criteria, married women who so request should be granted credit in their own name."

Members of the subcommittee included top officials of J.C. Penney's, American Express, Household Finance Corp., First National City Bank and Bank of America.

John E. Patterson, credit manager for Franklin Simon, a New York clothing store chain, said retailers are beginning to "show an awareness of their lack of recognition of women in the granting of credit."

"Many major stores have already changed their policies toward women," Patterson said. "They have to—in order to compete. It's a simple matter of dollars and cents. We need the business of women."

Franklin Simon, like a number of other stores across the nation, recently changed its application form to one that uses the terms "applicant" and "spouse," allowing for use by either sex, rather than asking for information on husband and wife.

Gilchrist department store in Boston recently issued a special Ms. application blank for women who want a card based strictly on their own credit ratings. There are no questions about spouse or husband.

Bankamericard is contacting women working in the area of credit for advice in drawing up new guidelines for member banks in granting credit to women.

"It's a plain and simple fact of life that women are excellent credit risks," said Charles Hayward, vice president of First National City Bank in New York, who says his bank treats men and women equally in granting loans.

Hayward, who said First National City counts the income of wives in considering couples' applications for mortgages, adds: "Women certainly are as capable as men in planning their futures. There's no reason why there should be any difference in considering their applications."

"To me, it's just a common-sense thing to do. It's an obvious business opportunity."

Crash Survivors To Fly For Home

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thirteen Uruguayans who survived for 70 days after a plane crash in the Andes Mountains have decided to take a plane home Thursday despite the fear of flying resulting from their ordeal.

The other three survivors already have flown home. The 13 were persuaded in a meeting with relatives and doctors that the return trip across the mountains by train and car would be too hard on them in their weakened condition.

There were 45 persons aboard the Uruguayan Air Force plane when it hit an Andean peak on Oct. 13. The plane was taking the Old Christian rugby team to Chile for a series of matches. Twenty-nine persons were dead by the end of October.

The survivors, all in their early 20s, had a good deal of food, having stocked up on candy and preserved fruit during a stop in Mendoza, Argentina, which is noted for its fruit. They converted the fuselage of the plane into a shelter, and they melted enough snow to give each person two quarts of water a day to prevent dehydration.

The men said they found the "terrible mountain silence," the endless boredom and periods of depression the worst part of their experience.

"We got up at 7, listened to the radio and melted water from snow," said Jose Luis Inciarte, 24, an agronomy student. "We also boiled the water with some lichen to make a sort of soup which we used more and more as our provisions ran out."

Last week two of the men walked down the mountain and found a rancher who got help.

Smilin' Sam Helps Protect The Consumer

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia residents have become acquainted in the past year with "Smilin' Sam," a character in a television spot who is distinguished by his generally slippery and untrustworthy air.

There are other characters in the spot as well. One informs viewers he has just bought from Smilin' Sam. The springs come through the upholstery as he smiles and settles back on the cushions.

The spot is the work of the Georgia Consumer Services Program, which was established with $330,000 in federal money in 1968 to protect Georgians from their own ignorance of the subtleties of consumerism, and from those who exploit it.

which means that about your only recourse in a consumer case is to go to court," said Miss Everitt.

But even going to court with minor consumer complaints is not easy in Georgia. Only 29 counties have small claims courts and some of those require a plaintiff to be represented by a lawyer if the amount involved is more than $100.

The situation could improve next year. Carter has drafted a batch of consumer bills, including an Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act that would outlaw unfair methods of competition and deceptive sales techniques. Thirty-three states already have such laws.

Meanwhile, it is business as usual at the Georgia Consumer Services program, whose rambling suite of offices is on the 8th floor of an old office building in downtown Atlanta. Six counselors — college graduates with backgrounds in social services — take an average of 100 calls daily over a toll free long distance telephone line between the hours of 8:15 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The workload is staggering, since it can take six hours, or the better part of a day's work, to handle an important complaint: A man who has a quarrel with a finance company, or an impoverished family whose furniture has fallen apart before the first payment is made on it.

A number of the more complex cases ultimately winds up in court. To handle these, Consumer Services has worked out a referral plan with the Georgia State Bar which maintains a list of lawyers willing to handle such cases on a nominal fee basis, or sometimes free.

Consumer Services has no statutory authority to bring suits itself, or to issue legally binding orders in consumer cases. "We use moral persuasion," said Harris. "And, too, the fact that a state agency is calling a businessman with a complaint carries a great deal of weight. More than you might think."

Many of the calls received by the counselors are requests for information about certain businesses. On these requests, the agency acts much like the Better Business Bureau, researching files and disclosing the nature of any complaints received about the concern in question. Complaints handled by phone can be large or small. On one recent day, one caller complained that a $16 pair of tennis shoes had fallen apart. Another protested that an order for $1,500 worth of Scotch whisky from Glasgow had not been delivered.

A counselor got the first consumer a promise of a new pair of tennis shoes. As for the second, "We'll either get the whisky delivered or tell the consumer what action he can take," said Robert F. Longenecker, a former New York welfare worker who directs the program.

The whisky problem was indicative of the program's widening scope. When first established, the program's aim was strictly to help low-income families, but the change in funding also brought a new interest in helping those above the poverty line.

Low-income persons, however, still account for most of the calls logged by the counselors, and the problems of the poor take the longest time to settle. "A person with a better education can take the ball and run if we tell him the direction," said Harris. "A low-income person leans on us for everything. We write all the letters and do the follow up."

Periodically, the program puts out "consumer alerts," telling the public about allegedly fraudulent schemes. Recent alerts told consumers that:

—Cars damaged in a Gulf Coast hurricane were being sold in Georgia without the dealer revealing the damage to unsuspecting buyers.

—A collection agency was sending out letters telling debtors that if the number appearing on the letter were NOT their correct social security number, they must immediately call a certain telephone number. Once the debtor was on the line, the collection agent pressured for payment.

—An electrically wired board, which had no proven curative powers, was being sold in Georgia as a cure for diseases ranging from cancer to arthritis.

Consumer Services other accomplishments include providing the impetus for including consumer education as part of the curriculum for public schools in Georgia, at least on an experimental basis.

"Studies have been conducted that show the remarkable public ignorance about the marketplace," said Harris. "We'll have a job to perform as long as the ignorance remains. And so will Smilin' Sam."

Twelve Days Not Quite Same

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP TELEVISION WRITER
NEW YORK (AP) — The traditional Twelve Days of Christmas usually start on Christmas Eve and extend through the Epiphany. Television reviewers probably would report the period's events this way:

On the first day of Christmas, my TV game to me a Partridge family in a pear tree. They looked silly up there, but that's television.

On the second day of Christmas, my TV gave to me two turtle doves—Bridget and Bernie—and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the third day of Christmas, my TV gave to me three French hens—they said "bon jour" and did barrel rolls on the Wide World of Sports—two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the fourth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me four calling birds, all on Dialing for Dollars, three French hens, two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the fifth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me five golden rings. It appeared neither Maude's fourth nor fifth marriage had worked out and she had sworn off wedding bands for the season.

On the sixth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me six geese a-laying. They labored mightily, but television still produced more eggs than they were able to emit.

On the seventh day of Christmas, my TV gave to me seven swans a-swimming. They attacked Mark Spitz as he swam toward another commercial. A spokesman 8 had no explanation for it.

On the eighth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me eight maids a-milking. They all said they were pulling for the Clintons.

On the ninth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me nine drummers drumming. They were identified as Buddy Rich.

On the tenth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 10 pipers piping. A spokesman said this was because the Federal Communications Commission had banned cigarette advertising.

On the 11th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 11 ladies dancing. My wife immediately gave them the bum's rush.

On the 12th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 12 lords a-leaping. A spokesman identified them as network vice presidents who backed shows that were canceled in midseason.

It was a messy Christmas, what with the Partridges, two turtle doves, three French hens, four calling birds, five golden rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, nine drummers drumming, 10 pipers piping, 11 ladies dancing and 12 lords a-leaping.

Is there any way to exchange all this for a new tie?

Death, Liquor Top Legislative Agenda

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The 1973 North Carolina General Assembly will receive legislation calling for statewide referendums on the death penalty and sale of liquor by the drink, House Speaker-designate James E. Ramsey said today.

"Bills already have been prepared for introduction," Ramsey told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

He said much time had been spent in recent legislative sessions wrestling with local option liquor-by-the-drink bills.

"I hope we can avoid eight or 10 local option bills this time and put the issue to rest with a statewide bill," Ramsey said. "If the people approved liquor by the drink, local governments could implement it without having to come back to the General Assembly."

Some metropolitan cities and areas that rely on the tourist trade probably would want to implement it while some smaller counties probably would not, he noted.

The validity of North Carolina's death penalty is in doubt mainly because of the discretionary provision in the law permitting a jury the option of life imprisonment in a first degree verdict.

Ramsey said that if a majority of the people should vote in favor of the death penalty, it would give more validity to the legal question when posed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

A veteran of five sessions in the House, Ramsey recently sent questionnaires to the House members asking that they designate the committees they would prefer to serve on.

"At least 50 per cent said they wanted to be on the insurance committee, he said. "This gives you some idea of the importance that they feel the insurance issue will be this session."

Ramsey added he thinks "we'll come up with a modified no-fault auto insurance plan, possibly like the Canadian facility plan."

The facility plan, used in Canada for about five years, would replace the controversial assigned risk system and would make insurance available immediately for a motorist without fear of the policy being cancelled.

"As I understand it," he said, "the companies would buy into a pool. The state would operate it, but it would be at a profit. At the end of the year the money would be prorated to the companies that invested in the pool."

Ramsey said the House will operate with 39 committees during the 1973 session. He expects to announce the memberships within a few days.

A Roxboro attorney, Ramsey said "the problem of money will be in reverse this session." In past years there was a problem of having enough money to meet state needs.

This time, however, the state will have a surplus of some $200 million or more. It raises the question of possible tax relief for the people, Ramsey said.

Holt Is Near Death

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — Tim Holt, former Western movie star, lies seriously ill in the Shawnee Medical Center suffering from bone cancer.

Holt — who rubbed elbows with John Wayne, Roy Rogers and Gene Autry during the height of his movie career in the 1930s and 40s — has been in the hospital for two weeks.

The 53-year-old actor — who lives in Harrah, Okla., with his wife, Berdie — said his medical problems began around the first of August and that he has had a great deal of pain.

He began his career at age 16 in 1935. He made 149 movies.

Since 1952, Holt has had dabbled in several interests. He has been a builder, worked with radio stations and been on the rodeo circuit.

Mobile Home Hit By Fire

At least one Pitt County family was made homeless by fire on Christmas Day.

At 10:40 a.m. Monday, Staton House Fire Department responded to a call for a mobile home fire in the Shady Knoll Trailer Park. The mobile home, occupied by the family of J.L. Jenkins, was a total loss.

Keeping Long Vigil

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Christmas was a grim vigil for 10-year-old Cesar Abella, the son of Nicaragua's finance minister.

He doesn't know if his parents and sister escaped the devastation of an earthquake that virtually destroyed Managua.

Cesar, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Goin of Vero Beach, spent Christmas Day carefully monitoring each radio and television newscast, hoping for some word of his family.

A huge pile of Christmas gifts, a table full of food and playmates were all but ignored as the boy considered the possibility that he and an 8-year-old sister visiting in San Francisco may be the only ones left in their family.

"I'm sure they will be OK... We'll hear from them, I'm just sure," he said.

Cesar arrived here Nov. 27 and was scheduled to leave next month. His sister, Mayleeng, is with relatives in San Francisco.

Break-In Nets Jewels

An estimated $250 worth of merchandise was reported taken from a 1208 Washington St. home in a December 22 break-in.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, John O. Mentha reported the break-in at 6:55 p.m. Included in the list of missing items was a jewelry box containing an antique charm bracelet, a black onyx ring, an emerald ring, two wrist watches, a bracelet, a silver pin and green pillow case.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A long Christmas weekend ended today after cease-fires in Vietnam and Northern Ireland, more than 530 dead in U.S. traffic accidents and appeals for peace from religious leaders.

U.S. bombing of North Vietnam resumed this afternoon, Saigon time, after a 36-hour halt for Christmas. U.S. officials in Saigon said President Nixon had hoped the halt would bring the North Vietnamese back to the negotiating table, but it didn't.

Both the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong declared 24-hour cease-fires, but each side charged the other with numerous violations. The Saigon command said the Communists launched 58 attacks during the truce periods in which 45 South Vietnamese and 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed.

Northern Ireland had one of its quietest weekends, with only three minor shooting incidents Sunday night in which no one was hurt. The Roman Catholics of the Irish Republican Army proclaimed a three-day cease-fire, and Protestant extremists also were quiet.

Pope Paul VI, giving his blessing to a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square, used 16 languages—including Vietnamese—to wish the world "a blessed Christmas in the joy and peace of Christ." The Roman Catholic primate of Poland, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, speaking at Warsaw's St. John's Cathedral, called on America's Catholic bishops to make "utmost efforts to stop the bloodshed of innocent children and people" in Vietnam.

In a traditional Christmas broadcast, Queen Elizabeth II called on her subjects to pray for the people of Northern Ireland. "May tolerance and understanding release the people from terror and put gladness in the place of fear," she said.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, told 1,500 people at Canterbury Cathedral that the message of Christmas must be to break the "vicious circle of fear" causing the violence in Northern Ireland and Vietnam.

President Nixon and his wife celebrated Christmas at their Key Biscayne, Fla., home and dined with their neighbor, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo. The Nixons exchanged gifts in the morning, went for a ride on Rebozo's houseboat and talked by telephone with their daughters, Tricia and Julie, who spent the holiday with their husbands in Athens, Greece.

Amid the traditional gift giving, religious services and family feasts, government and military officials and Red Cross workers were busy assembling aid shipments for the earthquake sufferers in Managua, Nicaragua.

Some 15,000 Christmas pilgrims streamed out of Bethlehem where Jesus was born. They attended midnight services on Christmas Eve in the Church of the Nativity, in Manger Square and in Shepherds' Field. There were no terrorist attacks, and Israel's borders with her Arab neighbors were quiet.

For the first time since 1965, hundreds of thousands of West Berliners were going through the Berlin Wall for Christmas visits with relatives and friends in East Germany. But the traffic this year seemed somewhat smaller than in other years, probably because visiting rules were liberalized this year. Since June West Berliners have been allowed 30 visiting days a year in the East.

U.S.-Soviet Gas Deal Must Wait

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conclusion of a $40 billion, 25-year pact to import Soviet natural gas into the United States will be delayed until the spring while the Nixon administration reviews whether it is needed, The Washington Post said today.

The pact was to have been signed this month. The Post quoted high administration sources as saying both the government and the six U.S. companies promoting the prospective pact have cooled on the project.

Among the reasons are doubts that Siberian gas reserves are as large as the Russians claim and the refusal of the Soviet government to permit independent testing of the deposits.

In addition, the Post sources said, there were second thoughts about the high cost of the Soviet gas (about $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet compared to the current U.S. price of 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet) and about the national security impact of excessive U.S. reliance on Soviet Union gas.

Six American companies announced Nov. 3 they expected to sign an agreement before the end of 1972 on construction of a pipeline from Siberia to Murmansk on the Barents Sea. Another pipeline was to link Siberia with the Pacific Coast.

Natural gas is abundant in the Soviet Union and scarce in the United States, the world's largest consumer of the fuel. The Soviet Union has enough gas reserves to supply the United States for an estimated 30 years.

The administration hasn't ruled out Soviet gas imports, the Post source said, but cheaper gas may be obtained from Nigeria, Venezuela and other areas.

Her mother was Alice Hay, daughter of statesman and diplomat John Hay who was private secretary to President Abraham Lincoln. Hay also was a four-time ambassador and then secretary of state during the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

Police said 29-year-old Theodore R. Wallace, an employee of the city, suffered multiple gunshot wounds in the chest about 1:30 a.m. Monday. Mrs. Wallace was held in Mecklenburg County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Police said the shooting was apparently the result of a domestic quarrel.

Wrecks Cause One Injury

Truman Dies At 88....

Truman took office, the Soviet Union already was breaking agreements that had been reached only months before at Yalta in a meeting of the heads of state of the United States, Russia and Great Britain.

It fell to Truman, in the early months, to make what he called his most agonizing decision — whether to use the newly perfected atomic bomb on Japan. Two bombs were dropped at his direction, on the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and Japan surrendered shortly afterward.

Truman said use of the bomb possibly saved a million American lives.

When it became apparent that Greece and Turkey would fall to the Communists, Truman convinced Congress to order military and economic aid for the two beleaguered nations, the first such use of American funds.

Later, through the Marshall Plan — named for Gen. George Marshall, then secretary of state — the aid was extended to other European nations.

Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister, credited Truman with single-handedly saving Europe through those actions.

Americans remembered him best for his plain-spoken, direct manner of speaking — a trait he attributed to his Missouri ancestors.

With the end of World War II, that facet of his personality was brought into play often, as the nation reconverted from a war economy to peace. He used the powers of the presidency to the fullest, to stop strikes that he believed were against the national interest.

Jesse told newsmen after the announcement of death that Mrs. Truman's "loyalty and devotion were fabulous. The vigil was a very trying thing for her physically."

The former president will be buried in the courtyard of the library, an imposing limestone structure less than a mile from his home.

President Nixon was expected to declare a state funeral and preliminary plans are for him to attend the service.

A memorial service is planned at the Washington National Cathedral.

Truman had been in a coma since Saturday, and on Christmas Day, doctors said he could die "within hours."

Mrs. Daniel, the Trumans' only child, returned to Kansas City Monday night from her New York home. She had been here earlier during her father's illness, but she had gone home to be with her family.

Reaction

(Continued from page 1) today. He was my friend and I loved him very much, but I know that he's gone to the company of the heroes."

In Durham Duke University President Terry Sanford said "President Truman will be recorded by history as one of our great presidents."

Sanford, a former North Carolina governor, said "his indomitable will and his human compassion will continue to be an example for all of us who know him, as well as all who will study his life in later years."

Capus Waynick of High Point, who was appointed ambassador to Nicaragua by Truman, said he had great admiration for Truman's courage and his loyalty to friends and family.

"I have known Mr. Truman from 1934 and had occasion to see him frequently for several years," Waynick said. "He was called upon to make several tragic decisions for our country but he made them with a firmness that has to be recognized as a quality of great leadership."

Greene Central Has Long Way To Go

By Chip Lambeth
Reflector Sports Writer
(One of a series)
SNOW HILL — Greene Central's Ewes are currently in the undesired possession of the cellar in the Eastern Carolina Conference and that is one bundle of wool they would like to be shorn of.

After seven games, the Ewes have yet to break into the victory column. They still have, in coach Becky Lawrence's opinion, "... improved a bunch." She says, "They are thinking as a team not as individuals and this is what it takes."

Miss Lawrence is beginning her first year as the girls' coach. She played for two years on the East Carolina University women's team so there is good experience at hand. Out of 13 girls, she has "Seven I can depend on and three more are working up. The others are improving. They are starting to find their strengths."

Miss Lawrence singled out Keith Gay as being the best player on the team. Last year she was mainly an outshooter. This year she has found that she has a drive and she is backing up her shots. Along with Delilah Pridden, she is one of the team's better rebounders on offense, noted Miss Lawrence. "We have held our own on rebounding and sometimes we have come out ahead. The girls are still not able to convert yet."

Miss Lawrence feels that the key to any success that her team may have depends on her ability to get her girls to work together. "If I could get them to work; I've got the ability. This is only their second year playing basketball and they can't quite think basketball."

But they are coming around with each game as they get more experience under their belts. One problem they have is against the fast break. Here the Ewes have had to adjust to defending it and neither can they get one of their own going. "When they get the chance, they will throw the pass to long sometimes," Miss Lawrence explained. "I have to get their thoughts and actions together."

She has plenty to look forward to having six sophomores on the team. Miss Lawrence is trying to work with them as well as the other girls to get them to think. "I've told them to watch other teams as this has helped a lot."
Defensively, the Ewes are pretty fair. They have held their own. The girls can run any type of zone or a man-to-man with equal success. "They are more comfortable with a 2-1-2 than any other because that is the one they press.

The most aggressive players in the team are Gay and Pridden and Jackie McLawhorn. Miss Pridden is a good jumper but she needs to be even more aggressive. Susie Sugg was singled out also as a good level-headed player. Judith Tripp does a lot of the ball handling duties for the Ewes and is getting good at it. "She has god endurance, too."

Ellen Barrow may be the most improved player on the squad since the season began. Says Miss Lawrence, "She is very fast and she will keep improving." Another player that has shown some promise is Patricia Gray. The coach feels that she could stand to put up more field shots and she has been working on a drive that is "coming."

Jackie McLawhorn has seen duty at both the guard and forward positions.

From the stripe, the Ewes could stand some improvement. Miss Lawrence feels they are fair to average but she wants them to be able to make at least half of their attempts.

The coach has decided the number one spot in the loop this year has already been sewn up by North Pitt. "They should keep winning if they don't run into any problems. I haven't seen a team yet that could beat them if North Pitt plays their type of game."

The season may be half over but if Greene Central's freshman coach can't get her girls together, which is their motto "Together," they will really have a long year.

WINS FOUR AT CALDER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical Park racetrack, in operation since 1931, is being sold to Dade County and will be converted into a football stadium.

Jockey Jacinto Vasquez couldn't care less.

This season the Calder race course, 20 miles north of Miami, took Tropical's dates.

And on opening day Vasquez rode four winners, including Dinny Phipps' Big Bluffer in the Hurricane Handicap. The $18.60 winning price was Vasquez's biggest of the day.

Pittsburgh, Washington Next On Super Bowl Road

By KEN RAPPAPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The road to the Super Bowl now leads through the cities of Washington and Pittsburgh after a couple of sharp turns.

In fact, there was only one smooth ride in the first round of the National Football League playoffs over the holiday weekend.

"We're ready for the Dallas Cowboys," said Washington quarterback Billy Kilmer after directing a 16-3 victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday in the only playoff game without last-minute drama.

The Cowboys were involved in one of the three Hollywood finishes—beating the San Francisco 49ers 30-28 with two touchdowns in the last two minutes of play on Saturday.

The other survivors who'll play next Sunday in the second round—the Pittsburgh Steelers and Miami Dolphins—also served up a healthy portion of dramatics in their victories.

The Steelers' success was the most spectacular. They won their game against the Oakland Raiders 13-7 on Saturday with a freak pass-deflection play in the last five seconds.

The Dolphins' victory was no freak, though. Earl Morrall directed an 80-yard touchdown drive, then Jim Kiick powered over for the winning score from the six with less than five minutes remaining, clinching a nervous 20-14 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

"When the chips were down, we just couldn't stop them," said Cleveland linebacker Dale Lindsey.

"Everything was laid out in front of us with eight minutes to go," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "We had to score a touchdown and we did what we had to do. This exemplifies what we did this year."

The Dolphins did something this year that no one else did—won 14 games in a row en route to the championship of the American Football Conference East. And they were supposed to be an impossible mission for the Browns, the "wild card" AFC team.

But the upstart Browns halted the Dolphins' strong running game and even took a 14-13 lead in the second half on Mike Phipps' touchdown pass before Morrall and Kiick took over.

In Pittsburgh, the AFC's Central Division champs appeared beaten by Oakland. The Raiders, champions in the AFC West, had a 7-6 lead on a late 30-yard scramble by Ken Stabler.

But with five seconds remaining and Pittsburgh down to its last chance, quarterback Terry Bradshaw threw a desperation pass that was deflected by receiver John Fuqua and Oakland defender Jack Tatum.

The football floated into the arms of Franco Harris, and the Steelers' rookie took it 42 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

"Unbelievable," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "A miracle sent from heaven—what else can you say?"

"I guess you could say it was a little bit of luck and God was with us and everything like that," said Harris. "When you have a feeling that this could be the last play of the season and that you could blow it, then that one more chance pulls it through for you."

Pro Scouts Get More Questions Than Answers From N-S Game

By JOHN R. SKINNER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The football all-star games for college seniors are supposed to give the pro scouts an opportunity to evaluate potential draft picks, but the North-South game here Monday night might have provided more questions than answers.

Chuck Foreman, the University of Miami, Fla., running back-flanker who is expected to go early in the draft, was brilliant in the South's 10-17 losing cause as he gained 83 net yards in 22 carries and caught four passes for 60 yards.

Foreman, chosen the South's most "valuable" player, also made two critical fourth quarter fumbles. That's something that could dull his pro rating since he had his fumble troubles throughout the past season.

Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson, the 5-foot-6 Wisconsin star who is trying to prove he can play with the big guys, was picked the North's top player after scoring on a two-yard touchdown run which enabled the North to tie the score at 10-10 in the fourth quarter.

But Ferguson had only 55 net yards in 21 carries, an average of 2.6 yards a try, and left doubts about his ability to block onrushing linemen.

Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson kept the Rebels alive with his passing effort—17 of 33 for 206 yards and an 18-yard strike to flanker David Knight of William and Mary for the South's lone TD.

But Ferguson was also the victim of four interceptions. The Rebels' other quarterback, John Madeya of Louisville, hit only five of 16 passes for 43 yards and was intercepted once.

North passers didn't fare much better. Gary Danielson, hoping to follow in the footsteps of former Purdue quarterbacks such as Kansas City's Len Dawson, Cleveland's Mike Phipps and Miami's Len Dawson, completed only two of 13 passes for 37 yards. Temple's Doug Shobert was successful on nine of 11 tries for 105 yards, but his two misses were both interceptions.

The North, held to a 21-yard field goal by Michigan State's Marvin Roberts until Ferguson's run, got the winning tally on a 13 yard scamper by Arizona's Bob McCall after Foreman fumbled at midfield and Villanova's Kevin Reilly recovered.

The South, getting its other score on a 23-yard field goal by Alfred Reese of Tennessee State in the third quarter, marched back to the North three after McCall's score only to have Foreman fumble.

Oak City Can Not Afford To Rely On Jones; Must Gel

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
(One of a series)

OAK CITY — Oak City's girls have only three wins to their credit and if they do not get something improved soon, they may finish up rather poorly. At this point, Head Coach, Bill Griffin is not impressed with either his offense or his defense. The three games the girls won came from holding their opponents' scoring down and getting their pressure defense working. Says Griffin, "If we can get it going, we can score but if we can't we're in trouble."

One major weak spot in the Oak City line-up is at forward. With a shallow spot on the bench at this position, there is not much to look forward to. The tallest girl the Trojanettes have is 5-10, Diane Taylor. Another tall girl is 5-9, Ulanda Reeves. The best rebounder and maybe the best player on the team is Sylvia Jones who is averaging in double figures in scoring. "We look to her to score. We try to work her away from the ball because other teams are keying on her. We hope we'll be able to spring her open," Griffin said. The other girls just lack confidence in their ability. There are two or three that can shoot but are hesitant to. The Trojanettes shot well in the games they won.

Jones is best on the outside but she can score inside equally as well. Two other girls that have been high scorers for the team are Cynthia Ross and Diane Duggins. Each has had as many as 15 points in a game and they have also been shut out. The Trojanettes usually go with a 2-1-2 with Miss Jones at the pivot, Misses Ross and Taylor will play guard.

Coming off the bench to fill in at guard has been Nancy Sledge. She is a freshman and the coach feels that she is a good prospect with a lot of ability.

The defense has been giving Griffin some problems as the girls have been fouling too much. "We could win more if the defense would be more consistent," he commented. "If the defense gets good, the offense will get better."

The team as whole does not run much. Inexperience has hurt here. "Once the girls get more confidence, we will take more chances. When the younger players get more faith in themselves it will help, also," the coach explained.

Miss Jones is more or less the team leader. She is the best ball handler and the offense is built around her. The coach hopes to improve on his team's success if they can vary the offense from concentrating mainly on getting Miss Jones open for a shot.

Turning to the league, Griffin feels that being as balanced as it is anyone can win it. "Rober-sonville will be stronger and are always tough. I see us in the race, too."

UCLA, Maryland, Marquette, Minnesota, Long Beach State, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt, Oklahoma and Villanova risk their unbeaten records in college basketball during the rash of Christmas holiday tournaments that get underway today.

The national champion UCLA Bruins, with an incredible won-lost record of 185-5 in their last 190 games, put their 51-game winning streak on the line against Drake in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans Friday night.

Maryland's powerful Terrapins meet Georgia Tech in the first round of the Maryland Invitational Friday. Marquette goes against Northwestern in a non-tourney game Wednesday before taking on Rice Friday in the first round of the Milwaukee Classic.

Minnesota is pitted against Washington State Wednesday in the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore., the same day that Long Beach State goes against Mississippi in the first round of the All-College Tourney at Oklahoma City.

Also on Wednesday, Missouri faces Colorado in the first round of the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City, while Penn is at Cincinnati in a non-tourney game. On Thursday, Oklahoma plays Oklahoma State in the completion of the Big Eight opening round.

Memphis State will try and stop Vanderbilt in another non-tourney clash Saturday.

Villanova faces South Carolina tonight in the feature of the Holiday Festival in New York that kicks off the rash of holiday tourneys this week.

North Carolina State and Southwestern Louisiana, two other unbeaten, do not play this week.

Only one other tourney, besides the Holiday Festival, starts today. That's the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, where Florida faces Rutgers and Miami, Ohio meets Jacksonville.

NEW YORK (UPI) — From the ditty bag:

The International Yacht Racing Union has selected the classes of boats for the 1976 Olympic Games. They are the International Tempest, 21 feet, 11 1/2 inches, designed by Ian Proctor; the Finn, 14 feet, 9 inches, by Rickard Sarby; the Flying Dutchman, 19 feet, 10 inches, by Uffa van Essen; the Soling, 26 feet, 9 inches, by Jan Linge; The International 470, 15 feet, 6 inches, by Andre Cornu, and the Tornado catamaran, 20 feet, by Rodney Marsh. The 470 and the Tornado replace the Dragon and the Star.

How much use does an outboard motor get? A survey by Johnson Outboards shows that a third of all the people who own outboard motors use them at least 51 times a year and that the northeastern part of the United States uses an outboard motor more than any other area of the country. According to Johnson, the survey also shows a substantial increase in the percentage of motors used for skiing and a sizable increase in the use of outboard motors by retired persons.

Charles E. Morgan has announced his resignation as chairman of the board of directors of the Morgan Yacht Corp., the yacht manufacturing firm he founded, developed and sold in 1968 to Beatrice Foods Co., of Chicago. Morgan has joined with Bruce Bidwell in formation of Boca Grande Boats, a new company which is introducing a new line of fiberglass sportfishing boats for coastal and offshore use.

The St. Petersburg (Fla.) Yacht Club has decided to cancel its Olympic Regatta for Training in 1973. It had been scheduled for Jan. 19-25. The SPYC said the reasons for the decision included the short period of time following the recent Olympics at Kiel, changes in Olympic classes and a full SPYC regatta schedule for early 1973. It said the club had every intention of conducting the regatta again in 1974, 1975 and 1976.

An industry report says that the number of inboard-outdrive boats shipped from factories in September, the first month of the industry's 1972-73 model year, increased 73.1 per cent over the same month in the preceding model year. Shipments of inboard boats jumped 55.9 per cent while sailboat shipments were up 27.2 per cent. Outboard boats showed a 24.4 per cent increase.

The North American Yacht Racing Union has named H. Irving Pratt as chairman of a committee to select the three-boat team to represent the United States in the Admiral's Cup Series Aug. 3-11, 1973. The series includes four races conducted in conjunction with Britain's Cowes Week. Team selections will be announced March 15.

Mercury Marine reports that drivers using its outboards recorded nearly 750 first places in pleasure craft events sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association and the National Outboard Association in 1972. Individual accomplishments ranged from one to 28 firsts, the latter being tallied by Bobby Drewry of Lanexa, Va.

OSU Scout Picks Best College Football Teams

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Three teams pop into Esco Sarkkinen's mind when the Ohio State scout of nearly three decades thinks of the greatest college football squads he's seen. Sarkkinen, completing his 27th season with the Buckeyes, prefers to think of eras rather than teams when he talks about the great ones.

"I would say the 1947-48 Michigan team, Michigan State of the mid-60s and the three Ohio State teams of Rex Kern and company," Sarkkinen said. He refuses to put top-ranked Southern California which plays Ohio State in the Rose Bowl New Year's day, in the same class for one reason.

"This has to rank with John McKay's finest, but it's only for one season, not two or three years, like those others," he explained.

"The Michigan team had trick-type plays," he said. "They could hit you with so many different offensive patterns."

Of the Michigan State squads, he said, "They had perhaps the finest defensive talent the Big 10 has ever seen. Players such as Bubba Smith and George Webster are once in a lifetime."

Kern led Ohio State to a 27-2 record in three years, including a victory over Southern Cal in the 1969 Rose Bowl.

Sarkkinen said, "It was the best for total commitment by one class. Seventeen started as sophomores and 14 of them were drafted by the pros."

"They had more offensive and defensive blue-chippers in balanced positions than any team I ever saw," he said of the 1968-70 'Buckeye powerhouses.

However, Sarkkinen isn't underselling the top-ranked Trojans who ripped through 11 straight opponents during the season.

"All their best players are in the key positions," he said, "and that makes them difficult to defend. A lot of the starters on the 1968 Southern Cal team wouldn't be starting this year."

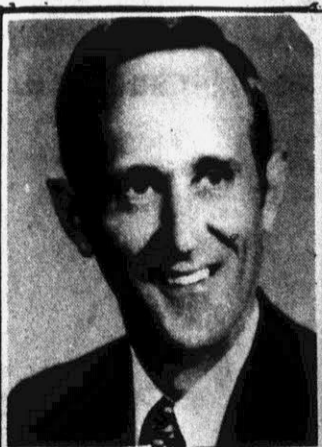

The master "spy" says the Buckeyes must "apply the pressure and turn the screws for the entire game."

Jabbar Loses; Milwaukee Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar lost a battle but the Milwaukee Bucks won the war.

And because of their 104-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Monday night, the Bucks took some precious ground in the Midwest race.

Abdul-Jabbar, usually second to no man in the struggle for rebounds, was beaten 14-13 on the boards by the Kings' Sam Lacey.

Abdul-Jabbar, however, made up for second place in the rebound match by gaining first in scoring laurels. He wound up with a game-high 32 points, including 13 in the final quarter that helped seal the triumph.

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 115-108 loss to the Phoenix Suns, boosted Milwaukee's lead over the Bulls to 4 1/2 games in the Midwest Division.

In the only other NBA games Monday night, the New York Knicks beat the Detroit Pistons 113-110 and the Portland Trail Blazers stopped the Seattle SuperSonics 116-113.

No games were played in the American Basketball Association Monday night.

Three-point plays by Abdul-Jabbar and Jon McGlocklin in the final 35 seconds of the third period put Milwaukee in front of Kansas City-Omaha to stay.

Nate Archibald of the Kings scored 20 points and contributed 18 assists to their attack.

The victory was the seventh in a row for the Bucks, who once trailed the Bulls in the Midwest race.

Center Neal Walk made a three-point play and a foul shot and grabbed a key rebound in the last five minutes of play to spark Phoenix over Chicago. His efforts helped produce a never-headed 111-104 Phoenix lead.

New York built a big lead behind the scoring of Bill Bradley. Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier, then survived a 40-point fourth quarter by Detroit to beat the Pistons.

Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie combined for 66 points to lead Portland over Seattle.

Time To Start Tobacco Beds

By RAYMOND D. COLTRAIN
Asst. Agricultural Extension Agent

supply and convenience. The beds should be located on a gentle slope facing the south, with a windbreak on the north and west sides especially. This will keep the air and soil warmer during the production season. There should be an ample supply of water nearby, and the beds should be located as conveniently as possible to the field you intend to set in tobacco. If you had a significant amount of disease in your plant beds last year, you might want to move them to another location for year or two. Fall is the best time to prepare and fumigate because the temperature is high enough that the ground isn't frozen and is easy to work, the labor supply is better, and the custom operator isn't as busy. If you take advantage of all these breaks then you won't be cramped for time in January and February to gas and plant your beds. When you put the covers on your bed, be sure to ditch around them to prevent water flow across the bed.

When you start to sow the seed, be sure you have chosen a variety that will make you the most "net" return. If you have a disease problem, choose a variety that will help you combat the disease.

Fertilizer grade 4-9-3 has been removed from the North Carolina grade list and is replaced with 12-6-6. With the higher grade, only 50-75 lbs. per 100 square yards is needed for plant production. If you use too much, then you are inviting salt injury to the young seedlings. If you use solid plastic covers, you only need half of this amount of fertilizer of 25-30 lbs. per 100 square yards.

There are several types of covers available such as cotton, plastic and nylon. It requires about 90 days to grow a plant ready to set under cotton, about 70 days under nylon, and approximately 60 days under solid plastic. The nylon covers are easily torn and usually last only one year, but with good care they can last two or more years. Solid plastic covers require more careful management to prevent damage due to excessive heat and shortage of soil moisture. Some growers are reducing this risk by perforating their plastic covers. Best results have been where they perforated them at seeding with 1/4 inch holes on 2 inch centers. held on Friday, January 5, from 1-4:30 p.m. in the American Legion Building behind the Farm Bureau Office on US 264 Bypass in Greenville. If you have any questions about your tobacco problems, please call us at 758-1196.

Sign-Ups For Programs To Begin On February 5

Sign-up for the 1973 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs begins February 5 at ASCS County Offices and continues through March '76.

The 1973 feed grain program includes barely, corn, and grain sorghum, and producers may elect to participate under one of two options.

Option A requires an acreage set-aside equivalent to 30 percent of a farm's feed grain base. Payment will be on an acreage equal to one-half of each feed grain base established for the farm. Per acre payment rates will be equal to the farm program yield times 35 cents for corn, 33 cents for grain sorghum, and 28 cents for barley. A supplemental payment is possible if a five-month national average price plus the payment is less than 70 percent of parity. Feed grain acreage on farms signed up in Option A will be limited only by set-aside and conserving base requirements.

Option B requires an acreage set-aside equivalent to 15 percent of a farm's feed grain base. Farmers electing to participate under this plan agree to limit their 1973 total feed grain acreage to the total acreage certified as planted for harvest in 1972 and also agree to forgo supplemental payments. Payment will be on an acreage equal to one-half of each feed grain base established for the farm. The per acre payment rates will be equal to the farm program yield times 24 cents for corn, 23 cents for grain sorghum, and 20 cents for barley.

"Those interested in obtaining more details should check with the County ASCS Office," Evans said.

Tobacco Talk

On Friday, January 5, at 1 p.m., a Tobacco Talk will be held at the American Legion Building located directly behind the Farm Bureau Office on the 264 Bypass in Greenville. Tobacco growers will meet and discuss tobacco production practices and problems with other producers, extension agents, specialists from North Carolina State University, and others.

The program will include the following:

1 p.m.: Marketing Outlook with John Cyrus, Marketing Division of NCDA; 1:15: Pesticide Recommendations and Policies with R.L. Robertson, Ext. Entomologist, NCSU and J.C. Whitehurst, Jr. Coastal Chemical Corp., Greenville;

2 p.m.: System Control for Diseases and Nematodes, Furney Todd, Extension Plant Pathologist; 2:30 Break; 2:45: General Production Practices, Dr. W.K. Collins and Ben Kittrell, Ext. Tobacco Specialists, NCSU.

3:05 p.m.: Mechanization of Tobacco Harvesting, Rupert Watkins, Ext. Ag. Engineer, NCSU; 3:30: Economics of Mechanical Harvesting and Decision Making Factors, Dr. Charles Pugh, Extension Economist, NCSU.

All tobacco growers are urged to attend this meeting.

Credit Card Loss May Not Be So Bad

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
Your wallet—cramped with so many of those plastic credit cards that it created an unfashionable lump in your rear pocket—is gone and you're afraid someone will use the cards.

Relax. In practically every instance, credit card issuers have failed to meet federal requirements that could have made you responsible for some of the fraudulent charges that might be made to your accounts.

A cardholder can be held responsible for up to $50 in bad charges, but only if all three federal standards are met by the issuer. Only a handful of companies, at the national level, have bothered.

Other institutions, including department stores and banks in North Carolina and South Carolina, can't collect a single penny from you if your cards are lost or stolen and fraudulently used.

The company which issued the credit card must have told you in advance and in writing that your liability could not exceed $50; made certain that the credit card included a signature panel or other device enabling merchants to identify you as the authorized user; and provided you with a pre-addressed, postage paid post card with which to notify the company of your loss.

It is on the final requirement—sending the pre-addressed, postage-paid card for notification—that most companies get a failing grade.

Most of the companies in the Carolinas told The Associated Press they have never made efforts to hold their customers responsible for fraud charges anyway.

Belk, which operates department stores in North Carolina and South Carolina, makes no attempt to collect the bad charges from card-holding customers.

"We'd run away more customers and lose more money by enforcing this thing than we'd ever gain," said William H. Benson, Belk credit manager in Charlotte.

At most, he noted, a customer couldn't be held liable for but $50 and it would be bad for relations to haggle over that much. Benson added that credit card fraud is on the rise, "probably triple or quadruple what it was 10 years ago."

North Carolina National Bank's BankAmericard division doesn't press the issue either. A spokesman said no effort has ever been made to collect fraudulent charges from BankAmericard holders, even before the federal law was adopted.

The BankAmericard spokesman said it would cost more in legal fees that the maximum $50 which could be collected. It also would be bad for relations. "People don't lose their cards intentionally," he said.

The BankAmericard region which encompasses North Carolina, Virginia and Delaware has the lowest fraud rate of any of 17

BankAmericard regions, the spokesman said, and fraud is declining. A spokesman for Wachovia

Bank & Trust Co. in North Carolina, which has a Mastercharge division, said Mastercharge makes no effort to squeeze the maximum $50 from an unfortunate customer. Mastercharge also fails to meet the requirements and therefore, can't collect anything under the law.

The Mastercharge spokesman said cardholders have kept fraud down by making quick notification to the bank when a card is lost or stolen. A list of bad cards is circulated among merchants honoring the cards.

If a merchant accepts a card, which has been previously publicized by the bank as "bad," then the merchant shoulders the cost of the loss.

Store managers and banks also admit that their clerks seldom compare the signature on a charge card with that signed to the charge agreement.

The safeguards against credit card fraud are usually skipped. At a service station, for instance, attendants seldom check the number of a credit card with the lengthy list of bad numbers. A card that has been cancelled usually goes undetected in such circumstances. The signatures of the card and that of the user are seldom checked.

These steps, retailers said in interviews, cause lengthy delays in making sales and often irritate honest customers who are forced to wait. It is cheaper they say, to accept the few "bad apples" as a cost of doing business. This cost, of course, is passed along to customers in higher interest rates and inflated retail prices.

"Most salesmen," the Belk spokesman said, "are just in too big of a hurry to check every credit card. It annoys a customer to have to wait and they will take their business elsewhere."

All the credit card issuers urge cardholders to notify them as soon as a card is discontinued or missing. They can close the account and issue new cards with new numbers. The old card is put on "bad" list.

This, explained one banker, is still the best way to keep fraud down and the customer is doing himself a favor. Even though he won't be charged even if he fails to notify us, he can help keep costs down."

FULL HAND OF CREDIT CARDS — Carolinians who use credit cards don't have to worry these days if their plastic cards are stolen or lost. A card holder is responsible for only $50 in charges by thieves, but only if three federal rules are met by the issuing company. And only a handful of national firms meet these rules. ## New York Miscount Costing

NEW YORK (AP) — A city-commissioned study has concluded that the 1970 U.S. census undercounted the number of welfare cases here by 39 per cent, an error which could be costing the city some federal aid funds.

Similar miscounts probably occurred in other cities, according to Edward Blum, vice president of the New York City-Rand Institute, which prepared the study that was released Monday.

Blum said a "very crude" estimate was that the city could be losing between $10 million and $40 million each year in federal revenue-sharing as a result of the error. It now gets just over $200 million a year.

Dr. Bernard R. Gifford, president of the institute, said money from other census-based programs sponsored by Model Cities, the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare also could be affected.

The institute, a nonprofit organization that studies city problems, noted in its report the census concluded there were 291,000 welfare cases in New York City in 1969, for which the city paid out about $520 million.

The city Department of Social Services, however, recorded some 477,000 welfare cases on its rolls and paid out more than $883 million in that year. The Rand study said the Census Bureau reported its figures without first checking them with the city.

The report concluded that the undercount occurred either because the census takers did not find those on relief because of their mobility or because the people on welfare, perhaps out of embarrassment, failed to report they were on relief.

"It's very likely that this error has happened in other cities," said Blum. "There's a good chance that census data are significantly underestimating the number of poor families and poor individuals in the big cities of the country, and as a result they would be short-changed in federal aid."

The traditional opening day for American amusement parks is Memorial Day.

Continue Searching

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The search continues today for 30 Korean seamen missing since Sunday when their freighter apparently broke up in heavy North Pacific seas 1,100 miles off the Oregon coast.

Wreckage believed to be part of the missing 12,000-ton Pacrover—including four overturned lifeboats, a large oil slick and debris—was spotted late Monday. But the Coast Guard said there was no sign of life.

Seaman Don Mills at Coast Guard headquarters in Juneau said the ship, under Liberian registry, carried only four lifeboats.

The search for the Pacrover started after the ship radioed a distress call saying her 30 crewmen were abandoning ship.

Shipping agents said the 570-foot Pacrover was heading for Japan with a load of coal from Roberts Bank, B.C.

Water, the play of light on water, silhouettes against water, mists and clouds reflected in water—all were among the aspects of beauty to catch the eye of A. Aubrey Bodine and to be caught by his camera lens.

Bodine, who died in 1970, was one of the greatest pictorial photographers who have ever lived. Although he photographed many different places and people, he worked for the Sunpapers of Baltimore for over 50 years and he has been described as "sort of a Maryland legend." All the pictures on this page were made by Bodine in Maryland. They are, from left to right: above, a ship in fog in Baltimore harbor, and a fisherman surrounded by seagulls; center, Burnside Bridge, Antietam, a woman fishing on Assateague Island, and duck hunters on the Eastern Shore; below, oyster fishing near Chesapeake Bay Bridge, and in the Choptank estuary in the Bay. AP Newsfeatures.

Don't Confuse Luck And God

Gary, confusing Luck with God, affected undue bravado to disguise his inner fears! So discuss this case in Sunday School. And give your teen-agers the booklet below, for it will offer them a dynamic view of the Hereafter that can change their future!

"For the 2 guys in the car were killed. 'And except for some broken bones, the doctors tell me I will be back on my feet in a couple of months. 'We had been having a beer party at the home of one of the fellows. 'And the driver lost control of my car. 'But I was sure lucky wasn't I?'"

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
CASE V-578: Gary T., aged 17, was in a bad auto smashup. "Dr. Crane," he said, from beneath his bandages, "I guess I was just lucky, wasn't I?"

Luck or God?
"Gary," I replied, "maybe it wasn't just luck!"

"Possibly God Almighty stepped into the case when the Grim Reaper wanted you to get a death sentence!"

"So your escape from death, may thus be merely your parole so you can still do the job you might have been intended for." Gary had affected exaggerated gayety and bravado when he had first greeted me. But now he was soberly followed by every word. For these modern teen-agers often wake up in the night, wondering as to why they are here on Earth and where they will go when they "graduate" from this classroom in God's Cosmic School System. Much of the bravado assumed by modern militant youth is a cover-up to disguise their panic.

That's one reason why Billy Graham and other superb revivalists produce so many conversions among our teenagers! For young people are basically idealists, unless they are made into cynics by commercial Judas Iscariots, who overwhelm them with pornography, smut and drugs — all for a profit! Remember, we can all feel fairly confident and brave when surrounded by our family or buddies and teammates. For fun, pleasure and excitement are gregarious events, meaning, we share them with others. Beware, however, for pain is purely an individual experience! When you are struck down with a severe case of appendicitis, or an asthmatic attack, or coronary thrombosis, you suddenly find yourself all alone! Nobody else can share that pain! It is a very personal crisis! You then realize you are in an unseen courtroom where the

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Tuesday, December 28, 1972—17 Grim Reaper is the Prosecuting Attorney demanding your death! And your mother's or wife's prayers are your main defense! God is the Judge and it isn't Luck that let's you survive! As Billy Graham stated in his Charlotte, North Carolina, revival sermons, there are 3 "required courses" in this University of Life. They are life, death and judgment. "You may commit suicide," said Billy Graham, "but life continues eternally. "But where you'll be in the Hereafter depends on that judgment." You parents often find it more difficult to talk to your teenagers about God and Hereafter than you do about proper sex tutelage. So send for my booklet "So Long, George IV," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. For it will offer them a dynamic view of the Hereafter that will give them a goal and purpose while here on Earth! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠43 ♥AKJ765 ♦A842 ♣A
Your right hand opponent opens with one diamond.
What do you bid?
A.—Double. A bid of just one heart is apt to be passed out, while a jump bid of two hearts is now employed as a preemptive measure. After partner's response to the double, you will bid an appropriate number of hearts on the next round.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q105 ♥QJ74 ♦A2 ♣10984
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♣ Dbl. Pass
1 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. So far you have promised absolutely nothing but the holding of four hearts, on the basis of which partner has undertaken to score 10 tricks. The fact that you have the queen-jack of hearts, the spade holding which must surely fit well with partner's hand, and the ace of diamonds, should make it certain that an 11 trick contract would be safe. You should make one try for slam by showing the ace of diamonds.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1076 ♥97 ♦AQ5 ♣K97
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—While all the suits are stopped a rebid of two no trump is not recommended. Very little over a minimum is held and a rebid of two spades does justice to the holding. To qualify as a sound rebid of two no trump, the opening hand must have at least 15 high card points.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ10 ♥QJ106 ♦A105 ♣A74
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ ?
What do you bid?
A.—Nothing. You might as well accept a short profit. You have no reason to feel confident that you can make three of anything with this unattractive distribution and a double by you would obligate partner to bid.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ964 ♦K3 ♣AQ7432
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. You should not be unduly influenced by the distributional features which you have already described; your hand is quite minimum as to high cards and you may assume that partner is on guard that you may have a 6-5 distribution.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, you are South and have 60 part score, and hold:
♠742 ♥2 ♦Q10632 ♣J653
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid?
A.—Pass. It is my practice to go to great lengths to keep the bidding open when an advance part score is held, but this is going too far. Too frequently have complications set in by virtue of South's "sporting" bid of one no trump in situations such as this. Partner has received no warning and carries on the fight against the expected competition to his great disaster.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠72 ♥KJ9753 ♦K4 ♣742
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid?
A.—This hand stands a very good chance of producing five or six tricks for partner and consequently is on the verge of a slam. The best way to indicate such a holding is by a jump in hearts. Our own preference is for five hearts. However, the situation may be handled adequately by first responding with three hearts, intending to make a leap beyond game on the next round.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠Q1086 ♥65 ♦AK13 ♣752
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♣ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
Pass Pass
What is your opening lead?
A.—A trump. You must start getting dummy's trump out so that declarer will have less opportunity to ruff spades. When you get in with a diamond, as is very likely, you will be able to lead another trump in an effort to complete your sabotage.

Brass Doors Not Missed

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Mac Yarnold says he has a collector's item — two brass doors from a renovated Toronto Dominion Bank branch in Vancouver — but Norman McRitchie says Yarnold is welcome to them. McRitchie, who polished the brass doors of a neighboring bank until they were taken out of service, says that if brass doors ever come back, "I don't want to be around." Yarnold, who has been in the salvage business for seven years, got the brass doors during the renovations and estimates they weigh about 800 pounds each. He said the doors are worth $700 in scrap metal alone, and that collectors would pay hundreds of dollars more. The brass doors became a common sight on many banks in the city in the 1920s, with management believing they gave the banks that solid, trustworthy look. But with the new, open look favored by many banks, the old doors have been largely removed. "I'm not sorry to see them go. I don't want to see them pulled out again," said McRitchie. Despite the retirement of the doors, Mr. McRitchie still has lots of brass in his life. His wife has this collection of brass bells, 75 of them, and every night after work ...
